WAR WIN AND DR. DEPOT GRAB DIVISIONS

Two Jet Moore winners

Dr. Depot, ignored by the public and carrying 25-1 odds, overcame such high-powered stars as Mighty Deck Three and Rocket Jet Bug in Sunday's spotlighted second division of the Mr. Jet Moore Stakes at Ruidoso Downs.

Dr. Depot exploded out of the number two post in the 400 yard dash, took dead aim at highly favored Mighty Deck Three, and had that one's number before a third of the race was run.

Surprisingly, Mighty Deck Three appeared incapable of shaking off the challenge and flattened out badly in the final stages of the journey. The odds-on favorite wilted to a well beaten fourth.

Dr. Depot, on the other hand, charged down to the wire with fire-eating enthusiasm and was a safe neck in front of the fast closing Rocket Jet Bug when he hit the tape. The winner, owned by Barbara Smith of Lewisville, Texas, collected $3,021 out of the $5,035 gross purse and lit up the tote board with payoffs of $53, $13.60 and $6.40.

James Lackey was in the saddle in 117 pound load. The winning time, against a steady headwind, was 20.51 seconds.

Rocket Jet Bug, last summer's hero of the $560,180 Rainbow Derby, commanded plenty of attention with his high flying move over the final 100 yards. Larry Byers was up. The payoffs were $6.20, $5. Rocket Jet Bug toted the high weight of 124 pounds.

That's Raney, a 7-2 shot handled by Jackie Martin, jumped into early contention, but was under pressure throughout. Still, the colt hung on tenaciously and grabbed third. He finished a neck in front of the tiring Mighty Deck Three. Fans who banked on That's Raney had to be satisfied with a show return of $3.

Earlier in the program, the first division of the Mr. Jet Moore Stakes was captured handily by War Win, a four-year-old directed by hot-riding Robert Chesson. War Win left the gate as an 8-1 outsider and hit the tape with 3/4 length lead in a 20.77 clocking.

War Win, the property of C. L. Conner and Hubert Vestal of Houston, Texas, paid $18, $7.60 and $7.60. Charge It Papa, the 3-2 favorite, faded to second after holding an early lead. The payoffs: $3.40, $3.

Heza Bunny, a 19-1 dark horse, took third and returned $7.40.

The main result of Sunday's Mr. Jet Moore Stakes was the apparent establishing of Dr. Depot and Rocket Jet Bug as the ones to watch in the upcoming Ruidoso stakes for older quarter horses.

Racing at Ruidoso Downs resumes Friday at 1 p.m. with a four day Memorial Day weekend stand.

TEWATEE, A FILLY who's been running on the Texas and Oklahoma non-part-mutuel circuit, surprised her competition in Saturday's second division of the Go Together stakes at Ruidoso Downs.

Tewatee punched out a nose win in the 350 yard struggle which included one of the nation's top sophomore fillies, Baby Hold On. The Go Together Stakes is restricted to fillies and mares in the three-year-old and up bracket.

Saturday's first running of the Go Together attracted so much talent it had to be split in two divisions. The first division went to Easy Zipper, a standout favorite who had to ignite on all burners in the final yards in order to pull out a head victory.

Tewatee, the second division winner, covered the distance in a headwind clocking of 18.51 seconds and disbed out totalisator prices of $40.80, $15.20, $4.60. Jackie Martin was in the saddle. Tewatee, a three-year-old, is the property of O. C. Carlton III of Richmond, Texas.

Tewatee broke in second place, remained within striking distance through the early stages of the sprint, then surged ahead near the wire. She earned $3,082 out of the $5,137 gross purse.

Priss On Across, an 8-1 outsider handled by Vernon Cogburn, finished second and paid $11.20, $5. Priss On Across hit the wire 3/4 lengths ahead of Baby Hold On. The latter, in front at the outset, lacked enough closing wallop. She paid $2.40 to show.

Fans who made Easy Zipper an odds-on favorite in the first division collected meager returns of $3.20, $2.80, $2.60. The winning time was 18.45. A stiff headwind was blowing. Easy Zipper is owned by Jerry and Peggy Stone of Lolita, Texas.

Speedy Julie, a 7-1 shot, came in second ($4.20, $3.40). Brown Sugar Bowl took third for a $4 show return.

GREYBON, THE COLT who won the recent $320,295 Sun Country Futurity at Sunland Park, sliced through a stiff headwind at Ruidoso Downs on Friday and set the day's top clocking for the upcoming Kansas Futurity.

Greybon covered the 350 yard Kansas course in 18.53 seconds, and that held up as the top clocking in 18 elimination heats. But Greybon's top qualifying time was the only one of several major developments during the long program. Earlier in the day, Nominations Secretary Dorothy Dillard announced that the gross purse for the Kansas Futurity will be a remarkable $787,350. (That figure includes two consolation races.)

The amount to be disbursed in the May 31 finale is $606,668, with $260,522 earmarked for the winner. The 1981 Kansas purse is a whopping increase of almost $300,000 over last year's edition.

Jackie Martin, rapidly becoming the nation's finest quarter horse pilot, turned in a tremendous afternoon. He rode nine

A DONATION of $10,000 for the physical therapy department at Ruidoso Hondo Valley Hospital was made Thursday by Verne Reading, right, a summer resident of the village. Rob Steinmetz, physical therapy department, accepted the check on behalf of the hospital.

School district budget pegged at $4.2 million

Copies of the 1981-82 Ruidoso school district budget are now available, with the board of education, meeting Thursday, estimating revenues at $4,243,716.

The 1980-81 budget was $3,553,910. The budget hearing with the State Department of Public School Finance will be held at the high school library May 28 at 8:30 a.m.

"At that time, the budget will be reviewed a final time by the state," Superintendent of Schools Pat Valliant, said.

"They said there won't be many changes at all. Traditionally, Ruidoso turns in one of the best prepared budgets in the state, and it looks like this year is no different."

The board also officially named the main high school football stadium "W. D. Horton Warrior Field" in honor of Dr. W. D. Horton, a long time supporter of Ruidoso High School athletics.

Board president Dave Parks said the name will be given to "whatever football field happens to be the main one, in case we ever build a new one in the future."

Tentative approval was given to the purchase of 40 acres of land, at a cost of $55 per acre, from White Mountain Development Company. A new high school complex will be constructed at the site, located in the Bog Springs area, with the school district free to select their boundaries, subject to approval of the sellers.

Board members voted to begin immediately the process of seeking matching funds from the state to construct streets and install wastewater facilities for the new complex.

Parks said the village has volunteered to work with the district to place all needed wastewater facilities, including a lift station. "We understand that the village plans to extend wastewater service through Gavilan Canyon anyway; so by working together, we can split the costs between ourselves and the state." Parks added that money is also available for new roadways and the village will apply for those funds.

"These are all matching agreements. One provides 75 percent of the funds and we'd provide 25 percent; another is a 50-50 proposition," Parks said.

Parking lots at all schools were resurfaced during the school year, but board member Don Swalander noted that tar "is bleeding through" to the surface "making a mess on the school's carpets and

Dogs uncover skeleton on Cedar Creek trail

The Lincoln County Sheriff's Department is in the process of exhuming a human skeleton discovered Sunday afternoon, near one of the hiking trails at the end of Cedar Creek Road, northwest of Smokey Bear Ranger Station.

The Ruidoso Police Department record of the discovery notes that the skeleton was discovered when dogs began digging at the site.

No skull has been found as yet, and it is unknown whether the skeleton is that of a male or female.

The remains will be sent to Albuquerque for examination by forensic medical specialists, according to a Sheriff's Department spokesman.

Lawmen honor Lukens

Paul Lukens, who resigned last week as chief of the Ruidoso Police Department, was honored Friday at a luncheon of the Twelfth Judicial District Law Enforcement Association, at K-Bobs, Ruidoso.

Lieutenant David Pfeffer of the Ruidoso Criminal Investigation Division presented Lukens with a plaque on behalf of the association, citing his "20 years of loyalty and service" to the department.

The group, which includes officers from more than a dozen agencies in Lincoln and Otero Counties, also heard an update on recent legislation affecting the law enforcement field from State Senator Caleb Chandler of Clovis.

New legislation outlined by Chandler included changes in the penalties for prostitution and the outlawing of topless and bottomless dancing and waitressing.

Chandler also advised the officers of new laws which make it illegal to sell or possess drug paraphernalia. With the new regulations, he added, confiscated paraphernalia may be seized and destroyed following disposition of the case.

Other new legislation makes it illegal for persons to "break and enter" into dwellings, even without the intent to burglarize. Persons convicted of felonies are now prohibited from possessing firearms for ten years following the conviction, Chandler added.

The state legislature also established a fund of about two million dollars under the Crime Victims Reparations Act. Under the act, victims of personal violent crimes may receive up to $1,250 for medical or psychiatric assistance they require as a result of the crime.

Much legislative attention was directed toward the state's Corrections Department, Chandler said. In addition to appropriations for a new maximum security facility in Santa Fe and a new medium security facility the legislature also set aside funds to establish expanded prison industries for inmates.

Changes in the state Children's Code will soon make it legal for law enforcement officers to fingerprint and photograph juveniles without a court order. The legislation will also permit juveniles age 15 or older to waive their right to counsel before talking to police officers. Juveniles convicted for the first time may be sentenced to two years in a correctional facility, or three years for a second conviction.

Parents of juvenile offenders will be increasingly responsible for their children's actions under the revised legislation, Chandler said. The new juvenile regulations will take effect June 19.

As a result of the hostage incident at Carlsbad Caverns in 1979, the legislature also passed a law giving joint jurisdiction to federal and state law enforcement officers in national parks and monuments.

Other changes gave raises to state police officers, and magistrate judges, and will allow retirement for law enforcement officers after 25 years, a change from the previous 30 year retirement period. The law will not affect state police, who may retire after 20 years of service.

Altrusa's home tour set

Five "Homes in the High Country" will be featured in the Altrusa Club's annual tour of homes May 24, 2-6 p.m.

The tour is the major fund raiser for the service club, with proceeds used for scholarships, educational programs, musical and drama productions, and other services.

Homes on the tour are: The Dr. Edward Stalzer home, which was designed by an Albuquerque architect highlighted by large picture windows and high ceilings. The decor incorporates momentos from the Stalzers' trips around the world.

Spanish decor is also blended into the home, with wrought iron and tiles from Mexico completing the ornaments of the home.

The Stalzers are most fond of their kitchen, which was designed to bring the beauty of the outdoors inside while still providing a practical work area.

The Gordon Snidow home is a large ranch home featuring cathedral ceilings in the living room, kitchen, art studio and entry hall. A unique feature of the home is the beams, which were found in an old barn in Michigan, to add a country flavor.

"We have a country kitchen because that's where we live," Sue Snidow said. "It's actually a breakfast, kitchen, den combination."

The highlight of the kitchen is the beveled and leaded glass cabinets.

The Dr. Charles Gaddy home is a territorial home offering a blending of cultures. "It's a finer line of Western blend," Margaret Gaddy said. The home features 21 French doors and a guest room off the main house.

Another highlight of the home is that all but one room opens into a central garden room filled with many varieties of live plants. The Eagle Creek home is appointed with family heirlooms and surrounded on three sides by a veranda.

The Bill Thomas residence is located at the former Hull Estate, renovated into a roomy Spanish style home. It features a 400 square foot garden room and includes a "four seasons" environment with a steam sauna, dry sauna and sun bathing facilities.

A seven-foot Jacuzzi features many distinctive fixtures, and the master bedroom, measuring 1,250 square feet, incorporates a large kiva fireplace and a roomy master bath.

Casa Blanca fans are placed throughout and a large game room is highlighted by many antiques.

The Dr. A. N. Spencer home in Alto is a completely contemporary home sprinkled with a Western art collection.

A highlight of the home is the huge picture window in the living room, to afford a breathtaking view of Sierra Blanca, according to Jackie Spencer. The two story house is a showplace for contemporary art and distinctive but elegant modern decor.

The landscape surrounding the home has kept the forest as close to the home as possible.

Tickets for the tour are $3 and babes in arms will be admitted free of charge. Parents attending the tour may present tickets at Skateland, and their children will skate for half price during tour hours.

Tickets are available at Village Hardware or from any Altrusa member.

Snidow prints boosting 1981 Summer Festival

Signed limited edition prints of Gordon Snidow's "First Messenger from the Rain Gods," are still available as part of a promotional effort for the second annual Ruidoso Summer Festival, June 2-9, featuring the Texas Little Symphony.

The painting, owned by John and Tina Hall of Ruidoso, was loaned to the Festival for the fund raising project. The prints, in an edition of 200, are reproduced in full color on 19x24 100 percent rag paper, and may be ordered through the Ruidoso Summer Festival, Box 1338, Ruidoso, 88345.

Cost of the prints is $200, and a check should accompany each order. The prints may be seen at The Artisan's Shop, The Bearclaw Gallery and Smith Limited Gallery in Ruidoso.

Snidow's painting of an Indian youth holding an umbrella was also reproduced in color for posters advertising the Summer Festival. Posters are available at $25 each, at the same address.

Signed prints of another of Snidow's paintings, Eyeing the Catch Hand, are also available from festival organizers. Snidow donated the copyright on the painting, which won the gold medal at the 1979 Cowboy Artists Show, in a similar promotion for the first Ruidoso Summer Festival. Cost of these prints is $100.

The 1981 festival will feature guest artists Phyllis Diller, Pepe Romero, Shari Lewis and the winner of the Van Cliburn International Piano Competition, in performances at the Ruidoso Downs Race Track sales arena.

In addition, Fort Worth Texas symphony conductor John Giordano will perform a saxophone solo, and the orchestra will present several free park concerts featuring Dixieland sounds. Information on ticket prices may be obtained by writing the local box number, or by calling (505) 257-5102.

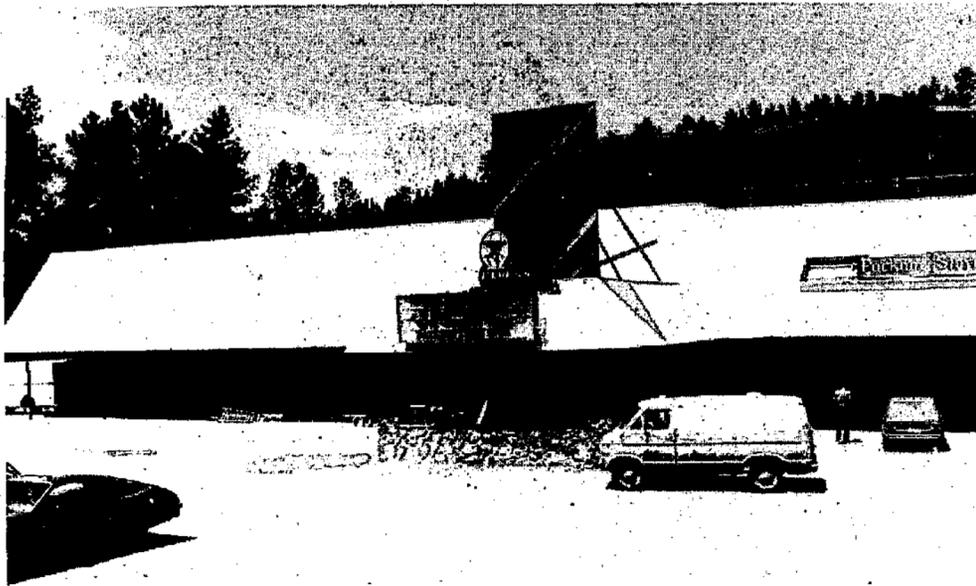

GORDON SNIDOW's original painting, First Messenger from the Rain God, has been reproduced in fine art prints and posters in a promotional project for the Ruidoso Summer Festival, scheduled for June 2-9.

PAUL LUKENS, right, who recently resigned as chief of the Ruidoso Police Department, was honored with a plaque presentation at a Friday luncheon meeting of the Twelfth Judicial District Law Enforcement Association. The plaque praised Lukens for "20 years of loyalty and dedicated service" to the department. Making the presentation is Dave Pfeffer of the Criminal Investigation Division.

Greybon is owned by Sandra Fox, D. E. Hare, M. E. Johnson and Era Pittman of Albany, Texas.

Here are the other four horses who made the qualifying cut in Friday's action:

- Bar Roulucks, 18.60, owned by Hubert and Karen Vestal of Houston, Texas.
- Yeller Fuel, 18.62, owned by Jo Ann Parker of Wilson, Oklahoma.
- Reed About Masked, 18.63, owned by Hubert Vestal Houston, Texas.

—Go For Bugs, 18.63, owned by Cleo Graham of Wynewood, Oklahoma.

SPECIAL EFFORT, a colt with only one race to his credit, emerged as the star of Thursday's first day qualifying round for the upcoming $787,350 Kansas Futurity at Ruidoso Downs.

Special Effort sewed up a berth in the May 31 grand finale by flashing over the 350 yard course in the top qualifying time of 17.90 seconds.

Nearly 180 two-year-olds took part in Thursday's slate of 18 trial spins. Those chalking up the top five clockings on Thursday will join the top five from Friday in the finale.

Special Effort won Thursday's third race by nearly five lengths—which is a remarkable victory margin for a 350 yard race. He went off as a heavy favorite and paid $3.60 to win. W. R. Hunt was up. Special Effort is owned by Allen Taylor and Inken Willis of Beeville, Texas.

Special Effort, in his only previous try at racing, rolled to a 1½ length win at La Bahia Downs on the Texas non-pari-mutuel circuit.

Here are the four other contenders who qualified on Thursday's program:

—Ponti Bar, who won the 15th race by two lengths in 18.12 seconds. The colt is owned by Jack Henning of Refugio, Texas. He was a late supplemental nominee at a cost of $18,000.

—Nosy Request, a length winner of the sixth race at 38-1 odds. He was timed in 18.14 seconds. She's owned by Buford Dugger of Three Rivers, Texas.

—Navco Moon, a nose winner of the seventh race in 18.19 seconds. The colt is owned by Charles Mitchell of Mobile, Alabama.

—High Handed, a colt who finished second to Navco Moon by a nose and was clocked in 18.20. The owner is Billy Gene Smith of Albuquerque.

everybody's shoes."

Doyle Howell, activities director, said sand has been hauled in to absorb the tar, "as long as the sand is there, it's no problem." He said the lots will eventually be satisfactorily completed.

"It's been the experience of everyone that that type of surface lasts longer, but it takes longer to finish," Parks said.

The board also:

—Approved an audit proposal from Nulf Jones of $3,988, which includes an audit of all books and records and supplementary schedules. The approval of the firm is subject to the state's approval, Valliant said.

—Accepted a bid of $4,798 for roof repairs from Van Winkle Roofing of Roswell, the only bid submitted. Repairs are needed at Nob Hill Elementary and some high school buildings.

—Called for bids on janitorial supplies, worker's compensation and enclosed grandstands for the football field.

—Approved routine budget transfers.

—Certified the May 12 election and signed a resolution verifying results.

—Hired Helen Funston as secretary of Nob Hill Elementary, and accepted resignations of Bill Streeter, science teacher at White Mountain Middle School and Darla Lathan, first grade teacher.

The next regular board meeting will be June 9 at 7:30 p.m., in the administrative office.

Drug charges are dismissed

Drug charges against two Ruidoso men were dismissed recently in magistrate Jim Wheeler's court.

Charges of possession of marijuana against Michael Jacoby and Michael Romero were dismissed in separate hearings, according to local attorney Bruce Stafford.

Forest map prices rise

Southwestern Regional Forester M. J. Hassell has announced that the price of all Forest Service maps has been increased to $1 per copy. They had been 50 cents. The two-part Gila Wilderness map now sells for $2.

"The cost of production forces the increase," Hassell said. Maps are available for all the national forests and in many cases for areas within the national forests including San Pedro Parks, Pecos, and Gila Wilderness in New Mexico, and Mazatzal, Sierra Ancha, Superstition and Mt. Baldy Wildernesses in Arizona.

C-C directors airing activities Wednesday

The Board of Directors of the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce will meet Wednesday at noon at the Chamber office. Agenda items include reports on the membership drive, the Espree Party, the Chamber banquet, welcoming committee, Ledger's Tax funding request for the Ruidoso Art Festival and the possibility of hosting an Up with People concert this summer. All meetings of the Chamber board are open to the public.

C-C Cultural committee to meet May 26

The Cultural Committee of the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce will meet May 26 at 1 p.m., at the Chamber. Updates on research which has been ongoing through the winter will be given by various members of the committee. "Anyone who is interested in work of this committee is encouraged to attend and help with its progress," Ed Jungbluth, Chamber executive director, said. The committee was originally created to help locate land and funds to build a fine arts center for the area.

Kevin Sivage 2nd in state golf tourney

Ruidoso High golfer Kevin Sivage led the pack for most of two rounds in Friday's class AAA state golf tourney at Albuquerque. But a two stroke penalty on the ninth hole of the final round cost him his lead, and Robert Gonzales of St. Pius was eventually able to best Sivage in a dramatic sudden death playoff.

Both players finished regulation play with scores of 146 — Sivage shooting rounds of 79-78, and Gonzales 79-73. The 78 on the first 18 holes was the best round of the year for Sivage.

"Kevin played just outstanding," said Coach Leroy Gooch. "He just had a little problem on one hole — the ninth had a trap next to a lake about 220 yards down, and Kevin caught the corner of the trap on his first shot. Then he shanked the ball into the lake and had to take a two shot penalty.

"But it still looked like he was going to win," said Gooch. "It was just one of those sudden turnarounds. In the playoff, both players shot par on the first hole. On the par five second, Kevin was down the middle of the fairway his first two shots while Gonzales hit the rough both times. But then Gonzales chipped to within 18 inches of the cup. Kevin couldn't get his birdie putt to drop, and then Gonzales tapped his in to win."

Gooch said that Sivage would probably play in college next year, but he didn't know where yet. "I'm sure he can play just about anywhere — I just wish he had another year here."

Ruidoso High state track finalists

THE WARRIORS' 400 meter relay team finished 4th in the state finals this weekend, with a time of 45:3. From left to right: Scott Neal, Ricky Dennis, Steve Pletsch and Lon Nunley. The 800 meter team, with Russ Pior replacing Nunley, placed 6th with a season best 1:33:75.

RUTA BOB, a Ruidoso High junior, took fifth at the Hobbs state track meet with a career best time of 5:09. Her previous low was 5:21.

WEAVER BALLARD shows the form that stymied the Runners in the Jewelers' victory Thursday night.

Little League season underway

Russel Easter clouted his second homerun in two games, and struck out eight in a five-inning stint on the mound to lead the Elks to a 19-5 thrashing of the Jaycees in Little League action Thursday night.

Easter got plenty offensive help from Dickey Bruner, who batted three for four, and Clint Walker, who scored four runs.

Wednesday night, Security Bank pounded the hapless Jaycees 11-1. Jeff Willingham struck out six in three innings for the winners. Coach Ronnie Taylor, whose kids were last year's undefeated city champs, then pulled Willingham to save his pitcher for Friday night's battle with Ruidoso State Bank (RSB). RSB had defeated the Elks 18-8 in opening night action.

Little League pitchers are only allowed six innings to work each week.

In Friday night's action, Security Bank shut out Ruidoso State Bank 10-0. Winning pitcher Jeff Willingham again went three innings, and Curt Taylor pitched the last stanza before the game was called on the ten-run rule.

Taylor also batted three for three, and Willingham clouted a four-bagger into a stiff wind.

The victory sets up a Monday night confrontation between the league's two top pitchers thus far—Willingham and the Elks' Russel Easter.

JEFF WILLINGHAM is a picture of concentration as he pitches Security Bank to a 11-1 win over the Jaycees.

FROM THIS ANGLE, Russel Easter looks like he has the ball on a string. He had the Jaycees confused too, in a 19-5 Elks victory.

Wilderness Wisdom

with Wayne Calloway

Dear Wayne — I am kind of interested in replacing the guides on two fishing rods, although I'm not really sure I should attempt it. The guides on the rods were very inexpensive and have rusted, as well as having line cuts. Do you think a person having two left hands, such as me, could do a presentable job of wrapping new guides? What materials would I need? William M.

Dear William — I think most people could do an acceptable job of replacing guides, but I believe if you haven't done it before you'll need a little more instructions than I can give here.

As for materials, you will need guides, of course, wrapping thread, and thread shellac. These will be the barest essentials. You can buy (or make) a gadget that holds the thread spool under tension while providing a holder for the rod while you turn it to wrap the guides. This device and others enables you to do a better job with less trouble. If you're only going to do a rod or two you might spend more getting set up than if you hired it done. But then, if you derive pleasure from it, why not tackle it yourself?

I would suggest finding someone who has done it before. See what equipment they have and how they use it. This should help you decide if it's for you.

Dear Wayne — I have two questions about electric trolling motors. First, is there any danger of electric shock if water enters the motor? Also, are these motors to be used only in fresh water, such as bass fishing, or can they also be used in salt water without corrosion? Tom H., Mississippi

Dear Tom — Electric trolling motors do not present any electric shock hazard. They are powered by D. C. batteries, so even a motor shorted by water is not dangerous. One caution is in order though.

Don't locate the battery too close to a gasoline tank that is used to fuel an outboard. Sometimes sparks may result when you clamp the motor leads to the battery, and you don't need that near gasoline.

I wouldn't say these motors are corrosion proof. Few things are. But if they are carefully and thoroughly hosed off after use corrosion and rust will be kept to a minimum. Use caution not to unnecessarily wet the control wiring in the upper housing.

Men's slow pitch softball league to organize May 19

A men's slow pitch softball league will be organized Tuesday, at 7 p.m., at the Ruidoso Public Library.

"Fast pitch softball is basically a pitcher's league," said Tim Eckerdt, who is helping to get the fledgling league off the ground. "In slow pitch, everyone on the field gets more involved."

Anyone interested in playing, as well as potential sponsors, are invited to attend the meeting.

For more information, call Tim at 378-4279, or Dave Warren at 378-4043.

BLM announces increase in oil, gas, exploration

Exploration and drilling for oil and natural gas on federal public lands in southeastern New Mexico has continued to increase since last year, according to Richard "Dick" Bastin, Acting District Manager of the United States Bureau of Land Management's (BLM) Roswell District. This district manages about 5.5 million acres of public lands and federal minerals in nine counties of southeastern New Mexico and more than 4 million acres of coal, oil, and natural gas in Texas.

During the six months since October 1, 1980, the Roswell District has processed 320 drilling permits plus 477 oil and natural gas leases in southeastern New Mexico and another 52 in Texas. There were also 10 new potash leases and 38 permits to drill for potash authorized in New Mexico during this period. Bastin said that most of the activity in New Mexico took place in Chaves, Roosevelt, Eddy, and Lea Counties.

He also said that his office granted an additional 237 rights-of-way across the federal public lands and sold or allowed free use of almost 864, 816 cubic yards of minerals, such as caliche, sand, and gravel, for building roads and drilling pads since October 1.

BLM paid $55,849,942 to the treasury of New Mexico on May 6 for the first six months of FY-81. This was $3 million more than for the same period of last year, with the higher payments being attributed to higher prices for crude oil and natural gas.

Regionally based programs could help conserve energy

Americans need regionally based programs and innovation at the local level, not federal mandates, to conserve energy in existing houses and buildings.

That's the conclusion of Dr. William J. Siembleda, director of the Community and Regional Planning Program for the University of New Mexico's School of Architecture and Planning. Siembleda has studied energy conservation and how it relates to the "built environment," or the present stock of houses and buildings.

"While energy costs are a growing problem, they do not yet have enough impact as typical and widespread individual dilemmas to garner massive public interest," said Siembleda, whose views on the topic are to appear in the forthcoming edition of Current Issues: The Yearbook of Environmental Education and Environmental Studies. "It appears that the public will continue to rely on government to solve the energy problem while not reducing in any significant way the wastefulness of the present system of creating and maintaining the built environment," he said.

The attitude of Americans to rely solely on government to develop energy conservation policies and solve the nation's energy problems is misguided and should be reversed, he added.

Part of the problem, though, he said, is that government, the building industry, the utility companies and private citizens all bring the question of energy and built environment into focus in their own ways. There is no unified and directed energy conservation policy for this environment.

"Piecing together a federal energy policy does not appear likely because of the many regional variations," he said. "This has been the basic problem in obtaining congressional support for any gas rationing plan. What the federal government could do, however, is support regional and local efforts at energy innovation and land planning, while at the same time using its programmatic tools such as the Federal Housing Administration and the leverage on the banking system to promote a new energy consciousness for the built environment."

"Home builders, for example, often do not construct energy-conservative homes because it raises the costs beyond what consumers believe they can afford," he said. "A $60,000 house can be made very energy conservative by initially installing thermal pane windows, six inches of insulation in the walls and a south-facing thermal storage wall, but it would add $2,000 to $5,000 to the cost. If a consumer can buy a house that looks essentially the same without these energy-saving devices for $50,000, do you think he'll buy the cheaper house? Probably."

"The government could aid home builders and consumers with interest bonuses. That is, if the going rate for the energy-wasting $50,000 home is 14 percent, the government could amortize the cost of the energy-saving home by subsidizing the loan so the consumer pays only 11 percent."

At the local level, Siembleda believes land use regulations must be flexible enough to adapt to changing planning requirements. "Builders and developers who try new innovations are often faced with long delays in their projects due to local resistance to variation in the standardized rules and procedures," he said.

Even if the government and the building industry work well together, Siembleda said that behavior can defeat energy-conservative devices, "if consumption of gasoline or cigarettes is any indication of the American Public's behavioral tendencies, then the outlook for alteration in family energy consumption patterns is dim."

In the future, municipalities will need to look to such subtle trends as building smaller and fewer streets, which would save energy in reduced equipment use and building materials, would cut back on construction, maintenance and repair costs, and would create less area for the police to patrol, he said.

Willie Horton
Warrior Stadium

One of the most heart-warming ceremonies you ever saw took place Monday when the Warrior Stadium was named "W. D. Horton Memorial Stadium, after "Willie" Horton, deeply beloved and widely admired by all of us for all these years.

Young athletes will be inspired in years to come by this fond benediction cast upon the ground upon which they play. For all our finest ideals, both in athletics, and also "The Great Game of Life" itself, are embodied in Dr. Horton, truly "the beloved physician."

In the words of Abraham Lincoln this dedication was "altogether fitting and proper" and more than this it was a community-wide act of love, of permanent inspiration and acting blessing.

Our World needs more of this. May God bless Dr. Horton.

The First Wild Rose

Pink darling of the summer flowers Fragrant emblem of so many glorious things

Smiling through the sunny hours While the Mountain Blue Bird Sings Lending Heaven's blessing to the day.

It is always a special day when the first wild rose comes into bloom, and today, May fourteen, there were out in the little patch of wild rose bushes south of the house the first five petal blooms in purest pink, with the golden center.

All around the world in the temperate zone, this favorite flower is one of summer's most welcome messengers. In Scotland it blooms among the heather; in Norway its pink enchantment is set off by the white trunks of the northern birch tree; its blossoms beside the shamrock in the Emerald Isle.

The wild rose is a favorite here in the land of the pinon and pine, blooming down in the foot hills, all up the valleys, and high upon the slopes of the mountain where it is a giant flower on a tiny bush, and known as "The Alpine Wild Rose," blooming along with the Wild Columbine, the Scotch Blue Bell, the Alpine English Primrose, the purple violet and many others of that colorful host of our flower friends long cherished since time immemorial in song and story.

I will always remember the wild rose welcoming us to this country from the roadside as we crossed the summit in the reservation — our mother, and brothers Mark, Joe, and Lynn, about this time of year, back in 1925.

It would not be summer in the mountains without the wild rose. The pink color always brings a delight to your eyesight and an uplift to your soul. And the fragrance delicate, yet strong and long-reaching on the summer air, adds a charm like something from elfland, drifting everywhere and mingling with the incense of the evergreens on high, and the leaf-breath of the oak and walnut along the sparkling stream.

So let us all rejoice and thank God for the arrival once more among us of that beloved messenger of summer in the hills, the pink and golden fragrant bloom of the wild rose, adding a special note of cheer all its' own, on every hand, all through the day.

Vietnam Vets' picnic to benefit boxing team

All proceeds from a Memorial Day picnic, May 24, sponsored by the Vietnam Veterans of Lincoln County, will be earmarked for the Las Piedras Boxing Team, sponsored by these veterans.

The picnic site is just north of the Gavilan Canyon/Hull Road intersection, with green ribbons marking the route off Highway 37 as well as on Gavilan Canyon and Hull Road.

Boxing team coach Lucky Mulqueen said the action, beginning at 12 noon, includes sky diving, horseback rides for children, horseshoes, volleyball, a rock and roll band, classical, folk and Spanish music and food and beverages will be available.

Admission, including refreshments, will be $5 for adults and $3 for children 12 and under.

An added attraction, Mulqueen said, will be the presentation of Dust Off, a play about soldiers in Vietnam, on stage beginning at 7:30 p.m., May 22, 23 and 24 at the Chaparral Motor Hotel, Ruidoso Downs.

"Come and enjoy the picnic with the Vietnam Veterans," Mulqueen said, "to have a great family outing, or get together with friends, to enjoy the entertainment, the food and other refreshments. And remember, all proceeds will assist our boxing squad in providing equipment for them to improve their skills."

Two grass fires Saturday

Two grass fires caused minor damage this weekend in Perk Canyon and near Lookout Estates Condominiums, according to Steve Makowski, fire manager for Smokey Bear Ranger District.

A grass and pine needle fire Friday at about 5:15 p.m. burned an estimated one tenth acre near Lookout Estates Condos, Makowski said.

Part of the porch of a home owned by Les Bender was burned, in addition to about a tenth acre of grass in the Perk Canyon area, in a fire Saturday at about 5:40 a.m., Makowski said.

Ruidoso Volunteer Fire Department and the Forest Service responded to both calls.

"We called a Red Flag Fire Alert Saturday because conditions were extreme," Makowski added. "We would like to remind everyone that this is a dry period, so be extremely careful with fires and make sure you dispose of fireplace ashes in a safe manner."

IT'S THE PLACE TO MEET AFTER THE RACES!

5:00 P.M. — 9:00 P.M.

Inside The Capitol

by Fred McCaffrey

SANTA FE — Lots of the state's lawmakers don't want to come to the Capitol in September for redistricting.

After all, it's hard to get housing in Santa Fe at that time of year.

So a few of them are suggesting that they report in a week early in January, when by law, they have to be here anyway, and hold a special legislative session before the regular one begins.

If they get Congressional and legislative districts redesigned by mid-January, they say, that gives everybody who wants to run for one of these offices plenty of time to mount a 1982 campaign.

That observation probably is true of those who want to run for legislative seats, but a little quicker action would seem to be required for those who want to run for Congress.

There are plenty of such people around already, as you may have noticed.

There are two lonely Republicans named Joe Skeen and Manuel Lujan, who have a slight advantage; they are incumbents in the job. Both seem to plan to ask the voters for another term in the post.

And then there are a clutch of Democrats who think they want to run, but aren't quite sure yet till they see the make-up of the Congressional districts.

One of them, Santa Fe Mayor Art Trujillo, is already out raising money. "I can't wait to see where the district lines will be," he says. "But if I'm really a potential candidate, I am one no matter what the district's shaped like."

Also working away quietly, apparently, is Lieutenant Governor Roberto Mondragon.

Bill Richardson, who gave Lujan a race last year, will probably run, though he'd like to know whether he ought to plan on doing that from Albuquerque or in the north.

State Treasurer Jan Harke seems pretty well committed, from whatever kind of district includes Bernalillo county.

Some say State Senators Benny Aragon and Tom Rutherford have a deal; if the districting splits Albuquerque's Valley from the Heights, Aragon will run, and if the two stay together, Rutherford will.

All those people are waiting for is word on Congressional districts, and setting those up is comparatively easy.

As a man who does a lot of that work for the Democrats said recently, "All you do is follow county lines and work out four or five ways to divide the state equally. Then you look at them all to see which one is best for your party."

But legislative redistricting is a lot more complicated. It splits the state into many more districts, all of them along precinct lines. But Census Bureau folks don't make their headcounts along precinct lines, so it's hard to be sure how many people there are in each precinct. Yet courts say we have to be accurate in these estimates within a very narrow margin.

Most of us who know the Legislature don't think that job's going to get done in just a few short days. The permutations and combinations in this matter are almost infinite — and so are the arguments which can develop over it.

That's what makes us incline to think the Governor's idea of calling a special session in September is a good one, and that he ought to stick with it.

Maybe that's inconvenient for legislators, but who ever told them that job they ran for and got elected to was going to be easy?

Letters to the Editor

Dear editor:

DOGSGONE!

Jack Sniadecki has turned in his resignation to the village trustees effective July 1.

To those who don't recognize this name — Jack has been the village Animal Control Officer during the past year. Without fanfare he has apparently done an excellent job in the control of stray animals. Letters to the editor on this subject disappeared this last year and large packs of dogs running at large have all but evaporated. He has worked well with the Humane Society and while the holding area at Ft. Stanton is not the best, it is a big improvement over what was used in the past.

Apparently Jack could not work as many hours as was required at the salary he received from the village.

We shouldn't lose this man by default and it is hoped that the village will work out a plan acceptable to all parties and that we will have Jack Sniadecki's services in the months to come.

WITH SOME RESTRAINT

As foreign traders, the Japanese study overseas markets carefully and then respond realistically to market demands.

They leave nothing to chance, and they are always willing to accommodate their plans to their customers' special needs.

It is in this spirit that the Japanese government and the Japanese auto industry, working together, should decide to limit their exports of cars to the United States. Our domestic automakers and autoworkers are putting on more and more pressure for direct import curbs, and unless the market for the American cars improves soon, the Congress and President Reagan will have to yield to that pressure.

Nothing could be worse for both countries than to start a trade war that could spread like a prairie fire.

The Japanese should see the danger and react with typical prudence and restraint. — News Bulletin, Belen

ABOUT HANDGUNS

An emotional campaign has been in progress for years to curb the sale of handguns and have those in existence registered. It is said that the sale of Saturday night specials, especially, makes crime too easy.

Certainly so long as the television, and violence of all kinds, it could not be made easy for anyone to walk to the nearest corner and buy a cheap handgun — perhaps while under the influence of alcohol or other drugs.

But it should also be recognized that any criminal who plans a crime will be able to obtain a weapon. What can be done is to make the purchase of Saturday night specials a slower process, and this will discourage some spontaneous crime.

But the main remedy for excessive violence in the United States is not the control or registration of handguns — which has been available to Americans for generations — when the crime rate was relatively low. The main problem is in the educational and entertainment process in the U. S. society. We have a cowboy and Indian heritage. We have too long glamorized gunplay and the use of firearms, and killing, in films and on television.

The young and impressionable are thus "brainwashed" into the world of violence by what they see on the screen and read and hear as they grow up. Reorienting our thinking and social and cultural values is the answer to rising crime, plus tough, mandatory punishment for anyone using a gun in the commission of a crime. The fact that citizens are free to own guns, as Americans always have been, is not the crux of the problem. — The News, Santa Rosa

DOCTORS — ACT

Organized medicine, which finds the concept of national health insurance little to its liking, must have heaved a collective sigh of relief when the Republicans captured the White House. Doubtless the profession as a whole took comfort from President Reagan's general opposition to controls.

Dr. Richard H. Egdahl's ideas on the subject may, then, come as rather a disturbing surprise. For what this Boston University doctor suggests is that controls may be impelled not so much by concern for people's health as by a yen to curb inflation, in which health costs play an important part.

Dr. Egdahl says in the New England Journal of Medicine that unless doctors voluntarily act to lower the cost of health care, the inflation fighters in Washington may take on this responsibility. These are daunting alternatives for a profession which enjoys its prerogatives, including a high income level. But doctors would be well advised to take their colleague's admonition seriously. — Alamogordo Daily News

editorial

The attempted assassination of Pope John Paul II May 13 tells us that terrorists, or any other person, can obtain a handgun at will — wherever that person may be.

A national television newscaster stated Thursday evening that reports from Rome indicated the Italian security forces tend to ignore terrorists, or their impending arrival in Italy, charging that their stand was, "if they ignore the problem it will go away."

On this sad note, it was reported by the Italian news agency ANSA that the international police agency Interpol issued a warning that the suspect, Mehmet Agca, a Turkish terrorist, would arrive in Italy — an event occurring a few days before the assassination attempt.

Apparently the security forces in Rome ignored the warning.

In view of Agca's record — known terrorist, prison escapee, murderer — it is unconscionable that the security forces would ignore Interpol's warning that Agca was bound for Italy.

What makes those security forces action, in ignoring admonitions of Agca's impending arrival in Italy, even more unconscionable is the fact that he'd previously stated he was going to murder the pope.

Perhaps the Italians, with no death penalty, will speedily dispose of Agca and permit Turkey to extradite him to face murder charges there. If Turkish officials again gain custody of Agca it is a reasonable assumption that this terrorist will not have much time to get his affairs in order.

Meantime, it'd be most interesting to learn exactly what Italy's handgun control laws are. — CD

RONNIE'S RENEGING

So far as Social Security is concerned, it is apparent that President Reagan is more of a politician than he indicated he might be during his successful campaign for the presidency.

Seems he said one thing during his campaign ... that Social Security retirees would not be deprived of their just desserts ... and then the politician in him surfaced ... and he blithely announced that it was his intention that sixty-twoers would be fifty-five percenters ... an attempt to directly discourage retirement before sixty-five.

Ronnie's now declaring that his ideas on Social Security payments will save the system $ billions ... and, at the expense of the retirees, it do sound logical his assumption is correct. This doesn't mean it'll be palatable to the recipients of this cut in largesse.

It's more than likely that the average 62-year-old wage earner has been paying into Social Security for 40 years ... or more ... during which time he's paid federal income tax ... without which payments the federal government wouldn't have been funded as it has been.

It's the persons eligible to collect Social Security payments after retirement ... which they've been forced to pay into ... that just could have a plan worked out that would allow them to cease their arduous labors at age 62 and, believing they'd receive 80 percent of their entitlement, be able to survive in comfort, or a reasonable facsimile thereof.

Now Ronnie isn't too concerned about collecting his Social Security ... but his idea of "55 at 62" doesn't jell so far as employment is concerned ... especially unemployment ... cause, if the economy is to slowly improve, if a younger work force can step into the jobs held by those who are 62 ... that work force will more than likely draw bigger salaries as time passes ... thus paying more income taxes ... and more into Social Security ... than those of 62 ever did ... which could provide retirees with the funding they've been promised.

MORE ON 55 AT 62

The average working person ... semi-skilled or unskilled ... the totter of bales, typist and file clerk, sweeper of floors, whatever ... just might figure, after 40 or more years in such pursuits, that knocking off at 62 ... at 80 percent of the Social Security payment available at 65 ... might offer surcease to aching backs, strained eyes and sore feet.

Say paid person's 80 percent at 62 of what it'd be at 65 would be $280 a month from Social Security. Now there's part time jobs that just ain't attracting no one to ... 'cause they ain't worth it, if'n they're to pay all the freight ... that just might provide sufficient funds to add to that $280 that said retiree could squeak by on ... and not be a bother to anyone. However, 55 percent at 62 would be $192.50 ... which'd considerably change the picture.

Now this person has been looking forward to the day when that Social Security check'd make retirement possible at 62 ... and some one, younger, with 40 years to work before retirement, could glom onto that job ... and become a contributing member to society.

It'd seem that Congress can figure out a way to come up with a few paltry billions from the general fund to maintain these Social Security payments the workers have been told they'd receive when they wanted it ... with Congress bearing in mind that it's these workers as provides the general fund the Congressmen generally has fun dispensing ... and enjoying every moment of the fighting involved over funding unnecessary things ... such as studies of a green tree frog's love life.

Yup ... the great white father in Washington gives ... and taketh away ... and it'd seem millions of letters, from disgruntled Social Security payers ... their families and friends ... just could result in the taking away being rescinded and the paying out being reinstated.

BRIEF HIT: The most welcome music to the ear of Harmony Valley folks'd be the cacophony of raindrops falling in near deluge quantity ... CD

Darin Smith and Martin Montoya, both Ruidoso High School juniors, shared "Best of Show" honors at Thursday's annual art show in the high school gymnasium.

Smith exhibited a number of paintings and Montoya used ceramics as his medium.

Judging exhibits were Martin Rose, John Esceboda and Mike Torres, all local artists.

Best displays were selected by art teacher Sam Pilgreen and included Marty Rose, who used an old wagon wheel and bench to display his paintings; Lisa Shaw, who mounted her sculptures and used blocks to vary the height of display; Montoya, who used blankets and sawdust to display his ceramics; and Smith, who displayed his mounted and framed paintings on easels.

Pilgreen said each student's semester grade hinged on this attractive display of their work.

The show was a culmination of a year's worth of works, he added.

Other winners included: Darin Smith, first; Karla Sears, second and Brigid Almager, third in general advanced. Honorable mentions were Gary Jones, Leroy Ramirez, Tina Killen, Connie Turner and Dodie Baladanado.

Crafts advanced: Martin Montoya, first; Lisa Shaw, second and Gary Jones, third; Brigid Almager, honorable mention.

Crafts beginning: Dolores Rue, first; Yon Rue, second, Dirky Bustamante, third; Danny Miner, Keith Pipkin, Kelly Richardson, Cathy Montes, Victor Jaramillo, Monica Baca and Smith, honorable mentions.

General beginning: Karen Boone, first; Randy Bell, second, Todd Pilgreen, third; Marty Rose, Catrina Rue, Robert Langston, DeAnna Keith, Denny Clark, Travis Cochise and Sharon Kirgan, honorable mentions.

All art students also helped carve a totem pole, which represented each of the four high school levels, with every student participating in the creation, Pilgreen said.

THIS TOTEM POLE was hand carved by Ruidoso High School art students and represents the four classes in high school. It was shown at the annual art fair Thursday.

Chino... on the move!

The Chino Mines Company is in the initial phases of a major modernization project involving various stages of the copper production cycle.

At a cost of more than $350 million, much of Chino's aging equipment and facilities will be replaced to greatly improve productivity, resulting in increased copper production at lower costs. While many domestic industrial complexes are caught in stagnant situations, Chino is more fortunate.

Behind the Scenes

"Bitter Harvest" puts chemical accident in focus

by Bill Kiley

Richard Friedenberg is happy—and he hopes you'll be scared.

Friedenberg is happy because Ron Howard and Art Carney are the stars of his first produced television script, "Bitter Harvest," which will be broadcast on NBC-TV Monday, May 18, and he hopes viewers will be scared because he thinks the subject matter of the powerful movie is important enough to demand national attention.

"Bitter Harvest" is a drama about a young dairy farmer whose bright world collapses when he is the victim of a chemical "mistake" which wipes out his herd, brings illness to his infant daughter, and eventually affects the health of 8,000,000 Americans. It is based on true events which occurred in the Midwest in the mid 1970's.

Although the incident has been called the biggest chemical disaster of its kind in American history, most Americans outside the affected area still don't know what happened.

A chemical company that manufactured a special cattle-food additive also made an extremely dangerous fire retardant known as PBB. By accident the PBB was sent out as cattle food, and the deadly chemical was soon into the food chain. It is a fat-soluble substance that, once ingested, never leaves the body!

"We brought a deadly health hazard to millions of people because of our innocence about the effects of chemicals," says Friedenberg, a young Boston writer. "Because of that one little 'accident' we had to kill thousands of animals, and our nation now has millions of people who are carrying an internal time bomb."

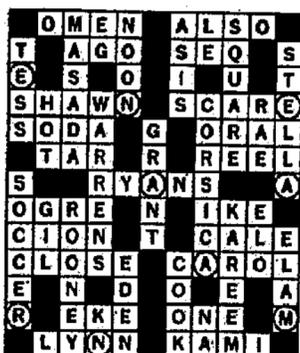

Friedenberg, who spent eight months interviewing the affected farmers before writing his script, is amazed at how easily we slipped into the national disaster.

"At first PBB was thought to be a great new discovery. It was used to fireproof electrical wires, and it did a swell job. But then there was that one little mistake, and after several years, the government realized that it was so deadly and dangerous that it can't even be made anymore."

"I want viewers of 'Bitter Harvest' to be uncomfortable when they see it, because PBB is just one of the many chemicals swirling around us. We are using all kinds of new chemicals today, and they are all just accidents waiting to happen. I'm afraid PBB was just the first."

Television Schedule For The Week Of May 18 through May 24

through channels

by Joey Sasso

CONFIDENTIAL REPORT: Melissa Sue Anderson is turning her back on "Little House on the Prairie"—the show she helped keep near the top of the TV ratings for seven years. The 18-year-old star, who plays blind Mary Ingalls, is slated to appear in only three episodes next season before being written out of the show for good. "I'm making many new changes in my life all at once. My main goal is to become a female Michael Landon. He's the nicest, smartest man I know, and I want to have a career exactly like his—directing, writing and acting." And "Little House" is not the only home she's leaving. After years of sharing a Burbank apartment with her mother, Missy—as her friends call her—has decided it's time to get out on her own. "I've bought a lovely house, just two bedrooms, in a secluded area," she says proudly. "And I'm getting a big dog to protect me." Striking out alone into the world doesn't frighten her, she insists. "I feel that I'm actually older than most people my age because of all the time I've spent working with adults," she says. "I learned more on "Little House" than I can tell. I'm truly grateful to all the wonderful people I was able to work with."

TV BACKSTAGE: "Dukes of Hazzard" star John Schneider may come across as a smart aleck on TV, but in real life, he's one of the nicest guys in Tinseltown. Old buddies of Schneider say he hasn't let the bright lights of Hollywood blind him to his humble beginning as a small-time teenage actor at Academy Theater in Atlanta. Even ex-sweetheart Lorry Hager, who was jilted by the blond-haired, blue-eyed Dukes star, still worships the ground he walks on. "John's got the type of personality that people naturally like," said Hager, who dated Schneider when he was a fat, homely kid at North Springs High School in Atlanta. "He was pretty chubby and not what you'd call attractive back then. But he was a real nice guy, amusing, entertaining and could even be romantic at times," she told me. Success in Hollywood hasn't spoiled John a bit, says Anne Harvey, the talent agent who sent Schneider to audition for the role as Bo Duke. "I saw him about a year ago, and he's still the same old John—wild, crazy and wonderful," enthused Harvey. "Everybody in the office loved him, and our models were crazy about him. But John never took advantage of that. He was actually quite shy and never came on strong with women."

TV CLOSEUP: Wold Communications and Metromedia Producers Corporation have reached an agreement in principle to deliver one of America's favorite talk/variety programs, "The Merv Griffin Show," via the Wold Satellite Express. Under the historic plan, Wold Communications will uplink the program daily in 60 to 90 minute versions to stations carrying "The Merv Griffin Show." The transmission will occur from Wold's Hollywood Television Operating Center, located just a half block from Merv's studios. This will eliminate traditional time delays between the show's tape dates and its air dates throughout the country. Hosting his own nightly talk/variety show since 1964, Merv Griffin has proved himself one of America's most enduring and popular television personalities.
