

Ski at Ruidoso until April 15

Sierra Blanca Ski Resort continues to be open daily until Easter Sunday, April 15 — reports to the contrary notwithstanding.

There's nothing but fiction in the rumor that skiing at Ruidoso is closed.

Nothing could be farther from the truth.

The slopes at Sierra Blanca Ski Resort are open daily.

Daily ski conditions are being broadcast.

There's skiing every day on Sierra Blanca.

Skiing will continue until Easter Sunday.

Don't believe for one minute you can't come to Ruidoso to ski — because the slopes are open, all lifts are running — and, if you like to ski in your shirtsleeves, or any other summer attire, this is the time of the year to come to Ruidoso to ski Sierra Blanca.

Come to Ruidoso to ski in the beautiful spring sunshine — there's more than seven feet of snow on the slopes at midday. And nothing to prevent you from going to the top, to ski your way down.

Ruidoso man killed Sunday

The Ruidoso Downs Police Department is investigating the death of Armondo J. Cardenas, 18, of Ruidoso, in an incident allegedly occurring in a Ruidoso Downs residence about 3 a.m., Sunday.

Investigating officer Ralph Romero advised The News Monday morning that "no information on the case will be released" until after a meeting set today at 11 a.m., to be attended by a representative of the District Attorney's office.

Arrangements for Mr. Cardenas will be by Clarke's Chapel of Roses Mortuary.

Two stabbings

Andy Lopez of Ruidoso Downs was arrested and charged with aggravated battery in a stabbing which occurred Friday night in midtown Ruidoso.

Joe Castillo, address unknown, was allegedly stabbed in the leg during a fight just before midnight Friday. Castillo was taken to Ruidoso-Hondo Valley Hospital for treatment.

In another incident, The News was advised Monday morning that Miguel Montelanto was hospitalized, in an alleged stabbing, and was in the intensive care unit. No other information was available.

Baird facing new charges

Del Rae Baird of Alto was arrested at the offices of Magistrate Judge S.M. Ortiz March 29 and charged with possession of stolen property over $2,500.

The charges were filed after a search of her Gavilan Canyon home March 22. Sheriff's officers were searching the home in connection with an alleged theft of over $13,000 worth of jewelry from a home in Innsbrook village in November 1978.

Baird posted the bond of $5,000 set by Ortiz.

C-C directors nix awards

In a work meeting Thursday evening, the Chamber of Commerce board of directors decided to give no awards at the annual meeting in May.

At a previous meeting of the Awards Committee held March 27, it was decided to give only three awards at this year's banquet, Businessperson of the Year, Promotion of Ruidoso and Community Service. However, at Thursday's meeting, the directors felt that not enough time had elapsed since awards were presented last October.

Since last year was the first year to give awards to outstanding Chamber members, and since the manner of choosing the winners had not been worked out to everyone's satisfaction since then, the directors decided no awards should be given until a later date.

"We have postponed and will review at a later date the whole awards concept," Ed Jungbluth, Chamber executive director, said.

The directors also changed the date for the annual meeting to May 14. It was previously set for May 1, at the Holiday Inn. However, because the Holiday Inn will open in late April, according to manager Bud Nickles, more time was needed to prepare for a banquet of that size, as at least 150 Chamber members are expected.

Jungbluth said he had to re-arrange for a guest speaker, who would still be Ken Scarborough, National Chamber of Commerce. The board suggested several other names of possible guest speakers if Scarborough cannot attend.

Directors reviewed the budget for fiscal year 1979-1980 and approved it for presentation to the new board of directors, who will take office May 1.

The final meeting of the present directors will coincide with the first meeting of the new board, beginning at 1 p.m., April 25, tentatively scheduled at the Texas Club.

Besides reviewing the budget with the new board, the present board will also review a calendar of events for the year and what is involved in sponsoring each event.

Area liquor establishments cited Friday

Agents of the Alcohol Beverage Control (ABC) Friday cited two area bars for violations of the Liquor Control Act.

Cited were: Rusty Anchor Bar, Capitan, selling to minors; and Sierra Swim and Racquet Club, Ruidoso, selling to non-members, allowing minors to loiter in the bar area and failure to have a current designated agent manager.

"Those cited," Jim Baca, ABC director, said to The News Monday morning, "will be summoned to appear before me the latter part of April for an informal hearing," on the citations.

Ski report

The Sierra Blanca Ski area reports an undisturbed snow depth of 92 inches midway on the mountain. No new snow has fallen over the past week. At report time, the weather was clear. Sierra Blanca is open daily.

Monday's low temperature was 12 degrees and Sunday's high was 54 degrees.

For skiing condition reports, call Sierra Blanca Ski Area, 257-9001.

ROVER'S ROAMING DAYS MAY SOON END

Doomsday looms for dog packs

BY GWYNETH JONES
Staff Writer/Photographer

The Ruidoso area animal control committee has escalated efforts to control the packs of wild dogs which roam the areas surrounding the two villages following a meeting Thursday with Larry Killgo of the Roswell district office of the Fish and Wildlife Department.

"There's only one way to approach this problem," Killgo said, "the tough way." Killgo advised the committee members, who were meeting with Ruidoso Downs mayor Norman Wheeler, Ruidoso trustee Frank Sayner, and other interested citizens, that policies of his department prohibited any of their personnel from becoming directly involved in trapping or extermination of dogs, except in the event of a declared emergency. Such a declaration would be made if a rabies became a threat to the area, he said.

He added however, that his department could act as an advisory body to provide information, guidance and possibly traps or other equipment, if they were requested.

Training sessions could also be conducted by Fish and Wildlife personnel, he said, to familiarize trappers with the equipment and instruct them on surveying areas inhabited by the animals.

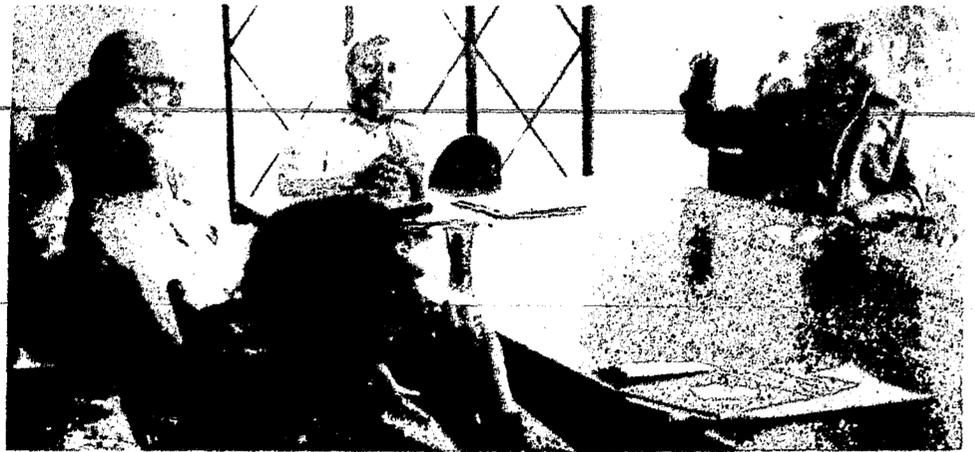

Killgo concurred with committee member Alison Walstad that although the animals are being referred to as "wild dogs," that many of the packs are augmented by family pets which are turned out at night to roam the country side.

He said that in his experience he had found that "60 percent of the time," the dog that killed the most stock during the night was "lying on someone's porch during the day."

Sayner said he thought sufficient funds could be appropriated to hire a private trapper or trappers to begin the work. He and Ed Jungbluth, executive secretary of the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce and a committee member, agreed that because of the advent of the racing season immediate action was imperative.

"We're ready to get started," Sayner said. Committee members will be contacting trappers who might be interested in doing the work, two to three month contractual.

"We're ready to get started," Sayner said. Committee members will be contacting trappers who might be interested in doing the work, possibly on a two to three month contractual basis. The committee stressed that they wanted to avoid a "vigilante" approach to the trapping and would dispose of the animals in a humane fashion.

The various interested parties plan to meet with Killgo and other Fish and Wildlife employees (who would be responsible for the training) at noon Thursday at the Chamber of Commerce office.

The second half of the meeting was devoted to a review of the Ruidoso animal ordinance. Committee members had drawn up suggestions and recommendations for changes they felt were needed in the regulation.

Sayner reported that a change allowing the animal control officer to cite violators directly could be easily accomplished. Al Junge of Ruidoso volunteered to draft a new ordinance, incorporating all the changes desired by the committee, and led a discussion of the controversial parts of the law.

The establishment of a pick-up or impoundment fee was one change suggested.

Walstad said the humane association recommendation on this issue was a fee of $10 plus a boarding charge of two dollars per day.

Fines for violation of the ordinance were also discussed as a separate issue. Those present agreed the amount of fines should be specified in the ordinance, but no final figure was set.

Notification of owners of impounded animals was another subject of discussion. Jungbluth suggested that preprinted postcards could be mailed to owners of animals who could be identified. The posting of written notice of impoundment was also suggested.

At length, it was generally agreed that such measures were unnecessary, since "every effort is already being made" to notify owners, committee member Lynn Willard, D.V.M., said. Those efforts include the "Pet Patrol" program carried daily at 9:30 a.m., on KRRR radio, featuring animal control officer Mike Hernandez Jr.

The group agreed to have Ruidoso village attorney Ron Harris review that section of the ordinance, to be sure the notification system was in compliance with state laws.

Issuance of and fees for the city license were also examined. Committee member Frank Pope suggested that licenses be issued at the same time vaccination tags were issued, as was the case in the past. He said some remuneration should be given the veterinarians to cover their clerical costs for the service to the city.

Willard said he would be willing to issue the licenses, but could not act as an "enforcer" for the city. Most agreed that the percentage of licensed dogs and cats would be increased by the change, since the obtaining of licenses would be made more convenient for the pet owner.

License fees recommended by the group were $2.50 for neutered or spayed dogs or cats and $5 for unneutered and unspayed animals.

Junge and others also recommended the establishment of a standing committee for animal control, whose function would be to make recommendations on care and control of animals, inspection of animal shelter facilities, and so on. Such a group would be sanctioned by the village governments and have specific powers and duties.

Publicity regarding all phases of animal control regulations and enforcement was said to be a key to the success of the program. The use of posters, flyers, and other communications means were also discussed.

Greenhouse meeting held

BY CHARLOTTE FELLERS
Staff Writer/Photographer

Nearly 70 people attended a presentation by Ellen Morris and Larry Sherwood of the New Mexico Solar Energy Association (NMSEA) at the Ruidoso Public Library Wednesday evening.

The workshop was sponsored by the Friends of the Library. Representatives of the New Mexico Solar Energy Association, based in Santa Fe, were invited to explain how to build solar energy greenhouses and window box heaters.

A film of a group of people enjoying a "greenhouse raising" similar to "barn raisings" was shown, and gave a general description of how to construct a greenhouse and what materials are needed.

Following the film, questions were fielded by the two NMSEA associates and a series of slides was presented to further illustrate the blueprints for different types of greenhouses and problems with various types.

Morris said materials to build a greenhouse can be purchased from a distributor in Santa Fe who specializes in greenhouse building supplies. She said that it costs approximately $2.50 per square foot to build a greenhouse, "if you do all the work yourself." The NMSEA office is equipped to help draw up plans and select materials and a suitable building site for a solar greenhouse.

The organization has a greenhouse at their Santa Fe office and Morris said, "We learned a few things from our mistakes when we built ours." One was that vents can be too small sometimes but never too large. She said the vents in the Santa Fe office were too small.

Other services provided by the NMSEA include:

- Reviewing greenhouse plans, visiting greenhouse sites and helping with community development programs;
- Developing outreach programs for rural areas;
- Educating crew teachers and formulating handouts and other "how-to" books which can be purchased at the NMSEA office in Santa Fe;
- Publishing a regular bulletin for SEA members;
- Initiating workshops and helping people build greenhouses;

— Keeping the bookstore well-stocked and able to mail orders.

Morris said the NMSEA has affiliates in several rural areas around the state, including Alamogordo and Roswell and she felt with as much interest as there was at the meeting, an affiliate could probably be successful in Ruidoso.

Local people interested in forming an affiliate organization are Bill Smith, a contractor, who can be reached at 257-2840 in the evening, and Kathy Moore who can be reached at 257-4335 during the day.

Morris said affiliates are groups of interested people who meet regularly and discuss problems, new ideas and successful ideas related to greenhouses.

The group also discussed setting up a workshop in the Lincoln County area because there are several people interested in building greenhouses here. Morris said to contact her office and with adequate interest, an attempt will be made to set up a workshop.

The address for the NMSEA is P.O. Box 2004, Santa Fe New Mexico 87501. Their phone numbers are 963-1006 and 963-2661.

Home builders organize

Ruidoso and Ruidoso Downs contractors Saturday elected officers to head the Building Contractors Association (BCA) of Lincoln County, as the first step to reinstate the lapsed charter of the Lincoln County Chapter of the National Association of Home Builders.

John Von Rosenberg was named president of the BCA with Rex Skellett as vice president and George McGill as secretary-treasurer.

Named to the membership committee by Von Rosenberg were Tracy Burton, Barry Rusler, John Howden and Martin Rose.

Officers attending Saturday's organizational meeting from the Building

Contractors' Association of New Mexico included state president Jerald McGehee of Clovis, executive vice president Jack Millarch Jr., of Albuquerque, national representative Harper Simmons of Albuquerque and Gene Corley, national director and past president of the state organization, Alamogordo.

Representatives of the state BCA told the local contractors that, as a viable organization, the group would be able to better work with local and county officials to solve building industry problems.

"As an organization," McGehee said, "you can meet with your village and county boards much easier than as individuals, because you will be able to show them you have a strong organization, with guidelines members must follow. Through group action, it'll be much easier to solve your building problems and to work with these officials in developing ordinances on zoning and building regulations."

The group set May 3, in an evening meeting at Innsbrook Village recreational center, to reinstate the BCA charter and accept memberships.

"We will launch our membership drive immediately," Von Rosenberg said, "and in addition to licensed contractors, will be contacting the businesses directly concerned with the building industry as associate members. Once we're fully organized, both the contractors and the buying public will benefit as the quality of building will be upgraded."

president and George McGill, secretary-treasurer; back row, Tracy Burton, Barry Rusler, John Howden and Martin Rose were named to the membership committee.

Boys' and Girls' Staters named

Delegates from Ruidoso High School who will attend Boys' State and Girls' State were selected from the junior class last week.

Attending Boys' State are Randy Wynn, son of Dr. and Mrs. Dale Wynn, Cody Browning, son of Jeanette Dude and Steve Romero, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Romero. Chosen as alternate was Richard Woodul, son of Dick and Marge Woodul. Attending from Mescalero is Godfrey Enjady, son of Iva Enjady.

Girls' State delegates are Alicia Pierelli, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Pirelli and Kim Sanchez, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Sanchez. Girls' State Alternate will be Lori Hickman, daughter of Mrs. Fred Hickman.

The youths were chosen by members of the junior class and the faculty. Boys' State and Girls' State is held annually at New Mexico Military Institute in Roswell. Girls' state will be June 3-8 and Boys' State will be June 10 through 18. The delegates will study the government process and each person in attendance will run for an elected office.

By the end of the week-long experience, everything from a street cleaner to United States President will have been elected. The program seeks to give high school juniors a clear understanding of how the political process works, and an understanding of the two-party system.

Boys' State delegates are being sponsored by the Ruidoso American Legion, the Ruidoso Evening Lions and the Ruidoso Rotary Club. The Mescalero American Legion is sponsoring Enjady and a youth from Tularosa, Jordan Valdez.

Girls' State delegates are being sponsored jointly by Beta Sigma Phi Sorority, the Ruidoso Woman's Club and Ruidoso High School.

GIRLS STATE DELEGATES from Ruidoso High School are Kim Sanchez, left, and Alicia Pirelli, center. Chosen as an alternate was Lori Heckman, right. All three are juniors at Ruidoso High.

Gymnasts set registration

Registration for membership in the Ruidoso Gymnastics Association (RGA) will be April 9 and 10, beginning at 7 p.m., at White Mountain Middle School (WMM-S).

Memberships are open for children between the ages of five and 17, to take formal gymnastic training.

Classes will be held three nights a week and one weekend day, in the WMM-S gym, with hours to be announced.

Classes, with students covered by insurance, will begin the week following Easter Vacation.

The per child fee will be $20 per month, covering insurance, equipment and instruction.

The RGA executive board includes Sandy Harrison, president; Jeanie Whitlam, vice president and Suelyn Speagle, secretary-treasurer, with Tim Wadley, Judy Frost, Rosanne Schillales, Beth Sayner, Sandra Dacy, Twila Lemons, Mike Bell and Rosser Schwarz as members.

"We appreciate the cooperation of the school board in making this program possible," Harrison said, "and the officers or board members will gladly answer any questions concerning the new gymnastic program."

New area BLM manager named

A really specialist and acting area manager in the Phoenix, Arizona district office of the United States Bureau of Land Management (BLM) has been hired as the new area manager of the BLM's Roswell Resource Area in the Roswell district office.

Phillip D. Moreland, 34, replaces Jim Morrison, who is now area manager in Bishop, California.

As the new Roswell area manager, Moreland is responsible for coordinating multiple-use management on 1.5 million acres of public land in Chaves, Roosevelt, De Baca, Lincoln, Quay, Guadalupe and Curry counties. He will also have responsibility for sub-surface mineral rights in Texas. He reports to Roswell district manager James "Smokey"

O'Connor.

A native of Colorado, Moreland graduated from Boulder High School and received his Bachelor of Science degree in natural resource management and wildlife biology from Colorado State University in 1967. He has worked for the Bureau of Land Management for nine years in Colorado, Alaska and Arizona, serving as a natural resource specialist, wildlife biologist, reality specialist and acting area manager. He is a 1972 graduate of the BLM's Lands and Minerals School in Phoenix.

No stranger to this area, Moreland worked for one year at the Bitter Lakes Wildlife Refuge northeast of Roswell after graduating from college. He now lives in Roswell with his wife, Karren.

AN UNUSUAL COLLECTION of items were sold by Ruidoso High School DECA students at a garage sale Saturday. Cold winds moved the garage sale from the First Christian Church parking lot to inside the church shortly after it began. Approximately $2,000 was realized from the sale and from an all-day radiothon held on KRRR. The money will be used to send 18 DECA students to national competition in Houston next month.

Afarl Travel Agency, Carl Franzer, president of the Ruidoso organization, and Eddie Franke, State Director of Sertoma. Borroughs received a plaque of appreciation after presenting the program at the Wednesday meeting.

Rotarians to attend district convention

The annual District 522 Rotary convention will be in Santa Fe April 5-7 with Ruidoso's delegates including Alden Deyo, Jack Reed, Archer Wilson, Ralph Bellon and the Reverend Frank Crown. Attending the session in the Sweeney Convention Center will be Rotarians from 56 clubs in New Mexico and West Texas. Program speakers include:

- Brian Knowles, Southport, Queensland, Australia, the personal representative of Rotary International president Clem Benouf of Australia, at the Governor's Ball, Saturday evening.
- Governor Bruce King, at the Friday Rotarians' luncheon.
- Alice King, wife of the governor, at the Rotary wives' luncheon Friday.

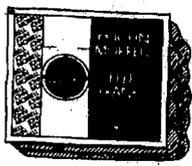

Chamber's Coffee Cart Wednesday

The Wednesday Coffee Cart, sponsored by the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce, will be in 4 Seasons Mall, at the Mental Health Office, from 9-10:30 a.m. "Chamber officers and directors attend these sessions," executive director Ed Jungbluth said, "and the public is invited to have a cup with them and discuss any topic they have on their minds."

Teen pageant contestants

Two local high school students have been selected to compete in the Miss New Mexico Teen USA pageant, to be held at the Albuquerque Inn-Convention Center May 19.

Karen George, daughter of Don and Ann George, and Leslie Carter, daughter of Mrs. Catherine S. Carter, will be competing against other teenagers from throughout the state for the title. The winner of the New Mexico pageant will compete in the national contest, which coincidentally, will also be held in Albuquerque in November.

In preparation for the competition, both girls are currently preparing scrapbooks of memorabilia. The scrapbooks are required by pageant officials and are intended to sketch out the entire lives of the girls.

They are also required to contribute at least 12 hours of time to charitable or civic work. George will be organizing the teen fund raising activities for the American Cancer Society, while Carter plans to work through the Episcopal church to help invalids or shut-ins.

The girls, who not-so-coincidentally happen to be best friends, both found out about the pageant when they received application forms in the mail. Both said the "experience of competition" was one of the major benefits they hope to derive from the pageant. Carter said she is also looking forward to meeting girls from throughout the state. There are 103 entrants altogether.

After submitting the applications, the entrants' grades and backgrounds are checked. All contestants are required to maintain a "B" average or better in their schoolwork.

Sponsors, who donated funds toward the girls' fees and expenses also had to be found. George's sponsors include Security Bank of Ruidoso, Whispering Pine Coffee Shop and Ruidoso-Sunland, Inc. Carter is sponsored by Aspen Tree, Doug Bass and Associates, Lincoln Cedar Homes and the Galleria.

Among the prizes to be awarded the winner of the state competition are an all-expense paid trip to the national finals of the competition, a full scholarship to the Dale Carnegie School and a $500 cash scholarship to the school of her choice. Over $15,000 in cash scholarships will be awarded at the national pageant.

On March 25, the girls and their parents attended an orientation session held in Albuquerque. A panel of ten judges will grade the girls on civic involvement, school activities, beauty, personality, poise and a patriotic speech or other patriotic talent performance. No swimsuit competition is involved. Carter said they were told at the orientation that part of the pageant may be televised.

Carter and George share some hobbies and interests, including singing, guitar playing, tennis and horseback riding. George said she also enjoys disco dancing and skiing while Carter said she loves "people and animals."

Brownies have U.S. capitol flag

Nob Hill Elementary School has a new flag that it can correctly boast flew over the capitol building in Washington, D.C. Earlier this year, Brownie Troop Number Two requested of New Mexico Congressman Harold Runnels that a flag be flown over the capitol building, with Runnels responding.

The Brownie troop then requested the ownership of the flag, which they were granted. They wanted the flag for Nob Hill Elementary School because the flag in use was old, torn and dirty. Kelly Young and Debbie Friberg presented the flag, along with a certificate from the Architect of the Capitol, to Nob Hill principal Don Weems.

The flag will be encased in glass and hung in the school cafeteria. Members of the Brownie Troop Number Two are: Debbie Friberg, Kelly Weber, Leslie Spencer, Linder Rad, Temple Daniels, Sharri Hays, Kelly Young, Beth Sweeney, Christie Isler, Kelli Rogers, Amy Sayner, Amy Richardson, April Sandoval, Crystal La Vallie and Erica Kirchner. Co-leaders of the troop are Mrs. Robert Hays and Mrs. William Young.

Woman's Club tree planting plan launched

The Ruidoso Woman's Club tree planting program, to have thousands of Granola Maples growing in this area, was launched today.

The seedlings are available at Conley's Nursery, Ruidoso Downs, at 89c each, with each, with the Woman's Club giving away one seedling with every one purchased.

Information on planting and caring for the seedlings is available at the nursery. "The leaves of Granola Maples turn bright red in the fall," committee chairman Gladys Berger said, "and we Woman's Club members feel this area'd be more beautiful each fall, if the profusion of yellow and greens at that season had a lot of reds adding to the colors that make our Aspencade season delightful."

The sale of seedlings, beginning today, will continue until the supply is exhausted, Berger said.

"Just think how much more colorful this area'd be each fall," Berger said, "if every property owner planted several of the hardy red-leaved Granola Maples."

"And at 89 cents for two trees, can beauty be purchased for less?"

Report from Sweden

BY MELANIE MCGUIRE

Hi Everybody!

Today is March 13 and we still have lots of snow, as a matter of fact it snowed yesterday. I've never been so tired of snow in my life. If there was someplace close I could ski it would be different.

In the Swedish schools every February they have what they call "Februari Lovet" or "Sport Lovet." They get one week out of school and most people go someplace to ski.

My family and I went to Switzerland. We left Gothenburg on Friday night and took a boat to Traverunde. It took about 14 hours, but there was plenty to keep one busy. They had seven restaurants or bars, a disco, a swimming pool, sauna, three automobile decks, and around 600 rooms. It was the first time I'd ever been on that big a boat.

When we got to Traverunde, that took 12 all the way to Switzerland, that took 12 hours. It went by really fast though, because I was looking everywhere.

In Switzerland we went straight to bed because it was to be a busy day the next day. Sunday morning we were up early and hit the slopes. It was great, and the Alps are beautiful. We did this for seven days. And then drove to a place called Baren and spent the night. Napoleon had spent time there so there were steps built up to the windows so he could see out.

The next day we left early and drove back to Traverunde and then by boat back to Gothenburg. It was really great.

Near where we stayed in Switzerland there were four different places to ski, it was fantastic. I would really like to go back sometime.

Carol Baldonado heads

April 22 Bike-A-Thon

Carol Baldonado is chairman of the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation's Breath of Spring Bike-A-Thon, scheduled from 2-5 p.m., April 22 in Ruidoso.

"Instructions and pledge forms are available at Brunell's," Baldonado said, "and will be available at White Mountain Middle School and Ruidoso High School."

"I'm encouraging individuals and businesses to support this program providing funds for children affected by cystic fibrosis, severe asthma, chronic bronchitis, bronchiectasis and other related lung-damaging diseases, by signing pledge cards at Brunell's."

There are no age restrictions on Bike-A-Thon entrants, she said.

"We're also planning a special event for youngsters with tricycles," Baldonado said, "with details to be announced."

Volunteers are needed, she said, to help with the Bike-A-Thon and may contact Baldonado at 257-4440 or 257-5796 to register to help with the day's events.

Capitan sets school reunion

The third annual reunion of Capitan High School students and faculty members is scheduled for Saturday, July 28, sponsored by the Capitan Alumni Association.

This year's reunion, secretary Reba Barber has announced, will pay tribute to the 1943 Tigers' state championship basketball team, with the players including Seldon Burks, Tom Burleson, Godfrey Chavez, Maggie Silva, Ergeal

Brown, Leon Farrar, Alberto Gallegos and Ray Serna.

Reunion information is available from Barber, Box 27, Alto, New Mexico 86312.

Barber also seeks addresses of former students who have left the area. "If any Capitan alumnus is in contact with any graduate, or anyone previously attending the school," she said, "please send me the information, that we can invite them to this reunion."

Trick to tucking

To add several tucks to a pattern that doesn't call for them, first pre-tuck the fabric and then cut out the pattern pieces to insure the correct size and placement, say New Mexico State University Extension People.

COMPROMISE is something we all get used to in major things we buy, from homes to cars to appliances. Dad may want a flashy sports car, but compromise on a family wagon because it's more practical. The budget may mean that Mom has to have a smaller refrigerator than she'd like, or settle for practical basics in the family's spring fashions.

Often this choice or compromise is between style and practicality. And there's a very human tendency to choose what "turns us on" rather than what's practical [as car makers know when they stress elegant fabrics and jazzy wheel covers].

But there's one place compromise is no longer necessary between style and practicality... and that's in carpeting. With the amazing advances in man-made fibers, you can choose from many new carpets that are completely practical, and stylish, too.

Want hard wear and a favorite robin's egg blue color? You can have it. Want a fun-look shag at a modest price? You can have it. Want a luxury plush that won't show soil or will shed stains easily? You can have that, too, in today's noncompromise world of carpets.

Even budget strains don't mean you have to give up the texture, style, and color you really want in a carpet. Come in and look over the happy selection we feature in every price range, from today's leading carpet manufacturers.

Can't grow dandelions? try beautiful amaryllis!

If you are a "black thumb gardener" who can't even raise a respectable crop of dandelions, then the amaryllis is for you. By following a few simple steps, even a "black thumb gardener" can be rewarded with one of the most striking flower displays available in pot plants, Esteban Herrera, Extension horticulturist for New Mexico State University, said.

"What's more, you get to watch the whole bulb-forcing process from start to finish, day by day. The final climax is well worth waiting for — the day when those five to eight inch bright red, white, apricot or striped flowers burst forth in all their handsome glory," Herrera said.

To start, put your amaryllis in a pot about two inches larger than the diameter of the bulb. Use a good garden loam mixed with equal parts sand and peat. Add a teaspoon of a balanced fertilizer like 5-10-5 to the mixture as well. You can also use a commercial potting soil.

Put some pebbles or broken pottery in the bottom of the pot for drainage, then partially fill it with soil. Set the bulb so that two-thirds of it is above ground and one-third is below the soil line.

Firm the soil around the base of the bulb and give it a good watering. Then place the pot in a sunny window where the temperature will be between 60 and 70 degrees.

Water the bulb only sparingly until its root system is well-developed. This means adding only a little water at a time and allowing the soil to dry out between waterings. Amaryllis bulbs are sometimes temperamental, but newly purchased bulbs usually are ready to grow and should flower in six weeks.

The flower spike usually develops before the leaves. As it approaches flowering, the plant will require more regular watering.

Once the bloom is spent, cut off the old flower spike about two inches above the bulb. Water and fertilize the plant regularly once a month with a soluble houseplant fertilizer. Herrera said many bulbs will throw a second and even a third flower spike before summer.

If you next year to save your bulb and grow it again next year, it must be kept growing all summer with good light, regular water and fertilizer. Some people put their amaryllis outdoors for the summer; others prefer to keep theirs inside.

In either case, at the end of August put the pot in a warm, dark place and let the bulb dry off until it is dormant. Let it rest about two months, repot it, and start the forcing cycle all over again.

"With the amaryllis you can put your 'black thumb' away forever," Herrera said.

FOR PEOPLE FED UP WITH MORE BUN THAN BURGER...

Preparing for Tunisia requires indoctrination

BY RALPH R. DUNLAP

After seven months of waiting, I received the phone call asking me to go to Washington, D.C., for a month's orientation in preparation to going to Tunisia. They gave me less than ten days to make final arrangements and get to Washington by March 5 to start classes. I will be going to Tunisia March 31 as a Sheep Production Specialist with the United States Agency for International Development, which is part of the Department of State.

Quite a bit of the orientation includes information on forms to fill out, procedures and getting the forms completed on overseas shipment. The medical officer from the State Department gave me a few guidelines for staying healthy overseas - some were:

Boil water for 10 to 20 minutes before drinking.

Do not eat green salads in restaurants. Avoid cream puffs and similar bakery products.

Recommended shots of gamma globulin for hepatitis, tetanus, polio and probably yellow fever.

If a soda does not "fizz" do not drink it as it may be diluted with water.

Have lo-motile tablets to use for diarrhea.

I saw a film entitled "History of U.S. Foreign Policy Since World War II." This film would be excellent for an American History class. One minor discrepancy - is it says the atom bomb was exploded at Alamogordo.

One of the other outstanding classes was on how to read a foreigner. It went into how your hands, body and feet can be used to get a message across. Often our use of hands gives an extremely obnoxious meaning. For example, you do not disturb the hair on the head of a child in that area, as it will disturb the spirits to the detriment of the child. It is very offensive to get food or give a gift with the left hand in the Moslem areas, you always use the right hand. In the Philippines, you motion a person to come to you with the palm of the hand down. The palm of the hand is up if you call a dog or servant. In Germany and Italy the thumb indicates one and the index finger indicates two. If you want one drink and hold up the index finger, you get two because they assume the thumb was held up also. This is also on video tape and would be excellent for a high school language class. I am going to see if it is available.

The second week emphasizes the need to understand the host country culture and try to adapt to it. Respect for each culture is essential.

Through all of this my wife, Rosalie has been home taking instructions on what to pack, how to ship it and when to have it ready. In certain ways she has had more to do than I have. (Rosalie left for Washington, D.C., March 17.)

Mens' softball teams formed

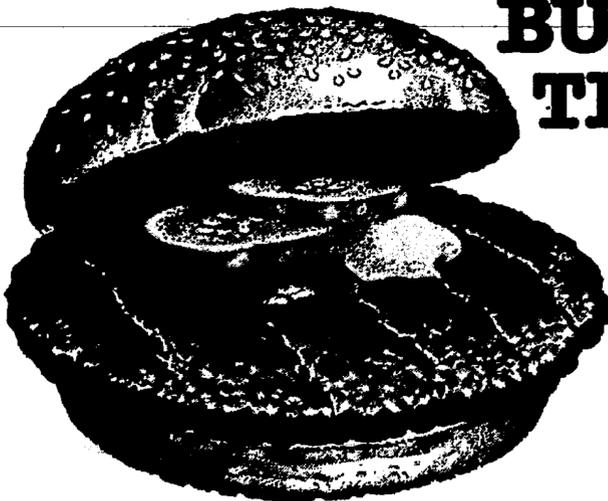

Ruidoso men's softball league met Monday at Security Bank to form teams and plan the opening of the season.

In all, 11 teams were formed by the league, which is scheduled to begin Monday, April 23. Not all teams have full rosters so men interested in joining the league still have the chance to get on a team.

Officials for the league named at the meeting were: Figgy Griego, president; Rudy Sparra, vice-president and Roger Snodgrass, secretary-treasurer.

Final preparations still need to be made in order to get the field in proper condition. The lights need to be in good working order and general landscaping of the field is planned.

Thinclads earn seventh place in Gas Capital Relays at Jal

The Ruidoso boys' and girls' track teams won a few battles but lost the war Friday in the Gas Capital Relays in Jalisco.

The boys placed seventh overall, just two points away from sixth place Eunice. Van Horn won the meet with 65 points, 37 more than the Warriors.

Ruidoso relied on the jumping of senior Mark Dutton, the endurance of Jovian Smith and Joe Almager and the relay team's consistency in posting their seventh place finish.

Dutton won the high jump and the long jump. His winning leap in the long jump measured 19' 11 1/2". In the high jump, he cleared six feet even to take the event. Smith ran "his best time ever" in winning the two mile run. His time of 11 minutes and 16 seconds was not only good enough to win, but a "real good time for this early," head coach Darrell Stierwalt said.

Craig Sullivan added a few points in the two mile event, finishing in fifth place with a time of 11 minutes and 55 seconds.

Joe Almager, a junior, came in second place in the mile run. His time of four minutes and 47.3 seconds was four seconds off the winning time.

John Cabot tallied a few points for Ruidoso in the 100 yard dash with a time of 11.26. He finished four tenths of a second behind the winner.

Ruidoso rounded out their scoring in the relays, finishing in sixth place in four of the relays.

The team of Mark Dutton, Jeff Elliott, Kannon Mayberry and John Cabot took sixth place in the 440 and 880 yard relays. A sixth place finish also was recorded by the mile medley relay team of Von Rue, Steve Pletsch, Joe Almager and Russ Flor. The team of Borde Williams, Elliott, Stan Cape and John Cabot tallied a sixth place finish in the mile relay.

The girls were paced by Kristi Perryman, who won the 100 yard dash in 12.2 seconds. She also finished in third place in the 110 yard hurdles in 18 seconds flat. Her time of 13.7 in the 80 yard hurdles was good for fifth place.

The next meet for both teams is at Hagerman.

OPENING DAY OF the 1979 fishing season attracted many fishermen to New Mexico lakes, including the crowd gathered at Bonito Lake near Ruidoso. Crowds came from Texas as well as New Mexico to enjoy the first day of the new season. Most must have enjoyed the fishing because the fish were as hungry as ever.

First opening day fishing trip also last

BY JOHN NEYLAND

Opening day of fishing season is a ploy by those in positions of greatness to get everyone out of their warm beds at six o'clock in the morning so they can freeze their tails off.

At least, that's what it seemed like to me. Sunday, April Fool's Day, was the opening day of the 1979 fishing season at many lakes, including Bonito. It was to be my first opening day ever, though I tried fishing twice last year. I had caught a total of three going into yesterday's action.

As I write this, my mind is nothing more than in a fog. Today seems so long ago. I awoke, quite grumpily of course, at 4:28 this morning so, in the words of my roommate, "We could get a good spot at the lake." As far as I was concerned, I had a good spot in my warm bed. Not being a party pooper, however, I dressed quickly so we could get a good vantage point at Bonito.

The sun had not yet risen as we (there were six of us April Fools) made our way to Bonito. The heater in the Blazer worked excellently and I began to think the day would be a grand one. We arrived at the lake and easily found a park space and a good place to fish. We settled into our spot at 5:15 a.m., 45 minutes before we could start fishing. The sun was showing signs of awakening, but the morning still had a nip in the air.

I did everything possible to keep warm. I sat. I stood. And I prayed. I thought about my warm bed. Although I didn't tell any of my macho buddies, I wished I had stayed home. As the sun rose, so did the wind. Putting gloves over my frostbitten hands was no use. I couldn't bait my hooks.

As six o'clock approached, more and more people arrived at the lake, though I was told there weren't nearly as many people at Bonito this year compared to last. More and more people built fires to keep warm. I asked my experienced friends why we didn't build one. My question was ignored.

The wind began blowing harder and harder and I wished we were on the north side of the lake, where the sun-drenched fishermen looked warmer than I. Just as I was about to feign illness so I could return to the warmth of the Blazer, a siren sounded.

"Is that it?" I screamed. "Can we start now?"

No one answered, but everyone had their lines in the water in search of the first fish. I followed suit and not two minutes later I had a small, but suitable, rainbow trout dancing at the end of my line. I reeled him homeward and pounced on it as soon as I had safely dragged it to shore. I was beaming. I've never had so much fun in my life. I can't wait until opening day next year. I just hope I forget to set my alarm.

Three racers in contention for Grand Prix championship

With just one race remaining on the schedule of the Southwest Pro Ski Tour, three racers are still in contention for the Jose Cuervo Grand Prix top prize.

Leading the pack is Dan Susslin, Saint Albans, Vermont with 83 points. Second place belongs to Scot Mackle of Boulder, Colorado with 80 points. Ted Marolt of Denver, Colorado, who won both Yukon Jack-Pro Cups here in January, is a distant third with 62 points. Susslin and Marolt added five points to their totals with quarterfinal finishes in the Jose Cuervo-Purgatory Pro Cup March 14.

Although Susslin has the inside track at the top prize, Mackle and Marolt could overtake him with a win in the final race April 4 in Taos. Twenty-five points are awarded to the winner of a race on the Southwest Pro Ski Tour.

The winner of the Purgatory Pro Cup, Eric Rogenmoser of Villars, Switzerland moved into the top ten in the Grand Prix point standings with 38 points.

Register your big catch

Catch a big fish? Want to be sure your friends believe you when you tell the tale several years from now—even though the fish itself may be long gone?

The New Mexico Department of Game and Fish, to keep records of exceptional catches and to recognize the anglers who caught them, is continuing its Big Fish Award program this season, passing out certificates to those whose fish meet minimum requirements.

According to Jesse Williams, chief of the department's Public Affairs Division, any fish legally taken from New Mexico waters may qualify. Fish do not have to exceed established records, but must meet minimum length requirements.

Minimum lengths for eligibility are, for largemouth bass, 20 inches; smallmouth bass, 14; crappie, 14; bluegill, 9; walleye, 26; channel catfish, 24; flathead catfish, 38; white bass, 15; northern pike, 38; yellow (or ring) perch, 12; rainbow trout, 20; brown trout, 20; cutthroat trout, 15; brook trout, 14 inches.

To register a fish: have it weighed (preferably on a grocery or similarly accurate scale) and measured by length and girth then have a witness attest to the figures. Forward the figures, information on angler's name and address, bait or lure, and date and place the fish was caught, to the Department of Game and Fish in Santa Fe. Send a photo if available.

Forms for recording the information and applying for certification are available from most marina operators, license vendors near fishing waters, and from all Game and Fish offices.

OGT launches investigation

Three men have been charged with illegal possession of big game and continuing investigations may lead to further charges as a result of an Operation Game Thief call, reports the Department of Game and Fish.

Operation Game Thief caller No. 592 has collected a $250 cash reward for the information that started the investigation, according to OGT coordinator Dan Pursley. Parts of at least four deer were confiscated by investigating Game and Fish Conservation Officer Bob Johnson. Chama.

One of the three charged, Willie Manzanarez, age unavailable, pleaded guilty and was fined $50 plus $10 court costs by Tierra Amarilla Magistrate Baltazar Archuleta. Two others, Jessie Trujillo, 22, and Isaac Trujillo, 31, are free on $300 bond each. Trial date has not been set. All three men are from Ensenada, a small village northeast of Tierra Amarilla.

Johnson said the men are believed to have killed the deer in late February or early March in the Brazis Lodge area, near Chama.

Operation Game Thief provides a toll-free number, 1-800-432-4263, to persons wishing to report game and fish law violations, and pays substantial rewards if the information leads to charges, according to Pursley.

Callers are not asked to give their names or to testify in court, and are assigned code numbers to assure their privacy.

The Operation Game Thief reward fund is overseen by a 16-member citizen's task force and is maintained exclusively through donations.

Walleye spawn underway

As surely as the coming of spring and warming water temperatures move the walleyes to the Ute Lake dam riprap to spawn, the coming of the walleyes moves fisheries biologists to Ute Lake to take eggs from the spawning fish.

The Game and Fish Department has already taken about four million eggs during the early part of the spawn and plans to take another 30 to 35 million as they become available, according to Fisheries Division Chief R. L. Brashears.

The eggs, stripped from the females, are fertilized with the milk taken from spawning males, Brashears said. Each female produces about 200,000 eggs.

Many of the eggs taken are rushed to Santa Rosa, to the department's Rock Springs Rearing Station, where they are hatched. The resulting fry are planted in Ute, Conchas, and other warm-water New Mexico lakes.

The rest of the eggs are traded to other states for fish eggs or fry that may be in excess there. The department has traded in the past for rainbow and cutthroat trout, kokanee salmon, blue catfish and striped bass.

Ute Lake, because of its relatively constant water level, is an excellent spawning lake for walleye, Brashears said. The fish begin spawning in mid-March and continue through April. Although some spawns take place in other New Mexico lakes, fluctuating water levels and other factors hinder development from eggs to large walleyes. By taking Ute Lake eggs and planting the fry elsewhere, the department maintains walleye fisheries in lakes where they would otherwise be unavailable, Brashears said.

LEGAL NOTICE

RESOLUTION NO. 79-5
WHEREAS, Section 14-17-4, New Mexico Statutes Annotated, 1953 Compilation, as amended, provides for the removal of ruined, damaged and dilapidated buildings or structures and for the removal of ruins, rubbish, wreckage and debris from any premises within the limits of municipalities, providing that the municipality shall have a lien for the cost of such removal and providing the procedure incident to such removal;

NOW, THEREFORE, BE IT RESOLVED by the governing body of the Village of Ruidoso Downs, New Mexico, That Lillian P. Harkness, Peggy Carlisle, Evelyn Lloyd is the legal owner of the following described premises situated in the Village of Ruidoso Downs, Lincoln County, New Mexico:

Lots 9 and 10, Block 1, Unit 3, Palo Verde Townsite, Ruidoso Downs, New Mexico, and that above named is the duly appointed occupant or agent in charge thereof.

That the buildings or structures situated upon the said premises are so ruined, damaged and dilapidated, and are so covered with ruins, rubbish, wreckage or debris, that the same, in the opinion of the governing body constitutes a menace to the public comfort, health, peace or safety and requires the removal from the municipality of the buildings, structures, ruins, rubbish, wreckage or debris.

That a copy of this Resolution be served upon the occupant or agent in charge of the premises, and that if the owner, occupant or agent is not served within the municipality, copy of this resolution shall be posted on the buildings, structures or premises, and a copy of the Resolution shall be published in the newspaper of general circulation.

PASSED AND ADOPTED this 26th day of March, 1979.

The Dreamer

BY DANNIE STORM

Flowers Welcome Spring Smiling Through the Wind
Today on the twenty-ninth of March, the West wind is blowing full speed down the vale. Up the valley you can see the clouds, showing a little rain, and all fleecy, holding themselves together as they are pushed along by the driving gale, flying through the sky.
Drops of rain, flying dust, and Cedar pollen all mingle in the air forming a smoky, misty veil from one side of the mountain valley to the other. And there is a cool breath in the world, straight off the mountain.

And yet, hardly noticed, the gentle spirit of Spring comes smiling through the wintery day, as many of her fragrant and colorful flower-messengers arrive among us.
The wind sings loudly through the evergreens on high along the hillside, causing cedar, Juniper and pinon to bend and wave before its blast; the March gale brings all its force into the apricot tree in full bloom, and the infant blossoms are rocked in their branchy cradles.

Now you notice over near the river the snow white blooms of the plum have come out — a spring surprise — the snowy blossoms dancing in the wind for joy.
You walk down near the stream along the river banks where the amber grass is turning green, and here in a sunny spot a little patch of blue and white color brings a surprise of joy to your sight. A little plant full of spring flowers has bloomed forth to greet you — a little blossom friend faithful year after year, arriving all in a day during the winds of March. A little farther on close by the sparkling stream the pure golden faces of the dandelion look up at you — like little earth brothers of the sun, shining down upon them from the sky.
Over here toward the meadow stretching toward the hill, you approach a mossy bank just at the foot of the field. Here you see where a spring trickled forth from the rocks years ago. The abundant moisture of this past winter made this spot look a little bit like old times. Water trickled for a little while down the rocks, and the moss is still green. Around the edge of the moss you see the little plants of the Spring Daisie. The buds have already formed ready to open into the pink and white flowers that welcome in the Spring time all through out land and in many lands across the water. The first of these traditional little favorites will be smiling up at us welcoming the flowery month of April, and cheering our hearts as they have since earliest times in the spring.

Blossom Parade Will Be Grand
The glorious blossom and flower parade has begun. Every day now will have new surprises in color and fragrance. The leaf parade goes along with the blossoms. The cotton woods are leafing out down in the lower end ends of the valleys harmonizing their new green with the pure pink of the peach blossom.

George White Tells Of His Beloved Neighbor, R. K. Knox
On the day of the services of our dear friend of many years, R. K. Knox, I met George White. George told how he has always cherished Mr. Knox as a close neighbor and true friend. George reminded us that Mr. Knox worked in his garden while past the age of ninety. He told of how he helped "Scotty" with his garden and how they both together invented a special corn planter. George said he will always treasure his friendship with R. K. and in this he speaks for all of us. Let us thank God for friends like R. K. Knox, and all our many blessings.

Thinkin in Lincoln

By Mary Ellen Payne Extension Home Economist

Remain A Wise Consumer—Even at Friend's Merchandise Party: The lure of free gifts, commission and an excuse for a party are part of the reason home parties selling plastic storage containers, soap, jewelry, clothes, cards, cookware and even vitamins are so popular. But just because the parties are fun, don't forget how to be a wise consumer. Don't attend party-plan sales if you aren't interested. When you do attend, compare prices beforehand on similar merchandise elsewhere. Also, put off buying if you're unsure.
Many people have experienced the high pressure situation at a party-plan sales program when friends and neighbors are signing up for new jewelry, clothing, china and crystal or pots and pans - it's difficult to resist buying. Guests know that the free gifts received by the host or hostess depend on the number of products those attending buy. Therefore many party-plan salespeople depend on such peer pressure among the guests to make their sales.
If the merchandise at the party is overpriced or does not suit your needs, enjoy the party without feeling like you have to buy. If you are unsure about buying, say you want to think about it overnight. Go home and talk it over. If you decide the merchandise is a good value and suitable, usually you can place orders the next day.

by Fred McCaffrey

SANTA FE — Are you readers out there as fond of drama as we think you are?

We in the news business blame it on you when we get carried away and pull out all the stops. We claim we're "just given" 'em what they want' when we stuff our copy with bright and colorful terms that often turn out to be embarrassingly exaggerated. More honestly, we're probably indulging ourselves and fighting our own boredom at the dullness of life.

You'd have to look far to find a better example than opening day of the New Mexico Legislature this year. By sundown the papers were stuffed and the airwaves were crackling with stories about a "rebel band" of "dissident legislators" who "broke the back of the long-time power bloc in the House of Representatives."

Wow! Colorful writing that's more worthy of the sportspage, where all is truly conflict. Hardly, however, a cool assessment of the facts.

What overwriting for such a band of colorless folks.

Gene Samberson, the big "rebel" who became the new Speaker of the House when the scrimmage was over, is about as much like Captain Blood as St. Francis of Assisi. He doesn't look like a revolutionary leader, talk like a revolutionary leader or think like a revolutionary leader.

And his gang of pirates? They turned out to be kindly Jim Otis, humble Jack Skinner, that ultimate country gentleman, Hoyt Pattison, and a gang of newcomers to the territory. Oh, maybe Hoyt has been known to develop a gleam in his eye at the thought of power, as have George Fettinger, John Mershon, Colin McMillan and one or two others. But by and large they were hardly more threatening than a band of Franciscan friars.

Now that the session's over, that's all very clear.

What did their "revolution" lead to? — Committee meetings that began almost on time, with a majority of the members present.

— Fuller, though not necessarily more enlightened debate of issues on the House floor.

— And a steadier pace for the flow of legislation, including the supreme piece, House Bill 2, than we have seen in any recent session.

Those are not bad things, and we may have been spared a special session partly because they came true.

Not much drama there, but most citizens will probably forgive that in light of increased efficiency and making the system work like it's supposed to.

Sure, we missed some of the flamboyance of the past, but Eddie Barboe wasn't going to be here this year anyway.

You can make a case for the fact that it was a stodgy session, full of people without flair who played their cards close to their vests. You can fault it for being without much compassion for the poor and needy. You can say it was legalistic in tone rather than humanistic.

But when you boil that all down, it got its work done, and that's what the voters send these good folks here to do.

As for the rest of us — those who haunt the press galleries and pound the typewriters — we'll be all right as well. Another day will come, and we'll get to dust off our thesauruses, dream up our adjectives and write like drama critics instead of reporters. This year the orderliness had a quaint, old-fashioned charm.

ON NUCLEAR POWER

Displacement, in psychiatry, is a defense mechanism by which an emotion is transferred to another more acceptable object.

We see something of this defense mechanism in the emotional campaign against nuclear power. Its leaders say they oppose the use of nuclear weapons in war and equally oppose the use of nuclear energy for the generation of electricity. Much of the emotional strength of their fear of nuclear war is transferred by displacement to the fear of nuclear power.

Fear of nuclear war is reasonable and rational. The nuclear war threat is an unprecedented threat to the future of civilization. Unfortunately, there seems to be no practical way to limit the threat except through maintaining the destructive forces in balance between the great superpowers. The Pentagon calls that Mutual Assured Deterrence (MAD) and it seems to require constant modernization and strengthening of the nuclear forces on all sides, despite our best efforts at strategic arms limitation.

Fear of nuclear bombs is something the human race is likely to have to live with for generations to come. At this time it does not seem politically feasible to halt the development of nuclear weapons. Fear of nuclear power plants is easier to handle because it has been demonstrated that it is politically feasible to stop the development of nuclear power.

A demonstration of the strength of the emotional argument is given by Daniel Ellsberg and others who preach the anti-nuclear gospel.

Man is rational and reasonable. In the end, unreasonable fears will be conquered. But by that time it may be too late to save our economy from a major setback due to stunting our nuclear energy development. —News Bulletin, Belen

QUESTION OF BALANCE

The much-discussed scheme of a Constitutional amendment for a balanced federal budget sounds so simple and magic it could never work.

But some of the states have been exhorting the rest to hold a Constitutional convention to pass such an amendment — prohibiting deficit spending, instantly balancing the budget.

Twenty-eight states, including Colorado, have joined the bandwagon. Surely most, like Colorado, have passed their own spending limitation legislation. Colorado's government has imposed a seven percent limit on spending increases.

But it is one thing to limit spending on a state level and another thing to do it on a national level, and the hope that all of our money problems could be solved with a Constitutional amendment sounds like a dream — a disastrous dream.

Though the men and women who would sit in a Constitutional convention would have a direct impact on the government of the United States, they would have no impact on other factors that, unfortunately, dictate some of our economic alternatives. How are we to handle the whims of the OPEC nations when they decide to send oil prices soaring? How are we to handle emergency military spending when trouble erupts abroad? Are we to ignore the needs of countries that are suddenly ravaged by natural disasters?

If the United States were an island unto itself and had no interaction with the rest of the world it would be much easier to look at an automatically balanced budget. But the U.S. is the most influential country in the world and is called on continually to use that influence, often by financial means.

The war effort, sky-high costs for Mideast petroleum and some forms of foreign aid are all contributors to a U.S. deficit. Each, at one time or another, has been a way-of-life-for-our-country.

If deficit spending were unconstitutional, the U.S. would have no way to deal with some of the economic crises it cannot control.

Where would the money be cut if a balanced budget suddenly became doctrine?

The U.S. has a projected deficit of $29 billion for this fiscal year. The U.S. would be asking for catastrophic effects on our economy if it suddenly curtailed spending in that amount. Such vital elements as revenue sharing funds, highway assistance and Medicare would be the ones to get slashed.

The point is that the budget deficit of the United States is admittedly burdensome and needs to be cut, but drastic, magic solutions like a Constitutional amendment are not what the country needs.

The Constitution was built to be a flexible document. The backers of this Constitutional amendment are asking to make it rigid — and unworkable. — The Valley Courier, Alamosa, Colorado.

editorial

Ruidoso and Ruidoso Downs, in spite of infuriated residents making derogatory remarks to the contrary, have not gone to the dogs.

Sadly, the dogs have come to us.

None of us like the trouble-making dogs. It's logical to believe that the trouble-making dogs don't like us. If they did, would they be making trouble?

Hopefully, within 30 to 45 days, Ruidoso's trustees will enact a new animal control ordinance. It is to be hoped that this new ordinance will contain sufficient teeth to bring the dog problem as close to an end as it's possible so to do.

As long as our twin villages serve as a dumping ground for unwanted dogs, the problem of control will remain.

If the new ordinance establishes tough enough fines for owners of dogs who do not maintain control over them, and gives animal control officer Mike Hernandez Jr., authorization to enforce the provisions of the ordinance, then controlling roving dogs will become possible.

Perhaps a dog roundup, with the cooperation of all law enforcement officers, could be arranged. Two days of concerted effort by a large number of people, properly supervised, could result in the removal of hundreds of dogs from our two villages.

The legal technicalities shouldn't pose insurmountable problems. Sufficient notification could be given dog owners of such a drive, that they could prevent having valuable pets picked up and destroyed.

Such a move would not be without its repercussions, but if all loose running dogs were caught, and the problems of roving dogs and dog packs removed, what's a few repercussions? — CD

RUIDOSO BOOSTER

There's a gal... out Yucaipa, California way, by name of Virginia Kriwanek, ... who almost qualifies for a complimentary membership in the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce ... 'cause she pens a column called "Virginia's Reel" in her home town newspaper ... and, as a frequent visitor to Ruidoso, she gives us plenty of ink ... and if'n her remarks don't entice Yucaipanians to visit here ... it's doubtful if anything will.

For instance ... of a visit to the Jim French home recently ... she said ... "Jim has designed and built a solar house here. Almost as fascinating as seeing how one man has harnessed the sun, is the indoor jacuzzi he built in a rock setting, reached by a winding staircase. Looking down into the sunken jacuzzi, I was inspired to quote, 'A loaf of bread, a jug of wine, a book of verse, and thou — beside me in the jacuzzi ... Only the threat of a knuckle sandwich prevented further mutilation of Omar Khayyam."

Further ... Virginia likes to dote upon the local artists ... how our airport is to fly into ... her ups and downs at Ruidoso Downs when the ponies are running ... our clean air ... and all sorts of complimentary things about us, our town and what goes on.

And ... to her credit ... she's uttered nary a word about our abundance of friendly ... sometimes not so friendly ... canines. Or it could be she leads a sheltered-from-the-dogs life while here ... 'cause her friends Don and Mary Parsons wouldn't want her carrying any tales ... dog tails, even ... back to California ... or you'd think so ... no?

A SECOND BOOSTER

Then there's Bruce Hamby ... a by-line writer, possibly free lance, for the Los Angeles Times ... and in the issue of February 18 ... that's 1979 ... and a Sunday ... he had some mighty kind remarks in his article on Ruidoso/Ruidoso Downs.

horse racing ... the skiing ... the golf courses ... the hunting ... why, you'd almost think he was being paid by a public relations firm ... so enthused and inspired was he when he said all those nice things about us.

Only odd thing ... nary once did he mention our ice tea parlors ... maybe I'll get around to trying to entice him to return to our mountain paradise again ... just to complete his indoctrination ... and show him there's more to life here than lollygagging around outdoors all the time.

ON THOSE 'ICE TEAS'

There are, among the followers of Stuph 'n Junk, those as wonder about my favorite beverage ... ice tea.

And ... of course ... there's the critical ingredient ... as important to a glass of ice tea, as to a cup of great coffee ... the water. And ... again ... there's the choice, ranging from bottled to demineralized, to letting discretion fall by the wayside and use ... shudder ... tap water.

A Safeway service in support of suggestions from the U.S. Office of Consumer Affairs

INFLATION FIGHTING ideas

Unit pricing, according to the United States Office of Consumer Affairs, is one of the most useful tools available to shoppers for comparing prices and determining the most economical buy. Safeway, recognizing the benefits to customers, was one of the first chains to introduce unit pricing.

In Safeway, shelf labels show the price of an item and, breaking the price down into a basic unit, also show the price per pound, quart, ounce or other even unit of measure. We have done the arithmetic for you. All you need to do is compare the Unit Price of brands of the same product to help determine the most economical brand and size.

Next week's Inflation Fighting Idea: "BAG IT" together, we can be INFLATION FIGHTERS!

HAPPY HANDS-RADIO SHACK is owned and operated by James and Donna Stephens, above, who joined the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce when the store opened in November of 1976. Happy Hands is a craft shop, with a full line of arts and crafts supplies for any project. There is a large selection of macramé, weaving and art supplies and there are many finished items for sale. They also carry stitchery kits, dried flowers and Tandy leather supplies. Books on crafts are also on sale, and free craft classes are offered. Radio Shack carries stereo and electronic equipment, Citizens' Band Radios, TV antennas, along with Sony televisions and Craig car stereos. They service all Radio Shack equipment. The stores are open from 8:30 a.m. to 6 p.m., six days a week.

A PLACE IN THE SUN, "Ruidoso's Little Boutique" has been open since November 1978, under the ownership of Helen Gabel. The shop carries "casual clothes for the casual lifestyle of Ruidoso," a collection of unusual gift items and a kitchen shop which supplies Ruidoso's many gourmet cooks. New additions include the Lily of France lingerie line, jewelry and handmade designer quilts. All sorts of kitchen accessories are available, along with imported marmalades, preserves and herbal teas. Gabel says "I am here to provide the people of Ruidoso with a variety of unusual items. People don't have to leave town to find the unique." The boutique's hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Saturday.
