the Iranians have held 50 Americans hostage. The ultimatum to the Ayatollah Khomeini must be the written words: "Let my people go."

DAN BARROW, one of the performers in this year's Madrigal Feast to benefit the Ruidoso Public Library, is shown wearing a T-shirt commemorating the 1980 function. The artwork is very similar to that used on programs and tickets, all designed by Nancy Fleharty. The T-shirts are available at the Library or Fashion Fabrics for $6.50 each. Profits from the T-shirts will also be used to aid the Library.

Madrigal Feast T-shirts on sale

The Friends of the Ruidoso Public Library have made available 100 T-shirts to commemorate this year's Madrigal Feast.

All T-shirts are being sold at the Library, and will cost $6.50 each. The original graphics on the shirts are the work of Nancy Fleharty, who also designed this year's Madrigal tickets and programs.

Sizes are small, medium, large and extra large and the shirts are available in black, navy blue, royal blue, beige and forest green, with compatible colors for the design.

Proceeds from the T-shirts will be used by the Friends to purchase additions for the library. All checks should be made payable to the Friends of the Library.

Time capsule installation set

Village officials will deposit a time capsule in the foundation of the new Administrative Center in 10 a.m., public ceremonies Wednesday.

The capsule will contain a listing of village officials and other documents marking the 35th anniversary of the incorporation of the village, November 15, 1945. Other pertinent papers, including a copy of The Ruidoso News, will be included in the two-inch pipe.

The foundation for the new building, located near the entrance to Municipal Airport, will be poured Wednesday.

"This action," mayor Lloyd L. Davis Jr., said, "is to officially mark the observance of the village's 35th anniversary and to hold the time capsule's papers in perpetuity for the information of future generations."

Ruidoso Water Board contacts Senator Schmitt on local supply

The Ruidoso Water Board, formed by the village trustees to investigate the local water supply, has been checking into possible new sources.

The board, upon completion of the water study being conducted by Boyle Engineering, as commissioned by the trustees, will use that study as a basis for recommendations as to how to insure a reliable source of supply of water for Ruidoso.

Members of the board are hydrologist Newton Page, Knud Otteson, a civil engineer, and Richard S. Hall, civil engineer, board chairman.

The board, after considering possibilities of obtaining gallowage from Bonito Lake, wrote the following letter to United States Senator Harrison Schmitt:

"This letter is to urge your fullest support in our efforts to solve what has become a critical problem in obtaining an adequate supply of water for the Village of Ruidoso. Our present consumption of water averages about 1,000,000 gallons per day. This is approximately the same amount as our system can supply during a year of average precipitation. This alone would make our situation very precarious; however, we are also growing at a rate of over 8% per year, so that within 10 years our present average supply of water will be only half our need. Even at this date, should we have a year of extreme drought (this occurs about once every 10 years) our situation would be, both for our comfort and our economy, a disaster.

"Needless to say, we are actively engaged in pursuing every possible solution. One potential source lies in drilling new wells, and we are following professional engineering advice in a drilling program from which we expect some measure of success. However, we are advised not to be optimistic; this is poor country for good aquifers and new wells at best can probably only ameliorate the problem.

"Increased raw water storage for peak demand in the summer, which is also our driest period, is a necessity. This relates primarily to our largest source of supply, Eagle Creek. There is in place a reservoir of about 80,000,000 gallons, Alto Lake, which represents about one month's supply of water in an average summer month. We are now engaged in such action as will bring about the optimum use of Eagle Creek. Another reservoir, of as yet undetermined size, will give us the maximum benefits of the spring snow melt and rainfall. But, here again, Eagle Creek is a small stream which sometimes, even in the spring, is virtually dry. Should we be able to conserve all of it (about 1400 acre feet per year per average), this supply would not be adequate within five years to meet the increased demand of Ruidoso, Capitan, and Fort Stanton, all of which share this source.

"Conservation is certainly an option. We have in the past and will more stringently in the future curb the use of water in times of short supply. But this can only be of limited help. Our average per capita consumption is only about 200 gallons per day, about the national norm; and this average takes no account of the tremendous influx of temporary residents, especially in the summer. There is not a lot of fat to trim; yard and garden irrigation is not a major factor here. Even restrictions on population growth, which may be a future necessity, cannot avert the present pinch in our supply. Well over half of the developed land in our city limits is vacant; and the village is legally obliged to supply water to those who choose to build on their property. There is a large future demand already built into our growth structure.

"There does seem to be one possible solution which could make all the difference in the determination of our future, and it is in this regard that we seek your help. On November 4, the members of the Ruidoso Water Board met with representatives of Holloman Air Force Base who were knowledgeable of their water situation. Their delegation was headed by Col. Donald Brown, whose principal advisor was Mr. George Dunn of the Corps of Engineers. From this information-seeking session we learned of one potential source of relief. The Rio Bonito is now a major source of water supply for both Alamogordo and Holloman Air Force Base, each party owning the right to 1449 acre feet per year from Bonito Lake. In 1979 Holloman used 1124 acre feet of this right, which represented slightly less than 3/4 of their total water use, the remainder of their supply being from wells. Because their well field is heavily used and unfavorably engineered (2 of their 3 wells are only 600 feet apart), Holloman has taken steps to seek additional well water in the procurement of a 4500 acre tract of land about five miles south of their present active field. It has been their plan to develop this field for several years, as soon as requests for funds for this project are approved. Drilling such test wells as would determine the potential of this new field should not be expensive, and to have it fully operative would probably cost less than $1,500,000.00. Should their field perform as it is hoped and expected that it might, Holloman Air Force Base would have a comfortably adequate water supply with no real need for the Bonito source.

"It does seem to us that piping this water some 84 miles from this immediate area, where the need is so great, the resources so limited, and the developmental expenses so great, to another area where there is a potential untapped source of ground water (perhaps in great quantity) is bad arithmetic. We respectfully request that you initiate such governmental action as will allow the exploration of this 4500 acre well field; and, pending its adequacy as a new source of water for Holloman, transfer to us this vital water right to the Rio Bonito. The addition of 1449 acre feet of water to our reserve would approximately double our supply; it would be immediately useable, with only the installation of a single pump, thus eliminating a possible crisis situation; it would give us time to plan and construct such reservoirs as would maximize recovery from other sources; and it would, by being returned for use to its basin of origin, benefit this entire area.

"Your essential effort in this matter could profoundly effect the future of Ruidoso and Lincoln County and would most assuredly effect the gratitude of its citizenry.

"Respectfully,
"Richard S. Hall, Chairman
Ruidoso Water Board
"Lloyd L. Davis Jr.,
Mayor of the Village of Ruidoso."

JUDGE ZIMMERMAN SUSPENDS THREE-YEAR SENTENCES

CSB escapees are guilty

BY GWYNETH JONES
Staff Writer

Two men who had been charged with escape from a work release program in Ruidoso while serving time for murder at Camp Sierra Blanca (CSB), a minimum security facility on Fort Stanton Mesa, were found guilty of the escape Friday in District Court in Carrizozo.

However, the sentence of three years, which would have been added to their current sentences, was suspended by District Judge George Zimmerman for both John Stance Rushing and Kenneth Cranford.

In suspending the sentence, Zimmerman said he was "impressed with" their clear conduct records over the past few years. Apparently, the decision was also influenced by the circumstances of their escape, as presented by their attorney, Gary Mitchell.

Mitchell has argued that the two had been "under duress" — fearing great bodily harm or death — at the time of their escape November 7, 1979.

Those fears were based on the fact that both men knew they were to be transferred back to the state penitentiary in Santa Fe because of public outcry over the camp operation after one inmate was murdered and five others escaped November 4, 1979.

Neither Cranford nor Rushing were implicated in the inmate's death, but because they were serving time for violent crimes, they were to be transferred back to the state prison.

The jury heard a full day of testimony in the case Thursday, but were dismissed Friday morning without ever having considered a verdict. Because one juror became ill Thursday night and was unable to return, Mitchell, Zimmerman and prosecutor Jay Rosenthal conferred on the case early Friday, with the result that Cranford and Rushing changed their pleas from "not guilty" to "no contest."

The change in plea allowed the judge to proceed with the verdict and sentencing, rather than having less than a full jury decide the case or beginning a new trial.

Testifying first was Dr. Mark Orner, director of psychological and psychiatric services at the state penitentiary. He characterized Rushing as an older convict who had been somewhat of a leader among the white inmate factions, but whose "reputation far surpasses his present ability to defend himself."

He said it was typical of inmates who had been jailed for many years to reach a point at which they decide, "they don't want to stay there anymore."

He said this change, known as "snapping" had occurred with Rushing, who had kept a clear conduct record within the last "year or year and a half."

Orner also testified that "there's no question in my mind that his (Rushing's) life would have been in danger if he was returned to the state penitentiary."

Testifying on behalf of Cranford were three of his former employers, Kay and John Hatcher and Ray Bishop, all of Ruidoso.

Kay Hatcher, who employed Cranford at a rental car business at the Ruidoso airport, said she Cranford to be "very responsible" and that he "took his duties seriously."

John Hatcher testified that while he and his wife took a two-week vacation, Cranford ran the business by himself.

During that time, Cranford "had access to at least 20 cars and $2,000 in cash. He could have taken off anytime, but he didn't," Hatcher said.

Both Hatchers testified that Cranford had expressed fear of being returned to Santa Fe after he testified in a case involving other CSB inmates in 1979.

Asked if he knew why Cranford had escaped, Hatcher said, "I think he panicked, because he felt if he was sent back to Santa Fe he was a dead duck."

Bishop, who had employed Cranford at the Ruidoso Phillips 66 service station, also stated that the inmate was "a good employee—I put a lot of confidence in him."

Both inmates also testified on their own behalf. Cranford said he had been labeled as a snitch after testifying against three CSB inmates charged with a burglary from the Innsbrook Village complex.

Cranford said he had first refused to testify, because of the likelihood of getting that unfavorable reputation. He charged that he was "forced" into testifying after

Write-ins spice election results

BY GWYNETH JONES
Staff Writer

The results of the 1980 general election proved at least one point — a write-in candidate still can win, even in this day of highly mechanized voting procedures, even when facing the complication of another strong write-in candidate.

The presence of another write-in candidate's race in the 12th Judicial District Attorney's (DA) slot, further increased Lincoln County residents' awareness of the write-in option. The slots were raised — almost 4,000 times — by county voters, who apparently felt the official ballot didn't offer a sufficient choice.

Most voters used the opportunity to cast votes for Joe Skeen or Dorothy Runnels in the United States Representative's race, or for James Weldon in the DA's race.

However, there were other write-ins indicating that some Lincoln County residents possess one or more of the following attributes: a.) highly individualistic tendencies in voting, b.) poor spelling ability, and c.) an irreverent attitude (or a good sense of humor) regarding the American political system. If write-in voting had decided the presidential election, Lincoln County voters still would have chosen Ronald Reagan, with four votes, leading over Carter, who was written in three times. But Gerald Ford also received three votes, and George Bush got two in combination with Ford. John Anderson got two write-ins.

Finishing in a dead heat for last place in presidential voting were: Jerry Brown, with one friend in Capitan; the Willie Nelson/Waylon Jennings ticket, which got one vote from Nogal; Joe Skeen, and the much mistreated star of Saturday Night Live, Mr. Bill, each of whom got a vote from Carrizozo.

The name "Joe Skeen" garnered the highest number of write-ins, although there were quite a few for Skeens, Skean, Skein, Skinn, Sheen, Skien, Skeene and Stein.

Some folks appeared to have run out of room (or enthusiasm) during the write-in process, leaving only Joe Skee, Joe Ske, Joe Sk or just plain Joe.

There was quite a bit of trouble with the spelling of Runnels, too. There were votes for Rennels, Reynolds, Runnes, Remna,

Lighting contest rules announced

Judging criteria for the commercial Christmas lighting contest were announced Friday by members of the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce Retail Merchants Committee, sponsors of the event.

Although registration deadline to enter the outdoor lighting contest is not until December 1, business owners are being encouraged to be prepared to light their establishments by November 29, when the village Christmas tree will be lit.

The judging will be based on two criterion:

— General lighting.
— Best overall look, or best approach to Christmas decorations.

Six judges will be divided into two groups and each group will be assigned one of the two categories, with points awarded for each entry. The entry with the most cumulative points will receive a traveling trophy and a plaque which can be hung in their business office. Second and third place winners will also receive plaques.

Only those businesses that register, free of charge at the Chamber, will be judged.

Community Center site sought

The Cultural Committee of the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce is seeking a site for construction of a proposed

Community Center or convention complex.

The committee is looking for a minimum tract of 40 acres, in the immediate area of Ruidoso, priced at fair market value.

Persons with this acreage available are asked to immediately contact committee chairman Katherine Finley at telephone 336-4361, or Dr. A. N. Spencer, co-chairman, 336-4255.

DA's election results hinge on final count

It may be several weeks before the outcome of the local district attorney's race is decided.

After a canvass of votes in Otero County, which is also a part of the 12th Judicial District, write-in candidate James J. Weldon gained almost 500 additional votes over the unofficial totals released just after the election.

Lincoln County Commissioners, meeting Thursday in Carrizozo to canvass the recent vote, made no decision as to which renditions of Weldon's name would be accepted. There were more than 40 variations which might be construed as votes for Weldon in Lincoln County.

Lincoln County clerk Jane McSwane said the election forms listing the write-in variations would be sent to Secretary of State Shirley Hooper, who will have the final say on which votes are accepted.

The decision may come at any time between December 5 and January 9, McSwane said.

Village wins Toltec suit

State Supreme Court Justice H. Vern Payne last week ruled in favor of the Village of Ruidoso in a $7,400 suit filed by Toltec International of El Paso, Texas.

The suit stemmed from the installation of a portable metal tower used during the 1978 Mule-O-Rama at Gateway Meadows, Ruidoso Downs.

The village maintained they were not responsible for the tower installation, as the village had not ordered it.

In Twelfth Judicial District court action earlier this year, Bill Ward, president of Mule-O-Rama of Lincoln County, and Mike Taylor, former secretary-treasurer of Mule-O-Rama, were found not liable for the $7,400 cost of the tower. In this decision, handed down by Judge Robert Doughty III, the Village of Ruidoso was deemed liable.

This decision was appealed to the Supreme Court, with last week's decision by Justice Payne reversing the district court decision, freeing the village of responsibility.

A RODGERS ELECTRIC ORGAN has been installed in the First Christian Church and was played for regular services Sunday. It will be used for all church musical functions, including the December 7 Community Choir performance of "The Messiah."

First Christian Church installs new two keyboard Rodgers organ

A Rodgers organ, equipped with two keyboards and an entire foot pedal system, was installed at the First Christian Church this week and will be used for all church musical functions.

The organ was purchased with special contributions made by church members, and was installed by Bruce Nehring, a professional classical organist.

The instrument has two separate memories so the organist can program it as desired. All settings can be made with push button quickness. The keyboards house 61 notes and 32 pedals, with capacity to play chimes and harp. An amplification system was also installed in the church, to improve the organ's tonal qualities.

"The organ had to be perfect electronically and musically when it was installed, and they worked two full days to complete installation," Donna Willard, church organist, said. "It has been installed musically correct, and we are happy it will be used for this year's performance of 'The Messiah'."

Willard added that she plans to take organ lessons in coming months to learn the many options available with the instrument.

Art exhibit scheduled at Capitan school

The Capitan Woman's Club is sponsoring an art exhibit for all students in the Capitan Schools. The exhibit will be open to the public from 3 to 5 p.m., Thursday, November 20 at the school. The project was conceived by club members because of the lack of any art programs in the Capitan schools. All art forms are being accepted for the exhibit.

New Horizons Arts, Crafts Bazaar set

New Horizons Developmental Center, Carrizozo, will be sponsoring its First Annual Arts and Crafts Bazaar on December 11, and exhibitors are being sought.

Booth space, approximately three feet deep by six feet long will be available to interested artists and craftspeople for a fee of five dollars.

Anyone interested in exhibiting should send their fee, name, address and phone number, along with a brief description of the type of craft, to New Horizons, Box 187, Carrizozo, 88301. Registration and payment must be made by December 5, and a written reservation will be issued.

Exhibitors should provide their own materials for setting up the booth. Bazaar hours will be 10 a.m. to 9 p.m., at the center, located at 804 E Avenue.

Perteet elected Realtors' director

School's guidelines for skiing program

Ruidoso school students will have the chance to ski at either ski area again this year, through a special school ski program. The cooperative effort receives support from both ski areas and many ski rental shops.

This year's program will be effective January 21, 28, February 4, 11, 18 and 25 for students in grades three through 12.

The price of $6 for an afternoon of skiing includes a lift ticket at either area and ski rentals from participating shops. Students who have never skied must pay an additional $1 for the first two sessions, which covers skiing lessons.

The school program has become a tradition in Ruidoso, with students given the option to participate. Although classes are not dismissed, students are excused from class on ski days.

Although students must find their own transportation to the ski area, parents who drive can participate in the ski rental program, obtaining skis at reduced rates.

While the program is not a credited class, it is endorsed by the school board, administration and teachers. "It's a lifetime sport. It's also good exercise and we feel it encourages individual sports participation rather than team sports. The only reason we can't give credit is because it isn't supervised enough," Tom Hansen, high school principal, said.

Students are subject to suspension from the program if they become obnoxious on the slopes or interrupt ski school, so that other students are protected from discontinuing the program altogether, Hansen said.

Parents and teachers are encouraged to participate in the program to provide limited supervision but the program is strictly elective for adults.

Parents are required to sign permission slips for children participating in the program. The slips release the ski area of liability and also protects the school district.

Ski shops participating in this year's program are Performance Ski Rentals, Morgan's Ski Shop, Sierra Blanca Ski Shop, Ray Heid's Ski Shop, Adobe Ski Rentals, Mountain Ski Shop, Ski West, Pro Ski Sports, Ruidoso Ski Rentals, Alto Ski Shop, Alpine Ski Haus, Rush Ski Shop, Inn of the Mountain Gods Ski Shop, and Eagle Creek Ski Rental.

Two Ruidosoans in NMSU's Crimson Scholar Program

Two Ruidoso High School graduates are among 800 students who have qualified for New Mexico State University's (NMSU) Crimson Scholar Program.

They are Kim Sanchez and Karri Sears who are planning to major in computer science and/or electrical engineering.

Designed to attract, retain and reward academically superior students, the Crimson Scholar program is open to new freshmen, currently-enrolled students and students transferring from other institutions to NMSU.

Students will have the opportunity to work closely with faculty and other professionals in special research or independent study.

They will have more flexibility and freedom in planning their courses of study, will be able to satisfy degree requirements by alternative means, and may be provided with salaried work experience related to their fields. Matching funds for salaried work will be provided by the NMSU Foundation.

Criteria for acceptance in the program are high. Incoming freshmen must have a minimum American College Testing composite score of 28. Once accepted, freshmen must maintain a grade-point average of 3.3 (B-plus). Sophomores, juniors and seniors must maintain a 3.5 grade-point.

Children's Book Week at Library

November 17-22 marks Children's Book Week at the Ruidoso Public Library. Guest speakers from foreign countries will be featured in daily sessions from 4:30 to 5:30 p.m. The "speakers' presentations" will include slides, dances, movies, songs and stories.

Participating as speakers will be:
—Sompi Richardson, Thailand, Monday.
—Ingrid Schmitz, Germany, Tuesday.
—Pio Ruess, Switzerland, Wednesday.
—Habib Rehman Khan, Pakistan, Thursday.
—Julian Mirabel, Mexico, Friday.
School groups are invited to attend, as well as the general public. Large groups should make reservations by calling the Ruidoso Public Library, 257-4335.

Boy Scouts offer family photographs

Ruidoso's Troop 59 Boy Scouts are selling coupons for 11x14 inch color family photographs. The coupons cost $5 and will be available through November 30.

All photographs will be taken November 30 at Ruidoso High School. For additional information call Linda Flack at 257-2870 or 257-5453.

If 100 photos are sold, the scouts will get 100 percent profit, according to a scout spokesman. Photos may be picked up December 19 and 20.

Legion/Unit meeting here Wednesday

Robert J. Hagee Post 79, American Legion and Auxiliary, will meet Wednesday at 7:30 p.m., at the Siltmark Chalet, 627 Sudderth.

Business matters concerning the immediate future of both organizations will be on the agenda, Legion Commander Rick Simpson said.

Stalberger gets lots of kicks out of Hacky Sack

GREG CORTOPASSI of the Hacky Sack National Touring Team demonstrates an outside foot kick (the small white object near his shoulder is the ball) for students during Thursday's Ruidoso High School assembly. Cortopassi, a California native, has been playing the new sport about nine months, he said.

A FOOTBAG is about the size of a golf ball, is patented and is the result of seven years of trial and error. It, and a pair of legs, is all that's needed to play Hacky Sack, which, incidentally, is a registered trademark.

MR. HACKY SACK himself, John Stalberger of Portland, Oregon. Stalberger invented the footbag and created the various aspects of the game, borrowing the idea from an American Indian game.

BY MARK BAGBY
Sports Editor

Imagine playing soccer with a leather covered golf ball on a miniaturized tennis court.

Toss in a couple of rules from volleyball, and you've just described a new American sport — "Hacky Sack."

Actually, Hacky Sack is not new. It's a game developed in 1972 by Portland, Oregon, native John Stalberger, which can be played — in various forms — by one to 150 people.

Stalberger and three members of the National Hacky Sack Touring Team — Greg Cortopassi of San Francisco, California, Bill Hayne of Lewiston, Idaho, and Mag Hughes of Portland — demonstrated the sport at an assembly at Ruidoso High School Thursday.

It utilizes a small leather ball, a little larger than a golf ball, which is stitched similarly to a baseball, except the stitches are on the inside. Then, it's filled with small polyethylene pellets, which makes it firm but not hard.

This ball, called a "footbag," is then kicked, with either the inside or outside of the foot, sometimes the toe. What's important to remember, is the ball cannot be touched with any part of the upper body.

There are several levels of the sport — there's singles competition, which involves keeping the ball aloft as many times as possible, and each kick counts as one point. (The record, by the way, is held by a 13 year old from Oregon who produced 4,186 consecutive kicks in just over 44 minutes.)

Then there's singles competition that's similar to volleyball, wherein each player tries to kick the footbag over a net and score upon his opponent. First player to make 15 points wins the game.

There's doubles competition which is similar to tennis doubles, also using a net, but still retaining the rules of volleyball. Then there's the circle.

The idea of the circle is for each player to kick the ball and pass it to another player. It's mostly to show one's skill. Any number can get into the circle, Stalberger said, and circles of up to 150 players are not unknown.

The whole thing arose because Stalberger injured a knee playing football. He was looking for a therapeutic exercise for his leg that was also fun.

With the aid of a friend named Mike Marshall, Stalberger created the game, originally using a sock filled with beans or buttons. Marshall called it "Hack the Sock", and they based their game on an American Indian game.

Together, they developed the footbag, but Stalberger had to make a go of it on his own in 1975 when Marshall died of a heart problem.

Stalberger was forced into various jobs — carpentry and truck driving — but continued to develop the game and tried to interest manufacturers in the footbag.

Originally, Stalberger saw it as just an exercise program for sports like football, soccer, and skiing — but then decided it had merits of its own.

He eventually took his game to the public, performing at schools and colleges. Slowly but surely, the game caught on in Oregon and other states on the West Coast.

Then Stalberger branched eastward, performing at schools, in Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas. Now there are five touring teams of four players each covering the country, introducing the sport wherever they go.

"It looks deceptively simple, but it really requires intense concentration, flexibility and agility to play," Stalberger said. "But like anything, practice will make you a better player."

There's a lot of practicing going on out there — 200,000 footbags — at $5 each — have been sold, making Hacky Sack a million dollar business.

And, the game has received an endorsement from the United States Olympic Ski Team and is recognized as a sport by the United States Olympic Committee.

Not too bad for a guy who started out kicking socks around his backyard.

Although Stalberger, as inventor of the game, is earning quite a bit of money from it, he remains an unassuming man who is the advanced Hacky Sack singles champion of the United States. And he's possessed by an almost fervent desire to introduce the game to youngsters.

"The reaction of kids is just unbelievable," he said. "They love it. We do a show, really, with music and everything. Then everyone wants to try it. It's like the Frisbee — it's harder than it looks, but everyone has to try it."

Aggie scrimmage a success, says coach

The White squad beat the Crimson 90-88, in the New Mexico State University intrasquad scrimmage played in Ruidoso High School gymnasium Saturday night.

It was the first showing of the Aggie this year, played before a disappointingly small crowd in a match designed to benefit the Ruidoso High's athletic fund.

Although the size of the crowd may have been disappointing, Aggie head man Weldon Drew seemed quite pleased with the way his troops performed.

"I was really impressed with the team," Drew said. "(Paul) Atkins was a second teamer, but the way he played tonight, he probably earned himself a starting spot.

"I thought everyone played well, though. We need to work on our defense — but with the offensive potential we have, I'm not too surprised we put so many points on the board."

Drew said before the game the Aggies should have a top notch offensive club this season, with more speed and quickness and good depth all round.

But defense has him worried, particularly rebounding ability.

"We lost our top three board men from last year, and our front line is relatively untested," he said. "But Atkins and (Greg) Metz played much better than I thought they would."

Atkins, a second team junior college All-American last year, ripped the nets for 27 points for the White team and played a big role in leading the boards for the White.

Teammate Metz, all 6-10½ of it, also scored 21 points and had a rebounding.

Deck Saylor of the Crimson, led all scorers with 30 points, including a meaningless basket near the end.

The White team trailed at halftime, but built an 11 point lead in the second half. The Crimson, however, staged a comeback rally and pulled to within two points with about a minute left.

But hustling Jerome Atkins fouled the hot shooting Phil Elders, who sank a pair of free throws to rebuild the White lead to four, 90-86.

Sailors got the ball back with three seconds showing on the clock and sank a short jumper to pull within two, but it wasn't enough.

"I think we'll do all right this season," Drew said, "but we sure needed this."

The Aggies open the 1980-81 season this Saturday when they host the Australian National Touring Team. Tip off is slated for 8 p.m., in the Pan American Center in Las Cruces.

Soccer teams fare well in tournament

Four of six teams from Ruidoso's Sertoma Soccer Association (RSSA) made it past the first round in a Saturday soccer tournament in Alamogordo.

The second round was to have been played Sunday, but bad weather forced cancellation of the games until next Saturday.

The under eight Cobras won their first match, 8-1, and move to the next round. The under eight Celtic, however, won its first match but lost its second, removing them from competition.

The under 12 Rowdies, RSSA league champions, lost their match, 4-1, but the same leagues Strikers won by a shutout, 6-0.

The under 14 Celtic won 1-0, and the under 16 Strikers also clinched a second round spot, by virtue of a 5-2 win.

"It's a real tough tournament," according to RSSA league director Butch Grantham. "Some real good competition."

Approximately 50 teams from Ruidoso, Tularosa, Alamogordo and White Sands are participating.

DEREK SAILORS puts up two of his game leading 30 points during Saturday's New Mexico State University intrasquad scrimmage, played in Warrior Gymnasium. A small crowd watched Sailors' "Crimson" team lose to the "White" squad, 90-88, but Aggie coach Weldon Drew was pleased with the match.

A RODGERS ELECTRIC ORGAN has been installed in the First Christian Church and was played for regular services Sunday. It will be used for all church musical functions, including the December 7 Community Choir performance of "The Messiah."

First Christian Church installs new two keyboard Rodgers organ

A Rodgers organ, equipped with two keyboards and an entire foot pedal system, was installed at the First Christian Church this week and will be used for all church musical functions.

The organ was purchased with special contributions made by church members, and was installed by Bruce Nehring, a professional classical organist.

The instrument has two separate memories so the organist can program it as desired. All settings can be made with push button quickness. The keyboards house 61 notes and 32 pedals, with capacity to play chimes and harp. An amplification system was also installed in the church, to improve the organ's tonal qualities.

"The organ had to be perfect electronically and musically when it was installed, and they worked two full days to complete installation," Donna Willard, church organist, said. "It has been installed musically correct, and we are happy it will be used for this year's performance of 'The Messiah'."

School's guidelines for skiing program

Ruidoso school students will have the chance to ski at either ski area again this year, through a special school ski program. The cooperative effort receives support from both ski areas and many ski rental shops.

This year's program will be effective January 21, 28, February 4, 11, 18 and 25 for students in grades three through 12.

The price of $6 for an afternoon of skiing includes a lift ticket at either area and ski rentals from participating shops. Students who have never skied must pay an additional $1 for the first two sessions, which covers skiing lessons.

The school program has become a tradition in Ruidoso, with students given the option to participate. Although classes are not dismissed, students are excused from class on ski days.

Although students must find their own transportation to the ski area, parents who drive can participate in the ski rental program, obtaining skis at reduced rates.

While the program is not a credited class, it is endorsed by the school board, administration and teachers. "It's a lifetime sport. It's also good exercise and we feel it encourages individual sports participation rather than team sports. The only reason we can't give credit is because it isn't supervised enough," Tom Hansen, high school principal, said.

Students are subject to suspension from the program if they become obnoxious on the slopes or interrupt ski school, so that other students are protected from discontinuing the program altogether, Hansen said.

Parents and teachers are encouraged to participate in the program to provide limited supervision but the program is strictly elective for adults.

Parents are required to sign permission slips for children participating in the program. The slips release the ski areas of liability and also protects the school district.

Ski shops participating in this year's program are Performance Ski Rentals, Morgan's Ski Shop, Sierra Blanca Ski Shop, Ray Heid's Ski Shop, Adobe Ski Rentals, Mountain Ski Shop, Ski West, Pro Ski Sports, Ruidoso Ski Rentals, Alto Ski Shop, Alpine Ski Haus, Rush Ski Shop, Inn of the Mountain Gods Ski Shop, and Eagle Creek Ski Rental.

Two Ruidosoans in NMSU's Crimson Scholar Program

Two Ruidoso High School graduates are among 800 students who have qualified for New Mexico State University's (NMSU) Crimson Scholar Program.

They are Kim Sanchez and Karri Sears who are planning to major in computer science and/or electrical engineering.

Designed to attract, retain and reward academically superior students, the Crimson Scholar program is open to new freshmen, currently-enrolled students and students transferring from other institutions to NMSU.

Students will have the opportunity to work closely with faculty and other professionals in special research or independent study.

They will have more flexibility and freedom in planning their courses of study, will be able to satisfy degree requirements

by alternative means, and may be provided with salaried work experience related to their fields. Matching funds for salaried work will be provided by the NMSU Foundation.

Criteria for acceptance in the program are high. Incoming freshmen must have a minimum American College Testing composite score of 28. Once accepted, freshmen must maintain a grade-point average of 3.3 (B-plus). Sophomores, juniors and seniors must maintain a 3.5 grade-point.

Aggie scrimmage a success, says coach

Soccer teams fare well in tournament

Four of six teams from Ruidoso's Sertano Soccer Association (RSSA) made it past the first round in a Saturday soccer tournament in Alamogordo.

The second round was to have been played Sunday, but bad weather forced cancellation of the games until next Saturday.

The under eight Cobras won their first match, 3-1, and move to the next round. The under eight Celtic, however, won its first match but lost its second, removing them from competition.

The under 12 Rowdies, RSSA league champions, lost their match, 4-1, but the same league Strikers won by a shutout, 6-0.

The under 14 Celtic won 1-0, and the under 16 Strikers also clinched a second round spot, by virtue of a 5-2 win.

"It's a real tough tournament," according to RSSA league director Butch Grantham. "Some real good competition."

Approximately 50 teams from Ruidoso, Tularosa, Alamogordo and White Sands are participating.

DEREK SAILORS puts up one of his game leading 30 points during Saturday's New Mexico State University intrasquad scrimmage, played in Warrior Gymnasium. A small crowd watched Aggie coach Weldon Drew's team lose to the "White" squad, 90-88, but Aggie coach Weldon Drew was pleased with the match.

A tribute to Warrior seniors

The number "13" is, according to legend, an unlucky number.

But 13 seniors formed the nucleus of the 1980 Warrior football team, which finished 7-3, their first winning season at Ruidoso High School since 1972.

Also, though the team competed in Class AAA football, the Warriors made a serious challenge for the District 3AAA crown and a shot at the state championship.

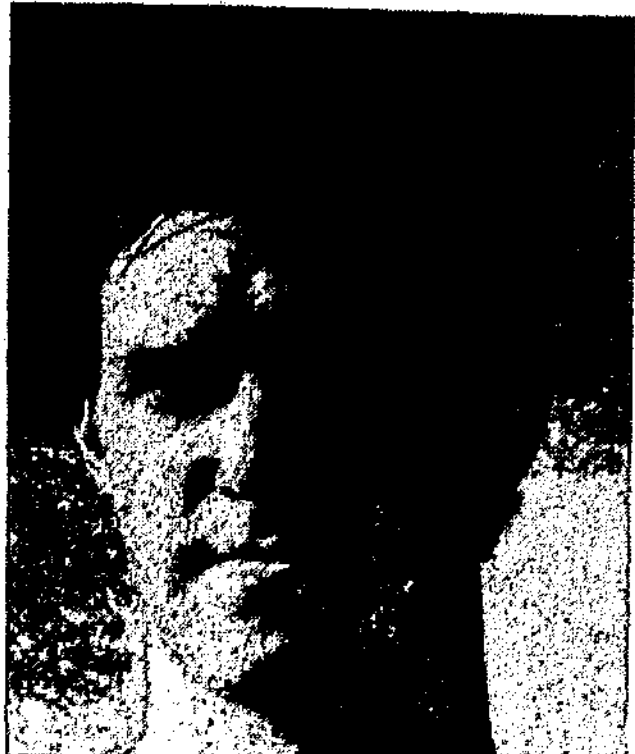

Though Silver City prevailed in the final game of the season, the team — and the seniors pictured here — are all winners.

Thirteen unlucky? No way.

Here's to Warrior football, and the class of 1980!

Reserve beats Tigers in state grid finale

Capitan's football Tigers came within a touchdown of beating Reserve in the Class A state championship Friday night in Socorro, but the unbeaten Mountaineers single-winged their way to their first ever state title.

Capitan led going into the fourth quarter, 14-12, on the strength of a Jon Wolfe 51 yard touchdown burst three minutes into the game, and a one yard plunge in the third period.

Reserve struck back in the second quarter, with Mario Zuniga scoring on a one yard run. The two point try failed.

With 46 seconds remaining on the first half clock, Reserve scored again on a 13 yard pass from Davey Estrada to Tyke Trotter. When the two point conversion was again unsuccessful, Reserve took a precarious 12-7 lead into the dressing room.

Wolfe scored on a one yard run in the third period, and Todd Proctor's conversion kick made it 14-12.

But Zuniga scored his second touchdown in the fourth period and Estrada hit James Christenson with an eight yard scoring strike for a 20-14 lead.

Capitan came back with eight seconds remaining, scoring on a 29 yard pass from Brian Sullivan to Norvel Carpenter. Capitan, 6-4 on the year, out first downed Reserve, 9-7, and total yardage was nearly even — 223 for Reserve to 221 for the Tigers.

But the difference proved to be Capitan's loss of four fumbles, to only two by Reserve. In fact, a key fumble in the fourth quarter set up Estrada's second touchdown pass, and then an 11 yard punt set the Mountaineers up only 46 yards from the Tiger goal.

It was a tough loss for Capitan, rated second in Class A, who upset three time defending Hagerman last week 7-6, for the right to play in the finals.

The Tigers lost 24-0 to Reserve during the regular season, the only district loss Capitan suffered.

Sertoma basketball registration set

Little League basketball, sponsored by Ruidoso's Sertoma Club, will have its registration Thursday and Friday nights from 5:30 to 7:30, in White Mountain Middle School gymnasium.

The league is open to boys and girls in grades five through seven, and forms for registration may also be picked up at White Mountain Middle and Elementary Schools offices.

Enrollment fee is $5 for one child, and $10 for families with two or more children eligible to play. A parent should accompany registering children.

Tryouts and a draft will be held next week.

Also, any men or women interested in coaching this season should contact Barry Bellinger at the gym during the two nights of registration, or call 257-9467.

Sportin' Life

... a column of opinion ...

by

Mark Bagby

Hey, hey, hey, guess who just might be in the Rose Bowl?

Well, as of Friday, the Big Ten's top candidate is Ohio State, nothing new there. And there's the Pacific Ten, oops, Five, and its new powerhouse, Washington State.

Who? That's right, good ol' WSU, fabled in songs and story, the team with a 4-5 record. See, as of Friday, Washington State merely has to beat California (minus Rich Campbell, star quarterback), have Washington lose to USC and then beat Washington in a state showdown next week.

Washington State-Ohio State, in the oldest, most prestigious bowl game of them all?

I betcha the NBC peacock turns all sorts a colors if that happens, heh heh.

Let's go bowling Bowl games, while we're on that subject, are an interesting way to pass the time.

See, all us sportswriters love to sit around and predict bowl matchups, who's gonin' where, and then, of course, they have to play the games, which takes up a little time nowadays, what with four major bowls and about 14 or 15 non-major (they don't like the term minor, but what are you gonna call something like the Garden State Bowl?) ones.

The El Paso Times has been going nuts lately trying to figure out just who on earth will be playing in the Sun Bowl, and since that has a considerable influence on that Texas city's economy, it's no wonder.

Right now, they think it's gonna be Mississippi State, which beat Alabama, and the loser of the Oklahoma-Nebraska game.

What the Sun does, like most of the minor — oops, non-major — bowls, is try to pick good teams that are fairly close, so they can get many folks to come watch those schools.

Well, it ain't too bad a drive from Miz-zissippi, and it's not too far from Okie-land, neither — since the Sun seems to feel Nebraska will win the Big Eight title and its automatic Orange Bowl berth.

Sooner coach Barry Switzer has expressed interest into going to the Sun, 'cause he's heard such wonderful things about El Paso from Nebraska athletic director Bob Devaney, who used to coach the Cornhuskers.

But maybe ol' Bob will have to return to El Paso with the Huskers, should Oklahoma win that game, which means Switzer and his troops would head to Miami for their fourth Orange Bowl in six years.

Isn't this fun?

I don't think so either. The reason there's so much of this stuff going on is because the bowls are big business — it's common knowledge the bowls pay exorbitant fees for teams.

(That is also why, by the way, schools like Notre Dame, Penn State and Pittsburgh maintain such excellent football programs. It is not common knowledge a school, if it goes to a bowl, has to share its earnings with the other schools in the conference.)

But Pitt, Penn and the Irish are all independents, and get to keep their money — every cent of it. Tain't fair.

And I'm also getting tired of coaches picking their bowls and even who they want to play against. I'm so sick of Bear Bryant saying he wants this bowl, that bowl, he'll play so and so but not these other guys. That isn't too fair either, and the Bear isn't the only coach who's allowed to play who he wants to play.

Me myself, I'm hoping Oklahoma beats Nebraska and then decides to come to the Sun Bowl, so then me and the missus could go see the crimson and cream play.

Wow..... Heard on the news today, some free agent baseball player wants a 10 year contract for $13 million.

That's right, $1.3 million per year for six months work. Not too bad wages, even for these inflated times, and Uncle Sam would have to take a pretty big bite out of it before you'd notice anything was missing.

Then they mentioned another fella, he wanted only $2 million ("only $2 million," listen to him) for a four year contract.

Now him, he's a relative bargain, only $500,000 per year. Not too shabby, but still Oh, if only we had all been blessed with the ability to catch and hit that ol' horseshide. Instead, most of us are getting another part of the horse, and I don't think I have to tell you just exactly which part.

'Nuff said.

They opened the cabins in 1968 and have been members of the Chamber of Commerce since that time. Sherwood Forest offers 16 cabins, with two, three and

The store offers fresh meats and produce, and "quality merchandise including such brands as Del Monte, Hunts, White Swan and Kounty Kist, Peytons meats and Schwartzman's pork and hams, freezer packed 1/4, 1/2 or whole cut and wrapped to your liking." Wholesale case goods are also available. In addition, Cadena said, they offer "personalized, friendly and courteous service." Business hours are 8 a.m. to 7 p.m., daily during the winter and 8 a.m. to "whenever," in summer.

Songs of Thanksgiving
Today, on November the thirteenth, the west wind is blowing down the vale, sending for the snow, and singing many a little song of Thanksgiving — sounding around the eaves of the house, softly humming through the pinon boughs, and harping through the branches of the river trees.

It is mid afternoon now, and all day there has been a light silvery roof of clouds over the mountain world, so that the sun comes through with a very gentle light casting the hills and vales into a peaceful, dreamy mood.

It is still Indian Summer — and this little season-within-a-season is stretching out farther and farther towards winter. Although the air is warm and balmy like in spring, the west wind is giving the world a wintery look; for the autumn leaves have nearly all left the trees, and gone flying, carried on the autumn gale.

The large apricot tree south of the house, near the bluebird tree, has held onto its golden yellow leaves longer than any of the other trees. Day after day this tree has presented a picture of Indian Summer beauty, with the gentle green of the pinon and cedar as a background, and the light blue November sky above — all perfectly matched in color harmony.

Today the leaves are leaving the trees in little bands, landing on the amber colored grass where they cling, not wanting to go too great a distance from their beloved tree. The wind moves them, and they wave back and forth, glistening, shimmering, flashing as they catch the silvery-golden rays of the sun shining through the light film of clouds.

The last of the oak tree leaves fall onto the crystal waters of the river, and go sailing down — hosts of tiny boats drifting down the stream.

So that, all in all, the world has the tone, the feeling, and the look of Thanksgiving time. And there is a growing tide of thankfulness rising in your heart, and you remember a verse of one of the old favorite Thanksgiving hymns, "Harvest Home."

A Message From Jack Frost

Dear Friends in Lincoln County;
I guess maybe that with Thanksgiving coming up on the twenty-seventh, you would like to see a little snow to dress the world up a little. I have tried to make this a long Indian Summer to give everybody a chance to get in a little winter wood, and get some chores done up getting ready for winter.

Of course the season of winter does not begin until the twenty-first of December; yet we know that wintery weather usually arrives before that time.

I want to remind you, once again, that this time of the year, a snow storm can blow in suddenly. This is very likely to happen right in the middle of a warm spell, such as we have been having lately.

It is a wonderful time to be out in the hills and mountains, I know. Yet you should remember to have warm clothing with you, something to eat, matches, flashlight, water — I am talking about when you are quite a ways out into the woods.

It is best to have someone with you, and to let someone know about where you are headed.

If worse comes to worse, and you do get caught out in a snow storm, just remember one thing: simply keep calm. Don't start running, or get excited. If it is still light you can always find your way to civilization by going down the canyons. (This is a big advantage to being lost in a mountainous country). In level country in the woods, you do not have any canyons to guide you, and there is a tendency to walk in a circle.

If it is dark and the snow storm catches you, just find a sheltered place and build a fire and take it easy. Here again, it is an advantage to be in the mountains. There are cliffs, caves, deep canyons — many places where you can be sheltered and keep warm.

I am not trying to scare you. The chances of your being lost or out in a snow storm are about one thousand to one. I just want you to be ready for the snow when it arrives, and like I say, you are apt to be unprepared when the snow comes out of a clear sky, which becomes more and more likely the longer this mild weather lasts.

Let us count our blessings during the thankful month. Keep smiling, you know the old saying:

"Smile and the world smiles with you."

You see, one smile brings another. So we should always remember to help the other fellow smile.

Well, we will be seeing a lot of each other I hope, through the days, and I will say "so long for now" and adios, till we meet again.

As ever yours,
Jack Frost

ASSISTING White Mountain Elementary Title I teacher Susan Miller with the Monterey Reading Program are the mid school students pictured,

Specialized reading program successful in local schools

A specialized reading program being used at White Mountain Elementary School (WMES) has provided children with skills they could not master before, to become better readers, according to Susan Miller, WMES Title I reading instructor. The Monterey Reading Program (MRP) is taught on a one-to-one basis and teachers must test out of a training program before they are allowed to teach it. Miller enrolled in the MRP for teachers about eight years ago when it was first introduced.

"I had two students that were in high school and couldn't read. They had been in every reading program but this, so I learned it in hopes of teaching them how to read; it worked, Miller said.

Because of the one-on-one teaching situation, Miller said the program gives students who "may need a boost in reading" the chance to learn phonics (sounds) quite thoroughly.

"It's a very intensive program and really works wonders," Miller said. However, the program is not for everyone.

"That's why we're so lucky to have so many different types of reading programs — we can put the kids in the program where they will benefit the most."

Children who benefit greatest from the MRP are those who may not qualify for a special education reading program but who are not exactly on the reading level for their year in school.

Miller said the best thing about the program is that over a seven year period, she has been able to develop the program to meet the needs of every student. Miller, who is certified to instruct others to teach the MRP, has, for two years, taught students from White Mountain Middle School (WMMS) to work with fifth graders in this program.

Miller said WMMS students in the program are very "sharp and pretty responsible" and most are at the top of their classes. She uses seventh and eighth graders, selected by their teachers. Following the training program, the students spend an hour a day with one student, but are supervised by Miller. "It's not something they take lightly," she said. "They come over here on their own and the kids they work with are always ready to come here too." Miller said both teacher and student are "hand picked" so they will be compatible and "so we don't have problems with kids who don't want to learn it."

Miller said each student can usually complete the program in one semester, so each teacher can work with two children in a school year. Following a year of training, the young teachers have the chance to become certified, by submitting their data sheets, a critique from Miller, and other information.

Miller is sold on the program. "Not only do they learn to read better, but it gives them confidence and their test scores have shown fantastic gains in just five months." And the volunteer student teachers are doing a great service, Miller said. "They have enabled us to reach 12 or 14 more kids that wouldn't have been helped otherwise."

Yeatman, Sean Wheeler and Aundrea Gonzalez, all seventh graders. Collins has also assisted at White Mountain Middle School, to teach the Monterey Reading program to that age level of readers.

Inside The Capitol

by Fred McCaffrey

SANTA FE — As the capital city assesses the results of this month's election, some conclusions become clearer and clearer — though not to everyone.

There is almost no one here who does not see the totals amassed that night as something of a warning to Governor King. He, however, does not read the number that way.

At least that's the word from a person high in the King administration, who has a long background of political experience in the state.

The name cannot be mentioned for obvious reasons.

"Fred," this person says, "the Governor just can't bring himself to admit what everyone else sees very clearly."

"Any kind of personal rejection is tough medicine to take, of course, but he'd better get the message. If he doesn't, he'll make more political mistakes."

Nobody is maintaining that everyone who went to the polls in any race with a candidate whose last name was King felt it necessary to send a message directly to the Governor. That would be too oversimplified.

But you just can't look at those results and see anything to be cheerful about if you are a strong King partisan.

Take Representative Tom Brown, for instance, who was working hard to set things up so he could be chosen Speaker of the House in the coming legislative session.

Ask him what happened that day and he shakes his head and says, "I got buried, that's all."

And part of that burying was because he had allowed his name to be used as one way of deciding which Democratic legislative candidates would be funded by the party in this year's race.

Those who passed out the money deny this every time we say it, but prospects for help were given to understand this was King money they were getting and they were expected to support Brown if they got elected to the House.

Those who didn't like those two provisions somehow found themselves without much monetary help.

But the Democratic legislative committee was not nearly so astute in choosing candidates to help as the Republicans were.

Now Brown finds himself, with his name firmly linked to King's in the minds of most House members, standing almost alone where the breezes are very cold.

So much for that run for the top spot in the House.

To quote our source inside the King political family a little further, one of the major problems in the Governor's performance has been "the use of the fourth floor of the Roundhouse as a hiring hall."

Political hackers, this person says, shouldn't be put on the state payroll just because they're handy to have around come election time.

What's more, the implication is, this time they couldn't even deliver on election day.

So the counsel some would give the Governor, if he'd listen, is to spend the next two years demonstrating in no uncertain terms that he has the welfare of the citizens of the state, not just that of his family or his political party, at heart.

From here, that sounds like wise advice.

Letters to the Editor

Dear editor:

Were it possible, I would personally thank each and every one of the voters in the Second Congressional District who took the time and effort to write in my name on November 4th. You can't imagine what a tremendous feeling it is to realize that more than 60,000 people wanted me to be their Congressman badly enough to go through the cumbersome write-in process. There is really no way for me to adequately express my appreciation to all of the people who worked and voted for me.

I would, however, like to ask you to help me convey to them how good it makes me feel to have such a mandate from them. Could you please, publish this as a letter to the editor or in some other fashion so that the people who read your paper will know how I feel? I will, of course, be spending some time in your area as my schedule permits, but I would like to thank the people in this manner until I can thank them in person.

Letters to the Editor

Dear editor:

As president of the New Mexico Optometric Association, I felt that it is my duty to inform the people of New Mexico about the safety and efficacy of the experimental surgical procedure which is being touted as a cure for near-sightedness. The procedure, which is known as radial keratotomy, has been performed in New Mexico and recently has received much publicity.

In a recently adopted resolution, the National Advisory Eye Council expressed grave concern that radial keratotomy is being attempted, even though, reports from foreign countries and the United States do not provide an adequate basis on which to assure the general public of its safety and effectiveness. The Council has urged restraint on the part of patients and eye surgeons until the results of research can be reviewed and evaluated by the ophthalmological community.

Radial keratotomy involves making a series of 16 to 20 incisions into the cornea to weaken the tissue. This causes the edge or periphery of the cornea to bulge slightly, thus, flattening the central portion of the cornea and supposedly improving focusing ability in near-sighted people.

Few animal studies have been performed in the United States and few studies have been performed on humans. At least one of these few studies indicates that most radial keratotomy patients reported some complications, including, glare and vision that fluctuated during the day. National Advisory Council members said research is needed to determine how effective radial keratotomy is correcting myopia and to evaluate the safety of the procedure and its short and long term side effects.

I strongly urge anyone in New Mexico who is considering undergoing this procedure to get a second opinion.

Richard Bond, President
New Mexico Optometric Association

Dear Editor with yore Kopet of Curly Hair, Would you mind movin over a little bit and let us say hello to our beautiful friends there in Ruidoso without you interruption, will you huh. Thank you.

Folks I started to write good friends but that aint fittin to us so am goin to say Dear Loved Ones as that is what we mean. We have moved away from you to Washington for our health and do feel it is helping, the weather is a bit warmer and about 7000 ft. lower in altitude but our heart is still in Ruidoso and with you. Golly I can think of a gillion persons I want to say howdy to but will just say it to all. We treasured you individually not collectively and will remember you that way. You never realize how many nice neighbors you have till you leave them and how they affected your lives. We enjoyed every day there of eighteen years and felt a part of the community and hope that we were a part of your families as we tried to be. Wish that I could send each of you a letter but this one is to each of you honest it is.

I look back over the things we did there and the things we didnt do and hope we did enough things that we made a tiny mark on you as you have us, I cant think of a one that I dont like, sept maybe the bad tips I got at the track fun Leo or one of them other touts but honest the little Village is sunthin and will always be a part of us. When I wuz a Cop there I enjoyed it as you got to meet all the people one way er another and when I wuz a Councilman I met a bunch and seen their problems and worried bout what to do about these things that bothered them and hope that we done the best we could. Theres one thing that I had hoped to get done and didnt and thats to get a sort of Memorial thing there at the little Three Rivers or Two Rivers Park to mark the Memory of Corky Connally and to our Youth of Ruidoso, we loved the kids there and hope that it can be done to let them know we are proud of them and of their accomplishments as they are our future. I hope someday to come back and see a nice dam on Eagle Creek to have a reserve of water firstly and for recreation secondly we honestly did try and thirdly I hope that when we come back to visit we get to see every one of you and let you know how we have missed you and visit a while over a cup of Java in one of the coffee joints.

If you ever get up Washington way we live on the corner of K and 12st st and I bet we can either offer you a cup of coffee er some of the Editors Ice Tea whichever. We find this village as we found Ruidoso, a bunch of very nice people anxious to be good neighbors and have enjoyed it very much. Our home is about 4 blocks from the water and we can go down and watch the fishing boats come and go out into the Pudget Sound, sort of fascinatin to a Bird like me that never seen over a tea cup full of water before in his life and they tell me there is a bunch more of it West of here.

Hope I havent offended any of you sept that darn Editor and if I have I didnt mean to, I wuz jes writin to the ones I have known for many years and loved as a kinfolk. Thank you for lettin Benita and I live there for those many years and lettin Melinda, Marina and Terry grow up there and go to the nice school that we have there. Yours and Ours

editorial

Though it's just over two months before Ronald Reagan is sworn in as the fortieth President of the United States, pressure groups are hard at work trying to influence him.

Coerce might be a better word.

Some educators obviously don't want the Department of Education eliminated.

The possibility of Reagan's disbanding the Department of Energy is causing something more than a mile uproar among its supporters.

Some of the Democrats in the House, coupled with some in the Senate, are currently testing Reagan's aplomb by suggesting that his honeymoon with Congress will be of short duration.

What must be discouraging to Reagan's would be detractors is the obvious fact that he isn't making any moves, overt or otherwise, affording them an opportunity to organize a pre-inaugural attack.

Reagan's advisors are patiently advising the public that the new President will, from the outset of his administration, institute a policy of working with Congress. This must mean he doesn't intend to try the use of force to get his programs, plans and ideas favorably acted upon by Congress.

In light of the fact that Reagan has not started espousing his causes, considering his landslide electoral victory over President Carter, we feel this action will do much to instill confidence in Reagan across the nation.

The problems associated with inflation, unemployment and energy, in addition to again having the United States respected throughout the world as the most powerful nation on earth, are, apparently, problems Reagan is going to face with all deliberate haste.

Of this much we are certain, Reagan's presidency will get his best shot. — CD

ELECTION HULLABALOO

Long before the polls closed November 4, NBC TV predicted that Ronald Reagan would be elected President in a landslide ... and hardly before those words of prediction faded, a hush and cry was raised protesting this action.

There are those wanting to throttle the telecasters ... to prevent them from making their projections before the polls in all 50 states close ... which might have trouble becoming law due to the provisions of the First Amendment.

One approach to this problem could be to vary the voting hours throughout the nation so that all polls, in presidential elections, would close simultaneously. Having to vote at odd hours would merely be a slight aggravation that shouldn't seriously bother persons intent upon casting their ballots.

Eliminating the Electoral College, and making the presidential election one of popular vote, would be of some help ... after all, that way each individual's vote would count ... and if a President is to represent all the people, why shouldn't all the people get to vote so that the majority of the people elect the president?

On the thumb hand side ... if a presidential election were to be run off without a hitch, it'd have a tendency to drive the grippers up the wall ... which, actually, might not be all bad ... no?

OUR ESSAY CONTEST

Entries for the essay contest, "A Free Press Safeguards My Freedom" are due in The Ruidoso News by December 1. That's a fortnight away.

The contest requires persons entering to spell out their thoughts about the First Amendment ... that piece of legislation guaranteeing that there'll be no abridging of freedom of speech or the press ... to the end result that the people of this great nation can be advised ... accurately ... as to what's happening in government or any other for instances affecting our lives.

Godzooks ... just about everyone should have opinions on the topic of this essay contest ... and, by jinkies, what better opportunity to spout off than this contest? Besides ... someone's going to win the national first prize of $1,000 ... with $300 and $200 also offered ... and that's a pretty good inducement, in itself, for taking an hour to write down your thoughts.

WHOPPER ABOUT SATCHEL

There was once a triple play of mind boggling proportions ... read on. Pitcher Satchel Paige was more or less 42 years old and already a legend when he reached the big leagues in 1948. Don't stop now ... read on.

Baseball writer Arthur Daley quotes Paige with this story of how he singlehandedly made a triple play:

"The bases were full and there was a 3-2 count on the batter when I went in. I picked up an extra ball in the dugout, then I threw those two balls at the same time, one to first and one to third," Paige said.

"I picked off both runners and my motion was so good that the batter fanned. That was three outs."

Yup ... no wonder that the man who made the axiom: "Don't look back, something might be gaining on you," famous, became a legend in his time.

Makes you kinda wonder why Satch never got into politics.

23-INCHES OF RAIN

Down at Key West, Florida, 'twas quite a deluge they had last Tuesday ... didn't hit two feet, though 23.10 inches is close enough that probably no one getting their feet wet noticed.

But, and you gotta hand it to those fun loving folks in the Keys, all of 'em took it in stride ... or on rafts ... canoes ... water be a prime example of how folks'll take things as ain't exactly joyous, right in stride ... with joviality prevailing.

Seems ... outside of things getting a mite wet ... that all that rain didn't do all that much damage ... probably based on the premise that sand's easier to shovel outta houses than mud.

And Ernest Hemingway's favorite ape ... Sloppy Joe's ... did a land office business in water knee deep ... which wasn't deep enough, apparently, to dilute the refreshments ... which poured freely until 1 a.m.

So it appears as though what coulda been disaster, turned out to be kind of a fun time ... with, apparently nary a barracuda joining in.

BRIEF BIT: It's the scientists finally figure out what makes Saturn tick ... wonder what luck they've have with a planet we all know more about ... CD

The Jewish Anarchists an overlooked movement

The history of an overlooked radical movement, composed of Jewish emigres to the United States and the newspaper that became their voice for 87 years, is explored in the documentary FREE VOICE OF LABOR—THE JEWISH ANARCHISTS airing Monday, November 17 on many PBS stations.

Large numbers of Jews from the villages and cities of Eastern Europe came to the United States during the immigration waves of the 1880s and 1890s. The majority of them settled in New York's lower East Side. Some of these uprooted Jews, quickly disillusioned by the brutal and exploitive working conditions they endured in the sweatshops, were drawn to radical politics and espoused anarchism. In their daily lives they replaced American culture with a counter culture which better reflected their views and in which they created their own social and intellectual outlets as well as an experimental school system which flourished for 36 years.

The Jewish anarchists considered themselves Jews only in a cultural sense. They were against both government and organized religion, believing instead in personal autonomy and the advancement of freedom through peaceful means. Contrary to popular beliefs, there was only a small minority in the movement that employed and advocated violence to achieve political ends.

Through the use of rare newsreel footage, still photos, clips from Yiddish films and excerpts of Yiddish songs, the hour-long documentary recreates a vivid impression of this alternative life style and the conditions that created it.

Television Schedule For The Week Of Nov. 17 through Nov. 23

CONFIDENTIAL REPORT Two of America's favorite actors may be the innocent victims of a shameful fraud that has rocked the very foundations of Hollywood. As co-owners of the hit ABC-TV series 'Charlie's Angels,' Robert Wagner and his stunning wife, Natalie Wood, may have been robbed of $500,000 in profits from the smash show. The shady deal involves accusations that ABC diverted the Wagners' rightful share of profits into other channels so that the earnings all went back to Spelling and Goldberg, producers of the 'Angels' and other top ABC shows. The startled Wagners found out about the scandal while on vacation in southern France when a reporter told them the case had been blown wide open by an ABC lawyer, Jennifer Martin. "It came as a total surprise to me," says Wagner, who assumed that the money had been coming to him all along. "Natalie and I do own 50 percent of 'Charlie's Angels,' but we heard nothing about this." And in his typical nonchalant way, he adds, "We sure could have used that half a million to pay for our vacation." But the Wagners are in a perilous position, and the truth is they may let the $500,000 slip through their fingers forever, according to an inside source.

CONSUMER NEWS WIRE Parker Stevenson begins work on his first project for ABC-TV next week in San Diego. Filming five weeks in San Diego and two weeks in L.A., Parker will star in 'American Gothic,' with co-stars Shelley Smith and Slim Pickens. They will be filming at a $15 million estate in San Diego and the film should be ready for a winter release. This is part of his non-exclusive, two-year deal with the network to appear in two movies of the week, one being produced by his own production company, Stevenson Productions.

Lawrence Welk may be America's king of bubbly champagne music, but the ever-popular band leader has secret fears about not being able to work anymore. Welk's decades in music and TV have made him so wealthy that he doesn't even know how many records he has sold or how much money he has. But doubt about what the future may hold still lingers in his heart. "I'm afraid to go out of the country on tour," Welk told me. "What if people overseas didn't like our music? It would be all over the papers here."

TV CLOSEUP Who's holding hands and cuddling all over Hollywood? Top TV interviewer Barbara Walters and Tarzan movie producer Sy Weintraub. Friends say they could be hitched by Christmas. "Three's Company," or is it? Seems the successful TV comedy series has a jinx. Suzanne Somers and Joyce DeWitt have fired their managers. They're suing Bobby Ewing—the real Bobby Ewing. Lorimar Productions, creators of the prime-time soap 'Dallas,' want $1.5 million because they say the real Bobby Ewing, head of The Real Ewing Oil Co., came out with his own line of T-shirts, hats, belt buckles, and blue jeans under the Ewing (pronounced you-in) oil label. Nothing doing, says the real Ewing. He's countersuing Lorimar for $50 million. "There isn't a court in the land that will tell me I'm not entitled to my own name," he says. What does he think of Lorimar? "Those people are crazier 'n hell."
