Sewer bids opening set here today

Bids will be opened today on construction of the Regional Wastewater System (RWS), to serve Ruidoso and Ruidoso Downs; and on the sewer system to provide service to Ruidoso Downs.

RWS bids will be opened at 5 p.m., in the multi-purpose room of the Ruidoso Public Library.

Bids on the Ruidoso Downs system will be opened at 7 p.m., in the Municipal Building.

RWS includes transmission lines to service both Ruidoso and Ruidoso Downs, extending to the treatment plant at Biscuit Hill. The estimated cost of RWS is pegged at $6 million, with funds on hand. Ruidoso voters, May 8, 1979 approved a $1.5 million bond issue for sewer improvements to be tied into RWS. $1 million of the bond issue has been sold, with the remaining $5 million to be sold to complete the local system.

The Ruidoso Downs system, approximating 50,000 feet of sewer lines, will service the residential and business areas including all sub-divisions annexed to the village since 1972. Voters approved a $500,000 bond issue July 18, 1979 to finance the project.

DOWNSP&Z STUDYING ORDINANCE REVISION

Mobile home rules eyed

BY CHARLOTTE FELLERS
Staff Writer

The Ruidoso Downs Planning and Zoning Commission (P&Z) Monday night heard revisions in the draft of a mobile home ordinance, recommended by village attorney Richard Parsons.

Parsons said many items included in the ordinance were unnecessary because they were already addressed in the general planning and zoning regulations for residential areas. These included:

—Mobile homes which conform to the ordinance should have some accepted uses as regular residential areas, such as home businesses including, for example, a tax service or babysitting.

—All dogs must be kept in a fenced yard and no more than two dogs will be allowed per dwelling.

—No trash, junk or old vehicles should be on the property. Old vehicles are defined as those which are not currently registered and not in working condition.

—Off-street parking space for two vehicles shall be provided.

Parsons said many restrictions were valid, but some, he said, should be incorporated into general regulations.

"We're trying to look at establishing a mobile home ordinance that, once completed, could be enforced."

Restrictions which will probably be incorporated into the ordinance are:

—Clothes lines must be placed either to the rear or sides of the mobile home.

—No vacation trailers may be used as a permanent residence and all mobile homes used as permanent residences must be at least 720 square feet.

—No mobile home shall be more than four years old when it is placed on a city lot and all mobile homes must be well kept. Parsons suggested allowing variances if the need arose.

—The exterior surface of the mobile home should not be allowed to become shabby or unkempt and all surrounding grounds should be maintained.

The mobile home must be skirted and hitches must be removed.

—Porches or patios must be at least 100 square feet and finished in harmony with the color of the home.

—No more than one mobile home per lot is allowed, and no tent, outhouse, shack or contemporary structure will be built on the mobile home.

—Side and back lot lines must be at least

7 1/2 feet, and the front lot line must be 10 feet, from the street. If the lot adjoins a commercial lot, the allowance must be 15 feet. If several connecting lots are owned by one person, lot lines can be built upon.

—The front entrance of the mobile home must be facing the street.

—Placement of butane tanks and water storage tanks must be approved by village officials.

Parsons said no general ordinances address where boats, trailers, travel homes, heavy equipment, and so on, should be parked. He said such an ordinance should probably be incorporated into all zoning regulations rather than just mobile home regulations.

P&Z member Vada Leighton said, "You can't dictate to people where they have to park a trailer or boat because of the terrain here." She said that, at her home, she would not be able to park anything behind her house, as was suggested.

Howell Pugh, member, asked, "How are you going to enforce this anyway? You can't get (stray) dogs picked up; when you call the police, it takes one or two hours for them to get here so how do you plan to enforce these regulations?"

Parsons said violations would be re-tagged by the village building inspector, and since mobile home owners will be required to obtain permits from the village prior to installation, they would be aware of the ordinance from the start.

Parsons said a mobile home is anything that can be moved and said a recent Supreme Court ruling found that double wide homes are not classified as mobile homes. He said modular homes are also not included in the definition.

In other business, the commission: —Accepted the resignation of chairperson Cindy Carruthers, who is moving to Ruidoso.

—Were informed that a seminar to review subdivision and zoning regulations will be held in Santa Fe June 13 and 14.

—Heard that no more illegal permits would be issued for signs in the village. A letter sent to state Highway Department chief Fred O'Cheskey criticized him for issuing an illegal permit. Correspondence received indicated that the permit in question was issued in 1967 and the sign has been on lease ever since, so it was legal.

—Scheduled the next meeting May 19, when Parsons plans to have maps available to set up residential zoning areas.

It's THAT time again

It's THAT time again — time to ponder that trite phrase: "Spring ahead; Fall back" — because Mountain Daylight Savings Time begins at 2 a.m., Sunday.

Ergo, anytime at your convenience ere the sun sets Saturday, firmly grasp your various timepieces, or controls on your stereo's digital clock, and advance the time one hour. The purists will observe the recurring ritual by doing this at precisely 2 a.m., which keeps them up longer than they might ordinarily be, when faced with the prospect of having one less hour to sleep than they had last Sunday, to get to the same place at the same time.

In any event, sometime Saturday night or Sunday morning, set your timepieces ahead one hour — to avoid the embarrassment of being right on time to join the recession at church, or trying to figure out which hole to catch up to the foursome that started on time as a threesome, because you were still in the sack.

It's THAT time again — April 27 will be a 23-hour day with the consolation being there'll be 25 hours in the day come Sunday, October 26, because it's then that you "fall back" to savor the hour you'll lose Sunday when you "spring ahead."

And now that everything's PERFECTLY clear, do enjoy Mountain Daylight Savings Time for the next six months.

Local area census now winding up

Though no preliminary figures are available indicating Ruidoso's population in the 1980 census, Grace Gordon, census crew leader, advised The News Wednesday afternoon that "the count will be completed by Friday, with only a few exceptions."

Gordon said the remaining areas in Ruidoso, with additional enumerators assigned those districts, are Meander Drive to the Paradise Canyon stop light north of Highway 37, with the immediate streets south of Sudderth now being completed, to conclude the local census.

Preliminary estimates, Gordon said, of the 1980 census will "be released from the Las Cruces office," though she said she hopes "to have an indication of the increase since the 1970 census very early next week."

Festival group hosts writers tour of area

Nine travel writers and editors from throughout the country were hosted in Ruidoso this week by Ruidoso Summer Festival, Inc., the group promoting the appearance of the Fort Worth Symphony in Ruidoso June 4-10.

The visitors familiarizing themselves with the Ruidoso area included Betty Peach of the San Diego Union and Tribune, and Copley News Service; Kathy Majors of News-Texan, Inc., a group of eight newspapers owned by the Dallas Morning News; Ruth Armstrong of Corralles, N. M., a free lance writer for publications such as the Chicago Tribune, Los Angeles Times, and San Francisco Examiner; Janet Fullwood, Dallas Times-Herald; Bill Minutaglia, San Antonio Express-News; Ron Butler, Columbia Features; Bryan Howard, Fort Worth Star-Telegram; and Gordon Duke, East-West publications, a group of airlines travel magazines.

The group dined at Cousins' Restaurant Tuesday evening and spent the night at La Junta Guest Ranch. After breakfast Wednesday morning at La Junta they were taken to Mon Jeau Lookout, Bonito Lake, Captain and Smokey Bear State Park, Lincoln, and Tinnie's Silver Dollar. The writers and editors spent Wednesday evening at the Holiday Inn after a dinner and reception at the Tom and Dorothy Knapp residence.

Today they will tour Rancho Ruidoso, Upper Canyon, Mid-Town, Ruidoso Downs Race Track, and have lunch at Alto Village. This evening will be spent at the Inn of the Mountain Gods. The group will depart from Alamogordo Friday after a visit to White Sands and the International Space Hall of Fame.

The familiarization trip to the Ruidoso area was arranged by Carl Byoir and Associates, the public relations firm retained by the Ruidoso Summer Festival to promote the June music event.

C-C planning membership drive

A membership drive will be the first major project of the newly organized Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce board of directors, according to Sheila Harris, president-elect.

Meeting for an all-day workshop last week, the board decided to sponsor a one-day drive in late May or early June to boost Chamber membership. "We feel that we can have so much more strength if we just had more members and more money to work with," Harris said.

The drive will kick off with a breakfast and the entire membership will be encouraged to participate. Harris said members will be divided into two teams and compete for prizes. Clark and Alicia Carpenter will advise board members in strategies for obtaining new members, Harris said.

Harris said the board also hopes to have a new city map available before the onslaught of tourists arrive. "We have directed Ed Jungbluth (Chamber executive director) to seek bids on producing a map from several companies," Harris said.

LeHigh, Steck-Warlick, a Dallas printing firm, has a map layout and is ready to print, Harris said, "but we want to try and get a comparison of bids to see that we are really being treated fairly."

If the Chamber chooses to accept Steck's bid, maps can be ready by Memorial Day, she added.

Harris said she hopes the Chamber, which has seven new board members, "will become more organized with directors becoming even more involved in Chamber activities than they were before."

She said she hopes some sub-committees of the Chamber, such as the Lodger's Committee and Restaurant Owners Committee, will re-activate and become more effective under the new leadership. "Each of our vice presidents will be doing more with the committees they are assigned to, in hopes of making the Chamber a stronger organization."

Crosswalks to be painted

Ralph Smith, traffic supervisor for the New Mexico Highway Department, said this week that crosswalks throughout Ruidoso will be repainted within the next two weeks.

Smith said the crosswalks in midtown, and two others at the east end of the village, would receive new paint. He said no parking signs would be placed, as well as pedestrian crossing signs, where needed.

Village administration assistant Frank Potter, said city crews would paint no parking zones on each side of the crosswalks when state crews finish their work.

Mid School band wins contest

The White Mountain Middle School (WMS) Concert Band traveled to Las Cruces last Saturday and returned victorious, scoring highest possible honors in performance and sight reading.

The band, 58 members strong, is composed of sixth, seventh and eighth graders and is conducted by Leroy Gooch, WMS music director.

Gooch was immensely pleased with the performance and success of his ensemble. "We competed with 19 other schools," he said, "and although we had to leave before the competition was completed, we had scored the highest of all the bands there."

The band was awarded "1" in both performance and sight reading, the highest score possible. Gooch and company were awarded a plaque for their finish.

They played three pieces — "March Bombastique," by John Kinyoni; "Danse Pavane," by John Cacavas; and "Meadowlands," an arrangement of a Russian folk tune.

ever donated. "We got 88 pints on our last drive and that was the first time we've

Airport group names Morris vice president

Tim Morris, manager of Ruidoso Municipal Airport, was recently elected vice president of the New Mexico Airport Managers Association (NMAMA).

The organization, holding their meeting in March, selected Clyde Sharrer of Albuquerque, manager of Albuquerque International Airport, as their president and Hal Tidler, manager of White Sands Municipal Airport in Alamogordo, as secretary-treasurer.

Morris just completed a one year term as a member of the organization's board of directors. His vice presidency will also last one year.

Morris said the NMAMA strives to promote aviation and its benefits to the community and state and promote aviation and aviation oriented business in New Mexico.

NMAMA also supports measures which will improve the state's airports. Lobbying efforts in the 1980 legislative session saw two of three bills passed due in part to their support, Morris said.

"The exchange of ideas between managers is probably the best benefit to being in this organization," Morris said. The group of 22 managers maintain all sizes of airports, with Ruidoso's falling somewhere in the middle. "Although we aren't the largest, we have the most general aviation traffic of any airport in the state," he said.

In 1979, local flying operations totalled over 18,700. The airport has tie down space for 78 planes and plans to expand that space are now being made, Morris said.

Morris was certified in January as an "Accident Prevention Counselor," by the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA). The certificate cited Morris for his "integrity, diligence, discretion ... and sincere interest in aviation safety." The award was presented in conjunction with the accident prevention program of the district office of the FAA.

Morris was chosen as one of the "Outstanding Young Men in America" in 1979, a program endorsed by the United States Jaycees which recognizes achievements and abilities of men between the ages of 21 and 35.

Morris has been manager of the local airport since 1974. He is a member of the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce board of directors and a member of the American Association of Airport Executives.

Animal shelter plans formulated

The Humane Society of Lincoln County (HSLC) met Monday to look over the preliminary blueprints for an animal shelter they plan to locate on village-owned land on Gavilan Canyon Road.

The preliminary plans, which include a passive solar system for partial heating and light, were drawn up by the Stanley J. French architectural firm. Once a contractual arrangement is completed with the village for the property, the HSLC hopes to launch a fund drive to finance the construction and equipping of the facility.

The plans call for a total building area of 2,700 square feet, with 22 enclosed pens for dogs, a cat and puppy room, office space, reception area, quarantine area, a workroom, storage areas for food and supplies and a receiving area for animals, to be equipped with holding pens. Skylights will provide light to most of the rooms in the building to cut utility costs.

Fund raising efforts will include solicitations by letter, placement of canisters in businesses throughout the communities in the county, and personal appeals. Contributions may be addressed to the Humane Society of Lincoln County, Box 1908, Ruidoso, New Mexico 88345.

Construction of the shelter will take 90 days, weather permitting, according to the HSLC members. The organization hopes to administer the facility, possibly under contractual agreements with the communities and the county. They hope to employ a professional director and animal control technicians.

In other Business, the HSLC: —Took official action to become members of the Humane Society of the United States, and to present a gift membership to the village of Ruidoso Downs, since that village is performing its own animal control.

—Approved the purchase of a film entitled "The Animals are Crying" to be shown to school students and civic clubs.

ever gotten more blood than we've used here," she said.

Quaid said that the community is directly responsible for making blood and blood components available to patients at the hospital. "Having blood readily available to anyone who needs it means that we all have to do our part when an opportunity like this arises," she said.

Quaid added that having blood available before it is needed may be the difference between saving a life and losing one. The hospital depends upon United Blood Services to obtain fresh blood for local use and said "their job of providing blood becomes simplified through cooperation of individuals in all communities."

Cady arrested with quantity of marijuana

Gerald Cady, 44, former Alto resident and former manager of the Artesia Airport, was arrested Saturday by United States Customs officials near Rock Springs, Texas, and charged with possession of marijuana.

Customs officials stated Sunday Cady's 1966 Piper Aztec was spotted on radar, near Laredo, Texas as it entered United States air space, and that a customs plane followed it to the deserted air strip near Laredo, where officials said they seized some 100 pounds of "very high grade marijuana" valued at about $500,000. Cady's $48,000 plane and a pickup truck valued at about $5,000.

Cady, with two unidentified persons arrested with him, was being held in Sutton County Jail, Sonora, Texas without bond.

McCaffrey C-C banquet speaker

Fred McCaffrey will be the featured speaker at the annual meeting and banquet of the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce May 7.

McCaffrey, a political writer covering Santa Fe for many years, will share the spotlight with the presentation of the Hu/Zhu/Ne Award winner.

Hu/Zhu/Ne, in the Apache Indian language, means: pretty, beautiful, attractive.

Lodging facility operators to meet Tuesday morning

Racing issue set May 8

Carrizozo Chamber scheduling cleanup throughout the town

Residents of Carrizozo will stage their second annual town cleanup day May 3. The project is sponsored by the Carrizozo Chamber of Commerce, although a number of local organizations will be assisting with the effort.

Thursday and Friday, May 1 and 2, city sanitation crews will be picking up large bundles of trash, such as tree limbs and cuttings, throughout the town. Residents are being asked to leave all such refuse at curbside for collection. Junked appliances and other large items will not be included in the pickup.

Saturday's activities will begin with a free coffee and doughnut breakfast at the Carrizozo High School cafeteria. At that time, young people of the community will be divided into groups to work with adult coordinators.

The crews will concentrate on the high visibility areas of the town as a first priority. Workers will be assigned to certain areas with large trash bags for collecting litter from the streets.

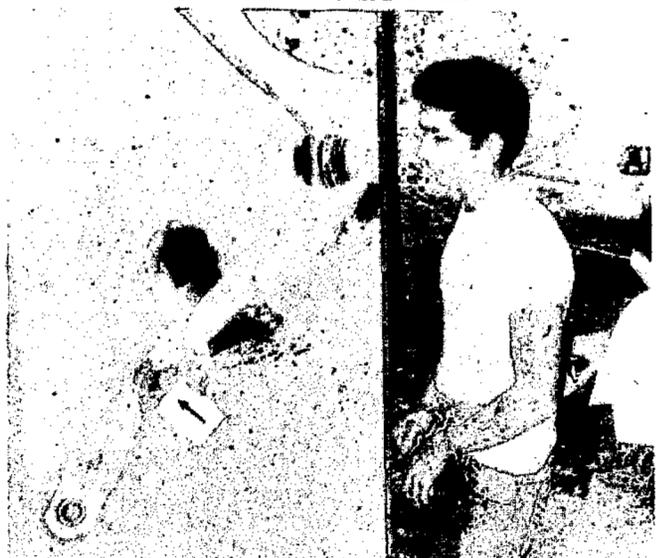

There will be some remuneration for each full bag of trash collected, said a Chamber spokeswoman. Members of the Carrizozo city council agreed to donate their current month's salaries for that purpose. The salaries were used to purchase admission tickets to the swimming pool and bowling alley.

Each worker's first bag of refuse will be worth admission to a lunch being prepared by Women's Club Members, also to be held at the school cafeteria. Subsequent bags of trash may be exchanged for the recreation tickets. Door prizes will also be awarded.

A Citizen's Band Radio base station will be set up at the school to coordinate activities. Members of the Carrizozo Junior Extension Club will be "doing the running" with additional trash bags and drinking water for the workers. That project is being chaired by Charlotte Archuleta.

Community cleanup committee members include Ken Jones, Marvin Rowan, Scott Shater, Ken Means, Mary Thorpe, Mike Moreland, Choncho Morales, Ruben Zamora, Dale Housley and Beulah Moore. Communications coordinator will be Victor Cisneros.

ARMED ROBBERY SUSPECT Nick Sena, 18, Albuquerque, Monday appeared before Magistrate Jim Wheeler in Ruidoso, with a $25,000 bond, with no 10 percent allowed, being set on charges of two counts of armed robbery and two counts of aggravated assault on a police officer. The picture at left shows where a .44 magnum pistol slug struck the brace holding the rear view mirror of Ruidoso police vehicle, driven by Patrolman John Layher. The slug, allegedly fired by Sena, split in two, with lead fragments showering into the vehicle's cab, some narrowly missing Layher's head. Sena was ordered held in Lincoln County jail, pending posting bond or to await preliminary hearing proceedings in Ruidoso April 28 at 11 a.m. (News photos by Mark Bagby) least 20 students are needed and there are several openings. Cost is $50 per person and includes all teaching materials, with each student supplying notebooks and pens. "This is a great opportunity to continue your education and pick up a second language at the same time," Harris said. To enroll in the class, call the Chamber at 257-7396.

The Plant Corner by Sally Black

This column is devoted to growing healthy indoor plants. Address questions to: Sally Black, The Ruidoso News, Box 128, Ruidoso, New Mexico 88345.

Dear Sally: What is the best fertilizer for my Boston Ferns? — Pat French, Ruidoso.
Dear Pat: Because ferns do not like salt and most fertilizers contain salt, the very best fertilizer for most ferns is "manure tea."
To make manure tea, use a five gallon container, fitted with a screen wire cover. Fill the container half full of cow manure, filling to the top with water; cover and let stand at least one week.
To use, stir well, then add one cup of the tea to one gallon of water, stirring well. Use only enough of this mixture to keep the soil always moist, but never soggy. The ferns must be well drained and never allowed to stand in water.
Newly purchased ferns should never be fertilized for the first six months.
Miracid is a good commercial fertilizer. Mix one half teaspoon of Miracid with one gallon of water, to use each time you water ferns during spring and summer.
The ideal temperature for growing ferns is 60 to 78 degrees, with no direct sunlight needed. At least 150 foot candle power is needed for artificial lighting.

Altrusa's home tour Sunday

The Altrusa Club of Ruidoso will sponsor a tour of landmark homes Sunday from 2 to 6 p.m. All homes featured are located in the Honda Valley and Lincoln.

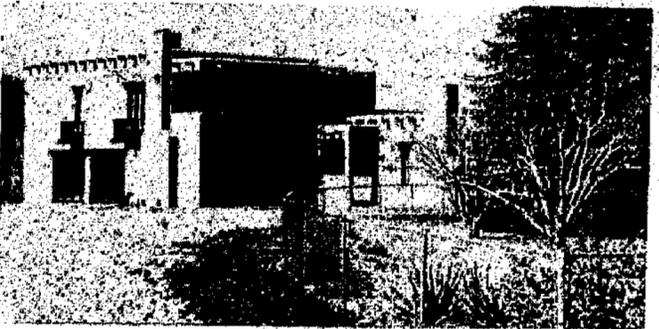

Included in the tour will be the following homes:
The Sentinel Ranch, owned by the Peter Hurd family, features 2,200 acres and the main house, an L-shaped hacienda with a character all its own. The home features wooden floors and cozy fireplaces throughout, as well as two artist's studios. Bill Pippin home, owned by Pippin, was designed with the needs of women in mind. This home is highlighted by knotty pine walls, fireplaces and hand textured walls and ceilings.

The Tom Perfeet home was originally part of the George Coe Ranch, homesteaded in the 1850's. The structure was chosen in 1940 by a national publication as the most beautiful home in New Mexico. Perfeet purchased the structure in 1973 and renovated it, saving much of the original paneling and tile to lend character to the adobe and rock structure.

The Betty Martin home, built in 1850, is a rambling gray stucco home with a stangle roof. It features an 80 foot long porch and has been completely restored since Martin purchased the home in 1976. Formerly housing a tuberculosis sanitarium, boarding house and a merchantile store, the home is supplemented by a mill house, which was formerly a nurses' quarters.

The Buckhorn was originally built in 1902 and saw many uses before being purchased in 1970 by artists Tom and Dorothy Knapp. The couple have renovated the building to include a bronze studio and living quarters for the Knapps.

Tickets to the tour of homes cost $3 each and can be purchased at Smith Ltd. Gallery, The Ruidoso News, The Artisan Shop and the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce. Profits from ticket sales are used by the Altrusa Club to sponsor community service projects through the year. This club, composed of professional women, is devoted to supporting projects which will better the community, according to Doris Langford, an Altrusa spokeswoman.

ALTRUSA CLUB of Ruidoso will host a tour of landmark homes Sunday between 2 and 6 p.m. Included in the tour will be the Bill Pippin home, above, located in Ruidoso Downs, and the Buckhorn, owned by Tom and Dorothy Knapp, pictured below. Other homes featured in this year's tour will be the Betty Martin home in Lincoln, the Tom Perfeet home in the Honda Valley and the Peter Hurd Ranch, also located in the Valley.

BY DANIEL AGNEW STORM

Apple Blossom Time
After the "blossom parade" up the valley was halted April 13 by the sudden spell of winter cold, on the warm day of Sunday the twentieth (a week later), the apple, pear and cherry burst forth in a glorious celebration resuming the parade of fruit blossoms more colorful and fragrant than ever.

And today, on Tuesday the twenty-second, spring is in its full tide of happiness with Heaven lending some of its charms and blessings to the earth on this magic day.

The apples had stopped blooming for a little while about midway of the vale of San Patricio; and now from this point upwards large sections of the valley floor will be a carpet of pink and white blooms all intermingled with the "apple green" of the new apple tree leaves. And all the winding valley is bordered by the translucent new leaves of the spire-shaped Lombardy poplar, the stately, large willow tree and the giant and wide-spreading cottonwood.

All the way up to the vale of Glencoe, the apple blossom parade is rapidly moving. The orchard trees presenting a solid mass of white, touched with pink, set off in color harmony by the pure green of the new rapidly opening leaves.

As if in tribute to the apple blossom's glory, the giant sweet cherry trees have held back this year to bloom along with the apples. The crystal white of these blooms on the large trees — without a single leaf yet showing — are like glowing emblems of spring-time purity of new life, casting a benediction over the winding mountain valley.

Blossoms in the Rain

Now the gentle breeze is stirring, blowing with a breath of approaching rain — the hosts of blossom-laden branches bend lightly, and all the air is filled with apple blossom fragrance. As you inhale this airy sweetness, you breathe in the new life of spring, and in the blossom flavor there is a faint taste of the apple itself.

Gently the thunder rumbles from the gray cloud approaching over the hill; and the rain drops come shining down. The new grass seems to become alert, thirsty now after having been given only a little help in rain yesterday. The smell of new grass blades comes clearly to you now as the pure rain cleans the world; and the thirsty earth rejoices and sends its aroma of wet ground and moistened last year's amber grass.

With blue sky overhead filled with clouds of all shades of gray, and pure white, we have a sunshine-shower of glistening drops falling into the apple orchard. With up-turned faces the blossoms catch the pure water from the sky, and the pink buds awaken at the rain drops' touch and hasten their opening into flowers.

The spring-time shower passes on down the vale, and the apple trees have caught and held every single drop of rain on their blossoms, buds and new leaves. The sun shines down upon the myriads of drops, turning the blossoming orchard into a sight not of this world. The raindrops on the pink and white trees are turned to countless jewels, taking their colors from the sky, the blooms, the leaves, the sun — and blending all these hues to form all colors of the rainbow.

Up from the vale of Glencoe, the apple trees leave you for just a little while while you approach "the narrows" as the old timers used to call it. And yet the fragrances of the apple trees down below is carried to you strong on the gentle breeze. And blended with this aroma are the airy flavors of many a wild blossom of early blooming shrub on hillside and riverbank.

The Robin's Song

Making the apple blossoms, rain and sunshine picture complete is the song of the robin resounding through the glen, your heart leaps once more with joy at the notes of this troubador of spring. And we thank God for springtime full of joyful promises of many happy days.

Historical group to hear history of Fort Stanton

A script interpretation of the history of Fort Stanton will highlight the meeting of the Lincoln County Historical Society, scheduled for 7:30 p.m., Saturday at the Fort Stanton staff conference room.

A recent newsletter provided a brief outline of that history, beginning with its construction in 1855 to protect white settlers from raids by Mescalero and White Mountain Apaches. It was named in honor of Captain Henry W. Stanton, First United States Dragoons, who was killed by the Indians near the site in January, 1855.

In August of 1861, the fort was abandoned and partially destroyed by its garrison, following the invasion of New Mexico by Confederate troops from Texas. The post was occupied by the Confederates for a few months, at a site which is actually two miles south of the present compound. In the fall of 1862, Fort Stanton was reoccupied by Union forces under the command of Colonel Kit Carson. In 1868, permanent buildings were constructed at the present site.

Abandoned again in 1898, the fort was turned over to the Department of the Interior, and three years later, to the Public Health Service for a Marine hospital.

In June, 1893, Fort Stanton became the property of the state for use as a tuberculosis sanatorium, which was later converted to a school and hospital for the mentally retarded, its present use.

Original Fort Stanton lands are also being used as a minimum security facility for the penitentiary of New Mexico, known as Camp Sierra Blanca Adult Rehabilitation Center.

Trials, futurity set at Sunland

A total of 75 head will participate in trials for the $207,500 Riley Allison Futurity this Friday at Sunland Park. The Riley Allison, set for five furlongs, has traditionally been the richest two-year-old thoroughbred event in the nation.

The 75 hopefuls will take up nine trials on Friday's card. The nine winners will automatically advance to the grand finale, set for May 4. The remainder of the 12 horse field will be decided by a draw between the nine runners-up with the lucky horses making the finale and the other six advancing to the Consolation, slated for May 3. Rounding out the field for the Consolation will be six third place finishers selected by another draw.

The winner of the Riley Allison will collect $33,421 and the winner of the Consolation picks up $12,433.

Trainer Cliff Lambert topped the list of conditioners with seven nominees. There were five trainers with four head each.

The trials will go off as the first and second, fifth through 10th, and the 12th races. Also slated are two quarter horse races and one $70 yard test.

First post is 1 p.m. Racing at Sunland extends through the weekend with the $250,368 Sun Country Futurity topping the agenda. The 350 yard grand finale is set with just under $88,000 going to the winner. An early favorite will be My Kids Trouble, the fastest qualifier in last week's trials.

Saturday's action is highlighted by the $34,566 Consolation. Jet View, winner of the West Texas Futurity last month, is the likely choice.

In Friday's trials a lot of eyes will be focused on Aminau, a filly by Jacinto who has the season's best time over 4 1/4 furlongs. Two weeks ago Aminau covered the distance on a muddy track in a time of $1 2/5 seconds and won by 8 1/2 lengths.

Aminau is owned by J. L. Parkhill of Navasota, Texas and trained by J. Michael Welch. She was purchased in a Kentucky sale for $30,000. Apprentice Jimmy Hunt will be aboard again when Aminau goes in for the 10th race, or eighth division.

Challenging Aminau will be two other winners this season at Sunland. Loom Tex and Paso's Tequilla have won prep races and should figure in the outcome.

Loom Tex, owned by Vera Lewis of Clearendon, Texas, won her trial by two lengths as a 5-1 pick. The distance was four furlongs. Loom Tex ran the race in 45 2/5 seconds, which is the best time for that distance this season. Apprentice Harla K. Webb will be up.

Paso's Tequilla, a colt by Scout Leader, won a 4 1/4 furlong sprint by a head last week. The roan colt is owned by Dr. Robert L. Butchko of El Paso, Texas.

Bill McMullen, a local singer, performed recently for residents at the Ruidoso Care Center. Entertaining during the dinner hour, McMullen sang several "Irish" numbers in observance of St. Patrick's Day.

MEDICAL IMPROVEMENT DEDUCTIBLE
Home improvements are generally not tax deductible, but they can be — if they're a medical necessity. For example, a swimming pool to provide treatment for a polio victim; a chairlift elevator for a heart patient; central air conditioning for a child afflicted with cystic fibrosis.
How much of the expense is deductible? The amount OVER which it increases the property value. For example, if an elevator costs $5,000, and the property value is increased by $1,000, the $4,000 excess is deductible. If there's NO increase in property value, it's ALL deductible.
But you'll need two documents to support this claim. A letter from a doctor stating that it is a medical necessity and a written opinion from a competent real estate appraiser stating the amount (if any) the improvement adds to the value of your property.
If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at DEVON DEVELOPMENT, INC., 2904 Sudearth Drive, Box 1260, Ruidoso. Phone: 257-5511. We're here to help!

White Mountain athletic fields near completion

Work on the athletic fields near White Mountain Middle School is going smoothly, according to principal Sid Miller.

Miller was appointed to head up a development team in January to begin work on improving the large area of land adjacent to the school.

Proposed improvements included soccer fields, six new baseball diamonds and better traffic control. Almost all the work is completed, Miller said.

"The school purchased roughly $700 of two inch pine for backstops for the field," he said, "which have almost all been completed. We still have to put up a chainlink fence, which cost us about $600."

"This work should be completed next week sometime, which will give us eight diamonds, and they should be permanent."

There are really two sets of baseball and softball diamonds at the school, he said.

The diamonds on the west side of the school are primarily for little league baseball, and the east side diamonds are for women's softball.

"The west diamonds are a little smaller," he said, "since the players are a little smaller."

All the fields will be open for practices, he said, but only after 3:30 p.m. "We don't want anybody practicing on them during school hours," he said.

Men's softball league teams will be able to practice on the women's fields, "if they have worked out a schedule," he said, "but the women have priority on those fields."

There are two soccer fields on the extreme eastern side, with ample practice area. That land was recently improved with a water line courtesy of the village of Ruidoso, to facilitate watering the land. Those fields will be seeded after the season is over.

Two basketball backboards were set up on a blacktopped area directly behind the gymnasium, and tetherball poles were also erected.

"The public is welcome to use those facilities, but they will have to supply their own tetherball," Miller said.

A sign has been posted in the area noting the boundaries of the Middle School football field, and Miller requested all groups to stay off that field. "We're trying to let grass grow on that for next fall," he said.

The biggest obstacle in the development of the land has been working out a suitable parking area and access roads.

Automobiles will be able to enter the grounds through only two points, both located on White Mountain Drive — one will take vehicles to some of the eastern softball diamonds and directly to the soccer fields, and the other leads off from the school's parking lot and travels to the other diamonds, around the Pony League baseball diamond and then to the soccer fields.

"Parking will be along those roads," Miller said. "People used to drive onto that field wherever they could get in and everything was getting torn up. We just had to put a stop to that."

"Bids are being let on construction work for those roads and we expect them to start work on them next week. But cars must stay on the road. Please don't leave the road, and park only next to the road."

Generally, work has progressed smoothly, Miller said.

"We got off to a little late start for one reason or another," he said, "but things are going real well."

Rules established in January governing use of the facilities are in effect, Miller said. They are: no use of alcohol or drugs of any kind on the fields, no driving across the fields, adherence to scheduling rules and the school reserves the right to limit use of the facilities.

"We particularly want to emphasize no alcohol or drugs on the land," Miller said. "That is a state law, and is also our wish, and we are asking the village to help us enforce it."

Various groups have worked on the fields to improve them, Miller said, and he expressed thanks.

"I hate to staff naming people for thank you, because you always leave but somebody, but Alvin Lowrance has been of great help, and Terry Wharton and Dean Hood and school maintenance crews have done great jobs of putting up the backstops. And Butch Grantham and the Sertoma soccer league people have done their share of work too. Thanks to everyone who has helped make this facility what it is."

Third annual Warrior golf tournament starts Friday

Fourteen teams from around the state tee off Friday morning in the opening round of the Third Annual Ruidoso High School Invitational Golf Tournament, a two day, 54 hole event.

Ruidoso golf coach Leroy Gooch said other squads participating are Jal, Lovington, Eunice, Artesia, Portales, New Mexico Military Institute, Silver City, Coebre, Deming, Gadsden, Socorro, Alamogordo and Truth or Consequences.

The teams tee off on the 18 hole course at the Inn of the Mountain Gods Friday at 8 a.m., then play another 18 holes that afternoon at Cree Meadows.

Saturday's final round will be played on the Alto Lakes course, beginning at 8 a.m.

The tournament, though not one of the largest in the state, is quite popular, Gooch said.

"Our tournament has gotten kind of popular," he said. "We could have 25 teams here if we wanted to. But the local boys have been so helpful to us, we don't want to tie up their courses any longer than we have to. We can get all 14 teams off a course in about two and a half hours."

"There are other teams that have told me they'd like to play in this tourney, but we're just going to have to make a waiting list and wait until someone drops out before they can get in it."

In the event of rain or other bad weather, Gooch said the tourney would be played "if we can," even if it has to be shortened. It could possibly be postponed, he added.

Each team will enter five players. After three qualifying rounds played this week, Ruidoso's top five are Paul Kirkwood, Mike Dale, Don Dale, Randy Wynn and Todd Perfect.

"We had a eighth grader, Virgil Reynolds, who was just one stroke from qualifying," Gooch said.

It's been a fairly long season for the Warriors, who have yet to win a tournament. Generally they've been well back in the standings. But, Gooch noted, the Warriors have played good golf.

"Our problem has been we'll play 15 or 16 holes real well, and then we'll get 12 strokes on the other two or three," he said. "That just shoots us down."

Playing on "home courses" should help considerably, Gooch said.

"We should have a home advantage — I hope," he said. "I think they'll play the best they've played. They're playing better now than they have all year."

The Warriors have only two regular tourneys slated after this tournament — a May 1 date in Carrizozo, and another May 3 in Roswell on the New Mexico Military Institute course.

After that, the state tournament is May 16-17 in Clovis. Gooch said he didn't think any of his charges had great hopes of qualifying for state.

"It's hard qualifying around here," he said. "They've lowered course ratings in this end of the state and it makes it a lot tougher to get there."

"But we'll just have to wait and see."

ALL IS READY for Saturday's grand opening and open house at Ruidoso Gymnastics Academy (RGA). Coach Blake Starr and several volunteers spent "quite a few" hours putting the new 40 foot by 40 foot floor exercise mat into place. The open house is from 1 to 5 p.m., and an exhibition meet will begin at 7 p.m.

White Mountain ends track season

White Mountain Middle School's track squads finished their season Monday at Artesia, after only two meets this year.

The girls' squad had a dual meet with Zia Intermediate School, and lost 64-57.

"We didn't have enough girls to enter two events," coach Terry Wharton said. The events were the 800 meter medley relay, and the 600 meter dash.

In the boys' meet, Zia won, 76-64. Wharton was pleased with the meet outcome.

"We did real well this season," he said. "We only had two meets, but that's better than last year — we didn't have any meets then."

"The humidity was a lot higher down there than it was here, but all the kids were in good shape and nobody seemed really affected by it."

Individual results were unavailable at press time, because the Zia coach had all the results and promised to mail them to Wharton.

Gymnastics school slates open house

Ruidoso Gymnastics Academy will hold its grand opening Saturday from 1 to 5 p.m., at 415 Wingfield, next to Village Hall.

Notable gymnasts and coaches will be there, including Mike Dennison from Bountiful, Utah, who has coached several tumbling champions and is president of the United States Tumbling Association, and Mr. and Mrs. John Charzuk, coaches at the Albuquerque School of Gymnastics.

Refreshments will be provided, and at 7 p.m., an hour long exhibition program featuring gymnasts from across the state is planned. Details of the gymnast's reclining chair contest, ending May 24, will be announced during the evening.

"We've got our gym about ready for everything," coach Blake Starr said, "and we have a new balance beam and vaulting board coming in. We also have our new 40 foot by 40 foot floor exercise mat in place."

Registration for the summer gymnastic classes will be accepted before and after the exhibition.

"All of our students, their parents, visitors and everybody who is interested are invited to attend our grand opening," Starr said.

Women softballers slate workday, voting, registration

League president Dub Holt requested all league members to turn in either ticket stubs or unsold tickets to Buddy Bundick at Community Public Service by 5 p.m., Monday.

Tickets are available from all league members. The action will end Wednesday, April 30.

Sportin' Life

... a column of opinion ...

by Mark Bagby

The saga of Rosie Ruiz goes on.

Ruiz, to the uninformed, is the New York office worker who finished 147th in this year's 26 mile Marathon run earlier this week. Nothing outstanding about that, you say? Well, she finished first in the women's division, shaving four minutes off the world record time (for women).

Now she's a disputed champion.

Race officials claim there's no way in the world she could finish so high — men's champion Bill Rodgers, the men's record holder at two hours, nine minutes, finished at 2:12 this year. "It was too hot to try to break the record," he explained later.

Now, let's back up — Ruiz says she runs 10 to 12 miles every day, and she has competed in only one other marathon — the New York marathon earlier this year. She says she placed 23rd (for women) in that event, running a 2:56.

"The New York officials have looked at the videotape of that race, and cannot find her crossing the finish line, after recording all the numbers of finishers and checking them against a master list. It seems no Rosie Ruiz finished that race, at least not in the time span she says she did.

For her to win the women's division in the time she turned in at Boston, she had to put together 26 consecutive five and a half minute miles, and she has stated publicly that her best time in the mile is — yup, five and a half minutes. To think she could do that feat in the heat of the Boston Marathon — the granddaddy of American marathons — is high on to absurd.

Although the evidence presented so far is still circumstantial, I personally believe she could not have finished the race in the time she claims, and I honestly doubt she could win the women's division.

As a runner, I know if she runs only 10 to 12 miles a day, she has little (if any) chance of finishing in the time she says she did. Rodgers trained a minimum of 20 miles a day for his first place performance, and he didn't break his own record.

The evidence is just stacked up against her. Give it up, Rosie Ruiz — every runner wants to win the Boston Marathon — but if you don't run all the 26 miles, 365 yards, if you don't suffer the anguish and the pain, then the glory means nothing.

I think the best solution would be to have her compete against the women runners again — maybe not a marathon, but at least 10 miles — keep tabs on her all the way, and let's see who wins. If she wins, let her keep the first place trophy, and all will be forgotten.

But if she loses — bar her from racing again. She has made a travesty of the most grueling, most demanding racing event in the world.

There is a lesson to be learned here — race officials keep track of only the first 100 runners in the race — and never, ever has there been a woman runner in the first 100. So why not keep track of all runners, or at the very least, the first 100 men and the first 100 women, for the entire length of the race?

Let's not have another Rosie Ruiz. And that's enough soap box.

Flying saucers

Paul Kirkwood, who hooks and slices for the Ruidoso Warrior golf squad (just kidding, Paul — he really is a fine golfer, and hooks more often than he slices), has finally done it — he aced a hole at Cree Meadows.

Now the details I have are sketchy, but, according to golf coach Leroy Gooch, it happened last Saturday on the 16th hole at Cree Meadows. "the toughest par three out there," he said.

The hole plays about "180, 185" yards, Gooch said, although it's listed at over 200. Anyway, Kirkwood nailed that sucker.

I'll have more on this later — that makes the second Warrior golfer this season to bang a hole in one. The first, of course, was Mike Dale on the New Mexico Military Institute course April 1. (No fooling.)

Both Kirkwood and Dale will be playing in this weekend's Ruidoso Invitational Golf Tournament, a 54 hole contest which tees off at 8 a.m. Friday at the Inn of Mountain Gods. If you've got a little free time, go watch the golfers drive and putt — and try not to envy them too much.

Wouldn't it be nice if you HAD to play 54 holes at Cree Meadows, the Inn and Alto Lakes? Sheesh.

Auld lang syne

Might be a little difficult to recognize the Dallas Cowboys next season. Everybody seems to be retiring — although the latest case, Rayfield Wright, decided to play for Philadelphia, after Dallas decided it didn't require his services any longer.

Maybe, with a little luck, the Cowboys won't do so well next year...which will suit me just fine. But don't despair, Cowboy fans — it won't be long before they're on top again. To which I can only reply — nuts.

AN ORDINANCE DECLARING THE NECESSITY AND AUTHORIZING THE ISSUANCE AND SALE OF VILLAGE OF RUIDOSO, NEW MEXICO, SALES TAX REVENUE BONDS, SERIES 1980, IN THE AGGREGATE PRINCIPAL AMOUNT OF SIX HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS ($600,000.00), FOR THE PURPOSE OF CONSTRUCTING, PURCHASING, FURNISHING AND EQUIPPING, MAKING ADDITIONS TO, OR MAKING IMPROVEMENTS TO, ONE OR MORE PUBLIC BUILDINGS OR PURCHASING OR IMPROVING THE GROUND THEREFOR, INCLUDING, BUT NOT NECESSARILY LIMITED TO ACQUIRING AND IMPROVING PARKING LOTS, OR ANY COMBINATION THEREOF (SUCH PROJECT TO INCLUDE A NEW MUNICIPAL ADMINISTRATIVE BUILDING) SUCH REVENUE BONDS AND THE INTEREST THEREON TO BE PAYABLE SOLELY FROM THE SALES TAX REVENUES OF THE VILLAGE OF RUIDOSO, NEW MEXICO, SUCH SALES TAX REVENUES BEING THAT AMOUNT OF MONEY BEING REMITTED TO THE VILLAGE OF RUIDOSO PURSUANT TO SECTION 7-14, NMSA, 1978, AS AMENDED; SUCH SALES TAX REVENUES BEING ON A PARITY WITH THE VILLAGE OF RUIDOSO SALES TAX REVENUE BONDS, SERIES 1968 AND SERIES 1971; PROVIDING THE FORM, TERMS AND CONDITIONS OF THE BONDS, THE MANNER OF THEIR EXECUTION, METHOD OF AND SECURITY FOR PAYMENT, PROVIDING FOR OTHER DETAILS CONCERNING SAID BONDS.
 The proposed bond ordinance authorizes the issuance of Sales Tax Revenue Bonds to be designated "Village of Ruidoso Sales Tax Revenue Bonds, Series 1980", in the aggregate principal amount of $600,000.00 (herein the "Bonds"), to be payable and collectible, both as to principal and interest, from the distribution of a portion of the state-wide gross receipts tax to the Village (herein "Pledged Revenues") pursuant to Section 7-14, NMSA, 1978, on a parity with the line of the Sales Tax Revenue Bonds of the Village, Series 1968, which were authorized by Ordinance No. 687, adopted October 3, 1968 (herein "1968 Bonds"), and the Sales Tax Revenue Bonds of the Village, Series 1971, which were authorized by Ordinance No. 714, adopted July 8, 1971 (herein "1971 Bonds"), for the purpose of constructing, purchasing, furnishing, equipping, making additions to or making improvements to one or more public buildings or the

 The Village has agreed to sell and the United States of America, acting by and through the Farmers' Home Administration, United States Department of Agriculture (herein "FHA"), has agreed to purchase the Bonds proposed to be authorized at par and an interest rate of five per centum (5%) per annum.

First Christian Church first phase construction building dedicated Sunday

BY CHARLOTTE FELLERS
Staff Writer/Photographer

The first phase of construction of the new First Christian Church in Ruidoso was completed last week, with dedication services held Sunday afternoon in the new sanctuary.

The new facility, located at Hull and Gavilan Canyon Roads, seats 350 in the main worship hall with additional seating for 120 in two overflow rooms. The sanctuary features a huge window behind the church's altar, which offers a view of Sierra Blanca with a meadow in the foreground.

Ground breaking ceremonies for this phase of the three phased plans were held in August, 1979.

The new building is equipped with restrooms, church school classrooms, a large fellowship hall, a library, kitchen and administrative offices.

Stanley J. French was the architect, with Service Contractors as general contractors.

Subcontracts were let to the following: Bill McCarty Construction Company, Payne's Painting in Alamogordo, Bob Purcella, Barnett Carpets, Hawthorne Cabinet Company in Alamogordo, Hamilton Acoustical in Lubbock;

Western Glass and Mirror, New Mexico Glass, T-Bird Lumber and Home Center, C&L Lumber, Ruidoso Wholesale Lumber, Concrete Projects, Hut-Co Incorporated, Add-Co Decor Company of El Paso;

John Fuchs Masonry, Imperial Woodworks, Mountain Insulation, McMill-Stenens of Albuquerque, Sunlite Enterprises of Lubbock, Mustang Construction, E & J Construction, Barney Rue and Ed Hazel Excavating.

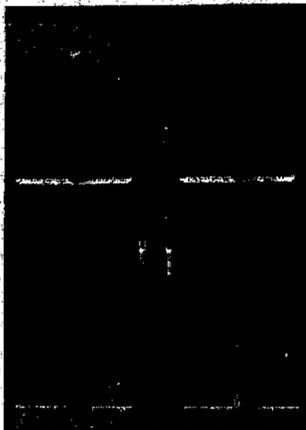

"We are now looking forward to the development of Phase Two of our building program. This will feature a recreational facility, which is to include a fellowship hall, basketball-court size, with a folding partition in the center," Ken Cole, church pastor, said Sunday. The second phase will also feature a large restroom and shower area with a large kitchen at one end.

"This facility is designed to serve the entire population of Ruidoso," Cole said, adding that Phase Three will include racquetball courts and a recreation room.

The next two phases will hopefully be completed within three years, depending on donations at large and from church members. "The financial aspect of this building project is of such dimensions that it will require a lot of individual support," Cole said. "We will build as funds become available."

He said the new facilities have opened the door for many additional programs, including the start of a vacation Bible school this summer, which was never possible before because of limited space, Cole said.

Worship services are held at the church every Sunday at 8:30 and 10:45 a.m., with church school at 9:30. Ongoing programs are listed in the Sunday bulletin.

BEAUTIFULLY CARVED DOORS grace the front of the newly built First Christian Church. Architect Jim French and family made the doors a gift to the church.

A BRIEF HISTORY of the First Christian Church was one of many highlights of the church's dedication Sunday afternoon. The history was written and delivered by Leona May Phillips, pictured, one of three charter members of the church still living in Ruidoso.

ADMINISTRATIVE OFFICES for the First Christian Church staff are located on the lower level of the new building, located at Hull and Gavilan Canyon Roads. Sliding glass doors open onto a patio which will be the site of many functions in the church family's future.

A HUGE WINDOW at the front of the new First Christian Church frames Sierra Blanca and a meadow in the foreground. At the peak of the church is the cross sculpture donated by Walter Rawley, which previously hung in the old First Christian Church.

NEW FIRST CHRISTIAN CHURCH, located at Hull and Gavilan Canyon Roads, was dedicated in special services Sunday afternoon. The first phase of a three-phase project is finished and features a three story building with seating for 470 in the main worship area. Phase Two construction will begin as soon as money becomes available.

THE SANCTUARY of the new First Christian Church seats 350 with two overflow rooms seating an additional 120. All seats offer a great view of Sierra Blanca.

Carrizozo Woman's Club earns national recognition

"Dedication, hard work, imagination and love," of members of the Carrizozo Woman's Club has resulted in the establishment of an eight unit housing complex for low income senior citizens — as well as prize monies and national recognition for the organization.

The club's entry in the community improvement program sponsored by the General Federation of Women's Clubs (GFWC) and Sears Roebuck and Company, was recently selected as one of five finalists nationwide for cash prizes totaling $25,000.

A panel of three national judges toured the Carrizozo club project Wednesday, and heard a presentation by Woman's Club members, officials of the Farmer's Home Administration (FmHA), the Region Six Housing Authority, and others.

Judges include Margaret Adams, senior editor for national affairs, Good Housekeeping magazine; Charles P. Arnot, former television broadcaster and foreign correspondent; and Daniel W. Shannon, director of Community and Organization Development, University of Washington.

Also present for the tour were the national president of GFWC, Mary Elizabeth Quint of Washington, D. C., and representatives of Sears.

Work on the project began in 1978, with applications for federal assistance to build the project. Financing was arranged through FmHA and groundbreaking took place in early February, 1980.

The two-year effort was necessary to "convince the government that we were a serious organization," and to secure approval of their loan application from the state FmHA office, according to club members.

Several speakers at the presentation praised club members for their determination in seeing the project through. In the face of bureaucratic opposition, "the Carrizozo Woman's Club did not back down," said architect Wayne Connell.

The complex consists of two quadruplexes, all one-bedroom units for elderly couples or singles. Facilities include a laundry room and close proximity to shopping, a medical clinic, the senior citizens' center and post office. Completion of the units is expected in June. Sister Jan Geha, Zia Senior Citizens' Center director, will be managing the complex.

Quint told the group, "You're a small community and a small club, but the complex is a fine example of community improvement."

The judges also commented favorably, with Arnot calling it "a great project." Club president Donna Nelson thanked the judges for their evaluation and finalist standing for the project, but added, "I can't say you have made the project worthwhile."

"Seeing those senior citizens' faces — who know they'll have a better place to live

— that's what really made the effort worthwhile," she said. Final ranking of the five finalists will be announced at the June convention of the GFWC. The Carrizozo group will be competing against communities in California, Tennessee, Michigan and Pennsylvania.

SMILES adorned the faces of Carrizozo Woman's Club members as they greeted a team of judges who inspected the club's community improvement project Wednesday. The club is one of five nationwide which will receive a cash prize for their project, an eight-unit housing complex for elderly low-income residents. ## Ski Run Road resurfacing well underway

The State Highway Department is working on a project to resurface New Mexico 532 in Lincoln County, according to J. J. "Buddy" Hewett, state highway administrator. The 12.5-mile road extends from Alto to the Sierra Blanca Ski Area.

The work is being done by a district crew headed by Glen Armitage, Assistant maintenance supervisor Scott Davis is overseeing the project.

The crew is reworking and stabilizing the present road base, adding base material and applying a double penetration seal.

"Depending on the severity of the weather in the area and the effect of chains which are often necessary on the road, the repair work could be effective for about five years," Hewett said.

Last year, the department did some stabilization work on the road. "Some people mistook that work for the road repair work that is being done now," Hewett said. "The earlier work was just a temporary measure to prevent further deterioration of the road base before the ski season."

The total cost of the resurfacing project, including the work done last year, will be about $450,000. Weather permitting, the resurfacing work should be completed by June 1, Hewett said.

IF YOU APPRECIATE your secretary, you'll take a tip from Magistrate James Wheeler and buy her (or him) flowers this week, National Secretary's Week. Wheeler admitted Wednesday that while Nita Blalock, magistrate clerk, really isn't a secretary, he appreciates her good work enough to give her flowers anyway. So, if you forgot, you still have until Friday to save face!

WINNING STATE AND REGIONAL competition in the community improvement program sponsored by the General Federation of Women's Clubs and Sears Roebuck Company was the Carrizozo Woman's Club project, an eight-unit housing complex for senior citizens of low income. By being selected for the finals, the club is assured of prize monies of $2,000 or more. Ranking of the top five projects will be announced June

SANTA FE — Governor King got very angry when Channel 13 questioned whether we have been given the full story on convicts missing after that dreadful night of slaughter in our state penitentiary.

He ought to know KGGM-TV isn't the only news organization suffering from that doubt. We'd bet over half the newsgatherers here feel at least some discomfort over what we've been told. They long for somebody to look us in the eye and tell us, with no marks of equivocation, that each and every prisoner has been positively accounted for.

Even better, they'd like to hear that from an objective outside source.

SECRETARY SAENZ: For a man who's only been in town for a short time, Corrections Secretary Saenz has accomplished a lot in creating distrust among the news folks who have to deal with him.

For one thing, there was the accusation that the Office of Public Safety for which he worked in South America was at the very least aware of torture of prisoners in the countries it served. He denied that, but now Charles Marquez of Santa Fe, who was a consular official in the same countries and at the same time as Saenz served there, says that's a lot of hogwash. "We knew there was torture," Marquez says — and implies Saenz knew it too.

The Secretary, already being criticized for lack of correctional experience, also added to his staff an old buddy from OPS days in Latin America, also with no correctional experience to speak of, at $20,000 a year.

Conclusion: This man isn't much at public relations.

YOU OUGHTA BE IN PICTURES: Sometimes you stir up a hornet's nest, when all you do is want to tell the truth.

When this writer, in a column in daily newspapers, said Larry Hamm, who runs the state's motion picture promotion effort, didn't spend nearly enough time doing his job, the Fourth Floor at the Roundhouse told Hamm to take this opportunity to get McCaffrey.

He tried, including a personal call on the paper which published our words in Santa Fe and the initiation of a letter-writing campaign in his own support.

But most newspeople would think like we do: When folks fight back that way, you must have hit them where they lived. There must be some reason they don't want guys like us sniffing around that movie division.

Results: We'll keep on sniffing — and you'll hear more from us on movie making and on Mr. Hamm.

LAWMAKERS DISTURBED: When the Legislature established an interim committee on alternate energy sources, it must have thought they'd talk about the sun and the wind and all that kind of jazz. They didn't.

At their first meeting in the capitol here they were more concerned with why it is cheaper to buy coal in Wyoming and move it here by rail (at $8.60 a ton) than it is to buy our own state-produced coal (at $25 a ton).

They're also worried that the uranium business, which everyone had been expecting to expand and expand during the last quarter of this century, may actually be on the decline. At the suggestion of Senator Jack Morgan of Farmington, they'll gather facts on whether that industry is already hurting, and if so, how much.

Nobody can miss the paradox that, as our country sees its need for energy sources increasing daily, our own possible contributions to the solution to the problem seem to be on the verge of trouble.

UPBEAT ON SOLAR

It is popularly thought that solar energy could be supplying a large fraction of the nation's energy requirements not many years hence, if only we were to launch a vigorous development program. Objections to this comforting view often are put forward by electrical engineers and others who know something about the difficulties. Hearing talk of significant reliance on energy from the sun, they are wont to respond with more or less informed skepticism.

Ordinarily this would be persuasive. Under the circumstances, it is not. For the poor-mouthing of solar energy as a viable alternative to fossil fuels has been given the lie by more than one reputable study.

The latest of these, a book-length report issued by the Union of Concerned Scientists, concludes that by century's end as much as one-third of primary U.S. energy needs might be supplied by energy from the sun. This group makes no bones about being critical of nuclear power. That must be taken into account. Even so, this report, "Energy Strategies: Toward a Solar Future," adds impressive strength to arguments for undertaking large-scale solar development.

While the authors of this study consider official estimates of the nation's future energy requirements "grossly exaggerated," they nevertheless wind up saying we will eventually come down to three choices: nuclear fission breeder reactors, nuclear fusion (not yet even proved feasible) and solar. In their view, federal programs to encourage synthetic fuel production and increased use of coal would only put off a broadly based resolution of the energy problem.

The study stresses the importance of more efficient energy use, saying only a five per cent improvement would save more oil than synthetic fuels could replace by 1990. Solar energy, we are told, could provide "from 15 to 33 per cent of total primary energy use by the year 2000, depending on the commitment made to improving energy efficiency and deploying solar technologies." Beyond that, the report's authors say they "believe that a transition to a wholly solar-powered economy could be largely completed roughly by 2050."

This is not gospel; other knowledgeable observers have taken a less sanguine view of solar energy's future. Still, this report from the Union of Concerned Scientists is a further indication that we would be wise to reassess the energy situation and how best to deal with it.

Congress has rightly been castigated for its unconscionable delay in adopting a comprehensive energy program, but its slowness to act may turn out to be a blessing. It is still not too late for a massive solar energy commitment. — Alamogordo Daily News

Two to the races for Lincoln County offices — county assessor and county commissioner — warrant the undivided attention of Ruidoso, Ruidoso Downs and area voters.

Chuck Rominger, Democrat, and Julla Samora, Republican, candidates for assessor, have no opposition in the June 3 primary. Such is the case of Ban Hall, Republican, and Jim Wooldridge, Democrat, both of Ruidoso, for a seat on the county commission.

All too often residents in the Ruidoso area have cause to complain, or believe they have, for consideration, or lack thereof, extended locally by these two offices.

Between now and the general election in November, it will behoove local voters to definitely pin these candidates down as to where they stand on those matters of vital concern to economic development in this corner of Lincoln County.

True, one member of the commission has but one vote, but if the commissioner from Ruidoso was elected by virtue of his pledge to keep the needs of this area uppermost in his mind at commission meetings, then it's possible that some of the past grievances might not again occur.

Likewise, ask the candidates for assessor to set forth their policies, ask them questions that are the topic of conversation at assessment, as well as tax paying time.

It is our responsibility to elect an assessor, and commissioner, that will best represent us. It is better to try to obtain the representation you want, than to decry the actions of officials not best representing the interests of our area. — CD

Thomas Edison was the greatest innovator of all time... There was a turnstile in front of Edison's home that visitors had to pass through. When asked why the turnstile, Edison explained, "Each time you walk through you pump eight gallons of water into a tank. We use that water for bathing and drinking..."

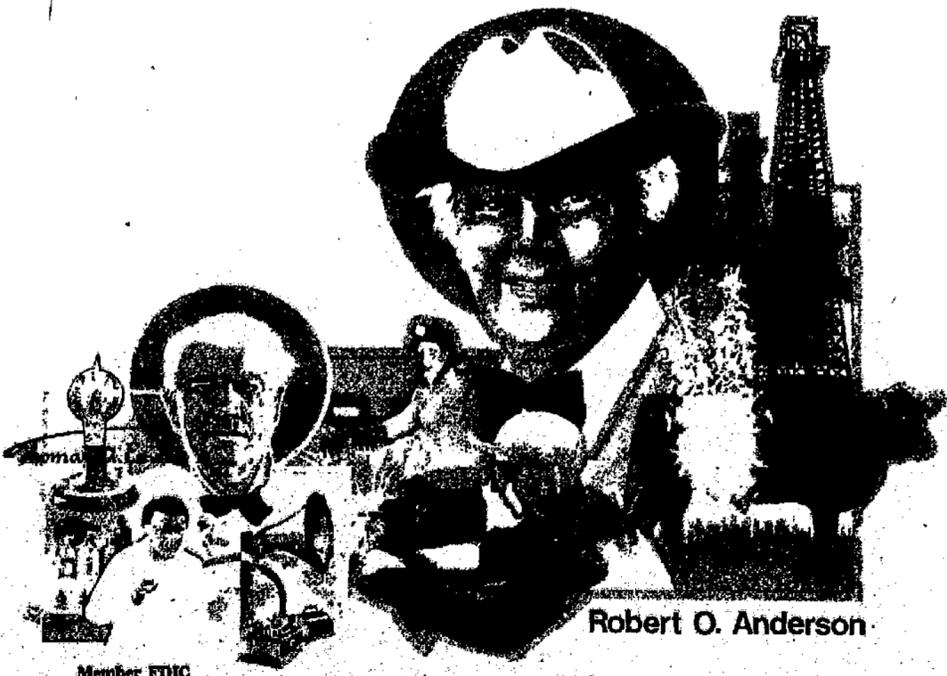

Edison was an innovator. He changed the world, but never lost sight of the day-to-day problems.

LAWS NEED CHANGING

The reason crime's so rampant these days is there's more people to commit crimes than there used to be... and more laws protecting the criminal than heretofore.

Why it's got to the point where a policeman, in a home on official business, who spies a ton of marijuana in the living room, can't lay a finger on anyone... until he up and gets a search warrant... and it ain't all that easy to get a search warrant for probable cause... 'cause, naturally, when he returns, with warrant in hand, the "probable cause" has vanished.

And in the courtroom, any suspect has so many rights that the prosecutor's hard put to introduce proof of said suspect's guilt... 'cause the proof that he possessed dope, committed murder, or burgled something, might have been obtained in violation of his rights.

Making it easier to obtain evidence, to prove the guilt of a suspect, wouldn't deter crime... but it wouldn't encourage it, as now seems to be the case.

True... during the days when three feet of garden hose were employed to encourage cooperation by suspects and witnesses, things was a sorry mess... so three-feet of hose should never be used again... but, maybe, a foot and a half'd serve the same purpose.

And... if'n you haven't read "The Brethern", you should... 'cause it'll flat leave you wondering how the Supreme Court ever arrives at any conclusions.

GREGORY'S FASTING?

Rumor... unsubstantiated Monday... has it that Dick Gregory... the black comedian who has made the news... even police logs... for his antics associated with fasting for causes... is in Tehran... where he's about to fast for force Ayatollah Khomeini to release the American hostages.

Way things has shaped up with Our Jimmy's efforts to coerce Khomeini into shaking loose the hostages... namely by cutting off Iran's food... has so impressed the Ayatollah that it's a safe bet that the only thing Gregory's fast will accomplish is loss of weight.

'Course there's the bright side to Gregory being in Iran... he's not aggravating people here... and all he's got to lose... in trying his scheme on the Ayatollah is fat he gleaned from our land... so hang in there tough, Gregory, 'cause it just might a losing cause as it turn into a winner.

HORSE RACING WOES

Didja happen to read about things as is happening in the horse race industry... like members of the American Horse Council appealing to the National Association of State Racing Commissioners for help to repeal a 1977 tax law they say coulda beat states with pari-mutuel racing outa nine million dollars in revenues?

And another Horse Council member opines that a proposed federal law banning all medications for race horses might not leave any horses racing.

Seems the tax law requires that 20 percent of all winnings over $1,000 on odds of 300-to-1, or better, be set aside as the just and proper share of the Internal Revenue Service.

Now... according to the Horse Council... 300-to-1 odds isn't uncommon... what with quinellas, perfectas and trifectas being wagered on... which should set your mind at ease and give your fingers a rest from punching calculator keys. Anyhow... this talkative Horse Council fellow has figured... probably with a calculator... that this law, in it's first year, funneled $65 million into the IRS outta 65 thousand payoffs at those odds... with his complaint being... that $65 million... or most of it... would have been "recycled in bets"... meaning the tracks'd got theirs.

As to medication for horses... those as is doing the figuring figures a bill banning all medication'd cost the horse racing industry $42 million from entry fees... which just might lead to the horse industry up and developing their own medication policy... which, at least, would take the matter outta the hands of politicians and the Humane Society.

But there's one consolation to odds-betting horse racing fans... no matter what happens, it's a cinch the favorite won't always win the race.

20 CENT LETTERS

The Postal Service can't stand prosperity... apparently... 'cause with 15 cents first class mail, they operated in the black for the first time since the Pony Express days... and now they wants to boost the price to 20 cents a letter... which'll, and what'll you bet, likely put 'em right back in the red.

BRIEF BIT: Speaking of fire prevention, didja ever stop to think how many tourists'd flock here if'n all our tall, cool pines was burned down... CD

By MIKE MAGDA

IN THE MOST IMPRESSIVE one day riding exhibition to date at Sunland Park, jockey Joe Martinez won five races and came within 6 1/2 lengths of winning with all eight of his mounts on Saturday's card. Included in his tally was Copper Case ($4.80) in the $5,705 Sunshine Handicap. Copper Case won with his usual dramatic stretch rally to nip favorite Man O'Fride. Martinez' other wins were Tony The Clown ($16.80), Four Swings Jr. ($7), Striden Bar ($5.80) and Right Bullet ($12.60). Martinez also placed second on Tario, Pistol Ball and Dantean, losing by a total of just under six lengths. Martinez is currently the meet's second leading rider behind Richard Bickel.

EASY JET OFFSPRING dominated the trials for the $250,388 Sun Country Futurity Friday, landing in three of the top 10 spots. Eastly Smashed, Easy Joni Jet and Jettabelle Boone won their trial heats with a time fast enough to reach the April 27 finale. The winner of the Sun Country collects just under $88,000. The fastest qualifier was My Kids Trouble, a Mr. Kid Charge colt who covered the 350 yards in 17.97 seconds. He is owned by William Gahlberg and Joseph G. Marconi of St. Charles, Illinois.

THE REMAINING QUALIFIERS include: Eastly Smashed, owned by Sue May, William F. Leach and Carol Childs of Ft. Stockton, Texas, 17.99; Easy Joni Jet, owned by Louie Allen of Allen, Texas, 18.01; Tiny Smooch, owned by W. A. Molloy of Lakeview, Texas, 18.03; Moses Lad, owned by Lloyd Rambo and the D. N. Cattle Company of Vinta, Oklahoma, 18.07; Sooner Velocity, owned by Grady S. Simpson of Norman, Oklahoma, 18.07; Jettabelle Boone, owned by Jacqueline E. Spencer of Carrizozo, 18.08; Flaming Supreme, owned by Frank Weaver of Waco, Texas, 18.08; Hempen Special, owned by Richard D. Barrie of New York, New York, 18.08 and Rebel Fever, owned by Walter Hall and Keith Liston of Corona, California, 18.08.

OTHER TRIAL NOTES: Jockeys Jackie Martin and Joe Martinez each qualified two horses. Seven of the qualifiers were trial winners and five were betting favorites. Four of the horses are Texas-owned while two come from Oklahoma and the rest are divided between New Mexico, New York, Illinois and California. There are seven colts and three fillies.

MISSING FROM THE TOP 10 is Jet View, the colt who captured the West Texas Futurity last month. Jet View tied with Rebel Fever in 18.09 seconds, but missed the final after a shake was held the following morning. Jet View tops the list of qualifiers to the $36,558 Consolation April 28. The remaining qualifiers include Longleat, a Master Hand colt who won at odds of 123-1, 18.17; Guthries Bug, 18.18; Go Get Em, 18.18; Tiny Gay Bug, 18.19; Easy Six Arrive, 18.20; Hurry On Now, 18.21; Just An Accident, 18.22; and Easy Patience, 18.25. Easy Patience tied with Piston Popper and Mity Room but advanced after a shake.

THE SUNLAND PARK wagering handle is closing on a new all time record—thanks to another big weekend at the betting windows. The total now stands at $21,050,383 (after 82 race days). That's less than $500,000 away from the record $21,502,425 set during the 1978-79 season. A new record figure to go in the books this weekend. Currently, the daily average stands at $256,712, a gain of 4.84 percent over last year's comparable $244,840. Betting-per-race is now $33,280, up 8.37 percent over the $21,463 at this time last year.

SCOUT LEADER HAS another potential star in Paso's Tequila. Saturday the roan two-year-old colt won a 4 1/2 furlong maiden race—his first career start—by a head. Scout Leader is New Mexico's leading sire and his get includes Banquero, Ernest Scout and Mister Dunes, all winners at Sunland. Victor Escobar was aboard Paso's Tequila, a 3-1 pick in the race. He is trained by Robert Bulchofsky.

IN THAT RACE jockey Jimmy Hunt was thrown off his mount, favorite Dynamic Sesenta, in the top of the turn. Dynamic Sesenta, a filly by Master Salls, stumbled, tossing Hunt in front of her. Hunt got up on his own power and was taken to the jockeys' quarters. He was excused from the remainder of his mounts that day. He returned to ride Sunday and captured the fifth and ninth races.

DANTEAN, A FIVE TIME winner at Sunland Park this season, had his three race winning streak snapped by Ben Fall in Saturday's eighth race. Ben Fall, who just broke his maiden the race before, won the mile route by 1 1/2 lengths as a 4-1 choice. Leroy Coombs was up, Dantean, with Joe Martinez aboard, held a three length lead in the final turn but succumbed to the stretch drive of Ben Fall. The loss kept Dantean from joining Roy Mistake and Boca Chica as a six time winner this season.

SATURDAY'S 11TH RACE produced the season's sixth "red, white and blue" finish. Number one, Ima Humdinger, won the 5 1/2 furlong sprint with Manuel Toquinto up, followed by Number 2 Lea Co. Kid and Number 3 Gypsy Fleet. Red, white and blue are the standard state racing colors worn by the jockeys in the first three post positions.

IN STEWARDS' RULINGS:

- Jockey Kemy Pruitt was suspended seven calendar days for careless riding while aboard Easy Linde in the third race April 18.
- Jockey Larry L. Chavez was suspended seven calendar days for careless riding while aboard Perfect Mark in the second race April 18.
- Trainers Melvin L. Howard, Earl G. Stewart, W. L. Gladd, Jerry E. Wright and Joseph D. Roberts Jr., were fined $25 each for entering an ineligible horse.
- Trainer Michels Laborde was fined $25 for having a dog in the stable area.

THE RAIL POST was the best over the weekend, producing 10 winners. (The No. 2 was next with eight). Here's the seasonal tally: No. 1—124 wins, No. 2—108; No. 3—116; No. 4—89; No. 6—100; No. 6—99; No. 7—82; No. 8—66; No. 9—68; No. 10—53; No. 11—0; No. 12—0.

Wilderness Wisdom

with Wayne Calloway

Dear Wayne—I'm quite interested in learning how to salt fish. Could you briefly explain the procedure? — Cath C., New Jersey

Dear Cath—Frankly, I haven't had first hand experience in preserving fish by salting, but I'll pass along the directions as related by a neighbor who has frequently salted mackerel.

When cleaning the fish, they should be opened in a manner that permits them to lie flat, and opening them along the back rather than the stomach seems better. You'll need a stone crock or wooden barrel (probably a plastic tub would suffice) in which to store the fish. First, put in a layer of salt, then lay in a flattened fish, cover with salt, add another fish, more salt and so on until you have exhausted the fish or filled the barrel. It would help if you rubbed salt onto both sides of the fish before placing it in the barrel. Cover the barrel with cheesecloth or similar material. That's it.

When you remove the fish for eating, do so the day before and soak it through several changes of fresh water to remove the absorbed salt. One more thing: store the barrel in the coolest, darkest place you have available.

TIP FROM READER — Anyone who takes pictures out of doors should know how to make silhouette shots. Properly done, they nearly always present very interesting results and, quite often, more pleasing effects than a properly exposed picture.

The key to making silhouettes is to remember that the subject must be underexposed by three f/stops if it's to appear black. This is true of color film as well as black and white. If your subject is to be silhouetted against the sky, take exposure readings of both sky and subject. If the brighter background is at least three f/stops higher than the subject, a good silhouette can be made. Simply set the proper exposure for the brighter area, frame the picture and snap the shutter. Of course, you aren't limited to only the sky as a background. You can use a light wall, screen or any other unobstructed area of sufficient contrast.

Perhaps one caution is in order. Be certain that whatever portion of the subject outline you want silhouetted is contrasted against the brighter area, otherwise it may dissolve into the same blackness as other silhouette objects.

Dear Wayne—It seems that every week or so the state is proposing, or has passed, a new bill which imposes more stringent regulations or higher costs upon the sportsman. The part that provokes me is that many of these bills have already been passed into law when you first hear of them. How can we fight legislation which is wrong or unfair if we don't know such a bill exists until it's too late? — Rodney B., Maryland

IT WAS A GOOD BET — Bet On Me bolted into the clear at the finish of Sunday's $6,000 Thunderbird Handicap at Sunland Park. Carlos Rivas was up in the top load of 122 pounds.

FIVE BIG ONES — Joe Martinez holds up five fingers, signifying the five winners he piloted home on Saturday's program at Sunland Park. Included in the set was the Sunshine Handicap aboard Copper Case. It was one of the best one-day performances by a jockey in Sunland history.

Bet On Me takes T-bird 'Cap

Bet On Me established himself as a top candidate for seasonal springing honors with an impressive come-from-behind victory in Sunday's Thunderbird Handicap at Sunland Park.

The five-year-old gelding, cleverly ridden by Carlos Rivas under the top load of 122 pounds, snaked through tight quarters late in the stretch to win going away.

The gelding covered the breezy 5/8 furlongs in a good 1:04 1/5 seconds and collected $3,600 out of the six grand gross purse. Bet On Me is owned by Patrick Brown of Anthony.

Launched as the favorite, Bet On Me returned mutual payoffs of $5.50, $4.20, $3.20. The victory margin was 1 1/4 lengths. Thirty Five, a 14-1 outsider handled by Darrell Blevins, turned in a good display of early speed and ran his heart out. But Bet

On Me packed too much punch in the final 100 yards. Thirty Five ended up second for total returns of $9.60 and $8.

Ghost Light, with Manuel Toquinto aboard, also showed a flurry of early speed. The mare managed to stay with the first flight all the way and ended up third, returning $3.60.

Bet On Me picked up his fifth win of the season, but that wasn't enough to make him the "winningest" horse of the meeting. Currently, seven horses have five or more seasonal victories.

Still, Bet On Me picked up his third straight victory, plus his second stakes success of the campaign. In late fall, he accounted for the El Paso Chamber of Commerce Handicap at 5/8 furlongs.

In Sunday's Thunderbird 'Cap, Bet On Me broke in the middle of the pack, and for a while it seemed he was laying too far off the lead. Thirty Five took control from the far outside and was a good two lengths in front when he hit the turn for home.

At the head of the lane, Bet On Me had managed to make up ground, but he was still well out of it. Thirty Five continued to set a bristling pace. However, he began running out of gas as he neared the wire.

Bet On Me moved up quickly to gain a striking position, then found himself sandwiched between horses. Jockey Rivas bided his time for about a half dozen jumps, went to the whip with vigor, and Bet On Me jumped through an opening.

Thirty Five was unable to do anything but watch Bet On Me gallop easily into the lead.

The Thunderbird champ is trained by Jim Curry.

Copper Case wins in stretch

Copper Case made his usual dramatic stretch rally to narrowly win the $5,705 Sunshine Handicap for three-year-olds at Sunland Park Saturday. The distance was six furlongs.

The bay gelding laid off the blistering early pace set by favorite Man O'Pride and Special Ranger, trailing by as much as four lengths nearing the 3/8ths pole, then began his move in the final turn.

Copper Case, with Joe Martinez up, went to the outside in the stretch and caught up with his foes with just 100 yards left. The trio battled neck-and-neck until the final strides when Copper Case got the upper edge to defeat Man O'Pride by a neck at the wire. Special Ranger took third.

Owned and trained by Jinx Graham of El Paso, Texas Copper Case carried the heavyweight honors of 122 pounds while Man O'Pride toted 119 pounds. The public gave Man O'Pride, ridden by Richard Bickel, 4-5 odds while Copper Case went off at 7-5.

Copper Case returned his backers $4.00 $2.40 and $2.20 while Man O'Pride paid $2.40 and $2.20. Special Ranger paid $2.20 to show. The quinella was a low $3.20. Winning time for the six furlongs was 1:08 3/5.

It was the second stakes victory of the year for Copper Case. Earlier he won the Dona Ana Handicap and placed second in the El Paso Times Handicap. Last year Copper Case captured the prestigious Ruidoso Thoroughbred Futurity.

For jockey Martinez, it was his fourth victory of the day.

Planes make initial forest fire attack

It seems a little incongruous, but the fastest and most up-to-date way to mount the initial attack on a forest fire these days, is with 25 and 35-year old airplanes.

Black Hills Aviation, owned by Arnold Kolb, which has been flying out of Alamogordo for the past 10 years, has eight slurry tankers, used to drop a thick mixture of chemicals and water on forest fires. The planes are on lease to the Federal Government. Two of them are B-17's, built in about 1943, and six are Navy Neptune P-2V's, built about 1954. The B-17's were bombers in World War II and the Neptunes used to carry a lot of radar and sonar equipment and were used to hunt submarines.

Kolb said the B-17's carry 1,800 gallons of slurry and the Neptunes can carry 2,500 gallons each. In addition to the slurry tankers, Black Hills owns eight other light airplanes, which are used for various jobs, like fire reconnaissance. The slurry tankers have the capability of dropping their load of fire retardant all at once, or in increments of about 500 gallons each, and Kolb is considered tops in his field at knowing when and where to hit the fire where the slurry can have the greatest effect.

According to George C. Green, assistant fire management officer for the Lincoln National Forest, and dispatcher Marshall Glisson, the use of aircraft in practically all phases of forest fire protection and suppression has been one of the most important changes in the battle against forest fires in recent years.

Aircraft were used for fire detection in the state of Wisconsin as early as 1915, and by 1938, for dropping supplies to remote fire fighting ground crews. Water and chemicals were dropped directly on fires on an operational basis in 1956, and helicopters have become a familiar sight at fires in all parts of the United States.

The use of aircraft is expensive, Green said, but their speed and effectiveness in getting the job done more than compensates for the expense. In just the last few weeks, slurry tankers from the Lincoln National Forest Tanker Base at Alamogordo-White Sands Regional Airport have been instrumental in putting out fires in Guadalupe National Park, near Carlsbad; in the Three Rivers area; and last week, just east of Cloudcroft, on the Waterfall Fire.

Whether a fire is reported by a Forest Service lookout or a concerned citizen, the tanker base crew and pilots have 15 minutes to load the slurry tanker with retardant and get it off the ground, headed for the fire.

The slurry itself is a mixture of diammonium phosphate and water and a dye to color it. The mixture is about the consistency of a thick latex wall paint. The chemicals are non-toxic to humans, animals and plants and the color will disappear in a short time, Green said.

The Alamogordo-based air tankers have dropped fire retardant on fires all over the state of New Mexico, including White Sands Missile Range and the Mesalero Apache Indian Reservation. They have been dispatched to assist other tanker bases all over the western United States and have been instrumental in stopping many forest fires in their initial stages.

The Forest Service also contracts from local flying services for light, fixed-wing aircraft which are used mainly for airborne fire detection. These aircraft will patrol the forest after a severe lightning storm looking for remote fires in areas that the forest-lookout tower operators cannot see.

These detection aircraft, with a pilot and observer aboard, also fly over the forest upon request from District Fire Management Officers during days of heavy forest use, such as hunting season and weekends. The light, fixed-wing aircraft are also used for bug control, search and rescue, and transportation of personnel.

The helicopter has become a familiar multi-use, fire fighting aircraft in wildland fire control. This remarkable aircraft has become as necessary in today's fire suppression as hand tool crews, tractors, smoke jumpers, and ground and air tankers.

The Lincoln National Forest has a helicopter and crew stationed at Capitan and other trained helitack fire crews are stationed on the Weed and Guadalupe stations. The helicopter is available all over the Lincoln as well as other Forest and agencies in all the western United States.

Helitack functions are designed to transport trained personnel to fires as quickly as possible. Small crews, trained and properly equipped, can gain control of most wildland fires if they can make fast initial attack. The versatility and maneuvering capabilities of this aircraft make it an important initial attack tool. It has the capability of dropping from 60 to 800 gallons of water or fire retardant on the fire.

This multi-use aircraft is very effective in transportation of crews and equipment, reconnaissance scouting, and search and rescue operations. The helicopter and crew, when not needed on the Lincoln, can be dispatched to fire on other forests.

The fire dispatch office is the nerve center of any fire management organization. All information and requests for manpower and equipment go through the Dispatch Office. When a fire is reported to the dispatcher, he starts all the wheels to turning and brings the far flung resources of the fire organization together to contain the fire.

The dispatcher must keep current records of personnel fire fighting qualifications and equipment availability status for the Lincoln National Forest. These resources are subject to fire call at any time of the day or night and the dispatcher must be always ready to mobilize them.

The dispatcher could get a call from the regional dispatcher to alert Lincoln personnel to be dispatched to a fire anywhere in the United States. In the past, Lincoln personnel have been preferred over other National Forest personnel because of their excellence and skill in fire fighting.

SLURRY AWAY!—Black Hills Aviation owner, Arnold Kolb of Alamogordo, dumps 500 gallons of slurry in a test drop at Alamogordo-White Sands Regional Airport. Dropped on a forest fire, this load would cover about an eighth of an acre. The airplane, a Navy Neptune P-2V, built in 1954, is about 150 feet above the ground, traveling at between 100 and 120 miles per hour. — Forest Service photograph.

Noted astronomer at Sac Peak

Professor Franz-Ludwig Deubner, Director of the Institute for Astronomy and Astrophysics of the University of Wurzburg in the Federal Republic of Germany has arrived at Sacramento Peak Observatory for a scientific visit of 2-3 weeks.

Sac Peak Observatory, which is located at Sunspot, New Mexico at an altitude of 9,200 feet in the Lincoln National Forest, is sponsored by the National Science Foundation and operated by the Association of Universities for Research in Astronomy (AURA), to perform basic research about the sun.

Dr. Deubner, who received his doctor's degree at Freiburg University in Germany, is a world authority on observations of motions in the solar atmosphere. He has published numerous papers on velocities and magnetic field in the sun's atmosphere in several international scientific journals. In recent years he made the fundamental discovery that the sun "vibrates" in a complex pattern. From detailed study of these oscillations solar astronomers can infer important information both about the interior of the sun (hidden completely from our view) and about the nature of the processes that heat the outermost layers of the sun's atmosphere to extremely high temperatures. Dr. Deubner's work has been hailed widely as a genuine breakthrough in our understanding of the dynamics of the sun, and has opened up one of the most active current research topics in solar physics.

While he is at Sac Peak Dr. Deubner plans to start a series of investigations of archival data obtained with the Observatory's Vacuum Tower Telescope to explore further the nature of the solar oscillations, and to analyze a series of observations looking for indications of these oscillations in the light reflected from the outer planets Uranus and Neptune. This work, if successful, will stimulate the search for similar phenomena in other stars like the sun.

PROFESSOR FRANZ-LUDWIG DEUBNER

Books on individual's rights now at Library

The Ruidoso Public Library recently received a complete set of the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) Rights Books in observance of National Library Week. The presentation was made by the Library Project of the New Mexico Civil Liberties Educational Foundation.

According to Ginita Wall, chairperson of the Southern Chapter of the ACLU, Las Cruces, the books set forth the individual's rights under present law and offer suggestions on how to protect those rights. The books focus on the rights of mental patients, prisoners, servicemen and women, teachers, students, women and the poor. Recent additional volumes address the rights of hospital patients, homosexuals, aliens, civil servants, veterans and the aged.

"The hope surrounding these publications is that Americans informed of their rights will be encouraged to exercise them," said Wall. "If they are rarely used, these rights may be forgotten and violations may become routine."

The books are designed in a question and answer format. Wall said the volumes seek to raise the largest issues and inform the non-specialist of the basic and laws of the subject.

Organ donors should plan with relatives

If you plan to donate your organs, such as your eyes or your entire body, to science after death, it is well to tell your close relatives about the decision. It is also wise to put this in writing, along with a will, said Steve Madson, Extension health specialist with New Mexico State University.

"Usually, medical personnel are hesitant to use a donor's organs unless the next-of-kin gives permission as well," Madson said.

In most states, the Uniform Anatomical Gift Act governs how to become a donor. The first requirement is to have a Uniform Donor Card to sign and carry.

Filling out a card or driver's license to become a donor does not automatically mean you will be a donor. Again, the decision may rest with a family member unless this has been agreed upon in advance.

Some donors try to find doctors who are specialists in certain fields where donors are wanted. Those wishing to donate their bodies may begin by contacting the surgery department at a medical school or by asking the family physician for help.

Top jockey earning his recognition

BY DICK ALWAN

When Jerry Bailey, 22, was growing up in El Paso, Texas people would often ask: "Are you Doc Bailey's son?"

Now it's fairly common for Dr. Jim Bailey, the well known pediatric dentist, to have this question put to him: "Are you Jerry Bailey's father?"

Not that Doc Bailey sees any insult in this. In fact, like any proud papa, he's pleased to pieces when folks make the connection between he and his son. After all, it's not every successful dentist who has a son who grows up to be an absolutely first rate jockey.

If there's any irony in the situation it's the fact Jerry is doing so well at big league tracks in Florida, and the eastern states, that he has no chance — no reason, in fact — to ride here in the Southwest. With the kind of dough he's pulling in, and the top cabin stock he rides, he'd face an economic downturn if he decided to ride before the hometown folks.

We need to point out that in Jerry's first full year of riding, back in 1976, he pulled in $142,000. Since then, the gravy train has been chugging at full throttle. "He's been in the top 10 in jockey standings at every track he's ridden," Doc Bailey said, obviously proud to tears. "And that includes Hollywood Park, where he rode in the summer of 1977."

Currently, Jerry concentrates on the tenderloin district in Florida — Calder, Tropical Park, Hialeah and Gulfstream. At this writing, he's second in the Gulfstream standings. (Recently, he was topdog at Calder.) Since he spends so much time in the Miami area, he went ahead and bought a condominium there.

Which is not to say Jerry is one to toss the fruits of his talents around recklessly. "If he needs $20,000 or so for something or other, that's fine," Papa Bailey said. "But we've got him in a firm investment plan and he has to keep himself busy to make those payments."

The plan that Doc Bailey outlined includes land, treasury bills and some stocks. In addition, Bailey and Son recently pooled resources and picked up a farm west of Canutillo, in El Paso's Upper Valley.

Jerry Bailey isn't any stars-in-the-eye success child, tossing around fat greenbacks like there's no tomorrow. With Papa Bailey laying down some guidelines, Jerry ought to be in pretty fine shape financially — if he isn't already.

Besides, when it comes to making a buck, and investing it, Jerry didn't need much encouragement. The kid was an honor student at Coronado High School in El Paso — and he was one to push his nose against the grindstone. Doc Bailey said he sizes up things this way: "Looking over the success he's achieved, it does seem a little farfetched. There was no way I could anticipate it. But one thing I was sure about — I knew he'd succeed at whatever he decided to do."

Early in life, Jerry figured out he didn't want to be a dentist, nor a doctor, and that was fine with the elder Bailey. He believes in letting his kids make up their own minds. Jerry obviously had a highly competitive spirit. He was on the track team in junior high and lettered in wrestling in high school.

The story of how Jerry found his way to the racetrack really began in 1962, when Doc Bailey decided he liked El Paso, and moved here to begin his practice. Raised around horses near Ft. Worth, Texas, Doc Bailey readily attended the races at Sunland Park when invited by a pal, Ray Hopper.

It didn't take Doc Bailey long to begin dabbling in the business, and he picked up Uncle Peter on a $1,500 claim. Uncle Peter won about eight races for Bailey. Next came Mona's Ben Jay, whom Bailey claimed for $2,500. That one turned out to be another winner. At this point, Doc Bailey's observations went something like: "Say, this racing is a super business." Shortly afterward, he acquired Real Sleeper in the All-American Yearling Sale at Ruidoso, and Real Sleeper turned into a steady winner at 870 yards.

At that time, Doyal Roberts was training for Doc Bailey, and Jerry, 13, spent the summer at Ruidoso with Doyal — rubbing horses and mucking stalls. When he was 15, he traveled to the Denver track with trainer J. J. Fletcher, doing the same kind of work. Fletcher's key rider at the time, Bobby Salas, suggested that Bailey consider becoming a jockey. The idea quickly took root.

But Bailey had to face a crossroads decision when Fletcher asked him to take over as assistant trainer at $125 per week — which would have been pretty good pay for a kid whiling away the summer. Jerry discussed the proposition with his pop, and the elder Bailey said: "Well, what do you want to do?" — meaning, of course, what long range career objectives do you have in mind? Young Jerry put it simply: "I want to be a jockey."

So instead of being an assistant trainer, he went to Santa Fe Downs to begin galloping for trainer Ike Danley. Later, when the jockey fever was fixed in Jerry, Doc Bailey said: "Go to college — you can be a jockey later." Jerry replied: "I can always go to college — but I want to be a jockey now."

In 1974, he rode his first mount. That was at Sunland Park, and he finished far back. His second day on the job came November 2, 1974. He had two mounts and he won with both. Fetch paid $21.40. Roadway returned $14.00.

Jerry wound up as Sunland's leading apprentice, then he was off to Hot Springs, and Omaha, Santa Fe, the New Mexico State Fair. It was at the Omaha meeting — where Jerry had to ride against such high powered pilots as Larry Snyder and David Whitely — when Papa Bailey decided his sibling really had big league potential. "They'd expect him to go to the inside, and he'd go to the outside. Then they'd look for him on the outside, and he'd go through on the rail," Bailey said.

Jerry's success has been patently satisfying for Jerry and his family. But Doc Bailey says he's still a bit apprehensive, knowing as he does the physical jeopardy involved. He remembers the time Jerry took a spill and broke his jaw in two places.

But he thinks he's figured out why Jerry has done as well as he has. "He's a hard-worker, and fairly intelligent. Put those two elements together, and anything can happen," he said.
