Sanders resuming 'business as usual'

The recent decision by the New Mexico Supreme Court which will allow certification of Steve Sanders as the 12th Judicial District Attorney (DA) will provide "a real opportunity to get back to business as usual," Sanders said Wednesday.

The high court quashed a writ of mandamus filed by Sanders' write-in opponent James J. Weldon, which had asked that he be declared winner of the race and named Sanders and the state canvassing board as respondents.

"Obviously, I'm very, very happy about the decision," Sanders said. "The matter has now been reviewed by the State Canvassing Board and the Supreme Court and both felt my position was correct."

"I think the outcome shows the people elected the right person and I'm going to make an extra effort to provide the people of Lincoln and Otero County with the service, they deserve," he added.

Since the November 4 election, Sanders said he and his staff have been primarily concerned with "catching up" on paperwork and files at the Otero County office.

"People may not realize we have had a lot of catch-up work to do down here, bringing the files up to date and updating old cases, including a murder case which is ten years old," Sanders said.

The new DA said he would arrange a meeting soon with Lincoln County Sheriff Ernest Sanchez to discuss a number of cases.

He added that office hours in Ruidoso and Carrizozo would probably resume this week. Office hours may also be scheduled in Capitan and Tularosa, he said.

Weldon has indicated he will probably continue to contest Sanders' election, possibly with a suit in district court.

If that happens, Sanders said, "I don't see how he can expect it to change the decision of the Supreme Court."

One of the first Lincoln County cases to be prosecuted by the DA's office this year will be that of Frank Barela, a Camp Sierra Blanca inmate charged in the stabbing death of an Alamogordo man Christmas Eve.

Murder charges are still pending completion of the investigation, Sanders said.

He added, "I feel we have to take very harsh and strong measures against these people... another inmate has committed a violent crime to protect his freedom."

Sanders said he would ask the District Court to order that prisoners with a record of violent criminal behavior "not be allowed in Lincoln County."

He said he had also discussed the matter of furloughs with camp superintendent E. B. Gutierrez. The two reached an agreement, Sanders said, that inmates who were an hour late in returning, without an explanatory telephone call, would be considered to have walked away.

"In people with a violent criminal background," Sanders said, "the potential is always there (for repeated violence). Give them an inch and they'll take a mile."

NO. 69 IN OUR 35TH YEAR

RUIDOSO, LINCOLN COUNTY, NEW MEXICO 88345

MONDAY, JANUARY 5, 1981

Full year of improved services, expansion set at RHV Hospital

Ruidoso Hondo Valley Hospital (RHVH) will continue to expand and improve services in 1981, according to administrator Ken Moore.

Moore said major equipment purchases planned this year will add new radiology equipment, improve the physical therapy department and update the critical care system at RHVH.

Moore said he will campaign for acquisition of a gamma camera, giving the local facility nuclear scanning capability, and ultrasound equipment, used to monitor pregnant women and to determine the need for surgery.

A mill levy was passed for RHVH in the November election, which will result in funds to expand and upgrade the building, Moore said. "We are so happy the community has chosen to be supportive of the hospital. Without their help, there is no reason for our existence," Moore said.

Because mill levy funds will not be available for a year, Moore said the hospital's department heads, medical staff and the central staff for the Presbyterian Hospital System (PHS), will do studies to determine areas of greatest need throughout 1981.

"We'll also be choosing and enlisting the help of an architect this year, so we'll be ready to move right into building expansion and upgrading as soon as the mill levy money becomes available," Moore said.

The medical staff "hopefully" will be expanded in 1981. Moore said, to include an obstetrics/gynecology doctor and more staff in the area of internal medicine "which will be a good complement to the present staff." Moore noted that an orthopedic surgeon will be added to the staff, and the biggest problem the hospital faces now "is a place to house all these things."

The budget is up for review this week by the PHS, with Moore including several new program proposals. The budget also reflects a three-year projected building plan and includes an 11 percent inflation factor.

"Once we get the budget approved, we'll have a better idea of what to expect in the coming months," Moore said.

A recent donation by Ruidoso State Bank will allow the hospital to purchase additional telemetry units for the intensive care unit. "We've been running past capacity because we had so many people in who needed monitoring."

"Without the telemetry equipment, the patient is very restricted in the amount of freedom he or she has. This small piece of equipment allows them total freedom," Moore said.

Another advantage of the equipment is that the effect of exercise on the patient can be monitored, allowing doctors to determine if more or less exercise is needed for recuperation, Moore said. "This is something we've needed to add for a long time and we really appreciate the bank's consideration," Moore said.

A DONATION of $3,000 was made to Ruidoso Hondo Valley Hospital by Ruidoso State Bank this week. Presenting the check to hospital administrator Ken Moore, left, is bank president Robert Hays. Moore said telemetry equipment for the intensive care unit will be purchased with the donation.

Ruidoso's civic/service clubs will continue 'good works' in '81

(FIRST OF TWO PARTS)

For nearly 500 members of Ruidoso civic clubs, 1981 will be another year of continued service to the community and to individuals, according to presidents of some organizations.

Continuing past years' traditions, the NOON LIONS and EVENING LIONS CLUBS will give considerable attention to preserving eyesight for individuals.

Both have ongoing projects of funding eye examinations and glasses for children and adults that cannot afford that expense, and the Noon Lions will continue to collect old eyeglasses which will be repaired and donated to help another person.

Other projects the Ruidoso Valley Noon Lions will continue to sponsor, according to president Bill Budens, are the Little League programs, maintenance and upgrading of the three baseball fields in the area, the Major League park, All American Park in Ruidoso Downs and the Little League park.

"We will have one afternoon a month of entertainment at Ruidoso Care Center as a continuing service project," Budens said.

The Noon Lions sponsor continuous and one-time scholarships for graduating high school students. They gave two in 1980 and expect to continue that tradition in 1981.

This year, the club hopes to charter a Lions Club in Capitan and a Lioness Club for members' wives, in Ruidoso. The 32-member organization is, Budens said, "the number one club in our district. It means you're working hard when you're number one."

EVENING LIONS sponsor three scholarships a year for Ruidoso High School (RHS) graduates. President Don Parsons said the club also "contributes to people who are in need" and occasionally, "we fund meals to shut-ins or take them dinners — we did that on Christmas Day," Parsons said.

Both clubs sponsor fund raisers throughout the year, with the Evening Lions' responsible for placing flags in business sections on holidays. Those holidays are "self-determined to a point," Parsons said. Traditional presidents' birthdays, traditional Veterans' Day, and one holiday important to Ruidoso — opening day at Ruidoso Downs Race Track — are also observed.

Noon Lions will visit other clubs in the district in 1981 to campaign for Bill Fugate, who plans to run for the district governor's position this year.

RUIDOSO WOMAN'S CLUB is planning several ongoing projects for this year, including the continuing effort to establish a Girl's Ranch near Lamy, New Mexico, a statewide project of New Mexico Woman's Clubs. President of the local Woman's Club, Nellie Vickers, said property has been acquired and the organization hopes to have girls placed by 1985.

"We will host the District Four Fall Convention here in late October," Vickers said. "This will bring some 50-65 ladies to our village for a two-day convention."

The club will again host the Ruidoso

The 30-member club is currently ranked ninth in the state, primarily for the number of service projects they sponsor and local community involvement. "We will continue to sponsor fund raisers for Muscular Dystrophy, a national Jaycee

"It is a service club and we'll probably do something for the Muscular Dystrophy Association — possibly another dance-a-thon similar to last July's dance," Hassell added.

State income tax forms were mailed Wednesday

The New Mexico Taxation and Revenue Department announced last week that mailing of the 1980 New Mexico Personal Income Tax returns has begun.

Returns will be mailed to all persons who filed 1979 returns. Processing of returns normally takes about 10 weeks. In many cases, however, this time can be decreased if taxpayers take the following steps:

— File early. Those returns received by the Department during the first six weeks of the year are processed faster. As the season progresses and more returns are received, processing time increases.

— Use the preprinted label. Use of this label can significantly shorten processing time.

Errors and omissions on the return frequently cause a delay in processing. When filing, the Department reminds all taxpayers to check their returns before mailing to make sure that all questions have been answered, that social security numbers have been included and that the return has been signed.

Area persons needing assistance in filling out their returns can receive it at the Murray Morgan State Office Building, Box 158, Alamogordo, 88310, telephone 437-4950 or the Taxation and Revenue Department, 325 South Main Street, Box 1557, Roswell, 88201, telephone 622-1750.

Taxpayers not receiving forms through the mail should check at Department offices, or post offices and banks where forms will be available.

Over 400 bids were received with a total bid of $40,743,492. Andarko Production Company had the highest bids of over one million on each of two parcels in Lea County. Monsanto Company had the highest, single bid of $1,996,800 on a 640 acre tract. All of these were in New Mexico.

The highest bid on an Oklahoma parcel was by Amarex, Incorporated, on 149.33 acres in Roger Mills County of $306,232.

Competitive sales are held on tracts in known producing geologic formations. In addition to the bonus bid, companies also pay an annual rental plus royalties to the United States government. These vary from 12 1/2 to 25 percent on oil with the percent increasing as production goes up. On natural gas the royalty varies from 12 1/2 percent on natural gas under five million cubic feet of production to 16 2/3 percent for all gas over five million cubic feet. Fifty percent of the royalties are returned to the state government.

BLM's simultaneous oil and gas drawing had a record 144,400 entries in December on 197 parcels. The drawing is on tracts not located in known geologic fields and is extremely speculative in nature. The old record of 90,000 entries was set in October 1980.

Registration of ditch systems now underway

The State Engineer's Office is in the process of finalizing the water rights adjudication of the Rio Ruidoso section. One of the last steps in the adjudication is the registration of community ditches within the system.

An officer, commissioner or mayor/dome (ditch boss) or other person in charge of a community ditch should pick up a packet of information from Bill McCutcheon at Gibson's in Ruidoso.

The packet includes the Offer of Judgment of Irrigated acreage, which must be certified by the Ditch Commission and returned within the next couple of weeks.

For more information, contact Bill McCutcheon at 237-7341.

'Expanding Your Horizons' conference for women

Registration is being conducted for an "Expanding Your Horizons" conference for ninth to twelfth grade women and interested adults to be held February 7, from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., at Eastern New Mexico University (ENMU).

The conference is one of 30 "Expanding Your Horizons" conferences being held across the nation. The conference is being coordinated by the New Mexico Network for Women in Science and Engineering and ENMU.

In New Mexico, three other "Expanding Your Horizons" conferences will be held: in Santa Fe March 14 and at the University of New Mexico (UNM) and New Mexico State University, both on March 28, said Jane Gillespie, laboratory coordinator in the UNM biology department and Network president.

The conferences, which will consist of panel discussions, workshops and talks, are designed to provide an opportunity for young women to meet with women working in careers in which they might be interested, Gillespie said.

At ENMU, the conference will open with a panel discussion with Tasia Young of the

New Mexico Commission on the Status of Women, Mary Bochman of White Sands and Dr. Mary Atwood of the Southwest Resource Center serving as the discussants.

Also included will be workshops on a variety of topics, including microcomputers, earth science, medical laboratory techniques, food and agriculture, chemistry, physics, anatomy and physiology, anthropology and career interest. Talks will also be given by several women scientists, engineers, administrators and educators. A special conference for adults is also scheduled.

The conference registration deadline is January 16. The $4 registration fee includes lunch. Registration and further information can be obtained by contacting Jeanne Russell, Learning Center, Number 34, ENMU, Portales, New Mexico 88130. Checks should be made payable to Eastern New Mexico University.

The New Mexico Network for Women in Science and Engineering represents scientists, engineers, administrators, educators and community people from colleges, universities, school districts, corporations, government agencies and foundations. The organization works to develop and conduct various math and science education programs for young women.

In first games of 1981

Warriors defeat Demons, but lose to Goddard

BY MARK BAGBY
Sports Editor

The Ruidoso Warriors picked up the 1981 half of the cage season just the way they ended 1980, with a 62-50 win over Dexter there Friday.

But the new year took a bad turn Saturday night, as the Warriors dropped an 85-60 decision to Roswell Goddard there.

Coach Barry Nelson described the loss as "frustrating."

"They didn't put it to us," Nelson said Sunday. "We didn't play that bad, but I don't think they missed a shot. It was frustrating."

There were several reasons for the loss. Chief among them was the Warriors' inability to deal with Goddard's tough pressing defense.

"I was real surprised their press hurt us the way it did," Nelson said. "We kept making turnovers or they'd steal the ball from us. We just kept giving them too many easy baskets. I didn't think we could get beat as bad as we did."

One of Nelson's best players, star forward Glenn Ryan, got into foul trouble early in the first quarter. With three fouls called on Ryan early, Nelson felt he had to pull him out of the game.

"I thought we could afford to save him for later," he said. "The score at that point was 15-13 in Goddard's favor. That's when the kids fell apart on the press break. I kept calling timeouts to get the kids to settle down, but they got tired and couldn't keep up with Goddard."

The AAAA school's bench strength showed itself in the game, as all 11 of its varsity players played in each quarter of the game.

While it's doubtful Ryan's early reappearance would have made much difference, his foul trouble showed just how tight the officials were calling the game — at first.

Goddard was whistled for 29 fouls in the contest, and Nelson said he thought the referees stopped calling many fouls just to keep the game moving.

"Sometimes the game was more like a football game," he said. "It was a madhouse. They were all over us, coming over our backs, fouling everybody. I think the refs started letting 'em go just so they could get the game over."

Obviously, it was a very physical ballgame.

"Yeah, but we needed it," Nelson said. "It hurt our morale to get beat that bad, but we really did need it. Maybe it'll get us going."

Despite missing much of the game, Ryan led the scoring with 18, followed by Gary Jones and Rodney Thomason with 15 points each, Scott Neal and Bill Richardson with five each and Gene Reeves with three.

Nelson was pleased with Thomason's play, he said, especially considering Thomason's recent bouts with illness.

"Rodney played some good ball. I was real pleased with the way he played," he said.

Although the Warriors beat Dexter in their 1981 opener, Nelson felt it was a sloppy win.

"We didn't play very well, but I sort of expected it," he said. "You could tell we hadn't played in a while. We were real sloppy."

The Warriors held a 16 point lead at halftime, which they maintained through the third quarter.

But Dexter came back in the fourth, and even pulled to within four points.

"That's when I called timeout and we talked things over," he said. "The kids told me not to worry about it. Then they went out and hooked it up toward the end."

"Our biggest problem was being out of shape. We looked bad, like we got real tired."

For the first time this season, four players were in double figures. Ryan again led the scoring with 20, followed by Neal, Thomason and Wade Wilson with 10 each, Jones with six, Richardson with three, and Reeves and Matt Roberts with two apiece.

The win and the loss give the 80-81 Warriors a 7-3 record.

The Warriors are idle until Friday, when they host Artesia, and then they hit the road Saturday to tangle with the district foe Silver City.

"We need this week to get ready," Nelson said. "Everybody we'll play from here on out will press us, and press us hard. We'll have to work on our press break."

"We'll work a lot on defense. We'll work a little bit with our offense. I was fairly pleased with the way our offense worked. We've got a lot of work to do, but we'll be ready."

Lady Warriors falter at Dexter Saturday, 43-40

Saturday was not the lady Warriors' day.

They traveled to Dexter Saturday evening for a cage matchup with the lady Demons and promptly fell behind in the first quarter, 8-18. (That was after trailing 0-16 at one point.) After that, it wasn't so bad.

The lasses pulled to within one point of the lady Demons in the fourth quarter, and coach Sergio Castanon ordered his troops to foul Dexter's Pat Flores, who had not made a free throw at that point.

She sank a pair of free throws and Dexter won, 43-40.

"We made a couple of mistakes there toward the end," Castanon said. "I guess maybe they were coaching mistakes. We were coming back really good too."

The lasses trailed 13-24 at the half but pulled to within seven at the end of the third period, 25-32. The fourth quarter saw the lady Warriors nearly pull it out of the fire for their fourth win of the season, but alas, it was not to be.

"I'd rather be 4-3 right now," Castanon said, "but..."

Despite it all, he's proud of his team. "At first we were a little cold," he said. "I think the long layoff had a lot to do with it. We made a good comeback, just fell a little bit short in the end."

"We played a bad first quarter but played pretty good ball after that."

Kody Taylor led the scoring with 15, followed by Patsy Almager with eight, Gleda Bob with six, Jan Huey with five, Lisa Shaw with four and Tami Shaw with two.

Castanon really had few gripes about his team, including a man to man defense the ladies have been running.

"Really, we played pretty good defense too," he said. "They had one girl we couldn't contain (Barbara Allison, who scored a game high 21 points). They scored 16 points in the first quarter and I bet she had 14 of 'em."

Next opponent for the ladies is a game Tuesday with Capitán there, followed by a game Saturday with Silver City there.

"I think we're going to be tough," Castanon said. "Our guards are scoring a lot of points. We've got our fast break and press down pretty well, and we've started running them without having to think about it. Our younger people are coming around."

"About the only real change we've got to make is our inside people have to score more, especially Lisa Shaw. She's going to have to score more points if we're going to win."

"Once Lisa starts hitting, we'll be in business."

Sportin' Life

by

Mark Bagby

Say, I just heard something very interesting.

Imagine you are a football coach in the National Football League. You've just taken your team to the playoffs for the third year in a row, but like the past two years, that's as far as you got.

No big deal, though — you've got a winning record, your team is feared throughout the league. A championship is another year or two away, that's all.

So, the owner calls you into his office, and you're probably thinking of a bonus or something — at the very least a pat on the back.

What you get is a slap in the face.

"Congratulations on this season, coach," the owner says. "You're fired."

Crazy? Nope. Ask O. A. "Bum" Phillips, head coach — make that former head coach — of the Houston Oilers. He was relieved of duty Wednesday morning by the Oilers management. Bum got the rush, you might say.

I still can't believe it. Granted, I'll agree with anybody who thinks Phillips is a tad overrated as a coach. If I had Earl Campbell, I could be a great coach.

Part of Bum's appeal, I think, is his hat, his wit, his "good ol' boy" mystique. That's very chic nowadays, although Bum would probably hit me if I said he's chic.

This brings back memories of Emory Ballard, now the head coach at Mississippi State.

Remember when Emory was the head coach at Texas A and M? All Ballard did for football was invent the Wishbone offense, put it in at Texas and then, after leaving the Longhorns, rebuild the Aggies to a force to be reckoned with on Saturday afternoons.

So they fired him.

To this day, I don't understand why. Hey, the coach is winning. He may not win it all, but if that's a criteria for keeping the guy around, Bud Grant would have been gone — five times ago. (Grant, for those who don't know, is the head coach of the Minnesota Vikings, who have been to the Super Bowl five times but have yet to win it.)

Pittsburgh didn't just jump right into the Super Bowl when Chuck Noll took over as head coach, but they (so far) won four world championships in his 11 years there. You gonna fire him?

I just don't understand. I can see firing someone like Dick Nolan, who had 12 losses in a row at New Orleans. I can't understand why on earth you'd fire a guy like Phillips — He's got a 65-58 record as the Oilers head coach, and the Oilers play tough football.

Fire Kenny Stabler, if you gotta fire somebody. (He's the Oilers' color blind quarterback — keeps throwing it to the wrong color jerseys.)

Now maybe I'm just blowing wind here, which won't be the first time, and probably not the last. But Bum will probably get the head job at New Orleans or some place like that, and then we'll see what kinda coach he is.

Hang in there Bum — I don't like you much myself, but I'm rootin' for ya.

Push ye olde panic button

Talk about fear.

I was sitting here in the office the other day, working on a column as a matter of fact, when Ronny Maskew, full time Texas Tech fan and part time football coach, stormed into the office.

He stomped over to my desk and said, "First, I've got a gun."

Now those are words to reckon with. For some odd reason, I think he's taken exception to some of my digs about Dear Old Tech, that fine school in Lubbock.

(At that point I could almost hear his finger squeezing the trigger, if you know what I mean.)

But apparently the main reason he came in was to tell me of James Hadnot, a Tech alum now playing for the Chiefs, and some other guy whose name I don't remember. (It's hard to remember names with the word "gun" echoing through your mind.) I had mentioned it had been a while since a Tech grad had made it to the pros, and Ron disagreed.

But we had a nice little chat and I promised not to pick on poor old Tech anymore. I guess they're bad enough without me making fun of 'em too. Sort of like kicking the dog when he's down, I guess.

But he did tell me Rex Dockery, the head coach there, did not leave voluntarily, he was asked to leave. (That means, "Quit, or we'll fire you.")

Say — maybe he and Bum are gonna trade places, huh?

Quotable quotes

Florida State coach Bobby Bowden, on the athletic and scholastic prowess of his players:

"We have one player who's never scared," Bowden said. "He doesn't know the meaning of the word 'fear.' In fact, I saw his grades, and he doesn't know the meaning of a lot of words."

And then they wonder about recruiting violations. Any coach who thinks he's Rodney Dangerfield deserves to get penalized.

Except Arkansas' Lou Holtz, and after last season, he may wish he could get a job as a standup comic.

Nuff said.

Langston makes another all state football team

ROBERT LANGSTON

Robert Langston, Ruidoso High School senior, made another all state AAA football team.

Langston, who earlier made honorable mention at the offensive tackle position on the Associated Press football squad, last week made the United Press International grid squad at the same slot, and again, only on the honorable mention team.

Langston is also a wrestler, and last year was crowned as district champion in the 167 pound bracket.

The elite grid squad was chosen by a panel of coaches and sports media personnel. Artesia, the team that won the AAA title, dominated the listings, grabbing nine of the first team's 24 positions.

School sports calendar

Basketball: Warrior boys' junior varsity and freshman teams to play at Capitán Tuesday night; lady Warriors' varsity and junior varsity also playing at Capitán Tuesday afternoon, with a 4 p.m. start. White Mountain Middle School opens its 1981 schedule with home games against Carrizozo at 4 p.m. Wrestling: The 1980-81 wrestling Warriors, 1-0 on the year, tackle Roswell High here Thursday at 6 p.m., and then face Roswell Goddard here Saturday at 6 p.m. Those are two of only three home meets the Warriors will have this season.

Inside The Capitol

by Fred McCaffrey

SANTA FE — It looks like we're going to get a third Congressman.

If Congress accepts the 1980 census (which they'll likely do, after grumbling), it goes to the White House to be made official. After that, the application of a complicated formula will almost certainly show that some Eastern state gives up a member of the House and we get a new one.

Since the House will grow no larger (everybody knows it's too large already), we've got a zero-sum situation; someone else must lose for us to gain.

That will make hearts beat faster in the 40 or more New Mexicans who are secretly planning to run for that office when it's created. (Secretly? Half of them we know already. There's Bob Mondragon and Art Trujillo and probably Bill Richardson ... and on and on and on.)

But how will the Legislature divide the state into three districts?

The answer to that question makes all the difference.

We could revive McCaffrey's Simple Solution (give the seat to Bernalillo county, which has a third of the state's voters), but you guys in the outlands who hate the Big Burg will never buy that one. For one thing, it's too logical.

So what we'll get is some unlikely and damn-fool idea which splits the state into three ungainly areas, at least two of which will guarantee "safe" seats like we have now. (One for conservatives, another for the Spanish-speaking; how neat!)

Albuquerque will almost certainly find itself represented by two House members, one for the Valley and one for the Heights, or one for the north side of town and one for the south, or some other such clumsy arrangement.

What we ought to be doing is trying to find three equal areas which will give the Congressperson from there a good cross-section of New Mexico's voters. That would be the fairest and most helpful way to have these people chosen. But it won't happen.

Instead, you'll see more scheming, conniving and trading-off among our legislators when these lines are drawn than at almost any other point in the next two sessions. Most of that will go on backstage, of course.

The only thing which will lead to more giving-and-taking in smoke-filled rooms is that other redistricting the census figures will make obligatory — the one where lawmakers redraw the lines which enclose their very own legislative districts.

That's the big action over the next two years.

We commit ourselves to bring you a blow-by-blow account of that one when it gets geared up — though we may have to bug some private rooms and offices to get the real skinny on it. That one shows our legislators at their horsetrading best.

Meanwhile, if you've got a plan for creating that third Congressional district, draw us a map of it. Every one we've seen so far has been designed by somebody whose eyes are on personally running and getting elected from the district. That, we find, leads to some loss of objectivity.

Once again, when oil must be poured on troubled waters (this time in the Mortgage Finance Authority), Bruce King names Ray Powell to do the job. What the Governor plainly needs is an expansion in the group of people in whom he can put his trust.

DAILY TELESCOPE

As everyone knows, astronomers these days don't peer at the stars the way Galileo, Copernicus et al did; they spend their time poring over photographs or speculating about vast stellar events outside the ken of even the largest telescopes. And as with a lot of what everyone knows, it ain't quite so.

Generally speaking, this notion about how astronomers perform their duties is accurate. Many, though, still retain their early fascination with the spectacle of the heavens. For example, Dr. Bradford A. Smith, who was in charge of the Voyager I Saturn mission's image interpretation. The other day he said he looks through his backyard telescope daily, adding, "It's a way of getting familiar with old friends again." So much for stereotypes about astronomers. — Alamogordo Daily News

Letters to the Editor

Dear editor:

In your Dec. 29 issue of The Ruidoso News an article was printed in the Clipped Comment section titled Gun Controls. As an American citizen and a member of the National Rifle Association I feel it is my duty to let my disapproval of this article be known.

Yes, the N.R.A. is powerful. Any organization with two million members could be considered powerful. Each of these members are American citizens. Could this be considered a sign that the American people believe in the Right to Bear Arms?

True, John Lennon and Bobby Kennedy did lose their lives by the misuse of firearms, but is strict gun control the answer? Unlawful people don't mind breaking laws. Why should they mind if guns are outlawed?

Also, in the article it was stated that 10,000 deaths were caused by gunshot last year. Gunshot deaths would include:

- 1 — burglars shot by homeowners protecting their homes or families.
- 2 — criminals shot by police officers while in the process of committing a violent crime.
- 3 — accidental hunting deaths, or even
- 4 — self-inflicted gunshot wounds.

Mr. Editor, I believe this article was written to try to confuse the American people into giving up their Right to Bear Arms. If this happens, the American Frontier truly is GONE.

REGULATIONS COSTLY

The federal Office of Management and Budget has estimated it would cost the United States auto industry $10.9 billion to implement all the federal regulations proposed to take effect in the next four years. We can add this to the list of hidden "taxes" which are imposed on the American economy by government regulations.

Fortunately, the transition teams of the incoming Reagan administration are looking at this aspect of our economic problems as well as at the opportunities for direct tax cuts. In the long run, reducing overregulation could have as much or more effect on improved productivity as reducing tax rates.

A study has disclosed that government-mandated equipment added $666 to the price of the typical passenger car manufactured in 1978 — or a regulatory of $8.7 billion for the 10 million cars sold that year. The figure would be even higher today.

The regulatory "tax" on housing may run as high as 20 to 30 percent of the price, reflecting not only the cost of complying with regulations but costs resulting from long delays in obtaining required inspections and permits.

The Center for the Study of American Business at Washington University in St. Louis has calculated there is a ratio of one-to-20 between what the government spends on its regulatory agencies and what business must spend to comply with their regulations. In other words, for every $1 billion spent on regulatory activities the cost to businesses being regulated is $20 billion — a cost eventually paid by consumers. By this formula the combined price of federal regulatory programs alone is now $121 billion, or almost $500 for every man, woman and child in America.

Not all regulatory programs are bad, of course. We rely on government to police health and safety in the marketplace and we have given government agencies new responsibility for environmental protection. But in the last decade regulations have piled up with little consideration for their effect on economic growth, prices and productivity. How many of these regulations are really necessary?

If the new administration and Congress demand honest answers to that question from the myriad regulatory agencies in the federal government, we can hope for "tax cuts" quite beyond the kind that show up only on our payroll stub. — News-Bulletin, Helen

A QUIET PRESIDENCY?

Many Americans are hoping for a quiet presidency from Ronald Reagan. Among other things, they don't want to see special TV speeches on every major problem.

They recall President Carter's great concern, and special TV speech on the "brigade" in Cuba, about which nothing effective was done, and which was soon forgotten. They recall Carter's special "moral equivalent of war" speech about the energy crisis, which produced no immediate action.

They recall naive speeches about domestic policies in foreign countries, which helped bring about the Shah's fall in Iran, among other things.

They recall carefully prepared TV image-making, the walk down Pennsylvania Avenue, the speech from the White House in a casual sweater, etc., all contrived TV imagery.

The outlook now is for a presidency of quiet style and dignity. Reagan, it's said, is likely to continue periodically to get away from it all — no aides, no photographers, camera crews, "working" vacation staff, etc.

There reportedly will be less effort to constantly exploit television and image-making. A pollster won't be constantly following Reagan around, as a major advisor. All of which is something of a relief. — Santa Rosa News

editorial

It appears, so far as allegations against Frankie Barela, 32, Camp Sierra Blanca inmate is concerned that:

— Lincoln County was sold a bill of goods, by the Department of Corrections, concerning the caliber of inmate assigned to this minimum security facility; and, — The door to freedom is always open at Camp Sierra Blanca.

As of December 31 Barela was a suspect in the stabbing death of a 68-year-old Alamogordo man. A suspect to the point that his bond was set at $10,000.

As of last Wednesday the District Attorney, Steve Sanders, Alamogordo, though Barela was obviously not being detained in Camp Sierra Blanca, hadn't determined if Barela was a camp escapee or if he'd merely been on furlough, or overstayed his furlough, presumably granted for exemplary conduct while being incarcerated.

The News checked with the Lincoln County sheriff's office, upon learning of the Barela incident, relative to the sheriff being provided with rap sheets on the convicts assigned to Camp Sierra Blanca. Though the rap sheets were promised the sheriff months ago, as of last week they'd not received rap sheet one.

Barela, according to camp records, was serving a 30-year term as a habitual criminal. Ostensibly, according to Department of Corrections officials several months ago, Camp Sierra Blanca was to house inmates who weren't considered a menace to society, that were on the verge of being released, that were assigned to the camp so they could gradually adapt to a life of freedom.

We submit that the death of this Alamogordo man, allegedly a crime committed by Barela, isn't consistent with the policies we were advised would be observed in judging a felon's candidacy to become a camp inmate.

Governor Bruce King has indicated that the prison system is under control. To us, considering Barela's alleged crime, we can only say that the governor's statements are balderdash ... pure and simple. — CD

DECADE CONFUSION

A decade ... everyone will agree ... is a ten year period.

However ... concerning decades ... when they start ... and end ... is a mite confusing.

Take, for instance, the definition of "decade" taken from Webster's Third New International Dictionary:

A ten-year period beginning with a year ending in 0 ... i.e., 1900-1909.

Now that's understandable.

However, this wordbook further states, of a decade, it's:

One of the periods of a century divided into ten calendar parts each beginning with a year ending in 1 ... i.e., 1901-10.

Now ... that's confusing.

Why ... after cogitating upon those two definitions ... it's just a mite difficult ... considering this is 1981 ... to determine if we're in the ninth decade of the 20th Century ... or marking time in limbo.

Anyhow ... whether he's opening a new decade ... or stepping into one that's offering but nine years remaining ... it's for sure that President-elect Ronnie Baby really isn't concerned whether the decade'll be ten years ... or nine years ... being's the most he can serve is eight ... and, if he does, he might wish he'd have put in only four ... if that.

OUR JIMMY'S BREAK

What with Our Jimmy having but a fortnight to be President ... coupled with his aching left clavicle ... summarily skidded ... busted ... in a cross-country skiing mishap ... it appears that, instead of jogging with a one-armed, perhaps sorta lurching gate ... that he maybe oughta be out on the White House tennis courts practicing fly casting with one hand ... and learning how to retrieve line with one of those automatic return fly rods.

And it's quite a challenge Our Jimmy's facing ... considering that he didn't do too well as a politician ... worse as a skier ... leaving him with his self-professed goal ... to become the best fly fisherman in history ... which will be a heap easier than being the best fly fisherman on the Madison in Montana.

SENATORIAL ASPIRANTS

It appears as though lotsa folks is interested in becoming United States Senator ... being's Senator Jack Schmitt's seat'll be open in two years ... unless he finds a new tailor.

Anyhow ... rumor has it that Brucey Baby's more than casually interested ... and, as another campaigner, Toney Anaya ... plus some lesser aspirants ... all gunning for Schmitt's ... er ... seat ... and you can bet your next Susan B $1 that they'll not be gunning for him with rock salt.

'Course, Schmitt, with one victory to his credit, just might not be inclined to lie down and get roughed up run over by King or Anaya ... and, if he winds up with a Senatorial plum prior to the 1982 campaign ... he just might be able to keep Anaya ... or King ... from claiming that he's never going to head no powerful senate committees ... as, for instance, Senator Domenici did ... even if Toney loudly proclaimed he'd never amount to nothing in the senate.

Why, the way these political hopefuls are carrying on, you'd think that there'd be a general election in another 22 or 23 months.

GAS AT $1.50 PER

A buncha killjoys are prognosticating that the American driving public had best prepare to pay $1.50 per gallon for car gas ... sooner or later ... and possibly sooner than later.

Seems the OPEC nations ... and others ... even Iran ... are bound and determined ... before Uncle Sam's busy little beavers, working on alternate energy methods, come up with a substitute for gas ... and cheap ... to get theirs ... and when they get theirs, it means you've been had ... by a buncha oil moguls.

Being's $1.50 gas'll more than likely become a painful reality ... and being's our own car makers are all having money problems ... maybe the obvious solution is being overlooked. What'd be wrong with a law saying that all those economy foreign cars must be imported knocked down ... the US car makers could assemble them ... keep all their workers working ... and make billions in profits.

BRIEF HIT: Strange as it seems, for many taxpayers the first bluish of spring immediately follows notice of an impending IRS audit ... Happy New Year ... CD

The Dreamer

BY DANNIE STORM

This message is being sent to you on January Second, 1981 on a beautiful sunny day with a blue and white sky overhead and the mountain land full of golden sun-lit meadows and mountain shades of purple, lavender and lilac. Mother Earth is all aglow with gratefulness at such a glad-some beginning of a brand new year, full of hope, faith, and days full of dreams come true.

Nineteen eighty has been a wonderful year, and today just two days into a brand new year, my heart is overflowing with gratefulness to God for such a year full of blessings. And I thank you, dear friend, for making this past year, and all the years, so filled with joyful days.

A Great Beginning
In The New Year
Brother Lynn came up between Christmas and New Years with his wife, Maxine and their youngest daughter, Ann, and her husband Al Gels, and their children, Grand and Cristen.

We all watched football on New Year's day up at their new house up near the golf course where the view looks out on glorious Sierra Blanca.

I send up a prayer of thanks to the inventors of television for the great pleasure they bring to us in watching athletic events. Just to think that you can see several of the best teams play all in one day, and be able to see the game better than from the best seat in the stadium.

All the games were grand, played with superb sportsmanship, and brilliant action.

The Stories
Of Belt Buckles
At the Christmas services at Saint Anne Chapel in Glencoe, Gerald Tully, the miracle man of contest roping, said to me, "You have a new pick-up and I have a new buckle."

With that he showed me a very handsome buckle he had won a few days before in a roping contest.

The belt was beautiful, and more than this, there is a message and meaning in this trophy. It speaks of Gerald's spirit of never giving up, of keeping on in his rodeo work, and in his Ranch life, without paying any attention to the passing of the years. In this he is an inspiration to us all.

Now I have always admired these large western buckles, and yet have never owned one.

The day after Christmas comes a small package in the Glencoe Post office from brother Mark. I drove on up to the gate to the upper forty and stepped out of my new Christmas-present pick-up, and opened the package. Here was a silver buckle with the words: "Dan Storm of the Silver Lining."

It was mid morning in the Vale, one of those enchanted days that always come to us in the sacred lull between Christmas and the new year. I looked over to the knoll, and on down across the fields and the winding river to the house, and back to the hills on the upper forty. My heart became light with a sacred joy, as I stood there surrounded by all the beloved scenes of my early youth, where I have spent most of my life. The spirits of my loved ones came close to me, from Heaven and earth. And I marveled at God's goodness in giving me such wonderful brothers, and Father and Mother. I could not be grateful enough for all God's blessings.

Later on, over the phone, Mark said, "This buckle is a trophy, and award from me and all your fans, not only for your writing, but your life as a Silver Lining fellow — the one who cheers folks up."

As we begin the new year, I pray that God will show me the way, not only to cheer folks up, but also to be a permanent blessing in their lives.

So, I am grateful for the blessing of reaching you through the printed page and I thank you for the inspiration and help you have always been.

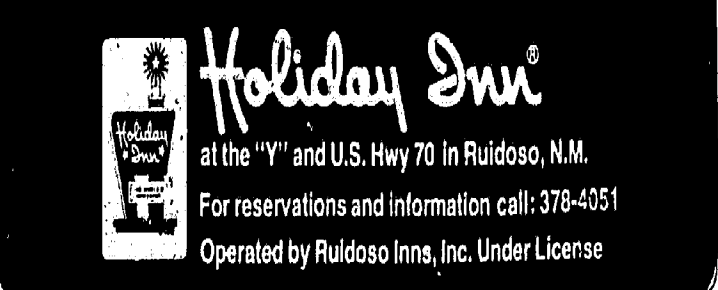

Let us all thank God for his great blessings and in the New Year help each other make our dreams come true.

THE NINTH Ruidoso Art Festival was held at the high school parking lot July 26-28, with more than 100 artists showing and selling their original works. Above, a young lady looks over the work of Lael Connell, an artist whose specialty is nostalgic scenes. This year's festival will be July 24-26. The Art Festival is an annual event sponsored by the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce.

Violence down in gridiron wars?

Few athletes have made the transition from the playing field to the broadcast booth as smoothly and successfully as Merlin Olsen, former standout defensive tackle for the Los Angeles Rams now in his fourth year as an NBC Sports football analyst.

Merlin had a helmet-to-helmet view of the rugged trench warfare that is so much a part of professional football during his 15 years with the Rams, and now that experience translates into broadcasting credibility.

Says his broadcast partner, Dick Enberg, "When Merlin talks about interior-line play—something that many fans ignore in favor of following the wide-open action involving the quarterback, receivers or running backs—they not only listen but they believe him. Merlin is a knowledgeable and articulate observer, and he has a knack for knowing when to talk and when not to."

Merlin Olsen

On the subject of violence in today's game of professional football, Olsen is firm in his opinions. "There is definitely much less violence today than there was, for instance, during my playing days some 10 years ago," he says.

Less rough stuff

"There is an impression of there being more violence today simply because much more attention is drawn to action that is couched under the label of 'violence.' It doesn't mean that the frequency or severity of such incidents is greater. It's all just blown up more."

What about injuries today as compared to when he was playing?

"It does seem that we're seeing more serious injuries today," says Merlin, "but that is another misleading factor regarding this violence business. The greater number of injuries and the greater degree of severity is really due to the fact that today's players are faster, stronger and more ruggedly conditioned than in years past. As a result, physical confrontations—tackles, blocks, falls—take a measurably higher toll in the form of injuries."

"And too, there is no question in my mind but that artificial turf has prompted an increase in injuries, particularly to the knees. It all boils down to the fact that professional football is a much more wide-open, slam-bang, fast-paced contest. That more players tend to get hurt should not be attributed to unsavory meanness on the part of the players."

Beverly's last hurrah

'A Lincoln Center Special: Beverly! Her Farewell Performance,' an entertainment special videotaped at the October 27th star-studded New York City Opera gala for Beverly Sills at Lincoln Center's New York State Theater, will be nationally televised by Lincoln Center over the Public Broadcasting Service (PBS) on Monday, January 5.

Carol Burnett is the Mistress of Ceremonies in the gala sequence which features a number of well-known personalities from all the performing arts singing or dancing in honor of Miss Sills. These celebrities include: John Alexander, Placido Domingo, Eileen Farrell, James Galway, Donald Gramm, Cynthia Gregory, Mary Martin, Peter Martins, Ethel Merman, Sherrill Milnes, Leontyne Price, Renata Scott, Dinah Shore, Bobby Short, Charles Wadsworth and Heather Watts.

For this special occasion, Miss Sills sings the role in which she made her debut 25 years ago with the New York City Opera, Rosalinda in Johann Strauss' 'Die Fledermaus.' Julius Rudel, who for 22 years was the Director of the New York City Opera and collaborated closely with Miss Sills, conducts the performance.

The gala sequence was produced and directed on stage by James Lipton. Music staging and choreography are by Ron Field. Special lyrics were created for the event by Betty Comden and Adolph Green, and by Martin Charnin.

At the conclusion of the gala, Miss Sills is joined on stage by a number of surprise guests, including Sarah Caldwell, Mr. and Mrs. Tito Capobianco, Walter Cronkite, Mrs. Lyndon B. Johnson, New York City Mayor Edward Koch, Zubin Mehta, Mrs. Walter Mondale and Burt Reynolds.

The entire event was arranged by a number of Miss Sills' friends with Carol Burnett also serving as Chairman. "Beverly's talents and generosity overwhelm all of us," said Miss Burnett. "Her colleagues from every area of the performing arts were delighted to join in this salute to a wonderful artist and a great human being."

'Beverly! Her Farewell Performance' is the last of a series of farewell benefit performances Miss Sills has given on behalf of opera companies and symphony orchestras across the country. Although she will no longer appear in concert and opera performances, she will make personal appearances on television. Miss Sills will continue to be General Director of the New York City Opera, a position she has held since 1979.

CONFIDENTIAL REPORT: Nicholas Cortland, who recently joined the cast of 'Search For Tomorrow' as the shady Dr. Winston Kyle, claims he doesn't feel that Kyle is "really such a bad guy" (despite the fact that his questionable treatments may risk the life of character Sunny Adamson). "I honestly think he believes in what he's doing," says Cortland. Fans of the series are apparently drawing their own conclusions, however—Cortland was recently kicked in his bank by an angry viewer. "That's all right," he says. "A woman bought me a cone in an ice-cream parlor the other day. It makes up for it." . . . One of Hollywood's most eligible bachelors is shopping for a wife, yet he admits he could never be faithful. Gregory Harrison, who plays Dr. Gonzo Gates on CBS-TV's 'Trapper John,' says: "In show business, particularly, there's no such thing as monogamy. You spend months on location, away from your partner. I don't know anybody who's married who hasn't fooled around on their mate at least once. When I was younger I was fairly idealistic. But not anymore. I don't really expect that the woman I end up with will never end up with anybody else."

TV BACKSTAGE: Bob Barker is celebrating his 25th year in TV. He's currently on TV six hours a week. . . . You're seeing a new face among the cast of CBS-TV's 'Dukes of Hazzard' this season. The show's new regular is not what you'd call a beauty, but she's got the most irresistible brown eyes. Everyone on the show loves her, and the producers are banking that you'll fall for her, too. Her name is Flash and she's a basset hound. She's quite elderly—she's nine, and if you count seven dog years for one of ours, that makes her about 63. . . . Suzanne Somers, the sexy scatterbrain on ABC-TV's 'Three's Company,' has learned the hard way that even a star can be replaced. Somers has had to stop playing hard-to-get because her ideal replacement has not been just waiting in the wings—she's appeared on the show. And the producers are so happy with newcomer Marie Laurin that they plan to work her in as a cast regular, with an option on her talents for the next four years. Rumors about Somers departing the sit com started when she missed the taping of two episodes because of 'a back injury.' But her husband and agent, former talk show host Alan Hamel, now admits there were contract problems. Insiders say Somers was demanding a $150,000 fee per episode, an unheard-of sum for a 30-minute show. Executive producer Michael Ross said firmly he was prepared to "do the show with or without Suzanne."

TV CLOSEUP: 'Etosha: Place of Dry Water,' a brilliant wildlife film, premieres the 1981 season of National Geographic Specials on Public Television, January 7, under a continuing grant from Gulf Oil Corporation. In this film depicting raw animal vitality, one highly unusual sequence shows young bullfrogs devouring each other to satisfy their voracious appetites. Another scene equally as harsh. Fleeing with the herd, a zebra mother successfully defends her foal from a swift cheetah, but a second cheetah attack brings down a baby springbuck. Still another observation by cinematographers David and Carol Hughes was that of a group of turtles hungrily attacking a turtle dove at a water hole. Rarely on television has nature's interplay of life and death seemed more vivid.
