Carrizozo not on SBAC

The Ruidoso trustees Tuesday evening took no action on a request from the Town of Carrizozo to become a member of the Sierra Blanca Airport Commission (SBAC).

Carrizozo has been seeking SBAC membership recently and Ruth Armstrong, of Carrizozo's Town Board, made the request to Mayor Lloyd L. Davis Jr., and trustees Benny Coulston and Frank Sayner. Trustees George White and Shetman Atwood were not present at the meeting.

Coulston said he "questioned Carrizozo's motives," in seeking SBAC membership and that he "couldn't see any advantages in accepting Carrizozo into partnership, as it could be overloading the citizens of Carrizozo."

"I have nothing personal against the fine citizens of Carrizozo, I just see no advantage in Carrizozo belonging and can't vote for it."

Coulston prefaced his remarks by questioning Armstrong on statements published several months ago in The Lincoln County News, relative to efforts then underway in Carrizozo to have the proposed regional airport located near Carrizozo. Coulston also questioned Armstrong on the plans of Carrizozo to maintain, and operate, their present airport, and said, "This might prove to be a financial burden," if the town also became a member of SBAC.

Armstrong, at times during the meeting, said:

"We will keep the Carrizozo airport open. It is self supporting and we expect it to keep on that way."

"Carrizozo would only have one vote (on SBAC). It would be selfish of us to try and influence the board. If all the plans (for SBAC to locate the regional airport on Fort Stanton mesa) don't work out, Carrizozo would want the airport."

"It would benefit the entire area and I see no reason why the new airport can't be built on the mesa.

"The cost to Carrizozo will be the same, regardless of where the airport is built."

"Carrizozo agrees with all phases of the SBAC plan, including locating the airport on the mesa."

After further discussion, including some comments from the audience, the trustees took no action on Carrizozo's application for SBAC membership and continued on to other business.

THE TRUSTEES ACCEPTED the low bid of Tom Brazel, La Luz, in the amount of $69,600 to drill six test water wells in Ruidoso. Brazel is currently drilling a new Hollywood Well, with production testing slated to begin this week or early next week.

Brazel's contract calls for exploratory drilling and test pumping only. No casings or screens will be put into the test wells unless the trustees approve developing any of the wells drilled.

The first drilling will be at Treatment Plant Two on Gavilan Canyon, followed by a second test well in the Boggs Springs area and a third in the Two Rivers Park vicinity. Other sites will be considered after geologists' reports on possible drilling sites have been reviewed.

In other business, the trustees: — Agreed, upon approval from the Environmental Improvement Division and Environmental Protection Agency for federal and state funding of the project, to provide Kent Nowlin Construction with material and equipment to repair street cuts occasioned by the sewer project.

— Approved, subject to review by village attorney Ron Harris, change orders amounting to $4,986.75 for adding insulation, support beams and roof changes in the new Municipal Administration Building.

— Accepted delivery of a new solid waste truck as of April 1, from EMCO, Plainview, Texas.

— Agreed to assign additional duties to Municipal Judge Sam Nunnally to include reviewing traffic and other ordinances pertaining to his court, and to school local police officers in courtroom procedures, to qualify him for a $250 month pay increase, to $1,000, effective July 1.

— Directed street commissioner Jack La May to prepare a cost estimate for leveling of the grade on the parking lot at the new Municipal Administration Building, to correct a potential drainage problem.

— Approved issuing a quit-claim deed in the village interest, if any, in land adjoining Lots 442 and 443 in Skyland Addition, contiguous to Zuni Trail.

— Approved transfer of ownership of Liquor License 1302 from Blankenship to H.H.&N., Incorporated, (Pizza Hut and Billy the Kid Variety Liquor).

— Authorized the Woman's Club to plant 53 small oak trees in School House Park on Arbor Day, April 8.

ComFIRE seeks prevention officer

The village trustees Tuesday evening heard a presentation from Herb Brunell, ComFIRE (Committee for Improving Ruidoso's Environment) chairman, asking that the village budget, next fiscal year, for a full time Fire Prevention Officer (FPO).

Brunell said, "ComFIRE is suggesting that the FPO be a department head, responsible only to the village clerk, mayor and trustees."

"He would work closely with the Fire Department, the Forest Service and the State Forestry Division, to develop fire prevention measures," in this area.

Brunell submitted a suggested job description for the FPO, including:

— Motivation and enforcement of private dwellings/persons/neighborhoods for fire hazard free maintenance.

— Power to enforce and cite offenders under authority granted by village ordinances.

— Motivation and education for fire prevention and also coordinate, on the village level, the "Red Flag Alert."

— Keep current on new fire-prevention techniques, materials and methods and study their applicability to local conditions.

— Analyze fire causes and trends and adjust planning efforts to solve problems.

— Inspect businesses and dwellings so as to recommend fire prevention methods.

— Help with fire suppression planning, especially in new subdivisions.

— Assist in fire training, evacuation routes and establishing fire escape routes, as required.

— Study fire resistant shrubs and trees suitable for planting at Ruidoso's altitude.

— Work to extend his jurisdiction to a three mile limit outside the village limits.

— Write citations under the state fire codes and under village ordinances.

"In my opinion," Brunell said, "the fire code in the village exceeds the state code on condominiums, but I believe we could improve on the code for fire walls in the condos."

The trustees accepted Brunell's request for further study.

FLUTE PLAYING isn't as easy as it looks, as Hope Candelaria, a second grader at Nob Hill Elementary, found out Wednesday, when she tried it. The potential musician is pictured with Ruidoso High School band director Danny Flores, who led the band in a short program for elementary children to acquaint them with various band instruments.

C-C balloting ends Monday

Ballots for the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce board of directors election, and voting for the Hn'zhu'ne Award, are due at the Chamber by noon Monday.

Ballots were mailed to all members in early February, according to Chamber executive director Ed Jungbluth. Seven new board members will be elected from the following slate: Bill Fugate, Cro's Nest Motel; Buddy Carter, Apache Motel and Ruidoso Ski Rental; Dan Shaver, Shaver Tire and Auto; Helen Gable Reeves, A Place in the Sun; Morgan Clough, Morgan's Ski Shop;

Gail "Sonny" Adams, Sonny's Barbecue; Joe Thompson, Continental Telephone Company; Joan Bailey, Storybook Cabins; Sonja Smith, Smith Ltd. Gallery; Barry Morgan, Pinecliff Townhouses and pharmacist; Bill Myers, High Country Janitorial; Karl Franzer, Safeway manager; and Tom Kelham, Ruidoso Gift and Fireplace.

Buildings most improved in calendar year 1980 nominated for the Hn'zhu'ne Award include Sierra Professional Center, The Wild Snail, Hugh Hannigan's office and Holiday Liquors.

"People pressed for time should feel free to hand deliver their ballots to the office," Jungbluth said. New directors will be announced after ballots are counted at 3 p.m., Monday, and the Hn'zhu'ne Award winner will be named at the Chamber banquet in May.

Booster Club's enchilada feed set for Friday

The Ruidoso High School Band Booster Club is sponsoring an enchilada supper Friday from 4 to 7 p.m., in the high school cafeteria.

The supper, held in conjunction with the Ruidoso-Tularosa boys' basketball contest, will feature enchiladas, salad, beans, and tea or coffee on the menu. Desserts will be available for an additional fee.

Tickets are $3.50 for adults and $1.50 for children. Desserts are 50 cents each.

All proceeds from the supper will help support the Ruidoso High School Band. Tickets are available from any band member or in the high school office, and will also be sold at the door.

Altrusa Club seeks listing of bilinguals

Ruidosians who can speak Spanish and English fluently are being sought by the Altrusa Club of Ruidoso to act as translators for business owners in the community.

"I hope to get at least two people together and print up a list which would be available at the Chamber of Commerce and to any business person," Sheila Harris, coordinator of the project, said.

"I urge any bilingual persons to do this important public service for our community," she added.

Harris can be reached at 257-7318 or 257-5251.

School okays budget hike

Ruidoso's Board of Education Monday approved budget increases totalling $50,228 for the 1980-81 school year.

The district receives reimbursement from the state for each student enrolled, which is estimated when the budget is prepared.

Because enrollment is higher than expected, the district received additional funding in the following areas: election expense, $1,500; teacher, early childhood (kindergarten), $10,047; other supplies for principals, $3,500; building construction (new portable building), $35,179.

Sewer work on Sudderth

Kent Nowlin Construction announced this week that work on the Ruidoso sewer system will affect an area about 800 feet long in the westbound curb lane of Sudderth Drive just west of Paradise Canyon Road.

A company spokesman urged motorists to exercise caution in this area while construction continues for a period of about two weeks.

Bonito Fire Department phone listed

The telephone number of the Bonito Fire Department — 336-4308 — was inadvertently omitted from the listings to call in the event any person discovers a fire in the immediate Ruidoso/Ruidoso Downs area.

Any type of fire discovered in the Alto, Bonito, Angus areas is within the primary jurisdiction of the Bonito Fire Department. The department answers fire calls in the Bonito Lake area also.

For fires discovered on the Mescalero Apache Reservation, the reporting number is 671-4419. If there is no answer, report forest fires on the Reservation to 671-4410 or 671-4479.

The Bonito Fire Department also provides ambulance service, 24 hours a day, in their fire coverage area.

Music and drama camp site set

Inspiration Corporation's (IC) board of directors this week announced the purchase of a 20-acre tract of land to be developed into a summer Christian camp, RV park and halfway house for troubled teenagers, according to Carlene Wadley, board member.

IC's property borders Agua Fria Estates in Ruidoso Downs and Lincoln National Forest. Because it is outside village limits, few restrictions on use will be imposed, Wadley said.

Wadley said immediate plans include building enough facilities to house IC's annual summer music and drama camp. Wadley said the camp will probably be divided into two sessions this year, with 50 youths of all ages attending each session.

"This year, for the first time, we will open the camp to hearing impaired children, who will be included in our performances," Wadley said. "They will actively participate in arts and crafts and will interpret our production through sign language."

Wadley said the purchase "would not have been possible without the help of Ira Bogard, who also made a generous donation in the land acquisition."

"An additional donation of $10,000 was made to the camp by Jackie Spencer. "Because of her generosity, we will be able to build facilities to house the camp this summer."

Wadley added, "this will be the first time we will have the summer camp program on our own property, so it was truly a milestone to have this support from so many people."

Minimum facilities include a "multi purpose" building equipped with a cafeteria, bathrooms and showers and some sleeping facilities. "As we get the funds, we will, of course expand those

Faced with the threat of water shortages within the next decade, Ruidoso Downs trustees are taking a continuous approach to a request for water service for a planned residence and Christian fine arts camp to be located adjacent to the village limits.

The request for water (and sewer) service came at the Monday night meeting of Ruidoso Downs trustees, from Tim and Carlene Wadley, members of the board of directors of Inspiration Corporation.

The Wadleys told the village board they hope to establish the camp for operation beginning this summer, although the buildings would be used intermittently throughout the year for religious retreats and meetings. The Wadley's personal residence would also be located on the property.

Trustee Harrold Mansell suggested that the village attorney be consulted on the legality of providing services outside the village limits.

Mayor Norman Wheeler said he felt there was "nothing (in city ordinances) that says we can't" provide the water, but agreed the legality should be checked.

They quizzed the Wadleys on the number of persons who might potentially be housed at the camp. Tim Wadley said they expected about 40 to 60 people this summer for short periods of time, and as many as 100 to 200 "in the distant future."

The mayor also suggested that the Wadleys contact Bruce Griffith, who provides water to Agua Fria Estates, which borders the Wadley property, to determine whether he might be able to provide water.

The trustees were in general agreement that sewer service would not be a problem.

The trustees assured the Wadleys they supported the idea of the camp, but "we've got to protect our people," against possible water shortages, trustee Bob Power said.

Power's motion on the request directed the village attorney to check the legality of the matter, and to investigate whether a water hookup and meter, once installed on the property, could legally be shut off by the village if shortages occur in the future.

Ski Report

Sierra Blanca: Undisturbed snow depth midway up the mountain is 23 inches. There has been no new snow the past week. All trails are open and all lifts are operating. Conditions are fair to good, with variable, spring weather snow.

Eagle Creek: Manager Paul Southwick said Wednesday morning the area has shut down its chairlift until business picks up. "We haven't been doing any business lately so we shut it down," he said. Southwick, however, emphasized the area has not closed. "We'll have it back in operation Friday and we'll just have to see what happens over the weekend. If somebody comes out to ski before then, we'll turn it back on." Conditions are generally fair, with about a 15 inch base.

For updated ski reports, call Sierra Blanca, 237-9001, or Eagle Creek, 336-4211.

INSPIRATION CORPORATION recently purchased 20 acres of land bordering Ruidoso Downs' village limits, to build a summer

Christian camp facility, halfway house, coffee house and recreational vehicle park.

Animals are very interesting critters

Donkeys and elephants may have dominated the nation's headlines in the election year of 1980, but they got a lot of competition from some wacky wildlife and domestic animals, according to the National Wildlife Federation's (NWF) annual report on animals in the news.

NWF cartoon by William Coulter

A dandy lion that charmed its captors in New York City, a squadron of seagulls that dive bombed a parking lot in Maryland, and an English bull whose romantic antics fattered a $352,000 lawsuit were among the birds and beasts that vied with the political critters for public attention. Most of the news made by animals was amusing, but a few deaths occurred where humans exposed to wildlife failed to take adequate safety precautions, the NWF roundup showed.

The year's top story, appropriately, involved the king of beasts. It began when Albert Sima and two friends returning from a pigeon race encountered a 200 pound lion outside a graveyard in Queens, a borough of New York City. When Sima, a 29-year-old meat distributor, gingerly approached the big cat, it greeted him by rubbing its body against his legs. Then, when Sima opened a door of his pickup truck, the lion hopped in.

Predictably, the police refused to believe Sima after he drove home and called to report his find. When, after several calls, the police finally came, the lion climbed onto the front seat of their patrol car for a ride to the Bronx Zoo.

But there was no den at the zoo for Henry, as he was now known to a growing circle of friends. The American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals (ASPCA) had to step in and find a place for him in a private zoo at Scotch Plains, New Jersey, where he now entertains visitors and plays an occasional charity benefit.

The police never located Henry's owner. ASPCA Director John Kullberg called him "just about the friendliest wild animal I've ever met."

Considerably less friendly were the seagulls at Cambridge, Maryland, who, apparently in protest against a parking lot in the midst of their habitat, bombarded the lot with oyster shells. Several car roofs were pelted. In another apparent protest, 4,000 dolphins massed around the Japanese island of Iki and forced fishing boats back into port. Observers speculated that the dolphins were angered by the fact that Iki fishermen had just netted and killed 200 of their number.

Several bull stories made news. In one of them an English Holstein named Arab was placed on a regimen of total abstinence after over exerting himself while servicing 29 heifers from Wales. But the plan went awry. When several cows from a neighboring farm wandered into his pasture and Arab again turned romantic, he destroyed his usefulness as a stud, his owner charged in a $352,000 lawsuit against the neighboring farmer. A judge ruled that the damage was done during Arab's first orgy and awarded his owner only $347.24.

A shocking story came from Tokyo, Japan, where a crow got tangled in a power cable network, causing a short circuit which halted 20 high speed trains for more than an hour. The crow was electrocuted. In Bangladesh, wildlife got the upper hand when nearly a thousand hissing, poisonous snakes took over a town, diverting traffic and sending people scurrying for cover. The vipers' nest had been disturbed by a road repair crew.

In Buena Vista, California, a burro named Billy Carter won $1,200 and the second Annual Triple Crown Burro Race by covering 25 rugged miles in three hours and 20 minutes. In Euron, South Dakota, a siltary creature named Billy Carter won a "book" worm race at the local library. His triumph proved short lived when a judge accidentally stepped on him.

Does a cockatoo have the right to remain silent? A judge in Norfolk, Massachusetts, ruled affirmatively when Jane Messina sued Debby's Pet Land for triple damages because a $1,200 white sulfur crested cockatoo named Sheba that she bought from the store refused to talk.

A veterinarian testified that some birds, "no matter how much time you spend with them, won't talk." Dismissing the case, Judge Vincent Brogna agreed: "They're like humans."

Convinced that cockroaches are also like people, a team of scientists at Emory University in Atlanta, Georgia, trained some roaches to run on a treadmill with weights attached to their legs. The purpose wasn't to lose weight, but to learn more about failure of the metabolic process in ailments such as muscular dystrophy and multiple sclerosis.

Nature dealt some terrible blows to wildlife, as when the eruption of Mt. St. Helens in Washington State wiped out at least 1.5 million game birds and mammals and an estimated 11 million fish. So did man. Oil spills in Maryland killed 40,000 fish and a sewage discharge from a Virginia coal plant destroyed 43,000 more. Five million honey bees suffocated in the baggage compartment of a 727 jet on a flight from Arizona to Canada.

But the worst stories involving wildlife and humans came from Glacier National Park, where three people were clawed to death by grizzly bears — bringing to six the number killed by grizzlies in the park's 71 year history; from Perth, Australia, where a 12 foot long saltwater crocodile killed a late night swimmer; and from Dallas, Texas, where an eight foot long pet python escaped from its aquarium, slithered into the crib of a sleeping seven-month-old baby girl and crushed her to death.

In a grim counterpoint to that story, an 18-month-old baby girl in Melbourne, Australia, killed a venomous eight inch snake by biting its head off.

Wild animals tangled with the United States Postal Service in two areas, National Wildlife's third annual survey found. A peeved 'possum was found in a Front Royal, Virginia, mailbox, where someone had dropped him apparently as a joke. Not amused, the 'possum chewed or otherwise defaced about 40 letters. Another joker, in November, put a tiny warbler in a mailbox headed south from New York. It got only as far as Philadelphia, but a Kennebunk, Minnesota, woman talked Delta Air Lines into flying a shivering robin all the way to Florida.

In Tempe, Arizona, the jogging craze got some new participants — a herd of pigs — when Arizona State University researchers decided to test the effects of that sport and high fat diets on heart problems. Prodded along by the researchers, the porkers were ordered to jog about two miles a day. They showed some striking similarities to humans.

"They burn up the track for about the first lap," said Ross Consaun, one of the researchers. "After that, most of them need some encouragement."

percent support" for a joint cleanup campaign with residents of Ruidoso, under the sponsorship of the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce.

Representing the "Trash Rally" organizers was Ed Jungbluth, Chamber executive director, who said the Chamber would also approach the Ruidoso trustees for their cooperation in the effort, planned for Saturday, May 2.

Jungbluth said the cleanup organizers are seeking the help of civic clubs, and would probably offer prizes to clubs collecting the most trash.

The trustees agreed to check into the feasibility of calling village sanitation trucks into action for the event, and to send notices of the cleanup in utility bills, as they did last year.

In other business, the trustees: — Agreed to send a letter to Dick Hall, chairman of the Ruidoso Water Board, supporting the idea of forming a regional water commission to take a comprehensive look at the area's water needs and sources.

— Accepted for publication a model personnel ordinance. In the past, the village's personnel policies have been in the form of resolution, which has "left us open to lawsuits," according to Wheeler.

— Were advised by Power that he would "lend the First Baptist Church of Ruidoso Downs $50" for a 30-day period, to pay for a water deposit. The Reverend Dale McCleskey had requested waiving of the deposit, with the church agreeing to guarantee payment of the first month's water bill for a private residence.

— Adjusted a water billing to reflect 5,000 gallons used and voted to install a new water meter for a rent house owned by Jake Harris. Harris requested an adjustment after he was billed for 37,500 gallons of water in January.

— Agreed to seek bids for replacement of lights for the park softball field.

— Approved purchase of two used vehicles from the New Mexico State Police, at no more than $900 each, for use by the police department.

Ruidoso man arrested on driving charge

James Larry Dugan, 19, Ruidoso, was hospitalized at Ruidoso Hondo Valley Hospital Monday night following his arrest in connection with an alleged hit and run accident on Sudderth Drive. He was later released from the hospital and, following further medical treatment in Albuquerque, will return to Ruidoso to face charges in the incident.

According to police reports, Dugan and a passenger, Tammy L. Hawkins, 18, also of Ruidoso, both received injuries in the mishap.

The accident report indicated that Dugan was driving a 1975 Pontiac at a high rate of speed when he lost control of the car, overcorrected, and collided with a car parked near the Skyland Garage. The parked car, a 1975 Chevrolet owned by Katherine Hazel, incurred more than $100 in damages, as did the Dugan car.

Police said Dugan left the scene, but was apprehended quickly and charged with reckless driving, driving under the influence of intoxicating liquor and causing an accident involving death or personal injury.

Man returns 7-11 money

A former employee of the Midtown 7-11 in Ruidoso has returned $952 in 7-11 Money Orders and cash that was reported missing to the Ruidoso Police Department Monday.

Local Criminal Investigation Division officers contacted Rodney Spears, 21, by telephone in Seminole, Texas, and he returned the money to the store Tuesday.

Figueroa leading jockey

BY DICK ALWAN
Take a look at the jockey standings at Sunland Park and you'll see Louie Figueroa at the top of the list.
Louie who?
That's right, Figueroa. Not Richard

LOUIE FIGUEROA

Bickel, or Carlos Rivas, or Joe Martinez, or Leroy Coombs, or any other blue ribbon jockey in this part of the country.

"This is only the second year I've been riding at Sunland, so it feels pretty good to be on top," Figueroa, 23, said. "I would have been satisfied just to be in the top 10."

But don't get the idea Louie Figueroa is the sort who'll get worked up over being Numero Uno. An unflappable type, he's about as level headed as you can be.

He will admit his riding career is cooking on all burners, but his take-it-as-it-comes attitude makes you think it's no big deal.

Maybe it's just the fact that Figueroa is used to having the cookie crumble his way. He's been the top jockey so many times it's almost routine. Figueroa's trophy case includes the riding crowns at Rillito Park in Tucson, Arizona, in 1975, 1977 and 1978.

But the Tucson plant is no world beater, and the handle and the purses are often midget sized. So Figueroa, needing more cash to stuff in his sock, expanded his territory to include Santa Fe Downs, an operation which does a solid business. He captured the Santa Fe titles in 1976 and 1978, winning about 75 races in each of the two seasons.

At one point, Figueroa took a fling at Phoenix, Arizona. "I did just fair," he said in that stoney-faced way. "There were about 100 jockeys there, so it was tough getting enough mounts. I'd get a couple rides a day, but I wound up with about 30 wins for the season."

Figueroa didn't waste any time going after the Sunland crown. He took the lead early in the meeting, dropped back a few notches, then came on again to hold the lead until just after Christmas. Two weeks ago, he was back in front.

Born and raised in Tucson, he's been hanging around the racetrack most of his life. His father and brother (Manny Sr. and Manny Jr.) have been dominating the trainer standings at Tucson for the past decade or so.

When Louie was hardly more than a tyke, he'd work out a thoroughbred or two on the dry river bed near the Tucson track. "I always had it in my head to be a jockey," he said.

When he turned 16, he broke in at Tucson. His first ride came aboard the mare, Stay By Me. "She went off as the favorite but didn't do any good," Figueroa said. "She was just too sore."

mile, and won with that one, too. "I started out riding mostly quarter horses, but now I ride more thoroughbreds," he said. "I guess I prefer thoroughbreds. They take a lot more strategy."

His top stakes victory came in 1978, when he guided Bobby Ben in the five furlong Silver Stakes at Santa Fe. The gross purse was in the $50,000 range. Later, he successfully piloted Bobby Ben in the Gay Dalton Stakes at the New Mexico State Fair.

Ask him to name the best horse he's ever ridden and he'll point to Rapid Action, the filly he rode to victory in the Mr. Vale Handicap and the City of El Paso Handicap at the current Sunland meeting. "She's got a long stride, a lot of courage, and she makes it look easy," he said.

When it comes to taking bumps and bruises, Figueroa has been lucky. No damaging spills thus far. About the only bad luck he's had came two seasons ago, when he set the top qualifying time for the New Mexico Breeders' Futurity at Santa Fe. The quarter horse duel had a purse of about sixty grand.

In the finale, Figueroa's mount, Dream Girl Deck, was nicely positioned in the No. 10 Post. But the No. 3 horse began acting up and caught the attention of the starting gate crew. When the gates flung open, Figueroa said, one of the gate handlers was still hanging onto Dream Girl Deck. "They didn't turn us loose, so we couldn't run," Figueroa said. "I was pretty disgusted and mad, but I got over it the next day. A lot of people kept telling me: 'That was pretty bad luck you had with that horse.'"

But it's been only good luck with Bar Bonus, a low level claimer at Sunland this season. Figueroa's been aboard in five of the gelding's six wins. "He's an old bad-legged horse, but he keeps beating them on class alone," Figueroa said affectionately.

Figueroa's main ambition is a win in a $100,000 race. Does that mean he'll be heading to Ruidoso Downs, where hundred granders fall out of every closet? He shakes his head. "I can't go to Ruidoso on dreams," he said. "Trying to break in with those top quarter horse riders is like beating yourself over the head. It's too tough and a waste of time, so I'll go back to Santa Fe where I'm established. Even if I have a bad season at Santa Fe, I can make good money."

What happens if Figueroa winds up with a hot-riding quarter horse this spring, and the owner plans a try at Ruidoso? Figueroa, realist that he is, shrugs his shoulders. "Then I might change my mind," he said.

The name of the local Arabian association was changed from Sacramento Arabian Horse Association to RAHA at the February 11 meeting of RAHA, to, as Burton said, "Let everybody know where we are."

Burton also said, "This Fun Show has really been talked up and we've been practically insured that we'll have horses at Alamogordo March 7 from Oklahoma, Texas, Arizona and New Mexico. It won't be the biggest show ever held, but, if it's successful, there's no reason why it can't be built up to where there'll be more than 600 horses in competition, which will attract national exhibitors."

At the March 7 show ribbons will be awarded through six places in all classes except championship, which will be awarded trophies.

There will be no admission charged for the Fun Show.

Cablevision checking on illegal taps

Cablevision of Lincoln County, manager Paul Crown said Wednesday, is conducting an audit of their service lines, to detect, he said, illegal taps into the service.

The company has, he said, 4,000 legal customers and "our audit has disclosed more than 500 illegal connections."

Crown said that employees would be contacting persons suspected of illegally obtaining the service. "We have no desire to take violators to court," he said, "if they will become subscribers to our service. We can, however, take legal action as the offense is a third degree felony, punishable to $1,000 fine and one year in jail."

Court Report

Appearing before Magistrate Jim Wheeler recently, in Magistrate Court, Ruidoso, were the following with charges listed and action taken:

Humidity, or the lack of it, is an often overlooked essential in the preservation of furniture, structural materials and personal comfort during winter months, suggests the Ruidoso Board of Realtors.

The importance of proper humidification during colder months is due to the fact that cold air holds far less moisture than warm air. When cold air enters a heated space, its moisture-holding capacity is increased. Air heated 70 degrees Fahrenheit can hold 20 times more moisture than temperature of 1 degree states the Humidifier Institute.

If heated air is not supplied with moisture, it tries to correct the imbalance by pulling moisture from every available source, including plants, furnishings and people. That's why in winter you're likely to awaken with your mouth and nose parched and irritated. Your skin may itch, sting or crack and you may need to use emollients more often.

square foot structure will house the Trust's collection of cultural and historical artifacts and is expected to open in late spring or early summer.

Altrusa launches career options program for high school students

Choosing a career can sometimes be a trying experience, so the Altrusa Club of Ruidoso has initiated a career education program in the Distributive Education classes at Ruidoso High School (RHS), "to help the kids make up their minds," Dorothy Dale, coordinator of the program, said.

Two local registered nurses, Jeanie Whitwam and Verna Adams, were the first to examine with students options available in the health care field which requires one year, or less, of training.

Whitwam said Licensed Practical Nurses (LPN) attend school one year, and become more advanced than other areas of nursing, such as a nurse's aid (NA) or operating room technician (ORT).

Whitwam said NA's and ORT's can be trained in hospitals or schools in less than a year. Starting salaries are at least $700 a month and some are higher, she said, depending on the job and the hospital.

"Nurses of all types are desperately needed," Whitwam said. "They work all different types of shifts and are dealing with sick people — these are things you have to consider if you go into nursing."

Adams is the director of Home Health Services of Lincoln County, and trained to become a registered nurse by first enrolling in a hospital nurse's aide program, and progressed through nurse's training. She said her job is somewhat different than a position in a hospital, "because we work with people in their homes with more regular working hours."

Adams is also an Emergency Medical Technician (EMT) and serves on the volunteer ambulance staff in Capitan. She said that program requires 81 hours of training and is offered through colleges as well as locally. Adams said the program "teaches you how to carry out emergency procedures." Salaries range from $700-$1,000 per month and EMT's in cities can enroll in other courses to become trained in many different emergency skills, qualifying to be paramedics or other emergency personnel.

A portion of the EMT course, cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR), will be offered in Ruidoso beginning March 9, and continuing March 16 and 23, 8-9 p.m. Cost is $5 per person and the class will meet at the Adult Recreation Center behind the Ruidoso Public Library.

Adams will teach the course and is now preregistering students at 257-5189.

Tuesday's program is the first in a series being scheduled at RES discussing time, cost and demand for certain careers. "This is just one of the many things Altrusa can do for the community. We hope to draw on as many professions as we can, and will try to meet the needs of the kids as much as possible," Dale said.

Moore, Samelson to be inducted into state's NEA Hall of Fame

Two retired Ruidoso school teachers, Ruth Moore and Lindy Samelson, have been accepted for induction into the Southeast District of the New Mexico National Education Association's (NEA) Hall of Fame.

Both women were nominated by the Ruidoso Education Association (REA), whose members submitted letters of recommendation. "The nominees are made for retired teachers based on professional enthusiasm, professional dedication, service to the profession and to NEA, as well as community service," Sandy Gladden, local spokesperson, said.

Moore retired in 1979, after teaching third grade in Ruidoso for 30 years. Samelson began her career in 1937 and retired in 1976, and taught elementary and junior high classes and served as Lincoln County School Superintendent from 1961-1963.

Both women will be recognized at the spring district NEA meeting, and will be eligible to become inducted into the State Hall of Fame.

Gladden said the REA will host a reception for the two teachers sometime in March, with plans to be announced.

Jean Steinbrecher judging drama festival

Jean Steinbrecher of Ruidoso will be one of two judges for an area high school dramatic festival and conduct a workshop on post high school training in the performing arts this weekend at Eastern New Mexico University (ENMU).

As a judge, she will also be responsible for presenting a 15 minute critique for a number of the high schooler's dramatic efforts. Schools from Alamogordo, Aztec, Albuquerque, Santa Fe and the Boys Ranch, as well as several west Texas schools, will participate in the festival, scheduled for February 28 through 29.

The workshop will be open to the high school students and ENMU students, and Steinbrecher said she hopes to give the participants "a broad perspective of choices available and an idea of what they're getting into."

Steinbrecher has worked in virtually every area of the performing arts, including opera, dance, film, television and stage, and has taught at a fine arts college.

She was approached by ENMU drama and music faculty members to judge the festival, following her cooperation with them as technical director for the December Madrigal Feast.

JEAN STEINBRECHER

Child of the Month

For most of his childhood, Joe lived with his mother. He never knew his father. He was loved and abused, and loved and abused in a pattern that never seemed to stop. After years of counseling and therapy, Joe's mother has decided that it would be best if Joe were raised by another family. And so, Joe is waiting to be adopted.

Any child with Joe's background would bear the scars of such an unsettled childhood. Joe is in therapy now to learn to deal with all that he saw and suffered when he was little. But Joe is a survivor. Although his emotional problems have sometimes gotten in the way of his schoolwork, he has shown that he can do well in the classroom, that he has the potential to succeed in school. Joe enjoys being with adults but will test those in authority, almost asking them for the discipline and firmness that he knows he needs. He also knows he needs to be hugged, and Joe admits to being a cuddler.

Joe is a handsome boy, his blue eyes reflect the Anglo part of his Spanish, Indian, Anglo heritage. His favorite things are big city sports — biking, football, swimming — with an admission that he also likes to camp in the woods and fish in the mountains. His favorite foods are typical of any eleven year-old — pizza, ice cream, doughnuts. Joe is typical in his dislikes, too; doing chores is not a favorite way to spend time.

Although he has lived with other youngsters in group homes and foster situations, there are times when Joe does not get on well with his peers, picking fights, trying to get attention. However, his adoption worker observes that Joe responds well to discipline, especially when he understands why he is being corrected. And Joe likes to be alone, either outdoors or reading or drawing maps.

"Joe's a neat kid," said an adoption worker who knows him well. Other adults have responded in the same way to the "sweet and funny" youngster. There are teachers and volunteers in his life who have remained his friends throughout the many changes and disruptions he has faced. Now what Joe needs is a real family, one that will provide the love and security that, for eleven years, have eluded him.

People interested in knowing more about Joe, or about any of the other older children who are available for adoption, should contact Susan Washam at the New Mexico Department of Human Services at 437-0630.

Warriors primed and ready for Wildcats, Indians

BY MARK BAGBY
Sports Editor

And it all comes down to this. The Ruidoso Warriors, ranked fifth in the state, have their last two home games of the 1980-81 hoop season this weekend, as well as the final games of the regular season. They can clinch a bye in the district tournament with one win out of the two games.

Friday night they face Tularosa. On Saturday they battle Cobre.

Either — or both — are must win games in the eyes of Warrior head coach Barry Nelson.

"Tularosa is really the key," Nelson said. "If we beat them, we've got it clinched. If we lose, we've got to win Saturday."

"I honestly feel if we play ball the way we can, it'll be no contest. Neither Tularosa nor Cobre can match up talent-wise to us."

Tularosa probably has the better team of the two Warrior opponents. They're ranked 10th in the state by the Associated Press, are third in the district with a 5-4 mark, and they have Bill Turner.

Turner, as Warrior fans well know, is the 6-6 monster the Wildcats built their team around. For three years, he's terrorized the lane on basketball courts, and was an all-state selection as a junior.

He's the big gun, consistently leading the squad in scoring (including a career high of 45 points in one game this season) and rebounds.

But it's not a one man squad. Turner is ably supported by Donald Stogden, Jim O'Hara and Chris Cerny.

The Warriors, now 7-1 in district and 15-5 overall, beat the Wildcats on their home court in their first matchup, 48-42. Turner was held to 12 points. (For some players, that's a good game, but the big center averages just over 30 a game.)

Warrior junior Bill Richardson was the man responsible for Turner's lack of scoring. Chances are he'll be in the midst of the fray again.

Nelson badly wants to win the game. For one thing, it would clinch a bye in next week's district tournament. For another, it's a home game and losing could mean a bad psychological effect.

Another reason is it's Tularosa — a hated district rival if ever there was one. The very name brings out a desire to win in the Warriors. It's like a certain alcoholic beverage — when you've said Tularosa, you've said it all.

If the Warriors win Friday, Cobre had better watch out. Nelson feels his troops will unleash themselves against the Indians after knocking off Tularosa.

"With the pressure gone off winning the game Friday, I think we'll play even better on Saturday," he said. "I don't think there will be any letdown, win or lose."

If the Warriors lose to Tularosa, then Cobre will become the biggest game of the year for the Warriors.

Ruidoso beat Cobre there earlier this year, by a 60-51 count. It took a 26 point fourth quarter to get the job done, but do it the Warriors did.

The Warriors could conceivably lose both weekend games. If that happens, and Deming wins its game this weekend, then Ruidoso and Deming would have a playoff game Monday night in Las Cruces to decide who's first and who's second.

Saturday's contest will be the final home appearance of seniors Rodney Thomason, Glenn Ryan, Gary Jones and Gene Reeves.

Those four will, however, play in the district tournament, which is set for next weekend in Silver City.

Due to the tourney format, which sends the winner and runnerup to the state tournament, it's still anybody's district.

Which team in the district worries Nelson the most?

"They all do," he said. "It feels good to be on top for a change, but everyone's ready to knock you off. I know — I've been on the bottom before."

"It's a possibility we could get to the tournament and get knocked out in the first round, but we've got to get there first."

"The kids know what they've got, and what they've got to do to win. We've got some confidence in ourselves and we're ready."

Tipoff Friday is 7:30 p.m.; Saturday's contest also starts at 7:30. Both games will be preceded by junior varsity games, to begin at 5:30 on Friday and at 5 on Saturday.

Gene Reeves — a man for all seasons

The term "Super Sub" refers to three things. In a delicatessen, it means a great sandwich. In the Navy, it means a terrific underwater ship.

In Warrior basketball, it means Gene Reeves.

Reeves, a 17-year-old senior at Ruidoso High School, began the season collecting splinters on coach Barry Nelson's bench.

But he made himself too valuable to sit there long. Whenever one of the starters got into foul trouble, Reeves was there, filling in admirably.

Then, against Roswell a few weeks ago, he came in, pumped in eight points, hauled down a like number of rebounds and was credited with a steal.

Guess who isn't sitting on the bench anymore?

"That was probably my best game," Reeves said. "I did pretty well against Deming the other day too. (Nine points.) But I really don't care that much about how I do — as long as we win."

The team comes first for the slender son of Raymond and Christine Reeves, who's been playing basketball since the fifth grade.

His biggest accomplishment — and his biggest drawback — is he likes all sports and hasn't concentrated on one sport in particular. He's played football, run track and of course, is now playing roundball.

"If I had it to do over again," he said, "I'd probably have played more basketball in the off-season. I like other sports — I like football a lot because I like to punt — but I like basketball the best. I think it's my best sport."

Reeves doesn't get a lot of attention because he's seldom the high scorer, but that doesn't bother him.

"I don't get a bunch of headlines, but it doesn't bother me," he said. "I'm happy when we win, and I just help out as much as I can. I don't mind getting assists instead of points."

"I think my shot is probably as accurate as anyone's, but not everybody can be the high scorer. My shooting has improved since coach Nelson started working with

Langston sets sight on state championship

There's determination, and then there's DETERMINATION.

Robert Langston has the latter. Langston is one of six Warrior matmen who leave for Bloomfield High School today, to compete in the state AAA wrestling tournament.

Langston, a senior, is Ruidoso's only district champion this year. He's 12-1 on the season, and the 167 pounder has been preparing all season long for this weekend.

"I've never worked so hard on anything in my whole life," Langston said during a morning workout earlier this week.

Langston imposed a self-discipline regimen on himself after football season was over (incidentally, not only is he a top wrestler, but he was selected honorable mention all-state as an offensive tackle) and he does it five days a week.

First, he runs two miles — the second mile is more of a sprint than a leisurely jog. On Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays, he lifts weights with his upper body. Tuesdays and Thursdays, he works his lower body muscles.

Then he still has to work out in the afternoons with the rest of the squad. Those workouts are two to three hours each.

Langston decided to impose this grueling schedule on himself because he wants to be the state's champion AAA wrestler at 167 pounds.

And he's going to be — no ifs, ands or buts.

"I will be the state champ, with God's help," he said. He competed at state last year, but he really wasn't ready and finished well back from the crown.

But not this year.

"I've been working too hard not to make it," he said. "I may sound overconfident, but I'm not. I want it so bad I can taste it."

Saying he'll wrestle anyone "who's crazy enough to step on the mat," the son of Bob and Mary Langston added he's not nervous.

"I don't get nervous," he said. "I start getting butterflies before we leave for a trip, but when it comes time to wrestle, they're gone."

Langston has been wrestling for only four years. He began his freshman year, and things weren't too rough. (It was easy to make the varsity, he noted, since there

BILL RICHARDSON goes high over Truth or Consequences' Bruce Evans in the Warriors' 68-52 win over the Tigers here last week. The Warriors face Tularosa and Cobre here this weekend in final games of the regular season. Ruidoso is ranked fifth in the state, with a 15-5 record (7-1 in district play). A win over either squad will grant the Warriors a bye in the district tournament.

Sportin' Life

... a column of opinion ...

by

Mark Bagby

I just learned something I didn't know. (Of course, you always learn something you didn't know — I can't recall learning something I did know. I'm not even sure if that's possible. Whatever.)

Ronny Maskew, who coaches football and track at Ruidoso High School, informed me the rotten playoff system I took to task here a column or two ago is not the New Mexico Activities Association's (NMAA) fault.

It's the schools who have themselves to blame, Maskew told me.

Seems it takes eight of the state's 29 schools to get together for a referendum, where they can change whatever they want to on just about any subject.

Last year — the spring of 1980, as a matter of fact — a referendum was introduced and the schools voted on it. The referendum, of course, was to change the playoff system in AAA state sports.

You know the rest.

Each school apparently has an official voter; Ruidoso's is Doyle Howell. He voted against it.

A call to the NMAA revealed neither the final vote tally or how the various schools in the state voted. Maskew told me he thinks the final vote was only "four or five" more in favor of the change, which means a count of 17-12 or 16-13 or 18-11, something like that.

NMAA's assistant executive secretary, El Richards, told me she didn't think the current system would last long. But she did not give me the final tally because "we don't want to open a can of worms among the schools," she said.

She also told me there is another referendum coming up, (this spring, in fact) which would change things back to the old system — which was regional playoffs, a system that wasn't too great, but fairer than what we have now.

There is also some talk of realigning districts. That might not be too bad an idea — Los Lunas, for instance, moves up to AAAA next year, and some schools (Tularosa, for instance) have had some enrollment losses and may have to drop back to AA. Less schools might force realignment.

Realigning the districts, in fact, wouldn't be a bad idea at all. Take district 4AAA, for example — in basketball, there are five teams in that district — Artesia, Portales, Tucuman, Lovington and New Mexico Military. The first place team in district play (which will be either Artesia or Portales) gets an automatic berth in the finals of the district tournament. The other four teams have to play, and the winners of those two games play, and then the winner will play either Artesia or Portales.

Now take district 3AAA. (That's Ruidoso, Silver City, Deming, T or C, Tularosa and Cobre.) The first and second place teams — which would appear to be Ruidoso and Deming — get byes. The other four teams will play, and the winners of those games play Ruidoso and Deming in the second round. Then the winners of those two games play for the championship.

What that means is the district leading Warriors, who have held that spot all along, currently ranked fifth in the state, could quite conceivably get knocked out and not go to the state tournament because they have to play two games. Artesia or Portales have to play but one game.

Is that fair?

So you can just imagine what's it like in 1AAA — there's seven teams in it.

This whole thing just keeps getting more and more confusing. If, somehow, the Warriors lose both their final regular season games and Deming wins its final game, they'll be tied for the district lead.

You know what that would mean? A playoff game Monday night in Las Cruces, that's what. Then they'd have to play the district tournament later this week.

Argghh.

Why, oh why, did this system ever get elected? Maskew said all the voters he's talked to claim they voted against the referendum, but someone had to vote for it.

So all you folks who blew it the first time, you have a chance to redeem yourselves. Vote for the new referendum, and make life easier for all of us.

Round one

Pat Loomis, who owns Diet Counsellors-Health Fitness Centers, is trying to get a young mens' boxing program underway.

Loomis said he's got the space and the equipment — and will offer his services as a trainer — but he needs a coach.

(A gentleman named Merle Miller is providing the equipment, Pat told me — thanks, Merle.)

But apparently no one out there knows how to coach boxing. Me included. Pat asked me to do it, but I don't know enough to coach someone.

Well, anyway, the time involved would be from around 3:30 to 5, five days a week, with a little weekend work involved too. And, of course, it's all volunteer work.

Also, if there's any youngsters out there who are interested in giving the art of pugilism a whirl, give Pat a call, 257-5210. He didn't specify ages, so I guess if you're old enough to read this, you're old enough to go try, huh?

So, all you future "Rocky's and "Raging Bull's" get out there and get after it. And tell Pat you heard it here.

Lady Warriors in district tournament

It's do-or-die, now-or-never, this-is-it time for Ruidoso's lady Warriors. They're playing tonight at Tularosa in the first round of the District 3AAA girls' basketball tournament. The winner and runnerup advance to next week's state tournament in Portales.

Silver City is the favorite to win the tournament, since they possess a 10-0 record in the district.

Warrior coach Sergio Castanon is hoping for the runnerup slot. (Actually, he'd like to win the whole thing, and the lady Warriors just might do that. More on that later.)

The Ruidoso lasses face Truth or Consequences tonight, a team they beat earlier in the year, 38-36. That was at T or C.

Last week they lost to the Tigerettes here, 39-35. Ruidoso led the whole way, but mistakes in the final two minutes proved to be fatal.

"I hope we're at our peak," Castanon said. "I hope we peak two thirds of the way on Thursday."

"Nobody from T or C is particularly outstanding, but they're all good players.

They all get points. The way to stop them is to play our good game.

"If we play like we did Saturday, we'll beat them."

On Saturday, the lady Warriors whipped Deming, 65-58. The squad looked good in the game, and Castanon hopes his ladies are at that level of play.

If they are — and if they beat T or C — they play Silver City on Friday.

Talk about out of the frying pan and into the fire.

"I'm not thinking about them right now," he said. "We're concentrating on T or C. We'll worry about Silver when we get to it."

The lasses have come as close as anyone to beating the tough Silver City crew. Ruidoso lost to Silver there on January 10, 56-59, and then they lost here, 63-42, on January 31.

The scores, however, are a bit deceptive. At Silver City, the lady Warriors held a four point lead going into the fourth quarter, and here, were down 30-28 at the half.

That was back in the days when the lady Warriors weren't playing four quarters of good ball. That has changed a bit.

"The girls are up for this game," Castanon said. "They always get up for the district tournament. If they got up for all the games like they do for the tournament, we'd have won about eight more games."

The lady Warriors are 7-13 at this point, 2-4 in the district.

Castanon gave his charges Monday off, but worked them hard Tuesday and had a light workout Wednesday.

Castanon isn't crazy about playing the tournament in Tularosa's gym, but added that's better "than having to travel to Silver City or somewhere to play."

It could be the final game in the careers of seniors Patsy Almager, Lisa Shaw and Gleda Bob, thanks to the single elimination format of the tournament.

Due to the tournament structure, Silver City and Cobre received first round byes. Tularosa, in third place, will also face Deming tonight. The Lady Wildcats are in sixth place.

The winner of the Tularosa-Deming matchup will face Cobre Friday, and the winner of the T or C-Ruidoso match plays Silver City.

The winners of those games will play for the championship on Saturday.

I-n-s-i-d-e the Outdoors

by Gary Dollahan

Well, here we are again at that time of year we outdoorsmen find ourselves a hull between our hunting and fishing activities. The hunting seasons are over for awhile and it's still just a little too early to consider any serious fishing efforts.

So, in order for us avid sportsmen to pursue our interests, we usually resort to two alternatives: 1) talk about hunting and/or fishing, or 2) read about hunting and/or fishing.

Now, the first of these alternatives is the one in which the fisherman has the real advantage over the hunter.

You see, a fast tongue is just as important to the fisherman as is his rod and reel.

You will never talk to a fisherman who has yet to catch his first fish. All fishermen have caught lots of fish, and lost even more (all big ones, too).

On the other hand, it is still possible to talk to hunters who have not yet bagged their first deer, or elk, or bear, whatever.

However, these unsuccessful hunters have adapted very well to not having success stories similar to the fishermen's to tell. Instead, these unlucky hunters have mastered another form of hunting talk, called excuses.

They speak of how they had a big buck spotted every day for three months prior to opening day, but then the night before the season the Game and Fish Department scared him and all the other deer off with helicopters and cherry bombs.

Or perhaps, they speak of weather so bad they couldn't drive enough of the roads out to find their deer this year.

Of course, the individual who both hunts and fishes is a master at tongue work. He can talk both success stories and excuses, and feel comfortable with either.

As for those sportsmen who are relatively new comers to hunting and fishing, alternative number two is for them. There are myriads of articles out each year on the how's and where's to catch big fish, or to have a successful hunt.

Now, these stories are all unbiased accounts of facts stranger than fiction that usually hold one or two secrets of which you were unaware and therefore, undoubtedly hold the key to your being able to tell success stories next year.

Two or three of these articles which will probably appear in your favorite magazine sometime within this year that are recommended readings are: "How to Catch Big Fish, and Tell About 'Em." by Ima Lye Ayer; "The Successful Big Game Hunter" by E. Z. Excuser; "The Year 'Round Sportsmen" by Neah Ketchum Poacher.

A number of people take advantage of both alternatives, reading and talking about hunting and fishing. One such person is Monty Leishman, our Southeast Area

Fisheries Biologist.

Monty is constantly coming into my office with the latest article he has read and assures me NOW he knows he can catch a 30 pound striper or a 15 pound black bass because the secrets to success are right there in black and white.

Monty can also talk a good game. In fact, just yesterday he stood in my office and expressed his much learned knowledge.

Monty, an eligible bachelor, told me that when that right fish in the sea swims his way, and he sets the hook, and successfully plays and lands her, he is going to alter somewhat the traditional groom-to-be procedure.

He says first he is going to register all of his wedding gifts with "Bass Pro Shops." Next, he is going to encourage certain friends to hold "showers" for him. He wants me to hold a spinner-bait shower for him. He wants Ruben to hold a rod and reel shower for him, and so on.

I told him all those plans were fine and dandy, except for one thing. How are you going to find time to go fishing between changing diapers, mowing the yard, painting the trim, going to F.T.A. meetings, etc?

He turned white as a ghost and wandered back out mumbbling something about "back to the drawing board."

Warriors holding benefit sale

The Ruidoso Warriors still have tickets available for their benefit basketball game ticket sale, which is the Ruidoso-Tularosa contest set for Friday at 7:30 p.m., in Warrior Gymnasium.

The athletic department will have a cord of juniper firewood on hand at halftime, and that should add extra interest to the game.

The wood is all juniper, cut, stacked and will be delivered.

Game tickets are $1, available from football players, coaches and the high school office.

Proceeds will go toward paying off equipment in the Warriors' weight room.

Little League baseball meeting this Monday

Ruidoso's Little League Baseball program will have an organizational meeting Monday at 7:30 p.m., in the Elks' Lodge.

The meeting is for all coaches, officers, commissioners and anyone interested in umpiring in the upcoming season.

me on it.

"I'll just take what I can get."

If he had to summarize his three years of athletics at Ruidoso High School, Reeves said, "I'd have to say it was fun. Sure, there's a lot of hard work, but it's been fun and now it's starting to pay off."

"Before this year we (the basketball team) haven't been too good. This year we're good and we're going all the way."

Reeves is not only an athlete of many sports, he's a man of many talents. He likes art, plays the guitar and is in his third year in the Ruidoso High School choir. He's not a bad singer, either.

"I like to sing, and I'm going to compete at state this weekend in Las Cruces," he said. It's his third year at state. Reeves has to sing on Saturday, the same day the Warriors play district rival Cobre — and it'll be Reeves' last home game.

"I'll be back in time," he said with a grin. "If I can't get back in time, I won't go."

Reeves is planning to attend college, with preferences of New Mexico State or Eastern New Mexico University. He's planning on majoring in teachers' education, with his sights set on becoming a coach.

"I'd like to be a coach at the junior high level," he said. "Those are the building years, and what you learn in those years is real important. It helps make you better when you get farther along."

But first, before college, before high school graduation even, he's planning on being a member of the Ruidoso Warriors' state champion basketball squad.

"If we get there, we're going to win it," he said. "We've worked too hard to not make it."

And if they get there, you can bet Gene Reeves won't be sitting on the bench.

get killed.

It's the dedication he has for his workouts and his attitude towards his opponents that makes him feel he'll be the state champion.

"I am going to win," he said flatly. "I'll wrestle all night if I have to, I'll wrestle whoever I have to, but I'm going to win."

If you ask him what he's going to do should he come in second, he points his index finger like a pistol, raises it to his temple and shoots. Then he laughs.

"If I don't win, it'll just mean there's a better wrestler in the state of New Mexico than me." He pauses.

"But I don't think so."

Commission investigates state's judges, justices and magistrates

The Judicial Standards Commission was created by amendment to the state constitution and began functioning in 1968. The Commission has authority to investigate complaints against any judge, justice or magistrate of the state. Complaints may originate from any source, but the Commission requests that the complaints be submitted in writing and that they be verified by the complainant. Grounds for Commission action are willful misconduct in office, persistent failure or inability to perform a judge's duties, habitual intemperance, or disability seriously interfering with the performance of a judge's duties which is, or is likely to become, of a permanent nature.

After investigation, the Commission may recommend to the Supreme Court that the judge, justice or magistrate be disciplined or removed from office, or, in the case of disability, retired from office. Under the terms of current law, a judge who is removed from office upon recommendation of the Judicial Standards Commission forfeits his right to receive retirement pay under the judicial retirement act.

The Commission is composed of two district judges, two lawyers and five non-lawyers. One of the non-lawyers serves as chairman. During 1980 the Commission met nine times. Ten investigations were carried over from 1979, and 38 new complaints were received in 1980. At the end of the year 38 matters had been closed and ten remained open. Of the 48 complaints handled by the Commission, seventeen were against county magistrates, nine were against municipal judges and seventeen were against district judges. The other five were against judges or justices of the small claims court, court of appeals or Supreme Court. No complaints were received against probate judges.

In the disposing of 38 matters the Commission found that seventeen were not within its jurisdiction. One was withdrawn by the complainant. Twelve were investigated and found to be insubstantial. Seven were found to require attention by administrative authority within the judicial system and were referred for counseling. One matter proceeded to a formal hearing before the Commission, and, upon recommendation by the Commission, the magistrate involved was removed from office.

PREPAYMENT PENALTIES

You've sold your home. Your buyer obtained new financing with a new mortgage. Therefore, your old mortgage was, undoubtedly, paid in full with part of your proceeds from the sale. Paying off a mortgage in advance of its original term length is known in the trade as "prepayment."

Many lenders today require a prepayment penalty if a mortgage is paid off prior to its original due date, and you'll find this can amount to several hundred dollars.

If you paid this penalty, don't forget that the Internal Revenue Service treats the prepayment penalty the same as interest — which can be a valuable deduction from your income tax.

But, in spite of the tax break, always try to bargain for the smallest prepayment penalty or no penalty at all. In fact, in many states, consumer-oriented laws have been passed which prohibit any prepayment penalties after the home loan has been in effect from three to five years.

If there is anything we can do to help you in the field of real estate, please phone or drop in at DEVON DEVELOPMENT, INC., 2904 Sudderth Drive, Box 1900, Ruidoso. Phone: 257-5511. We're here to help!

The Silver Lining

BY DANIEL AGNEW STORM

G. C. Roberson Jr. I received word today, February twenty-four, from Beth Roberson Brown that her brother, G. C. Roberson Jr., was called home by Our Lord, after a lengthy illness, in Dallas, February twenty-two.

Mr. Roberson was the son of long-time Ruidoso residents, G. C. Roberson Sr., affectionately known as "Gib", and Della Lee Roberson. He was born December 13, 1919 in Young County, Texas, and came to Ruidoso in 1938 with his parents and sister, Beth, and brother Joe.

From Dawson, New Mexico, where Gib was a coal miner, the family moved to the Pecos Valley. G. C. Jr., went to school in Roswell, and during his life here in Ruidoso, worked for well known early-day Ruidoso pioneer, Monte Gardenhire at his riding stable, one of the first in this area.

From Ruidoso he moved to El Paso where he worked for the railroad. He was an employee of the Seikin Import-Export Company in Dallas for the last ten years. He served in the Army during World War II in the Signal Corps, as a radio operator stationed in Brazil.

Following in his father's footsteps as a miner, G. C. was trapped in a mine in Arizona, seven hundred and fifty feet underground for fifty-six hours. He was eighteen years old at the time, and was trapped in a cavern along with four older men.

His father, Gib, and Beth's husband Bill Brown, were in the crew that dug back to the men and rescued them. Beth says that her brother was not the least afraid during his experience, that he had faith that they would come out safe — that it was not "his time to go."

Beth says she has a picture of her brother taken with a section of the pipe which was used to "pipe soup in to us."

Besides his brother, Joe and sister Beth, both of Ruidoso, G. C. Jr., is survived by a daughter, Mary Ann of Texarkana; and a brother, Niel Chapman of Fort Worth.

We ask the friends and loved ones to take comfort in knowing that our dear friend is safe and happy with Our Lord in Heaven.

Father Delbert Achuff Completes Thirty-Five Years In The Ministry

On February twenty-two the Church of the Holy Mount and the parish hall were filled to overflowing for the final service in the thirty-five year career in the ministry of Father Delbert Achuff.

This February the first marked five years of Father Achuff's service as priest of the Episcopal Church in Lincoln County.

His last sermon, as all his sermons have been, was deeply inspiring and comforting. His message brought out that Christ our Lord brings us three principal blessings: forgiveness of sins, strength and guidance for every day living, and hope for the future.

After a dinner at the Parish hall, Raymona McAdams and Cathy Annals, on behalf of the congregation presented Father Achuff and his wife, Louise, a beautiful bronze sculpture by sculptor Lincoln Fox.

The very life-like sculpture of an Indian

Medicine Man is entitled "The Shaman." The tireless work for Our Lord and the inspiration and help to all of us will remain a blessing to us always. Father Achuff and Louise are moving to El Paso and we hope they will be back frequently to visit here where they have made a host of friends. We wish Father Achuff and Louise every good fortune and all God's blessings.

Karl Franzer Receives Well-Deserved Honor

I have always known that the Safeway Stores are excellent for service and quality. And yet somehow I have had a feeling that the Ruidoso Safeway is the best I ever saw. Now I know there is a great deal of truth in this feeling.

For Mr. Karl Franzer, the handsome young manager of the Ruidoso Safeway, was presented an award by Safeway for managing the best all around store in the El Paso district.

Very generously Karl gave credit to his fine staff of employees saying, "Without them we could not have won it."

His praise of his employees is well deserved; for they are a handpicked group, courteous, and helpful always.

We congratulate Karl and all his helpers for this well deserved honor.

Three Cheers For Frances Luellen

Has Frances Luellen really been in the postal service thirty years? This friendly and beautiful lady seems hardly more than thirty years of age.

The post mistresses have always been great favorites with the American people since earliest times; and Fran brightened the lives of all of us day in and day out for all these years.

I hear they are giving Fran a little send-off today (February twenty-six) to mark this milestone of long and faithful service.

We all thank Fran for her considerate and helpful ways, and we congratulate her for reaching this thirty-year mark in cheerful and expert service with Uncle Sam.

Spring Comes Stealing Through The Winter Wind

In a desperate drive to halt the early arrival of spring, the north wind came in around the twenty-second carrying a freezing blast causing some of the coldest nights of the winter.

And yet everywhere you can see the signs of springtime stealing through the wintery blast. The cedar trees are turning bronze-gold as they load up with pollen; and then you see the trees seem to spring forward as it releases its burden of golden pollen into the wind. All the vale is hazy and all the air fragrant with the cedar pollen.

The apricot buds are swelling and turning pink, paying no attention to the chilling gale which whips and thrashes them on their branches.

Before the next message reaches you, we will be over into March, the springtime month; and we say, "farewell for this time, to beloved February."

Let us thank God always for so many blessings.

Clinical medicine laboratory opened

GENE RIDGAWAY

The Ruidoso Laboratory of Clinical Medicine has been opened by Gene Ridgaway, a Ruidoso Downs policeman, at 330 Sudderth Drive.

Same day service will be provided on urinalysis and hematology tests, and on most other clinical testing, Ridgaway said with pickup and delivery service available to physician's offices.

The laboratory is also equipped to handle electrocardiograms, cast application and removal and clinical and diagnostic X-ray service.

Ridgaway said he hopes to provide services which, in the past, have had to be performed out of town.

He has had 25 years experience in the field, is a medical technologist, and a member of the American Society of Clinical Pathologists and American Association of Biologists.

Ridgaway will also operate the Eastern New Mexico Detective Agency and Crime Laboratory in his office on Sudderth.

'Smokey' O'Connor moved to Wyoming BLM office

James H. "Smokey" O'Connor, Roswell district manager for the Bureau of Land Management (BLM) since 1976, has been selected as the new chief of the division of resources in the BLM's Wyoming state office, Cheyenne. O'Connor, a 25-year veteran with the BLM, is a Wyoming native.

Since becoming Roswell district manager five years ago, O'Connor has overseen the administration and management of about 3.5 million acres of federal public lands and more than 5.8 million acres of federal subsurface in southeastern New Mexico and in Texas. Among his accomplishments are the establishment of a detached area office in Carlsbad and a localized staff in Roswell for the issuing of rights-of-way. According to BLM officials, these innovations have resulted in savings of thousands of dollars, as well as nearly cutting in half processing time.

O'Connor started work with the BLM in 1955 as a range conservationist in Worland Wyoming. Later assignments were in Lander and Rawlins, Wyoming, Montrose, Colorado, Baker, Oregon, and Dillon, Montana. He holds bachelor's degrees in range management and business administration from the University of Wyoming.

As chief of resources in Wyoming, O'Connor will be responsible for statewide leadership in forestry, watershed, water resources, wilderness, minerals, wildlife, soils, recreation, lands and rangeland management programs on federal public lands.

SANTA FE — Here we are with three more weeks to go in the 1981 legislative session and folks up here are already getting flaky.

One symptom is the ribaldry of the remarks made in the press galleries, where disrespect always rises in direct proportion to fatigue and boredom.

Some days you just can't keep your mind on a single topic, so all you come up with are jottings — like these.

How times change.
Most popular line with legislators defending their bills before committees was, for many years, "This is just a little clean-up language, which will change almost nothing in the way the state presently does things."

Now it's "This bill is designed to get government off our backs."
Neither statement is 100 percent accurate.

Members of at least one committee were less than impressed with that attorney on the payroll of the Highway Department who admitted in a committee session that he didn't know the difference between a memorial and a bill.

(A memorial doesn't do anything; it merely expresses the "sense" of the body in which it originates, like praising the memory of the late George Malool. A bill can be enacted into statute — that is to say, law — which you would normally expect even a government attorney to understand.)

Among those 1,151 regular bills which have been introduced in the present session — the largest number in the state's history — are a larger-than-ordinary number of so-called "dummy" bills.

Those are not bills introduced by dummies, as the disrespectful among you may believe. They are bills with no title and no content, introduced merely to establish a bill number, in case legislators feel an irremediable urge to introduce new legislation after the law says they can't.

Got that?
There are 105 of them this session, 73 in the House and 32 in the Senate.

There may be hanky-panky afoot.
It would be possible to confuse this year's star issue, The Great Liquor Question, for instance, with a sudden influx of bills of all sorts in the closing days of the session.

The Senate's feelings have been miffed slightly by John Mershon's continued adding of amendments to bills to require that the Governor's appointees be approved by the House as well as the Senate.

The original notion was that the House would originate money bills, and the Senate would "advise and consent" on actions of the chief executive. It came from the national constitution, so it can be considered to have some standing.

Now Mershon, who evidently thinks the Senate has been too cavalier in passing appointees without much consideration (Adolph Saenz as Secretary of Corrections is one name that comes immediately to mind), wants the wisdom of House members to be called on to supplement that of the Senate.

He also wants to bug the Senate a little, because he knows the so-called "senior" body sometimes tends to get uppity just a little.

editorial

We congratulate Senator Jack Schmitt on the success of his efforts Friday in Las Cruces to get proponents and opponents of locating a safe, jet capable, airport on Site B of Fort Stanton mesa to agree to let Secretary of the Interior James Watt name an arbitrator to settle the issue.

One interesting facet of Friday's meeting was that Sierra Blanca Airport Commission chairman Fred Hackman stated that "one three-page paper" has been published on the rotation experiment since it was implemented on the mesa.

The News has always urged the setting aside of 600 acres of the 17,000 available for agricultural experiments on the mesa by New Mexico State University (NMSU); with the reasoning being that some vegetation experiments could be moved from airport acreage and conducted from that new location without harming them, other than perhaps causing momentary delay in continuing the experiment.

The willingness of NMSU officials to agree to abide by any decision rendered by Secretary Watt's office represents, in one sense, a complete reversal of their determined stance in the past to resist, by any and all means, establishing the airport on Site B. Site B involves Bureau of Land Management acreage leased to NMSU, while Site A includes privately owned land that would be costly to acquire.

In the past Governor Bruce King has voiced support of an airport on Site B to SBAC, but hasn't lifted a finger to help it become a reality. In view of the outcome of Friday's meeting in Las Cruces, we feel that the governor should act immediately, invoking all of the prestige of his office, to assist SBAC in locating a regional airport on Site B. — CD

Sense & Nonsense

U.S. Sen. Pete Domenici

The housing industry in New Mexico faces several major problems. Inflation and high interest rates are highest on the list, but there are others. They include rising costs of transporting building materials, especially in rural areas, the actual cost of the building materials themselves coupled with their relative availability to the area, and finding building materials that are not only energy-efficient, but cost-efficient as well.

Adobe, sun-dried brick that has been used for centuries in the Southwest, is an old building material that may be ahead of its time. Developed by the Southwestern Indians several hundred years ago, because wood and other materials for building were scarce, adobe is coming into its own during the 1980's as a practical building material which is both energy-efficient and cost-efficient.

Here are the facts about adobe and its benefits, not only to the housing industry, but to the local community. First, adobe production on a large scale localizes capital flow by converting local raw materials, labor, and money into a finished, marketable product. Adobe bricks have to be manufactured locally since the cost of transporting large amounts of them is both economically prohibitive and unnecessary. The money retained in the local community strengthens local economies and the local demand for goods and services.

Comparing conventional construction materials to adobe bricks in actual construction costs, more square feet per dollar can be produced with adobe than with using outside conventional construction materials. And since the materials are available locally, it also cuts down the "lag time" which usually occurs with mass construction projects financed by a sudden market and population expansion in the area.

Best of all, however, is the fact that adobe is a passive solar material. The ancestral Southwest Indians recognized that the adobe could make a residence warmer in winter by storing up the solar heat, and cooler in summer, by insulating the intensity of the sun's rays. Modern builders recognize today that energy demand for adobe structures are demonstrably lower—allowing for up to 40 percent more expansion on existing energy systems, such as electricity and natural gas, than conventional housing.

Adobe is an idea that has come of age and the use of modern technology to produce adobe bricks is just one more example of enhancing an old idea with the benefits of modern technology. I recently toured a site in Tesuque, New Mexico, which was demonstrating the energy and cost-efficiency of adobe. I was impressed by the fact that this technology has progressed so far in just a few short years. In the very near future many more people — not just those in rural areas who cannot afford more costly building materials — will be turning to adobe construction as a means to get around the high cost of energy and the ever increasing shortages of conventional building materials. The energy savings realized from both manufacturing and transportation of adobe bricks make adobe 25 percent cheaper than any other building material used in the housing industry, all factors considered.

Adobe, in a way, reflects New Mexico as a whole—a state firmly planted in its traditions, culture, and ideals, but with the foresight to use modern innovative technology to prosper and to continue to foster these ideals. It is a blend of the old and the new—and like the soil and the water which blends with the sun to produce adobe bricks, so do these ideals blend to build toward a more secure future for New Mexicans.

Clipped comment

CENSUS BAN REVERSE

Various apt similes can be invoked to describe the confusion that would arise were use of the 1980 census barred in congressional reapportionment. The census was carried out at great cost, and it is not going to be done over. Crippling its lawful employment as a statistical base of government action would cause only trouble.

The House of Representatives was not convinced that last August, apparently, when it voted for just such a ban. This action was taken on the grounds that the census was inaccurate for reapportionment purposes because it included aliens in the count.

The present sensible action of the House will avert a constitutional brouhaha. For as opponents of the ban noted in their successful drive for a reversal of the prior vote, the 14th Amendment does not exclude anyone from inclusion in reapportionment; it says simply that "Representatives shall be apportioned among the several states according to their respective numbers, counting the whole number of persons . . ." — Alamogordo Daily News

ON ONE FOREST FIRE

I was at the Moon Fire in May of 1977. Matter of fact, I was smack dab in the middle . . . surrounded by fire.

Actually me and my car and my boss, publisher Ken Green . . . he was tour guide, 'cause he knows Indian Hills better'n most any Indian around . . . got doused with slurry . . . messed up our clothes . . . didn't do much for the finish on my car, either. We got our snap-crackle-pop first hand . . . 'twas a downright hairy experience . . . scary, too.

Though damage to homes was held to an absolute minimum in the Moon Fire . . . due to the Herculean efforts of all the guys fighting the fire . . . the environment took a beating . . . to the extent that there was some talk of renaming Indian Hills and calling it Mud Hills . . . 'cause that area was defoliated like it'd been doused with Agent Orange.

And right now . . . as our balmy weather continues . . . with a drop of moisture being soaked up by pine needles and trees . . . the conditions now are the same, might be even worse, than they were when the Moon Fire started.

All it'd take is one careless act and another such conflagration could get going . . . and take off for the hills . . . which'd be catastrophic . . . 'cause, in addition to the property losses, tourists don't flock to see fire burn areas.

The possibilities of a fire getting going are real . . . so . . . let's watch a little but on being lax about preventing forest fires . . . 'cause burned areas of forest make mighty expensive fuel for marshmallow roasting . . . besides, fighting forest fires, and watching fire fighters fight forest fires, is mighty fine consuming . . . in addition to everything else as gets consumed.

ON 18 CENT STAMPS

Seems it was just the day before yesterday . . . give or take a few months . . . as how the Postal Service was bragging they were operating in black . . . from the revenues generated from 15 cent first class postage stamps. I'm sure we all cheered that announcement . . . a revelation that has turned into a brom cheer . . . with 18 cent stamps coming up shortly.

Wonder how long it'd take, if all the Senators and Congressmen had to buy stamps, for them to band together to provide better service . . . cheaper?

BIG BUCKS APLENTY

Seventy days of racing at Ruidoso Downs gets underway May 9 . . . with 42 stakes races on tap . . . and you can bet the stakes'll be higher than the tab on a plateful of braised frog tongues, when it comes to the hopes some of owners are pinning on their horses to win.

Some for instances of big bucks on stakes races at this meeting include . . . $1,530,000 up for grabs in the All-American Futurity, come Labor Day . . . $1 million for the All-American Derby . . . $600,000 for the Rainbow Futurity . . . $775,000 for the Rainbow Derby . . . $535,000 for the Kansas Futurity . . . then comes the $225,000 Kansas Derby, which might be considered something of an orphan, purse wise . . . 'cause the winner of the Kansas Derby can . . . if things work out right . . . win the Rainbow and All-American Derbies . . . which'd produce $1.8 million . . . which'd buy a lot of oats and hay.

Why purses like that could have the operators of those thoroughbred tracks back east peeking at their hole card . . . just to check on its prestige.

ON ONE POSTAL CLERK

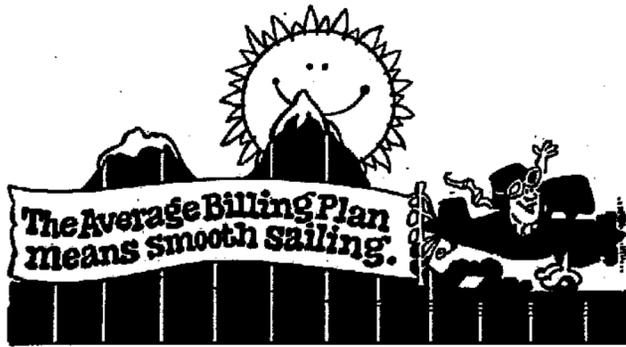

Didja see the blurb Monday, from a wire service, about Robert McLaughlin . . . he's been sorting letters in the Des Moines, Iowa, postoffice for 11 years . . . who just ain't got the right angle when it comes to sorting mail . . . 'cause he's holding his mail at 90 degrees, instead of the 45 degrees his supervisor has decreed as the right angle . . . and Bob done up and got handed a seven day suspension . . . 'cause he's got the wrong slant on his job of distribution.

Now . . . without knowing all the facts in this case . . . I'd seem, if'n Bob gets all the mail in the right slots at the right time . . . and within the time allowed . . . it shouldn't make any difference if he used a mirror.

'Course regulations is regulations . . . and regulations is to regulate things . . . even mail distribution . . . with regulations even including how to sit on a stool whilst distributing mail . . . without regard to the fact there's as many funny shaped derrieres as there is people sporting them . . . and it's a good bet one don't fit a stool as does another, which probably ain't regulated.

THREE SUNLAND jockeys, including two in the top five of the standings, were injured over the weekend and two will have to sit on the sidelines for a few weeks. The first accident happened Friday in the ninth race when Big L, a 19-1 outsider, was tripped up in the backstretch and fell. Jockey Danny Summerow was thrown to the ground and suffered a neck sprain, but no serious injuries. He returned to ride Sunday. On Saturday, Jesus Terrazas was thrown in the gates while aboard Topot-thower in the second race. He suffered a broken wrist. Later in the fifth race, jockey Jimmie Hunt was thrown when his mount, Crown Seeker, was tripped a few yards out of the gate. Hunt suffered a back sprain and facial lacerations. Hunt was the meet's fourth leading rider at the time of his spill while Summerow was fifth in the standings. None of the horses involved were injured.

THE MOST IMPRESSIVE of the two-year-old first-time starters made her appearance Saturday. The Heat Is On, a daughter of Rocket Wrangler, won Saturday's third race by two lengths as a 2-1 co-favorite. Her time for the 330 yards was 17.06 seconds, breaking the previous juvenile seasonal mark for that distance by ten hundredths of a second. Richard Bickel was aboard the Robert Richie trained filly. The Heat Is On is owned by M. Virginia and G. I. and Kathleen Martin of Tiaban, and is eligible to the West Texas Futurity — one of the nation's premier spring quarter horse races. Trials for the $250,000 (est.) dash will be held March 20. There was another two-year-old race over the weekend. Lindsa Sinn, under Larry Byers, won the third race Friday in 17.16 seconds with a 2 1/4 length winning margin. She is owned by Dr. Donald Strole of Abilene, Texas. Shirley Montgomery-Nichols is the trainer.

BUCK CHASER, a four-year-old gelding, continues to roll up one of the most consistent records of any claiming quarter horse. He won his fourth race of the meet Friday as a 3-2 favorite by a nose against $5,000 company. In nine starts this season, Buck Chaser has rolled up a 4-3-1 record. His only finish out of the money came when he was disqualified after a victory. Buck Chaser is owned by W. M. Tolliver of Texas City, Texas, and trained by C. Edwin Hanna. His first two victories were against $2,500 claimers.

TWO FIRST-TIME starters finished ahead of a group of experienced starters Friday in the sixth race. Breaking her maiden on her first try was Juliet's Platoon under Betty J. Barless. Taking second was a half brother to the great stakes runner of early 1970s, Sturdy Indian. Paper Leaf, a daughter of Scout Leader-Sturdy Lass, was 1 1/2 lengths back as the 3-2 favorite. Taking fourth in the race was Nanalou, a daughter of Sturdy Indian.

IN STEWARDS' RULINGS:
— Jockey Jesus Terrazas was fined $50 for failure to maintain a straight course while aboard Alamitos Van Bar in the fourth race on February 15.
— Apprentice Jockey Billy Byers was fined $50 for misuse of the whip while aboard Myrtle's Restless during the 12th race on February 15.
— Trainer Willie Hunt was fined $25 for failure to sign a test card.

REAL SPECULATION won the season's first two-year-old thoroughbred race. The chestnut colt captured Sunday's sixth race, easily with Gilbert Villescias aboard. The even money favorite covered the four furlongs in 46 2/5 seconds. Real Speculation is owned by Mack Yates of Cherokee, Texas. Last year horses owned by Yates won three of the first four thoroughbred baby races. Bill Leach is the trainer. Taking second was Bug Bopper followed by Peaceful Sweep.

FORECOURT MUTUEL windows will be open, weather permitting, for the remainder of the meeting, mutuels manager Jerry Knott announced. The windows were opened Saturday and Sunday under perfect skies.

SUNLAND ENJOYED another big weekend at the betting windows. The three day handle reached $972,198 for an excellent average of $324,066. That was a gain of 12.25 percent over the same weekend last year when the total was $868,099. The current seasonal daily average is still on a record setting course with a daily average of $255,916. That's a gain of 7.18 percent over the average at this point a year ago. Wagering per race is now $22,985 for 648 races, which is a gain of 2.54 percent over last year's comparable $22,425 for 652 races.

THE TOP POST position over the weekend was the No. 5 with six wins. The seasonal breakdown: No. 1—89 wins, No. 2—97, No. 3—72, No. 4—73, No. 5—70, No. 6—56, No. 9—44, No. 10—34, No. 11—6, No. 12—0.

CABIN FLEUR PRESENTATION — Mrs. Frank Pappen (second from left) of Las Cruces makes the trophy presentation for the Cabin Fleur Handicap at Sunland Park. The ornament is accepted by trainer Cliff Lambert and Mrs. Lambert. The jockey is Danny Summerow. Mrs. Pappen is the wife of New Mexico State Senator Frank Pappen.

Festos wins Cabin Fleur 'cap

Festos, running against the kind of competition he can sink his teeth into, demolished Sunday's $5,835 Cabin Fleur Handicap at Sunland Park.

The gelding won the mile journey by a stunning seven lengths and collected $3,501. His clocking of 1:38 2/5 seconds was a seasonal record, and was only three fifts short of the track mark.

The cruising victory gave Festos a badly needed boost in prestige. A regular at Sunland Park and Ruidoso Downs, he journeyed to Santa Anita in January, and staged three outings at the California track.

He started out against $50,000 claimers, failed, then dipped down to $40,000 competition. That was another flop. Finally, he went against $32,000 claimers, failed again, and was returned to Sunland Park.

In the Cabin Fleur, he raced as a 5-2 second favorite and came out swinging under Danny Summerow. Rappid Action, an impressive mare going after her fourth stakes win of the meeting, tried to set the early pace.

Festos dogged Rappid Action down the backstretch, then suddenly exploded and went soaring into the lead. From that point on, the contest was over. Rappid Action, much to the surprise of the fans, caved in readily.

Yosemite Dancer, a 4-1 shot, moved gamely out of fourth place but stood no chance of overtaking the winner. So Yosemite Dancer, ridden by Jack Wallace, had to settle for a runnerup paycheck of $1,283. Snuffy, a 9-1 outsider who was close to the lead down the backstretch, got in third — six lengths behind Yosemite Dancer. Louie Gomez was up.

Festos, trained by Cliff Lambert for Jimmy and Allison Powers of Sonora, Texas, returned mutual payoffs of $7.60, $4.50 and $3.40. The returns on Yosemite Dancer were $4.40 and $3.50. Snuffy paid $3 to show.

Rappid Action, the property of Alan Antwell of Hobbs, finished fourth. Both Rappid Action and Festos were weighted at 120 pounds.

The co-feature at 870 yards went to Pierre The True by nearly six lengths. The 2-5 favorite, Thirty Five, got in tight quarters shortly after the break and never had a chance. Pierre The True, ridden by Gilbert Villescias, paid $8.20.

Sunday's sixth race at four furlongs offered Sunland's first two-year-old thoroughbred race of the year. Real Speculation, owned by Mack Yates of Cherokee, Texas, won by three lengths. Villescias was aboard that one, too. Real Speculation went off as a 6-5 favorite.

Riley Allison Futurity purse rising

The 1981 Riley Allison Thoroughbred Futurity at Sunland Park is building up funds at a quick pace.

A total of 224 head are still eligible, and the amount on deposit is now $179,916.

That's quite an improvement over last year's pace, when the total on deposit at the same figure is a gain of $28,660.

Last year, the Allison Futurity ended up with a total purse of $206,358.

If the current upward trend continues, the 1981 Allison Futurity could easily wind up in the $240,000 to $250,000 range — or higher.

Downs stakes races featuring some gigantic purses

The remarkable 1981 stakes schedule at Ruidoso Downs includes the debut of the Rainbow Silver Cup, another major event for quarter horses.

According to general manager Finlay MacGillivray, the Silver Cup evolved from the Rainbow Futurity and Rainbow Derby, and is restricted to four-year-olds. "The first running of the Rainbow Silver Cup carries an estimated (est.) purse of $175,000," MacGillivray said. The Silver Cup will be staged on Sunday, June 14, and will contribute to a dramatic strengthening of Ruidoso's Stakes Program for older quarter horses. This up grading will be complete in 1982, when the All-American Gold Cup—offering a purse in the $700,000 range joins the Ruidoso Stakes Schedule.

The Gold Cup, the Silver Cup and the World's Championship Classic (about $200,000) will create a unique "Triple Crown" for older quarter horses, MacGillivray pointed out.

The upcoming Ruidoso season will cover 70 race days, starting on Saturday, May 9, and culminating on Labor Day, September 7. Once again, it'll be a basic pattern of Thursday-through-Sunday racing.

The glittering Ruidoso Stakes Schedule is topped by the All-American Futurity, a 440 yard thriller staged on Labor Day. This year, the All-American gets another infusion of cash and will top out at $1,530,000 (including the three consolation races and nominating and breeding awards). Most spectacular of all is the fact the winner of the 1981 edition will collect a staggering $528,000. (Last year, the winner, Higheasterjet, took home $440,000). The gross purse of the 1981 finale is $1,200,000.

The All-American Derby, the three-year-old counterpart of the All-American Futurity, will be renewed on Sunday, August 30. The distance is 440 yards. The gross purse is $1 million.

The All-American Futurity serves as the main jewel in the two-year-old Triple Crown, while the All-American Derby is the largest offering in the three-year-old Triple Crown.

Preceding the All-American Futurity are the $335,000 (est.) Kansas Futurity on June 7 and the $600,000 Rainbow Futurity on July 26. Helping set the stage for the All-American Derby are the $225,000 (est.) Kansas Derby on May 24 and the $375,000 (est.) Rainbow Derby on July 5.

Included among the season's standout thoroughbred events are the $125,000 (est.) Ruidoso Thoroughbred Futurity, the $25,000-added Ruidoso Mile, the $25,000 (est.) Ruidoso Thoroughbred Derby, the $70,000 (est.) Norgor Futurity, and the $30,000 (est.) Norgor Derby. Home-bred two-year-olds will get their innings in the $35,000 (est.) Kindergarten Futurity and the $40,000 (est.) Rio Grande Futurity.

The stakes schedule offers some new events (besides the Rainbow Silver Cup). The new wrinkles include the $5,000-added Go Together Stakes at 350 yards on May 16 (for fillies and mares, three-year-olds and up); The $7,500-added Master Salla Handicap on May 30 (870 yards, three-year-olds and up); the $5,000-added Barlaris Stakes on May 23 (5 1/2 furlongs, three-year-olds and up); the $5,000-added Lincoln County Claiming Stakes on June 20, (seven furlongs, three-year-olds and up); and the $7,500-added Mr. Tattoo Handicap on August 9 (7 1/2 furlongs, three-year-olds and up).

Workshop scheduled at Cloudfcroft

For the second year, a Summer String Workshop will be offered by New Mexico State University's (NMSU) Department of Music, to be held May 29 through June 7 in Cloudfcroft.

The program will take place at Sacramento Methodist Assembly Mountain Retreat with participant performances planned in Cloudfcroft, Roswell and Las Cruces.

Lessons on violin, viola, cello and double bass will be offered for students 13 years of age and older, with university credit or non-credit options available. The faculty will include Dr. Marianna Gabbi, conductor of the Las Cruces Symphony at NMSU and music department faculty member; Julia Hardie, who teaches viola at NMSU; and Gary Hardie, NMSU cello and bass professor.

As a result of the positive and enthusiastic response to last year's workshop," said Dr. Gabbi, "We are offering this workshop again, planning to increase the number of participants as well as the number of concerts offered." She noted that the original plan came to fruition because of the aid of symphony supporter Dick Dunn who made the original contacts and provided several scholarships.

Participants and instructors will be housed in a wing of the lodge at Sacramento Assembly, be served three meals daily in the dining hall (special menus available for those on special diet) and have access to both indoor and outdoor recreational activities. The Lincoln National Forest, with many acres of hiking trails, is adjacent.

Details on the Summer String Workshop will be available from the NMSU Department of Music, Box 3F, Las Cruces, New Mexico 88003, phone 646-2421.

Researcher: 'No need to fear Sagebrush Rebels'

Will a victory for the Sagebrush Rebels be a sell-out to a few wealthy land owners in the west? A researcher with New Mexico State University's Agricultural Experiment Station said the picture is not as grim as some depict it.

"There is little reason to give credence to the charge that a successful Sagebrush Rebellion will result in wholesale disposal of Bureau of Land Management (BLM) lands to private interests and that recreationists will lose access to these land resources," said agricultural economist Dr. James R. Gray.

Gray recently examined state ownership of lands from an economic perspective, particularly as it influences multiple-use land policies in the west. Gray defines multiple-use as the management of all resources so that they best meet the long-term multiple needs and goals of the American people.

The Forest Service was an early adopter of a multiple-use policy, Gray said. Recently, however, a series of legal actions has shifted the policy away from multiple-use toward exclusive or dominant use, where only one or a few uses are permitted to achieve a single goal.

"The trend away from a multiple-use policy has had a very real impact on the various traditional uses of the federal domain," Gray said. The trend has caused concern about future supplies of timber, barriers to mineral development, and trends in livestock grazing uses.

Although management to maximize state incomes is still the dominant policy on state-owned land, policies vary widely. As states gain control of federal land, it would be in their best interest to retain state ownership, because of inflationary land values, and to implement multiple-use for income diversity.

For those worried about states selling out to private interests, Gray cites statistics showing the trend away from the sale of state land. "The federal government originally granted 84.1 million acres to the 17 continental western states," he said. In 1936, state ownership was 73.3 million acres. By 1960, this acreage was down to 43 million acres, or about half the original grant. In 1978, the acreage actually had increased to 43.5 million acres.

In the beginning, the states disposed of the lands as quickly as possible to meet the state constitutional requirement for the most income possible from these lands. Some states, like California, Kansas and Nebraska, have sold all but 10 percent of the land originally granted them. Others, like New Mexico and Arizona, have kept 80 percent or more of their granted lands.

Gray views the constitutional requirement for maximum income from state lands as an opportunity rather than a liability. "The claim is often made that the takeover would be self-serving to a few wealthy land owners and a lock-out of the public now using the lands for recreation," he said.

Those against state ownership also claim the states would ignore uses that yield little income in favor of those that do, such as grazing, timber harvest and mining. Yet this same group argued that wilderness areas increase local income more than those just mentioned.

Gray believes the real motives behind these objections is that federal recreational user fees are much smaller than those imposed by the state and private land owners. "In effect, those using national forests and BLM lands for recreation are being subsidized by the taxes of the majority who do not use them," he said.

Besides, there is little evidence to show that private land owners or states will exclude hunters and fishermen. Texas, Minnesota and Pennsylvania, all popular hunting states, have not imposed such restrictions on their hunting areas, he said.

In truth, wildlife management is expected to benefit if the states, which now own the wildlife, can also own the wildlife habitat. As it is, cooperation between the BLM and the state often breaks down. More efficient management is expected if one sector has control over both the wildlife and its habitat. In turn, the hunter and fisherman will benefit from improved management.

Range improvement opportunities are expected to increase with state ownership. Most states have more flexible range improvement programs and less administrative hurdles than the federal government.

Under the state, for example, com-penation for approved structural improvements is usually paid to ranchers when state leases are transferred. This encourages long-range improvements. Under the BLM, however, improvements financed by ranchers become the property of the federal government with no compensation to the rancher when grazing uses are changed.

Based on an economic analysis of New Mexico conditions from 1965 to 1980, Gray said it would be more profitable for the state to keep the land than to sell it. New Mexico, by not selling the land gained in a Sagebrush Rebellion, would gain $2 in fees for every $1 lost in federal subsidies. In 1970, the 11 western states netted about three times as much income per acre as did the BLM, according to the American Farm Bureau Federation.

Gray anticipates some problems in achieving multiple-use goals with state ownership of BLM lands. Fragmented responsibilities among the various state agencies will dilute its management efficiency. Inadequate staff sizes and low budgets will post problems in some low-income states.

Also, conflicts between local and state governments as states take control of federal lands.

Politically, the rebellion is expected to gain more attention as recreationists, preservationists and states vie for control of federal lands. Regardless of whether the land is federally, state or privately owned, Gray said that "conservation implies use and the best use is a balanced multiple-use policy."

Game violation convictions set record in past six weeks

Operation Game Thief (OGT) paid $2,000 in rewards between mid-December and January, a record number of successfully completed investigations in any two-week period since the program was initiated in June 1977.

Dan Pursley, coordinator of the program, paid the informants in eight of 11 cases called in to OGT — 73 percent in that two-week period. Those cases, each paying $250 for the information, were game law violations involving deer and elk. The calls came from all areas of the state.

"Typically one of five cases is completed successfully and the informant paid," Pursley said. "But this high number during that stretch is not necessarily an indication of more calls to OGT — just some good investigation by our officers and a run of luck."

The rapid completion of the cases — resulting in citation or arrest of the alleged violator — was also typical of most OGT cases, Pursley said.

"It's unusual that we receive a call, complete the investigation and get the guy to court — then pay off the informant — within a week, as most of these cases were. In some of the cases we got the call and had the defendant in court within a matter of hours or a day. That's unusual, though most cases are going to be made within a week if they're going to be made at all."

The number of cases called to OGT during that time period was lower than during the peak of big game season in November, Pursley said, but slightly higher than usual for the period when those seasons are winding down. He attributed that increase to an easier access to big game habitat. "Normally the snow will limit access of poachers in the high country to a degree."

"It's unrealistic to think that good weather isn't incentive to game violators," he said. "If access is good and they're out committing those crimes, though, the possibility exists, as these guys found out, that someone else is also out enjoying the good weather and could be a witness to the crime."

Some people report the violation to OGT for personal satisfaction and because of a sincere interest in the welfare of our wildlife, Pursley said. Most, however, want the cash reward — $250 for information involving big game violations, $100 for information involving small game, game bird or fish, or endangered species violations.

As Operation Game Thief becomes more widely known, more people are reporting violations. "That increased number of reports will lead to an increased number of citations, arrests or convictions — and that means an increased number of payoffs. We'll need to generate more money into the reward fund," Pursley said.

"Operation Game Thief was created to deter game law violations, and we think it's working well," Pursley said, "but the continued success of the program is dependent on sustaining the reward fund — overseen by a 16-member advisory board of concerned citizens. Donations are the only means of sustaining the fund, and we'll need to keep money coming into the fund in order to pay off the increasing number of callers."

Donations to Operation Game Thief are tax deductible and may be mailed to the Department of Game and Fish, Villagra Building, Santa Fe, New Mexico 87503. Violations may be reported to the program's toll-free number, 1-800-432-4263.

How to grow a pineapple in your home

If you like the unique and the unusual, you'll love growing your own pineapple. All you need is a fresh pineapple from the grocery store, a pot of soil and a little luck, said James Sals, Extension horticulturist for New Mexico State University. The fruit your plant produces may not be as large as the one you bought, but it will be fun to grow.

Before you slice the fresh pineapple you bought, twist off the leafy top or crown. Trim any adhering flesh. Remove three or four basal leaves and place the crown upside down in a dry, shady place for about a week. This allows the cut end to harden and prevents rot.

After a week it's time to plant your pineapple. Plant the crown in an 8 inch pot. Make sure the pot has plenty of drainage. Cover the drain hole with a broken piece of clay pot and add 1 inch of coarse gravel. Fill the pot with a good potting soil. Plant the crown in the soil and firm soil around it. Be sure not to get soil into the leaves of the crown, Sals said.

Water the crown about once a week. Your plant should root after a few weeks. Fertilize your plant about every two or three months according to the label on a good house plant food.

Your pineapple plant likes warm temperatures, never below 65 Fahrenheit. Indoors keep it near a sunny window. During the summer you can place your plant outdoors, but help it adjust to the sun by placing it in a semi-shaded spot for a few days. This will prevent sunburn.

When grown commercially it takes a crown from 24 to 26 months to produce a ripe fruit. It may take your plant as long or longer.

When your plant is about sixteen months old it may send forth a flower bud from the center. Later a bright red cone appears.

If, after 20 months, your plant hasn't flowered, it may be necessary to encourage it. Put your pineapple, pot and all in a solid plastic bag. Place a ripe apple in the bag with your plant and seal the bag. Place it in a shady place, leaving the bag closed for three days.

Remove the bag and apple and return the pineapple to its usual location. Hopefully, after about two months, the bright red cone will appear. Next bright blue flowers will open row by row. When the pineapple is ripe the inside flesh changes from white to yellow and the outside changes from green to a rich gold.

Walter Henn's work offers 'quiet' artistic statement

WALTER HENN, a resident of Lincoln for the past 15 years, relocated there after spending 20 years in the advertising art field in Dallas, Texas.

The artistic works of Walter Richard Henn have been described as "quiet" and "understated" in their tone. The terms may apply equally well to the tone of the artist, who takes a quiet satisfaction in his chosen profession, which he pursues in the peaceful Bonito Valley near old Lincoln town.

He works there in his home studio at a leisurely pace—"I'm pretty lazy," he said—turning out several pencil sketches, watercolors or oil paintings per month, enjoying the contrast of this lifestyle with the fast pace of the commercial art world he left behind.

A native of Rochester, New York, Henn said he is "one of the fortunate few who never had to worry about what I wanted to be when I grew up." By the time he was "12 or 13," he had decided he would be an artist, he said.

He received his formal art education at the Rochester Athenaeum and Mechanics Institute (now the Rochester Institute of Technology), where he received a "classical" training, including life drawing from casts, "something that many art schools don't do now," he said.

Following his graduation, he worked as an artist for a large printing house and later entered the Army Air Corps during World War II.

Even in the service, he was given the opportunity to work in his own field. Towards the end of his five-year stint he served as the instructor for a group of servicemen shortly before their discharge.

It was an interesting experience for him, he said, and made him more aware of the therapeutic value of art.

The man came into the class, not as "officer or enlisted man," but just as students, Henn said. The class offered them an "interim period" in which a kind of decompression—from military to civilian life—could take place. "Just drawing and painting and then talking about the work seemed to do them a lot of good," he said.

While in the service, Henn met his wife, Nora, in California and eventually they moved to her home town of Dallas, Texas.

In Dallas, Henn worked his way up to the position of art director/production manager for the Grant Advertising Agency, which handled a large variety of accounts, including the Dr. Pepper and regional Dodge automobile advertising.

"When I left," Henn said, "it wasn't because I disliked it. But I decided that if I was ever going to make a change, that it was time to do it." He and his wife had taken some vacation trips to this area and had "fallen in love with Lincoln," Henn said. In 1965, after 20 years in the advertising art business, they made the move, buying and restoring an old adobe home.

At first, Henn combined his home with a studio and gallery to sell his works, later closing the gallery portion as other galleries in Texas and New Mexico became interested in displaying his work.

As his work became better known, he elected to eliminate the middleman and sell his works from Lincoln again. Last year, he joined with five other area artists to display his works at the Old Lincoln Gallery, which is scheduled to reopen for this summer season in a new location in that town.

Since moving to Lincoln, the Henns have sold their original house, buying and restoring another adobe and incorporating a studio. There are no interior doors from the house to the studio, which forces him to walk outside and around the house, "giving me someplace to go," to do his work, he said, as well as additional privacy.

Still, he doesn't lock himself into an eight-to-five regimen.

As a commercial artist, Henn said he spent "so much time going in every day and doing something someone else told me to do," he decided after leaving he would "do just what I wanted to do."

"What he wants to do" generally does not include portraiture, and he isn't fond of doing "commissions." It does include working on location a great deal, concentrating on subject matter like landscapes, old buildings or parts of buildings, primarily in the Lincoln area.

He does "five or six" works per month, on the average, completing more paintings during the summer, when weather conditions are more conducive to on-location sketching.

Usually, he likes to make a detailed pencil sketch of a scene at the location, returning to his studio to transfer his ideas into color. The sketches provide him with "all the detail I want, without the distraction of working outdoors."

He doesn't like to work from photographs, because "I become too involved in what the photograph is and lose the feeling of what the place is like," he said. "The photograph is two dimensional," he added, and in observing it, one may become "unconscious of the three dimensional aspects of the place."

"I like to get the feel of the place by observing . . . I can remember the things I think are important to put in or leave out."

"Once he begins to paint, "it doesn't take long" for him to complete the work, especially in watercolor, which he said is a fast medium. And although he has abandoned the strict schedule of the commercial art world, some of that experience still tends to influence his work in other ways.

Much of his training in commercial art consisted of layouts which had to be visualized and "done rapidly." Now as he works on a landscape or other scene, "I can almost see it before it's finished," he said. "I might think about it for a week and do it in a day."

Since moving to Lincoln, Henn has managed to find time for a variety of other projects which make use of his talents. He was the first director of the Lincoln Heritage Trust, which maintains a number of buildings in Lincoln. During his tenure, he oversaw the renovation of the Montano store and Dr. Wood's house.

He also designed the Lincoln County Centennial medallion in 1969, and has produced portfolios of historic buildings in southeastern New Mexico.

He occasionally steps back into the commercial art field for free lance projects, and has taught short courses and seminars in painting, another enjoyable aspect of being an artist, he said.

"I enjoyed the contact with the students, and I'm sure I learned more from them than they ever did from me," he said. "I guess every teacher says that."

"There's nothing more satisfying than having a group of people who are learning and beginning to see the results of training in painting. The joy they get from it is a joy the teacher experiences as well."

In any work of art, the end product of the artist's labors has more meaning for Henn than the methods by which it was created.

"The thing that matters is what you have when you finish. It doesn't matter how you arrive at it, or whether you use oil or watercolor, a combination, or any medium."

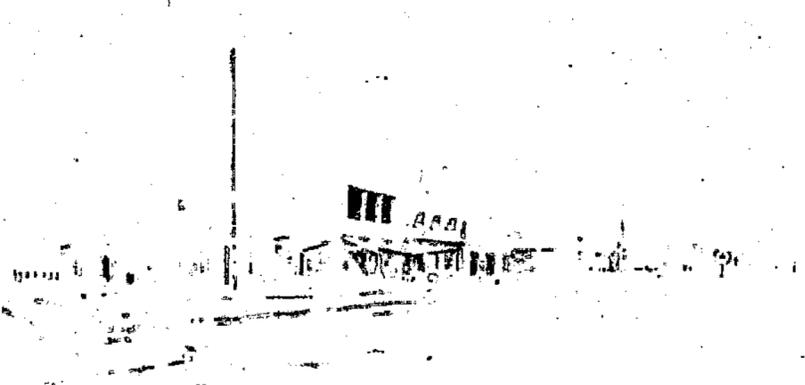

"Any work of art has to stand on its own—not be propped up by being called a 'pure watercolor' and so on," he said.

"If it communicates to the person who likes it, that's what's important."

NEAR MENDIOLA, a pencil sketch, captures the remote feeling of an abandoned building.

Henn also frequently uses detailed sketches as the basis for watercolor paintings.

CELINA, TEXAS, caught the artist's imagination as he passed through the town, noting that the only viable business was the service station at far right. All the other buildings, including the dry goods store and theatre, had been put up for sale.

HENN'S SKETCHBOOK is an integral part of his equipment. The sketches provide him with enough detail to complete watercolor renderings of the scenes he has visited, without "the distraction of working outdoors" with paint.

BLUE SKULL, a watercolor, offers a departure from Henn's usual subject matter of landscapes and aging buildings. The painting will be displayed this summer at the Old Lincoln Gallery.
