School airs fund needs

BY CHARLOTTE FELLERS
Staff Writer

The Ruidoso Independent School District will hold an election February 3 to elect board members and vote on a proposed two mill levy for the district.

The board member election will have Carlton L. (Bones) Wright, incumbent board member, in Position One opposed by Ronald Gene Harris and Richard C. Hall. Donald L. Swalander will run unopposed for Position Two.

Also to be decided is a two mill levy question, which would provide the school district with $105,000 per year for three years to make emergency improvements to all school facilities.

Board of Education president Dave Parks said the mill levy will add $20 to a property owner's taxes for every $10,000 of assessed valuation on the property.

"Remember that the assessed valuation is the amount that appears on the tax rolls and not the appraised value, which is the market value of the property," Parks said.

How the money will be spent, if the mill levy passes, depends upon whether a bond issue the school district hopes to float later this year also passes, according to Parks.

Assuming the mill levy and the bond issue both pass, which is the hope of the administration, faculty and five present board members, mill levy money will "go into emergency repairs," Parks said.

Because Ruidoso is growing at an annual rate of approximately five percent, Parks said, the schools will need to house nearly 1,900 students by the 1985-86 school year. In ten years, projected school-age population will be 2,300 and in 12 years, it will be more than 2,600, Parks said.

"The faculty has studied this in depth and these are their findings, based upon a five percent annual growth rate," he said.

"We need to realize how fast we're growing to understand the importance of passing the mill levy and the bond issue."

If voters pass both, Parks said the board will make the most needed repairs first, including weather stripping, doors, general plant upgrading and improvements at the high school football stadium.

If the bond issue fails, Parks said, and the mill levy passes, "The money will, out of necessity, be used for portable classrooms and repairs to main buildings as the first two priorities. Football

New roof for grade school

In a special meeting Tuesday, the Ruidoso Board of Education accepted a bid from Van Winkle Roofing Company of Roswell to repair the roof at White Mountain Elementary School.

The special meeting was needed because, of the two bids received, one was nearly twice as high as the other and some board members questioned the difference in services.

Van Winkle's bid included removal of existing wood shakes and replacement with asphalt shingles. Van Winkle will work with school architects Alley-Connell and Associates to select a color that would blend well with metal siding on the school building.

The other bid was received from Alamo Sheet Metal Works in Alamogordo, which provided for removal of existing shakes and replacement with metal siding the same as that around the gymnasium. The bidders felt the replacement would enhance the appearance of the complex because all other materials would be identical.

Van Winkle's bid on Lot One was $11,578 and on Lot Two, $6,217. The bids will include placement of composition shingles, which have an estimated 25-year life.

A bid was accepted at the regular board meeting January 13 for a portable building to be placed at Nob Hill Elementary, subject to an investigation of the company submitting the low bid of $45,600, Universal Building Components, Albuquerque.

Architects reviewed the company's past work and said in a telephone conversation with board president Dave Parks, that Universal is "a reputable company" and has done satisfactory work for several school districts in New Mexico.

Parks said the contract has been mailed to Universal "and we should get it back in the mail within two days, so we can begin construction next week."

The board will meet for a work session with Alley-Connell and Associates Tuesday at 3 p.m., in the administrative office, to begin long range planning for use of buildings.

SNOW brought welcome moisture to the Lincoln County area last weekend. And even in the desert near Carrizozo, where this photograph was taken, an icy fog rose Tuesday morning, coating the dried vegetation in white.

Village plans $1.6 million bond election

The village trustees, in a special meeting Wednesday afternoon, voted unanimously to present a $1,673,000 General Obligation bond issue for general improvements and road construction to the voters early this spring.

Village clerk Jim Hine was directed to contact the Local Government Division of the Department of Finance and Administration in Santa Fe to determine procedures for the election. He is also to contact the village's fiscal agent, Stern Brothers in Albuquerque, regarding the bond proposal.

Hine is to present his findings on holding the election to the trustees at their regular meeting January 27.

Under state law, the village can issue General Obligation bonds in the amount of four percent of the village's assessed valuation. It is expected that the assessed valuation for 1980 will exceed $40 million, which would provide the bonding capacity. The breakdown on use of the funds includes:

- $250,000 for fire protection. Property would be bought for construction of a sub-station, the necessary equipment and a Class A Pumper, with an additional sub-station and pumper planned.

- $170,000 for solid waste removal equipment. The sanitation department has requested a new 30 cubic yard diesel powered refuse removal truck, 100 three cubic yard and 500 one and a half yard dumpsters.

- $600,000 for repairing and improving municipal streets. The street department has outlined a two year plan for street improvements and the funding includes base course, culverts, hot mix and materials for the 40 miles of unpaved streets in the village, putting overlay on existing paved streets and two new heavy duty trucks.

- $653,000 to bring the jail, police offices and judicial facilities up to state code specifications. The existing village hall would be remodeled into a new facility for these purposes.

The trustees plan to include the bond question with the election seeking permission of the voters to offer the Municipal Swimming Pool for lease.

If no legal problems arise, the election will be held late in March or early in April.

Chamber sets annual election

The Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce will name seven new directors in February's annual election.

Candidates named by the nominating committee, and approved Wednesday by the directors, include:

Bill Fugate, Cro's Nest Motel; Buddy Carter, Apache Motel and Ruidoso Ski Rental; Dan Shaver, Shaver Tire and Auto; Helen Gable Reeves, A Place in the Sun; Morgan Clough, Morgan's Ski Shop; Gail "Sonny" Adams, Sonny's Barbecue; Joe Thompson, Continental Telephone Company of the West; Joan Bailey, Storybook Cabins; Sonja Smith, Smith Ltd. Gallery; Barry Morgan, Pinecliff Village; Bill Myers, High Country Janitorial; Karl Franzer, Safeway; Tom Kellum, Ruidoso Gift and Fireplace; and Jack Halbrooks, Mountain Alarm Systems.

Chamber executive director Ed Jungbluth said ballots will be mailed around February 1, and members will have one month to return them to the Chamber office.

The nominations for the Hn'zhu'ne Award, given to the business in Ruidoso that improved their storefront the most over the past year, will be made soon, and will also appear on the ballot.

Chairperson for that committee, Kathy Barnett, said buildings that qualify must have been finished during calendar year 1980 and cannot be new buildings.

A CLEAN-UP CAMPAIGN, sponsored by the Chamber, will be held this spring, with Tim Morris chairing that committee. "The general idea is to develop a committee to include all service organizations in town," Sheila Harris, Chamber president said. Jungbluth added that the Village of Ruidoso Downs will also participate in the clean-up drive.

In other action, the directors: - Agreed to have the annual membership banquet in early May at Cousins' Restaurant. The first 100 people making reservations will be able to attend.

Downs facing law suit

The insurer of a Ruidoso Downs home which was completely destroyed in a December 30, 1979, fire has filed a $37,500 suit against the Village of Ruidoso Downs, seeking a judgment to cover the loss and claiming the village's negligence was the "proximate cause" of damage to the home.

Security Insurance Company of Hartford, Connecticut, which made an insurance payment of $37,500 to Charlene Vance, owner of the home, claims the village was negligent in seven areas, as follows:

- "in the operation and maintenance of fire hydrants in the immediate vicinity of the residence . . ."

- "in failing to have a sufficient supply of pressure at the water main and fire hydrant . . ."

- "in training and preparing its fire fighters in the use and operation of its fire fighting facilities and fire suppression equipment . . ."

- Commended Jungbluth for his efforts in planning the second successful Jeep Party, held earlier this month.

- Agreed to schedule an overnight, out-of-town trip for the annual board of directors retreat, at a location to be announced.

- Discussed possible quarters for a boxing program, when the plan was suggested by Lucky Mulqueen, who plans to reorganize such a program in Ruidoso for youths. The Chamber would not sponsor this project.

- Heard that the next Cultural Committee meeting will be January 30, at 1 p.m., in the Chamber meeting room.

- "in the method of dispersing water for its fire prevention system . . ."

- "in failing to have an adequate water supply and service . . ."

- "in the faulty design and construction of its fire prevention system and fire fighting facilities . . ."

- "negligent and responsible for the negligent use and operation of fire fighting facilities, fire fighting equipment and fire prevention system . . ."

The company is seeking $37,500 and the costs of the court action.

Immediately following the fire, controversy arose over the condition of the hydrants, when volunteer fire fighters said there was "no water available" at either of two hydrants located near the home.

Downs mayor Norman Wheeler responded at that time by saying the fire fighters "apparently . . . don't understand how to operate them (the hydrants)." Wheeler added he and water superintendent Gary Sparks checked the hydrants after the fire and found "plenty of water available." Wheeler said the fire fighters "apparently stripped the threads" in their attempt to remove the small caps from the device.

He added the second hydrant was controlled by a nearby valve which should have been turned on to release water. The valve was normally closed, he said, because its location at the "end of the line" can cause excessive pressure to build at that point.

Barry Miller, who was fire chief at the time, said department members were unable to remove caps at the time of the fire. He also charged the valve controlling water to the second hydrant was located about three feet below ground level and required a water department "key" to open it.

Such keys, he said, were not issued to the fire department. Miller said fire department members also inspected the hydrants after the fire and "it took a sledgehammer and a hydrant wrench" to remove the small caps. When the removal was achieved, Miller said, the threads were found to be stripped.

Carrizozo forming group to support recreation

BY GWYNETH JONES
Staff Writer

A non-profit organization is now being formed for the purpose of obtaining funds for the continued operation of the Carrizozo Recreation Area and the reopening and management of the recently closed indoor Recreation Center and possibly the swimming pool.

Carrizozo town attorney Bill Payne met Tuesday with Lincoln County commissioners to discuss those plans. He said the organization, to be named Lincoln County Arriba Incorporated, is being formed to "manage, operate and preserve" the recreational facilities, including the golf course, Little League fields, lakes and playground located just east of Carrizozo, and the other facilities, located in Spencer Park, inside the town limits.

A group of local citizens currently is working on "details, including drawing up the bylaws and getting a board of directors together," Payne said.

Board members are being selected in a somewhat "mercenary" manner, Payne said, based on their abilities to raise funds and their business expertise. Directors are being chosen from throughout the county, he said.

He told the commissioners that no funds are being requested at present, but asked them to consider the possibility of a contribution in the future. The villages of Capitan, Carrizozo and Corona will also be asked to support the organization at some future date, he added.

The proposal for management and operation of the facility was presented Monday at a meeting of the Carrizozo town council, which approved the takeover, "in concept," Payne said.

He said he wanted to let the commissioners know, "we're counting on the county" to give some financial help in the future.

Commissioner John Allen Hightower asked if anyone had looked into the specifics of cutting expenses at the golf course, and requested that such a study be made "before you come here to ask for funds."

Hightower suggested that the fairways be planted with grama grass, which would keep weeds under control and could be "mowed but not watered" as extensively as in the past.

He said he was making that suggestion, "even though the golfers will want to shoot me down on this."

Commission chairman T. P. "Cotton" McKnight said he would favor some sort of funds to be granted but cautioned Payne that "there are three of us" (commissioners) who would have to be convinced that such a request was worthy.

With regard to operating the facilities, Payne said, "we can do it — it's just a matter of how well we can do it."

"We've got two million dollars worth of facilities, and we don't feel we can afford to let them go," he added.

Payne said the non-profit corporation was conceived after a meeting with state representatives last week. At that meeting, the group discussed possible sources of funding, including return of sales tax and mill levy monies to the community.

However, Payne said the locals had "gotten close to exhausting sources of government funding for these projects, and we're not even close to any kind of permanent commitment."

The course currently is being operated with a state Board of Finance loan of about $40,000.

The commissioners also discussed the communications between Camp Sierra Blanca (CSB) and the county sheriff's office.

E. B. "Hoppy" Gutierrez, CSB director, said lists of prisoners housed at the minimum security facility are being supplied to the sheriff every three months, and presented the commissioners with such a list, which he said was sent in August, 1980.

He said actual "rap sheets" were not being supplied to the sheriff, since in some cases, the documents were "20 pages long" because they include all crimes for which the convicts had been investigated or charged, regardless of whether a conviction resulted.

He asked the commissioners to write a

Ski Report

Sierra-Blanca: Undisturbed snow depth is 19 inches, after 10 inches of new snow over the weekend. The lower mountain has excellent skiing, due to a machine made base, but the upper mountain ranges from poor to fair. The upper mountain was machine groomed Tuesday night, however. Chairlifts one, two, three and five and the gondola are all operating.

Eagle Creek: Base averages 15 to 20 inches, with two intermediate and two beginner slopes open and in excellent condition. Chisholm Trail on the upper mountain is open, but in fair condition. The resort received six inches of new snow over the weekend and has been making snow nightly.

For updated ski reports, call Sierra Blanca, 257-9001, or Eagle Creek, 338-4211.

School skiing program starts January 28

The Ruidoso school ski program, delayed for two weeks due to lack of snow, will begin January 28, school officials announced Wednesday.

Parents of students in grades three through 12 must sign permission slips, to be returned by this Friday, for their children to participate in the program. The plan offers reduced ski equipment rentals and lift ticket rates.

This year, skiing will be held the afternoons of January 28, February 4, 11, 18 and 25.

Lift tickets, at a cost of $2, must be purchased upon arrival at either ski area. Ski equipment rental will cost $4 at participating ski shops, which include: Performance Ski Rentals, Morgan's Ski Shop, Sierra Blanca Ski Shop, Ray Heid's Ski Shop, Adobe Ski Rentals, Mountain Ski Shop, Ski West Sports, Pro Ski Sports, Ruidoso Ski Rentals, Alto Ski Shop, Alpine Ski Shop, Rush Ski Shop, Inn of the Mountain Gods, Ski Techniques, Wild West Ski Shop, Skinner's Ski Rentals and Eagle Creek Ski Rentals.

All first time skiers will be required to take instruction the first two days of the program, at a cost of $1 per session.

Students must rent ski equipment between 3 p.m., and closing Tuesday and return it by 6 p.m., Wednesday. Equipment must be returned clean, dry, undamaged and with boots buckled. Lost equipment will be charged to the user.

If the program is cancelled, special lift and equipment rates are also cancelled. Adults driving students to either area are eligible for reduced equipment rental prices, but not reduced lift ticket prices.

Parents with questions can contact any of the four principals or the central office at the student's school.

stadium improvements would be our third priority.

"Probably we would place another portable classroom at Nob Hill School and possibly several at White Mountain to accommodate both these schools.

"At the high school, we have woefully inadequate physical education facilities and restrooms and we desperately need to repair the bleachers in the stadium."

Parks said, however, that the $315,000 the district would receive over a three-year period, would buy six to seven portable classrooms, if that was the only purchase made, based upon current prices.

"That isn't even enough to accommodate us five years from now," he said.

Superintendent of Schools Pat Valliant said the district would have to make many adjustments in curriculum and class scheduling in the event both the mill levy and bond issue are defeated in the elections.

"We'd have to go to half day school sessions of course — that would be about the only way to approach it — and we'd have more bus runs," Valliant said.

Course reductions would be almost inevitable, as student population could not be accommodated, Valliant said. "We would try to get by with the same number of teachers, but it would be rough."

Special education courses, now one of the strongest departments in Ruidoso's school system, would probably be reduced. "What else can we do in a situation like that?" Parks asked.

He said extracurricular activities such as athletic events, Distributive Education, band, choir and other extra travel would also be curtailed. "We'd have to play ball games closer to home and drop out of district play. With half-day sessions, we won't have much time to even have an intramural program... all activities in general, would be curtailed," Valliant said.

The board is willing to take things one step at a time, Parks said. "As we make plans for spending this money, we will make it more clear to the public where the money is going and why we need it."

The district presently has $1,765,000 in bonded indebtedness and a bonding capacity of approximately $2,600,000, based on an assessed valuation of $48 million.

Parks said a bond issue will probably come before voters in June, when the district will reduce their bonded indebtedness by $250,000.

In the meantime, board members will have ongoing meetings with architects and other school officials to plan for future growth, Parks said.

"We encourage any group that may have questions for us regarding the mill levy's passage to call Pat (Valliant) and he will arrange to give them more details. "We have made every effort to reach service clubs and others in the community to discuss this proposal with them, but if we inadvertently missed someone, we strongly encourage you to get in touch with us," Parks said.

letter outlining what sort of information should be supplied to the sheriff.

The commissioners then voted to request monthly lists from CSB, listing the convicts names, hometowns, age, offense, ethnic background, and past convictions.

The county officials also approved purchase of 14 lots just north of the courthouse, to be used for parking.

The lots were purchased at a cost of $86,936, from Mary Rich Real Estate and the estate of Minnie Reil, and measure 25 by 100 feet.

In addition to providing parking, the removal of an abandoned hotel and other structures on the lots will "remove an obvious eyesore" from the main street of the town, the commissioners said.

County manager Bill Billingsley said the decision to purchase the land was influenced by the fact that the courthouse is "packed to the gills now," the increasing cost of real property and the fact that Lincoln is the "fastest growing county in New Mexico." Future building expansion

SBA names new attorney

Jack Dalton of Wichita, Kansas, has been named District Counsel of the legal department of the Albuquerque Small Business Administration (SBA) district director E. Maine Shafer has announced. Dalton has been an attorney in the Wichita SBA district office.

Filming planned at White Sands

Portions of the Columbia Pictures production "Wrong Is Right," will be filmed at White Sands National Monument beginning the first week in February, superintendent Don Harper has announced.

During the filming, scheduled to last about three weeks, normal visitor use of the monument will continue, Harper said. He also said that visitor access to the filming site may be controlled for short periods.

Lincoln's tourism holds steady

Attendance at Lincoln State Monument for 1980 was nearly the same as 1979.

A total of 28,411 visited the courthouse museum during the year, 60 less than a year earlier.

Visitation in December was ahead of 1979, up from 673 to 831.

Most other state monuments also experienced declining attendance for the year: Coronado (12 percent), Fort Selden (11 percent), Jemez (.6 percent), and Quara (16 percent). Fort Sumner increased by 12 percent.

School board candidates' forum set at Capitan

A "Meet the Candidates" night, prior to the February 3 school board election in Capitan, is scheduled in the school cafeteria Monday at 7:30 p.m.

The public meeting is being sponsored by the General Federation of Women's Clubs-Capitan Woman's Club.

Bicycle path study underway

Various avenues for providing bicycle paths in the village of Ruidoso are now under investigation by the Bicycle Paths Committee, appointed by Ruidoso Mayor Lloyd L. Davis Jr.

Committee members include Galen Farrington, Ellen Miller, Tom Yang, Ken Green and trustee George White, who also volunteered to serve as county coordinator to check the possibility of receiving county funding to post signs and paint stripes for such paths.

The committee will check village, county and state regulations with the goal of securing one or more streets within the area which could be marked with signs and striped properly, for bicycles.

Committee president Farrington said committee members feel bicycling is a viable means of transportation and is a coming trend, since motor-powered vehicles cost more to operate yearly.

Because bicycling is possible during most months, the committee will encourage using bicycles for transportation in the village.

Bicyclists have several problems to overcome if they choose to ride to most any destination in the village, committee members said. No bicycle racks exist in most parts of the village or at any of the four schools, so owners have no means of protecting their property from being stolen.

Another problem is that, because bicycling is not a major means of transportation in the village, many motorists are not aware of laws regarding non-motorized vehicles.

Suggested bicycle paths which may be proposed to village trustees include a routing from Sudderth through Carrizo Canyon with bicycle travel permitted to the Inn of the Mountain Gods, provided the Mescalero Apache Tribe is in agreement.

Another route could be placed on Gavilan Canyon Road beginning at Meador Drive, past the water tower and returning to the village by way of Hull Road.

Recommendations may include cutting speed limits on roads incorporating bicycle paths, filling of dangerous potholes on outer edges of roadways, and clearly marking bicycle paths.

Police officials will be asked to cooperate in educating the public on courtesies to be extended to bicyclists by motorists and to motorists by bicyclists.

"Weather permits bicycling in our area and many more participants would get out for the benefits of exercise, short shopping trips and generally low cost, pleasurable transportation if specific streets, not too steep, were marked and set aside as bicycle routes resulting in relatively safe riding," Farrington said.

"The Bicycle Paths Committee will present findings and recommendations to the village trustees when more information is available.

"We are grateful for the contributions of food, from Schlotzsky's and Norman's Pizza, for lunch and dinner; Safeway for apples and oranges and Seven-Eleven, for sodas," Pearch said.

"We had a lot of good response from the community — not only did they pledge money to the kids, they came in to cheer the kids on during the skate-a-thon," she added.

Lady Warriors fall to Tularosa

A foul thing happened to Ruidoso's lady Warriors Tuesday night, you might say. They lost to Tularosa's lady Wildcats 57-55 in a district contest that went down to the wire.

Actually, it came down to the charity

Donations sought for Special Olympics skier

Marbie Williamson, a student at Carrizozo's New Horizons Developmental Center, placed second in cross-country skiing in the Special Olympics, held last week in Angel Fire.

The center provides training for developmentally disabled persons. Her performance makes her eligible to compete in the national Special Olympics meet, to be held in Vermont. Donations are being solicited from the community to help pay expenses for the trip. Donations may be taken to the center, located in the old Carrizozo Hospital building, or mailed to New Horizons, Box 187, Carrizozo. All donations are tax deductible.

More information may be obtained by calling 840-2379.

strips, as three Warrior starters (Patsy and Brigid Almager and Lisa Shaw) fouled out and several others played much of the game with four fouls. The Warriors' tough man to man defense was responsible for practically all the fouls whistled against Ruidoso, according to coach Sergio Castanon.

"I want them to be aggressive," he said. "We were a little too aggressive against Tularosa, and it got us into trouble. Foul trouble."

To put it one way, the Warriors led at halftime, 29-27. Of the Wildcats' 27 points, 15 came on charity tosses. To put it another way, Tularosa sank only six baskets in the first half.

"Other than all the fouling, I thought we played a good ballgame," Castanon said. "Tularosa played probably the best ball they can play, but I think we're still improving and we'll get better."

"We're still a young team, and our lack of experience hurt us, especially when our seniors fouled out. Then the sophomores and juniors made mistakes that sophomores and juniors make."

Lisa Shaw copped scoring honors with 20, followed by Kody Wyatt with 12, Jan Busey with eight, Tami Shaw and Patsy Almager with four apiece, Gleda Bob with three, and Claudia Brannum and Brigid Almager with two each.

The loss drops the lasses to 5-5 overall and 1-3 in district. "We seem to have a hard time getting past 500," Castanon said. "I don't understand it."

"I'm disappointed because we lost, but I'm pleased with the way we played. Everybody played well, and if we keep improving, by the time of the district tournament, we'll be in real good shape."

Next opposition for the lady Warriors are non-district battles with Cloudcroft Friday and Artesia Tuesday. Next district foe is Silver City here on January 31.

The JV Warrior junior varsity claimed only its second win of the season and its first district victory with a 50-25 shellacking of Tularosa's JV. Coach Dick Mound's troops jumped out to an early lead in the first period and held a seven point edge at intermission, 18-9.

A 20 point third quarter and 14 more in the fourth proved to be more than enough for the win for the young junior varsity. Robin Roberts was high scorer with 10, followed by Jeanette Weerns with nine, Angela Davis with seven, Lillian Lopez and Robin Rhodes with six each, Sherrie Ryan and Kerri Tate with four apiece, and Claudia Brannum and Tami Goldsmith each chipped in two points.

The JV stands at 2-6 on the year. Next opponent is Cloudcroft Friday.

Junior varsity captures fifth win of season, 52-40

Look out, world -- the Ruidoso Warrior junior varsity basketball team has arrived, according to coach Vince Collins. And Monday night they served notice on same to Roswell Goddard's sophomores, upping their 1980-81 record to 5-4.

The final was 52-40, after the Warriors trailed 17-8 at the end of the first quarter. And they were down 12-0 at one point. "I couldn't believe it," Collins said. "The way they played."

From there it was easy. "We finally got the idea of what this game is all about," Collins said. "I'm really pleased. We played good team ball, ran the offense well, played good defense. We made something happen out there."

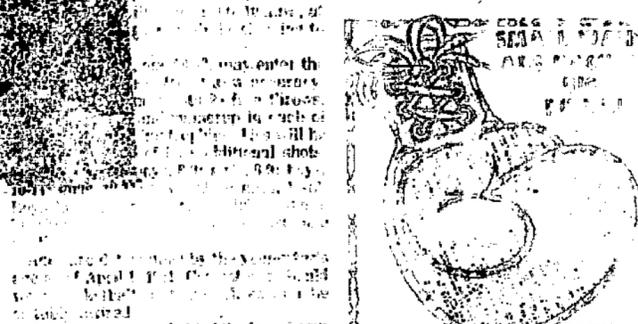

Tin Enjady had a big night for the Warriors, scoring 24 points to claim scoring honors. Marc Delhotal was second with 12 points.

Robin Roberts (10) and Angela Davis (9) of the Warriors (left) and Tularosa's Teresa Jamison (12) and B-14 (right) rebounded, but some rebounded. With it didn't have much of a chance of being it would be the district contest, 57-55.

Shoot rescheduled

The Ruidoso Warriors' annual shoot was rescheduled to Saturday, January 24, at 10 a.m. at the Ruidoso High School gymnasium. The shoot is a fundraiser for the Warriors' equipment. The shoot is open to all members of the Warriors' organization. For more information, call 378-4488.

Sportin' Life

a column of opinion by Mark Bagby

Here's hoping the 1981 Super Bowl is up to its name.

This is Super Bowl XV (really number XIII, if you want to get technical -- more about that later), but most of games haven't been too good.

One-sidedness has been the keynote most of them. Anybody remember great classic ones, like 35-10, or 24-3, or 7?

Yes, there have been some great ones both the Pittsburgh-Dallas matchup ranked as the best Super Bowl ever played, and last year's Rams-Steelers game was pretty good, and then there was the Colts-Cowboys game won by Jim O'Brien's 32 yard field goal in the final minute.

But all in all, the Super Bowl has been the Super Bore.

Remember the really dull ones? Like Dallas-Miami, Dallas-Denver, Green Bay Kansas City, and any of the four games with Minnesota? And Miami-Washington, though the final was 14-7, Miami, was a really rotten game.

Not too good a record for what's supposed to be the country's greatest football game each year. Maybe we should go back to the original name -- it wasn't called the Super Bowl until the Jets played the Colts in 1969.

Before that, it was called the National Football League-American Football League World Championship Game.

No wonder they shortened it to the Super Bowl.

How about a little bit of Super Bowl trivia?

Here goes -- what team has been to the most Super Bowls? (How 'bout Dallas? The Cowboys are 2-3.)

How many teams have won the Super Bowl in their first-ever appearance? (Only three -- Green Bay, New York and Pittsburgh.)

Where have the most Super Bowls been played? (The Orange Bowl in Miami, with five.)

What's the biggest and narrowest margins of victory in the 14 Super Bowls? (25 by Green Bay in the first one, and three by Baltimore in number five.)

The 1981 game is being played in the Superdome in New Orleans. It's the fourth game in New Orleans, though the first two were played in Tulane Stadium.

There are 22,000 hotel rooms in New Orleans, and 70,000 people have rented those 22,000 rooms (sounds kinda crowded to me). There are 75,000 seats in the stadium.

Over 1,300 sportswriters, photographers and broadcasters will be there.

Tickets are currently being scalped for $250 and more. What I call legal scalping has already taken place -- that's the $40 list price from the National Football League. You'd really have to jack up the price to make anything on those.

(Incidentally, the Dallas Cowboys made all their players sign affidavits swearing they wouldn't sell their tickets for more than the official $40 a seat price.) Philadelphia is a three point favorite.

That just so happens to be the date of Warrior basketball Homecoming, don't you know, and the Boosters are gonna be making enchiladas just for you and yours.

The dinner starts at 5 p.m., serving through 8 p.m., which should allow you to eat and get into the gym just in time to see who the queen is this year.

Food will be served in the cafeteria, as I understand it, and tickets are $3.50 for adults and $1.50 for youngsters under age 12. (I guess kids get a break in price 'cause they're smaller and won't--in theory--eat as much. These guys never met my kids, or it'd cost me five bucks a head to get in.)

After you've loaded up on enchiladas, I believe they'll have desserts there for a small fee -- tax deductible, probably, 'cause it's a donation -- minimum of 50 cents, in fact.

If you've got $10 you don't want, but you do want a piece of apple pie, they'll take your money and give you a slab of pie. Might even give you two if you ask real nice.

Whole thing sounds good to me. Enchiladas will be just fine, thanks. Now the question is: what do I have for lunch?

Coach Dean Hood is at a loss to explain why his squad is beginning to resemble an elevator.

"It seems like there are certain things we think we can beat and we can't," he said. "I guess we got beat at something."

His team was up 17-8 at the end of the first quarter, but they were down 12-0 at one point.

"We're not in their league and they always clobber us," he said. "We were down by 27 points at the half, so in the second half we said, 'Let's be realistic and just do the best we can.'"

"We played much better ball in the second half."

Down 37-10 at the half, the Braves were able to put 17 points on the board and Hood thought they could've had more if the fast break hadn't misfired.

"I don't know how many we overthrew, but it was a lot," he said.

Jeff Knox was high scorer with 10, followed by Tracy Gann with five, Matt Porter and Patric Pearson with three

A MASS OF DETAILS

So it won't come as a complete surprise to you, as it does to a lot of homeowners who try to sell their own homes, here's something you should know about. Selling a home involves a mass of petty details. There's paper work to do, attorneys to be dealt with, a title search to be made, and vital arrangements to be made concerning down payment, escrow accounts and mortgage financing. Unless you're an expert on these subjects, you'll be working at a disadvantage. Erving on any one of these details could ruin your sleeping habits and your financial position.

Honestly, it pays to sell your home through a local Realtor. It's his full-time business to keep on top of these details. He's alert to every step of the transaction, knows how to make the necessary arrangements, and follows through on details. He knows how important it is to protect all parties against misunderstandings and the importance of all agreements being in writing.

Lady Warriors fall to Tularosa

A foul thing happened to Ruidoso's lady Warriors Tuesday night, you might say. They lost to Tularosa's lady Wildcats 57-55 in a district contest that went down to the wire.

Donations sought for Special Olympics skier

Mamie Williams, a student at Carrizozo's New Horizons Developmental Center, placed second in cross-country skiing in the Special Olympics, held last week in Angel Fire.

The center provides training for developmentally disabled persons. Her performance makes her eligible to compete in the national Special Olympics meet, to be held in Vermont. Donations are being solicited from the community to help pay expenses for the trip. Donations may be taken to the center, located in the old Carrizozo Hospital building, or mailed to New Horizons, Box 187, Carrizozo. All donations are tax deductible.

More information may be obtained by calling 648-2379.

strips, as three Warrior starters (Patsy and Bridget Almager and Lisa Shaw) fouled out and several others played much of the game with four fouls. The Warriors' tough man to man defense was responsible for practically all the fouls whistled against Ruidoso, according to coach Sergio Castanon.

"I want them to be aggressive," he said. "We were a little too aggressive against Tularosa, and it got us into trouble. Foul trouble."

To put it one way, the Warriors led at halftime, 29-27. Of the Wildcats' 27 points, 15 came on charity tosses. To put it another way, Tularosa sank only six baskets in the first half.

"Other than all the fouling, I thought we played a good ballgame," Castanon said. "Tularosa played probably the best ball they can play, but I think we're still improving and we'll get better."

"We're still a young team, and our lack of experience hurt us, especially when our seniors fouled out. Then the sophomores and juniors made mistakes that sophomores and juniors make."

Lisa Shaw copped scoring honors with 20, followed by Kody Taylor with 12, Jan Huey with eight, Tami Shaw and Patsy Almager with four apiece, Gleda Bob with three, and Claudia Braun and Bridget Almager with two each.

The loss drops the lasses to 5-6 overall and 1-3 in district.

"We seem to have a hard time getting past 500," Castanon said. "I don't understand it."

"I'm disappointed because we lost, but I'm pleased with the way we played. Everybody played well, and if we keep improving, by the time of the district tournament, we'll be in real good shape." Next opposition for the lady Warriors are non-district battles with Clouderoff Friday and Artesia Tuesday. Next district foe is Silver City here on January 31.

The lady Warrior junior varsity claimed only its second win of the season and its first district victory with a 50-25 shellacking of Tularosa's JV.

Coach Dick Mound's troops jumped out to an early lead in the first period and held a seven point edge at intermission, 16-9.

A 20 point third quarter and 14 more in the fourth proved to be more than enough for the win for the young junior varsity.

Robin Roberts was high scorer with 10, followed by Jeanette Weems with nine, Angela Davis with seven, Lillian Lopez and Robin Rhodes with six each, Sherrie Ryan and Kerri Tate with four apiece, and Claudia Braun and Tami Goldsmith each chipped in two points.

The JV stands at 2-8 on the year. Next opponent is Clouderoff Friday.

Junior varsity captures fifth win of season, 52-40

Look out, world -- the Ruidoso Warrior junior varsity basketball team has arrived, according to coach Vince Collins. And Monday night they served notice on same to Roswell Goddard's sophomores, upping their 1980-81 record to 5-3.

The final was 52-40, after the Warriors trailed 17-8 at the end of the first quarter and they were down 12-0 at one point.

"I couldn't believe it," Collins said. "The way they just took off like that blew my mind. But we came back strong and I'd have to say that's the best game we've played all year."

The Warriors pulled to within five points by halftime, 22-17, but the third quarter was the real turning point.

An incredibly vicious Ruidoso defense stopped the Rockets cold in the third stanza, allowing only two points. Meanwhile, the Warriors racked up 17 baskets for a 34-24 lead.

"We switched defenses every time Goddard came down the shot, so they never saw the same one twice," Collins said. "It sorta ties in their offense and sync and forced a lot of turnovers."

"We also didn't let them work inside. They had to shoot from the outside and that's out of their control."

From there it was easy.

"We finally got the idea of what this game is all about," Collins said. "I'm really pleased. We played good team ball, ran the offense well, played good defense. We made something happen out there."

Tim Enjady had a big night for the Warriors, scoring 24 points to claim scoring honors. Marc Delbatal was next with eight, followed by Don Munley with seven, Steve Sluder with six, Russ Veranda with three, and Ric Pearson and Bobby Knox with two each.

Collins was heavy with praise for Enjady, Munley, Sluder and Pearson.

"I'm got a lot of points, but Sluder set most of them up, and he was a demon on defense," he said. "Munley played a tremendous game, and Pearson is probably the most improved player on the squad."

Collins sees bright things ahead for his young squad.

"It's a true 11th grade of basketball has sunk in, and we understand the game," Collins said. "That was a good thing."

The JV will be out to even their record Sunday in a game with Lake Arthur there.

Collins' JV is led by Teresa Jameson (17) and friend. Although not noted that rebound, but some unidentified players did not have much of a chance of seeing it with the Warriors in the district contest, 57-55.

Sportin' Life

... a column of opinion ...

by

Mark Bagby

Here's hoping the 1981 Super Bowl lives up to its name.

This is Super Bowl XV (really, it's number XIII, if you want to get technical — more about that later), but most of the games haven't been too good.

Onesidedness has been the keynote for most of them. Anybody remember the great classic ones, like 35-10, or 24-3, or 14-7?

Yes, there have been some great ones — both the Pittsburgh-Dallas matchups ranked as the best Super Bowls ever played, and last year's Rams-Steelers game was pretty good, and then there was the Colts-Cowboys game won by Jim O'Brien's 32 yard field goal in the final minute.

But all in all, the Super Bowl has been the Super Bore.

Remember the really dull ones? Like Dallas-Miami, Dallas-Denver, Green Bay-Kansas City, and any of the four games with Minnesota? And Miami-Washington, though the final was 14-7, Miami, was a really rotten game.

Not too good a record for what's supposed to be the country's greatest football game each year. Maybe we should go back to the original name — it wasn't called the Super Bowl until the Jets played the Colts in 1955.

Before that, it was called the National Football League-American Football League World Championship Game.

No wonder they shortened it to the Super Bowl.

How about a little bit of Super Bowl trivia?

Here goes — what team has been to the most Super Bowls? (How 'bout Dallas? The Cowboys are 2-1.)

How many teams have won the Super Bowl in their first-ever appearance? (Only three — Green Bay, New York and Pittsburgh.)

Where have the most Super Bowls been played? (The Orange Bowl in Miami, with five.)

What's the biggest and narrowest margins of victory in the 14 Super Bowls? (25 by Green Bay in the first one, and three by Baltimore in number-five.)

The 1981 game is being played in the Superdome in New Orleans. It's the fourth game in New Orleans, though the first two were played in Tulane Stadium.

There are 22,000 hotel rooms in New Orleans, and 70,000 people have rented those 22,000 rooms (sounds kinda crowded to me). There are 75,000 seats in the stadium.

Over 1,300 sportswriters, photographers and broadcasters will be there.

Tickets are currently being scalped for $250 and more. What I call legal scalping has already taken place — that's the $40 list price from the National Football League. You'd really have to jack up the price to make anything on those.

(Incidentally, the Dallas Cowboys made all their players sign affidavits swearing they wouldn't sell their tickets for more than the official $40 a seat price.) Philadelphia is a three point favorite.

but like I said earlier, only three teams have won on their first trip, and this is Philly's first time.

Oakland, on the other hand, is there for the third time, but, on the other hand, no wild card team has ever won the Super Bowl either.

Maybe neither team will win.

To get to this game, Oakland had to win three playoff games, Philly had to wade through two. The winning team's players' shares are $18,000 each. Losers get $9,000.

Oakland's players will make $35,000 total for playoff games if they win, Philly's troops will clear $32,000 apiece if they win. (The $3,000 difference is due to the extra playoff game the Raiders were in.)

Not too bad for four weeks' work, huh? We should all be so lucky.

I guess I really don't have to say who I'm for, since I've been an Oakland Raider fan for a long time. What I want to know is, if the Raiders win, will Al Davis drop his stupid plan to move the team to Los Angeles?

Are you listening, Al?

Chow down

While we're discussing food (you might not be, I'm writing this before lunch and I'm hungry), don't forget the Warrior Booster Club's enchilada supper on January 31.

That just so happens to be the date of Warrior basketball Homecoming, don't you know, and the Boosters are gonna be making enchiladas just for you and yours.

The dinner starts at 5 p.m., serving through 8 p.m., which should allow you to eat and get into the gym just in time to see who the queen is this year.

Food will be served in the cafeteria, as I understand it, and tickets are $3.50 for adults and $1.50 for youngsters under age 12. (I guess kids get a break in price 'cause they're smaller and won't-in theory—eat as much. These guys never met my kids, or it'd cost me five bucks a head to get in.

After you've loaded up on enchiladas, I believe they'll have desserts there for a small fee — tax deductible, probably, 'cause it's a donation — minimum of 50 cents, in fact.

If you've got $10 you don't want, but you do want a piece of apple pie, they'll take your money and give you a slab of pie. Might even give you two if you ask real nice.

Whole thing sounds good to me. Enchiladas will be just fine, thanks. Now the question is: what do I have for lunch?

What's the biggest and narrowest margins of victory in the 14 Super Bowls? (25 by Green Bay in the first one, and three by Baltimore in number-five.)

The 1981 game is being played in the Superdome in New Orleans. It's the fourth game in New Orleans, though the first two were played in Tulane Stadium.

Braves win one, lose two

It's been a case of "up and down" for the White Mountain Middle School basketball team, and three recent games were no exception.

The Braves lost to Alamogordo 61-27, after losing to Tularosa 51-27 on Jan. 31, and to Roswell 51-27 on Jan. 17.

Coach Dean Hood had a lot to say about why his squad is beginning to resemble an elevator.

"It seems like there are certain things we think we can beat and I mean we can't," he said. "I guess we just need to be something."

His team was up 10-0 at Alamogordo, he said.

"We played much better ball in the second half."

Down 37-10 at the half, the Braves were able to put 17 points on the board and Hood thought they could've had more if the fast break hadn't misfired.

"I don't know how many we overthrew, but it was a lot," he said.

Jeff Knox was high scorer with 10, followed by Tracy Gann with five, Matt Porter and Patric Pearson with three each. J. Bellinger and Brady Reynolds were also good scorers. Hood said the Braves' defense was not the Braves' strength.

"I'd like to see the Braves' defense play a little better in the future," Hood said. "If we play well, and put together a good game, we should be able to beat them."

The Braves fell behind 21-8 in the first period, but pulled to within eight by halftime, 32-29. But they never quite could make up the difference.

Hurry Ensor was high scorer with nine, followed by Bellinger with seven, Pearce with six, Knox with four, Porter with three, and Gann with two.

"The Braves' 43-17 win over Capitan was probably the best game we've had all year," Hood said. "We couldn't seem to do anything wrong."

The Braves held a 21-9 edge at intermission and made it 40-11 at the end of the third period. Superb defense was the key, as White Mountain allowed no points in the second period and only one half in the third.

Frazier was high point man with 16, followed by Pearson with eight, Knox with seven, Woodall with four, Eduardo Gendarilla and Stan Sluder with two each, and Porter and Mitch Mullican with one apiece.

Hoop Shoot rescheduled

The Hoop Shoot basketball tournament, which was scheduled for Saturday and Sunday, Jan. 24 and 25, has been rescheduled for Saturday and Sunday, Jan. 31 and Feb. 1. The reason for the change is that the tournament was scheduled to take place during the same time as the state basketball tournament, which is being held in Albuquerque. The Hoop Shoot tournament will now be held during the same time as the state basketball tournament, which is being held in Albuquerque.

A MASS OF DETAILS
So it won't come as a complete surprise to you, as it does to a lot of homeowners who try to sell their own homes, here's something you should know about. Selling a home involves a mass of petty details. There's paper work to do, attorneys to be dealt with, a title search to be made, and vital arrangements to be made concerning down payment, escrow accounts and mortgage financing. Unless you're an expert on these subjects, you'll be working at a disadvantage. Erring on any one of these details could ruin your sleeping habits and your financial position.

Honestly, it pays to sell your home through a local Realtor. It's his full-time business to keep on top of these details. He's alert to every step of the transaction, knows how to make the necessary arrangements, and follow through on details. He knows how important it is to protect all parties against misunderstandings and the importance of all agreements being in writing.

"YOU CAN COUNT ON US!"

Inside The Capitol

by Fred McCaffrey

SANTA FE — The chairman of the state's Public Service Commission is getting a new license for his automobile.

He has faithfully promised this department that the 1973 Arizona plates now on his car will be replaced by a valid New Mexico license by the time you read these words.

Please! No applause!

We appreciate your cheers for this outstanding accomplishment, which we intend to enter for a possible Pulitzer prize.

But look at it this way: At least we did talk a man who gets a rather sizeable check for the State of New Mexico every two weeks into spending on his automobile an amount proportional to what you, the reader, spend on yours each year when you have it validly licensed.

Why hasn't Dickie Montoya been accused driving an LTD with out-of-state and out-of-date license plates on it during all this time?

The writer can't answer that question — though perhaps the Commissioner can.

As for us, we'll be content if only we can report that he has, during the interval since these words were written, gotten himself into good graces with the same law the rest of us observe.

That reminds us that we promised to report whether Jimmie Glenn, newly elected member of the state Corporation Commission, actually returned to contributors those dollars he took in during his campaign which might seem to be just a shade tainted.

If you remember, Glenn told folks he wouldn't accept a buck from voters in any industry the Corporation Commission regulates. Then, as we faithfully reported, he went out and took dough from some of those people, especially some in the insurance business.

When we blew the whistle, Jimmie promised us he'd clear his conscience by giving back the money. What's more, he committed himself to produce Xeroxes of the checks at the time he mailed them.

He's done all that, so as far as we're concerned, Jimmie Glenn is now clear, though he knows we'll still keep eyeing the Corporation Commission very, very closely hereafter.

If you've seen a copy of a book called "Who Runs New Mexico?" you know the would-be Ralph Naders who prepared it had more good will than they have knowledge of the state.

Some good could come from doing a book of this sort, but it's going to have to be prepared by somebody who doesn't start out with a thesis to be proved by finding the facts to fit it. New Mexico isn't run, controlled, directed, operated and possessed by a small handful of people of ill will; no matter how many dewy-eyed young researchers tell us that's the way it is.

Those who observe our state thoughtfully know that the reality about it cannot be reduced to the intellectual level of a game of Dungeons and Dragons.

Nice try, kids — but in many instances you aren't even close to right about which are the good guys and which are the bad guys.

Oh, by the way, some gathering calling itself the Legislature was apparently convened here in Santa Fe today, for purposes which are not yet quite clear.

It seems likely we will have to pay them some mind as the weeks go on. If they do anything interesting or exciting, we may have a word to say about it.

Sense & Nonsense

U.S. Sen. Pete Domenici

President-elect Reagan, in his statements before the public after his victory, has pledged a new spirit of cooperation, not only with the American people, but between the Legislative and Executive branches of government. From all that I have seen in working with his transition team, he is holding fast to this promise.

This means nothing but good news for New Mexicans. Considering the new Republican majority in the Senate and some strategic committee assignments, I feel that New Mexicans will have a greater self-determination over their own land and resources than ever before. No more will we simply be fighting arbitrary rules and regulations by the Federal government after they go into effect, but rather be in a position to help write some of those rules, with emphasis on dealing with the special problems of New Mexico.

There is a twofold reason for this more positive stature for New Mexico. One reason is that I have retained my position on the Environment and Public Works Committee, a committee that will face some tough decisions in the coming months. Vastly important to New Mexicans will be decisions on water use and flood control projects. Even more important, if New Mexico is to develop its energy and mineral resources in a wise and prudent manner, this year's review by the committee of the Clean Air and Water Acts will be critical. The federal Highway Fund will be discussed at length so that New Mexico will be able to get their fair share of those funds and not get short-changed as was the case last year.

I have also taken over as chairman of the Energy Research and Development Subcommittee of the Energy and Natural Resources Committee, which oversees authorizations for energy research for two major New Mexico facilities, Sandia and Los Alamos Laboratories. This responsibility should be able to insure New Mexico that they will remain as the energy capital of this nation.

In short, it will be a lot of hard work and some hard fights lie ahead to get what New Mexico needs for its positive growth and development. But one point that reassures me is this: I will not be fighting alone.

Reagan's new cabinet appointments have received my full support from the beginning, but I will be working closely with three of them during the next few years. They are especially sympathetic to the problems of the West and, from what I have gathered during personal discussions and from testimony at the confirmation hearings, they will be very cooperative in addressing some of the special problems that New Mexico faces during the 1980s.

James Watt, Reagan's choice for Secretary of the Interior, is especially sensitive to the problems of the West. He has promised me complete cooperation in dealing with the problems of land management for New Mexico. During personal meetings with Watt, I have found him to favor a balanced approach to land use and management. He favors developing our energy resources while at the same time conserving the land itself as a resource for all to enjoy. I endorse this common-sense approach and expect to be working closely with him.

James Edwards is another good choice for New Mexicans in the post of Energy Secretary. Not only is he sensitive to our special problems in the state but as a former governor, he believes strongly in a significant role states should play in all aspects of energy development. His ideas of turning energy decisions back to the state and local levels could have a revolutionary positive effect on our current energy crunch and will do nothing but enhance New Mexico's image as the nation's energy state. Edwards will be the major force behind getting the Federal government out of the energy business through the use of deregulation and the elimination of ineffective allocation programs.

The new Secretary of Transportation, Andrew Lewis, has also assured me that he will do all he can to insure that New Mexicans will get their fair share of Federal Highway Funds. He has further told me that his department will work closely in cooperation with us in Congress to make sure we have a major role in the decision making process.

All in all, it appears to be a good Cabinet that the new President has chosen, eager to take on the hard challenges and find long term solutions to long standing problems. But the task will not be an easy one, with many problems to solve and big questions to answer for the future of this nation. But there is one consoling factor. In this fight, New Mexico will have allies in both the Legislative and Executive branches of the Federal government.

editorial

Barbarians.

That could have been the magic word that caused the Ayatollah Ruhollah Khomeini to free the 52 American hostages Tuesday after 444 days in captivity in Iran.

Khomeini obviously figured that dealing with President Jimmy Carter was preferable to trying to work out a settlement with President Ronald Reagan.

This assessment of the situation by Khomeini indicates that he is still in possession of some of his faculties.

Carter was aided in his consummation of the ordeal of gaining freedom for the hostages by Reagan's election. This is good, because Carter had done his best to win their freedom — and, with all hostages safe, and in reasonably good health, who can fault him? Not that there won't be those that will — but freedom for the hostages came in the waning moments of Carter's term and must have given him great pleasure, plus a full measure of relief.

The United States lost face during this ordeal but not a cent of ransom was paid. Historians will probably note this event as being an outstanding example of the value our people place on human life.

We're happy this ordeal is over and that our citizens are safely back home.

Justice, in a sense, prevailed. For that, we can be thankful. —CD

A BONNY VACATION

The Ruidoso News' bulletin board ... containing messages of great import to employees ... and some that should be thrown in the wastebasket before posting ... has a notice stating that the purpose of a vacation is to rest.

The first two weeks of this month was devoted to my vacation ... prior to the start of which I'd harbored some grandiose ideas of how to spend some ... and I did have excellent intentions ... all of which promptly went awry.

Faced with this dilemma, I got to thinking ... action which generally confuses me ... that Ruidoso is a vacation paradise featuring an unending variety of activities to unwind ... any month of the year.

Ergo ... my thinking was: why not vacation right here in Harmony Valley? Upon reaching this logical conclusion to set the plans gone awry straight ... I promptly packed a few necessary items and hit the road ... to ogle the sights at a few selected sites in El Paso ... and make like a tourist.

After 72 hours of this idiotic pastime ... and after duly studying the extent of the damage to my exchequer ... I got to thinking ... vacationing's a lot cheaper in Harmony Valley ... and, just to add to the allure, I promptly snuck back into town ... during the height of the dark of the moon.

Thence commenced my period of resting ... being's I had nowhere to go and nothing to do ... I made like the citizens of yore inhabiting this section of our globe ... I ate when I was hungry ... slept when I was tired ... and meditated upon the pleasures of idleness, whilst quaffing an ice tea or three.

Between times of perusing some books I'd long intended to read ... one of which seemingly had no redeeming social value ... I chanced upon Shaky Pete in an ice tea dispensary ... which spoiled that interlude, but at the same time contributed to adding a smidgeon of boredom to an otherwise delightful pause.

I also found time to take care of some personal business ... and, being's it's personal, you wouldn't be interested ... but it wasn't boring.

And so it went ... day after day ... hour after hour ... ice tea after ice tea ... the idleness was all encompassing ... utterly delightful ... restful.

Then came Monday ... and work time ... an instance of frustration lightened by the happy thought that it'll be vacation time again ... after another 102 issues of The News have been issued ... strangely, this thought didn't spoil my day.

MERE IDLE SPECULATION

Whilst vacationing ... whilst watching the dancing flames in the fireplace ... I got to thinking about things of no importance ... including ...

— Wondering what some of the people who are championing the cause of improving conditions for prisoners in the Santa Fe pen, would do if they suddenly wound up unwillingly hosting escaped convicts ... especially some incarcerated for murder, rape, mayhem and armed robbery ... which the convicts convinced, no matter what happened, they'd have nothing to lose.

— Pondering the need for linguists in the Army ... persons fluent in Spanish, Korean, Russian, German, Arabic, Polish, Czechoslovakian and Mandarin-Chinese ... with me thinking Mandarin-Chinese is a cooking method. Anyhow ... seems the Army should have no trouble recruiting soldiers fluent in those languages ... after which they could teach them English ... no?

— Considering the discovery of some professors at the University of New Mexico of a mixture of graphite and iron oxide they claim hasn't heretofore been discovered in the solar system. The professors think, maybe, that this mixture existed prior to the formation of the solar system ... if true, then I got to wondering ... what existed before said mixture was formed ... and, if there's an end to the sky, as you stare upwards, what's on the other side? And ... if there's intelligent life a hundred million light years away ... beyond the Milky Way even ... it'll be a spell before we can communicate freely with them ... leaving me wondering if thought waves are faster than light ... which'd prove nothing if there's no thought readers in deep space.

— Reflecting upon the suggestion by Congressman Barry Goldwater Jr., that the Postal Service could sell ads on stamps and get rich ... which might be hard if they didn't improve the taste the glue imparts to the tongue.

— Speculating on how Tony Anaya'll weasel out of his contention that Senator Pete Domenici ... as a minority member of that august body ... wouldn't ever build up any real power in Washington ... 'course, if Tony runs for governor, he can forget that statement ... if the opposition will let him.

BRIEF-BIT: If you need proof positive that New Mexico has lots of money, look no farther than the fact that you haven't as yet received your state income tax forms ... a for instance for which no one's as yet accepting the credit ... CD

Draconic's Lady stakes winner

Draconic's Lady hadn't been to the races for four months until she stepped onto the track for Sunday's renewal of the Pan Zareta Stakes at Sunland Park.

The vacation evidently was just what the filly needed — since she easily put away some classy competition in the six furlong sprint. Draconic's Lady ended the mud-splattered duel with a two-length lead. She also collected $2,580 out of the $4,300 purse.

The Pan Zareta, normally restricted to three-year-old fillies, was open to both sophomore males and females this time around.

Larry Byers rode Draconic's Lady for Lynn Dubose of Hobbs. The mutual payoffs were $8.60, $5 and $4.20.

Draconic's Lady had been on the sidelines since September 19, when she finished fourth in the A. C. Kemp Memorial Handicap at the New Mexico State Fair. Earlier in the season, she captured the Rio Grande Futurity at Ruidoso Downs, and that win went a long way toward building the filly's 1980 money line of over $30,000.

The Pan Zareta was pretty much a cut and dried affair for Draconic's Lady. She broke in third place, moved up steadily to engage the front running longshot, Count Zorba, then put him away easily. She was under no pressure in the final half furlong.

Goldelic, a 5-2 shot directed by Haria Webb, rallied out of last place to take second. In the straightaway, Haria asked Goldelic to settle down to serious business, and the gelding responded with a remarkable move.

Goldelic, owned by Dr. Leopoldo Villareal of El Paso, Texas, paid $3.60 to place and $3.20 to show. That second place finish snapped a two-race win streak for Goldelic.

Count Zorba, packing 12-1 odds, ended up third after carving out an eager pace during the first half of the journey. He ended up a half length behind Goldelic and paid $8 to show.

Super Champ, an 8-5 favorite who made $36,130 last year, didn't show much this time. Recently purchased by B. R. Evans of Tulla, Texas, Super Champ broke sluggishly, settled at the rear of the pack, and failed to show any running spirit. He trailed all the way.

Super Champ carried the highweight of 124 pounds, seven more than the load hauled by Draconic's Lady.

The quinnella combination of Draconic's Lady and Goldelic was worth $22.

Sunland activity resumes Friday at 12:30 p.m.

UNM's energy systems computer controlled

The University of New Mexico's energy systems are being monitored and controlled by a new computer so smart that it draws pictures, makes logical decisions and predicts the weather.

Mostly, though, UNM's Energy Management and Control System (EMCS), recently installed in the Ford Utilities Center, saves money and energy. The computer, costing $230,000, requires only as much energy to operate as a large freezer, and it is expected to pay for itself in about two years.

The system continuously monitors environmental conditions in the campus buildings and almost simultaneously makes "decisions" that optimize energy use, said UNM Energy Conservation Manager Larry Schuster. And it will further save money, he added, because it doesn't require new field equipment. The existing sensors and sub-processors have been hooked directly into the computer.

The heart of the system is a central digital processor located in the Ford Utilities Center. The processor works with the sensors and sub-processors installed in the various buildings. The sensors, checking such variables as temperatures and flow rates, pass the information to building panels, which in turn feed collected data to the central "brain" in Ford. The computer then makes adjustments based on this feedback.

The EMCS replaces older computers that, according to Schuster, couldn't communicate. The old "brain" was limited to simple operations like shutting on and off equipment and adjusting system temperatures. These old computers now serve as a backup system.

Bill Van Vlack, EMCS system manager, said his office is only beginning to tap the great managerial potential of the new computer. But he added, some of the features being used right now are making an impact on energy consumption and costs.

One example is the Optimal Start Program. Under the old system, fans, pumps and other equipment were turned on and off at a set time. But the Optimal Start Program looks at the outside conditions, the condition in the building, the internal use characteristics, and then decides what the best time is to start up the building systems to get the temperature at its proper level.

The computer will also help cut back peak power usage, said Van Vlack. UNM uses a peak of about 11,000 kilowatts and pays a rate based partially on that amount. But the EMCS shuts off unneeded equipment as the University approaches its peak.

"If the computer can cut back peak usage by about 1,000 kilowatts," said Van Vlack, "we may be able to save as much as $7,000 or $8,000 a month."

Remote terminals and an alarm printer are being installed in the UNM Service Building. This will give the machinery maintenance personnel, who are responsible for the various buildings on campus, access to the computer as well as providing them with immediate warning when something in the mechanical systems goes wrong.

"We hope that in the near future the computer will perform maintenance scheduling," said Schuster. "This will assist the maintenance people in scheduling the greasing of motors, the changing of filters and the replacement of belts. It won't be a substitute for their regular maintenance chores, but it will greatly reduce their paperwork requirements."

The computer not only thinks, sounds alarms and produces reports, it also furnishes color schematic drawings on request. When the operator selects a system, it is displayed on the terminal and indicates not only where each piece of equipment is located, but what the condition is of that equipment, in addition to air temperatures and other information.

I-n-s-i-d-e the Outdoors

by Gary Dollahan

The public input meetings held by our department last week to solicit your recommendations concerning the 1981-82 big game seasons were well attended.

Just as importantly, the attendees provided some good input regarding the various seasons.

Carlsbad took top honors for the most registered attendees with 94. Alamogordo followed with 65 registering, and then it was 47 at Roswell, 39 at Clovis, and 35 at Hobbs.

All in all, the consensus of the meetings appeared to be generally the same (at least according to those who expressed themselves). Some of the more common recommendations for changes included the following:

do away with the weapon validation system;

go to one, 9 day deer hunt;

combine rifle and blackpowder hunters to hunt during the same deer season;

establish a buck only bag limit for all primitive weapon hunts;

regulate the elk hunts on a management unit basis;

reduce the drawn-out hunting seasons of last year;

establish an antelope bow hunt in the Southeast area.

Of course, those are the more common recommendations. There were many more ideas than these, some of which were good, and some not so good.

The important thing is these people showed up and told us what they thought, which is exactly the reason these input meetings were held.

A considerable amount of concern was expressed regarding the fact that last year some areas received various forms of hunting pressure from September through January. Likewise, there was concern for the present elk hunting system because extreme hunter pressure was obvious in some of the more popular elk hunting areas.

The department is aware of these problems and is deeply concerned also. Our Game Management Division has been discussing these problems with their biologists for all possible alternatives that will still provide hunter opportunity without being detrimental to wildlife populations.

Needless to say, their task is not an easy one and they are eagerly cycling all of these public recommendations with the hopes of finding a feasible solution.

The elk problem is particularly distressing and in need of immediate attention. Elk hunters are allowed to hunt only every other year. Therefore, logically the number of hunters should be somewhat predictable on a regular basis for each of the two year series.

Yet, the number of New Mexico elk hunters has increased from 9,884 hunters in 1977 to almost 14,000 in 1980. That's an increase of 29 percent. Despite the substantial increase in hunter numbers, the elk harvest has decreased from 2,056 in 1977, to 1,801 in 1979.

So, you can see today's wildlife management involves a great deal of people management as well.

The next step in establishing the 1981-82 seasons will be for our people to get together at the area levels. Then, all recommendations will be consolidated at the State level and presented to the State Game Commission February 19-20.

Persons interested in knowing what the Department's final recommendation to the State Game Commission will be can find out by attending a public meeting at Lester's Cafeteria, 2300 White Sands Boulevard, Alamogordo, at 1 p.m., January 31.

Meanwhile, public written recommendations will still be accepted until January 31. Persons wanting further input can attend the public Game Commission Meeting to be held in Santa Fe, February 19-20.

Draconic's Lady stakes winner

Draconic's Lady hadn't been to the races for four months until she stepped onto the track for Sunday's renewal of the Pan Zareta Stakes at Sunland Park.

The vacation evidently was just what the filly needed — since she easily put away some classy competition in the six furlong sprint. Draconic's Lady ended the mud-splattered duel with a two-length lead. She also collected $2,580 out of the $4,300 purse.

The Pan Zareta, normally restricted to three-year-old fillies, was open to both sophomore males and females this time around.

Larry Byers rode Draconic's Lady for Lynn Dubose of Hobbs. The mutual payoffs were $9.60, $5 and $4.20.

Draconic's Lady had been on the sidelines since September 18, when she finished fourth in the A. C. Kemp Memorial Handicap at the New Mexico State Fair. Earlier in the season, she captured the Rio Grande Futurity at Ruidoso Downs, and that win went a long way toward building the filly's 1980 money line of over $30,000.

The Pan Zareta was pretty much a cut and dried affair for Draconic's Lady. She broke in third place, moved up steadily to engage the front running longshot, Count Zorba, then put him away easily. She was under no pressure in the final half furlong. Goldelic, a 5-2 shot directed by Harla Webb, rallied out of last place to take second. In the straightaway, Harla asked Goldelic to settle down to serious business, and the gelding responded with a remarkable move.

Goldelic, owned by Dr. Leopoldo Villareal of El Paso, Texas, paid $3.00 to place and $3.20 to show. That second place finish snapped a two-race win streak for Goldelic.

Count Zorba, packing 12-1 odds, ended up third after carving out an eager pace during the first half of the journey. He ended up a half length behind Goldelic and paid $6 to show.

Super Champ, an 8-5 favorite who made $38,130 last year, didn't show much this time. Recently purchased by B. R. Evans of Tulla, Texas, Super Champ broke sluggishly, settled at the rear of the pack, and failed to show any running spirit. He trailed all the way.

Super Champ carried the highweight of 124 pounds, seven more than the load hauled by Draconic's Lady.

The quinnella combination of Draconic's Lady and Goldelic was worth $22.

Sunland activity resumes Friday at 12:30 p.m.

UNM's energy systems computer controlled

The University of New Mexico's energy systems are being monitored and controlled by a new computer so smart that it draws pictures, makes logical decisions and predicts the weather.

Mostly, though, UNM's Energy Management and Control System (EMCS), recently installed in the Ford Utilities Center, saves money and energy. The computer, costing $230,000, requires only as much energy to operate as a large freezer, and it is expected to pay for itself in about two years.

The system continuously monitors environmental conditions in the campus buildings and almost simultaneously makes "decisions" that optimize energy use, said UNM Energy Conservation Manager Larry Schuster. And it will further save money, he added, because it doesn't require new field equipment. The existing sensors and sub-processors have been hooked directly into the computer.

The heart of the system is a central digital processor located in the Ford Utilities Center. The processor works with the sensors and sub-processors installed in the various buildings. The sensors, checking such variables as temperatures and flow rates, pass the information to building panels, which in turn feed collected data to the central "brain" in Ford. The computer then makes adjustments based on this feedback.

The EMCS replaces older computers that, according to Schuster, couldn't communicate. The old "brain" was limited to simple operations like shutting on and off equipment and adjusting system temperatures. These old computers now serve as a backup system.

Bill Van Vlack, EMCS system manager, said his office is only beginning to tap the great managerial potential of the new computer. But, he added, some of the features being used right now are making an impact on energy consumption and costs.

One example is the Optimal Start Program. Under the old system, fans, pumps and other equipment were turned on and off at a set time. But the Optimal Start Program looks at the outside conditions, the condition in the building, the internal use characteristics, and then decides what the best time is to start up the building systems to get the temperature at its proper level.

The computer will also help cut back peak power usage, said Van Vlack. UNM uses a peak of about 11,000 kilowatts and pays a rate based partially on that amount. But the EMCS shuts off unneeded equipment as the University approaches its peak.

"If the computer can cut back peak usage by about 1,000 kilowatts," said Van Vlack, "we may be able to save as much as $7,000 or $8,000 a month."

Remote terminals and an alarm printer are being installed in the UNM Service Building. This will give the machinery maintenance personnel, who are responsible for the various buildings on campus, access to the computer as well as providing them with immediate warning when something in the mechanical systems goes wrong.

"We hope that in the near future the computer will perform maintenance scheduling," said Schuster. "This will assist the maintenance people in scheduling the greasing of motors, the changing of filters and the replacement of belts. It won't be a substitute for their regular maintenance chores, but it will greatly reduce their paperwork requirements."

The computer not only thinks, sounds alarms and produces reports, it also furnishes color schematic drawings on request. When the operator selects a system, it is displayed on the terminal and indicates not only where each piece of equipment is located, but what the condition is of that equipment, in addition to air temperatures and other information.

Armed robbery on upswing, according to Crime Stoppers

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. — Combine a gun and a nervous, desperate criminal and you get a potentially deadly situation.

Such was the case in two different parts of the state recently. In Hobbs, a black male, about 28 years old, about 5-8, held up a Church's Fried Chicken store and terrorized two persons on December 15. Meanwhile, in Las Vegas, a lone hooded gunman walked into a 7-11 store on December 29 and shot the store owner before escaping on foot with an undetermined amount of cash.

Both cases reflect a disturbing increase in armed robberies faced by most communities in New Mexico.

In Albuquerque, a total of 835 armed robberies were reported to police during 1980, about a 25 percent increase over the previous year. Particularly troubling detectives in New Mexico's largest city was the tremendous jump in robberies during the second half of 1980, including a whopping 104 stick-ups during December — traditionally the high tide month for armed heists.

One Albuquerque case in particular during 1980 had tragic consequences. Officer Phil Chacon was killed in September when he tried to apprehend several individuals who had just robbed an East Central shoe store. The case remains unsolved.

This week the State Crime Stoppers Commission is offering up to $1,000 each for information leading to the solution of any armed robbery cases committed in New Mexico.

To be eligible for rewards, citizens must call the Commission at its toll-free number, 1-800-432-6933. In all cases, callers do not have to reveal their identities.

Meanwhile, in other parts of New Mexico, among the cases being highlighted by local Crime Stoppers programs include:

— The December 13 armed robberies of two convenience stores in Roswell. A knife-toting black male, 5-5, 160 pounds, with dark, well-groomed hair styled in a short afro, robbed an Allsup's store around 4:45 a.m. Still another knife-wielding robber, this one a hispanic male about 5-6, 130 pounds with dark hair and a moustache, robbed a 7-11 store on Main street at about 5:03 a.m. Rewards of $500 are being offered by the Roswell Crime

Stoppers Program, at 623-8000, for any information solving the two cases.

— A commercial burglary at the Texas Street Lumber Company in Carlsbad that netted thieves about $3,500 worth of tools and other items. The December 19 break-in was accomplished which the offenders cut their way through chained gates on the northeast side of the store and then entered the building through a north window. Carlsbad Crime Stoppers, at 887-1888, is offering a reward from $50 to $1,000 in the case.

— Four arsons between November 13 and December 10 in the Flora Vista area near Farmington. Most of the fires were set to sheds and other isolated structures. Detectives believe that in several of the arsons the offenders first burglarized the structures, then set them on fire to destroy any evidence. The San Juan County Crime Stoppers Program is offering a "substantial reward" for any information leading to the arrests and indictments of the culprits. The San Juan County Crime Stoppers number is 334-2023.

— The thefts of three expensive IBM typewriters from Guthrie Hall on the New Mexico State University campus. Two other IBM typewriters were taken, in a separate incident, from the NMSU Agriculture Economics Department. A $500 reward is being offered by the Dona Ana County Crime Stoppers program at 326-8000.

— The theft of a wooden Indian statue on December 27 from the Fernandez de Taos tavern located on the Taos Plaza. Taos Crime Stoppers, which is offering a $100 reward, says the statue was 75 pounds and was 5-foot-5 tall. Apparently it was taken around 5:30 p.m., by a patron, who walked out the front door with the statue while employees were busy with customers. Taos Crime Stoppers can be reached at 758-8118.

— The theft and subsequent arson of a 1974 Ford Pinto, which was taken from Guy's Plaza Garage in Alamogordo on December 16. The thieves drove the car to Mill Road in Alamogordo, where they vandalized it and then set it on fire, totally destroying the vehicle. A $500 reward is being offered by Crime Stoppers of Otero County at 437-2000.

— The theft of still another car, this one a 1979 Ford Mustang, from Valencia Village, near Grants and its destruction by fire. The December 23 incident prompted a $250 reward from Urapum County Crime Stoppers at 287-0400.

— And lastly, an auto burglary in Clovis which netted the offenders some $6,000 worth of items. The November 1 burglary apparently occurred during daylight hours to a van parked at the Clovis T.V. Center, 10th and Main. A $450 reward is being offered by Curry County Crime Stoppers at 753-7000.

Why do people age?

A team of scientists at the University of New Mexico School of Medicine is probing for answers to one of the most basic questions in life.

What is it that makes people grow old? Dr. Robert Kelley of the UNM department of anatomy is leading the team in the structure of individual cells to learn why they break down over the years.

"We're not looking for the fountain of youth or the elixir of life," said Kelley. "But we'd like to know exactly how cells change their behavior over time. We want to see what's happening, but we don't know the biological reasons for it."

Early in life, a cell divides and reproduces itself. Through a series of enzyme reactions the cell makes a duplicate set of DNA molecules. Each molecule commands all the cell's life functions. The cell splits in two. After a brief period, the new cells begin manufacturing duplicate sets of DNA molecules of their own. The reproduction cycle goes on.

Somewhere along the line, the cell changes and takes on one of the many specialized functions of the body. It might become a liver cell. This is called differentiation. Differentiated cells reproduce more slowly than undifferentiated cells.

Then at some point, the cell stops reproducing entirely. What causes this change? "What we're working to maintain tissue integrity," Kelley said. "We want to see if it's possible to lengthen the time during which we can keep cells in a state more characteristic of youth."

"There's no guarantee that such technology would make people live any longer," he cautioned. A person might live the average span of 70 years or so with a relatively young body, and then go through a very short period of rapid aging just before death. "Our main concern would be to avoid the long, drawn-out period of gradual decay that we now consider normal," he said.

For instance, advanced age makes it difficult to heal broken bones and other injuries. "If doctors can learn what steps are involved in the process," he said, they might be able to develop corrective techniques that would allow fractured bones to knit more quickly, Kelley said.

The Institute on Aging of the National Institutes of Health (NIH) has awarded Kelley about $20,000 a year to explore such possibilities. He receives supplementary support from the NIH division of research on aging and the Rockefeller Foundation.

Challenges in the research effort include the need for research associates and laboratory assistants, Bradley P. Kelley said. They were beyond his financial means. "I'm grateful to the NIH and Tony Horst," Kelley said. "I'm grateful to the UNM biology professors

Kathryn Vogel, who is conducting related research on her own.

Their work is beginning to produce clues about why healing slows down with age, Kelley said. Early experiments have shown cells called fibroblasts lose their ability to move quickly as they age.

Fibroblasts repair bodily injuries by moving into a wound and reconnecting separated tissues with strands of protein fiber. The more slowly the fibroblasts move into a wound, the more slowly it heals.

Using chemicals and deep-freezing techniques, the UNM research team has dismantled individual cells much as a mechanic might dismantle an automobile to inspect its parts. Using one of the three electron microscopes at the School of Medicine, Kelley has noted changes in the way proteins arrange themselves in the membrane, or "skin" of the cell as it ages.

These proteins in the membrane of a cell serve the same function that bones and muscles serve in the human body as a whole. They slow the cell to move around. If the proteins could be returned to their "youthful" arrangement in the membrane, said Kelley, the cell might regain its ability to move quickly toward injured tissue.

But while some aspects of the research are showing encouraging signs of progress, others remain a puzzle.

In a culture of human fibroblasts from a newborn infant, the cells reproduce in a steady 49 to 50 hours before the culture dies out. Fibroblast cultures from young adult humans reproduce less often and die out sooner. Cells from elderly people

Remnants of once colorful blooms survived the snows.

Leased outdoor floodlighting can be a definite advantage for your business. Leased floodlighting is automatic, on-at dusk, off-at dawn, so it doesn't waste energy. In fact, leased floodlighting gives more light per watt than incandescent lighting, so it uses less energy for the same amount of light. Nighttime jobs can be done more efficiently with proper lighting, so you save time. Bright outdoor lighting can help put an end to accidents caused by poor visibility. And, well lighted property is less subject to vandalism. You'll feel more secure, worry less. To get leased floodlighting, just give us a call.

Armed robbery on upswing, according to Crime Stoppers

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. — Combine a gun and a nervous, desperate criminal and you get a potentially deadly situation.

Such was the case in two different parts of the state recently. In Hobbs, a black male, about 26 years old, about 5-8, held up a Church's Fried Chicken store and terrorized two persons on December 15.

Meanwhile, in Las Vegas, a lone hooded gunman walked into a 7-11 store on December 23 and shot the store owner before escaping on foot with an undetermined amount of cash.

Both cases reflect a disturbing increase in armed robberies faced by most communities in New Mexico.

In Albuquerque, a total of 935 armed robberies were reported to police during 1980, about a 25 percent increase over the previous year. Particularly troubling detectives in New Mexico's largest city was the tremendous jump in robberies during the second half of 1980, including a whopping 104 stick-ups during December — traditionally the high tide month for armed heists.

One Albuquerque case in particular during 1980 had tragic consequences. Officer Phil Chacon was killed in September when he tried to apprehend several individuals who had just robbed an East Central shoe store. The case remains unsolved.

This week the State Crime Stoppers Commission is offering up to $1,000 each for information leading to the solution of any armed robbery cases committed in New Mexico.

To be eligible for rewards, citizens must call the Commission at its toll-free number, 1-800-432-6893. In all cases, callers do not have to reveal their identities.

Meanwhile, in other parts of New Mexico, among the cases being highlighted by local Crime Stoppers programs include:

— The December 13 armed robberies of two convenience stores in Roswell. A knife-toting black male, 5-5, 160 pounds, with dark, well-groomed hair styled in a short afro, robbed an Allsup's store around 4:45 a.m. Still another knife-wielding robber, this one a hispanic male about 5-6, 130 pounds with dark hair and a moustache, robbed a 7-11 store on Main street at about 5:03 a.m. Rewards of $500 are being offered by the Roswell Crime

Stoppers Program, at 623-9000, for any information solving the two cases.

— A commercial burglary at the Texas Street Lumber Company in Carlsbad that netted thieves about $3,500 worth of tools and other items. The December 19 break-in was accomplished when the offenders cut their way through chained gates on the northeast side of the store and then entered the building through a north window. Carlsbad Crime Stoppers, at 687-1888, is offering a reward from $50 to $1,000 in the case.

— Four arsons between November 13 and December 10 in the Flora Vista area near Farmington. Most of the fires were set to sheds and other isolated structures. Detectives believe that in several of the arsons the offenders first burglarized the structures, then set them on fire to destroy any evidence. The San Juan County Crime Stoppers Program is offering a "substantial reward" for any information leading to the arrests and indictments of the culprits. The San Juan County Crime Stoppers number is 334-2023.

— The theft of three expensive IBM typewriters from Guthrie Hall on the New Mexico State University campus. Two other IBM typewriters were taken. In a separate incident, from the NMSU Agriculture Economics Department. A $500 reward is being offered by the Dona Ana County Crime Stoppers program at 626-8000.

— The theft of a wooden Indian statue on December 27 from the Fernandez de Taos tavern located on the Taos Plaza. Taos Crime Stoppers, which is offering a $100 reward, says the statue was 76 pounds and was 6-foot-5 tall. Apparently it was taken around 5:30 p.m., by a patron, who walked out the front door with the statue while employees were busy with customers. Taos Crime Stoppers can be reached at 758-8118.

— The theft and subsequent arson of a 1974 Ford Pinto, which was taken from Guy's Plaza Garage in Alamogordo on December 16. The thieves drove the car to Mill Road in Alamogordo, where they vandalized it and then set it on fire, totally destroying the vehicle. A $500 reward is being offered by Crime Stoppers of Otero County at 437-2000.

— The theft of still another car, this one a 1978 Ford Mustang, from Valencia Village, near Grants and its destruction by fire. The December 23 incident prompted a $250 reward from Uranium County Crime Stoppers at 287-8400.

— And lastly, an auto burglary in Clovis which netted the offenders some $8,000 worth of items. The November 1 burglary apparently occurred during daylight hours in a van parked at the Clovis T.V. Center, 10th and Main. A $450 reward is being offered by Curry County Crime Stoppers at 763-7000.

THIS WELL SHELTERED SHADY LANE offers those explorers in these parts of the Sacramento Mountains the opportunity to enjoy the peace and quiet abounding in the locale. The only sound, perhaps, to assail ears of travelers on this lane is the raucous call of the raven.
