Warriors tame Wildcats in big 14-0 win

BY MARK BAGBY
Sports Editor

It took 11 long years, but the Ruidoso Warriors notched a 14-0 shutout over Tularosa here Friday night, the first time in 12 years the Warriors have defeated the Wildcats.

The game, one of the most heated rivalries in the state, had been billed as an extremely tight contest, between two well matched teams, with the final score going down to the wire.

But Ruidoso jumped out to a 7-0 lead on a Scott Neal three yard run early in the first quarter, and then held off a tough Tularosa team until the fourth quarter when Russ Pior scored from a yard out with less than a minute left to clinch the win.

Tularosa had but two real scoring opportunities in the game, one ending in the second quarter on a fumble, and the other in the fourth, ended when Steve Benway intercepted a Jeff Chase pass on fourth down.

And the Warriors did not capitalize on at least two other scoring opportunities.

An obviously pleased Darrel Stierwalt was still beaming Sunday over the win. "I'm still just as jubilant as I can be," he said. "It's nice to win against Tulle. It's been too long."

The win upped the Warrior record to 6-1, insuring Ruidoso of its first winning season since 1972. Tularosa dropped to 4-3. Also, Ruidoso is now tied for the district lead with Silver City with a 2-0 mark.

The win puts Ruidoso in an entirely new light — like possible district champions.

"Hey, we didn't luck out in this win" Stierwalt said. "We are legitimate contenders and we play good football. It took a lot of hard work for us to win, but we did and I am so proud of our kids and coaching staff. They all did a great job."

That they did. The Warriors racked up 265 yards total offense while holding Tularosa to 188, and Ruidoso turned the ball over but once, but forced the Wildcats to make five miscues.

In fact, both Warrior scores came after Tularosa turnovers.

Ruidoso kicked off to begin the game, and Tularosa was able to move the ball. Near midfield, however, senior halfback Chase was hit and fumbled. Benway pounced on the ball, setting the Warriors up on the Tularosa 49. Neal ran for seven yards on first down and Ricky Dennis had five straight carries for 12, seven, 17, three and one yards.

That made it first and goal at the three, and Neal banged it over behind good blocking. With 7:58 remaining in the period, Leroy Ramirez converted and the Warriors had a 7-0 lead.

It stayed that way until the fourth quarter, as both teams displayed good defense. But after stopping a Wildcat scoring threat with an interception, the Warriors started on their 20 with 9:34 left in the game.

An incredible 17 plays and eight minutes, 57 seconds later, the Warriors scored on Pior's one yard run. Ramirez converted and the Warriors led a comfortable two touchdown lead.

Key plays in the drive were a two yard run by Dennis on a fourth and one, a Benway to Don Nunley pass good for six yards and a 19 yard run by Pior.

Five crucial yards on a fourth and five situation were courtesy of Tularosa's Bill Turner.

On the Tularosa 25, the Warriors deliberately tried to force a Tularosa player to go offside. It worked, and Turner pounded the ground in frustration.

Five plays later, Pior scored. Pior was the second leading rusher in the game, with 97 yards on 15 carries, right behind Neal's 108 in 14 tries.

All in all, Ruidoso dominated the whole way and Tularosa never really seemed to be in the game.

"I think Tularosa took us a little lightly," Stierwalt said. "(Tularosa head coach Bob) Cery told me he was going to let his boys go so they could run up the score on us.

"Now don't get me wrong—Tularosa is well coached, they're a good ball club. We just ran at them where we thought they'd be weakest, and we were right."

"After we scored so fast on 'em (in the first quarter), I think they had a letdown." The biggest problem the Warriors had was a tendency toward committing penalties at crucial times, and in fact, they missed two second quarter scoring opportunities due to mistakes.

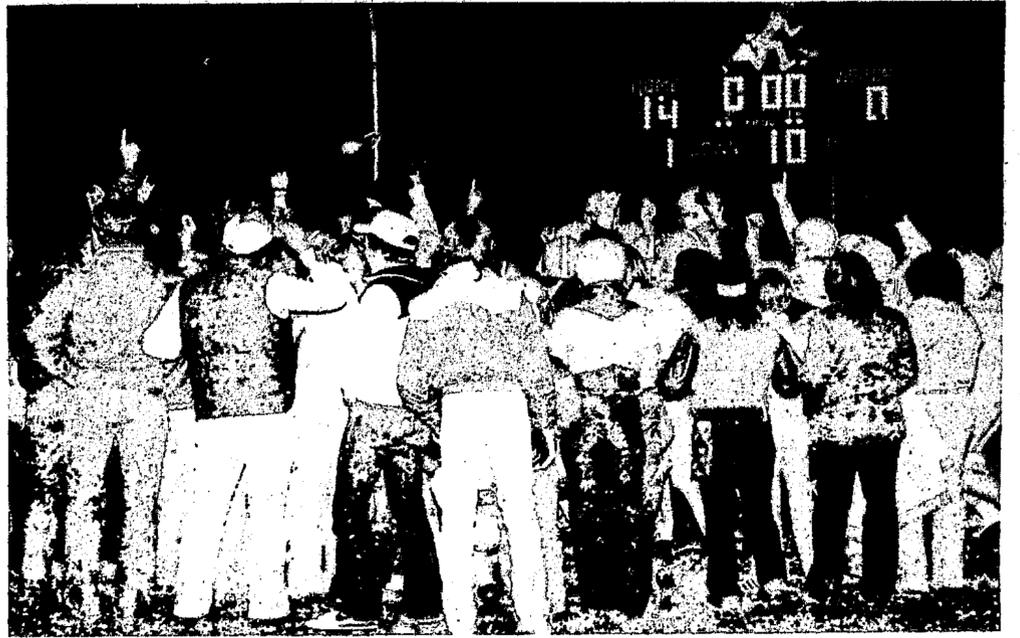

Ruidoso stopped the Wildcats at their own 45 following the first Warrior score, but two consecutive offsides penalties on the punt gave Tularosa a first down.

Wildcat quarterback Jim O'Hara ran for 17 yards on the next play, and was tackled by a touchdown saving Benway. But Benway was called for roughness, giving Tularosa a first and goal at the seven.

Two plays later, Chase was hit hard and fumbled. Lon Nunley recovered for the Warriors at the two. Ruidoso was unable to make a first down, but Tularosa was called for unsportsmanlike conduct. The resulting 15 yard penalty set the ball up on the 25.

Two plays, however, netted the Warriors minus five yards. On third and 15, Neal

A PICTURE that tells it all — one of the largest crowds ever to assemble in Warrior Stadium watched the Warriors shut out the Tularosa Wildcats, as the scoreboard in the background indicates. The district win ups the Warrior record to 6-1, and 2-0 in district.

Skeen not on ballot

The United States Supreme Court this morning upheld the Appellate Court ruling which denied Joe Skeen a place on the November general election ballot.

Martin Janowski, press secretary for Senator Pete Domenici, said the decision was handed down about 10:45 a.m., Washington, D. C. time. No other information was available regarding the decision, Janowski said.

Skeen announced early Monday he would continue to wage a write-in campaign for the Second Congressional District seat, according to his assistant campaign manager Jerry McKinney.

Mule Skinners meet Wednesday

The Ruidoso Downs Mule Skinners will meet in general session Wednesday at 7:30 p.m., in the multi-purpose room of the Ruidoso Public Library.

Agenda items include a financial report and review of the mule races, auction and related activities in September.

Video tapes of the races will also be shown.

Sponsors of races, as well as interested individuals, are being urged to attend.

Ski Run Road mat coming

New Mexico State Highway Commission (NMHC) members took the defensive Thursday in addressing problems with State Road 532, also known as Ski Run Road.

Members of the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce board of directors, who attended Thursday's commission meeting in Albuquerque to seek additional funds to do more work on ski run road, were assured that a hot mix overlay costing $937,500, was in the 1981-82 budget for the road, but admitted that it is "a stopgap measure" until realignment of the road could be completed.

Benny Coulston, past Chamber president and current village trustee, said

"we are in a position where an estimated 45 percent or more of our income is directly related to a road owned and repaired by the state, that dead-ends, at the top of a mountain at a parking lot.

He said the people in Ruidoso "now understand that (work completed in July) was only a stop gap action to get us through this winter and that you intend to request funds from the legislature for more extensive work next summer."

Coulston said that, in his opinion, "as a consumer of roads—this road will again, before January is over, be in a sad state—and this will cost us a great deal of money."

He added that the only recourse is a realignment of the road which would require permission from the Mescalero Apache Tribe (MAT) and felt the permission from the tribe would come "two days after hell freezes over."

Coulston told The News that, in reference to his comments, he did not blame the Tribe for the slowness in giving permission to proceed, but was referring to "the length of time the negotiations have taken. They have been dragging their feet to start negotiations and it may take a long time once we do."

Chamber plans road meeting with Chino

Chamber of Commerce executive director Ed Jungbluth said Friday that a meeting between Mescalero Apache Tribal President Wendell Chino, representative of the New Mexico Highway Department and representatives of the Chamber and village, will be held in late October or early November.

Jungbluth said several tentative dates have been set but needed confirmations before announcing a definite time and place.

feet from the ground, she said.

The club is also asking the public to participate by placing yellow ribbons somewhere outside their homes, on a fence, door, etcetera.

The club is purchasing all of the yellow material to be used, and they have requested several local businesses, including Ben Franklin and Gibson's, to "stock up" on yellow ribbons," Whitwam said. They also obtained permission from the village and from Community Public Service for the project.

If the hostages are released prior to the November 4 date, the project will be dropped, she said.

ComFIRE to ask for fire prevention officer

A job description for a fire prevention officer to be hired by the village of Ruidoso, is now being written by the Committee for Insuring Ruidoso's Environment (ComFIRE).

Meeting Thursday with members of the Ruidoso Fire Department, ComFIRE began writing the job description and will include the following duties for consideration:

— Full versus part time fire inspections.

— To whom he/she should report.

— Must have some background in fire fighting or fire prevention.

— Good knowledge of village fire ordinances and how to enforce them.

— He/she would automatically become the Red Flag Fire Alert coordinator.

— Authority to enforce all fire ordinances.

— Feedback would be given to the fire department so if a fire ever occurred in a specific home, the department would be better informed about the hazards.

Herb Brunell, ComFIRE chairman, said the group wants to "get a fire prevention person that could spend time working with people" and point out fire hazards around private structures.

"Probably 99 out of 100 people who live in Ruidoso don't even know they have a problem. It never enters their mind that they've got a fire hazard," Derald Waltrip, village fire marshal, said. "For example, a lot of people store gasoline by the heater." Waltrip said "a lot" of fires could have been prevented in recent years if the village had employed a fire prevention officer, but added, "I don't know how we can get that stuff (fire hazards) cleaned up."

No date for making their recommendations to the village has been set by ComFIRE, but they will continue to write the job description during their November meeting.

Senate aspirants face teachers

BY GWYNETH JONES
Staff Writer/Photographer

Wilton Howell and Charlie Lee, candidates for the State Senate seat in District 39, squared off Thursday afternoon in a forum sponsored by the Alamogordo chapter of the National Education Association (NEA) Political Action Committee.

The NEA group was to vote on endorsement of one of the two candidates — or for "no endorsement," with the results of the vote to be announced today. Only 21 of the 200-plus members attended the meeting.

The candidates made opening statements and later answered questions from the committee on such issues as liquor laws, usury laws, right to work, the Sagebrush Rebellion, campaign financing and sex education in schools.

Introducing Lee was Herb Hammond, Alamogordo teacher, who advised the group that Lee had been named "Teachers' Friend to Education," by the New Mexico NEA, and described him as a man with "a vested interest in education."

Speaking first, Lee said, "what I have to offer you is some experience in certain areas." He mentioned his membership on an ad hoc committee of the New Mexico Cattle Growers Association and the NEA, 15 years ago. He said the committee met annually to discuss problems in the schools, on which he reported to the Cattle Growers Association later.

Introducing Howell was Karen Tillman, Ruidoso teacher and diagnostician, who told the audience that Howell had "given a great deal of time to educational issues," and added, "He's never ducked an issue with me."

Tillman also said, "I believe he (Howell) is a friend of education and will respond to our needs."

In opening remarks, Howell said, that if education is not one of the major priorities for all candidates, "it should become one."

He called for increased incentives, including salaries, retirement plans and benefits to keep "the cream of the crop" in the education profession.

Howell said that New Mexico's refusal of funding for special education from the federal government, provided under Public Law 94-142 was an injustice to the children of New Mexico. "We're paying this money into the federal government, and then refusing (our share)."

On the issue of right to work, Howell said the measure had been turned down in a referendum in New Mexico in 1976. Consequently, he said, "as a lawmaker, for me to try to reverse that would be a cardinal sin. It should go back to the vote of the people."

Lee said, "I do support right to work, but I would get the views of the district (before voting)."

The candidates were also asked their "opinion of New Mexico's liquor laws," because the liquor tax affects the funding programs for education.

Howell said he would obtain input from the citizens to see what changes they would like made in the laws, and investigate liquor law situations in other states.

Lee said he "would like to see some adjustments made" in the state liquor laws, but added, "I'd be hesitant about destroying anyone's livelihood without a great deal of thought."

Asked about usury laws, Howell said he felt "something has to be done about them to curb inflation."

Lee said he favored taking "all controls off — let them (interest rates) seek their own level. I'm very practical in that respect."

On the Sagebrush Rebellion, Lee said the legislature could vote to put public lands up for sale, a move he would favor. Howell said he felt only the large landowners would be in a financial position to bid on such lands at auction, while the majority of New Mexicans would not benefit.

The teachers association also asked, "Why should teachers and public employees vote for you?"

Lee said, "Because of my track record — the small ways I've tried to help education."

Howell said, "I'm going to be responsive to them and listen to them. If they can justify their needs, I'll go to bat for them."

Another question dealt with whether teachers or other public employees should "stay in Social Security or get out if they have other retirement programs."

Howell replied that if they pay "into a private plan, they ought to be able to reap the benefits of both." Having a separate retirement or pension plan should not prevent someone from taking advantage of social security, he said.

Lee said, "If they stay in social security — the federal government has the printing press, and they'll be the last ones to go broke."

Asked whether they favored sex education in public schools, Lee said he felt it is "the responsibility of the family and the church. There is a need for it, but I don't know whether the school system has people adequately prepared to handle it."

Howell said, "Morals should be taught at home" but he could see that sex education should be provided "to some extent."

The group also asked whether funds for special education should be increased. Howell restated his support for accepting funds available from the federal government and said children should not be denied an adequate education either because they are gifted or handicapped.

Lee said he would be more inclined to provide assistance for handicapped elderly.

In closing statements, Howell said there was a problem in New Mexico with 30-day lawmakers who don't expose themselves to "real people and real situations," and become "falsely insulated" in Santa Fe. He also said, "better education has a positive effect on lots of situations."

Lee closed by thanking the group for the opportunity to speak and for their involvement. He said, "Politics aren't dirty — it's what you do with it that's dirty."

Following the meeting, several teachers questioned whether the group should issue an endorsement at all, because of the poor attendance at the meeting. Others voiced the opinion that a "no endorsement" vote might be construed as a negative opinion of both candidates, while the reverse might be true.

They agreed to take the matter to the executive board for further discussion before any announcement of a decision is made.

Ski Run Road

Chamber vice president Jerry Bigham, owner of Cousins' Restaurant, said that "better than 45 percent of our yearly business is done in the four month period beginning in December and ending in March." Because of that, he said, "our winter ski business is larger than the famous summer race business."

Bigham noted that Ruidoso ranks high on a per capita basis in returning gross receipts to the state, thanks in part to "the skiers that come to Sierra Blanca who come from Texas and Mexico. Most generally these people are not accomplished skiers but are beginning to intermediate skiers that choose Sierra Blanca because of our proximity and well equipped and gentle mountain."

Bigham said the village people "prefer not to challenge these tourists more than they prefer either on the slopes or driving to the ski area."

Bigham said the "most often heard reason" for not returning to Sierra Blanca is not snow conditions or facilities "but because of the drive to the area—we hear this even when the road is dry."

He said that when the road is in "the deplorable conditions of last February and March it costs our community and state thousands of dollars." He asked commissioners to budget an additional $105,506 to "re-do what was done this year" and to place a mat overlay on the road.

Chief Highway Administrator Buddy Hewett said "There is no way we can take on any major repair without closing that road... and it can't be done in two to three months' time. There are at least six places where the outside lanes are cracking and that repair work we did is just a band aid."

Hewett said "realignment (through the MAT reservation) is the only answer. "I would be perfectly willing to sit down and discuss realignment" with Tribal President Wendell Chino.

Department advisors said $50,000 is presently allocated to study realignment in the 1984-85 budget but added if it became a higher priority item, exchanges could be made in this district's budget to do the study sooner.

Louis Whitlock, chairman of the NMHC, said, "I have some personal problems with" comments made by Coulston.

He said, "I resent somebody going out and making comments that were questionable about the road, and added, "I've got a file here that will choke you on the dangers of that road."

Whitlock said everyone, including members of the Chamber, the Highway Department and business people, "agreed that we've met our commitment—but we have a limit on what we can do." He said, "We're going to have to bite the bullet... and get another road... I hate to run the risk of killing people" on the road.

He also said that before being appointed Commissioner, three recommendations were made by engineers of the NMHD: Initiate major reconstruction of the road, secure permission from the MAT to build another route up the mountain, or consider closing the road altogether.

Whitlock said major reconstruction has been done and added that "I don't think anyone can say I don't represent my district and I don't respond to editorials except in a negative way," referring to editorial comments made by The Ruidoso News in recent weeks.

He said when NMHD officials visited Ruidoso to drive Road 532 "I understand that your editor wouldn't go up on that road."

He added that "it behooves the Tribe" to be in favor of realignment since their dollars have been spent to build and upgrade the ski area. He said the business people and Chamber of Commerce should be supporting the drive, but the MAT should spearhead it.

A study by the NMHD pegged the cost of a realignment of the road at $12 million but Whitlock said "no funds could be identified to construct the road" and "you might as well add 20 percent to that cost because those were last year's figures."

NMHD officials said that total state funds available for secondary roads like 532 is $8 million, not enough to build a new road. Commissioners are currently "wrestling with the priority system" in hopes of revising it to better meet the public's needs.

Worthington Smelser, district engineer, added that "the parking facilities (at the ski area) are not adequate now for that number of people. They are making a serious condition for us because they are parking two to three miles beyond the parking lot."

"On the basis of studying this testimony, the ultimate solution has to be a meeting with the Mescalero Apaches," Whitlock said.

Also attending the meeting were Chamber president Sheila Harris, Chamber vice president Archer Wilson, executive director Ed Jungbluth and Diane Coulston.

Reward for bomber $3,000

Just call August 19 as a day that bombed in Santa Fe.

As a matter of fact, it almost bombed twice.

At about 9:00 a.m., a bomb exploded in a telephone junction box at Lupita and Encina Streets causing extensive damage.

At about 4:30 p.m., the same day, another bomb was found near the Santa Fe Police Department substation at Airport and Cerrillos Road. Fortunately Police Department bomb disposal experts deactivated the bomb before it could explode.

Many people have no idea how lucky they were the second bomb never exploded. It was found at a propane gas company next to the substation. If the device had detonated, it would have caused unbelievable havoc in the area.

The twin bombing attacks have been the subject of an extensive investigation by the Santa Fe Police Department and other law enforcement agencies in New Mexico. This week the State Crime Stoppers Commission and the Santa Fe Crime Stoppers Program are offering up to $3,000 for information leading to the arrest and indictment of the bomber.

Sergeant Rick Menefee of the Santa Fe Police Department said the bombing attacks were the first such incidents in the past seven years in the Capitol city.

"We have no idea of any motive in these attacks," Menefee said. He added there did not appear to be any connection between the Santa Fe incidents and the bombing of an electrical substation in Grants.

Still the attacks are perplexing and the investigation is at a standstill. Anyone having any information which could help in the investigation is asked to call the State Crime Stoppers Commission at its toll-free number, 1-800-432-6933, or the Santa Fe Crime Stoppers program at 1-988-5555. Callers do not have to reveal their identities.

The State Crime Stoppers Commission and the 34 local Crime Stoppers programs in New Mexico also pay cash rewards for information leading to the solution of other major crimes.

To date, more than 2,500 major crimes have been solved in New Mexico with the help of calls to Crime Stoppers.

Last week, more than 200 persons from throughout the nation attended the First Crime Stoppers National Conference in Albuquerque and heard Federal Bureau of Investigation Director William Webster praise the program as a "prime example of what can happen when citizens say they are fed up with crime."

Zimmerman grazing plan to take effect

The Department of the Interior announced today the formation of a new national grazing policy, which was a direct result of field hearings called last year in Las Cruces by United States Senator Pete Domenici.

The new regulations, expected to take effect in mid-January 1981, are based on the Zimmerman Proposal.

"Ranchers and others interested in rangeland management on public lands will have more of a say about regulations on these lands because of the Zimmerman Proposal," Domenici said.

"It has taken us over a year to develop an effective national policy of grazing," Domenici said. "Since we began holding these hearings in New Mexico, we have met with ranchers, representatives of wildlife interests and conservation organizations, and Bureau of Land Management (BLM) officials in the state, to develop a program that is workable for everybody who uses this public land."

"The Zimmerman Proposal, named after Arthur Zimmerman, state director of BLM, who designed this program after a request by Domenici, has four major points which give public land users a greater say in management of that land."

"First, there will be a 17 month consultation period on any grazing adjustment so that all parties interested will have opinions considered by the BLM," Domenici said. "Second, after any adjustment, there will be a five year period following the environmental impact statement for phasing in these adjustments."

"Third, there will be an opportunity for original decisions to be amended if impact studies on the range indicate that the original adjustment was too large or too small," Domenici continued. "And, best of all, there will be a substantially greater role for others interested in Rangeland Management."

"The Zimmerman Proposal saved ranchers in New Mexico from what seemed at the time to be a bureaucratic decision based on suspect scientific information," Domenici said.

VA spending hits $19.9 billion during fiscal 1979

Details of how the Veterans Administration (VA) spent $19.9 billion during fiscal 1979 for federal programs in the Rocky Mountain area and elsewhere in behalf of the nation's 30 million veterans, dependents and survivors were presented in VA chief Max Cleland's annual report to Congress.

The VA's total spending from October 1, 1979, to September 30, 1980, included nearly $272.1 million in Colorado, more than $151.1 million in New Mexico, more than $112.2 million in Utah, and more than $49.1 million in Wyoming.

The VA report to Congress stressed the agency's enhanced outreach efforts, the special emphasis on care of veterans with service-connected disabilities, and programs for younger veterans who have been educationally or economically disadvantaged.

In the medical field, Cleland said, more veterans received health care from VA during fiscal 1979 than in any year since the agency was established in 1930.

Nearly 1.3 million inpatients received care in VA medical centers during the period, while more than 17 million outpatient visits were recorded.

The inpatient and outpatient-visits totals respectively for VA medical centers in Colorado, New Mexico, Utah and Wyoming: Denver, 12,000-130,000; Fort Lyon, 1,300-20,000; Grand Junction, 2,400-16,000; Albuquerque, 9,300-100,000; Salt Lake City, 11,000-122,000; Cheyenne, 3,000-14,600; and Sheridan, 1,800-20,000.

VA medical programs "emphasized priority care for service-connected veterans, and looked in new directions to meet the changing needs of an aging veteran population," Cleland said to Congress.

"We continued during 1979 to place emphasis on our innovative-treatment programs for alcohol and drug dependent veterans and for those with mental health problems," the late-September report continued. One of the most significant new programs is the 90 "help without hassles" VA centers opened to help Vietnam veterans who are experiencing readjustment problems. Four of the centers are located in Denver, Albuquerque, Salt Lake City and Cheyenne.

The report notes that a declining enrollment under GI Bill education programs was the cause of the slight expenditure decline over the previous fiscal period.

Spending for medical care and for compensation and pension benefits continued to increase.

Cleland said about 71 percent of the GI home loans made during fiscal 1979 went to Vietnam-era veterans. He reported that that group continued to outshine its predecessors in using GI Bill education benefits. VA continued during the period to select Vietnam-era veterans to fill many of its employment vacancies, Cleland said.

Other highlights: Direct Payments — A $1 billion increase in compensation and pension payments brought the total to $10.5 billion paid veterans and their beneficiaries. At the end of the period, more than 2.2 million veterans, representing a 0.3 percent increase over 1978, were receiving VA compensation payments for service-connected disabilities, while the number of pensioners on VA rolls declined 7.3 percent to 1,168,499.

Education Benefits — Payments of $2.7 billion in education benefits to 1.3 million veterans and active duty personnel during fiscal 1979 brought total participation under the current GI Bill education program to more than 7.6 million — 71 percent of them Vietnam-era veterans. Participation by Vietnam-era veterans and service personnel increased to 65 percent of those eligible. This compares to the 51 percent participation rate among World War II veterans.

Housing Assistance — During 1979, the final year of the decade, nearly 347,000 veterans were assisted with home ownership under the VA housing program. VA-guaranteed loans totaled more than $16 billion. Direct loans amounted to $37 million and grants for specially adapted housing totaled $20 million.

A program milestone was reached during the year when the 10 millionth home loan was guaranteed.

The number of mobile home and condominium loans increased during the fiscal year, as did substitutions and restorations of entitlement.

This high level of activity was maintained in spite of disrupted money markets and the highest mortgage interest rates in history.

Employment — VA hired nearly 17,208 veterans during the period, and as of September 30, 1979, 17 percent of all VA employees were Vietnam-era veterans. Six percent of its employees were disabled veterans.

About 84 percent of the agency's veterans benefits counselors are Vietnam-era veterans, as are 42 percent of the veterans claims examiners.

Cleland said the nation's veteran population at the end of September 1979 stood at 30,072,000.

4-Hers work on energy saving ideas

You may be saving energy to save money for your family. "But saving energy will help your community as well," said Jose Herrera, Extension economist for New Mexico State University.

"We are working to instill these ideas into our 4-Hers," Herrera said. "We explain that with inflation, the costs of almost all goods and services rise at an abnormal rate. This is often because of an imbalance between the supply and demand."

By using less energy, we can make the supply of energy more nearly match the demand, and energy prices will tend to remain more stable, Herrera said. "Thus, saving energy can help hold down inflation."

By using less energy you will also help hold down the amount of energy — mostly petroleum — that we must buy from other countries. You know that an individual cannot afford to spend more than he earns over a long period of time. The United States cannot, in the long run, afford to purchase more from foreign countries than we earn from the goods we sell abroad. By helping hold down the amount of energy we must import, you are helping maintain a healthy balance in our trade with other nations, Herrera says.

Boys and girls enrolled in 4-H clubwork or in any other youth organization may undertake a youth and community development project which conserves fuel and save their families money.

4-Hers learn how to read gas and electric meters. They take a reading on Sunday evening, and compare it with the reading the following Sunday evening.

Then they make a list of everything in the house which uses energy. They work out a plan with the family to cut down the energy they use. After one week they usually see a marked energy savings.

HAM radio class planned in Ruidoso

A class is being formed for persons interested in obtaining an amateur radio operator (HAM) license. Classes will be held each Thursday, beginning October 23.

A minimum of six persons is needed in Alamogordo. At the conclusion of the Alamogordo. At the conclusion of the course, the instructor will administer a Morse code test. Arrangements will have to be made by class members to take the written examination required for licensing.

Interested persons should contact Dave Travis at 257-2626 or 257-2074.

Ruidoso News staff wins four press awards

The Ruidoso News placed third in the community service category, in New Mexico Press Association (NMPA) weekly newspaper competition in Santa Fe Friday.

The winning project was the promotion of the Ruidoso Summer Festival that brought the Fort Worth Symphony, Texas, here for the first of a planned series of annual performances.

Other awards won by The News included third in supplements and special editions; second in best column by sports editor Mark Bagby and second in editorial writing by editor Cale Dickey.

The awards were accepted by Ken Green, News publisher, who was elected president of NMPA at Friday morning's business session.

The Plant Corner

by Sally Black

This column is devoted to growing health indoor plants. Address questions to: Sally Black, The Ruidoso News, Box 128, Ruidoso, New Mexico 88345

Dear Sally: I am enclosing a column from the St. Louis Globe Democrat newspaper clipped while on our trip. Perhaps a few of these "tips" may be of use to you for your readers with future questions. Though your column is geared to indoor plants maybe these outdoor tips will help indoors also. Sincerely, Mary Kleine at Kleine's Korner.

Dear Mary: Thank you for the cute plant card and the informative column by George Abraham. George tells us the plants, like people, need some friends. Some plants have natural friends they like to be with, and some can't stand to be with others. This relationship is called "companion planting."

This mystery has intrigued men for centuries, but has never been fully explored. Organic gardeners say plants help one another by repelling insects. But some plants reject other plants and lessen another plant's ability to grow. Root secretions and odors all work in either repelling or attracting.

Some people reject the idea of companion planting, but we think there's something to this study of chemical interaction between plants which inhibit or stimulate growth.

There are three substances which cause plants to reject or attract: (1) pheromones (chemical messengers used for communication); (2) allelopathy, chemicals which cause a plant to perform a function helpful to itself, and (3) Kalmoneas, nemtomas in a plant which are detrimental to others. For example, black walnut produces Juglone which "tells" other plants to "stay away."

A recent study in Canada used marigold, nasturtium, pennyroyal, peppermint, sage, and thyme as companion plants with cabbage. The authors concluded that companion planting may improve the esthetics of gardening, but does little to repel lepidopterous pests (moths and butterflies) of cabbage.

This study does not mean that companion planting is ineffective. We need more scientific tests to confirm or refute the idea. Allelopathy (study of chemical interactions between plants) is too new to debunk.

Pilot Club sets election Tuesday eve

The newly organized Pilot Club of Ruidoso will meet Tuesday at 7 p.m., at the Texas Club to elect and install officers. District officers will attend the meeting.

The club organized October 12 with a champagne brunch at the Holiday Inn. Eighteen local business women and professional women were present, along with members of the Pilot Club of El Paso, Texas. Others interested in joining are welcome at Tuesday's meeting.

Conference on Woman Studies November 1

Anyone interested in the status of women is invited to attend the first Woman Studies State Conference at the University of New Mexico in Albuquerque Saturday, November 1.

The purpose of the free conference is to share ideas and projects dealing with the advancement of women and women studies.

The agenda includes workshops on how to begin a women studies program or class at the university and high school levels, the structure of women studies and how to serve the entire community, and women studies curriculum and teaching methodologies.

The conference will conclude with a discussion on ongoing networking, funding and state organizations for women studies.

Participants will assume their own travel and lodging expenses, plus expenses for a moderate lunch and dinner. Students may make arrangements through the program office for lodging with a women studies person in Albuquerque.

Child care is provided at minimal cost; if requested in advance.

For more information, contact the UNM women studies office at (505) 277-3854.

Safety idea for hobgoblins

Reflector tape on a Halloween costume will make your child visible for 500 feet, said Leo Yates, Extension family life specialist for New Mexico State University. Use red or white fluorescent tape.

Children usually enjoy putting the tape on their own costumes, Yates said. Put the tape around collars, cuffs, hems and head gear, to outline your child for motorists.

When selecting colors for children's rainwear or costumes, remember that white and yellow are the most visible colors at night, Yates said. These colors can be seen for about 120 feet, while browns and blues are less visible.

Little spooks should also carry a flashlight or a battery-operated lantern. The lights will alert motorists and light the way for the children who dash between bushes and across lawns.

Flameproof costumes are another safety precaution for Halloween and other costume events. When buying ready-made costumes look on the box or label to see if the garment is flame resistant or flame retardant.

Fall is the time to plant flower bulbs

The inexperienced gardener may feel fall is a strange time to be thinking of spring flowers. "But this is the time to plant spring flowering bulbs," said James Sals, Extension horticulturist for New Mexico State University.

"You may also think of spring bulbs as blooming only for a few weeks in early spring. Wrong again. Bulbs can bloom from late winter until July, depending on your choice of species and variety," Sals said.

Spring flowering bulbs are hardy plants requiring very little care. Most of them are perennials. If you plant them according to a few simple rules, you will have beautiful blooms for years.

Bulbs must be planted in the fall, October or November, so they can develop healthy roots before winter sets in. Most bulbs need full sunshine so plant them where they will get at least six hours of direct sunlight a day.

To prepare your planting beds, dig up six to eight inches of soil. Add peatmoss or other organic matter, clay or sand. Also mix in bone meal or a fertilizer high in phosphorus. One pound of a 5-10-10 fertilizer can be used for a 5 by 10 foot area, or use a small hand full for each cluster of bulbs.

Plant the bulbs in groups or clumps rather than in rows. You can plant them in front of evergreens or among perennials or flowering shrubs for better show of color, the horticulturist said.

Bulbs are sold in nurseries, garden centers, variety stores, or nursery catalogs. Buy good bulbs. Cheap bulbs are usually poor quality. There is little difference in domestic and imported bulbs.

If you buy bulbs before planting time, store them in a cool, dry place. A temperature of 60-65 degrees is cool enough, Sals said.

Plant bulbs upright, pointed ends up, at the recommended depth. In sandy soil, plant bulbs three to four inches deeper than the depth recommended for the variety.

Press the bulbs firmly into the soil. As you cover them, press on the soil to remove air pockets that can dry bulbs. After planting, water thoroughly to help settle bulbs in the soil.

Through the winter the small, embryo flowers, which are already in the bulbs, will mature. When blooming season arrives they will burst forth in full color.

Once the first shoots appear in the spring, feed bulbs again with a complete fertilizer. This will help them produce stronger, larger flowers. After that, just water, sit back and enjoy their long and brilliant display of color.

Spice up your pumpkin seeds

Do you throw away a big pile of pumpkin seeds every year after making a jack-o-lantern? "You don't know what you're missing," said Mae Martha Johnson, Extension food and nutrition specialist for New Mexico State University.

Pumpkin seeds are a good source of phosphorus and potassium. Salted or spiced flavored, roasted seeds are easy and inexpensive to make at home, Mrs. Johnson said.

Just follow these easy directions: Boil one and one-third cups of water and three tablespoons of salt, stirring until salt is completely dissolved. Pour the water over two cups of raw pumpkin seeds placed in a bowl.

Cover and let stand at room temperature for 12 to 24 hours. Drain the liquid from the seeds.

Spread the seeds evenly over a 10 to 15 inch baking dish. Bake in a 350 degree Fahrenheit oven for 25 to 35 minutes or until the seeds are dry and puffed with kernels separated in the center.

Stir frequently during cooking and cooling. Store in an airtight container. The roasted seeds will stay fresh up to 10 days, Mrs. Johnson says.

If you want to cut out some of the salt in your diet, try flavored pumpkin seeds. Follow the same directions but omit salt from the boiling water.

After draining the soaked seeds, sprinkle them with onion powder, garlic powder or chili powder. Stir and bake them as in the first recipe.

Clean gardens to control disease

Give your vegetables and flowers a head start next spring by destroying the winter homes for disease-causing organisms, said Emroy Shannon, Extension plant pathologist for New Mexico State University.

Powdery mildew and rust produce spores or develop special overwintering structures that will survive in plant debris. If this debris is allowed to remain in the garden, the organisms have a good chance to live through the winter and into next season. This means you will have the same disease problems again next year.

To prevent this, plow or compost the plant material. Either practice helps destroy disease-causing organisms. However, composted material should remain idle for at least two seasons before being returned to the soil. Burn or discard plant material that is severely infected with disease organisms, Shannon said.

Some disease-causing organisms are present in the soil, so destroying plant material will not control them. If you suspect a soil-borne disease in your garden, consider treating the soil with a fumigant such as "Vapam."

Diseases can frequently be avoided by using a crop rotation or by planting resistant varieties. Move plants around from one area to another to avoid the build-up of disease-causing organisms.

Roots of numerous vegetable crops are frequently infested with root knot nematodes. You can recognize these microscopic worms by the galls and knots on the plant roots. Plowing or pulling out of roots immediately after harvest to expose the nematodes to drying sun and wind will reduce the nematode problem, Shannon said.

Workshop set on school discipline

Lack of discipline continues to be cited most often when people are asked to name the major problems facing the public schools in their own communities according to the latest Gallup Poll of the Public's Attitudes Toward the Public Schools. Approximately one person in every four interviewed names "discipline."

The National Education Association (NEA-NM) of New Mexico will present a two hour workshop introducing the "LEAST" approach to discipline at its Fall Convention on October 23 and 24 at the Albuquerque Convention Center. The workshop will be presented by Richard M. Mallory, NEA Instruction and Professional Development staff. Mallory will also present a workshop about negotiating class size and other instructional issues at the convention.

Classes are free of charge to NEA-NM members and no preregistration is required.

Warriors tame Wildcats in big 14-0 win

went back to pass. Under tremendous pressure, he scrambled out of the pocket, stumbled, regained his balance and was gone for 64 yards. Finally, Tularosa tackled him at its 15.

Neal ran for five more on first down. Pior added two more. Dennis got the first down on third and three, but a motion penalty called that play back and made it third and eight.

A pass went incomplete, so Ramirez checked in for a 32 yard field goal try. It was short.

Following the missed field goal, Tularosa was moving the ball, but at midfield, junior halfback Michael Chavez fumbled and Steve Pletsch recovered for the Warriors.

Neal rushed for 17 yards and Pior added 10. Two more plays went for nought, however, and Neal passed to Mike Dale for the first down.

That was called back on an ineligible receiver downfield penalty. So, Neal went deeper on his next pass, but Wildcat Gary Manzanares intercepted at the 14.

Tularosa was moving the ball again, but a great rush by Bill Huey and Byron Wright sacked O'Hara on the third down and Tularosa punted.

Ruidoso started from its 27, and a pass interference call, a six yard run by Neal and a 19 yard run by Pior gave the Warriors a first and 10 at the Tularosa 31, with 34 seconds left in the half.

But from there, things went wrong.

The Warriors tried a flea flicker, but Neal was clobbered at Tularosa's Bill Turner for a 15 yard loss. The following play found Neal getting sacked for a 10 yard loss, and that's how the first half ended.

The third quarter was a defensive struggle, with neither team really able to move the ball (Ruidoso had 25 yards of offense, Tularosa had 39).

But the Warriors narrowly averted trouble. Backed up near their own goal line at the end of the period, Ruidoso was able to hold on until the end of the stanza, thus allowing punter Gene Reeves to kick with the wind in the fourth period.

His 48 yard punt at the start of the final quarter was hauled down at the Tularosa 48.

From there, Tularosa moved the ball well, mixing passes with runs and eventually getting a first and goal at the Warrior nine.

On first down, Yon Rue sacked O'Hara for a five yard loss.

An errant O'Hara pass was nearly picked off on second down. Sophomore running back Ray Ramos bulled for seven yards to the Ruidoso seven on third down.

With fourth and goal from the seven O'Hara pitched out to Chase, who tried to find Donald Stogden in the end zone. Instead he found Benway, who intercepted for the touchback.

From there, the Warriors mounted their game clinching drive.

After the Warrior score, O'Hara tried to pass but Neal intercepted and the Warriors ran out the clock.

JVers lose

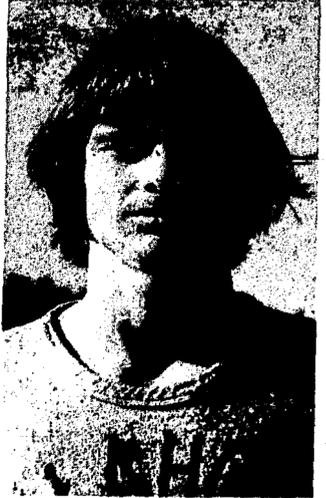

Ruidoso's junior varsity Warriors fell to Roswell High's freshman squad 22-12 here Thursday night after possessing a short lived 6-0 lead.

Kyle Flack scored on the second play of the game on a 50 yard pass play from quarterback Billy Woodul.

But Roswell came back, eventually building a 22-6 lead. Ruidoso scored again in the fourth quarter when Woodul hooked up with Grady Williamson on a 30 yard pass play.

The loss drops the junior varsity to 1-2-2 on the year.

"That fourth quarter touchdown clinched it for us," Stierwalt said. "When we stopped 'em and then scored, it put them out of it. Especially the way we controlled the ball — that ate up the clock, and Tularosa didn't have a chance then."

STEVE BENWAY... came up with key interception and fumble

Stierwalt praised his offensive line for its work.

"Without those guys, we couldn't have done it," he said. "We told 'em before the game they had to do the job or we couldn't win. They came through for us. Everybody did, for that matter."

Tackles Robert Langston and Curt Temple, guards Yon Rue and Bud Smith and centers Lon Nunley and Kevin Shultz were chiefly responsible for the excellent Warrior blocking, he said.

It was the final regular season home appearance by Ruidoso, and with three district games remaining (all on the road), Stierwalt said he's ready to get started.

"We're pretty excited about it," he said. "It would be nice to play at home, but... we're going to take them one at a time and work our tails off and win district."

The Warriors play Deming (0-6) there this week.

RUSS PIOR... rushed for 97 yards and scored second TD

Braves fall to Roswell Sierra

The White Mountain Middle School Braves lost to Roswell's Sierra Middle School 20-8 there Thursday, dropping their record to 0-3.

The Braves were outmanned most of the game, although "we really played pretty well," said coach Terry Wharton.

White Mountain scored with four seconds remaining in the contest on a three yard run by Cisco Bob, and Wade Proctor added the two point conversion.

Wharton's charges end their season Wednesday afternoon at 1 with a game against Tularosa there.

SCOTT NEAL... scored first TD, rushed for 108 yards

SPORTS

Volleyballers get a win and a loss

POW — Ruidoso's Karen Boone, returning to action after a crippling knee injury a week ago, spikes one during Saturday's Ruidoso T or C match. Ruidoso won in three games.

Ruidoso's varsity volleyballers split a pair of district matches Saturday, losing to Deming but defeating Truth or Consequences.

The junior varsity lost to both. "We're hanging in there," coach Margie Andrus said of her 7-6 squad. "This was our last home game so we'll have to do real well on the road. They're all district games from here."

The varsity lost 3-15 and 6-15 to the undefeated Deming Wildcats, but rallied to win in three against T or C, 9-15, 15-10 and 15-7.

"We played pretty well against T or C," she said. "Actually, we didn't play all that bad against Deming. But that first game against Deming looked like our game with Tularosa."

"What we keep forgetting is Deming is beatable. Yes, they have a good team, but we have a good team too."

The lady Warriors "missed a lot of serves" against Deming, and Cathy Jones and Gleda Bob came up with all the Warrior points, scoring one and two each.

In the second game, Bob and Jones had two apiece, and Irene Sanchez and Kody Taylor had one each.

The junior varsity fared about as well, losing 8-15 and 10-15. In the first game, Claudia Branum had two, followed by Lisa Williams, Dodie Baldonado, Mary Cadena and Lillian Lopez with one each.

In the second game, Baldonado had five, followed by Cadena with two, and Williams Branum and Cheryl Darden scored one each.

The varsity dropped the first game to T or C, 9-15, after trailing 1-9 at one point. Patricia Cardenas in her first varsity start scored three points, as did Bob. Sanchez had two and Jones added one to round out the scoring.

Cardenas had six in the second game, a 15-10 triumph. Cyd Wright had three, Jones had two and Karen Boone and Gleda Bob had one each.

Wright had that hot hand in the final 15-7 verdict, scoring seven, followed by Bob and Jones with three each and Karen Boone scored two.

In the junior varsity match, the lady Warriors dropped the first game, won the second but lost the third. Scores were 12-15, 15-13 and 3-15.

In the first game, Mary Cadena had three, as did Dodie Baldonado. Lopez and Williams had two each, followed by Karla Sears and Claudia Branum with one each.

In the second game, Williams had six, followed by Cadena with four, Baldonado and Sears with two, and Branum with one.

Cadena scored two and Sears had one to finish the scoring in the final 3-15 loss.

The junior varsity is 1-9 on the season. Next action for the team is Saturday at T or C.

Mark Bagby

The World Series has sure been a mixup, as far as I'm concerned.

The Royals, after all, dumped the Yankees easily, yet the Phillies had their hands full with the Astros. So I figured, well, the Royals in four.

As I write this on Friday morning, the Phillies lead the Series, two games to none. Perchance the Series will be over by the time you, dear reader, read this.

I have a funny feeling the Royals might lose game three, since George Brett is not expected to play, due to surgery Thursday to correct his backside problem. (I'd write it out, but a) I can't stand that word, and b) I can't spell it and I'm too lazy to look it up.)

I cannot help but recall all those folks who condemned Pete Rose for jumping the sinking Cincinnati ship way back when, and now he's playing first base for possible world champions.

That is, if the Phillies can break their tradition. In their first World Series way back yonder in '15, they lost to Boston, 4-1, and in '50, they lost to the Yanks, 4-0.

NBC's coverage of the games has been pretty good so far, although I thought they dwelled on poor old George Brett's backside problem (there I go again) a heckuva lot more than I thought necessary.

Maybe, though, George's problem symbolizes the Series for the Royals — like Brett, Kansas City might get it in the end. And they've definitely been a pain in the posterior, that's for sure.

Their bad times and their good ones, too. My alma mater, the University of Oklahoma, seems to have fallen on hard times. Somewhat, anyway.

I mean, here it is, four games into the season and the Sooners are 2-2. You know the last time that happened? 1970.

Since then, though, the Sooners have won two national titles and played some of the best football this country has ever seen.

They're also out to set a fumbling record.

Barry Switzer has, for years, been saying the cause of all those fumbles is the wide open style the Sooners play, the ball gets handled a lot and gets pitched out. Cogit ergo sum — ball handling leads to fumbles.

Horse manure, if you'll pardon my, French.

Why is it Texas has in years past run the Wishbone (the very offense the Sooners borrowed) without excessive fumbling? And Alabama? And Arkansas, and Georgia, and Michigan State, and ...

You get the idea. Now not trying to slight the man's 75-9-2 record, Switzer might be the cause of all those fumbles. (No, not cause, but perhaps responsible.)

If you've noticed, Bear Bryant's backs carry the ball in traditional style, i.e., securely wrapped in the crook of the arm.

Switzer's Sooners backs hold it like the proverbial loaf of bread. I have a funny feeling Bryant stresses the way you carry the ball is in direct proportion to the number of times it gets dropped.

So, if you notice, Oklahoma's backfield this year, had, as of the Oklahoma-Texas debacle, dropped it 30 times in four games, including six in that game.

I doubt Bama has dropped it 30 times in four years.

Coaches have to be responsible for the way their players play. After all, coaches coach and players play, but they're supposed to play the way they're coached.

I have a funny feeling (I get a lot of those) Switzer has probably never discussed ball handling with his backs.

I think he might have a long year at this rate. He may have a word or two for the backfield before the season is over, however.

Maybe the late Oklahoma humorist Will Rogers summed it up best, "I never met a football I couldn't drop."

Or something to that effect.

Ski Racers set fund raisers

Ruidoso's Sierra Blanca Junior Ski Racers are selling special season passes to Eagle Creek Ski Area, to earn money for the organization.

Family and business passes are $65, and are good November 15, 1980 through April 15, 1981. Family passes require each family member must live at home, and pictures of each must be provided.

Pictures can be no larger than one and a half inches square, and passes will be issued at the first visit to the area.

For more information, call 257-2391, 257-5641 or 336-4229.

Also, the "Snow Derby," a contest wherein participants guess when at least three inches of snow falls at Village Hall, is still in operation.

Tickets are $5 per person, and each entrant guesses the month, day, hour and minute of the first three inch snowfall. Closest guess wins $500, with second and third best garnering $200 and $100, respectively.

Tickets are available from all racers and their parents, or by calling the numbers listed above.

Finally, the organization is having a team meeting at 7:30 p.m., October 28, at King's Restaurant. All team members of all ages are urged to attend, and anyone interested is invited to attend.

Men's bowling league forming

Ruidoso's Men's Bowling League will begin play at 7:30 p.m., Thursday at the bowling alley.

Teams are now being formed, but a league spokesman said that others who wish to participate may "come early" and form teams that night. Teams consist of three men, he added.

I-n-s-i-d-e the Outdoors

by Gary Dollahon

Unless you hunters have done your homework, some of the season opening dates may catch you by surprise. This is particularly true if you are a goose, duck, or crane hunter, or if you hunt big game with a primitive weapon.

Goose season for our part of the state opened October 18 and will continue through January 18, 1981. The bag limit is five geese per day, 10 in possession, not to include more than two dark geese per day nor more than 4 dark geese in possession.

The duck season for this area will open October 28 and continues through January 18, 1981. Again the bag limit is based on the point system with ducks having assigned point-values.

These are: Canvasbacks: 100 points each; Redheads, hen mallards, Mexican-like ducks, wood ducks, and hooded mergansers: 70 points each; Teal, scaup, pintails, gadwalls, shovelers, wigeon, and common and red-breasted mergansers: 10 points each; All other ducks: 20 points each.

The daily bag limit has been reached when the point value of the last bird taken, when added to the sum of the point values of other birds already taken during the day, reaches or exceeds 100 points.

Possession limit for ducks is the maximum number of birds that legally could have been taken in two days.

Ducks and goose hunters at least 16 years of age and older must have in addition to their small game license, a federal "Duck Stamp," obtainable from the United States Post Office.

Crane season is October 31, 1980 through January 31, 1981. Crane hunting is open only in the counties of Chaves, Curry, DeBaca, Eddy, Lea, Quay, and Roosevelt. Bag limit is three per day, and possession limit is 6.

Crane hunters must have in addition to their small game license a special crane permit. This permit is free and can be obtained in person from any Game Department Office or by writing: Department of Game and Fish, Villagra Building, Santa Fe, New Mexico 87503. Include your name, address, and small game license number.

Needless to say, only very few ducks, geese, and crane are present in the Pecos Valley at this time, but they have the habit of appearing "overnight" once bad weather arrives.

The primitive weapons season for big game will open October 25 and runs through November 2 for Management Units 30 (the Guadalupe Range) and 34 (the Sacramento Range).

Unit 30 will be open for deer hunting only and Unit 34 will open for deer, bear, and turkey.

The Primitive Weapons Hunt is open only to those persons having their Big Game Licenses validated for either bow or muzzleloader, and to which the valid tags are still attached.

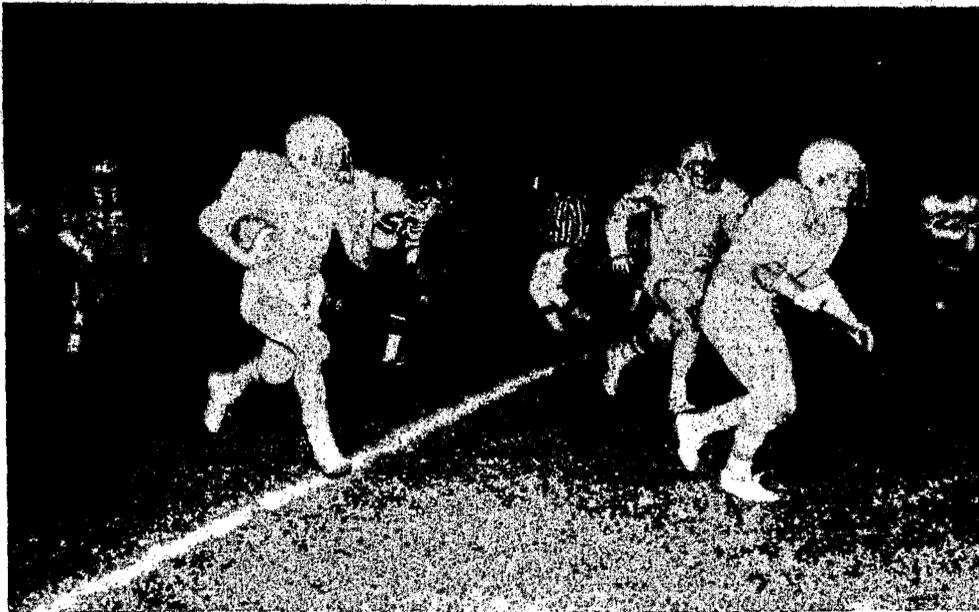

Those having licenses validated for bow must use a bow which can cast a hunting arrow at least 160 yards on level ground. Arrows must have broad-heads with sharpened, steel cutting edges. No crossbows may be used.

Hunters with licenses validated for muzzleloaders must use muzzleloading rifles of at least 40 caliber or muzzleloading shotguns firing a single slug (shot is legal for taking turkey).

The deer bag limit is one deer of either sex. The turkey bag limit is one turkey. The bear bag limit is one bear, except any female followed by a cub or cubs, and except any cub less than a year old.

Hunters bagging a bear, must contact a Game and Fish Officer within five days of taking the bear, or before exporting the hide from New Mexico (whichever comes first) in order that a special free hide tag be attached.

I encourage all hunters to obtain a copy of the current New Mexico Big Game Proclamation and of the New Mexico Game Bird Proclamation and further review what I have discussed here. Pay close attention to all rules and regulations.

RUNNING FOR yardage is Russ Pior (35), shown here on a 20 yard gain just before the end of the game. Two plays later, Pior scored from a yard out to clinch the win, 14 0.

PIOR GETS CONGRATULATIONS from Warrior wrestling coach Gerald Ames following his one yard plunge for the game clinching score.

Hunter safety class tonight

A hunter safety course begins tonight in the driver education room at Ruidoso High School.

The class runs tonight and Tuesday, as well as Thursday through Saturday. Class times are 6-8 p.m., with the exception of Saturday's session, which will be from 9 a.m. to noon.

Ross Schwarz is the course instructor, which is a requirement for all hunters under 18, and is recommended for any hunters who have not taken it.

New Mexico state law requires all persons under 18 who apply for a hunting license to pass a hunting safety course. To enroll, simply attend tonight's session.

The Dreamer
BY DANNIE STORM

First Snow
I hear that there is a little snow on the mountain, and the way the west wind feels blowing down the vale, you can tell there are snow flakes back up the way in the higher reaches. Also, all the sky to the west up the valley is banked, from one side to the other, with close massed clouds which refuse to move even with the west wind blowing about half speed.

And these clouds have that certain fluffy gray softness about them, with wind-blown veils and streamers hanging and drifting down to the mountain horizon — that look that tells you they are snow clouds, or clouds of rain and sleet.

So the beloved season of Indian Summer has begun around the foot of the mountain and on beyond, while down here below "The Narrows" on the Ruidoso River, it is still "Indian Spring" with the oak brush still not touched with Jack Frost's paint brush, and flowers blooming across the mountain meadows.

childhood eyes, the flag seemed to be rippling right next to the sky.
Grandpa Kennedy and I every evening would recite a little prayer:
"God bless me. Keep me from evil. Make me a good man."
Then we would ask God's blessing on all the family including all the kin folks, and then everybody in the world. Grandpa's and Grandma's blessing will remain with me always.

"The Great Northern Flavor King"

Some years ago up in New England, out in the country where they raised a lot of apples, there lived a fellow who was a great wizard in all the tricks of the trade of raising apples. Folks said that from being around apples all his life, and from being out of doors in the fresh air he had a clear pink complexion with a red spot in the cheek (like Wilbur Conley down at his nursery the other side of Ruidoso Downs).

In other words this fellow had even come to look a little like an apple. For this reason, and on account of his savvy about apple growing, and also for their great affection for him, they called him "Apple John."

There was a strange thing about Apple John. He had many kinds of apples in his orchard, but his favorites were in a little grove which to no one else had any taste. Some had one variety for a favorite and others another; and there were certain varieties that everybody liked. Apple John sold folks the kinds of apples they wanted, but closely guarded this little grove of his own favorites. (Little did he need to; for no one else liked them.)

Folks used to tease Apple John asking him why he did not cut down these trees, which, by the way, John had named "The Great Northern Flavor King."

After listening for a while about their jokes about his apples, Apple John would say,

Our Grandpa's Birthday
This message is being written on October sixteen and will reach you on October twenty, the birthday of our mother's father, John Calvin Kennedy who was a captain of cavalry in the Union Army in the Civil War, and who later served as Adjutant General of the State of Colorado.

I remember Grandpa and Grandma Kennedy as clearly as if it were yesterday, there in their home in Denver where we arrived after we came out of Alaska the first time. I celebrated my fourth birthday there at Grandma and Grandpa's home. Brother Joe was born there, and Mark was two years old, having been born in Valdez, Alaska. John, the eldest, was born in Denver before we went to Alaska the first time. And Lynn was born in Juneau, Alaska, after our return to Alaska.

I remember the flag in Grandpa's yard proudly flying on a tall flag pole. To my "Aw shut up. You fellows do not know a good apple when you see one."

At the County Fair one fall, there was an apple judging contest, and Apple John bet he could tell any kind of apple by the taste. So they blindfolded him and the crowd watched him judge one apple after another by just taking a bite.

"That's a Permain. That's a Black Twig. That's a Grimes Golden. That's a Virginia Winesap . . ." One after another he hit them right on the mark without a miss.

Finally a practical joker wadded up some cotton into a hard ball, and presented this to the blindfolded apple-judge.

After this bite a broad smile spread over the ruddy features of Apple John.

"That there is a Great Northern Flavor King," he said. Then smacking his chops with relish, he added, "And a jim-dandy good 'un."

Inside The Capitol

by Fred McCaffrey

SANTA FE — An interesting sidebar story during 1980, the year of the penitentiary in governmental affairs, is the decline of the Corrections Commission.

This once powerful group has been pretty well emasculated, as it is well aware. Word was out before one of its recent meetings that mass resignations were about to take place "unless we are satisfied with their explanations."

That day the commission went into executive session with some of the higher-ups in the corrections system. Apparently their explanations were satisfactory. Nobody resigned.

But it seemed to some of us that Governor King and acting Corrections Secretary Bill Giron were almost going out of their way to make it clear at the press conference announcing the coming of Roger Crist that the commission had no real role in choosing the newly named Secretary.

Under state government reorganization, the Corrections Commission became an advisory body. Like most of those groups who had once had power and cherished it, this one did not like the change.

They apparently got the idea during Governor King's last campaign that if he was elected their real clout would be restored. He was elected, but they were disappointed. Unlike the State Police Board, which was reconstituted as a policy making body, the corrections folks found themselves still in that amorphous position called "advisory." (In politics, that means they can say what they want but nobody has to pay any attention to them.)

That's galling and a little humiliating. What's worse, they have had to watch the rise in the administration's estimation of a merely temporary group, the citizens' advisory committee named to assist the Attorney General in the preparation of his report on the penitentiary riot. That operation, headed by Ray Powell, quite evidently has the ear of the governor, while the Corrections Commission finds itself more and more out in the cold.

As one example, its members find out most things about what's going on in our corrections system the same way the rest of us do — by reading about them in the newspapers.

That doesn't give members the warm feeling that their advice is truly sought after by the governor's office and the Department of Corrections.

Ask the Governor about the Commission and the response you get seems to hover somewhere between embarrassment and anger. He's like a young boy being asked about a former girlfriend from whom his interest has strayed. "Oh, them" seems to be what he's really saying. "Don't bother me about that bunch. They've had their day, but they don't matter any more."

Ask him how the Commission will take to his newly named Secretary of Corrections, and he gives you a tight-lipped smile and says, "We think they'll go along all right" — which, to those who know him, means that if they don't they'll get up some morning and read in the paper that they have resigned.

Maybe that day they were geared up for walking away the members should have gone ahead and done it. Better to go out with a bang than a whimper.

Such an action would at least deliver the message that all is not as rosy in Corrections as the administration would like us citizens to believe.

This time we should hear that message from civilians who care, rather than from riot, rapine and slaughter.

Letters to the Editor

Dear editor:
Citizens of Ruidoso — Do you remember? Water, water everywhere and not a drop to drink. Water, water and boy did it stink. What is being done to correct our water problem? Nothing has been said. Without water you might as well close up shop.

Mary Lavine

Dear editor:
On behalf of the board of directors of the Ruidoso Gymnastics Association, I would like to take this opportunity to publicly thank the Ruidoso Hondo Valley Chamber of Commerce for their most generous contribution to the gymnastics program. The donation was for the exciting performances given by the gymnasts at the Arts and Crafts fair, however, the girls were not expecting any monetary return.

The board of directors for the association is working very hard to provide the children of Ruidoso the finest in gymnastic instruction, and we appreciate and need all the community support we can get.

Running a gymnastics program is a very expensive undertaking. Our major expenses include rent, coaches' salaries, insurance, and equipment. The money made available to us by the Chamber will help make our job a little easier.

WRITING SKILL

For years there have been widespread complaints that young Americans are reaching college without having developed even minimal skill at writing. This shortcoming has been freely attributed to bad education in the public schools, and — when due allowance is made for parental indifference, the impact of television, and other relevant factors — the indictment is accurate.

Fortunately, the news about this problem is getting better. More and more, one hears of school systems in various parts of the country launching programs to teach children how to express themselves on paper. Best of all, there are indications that many such programs are solidly grounded in that wise old educational adage: Nothing improves writing like writing.

It has long been the despair of those interested in this matter that school children in general simply have not been assigned enough writing to help them develop necessary skills. In many systems this has extended throughout the years preceding graduation from high school.

That is why so many college professors have found entering freshmen unable to write a simple paper without a liberal seasoning of errors in spelling, sentence structure, and the rest of it. They have found these high school graduates incapable of expressing ideas on paper intelligibly, let alone with some grace and persuasiveness.

Various attempts to change this are under way. Interesting work is being done, for example, in California. Shirley Bockrath, a teacher involved in setting up pilot programs around the state, provided some insight into the matter recently when she observed: "The children love it. They cannot believe their own capacity for writing. They also enjoy the fact that they are little editors, correcting their writing just the way an editor would."

This is the essence of it, really: to get youngsters to the point of finding joy and satisfaction in the ability to express themselves in writing. It is being done by a steady progression, starting with construction of simple sentences in the first grade and bringing children to high school already able to produce organized compositions of some complexity.

It's not the millennium. Not every student who gets to high school, nor even everyone who graduates and heads for college, will be skilled at writing as a result of such programs. But what is going on now is encouraging indeed to parents and others who rightly believe that competence in writing is an absolutely fundamental element of education. — Alamogordo Daily News

TONED-DOWN 'MILL

In the wind energy field, Uncle Sam is learning by doing. That speaks well for the ultimate success of a program which thus far has had its problems.

The giant "wind turbine" erected near Boone, N. C., has been a success in one respect: its 100-foot-long steel blades, revolving at a maximum speed of 35 revolutions per minute, can generate 2,000 kilowatts of electricity. But it makes a peculiar noise, and is blamed for ghost images on television.

Hence, the wind turbine is being modified — fiberglass blades, lower speed. The altered windmill on a height near Boone will, as a result, produce less electricity. But the changes are part of the process of learning how to make optimum use of wind energy with the least community disturbance. — Alamogordo Daily News

We wish Roger Crist success in his position as New Mexico's new secretary of corrections and criminal rehabilitation — a post he will assume early in November.

Crist, warden at the Montana state prison since 1972, certainly knows, from published accounts of the riot at our state pen in February, as well as from scuttlebutt he had to be exposed to, that his task will not be an easy one — nor will he find too many on the sidelines acting like envious bystanders.

What he'll learn, as he delves into the problems to be solved in connection with his new appointment, is that he may encounter a lack of interest in his problems by those who've indicated he'll have free reign.

It'll be interesting to see if a comment by Belarmino Giron, acting secretary of corrections and criminal rehabilitation, that Crist will have authority to "hire, to transfer, and to terminate," will come to pass, without some of those transferred or terminated successfully battling Crist to retain their positions, while making life so untenable for Crist that he may be the one actually terminating his position.

We don't know too much about the political pressures applied to the warden of Montana's state pen — but Crist could gain an inkling as to how severe those pressures can be in New Mexico by contacting one of his predecessors — Dr. Charles Becknell.

It is our fervent hope, however, that Crist will be allowed to function with a free hand, to the end that the state penitentiary will be operated in a humane manner — we don't need any more violent riots. — CD

ON PRESIDENTIAL POLLS

Based on published results of polls on the standing of the three major presidential contenders ... Our Jimmy ... Ronnie Baby ... and Johnny Boy ... it does appear as though Anderson is campaigning for the exercise ... and exposure ... in case he has aspirations to try again ... like in four years.

In addition to the polls ... there are oodles of educated guesses ... prognostications, some with tongue in cheek, others straight out of the crystal ball ... and down right assertions that Our Jimmy's bringing up the rear and that Ronnie Baby is piling up a winning number of electoral votes ... and it's still 15 days until voting time.

I don't recall who threw the first mud ball ... Our Jimmy ... or Ronnie Baby ... but, based on news reports, it do seem as though Our Jimmy is on the mound ... and not throwing too many strikes ... and that's based mostly on the hue and cry being raised hollering "foul" ... 'cause there're those as figure presidential candidates shouldn't carry on like ward candidates in Chicago ... having words put into their mouths by ward heeler.

'Course there's still plenty of time for either Our Jimmy or Ronnie Baby to make a classic boo-boo ... and cause those undecided voters ... at least those that might be contemplating maybe going to the polls November 4 ... to make up their minds ... one way or the other.

And wouldn't it be a shame ... considerin' the lack of status quo we presently are mired in ... on matters domestic as well as international ... to have something like 25 percent of the voters elect our president?

Now ... seems ... from reports ... that Ronnie Baby did quite a job in getting California out of the red whilst he was governor ... and he did some other things ... and it do seem as though Our Jimmy's accomplishments as governor of Georgia, kinda pale into insignificance in comparison ... but then, Georgia ain't California ... and what was did in either state ain't likely to have much bearing on what's gotta be done for the United States.

As of today ... though ... the way the presidential polls look ... it's perfectly okay for you to begin wondering if'n Our Jimmy'll have as much fun in his peanut patch as he had in his rose garden.

COLOR COME LATELY

The aspens and maples was sure brilliant over the weekend in the early morning ... and late afternoon ... sun.

Now that's all fine ... and beautiful ... with the main thing being ... it'd sure been nice if'n they'd a been all that colorful whilst all them tourists was here ... 'cause it mighta given them cause to come back for another Aspenade ... and peek at the colorful leaves.

'Course, if'n squirrels ain't colorblind ... they're probably enjoying all that color ... so it ain't being entirely lost.

BONITO LAKE PARK PLAN

Way I hear tell it ... Terry Coe ... of Ruidoso ... has a hankerin' to try his hand at developing Bonito Lake into a profit making camping and picnicking area ... and that he's proposed his proposals to the Alamogordo city dads ... and further, that those city dads are considerin' Coe's proposal.

Now ... 'cording to the way I heard it ... Coe's figuring he'll wind up ... after spending some $120,000 on improvements ... with a profit of $800 a day ... if'n all his facilities is plumb full ... which'd leave him with $400 ... and Alamo with $400 ... under Coe's fifty-fifty split plan.

Now that sounds all fine ... and good ... for Coe and Alamo ... but ... being's Coe's a Ruidoso man ... it'd sure be nice if'n he could come up with some fine print in that contract ... if'n there's gonna be one ... so that Ruidoso could flush about 1,000,000 gallons of water a day outta Bonito Lake ... like from May 1 to October 1 each year ... why a little dab like that ... outta all them 408 million acre-feet of water in the lake ... Alamo wouldn't even miss ... maybe we should offer 'em $10 per 10,000 gallons ... no?

ON GASOLINE PRICES

Gas at the pumps in Harmony Valley is running from somewhere between $1.15 and $1.27 ... or so ... a gallon ... and, by jinkies, you really don't hear too much hollerin' ... why it's almost as though any price ... as long as it ain't more'n $1.30 ... is a bargain drivers can't pass up ... tsk!

BRIEF BIT: The time's now to start hoping for a 100 year record snow fall atop Old Baldy this season ... so's we can water our posies next summer ... CD

BLM's proposed grazing regulations announced

New Mexico ranchers who graze livestock on Bureau of Land Management (BLM) administered public land will have a larger role in grazing decisions under proposed regulations announced recently. The proposed rulemaking was developed after six months of consultation with ranchers, wildlife interests, conservationists and state officials throughout the west.

Highlights of the proposal include:
 —up to 17 months of consultation between ranchers, state officials and interest groups and BLM before a decision is final;
 —up to five years to phase in adjustments;

—the ability to amend decisions if subsequent studies indicate the original adjustment was either too large or small; and —a substantially greater role for others interested in rangeland management.

The ground work for these regulations was laid in New Mexico over the past year as a unique approach to the consultation, coordination and cooperation section of the Public Rangelands Improvement Act.

A 45 day comment period opened October 15, with the publication of the proposed regulations in the Federal Register. Persons wishing to comment should write the Director, Bureau of Land Management (650), Washington, D.C., 20240 by December 1, 1980.

Copies of the regulation are available for reading at any BLM office.

Some of the common questions and answers for the proposed amendments to the grazing regulations have been compiled by the BLM:

1. Q. Why are changes again being made to the grazing regulations?

A. A substantial part of these changes constitute housekeeping. The regulations issued in 1978 were a major revision of previous regulations and, as one might expect, there are places where experience has shown the wording is not clear, not all management needs are addressed, or revision of policies are needed. The most substantive policy change concerns the manner in which grazing use is adjusted.

2. Q. What is the proposed policy for making adjustments in livestock grazing use of the public lands?

A. Both increases and decreases would normally be phased in over a 5-year period with adjustments made in the 1st, 3rd, and 5th year. Exceptions are provided where:

- there is agreement
- needed to sustain long-term resource productivity

— the total reduction is 15 percent or less

Consultation would precede decisions and monitoring would be used to amend decisions as production and conditions change. Opportunities for appeals, by both livestock operators and others, are more clearly delineated.

3. Q. Will consultation result in compromise of inventory data or surveyed grazing capacity?

A. No, decisions on use adjustment will be based on the best information available. Where inventories have been completed, land use planning (including public input) will determine the allocation to livestock grazing. Consultation will be used to develop a system of management, including planned range improvement, and a schedule for balancing use with the livestock grazing capacity.

4. Q. Will decisions on reductions be based upon assumptions about range improvement?

A. No, decisions will be based upon evaluation of the current situation. We will not make decisions on grazing capacities based on assumed increases in available forage resulting from either improved management or investment in range improvements. That would be, in effect, betting on the come and we cannot base public policy on those kinds of bets. Changes in productivity will be determined through monitoring and decisions will be amended as conditions warrant.

5. Q. How will monitoring information be used?

A. Monitoring studies will include actual grazing use, utilization, climate, and range condition and trend. Over the short term (perhaps up to 10 years) actual use and utilization, evaluated in terms of climatic conditions, will be the most useful in determining whether adequate progress is being made in reaching the management objectives. Trend data, which takes longer to develop, will be developed in later years. As data becomes available, they will be used as the basis for amending decisions.

6. Q. What is the Bureau's commitment and capability for monitoring?

A. BLM Director Frank Gregg has committed the Bureau to seeking adequate Congressional funding for monitoring and making those internal funding shifts necessary to assure adequate funding. The Bureau will be looking for assistance from interest groups both in support of funding requests and in the conduct of monitoring studies.

7. Q. Why is a phase-in period being proposed for increases as well as decreases in livestock use?

A. A phase-in period for both increases and decreases will permit monitoring of changes and evaluation of the complex interrelationships among livestock grazing and other grazing animals. This will help assure that no long-term commitments are made until experience has shown that all related management objectives will be met.

8. Q. What is a full force and effect decision?

A. In a normal situation, an appeal of a decision suspends implementation of the action required by the decision while the appeal is being resolved. However, when the authorized officer places a decision in full force and effect, the action required by the decision must be implemented on the specified date, even though the decision is appealed.

9. Q. How do these proposals affect the use of full force and effect decisions?

A. The proposed policy places even more emphasis on efforts to arrive at cooperative agreements on livestock adjustments than does the current policy. At the same time, it reinforces specific criteria which must be met when full force and effect decisions are issued.

10. Q. How would the new policy on livestock adjustments affect opportunities for appeal of BLM decisions?

A. The proposed regulations reiterate and clarify opportunities for appeals by any person whose interest is adversely affected by the decision. That includes not just livestock operators but also wildlife, environmental, wild horse and burro, and related interests, where appropriate. The proposal ensures that this right of appeal includes those decisions that would amend an earlier decision.

11. Q. How will interested parties other than livestock operators be made aware of decisions?

A. There are several opportunities for all interests to become involved in influencing decisions and to become aware of decisions once they are made. These opportunities include evaluation of resource conditions and values, land use planning, and environmental impact assessment. Following these processes, but before specific decisions are issued on each allotment, a draft Rangeland Management Program Document (RMP-D) will be developed for each grazing EIS area to summarize by allotment the proposed program. All affected interests will then be involved in consultations which will lead to an adoption of a final RMPD. Copies of decisions to individual permittees and lessees will be sent to every person who has indicated his interests may be affected by the decision. This process will be repeated when decisions are amended. Moreover, the RMPD will be updated and reissued prior to third and fifth year adjustments.

12. Q. If adjustments in the amount of livestock use are the major issue, why are a number of other, apparently unrelated, proposals being included now?

A. The Bureau proposes to use this opportunity to meet a number of user and management concerns about apparent weaknesses in the present regulations. Several wording changes are proposed to more accurately communicate the management intent, to rectify obvious errors, or to better reflect current policies.

13. Q. How can I best respond to these proposals?

A. The Bureau is asking for comments on the proposed rulemaking to be submitted to the Director (650) no later than December 1, 1980. The most useful comments are those that address specific issues and suggest specific wording changes in the proposal.

14. Q. What next?

A. Written comments and feedback from briefings and meetings will be carefully analyzed and appropriate changes will be made in the proposal with final rulemaking to be published in the Federal Register early next year. Administrative provisions will then be available for use during the next grazing season and the final policy on making grazing use adjustments will be utilized for the development of agreements and decisions during the next year.

Not Having An Extension Where You Need It Will Give You A Lot Of Hang Ups.

How many times has this happened to you?
 You're busy in one part of your home and the phone rings in another.
 You run like mad to get there and just as you answer it, whoever called has given up.
 Frustrating isn't it?
 Well, with an extension phone from Continental Telephone, you're not likely to miss a call.
 We have extensions to suit almost every room in your home. They come in a variety of styles and colors. And they only cost a few cents more a day.
 The ease and convenience are worth a call to our business office.
 At Continental Telephone, we have the perfect remedy for a lot of your hang ups.
Without Extension Phones All Your Calls Are "Long Distance!"

BECAUSE OF YOU

...banking programs have come of age.

...Our Women in Cash Management program is an enormous success! Our bank understands the needs of today's woman to acquaint herself with banking procedures. WCM wants to instill "banking confidence" in women and help you feel more comfortable about cash management.

Feel free to consult our WCM Director about all of your banking questions. She is especially trained to offer advice in any of the areas that you, as a woman, might require NOW.

Ask us about our WCM program! Because of you, it's an enormous success! We know you work hard for your money and we're working hard to make WCM work for you! Count on us.

WCM...our new cash management division for women is steady and growing.

Just like the sun in the morning. We're steady as you grow.

SALUTE TO CHAMBER MEMBERS

This is a regular feature in the Monday edition of this newspaper to introduce the members of the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce

THE LOCKSMYTH, located at 2629 Sudderth Drive between the new Sonny's Bar-B-Que and Back to Nature, is owned by Eddie Crain, pictured above with associate Joey Garcia. The shop opened in May 1979 and became a member of the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce during the June membership drive. They specialize in hair styling, cutting and permanent waves for both men and women. Beard styling is available for men and the latest women's fashions, including the new braids, are provided for women. Garcia also cuts and styles children's hair. Markham hair care products are also sold at the Locksmyth. "The best people in Ruidoso walk through our doors," Crain said. Business hours are 9:30 a.m., "until," Monday through Saturday.

THE ALTRUSA CLUB OF RUIDOSO has been organized ten years and has been on the Chamber rolls several years. Club officers include back row, from left: Doris Langford, publicity; Wilma Sandoval, recording secretary; Donna Willard, president; front row: Liz Monro, corresponding secretary; Charline Jones, immediate past president; Coni Foster, membership chairman and Mary Parsons, director. The Altrusa Club is an international organization of women who are in managerial positions or business owners. The service club boasts 82 members and helps sponsor more than 15 projects throughout the year through their donations of time and money. The Altrusa Club meets the first Tuesday at noon at Cree Meadows Country Club and the third Tuesday at 6:30 p.m., at the Episcopal Church of the Holy Mount.

Outspoken consumer advocate Ralph Nader hosts a lively public affairs forum discussing topics ranging from tax reform to nuclear energy in "Ralph Nader: For The People" on Showtime.

Nader Crusades on Cable

by Aphrodite Jones

Free from the constraints of commercial TV, Ralph Nader's "For the People" is projected to air monthly on Showtime Entertainment. While presenting straight facts on current issues and possible solutions for resolving problems, the program is more than informative—it aims to motivate the public to engage in self-government. "Most of the people who are being hurt don't exert the energy to stop it; they can learn how to help themselves," Nader explained. "It's a matter of developing citizen habits."

Taped at Georgetown University, Washington D.C., "For the People" features on location investigative reports, consumer tips, public alerts, information on recent legislation, live debates with corporate leaders which include the studio audience, as well as provides specific addresses and free hot line numbers to relevant government agencies.

Pencil and pad

"This program offers information that is not the custom of the media," said Nader. "It will tell people what they can do after showing a documentary on an abuse and there will always be someone who can relate to the issues we explore. Right now I have no expectation of what's to come; it will start small. People will have to get into the habit of watching television with a pencil and pad," he said.

As host Nader invites chief executives of major American corporations to join him on the show, posing questions never before asked, Mr. Nader insisted, "I'm asking nuts and bolts questions free of abstract generalities that deal with real human problems and evidences I want to hold these business men accountable. They can't hide their sins when you break it down to specifics."

Nader, who claims that he was raised with a basic feeling for justice coupled with a basic responsibility to help expand it in our country, says that he hopes to tie people to one another. "A television program should be a connector. Commercial TV fails here." He continued, "We will start with a corporate perspective, add the viewpoint of the victims, and encourage people to join together in support of their rights."

Versatile Pittsburgh Steelers' running back Rocky Bleier (No. 20) will test the defense of the Oakland Raiders, Monday, October 20 when the Steelers and Raiders clash on ABC's NFL MONDAY NIGHT FOOTBALL.

Television Schedule For The Week Of Oct. 20 through Oct. 26

through channels

by Joey Sasso

CONFIDENTIAL REPORT Wonder why 'General Hospital,' ABC-TV's extremely popular daytime drama, has a closed set lately? Producer Gloria Monty denies it, but I know the big clampdown is for one reason and one reason only—Luke (Tony Geary) will be lured out of hiding by a transsexual character. And get this, soap fans: The character will be played by a real-life transsexual. You gotta have a gimmick, etc., etc. Sid Caesar, the comedian who made America laugh in the fifties, hates TV. "There's nothing to be excited about. I don't know who they're writing for because I don't think anybody over 16 watches television," says Caesar. Asked which comedian he likes on the box, he could not name one.

CONSUMER NEWS WIRE Recording superstar Neil Diamond who makes his screen debut in 'The Jazz Singer' the updated version of the classic motion picture got more firsts out of acting than a screen credit. He also got his first screen kiss. In fact, he got several. And they weren't all from love interest Lucie Arnaz, who stars as Diamond's manager Molly Bell. I kissed Laurence Olivier more times in this film than I kissed Lucie, he laughed. Olivier, who stars as Diamond's tradition bound father, Cantor Rabinovitch, plays the role with the affection and warmth typical of a father who knows he is about to lose his son to the boy's desire for a life of his own. Johnny Carson is to co-host a two-hour special with George Burns and Bob Hope as a tribute to Jack Benny titled 'A Love Letter To Jack.' It will be aired next spring.

TV CLOSEUP James Garner has been secretly dating Sally Field, the 33 year old actress who left live in love Burt Reynolds last April. Disguised under a blonde wig, Oscar winning Sally recently flew to Denver, Colorado, to see 52 year old Garner make his singing debut at the Red Rocks amphitheatre. Hero of 'The Rockford Files,' Garner was warbling country and western songs. It was only a year ago that he split from his wife, Lois, after 23 years of marriage. Their breakup stunned Hollywood friends. Although they still dine out together and Garner claims he's not interested in other women, he and Lois live apart. Bumbling Ted Baxter, the incompetent anchorman of the 'Mary Tyler Moore Show' has finally had the chop—three years after the series ended Ted Knight—who played the hopeless Baxter for seven seasons—returns to television this fall as the star of a new series that he hopes will lay the Baxter ghost to rest forever. I've been trying for three years to overcome the Ted Baxter image, and I think I've finally done it. The Baxter character was so ingrained in everybody's minds I was completely tied to it. They were confused and bewildered if they saw me in another situation. Now I think enough time has passed so that I'm free to move on.

KENNEDY SKY-LITES

K MODEL SKY-LITE

General Description: The K Model SKY-LITE is a unique self-flashing skylight that laminates into the roof plane. Its low profile adapts and blends into a variety of applications. The flange is designed as an integral part of the outer dome - thereby eliminating seams. The outer and inner domes are apart except at the inside edge where they are bonded, creating an insulated air space with zero air infiltration. A pre-punched nailing pattern is incorporated into the flange to add to its ease of installation. Inner domes are flat bottom panels.
