GINNY STEPHENS

BELTING OUT DIXIELAND songs Sunday afternoon, during the Chamber's Fun Day in the Park, were Teddi Sullivan, local entertainer, and Ginny Stephens, former professional entertainer now living in Ruidoso. (See page two for story, other pictures.)

Enchilidas Tuesday by Rotarians

Ruidoso's Rotarians, every year, twice a year, lay down the tools of their trades and professions to don a chef's headgear—to cook enchiladas.

These chefs, two days a year, gather in the kitchen of the Elks Lodge, that's on Highway 70, south out of Ruidoso, to whomp up batches upon batches of enchiladas—claimed by many devotees of same (not all of which are Rotarians) to be superior to any obtainable anywhere else. "Indubitably," quoth Pinky Jones, chief ramrod of the enchilada chefs, in attesting to the truth and validity of the preceding statement. "Certainly. Positively."

These Rotarians, some florid, some a mite portly, some on the skinny side, start filling plates with enchiladas, in the Elks Lodge, at 11 a.m., tomorrow and continue through 1 p.m.

After a brief respite from their cooperative labors, they again don chef's hats, complete with snow white aprons, and serve their toothsome delicacies once again from 5 to 8 p.m.

The tab for eating your fill of these Rotarians' enchiladas is: $3.50 for adults and $2 for children.

"Now that's a deal," Jones said. "Unquestionably."

Enchilada feeds are the sole means of support for the civic projects the Rotarians support. They dish out mucho dinero every year, to such organizations as White Mountain Search and Rescue, outfitted with a radio communications system by the Rotary, and they send Exchange Students to foreign lands, and bring Exchange Students here from foreign lands, and they have a scholarship program.

"Certainly," quoth Jones. "And that's just for starters."

The way Jones sums up the situation is, "The more people who come to eat our enchiladas, the more enchiladas we'll have to cook, and the more people'll be fed and be happy over having their fill of enchiladas. Naturally."

Villages' trustees to meet

Ruidoso Downs Trustees will meet tonight at 7 in Municipal Hall.

Agenda items include:
— Ordinance concerning the Continental Telephone Company franchise.
— Two resolutions on budget requests.
— Opening of bids on the sale of two city vehicles; a 1963 Dodge one and one-half ton flatbed truck and a 1964 Dodge one-half ton pickup.

— A mobile home proposal to be reviewed.
— Presentation from Mental Health Board representatives Gwyn Jones and Renee Rawhouser.

The Ruidoso trustees will meet for the first time in the Village Administrative Center auditorium Tuesday evening, with a short agenda for the regular 7:30 meeting.

Only two items of unfinished business are scheduled:
— Resolution 81-16, amending maximum street grades permissible.

— Formation of a corporation for acquiring water rights for the Village.

Two items from the Planning and Zoning Commission are included:

— Ruidoso Downs building inspections.
— Mrs. Elmer Pirelli re: Lot 10, Block 8, Town and Country Estates.

Wednesday Coffee Cart

The Wednesday Coffee Cart, sponsored by the Chamber of Commerce so the public can meet Chamber officers and directors, will be from 9-10:30 a.m., at:

Blood drive nets 72 pints

Mabel Johnson, chairman of the Pink Ladies (Hospital Auxiliary) blood collecting drive for Blood Services of El Paso, Texas, Saturday expressed disappointment in the number of donors who showed up Friday at Ruidoso Hondo Valley Hospital to give blood.

Johnson said only 72 of the 100 donors the auxiliary expected showed up — 28 short of the Pink Ladies' goal.

"Some who were ill notified us ahead of time," she said, "but others just plain forgot."

We are grateful for those people who are so very faithful — such as the people at Pertee-Parks — who are there to give blood at every clinic," Johnson said.

Ski insert scheduled

The Ruidoso News annual ski insert is being readied for distribution as soon as Sierra Blanca Ski Resort opens.

The deadline for advertising, to be included in the issue is Thursday, November 12.

For information and advertising rates, telephone 257-4001 and ask for Carmen Edwards or Beverly Hammond.

The insert will be included with the regular edition of The News, when it is released, with additional distribution scheduled during the peak of the season to acquaint skiers with Ruidoso's attractions and services.

CONNALLY, BARNES, McDERMOTT BUYERS

Chaparral at Downs sold

BY TIM PALMER
Staff Writer

The announcement was made late last week that a Ruidoso landmark, the Chaparral Motor Hotel and Convention Center, has been purchased by a trio of prominent Texans. The selling price was not disclosed.

The three—former Texas governor John B. Connally, former Texas lieutenant governor Ben Barnes, and rancher and developer Joe McDermott—finalized the purchase on October 16, according to spokesman Ralph Wayne of Houston, Texas, an adviser to the group.

At this time, no definite plans for development of the property have been made, said Wayne. He noted that an architectural and engineering firm, 3-D International, conducted an initial site survey last week.

"We're looking at a lot of different ideas," said Wayne. He listed condominiums, a high rise building, a shopping mall and a "first class" restaurant as possibilities for the site.

No decision has been made on whether the existing buildings will form part of the new development, Wayne said. He noted that if the hotel continues to be operated, it will be completely refurbished.

"We want to use local workers to every extent we can," Wayne said. The group hopes to arrive at firm decisions regarding the Ruidoso property by the end of this week, he added.

"We're very very enthused about it," said Wayne of the development project. He called it "one of the best we've ever undertaken," noting that the group has been involved in about 20 such projects, including shopping centers and medical facilities.

Barnes and Connally are currently developing a 106-unit, 14 floor high rise at South Padre Island, Texas, said Wayne.

Connally is a former Secretary of the Navy and Secretary of the Treasury. He is a senior partner in the law firm of Benson-Elkins and a member of the boards of First City National Bank of Houston and Ford Motor Company.

The former governor is also owner of the Picosa Ranch at Floresville, Texas, which has a cattle and horse breeding operation.

Barnes is the president of HB Company, a construction firm, and Bennett and Barnes Investments, both of Brownwood, Texas. He is a former Speaker of the House in the Texas legislature.

McDermott is a developer in Houston. He has a ranch at Madisonville, Texas, and his horses have raced at Ruidoso Downs.

Wayne stated that the climate of Ruidoso played a big part in the decision to launch the joint venture. He noted that the group was also pleased by the cooperative attitude of the townspeople.

"We have great expectations for the economy of Ruidoso in the coming years," Wayne said. "we want to be a part of it."

Ruidoso road woes aired

BY JEAN PATTERSON
Staff Writer

Ruidoso's heavy traffic situation will be evaluated and discussed as the result of a special District II Highway meeting Friday at the Lincoln County Courthouse in Carrizozo.

The meeting consisted of a board of district and state highway officials while audience members included State Senator Charlie Lee, State Representative John Bigbee and Lincoln County Manager Truman A. "Bill" Billingsley.

The intent of the meeting was to inform residents of Lincoln County (which lies in District II) of all current road construction and maintenance projects in the county.

However, during a projects report from Joe Ruiz, District II construction engineer, no mention was made of constructing an alternate route to bypass Ruidoso's main business district.

"I was under the impression that this was in the planning," Bigbee said.

"There is nothing in our planning as of today; at least, not at the district level," said Worth Smelser, District II highway engineer.

Lincoln County Commissioner John Hightower said he had heard that the highway department required a 150 foot right-of-way on the proposed alternate route and that was causing a stumbling block.

"There is a critical traffic situation in Ruidoso. Something must be done regardless if it's in the five-year plan or not," Bigbee said.

"We're way above our heads and we need the highway department's help. We need to look at Ruidoso as a whole and see what we can do," said Frank Potter, Ruidoso's assistant village manager.

"We need to look real quick, then," said A. W. Gonzales, chief of the Planning Bureau in Santa Fe. He suggested expediency so Ruidoso may acquire funds through either a cooperative plan or by using a cost-share plan with the state government. In such a situation, Ruidoso would need to supply 25 percent of the funding while the state supplies the remaining 75 percent.

One suggestion was that Lincoln County take over the maintenance of Fort Stanton Road (Highway 214) in exchange for the state developing Gavilan Canyon Road as the alternate route through Ruidoso.

A meeting was set up for November 4 at 10 a.m., at Ruidoso Village Hall to discuss Ruidoso's highway situation. Representatives from both the state and district will be on hand for the meeting. One project they plan to undertake is an update of a traffic study conducted in Ruidoso in 1976 to show the increased traffic flow.

D. Douglas Ditto, District I maintenance engineer, reported on projects planned for the county for the 1981-82 fiscal year. He estimated the state will spend $573,432 on 419 miles of road, utilizing 17 permanent full time employees, on routine maintenance in Lincoln County. These activities include hand patching, reshaping shoulders, spot sealing, right-of-way, mowing, litter pickup, snow plowing and sanding and slating.

In Gonzales' report, he explained the Planning Bureau in Santa Fe must use a process of priorities in allocating funds for road projects and maintenance. The process is divided into four categories. The first is condition of the road; then the use of the road, based on average daily traffic; third, safety of the road, according to accident rate per miles; and finally a category including such things as motor vehicle regulations, unemployment rates and service to major centers.

"We put this information into a formula and run it on a computer," Gonzales said. However, he emphasized that this is a guide they use in preparing a program and can be flexible.

In breaking down highway funding, Gonzales said the state tries to fund at least one construction program a year in each district, so each district gets some of the money.

Several programs are available to counties, cities and villages in obtaining funds for road work. However, Gonzales said there are already 278 projects waiting to be funded and the department is still in the process of preparing a program. "They won't all fit," he said. That is where the priority system is used.

Friday's meeting, the first of its kind, is tentatively set to be an annual event, as an information source to the public so they may find out what road projects are taking place in the county.

INSTALLATION OF theatre style seats for the auditorium at the Village Administrative Center was completed late last week. Ruidoso trustees will meet in the auditorium for the first time at 7:30 Tuesday evening.

Christian School enrollment 63

The Ruidoso Christian School, in its first semester of existence, boasts an enrollment of 63, has its own school board and is developing plans for expansion.

The school, based at the First Baptist Church in Ruidoso Downs, serves grades kindergarten through high school, according to Jerry Mauldin, school administrator and associate pastor of the church.

Currently, classes are divided into kindergarten, taught by Shaula Cull; first through third grades under Joan Huse and fourth through sixth grades by Nadyne Gartner. The high school programs are under the instruction of Tim Wadley, Jana Woolley, Paul Tapp and Mauldin.

"People from the community come in and teach some special classes, such as CPR," Mauldin said. Although some of the classes are combined, each class has its own breakdown level.

"They are still teacher-centered classrooms," Mauldin said.

"This school is three years in the making," Mauldin said. With an enrollment of 63 and plans for five more students to transfer into the system, Mauldin said the school board has voted to not accept any more students until the second semester.

"We just don't have the room right now," Mauldin said. Currently classes meet in various rooms within the church complex. "We are going to build a two room portable classroom building and an additional room by January," Mauldin said.

Although the school is not accredited with the state, Mauldin said he personally has contacted colleges and verified that a student graduating from the Christian School would be admitted by following the same testing and admissions procedures any entering freshman undergoes.

"Our school is part of the ministry of the church," Mauldin said. "It's another branch, just as is Sunday School or Bible study."

The program of study at the Christian School includes basic mathematics, history and English. Wednesday afternoon is devoted to chapel service and an assembly is scheduled Monday mornings to get the week started.

For the high school, most of Wednesday afternoon is time open for physical education. Softball, swimming and skiing are just some of the activities planned for the students. "None of them are forced to take part in this, however," Mauldin said.

Although the school doesn't have an extensive sports program, such as football and basketball, those activities are all included in future plans according to Mauldin.

The curriculum followed at the Christian School is based on one obtained from Pensacola Christian College in Florida. It is an education and theology program that the college has written and developed.

"Our growth is unbelievable," Mauldin said. Students are producing a school annual and recently elected a student council. Council members are Scott Burch, president; Charles Mauldin, vice-president; Stacey Yerrick, treasurer; and Angie Griego, secretary.

God-centered education is a key philosophy in the new school with a certain amount of prayer in the classroom. "This school offers a Christian alternative,"

Mauldin said. He emphasized that the school is not limited to any particular religion.

"We have an exceptional public school system in Ruidoso and we're fortunate in that. They have been good to us and the church," Mauldin said. "I am more appreciative of their jobs now. They have classes as big as my whole school."

"We aren't saying our public school is inadequate. The Christian School has a different type of atmosphere; the philosophy is a little different."

"It will be a long time before we're big, but we hope to grow enough so we can have outside activities with other Christian schools."

JAZZERCISE MOVEMENTS were demonstrated by Rosanne Paysour, Ruidoso, to the delight of all persons attending the Chamber's Fun Day in the Park Sunday afternoon.

Fun Day in the Park was fun

Sunday's nippy weather considerably diminished attendance at the Chamber of Commerce's annual Fun Day in the Park, but didn't diminish the enthusiasm of those attending.

The Dixieland combo of Teddi Sullivan, Dick Shaw and LeRoy Gooch, Ruidoso, with Bill Grosz and Art Holt of Alamogordo, entertained the crowd for almost two hours. Vocalists performing were Sullivan and Ginny Stephens, both of Ruidoso.

In the egg toss, the winners were Jennifer Roan and Celia Zamora with Franky the Clown and Amy Chavez, second.

In the tug-of-war, the girls easily pulled a team of boys across the finish line, with each of the girls being awarded a blue ribbon.

In the three-legged race: — Adult, Joan and Bill Brady, first; Sonja Crown and Amy Chavez, second and Franky the Clown and Don Davis, third. — Children, four to six, Sandra Michelle and Ezra Roan, first; Zack Crosby and Jesse Brady, second. Eight to nine, Lasuhsh Tillotson and Emily Chavez, first; Amy Richardson and Ginger Moseley, second; Chelsea Roan and Tammy Davis, third. Six and seven, Leslie Gonzales and Bobby Joe Gonzales, first; Christ Coyle and Amy Wishard, second; Jason Lowry and Seth Roan, third. Ten to 11, Tammi Rue and Abby Williamson, first; Brad Hardin and Dylan Roan, second; Todd Dentler and Kalama Davis, third.

THE THREE-LEGGED RACERS had as much fun as anybody... obviously.

Gracey/Chapman vows said

Gail Gracey and Scot W. Chapman, both of Bonita, were married October 18 at an 11 a.m. ceremony at the Community Church in Lincoln, performed by Ruidoso Magistrate Jim Wheeler.

The bride, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Gracey Jr., of Westtown, Pennsylvania, wore a victorian off-white lace gown. For the traditional ceremony, she carried lace hankies for something old, wore new shoes, carried a borrowed Bible that belonged to her mother and a blue hanky, also her mother's.

Flowers, candles and a Bible set the scene for the wedding in the church. The bride carried dried babies breath and fall-colored assorted flowers. Matron of honor was the bride's sister, Mrs. Lynn A. Seay of Upper Darby, Pennsylvania. She wore a purple skirt with an off-white lace blouse. Piano music was by Nora Henn. The bride's mother wore a plum colored velvet suit with a silk rose buds and babies breath corsage.

The bridegroom, son of Dr. and Mrs. John A. Chapman of Honolulu, Hawaii, was attended by his brother, Jeff Chapman of Ruidoso. Chris Chapman and John Chapman Jr., served as ushers for the ceremony.

A reception immediately followed the wedding at the Bank Exchange Saloon. Hosting the reception were Mr. and Mrs. Bill Ward and decorations consisted of geraniums and a silver service.

The couple planned their wedding trip to Puerto de Vlarita, Mexico.

The bride was graduated from Henderson Senior High School in West Chester, Pennsylvania. The bridegroom was graduated from high school in Colorado Springs, Colorado, and attended college two years at the University of Southern Colorado in Pueblo. He is currently a self-employed carpenter.

Garden Clubs' district meet held Friday

The District V meeting of New Mexico Garden Clubs was hosted Friday by the Mountain Garden Club, Mayhill.

A highlight of the meeting was the initiation of members of the host club, which was organized by Mrs. Carl Arend.

Mrs. John McKnight of the Ruidoso Garden Club was the main afternoon speaker, with conservation as her topic. "As stewards, man's survival depends on the protection of his life support system," she said. "A healthy environment and a healthy economy are inseparable goals today and long into the future. If everyone knew his own environment—was aware of what is special about it—we would be less inclined to watch it destroyed."

New teacher

GENA JOHNSON

New English speaking students at Nob Hill Elementary and Ruidoso High School will get assistance from Gena Johnson, recently hired as an aide to serve both schools and to teach Applied English.

Johnson earned her Bachelor's Degree from the University of Texas at El Paso in Spanish and French. She then received a Master's Degree from Institute Tecnologico de Monterrey in Mexico. Following that, Johnson taught preparatory in Monterrey, Mexico.

Johnson's next assignment was teaching at Sul Ross Southwest University in Alpine, Texas.

The Johnson family has lived in Ruidoso for six years. Johnson is a contractor and the couple has a six-year-old daughter who attends Nob Hill.

Ruidoso students in honor society

Eight new members were installed into National Honor Society (NHS) at the Ruidoso High School library last Tuesday evening.

In the senior class, Karen Boone, Don Nunley and Jack Holland were added to the NHS roster while Cathy Tyson, Robin Rhodes, Lisa Williams, Shari Ridgeway, Dodie Baldonado, Jeanette Weems and David Swalander were installed as junior class members.

Any junior with a 3.4 grade point average and any senior with a 3.3 grade point average is nominated to be a member of the society. Then a faculty review committee looks over the candidates and selects new members from the list, based on the student's leadership and service, according to Carol Hubbard, faculty sponsor of the society.

At the 7 p.m., ceremony, new members received a membership card and attended a reception in their honor. Installing NHS officers at the ceremony included Karla Sears, Charlene Hickson, Scott Neal, Gail Travis and Gina Yowell.

Another installation will take place in the spring. Some sophomores will be accepted at this time, but they must have a grade point average of 3.5.

Center needs counseling volunteers

Volunteers are needed for a new helpline counseling service for the Ruidoso area, which is being sponsored by the Lincoln County Counseling Center, Bill Grimes, Center counselor, said Friday. A full professional training and support program will be provided volunteers, Grimes said. Anyone interested in participating in this valuable service, Grimes said can contact him at the Counseling Center, 237-5938, or can attend the organizational meeting at the center, in the Four Seasons Mall, Wednesday, at 7 p.m., he said.

Ruidoso defenders intercept four passes

Warriors offense erupts in 42-20 rout of Deming

To paraphrase an old saying. What a difference a week makes.

Last week the Ruidoso High School football team didn't score a point against arch rival Tularosa in a 13-0 loss. Friday night at the Ruidoso field the Warriors crossed the goal line six times in a convincing 42-20 victory over Deming. Ruidoso's highest point total of the season.

The victory, which raised Ruidoso's 3-AAA district record to 2-1 and its overall mark to 7-1, kept the Warriors in the tight title race. Unbeaten Silver City had to scramble to edge Coble, 31-20.

Ruidoso used an extremely balanced attack to roll over the Wildcats as the Warriors rushed for 221 yards and passed for 150 yards, giving them 371 yards total offense.

"We felt we could move the ball on Deming," said Ruidoso head coach Darrel Stierwalt. "A lot of guys ran well with the ball last night plus the fact the guys' pride was hurt a little bit last week and they wanted to show everybody they could still play football."

The defense had a big hand in the victory, picking off four passes and recovering four fumbles.

One of those fumbles came in the opening minute of the contest on Deming's second play from scrimmage when Ruidoso's Darrius Rad hit the ball carrier hard and fell on the ball at the Wildcat 23. Rad recovered two more fumbles in the game.

It took three plays for the Warriors to score. Fullback Chris Lopez banged for five yards to the 18 and two to the 16 before Scott Neal, who started at quarterback, sprinted the remaining distance on a keeper. Lon Nunley kicked the extra point and Ruidoso held a 7-0 advantage with 10:28 remaining in the first quarter.

The defense again forced a turnover on Deming's next series as Don Nunley intercepted an Edward Flores pass at the 50 and returned it to the Wildcat 28. However the Warrior drive stalled and Lon Nunley's 40 yard field goal attempt was wide.

But the defense again came through as Kyle Flack recovered a Deming fumble on the Wildcat 36. From there it took 10 plays for the Warriors to score.

Neal hit Lon Nunley with a 10 yard sideline pass to bring the ball to the 28. After Neal ran for eight yards, Nunley for seven and Lopez twice for six, Ruidoso had the ball at the Deming two. From there Lon Nunley powered over for the score with 1:01 left in the opening quarter. He kicked the extra point and the Warriors had a 14-0 lead.

Rad again fell on a Deming fumble at the Ruidoso 49 on the next series and the Warriors started to move again. This time it took nine plays to cover the 49 yards.

Pete Garcia, who had his finest game of the season with 70 yards in eight carries, provided the big play of the drive with a 17 yard run on a pitch from Neal that brought the ball to the Deming 31.

Six plays later the Warriors scored as Neal pitched the ball to Grady Williamson and the fleet tailback ran 10 yards for the score. Lon Nunley again kicked the extra point and the Warriors had a 21-0 lead with 8:14 left in the half.

On the following kickoff Rad again picked up a loose Deming ball at the 33. From there the Warriors scored in five plays.

Garcia ran for 16 yards to the 17 and Neal picked up seven more to the 10. Three plays later Nunley ran straight over the middle for eight yards and the touchdown. His extra point was good and the Warriors took a 28-0 lead into the locker room at halftime.

Deming took to the airwaves and scored its first touchdown with 1:01 left in the third quarter. Flores found Gene Simmons for 23 yards and the touchdown. However a pass for the two point conversion failed and Ruidoso led 28-6.

But the Warriors came right back on the next series driving 80 yards for a touchdown. The big play was a pass from Neal to Darin Smith who made a great leaping catch at the Deming 32 for a 33 yard gain.

Two plays later Williamson scored on a 23 yard sprint in which he broke several tackles. Lon Nunley kicked the extra point and Ruidoso led 35-6 with 11:02 remaining in the game.

Deming came back with the aid of two pass interference calls and finally scored on Flores' nine yard run with 7:19 remaining.

But the Warriors weren't done yet.

RUIDOSO HEAD COACH Darrel Stierwalt and two of his top players, Lon Nunley and Scott Neal (right), confer during a time out in Friday night's game with visiting Deming. Both Nunley and Neal had big parts in the Warriors' crushing 42-20 victory over the Wildcats. Ruidoso, now 7-1 on the season, hosts Truth or Consequences this Friday night.

of the year? "I'd say it was," said Stierwalt. "We just got everything together. Garcia had an especially good game. He's really improved and he has a lot of quickness." Notes: In the other district 3-A contest Tularosa edged T or C 7-6. The standings now have Silver City at 3-0, Tularosa and the Warriors at 2-1, Deming and T or C at 1-2 and Coble winless at 0-3. In another big contest Friday night Portales stunned defending state champion Artesia 28-0 to become the favorite to win the district 4-AAA crown.

Besides Don Nunley's interception in the first period Darin Smith, Byron Wright and Williamson each picked off a Wildcat pass. Neal led the Ruidoso rushers with 73 yards in 15 carries. Besides Garcia's 70, Lon Nunley picked up 42 in seven carries, Williamson had 55 in seven attempts and Lopez 31 in nine attempts. Billy Woodul completed six of nine attempts for 106 yards while Neal added 44 yards on two completions in seven attempts. Was it the Warriors' best offensive show

Warrior spikers lose twice to T or C

It was the height of frustration for Ruidoso High School's varsity volleyball team as it lost a 14-7 advantage in the final set and fell to host Truth or Consequences twice Saturday afternoon.

In the first match Ruidoso lost the first set 15-12 but came back to win the second set 15-11. Then the Warriors took a 14-7 advantage in the third set before the hosts came back to win 17-15. One more point would have given Ruidoso the victory.

In the second match Ruidoso fell in two w sets, 15-11, 15-7.

"That was one of the lowest points of the season," said Warrior coach Sergio Castanon in reference to the first match loss. "We found yet another way to lose. In the second match we were just too down from losing the first on the way we did."

Castanon praised the play of Laurie Morel, Karen Boone and Patricia Cardenas.

In junior varsity competition the Warriors remained winless by falling two sets both times. The first match saw T or C roll to a 15-1, 15-7 victory. However the junior Warriors came back to play the hosts tough in the second match, losing 15-11, 15-7.

Ruidoso is now 1-6 in district 3-AAA play and will conclude the regular season with a doubleheader against Coble and Silver City on the latter's court Saturday afternoon. The district tournament is scheduled for November 5-7 at Coble.

The Southeastern New Mexico Chapters of Ducks Unlimited are currently laying plans for their annual fund raising banquets. These events should be marked on the calendar by anyone who is interested in the future of North America's waterfowl.

The Ducks Unlimited (DU) success story is really starting to spread around. Last year's banquets, held nationwide, raised $20 million toward Ducks Unlimited's fund raising effort. What's even more important to realize is that this national fund-raising total must increase this year if the North American waterfowl habitat race is to be won.

Ducks Unlimited's sportsmen/conservationists founders discovered through surveys conducted some forty years ago that seventy percent of North America's waterfowl production occurs in Canada. Amazingly, what they figured out back in 1937 holds true today.

This creates a problem for United States Wildlife Managers since federal duck stamp dollars cannot be spent beyond United States borders, and sportsmen funds earmarked for waterfowl conservation are not getting to the places where the greatest percentage of production takes place. However, thanks to Ducks Unlimited's efforts, over $100 million have been raised in the United States since 1937. And, 80 cents out of each one of those dollars has been sent to DU (Canada) to reserve some three million acres of prime waterfowl habitat that encompasses over 1,700 wetland projects.

Even so, biologists estimate that millions of additional acres of habitat must be reserved in order to stabilize North America's waterfowl population. When you consider that habitat is diminishing due to agricultural and developmental pressures, and that DU is the only non-profit conservation organization involved in the Canadian waterfowl habitat race, you can begin to see the significance attached to the organization's fund-raising events.

A number of southeast New Mexico DU Chapters have faithfully contributed to the DU cause each year by holding local banquets.

This year is no exception as Ducks Unlimited banquets in southeastern New Mexico are already underway with Artesia holding its first-ever banquet on October 24. Alamogordo will hold its banquet in February. Everyone in Roswell can attend their banquet on October 30 at the Sally Port Inn. The event is Carlsbad will be on October 27, with the Hobbs Duck-lover's meeting on November 30. For information on these dinners contact your local Game Warden.

Available at this year's banquets will be rifles, shotguns, muzzleloaders, televisions, outstanding art prints, bronzes, and many other items.

If anyone is interested in getting a Ducks Unlimited started in your town, contact DU's Regional Director, Ladd Gordon, at 298-3625 in Albuquerque.

Ruidoso 9th graders fall

Ruidoso High School's ninth-graders gave the visiting Alamogordo-Middle School football team all it could handle before falling 21-8 Thursday night.

Alamogordo, representing a school of over 1,200 students, had a bigger squad than most high school junior varsity teams.

The visitors struck pay dirt late in the first quarter on a sweep around end. The two point conversion was also good and Alamogordo had an 8-0 advantage.

The Warriors equalized the score with 7:03 left in the first half on a four yard run

Colts win eighth LL championship

Winning the Ruidoso Little League football Super Bowl crown is becoming a habit for the Colts.

In fact, the Colts, coached by Ronnie Taylor, have won the 10 to 12-year-old title eight straight years since the championship game was started.

And this season's Colts team may be one of the best ever after winning the title Saturday afternoon with an impressive 44-

6 win over the Steelers at Ruidoso High School.

After Brian Davis returned the opening kickoff 70 yards for a Steeler touchdown the Colts went to work. The champions built up a 16-6 halftime advantage and added 28 more points in the second half for the victory.

Lane Willard, Jeff Willingham, Kirk Taylor and Eric Eastep all scored touchdowns for the winners. The Colts had had a season record of 7-0 scoring 274 points and giving up just 20. The Colts defeated the Cowboys 34-0 in the semi-finals last week.

Being ranked first among the nation's college football teams has become a lynchpin this season.

Michigan, USC, and now Texas have been ranked first in the Associated Press poll and have fallen to underrated foes later. USC's loss was the most surprising. The Trojans fell to a supposedly weak Arizona squad, one that USC normally beat by around 30 or 40 points. Texas also had a surprising defeat, falling to Arkansas 39-9. The defeat wasn't that surprising but the lopsided score sure was.

Now Penn State is on top. The Nittany Lions have been the most consistent football power in the East for many years. They carried the banner for eastern football when the so-called experts across the country were degrading the caliber of play in that part of the country.

Now that Pittsburg has become a powerhouse in the past few years (and is currently ranked second behind Penn State) many close followers of the college gridiron sport may have to change their thinking about the ability of eastern teams to play football.

Big 10 football has also improved this season. Where it used to be just Ohio State, Michigan State and eight "doormats" the Big 10 is finally showing some balance this year. Wisconsin, Minnesota and Iowa, teams which showed their strength briefly in the late 1950's and early 1960's, have become hot contenders for the conference championship again.

Perhaps the biggest disappointment as far as conferences go this season is the Pac-10. USC is still strong, despite its one loss to Arizona. But the rest of the conference is down except for Arizona State.

Washington, which has usually had an adequate offense to go along with a tough defense, is down this year as is Stanford. UCLA is not nearly as strong as it was last year and has been extremely erratic this season. California is weak again as are Oregon, Oregon State and Arizona (despite its victory over USC).

Washington State has been the only real boost for Pac-10 football this year. The Cougars are currently an outstanding 5-0-1. Most of their victories have come against mediocre teams but their 17-17 tie with UCLA (in which Washington State outplayed the Bruins) earned them some respect.

The Big-Eight, with Oklahoma and Nebraska leading the way, is probably the strongest conference in the country this year. It, along with the Pac-10, has generally been considered to be the powerhouse conference of the past decade.

However the relative strengths of the college conferences goes in cycles. Up until the early 1960's the Big-10 was almost universally considered to be the dominant conference in the college ranks. It then suffered a big letdown before it started to make somewhat of a comeback last season.

Still the strength of a conference a particular team is in shouldn't have much to do with the ranking of the team if that team plays enough strong opponents. Penn State and Pittsburgh are independent and play tough schedules.

The Nittany Lions have never won a national championship. Maybe this will be the season they finally reach the top.

According to Street and Smith's basketball magazine there are several New Mexico athletes listed among the high school All-American honorable mention picks.

No one from Ruidoso High School is listed. However, two players from Hobbs (one of them star football running back Tim Smith) and a couple of Albuquerque-area players made the honorable mention list.

Hobbs won the state AAAA crown last year behind graduated senior Vince Taylor and apparently is going to be strong again this season.

Ruidoso won the 3-AAA district title last year and finished fourth in the state tournament. While the Warriors lost some outstanding players only four players on last year's squad graduated. Ruidoso should also have one of its tallest teams ever with several players in the 6-3, 6-4 range.

Look for the Warriors to be strong contenders for the district title again this year.

Congratulations to News composing manager Judy Frost.

Judy, bowling in the Kings and Queens Mixed League, fired a 216 Tuesday night October 13. What made the feat so remarkable is the fact the score was 101 pins over Judy's average of 115.

Now that's what I call sudden improvement.

"... A Pretty Good Place For All Of Us"

As I write you these words on October twenty-two, a history-making meeting is taking place in Cancun, Mexico, to find ways to help the developing nations of the world — to start bringing an end to suffering, poverty and hunger in the world. It is fitting and proper that this meeting is held during the birthday season of one of the greatest and most beloved men of all time who once said:

"This world will not be a very good place for any of us until it is a pretty good place for all of us."

We are talking about Theodore "Teddy" Roosevelt, twenty-sixth president of the United States, born in New York City, October twenty-seven, 1858.

It has been said that George Washington founded the American Nation; Abraham Lincoln preserved it; and Theodore Roosevelt gave it new life.

A frail child, Roosevelt by faith and will power built himself into a man of such physical strength and endurance as to become legendary, and of untiring vitality hard to imagine in just one man.

Like Thomas Jefferson, he was a man of many gifts and accomplishments; and his service to his country was without measure, and of lasting value.

Himself a mental and moral giant, Teddy held an abiding sympathy in his heart for all "sorts and conditions of men" and was in return instinctively loved and admired by his countrymen of all ages and conditions, and also by peoples in other lands.

Teddy Roosevelt had a quality in extremely strong measure that we used to call "personal magnetism." He drew all men to him in friendship, giving you a feeling he was your brother human being and fellow American.

His deep love of our country and boundless pride in our traditions were, through the magic of his personality, transmitted to all his countrymen, so that their spirits glowed with a new devotion to their country. So that during his presidency and life, America became a world power, and he was known at home and abroad as "The Great American."

The Encyclopedia Britannica says of Theodore Roosevelt:

"His vigor, his courage, his bounding vitality, his lack of presidential pomposity, his familiarity with all manner of men, even his loudness in action and utterance, and his undisguised delight in driving 'the band wagon,' all endeared him to the 'plain folks.'"

"He set the soul of the nation to work on labors higher than the acquisition of physical comforts. He dreamed nobly for his country and inspired millions of his countrymen to dream nobly."

A Westerner

Although born in New York City, Roosevelt became a Westerner at heart. He bought a ranch near Medora, North Dakota, where he stayed a number of years, and was forever captured by the west with its free and forward-looking spirit, its wildlife, its matchless natural beauty and charm, and its cowboys.

Teddy was a great horseman and once said:

"I will not be happy in Heaven if the horses are not there."

A great philosopher once said:

"The great man is he who does not lose his child's heart."

Teddy remained a child at heart, ever retaining a child's boundless love of life, a child's sense of compassion; and his love of children and his companionship with them is a well-known mark of his character.

One of the family treasurers is a letter that Teddy Roosevelt wrote me in an answer to one I wrote him from Juneau, Alaska, along with a picture of myself and four brothers beside a tent flying an American flag.

The letter follows:

March 19, 1917

Office of
Theodore Roosevelt
Dear Dan:

"That's a very nice picture of you, and John, and Marcus, and Joseph, and Lynn, and I like your writing me from Alaska. It looks to me as if all you good little Americans will grow up to be good citizens, and love your country."

Faithfully yours,
Theodore Roosevelt

"A Long, Hard Trip"

Seventy-two years ago, lacking a couple of days, a young mining engineer started out on foot from Cordova, Alaska, with a companion, to be present at the birth of his second child, in Valdez.

Judging by the map, it looks like about sixty miles. And they are all there; swamps, long bay inlets, practically impenetrable thickets of alders, and no telling what all in the way of hazards and obstacles.

His traveling companion said he knew the way, but in crossing one of the inlets on the thin October ice, he fell through, and the young engineer was barely able to save him by lying flat on the ice and extending the man his coat.

A fire was made to thaw the man out and on they went. The delay caused them to be a couple of hours late.

Of course this was our father, Lynn Whippo Storm.

He told me many times:

"It was the longest and hardest trip I ever made. And when I saw you lying there on the bed beside mamma, with the same red complexion you have always had, and working your fists like a prize fighter, I took a liking to you."

This message will reach you on the eve of the anniversary of the completion of that "Long, Hard Trip." Our father, surely one of the greatest walkers who ever lived, often said when he was not feeling up to par, "What I need is a long, hard trip."

Birthday Cards:

I received a beautiful card from Lula and Robert Runnels of Bonito Valley, along with a color photo of devoted mother and son.

Also a charming card and cheerful message from my faithful friends in Oklahoma, Mike and Wanda Dunn. Thanks and all God's blessings to Lula and Robert and Mike and Wanda — and to all of you for helping make this and so many other birthdays so wonderful.

GIBSON'S DISCOUNT CENTER, RUIDOSO, NEW MEXICO — SERVING THE MOST ENCHANTING PART

Inside The Capitol

by Fred McCaffrey

SANTA FE—You have to admit Bill Sego is talking tough.

"What I want to tell them, McCaffrey," he says, "is that I am not about to quit. I'm convinced I didn't do anything wrong, no matter what that Phoenix judge found. I am going to go on running, no matter what anybody else says."

That's the kind of decision you would expect from a tough-minded man.

Bill is saying, in no uncertain terms, that he is convinced he was right in that court case which was recently ruled on. No matter what the judge says, Sego claims, "I have been sure all along that I was on the right side in this case. I could have settled it years ago if I had been willing to pony up the money the other side asked for. I didn't, because I was right and they were wrong."

So Sego is still in the campaign.

What we are talking about here is a legal case in which an Arizona court ruled that Sego, a Republican candidate for nomination to the governor's race here in New Mexico next year, defrauded an elderly couple in a deal which involved trading one ranch for another.

It's perfectly clear that no candidate for office would wish a court to apply the word "fraud" to whatever he has done while he is running for office.

That just can't help any campaign.

Fine Gifts of the Southwest, Since 1945.

2527 SUDDERTH DR.
257-4100

But Sego, who has bulled his way through a lot of things in his life, is intent on pushing on in this instance.

He suggests that one of the things he got caught up in is a family feud. Sego's partner in this arrangement has a brother-in-law who apparently wants to punish somebody. He appeared for the plaintiffs in the suit — and Sego and his partner were the losers.

But here is Sego now, saying, "Don't count me out. If I thought I were guilty of anything, would I have announced for nomination?"

His voice crackles with sincerity as he talks.

"I didn't do anything," he says, "and I hope those who plan to run against me will be sensible enough to know that what happened to me could happen to them."

What, we ask, does that mean?

"Nuisance lawsuits," Sego says.

"Anybody who is in the public eye is subject to this kind of thing."

So where does all this leave the Sego candidacy?

It was interesting to watch things here in the capital city. When the first newspaper story appeared about this suit (no New Mexico medium had followed it until Sego announced his candidacy), the turkey buzzards started to appear.

"Wow!" they said to those of us who have a guaranteed channel to your ears or eyes. "I'd get out if I were Sego. There's no way this kind of accusation can do anything but hurt him..."

It was touching to hear them.

But there was one fact we also noted: All those singing that tune were members of the Democratic party.

Sego's a Republican.

It was almost as though the Democrats wanted very badly to see this man fold.

You can't help asking why.

As for this writer, he will say one thing:

If Sego is tough enough he can ride this out; what he has to worry about is not Democrats but the self-righteousness of his Republican brothers and sisters.

Letters to the Editor

Dear editor:

TO BUY OR NOT TO BUY.

I agree with your assumption (Editorial 10-19-81) that the purchase of the Ruidoso Natural Gas Company would be of benefit to the Village of Ruidoso.

The engineering evaluation concerning the over all condition of the gas company will reveal, no doubt, not only the financial condition but also the physical condition of the plant. Let's hope that we don't face a mass replacement of underground transmission lines like we face in our water system.

If we can manage to buy the gas system at a price we can live with, there appears to be several advantages (1) We can maintain a local ownership with income to remain in Ruidoso rather than face an out of state absentee landlord. (2) Control of rates by a state regulatory commission might not be involved in a home owned utility although a final word is not clear on this point. There is only one disadvantage that comes to mind—and that is the old cliché that private ownership can do a better job than a municipality. In this case I have no doubts that our local people won't do a good job in taking over a company which doesn't appear to have any visible problems.

I would like to point out that your statement regarding "the more profits realized by the village, the greater benefits that will accrue to all residents" is not true.

Strangely enough, the Village of Ruidoso in its operation of water, sewer, refuse, etc. departments CANNOT SHOW A SURPLUS (PROFIT). This is against the state law and as a result you can imagine the tight rope which Mr. Jim Hine walks to keep the utilities income and expense at a break even point. Even should one operation have a surplus and another operation a deficit the two cannot be combined to a breakeven balance. The engineering report on the gas company will be interesting.

J. A. "Al" Jung

COMPARABLE WORTH

A federal study shows that on the average women in the labor force are earning 40 percent less than men. Inasmuch as the same disparity has existed for the last 20 years, this suggests that women are not making much progress in their demand for equal pay for equal work.

But the study conducted for the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC) also points out that sex discrimination by employers is not the only reason for the disparity. The law now requires that men and women doing the same job be paid the same wages, but anti-discrimination laws have not dealt with the fact that jobs in fields dominated by women traditionally pay less than jobs in fields dominated by men.

It is patently unfair to pay a male stenographer more than an equally skilled female stenographer simply because of his sex. But is it discriminatory to pay stenographers less than, say, construction workers? Stenographers may argue that it is, but the EEOC study points out that no one has come up with an acceptable formula to determine the "comparable worth" of work performed by persons in jobs which are not alike.

The equal rights movement is encouraging women to choose careers in fields traditionally dominated by men, and they have the law on their side in opening doors to employment and promotion opportunities that once might have been closed. This nibbles away at disparities in the incomes of women and men, but a dramatic change in the wage statistics may have to wait a resolution of the problem of calculating "comparable worth." — News-Bulletin, Belen

PUBLIC APATHY

Headlines in recent months seem to indicate public interest in the proposed Equal Rights Amendment is on the wane.

When two of the movement's most visible proponents—Betty Ford and Lady Bird Johnson — addressed an ERA rally in Washington, D. C. only a handful of supporters were in attendance.

The irony here is that the passage of an Equal Rights Amendment — the 27th to the United States Constitution — is a near-inevitable end to a momentum that has been building since the suffrage crusades of Elizabeth Cady Stanton and Susan B. Anthony more than a century ago.

The proposed amendment is extremely simple in concept and wording. It would read: "Equality of rights under the law shall not be denied or abridged by the United States or any state on account of sex."

In effect, the amendment would ban all laws that give one sex different rights than another.

Equality for women would seem a natural step in the evolution of a democracy such as ours. If the past is ever a preview of the future — as it always is, then passage of the ERA is a step that will be taken.

There is a saying that "all things come to those who have learned to wait."

Still, it is too bad public apathy and apprehension are forestalling ERA. It is too bad for those women who deserve equal rights now. — Corra Wesselhoff, Raton Range

Yours and Ours

editorial

We commend the Lincoln County commissioners, and county manager Bill Billingsley, on their disclosure Tuesday that they intend to upgrade the services rendered county residents by constructing an administrative building adjacent to the courthouse.

Housing the administrative office, computer room and commissioners' offices and meeting room in a separate structure would simplify the transaction of business at the administrative level. This should also mean that the elected county officials could have more room in which to operate, which should improve efficiency.

The disclosure that a county sub-station, housing the sheriff's department, District Attorney and Judicial Probation Officer, is being planned at Ruidoso is also welcome news. Hopefully this building will include offices for deputy treasurer, assessor, clerk and others, as a convenience to this area in which the bulk of the county's population is located.

The best news of all, concerning these building proposals, is that the county has the more than $460,000, the estimated cost, on hand.

This means these projects will pose no additional burden on taxpayers.

We hope the plans can be approved and that ground breaking ceremonies can be held soon, as we feel both buildings will be beneficial to the operation of county government.

Improving county services, at no additional cost to the taxpayer, is progress we can all appreciate. Gentlemen, we commend you. —CD

CALVARY AT BONITO?

Theologians must have been agog when The News announced that Calvary was a mile west of Lake Bonito ... in fact, it shoulda shook 'em.

Comes now Fred Langley of Kingfisher, Oklahoma ... and he did chide me ... 'cause he allows as how, being's Calvary ain't anywhere near Lake Bonito ... it musta been the cavalry ... and right he is.

'Course one of the most disturbing aspects of this boo-boo is the fact that it was announced ... maybe betwixt times ... which ain't good ... for betwixt me 'n the proofreaders, it shouldn't oughta have happened.

Anyhow those Cavalry types really did their thing at Lake Bonito ... and we hope they'll never have to do it anywhere near Calvary ... and to the cavalry troops ... sorry about that.

Being's there wasn't any complaints registered by the clergy ... I suspect theologians don't pay much attention to our mistakes.

And ... oh, yes ... thanks, Fred ... and if the cavalry returns to once again fly their 'copters over these hills ... I hope I get it right.

OTERO'S GRAND JURY

Things should get mighty interesting down Otero County way, as a grand jury gets their hooks into the problems of investigating the 12th Judicial District ... and the City of Alamogordo ... and the District Attorney's office.

One of the problem'll be the investigation of former mayor and councilman Frank Carr Jr. ... He's the one who pleaded guilty to five counts of felony sex charges ... involving young girls ... allegedly over a period of many years ... with it likewise being alleged that his carryings on were common knowledge ... which is a rather uncommon pursuit for a guy who's established himself as a community leader.

Anyhow ... seems petition signers figure maybe District Judge George Zimmerman didn't lower the boom on Carr, as maybe he shoulda ... and they done up and took umbrage ... and want, jinkies, the grand jury to get down to the bottom of this sordid mess ... and all such things like that ... which should make for interesting things happening.

ON WATER AND LIGHTS

Didja read about how budget-cutter Reagan's administration is acting on not financing new water systems ... and rural electric services ... to the extent that rural water associations and electric companies is having its ... and complaining ... and hoping for the best?

And, by jinkies, there's folks as is up in arms ... and they're raising hob ... and they want more consideration ... and money ... 'cause they wants to supply water and electricity to rural folks as wants it.

Now ... in all of Ronnie's budget cutting suggestions ... I don't recall as he said he was of a mind to shut anybody's water off ... much less leave them in the dark without water ... why that's almost bordering on cruel and inhuman treatment ... thirsty and candleless peons ... arise!

Just imagine how you'd feel, being in the dark about your well being dry ... a situation even a full moon wouldn't help ... yes?

SKI SEASON'S AHEAD

Now that the Chamber's Fun Day in the Park's history ... and folks has survived snarfing down all those cook-it-yourself hotdogs ... and stuff ... the time's at hand to consider that Indian Summer ... a glorious season that passed us by this year ... is now but a memory.

Sure hope that Gary Brown ... who keeps track of sports and stuff ... can find out how the plan at Sierra Blanca Ski Resort to make snow on the slopes is coming along ... and maybe, with pictures, show us.

But ... there's a chill in the air of a morning ... which indicates that Old Man Winter's waiting in the wings ... and that maybe he'll get all excited ... and start piling many feet of snow on the mountain ... 'cause the sooner skiing gets underway ... the more action there'll be in these here parts ... with that being the name of the game ... yes?

So ... why not start thinking snow ... especially on Old Baldy ... which sure does look pretty of a sunny winter morn ... all decked out to live up to its White Mountain name ... and claim to fame ... and stuff

Irrigation use increases in state

Irrigated acreage in New Mexico increased 6.5 percent in the last five years according to a report showing the sources of water used for irrigation. The report also details the kinds of crops grown on the state's irrigated and dry cropland.

In 1980, groundwater was used to irrigate about 60 percent of total irrigated acreage. Surface water was used to irrigate 28 percent, with both groundwater and surface water used to irrigate the remaining 12 percent.

The report is a cooperative effort of several state and federal agencies including New Mexico State University, New Mexico State Engineer Office, United States Department of Agriculture and New Mexico Department of Agriculture.

Between 1975 and 1980, irrigated acreage increased from 1,348,080 to 1,438,120. The six-year trend shows the largest increase occurring from 1975 to 1977, with acreage dropping sharply in 1978 and rebounding in 1979 and 1980, according to Dr. Robert Lansford, the agricultural economist heading the study.

"The changes mainly resulted from adjustments in federal farm programs and changes in the national economy," said Lansford.

Most counties increased acreage over the six years. Those with the greatest increases were San Juan, Roosevelt, Santa Fe, and Union counties.

The increase in San Juan County can be attributed to the development of the 100,000-acre Navajo Irrigation Project. During 1978, the project brought the first 9,200 acres under irrigation. Since then, the project has irrigated 29,200 acres more. Most of the acres were former rangeland.

Counties showing the greatest decrease in total acres irrigated were Colfax, Eddy, Harding, Hildago, Luna, Quay and Valencia.

Although New Mexico's newest county, Cibola, did not officially exist in 1980, the area was included in the survey. It recorded 3,610 irrigated acres.

On a six-year average, irrigated crops that accounted for the largest share of cropped acreage were alfalfa at 265,100 acres, sorghum for grain, 137,700 acres, corn, 112,400 acres and upland cotton, 109,900 acres.

Crops increasing 5,000 or more acres during that period were alfalfa, corn, wheat, barley, other small grains, upland cotton, chile, orchards and vineyards. These crops accounted for 102,600 acres more in 1980 than in 1975.

Crops that decreased more than 5,000 acres were sorghum, Pima cotton and other field crops. These accounted for 81,650 acres less in 1980 than 1975.

During that same period, total dryland acreage in the state decreased from 1,119,550 acres to 1,082,950 acres, or two percent.

The decrease was due mainly to expansion in irrigated acreage in Curry and Union counties. "In these counties," said Lansford, "wells are being drilled on dry farmland and, if successful, are used to irrigate the acreage."

In Roosevelt County, some grazing lands were plowed and seeded for dry-crop production in the 1977 to 1980 period, primarily for sorghum and wheat. These two crops accounted for about 91 percent of the crops produced on dryland in 1980. Hay crops, pasture and other small grains accounted for 9 percent in 1975 but decreased to five percent by 1980.

Focus on Small Business

by E. Maine Shafer

Dear Mr. Shafer—I am thinking of starting a business. But I am confused about how to structure it. What would be the different tax advantages or disadvantages under various types of business organizations?

Thousands of would-be entrepreneurs have to face the same crucial decision on a new business:

Should it be a sole proprietorship?
Should it be a partnership?
Should it be a corporation?
Should it be a Subchapter S corporation?

First, you should get advice from a good accountant. Tax considerations are important in structuring a business, but other factors, such as protecting the owner from potential liability claims, also influence decisions.

Sole proprietorship, just a one-person operation, is the simplest and most common form of business structure. The net income from the person's self-employment is added to the person's income from other sources. The recently-enacted cuts in individual tax rates will directly benefit such operation.

If more than one person is involved in a business, the choice is between a partnership or corporate structure. In a partnership, the individuals involved share the income or losses on their individual tax returns. They, too, will have lower tax rates as a result of the new tax law.

In a regular corporation, the net income of loss of the enterprise is taxed to the business; the individual is taxed on whatever salary or dividend he or she receives.

A Subchapter S corporation, a special hybrid form created by Congress to aid certain small businesses, has the attributes of a corporation. But any profits or losses are allocated to the individual owners as if it were a partnership.

Many of these accounting subjects are explored in special workshops and sessions conducted by the Small Business Administration. If you need help, you can call us at 505-769-3588.

Ruidoso Board of Realtors

In this week's column, the Ruidoso Board of Realtors responds to questions that have not been discussed in recent months.

Q. Our house has been on the market for two months, yet only a few people have come to look at it. We understand the problem of high interest rates, but is there anything we can do?

A. Make your home as attractive as possible. The first thing is your home's physical appearance. Make all necessary repairs; paint and clean your home. Many home-owners are not as concerned with cosmetics as they should be, and a home with a well-maintained look will be much more attractive by comparison.

Your financing package should be made attractive as well. A Realtor can suggest a number of alternative plans to meet your situation.

Remember, most people want to know how much cash they have to put down, and what their monthly payments will be. A Realtor will have those answers ready and help you find a buyer.

Q. I've heard that landscaping can save energy. How does this work?

A. Landscaping is often overlooked as an effective means of helping to cool and insulate a home. Leafy trees planted on the south side of your house provide shade in summer, yet allow sunlight to enter in winter. A thick lawn will keep some solar radiated heat from entering your home. Trees also function as a wind barrier. Several evergreens planted on the side of the house facing the prevailing winds force the air over their tops and provide an envelope of insulation for your home.

Trees and shrubs hold moisture, which cools the surrounding air by evaporation during the heat of the day. Vines provide shade in summer, and help insulate in winter by holding a barrier of dead air space between themselves and the walls of your house.

Q. Is it true that it's easier to finance a mobile home than in the past?

A. Yes. Manufactured housing, as it is referred to now, has become more like a conventional home than a vehicle. It is becoming more attractive to first-time buyers, and financial institutions are more willing to finance it as a conventional home.

In addition, the Federal National Mortgage Association has reversed its policy and will buy mortgages on manufactured housing. However, laws in a few states may still prevent manufactured housing from being treated as conventional housing for loan purposes.

Property tax bills to reflect lower rate

Property tax bills which will be due November 5, 1981, will reflect both the rate reduction authorized by the 1981 legislature and the mandated separation of property into residential and nonresidential categories, according to Fred Muniz, secretary of the Taxation and Revenue Department.

"The most notable change is the reduction in the school tax rate," Muniz said. "It dropped from 8.925 mills to half a mill for residential property. This translates into a cut of $84.25 for every $10,000 of taxable value." The rate for nonresidential property dropped from 8.925 mills to four mills, which will result in a tax bill $49.25 lower for every $10,000 of taxable value.

County assessors will determine how properties are to be classified and indicate the classification on the tax bill. Residential property will include houses, apartments and mobile homes used for human habitation. Vacant lots, regardless of location, will be classified as nonresidential property.

Because of the greater tax relief offered to owners of residential property, Muniz advised taxpayers to check the classification assigned to their property. Those who disagree with the assigned classification have until December 5, 1981, to file protests with their county treasurers.

County treasurers will accept statements of a property's classification from protesters and, on the basis of that affidavit, will issue adjusted tax bills. The adjustment is subject to review by the county assessor and, and if taxpayer and assessor still disagree, to final review by the County Valuation Protests Board. This procedure is new for 1981 and is applicable only for this year.

In 1982 taxpayers will be responsible for reporting the classification of their property to the county assessor. Property not reported as residential will be presumed to be nonresidential and will be taxed at the higher rate.

Classification documents will be mailed in January of 1982 (in some cases as part of the notice of value). Taxpayers will have until February 28, 1982, to file this document for residential properties. Once a classification document is filed, it will not be necessary to report classification in subsequent tax years.

Interest-free loans still available to vanpool groups

The state Highway Department still has $100,000 available to assist vanpool groups wanting to purchase commuter vans, according to Julian Roybal of the agency's planning bureau. The money is the remainder of a $200,000 grant announced in February.

Federal guidelines for the program allow qualified non-profit commuter groups to borrow 62 percent of vehicle acquisition costs. The money comes from the state's Federal Aid Primary funds and provide a source of interest-free loans for van purchase.

More than 40 vans have been purchased by commuter groups throughout the state since the Highway Commission first earmarked funds for the program in 1977, Roybal said.

Considering the rising price of motor fuel, vanpooling has become an attractive transportation alternative. The Highway Department has the money available and wants to assist local groups in starting or expanding a vanpool program, he said.

Additional information about vanpooling and applications for the loan program are available from the department's planning bureau, Post Office Box 1149, Santa Fe, New Mexico, 87503. Roybal can be contacted through the agency's toll-free telephone, 1-800-432-4269.

Airlines sometimes pay the bumped passenger

Most airlines overbook flights to avoid empty seats created by passengers who don't show up. As a result, when everybody with reservations shows up, there aren't going to be enough seats to go around.

Naturally, in this situation, one or more passengers won't get to go on that flight. The process is called being bumped.

The Civil Aeronautics Board (CAB) has changed the rules to encourage people who aren't in a hurry to give up their seats voluntarily in exchange for money and a later flight.

Passengers who are bumped against their will are, with only a few exceptions, entitled to compensation, according to Jackie Martin, Extension family finance specialist for New Mexico State University.

Rules now require airlines to seek out people who are willing to give up their seats for some compensation before bumping anyone involuntarily.

CAB rules don't say how much the airline has to pay a person who volunteers to give up their seat, so airlines will negotiate with passengers to find a mutually agreeable price.

Airlines also give their employees guidelines for passenger payments, and the employees will usually select the volunteer who offers to sell back their ticket for the lowest price.

Before volunteering to be bumped from a flight, there are some questions that should be answered, Martin said.

First, what's the next flight where the airline can confirm a seat? The alternate flight might be acceptable to the person who is willing to be bumped; however, if the airline offers a waiting list reservation or standby on another flight that's already booked full, the volunteer could find himself stranded.

The volunteer should also find out if the airline offers other amenities such as free meals, hotel rooms, telegrams or telephone calls, and cab fare. If not, the passenger who agrees to be bumped might find themselves spending any money they are paid for food or lodging while they wait for another flight.

Airlines are required to give any passenger who is bumped against his will a written statement explaining how the airline decided who gets on an oversold flight and who doesn't.

Passengers who don't get to fly are almost always entitled to on-the-spot payment, called denied boarding compensation. The amount depends on the price of the passenger's original ticket and the length of the delay.

The airline must pay anyone bumped involuntarily the amount of the fare to their destination, with a $37.50 minimum and a $200 maximum.

In addition, the person who has been bumped gets to keep their original ticket. They can use it on another flight or turn it in for a refund.

If the airline can't arrange another flight that will reach the bumped passenger's destination within two hours of the original flight (four hours on international flights), the compensation amount is doubled.

The denied boarding compensation is payment of the passenger's inconvenience. Like all rules, however, there are some exceptions.

To qualify for compensation, the passenger has to have confirmed reservations and must meet the airline's deadlines for buying the ticket and boarding the airplane.

Most airlines require passengers to buy tickets a certain amount of time before a flight leaves, and be in the assigned boarding area 10 minutes (sometimes more) before the scheduled departure. Passengers who don't meet these deadlines, even with confirmed reservations, may lose their reservation and their right to compensation.

And there's one situation where the bumped passenger can't win. If the airline substitutes a smaller airplane for the one originally scheduled on a flight, the airline doesn't have to pay people who are bumped as a result.

SALUTE TO CHAMBER MEMBERS

This is a regular feature in the Monday edition of this newspaper to introduce the members of the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce

ME AND TEX, located next to the Gateway Shopping Center on Sudderth Drive, became a member of the Chamber in June of this year. It's owned and operated by Ted and Ruby Freeman. It's open from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m., Monday through Thursday and from 11 a.m. to 10 p.m., Friday and Saturday. The restaurant offers many kinds of meat ranging from hot dogs to Mexican foods. It also is the only eating place in Ruidoso to offer gorditas, a form of Mexican sandwich.

ALLEN'S AUTO PARTS, located at 348 Sudderth near the Y, has been a member of the Chamber since 1948 but at different locations. Owned by Allen Luallin the business has been in its present location since 1966. Allen has five employees including three pictured here. From left, Lindsey Bates, Lyle Clabaugh (bottom) and Jim Culbert. The business is open from 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m., Monday through Saturday. It offers all kinds of parts for cars and trucks.

Never mind it's Halloween—what was that noise downstairs? Instead of worrying, why not tune into The Movie Channel's special Halloween movie and get really scared? On Saturday, October 31, The Movie Channel will bring to the screen from the British home of horror, Hammer Studios, the film "Dracula Today," starring Christopher Lee (who else?) as everyone's favorite vampire Count Dracula. In this 1972 offering, co-starring Stephanie Beacham, Phillip Miller and Christopher Neame, the Prince of Darkness visits a group of young Londoners who have decided to liven up a dull evening by holding a seance "to call up evil spirits in a desanctified church." Ouch.

OLE TACO

PBS in the spotlight

"Cosmos" explores Mars

On a space journey of half a billion kilometers, "Cosmos" will travel to Mars by way of telescopes, science fiction, and automated spacecraft on Tuesday, October 27 on PBS. (Check local listings for time in your area.)

"Blues for a Red Planet," the fifth of the thirteen "Cosmos" episodes, will restage the moment when human spacecraft first landed on Mars, whose reddish surface, polar ice caps, and seasonally-changing surface features have fascinated astronomers and have inspired speculation about life on Mars for more than a century.

"Mars is a world of wonders," says "Cosmos" host Dr. Carl Sagan, the distinguished Cornell University astronomer and Pulitzer Prize winning author. "In our time, we have sifted the sands of Mars, we have established a presence there, we have fulfilled a century of dreams."

"Blues for a Red Planet" begins with a thrilling recreation of the opening scenes from H.G. Wells' War of the Worlds, written in 1897, the story of a Martian invasion on an unsuspecting Earth. Wells' novel had been inspired by the observations of Mars made by Percival Lowell, a wealthy Bostonian who built his own observatory near Flagstaff, Arizona, to study the red planet and the civilization he thought existed upon it.

In Lowell's observation, Dr. Sagan recounts Lowell's belief that he could see a globe-girdling network of Martian "canals," which Lowell thought the Martians had built to carry water from the polar caps to the equatorial regions. Lowell thought the Martian civilization was an ancient, dying one; "Cosmos" recreates the ruined cities of Mars which Lowell imagined.

Dr. Sagan leads viewers on a breathtaking fly-by of the Mars that modern telescopes and spacecraft have revealed—a cold, red world, with a pink sky made of carbon dioxide, where planet-wide dust storms blow at more than 300 kilometers per hour, with volcanoes higher than Mount Everest and a rift valley twenty times larger than the Grand Canyon, where sinuous channels seem to have been made by running water, despite that fact that no liquid water can exist on Mars today.

"Cosmos" recreates the historic Viking spacecraft landing on Mars. Dr. Sagan shows a vehicle for future exploration that is capable of traveling over the surface to examine the likeliest sites for life. Viking found no canals on Mars, no artifacts nor intelligent Martians.

CONFIDENTIAL REPORT: Best known as banker Mr. Mooney on "The Lucy Show" in the 60's, the 75-year-old star Gale Gordon says he would much rather read a book than suffer through even a few minutes of "Dukes of Hazard" or "Three's Company." "I don't think television is the place for these show-and-tell programs with women wearing as little as possible or nothing at all," he told me. "And I don't like certain crude words—I don't think they're necessary," he said. "Not that I'm a prude, but you can hear that sort of thing any time just by walking down a sleazy street. I don't think that's entertainment." But there is a good side to television's new free-and-easy attitudes, Gordon admits. "In the 50's you couldn't even say the word 'pregnant' on television, even while Lucille Ball was in the family way on her show. Well, it is good that nowadays shows can be honest enough to say that a woman is pregnant. After all, it's not a dirty word, it's a very inspiring and wonderful word in most cases." But I see no reason for showing women half undressed and people taking the name of the Lord in vain. That's going to be the other extreme."

TV BACKSTAGE: Timex has joined ESPN with a ten year, multi million dollar package. The contract, which commenced this month, has Timex involved in many events, including college football and basketball, Top Rank Boxing and ESPN Sports Center in the fourth quarter of this year. The buy was made by Grey Advertising where all Timex U.S. advertising was recently consolidated. "We are honored to enter this agreement with ESPN," said Nicholas M. Mihalas, President of Timex Corporation, "and we believe that the nature of our involvement is the most innovative use of cable television advertising to date. Timex is committed to developing and manufacturing accurate, precise timepieces for use in sporting events, as well as for the active lifestyles of our consumers," he continued. "We recognize cable TV as the new wave of communications, and are pleased to be making an investment in the future."

TV CLOSEUP: Instead of being hypnotized by television, young children use sophisticated ways of choosing what to watch, according to a psychology professor. "Preschoolers are actively struggling to understand their world, which includes television," said Prof. Daniel Anderson of the University of Massachusetts in Amherst. Based on his research, Anderson said, "Young children use complex, highly sophisticated ways to choose television scenes they think they can understand and reject those they think they cannot." Anderson said children younger than two watch television "from time to time but they do not appear to watch in a regular or deliberate manner. When they are about 2½ years old, they are beginning to understand the meaning of images and sound flowing from the set. When they can't understand what's going on, they make a conscious adjustment and continue watching." He said children are attracted to a woman's voice and laughter, but are turned off by male voices.
