Census calls at homes begin Tuesday

The census takers pictured will begin collecting the 1980 Census of the United States forms at Ruidoso, Ruidoso

Downs and Hondo Valley residences April 1. "Form collecting," area Census Crew Leader Grace

Gordon said, "will probably continue through April, though we hope to have the job done in three weeks."

Gordon said census takers will be calling at homes until 9 p.m., daily.

All census takers will wear red, white and blue identification cards near their left shoulder. The cards will be signed by the worker, certifying that they have sworn to keep confidential all information they collect for the census.

"Any census worker who breaks this oath faces a fine, or imprisonment," Gordon said. "With it being comforting to know that never in the history of census taking has any enumerator violated this oath."

In addition to the identification cards, Gordon said, "all census takers will also be carrying large red, white and blue briefcases. I'm asking that everyone, especially in the evening, check persons knocking on your doors to see that they have the identification, card and briefcase and to please let the census takers in so that we can get our job done as quickly and efficiently as possible."

Gordon stressed that no one in this area is to mail their census forms after they are completed.

"In our case," she said, "the workers are to pick them up at private homes. In the event there is a problem about answers, the census takers will be able to assist in completing the form.

"It is essential that every questionnaire list all persons living in the household on that day. This includes anyone who has just moved in or a baby born that day. The mother and baby are to be listed, even if they are in the hospital."

Summer symphony hopes rising

The board of the Ruidoso Summer Festival Incorporated, (RSFI) has taken a giant step toward realizing their goal of bringing the Fort Worth Symphony Orchestra to Ruidoso for a series of concerts this summer.

Chairperson Ann Denton was scheduled to sign a contract this past weekend with the Fort Worth Symphony Orchestra which will provide for the performances, set for June 4-10.

Although the ultimate fund drive goal of $95,000 in cash and pledges has not yet been achieved, most board members expressed the opinion that with current and expected funds and the donation of a limited edition print by local artist Gordon Sndow, the goal will be met.

At an RSFI meeting Friday, the group voted to reproduce a watercolor painting, "Waiting for the General's Train," by another local artist, Gary Myers, for use as a window poster for the 1980 summer festival.

Myers was also assured that his work would be considered if the group elects to issue another limited edition print as part of the fund raising efforts next year.

Concert locations and prices are now being deliberated. Permission has been granted by Ruidoso-Sunland Incorporated, for the group to make use of the sales arena at Ruidoso Downs Race Track for three performances, at which guest artists will appear. The guest artists include Benny Goodman, Cho Liang Lin and Pepe Romero.

A special family concert, which the group hopes will be attended by area youth, has been set for June 9, at a location yet to be determined. Cost of that concert will be one dollar.

The RSFI board also discussed the mechanics of issuing and potential publicizing of the Sndow print with the artist and representative of Starline Printing of Albuquerque.

Sndow told the group that the painting, entitled "Eyelng the Catchhand," was receiving national publicity which should help their cause.

Recently, the painting has been featured on the covers of both Western Horseman and New West, and had received additional publicity in the Tulsa World and in a publication in Palm Beach, Florida. Promoters of the Phoenix Cowboy Artists Show are also publicizing the print, which took the gold medal at that show in 1979.

The group was also advised that about a half dozen national travel writers had been lined up for a visit to Ruidoso in April, and that housing for all had been donated by the Inn of the Mountain Gods and the Holiday Inn.

Easter fun at park set

The Easter hat contest for women is one of several activities being planned for an "afternoon in the park" to be held Easter Sunday at School House Park.

The program is sponsored by the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce Retail Merchants committee and will begin at 2 p.m., with a short religious service, conducted by members of the Ministerial Alliance.

Other activities, including judging of the Easter hats, games such as tug of war, races and egg throwing contests will highlight the afternoon.

A featured attraction will be music provided by a Dixieland Band, composed of local residents including Dick Shaw, LeRoy Gooch, Teddi Sullivan and Bob Clarke; and several from out of town.

Hugo Lowenstern of Amarillo, Texas, formerly a member of the Tommy Dorsey Band, Harry James Band and recording artist with the Boston Pops, will be among out-of-towners in the band.

Others include Mark Anthony, Lubbock, Texas who was a member of Charlie Spivak's band; Mike Francis Four, a jazz quartet from El Paso, Texas; Art Holt of Alamogordo, formerly with Glenn Grey, Clyde McCoy, Tommy Dorsey, Johnny Long and others; and possibly some musicians from Albuquerque.

The band is being co-sponsored by the Chamber and Best Bet Entertainment.

Band boosters will sell cold drinks and the Chamber will sell hot dogs, with trimmings, for 25c each.

Judging of Easter hats will take place during mid-afternoon with the following prizes to be awarded:

Most original — $50 gift certificate from Brunell's, first; $25 gift certificate from the Galleria, second; and $15 gift certificate from A Place In The Sun, third;

Funniest — AM/FM digital clock radio from Village Hardware, first; $15 gift certificate from The Looking Glass, second; $10 gift certificate from Gibson's, third.

The worst looking hat will earn its wearer a gag prize provided by Ruidoso Music.

Retail merchants are sponsoring the Easter egg hunt Saturday in Two Rivers park for children up to 10 years old. That event will begin at 10 a.m., and children will be divided into three age groups: 0-4; 5-7 and 8-10. Parents will be allowed to help children four and under hunt eggs.

More than 200 dozen real and plastic eggs are being hidden this year, in response to the "overwhelming success of last year's hunt," Richard Sandoval, merchants chairman, said.

He said four special prizes will be provided for children finding the most eggs and 100 plastic eggs will hold certificates redeemable for prizes at various retail shops in the village.

Distributive Education Clubs of America students from Ruidoso High School will assist merchants in hiding eggs and will hold back some eggs. "We want every child to leave with at least one egg. We will give them eggs if they don't find one," Sandoval said.

"We have planned both these activities for the local residents to have a chance to get together with their friends before the racing season and vacation time is upon us," Sandoval said.

Humphries State Fair manager

William (Bill) Humphries, former president of Security Bank of Ruidoso, formally assumes management of the New Mexico State Fair April 1, succeeding Finlay MacGillivray.

Humphries, a Rio Arriba County rancher, is only the fourth manager of "The Biggest Show In New Mexico" since it started 43 years ago. Besides MacGillivray, the other managers were Tex Barron and the late Leon Harms.

The 33-year-old Humphries has been learning the background and operation of the exposition from MacGillivray and fair staff members during the past month. He was named to the post by the State Fair Commission at its February 22 meeting. Humphries, a native of New Mexico, was born in Hot Springs (now Truth or Consequences) December 19, 1946. His father, the late W. A. Humphries, was a well-known New Mexico game warden for many years.

A 1964 graduate of Albuquerque's Valley High School, he attended Fort Lewis College in Durango, Colorado and graduated from New Mexico State University in Las Cruces with a bachelor of science degree.

Humphries, who currently is president of the board of regents of NMSU, was first named to that board in 1972. At the time, he was one of the youngest college regents in the country. He was elected secretary in 1975 and president in 1979.

He has been actively ranching at Lindrith for more than 10 years, and currently has a cow-calf operation, mostly of Herefords and cross-bred stock.

The six-foot, one inch, 190 pound manager is married to the former Carol Cutry of Albuquerque. The couple has two children, Heidi, 8, and Cheryl, 7.

Ski Report

Sierra Blanca: Five inches of new snow Friday brought the undisturbed snow depth up to 60 inches. Skiing conditions are rated excellent, with all trails open and all lifts operating. The resort will remain open until Easter Sunday, April 6.

Chamber's Coffee Cart Wednesday

The Wednesday Coffee Cart, sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce, will be at Merle Norman Cosmetics, Adobe Plaza, from 9-10:30 a.m.

The public is invited to all Coffee Carts, to meet Chamber officers and directors and discuss any possible projects the Chamber might undertake to promote tourism in this area.

NEW HORIZONS Developmental Center trainee Bill Gunter, second from right, Tuesday received the gift of a movie projector, which will be used for entertainment at the center, an on-the-job training facility for mentally handicapped adults. The projector was presented by his niece, Faye Tate, left and his sister, Beulah Reid, on behalf of the other family members, most of whom reside in the Albuquerque area. Shown with the family is New Horizons director Wayland Holbrook.

All census procedures protect right to privacy

The Census Bureau strictly adheres to Title 13, U. S. Code (the census law), which says that census information must be handled with absolute confidentiality. The following questions and answers highlight the Census Bureau's commitment to protect the public — all persons and business organizations whose names appear on census questionnaires — from unauthorized disclosure.

Q. Does the name and/or address of anyone on a Census Bureau questionnaire go into any government computer, including those of the Census Bureau?

A. No.

Q. Are Social Security numbers requested on decennial census questionnaires?

A. No.

Q. What guarantee does a person or business organization have that information provided to the Bureau, in censuses and surveys, is kept confidential?

A. According to Title 13, United States Code, information furnished to the Census Bureau can be used only for statistical purposes and cannot be published or released in any manner which could identify any person or business firm. This law prohibits access to individual census returns by anyone except sworn employees of the Census Bureau. The law calls for a prison term of five years and a fine of $5,000 for a violation of this secrecy provision by any census employee. Everyone who works for the Bureau, even temporarily, must take an oath not to disclose personal information and is subject to this law.

Q. Has there ever been a case proven where confidential information has been disclosed by a census employee against the law?

A. No. In fact, no employee has ever been formally charged with a violation of the law.

Q. How does the Census Bureau protect personal information collected in the Decennial Census of Population and Housing?

The original census forms are photographed on microfilm that is kept under strict security in protected buildings. The information can be retrieved only by authorized persons. The original forms are maintained under tight security, accessible only to sworn Census Bureau employees, until processing is complete. Then the forms are shredded, dissolved in acid, and recycled into pulp.

Q. How long is census information kept confidential?

A. For 72 years. Then the microfilmed census records are turned over to the National Archives for permanent storage. People interested in researching their family background often use these old census records.

Q. What kind of protection is given to confidential facts collected in the Bureau's other surveys such as the economic censuses which cover American business firms?

A. The census forms filled out during the economic censuses are kept under tight security. Only sworn Census Bureau employees have access to them.

Q. When results of an economic census are published, is it not possible to pinpoint a particular enterprise in a small area even without the name or address?

A. No. The computer is programmed not to produce statistics which might allow identification of a firm or corporation under such circumstances.

Q. Do other Federal agencies or courts have the legal power to obtain confidential information about individuals from the Census Bureau for purposes to taxation, investigations, prosecution, etc.?

A. No. The Federal law on confidentiality prohibits the Census Bureau from releasing personal information collected under census law to other Federal agencies for any purposes.

Q. If people want information about themselves — proof of age, for instance — can they look at their own past records?

A. Individuals may obtain facts reported about themselves in the population censuses from the microfilm records at the Bureau's facility in Pittsburg, Kansas. An individual must present proper identification and pay a small search fee. Anyone who falsifies a name to get information is subject to prosecution.

Q. Has census information always been treated as confidential?

A. No. From 1790 to 1870 there was no law about handling census information in a confidential way. The first such law took effect in 1880, and has been revised since then. It is stricter now than it has ever been.

Food services hearings to be held in Santa Fe

Two public hearings on food services have been scheduled by the state Environmental Improvement Division. The first of these hearings will concern proposed Grade A milk regulations, and will be held at the PERA building auditorium in Santa Fe at 10:30 a.m., April 29. The PERA building is located on Paseo de Peralta across from the state capitol. Copies of the proposed regulations, which will supercede the present regulations governing the grading and grade labeling of milk and milk products, are available at the local EID office, Four Seasons Mall, Ruidoso.

The proposed regulations differ from existing milk regulations as follows:

— Milk and milk products sold at retail must be Grade A.

— All new dairy construction must meet Grade A standards.

— The definition of "milk products" includes yogurt and sterilized milk.

— Fluid containers must be such that they cannot be opened without detection.

— Interpretation of requirements will be in accordance with 1978 recommendations of the United States Public Health Service, Food and Drug Administration.

— Sections have been rewritten and new sections added to clarify procedures for permit applications, variances, hearings and enforcement actions.

The second hearing was scheduled to allow the EID to receive comments regarding proposed changes in regulations governing food protection in food service establishments.

That hearing has been scheduled for 10 a.m., Tuesday, May 27 also at the PERA building auditorium, Santa Fe. According to the EID, the proposed changes are designed:

— To be compatible with the New Mexico Food Service Sanitation Act adopted in 1977.

— To abolish the existing "A, B, C" grading system for food service establishments and replace it with a two-grade system — "Approved" or "Unsatisfactory."

— To emphasize important food protection aspects.

A variance section has been added to the proposed regulations for handling new and innovative technological advances as well as for requirements which pose an unreasonable economic burden to a food service operation. It must be shown that the granting of a variance will not result in adverse health or safety factors, an EID spokesman said.

Interested citizens, particularly affected milk and food service personnel, are being encouraged by EID to obtain a copy of the proposed regulations and to attend the hearings.

Persons who are unable to attend may send their comments to the Food Quality Management Section, New Mexico Environmental Improvement Division, P. O. Box 968, Santa Fe, New Mexico, 87503.

Karn elected president of RCC council

The Community Advisory Council, formed to evaluate programs at the Ruidoso Care Center (RCC), Thursday elected Bill Karn as council president.

Other council members include Narcissus Gayton, Guy Bowers, Frank Sayner, Joe Skeen, Eleanor Shockey, Wilton Howell, Romeo Klein and Debbie Garcia and Ulysses S. Jolsanny.

RCC administrator Ivan Westergaard, social care director Thomasine Pounds and Lorraine Sanchez, health services director, will sit on the committee as ex-officio members.

Westergaard said the center "is not a hospital. We are working with people who may spend the rest of their lives here, so we are looking at the total life of these people."

He said that while RCC is required to maintain very specific standards as defined by the federal government, the staff has the freedom to establish "a more expanded concept. We are trying to develop a plan of care so the resident will function at the best level possible."

Westergaard said the residents at RCC have basically the same goals as all members of the community — maintaining a quality life, serving others, and raising families in some cases.

"They've got lots of history to their lives. They have a lot of information to give us if we'll give many of them the chance," Westergaard said, adding that most RCC residents are 80 years or older.

One of the more successful programs instituted at RCC is reality orientation which is an exercise that "attempts to get them to relearn something that's already there," Westergaard said. "For people who, because of certain changes in their lives, have forgotten things we all take for granted this program was developed."

Reality orientation reviews things such as the day of the week and the next holiday or residents may discuss the composition of a painting. "It's all done in a very positive fashion. The idea is to get them to come back to reality somewhat," Westergaard said the concept, which has been studied over a 15-year period, was found to be very effective.

Staff members sought ideas from the council to develop other programs which residents may enjoy, including all performing arts, which add variety to their days.

Westergaard also said the staff is "anxious to know what the community thinks about the center. We'd like to use you as a means of obtaining feedback from the village."

He added that policies for the center are now being written and requested as much community input as possible. "All policy has to be approved by our corporation (Morningside Care, Incorporated) but they've been very flexible so far," he said. The council will meet every third Thursday at 8:30 p.m., at the center.

ROBERT DOUGHTY

Doughty is candidate for district judge

Robert M. Doughty II, Alamogordo, has announced he is a candidate for District Judge, Twelfth Judicial District, serving Lincoln and Otero counties, on the Democratic ballot in the June 3 primary election.

Doughty is an incumbent, having been appointed judge by Governor Bruce King February 23, 1960, to fill a vacancy.

He holds a Juris Doctor degree from the University of New Mexico School of Law in May of 1973, practiced law in Alamogordo until being appointed District Attorney, was reelected to a four year term in 1978 and served until being appointed District Judge. He is a graduate of the National College of District Attorneys and completed the General Jurisdiction Session of the National Judicial College, the University of Nevada at Reno.

Judge Doughty is a member of Grace United Methodist Church in Alamogordo, secretary of the Alamogordo Chapter of the Full Gospel Businessmen's Fellowship International, past president and a member of Alamogordo's Rotary Club and a member of Otero Young Democrats.

He lives in Alamogordo with his wife, Tommie, and sons Rob, 8 and Matt, 5.

"I pledge to continue a fair, impartial and efficient administration of justice," he said.

Steve Sanders announces as DA candidate

Steve Sanders, Alamogordo city attorney since 1975, has announced he is a candidate for District Attorney, 12th Judicial District, serving Lincoln and Otero counties, on the Democratic ticket in the June 3 primary election.

Sanders, a 1967 honor graduate of Alamogordo High School, graduated Cum Laude from the University of New Mexico School of Law in 1974, and was elected to the Order of the Coif, the single highest award granted to a member of his class. While in law school he was editor-in-chief of The New Mexico Law Review, The Natural Resources Journal and the New Mexico Legislative Review. He is serving as president of the Otero County Bar Association.

"The people of Lincoln and Otero counties are willing to support good law enforcement," Sanders said. "What we need is a tough, hard working DA, and I am the man for the job."

STEVE SANDERS

J. Thompson candidate for probate judge

John W. Thompson, Ruidoso, has announced he is a candidate for Lincoln County probate judge, on the Democratic ticket, in the June 3 primary election.

Thompson, who served as Lincoln County probate judge from 1975-1978, was the Ruidoso village attorney for 20 years, and engaged in private practice in the county the past 21 years. He also served as District Attorney in the Fifth Judicial District serving Otero and Lincoln counties.

He was an engineering student at the New Mexico School of Mines, Socorro, then graduated from the University of New Mexico School of Law in 1950.

Elks holding installation Saturday eve

Officers of the Ruidoso Elks Lodge will be installed Saturday, with ceremonies beginning at 7:30 p.m., in the lodge on Highway 70.

"The installation is open to all Elks and their ladies," Exalted Ruler Bill Budens said, "and this includes all Elks who belong to other lodges that will be in Ruidoso Saturday evening."

Driver slams sheriff's, privately owned, cars

Two Lincoln County sheriff's vehicles and two privately owned cars were extensively damaged early Thursday evening when a 1960 Datsun, driven by Second Lieutenant Craig A. Essick, 22, United States Armed Forces, El Paso, Texas ran off Highway 37, north, and crashed into the parked cars.

The Ruidoso Police Department's report of the accident stated the apparent contributing factor was Essick's car was traveling at excessive speed. He lost control, over corrected, ran off the roadway, left 195 feet of skid marks to the point of impact with the first vehicle. Estimated damage to the four parked vehicles was over $10,000.

Essick, uninjured in the crash, was cited for careless driving.

Two passengers in the Essick car,

New bridge to be built south of Bent

The Federal Highway Administration (FHWA) has given environmental clearance for state Highway Department plans to replace a bridge across Tularosa Creek south of the community of Bent in Otero County.

Plans call for the construction of the new bridge on a county road just downstream from the present structure. A small amount of new right of way will be acquired for the bridge and approaches. The old structure will be dismantled after the new bridge is built.

The Highway Department conducted an environmental assessment of the project and determined that the work would have no significant environmental impact on the area.

A copy of the environmental assessment is available at the road agency's general office in Santa Fe. Any questions about the document should be addressed to Bill Taylor, in the department's environmental unit. He can be contacted through the toll-free "Highway Hot Line" 1-800-432-4269.

Because of the "no significant impact determination," the FHWA has agreed that no public hearings or additional environmental studies will be required for the project.

The project is scheduled to be let to bid at the Highway Department's September 19 bid letting. The engineer's estimate of the project cost is $257,000.

NO INJURIES WERE SUSTAINED by Second Lieutenant Craig Essick, 22, when the car he was driving slammed into two Lincoln County sheriff's parked cars, and two privately owned cars, early Thursday evening. Two passengers in the car were treated at Ruidoso Hondo Valley Hospital and released. Damage to the four cars, involved in the domino-effect crash, was pegged by a Ruidoso police patrolman at over $10,000. —(Ruidoso Police photo)

Woman's Club founder recalls 'the old days'

BY CHARLOTTE FELLERS
Staff Writer/Photographer

Edith Rigby, one of the founders of the Ruidoso Woman's Club and the now defunct Women's Chamber of Commerce, was honored at a luncheon by fellow Woman's Club members Tuesday at Ruidoso Care Center.

Rigby was president of the local Woman's Club from 1932-1935; 1938-1939 and from 1941-1942. She is a charter member of the Woman's Club and although no longer active, Rigby said she feels the present day organization "does lots of good things."

Attending the luncheon were Rigby's roommate at the Center, Mrs. Ora Britton; and the following past presidents of the Club: Della Wingfield Hale - 1940-41; Mrs. Ike Kennedy - 1953-54; Mrs. Melvin Knox - 1956-58; Mrs. John Sigler - 1958-60; Mrs. R. K. Knox - 1960-62; Mrs. Ellen Sanchez - 1964-66; and Mrs. L. C. Crews - 1966-68.

Other members of the Woman's Club present included Emadair Jones, Jo Leland, Marie Erickson, Nell Parks, Exa White, Peggy Nobles and Helen Montgomery.

Rigby was born in the Hondo Valley, a daughter of the well-known Frank Coe family. She and her husband Robert L. Boyce, moved to the V Pitchfork V ranch outside of Ruidoso in 1918 and kept horses. Rigby said that ranch is now Cree Meadows Country Club.

In starting the Woman's Club, the first civic organization ever formed in the village, Rigby said she did it because there was little else going on at the time. She said meetings were held monthly at the Navajo Lodge, which Rigby's family built in the early 1920's. The first meeting was in 1925, with about 20 charter members present.

One of their first projects, Rigby said, was to "clean things up — like the streets and the river. There were quite a few visitors coming in the summer then ... some Roswell people built houses in the Upper Canyon, next to the reservation line," she said.

One major function the Woman's Club had, according to Rigby, was a huge convention at "the Lodge." She said about 250 women attended, and since Ruidoso was so small then, only "the big-wigs" got to stay at Navajo Lodge, which had only a few rooms.

"They had barbeques at the Bonnell Ranch in the Hondo Valley for that convention ... boy, was it a big deal," she said.

The Woman's Club also sponsored the local Girl Scout troop, which regularly gave programs to the organization. Rigby said the Club, in turn, bought pots and pans for the troop to use when camping.

"It was a social club, too. We played cards and had tea parties and things like that," she said.

Just as today, the first members of the Woman's Club sponsored many fund raising activities which would benefit the good causes of the period. Rigby has recollections of those fund raisers:

"We got an Indian from Mesalero to come and dance ... well, when you had something, everybody in town came to it. When that Indian saw how many people came, he said he wouldn't dance unless he got paid more money."

"... So I went to the safe and got him some change, I suppose a dollar's worth or so. He danced and danced and danced. I thought he'd never stop — I went and got another dollar and paid him that to stop dancing," she said.

"Another time, I had an Uncle George Coe who fought in the Lincoln County Wars ... he ran with Billy the Kid and had a finger shot off in the war. I finally got him up here to speak to the Woman's Club, but it's funny to me looking back ...

"Uncle George had recently gone to Chicago to see a doctor who was an old friend of his ... this doctor gave parties and everything else for Uncle George ... well, when he came to the Woman's Club to speak, all he could talk about was that trip to Chicago ...

"He never did tell us about the Lincoln County War," she said. She added that "Uncle George" later published a book about the Lincoln County Wars which is no longer in print. She still owns a copy of the book, and said it "was a very good account of the Wars."

The Woman's Club regularly sponsored dances, barbeques or "just about anything where you could get a contribution ... but they (performers) didn't do it for nothing ..."

It was some time later that the present Woman's Club building was acquired. Before being purchased by the Club, the building housed an insurance agency. Rigby said it wasn't as nice then. "That place was cold and not nearly as attractive as it is now," she said.

As a founder of the Women's Chamber of Commerce, Rigby worked closely with several other women to develop an effective garbage collection system for the growing village.

"The men didn't do a darn thing up there, so we went ahead and did it ourselves," Rigby said. She said the Chamber was responsible for having the road paved which leads to the reservation line.

"I got on my horse and visited every cabin on that river to get donations. We got money from all of them and paved the road that way," she said.

Rigby said the garbage collection project wasn't as simple. "We paid a guy $150 a month to collect garbage and fees and that was a big job," she said.

Rigby said she enjoys Ruidoso and likes the way it has developed over the years but added, "It wouldn't help me any for it to be bigger ... we had something that will never happen again," she said.

Patrick French named delegate to Boys' State

Cadet Corporal Patrick K. French of Ruidoso will finish his fourth class (high school junior) year by being selected as one of New Mexico Military Institute's five primary candidates to attend the 1980 New Mexico Boys' State sponsored annually by the American Legion to be held at NMMI the first week of June.

Cadet French, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley J. French of Ruidoso, was selected as a candidate because he met the academic and citizenship requirements set up by both the American Legion and the Institute.

On the Commandant's List, Patrick is in his second year at NMMI.

Cinderella contest open to Lincoln County girls

The search for the modern day Cinderella in Lincoln County has begun, according to local coordinator Diana Hankins.

Hankins said the annual Cinderella Girl Pageant will be May 2 and 3 in Ruidoso at a place to be announced. Assisting with this year's staging will be the Lea County Pageant staff, composed of a volunteer service group that has experience through four years' staging the large Lea County Cinderella Girl Pageant.

The Lea County staff will be assisted by citizens interested in developing a good youth program in this area.

The entry fee for all young ladies is $20, which will cover costs of modeling lessons and stage presentation instructions prior to the pageant. The fee also helps defray costs of trophies, crowns and banners. Hankins said each first and second alternate and talent winners receive official trophies and banners and crowns will be awarded to winners in each age group.

"The main purpose of the pageant is to teach the entrants that if you do your best, you are always a winner," Hankins said. "The program stresses participation, fellowship and good sportsmanship more than winning."

The age group divisions and requirements for each are listed below: Cinderella Tots - Three to six year olds will compete in a street length party dress, sportswear and a close-up appraisal of each contestant.

Miniature Mill Cinderella - Seven to nine year olds will compete in street length party dress, sportswear, close-up appraisal and three-minute talent competition.

Miss Cinderella - Ten to 12 year olds will compete with same requirements as Miniature Miss.

Cinderella Teen - For girls 13 to 17 years old who will compete in evening gown, sportswear, commentary of a few sentences and talent.

Hankins said sportswear can include slacks, shorts, casual wear, such as a tennis dress, or other casual dresses. No swimsuits may be used as sportswear.

"Talent may be anything that shows a participant's poise before an audience, such as pantomime, skits, poetry, dramatics, singing, dancing, music or twirling," Hankins said. No talent numbers can exceed three minutes.

Entry blanks and more information can be obtained at Tots and Teens on Sudderth in Ruidoso, or by calling Hankins at 257-4819.

Cancer drive dates set

The East Lincoln Chapter of the American Cancer Society (ELACS) Thursday set May 15 to June 19 as dates for their annual cancer crusade.

Crusade chairman Ken Moore, administrator of Ruidoso Hondo Valley Hospital, said this year's goal is $2,645 and will be met through contributions, attendance at a barbeque and dance and a longest day of golf tournament at two local courses.

Bob Livingston announced the Cree Meadows Country Club and Alto Country Club have agreed to host an all-day golf tournament June 19 for the ELACS. He said he hopes to get local businesspeople to volunteer to participate and solicit pledges for the tournament.

A barbeque and dance will be held May 24 at the All American Sales Barn at Ruidoso Downs Race Track. Clay Mac band will provide music and the Ruidoso Jaycees will prepare the barbeque. Wilton Howell, co-chairman of the crusade, said tickets for pre-sale will be available in about two weeks at the Ruidoso Care Center. Tickets will cost $5 per person for the barbeque and dance.

Bill Karn said he is trying to arrange for cast members of the television series "Dallas" to make promotion tapes for the radio in support of the Ruidoso crusade. Moore and Howell will also cut some promotional spots to be used at KRRR.

The group voted to send a letter of thanks to the staff of the hospital for successfully maintaining the cancer screening clinic, which has been cited as one of the best in the state of New Mexico.

The next regular ELACS meeting will be May 17 at K-Bobs.

Explanations on Medicare set for tonight

A Medicare question and answer session will be held tonight beginning at 7 in the multi-purpose room of the Ruidoso Public Library.

Present will be Gordon Lundsford, Social Security representative of Roswell, who will explain Medicare benefits. Also attending will be Louise Hanson, who will review the coordinator's job as it relates to Medicare.

"We really want this information to get out, and we urge anyone who may have questions to attend this meeting," Hanson said.

Rad/Furth vows to be repeated Wednesday eve

Shirley L. Rad and James M. Furth, both residents of Ruidoso, will be married at 7 p.m., Wednesday at the First Christian Church. The Reverend Ken Cole will officiate and music will be provided by N. C. "Butch" Grantham.

Out of town guests will include Mr. and Mrs. John V. Furth of San Diego, California and June Woodward of Hobbs.

All friends of the couple, and of their children, are invited to attend.

Churches set Holy Week services

Four local churches will sponsor special services in observance of Holy Week.

The Episcopal Church of the Holy Mount will hold services Thursday, Friday and Sunday, according to Father Delbert Achuff, who will officiate.

At 7 p.m., Maundy Thursday, a Passover seder will be held. Achuff said the seder is a ceremonial meal to commemorate the Passover. Following the seder will be a ceremony by the youngest child in the gathering to learn of the story of Easter. A processional into the church for the Mass will follow.

Good Friday services will be held at Church of the Holy Mount beginning at noon with the Liturgy of Good Friday. From 1 to 3 p.m., the way of the Cross will be the service.

Easter Sunday services will begin at 5 a.m., with the great vigil, which will include lighting of the paschal (Passover) candle and striking a new fire. The worshippers will then proceed into the church for readings of the five mighty acts of God. A breakfast will follow the service.

A late sunrise service will begin at 6:45 a.m., at the Inn of the Mountain Gods. Early Easter services will be at 8 a.m., at the Church of the Holy Mount and 9 a.m., at Saint Anne's Chapel in the Hondo Valley. Regular services will begin at the Church of the Holy Mount at 10:30 a.m.

The First Christian Church will hold a Maundy Thursday communion service beginning at 7 p.m., in the church sanctuary.

Saturday, the church will sponsor a trip to Three Rivers with a hike through the Stations of the Cross to allow people to relive Holy Week and prepare for the Easter victory.

An Easter sunrise service will begin at 5:30 a.m., in the church's sanctuary, followed by a social hour with coffee and doughnuts provided by the church.

Regular Sunday worship services will follow at 10:45 a.m., in the sanctuary. The Reverend Ken Cole will officiate.

Saint Eleanor's Catholic Church began Holy Week Sunday with distribution of palms at regular services. Tuesday evening, Penitential Services will be held in Saint Jude's Chapel in the Hondo Valley beginning at 7:30. An identical Mass will take place at Saint Eleanor's in Ruidoso Wednesday at 7:30 p.m.

The Mass of the Last Supper will be held at 7:30 p.m., Holy Thursday and Good Friday services will be at noon, both at Saint Eleanor's.

The Easter Vigil with blessings of Easter water, Easter fire and baptismal water will begin at 8 p.m., Saturday, also at Saint Eleanor's.

Easter Sunday services will begin at 8:30 a.m., at Saint Jude's Chapel in the Hondo Valley and regular services in Ruidoso will include Mass at 10 a.m., at Saint Eleanor's. Father Bernard Loughrey will officiate at all Catholic services.

The Community United Methodist Church will hold noon church services every day through Friday with The Reverend Peter Church officiating.

Church is a minister from El Paso, Texas and will begin all noon worship services at 12:05 and end at 12:35. All will feature special music. Church will also lead Bible study classes every evening this week except Thursday, beginning at 5:30 p.m.

Thursday, Church will lead holy communion services beginning at 7 p.m., for the entire community.

NMSU offering high school juniors summer science class

High school juniors interested in the sciences are invited to apply for a three-week summer science training program in chemistry at New Mexico State University (NMSU).

Sponsored by the State of New Mexico and the New Mexico Academy of Sciences, two sessions of the program "A Chemist View of Energy and Industrial Processes" will be offered at NMSU June 9-27 and July 7-25. Twenty-eight students will be selected to participate in each session.

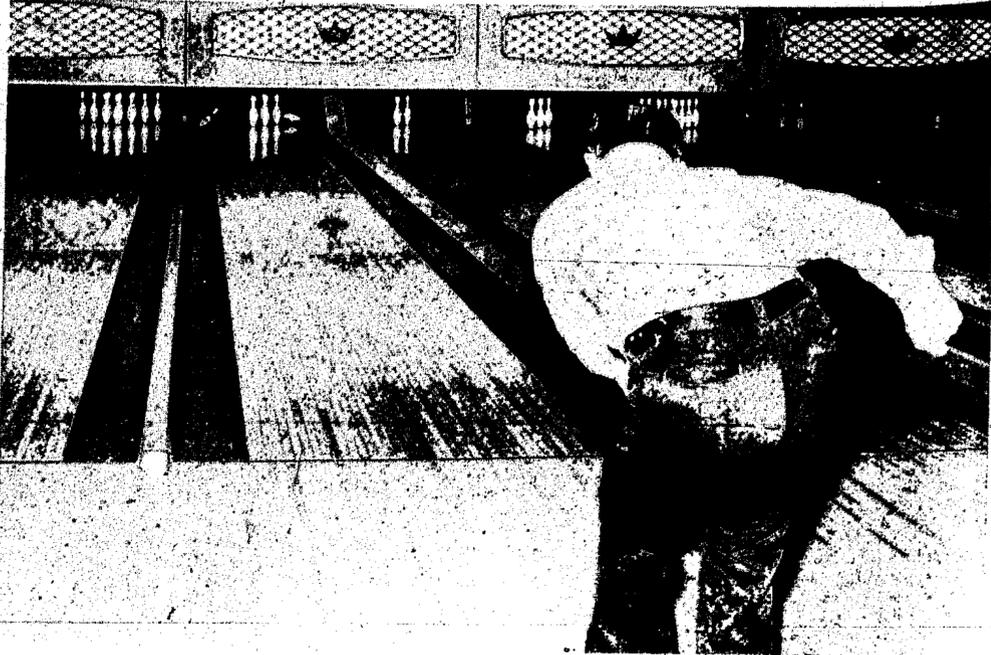

Meals, housing, instructional expenses and possible travel expenses will be paid by the state. Participants will pay a $15 fee to cover social events.

The program is aimed at showing participants how their lives are affected, both positively and negatively, by industrial processes and energy use. Students will learn to assess the advantages and disadvantages an industrial plant can bring to a community. Through lectures, laboratory work and field trips students will learn the physical and chemical processes that permit recovery of copper from ore.

Limited to students who will be senior in the fall 1980 semester, participants will be selected from as many counties as possible and no more than five will be accepted from any one county. Selection will be based on grades—B average or better—and recommendation letters from high school teachers. Applicants must have demonstrated interest and ability in mathematics and the sciences, but credit for a previous chemistry course is not required.

According to the NMSU program's director Gordon J. Ewing, preference will be given students who have had limited opportunities in the sciences. Program administrators are particularly seeking students from small schools.

Further information and application forms are available from Dr. Gordon J. Ewing, Chemistry Department, NMSU, Las Cruces, New Mexico 88003.

Handicapped adults do well on bowling lanes

BY GWYNETH JONES
Staff Writer/Photographer

Students at the New Horizons Development Center, a facility which provides for job and social training of mentally handicapped adults, are enjoying their own Tuesday afternoon bowling program.

Each week, the students are transported to the Carrizozo Recreation Center's bowling alley — which opens early to accommodate them — by New Horizons staff members Gail Stackpole, Paul Morales and Belinda Hernandez. Games are financed through the center's general funds.

The bowling program, which was begun last fall, "helps their coordination and self-confidence," Stackpole said. "And they're having fun at the same time."

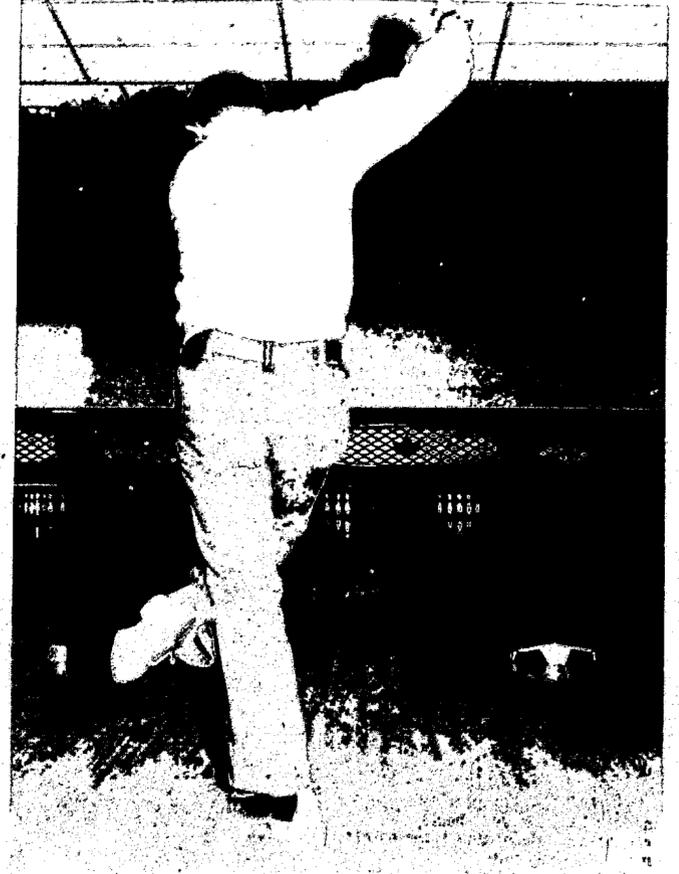

"The bowling is mostly for fun," she explained. "It's not heavy instruction." The students are grouped into four teams composed of four to six students and two staff members, on a rotating basis. The sessions last about 90 minutes.

In addition to the bowling program, the students attend dances, view movies and eat out in local restaurants weekly to aid in the overall physical and social training. The staff hopes to add swimming to the routine this summer.

The scores are posted on a door at the center, allowing the students and staff to keep track of their progress.

Another result of the athletic program has been a sort of social bonding among the students. When any student or staff member gets up to take a turn, the rest of the group "really cheer them on," said Stackpole.

THE FORM MAY NOT be professional, but these New Horizons students probably get more enjoyment from the game than most league players.

THE SIXTY-FIRST ANNIVERSARY of the founding of the American Legion was observed by Robert J. Hagee Post No. 79 and the Auxillary at a birthday party Wednesday at the American Legion Hall. Displaying the birthday cake is Post Commander Rick Simpson.

Health group meets tonight in Capitan

Warrior thinclads place third in Deming meet

Both the girls' and boys' Warrior track teams finished third in their first showing of 1980 at Saturday's track meet in Deming, and coaches Darrel Stierwalt and Sergio Castanon were pleased with the results.

"We went in," girls' coach Castanon said, "and the other schools didn't think we would do very good. But they're going to have a hard time ignoring us."

"We're pleased," is how Stierwalt describes his feelings on the matter.

"We got some times, and finally got to run on a real track," he said, although that means more headaches for the coach. After several weeks of converting yards to meters, the Deming meet was run on a 440 yard track.

"So now I have to go through and add or subtract times to get metric times," Stierwalt said, with a groan. "But other than that, there weren't any real surprises. We did about like we expected to."

The Warriors claimed only one first place, that coming in the mile run by Joe Almager with a time of 4:45.

Cody Browning took second in the javelin with a 145 foot, three inch toss, and Godfrey Enjady claimed a second in the shotput with a 38 foot, nine and three quarter inch throw. "That's almost pathetic," Stierwalt said. "I don't know what the deal was, but nobody was throwing well." The winning throw was under 41 feet, he said.

The most surprising finish of the day was a second place the mile medley relay team captured. The reason it was surprising? About a half hour before the race, there was no mile medley relay team.

The squad of Drew Cardwell, Peter Batton, Danny Hoffer and Almager, assembled at the last minute, finished with a 4:05 time, and, if the race had been a 100 yards longer, "we'd have won it," Stierwalt said.

Third places were won by Robert Green in the discus, with a 119 foot, two and three quarter inch toss, and by the mile relay team of Steve Pletsch, Russ Pior, Ricky Dennis and Steve Benway, with a time of 3:56.4.

The Warriors also won several fourth places; the 880 yard relay team of Pior, Pletsch, Dennis and Scott Neal had a 1:42.6 time for fourth place in that event; Jay Raulerson was the fourth best shotputter with a 37 foot, three and three quarter inch throw; Neal was fourth in the 180 yard low hurdles with a 23.2 second time; and 440 yard relay team of Benway, Pletsch, Dennis and Neal was fourth with a 48.5 time; and Craig Sullivan was fourth in the two mile run with an 11:45 time. Ruidoso's top two miler, Elroy Duffey, was involved in a track accident and did not finish.

"He collided with a kid from Cobre," Stierwalt said. "The other kid said Elroy cut in front of him, and Elroy said the guy tripped him. He got banged up a little bit, but he's okay."

Ruidoso also brought home two fifth places, one in the 100 yard dash on an 11 second sprint by Neal, and on a 38 foot, 10 and seven-eighths inch shotput throw by Rusty Hamilton.

"The weather was pretty good," Stierwalt said, "although when we left here, I wasn't sure about how good it would be."

"We saw what we need to work on. Our relay teams had some really sloppy handoffs and that might've cost us a place or two on those. I'd say we pretty much know everything we need to work on now."

The Warriors finished third behind Deming and Cobre, scoring 44 points to Deming's 121½ and Cobre's 118½. Right behind Ruidoso were T or C with 34, and the Cobre junior varsity with four.

In girls' competition, the lady Warriors won four first places, one second, three thirds, four fourths and two-fifths for 58 points, 45 points behind the winner, Cobre. But coach Castanon was happy, with reservations.

"It was definitely one of the best track performances we've had since I've been here," he said. "I'm real glad we did as well as we did, but there's still room for improvement."

First places were won by Sheri Dennis in the 100 yard dash with an 11.95 second time; by Ruta Bob in the mile, with a 6:21 finish; by Tammy McCulley in discus, with a heave of 84 feet, seven and one half inches; and by the mile relay team of Jaylene Adakai, Teresa Jameson, Gleda Bob and Jenny Delhotal, with a 4:53 time.

Gleda Bob took the only second place the lady Warriors won, with a 2:45 time in the 880 yard run.

Third places were won by Dennis in the broadjump, with a leap of 13 feet, eight inches ("pretty good, considering it's the first time she's ever done it," Castanon said); by Delhotal in the 440 with a 72 second run; and by the 880 yard relay team of Lisa Shaw, Dennis, Adakai and Delhotal, which had a 2:04 time.

Fourth places were taken by Dennis in the 220 yard dash, with a 28.75 time; by Tricia Evans in the 80 yard low hurdles, with a 14.71 time; by the 440 yard relay team of Shaw, Adakai, Delhotal and Dennis; and by the 880 medley relay team of Shaw, Evans, Adakai and Ruta Bob, with a 2:21 time.

Lastly, Jameson and Shaw took fifth places, with Jameson running a 2:59 880, and Shaw throwing the discus 74 feet, eight and one half inches.

"We need to work on everything," Castanon said. "We'll probably stick with our relay teams for another week or two and see how they do."

"I'm not sure if they're fast enough to really compete, and we may wind up breaking them up and competing individually."

"But we got us a team, a good team." Both squads travel to Hagerman this Saturday for the "Alfalfa Relay."

Warrior golf scramble called 'success'

The team of George McGill, Kyle Kannady, John Howden, Sid Miller and John Massey won Sunday's Ruidoso Warrior Golf Scramble at Cree Meadows Country Club with a 10 under par 61.

Ninety six golfers participated in the 18 hole scramble, generally in groups of five. The event was held to raise money for the Ruidoso Warrior golf team, and Cree Meadows pro Bob Hickson estimated around $700 was raised as a result.

"That should get the team through the season without any trouble," he said.

Team coach Leroy Gooch was immensely pleased with the turnout.

"We had planned on just 60 golfers playing with us," he said, but interest was so great the event was expanded to accommodate the extra players.

"We were lucky to have great weather, and everybody had a great day," Gooch said. "It was a great day."

The field was tight, and 15 teams broke par. After the winning team, Kent Battey, Tracy Gann, George Shoemaker, James Beall and Ralph Rush were second with a 62.

Gooch, Bill Uihlein, Wayne Sivage, Tommy Reynolds and Paul Dacey were third with a 63.

Other teams and their scores: 64, Gayle Russel, Mike Atwood, Don Dale Sr., Virgil Reynolds and Shirley Cliff; 65 (two teams), Gene Barteet, Paul Kirkwood, Jim Baker, Bobby Bales and Homer Gallado; George Mize, Todd Perteet, Charley Denton, Roger Marshall and Wayne McGuffin.

Sixty six, Bill Hirschfeld, Gary Gregson, Ed Roberts, Dan Brown and Fran Russell; 67 (four teams), Tom Hornbuckle, Sam Plerelli, Elmer Pirelli, G. Jhalquist and Scott Neal; Patric Pearson, Brad Maddox, Alicia Pirelli, Billy Taylor, Wayne Dacey, Daniel Cortez; Doug Siddens, Daron Smith, Lee Ware and Dub Holt; Buzz Browning, Mike Dale, Richard Hall, Bill Budens and Lee Morel.

Sixty eight, Floyd Covell, Virgil Reynolds Jr., Harry Ray, Don Weems and Russ Veronda; 69, (two teams) Tom Battey, Mark Delhotal, Frank Able, Denny Loverin, and Victor Jaramillo Jr.; Bill Morrison, Don Dale Jr., Jim Lowrance, and Gary James.

Seventy three, Dale Wynn, Don Nunley, and Frank Sanyer; 74 Ken Mears, Rochelle Hornbuckle, Bob Clarke and Dorothy Dale.

Sid Miller Jr. The quintet hit a 10 under par 61 in the Sunday event, played at Cree Meadows Country Club.

Short game hurting Warrior linksters

Ruidoso's Warrior golfers, earlier plagued by poor drives, now seem to have that problem licked. But there's always something.

"It's our short game that's tearing us up," coach Leroy Gooch said. His squad finished seventh in a field of eight at a tournament in Deming Saturday. The Warriors collectively shot 366, 67 strokes off Deming's winning 299.

"We had super weather," Gooch said, "and we hit the ball a lot better, but now our short game is tearing us up."

To correct that problem, he said, the Warriors will now start working on their short game. "We're going to work on everything," he said, "but our short game in particular."

Individually, Paul Kirkwood had the best day, with an 85, followed by Randy Wynn with a 92, Mike Dale with a 94, Don Dale with a 95, and Don Nunley with a 102.

The Warriors are 0-3 on the year, but get a chance at their first win Tuesday at New Mexico Military Institute in Roswell.

Sportin' Life

... a column of opinion ...

by

Mark Bagby

Had a good time at the Warrior golf scramble Sunday. And, judging from the looks of things, I wasn't the only one enjoying myself.

Despite hearing stories of aching feet and general fatigue ("I'm so tired I don't think I can even lift a glass," I heard someone say, "but I'm sure going to try"), I'd have to say the 125 people present had a good time.

Even Wilton Howell. Wilton, otherwise known as "Stubby," had the bad luck to be down the fairway when Tommy Perteet teed off (Wilton's cart was hidden behind a small juniper tree, or bush or whatever). Anyway, Tommy said, he was shooting for the hook and didn't get it. And it was then the ball from his Gerald Ford swing named Stubby right on the noggin.

Fortunately the projectile hit the cart first (instead of a direct hit) and ricocheted into Wilton's forehead, and he tumbled out of the cart. Perteet said later, "Man, I thought I'd killed him."

But such was not the case. He was generally unhurt, although he had a nice goose egg after it was all over.

"I was seeing stars," he said. "Good thing it hit me in the head, though. Anywhere else it might've killed me."

Uh, yeah, whatever you say, Stubby. Anyhoo, most folks had a pretty good time. Excellent cooking service was provided afterwards by Dale Wynn and Doyle Howell, with an assist from Leroy Gooch, who all proved their prowess on a hamburger grill.

I asked Doyle how he got the job of cooking. He replied, "Well, everyone gets a chance at revenge. I guess this is my chance."

I survived his hamburgers, which were pretty good — they all got eaten, which I guess is the final criteria of success, huh? Don Dale, Gooch and Bob Hickson all told me the golf team — which sort of sponsored the 18 hole event — will probably earn about $700 from the whole thing, which is no small potatoes. And they're already planning next year's, and they hope to turn it into an annual event.

All in all, I'd say it was one of the more successful sporting events I've seen in some time, and I think congratulations and thanks are in order to everybody connected with the event.

Special recognition should be given to Homer Gallado and Daniel Cortez, both of whom came up from Juarez, Mexico to golf in the event. How's that for support?

It's almost time

Don't forget, gang, you have to have a 1980 license to go fishing at Bonito Tuesday morning. (Lord, I still can't believe I'm getting up so early to go, but that's the breaks. That's what I get for going with a fishing fanatic.)

Licenses should be available by now at local vendors, and while you're there, pickup a copy of the revised 1980 hunting and fishing rules. Might keep you out of potential trouble.

Incredible but true department

Well, here we are, right in the middle of track and golf — with baseball and tennis going on elsewhere — and the Ruidoso Warriors will start spring football April 14.

You might see a few changes in the Warriors next fall, if changes made this spring work out. They'll probably throw more, and the wishbone offense is due some revamping.

"We got a new sweep that'll kill people," Darrel Stierwalt told me, with an evil glint in his eye. "If we get any kind of blocking, man, watch out."

I can already see the thundering herd. And I can hardly wait until September.

Joggers beware! Running is addictive

[Note: this is the second part of a two part series on running for fitness and fun. The first part, published in Monday's issue, covered the basics of running such as equipment, etc. This part deals with the actual run itself.]

BY MARK BAGBY
Sports Editor

Like the old Chinese philosopher said, "The journey of a thousand miles begins with a single step."

And that's the way runners — beginning runners especially — must start too.

Start slowly. Don't hurry, you must relax. Your body is probably using muscles it's unaccustomed to using, and chances are you won't be able to run very far non-stop. A quarter mile is just fine. (Any distance is fine. In the beginning, all runners are created equal.)

Don't push it, unless you're in good shape — and I mean GOOD shape, which is a heart rate of less than 60 or so — don't overexert yourself.

You'll probably perspire, which is good. That is the body's cooling mechanism, which means you're doing yourself some good.

The most important thing to remember about the first day is, it's easy. It's the second day that'll kill you.

You'll be sore the second day. That's good, because it means you used your muscles, letting them do what they're designed for. And, oddly enough, the cure for those aching muscles is to do the same thing again — go run.

Now it will be harder, especially at first. Try to cover the same distance again. By the time you've finished, you won't be as sore. (If you have to stop and walk, do so. There's no rule against it.)

You can reduce soreness by doing your warmups both before and after the run, by the way, and you help remove metabolized wastes if you do them immediately after you run. Do another 10 minutes or so. Just don't sit down or you'll really be sore.

How fast? To get real benefits out of running or any aerobic exercise, you should push your resting heart rate to within 75 percent of its maximum heart rate.

First, take your heart rate (take your pulse from either your wrist or your neck) for six seconds and multiply it by 10. This is your resting heart rate.

Then, find a book on aerobics, which lists maximum heart rates for various ages. Subtract your resting heart rate from the maximum and multiply by .75, then add that number to your resting rate. This is your target heart rate.

You should run fast enough to enable you to hit the target heart rate, and then keep up that pace for 20 minutes.

You probably won't be able to do this right away. It will take time to run 20 minutes non-stop at a certain rate. But you can do it, if you stick to it.

How often? Studies have shown if you run four times a week for 30 minutes a day — two hours total — you can achieve a good level of fitness.

So, to really get any good out of it, set that as your minimum. Many runners run from 10 to 20 miles every day and experience no adverse affects. Run as often as you feel like it.

Hang in there

The first three to four weeks will not be easy. You will be sore and people will think you a bit demented, if experience has taught me anything.

"You're a masochist," they'll tell you. But just remember — did you play tennis well the first time you did it? How was your golf game the first time out? And what about skiing? And how did your body feel afterwards? Sore, right?

Case closed. But this is a lot less expensive than any of those sports, you can do it anywhere, anytime, and the benefits are far more numerous than those three sports combined.

When does it all end?

That's a tough question to answer. For many runners it never ends. And it's not just the physical benefits that keep attracting runners.

Quite frankly, running will create a new person out of you, or at the very least, unleash a being inside the one everybody now knows.

Running not only affects the body in positive ways, it equally affects the mind — but not always in what society considers "good" ways.

Warning: running is addictive. If you can achieve an excellent level of fitness by running only two hours a week — let's say 10 to 12 miles — then why do so many runners spend six to 14 hours a week running, and running from 40 to 100 miles?

Because it makes you feel good, that's why. Although no one is quite sure just why exercise makes you feel good, you feel good nevertheless.

But only if you stick with it. If you quit after a week, or two weeks or even a month, you'll probably never hit the "natural high" experienced runners reach every day.

Some theorists — including the "running doctor," George Sheehan, M.D. — feel it's because the body is working at its maximum efficiency, and that causes all systems to work at maximum efficiency. It gives you a sort of "glow," and a feeling of extreme self-confidence.

Some theorists — including the "running doctor," George Sheehan, M.D. — feel it's because the body is working at its maximum efficiency, and that causes all systems to work at maximum efficiency. It gives you a sort of "glow," and a feeling of extreme self-confidence.

Emergency Response Vehicle now in use in New Mexico

George S. Goldstein, Ph. D., Secretary of the Health and Environment Department, has announced jointly with Thomas Baca, Director of HED's Environmental Improvement Division (EID), the acquisition of a new vehicle called the Emergency Response Vehicle. (ERV).

The ERV will respond to accidents concerning hazardous waste (chemical, industrial waste) or any environmental accident on a 24-hour basis anywhere in the state of New Mexico. The 24-hour reporting number is 1-627-2275.

Hazardous wastes include pesticides, acids, caustic materials.

The ERV is in response to a legislative vote that asked for coordination of resources in assessing hazards to the environment, in the Hazardous Waste Act of 1977 that designated EID as the coordinating agency.

The ERV has equipment and personal protective gear, such as protective suits and masks, to permit EID scientists to enter a truck and determine which chemicals were released, and to advise proper cleanup procedure. In addition, the van has a mobile radio hooked to the state microwave radio network, enabling telephone dispatches.

The vehicle is a Grand Slam Mini-Motor Home by Chrysler, designed internally by EID with kitchen, bathroom and sleeping quarters, to allow responders to go to an accident scene and remain for days, if necessary.

The cost of the van itself was approximately $20,000, and the internal design and equipment cost between $15,000 and $20,000.

Ray Krehoff, Ph. D., has been designated as EID's Emergency Response Coordinator.

To date, EID has been responding to 110 accidents per month involving hazardous waste, many of them around Albuquerque due to the high rate of traffic. The number of accidents per month involving hazardous waste could increase as transportation of hazardous materials increases.

Russell Rhoades, EID's Assistant Director of Community Services, is making the presentation today.

Professors claim study shows clothing discloses personality

Does an abiding concern with haute couture reveal something about your personality?

According to a recent study conducted by two University of New Mexico (UNM) professors, a high degree of concern with clothing tells a lot about the person wrapped up inside. It may indicate, in fact, that you tend to be compliant and anxious. Persons who care little about clothing and about the perceptions of other people of how they dress, tend, on the other hand, to be independent and aggressive.

Timothy G. Plax and Lawrence B. Rosenfeld, both in UNM's department of speech communications, asked 240 men and women to fill out questionnaires about their preferences and attitudes toward clothing.

They also ran the subjects through an extensive battery of personality tests. They then checked for emerging patterns.

In investigating the factor of exhibitionism — an individual's desire to wear revealing clothes — researchers found that women who liked to show some cheesecake tended to be "radical and detached in interpersonal relationships; possibly due to self-centeredness."

Women who wanted to keep themselves covered up were generally "timid, sincere, patient and accepting of others." They also seemed plagued by feelings of inferiority and showed "little motivation for heterosexual relationships."

Men exposing a little skin were characterized as aggressive, confident, outgoing, unsympathetic and unaf-fectionate. "They also tended to be moody and impulsive and to have low self-concepts when it came to getting along with their families," Plax said.

Men of more modest inclinations had high self-concepts regarding their family lives and, not surprisingly, were more guarded about revealing things about themselves.

Subjects also were questioned about practicality. This was defined as the degree to which their interest was in the practical rather than the aesthetic value of clothes.

Men who dressed with an eye to practically tended to be inhibited, cautious, rebellious and dissatisfied, the UNM study shows. Men who thought that style was more important were success-oriented, mature, forceful, serious and analytical.

"For women, these characterizations were reversed," Plax said. "Those women who looked to practically were clever, enthusiastic, confident, outgoing and showed feelings of superiority. They did not wish to be led and were guarded about their personal selves."

He noted that women who preferred beautiful clothes over serviceable ones, were more self-centered, independent and detached.

Clothing, said Plax, is a highly expressive form of nonverbal communication as are other cues such as body movements and positioning, gestures and eye contact. As a researcher, however, he stresses that nonverbal communication is important "only as it is viewed alongside verbal communication."

The UNM study, Plax added, "should help in the understanding of the importance of clothing as a form of nonverbal communication and provide the basis for more accurate judgments of personality based on clothing behaviors."

Board named to help UNM obtain funding

Twenty-three persons have been named to the board of directors of the University of New Mexico (UNM) Foundation Inc., a public, non-profit, tax-exempt corporation, that will provide financial support to the state's largest university.

Tax funds currently provide only about one-third of UNM's annual operating budget, executive director Robert G. Lallicker said, and the foundation will seek to increase the $3 million in annual private support now available. Foundation-generated funds will support merit scholarships, faculty research, lectureships, purchase of instructional equipment and acquisition of library materials and art works, Lallicker said.

The foundation is a state-chartered corporation entirely separate from the University, Lallicker said. Its independence will give it flexibility in receiving, investing and disbursing funds from private sources while offering a citizen structure for assistance to the University.

Board members of the foundation include Albuquerque residents Elizabeth Crain, Jack Daniels, Maxine Friedman, Hickum Galles Jr., Jerry Geist, Hugh J. Graham, H. B. Horn, S. Y. 'Tony' Jackson Jr., Charles S. Lanier, George J. Maloof, Cyrene Mapel, John L. Rust, Randolph V. Sellman and C. E. Woodcock.

Other board members are Ann Anderson of Roswell, Alan Antwell of Hobbs, C. L. Brown of Santa Fe, Jim Doolittle of Watrous, J. Eugene Gallegos of Santa Fe and Charles High of Gallup.

Also serving on the board are UNM president William E. Davis, vice president John Perovich and development director Lallicker.

Veterans Administration hiring Vietnam veterans

Vietnam-era veterans make such good employees that the Veterans Administration (VA) hired 3,800 more of them last year than it had in 1978.

VA chief Max Cleland said that as 1980 began the agency counted 49,473 Vietnam-era veterans among its 230,538 employees. They outnumber veterans of any other war on VA payrolls.

Those Vietnam-era veterans are spread throughout the VA's regional offices, medical centers, Vietnam Vet Centers and other facilities in Colorado, Wyoming, New Mexico and Utah.

"It's not only appropriate — because VA has taken the lead in urging private enterprise to hire Vietnam-era veterans — but it's just plain good business," Cleland said. "Having them at VA assures more empathy within the agency for the needs and problems of Vietnam-era veterans who need our assistance."

The VA chief, a severely disabled veteran of the Vietnam conflict, gives major credit for the high level of employment of this group of veterans to effective use of the Veterans Readjustment Authority (VRA). That is a program that permits federal agencies to hire certain Vietnam-era veterans without going through the regular civil service competitive employment process.

In fiscal 1979, for example, VRA accounted for nearly half of the new Vietnam-era veterans hired by the agency. Since the enactment of the VRA in 1970, VA has used it to employ 53,662 veterans, more than a third of the total for all federal agencies.

The VRA program is open to veterans whose military service was between August 5, 1964 and May 7, 1975, the official dates marking the beginning and end of the Vietnam era.

In total, VA has 85,831 veterans of all wars on its rolls.

Domenici bill would make drug thefts federal offense

United States Senator Pete Domenici Thursday introduced legislation which will make drug thefts from pharmacies a federal offense.

In introducing the legislation Domenici noted that there are more than 1,700 pharmacy holdups annually.

"These are often violent robberies committed by junkies who are feeding their habit or by dealers who are trying to find drugs to peddle on the street," the Senator said.

In introducing his legislation, Domenici recalled a recent incident in Carlsbad in which a local pharmacist was shot and his wife killed. "Many pharmacies have been compelled because of this crime wave to hire security guards or install expensive security devices, but still the robberies continue," he said.

Domenici noted that while the bill has opposition from federal law enforcement agencies, the problem he said has simply grown beyond the reach of local law enforcement.

"Our local police are doing an outstanding job trying to control this serious problem, but they are limited in manpower and resources to do the job. Narcotics are under strict federal control, and therefore it is time to put those who steal them under federal jurisdiction also. The problem simply has grown beyond the pale of a local police matter and has become a national problem."

"With the Senate now considering a new criminal code, I am very hopeful that we will give ample thought to the growing number of pharmaceutical holdups and do something constructive to try and reduce them," Domenici added.

Let's Apply
Free Enterprise to the Truckers

By David Cohen

David Cohen is President of Common Cause, a nonpartisan citizens' lobby.

Congressional committees have started hearings on legislation which could save American consumers $5 billion a year by removing some of the complex web of regulations governing interstate trucking. With inflation raging, cost-saving measures should sail through Congress. But not with the powerful trucking industry and the Teamsters Union fighting to keep their advantages in place.

The Motor Carrier Act of 1935 protected the fragmented trucking industry during the Depression. Since then the trucking industry has prospered but the 1935 law is still on the books and hasn't been seriously studied since its adoption. As a result of that law the Interstate Commerce Commission (ICC) today tells trucking companies exactly what routes they may travel, what cities they may serve, what goods they may carry, and what rates they may charge.

The minutiae of ICC regulations have produced their own set of absurdities:

-authority for a trucker to carry empty ginger ale bottles, but not full bottles, or empty coke or root beer bottles.

-authority for some truckers to carry instant chicken noodle soup, but not onion or bean soup.

The ICC's route restrictions are so arbitrary that companies often cannot take direct routes between cities but must go round-about, adding mileage costs and wasting fuel, and driving up prices for consumers. One White House aide said, "It's like telling an airline, 'you can go from here (Washington, D.C.) to Boston but you can only take females who are between 60 and 65; you have to go by way of Cleveland, but you can only touch down your wheels there; you can't let anybody off or take anybody on.'"

Trucking regulation has outlived its usefulness. Prices are inflated because competition is blocked. Trucking companies are free to engage in legalized price fixing. Fuel is needlessly wasted and discriminatory pricing practices abound.

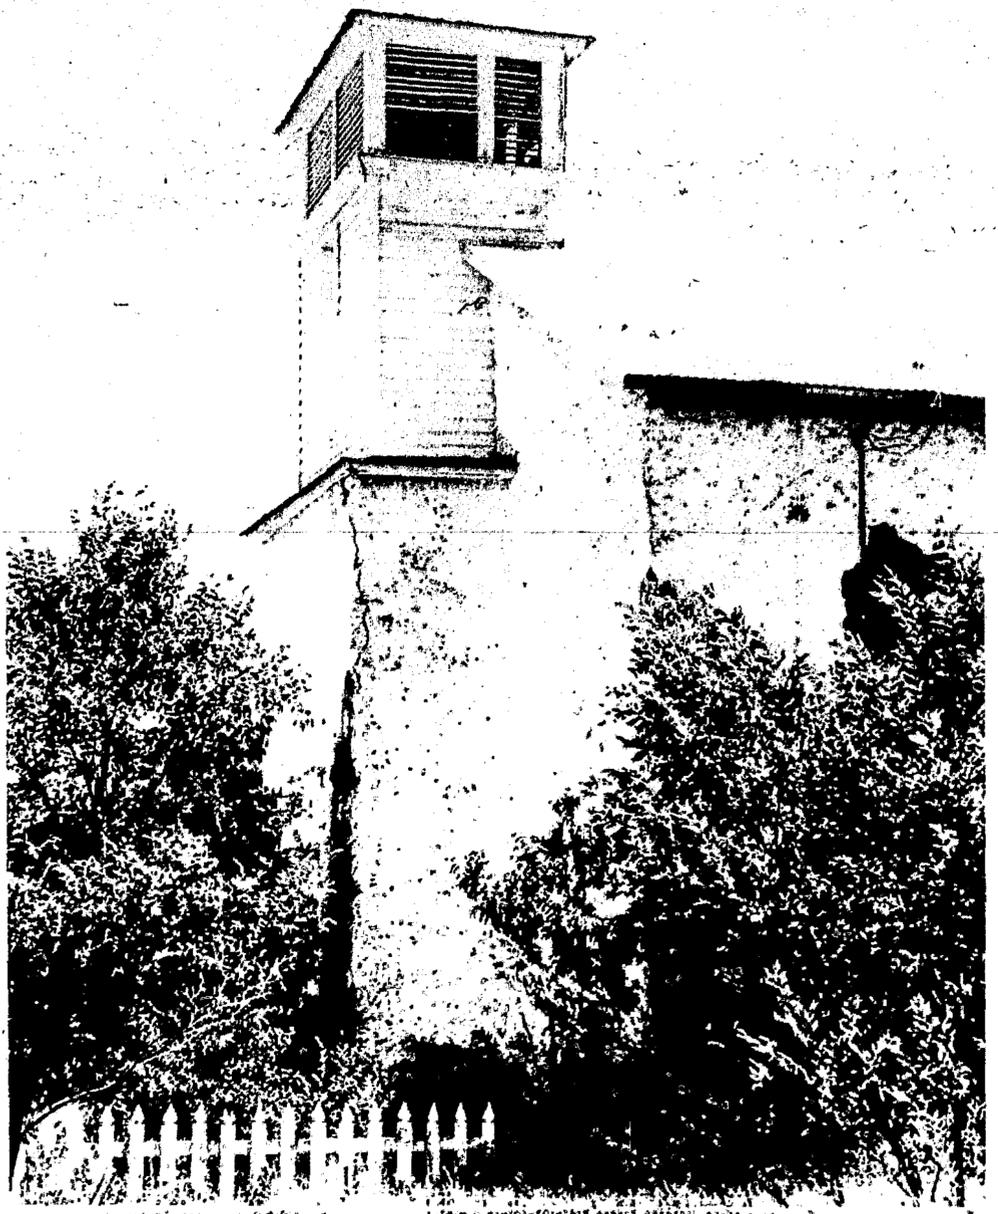

The costs to consumers of this needless regulation are real. Regulatory practices reportedly waste 500 million gallons of fuel a year. Empty truck mileage alone may cost consumers an additional one cent per package of food and 37 cents for each pair of shoes.

Don't be fooled if these figures sound penny ante. The overall cost of antiquated regulatory practices is high - an estimated $5 billion a year.

So why haven't we abandoned the 1930's trucking regulation? It's because over the years one of the strongest special interest groups has blossomed under the protective hand of regulation. Drivers and trucking companies, represented by the powerful Teamsters Union and the American Trucking Association, which together contributed $759,899 in 1976 and 1978 to congressional candidates, pressure Congress to keep their benefits coming.

However, momentum is building in Congress to apply free enterprise to the trucking industry. Consumers, farmers, and business people are fighting for deregulating the trucking industry and forcing it to compete. Last summer the Carter administration and Senator Edward Kennedy (D-Mass.) joined forces and introduced far-reaching trucking deregulation legislation. Key committee chairmen have committed themselves to send a bill to the President by June 1. The question is whether Congress will pass a bill that deregulates the trucking industry or will just enact a sham bill.

It will be a bruising fight. However, Congress has the opportunity to reduce inflation, save energy, cut government red tape and in the process save American consumers some money - all in one piece of legislation. It's an opportunity our lawmakers should embrace.

LINCOLN'S SAN JUAN CHURCH to be restored to its splendor of 1885.

San Juan Church due for complete restoration

The next state-funded restoration project for Lincoln State Monument will be the historic San Juan Church, according to plans prepared by Tom Caperton, director of the Museum of New Mexico's monuments bureau.

A bill appropriating $100,000 to the monument, sponsored by Representative John F. Bigbee (Torrence-DeBaca-Lincoln-Guadalupe), was approved by the 1980 legislature. Caperton says those funds will be used to restore the now vacant building as near as possible to its original condition in the late 1800s.

A grant application for another $100,000 in matching funds also is pending with the State Historic Preservation Office, which administers federal preservation funds through the Heritage Conservation and Recreation Service of the Department of the Interior. If approved, that money also would flow into the project.

Caperton describes work to be done on the adobe structure, built around 1885, as a total rehabilitation. Its present condition is one of advanced deterioration.

Exterior and interior walls will be repaired and replastered, windows renovated and a new roof added. Utility systems, added piecemeal through the decades, will be replaced.

Interior furnishings will be refinished and the church organ will be put in playing condition.

The latest in fire suppression systems, using Halon gas to smother a fire, will be installed. Conventional systems using water often cause as much damage to historic structures as a fire.

Caperton says area residents with old photographs of the San Juan Church can help with the restoration, since historic photos often reveal original features of buildings that may have been altered over the years. Residents should contact Ed Raventon, ranger supervisor at Lincoln, who will arrange to have copies made for the project.

The church is the third property in historic Lincoln to be revitalized by the state since the Museum assumed operational responsibility last July 1. The Billy The Kid pageant grounds were upgraded last year and the Wortley Hotel has been renovated this spring.

SANTA FE — Remember Shoeless Joe Jackson, outfielder for the only team we ever knew, threw the World Series? Remember the little newsboy who stood by the clubhouse door and said to him, "Say it ain't so, Joe. Say it ain't so?"

We'd like to borrow that "say it ain't so" line. We want to use it on Senator Pete Domenici when we read headlines that say things like "Domenici and Three Other Senators Join Reagan Camp."

The Reagan camp, we'd like to say to him. What in the world is Pete Domenici doing there?

It seems so naked to come right out and say, as some reports have, "Four Republican Senators from the West, including Senator Pete Domenici (R-N.M.), climbed aboard Ronald Reagan's fast-moving bandwagon today . . ."

So naked and so brash . . . Yeah, yeah. We know. Politics is all pragmatic and practical, and forget principle or belief or demonstrating that you stand for something.

But Reagan, Pete? The man whose supporters have shown more desire to avenge themselves on those who are not a thousand per cent with them than anyone since the Goldwater folks punished and punished and punished Nelson Rockefeller right out in front of all of us on the TV screen?

That orange-haired relic? You're going to go for him, Pete, after a phony 15-minute phone call in which he said he admits the West is part of the United States? That's enough to sway you?

We could go along when you said you were convinced that "Reagan will be the nominee" — but when you say he "should be the nominee," we have to ask what lightning bolt has struck you down in the last four years. Is it only that you have been run over by a "fast-moving bandwagon"?

Do you think those guys who didn't even want to allow you to be a delegate to the last national convention of the party are going to be your buddies now?

Do you want to be a pal to those who have never really believed you were one of them?

We have to say it: It's sad, sad, this unseemly haste to clamber aboard. It makes us shudder a little, even though we pretend to be tough and relatively illusionless. Even if Reagan is unstoppable, you could have waited till that became entirely clear. It wasn't necessary to become a kind of pom-pom girl, out leading the cheering for a man in whose philosophy, it would seem to us, you do not totally believe.

These words, we hope, will disturb and move the Senator. We hope he will respond. Many of his friends, as we see it, here on the ground in New Mexico, are shaking their heads and asking, "What got into Pete? Doesn't he care how the rest of us feel?"

The Census Bureau says there are now 15 million more Americans between the age of 18 and the age of 34 than there were in 1970. That's neat now, when most of them are feeding in income and Social Security taxes.

But what happens 40 years from now, when most of them are taking out of the system instead of putting in?

The prognosis then is not good.

Letters to the Editor

Dear editor:

Brownie Troops 1, 2 and 3 would like to thank the public for their support during our recent bake sale.

The money raised was used for the Juliet Lowe World Friendship Fund. Part of the money is used in a Girl Scout exchange program for older girls.

The balance of the money is used to help Girl Scouting all over the world. No one knows to what part of the world this money may travel, no one knows the ways in which it will one day come back to us as new friends.

But we all know that, as we give our money to the friendship fund, we are helping to spread Girl Scouting around the world.

Sonja Crown

Dear editor:

In regard to your article on Monday, March 24, 1980, entitled "Local Teachers Enjoying High Salary Scale" . . . comparing local teachers' salaries to other teachers' salaries is somewhat akin to comparing flies to fleas — surely one is larger than the other, but in the full scope, neither is very great!

CAMPAIGN OPENED UP

We were told that Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's Georgetown University speech would be a landmark effort to revitalize his campaign after Iowa. The effort was there; the address was hard-hitting and vigorous, clearly intended to place Kennedy in a commanding light after weeks of apparent fumbling and vacillation.

Whether the effort will in fact revitalize a faltering White House drive, whether the senator will be able to create enough fresh momentum to bring him needed victories in the near future — these are speculative matters, with no answers to be expected until Maine and New Hampshire voters have had their say. Meanwhile, it is pretty much anyone's guess, at least until definitive poll results are available, as to how Kennedy's views struck the electorate.

One way or another, the reactions should be fairly strong, for the challenger took hard positions on controversial issues: he called for immediate gasoline rationing; he advocated a six-month freeze on inflation followed by mandatory controls over wages and prices, profits, dividends, interest rates and rent; he came out against military draft registration. Those are questions on which public feeling runs high.

But Senator Kennedy placed himself most clearly at risk in undertaking a many-faceted attack on administration foreign policy. It is developments in this field that are widely thought to have brought President Carter's rebound in the polls, and to have played a significant part in his Iowa victory. Kennedy gambled heavily in this part of his speech, and not much less heavily in the rest of dealing with domestic concerns.

One thing can be said without much fear of contradiction. By speaking out so bluntly, the Democratic challenger shattered the idea of holding back on criticism of the incumbent because of challenges abroad. The campaign should now become more open on both sides, and in both parties, and that is good. — Alamogordo Daily News

THINKING

The average American, perplexed by the great issues confronting our country, finds it difficult to develop sound opinions in the face of partisanship, selective radio and television commentators, etc.

There is a tendency to accept, without question, any statement or assertion which fits in with what the individual wants to believe. Moreover, there is often considerable determination on the part of many to persuade everyone to fall in line. We should carefully consider the stubborn independence of the hardy citizen who has the nerve to say, despite the popular flurry, "I don't agree." Such individualism and thinking, is needed. — Santa Rosa News editorial

Political action in Lincoln County should reach barn burning proportions prior to the June 3 primary election.

Candidates announcing prior to today include four for sheriff, two for assessor, two for county clerk, three for treasurer and two for the county commission.

Tomorrow is the deadline for filing declarations of candidacy for county office. Considering the early interest by candidates, it is possible the total number of aspirants for office could swell significantly by 5 p.m., April 1.

There is one fact that Ruidoso and Ruidoso Downs voters should carefully consider, as election time approaches, and that is that the two villages, according to the county clerk's office, had 2,723 voters registered in February, compared to 2,563 for the balance of the county. Though this figure will be altered, perhaps slightly, with the new registration figures to be released May 6, there is no question as to where the voting strength is.

If local residents have any complaints about the way in which the county offices are operated by the elected officials, the time to express that dissatisfaction is at the polls June 3.

It should be obvious to Ruidoso, Ruidoso Downs and immediate area voters that nothing is to be gained by blaming that "old so and so" for doing "thus and so".

The line of action is clear: get involved. — CD

Even if it'd been by design, no one coulda conjured up such a buncha political gobbledegook as is bubbling up in this year's political pot, as to what's cooking in the presidential primaries.

Take Our Jimmy . . . he's running, his legs off and ain't set foot outta his rose garden . . . Teddy's gaining convention delegates, but so slowly as to keep him on the hustings hustling . . . and Brown ain't as yet hinted he's about to hit for the bonnies of Africa where it's possible, if he took along the same vocalist as last time, he might hear music sweeter to his ears than the swan song he seems to be listening to from the voters.

Be that as it may . . . Out Jimmy's contented . . . Teddy's ecstatic . . . and, judging from the papers, neither's got that much to crow about.

Take Reagan . . . and it looks like the Republicans might have to . . . he's riding high and fast . . . seemingly without hurdles that might toss him like a tumbling tumbleweed. And Bush ain't about to give up beating the bushes . . . 'cause he's all enthused about what happened in Connecticut . . . uncaring, seemingly, that Wisconsin's voters ain't exactly easterners . . . which leaves Anderson, who's just about as left as he can be . . . out, that is . . . and he ain't even been accused of leaning to the right. Surprisingly, all three's carrying on just happier'n three hogs knee deep in acorns.

Then there's Ford . . . he's playing it cooler, even, than Our Jimmy . . . 'cause if'n you ain't in the primaries, ain't no one can do to him what Our Jimmy said he'd do to Teddy if'n he run . . . which he's pretty well doing.

Now . . . assuming that it's Ford as gets the nod at the GOP convention . . . and that is a possibility . . . and if'n Our Jimmy does likewise when the Dems duly convene . . . then, if'n you consider things strictly from the thumb 'n' hand side, it'll be a safe wager that Jimmy The Greek'll get uncensured from trying to figure the odds that Ford'll do to Our Jimmy what Our Jimmy's doing . . . as he said he would . . . to Teddy.

Why . . . if'n you can come a cropper of an infallible crystal ball this fall, you could bank a mint making book on who'll win the presidency.

RIISING DOLLAR VALUE

Seeing how the dollar has soared in value since the drastic decline in the price in gold, the road ahead is clear for Our Jimmy's financial genuses . . . all they gotta do is let gold slip back to its $35 per ounce going rate . . . and the dollar will be so strong on the world market that OPEC countries'll be standing in line to demand that we purchase their low priced oil . . . which could result in an abundance of 19 cent gas at the pumps . . . no?

WHAT MEANS THAT?

Can't help wondering about the implications involved in the action: Mescalero Apache Tribe v. Griffin Bell, a case in which the tribe is seeking to require the United States Attorney General to enforce state traffic laws against non-Indians on the reservation to the exclusion of state enforcement.

As to what means that . . . by jinkies, I'm ding busted if'n I know . . . but it reads like, to me, as though maybe it'd be a good idea if'n all non-Indians paid attention to their driving p's and q's whilst en route through the homelands of the Mescalero Apaches.

FOUR LANES COMING

Way I read it . . . if'n sufficient federal monies . . . stemming from our tax dollars . . . becomes available this year . . . the state Highway Department will begin work in earnest, planning on transforming Highway 70 into four lanes.

Now . . . don't everyone get all shook . . . the first segment having any consequences in this general area will be widening of the highway into four lanes from northeast of Tularosa to the western boundary of the Mescalero Apache Indian Reservation at Bent . . . about 11 miles.

In addition 4.8 miles of this segment just north of the existing four lane road from Tularosa is also slated for construction this year.

Now that's the word from Tom Scanlon, environmental program manager for the road agency . . . state Highway Department . . . and I sure hope you fully understand what may go on . . . 'cause it's got me plumb confused.

BRIEF BIT: If'n you ain't got your peak census forms filled out by now, be of good cheer . . . you got all night to get them completed. — CD

The pruning demonstration — a learning experience for all

ESTEBAN HERRERA, a horticulture expert with the extension department of New Mexico State University, explained pruning techniques to a group of county residents, at a recent demonstration.

Among the many functions of the Lincoln County Extension Department is that of providing a means of communicating information on agricultural concerns to a rural and sometimes isolated population.

A gathering like the recent fruit tree pruning demonstration held at the home of Clem Weindorf near Hondo provides forum for such communication.

A wide spectrum of Lincoln County citizens attended the demonstration, at which extension horticulture expert Esteban Herrera advised the group on scientific techniques of pruning.

In addition to longtime valley residents Weindorf and neighbor Bert Pfingsten, there were young wives from the Lincoln area, ranchers from some of the more remote areas of the county, and even a group of Ruidoso middle school students.

Herrera explained that the first three to four years of a fruit tree's life is the time when the pruner should work to develop "a sound framework," which will best utilize the tree's bearing capabilities, and allow optimum benefits of sunlight and air.

The framework of the properly pruned tree consists of the major "scaffold branches," which, according to the extension experts, should have "wide angled crotches, be equally spaced around the tree and have four to 12 inches of vertical space between them."

On trees which have been pruned regularly, about one-third of the annual growth should be cut back. Pruning may be performed at any time of the year, but for best results, Herrera advised pruning in "late winter—the end of March." Pruning during the summer months has a greater "dwarfing effect," he said.

Pruning should be undertaken "from top to bottom," Herrera said, and on a regularly pruned tree more than three years old, there should be no lateral branches larger (in circumference) than the leader, or central trunk.

Trees which have been neglected for some time must be approached somewhat differently. The first step, Herrera said, is to remove any weakened, broken or diseased material from the tree. Next, any "crossover," limbs may be selectively removed, opening the central section of the tree to provide ample light and space for growth of the remaining branches.

Although most "experts" will agree on the basic techniques, pruning of their fruit trees has become an art form for many orchard keepers, and no two people will prune a tree exactly alike, Herrera said.

And that fact is the basis of a fringe benefit for the agricultural specialists—at such demonstrations, Herrera said, "even the experts learn something."

More information, including a detailed publication entitled, "Pruning the Home Orchard," is available from the county Extension department, Box 217, Carrizozo, 648-2471. Offices are located in the Lincoln County courthouse.

LONGTIME VALLEY RESIDENT "Chief Bernardo," otherwise known as Bernard Rooney, pauses to admire the well-pruned trees at the Bert Pfingsten orchard. He was one of about 30 persons attending a pruning demonstration last week.

A CAREFUL CUT is executed by Claire Morris of Lincoln as Clem Weindorf looks on. The pruning demonstration was held at Weindorf's home near Hondo.

CONFERRING on the correct procedures for pruning apple trees are Bert Pfingsten, left, and county agricultural extension agent Barry Herd.

SALUTE TO CHAMBER MEMBERS

This is a regular feature in the Monday edition of this newspaper to introduce the members of the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce

NOB HILL LODGE, located one block south of the Ruidoso Hondo Valley Hospital, was purchased by Otis and Christine Spears, pictured, in February, 1979. They became members of the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce shortly after that time. Nob Hill

Lodge has been a landmark in Ruidoso for thirty years. The lodge features 17 units, all equipped with color television, and "each room has a view of Sierra Blanca," said the Spears. Reservations may be made by calling 257-4018.

SEARS CATALOG STORE, located on Sudderth Drive in midtown, is owned by Patricia Hall, a Sears Authorized Merchant, pictured with her husband, Richard Hall. Mrs. Hall, who has 13 years of total experience with Sears, including six at the Ruidoso store, took over ownership in July, 1979. They have been members of the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce for about one month. In addition to the mail order service, the store stocks a limited number of major appliances. Sears trained technicians are available to repair Sears products on Tuesdays and Fridays, by appointment, which may be made by calling the store at 257-4622. Two fulltime Sears employees are Marcia McClendon and Ellen Blume. "We're here to serve you," said Mrs. Hall. Store hours are 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday and 9 a.m. to noon Saturdays.

March Saying "Adios"
Till Next Year

This is being sent to you on March twenty-seven and will reach you on the last day of the month of spring. Today on the twenty-seventh, the wind is blowing down the vale with all its might trying to make up for lost time, making the most of its opportunity — since March is the month of the wind — and doing its best also to keep the Ground Hog's promise and bring March on its way out like a lion, since it came in like a lamb.

Inside the little sun room there are some twigs of pink peach blossoms which I brought up from farther down in the valley. There is no messenger of the springtime more cheerful than the peach bloom smiling with its pure color and sending its rose-like fragrance into the air, lifting your spirits wonderfully as you realize spring has come again. Yet outside all the evergreens are bending and thrashing in the west wind loudly singing with its many voices all around. One voice is a loudly whispered melody in the cedars; another is the harplike singing in the bare branches of the walnut trees, and another is the long-familiar high-pitched calling around the roof and eaves of the house — changing its tone with the rise and the lull of the wind. Now the voice of the wind is singing a song of winter, and you feel the icy blast from off the snowy mountain. All up the valley you see the gray and silver little cloud bear down upon us, and here come the flying flakes of snow.

Outside, bracing yourself against the icy gale, you go over to the lilac bushes. Sure enough there are the tiny bud clusters out showing their colors, not waiting on the wintery wind. And from up on the hillside, can that be the spring notes of the robin joyfully pouring out the happiness of his heart — in — singing — sounding — clear — and melodious above March wind's far-carrying many voices which fill the world and subdue all other sounds?

Yes, these latter days of March have a spell of gladness all their own, as spring comes smiling through the last of winter's chilling blasts, and the snowy season sings its fond farewell.

The Alert Nature Of Young Calves

Calves only a few days old have a way of giving signals to the grown folks. You can be approaching a herd lying down resting, and the first to be aware of you are the young calves. Up go their little white faces as they watch your advance. Their little ears are super sharp to hear the slightest sound.

I have been feeding some hay to the herd the last few days, and little Patrick and Groundie are always on the lookout for the pickup. This morning they were both lying down just at the brow of the slope where they could see the road. As they saw the pickup, they immediately jumped up and both went running to their mothers much as to say,

"Here comes the grocery wagon."
Little Patrick is the comedian of the bunch. He has taken a great notion to the pickup. He will go all around it chewing on the tires, munching on the fenders. He will lie down to rest as close as he can get, almost underneath. When the door is open he goes and looks inside almost ready to jump in and drive off.

The only regret of the little spirit dog Shady Logan was that he could not drive the pickup himself. If he could have he would have spent about all his time driving. Solo Vino is just the other way. You put him in the pickup and he will get out the quickest way.

Easter tide Is Here
With Palm Sunday, the season of Easter has begun. So now we are in the sacred little season looking forward to Easter, the day of celebration of the day of resurrection of Our Blessed Lord and Saviour.

Floor Fashions

COMPROMISE is something we all get used to in major things we buy, from homes to cars to appliances. Dad may want a flashy sports car, but compromise on a family wagon because it's more practical. The budget may mean that Mom has to have a smaller refrigerator than she'd like, or settle for practical basics in the family's spring fashions.

Often this choice or compromise is between style and practicality. And there's a very human tendency to choose what "turns us on" rather than what's practical [as car makers know when they stress elegant fabrics and jazzy wheel covers].

But there's one place compromise is no longer necessary between style and practicality . . . and that's in carpeting. With the amazing advances in man-made fibers, you can choose from many new carpets that are completely practical, and stylish, too.

Want hard wear and a favorite robin's egg blue color? You can have it. Want a fun-look shag at a modest price? You can have it. Want a luxury plush that won't show soil or will shed stains easily? You can have that, too, in today's no-compromise world of carpets.

Even budget strains don't mean you have to give up the texture, style, and color you really want in a carpet. Come in and look over the happy selection we feature in every price range, from today's leading carpet manufacturers.

PBS in the spotlight

'Bach: Saint John Passion' is PBS Easter week special

On Wednesday, April 2,* 'Great Performances' on PBS will present its traditional observance of Easter Week with Bach's celebrated religious composition, 'Saint John Passion.' The special two-and-a-half hour performance by the Munich Bach Orchestra and Choir is conducted by Karl Richter.

Seven internationally known interpreters of Bach are featured during this performance. They include Peter Schreier (pictured), tenor, (The Evangelist); Ernst Gerold Schramm, baritone, (Jesus); Siegmund Nimsgern, bass-baritone, (Petrus and Pilatus); Helen Donath (Soprano Arias); Julia Hamari (Alto Arias); Horst R. Laubenthal (Tenor Arias) and Kieth Engen (Bass Arias).

'Saint John Passion,' an oratorio depicting the final sufferings of Christ, was written by Bach when he was appointed to the Cantorate of St. Thomas' Church in Leipzig, Germany.

German composer Richard Wagner considered 'Passions' among the greatest choral works in existence. "What opulence, what fullness of art, what power, clearness and withal simple purity speak to us from these unrivalled masterworks," he once said.

'Coal Miner's Daughter' biopic scores well

by J.T. Yurko

Undeniably, Loretta Lynn has led a remarkable life. She was married at 13, had four children by the time she was 19, and only then did she begin her rise to become the 'Queen of Country Music.'

The film of her life, based on her autobiography, is entitled 'Coal Miner's Daughter,' and as a film project it had alot going against it. First of all, fascinating lives do not always make for fascinating films. And although the details of her life are unique, the story itself is actually little more than a rags-to-riches story. Moreover, not everyone is a fan of country-western music.

Review

In spite of all these strikes against the film, 'Coal Miner's Daughter' proves to be a wonderfully fresh, well crafted, and consistently entertaining production. Although many of you may not even own a single album of country music, if you are a fan of good cinema, 'Coal Miner's Daughter' is an excellent choice.

Sissy Spacek was chosen to portray Loretta Lynn, and it is doubtful anyone could have been more successful with the role. Her performance is just superb. Not only is Spacek called upon to age from 13 to 30 and beyond, but as she's dramatizing the life of a singer, she must also be able to carry a tune. Spacek not only carries it, she delivers it with confidence and heart. There are not a lot of songs in the film, so don't attend expecting to see a concert surrounded by a story. However, all the singing in the film was done by Spacek; there was no dubbing over by the real Loretta Lynn.

A large share of the credit for the enjoyment of the film goes to director Michael Apted. Apted's last and perhaps best known film was 'Agatha,' a mystery about the life of mystery teller Agatha Christie. With 'Coal Miner's Daughter' Apted hits real paydirt. He has managed to take a threadbare story and infuse it with charm, warmth and ample amounts of humor. His directorial touches are everywhere as he consistently adds to and nourishes the story and scenes along with solid flair.

From the bleak terrain of a coal mine in Appalachia until her entrance onto the stage of the Grand Old Opry in Nashville, the struggles and triumphs of Loretta Lynn are a testament to hard work, a lot of talent, and even some lucky breaks.

The film of her life is also clearly imbued with plenty of hard work and talent, and they combine once again to make a 'Coal Miner's Daughter' a resounding success.

From Universal Pictures, 'Coal Miner's Daughter' is rated PG.

CONFIDENTIAL REPORT ABC programming executives have privately admitted they made a terrific blunder when they broke up their winning 'Happy Days' and 'Laverne & Shirley' combo. 'Laverne & Shirley' sank to the bottom after being switched from Tuesday to Monday nights. They're switching back. NBC officials are ecstatic over their 12-hour mini-series 'Shogun,' based on James Clavell's best seller. The giant show, to be aired in late fall, stars Richard Chamberlain. Beau Bridges reveals he's looking for a film project in which he would star along with his father, Lloyd Bridges, and his brother, Jeff Bridges. "We appeared together years ago in dad's series, 'Sea Hunt,'" he says. "Now I'd like my own film company to make a movie featuring all three of us." Chad Everett claims he turned down several series after starring in 'Medical Center' for seven years. "They were all too tame," he says. "I was looking for something which would permit me to go on location and do my own stunts. Well, his new show 'Hagen' seems to fill the bill." Anti-smoking advocate Christopher Norris has met her match on CBS's 'Trapper John' set. No matter what argument she uses, she can't persuade co-star Greg Harrison to give up cigarettes. CBS is making one more show about Adolf Hitler. It's a three-hour special called 'The Bunker,' about his last hours.

TV TICKER There's one problem for 'Knots Landing' star Michele Lee: she's married to an actor. "When performers marry each other, it's a struggle. It would have been much easier for me had I married someone other than an actor," says Michele, who has been James Farentino's wife for 11 years. They have a 10-year-old son. "I'm not putting my marriage down in any way," she told me. "But I always thought marriage with Jim put us on an equal footing. I know now that I've been wrong. Jim has the final say on most things. I cater to him more than he does to me. My marriage is really on a 60/40 basis, with Jim having the 60 percent. I'm not saying that it is bad or good. In fact, some women might actually prefer it that way." Vic Tayback, who plays Mel on 'Alice,' used to be a 'Kelly Girl' office worker before he made it on TV. Now he's the official representative for the organization. Paul Lynde has been hired back on 'Hollywood Squares.' Seems the rating plummeted after he left. Paul will be back in the fall.

TV CLOSEUP Nikki (Nicolette) Goulet, 23-year-old daughter of Robert Goulet, confides that stepmother Carole Lawrence tried to keep her hidden from the world as long as possible. Goulet's second wife hated to share the limelight with her husband's daughter from a previous marriage. Lovely Nikki, who played Mary Ryan Fennell on TV's 'Ryan's Hope,' calls her father, whom she scarcely knew until recently. Bob. Her voice shaking with emotion, Nikki recalls the cruel way that Carole Lawrence treated her. "She never wanted the world to know that Bob had a daughter. I never felt welcome in their home until they split. Now that she's out of his life, Bob's finally accepting me as his daughter." A $1 million promotion program for Care-Free Sugarless Gum is being launched by Life Savers, Inc. A 'Care-Free Fever' contest will be conducted in 20 major American cities. It features the popular rock group Daryl Hall & John Oates and Barry Richards, a radio personality and celebrity who will act as program coordinator in each city.
