Sixteen file for Lincoln county posts

The passing of the filing date for county offices Tuesday marked the end of campaigning for two commission candidates, who will be unopposed for that office.

Filing for reelection in District One was present commission chairman Thomas P. "Cotton" McKnight, Picacho, on the Republican ticket. Also unopposed for reelection is District Two commissioner John Allen Hightower, Ancho, on the Democratic side.

In the District Three county commission slot, Ben Hall filed for reelection as a Republican. He will be opposed by Democrat Jim Woodruff. Both are residents of Ruidoso.

Democratic candidates for county sheriff include Bill Elliott of Ruidoso and Max Watson of Carrizozo.

Seeking the Republican nomination for sheriff are the incumbent, Ernest Sanchez of Hondo and Orlando Montes of Ruidoso. Democrat Michael D. Gray of Ruidoso will oppose Jane McSwane, the Republican incumbent, for the office of county clerk.

Two Carrizozo residents, C. O. "Chuck" Rominger, Democrat, and Julia Samora, Republican, will seek the office of county assessor.

The Democratic candidate for county treasurer will be Martha Guevara of Carrizozo. The Republican nomination for that office will be sought by Kay Allison and Bill Morrison, both of Ruidoso.

The single candidate for probate judge is Democrat John W. Thompson of Ruidoso.

Rotarians set enchilada feed

The Ruidoso Rotary Club is sponsoring their semi-annual enchilada feed April 15 at the Ruidoso Elks Lodge.

Enchiladas, with all the trimmings, made and served by Rotarians, will be served from 11:30 a.m.-1 p.m., and 5-8 p.m. The enchilada feeds are held to raise funds for the Rotary's local projects, including this summer's schedule of supporting Home Health Care, exchange students and installation of street signs on residential streets.

An example of projects the Rotary supports are the $1,500 contributed to the Intensive Care Unit of Ruidoso Hondo Valley Hospital last fall and the radio equipment donated to White Mountain Search and Rescue, totalling about $2,800.

C-C's Easter program set

An Easter hat contest, a Dixieland band, games for all ages and hot dogs for 25c will be featured attractions at Sunday's "Afternoon in the Park," sponsored by the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce Retail Merchants Committee.

The fun begins at 2 p.m., in School House Park with a short religious ceremony conducted by the Ministerial Alliance. The Easter hat contest will end mid-afternoon with judging of the funniest and most original hats. A gag prize will be given for the worst looking hat.

Saturday, retail merchants will sponsor the annual Easter egg hunt in Two Rivers Park, which begins at 10 a.m. Children will be divided into three groups: 0-4; 5-7 and 8-10.

Children four and under may be assisted by their parents in finding some of the more than 200 dozen eggs which will be hidden early Saturday.

Prizes for the most eggs found in each age group will be given. 100 plastic eggs will contain redeemable certificates for prizes at local retail shops.

"We hope the population of the village will turn out at both these events," Richard Sandoval, retail merchants chairman, said. "This will give local people a chance to see their neighbors one more time before the racing season arrives."

'Fantastiks' here April 9

"The Fantastiks" a musical which has run on Broadway since 1960, will be presented in Ruidoso's Holiday Inn April 9 at 8 p.m., under the sponsorship of the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce.

Tickets to "The Fantastiks" are available for $15 each at the Chamber and includes dinner and the play. The evening of entertainment begins at 8:30 with no-host cocktails, followed by dinner at 7:30.

The play begins at 8:30 and is being presented by the Eastern New Mexico University (ENMU) Corral Players under the direction of Judi Rucker, special instructor of Theater at ENMU.

The Corral Players are the ENMU College of Fine Arts Touring Company and includes cast members Fat Fulmer, Justin Raper, David Foster and Mark Zwilling, all of Albuquerque; David Rainey and Sandy Owens of Clovis; Doug Grady of Pojoaque; Edward Lee of Springdale, Arkansas; Bill Case of Roswell and James Kille of Portales.

"The Fantastiks" is the story of young love, innocence and reality and is performed on a bare platform with all properties stored in one large trunk. Songs featured in the show include "I Can See It," "Soon It's Gonna Rain," and "Try To Remember."

Only 100 tickets are available and reservations must be confirmed by 3 p.m. Friday, according to Ed Jungbluth, executive director of the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce.

To make reservations, call the Chamber at 257-7395.

Gale wreaks havoc here

BY GWYNETH JONES
Staff Writer/Photographer

Weather for the final day of March failed to live up to its proverbial lamb-like gentleness in Ruidoso, where wind gusts were recorded at 70 to 80 miles per hour, causing thousands of dollars worth of damage to private property.

Probably the most severe damage occurred at Casey's Cabins on Sudderth, where a pine tree measuring about 30 inches in diameter snapped off and fell across a cabin, crushing the roof and damaging the interior.

Owner Lowell McIntyre said the cabin's bedroom, which was unoccupied at the time, was "just demolished." He estimated the damage at close to $10,000, including the cost of cutting the tree into manageable-sized chunks and electrical and structural repairs.

McIntyre said he had been fertilizing flower beds near the tree just prior to the accident.

"I went inside to get a cup of coffee, heard a noise and looked out. I watched it go down. I bet my eyes got this big around," he said, making a five-inch circle with his fingers.

McIntyre said he called his wife, Ann, who thought he was playing an April Fool's joke a day early. But when he led her to the site of the accident, "I thought she was going to pass out," he said.

Wood from the tree will be used to help heat the cabins next winter, after it has dried sufficiently. More than three cords were produced from the tree, which McIntyre said was one of the tallest on the property.

McIntyre said he did carry insurance on the cabins, but added, "like everyone else — not enough."

At Sierra Blanca Ski Area, no damage was sustained by the lifts, although the resort was forced to close early because of winds which gusted to 80 miles per hour, according to mountain manager Denny Grover.

However, a 27 foot Siletto Catamaran belonging to Grover was blown, with its trailer, over the top of a bus and into the trees, he said.

The boat sustained "about $4,000 worth of damage," Grover said. He purchased the boat in October, and said it would probably have to be taken to Sarasota, Florida (where it was manufactured) for WIND DAMAGE at Casey's Cabins in midtown Ruidoso was estimated at nearly $10,000 by owner Lowell McIntyre, right. repairs. The roof of the rental shop at Sierra Blanca Ski Area also incurred minor damage, but it had already been repaired by the following morning.

Another unscheduled flight took place at the NAPA Auto Parts store on Sudderth. A portable metal building took off over a five foot chain link fence and plunged down a 20 foot embankment, coming to rest in the Rio Ruidoso.

The building, which measured 10 by 12 feet and was not equipped with a floor, left its contents — batteries, cores and miscellaneous equipment — in their original location.

Lin Larner was serving a customer at the Exxon station next to the NAPA store at the time of the incident.

"It just flew right over the top," Larner said. "That's the only way to describe it." Just before the building went over, Larner was running across the NAPA parking lot, "chasing down a credit card," which had blown off the top of a pump.

He looked up in time to see the building take off "right into the air — like it was paper. I couldn't believe it. I was surprised to find my own storage building still standing this morning," he said.

Greg Wheeler of NAPA said none of the store employees witnessed the incident, but as the structure crashed down the rocky bank, "The noise sure got our attention," he said.

Wheeler said the building, valued at $400, was a total loss. "We've already found someone to haul it off for scrap," he said.

A spokesman at the Ruidoso Municipal Airport said the official wind speed was about 64 knots or "about 75 miles per hour." Two large empty barrels were blown across a ramp at the facility, he said, inflicting minor damage to wheel pans, rudders and elevators of three airplanes.

In other areas, trees snapped off, including two large specimens next to Madre's on Sudderth, but no damage was reported there. Private property owners reportedly suffered some damage to roofs and mobile homes throughout the Ruidoso-Ruidoso Downs area.

Ski Report

Sierra Blanca: Undisturbed snow depth midway up the mountain is 57 inches. There was a trace of new snow Tuesday night. Skiing conditions are rated fair, and the lower beginner slopes are icy. The resort will be open through Easter Sunday.

County offices closing Friday

Offices in the Lincoln County courthouse at Carrizozo will close at 12 noon Good Friday, county manager Bill Billingsley said Wednesday.

Health group elects directors

At the annual meeting of the Lincoln County Mental Health Association Monday night, four persons were elected to the organization's board of directors.

Continuing as board members will be Annette Rouleau, of Capitan and Dorsey Grover of Ruidoso. Newly elected members are Father Delbert Achuff of Ruidoso and Carol Keys of Fort Stanton.

In addition to the general membership of the association, attending the meeting were staff members of the Ruidoso and Carrizozo Counseling Centers; Don Hoover, Paul Gallegos and Sandy Taylor; and Jim Braswell, director of the Otero and Lincoln County centers.

The Ruidoso Distributive Education Clubs of America (DECA) will sponsor a truckload seafood sale during April, according to DECA sponsor Eddie Parker.

DECA students are now taking orders for the seafood, which is sold in two to five-pound bags. Items available include Alaska salmon, whole salmon, smoked salmon, halibut, walleye, cod and red snapper fillets, ling cod steaks, Alaska king and snow crab, shrimp and lobster tails. All seafood is fresh frozen and will be delivered April 30 and May 1 at the parking lot of Gibson's. Seafood will be paid for when delivered, Parker said. To place an order, contact Parker at the high school, 257-7324.

All profits will be used to help defray expenses for the 20 DECA students who qualified for national DECA competition to be held in Miami, Florida in June.

Parker has pegged the cost of the trip at $5,000, which he hopes students can earn through the seafood sale and a garage sale April 24.

Those wishing to donate items for the garage sale should call Parker at the high school to have them picked up. "We will be conducting other fund raising projects in coming weeks to raise the needed money," Parker said. "We hope these two projects will get us off to a good start."

The three staffers outlined their major areas of activity and reviewed the center's accomplishments since the local offices were opened in February, 1979.

Hoover said a major function of the association was to "get the word out about what we're doing at the Counseling Centers." Membership in the organization, which is a satellite of the Otero County Association, now numbers about 80, he said.

The center exist, he said, for "people who, for some reason or other, need to talk to someone about a problem that is bothering them."

The staff members agreed that "word of mouth," dispersal, of information was the largest single source of referrals to the centers. Hoover said the center had provided services to 425 families during its first year of operation. Referrals also come from doctors, law enforcement officers, judges, the children's probation office, school personnel and social agencies.

Services offered at the center include counseling for alcohol and drug problems, marriage counseling, rape crisis counseling and youth problems.

Two new programs involving the center are a Parents Anonymous chapter in Ruidoso and a monthly meeting with Ruidoso ministers.

Taylor also outlined a school discussion program which she is coordinating at White Mountain Elementary and Middle Schools. The program consists of weekly discussion with eight separate groups of students on such subjects as drugs, alcohol, divorce, television and cheating in school. The topics are generally chosen by the students, Taylor said.

Gallegos, who counsels county residents on alcohol abuse, said he felt alcoholism is "the largest single problem we are working with." He has worked with 106

This meeting was at the Ruidoso home of Kathryn Williams, sister of co-hostess Nancy McCarty, with Fronie Ramey, Tularosa, and Louise Ferguson, Capitan, also serving as co-hostesses. Members present included Hazel Arthurs, Leota Pfingsten, Ofelia Salas, Lyndy Samelson, Angie Provine, Bernice Morrison, Elsie Kimbrell, Inez Pacheco, Nellie Jones, Kathy Weems, Greta Cabot, Darla Lathan, Nancy McCarty, Louise Ferguson, Fronie Ramey, "Dutch" Cunningham, Carrie Lois Godley and Beth Noaker.

Youth arrested

A 17-year-old juvenile was arrested Wednesday by Ruidoso Downs Police after he became involved in a scuffle with other juveniles.

The fight occurred next door to the Ruidoso Downs Police station, and chief Ray Garner said it involved rock throwing. In the course of the incident, a Volvo automobile belonging to George T. Leonard of Denville, New Jersey was damaged. Investigation is continuing into the damage to the vehicle.

Garner is also seeking the owner of a five to six month old dog which was taken into custody recently. The dog appears to be a Doberman-Shepherd mix, and will have to be destroyed if the owner is not located. The animal was wearing no tags when captured.

Children's movies set at library

The Ruidoso Public Library is sponsoring a series of movies each Saturday morning this month. This week's movie, "Lost Hunter", will begin at 11 and is a suspenseful drama about a man who becomes lost while on a hunting trip. It tells how he survived in the wilderness and how he was found.

Ira Castor, an employee at Smokey Bear Ranger Station, will give a program on wildlife and fire prevention following the movie.

The movie series is designed for children in third through fifth grades and will feature a movie and special program each week, according to Ingrid Schmitz, spokesperson for the library.

Schmitz said National Library Week is April 13 through 19 and the local library is observing it by proclaiming "Amnesty Week." She said anyone with overdue books can return them during that week with no fine assessed.

"This is one way we have of getting many overdue books back," Schmitz said.

Volunteers aid Center residents

BY CHARLOTTE FELLERS

Volunteers have become a vital segment of the program at Ruidoso Care Center (RCC), according to Thomasine Pounds, social care director.

"We now have 18 volunteers for our 25 residents," she said. She hopes that figure will climb as the number of residents increases.

Pounds said one volunteer, Jan Williams, has given residents a lot of pleasure since the center opened in February. "Jan is always dependable and does a great job. The residents just love her — their faces actually sparkle when she comes in," Pounds said.

Williams was one of the first to volunteer her time at the center. She is responsible for preparing all decorations at RCC including special events and holidays.

Williams recently completed decorations for Easter, which involved placing Easter rabbit wall hangings on each resident's door and two displays in the dining room and main hallway.

Williams is in business for herself designing floral arrangements and other decorative hangings. She received training at the Cliff Mann Floral School in Denver, Colorado and took a short course at Red River Pottery in Albuquerque.

She said that the talent to decorate "has always come naturally to me." She said the work is "the most satisfying I've ever done in my life. I love being with people and it gives me pleasure to make something for people's homes that they can enjoy."

Williams volunteers because "it makes life worthwhile." She also volunteers as a youth leader at the First Baptist Church in Ruidoso Downs.

Williams was reared in Artesia and has worked in Arizona and Arkansas primarily in food service. She was the assistant manager for Royal Inns of America in Mesa, Arizona nine years and was a model eight years while in Arizona. Williams also worked in a major shopping center department store in Scottsdale, Arizona where she received first prize for her window displays.

Williams holds a degree in food and nutrition from Arizona State University in Tempe, and since moving to Ruidoso, has worked as manager of a local dining establishment.

Williams said she "never runs out of ideas" for her decorations. "I'll see something and it will make me think of a new decoration," she said.

Her next topic of decor at RCC will be the next major event in Ruidoso — the opening of Ruidoso Downs Race Track.

JAN WILLIAMS volunteers several hours a month at Ruidoso Care Center to decorate the building for holidays.

Rotarians warned against smoking

"It's never too late to stop smoking," Dr. Paul Whitwam said to Rotary Club members Tuesday at their regular meeting.

DR. PAUL WHITWAM

Whitwam, who is the Medical Committee Chairman of the East Lincoln Chapter of the American Cancer Society, gave a short program outlining the effects of smoking on the lungs and hearts of humans. He used slides of diseased organs to illustrate the bad effects of the habit.

Whitwam said lung cancer has reached epidemic proportions in men, and women are slowly catching up, and attributes the cancer to smoking. He said smokers die younger in higher proportions than non-smokers.

"If you smoke, you will live an average of seven years less. The longer you smoke, the more you smoke and the more deeply you inhale, the more problems you will have," Whitwam said.

He said the least damaging type of smoking is a pipe, but the incidence of lip and mouth cancers is most prevalent with pipe smokers.

Whitwam said the death rate for women has doubled in ten years because of smoking and pregnant women who smoke experience a greater incidence of stillbirths and other problems with infants.

He said it is easy to spot a smoker. "Smokers lose skin elasticity — this means that they will get wrinkles faster than non-smokers," he said.

Smokers have 70 percent more heart attacks than non-smokers and lingering diseases, such as emphysema, are common to smokers. "I feel more sympathy for the person with one of those lingering diseases because they will suffer for years on end; a person with cancer will probably die within a year or two, if the cancer is widespread," Whitwam said.

He said people who smoke low tar/low nicotine cigarettes who think they are "doing themselves a favor" aren't really "ahead of the game." He said that while the damage they're doing is not as bad, it's still detrimental.

Whitwam said that smoking is not only a bad habit in terms of health, but it's also expensive. "A person who smokes a pack a day at 75c a pack, will spend $273.75 a year just on smokes," he said.

Whitwam said a couple could feasibly spend $400 a year on cigarettes, and added that figures supplied by a local insurance agent shows that non-smokers have lower rates for life insurance than smokers.

He said for every $1,000 of life insurance a smoker over the age of 35 will pay $2.50 compared to $2.08 for a non-smoker. "That ought to tell you something," he said.

He said people who have smoked for many years and quit have found their taste buds are more sensitive, they can breathe more easily and "they generally feel better."

He said he has seen lungs actually clear up when smokers quit because they no longer have the foreign matter to cope with each day.

"The sooner you quit, the longer you'll live," Whitwam said.

Flood victims' relatives live in Alto area

Mr. and Mrs. Walt Harrelson of Alto received word late Wednesday that their daughter and one grandchild died in a flood which swept through Wichita Falls, Texas Wednesday. Other relatives in this area are Mr. and Mrs. John Harrelson of Alto, an aunt and uncle.

According to Ruth Harrelson of Alto, family members were in a car when heavy rains began falling in Wichita Falls. They retreated to a dry drainage pipe for safety, as ordered by officials.

Harrelson said the daughter, two daughters-in-law, two sons and two grandchildren were together in the pipe and all were rescued safely except the Harrelson's daughter and grandchild. Among the survivors was a six-month-old granddaughter.

Harrelson said tornado warnings were posted in the Wichita Falls area all day Wednesday and while no tornados touched in the city, many areas around the city were affected.

Cinderella pageant entry deadline set

May 5 is the deadline for all young ladies in Lincoln County to enter the Cinderella Girl Pageant, according to Diana Hankins.

The pageant will be held in the Ruidoso High School gymnasium May 8-10. Entry blanks are available from Tots and Teens in midtown Ruidoso.

The contest is open to all young ladies aged 3-17. Entry fee is $20 to cover the costs of modeling lessons and stage presentation instructions prior to the pageant. The fee also helps defray costs of trophies, crowns and banners.

"The main purpose of the pageant is to teach the entrants that if you do your best, you are always a winner," Hankins said. The program stresses participation, fellowship and good sportsmanship more than winning.

The age group divisions and requirements are:

Cinderella Tots - Three to six years old will compete in a street length party dress, sportswear and a close-up appraisal of each contestant.

Miniature Miss Cinderella - Seven to nine year olds will compete in street length party dress, sportswear, close-up appraisal and three-minute talent competition.

Miss Cinderella - Ten to 12 year olds will compete with same requirements as Miniature Miss.

Cinderella Teen - For girls 13 to 17 years old who will compete in evening gown, sportswear, commentary of a few sentences and talent.

Presbyterians set Good Friday rites

A special 7:30 p.m., Good Friday service will be part of the pre-Easter program at the Ruidoso Presbyterian Church. A life size cross will be used to assist the congregation to recall the crucifixion of Jesus Christ.

"This unique service, which has been conducted for years in the local church, is open to the public," pastor Frank Crown said, "as are all services conducted by this congregation."

"Come and recall with us how much God loves you and how much He loves the world."

individuals in the past year. Alcohol, Gallegos said, is also related to numerous other situations, such as the increasing divorce rate, students dropping out of school and so on.

Jack Johnson of Capitan, who serves on the Area VI Mental Health Board, praised the work of the staff, calling the local facilities "the best in the five county area."

Grover also advised the group that the Mental Health Association of New Mexico will hold a statewide organizational meeting April 12 in Albuquerque.

Volunteers changing Nob Hill students' opinion of 'grown ups'

One of several parent volunteer programs which has gained the approval of Nob Hill Elementary students is one where parents share their talents or job descriptions with children.

This week, Ron and Sheila Harris, an attorney and legal secretary, visited Nob Hill Tuesday afternoon, wearing the hats of musicians.

The Harrises played the flute and guitar, and sang several songs for the children. "We like to get parents or people from the community who have different talents or job descriptions to come visit the class," Don Weems, principal at Nob Hill, said.

"It gives them a different view of parents; they see them as something other than just parents," he said. Weems said local professional people have also given talks to Nob Hill students to explain what they do at work every day.

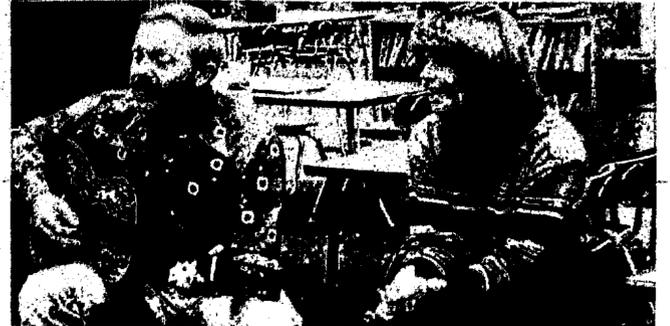

"This has been most effective with the dentists and doctors, for instance," Weems said. "The children are normally scared of these people — after all, who likes to go to the dentist? But when the dentist comes here and explains why he does those things he does, it makes him seem more like a friend than someone to be scared of."

Weems said people who take 20 minutes to familiarize the children with their jobs "makes the kids see that they are good people, not the bad guys."

Others who have shared their time and talents with Nob Hill students include local police officers, an optometrist, a veterinarian and several people with talents at crafts.

"It's nice to have the community care enough about the children to get involved with the schools in this manner," Weems said.

"The children eat this up. It's just one more small thing that breaks up their normal routine," Weems said. He said he expected half the children to go home and tell their parents about the special activity. "They love to have something different to tell their parents each day," he said.

Marcia and David Silver. The dinner was held at the Silvers' home Monday night and was given by the Langfords. Items on the menu included Gazpacho, salade Française, Tournedos Bearnaise a la Bouquetiere, bread and butter and cherries jubilee for dessert. Red and white wine and coffee were also served.

Capitan churches schedule community Easter services

A community Easter worship service is being planned by several Capitan churches.

A sunrise service is scheduled for 5:45 a.m., Sunday on the grounds of the First Baptist Church of Capitan. The service will consist of music and an Easter message from pastor Wayland Holbrook, and was coordinated by the Reverend David Lynch, Holbrook and Father David Berg, all of Capitan.

The youth of the First Baptist Church will stage a pageant as part of the service, and music will be provided by the congregation and special guests.

KATHERINE PRICE FINLEY reviewed the book "Gift from the Sea" by Anne Morrow Lindbergh for an audience of 27 at the Ruidoso Public Library Tuesday morning. The program was sponsored by Friends of the Library.

Following the service, a free pastry breakfast will be served at the church, with coffee, milk and juice provided. Baptist Sunday School will begin at 8:45, followed by regular worship services at 10 a.m., instead of the traditional weekly worship time, Holbrook said.

Methodist morning worship services will begin at 9:00, and Easter mass will be recited at the Catholic Church at 11 a.m.

Fish Market Plans musical entertainment

This week's featured musical guests at the Fish Market Coffee House will be Janey Brennand, Alan Kaster, Danny Racher and Shana Holly.

The Fish Market opens at 7 p.m., Friday and Saturday with refreshments of popcorn, sandwiches, pizza, ice cream and assorted beverages available.

The coffee house is a subsidiary of Inspiration Corporation, a non-profit, non-denominational corporation located next door to Lela Easter Real Estate on Mechem Drive.

4-H Club may organize here Monday evening

Ruidoso area residents who are interested in helping organize a local 4-H Club, as well as prospective members, are asked to attend a meeting to be held at the Ruidoso Public Library at 7 p.m., Monday, April 7.

4-H is open to any youngster between the ages of nine and 18, regardless of race, creed, color or sex. Club activities are supervised by the county extension department.

Conner/Darling vows said

Cindi Conner became the bride of Danny Darling in a ceremony in magistrate court at Ruidoso's village hall Monday. Both are residents of Lubbock, Texas.

Judge John Cupp officiated at the wedding of the couple, who said they made the trip from west Texas because they "just wanted to get married in the mountains."

The bride is the daughter of Katie Connor of Lubbock and the late W. T. Conner. She is employed as a chef with Lubbock's Greenhouse Restaurant and is a stained glass artist.

The bridegroom, son of Vera and Glen Darling of Milam, Texas is a professional musician and songwriter. Attendants at the afternoon ceremony were magistrate court clerk Nita Blalock and former judge Alton Gray of Ruidoso.

A YOUNG LAD from Tularosa sits patiently on the shore of Bonito Lake, hoping a hungry rainbow or brook trout will take a fancy to his hook. And he didn't even have to play hooky to fish on opening day — It's spring break for Tularosa school children. Just over 250 fishermen wet their lines at Bonito on opening day, the Department of Game and Fish office in Roswell estimated.

Gymnasts in special exercise program

Ruidoso gymnasts are currently enjoying the benefits of a new exercise program.

Gymnastic coach Blake Starr put together a series of 15 exercises for his advanced team, and evaluated each gymnast based on body type and strength level. Then each was given goals based on current fitness levels.

"The object," Starr said, "was to fulfill as much of the goal sheets as possible. Testing was done on three separate days in February."

For completion of goals, points were awarded. The gymnast with the highest percentage of completion won a trophy, as did the second and third best completion rate gymnasts.

Deanne Lofton, with 704 of 712 points, won the competition. Amy Thornton was second, with 539 of 635 points, and Laura Hankins was third with 525 of 633.

Others participating were Lols Covill, Amy Evans, Karen Gann, Charlene Hickson, Angela Jones, Theresa Sanchez, Melinda Sidwell and Denise Delhotal.

"We use the exercise programs," Starr said, "to supplement our regular classes. The exercises help improve all round performing, as well as raise general fitness levels."

"We plan to later begin this program in our regular classes."

Duffers lose in Roswell tourney

Ruidoso golf coach Leroy Gooch is a music teacher, but lately he's been something of a slinger.

Unfortunately, it's the same song — "My Squad Isn't Doing Too Good."

"We didn't do too good," he said of the Warriors' performances Tuesday at a tournament in Roswell played on the New Mexico Military Institute course.

Although his players brought their individual scores down several strokes, the Warriors still lost — in fact, they came in dead last of the 10 team field, with a 365. Clovis High School won the tourney with a 311.

Paul Kirkwood continues to lead the individual scoring, shooting an 84 Tuesday. Mike Dale was second best with a 91, including a hole in one on the 17th hole, a par three, 165 yard hole.

"How do you like that?" Gooch said. "He hits a hole in one and still shoots a 91." Todd Perrett was next with a 94, followed by Kyle Kannady with 96 and Don Nunley with a 97.

"We don't have any excuses," Gooch said. "It was a beautiful day, and we just didn't score like we should've."

The Warriors have a long wait before they compete on the greens again. They take to the links April 25, in the 54 hole, two day tournament to be played here on three courses. Fourteen other teams will compete as well.

"And we'd like to thank everybody who participated in our scramble last Sunday," Gooch said. "It really helped us."

OVER OR UNDER-SPENDING

Some people spend more than they can afford when buying a house. Equally painful is the mistake of buying the cheapest possible house and then suffering through its shortcomings.

I have no intention of stating how much anyone can afford for a house. This is a very personal decision. There are guidelines of monthly averages that lending institutions use for housing expenses. But — like the "height/weight" charts printed on scales — these are only averages.

Don't hold back if you feel you can exceed the guidelines. When you are willing and sufficiently disciplined to economize on other expenses, you can get a better house than the average calls for. A good house may seem costly, but the rewards are well worth it. Investing in a house that's a little more expensive gives you an excellent inflation hedge while your whole family enjoys a better place to live. And often, the resale opportunity is brighter.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at DEVON DEVELOPMENT, INC., 2904 Sudderth Drive, Box 1860, Ruidoso. Phone: 257-5511. We're here to help!

Track still a possibility

BY MARK BAGBY
Sports Editor

Is there a track facility in Ruidoso's future? The answer is a definite "maybe."

Doyle Howell, Ruidoso High School athletic director, said the school put in a request for a grant with the state of New Mexico last August for funds to build a new track facility. The request was denied.

The school system itself cannot afford to build a track, Howell said, because it simply doesn't have the money.

"We are one of the few schools in the state that is still growing," he said. "It takes all of our money just to keep up with our academics, and then there's really nothing left to spend on athletics."

"It's pretty hard to bypass academics to build a track when we need classrooms."

There is a quarter mile track in Ruidoso east of White Mountain Middle School, but it is quite old and has become very hard, not to mention being extremely cracked. Village track coaches feel the track is abhorrent and, for all practical purposes, unusable.

This has forced other measures for track teams, such as running laps around the high school football field.

"We planned to rework the old track," Howell said, "if we had gotten the grant. With our weather, we felt an all-weather surface would be the best thing, and then we would have fenced it in. In the middle of the field we would have a soccer field."

"We went all out. As a long range proposal, we were going to put a dressing room on one end, and stands on either side."

"Eventually we would have turned the whole thing into a sports complex with a football field and complete facilities."

But, he said, without the money, it will just remain a dream.

"Everybody is aware of our need," he said. "But you just can't do it when you don't have anything to buy it with."

Total estimated cost for a six lane, all weather, fenced-in track would be about $143,000, Howell said. But that was in 1979. The cost would be higher today, and with the current rate of inflation, "I'd be afraid to take a guess," he said.

The track facility, if ever built, would be open to the public for jogging and other recreation. Part of the plan involved putting a bicycle lap around the outside of the track.

Shaw makes all state cage listings

Lisa Shaw, a junior at Ruidoso High School, was the only basketball Warrior — from both girls' and boys' squads — to make the AAA all state teams.

Shaw was listed in the "Honorable Mention" roster, published Wednesday in the Albuquerque Journal. All state selections are made by AAA coaches.

Shaw was also an all-district selection.

LISA SHAW

"And the longer we have to put it off," Howell said, "the more it will cost to build. Prices are going up every day."

Not having a track at this point might be a blessing in disguise. The state athletic association switched from the English system to the metric system, which means extensive and expensive reworking of high school tracks.

"Our proposal was for a metric track, since we knew it was coming," Howell said. "They're not terribly hard to convert, but it is something that would have to be done."

One of the best reasons for getting a track, Howell said, is the current energy situation. With no track available, track squads must travel to other cities for all their competition.

"Having a track here would mean less expensive travel bills," he said. "There's no more ideal time to get one, because travel sure won't be getting less expensive."

"And the district rotates the district track meet from year to year. When it comes our turn, we have to pass. It'd be nice to have a couple of meets here."

Howell said the school plans to present an application for the grant again this year, "and the more work we do beforehand, the better our chances of getting it. We have to find out how much of interest there is from the village, how it would affect everyone. The better our proposal looks, the better our chances."

"If we all work together, write the legislators on the grant committee and tell them we want and need a track, that would sure help our chances too," he said.

Sportin' Life

... a column of opinion ...

by

Mark Bagby

Spent an interesting morning Tuesday. I went fishing at Bonito Lake, since it was opening day there.

And I do mean it was an interesting morning.

I got up around 3 a.m., to help feed my two month old son (I made the bottle and went back to bed — Dee did most of the feeding). At 4, I got back up and took a shower, since I was supposed to be at Ky Scott's (the world's most avid fisherman and a coworker) place just before 5.

I made it to Ky's, where I got him out of bed. Then we were joined by Jack Pafford, (the world's second most avid fisherman and also a coworker) with the greatest intentions of leaving at 5 a.m.

It was more like 5:30 before we were actually on our way, with Ky curving at every mile ("the lake opens at 6, someone else will get our spot"). But we made it to Bonito before 6.

It looked like about 500 fishermen were already lining the banks of the beautiful lake, which is owned by the city of Alamogordo (but it's 60 miles away — does that make sense?). Ky said he'd take us to "the spot," the location of which I can't divulge for fear of ripped out fingernails, gouged out eyeballs and other nasty tortures too unpleasant to mention.

We parked Ky's truck and went to the shoreline. It was just before 6, and the air, though chilly, wasn't unpleasant — until the wind started blowing like crazy, then it was downright unpleasant.

We sat down by the water, where I prepared to tangle with New Mexican trout — I'd dealt with their cousins in Arkansas before, but there aren't very many trout in Oklahoma (no cold, clear, fast moving streams).

Ky and Jack sort of lectured me on the properties and principles behind their fishing gear, as I was similarly equipped. They pulled out some awful smelling stuff called "float bait," and it was labeled — I kid you not — "garlic flavor." Hmmmmmm... I didn't know fish here had a taste for Italian food. Odd.

We had stuff back in my day — I really hadn't been fishing in several years, folks, and then it was from a bass boat and we were after largemouth bass in Lake Eufaula, Oklahoma — that was called "stink bait," which is certainly an appropriate name, believe me. I still don't know how you ever caught stuff with it, and even if you did, who'd want to eat it? (I sure wouldn't eat anything that would eat something so foul smelling.)

Well, we baited our hooks and I decided to see if I still knew how to cast. Not too bad on the first toss, better on the second.

The third landed almost, oh, about two feet in front of me.

I had to wait, of course, until the 6 a.m. siren. Ky told me, "Stand back when that siren goes off. You're liable to get hit with the waves caused by all that lead hitting the water."

Sure enough, when that siren went off, the 30 or so people alongside us cast their lines in unison, like a well-practiced chorus line kicking their legs. Weirdest thing I ever saw.

It wasn't long till one of us hooked a fish. Jack drew first blood, coming up with a little rainbow barely longer than an ink pen.

"I think I'll rehook him and see if I can't get me a man-sized fish," he commented nonchalantly.

It was a while later — with the wind blowing wildly — before any of us caught fish. It took me a while to get the hang of it — I heard enough jokes about Okies and my almost-forgotten fishing skills to last me a lifetime.

But eventually, we all caught our limits, and I did have the satisfaction of catching the largest fish. (I may not be the world's most avid fisherman, but I can wet my line well enough to put food on the table.)

It took us about two and a half hours total to catch our limits, but I'd say we enjoyed ourselves. The people next to us caught their limit too, and we watched them and shot the bull and smelled garlic bait and all that rot.

Amazing what folks do for fun, what? I'd say I had a great time, but I don't think I could get up at 4 in the morning every day. Heck, even the fish are still asleep at that hour.

Adult soccer

Well, it appears Ruidoso just might have adult soccer this summer.

As of last Sunday, program director Butch Grantham tells me, he had enough people to form two men's and two women's teams.

"The response is just incredible," he said. "And I know I didn't have everybody who expressed interest come out."

More than 90 percent of the players, he said, have never played the game, "so we'll have to teach everybody." What that translates to is: no experience necessary.

Butch wants more adults out there, and the current four teams will begin practice Sunday at 2 p.m., at White Mountain Middle School, and Butch urged everyone even mildly interested to come out.

"You won't know if you like it or not unless you try it," he said.

Good point.

Warrior golfer notches ace

It's not everyone who hits a hole-in-one in their golfing careers. Take Bob Hickson, golf pro at Cree Meadows, as an example — he's scored but one ace in over 40 years of golf.

Ruidoso golf coach Leroy Gooch has an ace too, but he's been playing for nearly 30 years.

So why is it a virtual novice (almost) scores a hole in one?

Mike Dale, 16, on the Ruidoso High School golf team, hit his first ever ace on the 17th hole of the New Mexico Military Institute course, during play in a tournament.

"Mike's been hooking and slicing for almost two years. He took his feat in stride.

"He didn't seem to think it was any big deal," father Don Dale said. "Seemed pretty nonchalant about it. I thought it was great."

The 17th is a par 3, 165 yard hole. Young Dale used a six iron on the hole, hitting a Dunlop Maxi-Flite Titleist ball the full distance.

For his accomplishment, Dunlop will honor him with a plaque marking the feat, and he will be mentioned in an upcoming issue of Golf Digest.

But, unfortunately, there's a cloud around his silver lining — he may have eagled the hole, but he also double bogeyed three others, scoring a 91.

Which just goes to prove, you can't win 'em all.

Adult soccer league forming

Efforts are underway to give Ruidoso an adult soccer league this summer, said program director Butch Grantham Wednesday.

Grantham and Bob Gregson are the heads of Ruidoso's Sertoma soccer league for youngsters. But interest was sufficient, Grantham said, to begin planning an adult league.

"Anybody who is too old to play for the junior league can play," Grantham said. "Right now, we have enough people to form two men's and two women's teams, and I know that's not all the people who expressed interest in playing."

Grantham will hold a practice Sunday at 2 p.m., at White Mountain Middle School for anyone interested in playing.

"No experience is necessary," he said. "We'll be glad to teach the game to anyone."

Motorcycle course begins April 17

Ruidoso High School principal Tom Hansen announced a beginning motorcycle riders' course will be offered this spring at the school from April 17 to May 20.

The course is sponsored by the Motorcycle Safety Foundation and will be taught by Hansen, Galen Farrington and Bob Elder. It is not offered for high school credit, but is being made available to riders of all ages with the goal of increasing motorcycle safety and reducing accidents and injuries to novice riders.

A fee of $25 is charged to defray costs incurred.

Materials for the course were presented by Tim Thompson to the high school on the condition a program be established as soon as possible. The three instructors traveled to Greeley, Colorado by motorcycle last summer to receive training to qualify as instructors for the Motorcycle Safety Foundation.

Financing for the course in Greeley was provided by the Traffic Safety Division of the New Mexico Department of Transportation. Milt Matson, district representative for the Traffic Safety Division in Roswell, was instrumental in securing approval for the trip to Greeley.

Motorcycles will be provided by Norm Arnold Honda, of Alamogordo, Roadrunner Kawasaki of Roswell and Southwest Suzuki of Alamogordo.

Requirements for the course are:

1. The student must attend all classes;
2. Proper clothing, including helmet;
3. The required fee.

Enrollment is limited to 24, but a second class may follow, depending on demand.

Though the course is designed for beginning riders, Hansen said, any interested person from the age of 12 up may enroll.

For more information or to register, call Hansen at 257-7324.

Little League baseball signups begin Tuesday

Registration for the 1980 Little League baseball programs in Ruidoso begins April 8, at 7 p.m., in Nob Hill Elementary School.

Players ages 8-15 may register for one of three leagues, depending on age — PeeWee, Major and Pony. Fee is $5, and a parent should accompany each child.

Registration will continue at Nob Hill the following Tuesday (April 15), and is sponsored by the Ruidoso Little League Association.

Solid oak carved door territorial era design

Kerry Krumsiek, owner of Little Creek Construction in Ruidoso, Wednesday put the finishing touches on a solid oak carved door which he was due to install that day at the home of Michael Hurd in San Patricio. The door, which is four feet wide and about six and one-half feet tall, is a scaled down replica of a territorial era door. His design was based on a five by three inch photograph of an exterior door in an old adobe building. Translating that design into a different scale was probably the "most time-consuming part" of the job, Krumsiek said. He spent about two-and-one-half weeks in planning and construction of the door.

Although he was working from a small model, the original door was probably eight feet in height, which meant modification of the design. The door will be stained a light gray to give it a more weathered appearance, Krumsiek said. He gave the door a rough, textured finish to achieve the same effect. Screws and wooden pegs assure sturdiness, he added. The weight of the door was estimated by Krumsiek at 350 pounds. At eye level is a double-hinged gate which may be opened from the inside. The door was to become part of an adobe and wrought iron wall at the Hurd home.

REMINDERS THAT Easter is this weekend greet all residents and visitors to Ruidoso Care Center. This wall decoration was created by Jan Williams, who is one of 18 volunteers at the center.

President responds to students' 'advice'

If you could be President, what would you do? First grade teachers Greta Cabot and Nellie Ruth Jones asked their students to write their answers to this question. "We were so pleased with the answers that we sent them to President Carter," Jones said. She said a cover letter was enclosed which stated that "we knew he had all these high powered advisors, but the advice given by Nob Hill first graders was probably just as good as some he received anyway," Jones said. The answers ranged from very serious to very practical: "I would hire a jet, fly to Iran and free the hostages." "I would make sure there were no more wars." "I'd tell everybody not to waste energy." "I told him that our country was great and I realize that the United States is part of the world." "I would help all the countries all over the world and give money to the poor." "I would build a new jet that's easier to build and easier to fly." "I would have more recesses." "I would have Valentine's-Day every week." Jones said it wasn't long before the children received a letter from the President. The text of the letter was: "Dear Girls and Boys: President Carter has asked me to thank you for your recent messages. He is always pleased to hear from younger citizens. Along with the enclosed material, which we thought you might enjoy having, the President sends you his best wishes. Sincerely, Daniel M. Chew, Director of Presidential Correspondence." Each child received a booklet, "If I were President" which outlined a day in the life of the First Family. They also received a photograph of Carter, both of which are now hanging in the first grade classroom.

BEING PRESIDENT of the United States is pretty serious business, according to Cassandra Chavez, Nikki Knox and Darrell Guinn, pictured. They are among the first graders who recommended that President Carter create more recesses and sign a law making Valentine's Day every week. The children are pictured with the correspondence they received from the White House.

Letters to the Editor

Dear editor:
I just finished reading your editorial in the March 24 issue, concerning Representative John Bigbee's statements. Your arguments in favor of capital punishment and harsher conditions of confinement were not fair or supported by reason.

Prisons do not reduce the crime rate, they increase it. The return to capital punishment has been followed by an increase in the murder rate in every state that has the death penalty now, including our own. If power is to be exercised within the framework of law, then law is the bestower of power and there for law too must be considered evil.

Retributive punishment is simply revenge for revenge's sake. How can you condemn a man who kills another, and then turn around and kill him, without condemning yourself?

Crime is a symptom of a sickness in society. Criminals are often victims of society, more than society is the victim of criminals. The in-equal application of "Justice" in this country is also a crime.

I want to say a few words about the riot. When is a provocation important enough? There is no real difference between a great and a small injustice. The conditions here reached the point where there was nothing to lose. The guards were not killed because of fear of the death penalty. There were plenty of people who wanted to kill them. They were stopped by inmates, not by the law. Try to live in a place where the biggest most wonderful thing is to have them leave you alone. With no future to look forward to and no pleasures to earn, what can be lost? Our decision was, it is better to have an end with terror, than terror without end. Here is a short verse I wrote that will give you an idea of what it is like here in Cellblock #6, where I live:

Yesterday was really sad,
Tomorrow will be just as bad.
Today is just today to me,
There is no hope that I can see!

I would recommend you save your money and not waste it on building more prisons. There are alternative programs that have been proven more effective in the reduction of crime and they cost less. They involve the community participating in solving their own problems. There is not a whole lot you can do about inflation, the Iranian crisis and other world problems. You can do something about the inequalities in your community.

The individual has rights which society can not take away and society has obligations it cannot ignore. All our problems come from the failure of either the individual to respect the rights of the community or of the community's tyrannical suppression of the rights of the individual.

Thank you,
Michael Rhea

Dear Editor:
In regard to Charlotte Fellers' report on the Board of Education meeting that was held Wednesday, March 12, I feel that Ms. Fellers left out a very important part of her reporting. I am going to quote her article:

"Frances Killen, parent of a cheerleader said 'We were told they had to buy three uniforms; don't ask me why they need three uniforms—and two pairs of $35 shoes. Nobody sat with them (at games) I don't think they had any guidance—with their wardrobe selection, practices and at games.' Killen also said guidelines must be set up to determine when cheerleaders can be excused from classes.

"High school principal Tom Hansen, said no rules are established on the number of uniforms cheerleaders must have, and 'they don't have to buy all these things—they choose to buy them. I would hate to have the general public think we require them to buy three uniforms'".
Now what Ms. Fellers failed to report was what followed. I asked to read from the By Laws of the Pep Club—which I did and am now going to quote "Students must be able to manage all expenses which are incurred while a member of the cheerleading squad (three uniforms, travel, cheerleading school and any other expense involved.)

Contrary to what Mr. Hansen "would like the public to think" I would like the public to know we had to buy three uniforms. I agree that they didn't have to buy all the patches and pins—but again we are back to no supervision. You just don't let a teenager loose with a catalogue and no supervision.

After spending all this money on uniforms it is not funny to get wrong colors or sizes. As one mother asked, "have you ever tried to take in socks." When this was brought to Miss Spurlock's attention the girls were told nothing could be done—that's the way it is. I, as well as a number of other mothers feel if Miss Spurlock has accepted the job as cheerleading sponsor then she should do it right or step down.

It is really a shame that the "Cheerleaders Woes" had to be aired publicly but I can tell you we tried to handle this—but as many of the cheerleaders found out through the year there just isn't any talking to Miss Spurlock. She did not attend any practices and even less games. Our girls went off on trips without a female adult—which by the way the by-laws state is a must.

We asked for a definition of excused absence because during the year one girl could take off and be excused and another would do the same thing or something less serious and be suspended. Why?

Dear editor:
Well Ruidoso finally hit big times. I have come to where a woman can go to a door right here in town, and I don't mean on the outskirts, open it up and find herself the victim of a rape.

I can remember when it was safe to walk down the street at night or any time you wished, or have your kids walk home from a friend's house, but not any more.

Where have our laws gone? They seem only to protect the offender after the crime has been done, not the person who was victimized or the law abiding citizen. Who gave this last victim her rights? You can bet if this guy is caught that he will have his rights, and if they are not given correctly he will probably get off even if he is guilty.

What right does any man have to force a woman at gun point, for this happened right here in OUR town, to take part in a sexual act. I don't care if a woman was to make her living as a hooker, she still has the right to refuse anyone she chooses to refuse.

And don't look at the police department. They can't be in all the right places at the right time. Especially when the general rule has only two officers on the street on a given shift and if there is paper work, which there is a lot of, then there is only one officer on the street. That is to patrol the whole town.

It is up to the law makers and the judges of this town and country to take a look at the saying "Laws were made to be broken" because it looks like this is going to be the way of the future unless the right people do something and do it fast.

It goes back to some of the businesses too, who are so cheap they don't want to help out the police by installing a simple alarm, if nothing else to make a lot of noise to wake the neighbors. Or in the case of other businesses to work the women in groups of two late at night when they have no one to call until after it's over.

Going back to the police department. It might be well worth your while as a citizen of this community, and the laws being what they are, to take a look at what you pay that "ole dumb cop" who tries to try their best with inadequate equipment and man power, lousy police vehicles, nonexistent training opportunity, except for one or two officers, no encouragement for doing a job nobody else would have with what they have plus the courts which have other interests on their minds than the welfare of the taxpayer and the honest citizen and last but not least the lousy pay. The school teachers get more and they can go out and get another job in the summer or after hours. Where a cop is on call for power failures, numerous accidents or what have you. The next time you have a problem call a teacher and see how willing they are to put their life on the line, something everyone takes for granted about a police officer. Fine, most like their jobs but at least give them the credit for doing a job that makes few friends and give them the pay they deserve. Our husbands put their lives on the line daily and they never even get a thanks for a job well done or a pat on the back.

I'd like to see a list of what the village employees make from the top to the bottom with experience as an officer and the experience with this department versus that of the school system. It should be no trouble since it is public record and Ruidoso Downs prints theirs why not the school system and the Village of Ruidoso. If I'm wrong then I apologize to the Village Officials.

People, if you don't start caring about what is going on in this community you have no one to blame but yourselves, because the police, the courts and you behind these two are all that separates you from the "bad guys." Look at the facts, if may well be your wife or daughter or even yourself who is the next victim of a rapist, burglar, or murderer to carry out the other two.

Our country has looked at other countries and thought how lucky we are to live where we do, but you know they don't have the crime we do and it is safe for the people of the other countries to walk down the street at night. It is not here any more. Once it was safe but since the do gooders are out for the rights of the criminal instead of the victim our country is on a long down hill slide. Why not stand behind the person who was abused not the other, or some day maybe luck will have it you will be the abused.

Believe me there is a lot of trying times when you are married to a police officer. If they do their job right then they and their families are threatened, you never know when someone will throw rotten eggs at your property for giving them tickets, or take a shot at you because you pick up this guy one last time for DWI and he loses his license or his insurance is cancelled.

I wouldn't change what my husband does but, my God, give them credit and the backing they deserve. Or get out there and see if you can do a better job! If they aren't doing a good job then get rid of the deadwood or set a fire under it to get it moving.

My heart goes out to any woman who has had to go through such a terrible experience before someone will get involved enough to get a community together to stop some of this.

This is half-way off the subject, but it has to do with the rights of one person over that of a whole neighborhood. I can remember when you could look at any part of this town and because it was a resort it had a decent value in all areas. Not now. You can walk down Center St., excluding the remodeling being done on the east, then walk down El Paso St., to the west then back around to Center Street on Sudderth and see all the drunk individuals or the beer cans, bottles, trash, people getting sick, or even people partaking in the act of sexual intercourse. Now this goes on and it could be well taken care of if the village officials didn't want one person to have the rights to run their business over the rights of others. It is up to the taxpayers of the village to demand their rights, but seeing as how my husband is only a police man I will ask for your help and the help of the other concerned citizens.

Let's get together as a community because how can we get together as a nation if one small town can't get together? Before too long it is going to be too late and people will start moving away from here.

I'm speaking for myself. My husband talks for himself and he likes his job! We both like the community or we would have left a long time ago.

Let's not let another rape happen in this community just because of lack of interest in our laws, or because we are too busy getting ready for the tourists who are coming that we do not have the time. Or before you know it you won't have the tourists either. We won't have the tourists if we cannot make and keep this a safe place for families or individuals to come. They want to play and relax away from

Believe me there is a lot of trying times when you are married to a police officer. If they do their job right then they and their families are threatened, you never know when someone will throw rotten eggs at your property for giving them tickets, or take a shot at you because you pick up this guy one last time for DWI and he loses his license or his insurance is cancelled.

I wouldn't change what my husband does but, my God, give them credit and the backing they deserve. Or get out there and see if you can do a better job! If they aren't doing a good job then get rid of the deadwood or set a fire under it to get it moving.

My heart goes out to any woman who has had to go through such a terrible experience before someone will get involved enough to get a community together to stop some of this.

This is half-way off the subject, but it has to do with the rights of one person over that of a whole neighborhood. I can remember when you could look at any part of this town and because it was a resort it had a decent value in all areas. Not now. You can walk down Center St., excluding the remodeling being done on the east, then walk down El Paso St., to the west then back around to Center Street on Sudderth and see all the drunk individuals or the beer cans, bottles, trash, people getting sick, or even people partaking in the act of sexual intercourse. Now this goes on and it could be well taken care of if the village officials didn't want one person to have the rights to run their business over the rights of others. It is up to the taxpayers of the village to demand their rights, but seeing as how my husband is only a police man I will ask for your help and the help of the other concerned citizens.

Let's get together as a community because how can we get together as a nation if one small town can't get together? Before too long it is going to be too late and people will start moving away from here.

I'm speaking for myself. My husband talks for himself and he likes his job! We both like the community or we would have left a long time ago.

Let's not let another rape happen in this community just because of lack of interest in our laws, or because we are too busy getting ready for the tourists who are coming that we do not have the time. Or before you know it you won't have the tourists either. We won't have the tourists if we cannot make and keep this a safe place for families or individuals to come. They want to play and relax away from crime of the cities not come to same but this time not know where the safe places are.

and it has the highest rate of stabbings, fights, shootings, or most any other offense you can think of, remember right in the middle of your clean little tourist town. Why let this happen here? Just because it is happening all over is no reason to let it happen here. We can control what happens in this town, but only if we WANT to.

Dear editor,
We, as teachers in the Ruidoso Schools, would like to clarify some specific points in regard to salaries as reported in recent editions of the Ruidoso News.

The Thursday, March 13, 1980, edition of the News reported "that 25 teachers operate on deficit budgets of an average $375 per year" and that "seven teachers said they end the year with surplus funds averaging $136." Actually, of those teachers responding to the Salary Policy Committee (SPC) questionnaire, 25 teachers operate on deficit budgets of an average $375 monthly, and 7 teachers end the month with surplus funds averaging $136. We also might add that the SPC questionnaires stipulated that only fixed monthly expenses should be listed; no provisions were made for medical expenses, car maintenance, or clothing. Of those responding, most said a second job or a spouse's income was necessary to meet expenses.

The Monday, March 24, 1980, News reported that "they (teachers) requested a 15 percent increase in salaries in addition to moving two steps vertically on the schedule (for experience)." (Vertical incremental steps are contractual salary increases earned by teachers for each year's teaching experience.) In reality, the SPC submitted three drafts of possible salary schedules. One was based on two vertical steps plus a 10.39 percent increase, another was for two vertical steps plus an 11 percent increase, and the third was based on two vertical steps plus a 14 percent increase. Of the three, the lowest was the one approved — 10.39 percent plus two vertical incremental steps. One of the two vertical steps was requested this year in order to make up for the year's incremental teachers lost in 1979-1980 because of the 7% wage guidelines requested by President Carter and imposed by the New Mexico State Legislature.

In the same March 24 article, a comparison was made among twelve salary schedules of New Mexico teachers. The report ostensibly compared "salaries given for five years' experience under four columns" for "the 1979-1980 school year." The Ruidoso salaries listed were actually those for six years' experience.

Cale Dickey's column in the same March 24 issue stated "Ruidoso's teachers will receive a substantial increase in stipend in their next contract ... 15.68 percent for certified personnel ...". In reality, the 15.68 percent includes the two vertical steps and is an amount that the average teacher will receive, not the amount that all certified personnel will get. Many teachers in Ruidoso have reached the last vertical incremental step on our salary scale and will, therefore, receive only a 10 to 11 percent pay raise.

Our wishing to clarify these points does not reflect dissatisfaction on our part. We teachers count our blessings daily; we are fortunate to be able to live and to teach in an environment that is unique; we enjoy beautiful surroundings, cooperative and informed parents, and working conditions that are truly for the children. But please, please, do not make us sound as if we are becoming monetarily wealthy.

editorial

The plethora of problems plaguing the United States, from unemployment to the energy crunch, is eliciting about as much sympathy from nations that have been friendly as it is from those opposing us at every opportunity.

Experts in their respective fields are prognosticating that unemployment will reach 11 percent early in 1981, that a recession will become a painful reality by the end of 1980, that high interest rates will emasculate the building industry, that inflation will virtually bankrupt the wage earner — with these problems being but the tip of the iceberg.

Our global problems range from the hostage crisis in Iran, to the Russians waging undeclared war, to those nations producing goods the Russians need gladly supplying them — all of which isn't helping our image as one of the most influential and powerful nations on earth.

President Jimmy Carter must be held accountable for many of our problems, due mainly to his naivete about dealing with the other world powers and his total reliance on the opinions of his advisers, many of whom have often proven their ineptitude to act in that capacity.

President Carter isn't solely responsible for our nation's problems. The Congress, through its stubbornness in refusing to act on some crises due to political expediency, is proving that reelection is the major concern of many members of our law making body.

Perhaps the time has come for United States Senators and Representatives to be limited to two four year terms, which might have them working for the good of the nation, instead of their private political aspirations, during their tenure as a lame duck. —CD

'FUN' ENDS IN DEATH

A 68-year-old retiree, Roman Welzant of Eastwood, Maryland ... will face murder charges this May ... because he allegedly shot an 18-year-old youth ... because the dead youth, and a 16-year-old companion, who was wounded in the episode, had been harassing Welzant and his wife ... by throwing snowballs at their home ... and, Welzant said, assaulted him when he went outside to identify his tormentors.

The harassment, Welzant said, started more than 10 years ago ... due to the fact they were an older couple ... living in the home in the blue-collar Baltimore suburb that was closest to a school.

During those years of terror ... and the couple was terrified ... youths had stoned and battered their home with snowballs ... pelted it with eggs ... broke windows with rocks ... set fire to their lawn and hedge ... vandalized their car ... left them in virtual fear of their lives ... according to the news reports on Welzant's predicament.

It seems that Welzant and his wife ... both living on the fixed incomes of retirement ... had planned to spend their golden years together in their home of 26 years ... but harassment by youths forced them out of their home ... a home they feared to return to, to get their personal belongings ... because they feared personal and violent physical attacks would be made upon them by the youths.

So ... Welzant's patience finally ended ... he apparently took a gun and the situation into his own hands ... to, in the American tradition, defend his home ... and to protect his wife and himself from harm ... and now he faces charges of second degree murder, assault with intent to commit murder and related firearms counts.

If there can be a bright side to this sordid happening ... it lies in the fact that Welzant has been interviewed by a national magazine ... and will appear on a network television news show ... both, presumably, to point out the situation ... a situation that should leave all responsible adults feeling very sick at their stomachs. Also ... other people, apparently in like circumstances, and understanding the situation ... have so far contributed more than $1,700 to Welzant's defense fund ... mostly in small contributions.

The death of the 18-year-old is tragic ... the wounding of the second youth unfortunate ... to say nothing of the suffering being done by Welzant and his wife ... leaving as the unanswered question: why didn't the police, school officials, juvenile officers ... what would you have done if you had been the Welzants?

This brings up the dead youth ... an adult, at 18 ... and the other, 16 ... which should make you wonder what made both of them tick.

Then there are the parents of the dead man ... and the injured boy ... think how they must feel. They, perhaps, with some justification, could be harboring ill will towards Welzant.

No matter the final outcome ... the point is that conditions such as the Welzants were living under ... fearing for their property ... their lives, even ... should have been resolved before Welzant's patience snapped and his passions ... perhaps enflamed to the point of losing reason ... took over ... leaving him facing many serious charges.

All circumstances in the case haven't been made public ... obviously ... but just the published circumstances ... as reported here ... are sufficient to make me very happy I don't have to make any decisions ... how about you?

THE VIEW WAS GREAT Jet View ends the West Texas Futurity at Sunland Park with a neck lead over the lukewarm favorite, Clever Bug. Jet View earned $62,358 in the first victory of his career. He's owned by Dr. Jack Brooks, a radiologist from Arlington, Texas. Alex Baldillez Jr., is the pilot.

WEST TEXAS CEREMONY Dr. Jack Brooks (third from right, partly hidden) barely managed to get into the victory portrait after his colt, Jet View, picked off the West Texas Futurity at Sunland Park. The trophy presentation was made by Bill Chaney (third from left) of the Quarter Horse Association of West Texas and Mexican film star Jorge Rivero (white suit).

Bold Loves' hot 19.17 record for 400 yards

Bold Love, a chestnut filly owned by Thelma Spencer of Edmond, Oklahoma flashed over 400 yards in 19.17 seconds in the first race at Sunland Park March 28.

Besides being a track record, by a whopping amount, it was also the fastest 400 yard clocking ever recorded by the American Quarter Horse Association.

Sunland's previous record for 400 yards was held jointly at 19.38 seconds by Mr. Hay Bug and Chicory Moon.

Bold Love, ridden by Jackie Martin, was aided considerably by a very stiff tail wind. Still, she won by a commanding 3 and 3/4 lengths to win, and emerged as the top qualifier for the $65,375 West Texas Derby April 6.

The other qualifiers: Zipp Zero, 19.23; Hasty Request, 19.44; Klus Flame, 19.59;

Power Swivel, 19.68; Rockets Flame, 19.68; Manifestosh, 19.69; Brown Wood, 19.69; Shaft N Time, 19.72

Three horses, Clifton Hill, Boca Paula and Calhoun's Delight, were tied for the bottom slot at 19.73 each. Clifton Hill made the grade via a draw.

The program also spotlighted the 330 yard Second Consolation of the West Texas Futurity. Sooner Velocity, a 4-1 shot, won by three-quarter lengths in 16.60 seconds. The winner's slice was $1,978.

The filly is owned by Grady Simpson of Norman, Oklahoma. Martin was aboard that one, too.

Easy Linde, a 22-1 outsider, came in second and returned $11.60 and $5.40. Ima Bit O Honi, the favorite, got in third and paid $3.40.

Jet View wins WT Futurity by a neck

Jet View, a colt without a win to his record, scrambled to a neck victory in the March 30 grand finale of the $187,231 West Texas Futurity at Sunland Park.

The colt, purchased in last summer's All-American Select Yearling Sale at Ruidoso Downs for a paltry $12,500, is owned by Dr. Jack Brooks of Arlington, Texas.

First place in the West Texas came out to $62,348. In the process, Jet View stamped himself as the one to watch in Sunland's upcoming $200,000 (est.) Sun Country Futurity, plus the famed Triple Crown races at Ruidoso this summer.

Jet View was ridden alertly by Alex Baldillez Jr. He got away flying, quickly established a stranglehold on the opposition, and was clearly in command at the halfway point. Clever Bug, the top qualifier and the people's choice, stayed within striking range all the way. At the end, Clever Bug was trimming the deficit. But the son of Bugs Alive in 75 ran out of ground.

The winning time was a snappy 16.64 seconds, which eclipsed Clever Bug's top qualifying clocking of 16.73. There was no wind factor in the Futurity. The West Texas champ is trained by Nerrell Bruney.

Sunland patrons established Jet View as a 7-2 shot. The mutual returns were $9.60, $4, $2.80. The colt went into the duel with a career record of three seconds from three starts. He's earned $11,321, thanks to a second in the recent $100,000 Triple Crown Futurity at Columbus, Texas.

Clever Bug, a very lukewarm favorite handled by Nickey Wilson, collected $26,025 and paid $4.20, $3.20. The gelding is owned by Henry and Mary Ann Watkins of Madison, Mississippi.

Easy To Get, off at just over 7-1, broke in second place and managed to hang on well enough to bag third. The colt is owned by W. David Thompson and David Riley of Uvalde, Texas. The show return was $4.20.

The remaining order of finish and what they earned: 4th — Born Runner, $8,612; 5th — Easy Joni Jet, $6,927; 6th — Mr. Vegas Moon, $6,553; 7th — Guthrie's Bug, $6,178; 8th — Moon Bunnys Flame, $5,991; 9th — A Winner In You, $5,616; 10th — Dr. Depot, $5,242.

Dr. Brooks, a relative newcomer to racing, has apparently developed quite a touch in sorting out winning horseflesh. Jet View is only the seventh quarter horse he's owned. Two of them emerged as stakes winners.

His previous star was Super Sonle Moon, who ran up winnings of some $50,000 a few years back. Dr. Brooks has since sold the colt. In an interview prior to the running of the West Texas Futurity, Dr. Brooks assessed the race this way: "Any of these 10 horses can win. It's all up in the air. A lot of luck is involved, and you've got to run a perfect race to win."

A perfect race is exactly what Jet View turned in. The son of Fast Jet out of Rara View turned in a picture-perfect getaway from the rail slot. He was quickly in the clear, running with all the frenzy of a frightened deer. He appeared to be in command all the way.

Born Runner, the favorite, got away sluggishly. It took half the race for him to find his stride. At the end, he was coming on powerfully. By then, victory was out of his grasp.

The total amount dispersed in the finale alone was $145,665.

Here's the way they qualified: Clever Bug, 16.73; Guthrie's Bug, 16.75; Jet View, 16.77; Born Runner, 16.81; Easy To Get, 16.89; Easy Joni Jet, 16.92; Dr. Depot, 16.92; Moon Bunnys Flame, 16.96; Mr. Vegas Moon, 16.99; A Winner In You, 16.99.

The West Texas Futurity First Consolation, worth $27,335, went to Jettabelle Boone. The filly is owned by Jacqueline Spencer of Carrizosa. She won by 1 1/4 lengths and earned $4,720. She was clocked in 16.78 seconds. Keith Amussen was up. The win payoff was $7.40. Michael Hedeman is the trainer.

The second Consolation, worth $14,229, was captured by Sooner Velocity. The filly is trained by Kenneth Richards of Grady Simpson of Norman, Oklahoma. Jackie Martin was up. Sooner Velocity was by 3/4 lengths in 16.60 seconds and returned $9.60. The victory share was $1,978.

Business at Sunland Park really booming

Business at Sunland Park is now booming, and from the looks of things, it'll be getting even better.

And if that isn't enough, Sunland Park is facing a long period of prosperous growth.

These are some of the views of general manager Woody Erwin, as he reflects on the rapid-fire business trends in recent months.

"There's no doubt about it," Erwin said. "Sunland Park—in fact, the entire El Paso area—is in a far different economic situation than it was 20 years ago when the track first opened."

Sunland Park has gone through a dramatic turnabout, Erwin said, since Ruidoso-Sunland took over the track 1 1/2 years ago. "I didn't really see the future of Sunland Park until we got into the current meeting. Currently, the weekly check to horsemen, in the form of purses, amounts to some $80,000. A year ago at this time, the weekly disbursement was in the $40,000 to $50,000 range."

Generally speaking, Erwin said, horsemen are now pulling in $10,000 more per race day than they were a year ago. "It goes without saying we've got a group of awfully happy horsemen," he said.

By the same token, the patrons have been "pretty contented," judging by the crowds which have been flocking to Sunland. "The races are excellent, and we've had no trouble filling them. So when you've got the support of the horsemen and the fans, combined with quality racing, you've got a strong operation," Erwin said.

The positive response by the patrons is evidenced by the fact Sunland is a lead-pipe clinch, in Erwin's words, to establish new all-time mutual records this season. After 74 race days, the handle stands at $18,610,276 for a daily average of $251,450. Last year at this time, 72 race days had been run for a total of $17,271,382. The average was $239,880. The current figure is a gain of 4.83 percent.

The betting-per-race average, from 808 races this season, is $23,032. That's a gain of 8.8 percent over last year's comparable $21,166.

When Sunland wraps up the current meeting in early May, the daily average should easily surpass last season's final average of $250,028. (That figure is the highest ever at Sunland.)

Recent high water marks were achieved when a three day weekend handle soared up to $1,013,023, another all time record. A Saturday handle in the late March zoomed up to $380,288. That was the highest Saturday handle in the track's history. The $402,235 March 30 was the third best in Sunland history.

Looking to the immediate future, Erwin sees a continued boost in the Sunland business index. Next season, for example, the track will offer a new Duplex Totalisator system, which will make the wagering easier and quicker.

An impressive expansion of the Sunland facilities is also in the works, according to current plans. Erwin said: "The tentative plan is to build a new Jockey Club. The board intends to sell 300 memberships at $10,000 each."

Erwin credits the vigorous economic climate at Sunland to the 11-man Ruidoso-Sunland board of directors, who've embarked on a strong upgrading of the facilities and a strengthening of the racing program. "The Jockey Club members—and their friends—have turned into strong Sunland patrons," Erwin said.

UNM plans solar collector testing

After sitting obscurely atop a University of New Mexico (UNM) engineering building for more than a year, a $100,000 solar collector test facility is ready to rise and shine.

"We wanted to keep the solar testing set up on a low profile until we were certain we could satisfy the requirements of standards for performance testing," said

Bud Wildin, UNM mechanical engineering professor and director of the testing facility.

The facility has been used for the past year in the mechanical engineering laboratory course for seniors. One test has been performed commercially for a local manufacturer of collector panels for solar hot water heating.

To the layman observer, the testing station appears complicated, but this technical apparatus has a simple function — to experimentally evaluate flat plate solar collector panels, the most commonly produced solar energy gathering device.

By continuously measuring such variables as temperatures and flow rates of the fluid passing through the collector panel together with the rate of incidence of solar energy on the panel's surface, the facility is able to gauge a solar collector's performance.

"The result produced from the data collected is thermal efficiency. That's what we call the fraction of the energy falling on the collector that is delivered as useful heat," Wildin said.

"The results are essential to those who produce solar panels and those who buy them."

One of those manufacturers, the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company (PPG), was the designer and constructor of the testing facility now located at UNM.

"PPG built this facility and moved it to New Mexico to permit wintertime testing of production models. But soon after the installation was completed, they decided to stop producing collector panels. Consequently, the facility is now for our use alone," Wildin said.

For more than a year that use has been to provide valuable laboratory project experience for UNM engineering students.

"The station's biggest benefit is the educational value to the students who use it," Wildin said. "They're able to see how a collector works, as well as to analyze it. Also, they learn how a test is properly run to determine the performance of collectors."

Wildin said another dimension of the collector test facility is the service it offers to the community. Because the facility pays attention to rigorous national test standards, it can produce the data needed by producers and consumers.

"The testing service will be provided as time allows and at a charge to cover the costs of labor, utilities and maintenance of the equipment. Anyone can use the service, from a large commercial manufacturer to the guy making collector panels in his garage," Wildin said.

Social Security fraud brings jail sentence

A Santa Fe, New Mexico man was sentenced by Albuquerque United States District Court Judge Howard Bratton to a year of confinement and three years probation on a charge of defrauding the Social Security Administration.

The confinement was suspended on the condition that Frank P. Garcia repay over $5,000 that he had illegally obtained within 30 days of the March 13 sentencing.

According to Don Austin, manager of the Roswell Social Security Office, Garcia had pleaded guilty February 21 to a charge that he made false statements and concealed his work and earnings in order to continue receiving Supplemental Security Income benefits. Austin said the case was developed by a unit of full-time Social Security fraud investigators.

Governor's conference on travel, tourism, set

Registration is underway for the 1980 Governor's Conference on Tourism and Travel, April 22-24, in Santa Fe's Inn at Loreto.

Hosted by Governor Bruce King and the State Tourism and Travel Division, the three-day conference is expected to draw 200 participants, representing tourist attractions, ski and other resorts, hotels and restaurants, Indian pueblos, advertising and travel agencies, tour operators, Chambers of Commerce and development groups.

One of the "highlights of the conference," according to State Tourism Director David Santillanes, "will be the awards given to three individuals for outstanding contributions to the tourism industry during this last year. Nominations are being accepted now, and forms are available from all Chambers of Commerce."

Conference sessions will focus on changing trends in auto travel, the growing importance of foreign markets and package tours, and dealing with economic pressures and energy shortages.

About 2,000 registration packets have been sent out, Santillanes says, and more are available at local Chambers. Conference fee is $40 until April 10, and $48.50 thereafter. Details are available from the State Tourism and Travel Division, Commerce and Industry Department, Santa Fe, 827-5571.

Welcome back!!! Horsemen and friends

Thursday, April 3, 1980 Ruidoso [N.M.] News — Section C

Spring is in the air and in just over five weeks the 1980 meeting will open at Ruidoso Downs.

This means that the horsemen and their families, that do so much to make horse racing here the success it is, are starting to move back into our community.

The Retail Merchants Committee of the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce take pleasure in saying 'Welcome Horsemen', in presenting this special section of The Ruidoso News to make your shopping as easy as possible.

This is our second annual 'Welcome Horsemen' section. It is designed to inform you of the new businesses that have opened here since the end of the 1979 meeting.

There are also those businesses that have been here for years and they are constantly improving their service and adding to their inventories, to the end that there's hardly a family need that can't easily be obtained in Ruidoso.

The Retail Merchants Committee works constantly to attract new businesses to our community and also to urge all owners of businesses to upgrade their stores to make them more attractive, to the end that shopping here will be more enjoyable.

We also stress that all employees be courteous and helpful, to always assist you in making your purchases and, if the occasion requires, advising you of another merchant in town who handles the exact item you need.

Welcome, Horsemen, to Ruidoso, where you can enjoy "big city shopping in a small town atmosphere!" And, should you have any questions about the area, stop in at the Chamber of Commerce office on Sudderth — that's what the friendly folks you'll find there are there for.

Tim Wishard, Goldsmith

Tim Wishard, Goldsmith, is located at 2909 Sudderth and has been established two years.

Owners and managers of the jewelry store are Tim and Carol Wishard, who moved to Ruidoso from Albuquerque, where Tim manufactured gold jewelry. His career started when he became a casting polisher and worked through all aspects of jewelry manufacturing.

Wishard took formal education in jewelry from the Gemological Institute of America and holds a diamond appraisal certificate. He is also a gemologist.

The store specializes in custom designing of all kinds of jewelry and remountings. Working primarily with 14 karat yellow and white gold, setting of diamonds or resetting old diamonds is the specialty of the house.

The store recently was expanded to include more counter space with a larger inventory, and Helen Herbert was recently employed. The store is an outlet for Keepsake Diamonds, which carry a solid guarantee behind all bridal sets.

Tim Wishard, Goldsmith, is open from 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., Monday through Friday and 9:30 a.m. to noon Saturdays.

Holiday Inn of Ruidoso

Holiday Inn of Ruidoso, located on Highway 70 near the "Y", opened in May, 1978, to serve the village. Innkeeper Bud Nickles has lived in Ruidoso since 1976 and said he's in Ruidoso "because I like it here."

The Holiday Inn of Ruidoso features 101 rooms decorated with the Southwestern touch in warm oranges, browns and golds.

Also available at the Holiday Inn complex are a package liquor store, self service gas station and within the hotel, an indoor pool, Chisholm Trail Restaurant, open from 7 a.m. to 10 p.m., a lounge featuring live music nightly and a beauty shop just off the lobby.

Banquet facilities for 140 people are available at the Inn, and plenty of free parking is provided for Holiday Inn customers. The facility is able to book reservations through the Holiday Inn's toll free number, 1-800-238-8000, and Nickles said, "teenagers stay here free."

"We're only three miles from the race track and we provide bus service both to the track and Sierra Blanca Ski Area," Nickles added.

"We look forward to seeing all our old friends this summer," he said.

Armadillo Stained Glass Studio and Gallery

"Stained glass is gaining in popularity at an astonishing rate," Jerry D. Perry, owner of Armadillo Stained Glass Studio and Gallery, said.

Perry, along with his wife Janey, have spent many years designing, repairing and executing stained glass art for private homes, commercial establishments and churches.

"People are rediscovering the elegance and beauty in professional stained glass art," Perry said. Perry studied under Jack Freeman, a second generation stained glass artist, and is an associate member of the Stained Glass Association of America.

In addition to windows, the couple do terrariums, Tiffany style lamps, sun catchers (small hangings) and also conduct classes to teach stained glass art in both the foil method and the traditional lead came (channel) method. The Perrys recently completed teaching an adult education class at New Mexico Military Institute and will teach classes at Carrizo Lodge this summer.

Work designed by the Perrys and displayed in their Gallery, located at 2639 Sudderth, upstairs, includes traditional Victorian, contemporary, nouveau, western and Indian designs. "We wish to extend an invitation to anyone to drop by the studio and gallery to view our art work," Perry said.

The Perrys' gallery is also an outlet for oil paintings by Roger Holmes, pottery by Tim Wierwille of White Mountain Pottery, jewelry by John West and Southwest furniture by Jim Dell.

Armadillo Stained Glass Studio and Gallery is open Monday through Saturday from 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m.

RICHARD SANDOVAL of Gibson's

Gibson's Discount Center

Gibson's Discount Center, located at the "Y" in Ruidoso, has been owned and operated by LeVerne Cole and Bill McCutchen since it opened eight years ago. Gibson's is a department store which features name brands too numerous to mention, but the huge inventory offers the customer a variety of products for every need. The latest addition to Gibson's is 8,000 square feet of floor space, which was needed "due to the tremendous response of the customer," Richard Sandoval, manager, said. The extra floor space will put the total display area at about 30,000 square feet and more paved parking will be supplied for customer convenience, Sandoval said. To be housed in the new area are a garden and lawn shop, featuring shrubs, trees, plants and potting equipment. Also, a line of building supplies, including paneling, 2x4's and assorted tools will be stocked. Gibson's also carries Wrangler jeans and western shirts arriving regularly, as well as other brand name western clothing to give the customer a wide selection of styles and colors. A horsemen's tack department offers a large selection of supplies, featuring Carmen equipment. "We would like to take this opportunity to welcome the horsemen back to Ruidoso and thank them for all the past business we have had from them. We look forward to serving them in the future," Cole said. Gibson's summer hours will be Monday through Saturday from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., and 10 a.m. to 7 p.m., Sundays.

Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce

The Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce office located on Sudderth Drive at Two Rivers Park, attempts to answer several questions for visitors: What is there to do? Where is there to go? and, How do we get there?, according to executive director Ed Jungbluth.

"I hope everyone who visits Ruidoso will drop by and get acquainted with Doris (Baca, office secretary) and myself," he said.

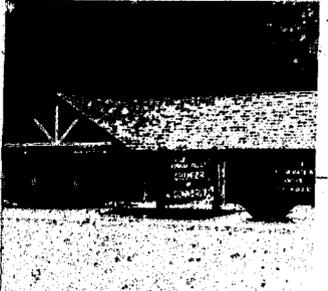

Regular office hours are maintained from 8:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday. Available for sale in the office are such items as Ski Ruidoso posters, picture postcards and Ruidoso license plates.

But the Chamber also offers a wealth of free informational materials, many of them located in the visitors center, which is open 24 hours.

Some of the material available includes city maps, race track schedules, a recreation guide to Lincoln County, motel and real estate listings, a community profile and a restaurant listing.

This past year, the Chamber installed a community bulletin board and a large directional map to assist visitors and new residents in finding their way to places of interest. These are located in the always-open visitor center.

Security Bank of Ruidoso

Security Bank of Ruidoso, located at 401 Sudderth with a branch office at 2963 Sudderth, is a member of Bank Securities Incorporated, a New Mexico based bank holding company. It is one of eight branch banks in the state.

Security Bank recently celebrated their tenth anniversary and a new board chairman, Joe Skeen, was recently named. Also named was a new bank president, Robert Dyer.

Skeen purchased the Buckhorn ranch at Picacho in 1954 and spent from 1960 to 1970 as a New Mexico state senator. He served six years as minority leader and three years as Republican state chairman.

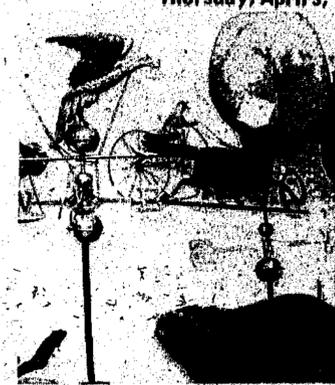

Dyer comes to Ruidoso from Roswell, where he was a banker since 1974. He has worked in every realm of the banking industry in several cities, including Beverly Hills, California, Balen, New Mexico and El Paso, Texas. He, wife Debby and daughter Andrea, have just moved to a home in Ruidoso.

Security Bank's regular hours are 9 a.m. to noon Saturdays and 9 a.m. until 2 p.m., Monday through Friday. Fridays the bank is also open from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m. Both drive-in locations are open from 9 a.m. until 6 p.m.

"Our new president is very personable, very civic minded and very down-to-earth. He is anxious to get acquainted around Ruidoso and welcomes visitors," Jan Bryant, his secretary, said.

Jackalope Square

Jackalope Square, located at 1301 Sudderth Drive, is a unique gift shop named for a most unique animal.

According to literature available at the shop, "The Jackalope is perhaps the rarest animal in North America."

"The strange little fellow defies classification. Were it not for its shape and coloring, it might be a species of deer. Were it not for the horns it might be a large rabbit."

"The first white man to see this singular fauna specimen was a trapper named Roy Ball in 1829. When he told of it later, he was promptly denounced as a liar.

"And odd trait of the Jackalope is its ability to imitate the human voice. Cowboys singing to their herds at night have been startled to hear their lonesome melodies repeated faithfully from some nearby hillside. Stories that they sometimes get together and sing in chorus are discounted by those who know them best."

Jackalope Square is owned by Janet LaBrecque. The shop stocks all sorts of gift items, including a selection of antique replica weather vanes and western antique collectibles.

Jackalope Square also provides hand-crafted goods which are taken on consignment from local craftspeople. These include yarn dusters, handmade dolls, hummingbird mobiles made from pine cones, and mesquite wood boxes.

Other featured gifts include Indian pottery, rock items, brassware, baskets, Mexican import pottery, Indian-style jewelry and Magic Lantern plant lamps, which light up when plant leaves are touched.

Other "odd things" stocked by the store are cherry cider, gold panning equipment and a Wurlitzer juke box which plays 78 rpm records.

In addition to all these goods available at Jackalope Square, "if we don't have what you're looking for, we'll try to find it." Summer hours are 10 a.m. to 5 p.m., seven days a week.

The Artisan Shop

The Artisan Shop, located at 2342 Sudderth Drive in midtown Ruidoso, is now under the ownership of Don and Mary Parsons, who are pictured with assistant manager Billie Houseton, left.

After purchasing the business in February, the Parsons have completely restocked the store, "planning every step with you, the customer, in mind," Parsons said.

A large selection of ready-made frames are now available, along with custom framing by Eldon Freeman and Mimi Smith. The Artisan Shop also handles a large selection of art supplies.

Stop by the shop between 10 a.m. and 5:30 p.m., or phone 257-2828 for more information about all framing needs.

NICK AND LINDA GRIFFIN of New Mexico Glass

New Mexico Glass

New Mexico Glass, located on Sudderth Drive between Gibsons and Sonic, is Ruidoso's center for all kinds of glass. New owners of New Mexico Glass are Nick and Linda Griffin, pictured, who purchased the business in March, 1979.

The Griffins are striving to "improve both the merchandise and service," offered at the store, they said.

Commercial and home glass needs are provided for at New Mexico Glass, since they carry glass for such purposes as windows, shower doors, furniture tops and store front construction.

Mirrors, safety and insulated glass are also offered, and a selection of Colony Paints. Free estimates are provided and installation of glass is performed by an experienced staff.

Business hours are 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday and 8 a.m. to noon Saturdays.

Don's Pharmacy

Don's Pharmacy, located at 238 Sudderth, in addition to providing a complete drug prescription service, is also a unique gift shop.

The pharmacy is owned and operated by Don Swalander, pictured, with the assistance of the "best, most dynamic sales force in Ruidoso," he said.

Gift items available at Don's include stationery, glass gifts, antique outdoor thermometers, wood duck decoys, decorative wood items and glassware.

Also featured in the store are Elizabeth Arden cosmetics, hair products by Pantene and Allerceme and Nina Ricci products.

They also stock Russell Stover candies, Village Bath products, greeting cards, leather bags, backgammon games, posters, picture frames, bridge accessories, Vitabath products and many brands of colognes, including the popular White Shoulders fragrance.

Business hours are "8:56 a.m. to 6:01 p.m.," Monday through Friday and 9 a.m. to noon on Saturday.

DON SWALANDER of Don's Pharmacy

Laura's

Laura's is a mother-daughter partnership owned by Evelyn Key and Laura Cargill, which opened in Ruidoso in November, 1979.

The store specializes in needlework supplies such as needlepoint and rughook yarns and canvases, crochet and knitting yarns, embroidery kits and threads and a wide variety of accessories for stitching.

Both women have taken classes in needlepoint through "The Elegant Stitch" in Wichita Falls, Texas. Formerly from Wichita Falls, this pair has a wide combined knowledge of stitching and are willing to help others learn.

The store offers hand painted designs, both custom paintings by Laura and kits from reputable manufacturers. As a part-time photographer, Laura can photograph homes, horses, pets, and other subjects and apply the design to needlepoint or rughook canvas for the customer to stitch.

"This could be especially attractive to horse-racing enthusiasts," Laura said.

Laura's will offer needlepoint classes throughout the summer for those wanting to learn the correct way to stitch.

Knitting and crochet lessons will be taught by Darlene Hart throughout the season.

"We invite everyone to come in for a visit and get acquainted," Laura said.
