

Mayor opines 'The Lloyd L. Davis Memorial Animal Shelter' would be apt name

Tuesday's routine meeting of the village trustees provided a few moments of hilarity for the audience when the subject of free land for the proposed animal shelter was broached.

Bill McCarty, White Mountain Development Company, has offered to give the village one acre of land on Gavilan Canyon Road, outside of the village limits, to be leased to the Humane Society of Lincoln County to construct and operate an animal shelter, providing there are no legal restrictions on the gift proposal.

Following a brief discussion of the offer, with no action being taken, Mayor Lloyd L. Davis Jr., in reference to the extensive media coverage given his recent remarks on his dislike of animals and animal hine that the Joint Use Board for the owners, and that he'd entertain a motion to outlaw animals in the village, looked at the trustees, then at the audience, grinned, then quipped: "I favor this, providing it will be named the 'Lloyd L. Davis Memorial Animal Shelter'."

Once the laughter, led by Davis, subsided, trustee Benny Coulston said: "I'd like to compliment you on the free publicity you've gotten us in the past couple of weeks."

In other business, the trustees:
— Accepted the bid of $82,040, submitted by Border Machinery Company, Albuquerque, for sewer line cleaning equipment.

— Adopted Resolution 80-5, raising solid waste disposal rates to residences from $3.75 monthly to $4, with proportionate increases to commercial users ranging from $7 weekly for one container, to $70 for ten, as a per pickup charge.

— Discussed, with no action taken, the proposed uses of Revenue Share Funds, estimated at $132,000 for the upcoming fiscal year.

— Adopted Resolution 80-7, routinely transferring $33,500 in General Obligation bond interest to the flood fund, pending receipt of disaster funds, with the transfer funds to revert to the general fund at that time.

— Were advised by Frank Potter, village purchasing agent, that the sale of village owned used cars, pickups and street equipment, no longer serviceable, brought $5,547.50, with the funds to go into the general fund.

— Were advised by village clerk Jim

Regional Wastewater System would meet Monday at 5 p.m., in Ruidoso Downs' Municipal Hall.

— Were advised by Hine that Ruidoso Postmaster Elwood Gradine had said direct mail deliveries can begin first on Sudderth and Mechem Drives; with residential deliveries not to begin until every street is identified by name and snow removal is guaranteed on mail routes. No dates have been announced for instituting the initial service.

— Authorized vacation of Riverside Drive, on Lots 7-19, Block 6; Lots 15-16, Block 7; and Lot 3, Tract 4, Panorama Lodge Addition.

— Approved a ten hour, four day, work week for village street crews, requested by street superintendent Jack La May.
— Approved the annexation of the Driver Tract, requested by Richard Cothran, with commercial zoning.

— Approved hiring Marian Elzi, Denver, Colorado as village librarian at a starting salary of $950 monthly, to be reviewed after 90 days.

— Authorized designating the area fronting the Ruidoso Post Office as a No U Turn zone.

— Received a commitment from Ralph Bellon, of the Retail Merchants Committee of the Chamber of Commerce, that future actions of the committee, that would involve the village in any manner, would be presented to the Chamber directors for approval, then submitted to the trustees for action.

— Approved action to determine if the present 30 mile per hour speed limit on Sudderth/Mechem could be lowered.

the Iranians have held 50 Americans hostage. The ultimatum to the Ayatollah Khomeini must be the written words: "Let my people go."

Four forest fires over weekend

Four fires were reported in Ruidoso since Saturday, three of which were believed to be caused by abandoned campfires, according to Ruidoso fire chief Butch Jacobs.

At 4 a.m., Saturday the Bonito Volunteers and the United States Forest Service responded to an unattended campfire at Eagle Creek. Apparently the campfire was left burning all night and sparks from the fire ignited a pickup truck parked near the fire.

An estimated $3,000 damage was done to the pickup and a dog was burned in the mishap.

At 2 p.m., Saturday, Ruidoso's volunteer fire department responded to a fire behind Pioneer Savings and Trust, allegedly caused by children playing with matches, Jacobs said. That fire burned a 50 foot by 50 foot area before being extinguished.

Another abandoned campfire located about one fourth mile behind the Shamrock station burned a 50 foot by 50 foot clearing before being doused by Ruidoso volunteers, with the Forest Service also responding. The fire occurred about 7:20 p.m., and two males were seen leaving the scene, Jacobs said.

A 10 foot by 25 foot spot fire located near Alpine Village Tuesday at 8:20 p.m., was also attributed to an abandoned camp fire. The Forest Service responded.

Jacobs said all fires occurred with strong winds prevailing, and a forest service spokesman said all fires have occurred on either state or private land. "People should be just as careful at home as they are in the forest," he said.

Jacobs said the size of fires was kept to a minimum "thanks to the quick responses of our volunteers and the Forest Service."

Commission nixes group dues; tables EMT, ambulance woes

BY GWYNETH JONES
Staff Writer

At a preliminary budget hearing Tuesday, Lincoln County commissioners voted against renewing their membership in the New Mexico Association of Counties (NMAC) and agreed to eliminate from the budget the dues and travel and per diem funds normally allocated to send representatives to the organization's conventions.

The action was taken on the recommendation of county manager Bill Billingsley, who maintained that the dues for the organization are not being calculated fairly, with the result that Lincoln county is "being had, financially." Commissioner Ben Hall concurred, and gave a comparison of dues required of Lincoln County ($1,870 in 1979; $2,869 in 1980) and those for Otero County ($2,470 in 1979; $2,494 in 1980).

Dues, Hall said, are "supposed to be based on total revenues of the counties, but if that's the case, Otero is broke and doesn't know it."

Billingsley said he could not recommend that the Lincoln County taxpayers be required to "foot the bill (for membership) for our friends in Otero county — as much as I love them."

Hall added that NMAC conventions which he had attended had not been useful in providing educational information which would help him in serving as a commissioner. At a recent convention, Hall said the election of officers had to be cancelled because everyone had left early.

"If the county's not getting anything out of it except a three day convention, I see no use in spending the money," Hall said.

The commissioners agreed to continue their membership in the National Association of Counties, also on Billingsley's recommendation. He said the national association is "an effective organization," which lobbies for such things as the payments in lieu of taxes, which provides revenues to counties.

During the budget review, the commissioners also heard Billingsley's recommendation that the position of county ambulance coordinator, currently held by Bud Payne of Carrizozo, be eliminated.

Payne said that action would be acceptable to him as long as the volunteer Emergency Medical Technicians (EMT's) had no objections. He said he had difficulty working with the county manager because of "personality conflicts," and would prefer to deal directly with the commissioners in his requests for supplies and equipment.

Billingsley responded that he was

Few contests for county's primary

Lincoln County voters have few contests for county offices in Tuesday's primary election.

Republicans will have these choices:

— County Clerk: Juanita C. Lucero or Jane McSwane; — County Treasurer: W. Kay Allison or Bill Morrison; and — County Sheriff: Ernest S. Sanchez or Orlando S. Montez.

Democrats have but two contests:

— District Attorney: Frank K. Wilson or Steven K. Sanders; and — County Sheriff: Bill Elliott or Max O. Watson.

In addition, Democrats will vote for Harold Runnels or Gil M. Olgun for United States Representative, District Two; and the presidential primary.

Republicans have a choice of six in the presidential primary, though Ronald Reagan now has sufficient delegate pledges for first ballot nomination at the national convention.

Ruidoso's polls, open from 8 a.m.-7 p.m., will be:

— Precinct 11, White Mountain School,
— Precinct 13, Ruidoso Public Library,
— Precinct 14, Ruidoso High School.

Ruidoso Downs voting will be at Municipal Hall with the polls open from 8 a.m.-7 p.m.

Downs pursues sewer options

BY GWYNETH JONES
Staff Writer

Faced with a shortage of funds to complete their planned sewer system, Ruidoso Downs trustees Monday directed project engineer Quinton Daniels to continue negotiations with bidders in an attempt to get the most for their money.

All bids received for the sewer exceeded available funds of $774,000 obtained through two bond elections, and no bid has yet been accepted. Daniels has been working with the low bidder, Consolidated Constructors of Farmington, to make money-saving modifications to the original system plans.

Those changes would include deletion of about one-third of the system, which would mean the sewer service would not be extended to about thirty residences included in the original plans.

The deletions would encompass parts of three subdivisions: Ruidoso Downs Heights, Las Lomas and Valley View. Daniels also advised the trustees that some road surfacing materials called for in the bid specifications could be omitted from the plans to help reduce costs.

He suggested that base course materials recently purchased by the village be removed from the streets and replaced, with grading, after construction of the sewer is completed.

Daniels said the deleted sections were chosen because of a number of factors, including roughness of terrain, which would make construction difficult, relative sparseness of population, narrowness of easement available and the fact that septic tanks have been most successful in those areas.

Daniels also advised the board that his negotiations with bidders (other than the low bidder) might be construed as "peddling your bid," a practice he said was frowned upon by contractors. He added he felt there was "a chance of losing what we've got," meaning the entire project might have to be rebid.

During the discussion of the sewer system, several trustees questioned the wide range of prices quoted by contractors in their previously submitted bids.

Because of the differences in prices, trustee Bob Power said the contractors should be contacted to be sure mistakes had not been made in the bids.

Trustee Harold Mansell suggested that legal counsel be sought on renegotiations, but added he felt they were justified in contacting the bidders again because of the changes being made in the plans, as well as the drop in the prime interest rate since bids were received.

Another trustee, Lois Beavers, asked, "What are we going to tell people who won't be getting the sewer? They'll be paying for it too, (through increased property taxes), and they're going to be very upset."

Village clerk Virginia Spall pointed out that the ballots for the bond election said nothing about which areas of town would be served. At the time of the first bond election, held several years ago, the Las Lomas and Ruidoso Downs Heights subdivisions had not yet been annexed by the village, mayor Norman Wheeler added.

Village administrative employee Martha Eucher added that the poor turnout for the latest bond election (83 voters) indicated that "obviously they didn't care much one way or the other."

Wheeler said he felt the council should take action to accept a bid as soon as possible, since costs are continuing to rise. Since the project was first conceived in the early 1970's, the cost of construction has tripled, he said.

"We're covering two-thirds of the town with what little money we have. That's two-thirds more than we have now," Wheeler said. "I think we have to take the money and put it (the system) in where we can."

The trustees also approved a series of motions which will allow for the of the most recent bonds at a special meeting to be held at 7 p.m., July 1.

In other business, the trustees:

— Held a hearing on proposed use of revenue sharing funds, with Spall proposing that $25,409 be allocated to the General Fund, and $11,000 to solid wastes (sanitation department). The funds are being included in the budget planning, although a portion of the total has yet to be approved by the United States Congress.

— Approved a letter to be sent to residents of Palo Verde and Biscuit Hill areas, where sanitation services are to be discontinued as of July 1.

— Were advised that municipal offices will be closed Friday, May 30, in observance of traditional Memorial Day.

KANSAS FUTURITY STANDOUT— Baby Hold On, a filly purchased for $46,000 in last summer's All-American Sale at Ruidoso Downs, looms as a fast gun in the finale of the $504,500 Kansas Futurity Sunday. In the Kansas trials (above), the filly boomed to a 3 1/2 length lead and set the top qualifying time of 18.25 seconds for 350 yards. Her perfect four-for-four record translates into a money line of $42,466. A win in the Kansas would be worth $166,333. Baby Hold On is owned by Gerald and Darlene Blue of Amarillo, Texas. Willie Lovell is the pilot.

DECA elects officers

Mike Clarke was elected president of the Distributive Education Clubs of America (DECA) Chapter for the 1980-81 school year in an organizational meeting Friday night.

Other officers included Lou Ann Wilson, vice president; Tracy Jones, secretary; Graham Meyer, treasurer; Glenn Ryan, chaplain; Brent Bullock, student council representative; Karen George, reporter; Steven Pietsch, historian and Bill Uihlein, parliamentarian.

DECA sponsor Eddie Parker said the meeting was fruitful with ideas for six chapter projects suggested for next year. "They will recommend that some of these be developed into manuals for state competition," Parker said.

The Pepsi Learn and Earn Project will probably be a seafood sale in October similar to the successful sale held in April, Parker said. He plans to incorporate marketing strategies, such as time payment plans, into the project.

An anti-shoplifting program will be developed in conjunction with the Retail Merchants Committee of the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce. Parker said the American Federation of Women's Clubs sponsors a national DECA competition in this area, which DECA hopes to enter.

A free enterprise project concentrated in the elementary and middle schools will probably be organized, and will feature contests, a slide/tape program and an education campaign through local media to reach adults, Parker said.

DECA students will provide concessions at the 1980 Mule Races, which will be one major money raiser for the club. "We are anticipating two concessions right now since it was so successful last year," Parker said.

An advertising media survey to determine the volume of people reading certain newspapers and listening to the radio will probably be developed into next year's creative marketing manual, Parker said.

A civic consciousness project will probably be launched at Ruidoso Care Center, Parker said. Details are not known on this project, but the Seven Up Company offers national competition in this area, he said.

"We will probably have around 70 students enrolled in next year's program," Parker said. "Pre-enrollment shows we have around 90 people enrolled but some will inevitably drop out."

Kansas Futurity Sunday

touching on other entrants and aspects of the race is by Mike Magda, with the public relations department of Ruidoso Downs Race Track.

If there's one man who can attest to the ups and downs of horse racing, he's Louie Allen. Right now he's approaching another apex with a filly named Easy Joni Jet, the last offspring of a great family that also has generated heartache for Allen.

Easy Joni Jet will be one of the 10 horses stepping into the gate and facing starter Dean Turpitt Sunday in the 30th running of the $504,500 Kansas Futurity at Ruidoso Downs, the first jewel in the two-year-old quarter horse Triple Crown. It is her third consecutive start in a major stakes race, somewhat of a minor miracle for a race horse this early in her career.

For Allen, Easy Joni Jet hasn't brought him into the winner's circle in her previous two stakes outings — both fifth place finishes at Sunland Park this spring — but he's a patient man, especially with a filly who means more to him than money.

"I was offered a quarter million dollars for her before she even stepped on a parimutuel track," said Allen, a retired real estate broker who lives in Allen (no connection), Texas. "I won't say who, but he was a very prominent owner who knows his horses."

Allen is too emotionally attached to Easy Joni Jet to give her up that easily. It started back in 1978 when she was foaled. Six weeks later, her thoroughbred mother, Hy Joni G, died in Kentucky.

"I brought her back to Texas and raised her off a bucket," Allen said. Hy Joni G's death marked the end of a fantastic producing record. It was also the last in a series of setbacks for Allen that occurred within the space of a year.

Probably the most frustrating race Allen remembers came in the spring of 1977. The scenario opened with a victory in the $270,004 Riley Allison Futurity, the nation's richest two-year-old thoroughbred race. Allen's Hy Lucky Jay, a half-brother to Easy Joni Jet, won the five furlong sprint easily and Allen paraded for three days until the post-race urine analysis came back and the report said an illegal medication was found.

Hy Lucky Jay was disqualified and the winner's purse of over $135,000 was withheld from Allen.

A few months later, Hy Joni Jet, a full sister to Easy Joni Jet who earned $146,523, died. Her death was soon followed by their mother's death in Kentucky.

"It takes a lot of fortitude to overcome a year like that," Allen said.

To help make up for it, Hy Lucky Jay went on to earn $121,417 and Hy Joni Jet had already earned over 100 grand on the quarter horse circuit.

"I know that Hy Joni G is the only mare to ever produce both a quarter horse and thoroughbred $100,000 stakes winner," said a proud Allen.

No doubt Hy Joni G was one of the greatest producers in the Southwest. She wasn't much of a runner herself, earning just under $5,000, but the daughter of Hy Pinky-Mrs. Jones matched well with a number of studs.

Hy Divy, a gelding sired by Dividend, earned over $56,000 and won 25 races in his career. When mated with a thoroughbred, Hy Joni G produced Hy Roar, by Upgroar, who earned $30,670, and Hy Dancer, a $23,188 winner. The best combination came with the Kentucky stallion What Luck, producing Hy Lucky Jay. He is now at stud and his first foals are on the ground.

Now that Hy Joni G and Hy Joni Jet are dead, it will be up to Easy Joni Jet to carry on the family line. But first she has a date with the race track.

"At this point in her career, I would have to say she is better than Hy Joni Jet," said Allen, who takes a lot of pride in watching the product of his own work develop into champions. "I build these race horses. I just don't go out to some sale and buy them, then hope they can run. It takes a lot of guts and money to be successful in this business. When I first went to What Luck, he cost $2,500 and now it's $15,000. Easy Jet used to be $3,000 and now he's $20,000. But I'll keep breeding and you'll keep seeing me back here."

Allen has shuffled through his share of trainers but now an old friend may be his last trainer. Hugh L. Tucker was working as a ranch manager for a friend of Allen 16 years ago when they first met. Tucker since went out on his own and after training show and cutting horses, moved into the racing business. Last year Tucker was the nation's third leading trainer in money won and the champion conditioner at the Ruidoso Downs 1979 meeting.

"I like to go with the winners. I wanted to go with the best so I gave Easy Joni Jet to Hugh," Allen said.

Tucker took Easy Joni Jet to Trinity Meadows where she placed second and third in a pair of allowances outings. Then it was off to Sunland Park where she won her trial for the $187,231 West Texas Futurity, setting the fifth fastest time. Easy Joni Jet ended up fifth in that race as a 10-1 pick.

She won her trial heat again for the $250,388 Sun Country Futurity and established the third fastest time but again finished fifth, losing this time by only a neck in an extremely close finish.

"She's improved a lot and is running much better than she did in El Paso," Tucker said. "She's matured a lot now. In the beginning she really was like an orphan. In the West Texas she just got out. If she hadn't come down with colic the night before the Sun Country, you would have seen a different horse out there. I didn't think she ran a poor race though, being on the wire with those other horses."

For the Kansas trial there was a feeling of complete despair. A steady headwind had hampered the field all day except for one stretch when the fourth and fifth division raced with very little wind. It was in the fourth division that Baby Hold On set the fastest time of the day.

When it came to the eighth division, the public handed Easy Joni Jet solid 3-5 backing. However, the wind picked up again and it started to rain. There was little doubt Easy Joni Jet would win, but would her time be fast enough to make the finale?

"There's no way we can qualify now," said a concerned Tucker, watching the post parade from the Turf Club.

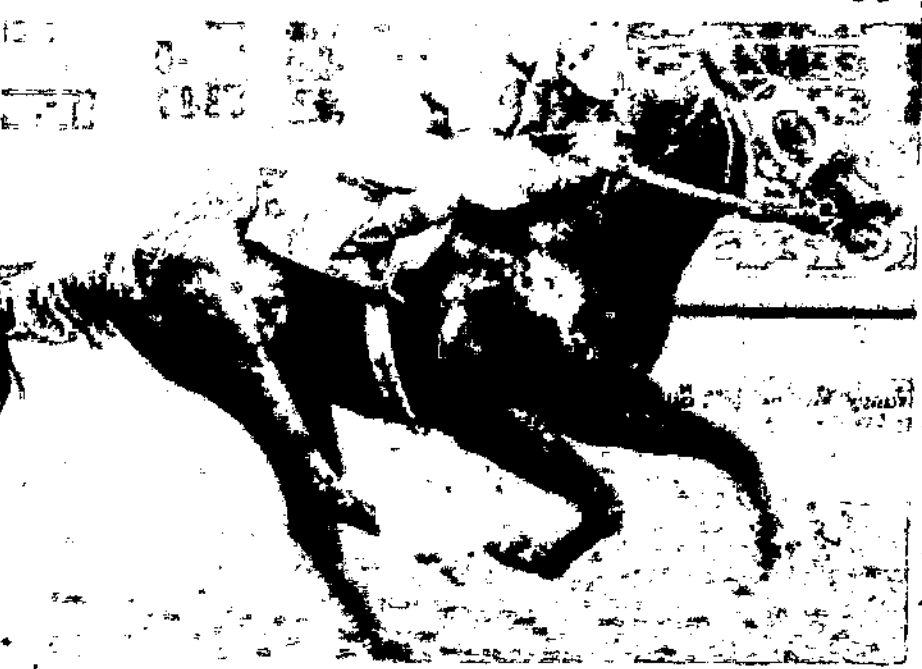

Easy Joni Jet reached back for that extra speed and Steve Fuller guided her to a neck victory, but more importantly, her time was the second fastest of the day, still almost two tenths slower than Baby Hold On.

"If we could have run under the same conditions as Baby Hold On, we would have had the fastest time," said a confident Allen.

"I'll admit I was worried but when they posted that 18.44, I knew we were in if the wind held up the rest of the day," Tucker said. "She's really a sound filly. I don't think I've had a horse come out of the trials the way she did. She was ready to run the next day."

Easy Joni Jet will be part of one of the best fields ever assembled for a Kansas Futurity. Besides Baby Hold On, an undefeated filly with earnings over $42,000, there is Easily Smashed and Jet View — respective winners of the Sun Country and West Texas Futurities.

Another undefeated horse to watch is Five Alice, a double stakes winner from Colorado. Five Alice's time was just one-hundredth of a second slower than Easy Joni Jet. Clever Bug, the fastest qualifier to the West Texas who later finished second, will also enter the starting gate.

GREAT VIEW — Jet View, a colt who's already earned over $75,000, is a key contender in Sunday's finale of the $504,500 Kansas Quarter Horse Futurity at Ruidoso Downs. Alex Baldille Jr. is the pilot.

Commission nixes...

recommending the position be eliminated because of "lack of available funds," and not "to get rid of you," (Payne).

Billingsley told the commissioners that some EMT's had complained to him that they had not seen Payne for four months and that Payne had made no regulations through his office for the past six months.

He added that a county EMT association currently is being formed, which could take on most administrative duties, and that other functions, such as EMT training and refresher courses are already being coordinated by Dr. David Roulter.

Commissioners agreed to table any action on the matter until the final budget hearing June 10.

Commissioner John Allen Hightower said he felt they should "keep Bud on," possibly with a cut in salary which Payne himself had suggested.

The commissioners also agreed that it would be "made clear (to Payne) that the county has to have a central purchasing office (Billingsley's office)," and that all regulations must be channeled through him.

Hightower also praised Payne for service to the county, saying, "When you have a thankless job to be done, Bud Payne will do it when darn few people in the county will."

Billingsley also recommended eliminating a number of positions in the county Road Department, explaining that those employees affected were hired for the school bus route improvement program, which will end in mid-August. The department will be left with 15 employees, which is two more than the permanent employee roster before the school route program was instituted, Billingsley said.

In other business, the commissioners:

— Approved a replat of Woodbriar Circle, Sierra Blanca subdivision.

— Approved Shangri La as a new subdivision.

Library sets summer program

Magie, singing, cooking and cake decorating, gymnastics, puppets and arts and crafts are among activities scheduled in the Ruidoso Public Library's summer program for children ages four and up.

Pre-registration for the program will begin June 2, according to Ingrid Schmitz, coordinator. Fees for all activities do not exceed $3 per child and last from June 30 to August 3. A "Fun Fair" August 11 will close summer activities.

Activities are being taught by library staff and community volunteers. Charlotta Stewart will teach gymnastics. James Mangas will give pointers on cooking and cake decorating. Blake Starr will reveal the secrets of magic and Lynn Holly and Lisa Delhotel will lead singing.

Betsy Keef and Cora Sweeney will supervise arts and crafts and Stewart will also conduct the twirling program. Schmitz will direct the summer reading program, puppets, pre-school story hour and dramatics programs.

The program was expanded this year to include two pre-school programs, Schmitz said. The regular story hour will continue at 9 a.m., and 3:30 p.m., Wednesdays, and "Let's Play Together" will feature nursery rhymes, games and creative dramatics for pre-schoolers.

On June 21 the library will sponsor a pet show with prizes. A complete schedule of the summer program is now available at the Ruidoso Public Library.

Garden club sale set Saturday

The Ruidoso Garden Club will sell indoor-outdoor plants at the Ruidoso Public Library Saturday between 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. Plants are priced from $1.

INGRID SCHMITZ, Summer program coordinator, places finishing touches on a bulletin board at the Ruidoso Public Library introducing the summer program. Activities for children ages four and up are scheduled to begin June 30. Fees will be $3 or less for each program, but space is limited. Pre-registration begins June 2.

AN ANTIQUE "Show and Tell" session at the Carrizozo Senior Citizen's center Tuesday included a demonstration of cotton carding by Mrs. Mary Seay. Strips of batting formed in the process are laid in rows, right, and then used in handmade quilts. At right is Mrs. Edna Littleton. Others attending the session included Lois Collins, Emma Swift, Dolly Ward, Petra Lopez and Benita Otero.

Window decorating can be pane-less

"If you think all curtains have to do is just hang there and look beautiful, you're only partially right," said Suzi Holder, Extension housing specialist at New Mexico State University (NMSU). "Window treatments are functional, too." Curtains, draperies, shades and blinds absorb sound, control light and conceal a dreary view or frame a lovely one. Window treatments also can camouflage eyesores, such as radiators and air conditioners. Take into consideration that curtains and draperies take a beating even though no one sits or walks on them, Holder said. Window treatments are constantly exposed to sunlight and dust. They have to withstand temperature changes from open windows, heating and air conditioning. Be sure to select them for long wear and easy care, as well as aesthetics.

The problem window can be treated in many pleasing ways, the housing specialist said. Window treatments which cover window air conditioners can remain functional.

Roller shades are perhaps the most ignored, yet most versatile window treatment, Holder said. Perk up conventional shades by adding pizzazz with trim or plastic tapes to create a design. Or make your own laminated shades to coordinate with existing room colors and fabrics.

Other shades can also perk up a window. Austrian and Roman shades can be fun and easy-do-it-yourself projects. Overlapping, tieback curtains or cafe curtains can also perk up a problem window. Mini blinds are a popular alternative for creating a casual, colorful look for a window.

A FACELESS DOLL, over 80 years of age, was displayed by Mrs. Edna Littleton, at an "Antique Show and Tell," program at the Zia Senior Citizens Center in Carrizozo Tuesday. Mrs. Mary Seay looks on in background.

Play areas should feature child appeal

Most parents experience the summer doldrums when a child complains of having nothing to do. A generous supply of playthings may not satisfy a bored child, said Leo Yates, Extension family life specialist at New Mexico State University. "Despite planned summer activities and assigned home tasks, every child will have some extra time when he must amuse himself with toys, games or hobbies," Yates said. "If your child is not playing with what he has, it doesn't mean you should rush out and buy a lot of new things."

Children won't always play with new toys once the newness wears off. Even a child with a large selection of playthings will often fail to settle down and play with one toy or game.

Your child's old toys will seem new to him if you make it a habit to alternate them. Put about half his playthings out of sight for a few weeks. Then, bring these out and put the others away. The toys that have been out of sight for awhile will seem new to him and his interest will be stimulated.

Perhaps your child's desire to play with his toys is dampened by the way in which they are arranged. Nothing is more frustrating for a child than to have to dig through a messy toy box.

Get rid of the box and arrange the toys on low shelves so that the child can see what is available and take what he wants without dumping everything on the floor. Toys can be arranged so that they look inviting and create interest for the child.

Place heavy toys on lower shelves to lessen the chances of dropping them. Group similar toys together so that there is less problem in locating them and returning them to their proper places after play, Yates said.

Use a small box to keep small parts of toys and games together.

Include the child in planning and working toward reorganizing the play area and equipment. After all, he may know best where the toys should be placed.

Students have test results

Results of the Comprehensive Test of Basic Skills, administered annually to fifth, eighth and eleventh graders, have been returned to parents via their children, according to Karen Tillman, diagnostician for Ruidoso schools.

Parents with questions should contact Tillman at 257-4674 between 8 a.m. and 4 p.m., June 2-13.

Warrior coaches tell "How I spent my summer vacation"

BY MARK BAGBY
Sports Editor

It's almost summer, and things are quiet at Ruidoso High School, or in the process of getting that way. Lockers are being cleaned out, equipment is being stored away and coaches are looking forward to next year.

But first there's the matter of the Warrior coaches' plans for the summer, ranging from parking cars (yes, parking cars) to going to school to playing house.

Head football coach Darrel Stierwalt is going to work for the United States Forest Service, the 11th year he's been employed in that capacity.

"I'm the recreation foreman," he said.

Who?

"Basically what I do is take charge of all the campgrounds and keep things clean and repair what needs to be repaired," he said. "I have a crew and we go around and spruce up stuff. I also work in law enforcement — I write tickets. I'm the bad guy."

But he's gonna be thinking about football season the whole time.

"I'll never really be off. I'm going to be getting ready for the season the whole summer. It's game films and playbooks for me."

Then in the last week of July, he's headed for a coaching clinic in Albuquerque, which ends August 2. "It's a big meeting where all the coaches lie about their teams," he said, laughing.

Then two-a-day football practices begin August 12.

"I'm ready," Stierwalt said.

Boys' basketball coach Barry Nelson, girls' coach Sergio Castanon and wrestling coach Gerald Ames are all headed back to school.

Teachers have to do a certain amount of work each summer towards a higher degree, which is how they get re-certified for the following year.

(That all translates to "going back to school.")

Nelson is headed for New Mexico State University in Las Cruces, as is Castanon. Nelson is taking a reading course and a health course. Castanon is going to work on his bilingual administration degree.

Nelson probably has the busiest summer in store. First it's school for 10 weeks, and then he comes back here for a basketball camp in July, and then he's going to the coaching clinic in Albuquerque with Stierwalt, and then back here for August 12 football practice.

Castanon didn't elaborate on his plans.

Ames is headed up north to Albuquerque and the University of New Mexico for schooling. He has some great courses in mind — "Teaching Strategies in Social Studies," and "Reading for Content."

"Vecchhh," Ames said.

His classes are only lasting four weeks, he said, and then he's returning to Ruidoso for a "week or so," and then it's back north — way up north, to Washington state, but not to see Mount St. Helens.

Ames grew up in Washington, very close to the border between the United States and Canada, and he has relatives still there, "and it's nice to see the folks,"

He said he's going to try to get a freestyle wrestling club going soon, and has hopes of sponsoring a tournament for that sport sometime during the summer.

Volleyball coach Margie Andrus said she's going to take a vacation and "be a mommy."

Andrus is the mother of an almost three-year-old daughter, and school has sort of thrown a damper into her maternal instincts.

"I'm looking forward to playing mommy," she said.

Volleyball practice begins August 23, she said, and she said she was looking forward to that too.

Assistant football and track coach Ronny Maskew was unavailable for comment.

Finally, athletic director Doyle Howell said he's going to park cars at Ruidoso Downs Race Track this summer.

"I do it every summer," he said.

What kind of work is that for an athletic director?

"Good work," he said with a smile.

The Ruidoso News SPORTS

Sportin' Life

... a column of opinion ...

by Mark Bagby

Well, it's official ... 85 countries are going to the 1980 Moscow Olympic Games. Not attending are 29 countries, including the United States, Canada, Japan and West Germany.

The full list of countries not going includes: Albania, Argentina, Bahrain, Bermuda, Cayman Islands, Canada, China, Gambia, Honduras, Hong Kong, Indonesia, Israel, Japan, Kenya, Liechtenstein, Malaysia, Malawi, Mauritania, Pakistan, Paraguay, Philippines, Saudi Arabia, Singapore, Thailand, Tunisia, Turkey, United States, Uruguay and West Germany.

The Soviet Union predicted "well over 100" countries would participate in the games, so they were a little off on their count. But the Moscow Olympic Organizing Committee said the "door was still open" for other countries to sign up.

Vladimir I. Popov, the head of that committee, stuck his foot in his mouth.

"With small exceptions, all leading sports countries will participate" in the Games, he said. I wonder where that leaves us? Popov has his foot in his mouth — I know where I'd like to put my foot.

Another Soviet, Ignaty Novikov, said, "In the opinion of the sports public and many government figures, the idea of a boycott of the Games has failed. The announced list of participants testifies to the broad support of the Olympic Games in Moscow by athletes of a majority of the countries of the world."

But the White House said he-he. President Carter and his gang uses previously won medals instead of countries as evidence of support of the boycott.

Jody Powell, Carter's chief spokesman, said, "All the medals won by non-Soviet bloc nations in 1976 (at Montreal), something like better than 70 percent of the teams and federations that won those medals will not participate in Moscow."

(In the '76 Games in Montreal, the Soviet Union and its allies won 336 of 613 medals awarded, and was the top award winner. The United States won 34 percent of the other medals, which figures out to 94. East Germany was in third place in medals won in '76.)

Also, 27 countries have not said if they will or will not compete, and the International Olympic Committee has said it will help any countries that want to apply for participation in the Games.

What isn't too surprising is Iran doesn't have a team listed anywhere.

What is a little — no, a lot — surprising is the country that all this ruckus is about — Afghanistan, remember them? — is attending. Ironie? Yes, and it's also a little sickening.

Kickin' around

Four Ruidoso men are going to Roswell this weekend to teach soccer skills in the Special Olympics state games at New Mexico Military Institute.

The quartet is composed of Butch Grantham, Bob Gregson, Del Seybold and Darrel Gateley, all experienced players and coaches in Ruidoso's soccer leagues.

Butch is pretty tickled about the whole thing, which I can understand — 'cause it's a lot of fun helping kids learn.

There's also going to be a lot of coverage on this shindig, including television and newspapers. Stay tuned for details.

Also, kudos (that means congratulations, word buffs) to Andy Haimowitz, who was instrumental in getting soccer in the Special Olympics.

And, incidentally, Judy Frost, one of the typesetters here (her title is composing manager, but I still haven't heard any of her music), said she saw a documentary on public television which said of all Little League sports, the one that does the least harm and the most good is — you guessed it — soccer.

If at first you don't succeed ...

The advanced lifesaving class at Sierra Swim and Racquet Club, scheduled to begin last Monday, has been postponed until Monday, June 2.

A lack of interest was the cause of the postponement, so let's try to do better, okay gang?

Anyone who knows their basic strokes may enroll, and to do so, call the club at 257-5178.

Classes begin at 5 p.m., Monday.

FOOTBALL COACH Darrel Stierwalt inspects a new pair of shoulder pads, part of a shipment of football gear delivered to Ruidoso High School this week. Also arriving were new helmets, various body pads, blocking dummies and other gear. Hang on, sports fans — practice for the fall begins August 12.

Local boxers fight here Friday

Boxing is coming to Ruidoso Friday afternoon.

Bill Streeter, a White Mountain Middle School (WAMS) science teacher, heads the Ruidoso Boxing Club, an organization of local boys who have been boxing since the first of the year.

The club has participated in several out of town matches, but this is the first home fight for the squad. Boxers from Hondo and Roswell will compete with local fighters at 2 p.m. in WAMS gymnasium.

"We're planning on at least a dozen fights," Streeter said, "and it could be as many as 15."

Admission is $1 for students and $2 for adults.

Senior Student Is Table Tennis Champ

The table-tennis king at North Texas State University, Denton, is a 64-year-old grandfather of two. A graduate student of education at NTSU, he is a Taiwan native who moved to the United States only two years ago.

Ken Shao-Hsien Ling is renewing his interests—albeit somewhat late in life—both in ping-pong and the field of education. He was one of the top table-tennis players in Taipei 30 years ago, and he received an undergraduate degree in education in China.

"I like it very much," said Ling about his ping-pong activities. "I spend lots of time in the company of young people."

Ling was chosen to represent the university in the regional tournament of the Association of College Unions International in February, but he had to turn down the offer to compete because the date fell at the same time as the Chinese New Year. Ling decided to attend a family reunion at his daughter's house instead.

But he'll be back, he says. He is a member of the U.S. Ping-Pong Association and the Table Tennis Club at NTSU, where he captured the table-tennis title.

"He's a regular," said Diane King, recreation manager for the NTSU student union. "He's got more energy than 10 kids put together."

Ling and his wife, Lee-Wha Yu, have been living in Denton since he retired from an administrative job with the Taiwan government. He said the main reason he came to the U.S. was to be near his four children, three of whom live in Texas.

"Just to enjoy myself—play, no work," he said of his studies for a master's degree in education at NTSU. As for table tennis, he has been playing since he was seven years old.

Senior voters in two villages in the greater Cincinnati, Ohio, area are credited with the passage of a half-mill levy to fund their senior centers. "Five Dollars for Senior Citizens" was the campaign slogan in Mariemont and North College Hill. Victory is credited to the older voter turnout and advocacy by the Council on Aging of the Cincinnati Area. Both senior centers are incorporated, nonprofit and use levies for staff costs.

The first apartment complex for senior citizens built with borrowed money is due for occupation early this year. The Stillaguamish Senior Center in Arlington, Washington, was granted a loan of $1.3 million from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development in 1978. The center apparently will be the first West Coast center to borrow money and build a structure on its grounds for elderly residents. Ground was broken July 13, 1979.

The center's residents will pay about 25 percent of their income for lodging, with the balance subsidized by the Federal Government. Tenants must be 60 years of age or older and capable of independent living. Applications already far exceed the rental spaces at Stillaguamish Center.

A two-year project to institute a nationwide system of continuing education programs in gerontological counseling is the target of the American Personnel and Guidance Association. The programs will be designed to aid service providers working with the elderly, such as senior center personnel, and will provide training in interpersonal communication skills and in referral skills. A series of regional workshops are planned to train educators and personnel in gerontological counseling skills and in how to develop continuing education programs.

Grandstand expansion set at Ruidoso Downs

A major expansion of Ruidoso Downs Race Track is scheduled to get underway immediately after the conclusion of the current meeting.

The new facility, to be erected at a cost of over $1 million, will be completed in time for the 1981 racing season, according to general manager Finlay MacGillivray.

The expansion will more than double the seating facilities of the All-American Turf Club, and will also provide additional grandstand seats, MacGillivray said.

"The demand for additional seating in both the Turf Club and the grandstand has been so great, we felt an expansion of this dimension was long past due,"

Complete family entertainment here

What's there to do in Ruidoso for a family, particularly a family with teenagers and pre-teens?

Plenty. Of course, there's the horse races in Ruidoso Downs. And all during the summer, there are special activities planned — the Billy the Kid pageant, and the Pony Express race and the Indian Pow Wow.

But what about your everyday, run of the mill activities? Well, how about these?

Miniature golf — there are two courses in Ruidoso. Holiday Golf is located on Sudderth Drive, near the Y. Then there's Panorama Miniature Golf, which is behind Four Seasons Mall in Midtown Ruidoso. Bowling — Holiday Bowl is in the Hollywood area near the first stoplight west of the "Y", and is open daily. They have pinball games and electronic machines for the kids, if you want to bowl and the youngsters don't.

Pinball — There are games at Holiday Bowl, as just mentioned, but the Ritz Arcade and Emporium, located next to Dos Amigos, near the post office, has a wide selection of pinball and other games, and Panorama Miniature Golf has an assortment too.

Skating — if roller disco is your thing, Skateland, located on Sudderth Drive, is the place to go. It's next to Four Seasons Mall.

Horseback Riding — there are several stables in the area, including Buddie's Stables, located on Carrizo Canyon Road; Cowboy's Stables, on Highway 70 between Ruidoso and Ruidoso Downs; Ruidoso Ski and Recreation Area, located just off Highway 37 on the ski area road; and the Inn of the Mountain Gods also has a large stable. Contact any of these businesses for information, because rates and times vary.

Movies — there is a twin screen indoor theater located on Highway 70 west — it's impossible to miss, because it's in a cartle. Appropriately, it's called the Camelot Twin Theater.

There is a drive-in theater on Highway 70 east, open after sundown.

Boating — the Inn of the Mountain Gods has small sail boats, canoes and row boats for rent on their 160 acre lake.

For the elders, there's the Senior Citizens' Center, located behind the Ruidoso Public Library. It has a variety of activities specifically designed for senior citizens.

MacGillivray said. "The expansion also reflects the continuing efforts of the board of directors to upgrade the facilities of both Ruidoso Downs and Sunland Park. The Ruidoso expansion, of course, is subject to formal approval of the New Mexico State Racing Commission."

Both tracks are owned and operated by Ruidoso-Sunland, Inc. The latter is a wholly owned subsidiary of the Ruidoso Jockey Club.

According to architectural plans approved by the board of directors, the Ruidoso grandstand and clubhouse will be extended 125 feet east — toward the top of the homestretch. The addition will extend over the site now occupied by the paddock. The width of the addition is 135 feet.

The paddock and jockey quarters, will be relocated in the infield, at a point just east of the totalisator board. A tunnel, passing underneath the homestretch, will provide access to the paddock.

The new paddock, MacGillivray pointed out, will be located so that saddling activities will be in full view of the entire grandstand.

New general offices will be included in the expanded facility.

The new structure will continue the architectural lines of the existing grandstand. Thus, the addition will be a three-level structure, in complete harmony with current architectural themes. Included in the plans is the painting of the entire outside of both the new and existing structures.

The All-American Turf Club will be increased dramatically in size, since both the mezzanine and upper level will be lengthened 125 feet. The expansion will accommodate 531 more seats in the Turf Club. These seats will be arranged in table and box seat patterns, following the existing Turf Club arrangement.

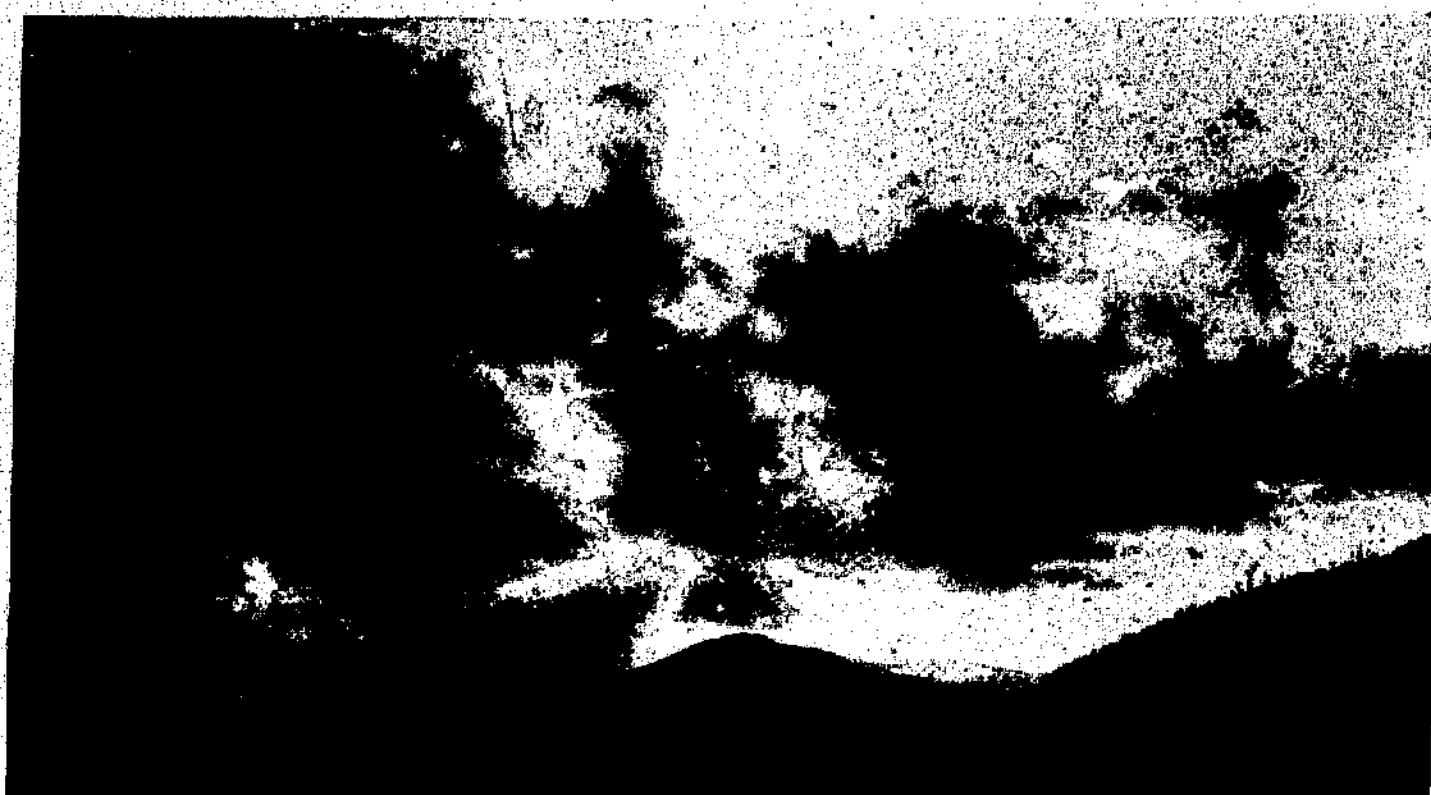

Also included in the new plans is the addition of 395 seats in an uncovered grandstand area.

The Turf Club seating will be offered on a seasonal basis, while the new grandstand seats will be available on a daily basis.

New mutual lines, new concession areas, expanded dining facilities and additional restrooms are included in the Turf Club expansion, MacGillivray pointed out.

According to current plans, construction will get underway September 2 — the day following the All-American Futurity and the day following the conclusion of the 1980 racing season.

The project will mark the most ambitious expansion at Ruidoso Downs since 1972, when the Jockey Club was enlarged as the All-American Turf Club was built.

Backpacking will take you into untamed wilderness

There's no better place than the Sacramento Mountains surrounding Ruidoso to "get away from it all."

When you get up into the beautiful pine-covered peaks, you know you're in God's country. And any given weekend will find plenty of backpackers atop the mountains, or making the supreme effort to.

Backpacking is a specialized form of camping. The backpacker carries all his gear, as opposed to the camper who transports his gear atop a mule or in vehicle, and generally sticks to marked, developed campsites.

The backpacker can move into any area his feet can take him, provided he's fit enough. Traveling on foot in the mountains is very strenuous, and one has to be careful at Ruidoso's high elevations. Check with your doctor before planning a backpacking trip. Don't take the risk of a heart attack needlessly.

Though backpacking can be fun, it can be a catastrophe if you don't plan thoroughly. Planning a trip may not be enjoyable, but it is important to its success.

Any backpacker will tell you possibly the most important item you could purchase is a good pair of boots. Of course, new boots aren't a necessity, and in fact, if you get new boots, buy them several weeks in advance and break them in. Otherwise the only thing broken in will be your feet.

Sturdiness is an important factor to consider, as is comfort. Good boots are expensive, and inexpensive boots are a very bad investment — they won't last as long, and you'll wind up paying for your savings with tired, aching and blistered feet.

Buy waterproof boots, or have a pair you now own waterproofed — a wet foot is not a good idea, and wet leather dries into very stiff leather.

Good ventilation is absolutely necessary. It allows perspiration to escape, and proper ventilation, believe it or not, helps keep your feet from getting cold at night.

Another essential, but only if you're going to camp out overnight, is a sleeping bag. A good, top quality bag is a definite must in the cool mountains. Without one, you'll spend some uncomfortable nights on the slopes.

A duck or goose down bag is the warmest bag you can buy, but it'll cost a fortune. Down bags are also notoriously poor water repellents. If it rains — which happens quite frequently in the summer months — you'll probably get wet before it's all over, and then you'll have a wet bag to carry around, plus your other gear.

A better buy would be a nylon, water repellent bag filled with a synthetic material, such as Fiberfill II. They're almost as light as down bags, almost as warm, and they repel water very well. And they're much less expensive.

While we're at it, you might think about buying a foam pad or an air mattress to provide a little more padding between you and Mother Earth. An air mattress sleeps well, but they're heavy, bulky, you have to inflate them each time you use them and if you get a tear or rip in one, there goes your pad.

A foam pad, about an inch thick, as wide as your bag and long enough to reach from your head to your knees, is inexpensive and doesn't need inflating. It is bulkier, but you shouldn't have any difficulty rolling it up in your bag.

Whatever you get, try to keep it as dry as possible. Sleeping in a wet bag is an experience no backpacker can ever forget. A nylon bag specially designed to keep sleeping bags dry is a good idea, although certainly not necessary.

A tent for summer campers is not necessary, although one would help keep its occupants dry. And it will help keep the wind from bothering you too. But consider where you'll be using it. An airy desert tent would be next to useless here, and one designed for arctic temperatures would be overkill.

A tent is also a lot of weight to haul around, so for many trips it would be more of a burden than an aid.

Next, of course, is food and water. Food is a tricky item. Canned goods are inexpensive, but extremely heavy, and disposal of an empty can requires burying it. Fresh food doesn't keep well.

Dehydrated food is definitely lighter, but is also less tasty and more expensive. The choice is up to you.

Whatever you take, you'll probably want to cook it. The premium is on light gear — aluminum utensils are light, durable and last forever. Cast iron Dutch ovens and skillets are good too, but they weigh a ton. For eating, you only need a knife and spoon. A fork is only dead weight.

Fresh water can be a problem. It's better to take a lightweight clean polyethylene bottle for water, instead of a metal canteen (due to the weight difference.) Water is heavier than you think, but it isn't wise to sacrifice water weight instead of canteen weight. (At the end of the day, you'll wish you had more water.)

Whether or not to build a fire is not your decision — that's up to the Forest Service. Before you enter any wilderness area, check with the Forest Service and let them know where you're going. They'll tell you if you can build a fire or not.

If not, forget it, and take foods you don't need to cook. And don't even try building one — if you're caught, you'll get heavily fined at the very least. At worst, you might find yourself right in the middle of a forest fire.

If the rangers say it's okay, a small alcohol or wood-burning stove is a nice thing to have, although not necessary. Gather the wood you need from the ground only. Do not cut any trees, living or dead, for wood.

Now that you have all your gear, you need a backpack. Backpacks come in two forms — aluminum frame and woven straps. Both are good, although the strap frame is lighter. Whichever suits you best is the one to use.

Odds and ends you might find handy: a pocket knife, a collapsible fishing rod and an assortment of lures, a New Mexico fishing license, extra clothes, a plastic poncho, rope, a hatchet and extra shoelaces.

Definite "musts" you should take: plenty of matches, including several wrapped in aluminum foil and plastic to keep them dry; a compass; a map; sunscreen; insect repellent; a first aid kit; safety pins (great for removing splinters, repairing torn clothing, and in a pinch will serve as a fishing hook); and fishing line (monofilament), which will serve more uses than you could ever imagine.

Take any other items you might want, although at the end of a long day, you might wish you hadn't brought along that book you've been meaning to read.

Lastly, check where you're going to make sure you aren't going to trespass on private property. You can probably obtain permission from the owner if you so desire. If he doesn't want you there, of course you have no choice, and should re-map your trip.

Wherever you stop at night, make sure your fire (if you built one) is completely out before you leave, and make sure you're not leaving anything behind. Leave your campsite cleaner than it was when you arrived.

For more information, call the United States Forest Service for helpful ideas and forest information. They're at 267-4005, and they'll be more than happy to help you. Happy hiking!

Caper differs from genuine burglary

Ever wonder what the difference is between a burglary and a caper?

A burglary occurs when someone hurls a rock through a window, climbs in after it and steals all the items he can carry back out again.

A caper is a well-planned heist, usually involving several persons and when these professional crooks hit a place there usually isn't much left behind when they leave.

Wayne Blair of Elephant Butte was the victim of a caper back on October 17, 1979.

While Blair and his wife were out of town on business, his double-wide trailer was broken into and an estimated $10,100 was taken by the crooks.

This week the State Crime Stoppers Commission is offering a $1,000 reward for information leading to the solution of the well planned crime. Blair is also offering a $500 reward of his own.

John Ashbaugh, Investigations Commander for the Sierra County Sheriff's Department, said the burglary took place around midnight October 17.

"One of the neighbors heard a vehicle in the area around midnight," Ashbaugh said, "and we figure that was about the time the breakin occurred."

Ashbaugh said the offenders parked their vehicle about a quarter of a mile away from the Blair residence, then walked up a canyon to the trailer.

"We've got footprints belonging to four persons, two males, a female and one small child. One offender had to have been very large, because he had a size 11 or 12 foot. He had on something similar to Air Force boots. We also found tracks from some tennis shoes and one set of Dingo boots," he said.

The offenders used a carpenter's pry bar to force open a door on the north side of Blair's trailer.

Once inside, they had a field day.

They escaped with an assortment of guns and jewelry. Among the guns taken by the offenders were a Ruger .357 magnum with a six-inch barrel; a Ruger

.22 magnum Blackhawk with a six-inch barrel; a Ruger .30-06 rifle with a Weaver scope; a Winchester .30-30 Model 54 rifle; a Winchester .12 gauge shotgun; a Sears .22 caliber automatic rifle with a scope; a Remington .410 gauge bolt action shotgun; and a Colt .23 caliber revolver with a three inch barrel and a bronze cylinder. Each of the guns is marked "W. B."

The offenders also got away with a 12 place sterling silver set, as well as about $1,800 in silver Eisenhower dollars. That wasn't all. Also taken were 63 silver Bicentennial dollars; $3,000 in turquoise including numerous rings and several squashblossoms; three men's diamond rings; one wedding band with six diamonds in it; a dinner ring with a one and three quarters karat diamond; another dinner ring with a one karat diamond; three emeralds in a unique arrowhead shape; two rubies and a diamond also shaped like an arrowhead, set in gold; an Omega watch with a turquoise band; a turquoise nugget band; and an Avon brand blue woman's jewelry box with numerous other diamond rings.

Ashbaugh says his office have few leads to go on and are hoping that someone around the state might be able to provide the essential information to break the case.

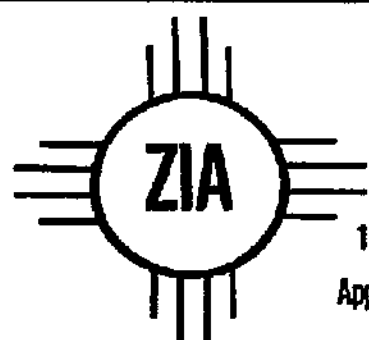

Anyone having any information which could help solve this extensive caper is asked to call the State Crime Stoppers Commission at its toll-free number, 1-800-432-6833. Callers do not have to reveal their identities and their calls are not taped.

Last week's "Fugitive of the Week" didn't last very long. David Carnes, 22, who had escaped from the Sandoval County Jail in Bernalillo on April 6, was caught April 10 by deputies from the Valencia County Sheriff's Office at a campground near Belen. They received a tip from a citizen who had seen Carnes in the area. A State Crime Stoppers reward will be paid in the case.

To date, 130 cases have been solved with the help of calls to the State Crime Stoppers Commission.

New Duplex totalisator system speeds horse race betting

BY MARK BAGBY
Staff Writer/Photographer

Bettors at Ruidoso Downs Race Track have probably noticed it doesn't take as long to make wagers as it used to, and you can buy all tickets of one denomination at only one window, and if you win, it doesn't take all day to get the payoff.

You can thank the Duplex Totalisator. Almost every race track in the country uses totalisators, which are basically special machines used in wagering — they figure up how much money is taken in, and what sort of odds you'll have.

The disadvantage of that system is the necessity of having four machines for each wager — one each for win, place, show and one for quinnella, daily double or Big Q. But the Duplex Totalisator — which, roughly, is two computers side by side — does all that work. In other words, one machine now does the work of four.

What that means to the bettor is shorter lines and added convenience, explains mutuels manager Jerry Knott.

"The lines become balanced out now," Knott said recently. "We're doing more business now, but in less time. People can now make all their wagers — of any one denomination — at one window. They don't have to go stand in other lines, unless they want to change denominations."

"And, if you have winners — say in win, place and show — you can cash them all at one window too."

It used to be, Knott said, depending on the race, some windows were swamped after a race.

"On a winning long shot, most of the win chasers didn't have a whole lot to do, but the show chasers were real busy," he said. "Now they all do about the same amount of work."

Here's how the Duplex Totalisator operates: all the information for each day's races is programmed into the computer that morning by technicians George Luther and Bob Chisholm. That takes about five minutes, Chisholm said.

Then, when bettors make wagers, the ticket sellers punch a keyboard at the window, indicating which horse, which race result and amount sold. All that information is printed on the tickets and goes into the computer.

All that information is what makes the odds, which the computer does every minute, and odds can change exactly every minute.

"Now they change every sixty seconds on the dot," Knott said. "We used to have to figure those manually, and we tried to get them out every minute."

All the betting windows are covered by closed circuit television cameras so Knott can judge how long wagering lines are. This aspect of the job is very important. The horses don't run without his prior approval, and he sets the time limit between races.

Once betting is closed, Luther, Knott and Chisholm get ready for the race itself, which comes in on closed circuit television. The moment the race results are in, that information goes into the computer, which starts printing a long listing of payoffs for all windows.

The listings are checked for accuracy, and then the next race is ready to run.

That, in a simplified version, is how the machine works.

"Years ago, we didn't have any kind of totalisator," Knott said. "We had to reach each machine for win, place and show and figure it all by hand. Later, we got a totalisator, which made things easier."

"We also used to have pre-printed daily double tickets for the races, and you pulled them out of a rack. Now we have a large roll of blank paper, and after the ticket information is punched in, the ticket is printed up by our machines."

Of course, when there are new systems involved, some difficulties develop. Some of the sellers and cashiers had problems at first, Knott said, catching onto the system. But those have been solved.

In fact, the system is so efficient, not all of it is in operation.

"Now we're handling about $400,000 with a fourth of our windows not open," Knott said. "We should be able to handle $500,000 days with just over 50 percent of our machines operating."

"By Labor Day, we should have very machine running."

One disadvantage of this system is computer failure. If one computer fails, the other can take over. If both fail, "we're out of business," Knott said.

But he emphasized double failure is highly unlikely, and added "we have quite a lot of parts on hand and we should probably be back in business in a matter of minutes."

The system made its debut at the New Mexico State Fair last fall, and then moved here. After Labor Day, it will move back to the fair this fall and then to Sunland Park in October and then back to Ruidoso Downs in 1981, Knott said.

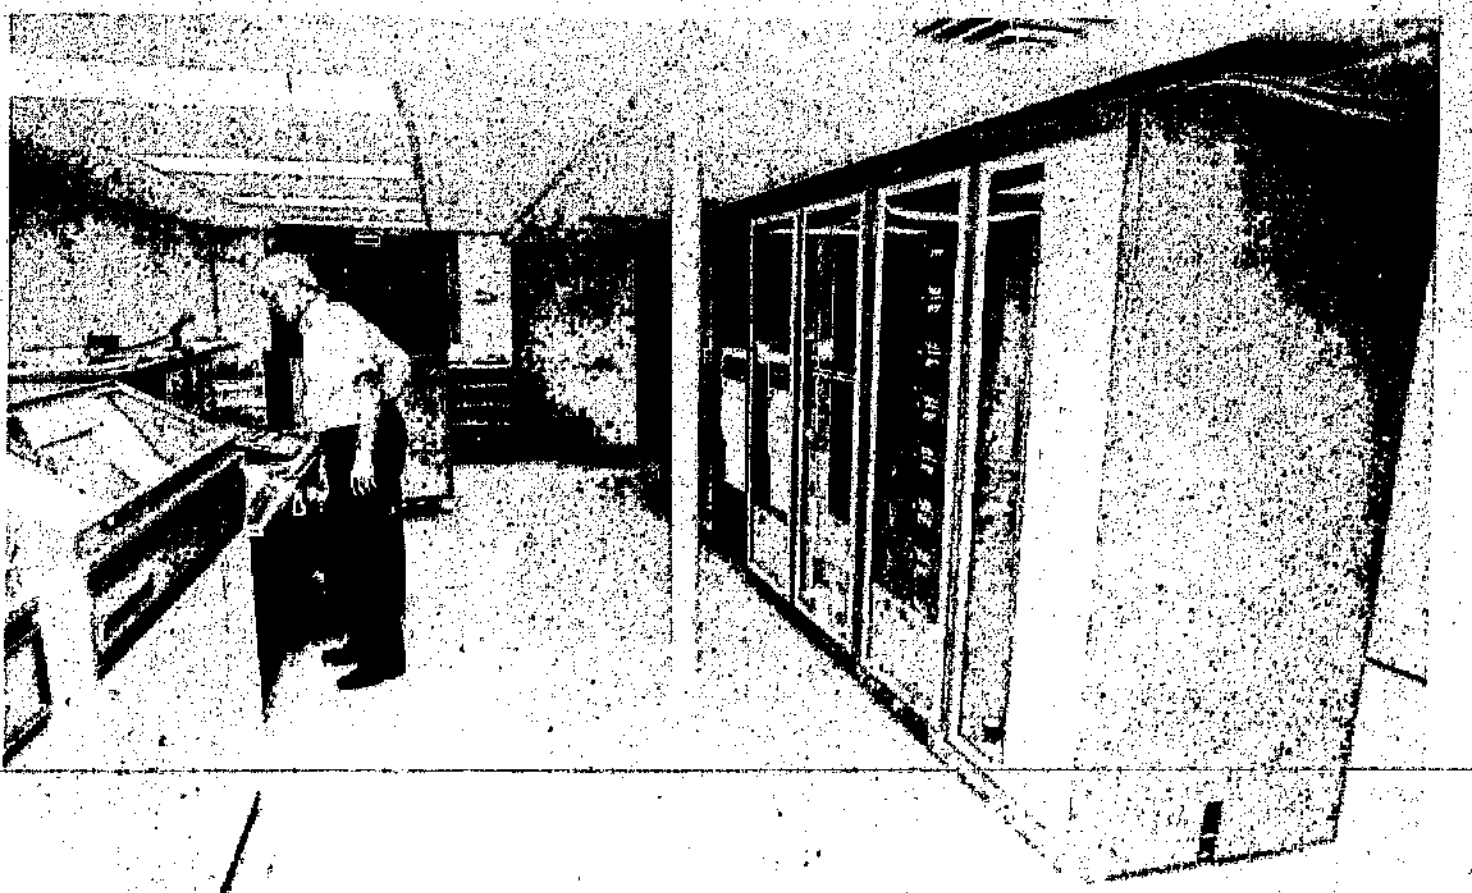

"It's sort of a circuit," he said. The Duplex Totalisator is rented for a percentage of the track's take, he said, and has a $50,000 installation fee.

It isn't cheap, by any means, but as Knott pointed out, "we can handle more money faster, so it's well worth it."

Although it speeds things up, it still doesn't free Knott from his duties. He's been the mutuels manager for Ruidoso Downs since 1952, "and I haven't seen a race at this track since then."

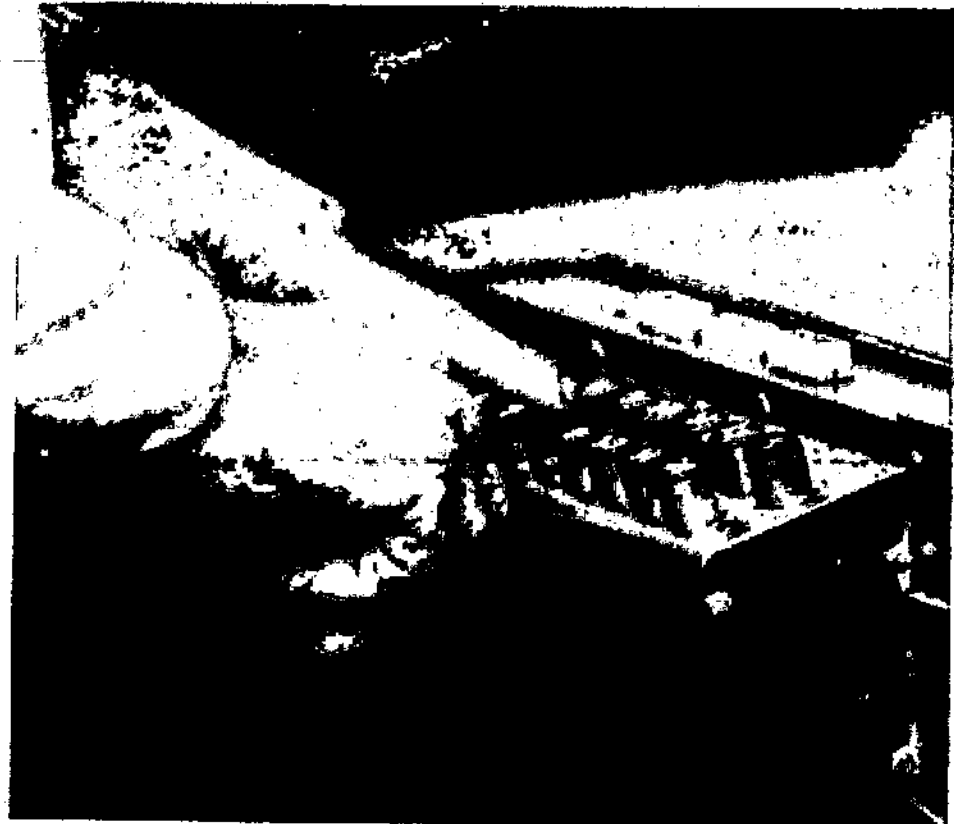

But, on the other hand, Knott said, "We can handle more money in less time, sell more tickets, have shorter lines and less waiting times for bettors, and shorter lines can mean shorter times between races. It's less headaches all around."

And you just can't beat a deal like that.

ALMOST FILLING THE ROOM is the computer and its components. The computer banks are on the right, with the printer and programming keyboard on the left.

AT THE SELLER'S WINDOW all the buyer's information is punched in. This prints a ticket (or tickets) and the information is also sent to the computer, which figures odds, and later, payoffs.

MUTUELS MANAGER Jerry Knott prepares copies of the printout following a race for distribution among key personnel in the operation.

CLOSED CIRCUIT TELEVISIONS monitor betting lines, odds and one screen carries the race from start to finish.

LUTHER MAKES an adjustment on the computer's programming keyboard. All race information is inserted into the computer before any races begin.

The Silver Lining

BY DANIEL AGNEW STORM

Two Memorial Days
The new Memorial Day on Monday, the twenty-sixth, was a beautiful and happy day, fitting weather for such an honored holiday. However, I can not help but remember the traditional Memorial Day on the thirtieth of May. Many a happy memory returns of parades, and religious services and other tributes to those who fell defending our sacred and beloved land. We can have two Memorial Days. Really and truly, every day is Memorial Day. Our loved ones in Heaven are never out of our hearts and memories. Their spirits are with us always.

The Wild Rose And The Oriole

Some of Mother Nature's most beloved children arrived in the vale just on the new Memorial Day in time to join in the celebration. The little pink wild rose, world wide flower favorite put on its first blooms on the morning bright and early of the twenty-sixth. The little wild rose patch out by the old wind mill tower was newly decorated with hosts of the tender fragrant blossoms.

And from the little pear tree east of the house came the clear whistling notes of a summer bird, sounding like a robin and also something like a meadow lark, and yet bird music all its own. There was a flash of bright orange and shining black in the pear branches as the bird changed his position. And then you saw that this was a welcome summer visitor, the Oriole. He looked just exactly like the Baltimore Oriole, and yet he could have been the Orchard Oriole or Scott's Oriole. They all look much alike and their songs are similar. This black and orange singer kept up a morning serenade for an hour or so, while the stars and stripes floated in the gentle breeze.

Volleyball And Dinner On The Ground

On Memorial Day some good folks came down from Ruidoso and helped me celebrate a very joyous New Memorial Day, at the shady spot at the bend of the river under the oak and walnut trees where the family first arrived in 1925. Many is the picnic that has been held at this beloved spot through the years; but this is the first time it was the location of a miniature athletic field.

After dinner on the ground under the direction of Ken Green, players of all ages played volleyball to the accompaniment of a continuous chorus of laughter sounding from voices great and small.

Almost half the time, the ball would receive a mighty blow that sent it bouncing toward the river. Then there would be a frantic chase to keep the ball from floating down the river to Roswell, sometimes resulting in a plunge "into the foaming brine."

Midway between the meal of hamburgers cooked on an outside charcoal stove and many other good things, the oriole arrived and sang from the top of the giant walnut tree. He sent his loud, clear flute like notes ringing forth as rapidly as he could send them out, serenading the happy celebrators below him in the shade at the river's bend.

Those who honored the Storm ranch with their presence and made a day of happiness on Memorial Day were:

Ken and Mary Lois Green, and Ken's brother, Walt, and daughter Leighann; Jerry and Marilyn Bigham and sons, Jeffery and Jason; Frank and Beth Sawyer, and daughter, Amy, and son Robert; and last but not least, custodian of the volley ball net, Mel O'Reilly, and his wife Monica and their children Mel Dylan, Colin Bryan; and Patrick Brendan.

The Flag Pole

Never a day goes by that I am not thankful to Ken Green, Mel O'Reilly, Pete Wood, and Bones Wright for the flag pole south of the house, flashing the red, white and blue to the world that passes by on the highway.

Ken devised a method of setting up the pole with the help of his jeep that should earn him an honorary doctor's degree in engineering. He and Mel labored like trojans, with the help of some of the children — and one fast approaching his second childhood (or maybe long past this stage) with the result that the flag pole is as solid as the Rock of Gibraltar — proof against the strongest raging blast.

Let us thank God, this memorial season, for our blessings, our country, and our friends and loved ones.

School district receives special federal funding

Ruidoso Independent School District will receive $104,805.67 for school year 1990-91 under Public Law 874.

The announcement of the funding was made Wednesday by William L. Stormer, director of the division of school assistance for the Department of Education.

Pat Valliant, school superintendent, said the law provides funding to school districts in federally affected areas. Since Ruidoso's school system serves an Indian reservation, Forest Service personnel living on forest land and some students whose parents live at Holloman Air Force Base near Alamogordo, the funds are automatically paid to the district.

"This is in lieu of tax money" paid by regular residents, Valliant said.

He added that the amount is not 100 percent of what the school is entitled to, but it will be deducted from the total amount paid the district by the state in equalization funds. The new budget showed an estimated $101,376 expected from this revenue source. Valliant said that since the figure is slightly higher, other federal funding figures in the budget could change, but probably not substantially.

"Each district is entitled to a certain amount of state money to fund programs each year. This amount will be deducted from our total allotment," he said.

TROY PARKER, of the Troy Parker Chevron Station, Ruidoso Downs, was recently honored by his company for 20 years of service, 19 of which have been at the local station. He received the plaque above and a pin at a dinner sponsored by the Chevron officials and held at the Ruidoso Holiday Inn.

One of the biggest factors when buying a home is energy cost.

Keep yours low with an ENERGY CHECKED HOME.

A newly built home bearing the Energy Checked Sign means that home was constructed with energy efficiency in mind. Energy features include insulation in walls and ceilings, and caulking and weatherstripping around doors and windows. Appliances and heating and cooling systems have been selected for top energy efficiency. These and other energy saving features are built right in to give you lower utility bills year after year.

Buying an older home can be a utility saver too, if that home has qualified as Energy Checked. When requested, our representatives inspect older homes for energy improvements. Homes are checked for the same energy saving features required in a newly built Energy Checked Home. Just look for the Energy Checked Sign when buying an older home, for year round energy savings.

SANTA FE — Sometimes it seems the thing folks should want the most turns out to be what they hunger for the least.

We're talking about the truth. The thought occurs while listening to a fine and respectable gentleman talk about a new program which ought to turn us on — a monitoring project which allows ordinary laymen to say what they think of the performance of our state's magistrate courts.

Great idea. Seldom do any members of the judiciary hear anything from the citizens on whom they sit in judgment. This would allow for that. Though it seems a little chicken to start with the magistrate courts, which outside Bernalillo county are not even necessarily presided over by members of the bar (we'd start with the federal judges; those are the guys who need to hear what the ordinary citizens think of them), at least the project, sponsored by an organization called Court Update, is a beginning.

What matters, however, is the eventual disposition of the evaluations these well-meaning volunteer citizens make.

Who hears their judgment?

Who listens? Are we to believe the courts of New Mexico have suddenly been overcome by an access of humility? Have you heard a single judge calling for us to judge his or her performance?

Won't this report, when it is completed after thousands of hours of honest labor by these honest people, go where all such reports have gone in the past — onto the shelf, to moulder and gather dust?

The one thing no judge in our acquaintance has ever wanted is what this project proposes to give: a chance to be judged.

The one thing every judge we have ever know, man, woman or child has wanted, is that he or she be supreme in his or her own court. The one attraction to the job, especially for lawyers who make a lot of money without wearing robes, is sheer and unalloyed power.

The feeling that "I control" has made more judges than any other single emotion.

So you think these guys are going to pay a lot of attention to what some laymen say about how they conduct their courts?

They'll get all excited over the physical aspects of this report — how their courtroom should have a better air-conditioning system or the men's room should be in a new location. But as to those things which have to do with the dispensation of justice, they'll muddle them and confuse the picture and smudge the edges till the report might as well not have been written.

Fabian Chavez, former Senator, is still very proud of the fact that he urged doing away with the justice of the peace system in New Mexico. He did — successfully — and we got the magistrate courts.

What's the difference?

New names. New titles. Better physical facilities.

But better justice? Not even Fabian will reasonably claim that.

Are we therefore to believe that a monitoring system is going to bring permanent betterment to the system? While it goes on, maybe. After it's over, not by a long chalk.

Stick around. We'll be bringing you further word on any startling improvements in our lower courts.

Letters to the Editor

Dear editor:

For several years now I have quietly sat by as we observed Memorial Day as many Americans do on this special day, but for a good many reasons I feel inspired to sit down and try to express my feelings. During the past year, with the hostage situation, inflation, etc., and to say the least, a good bit of humbling when it comes to our bureaucrats. We have all, at one time or another, felt real dismay and disgust in our hearts and minds, which is only natural, if we are true Americans and have deep concern for our future in these troubled times. I am guilty of these feelings of despair also, plus plenty of griping. But, people of New Mexico and the rest of this nation, I emphatically stress we still have the greatest democratic society and more going for us than any place in the world.

As a wounded ex-Marine, who served with the sixth Marine Division of World War II on Okinawa, I am a very proud American, and if not for physical disability and age, would gladly answer the call to duty again. It has been 35 years since the war ended in the Pacific, but not a day goes by that I don't remember the fact that fellow Marines, plus Army, Navy and Air Force men laid down their lives for the freedoms that we still enjoy today. Time has a way of letting us forget or say, oh, that's in the past. Since World War II we have had the Korean Conflict with thousands dead and wounded, and then the great debacle of the Vietnam War, with more forgotten Veterans of any war, of which most served with as great a pride and sense of duty as the other wars mentioned, but received the least recognition. It saddens me to think that these Veterans did not get the proper appreciation, until the last 2 or 3 years.

Those men of the Iran Incident were also brave and dedicated. No greater love hath a man or woman than is willing to lay down their lives for God, friends, loved ones, and America. We also must not forget on this day, our law enforcement officers of New Mexico and the United States who have laid down their lives to protect us to the best of their ability. At least four officers in the past year have gone on to Glory. God rest their souls. On a somewhat different matter, but is still tied to the Veteran segment of our society is the Veterans Administration Center at Albuquerque.

We have one of the best in the United States. Some Veterans may disagree with me about our V.A. hospital, but on the average, the doctors, nurses, and other employees are dedicated and try to do what is best for the veterans. We also have a very good regional office. The Veterans Administration has lost ground during the last three Administrations in Washington, D.C., but citizens of New Mexico, you have the right to do something about it. Come election time, so let your conscience and good God given sense guide you in your decisions at the polls. As a 58 year old man, I have seen some very dark and critical times, the big depression, the World War II years, which at times seemed to be a no win situation, but God was with us. So, in closing, I say God Bless America and may the souls of those departed rest in peace.

Lynn L. Ayers
Nogal, New Mexico

Dear editor:

The two items in the 5-22 editorial were not only unexciting but hardly worth the space taken in reporting them.

Mayor Davis' feeling about dogs is well known and I join him in the fact dogs are not my favorite animal — however — I do own a dog — not that I planned to do so, but, I could not see this fine animal go to the dog pound for certain death. Her good fortune is also mine as she has become an excellent watch dog and it is nice to have her sitting beside me as I work outside our home — a dog can be a good friend. If the Mayor had objected to horses or horse racing — then — you would have had a real news item. But dogs — let them be — please!

The Humane Society's anxiety about hiring an animal control officer is well understood based on the experience of animal control in the village in the past. To hire someone without proper training or background would be worse than no control. The trustees did bring out, however, in a discussion with the animal control candidate, that he was indeed qualified for the job — and he was hired. This is a good move as the animal control situation in the Village is currently non-existent and this is being corrected.

The question put to the Village trustees by the Humane Society was not out of line — simply a little premature. I don't believe that the Humane Society or any other group is attempting to dictate to the Trustees as the editorial pointed out. Asking questions now and then of public officials is part of the democratic process — and keeps all of us on our toes!

There was one item brought out in the Trustees' meeting which was worthy of comment simply as news without controversy — Mike Mulholland reported to the Trustees that the Rotary Club committee had mapped locations and were now ready to install street signs starting in the Upper Canyon. Street signs in Ruidoso should be welcome news to everyone! This is news.

J.A. "Al" Jung

The announcement over the weekend that Ronald Reagan has the Republican nomination for President locked up, long before the national nominating convention, indicates that our primary election process needs changing.

One solution could be to have a national primary election day, with the first Tuesday in June being as good as any other. All 50 states would vote the presidential primary that day, thus giving every voter the feeling that he was participating in naming his party's nominee. Why should any Republican cast a ballot for President June 3, or national convention delegates pledged to Reagan, or any other candidate, when that vote is meaningless?

Candidates could still file for office, hit the hustings and try and sell themselves to the voters, just as now. The difference would be that voting delegates to national conventions would be named in the primary election, thus giving each of the 50 states a voice in the convention voting, as no candidate could win nomination weeks before many states hold their primaries.

Another change could also be inaugurated, applicable to the general election also, to provide that all announcements of voting results in both the primary and general elections be withheld until after the polls close in Alaska and Hawaii. What'd be wrong with learning who'd won the races the day after the election?

This would eliminate the futility of the June 3 election for many Republicans this year. It would also give voters in the Pacific, Alaskan and Hawaiian time zones a reason to vote, which is not the case now when it's known who's been elected before their polls close. This primary election change could eliminate cut and dried national nominating conventions and give both the nominees and the people the impression that the democratic process, majority rule, had been carried out. —CD

TWO MEMORIAL DAYS?

Remember ... during the "Happy Days Are Here Again" reign of FDR ... when he jockeyed Thanksgiving Day around ... making it on the third Thursday ... 'stead the fourth ... in November ... ostensibly so people'd have more money to spend for Christmas ... and thus bolster the economy?

With all due respect to FDR ... and "A" for effort ... and all such accolades ... there was just some turmoil over when to celebrate Thanksgiving ... and some states did on the third ... some on the fourth ... and some folks did as they pleased ... and confusion reigned ... and no more turkeys were sold ... or money spent on Christmas ... 'cause some folks were getting those $44 monthly WPA checks ... with checkers gettin' maybe $5 or $10 more ... with it not mattering much when it was spent ... so eating Thanksgiving dinner a week earlier really didn't leave any extra loot to spend for Christmas ... or so it seemed to work out ... as 'twas FDR's main exercise in futility.

So ... who'da thought ... come 1980 ... that FDR's legacy of moving dates around, resulting in the present system of moving holidays so as to include a Monday off ... for a Saturday-Monday weekend ... would be right here haunting us?

This year ... for example ... with May 30 falling on a Friday ... seems as though everyone coulda had Friday off ... giving that much cherished three day weekend to those as can have three days off ... and those as gets paid for not working, would so get paid ... and Memorial Day coulda been on Memorial Day ... and not Monday, May 26 ... and it'd all worked out the same ... or doesn't a three day weekend beginning with Friday have as many days to enjoy not working as one running from Saturday through Monday?

And right here in Harmony Valley there was those businesses as was closed Monday ... with village, county and state offices closing Friday ... and the banks ... to observe traditional Memorial Day ... which'll have lotsa folks being a mite confused ... especially those as didn't work Monday ... and will be working Friday ... wishing those as worked Monday hadn't ... so they could do business Friday as usual.

Yup ... seems holidays should fall on their day ... and if it's in the middle of the week ... it's still a day of no work and full day ... besides one day off in the middle of the week'd save more energy than three consecutive days off ... no?

ANIMAL SHELTER NAME?

At Tuesday's trustee meeting it was ... it was brought up before those duly assembled ... including spectators ... and those as had business with the board ... that 'twas mentioned ... by village clerk Jim Hine ... that good ol' boy Bill McCarty ... of White Mountain Development ... just happens to have one acre of land ... in Gavilan Canyon ... outta the village limits ... that he figures is more than suitable for the animal shelter that the Humane Society of Lincoln County is fixin' to build ... and, further, that good ol' boy Bill'll up and donate said land to the village ... no strings attached ... if'n the village'll accept it ... and lease it to the Humane Society folks ... and, though there's nothing formal about the offer ... 'twas made ... and if'n there's no legal barriers to such a deal ... Bill'll make it all legal and stuff ... and less people'd be close enough to the proposed shelter to really test 'out that no-noise-within-100-feet-of-the-shelter promise as the society folks is claimin' their building down by the sewer and hot mix plant'll provide.

'Twas immediately after this pronouncement by Hine that mayor Lloyd L. Davis Jr. ... who has well publicized feelings towards animals ... and folks as harbor them ... made a comment as caught the immediate attention ... nay more, undivided attention of the audience ... whose attention was already rapt by this time ... considerin' the mayor's outlook ... and all ... and, no kidding, Lloyd rose to the occasion as his finest hour ... 'cause he done up and said as how he allowed that this'd be a mighty fine gesture on McCarty's part ... and that'd it get the animal shelter outta town ... and outta everyone's hair ... including Lloyd's ... and that he'd really support this move ... and then, outta the blue, came this most enlightening statement ... that he'd really push, plug and promote this new location ... with the specific proviso that the structure be named ... hang on ... "The Lloyd L. Davis Jr. Animal Shelter" ... which, considering everything ... might be a fitting tribute ... and conclusion ... to everything ... and there'd not be a resident of the facility as'd voice any opposition.

Why ... if'n the Humane Society'd adopt this proposed name ... which'd really do no harm at all, at all ... the mayor might get some laudatory fan mail.

BRIEF BIT: If'n Our Jimmy gets the nomination before the nominating convention, do you suppose Teddy baby'll revive the Chappaquiddick Party ... CD

YOUR ENTERTAINMENT AND DINING GUIDE

Jockey/Trainer of the week

BY MIKE MAGDA
Carlos Rivas captured five races, including the $3,435 Mescalero Apache Handicap, to earn Jockey of the Week honors at Ruidoso Downs. Rivas won three races Friday to kick off the four day holiday weekend, then rallied for two more wins Sunday.

Bill Leach was named Trainer of the Week after his starters won four races. There were five trainers with two wins each.

Rivas guided 8-1 pick Vitenpost Jr. to the winner's circle in the 6 1/2 furlong Mescalero Apache Handicap to cap off his brilliant weekend. His other victory Sunday was on Sunland Park track record holder Draconic's Loom in an 870 yard race.

The five win weekend boosted Rivas into the top 10 of the jockey standings. Richard Bickel, down two victories to Jackie Martin last week, edged into first place with a better overall record. Both Bickel and Martin have nine wins on the season but Bickel takes the advantage with a better place record.

Other newcomers to the top 10 this week include Larry Byers and Darrell Blevins. H. C. Werner Jr., maintained his lead in the overall trainer standings despite the rally of Leach. Werner has six wins while Leach and Rex Brooks have five each. Newcomers to the tally include Shirley A. Montgomery, Paul L. Walters, Fred I. Danley and Billy W. Hughes.

Racing at Ruidoso Downs continues this Friday and extends through Sunday. Topping the action is the $388,611 grand finale of the Kansas Futurity, the first jewel in the two-year-old quarter horse Triple Crown. The regionally televised 350 yard sprint goes Sunday.

The $72,927 Kansas Futurity First Consolation is set Saturday and the $37,982 Second Consolation tops Friday's program. Also set Friday are trials for the Rio Grande Kindergarten Futurity, the first two-year-old thoroughbred stakes race of the season.

First post each day is 1 p.m.

JOCKEY RAMON APODACA was unhurt Saturday when his mount, Higher Rate, hit the rail at the top of the stretch and threw Apodaca into the infield. Higher Rate was in the lead when he suddenly ducked into the rail. Apodaca was taken to the hospital but quickly released. He was excused from his mount in the 12th race but came back to ride Sunday and Monday. Coming out of the turn, Higher Rate was challenged by Star Route, but he went wide and ran into the outside rail. Jockey Gary Sumpter jumped off. Neither horse was injured.

DEEP NIGHT APPEARS to have returned to the form that earned the four-year-old gelding over $57,000 in his freshman season. Friday he captured the 400 yard feature race by 1 1/2 lengths as a 3-1 pick with James Lackey aboard. Last year Deep Night went to the post only twice, but finished fifth in the All-American Derby Consolation to pick up $14,580. Friday's start was his first of 1980. Deep Night is owned by Jerry Sternadel of Wichita Falls, Texas and trained by Barwin D. Hanna.

KENNY ROLLER, a 16-year-old apprentice jockey, made his first ride on a recognized track Friday. The young helmsman, who is the son of retired rider Benny Roller, had a difficult time with a 50-1 pick Ellie's Rose in the six furlong test. He fell off before the finish line and failed to complete the races. The next day however, Roller was in Kingman, Arizona and won four races. Sunday he won one and placed second on four others.

TEE UP, WINNER OF $89,634 last year as a two-year-old, made her first start of 1980 and captured the ninth race Saturday. The chestnut filly was a neck in front of Major Mel after six furlongs. Tee Up, a 5-1 pick, has been off since taking sixth in the New Mexico Futurity. Her biggest payoff came in the Riley Allison Futurity where she was second, the same finish in the Kindergarten Futurity. Ruben Bustamante was aboard the Billy Hughes trained charge.

THE HIGHEST BIG Q of the season came Monday when eight lucky ticket holders took home $3,461.00 each. There were 290 exchanges after 6-1 Columbia Rose and 10-1 Honky King finished 1-2 in the 11th race. Then 8-1 Neighbor Rex won the 12th race followed by 35-1 Salppy's Beam. The previous Big Q high was $3,142. It was the second Big Q payoff over $3,000 over the weekend, the fourth of the season.

OWNER MACK YATES has started five two-year-old thoroughbreds this season and four have won in their first outs. At Sunland Park he started three, each winning their first outing and two eventually qualified for the Riley Allison Futurity. His fourth started Saturday and finished fifth as an even money favorite after racing wide in the turn. Sunday's first race saw Fill Mackin Cup go to the post as a 4-1 pick and win by a head over Cowboy Loving. Henry Uriagaa was up to the Bill Leach trained gelding.

DRACONIC'S LOOM, the recent yearling getter at Sunland Park, got his revenge at Bartonville in the fifth race Sunday. The battle ground was an 870 yard allowance race. Draconic's Loom, a thoroughbred who set a track record over five furlongs at Sunland Park this spring, was beaten by half length by Bartonville the last time they met. This time Draconic's Loom owned by Jessie and James Shinson of Lubbock, Texas captured the outing by almost two lengths over Bartonville, who was a 5-2 favorite. Carlos Rivas was up to the Stinsons, Rivas and trainer Jerry Trammel would later win the Mescalero Apache Handicap on Vitenpost Jr.

MIGHTY RESTLESS ran second for the fourth straight time and sixth in her last seven starts Sunday. The brown filly, who captured the hearts of the betting public at Sunland when she won her first out of 19 as a 195-1 longshot, was nosed out at the wire by Byers Hope, an 8-1 outsider. It was his second straight win at Ruidoso. Mighty Restless, the 3-2 favorite, has been on seven times since her stunning win at placed second in six of them. Her last losses have been by a neck and a nose.

JOCKEY STEVE FULLER reports the Acceptable, winner of the Top Deck Stakes on opening weekend, qualified for the $100,000 Los Alamitos Derby over the weekend. Acceptable had his five race winning streak snapped when he finished third in the trial, which was the fastest the day, and still qualified. Another runner in the Top Deck Stakes, Zipp Zoro, failed to qualify after problems in the gate.

IN STEWARDS BULINGS:
— Jockey Terry Layton was suspended three racing days for careless riding while aboard Artistic Pigeon in the 10th race May 23.

— Jockey Steve Harris was fined $50 for misuse of the whip after the running of the seventh race May 15.

— Jockey Larry Byers was fined $50 for failure to have control of his mount during the second race May 15.

— Jockey John Cushing was fined $50 for failure to have control of his mount after leaving the starting gate during the eighth race May 16.

— Jockey Willie Lovell was fined $50 for failure to maintain a straight course during the running of the fourth race May 15.

— Jockey Jackie Martin was fined $50 for failure to maintain a straight course during the seventh race May 16.

— Jockey Rolland Ramos was fined $50 for failure to have control of his mount after leaving the starting gate in the first race May 16.

— Mike K. Murphy and Robert Roller were fined $10 each for illegal parking.

WILLIE LOVELL is riding winners again

Willie's riding again, high, wide 'n handsome

BY DICK ALWAN

Just over a year ago, Willie Lovell got some bad news. Heart problems, the doctor said.

"It was a murmur, but I'd had it all my life, and it never bothered me," Willie, 41, said.

The problem surfaced when Lovell stopped by his family doctor for an annual checkup. The doctor put the problem in this perspective: "Willie, you've got to quit riding."

But when you ask Willie Lovell to stop riding horses, that's like asking a bird to quit flying. After all, Willie had been riding horses nearly all his life. He'd won many major races in the Southwest — including the All-American Futurity at Ruidoso Downs, the Riley Allison Thoroughbred Futurity at Sunland Park and the Land of Enchantment Futurity at La Mesa Park.

Besides, he was making a darn good living at this sort of thing. But what do you do when the doctor throws a heart murmur at you and says you'd better quit exerting yourself?

Left with no option, Willie Lovell closed out his riding career, went into a kind of mental turndown, then decided to go cold turkey as a trainer. But the cure didn't last.

Not only is Willie Lovell back in the saddle, he stands a tremendous chance of winning the $504,500 Kansas Quarter Horse Futurity at Ruidoso Sunday. The horse he's riding is Baby Hold On, a filly loaded with so much talent she leaves sonic shock waves when blasting out of the starting gate.

She's already earned $42,488 with a perfect four-for-four record. And, with Willie perched in the saddle, she boomed in with the top qualifying time for the Kansas. So if she streaks into the Kansas winner's circle June 1, Willie Lovell can add a comeback story to his long career of successes.

But what about that heart murmur? Maybe Willie is whistling in the dark, or looking at the bright side of the coin, but he puts it this way: "I made the mistake of taking one man's opinion."

Just before he headed up to Ruidoso last month, he got another opinion. This time, he went through two days of testing at Bryan, Texas. "The doctor ran a bunch of tests, and put this stuff in my blood, and took cardiograms, and X-rays," Willie said. "But I wasn't worried at all. I was feeling great — and I knew I didn't have a heart problem to keep me from riding."

The doctor called up Willie and said something like: "Well, you have a heart murmur, but it shouldn't bother you any. If it doesn't get worse, you can keep on riding."

With that, Willie Lovell was back in business at Ruidoso Downs.

The outlook today is quite a turnaround from the way it appeared a year ago. After cashing in his chips, Lovell went to work for Gordon Howell, training his string of horses. He had about 22 head under his care, and plenty of worries. "I didn't like it very well," Willie said. "There were just too many headaches." So after six months of that, he hauled out of his training career, and headed back to his eight-acre ranch outside El Paso, Texas. He whittled away the rest of the summer taking care of the horses he was boarding.

Last September, Willie got a call from trainer Bubba Werner. "Do you want to work for me, breaking colts?" Werner asked. Asking Willie to break colts is like asking the Unser brothers to slip behind the wheel. In a flash, Willie was off to Bubba's ranch in New Braunfels, Texas. "I never worried about the heart murmur," he said.

From September until the last part of April, Lovell helped break about 85 head. "Johnny Bustamante and I would gallop about 40-50 head a day," Lovell said.

At that point, Lovell didn't have the clearance he needed from the medicos, so there was no chance of riding at any particular track. But those tracks out in the Texas flatlands aren't so fussy. So Willie—clearance or no—resumed his riding career. "About every weekend, we'd be racing at one track or another," he said.

He won a stack of races, including the Triple Crown Futurity at Columbus with Flaming Passim. The winner's share was some $20,000. But the big ticket victory came in a futurity at Del Rio aboard Baby Hold On. In the trials, the filly — owned by Gerald and Darlene Blue of Amarillo, Texas — darted over 330 yards in stunning track record time of 16.66 seconds. From that moment on, Baby Hold On became the horse everyone was watching. Among those keeping a particular lookout were officials of the All-American Select Yearling Sale. Last summer, Baby Hold On went through the auction ring and brought a $48,000 bid from the Blues. So if Baby Hold On turns out to be a sensation, that's even more glory for the All-American Sale.

In the finale of the Del Rio Futurity, Baby Hold On won easily, picked up some $40,000, and left no doubt she was the Real McCoy.

Lovell, the only man to get on the filly's back, nearly swoons when he begins talking about her. "From the first time I rode her, I knew she was a runner," he said. "I could tell by the way she does things — so nice and easy. She doesn't worry about anything. She's easy going, she's got the nicest disposition of any horse I've ridden, and she never gets excited. She's perfect in the starting gate — never jittery. But when the gate cracks, she's gone."

Willie figures he and Baby Hold On stand a big chance of winning the Kansas Futurity. But it won't be any cinch. "There's some good horses in there — horses like Easily Smashed and Native Tea. I'd say Easily Smashed is the one we have to worry about. He's getting better with each race."

Still, he has plenty of confidence in Baby Hold On. He said: "I can't say how good she is — I've never asked her to really run. She pretty well runs on her own."

About that heart murmur — it's pretty well on the back burner in Willie's mind. He said: "The doctors have always been saying if a horse didn't kill me I'd die of old age."

Video cameras changed horse racing

BY DICK ALWAN

Remember the patrol judge? He's the racing official who's been pushed aside by progress, replaced by video cameras.

The system used to work like this: there were two patrol judges, sharp-eyed gentlemen who tried to make sure every jockey minded his P's and Q's during a race. The patrol judges were stationed at ground level, one near the finish line to eyeball the stretch, the other at the turn for home, watching the backstretch run.

Each was in telephone contact with the stewards atop the grandstand roof, and if something fishy was spotted, one of the patrol judges would quickly get on the horn, and the judges would call an inquiry. Next, the films of the race would be developed, the stewards would repair to the projection room, the films would be watched and re-watched, and finally, the verdict would be issued.

All fine and good, and certainly efficient enough. But there was one drawback: the process took too long. Sometimes the delay was as much as 15 or 20 minutes. Obviously, the stewards weren't keen on calling too many inquiries during a program. "If you had three or four inquiries on the same card, you'd be liable to run out of daylight," said John Phillips, a long-time Sunland Park steward. Phillips, in fact, has been a steward at Southwest tracks for the past 30 years.

Another bad rap against the stewards' inquiry under the old system was the fact it broke the momentum of the fans, taking the edge off their betting appetites. So when the video system came of age, the racing industry welcomed it with warm and loving arms.

In the pioneer days of racing, the stewards had no help in deciding a possible case of interference—other than the opinions of the two patrol judges. In New Mexico, this situation prevailed until the mid-1950's, when Ruidoso Downs introduced the film patrol. This long honored motion picture system helped keep the sport clean by ferreting out illegal maneuvers, accidental or otherwise. The other New Mexico tracks soon followed suit. About six or seven years ago, the video system was introduced.

Now there's no waiting for film to be developed, there's no need for patrol judges, and the stewards can begin reviewing the video tape as soon as the horses cross the finish line. Two judges watch the race with binoculars, the third is stationed in front of the TV monitor. Generally, the stewards spot a possible infraction with binoculars, then review the incident closely on the video screens. With three cameras following every step of the race, they have the benefit of three angles.

The result is a much faster setup for deciding disqualifications. No long delays to keep the fans cooling their heels between races. "Racing, as we know it today, would not have been possible without surveillance systems as the film and video patrols," Phillips said.

In the old days, before the advent of the film patrol, it was a case of anything goes. "Back then, a jockey was a tough human being," said Jim Curry, 57, one of the most respected trainers in this part of the country. Some 36 years ago, Jim started his racing career as a jockey, and did plenty of riding throughout New Mexico and Arizona.

"Other jockeys weren't trying to kill you back in those days," Jim said, a bit wryly. "They were just trying to 'detrain' you a little. They would shut you off, or cross in front of you, and maybe get hold of your saddle, or your boot. Very often, during a race, you'd hear one jockey yelling to another, 'Hey, turn me loose!' During the backstretch, and the turn for home, you could do whatever you wanted."

The problem was that the patrol judges could see little of these shenanigans throughout most of the race. When you reached the homestretch, you had to get control of yourself, since the stewards had a clear view of the action at that point.

With this sort of thing going on, the fans were often short changed, Curry said. "There's many a time you'd be on the best horse, but you wouldn't get a chance to run," he said. Although Curry is one to frequently lament the passing of the "good old days," when racing was more fun than business, he's just as quick to laud the video patrol. "It's made racing considerably safer for the jockeys and the horses, and it's taken a lot of the fist fights out of the game," he said. "It's also led to a general upgrading of the sport, all to the benefit of the fans."

Curry, suitably enough, had a hand in one of the best oddball occurrences in the pre-film patrol days. The incident happened in the early 1950's, when he was a young chap, riding at Rillito Park in Arizona. "I became the first jockey in history to claim a foul BEFORE the running of a race," Jim said.

Sure, that's like a boxer claiming victory before stepping into the ring, on the grounds he was going to hit below the belt. But Curry said it happened nevertheless. He was on the No. 1 horse, and his good buddy, John Cheeney (who later turned into a top trainer himself) was aboard the No. 2.

Before the race, John said: "Jimmy, that horse I'm on lugs in badly. If you don't pull up, I'm going to have to drop you." John repeated the warning about three times. In the paddock, the threat came again. That was it. Jim left the paddock, went to the stewards, and claimed foul. "Don't be ridiculous," the stewards said. "You can't claim a foul before a race. We'll see what happens."

"Well, you can just come and pick me up after the race," Jim said. So the race was run, Cheeney's horse lugged in, and Jim and his mount took a nosedive. Afterwards, Jim went up to the stewards with an I-told-you-so attitude. "They weren't apologetic at all," he said.

The best advertisement for the All-American Select Yearling Sale seems to be its graduates. With the recent running of the Kansas Derby already on record and the field set for the Kansas Futurity — the season's first major quarter horse race — a total of nine sale purchases qualified for the two finales.

"This is a clear indication the quality of horses coming to sale is improving every year," said Sales Manager Richard Thompson. "I'm sure that buyers will now have more confidence in the stock."

Five graduates from the 1978 sale, where 540 head sold for a total of $5,254,600, qualified for the $22,150 Kansas Derby for three-year-olds. Heading the list is Denim N Diamonds, a filly sired by the 1973 All-American Futurity winner, Timoteo Thinkrich, who was purchased by R. D. Hubbard of Wichita, Kansas for $32,000. Denim N Diamonds finished second in the Kansas Derby and increased her earnings to $108,294. Last year the California-bred filly, who was consigned by Raquel Mallick of Madera, California, qualified for the Rainbow and All-American Futurities.

The fastest qualifier to the Kansas Futurity for two-year-olds was purchased in the 1979 All-American Sale. Baby Hold On, a filly by twice World Champion Dash For Cash, was sold to Gerald Blue of Amarillo, Texas for $45,000. She was consigned by Anne and B. F. Phillips of Frisco, Texas.

Baby Hold On set the fastest time for the 350 yard dash, which is the first jewel in the quarter horse Triple Crown, in 18.25 seconds. The Kansas finale, which will be worth $388,811, will be staged June 1.

Undeclared after four starts, Baby Hold On has earned $42,468. Most of that bankroll came with a victory in the Alamo Quarter Horse Breeders Association Futurity at Val Verde Downs.

Another impressive graduate from the 1979 sale is Jet View, a Fast Jet colt purchased by Dr. Jack Brooks of Arlington, Texas for $12,500. Jet View won the $187,231 West Texas Futurity earlier this spring. He was consigned by Spencer Childers of Fresno, California. Jet View is the sixth fastest qualifier to the Kansas Futurity.

Rounding out the Kansas Futurity qualifiers are a pair of Rocket Wrangler fillies, Ooh Lala Lala and Rockay. Ooh Lala Lala was the only supplemental nomination to the trials at $4,000. She was purchased by J. E. Jurnonville of Ventress, Louisiana for $10,600. The consignor was the Good Intentions Farms of Yukon, Oklahoma.

Rockay was consigned by Ed and Lyn Dodson and sold to Orville Paly of San Angelo, Texas for $18,500.

Four other 1978 sale graduates qualified for one of the two Kansas Futurity Consolations. They include Mitey Secret, sold for $37,000; Mystic Eye, a colt sold for $8,000 who has earned over $42,000 so far; Born Hummer, $13,000; and Hemen Queen, $38,000. Ivory Crockett, another consolationist, was a repurchase for $60,000.

Those 1978 sale horses who ran in the Kansas Derby include:

Give Me Room, a colt purchased by Dorothy Cornstubble of Valley View, Texas for $2,100 who finished fourth. His earnings now top $15,000.

Johnny Drake, a gelding purchased by Tom W. Roden of Odessa, Texas for $15,000. He was fifth and now has earned over $24,000.

Mito Mile, a colt purchased by James V. Harris of Edmond, Texas for $8,000. He has now banked over $20,000 after a seventh place finish in the Kansas.

Charge It Papa, a colt purchased by James King of Gliddings, Texas for $8,200. He was eighth in the Kansas and has earned over $31,000.

Three Kansas Derby consolationists were also sold in the 1978 sale. They include Loomarang, $9,700; Royal Moon Three, $7,500; and Oh Bar Oh, $15,000. Oh Bar Oh has earned over $40,000 in his career.

This year's All-American Select Yearling Sale will be held August 25-27 and more records are expected to be broken. Last year 713 head were catalogued with 610 actually sold for $8,006,300 — all records. The high seller was Shake It To Em, a filly by Dash For Cash who sold for $130,000. The average selling price was $11,162.

Thompson said he expects close to 800 head for this year's edition with total sales over $8,000,000.

"When I first started in this business, people were reluctant to buy horses in a sale. They felt that owners would keep the better horses," Thompson said. "Now that the breeding market has built up and tax laws have forced owners to show a profit, the sales are getting quality horses."

The All-American Sale started in 1962 in a parking lot and 68 head went through for $213,960. The first million dollar sale came in 1970 and records have been set every year since.

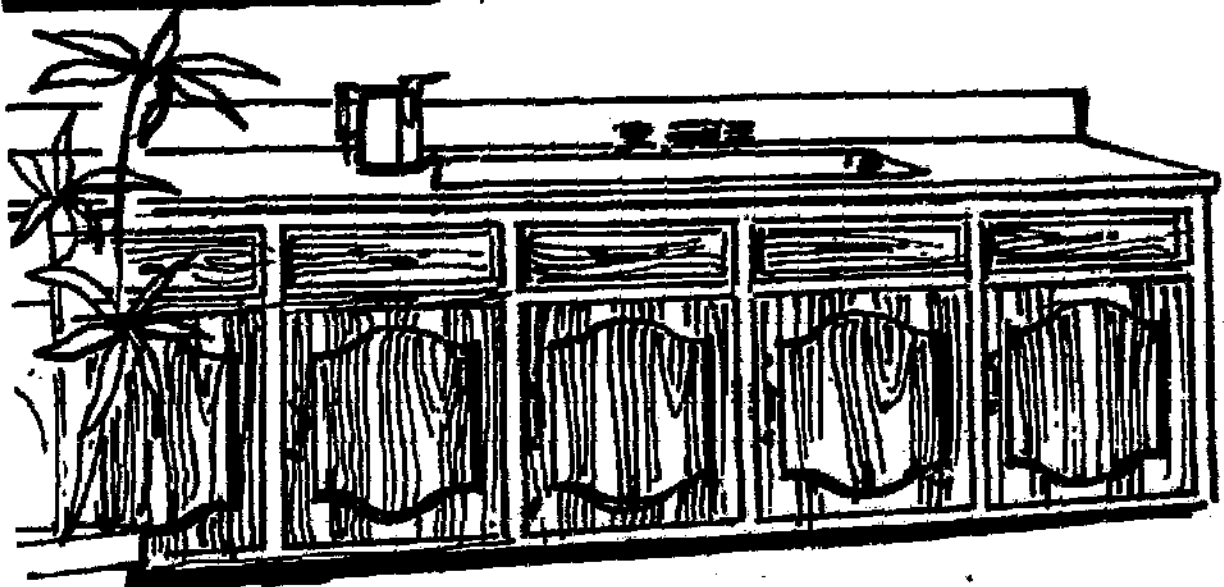

Two All-American Futurity winners have come out of the sale, Mr. Kid Charge sold for $4,100 in 1970 and won the following year while Hot Idea was purchased for $4,000 and captured the 1977 All-American.

Other impressive sale graduates include Gentlemen Feature, Billy Pass, Easy Move and Sizzle Te. A 1978 purchase, MerriDoc won the Bay Meadows Futurity and Golden Gate Futurity last year and earned over $215,000. He sold for $122,000.

Soul Long, an Easy Jet colt, sold for $75,000 in the 1979 sale, recently set the fastest qualifying time for the Bay Meadows Futurity and finished second in the finale.

Buyers had a chance at Pie In The Sky, winner of last year's All-American, but apparently weren't impressed enough with him as a yearling. The big Easy Jet colt was repurchased for a mere $23,000.

FROM PARSONS TRAVEL

Why do I need a travel agency? Traveling can be educational, interesting, necessary and terribly confusing. Which airline goes to Nashville? Who's performing in Las Vegas this week? Can I rent a car in Tucson and leave it in Phoenix? If we take the kids to Disneyland, where do we stay? Do I need a passport to go to Mexico? How much will it cost to go to England this year?

For answers, you can call each airline long distance and wait on "hold" for 10 minutes. Or ask a friend who went two years ago. Or write a tourist office.

Or call your local travel agency. Travel agents are trained professionals with the resources to give not only answers, but advice. One local phone call provides access to all airlines, cruise ships, car rental companies, hotels and tours worldwide. Special arrangements can be made for traveling with a baby, a wheelchair, golf clubs, skis, pets, bikes, or extra baggage. One visit to the agency office hands you a ticket, tour information, hotel and car confirmations and international airline documentation. All at no charge to you. All agency services are cost-free. Where else today can you get so much?

Parsons Travel is Ruidoso's travel expert. Come by 4 Seasons Mall or call Jean at 257-7361. The world is within your reach.
