Chamber elects new directors

More than 50 percent of the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce membership cast ballots to elect seven new members of the board of directors, and to select the winner of the Hn'zhu'ne Award.

New board members include Karl Franzer, Safeway manager; Morgan Clough, Morgan's Mountain Sports; Dan Shaver, Shaver Tire and Auto; Bill Myers, High Country Janitorial; Helen Gable Reeves, A Place in the Sun; Gail Adams, Sonny's Barbecue; and Bill Fugate, Cro's Nest Motel.

Other nominees included Barry Morgan, Jack Halbrooks, Joan Bailey, Joe Thompson, Sonya Smith, Tom Kelham and Buddy Carter.

New board members will take office May 1 and will serve two year terms. Serving a one year term will be outgoing Chamber president Sheila Harris.

Write-in votes were cast for Jim Paxton,

Ken Carr, Dee Ann Wooldridge, Karon Petty, Rudy Flack, Clark Carpenter, Lowell McIntyre, Walter McAllister, Tim Morris, Bill Morrison and Tim Wishard. Directors who will end their terms April 30 include Wayne Dacy, Morris, Robert Hays, Benny Coulston, Ray Heid, Tom Graham and Linda McGuire.

"We received 220 ballots this year, which is more than half the membership voting," Ed Jungbluth, chamber executive director, said. "We are pleased with this response."

Jungbluth added that four nominees for the Hn'zhu'ne Award, were also on the ballot. "We will announce the winner of that award at our annual meeting sometime in early May."

Vying for the beautification award are The Wild Snail, Holiday Liquors, Hugh Hannigan's office and Sierra Professional Center.

P&Z tables bonding plan on subdividers

A resolution amending the local planning and zoning code which would require subdividers to post a maintenance bond before final plat approval, was tabled by the Ruidoso Planning and Zoning Commission (P&Z) Wednesday.

Jack LaMay, street superintendent, said he had originally asked P&Z to require "a portion of the completion bond to be held up" if roads did not meet village specifications.

The resolution covers all utilities, and requires that regular inspections be made on every phase of a development. If, within a two year period, the development is not completed to the satisfaction of village department heads, a portion of the maintenance bond would be forfeited to make needed repairs.

The resolution did not set what percentage of the bond should be forfeited, and several attending the meeting recommended P&Z "give some more thought" to providing for the different problems which will arise with each development.

"If someone's done a bad job (of building roads), 10 percent isn't going to do (the village) any good anyway," Bill McCarty said.

He also suggested that developers be allowed to work with local bank lenders or through a certificate of deposit "so you won't be tied up a year trying to work out a bond problem with a guy in New Jersey."

Darryl T. Collins, civil engineer, said "you ought to leave the village department heads with the latitude to set the percentage of a maintenance bond" needed to repair or properly improve a project.

McCarty said another concern he has is that inspections on many developments are not done often enough or are poorly

WATER, SEWER COST HIKES COMING

Rate hearing set Monday

The Ruidoso trustees will hold a public hearing on proposed increases in the current water and sewer rates Monday, at 7:30 p.m., in the Ruidoso Public Library.

At a special meeting of the trustees Wednesday afternoon, proposed new rates, to be adopted by ordinance, were presented by Fred Burns of Boyle Engineering, Albuquerque.

These suggested rates, to be aired at Monday's hearing, were developed by Boyle following completion of an extensive water study authorized by the trustees. The study delved into existing and potential water sources and into storage, treatment and distribution problems and costs.

Before explaining the new rate proposals, Burns said that the water and sewer departments should be self sustaining and have sufficient funds for operational and maintenance costs.

Burns said that the reason Treatment Plant No. 2 had to be closed, and that the storage tank in the Upper Canyon is in a state of bad repair, is "the water department just didn't have the money to maintain them."

Boyle's suggestions for rate increases include:

April — Increasing the fixed monthly charge from $3.60 to $8.44 and the cost of water from $1.20 per thousand gallons to $1.71. This would increase the average household water bill from $6.14 to $13.77 per month.

April 1 — Increase the fixed monthly charge for sewer service from $3.75 to $5.43 and the water charge from nothing to 96 cents per one thousand gallons. This would increase the sewer rate in the average household from $3.75 to $8.05 per month.

July 1 — Increase the monthly fixed water charge from $8.44 to $8.63, with the per thousand water charge going from $1.71 to $1.81.

The sewer rate fixed charge would be raised from $5.43 to $5.53 and the water rate from 96 cents to $1.03 per thousand gallons.

April 1 — Introduce a surcharge, as a water conservation measure, of 50 cents per one thousand gallons of water used above the mean water usage, an average established by water used during December, January, February and March.

April 1 — Adopt a Utility Expansion Charge, requiring developers and builders to pay debt service on new bonds to finance the water and sewer system expansion. These charges would be $450 for water system expansion and $300 for sewer system expansion. This proposal suggests that 25 percent of these fees be paid at the time that the original commitment for water and sewer service is made.

A recommendation that the water and sewer departments collect connection charges of $250 for water and $25 for sewer. This, Burns said, is the current cost to the village to provide these services.

The trustees will act on these recommendations after Monday's public hearing on the rate increases.

Davis on rate changes

During Wednesday's meeting of the trustees, on the water and sewer rate increase proposals, Mayor Lloyd L. Davis Jr., said:

Water and sewer is a very small part of the total cost of living. Compare your gas, electric, television and telephone bills," with the proposed rates for water and sewer, and "you'll see that water and sewer won't be all that expensive."

C-C's Easter Egg hunt April 18

An Easter Egg hunt, sponsored by the Retail Merchants Committee of the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce (RMC), is scheduled April 18, with the site to be announced.

As in past years, the egg hunt will have children divided into three groups: 0-3, 4-7, 8-11.

Arrangements have already been made to boil 200 dozen eggs, with local merchants and banks asked to donate prize plastic eggs, including three "golden eggs," which will hold special prizes.

"We anticipate having between 100 and 125 prize eggs, and we will once again ask the Girl Scouts, Brownie Scouts and elementary school children to dye the eggs," Richard Sandoval, RMC chairman, said.

The committee hopes to find a new site for this year's hunt, since the number of participants "has outgrown Two Rivers Park," Sandoval said.

An Easter Fun day in the park will be another RMC project, planned for April 26, featuring an Easter Hat Contest with prizes awarded to winning entries.

The Chamber will provide hot dogs with trimmings and soft drinks will also be available "all at very reasonable prices," Jungbluth said.

"Both of these events are fun days that involve a lot of local people," Jungbluth said.

"These are ways the Chamber of Commerce pays the people back for all they do to help the Chamber," Sandoval added.

In continuing plans for the 1981

Aspenade Parade and related activities, Jungbluth said the parade "will hopefully be more continuous than in the past, with fewer gaps."

To achieve that goal, parade participants riding unicycles, bicycles, Shrine units, and so on, will be interspersed so they can perform throughout the parade route.

In working more closely with Til Thompson, Aspenade Motorcycle Convention organizer, Jungbluth said the Chamber will be in charge of providing a Grand Marshal for the parade, with the Aspenade Queen to be provided through the motorcycle convention.

Jungbluth said the Miss Aspenade contest, co-sponsored last year by the Chamber and Beta Sigma Phi Sorority, will probably be "redesignated," with a program developed to allow her to compete in a state level contest.

"We want to give the Motorcycle Queen more recognition than we have in the past. We were pleased with the turnout and interest in our Miss Aspenade contest, and we'd like to continue it in some form," Jungbluth added.

The RMC also:

- Heard that a calendar of fall events will be available to be distributed in early summer, so visitors to Ruidoso can plan ahead to attend fall activities.
- Voted to have a worthless check guide printed as presented and distributed to local business persons within a month.
- Heard that men's slow pitch and fast pitch softball leagues have been formed, and following distribution of schedules, plans for a tournament will be announced.

Ski Report

Sierra Blanca: Undisturbed snow depth midway up the mountain is 53 inches, following 30 inches of accumulated snowfall since Monday. All lifts are operating and all trails are open. Conditions range from "excellent to fantastic," according to manager Roy Parker.

Eagle Creek: Report unavailable.

County EMTs seek coordinator

BY GWYNETH JONES
Staff Writer

Emergency Medical Technicians (EMT's) who staff the volunteer Lincoln County Ambulance Service voiced concern over problems in the system at a meeting of Lincoln County commissioners Tuesday in Carrizozo.

The EMT's asked that the county consider hiring a coordinator for the ambulance system, preferably a person with a medical background who could better insure a high quality of care for patients.

Speaking for the group, Nancy Guck, an EMT and physician's assistant, said the group needed "professional leadership with the ability to hire and fire" to insure that local patients do not receive sub-standard care from the volunteers. She called the system "grossly inefficient" as it is now operating.

The coordinator could help improve the system by "reviewing of runs"—a review and critique of procedures used on each ambulance call, according to Hoot Gibson, another county EMT. The coordinator would also work with the EMT's to set up "protocols," so that all the volunteers would know the limitations of their work, they said.

Another major problem in the system, according to the volunteers is "lack of utilization" of some of the EMT's, who consequently find that their skills deteriorate.

The Sheriff's department currently dispatches the ambulances, but rather than abiding by a call schedule, the department employees call those who they know are most accessible by telephone, the EMT's said. They are equipped with

Five high school students named to state Lions' band

Five Ruidoso High School band students have been accepted to participate in the 1981 New Mexico Lions Club Band.

Jeanette Weems, Michael Hansen, Tad Haynes, Sharon Kirgan and Lara Ratliff will attend a state convention of band students in Albuquerque May 15-16.

The national convention will be held in Phoenix, Arizona, June 15-19, with students meeting in Las Cruces June 11-14 to rehearse.

Local band director Danny Flores said all RHS band students auditioned to participate in the band, with only the five best tapes accepted.

"This is a very big honor for the kids," Flores said. "Usually only two students from any high school are accepted, and we had nearly ten who did exceptionally well in auditions," he added.

Last year, Weems and Hansen participated, with nearly $1,200 raised by the local Lions clubs to send the two to Chicago, Illinois, to participate in the program.

"The Lions Clubs will again try to raise the money for all five students to attend. This year the per student cost will be much lower because we'll be driving to Phoenix instead of flying," Flores said.

He estimates that $2,300 will be needed and added that Weems and Hansen "will pay half their expenses since they both attended last year.

"We wish to thank the Ruidoso Noon Lions and Evening Lions for their support of this fine program, and we hope the community will support this program as well," Flores said.

The Lions Band will feature 80 students from high schools throughout New Mexico, who will participate in an international parade, dinner show at the state convention and several presentations outside the convention center at Phoenix.

electronic paging devices which are not always being utilized, according to letters submitted to the commission.

Guck said the village of Ruidoso was in the process of hiring a new Emergency Medical Services director, and the county EMT's were hopeful that an agreement could be worked out so that he could coordinate the county service as well.

"We're asking for a bonding of the entire county medical community," Guck said. "This would give the EMT's some medical direction."

In addition to "weeding out" the volunteers who may be providing "substandard care," the coordinator could also help EMT's to progress to higher levels of medical education programs, Gibson said.

Commissioner Ben Hall said he had met recently with village and medical community leaders in Ruidoso, and was "convinced that the EMT's think they need a medical professional to direct their service, and I'm afraid if they don't get this, we're going to lose a lot of EMT's and the county ambulance will go down the drain."

Chairman Cotton McKnight took the opportunity to object to the fact that the county ambulance service is used to make hospital transfers, which is a money-losing procedure. He suggested that the county service "cut out all routine transfers, and let Ruidoso foot the bill for them."

The county EMT's said this was not feasible, since Ruidoso had only one ambulance which was up to state standards, and only four EMT's—two on duty and two off—at any time.

"If you cut out all the transfers, there are going to be a lot of dead people lined up at the Ruidoso Hondo Valley Hospital," Alto EMT Yvonne Lanell said.

The EMT's advised the commissioners that since the county was providing the village of Ruidoso with funding for their ambulance service, they would "have the right to direct the coordinator to look into this situation."

The commissioners eventually agreed to meet with the Ruidoso officials and medical community to discuss the problems and needs, and the possibility of entering into a joint powers agreement to remedy those problems. At the same time, they voted to make membership in the county EMT Association mandatory for all volunteers in the service.

In other business, the commissioners:

- Approved closing of county roads E-032, E-033, E-034 and part of E-031, all in the Corona area. E-031 from Corona to the Adams Ranch gate will remain open at the request of the state Game and Fish Department, in order to provide access to state land by hunters.
- Accepted a bid of $2,781 from Artesia Fire Equipment for a breathing air compressor.

- Accepted a bid of $8,894.47 from B&S Fire Equipment Service of Albuquerque for fire fighting equipment.
- Heard a report on activities and services of the Zia Senior Citizens Center, from director Mary Thorpe.
- Approved a request from the Carrizozo Fire Department for use of the county radio frequency.
- Approved the purchase of portable radios for the Fort Stanton, Hondo Valley, Lincoln and Nogal Fire Departments.
- Read a letter of commendation to road department superintendent Guy Henley, from the village of Capitan, and discussed possible purchase of a "chip spreading" machine for the department.
- Called for a public hearing at the next regular meeting to consider a proposal to raise the subdivision road frontage tax from one cent to ten cents per foot. The proceeds would be used to upgrade subdivision roads.
- Were advised by District Attorney Steve Sanders that a lawsuit filed against the county by Ira Miller had been settled, allowing collection of taxes on his property, assessed at $193,000. That suit dates to 1975.
- Approved hiring of a part time employee for the County Clerk's office, to assist with filing of plats.
- Held a closed session to discuss personnel matters.

World changes point to New Mexico's growth

The entire world is changing and New Mexico will be affected by these same driving forces of change, said Bob Coppedge, Extension economist for New Mexico State University. Coppedge sees in these driving forces the potential for economic growth over the next several years.

"Growth will occur," Coppedge said, "and problems will occur with it. We must take advantage of some of these trends while lessening the less desirable effects. Economic growth is coming to New Mexico—current economic realities dictate it."

Migration is continuing toward the Sunbelt and telecommunication and microelectronic breakthroughs favor New Mexico. The state will feel the demand for energy and resources although ecological considerations may limit growth. Climate shifts will be affecting growth in the future. Rich-poor country tensions, especially through Mexico, will impact on the Southwest as will changing knowledge structures.

Coppedge said a growing number of people prefer to live in less populated areas and this will affect migration patterns. People dissatisfied with material pursuits and other value changes will encourage migration. Business will be following the markets as migration occurs and people will be following job availability. These forces will tend then to build upon each other and growth will continue," the economist said.

"Telecommunication and microelectronic breakthroughs will favor New Mexico, especially if we seize the opportunity," he said. "Our usual limits to growth are no obstacle in this area. Distances and population are not as important in a future influenced by breakthroughs in the communications areas."

Work can be done away from population areas and then be communicated instantly throughout the country. With the telecommunication and microelectronic breakthroughs, labor markets, product markets, and raw materials are becoming less important as location factors for business men.

Energy and resource demands in the country will be encouraging growth in New Mexico. "The milder climate, the winter sun and dry heat will encourage migration of people the impact of increasing utility cost," Coppedge said. Mining energy resources is active and will grow for the newer future in New Mexico. Business and industry will be following the energy resources.

"However, tourism as we know it, the kind which requires large amounts of energy, may decline. But new patterns of diversion will arise," Coppedge said. "This will affect the current tourist industry in a negative way, but the challenge is to take advantage of new patterns of diversion."

Ecological considerations may limit growth in New Mexico. Coppedge points out that the desert is a fragile environment. Population growth will affect this ecological balance, and of course, water availability will play a major role in many areas of the state.

Climate shifts will also affect growth in New Mexico. Because we do have a delicate ecological balance, the predicted changes in long-term weather patterns could affect growth. Rain and snowfall changes can affect water supply, thus, affecting agricultural, industrial, and municipal users.

Tensions between rich and poor countries will probably increase in intensity in the future, Coppedge said. As poor countries gain economic power through energy development, they will demand more of a slower growing world production. Income disparities are also reflected in illegal immigration. Again, New Mexico is affected by virtue of its proximity to Mexico and its energy-related economy.

Changing knowledge structures is a nebulous concept but perhaps the most important of all, Coppedge said. Changing knowledge structures in the past have revolutionized the face of the world. New Mexico's scientific communities will contribute to such a change and help the state to adjust to the future.

Game violations costly

Casual attitudes toward game and fish bag limits can be costly, according to a report from the Game and Fish Department.

Exceeding the bag limit on rainbow trout cost a Las Cruces man a $250 fine, plus $10 court costs and $8.00 civil damages, Reserve District Game and Fish Officer Mike Robertson reported.

Robertson cited Lorenzo S. Martinez, 31, for taking four trout over the eight trout bag limit on rainbows during a fishing trip to Snow Lake.

Martinez recently appeared in court and pled guilty to the charge before Catron County Magistrate Ron Gardner, who assessed the fine.

Maximum fine for the violation, classified as a misdemeanor under state statutes, is $500, with up to six months in jail. Minimum fine upon conviction is $50.

A $200 fine for illegally killing a deer brought to $720 the total assessed against Oscar Blackwater, Kayenta, Arizona, in a big game violation near Quemado in early January.

Blackwater, 48, and two co-defendants had earlier pleaded guilty to one count each of illegal possession of a deer and been fined $300 plus $10 court costs each by Magistrate Mary Lee.

After further questioning of the three, Game and Fish Department Officer Mike Robertson filed an additional charge, illegally killing the deer, against Blackwater.

Blackwater was convicted on that count January 22 and fined $400, $200 suspended, by Magistrate Lee. The Game and Fish Department assessed $100 civil damages against him as a civil penalty for the state's loss of the deer.

Total fines, civil damages and court costs assessed against the three men came to $1,540. The deer had been illegally killed to feed a crew of woodcutters near Quemado, officers report.

The charges were brought after officers followed up on an Operation Game Thief (OGT) tip. The caller to OGT received a $250 cash reward for the information.

Anyone providing information on big game or other wildlife law violations is eligible for rewards through Operation Game Thief, a cooperative Game and Fish Department-citizen program aimed at prosecuting game law violators and deterring potential violators. A toll-free number, 1-800-432-4263, is provided; and callers are not asked their names and do not have to testify in court.

Sunland trainers don't strike

Following an emergency meeting with state Racing Commission chairman Raymond Eaves Wednesday, horse trainers at Sunland Park filed entries for Friday's races just before the 10 a.m. deadline.

The horsemen had threatened to strike the track, primarily to protest racing commission rules limiting the use of Butazolidin or "Bute," an anti-inflammatory horse medication. The limit is five micrograms per milliliter.

A commission spokesman said, however, that the limitation on the drug would not be changed.

The horsemen had also lodged grievances over a proposed $10 charge to trainers who fail to clean out stalls when leaving the track and over rules pertaining to the status of trainers who have been suspended for infractions.

The horsemen are to meet with the commissioners to discuss a new rule book, sometime prior to the next commission meeting March 27.

Boy Scouts cleaning up Alto Lake

Ten Boy Scouts spent Saturday cleaning trash from Alto Lake shore and picnic grounds, in an effort to keep the area from being closed to public use.

Troop 107 voted to clean the area as a service project after the village trustees announced they were considering closing the area because of the litter problem.

More than 30 large plastic bags, some weighing as much as 50 pounds, were collected, but the scouts "only grazed the surface," according to scoutmaster Bill Streeter.

Different types of trash were found at different levels of the facility, according to the scouts. Salmon egg bottles and beverage cans littered the lake bottom, which is normally covered by water. Thousands of pop top lids and yards of fishing line were recovered from the shore. Further into the woods, the scouts found an abundance of cans and picnic supplies.

"It's a little sickening to think our drinking water comes from this lake," Streeter said. "Apparently a lot of people think if it's underwater, it doesn't matter."

Troop 107 plans to continue the cleanup effort to assist Eagle Scout candidate Mitchell Rhodes, who has taken on the cleaning and monitoring of the area as part of his Eagle Scout service project.

Local skiing promotion on Texas radio

Skiing in Ruidoso is being advertised over more than 100 Texas State Network radio stations the balance of this week, according to Chamber of Commerce executive director Ed Jungbluth.

"It's a concentrated effort primarily directed at the excellent skiing conditions on our slopes," Jungbluth said. The commercials, he added, "are, in essence, an updated ski report emphasizing that we have received 24 inches of new snow this week and the skiing is excellent."

Mule Skinners election set Saturday eve

The annual general meeting of the Ruidoso Downs Mule Skinners Association will be held at 7:30 p.m., Saturday in the Ruidoso Public Library.

The agenda includes election of directors, discussion of new racing rules of the American Mule Skinning Association, planning for the May 3-3 trail ride and for the mule races scheduled October 8-11 at Ruidoso Downs Race Track.

In the Service

Eric C. Smith has been promoted to Navy Lieutenant at the Naval Station on Guam. He is the son of Ronald and Alice Smith of Ruidoso.

Marine Private Marc W. Rodriguez is now on duty with the First Battalion, Seventh Marines, at Camp Pendleton, California. He is the son of Walter and Diane Rodriguez of Mesalero.

Navy Seaman Recruit Alfonso M. Trujillo has completed recruit training at the Naval Training Center, Orlando, Florida. The son of Bonifacio Trujillo of Ruidoso Downs, he joined the Navy in November of 1980.

Care Center plans addition

Fund raising has begun at Ruidoso Care Center (RCC) to provide money to build a patio and outdoor recreation area for residents of the convalescent care facility.

Ivan Westergaard, RCC administrator, said the project is sponsored by the Community Advisory Council, and all donations will be tax deductible through the RCC Auxiliary, Incorporated.

"We envision a pond at the center, with gardening areas, including some that are wheelchair height, and walkways that will be accessible to everyone," he said.

Picnic tables, benches, shuffleboard and horseshoes will also be incorporated, with the entire patio area fenced and landscaped, Westergaard added.

"A priority would be to get the walkways installed so we can put it into use this spring. Then we would add benches and work our way down until we have installed a greenhouse and other extras."

A tentative blueprint, reproduced in today's paper, was designed by architect John V. Moore and designer Rex Skellett of Ruidoso, who incorporated solar heating through the greenhouse. "We hope this will be a means of saving money on energy bills," Westergaard said.

The patio will be located just outside the present recreation room and therapy room, both of which have doors already opening into the area.

"It will be a nice place for our residents to sit outdoors, relax and have picnics with their families, or for special occasions," Westergaard said.

No estimate on the cost of the project has been determined, he said. "We just want to install things as soon as we get the money to cover costs of each addition."

Members of the advisory board working on the project include Bill Karn, Robert Hays, Eleanor Shockey, Frank Sawyer, The Reverend Charles Spooner, Guy Bowers, Narcissus Gayton, Nancy Walizer, Jan Williams; Nina Tortilla, Wilton Howell, Hazel Kennedy, Romeo Klein, Ray Nunley, Joe Skeen, Edith Riggsby and Ulysses Jolsanany.

"All donations will go to the Auxiliary and will remain the property of that entity with the residents, of course, receiving the benefit of their work and the community's donations," Westergaard said.

documented, and in some cases, the inspector changes midway through a project "and the new inspector doesn't like anything you've done so far."

He suggested the creation of a system that would require better documentation of inspections, and that inspections be made more often.

Currently, inspections must be made within 72 hours after the builder/developer has notified the village that they are ready to be inspected on a certain phase of a project.

LaMay also suggested that "we should have something so when we sign the final plats we have an ordinance that will back us up."

Collins recommended that a "compliance period" be built into the resolution, giving a developer notice if a problem exists and "give him a chance to correct the problem. Then, if he lets it go, you can use the bond money to fix it."

P&Z Chairman Mike Waldron appointed members Martin Rose, John Schuller and Mike Mulholland, to review the suggestions, seek input from others in the community, and submit a report to P&Z as soon as possible.

Waldron said the subcommittee's meeting date will be announced.

A public hearing for a conditional use permit for Ralph Rush was also tabled. Rush requested permission to install a bumper boat amusement area on lots 81-96, Skyland Addition, which would incorporate a small lake two feet deep and have six boats.

Rush said the lake would use about 24,000 gallons of city water and would be lined. His plans would "provide another recreation amenity for the kids in Ruidoso," he said.

Rush proposed providing 25 parking spaces and would remodel a building already on the property, to provide office space and restrooms.

Rush's proposal will be reconsidered after he presents a formal plat.

P&Z also:

- Approved a final plat for Balco Hills Condominiums, located on lots 37 and 46, White Mountain Estates Unit Four, for Bill Coats.
- Approved phase two of Fox Hollow Condominiums for Richard Cottrun, subject to approval by Jim Wills, water superintendent.
- Approved a replat of lots 17, 18 and 19, block 9 in Ponderosa Heights into two lots, for Robert C. Caldwell.
- P&Z also voted to request $3,350 from the Ruidoso trustees to hire Eric Kelley, a land planner and attorney from Pueblo, Colorado, to review local ordinances and make recommendations for changes.
- Mulholland said Kelley recently headed a workshop of ordinance planning in Santa Fe, which was also attended by trustees Benny Coulston and George White.

Local man facing larceny, burglary raps

Russell Randall, 27, Ruidoso, was arrested early today and charged with larceny over $100 and burglary, in connection with an incident at Ski West.

Ruidoso Police responding to an alarm at the ski shop said they found a man leaving the store with merchandise.

Randall is an employee of the U. S. Forest Service, police said. Bond had not been set at 9 a.m.

Circle K store robber being sought

A Spanish male, about 25 years old, is being sought by Ruidoso Downs police in connection with a reported armed robbery at the Circle K Food store Tuesday night.

The store owner/operator Marjorie Copeland reported that the man entered the store, wearing a hat, and indicated to her and another employee that he had a weapon in his coat pocket.

He then demanded the money from both registers, according to police reports. The man then fled from the store on foot, police said. No estimate was available regarding the amount of money taken.

Court Report

Appearing before Magistrate Jim Wheeler recently, with charges listed, and action taken were:

Roderick Kashe, Mesalero, entered guilty plea to receiving stolen property, 180 days in Lincoln County jail, with provision for rehabilitation or transfer to the State Hospital at Las Vegas, at a later date.

Juan De La Cruz, Eagle Pass, Texas, possession of over one ounce, less than eight ounces, of marijuana, 364 days in Lincoln County jail.

'World Day of Prayer' services set Friday

The Ruidoso Christian Women's Fellowship will sponsor services in observance of "World Day of Prayer," at the First Christian Church, Gavilan and Hull Roads, Friday, at 10 a.m.

The theme, "The Earth is the Lord's," is "a timely one," according to a fellowship spokesperson, and the service "will be an opportunity to focus concern and prayer for the ecological awareness and action which is needed to restore health to our world."

The international service, which will be heard by women in 150 countries, was written by American Indian women of Church Women United from six tribes — Cherokee, Choctaw, Hopi, Seneca, Sioux and Winnebago.

The four major parts of the service will be:

- The Sorrow of the Earth, "a remembrance of the pain inflicted upon the earth and her children by exploitation and pollution."

- The Healing of the Earth's Wounds, "a call to God to bring healing and transformation."
- The Offering of Gifts of Self and Substance, "a recognition of the critical need for reconciliation of persons with each other, nations with nations and humanity with the Earth's ecosystem."
- The New Earth, "a statement of Christian hope that a new sense of responsibility and appreciation for the Earth and its people is possible."

Boy Scout Troop 107 sponsoring Bike-A-Thon

Bill Streeter and Boy Scout Troop 107 will head the Spring Bike-A-Thon, which will benefit St. Jude's Research Hospital of Tennessee. The fund raising event is set for 10 a.m., April 4, with location to be announced later.

Local committees have been formed to organize the event, including members of Troop 107, Linda Brown, Roy Prossner, and Bud Craft will handle food and supplies and Lynn Streeter is in charge of publicity and promotion efforts.

The theme for this year's nationwide event is "I'm riding for Terry." Terry is a seven-year-old cancer patient at St.

Jude's, the largest childhood cancer research center in the world.

The facility is also the first research center devoted exclusively to the research and conquest of catastrophic diseases of children. None of the patients is charged for medical treatment.

St. Jude is supported primarily by the public contributions, and was founded by entertainer Danny Thomas, for the purpose of "wiping catastrophic diseases of children from the face of the earth."

Anyone desiring more information on the Bike-A-Thon should call 257-9423.

Save Your Vision

Week programs set

The theme of Save Your Vision Week, March 1-7, proclaimed by President Ronald Reagan as a nationwide observance, is "Life is Worth Seeing."

Members of the Lincoln County Optometric Association, president T. T. Marquardt, O.D., Ruidoso, said, will, during the week, provide computerized vision screening, visit kindergarten classes, examine the eyes of Ruidoso Care Center residents as a public service and provide educational vision films for the Ruidoso Public Schools.

In noting that government figures indicate one out of every two Americans wear eyeglasses or contact lenses today, Dr. Marquardt said, "People are realizing that life is worth seeing and their eyes are worth care. Optometrists want to help them get good care quickly, efficiently and economically."

Cinderella Girl Pageant entries open

Entries for the Cinderella Girl pageant, to be held in Ruidoso March 20-21, are still being accepted by local organizer Charlotte Rierson, 378-4516.

Rierson said the pageant is open to all girls, ages 3-17. The entry fee of $28 covers insurance and costs to sponsor the pageant.

Winners in each of the four age groups will receive a $50 savings bond and talent winners in the three older age groups will receive gifts donated by Zales Jewelry, Rierson said.

Local pageant winners will also enter the state contest and those winners will be eligible to compete on a national level for various scholarships.

Area students on deans' list

Students from the Ruidoso area named to the fall semester deans' honor lists at New Mexico State University, Las Cruces, include:

- Don Driver and Jacques Haddix, Ruidoso, College of Agriculture and Home Economics;
- Mary Hymer, Ruidoso, College of Arts and Sciences;
- Donna Clarke, Ruidoso, College of Business Administration and Economics;
- Brenda Venable, Ruidoso, College of Human and Community Services;
- Karri Sears and Kim Sanchez, Ruidoso, College of Engineering; and
- Lorlei Bruggink, Mesquite, College of Business Administration and Economics.

Music ministry performers here

Laurie Prophet and Dave Morris will be the featured entertainers at the Fishmarket Coffee House at 7 p.m., Saturday. Both are students at Christ for the Nations Institute of Dallas, Texas, and are in a music ministry.

Prophet has toured the continental United States with "Living Praise," as a singer and guitarist. Morris, a pianist and singer, is a pastor in California.

They will perform for the Youth Fellowship at Mountain Christian Fellowship at 5:30 p.m., Sunday and at the Fellowship of Christian Athletes at 7:30 p.m., at "The Place," below Mountain Ski Shop.

First Christian Church hosting 12-week program

A 12-week program to study "The Edge of Adventure" by Keith Miller and Bruce Larsen, will begin Monday at 7 p.m., at the First Christian Church.

The covenant group is "mainly a sharing experience," according to Jay Graves, assistant minister. He added that the program is most effective "if you can join it at the beginning and follow through. It's pretty hard to pick it up in the middle."

Those who wish to participate should call Graves, 257-5551, to reserve a book.

for you and your family.

If you work, are not yet 70½ years old, and are not already covered by a tax-qualified pension plan, you can set aside up to 15% of your earned income ($1500 maximum or $1750 maximum if married and your spouse does not work for pay) as TAX SHELTERED INCOME. The money you deposit earns interest for you, also TAX SHELTERED, at the highest rate allowed by law so that when you retire, you can feel secure and do all the things you've been planning.

You can open your IRA for the 1980 tax year anytime up to April 15, 1981 (or until you submit your 1980 tax return whichever comes first) and still gain the tax advantage. Of course, married couples who both work can set aside up to $3000 a year by opening separate IRAs of $1500 each.

Come in today and let us open an IRA for you. Your contributions are deducted from gross income and interest earned accumulates on a tax deferred basis. You can not only secure your future but also SAVE TAX DOLLARS. Anytime after you reach 59½ years of age and before reaching 70½, you can withdraw your savings in one lump sum or schedule withdrawals over the rest of your expected life. Your withdrawals will be taxed as ordinary income but will come at a time when you are in a lower tax bracket thus representing an additional tax savings. DO IT TODAY — YOUR FUTURE DEPENDS ON IT.

Republican Women set Skeen reception

A reception for Congressman Joe Skeen will be held by the Federated Republican Women of Lincoln County sometime in April in conjunction with a membership tea.

Mary Skeen met with the club February 17 and discussed the experiences Skeen has had as a new Representative in Washington.

The club also voted to enter competition to earn another Diamond Award in 1981, which is the highest honor achieved by local organizations.

Members were advised of the state convention, to be in Albuquerque in November, and the national convention, which will be in Denver, Colorado, later this year. "We hope to be very well represented at both meetings," Yvonne Lanelli, publicity chairperson, said.

The program included a medley of songs from Revolutionary War to World War II, performed by the Capitan High School choir under the direction of Churchill Cooke.

The next meeting will be March 17 at the First Christian Church, with the business meeting at 11 a.m., followed by a covered dish luncheon at noon. "We invite everyone interested in becoming a member, to attend," Lanelli said.

State's desert to bloom beginning in late March

Barrelhead, beavertail, cholla and ocotillo cacti crowned with red, white, yellow and even purple blossoms, should herald the beginning of the New Mexico desert in bloom, in late March or early April.

First, the cacti and other fastidious flora should flower at the 3,000- to 4,000-foot elevation near Carlsbad in southeast New Mexico.

Then, they'll begin to blossom in the 5,000- to 7,500-foot elevations in nearby Carlsbad Caverns and Guadalupe Mountains National Parks in April and May.

Meadows of mountain flowers will begin to burst with color in the 1,000- to 9,000-foot elevations of Cibola and Gila National Forests in May, June and July, and the final flush of flora should bloom in the 10,000- to 13,000-foot elevations of the highest peaks in New Mexico, most of which are clustered in the northern part of the Land of Enchantment, in midsummer and early fall.

However, for the first rush of spring color, head for Living Desert State Park.

In addition to thousands of species of cacti and hundreds of indigenous fauna — like rattlesnakes, mountain lions, bison and waterfowl — the state park, perched atop Ocotillo Heights on the northwest edge of Carlsbad, offers a spectacular view of the Pecos River by day and a glistening city by night.

In the nearby Lincoln National Forest are plenty of white primroses and purple verbena.

Another terrific spot to catch the desert in bloom is Pancho Villa State Park. Within its boundaries, on the southwest edge of the faded town of Columbus, 35 miles south of Deming, is an extensive botanical garden.

Among its 5,000 plants are agave, creosote, snowball cacti and purple cholla. Most of them begin to burst with color in mid-April and continue through May.

Also within the state park are the remnants of Camp Furlong, a focal point for the estimated 400 Villistas who executed a daring predawn attack on the encampment and the town on March 9, 1916.

A third convenient location to witness clusters of cacti blossoms is City of Rocks State Park.

The modest arboretum, however, is understandably dwarfed by the one square mile of grotesquely shaped welded volcanic tuff deposited there over 23 million years ago.

But southern New Mexico remains the destination of those who favor the season of spring.

Below is a list of flora that evoke the New Mexico desert in bloom in the months ahead:

Apache plume (white), found at the 3,500-8,000-foot elevations; birdweed (white, 1,000-7,500 feet); blanketflower (yellow), 3,000-7,000 feet; four o'clock (magenta), 2,500-7,000 feet; hollygrape (yellow), 4,000-8,000 feet; and larkspur (blue), 2,000-12,000 feet.

Lupine (blue), 1,000-8,000 feet; penstemons (blue and red), 2,000-9,000 feet; primroses (white), 2,000-7,000 feet; rabbitbrush (yellow), 2,000-7,000 feet; snakeweed (yellow), 2,800-7,000 feet; and spreading fleabane (blue), 1,000-9,000 feet.

Sunflower (yellow), 1,200-7,500 feet; verbena (purple), 3,500-10,000 feet; and yucca, a member of the lily family and the New Mexico state flower, 2,700-7,500 feet in elevation.

Living Desert State Park, by the way, is open from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., daily (8 a.m. to 7 p.m., daily, mid-May through Labor Day). Admission is $1 per person; 50 cents a person for advance reservation tour groups (505/887-5518).

City of Rocks and Pancho Villa State Parks are open from dawn to dusk, daily. Daytime visits are free; overnight camping, however, is $3 per vehicle (505/546-3128 and 505/531-2711, respectively).

For information on these New Mexico state parks, there's a free "New Mexico State Parks" booklet available by writing the New Mexico State Park Division NRD, Room 38, 141 East De Vargas, Santa Fe, New Mexico 87503 (505/827-2726).

For information on accommodations and attractions around Carlsbad, contact the Carlsbad Convention and Visitors Bureau, Post Office Box 910, Carlsbad, New Mexico 88220 (505/837-5518).

For similar information in Deming — including the annual Rock Hound Roundup this March 12-15 — write the Deming Chamber of Commerce, PO Box 8, Deming, New Mexico 88030 (505/546-2874).

Finally, for a free list of over 60 New Mexico wildflowers, their elevations and approximate blooming periods, there's a free "New Mexico Wildflowers List." To get one, just drop a postcard in the mail addressed to the New Mexico Travel Division C&ID, Room 751, Bataan Memorial Building, Santa Fe, New Mexico 87503 (505/827-5571), or dial the division during business hours, weekdays, toll-free (800/545-2040).

Cattle rustling rampant

You won't find Efrén Saavedra's name listed among the Who's Who of New Mexico ranchers.

As a matter of fact, Saavedra really doesn't even have a ranch. Typical of hundreds of small cattlemen in New Mexico, he leases grazing land for his small herd from a large corporation.

But Saavedra is experiencing a problem faced by all ranchers around the state, big and small — cattle rustling.

During the past two months, Saavedra has lost seven head of his 500-head Hereford herd to rustlers.

For a small rancher like Saavedra, such a loss is critical. As Mel Sedillo, chief investigator for the New Mexico Livestock Board said, "The small ranchers are running on such a small profit margin that even the loss of one head is very hard on them."

Sedillo said cattle rustling increased during 1980 about 10 per cent over the previous year. Many of the victims were small ranchers like Saavedra.

Sedillo said the first butchering case on Saavedra's property, which is located just west of Albuquerque and is leased from the Westland Corporation, occurred in November.

"He's lost about one head a week since then," Sedillo said. "Each one of the Herefords has been field butchered, with the carcass just left out in the open."

Sedillo said Saavedra isn't the only small rancher experiencing rustling problems right now.

"We've had several head butchered up in the Espanola area, but actually it runs right down the Rio Grande Valley. It's the hot spot right now," he said.

This week the State Crime Stoppers Commission will attempt to throw a little cold water on that hot spot. The Commission is offering a $1,000 reward for information leading to the arrests and indictments of the offenders victimizing Efrén Saavedra's herd and also will offer rewards of up to $1,000 for information solving any other cattle rustling case in New Mexico.

Meanwhile, other Crime Stoppers programs in New Mexico reported brisk activity during the past month.

The Albuquerque program has helped solve 48 cases during January, including 30 residential burglaries.

Calls to the Uranium County Crime Stoppers program assisted Grants police in solving two major cases — the bombing of a Continental Electric Company Co-op transformer and the armed robbery of the Capri Jewelry Store.

In December, two Crime Stoppers tips to Gallup led to the arrest of Edison Begay Yaxlie, 19, for the October burglary of a Rehoboth business. Another tip led to the recovery of some equipment stolen from a Navajo Police Department vehicle in October.

A call to the San Juan County Crime Stoppers program led to the arrest of Lloyd Lacy, 30, who was charged with the December criminal sexual penetration of a child. Another tip led to the capture of John David Williams, who was wanted on felony warrants out of California.

Deming's Crime Stoppers program received a call which helped police solve the November 22 burglary of the United Department store in downtown Deming.

Jim G. Payne, 19, was arrested and charged with one count of burglary and criminal damage property under $1,000.

And a call to the Tucumcari Crime Stoppers program last month helped police nab a 16-year-old juvenile who allegedly participated in the botched burglary of the Tucumcari Entertainment Center on December 18. Police arrested one person inside the building after the offenders activated an alarm and the juvenile was arrested several days later after the Crime Stoppers call.

In all, Crime Stoppers programs in New Mexico have helped solve more than 2,700 major crimes and recover almost $3 million worth of stolen property and narcotics.

The Ruidoso News

SPORTS

Golf squad will begin season today

It could be a long season for Leroy Gooch and his high school golf squad. The Warriors begin competition this weekend, with a 36 hole tournament in Alamogordo. Ruidoso has been practicing only about three weeks and Gooch's squad is inexperienced.

"We haven't practiced a whole lot yet," Gooch said. "I don't know if we've even practiced enough to do a whole lot of good yet."

But Gooch is an optimist. "They might surprise me," he said. "I hope they do. There's a possibility we'll play really well in a month or so. But the first couple of tournaments might be kinda rough."

Gooch has only three golfers with any real experience — Mike Dale, Kyle Kannady and Todd Perrett. The rest of the squad includes Stuart Bass, Craig Carson, Gary Gregson, Kenny Espinosa, Virgil Reynolds, Don Nunley, Darrin Smith, Paul Jaramillo and Billy Taylor.

Gooch has had his troops on the links as much as possible, but despite recent fair weather, they haven't gotten as much practice as Gooch would like.

"We get out there and play pretty decent for a while, and then the sun sets and it gets too cold to stay out," he said. "The kids need to get out on their own during the weekends and hit about 300 practice balls."

Gooch and the squad have a tough season ahead, partly due to the season schedule.

The Warriors play in the Alamogordo tournament, a two day, 36 hole affair which begins today. After that is a trip to Artesia March 14; Socorro on March 20-21; Deming on March 27-28; Roswell on March 31; Lovington on April 4; and New Mexico Military in Roswell on May 2.

The Deming and Socorro tournaments are 36 hole events; the others are 18. Also, Ruidoso will host the annual Ruidoso Invitational, a two day, 54 hole affair, April 24-25.

"I'm happy with our schedule," Gooch said. "We don't have to travel very far for any of those, really, and we're getting in a lot of holes of golf."

Gooch's main concern right now is the Alamogordo tournament.

"It's always tough," he said. "There's nine teams in it, and good scores are shot over there. A team has to shoot around 600 to win it, and that's tough."

Gooch and the squad are also sponsoring the Ruidoso Warrior Benefit Golf Scramble Sunday afternoon at Cree Meadows Golf Course.

This is the second year for the scramble, an 18 hole affair designed as a fund raiser for the squad.

Twenty high school golfers will be in foursomes, so 80 golfers are needed. "But we'll take more if people want to play," Gooch said.

Entry fee is $15, which includes green fees, cart and two hamburgers following competition. All proceeds go to the Ruidoso Warrior golf team.

Registration is from 8-12 Sunday at Cree Meadows, or can be made by calling club pro Bob Hickson, 237-5696. Play will begin at 12:30 p.m.

Mid school drops track due to funding shortage

The track program at White Mountain Middle School [WMMS] has been dropped due to economics, according to the program's coach.

Terry Wharton, who last year headed the thinclads, said the school was involved in only two meets last year — because the budget allowed only two trips, and the school has virtually no equipment nor the funds to buy any.

And, since Ruidoso does not have a useable track facility, no meets could be scheduled here.

Faced with that dilemma, the program was dropped.

"It's hard to justify training the kids for a month or two to run in only two meets," Wharton said.

The money usually budgeted for track will be put into two other sports at WMMS — football and basketball.

"The way things have been, we've been doing three sports halfway," Wharton said. "We really can't afford three sports. Now we'll do two of them right."

As far as athletics go, off-season basketball programs (for boys and girls) have been completed recently, and football players will begin an off-season program soon, complete with weight lifting.

"So it's not like the kids don't have anything to do," he said.

Track will probably be a dormant sport at WMMS for several years, Wharton indicated.

"If the bond issue set for May is passed by the voters," Wharton said, "we'll be moving into what is now the high school, and we might pick up track again."

Taylor named to all district team

Ruidoso's Kody Taylor was the only lady Warrior basketballer to make the all-district 3AAA girls' squad, following Saturday's final round in the district tournament, played in Tularosa.

Silver City, winning the tourney with a 28-34 triumph over runnerup Cobre, dominated the squad with four picks. Tularosa had three players selected to the elite team, and T or C, Cobre and Ruidoso each had one player on the roster.

Pat French, C. C. Spears, Carla Tillman and Becky Woodbury were named from Silver City; Bella Guerra, Stella Brusuelas and Loreta Marrujo were named from Tularosa, as were Mary Ann Jimenez of Cobre and Loretta Lopez of T or C.

Silver City's Phyllis Cross was named district coach of the year. Taylor, Ruidoso's leading scorer, is only a sophomore. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronnie Taylor of Ruidoso.

Three lady Warriors were also named to the honorable mention team. Jan Huey, Lisa Shaw and Claudia Brannum were selected for the honorable mention squad.

Warriors set for district tourney

BY MARK BAGBY
Sports Editor

Barry Nelson nowadays has a lot in common with an expectant father.

The head coach of the fifth ranked Ruidoso Warriors is walking the floor in anticipation of the three day, District 3AAA Championship Tournament in Silver City. Nelson's squad is seeded first and has a first round bye, due to its 8-2 record.

Thus, the Warriors won't play in the tourney until Friday, when they face the winner of Thursday's Silver City-Truth or Consequences matchup.

"I hate waiting," Nelson said Tuesday. "I want to know who we're going to play, see if they're doing anything different from when we last played. Waiting is the hardest part."

The Warriors have had good practices this week, Nelson noted, and he thinks that's a good sign his troops are ready to play.

"The kids are ready to play," he said. "They don't seem nervous, or they're not showing it, anyway. No one's getting too excited about it."

"They've thought about it, they're thinking about it now. We're pretty confident about the tournament."

Friday's game is the all-important one for the Warriors. A win Friday means the Warriors will go to the state tournament, regardless of what happens in Saturday's championship match.

But Nelson wants to win Saturday as well.

"I'm trying not to look ahead, but I want to win this tournament," he said. "Anything after that is gravy. But Friday is the key. It's do or die on Friday. We could keep going to hang it up."

For the Warriors to win, Nelson feels his team has to have the right mental attitude. "We're 16-6, so we've been doing something right," he said. "But we're on top, and everyone will be after us extra hard, trying to upset us."

"We have to go into this game with our minds made up to not let anyone beat us. We have to get a killer instinct, and play like we're capable of playing no matter who we're playing or what the score is."

In Thursday's first round games, Tularosa will play Cobre and Truth or Consequences will face Silver City.

Tularosa finished third in the district with a 6-4 district record; Cobre was sixth with a 2-8 slate; T or C was fourth with a 4-6 worksheet; and Silver City finished fifth with a 3-7 mark.

Nelson sees the first two games as anybody's affair.

"I think Cobre can beat Tularosa, but I don't think they can beat Deming," Nelson said. Deming finished behind the Warriors with a 7-3 record, and, like Ruidoso, won a bye. The Wildcats will play the winner of the Tularosa-Cobre contest on Friday.

"Cobre has lost to Tularosa twice, but I think they can do it," he said. "But I don't think they can beat Deming. If Tularosa can get past Cobre, I think they can beat Deming."

"T or C could beat Silver City, or Silver could beat T or C," he said. "There's not really any weak teams in the district, and any of them could beat us."

Nelson is hoping Friday's game will be a nice, slow, easy win for the Warriors.

"The main thing is to win, but I sure hope it doesn't go to the wire," he said. "It's too hard on me. Especially after all this waiting."

The Warriors left for Silver City at 11 a.m., today and will watch both of Thursday's first round games.

Friday's card has the Deming game set for 6 p.m., with the Warriors to play at 8 p.m.

Saturday's championship game is scheduled for 8 p.m. Both teams in Saturday's finale will win berths in the AAA state championship tournament, which begins next Thursday in Albuquerque.

Sportin' Life

... a column of opinion ...

by

Mark Bagby

There are days when I sit down to write a column, and I have tons of things to write about, and I think faster than I can type, and all sorts of things work out great, and it's just what I hoped to write.

Then there are days when I have absolutely nothing to write about. No one has offended me, nothing weird has happened, there's hardly anything of interest.

This is one of the latter days. It's 11:30 a.m., Wednesday, as I write this. For four days I've kept my eyes and ears open for enough material for a column.

So far I've been able to come up with four — make that five paragraphs. This could take a while.

Now here's where you come in. I heard a complaint a little while ago about a mother whose son did very well in a sporting event. She was upset because I had not — as yet — run anything on her child and his event.

Well, I apologize, because I should have had it here sooner. But would you believe this mother still hasn't called me about her child or the event? I heard about this from a friend of the mother.

Now, try as hard as I might, I'm not clairvoyant. I wish I was, but so far the powers of Cassandra have eluded me. (Cassandra is a character in Greek literature who was given the power to see into the future, but was cursed by the gods, and no one ever believed her prophecies until it was too late.)

Anyway, I need your help. I need to get phone calls, cards, letters, drop by in the office — I don't care. The way I hear about it isn't important.

All that is important is to hear about it — and to get the story written and in the paper.

So if you know of something you think is interesting, or you feel has been neglected, or whatever — just get on that phone, 237-4001. It's that simple. Honest.

'Cause I'm tired of those days where I have nothing to write about. I'd rather have something to write about, you know? Makes life easier on me.

Warrior golf benefit

Don't forget this Sunday's Warrior golf scramble, the proceeds of which will go towards funding the upcoming golf season.

The shebang starts at 12:30 Sunday afternoon at Cree Meadows, and teams will be formed. Registration will be from 8 a.m. to noon. Fee is $15, which includes 18 holes of golf and a cart, as well as two hamburgers.

They need 60 golfers (minimum) for this thing, which was designed to give high school golfing a boost.

Isn't it nice of Bob Hickson and his crew at Cree Meadows to donate the use of their facilities for one day? Attaboy, Bob.

Final gripe

I've said just about all I can say about the AAA playoff system.

Almost.

I was perusing some info the other day and learned St. Michael's (of Santa Fe) and Albuquerque Academy have already clinched AAA state basketball tournament berths.

It seems the way Districts 2AAA and 5AAA are structured, the teams who win the regular season district crown automatically go to the state tourney. Then the other teams in those districts play for second place.

Then we have 3AAA, which is Ruidoso's district. The Warriors have led the district all season long, but could possibly miss out on a trip to state, if they lose Friday, simply because of the system they're in.

Oh, please, please, all you schools out there — vote for the upcoming referendum, which would change this crummy system back to something serviceable, which happens to be fair.

Lotus luck

I'm going to close this one on a sentimental note.

Since November I've been covering the fortunes (and misfortunes) of the Ruidoso Warriors' basketball team.

It's been a lot of fun.

Now, on the threshold of the district tournament, the Warriors stand a good chance at claiming the district title outright and perhaps even winning a state championship.

Then on the other hand, they could lose Friday night, and that would be all she wrote.

Well — win or lose — it's been a heckuva year, guys — I'm proud of you and I'm just glad I had a chance to cover you this season. Thanks.

Nuff said.

Raudenbush qualifies for ski championships

Jim Raudenbush of Ruidoso has qualified for the National Collegiate Athletic Association ski championships set March 11-13 at Park City, Utah.

Raudenbush, a freshman at the University of New Mexico (UNM), is the first UNM skier from New Mexico to qualify for the championships since 1972. UNM ski coach George Brooks feels Raudenbush is one of the most talented skiers on the squad.

"Jim could be much better with time and could soon be a national contender," Brooks said.

Raudenbush graduated from Ruidoso High School last year and competed with the Ruidoso Junior Ski Racers for several years.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Raudenbush of Ruidoso.

Fourth graders learn about their ancestry

Children in Nan Wierwille and Kathy Weems' fourth grade classes hosted their parents and grandparents at a tea Friday afternoon, where they also explained their ancestry.

Some children learned, during their study of their "roots," that they are descendants of famous people, including two who are John Smith's descendants, and one whose great-great-great-grandfather survived a Civil War wound.

Others have former United States Presidents in their lineage and one has an ancestor who made robes for kings in earlier centuries.

"We had a great time discovering our ancestry," Weems said. "But most of us learned that we are just the 'Heinz 57' variety, with a lot of different nationalities in our ancestry."

Daughter born

Milton and Thomasene Romans, former residents of Ruidoso, announce the birth of a daughter, Maryah Jo, born February 17 in Albuquerque. She weighed six pounds, 13 ounces.

The parents are residents of the Broken Arrow Ranch in Cedarvale. Paternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Romans of Ruidoso; maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Tom Pounds of Cedarvale.

NOTICE OF SALE
NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that on February 9, 1981, the District Court of Lincoln County, New Mexico, in Cause Number CV-712-80, styled "Security Bank of Ruidoso v. Aspen Enterprises, Inc., et al," entered its judgment and Decree of Foreclosure in favor of the Security Bank of Ruidoso, the Plaintiff in said cause, and against Aspen Enterprises, Inc., in the amount of One Hundred Ninety Thousand Three Hundred Eighty Nine and 35/100 ($190,389.35) Dollars, attorneys' fees in the amount of Four Thousand Eight Hundred ($4,800.00), costs in the amount of One Hundred Two and 75/100 ($102.75) Dollars, together with interest thereon at the statutory rate from date of judgment until paid, and further decreed foreclosure of the mortgage of Plaintiff and ordered the undersigned as Special Master, to sell at public sale the property covered by said mortgage to satisfy the aforesaid judgment, and property being situated in Lincoln County, New Mexico, and being more particularly described as follows:
Lot 33, Block 17, GOLF COURSE ESTATES, a subdivision located in Ruidoso, Lincoln County, New Mexico, and Lots 20 & 21, Block 1, RUIDOSO SPRINGS Subdivision, located in Ruidoso, Lincoln County, New Mexico.
IT IS FURTHER GIVEN that on the 22nd day of March, 1981, at 1:30 P.M. on the steps of the Municipal Building, the undersigned, as Special Master, will sell the above described property to the highest bidder for cash to satisfy the judgment of the Security Bank of Ruidoso against the defendants in the amount above set forth to which shall be added at the time of the sale the balance of the costs of the action, if any, and the costs of sale, including a Special Master's fee. The time of said sale may be postponed in the event that the Special Master, in his judgment, deems it advisable.
Dated this 14th day of February, 1981.

AT THE TOP OF CAMELOT MOUNTAIN, be prepared for a truly spectacular view of the lake at the Inn of the Mtn. Gods and Sierra Blanca. We have 5 LAKEVIEW ESTATES TOWNHOMES to choose from. These 3 bdrm./2 1/2 bath cedar and stucco units feature sauna-jacuzzis, wet bar, air-conditioning, all kitchen and utility appliances, fireplace in master bedroom, and cedar decks. At $113,000 they are a good buy. Financing available.

VISTA DEL LAGO TOWNHOMES, nearing completion, are designed with casual elegance and the spaciousness of 2,250 sq./ft. with cathedral ceilings. Cedar decks overlook the Inn of the Mtn. Gods. At $130,000 and $133,000, these townhomes compare favorably in amenity with much more expensive units.

RACQUET COURT CONDOMINIUMS, located west of the Swim and Racquet Club, contain 1,452 sq./ft. divided into 2 bdrm./2 1/2 baths plus an enclosed single car garage with large owner's closet. In Phase 1, we have an $84,500 unit with southern exposure and extra windows to take advantage of the view. On pre-sales we are customizing to owner desires. Phase 2 construction [8 units] to commence in near future.

ALTO VILLAGE CONDOMINIUM, situated on the 9th fairway, with regular membership is a golfer's dream. Four bedroom, 2 1/2 bath plan with double car garage. Owned by a horseman, it is in top condition and priced competitively.

ALTO ALPS CONDOMINIUM, laid out in a neat 2 bedroom/2 bath plan, you will enjoy the soft view and pleasant setting of the Clubhouse and tennis courts. Excellent rental record, this well-maintained unit has a low interest $34,000 mortgage and negotiable equity.

22 UNIT CABIN OPERATION with Mechem and river frontage in area where commercial property bringing $5+/sq./ft. A very attractive operating statement makes this well-managed business doubly worth considering if you qualify with $155,000 to invest. Call Buck for particulars.

TWO — 30,000 sq./ft. VIEW LOTS and owner says get offer. Very good neighborhood.

TWO LEVEL HOUSE with two lots, fenced, would make excellent rental investment because each level is self-contained 2 bdrm./1 bath unit, $89,500.

TOP QUALITY, SUPER VIEW, MOTIVATED SELLER — if you are in the market for a 3 bdrm./3 bath cedar home with numerous special features, don't overlook this mountain-styled home in prestigious Country Club Estates. Assumable 9 1/2% mortgage. Call Buck for a tour.

The Silver Lining

BY DANIEL AGNEW STORM

Amelia Herrera

Our prayers go up for the loved ones and friends of our dear friend, Amelia Montes Herrera, who was called home by Our Lord February twenty-five. Services were held February 27, attended by a host of loved ones and friends, at Saint Jude's Church in San Patricio; and at the beloved little church of San Ysidro, patron saint of the farmer.

Born in Glencoe, February ten, 1925, Amelia was all her life a next door neighbor and dear friend of the Storm family. Her father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Juan Montes were among the first people we met when we came here; and my brothers and I grew up with her brothers, Fernán, Orlando, and Juanito. Her husband, Frutoso (Fred) is also a lifelong friend. Amelia was a devout member of her church, and a good Christian lady, and she will be kindly remembered by all of us always. And we all take comfort in knowing our dear friend is safe and happy with our Lord in Heaven.

Two Great Leaders Visit Our Land

Recently our country was honored by visits from two outstanding world leaders in the persons of Pope John Paul the second; and Prime Minister of Great Britain, Margaret Thatcher.

In surely the greatest welcome ever given anyone in Alaska, people from all corners of the North Star State gathered at Anchorage to welcome and honor Pope John Paul.

Visiting with Eskimo and Alaskan Indian children dressed in their native costumes, and taking a ride on a dog sled while in the driver's seat, Pope John Paul said he "felt the presence of God amid the beauty of our largest state."

Once again this great and good man of God has cast a benediction on our land. Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher, cut out of the same cloth as all before her in the long line of great British leaders, gave a great lift to the spirits of all Americans. Our hearts always beat a little higher when we are visited by a "great person from the land of our forefathers across the Atlantic."

By ties of blood, traditions, laws, and language we are united in a sacred bond with "Our Mother Country."

Just as these two world leaders were visiting our country, I happened to be reading one of the poems of the immortal English poet, Alfred Tennyson entitled: "Ode on the death of the Duke of Wellington."

A few lines struck me as fitting both Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher and Pope John Paul:

".....
Our greatest yet with least pretense
Great in council and great in war,
Foremost captain of his time,
Rich in saving common sense
And, as the greatest only are,
In his simplicity sublime."
March Comes In Like a Lion

March arrived among us a little blustery with a little rain driven by the west wind. And today, March three, the mountain world awakened to a quiet foggy day with just a little snow and rain and drops of half rain and half snow. All through the day very light rains have been falling in the vale; and now the late afternoon sun is shining on the bank of clouds all to the west, setting the western sky ablaze with silvery fire.

The wind is cold and has the smell of snow; so you know that the mountain is rejoicing and resplendent, gathering about itself a thickening mantle of crystal white.

I had just a brief visit with Jack Frost as he was passing through in a big hurry. He was all smiles and said he was pleased with the way his weather was turning out for "one of his favorite places" (meaning Lincoln County).

He said that he had been able to begin a "trend of moisture" after heading off a "very head-strong spell of unseasonably dry weather."

Keep smiling and give thanks to the Lord.

SANTA FE — Some legislators want the Santa Fe DA to speed up prosecution of penitentiary inmates accused of crimes during last year's prison riot.

The District Attorney, who isn't anxious to hurry, may have found another reason he should do so.

If he doesn't, all his witnesses may be stabbed to death by other inmates before he gets around to calling them.

Suddenly the same reporters who filed all those stories late last year about how much of a tax cut we were all going to receive are writing new ones to say that plan has been changed.

You'd think the tax-cut bills were riding an elevator, the way the totals apparently go up and down.

But things are not always as bad as they seem.

For one thing, it was those same reporters who kept pressing Governor King to tell the citizens we shouldn't go for such heavy tax relief until we know more about the Reagan cuts in Washington.

This writer's impression was that the Governor, left to himself, would not have been nearly so sweeping in his statements as newsmen insisted he become.

The State Senate, at any rate, evidently doesn't agree with any such position.

Under the aegis of Senator Mike Alarid, it's pushing for a tax-relief package that is $6 million bigger than the one the House has already passed.

Legislators understand they won't even be in town when Congress gets around to working on the Reagan proposals. They're geared up for action, and it will take some positive action from the Governor, not just some loose talk at a news conference, to divert them to another track.

Senate Bill 340, introduced by Senator Paul Becht from Albuquerque, is one of those well-meaning but totally impractical measures which often burst forth from the minds of lawmakers who believe it is incumbent upon them to turn themselves into moral theologians.

It would forbid books in schools which degrade the work ethic or a belief in absolute values, the principles of the free market economy or the effectiveness of the democratic system.

What's more, it would force the condemnation of any book that has in it "anything of a partisan or sectarian character."

Put simply, it would close down the public schools.

We wish Bruce King would take Becht aside and tell him the story of the first King bill ever to have been introduced into the Legislature.

As the Governor tells it, he had just left the ranch to come to the big and wicked state capital when he put in a bill against "indecent literature." He thought it would go through the Legislature like a piece of cake.

"I thought everybody knew what indecent literature was," he now says, "and I supposed everybody would be opposed to it. But Fred McCaffrey's predecessor, Will Harrison, took out after me the very next day. He said I was just some boy from the country who came up here and right away started trying to tell people how to live their lives."

Though that was on the order of 30 years ago, Bruce King still almost shudders when he remembers how Will Harrison ripped the hide off him. He wants nothing to do with bills of that kind, ever again.

Neither will Paul Becht when we get through with him, if he continues to push for this piece of moonlight madness.

Sense & Nonsense

U.S. Sen. Pete Domenici

The Food and Agriculture Act of 1977 is due to expire in 1981 and a new omnibus farm bill will have to be approved by this Congress before its expiration. The task is enormous, since this bill will decide the future direction of agricultural policy, policy which in the past has not always given the farmer an equal opportunity at a fair price for their products in the free market.

A number of crucial and controversial issues must be resolved, including how much a role government should play in the farm sector, the type of programs to provide for farmers, and what mechanisms are the most effective in being responsive to the needs of farmers.

Since the 1930's, Federal agricultural policy has promoted price and income protection to assure an abundance of food and fiber at reasonable prices. A number of programs and devices have been used to maintain this goal, including commodity loans, target prices and deficiency payments, production controls, and a long-term grain reserve. All of these mechanisms will have to be examined closely by this Congress since even with these controls, the American farmer still faces serious problems. Inflation and high interest rates drive up the price of production without similar increases in the cost of the product. Drought and other adverse weather conditions drive production costs still higher. Even though the years of 1978 and 1979 saw farm income increase slightly, the first six months of 1980 saw farm prices plummeting in the face of runaway inflation and returns from farm production falling as much as 25 percent in some areas.

When we think of the farm industry in New Mexico, we naturally think about the problems of the wheat, feed grain peanut, cotton, and dairy farmers in the state. But since agriculture is one of the state's major industries and source of revenue, we are all affected by its current instability. Cattle producers are indirectly affected by the Act since they depend upon a steady supply of feed grains for their livelihood. In a less direct but just as critical area, small communities in agricultural areas around the state depend heavily upon the revenue produced by farmers and ranchers for the support of their schools and other necessary community services.

Hearings scheduled to begin March 2 before the Senate Agricultural Committee on this omnibus farm bill will be crucial to the formation of the legislation. A strong agricultural base is essential for America's economic survival and family owned farms, a stable force in agriculture since our nation began, must also benefit from this strong economic base.

But in looking at the current economic instabilities within the farm industry, we must not forget the greatest culprits — inflation and high interest rates which rob the hard-working farmer and rancher of a decent profit for their efforts. A government with out-of-control spending, even if some of that spending goes toward farm subsidies, is robbing the farmer of his profits by creating an inflationary economy through deficit spending. Until we get that spending under control, increase and stimulate productivity through tax cuts and incentives, the future of the farm industry, and other industries as well, will be uncertain and unstable. A responsible farm bill will go a long way toward insuring a stable economic future for the American farmer.

SADAT INITIATIVE

President Anwar Sadat of Egypt exhibited statesmanship of a high order when he went before Israel's Knesset hearing the olive branch on November 20, 1977. It was that initiative which led to the Camp David accords and peace between these two countries which had for so long been at dagger point.

Sadat has now undertaken another initiative, in a different forum, which might prove equally fruitful. Addressing the European Parliament, he appealed to the nations of western Europe to intervene constructively for a settlement of the disruptive Palestinian question.

More specifically, the Egyptian president wants the Europeans to ring Israel and the Palestinians together, to win agreement on mutual recognition and on a Palestinian entity to facilitate negotiations. It is a tall order, given the Palestine Liberation Organization's refusal to acknowledge Israel's existence and the Israelis' refusal to treat with the PLO until this is done. Sadat's 1977 call for peace also was a tall order, though. There is just a chance that, with good will and determination, what he suggests might be done. — Alamogordo Daily News

We believe the request by ComFIRE chairman Herb Brunell to the Ruidoso trustees that the village budget for a full time Fire Prevention Officer (FPO), is one that should be implemented beginning July 1, as a top priority budgetary item.

A FPO, empowered to issue citations to enforce fire prevention ordinances and laws, could do much to prevent the cause of forest fires, and to hinder their spread if they occur.

Doing everything in their power to protect Ruidoso's assessed valuation of $40 million plus dollars is the awesome responsibility of the village trustees.

Burned down structures don't contribute to the tax rolls. Who can put a dollar figure on a human life?

As a department head, responsible solely to the mayor, trustees and village clerk, a FPO would have a free hand to work with state and federal forest fire prevention officers to develop a program in Ruidoso that could reduce chances of a forest fire occurring.

Budgeting for a FPO is the headache of the trustees. Should a FPO be able to prevent just one forest fire, or, through his actions, keep damage to a minimum, then his salary would be justified — perhaps for many decades.

At the risk of belaboring the point, and to insure that everything humanly possible is done to keep Ruidoso from becoming devastated by forest fire, we trust the trustees will hire a FPO, this year, to provide us with that added ounce of prevention that could keep fire disaster from striking. —CD

WHAT PRICE WATER

There's lotsa talk in Harmony Valley about the price of water ... or the proposed price of water ... and, way I hear tell, it's got a lot of people getting their dander up ... and mouthing dire mutterings.

"Course there's this consideration ... until science comes up with a substitute for water, looks like the rate for water here'll have to be whatever the village dads figure they gotta have to provide water if, indeed, there's any to provide.

One way to look at it ... if the village has no water to distribute, then they'll not have the worry of what to charge ... yes?

On the thumb hand side ... should exploratory wells produce sufficient quantities of water to augment present sources ... and keep the system going ... then whatever the tah to keep it going'll be the going rate ... no?

Seems ... if the choice is between paying a little more to have water ... or a little less, and maybe not have water ... then it's a choice of how thirsty you want to get ... and, maybe, how often ... which, if you consider all the ramifications, is a choice that might leave you drier'n a centipede dying of thirst in the middle of the Sonoran desert ... which is just some thirsty ... with one thought being, maybe centipedes don't need water.

TAX CUTTING CUTS

It's beginning to look ... here in the Land of Enchantment ... as though there might be some cuts made in cutting the taxes ... 'cause it looks as though there'll be some cuts in the federal doles ... which could have our legislators wondering just how much cutting of tax cuts they can bring about, without having the voters cutting their throats in their next re-election bid ... and it could be mighty perturbing to some solons if they got to thinking it was them as contributed to having their own throats cut.

Then there's Governor King ... now he doesn't have to worry ... at least so far as running for re-election ... 'cause it's six years before he could ... so he can approve ... or veto ... tax legislation at his pleasure ... and not have to worry about losing any votes ... unless, of course, he decides to run for a seat in Congress ... which might give him some new thoughts on cutting tax cuts.

FRUIT FLY FEVER

The other day it was ... whilst quaffing a refreshing ice tea with Shakey Pete, that he allowed as how "There's folks in the Texas Department of Agriculture as is coming down with fruit fly fever, and they ain't been bit ... which is something only Texans can do."

Shakey took a rather healthy sip of his ice tea, then opined: "Way I read it, there's a buncha those ... what'd-theycall'em ... oh yes, Medflies, as is getting fat on California produce ... especially off'n avocados ... which ain't good ... seeing's as how Texas was figured by them California avocado growers as an outlet for more'n 35 million pounds of avocados this year ... which is a bunch ... but it don't bother me none, 'cause I figure avocados is shorter on taste than the tail on a black tailed jack rabbit, though not nearly as full of bones. It's the pits, you know."

Shakey indicated he could use a refill ... one ice tea don't do much toward slaking his thirst ... then he said ... "Funnest thing in that story about Texas not wanting to import no Medflies was that it said that Texas was the largest user of California avocados behind California ... first time I ever knew Texans would acknowledge being second to anyone in anything."

Shakey kinda shook his head ... peered into the bottom of his glass ... peered again ... then opined ... "Ain't no tea leaves in this here ice tea ... strange. 'Course this means I don't gotta filter 'em out between my teeth ... which is good." He took another sip. "You know, I feel kinda sorry for those Californians ... and their Medflies ... and that maybe they can't sell all them avocados to Texas ... and they ain't got Reagan as governor to bail 'em out ... and, as President, I don't think Ronnie can help 'em out ... 'cause he can't play no favorites ... at least, I don't think he can."

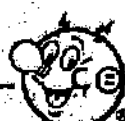

Now that was quite a speech for Shakey ... 'cause he's not given much to lengthy dissertations ... especially any provoked by thinking ... 'cause Shakey's thinking tends more towards being unproductive than productive ... but, 'twas encouraging, noting that he'd bothered to think at all ... even about avocados.

ART, DINING AND ENTERTAINMENT GUIDE

Festos wins for trainer Lambert

BY DICK ALWAN

A week ago, Festos won the Cabin Fleur Handicap at Sunland Park by seven lengths and came within a few ticks of equalling the long-standing track record for a mile.

All well and good for Festos, but the way he won the Cabin Fleur, without raising a sweat, didn't make Sunland's handicap horses look too impressive.

Poor reflections were cast by the fact Festos had just finished spending a month at Santa Anita, where he started against $50,000 competition, dropped down to $40,000, then tried on $32,000 sprinters for size, and gave every indication of not being able to beat a fat man running backwards. Those highbrow punters at Santa Anita handed the gelding odds ranging from 53-1 to 74-1.

Each of Festos' three California spins was a disaster.

So he returned to Sunland Park, won like a champ, and made everyone hereabout start wondering whether it takes a superhorse to win against $32,000 claimers in California. Or maybe Cliff Lambert, the jockey-turned-trainer who handles Festos, is a kind of miracle worker? Or maybe Festos got too much smog in his snout while basking in the murky Southern California climate?

"I never lost confidence in Festos," Lambert said. "He had bad luck in each of those three out. At the time, I felt he was worth about $50,000, and I still think he's worth that much. When we brought him back to Sunland Park for the Cabin Fleur, I expected him to run a good race. But I didn't think he'd go that fast. I was really pleased."

So what happened in California to give Festos such a bleak and pock marked form? Lambert said: "In his first Santa Anita try, we put him on the grass, and he didn't like it at all. He was climbing and couldn't get any footing. We dropped him down to $40,000 competition on the dirt, and it rained, and the track was slick. He slipped going into the first turn and almost fell. In his third try, we dropped him to $32,000, and he was blocked the whole way, on both sides, and couldn't run. There was no where to go."

At this point, Lambert was ready to believe the hand writing on the wall. Besides, he noticed some horsemen eying Festos, watching him carefully in the paddock, and following him back to the barn after each race. "I was afraid if we put him in another claiming race, we'd lose him," Lambert said. "So we decided to ship him back to Sunland and get him ready for Ruidoso Downs."

Festos has turned in a tidy profit for Jimmy and Allison Powers, ranchers in Soudra, Texas. The gelding was spotted by Lambert, as a yearling, in a Houston sale a few years ago. Lambert liked what he saw, endorsed the yearling, and Powers forked over $5,000. A frequent stakes winner, Festos has earned some $50,000 so far.

The gelding has become another feather in Lambert's crowded cap. Now 43, Lambert has been training for the past 23 years, and he's built a big, impressive reputation. The Lambert string now includes about 60 head, of which 35 are in business at Sunland.

Come this summer, Lambert expands his payroll to about 15 employees, takes his main contingent to Ruidoso, and ships another division to Santa Fe. That means Lambert logs a lot of summer hours highballing between the two tracks.

Over the years, Lambert has developed a lot of classy horses — such as Bold Ego, who won Sunland's High profile Allison Futurity last spring, and has now banked close to $200,000. Lambert points to Bold Ego as the best horse he's ever trained. Now running at Oaklawn Park in Arkansas, Bold Ego is also eyeing a campaign in Kentucky, and later in the summer, a possible trip back to Ruidoso.

Lambert has been training so successfully for so long it's sometimes hard to believe he was such a top flight jockey in his younger days. At the age of nine, when he was "to dumb to know different," he began riding in the county fairs in Kansas. At 16, he switched to thoroughbreds on the Nebraska pari mutual trail. After a stint with quarter horses in Tucson, he joined the well known quarter horse trainer, Lavar Larson, and journeyed to Los Alamitos in California, where he bagged the riding crown in 1964 and 1965. About that time, he also took two or three saddle championships at the quarter horse meet in Bay Meadows. In short, Lambert was one of the sport's top jockeys some 2½ decades ago.

Not the least of his successes was his victorious spin aboard Galabar in the first All-American Futurity in 1959. The purse was just under $130,000. "Back then, that was an awful lot of money," Lambert said.

As a jockey, he had to take his lumps. There were plenty of bad spills — broken legs, broken collar bones, broken ribs — even a pinched nerve in his back on the eve of the All-American. As a trainer, he's been top dog at Sunland, and Ruidoso, and three of the last four seasons at the New Mexico State Fair.

But, there's no question where his heart lies. He tells you plainly: "I'd rather be a top jockey than a top trainer. It's much easier. When you get through a day's riding, you're through. When you get through training, you're never through. You have a lot of phone calls, a lot of book work, a lot of worries."

ALL-AMERICAN WINNER — Cliff Lambert, as a young jockey in 1959, rode Galabar to victory in the first All-American Futurity. He's now one of the leading trainers in the Southwest. Last season at Ruidoso Downs, he finished sixth in the standings.

Captain Hep, owned by David Hepfinger (second from right) of Portales, won the 870 yard sprint easily. At right, trainer Stephen Easley. The jockey is Francisco Gonzalez.

Capitan Hep wins allowance race

Captain Hep figured to throw a half nelson on his foes in Sunday's White Sands Allowance at Sunland Park, and that's exactly the way things turned out.

The gelding, owned by David Hepfinger of Portales, easily out ran the competition in the 870 yard dash and flashed under the wire with a two length lead.

But a lot of the glory was hogged by jockey Francisco Gonzalez, who converted the White Sands into his fourth win of the afternoon.

Gonzalez got things going in the first race, steering McGee's Rebate to a $23 payoff. In the third, Gonzalez engineered a length win aboard Mackays Request ($4.60) in a 330 yard trip. The next race, it was Gonzalez again, this time aboard Pass Em Up Deck ($5.20) in a 440 yard powerburst. Pass Em Up Deck won by a neck.

Things fell into place neatly in the White Sands when Captain Hep came booming out of the gate and wasted no time grabbing the lead. Revolutionary, the second favorite at 2-1, put up a fight for a few jumps, then stepped out of the way.

From that point on, it was all over. Captain Hep moved well into the clear while turning for home. He was under no pressure the rest of the way.

Captain Hep earned his role as heavy favorite by finishing a good second to the stand-out, Thirty Five, in the recent Springtime Stakes. Fans who supported him in the White Sands collected $3.60, $3 and $2.60. The winning time was 48.29 seconds.

Real Fun, a thoroughbred making his first start at the 570 distance, closed strongly to finish second at 27-1. Real Fun returned $11.20 and $5. Salustio Burgos was up.

Sparkling City, a 23-1 outsider directed by Danny LaVergne, rallied out of fifth place to take third. The show price was $4.20.

The White Sands offered a $4,500 purse, of which $2,700 went into Captain Hep's account.

Jockey Danny Summerow, who was recently injured in a spill, went down in Sunday's fourth race. The mishap occurred when Summerow's mount, Risky Road, tried to jump the inside rail during the homestretch run. Summerow injured his left leg and was taken to Providence Memorial Hospital in El Paso, Texas.

Sunland Park Hoofbeats

BY MIKE MAGDA

JOCKEY JIMMIE HUNT, injured in a spill last week at Sunland Park, was released from the hospital Friday and came out to the track for a visit on Saturday. Hunt, who was the meet's fourth leading rider until his spill, underwent surgery to repair facial injuries suffered when a horse stepped on him after being thrown. The accident occurred in the fifth race on February 21. His mount, Crown Seeker, was tripped at the start of a quarter horse race, and Hunt was thrown forward. It is believed a horse next to Hunt's stepped on him as he rolled. Hunt is expected to be out of action for at least one month. Hunt's older brother, Billy, was also in town last week. He is fully recovered from injuries suffered in a spill at Albuquerque last fall. The elder Hunt set racing history when he won both the All-American Derby and All-American Futurity on consecutive weekends.

SCOUT LEADER, consistently one of the leading sires of New Mexico-bred horses, provided a 1-2 punch in Saturday's feature race. Winning the six furlong sprint was Rock Shadow, a three-year-old son of Scout Leader. The 9-1 outsider won by almost six lengths under Leroy Coombs. Following Rock Shadow was Careless Bet, a gelded son of Scout Leader, ridden by Louie Figueroa. Careless Bet was a 22-1 longshot. Taking third in the race was Dream Pleasure, a filly sired by Pleasure Castle out of True Scout, a Scout Leader broodmare. She was 20-1. The trio came in front of a field represented by the sires Buffalo Lark, Master Hand and Jim J.

A PAIR OF APPRENTICE jockeys continue to score impressive wins aboard one mount. On Saturday, Billy Byers won his fifth race of the meet aboard Ivery in the sixth race while Rebecca Thompson won her third race on Aspen Ridge in the 11th race Saturday. Both jockeys broke their maidens aboard those same horses earlier in the meet. Byers had to rally his six-year-old gelding in the stretch to win by just under two lengths as a 2-1 favorite. It was Ivery's fifth victory in 11 starts at the meeting. Aspen Ridge, a well bred son of Kentucky Derby winner Riva Ridge, went off at 7-2 and led from wire to wire in winning by over four lengths. It was his third victory in the last five times Becky has ridden him.

JOHN'S MARY won the season's second two-year-old thoroughbred race Sunday, and edged out a pair of highly touted juveniles. Under Wayne Buehrer, John's Mary made a gallant charge at the wire to nip Lucky Smashed, the 7-5 favorite. A half-length behind was 5-2 second choice Mr. Pay Day. John's Mary is owned by Lorann Mattox and Mollie B. Kelly of El Paso, Texas. Chuck Mattox is the trainer. Lucky Smashed is the second foal from Smash It, winner of the 1978 Ruidoso Thoroughbred Futurity. Her first foal, by Easy Jet, is Easily Smashed, one of the nation's winningest two-year-olds colts on the quarter horse circuit last year. Easily Smashed is back on the Sunland grounds after running as the favorite in the

All-American Sale Futurity last fall. Smash It is expected to drop a Crinson Satan foal later this month and has a Sunny South yearling on the ground. She could be taken back to Easy Jet this year.

IN THAT two-year-old race, Risky Year hit the rail in the stretch after challenging Mr. Pay Day in the early running. Jockey Danny Summerow was thrown from his mount and kicked by a trailing horse. He suffered a fractured leg. Last week Summerow was involved in a spill and suffered a sprained neck, but returned to ride the following day.

FRANCISCO GONZALEZ became the only second jockey this season to win four races on one card. The young pilot won the first, third, fourth and 10th races. His biggest win came in the White Sands Allowance on 4-5 favorite Captain Hep. Richard Bickel is the only other jockey to win four in one card.

THE DAILY WAGERING average over the weekend reached $18,619, and that swelled the seasonal average up to $259,950. At this point last year, the daily average was $239,076. The current figure is a gain of 8.73 percent. Current wagering per race is $23,183, up 3.85 per cent over last year. During this weekend last year, the Saturday and Sunday programs were lost due to a strike by employees of the American Totalisator Company.

THE NO. 3 POST produced seven winners over the weekend to lead in that category. Here's the seasonal situation: No. 1 — 94 wins, 2 — 103, 3 — 79, 4 — 76, 5 — 73, 6 — 72, 7 — 54, 8 — 37, 9 — 47, 10 — 35, 11 — 0, 12 — 0.

Horses lining up to win $1 million '82 Futurity

The 1982 All-American Futurity, which offers an astonishing $1 million to the winner, has attracted almost 3,000 original nominations.

According to Finlay MacGillivray, general manager of Ruidoso Downs, a total of 2,914 head were nominated when the deadline came due on January 15, 1981.

That total, he pointed out, is a remarkable increase of 28.2 percent over the 2,273 original nominees for the upcoming 1981 edition of the All-American.

The 1980 version started out with 1,932 head, which was a sizable boost over the 1,578 starting list for the 1979 running.

Starting with the 1982 edition, the All-American Futurity gets a new infusion of funds. The gross purse swells up to $2,530,000 with a cool million going to the winner of the Labor Day classic.

"That million dollar winner's purse is no doubt a big incentive to horsemen, and accounts to a large degree for the large number of original nominations," MacGillivray said. He estimated 60 percent of the record increase was the result of the expanded winner's purse, and said the other 20 percent reflects "the normal growth of the All-American Futurity."

The bumper crop of nominees, he said, was "very pleasing, of course, but not unexpected."

He said the Ruidoso management anticipated a large flow of nominees. "It may cause some problems, in the way of stalling and screening, but these are problems Racing Secretary Don Rausch is already working on," he said.

The beneficial effects of the grassfire growth of the All-American Futurity figure to rub off on its satellites — the All-American Derby (for three-year-olds), the All-American Gold Cup (for four-year-olds), and the All-American Quarter Horse Yearling Sale. The latter smashed virtually all records last summer, and track officials expect to catalogue about 1,000 head for the 1981 vendue.

Another spinoff of the All-American Futurity is the Sunland Park All-American Sale Futurity. The gross purse in its second running, during the 1981 fall season at Sunland, is projected at around $200,000.

The biggest nominators to the 1982 All-American Futurity are Anne and B. F. Phillips Jr., of Frisco, Texas. They nominated 87 head, an all time record for the All-American.

The second most prolific nominator, with 48 head, is New Mexico Stud, Incorporated, of Belen.

Walter Merrick the well known horseman based in Sayre, Oklahoma, put 35 hopefuls on the list. Gordon Howell of Sunland Park, checked in with 29 contenders.

Ralph Shebester of Wynnewood, Oklahoma, is casting his lot with 24 hopefuls. Joe McDermott of Madisonville, Texas, is represented by 23 yearlings. The Running J. Ranches of Brownsville, Texas, nominated 21 head.

Dorothy Dillard, nominations secretary at Ruidoso, reports a big surge of nominations came in just prior to the nominating deadline on January 15. Included among the owners who've nominated yearlings to the All-American are "a lot of new names, from around the country," she said.

The lengthy list also includes Doc Saverin — n, the celebrated band leader on the Johnny Carson TV show. Severinsen, in partnership with Frank Merrill of Purcell, Oklahoma, nominated four head — September Morning, Prince J. Bee, My Ribeye and Lady J. Jim.

The original nominating payment amounted to $50. Here are the other payments in the long trail leading to the 1982 All-American: $100 by March 15, 1981; $150 by June 15, 1981; $300 by October 15, 1981; $400 by December 15, 1981; $500 by March 15, 1982; $750 by June 15, 1982; $1,000 to enter the trials.

The total on all the payments is $3,250.

The format also included a single payment of $4,320, which makes a horse paid up to the 1982 All-American Futurity, 1983 All-American Derby and 1984 All-American Gold Cup. The one payment plan reflects a 20 percent savings. However, there were no takers this year.

A late nomination to the 1982 All-American Futurity is possible. The deadline for this method is June 15, 1982. The cost is $30,000.

The 1981 All-American Futurity is also doing a land office business, Dillard reports. The most recent payment came up on December 15, 1980, and 1,396 head were kept eligible. The total on deposit is $1,376,025.

At this point in the 1980 All-American buildup, there were 1,079 head still eligible and the cash on deposit was $1,136,825. So the current picture reflects a gain of almost $240,000.

The 1981 All-American Futurity carries a gross purse of $1,530,000, with $528,000 going to the winner. (That's a sizable increase over the $440,000 Higheasterjet took home last year.)

The 1981 season, covering 70 race days, gets going on Saturday, May 9, and extends through Monday, September 7 (Labor Day). A standard 1 p.m., first post will be in effect (except for those days on which extended programs are necessary to accommodate Futurity Trials).

Ruidoso's raven population subject of scientific study

Throughout history, the human race has been inspired by the grace and beauty of birds in flight. The feelings of wonder and awe with which birds are regarded have been translated first into prose, poetry and song, and later, scientific study.

The latter is the course chosen by Ruidoso's Bill Streeter, who has made a three-year independent study of the habits and characteristics of a bird which has been especially prominent in folklore and literature, as well as the skies over Ruidoso—the raven.

Streeter, a science teacher at White Mountain Middle School, began observing the birds several years ago as they performed "aerobatics" on the winds and thermal air currents near the school.

His curiosity (and scientific background) made him want to know more about the raven, which is the most common bird in the area. Streeter discovered that little research as been done on the raven, and decided to rectify that situation by observing the birds himself.

He gathered his research into a formal paper, and has developed a slide presentation which has been presented to members of the Audubon Society in El Paso, Texas, and other interested groups.

The raven's presence in literature has typically been of a negative nature. Edgar Allen Poe's famous poem portrayed the bird as a symbol of death.

"And the Raven, never flitting, still is sitting, still is sitting on the pallid bust of Pallas just above my chamber door; And his eyes have all the seeming of a demon's that is dreaming, And the lamp-light o'er him streaming throws his shadow on the floor; And my soul from out that shadow that lies floating on the floor/ Shall be lifted—nevermore!"

Another poet, To see one raven, espoused the view that "To see one raven is luck, it's true/ But it's certain misfortune to light upon two, / And meeting with three is the devil," in his poem, "The Ballad of Bill Jones."

Streeter said the raven was almost totally exterminated in Appalachia because of superstitions such as these. During the Civil War (and probably other wars as well) the raven was observed feeding on dead bodies, Streeter added, which did nothing to endear him to the human population. Actually, the ravens were probably feeding on maggots infesting the bodies, Streeter said.

The raven's poor reputation is not justified by scientific study, however. The raven is actually beneficial to man because of its insect-eating habits, Streeter said. Unlike its cousin, the crow, ravens do not readily feed on crops, he said.

Acquiring food is a major pastime for the raven, Streeter said. The local population of 600 to 700 birds is supported by the food source at the Ruidoso Sanitary Landfill.

Through his observations, Streeter ascertained that the birds fly to the landfill early in the morning and late afternoon, to avoid the employees.

The local raven population, most of which is based in a roosting area behind the main post office, probably pre-dates the human settlers in the Ruidoso area, he added.

Although insect grubs are probably their "favorite food," Streeter said the birds are also nest robbers, which has caused problems in the past at the local golf courses.

The ravens, undoubtedly thinking the golf balls are eggs, "like to steal the balls off the course," Streeter said.

Streeter is also a scoutmaster, and he has found shredded and partially eaten golf balls even on his expeditions to wilderness areas, where the ravens have dropped them.

Other unusual items relished by hungry ravens are "dirty Pampers and rubber bands" which Streeter said he's found in the "castings" — regurgitated material which the bird cannot digest.

The birds are also fond of pecans and pinon nuts, and they crack the shells in their beaks to reach the nutmeats, Streeter said. In between trips to the dump, local ravens have been known to forage in garbage cans and dumpsters in residential areas. Keeping garbage in tightly closed containers, or closing the lids of dumpsters should alleviate this problem, he added.

With the reliable food source provided by the landfill, the raven population of Lincoln County doesn't have to forage constantly for food; and with all that spare time on their hands (talons?) they have "plenty of time to play around and get into mischief," according to Streeter.

In addition to spending much of that time riding thermals and other currents, the ravens may drop sticks or pebbles in midair, to be caught by another bird in flight. The birds also play a form of tag and can glide upside down, Streeter said.

The upside-down gliding is probably a learning activity, Streeter said, since the birds also take that position to discourage attacks by hawks. Exposing the talons to the other bird apparently has the effect of frightening him away, Streeter said.

The black color of the raven is probably a characteristic which ensures survival by camouflaging the bird as it nests in the pines, Streeter said. As a raven approaches and lights in a tree, he becomes virtually invisible in the branches and shadows.

The ravens of Ruidoso are known as corvus, as opposed to the desert variety, corvus cryptoleucus, a smaller bird with white neck feathers, found in the desert nearby. It is the largest member of the "passeriformes" group, or perching birds, Streeter said.

Streeter has discovered a number of habits through his study. A definite "pecking order" exists among the birds, he said, with the strongest males eating first, followed by strong females and the smaller, less dominant juvenile birds.

The birds are born without feathers, and usually three of six hatchlings survive, Streeter said. Ravens appear to mate for life, which may be as long as 70 years, Streeter added. The mother tends to the eggs, while the father provides food for her until the eggs hatch.

Streeter has also documented the intelligence of the birds, which he says is comparable to that of parrots. He has captured several birds, and has taught them to pick up objects on command by color and number.

For a time, some of his captive birds were taught to ring a bell before he would provide them with food. The same ravens dug a hole at the base of their cage through which they pushed food to visiting ravens.

Streeter pointed out that ravens are protected under the Migratory Bird Act, so "It's against the law to harm them in any way."

And he cautions the public against trying to capture the birds. Ravens have been known to peck out the eyes of rabbits, lambs and other small animals, a trait which might be extended to humans if the bird became extremely frightened, he said.

The first obstacle Streeter encountered in his attempt to study the ravens was "getting close to them." He found that his car was a good "blind" to study them, but "sitting in a car with a pair of binoculars" for lengthy periods tended to make local residents suspicious, he said.

Because he had observed ravens feeding alongside dogs in the landfill, he once decided to "ride a donkey into the dump," in an attempt to get closer. That method worked, although the birds became frightened when he tried to approach them alone on foot.

Streeter has also identified a number of different sounds made by the birds, for such purposes as warning of danger, hunger, pain and anxiety, and "there are probably more," he said. He has also studied mating, nest building, preening, sleeping and bathing habits of the birds.

The raven is now coming under the scrutiny of researchers at New Mexico State University, Streeter said. Among other things, they have discovered the reason ravens fly with beaks open during warm weather—a cooling mechanism, which keeps their brain temperature constant during exertion.

"The raven has a unique ecological place here," Streeter said. "And the more I studied him, the more I came to respect him."

BILL STREETER of Ruidoso has conducted a study of ravens by observing the large local population over a period of three years.

RAVENS are born without feathers, as shown above, and must be protected from the sun's rays. The mother birds have been observed wetting their breast feathers and then sitting over the nestlings to keep them cool. The young are fed with insects or reptiles provided by the parents. DURING THE COURSE of his study of ravens, Streeter provided food for a number of birds in his backyard, where he could observe them more readily. Through this procedure, he learned that the birds hoard food for later consumption. Photo by Bill Streeter.

A few teenage shoplifters cloud reputation of others

BY LEO YATES
Extension family life specialist
New Mexico State University

Teenage shoplifting hurts the innocent as well as the guilty because it casts a cloud of suspicion over every youngster that enters a store.

This was driven home to me one Saturday as I took my two sons downtown for a morning of window shopping. By noon I was worn out, so I let them check prices in the last store alone.

Shortly they returned, hurt and near tears. Store security had asked them to leave the store because their parents were not with them.

My wife and I, trying to console their hurt feelings, offered to return immediately to the store with them. We discussed the shoplifting problem from the point of view of merchants. While my sons, Walter and Kevin, understood the reason, Walter considered the incident an insult to his integrity. He said many stores allow only two teenagers in the store at a time.

No matter how much parents try to help youngsters understand the problem, the fact remains that innocent teenagers feel they are being treated unfairly — that they are being punished for wrongs they did not commit. Just when they are trying to establish their individual identity, to become more adult-like and less child-like, they are treated like children by adults who make no attempt to get the facts about them as individuals.

Such a punitive class-action policy runs the risk of communicating an expectation which innocent youth — burdened with frustration and hurt feelings over the perceived insult — may certainly rise to fulfill.

This well-defined social phenomenon is called a self-fulfilling prophecy. It is the tendency of an individual to alter his pattern of behavior to meet the unwarranted beliefs or expectations others have of him, even though the expectation was first based on a false belief. The new behavior reinforces the expectation which again encourages more of the same behavior.

For example, if a child hears adults saying that he is shy, then the child may begin to act shyly and actually become shy. If told he is ignorant and stupid, and comes to believe this about himself, he will act stupidly.

If he is repeatedly treated as if he is dishonest by the class-action policy of a number of stores in his community, he may very well say to himself, "I may as well play the store manager's game and see if I can get away with something. If I'm going to be accused of shoplifting I might just as well enjoy the benefits."

Young people desperately need adults to believe in them, to trust them, to treat them as equals. Negative reinforcement, disbelief, distrust and dealing with them as inferior citizens will most assuredly produce just that — inferior citizens who don't believe in themselves or others and who act childishly.

Examination of crime statistics reveals that juveniles are responsible for approximately one-third of all shoplifting. It is in the interest of the juvenile shoplifter, the merchant and the public for shoplifters to be identified, confronted and prosecuted. But the age of the shopper should not of itself become a basis of presumed guilt of shoplifting. It could spawn more problems than it solves.

Young people embarrassed by a request to leave the store until their parents can shop with them might politely ask if it would be okay to continue shopping if they agreed to check with security personnel before leaving the store. If this alternative isn't acceptable, the teenagers should ask to see the store manager to offer the alternative to him and to protest the policy which excludes individuals on the basis of age alone.

When I discussed my sons' case with the store manager, he said this particular store policy was only to be enforced at times when security personnel were short-handed. Moreover, the policy was designed to handle unusual situations, such as two out-of-town hundreds of school children unloaded in front of the store for a break in a long trip. Five to eight employees could hardly handle 80 young customers at once.

Young people, parents and merchants all need to share their views. Parents may be surprised at how frequently shoplifting occurs and the seriousness or ramifications of shoplifting. Merchants will be more than happy to let you know.

One large store invited me and my two sons to observe the store through binoculars through a one-way mirror. Kevin said he saw a lady put something in her purse and Walter saw two youngsters damaging merchandise. We all came away from the situation wiser and more willing to see the other side.

'Profit from your taxes'

BY TERRI GUTIERREZ

Itemizing deductions

PORTALES — Itemizing deductions, such as medical expenses, some taxes, and charitable contributions may result in an income tax refund if the taxpayer's itemized deductions exceeds the zero bracket amount.

The zero bracket amount is the part of your income that is not subject to tax.

Medical and dental expense deductions include medicine, examinations, nursing help, hospital care, eyeglasses and hearing aids, while contributions to such organizations such as churches, the United Way, Boy Scouts, and nonprofit schools and hospitals may also count as deductions.

Other things that may be deducted include state and local income taxes, real estate taxes, general sales taxes, interest expense on non-business items like a home mortgage, and credit cards, and interest expense on taxes paid late.

Also deductible are casualty and theft losses of property that is not trade, business, or income-producing property. Non-deductible contributions include political contributions, the value of a person's time or services, and gifts to civic leagues or lobbyist groups. Federal income tax and social security tax are not deductible.

The zero bracket amount for a single person or the head of the household is $2,300, while the zero bracket amount for a married person filing separately is $1,700.

The zero bracket amount for married persons filing jointly or a qualifying widow or widower is $3,400. (A qualifying widow or widower is someone whose spouse died in 1978 or 1979 and who has a dependent child living with them.)

Persons whose itemized deductions exceed the zero bracket amount will receive a refund based on the same rates on which they are taxed.

Persons claimed as a dependent on their parents' return and had interest, dividends, or other unearned income of $1,000 or more must itemize. If you are married and filing a separate return, you must itemize if your spouse itemizes.

Persons whose itemized deductions exceed their zero bracket amount should complete Schedule A and attach it to their Form 1040. Schedule A and other IRS forms and information may be obtained by writing the Forms Distribution Center, Post Office, Box 2924, Austin, Texas, 78769.

UNM team studying uranium

University of New Mexico (UNM) researchers are working on a solution to the mining and environmental hazards posed by uranium mill wastes, known as tailings.

The project, funded by the State Energy and Minerals Department, focuses on backfill management — the returning of mill tailings to the shafts from which they were taken.

Less than 2 percent of the rock harvested is actually uranium used in the nuclear fuel cycle, said project coordinator Dr. Bruce Thomson, UNM assistant professor of civil engineering. The remaining 99.8 percent is tailings — finely ground particles of rock that historically have been piled near the processing plants.

Most of the uranium in New Mexico comes from the Westwater Canyon Member of the Morrison Formation, an aquifer in the western half of the state. The water quality of the aquifer is generally very good and is used for a water supply, said Thomson. To mine the uranium, most of the water is pumped out of a section of the aquifer, then the rock is removed and carried to the surface.

The backfill process Thomson and his colleagues are studying involves pumping the tailings back into the shafts as a slurry, a combination of crushed rock and water. This is designed to prevent the shafts from caving in, thereby permitting continued mining operations.

Environmental safeguards should be realized as well, said Thomson. The tailings contain radium and heavy metals such as selenium, both of which could possibly cause environmental problems. There is also radon gas in the rock, which may cause lung cancer, and some small but measurable radioactive material. By returning the tailings to the abandoned mine shafts, it is believed that environmental dangers on the surface will be lessened, but there are still questions about contaminating ground water and creating new hazards for the mine workers.

Thomson and Richard Heggen, a UNM assistant professor of civil engineering, are examining the water quality issues involved in the project. Specifically, they want to know what effects backfilling will have on the aquifer and what the physical characteristics of groundwater movement will be in the area. A portion of the aquifer, said Heggen, will be nominally contaminated by backfilling, but to what extent is now an unanswered question.

David Kauffman, a UNM associate professor of chemical and nuclear engineering, is studying the air quality at the surface and in the mines. "We're pretty certain," he said, "that the air quality at the surface will be greatly improved through backfilling, but what about in the mines? How much radon gas is going to be breathed in? Will there be a difference in the emissions between normal tailings operations and backfill management? These are all questions that have to be answered."

Looking into the economic and practical engineering considerations of the project is Glenn Whan, UNM professor of chemical and nuclear engineering. Any mining organization employing backfill techniques must first be assured of the economic feasibility and relative ease of operation, and Whan is compiling cost and implementation information.

The movement of contaminants once they are put back into the aquifer is a major concern to the researchers, but Thomson said preliminary data indicate that very little mobilization of contaminants occurs after backfill.

The Kerr McGee Corporation is supplying additional support for the project in the form of samplings, analyses, labor, and access to facilities and data. Kerr McGee is presently utilizing backfill management in its Ambrosia Lake area uranium mines about 20 miles northwest of Grants. Backfill management has already been practiced with other minerals.

Seven UNM students are assisting the researchers in the project.
