Telephone strike tonight

Local Continental Telephone Company of the West employees will strike at midnight tonight, sources inside the company said today.

Approximately 30 employees are exercising their right to a work stoppage, company officials said. Exactly what the employees are striking about is unknown, but is believed to be over wages and retirement benefits, an official said.

Telephone company employees in Truth or Consequences and some in Arizona will also be striking.

Local service will not be affected by the strike, local manager Willie Joe Thompson said, because management personnel will take over other positions until the strike ends.

An earlier strike, scheduled for September 18, was averted because of negotiations underway in Phoenix, Arizona, but apparently those negotiations have broken down. Local union workers voted 33-1 earlier this month to strike.

Old Timers' banquet set Sunday eve

The annual Covered Dish Old Timers' Dinner, in connection with the Aspencade observance in Ruidoso, is scheduled Sunday at 6:30 p.m., in the Senior Citizens Center to the rear of the Ruidoso Public Library.

"Anyone who has lived here 15 years or more is invited," said spokesman Billie Clarke. "We have a nice dinner, get together and visit. We organized in 1966 and our annual dinners get better and bigger each year."

Rio Ruidoso polluted now

A series of chemical tests performed September 8 on the waters of the Rio Ruidoso have indicated that the river is unacceptably polluted with sewage wastes known as "fecal coliform," the local Environmental Improvement Division (EID) staff said Friday.

Testing of the water was performed at five locations along the river, according to environmentalists Brown Edwards and Hari Mukhoty. The locations were at the Mescalero Apache Reservation border in the Upper Canyon; at the outfall of the Ruidoso Wastewater Treatment Plant; just above the racetrack; just below the racetrack; and below Seeping Springs, near where the new sewage treatment plant will be located.

Results of all the tests were "positive," Mukhoty said, meaning the level of fecal coliform was high, particularly in the sample taken near the present sewage plant and at Seeping Springs. The lowest level of pollutant was found in the Upper Canyon at the reservation border.

Mukhoty said a full report will be given to the village concerning the contamination, and that increased chlorination near the plant will be recommended. "That's the only way to control it," he said. The level of chlorination also should be carefully controlled to avoid harming the fish population, he added.

Meanwhile, the environmentalists will be seeking to identify the source of contamination which is affecting the Seeping Springs area. Testing will also continue to determine seasonal variations in the level of contaminants, he said.

The testing was done in cooperation with the New Mexico Water Quality Control Commission, and the staff of the Ruidoso Water Department.

Men to face rape charge

Two men were arrested by Ruidoso Police Thursday in connection with the alleged rape of a 15-year-old girl the previous night.

Brian R. Cassel, 39, Ruidoso and Henry Padilla, 28, Ruidoso Downs, were charged with kidnapping and criminal sexual penetration. According to the victim, the rape took place at a private residence in Ruidoso.

At a first appearance before magistrate judge Jim Wheeler, bond was set at $20,000 each, no ten percent allowed. A preliminary hearing was set for October 3. Both are being detained in the Ruidoso jail.

Mules run photo finishes

The three days of the mule meeting at Ruidoso Downs produced 26 photo finishes in 45 races — as proof of how well matched the mules were.

Friday and Saturday the track was a sea of mud — with the wheels of the chariots kicking up rooster tails like speed boats during a fast run. Sunday the track was considered heavy but the mules coped to run 400 yards in a respectable 24.10.

The main casualty in the planned events was the arena action which fell to the mud — mud too deep even for mules to chase calves in.

No figures were available on the mule sale but Ed Hyman, president of Ruidoso Downs Mule Skinners, event sponsors, said, "There were a lot of mules sold and a lot of interest shown by both buyers and sellers."

The fans turned out in good numbers Saturday and Sunday. "I don't know what the attendance was," Hyman said Sunday, "but, considering the weather and the weather reports, we are well satisfied with the response."

The large number of photo finishes — with most deciding second and third — was attributed by Hyman to the grading of mules "and assigning them weights according to their class and the class of their competition in any given race. Outside of the long races, there wasn't any such thing as one mule romping across the finish line with a huge lead, say seven or eight lengths. In most of the races there wasn't more than five tenths of a second separating the winner from the one running dead last."

Some of the predictable unpredictableness of the mules occurred, just often enough to prove that mules will do the unexpected as mule fans expect.

The fourteenth race Saturday was an outstanding example of what happens in a race when the mules get tired of running.

There were actually three divisions in that six furlong junket. Karen, Gypsy and Virgil made a race of it every inch of the way — with not a length separating the three at any one time. White Lightning, however, who was traipsing along dead last in the turn for home suddenly dropped down to a walk — a slow walk — and didn't pay any attention to jockey Cliff Graham's exhortations to keep running.

About that time Miss Elegant and Kate, at a point about 50 yards from the finish line, pulled up and meandered over to the inside rail — to stroll side by side. Leroy Coombs started reasoning with Miss Elegant, as was Jim Cox with Kate. After an interval of this reasoning — you could hear the leather splatting on mule hide atop the grandstand — both mules broke into a dead run for a nose win by Kate at the finish line. A minute or so later White Lightning noticed he was all alone in the stretch for home and quit walking to get into a bouncing trot — crossing the finish

Hunter-Jumpers to be annual event

Despite a steady drizzle all day Friday, the first Hunter-Jumper horse show ever held in Ruidoso got off to a brilliant start and promises to become one of the major events of the fall season, if the first year is an indication of the future.

The show was held in a meadow just inside the gates of Ruidoso Downs Race Track. The grounds opened onto a view of mountains surrounding Ruidoso, and offered show goers a chance to see the beginnings of fall, with many trees surrounding the meadow already starting to turn.

The show, according to participants, is proof positive that hunter-jumper events are "catching on" in the Southwest. According to some, the sport has tripled in popularity over the last five years and will probably keep growing "because it's so exciting."

The show gives a spectator a lot to watch, with activity at the Ruidoso show ongoing in two rings. The many classes of hunter and jumper events allow horses to "strut their stuff" by showing how well, how quickly, and how fearlessly they can clear the hurdles on the courses.

Equitation events award the riders according to their manner, placement of hands and general riding ability.

The first show featured entries from New Mexico, Texas, Colorado, California, Arizona and Mexico, as well as other states in the region. More than 200 horses were groomed, shown, bought and sold at the show and in some cases, old friendships renewed.

Complaints about the rain notwithstanding, by Sunday, all the show organizers seemed to be in agreement as to the success of the show.

"It was the nicest show in this part of the country, with the prettiest facilities, beautiful scenery — and it's a fun town," said one organizer, Jerry Dougherty.

Don Leslie, president of the Ditchriders International Hunter Jumper Club, Incorporated, added that the Ruidoso show was "the biggest in southern New Mexico or west Texas since the cavalry left Fort Bliss in 1943."

Elisha Payne of El Paso, Texas, won the coveted "mini-prix," held Sunday, and "the competition was stiff," another organizer, Winnie Lewis said. Payne also brought 22 riders she had trained to participate in the local show.

By midafternoon Sunday, the show proceeds were set at about $27,000, of which about $8,500 was returned in prize monies to the participants. The Ruidoso-Hondo Valley Hospital can expect to receive more than the previously guaranteed $2,000 donation, Lewis said, although the exact figure will not be known until later in the week, Lewis said. The show itself, she said, "went exceptionally well."

"And as a result of our efforts, we have secured a private donation to the hospital in the amount of $15,000 from Bess Fish of Houston, Texas," Lewis said.

Hospital administrator Ken Moore said the proceeds from the show will be used to purchase a "volume ventilator," a breathing machine. The equipment can be utilized by patients who have lost the

Anyone who would like to assist with that effort should contact Ken Moore at the hospital. Lewis and Moore issued a special thanks to a number of groups who helped make Circle; Community Public Service, for providing electricity; the Ruidoso Downs Mule Skinnners; Savage and AB Electric Companies; Judge Briscoe West; Scrimsher Brothers; George Hancock, track maintenance supervisor; the Holiday Inn and the village of Ruidoso Downs.

Moore and Lewis also extended thanks to the business people and advertisers who contributed to the show effort.

Four Corners launches range research project

New Mexico and the four other states that make up the four corners region have recently received a $275,619 grant from the Four Corners Commission for a regional range research project.

Dr. Ellis W. Huddleston, head of New Mexico State University's entomology and plant pathology department, is project coordinator for New Mexico. Other members of the New Mexico research team are Dr. Kirk McDonald, Dr. David Richman and Walter Smith.

Huddleston said New Mexico researchers, along with research teams from Arizona, Colorado, Nevada and Utah will focus on major plant and animal pests affecting ranges in the four corners states. The researchers also will study those insects considered beneficial to these ranges.

The economic value of livestock on ranges in the five states was determined by the United States Department of Agriculture at near $3 billion in 1976. Huddleston noted that those figures reflect only a small part of the economic value of ranges when energy resources, watersheds, recreation, military and other uses are considered.

He said economic losses due to pests will gain attention in the project and measures will be determined to greatly reduce them. As examples of such losses he cited damage caused by the range caterpillar and black grass bug. New Mexico estimated about a $40 million loss to range caterpillars over the past 10 years. Black grass bugs caused an estimated $5.7 million loss in one year just in three Utah counties. Both pests are making inroads in other states.

New Mexico, Colorado, and Nevada researchers will concentrate on gathering necessary economic and biological information. They will use this information to develop control strategies for selected pests including range caterpillars, grasshoppers and black grass bugs that inflict serious losses in range production. New Mexico and Utah researchers will investigate control strategies for range weed pests and the development of resistance in grasses to the range plant pests.

Researchers from the plant, animal, insect and climatological disciplines from the five states will pool their efforts and information. A manual, drawing on this information, will be written about the grass-consuming insects that inhabit the four corners area.

Huddleston said, "The project aims to help improve ranges to meet increasing demands for more food, water, energy, recreation, watershed and wildlife. The knowledge obtained will help us more economically and effectively manage range lands that constitute 80 to 90 percent of the land area in these states."

Improved ranges, he said, can make up for some agricultural land being lost to housing and industrial development. Improved ranges would mean more water and food production from range lands and less pollution and erosion.

"An immediate economic benefit from this project is that the states will exchange information that already is known in the individual states," Huddleston said.

The project proposes to combine known information immediately to protect some of this land from insects, weeds, diseases, nematodes and other pests that cause losses on ranges. It will use problem solving interdisciplinary integrated pest management (IIPM) teams. "These teams will strive to develop other new methods of improving our range which is becoming even more important in providing food, jobs, water, energy materials and recreation to all citizens," Huddleston said.

Project coordinators from the other states are Floyd G. Werner, University of Arizona, Tucson; John L. Capinera, Colorado State University, Fort Collins; Robert W. Lauderdale, University of Nevada, Reno. The overall project coordinator is B. Austin Haws of Utah State University.

Bilingual educators planning conference in Albuquerque

Directors of New Mexico schools' bilingual education programs will hold a conference at the University of Albuquerque (U of A) October 7 and 8 to discuss their progress and problems in federally funded bilingual projects.

About 45 program directors are expected, along with officials of the state Department of Education and the United States Department of Education, which is sponsoring the conference. The two-day conference will consist of panel discussions, lectures and special presentations, question and answer periods and "brainstorming" study sessions.

The U of A program trains its students to become teachers in Spanish-English and Indian-Spanish-English multicultural education.

line with head high, and tall, flicking, to a burst of applause from the fans.

In the first event of the 1980 Mule Skinnners' meeting — a chariot race — Spook and Fatty, on the outside rail, broke well and charged down the straightaway from the 350 yard starting line, keeping up a fast pace until they spied the left turn — which they took to race the long, and wrong, way around the track — and there wasn't a thing driver Tom Hartley could do but hang on for the ride.

"This was an excellent meeting," Hyman said, "and we plan to continue the same grading format in all future meetings. True, the size of the purses resulted in some inquiries and objections, but this is to be expected. However, I didn't hear any complaints from the owners, trainers or jockeys, so I'd guess by far the majority were satisfied."

"The word will get out that we have professional mule racing at Ruidoso Downs and in the years ahead we hope to have bigger and better races — and we may even get a futurity, for a sizeable purse, running each year as our feature attraction."

The race results:

Three injured in car mishap here Sunday

Three persons sustained minor injuries in a two-car accident on Highway 37 near the Swiss Chalet Sunday afternoon.

John G. Kuhn, 22, of Farmerville, Louisiana, was driving south on Highway 37 when a car driven by Ike Scott Fields, 19, of El Paso, Texas, crossed the middle yellow line in an attempt to pull off the roadway. The cars collided head on. Damage to both vehicles was estimated at "over $100" each.

Kuhn, Fields and Shannon Haley, 17, El Paso, a passenger in the Fields car, were taken to Ruidoso Hondo Valley Hospital, where all were treated and released.

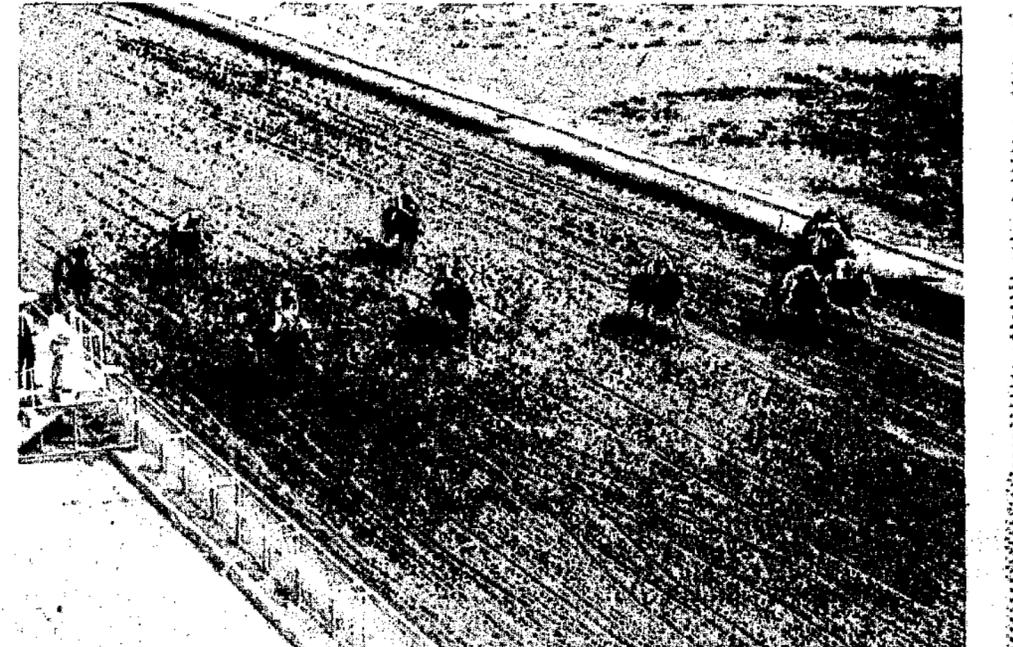

Post Office job applications available now

Persons interested in a mail clerk or carrier position should pick up applications at the main post office, according to local postmaster Elwood Gradine.

The applications are required in advance of taking the clerk/carrier civil service test. The number of applications is limited, Gradine said, so interested persons should pick up their materials soon.

Jayceettes' membership drive tonight

The Jayceettes of Ruidoso are joining with 4,000 chapters nationwide to sponsor a membership drive tonight at 7:30 in the Gold Room of the Holiday House. Refreshments will be served and "anybody interested can come—we will have a program explaining what our organization does and then we'll sign up as many new members as possible." Then Sanchez, local Jayceette, said. The service organization has assisted in various charity fund raisers, including the American Cancer Society, Muscular Dystrophy Association and the American Heart Association. Membership is open to young women between the ages of 18 and 30, married or single.

Girl Scouts plan used book sale

A book sale featuring children's and young adult books will be held October 4 on the library grounds, under the sponsorship of Junior Girl Scout Troop Four.

and the sale represents a money raising project as well as a service project for the troop, according to Jane Deyo, Girl Scout coordinator.

Cancer group has reorganized

The East Lincoln Chapter of the American Cancer Society (ELACS) reorganized in a meeting Thursday. New officers included Rose Peebles, president; Edna Morris, vice president; Charlotte Fellers, secretary; and Dottie Quaid treasurer.

District executive director Glenda Williams will investigate the possibility that funds raised locally may be used to continue the clinics as before.

And update of ACS activities over the summer revealed that the Division voted to combine the East and West Lincoln chapters to form one county wide chapter. Co-chairpersons will be selected for public education and membership.

The Amigos in concert here

Cancer screening clinics will be held in Carrizozo two days a week, with Dr. Michael Stone handling examinations. A revision in the Ruidoso screening program will limit that service to persons not having a local doctor and those who cannot afford to have the doctor perform the screening, according to Dottie Quaid.

The Amigos, a Christian singing group, will perform in a series of three free concerts, beginning tonight in Ruidoso. Tonight's performance is scheduled for 7, at the First Christian Church, with another session to be held at the same time and place the following night.

National 4-H Week planned October 5-11

More than five million American 4-Hers will observe National 4-H Week, October 5-11, says Bob Gilliland, Extension associate director of 4-H and youth development at New Mexico State University.

Throughout the week, members of the nation's largest out-of-school educational youth organization are taking part in special activities that focus on the values of 4-H.

4-H members learn-by-doing, becoming involved in a variety of practical, real-life activities, ranging from agriculture to wood science. Programs vary according to youth needs and community resources, Gilliland says.

For example, 4-Hers in your community may be involved in dog care, beef, bicycle, clothing, communications, cooking, creative crafts, dairy, electric energy, entomology, food, gardening, health, photography, poultry, public speaking, safety, sheep, swine or veterinary science. During the past 10 years, total 4-H participation of urban youth has tripled. However, 4-H is still serving a large percentage of farm and rural youth.

Today, 23 percent of 4-H members nationwide live in suburbs or cities of more than 50,000 population, compared with 19 percent who live on farms. Forty percent reside in small towns or open country, and 18 percent live in towns and cities of 10,000-50,000.

4-H is the youth education program of the Cooperative Extension Service, land-grant universities and county governments.

Obituaries

Bessie R. Cummins

Bessie R. Cummins, 76, of Capitan, died Sunday morning in Capitan after a lengthy illness.

She was born October 29, 1903, and was the widow of Lewis E. Cummins. She was a Lincoln County resident for more than 60 years.

Survivors include two sons, Hollis Cummins of Capitan; Teddy Joe Cummins of Fallbrook, California; a daughter, Jerry McClung of San Jose, California; a sister, Doris Hunter of Long Beach, California; 16 grandchildren and five great grandchildren.

Friends may pay last respects through Tuesday at Clarke's chapel in Ruidoso. Services will be at 11 a.m., Wednesday from the First Baptist Church in Capitan with her son Teddy officiating. Burial will be in Capitan Cemetery.

Funeral services will be her grandsons. In lieu of flowers, the family has requested gifts be made to the Bessie Cummins Memorial Fund at Ruidoso Hondo Valley Hospital.

Arrangements were made by Clarke's Chapel of Roses Mortuary.

RUIDOSO AUTHOR EVE BALL

Eve Ball writers' speaker

Eve Ball of Ruidoso will be a featured speaker at the second annual Writer's Invitational in Roswell, scheduled for October 2. The invitational will include two sessions, set for 1-4 p.m., and 6-9 p.m., in the Bondurant Room of the Roswell Public Library. Both sessions are open to the public and no admission will be charged.

She has studied and written several books about the Apache Indians of New Mexico. Her most recent book is entitled "Indeh, an Apache Odyssey," published this year by Brigham Young University Press.

Seven other authors will speak at the Writer's Invitational, also.

Political forum scheduled here October 23

The Friends of the Ruidoso Public Library will sponsor a political forum October 23, 7-9 p.m., in the multi-purpose room of the library.

The forum will be similar to one held in February prior to the election of two village trustees. All candidates running for county and state offices will be invited and refreshments will be served by the Friends.

Those wishing to submit questions to be asked anonymously, can mail them to the Friends, P. O. Box 2958, Ruidoso, NM 88345.

The Friends will also announce plans for the 1980 Madrigal Feast in the near future. According to chairperson Mady Holstein, "plans are moving along well."

Pior gets winning score in come from behind victory

Warriors nip Jal 21-17 in final minutes

[Editor's note: programs for the Ruidoso-Jal contest were unavailable, and thus, our sportswriter did not have names for all the Jal players. We apologize for the inconvenience.]

BY MARK BAGBY
Sports Editor

Talk about storybook finishes — the Ruidoso Warriors, trailing Jal 6-0 at halftime here Friday night, scored 21 second half points, including Russ Pior's winning touchdown run with 2:49 left, to take a 21-17 decision from the pesky Panthers.

The winning run came on fourth down, and just to keep the clichés intact, it was homecoming for Ruidoso.

The Warriors turned the tables on an opponent for once — numerous times in the past, Ruidoso wins the statistical battle but loses the game. Friday, however, the Warriors found themselves on the short end of the stat sheets.

But the score tells it all, and it's oh so sweet.

"That was some game, wasn't it?" a tired but happy Darrel Stierwalt said afterwards. "I haven't looked at the stats but they probably outgained us. We gave 'em a lot of stuff they shouldn't have gotten."

Jal outgained the Warriors on the ground, 141 yards to 122, and the airways were definitely the Panthers' — 263 yards to 136.

But penalties — at crucial times — did the Panthers in. Jal kicked a 36 yard field goal with 6:35 left, giving the Panthers a 17-14 lead.

The ensuing kickoff, however, went out of bounds at the Warrior five, and high school rules dictate the ball must be placed on the receiving team's 40.

Beginning from there, the Warriors gained little on the first two downs. On third and seven from the 43, quarterback Scott Neal hit tight end Mike Dale over the middle with a 15 yard pass, keeping the drive alive at Jal's 43.

Neal ran for six up the middle on first down, and Ricky Dennis added two more on second down. Steve Denway got the call for the first down on third and two, and a tough two yards it was.

Jal was called for a face mask penalty on the tackle. That made it first down on

RUNNING TO DAYLIGHT is halfback Ricky Dennis, who scored the Warriors' first six pointer on a five yard sprint.

Jal's 17 yard line. Dennis ran for nine, Benway was held for no gain, Dennis lost a yard.

On fourth and two from the eight, fullback Russ Pior slammed through the middle to score behind blocks by Lon Nunley and Philbert Smith.

With 2:49 left on the clock, Leroy Ramirez kicked the point after, thus preventing any possibility of a tie.

"I was sure glad they kicked that field goal," Stierwalt said. "I thought if they got just three, we could come back and win. I felt if they got seven, though, they'd have nailed our coffin shut."

But the best was yet to come. The Panthers came out throwing, and quarterback Joe Dobbs hit wide receiver John Todd (who hooked up earlier for two Jal touchdowns) with an 18 yarder at the Ruidoso 48.

On first down, Dobbs scrambled for five yards. On second down, Warrior Byron Wright put on a great rush and forced Dobbs out of the pocket. He fumbled, but recovered the ball.

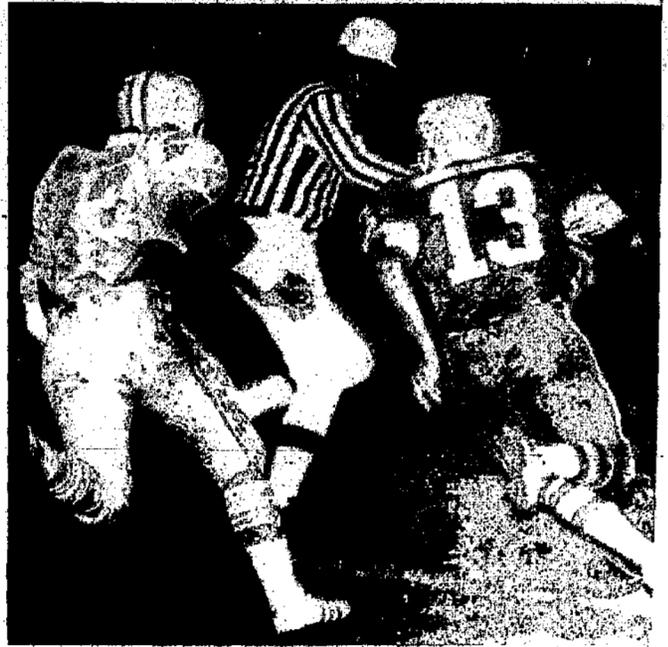

He also lost 16 yards in the process. So, with third and 21, Jal reached into its playbooks and came up with a tackle eligible pass play.

Dobbs took the snap and handed off to the left tackle, who rolled out to pass. Darlous Rad, however, met the big lineman with a hard hit, forcing a hurried throw which went straight up in the air.

"I just tried to get up in his face," Rad said. "I figured he might panic if I did."

That brought up fourth down. Dobbs hit Todd with a short pass, who pitched it to speedster Brent Gage. Gage was promptly tackled, and the ball was turned over on downs.

[SEE PAGE 6]

BYRON WRIGHT puts heat on Jal's Joe Dobbs during Friday night's 21-17 victory over the Panthers. Wright came up with several key plays during the win, but Dobbs passed the Warriors silly — 10 for 19 for 263 yards.

Sportin' Life

by

Mark Bagby

This is the time of the year that always gets to me.

Baseball is wrapping up, football is just starting and hockey and basketball are in their pre-seasons, for crying out loud.

Why do they do this to us?

Do you realize just how much time you'll spend glued to the tube quaffing tail, cool ones — and watching teams with players you never heard of a) score touchdowns, b) hit homers, c) make saves or d) stuffs.

After a while, the best part of it gets to be the commercials. Really, and unfortunately.

How some folks do it, I'll never know. I can't. I've tried. I used to watch any sports event on television. For a while, that 24 hour a day sports network sounded like a good deal to me, although some of the stuff, like the Lower Allegheny Kayak Championships, ain't exactly my cup of tea.

I will agree, however, ESPN (whatever that stands for) has done a pretty good job covering sports you might not see otherwise.

But good grief, who's going to watch Yale and Dartmouth battle for the Ivy League title, when the game is broadcast at 3 a.m.?

I won't. At one time I would, but now I draw the line at 2 a.m.

I was hoping — really hoping — ESPN would wind up being like other pay television channels — no commercials. Nothing I hate more than to have fourth and goal from the one with three seconds left, "and now a brief word from our sponsor."

In all fairness, network television really helped the growth of modern athletics. They made superstars out of folks who might not have ever been noticed. It used to be just up to the newspapers, but then newsreels and radio made Jesse Owens, Herman Brix, Bronko Nagurski, Jim Thorpe, the Four Horsemen, George Gipp, Sid Luckman, Sammy Baugh, Bobby Jones, Bill Tilden, Babe Didrikson Zaharias, they all became famous, and rightfully so due to the media. (I know I left out a lot of people, like Babe Ruth, Red Grange, but if I tried to list all the famous sports figures of this century I could probably fill up this whole issue. And it wouldn't be real interesting reading, either.)

Then there was television. Television brought us the famous "sudden death" game between the Colts and the Giants, which had about as much to do with making pro football popular as anything.

It brought us the World Series, and Roger Maris' 61st homer, and Hank Aaron's 715th.

It brought us Bob Beamon's incredible 29 foot jump in the '68 Olympics, and the incredible Ethiopian, Abebe Bikila, who won the 1960 and '64 marathons.

It brought us Wilt the Stilt, and UCLA's domination of college basketball, a young tough boxer named Cassius Clay, who used the media better than it ever used itself.

It's brought us all these great things, and more.

It also brought us the "Heldt" game, switching over from the Jets-Raiders AFL title game to Johanna Spyri's classic tale. In so doing, TV missed an incredible come from behind win (I still remember watching Daryle Lamonic fade back to throw that pass ...)

Unfortunately, television also brought us commercials.

Some of them are pretty good — some of the sports figures who have been in those beer commercials are pretty good, and heck, ol' Farrah Fawcett/whatsheername got her start shavin' Joe Willie's face. Willie's face.

But on the whole, television has messed up more games than I care to remember. How many times have you been watching a game, and all of a sudden, with things getting real crucial, they break for a commercial?

And then, by golly, let's show you — via the miracle of instant replay of course — that 75 yard touchdown toss. After the kickoff, if nobody minds waiting, that is. Thanks.

Now I realize commercials make it possible for us to view the program. The networks won't foot the bill, the lousy 19% rate, so they sell people their time. (Now why they won't pay for it out of their own pockets for all us sports nuts is beyond me. Avaricious usurers ...)

Television also brought us outrageous salaries for pro players.

See, when sport became big business — when 65 million of this country's 300 million will watch one game, the networks, see, can charge $200,000 for a minute's worth of time. (That's what? $12,000,000 an hour? Wow.)

Then, since they're earning so much, and the league gets paid for the rights to the game, the players want their slice of the pie. And the slice keeps getting bigger all the time.

Those things all went hand in hand, of course. They've been televising football games for 30 years, but the exorbitant salary demands have been going on for about 15 years, and you got to give ol' Joe Willie Namath credit for that. He was the first — $400,000 for five years. (Heck, it took him four years to get them a Super Bowl title. He got a year's pay free.)

So I was hoping maybe things would get simpler with ESPN. They didn't, and there's just so much money to be made, and that's why they have commercials too.

When can we get rid of the commercials? Why, when fools like you and me stop watching every sports related event on the tube.

I'd rather die first.

JV footballers beat Tularosa

Ruidoso's junior varsity Warrior football team finally made it into the win column Saturday with a 6-2 triumph over Tularosa's junior varsity.

The Warriors scored in the first quarter on a 30 yard sprint by Steve Benway, but had three other scores called back on penalties and an early whistle.

Tularosa did not score until the fourth quarter, when a Ruidoso sweep deep in its own territory failed and ballcarrier was tackled in the end zone for a safety.

The win gives the junior varsity a 1-1-1 record. Next opponent is the Capitan junior varsity here October 6.

Kannady wins bowling tourney

Three strikes in baseball means you're out, but three strikes to Ruidoso's Jack Kannady Jr., means he's $1,000 richer.

Kannady, local professional bowler, was competing in the Classic Bowlers Association Tournament of Champions September 14 in Albuquerque.

The final match had boiled down to the last frame. He needed three strikes to win. Kannady, who owns about 30 bowling balls, calmly leveled 10 pins three successive times and captured the winner's purse of $1,000.

"You get lucky once in a while," he said.

Volleyballers finish in fifth place in Capitan tournament

Ruidoso's lady Warrior volleyballers won the consolation bracket in Saturday's Capitan tournament, finishing fifth overall.

The lasses lost to second place finisher Floyd in their first match, 15-17, 9-15. Then, they defeated Carrizozo, 9-15, 15-5, 15-10 and Mountainair, 15-9, 10-15, 15-10 to take the consolation bracket.

"I am really pleased," coach Margie Andrus said. "I was real proud of the girls and the way they played. Even though they lost to Floyd, they played really well."

The ladies scored first on Floyd, and played even with them up to 9-9, before Floyd pulled away, 14-9.

Then the lady Warriors came back and even took a 15-14 lead, before Floyd was true on three serves for the win.

"That just kind of took something out of us," Andrus said. "I think we'd have won the second game if we had played the second game as tough as we played the first one."

"But I'm pleased. We had our bad moments, and we had our good ones too. We really tried hard."

The worst part about playing a squad like Floyd in the first round, she said, "is if you lose, you suddenly can't get second, third or even fourth place in the tournament," she said. "The best you can do is fifth."

In the other matches, the lady Warriors had a lot of trouble with Carrizozo, a team they beat in the season opener.

"They must have had an off night the first time they played us," she said, "because they played awfully well, a lot better than they played the first time. They played us a heck of a first game, but we won the other. We had a lot of trouble with our serves."

Mountainair was no pushover either. "They weren't a real offensive team," she said. "But they played extremely consistent defense. They kept picking up our spikes and tried to make us make the mistakes. They had a good team."

Roswell Goddard's junior varsity won the tourney, followed by Floyd, Dexter, Capitan and Ruidoso.

Karen Boone was the only Ruidoso lass named to the all tournament team.

"Karen played really well," she said, "but so did the other girls."

Next action for the ladies is Tuesday against Dexter there. Game time is 6 p.m.

KAREN BOONE made the all-tournament team in Capitan, the only Ruidoso lass so honored.

Gymnastic squad wins

Ruidoso Gymnastics Academy's competitive Class Four squad won a meet here Saturday, and the Class Three squad placed second.

The Class Fours edged out Albuquerque's Gold Cup Gymnastics School 82.5 to 79.2 to notch their first upset win.

In vaulting, Ruidoso's Jackie Goodrum won the event with a 7.5. Other Ruidoso ladies and their scores: Shaci Spencer, 7.2, second; Nicki Alder, 6.7, third; Karen Gann, 6.45, fourth.

In bars, Ann Cull was second with a 7.2; Amy Richardson, third, 6.5, Goodrum and Gann tied for fifth with 6.25, and Alder was sixth with a 5.9.

Hilary Held won the balance beam with a 7.1, followed by Gann with a 7.0, Richardson at fifth with 6.3 and Spencer with 6.2 for sixth.

Held also won floor exercises with 7.4.

Richardson was second with 7.0, Gann had third with a 6.25, and Alder was sixth with a 6.7.

In the Class Three meet, Albuquerque Gymnastics School edged out Ruidoso, 78.8 to 63.2. Gold Cup placed third with 61.7.

In individual events, Amy Thornton finished fourth in bars and sixth in beam with scores of 6.5 and 4.8; Mary Gaddy was second in bars and sixth in vault with 7.0 and 4.5; and Angela Jones was third in bars and fifth in vault with 6.8 and 4.7.

The ladies will compete next Saturday in Las Cruces with squads from Las Cruces and Alamogordo.

Jayceettes' membership drive tonight

The Jayceettes of Ruidoso are joining with 4,000 chapters nationwide to sponsor a membership drive tonight at 7:30 in the Gold Room of the Holiday House. Refreshments will be served and "anybody interested can come—we will have a program explaining what our organization does and then we'll sign up as many new members as possible." Thea Sanches, local Jayceette, said. The service organization has assisted in various charity fund raisers, including the American Cancer Society, Muscular Dystrophy Association and the American Heart Association. Membership is open to young women between the ages of 18 and 36, married or single.

Girl Scouts plan used book sale

A book sale featuring children's and young adult books will be held October 4 on the library grounds, under the sponsorship of Junior Girl Scout Troop Four.

and the sale represents a money raising project as well as a service project for the troop, according to Jane Deyo, Girl Scout coordinator. The sale begins at 9:30 and lasts until all books are sold. Deyo said.

Cancer group has reorganized

clinic organizer. District executive director Glenda Williams will investigate the possibility that funds raised locally may be used to continue the clinics as before.

And update of ACS activities over the summer revealed that the Division voted to combine the East and West Lincoln chapters to form one county wide chapter. Co-chairpersons will be selected for public education and membership.

Cancer screening clinics will be held in Carrizozo two days a week, with Dr. Michael Stone handling examinations. A revision in the Ruidoso screening program will limit that service to persons not having a local doctor and those who cannot afford to have the doctor perform the screening, according to Dottie Quaid.

The Amigos, a Christian singing group, will perform in a series of three free concerts, beginning tonight in Ruidoso. Tonight's performance is scheduled for 7, at the First Christian Church, with another session to be held at the same time and place the following night. On Wednesday, the Amigos will appear at 7 p.m. at White Mountain Middle School.

National 4-H Week planned October 5-11

More than five million American 4-Hers will observe National 4-H Week, October 5-11, says Bob Gilliland, Extension associate director of 4-H and youth development at New Mexico State University.

Throughout the week, members of the nation's largest out-of-school educational youth organization are taking part in special activities that focus on the values of 4-H.

4-H members learn-by-doing, becoming involved in a variety of practical, real-life activities, ranging from agriculture to wood science. Programs vary according to youth needs and community resources, Gilliland says.

For example, 4-Hers in your community may be involved in dog care, beef, bicycle, clothing, communications, cooking, creative crafts, dairy, electric energy, entomology, food, gardening, health, photography, poultry, public speaking, safety, sheep, swine or veterinary science.

During the past 10 years, total 4-H participation of urban youth has tripled. However, 4-H is still serving a large percentage of farm and rural youth.

Today, 23 percent of 4-H members nationwide live in suburbs or cities of more than 50,000 population, compared with 19 percent who live on farms. Forty percent reside in small towns or open country, and 18 percent live in towns and cities of 10,000-50,000.

4-H is the youth education program of the Cooperative Extension Service, land-grant universities and county governments.

Obituaries

Bessie R. Cummins

Bessie R. Cummins, 76, of Capitan, died Sunday morning in Capitan after a lengthy illness.

She was born October 29, 1903, and was the widow of Lewis E. Cummins. She was a Lincoln County resident for more than 60 years.

Survivors include two sons, Hollis Cummins of Capitan; Teddy Joe Cummins of Fallbrook, California; a daughter, Jerry McClung of San Jose, California; a sister, Doris Hunter of Long Beach, California; 16 grandchildren and five great grandchildren.

Friends may pay last respects through Tuesday at Clarke's chapel in Ruidoso. Services will be at 11 a.m., Wednesday from the First Baptist Church in Capitan with her son Teddy officiating. Burial will be in Capitan Cemetery.

Palbearers will be her grandsons. In lieu of flowers, the family has requested gifts be made to the Bessie Cummins Memorial Fund at Ruidoso Hondo Valley Hospital.

Arrangements were made by Clarke's Chapel of Roses Mortuary.

RUIDOSO AUTHOR EVE BALL

Eve Ball writers' speaker

Eve Ball of Ruidoso will be a featured speaker at the second annual Writers' Invitational in Roswell, scheduled for October 2. The Invitational will include two sessions, set for 1-4 p.m. and 6-9 p.m., in the Boardroom of the Roswell Public Library. Both sessions are open to the public and no admission will be charged.

She has studied and written several books about the Apache Indians of New Mexico. Her most recent book is entitled "Indeh, an Apache Odyssey." Published this year by Brigham Young University Press.

Seven other authors will speak at the Writer's Invitational, also.

Political forum scheduled here October 23

The Friends of the Ruidoso Public Library will sponsor a political forum October 23, 7-9 p.m., in the multi-purpose room of the library.

The forum will be similar to one held in February prior to the election of two village trustees. All candidates running for county and state offices will be invited and refreshments will be served by the Friends.

Those wishing to submit questions to be asked anonymously, can mail them to the Friends, P. O. Box 2958, Ruidoso, NM 88345.

The Friends will also announce plans for the 1980 Madrigal Feast in the near future. According to chairperson Mady Holstein, "plans are moving along well."

Pior gets winning score in come from behind victory

Warriors nip Jal 21-17 in final minutes

[Editor's note: programs for the Ruidoso-Jal contest were unavailable, and thus, our sports writer did not have names for all the Jal players. We apologize for the inconvenience.]

BY MARK BAGBY
Sports Editor

Talk about storybook finishes — the Ruidoso Warriors, trailing Jal 6-0 at halftime here Friday night, scored 21 second half points, including Russ Pior's winning touchdown run with 2:49 left, to take a 21-17 decision from the pesky Panthers.

The winning run came on fourth down, and just to keep the clichés intact, it was homecoming for Ruidoso.

The Warriors turned the tables on an opponent for once — numerous times in the past, Ruidoso wins the statistical battle but loses the game. Friday, however, the Warriors found themselves on the short end of the stat sheets.

But the score tells it all, and it's oh so sweet.

"That was some game, wasn't it?" a tired but happy Darrel Stierwall said afterwards. "I haven't looked at the stats, but they probably outgained us. We gave 'em a lot of stuff they shouldn't have gotten."

Jal outgained the Warriors on the ground, 141 yards to 122, and the airways were definitely the Panthers' — 263 yards to 136.

But penalties — at crucial times — did the Panthers in. Jal kicked a 38 yard field goal with 6:35 left, giving the Panthers a 17-14 lead.

The ensuing kickoff, however, went out of bounds at the Warrior five, and high school rules dictate the ball must be placed on the receiving team's 40.

Beginning from there, the Warriors gained little on the first two downs. On third and seven from the 43, quarterback Scott Neal hit tight end Mike Dale over the middle with a 15 yard pass, keeping the drive alive at Jal's 43.

Neal ran for six up the middle on first down, and Ricky Dennis added two more on second down. Steve Benway got the call for the first down on third and two, and a tough two yards it was.

Jal was called for a face mask penalty on the tackle. That made it first down on Jal's 17 yard line. Dennis ran for nine, Benway was held for no gain, Dennis lost a yard.

On fourth and two from the eight, fullback Russ Pior slammed through the middle to score behind blocks by Lon Nunley and Philbert Smith.

With 2:49 left on the clock, Leroy Ramirez kicked the point after, thus preventing any possibility of a tie.

"I was sure glad they kicked that field goal," Stierwall said. "I thought if they got just three, we could come back and win. I felt if they got seven, though, they'd have nailed our coffin shut."

But the best was yet to come. The Panthers came out throwing, and quarterback Joe Dobbs hit wide receiver John Todd (who hooked up earlier for two Jal touchdowns) with an 18 yarder at the Ruidoso 48.

On first down, Dobbs scrambled for five yards. On second down, Warrior Byron Wright put on a great rush and forced Dobbs out of the pocket. He fumbled, but recovered the ball.

He also lost 16 yards in the process. So, with third and 21, Jal reached into its playbooks and came up with a tackle eligible pass play.

Dobbs took the snap and handed off to the left tackle, who rolled out to pass. Dariush Rad, however, met the big lineman with a hard hit, forcing a hurried throw which went straight up in the air.

"I just tried to get up in his face," Rad said. "I figured he might panic if I did."

That brought up fourth down. Dobbs hit Todd with a short pass, who pitched it to speedster Brent Gage. Gage was promptly tackled, and the ball was turned over on downs.

[SEE PAGE 6]

BYRON WRIGHT puts heat on Jal's Joe Dobbs during Friday night's 21-17 victory over the Panthers. Wright came up with several key plays during the win, but Dobbs passed the Warriors silly — 10 for 19 for 263 yards.

Sportin' Life

... a column of opinion ...

by

Mark Bagby

This is the time of the year that always gets to me.

Baseball is wrapping up, football is just starting and hockey and basketball are in their pre-seasons, for crying out loud.

Why do they do this to us?

Do you realize just how much time you'll spend glued to the tube quaffing tall, cool ones — and watching teams with players you never heard of a) score touchdowns, b) hit homers, c) make saves or d) stuff.

After a while, the best part of it gets to be the commercials. Really, and unfortunately.

How some folks do it, I'll never know. I can't. I've tried. I used to watch any sports event on television. For a while, that 24 hour a day sports network sounded like a good deal to me, although some of the stuff, like the Lower Allegheny Kayak Championships, ain't exactly my cup of tea.

I will agree, however, ESPN (whatever that stands for) has done a pretty good job covering sports you might not see otherwise.

But good grief, who's going to watch Yale and Dartmouth battle for the Ivy League title, when the game is broadcast at 3 a.m.?

I won't. At one time I would, but now I draw the line at 2 a.m.

I was hoping — really hoping — ESPN would wind up being like other pay television channels — no commercials. Nothing I hate more than to have fourth and goal from the one with three seconds left, "and now a brief word from our sponsor."

In all fairness, network television really helped the growth of modern athletics. They made superstars out of folks who might not have ever been noticed. It used to be just up to the newspapers, but then newsmen and radio made Jesse Owens, Herman Brix, Bronko Nagurski, Jim Thorpe, the Four Horsemen, George Gipp, Sid Luckman, Sammy Baugh, Bobby Jones, Bill Tilden, Babe Didrikson Zaharias, they all became famous, and rightfully so due to the media. (I know I left out a lot of people, like Babe Ruth, Red Grange, but if I tried to list all the famous sports figures of this century I could probably fill up this whole issue. And it wouldn't be real interesting reading, either.)

Then there was television. Television brought us the famous "sudden death" game between the Colts and the Giants, which had about as much to do with making pro football popular as anything.

It brought us the World Series, and Roger Maris' 61st homer, and Hank Aaron's 715th.

It brought us Bob Beamon's incredible 29 foot jump in the '68 Olympics, and the incredible Ethiopian, Abebe Bikila, who won the 1960 and '64 marathons.

It brought us Wilt the Stilt, and UCLA's domination of college basketball, a young tough boxer named Cassius Clay, who used the media better than it ever used itself. It's brought us all these great things, and more.

It also brought us the "Heidi" game, switching over from the Jets-Raiders AFL title game to Johanna Spyril's classic tale. In so doing, TV missed an incredible come from behind win (I still remember watching Daryle Lamonica fade back to throw that pass ...)

Unfortunately, television also brought us commercials.

Some of them are pretty good — some of the sports figures who have been in those bear commercials are pretty good, and heck, ol' Farrah Fawcett-whats-her-name got her start shavin' Joe Willie's face. Willie's face.

But on the whole, television has messed up more games than I care to remember. How many times have you been watching a game, and all of a sudden, with things getting real crucial, they break for a commercial?

And then, by golly, let's show you — via the miracle of instant replay of course — that 75 yard touchdown toss. After the kickoff, if nobody minds waiting, that is. Thanks.

Now I realize commercials make it possible for us to view the program. The networks won't foot the bill, the lousy 14% — so they sell people their time. (Now why they won't pay for it out of their own pockets for all us sports nuts is beyond me. Avaricious usurers ...)

Television also brought us outrageous salaries for pro players.

See, when sport became big business — when 65 million of this country's 300 million will watch one game, the networks, see, can charge $200,000 for a minute's worth of time. (That's what? $12,000,000 an hour? Wow.)

Then, since they're earning so much, and the league gets paid for the rights to the game, the players want their slice of the pie. And the slice keeps getting bigger all the time.

Those things all went hand in hand, of course. They've been televising football games for 30 years, but the exorbitant salary demands have been going on for about 15 years, and you got to give ol' Joe Willie Namath credit for that. He was the first — $400,000 for five years. (Heck, it took him four years to get them a Super Bowl title. He got a year's pay free.)

So I was hoping maybe things would get simpler with ESPN. They didn't, and there's just so much money to be made, and that's why they have commercials too.

When can we get rid of the commercials? Why, when fools like you and me stop watching every sports related event on the tube.

I'd rather die first.

RUNNING TO DAYLIGHT is halfback Ricky Dennis, who scored the Warriors' first six pointer on a five yard sprint.

JV footballers beat Tularosa

Ruidoso's junior varsity Warrior football team finally made it into the win column Saturday with a 6-2 triumph over Tularosa's junior varsity.

The Warriors scored in the first quarter on a 30 yard sprint by Steve Benway, but had three other scores called back on penalties and an early whistle.

Tularosa did not score until the fourth quarter, when a Ruidoso sweep deep in its own territory failed and ballcarrier was tackled in the end zone for a safety.

The win gives the junior varsity a 1-1 record. Next opponent is the Capitan junior varsity here October 6.

Kannady wins bowling tourney

Three strikes in baseball means you're out, but three strikes to Ruidoso's Jack Kannady Jr., means he's $1,000 richer.

Kannady, local professional bowler, was competing in the Classic Bowlers Association Tournament of Champions September 14 in Albuquerque.

The final match had boiled down to the last frame. He needed three strikes to win.

Kannady, who owns about 30 bowling balls, calmly leveled 10 pins three successive times and captured the winner's purse of $1,000.

"You get lucky once in a while," he said.

Volleyballers finish in fifth place in Capitan tournament

Ruidoso's lady Warrior volleyballers won the consolation bracket in Saturday's Capitan tournament, finishing fifth overall.

The losses lost to second place finisher Floyd in their first match, 15-17, 9-15. Then, they defeated Carrizozo, 9-15, 15-5, 15-10 and Mountainair, 15-9, 10-15, 15-10 to take the consolation bracket.

"I am really pleased," coach Margie Andrus said. "I was real proud of the girls and the way they played. Even though they lost to Floyd, they played really well."

The ladies scored first on Floyd, and played even with them up to 9-9, before Floyd pulled away, 14-9.

Then the lady Warriors came back and even took a 15-14 lead, before Floyd was true on three serves for the win.

"That just kind of took something out of us," Andrus said. "I think we'd have won the second game if we had played the second game as tough as we played the first one."

"But I'm pleased. We had our bad moments, and we had our good ones too. We really tried hard."

The worst part about playing a squad like Floyd in the first round, she said, "is if you lose, you suddenly can't get second, third or even fourth place in the tournament," she said. "The best you can do is fifth."

In the other matches, the lady Warriors had a lot of trouble with Carrizozo, a team they beat in the season opener.

"They must have had an off night the first time they played us," she said, "because they played awfully well, a lot better than they played the first time. They played us a heck of a first game, but we won the others. We had a lot of trouble with our serves."

Mountainair was no pushover either.

"They weren't a real offensive team," she said. "But they played extremely consistent defense. They kept picking up our spikes and tried to make us make the mistakes. They had a good team."

Roswell Goddard's junior varsity won the tourney, followed by Floyd, Dexter, Capitan and Ruidoso.

Karen Boone was the only Ruidoso lass named to the all tournament team.

"Karen played really well," she said, "but so did the other girls."

Next action for the ladies is Tuesday against Dexter there. Game time is 6 p.m.

KAREN BOONE made the all-tournament team in Capitan, the only Ruidoso lass so honored.

Gymnastic squad wins

Ruidoso Gymnastics Academy's competitive Class Four squad won a meet here Saturday, and the Class Three squad placed second.

The Class Fours edged out Albuquerque's Gold Cup Gymnastics School 82.5 to 79.2 to notch their first upset win.

In vaulting, Ruidoso's Jackie Goodrum won the event with a 7.5. Other Ruidoso ladies and their scores: Staci Spencer, 7.2, second; Nicki Alder, 6.7, third; Karen Gann, 6.46, fourth.

In bars, Ann Cull was second with a 7.2; Amy Richardson, third, 6.5, Goodrum and Gann tied for fifth with 6.3 and Alder was sixth with a 5.9.

Hilary Heid won the balance beam with a 7.1, followed by Gann with a 7.0, Richardson at fifth with 6.3 and Spencer with 6.2 for sixth.

Heid also won floor exercises with 7.4.

Richardson was second with 7.9, Gann had third with a 6.96, and Alder was sixth with a 6.7.

In the Class Three meet, Albuquerque Gymnastics School edged out Ruidoso, 76.8 to 63.2. Gold Cup placed third with 61.7.

In individual events, Amy Thornton finished fourth in bars and sixth in beam with scores of 6.5 and 4.6; Mary Gaddy was second in bars and sixth in vault with 7.0 and 4.6; and Angela Jones was third in bars and fifth in vault with 6.8 and 4.7.

The ladies will compete next Saturday in Las Cruces with squads from Las Cruces and Alamogordo.

Warriors nip Jal

That capped an incredible comeback which saw the Warriors block a punt to set up one score, and a 74 yard scoring pass provided the other points.

The Warriors began the game like they might blow the Panthers off the field. Ramirez' opening kickoff was extremely short, and the Warriors recovered. They quickly drove to the Jal 17, but Neal fumbled the center snap. The key play in the drive was a pass from Neal to Dale, good for 25 yards.

Jal recovered the fumble but had to punt in four downs. Ruidoso could not move and on fourth down, Neal went back to pass. Slick turf, however, put him on the ground and Jal took over on downs. With good passing and the aid of two penalties, Jal was finally able to move the ball, eventually reaching the Warrior 35 before a fumble killed the drive.

Again the Warriors marched downfield, reaching the Jal 15 yard line, before another fumble killed that drive. It was the second of three fumbles the Warriors would lose.

The Panthers moved to the Warrior 30, but lost the ball on downs. Unable to move, Gene Reeves punted for the Warriors.

On a third down from the Ruidoso 38, Jal sent in a new quarterback, who took the snap and pitched it to Dobbs, who was playing halfback. He fired a scoring strike to a streaking Todd, who was well behind the Warrior secondary. The extra point kick was short, and with 3:58 left in the first half, Jal led, 6-0.

The Warriors returned the kickoff to nearly midfield, but turned the ball over on a second down fumble.

Dobbs and Todd went to work, and Dobbs hit Todd at the five yard line with a 45 yard bomb, but time expired before the Panthers could get another play off.

Dobbs finished the evening with 10 completions in 19 attempts.

Jal outplayed the Warriors in the first half, holding the Warriors to 56 yards total offense. The Panthers had 225.

The Warriors took the second half kickoff at their 25 and marched to the Jal 13 before they ran out of steam, failing to make the first down on a fourth and four. The key plays in the drive were a 22 yard pass from Neal to Don Nunley and two runs by Dennis for 11 and nine yards, the latter coming on a fourth and one situation.

A tough Ruidoso defense stopped Jal there, and on fourth and six at the 22, the Panthers attempted to punt. But Rad led the defensive charge though and blocked the kick. Robert Langston recovered for Ruidoso on the five.

On first and goal, Dennis banged over for six points. Ramirez' kick was wide, so with 6:17 left in the third period, the score was deadlocked at 6-6.

But not for long. The Panthers took the kickoff, and on second down, Dobbs pitched to Gage, who lateraled back to Dobbs. He then threw it to Todd, who sprinted to the end zone to notch an 80 yard scoring play. Gage took a pass from Dobbs in for a two point conversion and Jal led, 14-6.

"They liked to ate us alive with those flea flickers," Stierwalt commented. "We tried to work on 'em in practice, but we never could make 'em work like they did. They sure could, though."

On the following series after the kickoff, the Warriors almost scored as Neal found Benway open deep. His pass was just off Benway's fingertips and the drive stalled. The teams exchanged punts before the Warriors got a drive going.

At 10:10 left in the fourth quarter, Ruidoso faced third and 10 at the Warrior 28. Neal flipped a short pass to Benway, who broke a tackle, picked up a couple of blocks and scored 74 yards later. He capped it with a two point conversion run.

"Steve told me he thought he better do something to make up for the one he dropped," Stierwalt said. "He thought I was gonna get mad at him."

But Stierwalt had more reason to be angry with the Warrior defense. It could not stop Jal's razzle dazzle offense.

After the kickoff, the Panthers had a first down at their own 42. Dobbs shot a short pass to Todd, who pitched to Gage. Neal finally pulled down the speedster 36 yards later.

There the drive stalled, thanks to great defensive plays by Bill Huey and Byron Wright. On fourth and seven, Jal attempted a 36 yard field goal, splitting the uprights for the three pointer and a short lived 17-14 lead.

The win upped Ruidoso's record to 3-1, and evened Jal's at 2-2.

"We were sure glad to beat Jal," Stierwalt said. "We knew they had a good ball club, but we'd been thinking about last year ever since (Jal won last year, 34-6). Their passing game sure had our secondary coming up. They got a real workout."

"We were confident we could win — I don't think we were ever overconfident. We probably could have blown them out if we'd have gotten those two scores in the first quarter (when Ruidoso fumbled on the 17 and 15), and I'd like to have seen the score if they hadn't run all those flea flickers."

"But we were sure glad to win, I'll tell you."

The next Warrior opponent is Estancia there, this Friday at 7:30 p.m.

THE 1980 WARRIOR Homecoming King and Queen, crowned Friday night at the Ruidoso-Jal game were Scott Neal and Connie Howard. Scott is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard C. Hall, and Connie is the daughter of Mrs. Judith Howard.

Jennings and Jarrett win tournament

The team of Dave Jennings and Mark Jarrett, with 198, won the 54 hole Third Annual Johnny Williams Memorial Partnership Tournament held Friday-Sunday at Cree Meadows Golf Course.

They were followed by the team of Tom Hornbuckle and Ted Martinez, who shot 185, and Jim Maddox and Dave Krezer, who had 186.

In the first flight, H. L. Heath and James Pritchett shot 210, narrowly edging out Ed Mayer and Stormy Edwards, last year's first flight winners. In third place were Jack Wynne and Tom Woodal with 214.

Bill Hirschfeld and Wayne Brown won the second flight with 224 over Bob Sneath and Mel Walker, who shot 228. Charlie Stalcup and Rusty Robinson shot 228 to place third.

In the third flight, Bob Dunn and Charles Dunn placed first with 214, over Buck Morrison and Monty Stanforth at 226 and Ira Bogard and Todd Perret at 231.

Fourth flight winners were Odel Spurlin and Eddie Spurlin at 243, followed by Wally Jankowiak and Bubba Werner at 251, and Ralph Rush and Frank Sayer shot 252.

Five flights of eight teams each competed in the soggy three day tourney.

Junior Ski Racers have new head coach

Ruidoso's Sierra Blanca Junior Ski Racers have a new coach.

He's Jamie Temple, 24, from Boulder, Colorado. Temple succeeds Chuck Bent, who was unable to coach this year due to prior commitments in his native New Hampshire.

Temple has limited coaching experience, but skied 12 years in Vail, Colorado as well as a year on the United States Ski Team, followed by a year on Colorado's national collegiate championship team in 1977.

He moved to Ruidoso in May and applied for the job in June.

He looks forward to the upcoming season, he said.

"Some of the kids seem to be real talented," he said, "and they seem to want to improve their skiing skills. I'm looking forward to coaching."

He will begin a dry land program in October, which will include running, stretching, strength and agility exercises.

He also has a benefit ticket sale planned, called a "snow derby." Tickets are $5 per guess for when the village will first receive at least three inches of snow, and the guess is broken into month, day, hour and minute.

The winner will receive $500, with second and third best guesses receiving $200 and $100 respectively.

Tickets are available from all team members.

"We hope to get a lot of cooperation from the community," Temple said. "It's always shown a lot of support, which isn't the case in a lot of places. We can do really well if the people help support us."

HUNTER-JUMPER horses make the hurdles before or after the jump or they will be look easy to clear, but they must not hesitate downgraded by the judges.

RIDERS in the Hunter Jumper Show held this weekend at Ruidoso Downs maintain a "low profile" to run the course.

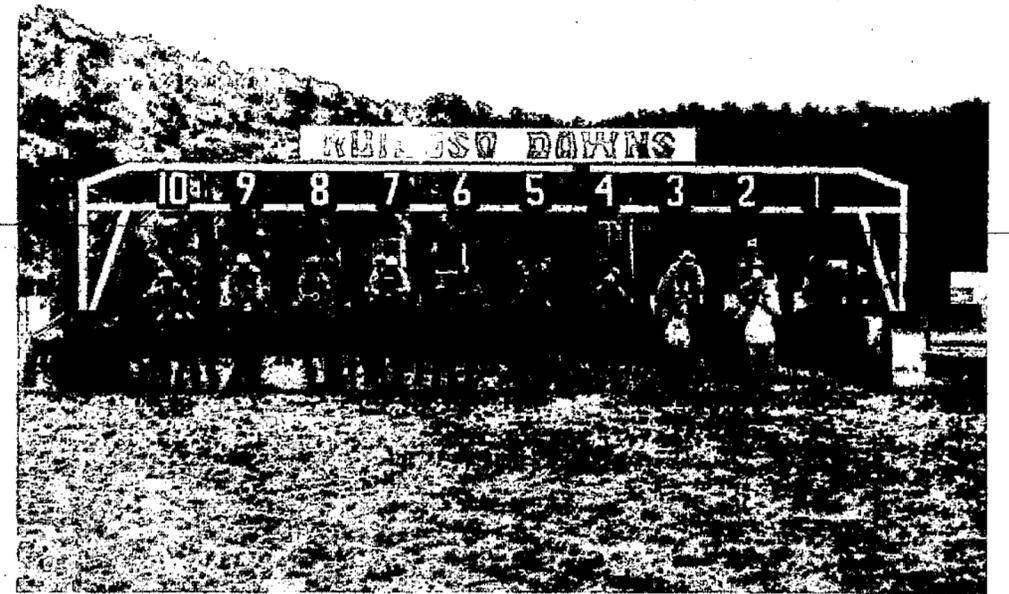

RODEO TIME? This rider seems to be seated on a bucking bronc, but actually he has just cleared a jump on the hunter course Sunday.

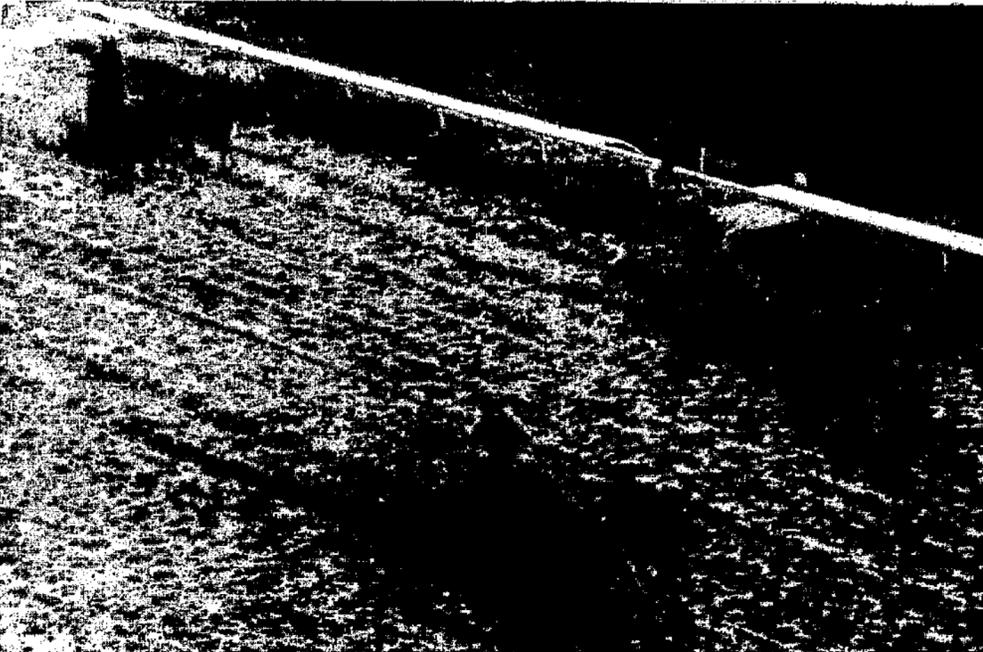

RAIN on Friday and an impending threat of rain Saturday and Sunday made riders in the Hunter-Jumper show keep raincoats close at hand while they waited to perform.

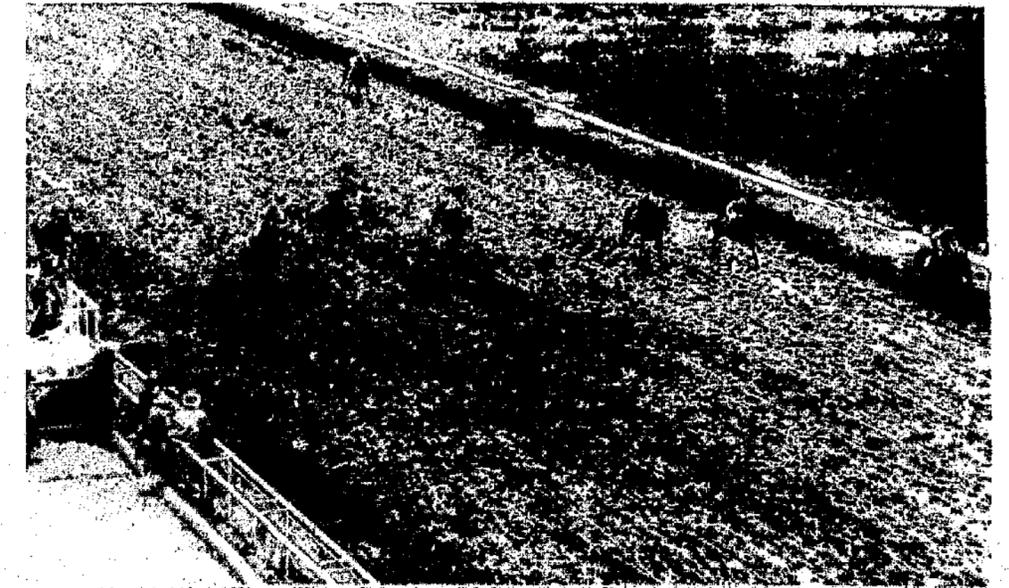

A PART OF THE CROWD turning out for Sunday's mule races at Ruidoso Downs

THIS STRING OF MULES broke out of the starting gate pretty even Stephen

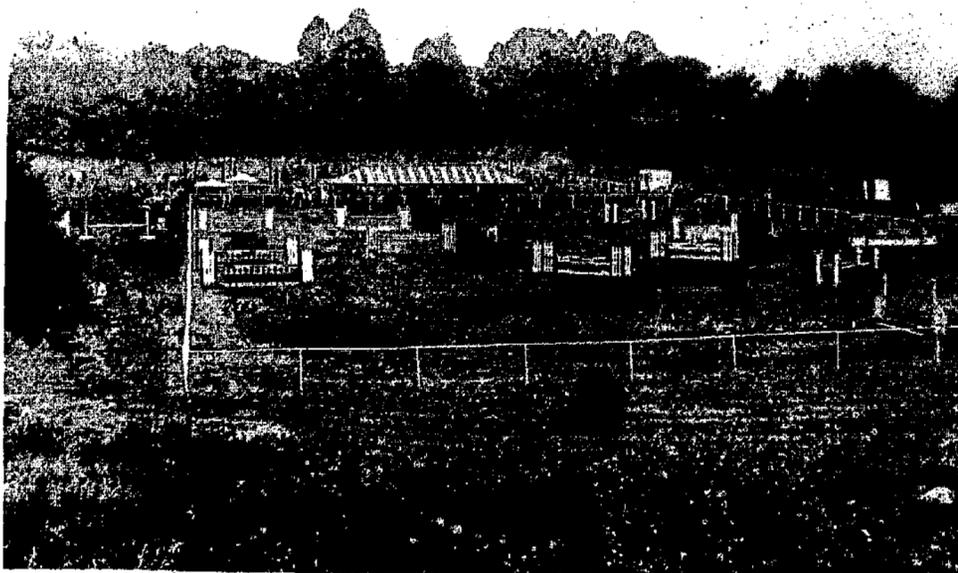

ROOSTER TAILS and flying mud made Saturday's chariot races a bit messy

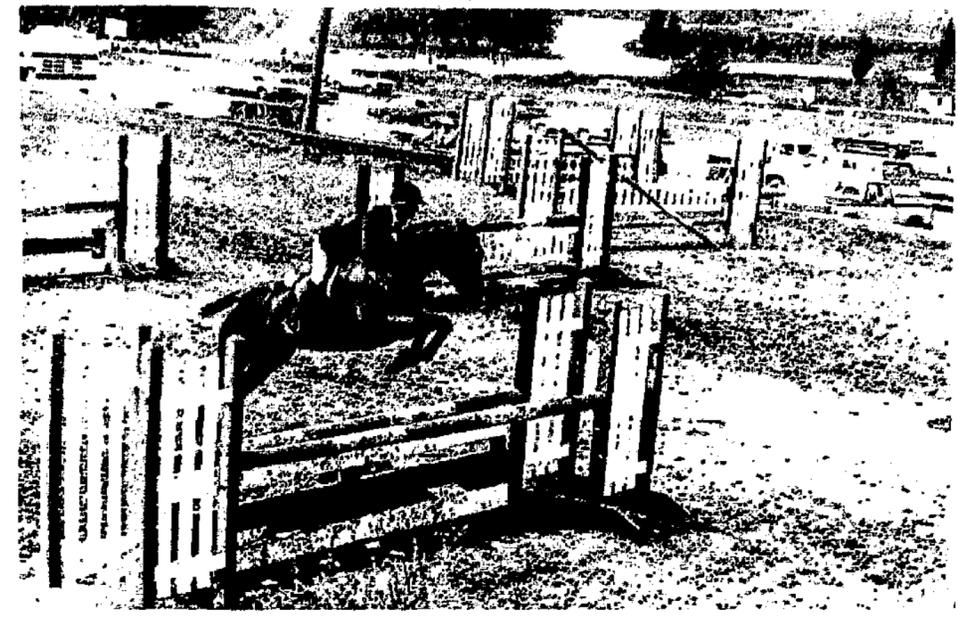

SLOPPING TRACK conditions Saturday didn't seem to bother these mules

THE MEADOW where the Ruidoso Hondo Valley Hospital Charity Hunter Jumper Show was held this weekend near Ruidoso Downs Race Track, was praised as one of the most beautiful shows attended by many show participants.

ALMOST FLYING over the hurdles in the Class 71 Competition Sunday was Becky Warner. The routine was good enough to win her a first place standing in the 15-17 age group. Below, she accepts a ribbon from "The Pink Panther," otherwise known as Ralph Romero.

THIS HORSE seems to have clipped off his rear legs, but he was displaying good jumping form at the Ruidoso-Hondo Valley Hospital Charity Hunter Jumper Show Sunday.

 IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF LINCOLN COUNTY, STATE OF NEW MEXICO
 REED STIRMAN, d/b/a, STIRMAN CONSTRUCTION, Plaintiff, vs.
 WALTER SICKELKA and wife, ELSIE SICKELKA, Defendant.
 Cause No. CV-90-90 Division I

NOTICE OF SALE
 NOTICE is hereby given that on September 17, 1980, the District Court of Lincoln County, New Mexico, in Case Number CV-90-90, styled "REED STIRMAN, d/b/a, STIRMAN CONSTRUCTION v. WALTER SICKELKA and wife, ELSIE SICKELKA," entered its Judgment and Decree of Foreclosure in favor of the STIRMAN CONSTRUCTION, the Plaintiff in said cause, and against WALTER SICKELKA and wife, ELSIE SICKELKA in the amount of $1,512.20, plus interest in the amount of $12.24, attorney's fees in the amount of $490.00, costs in the amount of $33.00, together with interest thereon at the rate of 8% per annum from date of Judgment until paid; and further decreed foreclosure of the mortgage of Plaintiff and ordered the undersigned as Special Master, to sell at public sale the property covered by said mortgage to satisfy the aforesaid judgment, said property being situated in Lincoln County, New Mexico, and being more particularly described as follows:
 Lot 2, Block 2, APACHE HILLS SUBDIVISION, to the Village of Ruidoso, New Mexico.
 NOTICE IS FURTHER GIVEN that on the 27th day of October, 1980, at 1:30 P.M. on the steps of the Village Hall of Ruidoso, New Mexico, the undersigned, as Special Master, will sell the above described property to the highest bidder for cash to satisfy the judgment of the STIRMAN CONSTRUCTION against the Defendants WALTER SICKELKA and wife, ELSIE SICKELKA, in the amount above set forth to which shall be added at the time of the sale the balance of the costs of this sale, if any, and the costs of sale, including a Special Master's fee. The time of said sale may be postponed in the event that the Special Master, in his judgment, deems it advisable.
 Dated this 23rd day of September, 1980.

Mary has a little land.

Everywhere that Mary went, she saw that real estate was a sound investment. So, she used a little leverage to get started and bought some of her own. Now she has a tax shelter and a hedge against inflation. Later on, she could exchange her property and which her built-up land grew into a big estate.

Her CENTURY 21 Investment Specialist can help. He's in touch with over 7,500 CENTURY 21 offices across North America. Mary can invest in anything from apartment complexes to farms. Across the street, or across the country, A CENTURY 21 Investment Specialist can help you too. Call now and find out how you can get... a little land that's sure to grow.

The Dreamer

BY DANNIE STORM

"The Village Blacksmith" by Henry Wadsworth Longfellow has long been one of our most beloved poets.

Time was when the blacksmith was not only a favorite person but also extremely important in our lives. He made the horse shoes by hand, and hammered out all our tools and weapons, built our wagon wheels, made the metal parts for our ships, fixed and repaired things, and performed endless tasks necessary to our very lives.

Surely this is the reason the name "Smith" is the most numerous of our names.

Really and truly, the blacksmith is still very much with us.

Years ago our brother Lynn brought out a branding iron for the cows that he had made himself. When I accidentally broke this, Bob Lambert, "The Arizona Kid" my next door neighbor, made me another one of his blacksmith forge in his back yard.

Pete Wood, up in his welding shop in Ruidoso Downs, is the modern day "Village Blacksmith", cut out of the same cloth as the beloved character in Longfellow's world famous poem.

Pete fixes everything, mends everything, and makes anything you can think of out of metal. In personality also he is very much like Longfellow's blacksmith. He put together the flag pole which holds the flag out south of the house -- a tribute to the kindness of himself, Ken Green, Mel O'Reilly and Bones Wright.

The other day I took Lynn's branding iron up to his shop; and he cheerfully agreed to make a duplicate.

Pete Wood

Under the Weather

No sooner does Pappy Johnson begin mending a little from his broken ribs suffered in the fall from a plum tree than Pete Wood is laid up with broken ribs from a fall from a horse.

He is mending very well now at home, and we wish him a speedy recovery.

Just for old time's sake, and to cheer Pete up a little, let us recite "The Village Blacksmith" by Longfellow:

Under the spreading chestnut tree
The village smithy stands;
The smith, a mighty man is he
With large and sinewy hands
The muscles of his brawny arms
Are strong as iron bands.

His hair is crisp and black and long,
His face is like the tan;
His brow is wet with honest sweat,
He earns what'e're he can,
He looks the whole world in the face,
For he owes not any man.

Week in, week out, from morn till night
You can hear his bellows blow;
You can hear him swing his heavy sledge
With measured beat and slow,
Like the sexton ringing the village bell
When the evening sun is low.

And children coming home from school
Look in at the open door;
They love to see the flaming forge,
And hear the bellows roar,
And catch the burning sparks that fly
Like chaff from a threshing floor.

He goes on Sunday to the church
And sits among his boys;
He hears the parson pray and preach,
He hears his daughter's voice
Singing in the village choir,
And it makes his heart rejoice.

It sounds to him like her mother's voice,
Singing in Paradise!
He needs must think of her once more,
As in the grave she lies;
And with his hard, rough hand he wipes
A tear out of his eyes.

Tolling -- rejoicing -- sorrowing,
Onward through life he goes;
Each morning sees some task begin,
Each evening sees its close;
Something attempted, something done,
Has earned a night's repose.

Thanks, thanks, to thee my worthy friend,
For the lesson thou hast taught!
Thus on the flaming forge of life
Our fortunes must be wrought;
Thus on its sounding anvil shaped
Each burning deed and thought."

SANTA FE — Don't become a federal judge if you can help it. Those poor guys have nothing but trouble.

Take Judge Santiago Campos here in Santa Fe.

He spends months listening to boring testimony about who owns the daily newspaper in this town, only to find the man he awards it to isn't sure he wants it back.

Then he has the Republicans claiming they ought to be on the ballot in the second Congressional district in November, though they didn't want to be there in June; followed by Dorothy Runnels saying independents aren't a political party and shouldn't be bound by laws which apply to parties.

Poor fellow just can't win. Now he's called on to decide whether or not the Census Bureau counted us correctly.

That's a decision with a big charge on it; it governs the amount of money (dough, dinero, $$$$$, etc.) we get from Uncle Sam.

Now that's something really serious.

Though we all deplore the constant passing-out of money which goes on in Washington, we want to be there with our hand out when it's going on.

(Those who think about such matters are not unaware that it might be to the government's advantage to undercut a little. Who's gonna say they're wrong? What can you prove if you can't demand a recount?)

But this particular census might also determine whether our state gets a third representative in the lower house of Congress.

Now that's something to conjure with. Can you imagine the fun some future Legislature will have when it gets to carve the state into three equal parts for selecting such a representative?

Someone will say, "Bernalillo county's got a third of the voters. Let's just give them their own Congressperson and keep two others for the rest of the state."

And somebody else will say, "Nuts to that noise. Albuquerque will be even more insufferable if it has its own personal Congressman. Let's carve Bernalillo county up."

One plan we've seen already divides Albuquerque into three parts, one for each district to be created.

That'll keep the big city from dominating anything and will let the folks in the other 31 counties sleep better at night.

Of course the people who eventually make this division will not be simon pure, disinterested citizens. They will themselves be members of political parties, out to do their best for their particular congregations.

You can bet your bottom dollar one district will be almost totally in Spanish-speaking territory, as it is today, except some effort will be made to wrest it back from the Republicans who by a fluke have owned it for the last 12 years.

A second will be a "conservative" seat, from a district on the east and south sides of the state. That will be for those people who tend to think and talk like Republicans but whose party will always be Officially Democratic.

Which leaves us a third district of considerable interest. If it comes down the western part of New Mexico, it will contain the damndest and most interesting mixture of ranchera, Navajo, San Juan olmen and lower Rio Grande valley politics which has ever been assembled. That sucker will be like the United Nations.

They could end up never electing anybody.

Sense & Nonsense

U.S. Sen. Pete Domenici

It started with Lawton Chiles. He's the Democrat Senator from Florida who serves with me on the Aging Committee. He's a great hunter and often invites me and my boys to join him on hunting trips. This time it was dove hunting. The three of us went out into the Maryland countryside, to an area Lawton knows that doesn't have very many hunters.

We really did well — bagged as many as we were allowed. David, my 17-year-old, was shooting a 16 gauge pump shotgun for the first time and bagged 9 birds. Peter, older and more experienced, managed to get a couple more. It was a great afternoon, sunny and warm. The woods were really beautiful, but very dense, with the kind of foliage we don't see in New Mexico.

When we got home, the kids pitched in to pick and clean the doves. Our family really loves wild game — maybe because I do the cooking. This time I tried a new recipe. Usually I fry 'em a little, then simmer in a tomato sauce — much like my mother's spaghetti recipe. This time it was almost a pot pie, with stewed dove cooked in a chicken broth gravy. You didn't know I was a gourmet cook, did you? Well, the kids ate it up. (But then, when you've got eight kids, they'll eat almost anything!)

The next morning, I was driving to work, down the rolling, tree-lined George Washington Parkway, when I felt an itch, right in the small of the back. So I scratched it ... and scratched it ... and scratched it.

By the time I got to the Seante Office Building and got involved in the usual chaos of hearings, floor votes and telephone calls, I forgot about it. That week we were working on a Senate amendment to limit the importation of foreign uranium. The Energy Committee was holding hearings on my bill to create the Chaco Canyon National Historical Park, and there were several important appropriations bills under consideration on the floor.

As if that weren't enough, I had to listen to testimony on the Hatfield-Nade National Park, proposed for Montana, and staff members bugging me about unfinished business — read this, sign that. By this time it was five o'clock and I was settled behind the desk, coat off, drinking a Diet Pepsi and signing letters.

Then I started to itch. After scratching idly for a few minutes, I noticed that wasn't getting it. My arms were itching, and my shoulders. But what was really itching was the small of my back. By the time I got home that night, Mother Macree! I had red welts all over my arms and a big red patch the size of a sack right in the middle of my back — about like the sack I'd carried the doves in. It didn't take long for the doctors to figure out my problem — poison ivy.

"But David walked around all day with his shirt off and he's not itching!" I protested. It's not fair. David gets the doves; papa gets the poison ivy.

It seems that poison ivy produces a resin that can permeate clothes, and the doves' feathers were probably covered with it. So now I know all about poison ivy — and I'm still itching.

It's funny the things I've learned in the United States Senate. I've learned a lot about energy, and an awful lot about the federal budget, and a fair amount about national defense. I didn't really figure on learning about poison ivy. At least I'd rather have held a hearing.

Oh, and by the way ... the next time Lawton Chiles calls ... tell him I've gone fishing.

Clipped comment

CHANGE? NO WAY!

Folks down in the Second Congressional district are pretty unhappy with the shoving of David King, the governor's nephew, down their throats as a successor to the late Harold Runnels. They probably would accept anyone except King, but it appears now they have no choice and David will be in congress for two years — probably no more.

The mess has developed several interesting sidelights, not the least of which is you don't have to be a resident of the congressional district to run for congress in that district. Apparently so long as you move in by the time you take office, there is no problem.

Because of the confusion, a number of newspapers in the southern part of the state are calling for reforms in the state election code and some clarifications of those laws. No way, fellows.

Politicians write those laws and they aren't about to make them too specific. So long as they remain vague, any judge can rule in any manner he wishes, simply citing the vagueness of the law and no one can really challenge it. Residency laws are the worst offenders.

There is no real attempt to require that a person reside in the city, county, legislative district or congressional district in order to seek office in that district. The politicians simply like to make the simple voter believe that is the law.

Politicians write no law they can't legally break, so barring a miracle, don't expect any serious changes in our present election laws despite the David King Story. — The Rio Grande Sun, Espanola.

ON SKI RUN ROAD

Worth Smelser, district engineer with the State Highway Department, Roswell, personally inspected State Road 533 — Ski Run Road — last Wednesday 5:30 and he did allow as how it's in pretty good condition.

It's likely that this inspection was precipitated by editorials, pictures and news stories charging deterioration of the road appearing in The News ... coupled with action by the Chamber of Commerce being taken to have the road properly repaired.

In any event ... Smelser said the road is in better shape now than it ever has been ... it's solid — it isn't going anywhere ... that it did not receive a hotmix overlay because there were no funds for that purpose ... that the safety cables, to prevent cars from going down the side of the mountain, will do their job.

Ergo ... the pessimists will adopt a wait and see attitude ... the optimists will keep their fingers crossed ... and, though we've no quarrel with Smelser, if that road goes to pot, as several local businessmen think it will, highway commission chairman Louis Whitlock had best be prepared for a demand for action from the folks here in Harmony Valley.

There's this much about Worth ... if'n things work out as you are confident they will ... and all goes well this winter on Ski Run Road ... when you bring out that crow for us to eat ... will you also furnish the salt?

MOTORCYCLES A COMIN'

Long 'bout tomorrow, things'll live up a mite in Harmony Valley ... and doing the livin' up will be those thousands of motorcycles here for Aspencade 10 ... the 10th anniversary of motorcyclists' conventions here.

Now ... from past experience ... we know that those motorcycle jockeys here for all the goings on planned by promoter T.H. Thompson is a mighty fine bunch of folks ... with the only difference between them and a lot of us being, they likes doing their thing on motorcycles.

So ... whilst they're here ... chat chat with as many of the convention delegates as you can ... take in the trade show this Friday and Saturday nights ... why some of those outfits on the floor of Convention Center'll flat leave you gaping ... at things other'n the price tags.

And, if'n you're the outdoor type, won't hurt none for you to meander into the campground areas ... why these motorcyclists has camping setups you won't believe ... especially when you realize they done tote all that gear on ... or behind ... their bikes.

So ... to all you motorcyclist convention delegates ... welcome to Harmony Valley ... and enjoy yourselves ... mix a mite with the natives ... you'll find they're as gregarious a lot as yourselves ... watch a little more out than usual as you tool around our streets ... and I hope you learn why those of us who live here in Harmony Valley like it.

HORSIES HAS WENT

All the equines as was here the whole summer long done up and pulled out ... on schedule ... September 2 ... but then more horales came ... and there was the Arabian Horse Show ... followed by the Hunter/Jumper Show as wound up yesterday ... and both attractions was something new ... and did show us that horses can do more than run straight ... or in circles.

Yep ... lotsa those show horses and riders showed lots of class ... and did their thing well ... and pranced proudly ... and jumped gracefully ... and all kinds things ... and we can but hope that they'll come back.

SEWER SYSTEM WORK

Long about Wednesday ... being's Albuquerque contractor Don Timberman has 360 working days to get our new system into the ground ... and ready to go ... there should be plenty of activity where those new lines are to be laid.

Now all this digging trenches is gonna cause us locals some inconvenience ... 'cause they's gonna be closin' some streets while they dig ... and lays pipe ... and covers it ... and ain't much nothin' a body can do except find another way to get from point A to point B ... no?

And, to save trees, project engineer Quinton Daniel didn't cotton to my suggestion they pipe around the roots ... which is strange ... yes?

IT'S LEGAL — Ruidoso Downs police chief Ray Garner stands by an alcohol still which he and his staff have erected for the purpose of fueling motor vehicles owned by the village. The still was expected to produce the first batch of high grade alcohol by today.

To produce fuel Ruidoso Downs police busily operating still

BY GWYNETH JONES
Staff Writer/Photographer

Usually, when you hear stories involving police and alcohol stills, it's a matter of the law enforcement officers smashing the apparatus after tracking moonshiners into the backwoods.

But the Ruidoso Downs Police Department has added a new twist to the story. They've erected their own alcohol-producing still on village property, with the aim of providing the village with a cheap source of fuel to power their motor vehicles.

Starting with a mash mixture of yeast, barley, sugar and water, the police wait for fermentation to begin. The mash is then mixed with more water and sawdust, from which the alcohol is produced.

It's not a complicated procedure, according to Downs police chief Ray Garner. A little basic chemistry, drafting and "horse sense," was applied to the building of the still. (And incidentally, horses contributed to the project in other ways — by adding some "organic material" to the sawdust, which was supplied by the Ruidoso Downs racetrack.)

Garner picked up a water tank which had been abandoned along a roadway, repaired a small hole in the tank, and converted it into the main "cooker," which is currently being heated by a small camping stove.

The first "batch" of alcohol was expected by today, after the liquids are heated and cooled several times during the distillation process.

The still consists of the main cooker, and three "cooling towers." Since alcohol will evaporate at a lower temperature than water, the alcohol can be separated from the water through a heating and condensation process which takes place in each of the three towers, Garner said.

The towers also contain a total of 16 screens which trap even more of the water, constantly increasing the concentration of alcohol. Their goal is an alcohol of about 180 proof, which Garner said can be used to fuel motor vehicles alone, or can be mixed with gasoline to make a homemade version of gasohol.

Garner also emphasized that the alcohol is definitely not of the drinking variety. "It's toxic enough to kill a person," he said.

The police may also manufacture diesel fuel with the alcohol, by adding 30 weight motor oil.

Total cost of the still materials will amount to approximately $100, Garner said, not including the free labor supplied by the police officers. Production costs will probably amount to about 30 cents per gallon, which could save the village a tremendous amount in fuel costs, he said.

The village currently spends an average of $1.20 per gallon for fuel.

There are several other such stills, owned by government entities, now in operation in New Mexico, Garner said. If the current experiment is successful, he added, the department will seek a grant from the Southeastern New Mexico Economic Development District, to construct a larger and more sophisticated model, which could produce a greater amount of fuel.

Current production is about two to five gallons per hour, Garner estimated, but that should soon be increased to about 20 gallons per hour.

The alcoholic content of the mash will be constantly increased, which will mean a similar rate of increase in the finished product.

The advantages of alcohol fuels, Garner said, include the fact that engines burn cooler, carbon reduction is tremendous and general pollutants are reduced by about 20 percent.

Stills of this sort can be erected by individuals, Garner said. However, they should first contact the Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearm Division in Santa Fe, to become familiar with all the applicable rules and regulations.

Garner sees such alcohol production as a way to decrease dependence on fossil fuels. He is appalled by the amount of materials which he sees being wasted — material which could be turned into fuel.

"Look at all the sunflowers we had this year," Garner said. "A sunflower can produce a high grade of alcohol — it contains all the components you need."

Instead of creating huge dumps to bury such materials, Garner said, "it's about time the American people wised up and started putting them to good use."

And the police chief is definitely practicing what he preaches.

"We'll be using the by-products of the still to fertilize the park," he said. "Nothing will be wasted."

Sunland Park sets October 4 opener

A lot of sprucing-up and painting-up has been going on at Sunland Park in recent weeks as track officials prepare for the October 4 start of the new season.

In addition, the running surface has been checked and re-conditioned to make sure the horses have solid and safe footing.

Over the weekend, the racing strip opened for training. Horses are now on the track from 6 a.m. until 10 a.m. Last week, there were only some 200 horses on the grounds. But since the New Mexico State Fair wound up on Sunday, a big flow of horses to Sunland is now underway. Before the week is out, some 1,500 head will be on the grounds.

"In order to get the running surface ready for the new season, the first thing we did was peel off the old cushion," Track Superintendent Connie Madrid said. "Then we checked the base for low or soft spots, and we used engineers' instruments to make sure there were no high spots."

After determining that the surface was level, Madrid ordered his five-man crew to bring in 2,864 cubic yards of sand. This was spread over the base to create a new 3/4-inch cushion.

"The track is now in perfect condition," Madrid said. "It's fast, but it's also even, all the way around."

Bill Thomas, Sunland's administrative assistant, has been keeping his crew busy doing a lot of improvements throughout the barn area, grandstand and clubhouse. Working under the direction of general manager Finley MacGillivray, Thomas had his crew embark on a fairly comprehensive paint up project.

"All of the barns — 55 in all — have been painted a clean light beige," Thomas said. The effect, he said, really spruces up the barn area. The trim around the totalisator board has been perked up with a red, white and blue color scheme, and a lot of minor painting throughout the plant was completed last week.

During the summer, three-by-four foot concrete pads were installed (four for each barn). The manure bins are now placed on the concrete pads, making it far easier for the manure removal trucks to service the bins. (During rainy weather, the bins won't get stuck in mud.)

When the season opens, Sunland patrons will quickly notice the new overhead heating system. About 200 units have been installed in the grandstand and clubhouse. "It's a far more efficient system," Thomas said. "There's no pilot light, so there's no natural gas odor. Also, on a cold day, the grandstand and clubhouse can be heated up in a few minutes."

With demand for clubhouse seasonal seating again running at a high peak, Thomas has installed 14 more tables (each accommodating four patrons). Once again, all seating in the clubhouse will be sold on a seasonal basis. Thomas reports some accommodations are still available, but, like last year, he expects to be completely sold out by opening day.

Perhaps the most important new feature, as far as fans are concerned, is the installation of a computerized totalisator system. The system was introduced at Ruidoso Downs last summer, and quickly drew the endorsement of the fans. Since a variety of wagers can now be made at a given window, the result is shorter wagering lines and less time waiting in-line.

Included among the many minor improvements throughout the barn area is the establishment of two-way traffic in the path leading from the barns to the paddock. A pipe railing has been installed down the center. The idea, Thomas said, is to keep horses from spooking one another as they meet en route to the paddock or the barns.

Another new wrinkle in the barn area is the construction of an information booth near the entrance. The booth (a small office, in fact) will be staffed by a full time employee, who will relay phone messages to trainers, owners and other backside personnel.

Thomas reports season grandstand passes are available for the asking, free of charge. Patrons are asked to stop by the main office during normal business hours, or write to Sunland Park, Box One, Sunland Park, New Mexico 88043. A stamped self-addressed envelope must be enclosed.

The first two weekends of the new season will consist of Saturday and Sunday racing. Friday racing begins October 17. All programs will be staged in the afternoon. First post, for the first four weeks, is 1 p.m.

Except for a one week Yuletide break, racing will be staged each weekend through May 3. The two part season covers a total of 47 race days.

Pinon nuts well worth harvesting

"This year's statewide pinon nut crop does not look good. However, there should be fair crops in the Cibola National Forest near Magdalena and the Mount Taylor regions," said James Sals, Extension horticulturist for New Mexico State University. "The Carson National Forest predicts a very small crop, while the Santa Fe Forest predicts a very light crop and only in isolated areas."

Pinon nuts are seeds that grow in the cones. After the frost, the mature cones open and the nuts fall out. The oldest and simplest method to harvest nuts is to simply pick them off the ground by hand. A fast picker, with a plentiful crop, can pick 20 pounds of nuts a day, Sals said.

Pinons usually lose 5 to 15 percent of their moisture within 30 days of harvest. Cure the nuts in dry air. Store them in cloth bags and allow ventilation between bags.

Pinons are noted for their excellent keeping qualities. Dry, unshelled nuts have been marketed up to three years after harvest. Shelled nuts become rancid after three to six months.

Unshelled nuts are sometimes roasted. While this improves the flavor, roasted nuts become rancid more quickly so don't store them too long.

To salt the nuts in the shell, cover them with a salt solution made from one-fourth cup salt to two quarts of water. Bring to a boil and then simmer for two hours or soak them overnight, drain and roast.

Pinons can be roasted in the oven at 300 degrees by placing the unshelled nuts in a shallow pan. Stir the pinons frequently and test them for taste. It is very easy to over roast them. Some people prefer to cook them in a heavy skillet on top of the stove, stirring frequently.

To shell them easily, while they are still warm, place them between two damp cloths. Roll or pound them with a rolling pin, depending on the hardness of the shell.

The protein average for pinon nuts is 14.5 percent. It is higher than for pecan (10.4) and about the same as English walnuts and Brazil nuts. The pinon nut kernels average about 60 percent oil or fat. This is lower than pecans, English walnuts and Brazil nuts. The contents of carbohydrates averages 18.8 percent.

Crime Stoppers seek burglars

A couple of folks in Bernalillo recently took out a loan from the Bernalillo Loan Company.

The only problem was that the loan company wasn't open for business. Anselmo Gallegos, president of the parent Cuba Investment Company, said almost $7,000 in jewelry and another $234 in cash were taken by some burglars who broke into the loan company August 21 between 10:30 p.m. and 6:30 a.m.

Police reports indicate the offenders broke a window on the rear south side of the office, then pried open a file cabinet containing the money and jewelry.

This week the State Crime Stoppers Commission is offering a $1,000 reward for information leading to the arrests and indictments of the offenders in the case.

Among the various items taken by the offenders were three concho belts valued at $1,500 each, 10 assorted turquoise rings, three squash blossoms and four necklaces. The jewelry was being held as security for loans.

The offenders exited through the rear of the office building.

Anyone having any information which could help solve this case is asked to call the State Crime Stoppers Commission at its toll-free number, 1-800-432-8933. Callers do not have to reveal their identities and their calls are not taped or traced.

The State Crime Stoppers Commission and the 34 local Crime Stoppers programs in New Mexico also offer cash rewards on a regular basis for information leading to the solution of other major felony crimes.

A number of successes have been recorded by Crime Stoppers programs in the region. A tip to the El Paso, Texas, Crime Stoppers program led to the recovery of more than $500,000 worth of narcotics and the arrests of two persons recently.

Alamogordo's young program also produced an impressive success story, with the arrest of Timothy Wayne Duncan, 26. He is charged with burglary and larceny of the Tularosa Basin Historical Museum, an armed robbery and shoplifting.

In Deming, three juveniles were arrested in connection with a recent robbery of the Plo Quik store there.

San Juan County's Crime Stoppers program received information that landed a number of criminals in jail, including one who was attempting to steal some gas from a drip-tank near Farmington.

And five juveniles recently were arrested in Carlsbad in connection with extensive vandalism to the Carlsbad High School.

In all, more than 2,500 major crimes have been solved with the help of calls to New Mexico's Crime Stopper programs and $2.6 million in stolen property and narcotics have been recovered.

SALUTE TO CHAMBER MEMBERS

This is a regular feature in the Monday edition of this newspaper to introduce the members of the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce

THREE BEES MART, located at 1137 Mechem Drive, across the road from Cousins' Restaurant, is owned by Danny and Frieda Brown, pictured. They opened the convenience store August 28, after having joined the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce during the June membership drive. The store offers groceries, gasoline, sandwiches, all types of picnic supplies and ice. They also have a recreational vehicle and camp available. The Browns have been residents of the Ruidoso area since 1968, and Danny Brown is also part owner, with Robert Donaldson, of Pro Ski Sports. Business hours are 6 a.m., to 7 p.m., daily.

FASHION FABRICS, at 2629 Suddarth, next to the new Sonny's Bar-B-Que, opened July 4, under the ownership of Jean Steinhrecher, pictured. Steinhrecher is shown modeling one of her new line of Altra sew-it-yourself skivwear kits, background, which also features down comforters, down booties, carryall luggage, and a selection of vests, all with zip-out sleeves. The shop also carries a complete line of quality fabrics, notions, sewing aids and a unique button collection. Butterick and McCall's patterns are also available. Custom design work, custom clothing and alterations are also offered. Beginning and "learn more" sewing classes will start tomorrow, September 30, at the shop, with registration available at 257-7565. Fashion Fabrics is also offering ten percent off on the price of Altra Kits now through Christmas. Hours are 9:30 a.m., to 12:30 p.m., and 1:30-5:30 p.m., Tuesday through Saturday.

Mare Winningham

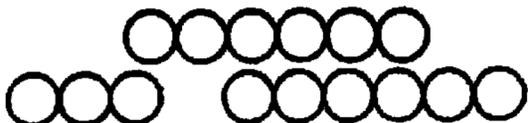

Future Stars—Mare Winningham, a relatively unknown actress until last year when she headlined in 'Amber Waves' and 'Off the Minnesota Strip,' has been inked to a development contract with ABC. Initially she will appear in two more ABC movie projects and from there who knows... Mare is considered to be one of the hottest teen properties in Hollywood and ABC's signing of the bright young star is a coup of sorts.

TONIGHT SHOW

More than a dozen segments from past shows—never rerun before—and another dozen 'pieces' from earlier programs featuring such entertainment luminaries as Loni Anderson, Bette Midler, Barry Manilow, Steve Martin, Don Rickles and Mel Brooks, will highlight a special, two-hour, prime-time celebration of the 18th anniversary of NBC-TV's 'The Tonight Show Starring Johnny Carson,' MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 29.

"This is the show," says Carson, "where we try to bring back some of the funniest moments of the past shows and also ones that have not been repeated before."

PBS in the spotlight

'Cosmos' voyages thru space and time

'Cosmos,' a thirteen-part television series devoted to what's out there—to astronomy and space exploration in the broadest possible human context—will premiere on Sunday, September 28 on PBS.

Dr. Carl Sagan, the distinguished Cornell University astronomer and Pulitzer Prize-winning author, is the principal writer and host of 'Cosmos.' In the series he will guide television audiences on a spectacular voyage through space and time to explore what he calls "the deepest connections of human beings with a vast and awesome universe in which we float like a mote of dust in the morning sky."

Through the lavish use of special effects and filming at more than forty locations on the planet Earth, 'Cosmos' probes spacecraft missions of discovery to the planets, black holes, the origin of matter, the human brain, alternate universes, time travel, communication among the whales, the death of the sun, and life on other worlds.

'Cosmos' also investigates Hindu cosmology, cosmic catastrophes, the Voyager interstellar message, Martian 'canals,' robots, travel to the stars, cosmic influences on the evolution of life, the collisions of continents, sailing ship voyages of exploration, the deciphering of Egyptian hieroglyphics, the origin of life, contact with other civilizations in space, the birth and death of stars and galaxies, the interconnectedness of all living things, the future of the Earth, and the deepest questions concerning the origin and fate of the universe.

Every human culture has raised similar questions about the cosmos—in myths and legends, in religion, philosophy, and science fiction. Dr. Sagan believes that wondering about these issues is as natural as breathing: "Science can be presented in an entirely comprehensible and exciting way to general audiences while maintaining high standards of scientific accuracy. We are, after all, a scientific species."

CONFIDENTIAL REPORT: If the quality of TV programs doesn't improve, Americans are going to start turning off the tube and taking up other pastimes. That's the message my readers want to get through to TV network executives, according to our poll. The following are several quotes we picked out at random: "TV is rotten and seems to be getting worse." "Both my neighbors have sold their TVs and gone back to the radio. I'm 65 years old and have watched TV for many years. But I've never seen shows or stars as rotten as those on TV now." "We keep turning the dial looking for something good and all we find is screaming, giggling or violence. We watch TV less and less. I find myself going back to reading and listening to records more." Millions of viewers have been disappointed by the cancellation of such shows as "Kaz" and the "Donny and Marie" show: "The good shows have been replaced with a lot of garbage that I wouldn't bother to turn the TV on for." My readers are especially upset about the number of sexy comedies on the air. "TV is crammed with sex, sex and more sex." Boys and girls are lopping into bed and necking and fumbling and all that trash." "When asked what kind of programs they would like to see, most readers voted for wholesome, family-oriented shows such as 'The Waltons' and 'Little House on the Prairie.' 'We loathe sex-stressed, no-moral shows where infidelity runs rampant. America has sunk down the sewer.'" Several readers said they pray the quality of television improves because they are old, living alone and TV is their only friend. "If it weren't for TV I'd be very lonely. I live alone and its all I have to keep me occupied. I am 61 years old and unable to work. If it was not for TV I would go crazy. All I do is watch TV day and night. I love my TV."

TV TICKER Dean Martin has been drifting around Hollywood telling everyone who will listen that the Mafia and not the Chinese invented acupuncture. He says the Sicilians used an ice pick instead of a needle. . . Howard Hesseman, the crazy disc jockey on WKRP, was disappointed when he couldn't do his own stunt, a million-dollar crash scene with a two-and-a-half-ton truck that cuts a camper in half and then shoots into a line-up of 250 cars. The stunt is so dangerous that even stunt men weren't allowed to do it. A lookalike dummy was put into the truck for the crash, in the film 'Honky Tonk Freeway.'

TV CLOSEUP: One of the world's most celebrated psychological thrillers will be seen on PBS when Dostoevsky's 'Crime and Punishment' opens Masterpiece Theatre's 10th anniversary season beginning September 28. The four-part adaptation of the Russian master novelist's penetrating look into the mind and soul of a murderer co-stars John Hurt as Raskolnikov, the penniless and obsessed young killer, and Timothy ('Edward the King') West as Porfiry, the deceptively amiable magistrate who tracks him down. Dostoevsky's study of the pathological student who commits murder to right what his unstable mind perceives as the disorder in life, and believes he can get away with it because he's superior—above the law—is essentially a cat and mouse story.
