Mesa airport action pending

While they are in the process of preparing another application for federal lands on the Fort Stanton mesa as the site for a proposed regional airport, members of the Sierra Blanca Airport Commission (SBAC) are postponing action, pending the replacement of Congressman Harold Rummels.

SBAC chairman Fred Heckman called the present "a very frustrating time" for the commission, at a meeting held Thursday in Ruidoso. The commission agreed to delay submission of the new application until the identity of the new congressional representative is known.

The SBAC members discussed possible replacements and speculated on how much support for their efforts would be forthcoming from the possible candidates, which include David King, Dorothy Rummels and Joe Skeen.

The commission is also awaiting the filling of a vacancy in the office of the state director of the Bureau of Land Management, which controls the land desired by the SBAC. An "acting director" was still presiding as of the Thursday meeting.

Heckman also touched on the support of airport users for a new facility. In talking with a number of pilots in recent weeks, Heckman said he had concluded that there is "a lot of strong support" for a new facility, and that some financial help might be obtained from the airport users.

At the October meeting, the SBAC will consider the finalized version of the new application, which is being prepared with the help of the Lincoln County Bar Association. Heckman said he would also contact Senator Harrison Schmitt regarding the airport project and would report his findings to the commissioners in October.

137 PLANES ON GROUND OVER LABOR DAY

Airport use sets records

BY CHARLOTTE FELLERS
Staff Writer

Ruidoso Municipal Airport has ended the 1980 racing season with record figures for operations, car rentals, tie down usage, ground transportation and safety, according to airport manager Tim Morris. Labor Day weekend traffic, including all takeoffs and landings, totalled 609. Morris said this year's operations topped all previous records for airport usage, adding "we are probably still the busiest general aviation airport in the state for not having a commercial flight come in here."

Broken down, Morris gave the following Labor Day weekend figures: 160 operations on August 29; 89 on August 30; 85 on August 31 and 196 on Labor Day. Between 8 a.m. and noon, September 2, 79 operations were completed. On Labor Day, 1979, the airport handled 139 operations.

"I would estimate that 95 percent of that traffic was horse racing fans," Morris said. He added that 65 percent of all traffic into the airport is completed during the racing season.

Morris said these record figures are accompanied by a nearly spotless accident record. Only three minor accidents occurred all summer, with no major injuries. He said the personnel at the airport "did a fine job of handling all that traffic in such a short period of time. Not one scratch was found on any of the planes," he said. He said the "airport employees are just extremely conscious of safety, because of our location."

Morris said the airport now has 110 tie down spaces but parked some smaller planes on grass near the facility over Labor Day, with 137 planes being accommodated. Last year, 120 planes were parked at the airport.

"We did close again this year to heavy traffic, such as jets and King Air crafts — we just can't handle this much traffic," he said.

TRAFFIC COUNT statistics have also spiraled upward since 1975, according to airport figures.

TRAFFIC In and out of Ruidoso Municipal Airport topped all records this summer, with 137 aircraft parked at the facility on Labor Day.

Above, an aerial view of the airport, on a previous record day, July 5, when 120 planes were parked at the facility.

The traffic count for 1975 totaled 17,292; which increased to 19,400 in 1976, 20,477 in 1977 and 25,138 in 1978. Last year, the count totaled 26,895 and from January 1 to August 31 of this year, the count is already 20,949.

In July, 1975 the traffic count was 1,590; 2,265 in 1976, 2,555 in 1977, 3,298 in 1978 and 3,547 in 1979. The 1980 figure for July was 3,881.

Labor Day weekend figures showed that in 1975, the count was 400, 520 in 1976, 453 in 1977 and 686 in 1978. In 1980, the airport counted 609 operations, down for the first time in three years.

Morris said that 89,186 gallons of 100 octane fuel was sold during the 1980 season alone, and 44,476 gallons of jet fuel was pumped. "That's just since May," he said. The airport houses 53 aircraft year around, compared to 45 last year and only 18 in 1975.

Morris said he does not see the airport handling many more operations "unless traffic picks up in the middle of the week — we are completely saturated on weekends now," he said.

Morris said, in general, traffic into the airport is "up about five percent over last year," which he attributes to rising fuel costs and the 55 mile per hour speed limit.

He estimated that operations on an average day this summer totalled 75, for a season total of 8,800. "That's way more than more any airport this size," Morris said.

THE SERVICE ASPECT of Ruidoso's facility was enhanced this year by a new parking ramp, leading to an additional 36 tie downs which was completed by May 1. Morris said "the new ramp was used every weekend this summer."

He said a new charter service "handled more customers than any charter service we've ever had." He said figures were not available but most charter flights were to El Paso, Texas, Albuquerque, Raton, Midland, Texas, and Oklahoma City, Oklahoma.

Morris said the three car rental companies located at the airport had approximately 180 cars rented for Labor Day visitors, and averaged about 90 per weekend "all summer long." He said an additional 200 cars are parked at the airport year around to handle even more guests.

Morris said the biggest problem the airport now faces "is doing something about ground transportation here. This facility was not designed to handle the amount of ground transportation we now have."

Until changes are made, Morris said, "We will continue to try to operate in a safe and efficient manner until we can get into a new facility."

'Show cause' action next in Howell's try for state senate seat

BY GWYNETH JONES

Staff Writer

The state Supreme Court Friday issued a writ directing the secretary of state, the state Democratic Central Committee and Wilton Howell of Ruidoso to "show cause why the name of Johnny Herrera should not be placed on the general election ballot for senator, District 39."

Briefs and arguments are to be heard in the case September 17.

The petition for the writ of mandamus had been filed Wednesday, asking that all the respondents, which include Howell, the State Democratic Central Committee, state Democratic Chairman Brad Hays and Secretary of State Shirley Hooper, to comply with their "mandatory non-discretionary" duty to place a name on the ballot "when all the regulations and procedures have been complied with." It further requested that the name of John D. Herrera, rather than Howell, be placed on the ballot and that the petitioners be paid for damages.

Herrera had previously filed a request for an injunction to keep Howell's name off the ballot, contending that the central committee members of the two counties, rather than the entire state committee, should have chosen the candidate. About two-fifths of Otero County and all of Lincoln County lie within senate district 39. The injunction was denied August 29 in Twelfth District Court by Judge George Zimmerman.

In addition to earlier contentions that the state Democratic Central Committee acted improperly in selecting Howell, Herrera's attorney, Grace Duran of Las Cruces, said the petition is also based on the filling of another vacancy for a senate seat in District 23 (Los Alamos and Santa Fe Counties), in which county committee members made the choice.

She also cited state statute 2-8-9B which calls for multi-county district vacancies to be filled by a governor's appointment from names submitted by the county boards of commissioners.

Howell's attorney, Gary Mitchell of Ruidoso, said Friday that Duran had read "only part of the law," and cited the 1980 supplement to the election laws which states that a vacancy on the general election ballot which occurs "after the primary," was to be filled with a candidate selected by the state Central Committee of the party.

Mitchell said the names of Herrera and Howell also had been chosen by the boards of commissioners in Lincoln and Otero County, and that Governor Bruce King has already indicated he would appoint Howell. The filling of the vacancy in the Los Alamos Santa Fe district stood because "it was never contested," he said.

Mitchell and Howell again criticized Herrera because he "never objected to this procedure until after he lost." Mitchell added he "had a problem with" accepting the fact that Herrera named the central committee in the suit despite the fact that he (Herrera) is a member of that committee.

"I don't see how he can sue a committee and party of which he's a member. I think he should tender his resignation," Mitchell said. "The party has the authority and power to determine what the rules say — this is where he should have gone in the first place." He added "Herrera has yet to file (a complaint over procedure) with the central committee."

Howell also responded to the latest development in the dispute. "I don't know why they're doing this," he said, but if they're doing it to discourage me, it's not working.

"The reason I entered this campaign in the first place was because I was tired of political decisions being made in back rooms. I want to see it all laid on the table and have the game played by the rules."

Mitchell added that he and his client had first sought for the decision to be made by the people of District 39, but were later informed that the central committee according to state law, should make the selection.

"The reason for the law," Mitchell added, "is to avoid having a small group of individuals — who are not within the district but are within the county — controlling the representation."

"It's apparent to all," Mitchell added, "that since he (Herrera) can't win by having the people in the district make the selection, he wants the alternative of having the people outside the district make the selection. That's the only way he can win."

CAUSE OF THE BLAZE which destroyed this row of sheds at Ruidoso Downs Race Track early Thursday morning has not yet been determined by officials of the State Fire Marshall's office. However, Ruidoso Downs police chief Ray Garner said Friday the cause "does not appear to be arson." Samples of various substances were taken from the premises for testing in Santa Fe, with results expected in the next few weeks, he said.

Fire Department sponsoring hazardous materials course

A short course in the handling of hazardous materials emergencies begins tonight under the sponsorship of the Ruidoso Fire Department, with sessions set for September and October.

All local emergency personnel are being urged to attend, including police and other law enforcement agents, Emergency Medical Technicians, other medical personnel, fire fighters, Forest Service employees and members of organizations such as ComFIRE and White Mountain Search and Rescue — anyone who might be involved in a disaster effort with hazardous chemicals.

The programs will be held from 6 to 9 p.m., each remaining Monday night in September, at the main fire station just behind the Skateland building on Sudderth Drive. The first session will be conducted tonight by Lonnie Matthews and will deal with the dangers of pesticides.

On October 7-9, Don Naylor of the State Fire Marshall's office will conduct classes in hazardous materials. These sessions will also be held at the station, from 6 to 10 p.m., on each of the three nights.

Fire department spokesman Danny Garcia said Thursday that he hopes the sessions will be well attended by emergency personnel to increase awareness of the dangers of hazardous materials accidents.

Trucks carrying such substances "pass through Ruidoso every day," he said. The number of hazardous materials is increasing almost daily, he added.

"There are 50,000 hazardous chemicals that we know of," he said, adding that about 10,000 are added to that number "every six months to a year."

Among the subjects to be emphasized in the course will be identification of the hazardous material, handling of various chemicals, and who to contact for assistance or information on a particular chemical.

The course will also deal with the responsibilities of and recommended procedures for emergency personnel involved, all of whom "need to work as a team," Garcia said. "We need a community plan for dealing with these materials, and we all need to work together."

Village projects slated

Work on two village projects, construction of the new Administrative Center, near the entrance to the Municipal Airport, and installation of new sewer lines to serve the Regional Wastewater System, are slated to begin this week.

Village officials were advised Thursday: — All papers in connection with the Administrative Center have been signed and forwarded to Farmers Home Administration officials; with the work order to begin site work expected this week.

— The Environmental Protection Agency, Dallas, Texas, is expected to approve the contract held by Kent Nowlin Construction, Albuquerque, and the minority business enterprise requirement, so that installation of the new sewer lines may begin this week.

Wednesday Coffee Cart

The Wednesday Coffee Cart, sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce so the public can meet Chamber officers and directors, will be from 9-10:30 a.m., at:

Goodell, Reed and Glass
[Carl Foster]
Gateway Center

ASPENCADE PERFORMERS — The Victor McLaglen Precision Motorcycle Drill Team of Los Angeles, California, will present a 45 minute program here October 4 at 1:30 p.m. The event, free to the public, will take place on the paved parking lot in back of the Municipal Swimming Pool on Sudderth.

Tour of Trinity Site scheduled October 4

A tour of the Trinity Site, scene of the first atomic test operation conducted by the United States in 1945, is scheduled October 4.

Car caravans may meet at the Tularosa gate at 8:30 a.m., or at Stallion Range Camp Gate on Highway 360, 63 miles west of Carrizozo, at 9 a.m. The caravans will be escorted by Military Police and no cars will be admitted after the designated times. Approximately 90 minutes will be spent at the site.

The tour is free and no reservations need be made.

Those on the tour are asked to bring a picnic lunch and drinking water, though food and cold drinks will be available from a Post Exchange mobile food service van. Water and restroom facilities will be provided.

Rules and restrictions for caravan participants include:

- No pets, except guide dogs.
- No motorcycles.
- No weapons or alcohol of any kind permitted.

— Visitors may not dig or pick up Trinity.

— Cameras must be carried in the glove compartment or trunk of vehicles en route to and from the site.

Dr. Richard Baker, associate director for National Security Programs at Los Alamos, will present a 10 minute program on conditions and problems encountered at Los Alamos prior to the test firing of the first atomic bomb.

The account of the firing of the first atomic bomb follows.

The first atomic test operation, known as Project Trinity, took place on the morning of Monday, July 16, 1945, in the north central portion of the Alamogordo Bombing and Gunnery Range. Headquarters of the Bombing and Gunnery Range was located at Alamogordo Army Air Field, known since 1948 as Holloman Air Force Base, but the explosion site was actually nearer the town of Carrizozo, about thirty miles away, than to Alamogordo, New Mexico, which was sixty miles distance.

This particular site was chosen for reasons of both safety and secrecy. It was in a region of public grazing land that had always been sparsely populated and was now less populated than ever since being withdrawn by the War Department for as a bombing range. Preparations for the test explosion began in earnest four days prior to July 16, with an old ranch house situated on the range serving as base operations. The bomb (code name "Fat Man") was placed on top of a steel detonation tower Saturday, July 14, and installation of the detonating mechanism was then started. Meanwhile, other technicians went about installing seismograph equipment at varying distances from the tower, which was designated Zero. Other instrumentation was set up for recording temperature, air pressure, and similar data wanted by the project scientist.

Three observation points were established at 5.7 miles each from Zero. These were wooden shelters protected by cement and earthen barricades. The observation point lying south of the bomb tower served as a control center, where Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer, head of Los Alamos Scientific Laboratory, was to take his position. A fourth post was at the base camp, ten miles from Zero, and a fifth on a mountainside twenty miles distant. Most of the scientists and "visiting firemen" present at the test were stationed at this last post. Among them was Dr. Knox Millsaps, who was then chief scientist for the Air Force Missile Development Center which has since conducted tens of thousands of research and development missions on the same sprawling test range.

The test was originally set for 0400 hours, July 16, but rain and lightning early that morning caused it to be postponed until 0530. The bomb could not be exploded under adverse weather conditions because rain would increase the danger from radioactive fallout, as well as interfering with observations of the test. However, the rain stopped about 0400 and at 0530 the bomb was exploded successfully. In the view of most observers, the brilliance of the light from the explosion arrived some seconds later. The shock wave knocked over two men at one of the inner observation posts.

Immediately after the test, two lead-lined tanks went forth to explore the site with measuring instruments and to scoop up samples of material from the ground. The bomb tower had virtually disappeared, and in its place was a crater about 400 yards in diameter and fifteen feet deep. Sands in the crater were fused to a "glass-like solid, the color of green jade." This substance has sometimes been referred to as trinitite, after the code name "Project Trinity," which has also given the name Trinity Site of the actual explosion point.

Although no information on the test was released until after the Atomic Bomb was used as a weapon against Japan, people in surrounding areas were quite aware that

Herbicide experiment postponed in forest

Lincoln National Forest Supervisor Jim Abbott has announced his intention to delay a project using herbicides for site preparation until next spring.

"Many factors entered into this decision," Abbott said, "but for the most part, I expect to accomplish three things: (1) avoid spraying within eight weeks of the general hunting season, (2) allow time for a pilot project to test various application rates, and (3) provide more time to check out possible new sources for information."

The pilot project to test various application rates and equipment will be done on about 20 acres this fall," Abbott said. "Areas will be selected that are fenced and where elk are not likely to graze." Dr. Bruce Buchanan from New Mexico State University reported good success using as little as one-half pint of Roundup per acre applied with a mist blower. According to Abbott, "We need to test this method against conditions on our sites to see if we can get satisfactory results using less herbicide than originally planned. We are also concerned about the effectiveness of the herbicide his late in the season."

The decision to avoid spraying so close to the general hunting season was based on public concern expressed at a recent Cloudercroft meeting. Persons attending the meeting pointed to the label restrictions against grazing domestic livestock in pastures or croplands for eight weeks after treatment.

The label also requires that animals be slaughtered be removed from treated pastures for at least one week prior to slaughter. "The public felt that these same restrictions should be applied to wildlife," Abbott said, "It is not possible to exclude wildlife from these areas, but we can try to time our project in a way to accomplish most of the objective."

Abbott also stated he was pleased with the way the public meeting turned out. "I've been disappointed in the amount of public participation we've received in the past, especially in the Land Management Planning effort," he said, "and even though we were heavily criticized, we felt that the meeting was worthwhile."

Vehicle downs telephone lines

Telephone lines were downed, obstructing traffic on Brady Canyon Drive late Sunday night, after a vehicle hit a telephone pole at the location, just off Sudderth Drive.

The incident was reported to Ruidoso police, at 10:15 p.m., but the driver had left the scene before the arrival of officers. Telephone company spokesman Mike Morris said the lines were removed from the roadway immediately, and "tied up," to prevent a traffic hazard. Final repairs of the line were expected to be complete Monday morning, he said.

No telephone service was interrupted as a result of the incident, Morris said.

Special speaker at Rotary lunch

John Lancaster, Socorro, director of the Very Large Array radio observatory in that community, will address the Rotary Club in Ruidoso Tuesday.

Lancaster will explain the purpose and operation of the facility during the speech. The club meets at noon at the Ruidoso Holiday Inn.

School zone speed limits to be enforced

With Ruidoso schools in session, Police Captain Larry Simon has announced that speed limits in school zones will be strictly enforced by village law enforcement personnel.

Particular emphasis will be given enforcement of the 15-mile per hour limit near Nob Hill and White Mountain Elementary Schools, he said.

Woman injured in car crash

Dolores Young of Ruidoso was reported in stable condition at Ruidoso Hondo Valley Hospital Monday morning following a three-vehicle accident Friday night on Paradise Canyon Road at Sudderth Drive.

Young's car was reportedly struck from the rear by a car driven by a juvenile illegal alien. The force of the impact caused her car to strike the rear of a pickup truck ahead of her, police said. The truck was being driven by Floyd Smith Jr., of Oklahoma.

The accident occurred about 9:30 p.m. Friday night. The juvenile was arrested and referred to juvenile court. Damage to all three vehicles was reported as "over $50."

Doctor's office burglarized

Ruidoso Police are investigating a burglary which reportedly occurred sometime during the past weekend at the medical office of Roger Beechie.

Officers said a tape recorder and small amount of loose change were taken in the incident. Entry to the building was gained through a rear door of the office, police said.

School board meets Tuesday

The Ruidoso Board of Education will meet Tuesday at 8 p.m., in the high school cafeteria.

The board will consider an increase in substitute teacher pay from $21 to $23 and from $23 to $26; open bids on seal coating parking lots; hear an enrollment report and hiring Vincent Collins for maintenance/custodial.

Crime Stoppers note anniversary

Cut the cake and pour the champagne — there's some anniversaries being celebrated this week.

It was September 8, 1976, that the Albuquerque Crime Stoppers program began operation. Four years and 1,111 solved cases later, the original program has established itself as one of the nation's most successful reward ventures, one that has been copied in more than 90 cities around the United States.

And September 2, 1979, the telephone rang for the first time at the State of New Mexico Crime Stoppers Commission. Twelve months and 223 solutions later, the Commission's success has prompted two other states to establish similar programs and a third is planning to follow New Mexico's lead.

When the Commission was established by the 1979 New Mexico Legislature, it established four goals for its initial year's operation: to help create new Crime Stoppers programs throughout the state and assist those programs already in existence; to provide Crime Stoppers coverage to rural areas; and to assist state investigative agencies by developing information on illegal activities.

The Commission met all four goals. It assisted 18 communities in New Mexico in establishing new programs. Through the efforts of the Independent Insurance Agents of New Mexico, each local program was given free of charge thousands of brochures and bumper stickers. And the Commission shared more than $3,000 worth of rewards with local Crime Stoppers programs.

Of the 223 cases solved through calls to the Commission, 91 percent of them were the direct result of investigative efforts by federal and state agencies. And 25 percent of the total crimes solved related to rural criminal violations.

At the same time, a total of $169,179 worth of stolen property and narcotics was recovered and another $322,479 was returned to the state through fines or court-ordered restitutions.

Among the Commission's first year highlights:

— The dismantling of a highly sophisticated multi-state illegal alien smuggling ring and the federal indictments of 35 of its operatives.

— The arrest and subsequent convictions of three persons involved in cocaine trafficking in the Albuquerque area.

— The seizure of more than $65,000 worth of controlled substances and the arrests and indictments of two persons for possession of LSD, amphetamines and marijuana with intent to distribute.

— The seizure of six illegal slot machines located in bars in Las Vegas, N. M.

— The solution of 94 different fraud cases, ranging from Medicaid fraud to welfare and food stamp fraud.

— The prosecution of 56 persons, resulting in a 100 per cent conviction rate. To date, the Commission has paid out a total of $7,555 in rewards.

During its second year of operation, the Commission will continue to offer cash rewards for information solving the following types of cases:

— Any major felony crime such as murder, armed robbery, rape, burglary, or auto theft committed within the state of New Mexico.

— Welfare and food stamp fraud, non-payment of child support, and child abuse.

— Narcotics trafficking or the smuggling of drugs into New Mexico.

— Illegal alien smuggling.

— Cattle thefts or the theft of farm or oil field equipment.

— Misuse of state-appropriate funds or other types of state employee malfeasance.

— Liquor law violations.

— White collar crimes such as land fraud, forgery or embezzlement.

Citizens with information which could solve any of these types of crimes are urged to call the State Crime Stoppers Commission at its toll-free number, 1-800-432-6933. Callers do not have to reveal their identities.

The Commission's hours of operation are 8:00 a.m. to 9:00 p.m., Monday through Friday.

Focus on Small Business

by E. Maine Shafer

Dear Mr. Shafer,

Many small business customers offer to pay for merchandise or services by check. Any suggestions on how to combat check forgery?

Veteran business persons, police officials and banks usually offer these suggestions:

— Identify the check-cashing customer with the following identification: driver's license, unexpired credit cards and store courtesy card. Do not accept: Social Security card, library card, union membership card, employee ID badge without photo and student ID card without photo.

— Make sure that the amount of the check specified in figures matches the amount in writing. If it does not, the controlling line is the amount specified writing.

— Don't cash or accept "second-party checks" — that is checks already endorsed by someone other than the customer.

— Don't provide counter checks at your store.

— Consider introducing the "Indicator" at checkout counters. The "Indicator" is a recent security technology development allowing a sophisticated copier to photograph fingerprints left by customers on their checks. No ink is required.

NOTE:

A few retailers have installed on-line computer bank terminals in their stores. The terminals allow cashiers to run quick checks on the balance of any customer seeking to cash a personal check. Only customers of participating banks are granted check-cashing privileges.

The Plant Corner

by Sally Black

This column is devoted to growing health indoor plants. Address questions to: Sally Black, The Ruidoso News, Box 128, Ruidoso, New Mexico 88345.

Dear Sally: I have received a Marginata Dracaena for a gift. Would you tell me something about this plant and how best to grow? Thank you. Mrs. H. T. Hornbuckle.

Dear Mrs. Hornbuckle: The Dracaena Marginata resembles a true palm tree. With its elegant, ringed trunk surmounted by a tuft of slender, pointed leaves. A mature Marginata looks a good deal more like a desert island palm tree than do most potted palms grown as houseplants. The reason is, of course, that the latter have virtually no trunk in the sizes normally seen indoors.

Like the graceful palms, these impostors have a stark beauty that has particular appeal to the architectural mind. Plants of this kind seem to lend themselves to the severe contours and color schemes of modern buildings.

Some of the Dracaenas are particularly useful in this context. Whereas most indoor plants have little attraction once they have shed their lower leaves, the more stately of the Dracaenas acquire a new elegance when only a tuft of leaves is left at the top and the attractive stem is exposed. In this respect D. Marginata is one of the best examples, and plants that have had their growing tops removed to allow development of several growing heads can have a fascinatingly exotic look. There are many other kinds of palm-like Dracaenas.

but their growing conditions are all closely related.

For harsh conditions where plants must endure a little neglect, Dracaena Marginata should be high on the list, as it will tolerate many variations and still survive. Removal of the growing point when the plant is about three feet in height will induce it to branch, improving its appearance as a result. At a height of about 5 feet this plant may show the odd characteristic of oozing a sticky substance from its topmost leaves so that they stick tightly together. This prevents the natural upward growth of the plant, resulting in the growing top snapping off—a natural method of pruning, perhaps!

They will do better in rich loam and in conditions that offer reasonable warmth, light shade and watering on the dry side. This is a rather low light plant and will maintain beauty in low light, but don't expect fast growth in low light conditions. When more light is given, more water and food are required. Good luck and thank you for your letter.

Lose in final two minutes, 16-14

It's close, but no cigar for Ruidoso Warriors

ON HIS WAY to good yardage on a sweep is Warrior quarterback Scott Neal (10), assisted by hard-charging fullback Russ Pior (35). Gadsden defensive players Randy Valles (62) and Danny Valenzuela (76) are in hot pursuit. Although he got good yardage on this play, the Warriors lost in the final two minutes, 16-14.

BY MARK BAGBY
Sports Editor

Anthony Gadsden quarterback Brian Butler scored from two yards out with 1:17 remaining in the game here Friday night to spoil Ruidoso's season opener, 16-14.

Butler's score, his second of the night, ruined an excellent Warrior performance which saw Ruidoso lead for practically the entire game.

"Crying over it now won't help anything," head coach Darrel Stierwalt said, Sunday, "But I came awful close to it Friday night."

The Warriors very narrowly missed pulling out a victory. Following Butler's score, a hard charging defensive line blocked Willie Madrid's point after try, meaning the Warriors could win with a field goal.

Madrid's ensuing kickoff was bobbled by Steve Benway, who picked it up and returned it to the 20 yard line. On first down, Warrior halfback Ricky Dennis made eight yards, and a Gadsden player was called for unsportsmanlike conduct. The 15 yard penalty put the ball on the Warrior 43.

Quarterback Scott Neal went back to pass and had Benway open deep, but Neal's toss was short and intercepted by Angel Frausto. That, for all practical purposes, ended the Warrior hopes.

"Scotty made some mistakes," Stierwalt said, "but he played a good ball game. His throw was a little short, and we almost made it. Maybe we got a little greedy, but we hadn't worked on our two minute offense much. Maybe we went for too much too soon — there was about a minute left. I don't know."

Although the end of the game found the Warriors scrambling, Gadsden was the one scrambling for the first three quarters.

The Panthers received the opening kickoff and were able to move the ball only 15 yards, but Madrid's punt was caught deep by Benway, and he was promptly tackled.

So the Warriors began on their own eight yard line, but 15 plays and 96 yards later, the Warriors led 6-0 on Russ Pior's one yard plunge to paydirt.

Lon Nunley's conversion kick split the uprights for a 7-0 lead. The drive took six minutes, 23 seconds. For a while though, it seemed the Warriors might not get moving. Dennis broke free for 22 yards on the first play, but that was nullified by a motion penalty. So, the following play, Pior scampered 71 yards to the Gadsden 25. That came back to the Warrior 28, due to a clip.

The Warriors were plagued by penalties all evening long, tallying 85 minus yards on 10 offenses. Gadsden too was heavily penalized, nothing 80 minus yards on 12 infractions.

A key play in the scoring drive was a 20 yard Neal run, setting the ball up on the Gadsden 15. From there it was easy.

But Gadsden fought back, scoring with 14 left in the quarter.

The key play on that drive, a 67 yard, six play effort, was a 50 yard run by Frausto. "The Angel of Death," who last season scampered for 219 yards against the Warriors, broke free on a 50-yard run, almost identical to a play good for 80 yards last year. The similarity was so remarkable that Steve Petch, who saved a touchdown last year by tackling Frausto, hauled down the 165 pound senior on the 15 this year as well.

Frausto moved the ball to the four in one play, but it was third and goal before Butler pushed it across the goal line. Madrid's PAT tied it 7-7.

Frausto had worried the Warrior coaching staff and the defense was set to stop him. But the Warriors had little success stopping him in the first quarter, as he rushed for 81 yards. He notched only 15 more the rest of the evening.

The Warriors took only 3:40 to score again, covering 80 yards in nine plays.

The big play was a 57 yard scoring toss from Neal to Mike Dale. The senior tight end grabbed a fingertip throw way behind the Gadsden secondary and coasted to a score. Nunley was good for the kick and the Warriors led 14-7.

The Warrior defense forced a punt on Gadsden's next possession and the offense took over on its own 24.

Neal ran the Wishbone offense to perfection, grinding away at five yards a clip. But the drive stalled at the Gadsden 43, and on fourth down with five yards to go, Benway was stopped a yard short of the first down.

Butler and the Panthers took over there, and the junior passer promptly threw to Madrid for 18 yards and then hit split end Chris Carrasco for another 30, putting the ball on the Warrior 13.

Butler was nailed for a seven yard loss on the next play, putting the ball on the Warrior 20. Butler passed to the end zone and Benway was called for pass interference.

In high school ball, that's a 15 yard penalty, which meant it went to the 10 yard line. Two plays failed, so on third down with four seconds left, Madrid was true on 27 yard field goal, making the halftime score 14-10.

The third quarter was a defensive struggle as neither team was able to move the ball. Toward the end of the quarter, the Warriors found success moving the ball up the middle.

The drive stalled at the Gadsden 22 on fourth and 11. Stierwalt called time out to consider a field goal try or to go for the first down.

The drive stalled at the Gadsden 22 on fourth and 11. Stierwalt called time out to consider a field goal try or to go for the first down.

"We didn't think Lon could kick it that far at this point in the season, plus we didn't have our best snapper (Steve Parks) in there," he said. "So we went for the first."

Neal passed for it, or rather, attempted to. But the Gadsden defense was flagged for pass interference, and the Warriors seemed headed for six points.

On the next play, the usually sure-handed Pior fumbled, the first turnover of the night, Gadsden recovered.

But Butler was almost immediately victimized as Neal intercepted an errant pass. Neal brought the Warriors back downfield, and on a second down at the Gadsden 20, a rollout pass was intercepted.

Butler and his troops started at their own 22 and moved the ball upfield, aided by a face mask penalty. The key play in the drive came on a fourth and five on the Warrior 35.

"This is the ball game right here," defensive coordinator Ronny Maskew shouted to his charges. But the play — a reverse — was successful for six yards.

Several plays later, Butler sneaked through for six points to take the lead, the first Panther lead of the evening.

"I'm disappointed," Stierwalt said, "and so are our players. You know, we won the battle but lost the war."

Statistics seem to bear that out. The Warriors had 18 first downs to the Panthers' 14, and out rushed them 284 yards to 198, and Gadsden had but five more yards passing, 62 to 57.

"We really feel like we should have won

Sportin' Life

... a column of opinion ...

by

Mark Bagby

One of the most blatant examples of poor sportsmanship I've ever had the misfortune to witness occurred Friday night at the Warrior-Gadsden football game.

At first I thought the Warriors started it, but Darrel Stierwalt assures me Ruidoso didn't. He said, "We have Steve Benway coming up to try to force a fumble between the center and quarterback. He timed it just right and healed on the center."

"I thought we started it too, but the Gadsden center took the first swing. It's in the films of the game."

That first swing, on the last play of the game, escalated into a full scale riot. The incident happened near the Gadsden bench, and all its players and coaches and a few fans poured onto the field.

Not to be outdone, the Warrior bench and more Ruidoso fans than I care to admit also ran onto the field — now how many were out there to try to stop the fight, I do not know.

But I do know when fans get on the field, bad things always happen. They have no place in being out there. A fight in any sporting event is bad news, but it's something to be settled by the players and officials — nobody else.

The Gadsden players were wrong in coming on the field, as were the Warriors. But the ones the most in the wrong were the Ruidoso and Gadsden fans, who only served to escalate the hostilities.

You paid for your seat, folks — stay in it. —MB

Out of the top 62 Division I-A football teams in the National Collegiate Athletic Association, guess who faces the toughest schedule this year?

Well, based on winning records, Penn State does, according to a list compiled by the NCAA.

And, out of the top 10 schools, only two of them are consistent winners. (Penn State and Notre Dame, which ranked ninth.)

Here's the rest of the top 10 — Duke, Rice, Temple, Texas Christian, Boston College, Wisconsin, Southern Methodist and Syracuse.

Guess who has the easiest schedule? Alabama, which is trying for an unprecedented third consecutive national championship. The teams it faces this season had a 57-56-2 record last year for a .5043 mark, or roughly 50 percent.

Don't let anyone kid you — the Bear knows what he's doing.

In New Mexico football, I'd have to say Tularosa has probably the toughest schedule of anybody — they have to face two pretty good teams from Texas before they tangle with Artesia, Portales, Socorro and Deming, before they even think about playing the Warriors.

The Associated Press lists Artesia as the second best team in AAA in the entire state, Portales is third, Socorro is fifth and Deming is 11th. (Of course, Tularosa was listed eight, but still ...)

Incidentally, AP picked Silver City to win the state title, giving it seven first place votes and 135 points. Artesia had five first place votes and 132 points.

Football picks are funny things — it gives everybody who considers himself an "expert," including yours truly, a great opportunity to make a public fool of himself. How about that?

Take it easy. Well, the vacation is over. When school starts back in full swing — as it has — things start to get hectic for Sorry 'bout that. While we're discussing female athletes, anybody hear of Vickie Wales over in Clovis?

(She's the young lady who wants to play football for Clovis High School.)

It doesn't look like she's going to make it. But hold on, all of you Title IX defenders — it's not because she's a girl.

It's because her grades aren't up to snuff.

Actually, that's not completely accurate. She and her family moved to Clovis from Battle Mountain, Nevada, and her school credits there didn't all apply to New Mexico schools.

So she has make up work to do before she becomes scholastically eligible. She says she'll try again next year.

I still don't see what all the flack is about. I know a few young ladies who could play football as well, and better, than a few guys I know.

And heck, I always enjoyed playing football with girls. Always made the game cleaner. More fun too.

Hang in there, Vickie.

Volleyballers perform well in Capitan

Combining superb defense with just enough offense, the lady Warrior varsity volleyballers rolled to three wins and only one loss in scrimmages with Alamogordo, Roswell Goaddard and Capitan at Capitan Saturday.

"I'm really proud of them," head coach Margie Andrus said. "They surprised me. They always surprise me. I didn't really know what to expect. Some days we have a real good practice, and then the next day we have a bad practice, so I just didn't know how we'd do.

"But the girls came through." The ladies defeated AAAA school Alamogordo handily and then triumphed over Goaddard 15-11, the team Andrus felt was the best there.

Then the Warriors split a pair of games with Capitan.

"We should have beaten them both times," she said, "but the girls have some kind of mental block or something about playing Capitan. We got sloppy and they sort of psyched us out."

But all in all, it was a good scrimmage, she said.

"We played excellent defense," Andrus said. "Cathy Jones and Karen Boone especially played super games, and Cathy's spikes and blocks were just unreal."

"Offensively, we need to work on our serves some more. We're still trying to eliminate power serves and just get the ball over the net. The team played extremely well together, and at this point, that's good to see."

The inexperienced junior varsity had problems, winning only one match.

"But... considering how inexperienced they are and the competition they faced, I thought the junior varsity did extremely well," Andrus said. "Some of the girls had never played in actual competition before. I think they're going to win some games."

So for all concerned, now it's nothing but practice and more practice in preparation for the September 16 season opener against Carrizozo there.

"Carrizozo is always a tough game for us," she said. "They always get really up for us and we always have to play really well. We follow that game with a game at Cloudcroft on Saturday (September 20), and we always have trouble with them too. So I guess we get to see what kind of team we have early."

Women's softball tourney reset

The Ruidoso Women's Softball League Championship Tournament, scheduled for last Saturday and Sunday, was rained out.

Also, a few teams dropped out of the tourney, so a reduced bracket will start the tourney tonight at 6.

Mescalero will face Nottingham's, and the winner will advance to Saturday's (September 20) final game with Capitan at 10 a.m.

All games will be played at White Mountain Middle School.

Warriors lose

the ball game," he added. "We played pretty well for three quarters, and we had them beat. But we had a mental lapse there in the fourth quarter and they scored. 'Course we should've had two more scores so it shouldn't have mattered."

"Why did it happen? I'd say it was first game jitters, plus we have a lot of kids going both ways and you just get more tired. We are really going to evaluate our personnel this week and see if we can't rest some of our key players more so they don't get so tired.

"They realize they came within two points and two minutes of beating a pretty good AAAA school, and we've got nothing to be ashamed of. Our kids want to win, and we've got a good ball game. Looking at the films we saw a lot of things we did right execution-wise that we'd never done right before."

"This week we're going to work on our passing game and on substituting people, also our two minute offense. We have a good ball club and we're going to win some ballgames."

Warrior junior varsity plays today

The Ruidoso Warrior junior varsity football squad opens its 1980 season this afternoon in a contest with Capitan. The contest is slated for 4 p.m.

SITE PREPARATION for the Regional Wastewater System treatment plant, on Biscuit Hill east of Ruidoso Downs, is on schedule. Connecting sewer lines are being installed in Ruidoso Downs and work on new transmission lines in Ruidoso is expected to begin this week.

CAMELOT MOUNTAIN
R U I D O S O
PROGRESS REPORT ON "THE MOUNTAIN"
For some time now, Ruidosoans have known of the construction of a thousand acre, planned development called "Camelot Mountain." Situated within Village limits, the vast area of 7400' Dude Mesa is bounded by Hwy. 37 on the north and Hwy. 70 on the south and east. From the wooded mesa atop "THE MOUNTAIN" is a view of the Lake at the Inn of the Mountain Gods, Sierra Blanca, and the village of Ruidoso. This panorama is like nothing you have ever seen in Ruidoso.

Completion of the extensive utilities project and road paving is now scheduled for the end of October. Travel on "THE MOUNTAIN" could be hazardous, and we ask your cooperation in checking with the Camelot Mountain Office behind the Theater any day of the week. We invite those who are interested in the condominiums under construction, single-family homes, restricted lots, R-2 and C-1 acreage tracts to stop by for additional information.

The Dreamer

BY DANNIE STORM

On Mark's Birthday
This message is being sent to you on September four, the birthday of our brother, Mark. (Marcus Kennedy Storm) All through the hills and vales of the land of his boyhood and youth, the mountain world is celebrating his birthday, dressed in glorious green.
When it comes to color harmony, a red haired person looks good in green. Is this the reason there are so many red haired people in Ireland, the Emerald Isle, and Scotland? I remember how Mark's spirits used to rise when the world would turn green after the rains, bringing out the color of his hair, showing under his cowboy hat. The radiance of the emerald world would be reflected in his green eyes, as he smiled in happiness at the new grass all through the land.
Mark's blessed spirit, here with me today along with the spirits of all our loved ones, brings Heaven down to earth on this enchanted day, with Mother Earth proudly arrayed in her glorious glowing dress of every shade of emerald green, in honor of Mark's birthday.

Beth Brown Celebrates Birthday
Speaking of birthdays, our charming friend Bethel Roberson Brown (Mrs. Bill Brown), affectionately known as "Beth," will celebrate her birthday on the ninth of this green and glorious month.
Beth was born on September nine, 1924, in Dawson, New Mexico. Her father, Gilbert "Gib" Roberson and her mother, the former Della Lee, had moved from Texas so that Gib could follow his occupation of coal miner.

Beth came to Ruidoso at the age of eleven years, and has since then become a great favorite among all of us. Beth is a walking story book, and can tell many colorful stories of early day Ruidoso.

I thought I knew all about Ruidoso "The City in the Pines." But I did not know that there used to be a coal mine in Carrizo canyon, and that Beth's father came to Ruidoso to work in this mine. (I knew there were a lot of coal mines over around Capitan.)

After Gib had been in Ruidoso a while, he changed from a life underground to an occupation that found him much of the time high in the top of the tallest pines. Along with his son, Joe, he became expert at taking out pine trees that had become dangerous, or for some other reason needed to be moved. Gib could fell a tree just right so that nothing would be harmed in the fall. Or if he had to, he would take it down in sections, beginning at the top.

Beth and her husband, Bill, live just across the new bridge near the Chamber of Commerce. We wish this favorite couple all God's blessings; and we wish Beth many happy returns of the day.

Apples beginning To grow and color

We used to call September the pear month, and sure enough the pears are beginning to ripen all through the fruit valleys.

And the apples are beginning to get red and gold in their cheeks and are ripening rapidly. We will have more about the pears and apples next time or so. Keep smiling, and let us count out many blessings so generously given us by Our Lord.

Martinez and Arnett top jockey, trainer

Joe Martinez and Bob E. Arnett were the consistent winners over the Ruidoso Downs 1980 season in their respective jockey and trainer standings.

Martinez topped the riders with 56 wins, 11 more than his nearest foe, while Arnett withstood a late charge from William F. Leach to earn top trainer honors with 32 wins.

Leach, scoring three victories on the final weekend, finished in second with 28 wins.

Last year Martinez was the third leading rider at the meeting and Arnett was the sixth winningest trainer.

Martinez took the jockey lead in mid June but Richard Bickel, who tied with Jackie Martin with 45 wins, regained the lead for the next four weeks. Martinez then grabbed the top spot in late July and extended his margin steadily.

Arnett notched the trainer lead in mid June and held it for the remainder of the summer.

Martinez was named Jockey of the Week three times as was Charles Mueller, a hot riding import from Slant Fe near the end of the meet. Leach and Rex D. Brooks, who tied with two other trainers with 21 wins for third place, were named Trainer of the Week three times in the summer.

Mueller, Jerry Nicodemus and Martin were the only jockeys to win four races on one card. Mueller turned his trick on a normal day while Nicodemus and Martin were riding in quarter horse trials.

Bickel was the leading stakes rider with seven victories. Martinez and Larry Byers each had five.

The meet's leading apprentice riders were Robert Roller and Kevin School. Each had four victories.

First post winningest

The rail post—which produced the winner of the 1980 All-American Futurity—wound up as the most successful during the 1980 meeting. A total of 110 winners came out of the No. 1 slot.

Here's the complete rundown: No. 1—110 winners; No. 2—83; No. 3—70; No. 4—80; No. 5—59; No. 6—90; No. 7—74; No. 8—94; No. 9—77; No. 10—72.

Inside The Capitol

by Fred McCaffrey

SANTA FE—Looks like Governor King's got himself some trouble with the Echo Chamber Effect—what you get when the only voices which reach you tell you what they think you want to hear.

His own fourth-floor staffers complain that he grows increasingly remote, isolated from almost everyone but a select few of the "faithful," who do not upset him with disturbing information.

That's a common syndrome, of course, among people who have power. First they go to the masses, to ask to be put into office. Then when they get there, many of them cut themselves off from all but a chosen few, who are "safe," "undisturbed" and who stroke the ego of the powerful.

Being near power is a pretty heady thing, even if you get to exercise it only vicariously. It's the prize most politically active people are really seeking. When they get it, they want more.

So to assure they keep it, they adopt a style which will not separate them from the one who has it: they turn into yes-men and yes-women, sometimes even when that is the last thing they meant to be.

It's no real favor to their boss.

For instance, some of those close to Bruce King would have been kinder to tell him the resistance he was likely to meet in the matter of his nephew and the second Congressional district, rather than applauding a decision which will inevitably come back to embarrass him.

Even in the matter of a special election, the public would be better served if the Democratic officials concerned were not themselves part of the King inner circle. Their opinions would be more objective and their advice more hardheaded if they were not personal friends of the candidate who has been chosen.

And there is the matter of what kind of relief we taxpayers are going to get from the heavy bite the state has for so long put on us. The Governor needs to be told that he'd better have a full and convincing program of tax cuts ready for the Legislature; somebody close to him has to say that just flying by the seat of his pants this session will not get the job done.

Unfortunately, that's not the kind of message those who have access to him like to deliver. Harsh truths make them feel important.

You know how the American Civil Liberties Union is suing Bernalillo county because it has a seal with a cross on it, which the ACLU says is mingling religion and politics?

Well, Mark Acuff of the New Mexico Independent says that county seal has been a hoax all along.

Back in 1955 or thereabouts when the county wanted a seal, two Sigma Chi men on the commission palmed their fraternity seal off on the county, with a few sheep, standing in for taxpayers waiting to be fleeced, at the bottom of the design.

So every Bernalillo county vehicle and letterhead with this design on it has been perpetuating the joke for all these years. Then along comes 1980, when we get a constitutional lawsuit filed over something which was just a big shuck and jive to begin with.

Sometimes you just have to laugh at life to keep yourself from sobbing.

Letters to the Editor

Dear editor:

IT RAINED ON OUR PARADE.

After an outstanding season at the race track with more money bet by more people and an 11 million dollar horse sale it appears that someone went out of the way to really goof the so called television program.

Everything went wrong — the video — the sound — the narrative — and the overall general quality of a broadcast worthy of our once each year effort to give Ruidoso national exposure we so much deserve.

Everyone I have talked to is of the same opinion — a lousy broadcast. I even heard from friends on the west coast wanting to know what was wrong — what could I say?

It is difficult to conceive how this could have happened.

A local group brought the famous western singer and star — Rex Allen — here to lead the parade — WHO LED IT? — none other than our famous governor who looks so well on a horse and who can probably count his friends in Ruidoso on one hand. The governor has not lifted a hand to help this Village and if protocol demanded that he lead the parade — then to heck with protocol. It is a sad commentary but true — the people in the stands laughed as he rode by.

It also happens that Rex Allen was not mentioned in the broadcast — another goof.

Oh well — maybe next year?
J.A. "Al" Junge

TV RERUNS? GOOD!

Now we were worried when the major league baseball players threatened to strike through the 1980 baseball season. That would be catastrophic.

But the actors striking through the television season? Let them.

We won't miss them at all. We won't miss their craft at all. If the television actors never went back on the job, we probably wouldn't miss them.

The strike has really thrown a wrench into the works of the three major networks, all of which have put off their new seasons. No great loss.

Every year the television industry gives us more reasons to refer to it as a "vast wasteland." Every year the television industry practices mimicking itself, pandering to base concerns and the lowest level of intellectual stimulation.

Sex and violence. Violence and sex. Sex and sex. Violence and violence.

The television doesn't give a half a hoot about quality in what it presents, it just cares about initial responses from us. The industry treats its viewers like Pavlov's dogs. If we salivate when we see something, it stays on the air.

The three networks are now faced with filling their airtime with reruns. That is all right with us. The reruns we see during the summer are no less stale than the endless spin-offs and clones of successful shows, or the imitations of shows on other networks. The television industry, with all of its assets and minds is incredibly uncreative when it comes to prime-time entertainment.

And when the networks are creative, they are not bold enough to stay with something that is risky and takes a while to get public acceptance, like "The Paper Chase."

Thus we are spoonfed such tripe as "Three's Company" and Charlie's Angels," because what they peddle triggers an immediate response. They don't stimulate anything other than the glands.

So, let's bring on some reruns. We'll be quite happy with The Dick Van Dyke Show, or The Andy Griffith Show. We'll watch Sid Caesar again and Milton Berle. Who needs the new season anyway? — The Valley Courier, Alamosa, Colorado

editorial

A water commission, authorized by Ruidoso trustees August 12, is to hold its initial meeting today.

Information pertaining to the commission is so sketchy, as to be non-existent. The News couldn't determine if mayor Davis had even made any recommendations to the trustees for additional members.

According to the motion forming the commission, the group, including the trustees, is to be charged with the responsibility of averting future water crises.

That's a sizeable responsibility.

Ironically, one potential source of water dried up before the proposal to buy Bonito Lake was even presented to Alamogordo officials. Alamogordo's answer to the proposition to buy this impoundment was a resounding: "No way!", before they'd been officially approached by Ruidoso trustees.

If, as weather records indicate, a summer with below average rainfall means a winter with below average snowfall, Ruidoso could be looking at a water shortage next year.

We sincerely hope that the water commission will pay strict attention to business, as well as keeping the public informed of progress made.

The water problem must be faced. Finding the answer to the problem will be time consuming, possibly costly — but there is an answer to be found.

Look at it this way: an answer to the water problem must be found.

The difficult part of the task will be in coming up with a solution in the eight months remaining before next racing season. We wish the commission luck. — CD

T'AIN'T NO JUSTICE

T'ain't no justice at all at times ... then again there is ... 'cause now and again someone who's guilty pays for that crime ... which is good ... and at times a guilty person's turned loose, which is bad ... and once in a while someone who's innocent is found guilty, which is worse ... but it's a system that works pretty good ... most of the time ... for which we can be thankful.

Once in a while though ... the system gets not only fouled up ... but abused ... take a hypothetical fr instance ... like there was a buncha guys doing time ... in a prison somewhere ... which wasn't known for its country club atmosphere/conditions.

So ... come nose count time some of the buncha guys ain't there getting counted. Now ... those missing ones didn't have permission to be gone ... they hadn't been turned loose ... so it must be that they done flew the coop ... a suspicion confirmed by the fact that they was latched onto again by the long arm of the law ... outside of the prison ... nearby or far away ... but outside of the prison ... which's just gotta mean they escaped so's they could be AWOL.

So a buncha these guys was arraigned ... charged with escaping from prison ... and plotting so to do ... and they must have ... 'cause they was elsewhere ... cause elsewhere's where they was recaptured ... and, by jinkies, these guys did up and plead to the judge as to how they was innocent of the charges ... and, by jinkies, it's more than likely that they'll be tried on those charges.

Now I'm in favor of jobs ... 'cause, mostly, they does a good job of gettin' justice did ... but in this hypothetical fr instance ... it do seem ... being's as the accused wasn't in the pokey ... 'cause they'd left ... as shown by the fact they was nabbed ... outside the prison ... that they just must've up and escaped ... 'cause if'n they hadn't, they'd a been where they was supposed to be ... instead of being where they was caught ... no?

ON USING DUMPSTERS

There's some folks as is just some hot up ... even irate ... about how dumpsters as is for residential use is used for dumping by those allegedly building residences ... and there's considerable confusion rampant ... and seems the builders, as a group, is urging that builders not dump building refuse in residential dumpsters ... 'cause it do tend to get the natives all shook up ... and complainin' to village hall ... and all that stuff.

Why this situation is something like our water woes ... there's gotta be a solution to the problem ... and will be ... as soon as one is found.

SCHOOL IS OPEN

Do drive carefully ... now that school's open ... and lotsa little guys is gettin' into the swing of school business for the first time ... driving carefully through those speed zones by the school is mighty important ... 'cause speedin' there costs six points ... which is a lot of points for hurryin'.

BRIEF BIT: We can blame Our Jimmy for lots of domestic changes ... but taking beeswax outta skatin' ain't one of them ... no? ... CD

LOGICAL POSSIBILITY

If'n Our Jimmy and Ronnie baby get Johnny boy in the middle ... and really starts to swing ... things'll get interestin' ... especially if'n Johnny can duck real fast ... leaving Our Jimmy and Ronnie beating the stuffs outta each other ... which really couldn't be all that bad nohow.

Hazardous waste effect on state's soil studied

The public disapproval of hazardous waste disposal is an outcry against what might happen. What might happen if wastes contaminate the soil. What might happen if wastes contaminate the water. What might happen today, tomorrow or in 100 years.

In past instances, hazardous wastes have been dumped at sites without knowledge of how those soils would interact with the wastes or how quickly the wastes would move to the groundwater level, said Dr. Peter J. Wierenga, a soils scientist with New Mexico State University (NMSU) Agricultural Experiment Station. Wierenga calls this indifference "irresponsible."

In an attempt to address these concerns with scientific facts, Wierenga has been researching the movement of chemicals and low-level radioactive wastes through soils. Researching New Mexico soils is especially important, according to Wierenga, because New Mexico, along with other western states, is being considered as a waste disposal site. "New Mexico has the dry climate, alkaline soils and groundwater depths which favor disposal conditions," he said.

Groundwater is a prime concern in his research. "Groundwater is precious in New Mexico. We get 80 to 90 percent of our drinking water from groundwater reserves," he said. Because of this, New Mexico has some of the most stringent groundwater regulations in the nation. "By law we can't pollute the groundwater, and in practice, we don't want to," he said.

Wierenga began his research by taking a soil core typical of the sandy types found on most mesa lands in New Mexico. The water table in these areas is usually deep beneath the surface. He said that to extract a core sample undisturbed, a large area was first dug out around the core. The core, which measures one foot in diameter by two feet high was then wrapped in a fiberglass sheath which hardened to keep the sample intact.

The core was transported to the laboratory and placed on a porous ceramic plate. There, chemicals in solution were applied to the soil surface. Measuring devices, sensitive to weight, moisture and chemicals, monitored the solution's movement and composition.

Results from the first tests show that most chemicals take a very long time to move through the soil core. Wierenga attributes this slow movement to the interaction between the chemicals and the soil. This interaction can occur in several forms, but the end result is that it ties the chemical to the soil. Even when more water is added, the chemicals travel only a short distance before they are recaptured by this interaction with the soil.

Wierenga explained that because water is the transport mechanism for chemical movement in soil, aridity becomes a restricting factor. "In an arid climate receiving about 8 inches of rainfall annually, most of the moisture is drawn back to the surface and evaporated into the atmosphere," he said. Because of this, little if any rainfall ever penetrates the soil below depths of 10 feet to reach the groundwater table.

Groundwater comes from run-off collected arroyos in mountain streams and rivers and from irrigation seepage. "For this reason, he said that areas with a high groundwater table or areas that are groundwater sources should be eliminated as waste disposal sites.

Wierenga also conducted absorption tests to see how quickly chemicals are absorbed by certain soils. In these tests, chemicals in solution were applied to soils in small cylinders. The cylinders of soil were then mechanically shaken for 12 hours. Depending on the soil and the chemical, he said that about 90 percent of the chemicals were absorbed by the soil.

The research on hazardous wastes in soils has been designated an "Agri-Search '80s'" project by NMSU's Agricultural Experiment Station. Such projects are designed to meet the needs and address the problems facing New Mexico during the next 10 years.

Universe exhibit at State Fair

Exploring the universe from the depths of particle physics to the vast regions of interstellar space will be the theme of the University of New Mexico (UNM) exhibit at the 1980 New Mexico State Fair, September 10-21 in Albuquerque.

The exhibit will feature demonstrations and models from research and teaching activities at the UNM department of physics and astronomy.

Among the displays to be presented will be a model solar pond, which collects solar energy that can be used for heating and electrical generation. A pond constructed at UNM has been shown to be capable of meeting the heating requirements of an average sized Albuquerque home, and recently set a world's record for such ponds by reaching a temperature of 227 degrees Fahrenheit.

"As a demonstration of the high temperatures reached, we have boiled eggs in the storage region of the pond," said Howard C. Bryant, professor of physics at UNM and principal investigator on the solar pond project. "Five minutes of immersion will cook an egg quite nicely."

Also displayed at the fair will be a cosmic ray "telescope," an instrument used to measure the intensity and direction of cosmic rays reaching the earth from outer space.

These specially designed telescopes are set up in caves and abandoned mine shafts to help scientists determine how interplanetary magnetic fields affect high energy cosmic rays traveling through the solar system.

"The higher energy cosmic rays are probably generated in nova and supernova explosions somewhere in the galaxy," said Derek Swinson, professor of physics at UNM. "These cosmic rays arrive at the earth with nearly equal intensity from all directions in the galaxy. But the sun exerts a considerable influence on what we see because of its magnetic field."

Another area of study in the department which will be featured at the UNM exhibit involves the birth and death of stars.

Between the stars of space are clouds of dust and gas so thin that an average carload of it would consist of only a single hydrogen atom, the smallest element, according to Michael Zeilik, associate professor of astronomy at UNM. Yet it is from these clouds of dust and gas that stars and their planets are born.

"Stars are born out of giant interstellar clouds of molecules," Zeilik said. "We astronomers believe that it is fairly common when these stars are forming that planetary systems are formed with them."

The UNM exhibit will be in the Agricultural Center Exhibit Building at the fair.

THE AMIGOS, recording artists, will appear in concert at Ruidoso High School's gymnasium Monday-Wednesday at 7 p.m. The group tours with Charles and Frances Hunter, nationally known authors, and have recently completed a tour of 24 countries. The free concert is being sponsored by Mountain Christian Fellowship.

I-n-s-i-d-e the Outdoors

by Gary Dollahan

Most of the hunters and fishermen in our state are now accustomed to having their licenses checked by a New Mexico Game and Fish officer who is wearing a sidearm. However, there are a number of sportsmen (and non-sportsmen) who don't understand why a gun has become a part of the game warden's uniform.

Therefore, I would like to share with you an explanation written by Don Martin and Dan Purley of our Santa Fe office concerning just exactly why sidearms are worn. This explanation is part of an article entitled "Sidearm Security" in the September-October, 1980 issue of our Department's "New Mexico Wildlife" magazine.

Many people who violate game laws are often known to violate other laws. We are dealing with a constituency that is invariably armed, often armed with far more potent equipment than we are. The average hunter — in or out of season — is carrying either a rifle or a shotgun, and often we find the fishermen are also armed with at least a filleting or large folding knife. For just plain personal protection, it is necessary our officers carry sidearms and, at times, other weapons.

A study completed by the Wyoming Game and Fish Department in 1976 indicated wildlife officers are much less likely to be involved in simple assaults ("scuffles"), yet the probability of their being assaulted with a deadly weapon was much greater than that for a regular police officer. In fact, the probability of their being killed in an assault situation is nine times greater than that for regular police.

The FBI does not keep separate statistics for wildlife officers since our numbers, nationwide, are so low in comparison to other law enforcement agencies. We do know many wildlife officers annually are assaulted with deadly weapons and usually one or two are killed per year in various states. Therefore, we have a strong need to train our people in the correct use of firearms.

It isn't always an attempt to enforce game and fish laws that brings on an armed assault. Officers of the New Mexico Department of Game and Fish are "peace officers" by statutory definition, meaning their authority is limited. Still, any one of them can be, and frequently is, requested by other enforcement agents to assist in every conceivable situation from auto accidents to the pursuit of a homicide suspect. Exigent circumstances may demand action be taken immediately. A violent crime in progress cannot be ignored just because the fine print on the badge reads "Conservation Officer." It's a dead certainty the fleeing hold-up man won't take the time to read that tiny inscription before trying to remove what he perceives as a police obstacle from his path.

In an attempt to convince you we have not contracted chronic paranoia or fantasized our way back into the old wild and woolly West we would like to relate just a few of the incidents which have occurred in New Mexico the past few years.

As one of our officers approached a vehicle, the driver placed the barrel of a 30-30 Winchester into his belly button and told him the officer was about to leave this world. Fortunately, a second officer was present, drew his weapon and created the proverbial stand-off. The scene finally ended with the suspect in jail and the two officers ingesting several large doses of nerve medicine.

Four years ago an officer asked to see a man's hunting license during deer season. The gentleman produced, instead, a .38 special and exclaimed, "This is all the license I need." A calm head and glib tongue on the part of the officer and a bystander prevented a tragedy.

Three years ago one of our men was dragged from his vehicle, pounded about — and then one of several assailants went after a gun to "kill the bastard." Common sense somehow prevailed among part of the group, and a shooting was narrowly prevented.

We have had officers who were called upon to track down an attempted murder suspect who had taken a knife to the throat of a New Mexico State Police officer and another who assisted authorities in a riot in which a police sergeant was killed. For these and other reasons, including the safety and protection of innocent bystanders, firearms training for the Department of Game and Fish has become as necessary and intensive as for any enforcement agency in New Mexico.

When a new officer is hired, he is put into a six month training program that includes the basic recruit course at the New Mexico Law Enforcement Academy. All new officers have attended the academy since the state began offering basic police instruction, and firearms training is included in this curriculum. All law enforcement agencies follow the same principle: before an officer with a weapon is turned loose among the public, he or she must be able to control its use, use it accurately, and wisely judge whether it should be used or left holstered. Therefore, officer skill in the use of sidearms is a basic requirement.

After our officers complete this basic training, they must continue to prove their proficiency at regularly scheduled semi-annual qualifications. These tests, when passed, indicate the officer is still proficient with the weapon, his weapon is in good mechanical condition, and it will function when called upon. Mechanical defects showing up at qualification time are usually repaired on the spot. If not, the gun is sent to the factory for repair and adjustments.

We use two qualification courses: the standard National Rifle Association Practical Police Course, and a close-combat course we adapted for our use from several models developed elsewhere.

The reasons for the combat course? Records of law enforcement shooting incidents indicate more than half of those involving conservation officers occur during hours of reduced visibility and at a very close range — and they usually end, one way or another, within two and one-half seconds — time enough to use up a life-time of training.

BLM advisory council will meet in Roswell

The Bureau of Land Management's (BLM) recently formed Roswell District Advisory Council will have its first meeting September 16. This 10 member citizens group will advise district manager James "Smoky" O'Connor regarding resource management planning and development of programs and activities for federal public lands in Chaves, Guadalupe, Quay, Curry, DeBaca, Roosevelt, Lincoln, Eddy and Lea counties in New Mexico and for federal minerals in Texas.

According to O'Connor, the meeting will begin at 9 a.m. in the conference room of the BLM's Roswell district office, 1717 W. Second St., Roswell. Included in the agenda will be an orientation to the BLM and the Roswell district; discussion of the organization and functions of the council; discussion of programs, objectives and goals for the coming year; and a preview of issues the council may deal with.

The meeting is open to the public. Interested persons may make oral statements to the council or file written statements. Anyone wishing to make an oral statement must notify O'Connor by September 15. The public comment period will begin at 1:30 p.m., the day of the council meeting.

Members of the new council are George Mitchell (renewable resources) and Glicerio Rodriguez (non-renewable resources, both of Roswell); State Senator Bill Lee (renewable resources) and Natalie Orand (public-at-large), of Lovington; State Senator Joseph Gant (elected government), Jim Walls (non-renewable resources), Jack Hunt (recreation) and Tim Thornton (wildlife), all of Carlsbad; and Tanya Hoppes (environmental preservation) and Carlton Laman (transportation/rights-of-way), both of El Paso, Texas.

TV THE FAMILY VIEWPOINT

Oriental 'Shogun' offers something for everyone

by Beatrice Gross

'Shogun' has been called an Oriental 'Gone with the Wind,' its impact has been compared to 'Roots' and 'Holocaust,' the story is likened to the King Arthur legend, and the acting by Richard Chamberlain, Toshio Mifune and Yoko Shimada is considered sensational.

Scheduled to begin Monday, September 15, the 12-hour mini-series will be presented by NBC every evening of the week through Friday, September 19, bringing 17th century Japan into the homes of millions.

As with any historical epic written by a masterful storyteller, this TV drama will be satisfying on numerous levels and each viewer can 'tune in' to whatever wavelength he or she chooses and still receive value from the others.

The adventure seeker may be most attracted to scenes of intrigue, war, assassination, tragic love, torture, high honor, ritual and suicide.

The student of literature may find the most pleasure from James Clavell's gift of narrative which never lets the pace slacken in the 900-plus page novel. In the book, Clavell created a world of people, customs, settings, needs and desires so enveloping that one reviewer reported the reader's likelihood of forgetting 'who and where you are.'

The travel fan will appreciate the photography. The film was shot entirely on location in Japan.

The student of cultures can focus on the well-researched settings and the details of Japan's feudal era—learning what a daimyo is (a feudal lord), who the samurai were (the warriors, soldiers), their codes (to fight, live and die with honor), the whys and hows of Zen Buddhism (self-discipline, self-help and meditation to gain enlightenment), and the codes, rules and regulations of the guild of courtesans.

Cultural shock

The student of psychology will be fascinated by the hero's internal struggle as his familiarity and allegiance to Elizabethan tradition clashes with his new-found understanding and attraction to the foreign culture of the East.

The student of political history will find a respectable recreation of a true event, the coming to Japan in 1610 of an English navigator named Will Adams, who became a trusted part of the court and taught the warlords sailing and musketry, learning much in turn from them.

Students of all the above may find what they are looking for, but as Webster Schott said in his New York Times review of the book, 'Clavell is neither literary psychoanalyst nor philosophizing intellectual. He reports the world as he sees people in terms of power, control, strength. He loves the Orient, he researches extremely well. He writes in the oldest and grandest tradition that fiction knows.'

TELE Pulse

Priscilla Presley, Jim Stafford, (lower), and Burgess Meredith host ABC's new prime time series 'Those Amazing Animals,' airing Sundays.

Those Amazing Animals

by Steve K. Walz

ABC experimented with 'That's Incredible' last winter, a program that was spawned as a result of 'Real People's' success. The Alan Landsburg Production took off like a rocket with Fran Tarkenton, John Davidson and luscious Cathy Lee Crosby serving as the program's attractive hosts. So ABC's prime-time moguls decided to spin-off another show to slot against CBS's '60 Minutes' and NBC's 'Disney on Sunday nights' which had been poison to the web during the last few years. Thus, 'Amazing Animals' was conceived with Jim Stafford (who penned the hit song 'I Don't Like Spiders and Snakes'), Burgess Meredith and the obligatory starlet—Priscilla Presley. After viewing the pilot I came away with the following deductions:

- What's the difference between 'Amazing Animals,' 'Animals, Animals, Animals' and 'Wild Kingdom'?
- While the show is informative, why promote danger on the air? Tarantulas crawling on Priscilla; snakes curling around Ms. Presley; thrill-seekers kissing poisonous snakes, etc.
- What's a classy guy like Burgess Meredith doing on a program like this?
- When is Priscilla Presley going to learn how to speak in front of a TV camera? I mean she's beautiful, but terribly uncomfortable.
- Is Jim Stafford Don Meredith's smarter brother?

Is there really some merit in presenting 'Those Amazing Animals' as a series? I can't bring myself to tell you that it's going to be a hit in prime-time because the program will depend upon the availability of consistent amounts of interesting subject matter and its delivery week in and week out.

In the interim, 'Those Amazing Animals' should attract a decent audience for lack of anything else to watch.

CONFIDENTIAL REPORT: 'Dallas,' the sensational prime-time soap opera with 33 million faithful viewers, almost didn't make it to the tube. When 'Dallas' creator David Jacobs turned in his first version of the hit series, CBS bigwigs threw it right back at him. That show, called 'Knot's Landing,' is now a 'Dallas' spin-off. But the TV myth-makers weren't interested in it back then. "The development people said they wanted someone rich instead of middle class as the central character," Jacobs told me. "They said, 'Give us something larger than life and set it in the Southwest somewhere.' TV was moving away from cops and violence. They were digging around for something that would be a little fresh and sexy." Jacobs went back to the drawing board and, in October 1977, handed the network executives 'Dallas.' Less than a month later, the show got the go-ahead for five episodes. "We bought it right off the script," CBS executive Bud Grant told me. "I read it and loved it. I thought it was rich and full of good characters." Most 'Dallas' insiders agree that the decision to cast Larry Hagman as J.R. was crucial to the show's success. "He was the only actor we had in mind for J.R.—right from the start," said casting director Barbara Miller. "Larry is someone who has been around Hollywood. We knew he would be perfect for the part." But Hagman contributed more than his acting talents: He quickly became the unifying force that brought the cast together. "The first cast meeting was really wonderful," said one of the production staff. "Larry Hagman walked in really not knowing most of the people there and just took over. He was J.R. from the start."

CONSUMER NEWS WIRE: Greg Evigan is shedding his teeny-bopper image. Women over 30 are flooding NBC with fan mail telling the 'BJ and the Bear' star just how sexy he is. And his biggest 30 year-old fan is his wife Pam Serpe, who's also his manager. She's the woman behind his beefcake posters, and she loves knowing women all over the country are admiring her 26 year-old husband. Greg and Pam have been married over a year and he says it's one of the smartest moves he ever made. "I used to see marriage as a scary kind of thing, but you get older and realize there must be somebody in your life whom you build a relationship with—together," Greg told me.

TV CLOSEUP: 'M*A*S*H,' currently shooting new episodes for its ninth season on CBS, is the show that fooled 'em. Year after year, it's been a solid-gold S*M*A*S*H, delighting millions and making millionaires of many of its cast members. It has won a shelf full of Emmys. What's more, since 1973 'M*A*S*H' has been in the year's Top 10 every season but one. But at the beginning, in 1972-73, things didn't look so good. The show was clobbered by its competition. "Considering their time slot, they certainly picked the right theme song," smirked one Hollywood wiseacre. The song, now retitled 'Song From M*A*S*H,' was originally 'Suicide is Painless.' But they kept the theme (from the 'M*A*S*H' movie), got a new time slot, and the tide turned—golden. Sophia Loren is on strike along with other SAG-AFTRA co-workers and had to suspend work on her EMI-TV production, 'La Buona Stella,' her life story, parts of which were filmed in Rome and which was due to be completed in Hollywood.
