

FOR 261 DAYS

the Iranians have held 50 Americans hostage. The ultimatum to the Ayatollah Khomeini must be the written words: "Let my people go."

HMMMM — does this mean courtesy doesn't pay on any other stretch of road? Or are the folks two miles down the road particularly nasty and you have to watch your step? This sign is on Highway 532, the ski area road. State highway crews are currently resurfacing the road, so you can bet courtesy might pay off.

ComFIRE eyes fire resistant foliage planting

Fire resistant foliage which has successfully been used in California and Colorado for landscaping around homes may eventually be developed for use in Ruidoso, under the sponsorship of the Committee for Insuring Ruidoso's Environment (ComFIRE).

Günther "G. W." Werther said the plants prevent erosion, but more importantly, they provide protection for homes against fires which may break out in neighboring lots or buildings.

Werther said the 35 varieties of plants have been in use three years in California in parts of the state similar in altitude and climate to the Ruidoso area.

"It fits in with having vegetation near the house and one can get a good mix of plants," Werther said. He added that some plants are also drought resistant and claims that "if you hold a torch to them, they'll die" rather than spread a flame.

Werther said he could contact the California State Forestry offices and obtain information about the plants to begin developing such foliage for this area. He said the project would probably involve working with nursery owners and forest officials but "once we get started on it, I think it will go."

ComFIRE chairman Herb Brunell, said once the information is available, perhaps ComFIRE could arrange to have a place set aside at Ruidoso Public Library to house information about fire safety measures and fire retardants which are available for domestic application.

The committee also discussed the importance of "one to one" contact with people, when trying to spread the fire prevention message. Werther said "when you actually talk eyeball to eyeball with someone about the fire danger, it's worth its weight in gold."

Werther said some communities hire full time fire prevention people whose job it is to look for fire hazards and alert property owners about those dangers. He said he could see the need for such a person in Ruidoso. "You could keep a guy busy just patrolling within the village looking for hazards," Werther said.

Werther noted that while cost of providing such a person could run as high as $20,000, including a vehicle, mileage, salary and benefits, the cost of only one or two fires sometimes pays for that one employee. ComFIRE discussed possible sponsorship of such an employee in the future, but no action was proposed.

Steve Makowski said conversion of the Red Flag Fire Alert videotape into a 18 millimeter film will be completed soon. He said the six forests in the region that are running the conversion, reviewed the tape and decided to do no editing. Cost of the conversion will be about $1,500 but with editing, the tab could have been $400 to $600 more, Makowski said.

Makowski said the chances for a Red Flag Alert are much less now that rains fall in the area nearly every day. "The potential is there for an alert in the fall," he said, but because temperatures get cooler and relative humidity is higher, the likelihood is even less.

Brunell commended residents for observing "extra care when handling fire, especially during the month of June, and through the first two weeks in July, when it was so dry here."

Dumpers will be cited

UNSIGHTLY and unauthorized dump sites within the village are being razed this week by village street crews, who will receive overtime pay for the extra work. Village officials said last week they plan to press charges against anyone caught dumping trash anywhere but the village dump.

Village officials decided Friday to take legal action against anyone dumping trash on private property rather than hauling it to the village dump, according to zoning enforcement officer Emory Hatcher.

"We are going to press charges against anyone we catch, and they will face a fine up to $300 plus a possible jail sentence," he added.

Hatcher said household refuse, trees and construction materials are being dumped on several pieces of private land in the village limits. "They're also dumping in ditches, ravines and arroyos," Hatcher said.

He added that wind blowing the trash to other areas, and the odor, has prompted the village to pay the village street crew overtime wages to clean up the mess. He said the cost is necessary "because we can't just leave it there; it smells."

Hatcher hopes local and summer residents will aid the village in catching anyone engaged in illegal dumping. "We are asking people to write down the license plate number of anyone they see doing this, and call it in to the police (on weekends) or call city hall," he said.

Hatcher said the village officials "realize the dump is far from town. We've been trying for a year to find property closer to town, but we've been unsuccessful so far. It's an imposition to drive to the dump but village ordinances prohibit dumping within the village limits," Hatcher said.

Hours at the dump are 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Saturday and a nominal fee is assessed according to the amount of trash, Hatcher said.

"We really want the people to help us with this problem," Hatcher said. "This is something a concerned citizen can help us on that will solve a serious problem."

17TH RAINBOW FUTURITY RUN SUNDAY

Mighty Deck Three wins

Mighty Deck Three easily floored his competition in Sunday's 17th running of the Rainbow Futurity at Ruidoso Downs and now looms as a kind of juggernaut, aiming at the $1,200,000 All-American Futurity Labor Day.

The gelding left the Ruidoso folks deeply impressed, and from the way things appear to shape up, there's nothing around big enough to stand in his way.

Mighty Deck Three — looking more like a running machine than an ordinary racehorse — got out of the gate with that automated, far-reaching, rocking-chair stride and led from start to finish.

Right from the first jump, there was no doubt as to the outcome. Jockey Jerry Burgess never used the whip. He did little more than sit tight and hang on. In fact, he never had to ask Mighty Deck Three to do any serious running.

Burgess said he knew the race was his after Mighty Deck Three got off to such an alert get away. "He acted up a little bit behind the starting gates, and a little in the gate, but when the gates opened, he was all business," Burgess said. "He likes to break very strongly, but I don't think he needs those big, early leads to win. He gets faster as the race goes on."

The victory was magnificent in every respect and left Ruidoso officials wondering whether there's ever been a racehorse at the mountain track who appeared to dominate his age bracket so convincingly.

The gross purse of the Rainbow Futurity — the second leg of the coveted Triple Crown — carried a gross purse of $587,500. That figure includes the $55,045 which was handed out in Saturday's Consolation.

The amount sliced up in Sunday's finale was $497,455. Mighty Deck Three, the property of Dan and Jolene Urschel of Canadian, Texas, collected $204,120. That hiked his career income to $244,680. His record is a spotless seven-for-seven.

Mighty Deck Three is trained by Leo Wood, the same conditioner who prepared the Urschels' Pie in the Sky for victory in the 1979 All-American Futurity. So the obvious implication is that the Urschels will be back for the 1980 All-American Futurity, hammering solidly on the door with Mighty Deck Three.

The gelding coursed the 400 yard Rainbow distance in a brilliant 19.94 seconds. That clocking was a seasonal record. It was also a big improvement over Mighty Deck Three's top-qualifying time of 20.13. It was also the fourth best time in the history of the Rainbow Futurity.

IT WAS NO CONTEST—Mighty Deck Three swoops across the finish line, an easy winner in Sunday's finale of the $587,500 Rainbow Futurity at Ruidoso Downs. The Kansas Futurity winner, Clever Bug, ended up second, 1 3/4 lengths behind the Rainbow favorite. Jerry Burgess rode Mighty Deck Three.

Insects attacking trees

The Ruidoso area's tree populations are continuing to suffer with insect infestation, according to timber specialist Mike Funston.

Funston, a United States Forest Service employee, said Friday that insects which are causing major problems in this area are the spruce bud worm, the Tussock moth and the Ips beetle, which are attacking trees already weakened by drought conditions throughout the forest and by man-caused damage in residential areas, especially at new building sites.

In the case of the Ips beetle, the tree's own ability to resist infestation has been reduced by the adverse conditions, Funston said. "Normally, a vigorous tree can resist by pushing the beetles out of the bark area," with a flow of sap. But the trees are unable to do this when vigor has been reduced by "drought, fire, damage caused by heavy equipment," and other factors, he said.

Uncollected and untreated slash—old dead limbs—provides a prime environment for the breeding and feeding of these beetles, which then spread to live trees and feed by boring into the bark and attacking the inner layer of the tree. This kills the tree by interfering with the flow of nutrients.

In the national forest, workers attempt to control the pest by natural means, including the scattering of slash, which eliminates most breeding. Local residents whose property has accumulated such slash can take similar measures by collecting the slash in a pile and covering it with plastic, trapping the beetles "in or out."

Funston said heat builds up under the plastic, effectively "baking" the beetles to death. After a period of six months or so, the slash may be removed from the plastic cover and used without fear of further infestation, he said.

Infestation by the Ips beetle can also be detected by removing a section of bark. The beetles bore trails in the inner layer and frequently the egg galleries may also be seen below the bark. Beetle excrement, known as frass, has a sawdust-like appearance, and it also may be found in infested trees.

Recognizing the attack of the Tussock moth is somewhat simpler. The moth primarily attacks Douglas fir and spruce, generally causing defoliation "from the top down," Funston said. Examples evident in the Ruidoso area include trees along Highway 37 and next to the Eastern star Hall.

The insect attacks may also be detected by the following clues, listed in a forest service publication: large numbers of caterpillars crawling on needles, cocoons and egg masses, silken "tents" in tree tops, needles stripped from trees and small clusters of defoliated trees.

Newly hatched Tussock moths are gray or brown and measure only about one-eighth inch in length. Mature caterpillars are marked with four distinctive reddish-brown tufts of hair along their backs.

Behind the tufts is a bright spot, usually red or yellow, and the caterpillar has two black head tufts which are similar to horns.

The attack by Tussock moth larvae causes death to the tree by reducing the potential for photosynthesis, which "starves the tree to death," Funston said.

The spruce budworm also operates as a defoliator. That pest and the Tussock moth can be eliminated with chemical pesticides. The forester recommended that individuals contact county extension agent Barry Herd for advice on types of pesticides and how to use them safely.

The bud worm has been in evidence near the Sierra Blanca Ski Area, Funston said. It attacks mainly the newest growth of trees, and detection may be accomplished by noting damage to this new growth. The insects may also leave a silky substance on the foliage.

Heavy sustained attacks by budworms may cause near complete defoliation in four to five years. Epidemics may cause decreased growth, tree deformity, top killing and ultimate death of trees in large areas, according to a Forest Service publication.

THE RUIDOSO ART FESTIVAL opens its gates, for the ninth consecutive year, Friday. Banners were placed at "the dip" in midtown Ruidoso and near the "Y" in east Ruidoso last week to encourage visitors to attend the art show, which will feature more than 100 artists, live entertainment, and eight food booths. The festival opens Friday at 5 p.m., and admission is $1.50 for adults (16 and under admitted free with adults). The festival is sponsored by the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce.

AT RUIDOSO DOWNS, the victory in the Rainbow Futurity was claimed by MacGillivray, owned by Finlay MacGillivray, and trained by Finlay MacGillivray. The horse was ridden by jockey Jerry Burgess.

are the owners of the sensational two-year-old, Mighty Deck Three. Also on hand for the victory ceremony were jockey Jerry Burgess and trainer Leo Wood.

Mighty Deck Three won the Rainbow by 1 1/2 lengths. He broke cleanly, with plenty of elbow room on both sides, quickly jumped into the lead, and that was it. The gelding was never threatened or put to pressure in any way. In the final 100 yards, he eased up and galloped home.

Mighty Deck Three went off as a 1-2 favorite and paid $3 to win, $2.40 to place, $2.40 to show. Clever Bug, the Kansas Futurity winner, took a backseat in the wagering and got away as the 7-2 second favorite. The eight other contenders were longshots.

Clever Bug, ridden by Nicky Wilson, broke inwardly and nudged Heza Bunny on the first strides. But the crooked start was obviously no factor. Still, Clever Bug closed gamely to take second, earning $93,312 and swelling his career total up to $299,950. He's owned by Vaughn and Mary Watkins of Madison, Mississippi. The payoffs: $3 and $3.40.

Jet View, owned by Dr. Jack Brooks and George Gage of Arlington, Texas, finished third (a length behind Clever Bug) and collected $47,822. The colt paid $4.40 to show as a 16-1 shot. Roy Brooks was up.

Here's the way the rest of the field checked in: 4th — Tiny Gay Bug (earning $25,077); 5th — Sinful Soul ($22,744); 6th — Six Fols ($22,161); 7th — Heza Bunny ($20,995); 8th — Midland Native ($20,995); 9th — Mystic Eye ($20,412); 10th — Ooh Lala Lala ($19,823).

The fans bet $97,157 on the Rainbow Futurity, a seasonal one-race record. Sunday's hefty crowd of 6,689 wagered $670,837 on the 12 race program. On the same day last year (also the day of the Rainbow Futurity), 6,562 fans bet $686,213 on the 13 race program.

Ruidoso action resumes Thursday at 1 p.m.

LOOKING FORWARD lunged ahead at the wire and snared a nose victory in Saturday's $55,045 Consolation of the Rainbow Futurity at Ruidoso Downs.

Looking Forward, a gelding owned by Allen Caldwell of Tahlequah, Oklahoma, was ridden by Buck Jones, a jockey who's seen only light duty at Ruidoso this season.

First place in the Rainbow Consolation amounted to $16,003. Looking Forward, a gelding, went into the 400 yard duel with earnings of $7,297. He'd won one of four starts and finished second three times.

Looking Forward got away alertly in the Consolation, but brushed the 34-1 outsider, Holme With Moolah, on the first few jumps. But the bumping didn't bother Looking Forward to any degree.

Easily Smashed, the 6-5 favorite ridden by Jackie Martin, got off to a bangup start and looked like a sure winner when he reached the half way point. Easily Smashed was still in control with about a half dozen strides to go.

But Looking Forward turned the situation around with a crunching ram down to the wire. It took a strong final jump in order to get the job done. Easily Smashed ran so hard at the beginning that he appeared to have little left to deliver on the final strides.

The winning time was 20.25 seconds. No wind was blowing. The track was fast. Fans who backed Looking Forward in the mutuels collected $21.80, $15.40, $8.20. Easily Smashed earned $12,602, pushed his career bankroll up to $127,991, and handed out tote payoffs of $3.60 and $3.

Rule The Deck, a 10-1 shot handled by Jack Wallace, hit the tape 3/4 lengths behind Easily Smashed and picked up third place money of $9,601. The show price was $4.80.

Here's the way the also-rans checked in, with purse-money earned: 4th — War Sea, $9001; 5th — Holme With Moolah, $8,401; 6th — St. Rain Bar, $7,201; 7th — Ze My Jewel, $6,601; 8th — Rusty Rockette, $6,001; 9th — Native Tea, $5,400.

Posh Affair scratched out but earned $2,332 nonetheless.

Saturday's program at Ruidoso drew another big crowd, and the handle finished up at a thumping $673,359.

STREAKIN SIX and Dickey's Fireman, both top ranked stakes stars of last summer, qualified for the $146,691 World's Championship Quarter Horse Classic at Ruidoso Downs Friday.

There were eight time trials with 71 head entered. The ten fastest horses advanced to the July 27 grand finale where the winner will collect $73,045.

Washita Ted set the fastest qualifying time by running the 440 yards in 22.29 seconds. Streakin Six and Dickey's Fireman were also trial winners and were clocked in 22.49, and 22.46 seconds, respectively.

Other well known stakes runners to make the final include Oh Shoney, Acceptable and Alamitos Feature.

Here is a complete list of the qualifiers and their times: Washita Ted, owned by Maureen W. and E. Lee Ware Jr., of Ruidoso, and Gerald E. Marr of Tularosa, 22:29; Chicks Charger Bar, owned by Bobby, Pete Perez Sr., and Pete Perez Jr., of Grand Prairie, Texas, 22:30; Steak Six, owned by B. F. Artists' workshops scheduled 1980 marks the 25th year of art instructional workshops at the historic Carrizo Lodge in Ruidoso. The workshops began June 1, but six more are scheduled, with some openings available, through the month of August, as noted below:

—Danny Gamble's watercolor workshop. The sessions are designed for those who have studied previously in the medium, and will include demonstrations by Gamble, supervised sketching on location and indoor painting sessions.

Registration is limited to 20 students to provide for maximum individual attention. The workshop runs from August 4 through 14 from 9 a.m. to noon and 1:30 to 4 p.m. All workshop sessions are held Monday through Saturday.

—All media workshop, headed by Victoria Runge, including working with oil, watercolor, acrylic and pastel, also scheduled for August 4-14. Hours will be 9 a.m. to noon and 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. The workshop offers the painter an opportunity to refine skills or experiment in any media. Beginners will be able to familiarize themselves with the various media through use and observation.

—A special Konis workshop will focus on portraiture, figure painting, still life and landscape, with studio painting and on-location sessions. Individual attention will be stressed.

Konis' work has been featured in Southwest Art magazine and he has published articles on his technique in American Artist magazine. Registration will be limited to 20 students, and the workshop will be held from 9 a.m. to noon and 2:30 to 5 p.m., August 4-14.

—Barrie Tinkler will conduct a workshop on color and oil painting August 18-28. Emphasis will be placed on making color theory usable and on tapping the creativity of each artist/student.

Demonstration, theory and guidance in achieving special effects is stressed, along with group discussions and one-to-one critiques. Sessions are set for 9 a.m. to 12 noon and 1:30 to 3:30 p.m.

—A workshop on portrait painting and painting the nude will be taught by Jan de Ruth, August 18-28, from 9 a.m. to noon and 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. De Ruth has had 78 one-artist shows and his portraits of public figures have appeared on the cover of Time magazine.

Underpainting, glazing and scumbling, proper use of materials and introduction to new materials will be emphasized, and life models will be used.

—Maxine McLaughlin will teach oil painting in a workshop set for August 18-28, 9 a.m. to noon and 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. Attention will be given each student according to need, and painting will be done in the studio with sketches or other materials used as reference.

Canvases will be prepared in accordance with the "Old Masters" techniques, and underpainting and glazing will be studied. Several "alla prima" imprimatura masonite panels should be completed during the workshop.

More information on the workshops may be obtained by contacting Carrizo Lodge at 257-2375 or 257-7763, or by writing the Lodge at Drawer A, Ruidoso, New Mexico 88345.

Casa Manana dedicated Saturday

Dedication ceremonies for the Casa Manana Housing complex were held Saturday in Carrizo. The complex was a project of the Carrizo Woman's Club which earned a fourth place in national competition for the club.

At the ceremonies, Ruth Armstrong, Woman's Club Executive board member, said the project had helped the club in one of their goals, that of establishing a Woman's Club president. "decent standard of living for every family in Carrizo."

Farmer's Home Administration (FmHA) representative Lou Andes said she had never seen "a group this size with so many talented and businesslike people," who were also, "as warm and gracious as they can be—and that's a winning combination."

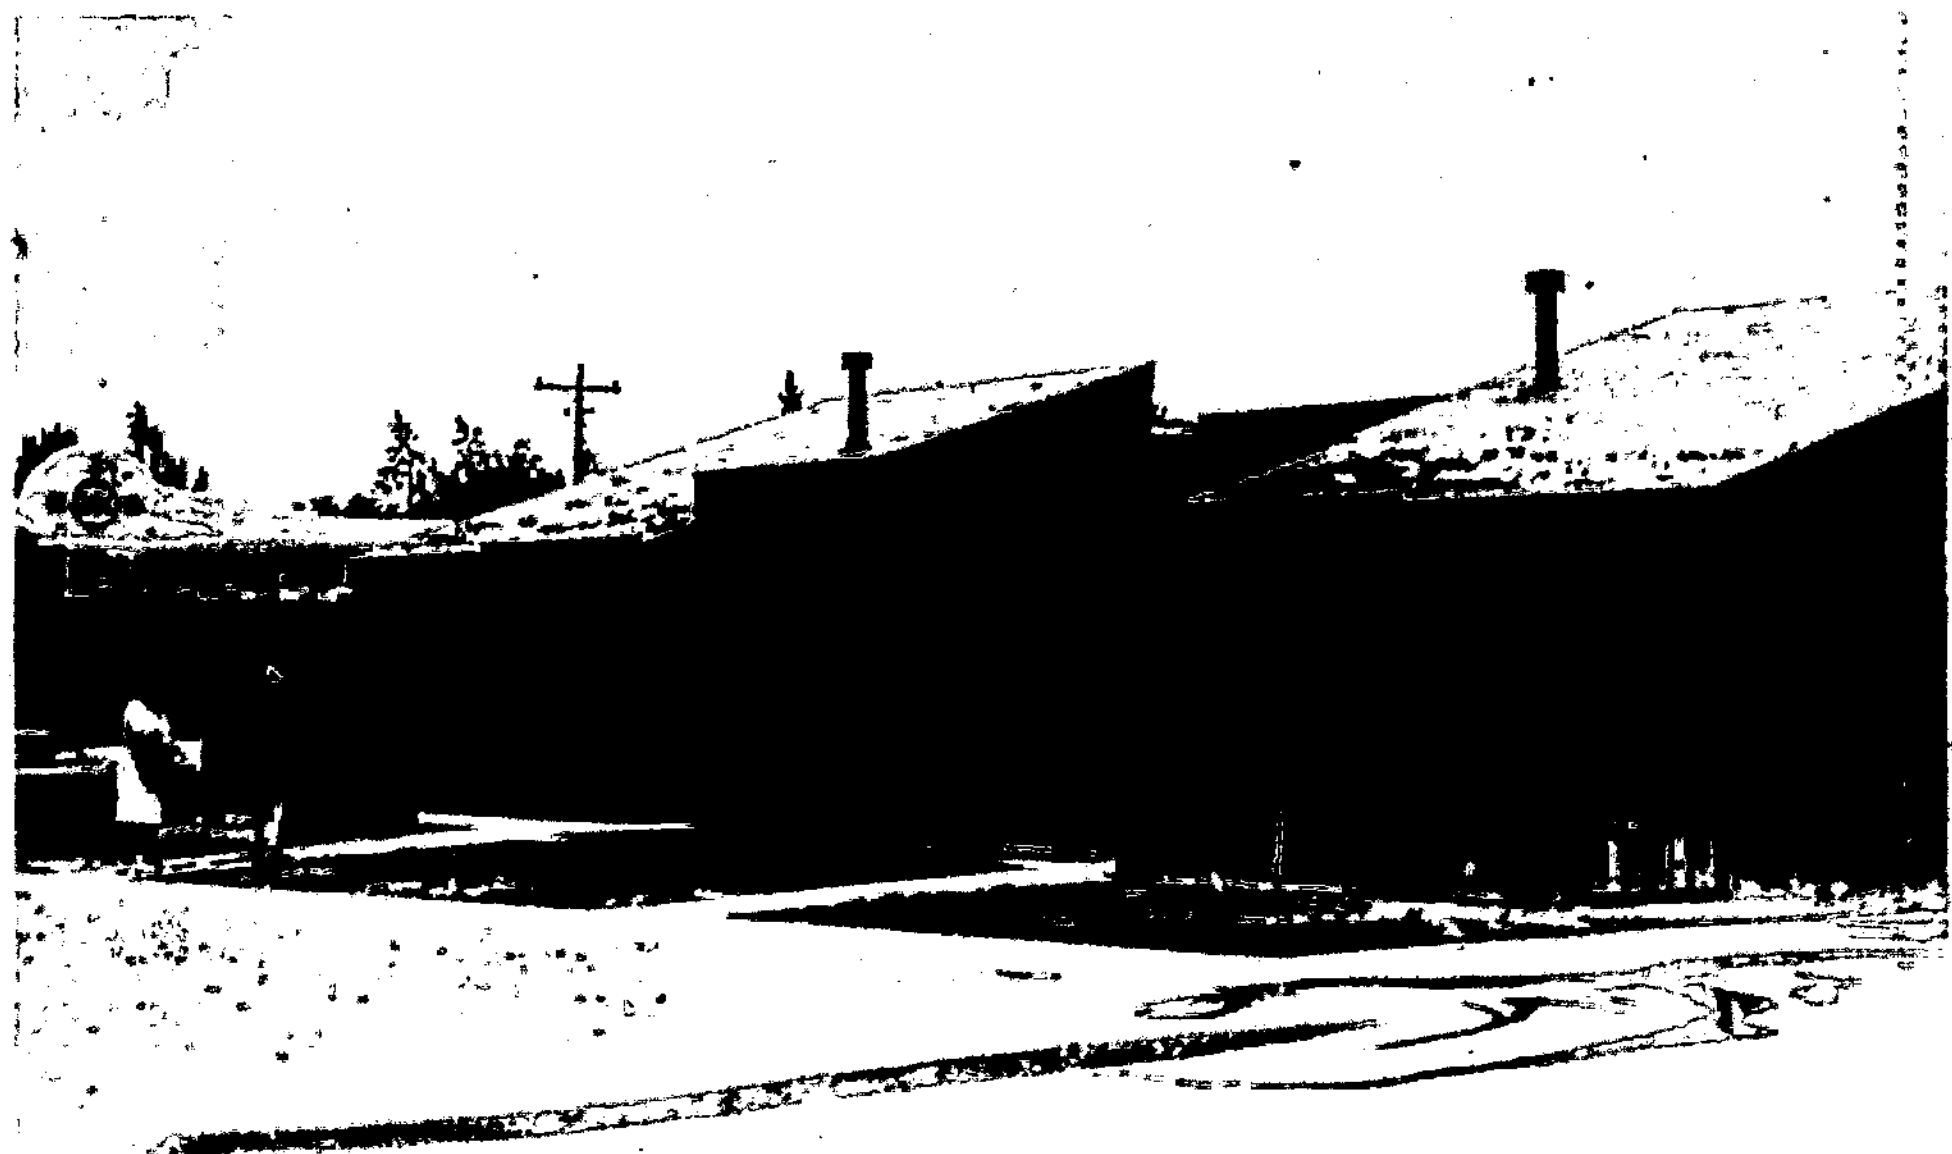

Also offering congratulations to the group were Genevieve Tousser, president of the Fourth District Woman's Club, Viola Fenter, a first vice-president of the club and representative of the Employment Securities Division office and Joe Ortega, executive director of the Region Six Housing Authority.

Congratulatory letters were read from Senator Pete Domenici and the national

'Christmas in July' Saturday at Episcopal Church hall

The "Christmas in July" bazaar held yearly by the Saint Anne's Guild of the Episcopal Church of the Holy Mount will be Saturday beginning at 9 a.m. The guild women offer the enjoyment of homemade candy, including their popular fairs, a caramel candy filled with pecans and covered with milk chocolate. They also will sell English toffee, peanut brittle, pizzelles, clusters and homemade cookies. In addition, they will feature a baked goods department with all the familiar rich cookies, breads and cakes usually found only during the holiday season. A white elephant table will provide a bargain for everyone in the traditional luncheon will be held from 11:30 a.m. to 1:30 p.m., featuring chicken spaghetti, salad, rolls and a dessert. Hand made items, including Christmas ornaments and paintings, will also be offered. "We've been working on these items since last year's bazaar," Kathy Annala said. "We've been making candy for about a month and we'll have plenty of our candies for sale," she added. The proceeds from the bazaar are used by the guild for their year-round projects, Annala said. The bazaar will be held at the Episcopal Church and will end when the goods are gone.

TWO SPECIALTIES of Ruidosoan Staci Budd — astrology and liquid embroidery — were among the offerings at the Capitan Arts and Crafts fair.

IT'S STICKY and a mess, but it's worth it, say these ladies who helped make candy for the Saint Anne's Guild annual Christmas in July bazaar which will begin at 9 a.m., Saturday. Pictured are Raymona McAdams, left, and Billie Stratton, right.

LINDA SHACKELFORD of Capitan displayed her paintings at the arts and crafts fair held in that town this weekend.

Wilderness Wisdom with Wayne Calloway

Dear Wayne — I recently acquired a young female English Setter that I plan to use for quail hunting. Since I don't intend to raise any puppies from her, I am considering having her spayed. Some say this shouldn't be done to hunting dogs because it adversely affects their hunting ability. Then too, I'm not sure the benefits are great enough to justify the cost. Could you shed any light in this area. Russell F., Tennessee

Dear Russell — According to most dog trainers and owners experienced with spayed dogs, this alteration has no detrimental effects on their hunting ability. In fact, many believe they become better hunters because they aren't preoccupied with the mating urge. You should experience no change in the disposition or physical stamina of an altered dog.

The cost of spaying starts at about $30, but can run more than $150 in some areas. Even so, the money and headache saved by not having to raise an unwanted litter or two of pups can go a long way toward justifying the spaying cost. There is also another side to be considered. There are already far too many unwanted dogs roaming the countryside and filling animal shelters. And these, too, cost public money to support. Those that run wild become a nuisance to man and a threat to wildlife.

Dear Wayne — I once read of a wildlife photographer who attracted deer by burning incense. If this practice really works, what is the basis for its success? Burt C., Michigan

Dear Wayne — Deer are naturally curious animals. A doe will frequently go to great lengths to investigate an unfamiliar scent or noise. If the smell or sound doesn't represent a known danger, their curiosity is stirred. They are sometimes attracted to radios, loud talking, and strange scents, but will usually lurk in nearby cover rather than approaching the source openly. Many a doe has gotten into trouble when her curiosity gained the upper hand, but a buck will not often yield to such temptation. And none of these curiosity arousers are effective enough to be in any way dependable.

Largest tourney ever

Wimberly-Cottam win Snowcapper

THE CHAMPIONSHIP FLIGHT in the Alto Lakes Country Club's member/guest tournament was won by, from left, Dan Wimberly, Ruidoso and John Cottam, Albuquerque; with runnersup, Doug Bass, Ruidoso and Ken Means, Carrizozo.

Dan Wimberly, Ruidoso and John Cottam, Albuquerque, won the "Snowcapper" championship at Alto Lakes Country Club Friday, to claim the title in the seventh annual member/guest tournament.

Wimberly and Cottam played their final round despite the imminent threat of rain. Cloudy skies and inclement weather prevailed over the three day tourney, in which 160 golfers from across the country participated.

"The rain didn't hurt us," Alto pro Jeff Chapman said. "What most of 'em were scared of was the lightning. You have to play with one eye looking over your shoulder all the time."

As for the tourney itself, Chapman was immensely pleased.

"It was a good tournament," he said. "The course was in pretty good shape, and we had some good golfers up here, plus we had 160 golfers, making it the largest one we've ever had. It was a good tourney."

Runnersup in the championship flight were Doug Bass, Ruidoso, and Ken Means, Carrizozo; with third to Bud Silvers, Morton, Texas, and Leroy Goodrich, Ruidoso; fourth, John Bouden and Don Davenport, Houston, Texas, and fifth, Buck Meyer and Tom Battey, Ruidoso.

Division B champions were Bill Clegg and Otis Holt, Ozona, Texas; second, John Massey, Ruidoso, and Mike Massey, Tulsa, Oklahoma; third, John Hostenbach, Odessa, Texas, and Bill Harkins, Crane, Texas; fourth, Bill Hirschfeld and George Middleton, Tuidoso; and fifth, Bill Kyle and George Taylor, San Angelo, Texas.

Division C champions were Dorr Miller and Ron Miller, El Paso, Texas; second, A. J. Losee and Ralph Hunt, Artesia; third, George McGill, Alto, and Frank Nye, Albuquerque; fourth, Hal Cliff, Ruidoso, and Carl Rossi, Dallas, Texas; fifth, Joe Melton and Noel Sikes, Midland, Texas.

Division D champions were Dr. James

Beall, Ruidoso, and Maurice Parrish, Silver City; second, Frank Sayner, Ruidoso, and John Petty, Albuquerque; third, Ted Blue and Wendell Cheek, Las Cruces; fourth, Jim George, Ruidoso, and Howard Wright, Temple, Texas; fifth, Robert Cauthorn and Jim McNair, Del Rio, Texas.

In closest to the pin competition, the winners were:

Wednesday morning, Bob Dyer, Ruidoso, hole seven; Hal Cliff, Ruidoso, 17;

Wednesday afternoon, Gilbert Ray, Ft. Stockton, Texas, 7 and 17;

Thursday morning, Tom Singleton, Dallas, Texas, seven and I. A. McNab, San Antonio, Texas, 17;

Thursday afternoon, Hal Cliff, Ruidoso, 7 and Ted Hopkins, Denver City, Texas, 17;

Friday morning, Noel Sikes, Midland, Texas, 7 and George McGill, Alto, 17, and Friday afternoon, Gale Russell, Alto, 7 and John Hostenbach, Odessa, Texas, 17. Two automobiles, donated by Sierra Blanca Motors and Gene Brock Ford, were offered as prizes for holes in one on number five and 11, but nobody won either vehicle.

Winning watches for closest to the pin were Robert Brown, Austin, Texas, hole five and Bob Brown, Lamesa, Texas, hole 11.

Next year's tournament will possibly be enlarged to handle more entries. This year's field was so large each day's rounds were split in half to accommodate the number of players.

THERE ARE many levels of victory. Although he didn't win the Alto Snowcapper tournament, Jimmy Stewart (putting in left photo) found his own satisfaction in sinking a 20 foot putt on the

All-Stars lose two in Alamogordo

Ruidoso's Little League All-Stars discovered how fast a season can come to an end this weekend.

Playing in the District Two State tournament in Alamogordo Friday, the All-Stars lost to the Roswell-Hondo Lions 23-1, and then in a consolation game Saturday, lost to Artesia 10-2. Those losses mean there's no state championship in the All-Stars' future.

At least not this year. "It was terrible," coach Ronnie Taylor said. "We just didn't play that well, so that's it. We're out."

Sportin' Life

by Mark Bagby

Never get a bicyclist's dander up. I mentioned, several issues ago, my incredulity to learn speed skater Eric Heiden has been invited to join the Italian bike racing team.

Then Leighayn Green here at The News took me to task for being so ignorant about that, and also about the Red Zinger International Bicycle Classic.

Leighayn, you're not alone. Galen Farrington, head honcho for the Ruidoso High School Bicycling Club, came in and left me a letter with more pertinent information.

To wit: "Speaking of nitpicking (your July 14th column), the Red Zinger Bicycle Classic" you referred to no longer exists. The Celestial Seasonings sponsorship (Red Zinger is the name of one of the company's herb teas) has been re-evaluated and as a result the Coors Company now holds the purse strings of the "Coors International Bicycle Race" to be held July 28-August 2.

"And of Eric Heiden. Heiden has received good press for his narrowly missing a spot on our non-travelling Olympic team. The event was the kilometer and his time was a mere seventeen-one-hundredths of a second slower than Brent Emery's winning time of 1:09.77."

"Although the times are excellent they were not world class. Jerry Ash (1979 kilo champion), Leigh Barczewski (four time national sprint champ) and Fred Markham (multiple national medalists) did not participate in the trials since the named team would not be traveling to Moscow."

"There is no doubt that Eric Heiden is the best thing to happen to USA cycling in a long time, but I think Heiden will be the first to admit although his performance was very good, when kept in perspective it is not the stellar performance the popular press has credited him with. (Signed) a bicyclist, Galen Farrington."

Whew. I've learned my lesson. Do your research before you start shooting off your mouth.

And never, never rile a bicycling enthusiast.

Guess who's back? It was with amazement to learn Norm Ellenberger has returned to coaching.

Only now, instead of college ball, he's going to coach women's professional basketball, in the new Ladies Professional Basketball Association. Albuquerque's team is as yet unnamed, but Norm is coaching them for an as yet unannounced salary.

The question, of course, is whether or not ladies pro basketball will survive in Duke City.

Let's see — pro volleyball didn't make it, and the Albuquerque Dukes baseball team isn't exactly breaking attendance records. Also, a pro soccer team in Albuquerque is supposedly in the works, but there's no telling if it will make it or not.

Albuquerque is a basketball crazy town. Only problem is, they've got the Lobos — men and women — and unpteen high schools. So is it overkill?

Maybe and maybe not. The Lobos aren't going to kill anyone next year, that's for sure, not after the debacle of this year. So maybe the women will fill a need that isn't too filled right now.

But that's doubtful. The 13 team league average draw per game is between 1,500 and 2,000 fans. Is that enough to keep it alive?

I don't think so. Norm better keep looking for a job. Maybe he could be an academic counselor at the University of New Mexico.

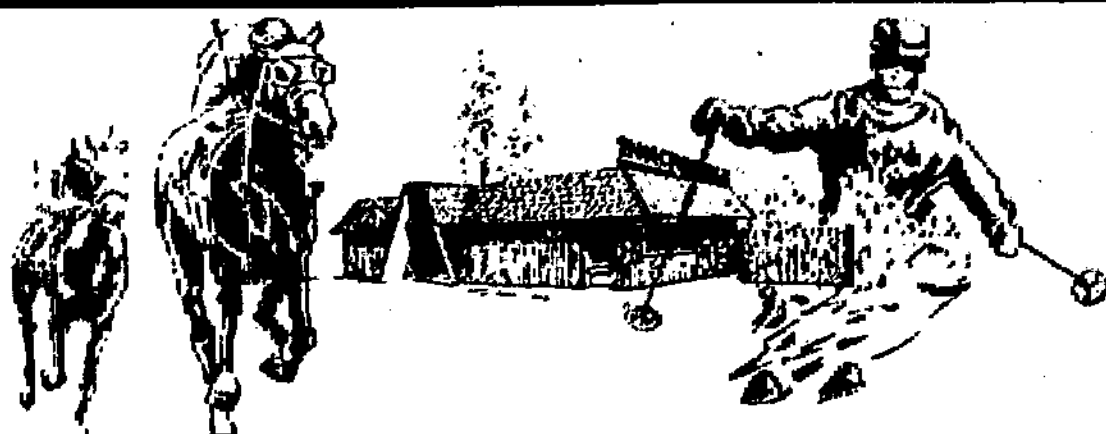

Here we go again. Now Muhammad Ali and Larry Holmes are at it again. Their fight is back on (again), supposedly they fight in October.

First Ali was going to fight this month, but now it's in October, and the purse is set at $14 million.

At this rate, all the fighting those two will do will be at press conferences. Did you catch Ali's act at the last one? He wants to be "immortal," he said. He wants to win four world titles, he wants a record that no one can break.

I'd like to tell him what he could do with his record. But I'm too big a coward. So I won't. Nuff said.

Quotable quote. Los Angeles Ram head coach Ray Malavasi, on the potential of wide receiver Preston Dendard: "His future is all ahead of him." I certainly hope so.

MOVE NOW. GET THIS YEAR'S LINDAL AT LAST YEAR'S PRICE.

If you've been waiting and waiting for the new home market to take a turn counter to inflation, bless your patience.

Because if you buy a custom design or any one of the 60 different Lindal Cedar Homes before July 31, you can pick it up for the exact same price we offered in Spring of 1979. In addition to our price roll back, we're offering 50% off on all energy saving options. Which, if you're counting dollars, could add up to a savings of $5,000.

Our only other requirement in this offer is that you take delivery on your new 1980 Lindal before September 15. That's it.

With inflation, there won't be a better time to move than right now.

The Dreamer

BY DANNIE STORM

LeRoy McKnight
Services were held Wednesday, July sixteen, at St. Jude's Church in San Patricio and at the Fritz Cemetery near Hondo in the Bonito valley for our beloved friend, LeRoy McKnight, who was called home by Our Lord Sunday, July thirteen.

For services, under the direction of Father Bernard H. Loughrey, the church was filled to overflowing with loved ones and friends who came from all directions. Father Loughrey, in a most moving and inspiring message, said that ordinarily the church does not recite eulogies — "That we make our own eulogies by the life we lead" — however, that in the case of LeRoy, he would make an exception, and went on to say that LeRoy "was a devoted father, husband and friend, that he was a true companion to his children, guiding them in the right paths of life."

"LeRoy," said Father Loughrey, "loved the good in life. He loved the land and all God's world," and that in his daily life "he exemplified the compassion and kindness of Christ, Our Lord."

LeRoy was born August 18, 1912 in Ranger Lake. On December 3, 1937 he was married in Roswell to Amelia Fritz, member of the pioneer Lincoln County family.

LeRoy was most all his life a rancher in Lincoln County and was a staunch friend and true neighbor. There was a certain quality in the soul of LeRoy that made us all feel that he is our brother.

After the services I asked Father Loughrey for a copy of the words he said of LeRoy; and the father said that he did not have them written down. In other words, they came straight from his heart.

LeRoy will be always carried in our hearts in a very special spot. And we all take comfort in knowing that our beloved friend is safe and happy with God in Heaven.

Billy The Kid
Pageant Approaches

At the approach of the annual historical pageant, "The Last Escape of Billy the Kid," we all begin to think of LeRoy McKnight. For years he was a great star in the show, playing the part of Old Man Goss, and helping out with many other roles. If I am not mistaken LeRoy took part in the original pageant held in 1940 as part of New Mexico's Cuarto Centennial, and in which the part of the Kid was played by Peter Hurd.

When the pageant was revived in 1949, Wilbur Coe told me to come over to Lincoln and help out. Somehow, I had hoped to play the part of one of the guards, Bell. But when I got over there they told me I was to play the part of Old Man Goss. Somehow I did not think I fitted the character of Goss, and must have shown a look of disappointment.

Just then LeRoy came over and put his arm around my shoulder and said, "Dannie, I will give you my part. Buckshot Roberts. He was a little short guy like you. I will play Old Man Goss."

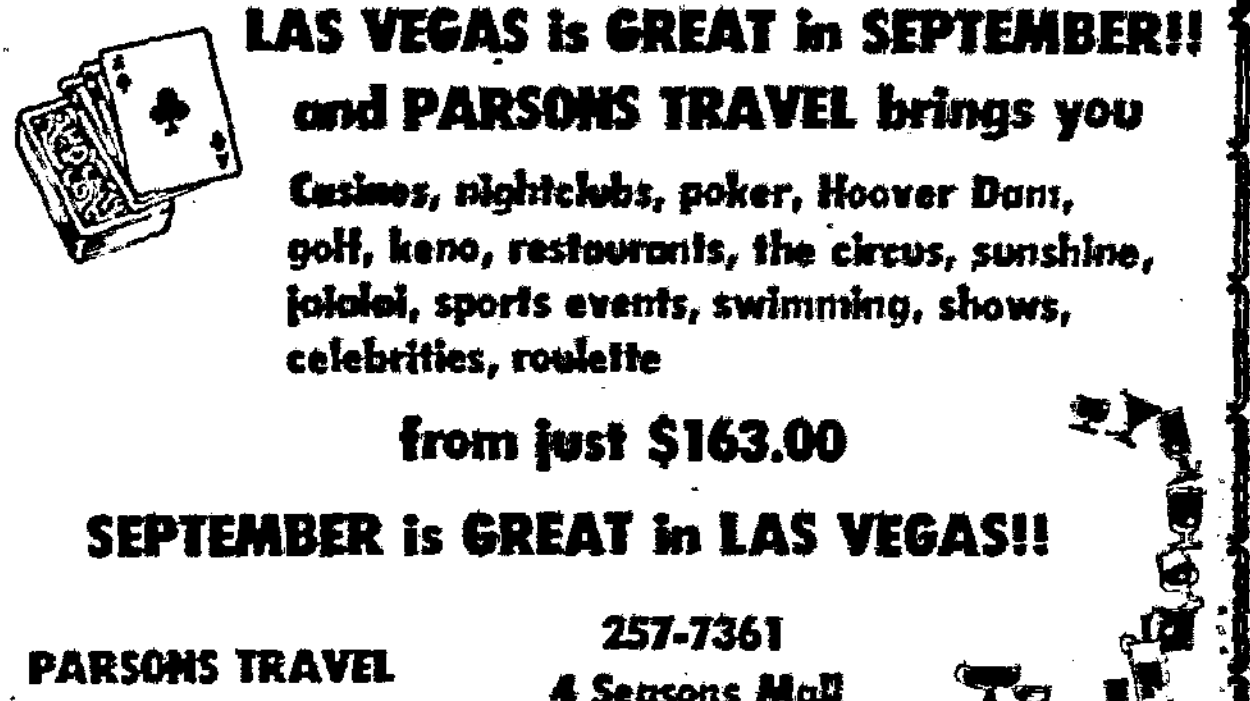

This was one of the countless acts, great and small, of unselfish kindness that LeRoy did all through his life. And somehow it put a special spirit for me in the pageant.

The way things turned out, LeRoy turned the part of Old Man Goss into a starring role and brought down the house year after year. And for me the part of Buckshot has become a part of my life and has brought me many and many happy days and hours. This will be my thirty-first year playing this part with the exception of 1953 when Si Salas of Lincoln stepped in for me.

This Year's Pageant
To Be Dedicated To LeRoy McKnight

Betty Shreengost, general manager of the pageant and the Lincoln Days has told me that this year's Pageant will be dedicated to LeRoy McKnight.

Surely no one could be a more perfect representative of the pioneer western spirit, that we honor during the pageant days, than LeRoy. And all of us will recall the happiness he brought us; and we will thank God for the blessing that he has been and ever will be in our lives.

SANTA FE—Is the Legislative Finance Committee going to hell in a hack?

That's what we call a tough lead, written to impress certain New Mexico editors, who say this column has grown soft and too philosophical. (What's "soft" about philosophy?)

But it's also a legitimate question. This interim committee is possibly the most important of all legislative groupings. It contains, as we have said many times in the past, the most important members of the Legislature—including the head of Senate Finance, the head of House Appropriations and Finance, and the head of Taxation and Revenue.

It meets when the Legislature is not in session, to keep a continuing eye on state government, and it prepares the legislative budget for the coming fiscal year.

Its clout should be used with skill and wisdom. Just at the moment, that does not appear to be the case. Right now, it's relatively cloutless.

We're going to make its acting chairman, Representative John Mershon of Cloudcroft, very irked when we say he weakened himself notably when he spoke up too soon during the recent primary campaign. Mershon announced his retirement from the chairmanship of Appropriations and Finance, in favor of then-Representative Russell Autrey, who seemed to be in trouble in his own race in Dona Ana county.

Autrey was in trouble. He lost.

Thus Mershon, by implying the chairmanship of the House's most important committee had become too much for him, gave up power, to no effective end. Legislators who know he doesn't want that job, which many covet, will pay him less mind between now and mid-January than they would if they felt they would have to face him with their bills when the 1981 session is convened.

Thus Mershon, by implying the chairmanship of the House's most important committee had become too much for him, gave up power, to no effective end. Legislators who know he doesn't want that job, which many covet, will pay him less mind between now and mid-January than they would if they felt they would have to face him with their bills when the 1981 session is convened.

As for other members of the LFC, they too are a little suspect right now.

Nobody is quite sure how the Senate will reorganize itself, so many wonder what will become of Senator Alex Martinez, now serving out the rest of Aubrey Dunn's term on Legislative Finance. Being high in seniority, he could be big in the coming Senate—but he has been known to refuse power in favor of personal comfort.

Or take Collin McMillan, chief of the House committee on Tax and Rev. He's a Republican. Unless that strange coalition which has run the House for two sessions gets back into power, which some consider unlikely, or the GOP elects a majority of House members, which most consider impossible, he isn't going to be chairman of anything come next year.

So state agencies appearing before this legislative committee at the moment have few reasons to be scared—and being scared of the LFC is one of the healthiest things our state has had going for it in the government line in many a year.

It looked a little bit pitiful to be opening the first July meeting of this powerful body without even a quorum present, and to have to rely on members of the Waste Disposal Committee to make up for the missing membership.

One can remember when things were not thus on the renowned LFC. One can hope they will return to their former state with little delay.

That is a fervent wish from one who may sometimes wax too philosophical, but who still knows what matters and what does not in Santa Fe.

Letters to the Editor

Dear editor:

Your recent article on man upsetting the forest environment, quoting statements from either Barry Herd, John Durkin, Emory Shannon or District Ranger Paul Gordon may be true to some extent. Man does damage trees by removal, by scarring the terrain, by using excessive fills and from the runoff of salt used on streets in the winter.

Their statement to the effect that insects are a secondary element in tree damage is false in so many ways that it is pathetic. The state's method of funding programs to fight insects in the forest is also pathetic. I really thought we would get more dedication from the gentlemen in charge of such programs at New Mexico State University.

About a week after I went to Las Cruces to talk to university officials about the bad information we were getting from them, it now sounds as though a group of them got together and issued another bad statement.

Tussock moths are killing a lot of spruce in this area. The university men should go to the Gateway area or out on Mechem and take a look. If they don't know what to look for, I would be glad to help them.

Pine bark aphids are killing lots of Ponderosa Pine. Aphid cause the needles to die, keeping photosynthesis from taking place. When enough needles die, the tree wilts from lack of water.

The heat is a major factor with insects this year. We had a relatively dry fall, winter and summer and it's taking its toll on all varieties of trees.

Rain and heavy snow helps us get rid of insects such as aphids. It either freezes them or washes them from needles and tree bark.

Flat head borer beetles are starting to come back because fresh trees are being cut down, resulting in excellent breeding grounds.

Ips, a small beetle, are a bad problem here because they work on the tender branches and the tops of trees.

If the Forest Service and Reservation programs could take care of their own areas, the townspeople would have fewer problems on our own land.

Jim Wooldridge

Trustee George White's suggestions to solve Ruidoso's water problems, if nothing else, should cause quite a stir.

One of his proposals — no annexation to the village, and no new subdivision, until Ruidoso's water situation is corrected by completing the necessary projects of measures — will certainly have repercussions.

However, we feel White is sincere in his efforts to provide more water. If the suggestions he made, from providing more water storage to raising water rates, incites the action it's possible will result, in due course Ruidoso's water problems will be solved.

His indirect quotation from a local citizen appearing before the trustees recently — Do you want more growth and less water, or more water and less growth — certainly inspired White to make his proposals, not only as a trustee but as a private individual.

A lot of support for White's proposals — or for other solutions — should come from developers, as not being able to assure lot purchasers of an ample supply of water will more than likely result in zero growth — until water is available.

Two things are obvious: Ruidoso must provide the storage necessary to utilize every drop of water to which the village is entitled — and face up to the fact that buying existing water rights is the only way, under present statutes, that the village can obtain additional water.

White has slapped us in the face with his challenge — and the situation is likely to become most interesting before our water problems are solved.

And now is not the time for all of us collectively to climb aboard a snorting, charging, white stallion and gallop madly off in all directions. — CD

REGISTRATION EFFECTS

Shortly after Soviet troops invaded Afghanistan in December, President Carter called for draft registration of young men. He said this would send the Soviet Union a message of American strength, determination and readiness.

This was a claim of dubious merit at the time. Five months later, it seems evident that the Soviets have not been troubled by the prospect of our collecting the names and addresses of youths 19 and 20 years old. And now that Congress has approved of the registration plan, there is little reason for thinking that any such message has been or will be conveyed to Moscow.

The practical question, at this juncture, is whether registration will have any other advantages, even if it is not sending chills up and down Kremlin spines. Is it a good thing or a bad thing for the country?

During the controversy over the issue, registration proponents argued that this would significantly speed up mobilization were it ever to come to that. At the same time, they insistently denied that registration would be a first step toward a peacetime draft. In support of this the President has said in effect that he certainly hopes there won't have to be a draft.

Opponents are understandably skeptical of this assurance. They also point out what can hardly be denied: that registration makes no sense except as a prelude to the draft; there is no other rationale for requiring millions of young Americans (but not young women, and by all means not older folk already pursuing a settled way of life) to put their names into the military hopper.

Not much of a message to Moscow, then. No significant increase in military readiness. The introduction, though, of a divisive element in the national life. On balance, registration does not stack up very well. — Alameda Daily News

NO FORD FOR VEEP

Gerald Ford should be congratulated for not wanting to be just a preading officer over the Senate as Vice President... with that office being one with which he had no personal experience... but assuredly ample opportunity to observe their functions as virtual non entities under presidents who desired to keep their number two man mostly under wraps.

Naturally, after Reagan's nomination was assured... an opportunity he has sought since 1968... Ronnie isn't about to want a team mate who believes the vice president should have the authority, power and prestige to be a virtual co-president. So who will castigate Ronnie for this viewpoint?

Ergo... Ford can continue to exert influence on the Republican party... and enjoy golfing... and his retirement... and not have to worry about cultivating ulcer attacks... so he'll be in good condition to say to Ronnie... "I told you so!"... should the occasion arise... and you can make book that it will.

HOW'LL RONNIE DO?

Pending the outcome of the Democratic convention next month... those as enjoy speculating on politics can have a field day... wondering how Ronnie'll do, when he gets out on the hustings.

The GOP nominee has the awesome task of convincing the voters that he's learned what not to do from observing Our Jimmy's actions as President. It's this way... Ronnie's naivete on foreign affairs... his lack of personal knowledge as to how the Congress functions... leave him in the same position Our Jimmy was four years ago... being fair game for those with expertise in both fields... or in just one.

Should the Democrats, as soon as their convention opens, free all delegates from their first round vote pledges... and toss the convention wide open... then Ronnie will have to put his worry stone to use... 'cause the Democrats could possibly come up with a candidate stronger than Our Jimmy... in which case, in due course, we'll soon learn if Ronnie is built of the stuff... and has the stature... to be President of the United States.

ONE FOR THE BOOK

I never found "the book" that people always talk about when they say... "that's one for the book"... but, in case I ever do, I have one for the book... well... maybe... sorta... one for the book.

Seems John and Barbara Biebertsch... whilst residing in San Antonio, Texas... before taking up residence in the Philippines... on Clark Air Force Base... were guests of Jo and Don Yates here last summer... and they did accompany their friends Lloyd and Margaret Taliferro to the race track... and they did enjoy watching the ponies run.

So... one fine Philippine evening... whilst Barbara was consulting her ouija board... or doing whatever it is people do with ouija boards... she got to thinking about all the fun she and John'd had, watching the ponies run at Ruidoso Downs. Ergo... she got to asking her ouija board questions... and got some answers... such as the thing for Barbara to do was to place a two buck wager on the daily double July 13, 1979... as, by jinkies, the No. 2 horse... coupled with the No. 6 horse... was a sure-fired combination daily double winner... and Barbara, being her ouija board told her so... knew she had a winner.

Anyhow... Barbara forthwith dispatched her deuce... with instructions to the Taliferros... who did place her wager... and, by jinkies, Barbara's horses did come in... and the Taliferros had to transmit $23.20 to Barbara... probably along with congratulations.

Now... that's gotta be one for the book... in addition to the possibility it might create a fantastic demand for ouija boards.

ON SLOWER DRIVING

As long as Detroit's auto moguls are regrouping... whilst wondering why they was so dumb as not to know the foreign imports'd have them facing bankruptcy... they could solve the problem of the 55 mph speed limit... by building cars that'd not go faster'n that... and having Congress pass laws so no car's could be sold as would... which'd have the Japs saying "Ahi So!"... no?

BRIEF BIT: If the House of Representatives has to name the next president, that could leave a lot of people wishing they'd done exercised their franchise... CD

'Topo' maps available

Ten more regional maps depicting about 50,000 square kilometers (20,000 square miles) of New Mexico have been published by the United States Geological Survey (USGS), the nation's principal civilian mapping agency, as part of a new series of intermediate-scale topographic maps.

The 10 new maps use metric units of measurement (meters and kilometers) for contour line intervals, elevations and distances, and were published at a scale of 1:100,000 (1 centimeter represents 1 kilometer, or 1 inch represents 1.6 miles). John D. McLaurin, chief of the Survey's Rocky Mountain Mapping Center in Denver, Colorado, said the new series fills a need for maps in an intermediate scale between the conventional 1:24,000 scale and the metric 1:25,000 scale maps published by the USGS, and the 1:250,000 scale map series of the USGS.

The scale and metric contours of the new maps are part of a long range plan by the Survey to gradually convert its topographic, geologic, water resources and other programs to the metric system in response to the 1975 Metric Conversion Act.

The 10 new metric maps are the Alamogordo, Belen, Crow Flats, Fort Sumner, Magdalena, Roswell, Salt Creek, San Mateo Mountains, Socorro, and Truth or Consequences quadrangles. Each map depicts about 5,000 square kilometers (1,950 square miles) of New Mexico.

The USGS earlier published 11 other metric maps of the Abiquiu, Acoma Pueblo, Albuquerque, Chaco Canyon, Chaco Mesa, Clovis, Grants, Jal, Los Alamos, Tatum, and the Caprock quadrangles in New Mexico.

Although contour intervals and elevations on the metric maps are shown in meters, the bar scales (those segmented lines in map margins used to measure distances on maps) show feet and miles as well as meters and kilometers. Also, the New Mexico plane coordinate grid is shown by border ticks at intervals of 25,000 feet.

The new maps include other new elements, such as the use of feature separation rather than the traditional color separation of mapped information. In feature separation, the information elements of the maps, such as roads and water features, are subdivided into classes, and separate master drawings are prepared for each map feature classification. This enables people who want to prepare maps to meet their special needs to purchase copies of reproducible elements only those map elements required for their custom mapping.

Symbols on the new maps were especially designed to simplify the digitizing the data for use in computers and automated mapping equipment.

Intermediate scale maps are useful tools for federal agencies that classify and lease public lands and inventory natural resources. The new series also is expected to be used in land and resource planning and regional studies by state and local governments, as well as by private industry and the public in general.

Each of the new maps covers an area extending one degree longitude (east-west) and a half degree, or 30 minutes, latitude (north-south). The 10 maps and the areas they cover are:

ALAMOGORDO covers between 105 and 106 degrees longitude and between 32.5 and 33 degrees latitude. This includes parts of Otero and Chaves counties.

BELÉN covers between 106 and 107 degrees longitude and between 34.5 and 35 degrees latitude. This includes parts of Valencia, Torrance, Bernalillo and Socorro counties.

CROW FLATS covers between 105 and 106 degrees longitude and 32 and 32.5 degrees latitude, in Otero County.

FORT SUMNER covers between 104 and 105 degrees longitude and 34 and 34.5 degrees latitude in De Baca and Chaves counties.

MAGDALENA covers between 107 and 108 degrees longitude and 34 and 34.5 degrees latitude in Catron and Socorro counties.

ROSWELL covers between 104 and 105 degrees longitude and 33 and 33.5 degrees latitude in Chaves and Lincoln counties.

SALT CREEK covers between 104 and 105 degrees longitude and 33.5 and 34 degrees latitude in Chaves, Lincoln and De Baca counties.

SAN MATEO MOUNTAINS covers between 107 and 108 degrees longitude and 33.5 and 34 degrees latitude, in Catron and Socorro counties.

SOCORRO covers between 106 and 107 degrees longitude and 34 and 34.5 degrees latitude in Socorro, Torrance and Valencia counties.

TRUTH OR CONSEQUENCES covers between 107 and 108 degrees longitude and 33 and 33.5 degrees latitude, in Sierra, Grant, Socorro and Catron counties.

Copies of the published maps may be purchased for $2 each from the Branch of Distribution, USGS, Post Office Box 25286, Federal Center, Denver, Colorado, 80225. Orders must include checks or money orders payable to the USGS.

Copies of reproducible for various elements, or combinations of elements, of the map may be purchased from the National Cartographic Information Center (NCIC), USGS, Post Office Box 25046, Mail Stop 504, Federal Center, Denver, Colorado 80225. Prices of copies of reproducible vary considerably, depending on the desired product. Price information is available on request from the NCIC, Telephone (303) 234-2326.

Focus on Small Business

by E. Maine Shafer

Dear Mr. Shafer,

"I've had it up to here with my boss. I think I am ready to go into business for myself. Any advice?"

"Whoa! That's the best advice I can give you until you absorb some advice."

Today's economic climate — with its high inflation and high interest rates — isn't the best time to rush to the bank, withdraw savings, or to ask a relative for a loan to start you in business. However, if you are determined to go ahead, here are some tips:

— Get some experience in the field which interests you. If it's a new type of restaurant that you have in mind, put in some months as a waiter or waitress. Look and listen while on the job.

— Next, develop a professional proposal for your business and then go and see your banker — whether it is Uncle Louie or a real life banker. List your background and experience, assets and liabilities, proposed collateral, what you expect from the competition. Even do a marketing survey if you can. Many ideas for a business just don't get financing because they don't deserve financing. This is the kind of ground work that must be done before you can make any intelligent pitch for financing.

— If your bank refuses to lend you money, ask if it will try to get you a Small Business Administration (SBA) guaranteed loan. The SBA works with hundreds of banks across the country, guaranteeing that the Federal Government will stand behind as much as 90 percent of the loan.

Meanwhile, go back to school or take any of the many SBA business management courses that are offered all over the country.

More than 80 percent of all business failures occur because of the lack of management skills. Some of these failures could be avoided had the business persons taken advantage of per-business workshops and workshops for those people who are already in business.

When can you recognize that you are really on the way to entering business?

The benchmark is always: when you get your loan. Then you know the professionals — and Uncle Louie — think you have a chance. But also keep in mind that 55 percent of all new businesses go under within five years.

GOING Strong

Retired Oklahoman Content—and Busy

Since retiring in 1974, Roy McMillon, 67, of Del City, Oklahoma, has been busy working to improve the lives of other older Americans.

In 1977, McMillon and his wife spent two weeks in Washington, D.C. participating in the Senior Congressional Intern program which is designed to give older persons a better understanding of how the Federal government works.

"It was a valuable experience," McMillon told a writer from The National Council on the Aging. "I've had many opportunities to use the knowledge I gained in Washington to help older people. At least I know which agency to direct them to now."

Born in Gotebo, a small town in western Oklahoma named after an Indian chief, McMillon graduated from high school in 1930.

"I went to college but it was difficult because of the depression," he said. "My choice of school was dictated by wherever I could find a job."

McMillon managed to graduate from college and taught school in different parts of Oklahoma while he studied for and received his Master's Degree in 1940.

"In 1941 I was invited to go to Oklahoma A & M to do military training," McMillon said. "During the war I taught a group of engineering clerks from the Army Air Corps and the Coast Guard SPARS, the women's branch of the Coast Guard. When I was finished with that class, I taught another group of women, the Navy WAVES."

After the war, McMillon was transferred back to Oklahoma A&M and joined the regular faculty, staying there until 1953 when he was made the supervisor of data service operations at Tinker Air Force Base.

These days, McMillon's time is taken up writing a hobby column and a genealogy column for a senior publication.

"Actually, it takes me more time to answer the correspondence than to write the columns," he said. "I try to answer all the letters I receive. Once I got 130 letters in one day—fortunately, it's usually not that heavy, but I still enjoy it. I feel I'm doing something worthwhile."

Last spring, McMillon was invited to go to Boy Scout camp with his grandsons. While he was there, the young scouts discovered that McMillon was an Eagle Scout, the highest rank in the Boy Scouts.

"What really got them was that it was my 50th anniversary," McMillon said. "I became an Eagle Scout in 1928." I'm supposed to go back this summer and be a counselor on a 5 day float trip down the Illinois River."

San Francisco River Canyon off-road vehicle restrictions set

Deputy Regional Forester James C. Overbay Monday announced his decision on a request for administrative review of action taken by Gila National Forest Supervisor Ken Scoggins and Apache-Sitgreaves National Forests Supervisor Nick McDonough which placed certain restrictions on use of the Lower San Francisco Canyon. Four individuals or groups filed a formal protest of the action. The appeals, though based on the same action, requested totally different relief. Some asked that the order be rescinded and the area be managed without restrictions on off-road vehicle use. Others argued that the tenure of the restriction was inadequate to protect wildlife in the area, while other pressed for full closure of the canyon to off-road vehicles until an environmental impact statement is prepared.

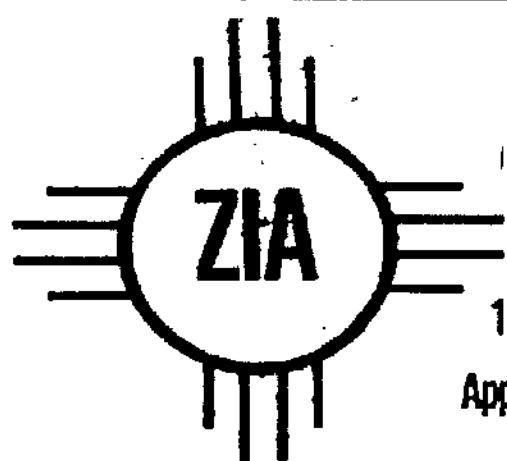

Overbay's decision denied full closure of the area to off-road vehicles. He also denied the request to use the area without restrictions on off-road vehicles. The decision granted relief on a third issue, by extending the protection period for riparian-dependent wildlife species from March 15 to July 15 of each year.

He found that, upon consultation with the Arizona and New Mexico Game and Fish Departments, certain threatened or endangered species of wildlife would benefit from additional restriction on use of vehicles. Species identified in this category are the black hawk, zone-tailed hawk and Rocky Mountain bighorn sheep. Some ten other threatened and endangered species were investigated, but were not materially affected either by the original order or the relief granted by the decision. In addition to those critical species, consideration was given to the nesting and brood-rearing needs of the wild turkey.

The Forest Supervisors' decision was modified by Overbay, by directing the supervisors to develop a plan to monitor the biological and physical conditions in the canyon. This monitoring, he said, is necessary to detect any changes that might occur and to determine the causes for the change, if any. Information gathered by the monitoring process will enable the supervisors to modify their administration, as necessary, over time to ensure the area and its rich and varied resources is properly managed.

Overbay noted that the Lower San Francisco Canyon is within an area that is proposed by the Administration as wilderness, and contains a portion of the San Francisco River which is being studied for its potential for designation as a Wild and Scenic River. He said that the Forest Service is willing to cooperate with off-road organizations to broaden opportunities for such vehicles use in the National Forests.

Copies of the Deputy Regional Forester's decision are available in his office in Albuquerque and at offices of the Gila and Apache-Sitgreaves national forests. His decision may be appealed to the Chief of the Forest Service pursuant to Title 36, Code of Federal Regulations, Part 211.19.

Help Wanted: New Mexico State University's (NMSU) Department of Fishery and Wildlife Sciences is looking for bass anglers to help with bass research at Elephant Butte Reservoir.

Funded by the New Mexico Department of Game and Fish, pay ranges from $1 to $25 per tagged bass.

Paul R. Turner, NMSU fishery scientist explained how bass anglers can help with this research. "When an angler catches a fish tagged with a small yellow identification plate, he records the fish's length, weight, date and location of catch," Turner said.

The angler then mails the tag and information to the address stamped on the tag. In return, he will receive a $1 to $25 reward based on a randomized schedule.

The bass study holds more reward for the anglers than money, according to Turner. "This information may help them eventually catch more and larger bass," he said. The study is designed to determine stocking and spawning success, reproductive cycles, young-of-the-year survival, food habits, population numbers, age structures and growth and harvest rates.

"Last year more than 500 bass were tagged at Elephant Butte. Of those, more than 100 have been caught and their tags returned to us," Turner said.

Tagging is done primarily by using electrofishing. The electric current applied to the water does not harm the fish but simply stuns them long enough to be caught and tagged, Turner said.

About 39 percent of the bass tagging last year was done on largemouth bass caught at bass club tournaments. "Tournament anglers have taken a great interest in our tagging program and know how to properly handle and measure the bass," Turner said.

Most largemouth bass caught during tournaments are weighed, measured, and tagged. Also, a scale sample is removed to determine age and growth rate. The bass is then released so it can be caught again.

By doing this, bass club members provided valuable information without depleting the number of bass in the lake. "Several bass anglers kept thorough records on all bass they caught last year, including data on sex and food habits. These catch records are extremely helpful to us," Turner said.

Now into its second year, the bass study has shown encouraging results. "In 1979, we found that largemouth bass in Elephant Butte were not being over-harvested and so there is no immediate need for a minimum size limit on these bass," he said.

Turner attributes the increased abundance of game fish (especially white bass) to the lake's high water level during the past year and a half. He said that as the lake's area increases, the fish have more room to grow.

Also, shoreline "fishing holes" disappear when the high water changes the lake's characteristics. "This makes some species of fish harder to find," he said.

The first-year survival rate also was good for largemouth bass in the last two years. Comparisons between the number of stocked largemouth bass and the number of bass spawned naturally in the lake were made last year, Turner said they were able to spot the stocked bass because they had been marked with fluorescent pigments when they were stocked.

Because of the spawning success, good over-winter survival of young bass in recent years and the excellent spawning conditions this year, the stocking rate for largemouth bass was reduced for Elephant Butte Reservoir in 1980.

However, the New Mexico Department of Game and Fish did stock substantial numbers of smallmouth bass and striped bass this year.

In addition, the high water level this year should result in excellent spawning and survival conditions for most other fish species. Turner said the bass study will be continued so the relative effect of different water levels on the fish population in Elephant Butte Reservoir can be evaluated.

Information on the tagging program and record sheets can be obtained by writing: BASS Project, Department of Fishery and Wildlife Sciences, Box 4901, New Mexico State University, Las Cruces, New Mexico 88003.

Behind the Scenes

Landon kisses off pranks

By Bill Kiley

Melissa Gilbert is married now, but that doesn't mean she likes kissing.

The 16-year-old star of NBC-TV's 'Little House on the Prairie' has just finished filming 'Laura Ingalls Wilder,' a two-part segment which will open the hit show's seventh season in September. In the drama Melissa, as Laura, gets married, and executive producer/star Michael Landon gets even for a practical joke pulled on him a few days earlier.

Jokes on...

The 'Little House' crew was a little nervous as the show got into production because a member of the crew had come down with a case of chicken pox, and Landon was afraid it might spread to the kids on the show. As Melissa finished her shooting on Friday, Landon told her to change clothes and go home to rest up for the big wedding scene on Monday.

Melissa changed into her street clothes, a sweater and a pair of shorts, and then slipped into the makeup room, where she had the makeup man paint tiny red blotches all over her legs. Then she walked up to Landon to say goodnight. His face fell to the floor when he saw the obvious signs of chicken pox.

"The look on his face was worth it," laughed Melissa. "but now I have to worry about what he's going to do to me to get even."

Landon's revenge came on Monday during the wedding scene.

Young Melissa likes boys, but she doesn't date yet, and she hates it when the show has her doing scenes where she has to kiss her husband, played by Dean Butler. "I like Dean," she says, "but I don't like all that kissing stuff."

The cameras rolled for the big scene. As the preacher says, "I now pronounce you man and wife," Melissa turns to her new husband and they kiss.

As they were kissing, Landon whispered "cut" to the cameraman—but he didn't say it loudly enough for Melissa to hear it. The kiss went on and on and on.

Finally Melissa opened one eye and looked around. She saw that the entire crew was ready to explode as they held in their laughter. She broke the kiss and chased Landon the full length of the stage.

"Okay. We're even," she laughed. "You'd better not play anymore jokes on me," laughed Landon, "or I'll have you kissing in every show for the next two years—and I might even give you triplets."

AWAKENING LAND

"The Awakening Land," an epic seven-hour motion picture for television starring Elizabeth Montgomery and Hal Holbrook (pictured)—which tells the authentic story of an American pioneer woman's courage and love for her family, the man she marries and the land she helps to settle, will be rebroadcast on NBC-TV over three consecutive nights.

Part one will be presented as 'The Sunday Night Big Event,' July 20; Part two is scheduled for 'NBC Monday Night at the Movies,' MONDAY, JULY 21 with Part three airing on NBC's 'Tuesday Night at the Movies,' July 22.

DEATH MOON

Robert Foxworth (pictured) stars as overworked executive Jason Palmer, who thinks his Hawaiian romance with a beautiful conventioner has overcome his tensions until the supernatural powers of a native curse begin to have a dreadful effect on him, in "Death Moon," a mystery-suspense film to be rebroadcast on "The CBS Saturday Night Movies," SATURDAY, JULY 26 on CBS-TV.

Barbara Trentham stars as Diane May, the attractive businesswoman who meets Palmer and finds herself drawn into a serious relationship. Guest star France Nuyen plays a beautiful native woman, Tapulua, who seems to exercise a mystical influence over Palmer.

by Joey Sasso

CONFIDENTIAL REPORT: Life isn't all fun and games for supersexy Suzanne Somers of the hit comedy 'Three's Company.' Watching her strut her stuff as the giggling, jiggling Chrissy in the TV series, you'd think she never had a care—or a thought—in the world. "A lot of people think I'm really like the character I play on the show," said Suzanne. "But of course that's not me. What I'm most serious about is home life and marriage," she explained. "They give me the strength to deal with the mad swirl around me." ... Villainous oilman J.R. Ewing might have a few petrodollars lining his pockets on TV's prime-time soap 'Dallas,' but he showed up in a rented gray morning suit and matching top hat when as the real-life Larry Hagman he escorted his wife to the Royal Ascot Races in proper England. Queen Elizabeth was there, too, but attention was focused on Hagman. "I wanted to wear my cowboy hat," he said, "but I was told it wasn't etiquette—whatever that is." ... Mary Crosby, who plays the scheming mistress of the vile and villainous J.R. Ewing on 'Dallas,' says Larry Hagman really helped her overcome the nervousness that afflicted her first bedroom scene with him. Blind Crosby's daughter says Hagman, sensing her unease, cured her jitters by whispering, "Don't worry, honey. It's only your career."

CONSUMER NEWS WIRE: CHiPs star Larry Wilcox loves those stories about his reported feud with co-star Erik Estrada. Says Larry laughingly, "All that publicity is great for the ratings." ... Wonder Woman Lynda Carter makes a TV comeback this fall in the CBS film, 'The Last Song,' portraying a pop singer who, with her young daughter, is pursued by killers because she knows too much about a blunder involving deadly industrial waste. ... The newest 'Charlie's Angel,' is auburn-haired Tanya Roberts, 27. She'll replace willowy Shelley Hack, who replaced Kate Jackson. Roberts, who is married, will play "a part something like Kate Jackson's character." Any doubts about the jiggly shows? "No, I'm very liberated. If you're young and pretty, there's no reason why you shouldn't take advantage of it."

TV CLOSEUP: Hershey's National Track and Field Youth Program, sponsored by the Hershey Chocolate Company, is being conducted this summer in 50 states and the District of Columbia for over 2.5 million boys and girls, ages 9 to 15. State meets will be conducted in each of the following eight regions: Southwest, Midwest, Pacific Northwest, North Central (Great Lakes), Northeast (New England), Mid-Atlantic, Pacific Southwest, Southeast. Youngsters will be selected for the regional teams on the basis of comparative times posted throughout the states within their region. Nearly 500 winners selected from the state meets will represent their regions at Laidley Field in Charleston, W. Virginia. Finals will be held Saturday, August 16. Opening ceremonies will begin at noon. To promote participation, enjoyment and physical exercise for all children is the reason why it is being held. ... A lot of top Hollywood stars would like to be taken out of circulation—for good. They include Jack Lord, Carol Burnett, Farrah Fawcett, Dennis Weaver and Danny Thomas. The reason is that a Colorado novelty firm has been taking $1 bills and pasting pictures of the above luminaries over that of George Washington and selling them for $2.
