Alamitos Feature wins Classic

Alamitos Feature waved his nose in front on the last jump and out pointed heavily favored Streakin Six in Sunday's 12th running of the World's Championship Quarter Horse Classic at Ruidoso Downs.

Alamitos Feature went off as a 9-1 shot in the 440 yard struggle which packed a gross purse of $140,094. It was the richest edition in the history of the Classic. First place was worth $73,047.

Streakin Six, a brightly shining star in the 1979 two-year-old ranks, continued to be dogged by misfortune. With the Classic victory barely slipping out of his hands, the colt continues looking for his first stakes triumph of 1980.

Third place in the Classic went to Chicks Charger Bar, a 4-1 pick. The distance between second and third place was a half length.

Alamitos Feature was ridden by Jerry Burgess out of the No. 10 post. The unaltered five-year-old son of Alamitos Bar is owned by David St. Clair of Wichita Falls, Texas. The winning time of 22 seconds flat on a fast track — but under gloomy skies and lightly falling rain — established a seasonal record by a slim two one-hundredths of a second.

The Classic victory, the biggest in Alamitos Feature's career, marked quite a turnaround in his fortunes. Earlier this year, he unsuccessfully tried $26,000 claiming company at Los Alamitos on the West Coast. Two summers ago, he won at Ruidoso with a $20,000 price on his head.

Fans who supported Alamitos Feature in the Classic collected mutual returns of $20.20, $5.60 and $3.80. Streakin Six, handled by Danny Cardoza for B. F.

Phillips Jr., of Frisco, Texas, dished out $3.20 and $2.60. The runnerup purse of $24,835 lifted his 1979 earnings up to a respectable $47,556 and beefed his career total up to an impressive $407,607.

Chicks Charger Bar, the property of Bobby and Pete Perez Sr., and Pete Perez Jr., (all of Grand Prairie, Texas) earned third place money of $14,609.

Alamitos Feature came out of the Classic with a three race win streak and 1980 earnings of $84,680.

The Classic was something of a see-saw struggle with Streakin Six breaking tardily and winding up in third place in the early going. After about 100 yards, the three-year-old colt tried to come on, but could barely find elbow room. For a while, his cause looked like a hopeless one.

As Streakin Six was taking his lumps,

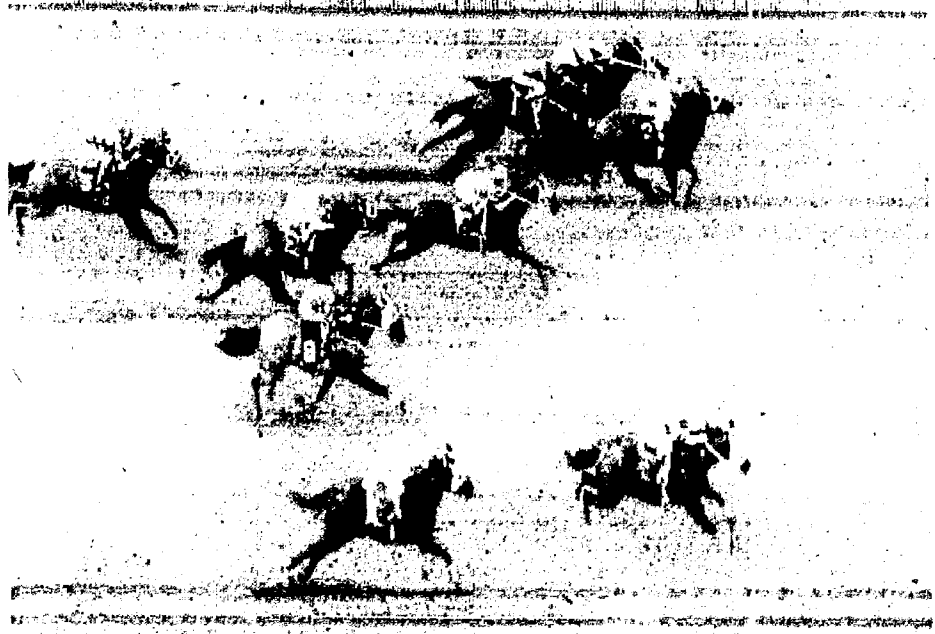

My Old Gal Nancy — a 19-1 longshot — took up a threatening position at the front of the pack. Alamitos Feature was on the far outside, about a half length out of it but firing on all burners.

In the final 50 yards, Streakin Six squeezed through a sliver of daylight and forcefully bullied his way in front. For a few strides near the wire, he appeared to have the lead. But the colt's chances went up in smoke as Alamitos Feature soared in front on the last jump.

The winning margin was about two to three inches.

The also-rans checked in this way: 4th — Oh Shiney (earning $10,226); 5th — My Old Gal Nancy ($7,304); 6th — Acceptable ($5,843); 7th — Kennys Sam ($4,382); 8th

Edward Barker 'Best of Show'

For the second year in a row, Edward Barker, a potter from Wellington, Kansas, was named "Best of Show" artist at the Ruidoso Art Festival, a three day event which closed Sunday evening.

Barker, who shared top honors last year with his wife Donna Dudley Barker, a sculptor, earned the award this year for his stoneware pottery which has appeared in Ruidoso the last three years.

Barker said this year's show was "about the same quality" as previous years, but sales in his booth were down from 1979. He said this is one of the few shows he does "this time of year" and tagged it "one of the best art shows...for a small show," adding "I probably wouldn't do a show this time of year if I didn't come to Ruidoso."

The Barkers' sole income is what they take at shows, which number about 18 a year. Their work is accepted in shows as far south as Arkansas and in Houston and Dallas, Texas, Kansas City, Missouri, and other western areas.

"This has been a good crowd... I have no complaints about the publicity—traffic has been good. I can see it getting better every year," Barker said.

Barker will receive a free booth next year and other artists selected as the best 25, will not have to be juried in 1981. Top 25 artists, selected by their peers, included: Paul LeFevre, Danny Gamble, Wes Speir, Linda Pond, Leslie and Becky Zauf;

Mike Gowen, Bruce McElya, Ervin Johnson, John Tracy II, Irene Ezell, Bill Boggs, Susan Carlson, Marshall

Bacigalupi, Mary Selfridge, Juhree Bassett, Mike Allender, Garnett and David Hutchinson;

George Halle, Lols McLane, Kathy Morrow, Catherine Bean, Paul and Susan Hawkins, Susan Clifton, Bill Blackford and the Barkers.

Attendance at this year's festival was also up, according to Ed Jungbluth, Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce executive director. Jungbluth said Friday's gate showed 1,611 attended the first night. Saturday's receipts were 2,582 and Sunday, 1,386 people attended. He said total attendance rose by more than 1,500 over last year's count of 3,729.

For the first time ever, entertainment was scheduled to add a "more festive atmosphere" to the show. Providing entertainment were the Ruidoso Gymnastics Academy, Karen Lafferty, Danny Racher, Gospel Seed, pantomime exhibitions and a magic show.

Food booths providing traditional Southwestern cuisine were operated by the Ruidoso Elks Lodge, the Altrusa Club of Ruidoso, Ruidoso Band Boosters, Beta Sigma Phi Sorority, Humane Society of Lincoln County, Ruidoso Gymnastics Academy and Mesalero Rehabilitation Center.

Several businesses in the village hosted a coffee Saturday morning and a private reception Saturday night for artists.

Sponsors of the coffee included the Bear Claw Gallery and Framing Company,

Western Office Equipment, Big T Family Restaurant, Security Bank, Stagecoach Motel, Hughes Body Shop, Jack's Kerr-McGee, First Christian Church, Barnett Carpets; Sierra Blanca Motors, Artistic Beauty Salon, Gibson's Discount, Sierra Development Company, Bennett's Shur Sav, The Woodshed, Village Hardware, Ski West Sports and White Mountain abstract and Tile Company.

Sponsors of the reception Saturday night included Madre's, Smith Ltd. Gallery, Crucis Art Studio, Armadillo Stained Glass, The Artisan's Shop and Gallery, Parson's Travel Agency and Ruidoso State Bank.

EDWARD BARKER of Wellington, Kansas, above, captured the "Best of Show" award at the Ruidoso Art Festival this weekend. Barker also had the top booth in 1979 and will automatically be accepted to the 1981 show. He shows stoneware pottery.

Villages' trustees to meet

Ruidoso Downs trustees will meet tonight at 7:30 in the municipal building. Major agenda items to be considered include an annual joint powers agreement with Southeast New Mexico Economic Development District and awarding of a bid on a pump station and water lines.

The trustees will also consider two items tabled at the July 14 meeting — a contract on emergency water line installation and a proposed water rate change.

The Ruidoso trustees will meet at 7:30 p.m., Tuesday in the Ruidoso Public Library.

Agenda items include a report on opening of bids on refuse removal trucks, hearings on proposed Ordinance 80-4 pertaining to the village's personnel board and Ordinance 80-5 pertaining to excavations, replats from Innsbrook Village referred from Planning and Zoning and a proposal for a water rate study from Boyle Engineering.

Patrons pleased by Art Festival

Most of those attending the Ruidoso Art Festival last weekend were pleased with what they saw, according to a random sampling by News reporters.

Jim and Dee Bryant of Abilene, Texas, heard about the festival through "word of mouth," and came to Ruidoso specifically to attend the event. They purchased wooden toys by Paul Crown of Ruidoso for their young daughter, a hand puppet from Fred and Rose Knapp and a nail necklace from John Boland.

They thought the festival had a good representative "mix" of art and craft work, but felt the prices were just "a little higher than we expected." Despite that one drawback, they agreed the festival was "really good," including the edible goodies provided at the concession stand. Locals Don and Linda Swalander and family called the festival "great," and agreed the quality was greater than in past years. They purchased a scratchboard picture, an enamel pin, rubber stamps and a decorative mirror.

"We're getting some Christmas shopping done, too," they said.

Guy Linder drove up for the festival

Sunday from Holloman Air Force Base. He agreed with the artists on the "friendliness" of the people at the festival and said the quality was "great." He also liked the "relaxed atmosphere," the way the tents were set up, and the "delicious nachos."

He added that he heard about the festival through a news story in the Alamogordo paper. Although he "couldn't afford" too many items, he said he enjoyed looking and was planning to purchase some leather craftwork.

Bill Smith of Ruidoso attended the festival on the first evening, with wife Mimi and son Jake. He was particularly impressed with the pottery of Edward Barker and sculpture by Donna Dudley. He said the quality of the show was "improving every year," and was interested to watch the development in the styles of artists who had been exhibiting their works for several years.

Some "unusual items that I didn't expect to see," Smith said, were a welcome surprise, including the wooden post office box banks.

Ed Goodrum of Ruidoso said he would have liked to see less pottery and more sculpture, especially in bronze, at the festival. He said this was the first time in several years he had attended.

More oil paintings would also have appealed to him, he said, but added the festival was "very good."

Glenna Snyder of Hope said she and her friends came up for the races, so they weren't spending much money on art. Nevertheless, she said the festival was "great, with good quality work." She also liked the outdoor location, saying sometimes the art works were "lost in a big building."

Chris Hawthorne and husband Jim came to Ruidoso Sunday "mainly for the festival." The Lovington couple said they went to many art shows and felt the quality at Ruidoso was exceptional. Their only complaint was some lack of variety in subject matter, with too much emphasis on southwestern scenes and subjects. The food, she added, ranked a "minus ten."

Mike Carbuto and Dorsey Grover of Ruidoso agreed that the quality of the show is improving yearly. "We really enjoyed it," he said. He felt there were less "crafty items and more art," at this year's festival. They were also impressed that "the tents didn't leak" during the brief rains over the weekend.

Entertainment at the festival, Grover said, had a "spiritual message which was a little heavy-handed," on Friday evening.

The concession booth offerings weren't "gourmet food, but what can you expect at a festival?" she added. She was grateful for the availability of fruits along with snack foods.

Grover and Carbuto also noticed another unexpected attribute of the ninth annual festival, which added to their enjoyment. "It smelled good," they said.

ONE OF THE few artists who has displayed work at the Ruidoso Art Festival every year of its existence, Danny Gamble, has an interested buyer, above.

Artists praised 1980 Art Festival

BY GWYNETH JONES
Staff Writer/Photographer

There was a lot of good will floating around among exhibiting artists at last weekend's Ruidoso Arts Festival.

Every artist approached by The News expressed only praise for the quality of the festival, the organizational efforts by the Chamber of Commerce and the many volunteers, and the treatment of the artists and craftspeople.

Almost all were grateful for the cool Ruidoso climate, too.

The 1980 festival is "the best they've ever had," according to Mickey Tracy, whose husband John Tracy II took a "Top 25" ribbon. The Traceys did well with their sales also.

"You'd think with the economy the way it is, people wouldn't be buying art, but we've done better in our shows this year than in the past five years," she said. The trend toward buying art as an investment is a probable reason for their recent success, she added.

The Traceys said they "use this as a vacation time, and bring the whole family out" to enjoy the weather.

Juhree Bassett, who displayed her wood burnings at the festival, said she "always enjoys coming to Ruidoso." The addition of tents, keeping the festival in the same location were advantageous, she said.

As far as the treatment of exhibitors, she added, "There's no group nicer to the artists," and praised the "general graciousness" of the public and organizers who arranged get togethers for them. There is a "respect and concern" for artists at the Ruidoso festival which is unheard of at other shows, she said.

Mary Selfridge of Amarillo, Texas, said the festival was "one of the best we go to," and called the organization "fantastic." She and her husband, Bill attend about 30 shows each year.

"A lot of times, we'll have better shows financially, but the people are not as friendly," she added.

That sentiment was echoed by Fred and Rose Knapp, puppetmakers, who also said the organizers try "very hard," to make things comfortable for the artists. They, too, were appreciative of the coffees and parties which were sponsored by local business people.

"The activities to bring the craftspeople together," was also mentioned by John Boland, who crafts jewelry from nails. "The organizers provided a real warm and friendly atmosphere for the craftspeople," he added. All his questions received prompt answers from the people staffing the Chamber's information center, he said.

Boland also praised the volunteers who did everything from "providing an announcer's booth to emptying the trash." He was surprised at the number of people

'The Kid' escapes again!

Billy the Kid will ride the hills of Lincoln County again this week — but most of his stops will be at the pageant grounds in Lincoln, where his ghost will be resurrected for the annual Billy the Kid pageant Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Also on tap during the three day celebration will be a Pony Express Race, a parade, fiddler's contest and an arts and crafts fair.

Begun in 1940, the pageant re-enacts the Kid's escape from the Lincoln County Courthouse in April, 1881. William Bonney, as a young man from New York, came West, where he went to work for one faction in the famed Lincoln County War, which was the basis of the John Wayne movie, "Chisum."

Bonney, later nicknamed the Kid, became embroiled in the range war, and eventually became a hunted outlaw. He surrendered himself to New Mexico Governor Lew Wallace to testify in a murder trial.

But the Kid was doublecrossed and sent to the Lincoln Courthouse, which doubled as a jail. There he escaped, killing two deputies in the process.

A few months later, he was hunted down and killed by Sheriff Pat Garrett.

These events will be commemorated during Old Lincoln Days this weekend in four performances — Friday at 8:30 p.m., Saturday, 8:30 p.m., and Sunday at 3:30 p.m. and 8:30 p.m.

The annual Pony Express Race will kick off at 8:30 a.m., Saturday with an open invitation chuckwagon breakfast honoring the riders. The race will start at 8 a.m., and riders will carry mail from White Oaks to Lincoln.

Entries for the race will be taken up to 30 minutes before the race begins and can be made by calling Lois Clements in Picacho at 653-4033.

A money purse and donated prizes from Roswell merchants will be awarded. To post a letter for Pony Express handling, place your letter, along with planned recipient's name and address, inside another envelope. The outer envelope should be marked "Pony Express Race." Include 50 cents and be sure the letter is at Carrizozo's post office by 5 p.m., Thursday.

NOT ALL FINISHES in the Pony Express Race being run Saturday, from White Oaks to Lincoln, end in a dead heat as Bennie Runnels, left, and Brahmim Hindi, right, did in 1975. However the finish line is the place to be, August 2, in Old Lincoln about 10 a.m., when this year's winner will claim his prize.

The mail is genuine and carries an official post mark signifying it was carried by Pony Express. In past years, up to 2,000 letters have been carried in this race.

A fiddler's contest will start at 1:30 p.m., Saturday and entry is open to all fiddlers who feel they can rosin their bows and play a foot-tappin' tune. Registration is at pageant grounds just prior to the beginning of the contest. More details are available by calling Lewis Purcella in Roswell, 622-1920.

The arts and crafts fair, which has 25 entries so far, will be open Saturday and Sunday from 9 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

A parade will kick off activities Sunday afternoon, beginning at 1:30, at the east end of Lincoln. Those interested in entering the parade should contact Sue Graham, Box 63, Lincoln, New Mexico, 88330.

Also planned are food booths which will be located near pageant grounds, balloon rides, weather permitting, which will go up for a view of the town and will be setting down behind the Old Lincoln School; and turtle races for children 12 and under who want to win pageant tickets.

THE "CHRISTMAS IN JULY" bazaar held Saturday at the Episcopal Church did an enviable business, with many items selling out within an hour of opening the doors. The bazaar is sponsored by Saint Anne's Guild. Above, rich candies are displayed for sale.

TWO RUIDOSO HIGH SCHOOL students Lou Ann Wilson (center) and Connie Howard (right) are among 27 selected from throughout New Mexico to participate in the second session (July 7-25) of New Mexico State University's summer science training program in chemistry. They are Washita Ted ($2,921); 9th — Salutations ($1,480); 10th — Dicksays Fireman ($1,460).

BLACK AT THE WIRE, a 9-5 shot ridden by Charles Mueller, bided his time during the early going of Friday's mile headliner at Ruidoso Downs.

As the colt neared the turn for home, Mueller decided to settle down to business. He asked Black At The Wire to get rolling and that pretty well was it.

Black At The Wire took control easily, galloped down the straightaway, and hit the wire 3/4 length on top. He stopped the clock in 1:45 flat, collected $2,400 out of the four grand allowance pot, and refunded tote payoffs of $5.60, $3.60, $2.80.

The winner is owned by Ellis Lee Ivey of Denver City, Texas. Black At The Wire is now a two time winner at the meeting.

Net Star, a 1-1 shot, vainly tried to set the early pace and finally had to settle for second ($5, $3.80). Fast Hitter moved out sixth place to take third ($4.80).

Friday's program also included a pair of six furlong elimination trials leading to the $40,000 (est.) Rio Grande Futurity. Sunday's Night led the qualifying parade with an awesome 8 1/2 length win as an even money choice. In the process, she became the first five time winner at the meeting. The gray filly, owned by Sam F. Henderson of Odessa, Texas, looms as a prohibitive favorite in the futurity finale August 3.

Business at Ruidoso Downs continued to hum as Friday's handle finished up at a whopping $472,770 from 12 races. On the same day last year, the 13 race program produced a handle of $390,404.

JUST ONE WINK, a 33-1 longshot ridden by Joe Martinez, squeezed through between horses late in the stretch and pulled out a tinging nose victory in Saturday's second division of the First Lady Handicap at Ruidoso Downs.

Just One Wink is owned by Jess Burner of El Paso, Texas.

Duquessa, the plucky filly who keeps running one sharp race after another, finished second under Leroy Coombs. Huffast, the classy invader from Oaklawn Park, was unable to hold on in the stretch and faded to third. She finished a surprising 2 1/4 lengths behind Duquessa.

Ruidoso patrons, much impressed by Huffast's 1980 money line of nearly $50,000, made her an odds-on favorite. But the 125 pounds on her shoulder was evidently a bit more than she could handle.

Just One Wink, well off the pace in the early going, didn't get into contention until near the wire. The filly, packing 114 pounds, earned $4,203 and returned $64 to win, $15.80 to place, $4 to show.

Just One Wink was clocked in 1:09 flat. Duquessa refunded $4.40 and $2.80. Backers of Huffast had to settle for a $2.50 show return.

The first division of the First Lady turned out as expected, as That's Class, a 6-5 favorite, rallied powerfully in the stretch for a going away 3/4 length win. Danny Summerow was up. That's Class was clocked in 1:07 3/5. The four-year-old filly is owned by Walter Merrick of Sayre, Oklahoma. She totaled 123 pounds. The mutual returns: $4.20, $3.60, $3.

Sassey Babu, an 18-1 outsider, ended up second after setting most of the pace. She returned $7.80, $4.20. My Spanish Lady moved well in the stretch for third ($5).

Each end of the First Lady Handicap carried a gross purse of $7,005. The First Lady is conditioned for fillies and mares.

Another big crowd was on hand Saturday and the wagering on the 12 race card soared up to $384,768. On the same day last year, the fans bet $322,536 on a 13 race program.

VERILY HOME, a 16-1 longshot handled by Leroy Coombs, overcame favorite King Goober to score a head victory in Thursday's 5 1/4 furlong headliner at Ruidoso Downs.

Verily Home is owned by Loy Dickson of Watonga, Oklahoma. The filly covered the distance in 1:11 3/5 seconds and returned mutual payoffs of $34.60, $14.80, $5.40. King Goober, who looked like a winner at the head of the stretch, refused $5.40 to place and $4 to show. Rain Castle got up for third, paying $5.

The race was marred by a spectacular spill at the first turn. A sudden jam up developed, and Flashy Dresser and Never Amble went into a tumbling spill. Sparkys Cat broke a leg in the fray, and pulled up in the backstretch. Flashy Dresser and Never Amble appeared to escape serious injury.

Jockey Wayne Buehrer, who was riding Flashy Dresser, was taken by track ambulance to Ruidoso Hondo Valley Hospital, where he was treated for broken ribs. The other two jockeys who were involved in the mishap, J. M. Diequez and Kevin Scholl, were not seriously hurt.

Ruidoso's booming mutual pace continued as Thursday's handle reached $328,080. On the same day last year (with one more race), the handle was $301,334.

Summer horse sale August 1-2,

BY MIKE MAGDA

A varied selection of horses—including broodmares, stallions and yearlings—will go on sale August 1 and 2 in the eighth annual Ruidoso Downs Summer Sale for thoroughbreds and quarter horses.

Over 140 horses have been consigned to the sale with a value estimated over $450,000. Last year's sale sold 103 head for $304,700—for an average of $2,953 per head. This year's edition is open to thoroughbreds and quarter horses of all ages.

"I feel our sale will follow the Kentucky trend this year and will probably be up 30 percent or more," said sales manager Richard Thompson, who was referring to the 27-30 percent increase in total sales at Keeneland and Fasig-Tipton sales earlier in July.

The two sessions will begin at 7:30 each evening (Friday and Saturday) in the All-American Sales Arena located just off the backstretch on the track grounds. The first session will offer 60 broodmares, including 22 with foals at their sides, four weanlings and two stallions. The second session will offer 22 quarter horse yearlings, 33 thoroughbred yearlings and 19 horses of racing age.

Since its inception seven years ago, the Summer Sale has tripled in size. The initial sale sold 47 head and the best year was in 1976 when 162 head were sold for just under one-half million dollars.

The leading consignor to this year's sale is the Game Racing Stables of Bosque with 15 head, including four yearlings and 11 broodmares. Bob Walton of the Silver Springs Stallion Station, Chickasha, Oklahoma, will offer eight broodmares and Jim Perkins of Navasota, Texas, and C. A. Bannen of Nogales, Arizona, consigned seven head each to the sale.

In the opening session, some of the covering sires to the broodmares include Bugs Alive In 75, Johney Mito and Pocket Coin. Of the 22 foals selling at their sides, the stallion index includes Bloody Blade, First Impression and George Lewis.

One of the more impressive broodmares is Made In Style, an eight-year-old stakes winning mare of over $43,000 who is in foal to the Bold Ruler stallion One Bold Bid. Also selling in the first session is the 13-year-old stallion Foggy Road. A stakes winner of over $77,000, Foggy Road has sired stakes winners Smash It and Ghost Light. Smash It's first foal, Easily Smashed, is also a stakes winner.

Of the 33 thoroughbred yearlings in the second session, 24 have been nominated to the 1981 Norgor Futurity at Ruidoso Downs. Included in the yearling selection is a full sister to the great Norgor, Norgor's Sis. Norgor was a Ruidoso Downs champion sprinter and once held the world record for four furlongs. A three-year-old half brother to Norgor will also be sold in the second session.

Two other top yearlings include Bin A Christian and Pollinara. Bin A Christian is from the same family that produced Banquero, Webelo and Blunare while Pollinara is a half brother to Capri's First, a stakes placed filly.

The auctioneers for the sale will be Bill Tackett of Collinsville, Oklahoma, and Keith Babb of Monroe, Louisiana. Tackett also calls for the Keeneland sales where a record $1.7 million yearling sale was made last week. The announcer will be Tom Hammond of Lexington, Kentucky. Working as ringmen will be Ray Martin, Carol Whitman, Rex Jordan, Stanley Stuits, Danny Green and Butch Wise.

MOVE NOW. GET THIS YEAR'S LINDAL AT LAST YEAR'S PRICE.

If you've been waiting and waiting for the new home market to take a turn counter to inflation, bless your patience. Because if you buy a custom design or any one of the 60 different Lindal Cedar Homes before July 31, you can pick it up for the exact same price we offered in Spring of 1979. In addition to our price roll back, we're offering 50% off on all energy saving options. Which, if you're counting dollars, could add up to a savings of $6,000.

Our only other requirement in this offer is that you take delivery on your new 1980 Lindal before September 15. That's it. With inflation, there won't be a better time to move than right now.

The time of the annual Lincoln Historical pageant draws near. The Last Escape of Billy the Kid will be held as always in the first week end in August. This year this falls on the first, second and third, with night performances Friday and Saturday, and Sunday with an afternoon performance on Sunday, the third.

Betty Shrecengost, general manager of Lincoln Days, has reminded us that this will be the fortieth anniversary of the pageant, which was first held in 1940 as part of New Mexico's four hundredth birthday, or Cuarto Centennial.

This first pageant was held with the streets of Lincoln in front of the court house as a stage, with Peter Hurd as the first Kid.

Billy Shrecengost, born and raised in Lincoln, plays the Kid this year as he has for the past several years. He is kid number six, the others beside Peter Hurd, were Johnny Davis, John Thomas, Tommy Taylor, and Earl Taylor.

This year is the ninety-ninth anniversary of the Kid's escape, which took place in April 1881.

One Of A Kind

The pageant is in a class by itself, being the only Western show that takes place on the exact spot where the original drama was played out, and the general surroundings little changed from one hundred years ago.

The pageant grounds are in the shadow of the old court house, standing as it did in pioneer times. And the village of Lincoln itself is hardly changed at all from the early days.

Also through the years, many of the actors in the pageant have been and are descendants of the ones who were prominent in the events portrayed in the show.

Director Dianne Shrecengost, Narrator Dave Parks, and all the actors are working hard to bring a good performance to the American public which have been wonderfully appreciative through the years.

The central purpose of the pageant and the Lincoln days is to honor the pioneers of the southwest and our entire nation.

So come on over to Lincoln and help us turn back the clock to the good old pioneer days of a hundred year ago.

A word about the Kid

Year by year, Billy the Kid emerges more clearly as the most colorful figure of the pioneer west. This will become clear to you as you watch the pageant.

I have come about as close to knowing the Kid without actually being acquainted with him as you might. In my early youth I was well acquainted with some of his best friends who gave a very favorable picture of him.

One thing about the pageant, it has never been completely rained out, although some of the heaviest down pours you ever saw have come just before and just after the pageant.

The clouds are gathering now in the days before the show. Let us hope for rain.

Inside The Capitol

by Fred McCaffrey

SANTA FE—Tom Watson is a trained political scientist who specializes in analyzing what the voters are up to.

He does some of the most sophisticated work with turn-outs for elections now going on in New Mexico, with particular emphasis on ethnic origin of voters.

He says his latest conclusion, after surveying the results of the June primary in New Mexico, is that Republicans in the state are both turned on and turning out. He thinks that will make a difference in the fall.

Anglo Democrats, he says, seem mostly to be stagnating and bored. "There is considerable evidence that they just don't care," is the way he puts it.

Democrats with Spanish last names turned out better for the 1980 primary than they did for the 1978 one, which helped to account for Teddy Kennedy's win in the state.

Hispanic Republican turn out was equal to 1978.

There is considerable evidence, Watson says, that only one out of every ten Anglo Democrats bothered to vote in this year's primary, while one out of three or four of Anglo Republicans did.

"If the Republicans can just keep that trend going, especially if they run successful campaigns to increase registrations and then get out the vote, they will have a considerable influence on all parts of the November election," the analyst observes.

What that means is that Republicans could run strong in local races and for legislative posts, Watson says, not just that Reagan-Bush will probably carry the state in the presidential race.

If the local change is noticeable, that will be historic for New Mexico, whose Republican party last had its major influence in the days of Bronson Cutting and prior to the coming of Franklin Delano Roosevelt.

If Bill Giron gets time to do any work it's a minor miracle.

Not only does the acting Secretary of Corrections get bid to come before almost every legislative committee that sits in this town, but he serves as a many committees of other kinds as the mind of man can conceive.

Last week—while he was appearing before the Legislative Finance Committee, by the way—he revealed existence of a new group to which he belongs.

That's the special committee to review progress toward development of a corrections master plan—which plan will not ever get developed if the Corrections Secretary isn't given more time to work.

The point we're trying to make, perhaps too obliquely, is that Governor King ought to stop naming groups to supervise improvements to our penal system and just make the improvements.

Those of us who were somewhat disturbed to be told that Corrections is not planning any personnel changes at the state penitentiary are now hearing that some changes may be in the offing after all.

The word here is that Jim Wilson, investigator for the Attorney General's office, has completed looking into one set of charges of mistreatment of prisoners at the pen, and that what he found out may lead inevitably to the departure of some persons who have been on the staff there for a long time.

We hope the right persons go.

INCAPACITATED

Public confidence in the Social Security system, already undermined by desperation increases in the payroll tax that funds benefit payments, is further eroded by the "Son of Sam" fiasco.

A New York City newspaper has reported that convicted killer David Berkowitz is receiving disability payments of more than $300 a month under the Social Security program.

Government officials said the payments had been approved due to Berkowitz' inability to hold a job because of mental illness.

Berkowitz is serving a 315-year prison sentence for six slayings in New York City. His incarceration also affects his ability to get a job.

According to Rep. William Whitehurst, a Virginia Republican investigating the system, similar payments to prison inmates throughout the country may cost as much as $60 million a year.

The Social Security system has been loaded over the years with obligations far in excess of the original goals of the retirement plan. The burden is great enough without questionable benefits such as those going to "Son of Sam." — News Bulletin, Salem

Letters to the Editor

Dear editor:

We would like to express our thanks, to the best of our ability, to Charles Spooner (our Methodist minister) and the rest of the crew (whose names we do not have) of the fire department for saving our Ole' Taco building.

Not enough can be said for these people who go out in any kind of weather and at all hours to save property and lives.

We would like very much to hear from the person who turned in the alarm so that we might at least express our sincere thanks to him or her.

No less would we like to show our appreciation to policeman Barry Cole for his concern in notifying us of the fire, and his efforts to locate Ben Chavez, the operator of Ole Taco.

Thomas and Mary Nell Williams

Dear editor:

I would like to thank the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce and especially Ed Jungbluth for helping support me on my recent week long trip to Los Angeles, California, where I participated in the Hugh O'Brian Youth Foundation international leadership seminar.

The Chamber provided me with bumper stickers and memorandum advertising New Mexico and the Ruidoso area.

I really appreciate their involvement and cooperation as my week in Los Angeles was one of the most memorable experiences in my life.

Scott Neal

Dear editor:

This nation is engaged in a cataclysmic crisis the outcome of which shall determine our continued existence as the bastion of freedom in this world. The well-meaning, civic-minded, pseudo-intellectual, let's-all-love-each-other morons are sounding their own death knell!

The Union of Soviet Socialist Republics has historically and repeatedly made plain her intention to dominate the entire Earth. She has done so in print, by the spoken word of her founders and leaders and by the action of her military. As clearly as the Nazi blueprint for World War Two was laid forth in Mein Kampf the Soviet blueprint and reasoning is laid forth in the writings of Marx, Lenin, Trotsky and Engels. Lenin's usage of piecemeal measures intended to undermine the authority and unity of the target nation have proven effective. The usage of half-informed well-meaning, highly placed individuals is taught as a most desirable tactic.

The destruction of religion, alienation of labor and control of the weapons normally in the hands of the civilian populace are all stepping stones to revolution from without. Bear in mind that no communist revolution was ever conducted successfully by anyone without at least two of the above ingredients. Bear also in mind that communist revolutions are inevitably of a foreign origin. Karl Marx was a German and was the primary source of the Russian Bolshevik revolution. The Chinese, Cuban, Vietnamese revolutions were all of foreign origin.

Failure of the American people to recognize the loss of their liberty as a real and present and IMMINENT DANGER is folly. This shall surely lead to war with the Soviet Union which may very well end in communist domination of the world.

William C. Kennedy III

Dear editor:

IF WE DON'T LOCK THE BARN WE MAY LOSE ALL OF THE HORSES.

The civil suit brought by Robert Jarvis of the Ruidoso Police Department asking for his reinstatement to the rank of sergeant points out again a real weakness in the method or lack of method used by the village regarding the cause of employee complaints or grievances.

If an employee has a grievance, under our present system, about the only recourse he has is to take his complaint before the full village council. This is not good — it is embarrassing to the employee and in most cases, receives a lot of publicity which is not necessary in the final solution.

You will recall the case of officer Cantu who was fired — rehired — and then fired again. An Employee Review Board can solve many employee personnel problems as well as eliminate the use of the courts to solve problems which are the direct responsibility of the village trustees. The board, appointed by the trustees, would be comprised of representatives selected from (1) the public (2) village trustees (3) village department heads (4) village employees.

This group would meet to hear employee complaints which could not be handled at the department head level. After the facts were obtained from both sides a recommendation would be made to the village trustees. Since this would involve employee relations, the recommendation could possibly be made in secret to the trustees which would eliminate much of the undesired publicity now given these cases.

An employee Review Board would probably have stopped the Cantu publicity and may have saved Sergeant Jarvis the necessity of suing his boss — the village — in order to protect his rights as he sees them.

In the Jarvis case, win or lose, money will be wasted by the village in defending a suit that should never had been filed had the proper mechanics been in place to handle a simple employee grievance.

I understand that a trustee, recognizing the need for some sort of employee policy program, is looking into the matter — that is good.

Ruidoso is growing — we had better park the horse and buggy and get with the jet age!

J.A. "Al" Jung

The water situation in Ruidoso is not critical — at the moment.

However, with summer consumption now approaching two million gallons of water per day, and with residential development soon to be implemented, the water situation here may become critical.

Water superintendent Jim Goodman has stressed that conservation of water must be uppermost in our minds.

The Alto treatment plant can process much more water than the village can channel into it.

Some means must be found to provide the additional treated water that will be needed as residential demands increase, as they must, as the village's growth continues.

The village trustees will be addressing themselves to the need to provide more water — and these discussions will be held at the regular open meetings of that body the first and last Tuesdays of each month at 7:30 p.m., in the Ruidoso Public Library.

Anyone with concrete suggestions as to how to obtain more water should contact village clerk Jim Hine on the Thursday preceding regular meetings, that they may be put on the agenda to be heard.

There must be several people in this area who can come up with workable solutions to the question of how to obtain more water.

If you have any ideas on the matter, present them to the trustees now — don't wait until a panic situation develops. —CD

Stuph & Junk

MD DRIVE ENTHUSIAST

Ruidoso boasts a MD — that's Muscular Dystrophy — booster who is going all out to raise funds to help Jerry Lewis' television appeal.

It's this way ... Mike Sergeant ... who operates M&M Maintenance ... has a deal for you ... if you're of a mind to contribute a few bucks to the MD drive.

His deal is ... he'll steam clean carpets ... from today through August 26 ... at his regular rates ... and you make your check out to the MD fund ... for his exact billing ... Mike ain't gonna pocket one cent ... it's like getting two-for-one for your money ... like getting your carpet cleaned ... you also help the MD fund appeal ... with your check being tax deductible.

Mike's gonna furnish all the materials ... and labor ... whatever ... outta his pocket ... and, by jinkies, such unselfish action on Mike's part certainly qualifies him for that special Stuph and Junk award ... given only to good guys ... The Dirty Sox Award ... and, Mike ... do proudly proclaim that you are the latest recipient of this special honor ... which proves you're a good guy ... 'cause bad guys can't wear these dirty socks.

All you gotta do is telephone Mike ... 257-5339 ... and get your rug taken to the cleaners ... or Mike'll have his crew come to you and clean it ... which'll be a lot easier all the way around ... no?

TEXAS LICENSE PLATES

I been eyeballing the license plates of Texans ... again ... and have noted SAB, SIB, SUB, SQB ... and others ... but nary a single SOB ... which must mean there ain't no sob sisters amongst the Texas car owners ... yes?

ON DEMING'S QUACKERS

Seriously ... they're gonna have the World's Richest Duck Race at Deming ... come August 24 ... and the sponsors may have closer to $3,000 ... than $1,000 ... in the pot ... and that kinda loot ain't for the birds ... 'cause ain't likely the owners of the winning race ducks'll split the pot with their winning sprinter. So's if'n you has a real fast waddling duck ... pack him off to Deming ... and let him win himself a year's supply of corn.

KING GOOBER RUN HERE

Horsie name of King Goober done run in Thursday's headliner ... and seems a shame no one notified Our Jimmy of this momentous occasion ... not that he'da come and rooted for King Goober ... 'cause he's just gotta have other things on his mind ... like will the Democrats go along with him at the convention ... and what's Teddy, the old bear, up to anyhow ... and all such matters ... but if'n he'da come ... the respite mighta done him good.

And if'n he'da known ... he mighta prevailed upon his brother to come in his stead ... steadda fixin' to get himself investigated ... and all ... 'cause of his hobnobbin' with the Libyans ... as a result of which Billy's learned Libyan dollars is some different'n dollars from peanuts.

But ... on the thumb hand side ... it's not certain if'n Our Jimmy's on real family like speaking terms with his brother ... but this much is for sure ... it's perfectly clear that Our Jimmy ain't his brother's keeper ... though Our Jimmy's probably secretly wishin' Billy'd get lost ... and then that old game ... losers weepers, finder's keepers could played ... with the Libyans ... natch ... taking the key role in becomin' the finders ... no?

GREEDY FREE LOADERS

You might, or might not, know Dorsey White ... of El Paso ... who spends the cool summers at his home somewhere near the mouth of Big Bear Canyon ... kinda reflecting that it's a heap cooler where he's at ... than he'd be if'n he was in El Paso ... and being's he kinda misses the action at his winter home ... he's taken to consorting with the hummingbirds ... and has found they're a real friendly buncha fine feathered friends ... what with perching on his thumb ... and all sorta hiphiks like that there that hummers usually don't do.

Now Dorsey ... with lotsa help from his helpmeet ... feeds just whole herds of hummers ... five varieties in all, Dorsey claims ... but, by jinkies, he's got a problem ... with the price of sugar ... seems his little free-loaders done up and gobbles down five pounds of sugar every day ... and more'n that when it rains ... so don't try'n tell Dorsey hummers ain't got a sweet tooth.

BRIEF BIT: Do seem likely, in the next three months, that Reagan'll reverse his field more times than he ever did whilst being a football hero ... CD

Bank robbers sought

The tranquil mountain setting of Questa would seem to be the last place where one of New Mexico's largest bank robberies would occur.

But that is exactly what happened July 3, when two gunmen robbed the Centinel Bank of Questa of a large amount of money.

This week the State Crime Stoppers Commission, High Country Crime Stoppers, Taos Crime Stoppers and Centinel Bank are offering up to $2,500 in rewards for information leading to the solution of the robbery.

New accounts indicate the tiny trailer bank had an unusually large amount of cash on hand the day of the robbery because it was pay-day for hundreds of MolyCorp employees. While the FBI declined to release an exact amount of money taken by the robbers, local newspaper accounts place it in the area of $40,000.

FBI reports say two Hispanic males entered the trailer bank at about 11:30 a.m., July 3, while there were no customers inside. One of the men, described as being between 25 and 35 years of age, 5-8, 150, with dark brown, medium length hair and having a large amount of acne scars on the upper cheeks of his face, pulled out a handgun. He held the gun on the manager, Robert Ortega.

The second offender, also between 25 and 35 years of age, 5-6, 140 pounds, went behind the teller line and pulled a handgun on head teller Mary Ann Cortez.

Police say the second offender did almost all the talking and that when his partner spoke, it was totally in Spanish.

The two gunmen handcuffed both bank employees and forced them to the floor. They then cleaned out all the cash from the teller cages and the floor safe, put it into a blue, laundry-type bag and ran from the bank.

Police believe there was a third accomplice, who then picked them up in a waiting vehicle and drove out of town.

At the time of the robbery, both offenders were clean shaven and wore blue cloth jackets and had on dark blue caps, possibly having snap brims.

Anyone who possibly might have information which could help solve the robbery is asked to call the State Crime Stoppers Commission at its toll-free number, 1-800-432-6933; the Taos Crime Stoppers Program at 758-8118; or the FBI in Santa Fe at 963-6711.

Callers do not have to reveal their identities and their calls are not taped nor traced.

The State Crime Stoppers Commission and the 35 local Crime Stoppers programs in New Mexico also pay cash rewards on a regular basis for information leading to the solution of major crimes and the capture of wanted persons.

Alamogordo became the latest New Mexico community to join the State's Crime Stoppers family. Their program will go into effect in the immediate future.

To date, more than 1,900 major crimes have been solved throughout the state with the help of calls to Crime Stoppers.

CONTROLLED BRUSH BURN was conducted near Carlsbad, to rid the area of undesirable plant life detrimental to livestock grazing.

Rangeland burn held at Carlsbad

About 2,000 acres of pinon-juniper-desert shrub rangeland, heavily infested with lechugilla, sotol, and one-seed juniper was recently controlled-burned on the Guadalupe District of the Lincoln National Forest, near Carlsbad.

Gradual increases in availability and production of forage from palatable grass and wildlife species, and improved surface water infiltration, are expected as a result of the burn.

After waiting two years for ideal weather conditions, District fire and range personnel spent four days burning the acreage located south-southeast of the Sitting Bull Falls Recreation Area. Much of the rangeland proposed for burning was so infested with shrubby juniper and lechugilla, a spiny desert succulent, that it was impassable to livestock and wildlife. District Ranger Tom Davis explained that a successful burn would be removal of a minimum of 70 per cent of the undesirable vegetation. Following the fire, Davis said the efficiency of the burn "was better than we had ever expected" with estimates of up to 90 per cent kill on the lechugilla.

Elimination of juniper, lechugilla, and other undesirable shrubs on the 2,000 acres will hopefully more favorable grass species to become established. Desirable browse species for wildlife will become healthier and more surface water will become available to the grass and browse plants. Davis said non-productive plants use more water for the amount of forage produced than do more productive species of grass and browse. Recent rains in the area since the fire should give some indication of the effectiveness of improving health of grass and browse plants.

Donald E. Cunico, Range and Wildlife Staff Officer on the Lincoln, said studies were initiated before the fire to monitor changes in forage production of the more favored grass and browse species, and will continue for several years.

Information obtained from these studies will be useful to evaluate the long term consequences of burning pinon-juniper-desert shrub ranges. Further controlled burning or natural fire may become important for improving these ranges for wildlife and livestock.

NMSU to build alcohol fuel plant

New Mexico State University's (NMSU) Agricultural Experiment Station soon will begin construction of an alcohol fuel pilot production plant that will serve as a model for New Mexico farmers interested in starting their own units. The plant will be built at NMSU's Plains Branch Station in Clovis.

In building the research model, NMSU hopes to provide farmers with a practical and efficient source of energy. Dr. George Morin, who is the project agricultural engineer, has observed alcohol production plants throughout the midwest. He will use this experience in planning the new model. Morin said that the concept behind alcohol production has received widespread publicity, but that actual farm production reached the practical stage. "In my travels, I saw very few plants that were fully operational," he said. He attributes some of these problems to poor design.

For example, he found that in the plants he visited, corrosion was a common cause of breakdowns. To avoid that in the new plant, Morin and a chemical engineer will work on a design which will have either a stainless steel unit or a unit with corrosion-resistant fittings.

Keeping practicality in mind, Plains Branch Station researchers will analyze 27 crops grown in New Mexico for their alcohol production capabilities. Crops such as sugar beets, grain sorghum and corn will be measured for their sugar and starch content. Sugar and starch are the basic ingredients in the alcohol production process.

The researchers will also consider crops with lower alcohol producing value. The potato is one such crop. Those potatoes that are too small to market would be of more value to the farmer as the raw product for alcohol production than they would if they were tossed out as waste.

When the specially constructed tanks are built, it will be possible to distill 800 gallons of mash in four hours. This will produce 720 gallons of spent mash suitable for livestock feed and 80 gallons of 190 proof alcohol which can be used to fuel modified engines.

Morin plans to modify diesel and spark emission engines to run on the alcohol alone rather than on an alcohol-gasoline mixture. "We plan to use the alcohol produced at the model plant in a diesel engine to pump water, in spark emission engines to power an electrical generator and farm trucks," Morin said.

Although the plant will not be operational until next spring, Morin and others at the branch station will be available to assist those interested in developing their own production units. "What we want to do is show the farmer the easiest and most practical way for him to build and maintain his unit," Morin said.

The alcohol production plant has been designated an "Agri-Search 80s" program by NMSU's Agricultural Experiment Station. Such programs are designed to help increase agricultural productivity in New Mexico during the next 10 years.

The total cost of the plant and research will be $255,020. Of that, the New Mexico Energy and Minerals Department will provide $130,775; the Four Corners Regional Commission, $71,320 and NMSU, $52,925.

Wilderness Wisdom

with Wayne Calloway

Dear Wayne — I have heard of hunters feeding their dogs a small amount of gunpowder to give them more energy. Is there any merit to this practice? Olin T., Tennessee.

Dear Olin — I also have heard of this unlikely food additive. In fact, my father sometimes rejuvenated his coon hounds by mixing a portion of black powder with their ration.

I'm not sure if its value is real or imagined, but it seems an unwise practice and I believe more harm than good would often result. If the dog is in good health and properly fed, he should possess his normal quota of energy. And suppose you dropped a lighted cigarette next to your favorite hound... HOT DOG!

I-n-s-i-d-e the Outdoors

by Gary Dollahan

Conservation is a four letter word — almost. That is, the word "conservation" and the word "wise" almost go hand in hand. This is particularly true if you follow "wise" with the word "use."

Think about it! Conservation is wise use. Therefore, conservation, or wise use, can apply to practically everything. For example, the wise use of trees, wise use of wildlife, the wise use of resources. The list could go on forever.

Conservation has become a very common word in recent years and it seems almost everybody became conservationists overnight. However, most of these so-called conservationists associated their title as pertaining only to wildlife. This presented at least two significant fallacies.

First, a number of the "conservationists" assumed this title in error. In reality, they were preservationists. The difference? Conservationists believe in the "wise use" concept; while preservationists believe in the "total protection" concept.

Even though both of these groups might agree on the total protection of a small population of wildlife struggling for its mere existence, only the conservationists would support a consumptive management practice, such as hunting, to check a large population having the potential of exceeding what its habitat can support. Again, think about wise use.

The other common fallacy is conservation applies only to wildlife. Wrong! Conservation applies for everything from money to energy, and we all know how those two items are related.

Needless to say, conservation is a must.

But, the real question is, "Are you a conservationist?" Don't answer until you ponder hard and long on that one.

I feel the increased costs for items we have taken for granted, and have even abused over the years have made us all more conscious of conservation. Take the now high priced gasoline, for example. Most people are planning their gas usage more wisely, that is, combining several possible trips to town into just one, or walking or bicycling short distances you used to drive to, or planning shorter distance recreation excursions, possibly even reducing the number of such trips.

Energy costs around the house have also encouraged the consumer to conserve. Perhaps you added a wood burning stove, or maybe added insulation to your house to help cut heating bills. You've hopefully become accustomed to lower thermostat settings in your home and office.

You're probably more aware of lights being on that aren't necessary. You know, the ones you leave on when you go to work, or the ones left on in closets and rooms that aren't used.

You might have even become more aware of water use. Possibly to the extent of reducing water quantities when taking showers or baths, or watering your lawn or garden, or maybe even while brushing your teeth.

If you are making a conscious effort to use wisely everything you have access to, you are well on your way to becoming a conservationist.

It's a long, rough road ahead, but without the help of each and every one of you, it will be a dead end street.

Working teens must face tax withholding

If you're a teenager holding your first summer job, the term "tax withholding" may be new to you. "But, if you expect to earn less than $3,300, you can file a Form W-4 with your employer and you won't pay federal tax," said Leo Yates, Extension family life specialist with New Mexico State University.

If the employer does withhold federal income tax and you earn less than $3,300, you must file a Federal 1040A to get a refund. In all cases Social Security and state income tax should be withheld.

If you're self employed and earn at least $600 gross or net $400, you must keep records of income and expenses. You will have to file a federal and a state earned income return and pay Social Security taxes and any state sales taxes due.

Teenagers are subject to the same tax deduction laws as adults. However, teens working for parents have fewer deductions. Parents employing their own children, under age 21, in a family owned business, get a labor deduction based on the value of their services and no Social Security tax is withheld or paid.

Parents can also claim a child who works for them as a deduction if they meet the support requirements. But it's a good idea to pay the child by check to keep labor records, Yates said.

If parents employ a child who earns less than $3,300, no federal tax return has to be filed. However, a state tax return must be filed by April 15 of the following year.

SPORTSWHIRLED—Although the Cleveland Indians miss Duane Kuiper's bat, Tom Varyzer and rookie Jerry Dybzinski have filled in well defensively for the injured Tribe infielder. Cleveland by the way, should have stayed in the thick of things a little longer this year, but their bullpen abandoned them... The ballclubs' brightest revelation has come from the bat of rookie Joe Charbonneau, who hits like Harmon Killebrew and runs like Willie Mays... Don't let the Orioles con you into thinking that they would have won the pennant again this year if Dennis Martinez was healthy. Steve Stone has pitched magnificently for Earl Weaver, yet the Baltimore squad continues to play bad baseball... All the Chicago White Sox need to be a serious contender is one right or left-handed power hitter... When I read about guys like Gary Templeton of the St. Louis Cards who didn't want to play in the All-Star game because he wasn't starting or that he wants more money I laugh. Gary thinks he's the greatest at his position, but he's not. Robin Yount, unfortunately stuck in Milwaukee where national media attention is virtually non-existent has been playing a wonderful shortstop for the Brewers since 1975. And at 24 he's getting better with age. Templeton still makes far too many mistakes with the glove. Yount is quick on his feet and has a cannon for an arm. His batting average has been rising steadily over the years, and he is now a .300 hitter with home run potential. Before Robin's career is over, sometime in 1990 or '91, he will have set many records. You wait and see. As for Mr. Templeton, I wish he'd shut up and play ball. The fans pay his salary and if they want to see him in the All-Star game he has every right to go... Dave Goltz and Nolan Ryan are both having a little problem with National League hitters this year. Could it be that the N.L. strike zone is a bit lower than the A.L. strike area? If so, why can't everything be uniform?

SOCCER NOTES—The laughing stock of the NASL, the Philadelphia Fury are rumored to be on the move to Montreal next year. One of Canada's leading breweries has purchased an interest in the team. There were whispers that the Rochester Lancers would move into Montreal but now it appears as if the team might try and find a home on Long Island... The success of the Tulsa Roughnecks franchise proves that a small but solid American city will support a well organized team. The Tulsa club plays an aggressive brand of soccer.

SHARKS

The story of the only man known to have survived an attack by a great white shark provides one of the exciting highlights in the real-life adventure special, "Sharks: The Death Machines," on NBC-TV TUESDAY, JULY 29.

Henry Fonda (pictured) is narrator of the special, which includes spectacular underwater footage of sharks.

Rodney Fox was the lucky man who survived the shark attack. He recounts the harrowing experience which took place 17 years ago off South Australia's Aidinga Reef.

Eye-riveting underwater scenes were taken by the world-renowned photography team of Ron and Valerie Taylor, whose footage dramatizes the incredible ordeal recalled by Fox.

CONFIDENTIAL REPORT As millions around the world waited for the gunsmoke to clear to reveal the fate of J.R. Ewing and the actor who plays him, Larry Hagman, the real town of Dallas was turned upside down. The off-camera scenes in the Texas oil town were as dramatic as any of those scripted for the blockbuster CBS TV series. Hagman's lawyers and production chiefs battled over a big money deal that threatened to kill off the real J.R. Hundreds of extra security men were brought in to protect the world's richest secret. Who shot him? Hordes of journalists from dozens of countries invaded the town despite a closed set. But by Lunar Productions, Production staff asked being fired if they breathed a word about the plot. Former chief had one Ace up their sleeves as they gambled for high stakes with Hagman. They brought in bit part actor Ardon Ace Moore to play J.R. in early episodes. Producers were showing they could get along for a while without Hagman who wanted his pay per episode to be hiked from $25,000. He had already turned down $40,000 when contract deadline passed. Meanwhile, the TV police aren't exactly dilly dallasing around. With Cliff Barnes and attorney Alan Beam already in custody for the shooting of that infamous J.R. Ewing, they turned their attention to Sue Ellen Ewing (Linda Gray). J.R.'s wife, and planned to toss her in the pokey.

CONSUMER NEWS WIRE The relationship between Lorne Greene and Pernell Roberts, best described as chilly during Pernell's later days in "Bonanza" warmed up when the two guest starred in a segment of "Vegas." Filmed recently in Hawaii. Sweeter than sugar Julie McCoy is really a tough cookie when the "Love Boat" ties up Lauren Tewes who stars as McCoy in the TV series said "I know how to take care of myself. I am not some naive little starlet. I won't allow myself to be walked on. Never! I don't really like personal criticism very well unless I know the person who is giving it to me. I'm very prone to challenging something that doesn't seem in my best interest or fair to me. When somebody starts to put me down, I look them right in the face and ask 'What right do you have to say that to me?' Usually, they don't have an answer. It is true that I have a temper. I don't think that should shock people."

TV CLOSEUP Johnny Carson commented "If you can't have a few failures, then good times don't mean a thing." Boozing is a way of life in Philadelphia. Mike Douglas said grinning "One year they booed Santa Claus in a parade." Inside The Third Reich, based on memoirs by former Nazi Albert Speer, is being developed as a six hour tele film by ABC. Adolf Hitler's minister of armaments and war spent 20 years in Spandau prison as a convicted war criminal. Days of Our Lives will add another eight people to its already large cast as the soap opera celebrates its 15th year on the NBC network. CBS is filming "Rape and Marriage—The Rideout Case," based on the Oregon wife who made legal history by suing her husband for rape. Stars are Jennifer Wright, Mickey Rourke and Rip Torn. Sophia Loren will be in the U.S. in September promoting a perfume she helped create for Coty. The perfume is called Sophia, and it's the first ever to carry the name of a star who had a hand in its creation.
