COMMISSION NIXES NMAC MEMBERSHIP

County budget $1.7 million

BY GWYNETH JONES
Staff Writer

A budget nearing two million dollars was approved Tuesday by Lincoln County commissioners at the final budget hearing in Carrizozo.

The grand total of $1,786,454, includes projected expenditures of $1,044,459 in the general fund, $402,196 for the road fund and $339,800 in the Farm and Range Fund. The county budget for fiscal 1979-1980 was $1.7 million of which $654,503 was for general fund expenditures.

Other major expenditures planned for fiscal 1980-81 include a total of $61,878 for the five county fire departments, $6,400 for recreation, $50,000 to the Ruidoso Hondo Valley Hospital, $25,000 to the Carrizozo Health Center and $33,256 to Emergency Medical Services.

Payments of the principal on general obligation bonds will amount to $85,000 for the year, and interest payments will total $31,263. The commission also allotted $500 to the Sierra Blanca Airport Commission.

Acting on instructions from the state Department of Finance and Administration, the county officials included in the budget $170,282 in expected revenue sharing funds provided by the federal government. The legislation which will extend that funding for the entire year is still pending before the United States Congress.

Changes in the budget calculations since the previous commission meeting included reinstatement of the position of ambulance coordinator, to be paid on a per-hour basis under the professional services allotment. Another change was the budgeting of $2,000 to be used to fence an expansion of the Carrizozo landfill.

The commissioners also voted to reaffirm an earlier decision to withdraw their membership in the New Mexico Association of Counties (NMAC).

At the Tuesday meeting, newly appointed NMAC executive director Arthur Sandoval appealed to the commissioners to reconsider that decision, and outlined some planned projects and lobbying efforts the association would be pursuing in the next year.

Sandoval said he and NMAC president Donald Hooker would work to improve workshops and other activities for county officials so they would "be of value to everyone."

The commissioners had objected to continued membership because of what they felt was an unfair assessment of dues and lack of effectiveness of the organization. Under the dues formula, Lincoln County would have paid a greater amount than Otero County.

Dues, Sandoval said, are based on ad valorem property taxes, gasoline taxes and motor vehicle fees. The Otero figure was lower, he said, because that county doesn't "levy their full six miles," of property taxes, as Lincoln County does.

The commissioners again questioned the fairness of the assessment, since other revenues, such as gross receipts and federal funds, are not considered in the dues formula.

Sandoval said the association now represents 31 of the 32 New Mexico counties, since Bernalillo County's earlier withdrawal, and added he expected that county to "return to the fold," soon.

"If you drop out, you'll be at the mercy of Bernalillo County," Sandoval said, referring to representation and lobbying in Santa Fe. "And I don't think you have that much in common with Bernalillo County," he added.

Commissioner Ben Hall said, "I think all of us have made our legislators aware of what we (rural counties) need—money." He added that none of the representatives he had spoken to had "mentioned NMAC as the driving force," in helping to solve that problem.

Commission chairman Cotton McKnight said he felt that for the amount of dues, per diem and travel necessary for NMAC membership, (over $3,000) the county could afford to send their own representatives to Santa Fe to lobby for their interests.

McKnight ended the discussion by comparing the NMAC's efforts with that of wool lobbyists. He said part of his wool incentive check was taken for the federal lobbying, "before I ever see it—and I think it's a ripoff."

"I can't do anything about that," he added, "but I can do something about this." He and the other two commissioners concurred on a decision to "sit out this year and see if you (the NMAC) do a good job."

If the Lincoln County officials are satisfied with the association's performance over the next year, they will consider rejoining, McKnight said.

In other business, the commissioners: —Agreed to propose an ordinance prohibiting littering in the county, based on the state anti-littering ordinance.

—Granted permission to the Mid-America Pipeline Company of Tulsa, Oklahoma, for placement of additional gas pipelines which will pass under county roads on easements previously acquired by the company.

—Approved a budget increase for the Fort Stanton Fire Department to finance upgrading of a 1988 pumper unit.

YECCCH! Victor Borge sat down Tuesday morning to play a sonata or two, but the piano turned out to be a cake manufactured by Nottingham's Dell. Borge's finger sort of stuck in the keyboard. The cake, baked in sections, weighed 500 pounds and was stuck together "with tons of icing," said cake bakers Gary and Melinda Hall.

DIRECTOR GIORDANO PROCLAIMS:

Festival successful!

Any remaining doubts about the success of the Ruidoso Summer Festival dissolved Tuesday in repeated ovations accorded pianist/humorist Victor Borge, accompanied by the Fort Worth, Texas "Little Symphony" orchestra.

The orchestra opened the program with two waltz selections by Strauss, "Die Fledermaus," and "Blue Danube," under the direction of John Giordano.

Giordano once again hailed the festival as a success, saying the local festival board had "done miracles," in "putting the festival together in two months' time."

The capacity crowd at Ruidoso Downs Sales Arena seemed equally charmed by Borge's comedy routines and his musical skills at the keyboard. He delivered serious performances of selections by Franz Liszt and Frederic Chopin, as well as fractured versions of numerous other tunes.

"Borge familiar with Borge's work enjoyed his expected troubles in staying seated on the piano bench, his ad libbing with the audience and orchestra members and intentional semantic errors — "It's your language, I'm just trying to use it."

As an encore, Borge presented his famous "phonetic punctuation" routine, reciting from a prose story and adding sounds of his own invention to represent dashes, commas, periods, quotation marks, and so on.

At the close of the concert, Borge was called upon to carve the first piece of cake from a nearly life size baby grand piano. confection, provided by Nottingham's Catering, which was served to the orchestra members and the audience while Borge and Giordano signed autographs.

The Tuesday performance concluded the seven concert festival, which the local board hopes to establish as an annual event.

At the Monday evening family concert, audience participation was the norm. Associate conductor James Simpson Miller led the group in "Introduction to the Orchestra," recreating his conception of the first rehearsal of the "prehistoric philharmonic."

The selection "Notacantata," reportedly the work of a composer named "Justin Case," featured symphony board members from Fort Worth and Ruidoso blowing noisemakers and throwing confetti which was quickly vacuumed (during the performance) by Catherine Finley of La Junta Guest Ranch.

The final note of Notacantata was sounded by local children, armed with pins and inflated balloons.

Other selections Monday included Prokofiev's Peter and the Wolf, narrated by Giordano and Dance of the Comedians by Smetana.

No rumble strips for crosswalks

Ralph Smith, traffic supervisor for the New Mexico Highway Department, (NMHD), told The News Tuesday that rumble strips will not be placed on Sud-dert to warn drivers that crosswalks are in use.

Smith said the NMHD conducted studies in other communities where strips were placed and found them to be very effective. However, he said that because traffic flow in Ruidoso is so constant, "we didn't think they'd be useful there."

Smith said that "under the traffic problems involved and the prevailing speeds with cars moving close together," the rumble strips would not serve a useful purpose.

Smith said rumble strips are designed to alert drivers that a hazard or other obstacle is ahead but are used in areas where traffic flow is much lighter than downtown

Ruidoso. He said the NMHD has placed the strips on approaches into communities to warn that speed limits are lower.

Smith said he expects a report which will be written by Steve Dwyer, traffic engineer in Santa Fe, will be released within two weeks giving the results of a speed limit survey made recently in Ruidoso.

Dwyer and his crew are now doing the survey and will submit recommendations to Smith for raising or lowering the speed on state highways.

"We will do what the study indicates depending on what 85 percent of the traffic flow is in the village," Smith said.

He said the survey would also include recommendations for changing signs, which would probably mean traffic signs would be larger than now.

"We will continue to improve on what we have now in Ruidoso," Smith said.

C-C drive nets 98 new members

Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce's membership was boosted by 98 new members Wednesday when the organization sponsored a one day membership drive.

Leading the pack in most members obtained were the "Bad Guys" with 53 new members signed because of their efforts. The "Good Guys" were close behind with 45 memberships added.

A goal of 100 new members was set, but both team leaders, Larry Langford and Ralph Bellon, assured The News late Wednesday that the goal would be surpassed within a few days.

"We will end up with more than the 100 members with the momentum we gained throughout the day," Langford said. He said many people could not be reached within the time limit and Chamber executive director Ed Jungbluth will make follow-up calls in coming weeks, to complete the drive.

"I would like to thank everyone for all they did — especially Ralph Bellon for taking the rap as a loser," Langford said.

Bellon said he felt "this contest has gone beyond all my best expectations. We know the good guys have to admit to defeat but really, we're all winners." Bellon added that his team "would have done so much better with more cooperation from the press."

Chamber president Sheila Harris was "just thrilled and delighted." She said the day-long effort "exceeded our greatest expectations and we are looking forward to a lot of participation from the new members."

Helium filled balloons were placed in front of every business that joined Wednesday carrying the slogan "I joined." Each new member was plugged on KRRR in live interviews which were ongoing.

New disease strikes area puppies, dogs

Parvovirus, a deadly and highly contagious disease, is striking dogs and puppies in the Ruidoso area.

Generally, according to Dr. Lynn Willard, D.V.M., puppies under five months old are the most severely stricken.

Treatment, two injections of a vaccine two to four weeks apart, gives dogs a 50-50 chance of survival according to Willard. "Without the vaccine, most dogs will die," Willard said.

Willard said he has treated "three cases three weeks ago, three two weeks ago and eight this past week. The situation is getting worse, but we don't have a problem, there is no reason to panic."

He said that parvovirus should be suspected if the puppy is "vomiting, has bloody diarrhea and is depressed."

The disease, with cats and humans immune, is transmitted by casual contact or through the air. Vaccination is recommended, Willard said, and is important when dogs will be entered in shows, or placed in kennels.

'Longest day of golf' cancer pledges open

Pledges are still being taken for the "Longest Day of Golf" benefit for the East Lincoln Chapter of the American Cancer Society's (ELCACS) cancer crusade.

The final fund raiser in this year's crusade, golfers will play continuous rounds of golf from 5:30 a.m., until dark June 19 at Cree Meadows Country Club and Alto Country Club.

Golfers include two foursoms, with Frank Sayner, Ken Green, Paul Whitwam and Harry Ray playing at Cree Meadows; and Jeff Chapman, Jack Warlick, Bob Hickson and Danny Wimberly teeing off at Alto.

refreshments at the golf courses throughout the day, and are now seeking donations of meals for golfers.

Organizer of the activities, Bob Livingston, said all pledges are on a per hole basis. "For example, you could pledge ten cents per hole and if they play 80 holes, you would pay $8" he said.

The ELCACS is still $1,000 short of their goal of $3,000 for this year's crusade. In addition to the golfing event, the goal will be met with private and business donations, Livingston said.

To make a pledge, call Livingston at 257-5058, extension 253 or Rose Peebles at 257-7373.

PLANNING THEIR predictably underhanded strategy are the "Bad Guys" team members, in efforts to increase the membership of the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce Wednesday in a one-day campaign. They signed 53 new members to win the contest. Team members included Bob Finley, Denny Loverin, Pat Crawford, Mel O'Reilly, Blake

Starr, Danny Brown, Tim Wishard, Gail Adams, George Lore, Gary Hall, Wayne Sivage, Jack Reed, Linda Flack, Benny Coulston, Kathy Barnett, Tom Graham and the "worst" bad guy, Ken Green, according to "Good Guy" leader Ralph Bellon, whose team added 45 new members to the Chamber.

AWARD WINNING MEMBERS of the Ruidoso Noon Lions, from the left; Jack Kannady Jr., high game in bowling and Bill Morrison, Outstanding Secretary in District 40M and second in pool tournament; with President's Appreciation Awards, for local club activities this past year, to Morrison, Bill Fugate and Owen McWilliams.

Knights buying Ruidoso hospital surgical table

Ruidoso Hondo Valley Hospital (RHVH) Tuesday received a $6,000 check from the New Mexico Knights of Columbus (K of C). The money will buy a surgical table.

Presenting the check to hospital administrator Ken Moore was Joe Kogler, state deputy for the K of C, who said, "The amount of money given to this hospital this year is approximately ten percent of total charitable donations in the state."

Kogler said RHVH was selected for the gift because a survey completed in February by Moore's staff indicated that "the use of this hospital by people throughout the state is astonishing," due in part to the type of communities it serves.

The survey showed 614 patients admitted in 1979 were from communities other than Ruidoso. For the first two months in 1980, 118 patients were admitted.

Kogler said the K of C raised $75,000 this year for the mentally retarded through the sale of Tootsie Rools. He said ten percent of that figure was set aside to use in seeking matching federal funds to purchase four handicapped-equipped buses.

"This is not the first year we have donated to a hospital," Kogler said. Last year, an electrocardiograph machine was purchased for the Belen Hospital with money donated by the organization.

The K of C is a Catholic Fraternal society with more than 1.3 million members nationwide. The organization donated 6.4 million hours in community service in 1979, with an additional 747,765 hours given to sick and disabled members and their families.

Charitable donations in the United States totaled more than $26 million for

A SURGICAL TABLE will be purchased with a $6,000 check presented to Ruidoso Hondo Valley Hospital administrator Ken Moore, left, by Joe Kogler, state deputy for the New Mexico Knights of Columbus.

1979, including gifts made to hospitals, homes for the aged, orphanages, welfare organizations, community projects, scouting, scholarships, schools, libraries, youth activities and other causes. Moore said the surgical table "is a fine addition to our facility and will receive lots of use, I can assure you."

A PORTABLE SPRAY VAT is now available for use by any Lincoln County livestock producer, through the county Extension Department. Extension agent Barry Herd, pictured, will be conducting a demonstration of the sprayer Friday between 10 a.m. and 3 p.m., at the fairgrounds in Capitan. The sprayer was purchased by the county through the Farm and Range fund.

"I JOINED" was stamped on helium filled balloons which were placed outside every business that joined the Chamber of Commerce Wednesday in the organization's one day membership drive.

Downs seeking funding to solve water problem

Ruidoso Downs trustees Monday evening discussed possible funding sources to install a bigger water pump to serve Los Lomas Subdivision and to change some of the service lines in that area.

The problem with the existing pump, the trustees noted, is that it is too small to pump the water "about 600 feet" up to the present storage tank, especially when the pressure is extremely low as it has been for the past several days.

The trustees pointed to continued growth in the subdivision, as the problem with the demand for water now exceeding the capacity of the system to provide it.

Trustee Bob Power, water commissioner, stated that he would attend the June 25 meeting of the Department of Finance and Administration in Santa Fe, "to find out if there is any grant money available," to enable the village to improve water service to the subdivision.

In other business, the trustees:

—Approved small increases in the proposed 1980-1981 fiscal year budget including: $300 for operating expenses for municipal judge, and $500 for public safety to purchase a rebuilt engine for a police patrol car.

—Defeated, for lack of a second, a motion by trustee Harold Mansell to increase the wages of the village's general foreman, Archie Kingston, by $10 per week.

—Approved an engineer's inspection of the Los Lomas Subdivision water lines and pump, to determine the cost of upgrading the system.

—Took no action on a request by M. L. Wimberly to use the village water tank, and village water, to spray Beavers Arena prior to Wednesday and Sunday roping activities.

—Made no appointments to the Planning and Zoning Commission, to fill vacancies, pending acceptance of the position by persons being contacted by Mayor Norman Wheeler.

RHS students ranking above average in tests

Three different test scores received recently by Ruidoso High School counselor James Sanchez shows that local students are, in general, scoring well above average.

He submitted a report of scores to members of the Ruidoso Board of Education Tuesday and said the reason students are scoring higher, in his opinion, is because "we are getting more students into more challenging honor courses."

Sanchez said the material covered is close to what is included on tests so scores are higher in most cases.

The Adult Performance Level (APL) test is administered to all sophomores in the state and must be passed before an official diploma can be awarded, Sanchez said. In Ruidoso, 88 percent of the students, or 109 people, scored at or above the state standard. Statewide, 63 percent scored above the standard.

"In percentages, we are higher than the state averages," Sanchez said.

He said students who fall the test as sophomores have the opportunity to retake it as juniors and seniors until they pass. He said 24 people took the test as juniors this year and all but three passed. He said those three may take it a third time next year.

The Comprehensive Test of Basic Skills, given to juniors every year, shows local students above national averages in reading, math, science and social studies. They are below the national mean in language arts and references skills, but Sanchez said the average score is "right in line with the national average."

He said state averages are not yet compiled but expects Ruidoso to rank above those averages.

Students taking the American College Test (ACT) from Ruidoso, an entrance exam for potential college students, are scoring slightly above the national ACT composite score. Scores received to date show a local composite average of 18.78. The national average for this year is not yet in, but last year's average composite score was 18.6, Sanchez said.

"Teachers are interested in the scores because it is an indication of how we're doing as teachers and helps us spot the weak areas," Sanchez said.

"Apparently, students are learning and teachers are teaching but we try to look at the total situation. We want to know our strong and weak areas," he added.

The board also:

—Agreed to allow the high school chemistry lab to be used next year for a chemistry class to be taught at the request of Jim Rawhouser of Mescalero.

—Hired Caron Snow to work in the central office beginning July 1.

—Accepted a bid of $5,694.21 for maintenance on office machines, from Western Office Equipment, and appointed all four principals to a committee to investigate repairs on an as needed basis for future consideration.

—Referred bids for janitorial supplies to the administrative staff to be awarded at their discretion.

—Called for bids on milk products for the 1980-81 school year.

Capitan rations water

Water rationing has been imposed in Capitan by mayor Don Stark, effective until restrictions are removed.

Rationing has been imposed, Stark said, because of a "state of emergency due to the inability of the Village of Capitan to provide a safe and adequate supply of drinking water for the residents," an action unanimously approved by the village trustees.

The use of water is banned for watering lawns, shrubs, flowers, trees, plants not for human consumption and car washing.

Permitted uses include water for drinking, cooking, bathing, washing clothes and watering pets and livestock.

Permits must be obtained from the Capitan village clerk for any other type of watering be it construction, or any other purpose.

The village is divided into 12 areas under the rationing plan:

- 1 — Mesa Verde Subdivisions;
- 2 — Big Country Subdivision;
- 3 — Hiway Hills Subdivision;
- 4 — Mt. Capitan Subdivision;
- 5 — Thunderbird Hills Subdivision;
- 6 — Bocher Annexation;
- 7 — Draper Area;
- 8 — First Street North to village limits, including south on Bonita to the village limits.
- 9 — Hiway Hills to Nogal; First Street South to village limits.
- 10 — Nogal to Bonita, First Street to Third Street;
- 11 — Nogal to Bonita, Third Street to south village limits; and 12 — All users outside the village limits. Watering of gardens, to supply food for human consumption, shall be done between 5 p.m. and midnight, and at no other times, Stark said.

The watering schedule, by areas is:

- 4, 6, 8 and 11, Monday through Thursday.
- 1, 2, 5 and 7, Tuesday and Friday.
- 3, 9, 10 and 12, Wednesday and Saturday.

"Your village officials are asking all residents to conserve water," Stark said, "by cutting down on the amount used by all possible means for the duration of this emergency." *

New lodger's group to air plans, policies

The newly organized Ruidoso Lodgers Association (RLA) has made some changes in their operations which they think will create goodwill and promote Ruidoso more, according to board member Mike Radziewicz.

The group's next general meeting, Tuesday at 9:30 a.m., at Ruidoso Public Library, will include a discussion of new policies and the possibility of hosting conventions in off-seasons.

Radziewicz said "no vacancy" signs are no longer displayed when motels are full. "We have set up a telephone chain so we can locate vacancies for each other," he said. "We've gotten really good feedback from customers, but we stress that this is used only when the town is full."

Three central numbers are given and all establishments call those numbers to relate their vacancies. "We also cooperate with the Chamber of Commerce when they are open, but after hours we have our own system," Radziewicz said.

Complaints about Sierra Blanca Ski Resort were addressed in a recent board meeting with Roy Parker, who said he would work with lodgers to make changes in the mid-week ski package, tried for the first time on a large scale this winter. "We have a few changes we hope to implement which will make it more popular and less trouble for the users," Radziewicz said.

He said the RLA is also working with ski shops to have their brochures available by late summer to give tourists, and ski area brochures will be available earlier this year than before. "We want to be completely ready for the ski season before it's upon us," Radziewicz said. "Making a few changes like this will make that possible." The RLA will explore some avenues to bring more people to the village on off weeks, especially small conventions. Radziewicz said the board of directors has appointed a committee who will write letters to groups which could meet in Ruidoso and yet not interfere with present promotions. "We are open to any suggestions for off-season programs," he said. "We will work with anyone to prepare a package plan and make arrangements for meetings."

Radziewicz said the RLA is "fully recognized now," with a majority of lodgers in Ruidoso attending meetings. He said the group wants participation from every lodger, including campground operators and non-Chamber members.

Helena McCoy indicted on drug charge

Helena McCoy, 39, owner of Aztec Realty in Ruidoso, was one of nine persons indicted late Tuesday by an El Paso, Texas, federal grand jury on charges of conspiracy to smuggle and distribute marijuana.

She was ordered held under $500,000 bond pending arraignment on the charges. A Drug Enforcement Administration spokesman did not say that McCoy was one of three persons indicted who was arrested.

Indicted with McCoy, who has not been in Ruidoso for months and is separated from her husband Denys McCoy, were Charles Doll Sullivan, 33, of El Paso, whose bond was set at $250,000; Larry Minyard, 33, San Angelo, Texas; Al Isley, 46, and Bill Riggs, 36, of Louisville, Kentucky; Alan Cole, 25, and Sumner Fuseller, 43, of Mandeville, Louisiana; Jesus Sandoval and Daniel Blackmore, both of Mexico.

McCoy and Sullivan have prior drug convictions, stemming from the incident in 1977 in which Kathy Stell Berry, Mesilla Park, lost an arm when she walked into an airplane propeller near Jalisco.

Wilderness Wisdom

with Wayne Calloway

Dear Wayne — Like most hunters, I'm not opposed to paying my share through licenses and fees to assist in wildlife programs. I do, however, sometimes wonder what specific programs are developed through certain revenues. For example, do you know what the money from the Federal Duck Stamp is used for? Tom H., Missouri

Dear Tom — The revenue from this stamp is used to buy additional waterfowl habitat, primarily wetlands. Continuing studies are conducted to determine how much and what kind of habitat in a given area is needed to provide maximum benefit. Annual revenue from this source approximates $11 million annually. Incidentally, the winner of the 1980 Federal Duck Stamp contest was Richard Flasschaert, a Minnesota artist. His pair of mallards will be the pictorial subject of the stamp that will be issued July 1. This award is highly coveted by competing artists because it is quite prestigious and the financial rewards through print sales of the painting can be substantial.

Most states also issue a waterfowl or duck stamp that is a necessary licensing requirement and, like the Federal stamp, artists compete for the honor of having his or her painting grace the stamp.

Library sets pet show June 21

The Ruidoso Public Library is staging a pet show Saturday, June 21, from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m.

"All area children are urged to register their pets for this show," librarian Marian Elzy said, "with the deadline to enter them being June 19."

Entry forms are available at the library. Any animal, beast, bird or fantastic creature may be entered, Elzy said, "as long as is a pet of the child entering it in the show."

Information required to enter a pet includes: kind of animal, pet's name, owner's name and telephone and the pet's best quality of talent. Show categories, for judging, include: best dressed, quietest and understands Spanish. Ribbons will be awarded to all entries.

"Pets must be on a leash and under their master's control, or confined in required manner," Elzy said. "Also, each entrant must bring sufficient water for their pet to last through the long, hot afternoon."

An added attraction will be the showing by Linda Kowalski of her champion Irish Setter show dog, "Champion Sir Alec Malachy CDCDX." She will demonstrate hand signals and basic obedience school commands with Alec. Kowalski, a professional dog trainer and owner of prize winning dogs, operates the Grooming Shop in Ruidoso.

Support group for divorced people formed

A support group for divorced people, or those about to be divorced, is meeting every Thursday from 7:30 to 9 p.m., in the Rectory of the Episcopal Church of the Holy Mount.

The group is open to anyone who wishes to attend, and the group's leader, Father Delbert Achuff, said, "this is not a therapy group." The aim of the group, he said, is to help members make decisions for themselves, to share openly, speak honestly and support one another and "to understand."

Further information is available at 257-2356.

GOP Women meet Tuesday

The Republican Women's Club will meet Tuesday at 11:30 a.m., at the Pat Hume home.

To get to the Humes, go north on Highway 37 to the Nogal-Bonito turnoff and continue west for five miles. Signs will be posted for a left turn. The Humes live in the second house on the right.

Law Enforcement Women schedule meeting speaker

Magistrate Jim Wheeler will be the guest speaker at a meeting of the Law Enforcement Women's Association Tuesday at 7 p.m.

The speech will deal with the police officer's procedures from first reporting of an incident through court appearances. The meeting will be held at the Social Services offices across from the main post office. Membership in the association is open to any woman in legal or law enforcement occupations, and to women whose husbands are in these professions. Anyone interested in joining the organization is invited to attend.

Doctor of Ministry to Father Delbert Achuff

Father Delbert Achuff, rector of the Episcopal Church of the Holy Mount, will receive the degree of Doctor of Ministry in absentia from the San Francisco Theological Seminary in San Anselmo, California, Saturday.

Achuff's dissertation project is entitled "New Patterns For Holy Orders in the Episcopal Church USA and the Witness of the Church."

The work deals with the lay ministry of the church and particularly the experimentation which has been taking place in the Diocese of the Rio Grande, Achuff said.

Achuff holds a Bachelor of Arts degree from Drake University, Bachelor of Divinity and Master of Arts from the University of Chicago in sociology, sociology of religion and social ethics.

Achuff has also studied at Duke University and Central Institute for the Deaf in Saint Louis. His local duties include chairmanship of the Mental Health Association of Lincoln County and a member of the standing committee of the Diocese of the Rio Grande.

Craig/Morris vows spoken June 7

A formal wedding ceremony was held June 7 at the Evangelical Methodist Church in Abilene, Texas, as Dixie Louise Craig and George Randal Morris were united in marriage. The Reverend Ronald Newton officiated at the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony L. Craig, of Abilene. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. George Morris, Abilene.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal wedding gown of ivory satin with white lace encrusting the sleeves and the portrait neckline. The gown was complemented with sleeves of chiffon. She wore a picture hat accented with satin and lace.

Tonya Freeman was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were June Carter and Cindy Britton.

Youth programs at Mescalero

The birth of a Young Adult Conservation Corps (YACC) and Youth Conservation Corps (YCC) were acknowledged at Mescalero Monday morning by camp directors and Mescalero Apache Tribal President Wendell Chino.

The sponsoring body for the two Department of Labor programs is the Bureau of Indian Affairs (BIA). Superintendent for the Mescalero BIA, Wilson Barber, said the projects were accepted because they would be beneficial to the community of Mescalero and to visitors.

Barber cited major cleanup and repair work on the Indian ceremonial and celebration grounds as the main projects the two groups will complete.

"We would like to convince (the federal government) that we do have the resources here for these projects to become ongoing," Barber said. "There's a world of young people that can do something... I'm a strong believer in the young people."

Chino stressed the importance of the two programs, saying they would provide participants with "various aspects of training," working with their hands and appreciating "the art of work."

Chino said YCC participants, who began their assignments Monday, would also learn to appreciate the resources on the reservation.

The YCC will be under the directorship of Bernard Second, and will last eight weeks for 24 youths between 14 and 18 years old.

The youths, including nine girls, will commute daily from Bent, Alamogordo, Tularosa and La Luz. They will work in three groups of eight and each group will have a leader. Second said they will do sign work, masonry, pruning, clean creek beds and similar work in several recreation areas including Silver Lake, Eagle Creek and Ruidoso Recreation Area.

"We are anxious to get going," Second said. "It's a lot of hard work but we are looking forward to doing a good job."

All YCC employees will receive minimum wage, paid by the Department of Labor, and will get a daily dose of safety measures with their experience.

The YACC camp began in March under Peter Kazhe, who supervises 10 workers. He said the group has already finished major projects on preparing recreation areas for summer use. Picnic tables were built and fences installed by the YACC, and future months in the year-long program will include reservation boundary fence placement, greenhouse operation and soil erosion measures, Kazhe said.

Kazhe said attendance is good in the program. "We don't try to spend too much time on any one project, so they don't get bored," he said. Because the YACC employees are over 18, they can use more equipment, which makes their job more interesting, Kazhe added.

The Plant Corner by Sally Black

This column is devoted to growing healthy indoor plants. Address questions to: Sally Black, The Ruidoso News, Box 123, Ruidoso, New Mexico 88345.

JADE PLANT ["Crassula argentea" also called Portulacae]

Dear Sally: I certainly enjoy your column. Perhaps you can help me. I have a Jade plant that keeps losing its leaves. It seems to do so no matter how little or how much I water it. The problem has gone on for over a year. I appreciate your help. Jeanie Whitman.

Dear Jeanie: You did not say if the leaves which the Jade plant is losing are plump or thin. The plump, limp leaves indicate too much water and not enough light. If thin shriveled leaves, plant needs more water.

Prune your plant. Allow the limbs you cut off to harden a few days in a dark spot such as a closet or garage, then pot in a sandy soil. I suggest you repot your plant. There may be pests living off the roots. Wash the roots good and plant in a sterilized mixture of 1 part loam, 1 part peat moss and 1 part sharp sand; to each gallon full of this mixture add 1 1/2 teaspoon of 20% superphosphate, 1 tablespoon of ground limestone and 2 teaspoons of 5-10-5 fertilizer. Otherwise, use a packaged potting soil for potting orchids. You can repot or propagate at any season.

The Jade plant generally lives for years while root-bound. They do best where they get 4 or more hours a day of direct sunlight. The plants prefer temperatures from night of 50° to day of 75° but will tolerate a range from 40° to 100°. Let the soil become nearly dry between thorough waterings. Plants must never stand in water. Leaves can become limp and drop within 24 hours if plant is allowed to stand just a few hours in water. Feed established plant with "manure tea" or ready mix of 5-10-5. Good luck and thank you so much for your letter.

Obituaries

Richard Freeman

Richard "Pop" Freeman, 101, died June 4 at San Angelo, Texas, a city he'd called home since 1891. Services were held in San Angelo June 9.

He was well known in Texas as the last surviving West Texas veteran of the Spanish-American War and as a railroader, retiring as a machinist in 1944.

Mr. Freeman had, for years, been acknowledged as a member of Teddy's Roosevelt's Rough Riders in the charge up San Juan Hill in Cuba. In 1975 he'd set the record straight on that, stating that he'd served in Cuba during the Spanish-American War but that he was a member of another company.

Mr. Freeman was born September 22, 1878, in Manchester, England, and joined his father in Houston, Texas, in 1898, making the ocean voyage alone as his mother had died just before he left for America. Mrs. Freeman, his wife for 67 years died March 1, 1974.

His survivors include a daughter, Mrs. John B. Young of San Angelo, and a son, J. E. Freeman, Ruidoso, vice president of Service Contractors.

Deaune nearing the top in gymnastics

BY MARK BAGBY

When someone mentions women's gymnastics, names like Nadia Comaneci, Olga Korbut, or New Mexico's own Kelly Chaplin come to mind.

Start thinking about adding Deaune Lofton to that list.

Deaune, 13, the daughter of Jerry and Helen Lofton of Ruidoso, has been in gymnastics about four years. Now she is one of Ruidoso gymnastics coach Blake Starr's top pupils, and has a shot at going a long way in the gymnastics world.

"Sometimes I ask myself why I'm in gymnastics," she said recently. "That's a hard question to answer. But at least I get to do different things. In other sports, you only do one thing, but in gymnastics, I can do beam or bars or whatever."

"Beam or bars or whatever" is just about what Deaune does best. She and her family moved here last year from Clovis, where Deaune was a four year veteran of gymnastics classes.

"I was watching the 1972 Olympics (the year Olga Korbut captured the hearts of America)," she said. "I guess I was about five-years old. That's where it started — I think."

But nothing really happened until two years later. She was in grade school, and one day her mother arrived before classes were over.

"She said, 'You're leaving early today.' And I said, 'I am?' And then she took me to my first class."

That was the beginning, but several years later, she didn't think she was getting a whole lot out of it.

"The program in Clovis wasn't that good," she said. "The coach didn't work us that hard."

Then in July, 1979, she and her family traveled to Ruidoso for a vacation, and bought a cabin. It wasn't long before the lure of the tall pines had the Loftons making a home here.

Her first day in gymnastics classes in Ruidoso just happened to be the same day a new coach named Blake Starr assumed the head duties for Ruidoso Gymnastics Association. The rest, as they say, is history.

"Blake's a really good coach," Deaune said. "He works us hard, but that's the only way we'll get any better."

Starr speaks of Deaune in similar terms. "She's a very good gymnast, and she has a lot of potential," he said. "She works hard, she doesn't goof off, and even though she's gotten a lot of attention, she doesn't have an ego problem."

Deaune probably doesn't have an ego problem because she doesn't have time. She works out from 10 to 12 hours a week, in addition to helping teach classes in the morning.

"Some mornings I have to help Blake teach gymnastics," she said. "And I don't get out of the gym until 3 or 4. Then I have to help with housework, and I have to go to bed early because I have to get up early."

Sometimes, she said, "it gets to me. Sometimes I wish I could go fool around with my friends. If there's a dance or something, I have to come to the gym. Sometimes I feel deprived, and I get tired of it."

"But I still come to the gym," she said. "Not leading a typical life, but my life has really gotten to her at least once."

"About two months ago, I tried to quit," she said. "I didn't want to do it anymore. But after a week, I was ready to get back to it."

"I'm probably addicted to it." During the school year, she attends classes at White Mountain Middle School, where she will be an eighth grader next year. She described herself as an average student — "I make low Bs."

Sometimes getting homework done — after going to school all day long and then having a two to three hour workout in the evening — is a real pain, she said.

"Sometimes the homework piles up, and I don't think I'll ever get it done," she said. But somehow, she added, she gets by.

Her goals are many and varied, but she wants to win Class One Nationals, and then maybe — just maybe — the Olympics.

"I'm not really working to get to the Olympics," Deaune said, "but I like them. I think I'd be scared if I made it. Just making the trials would be good enough for me."

Of the women's events, she prefers balance beam and uneven parallel bars because those are her best events, but she believes she can do well in other events, "if I work my hardest."

As for hobbies — when she has the time — she likes art, ceramics and "messing around with Cinnamon, our Irish setter."

How about other sports? As far as Deaune is concerned, "there really isn't any other sport," and that's just the way she likes it.

DEAUNE LOFTON, a gymnast with a bright future.

LOFTON WORKS OUT on the uneven parallel bars, one of her two favorite events. The other is balance beam.

Sportin' Life

a column of opinion

by

Mark Bagby

The United States Olympic Committee says it needs $30 million to have special Olympic Games for American Athletes, since we aren't going to Moscow.

How long are we going to have to pay for this nonsense?

Speaking of money . . . Arghhhhh . . . the Detroit Lions relented and signed number one draft pick Billy Sims.

See, they had been arguing over a few pennies — the Lions were offering Sims $700,000, and Sims wanted $4.5 million. There's a few dollars difference there.

The 24 year old ex-Oklahoma Sooner was given jersey number 20 by Lions' coach Monte Clark, and Billy said he's been "a Lion in my heart" all along. Awwwwww Hey, maybe the Olympic Committee could borrow money from Sims . . .

The details of Sims' contract are still unreleased, due to a "Confidentiality clause" in said voucher, but Sims' agent said he wouldn't "trade his contract for anyone's in the country," and some observers believe Billy is the highest paid rookie in pro sports.

That all sort of overshadowed the signing of this year's Heisman winner, Charles White of USC. He signed with the Cleveland Browns for $1 million for six years, with bonuses exceeding an additional million — depending on how well he runs.

Sounds like horse racing to me . . . Say, didja see where Jim McGehee, a Texan employed by Uncle Sam, won $29,909 at Ruidoso Downs? Seems he's done it before too, at Sunland.

He held the only winning ticket in Sunday's Big Q, and that $29,000-plus is highest Ruidoso Downs payoff ever made.

Seems old Jim wagered $200 on the race, and then found himself holding the only winning ticket.

Irony of ironies

Did you know professional hockey, obviously one of the most violent sports around, has an award for "most gentlemanly player?"

Me neither — but can you tell me who this year's winner was? Answer below.

Ain't it wonderful

Ah, the wonders and miracles of modern television.

It seems like, nowadays, you can get just about any sporting event you want simply by turning on the boob tube. The networks have stuff all the time, if you don't mind having touchdowns sandwiched in between commercials.

Then, there are the big independents, like Atlanta's WTBS, Chicago's WGN and San Francisco's KTVU, which broadcasts sports in their cities — right now, they have the Braves, the Cubs and the Padres on the airwaves.

Then, there is the pay TV stuff — like ESPN, which broadcasts 24 hours a day and gives you any and every sport you ever thought, dreamed or imagined. All of 'em, from ping pong to fencing to football — heck, I even saw a broadcast of an Arkansas Razorback spring practice on it one day. (Lou Holtz was the best part of that.)

And even on Home Box Office, they're running some neat stuff — Great Sports Rivalries, and the Best Boxers of All Time, that sort of thing. It's a bit maudlin, but worth your while.

What I like most about all this is — for a mere pittance, you can get more sports than you can handle, and it's a heckuva lot better seats than you'd get too.

(I really despise had seats — I was at a big college football game once, and the final score was 17-14 — I was sitting in the north end zone, and it had snowed, and it was 20 degrees with about a 30 mile an hour wind — and every point, every last stinking point, was scored in the south end zone, including the game winning field goal.)

Never been so mad in my life.

Answer, please

All right, here's the moment you've been waiting for — it's Wayne Gretzky, 19, who plays for Edmonton — he was also the most valuable player — and here's the real irony of ironies — he didn't make the all-star team. He lost out in the voting to Marcel Dionne of Los Angeles.

But he and Dionne did tie for scoring honors this past year.

(Way to go, Wayne.)

IN CHAMPIONSHIP soccer play last Saturday, members of the under 12 Strikers (light jersey on left) and Tornado battled for the league crown. The Tornado prevailed, 3-2, ending the regular season. But the Ruidoso Sertoma Soccer League has all-star games slated for this Saturday, with the under eight contest at 10:30, the under 12 game at noon and the under 16 game at 2:30.

GOING Strong

Their Insight Helps Others

Frank Vaules is a heartening example of how one man not only conquered a handicap but went on to use his knowledge to help others.

The 90-year-old Vaules, of Drexel Hill, Pennsylvania, underwent a lens implant operation two years ago after it was discovered he was suffering from cataracts. Since then, he and his wife Elizabeth, 85, have been available to "counsel" people about cataract surgery.

"There's really nothing to it at all," said Mrs. Vaules about the lens implant. "We are qualified to give information about it to people who are leery of it."

The Vauleses, married 62 years, are part of a group called the Options Program, which was started a year ago by the Cataract Research Institute of Bryn Mawr, Pennsylvania. The program trains peer counselors to help others who are considering cataract surgery. Most of the counselors have already undergone the operation themselves.

"We found that many individuals are frightened to death by misinformation," said Dr. Joseph Spina Jr., the institute's medical director. "So frightened that they would endure loss of sight rather than undergo surgery."

The Options counselors are supposed to allay those fears.

"You're in one day and home the next day after the operation," said Mrs. Vaules, "a lot of people go to work the day after the operation."

The ultrasonic, microscopic surgery utilizes a small probe that vibrates ultrasonically to make a small incision in the eye to remove the lens that is clouded over by the cataract. After the lens is removed, an artificial lens can be implanted, or the doctor will simply prescribe cataract glasses or contact lenses.

Frank Vaules, retired after 40 years at the Philadelphia Savings Fund, now has 20/20 vision and doesn't wear glasses to read. And he is willing to "sell" others on the operation.

The Vauleses are available for counseling over the phone or in groups, but Mrs. Vaules said they get very few calls. "Because, really, after you talk to Dr. Spina, I think people take him at his word."

But Dr. Spina says the Options Program, which is the only one of its kind in the nation, has been a great success. More than 50 persons are available as counselors, and nearly 2,000 persons have utilized their services.

"It's important that the elderly know it [the operation] is no longer the ordeal it was even five years ago," said Spina. "The success rate is in the 95 percent range, and most people are in and out of the hospital in 24 hours or over the weekend."

As one Options counselor commented: "You have no idea how bad it is for an active person not to be able to do the things he's used to doing. I want to share my experiences because I feel reborn."

DEVON DEVELOPMENT, INC.

CURIOSITY SEEKERS

If you intend to implant a "For Sale by Owner" sign in your front yard, be prepared for the inevitable "curiosity seekers." You'll probably spend more time tramping through the house with curiosity seekers than showing it to firm prospects.

Your "For Sale by Owner" sign leaves you open to all types of people and problems. For example, a visitor may present an offer to buy on which he doesn't intend to follow through. You may make plans based on accepting it, only to learn that the "prospect" had no intention of completing the agreement. A Realtor has the experience to mark the business offer and turn it away before it does any harm. In fact, the presence of a Realtor usually will discharge any attempts of that sort. He will qualify prospects in advance and allow only those who are definitely prospective buyers — not curiosity seekers — to inspect your home.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at DEVON DEVELOPMENT, INC., 2904 Sudderth Drive, Box 1860, Ruidoso. Phone: 257-5311. We're here to help!

The Silver Lining

BY DANIEL AGNEW STORM

A Blessed Visit With My Two Great Nephews

Grady and Andy Burnett of Georgetown, Texas, were here in the land of The Pinon and Pine for the first time since they were boys six and eight years old. They cast a benediction on the Storm Ranch by their presence and gave their great uncle Dan a wonderful lift to my spirits.

Grady, age seventeen, and Andy, age nineteen are the grandsons of our brother, Lynn and his wife, Maxine and the sons of Carl Burnett and Lynnette Storm Burnett, my niece, affectionately known as "Netsie".

Andy and Grady are my greatnephews in more ways than one. My heart swells with gratefulness and pride to know that these two fine young fellows are my own kinfolks. Both boys (I cannot help but call them boys though they are young giants both over six feet) — they both were delighted with their second visit to the Storm Ranch, and fell deeply in love with the hills and vales, and mountains of Lincoln County. They were thrilled by their first attendance at a horse race, and took in as much of the surrounding area as they could in the short time they stayed here — late afternoon of the sixth till just between the gloaming and the twilight of Sunday the eighth.

At the Canyon Trading post they met Betty and Bob Lambert and Paul Jones and his son-in-law, Craig Whipple. Craig invited them to a dance to be held at The Winner's Circle in Ruidoso. Here they met many of the valley folks and many from Ruidoso; and told how much they appreciated the kindness and hospitality shown them by the people of Lincoln County.

Andy and Grady both were pleased at the great gentleness of the cows on the place. They all came up to the house and got acquainted, especially the two calves, Whitley Ford and the gentlest calf in the history of the place, Volhna, whom Grady re-named Little John.

Solo Vino the Storm Ranch Dog came out from his house under the house — where he usually hides — and made friends with both my nephews, knowing that they belonged here on the place, and knowing also that they are my own people and very dear to my heart.

It was a blessing to see Andy and Grady, and now I must plan to visit their sisters and mother and father at Georgetown. And also become acquainted with the grandsons and daughters of our brother, Mark and his wife, Ferne, down in Houston. I hope Grady and Andy will come back whenever they can, and look forward to visits from all my kin folks.

The June Rain

After the west wind had been blowing for six days, while the mockingbird was singing all day through the hot weather — then just on the early afternoon of Monday the ninth, the pinon jays came in calling their bugle notes.

After that, the wind turned and began blowing from the east. And just before dusk the thunder began sounding from toward Roswell. Just before dark, I went for a little walk to see what the cows and calves would do. All the herd was gathered by the old corral ready to go up the hill. Two or three of the calves were looking through the fence trying to tell Gentle Little John to make the trip up the hill with them.

Now the clouds began moving in, with loud thunder in front announcing their advance. The cool moist wind swept into the vale and before the bursts of thunder came the most beautiful glowing red lightning close to the ground, lighting up the world like a summer Christmas display or giant fourth of July fireworks. By the flashes of lightning I saw that Gentle John was not with the little herd in the house pasture. The rest of the herd was already gone without sound or any sign; so I let the little calf's mother out so she could follow her child up the mountain.

Before I could get back to the house here came the large drops shining like hosts of rubies falling from the sky as they were lit up from time to time with the red bursts of lightning.

It was fun to get soaking wet out in the wonderful June rain so welcome to dry Mother Earth.

Summer Festival A Great Success

We all wish to thank Ann Denton and Ken Green, the fine musicians and singers, and all those who made the summer festival such a grand source of enjoyment for all of us. The festival was a great addition to the things that bring us happiness in the joyful month of June. Let us thank God for all our blessings.

Inside The Capitol

by Fred McCaffrey

SANTA FE—On Wednesday, June 4, Albuquerque News, a weekly free-distribution paper, published a special report under the headline "The state penitentiary—where lawmen bend the law."

On Thursday, June 5, the Attorney General of New Mexico published a short book which is Part I of his report to the Legislature on "The Penitentiary, The Riot and The Aftermath," as its title says. Though the Albuquerque News story, a long one by Arturo Sandoval, funded by a grant from The Fund for Investigative Journalism, is more popularized, more flamboyant and more accusatory, the Attorney General's report seems to bear some of it out.

The newspaper story has this list of what it refers to as "documented wrongdoing by present and former prison officials":

—Possible negligence by a prison guard which may have led to the death of a prisoner by other inmates.

—Regular beatings of inmates by top-ranking prison captains.

—A history of brutality against inmates by the prison's current chief of security, Eugene R. Long.

—The loss of thousands of dollars earmarked for prisoner education by the Veterans' Administration.

—Deliberate overcrowding of the penitentiary to insure increased legislative funding.

—Theft of inmates' personal belongings by the prison staff.

—Use of snitches to frame other prison officials not part of "the Rodriguez group." (Felix Rodriguez was warden at the pen from 1970 to 1973, has always remained a power there even after being advanced to a higher post in the Department of Corrections, and is once again acting warden there at the present time.)

—Negligence in providing security for protected inmates.

—Looting by prison guards of prison areas untouched by the rioters, which began almost as soon as the facility was secured on Sunday, February 3.

That's heavy stuff, which the full article documents in some detail.

It should not be ignored—as many newspapers and both wire services almost certainly will ignore it—solely because it appears in a non-traditional newspaper. (We're summarizing it here to give it at least some additional coverage outside the Albuquerque area.)

Here's what the Attorney General's report says, in its non-judgmental way, about that last point of thefts by correctional officers: "Some shops are still hampered by the fact that non-inmates stole at least $7,500 worth of prison and inmate owned material from the hobby shop and Prison Industries."

All calm and cool, as the Attorney General's office is. All quite proper—but it makes you long to say, "Where in hell is the indignation? Aren't we supposed to get just a little teed off that 'non-inmates' are thieves? Does anybody plan to do anything about that fact?"

Ray Powell, head of the Citizens' Advisory Committee named to support the Attorney General's investigation, lectured the media the day the report came out about our obligation to help inform the public how bad things are at the pen.

Don't worry about us, Ray, Albuquerque News, for one, is doing a better job of telling the story than you and the Attorney General are.

Letters to the Editor

Dear editor:

I am still smarting over your June 2nd front-page "story" (and I use the term loosely) entitled "Better late than never USPS credo".

I have read and reread the article trying to locate any resemblance to good journalistic practices, any effort to report something newsworthy to your readers, but can only reach the conclusion that it is supposed to be an editorial, although not headed as such, not located on your editorial page and not given a by-line ... so that one and all can be made aware of whom in your employ is capable of such profound and bigoted thought.

In fact, the only purpose I can find for the article even being there is to satisfy some sort of warped vindication you wish to unleash against the Postal Service while attempting to prejudice your readers about same.

OK, somebody goofed. Does that warrant taking up half a page, two columns wide of precious front-page space? If your newspaper never had wrong names, dropped lines, misinformation and misspelled words, then you surely would be perfect enough to pass judgement on someone else's mistakes. Also, if you had done your homework (which used to be one of the requirements of good reporting) you would know that Express Mail service is not available to small communities who do not have major airlines serving their airports on a timely basis. Mr. Martel's office obviously did the best it could by sending the article Express to your closest Express Mail Office, which in turn had to transport it by truck to Ruidoso. I think 41 hours from the Bay area is pretty phenomenal considering the channels it went through, planes it had to catch and general handling.

And, why should the Postal Service be bothered sending you any information anyway? Reporting the news is your job ... they're in another line of work. I'm very happy for the people of Mesalero and their new Post Office. These facilities, serve a very important function, other than the obvious, in a small community ... a service that you seemingly don't care to understand.

The Postal Service belongs to all of us. You obviously have some sort of beef against it, but you can get something done about your problem. Your local Postmaster will be happy to give you a post card form, which even the most unintelligent amongst us can fill out. The original goes to Washington, the carbon copy goes to the Post Office at fault. The USPS does follow through on every one of these forms. Or if you wish to be more verbal in your complaint, send same to the USPS Sectional Center Manager in Roswell ... or even the Postmaster General in Washington. Your complaint will be investigated and an attempt made to rectify it. The amount of time and effort put into your front-page literary masterpiece could have been spent getting some answers ... although that probably wouldn't have been as satisfying as blasting an American institution and then hiding behind your all-protective shield mislabeled "Freedom of the Press".

If you need something to fill up your pages, why not do a little investigative reporting by going down to the local Post Office and working the mail with those people, find out something about under what handicaps the Postal Service functions and what services it actually provides. You might even surprise yourself. Onesided, out and out vicious attacks such as yours and the rest of the media will only lead to one thing ... the demise of the Private Express Statute which gives the USPS the exclusive right to handle First Class mail. Have you given any consideration to what will happen to rural America when it no longer has mail service? Which is what the end-result will be if profit-oriented companies take over mail delivery. Naturally they will only take on the more lucrative areas, leaving the remote areas to the USPS, which in turn, not having the high-profit areas to stabilize it, will have to raise rates to such an extreme that no one could afford to use it's services.

And, let's suppose such a thing comes to pass. Who protects you from Mail Fraud? What sort of sanctity does your letter have with just any here-today-gone-tomorrow hired help handling it? Who enforces the curb against sexually-oriented mail that gets in your box? And, where is your box, anyway? It's not in a Post Office ... who has access to it? How do we get mail from overseas? The fee for mailing it was paid to the originating country. Who is going to transport and deliver it "for free" in this country?

When and if these things do happen, then you'll really have something to gripe about, but alas, it won't do you any good because by then your mail will be handled by private business, against whom you have no recourse.

OK, I feel better now, but I am curious. Since your article was so obviously ill-researched and biased ... what about the rest of your reporting? Are we only reading what you want us to know ... is there another side to or more information about any particular story than you care for us to know? Good grief! The thought poses all sorts of possibilities. This could mean that Mayor Davis actually dotes on pets and really would like to turn the entire community into an animal haven. Maybe there is actually hope for Lloyd after all. Jacque Johnston (Mrs.)

Members of Ruidoso Summer Festival didn't quite envision the overwhelming reception that would be accorded the series of concerts presented by the Fort Worth Symphony, when first the idea was broached this past winter.

Festival members can now, in retrospect, realize their efforts to bring symphony concerts to Ruidoso and area were well worth those efforts.

Attendance at the paid performances, in the Ruidoso Downs Sales Arena, far exceeded expectations of Ruidoso Summer Festival, in this, the initial presentation of symphony concerts here. Equally impressive was the reception accorded the three free outdoor concerts.

People not only flocked to the concert sites, but willingly stood in line, or walked considerable distances, to listen to the classical music played by the Fort Worth Symphony.

Culture may be defined as: enlightenment and excellence of taste acquired by intellectual and aesthetic training.

Ruidoso area residents will, this just completed concert series proves, support such presentations.

Ruidoso Summer Festival will undoubtedly, emboldened and gratified by the success of this initial venture, take steps to make the festival an annual summer event — one that could rapidly become one of the nation's outstanding attractions to patrons of the concert.

In case you didn't think it possible such music would be a success here, or didn't think it possible Ruidoso might become recognized world-wide as a music center, perhaps the time is now for you to think again. —CD

11 INS ... 39 OUTS

The 1980 presidential campaign/election is gonna be mighty interesting in 11 states ... with the remaining 39 ... if'n the vote in those 11 goes for one candidate ... just as well not voting for president ... 'cause if'n those 11 states elect the president ... it just don't matter none how the other 39 vote ... and there oughta be a lesson there in minority rule ... or something.

Anyhow ... the electoral vote is what gets the job done ... with the popular vote not counting for much of anything ... as there's gotta be 270 electoral votes to name a president ... when the Electoral College convenes ... and 11 states command 272 electoral votes.

The eleven states ... with their electoral votes, are ... California 45, New York 41, Pennsylvania 27, Illinois 26, Texas 26, Ohio 25, Michigan 21, New Jersey 17, Florida 17, Massachusetts 14 and Indiana 13 ... and, just in case, North Carolina boasts 13 electoral votes, in case Indiana goes against the other 10, and can slip in as the 11th state.

Another way of looking at it ... the prognosticating political pros are figuring 16 states and Washington, D. C. ... will go Democratic with 154 electoral votes ... with 22 states, with 160 electoral votes, going Republican ... leaving 12 states as swing states, with 224 electoral votes, that can swing the election. The 12 swing states, with electoral votes, are Washington 9, Texas 26, Wisconsin 11, Illinois 26, Ohio 25, Pennsylvania 27, New York 41, Connecticut 6, New Jersey 17, Florida 17, Mississippi 7 and Louisiana 10.

So ... if'n the GOP states vote solid ... and the Dem states as is certain do ditto ... then that leaves 12 states electing president ... which is one more than the 11 which can.

Sure'n it'd be nice to be on the winning side ... 'cause Our Jimmy ain't seemed to have forgiven us for voting for Ford in 1976 ... but with New Mexico's four electoral votes ... about all we get out of it is having the privilege of sending four delegates to the electoral college.

So ... the candidates can pretty well figure out which states to campaign in ... electoral power or swing power ... and get on the hustings ... leaving the rest of us trying to figure out who to elect to the Congress ... and why.

TRAFFIC IN BUNCHES

If'n you've been on Sudderth Friday through Sunday of late ... like last weekend ... you couldn't help noticing all those cars ... and, if'n the old rule of thumb holds true again this year ... the traffic really don't hit here until the 4th of July weekend ... after which it keeps hitting until Labor Day eases into memory ... we should have just lotsa vehicles going up, down and around Sudderth ... with the around being them as decides they wants to make a 180 degree change in direction ... whether to park or just to change scenery ... with them being the ones that makes driving interesting ... yes?

'Course this year, after Labor Day, traffic ain't about to slack off all that much ... 'cause the Mule Skinners and a Chill Cookoff'll bring 'em in in droves ... to see which mule's running the fastest ... and which chill cook's cooking the hottest ... to sorta wind up September. The dealee's immediately followed by the Aspencade Motorcycle Convention ... which sorta blends into the Chamber of Commerce Aspencade festivities ... which leaves only about ten days of breathing time after Labor Day ... until the middle of October ... which means we got about four months of traffic starin' us in the face ... or creeping up behind us ... or coming in at a slonchwise angle ... to keep life interesting.

Why it's enough to give a person the heebie jeebies ... eyeballing the traffic that's been here to date ... and wonderin' what it'd be like if'n gas was half what it is ... which it used to be ... and wonderin' what it'd be like if'n gas was to go up half of what it is ... which it could ... which could get us to thinkin' ... to get gas back to what it was ... if'n it'd get there faster if'n we'd petition the OPEC nations to adopt us ... then maybe we could trade 'em ... straight across ... barrels of oil they could use from us ... for barrels of oil from them ... even steven ... and we'd all profit.

DETROIT VAN WINKLE

Yup ... Detroit Van Winkle ... the modern day version of sleepy old Rip ... is starting to wake up to what the exporters of cars we import has known for years ... smaller's better for the average Joe Blow ... and it's high time.

BRIEF BIT: Viewing politics with jaundiced eyes for causing our nation's problems don't make as much sense as looking askance at politicians would ... CD

Downs over the weekend. Martinez, who finished third in the standings last year, now has 11 on the season and moved into fourth place on the overall list.

H. Don Farris and Elmer L. Shepard tied for Trainer of the Week after each posted a 3-0-1 mark for the weekend. Cecil Crabtree also had three wins but failed to light the board in any of his other starts.

Martinez started his tally with a pair of victories Thursday in the eighth and 12th races. Both were for Shepard. Martinez added another pair of wins Saturday, including one for Farris, then finished up with a solo victory Sunday.

Richard Bickel continues to lead the overall jockey standings with 15 wins, but Larry Byers and Jackie Martin moved one notch closer by picking up two victories each over the four day period. Ruidoso Downs Hoofbeats

BY MIKE MAGDA
CASH ASMUSSEN, the Eclipse award winning apprentice jockey of last year, paid a visit to his family at the track over the weekend. The 18-year-old riding sensation, who has either been first or second in the national thoroughbred rankings this year in winnings, was taking five days off from his riding schedule at Belmont Park. Cash's parents are Keith and Marilyn Asmusen, the jockey/trainer combination at Ruidoso Downs. Cash has a little brother, Steve, who will be seeking his jockey license soon.

TWO STANDOUT two-year-olds from last summer made their 1980 debuts over the weekend, and the results did not follow the public's thinking. Pie In The Sky, winner of the 1979 All-American Futurity, made his first appearance since winning that Labor Day classic Friday in the ninth race, a 350 yard allowance test. The public gave the big son of Easy Jet Solid 2-5 odds but Pie In The Sky, under Danny Cardoza, finished second, a head behind 6-1 Mitos King Bee. Sages Belle Star, a runnerup in the Rainbow Futurity and fifth in the All-American, went postward Saturday in the eighth race. She was made a 1-2 favorite. However, she got into trouble at the start and finished fourth with Stuart Dolphus aboard. Both are setting their sights for the $25,000 (est.) Rainbow Derby, July 6.

TRAINER H. DON FARRIS, noted for his quarter horse abilities, sent two thoroughbred maidens to the post Saturday and both won, giving Farris the first Daily Double victory of the season. Computer Date, a 2-1 favorite, captured the first race by four lengths with Joe Martinez up. In the second race, a four furlong two-year-old test, Phoenixia was a 6-1 choice and sprinted to a 2 1/4 length win under Roy Brooks. The Daily Double payoff was $45.60. Phoenixia is eligible to enter the Norgor Futurity trials June 19.

THREE HORSES, MAKING their first start ever, won the first three races Thursday. Bin A Battle won a four furlong two-year-old sprint by one length in the first race at 16-1 odds. Jack Wallace was up. Azure Hank, a two-year-old quarter horse sent to the post at 7-1, won a 350 yard maiden test in the second race with Joe Perales aboard. The Daily Double was $370.40. Then in the third race, 22-1 pick Black Ultimo won a 5 1/2 furlong maiden claiming race by almost two lengths. Jimmy Hunt was up.

BETTY J. HARLESS, the only female rider at Ruidoso Downs this season, rallied Honor John to a half length victory in Friday's feature race, a 5 1/2 furlong allowance sprint. It was Honor John's first appearance of 1980. The six-year-old son of Groton, who earned over $5,000 last year with a 2-4-1 mark in 10 starts, broke in fourth place then rallied in the stretch to nip Warrior's Time. Even money favorite Happy Irishman was fifth. It was Harless' second win of the year.

A FULL SISTER to Tracy Dias, 1975 Horse of the Year in New Mexico, broke her maiden Saturday in the fifth race. Merry Sister, a three-year-old filly, rallied in the stretch to win a mile route for maiden three-and-four-year-olds. She was listed at just under 5-1. Merry Sister, under Joe Martinez, is trained by Jimmy L.

McClanahan. She ran the mile in 1:48, which ties her for the seasonal best time with Perfume And Lace. Merry Sister is owned by Latane Stevens of Lamesa, Texas. She was bred by Sam Stevens, owner of Tracy Dias. The daughter of Special Dune is out of Trecenta Dias. It was her fifth career start.

MR. BOONE BUG became the first three time winner this season at Ruidoso Downs with a victory in the ninth race Saturday. Owned by Marvin Barnes of Ada, Oklahoma, Mr. Boone Bug won the 350 yard two-year-old allowance by just over one length as an even money favorite. Mr. Boone Bug won his Kansas Futurity trial but failed to post a time fast enough for the finale. He followed that win with a victory against allowance company, winning both races by a total of two lengths.

BARTONVILLE WON the rubber match against Draconic's Loom Saturday in the feature race. The four-year-old gelding had won the first meeting between the duo over 870 yards, then Draconic's Loom rallied in the last confrontation. This time Bartonville, a quarter horse, had to come from off the pace to edge Draconic's Loom, a thoroughbred by a head. They were over three lengths ahead of the rest of field. Thirty Five, the Best 870 Horse at Sunland Park last spring, was third.

NOMINATIONS SECRETARY Dorothy Dillard reports there were 52 supplemental nominations to the July 20 Rainbow Futurity. The deadline for the $3,000 penalty payment was June 1. Another penalty of $9,000 will be allowed by entry time for the trials June 28 and 27. Mrs. Dillard said she is still counting the payments that were due June 1 and reports over 600 head are eligible, up from last year. The 1979 gross purse for the Rainbow Futurity was $500,100.

IN STEWARDS' RULINGS:
—Jockey Victor M. Escobar was suspended, denied privileges of the grounds and his case referred to the New Mexico State Racing Commission for possession of an electrical device.

—Jockey Ramon Apodaca was suspended three racing days for careless riding while aboard Drivers Bonny in the sixth race May 31.

—Jockey John Cushing was suspended three racing days for careless riding while aboard Net Star in the seventh race June 5. Cushing was also fined $50 for failing to report to the stewards' office when asked to.

—Trainer Johnie Goodman was fined $50 and $100 (third offense) for entering ineligible horses. Trainers Thomas A. Riley, Tony Fenack Jr., and Gene Teferiller were also fined $50 each for entering ineligible horses.

—Trainer Fred I. Danley was fined $25 for being late to the paddock.
—Groom Joe E. Rodriguez was fined $10 for speeding through the stable area.

CHICKS CHARGER BAR set the seasonal best time for 440 yards Sunday in the sixth race. The Rainbow Futurity runner covered the distance in 22.17 seconds. Jackie Martin was up. Another seasonal topper was set over 350 yards Saturday when Mystic Moon Dust won the eighth race in 18.09 seconds. Frank Rodriguez was up.

YOUR ENTERTAINMENT AND DINING GUIDE

Top trainer in '79 trying again

BY DICK ALWAN

Last summer, Hugh Tucker campaigned a stable at Ruidoso Downs that had the depth most trainers can only daydream about.

It was like going into Yankee Stadium with five or six Ty Cobbs, plus Willie Stargell, and Hank Aaron sitting on the bench, and Bob Feller waiting to pitch.

Everytime Tucker turned around last summer, he had another stakes winner to pull out of the barn. By the time the season was over, Tucker had 42 wins, and the trainer championship was in his hip pocket.

The Tucker team included Lucks Image Girl, the high gloss filly who won six races during the summer, including the $102,728 World's Championship Quarter Horse Classic, plus the Mr. Jet Moore Stakes. She also sweetened the pot with a win in the Jet Deck Stakes. At season's end, Lucks Image Girl was named the Quarter Horse of The Meet.

Another Tucker tornado was Holme Maid, who misad by a neck in the $542,000 Rainbow Derby. Oh Shinee, who set the second best qualifying time for the Rainbow, then came back to finish third, was another Tucker disciple. He's made about $140,000 so far.

Remember Seco Mighty Talk, the quick breaking filly who set the top qualifying time for last summer's $26,500 Kansas Futurity? If we need to jog your memory a little more, Seco Mighty Talk finished second in the finale, but was disqualified to third for bothering Pa Pa Wheelle.

Tucker's outfit also had a late bloomer in Thats Rainey, who finished third as a 9-1 shot in the finale of the $1,200,000 All-American Futurity.

But all this was last summer. The old team isn't what it used to be. Lucks Image Girl and Holme Maid have departed in favor of the casual life of a broodmare. Each is being bred to Easy Jet, the kingpin of quarter horse high society. Power vacuums were also created by the retirements of Baffles Three Wars, a colt who qualified fourth best to last summer's All-American Derby, and Mr. Reveille, who also made the Derby honor list. (With Holme Maid, Tucker had three Derby finalists.)

Oh Shinee didn't show his former zip in recent starts, but he appears to be getting ready to come around. Tucker says he plans to give him his first 1980 start at Ruidoso within the next few weeks. On Seco Mighty Talk, Tucker says: "She's doing very well. I hope to start her in about a week. She hasn't been out since last summer's trials for the All-American Futurity."

Mighty Malice, who won four races for Tucker last summer and made a consolation of the All-American Futurity, is back in full training. He's recovering from knee surgery.

So after that big summer of 1979, what does Hugh Tucker do for an encore? "You just try to come up with same over all depth. But I don't know if we can win 42 races, as we did last summer. It's hard to win that many—remarkable, in fact—when you don't run many claimers. We concentrated on futurities and derbies."

Although 1979 was a banner year for Tucker, there were a couple of low points. "The biggest disappointment came in the Rainbow Derby," he said. "Just as they kicked the gate, Holme Maid stepped back. She got away badly, but still she was beaten by only a neck."

Later in the season, Tucker suffered another blow—an even bigger one—when Holme Maid slipped at the start of the All-American Derby and wound up with a fractured knee. That put the end to her racing career—a career which reaped $231,000.

If there's been a disappointment this season, Thats Rainey could be the one. The colt, training sharply, qualified for the $222,150 Kansas Derby May 18. When the gates opened, he got away flying. "That was probably the best start he'd ever gotten. He was in front of Denim N Diamonds, then backed into the pack. The fact he didn't run better was disappointing. But you have to take that in stride."

A current member of the Tucker team who seems to have solid prospects is Acceptable. A few weeks ago, Acceptable won Ruidoso's $5,000 Top Deck Stakes. Encouraged by the triumph, he traveled to the West Coast, where he qualified for the $100,000 Los Alamitos Derby. In the finale, he got in seventh. He's now back at Ruidoso, and the mountain folks, Tucker feels, will be hearing a lot more about him during the summer months.

Another top Tucker prospect is Easy Joni Jet, a late-maturing filly (she was a May foal) who made the grand finale of last week's $504,500 Kansas Futurity but got in seventh at 36-1. "Before the season is over, I think she'll be a good one," Tucker said.

Among his two-year-old candidates, there's Easily Noble, an Easy Jet filly who went for $48,000 in last summer's All-American Sale. Tucker is also high on Dimples Galore, who ran second in her first start. He'll also be unveiling Noble Native, a colt he regards highly.

About Seco Mighty Talk, Mighty Malice and Call Me Reveille, he said: "If they come back to the form they had last year, they'll be top stakes horses."

Currently, Tucker isn't zeroing in on first place in the standings (as he was doing a year ago), but he's in the Top 10, and only a jump or two away from the lead. It would surprise no one if he wound up as the champ once again.

Heat from dry rock geothermal energy produces electricity

Two miles below the surface of the earth, the drilling rig hits granite far hotter than boiling water. The drilling team forces water into the well, fracturing the rock. Then they drill another well into the fracture, stopping some distance above the first.

When water is injected through the first well and withdrawn from the second, it picks up heat from the fractured rocks, heat which can be used to produce electricity. The process makes use of what is known as hot, dry rock geothermal energy.

In 1977, the first experimental hot, dry rock geothermal wells were drilled into the Jemez Mountains by the Los Alamos Scientific Laboratory (LASL). Recently, LASL drilled another pair of wells in the same area and installed the world's first pilot electric generating plant to be operated by hot, dry rock technology.

"There have been several engineering-economic studies concerning electricity production from geothermal resources over the past few years," said Ronald G. Cummings, professor of economics at the University of New Mexico (UNM). "These earlier studies focus on 'wet' (liquid or steam dominated) geothermal resources."

Cummings recently completed a study, together with Glenn E. Morris of LASL, of some of the technical and economic issues involved in exploiting hot, dry rock geothermal energy.

Wet geothermal energy relies upon naturally occurring reservoirs of hot water or steam which can be tapped for energy production. The location of such resources as well as many engineering decisions, are essentially fixed by natural conditions.

"The hot, dry rock geothermal resource differs from the wet geothermal resource in several critical ways," Cummings said. "The hot, dry rock systems are manmade and their characteristics are in large part amenable to control and land design."

One purpose of the study is to identify the issues which most critically affect commercial application of hot, dry rock technology. An issue of particular concern, he said, is the geothermal gradient, or how rapidly the rock temperature rises with increased drilling depth.

"Any effort to evaluate the magnitude of the hot, dry rock resource must identify the gradients that can be commercially exploited," Cummings said. "This follows from the obvious ramifications of the gradient on drilling costs."

For example, in order to reach a rock layer with a temperature of 450 degrees

Fahrenheit the geothermal wells would only have to be drilled down about 3 miles if the gradient was around 150 degrees per mile. Drilling costs would be about $6.1 million.

To obtain the same rock temperature in an area with an average gradient of only 60 degrees per mile, however, the wells would have to be drilled to about 7.5 miles. The cost would be more than $226 million.

Another major problem in exploiting hot, dry rock resources involves how rapidly the rock temperature drops as heat is extracted from it.

"Almost everyone has had the experience of walking barefooted on a cement driveway or sidewalk on a hot, sunny day," Cummings said. "If one pours water on the cement, the temperature drops as heat is transferred to the water. How fast the cement cools depends on the rate at which water is applied relative to the surface area of the cement."

Eventually, enough heat will be extracted from a hot, dry rock reservoir to make further extraction impractical.

"Over time, the outlet fluid temperature will decrease," Cummings said. "At issue, of course, is how fast will the temperature decline. That is, what will be the reservoir's useful 'lifetime'?"

"As in the cement example, this will depend on the rate at which water flows or is pumped through the reservoir relative to the surface area of the fractures. The greater the total effective surface area of the reservoir, the lower the rate of temperature drawdown."

Another set of hot, dry rock system characteristics which were studied included the design and scale of the power plant. "The thermodynamics of the power generating cycle relevant for hot, dry rock produced electricity involves a wide range of problems and issues of central importance," Cummings said.

Cummings said the study he and Morris conducted is intended to provide information that may be useful in assessing priorities for future research on hot, dry rock systems.

"We attempt to identify the physical and economic parameters which sensitivity analyses suggest are important for assessing the conditions for hot, dry rock produced electricity to be commercially feasible," he said.

The study was conducted through the UNM department of economics for the Electric Power Research Institute and LASL.

I-n-s-i-d-e the Outdoors

by Gary Dollahan

Fishing has generally been good at most of New Mexico's lakes during the past couple of weeks, with the majority of fishermen able to catch enough fish of one species or another to have at least one good fish supper.

However, one fish supper is usually enough for most families because they find the strong "fishy" taste objectionable to their taste buds. More often than not this fishy taste can be contributed to the fishermen's improper care of his catch rather than to the nature of the fish themselves.

A number of anglers put their day's catch on stringers hung over the side of the boats, or attached to shorelines. Others throw their catch into the bottom of their boats, or even up onto the bank beside them.

Even though the stringer method is the more acceptable of the two, both methods usually result in the death of the fish before the fishermen is ready to clean them. Needless to say, fish left out of the water and exposed to the sun will deteriorate rapidly. And, dead fish on the stringer, even in water, will deteriorate rapidly in 70 degree water (or more).

These fish will not have a pleasant flavor regardless of how you prepare and cook them. The idea is to keep your fish alive until you can clean them. Fishermen fortunate enough to have one of the more modern fishing boats will probably find it equipped with an aerated livewell. Little more than an ice chest with a water pump, the livewell, when used properly, does a good job of keeping the day's catch alive.

Fishermen not having such an accessory in their boat and bank fishermen can keep their catch fresh by using an ice chest filled one-fourth full with crushed or cubed ice.

The mesh fish baskets, or other live fish bags are suitable for keeping fish, but again, the fish will be exposed to drying out when the angler moves locations or goes home.

Of course, fish caught and kept in cold waters will not be as much of a problem as fish caught in warmer waters this time of year.

Keeping your fish alive and fresh while continuing to fish is only part of the solution for a good fish meal. It is just as important to properly process your fish for storage.

Obviously, fish freshly killed and cleaned will have the best flavor. Yet, there will be situations when the fish won't be cooked immediately, or there are too many fish for one meal (rare during my fishing excursions), so, the fish must be frozen and there are right and wrong ways to do this.

Cleaned or filleted fish are best preserved when frozen in a container of water. Milk cartons, plastic wares, and even plastic food bags make good containers. Put your fish in the container, fill it with water and put it in the freezer. If it is a sealed-type container, get all the air out you can before freezing. Fish frozen in this manner will not only have a longer freezer life, but will retain most of their flavor as well.

Do not just put fish in a plastic bag (without water) and put them in the freezer. Not only will they freezer burn, but they will also pick up other flavors from the freezer, and lose their own flavors.

If for some reason you cannot clean your fish immediately, they can be wrapped in a good grade of freezer paper and frozen. When thawed in a pan of cold water, they can be cleaned almost as easily as when they were fresh.

You would also use this same method of wrapping a fish to be mounted by the taxidermist. DO NOT clean a fish that is to be mounted.

The different methods of cleaning and cooking fish are almost as numerous as are the different tactics for catching fish. Usually trial and error is the best method for you to decide which procedures you like best for what species.

True, some species of fish have more of a fishy taste than others, but all species of fresh fish are delicious when properly cared for. My favorites are catfish and walleye, followed closely by crappie. And, not too far down the line is carp.

Large carp from good water can easily be skinned and filleted and are exceptional as a table fare. They are hard to beat for sport on the end of a rod and reel, too.

Anyway, the next time your big fishermen brings a mess of fish home that has no flavor or are strong tasting, tell him (or her) unless some proper care is expressed toward the fish caught, the next fishing trip's budget is going to be spent at the grocery store on something that tastes better than cardboard.

Wilderness Wisdom

with Wayne Calloway

Dear Wayne — Where in the United States does the grizzly populate heaviest? Are they diminishing in number? Jacob M., Kentucky.

Dear Jacob — Perhaps the largest concentration of grizzlies in the United States is within the confines of Yellowstone National Park, in Wyoming and Montana. Their existence there seems fairly secure since they are under close scrutiny by park officials. Within the vast park they are at home and man is the intruder. Half dozen or so of the western states also hold representative populations of grizzlies.

The grizzly is most heavily populated in the Canadian Provinces of British Columbia and Alberta. Regions of Alaska also hold substantial numbers of this big bear.

Dear Wayne — There is a sluggish river near my home that contains what seems to be an unusually large population of gar. Is this fish of any practical value to mankind? Bobby D., Delaware.

Dear Bobby — Somewhere, someone may have discovered a dandy use for them, but I don't know what it might be. Gar aren't regarded very highly as food fish, and they are way down the list as angler favorites. Their long, toothed snout makes them very hard to hook.

I suppose all creatures have a definite role in life. To the fisherman, the gar's role appears to be feeding upon more desirable species of fish, which does little to enhance their existence.

TRAVEL TIPS # 4
 FROM PARSONS TRAVEL
 Travelers' Rights
 When you've been careful with your trip planning but something goes wrong, know your rights. Get the whole story from the airline, then act.
 If you are "bumped" due to airline overbooking, the airline OWES you "denied boarding compensation." This is usually a free flight to your destination and/or a monetary settlement. Every ticket counter has a copy of compensation procedures; ask to see it.
 If a flight delays or cancels for mechanical, schedule or labor reasons, the carrier is OBLIGATED to get you to your destination. Airline personnel will make every effort to reschedule you. When delayed over 4 hours, most airlines will provide meal vouchers, and in some cases, a hotel.
 Weather problems are the most frustrating. Nothing can be done when nature has closed airports and grounded planes. The airlines will make you comfortable and arrange an alternate schedule. It has no other liability.
 Even carefully marked luggage is sometimes mis-routed. Report a missing bag immediately. Most airlines issue money to cover your out-of-pocket expenses until the bag is returned.
 Always be polite with airline personnel, these situations are not of their making, but they will do their best to help. Be polite, be patient, but be firm. You have rights.

Five good reasons for choosing the Nite-Liter for your property...

1. Extra security that comes from well-lighted property.
2. Backyard barbecues are more fun, since extra light gives more visibility.
3. Less chance of accidents — no more stumbling in the dark.
4. A few more "daylight" hours to finish outdoor chores.
5. Kids can play outside longer.

That's nice.
