

THESE RED FLAG ALERT signs, with red lettering and white background, will be open during the fire season to warn residents and visitors that extreme fire danger conditions prevail here. The signs will be closed for other than extreme fire danger.

Red Flag Fire Alert signs posted

Signs to be used to warn travelers coming into Ruidoso that a Red Flag Fire Alert is in progress, were installed Thursday by the New Mexico Highway Department (NMHD) at all entrances to the village.

The signs were produced by the NMHD with cooperation from the Committee for Insuring Ruidoso's Environment (ComFIRE) and the State Department of Forestry, with consulting aid from the United States Forest Service.

The signs measure 42 by 44 inches and are white with red printing. They are designed to be opened only when fire alert conditions prevail.

"We are glad to get these up in time for the fire season this year. This project has taken a long time in materializing so this is really an important step for us," Bill

Hirschfeld, cochairman of ComFIRE, said.

Hirschfeld said ComFIRE members will be responsible for opening and closing the signs. "We hope we won't need to use them, but you never know about the fire season," Steve Makowski, ComFIRE member, said.

The Mescalero Apache Tribe is also cooperating in the total fire prevention effort by placing and maintaining several fire alert signs at key points on the reservation.

Herb Brunell, ComFIRE chairman, said extra signs were made so replacements would be available, and because other high fire danger areas around the Southwest have incorporated ComFIRE's fire prevention program into their communities and may also order signs.

Well drilling progressing

The village's well drilling program is continuing on schedule, with a second exploratory well in Gavilan Canyon to be drilled this week.

Test pumping of the new well in Gavilan Canyon, at Treatment Plant Number Two, will be conducted this week.

The new Hollywood Well, delivering 701 gallons-per-minute during extensive test pumping, will be used to ease water supply problems in the eastern section of Ruidoso.

A treatment facility will be built to serve the Hollywood Well, from which water can be funneled directly into existing mains for storage.

At the present time the village is planning to drill another exploratory well near the Chamber of Commerce building, and, depending on the total volume of water from the three new wells, coupled with this one, another two or three wells may be drilled at sites to be selected.

Hospital parking lot being paved

The parking lot at Ruidoso Hondo Valley Hospital will not be open to the public for use beginning today, so village street crews can begin a repaving project.

Hospital patrons will be asked to park in the dirt lot east of the visitor's parking lot.

Grass fire near Biscuit Hill Sunday

A grass fire burned about 1½ acres on property owned by Stormy Edwards, east of Biscuit Hill, at about 11:45 a.m., Sunday.

The United States Forest Service and Ruidoso Downs Fire Department responded. Cause of the fire is still under investigation, according to Forest Service officials.

Trustees meet Tuesday

The Ruidoso trustees will meet Tuesday at 7:30 p.m., in the Ruidoso Public Library.

Agenda items include the final hearings on Ordinance 81-2, Cablevision of Lincoln County's rate increase request; and Ordinance 81-3, to change zoning to create a general commercial, C-2, and industrial, M-1, classifications.

The trustees will also act on needed minor improvements in the water distribution system, including adding some new water lines, making minor changes in the system and adding some hydrants in recent housing developments.

PONDEROSA HEIGHTS SERVICE PLANNED

Sewer plant work on schedule

Construction on the sewage treatment plant to serve the Regional Wastewater System (RWS) is about "40 percent completed," village clerk Jim Hine said to The News Friday.

The operation and maintenance building is virtually completed and an equipment storage building is now in use.

The concrete sludge beds, large enough to serve the needs of Ruidoso and Ruidoso Downs for many years, are being finished. At the onset of use of the treatment plant, several of the beds will not be utilized but will be available when the demand for them exists.

The sludge beds will be used to treat raw sewage. The system is designed so that treated liquids are discharged, allowing the solids in the individual beds to dry prior to removal.

INSTALLATION OF NEW sewer mains is continuing on schedule in Ruidoso, Hine said.

These mains will extend from the treatment plant, at Biscuit Hill east of Ruidoso Downs, following the alignment of the Rio Ruidoso from the present treatment plant to include a portion of Ponderosa Heights, with access being through Brady Canyon.

None of the present sewer mains will be changed, or eliminated, when RWS is operational. The new mains will, Hine said, "double the present capacity and handle growth of the village to the north."

The present sewer treatment plant will be dismantled when RWS is put in use. Also, as a measure to help protect the Rio Ruidoso from pollution, the sewage lift station on Baldy Drive, near Sierra Blanca Cabins, will be eliminated.

The village is now investigating the possibilities open to obtain financing for a sewer system to serve Ponderosa Heights, Hine said. "When this is accomplished," he said, "three-fourths of the developed property in Ruidoso will be served by RWS."

AERATION AND DIGESTER building will be built in this excavation in front of the maintenance and operation building at the Regional Wastewater System plant, at Biscuit Hill east of Ruidoso Downs. The structure will be built of concrete.

RICHARD SANDOVAL

Sandoval Chamber president

Richard Sandoval, manager of Gibson's Discount in Ruidoso, was Saturday elected President of the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce.

Sandoval will serve a one year term beginning May 1, succeeding Sheila Harris, who will sit as an ex-officio member of the Chamber board for the next year.

Vice president for publicity and advertising will be Morgan Clough, Morgan's Mountain Sports; Community Development will be under Karl Franzer, Safeway manager; Larry Langford will be vice president for Economic Development and Archer Wilson will handle Operation and Management.

Details of the regular Chamber board meeting will appear in Thursday's Ruidoso News.

A preliminary hearing for Donald Ray Bishop, 32, Ruidoso, and David Carom, 20, Boulder, Colorado, on charges of possessing and distributing controlled substances began Thursday in Carrizozo magistrate court.

Following two hours of testimony in the case, magistrate S. M. Ortiz called a recess until Thursday, April 2, at 1 p.m. In addition to the drug charge, Bishop is facing three counts of disorderly conduct, and charges of resisting or obstructing an officer and criminal damage to property.

Two women, Julie Kellar, 20, Ruidoso, and Julie Floeth, 19, address unknown, will be scheduled for hearings at a later date.

Hearings for the women were postponed because Kellar's attorney, Bruce Stafford, was reportedly out of town, and a "continuance" was granted by Judge Robert Doughty for Floeth. Her attorney, Dan Bryant, and Assistant District Attorney Jay Rosenthal have five days in which to agree upon a magistrate to hear her case.

Ortiz said he was "strongly considering" citing Stafford for contempt of court because of his absence.

Rosenthal represents the state in the case, with Gary Mitchell, Ruidoso, and Donald Wall, Carrizozo, representing Bishop and Carom, respectively.

Testifying Thursday were Ruidoso Downs Police Sergeant Mixon and detective James McCullough of the Ruidoso Police Department's Criminal Investigation Division.

Mixon testified that on the morning of March 13, just after midnight, he ran a license plate check on a 1973 Ford Maverick which had been parked at the Ruidoso Downs post office for several hours.

He said he was advised by the National Crime Information Center, through the Ruidoso Police department, that the car was registered to Julie Floeth, but that it had been driven by David Carom, who was wanted in Colorado on an assault charge.

He said he contacted a wrecker to tow the car away and was supervising that operation when he noticed a pickup truck making an illegal turn on Highway 70. He then stopped the truck, which was occupied by Bishop and Kellar, he said.

Mixon said Bishop advised him the car belonged to one of his friends, and said he would take Mixon to where the friend was staying.

Bishop got into the car with Mixon and directed him to the Mitchell Motel, with Kellar following in the truck, he testified. Mixon said Carom answered his knock at the motel room door, and told the officer his name was James Lisawyer. The officer said he asked, "Are you sure your name isn't David?"

At that point, Mixon continued, Bishop walked up to the two, saying, "What are they trying to do to you, David?"

Mixon said he then placed Carom under arrest in connection with the Colorado charge. Before placing Carom in the police car, he said he searched the man and found eight packages of a black substance wrapped in clear plastic wrap in the suspect's pockets.

He said he jailed Carom at Ruidoso, and the substance was turned over to Ruidoso Downs officer Gene Ridgeway for analysis. Ridgeway later advised Mixon that the substance contained hashish, Mixon said, although Carom had said the packages contained incense.

At that point, Mixon said, he and Ridgeway began working to obtain a search warrant for the motel room and Bishop's pickup. In the meantime, Ruidoso police were requested to set up surveillance on the motel room, he added.

Under, cross-examination by Mitchell, Mixon said the warrant was issued about 3:45 a.m., by magistrate Jim Wheeler, and a search of the room was made about 4:10 a.m.

The search turned up suspected marijuana, hashish and LSD, Mixon said. Mitchell also questioned Mixon on whether he had seen Bishop make a sale of drugs, transfer any money or transfer of controlled substances, with Mixon replying negatively to all those inquiries.

McCullough testified primarily regarding his surveillance of the motel, the subsequent arrest of Bishop, Kellar and Floeth, and a scuffle that occurred during the arrest.

The detective said he and officer Gordon "Skip" Hazel were watching the motel room when they observed three people leaving the room and driving away in a pickup. McCullough advised Hazel to stop the truck because he was aware the search warrant was being sought and thought "there might be contraband" in the truck.

He added he advised Bishop, who had gotten out of the truck, that the search warrant was being sought. Bishop then told McCullough and Hazel that they "had no right to keep him there," and started to leave, he said.

A scuffle occurred when McCullough held out his flashlight to block Bishop's path, touching him with the flashlight on the chest.

McCullough said Bishop then "became very violent," and "slapped the flashlight out of my hand." The detective said he advised Bishop he was under arrest for disorderly conduct, and "a wrestling match" involving Hazel, McCullough and Bishop ensued.

During this time, McCullough said he noticed another officer, John Layher, "wrestling with one of the women," who had gotten out of the pickup in the meantime.

He said the men and women used abusive language toward them, also. After Bishop was handcuffed and placed in the patrol unit, McCullough said, "I heard a noise ... then a loud crash, and saw that the rear driver's side window had been kicked out, and Bishop's feet were protruding through the window."

Under cross-examination, McCullough said his intent in stopping the vehicle was "to hold him (Bishop) and talk to him," although he had not been advised that a search warrant had been obtained.

Shooting at Eagle Creek Ski Area

A shooting incident at Eagle Creek Ski Area Sunday about 4:30 p.m., resulted in the arrest of Arturo Baezas, 28, address unknown, for aggravated assault with intent to commit a felony.

Lincoln county sheriff's officers were called to Eagle Creek at the first report of the incident, but the arrest was made later by Ruidoso Police.

Apparently no one was injured at the ski area, police said.

Police reports indicated that Baezas and arresting officers incurred minor injuries during a scuffle at the time the man was apprehended.

No details of the incident were available from the Sheriff's office or the Ruidoso Police Department as of 9:30 a.m., Monday. Baezas was released Monday on $10,000 bond.

Chamber music concert April 5

A Chamber music concert will be held in Ruidoso April 5 at 3 p.m., at the parish hall of the Episcopal Church of the Holy Mount, sponsored by the Altrusa Club of Ruidoso.

Mexico Music Teachers Association, the New Mexico Music Educators, and the Southwest Division of the Music Educators National Conference.

They have also performed guest recitals at the University of New Mexico and Texas Tech University.

Other appearances have included portions of concert series with the Roswell Chamber Music Series, Otero Music Guild in Alamogordo, Center Stage in Las Vegas and the Chamizal National Memorial in El Paso, Texas.

The program was arranged by the Fine Arts Committee of the Altrusa Club. One of the main goals of that committee, according to members Mary Lois Green and Jane Deyo, is "to bring music, art and drama, to the people of the community."

Ski Report

Sierra Blanca: The resort received 14 inches of new snow over the weekend, bringing the undisturbed depth to 52 inches midway up the mountain. Conditions are rated good to excellent. All lifts are operating and all trails are open.

Eagle Creek: closed for the season.

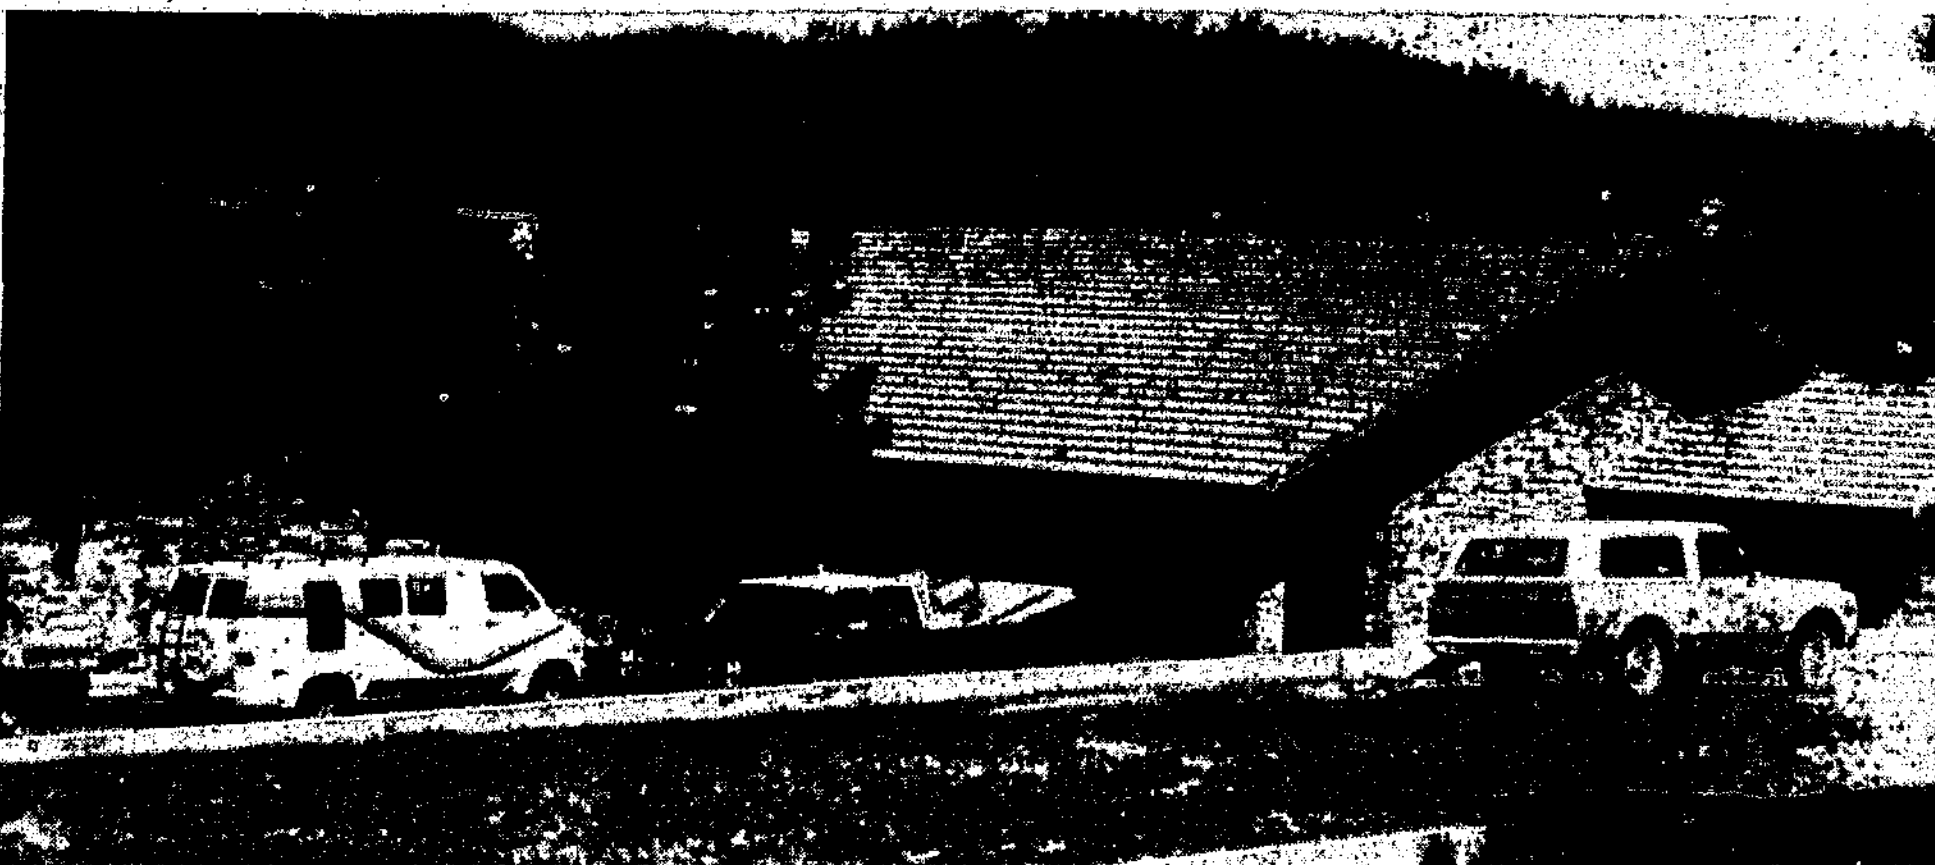

For updated ski reports, call Sierra Blanca, 257-0001.

Tickets will cost $2 for adults and $1 for children and will be sold in advance at The Aspen Tree or from any Altrusa member. Tickets will also be available at the door.

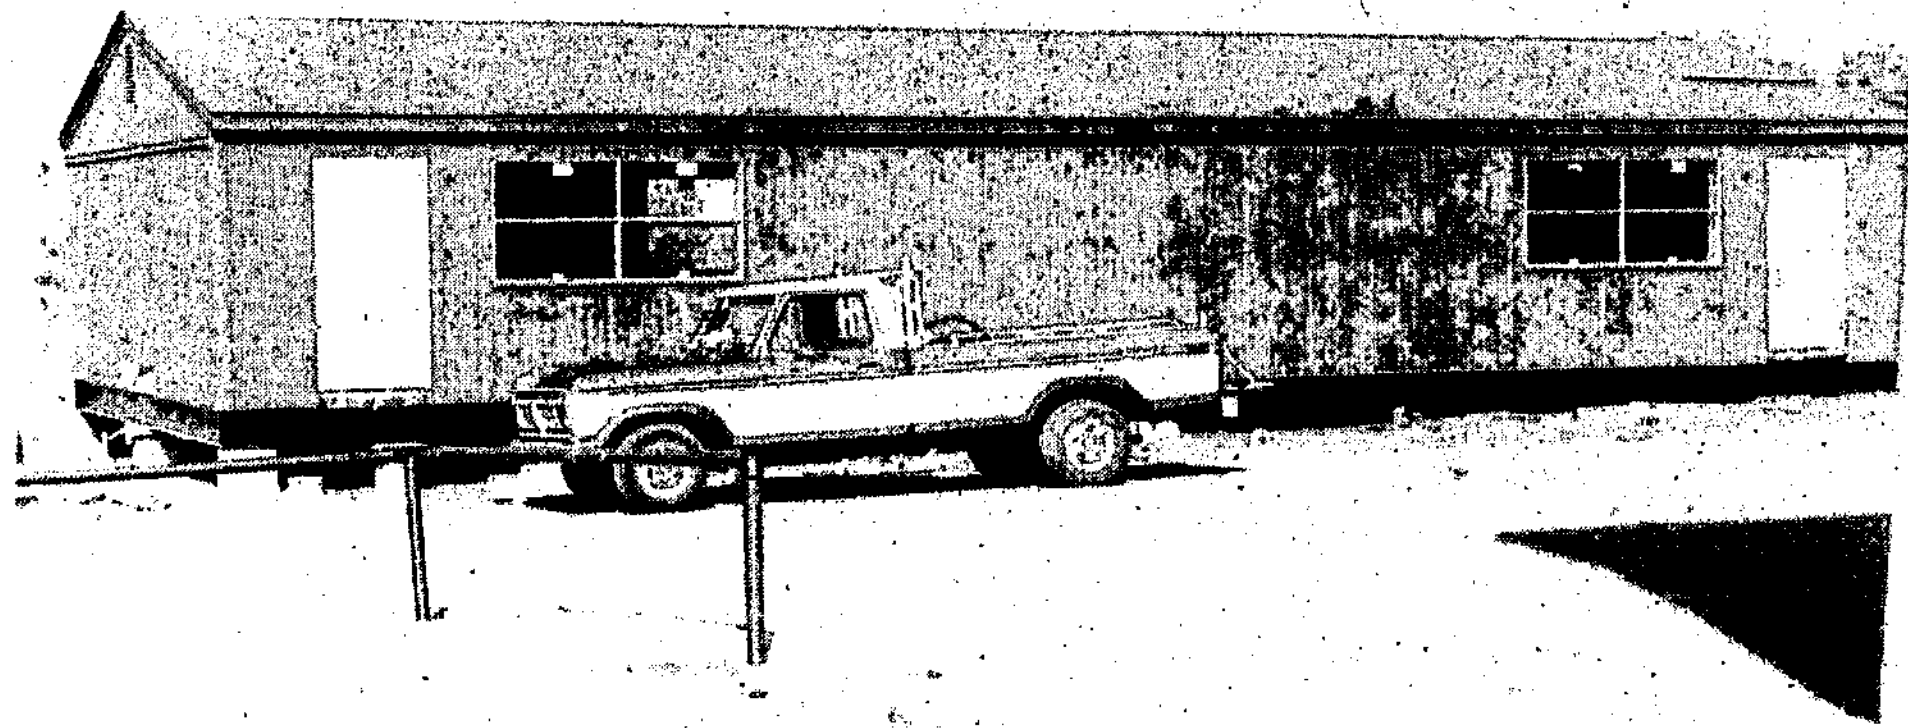

The program will feature the Raphael Trio, a group of Eastern New Mexico University (ENMU) faculty members.

Katherine Thayer on violin, Arthur Welker, violoncello and Ruth Meyer on piano, will play two selections, the "Trio in B Flat Major, Op. 89" by Schubert and a "Trio in E Minor, Op. 90" by Dvorak.

The trio has performed in concerts on the ENMU campus, and at invitational concerts for conventions of the New

WORK ON THE NEW Ruidoso Municipal Building is about thirty-days ahead of schedule and officials are hoping the structure will be ready for occupancy in June.

A PORTABLE BUILDING which will house students at Nob Hill Elementary School, arrived in Ruidoso Friday. Concrete has been poured and will be ready for placement of the building by mid-week, school officials said Friday.

Portable school room to be used at Nob Hill

A portable building which will house students at Nob Hill Elementary School arrived in Ruidoso Wednesday and will be in use soon.

The building will cost the school district $45,600 and features sheet rock and plywood exteriors with ample chalkboard and room to house approximately 25 students and one teacher.

"The reason for getting the portable building is that we are overcrowded at Nob Hill. We just had to expand our facilities up there," Dave Parks, Board of Education president, said.

He said planned use of the building "was left up to Don Weems, the principal at Nob Hill." Parks added that "we would like to apologize to those people who were inconvenienced by the building being brought down Sudderth Wednesday."

The building is the first step in a series of additions and renovation planned for all four schools in the district to accommodate projected growth.

Voters in the Ruidoso district recently approved a two mill levy, which will be applied to most needed revisions as soon as those funds are available.

The board has announced a bond election May 12 which would raise another $2,250,000 to begin building a new high school.

The board also plans to approach the State Emergency Capital Outlay Committee later this year to seek additional funds for the proposed building program.

THESE 24-INCH water pipes, that will transfer treated water from the Regional Wastewater System plant at Biscuit Hill back into the circuit, were examined Friday by Ruidoso village clerk Jim Hine.

CPS seeking name change

Community Public Service Company, a Fort Worth-based electric utility, announced that the annual proxies being mailed to shareholders today contain a proposal to change the name of the company.

When approved by the shareholders, the name of the company will become Texas-New Mexico Power Company. Since the general public is accustomed to the words "community" and "service" frequently being used in the names of federal and state agencies, it is often difficult for people to identify the company as an electric utility. Also, the inclusion of Texas-New Mexico in the name identifies the area the company serves.

Company officials are optimistic that the new name will be approved and that the clarification the new name affords of the company's type of business and service area will beneficially affect the reception of the company's stock on the New York Stock Exchange.

Red Cross offering modular CPR training

As part of an expanded nationwide effort by the American Red Cross to help save the lives of people who experience sudden heart attacks, or cardiac arrests, the Lincoln County Red Cross chapter has made available a modular course in cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR), according to Marion Spencer, chapter chairman.

The CPR technique, used to provide heartbeat and breathing, consists of rhythmic compression on the victim's chest above the heart, alternated with mouth-to-mouth resuscitation.

By employing CPR, Spencer said, it is possible in many cases to reestablish natural heartbeat and breathing, and stabilize the victim until medical help can be obtained.

Where the Red Cross breaks with tradition is the manner in which CPR can be taught by the chapter's authorized instructors, according to Spencer. Using the new modular method, students are able to pace themselves through an integrated series of steps that combines use of workbooks, hand-operated viewers showing color films which demonstrate the process, peer practice on manikins, and evaluation by the instructor.

The desired result is that few fail the course and that everyone learns standard, correct CPR technique, Spencer said.

"More than 650,000 deaths occur annually from heart attack alone," Spencer said. "In addition, thousands of persons die when breathing and circulation have stopped due to automobile or other accidents, drowning, electrical shock or drug overdose. Immediate, correct CPR first aid care at the scene could save many thousands of lives a year."

For information on Red Cross CPR courses, Spencer said persons at least 13 years old can call the local chapter in Carrizozo, 648-2314, or Mr. and Mrs. Bill Adams at 257-5189 in Ruidoso, or 354-2763 in Capitan.

The Red Cross' activity record in Lincoln County includes:

— First Aid, 51 courses taught including

Basic First Aid, Standard Multimedia, Standard First Aid and Personal Safety, Advanced First Aid and Emergency Care, CPR Basic Life Support, with 490 certificates awarded.

— Water Safety, 27 courses taught, including Beginner, Advanced Beginner, Intermediate, Swimmer and Advanced Lifesaving, with 104 certificates awarded. — Nursing and Health, eight courses taught, including Mother's Aide, Preparation Parenthood, CPR Modular and CPR Regular, with 71 certificates awarded.

Training in remodeling wardrobes set in Capitan

DENIM DOLLS such as this are one of many ways old clothing can be recycled into new items, according to county Extension home economist Mary Ellen Payne. Payne will teach a class on remodeling and recycling old clothing on Monday, April 6, in Capitan.

A training session on "remodeling your way to a new wardrobe" will be held at 10 a.m., Monday, April 6, at the Fair Building in Capitan.

The program, sponsored by the Lincoln County Extension Service, will focus on "remodeling and recycling of old clothing into other items," according to county Extension home economist Mary Ellen Payne.

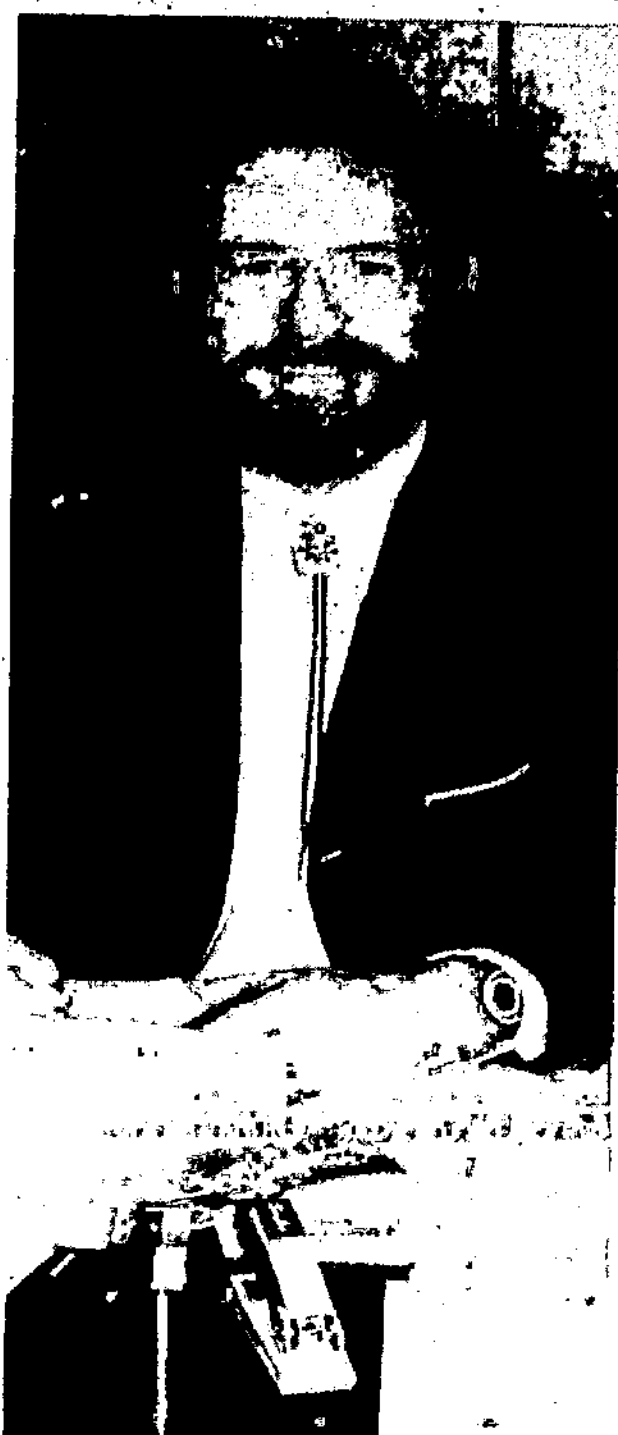

The session is geared to extension club members, but is open to the public.

Fashion show at Carrizozo

A combination luncheon and fashion show will be presented by the Carrizozo Woman's Club at noon Thursday at the club building.

The show is entitled "Spring Styles '81," and tickets are available for $4.75 from Woman's club members. Presentation of door prizes will be an extra attraction.

Fashions for the show will be provided by the Galleria, Ruidoso.

DR. MICHAEL STONE, Ruidoso, has this month completed continuing education requirements to retain active membership in the American Academy of Family Physicians, the national association of family doctors.

Thinking 'Thin is beautiful' creates problems in dressing

The idea that "thin is beautiful," which has been drilled into the minds of the modern America by fashion's trend setters, has probably created more problems than not for most people, few of whom are the "ideal size."

Mary Ellen Payne, home economist for Lincoln County, spoke to members of the Hondo Valley Extension Club Wednesday to give them some pointers about "dressing thin."

Payne said many people subconsciously "dress fat" because they put off buying clothes thinking they'll lose extra pounds first; or wear dark clothing so people won't be as likely to notice them; or buy clothes that are "a little snug," hoping they'll lose the weight so the clothing will fit comfortably.

Payne said this thinking should be reversed, so people can realize that "large can be attractive if you feel attractive and dress accordingly."

She added that "the point is not to make 200 pounds look like 100 — but you can make 150 pounds look like 140."

Three points to remember when trying to "dress thin," Payne said, included: — Comfort. "Women shouldn't try to squash themselves into something that wasn't made for their size in the first place; on the other hand, they shouldn't look real sloppy all the time," Payne said.

— Taste. "Wear what you know looks good on you, regardless of what's in style at a particular time."

— Fit. Undergarments as well as other clothing should fit comfortably, Payne said. For example, skirt waistbands should have enough room in them to stick both thumbs inside the band. Payne said another test is to see if a total of one inch can be pinched on the waistband.

Payne said overweight people can actually look slimmer if they avoid wearing tent dresses, bulky ski sweaters, velour tops and overblouses. "All of these things add even more width to your total figure,"

Payne said.

Overblouses are especially unflattering because they stop at the hip, "where there is usually a little extra weight anyway," thus drawing attention to that area.

Payne said flattering clothing will have a deep "V" neck which is plain, shirtwaist or princess style dresses which usually have a strong vertical line, or the addition of a scarf to any outfit which will, again, add a vertical line to the outfit.

Payne said pants are slenderizing if they are made in woven fabrics that hang straight from the hip. Payne said the most attractive length is one that will fall to mid-heel.

Payne said she will attend a future meeting to discuss accessories. In the meantime, she invited extension club members "to clean out your closets and have a garage sale to get rid of all those unflattering clothes you don't ever wear anyway."

MARY ELLEN PAYNE, home economist for Lincoln County, spoke to members of the local extension club Wednesday about "dressing thin."

BETTY MILLS assumed duties Monday as director of Health Services at Ruidoso Care Center, replacing Lorraine Sanchez. Mills has lived in Ruidoso since 1972 and was trained as a Licensed Practical Nurse in Clarksdale, Mississippi. She received an Associate Nursing degree from Eastern New Mexico University in 1977, and has since been employed at Ruidoso Hondo Valley Hospital.

Volunteers needed for USC cholesterol-lowering study

The University of Southern California (USC) is screening heart attack patients from California and the Western United States to determine whether lowering blood cholesterol levels will reduce the risk of heart attacks.

Physicians throughout the area are receiving information about this study, conducted by the National Institutes of Health, in which cholesterol levels may be lowered 40 percent in order to see if the formation of fatty deposits within the arteries can be slowed or reversed and ultimately prevent or curb advancing atherosclerosis (hardening of the arteries).

According to Dr. David Blankenhorn, Co-Principal Investigator of the study in Los Angeles, California, — cholesterol, a fatty substance is found in diseased arteries and may represent a clue to the cause of arteriosclerosis.

Nationwide, 1,000 men and women under age 65, who have had a first and only heart attack during the past five years are being selected — with approval of their private physicians — for participation in the study.

If you would like to join in this study designed to test the effects of lowered cholesterol, and to help answer the vital question of cholesterol's relationship to heart disease, call the USC Hyperlipidemia Study collect at 213-482-5011.

Transportation to the clinic in Los Angeles can be reimbursed, and lodging will be provided for eligible candidates.

The ancients considered celery primarily medicinal. The Abyssinians used pillows filled with celery leaves as a headache treatment.

Any curative powers aside, celery, like the apple, is another one of nature's tooth-brushes. When eaten raw, celery helps clean your teeth to prevent tooth decay. It also contributes small amounts of iron, calcium and vitamin C, and is a good source of chlorine, which is needed in the maintenance of normal heart beat.

Celery is in plentiful supply in March, according to United States Department of Agriculture Marketing specialists.

Use it for the classic appetizer, stuffed celery. Or practice your stir-fry technique with Celery Stir-Fry Magic. Use it to bring texture to salads, such as Orange Nutty Salad.

What food is available every month of the year, is greatest for snacking and is nutritious? Oranges provide an economical package because you can use the whole fruit, the peel or shell, the juice or "meat."

This season with a record harvest from California and Arizona, there will be plenty of navel oranges to go around for snacking and meal planning.

Navel oranges are excellent for slicing, sections and eating out-of-hand because they are seedless and easy to peel. To use oranges and celery try Orange Nutty Salad.

Orange Nutty Salad

- 3 to 4 oranges, peeled, cut in bite-size pieces
- 1 red apple, unpeeled, cut in bite-size pieces
- ½ cup sliced celery
- 2 tablespoons brown sugar
- juice of ½ fresh lemon
- ¼ cup coarsely chopped walnuts
- ¼ cup raisins

In bowl, combine all ingredients except nuts; chill. To serve, stir in nuts. Makes 4 servings (about 3 cups).

Adult education classes slated

"Your Home in the 80's" will be the focus of an adult education class series to begin April 7 in Carrizozo. The classes will be held each Tuesday and Thursday in April from 6 to 9 p.m., at the Carrizozo High School home economics lab.

The series is described as a "consumer's guide to selection, maintenance and decoration of the home." The classes will include instruction on inexpensive decorating, painting, home sewn linens, and quilts for decorating. Participants will hear guest speakers, make home tours and work on take-home projects.

Teachers for the course will be Rosemary Shafer, a Carrizozo homemaker and former home economics teacher; and Mary Ellen Payne, Lincoln County Extension home economist.

More information may be obtained by calling Shafer at 648-2142.

Focus on Small Business

by E. Maine Shafer

Dear Mr. Shafer:

One of the biggest can of worms for small business to open is the federal government's policies on patent rights. What is being done to get a uniform national patent policy?

The newest can opener is legislation recently signed into law by President Carter. It's called the University and Small Business Patent Procedures Act.

This law gives small businesses and universities first option to title on inventions made in performance of federal research and development contracts.

This patent policy revision, replacing 28 different agency policies on the granting of patent rights, gives small businesses and universities the incentive to develop and market their inventions. However, to retain title they must report and file patent applications on the inventions within a reasonable period of time. Previously, many federal agencies retained the patents to inventions created with federal money.

Other provisions of this legislation allow the U.S. Patent and Trademark Office to reexamine issued patents at the request of any party. Patent holders and challengers thus can avoid costs and delays of patent litigation.

The law also establishes fee schedules based on a percentage of average estimated costs, including for the first time patent maintenance fees to be paid over the life of the patent.

To insure that the increase in fees does not discourage independent inventors and small businesses from filing patent and trademark applications, the Patent and Trademark Office will adopt regulations for fees that reflect the ability of small concerns to pay, probably with fee levels for processing, filing, and maintenance.

UNCLE BEN'S WILD RICE AND CHICKEN BREASTS

Spread 1 pkg. wild rice in casserole. Cover with seasoning in package. Sprinkle ½ package cream soup on top of rice.

- In sauce pan mix:
- 1 Can cream chicken soup
- 1 Can cream mushroom soup
- 1 can sweet milk

Pour over rice. Place 6 chicken breasts on top. Sprinkle rest of onion soup over chicken.

Bake 2 hours at 300 degrees, uncovered. Serve with peach halves filled with brown sugar and mincemeat, dot with butter and 1 tsp. brandy. Place under broiler oven for few minutes.

SWEET SOUR BEEF BALLS WITH PINEAPPLE AND PEPPERS

Mix 1 lb. ground beef, 1 egg, 1 Tbsp. cornstarch, 1 tsp. salt, 2 Tbsp. chopped onion and dash pepper. Form into 18 balls or more. Brown in small amount of oil, drain.

To 1 Tbsp. oil add 1 cup pineapple juice. Cook over low heat a few minutes. Add mixture of 3 Tbsp. cornstarch, 1 Tbsp. soy sauce, 3 Tbsp. vinegar, 6 Tbsp. water and ½ cup sugar. Cook until juice thickens stirring constantly.

Add meat balls, 4 slices pineapple cut in bite size pieces and 3 large green peppers each cut in strips. Heat thoroughly. Serve hot.

A SLAVE SALE held in conjunction with "Twirp Week" at Ruidoso High School netted $1,650 for the scholarship fund, and provided some non-scholastic diversion for teachers and students. Ryan, Thomason named to all state cage squad

GLENN RYAN

Ruidoso basketballer Glenn Ryan was named Saturday to the Albuquerque Journal's all-state first team cage squad, the only Warrior so honored.

Ryan, a senior forward, was joined on the elite first team by Ft. Wingate's Ray Frolich, Academy's Jim Roberts, Tularosa's Bill Turner, and St. Pius' Paul Koller.

Ryan, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Wes Ryan of Ruidoso, averaged 20 points a game this season, leading the Warriors to a fourth place finish in the AAA state championships.

Rodney Thomason, a 6-4 Warrior senior, was named to the honorable mention squad.

The squad was chosen after a poll of AAA state coaches, conducted by the Journal. Frolich was the state's player of the year.

Ryan was earlier named to the state's all-tournament squad, as well as the South all-star team and the all-district 3AAA roster. Thomason made the all-district picks and was honorable mention on the other two squads.

Tracksters finish fifth in Deming Invitational

The Ruidoso Warrior boys' track team opened its 1981 season with a fifth place finish in the Wildcat Invitational Meet in Deming Saturday.

The host Deming Wildcats won the meet with 102 points, followed by El Paso Cathedral with 82, Truth or Consequences with 60, Silver City with 59 and the Warriors with 33.

It was a very educational meet for head coach Darrel Stierwalt. He had a chance to get a look at his troops on an honest-to-God track and can now set some objectives for the season.

"It was nice to run on a track for a change," he said. "We got some times finally, times we desperately needed. Now we can set some objectives for lowering times to see what we have to do when the district meet rolls around."

The Warriors look to be strong in field events and sprints, if Saturday was any indication.

Lon Nunley brought home the only first place medal, thanks to a 134 foot, eight inch discus toss. Nunley had a busy day at Deming — he also took second in the shotput with a heave of 38 feet, 10 inches, placed fifth in the 400 meter sprint with a time of 56.5 seconds and ran the anchor leg in the 1600 relay team, which placed fourth with a time of 4:06.4. Other members of the 1600 relay team are David LaTurner, Kyle Flack and Billy Woodul.

John Montoya threw the javelin 129 feet, 10 inches for second place, and Glenn Ryan finished third in the high jump, with a leap of five and a half feet.

Ryan also finished fifth in the 800 meter sprint, with a 2:18 performance.

Another third place was garnered by the 800 relay team, with a 1:40.6 showing. Runners are Scott Neal, Grady Williamson, Steve Pietsch and Ricky Dennis.

The 1600 meter medley squad of Eric Strobel, Gene Reeves, Mike Douglass and Dennis placed fourth with a 4:17 performance, and Neal finished fourth in the 165 meter low hurdles, with a time of 23.3 seconds.

Stierwalt was generally pleased with his squad's performance, but "we've still got an awful lot of work to do," he said.

"We're in better shape overall than I thought we were," he added, "and we had a lot of trouble with the wind and that hurt our times some. Of course, it affected everyone's times some."

Stierwalt said he feels the areas the squad needs to work on most are distance events and relay handoffs.

"We had some really sloppy handoffs," he said, "and those hurt our times some — quite a bit, in fact. Plus, Scotty (Neal) jumped in the 400 meter relays and disqualified that team from that event."

"Our two top distance runners, (Keith) Sullivan and (Yon) Rue, have both been wrestling for quite a while, and they're not in as good shape as I thought they'd be. We seemed to be pretty weak in distance, but I think we can improve a lot there."

The district track squads aren't as strong as Stierwalt thought, he said, after seeing three of them in Deming. Tularosa and Cobre did not compete.

"Silver isn't near as tough as I thought they'd be," he said, "and Deming won it (the meet) mostly because they had a lot of people running. Cobre looks to be the toughest team in the district right now."

One factor which hurt the Warriors was the absence of Russ Pior and Robert Langston, both of whom could have added quite a few points to the Warriors' totals.

Pior, a sprinter, had to take a college aptitude test Saturday, and Langston, a field events trackster, had a doctor's appointment.

"But you got to go with what you got," Stierwalt said. "I think we're gonna do okay."

The Warriors journey to Portales next Saturday for a meet there.

Handball tourney draws 60 entries

The First Annual Ruidoso City Handball Championships concluded Sunday at Sierra Swim and Racquet Club, and it was handball players' heaven.

There were six different brackets, with 60 entries total. Play began Friday afternoon and ran until 2 a.m., Saturday, before resuming at 6 a.m., Saturday, and finishing at 2 a.m., Sunday. The final rounds were played Sunday afternoon, noted weary tournament director Jim Streck.

"We had some great players here," he said Sunday afternoon, "It's been great. I'm probably going to bed early tonight, because I've been here almost non-stop since it started, and I didn't want to miss any of it."

In the open singles bracket, Oscar Calzada, who has played professional handball, defeated Johnny Benitez, 21-15, 21-15.

In open doubles, Benitez and Mike Acosta beat Calzada and Richie Fernandez, 0-15, 15-4 and 11-8.

Raul Montoya won the "B" singles, with a 21-20, 21-10 victory over Hank Wunch.

Bobby Palm won the novice division with a 20-21, 21-3, 11-4 victory over Lowell Moore.

Scar ward defeated Bill Barnard 21-13, 15-21 and 11-6 to win the "C" singles title.

The "C" doubles results were not available at press time.

Golfers place sixth — again

Ruidoso's Warrior golf squad is becoming accustomed to sixth place and bad weather.

Here lately, the team has established a firm grip on sixth place, and the weekend's 36 hole Deming tournament was no different.

The Warriors finished sixth out of a field of nine with a 733, 56 strokes off Las Cruces' winning 677 total.

The wind and the weather, as usual, were the Warriors' biggest enemies.

"Man, that wind never stopped blowing," coach Leroy Gooch said. "And then it was real cold on Saturday. The course we played on probably gets another eight to 12 strokes added on when the weather is like it was."

Kevin Sivage, a new golfer on the squad, turned in the best individual rounds. He shot an 81 and an 86 for a 167, which placed him fourth in the overall standings.

"He's a very good golfer and is really going to help our program," Gooch said.

Kyle Kannady shot a 178 with rounds of 89 both days, followed by Todd Perteet, 189 on rounds of 97 and 92; Don Nunley, 199, rounds of 101 and 98; and Virgil Reynolds, 201, rounds of 106 and 95.

Here's the way the field looked: Las Cruces, 677; Alamogordo, 697; Gadsden, 701; Silver City, 702; Deming, 715; Ruidoso, 733; Las Cruces Mayfield, 755; Truth or Consequences, 794; Cobre, 881.

"I think if we can ever catch a good day weatherwise, we'll do pretty well," Gooch said. The Warriors get another chance Tuesday when they go to Roswell for 18 holes of competition.

Schools seek cereal seal donations

Ruidoso Public Schools are still seeking donations of Post cereals' proof of purchase seals.

The seals, when presented for redemption by the schools, are good for various types of athletic equipment, according to Jeanie Whitwam, who is spearheading the local collection drive.

"We have quite a few of them already," Whitwam said, "but it takes literally thousands of them to really get anything."

Equipment available ranges from trampolines and vaulting horses to volleyballs and pogo sticks.

The seals (a copy is pictured below) are available on several General Foods Corporation products.

All local schools have boxes available for the seals, which should be brought to the schools and deposited.

Name that soccer team

Ruidoso's select soccer team is out to make a name for itself.

The squad, composed of Ruidoso youngsters under age 16, does not have a mascot or a name, and hence is known as "Ruidoso's select under 16 team."

But coach Butch Grantham wants to change all that.

Anyone with a suitable name for the unnamed team is asked to write their suggestion and their name on a slip of paper and put it in a special box at Morgan's Mountain Sports.

On Friday, April 3, the team will vote on the suggested name it likes best. The person who submitted the name will win a soccer ball.

If there is more than one submission of the same name, Grantham said, those entries will be placed into a box and three will be drawn. The first one will receive a soccer ball, the second will receive a shirt and the third will receive a Hacky Sack footbag.

Quick, who's the winningest coach in college basketball today?

(I'll give you a hint — he's been at the same school for 35 years, and had only two losing seasons, and works in North Carolina.)

Give up? His name is C. E. "Big House" Gaines, and he's the head coach at Winston-Salem State University in Winston-Salem, North Carolina. His win-loss record is an astounding 688-288 — his squads have won nearly 70 percent of their games in the past 35 years, no mean feat even at a small school.

So why isn't this guy coaching at a major college?

Simple. He's black.

And Gaines has never, ever had an offer to coach at the major college level. He's not bitter about it, but now, at age 57, he doesn't think anyone else would hire him.

Not because of his coaching prowess — but because he's black.

"No, I've never even seen an offer from a major college," he said in a recent Associated Press interview. "I don't care how excellent their training is or what kind of record the black coach has and the black college has, there are very few major colleges that are going to consider the black coach for the position."

He notes there are no black head basketball coaches in the Atlantic Coast Conference, the Big 10 or the Southeastern Conference, and only one in the Pac 10. New Mexico State's Weldon Drew is black, and so is Nolan Richardson of the National Invitational Tournament champion Tulsa Hurricane.

But how many black basketball coaches can you name?

To be fair, Gaines noted there are other reasons besides discrimination to account for the paucity of black coaches. One of the biggest problems, he said, is many black athletes don't finish school and don't have a college degree.

Gaines does, by the way. In fact, he has a master's degree in physical education from Columbia University in New York.

Part of the problem, he added, is he hasn't applied for too many head coaching jobs. The major colleges haven't offered him the job, and he hasn't gone looking for them.

But, he maintains, a lot of the vacancies are filled before the exiting coach is out the door.

He's a good coach, for sure — his teams have won seven Central Intercollegiate Conference championships, one National Association of Intercollegiate Athletic (NAIA) championship, been to the NAIA playoffs several times and qualified for the Kansas City National tournament several times, which ain't too shabby for a Division II school.

And he's coached players like Earl "The Pearl" Monroe, Carlos Terry and Cleo Hill.

He built his teams with black players from the New York playgrounds and ghettos (he did a lot of his recruiting while he was working on his master's, he said in the interview).

While Gaines says he's not bitter about not being hired at a big school, I sort of sense he really is. And a lot of what the man says has a basis of fact. I don't think it's coincidence there are so few black coaches in so many sports.

What to do about it? I don't know — wait, I guess. We've had organized sports for about 100 years, and blacks have been allowed to play in the white leagues only about half that.

Heck, maybe a lot of black athletes never become coaches because they're too good at playing. Dave Winfield, for instance, is the highest paid player in pro baseball, and he's black.

Maybe it's like the old saying: "Those who can, do, and those who can't, coach."

April Fool(s)

April First is the day where everyone plays tricks on other folks — because it's legal.

It's also legal to start fishing at Bonito Lake, provided you have a 1981-82 fishing license, which you can buy just about anywhere.

I went up there last year and had a good time, but man, there were a lot of fishing-types up there at 6 a.m. (which is when you can start).

It was crazy — there everyone was, waiting for 6 a.m. Then a horn sounded when it was time, and blip! About 100 miles of monofilament snaked into the water simultaneously.

And I swear, the lake rose six inches from all the sinkers and hooks hitting the water together.

A day to remember
March 27, 1947.

A guy from Harvard named Tommy Rodgers won the 155 pound title in the collegiate boxing tournament with a second round technical knockout over Somersby Dowst (who?) of New Hampshire.

Rodgers pounded Dowst to the canvas twice in the second round, both times for a nine count.

Why is this so remarkable?

Tommy Rodgers had only one arm.

SOLAR FACTS

ISOLATED-GAIN PASSIVE HEATING

Previous Sun Facts columns have discussed direct-gain and indirect-gain systems for passive solar heating. This week's column will discuss a third approach to passive heating—the isolated-gain system.

Isolated-gain systems are so named because solar radiation enters a collector space that is physically isolated from the area to be heated. This isolation provides two major advantages: (1) heat does not have to be drawn from the system unless it is needed, and (2) a building itself does not have to be facing south in order to take advantage of the sun's rays.

Isolated-gain systems work on the principle that warm air rises and cold air falls, although many systems use simple fans to enhance natural movement of air. In every case, an isolated-gain system has two major components—a flatplate solar collector and a heat storage area.

The collector space is usually a subterranean area covered by south-facing glass, with a dark metal absorption plate behind the glass.

As the sun's rays enter the collector space, the heat is absorbed by the plate, and the air above the collector plate is warmed. This warmed air flows upward into a rockbed storage area located underneath the interior living space of the building. Here, the heat is stored and can be drawn for interior use through the control of floor registers.

Most isolated-gain systems also include return-air ducts. As the warmed air rises into a room through the floor registers, the cooler air in the room sinks into the return ducts placed near floor level. This cooler air is directed back down into the collector space, where the heating process begins anew. Because of this looping movement of air, isolated-gain systems are often referred to as convective loop systems.

As mentioned previously, isolated-gain systems are extremely useful for buildings with limited or no southern exposure, since only the isolated collector need face south.

In addition, convective loop systems can be used to heat water instead of air, and are often used for solar hot water-heating systems, which will be discussed in a later column.

To learn more about isolated-gain systems, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to:

I-n-s-i-d-e the Outdoors

by Gary Dollahon

"Ahhh, I've still got the touch." Just like all the other fishermen in this state, my blood has been stirred by the warm, spring-like weather we have been experiencing in this area.

In fact, last Sunday and Monday were so pretty that I took Tuesday off so I could stay home and do some much needed work on my boat. So, I backed my truck up to it, hooked on, and pulled it out into my drive.

A half-hour later, the wind was blowing out of the west at almost 50 miles per hour. It brought back pleasant memories of all my previous boating trips. Then, when I thought of past fishing trips to Ute, I understand the wind got-up to 100 miles per hour or so over that way.

But the joke was really on the wind that day; I wasn't going fishing at all. So, when I backed my boat back in that evening and disconnected, the wind calmed to a breeze. Soon though, with just a little more practice, I'll be able to just "think" fishing and make the wind blow.

Speaking of fishing, I'd like to remind all of you anglers' about the New Mexico Department of Game and Fish's "Fishing Award" program.

Any of you lucky enough to land a below listed species of fish of at least the indicated minimum size will be eligible for a State "Fishing Award Certificate."

Largemouth bass, 20 inches; smallmouth bass, 14 inches; crappie, 14 inches; bluegill, 9 inches; walleye, 26 inches; channel catfish, 24 inches; flathead catfish, 36 inches; whitebass, 15 inches; Northern pike, 38 inches; yellow (ring) perch, 12 inches; rainbow trout, 20 inches; brown trout, 20 inches; cutthroat trout, 15 inches; and brook trout, 14 inches.

Anyone may enter the award program and any fish legally taken in New Mexico will be considered, provided it meets or exceeds the minimum sizes.

A witness is needed to verify the catch and it may be the person who weighs the fish if different than the person entering. Weigh the fish and get both length and girth measurements.

Fish taken in prior seasons may be entered provided there is enough evidence (photos, witnesses, et cetera) to substantiate the claim.

Applications for these awards can be obtained at any Game and Fish Office. Completed applications should be sent to the New Mexico Department of Game and Fish, State Capitol, Santa Fe, New Mexico 87501. Accompany the application with a photo of the fish if possible.

Those of you who qualify will receive an 8 1/2 x 11 inch gold trimmed certificate in recognition of your outstanding achievement in catching a trophy fish in the waters of New Mexico. It will state your name, and size and weight of your fish.

Meanwhile, I'll stay away from my boat for awhile so you can have some windless days to go in quest of your trophy fish. Good luck!

Happy New Year!

Wait, before you laugh, it is a new year if you're a fisherman. April 1 is the beginning of a new license year in New Mexico, and your current 1980-81 fishing license expires at midnight, March 31.

The new 1981-82 fishing licenses are being delivered to license vendors this week and will be on sale soon. The good news about all this is license fees have not gone up. They are the same as last year.

Resident fishing licenses with trout validations are $11.50, and general hunting and fishing licenses with trout validations are still $25. For warm water fishermen, resident licenses without trout validations are $7.50, and general hunting and fishing licenses without trout validations are $21. Resident Junior-Senior fishing licenses for kids 12 and 13, and adults 65 and over, are $3.25 with a trout validation and $1.25 without.

If you want to fish between now and midnight, March 31, you must have in your possession your current 1980-81 fishing license. Once you purchase a new license, it will be valid only from April 1, 1981 to March 31, 1982. Also, children under 12 years of age who are residents of New Mexico do not need a fishing license, but are entitled to only half the bag limit of fish.

New hunting and trapping licenses will also be available at Game Department offices and license vendors, however special hunt applications will not be available until mid-April. Big game proclamations listing season dates, bag limits, etc., will also not be available until mid-April.

At the last meeting of the State Game Commission, a new regulation was adopted that prohibits Game Department offices from accepting personal checks for special hunt applications or for the purchase of hunting and fishing licenses bought in person or by mail.

This means if you plan to buy a license at a Game Department office you must bring cash or a money order with you to do so. However, you may buy a license from any of the Department's license vendors and pay with a personal check, dependent upon their own store policies.

This new regulation was adopted to put an end to the Game Department's loss of revenue through bad checks. The Department is currently attempting to collect $18,000 in bad checks. Efforts to collect the outstanding funds, including enlisting the help of collection agencies, have not been effective. Consequently, the Game Commission decided to adopt this new regulation and accept only cashier's checks, certified checks or money orders, or cash for all special hunt applications and licenses sold through the area offices and State office in Santa Fe.

So, make it a happy new fishing season. Dig out that favorite rod, buy a new fishing license, and be ready to go on April 1.

Wilderness Wisdom

with Wayne Calloway

Dear Wayne — Having recently become interested in goose hunting, I would like to know what kind of gun and size shot is needed. Also, what might be the maximum distance for shooting at geese? Alan J., Louisiana

Dear Alan — The kind and action of a goose gun is pretty much a matter of personal preference, but most serious hunters will at least choose a 12 gauge capable of chambering 3 inch shells and equipped with a full choke barrel. Shot preference will most often be No. 4 or No. 2 in a 3 inch magnum shell.

I suppose the question of maximum shooting range is one which can cause considerable debate among hunters, but shots beyond 60 yards are risky from the standpoint of cripples and misses. Even this distance is considered excessive by many veterans. The heavy plumage of geese make shot penetration difficult at extreme ranges. Without question, most geese are brought down at ranges less than 50 yards.

Farm outlook bigger, fewer

New Mexico will have fewer and larger farms with increased economic vulnerability in the coming years, said Bob Coppedge, Extension economist for New Mexico State University.

If past trends continue, fewer farms will increasingly dominate food production. United States Department of Agriculture policies and programs have encouraged this pattern, Coppedge said.

"Agriculture and the food system is at a crossroads today," the economist said. "What type of agriculture we want in the future will be determined in part by what actions we take today."

Larger farms are not necessarily the most efficient economically, Coppedge said. "In fact, if it wasn't for this country's tax, credit, research and commodity policies, we would probably have far fewer large farms today," Coppedge said. "Economics and social pressures may be strong enough now to slow the trend toward large farms."

Farms today are more specialized and capital intensive — and more in debt, Coppedge said. This increases the vulnerability of farmers to even mild production or market fluctuations, says Coppedge.

Continued trends to larger, more specialized farm units will increase this instability. "We need to reevaluate agricultural policies and programs at the national level if we want to change this trend," Coppedge said.

BY DANNIE STORM

"The First Spring Day"

Somewhere once pointed out something that we here in the Land of the Pinon and Pine have known for a long time.

And that is that the first day of spring is one thing and the first spring day is another. The first day of spring is always right around the twentieth of March. At this time the snow can be flying and the north wind blowing a blizzard, the fields in their winter dun and amber colors, and the fruit and leaf buds still deep locked in their winter covering.

Sometimes there can be a month to six weeks — in rare seasons — between the first day of spring and what you would call the first spring-like day.

This time there was only a two-day interlude between these two days. On the twentieth it was cold and cloudy with a blast of wind first out of the north and then the west — not very springy looking.

Then on the twenty second, the world was awakened to a mild and balmy day, and all the world was still, allowing the bird songs to be clearly heard echoing near by and up and down the vale, and over to each hillside.

By mid morning you noticed that the purple clematis had put out leaf shoots, and out in the yard here was the first bloom of a blossom pride of desert, foothills and mountain — the purple wild verberna.

All morning, the troubador of spring, the robin, was singing his cheerful special songs of spring time. The apricot, up to this day very cautious, now hurried out with all its blooms, so that by mid day the tree was all decorated in flowers of crystal white, pearly-pink, and silvery glow — as they caught the colors from the earth and sky and blended them together, with their own.

Then, through the warm still air came one of the most welcome sounds of the year, the calm, soft call of the turtle dove, gentle and melodious — with a special power of reaching you from hillside, the river trees, or over the mountain fields — ever so clearly so that the notes seem right close by.

The song of the dove is a true voice of the spring.

The Blossom Parade

The gentle breeze from down the valley today on the twenty-sixth, carries the perfume of the apricot, early plum, and peach as the blossom parade, impatient at the late arrival of spring, lost no time in getting underway. The blossom aromas are blended on the balmy air with the incense of the rapidly-opening buds of the willow and cottonwood trees, always a cheerful message. Up from the warm ground comes the smell of the rapidly growing new grass like a fond benediction from Mother Earth.

The blooming of the fruit blooms will not be as separated this year as in most. That is, they will bloom more all together, on account — as we say — of the lateness of the spring.

Mostly there is quite an interval between the blooming of the apricot, plum, peach, cherry, pear, and apple. There will be a space this time between the different bloomings, as always, and yet not as long.

All in all, it seems as if the fruit will have a good chance this year. And there is feeling all in the air of a joyful welcome to the spring, and a thankfulness to Our Lord for bringing us the season of renewed life once again.

Pruning and planting tips for home orchard

The first few years of a fruit tree's life in the home garden are critical.

With care, including proper cultivation, fertilization and pruning, the fruit tree will come to bearing age and provide delicious fruit for the family's table, said Esteban Herrera, Extension horticulturist at New Mexico State University.

The best time to plant fruit trees is early spring, about a month before the average last frost date in the area. The trees should be vigorous one-year-olds. Older trees are more difficult to transplant and not easy to train to the desired form.

Fruit trees should be cultivated or mulched for several years when young to eliminate competition from weeds or grass. After trees are well established the mulching can be continued, or they may be grown with lawn around them, but it should be mowed weekly.

If trees are in a lawn area, it is advisable to maintain a much for two to three feet around the trunk to reduce competition with the grass and make mowing easier.

Fruit trees need to be fertilized each spring just before growth starts. Apply about one-half to one cup of a nitrogen fertilizer (such as ammonium sulfate) per tree per year of age.

Fruit trees must be pruned regularly to develop strong framework branches to support the crop. Pruning should be done each year just before growth starts.

During the first few years after planting, select several main scaffold branches on the trunk. Select branches with wide angles which will be strong.

Leave six to eight inches vertical distance between adjacent branches, and have them evenly spaced around the trunk. As the tree approaches bearing age, remove any damaged branches.

The tree must be thinned out so light penetrates to the leaves and fruit, and to allow thorough spraying to control insects and diseases.

Wilderness Wisdom

with Wayne Calloway

Thousands of people are turning back to wood as their primary heat source because of rapidly escalating fuel costs. With the advent of more efficient stoves, wood makes sense to more and more people. Along with this, many people are taking to the woods to cut their own, some for the first time. Chainsaws are, of course, a prime instrument for harvesting wood. And they are dangerous.

Most safety rules for chainsaw use are common sense judgments, but some aren't so obvious, and the obvious ones are often ignored. Keep in mind that the injuries which can result from a chainsaw are far too severe to risk shortcuts.

The following rules will go a long way toward safe cutting. There are others you can add, I'm sure.

1. Always following the manufacturers' instructions for operating the saw. Insure it is mechanically sound and equipped with a sharp chain. A dull chain stresses the saw, tires you out, and is very inefficient.
2. Use safety headgear and footwear. Wear snug fitting gloves and clothing.
3. Keep assistants and bystanders at a safe distance.
4. Be sure you have a clear place to work. Pick a safe exit if it becomes necessary to avoid a falling tree or limb.
5. Do not walk with a running saw.

SANTA FE — Forget that special session of the Legislature which went into session a Sunday or two back.

That baby isn't important any more. Let's talk instead about the special session still to come — the one the Governor expects to convene sometime this fall. That's the one that's really going to matter.

It will be redistricting the state, both for Congressional and for legislative elections.

Shades of Gene Lusk, and shades of Gene Cline! Maybe even shades of Gordon Melody of old!

They were all one-time legislators who knew how to perform the magic function of drawing lines on a map in such a way as to comply with laws, yet give one's own personal political party the better of things.

We may all wish they were around before this year is out.

Setting up such districts while staying within the limits of the law is no easy matter.

The famous "one man-one vote" decision of the United States Supreme Court made the task much more difficult by requiring that such districts contain almost exactly the same number of residents, while still following some more or less sensible manner of dividing the territory, such as precinct and county boundary lines.

Precincts can be relatively easily redefined, but counties can't; we just created the first such new division in New Mexico in more than 30 years.

Just take that division we are expecting to make into three Congressional districts as an example.

If the state has the official number of 1,299,968 residents, as the Census Bureau says we do, each district we create should have something very close to 433,323 New Mexicans in it.

Some maintain that in a state as big as ours it should be possible to accomplish that without breaking any county into parts; and that we should pay some mind, if possible, to any vague "communities of interest" which occur in various parts of the state. Some would like to try for some sort of ethnic or racial balance as well.

Does that sound complicated enough for you?

It's probably just as well that the bill Dan Berry had in on this subject during the regular legislative session didn't pass.

Such a session has enough on its plate without the members having to worry about this kind of problem. That's why the Governor seems intent on holding a totally separate legislative session for this purpose alone.

But the Congressional problem is simple compared to redistricting the Senate and the House of Representatives. In those cases, after all, it is the very people most affected who are making the recommendations — and to ask for objective judgment in that case is to hope for the miraculous.

If you think certain legislators demonstrated some intransigence this past session, when their favorite bills were being criticized by others, just wait till you see and hear those same folks on the subject of their legislative districts.

There will be blood in the streets over this matter.

The early 1981 regular legislative session could be described as one when many lawmakers seemed intent on proving that "my Daddy can beat up your Daddy."

The late 1981 special session will be one in which the theme is more likely to be "nobody's gonna take away my marbles."

Stick around. The fighting will be fun.

Sense & Nonsense

U.S. Sen. Pete Domenici

Think about copper for a moment. Webster's dictionary defines it as a "ductile, malleable, reddish-brown metallic that is an excellent conductor of heat and electricity," but it is much more than that.

Think again, because copper has historically been fundamental to this nation's success and expansion. Copper settled the West, built up the east, and was primarily responsible for moving us into the modern age of communication. While stories of the gold rushes and silver strikes flash on the pages of our children's history books, it was the stabilizing influence of copper which played the major role of settling the West and becoming its first permanent industry.

Copper is responsible for the wiring which lights your home, cooks your food, and is a major component of indoor plumbing pipes. Without copper as an inexpensive conductor of electricity, we would not have advanced to the modern technological prosperity that we enjoy today.

But this nation's copper industry is in deep trouble. Government regulations put industry leaders in the position where they can't make a profit, they can't comply with the laws, they can't borrow the money, and so closures are beginning.

As chairman of the Senate Copper Caucus, I am deeply concerned about the current situation in the copper industry and have been meeting with industry and labor leaders to discuss possible initiatives and legislative solutions. On March 5, these representatives presented an industry-wide paper outlining their suggestions for proposed legislation which would amend the Clean Air Act to revitalize the copper industry.

While not all of the amendments to the Clean Air Act will be accepted, this paper starts the positive dialogue that we need between industry, environmental groups, and legislators, to begin review of the present Act. Reasonable changes can be made that will allow these smelters to become competitive with foreign copper producers, some of which have little or no environmental controls on their smelters.

Suggestions by the industry representatives included giving more authority to the states in monitoring emissions from plants within their state boundaries. While the smelters would still have to comply with national air quality standards, the states, which are better equipped to implement these air quality standards, could do a much more efficient job without federal government interference. Other suggestions included tax relief plans for the industry which will be presented at a later meeting.

While it is necessary to change existing laws to revitalize the ailing copper industry, it is also imperative that industry itself works to correct some of its problems within to help it become more competitive in world markets. I am happy to report that one company, Kennecott Corporation, is doing just that by entering into a partnership with Mitsubishi Corporation of Japan. By combining their capital investment in a partnership, the two corporations will share in the copper produced after modernization is completed in the Chino copper mining and processing facilities near Silver City. When completed, copper production at Chino is expected to increase from the present 65,000 tons, to 110,000 tons a year.

Chino's aging equipment has kept maintenance costs high while new environmental regulations cut into the profits which would otherwise have gone into modernization. By modernizing, Kennecott will be taking the first step toward making it the nation's lowest cost copper producer.

While the problems of the copper industry will not be solved overnight, these examples are at least a start in the right direction. As one copper official told me, our present problems have not occurred because this nation lacks the technical ability, knowhow, or the will to apply the most modern technology, but rather is caused by the impact of present national policies.

editorial

The summer of 1981 in Ruidoso will probably go down in history as the year we all suffered from growing pains.

Passage of the $1.67 million bond issue last Tuesday, coupled with earlier voter approval of $1.5 million in sewer expansion bonds will cause much temporary inconvenience to our summer visitors, not to mention our permanent residents.

However the long range benefits will more than make up for the inconvenience caused by upgrading some 46 miles of village streets, getting the lines laid to connect to the new Regional Wastewater System and whatever disruption in traffic is caused by installation of water transmission lines.

One of the most important recent developments in Ruidoso, however, was the discovery that the new Hollywood Well test pumped 701 gallons-per-minute for hours. With some adjusting in valves controlling the flow of water from this well, most of the village east of Carrizo Hill can utilize this water. In essence, this gives us one million gallons of water a day we didn't have before that new well was drilled.

Should the other five wells the village proposes to drill produce 500 gallons-per-minute, total, that'd be another 720,000 gallons a day we don't have now

We congratulate the village trustees on carrying on, in the face of strongly voiced objections, to drill water wells. After all 1.7 million gallons of well water daily, coupled with river sources, should temporarily forestall any water shortage problems that could interfere with the orderly growth and development of Ruidoso, one of the state's fastest growing communities. — CD

WHO'LL BE OUR DA?

Two attorneys in the 12th Judicial District ... Steve Sanders, who's acting as though he's the District Attorney ... and James Weldon, who's acting as though he thinks he should be the DA ... are fixing to tangle in court come June 29-30, to decide just who's our DA.

Seems ... following the November general election ... that Sanders claims he's the winner by 296 votes ... with Weldon claiming more'n enough write-in votes ... which he says are clearly to be counted as his ... to elect him as DA.

Now ... bearing in mind both Sanders and Weldon are Democrats ... and the state Canvassing Board, Governor King, Secretary of State Shirley Hooper and Dan Sosa, a Supreme Court Justice, are all Democrats ... it'd appear as though Weldon's not the Democrat Sanders is ... at least in the eyes of that Canvassing Board ... who, natch, eyed things completely sans prejudice, 'cause there weren't no Republican to rule against.

Now there's one interesting development in this upcoming hassle ... Weldon says Sander's pay should be put into cold storage ... and if'n Weldon wins the election in court, then it should be his ... which'd leave Sanders serving at DA six months for nothing ... and garnering Weldon six month's pay for which he did nothing ... and you can safely wager Sanders'll take as dim a view of that revolting development as Weldon ... take a joyful view ... in case you like sure thing wagers.

Course Sanders'll be hollering that Weldon's 11th hour entry into the DA fray caused confusion ... with Sanders likely to learn that things as happens in politics is likely to happen ... and, if'n Sanders ultimately isn't DA ... then he'll learn that just because a candidate hasn't an opponent on the ballot, doesn't mean he's automatically elected ... a development David King can assure him happens.

Anyhow ... it do seem likely that this court case'll make some headlines ... and give us a DA ... duly elected, that is ... instead a one who claims he's elected ... 'cause the Canvassing Board said so.

And it's for sure someone's gonna be mad at the outcome ... no?

WIN SOME, LOSE SOME

Sure been interesting news pouring out of the nation's capitol ... especially as to the outcome of some hassles ... for instance ...

The Republican Senate passed a bill blocking a milk price support increase ... giving President Reagan his first victory in his efforts to cut the budget ... and now it's up to the Democrats who hold the votes in the House ... who'll probably show him that just because the GOPers in the Senate agree with him, he doesn't have to think the Democrats in the House will ... which might just happen.

Anyhow, Reagan's first victory must have been sweet ... even if it tasted like milk ... and, now, if the House okays this milk deal, then Ronnie can do something for the honey producers ... and that'd be one big step to turn these US of A into a land of milk and honey ... yes?

Then there was Representative Joe Skeen who sorta got a lesson in how Democrats, as has been around the House a long time, react to proposals by freshmen Republicans who espouse the cause of cutting down on the money House members has available to hire staffers. Yup, those Dems up and showed GOPer Skeen that it ain't talk as gets budget cuts through ... it's votes ... which should give Joe the idea he's gotta whomp up some clout before he starts clouting budgets.

Course, there's the little struggle going on between Alexander Haig, Secretary of State, and George Bush, Vice President, over who'll be the head honcho to decide who does which to whom during a crisis ... and whom'll do which to who if'n some crises arise.

But, this infighting, before there's fighting out somewhere that involves us, might get things settled in time for someone to handle any situations as might develop into crises ... which might not be a bad idea ... considerin' weuns might be the ones in the middle.

So that's one win ... one loss ... and one situation still developing ... which is better'n some weeks as happens in Washington.

BRIEF BIT: There's a possibility Governor King's third legislative session of 1981'll go off smoothly ... but don't bet your shirt on it ... CD

SALUTE TO CHAMBER MEMBERS

This is a regular feature in the Monday edition of this newspaper to introduce the members of the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce

ALTO SKI SHOP, located at the turnoff to the ski areas, has been owned by Jodee and Don Damron, center and right, since October, 1980, which is when the shop joined the chamber. Manager is Reeves McGuire, left, who said Alto Ski Shop "provides skis rentals and accessories to accommodate renters." Not pictured is assistant manager Debbie Runnels. Alto Ski Shop features Yamaha and Dynastar skis with Geze step-in bindings. Hours are 7 a.m. to 6 p.m., daily.

"We Open In New Haven," an original musical-comedy, will premiere Tuesday, March 31 on Showtime. The 90-minute special provides a keyhole look at the making of a Broadway show, and stars Harvey Lembeck. The program also showcases the performances of 26 students from Lembeck's comedy workshop.

It's Showtime in New Haven

John Ritter

"I've been dreaming about this for a long time," said Mr. Lembeck. "There is so much talent in our business that really doesn't get the chance they deserve. This is my opportunity to present them. It's really a new faces review. They're the new stars—everybody in the show studies with me in my comedy workshop. All the names are real. A lot of the play is real life. People have never seen how a Broadway show is actually done. We let the audience see what goes into making that end result. That's what this show is all about and what I'm selling is new young faces. That's the basis of the show."

Lembeck also explains the genesis of the program. "Mine is the birth of a Broadway review," Lembeck offered. "We go from the last day of auditions and pick the remaining people for the show. I play a very strong and gentle director of our show. You see what a director goes through putting together a show. You play God. The final decision is yours and the show rises and falls on you."

Harvey is seemingly ecstatic about the content of 'We Open in New Haven' as well. "The sketches I do in this show I could never do on TV—it's heaven! In essence we poke fun at all the sacred cows, motherhood, the opera—we sing an opera about fish. It's delicious! Also, religion for the sake of money, the women's movement—that's a hysterical scene—and we poke fun at all those commercials that you see. It's beautiful," Harvey exclaimed.

Using the facilities of cable TV is only the beginning for Lembeck's show. "This was the first step to bringing it to Broadway, which I hope to do. Hopefully this is what opened the door for us," Lembeck remarked.

Harvey Lembeck himself has been a working actor for more than 40 years. He was a regular on the 'Phil Silvers Show' for five years, portraying Rocco Barbella. A renowned improvisational teacher for 15 years, students of Lembeck's Professional Comedy Workshop have included Penny Marshall, John Ritter and Robin Williams. 'We Open in New Haven' airs April 4, 8, 12, 16, 19, and 24, in addition to March 31.

Television Schedule For The Week Of March 30 through April 5

by Joey Sasso

CONFIDENTIAL REPORT During the week, John Aspinall presides over his highly successful London gambling establishment. But on weekends, the Englishman retreats to Howletts, an historic country estate with an atmosphere and purpose very different from his club. Aspinall brings to Howletts rare and endangered species of animals from all over the world, including gorillas. Aspinall and his group of gorillas are featured in the National Geographic special, "Gorilla," that probes the fragile fate of this threatened animal. Produced by the National Geographic Society and WQED-Pittsburgh with a continuing grant from Gulf Oil Corporation, the documentary airs on Wednesday, April 8 on most PBS stations. The hour-long special is produced by Barbara Jampel, and is hosted by E.G. Marshall.

TV BACKSTAGE Danny Thomas is having the last laugh on skeptics who predicted his series, "I'm A Big Girl Now," would be wiped out in the ratings because, as Danny puts it, "it doesn't jiggle, wiggle or giggle—just good family comedy." ABC TV has ordered another six segments of the show in which Danny stars with Diana Canova Catherine Bach, the leggy Daisy Duke of TV's "Dukes of Hazzard," is going through the saddest period of her life. Her dreams of a family and children have just been shattered. The 26-year-old beauty is heartbroken over the final collapse of her four-year marriage to David Shaw after their try at a reconciliation failed. "They seemed so happy to be back together," revealed a friend of the couple. "Both of them wanted to start a family as soon as possible. All that Cathy talked about was having David's baby. But now she never will. It appears their marriage is completely finished. So Cathy had to put away her dream of having a baby—a dream that meant so much to her." Only weeks before the final split, Catherine talked excitedly about her future with Shaw, the 36-year-old contractor son of actress Angela Lansbury. "I've wanted to be a mother ever since I met my husband," she said. "Now I want that more than ever. When David and I got married three months after our first meeting, I was so overcome thinking about the wonderful future and happy family we'd have, I passed out during the ceremony. I never lost that feeling about David or about having his children. Now it's just a matter of time."

TV CLOSEUP Audry Landers finds her way into J.R. Ewing's "Dallas" bedroom—and on her way to stardom—as Afton Cooper, sister of little Lucy's new hubby Mitch. The 5-foot-3-inch blonde sexpot will be giving the show's other diminutive star, Charlene Tilton, a run for the money as the tiny terror of "Dallas." "This is a major opportunity for me," says the 23-year-old actress. "To be seen by millions all over the world in one of the world's most popular television shows is a dream come true for me. It can only mean good things for my career in the future." The break also means that Audry is catching up with her gorgeous little sister, Judy, who stars in "B.J. and the Bear" after making her television debut as co-star on "Vegas." "Our mom is our biggest fan," Audry says. "She enjoys our success, and is as excited as I am about 'Dallas'."
