GROUP SEEKS TO PRESENT COMPROMISES TO SECRETARY ANDRUS

SBAC fighting to locate airport on mesa

BY GWYNETH JONES
Staff Writer/Photographer

The Sierra Blanca Airport Commission (SBAC) Thursday restated their determination to locate an airport on Fort Stanton Mesa — at the preferred Site B — despite Governor Bruce King's announcement Monday that the site apparently had been "ruled out" by Interior Secretary Cecil Andrus.

SBAC chairman Richard Hall said neither the commission nor the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA), which submitted the airport application, had received any official communication from Andrus concerning his decision.

In view of that fact, the commissioners agreed to contact the state's congressional delegation, beginning with Representative Harold Runnels, to see if a meeting could be arranged between the commissioners, local elected officials and Andrus.

SBAC MEMBER Wyndham Runningwater suggested the meeting as a way to discover whether the secretary had given them a "flat no" for use of any part of the mesa lands, or if he was open to consideration of possible compromise measures.

"It seems vital to know whether or not Secretary Andrus has made a decision ruling out further consideration of any of the 20,000 acres of Fort Stanton mesa," Hall said. If the secretary is unwilling to consider a compromise, he said, "At least we'll know which way to start marching."

Hall said he was surprised by the governor's announcement, since the governor had recently appointed a task force to work out a compromise on the airport issue. The chairman said he had attended a luncheon with the task force June 20 and left with the impression that the group working with the Bureau of Land Management (BLM) and New Mexico State University (NMSU) would "work out the problems," in order to present a unified position to Andrus.

THE BLM CURRENTLY leases 26,000 acres of mesa land to NMSU for long-term agricultural experiments on grazing, rainfall and cactus growth.

Andrus had originally turned down the FAA's application June 19, but that denial was presumably suspended pending work sessions by the task force.

The governor's announcement, Hall said, seemed to echo King's earlier position that the application for an airport was "strictly federal business," and that he (King) "had little to do with it."

KING'S ANNOUNCEMENT stated he had "asked the cabinet secretary (Transportation Department) to cooperate with the SBAC to come up with a viable alternative airport site," and that "In view of the large amount of public land around Ruidoso, it seems that a viable site could certainly be found."

In response to that statement, the commission also agreed to arrange a meeting with the governor's staff on alternate sites. Hall said the SBAC would "act in a cooperative fashion," to find out "if they're really sincere—if they're really going to help us."

Ruidoso airport manager Tim Morris suggested that the SBAC request state funds and labor to make an in-depth engineering study of alternate sites, including Site A, if indeed the state officials were convinced that viable sites existed.

Such an engineering project, the commissioners said, would cost more than $30,000.

OTHERS IN THE AUDIENCE proposed that the commission investigate legal action, which might show that the lease of the lands for agricultural experiments violated the "multiple-use" regulations which govern BLM-controlled land.

Mike Waldron of Ruidoso suggested that an injunction be filed against NMSU to stop the experimentation "until such time as they can prove" the legality and value of the experiments.

"The politicians are trying to run us up enough blind alleys until inflation overcomes us and we can't build an airport at all," Waldron added. "Secretary Andrus must know that we're willing to follow through and go to his boss if necessary. By filing an injunction, we'd be giving him that knowledge."

He added that he had talked with village attorney Ron Harris about the possibility of local lawyers donating their time to pursue such matters. "Now is the time to take the adversary position," Waldron said.

THE CONTROVERSY CONTINUES in the attempt to locate an airport on Fort Stanton mesa. The Sierra Blanca Airport Commission Thursday decided to continue to pursue approval of

Black Sable wins Rainbow Derby

There's an old saw quarter horse racing about two qualifiers not coming back to win the big races.

But that supposition went down the drain in Sunday's running of the $542,000 Rainbow Quarter Horse Derby as Black Sable, the top qualifier in trials held two weeks ago, roared down the straightaway to win in a powerful and dramatic finish.

The filly, owned by Spencer Childers of Fresno, California, spotted the field about a length, but caught up in the last 100 feet or so and was a clear-cut neck on top at the finish.

Black Sable clocked the 440 yards in a bristling 21.91 seconds, which set a new seasonal mark. The previous record was established by Black Sable in the Rainbow trials when she set the qualifying pace at 22.01. Steve Treasure, who piloted the filly in the trials, was back in the saddle Sunday.

The Rainbow Derby, one of the world's richest three-year-old events, put a handsome windfall of $187,950 in Black Sable's account. Going into the Derby, she had a 1979 money line of $54,550. Last year, the filly was severely bothered by a viral infection and that kept her earnings down to only $10,342.

Black Sable, who vaulted herself into the national quarter horse spotlight, is the only member in the Ruidoso stable of trainer R. L. Rufus. The plan now is to return the filly to the West Coast, since she's not eligible for the upcoming $1 million All-American Derby at Ruidoso, Rufus indicated.

Black Sable, performing as a 2-1 second favorite, returned mutual prices of $5.80, $2.60, $2.40. Holme Maid, the people's choice handled by Jackie Martin, turned in a plucky performance while grabbing second. The filly broke alertly, dogged the pace-making Oh Shiney in the early going, then closed grimly to beat out the latter for the place slot. But Holme Maid was unable to toss any serious threat in Black Sable's direction.

The winner, although never far off the pace, didn't appear to get settled down and really running until about the half-way point of the super-rich 440 yard journey. But when the long-reaching filly got into overdrive, she picked up momentum at a tremendous clip. She was pulling into the clear when she flashed under the wire on the far outside.

Holme Maid was amply rewarded for her runnerup performance, collecting a mutual $45,920. That pushed her career earnings up to $185,003. The mutual payoffs were $2.60 and $2.20. The filly is trained by Hugh Tucker for the partnership of Frank Merrill of Purcell, Oklahoma and Charles Welk of San Antonio, Texas.

Oh Shiney, piloted by Steve Fuller, earned $44,034 for third and refunded $2.60 in the mutuels. Oh Shiney is the property of B.H. and Ruby Lee of Dimmitt, Texas.

Oh Shiney got away with fine speed, but conceded the very early lead to the 10-1 outsider, North Tenth. That one turned in a game race and didn't begin to weaken until the latter stages.

Oh Shiney edged in front at about the midway point and had all the earmarks of a winner. The colt ran his heart out, but was unable to fend off the hard-charging Black Sable and Holme Maid.

North Tenth, much to his credit, held on for fourth and collected $23,091. North Tenth is the property of Dr. Roman Garza of McAllen, Texas.

Here's the remaining order of finish: 5th — Speck A History (owned by Roy Browning of Ft. Worth, Texas) earning $20,943; 6th — Rocket Lights (Jacqueline Spencer of Carrizozo), $20,406; 7th —

Shebester Bug (Ralph Shebester of Wynnewood, Oklahoma), $19,869; 8th — Dickeys Fireman (Lyle Simmelink, Roy Farnam and Sonny Field of Macdoel, California), $19,332; 9th — Larkin Royal (Darrell Klssee of Miami, Oklahoma), $18,795; 10th — Lil Mister Mixer (Circle M. Ranch of Edmond, Oklahoma), $18,258.

THAT'S CLASS, A 6-1 SHOT directed by Danny Summerow, turned in a late attack and upset heavily favored Fols Native in Saturday's 13th running of the Peter Hurd Handicap at Ruidoso Downs.

That's Class hit the tape with a head lead in the six furlong run and earned $4,881 out of the gross purse of $8,135. The winning time of 1:13 1-5 seconds was the second fastest so far this season.

That's Class, owned by Walter Merrick of Sayre, Oklahoma, packed a wispy 113 pounds. Fols Native, going after his sixth straight win, was saddled with a hefty 127. Richard Bickel was up.

Fols Native got off flying and set the pace until the last few jumps. That 127 pound load apparently took the punch out of his strides when That's Class unleashed the flying rush down to the wire.

That's Class paid mutual prices of $14.40, $3.60, $2.60. Backers of Fols Native had to be content with $2.80 and $2.40. Festos ($2.80) got in third.

Saturday's program also spotlighted the $78,402 Consolation of the Rainbow Quarter Horse Derby. The win — by a whisker — went to the 8-5 favorite, Flying Passem. The gelding launched a strong bid from the No. 8 post and barely managed to overhaul Baffles Three Wars on the last jump.

Flying Passem is owned by Mildred Bowman of Alvin, Texas. Don Knight was up. The victory slice came out to $16,110. The mutual payoffs were $5.80, $3.40, $2.80.

Villages' trustees to meet

The Ruidoso Downs trustees will meet at 7:30 this evening in Municipal Hall and the Ruidoso trustees will meet at 7:30 p.m., Tuesday in the Ruidoso Public Library.

Ruidoso Downs agenda items include adoption of an ordinance dealing with penalties for animal control violations, and a resolution concerning the Southeastern New Mexico Economic Development District (NMEED).

The Ruidoso agenda includes a report on the opening of bids for the sale of $1 million in general obligation sewer bonds; final hearings on ordinances on building permit fees, animal control and regulation of storage of motor vehicles and consideration of a provisional order on Improvement District 4.

Billy the Kid to make his famed 'last escape' again

Billy the Kid — saint or sinner, depending on the "authority" describing his exploits — will not only ride the hills of Old Lincoln Town August 3 through 5, but he will make his famous "last escape" from the Lincoln County Jail four times during that period.

The action will be depicted in the renowned pageant, "The Last Escape of Billy the Kid," performed by local cast members and narrated by Dave Parks of Ruidoso. The "renowned" part is due to the pageant being filmed by KENW-TV and broadcast over public television.

The play's action is built around the Lincoln County War, which has received full measure of acclaim by historians, highlighting, of course, the part played by Billy the Kid.

The pageant is but a portion of Old Lincoln Days, August 3 through 5, featuring the 41 mile Pony Express Race from White Oaks to Lincoln, old time fiddlers contest, an arts and crafts fair and a Sunday street parade.

Pageant performances will be at 8:30 p.m., Friday, Saturday and Sunday with a matinee Sunday at 3:30.

The Pony Express Race begins at White Oaks at 8 a.m., August 4 and ends in under two hours with the delivery of sacks of mail to the Lincoln postmaster.

Saturday afternoon's fiddling contest, at the pageant arena, draws top performers from throughout the southwest.

PAGEANT CASTING is underway with Diane Shreengost, Lincoln, as director. The first rehearsal will be at 7:30 p.m., July 17 at the arena in Lincoln.

"We've a need for new blood," Betty Shreengost, Old Lincoln Days chairman, said. "This is not a closed corporation, we need more cowboys and other performers."

"The important thing is that area people believe in the pageant to the extent they're picking it up and are going to do it on their own."

Mary Ellen Payne heads county Extension service

Mary Ellen Payne, Extension home economist for New Mexico State University, (NMSU) has been named temporary administrative head of the Lincoln County Cooperative Extension Service office. Announcement of Payne's increased responsibilities was made by Dr. John Oren, associate director of the NMSU Cooperative Extension Service.

Mrs. Payne has served since 1969 as the Lincoln County extension home economist. She will continue to serve in that capacity, in addition to assuming the duties of office administrative head while Ralph Dunlap is on foreign assignment.

As office administrative head, Payne will coordinate county Extension educational efforts in agriculture, home economics, community development and 4-H. She will provide supervision and initial performance evaluations for county office personnel, in addition to managing office affairs. She will also make official contacts with the Lincoln County commissioners and other county officials.

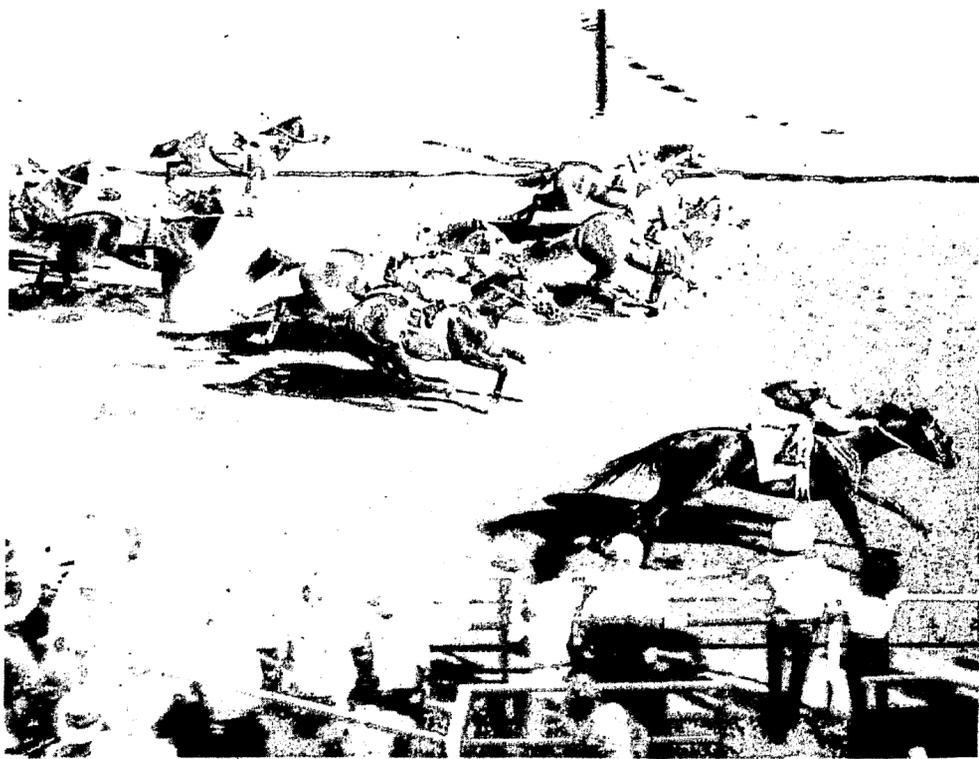

Payne holds a masters degree in Extension education from NMSU. Prior to joining NMSU's Extension, she worked as the Otero County Deputy County Clerk.

BLACK BEAUTY — Black Sable hits the finish line with a long-reaching stride and a neck lead in the finale of the $542,000 Rainbow Quarter Horse Derby at Ruidoso Downs. Steve Treasure is up. Black Sable earned a resounding paycheck of $187,950.

Upper Canyon residents briefed on fire situation

BY GWYNETH JONES
Staff Writer/Photographer

Bill Seelbach, Ruidoso Volunteer Fire Department chief and Herb Brunell, ComFIRE chairman, spoke Thursday to the annual meeting of the Ruidoso Upper Canyon Association (RUCA), emphasizing fire prevention measures for residents of that area.

Brunell distributed and explained ComFIRE's evacuation maps, which show routes to be used by residents in the event of disaster, traffic control points and safety precautions.

The evacuation maps, Brunell said, should be used only as a starting point, since information relating to a particular disaster would be broadcast over KRRR.

Seelbach told the group that thanks to the cooperation of the area fire departments, private citizens and the forest service, Ruidoso now has a lower "fire rating" than Alamogordo or Roswell. He said more than 75 firefighters could be summoned within five minutes to any location in the district, from Alto Hill to Ruidoso Downs.

He added that plans were underway to form a fire commission for the area, which would work with the department and the village trustees to provide long-range planning. A proposed project for the commission would be a feasibility study on fund raising, possibly by a general obligation bond, to finance equipment needed for the coming five-year period.

In reference to the Upper Canyon, Seelbach said two important precautions which could be taken by homeowners or tenants were clearing of ground cover, such as dry pine needles, and proper maintenance of butane tanks, including routine checks of pop-off valves.

John C. Schuller, one of the RUCA directors, asked Seelbach whether the department had ever considered placing a fire substation in the Upper Canyon. The chief explained that the primary reason for the lack of a substation was that none of the "1,200 or 1,400 Upper Canyon residents" had ever been a member of the volunteer fire department.

This means that volunteers would have to travel from other parts of town to get the equipment, adding to the response time, he said.

In the event of a fire, Seelbach added, flames would "cut across the canyon rather than going the length of it." This he said, indicates that the Ponderosa Heights area was a more dangerous place to be than the Upper Canyon.

Seelbach added that annual fire simulations were held in the Upper Canyon, to help train personnel in emergency situations.

Election of directors was also held by RUCA. Elected by acclamation were J.C. Schuller, Al Junge, Joan Bailey, Donald Brown, Mimi Jungbluth, R. F. Haynsworth and Jack Armstrong.

In other business, the association:

- Heard a report from Al Junge on the proposed new dog ordinance and adopted a resolution in support of it.
- Agreed to check with village officials to see if riverbed debris clearance, authorized by the village after the December flood, had actually been accomplished.
- Discussed possible solutions to traffic congestion around Jack's hamburger restaurant during the lunch hour and measures to compel residents to remove junked cars and other items from their property.
- Adopted a set of bylaws.

Black Sable wins Rainbow

The winning time, 22.21 seconds. Baffles Three Wars refunded $4.40 and $3.40. Pass Em West took third and dished out $3.40.

DENIM N DIAMONDS, a filly owned by R. D. Hubbard of Wichita, Kansas flashed a half-length win in Friday's sixth race at Ruidoso Downs and established the top qualifying time for the upcoming Rainbow Futurity.

With a gross purse of $500,100, the Rainbow Futurity — the second leg of the Triple Crown for two-year-old quarter horses — ranks among the world's richest races. The grand finale will be run July 22 and will be televised live throughout the western United States.

Friday's sixth race was one of nine, 400 yard elimination trials which put 84 two-year-olds in action.

Denim N Diamonds clocked the distance in 29.11 seconds and returned $4.60 as the people's choice. Danny Cardoza was aboard, subbing for the injured Jerry Nicodemus. Denim N Diamonds now holds a near immaculate record of four wins and two seconds from six career starts.

Here are the nine other Rainbow Futurity qualifiers:

- Streakin Six, 20.18, leased by Anne B. Tandy of Ft. Worth.
- Sages Belle Star, 20.18, owned by J.H.

Crouch Jr., of Midland, Texas.

- Nine Ohs, 20.25, owned by William Porter of Mathis, Texas.
- Chicks Charger Bar, 20.26, owned by Bobby Perez, Pete Perez Sr., and Pete Perez Jr., of Grand Prairie, Texas.
- Pa Pa Wheelie, 20.27, owned by B. N. Adams of Houston, Texas.
- Easy Maneuver, 20.27, owned by Clarence Scharbauer Jr., of Midland, Texas, and Anne B. Tandy of Ft. Worth.
- Call Me Smooth, 20.28, owned by Roy Browning of Ft. Worth.
- The Wheel Horse, 20.32, owned by Robert W. Moore of Oklahoma City, Oklahoma.
- That Rainey, owned by Hugh Tucker and Bill Reed of Stamford, Texas.

CATONIE, PERFORMING at just under 3-1 in the wagering, sprang out of the pack to grab the lead in the upper stretch of Thursday's $8,335 Futurity Prep Stakes at Ruidoso Downs.

But just as it seemed the filly would be rolling to an easy victory, she began to waver, and her lead dwindled rapidly as Major Mel, a 19-1 outsider, outsider, launched a powerful bid.

Catonie refused to give in and fought off the assault to win the fourth running of the 5 1/2 furlong duel by a neck. Robert Roller was in the saddle. The victory was Catonie's third straight and her second stakes win of the meeting.

The first place paycheck came out to $5,901, and that pushed her money line up to nearly $20,000. The filly is owned by Jo Ann Hitt of El Paso, Texas and V.J. Callaway of Hobbs. Fans who backed Catonie in the mutuels collected $7.80, $3.80, $3.20.

The winner covered the distance in an off-track clocking of 1:10 4-5 seconds.

Major Mel, piloted by Don Howard, earned nearly two grand for his strong runner-up effort and dished out $12 to place $7.40 to show. Special Ranger, a 55-1 outsider, came on steadily to bag third. The show price was $13.80.

The big disappointment was Cut Shot, colt who was tagged as an odds-on favorite on the strength of an earnings record of over $30,000 and a perfect career record of three-for-three.

Cut Shot got out of the gate like a cannon shot and was about three lengths on top down the backstretch run. But that quick speed took a heavy toll. When Catonie moved up briskly to challenge for the lead, Cut Shot gave in readily and dissolved into the pack.

Catonie, during that eager swing into the turn for home, took an awkward step and nearly lost her footing. But she regained her stride and her momentum and went on to snare the lead in the final furlong.

Bloodmobile here today

The Bloodmobile of United Blood Services, El Paso, Texas is collecting blood at the Ruidoso Hondo Valley Hospital through 7 this evening.

Donors are asked to go to the conference room of the hospital.

Local hospital patients receive fresh blood and components through the El Paso organization.

Coffee Cart

The Wednesday Coffee Cart, sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, will be from 9:30-10:30 a.m., at the Egg Site on Suddarth.

The public is urged to attend to meet Chamber officers and directors and to discuss promotional and development ideas with them.

School board meets Tuesday

The Ruidoso School Board will meet Tuesday at 8 p.m., at the school administration building.

Agenda items include hiring of four teachers and opening bids for construction on the addition to the central office building and milk products for next school year.

Water battle never ending

BY CHARLOTTE FELLERS

(Seventh in a series on departmental services offered by the Village of Ruidoso.)

Jim Goodman is the water superintendent for the village of Ruidoso. The main task as department head assigned to Goodman is to divert and impound water and process it through a water filtration center for use by residents.

Goodman was employed by the village in 1974 and holds a bachelor's degree from the University of Texas at El Paso in biological science. He also worked as a chemist for the United States Department of Agriculture and in petroleum supplies during military service.

According to the National Safe Drinking Water Act, the village is required to process and chemically analyze water used by the public.

Chemical analysis includes tests for such things as bacteriological content, chlorine content and alkaline level, as well as other tests.

Three water filtration plants are needed for the Ruidoso area and at one plant, a test for aluminum content is also required, Goodman said. Although no evidence has been found which shows aluminum to be dangerous, it cannot show up in the water, Goodman said.

Fourteen elevated storage tanks preserve water until it is used. Goodman said Ruidoso is unique because the vast changes in altitude cause changes in water pressure which can be as few as 23 on light usage days or as many as 28 pressure changes on heavy usage days.

The changes in water pressure have created a need for pressure monitoring stations and several pumping stations which move the water, and Goodman said the whole system can be "pretty touchy" because no machines are used in controlling the pressure changes. "It's all done using human judgement," Goodman said.

Goodman's department actually operates as a separate organization within the village hall system. It includes 12 employees, who are all trained, according to state requirements; an inventory of repairs for the water system and a purchasing department which is channeled to village offices for approval.

"Purchasing for this department could be a job within itself," Goodman said. His task of choosing and ordering equipment, pipe, fittings, pumps and rotors can turn into a large task. Because Ruidoso is so isolated from major suppliers, a large inventory of repairs is also stocked.

"People in Ruidoso just don't understand if you tell them you're sorry but you can't fix it for two weeks. Our solution to that has been to keep all kinds of repairs on hand," Goodman said.

The customer service provided by the water department keeps the 12 employees busy full-time, Goodman said. His workers are divided into several categories:

- Customer service, who read meters and take complaints, handle pressure problems and emergency cutoffs;
- Construction, who install new water lines, monitor existing systems, replace and repair fire hydrants;
- Water connection crew, who install new services at the rate of about 500 per year, Goodman said;

- Monitoring crew, who check pressure release stations and pump stations;
- Certified laboratory technicians, who perform laboratory processes and monitor water tests.

Goodman said three new water storage tanks are being planned. One will hold five million gallons of water and will be located at the top of Alto Hill.

A second facility will store one million gallons and will be built south of the Kingswood subdivision. The third storage tank will hold a half million gallons of water and will be constructed at the top of Camelot subdivision.

The new treatment plant located on Alto Hill will permit the village to continue planning growth in a northerly direction, Goodman said. The plant will enable the village to accept more subdivisions, but Goodman said, "In three to five years, we'll have to come up with the money to expand our facilities."

JIM GOODMAN, water superintendent for the village of Ruidoso, said residents will probably need new water supplies in three to five years.

Envelope mailing sizes to change

July 15 is the deadline mailers have to use up small and undersized envelopes and cards, Ruidoso Postmaster Elwood Gradine has announced.

Starting that date, the Postal Service makes its new size standards effective. Cards and envelopes measuring less than 3 1/2 inches high or 5 inches long no longer will be mailable and will be returned to sender.

Extra large First-Class envelopes — more than 6-1/8 by 11 1/2 inches — will incur a 7-cent surcharge if they weigh one ounce or less.

Postmaster Gradine advises these oversized pieces will be returned to the sender if they do not carry the 7-cent surcharge but can be re-mailed if the surcharge postage then is affixed.

However, delays for these pieces can be avoided if mailers make sure that sufficient postage has been applied.

The new regulation also will prohibit thin or flimsy cards. After July 15, the cards must be at least seven thousandths (.007) of an inch thick.

"Small envelopes and flimsy cards tend to jam mail processing equipment and cause damage to other mail as well," Gradine said.

"The surcharge on oversized or odd-shaped pieces is intended to cover the added cost of handling such pieces which must be processed manually.

"These standards have been established to allow the Postal Service to process mail more efficiently and this will mean better service for customers."

Gardeners observing 1979 as the Year of the Rose

This is the Year of the Rose. Originating in Asia Minor, the rose is one of the oldest flowers in cultivation and has been grown for more than 5,000 years. "Personally, I hope it will be grown another 5,000 years," Esteban Herrera, Extension horticulturist for New Mexico State University, said. "If you want to extend the life of cut roses, here's how you can do it."

— When removing leaves or thorns, do not cut through the bark. Use a glove or cloth on your hands and simply pull it down over the stem, avoiding scraping of the bark.

— With a sharp knife, cut an inch off the end of each stem, preferably underwater.

— Be sure to remove leaves that might decay underwater in the arrangement.

— Place roses in a clean, deep vase of warm water. If possible, leave them in a cool room or refrigerator to "condition" for about three hours before arranging.

— Water to which a good floral preservative has been added is the best medium in which to arrange roses. The manufacturer's recommendations for the preservative should be followed exactly.

— The ends of the stems should always be below the water's surface.

— Roses are heavy drinkers, refill the vase daily.

If you have roses planted in your yard, this is a good time to fertilize again. After the first cycle of bloom, nutrients will promote bigger, better blooms and bushes. Faded blooms should also be cut off to encourage new growth and bloom.

Also remember that good and consistent watering is necessary for healthy bushes and good bloom production. Water at least once a week deeply — watering more often as the weather turns hotter.

"Finally, have you tried miniature roses?" Herrera said. "You can grow them in hanging baskets, pots, boxes or plant them outside in your home garden. They also can be used as cut flowers."

Lincoln County humane society may be formed

An organizational meeting will be held Thursday at 7 p.m., in the Ruidoso Library for persons interested in forming a humane society for Lincoln County. Backers of the organization hope to affiliate eventually with the Humane Society of the United States (HSUS). Anyone willing to assist with the organization is urged to attend.

Maranatha! concert Saturday eve

Becky Ugartechea, recording artist with Maranatha! Music, based in California, will appear in a free public concert at the First Christian Church, Ruidoso, at 7 p.m., Saturday.

The title of her record with Maranatha!, "A House Between Two Rivers," is also the translation of her Spanish-Basque name, Ugartechea.

Saturday's concert is the second in a series of four being presented by Maranatha! this summer.

McGuire enjoyed Sweden

BY CHARLOTTE FELLERS
Staff Writer/Photographer

After visiting Sweden ten months as an exchange student, Melanie McGuire, 10, daughter of Marvin and Ruth McGuire of Ruidoso, said, "I'm looking forward to going back for a visit."

McGuire said the process of applying for the program began in December, 1977, followed closely by an afternoon tea where Rotarians met all candidates and observed their conduct. McGuire said a period of "waiting to hear" followed, which was, she said, "one of the most anxious times of my life."

McGuire was notified in February that she would be an exchange student and was told she should get a passport, but not a visa or shots. "I think getting the shots had me the most worried," she said, but was relieved when she found that because she would be going to Sweden, she didn't need the immunizations required by many countries.

McGuire said she did not choose Sweden as a first choice but as a third choice behind England and Austria, because of the possible language barrier. However, she was surprised to learn that most Swedes speak English as a second language.

McGuire said she would do one thing differently next time. "I waited too long to apply for my passport. I sent in all the forms and six weeks later they came back because I forgot to sign across my photo in pencil. There was no way I could get it back by the time I left," she said.

She was on the phone to the travel agency handling the exchange program and arranged to pick up her passport at John F. Kennedy Airport in New York en route to Sweden.

"Be sure to apply first thing, or do it right if you wait too long," she said.

McGuire spent from August to June living with a family in Lerum, a community of about 32,000 located west of Gothenburg about 15 miles. Her host father was a civil engineer and had three children, ages 13, 17 and 21. McGuire said she never knew the 17-year-old son because he was living in Canada on an exchange program.

McGuire said the family was probably typically middle class for Sweden, and "I never saw one slum area. People, no matter what their income, take a lot of pride in their property," she said, adding that in front of every house were green lawns and lots of flowers.

Although she received four tapes which were designed to teach her Swedish before she left the United States, McGuire said she spent three hours each day for three months in Swedish lessons. Each afternoon was spent in classes at the same school, and after the three months' lesson ended, she also spent mornings in classes.

McGuire said of the school system, "They don't have the discipline there that we are used to but the kids seemed to study a lot more." McGuire said classes were hard for her because they were all taught in Swedish.

McGuire said anyone planning to visit another country, "better plan on gaining at least 15 to 20 pounds" which she attributes to the drastic custom changes, environment and diet differences.

McGuire said the food was different in some ways than traditional American cuisine. "They didn't seem to eat as much meat as we do," she said, but added that caviar and herring are used frequently in cooking, two foods she found she "didn't like at all." Most evening meals included a tossed green salad and a starch food, such as rice or potatoes.

Every family member drank wine or beer with meals and McGuire said, "Kids who had been confirmed, which is equivalent to being baptized here, were allowed to drink alcoholic beverages." McGuire said the water was "delicious; I drank it all the time. After living in Ruidoso Downs, I thought it was great," she said.

Christmas foods centered around cakes more than candies and cookies, but customs weren't totally different. Holiday songs were all new to McGuire.

Entertainment was expensive compared to the United States, McGuire said. "When I first got there, I went to a lot of movies; it cost around $5 per person, and most of them were American made," she said. A cover charge to visit a disco averaged $5 to $8 and drinks were not included. A glass of beer, "which was much weaker than we're used to, around two percent alcohol, cost about $4," she said. No fancy mixed drinks are served.

Transportation was also costly, McGuire said. Although she saw many cars, "people walked or rode bikes a lot more than we do here. It was not unusual to see a man in his sixties riding a bike to the grocery store," she said.

A good public transportation system exists and is used by natives as well as visitors, McGuire said. McGuire attended school in Gothenburg, and to get there, she walked to the train station, where she presented a pass to ride to the tram station. Another pass was needed for the tram which took her to school. Train passes cost about $175 which allowed the owner to ride anywhere, anytime for a semester. The tram pass cost about $75 for six months and could be used only during school hours.

McGuire said she did not visit many European countries, but took four short trips and visited Switzerland, Denmark, Norway and Germany.

The trip to Germany and Switzerland was made with her host family. "We took a ship to Germany, which was a pretty nice ship. We also took a car on the ship, and the ride took about 14 hours. We got off in Germany and after a 14 hour drive, we were in Switzerland, where we skied on the Swiss Alps for a week," McGuire said.

A lift ticket cost about $150 per person for a week, and McGuire said the skiing was "good and wasn't crowded at all because there are so many ski areas within a ten mile radius. There are no trees at all and the scenery was really breathtaking."

McGuire and two other exchange students spent a day together in Denmark. The trip involved a 20 minute boat ride and the main attraction was a visit to Hamlet's Castle. "It was real musty and cool and the castles are huge; some probably have more than 140 rooms. Most of the castles had all but 12 or 15 rooms closed off when people lived in them," she said.

The Rotary contact family in Sweden invited McGuire to visit Norway with them. "They owned a second home there and we spent three days skiing. We had planned to visit Oslo and do some sight-seeing, but we decided the skiing was too good, so we just stopped in Oslo for dinner on our way home," McGuire said.

Television is much different than in this country, McGuire said there are two channels which televise "lots of old American movies, one newscast at nine every night and all kinds of other stuff which might use any language — Russian, French, German, whatever," she said. Everything was translated into Swedish at the bottom of the screen.

Although she missed her brother's wedding and several holidays, McGuire said she didn't miss her family and friends much after November passed. "November was a depressing month. It was dark until about nine every morning and then it got dark around four in the afternoon. My brother got married then, too, which also made me miss them all the more," she said.

"But it was worth it. I would encourage everyone to do it. The experience is so wonderful," she said. The cost of living in Sweden ten months plus the plane ticket averaged about $1,200. The round trip ticket was $749 and McGuire deposited $400 when she arrived in Sweden. After expenses preparing for the trip and money her parents sent her, she figured the whole experience was relatively cheap.

"My family paid for a lot of things for me, such as the traveling tickets and the ski trip. Some families couldn't afford to do that, but still, the cost is minimal for the experience," she said.

McGuire is spending the summer as a secretary at the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce and will attend Angelo State University in San Angelo, Texas where she will pursue a degree in business with a major in computer science.

JEFFREY A. ETTER is attending the Army Reserved Officers Training Corps advanced leadership camp at Fort Riley, Kansas. Cadet Etter is the son of Sinclair G. Etter of Ruidoso and Mrs. Lillian Etter of San Antonio, Texas.

ARE PATTERNS OUT in today's carpet era, when there is so much news about textures and exciting new color mixtures? The answer is a ringing "No!" Patterns are just another way carpet manufacturers are showing us new ways to go.
New prints and patterns are very much part of the scene. This is partly due to the development of new printing and dyeing technologies—equipment and methods that make it possible to create patterns without a high penalty in cost.
All the popular textures and types—shags, cut-piles and loops—are available in a range of new patterns or prints, and in just about any fiber from wools to the modacrylics. And patterns are popular in the handy new carpet tiles as well as in broadlooms.
Prints and patterns fit into any decor. You'll find plaids for the Colonial setting, delicate florals for traditional rooms, bold geometrics for your modern clear-and-chrome decor. The new patterns are made to be seen... and you should see them!
Prints and patterns—we have an outstanding array for you to choose from, and at prices from the most luxurious to honeymooners' budgets. Stop in, and bring your room measurements. Remember, you're always welcome to browse, at

Gymnastics coach plans full competitive schedule

BY GWYNETH JONES

Staff Writer/Photographer
Blake Starr, 23, assumed duties today as head coach of the Ruidoso Gymnastics Association teams. Despite his youth, Starr brings over 10 years of coaching experience to the job, beginning as a co-instructor of the Albuquerque Gymnastics Unlimited Club in 1968.

Starr already has high aspirations for the Ruidoso gymnasts; he plans to lead the teams into competition within the next two months and hopes to schedule a public exhibition for the group about the first of August.

Tryouts for the competitive teams have been scheduled for Tuesday during the regular workouts at the White Mountain Middle School gymnasium. The class schedules may be changed, depending on the number of students enrolled during the summer months, Starr said.

Community support is a necessary element, according to Starr, for a successful-gymnastics program.

"There have been several instances where towns of this size have produced national champion gymnasts, but it does take the support of the community. With that support, there are an amazing amount of things we can do," he said.

He added that there would be "a lot of work involved" in building up the gymnastics teams, but "if they're devoted—and from what I've seen of the kids, they are—we can do it."

A native of Milwaukee, Wisconsin Starr said he got into gymnastics primarily because he found himself bored after the close of the wrestling season. He found some similarity between the sports, he said.

"Both are very individualist sports," he said. "You're competing on a team, but you're also competing for yourself." He still enjoys wrestling as a hobby, but also enjoys wood-working, hot air ballooning and working with kids." In addition, he is a semi-professional magician.

After his youthful entry into the gymnastics field at 13, Starr went on to help develop a gymnastics program at the Heights YMCA, Albuquerque, from 1969 to 1973. The program began with one class of fifteen. When Starr left, the program had grown to include more than 200 youngsters, and had the largest enrollment of any boy's program in the state.

From 1974-1975, Starr attended the University of New Mexico, majoring in biology and paramedical sciences. He also worked briefly in hardware retailing before returning to the gymnastics field to serve as assistant coach of the Thimbles Gymnastics School in Las Cruces.

In May 1977, Starr joined the Mesilla Valley Gymnastics School, and was promoted to head coach at the school in September 1978. Under his leadership, the Class 3 team took the district championship and second overall in the 9-11 New Mexico State Championship. The Class 2 team took third in the state meet with silver and gold medals won by team members.

Starr has also conducted numerous gymnastics clinics throughout the state and directed state gymnastics competitions. He is a national certifier with the United States Gymnastics Safety Association and is also a member of the United States Gymnastics Federation, (USGF), the USGF Women's Committee and the United States Acrobatics Association.

He was an outstanding wrestler in high school, and during his best season made a 17-4 record, although he was wrestling two classes above his weight level.

Anyone interested in joining the gymnastics association should contact president Sandy Harrison at 257-7641.

The local Sports Scene

by JOHN YANG

The way I see it, the American people are an adventuresome lot. The way tourists keep coming to Ruidoso this year, makes me think they really don't think there's a gas crisis. And from the number of tourist cars I see, maybe gas isn't as short as we're told it is.

On the problem of high gas prices, it seems to me the only alternative is the motorcycle. On my bike I get up to 80 miles a gallon, find riding it refreshing, besides it gives me a sense of freedom.

But, if you ride motorcycles a little bit too recklessly it could cause a fatal accident. The danger in motorcycling is that the other motorist can't see you. Therefore you should wear very bright clothing.

Riding a motorcycle is much harder than driving a car because, on a motorcycle, you have to balance to ride. I mean, just jump on your motorcycle, sit sorta funny on the seat and boom! — crash!

If you're safety conscious you won't be riding at night, because you can't see the other motorist and they can't see you. I urge you please, to wear a helmet, gloves, protective eyewear, tough boots and protective clothing.

The mastering of good turns marks the good rider. Learning to brake properly is an essential to safe handling.

Lookout for these three accident prone places to crash: traffic lights, parking lots and driveways.

I was curious about how Ruidoso folks felt about motorcycling, so I took a small survey. These are the exact questions I asked 50 people:

What do you think of motorcycles, good, bad or neither: Good, 40%; bad, 30% and neither, 30%.

Do you think motorcycles are dangerous: Yes, 29%; no, 10% and neither, 61%.

What brand do you prefer: Yamaha, 29%; Honda, 27%; Harley-Davidson, 12%; Kawasaki, 6% and no preference, 27%.

Do you think people should wear helmets: yes, 85%; no, 12% and sometimes, 3%.

Do you think the new helmet law, saying people over 18 don't have to wear them, is good or bad: Good 7% and bad, 93%.

Did you know that little motorcycles get over 60 miles per gallon: Yes, 51%, no, 49%.

Would you ride a motorcycle if the gas crisis gets worse: Yes, 61%; no, 37% and maybe, 2%.

My conclusions are: the people of Ruidoso aren't sure as to if motorcycles are good transportation vehicles; question the safety of them; don't know which brands are outstanding; are very safety conscious, so far as helmets are concerned; think helmets should be worn, no matter what age the rider; half don't know how economical motorcycles are and the majority would be willing to try them as another means of transportation.

By the way, this fall Ruidoso High School will be giving a motorcycle safety class, taught by Tom Hansen, Galen Farrington and Bob Elder.

Please remember motorists: be kind to motorcyclists, they're saving gas for you too.

Poachers face loss of firearms, bows

Game and Fish Department officers will immediately begin enforcing a new law enabling them to confiscate, permanently, firearms or bows used in certain big game law violations, according to Game and Fish Department Director Harold Olson.

Loss of the weapon would be in addition to criminal and civil penalties and possible revocation of hunting or fishing privileges.

"The act went into effect July 4," Olson said, "and is another deterrent the legislature has provided us with. Firearms or bows confiscated under the act will probably be sold at public auction."

Weapons used in the commission of the crime are subject to forfeiture when a person is convicted specifically of illegal possession or transportation of big game during closed season; taking big game by use of spotlight or artificial light; or exceeding the bag limit on any big game species during open season.

PUBLIC NOTICE
The Federal Disaster Assistance Administration [FDAA] hereby gives notice to the public of its intent to reimburse eligible applicants for eligible costs of repairing their flood damaged facilities to pre-disaster condition within Lincoln, Mora, Rio Arriba, Santa Fe, San Miguel and Taos counties, New Mexico. The facilities involved are those which are within the 100-year floodplain or which may affect that floodplain.
In accordance with the President's Executive Order 11988 on Floodplain Management, FDAA may require that the restoration of these facilities incorporate certain measures designed to mitigate the effects of future flooding. Certain projects are not included in this notice and will be the subject of other notices in this publication, if one or more of the following conditions exist:
1. The cost of eligible repairs is more than $25,000, and equals 50% or more of the cost of reconstruction of the total facility.
2. The facility is located in a PRESCRIBED flood hazard area.
3. The facility has been previously damaged by a flood that resulted in a Major Disaster.
4. The design of the facility is changed sufficiently to require a grant-in-lieu.
5. The Federal contribution will be used to build a new and different facility or facilities from those that existed before the disaster.
The above excepted projects will be subject to a more detailed review under the criteria of the Floodplain Management Executive Order. Those persons interested in the implementation of Floodplain Management Executive Order 11988 with respect to the repair and restoration of any of the projects covered by this notice are provided the opportunity for review and comment. Interested persons should submit comments, in writing, to the Regional Director, Federal Disaster Assistance Administration, Disaster Field Office, 504 Jose St., Santa Fe, New Mexico 87501 by 5 p.m., July 15, 1979.

LINDAL PUSHES PRICES BACK.

With home prices everywhere going up, up — at twice the rate of inflation, we have just rolled back prices on every Lindal cedar home.

Why? You already know that the best way to combat inflation is to invest in a quality home. By lowering our prices, we are going all out to stop the ever upward spiral in housing costs. And this means savings of up to several thousands of dollars for you. Also, by buying a Lindal home of quality now, you will insure that an already good investment becomes an even greater investment.

Come in and talk to your Lindal distributor today. This offer has to expire July 15, 1979, because, after all, even we can't afford to hold off inflation forever.

A Gift From The Sky
On The Fourth of July

It is early afternoon on the fifth of July as I look out over a mountain world refreshed after a day of clouds, mist and rain showers.

On the second and third of July the weather was warm and the air was filled with moisture. The east wind took turn and turn about with the west wind — blowing very gently. It is the same kind of weather that we have had back through the years just before the fourth of July. You could feel the approach of rain and cloudy weather.

For several days the cows and calves had been resting in the cool shade near the creek — now running sparkling clear after many months of above-average flow. On the evening of the third, they all began a little fourth of July pilgrimage up into the hills.

Sure enough, on the morning of the fourth the sky was covered with clouds and mist and fog drifted and lingered in the glens and canyons and over the mountain sides and hillside fields. The fresh restful smell of sky moisture was everywhere in the world of green and gray. Trees, bushes, herbs and grass all held the crystal jewels of the mist and fog. A blue wild snap dragon near the front gate was ever so cheerful with its clear colors brighter still in the cloudy weather. It was the same kind of day, exactly, in which my heart was light with joy off many and many a fourth of July in my childhood. Memories of Heavenly happiness filled my heart; and my soul rejoiced as I saw Our Mother's blue eyes smiling with the same blessed look, so fond and comforting. Together Mother and I thanked God for his loving care of us and all our loved ones.

and everyone in the world and in Heaven.
The Rain Comes
And Goes

About mid morning the gentle thunder signaled a gentle shower moving down the vale like a silvery veil. And here was our light Fourth of July rain. The kind you have seen during so many fourth of July parades and other festivities — enough moisture to cool things off but not quite enough to drive you to cover.

The colors of the flag shone bright against the cloudy sky and green misty hillside. And I remembered that the flag pole was a few days over a year old. The flag pole was placed there on June twenty-six last year. So I sent up a prayer of thanks to Ken Green, Mel O'Reilly, Mel Dylan O'Reilly, Colin Bryan O'Reilly, Patrick Brendan O'Reilly, James Green, and Pete Wood — for the blessing of the flag pole.

Soon the rain increased, so I took down the flag. After a while there came a lull in the rain, and I put the flag back up. For a brief little spell there came a silver lining in the sky and the sun shone dimly through, lighting up the red, white, and blue silken colors floating in the air. You never saw the flag look so proud and glorious as in that moment with the bright ray of sun shining down, a shaft of golden light from Heaven, upon the rippling colors. The message came to you that our country has come through many cloudy times out into the bright sunshine again. And you knew that our country is truly This Nation Under God.

After lying three different times during the Fourth of July, the stars and stripes are floating gently in the East wind this afternoon the day after the fourth of July. The sacred day has once again brought its blessing into our lives. The rainy season has begun; and there are happier and more beautiful days ahead. Let us say a prayer of thanks for our forefathers; and let us thank God for his loving care of all of us in this world and in Heaven.

SANTA FE — Sometimes, all you have at deadline time is a sheaf of notes, none of which fits with any other to produce a beginning, a middle and an end.

Governor Bruce King, who suffers from a touch of asthma, doesn't always sleep too well. Like on the morning of July 3, which was a damp and slightly sultry day in Santa Fe.

As he tells it, he woke early and, in the quiet of the early morning hours, read the state's only morning newspaper.

There on the Letters to the Editor page was a letter asking where our governor, our Legislature and our mayors were when Public Service Company of New Mexico got a rate rise which made it the second highest in the nation in price per kilowatt hour for electricity.

The letter probably isn't accurate. The "second highest in the nation" figure probably won't stand up. But "Where is the governor . . . ?" caught the Governor's eye.

Result: When those of us in the Santa Fe press corps met with him at 9:00 that morning, we got a press release which says "a proposed Consumer Bill of Rights . . . should be adopted."

To go with the news story, he explained: "I hadn't meant to take a position on this Bill of Rights, which the Public Service Commission is proposing to protect the consumer in the face of the utilities. But I decided I should. I can't affect the Public Service Commission directly, but maybe I can nudge 'em a little bit toward adoption."

Moral: Whoever R. W. Cole, who wrote the letter to the Albuquerque Journal, really is, he gets results. The last time you meant to write a Letter to the Editor, did you do it or did you poop out? Next time, write it, and you may reach the Governor. Advice from a wise and observant gentleman, who has seen political gatherings come and political gatherings go.

"When you read in the papers about the size of any banquet held to honor any political figure in New Mexico, there are certain things you should do.

"First of all, from the number the news media estimate to be in attendance, subtract a minimum of 15 percent for exaggeration. Then, if the person being honored presently holds high office, subtract the number of all lobbyists present; their being there indicates nothing about the personal popularity of the individual involved. Then subtract the number of all those present who are not from the district represented by the individual involved; their votes cannot be cast for him or her, so it makes little difference what their feelings are. Total all those present who are from the area and know the person well; their numbers may tell you something, one way or the other. But, if you really want a measure, see what proportion of the honored guest's family are in attendance; their presence or absence will tell you the real story."

A second shock at that 9:00 a.m. press conference of the Governor's mentioned above was a sentence from Ernesto Ramos, being introduced by Lieutenant Governor Roberto Mondragon as the new head of the state Agency on Aging. His aim, he said, would be to show that "our older people — those above 55 — are an asset, not a problem, to our state."

Governor King caught this reporter's eye and smiled faintly. The Governor is 55 this year, the reporter 57.

Sense & Nonsense

U.S. Sen. Pete Domenici

With the Fourth of July holidays again upon us, I thought that maybe something a touch patriotic was in order. Coray? Oh, perhaps, but more importantly it's very American.

The great American poet Robert Frost once said that the success of freedom lies in being bold. Bold men and women who dared to challenge old ideas and who criticized our country when we needed it helped make ours a strong nation. But even with all that criticism we tend to forget our country's greatness. We tend to forget Americanism.

What is Americanism? It's different for many people. "The American system of ours, call it Americanism, call it Capitalism, call it what you like, gives each and everyone of us a great opportunity if we only seize it with both hands and make the most of it." That statement could have been made by a great American President, but it wasn't. It was made by a great American criminal, Al Capone, who in his own way thought he was rather patriotic when he once said, "My rackets are run on strictly American lines and they are going to stay that way!"

If American criminals could find so many good things to say about our country, why can't we find good things to say about it? The reason of course is preoccupation. We are all preoccupied with ideas of gloom: Inflation is running rampant; gasoline, if one can find it, is very expensive; and in some parts of the globe guns always seem to be blazing. Alex Drier, a radio newsmen, once tried his hand at reporting nothing but good news. After a few weeks his show folded, not because there wasn't enough good news there was plenty, but because Americans couldn't stand listening to too much of it.

What we can't lose sight of is that 203 years after America's birth our country is still here and is still flourishing. Sure there are problems, but that is one reason for our strengths. As Americans we have always tackled the big obstacles and found solutions, and that kind of spirit prevails as much today as ever.

For each of us that kind of American spirit may be different. It may be waiting patiently in a gas line, helping a neighbor, turning a little slower to conserve gas, driving your home thermostat a little, putting up with a few inconveniences and even at times criticizing our government when it is wrong.

What I am so concerned about is that in the middle of this energy crisis and with high inflation we lose sight of the fact that our country is still great and strong. After all if Al Capone loved America, why can't we love it?

GOOD NEWS, BAD NEWS

Whether the news about Social Security is good or bad depends on where one stands in the labor force — on the active rolls, or retired.

Pensioners who have been watching inflation shrink the buying power of their Social Security checks have the good news that help is on the way. Benefits will rise by nearly 10 percent in July, reflecting an automatic semi-annual cost of living adjustment.

But that same news is not so good for the employees and employers paying a Social Security tax that took one jump this year and is scheduled to rise even more sharply in 1980. Trustees of the system are now questioning whether these tax increases, voted by Congress in 1977 with a promise that they would solve the Social Security financing problem, may turn out to be not enough.

The trustees recently issued a report saying the system will be "financially sound for well past the turn of the century," but with an ominous qualifier. A recession serious enough to raise unemployment to 8 percent or more could put a "severe" strain on Social Security trust funds as early as 1983.

That's what happened during the recession of 1975, creating the crisis which Congress purportedly solved in 1977 by increasing the tax and by revising the formula for applying cost-of-living benefit increases. The trustees — Social Security Commissioner Stanford Ross and cabinet secretaries Michael Blumenthal, Ray Marshall and Joseph Califano — now seem to be saying that the problem isn't solved after all.

Obviously the 96th Congress must grit its teeth and face the truth about Social Security. First, it must reject the tantalizing notion that the tax increases voted in 1977 can somehow be rolled back as a pre-election gift to voters in 1980. Even the qualified optimism of the trustees would be insupportable if this new infusion of trust fund income were cut back.

More important, the House and Senate must act on the Social Security reforms proposed by President Carter earlier this year as a further means of bringing future demands on the system under better control. It must also proceed with the overhaul of the disability side of Social Security to overcome its demonstrated flaws — benefit levels and other provisions which create a disincentive for the disabled worker to seek retraining and another job.

The burden which the new Social Security tax schedules will place on American workers and their employers in the 1980s is as heavy as they can be expected to shoulder. If there are new cracks appearing in the facade, the repair work must be done in the area of the promises the system is making to future beneficiaries and not in higher taxes.

That's a tough order for Congress, which is only comfortable adding new promises to federal programs, not retracting old ones. But the truth is knocking insistently at the door. — News-Bulletin, Belen

editorial

The volume of traffic on Sudderth Drive from July 3 through July 8 indicates that the suggestion to install pedestrian crosswalks in the downtown area needs study. A great deal of study.

The very nature of Ruidoso, being if it is largely tourist oriented, poses traffic problems.

The first time visitor tends to pay more attention to the shops and business houses on Sudderth, as well as looking at the housing developments on the mountain side, than is paid to driving. This driver might not even see a pedestrian crossing.

The driver who travels Sudderth regularly will pay strict attention to the traffic ahead, behind and coming onto the street from either side. While thusly engaged in the serious business of self-preservation, this driver might not even see a pedestrian crossing.

A string of cars, such as has been evident the past few days, moving at 30 to 35 miles per hour, just doesn't stop on a dime. Adding to the hazard are those drivers that suddenly slow and stop to turn off Sudderth, with the only signal being the flash of their brake lights.

A growing number of drivers, as traffic conditions permit, are being courteous to pedestrians by stopping, or slowing, to allow them to cross the street safely. Due to the fact there've been no pedestrian/auto accidents to date, everyone must be coping with the dangers.

There is no simple solution to the problem. However, if the merchants on Sudderth would work with the village trustees, it's possible off street parking could be provided at a cost that could be lived with.

Huge parking lots near Sudderth would provide shoppers with the same situation they tolerate in the largest shopping centers. — CD

OUR JIMMY'S STATUS

Our Jimmy's advisors . . . be they from Georgia, or elsewhere . . . tend to poo-poo polls on his popularity . . . it's possible the President doesn't admit to being cognizant of them . . . but what a blow it had to be to his ego to learn . . . and he must have . . . that he is lower on the public opinion totem pole than Nixon at the lowest ebb in his political fortunes.

Why, that's a slap in the face that doesn't even give Our Jimmy the opportunity to turn his other cheek.

Then there was his suddenly canceled nationwide address on the energy crisis . . . leaving us with the opinion that he came a cropper of that old feeling of being too pooped to pop.

Further compounding his problems . . . and tending to obscure the silver lining in the clouds he's still keeping his head in . . . are the announcements that Democratic organizations are dumping Our Jimmy . . . and actively, loudly and with dedication, trying to entice Teddy Kennedy . . . a man who never crosses his bridges before he gets to them . . . if then . . . to seek the presidency.

But, by jinkies . . . though the dollar's still dropping in value . . . and since the advent of the Susan B. Anthony dollar, in size . . . and the Russians are dictating his policies to him . . . and the oil producing nations are waxing fat off our demands for their products . . . and our balance of trade keeps falling off . . . Our Jimmy's still a man of his convictions . . . and he's not about to back off . . . and furthermore he thinks he can be reelected . . . and that adds up to one tough hombre to be reckoned with . . . even if he's trying to blow foam against the wind.

As a Democrat, Our Jimmy should know he's not going to get many Republican votes . . . and if he's in doubt on that score, he could telephone Governor Bruce King.

Considering all of Our Jimmy's setbacks . . . and the fact that he's a man of intelligence . . . unless a series of miracles happen . . . the astounding announcement that he does not choose to run shouldn't catch anyone flatfooted . . . besides, it'd possibly result in a friendlier Congress . . . and the chance to serve a few terms as mayor of Plains.

TIME TO COGITATE

There's a madness in our system. Deming in Deming the Spring City Knitting Company . . . by the sheerest of coincidences . . . announced they were closing the plant . . . immediately after their workers voted to unionize . . . which, naturally, is no indication that this action in any manner or form dictated the company's decision.

It's another coincidence that company plants further west were about to vote on unionizing . . . a pending development having absolutely no bearing on the company's closing of the Deming operation.

Working conditions . . . and pay scale aside . . . it's possible that some of the employees are kind of wondering if'n they rushed into something too soon . . . 'cause those unemployment checks ain't likely to come anywhere near paying the freight that 40 hours of weekly takehome will.

But, by jinkies, the workers got their two cents worth in.

Then there's the law suit filed by Berkey Photo Incorporated . . . against Eastman Kodak . . . charging that Kodak's violating anti-trust laws, by garnering a lion's share of the photographic market.

The real eye opener is Berkey's claim that Kodak introduced new cameras, films and photographic equipment making similar products produced by Berkey obsolete. If'n that charge finally sticks in court . . . and Kodak loses a bundle . . . that corner signifying the end of free enterprise just might be a much shorter piece down the road than we think.

Why that'd be about the same as Georgia suing New Mexico, if New Mexico's peanut growers developed a goober so superior in every way that there was no longer a market for Georgia's peanuts.

And that's from the ridiculous to the sublime . . . but it does tend to raise the questions of what happened to individual initiative . . . and what happened to the loyalty of an employee to his employer, that used to have considerable to do with employer/employee relationships?

Those questions alone should provide six months ice tea talk.

BRIEF BIT: It'd be a mite risky to bet that Governor King'd sign a bill authorizing state funds to buy private land to build Ruidoso an airport for public use . . . CD

SALUTE TO CHAMBER MEMBERS

This is a regular feature in the Monday edition of this newspaper to introduce the members of the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce

ADKINS VILLAGE PATIO, located in Midtown Ruidoso, is owned and operated by F. L. and Pat Adkins, pictured. The store features women's and children's clothing, and carries infant wear down to 00 sizes.

A gift shop and country store featuring handmade items and jewelry is also included in the Village Patio. An added attraction is a bargain room, with prices cut 30 to 50 percent. The store has been in Ruidoso three and a half years and joined the Chamber of Commerce two months ago.

D AND D BEAUTY SALON, owned and operated by James and Dorothy Sample, pictured, has been a Chamber of Commerce member most of the 18 years they have been in business in Ruidoso. D and D is equipped to shampoo, set, permanent wave, tint and bleach hair of all types. They use Uniperm and Sensorperm techniques and also do manicures. D and D Beauty Salon is located across the street from the west end of Ruidoso High School.

Wilderness Wisdom with Wayne Caloway

Dear Wayne - Is there a secret to arranging goose decoys in a field or is it just a matter of random placement? Bernice T., Pennsylvania

Dear Bernice - Oftentimes it will require large numbers of field decoys to bring in a wary flock. They should be spread loosely over a sizeable area. Arrange them generally facing the prevailing wind but at different attitudes and not stiffly pointed in exactly the same direction.

Several geese will have their head up at any given time when the feeding flock is large, but if all raise their head at the same time it means they are suspicious or alarmed, so include a generous number of decoys which present a head down or resting attitude. Geese also bunch together when alarmed and for this reason decoys should be well spaced with only occasional small bunches to represent family units.

Silhouette decoys are effective but care must be taken to arrange them so some are visible to a passing flock from any angle. Facing them in slightly different directions and slanting some off the vertical position will make them visible to both incoming and overhead flocks.

Tip from reader - One summer day a couple of years ago, a friend of mine watched in disbelief as the small outboard motor on his pram jumped off the transom and disappeared unceremoniously into 15 feet of coffee-colored water. This occurred when the motor was shifted into reverse and it happened because my friend hadn't noticed that the motor's transom clamps had vibrated loose. Although several attempts were made to salvage the motor, all were unsuccessful, either because the exact site of its loss wasn't rediscovered or because it sank into the soft, muddy bottom.

A result of carelessness, you say? Yes, but I'm sure it wasn't the first, or last, such occurrence. It could, however, have been prevented with a few minutes of work in fashioning a safety strap.

Install a medium sized eyebolt through the transom, with the eye inside the boat and in close proximity to the motor. Cut a length of small diameter, plastic coated aircraft cable and equip each end with a snap hook. Fasten one end securely to the motor and snap the other into the eyebolt. The length of cable should be as short as possible, but must be long enough to allow the motor to swivel during turns.

A sophisticated device this certainly isn't, but it can save a lot of off-color words if the outboard should hop off the transom and head for the deep six. William B., Colorado EPISCOPAL CHURCH OF THE HOLY MOUNT was built in Ruidoso in 1953 and serves a congregation from all parts of Lincoln County.

FATHER DELBERT ACHUFF is the rector for the Episcopal Church of the Holy Mount in Ruidoso and Saint Anne's Chapel in Glencoe.

Episcopalians active in Lincoln County since 1885

The early years of the Episcopal Church in Lincoln County saw the church serving the entire southwest portion of the state. Although it's only 26 years old, the newer Episcopal Church of the Holy Mount in Ruidoso continues to serve a large area of the county.

The church saw its beginnings in the county in 1885, when the Frank Coe family moved to the Ruidoso Mondo Valley to homestead. Soon after that, Mrs. Coe started a Sunday School for her children and other children in the neighborhood.

Mrs. George Coe assisted her in holding classes until the Frank Coes moved to Roswell in 1900.

The church records at Fort Stanton, Carrizozo and Alamogordo are not available, but early settlers believe the records contained accounts of visits by missionaries to the Valley during the years 1900 to 1935.

Church records in Roswell recorded the first clergyman to hold sessions in the Ruidoso area was the Reverend E.N. Bullock of Roswell, who visited periodically in 1912 and 1913. Services were held in the Coe home or in the home of Mr. and Mrs. James F. Tully.

The Reverend Edward S. Doan officiated at a baptism in 1917 and after that, no more formal church activity was recorded until 1926, when the Reverend D.J. Williams of Roswell held services at the Glencoe schoolhouse.

Finally, on May 26, 1929, the Reverend F.B. Howden Jr., held a service of evening prayer and regular services have continued since then.

The Reverend Edward Smith, chaplain at Fort Stanton, visited at Glencoe and celebrated Holy Communion from 1933 to 1934. In 1933, upon his second visit to the group, Howden designated the offering as the start of a fund for a chapel. By then, services were being held in the schoolhouse, at the Bonnell Ranch and at the Navajo Lodge in what was known as the "Ruidoso summer colony."

Saint Anne's Chapel was built in the 1930's and was consecrated on June 3, 1934. Donations to build the church came from "generous contributions from the district, the American Church Building Commission, the Woman's Auxiliary of Trinity Church, Boston, and others along the Ruidoso," according to church records.

An organ was presented to the chapel by Saint Andrews in Roswell and many other gifts were made to the new chapel over the years.

The congregation consisted of the Tullys, Bonnells, Coes, Storms and others from Ruidoso, as well as many guests. Various ministers held services in the chapel during the 1940's.

When regular services were held in Ruidoso, plans were launched to enlarge Saint Anne's Chapel to accommodate the growing number of worshippers, but because the summer brought so many visitors, plans were changed and the Church of the Holy Mount was erected in Ruidoso. It was completed under the Reverend Robert Davis.

The church in Ruidoso was a gift of Mrs. Joe Crump, a resident of Midland, Texas and consecrated by Bishop Stoney on July 19, 1953 as a memorial to Venerable William H. Martin.

Many of the furnishings were given by members of the congregation. A gift of a solid silver chalice and paten were sent from Florence, Italy by Mrs. Crump who purchased the gift with money donated by several friends.

In later years, Mrs. Crump donated money to expand the facilities at Church of the Holy Mount, with the remainder made up with congregation funds.

Today, the churches in Ruidoso and Glencoe are served by two clergymen. The Reverend Delbert L. Achuff Jr., and the Reverend William K. Young. Achuff serves as the rector and Young is the curate.

Achuff said no building was ever constructed in Carrizozo and residents of that community still travel to Ruidoso to worship. People travel from as far away as Corona, but Achuff said "they don't come every Sunday."

The local church claims 200 baptized members and 168 who take communion, with an average attendance of 125. "The figure of regular residents, people who live here yearround, is growing," Achuff said.

Achuff has worked at the local church three years and said, "Episcopalians are very loyal. We have a lot of visitors to our chapel and that holds as true for clergymen as for lay people."

Special programs provided by the church include a Bible study class held every Wednesday evening during the winter. Christian education classes, equivalent to church school, are held Wednesday afternoons in the winter. This also allows children to participate in music education, Achuff said.

A chief activity planned for adults is the church choir, which now consists of 16 members, four of them males. They practice every Thursday night at 7:30 under the direction of Louise Achuff and are accompanied by Jane Deyo, who plays the church's pipe organ.

A nursery is available Sunday mornings during the worship service, but Achuff and Young want children to attend the church service. "It's been fairly successful; when the kids can sit near the front to see what's going on, they like it," he said.

The Episcopal Church is governed by the Vestry, a group of nine church members elected by the congregation and presided over by the rector. The Vestry is responsible for the maintenance of buildings, money raising and any other decisions which do not involve indebtedness of the church.

Current Vestry members include Edith Prescott, Raymona McAdams, Dr. Howard Tate, Katherine Anna, Vinton Hall, Ronald Harris, E.W. "Gene" Haden, M.G. "Big" Monro and John A. Cooper.

Tate serves as senior warden or the "right hand man" to the rector and Haden serves directly under Tate as junior warden. Other officers include Marge Garner, treasurer and Young, parish clerk.

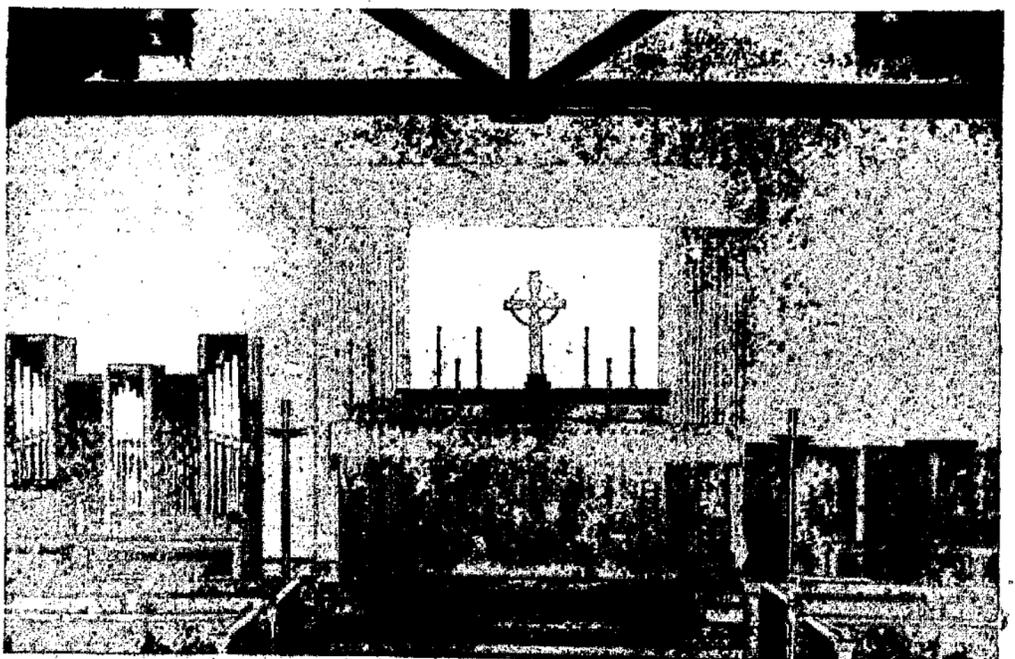

The Altar Guild, responsible for preparing communion every week, is under the leadership of Liz Monro. "This is a big job as we have services twice in Ruidoso and once in Glencoe," Achuff said.

Mass is held every Sunday at 8 and 10:30 a.m., in Ruidoso and at 9 a.m. in Glencoe. Mass is held each Wednesday at 7 a.m. and 5:30 p.m., and prayers are said every day at 8:30 a.m., and noon.

The Episcopal Church is located on Highway 37 near the "Y" in Ruidoso.

THE REVEREND WILLIAM K. YOUNG serves as the curate for the Episcopal churches in Ruidoso and Glencoe. He has a Master's degree in Sacred Music and assists with organ music occasionally.

MOUNTAINS surrounding Ruidoso can be viewed from seats in the Episcopal Church, thanks to a picture window placed behind the altar.

Agriculture future facing big 'ifs'

"The future of American agriculture is facing some big 'ifs,'" Dr. Gerald W. Thomas, nationally recognized range ecologist and president of New Mexico State University, said.

"Those 'ifs' include the effects of energy, inflation and the environment on our production of food and fiber," Thomas said. He made his comments in a recent interview in which he reiterated some of the main points of a speech presented at an annual GAIN meeting held in El Paso, Texas.

As a backdrop to his remarks, Thomas told GAIN representatives that agriculture's future faces those big 'ifs' for several reasons.

"First, as the world's population continues to increase - we expect it to reach 4.2 to six billion by the year 2000 - more pressures will be placed on the agricultural base, thus increasing the prospects for worldwide starvation.

"Concurrent with this spiraling world population is increasing world unrest which," he said, "is due in part to increased education and a proliferation of television, radio, motion pictures, newspapers and magazines showing the world's poor people there is a better way of life. Unfortunately, their incomes can't buy that better life."

As examples, he pointed out that 30 countries have per capita annual incomes of less than $50 and that 33 more countries have per capita incomes below $20. The combination of low incomes and high expectations leads to frustrations as people in poorer nations "realize there is a better world and begin demanding a share of the resources. This means there will be pressures on the borders where those differences exist," he said. "There will, in short, be a fragile peace."

Adding more pressures on this already fragile peace is a growing interdependence among nations.

"For instance," Thomas said, "we export about one acre out of every three acres of agricultural produce. On the other hand, we import 50 percent of our oil and over 90 percent of many strategic items such as cobalt, manganese, mercury, tin, asbestos and platinum."

With those remarks planted firmly in his listeners' minds, Thomas said the big 'ifs' in agriculture's future center on research, energy, inflation and the environment.

"The need for research on energy conservation must be apparent as a part of the total formula for food and fiber production," he said. "If we are to shift away from our total reliance on petroleum, we must intensify our research for a renewable, cheap energy source."

Thomas then cited one example of research which could help solve our energy problems.

"The United States produces about two billion tons of solid organic wastes each year and they could be utilized," he said. "Estimates of the readily collectible organic wastes in the United States amount to an equivalent of 170 million barrels of oil. While this represents only about three percent of the 1977 oil consumption, the potential is much greater."

He added that one researcher reports that "United States sewage alone could yield two billion cubic meters of methane per year."

Thomas added that when the resources are made available for research, "we find the same optimism show for research on solar irrigation pumping systems, trickle irrigation, crop drying and processing by solar energy and the utilization of wind on farms."

Another "if" facing American agriculture is inflation, which Thomas said is "our most urgent and pressing problem."

He then suggested that one answer to controlling inflation is to increase productivity of both labor and capital through research and development.

Using the computer as an example, he said, "Research has led to fantastic cost reductions per unit of output in computer technology. Mini computers can cut time and costs in the management of business enterprises."

The last "if" affecting agriculture is the environment. Here Thomas said "We need a 'management' oriented ecology, rather than a 'protection' oriented ecology."

"Protection could mean hands off, or to shield, or to let nature take its course. I prefer the terms environmental 'improvement,' 'management' or 'conservation.'"

To Thomas these terms imply research, education, understanding, analysis and planning.

"Management rather than protection per se could lead to correction of existing problems of environmental deterioration as well as planned growth and development with man as the focal point. Therefore, ecological understanding and ecosystem management are essential," he said.

He went on to say that, at the heart of all environmental issues lies the population explosion. "Whether we look at energy resources, land use, water, chemicals or other requirements for food and fiber production, all nations must become more concerned about irresponsible population growth and its impacts on the world's environment. Population control, therefore, becomes a necessity for man's survival."

Finally, Thomas said we have learned that wealthy people place more pressure on the earth's resources than poor people. "You and I require more units of water, more acres of land, more energy and more minerals than the poor people of India, Bangladesh or Nigeria. Because you and I have more affluence, we should show more, not less, responsibility for our actions."

In Thomas' view, man lives in a delicate, natural balance with his environment. "As more people are added to the population base, as the developing nations adopt modern technology, as man continues to deplete nonrenewable resources, we move closer and closer to the ultimate limits of the environment."

"No one yet knows where those limits lie, but it is our responsibility to be conscious of the fact that decisions made today may be critical to future generations. We must find ways and means to sustain our food and fiber complex on renewable rather than on depletable resources. There are, indeed, many big 'ifs' in agriculture's future. However I'm optimistic that we can come to terms with them," Thomas said.

Buyers select homes on general appearance

Adequate insulation, up-to-date plumbing, attractive kitchens, dining areas and patios, amount of closet space, the appearance of the home from the outside - are among a host of factors that potential buyers of a home consider.

The seller of the home should pay attention to another point, one which rarely is mentioned by buyers but which has a bearing upon a decision to buy: good lighting.

The National Association of Realtors and the Ruidoso Board of Realtors suggest that homeowners make an effort to improve this aspect of their homes, even if they currently have no intention of selling.

Good lighting can brighten rooms, highlight fine features and accent the furnishings, all important to leaving buyers with a favorable impression of the home. When assessing a home's lighting, there are a few guidelines to consider says the Ruidoso Board.

First, a home's lighting must enable occupants to see what they're doing without eye strain. At the same time, lighting must be glareless and more or less uniform throughout the room.

All light should be shielded to avoid looking directly at bulbs. The lighting system should be a combination of general and local lighting. General lighting provides the overall or background light. Local lighting is needed for specific tasks such as reading, sewing and cooking.

Finally, keep in mind that colors and textures used in the house have a major bearing on the efficiency of the lighting and the way it affects people. Reflecting surfaces must not be too dark. Ceilings should always be light colored; walls, only a little darker; floors no darker than cocoa color.

With general lighting, the most inexpensive method is with surface-mounted or suspended ceiling fixtures with diffusing bowls. In rooms of 250 square feet, one central fixture is enough; in larger rooms, use two.

The rule is one watt for each square foot of floor space.

The kitchen is the most frequented room in the average home. Because of this, and because of the activity in a kitchen, good lighting is essential.

General lighting in a kitchen should be about twice as intense as in other rooms. This is why a luminous ceiling is particularly desirable. However, surface-mounted fixtures are effective if they are lamped at two watts per square foot of floor area. The counters, sinks and stove also should be lamped with separate fixtures.

If a bathroom has a luminous ceiling, no other lighting is required. The alternative is to have fixtures on either side of the mirror over the lavatory. Ideally they should be about 30 inches apart and five feet above the floor. But if the mirror is wider than that, the next best thing is to have two rows of fluorescent tubes mounted on the ceiling about one foot from the wall.

Exactly how good lighting is achieved is an individual decision. There are many methods. But remember, good lighting can benefit owners while they occupy a home and when they're ready to sell.

Adequate plumbing will reduce costly repairs

Some of the most exasperating repair problems around the house crop up when something goes wrong with the plumbing. And serious difficulties can lead to costly repair bills.

Fortunately, a properly installed system should not cause you many problems. Better yet, some common minor ailments, such as clogged drains and leaky faucets, probably can be treated successfully by industrious homeowners bent on saving a few dollars.

All that is required is a little knowledge, a few tools and a common-sense approach to problem solving. It might be added that the successful home plumber also knows blueprints and unavailability, check with the builder or previous owner.

As far as tools are concerned, a plunger, an adjustable wrench, an auger, an auger handle and a screwdriver probably will suffice for most drain problems. For leaky faucets, you also will need assorted washers, a resealing tool and some packing thread.

A reliable hardware or plumbing supply dealer is a good source both for tools and for answers to specific questions.

While you will not be able to handle every plumbing emergency yourself, armed with a little knowledge, a few tools and common sense, you should be able to trim costs for minor repairs. However, the Ruidoso Board of Realtors and the National Association of Realtors caution: don't hesitate to seek professional help if you have the slightest doubt about being able to handle a particular problem.

After familiarizing yourself with the contents, tour your home and become acquainted with the plumbing system.

Learn the location of all shutoff valves, particularly the main shutoff valve, which usually is found near the water meter. Shutoff valves for sinks, commodes and other fixtures ordinarily are located beneath the fixture in question. However, they sometimes are located in the basement or a crawl space. Use these valves - when accessible - to cut off the water supply to malfunctioning fixtures.

Make certain that almost everyone in the family knows the location of the main shutoff valve. It controls the flow of water to the entire house. Knowledge of its location could some day mean the difference between a dry and flooded basement.

Of course, if you have a cesspool or septic tank buried in your yard, you should know where it is in case of emergency. Otherwise, your yard might resemble an open pit mine before one or the other is found in event of trouble.

Their location can be determined with the aid of blueprints for your house. If blueprints and unavailable, check with the builder or previous owner.

As far as tools are concerned, a plunger, an adjustable wrench, an auger, an auger handle and a screwdriver probably will suffice for most drain problems. For leaky faucets, you also will need assorted washers, a resealing tool and some packing thread.

A reliable hardware or plumbing supply dealer is a good source both for tools and for answers to specific questions.

While you will not be able to handle every plumbing emergency yourself, armed with a little knowledge, a few tools and common sense, you should be able to trim costs for minor repairs. However, the Ruidoso Board of Realtors and the National Association of Realtors caution: don't hesitate to seek professional help if you have the slightest doubt about being able to handle a particular problem.

After familiarizing yourself with the contents, tour your home and become acquainted with the plumbing system.

Shutoff valves for sinks, commodes and other fixtures ordinarily are located beneath the fixture in question. However, they sometimes are located in the basement or a crawl space. ## In-s-i-d-e the Outdoors

by Gary Dollahan

Sit down in your easy chair, lean back, prop your feet up and think back to your childhood days. Specifically, think back to the times you played animal doctor.

Remember how your little wagon or some kind of cart served as your ambulance, a cardboard or wooden box was a hospital bed and your cat or dog was your patient? Sure you do.

You probably also remember wanting to help other animals too. For example, that baby bird you found under the big tree, remember, the little fellow that could just barely fly? You wanted to help him, so you took him home.

You put him in your little box and began to apply your "treatment." First, you had to feed him - but what? You asked your parents and they said you should put your little feathered friend back where you found him, and that its mother could take care of it better.

Nevertheless, you - with your big eyes - won out and kept your little bird. You tried to feed him everything from worms to bread crumbs, but to no avail. Then one day you went to check on your little friend and found him dead. You learned the hard way that wildlife is just that - wild life.

Perhaps your experience was with a rabbit, or squirrel, or maybe even a deer or antelope lawn. More likely than not though, your end result was the same - death of the animal. It is difficult for man to successfully play the mother role to a wildlife species.

Even if the animal is raised successfully in its man-made environment, more often than not it cannot be returned to its wild state and is expected to survive.

You have probably noticed during the last few weeks that new life is all around us now. You can see baby birds, baby rabbits, antelope lawns and more.

Just as spring means new life to the animal world, it also means death. Nature has a way of taking lives just as quickly as it may give them.

Severe thunderstorms, high winds, extreme drought, freak storms all take their toll among the young wildlife of the year.

Of course, nature alone is not the only limiting factor on spring babies. As always, man enters the picture, and too often, as a villain.

It is not that man intentionally and deliberately kills the young animals. On the contrary, it is mankind's good heart that often leads to the downfall of wild young.

Just as a puppy or kitten might get more attention than do their adult counterparts, young wildlife attract human attention too. Young animals often appear to be alone and helpless so your first thoughts are probably that the poor creatures have been abandoned. Yet in reality, the mother of the young is watching helplessly from her spot of concealment while you "rescue" her young.

We, the New Mexico Department of Game and Fish, would like to remind everyone to think twice before taking young of the wild from its home. And, that if the biological factors and moral factors aren't enough to discourage the "kidnapping" of wildlife, perhaps the laws which protect most of New Mexico's wildlife species against private possession are.

Should you observe one of these spring babies that appears to be abandoned, use your better judgment and let it be. If you are certain the young one is abandoned, report it at once to a local game and fish officer.

Finally, if your youngster comes to you with a baby bird, rabbit, etc., in his hands, explain to him the cold, hard facts of the wildlife world. After all, you have the experience of an "animal doctor."

Money Market Certificates

28 WEEK (182 DAYS) CERTIFICATE - The interest rate is determined weekly and is equivalent to the discount rate (fraction) of the most recently issued 28-month Treasury Bill when such rate is 5% or higher. When the discount rate is 5% or less, the certificate rate will be 5%. Your rate of earnings is based on the 182 day term of the certificate. Federal regulations prohibit the compounding of interest during the term of this account. Earnings can be mailed to you quarterly or at certificate maturity. These certificates are not automatically renewable at maturity. If desired, new certificates will be issued at the currently established rate at the time of maturity.

4 YEAR CERTIFICATE - The interest rate is determined monthly based on the average yield of 4-year Treasury securities. The yield will be announced 3 business days prior to the first day of the month and will equal 1 percentage point below the average Treasury yield for the five days preceding the announcement. The interest rate will be fixed during the 4 year life of the certificate.

LOU GEHRIG STORY

One of the most moving stories in the annals of sports, the love affair of baseball immortal Lou Gehrig and his wife—from the days of glory with Babe Ruth to his losing battle with an incurable disease—is detailed in 'A Love Affair: The Eleanor and Lou Gehrig Story,' to be rebroadcast on 'NBC Monday Night at the Movies,' July 9.

The fact-based drama stars Blythe Danner and Edward Herrmann (pictured) in the title roles and co-stars Patricia Neal and Jane Wyatt.

Already an established star with the New York Yankees, the shy Gehrig is introduced to the outgoing Eleanor at a party. Though Lou travels with the team, their romance blossoms as they write to each other constantly.

However, Gehrig's possessive mother proves to be a formidable obstacle. Nevertheless they succeed in having a happy marriage. Then, on his 36th birthday, Lou learns that he has amyotrophic lateral sclerosis.

JUNIE MOON

Three young patients meet in a hospital and decide to make a go at living together in the world outside. In 'Tell Me That You Love Me, Junie Moon,' starring Liza Minnelli (pictured), Ken Howard and Robert Moore. It will air on July 10, on 'The CBS Tuesday Night Movies.'

Junie Moon (Miss Minnelli), Arthur (Howard) and Warren (Moore) each have physical and psychological afflictions which is all they seem to have in common when they decide to share a house together.

The threesome are determined to make it on their own without charity, sympathy, or even medication, and it proves to be much more difficult than any of them imagined. Some neighbors are hostile and well-meant interference of would be helpers is not always beneficial. And they find that their psychological problems are a lot harder to deal with than their physical ones. Through their struggles, though, they develop a love and respect for each other.

RANCHO DELUXE

Two cattle rustlers in the modern West cause lots of problems for a bigtime rancher, in 'Rancho Deluxe,' a comedy-drama starring Jeff Bridges (pictured), Sam Waterston and Elizabeth Ashley, to be rebroadcast on 'The CBS Saturday Night Movies,' July 14.

Jack McKee (Bridges), from an affluent family, and Cecil Colson (Waterston), an American Indian, feel confined in their very different worlds. They team up, determined to live free from responsibilities and commitments.

To support themselves, they resort to cattle rustling, 1970s style, and their principal target is the spread of John Brown (Clifton James), a wealthy Easterner who has set himself up as a modern-day cattle baron. Brown's bored and much younger wife, Cora (Miss Ashley), finds some excitement in the escapades of the rustlers, but Brown is not amused. He hires a somewhat over-the-hill detective (John Pickens) to catch the pair.

CONFIDENTIAL REPORT They must be growing money on the trees in Hollywood. Here's news of yet another big bucks deal. A face unfamiliar to television, Rex Harrison, has been offered $1 million to star in a TV movie, tentatively titled 'The World's Longest Car.' The film will serve as a pilot for a projected series. And just in case you couldn't guess—the show is built around a 29 ft. 6 in. limousine. Should Harrison accept the proposition, he will be receiving the highest salary ever for a tele-feature. A projected new series for Grant Goodeve, he plays the oldest son on ABC-TV's 'Eight Is Enough'—was not picked up for the fall. So he'll be returning to the Bradford clan each week. All of which is especially good news for beautiful Joan Prather. She played Grant's girlfriend this season and probably will be returning to the hit show as well. John Travolta will be back on the tube next season, too. He's headlining a variety special for ABC. The network has also announced specials starring Goldie Hawn, John Ritter and disco queen Donna Summer.

CELEBRITIES IN CANDID: Officials helping to host a recent bash in Beverly Hills for Concern, a charitable organization, discovered for themselves that comic Paul Lynde's bark is much worse than his bite. The star of TV's 'Hollywood Squares' showed up at the "block party" on exclusive Rodeo Drive with his ever-present pooch, a giant black poodle dubbed 'Alfred.' When Concern officials told the comic that he would not be able to take the dog into the party with him, he literally stamped his feet and wailed. "But I take Alfred everywhere! This dog is even allowed on the NBC lot!" But just to show that his heart was in the right place, Lynde still gave those same Concerned officials his check for $300 before chauffeuring 'Alfred' back to his waiting limousine. What with all these tittle-tattle books about famous parents, it might seem logical for James MacArthur, adopted son of Helen Hayes and the late playwright Charles MacArthur to tell all about his childhood. Not so, says MacArthur, who spent 11 seasons on 'Hawaii Five-O' as Jack Lord's sidekick. "We always had a happy home life. But believe me, some of those stories just had to be told, especially the one about Joan Crawford. I was part of that. Christina and her brother were my friends. Once when I was about 12 I was invited to spend the night at their home. I remember just before going to sleep a nurse came in and strapped Christina's brother to his bed. I thought I would be next. It was very frightening."

FOCUS ON THE STARS: Pernell Roberts, fondly remembered by 'Bonanza' fans as Adam Cartwright, gets a new shot at stardom in 'Trapper John, M.D.', a spinoff of 'M*A*S*H'. Long-time favorite Eve Arden has been approached to star in a version of the English TV hit 'Canteen Ladies.' The series is being rewritten for American audiences and producer Buddy Bregman thinks Eve would be great for a part. What does Gabe Kaplan's ego have in common with a basketball? Here's a clue: For his movie debut in 'Fast Break,' the producers built Kaplan a huge billboard on Hollywood's famed Sunset Boulevard. It displayed the former 'Kotter' star in a scene from the film with a basketball positioned on the tip of his finger. Kaplan said that wasn't good enough. He insisted the ball be made to spin. It was, and that little gimmick cost $30,000. Shirley Jones, who has played diverse roles in such films as 'Oklahoma,' 'Elmer Gantry,' 'Music Man,' 'Cheyenne Social Club,' etc. will finally get to portray a school teacher. She'll do that on the television series for which she has been signed by NBC and Universal, 'Shirley,' in which—by the way—among her romantic interests will be Patrick Wayne.
