COUNTY LOSS PEGGED AT $6,490,700

Federal officials verify December 19 flood cost

BY GWYN JONES
Staff Writer/Photographer

Federal and state officials were in Ruidoso Thursday to personally verify flood damage reports submitted by the state to the Federal Disaster Assistance Agency (FDAA).

Chuck Northington of the Dallas, Texas FDAA office, Fred Williams of the State Planning Division and Kenneth M. Brewer, area engineer with the Federal Highway Administration met with Village manager Jim Hine, city department heads, forest service personnel, Corps of Engineers and Soil Conservation Service representatives at Village Hall.

The local meeting was in preparation for a final meeting in Albuquerque last Friday of all agencies concerned with the disaster declaration which is being sought for five New Mexico counties, Williams said.

Northington said their task consisted of three parts, to "come up with federal figures" (verified by federal officials), break down the damage estimates into categories, and by January 19, to determine what state and federal agencies other than FDAA could provide some relief to the area. Whatever damage was "left over" would then be included in the request for federal disaster relief.

Fortunately, Northington said, there was little damage which hadn't been checked by federal officials of one agency or another, so the damage estimates would probably remain the same.

Hine confirmed that fact Friday, saying the only changes in the original estimates were a lowering of the sewer plant estimate by about $100,000 and the increase of estimates covering roads, bridges and debris by the same figure, leaving the original total damages estimate at $1.2 million. "Our picture hasn't changed," he said.

Since the village had closely followed the instructions set down in the FDAA manual, there was no additional breakdown which had to be made, he added.

Representatives of the United States Department of Agriculture's Soil Conservation Service released their own set of damage figures covering Lincoln County.

Their total damage estimate was set at $5,187,000. Damage was categorized under Agricultural, $1,500,000; Private, $1,180,000; and under Public, $585,000 for utilities, $10,000 for facilities and $120,000 for emergency work.

Hine said Friday the county figures may make Small Business Administration loans available to county residents, and were compiled independently by SCS workers.

Damage caused by silt and washing of huge boulders into Bonito Lake were another subject of discussion. The city of Alamogordo, which uses the lake as a municipal water supply, had made no claims or requests for assistance, but it was generally agreed by those at the meeting that quite a bit of water storage capacity had been lost.

No accurate estimate of the loss could be determined, by those present, however.

Northington said that "ball park" figures were what he was seeking in order to obtain the disaster assessment. After the federal funds were designated, he said, some areas of damage not specifically detailed in the early requests could be "taken care of."

Northington and Williams also conferred with Virginia Spall, clerk-treasurer for Ruidoso Downs. That village's original cost estimate of $91,700 was only slightly amended by adding $2,000 to cover water system repairs. The higher amount reflected damage to bridges and streets.

Spall also clarified with Williams the fact that she had submitted assistance requests for the racetrack, where bridges were also damaged.

The state and federal officials made a visual inspection of the sewer and water treatment plant only, since they had made aerial inspections of the county soon after the December 19 flood.

Final estimates of damage, as verified by the federal agencies were to be included in the governor's official request for disaster relief. The report was to go to the FDAA office in Dallas from which it was to be forwarded directly to President Carter for his consideration and final decision.

Hine said he expected some word on the declaration by January 25.

Muleskinners group formed here Friday

The Ruidoso Downs Muleskinners, a group formed to promote mule activities in the area, was formally named and organized Friday night during their first meeting, held at the Ruidoso Public Library.

Turnout for the meeting was small, a fact which most present attributed to an afternoon snowfall which caused streets to ice over. In spite of the small attendance, the group went on to vote in officers and a seven-member board of directors.

Winning those offices were Ed Hyman, president and chairman of the board; Mike Hernandez Sr., vice-president; Dave McMath, secretary-treasurer and Ray Reed, public coordinator.

Serving with Hyman on the board of directors will be Jim Germany, Mike Hernandez Sr., Albert Richardson, Dave McMath, Eric West, Pete Wood and Mike Hernandez Jr.

Initiation fees of ten dollars and annual dues of the same amount were also established at the meeting.

Ray Reed, acting as temporary chairman of the group, presided at the meeting until after the election of the new president. Besides tabulating the votes for officers, Reed polled the members about their primary areas of interest or the directions they thought the organization ought to pursue.

"There seems to be an interest in mule events for the coming year," Reed said. "We want everyone to have a part and all suggestions will be appreciated."

He added that the group planned to work with the community through the Chamber of Commerce and anyone else we can get to help us."

He and other members stressed that mule racing was not to be the exclusive interest of the group. "Trail riding is just as important, if not more so, than races," he said.

Dave McMath said he hoped the community would not confuse the group with other mule organizations, since the Muleskinners would have a broader scope.

Trail riding, hunting, breeding, rodeos, shows and parades were listed as other areas of interest. Other aims included "equipment swapping, training tips and possible organized out-of-town trips" to mule activities, McMath said.

"If you don't want to do anything but sit and talk mules, you're more than welcome," he added.

Dues and initiation fees collected will go for postage and other expenses. The group agreed on February 8, 7:30 p.m. as a meeting time for the next general membership meeting. In the meantime, Hyman said, he would call a meeting of the board to begin drawing up a set of bylaws for the organization. The general meeting will probably be held at KRRR, but a definite meeting place will be announced later.

It was noted during the meeting that the Durango Futurity (Durango, Colorado) has opened nominations for participation in the 1980 mule race. The race will be for 1977 foals and the purse for the event has been estimated at $20,000.

Chamber's Coffee Cart Wednesday

Wednesday's Coffee Cart, sponsored by the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce, will be at Brunell's from 9-10:30 a.m.

This Chamber feature is open to the public with Chamber officials and directors present to discuss any programs or community projects/developments anyone is interested in.

"We've had an excellent response to these coffee sessions," Ed Jungbluth, executive secretary of the Chamber, said, "and want to stress that everyone is invited to drop in for a cup of coffee, to meet the Chamber directors and talk over anything they have in mind."

SCM RC&D meets Tuesday in Alamogordo

The South Central Mountain Resource, Conservation and Development (RC&D) will meet Tuesday at 1 p.m., at the Alamogordo Holiday Inn.

Mrs. Anita Eisenberg, State Planning Office director, will speak on the plans and long range objectives of Governor Bruce King.

Tom McCalmont, area RC&D director Harvey Abercrombie said, has again been assigned to represent RC&D in this area of the state.

Downs trustees meeting tonight

Ruidoso Downs Trustees will meet tonight at 7 in the Municipal Building.

Major agenda items to be considered include Ordinance 79-1, which deals with wages, salaries, and personnel practices; resubmission of lots in Agua Fria subdivision, resubmission of Mountain Shadows subdivision plans and occupational licenses.

The undisturbed snow depth midway on the mountain is 80 inches and skiing is on powder and packed powder.

Ruidoso Ski Area has a 50 to 40 inch base with all lifts operating.

The area is making new snow nightly.

Monday's low was 20 degrees and Sunday afternoon's high was 40 degrees.

Garden Club installation of officers held

The Ruidoso Garden Club began its new year with the installation of officers, as the scheduled installation and Christmas party had been canceled due to Ruidoso River flood in December.

New officers are: president, Mrs. Dolph Miller; first vice president, Mrs. Ike Kennedy; second vice-president, Mrs. Bob J. Richardson; secretary, Mrs. J.F. Murray; treasurer, Mrs. T.D. Quaid; Parliamentarian, Mrs. C.E. Neuhaus and historian, Mrs. J.A. Silkwood. Installing officer was Mrs. W.T. Jennings, past president of the club.

Programs and projects for the club year, which will extend to April, 1980, as the club year has been changed, were discussed.

One project of the club will be continued involvement with the residents of Ft. Stanton. This year the club will contribute money to a fund to acquire learning process equipment at the hospital in lieu of holding parties for residents as has been done in the past.

Refreshments were served to members and guests by the outgoing executive board consisting of, Mr. Roy Avery, Mrs. Ike Kennedy, Mrs. Bob J. Richardson, Mrs. C.S. Richardson, Mrs. Thomas D. Quaid and Mrs. W.T. Jennings.

New members welcomed to the club were Jeanie Whitman, Tina Tucker, Katie Sherman and Gwen Caughron.

In the Service

Coast Guard Seaman Apprentice Ronald W. Hall has completed recruit training at the Coast Guard Training Center, Alameda, California.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John Hall of Ruidoso and his wife, Shirley, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Mitchell, Alto. He joined the Coast Guard last September.

Community Chorus sets rehearsals for concerts

First rehearsal of the Ruidoso Community Chorus will be held Tuesday at 7 p.m., in the Methodist Church sanctuary.

According to director Bill Braudt, the chorus is open to anyone who wishes to participate.

Auditions will be held for soloists only, Braudt told The News Thursday, not for membership in the chorus at large. The group will decide on a regular meeting night during the Tuesday rehearsal. The community chorus "started out as a one-shot deal," Braudt said, but so much interest was shown that the group decided to continue. Originally formed to "help out the Ministerial Alliance," the group first performed at the church services last Thanksgiving.

Tentative future plans include performances at Easter, probably in an "Old Time Religion" format, including gospel and classical works, and at Christmas, Handel's Messiah, with the accompaniment of the El Paso Orchestra.

Future performances are to be held in the Ruidoso High School auditorium, Braudt said, because audience seating space in even the largest churches has proven inadequate. Use of the auditorium had been cleared with the school board, he added.

Braudt also appealed to the community for financial support for the group. Funds will be needed to bring orchestras or other groups of musicians to the area for performances with the chorus. Anyone wishing to provide financial backing may contact Braudt at 257-5513.

Braudt said he was surprised at the large turnout for the chorus originally, (about 45) and at the large percentage of those who held degrees in music. The director himself holds a degree in music, with a specialization in voice conducting. Several local people have approached Braudt for voice lessons, and, though he is unable to give private lessons, the chorus will be a way for those people to receive instruction, he said.

The choir will be well structured, he explained, to provide real educational experience for the members.

Floor Fashions

IN ANCIENT TIMES, carpets were everybody's bag in more ways than one. Even in the days of the ancient Greek and Roman Empires, carpets were used by everyone from the common soldier to the emperor. They were used for bags and garments, as floor coverings, as canopies and wall decorations and in many other ways.

The interesting thing is that carpets are playing those many roles again in today's interior decor. A basketball star's palatial mountain pad has one whole room that's all carpet, from floor to ceiling. The use of carpeting on wall areas and built-in furnishings is also on the upsurge.

One reason is the new techniques for designs, multi-colors, woven-in stripes and patterns, liberating carpeting from a single function in the room.

Also, home interiors, like clothing styles, are becoming more personal, more individual, more colorful. All the bright new ideas in today's carpets let you express yourself in new ways... even if it's carpet on the ceiling!

Looking for new ideas in carpets? Come in and visit our showroom. You'll be surprised how much is happening... how many new directions in carpeting we have to show you.

UNM scientists studying new cancer developments

Scientists at the University of New Mexico (UNM) School of Medicine are conducting research to find out if there are some human bodies which constantly develop tumors, but have a built-in mechanism which prevents the development of cancer.

"We know that people are constantly producing immune reactions against bacteria that goes into their body," Dr. Ralph Williams, chairman of the UNM department of medicine said. "When we look at a tumor from a patient, we can tell that there are cells all around the edges where the body tried to eliminate the tumor but it just didn't work. We're trying to find out more about this."

Williams currently has two different grants from the New Mexico division of the American Cancer Society. One is for $186,374 and expires next June, and a new grant of $150,000 will continue until June, 1980.

"In the past five years, work on cells which produce an immune response to tumors has been going on all over the world," he said. "In some of our research at UNM, we have found that if we use a preparation, similar to that used in tuberculosis skin tests and give it to the patient as a vaccine, it does something that causes them to reject their tumors. It seems to work especially well in malignant melanoma or skin cancer." Each melanoma patient seems to form a completely different kind of immune response to the tumor, however, so for several years UNM researchers have been looking at immune cells which border tumors taken from patients operated on at Bernalillo County Medical Center and other hospitals. The researchers are trying to predict, by looking at this tissue, what type of immune cell that body is trying to produce. This may tell the doctors how effectively the patient's immune system is fighting off the tumor.

Williams said in the past, scientists thought tumors might be rejected by antibodies which circulate through the blood. The research at UNM has shown most of the cells around the tumors are not antibodies, but are cells of the immune system which actually set up a specific immune response, which is made by the cells, not by antibodies.

"These cells get up next to the tumor and somehow they zap it," Williams said. "Sometimes the immune response of the body to the tumor backfires, and may cause the cancer to grow faster. It is an extremely important problem, which we don't understand yet."

During the past few years, researchers in Williams' laboratories at UNM have found that in many patients, the border of the tumor showed the body was doing everything right. All the immune cells had mobilized and tried to reject the tumor, but the patient still was not doing very well.

"Some tumors can magnify normal substances in the body, called prostaglandins, which shut off the immune response," Williams said. "This seems to cause the tumor to make the immune response cells almost drunk and they stop working."

He said it now appears that a certain cell type, found especially in the blood of cancer patients with Hodgkins disease, make prostaglandins in tremendous amounts.

Anti-inflammatory drugs which already are being used in the treatment of various forms of arthritis are designed to shut off the production of prostaglandin, and the UNM medical school is now looking into the possibility of using these drugs in the treatment of Hodgkins patients.

"It won't be miraculous, but it could directly help the patient," Williams said. "A lot of good people at UNM are working on tumor research," Williams said. "I think it is very important that we get a few very good young people, such as medical students, to work on this problem or we won't get anywhere."

American Cancer Society grant money also helps fund three medical fellows at the UNM School of Medicine: Dr. Elizabeth Varga, Dr. Sue Bartow and Dr. James Spott.

Summer food program rules set

Rural sponsors of the summer food program and sponsors who prepare their own meals will earn a higher rate of reimbursement for certain administrative costs this year, Assistant Secretary of Agriculture Carol Tucker Foreman said today.

Foreman said that rules published in the January 2 Federal Register recognize that programs in needy, rural areas are more costly to operate than those in urban areas and that organizations that prepare their own food have higher costs and should be reimbursed at a higher rate than those that contract for the meals served. The additional payment will amount to 1 cent per breakfast served, 1.5 cents per lunch or supper and .5 cent per snack.

Other sponsors will earn reimbursement at last year's rates, adjusted to reflect increases in the Consumer Price Index. All sponsors will continue to earn either actual costs or a basic rate per meal served, whichever is less.

The summer food program provides meals at no cost to children in needy neighborhoods in cities, towns and rural areas during the summer months. Non-profit agencies, which act as local sponsors, buy or prepare meals that are served to the children. The sponsors receive financial and administrative help from the states and the department.

The new rules emphasize accountability and tightened management. To improve program effectiveness, states will be required to establish priorities on inspecting meal preparation sites, plans for training food service management company representatives and health inspectors, and procedures for soliciting comments from the public on program management and administration plans.

Under other changes in the program, — States are to encourage sponsors to use small and minority businesses as suppliers and to provide these businesses with information on financial and technical assistance.

— States will be assured of receiving this year 80 percent of administrative funds which were either earned during the prior fiscal year or estimated for the current fiscal year, whichever is less.

An adjusted formula, established in recent child nutrition legislation, will provide more administrative funds to states. These funds are needed for states to carry out a range of responsibilities including monitoring and training sponsors.

A Competent Government Is Not Too Much To Ask

by David Cohen

Politicians fiddle, problems go unsolved, and taxpayers' tempers flare. More and more, our government is viewed by its citizens as being unable or unwilling to deal with crucial issues.

Today, special interests dominate our political system and these interests—usually focused on a single issue—pursue their own narrow agendas. Through the use of political money and hidden lobbying, they wield considerable clout with the Administration and Congress. In effect, they paralyze government and stop it from performing on behalf of its citizens. No single special interest alone is responsible or wants to create this paralysis, but when they have all acted, that's the result.

Nowhere is this effect clearer than in our inability to stop inflation. Each special interest—the dairy industry, airlines, highway builders, truckers, doctors, building trade union members, lawyers, and a cast of thousands—has a particular inflationary favor it wants from government. With their immense power, special interests get the rewards they seek, from invisible tax subsidies to government regulations which protect an economic interest.

To combat the heavy special interest influence, citizens must take an active role in framing the debate on the critical issues facing the nation. We have a responsibility to shape the alternatives and advocate the choices that will work. We cannot abandon the field to the special interests. Our challenge is to build support for systematic changes that will stop wasteful spending, unnecessary regulations, and unfair taxes.

David Cohen is President of Common Cause, a non-partisan citizens' lobby.

If government is to perform on behalf of the people and work to solve problems rather than duck them, Congress has to act responsibly by taking the necessary steps to make government competent. Congress should:

- Pass Sunset legislation to require Congress to discard outdated, inflexible, and wasteful government activities and permit room for new initiatives. Citizens are frustrated by the inability and unwillingness of Congress to end unfair taxes, and government programs and regulations which do not work and are no longer needed.

- Reform the civil service to hold our civil servants to high standards of performance and protect those who blow the whistle on wrongdoers. The American public is entitled to a federal civil service that is both efficient and accountable, responsive and responsible.

- Curb the two worst special interest abuses, political money and hidden lobbying. Enact Congressional campaign finance reform by enabling small contributions to be matched by the voluntary dollar tax check-off already used in the Presidential election. Enact lobby disclosure legislation to require the powerful lobbies to disclose how, what and on whom they're spending their money to influence the system.

A healthy political system requires citizens who know what's going on. Nobody can do it for us. After all, you don't have to be an expert to know you want competence from your government.

Fats take long time to digest

Fats have "staying power" in the diet because they stay in the stomach longer and take longer to digest than proteins and carbohydrates, say New Mexico State Extension People.

Young tom turkeys offer tender eating

A "young tom turkey" is usually from five to seven months old and has tender meat with soft, smooth-textured skin, say New Mexico State University Extension People.

Applications now open for YCC employment

New Mexican youth between 15 and 18 who are interested in outdoor conservation jobs, this summer should apply before March 15 at their nearest Job Service office for Youth Conservation Corps (YCC) consideration. Employment Services Division Director Eric Serna, whose division includes Job Service, said YCC participants and chosen randomly, without regard to economic, racial, ethnic or social background.

"The YCC provides a valuable, interesting way for young people to learn about conservation while earning a salary and performing valuable work in national forests, national and state parks, and other public lands," Serna said. "Participants perform needed work, which in past years has included erosion control efforts, picnic ground upgrading, and maintenance work on Depression era projects originally completed under the CCC."

YCC participants work from six to eight weeks, and part of each day includes environmental awareness activities. Corpsmembers are paid for 30 hours a week at $2.90 an hour, while 10 hours are reserved for nonwork activities. Students may be placed at residential or nonresidential camps in New Mexico according to their preference, and those receiving room and board will pay with part of their salaries. Applicants must provide suitable shoes, but the Corps will provide hard hats as necessary.

To be eligible for the YCC, youth must be permanent United States residents, have no history of serious criminal or other antisocial behavior that might lead to harm for themselves or others, and be able to perform hard physical labor under difficult working conditions. Applicants must also have or apply for Social Security numbers, and not have participated in YCC for more than three weeks in the past.

For YCC positions and other employment and training opportunities, contact the Ruidoso ESD-Job Service Office at 435 Gateway Center, phone 257-5163. The office in Carrizozo is in the Lincoln County Courthouse Annex, phone 649-2530.

Yukon Jack ski races set qualifying Tuesday

The Southwest Pro Ski Tour kicks off here January 23 in the Yukon Jack-Sierra Blanca race at Sierra Blanca's Capitan ski run.

The races begin Tuesday January 23 when all interested racers 20-years-old and over qualify for one of 32 spots in the field. The races will be run on the succeeding Wednesday and Thursday.

Also on qualifying day, there may be a pro-am, although racing coordinator Ray Heid is uncertain if there will be one at this time.

"I'm hoping we can have a pro-am," Heid said. "But I haven't talked to Roy (Parker) on that yet."

The races, January 24 and 25, are head to head slalom matches. The courses have at least one built in pro-bump both racers must negotiate. The winner of each pairing is determined by a timed interval difference after two runs.

On the first run, the first racer through the finish gate trips the electronic eye which starts the timing system. The second racer stops the timing. This yields the difference between the two racers' times for that run.

The racers switch courses and run again, receiving another interval time. The racer with the lowest combined interval time advances to the next round.

For a clean start, both racers must be stationary with the backs of their skis resting against the starting board. The starter gives the command, "racers ready", and may open the starting gates any time thereafter. A racer must propel himself from the starting gate using only his own equipment. He cannot push off the gate. The starter or referee can disqualify any racer for moving before the starting gates open.

A racer may also be disqualified for other reasons. If a racer falls, skis into his opponent's course, obstructs or interferes with his opponent or violates a starting rule, he will be considered disqualified for that run and will receive a penalty. The penalties are 1.2 seconds in courses under 30 seconds and 1.5 seconds for courses over 30 seconds.

If both racers fall simultaneously during a race, the racer with a clear-cut advantage of one gate will be declared the winner of the run and will not receive a penalty.

Each race carries a purse of over $1,500 plus whatever the community adds to it. Heublein Liquors, the sponsor of the race, has donated over $4000 to this year's race. Heid said if all goes well this year, Heublein may contribute as much as $90,000 next year.

"So, it's a make it or break it year," he said.

Although it is uncertain who the contestants for the prize money will be, he does know that last year's runner-up, Chip Chilson of Woody Creek, Colorado will be among the competitors. Heid also said some Ruidosians will participate in the chase for the championship. At this time, it is uncertain if last year's winner, Jean-Peter Ostybe, will be here.

Cagerettes fall to Bears, Goddard

The Ruidoso girls basketball team lost Friday to Goddard and Saturday to Cloudcroft, dropping their season record to 4-9.

Ruidoso's offense fell upon hard times against Goddard, scoring only 18 points. It was no match for Goddard's 44. Saturday, the Warriors were only slightly more productive. They scored 28 points against the Bears. Cloudcroft, however, tallied 63.

Against Goddard Friday, Ruidoso looked as if it might avenge an earlier season setback. In the second period, however, Goddard broke open a tie game. At half Goddard led 21-13.

Ruidoso's hopes for an upset flew out the window in the second half. The Warriors managed to score only five points. In the meantime, Goddard was scoring 23.

"We played a good first half," Warrior coach Sergio Castanon said. "We fell apart in the second half. They put some pressure on us and we couldn't handle it."

Goddard was led by Cynthia Leaningham's 16 points. Kristi Perryman paced Warrior scorers with eight. Lori Swain added four. A host of Warriors added two points.

Ruidoso's offense was no more productive in the loss to Cloudcroft, the fourth time this season Ruidoso has lost to the Bears. Unlike the Goddard game, however, Ruidoso started cold. Cloudcroft blew to a 14-5 first quarter lead and never looked back.

Cloudcroft was paced by Kathy Rudolph's 29 points. Cindy Wood added 16. Tracey Shafer led Ruidoso scorers with 12 points. Swain added eight and Kelly Cothrun tallied six points in a losing effort.

Cloudcroft pressed the Warriors from start to finish. Ruidoso couldn't handle the press. The Warriors committed numerous turnovers that Cloudcroft turned into baskets. When the Warriors did break the press, they were allotted only one shot at the basket. Cloudcroft controlled the boards. Castanon was obviously displeased with the play of his squad. He said the Warriors lack intensity. And he said he lacks a strong bench. When Ruidoso gets into four trouble in a game, Castanon has to substitute with a player of little experience.

"My bench is weak," he said. "We've got to work with what we've got. District starts Friday and Saturday."

The Warriors, before heading into district, meet Weed Tuesday at Warrior Gym. Tipoff is at 5:30 p.m.

RUIDOSO'S LISA SHAW FLIES past two Cloudcroft defenders during Saturday's 63-28 loss to the Bears. Shaw's shot was off the mark, as were most of the Warriors', as Cloudcroft downed the Warriors for the fourth time this season. Looking on for Ruidoso is Lori Swain.

Ruidoso set to battle Weed

The Ruidoso Warriors boys' basketball team entertains Class A number one ranked Weed Tuesday night at Warrior Gym.

Despite their number one ranking, Ruidoso coach Barry Nelson thinks his Warriors can play with Weed. But, he cautioned, Weed will have to meet the Warriors on their own terms.

"I don't think we can run with them," Nelson said. "We'll play our game."

The Warriors game is a slower one than Weed's, although Nelson is not averse to running when the opportunity presents itself. He hopes the Warriors can force some opportunities Tuesday.

"If we don't score, we'll press," he said. "If we do score, we'll fall back."

Nelson hopes this will catch Weed off guard and out of position. That could lead to some easy baskets for the Warriors.

"Hopefully, they'll be out of position after a rebound and we can force some turnovers," Nelson said. "If we press then after we score and allow them to set up a press offense, they'll pick us apart. We're not quick enough to do that."

Another key to the game, Nelson said, is stopping Weed's outstanding point guard, Kelly Lee. Lee leads the Weed attack. If Lee plays well, so does Weed. Stopping Lee, Nelson said, is probably the key to the game.

"If we can stop Lee, I think we can beat them," Nelson said. "That'll be the difference in the ball game. I'm concerned with Lee driving. We'll have to double up on him a lot."

Another key to the contest will be Ruidoso's ability to score points. In Friday's 61-56 loss at Tularosa, Ruidoso barely hit 25 percent of their shots, according to Nelson.

"We couldn't buy a basket," he said.

"That was the whole story right there. We just couldn't connect." Tipoff for the Weed contest is at 7:30 p.m. The game will be preceded by the varsity girls against Weed at 6 p.m.

White Mountain pin setbacks on Hondo cagers

The White Mountain Middle School Braves' girls and boys' basketball teams successfully sent Hondo home Thursday without a victory.

The girls easily defeated Hondo, 17-5, after a lackluster first half performance by both teams. White Mountain led 3-0 at halftime.

The White Mountain boys had a little more trouble with their counterparts, requiring an overtime period to down Hondo 36-34.

The boys are scheduled to return to action Tuesday at Holloman at 6 p.m.

Warrior wrestlers capture four third place finishes at Goddard Invitational

The Ruidoso Warrior wrestling team ventured to the Goddard Invitational tournament this weekend, and although they didn't set the world on fire, coach Gerald Ames continued to be pleased with their progress.

The Warriors didn't take any championships in the tournament, but they did capture four third place finishes. Dirk Strassberg, in the 86-pound class, took third place with a 6-0 nothing win over Roswell's Joe Pino.

Wes Atkinson won the 112 pound class with a resounding 12-1 win over NMMT's Thad Pracht. The win particularly encouraged Ames because earlier in the pairings Atkinson downed Roswell's Mark McVay. Atkinson lost to McVay earlier in the season.

Greg Lane in the 132 pound class also gained a third place finish. He defeated Roswell's Tracy Basler 8-0. The final third place finish belonged to heavy-weight Ronald Bell.

Overall, Ruidoso finished last with 41 points, two points behind NMMT. But more important to Ames, his young squad gained a little more experience.

Junior racers better status

Ruidoso junior racer Jimmy Raudenbush earned a "B" classification by winning the class "C" overall competition in Vail, Colorado January 6-7.

Raudenbush won the competition against 127 other racers, with a combined time in the slalom of 1:10. His best run was :52 seconds. The win enabled him to move into class "B" racing, where the competition is tougher than in class "C".

In races January 13-14 at Wolf Creek, Colorado Raudenbush proved he belonged in the class "B" group. He finished an overall seventh in two days of competition. Competing at Wolf Creek in the downhill were four other Ruidoso junior racers. Robert Caughron placed second twice in his "C" class. The high finishes enabled him to move into class "E" races. Jack Walsh, also competing in "C" class, placed fourth and moved into the "F" class.

Don Nunley placed second in the class "E" event, enabling him to move into class "C" for future races. Lon Nunley placed second in class "D" racing. He also moved into class "C".

The junior racers will be in action next weekend at Sunrise, Arizona.

Desert bushes causing decline in pronghorns

BY CHARLOTTE FOSTER-BLEASCENT
Agricultural Information
New Mexico State University

The invasion of creosotebush, mesquite and juniper bushes across New Mexico rangelands can prevent pronghorn herds from increasing. This was just one of the findings from a study conducted by New Mexico State University's Agricultural (NMSU) Experiment Station.

The study was done to determine what factors prevent pronghorn herds, located on the Jornada Experimental Range, from increasing. With the information gained from the study, researchers hope they can improve management of pronghorns on similar areas throughout the Southwest.

Dr. V.W. Howard of NMSU's Fishery and Wildlife Department said, "The invasion of rangelands by these shrubs cuts down on the amount of grass available for pronghorns. Also, a lack of grass may mean the soil will erode." Eroded soil or badlands can apparently act as a barrier keeping pronghorns from moving into other grassy areas.

"On the Jornada Plain, there are expanses of mesquite-sand dunes which could serve as effective barriers to pronghorn movements into better feeding areas," Howard said.

Howard also said that pronghorns need large, open areas for use as kidding and resting grounds. "The data show that pronghorns seem to prefer and use ground having a vegetative stand of 9-10 inches in height and located on ground that is in a basin and surrounded by low ridges of hills," Howard said.

Howard also thought precipitation may influence the herd's growth. Although the evidence was not conclusive, it did suggest that a high kid production occurred along with above average precipitation. Conversely, low kid production occurred after two years of below average rainfall.

As for the possibility of predators limiting the herd's size, Howard felt predation was probably not a limiting factor.

"Granted predators, such as bobcats, coyotes and golden eagles, do prey on some pronghorns, but they do not seem to be to blame for the herd's small size," Howard said.

The researchers analyzed the stomach contents of 52 coyotes taken on the Jornada

Plain and found that pronghorns composed 1.2 percent of the total volume. "This leads us to believe that other factors, such as precipitation, abundance of forage, poaching and herd composition, are more important factors limiting herd growth than predators," Howard said.

Howard also said that the historic range of pronghorns once covered the entire state except for the high mountain areas and the rugged shrub covered areas. The number of pronghorns in New Mexico in primitive times is estimated to have been more than 100,000.

Today, that population is between 20,000 and 25,000 animals. Pronghorns are scattered throughout the state, occurring in greatest numbers in the eastern part of the state with small herds located in the southwest and northwest portions.

GI four state insurance dividends total $13.5 million

More than $13.6 million in GI insurance dividends will be paid this year to a total of nearly 111,000 veterans in Colorado, Wyoming, Utah and New Mexico.

The average payment of $128 is up $11 from last year, according to the Veterans Administration (VA).

A record $465 million in dividends will go this year to 4 million veterans in the United States.

No application is needed, State VA officials emphasize. Individual policy holders who have kept their GI insurance in force from either World War I, World War II or the Korean Conflict will receive their payments automatically on the anniversary dates of their policies.

The nearly 3.39 million World War II veterans with current GI insurance policies will receive dividends totaling more than $433 million.

Individual dividend amounts will vary from the average, officials note, depending on the type of policy, amount of insurance, age at issue or renewal and the time the policy has been in force.

Colorado's 59,608 GI insurance holders will receive a total of $7,285,000 in dividends. Wyoming's 7,308 holders will get $387,000; the 22,353 in Utah will get $2,418,000; and the 21,606 in New Mexico $2,715,000.

Nationally, the 99,000 policy holders from World War I will receive an average of $236 each, up from $224 in 1978, for an aggregate of $25.6 million.

An average payment of $48 will go to 544,000 Korean Conflict veterans who kept their GI insurance in force, an aggregate of $26.1 million. This group received $29 average payment last year.

The 1979 GI insurance dividends, like other insurance dividends, are higher in recent years because the funds on deposit have been earning higher interest.

Inside The Capitol

by Fred McCaffrey

SANTA FE — Bob Mondragon, the legislative presiding officer who got seated Tuesday without nearbloodshed, in a strange mix: a poet who somehow succeeds in politics.

As Lieutenant Governor, Mondragon presides over the Senate, as job as useless as Vice President Mondale's. Since he has nothing to do with committee assignments (in the Senate that job is done by committee on committees), he didn't meet the potential rebellion which faced Walter Martinez when the 1979 legislative session convened this week.

If he had, he might have calmed tempers by lulling the Senators with his own rendition of "La Golondrina." Bob's heart, you see, really is in show biz.

Not solely there; he also is deeply interested in the problems of the poor and the neglected, in a way and to a depth that is unusual in New Mexico politics, where it is fashionable to pretend more feeling on those subjects than one actually experiences.

One of the troubles with being a poet-politician (as unlikely a mix as Plato's philosopher-king) is that it doesn't allow you to develop the crocodile-tough skin that's required for true political leadership. Thus Mondragon has become, in the minds of many New Mexicans, a kind of perennial hanger-on in politics, often near the power but never quite of it.

There's also a more delicate problem. Because Bob has no other visible means of support than political office, we have to reinvent the Lieutenant Governor's office each time he gets elected to it to give him something to do.

Some of the gyrations Governor King goes through to achieve that whenever he and Mondragon are serving together are downright curious. This time he has said Mondragon will be in charge of the problems of the elderly, which is something he does well. The difficulty is that statutorily that job belongs to the Department of Human Services. Does the Governor intend to get the law changed to move the responsibility? If he does, is the Lieutenant Governor's office, a mostly ceremonial place which will not always be occupied by Mondragon, the point at which it really belongs?

What's sadder, some of the Governor's actions, like naming Mondragon to head a search committee for a new Secretary of Educational Finance and Cultural Affairs, seem a little patronizing, as though someone had said, "We'd better give old Bob something to do or he may get restless and say something to embarrass us."

To get down to the nub of the matter, it's not that we don't need poets in politics. We probably do, just as we need a mixture that might include gynecologists and auto mechanics. It's just that it's hard for your hide-bound, unsentimental professional politicians ever to take poets seriously.

This columnist said, long before the November elections, that Mondragon's appeal for the old, the poor and the largely disenfranchised could account for the margin by which Bruce King became governor. That's just about the way the thing turned out, and a pat on the head for Bobby now the elections over doesn't seem sufficient evidence of gratitude.

Poets "don't get no respect" in most of our society. Maybe they should — especially when, like Roberto Mondragon, they also are proved and competent voters.

SOMOZA STUBBORN

Nicaragua's President Anastasio Somoza is a stubborn man. It is a family trait, one reason the Somozas have been able to cling to authoritarian power for some 40 years. But this Somoza may now have played the stubbornness card too far. There are signs that if he persists the Nicaraguan house of cards will come down upon his head.

The United States, Guatemala and the Dominican Republic offered a peace plan in their role as mediators for the Organization of American States. This plan to resolve the year-old crisis, during which much of the population has been opposed to the president and his National Guard, embodies a reasonable solution. This has not prevented Somoza from rejecting it.

The mediators' plan calls for a national plebiscite to be wholly organized and controlled by an "international authority". That provision is crucially important to assure Nicaraguans that they can vote against the regime if they choose without fear of reprisal.

Additionally the plan stipulates that should Somoza win the plebiscite he would remain in power in a government of national reconciliation until his present term expires in 1981, but that should he lose he would have to resign and exile himself until 1981.

Somoza balks at key elements in the mediators' plan. He proposes instead that control over the plebiscite be exercised by his government and the opposition, with only OAS supervision of balloting. And while he agrees to resign if he loses, he rejects the idea of going into temporary exile.

This might be viewed as acceptable bargaining tactics were it not that tension has persisted for 12 months. The mediators' plan offers a fair way out of the dilemma, but such an outcome is threatened by Somoza's intransigent refusal to accept its reasonable terms and get on with the plebiscite. — Alamogordo Daily News

GAMES WE PLAY

It is often remarked that Americans spend more on amusing themselves than many peoples do on food. This is further borne out by the burgeoning of hand-held electronic games. These gadgets are built around a minuscule computer programmed to offer a challenge to the player.

They are toys, but many of them — most, except at Christmas time — are being bought and used by adults. The past year about $125 million worth of them were sold. Sales are expected to hit $200 million this year. We groan about our economic troubles, but we're still a society of mighty conspicuous spenders. — Alamogordo Daily News

ATTA BOY JIMMY

Our Jimmy, by jinkies, is making good on one goal... he's gonna have the federal budget... planning of which is an exercise in futility... in such shape that he'll shave $1 billion off'n the amount we'll go into the red this year... which'll leave the government spending $29 billion more than they'll be taking in.

Godooks... wonder if'n... in proportion of course... that's how Our Jimmy's brother Billy's been operating the peanut farm... and, if so, brother, that ain't peanuts.

Course, one of the ways of cutting federal spending is to cut back on programs that keep dishing those $$$ out... with nothing in return... and all of our Senators and Representatives understand that... and all favor this... just as long as their pet boondoggles and pork barrel projects proceed unmolested.

And... by jinkies... if'n there's one need of monumental importance, crying for federal money... it's the need to fix up our flood damage... and get things back to normal... and even better than they were... you know, plenty of new roads, bridges, water mains and sewer pipes... and have it done before the onslaught of tourists... so all of us can get back to the serious business of griping about taxes.

One thing vaguely amusing... considering how things aren't going as Our Jimmy'd like in the oil producing Mid East... is that he's showing some interest in trying to deal with Mexico to buy natural gas and oil... and there ought to be something tangible that can be dangled in front of the Mexicans controlling their gas and oil... to make them jar loose... and at a price that'll put gas in the pumps that pump it into our cars at 50 cents... or 35 cents... or three gallons for $1.

And Our Jimmy's gonna keep pressing to keep tobacco supports flowing into the pockets of the growers... even though the surgeon general won't likely give him much support. But it could be if'n all those tobacco growers are happy... they'd tend to view with condensation any moves by the peanut growers to give them a healthy subsidy.

Why... with everybody mad at Our Jimmy... the Arabs, Jews, Cubans, Taiwanese, Russians... but not the Flunks... it'd seem he'd think retching to chuck peanuts would be like having both feet in heaven.

MONEY-SAVING BAGS

It's questionable how close attention millions of Americans... including thousands right here in Harmony Valley... pay to the bags used by the Postal Service to transport the mails... and there's no reason why anyone not having to lug them around should.

However... just last Thursday... back in the rack like device where The News staffers hang mail sacks toiling papers into to be transported to the subscribers... there were two brown bags... amongst the usual herd of white canvas bags... which did little in the way of aesthetic improvement.

Anyhow... those brown bags were of flimsy material... and all saggy... and don't look as though they'll take much sliding on concrete floors... especially if'n they're bulging with nuisance mail... or window envelopes.

On the other hand... it could be this is another means of attempting to save money by the Postal Service... buying bags that'll wear out faster... even though they might be cheaper than the canvas ones... which could be debatable. Maybe someone in command figures if'n they spend less at a time for bags they can point to this saving with pride... and be careful not to point out they have to buy bags oftenener that'll probably cost more.

Maybe the Postal Service didn't get run any better when Congress was in charge... but those of you that remember, will remember that the service was a lot better... and at anywhere from 2c to 6c for a first class letter... which might not be practical now... but it could be... all the Congress'd have to do is cut back on wheat, cotton, corn, tobacco and welfare subsidies... and put first class mail at say, a nickel... and make up the balance from the subsidy funds, to the joy of postal patrons.

IT'S LOAFING TIME

There comes a time when anyone... even the Shah of Iran... has to get away from it all. And that's what I'm gonna do for the next spell... and I'm gonna do it in Texas... 'cause I hear tell that's about as far away from where it's happening as it's possible to get. And that's laboring under the assumption that the information isn't coming from our proud Texas friends.

BRIEF BIT: If someone, or something, wasn't always happening to rock the boat the manufacturers of sea sick pills'd be raising old red. — CD

DANNIE STORM

In the Coldest
Time of Year

This is written to you on January the seventeenth, right in the very middle of that time of year when the coldest weather arrives among us. The coldest here in the valley was on this same day in 1963—the same day that Shady Logan, the Little Spirit Dog, arrived at the house. There was not two feet of snow on the ground, and the creek was frozen solid over with a foot of ice in most places. In the swift rapids, you could see a narrow open channel in the middle of the icebound river. That day it was sixteen below. I never have seen it that cold here since. The coldest was back in that cold spell in December 1974, fourteen below.

The Cold Passed Us By

Today is a little different from this same date in 1963. While up in the middle west the snow is deep and the weather cold, here in front of the house the temperature is fifty-two.

All the sky is covered with a roof of clouds, protecting the mountain world from the wintry blasts farther north. The north wind is blowing gently, and yet it is warm and mild outside, although the peaks completely hidden behind the ceiling of low soft, light gray clouds.

Although it is a dull day, yet there is a cheerful spirit in the air. The little black and white wood pecker out at the cedar tree is calling in his little human voice, talking to the snow birds, Pinon Jays and Pine Jays. All of them feeding contentedly, not acting as if the expected cold weather.

The world is in a calm and peaceful mood. The cows and calves are resting here in this cloudy mid-day during the time of the coldest weather. When you breathe the moist fresh air, the sweet contentment of the mountain world brings a calm and joyful peace to your heart. Now the robin on the hillside sends you a message, chirping cheerfully. And the spirits of our loved ones on earth and in Heaven are with us on this winter day, rejecting and thanking God for so many blessings.

A Message
From Jack Frost

Dear Friends in Lincoln County,
I am trying to spread the winter weather thinner, than usual down your way this year. The cold got a little out of control at the beginning of the season. It is back normal up in the Great Lakes country.
That is a land with deep snow and low temperatures. Year by year, the folks up there learn to expect heavy winter. That is what makes the soil so rich—all through the mowheat—in what they call the bread basket of the world.

In your country of Lincoln County you need a lot of snow to keep up the richness of the ground, but I try not to be too rough with the cold weather. Though, like I say, sometimes it gets out of hand.

Year in and year out, you can expect cold weather from the tenth to the twentieth of January in your country. After that the chance of cold weather is a little bit less, although snow may come any time up to early May.

Well, it is still winter, and any day we might bring you some snow. So be prepared. The winter is a healthy and happy time if you are prepared, and is watchful. Winter is a time of thankfulness, and a time for appreciating our friends and all our other blessings.

I hope to see you often during this happy winter season.

Yours, ever the same,
Jack W. Frost

Cindy Williams

Cindy Williams, the optimistic and open Shirley Feeney in ABC's 'Laverne and Shirley,' was born in Van Nuys, Calif., but spent her first nine years in Texas before the family returned to Southern California. It was during her junior and senior years at Birmingham High School that she became interested in acting, starring in school plays and frequently doubling as director and writer.

Cindy worked her way through Los Angeles City College and graduated with a B.A. in Theatre Arts. Soon after graduation she began landing roles in television, including 'Room 222,' 'Nanny and the Professor,' 'Migrants,' 'Hawaii Five-O,' 'Police Story' and 'Happy Days.'

Her first film role was a two-liner in 'Return of the Blob.' The breakthrough came when she was chosen to play the role of Tooley in George Cukor's film, 'Travels With My Aunt,' starring Maggie Smith. After the film was completed in Spain, Cindy returned to the United States and was immediately cast as Ronnie Howard's girlfriend in Francis Ford Coppola's 'American Graffiti.' After 'Graffiti,' she appeared in 'The Conversation,' directed by Coppola.

She has also appeared in the feature films 'Gas' and 'Drive, She Said,' the latter directed by Jack Nicholson.

Cindy has an older brother Jim and a younger sister Carol. Her mother Frances still lives in the Van Nuys family home with a collection of dogs and cats that were picked up as strays by Cindy and brought home to Mama.

She has recorded an album with her co-star Penny Marshall, 'Laverne and Shirley Sing,' and her off-scene avocations include writing and decorating her new Los Angeles apartment.

The cast of ABC-TV's hit comedy series, 'Barney Miller,' will celebrate its fourth season with a special one-hour telecast on Thursday, Jan. 25. Starring in 'Barney Miller' are Max Linden (center) as Barney, and (l to r) Max Gail as Wojo, Ron Glass as Harris, Steve Landesberg as Dietrich, Jack Soo (upper right) as Yamana, and Ron Carey.

GEORGE BURNS' 100th BIRTHDAY PARTY

George Burns (pictured) has always been a man ahead of his time, and he keeps his record intact by celebrating his centennial a few years early in 'George Burns' 100th Birthday Party,' a variety special to be broadcast Tuesday, Jan. 23 on CBS-TV, with party guests Milton Berle, Debby Boone, Pat Boone, Johnny Carson, Bob Hope, George Jessel, Dean Martin, Steve Martin, Gregory Peck, Helen Reddy, Don Rickles, and Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Stewart, and with guest stars Goldie Hawn and Andy Gibb.

Burns, who will actually be a mere 83 on Jan. 20, explains that he is celebrating his birthday in advance because when he is 100 years old (in 1996) he'll be out of town, playing the Palladium in London.

While the revelers assemble and party festivities swing off-stage, Burns greets his guests and regales the studio audience with songs and stories of his career adventures. Singer-songwriter Andy Gibb, in an infrequent television appearance, performs his newest hit, 'Our Love, Don't Throw It Away.' Goldie Hawn joins Burns in a special rendition of 'Some of These Days.' Burns closes the show with 'The Party's Over.'

MURDER BY NATURAL CAUSES

Hal Holbrook, Katharine Ross, Richard Anderson (pictured) and Barry Bostwick star in 'Murder by Natural Causes', a fiendishly entertaining mystery in which nothing is what it appears to be, on 'The CBS Saturday Night Movies', Jan. 27.

The puzzling plot mixes one internationally famous mentalist (Holbrook), one avaricious and unfaithful wife (Miss Ross), one best friend of the family (Anderson), and one wife's lover (Bostwick) in a potpourri of bizarre events—that may or may not be happening. The new motion picture-for-television was produced by Richard Levinson/William Link Productions.

The multi-award-winning team of Levinson and Link ('Columbo', 'That Certain Summer', 'The Execution of Private Slovik', 'Mannix', 'My Sweet Charlie') were executive producers and writers of 'Murder by Natural Causes'. Robert A. Papazian was producer and Robert Day directed.
