NO. 43 IN OUR 36TH YEAR

RUIDOSO, LINCOLN COUNTY, NEW MEXICO 88345

MONDAY, OCTOBER 5, 1981

Aspencade Saturday was action filled

Figures on total registration on the 11th annual Aspencade Motorcycle Convention weren't made available to The News for today's paper, but the consensus of opinion of local people was "there were a lot of motorcycles here."

One of the major attractions of the convention was the hill climb at Eagle Creek Ski and Recreation Area. A large crowd watched the competition, the first climb held here. Details on this event appear elsewhere on this page.

Though the number of motorcycles in the parade was considerably less than in previous years, viewers saw some fancy motorcycles, including side cars and tricycles.

The appearance of the Victor McLagen Motor Corps, a precision motorcycle drill team of Los Angeles, California, was a parade highlight. These derring-do performers were roundly applauded as they displayed their skills in balancing and in the execution of intricate riding patterns.

The troop performed for an hour at the Chaparral Motor Hotel parking lot later Saturday afternoon. Again the crowd applauded the performance which was highlighted by balancing exhibitions, in some instances the performers were parallel to the ground, with their jackets just scraping on the paving as the motorcycles moved slowly.

Saturday afternoon the president of American Honda Motorcycle Company, T. Chino, presented an 1100 cc "Aspencade" Honda, valued at over $7,000, to Till Thompson, organizer of the motorcycle convention.

"Honda is presenting this motorcycle to Till," Chino said, "in recognition of his promotion of recreational motorcycle riding in this country. He has done as much to promote motorcycle riding in this country as any one person, perhaps more than any other person. Honda is proud to recognize his achievements and to present him with this 'Aspencade' Honda, our newest touring bike."

Photographs of the weekend Aspencade action appear in today's News, with other pictures to be run in Thursday's issue.

THE VICTOR MCLAGLEN Motor Corps, of Los Angeles, California, performed precision drill routines during the Aspencade parade and also at the Chaparral parking lot.

Gibson's float first in parade

A large crowd of enthusiastic spectators watched as a colorful spectacle of floats, motorcycles, kids on bicycles, skaters, bands, Shriners, beauty queens, cheerleaders, mounted riders, clowns, old cars, wagons, trucks, officials, and last of all — the jolly old elf in the red suit, who lives at the North Pole, moved down Sudderth in a two-hour procession, on a sometimes sunny, sometimes overcast, breezy Saturday morning, for the annual Aspencade Parade.

Gibson's Discount, picked by parade judges as the float best depicting the 1981 Aspencade theme, "Fall Fun in Ruidoso," was the first place float.

Ruidoso, Hondo Valley Hospital, with their comical characterization of the TV series, "Mash," was the second-place float, and Ruidoso Valley Paint Center float took third place.

The Khiva Shrine Club of Amarillo, Texas, whose bottom-wiggling Sultan tossed snakes (rubber ones, fortunately) at squealing females along the parade route, was the winning Shriners entry.

Winning bands, Class A, were: First place, Alamogordo Mid-High Pride; Second place, Ruidoso Warriors High School Band; and Third place, Tularosa

High School Band.

Class B winners were: First place, White Sands Missile Range School Band and Second place, White Mountain Middle School Band, Ruidoso.

GIBSON'S DISCOUNT, first place winning float, was judge's choice of float best depicting 1981 Aspencade theme, "Fall Fun in Ruidoso."

THE 1981 ASPENCADe MOTORCYCLE QUEEN is Arlene Denison of Boulder City, Nevada, who said "I'm 67 and have been riding motorcycles for 54 years." She rode her BMW 1000 solo to Aspencade. In 1979 she was named "Outstanding Female Rider" at Dayton, Florida, during the American Motorcycle Association's annual convention. "I ride my bike solo anywhere in the country," she said, "and do, because my husband stays home and works to provide the money."

ASPENCADe PARADE GRAND MARSHAL Wendell Chino, president of the Mescalero Apache Tribe, was attired in ceremonial regalia. At right is Benny Coulston, village trustee.

Any citizen who thinks they will qualify for assistance is encouraged to apply at the Welfare Office, Carrizozo, Wednesday at 10:30 a.m. Applications are taken on a first come, first serve basis.

THE FIRST ASPENCADe motorcycle hill climb attracted a large audience at the Eagle Creek Ski and Recreation Area, watching riding performances put on by contestants such as this unidentified participant.

CYD WRIGHT AND CHRIS LOPEZ were crowned queen and king at the Ruidoso High School homecoming Friday night before the football game with New Mexico Military Institute. Cyd is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Wright. Chris is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Lopez. Chris is the starting fullback on the football team while Cyd plays on the volleyball squad.

Sewer service nearing for Ponderosa Heights

Residents of the Ponderosa Heights area of Ruidoso are a step closer to receiving sewer service following Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) approval of a $1.25 million loan for the village.

Village manager Jim Hine and village attorney Lee Huckstep met with FmHA representatives Thursday in Ruidoso and were told the money will be forthcoming if the village meets outline conditions proscribed by the FmHA. "We have to come up with a like amount," said Hine, who stated that the village will issue revenue bonds to finance the project.

Hine noted that the Ponderosa Heights project is part of an overall wastewater system improvement plan which includes expansion of the main trunk line in the village (completed) and construction of the Biscuit Hill wastewater treatment plant.

The new plant is 70 percent completed, according to inspector Paul Hardeman of the United States Army Corps of Engineers. It is expected to begin operation in April or May of next year.

The FmHA loan for Ponderosa Heights should be finalized in January, Hine said, with construction to start shortly after.

In other news from village hall, Hine announced that he has accepted the resignation of Emergency Medical Services supervisor Bill Kennedy, effective September 30. Hine said that shift commanders Matt Jakusz and Rick Gustafson will henceforth serve as supervisors of EMS.

Woman's Club convention held here

La Junta Guest Ranch was the scene of the General Federation of Woman's Clubs (GFWC) district convention last week.

Members from Silver City, Las Cruces, Truth or Consequences, Alamogordo and Santa Fe were represented along with the host group from Ruidoso.

The organization, an international one, stresses community involvement in such areas as conservation, education, home-life, public affairs, international affairs and the arts.

One main emphasis of the group is free enterprise, according to Sue Ogden, state president. "Any local woman's club can become a member of the GFWC," Ogden said. For affiliation, they are required to participate in the six areas mentioned and must pay dues.

"This is the oldest and largest volunteer woman's organization in the world," Ogden said. There are 5,000 members in the United States and 12 million in the world, according to Ogden.

Auditions set for Backdoor Theatre play

Auditions to fill eight roles in the Agatha Christie play, "Mouse Trap," will begin at 8 p.m., Wednesday at the Backdoor Theatre in the Chaparral Motor Hotel, Ruidoso Downs.

The play is scheduled for a mid-November opening and rehearsals will begin immediately following cast selection.

For information on this production, contact Betty Bennett at 378-4936.

LINDA KUEHNE, district arts chairman and state creative arts chairman, displays a cradle and blanket, hand made by one of the General Federation of Woman's Clubs members.

Adolescents' problems aired at local meeting

BY BILLIE LARSON
Staff Writer/Photographer

In an informal exchange of information Wednesday, youth serving professionals agreed that youth services in the community are not adequate for the needs, but are divided as to the direction to be taken which will best support "these youngsters we are losing — youngsters who are beginning to fall between the cracks."

During the more than two hour meeting in the board room of the school administrative offices, counseling professionals, police, judicial, school, child welfare officials and concerned citizens voiced some of their concerns, and offered some solutions for families of adolescents who are in trouble.

Karen Tillman, representing Ruidoso Schools, and moderator of the meeting, said, "I can almost predict which kids are having problems."

"The kids who are beginning to skip school, whose grades are falling — it's almost as if they are waving a red flag — saying, hey, I'm having problems. I need some help. Can't we sit down and talk about it?"

In the absence of support from home, Tillman said, professionals feel an obligation to provide some kind of sounding board for the youths.

It is in ways to reach out to and communicate with families of adolescents in need of counseling that the group's differences came into play.

Tom Moore of the Department of Human Services said his agency, which is, in a sense, "a policeman, working without a badge, for children," has a "weapon" they can use in preventing delinquency. His suggestion of "coming down on them (parents), legally," brought sharp disagreement from John Cupp, a village employee, and "concerned citizen."

It is the "after the fact" agency that "scars the hell out of parents," Cupp said. "I am firmly convinced that you don't start with parents and work down."

"As I understand it, our main goal is to get the community involved in finding something for kids to do to keep them out of trouble," Cupp said. He favors the idea of a youth center "where kids could plan their own activities."

Not a new idea, according to Ruidoso Highschool counselor, James Sanchez, who said plans for a youth center have always "got bogged down in petty bickering."

Cupp thinks a youth center would "answer the parents' comments that there is nothing for kids to do — and there isn't."

Children's probation officer Jane Parnell said that one of the comments she frequently hears from parents is that "there is nothing for kids to do." Parnell agreed with Cupp that "the courts should be the last resort."

Parnell said a "jury by peers," for minor offenders, is being tried in Clovis. The program, authorized by a district judge has a panel of trained juveniles setting penalties for minor offenses such as truancy, shoplifting, etc. "Kids and parents sign a contract that they will abide by the decision handed down by the juvenile jury," she said. Punishment might be policing the school grounds, counseling or erasing blackboards.

ABSORBED IN THE DISCUSSION of adolescents' problems, at a counseling meeting here Wednesday were, from the left, Agatha Marin, Mesalero Juvenile Court, and Sandra Taylor, counselor representing the Ruidoso School District.

Parnell said. John Carver of the District Attorney's office, who said he was at the meeting as an "administrator, not an attorney," questioned the effectiveness of peer pressure.

"Kids do not live on an island," he said. Without parent participation Carver thinks such a plan would have limited success.

Dale McClesky, pastor of the Ruidoso Downs First Baptist Church, also had reservations about influences outside the family.

"Peer pressure, just by nature, seems to go to the bad," he said.

While he believes a juvenile jury might exercise some positive peer group pressure, Jim Rawhouser, Mesalero Counseling Center director, supports a counseling program in which a systematic building of trust is established with the adolescent.

JIM RAWHOUSER, Mesalero Counseling Center director, listens intently to input at counseling meeting.

"If you sit an adolescent down in a counseling situation, they don't talk," Rawhouser said. "You take the youth out of school, take them for a drive or a horseback ride, establish a good rapport, discuss their problems, using rap," he said. After about six sessions, Rawhouser said he gets back with their families to talk about the adolescent's problems. After the initial visit, he said he visits the juvenile's home once a week.

Rawhouser said the University of New Mexico Medical School's state funded model program for first offenders, which is half educational, half counseling, requires parents to attend the seven sessions with their adolescent children.

"With federal funding drying up," Tillman wonders if state funding for a youth-serving program will be available. "The bottom line is always — where is the money coming from?" she said.

Tom Harper, Lincoln County Counseling Center director, while admitting their funding could well dry up in several years, — "We got on board too late for funding," — said the center is "willing to do some free counseling to get something started in the community" in the nature of "preventative services."

Although the center's services are "based on the ability to pay," Harper said, "we can justify our time." Unlike the probation office, he said, "who can say, 'you will go,' our services are voluntary. We don't want to force our services on anyone."

Others at the meeting expressed "mixed emotions" regarding the voluntary as opposed to the "hook" or forced counseling situation.

One of the group asked about "a list of people for kids to talk to." Another suggested information dissemination — assemblies to let kids know what can happen to them.

Allen Stelger, whose Charlee Care Center is just getting started, stopped by the meeting "to find out how many support systems I have."

Rather than hire a city recreation youth coordinator, as someone suggested, Sandy Gladden, high school diagnostician, thinks, "we're got to work with what we've got" to give community youths the "attention" they are silently signaling for.

"I think maybe service clubs are the way to go. They have just been so responsive helping our kids in individual ways," Gladden said.

If there was some disagreement on how to best go about providing constructive assistance to the youth of the community, the meeting ended on an optimistic note. Mike Gladden, White Mountain Elementary School principal, said he felt "encouraged" by "the possibilities" brought out in the meeting.

JOHN CUPP, "concerned citizen," favors youth center for community's young people.

Rain slows down offense in 7-0 Ruidoso win

Mother Nature made herself very visible in Ruidoso High School's 7-0 homecoming victory over visiting New Mexico Military Institute (NMMI) Friday night.

The Warriors, now 5-0 on the season, were hurt by turnovers as rain steadily fell on the field. Ruidoso lost the ball twice on fumbles while the winless visitors did not lose a fumble.

"Oh yea, the rain definitely was a factor in slowing our offense down," Ruidoso head coach Darrel Stierwalt said. "We run the type of offense that relies on quickness and good footing and we just weren't able to get it against the Institute."

"On the other hand the Institute wasn't as affected in its offensive blocking by the bad footing. It's offensive linemen go more to screen blocking basically designed to protect the offensive backs."

The Warriors scored the only touchdown of the game with 3:39 remaining in the opening quarter. After getting the ball on the NMMI 48 it took three plays for the Warriors to move the ball to the 38. From there quarterback Billy Woodul went back to pass and found split end Darin Smith near the sideline at the 15. Smith then ran for the score. Lon Nunley then kicked the extra point and Ruidoso had a 7-0 advantage that held up for the rest of the game.

Nunley proved again why he is considered to be one of the best defensive players in the state as he recovered two fumbles and intercepted a third quarter pass when the Colts were threatening at the Warrior 35.

NMMI's biggest threat came with just seconds left in the first quarter. The Colts had driven to the Ruidoso 4 and had a first down and goal to go.

However the Warrior defense stiffened and held the visitors, three times on running plays and once on a pass which was knocked down in the end zone. After that NMMI didn't penetrate the Warrior 30.

Ruidoso penetrated the Colt 30 twice in the second quarter but once was stopped by a fumble and another time on downs.

The Warriors, who gained 180 yards total offense to 149 for the losers, moved the ball fairly well most of the contest. But the rain, which from the second quarter on came down hard most of the time, prevented speedy Warrior tailback Grady Williamson from gaining much yardage.

Linebacker Byron Wright and defensive end Dariush Rad again stood out on defense for Ruidoso. The visitors only had 15 yards passing.

GRADY WILLIAMSON

"We were disappointed that we weren't able to score more than we did against NMMI," said Stierwalt. "However the sloppy footing was a main cause of that."

Ruidoso had 13 first downs to nine for the losers. Woodul completed two of eight passes for 54 yards, most of them coming on the touchdown bomb to Smith. Billy passed for 343 yards in his first two games but missed the Dexter game with a knee sprain and hasn't fully recovered his timing yet.

Ruidoso opens district 3-AAA play Friday against host Cobre and Stierwalt isn't completely pleased with the team's progress.

"We probably played our best game against Socorro (a 21-12 victory) in the second game," Stierwalt said. Against the kids probably knew they didn't have a good record and didn't play up to their potential.

Dexter they weren't that good and we should have played better. Against NMMI

"We have to treat every game like it was playing the best team in the state," he said. "Right now we're a good team. We can be a great team."

NOTES-In other games involving 3-AAA teams Silver City smashed Aztec 31-7, Cobre belted Morenci, Arizona, 30-14, Tularosa edged Socorro 15-12 and Deming lost to Round Valley, Arizona, 34-0. In a big 4-A battle New Mexico's top-ranked 4-A school, Clovis, fell to Plainview, Texas, 10-0.

SPORTS

Around Sports

with Gary Brown

Watching the major-league baseball races in the "second-half" season has been very interesting.

All four division races have been extremely tight, particularly those in the National League's Eastern Division and the American League's Eastern Division. And some of the contending teams have not been traditional challengers for division titles so there has been some sentimental rooting for the "underdog" or "darkhorse".

This column is being written before the final weekend of the regular season so I don't know who the second-half winners will be. However, I think the Yankees, first-half winners of the AL's Eastern Division, will survive the division and pennant playoffs and defeat the Phillies, first-half National League Eastern winners, in the World Series.

Although the Yankees are advancing in age they still have the solid professionals who can do the job when it counts the most.

Reggie Jackson is the prime example of the All-Star who is at his best in the playoffs. Dave Winfield adds a powerful bat and standout fielding to the Yankee line-up. New York's starting pitchers are outstanding and its bullpen is probably the best in the game. Rich Gossage can come in from the bullpen and put down any potential rally with ease.

The Phillies are similar to the Yankees in that they have plenty of playoff experience. However, despite their powerful bats led by home run leader Mike Schmidt they fall a bit short in the overall pitching department. Steve Carlton is one of the best pitchers in the game but Philadelphia doesn't have the depth that New York does.

But regardless of how the playoffs and series come out the second-half season may have actually increased interest in cities where there were contending teams. Cities like Detroit, Chicago and San Francisco saw their teams become contenders after the so-called baseball experts had written them off before spring training, had even started.

Most of the major baseball owners do not take to changes eagerly or rapidly but it might be a good idea for the sports' "big wheels" to consider the possibility of two half-seasons from now on.

As long as there's no strike to cause fans to lose interest in baseball during the season, a two-half season would probably sustain interest in more cities than there would be under the traditional one-season concept.

Although this would involve more playoffs at the end of the season it wouldn't be any different that the playoffs the National Basketball Association and the National Hockey League currently have. The only people who would complain about the extra playoffs would be those fans who support traditional winning teams like the Yankees, Dodgers and Phillies. It would involve extra "risks" of losing for those teams. However, fan attendance in those towns is already high. Split-seasons and extra playoffs would aid the teams that are struggling win-wise and attendance-wise.

And that's something that would be good for all of baseball.

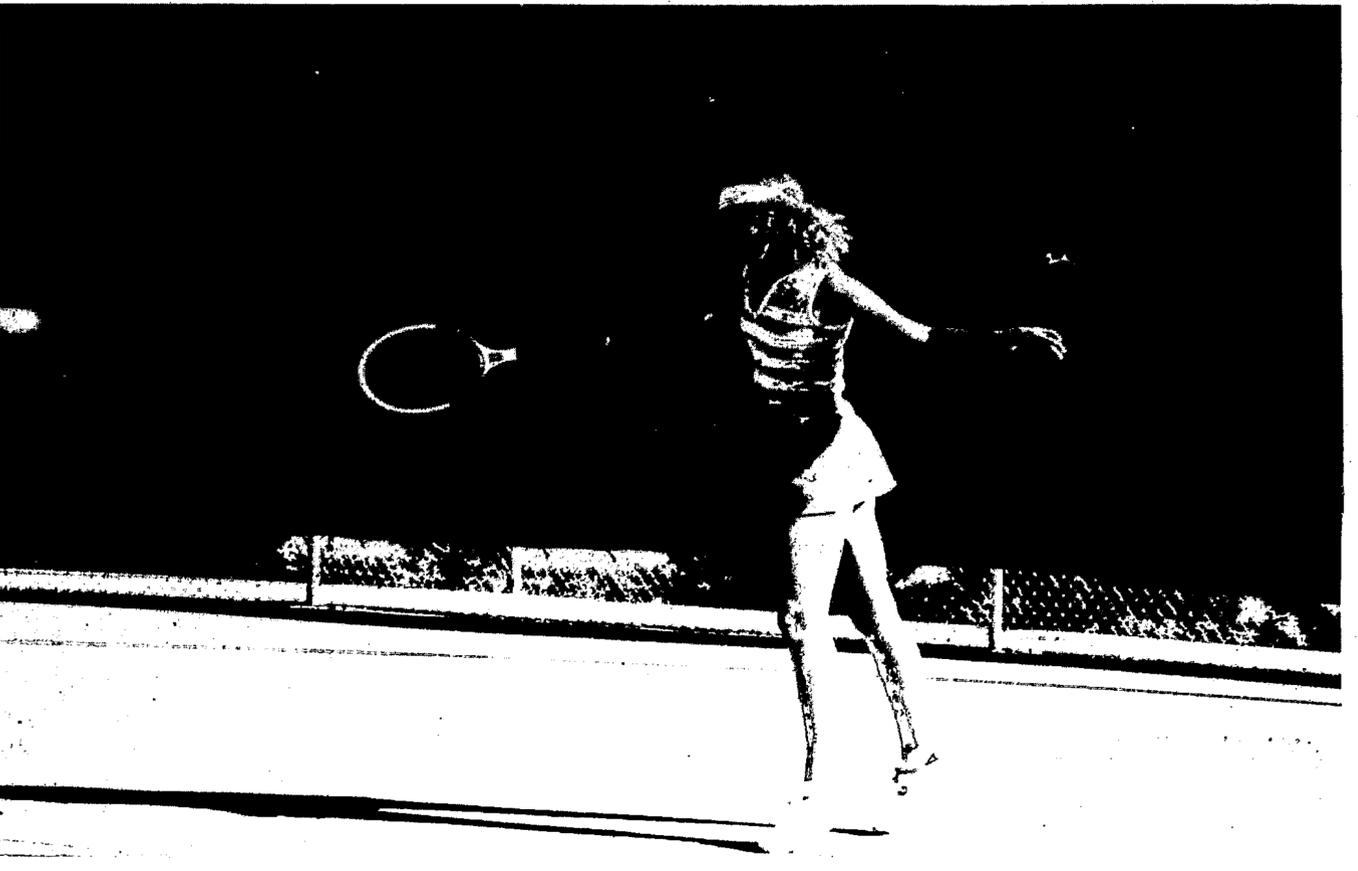

Bear and deer season is presently upon us and the Ruidoso area is big on both of these types of game.

I myself don't hunt that much but I'm still interested in the larger forms of wildlife in the area. In the three months I've been here I haven't seen one bear or deer. However, I'm told by News business manager and avid hunter Ky Scott that they do indeed exist in the area. Unfortunately the bears inhabiting the Lincoln County area are black bears, nothing like their feared and much respected cousins to the north, the half-ton grizzlies.

But a bear is a bear I always say. I'm not enthusiastic about tangling with any of them.

Any night now I expect to be awakened from a deep sleep by a 600 pound bear pawing his way through my refrigerator. I won't attempt to deter him from enjoying a hearty meal.

As long as it's not me he wants to eat.

MARSHA BROWN returns a volley in semi final action of the women's open singles competition in the Sierra Blanca Open at Sierra Swim and Racquet Club yesterday. Brown lost to Kathy Lawson 6-3, 6-3. Brown and Sue Acheson will compete against Lawson and Linda Binkhead for the open doubles title in El Paso, Texas, this week. Some finals were switched to other sites to make it more convenient for the players.

Local duo captures Open doubles

Ted Durham and Roger Buckley provided the top local performance at the Sierra Blanca Tennis Open over the weekend as they won the 25-year-old division men's doubles crown.

The Ruidoso pair topped Amardo Roche and Gus Juanger, 6-4, 6-3 for the doubles title late yesterday afternoon at the Sierra Swim and Racquet Club.

Several of the events in the 120 player tournament will be played at other sites later on in the week. The players involved had to return home or were playing in other matches in the tournament.

One of these was the men's open singles championship match. Jay Olson and Randy Shapiro are scheduled to play for the title in either El Paso, Texas or Las Cruces Tuesday.

The women's singles open final was played, however, and Sue Jollestan defeated Kathy Lawson, 6-3, 6-2 for the crown. In the semi-finals Lawson topped Marsha Brown 6-3, 6-3 and Jollestan beat Kim Mesa 6-1, 6-2.

Other women's action saw Marge Purdy top Diana Dew 6-2, 6-2 for the 25-and-over singles title and Angie Seal beat Lynn Flores, 7-6, 6-4 for the B singles crown. In the women's 25 doubles final Alice Radosovich and Cathy Schirber topped Angie Sullivan and Joan Turnham 6-3, 6-4.

In the open doubles Brown and Sue Acheson will play Lawson and Linda Binkhead for the crown at a later date.

In one of the better men's finals Robert Jack and Vic Aguilar topped Sergio Montoya and Harry Gutierrez for the open doubles championship, 6-2, 3-6, 6-2. J. J. Moore of Las Cruces and Bob Garner won the 35-45 doubles title with a 6-4, 6-2 victory over Carl McCaig and Grady Nicholson. This match lasted until nightfall and was the final championship match completed.

Robert Cottrell edged Lonnie Sargeant, 7-5, 7-5 for the 25 singles crown. Ronald Woods and Terry Hall took the B doubles title with a 6-1, 6-1 victory over Juan Francisco and Gilbert Aldez. In mixed competition Robert Schreiner and Billy Klisish won by default over Chuck Mary Mayer in the 45-and-over doubles. Don Trujillo and Bobbie Wright took the B mixed doubles title with a 6-3, 6-0 win over Janne and Buddy Howard.

Ruidoso spikers lose district tilt

Ruidoso High School's girls' volleyball team opened the district 3-AAA season on a losing note Saturday when it fell to host Deming in two sets, 2-15, 13-15.

"We played a real bad game in the first set," said Warrior coach Sergio Castanon. "We came back well and had them in the second set but we lost out at the end."

Ruidoso, now 4-4 on the overall season, held a 13-7 advantage in the second set but the hosts then scored eight straights to ice the victory.

"I don't know. We just don't seem to play well at times," Castanon said. "When it comes down to a crucial play we don't think. We've got players who do well at times but we don't do well as a team at one time."

Castanon praised the play of Patricia Cardenas and Kody Taylor. Cardenas set up well while Taylor was good at poking the ball up and serving.

The Warrior junior varsity gave Deming a tough battle before falling in three sets. Ruidoso won the first set 16-14 but the hosts came back to take the next two, 9-15 and 5-15.

"They're getting better and better," Castanon said of the junior varsity. "Linda Baldonado and Becky Castle played well for them."

The junior varsity is now 0-5 on the year. Ruidoso hosts a district double header Saturday when Cobre and Silver City come to the Warrior gym. The Warriors play Cobre at 1 p.m., before meeting Silver City at 5.

Soccer results

In Ruidoso-Sertoma youth soccer action Saturday the Warriors and United fought to an exciting 2-2 draw in an under-12 match at White Mountain Middle School.

In another under-12 match the Scorpions blanked the Tornado 5-0. Under-eight action saw United dump the Celtics 9-0. An under-16 match with a Las Cruces team is tentatively set up for next Saturday at White Mountain.

The tournament, which began on Saturday, (a day later than first planned) drew some of the top amateur players in the southwest. It's the last planned tournament to be hosted by the club this year.

Capitan jvs

stun Warriors

Capitan High School's junior varsity pulled off an upset by beating Ruidoso 21-12 Saturday afternoon at the Warriors' field.

The Warriors, now 1-2-1, will travel to Roswell Thursday for a game with the Goddard junior varsity. Goddard is a 4-A school. Ruidoso tied Roswell, another 4-A school, 0-0 two weeks ago.

BUBBA MILLER [7] of the Broncos goes for yardage against the Steelers in a Little League football 10-12 year old game Saturday at Ruidoso High School. The Steelers won the game 16-6 to raise their record to 3-1. The Broncos are 0-3. In another 10-12 contest the Colts moved their record to 4-0 with a 26-0 win over the Cowboys. Eight-nine year old action saw the Lions beat the Hornets 18-0. The Lions are 2-0-1 while the Hornets are 0-2-1.

THE BONDS will be dated October 1, 1981, and will be payable to maturity in the denomination of $5,000 each, will be numbered consecutively in regular numerical order from one upward, and will mature serially on the 1st day of July in each of the years, and in the amounts hereinafter designated as follows:

YEARS	AMOUNTS	YEARS	AMOUNTS
1983	50,000	1988	175,000
1984	75,000	1989	200,000
1985	100,000	1990	200,000
1986	125,000	1991	225,000
1987	150,000	1992	200,000

Not Optional
 BOTH PRINCIPAL AND INTEREST shall be payable at a bank located in Ruidoso, New Mexico, being the Paying Agent for this series of bonds, which bank must be selected by the successful bidder within twenty-four hours of the award of such bonds. If such bidder fails to select the Paying Agent, the Board of Trustees of the Village of Ruidoso, New Mexico shall select the Paying Agent.

THE BONDS shall bear interest at a rate or rates not to exceed 13% per annum (net effective interest rate not to exceed 13% per annum), interest being evidenced until maturity by only one set of coupons. If such net effective interest rate exceeds 10%, such rate must be approved by the State Board of Finance before the Village may issue such bonds. The interest coupons shall be payable to bearer on January 1, 1982 and semiannually thereafter, on July 1 and January 1 of each year.

EACH INTEREST RATE specified and evidenced by any coupon must be stated in multiples of one eighth of one twentieth of 1% per annum. Bids involving supplemental coupons, or split interest rates will not be considered, and all bonds of one maturity must bear the same interest rate.

THE BONDS are the second and final installment from the $1,470,000 of the General Obligation Bonds that were authorized by the election held on March 24, 1981.

IT IS ANTICIPATED that CUSIP identification numbers will be printed on said bonds, but in the event of failure to print such number on any bond for any error with respect thereto shall constitute cause for a failure or refusal by the purchaser thereof to accept delivery of and pay for said bonds in accordance with the terms of the purchase contract. All expenses in relation to the printing of CUSIP numbers on said bonds shall be paid for by the issuer. Provided however, that the CUSIP Service Bureau charge for and assignment of said numbers shall be the responsibility of and shall be paid for by the purchaser.

NO PROVISION will be made for the registration of bonds for payment. The bonds of said issue shall constitute the Village's General Purpose General Obligation Bonds, and shall be payable from general (ad valorem) taxes levied against all taxable property in the Village without limitation of amount.

BIDDERS ARE REQUIRED to submit an unconditional written bid for all of the bonds of said issue, specifying the interest rate and the coupon dates of which must be above par at which such bidder will purchase the bonds or (b) the lowest rate of interest at which the bidder will purchase the bonds at par. All bids must be submitted in the Official Bid Form copies of which may be obtained from the Village's financial advisors, Stern Brothers & Co., P.O. Box 470, Albuquerque, New Mexico, 87103. Proposals should be enclosed in a sealed envelope, marked on the outside "Proposals for purchase of Village of Ruidoso, New Mexico General Purpose General Obligation Bonds," and addressed to Laurie Durham, Village Clerk, Village of Ruidoso, P.O. Drawer 69, Ruidoso, New Mexico 88545.

MUNICIPAL BOND INSURANCE The Village intends to submit an application to the American Municipal Bond Assurance Corporation ("AMBAC") for municipal bond insurance with respect to the Bonds. Bidders will be advised prior to the date on which bids are to be submitted as to whether municipal bond insurance will be available. If the insurance is available and a bidder wishes to submit a bid based on AMBAC insurance, the bidder will be responsible for the payment of the premium charged by AMBAC for such insurance.

THE BONDS will be awarded to the highest and best bidder, considering the interest rate and rates specified and the premium offered, if any, and subject to the right of the Village to reject any and all bids and to re-advertise. The bid for said issue will be determined by adding the amount of the premium bid, if any, from the total amount of interest which the Village would be required to pay from the date of the bonds to the respective maturity dates at the coupon rate or rates specified in the proposal, and the award will be made to the bidder of the lowest net interest cost to the Village. The purchaser must pay accrued interest from the date of the bonds to the date of delivery. None of the bonds will be sold for less than par and accrued interest, and no discount or commission will be allowed or paid on the sale of the bonds. The Village reserves the privilege of waiving any irregularity or informality in any bid.

ALL BIDS shall be sealed and kept for the bid of the State of New Mexico, if one is received, shall be accompanied by a deposit of 2% of the amount of the bid in either cash or certified check drawn on a solvent bank or trust company, which shall be returned if the bid is not accepted, and if the successful bidder for said issue shall fail or neglect to complete the purchase within 10 days following the acceptance of the bid or within 10 days after the bonds are offered for delivery, whichever is later, the amount of the deposit shall be forfeited to the Village, and in that event the governing body may accept the bid of the person or persons offering the next best bid. If there be two or more equal bids for said issue and such bids are the best bids received and for not less than par and accrued interest, the governing body shall determine which bid shall be accepted.

THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES shall take action regarding the bonds or offering all bids for said issue not later than 72 hours after the expiration of the time for receipt of bids. Delivery of the bonds of said issue will be made to the successful bidder at a bank in Albuquerque, New Mexico, or at the successful bidder's office, and the proceeds of the bonds will be made available there. Any successful bidder will not be required to accept delivery of the bonds if they are not tendered for delivery within 60 days from the date hereon stated for opening bids, and the proceeds of the bonds hereafter be returned to the successful bidder upon his request.

FURTHER INFORMATION concerning the Village and said bonds may be obtained from the Village's financial advisors, Stern Brothers & Co., P.O. Box 470, Albuquerque, New Mexico 87103.

THE LEGALITY of the bonds will be approved by the Attorney General and the Auditor General, and the Village Clerk will prepare the Official Notice of Sale for the bonds, which shall be published in the Ruidoso News, and a copy of the same shall be filed with the Secretary of State. The Village Clerk will also prepare a complete transcript of the legal proceedings, including a certificate stating that no irregularity affecting the validity of the bonds is pending as of the date of their delivery, which will be furnished to the purchasers without charge. Messrs. McCall, Parkhurst & Horton were not requested to participate and did not take part in the preparation of the Official Notice of Sale or Official Statement, and such firm has not assumed any responsibility with respect thereto or undertaken in any way to verify any of the information contained therein or to act in its capacity as bond counsel; such firm has reviewed the information contained in the Official Notice of Sale to verify that such description conforms to the provisions of the bond ordinance. The legal title to the bonds hereon, McCall, Parkhurst & Horton for services to be rendered in connection with the issuance of the bonds are contingent on the sale and delivery of the bonds.

Sunland Park expanding for October 17 opening

Even veteran Sunland Park patrons may have trouble recognizing the west El Paso track when the 1981-82 horse racing season begins October 17.

"All our additions are progressing very well," said Sunland Park general manager Finlay MacGillivray. "We're looking forward to the new look at Sunland Park."

"Hopefully, it will help our attendance and provide more comfortable conditions. This is especially true for the forecourt and grandstand patrons."

"These expansions are mainly due to Senate Bill 191 which provides for capital improvements like these through a tax incentive plan."

The most obvious improvement is the addition of a glass enclosed heated area extending the length of the forecourt. The extension, 40 feet out from the grandstand, runs the entire length of the grandstand and clubhouse.

In past years when inclement weather struck, patrons had a tendency to avoid the forecourt and crowd into the grandstand. The forecourt addition will provide a sheltered spot besides offering an excellent view of the races.

The forecourt addition will also contain rest rooms, concession and beverage stands. There will be about 10 windows for selling and cashing pari-mutuel tickets. Construction of the facility, which cost approximately $150,000, began in early June. It will be completed in time for the opening of Sunland's 84-day horse racing campaign on October 17. The season runs through May 2.

There will be numerous benches for free seating at both ends of the forecourt addition. Sliding glass windows can protect patrons from the elements as well as providing an obstruction-free view of the races.

The structure, able to accommodate around 500 patrons, will not interfere with viewing the races from either the clubhouse or the grandstand. While construction crews are providing the shell for the forecourt addition, a future project might include opening a horsemen's lounge in the enclosed structure. After saddling their horses in the paddock, horsemen would have a place where they could order food and beverages near the paddock.

While the forecourt addition is the most noticeable improvement, two additions to the infield will also benefit Sunland Park racegoers.

To the left of the main infield toteboard will be a computerized message board. The board was first used this summer at Ruidoso Downs Race Track, Sunland Park's sister race track.

The board will provide customers with information such as jockey substitutions, program changes and other pertinent items.

To the right of the main infield toteboard will be an electronic teletimer, which times the thoroughbred races and posts the fractions as the races are being run. The electric timer was used this summer at Ruidoso Downs.

"Both of these additions were greatly appreciated by our fans at Ruidoso Downs and we're sure those at Sunland Park will like them, too," said Sunland Park administrative assistant Bill Thomas.

Sunland is also building a small retaining wall in front of the main track, extending for much of the stretch. Shrubbery and flowers will be planted along the wall.

Thomas praised track superintendent Dean Brewer and his staff for their extensive work on the mile racing surface. "They've re-done the base and put in a

7-11 robbery suspects arrested in Ruidoso

Two men who apparently robbed a Ruidoso convenience store shortly after midnight Sunday were later apprehended by Alamogordo Police after a high speed chase and shootout.

The 7-11 store at Sudderth and Mechem was held up by a lone man with a sawed off shotgun, according to Ruidoso Police. It was supposed that the man had an accomplice, police said, because he went out the back door after taking about $50 in merchandise and a small amount of cash.

At 4:50 a.m., Sunday, a 7-11 store in Alamogordo was robbed of a small amount of cash by two Spanish males with a sawed off shotgun. Two Alamogordo Department of Public Safety (DPS) officers attempted to stop a vehicle carrying two men fitting descriptions of the robbers and the men fled.

During the ensuing chase, the suspects fired at the pursuing patrolmen several times, according to Alamogordo police. The chase ended when the suspects' vehicle hit a parked car in the Alto Vista residential area.

One of the suspects was struck by a police bullet. Taken into custody were Larry Patrick Herrera, 25, of Ruidoso, and Michael Anthony Rivera, 17, of San Patricio. Herrera was treated for a gunshot wound and placed in the county jail. The two have been charged with armed robbery, assault on a peace officer and possession of a stolen motor vehicle.

Lieutenant Ray Bailey and officer Al Marehand of Alamogordo DPS made the arrests on the suspects.

Accidents mar Aspencade weekend action

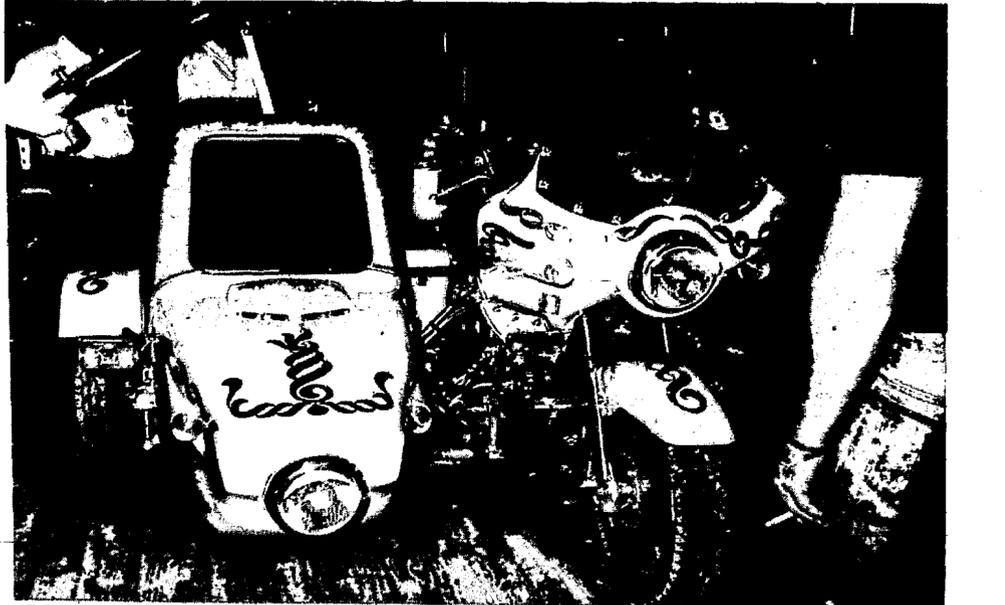

Several motor vehicle accidents occurred in the Ruidoso area during Aspencade weekend, but none resulted in serious injuries, according to a Ruidoso-Hondo Valley Hospital spokesman.

Treated and released at the hospital were: David A. Fierro, El Paso; Lorena Morgan, Tucson, Arizona; Ronald Lucero, Albuquerque; Michael and Chris Miner, Albuquerque.

"The whole weekend wasn't too bad — lots of minor injuries," said a hospital official.

October Comes In
Misty and Cloudy

This message is being sent to you on October first, a big day for all of us, and for me especially.

It is a big day for all of us because it is the beginning of one of our favorite months; and also because it is a beautiful time of year and a time for thinking and planning and getting many important things done.

October has always been the beginning of harvest time. It is then we see the golden corn in shocks out in the field, and the bright orange pumpkins close beside.

Ernest McDaniel asked me if I were ready for Halloween, and said he is ready with a pumpkin in his field more than two feet in diameter.

October has always been the "Apple Month" with this miracle fruit adding a special note of celebration to the Indian Summer days. The red and golden apples shine from the trees and send their flavorful fragrance to you as you approach the orchard. There are busy times gathering and storing away the apples, and the making of that grand drink, apple cider.

The vinegar from apple cider is a traditional early American medicine when mixed with honey, and other herbs. And it is the magic element in cucumber and all kinds of other pickles; and also one of the main ingredients of sauces, and relishes of all kinds.

Birthdays Month

October is the birthday month of many of us, including that great and beloved American, Theodore "Teddy" Roosevelt, born in New York City, October twenty-seven, 1858. Teddy, among other accomplishments, brought this nation up to the standing of a world power, and built the Panama Canal.

The twenty-seventh is also the birthday of Judy Beavers, and also of a certain beat-up Ridge Runner over here across the creek. Jack Frost's birthday is October first.

(I cannot help hoping he will hold off a while. I am just beginning to get a few cucumbers and summer squash; and the tomatoes are sure late in reaching any size. The four o'clocks I planted in the summer are just beginning to bloom. Jack always tells me that this is the only thing he doesn't like about his job—hurting people's feelings this way with their vegetables and flowers. He has told me over and over again to plant early; that the frost an the snow must arrive to complete the seasons of the year.)

Today I am remembering some of my earliest birthdays. In June I was so fond of blueberry pie, that I would have our mother bake two of them, one for me and one for Mark whose birthday was back in September. We would put the candles on my birthday blueberry pie. And I would invite in all the neighborhood children to help me celebrate. Then just a few days after would come Halloween when we would be all over the neighborhood with our jack-o-lanterns lighting the way, going from one house to the other with a Halloween party in each home. Every window would have a pumpkin with openings for eyes, nose and mouth, and a candle inside. We dived for apples in tubs of water, and bit at them blindfolded as they hung from a string. They were Jonathan apples carried up from Seattle on the boat.

What About
The Cloudy Weather

I forgot to tell you, that October beginning with misty cloudy weather means the frost will be late this year, signalling a late winter and long Indian Summer.

Keep smiling, and adios till next time.

SANTA FE—What is the advice to give a person who has been elected to the higher level of the nation's legislative bodies as he or she departs for office from Albuquerque International Support?

Correct answer: "Be a Senator."
That recommendation includes all kinds of subtle and important suggestions: Support New Mexico, but rise above purely parochial considerations; take care of our interests, but do not do so by hurting other Americans; be one of us, but also be a citizen of the world.

How many of such people has New Mexico had?
Not many, but in contrast to most other states we look relatively good.

There was a period in the life of Dennis Chavez, for instance, before the booze got him, when he came close to achieving that. Clint Anderson, who had extremely good preparation for the job, probably came closest, year in, year out.

Who would have thought that a little Italian kid from around Seventh and Tijeras in Albuquerque would manage to do it better than anyone else ever has?

Yes, Pete Domenici may well be the most Senatorial New Mexican so far—and he's still young, with lots of good years ahead of him in which to grow.

This writer says that reluctantly, well aware that his long-time friendship for this man may be balanced as throwing his comment out of balance on the subject.

But he also does it on the basis of observing what the national media are saying about Domenici.

They think he is an outstanding Senator—not just because he happens to have power as chairman of the Senate Budget Committee, but much more because of the way he has exercised that power.

So how come the New Mexico media haven't quite recognized that?

Maybe a little of that prophet-without-honor-except-in-his-own-country syndrome?

Maybe a little because the Albuquerque Journal, most powerful single medium in the state, is still hesitant to admit his importance (for reasons in the minds of its editors it would take a good psychiatrist to understand)?

What else?
Maybe because he's "Pete" to us, and we don't want to admit he went off and learned a lot of things he didn't know when we knew him?

Is there a kind of hunger in us all to keep our own people down?
Don't we want one of ours to make the Big Time?

Is that an implied judgment on all the rest of us, who have gone nowhere in our lives but around in circles?
Maybe so.

But we have a man in Washington from our state who has followed that putative advice mentioned above. He became "a Senator" after we elected him to the post.

He not only has accreted power to himself, but he also has demonstrated that he knows how to use that power with an amount of wisdom we did not have the right to require of him.

He serves New Mexico well. At the same time, he serves the nation.
And he does all this in the Senate of the United States, where all states are equal.

Those who elected him and re-elected him have cause to be reasonably proud. It's no bad thing to bask in his reflected glory—and to pray that all the praise doesn't give him the big head and ruin him forever.

Sense & Nonsense

U.S. Sen. Pete Domenici

Solar energy has come of age in the 1980s. No longer is it used just to heat someone's house or water. No longer is it just some dim far-off vision of the future, used on an experimental basis in space stations, satellites, and spacecraft. It is a reality of today.

Another reality, — a painful one — is the question of economics. Costs of material, of energy, even the interest rates we must pay to invest in new sources of energy, are rising every day, making each new adventure, each new step into an energy realm yet unexplored that much more uncertain.

One way of capturing the sun's energy is through photovoltaics, the science of converting sunlight to electricity. These photovoltaic, or solar cells, as they are called, are made from a single silicon crystal placed on a very thin metal base. The photons from the sun hit the atoms in the solar cell, set free its electrons, and pump them through free micro-thin wires creating an electrical current.

As chairman of the Senate Energy Research and Development Subcommittee (R & D), I've just completed a hearing to determine the effects of budget cuts on the photovoltaics industry. Testimony given at the hearing points out that photovoltaics is a very large growth industry and could be a billion-dollar-a-year business by 1990. This new industry could provide much-needed jobs and a competitive source of electrical power, especially in a high technology state like New Mexico.

The problem now is to keep the industry viable until that golden age, steering it through the troubled course of a restrained federal budget and a smaller amount of federal dollars invested in solar research. We need new and innovative ways of solving the cost problem to move solar energy into a domestic low-cost energy source that can be used to supplement our limited fossil fuel resources.

The short-term solution is simple. Photovoltaics technology is already cost-effective and competitively priced on the international market, where energy costs are two and three times as high as our own domestic prices. Our neighbor to the south, Mexico, is very interested in our photovoltaics technology because they see a need for it right now, as a source of electricity for outlying areas. On the international market last year, the United States provided 80 percent of demand for solar energy technology, but Japan, Germany, and France are developing very aggressive programs designed to take in a greater share of international trade.

For just a small amount of money, coming from already existing federal international trade programs, industry officials have said we can maintain and increase our share of the world market instead of losing our leadership role in the sale of photovoltaics technology.

There are several benefits to this approach. First, with only a little investment we receive a large return in a market that is only now opening up, especially in third world nations. Second, this increase in international trade reduces our foreign trade deficit, which helps our economy at home and provides much-needed jobs for Americans. And best of all, greater mass production of photovoltaic technology will keep the industry working to develop innovative ways of producing greater quantities of photovoltaics, thus bringing prices down and making it attractive for domestic markets.

Until costs come down, we cannot expect photovoltaic technology to play a large role in our nation's search for energy independence. As chairman of the Senate R&D Subcommittee, I will be working closely with industry officials to reach this goal. Los Alamos and Sandia National Laboratories have already been working on ambitious solar energy projects using photovoltaics. Despite the fact that spending has now been reoriented toward long-range R&D, the industry has assured me that it is continuing to lower the cost of photovoltaic technology and are maintaining a primary role in the international market, with an eye on the domestic market for the future.

When someone tells me that solar energy technology is not cost-effective, I think back to another invention that was also considered to be too costly for the average American. Thomas Edison estimated that his electric light bulb would cost $98.00 a bulb in 1879 dollars. Through considerable effort by Edison and without the aid of federal dollars, Edison brought the cost of his invention down to a level where everybody could see the light.

editorial

Now that Ruidoso's trustees have approved Carrizozo's membership on the Sierra Blanca Airport Commission, we trust that the Mescalero Apache tribal council will act immediately to accept Carrizozo as a commission member.

Once the tribe accepts Carrizozo, then all entities can get down to business in the efforts being made to locate a jet capable, and safe, airport on Fort Stanton mesa.

We don't know what Senator Jack Schmitt is doing on behalf of the airport, but we've been told that he is working diligently to solve problems that have hindered progress toward making the airport a reality.

No one, apparently, is denying the fact that this airport will be an important factor in the area's future economic development.

The major impact, assuredly, will be from tourism, because four groups from anywhere on earth could fly into the Fort Stanton airport. This could build tourism into a business that can't be visualized at present.

Why it's entirely possible, after this airport has been operating for 20 years, that county residents might look back on the 1970s and 1980s as periods of relative quiet.

We trust Senator Schmitt's actions will bear fruit, and soon. —CD

REAL $$ FOULUP

The Thursday announcement that, maybe, 10,000 dead people are still being sent Social Security benefit checks was interesting ... especially when Social Security Commissioner John Svahn said these checks might total $60 million ... and that's a bunch ... considering all the fussing and hollering going on about keeping Social Security solvent.

Then there was the statement by Richard Kusserow, inspector general of the Department of Health and Human Services, saying that 8,518 people's cases involving $13,000 per case hadn't been determined as dead by Medicare ... hence those benefit checks kept on getting mailed.

And Svahn said he found the abuses "astounding" ... and that he was amazed that no one ever got around to checking up on such matters ... which is, in itself, astounding ... to the tune of maybe $60 million.

Course Kusserow is optimistic that he'll latch onto most of that $60 million that was paid out when it shouldn't have been ... and if he's successful on that score, that, too, will be astounding.

Gadzooks ... if'n Kusserow can get that money back, then maybe they'll have sufficient funding to last until someone figures out a way to fund Social Security ... and purge the rolls of dead people... Yup, once those government checks start coming in, you can't get off by dying ... apparently.

Wonder if the Russians have the same problem?

POSTAGE GOING UP?

The Postal Rate Commission don't get no respect from the Postal Service ... apparently ... 'cause the Postal Service honchos has announced that first class stamps will be 20 cents come November 1 ... and they set the new rate without consulting with the Postal Rate Commission.

'Course the National Association of Greeting Card Publishers was right on the stick ... filing a protest exactly two minutes after the rate hike was announced ... 'cause they figure that extra two cents'll cut into their Christmas card business ... without giving any thought to the possibility they could reduce card prices enough to offset the 20 cent stamps.

Sure be interesting though, finding out who'll come out on top ... no?

ON CRUCES CITY HALL

Something might not be rotten in Denmark ... but that hasn't a thing to do with the fact that the air stinks in the Las Cruces city hall.

'Course the worse stench is in the basement ... where people say they become ill ... and all sorts of complaints ... and someone hopes the Fire Department can find out what's causing all that bad air ... after, of course, it's been analyzed to find out what's in the air.

Meantime, though, maybe those guys as works in the basement can set up shop upstairs ... which might make conditions a mite crowded ... but if'n folks is healthy at their job ... maybe they'd do better work ... though they'd lose an excuse for not working ... which might lead to complications.

Anyhow Sam Graft, the acting director of Community Services and Facilities, is getting into the act and getting some action started ... and must be comforting to all concerned to know that Graft's gonna track this problem down and see that the air in city hall basement's first class.

JOHNNY COME LATELIES

There's been a lot of activity ... among archaeologists and geologists at least ... concerning the people who drew the petroglyphs maybe 700 to 1,000 years ago ... which is a lot of stewing about a bunch of johnny come latelies ... considering archaeologists has found evidence that man was chasing mammoths in the Nevada desert maybe 20,000 years ago.

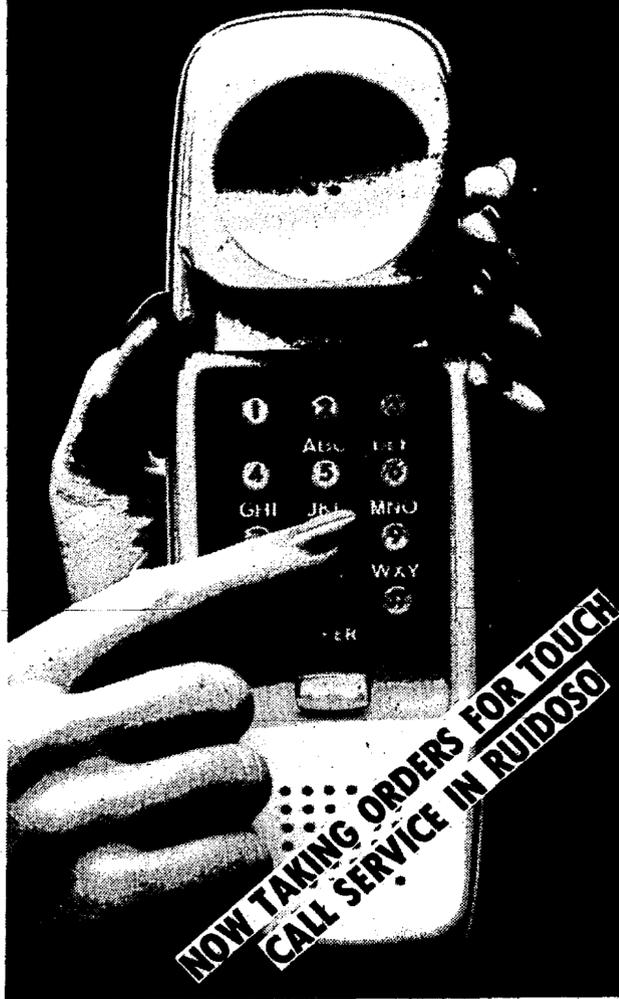

Archaeologist Billy Clewlow is of the opinion that these ancient men were Paleo-Indians ... and what's aggravating about that opinion is that he didn't mention where these people might have come from ... which'd be mighty interesting ... if for nothing else than satisfying a curiosity.

'Course archaeologists over Africa way has found evidence that man was trudging around there maybe four million, or more years ago ... which'd tend to make the Paleo-Indians a bunch of johnny come latelies ... even though 20,000 years is quite a spell back ... further back than most folks can recall ... even if it do seem at times as though we've actually lived longer than that.

BRIEF BIT: If scientists ever figure out how to harness the sun's power then all of us can have a lot of sunshine in our lives every day ... no? ... CD that 12 to 13 million gallons of the water go through Plant One each month. The plant, which was built in the early nineteen-fifties, is scheduled for renovation and expansion next year.

The Alto Crest Treatment Plant is the pride of the village water system. The $1 million plant, which village manager Jim Hine said is "as modern as any in the United States," became operational in the spring of 1979.

Right now, the plant is treating "around two million gallons a day," said operator Gary Sparks. Eagle Creek and Alto Reservoir supply the plant with water.

Alto Reservoir holds 100 million gallons when full. Although the Alto Crest plant usually treats a blend of creek and lake water, it could draw solely from the lake if the creek went dry.

"This plant is set up so you could suck near mud in and treat it," said Sparks.

On the average, the village of Ruidoso consumes from 24 to 30 million gallons of water per month, according to figures from the billing department. This past June, consumption was nearly 47 million gallons, down from 60 million for the extremely dry June of 1980.

The village water system has 15 storage tanks, each of which hold from 500,000 to five million gallons. Their total capacity is 15.63 million gallons. The department tries to keep the tanks full in case of a plant failure or an emergency such as a fire, Hine said.

Asked about the current status of the Ruidoso water system, Hine said, "I think it's in as good a shape as any municipal water system. Anytime you live in the Southwest, you always need more water."

To that end, the village has drilled seven new wells in the past six months. All except one well near the airport have produced satisfactory test results, according to village administrative assistant Frank Potter.

None of the wells are on system yet, pending action on applications with the State Engineer's Office. "We're working with them and they're helping us in every way possible," Potter said.

The old Hollywood well is available as an emergency source of water. Though the well is capable of yielding nearly 20 million gallons a month, the hardness of the water makes it unacceptable as an ongoing source.

A project to soften the well water by blending it with Eagle Creek water is in the works, Hine said. If successful, the blending project could make the Hollywood Well a permanent contributor to the system.

Another possible addition to the system is a proposed reservoir for Rio Ruidoso water. This is in the "looking at" stage, according to Hine.

"We want to get Ruidoso to where demands on the system can be met," said the village manager, who has seen the demands and the system grow considerably during his 21 years with the village.

"Water is the most precious source of energy and a basic need for man," Hine said, "because nothing can function without it."

Richard Sanchez acting water superintendent

RICHARD SANCHEZ

Richard Sanchez has been named acting water superintendent, the village manager's office announced Thursday.

Sanchez, 25, has been with the water department for seven years. He has been assistant superintendent for the past year. Before that, he was operator of the village water plants.

The new superintendent holds a level three state certification in water production. He is a Ruidoso native and a 1973 graduate of Ruidoso High School.

Sanchez and his wife, Peggy, are the parents of a 16-month-old son, Adam.

Water department employs 19

Because of its mountainous terrain, the Ruidoso area presents some challenging problems to the people responsible for providing water to the village's residents and businesses.

For example, there are more than 20 pressure zones to correspond with different elevations in the village.

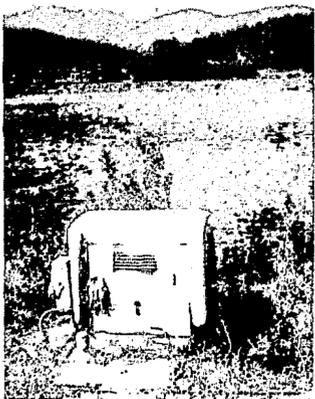

The Village of Ruidoso water department employs 19 persons. Department members and their positions are: Richard Sanchez, superintendent; Eddie Sanchez and A. E. Nash, foremen; Dick Brady, crew chief IV; Ron Scraggs, work supervisor.

Other department employees are: Raymond Sanchez and Lawrence Sanchez, tapping crewmen; Fernando Miranda, Candy Montoya and Bobby Silva, construction crewmen; Hector Gomez and Leroy Ramirez, meter replacement crewmen; Tim Sullivan and Mark Paz, meter readers.

Also working for the water department are: Gary Sparks, plant operator; Becky Durham, laboratory technician; Judy Franzer, billing and accounting and Bonnie Swenor, billing and accounting personnel.

however, since it is almost fully automatic. The plant's alarm system will even call Sparks at home if there is a problem.

CHUGGING AWAY on the bank of Alto Reservoir, this aerator pumps oxygen into the lake for the fish and prevents the occurrence of temperature layers. Layering causes overgrowth of algae, water department employee Becky Durham explained.

EAGLE CREEK is one of Ruidoso's two primary water sources. Water can be pumped directly to Alto Crest Treatment Plant from this intake several miles up the Ski Area Road or pumped from Alto Reservoir, which is fed by the creek.

TASTE THE HIGH COUNTRY is what Ruidosans do every time they get a drink of water, since the rivers' headwaters are high on Sierra Blanca. This intake on the Rio Ruidoso draws water into Plant Number One. The water is filtered through sand and gravel, then chlorinated.

IN HIS ELEMENT is plant operator Gary Sparks at Alto Crest Treatment Plant. The architecture of the plant was designed to fit in well with the environment and with present and future homes in the Alto Crest area.

Village working to solve water problems

THE TOUCH OF A BUTTON is all plant operator Gary Sparks needs to control most functions of the ultra modern Alto Crest Treatment Plant. Sparks usually lets the facility operate itself, however, since it is almost fully automatic. The plant's alarm system will even call Sparks at home if there is a problem.

EAGLE CREEK is one of Ruidoso's two primary water sources. Water can be pumped directly to Alto Crest Treatment Plant from this intake several miles up the Ski Area Road or pumped from Alto Reservoir, which is fed by the creek.

TASTE THE HIGH COUNTRY is what Ruidosians do every time they get a drink of water, since the rivers' headwaters are high on Sierra Blanca. This intake on the Rio Ruidoso draws water into Plant Number One. The water is filtered through sand and gravel, then chlorinated.

CHUGGING AWAY on the bank of Alto Reservoir, this aerator pumps oxygen into the lake for the fish and prevents the occurrence of temperature layers. Layering causes overgrowth of algae, water department employee Becky Durham explained.

that 12 to 13 million gallons of water go through Plant One each month. The plant, which was built in the early nineteen-fifties, is scheduled for renovation and expansion next year.

The Alto Crest Treatment Plant is the pride of the village water system. The $1 million plant, which village manager Jim Hine said is "as modern as any in the United States," became operational in the spring of 1979.

"Right now, the plant is treating around two million gallons a day," said operator Gary Sparks. Eagle Creek and Alto Reservoir supply the plant with water.

Alto Reservoir holds 100 million gallons when full. Although the Alto Crest plant usually treats a blend of creek and lake water, it could draw solely from the lake if the creek went dry.

"This plant is set up so you could suck near mud in and treat it," said Sparks.

On the average, the village of Ruidoso consumes from 24 to 30 million gallons of water per month, according to figures from the billing department. This past June, consumption was nearly 47 million gallons, down from 60 million for the extremely dry June of 1980.

The village water system has 15 storage tanks, each of which hold from 500,000 to five million gallons. Their total capacity is 15.63 million gallons. The department tries to keep the tanks full in case of a plant failure or an emergency such as a fire, Hine said.

Asked about the current status of the Ruidoso water system, Hine said, "I think it's in as good a shape as any municipal water system. Anytime you live in the Southwest, you always need more water."

To that end, the village has drilled seven new wells in the past six months. All except one well near the airport have produced satisfactory test results, according to village administrative assistant Frank Potter.

None of the wells are on system yet, pending action on applications with the State Engineer's Office. "We're working with them and they're helping us in every way possible," Potter said.

The old Hollywood well is available as an emergency source of water. Though the well is capable of yielding nearly 20 million gallons a month, the hardness of the water makes it unacceptable as an ongoing source.

A project to soften the well water by blending it with Eagle Creek water is in the works, Hine said. If successful, the blending project could make the Hollywood Well a permanent contributor to the system.

Another possible addition to the system is a proposed reservoir for Rio Ruidoso water. This is in the "looking at" stage, according to Hine.

"We want to get Ruidoso to where demands on the system can be met," said the village manager, who has seen the demands and the system grow considerably during his 21 years with the village.

"Water is the most precious source of energy and a basic need for man," Hine said, "because nothing can function without it."

RICHARD SANCHEZ

Richard Sanchez has been named acting water superintendent, the village manager's office announced Thursday.

Sanchez, 26, has been with the water department for seven years. He has been assistant superintendent for the past year. Before that, he was operator of the village water plants.

The new superintendent holds a level three state certification in water production. He is a Ruidoso native and a 1973 graduate of Ruidoso High School.

Sanchez and his wife, Peggy, are the parents of a 16-month-old son, Adam.

Water department employs 19

Because of its mountainous terrain, the Ruidoso area presents some challenging problems to the people responsible for providing water to the village's residents and businesses.

For example, there are more than 20 pressure zones to correspond with different elevations in the village.

The Village of Ruidoso water department employs 19 persons. Department members and their positions are: Richard Sanchez, superintendent; Eddie Sanchez and A. E. Nash, foremen; Dick Brady, crew chief IV; Ron Scraggs, work supervisor. Other department employees are: Raymond Sanchez and Lawrence Sanchez, tapping crewmen; Fernando Miranda, Candy Montoya and Bobby Silva, construction crewmen; Hector Gomez and Leroy Ramirez, meter replacement crewmen; Tim Sullivan and Mark Paz, meter readers.

Also working for the water department are: Gary Sparks, plant operator; Becky Durham, laboratory technician; Judy Franzer, Mary Wimberly and Bonnie Swenor, billing and accounting personnel.

IN HIS ELEMENT is plant operator Gary Sparks at Alto Crest Treatment Plant. The architecture of the plant was designed to fit in well with the environment and with present and future homes in the Alto Crest area.

NATIONAL LEAGUE DIVISION SERIES

by Joey Sasso

CONFIDENTIAL REPORT: Actress Morgan Fairchild, famed for her TV appearances on "Mork and Mindy," "Search for Tomorrow" and "Flamingo Road," says that in reality she is not a bitchy, "femme fatale." In a revealing cover story published in this month's issue of Oui magazine, Fairchild concedes, "I play ladies who've made bitchiness an art form but I'm proudest of the fact that I haven't become a jaded bitch. I haven't sold my soul." Fairchild complains, though, that "I attract—in great hordes—the men who also have open shirts and dangling gold chains. A lot of women are for sale out here [Hollywood]. The big problem is even if he has a Mercedes or Rolls, you still have to go home with his brain at the end of the night. And most of those guys are real boring. They don't hold my interest long enough to get near the end of the night."

TV BACKSTAGE: Danielle Brisebois, the sensational child star who plays Archie Bunker's niece, admits she's considering giving up showbiz to become an astronaut. "I've already sent away the forms so I can get a seat on the space shuttle when they allow passengers to go into outer space," says Danielle, 12. "I really want to walk on the moon. I'm already studying astronomy quite seriously. I believe there must be some form of life in space and I'd really like to be an explorer up there." ... Americans seem to turn out by the millions for everything from baseball to wrist wrestling. Their unique preoccupation with sports is a phenomenon HBO's "Remember When" examines when it recounts the saga of sports in America in "Go, Team, Go!" beginning Monday, October 5. With host-narrator Dick Cavett recalling the action, "Go, Team, Go!" reviews the teams and the titleholders, the ground breakers and the record breakers, the superstars, the super salaries and the scandals that make up the story of sports in America.

TV CLOSEUP: Sally Struthers, known to millions as Gloria on "All in the Family," is terrified of failure. And this fear is aggravated by the fact that Struthers believes she has no control over her own life. "My whole career is based on good luck," Struthers said. "Every time I try something new I have to trust my luck." Though good fortune seems to have guided her to the top of her profession, Struthers still can't accept the fact that she has it made. "I'm afraid of failing. I'm afraid of failure itself," she said. "Why do I have this fear? Let's face it—I get incredible compensation for work that isn't really work. I am absolutely desperate about that." But even when things are sailing along without a hitch, Struthers is still gripped by panic. "When things are going well, I can't sleep," she confessed. "I'm waiting for something bad to happen—you know, to even things out." ... Robert Stack disclosed in an interview at the Union Plaza Hotel in Las Vegas that he and several other Hollywood stars were on a Nazi death list. Stack, who gained a kind of show business immortality by his portrayal of Al Capone's nemesis, Elliot Ness, in "The Untouchables," said he was on the "hit list" after he starred in a 1939 anti-Nazi movie called "The Immortal Storm." "We were told by the American government that because we made the Nazis look bad in the film, they were going to kill us when they won the war," said Stack. The other actors were James Stewart, Margaret Sullivan, Ward Bond, Robert Young and Dan Dailey.
