

The Ruidoso News

NO. 90 IN OUR 33RD YEAR

RUIDOSO, LINCOLN COUNTY, NEW MEXICO 88345

MONDAY, MARCH 26, 1979

Sixth grader in regional spelling bee

John Yang, a sixth grader at White Mountain Middle School, will participate as a regional finalist in the annual spelling bee contest sponsored yearly by Scripps-Howard Newspapers.

Yang and ten non-competing students from White Mountain Middle School will make the trip to El Paso, where regional competition will be held May 3 and 4 at the Chamizal National Memorial Theatre. The students will be chaperoned by Doris Stierwalt, who is the spelling bee sponsor for Ruidoso Municipal Schools.

The ten students who will accompany Yang and the sponsor to El Paso will work with him to prepare him for the regional competition. "They will help him with derivations, pronunciations and spelling hard words," Stierwalt said. The students hope to earn the money it will take to attend regionals by hosting money making projects in coming weeks.

Yang was the victor in a spell-down held at the middle school March 21. Words for the spell-down were chosen by librarian Julie Yowell, who pronounced the words.

"It didn't take long to eliminate most of the contestants," Stierwalt said. Yang was competing with students from all grade levels. Although only a sixth grader, this will be Yang's fourth trip to regionals. "He is new at our school, but he's been there three times before," Stierwalt said. She said Yang was very smart and was deemed a very good candidate to represent Ruidoso at the regionals.

If Yang should win the regional contest, his prize will be an all-expense paid trip to Washington to compete in the National Spelling Bee Contest, slated June 4 through 8. Second, third and fourth place winners will receive cash awards of $50, $25 and $10 respectively. All prizes are awarded by the sponsor, The El Paso Herald-Post.

Mule Skinners complete plans for trail ride

Plans have been completed for an April 22 trail ride, for all owners and riders of mules, as well as horsemen, sponsored by the Ruidoso Downs Mule Skinners.

Riders will leave from the Lincoln County Feed/Cowboy's Riding Stables area, opposite Ruidoso Down Race Track, promptly at 9 a.m.

"All riders, whether on mules or horseback," Mule Skinners president Ed Hyman said, "will cover about 10 or 12 miles through the Lincoln National Forest bordering on the Mescalero Apache Reservation."

"The group will meet at Lucas Wells, about two miles west of Hale Lake, for a noon pit barbecue and an afternoon of events for mules and horses."

"We've put the tab on this day's activities, including the all-you-can-eat pit barbecue, at a modest $7.50 per person and feel this is truly a bargain price considering the beauty of the ride and the entertainment to be offered."

Events at Lucas Wells, for mules only, include barrel racing, pole bending, five-man team polo and a balloon burst. In addition there will be jackpot matched races for horses as well as mules.

Tickets, including reservations, are available by writing: Ruidoso Downs Mule Skinners, P. O. Box 2727, Ruidoso, New Mexico 88345. The tickets are also on sale at KRRR and from Dave McMath in Ruidoso, Briscoe West in Ruidoso Downs and other members of the Mule Skinners.

There will be first aid service for all riders and a veterinarian will also be available.

"Persons desiring to make the ride," Hyman said, "who do not have a mount, may rent one for the day for $25."

"We want to provide an exciting, exhilarating and action filled day for everyone," Hyman said, "and, of course, we'll be promoting the Mule Skinners and the activities the club is planning to sponsor this year and in the years to come."

Rio Ruidoso still polluted

The Rio Ruidoso is still polluted, village waste superintendent Blair Halladay said Friday to The News.

"Raw sewage and other contaminants are still running into the river," Halladay said, "and everyone along the river, and/or using the river water should keep this in mind."

Halladay said that Ruidoso contractor Odell Spears is now correcting the sewer problem.

"Spears began at the Sierra Blanca Cables," Halladay said, "and is working up stream. He was at the Meckel bridge today and will continue repairing the sewer mains into the Upper Canyon."

It is anticipated that he will complete the project by mid-May, even earlier, hopefully, after which the pollution problem should be under control."

Village eyes water plans

Ruidoso's trustees are studying proposals to upgrade the existing water system, to be financed with the more than $2.5 million remaining in the $5 million general obligation water bond issues approved by the voters in October of 1974.

The major concerns include additional storage for treated water and adding pipelines and transmission lines to the present system to improve service to many areas and provide adequate reserves of treated water for periods of drought or other emergencies.

Projects being eyed, with estimated costs, include:

A five million gallon storage tank at Alto Crest and a one million gallon storage tank at Kingswood, $1,335,000.

A pipeline at Kingswood, $265,000.

Storage tank, with capacity to be determined, in Ponderosa Heights, $320,000.

Pipeline and transmission lines in Ponderosa Heights, $335,000.

The cost of these projects is pegged at $2,255,000.

Also under consideration is a new pipeline and improved facilities on Sutton Drive, with the cost estimated to be $120,000.

The planned storage tanks would increase the capacity to hold treated water from the present nine gallons to more than 15 million gallons. This amount, village officials are confident, will provide adequate reserves for the heavy use periods of summer and fall and virtually insure stable service, except in the event of a severe drought.

Storage for raw water is another problem. Alto Lake maintains about 90 million gallons with an additional ten million stored at the Gavilan treatment plant.

This raw water problem led to the village's test drilling to locate additional raw water, which can be treated, in amounts up to 2.5 million gallons daily in the new Alto Crest plant.

Bids will be let to test pump the well on Eagle Creek Road, to determine if it will supply the 300 gallons per minute it is estimated it will produce. This well, at that delivery rate, would provide an additional 252,000 gallons of raw water daily. This amount, village officials are confident, would provide sufficient flow to keep 15 million gallons of treated water in storage at all times.

The village will soon be advertising for bids to drill a second exploratory well in the Upper Canyon, near the treatment plant adjoining the Mescalero Apache Reservation, to provide improved water service to patrons now served by that plant.

Boyle Engineering is currently completing a survey of water needs and projects that are to be presented to the trustees for consideration. This study includes the projects listed in this article, as well as additional improvements that are indicated will be needed in the future.

Additional water, above present supplies, will be needed to supply the Regional Wastewater System, that will provide improved sewer service to the village. It is this need that necessitated the water improvement study.

Del Rae Baird facing charges

Del Rae Baird of Ruidoso was arrested Thursday by Ruidoso Police officer Ray Gardner, assisted by Lincoln County Sheriff's Department officers and subsequently charged with resisting arrest, disorderly conduct, interfering with the duties of an officer, possession of marijuana under one ounce and possession of stolen property.

Deputy Charles Englekling had been conducting an intensive investigation of the incident for the past five months, Sanchez said, and the charges for possession of stolen property were filed by Englekling Saturday.

The arrest came during a search of the home for stolen property in connection with a burglary at Innsbrook Village last November. Sheriff Ernest Sanchez said over $13,000 worth of property, mostly jewelry, was taken in that burglary.

Assistant District Attorney Ed Schissel was on hand to render legal advice, Sanchez said.

The sheriff said over $5,000 of property, allegedly taken in the incident was recovered. Baird was freed on $1,500 bond.

"Should the Eagle Creek Well meet expectations," village manager Jim Hine said, "and the proposed Upper Canyon

Well produce a like amount, somewhere in the 300-gallon-a-minute range, once we have our new transmission lines and additional storage, we should be in great shape so far as both raw and treated water storage is concerned."

'Dating Game' pair here

Cecil Kerr and his date Randy Dean arrived in Ruidoso Saturday afternoon for a four-day skiing vacation, which they won on "The Dating Game" in a segment broadcast February 21. The package promoted Holiday Inn and Sierra Blanca Ski Area, but the couple will spend their time at the Villa Inn instead, since the Holiday Inn is not yet open.

Both are from Los Angeles and both attend UCLA. Both are political science majors, but said they had never met until "The Dating Game." "It took the dating game to bring us together," Kerr said.

Kerr is a junior and hopes to continue her education in business or public administration. Dean is a senior and wants to pursue a career in law. The couple dated a few times before coming to Ruidoso during their spring break. "We figured we should go out a few times so we could get to know each other before now," Dean said.

They were very excited about the prospect of three days of skiing. Kerr is a skier of seven years, and Dean had only skied once. "I'm going to be his teacher," Kerr said. She also plays tennis, sings and is a model in her spare time.

Dean said he was a warm weather person, spending his free hours at the beach body surfing. However, he was anxious to learn to ski.

The couple said it was fun being on "The Dating Game" and the main reason they did it was "to have fun." They feel they were lucky in finding someone that was compatible because according to Kerr, "Bachelor Number 2 was a dud."

As soon as they stepped off the plane, they both noted the clear skies and fresh air, something not in abundance in Los Angeles, according to Dean. They also commented that they thought Ruidoso was beautiful, and "we're looking forward to it. It should be a lot of fun."

The couple was willing to do whatever was planned for them, but they had some definite ideas about some items they hoped to buy before leaving Ruidoso. "We want to buy some cowboy boots and hats," they said.

The couple was scheduled to dine Saturday night at Kings and spend the evening there dancing. Sunday morning the couple was to eat at Nob Hill Restaurant, then spend the day skiing at Sierra Blanca Ski Area, where their skis, boots and lift tickets were furnished by the ski area.

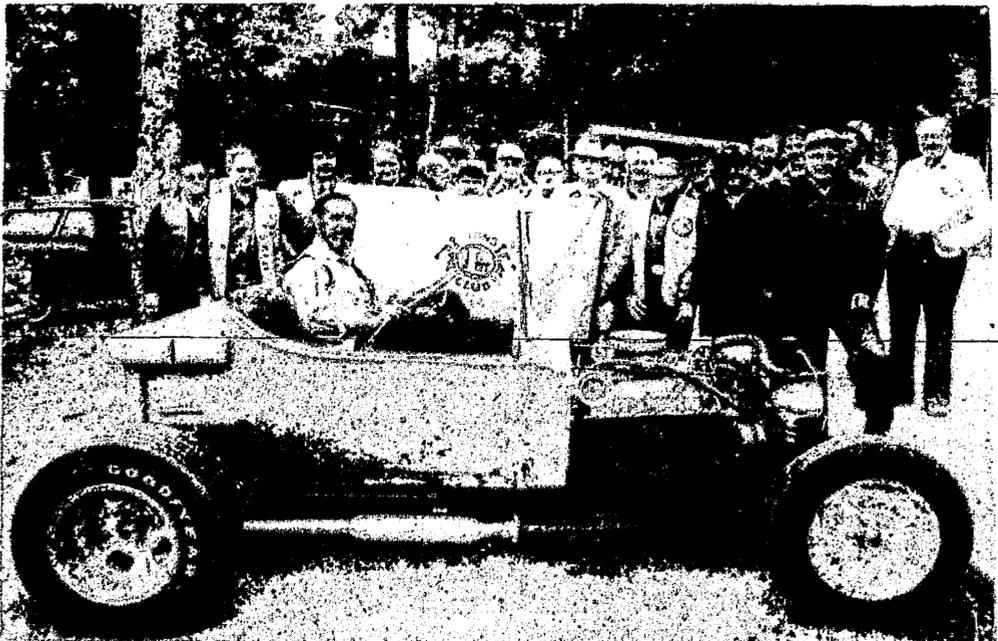

Sunday evening the couple was hosted at the Inn of the Mountain Gods for cocktails, followed by dinner at the Racquet Club. Monday began with breakfast at Whispering Pine Restaurant followed by a day of skiing. Dinner tonight is at Cousins' with the evening free.

Tuesday, the couple will choose where they wish to eat breakfast, followed by a tour of the village and time to shop. Lunch at K-Bob's will follow, and the couple will leave Ruidoso around 1:30 to catch the plane at El Paso Tuesday afternoon.

Other items which are being given to the couple include complete television coverage upon arrival at El Paso's airport by an El Paso Channel 13 news crew, flowers presented to the couple upon arrival at the airport by Airport Florists of El Paso, a photo album including pictures of everything the couple does while here, which is being compiled and presented by Bruce McElya, Photo Systems.

Other gifts included flowers in their rooms at the Villa Inn, presented by the Art and Flower Nook, transistor radios and small computers, presented by E-Z TV and Appliance, a Ski Ruidoso poster from the Chamber of Commerce, use of a 1979 Buick from Sierra Blanca Motors and a chauffeur, Tom Venerly.

In addition, the couple was met at the airport in El Paso by a welcoming committee made up of Chamber of Commerce president Dave Wilson and Holiday Inn receptionist Marilyn Reed. They were met just outside of Ruidoso by Ralph Romero of the Ruidoso Downs Police Department and Hayes Poinsett of the Ruidoso Police Department and brought into town in a police vehicle.

LATEST VEHICLE PROMOTING RUIDOSO, as the Playground of the Southwest, is this Noon Lions Club roadster unveiled at the club's Wednesday meeting. The car, with placards touting Ruidoso's recreational facilities, will appear in parades throughout the area. Lions president Don Dale is at the wheel, with Noon Lions members in the background. "We feel our investment will give us a lot of mileage," Dale said, "in creating interest in Ruidoso and that it will promote tourism and really help boost the economy of our area."

NO. 90 IN OUR 33RD YEAR

RUIDOSO, LINCOLN COUNTY, NEW MEXICO 88345

MONDAY, MARCH 26, 1979

Village eyes water plans

Ruidoso's trustees are studying proposals to upgrade the existing water system, to be financed with the more than $2.5 million remaining in the $5 million general obligation water bond issues approved by the voters in October of 1974.

"Should the Eagle Creek Well meet expectations," village manager Jim Hine said, "and the proposed Upper Canyon

Well produce a like amount, somewhere in the 300-gallon-a-minute range, once we have our new transmission lines and additional storage, we should be in great shape so far as both raw and treated water storage is concerned."

The major concerns include additional storage for treated water and adding pipelines and transmission lines to the present system to improve service to many areas and provide adequate reserves of treated water for periods of drought or other emergencies.

Projects being eyed, with estimated costs, include:

A five million gallon storage tank at Alto Crest and a one million gallon storage tank at Kingswood, $1,335,000.

A pipeline at Kingswood, $265,000.

Storage tank, with capacity to be determined, in Ponderosa Heights, $320,000.

Pipeline and transmission lines in Ponderosa Heights, $335,000.

The cost of these projects is pegged at $2,255,000.

Also under consideration is a new pipeline and improved facilities on Sutton Drive, with the cost estimated to be $120,000.

The planned storage tanks would increase the capacity to hold treated water from the present nine gallons to more than 15 million gallons. This amount, village officials are confident, will provide adequate reserves for the heavy use periods of summer and fall and virtually insure stable service, except in the event of a severe drought.

Storage for raw water is another problem. Alto Lake maintains about 80 million gallons with an additional ten million stored at the Gavilan treatment plant.

This raw water problem led to the village's test drilling to locate additional raw water, which can be treated, in amounts up to 2.5 million gallons daily in the new Alto Crest plant.

Bids will be let to test pump the well on Eagle Creek Road, to determine if it will supply the 300 gallons per minute it is estimated it will produce. This well, at that delivery rate, would provide an additional 252,000 gallons of raw water daily. This amount, village officials are confident, would provide sufficient flow to keep 15 million gallons of treated water in storage at all times.

The village will soon be advertising for bids to drill a second exploratory well in the Upper Canyon, near the treatment plant adjoining the Mescalero Apache Reservation, to provide improved water service to patrons now served by that plant.

Boyle Engineering is currently completing a survey of water needs and projects that are to be presented to the trustees for consideration. This study includes the projects listed in this article, as well as additional improvements that are indicated will be needed in the future.

Additional water, above present supplies, will be needed to supply the Regional Wastewater System, that will provide improved sewer service to the village. It is this need that necessitated the water improvement study.

Del Rae Baird facing charges

Del Rae Baird of Ruidoso was arrested Thursday by Ruidoso Police officer Ray Gardner, assisted by Lincoln County Sheriff's Department officers and subsequently charged with resisting arrest, disorderly conduct, interfering with the duties of an officer, possession of marijuana under one ounce and possession of stolen property.

Deputy Charles Engleking had been conducting an intensive investigation of the incident for the past five months, Sanchez said, and the charges for possession of stolen property were filed by Engleking Saturday.

The arrest came during a search of the home for stolen property in connection with a burglary at Innsbrook Village last November. Sheriff Ernest Sanchez said over $13,000 worth of property, mostly jewelry, was taken in that burglary. Assistant District Attorney Ed Schissel was on hand to render legal advice, Sanchez said.

The sheriff said over $5,000 of property, allegedly taken in the incident was recovered. Baird was freed on $1,500 bond.

'Dating Game' pair here

Ceci Kerr and her date Randy Dean arrived in Ruidoso Saturday afternoon for a four-day skiing vacation, which they won on "The Dating Game" in a segment broadcast February 21. The package promoted Holiday Inn and Sierra Blanca Ski Area, but the couple will spend their time at the Villa Inn instead, since the Holiday Inn is not yet open.

Both are from Los Angeles and both attend UCLA. Both are political science majors, but said they had never met until "The Dating Game." "It took the dating game to bring us together," Kerr said. Kerr is a junior and hopes to continue her education in business or public administration. Dean is a senior and wants to pursue a career in law. The couple dated a few times before coming to Ruidoso during their spring break. "We figured we should go out a few times so we could get to know each other before now," Dean said.

They were very excited about the prospect of three days of skiing. Kerr is a skier of seven years, and Dean had only skied once. "I'm going to be his teacher," Kerr said. She also plays tennis, sings and is a model in her spare time.

Dean said he was a warm weather person, spending his free hours at the beach body surfing. However, he was anxious to learn to ski.

The couple said it was fun being on "The Dating Game" and the main reason they did it was "to have fun." They feel they were lucky in finding someone that was compatible because according to Kerr, "Bachelor Number 2 was a dud."

As soon as they stepped off the plane, they both noted the clear skies and fresh air, something not in abundance in Los Angeles, according to Dean. They also commented that they thought Ruidoso was beautiful, and "we're looking forward to it. It should be a lot of fun."

The couple was willing to do whatever was planned for them, but they had some definite ideas about some items they hoped to buy before leaving Ruidoso. "We want to buy some cowboy boots and hats," they said.

The couple was scheduled to dine Saturday night at Kings and spend the evening there dancing. Sunday morning the couple was to eat at Nob Hill Restaurant, then spend the day skiing at Sierra Blanca Ski Area, where their skis, boots and lift tickets were furnished by the ski area.

Sunday evening the couple was hosted at the Inn of the Mountain Gods for cocktails, followed by dinner at the Racquet Club. Monday began with breakfast at Whispering Pine Restaurant followed by a day of skiing. Dinner tonight is at Cousins' with the evening free.

Tuesday, the couple will choose where they wish to eat breakfast, followed by a tour of the village and time to shop. Lunch at K-Bob's will follow, and the couple will leave Ruidoso around 1:30 to catch the plane at El Paso Tuesday afternoon.

Other items which are being given to the couple include complete television coverage upon arrival at El Paso's airport by an El Paso Channel 13 news crew, flowers presented to the couple upon arrival at the airport by Airport Florists of El Paso, a photo album including pictures of everything the couple does while here, which is being compiled and presented by Bruce McEliza, Photo Systems.

Other gifts included flowers in their rooms at the Villa Inn, presented by the Art and Flower Nook, transistor radios and small computers, presented by E-Z TV and Appliance, a Ski Ruidoso poster from the Chamber of Commerce, use of a 1979 Buick from Sierra Blanca Motors and a chauffeur, Tom Venerly.

In addition, the couple was met at the airport in El Paso by a welcoming committee made up of Chamber of Commerce president Dave Wilson and Holiday Inn receptionist Marilyn Reed. They were met just outside of Ruidoso by Ralph Romero of the Ruidoso Downs Police Department and Hayes Poissot of the Ruidoso Police Department and brought into town in a police vehicle.

Sixth grader in regional spelling bee

John Yang, a sixth grader at White Mountain Middle School, will participate as a regional finalist in the annual spelling bee contest sponsored yearly by Scripps-Howard Newspapers.

Yang and ten non-competing students from White Mountain Middle School will make the trip to El Paso, where regional competition will be held May 3 and 4 at the Chamizal National Memorial Theatre. The students will be chaperoned by Doris Stierwalt, who is the spelling bee sponsor for Ruidoso Municipal Schools.

The ten students who will accompany Yang and the sponsor to El Paso will work with him to prepare him for the regional competition. "They will help him with derivations, pronunciations and spelling hard words," Stierwalt said. The students hope to earn the money it will take to attend regionals by hosting money making projects in coming weeks.

Yang was the victor in a spelldown held at the middle school March 21. Words for the spelldown were chosen by librarian Julie Yowell, who pronounced the words.

"It didn't take long to eliminate most of the contestants," Stierwalt said. Yang was competing with students from all grade levels. Although only a sixth grader, this will be Yang's fourth trip to regionals. "He is new at our school, but he's been there three times before," Stierwalt said. She said Yang was very smart and was deemed a very good candidate to represent Ruidoso at the regionals.

If Yang should win the regional contest, his prize will be an all-expense paid trip to Washington to compete in the National Spelling Bee Contest, slated June 4 through 9. Second, third and fourth place winners will receive cash awards of $50, $25 and $10 respectively. All prizes are awarded by the sponsor, The El Paso Herald-Post.

Mule Skinners complete plans for trail ride

Plans have been completed for an April, 22 trail ride, for all owners and riders of mules, as well as horsemen, sponsored by the Ruidoso Downs Mule Skinners.

Riders will leave from the Lincoln County Feed/Cowboy's Riding Stables area, opposite Ruidoso Down Race Track, promptly at 9 a.m.

"All riders, whether on mules or horseback," Mule Skinners president Ed Hyman said, "will cover about 10 or 12 miles through the Lincoln National Forest bordering on the Mescalero Apache Reservation.

"The group will meet at Lucas Wells, about two miles west of Hale Lake, for a noon pit barbecue and an afternoon of events for mules and horses.

"We've put the tab on this day's activities, including the all-you-can-eat pit barbecue, at a modest $7.50 per person and feel this is truly a bargain price considering the beauty of the ride and the entertainment to be offered."

Events at Lucas Wells, for mules only, include barrel racing, pole bending, five-man team polo and a balloon bust. In addition there will be jackpot matched races for horses as well as mules.

Tickets, including reservations, are available by writing: Ruidoso Downs Muleskinners, P. O. Box 2727, Ruidoso, New Mexico 88345. The tickets are also on sale at KRFR and from Dave McMath in Ruidoso, Briscoe West in Ruidoso Downs and other members of the Mule Skinners.

There will be first aid service for all riders and a veterinarian will also be available.

"Persons desiring to make the ride," Hyman said, "who do not have a mount, may rent one for the day for $25.

"We want to provide an exciting, exhilarating and action filled day for everyone," Hyman said, "and, of course, we'll be promoting the Mule Skinners and the activities the club is planning to sponsor this year and in the years to come."

Rio Ruidoso still polluted

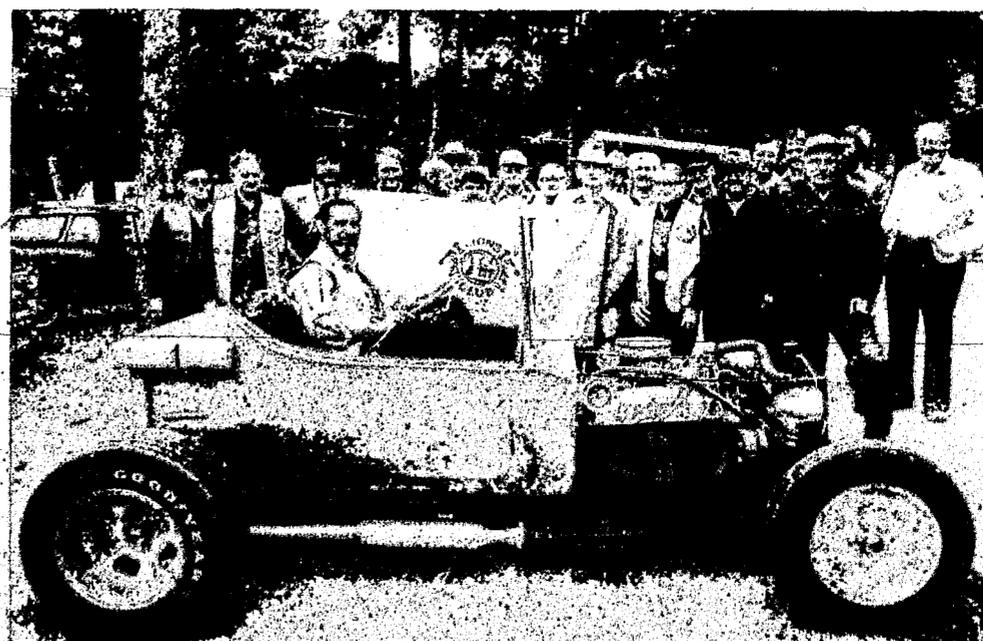

The Rio Ruidoso is still polluted, village waste superintendent Blair Halladay said Friday to The News.

"Raw sewage and other contaminants are still running into the river," Halladay said, "and everyone along the river, and/or using the river water should keep this in mind."

Halladay said that Ruidoso contractor Odell Spears is now correcting the sewer problem.

"Spears began at the Sierra Blanca Cabins," Halladay said, "and is working up stream. He was at the Mechek bridge today and will continue repairing the sewer mains into the Upper Canyon."

It is anticipated that he will complete the project by mid-May, even earlier, hopefully, after which the pollution problem should be under control."

LATEST VEHICLE PROMOTING RUIDOSO, the Playground of the Southwest, is this Noon Lions Club roadster unveiled at the club's Wednesday meeting. The car, with placards touting Ruidoso's recreational facilities, will appear in parades throughout the area. Lions president Don Dale is at the wheel, with Noon Lions members in the background. "We feel our investment will give us a lot of mileage," Dale said, "in creating interest in Ruidoso and that it will promote tourism and really help boost the economy of our area."

Gymnasts seek use area

BY CHARLOTTE FELLERS

Staff Writer/Photographer

Thirty-two village residents, interested in forming an independent gymnastics team in Ruidoso, met Thursday evening to organize and discuss the problem of locating a suitable practice area.

Tim Wadley, who led the meeting, said he approached the Ruidoso School Board twice, in February and March, to request use of either the high school or middle school gyms or any room in any school building which could double as a practice area.

Wadley described the cost breakdown for the proposed gymnastics program, saying plans were to charge $20 per student per month with a descending cost scale for more than one child in a family. He said more than 75 children have shown an interest in participating in a gymnastics program, so at least $18,000 would be generated the first year.

Wadley pointed out that the number of children involved would probably vary from month to month because of other activities available, such as skiing.

Wadley said he presented a cost estimate of utilities and building maintenance to the school board and figured total cost for four hours' practice every day for a month.

The Ruidoso Board of Education has called a special meeting at noon Wednesday, in the administration building of the Ruidoso Schools, to meet with the governing board of the Gymnastics Association of Ruidoso. The special meeting was called by Dave Parks, president of the board of education.

would cost $15.92. He said he offered to pay $100 per month rent for use of the building for practicing and equipment storage.

In addition, Wadley said he presented cost estimates on buying equipment, insurance and hosting clinics on Saturdays. Equipment costs would amount to approximately $20,000, accident and liability insurance for 75 children would amount to almost $870 and an estimated $400 per year for chalk was allowed. Money was also allowed for medical supplies, a first aid kit, equipment upkeep and within two years, a full-time and possibly part-time coach.

After hearing these cost estimates, Wadley said the school board expressed concern that wear and tear on the new gym floor could be a problem with gymnastics equipment. Wadley said he assured them that all equipment is safe for use on gym floors.

Other concerns were that storage of equipment could be a problem, future use of the gymnasium for school activities will increase, leaving less time for the gymnastics team and during the summer, practicing would become a problem because the bulk of maintenance is done during the summer.

Wadley said equipment could be stored in a relatively small space because it is collapsible, the gymnastics team would be willing to use any room that measures 40 feet by 40 feet for practices and the team would schedule practices around maintenance work.

Wadley said the board tabled the matter at the February meeting and decided in March to allow the gymnastics team to practice at the school one night a week until the end of the school year.

"I think they are afraid of setting a precedent for charging groups for use of the gymnasium," Wadley said.

"I got the definite feeling that the school board would say no from the beginning," Wadley said.

"I think it's something more than the school board not wanting to incorporate the program into the school system. They may have felt that not enough people really supported it," said one parent.

Wadley said there are only 13 schools in New Mexico who have gymnastics programs. Some of the problems include liability with trampoline performances, trouble finding well qualified gymnastics teachers and lack of funds within the school budgets to support such a program.

"I don't think the board wants to support something that will be phased out in a few months," Mike Gladden, White Mountain Elementary principal, said. He felt if the parents could prove it would last longer, the chance of getting the gym more than one night a week is greater.

Wadley also said that several other places were looked at as possible practice sites, including the Chapparral Convention Center and the Legion Hall. The Sunrise Natural Food building rents for $600 a month, which was more than the group felt they could afford. The Convention Center utility costs are very high during the winter, and scheduling could be a problem. The Legion Hall is not large enough to practice floor exercises, according to Wadley, so the only places which would be suitable are areas within the school buildings.

Coaches for the program will be Wadley and Speogle, who are both certified by the United States Gymnastics Federation, the main underwriting group of independent gymnastics. They will have several assistants.

To be really effective, the team would have to practice at least three nights a week, or two nights and one afternoon on weekends, according to Wadley. He said the formation of an advisory board that would oversee the program and make another appeal to the school board would show more interest.

A board was formed with Tim Wadley, Sandy Dacy, Judy Frost, Twila Lemons, Ross Schwarz, Mike Bell and Rosanne Schillalies as members. They will list names of young people interested in being on the team and parents interested in supporting it and make another appeal to the school board.

Officers were elected with Sandy Harrison as president, Jean Whitman as vice president and Sue Lynn Speogle as secretary/treasurer for the organization.

The organization is a non-profit group that will rely the first years on voluntary coaches and cooperation from parents, said Wadley.

Ski package aired

Representatives of over ten business interests met Friday at the Inn of the Mountain Gods to discuss the possibility of producing a discount ski package tour that would benefit all New Mexico ski resorts.

Representatives from almost all New Mexico resorts were in attendance. Also included in the attendance were representatives from American Airlines, Continental Airlines, Santa Fe Transportation and Shuttlejack and a host of others wanting to help New Mexico promote a discount ski package.

Although a final decision on the package to be offered never came, representatives decided to work out details to present at the Governor's Conference April 18 and 19.

If the package is approved, matching funds from the government may be obtained to aid in marketing it.

The package is being sought mainly as a deterrent to the slow periods that occur during the ski season. The package, if one is accepted, will be offered only during the week and will exclude the Christmas holidays.

The two gateways for the package, airports where most tourists will arrive, will be Albuquerque and El Paso. Albuquerque would service most northern New Mexico resorts while El Paso would service the southernmost, in particular Ruidoso.

Amaranth sets enchilada feed

Ruidoso's Amaranth is sponsoring an enchilada supper at the Ruidoso Elks Lodge, March 31, with serving from 5:30 to 8:30 p.m.

The per plate charge has been set at $3.

Proceeds from the supper are earmarked for the Ministerial Alliance in Ruidoso, which has no funding for their projects other than donations and for selected Masonic charities within the state and the Ruidoso area.

Ski report

Sierra Blanca Ski Area reports an undisturbed snow depth of 94 inches midway on the mountain. No new snow has fallen over the past weekend. The weather was clear at the time of the report.

Surface conditions on the lower slopes were described as "changeable spring snow." On the upper slopes, conditions vary from hard packed to packed powder.

Sierra Blanca will be open daily until April 15. Sunday's high temperature was 58 degrees, followed by a low Monday morning of 19 degrees.

For skiing condition reports, call Sierra Blanca Ski Area, 257-9001.

Villages' trustees to meet

Ruidoso Downs trustees will meet at 7 tonight in the village hall. The board will consider resolution 79-3, an emergency declaration for the bypass bridge; resolution 79-4, the open meetings law; several resignations and an animal services contract.

The Ruidoso trustees will meet at 7:30 p.m., Tuesday in the Ruidoso Public Library with agenda items including opening of bids on Two Rivers Park improvements, a report on proposed street and sewer improvements and recommendations on preparing the village's 1979-1980 fiscal year budget.

DISTRICT SPELLING BEE FINALISTS were derived from the entire school March 21, when White Mountain Middle School held the local spelling bee contest. The process of elimination narrowed the field to five and finally to one, John Yang, who will travel to El Paso for regionals in

Coffee Cart Wednesday

The Wednesday Coffee Cart, a Chamber of Commerce project, will be at Cupp Hardware, 2815 Sudderth, from 9 to 10:30 a.m.

The public is encouraged to attend and, over a cup of coffee, discuss Chamber projects underway and to suggest ways in which the Chamber can better serve the community with the officers and directors who will be present.

LCCC offers first aid course

A first aid course, under the auspices of the American Red Cross, is the newest activity scheduled by the Lincoln County Community Center, (LCCC). As always, the class will be free to the public and open to all residents of Lincoln County.

The course will begin Tuesday, March 27 from 7 to 10 p.m., in the Capitan school cafeteria. The class will continue on the following two Tuesday evenings at the same time.

At the weekly meeting of the LCCC Wednesday, members made a preliminary evaluation of a survey conducted throughout the county to determine areas of interest for future classes. As a result, a combination Spanish and English course has been scheduled to begin April 5. The class will use textbooks from the Capitan schools and will be held in the Intermediate School building at Capitan. Time of the class will be announced later.

Plans were also confirmed for the bake sale/garage sale/slave auction to be held Saturday March 31, in the ice cream parlor parking lot in Capitan, from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. Proceeds from the sale will benefit the center. Informational flyers about the center and planned classes will be distributed at the sale. The flyers were made available by Ruidoso Printing at no charge to the non-profit group.

Other classes being contemplated by the group include auto mechanics, square dancing, gardening, welding, cooking, sewing, guitar, typing, bookkeeping, sports and home repair.

Another continuing activity is the Historical Roundtable which feature older residents of the county recounting memories of their early lives. The discussions are currently being held each Saturday afternoon at 2 p.m., in the Capitan school board room. The public is also invited to attend these sessions.

RIDERS TO CIBOLA
By Norman Zollinger
Muesum of New Mexico
Press, Santa Fe, 1977

Cibola - accent on the first syllable - is thought to be the earliest New Mexico place name to appear on a map. It was the legend of the Seven Cities of Cibola, with its reputed wealth, that made many men willing to risk all. So, when Mary Lou Gooch, one of the amiable librarians at the Ruidoso Library, urged me to read RIDERS TO CIBOLA, I thought it would be about these adventurers. Aware that my reading preference runs to non-fiction, Mary Lou corrected me on the contents but nevertheless assured me that here was a novel I would enjoy. She was right of course - for I found it to be an absorbing story that pushed me to read well beyond my normal reading hours.

RIDERS TO CIBOLA begins at the turn of the century with the central character a boy orphaned in Old Mexico. He runs away from the mission orphanage in a desperate search for some clue to his identity. His journey takes him north across the river and into the New Mexico Territory. He signs on to work for an Anglo rancher for "fifteen dollars a month with room and board - of course." In the ensuing years, still troubled by the mystery of his origin, he grows to a full fledged vaquero and foreman of the large ranch. Still he remains an outsider torn between two cultures and being a thoughtful observer is uncomfortably aware and troubled by the racial tensions which run heavily through both cultures. Throughout the years the vaquero is a confidant to members of the Anglo family and it is their lives and destinies as well as his that hold our attention.

Norman Zollinger is the owner and manager of an Albuquerque bookstore and RIDERS TO CIBOLA is his first novel. The idea for the story came to him while vacationing at a friend's ranch in the Tularosa Basin. There he made the acquaintance of an old Mexican-American vaquero and soon he was listening to stories of the past told by the old man. The seed for the book was planted and in time Zollinger took to writing the story based on these conversations.

In RIDERS TO CIBOLA, Zollinger has captured the fragrance of New Mexico. So here again is a man who is held enchanted by the high desert and the dark mountains of New Mexico. It is always a pleasure to experience this quiet feeling expressed in literature as well as on canvas.

Some weeks after I had read the book I became aware that many New Mexican readers were agreeing that here was a fine novel. RIDERS TO CIBOLA has for many weeks been in the top ten sales in Albuquerque bookstores.

The book's title is still troublesome to me, but I suppose that in some way we are all riders to Cibola whether we search for some clue to the past or whether we seek some promise for the future.

Meeting set to discuss food costs

The answer to the rising costs of heating and food could be a simple addition to the south side of your home, according to the New Mexico Solar Energy Association. Representatives of that organization will be presenting a program, sponsored by the Friends of the Library on Wednesday, March 28 at 7 p.m. at the Ruidoso Public Library. The public is invited to attend.

The program will focus on two solar heating systems: greenhouses and window-box heaters. Both of these additions are simple to build, relatively inexpensive and require minimal maintenance once installed, according to the association.

The New Mexico Solar Energy Association is a private, non-profit membership organization which can provide free information to the public because of grants from the Energy Extension Service, the ARCA Foundation and the VISTA program.

Extension Club meets Wednesday

The Ruidoso-Hondo Valley Extension Club will meet Wednesday, March 28 at 12 noon at the home of Shirley Neuhaus. The program will be entitled "You, Tension and Exercise." All members are urged to attend.

Library Laurels by Kathy Moore

The appointment of a new Library Board member caused me to wonder 1) if Ruidosians were aware that a Library Board existed 2) if Ruidosians knew the persons responsible to the Village "for the administration of the affairs of the Public Library."

Indeed there is a Library Board. The members of the Board are appointed by the Mayor, subject to the approval of the Board of Trustees. They are appointed for a term of six years.

The present Library Board members and the years served are: Dave Travis, President, (3 years); Jo Leland (20 years); Alton Lane (one year); Betsy Wilson (one year); Ann Denton (new member).

A BEDROOM in the home of Aubrey Dobbs out on Gavilan Canyon Road was destroyed by fire Friday. Several units of the Ruidoso Fire Department responded to the alarm at about 3 p.m. In addition to the gutting of the room above, smoke and heat damaged several other rooms. Dobbs said he thought the blaze was started by a defective electric blanket.

Obituaries

Rowland K. Knox

Rowland K. Knox, 94, of Ruidoso, died March 24 in Ruidoso. He was born May 6, 1884 in Rogersville, New York.

Mr. Knox was a retired supervisor of a coaling plant in the Panama Canal Zone. He had been a resident of Ruidoso since November, 1946. He received the Roosevelt Medal for working more than three years in the canal zone before the Panama Canal was open.

He was a member of the Community Methodist Church and a member of Ruidoso Masonic Lodge Number 73. He had been a Mason for 64 years. He was also a member of the York and Scottish Rites, Shrine and Amaranth and Order of the Eastern Star.

Funeral services will be at 2 p.m., March 28 at the Community Methodist Church with Reverend Noble B. Wiltshire officiating. Masonic graveside services will follow in the Forest Lawn Cemetery.

Survivors include his wife Gladys K. Knox of Ruidoso, a daughter Dorothy Alice Thornton of California, six grandchildren and three great grandchildren.

Pallbearers will be members of the Ruidoso Masonic Lodge. Honorary pallbearers will be Austin Bryant, George P. White, Travis D. Hicks, Dr. W.D. Horton and Warren Barrot.

In lieu of flowers, donations may be made to the Boy's Ranch. Arrangements were made by Clarke's Chapel of Roses.

Sherman Blake Sr.

Sherman George Blake Sr., died Friday at his home in Mesalero. Born May 17, 1918 in Mesalero, he had worked as a heavy equipment operator. He was a veteran of World War II and a member of the Catholic Church.

Rosary will be recited tonight at 6 at St. Joseph's Mission. Services will be held at 10 a.m., Tuesday at the mission, with Father Justin officiating. Burial, with military honors will be in the Mesalero Cemetery.

Blake is survived by four sons, Sherman Blake Jr., of Camp Lajun, North Carolina; Myron, Danny and Pascal Blake, all of Mesalero; three daughters, Olinda Blake Bernaleen and Kathleen Blake, all of Mesalero; two sisters, Angela Balatche and Fern Kaydahzinne, both of Mesalero; and one brother, Donald Blake, also of Mesalero.

Serving as pallbearers will be Bruce Balatche, Francis Blake, Harry Enjady, Vincent Kaydahzinne, Byron Blake and Gerald Bolan.

Governor's wife named Red Cross chairperson

Mrs. Alice King, wife of New Mexico's governor, was named Honorary Chairperson of the state's Roadrunner Division of the American Red Cross last Wednesday, during the formal opening of the organization's new headquarters in Albuquerque.

Tim Brady, executive director of the New Mexico Red Cross, said, "Alice King was chosen as chairperson because she had a personal working knowledge of the work of the Red Cross and because the governor and other King family members have been very active with the Red Cross."

There are more than 55 Red Cross chapters in New Mexico. Five hundred thousand dollars is being raised this year for training, programs, disaster relief and administrative services.

Mrs. King told the participants at her acceptance, "I've always believed in the Red Cross and I plan to be busy promoting it's goals."

Woman's Club urging tree planting in village

The Ruidoso Woman's Club is sponsoring a beautification project to bring up the fall season in Ruidoso. Working in cooperation with Conley's Nursery, the club hopes to have thousands of Granola Maples planted in the village.

Beginning April 2, one Granola Maple seedling can be purchased at Conley's for 89c. The Woman's Club will give away one seedling with every one purchased. The see here in the fall." Gladys Berger, committee chairman, said.

The special sale begins April 2 and ends when the supply of seedlings is depleted. Seedlings will grow into trees 20 feet high or shrubs, if clipped properly.

Conley's will explain proper planting and care procedures for seedlings, which are noted for their bright red leaves during the fall season. "We hope to add some red to the beautiful yellow and green colors we Probably more of your home furnishing budget will go for carpeting than for any other single purchase. Its choice demands a lot of care and thought.

Every room is livelier with carpeting... It's delightful to look at and a joy to walk on. And its insulating and sound deadening qualities give you a room that's not only warmer and easier to heat... but delightfully hushed as well... Well chosen... its beauty and luxury will last a long time.

When you decide to buy carpet you should go to a dealer you feel you can trust... We... at our store have people who know carpet like the back of their hand. Right now we have a wonderful new selection to show you... new colors... textures and weaves fresh from the country's leading mills... We'll be glad to help you pick and choose floorcovering that's ideal for every room.

Bring your ideas... your needs... your color preference... and let us help you turn them into beautifully carpeted floors... Your pleasure and satisfaction will last for long lovely years. You can count on us for whatever your need may be.

THIS MEADOW has been created by work crews to make room for a baseball diamond and tennis courts, which will be used by underprivileged children who will attend the "United World of the Universe Camp" near Ruidoso, set to open this summer.

FRED SEGAL is watching a five-year-old dream come true as the camp for underprivileged children takes shape near Ruidoso.

Camp for underprivileged children scheduled to open June 1

BY CHARLOTTE FELLERS
Staff Writer/Photographer

Underprivileged children from selected areas in the Southwest will get an opportunity this year to attend a new free summer camp to be operated near Ruidoso.

The camp is the brainchild of an El Paso businessman, Fred Segal, who has laid the groundwork for the facility over a five-year period. Segal is also the major financial contributor and has devoted many hours of his time to the project.

The camp is being constructed on an 80-acre plot of land located near the junction of Gavilan Canyon Road and Eagle Creek Road and is named the "United World of the Universe Camp."

"I feel like the world has treated me well. That's where I got the name for the camp," Segal said. "It's not a religious camp. We'll say our prayers before meals and before bed, but this camp is going to center around sports and agriculture."

He said a garden will be kept on the grounds, and areas are cleared to install a baseball diamond, horseback riding facilities, a tennis court, playground equipment and a place for a few cattle and other animals. Hiking and riding trails into the mountainous area around the main camp are being used to provide maximum enjoyment of the area.

Segal said the idea for such a camp began five years ago. "I have a theory that some kids have never been to camp. A great many people grew up poor and a lot of them never went to camp, so they may not know what they missed," Segal said.

Segal himself attended summer camp only once as a young boy and said he never forgot the experience. "I think of how much better it would have been if I could have gone year after year."

This is what he hopes to do with the camp he is providing. Underprivileged children from orphanages, boys' and girls' clubs, and other places where children may not have the opportunities other children have, will be invited to attend the camp yearly.

In its first year, the camp will cost about $250,000 to build, furnish and run for 12 weeks. However, every dollar has been donated to the tax-deductible camp, and those who will be summer "employees" of the camp will not be paid, but will volunteer their time. Segal has already collected $100,000 in donations and pledges, with 80 percent of that his own donation of time, money and land. His wife Rita and their five children have also donated many hours to the project.

Major contributors have provided the camp with donations of furniture, all kitchen supplies (National Restaurant Supply of El Paso), reduced rates from the building contractor (Rocky Mountain Construction Company), discounts on most building materials (Thunderbird Lumber and New Mexico Glass), fencing supplies (R & R Fence Company), paint (Given Brothers of El Paso) and many donations of time by interested persons.

The camp will have a capacity of 25 children between the ages of six and 14. There will be 12 sessions this summer, each lasting six days.

Mexico Multiple Mission from Guadalupe, Mexico will have two sessions. Counselors from that orphanage to attend the camp are Irene Logsdon and Marietta Wilhelm.

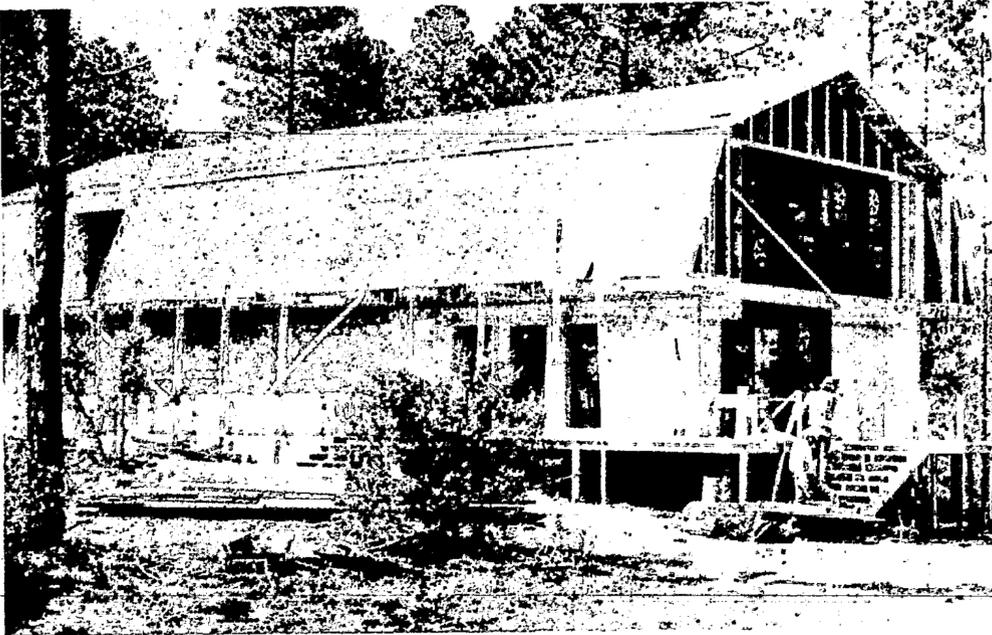

The El Paso Boys Club, accompanied by Jay Lofton, will have six sessions, the El Paso Girls Club will have two sessions, and Judy Zarate will be their adult supervisor.

The last two sessions will be taken by the El Paso State Center for Human Development, under the leadership of Donna Nelson.

Each group will bring their own staff, so children will have fewer adjustments to make, Segal said.

The camp will open for its first session the first week in June. Segal is still lining up people to help with clean-up and the actual running of the camp.

Donations of time or money can be made by calling Segal at 336-4497 in Ruidoso, or (915) 581-5372 in El Paso. Donations may be mailed to him at 918 Broadmoor, El Paso, Tx. 79912.

THE MAIN BUILDING at the "United World of the Universe Camp" is this structure, which will include boys' and girls' bedrooms and showers, the kitchen, pantry, dining area, living room and a deck all along the outside of the building.

INSIDE THE MAIN BUILDING is this skeletal view of the kitchen. A lot of work remains to be done before the "United World of the Universe Camp" opens June 1 near Ruidoso.

THE CARETAKER for the camp will live in a home to be constructed at the above site. The camp is scheduled to open the first week in June, but the foundation has barely been laid for this home.

FIRST MEET OF SEASON

Track teams show promise in Rose Invitational Relays

The Ruidoso High School boys' and girls' track teams did as well as their coaches expected Saturday in the Rose Invitational relay at Tularosa, but both coaches are hoping improvements are on the way.

The girls, coached by Sergio Castanon, placed eighth in the relays, Castanon said. Host Tularosa won the meet. Most of Ruidoso's points came from senior Kristi Perryman, who was running in her first high school track meet.

Perryman stunned the sun-baked crowd of 100 by winning the 80-yard low hurdles in a time of 13.5. Perryman also scored points in the long jump, placing fifth with a jump of 14'1 1/2".

Cyd Wright tallied a few points of her own to add to the Warrior total with a fifth place finish in the 110-yard low hurdles. Then Perryman and Wright teamed with Lisa Shaw and Karen Boone to round out the scoring for the day. Those four, competing in the 440 and 880-yard relay teams, earned sixth place finishes in both events.

Although Ruidoso didn't place any more girls in the meet, Castanon wasn't displeased with the performance. The meet was Ruidoso's first of the season. It also marked the first time this season Ruidoso, and Castanon, were able to evaluate themselves on a legitimate track. Castanon hopes the performances will encourage his squad.

"Now that they know what to do, they'll work harder," he said.

Boys' coach Darrell Stierwalt was in the same predicament as Castanon. His team hadn't had a chance to prepare on an official track all season. To make matters even worse, Ruidoso was competing against teams that had already been in a number of track meets.

That didn't make the Warriors fall over dead, however. Stierwalt said out of the 16 teams competing, Ruidoso finished in the middle of the pack. Artesia's Bulldogs won the meet.

Mark Dutton, as Stierwalt expected, paced the Warriors. He finished third in the long jump with a jump of 19'2". The highlight for Dutton came in the high jump. He won with a leap of 5'8".

Dutton, a senior, also had a hand in Ruidoso's sixth place finish in the 440 yard relay. He teamed with Jeff Elliott, John Cabot and Kannon Mayberry for the sixth place time of 48 seconds.

Adding to Ruidoso's place in the final meet standings was Joe Almager, who ran a 4:51 mile. His "best time ever", as Stierwalt called it, earned Almager a third place finish.

Ruidoso also placed a pair, Gene Reeves and Cody Browning, in the pole vault. Both vaulted 9'6", which was good for fifth place.

Ruidoso didn't place anyone in the field events, which came as no surprise to Stierwalt. One reason, he said, was the absence of Truman Bob. Another was youth.

"They're real young," he said. We have a lot of freshmen and sophomores."

Fishing is ranked third as participation sport

Those who say Americans are a nation of watchers, not doers, when it comes to sports should take a look at statistics on fishing, says the Department of Game and Fish.

A new fishing season opens April 1 in New Mexico, and before the license year is out, more than 225,000 New Mexicans and visitors will have picked up pole and line. Nationally, close to 65 million people will go fishing — only swimming and bicycling rank ahead of fishing as participant sports.

"This being a high-water year, we're predicting a good fishing season," said Public Affairs Division Chief Jesse Williams, Department of Game and Fish. "Although there are going to be times when the streams are too muddy to fish, most of the time they will simply be a little high and murky. They may not be as pretty as a clear-water stream, but they'll actually make fishing easier because trout, especially, won't be able to see the anglers as easily."

He said bass and other warm-water fishermen should pursue their quarry into the brush and trees at Lake's edge as the water rises this spring and summer. "Knowledgeable bass, crappie and bluegill fishermen will use small boats, or even bellyboats (inner tubes fitted with a sling in which the angler sits) to move back into the brush to locate these fish," he said. "If the reservoirs are drawn down, the fish will move ahead of the water's edge into deeper shelter."

Live baits and dark-colored bass lures are favored in darker water, he said, and natural baits such as worms, brass spinners, and the larger wet flies, streamers and nymphs are favored as trout lures.

RUIDOSO'S KRISTI PERRYMAN (far right) leaps over the hurdles at the same time as her nearest opponent. Perryman gained on her over the last three hurdles, however, to win the 80-yard low hurdles in her first meet ever in high school. Perryman's time was 13.5 seconds.

Peck beats Mazaroff for racquetball title

Number one seed Dave Peck defeated Tim Mazaroff 19-21, 21-3, 11-3 Sunday in the finals of the First Annual Billy the Kid Racquetball Shootout at the Sierra Swim and Racquet Club.

Peck, the number 21 ranked player in the United States, also downed Mazaroff last week in the finals of the New Mexico State Championships. For his victory Sunday, Peck pocketed $300. Mazaroff collected $150 for his efforts.

The two semifinalists, Morgan Seyes and Mark Feemster, received $75. In getting to the finals, Peck and Mazaroff had to survive a round-robin affair with 14 other professionals from New Mexico, Arizona, Texas and Utah.

Peck ousted Feemster in the semifinals in straight sets, 21-7 and 21-3. Mazaroff beat Seyes in three sets, 21-16, 10-21, 11-4. The highlight of the finals, tournament director David Bryant said, was the opening set of the match, in which Mazaroff edged Peck 21-19 in "a great match".

Kokanee salmon stocked at Heron

Kokanee salmon, a deep-water, Pacific species, have been stocked for the first time at Heron Lake, according to the Department of Game and Fish.

Dick McCleskey, assistant chief of the department's Fisheries Division, said 149,240 kokanee fry were planted by the department in February. Kokanee have previously been stocked at El Vado and Navajo lakes, and the eggs for the Heron stock were taken from Navajo.

"Kokanee have provided excellent fishery in both those lakes, and the size of Heron should also make kokanee fishing excellent," McCleskey said. The species, a hardy, open-water fish, thrives in deep, cold water and grows fairly rapidly, maturing to a keepable size between two and three years, the officer said.

Experience at Navajo Lake indicates the kokanee are most catchable by trolling at about 60 feet during the summer months, according to McCleskey.

He said 74,000 coho fry, another Pacific salmon, and 153,200 cutthroat trout fry were also planted at Heron during February. In addition, 600,000 rainbow trout are scheduled to be planted at Heron in the spring by the United States Fish and Wildlife Service.

The Dreamer
 BY DANNIE STORM

On The First Day Of Spring
 "With the Calm patience Of the woods, I wait For Leaf and Blossom When God gives us Spring."

These words from the poem, "A Day" by John Greenleaf Whittier — one of our most beloved American poets — these words were brought to mind in the morning of this first day of Spring, Wednesday, March twenty-one.

The minute you stepped outside you knew that Spring is here. As you looked up and down the vale, your heart swelled with joy at the sight of Spring's magic everywhere. There was a calm gratefulness in the mellow air, so fragrant with apricot blooms, new grass, and new leaf buds. Grey and white clouds hovered overhead in the misty blue sky, and there was a freshness in the world from a very light rain which had fallen in the night. The little apricot tree near the house was alive with bees happily at work among the fragrant blossoms.

Something had given new life to the blooms. Was it the moist air? Or did special strength come up from the roots on this first day of Spring? All around the little tree of blooms you could inhale a fragrance so strong that it was like a taste of the ripe, golden fruit itself.

You never saw bees in such great excitement and delight, they seemed beside themselves in happiness amongst their beloved blooms. Surely there must have been some wonderful life-giving nourishment in the flowers this special morning. A happy chorus of humming sounded all through the flowering tree as hundreds of tiny happy bee voices harmonized in their joy.

The misty clouds dropped down touching the green mountains. They began to move gently casting the hills and vales of the mountain land into moving patterns of sunshine and shadow.

There came a sound of rushing in the cedar tree and then the tree of blooms seemed as if it wanted to bounce up from the ground, as a blast of the west wind blew a cloud of golden bees from the blossoms. Harder now blew the western blast, but the bees would not give their spring time celebration. Calling upon their mighty strength, they battled against the wind, flying back to the blossoms, working till blown away again and fighting their way back again through the wintry blast from the snowy mountain that had rushed suddenly upon them. Here was a sight you see rarely in a lifetime. Mostly the bees will go to the shelter and wait till the wind slows down. However, this has been a long winter with few warm days for the bees to add to their winter supply of food. And the good moisture of the winter has put some specially powerful nourishment into the apricot blossoms. So the bees stayed at their work, which is also their great pride and joy.

This morning there were only a few blooms on the large apricot tree, but now you can see blooms all throughout the tree, blown out by the wind — the first strong west wind of the year, by the way. The spring wind began right on time.

Snow Flake's Calf
 Among the Snow Flakes.
 I have a favorite cow I call "Snowflake" because of a white mottled patch on her forehead which resembles a snowflake, and also because she was born during a March snow storm, back in 1971. It was so dry during the summer of that year that the oak brush did not even leaf out. The cows had to travel a long way into the mountains after food, and it was hard going with no oak brush to come to the rescue — as it always had (and always has) in dry years.

Little Snow Flake was a natural born food finder. She would lead the cows to special spots where the grass was good, and where some hardy brush had put out leaves.

Little Snow Flake learned to eat hay very early, and began to go farther and farther into the mountains after grazing and browse. Sometimes her mother would come in and she would stay back, and I worried many times. Yet here she would always show up after a day or two, all by herself, and join the herd at the river. The creek got lower and lower, and in some places higher up it went dry. A cloud of discouragement fell upon the land, but Snow Flake was ever cheerful, and very gentle. Her velvet brown eyes seemed to say, "Have patience and faith." I will always remember, forever and a day, the sight of that little snowflake face against the shining jet black color of the calf stepping down the mountain through the bare oak brush that dry summer.

Finally the rains came, and the world took on new life, and Snow Flake grew into the very picture of a sturdy mountain cow. She leaves her mark on all her calves, all black with a snowflake face.

On the nineteenth I was driving by the place and looking over at the knoll late in the evening, and saw something black under a cedar on the knoll next to the hill. At a distance it is always hard for me to tell the difference between a black cow and a dark shadow, especially late in the evening — and with a sprinkle of snow falling.

After looking for a long time, I said to myself, "It is just a shadow."

Just then a tiny black creature jumped from under the cedar and went running and jumping a little ways, a new born calf feeling frisky in the snow and trying out its legs.

"This another little Snow Flake junior," I said to myself, and hurry on around the old road to see the little new calf child.

Just in the gloaming I arrived at the spot, but cow and calf were gone. Then down near the river and just next to a steep hillside, I saw Snow Flake, and beside her a little snowflake face looked at me. The calf had seen me first. They always see you before the grown cows, on account of their very sharp little senses of smell and hearing, and their keen sight. There is a great alertness born in a little calf.

I threw out some hay and here came Snow Flake, proud of her child, and the little Snow Flake Junior dancing and skipping along by her mother's side. Ever so tame it walked right up to me looking me in the eye with its velvet eyes with a touch of purple color. It had white eye lashes, and a pink spot on its black nose, a little heifer a day old. After looking me over it began drinking milk while her mother ate the hay. Here before one of the most wonderful sights in the world, I knelt and said a prayer of thanks to God, there in the gathering twilight with the soft song of the river drifting up on the evening breeze.

I will tell you more about Snow Flake Junior, next time or so. Let us rejoice with the miracle of Spring and thank God.

OPINION PAGE

Yours and Ours

Inside The Capitol

by Fred McCaffrey

SANTA FE — Some things to write in your hat.

No. 1: Our state is not permitted to engage in deficit financing. In other words, no session of our Legislature may appropriate for next year more than is estimated to be our revenue for that period.

But there is nothing to prevent legislating expenditures which are less than the expected revenue and allowing the overage to pile up as a surplus.

When such surpluses are accrued — sometimes because expected revenue is deliberately underestimated (see below) — there is nothing which says those surpluses must be distributed equally to all taxpayers.

Legislators themselves get to pick and choose who gets the benefits.

To pick an example which you know is not entirely at random, such surplus money could go to highly localized projects, such as the Space Hall of Fame at Alamogordo or, conceivably — though this one never quite got off the ground — to a Military Museum in Santa Fe.

Those elected officials who bring back to their own community large chunks of this available surplus money are normally well-loved at home — and re-elected.

No. 2: "Estimate" is a word which has only as much validity as the person using it.

Governor King's last press conference before the Legislature ended was full of questions about estimated revenue.

Every month Santa Fe reporters get a copy of the letter accompanying the report that correlates actual tax receipts to what had been predicted. They are thoroughly acquainted with and somewhat suspicious of a passage which occurs almost every month. It says, in paraphrase, "Because of an unexpected rise in receipts from the (fill in your own choice) tax, actual revenues received exceeded estimates by (fill in your own number) per cent."

"Exceeded" is always the operative word.

Almost never do revenues run below what we have been told to expect. Almost always they are above.

That might lead you to suspect, if you are of a cynical cast of mind, that projections are deliberately kept low so collections will look good.

Also, maybe so state surpluses can build up. (See above.)

No. 3: When being overjoyed because a

Legislature has shared some of such surplus with you, keep cool. The only figure which matters is net return to you.

There was much fanfare, including full TV coverage, when Governor King signed the bill which gives us all back $40 in lieu of cancelling the gross receipts tax on food. We're willing to bet his signing of the bill which increases tax on gas at the pump will be very private. Reason: It will take back from us about $30 million of the $51 million the $40 rebate gave us. Net to us, therefore, is not the $51 million everyone trumpeted about, but considerably less.

Moral: Legislators aren't dumb, and neither are Governors, though taxpaying citizens sometimes are.

Letters to the Editor

Dear editor:

As the person responsible for the operation of your wastewater treatment plant and sewage collection system for the last twenty years I feel I know the need for a new and larger wastewater treatment plant and interceptor line better than most anyone. We have simply outgrown our present facilities, not to mention the fact that we have worn our present treatment works out over the last twenty years, as it runs twenty four hours a day, seven days a week.

The need for these new facilities was recognized back in 1974, and the village applied for a grant from the state and federal governments at that time. Normally within three years after a grant has been applied for and it is granted, you would have your new works in operation. We needed it three years ago, and we need it much, much worse now. Several thousands of dollars has had to be spent the last few years to keep our present plant in operation, and I hate to see anymore money invested there to keep it operating when it's too small and can't do the job meeting EPA effluent standards.

I urge all property owners to vote for the bond issue coming up for the village's share of the cost of this project. I was not asked to solicit your vote in behalf of the village, but I feel it is my duty to make you aware of the facts. I have no more at stake than you do, I am a property owner too.

editorial

Based upon knowledge of planned developments in Ruidoso, bolstered by countless rumors of developments as yet unveiled, credence must be given to the probability that Ruidoso will change more in the next ten years than it has in the past forty.

The die, it seems, is cast. Ruidoso is destined to become the foremost resort area in The Land of Enchantment.

We can like this, and continue to live here.

We can dislike this, and move elsewhere.

Minor and major inconveniences are inevitable and must be viewed as a part of our growing pains, which might smart some before we're through.

In addition to new commercial and residential developments, improvements materializing in the next few years include sewer service to satisfy our needs for some time, sufficient water storage and transmission lines to guarantee a constant water supply as we grow, paving and sewer districts to upgrade certain areas of the village, street maintenance to keep all roads passable the year around, improved parks and playgrounds — the list of benefits to accrue includes these and, perhaps, others that will all combine to make Ruidoso a place we can be proud of, a place we can be proud to live in.

So, all things considered, what's a few inconveniences. — CD

LEGISLATIVE COMMENT

When you scan the thousands and thousands of words written about and by this session of the state Legislature, questions have to be raised.

First of all, think of all the news stories which started out, "A bill which would..." "Would" is the key word because that implies a lot of "ifs."

And when it actually comes down to what the Legislature did, a lot of words turned out to have been wasted.

"A bill which would repeal the pre-primary nominating conventions..."

"A bill which would allow New Mexicans to vote on the proposed WIPP project..."

All those words and the hundreds which followed the first sentence really amount to nothing, because nothing ever came of those proposals.

I suppose some good things passed and some bad proposals failed, but by the same token, some good proposals failed and some bad ones passed. That's the nature of the beast.

One can't help but ponder the difference if Republican Joe (Who?) Skeen had won last November's election over Bruce King. Right-to-work would be a reality in New Mexico, for one thing. Larry Goodell's proposal to do away with pre-primary conventions probably would have been signed into law instead of vetoed.

It would have been a new story. (Notice how "would" crops up again?)

Oh yes, some tempers occasionally flared, and in the heat of a moment or two, Roswell and Portales were accused of racial discrimination. Not that the accusers were very far off base in reality, but their comments were made more out of passion than out of research and facts.

(Regardless, don't tell me there is no racism in Roswell or Portales or Carlsbad or Artesia or Albuquerque or Santa Fe or Espanola or Raton or Farmington or any other New Mexico city, for that matter.)

And this session of the Legislature once again brought to light the division between the North and the South, the Blue and the Gray. Rio Arriba County would get along with Lea County about as well as traditional land grant farmers would get along with golf course developers.

Not that differences can't be settled in a reasonable, civilized manner, because they can and are. But the difference in philosophies is often striking.

Despite criticism and nasty comments about the job of a legislator, close to 100 percent of them approach the job with complete sincerity and a desire to improve the lot of the state.

They have to be congratulated for the effort. — Scott Eaton, The Artesia Daily Press.

DRIVERS FACE NEW LAW

The 1979 state legislature passed, without fanfare, House Bill 319 requiring motorists to surrender their driver's licenses to a state patrolman every time one of these worthy members of law enforcement tickets them.

Such legislation was precipitated by a desire of the state Court Administrator's Office to bring to a screeching halt the practice of many motorists not to pay traffic fines... and some boy in that office put pencil to paper... or punched a bunch of calculator keys... to determine that non-paying of fines drivers aborted the state about $350,000 last year... ergo, someone took a dim view of losing all that loot... and decided stern measures were called for... like putting the arm on errant drivers to give up their driver's licenses... until they'd had their day in court.

And an admirable thought this was... though there might be a pitfall or three yet to surface, as the new law is enforced.

A hypothetical situation: A state patrolman stops a car that's traveling 75 miles per hour... which is a whole bunch a kilometers. "Sir," the patrolman says respectfully, "state law requires you to relinquish your driver's license to me for safekeeping until such time as you appear in court and, if the judge so decrees, pay your fine."... The driver says, "Officer, I'm sorry... but my driver's license is at home in my dresser drawer, so's I won't lose it."

Instant stalemate.

The interesting question is: should the driver not hand over his driver's license, as respectfully requested, does the new law give the state patrolman the authority to subject the errant driver to a search of his person, or vehicle, to seize the driver's license?

This could lead to such vehement expressions on the part of the driver as, "Goodness gracious, isn't this exasperating?"... which might or might not be construed as assault upon a state patrolman.

Now beating the state out of $350,000 isn't a joke... though some drivers might consider it quite sporting... and latching onto a driver's license by a state patrolman might bring more violators to court... but what's going to happen should this hypothetical for instance actually come to pass?

Should be mighty interesting... anyone game for a test case?

OUR MISLEADING IRS

The Internal Revenue Service... representatives of same are constantly reminding us... is an arm of government that exists to serve the taxpayer... as well as issuing "or else" statements, if'n said taxpayer doesn't cough up his just dues... or what the IRS says is justly due.

And, the IRS literally... according to the IRS... bends over backwards to assist the taxpayer... in paying what the IRS considers is a fair portion of their income as taxes... furthermore... IRS offers... in addition to lots of free advice... which might turn out to be worth exactly what it costs... some 90 publications designed to clarify the confusing income tax forms... all to further aid the IRS in determining that the taxpayers pays every nickel in income taxes the IRS figures is owed... 'cause it's doubtful if any of that free advice, or 90 pamphlets, advises the taxpayer of legal and lawful means to save a few bucks.

Now there's one huge sticker in all this free advice... and in information in those pamphlets... if'n the taxpayer takes all literally... and does conform to the advice/pamphlets... and subsequently IRS says something's amiss... says something like you're defrauding the government... or you ain't paid what you owe us... man, you've had it.

Seems irked taxpayers have appeared before judges... federal judges, that is... sitting in federal court on a federal court bench... and said taxpayer proved... beyond a shadow of a doubt... even better... that there was full compliance with IRS instructions and assistance... and that it was due to IRS help that the tax returns were as they were... so what? happen... the judge has held the IRS blameless... and put the blame on the poor taxpayer... who was forced to pay for the IRS's mistakes.

Seems like Our Jimmy should try and bring some peace at home.

BRIEF BIT: Should some folks actually receive everything they think they have coming... what would you bet that some of them would start complaining that they never had it so good... CD

SALUTE TO CHAMBER MEMBERS

This is a regular feature in the Monday edition of this newspaper to introduce the members of the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce to area residents. The Ruidoso News makes no charge for this public service to members of the Chamber. To arrange this special coverage of your business, telephone 257-4001 and ask for "editorial" and an appointment will be arranged at your convenience.

NUNLEY'S HOSPITAL PHARMACY is owned and operated by L. Ray Nunley, above and his wife, Mary Lee Nunley. They have been members of the Ruidoso-Hondo Valley Chamber of Commerce since they opened the business 12 years ago this month. In addition to a full line of prescription drugs, the store carries Hallmark Cards, Frances Denny cosmetics, wheelchairs, crutches and sundries. The pharmacy is known for its friendly, reliable service. Hours are 8:30 a.m. to 6 p.m., Monday through Saturday, and the pharmacy is conveniently located across the street from the Ruidoso-Hondo Valley Hospital.

GIBSONS, located at the Y in Ruidoso, is home owned and operated by LeVerne Cole, above, who employs 30 to 40 people. A general merchandise discount operation, the store has a small grocery department, a hardware department including sporting goods and automotive supplies, a softgoods department encompassing clothing and domestics and an extensive line of health and beauty aids. Mrs. Cole says, "We will expand as the town grows," and a garden center is already being planned. Shopping is made easier by the presence of a bank on the lot. Winter hours are 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., Monday through Saturday and 1 to 6 p.m., on Sunday. Beginning the second Sunday in April, the store will increase the Sunday hours to 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. The store opened in 1972, and the owner has been a member of the Chamber of Commerce since that time.

CONFIDENTIAL REPORT: "I never stopped loving Sonny. I just stopped being his wife." So says Cher whenever the subject of her ex-husband comes up. Long after their 1975 divorce, Sonny and Cher continued to have both a professional and a personal union. Even in Hollywood's anything-goes atmosphere, there were people who raised eyebrows over the continuing affection lanky, somber Sonny, and exotic, Cher shared. "He's my best friend," Cher told me, and Sonny's exalted status reigned unabated through her relationship with David Geffen, her marriage to Gregg Allman, and her new romance with 'Kiss' star Gene Simmons... Being one of 'Charlie's Angels' is dangerous, says Jaclyn Smith. The danger isn't physical. It's psychological—and that can be even more devastating. "Losing your sense of reality is the real hazard," she says. "Your hair is done, your make-up, your blouses are buttoned up, people are waiting on you hand and foot. I think it's important to come home and be a real person and dust and vacuum and clean the house. It's therapy. I love it. I think that when you get so self-involved, which you can, it's dangerous."

INSIDE THE TUBE: Robin Williams, star of 'Mork and Mindy,' says: "I don't know what I'm going to do or say until I do it." He claims he improvises one-third of his on-camera dialogue in his character of 'Mork.' He goes on: "There's no pressure when I'm improvising because I'm given the freedom to create." It seems the show's writers set the situations and then allow Williams to improvise the suggested dialogue... Suzanne Somers of 'Three's Company' is very interested in a CBS movie-for-TV called 'The Jayne Mansfield Story.'... Farrah Fawcett-Majors may be back on the small screen soon and her co-star would be none other than hubby Lee Majors. Insiders say the dynamic duo are considering a series after Farrah's next two movies are in the can... The producers of 'Happy Days' are getting nervous again as Lynda Goodfriend, who plays Ron Howard's girlfriend, starts thinking about this year's vacation. Last year she went to Nepal to climb a 19,000-foot peak. This year she's thinking of something more challenging... 'Vegas' star Tony Curtis luckily escaped from fire on an Israeli movie set. What began as a tiny fire suddenly exploded in the dry desert heat, trapping Tony in a small wooden shack. Quick thinking saved him, as he pushed his way through a 'break-away' wall.

ON THE TV SCENE: Cindy Williams says she's feeling the effects of all work and no play. "I've had a chance to do some career stretching lately," she explains. "And I'm grateful for that. But I wish I had more energy. I get so exhausted I try to lie down the minute work is over." Considering that Cindy often puts in fourteen or fifteen hour days on her series set, and that she's also squeezed in starring stints this year in NBC's 'Suddenly, Love' and Universal's 'Purple Haze,' sequel to 'American Graffiti,' it's easy to understand why she's feeling tuckered out... Why is Pam 'Mindy' Dawber smiling? Because she has fallen in love with a guy who's as far-out as her TV-man 'Mork.' "David is just as crazy as Robin Williams," marveled the 27-year-old Pam. "David is 28-year-old James David Hinton, a Texas millionaire. They met when he spent a week filming an episode of 'Mork and Mindy.' "We've been together ever since." Pam gushed... Thor Heyerdahl, famed for his voyage across the Pacific on the balsa raft Kon-Tiki and transatlantic voyage on the RA Expeditions, has agreed to visit the U.S. in March to promote the upcoming National Geographic special, 'The Tigris Expedition' airing April 1 on PBS. The special, made possible by a grant from Gulf Oil, vividly portrays Heyerdahl's adventurous and picturesque voyage.

Television Schedule for the week of March 26 through April 1.

WKRP IN CINCINNATI

WKRP's groovy rock 'n' roll music format and young radio audience notwithstanding, undertaking tycoon Randy Ferryman is determined to advertise his funeral packages on the station, on 'WKRP in Cincinnati,' Monday, March 26 on CBS-TV.

Realizing that the lucrative Ferryman account can pull WKRP up into the black, the whole staff joins to create a commercial campaign that will have their youthful audience clamoring for the Ferryman brand of funeral arrangements. Only Andy Travis (Gary Sandy, pictured) seems to have any doubts about the big project.

The cast includes: Gordon Jump as Arthur Carlson, Loni Anderson as Jennifer Marlowe, Richard Sandes as Les Nessman, Tim Reid as Venus Flytrap, Frank Bonner as Herb Tarlek, Jan Smithers as Bailey Quarters, Howard Hesseman as Johnny Fever and Fred Stuthman as Ferryman.

Epic recording artist Johnny Rodriguez headlined the recent Fourth Annual 'Johnny Rodriguez Life Enrichment Center' Benefit Concert in Corpus Christi, Texas, at the Memorial Coliseum.

Johnny Rodriguez

Among the numerous celebrities who performed at the marathon event were: country music entertainers Wayne Jennings, Willie Nelson, Janie Fricke, Tom T. Hall, The Hagers and Ralph Emery; professional football greats Earl Campbell and Walt Garrison; and rodeo star Larry Mahon.

A native of south Texas, Rodriguez was nominated by the Country Music Association and the Academy of Country Music for Male Vocalist of the Year. He has released 12 albums and 21 singles, including 11 consecutive No. 1 hits.

The Johnny Rodriguez Life Enrichment Center, a private non-profit organization, is currently seeking funds to construct a new facility in Corpus Christi. Once completed, the center will provide a wide variety of recreational, educational, growth potential and life-enrichment experiences for the multi-handicapped children and adults in the south Texas area.

Royce and Jeannie

Kendall, Country Music's father-daughter duo, were recently honored at a 'Coming Home' celebration in St. Louis, Missouri.

The Ovation Recording artists were residents of Bridgeton, a St. Louis suburb, before they embarked on a recording career in Nashville. The duo won the Country Music Association's 'Single of the Year' and Grammy Awards for their smash hit 'Heaven's Just a Sin Away'.

Royce worked as a barber in St. Louis and Jeannie in the hat and wig department of Famous-Barr before they went to Nashville to cut their first Top 20 record — 'Leaving on a Jet Plane.' Jeannie's employer, not entirely understanding of the time she took off, forced her to make a decision about her job. It was at this point Royce and Jeannie decided to devote their full energies to the entertainment business.

The Kendalls

Since that time, The Kendalls have made appearances on a number of national and syndicated television shows. They've also released a consistent string of No. 1 records: 'Heaven's Just a Sin Away,' 'It Don't Feel Like Sinner to Me,' 'Pittsburgh Stealers' and 'Sweet Desire' and have a Top 10 entry with their current single 'I Had a Lovely Time'.

THE DUKES OF HAZZARD

Boss Hogg accuses Bo (John Schneider, pictured) of stealing his money, while the real thief sweet-talks Daisy into putting him up at the Duke's home, on 'The Dukes' of Hazzard,' Friday, March 30 on CBS-TV.

After robbing Boss Hogg, the thief commandeers the boys' 'General Lee' for his getaway car, confirming Boss' suspicions that the Dukes were behind the robbery. Daisy befriends the thief and has her own way of dealing with him, which backfires on Boss Hogg.

Tom Wopat stars as Luke, John Schneider as Bo Duke, Denver Pyle as Uncle Jesse, James Best as Rosco and Sorrell Booke as Boss Hogg.

MORNING

4:00 LIFE IN THE SPIRIT

HUSTLE

Burt Reynolds (pictured) and Catherine Deneuve star as mismatched lovers, a tough cop and a glamorous call girl, whose relationship reaches a crisis during the investigation of the suspicious death of a troubled young woman, in 'Hustle,' on 'The CBS Saturday Night Movies,' March 31.

The film also stars Ben Johnson, Paul Winfield, Eileen Brennan, Eddie Albert and Ernest Borgnine. Catherine Bach and Jack Carter co-star.

Lt. Phil Gaines (Reynolds) and Nicole Britton (Miss Deneuve) are in love but marriage seems out of the question. Gaines, who had an unhappy former marriage, doubts that Nicole could live on a policeman's salary.

The lovers are awakened one morning when the body of a young woman, dead from an overdose of barbiturates, is found on the beach. Gaines officially concludes that the death is a suicide, despite evidence that the girl had been molested.
