Downs facing water system improvements

In hopes of alleviating water pressure problems in "as many locations in the village as possible, Ruidoso Downs trustees voted Monday to investigate potential improvement action in the Redman Club area.

The trustees noted that extensive water system improvements, financed by a combination grant/loan of $38,000 from the state Board of Finance, were recently completed in Las Lomas Subdivision.

Since about $8,000 of that amount remains unspent, the trustees, at the suggestion of Bob Power, agreed to expend "a reasonable amount" to allow Boyle Engineering of Albuquerque to determine whether the remaining monies can be used to finance more improvements.

Power said the residents of the Redman Club area have been subjected to the expense of installing private water pressure tanks at their homes because of inadequacies of the water system.

His suggestion to attempt improvements met with some criticism from mayor Norman Wheeler, who said the original subdivider of the area was advised the system would not provide for more than the club and four residences.

"I don't think the people and the village should have to suffer (through water service payments) by redoing a job that should have been done properly in the first place," Wheeler said.

Power said he felt that issue was "beside the point — we're stuck with the situation, no matter who did it or how it was done. As long as those people (in the Redman Club area) are paying for water, we ought to get it to them. I know it's a bad deal, but we're stuck with it."

If the situation were to continue without improvements over the next five years, Power said, "they'll be in worse shape than Las Lomas ever was."

The trustees also agreed to enter into a joint powers agreement, subject to the approval of the Ruidoso trustees, to use the services of Ruidoso building inspector John Emde.

Under the agreement, approved at the Tuesday meeting of the Ruidoso trustees, fees for building permits and inspections will be split between the two villages. In the past, Ruidoso Downs has used the services of the state building inspector, since the amount of new construction has not warranted the employment of a full-time local inspector.

In other business, the trustees discussed with police chief Ray Garner the possibility of allowing patrolman Gene Ridgeway to set up a chemical laboratory in the department's unused office space. They agreed to study the matter further with Ridgeway, village insurers and village attorney Richard Parsons to determine possible dangers from toxic chemicals and liability problems, if any.

Ski Report

Sierra Blanca: The resort received six inches of new snow Sunday and Monday, but despite machine packing, it was not enough to open any upper mountain trails. Currently, the Beginner Chair Three lift is operating, and conditions are rated good. The new Beginner Chair Five will begin operating today, and the Lincoln chairlift will open to midway Saturday, serving Snow Park and Smokey Bear trails.

Eagle Creek: The lower resort currently has an 18 inch average base of manmade and natural snow, with Boot Hill, Box Canyon and two beginner runs operating. Conditions are rated good, and Eagle Creek will have night skiing this weekend.

For updated ski reports, call Sierra Blanca, 257-9001, or Eagle Creek, 338-4211.

The Ruidoso Lodger's Tax Committee (LTC) Wednesday voted to recommend an expenditure of $10,000 for advertising and promotion of Ruidoso's ski season while declining to offer advice on the content of that advertising.

In doing so, the LTC refused to be drawn into an ongoing disagreement between the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce and the Ruidoso Lodgers Association (RLA), with several tax committee members stating, "We are not a policy-making body."

The Lodgers Association had requested $12,000 to promote a specific ski package offer, which included a midweek lodging special with the third day at half price or the fourth day free, as well as equipment discounts at local ski shops and discounts on lift tickets at both ski areas.

The RLA's plan included advertisements on a number of radio stations subscribing to the Texas State Network news service and an advertisement in Texas Monthly magazine.

The Chamber had previously proposed a similar promotion calling for advertisements with Texas State Network radio stations; giveaways of lodging and lift tickets, to be advertised on those stations; a Texas Monthly ad; and a small advertising promotion in the Tucson, Arizona, area.

Another of Ruidoso's "best kept secrets" was accorded nationwide publicity this week as the old saw, "The early bird gets the worm," became a fact for Ed and Marion Hyman.

Early Bird, owned by the Hymans, was this week named the Top Three-Year-Old Racing Mule in the nation by The American Mule Association (AMA), of Fresno, California.

In addition to displaying his winning form in Ruidoso, Early Bird won large stakes races in Colorado and California during 1980.

"We were amazed," Marion Hyman said, "when we learned the AMA had picked Early Bird as the best in the country and it makes us prouder of him than ever."

Other mules named by the AMA, most of whom have raced in Ruidoso, include: Top A Mule, Oscar B, owned by Mr. and Mrs. Buck Neely, Chandler, Arizona.

NMHD SEEKS RIGHT-OF-WAY CLEANUP

Trustees plan sign study

Ruidoso trustees voted Tuesday to "take under advisement" and study further possible encroachments on state highway right-of-ways, especially by business signs along Sudderth and Mechem Drives, at the request of New Mexico Highway Department (NMHD) officials.

Meeting with the trustees to request their "cooperation" on the matter were Worth Smelser, NMHD district engineer of Roswell and Steve Hamilton of the NMHD's legal department in Santa Fe.

Hamilton outlined several reasons the department has launched a renewed effort to remove such encroachments in Ruidoso and elsewhere in the district.

Hamilton said the encroachments violate state and federal laws, and that failure to enforce the laws could mean that federal highway funding could be delayed or cut off altogether. Since federal aid to the NMHD totals about $100 million annually, he called the withholding of funds a "heavy stick" which could be used to pressure the NMHD to comply with the laws.

Another reason for removal of the encroachments involves state liability in accident cases, Hamilton said. If a vehicle were to "run off the road" and strike a sign or other encroachment, he said, a narrow interpretation of the tort claims act might result in the state's being held responsible for damages.

Hamilton also mentioned the possibility that failure to remove encroachments might be interpreted as a "gift" (free rental of the space occupied) from the state to a private citizen, which is prohibited by the constitution.

Smelser asked the trustees for a "resolution in support of our efforts" and said the board members might be helpful to NMHD in identifying owners of encroaching signs.

Alleged violators of the encroachment regulations have not yet been identified. Smelser said. He said he was not sure how long the identification process would take or when letters would be mailed to alleged violators. Violations will be determined with legal surveys, he said.

Those whose signs encroach on highway right-of-ways will probably be given 30 days to remove them, Hamilton said. The ten-day period originally proposed by the NMHD "doesn't seem too terribly reasonable," Hamilton said.

Asked whether other objects, including buildings and trees, would be removed from right-of-ways under the enforcement program, Hamilton said "we'd be obligated under state and federal law to do something about it." Buildings on the right-of-way would pose a "messy problem," and action to remove or relocate the buildings would probably be the last step in an enforcement program, Hamilton said.

Trustee George White went on record as objecting to any village involvement in the project, but a motion to that effect died for lack of a second in the continuing discussion.

Eventually, trustee Benny Coulton moved to look into the matter further, and the measure passed, with White casting the lone dissenting vote.

In other business, the trustees: — Approved the final plat of Pinon Park, Phase I, a housing development adjacent to the Swim and Racquet Club, contingent upon the developer posting a bond with the village guaranteeing street and parking lot paving in the development. The trustees directed that three estimates be obtained on paving costs and that the bond be for the amount of the highest estimate.

— Approved a request by Ruidoso Downs trustee Harrold Mansell to utilize

School seeks two mill levy

A resolution placing the proposed two mill levy for the Ruidoso school district on the February 3, 1981, election ballot was approved Tuesday by the Ruidoso Board of Education.

The two mill levy would generate approximately $105,000 per year for two years to make improvements and additions to present school buildings.

Also on the ballot will be the election of two board members. The six year terms of Don Swalander and C. L. "Bones" Wright expire February 23, 1981.

Superintendent of Schools Pat Valliant said school board candidates must declare their candidacy between December 15 and 30 at the school's administrative office. Candidates must be qualified voters living within the school district.

"The voter registration deadline for this election is December 23, at Ruidoso's village hall.

A PORTABLE BUILDING to house Nob Hill Elementary students may be purchased by the board. However, preliminary investigation of approved buildings, and buildings that may be available from other districts, revealed that costs are higher than expected.

A General Service Administration-approved structure, measuring 24x50 feet, costs around $50,000 minimum, according to board president Dave Parks.

A similar building could be obtained, following a call for bids, from other companies, for approximately $20,000 less, Parks said. "The earliest date for placement of the building would be late February," he added.

Nob Hill principal Don Weems said, "I don't want the portable building here—we made our new structures and we can get by without that; we're getting by now." An additional room, housing the media center, was built in the entrance to the school recently.

No action was taken on purchasing a portable building.

PLANS FOR SPENDING the money generated from the proposed mill levy, if it passes, were also discussed. A consolidated building committee, composed of representatives from all four schools, recommended several steps to take in the planning stages, and all were adopted by the board.

The recommendations include: —Making a study of the growth rate of Ruidoso, projected over the next 20 years, using documents already available from the Mescalero Apache Tribe, the United States Forest Service and the Village of Ruidoso.

—Authorizing the Advisory Council to review, and consolidate, individual building committee suggestions before submitting them to the school board.

—Directing all school building committee representatives to meet periodically to discuss planning progress being made by individual committees; with the committees also to make planning projections for a 20 year period. —Considering selection of an architect and contractor only after on-site inspections of present facilities have been made and design and construction problems have been reviewed at each school.

Bob Palko, committee chairman said plans need to be "geared to future needs" and said the "key to making this fly is input from a lot of people."

Board members also called for bids to

School election set February 3

Two board of education members, and a two mill levy proposal, will be on the ballot at the February 3, 1981, Ruidoso School District election.

Deadlines, for this election, are:

December 23 — Final day for voter registration at Ruidoso's village hall.

December 30 — Final day for candidates to file for office at the school administrative building.

January 9, 1981 — Final day to withdraw as candidates.

January 14 — Final day for mailing absentee ballots to out-of-district electors.

January 27 — Final day to mail absentee ballots to voters living in the district.

February 3 — Election day, with all precincts voting at the high school gymnasium. The polls will be open from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m.

February 6 — Canvass of election returns by the Board of Education.

Skiing advertising funded

The Chamber planned to advertise Ruidoso skiing, with emphasis on midweek discounts, without mentioning specifics of half price or free days of lodging.

Linda Flack advised the LTC that the RLA had polled local lodgers on the ski package advertising. She said 39 of 64 lodgers responded to the poll, with 33 expressing approval of the RLA proposal.

Ray Heid, of the Chamber's advertising committee and executive board, said he had polled local ski shops and they had approved of the ski pack advertising (RLA proposal) by a vote of about 10 to 5.

Speaking for the RLA, Clark Carpenter said they hoped the "success of this advertising campaign will shift gears to Ruidoso and bring the much-needed midweek visitors," to the area.

Although ski package promotions have failed in Ruidoso in the past, Carpenter said, "We think this is the best one the city's ever had and we think it will work."

Ed Hyman, chairman of the LTC, pointed out the necessity for the committee to act quickly, since deadlines for the Texas Monthly advertising are approaching. He also asked the RLA members whether the Chamber would be charged with preparing the advertisements, although they opposed headlining a specific ski package.

The RLA members responded that the Chamber would be responsible for ad preparation and placement. LTC member Al Junge said he was hesitant to approve of a plan "which the Chamber has already rejected, and then ask them to do the work."

However, Hyman then read a letter from the Chamber which advised the committee they would "assist" and "cooperate" in any way possible with any plan the LTC approved.

Hyman advised the RLA and the Chamber to work together on the measure, with the hope of arriving at a compromise acceptable to both groups. Three members of the Ruidoso board of trustees, also present at the meeting, indicated that a special trustees' meeting could be called to consider the LTC recommendation, in order to meet advertising deadlines.

CLARINETISTS REHEARSING for the Ruidoso High School's music department's Christmas Concert Monday night, are, from the left, Sharon

ART STUDENTS of Sam Pilgreen, Ruidoso High School, above, are among those participating in an environmental poster contest sponsored locally by the Ruidoso Garden Club. A poster winner from each school in the district will be selected and submitted to the state contest. Others may enter by taking their poster to the Chamber of Commerce by December 19. Posters may be no more than 12 by 17 inches.

Lincoln County animal control plan adopted

Lincoln County commissioners Tuesday approved an ordinance providing for animal control within the county and signed a joint powers agreement with Ruidoso to provide for receipt of and disposal of "stray and unwanted dogs and cats."

Under the agreement, previously approved by the Ruidoso Board of Trustees, the Ruidoso animal control officer will collect the unwanted animals for the Lincoln County Sheriff's Department, for a flat fee of two dollars each.

The officer will also provide "animal bite service," for a fee of $15. All billing will be handled through the sheriff's office. Ordinance also provides that animals running at large within the county may be seized by sheriff's officers. Dumped or abandoned animals will be considered to be running at large.

Animals not retrieved by their owners within a 72-hour period "may be humanely destroyed or otherwise disposed of, provided a reasonable effort has been made to notify the owner, if known," according to the ordinance.

Immediate confinement of rabies suspect animals is required by the new ordinance, also. Owners of such animals are to notify the sheriff or animal control officer of the situation.

Animals suspected to have rabies are not to be removed from the county or killed, unless it is necessary to kill the animal to prevent it from escaping or biting humans or other animals.

The commissioners also approved a budget increase of $7,800 for the county ambulance service, because projected budget figures for the service ran short. County manager Bill Billingsley said the increase was necessary because operating expenses, such as gas and oil for the emergency vehicles, had risen significantly. The fact that the Alto ambulance is providing a number of long-distance transfers of patients from Ruidoso to larger cities was another apparent factor, he said.

Other budget increases were approved to provide for acceptance of funds for the school bus road improvement program, hauling and spreading of gravel for Cedar Creek, Fort Stanton, Fawn Ridge and Sun Valley Roads, and a prior year bill for

P&Z approves four Camelot developments

In a special meeting Wednesday, the Ruidoso Planning and Zoning Commission (P&Z) approved final plats of four developments on Camelot Mountain.

Camelot Mountain Tracts were approved once bonding requirements are met by the developers, currently engaged in negotiations with village attorney Ron Harris.

Also approved, contingent on the above being accepted by P & Z, were The Village at Camelot Condominiums, Phase One; Vista del Lago, Phase One; and Lakeview Estates, Phase One.

Also included in the final plat approval was a clause freeing the village of any responsibility for sewer and water lines beyond the main lines servicing the developments.

per diem from a former county Planning and Zoning Commission member.

In other business, the commissioners: —Accepted the low bid of Graham Dental Equipment of $3,475 for X-ray equipment for the Carrizozo Health Center.

—Approved a franchise allowing the formation of a community water facility for Rancho Ruidoso.

—Appointed Billingsley and Ruth Armstrong of Carrizozo to serve as members of the Southeastern New Mexico Economic Development District. Alternates to the district will be Cotton McKnight, Ramon Nunez, Don Stark and John Allen Hightower.

—Approved release of two lots in the Shangri-La subdivision.

—Approved a meeting schedule for the coming year, with the first set, January 6, 1981.

San Patricio man to face charges here

Larry P. Herrera, 24, San Patricio was arrested about 5:30 p.m. Wednesday by Ruidoso Police and charged with damage to private property, disorderly conduct and battery.

The arrest was made in connection with an incident near the fire station on El Paso Street, after a woman reported that her boyfriend was beating her, police reports said. Another complaint was filed by Eddie Espinosa, address unknown, who alleged that Herrera had kicked in the side of a pickup door and threatened him. Herrera was being held in the Ruidoso jail Thursday in lieu of $350 bond.

Local office loses $80 in weekend theft

The Criminal Investigation Division of the Ruidoso Police Department is investigating a theft at Service Contractors sometime last weekend.

The theft was reported about 10 a.m., Monday, and reportedly took place sometime between Saturday evening and 9 p.m., Sunday.

Entry was gained by breaking a window on the east side of the building. A cash box normally kept in the office was found at the opposite end of the building with its contents, about $80 in cash, missing.

repair the roofs of four buildings in the district, at White Mountain and the high school. Specifications are available in the central office and will be sent to several roofing companies. An inspection of the leaky roofs by Ron Van Winkle, Van Winkle Roofing of Roswell, indicated that repair costs could range from $5,000 to $11,000.

An on-site visitation report submitted by the State Department of Education was reviewed. Valliant said the report "gives us good ammunition to go to the Capital Outlay Committee," for additional funding if a bond issue passes next year. He said the "main criticism (of the system) was that we needed more buildings and more space and increased enrollment has placed the district in a serious space problem."

The report also noted that the "Ruidoso school system could be used as a model for other schools in New Mexico," Valliant said.

The board also: —Approved the transfer of Eva Clarke as third grade teacher to kindergarten, and hired Melinda Valliant to replace Clarke at the third grade level.

—Accepted the resignation of Lucy Servies as Title I aide at White Mountain Middle School.

—Held an executive session to review personnel.

The next regular meeting will be January 13, 1981 at 7:30 p.m., at the school administrative building.

the services of Ruidoso building inspector John Emde to inspect buildings under construction in the Downs. Emde's charges will be based on the square footage formula used in Ruidoso, with Ruidoso Downs to receive one-half of the fees. The trustees stipulated that Emde's services were not to cost "Ruidoso any money," and that he could serve Ruidoso Downs as building inspector until the village can hire their own inspector.

—Approved out of state travel, a budgeted item, for Chief of Police Paul Lukens and Captain Larry Simon to attend the American Pistol Institute training course in Flagstaff, Arizona. Lukens said attendance at this course would enable the department to train officers gun proficiency at a "considerable saving," to the village in training costs.

—Approved amending Resolution 76-8 to require posting of a maintenance bond in order for a subdivider to obtain approval of a final plat.

—Took no action on a request by Ralph Rush that the village obtain an opinion from another attorney, relative to Rush's request to lease the Municipal Swimming Pool. Rush stated that the provision in state law, concerning whether the pool was "essential to governmental function," should be the criteria for leasing the pool.

Village attorney Ron Harris said it was his opinion that leasing the swimming pool would require a special election, for approval by the voters. He also said that leasing the pool would then not be mandatory, but that the village would have the authority to lease it.

Tyson and Whitwam certified to teach life support classes

Judy Tyson, registered nurse, and Dr. Paul Whitwam became certified to teach Advanced Cardiac Life Support (ACLS) following completion of an instructor's course held in Albuquerque last weekend. Tyson said the course was sponsored and taught through the American Heart Association at Four Seasons Motor Lodge Friday-Sunday.

"We didn't recognize how difficult the course was until we got there, but we both passed," Tyson said. She said the ACLS course provides a specialized type of knowledge useful to people in the medical field and emergency care. Tyson said that over a period of time, the course will be offered to all medical personnel in the community. "We feel very strongly about the cardiopulmonary cases in town. I feel like this is super important because death from heart attacks usually happens within two hours, and since we will have this knowledge, we can do so much more for those patients," Tyson said.

Tyson said the course also offers tips for preventive care of heart patients and added the knowledge will be applicable at Ruidoso Hondo Valley Hospital with the new coronary care units being installed and these already in use.

Tyson said 24 people from all over New Mexico were enrolled in the intensive training course. Those that became certified must teach the course once on a probationary basis prior to becoming officially certified.

To continue holding teaching status, both local instructors must teach the course at least twice a year, and will be expected to travel all over New Mexico to assist other instructors in teaching the course.

"This will be really beneficial for us. We'll pick up knowledge of how other hospitals do things and practice ACLS as we are doing the teaching," Tyson said.

Bazaar set Saturday at local church

Members of the First Christian Church Women's Fellowship will sponsor a bazaar Saturday, beginning at 10 a.m., in the church's fellowship hall.

A turkey dinner with all the trimmings will begin at 11 a.m. Tickets are $3 each and will be available at the door.

Katherine Finley, Chairperson of the group, said many original handmade items will be available at the first annual bazaar.

Rich/Adams wedding set January 1 in Carrizozo

Mary Rich and The Reverend Charles F. Adams will be married January 1, 1981, at 10 a.m., at Grace Methodist Church in Carrizozo. The ceremony will be followed by a brunch in the Fellowship Hall. The Reverend David Lynch will officiate.

Rich is the president of Chamari, Incorporated, a Carrizozo real estate development and building products firm which has as its divisions, Mary Rich Real Estate, The Golden Rule Trading Company, Boardwalk Properties and Park Place Properties.

She also serves as president of New Horizons Developmental Center, a non-profit organization dedicated to training mentally retarded persons. Rich is the former editor-manager of the Lincoln County News; and she is past chairman of the Lincoln County Democratic Party, the Carrizozo Woman's Club and the Carrizozo Chamber of Commerce. She is the daughter of Mrs. Erma Rich of Stephenville, Texas.

The Reverend Mr. Adams is president of The Taeria Foundation, a non-profit, non-denominational church foundation with offices in Carrizozo. He is chairman of the board of Chamari.

Previously, Adams was professor of business at the graduate school of the University of Connecticut. He was founder and president of Innovative Sciences, a subsidiary of Prudential Insurance Company, as well as of MIND, a behavioral sciences subsidiary of CPC International.

Adams holds graduate degrees in psychology from Yale University and in business administration from the University of Connecticut. He is the author of 15 published books and has lectured nationally on social and business affairs. Adams is the son of Mrs. Eileen Lambert of Alamogordo, New Mexico.

Area doctors honored for work with students

The University of New Mexico (UNM) School of Medicine recently honored physicians from Ruidoso and Captain for their help in training future doctors in the school's new primary care curriculum (PCC).

In ceremonies marking the end of the PCC's first trial year at UNM, Dr. Leonard Napolitano, dean of the school of medicine, presented plaques in appreciation for the doctors' work as preceptors. The physicians had trained first year medical students during six month clerkships.

In Ruidoso, Dr. Michael O. Stone instructed student Boyd Manges, and in Captain, Dr. David Rouleau guided Bill McCornell through his first fact-to-face experiences with patients.

In traditional medical school programs, students spend their first two years on campus in classroom instruction, and don't see patients until their third year. Dr. Scott Obenshain, PCC director, said sending PCC students into the field in their first year has three purposes.

"First, we want them to see medicine the way it's practiced in the communities so they'll have a balanced view. They'll need to make an intelligent choice between careers in small town medicine and medicine as it's practiced in major urban medical centers. Second, we hope to increase their motivation by giving them the chance to learn around real patients instead of simulated patients. Finally, if we want these people to choose careers in small town primary care, it only makes sense to introduce them to other doctors who can serve as role models."

Students in the program live in the preceptors' hometowns during training to help develop ties with communities outside Albuquerque. They also initiated community health projects such as free blood pressure screening, instruction in cardiopulmonary resuscitation and prenatal training workshops for expectant parents.

UNM began the PCC in the fall of 1979 as part of its effort to increase the availability of health care in rural areas and small communities. The PCC students are studying to become specialists in primary care, or such "family doctor" fields as internal medicine, pediatrics and family practice.

The first PCC class consisted of 10 students. This year, the entering class was enlarged to 15 first year students.

Boy Scouts are selling fruit cakes

Fruit cakes will be sold by Troop 59 Boy Scouts, at various locations in Ruidoso, each weekend during December. Information on the sale is available from Linda Flack at Horseshoe Courts, telephone 257-2870. Flack also has fruit cakes for sale. Proceeds from this sale will be earmarked to finance troop activities.

Skate-A-Thon winners to be named Sunday

Winners in the recent Muscular Dystrophy (MD) Skate-A-Thon will be named Sunday, at 3:30 p.m., at Ruidoso Skateland. Bill Harris of El Paso, Texas, district MD chairman, said the cut off date for contestants is Sunday. "I'll make the presentation of trophies to the winners," he said, "just as soon as we make the final tabulations."

Presbyterians set budget, elect elders

The congregation of the First Presbyterian Church, Ruidoso, Sunday approved a 1981 budget of $28,625, presented by Robert McDaniel, committee chairman, and elected elders, a trustee and a nomination committee for next year. The Reverend Don McNamara presided over a congregational meeting following the regular service Sunday. Elected elders were Herman Knight, James Beall and James Morris, three-year terms, and H. S. "Gob" Fitzgerald, filling a one-year unexpired term. Cece Sudderth was elected a trustee for a three-year term.

Dee Delaney, Vernice Walker and Bobbie Knight will serve as a nomination committee for next year. Dorothy Wilson was elected an alternate.

The First Presbyterian Church has a membership of about 60. McNamara is serving as interim pastor while a pastoral selection committee functions. The Reverend Frank Crown retired last spring has been serving as an interim pastor elsewhere until recently.

Holdover elders of the church are Betty Crown, Robert McDaniel, Bob Chamberlin, Roy Shamburger and Lillian Silkwood. Terms expiring this year are those of James Morris, re-elected; Bill Wilson and George Shoemaker.

Shoemaker served as chairman of the nominating committee with McDaniel, Cece Sudderth, Gladys Nosker and Lib Shamburger as members.

Installation of officers will be held in the near future.

The Silver Lining

BY DANIEL AGNEW STORM

over the loud-speaker. You would see the tears streaming down the face of some of the boys, and after being asked what was the matter they would say, "Oh, I'm homesick for the snow."

The Magic of The Snow
Deep in our hearts there abides a love of the snow. When the first snow flakes come flying through the air, there is a feeling of lightness that comes to your spirits, and a new strength all through your body and mind.

The air is purified and enriched by the falling flakes; and the pure white color covering the world brings a peaceful contentment to your soul. There is a thankfulness that reaches you, for all simple blessings: a roof over your head, a fire to keep you warm, the great increase in your appetite — and your friends and loved ones.

The snow brings life to the world; tilling all the trees and other growing things into their winter slumber; enriching the ground by freezing and thawing; and bringing the pure snow-melt water into the grateful earth so that green and flowery Spring may transform the world into a joyful paradise on earth.

The Snow Brings Out Our Christmas Spirit
During this season of Peace on Earth and Good Will Toward Men, our hearts go out to our fellow man all over the world.

And especially on a snowy day, when you are inside and see the wind blowing the swirling flakes all across the vale, you wonder if somewhere there is someone who needs your help — who does not have wood for his fire, perhaps, or even enough to eat, or a roof over his head. Or even if all these necessities are fulfilled, you wonder if there is someone who needs just to be cheered up.

And you try to think of all those in need of help in having a Merry Christmas; and you pray to Our Lord His blessings may reach everyone in the world at this season when we celebrate His birthday.

Council for Arts scheduling events

The Chaparral Council for the Arts, an organization dedicated to the promotion of the arts in Lincoln and Otero Counties, is formulating a calendar of events for late December and January.

Anyone who would like to list an event relating to any of the cultural arts, including visual arts, music, drama, dance, and so on, should contact Sonya Smith at Smith Limited Gallery, Ruidoso.

The calendars, along with flyers giving more elaborate information on prices of events and data on artists and performers, will be distributed to the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce and the Ruidoso Public Library.

Braves win, lady Braves lose

The White Mountain Middle School Braves notched their third win of the young season Tuesday afternoon with a 26-23 victory over Captain.

But the lady Braves fell to 2-2 with a loss to their Captain counterparts, 37-27. Both of the lady Braves' losses have been at the hands of Captain.

"We didn't penetrate," lady Braves head coach Jean Wright said. "We played better than we did the first time we played them, but our offense didn't penetrate the key."

"We had a good first half, we just didn't have enough bench strength to beat them in the second half."

The lady Braves hung close at the half, trailing only 16-10, but fell way behind in the third period, being outscored 13 points to six.

White Mountain did come back to out-score Captain 11 to eight in the final stanza, but it wasn't enough.

"We're trying to put it together," Wright said. "Erin Rad had a great game against Captain's Toni Brooks. She scored about 20 points against us the first time, but Erin held her to eight."

"But we've got to work on the ball better and put more points on the board," Wright said.

Rad was the high scorer with 10 points, followed by Karen Kiser with nine, Tahnee Doak with four, and Kerl Thomas and Linda Puts with two each.

Braves coach Dean Hood said he was "pleased" with his team, but found a couple of areas that needed improvement.

"We aren't scoring much yet," he said. "We have improved a whole lot over the way we first played, but we've still got a ways to go."

The Braves beat Captain earlier this season, 20-17, in a come from behind win. The rematch wasn't even close. In fact, White Mountain could have beaten the visitors worse after building a 24-16 lead at the end of the third period, but Hood began freely substituting in the final period, and Captain scored seven points to the sub's pair of free throws.

Matt Porter led the scoring for the Braves with eight points, Stanley Sluder had seven, Joe Bellinger had four, Tracy Gann and Patric Pearson had two each and Chris Woodul chipped in a free throw to round out the scoring.

"We don't have to win by 10 or 15 points," he said. "I'd rather win by three and get some experience for everyone. That experience will help us out later."

"We are playing well — we aren't scoring as many points as we could because we aren't taking a lot of stupid shots. We're working the ball and trying not to force the ball."

"Thursday we find out what we're made of."

The Braves and lady Braves host Holloman here Thursday at White Mountain gymnasium. Tipoff for the girls' contest is set for 4 p.m., with the boys' contest immediately following.

UP, UP, UP — Ruidoso's Bill Richardson and Dexter's Brad Irvin compete for a jump ball during Saturday's 90-42 Warrior victory. Warrior head coach Barry Nelson is counting on a big game from Richardson Friday as the Warriors encounter Roswell Goddard here.

Warriors face Roswell Goddard

The Ruidoso Warriors, 2-1 on the year and fresh off a 90-42 pounding of the Dexter Demons, find out Friday just how good they really are.

They host Roswell Goddard's Rockets, a AAAA school the Warriors beat last season, 66-62.

"I hear they're out for revenge," Warrior head coach Barry Nelson said. "There's nothing I'd like better than to beat them. They seem to think just 'cause we're a AAA team, they're going to beat us without a fight."

"We'll give 'em all they'll want."

Goddard is currently 0-3, with a pair of losses to Portales and one to Alamogordo. But all three have been close ball games.

"They're a scrappy bunch," Nelson said. "We've probably got the edge in height, but they've probably got it in speed and bench strength. What worries me the most is their press."

The Rockets are a pressing team that tries to force turnovers.

"We've got to break their press," he said. "I think we can control the boards and run with it. The way to beat it — the way I want to break their press — is get the ball across midcourt before they get set up."

"We don't like to run, but we can."

That tactic, though, Nelson would like to stay away from.

"We can run and do it well," he said, "but I'm afraid it'll burn us out. We don't have enough bench strength to keep it up the whole game."

Rodney Thomason, Ruidoso's 6-4 center, might return to action this Friday after missing the first three contests.

"Rodney will probably play some," Nelson said. "He'll play probably as much as he wants to. I'm not going to make him play more than he wants, because he was really sick and it's going to take time for him to get back into shape."

"We're going to need him worse later in the season, and I'd like to have him for those games."

The Warriors have had "super" practices, Nelson said.

"I couldn't ask for better practices," he said. "I've got a bunch of really good ball players who come here ready to work. They want to win this game, and they're proving it."

"I think they're looking forward to it, and so am I."

Friday's game in Warrior Gymnasium will be preceded by a junior varsity match at 6:30 p.m., with the varsity match set for 20 minutes after completion of that contest.

Sportin' Life

... a column of opinion ...

by

Mark Bagby

If Fran Tarkenton thinks a monkey who speaks sign language is incredible, he should see the Ruidoso Warriors in action. I had the pleasure (?) of seeing them play basketball against Dexter last week, where they drilled the Demons, 90-42.

You read that right — 90-42. Forty eight point margin of victory. Dexter now probably knows how Custer felt at Little Big Horn.

The score, at the end of the first period, was 19-1. Early in the second period, the Warriors held a 26-1 lead before Dexter sank an honest to God basket. I have never, ever, in all my days seen a boys' basketball game quite like it.

The Warriors are playing a deliberate, put points on the board, take the best shot available offense. They didn't miss many opportunities last Saturday.

I still can't get over it. I gotta give Dexter credit, though — they never gave up. If I was down by 40 points, I think I'd have walked off the court. A masochist I'm not.

Apology time. Hey, Mike Clarke (he kept defensive stats for the Warriors this fall) is reportedly upset by a comment I made about "that Texas Tech Red Raiders" in a column several weeks ago.

I wrote, "Texas Tech I can't stand." Now why that would upset him I don't know, but live and let live, to each his own, march to your own drummer, et cetera.

If he wants to root for such a lousy team, that's his business. Just 'cause they make me almost physically ill doesn't matter — his bad taste isn't my concern.

But like I say, Mike, no harm intended — then or now. Why someone would want to cheer for the Red Raiders, I don't know — Oakland Raiders yes, but the Red Raiders?

Ah — enough of this nonsense already. Shades of Heidi!

I understand there were a few rather disgruntled viewers during Sunday's football games.

Particularly those who were watching the Philadelphia-Atlanta game. Seems the score was tied, 17-17, with a minute left.

Philadelphia seemingly had made an interception to kill Atlanta's hopes which would send the game into overtime.

Then — bogal! CBS switched to three other local games, namely, New York Giants-Seattle, Dallas-Oakland, and New Orleans-San Francisco.

Now apparently CBS had little choice. The National Football League, when it authorizes a doubleheader with the second game (s) being road games of local teams, they write into the contract the game must be covered from kickoff to opening gun.

I know, it doesn't make sense to me either, but it has something to do with fan support — the league apparently feels obligated to show all of a team's away games to help insure better home attendance.

Unfortunately, when they cut away from one of the top games of the season, between two division leaders, you start wondering about the wisdom of certain decision makers.

Now granted, Oakland-Dallas was a key game, but who wants to watch the 6-14 Saints lose to the 4bers, and how much interest can there be in a game between the 4-10 Giants and the 4-10 Seahawks?

I hear even the fans in Dallas were willing to miss a couple of minutes of their beloved Cowboys to see the final minute of Atlanta-Philadelphia.

Incidentally, a penalty wiped out the interception and Atlanta got a field goal in the final seconds to win, 20-17. How's that for a finish?

It all brings back memories of the famous (infamous) "Heidi" game on NBC back in the '60s. It was a key AFL game between the Raiders and the Jets, and the Jets appeared to have the game in the bag.

There was about a minute left in the game, Oakland was throwing long bombs trying to get back in the contest. NBC figured, hey, it's 6 p.m., time to go to our expensive remake about the little girl sheepherder.

So they did.

Daryle Lampton, the Raider quarterback, wasn't too interested in Johanna Spurr's classic, and he threw a bomb about 100 miles for a touchdown which put the Raiders right back in the game.

Then the Jets fumbled the following kickoff, Oakland promptly scored and won the game. NBC got a few phone calls about that one.

Here's hoping CBS and the National Football League will stop worrying so much about the fans who must cheer for their teams from kickoff to gun, and start worrying a little more about those of us who are interested in a good football game.

Parting shot

A very happy Happy Birthday to Ruidoso High School volleyball coach Margie Andrus, who has a birthday today.

She wouldn't tell me how old she is, but I understand she's so old her social security number is 3.

Just kidding, Marge.

And, before I forget, Terry Wharton, football coach at White Mountain Middle School, and his wife are the proud parents of a two week old young fella named Mitchell.

I didn't hear about Mitch until Wednesday, though he was born two weeks ago. Nobody tells me nuthin. Them's the breaks, I guess.

Inside The Capitol

by Fred McCaffrey

SANTA FE — This column may have recently participated in journalistic history.

We wrote a piece in which we accused Jimmy Glenn, elected but not yet seated member of the Corporation Commission, of being pretty stupid. The reason given was that he publicly said he wouldn't take campaign money from people whose businesses the Commission regulates, and then he did it.

After the column ran, Glenn called to admit it; he had been very dumb, he said, and it was a good thing for us to point that out in the public prints.

That's what's historic: No other politician has ever let the phrase, "I was wrong," pass his lips. To plead guilty to anything, even a parking ticket, is taken by one of these ego-driven folks as tantamount to being caught in Abscam.

Yet here was Glenn being very up-front about things. He promised to send back the money from those contributors we named who shouldn't have been allowed aboard his gravy train, with a couple of exceptions who are life-long friends of his who would be hurt to be so spurned.

And he promised to send us photostats of the checks returning the money. We'll notify you when he does. This guy could turn out to be a very interesting officeholder indeed.

We were pleased to see the Attorney General has hired a firm to audit the performance of the State Investment Office, especially those two questions about whether stock was sold for prices below what was offered for it.

While he's at it, maybe he can find time to take a look at whether the State Investment Council, to which one of his assistant Attorneys General is assigned, isn't breaking the state's open meeting law by the breakfast they hold, very privately of course, at the Inn of Loreto before every one of their public meetings.

All real decisions are actually made at that private gathering, with the Governor present, not at the public meeting later.

At least one member of the Council has been so bold as to mumble that they don't even get to make the decisions. The folks from the fourth floor of the Roundhouse, he says, just sweep in and say, "This is the way it's going to be," and members are expected to vote as they are told.

All that's hardly in the spirit of the law which says public business is to be publically enacted.

We'd suggest the Attorney General take a close look at this matter — and we're even willing to go along with the gag if he wants to act as if he hasn't known this has been going on for at least the past two years.

In some counties of the state, conservative Democrats want to turn out the liberal county chairmen on the grounds that the country is going conservative with a vengeance.

One they'd like to oust is Eddie Soesaya from San Juan county, who just happens also to be chairman of the party's central committee.

Most such liberals are also Bruce King activists, who were rejected, their opponents believe, along with all other King family members on November 4.

Letters to the Editor

Dear editor:

Since 1976 New Mexico and the Navajo Nation have benefited from a federally-funded program to combat cancer — the second most common cause of death in the U. S. today. Just over four years ago the National Cancer Institute established the New Mexico Cancer Control Program (NMCCP). Its purpose was to coordinate the efforts of individuals and agencies throughout the state and the Navajo Nation in health education and the early detection of cancer. Soon this program will end, however, and the future of cancer control efforts in New Mexico is in question.

Through the NMCCP hundreds of nurses and physicians attended professional conferences to discuss the most recent advances in treatment and care. Thousands of people learned about preventing cancer and detecting it early. Many others actually discovered early forms of cancer still in the most curable stages at NMCCP-sponsored screening clinics. Time and again this program has demonstrated its value to the people of New Mexico.

The program will end in June 1981 however, because it was designed as a demonstration project with a five-year life expectancy. Whether activities to combat cancer in New Mexico will continue after then depends on the efforts we make in the next few months.

The Navajo Tribe has demonstrated its confidence in the cancer control program on the reservation by supplying funds not only for continued activities, but for expansion as well.

But what of cancer control activities in the non-Navajo areas of New Mexico. Will they continue? That decision rests with the 1981 State Legislature.

Earlier this year the 94th Legislature passed a memorial requesting the State Health and Environment Department (HED) to study how cancer control activities might be continued in cooperation with the University of New Mexico beyond 1981.

HED has completed that report and will submit it to the legislature. The department stands ready and able to assume administrative responsibility for these activities, and requests some $500,000 to do so. Michael Burkhardt, director of the Health Services Division, has endorsed the program, George Goldstein, HED Secretary, has voiced his support; and Governor King has included this request in his proposed budget for HED.

When the legislature meets in January 1981 to review and approve this budget, surely no one will suggest that controlling cancer in our state is unimportant. But competition for state funds is always intense. Our state legislators need to know what is at stake when they consider this proposal. They need to know about the incidence of cancer in New Mexico, the importance of prevention and early detection, and HED's potential ability to sustain cancer control activities throughout the state. That information is available at NMCCP and HED offices.

But we need your help. In every state that has funded cancer control activities public support was critical. One out of every four Americans can expect to develop cancer in his or her lifetime, and it will strike two of every three families. It is an issue that affects us all. So talk to your friends, your colleagues, your physician, your state legislator. Tell them about cancer control and the HED proposal. A federal program has demonstrated what can be done, but the battle is by no means won. With your help, we will assure lasting community-based efforts to improve the health of all New Mexicans.

Theodore C. Marrs, M.D.
President, NMCCP Board
Warren T. Brown, M.D.
Former Director, NMCCP

Dear editor:

Food, as our bodies tell us, is necessary to life — and taxes are the necessities of governments. Here in New Mexico we are paying between 4 and 4 1/2% tax on all food and medicine purchases.

The question of whether there should be any food and medicine tax is worth considering because when a state taxes survival commodities it touches every person living within its boundaries.

The State of New Mexico recognizes this by providing a tax rebate and here is how it works. When filing a personal state income tax, the person claims a $40 rebate for food and $5 for medicine for himself and every member of his household. If this person's income requires him to pay tax, he merely deducts the $45 against what he owes. (Maximum earned income tax-free is $3,400 for head of house and $1,000 for each additional member.) About 400,000 of us did this during the 1979 tax year.

The rebate system, however, is only effective if the people come to the office of the Bureau of Revenue (Murray Morgan State Office Bldg., Alamogordo) and file for the gross receipts tax rebate for food and medicine on the personal state income tax. These claims can be made at any time during the year.

Is the rebate equalizing the burden of carrying a food and medicine tax for all of us? Those of us paying taxes on earned income are getting the credit. Those of us who are not paying personal state income tax, but who are paying the daily food and medicine taxes are not.

For example, there are 152,864 people receiving social security and 66,289 people receiving public assistance in the state. Only about one third of these people have filed for and received cash rebates during the past year.

Moreover, is the tax rebate a fair return on our money or are we paying out more than we are getting back? The rebate assumes that we are, each and every one of us, eating on slightly less than $900 a year, or $2.47 a day. Is this so? And for how many? If it is not so, then the State of New Mexico is cheating its citizens when it claims to balance off the gross receipts tax on food and medicine by the present rebate.

When the legislature reconvenes there will be hearings by the Legislative Finance Committee. Some testimony will support the gross receipts tax on food and medicine as it now stands. Others will speak for abolishing the tax entirely. The solution lies somewhere in between.

editorial

One major issue we feel the 1981 Legislature should address is how to deal effectively with juvenile offenders.

There are two problems that will arise: 1) One group of citizens will howl bloody murder if the courts deal more harshly with other than first offenders; 2) Another group will howl bloody murder if they don't.

One aid in developing a new juvenile code could be to call in judges who have to deal with repeat offenders. These judges might be able to give sound guidance to the committee charged with developing the new code.

If the judges could offer proof that the present method of coddling juvenile offenders, especially those guilty of crimes that would result in an adult being jailed, or sent to prison, isn't working, perhaps more severe punishments, that could be a deterrent to repeat offenders, could be meted out.

We aren't suggesting that impressionable juveniles, guilty of offenses that should warrant jail or prison sentences, should be housed with adult prisoners.

We're also not suggesting that a juvenile, guilty of first offense burglary or car theft, for instance, should be sentenced to serve time.

We do believe, though, that juveniles guilty of repeated felonies should be punished. Perhaps improving the facilities at Springer so these "hardened" juveniles could be detained in humane, but rigidly controlled, custody to the extent they could wind up being convinced that one of their major goals in life should be staying out of prison as adults.

We feel that the coddled juvenile offenders, who can rapidly develop contempt for the law, are one source of prisoners that cause the riots that cost lives, as well as the taxpayers millions of dollars.

Perhaps 40 lashes, publicly administered and publicized, would do more good to eliminate repeaters among juvenile offenders than 40 days of probation. — CD

AB'S $2 BOO-BOO

Being it's such a short time since Ab and Benita Hunter have departed these hills for the Gulf of the surf at Anacortes, Washington, you just can't have forgotten him and her.

Shortly after getting ensconced in their new abode ... so close to the ocean, I understand, that Ab's wearing scuba diving fins for bedroom slippers ... Ab took typewriter to finger, to write a Letter to the Editor ... advising readers of The News that all was well ... and that his fortunes were holding up.

And ... by jinkies ... Ab rued the day ... 'cause there was a fellow up in Washington who read Ab's epistle ... which immediately reminded him that Ab owed him two bucks ... so, with hand out ... for the $2 ... this fellow up and accosted Ab to collect ... and being's Ab spent 15 cents to mail the letter ... the lack of foresight in keeping track of his creditors cost him $2 more.

Way I hear tell ... Ab spends a lot of his time fishing off the coast ... but pretty soon he'll smarten up and get a boat ... which'll get him closer to where the action is ... so's he can get nearer to where the salmon run ... with one thought being ... that's a catch he can poach.

So ... think about it Ab ... sitting up there looking out at an ocean full of water ... probably figuring that as long as Ruidoso didn't seem to be getting water to him too fast ... that he'd take him to where there's lotsa water ... and, by jinkies, I never knew that Ab liked salt water-ice tea ... but you can never tell what happens to ex-Oxies as don't hanker to return to the Ozarks.

DRIVE WITH CAUTION

Monday morning's snow, covering the streets barely, caused just enough sickness under tires that some folks got a chance to practice up a mite on their winter driving ... and on dodging tender benders.

Take, for instance, heading west on Sudderth, down on the flat leading past the Chamber of Commerce ... I watched as this one feller ... out-of-state, of course ... was hanging onto the steering wheel for dear life ... and keeping his speed right at about ten miles per hour ... and man, did he struggle on the old foot feed when he started up Carrizo Hill ... with the result being the back end of his vehicle nearly bashed in the front end of one heading down hill.

Now I don't know what the feller as almost got sideswiped headon thought ... or for that matter what the other feller thought ... but I thought that the guy going up hill was mighty lucky ... 'cause he didn't give one of our body repair shops a week's work.

So ... to drive with caution on that stretch of Sudderth ... at least ... kinda get your speed on the flat up to about 35 ... and you'll sail right up Carrizo Hill without having to tromp on the gas pedal, or worry about the back end of your vehicle getting out of control and making like the front end ... which even front wheel drives ain't cut out to be ... yes?

'Course going up that hill sideways ... or whilst spinning like a top ... is much more interesting ... just ask your friendly body repair man.

ON LOOKING INTO 1981

1981 should prove vastly different than 1980 and back to 1978 ... and not only because our Jimmy's taking his Azny out of the White House ... and back to Georgia ... where he can fish and she can meditate about nuclear proliferation.

Nope ... 1981'll be much different ... 'cause it's one year closer to 2000 ... and those Republicans running the Senate'll put the run on the Dems as has been ... and they'll have a ball ... even if'n they don't up and run with it.

Then there's the possibility that the Reagan administration'll get us some cuts in our outlay to keep the government running ... like maybe cutting our income taxes ... in which event someone'll come up with some new taxes to lay their gloom on the cold um's kinda thought we'd save. And that's the name of the game ... let the taxpayer play ... but keep him paying.

The Russians'll also find things is different, when they get to dealing with Reagan ... 'cause, more'n likely, he'll scold 'em more'n our Jimmy did ... and he might even try tappin' their pipelines ... collectively. And that's an action ... collectively ... the Russians can understand ... with the chances being good they'll ignore Reagan ... and just go ahead and do their thing.

And the "ins" will be working to stay in ... with the outs trying to move the ins out ... so, say, things can't be too much different in 1981 ... yes?

BRIEF BIT: What's more fascinating than watching a Yule tree getting loaded with decorations is watching the tree loaders getting loaded ... CD

Letters to the Editor

Dear editor:

I didn't know if you were writing to little Virginia this Christmas or not, so I'm dropping her a note.

Yes, Virginia there is a Santa Claus. This ain't this hard for you to believe, but this I know nothing compared to the tall tales you'll be expected to buy after you're grown up — like when you get your gas bill.

It's going to say stuff like this: Charge for gas (and that's good and easy to believe).

Service charge (that would be easy if you had bought some service).

Charge for service (that would be simple if you had bought some more service that they had missed the first time).

All the time you'll be thinking I didn't get any service (even once — let alone twice) since my meter was put in, and I paid for that years ago. All I did was buy some gas.

Then you'll probably think, "I'll go down to the ole gas house, and get it all figured out," and then the good folks down there will most likely say, "Ho Ho Ho (just like ole Santa) we've got us another griper, but like they tell ya, Virginia, don't fret, just believe it."

Denim N Diamonds wins Derby

RICHER BY $27,367 — Denim N Diamonds swoops by Kita Charger to win the $54,735 Fall Quarter Horse. The victory purse amounted to $27,367.

Denim N Diamonds, as just about everyone expected, picked off Sunday's 16th running of the $54,735 Fall Quarter Horse Derby at Sunland Park.

But it was no cakewalk. In fact, Denim N Diamonds had to make up considerable ground in the final yards of the 440 yard journey, and barely managed to overhail the high flying longshot, Kita Charger.

After the photo finish picture was developed, it was clear Denim N Diamonds was the winner. The margin of victory was a clear-cut head.

But to the naked eye, the Derby windup appeared much closer. That's because Denim N Diamonds was going like sixty in the middle of the track, making up ground with each stride. Still, Kita Charger was giving away nothing, churning up plenty of dust himself.

Denim N Diamonds, ridden by Jerry Nicodemus at a meager 30 cents on the dollar, stopped the clock in 21.76 seconds. The time was short of the filly's top qualifying time of 21.61 seconds two weeks ago, but this was probably due to the fact a steady headwind had kicked up at Derby time.

Denim N Diamonds earned $27,367 out of the Derby pot, and that jumped her 1980 earnings to $111,936. Her career total now stands at $125,406. The valuable filly is owned by R. D. Hubbard, a glass manufacturer and Coors Beer distributor in Wichita, Kansas. Hubbard acquired Denim N Diamonds in the All-American Yearling Sale at Ruidoso two years ago for $32,000.

Bill Pounds trains the filly. Fans who converted Denim N Diamonds into a top heavy favorite in the Fall Derby had to sweat out that close finish — only to pick up slim mutual returns of $2.60 both to win and place, and $2.20 to show. Denim N Diamonds' 1980 record now stands at 5-1-1 from eight outings.

Despite her fat earnings, the Derby win became her first major conquest. Her only other victory of significance was the second consolation of the Kansas Futurity at Ruidoso in 1979.

Kita Charger, off at 17-1 under Jimmie Hunt, had to be content with a runnerup paycheck of $8,304. The chestnut colt went into the Derby with the bottom qualifying time (22.21 seconds) and anemic career earnings of less than seven grand. He carries the silks of Robert Gilbert and Marcus Whitman of Sugar Land, Texas. Johnnie Goodman, the celebrated trainer who won both the All-American Derby and All-American Futurity at Ruidoso last summer, was the guiding hand behind Kita Charger. The mutual returns were $9 to place, $4.60 to show.

Chicks Charger Bar, the colt who keeps plunking cash into his sock, picked up $6,473 by getting in third, a half length behind Kita Charger. Jackie Martin was in the saddle. The show price was $3.60. Chicks Charger Bar went off at 8-1.

All 10 Derby contenders got a clean get away. Chicks Charger Bar appeared to have the early lead, but was soon replaced on the front end by Kita Charger. From that point on, Chicks Charger Bar — whose 1980 earnings are nearly $110,000 — had little chance.

Denim N Diamonds broke well out of the No. 7 slot, but veered off slightly to brush Easy Maneuver. At the halfway point, the people's choice was perhaps a length out of it.

Jockey Nicodemus, who showed little inclination to use the whip in two previous Sunland outings aboard Denim N Diamonds, wasn't so delicate this time. Knowing he had much ground to make up, he put plenty of leather on Denim N Diamonds, and the filly delivered all she had.

Kita Charger, much to his credit, fought the public choice all the way and almost looked like a cinch as he neared the finish.

Fans who linked Denim N Diamonds and Kita Charger in the quinella got back $37.20.

Except for Chicks Charger Bar's early flurry, the Derby was pretty much a two horse race.

Here's how the also-rans checked in, with purse money earned: 4th—Ms. Jenny, $3,831; 5th—Native Gypsy, $2,736; 6th—Easy Maneuver, $2,189; 7th—My Afton Bog, $1,842; 8th—Boca Patta, $1,094; 9th—Solitary Jet, $547; 10th—Little Vivvi Go, $547.

DERBY VICTORY CEREMONY — Mack Yates (with hat) of the Sunland Park board of directors hands the victory ornament to R. D. Hubbard of Wichita, Kansas, following Denim N Diamonds' head conquest of the $54,735 Fall Quarter Horse Derby. In 1978, Hubbard purchased Denim N Diamonds in the All-American Yearling Sale at Ruidoso for $32,000. Mrs. Hubbard, jockey Jerry Nicodemus and trainer Bill Pounds were also on hand for the picture taking ceremony.

Applications may be made for Creative Writing Fellowships

February 16 is the deadline for writers to apply to the National Endowment for the arts for its $12,500 Creative Writing Fellowships.

These fellowships are designed to enable published writers of exceptional talent to set aside time for writing, research, or travel, and generally to advance their careers.

To be eligible to apply a writer must, within the past five years, have published five or more short stories in two or more literary magazines, or a volume of short fiction, or a novel, or 20 or more poems in five or more literary magazines, or a volume of poetry, or five or more essays or critical articles related to literature or to writers in two or more literary magazines, or a volume of essays or literary criticism, or have published a film, radio, or television script of any length in a literary magazine, a theatrical publication, or in book form.

Complete information, guidelines, and application forms are available from the Director, Literature Program, National Endowment for the Arts, 2401 E St. N.W., Washington, D.C. 20506. Information and application forms may also be obtained from the New Mexico Arts Division, 113 Lincoln Ave., Santa Fe 87501. The Arts Division's telephone number is 227-2061.

ART, DINING AND ENTERTAINMENT GUIDE

Sunland Park Hoofbeats

BY MIKE MAGDA
EASY ZIPPER and Kid At Heart were only separated by a neck at the wire, but the two were far ahead of the rest of the field in their trial to establish the fastest qualifying times to the upcoming $138,200 Sunland Park Fall Quarter Horse Futurity. Easy Zipper was clocked in 19.81 seconds while Kid At Heart was timed in 19.88 seconds. The two were four lengths ahead of the remaining runners in their heat. There were eight trials staged Friday with 77 head seeking a spot in the December 21 finale. The ten fastest horses, regardless of their finish in the trial, will make the trip. The winner of the Fall Futurity will collect $69,613.

HERE IS A COMPLETE list of the qualifiers: Easy Zipper, owned by Jerry and Peggy Stone of Lolita, Texas, 19.81; Kid At Heart, owned by Weldon Mallette and J. G. Chandler of Victoria, Texas, 19.88; Midland Native, owned by Howard L. Brough of Midland, Texas, 19.91; General Te, owned by L. R. Pat and Lorraine Thompson of Merino, Colorado, 20.03; Tinsy Little Lady, owned by Melvin R. Karr, Stan Fansher and Levi D. Isaac of Lubbock, Texas, 20.10; Runtin Barre, owned by Robert E. and Juanita Ballenger of Paola, Oklahoma, 20.12; Rockete Elaine, owned by Valley Feed and Ranch, of West Bend, Wisconsin, 20.14; Easy Six Susie, owned by Dorothy T. Scharbauer and Joan Dale Hubbard of Midland, Texas and Wichita, Kansas, 20.14; Call My Chick, owned by Janette Morris and Carl Swan of Blanchard, Oklahoma, 20.15; Guajalote, owned by Melvin R. Karr and Stan Fansher of Lubbock, Texas, 20.17.

TRAINERS TECUMSEH Stark and Nerrel Bruney each qualified two horses to the final. Stark saddled Tinsy Little Lady, a 22-1 longshot, and Guajalote, a 20-1 pick. Bruney trains Midland Native, a winner of over $35,000 this year, and Rockete Elaine, a 2-1 betting favorite who captured her trial easily. Jockey Jackie Martin was the only rider to qualify two head and he will have a tough decision at race time as they are the richest horses in the field. Martin was aboard Kid At Heart, a filly who recently captured the $74,687 440 Ranch Futurity at Trinity Meadows and has banked $49,788 this year. He also rode Runtin Barre, winner of the Oklahoma Futurity at La Mesa, who has earned $53,845 this year.

AMONG THE FINALISTS there are seven fillies and three colts. General Te was the only supplemental nominee at a cost of $5,000 to qualify for the final. There were four other supplementals in the trials. Three of the finalists were purchased in the 1979 All-American Select Yearling Sale. They include General Te for $13,500, Tinsy Little Lady for $12,000 and Easy Six Susie for $90,000. There was no dominate sire of the finalists, although Easy Jet was well represented. Rockete Elaine was sired by Easy Jet while Easy Zipper and Easy Six Susie were sired by Easy Request and Easy Six respectively, both sons of Easy Jet.

A BAKE SALE, with proceeds earmarked for trainer James McClanahan, was staged in the Clubhouse Saturday. (McClanahan is facing severe medical expenses as a result of his current illness.) The bake sale was the first project of the "Horse Women's United," an organization which is only a week old and already has a membership of 51 women. The purpose of the organization is to raise money for charitable purposes. The fans' response to the first sale was a success, reports one of the members. The organization is the brainchild of Joann Valdez, who serves as president. Lorann Mattox is chairwoman of the Ways and Means committee.

FORMER PROFESSIONAL football quarterback Charlie Johnson was at the races Saturday. He made a special appearance in the winners' circle after the second race. Johnson, an alum of New Mexico State University at nearby Las Cruces, played numerous years with the St. Louis Cardinals, Denver Broncos and Houston Oilers. He appeared twice in the Sun Bowl with the Aggies. Johnson now lives in Houston.

BOLD EGO, WINNER of the Riley Allison Futurity this year, has been working impressively in the past two weeks. The son of Bold Tactics owned by the Double B Ranch of Anthony, was turned out after winning the New Mexico Futurity at Albuquerque in September. Trainer Cliff Lambert recently got him back on the track. On November 21 he worked three furlongs in 34 3/5, then backed it up with a 34 1/5 clocking a week later. On December 5 Bold Ego worked a half mile in 47 1/5. Bold Ego is 7-0-1 in eight starts with earnings over $178,000.

A ROON AND Rocket Jet Bug, two of the winningest quarter horses from the Southwest, did not fare well in their prep race for the upcoming Champion of Champions at Los Alamitos. Rocket Jet Bug, winner of the Rainbow Derby this summer at Ruidoso, ran eighth while A Roon, third place finisher in the 1979 All-American Derby, ran ninth as the betting favorite. Both have been invited to the Champion of Champions December 20. A Roon, owned by Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Jones of Tatum, has earned $282,000 in her career, making her one of the richest New Mexico-bred quarter horses.

MIGHTY DECK THREE, the 1980 Horse of the Meet at Ruidoso Downs, captured the $298,700 Old South Futurity at Delta Downs Sunday, and set a track record in the process. The gelded son of Mighty Deck, who won the Rainbow Futurity and placed a close second in the All-American Futurity, covered the 440 yards in 21.96 seconds to earn $183,845. Mighty Deck Three has now earned over $327,000 in his career. Mighty Deck Three placed a third in his trial heat last week and had the ninth fastest time going into the final. Pajaro Chico, winner of the All-American Futurity Third Consolation, was second in the race.

SUNLAND PATRONS wagered $673,722 over the three-day weekend, and that's a gain of 13.1 percent over the same weekend a year ago. Wagering per race over the weekend was $22,457. The seasonal daily average is now $243,891 (from 27 race days). At this time a year ago, 36 race days had been recorded and the daily average was $227,119. The current figure is a solid gain of 7.38 percent.

THE NO. 2 POST was far and away the best post over the weekend. Nine winners came out that slot. Here's the seasonal totals: No. 1 — 41 wins, No. 2 — 45, No. 3 — 34, No. 4 — 33, No. 5 — 35, No. 6 — 24, No. 7 — 24, No. 8 — 27, No. 9 — 23, No. 10 — 16, No. 11 — 0, No. 12 — 0.

Ruidoso's enrichment program students tour ENMU

DAVID LANDRUM, a student in the Ruidoso school's enrichment program, takes a closer look at General Ulysses S. Grant, a statue in the library at Eastern New Mexico University.

BY CHARLOTTE FELLERS
Staff Writer

Nearly 40 Ruidoso school students enrolled in the district's enrichment program recently visited Eastern New Mexico University (ENMU), touring the facilities and meeting experts in several fields of study.

Gina Yowell, a Ruidoso High School student participating in the program, reviewed the trip and commented that "the most fun I think we had was actually doing things."

Yowell said for her, the most enjoyable portion of the trip was an evening at the theater, when students at ENMU presented "Ten Little Indians."

Students met Jack Williamson, a well-known science fiction writer who discussed his writings, how characters are developed and modern technology. Williamson, the author of "The Humanoids," also fielded questions from students.

"He told me he didn't know what he was going to talk about but by the end of the lecture, he didn't want to leave; he said it was the best lecture session he's had to give in a while," Marty Collins, enrichment program instructor, said.

At the anthropology/archeology department, students met Dr. Cynthia Irwin-Williams, distinguished professor of anthropology for ENMU, who displayed slides of archeological digs she has led in the Four Corners region.

Artifacts depicting life in the distant past were displayed and students observed university graduate assistants using an ancient stone-chipping process to create arrowheads.

Smaller groups were formed and taken to speak with instructors in various departments, including music, math, literature and industrial arts, where students were on the site of a ram dirt house to observe construction techniques.

Students visiting the science department met Dr. Andy Sae, who demonstrated scientific experiments and use of computers.

At the public television station, KENW-TV, students viewed daily procedures of the combination TV/radio station, which is operated primarily by ENMU students, Yowell said. The highlight of this visit was watching the broadcast of the evening news.

The evening was spent at the ENMU theater to see "Ten Little Indians." Yowell said the mystery was "well done and enjoyed by the students."

The Goodrich family, who purchased a church and converted it into a home, housed the boys for the night. Yowell said most of the rooms were more than 1,000 square feet each and with 16 couches, "it wasn't a problem to find a place for everybody." The 20 girls on the trip spent the night in a dormitory.

A visit to the business department's computer terminal highlighted the next morning's agenda. Yowell said Ruidoso students learned about the system and how it is operated, and were allowed to work with several small computers which are tied into a main terminal.

A homemade gasohol distillery constructed by a Portales grain farmer was also visited. Yowell said the gasohol produced is now used by the farmer, in part, to operate some of his farm equipment. It was constructed from spare parts and uses grain and water (produced from snow and rain).

At the art center, students watched graduate assistants throw pots on a potter's wheel, and each student was given a small pot before their departure, Yowell said.

"We enjoyed and benefitted from the experience. We greatly appreciated the hospitality of the university and the presence of the adult sponsors who went along," Yowell said.

Sponsors included Collins, Mike Crocker, Bonnie Coe, Najla Sluder and Sandy Taylor.

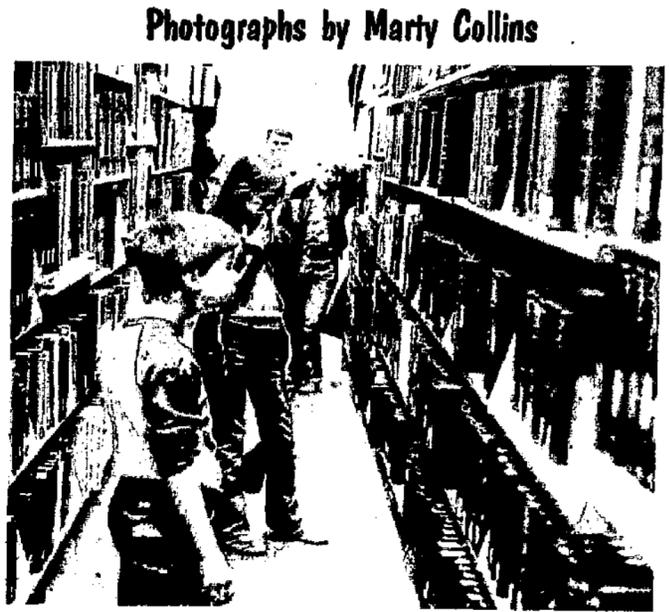

Collins said she is now arranging a trip to Dallas for mid-January so some students can attend a national bronze exhibit and perhaps several other sights.

A MICROWAVE RECEIVER picks up beams from satellites and relays them to the public television station at Eastern New Mexico University. The "dish" was one of many sights viewed by students from Ruidoso who visited the university recently.

BRIAN HARRIS, center, looks on as a graduate assistant demonstrates the process of flaking rocks into tools in a lecture given to Ruidoso students at Eastern New Mexico University, by Dr. Cynthia Irwin-Williams, right. The lecture was part of a two-day trip taken by students in the Ruidoso school's enrichment program.

THE REFERENCE SECTION of the Eastern New Mexico University library literally "blew their minds," according to Marty Collins, who took 40 students enrolled in the school enrichment program to Portales recently for a visit to ENMU. Pictured, browsing, are, from foreground, Craig Sears, Christine Yang, Kenny Brunell and Kurt Schluter.

CHROMOKEY BLUE is an unusual process in color television technology which can change the color of a person's clothing, and can even make people invisible, as students Ric Pearson (right) and Goetz Schmitz, found out while visiting KENW-TV, on the campus of Eastern New Mexico University.

TRYING TO chip a piece of stone into an arrowhead, are students from Ruidoso schools, enrolled in the enrichment program. From, left are Mitch Rhodes, Kurt Schluter and Laura Fry, who, with 36 other students, visited Eastern New Mexico University recently.

BILL MILES demonstrates the technique in Ruidoso schools' enrichment program, look on. using a potter's wheel, while students in the DUANE RYAN, director of broadcasting at Eastern New Mexico University, explains the operations of the public television station at Portales, KENW-TV, to students in Ruidoso's enrichment program, who recently visited the college.

DR. JACK WILLIAMSON (back center), writer of more than 35 science fiction books, met Ruidoso school students recently at Eastern New Mexico University. Williamson is a distinguished research professor at ENMU.

Real Estate Facts

a public service of the Ruidoso Board of Realtors

If the average homeowner could perch on Santa's lap, what would he or she ask for?

Recent trends noted by the Ruidoso Board of Realtors indicate the jolly old man might bear a Christmas litany along these lines:

1. A stable money market. In recent months, the ups and downs of long term mortgage interest rates have been bumpier than a ride on Santa's sleigh. But the money market is a symptom of the impact of inflation on the economy. As long as inflation remains unchecked, the market will have as much chance at stability as a curious tot waiting up to see Santa.

2. Less governmental regulation on housing. Studies have shown that unnecessary governmental regulation — those ordinances that have nothing to do with public health, welfare and safety — can account for as much as 20 percent of the selling price of a home. On a $70,000 home, that amounts to $14,000, or the difference between a monthly payment of $819 and $774.

3. The establishment of tax-exempt savings accounts for those trying to build up a downpayment. This would ease the penalties of saving for young buyers and encourage them to sock away their dollars more quickly and in greater amounts.

4. Additional incentives for installing home energy saving devices. The National Association of Realtors in conjunction with the Department of Energy recently launched a program to train Realtors to be aware of energy efficiency features in a home and, in turn, how to point out these money-saving features to a prospective buyer. Also, recent studies by insulation manufacturers have shown that energy efficiency is certainly on the minds of home buyers. Yet, there are many owners who still balk at making the financial outlays to improve the energy efficiency of their homes. Increased tax breaks might soothe the homeowner and, in the long run, make our country less dependent on imported oil.

5. Lower property taxes. No doubt this item will be a hot one in Santa's bag. Since Proposition 13 in California, more and more states have been toying with legislation to reduce sky-high property taxes. Like Rudolph's nose, it is a signal that bears watching.

6. Crackdown on vandals. It is estimated by the government that acts of vandalism cost this country $680 million a year. Much of it is done by young people. Realtors and concerned citizens in many areas of the nation are pushing legislation to make parents financially responsible for vandalism committed by their offspring. An effective anti-vandalism campaign could lead to lower insurance rates in some areas.

THE QUIET SOLITUDE pervading this draw was captured on film by News photographer Mark Bagby Wednesday morning.

VA moving to collect debts owing in state

The Veterans Administration (VA) has begun legal action to collect an estimated 4,700 cases of debts owed in New Mexico.

The tough action to collect individual debts of up to $1,200 or less is the result of Congressional legislation a year ago and an agreement between the VA and the federal Justice Department, said Ralph Kress, VA district counsel based at the Albuquerque VA Regional Office.

Meantime, the VA will continue to refer individual cases of debts owed it in amounts of more than $1,200 to the Justice Department.

Kress said that on the basis of VA statistics of several months ago, the VA nationally is owed a total of nearly $970 million. That includes nearly $286 million in individual debts of $1,200 or less and an additional nearly $684 million in larger debts. Those debts include education, compensation-pension and hospital (usually beneficiary-travel) overpayments as well as home-loan guarantee and student-loan defaults.

The VA campaign is part of a larger effort by 23 federal agencies to collect a total delinquent debt ranging from $28 to $35 billion. The effort is being monitored by the Justice Department and General Accounting Office (GAO).

"We're very serious. We're warning veteran debtors through all 54 VA regional and district counsels in the United States not to ignore the letters they'll receive from us," Kress said.

He said that veteran debtors in New Mexico now are beginning to receive only two demand letters to contact the VA district counsel within a maximum 60-day period to work out repayment or face court action with or without the veteran's presence. That could result in a penalty of the debt total plus court costs and interest at the legal rate. A judgment will go on the veteran's credit record.

"I can't state too emphatically that recipients of the VA demand letters should respond immediately to me," Kress said.

The statute of limitations for prosecution of veteran debts is six years. That for waivers of debt is two years. There is no limit on loan-guarantee debts.

The enlarged VA action to collect veteran debts of $1,200 or less developed from a 12-month pilot program begun early this year to collect individual debts of under $500 each. The effort has proved cost effective in education debt.

The VA district counsels involved in the pilot project are in Colorado, Texas, California (two), Illinois, Michigan, Georgia, New York, New Jersey and Massachusetts.

From initiation of the pilot program of under-$500 collections through last October 31, VA's Centralized Accounts Receivable Division (CARD) in St. Paul, Minnesota, referred 492 cases totaling $192,000 to VA District Counsel George Beasley in Denver, Colorado. Another 1,817 cases of individual veteran debts in Colorado of $500 or more were referred to the United States Attorney in Denver.

During that same period, CARD referred 848 cases of $500 or more veteran debts totaling $333,240 to the United States Attorney in Salt Lake City, Utah, 69 cases totaling $45,373 to the United States Attorney in Cheyenne, Wyoming, and 216 cases totaling $204,177 to the United States Attorney in Albuquerque for Federal District Court action.

Kress said that under the enlarged VA debt-collecting program for veteran debts ranging to $1,200, CARD sends a certificate of indebtedness to the VA regional or district counsel where the veteran's C-file is.

The VA counsel then sends a letter to the veteran informing him or her that suit will be filed unless arrangements are made to repay the debt either in full or through a repayment plan approved by the counsel. After the counsel obtains a promissory note and down payment, he sends it to CARD where it is programmed in a computer so the veteran may begin regular payments. If the veteran fails to do so, the note is returned and the counsel files suit, usually in Federal District Court.

Kress noted that a veteran's debt may be paid by withholding VA benefits until the debt is satisfied, according to recent legislation.

If the veteran comes in response to the demand letter for a waiver, it will be considered by the VA regional office waivers committee. If he or she requests a compromise, it will be considered by the counsel.

If the New Mexican veteran doesn't respond to the first demand letter within 15 to 30 days, the counsel will send one more notice to contact him. If there is no response to that within 10 days — preferably personally, then the counsel will file suit. A United States Marshal or county sheriff will serve the veteran with a summons and complaint to file an answer within 30 days. Failure to do so would result in a default judgment which could cost the veteran the amount of the debt plus court costs and interest at the legal rate, Kress said.

If the veteran files an answer, the court sets the trial date to determine if a true debt is involved. After judgment, the court could issue a writ of execution to seize property of the defendant and sell it to satisfy the judgment. A lien could be attached to real property in which the debtor has an interest to satisfy the judgment, or bank accounts or wages could be garnished.

Reward posted for mass killer of pets at Placitas recently

PLACITAS, NEW MEXICO — If anyone in this tiny town of 400 knows the identity of the mysterious animal poisoner who killed over 30 dogs, and at least six cats and a dozen chickens, he can collect $1,000 from the Animal Protection Institute of America (API) by coming forward and proving it.

The national animal group, with 100,000 members nationwide, stepped into the Placitas poisonings this week with their reward offer for "information leading to arrest and conviction" in a case which left this community thunderstruck.

"We're constantly aware of animal poisonings, happening throughout the United States," said API's president and founder Belton F. Mouras, "but a mass killing on this scale almost defies credibility.

"We don't think the town can rest until they've solved this," Mouras said in a talk with the Sandoval County Sheriff's Department. Investigation is underway and that significant leads to the identity of the poisoner may develop.

"Nothing could make us more relieved than to pay that reward," said Mouras. "Someone dangerous is out there, and loose, and the situation could get worse before it gets better."

First reports put the toll at 23 dogs but the list has been growing and new fatalities have turned up.

Cindy Colter, one of those who lost a dog — another family lost four dogs and a cat — had declared "pets are dead and dying all over the village."

Mouras said anyone having information on the poisonings, and expecting to collect the reward, should inform Sandoval sheriff's office immediately and contact API at (818) 422-1921 in Sacramento, California. API's national headquarters is located at 5894 South Land Park Drive in Sacramento, California 95822 (Post Office Box 22505) but it has members in all states including New Mexico.

If local investigators are not successful in solving the case, Mouras stated, he will consider launching a special API probe into the poisonings. Last year, an API investigator studied an alleged outbreak of greyhound poisonings in the Southwest, discovering what some of the autopsy reports had said — that coyote corpses were being mistaken for greyhounds.

There's no misapprehension about the Placitas poisonings. Postmistress Orrella Morris, who lost her dog Tuffy, had said, "This is a quiet place. Nothing ever happens here. Dogs are what Placitas is all about. Everybody has them. Whoever is doing this is really sick."

The Sheriff's department had attributed the deaths to beef suet and beef bones saturated with an insecticide.

"I won't try to act like a psychiatrist in the case," said Mouras, "but a pet poisoning doesn't indicate somebody in a peeve. It indicates someone with mental disturbance of a highly dangerous kind. We have to take animal-killing on such a scale as serious as we take people-killing."

"The shock of this can follow for a lifetime youngsters whose pets were killed. We hope it's solved, and the reward money paid, because you're going to have a town sick at heart until the perpetrator is caught and has no opportunity to do it again."

Chaco Canyon National Monument expansion set

A bill allowing for the expansion of the Chaco Canyon National Monument and redesignating it as a National Park was recently passed by the United States Congress. Passage of the new Chacoan Culture Preservation Act will greatly facilitate the effective management of these valuable and unique sites, said Bureau of Land Management (BLM) Acting State Director Larry Woodard.

The new legislation also designated thirty-three outlying Chacoan sites as "Chaco Culture Archaeological Protection Status," and affords them special protection status. Many of these protection sites are on public land.

The BLM has recently expanded its cultural resource program in the San Juan Basin. An Interim Management Plan for the protection of Chacoan outliers will be implemented this fiscal year. This plan calls for a mix of protective strategies, including protective fencing, stabilization, interpretation and regular patrols. A special study of the Chacoan roads is being carried out and additional inventory projects are also planned.

These studies are intended to increase the level of understanding of these complex prehistoric sites and features, so that effective management strategies can be developed. The BLM will coordinate the protection of these cultural resource properties with the development of energy resources through careful studies and consideration in its multiple-use planning program.

Woodard said, "We in the BLM are delighted with the emphasis on inter-agency management reflected in the legislation, and we are taking steps to develop an effective program in conjunction with the National Park Service and the Bureau of Indian Affairs and the State of New Mexico."

Craftsmen may apply for endowment

Craftsmen are reminded that December 29 is the deadline for mailing applications to the National Endowment for the Arts for its $12,500 Craftsmen's Fellowships.

These fellowships are designed to enable craftsmen of exceptional talent and demonstrated ability — weavers, glassblowers, potters, metalmiths, woodworkers, etc. — of any age or aesthetic persuasion to set aside time and/or to purchase materials and generally to advance their careers as they see fit. Students are not eligible for these fellowships.

Information, guidelines, and application forms for these fellowships may be obtained from the Director, Visual Arts Program, National Endowment for the Arts, 2401 E St. N.W., Washington, D.C. 20506. Information and application materials are also available from the New Mexico Arts Division, 113 Lincoln Ave., Santa Fe 87501. The Arts Division's telephone number is 827-2061.

Apprenticeship craft grants available

February 2 is the deadline for applications to the National Endowment for the Arts for grants under its Crafts Apprenticeships program, which is designed to enable craftsmen of promise to work in a learning situation with master craftsmen of recognized excellence.

Non-matching grants of $5,000 are available to apprentices, who must have worked with a master for at least three months at the time of application. Limited funds are also available to cover the cost incurred by the master in taking on the apprentice, and a breakdown of these expenses should be included with the application. Projects should be scheduled to start after October 1, 1981.

The Endowment is particularly supportive of apprenticeships which involve the learning of skills which are unusual or rare and which can help preserve techniques and knowledge that otherwise might be lost. The apprentice should be allowed to share fully in the ideas and experiences of the master.

Complete information, guidelines, and application forms may be obtained from the Director, Visual Arts Program, National Endowment for the Arts, 2401 E St., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20506. Information and applications are also available from the New Mexico Arts Division, 113 Lincoln Ave., Santa Fe 87501. The Arts Division's phone number is 827-2061.

VACATION HOUSE & TAX DEFERMENT
 Among the benefits of being a homeowner are the unique tax advantages available. One of them to be wary of is the provision which allows you to defer paying income tax on any profit made from the sale of your home if you buy a more expensive one within a certain amount of time. It does not apply in all cases.

For example, if you sell a vacation home at a $2,000 profit and promptly buy a much more expensive place, can you defer paying the income tax on the profit? The answer is no!

This tax break is available only when both the house sold and the house purchased serve as your principal residence. A vacation house doesn't qualify. However, if you owned the dwelling for more than the required time to allow the profit to be taxed as long term capital gains, only 40% of the $2,000 profit would be taxed the normal rate.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at DEVON DEVELOPMENT, INC., 2504 Sudderth Drive, Box 1860, Ruidoso, Phone: 257-3511. We're here to help!

I-n-s-i-d-e the Outdoors

by Gary Dollahan

Right now, while the recently completed deer seasons are still fresh on your mind, is the time to be thinking about, my changes you would like to see in next year's big game seasons.

Get down these thoughts and bring them with you to one of these public big game recommendations' meetings, scheduled as follows:

January 5, Alamogordo, 7 p.m., Commissioners Room, Municipal Building, 511 10th Street; January 9, Roswell, 7 p.m., Roswell Public Library, Boardroom Room, 301 North Penn.

These meetings are designed specifically to give you, the hunting public, the opportunity to provide input for the establishment of New Mexico's hunting seasons and regulations. It also enables you to discuss your ideas and questions with Southeast Area Game Manager Bruce Morrison, as well as with other department personnel.

Every year while checking hunters in the field, I hear some really good recommendations from you. Upon these times, I encourage you to submit your ideas as formal recommendations, either in writing or by attending one of our public meetings.

Yet, when the meetings and deadlines have come and gone YOUR recommendations were not there.

Probably the most common excuse for not attending is, "Well, the department won't listen anyway."

That's not true, as all recommendations received are documented and considered. In fact, a large part of our current season's structure and a number of our regulations have come from hunter input.

Of course, the department cannot accommodate all requests. Sometimes these ideas are just not practical or biologically feasible. So, your recommendations must be made in the best interest of our wildlife.

Once the public meetings have been held, our personnel get together and discuss the public's input, input from other wildlife oriented agencies, and our own ideas. The other three areas follow the same procedure.

Each area then submits its recommendations to a department meeting in Santa Fe. An agreeable composite of these on a statewide basis are then presented to the State Game Commission at another public meeting. The commission has the final say as to what will be what.

So, what it all boils down to is: take advantage of these public meetings to express your ideas. We hope to see you at one of these meeting dates and places as listed above.

Should you be unable to attend, submit your recommendations in writing to a Game and Fish Office.
