Warrior band wins marching competition

The Ruidoso High School marching band, under the baton of director Danny Flores, won the first place trophy in AA band competition Tuesday in Roswell, as the Eastern New Mexico State Fair got underway with a street parade.

"The bigger schools have been practicing their kids most of the summer, while we only started in mid-August," said a highly pleased Flores. "Some of the schools like Roswell looked real good, so I was real happy to see from the judges' decision that we seem to have come along quickly."

"This will give us a big morale boost for going into Aspencade and the Parade of Champions at New Mexico State University in October."

"I think the biggest advantage of this kind of thing is that it gives the kids a chance to look over bands from other schools. We were the last band in the parade, so they were able to absorb a lot of other styles."

Flores noted that most judges at band competitions now are biased in favor of a recent style — Corps — which uses flags, rifles and a style of marching called the "glide step" as opposed to the traditional style, which tends to march more in straight lines using a high step. Ruidoso

High School has almost completed the transition from traditional to Corps, Flores said.

"This is a movement that got started about ten years ago. Bands started using pinwheels and started from the sidelines to face their audience instead of just marching up and down the field," Flores said. "I feel that if we're going to be competitive with the major schools, we'll eventually have to go completely to Corps. But the equipment it takes to make the transition is very expensive."

When asked what she thought of the Corps style, drum major Pam Stone, a senior, said "I love it. It gives you a lot more flexibility."

According to Stone, the style of Corps used by the bigger schools is something akin to a three-ring circus — with something different going at each part of the field.

"You pay the same whether you're sitting on the 50 or the 20 yard line, so you ought to be able to see the band just as well," she said. "Danny said that we might be trying that out this year, but I don't think we really have enough people yet."

Flores, who is now in his fourth year at Ruidoso High as band director and psychology teacher, said that change over had only begun last year.

Power outage set Wednesday

A power outage, for Texas-New Mexico Power Company customers, will occur September 16, from 2 to 4 a.m., in Ruidoso, Ruidoso Downs and area, local manager John Sigler announced Wednesday.

Sigler said the outage will be due to line repairs being made between Alamogordo and the Ruidoso Sub Station.

Camp inmates charged with murder one

David Sedillos, Felix Martinez and Richard Lujan were bound over to District Court Wednesday night on first degree capital murder charges in the preliminary hearings of the slaying of Camp Sierra Blanca inmate Scott Wayne Thompson.

Thompson was found dead from beating and multiple stab wounds to the neck and chest shortly after midnight on August 2, after a routine bed check disclosed him to be missing. Thompson had only been at Camp Sierra Blanca, a light-security institution, for two days after a transfer from the medium-security prison at Los Lunas.

The preliminary hearings were held to determine "probable cause" connecting the three defendants to the murder.

During the hearings this week, the state subpoenaed several Camp Sierra Blanca inmates who testified that they had seen Thompson being beaten or kicked by one or more of the defendants.

The witnesses have been transferred to Lincoln County Jail for protection. Sedillos, Martinez and Lujan will be arraigned in District Court next Wednesday.

More lodgers' tax payments to be sought

Members of the Lodgers' Tax Committee were advised Wednesday by Pinky Jones that the balance of funds on hand totals $7,520.52.

Jones said that $24,168.66 was collected between July 1 and August 31.

Clark Carpenter suggested a tally list be obtained from the village, of all lodges, condos, etc., in the Ruidoso area. He said the city is not actually receiving the total revenue due it, since, for one reason or other, some owners of lodging rented on a temporary basis, and made up of three or more units, are not paying the lodgers' tax.

The lodgers' tax, initiated in 1973, is a "flow-in, flow-out account," Carpenter added, which benefits the whole community.

The rest of the meeting dealt with the upcoming ski season and "early ski promotion" for Sierra Blanca and Cedar Creek, "to make this the best season ever," Chamber of Commerce executive director Ed Jungbluth said.

Recreation Center open during week

The Ruidoso Adult Recreation Department, in back of the Ruidoso Public Library, is open five days a week, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday, not four days one week and three the next, as previously reported in The News, Bette Romans, Department director, said Wednesday.

Senior citizen activities are available to all senior citizens residing in Lincoln County, as well as seasonal residents and visitors, she said.

NO. 35 IN OUR 36TH YEAR

RUIDOSO, LINCOLN COUNTY, NEW MEXICO 88345

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 10, 1981

DEVELOPMENT TRACT CONTAINS 276 ACRES

Village okays annexation

The Ruidoso trustees Tuesday evening approved the annexation of 276.148 acres, containing 174 residential lots, requested by White Mountain Development Company.

The annexed tract is north of Mountain View Estates and east of the First Christian Church, from whence the land extends west to Juniper Hills and North Heights Park, then north and east toward Gavilan Subdivision.

Developer Bill McCarty advised the trustees that the project will take "from five to 10 years," to complete.

At the beginning of the meeting trustee George White registered a written objection to the annexation, requesting that his statement be incorporated with the minutes of the meeting.

The statement included the following remarks: "My concern is the lack of water and our inability to see much improvement in the next several years... I must inform you at this point unless we curtail our real estate development I shall have to campaign actively against any and all bond issues to pay for water or sewer extensions."

White also said he would "back up on one condition, that (future annexations and developments) bring their own water or water rights with them, as water is my only objection," to the projects.

White then made a motion to reject the annexation of the White Mountain Development Company tract that died for lack of a second.

The trustees asked administrative assistant Frank Potter for a report on wells drilled. Potter said that six have been completed, but that only the Hollywood Well can be used.

Trustees present, White, Benny Coulston and Frank Sayner, with Mayor Lloyd L. Davis Jr., registering an "in favor" vote, directed village manager Jim Hine to proceed with action, through the State Engineer, to secure the right to pump the wells that have been drilled this year including three along Hull Road and Gavilan Canyon and one at Bog Springs.

Mildred Popovics registered a complaint on parking facilities at Jerry Dale's, stating that the loss of trees and excavation had formed "a dust bowl," and that the operation is "definitely considered a nuisance." She also threatened to "file a suit against Jerry Dale's if the problems are not solved."

She also objected to Jerry Dale's acquiring additional parking space for customers, to eliminate the problem of on street parking.

Mayor Davis, with the trustees in agreement, advised Popovics that the village would install more No Parking signs, and also suggested that an additional parking lot would probably solve most of the problems.

In other business, the trustees:

— Accepted the low bid of $41,500, by McCormick Construction of El Paso, Texas, for a booster pump station near Water Plant One in the Upper Canyon. The plant is scheduled for rehabilitation, during which time it will be out of service.

— Accepted the bids of Sierra Blanca Motors, the only one received, for a four door Oldsmobile sedan for village manager Hine in the amount of $9,372 and the bid of $11,390 for a four wheel drive Wagoner for Planning and Zoning enforcement officer John Cupp.

— Authorized Hine to advertise for applicants for the position of Fire Prevention Officer, with Herb Brunell of the Committee for Insuring Ruidoso's Environment and Volunteer Fire Department members to assist in preparation of job specifications for the post.

— Amended Ordinance 81-16, pertaining to municipal mortgages for low cost housing, in concert with Roswell and Artesia, to comply with requirements for the sale of bonds to finance the project.

— Named Mary Woodruff as judge, with Helen Brown, Ruth Wimberly and CeCe Sudderth as clerks, and Marilyn Bloodworth and Margie Hine as alternates for the September 22 village election on the issuance of beer and wine licenses to restaurants. All precincts will vote at the Ruidoso Public Library, with the polls open from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m.

— Were advised by Hine that the Department of Finance and Administration has approved the village's budget for fiscal 1981-1982.

— Accepted the resignation of Jim Willis as water superintendent effective September 30.

— Rejected a request from the Rotary Club to consider changing the date for the scheduled October 27 meeting, due to the club's enchilada dinner to be served on that date.

— Accepted referrals from Planning and Zoning including a replat of Lot 2, Block 8, Cree Meadows Country Club Subdivision from Jerry Shaw;

The final plat of Vista Del Sol for Sam Moore; Condominium Project on Lot 31, Block 3, White Mountain Estates Unit 4 for C. C. Collier;

Master Plan and Phase I of Carrizo Lodge Tract, including a commitment to provide the development with sewer services;

Replat of Lot 1, Block 4, Cree Meadows Heights First Addition for Mike Mulholland; and, Replat of Lot 145, Innsbrook Village for Dorado Development Company.

School opens with 1,442 enrollment

Enrollment for the Ruidoso Public Schools this fall is 1,442, the Board of Education (BOE) announced at its regular meeting Tuesday night.

That figure includes kindergarten through 12th grade, and is accurate as of September 8. At the same time last year 1,419 students were enrolled.

Superintendent Pat Valliant said that the number would probably increase later this month. "The figure doesn't include students whose parents are involved in horse racing and have gone to Albuquerque for the State Fair. So we'll probably have a fair increase in late September, and then the number will decrease again around New Year's," he said.

In other business, the BOE:

— Approved funds for next summer's basketball camp, provided that director Weldon Drew is present.

— Approved the hiring of the following personnel: Acie Houston, custodian, high school; Norma Reed, housekeeper, White Mountain Schools; Nancy Chavez, bus driver; Willa McPherson, bus driver; Josie Montes Parra, aide, bus for handicapped; Libby Sears, half-time aide, Special Education "C" program.

Third bank planned here

A third bank is being planned in Ruidoso, State Financial Institutions Director A. M. Swarthout, Santa Fe, announced Tuesday.

Ralph Petty Jr., Santa Fe, is the agent for the new bank proposed in Ruidoso. Organizers include Petty, his brother, John D. Petty of Albuquerque, Nancy Canning of Eden, Texas, John A. Canning of Roswell and Robert D. Custer of Albuquerque.

Ralph Petty, former president of the Bank of Santa Fe, is president of Bank Holding Company of Santa Fe, owners of 86 percent of the stock of the Bank of Santa Fe.

The notice of intention for the new bank, Swarthout said, has been filed, giving the organizers 180 days in which to submit formal application for a state bank charter.

Lodgers nix general ski package

At Tuesday's luncheon meeting of the Ruidoso Lodgers Association members present agreed that individual members could establish "ski packages," but that the Association would not support a generalized package offered by all.

Ski packages in the past have been a combination offer in which Lodgers offered discount rates, tied in with discounts from ski shops and restaurants.

Members present supporting a ski package, to attract skiers in the Sunday through Thursday periods, stated they'd have their special offers, but that it would be their own and none of the members suggested that there be any effort to offer packages as have been in the past.

Ed Hyman, president of the Ruidoso Downs Mule Skippers, asked the Association to again offer prize money for purses in the October 9-11 mule races, at Ruidoso Downs Race Track. Association members agreed to support the races, with lodgers setting the amount to be donated.

The Association also approved requesting the Chamber of Commerce to update the listing of facilities offered in the lodging establishments in Ruidoso.

'Itching time' for the Brothers of the Brush

The Brothers of the Brush will soon be commiserating with one another in Ruidoso, as hardy males get into the spirit of the 1981 Beard Growing Contest, a Chamber of Commerce event.

Males inclined to start growing a beard should appear before Ed Jungbluth, executive director of the Chamber of Commerce, at the Chamber office to have their clean shaven "before" countenance captured on film — to prevent any hanky panky in the striving to win the first place prizes.

Judging for the "hairiest" individual will take place October 18, at the community's Fun Day in the Park, an annual event, Jungbluth said.

Jungbluth said the "person who achieves the most growth within the shortest period of time" will be declared the winner.

Since this fine art of beard growing has, in the past, officially begun on the day after Labor Day, some, due to the late start, may be tempted to help their beard along by artificial means — hair tonic, fertilizer, whatever. No matter. It's all in fun, for the non-profit, family-type event, which will begin October 18, at about 1:30 p.m., in School House Park, Jungbluth said.

He said there should be games, hot dogs, soft drinks — and a good tiem for all.

Commissioners honor Titsworth

The Lincoln County Commissioners passed a resolution Tuesday designating Frank Titsworth of Tinnie as "Lincoln County Volunteer of the Year."

A long time Hondo Valley resident, Titsworth was honored for half a century of providing emergency medical services in east Lincoln County, and for work as a volunteer fireman.

The citation given to Titsworth by chairman "Cotton" McKnight cited him as providing "the first responding emergency medical service in Lincoln County" some 50 years ago, for founding the Hondo Volunteer Fire Department in 1949 and for serving 35 years on the Hondo School Board, "many of them as president."

McKnight also nominated Titsworth for the "Volunteer of the Year" award sponsored by KOB Television in Albuquerque.

In other action, the commissioners:

— Ordered the 1981 tax year tax-setting order to be imposed.

— Tabled a petition to close County Road F-007.

— Approved the sale of state land by the Simpson Ranch near Corona.

— Signed an agreement with the Southeastern New Mexico Economic Development District.

— Approved plans of Sergeant Jack Johnson, New Mexico State Police, to annex office space for use by the state police at the rate of $100 a month, pending approval from Santa Fe.

— Approved the payroll register and warrant register.

MR. AND MRS. SCOTTY HOLLOMAN

Payne/Holloman vows spoken

Terry Payne and Scotty Holloman exchanged marriage vows in a double ring ceremony at 7:30 p.m., on Monday, August 7, at the Church of Christ in Ruidoso.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jackie Payne of Ruidoso. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ribble Holloman of Clovis.

Given in marriage by her father, who also conducted the ceremony, the bride wore a dress of white chantilly lace over satin with a Sabrina neckline.

Wedding music included "If," "Father Hear The Prayer," "A Common Love," and "Bind Us Together."

Kayla Payne served as Matron of Honor. Julie Payne and Julia Holloman were bridesmaids. The trio wore gowns of cranberry taffeta with cream chantilly lace overskirts.

Jace Ensor of Ruidoso was best man. John Brown and Keith Hart served as ushers, and Mark Hooper and Steve Perich were groomsmen.

Amy Payne and Matthew Ensor carried flowers. Bonki Payne was ring bearer, and Keith and Kerry Hart of Post, Texas served as candle lighters.

A reception at the Ruidoso Public Library followed the ceremony.

After a honeymoon trip to California, the Hollomans will be at home in Lubbock, Texas, where the groom is a second-year law student at Texas Tech University and the bride is a senior at Lubbock Christian College.

PEOPLE

Centenarian feted Sunday

Children, grandchildren, nephews and friends were on hand Tuesday at the Good Samaritan Home in Artesia to fete Lenora Sams, who was celebrating her 100th birthday.

Daughters Maurine Lare and Maxine Miller of Ruidoso, and son Duane Sam of Artesia were there. Another daughter, Ferne Young of Auburn, Nebraska, was unable to attend this year. Grandson Barry Miller of Ruidoso, as well as nephews from Doniphan, Nebraska, and friends from Nebraska and Artesia were also on hand to share a birthday cake, gifts and birthday greeting cards, including a card from President Reagan, with the centenarian.

Mrs. Sams was born in Arlington, Nebraska in 1881.

The Silver Lining

BY DANIEL AGNEW STORM

Mrs. Roy Lare's Mother Celebrates One Hundredth Birthday.

Mrs. Lenora Sams, mother of Maurine Sams Lare of Ruidoso, celebrated her one hundredth birthday Tuesday, September eight in the Good Samaritan Home in Artesia.

Lenora was born September eight 1881 in Arlington, Nebraska, and came with her husband, the late and beloved Milton Arthur Sams in 1940. She and her husband spent their life in the teaching field, Lenora taught drama among other subjects, and Milton was superintendent of schools. He continued teaching in Artesia up until the age of eighty.

Besides Maurine Lare, this beloved couple raised three children: Maxine Miller, of Ruidoso; Ferne Young of Auburn, Nebraska; and Duane Sams of Artesia. The celebration was attended by Roy and Maurine; Duane Sams; Maxine Miller; and grandson, Barry Miller of Ruidoso.

The celebration was wonderful in every way, with the dining room full of flowers and gifts, and a handsome birthday cake, which Lenora shared with every member of the home present — numbering over fifty.

For the occasion of this great milestone in her life, Lenora was bright and cheerful and very alert — full of appreciation and happiness, and with a clear memory of the hosts of friends and loved ones who sent cards and gifts and flowers.

We are all happy that after a life of service to The Lord, this good Christian Lady is enjoying life after a century of life among us; and we wish her many happy returns of the day and All God's blessings.

And we congratulate Roy and Maurine, and all of Lenora's loved ones for their devotion and kindness to Lenora through the years.

MR. AND MRS. JACK FOWLER

May/Fowler vows exchanged

Joy A. May and Jack A. Fowler, both of Levelland, Texas, exchanged wedding vows August 28, at 3:30 p.m., 6,500 feet above ground between Fort Stanton and Capitan.

Piloting the plane was Al Muse, with the Reverend Tyson Van Dyke performing the ceremony.

The Maid of Honor was Janie Bennett of Ruidoso and the best man was Scott Patton.

The bride is the daughter Eldon and Joyce May of Levelland and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Ray V. Fowler of Pauls Valley, Oklahoma.

The bride attended South Plains College in Levelland, Lubbock Christian College and Texas Tech in Lubbock and was a brokerage manager for Insurance Solutions of Lubbock. The bridegroom has been manager of the Minit Mart complex in Ruidoso the past eight years.

The couple will be at home in Ruidoso after a wedding trip to Santa Fe and Albuquerque.

Hurd-Wyeth exhibitions scheduled in Roswell

Opening on Sunday, September 13, is a major exhibition of the paintings of six members of the Hurd-Wyeth family. The staff of the Roswell Museum and Art Center cordially invites the public to the opening reception from 3:30-5:00.

For the first time since 1965 the paintings of this highly dedicated family of "realist" painters will be shown at this museum. Works by N. C. Wyeth, Andrew Wyeth, Henriette Wyeth, Jamie Wyeth, Peter Hurd and Michael Hurd will be on exhibit in the Anderson and Entry Galleries from September 13 thru October 25.

N. C. Wyeth, father of the family, was one of the most successful and respected illustrators of his time. Studying with him in his Chadds Ford studio were his son, Andrew, and daughter, Henriette. Peter Hurd also joined the family, studying with N. C. Wyeth.

Representing the third generation of this family of painters are Jamie Wyeth and Michael Hurd. Both born in 1946, Jamie is the son of the Andrew Wyeths and Michael the son of Henriette and Peter Hurd.

The Hurd-Wyeth exhibition will be shown through October 25 at the Roswell Museum and Art Center.

GOP Women host Skeen, McMillan

Congressman Joe Skeen and Colin McMillan, candidate for lieutenant governor, were featured speakers at the August 18 meeting of the Federated Republican Women of Lincoln County at the Frank Titsworth home in Tinnie.

The two discussed President Reagan's budget programs and said, in their opinion, that the programs are vital for the country's future economic development.

Special guests were Marjorie Logan, New Mexico Federated Republican Women's president, Santa Fe, and Lee Henson, Albuquerque.

Logan spoke about the national convention of Republican Women September 17-19 in Denver, Colorado. President Reagan and Vice President George Bush, she said, are to speak at the convention.

Yvonne Lanelli is the club's convention delegate, although any member may attend as a guest. Applications and information are available from club president Rhonda Johnston.

Henson advised the members of the state convention for GOP Women October 16-18 in Albuquerque, featuring workshops and appearances by prominent state politicians. Convention delegates will be elected at the September 22, 11 a.m., meeting at the First Christian Church. A covered dish luncheon will be served and all women living in Lincoln County are invited.

Information on club activities is available from Rhonda Johnston at 257-9571 or Dorothy Smith at 354-2499.

Bird seasons set

Waterfowl, quail and crane seasons set by the State Game Commission August 28 will be similar to those of 1980, with some changes in goose seasons.

Meeting in Santa Fe, the commission also set seasons and bag limits on pheasant, prairie chicken, coots and gallinules. Regulations governing hunting of dove, band-tailed pigeon, snipe, rail, squirrel and early migrating teal were set by the commission at its July 24 meeting.

Hunting hours for all migratory waterfowl (including regular season teal), quail, pheasant, crane, prairie chicken, band-tailed pigeon, white-winged and mourning dove, rail, snipe, grouse and squirrel are one-half hour before sunrise to sunset.

Quail season is November 21-January 24 statewide. Bag limit is 15 per day, 30 in possession, singly or in the aggregate of all species.

Pheasant season is December 5-8 statewide, with bag and possession limit set at three cocks per day.

Prairie chicken season is December 12-14 in portions of southeastern New Mexico only. Bag limit is three per day.

Season on lesser sandhill crane is October 31-January 31 in Chaves, Curry, DeBaca, Eddy, Lea, Quay and Roosevelt counties. Bag limit is three cranes per day, six in possession.

Dates for band-tailed pigeon hunting are October 3-22 south of United States 60 from the Arizona state line to Socorro and west of I-25 from Socorro to the Texas state line. In the remainder of the state, the season will be September 1-20. Bag limit is five per day, 10 in possession.

In addition to a license valid for hunting lesser sandhill crane and band-tailed pigeon, the hunter must also have a special permit for either of those species, available free of charge from Department of Game and Fish offices in Santa Fe, Albuquerque, Roswell, Raton and Las Cruces. Written requests for permits should be addressed to the Special Hunt Section of the department's Santa Fe office and include applicant's name, address and current bird hunting license number.

Mourning and white-winged dove is September 1-30 and November 21-December 20 statewide, September 1-30 on the portion of Jackson Lake State Game Refuge lying east of New Mexico 17 in San Juan County and on the Artesia State Game Refuge in Eddy County. Limits are 12 doves per day in the bag, 24 in possession — singly or in the aggregate of the two species.

Season on sora and Virginia rails is September 12-November 20 statewide. Bag and possession limits are 25 rails, singly or in the aggregate of both species.

Hunting for common (Wilson's) snipe will be open statewide September 12-December 13. Bag and possession limits are eight per day, with 16 in possession.

A special season on migrating teal (blue-winged, green-winged and cinnamon) is September 12-20 in the Central Flyway portion of the state only. Teal hunting will also be open during that time on the La Joya State Game Refuge and a portion of the Bernardo State Game Refuge south of United States 60. Shooting hours are sunrise to sunset; bag limit is four per day, eight in possession, singly or in the aggregate of the three species.

Grouse and squirrel seasons in northern units (GS-1) are September 1-October 4, with no grouse hunting permitted in Unit 9 — the Mount Taylor area; and in the southwest (GS-2) are October 3-22. Area S-3, the Sacramento Mountains, is open to squirrel hunting only; season is September 1-October 4.

Grouse limits are three per day, six in possession. Squirrel limits are five per day, 10 in possession.

CENTRAL FLYWAY WATERFOWL
The Central Flyway portion of New Mexico is that lying east of the Continental Divide except areas within the Jicarilla Apache Reservation.

Ducks, including mergansers: October 27-January 17. Bag limit is reached when the point value of the last bird taken, added to the sum of the point value of other birds in the bag, reaches or exceeds 100 points. Possession limit is the maximum number of birds that legally could have been taken in two days. Points: Canvasbacks, 100 points each; redheads, hen mallards, Mexican-like ducks, wood ducks and hooded mergansers, 70 points each; teal, scaup, pintails, gadwalls, shovellers, wigeon and common and red-breasted merganser, 10 each; all other ducks, 20 each.

Regulations for geese define dark geese as Canada or white-fronted geese; white geese as snow, blue or Ross' geese.

Geese: In Sandoval, Sierra, Bernalillo, Socorro and Valencia counties: November 14-December 8 and January 4-February 14 for white geese only, limit five geese per day, 10 in possession, to include no dark geese; and December 19-27 on all geese, with a limit of five geese per day and 10 in possession, not to include more than one dark goose per day or in possession. Seasons on Bosque del Apache refuge are November 20-24, December 9-14 and December 30-January 3 on white geese only; limits are five white geese per day, 10 in possession.

In the remainder of the Central Flyway portion the season will be open on white geese November 14-February 14; on dark geese November 14-January 17. Limit is five geese per day, 10 in possession, no more than two dark geese per day or four dark geese in possession.

Coots: October 27-January 17; 15 per day, 30 in possession.

Gallinules: October 27-January 4; 15 per day, 30 in possession.

PACIFIC FLYWAY WATERFOWL
The Pacific Flyway seasons include all of New Mexico west of the Continental Divide, plus the Jicarilla Reservation.

Ducks, including mergansers: October 3-January 3, with a bag limit, including mergansers, of seven per day, 14 in possession, not to include more than two redheads or canvasbacks in the daily bag, singly or in the aggregate of both species, and no more than four in possession.

Geese: October 3-December 27 in that portion of the Pacific Flyway lying south of Highway 66. Limits are six geese per day, six in possession, not to include more than three white geese or more than three dark geese of which no more than two may be Canada geese.

Coots and gallinules: October 3-January 3; 25 per day bag and possession limits, coots and gallinules combined.

Only fully feathered wing or the head of any rail, snipe, crane, duck, coot, gallinule, merganser, teal or goose must remain attached to the bird until the bird has arrived at the personal abode of the possessor or at a preservation facility.

Parts of several state parks and state game refuges are open to hunting for some waterfowl species during season. For details, hunters should check a 1981-82 hunting proclamation.

Manner and legal methods of taking waterfowl, bird and small game are also outlined in the respective proclamations, available from department offices or from approximately 350 vendors statewide.

All waterfowl hunters who have reached the age of 16 are required to have a Migratory Bird Conservation (duck) stamp, available from United States post offices, in their possession and signed across its face in ink.

Persons who use shotguns to hunt migratory waterfowl may have only shot shells loaded with steel shot in possession while hunting waterfowl in the La Joya and Bernardo refuges and the area between the refuges. Steel shot will also be required for Bosque del Apache, Bitter Lake and Las Vegas National Wildlife Refuges.

Illegal deer kill brings $400 fine

A Magdalena man has been fined $400 and given a 60 day suspended jail sentence for illegally killing a yearling doe deer.

Willie J. Chavez, 50, also paid $10 court costs and was assessed $200 civil damages for the state's loss of the game animal.

Department of Game and Fish conservation officer Larry Bell said he investigated after receiving a tip Chavez had killed the deer August 14 on the Patterson Road nine south of Magdalena. Chavez pleaded guilty before Socorro County Magistrate Ignacio Garcia on August 19.

Chavez also faces loss of the firearm used to kill the deer and potential loss of his hunting and fishing license privileges for up to three years.

Last Peloncillo ram dead of pneumonia

The last of 10 desert bighorn rams released in late June in the Peloncillo Mountains of southwestern New Mexico died August 29 of pneumonia, according to Steve Henry, fish and wildlife disease specialist for the Department of Game and Fish.

Ten ewes and five lambs still survive. The rams had been battling the pneumonic infection almost a month, and two rams had died earlier. Necropsy samples from the latest dead ram have been sent to the Colorado Wild Animal Disease Center at Colorado State University in Fort Collins for analysis. Samples sent earlier to the Veterinary Services Laboratory in Albuquerque had confirmed the cause of death among the rams as pneumonia.

Kegler meeting September 24

All interested bowlers and sponsors are asked to attend the Thursday Morning Ladies' Bowling League meeting at 8:30 a.m., September 24 in the Holiday Bowl.

Purpose of the meeting is to get the league and teams organized for the season.

The 10 rams — reared at the department's Red Rock Experimental Wildlife Station — had been released into the Peloncillos with 10 ewes and eight lambs. The ewes had been kept in a 40 acre paddock in the Peloncillos since last November to get them accustomed to the area. The lambs were born in the paddock. Henry said one of eight lambs is known to have died and two more are unaccounted for. Biologists monitoring the sheep were able to count the 10 ewes and five lambs Sunday.

Henry said the ewes do not appear to be suffering from the disease, possibly because they had kept apart from the rams after release into the wild, were better adjusted to the area, and have not been stressed as much as the rams by relocation and adjustment. Biologists feel the stress weakened the rams and increased their susceptibility to infection.

Another attempt to supplement a herd in the Peloncillos may be made when biologists feel pneumonic infection no longer threatens additional rams released in the area. The department has nine remaining captive rams — six at Red Rock, three at New Mexico State University.

Tree injury due to water and fertilizer

Winter injury is responsible for more losses of fruit trees, pecan trees and shade trees in New Mexico than any other cause.

Sharp temperature drops can freeze trees or cause severe injury, according to Emroy Shannon, Extension plant pathologist at New Mexico State University.

Severely injured trees can die the first year. Others may develop chlorotic (yellow) leaves and slowly decline for a few years. In less severe cases, a few twigs and small branches may die back.

Freeze injury can be reduced by regulating the water and nitrogen a tree receives late in its growing season, Shannon said.

Trees that get large amounts of nitrogen loaded fertilizer, along with plenty of water, in late fall may be seriously injured. Healthy trees in normal seasonal dormant condition can withstand low temperatures.

However, if the trees make excessive vegetative growth late into the fall, proper hardening of the growing plant tissue doesn't take place before the freezing temperatures occur, Shannon said.

Soil applications of fertilizer, especially nitrogen, should be made in late winter or early spring, not in fall. As a general rule, apply no nitrogen after July 1 each year.

Watering should be stopped in early fall to encourage trees to go into dormancy. Many commercial fruit and nut growers stop irrigation about September 15; however, orchards with sandy soil in southern New Mexico may need additional water after that date.

After trees have become dormant, a heavy irrigation can be safely applied to provide favorable root growth conditions during winter.

Walleye from Clayton Lake sets record

Clayton Lake in northeastern New Mexico has produced another record walleye, replacing a record fish caught there last year.

Buster Zinck, Clayton, caught the 11-pound, 14-ounce walleye August 18 while catfishing at Clayton. He was using chicken livers for bait when he caught theunker, measuring 31 inches long and 18 inches in girth.

The recent catch replaces a record walleye catch on July 18, 1980 by Bill Russell, also of Clayton. His fish weighed 11 pounds, eight ounces, was 31 inches long and 18 1/2 inches around.

Though Russell's walleye measured a half inch larger in girth than Zinck's, record fish are determined according to weight, said Miles McInnis, district conservation officer for the Department of Game and Fish.

with Gary Brown

Ruidoso's crushing victory over Estancia last Friday was just one of several bright spots for District 3-AAA teams in the opening weekend of high school football.

In other action involving 3-AAA teams Tularosa blanked the New Mexico Military Academy 23-0. Silver City beat Lordsburg 14-8. Deming held favored Socorro to a 6-6 tie and T or C belted Hatch 41-0. Cobra took the only loss when it fell to El Paso Cathedral 21-14.

Silver City, which is the defending 3-AAA champion, has been unimpressive despite a 1-1 record this season. SC got the jump on other 3-AAA schools by starting its season a week earlier. However it might as well have started all over again after losing the first game 61-0 to Carlsbad.

Tularosa, which at first wasn't supposed to be as strong as last season, may still be a factor in the district race. The Wildcats lost all-state center Bill Turner to the University of Texas at El Paso but still have a good-sized, physical line returning. They may be the surprise team of the season.

Deming's tie with Socorro was especially impressive since the latter team was tied for third in the pre-season Associated Press 3-AAA poll. Socorro has a huge line and a 200 pound fullback so Deming would seem to be much improved.

T or C is always tough so it can't be counted out in the district title race. All in all, a close race would appear to be the logical outcome in the 3-AAA district. And that's something that will make every game more interesting.

New Mexico's two major college football teams did better than expected in their openers last weekend.

The University of New Mexico fell to a powerful Houston team 21-10 but hung close despite being outweighted 40 pounds per man in the defensive line. The Lobos could be a factor in the West Coast Athletic Conference title race if they can avoid the injuries that plagued them last season and their defensive line can take advantage of its great quickness.

Greg Azar may be the smallest nose guard in the country at 5-10, 180 pounds but he may also be the toughest pound for pound.

I don't see the Lobos winning the WCAC crown but they could spoil the title hopes of several teams.

New Mexico State took a 14-7 decision over UTEP in its opener and showed an ability to move the ball, rolling up 381 yards total offense. Perhaps the key to the Aggies' season will be how quarterback Jamie McAllister does. The Aggie quarterback completed 16 of 27 passes for 231 yards and one touchdown against the Miners.

There shouldn't be any problem on defense for the Aggies, particularly in the secondary. James Ferebee and Anthony Watson could gain some All-American mention this season. Ferebee has blocked 19 kicks in his three years at New Mexico State.

If the Aggies can win the close ones (they lost five games by less than a touchdown last season) they could win the Missouri Valley Conference crown. They had a 3-4-1 record last year but turn just two of those close defeats to victories and New Mexico State would have had a winning season.

The MVC is a defensive-oriented conference and the Aggies are strong along those lines. They gave defending champion Tulsa its only conference defeat last season.

It's too early for me to eat crow but there's a chance the San Diego Chargers may beat out the Oakland Raiders for the American Conference Western Division title after all.

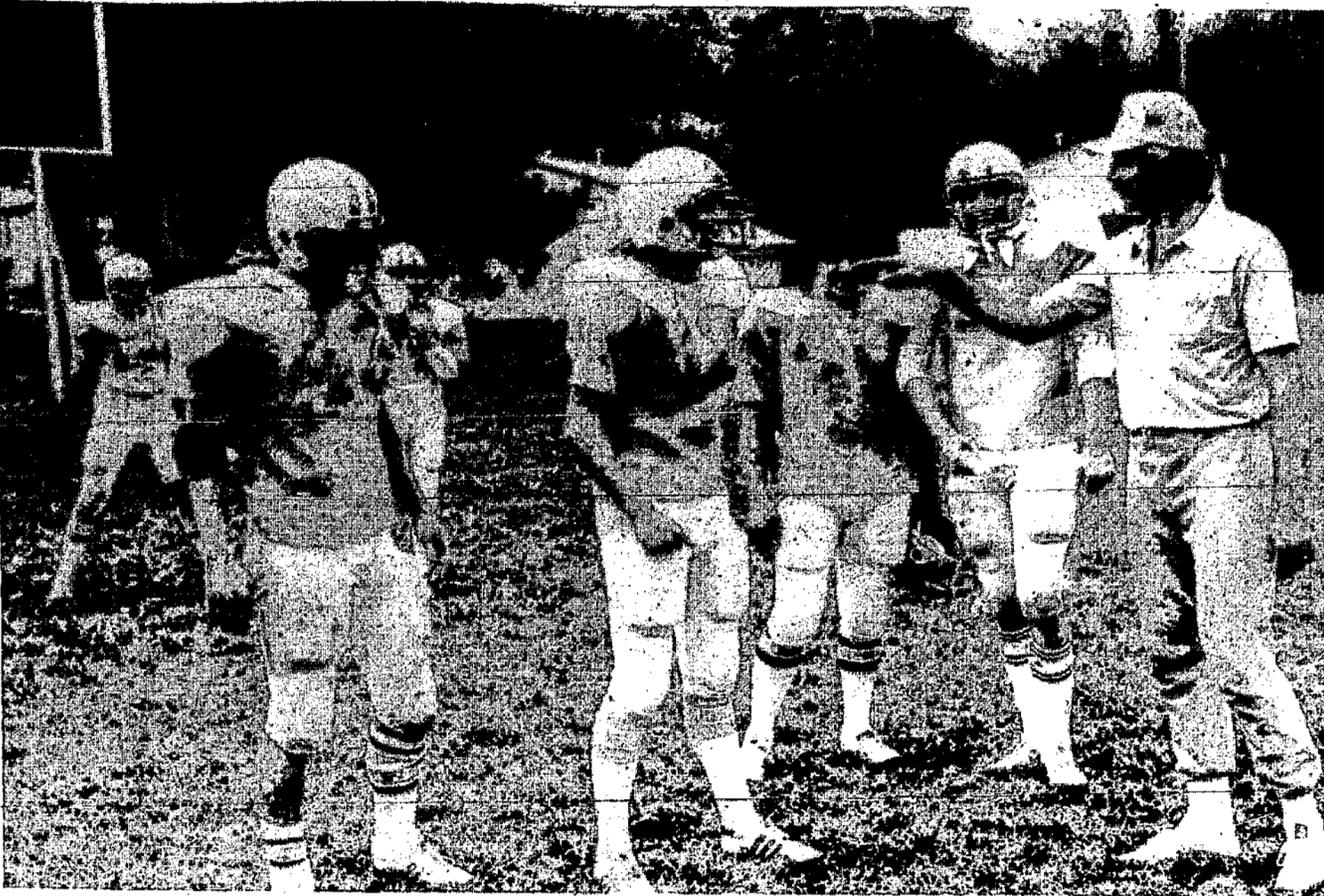

I've predicted that Oakland would win the American Conference crown but if you just went by the first week of the National Football League season the Chargers would seem to be the team to beat.

I haven't seen a team as fluid and awesome on offense as San Diego was in its 44-14 romp over Cleveland for many years.

Everybody knew that the Chargers had a great passing attack with Dan Fouts at the controls but the running attack was in doubt. However, Chuck Muncie came through with one of his best games against the Browns, running for 161 yards. Rookie James Brooks added some speed to the Charger attack and proved to be a threat on kickoff returns.

If Muncie is consistent and the defense improved over last season San Diego would seem to be the team to beat for the Super Bowl crown.

But there are still 15 games to go in the regular season and anything could happen. That's why I'm still leaning towards the Raiders as American Conference winners. They've had a history of avoiding the crucial injuries and of overcoming what injuries they did have.

RUIDOSO HIGH SCHOOL assistant football coach Vince Collins explains a offensive play to Don Nunley (43), Billy Woodut (12) and Chris Lopez (40). Head coach Darrel Stierwalt has credited Collins, who is also Ruidoso's junior basketball coach, with improving the Warriors' passing attack.

Warriors tackle huge Socorro team

Last week it was David. This week it's Goliath.

When the Ruidoso High School football team hosts Socorro at 7:30 p.m., tomorrow it will be meeting a team averaging 200 pounds a man in the line. Last week the Warriors crushed a scrappy Estancia team which only averaged 155 pounds in the offensive line.

Is Ruidoso head coach Darrel Stierwalt concerned about the difference? "They're a strong, physical team. There's no doubt about that," Stierwalt said. "They're bigger than us but we're quick. We expect a good, close game."

Socorro tied Deming 6-6 last week but both teams were hampered by a muddy field.

There's no doubt Deming is much improved," Stierwalt said of the team that Ruidoso beat 34-0 last year. "So we still figure Socorro will be a tough team to play."

Probably the key to the Socorro attack will be 6-4, 200 pound fullback, Eddie Hicks.

"They're a run-oriented club," said Stierwalt of Socorro. "They like to constantly run at you for two, three and four yards hoping to break for a long one eventually."

In the past Socorro has passed a lot but this season with Hicks they present a double threat.

Ruidoso is somewhat inexperienced in the defensive line so Socorro may try to take advantage of that.

Although Socorro is in the same class as Ruidoso (AAA) it's a much larger school and has plenty of depth on both offense and defense.

The key to the game may be how well Ruidoso's defensive line can compete in the "pit" with Socorro's offensive line. The visitors' starting tackles weigh 230 and 209 pounds, respectively, more than any Warrior starter.

While there is inexperience in the Ruidoso defensive line the linebackers and defensive backs have plenty of playing time behind them.

Lon Nunley, a 6-1, 200 pound All-District player in 1980, anchors the defense at linebacker. Byron Wright and Kyle Flack are the outside linebackers. Flack was a standout in the Estancia contest, being in on most of the defensive plays.

Scott Neal, who intercepted a pass against Estancia, is the standout of the Warrior defensive backfield. Offensively the Warriors also face a big challenge.

"If we are to win, our offensive line must give us time to pass," Stierwalt said. "We'll probably throw more short passes than we did against Estancia since Socorro scouted the game and will probably be prepared for our long passes."

Standouts and much of the performance in the offensive line will depend on them. Stierwalt said he was surprised that the Warriors passed as well as they did against Estancia and gave credit to one of his assistant coaches for the way the backs and receivers have improved.

"Coach Collins (Vince) has worked early and late with the quarterbacks and receivers and has done a super job getting them ready," he said.

There are now 62 players out for the Ruidoso team. Stierwalt is planning to keep at least 35 on the varsity and move the rest down to the junior varsity.

The Estancia game attracted a full house and another good crowd of over 1,000 people is expected for the Socorro contest.

LON NUNLEY

Ruidoso quarterback Billy Woodut completed seven of nine passes for 235 yards against Estancia, an average of over 33 yards per completion.

The offensive line must hold off Socorro's large defenders in order for Woodut to find his receivers. Center David Swalander and Nunley at tackle are

Warriors jvs begin season

Ruidoso High School's junior varsity football team opens the 1981 season with a home contest against Carrizozo at 2 p.m., Saturday.

Jim Ramsey is the head coach and Ron Geyer is the assistant. Ruidoso hosts Roswell at 6 p.m., next Thursday.

Youth soccer season starts late

The Ruidoso-Bertoma Soccer Association begins its fall youth program Saturday, September 19 at White Mountain Middle School.

Originally the program had been scheduled to start this Saturday but program officials decided the teams needed more time to practice.

"The rain hurt us as far as practice time went," said Butch Grantham, director of the association.

All the matches will be held at White Mountain Middle School. About 210 youths are signed up for the program. They're divided into 13 age-group teams ranging from five years old to 16. Most of the matches will be played on Saturdays but some 16-year-old matches are scheduled for Wednesdays.

LL football season begins soon

Ruidoso's Little League football season begins Saturday, September 19, with games at the high school.

There are six teams in the league. They include the Colts, Broncos, Cowboys, Steelers, Lions and Hornets. About 90 to 100 kids are involved in the program. League officials are thinking about letting youths sign up until the first day of the season. There will be three games played each Saturday.

State Fair announces horse show schedules

Horse show fans who particularly like to see the colorful Arabians were reminded today of a change in the scheduling for this year's New Mexico State Fair in Albuquerque.

The Arabian and half-Arabian classes will be held at the fair's giant Horse Arena Friday through Sunday, September 11-12-13.

In the past they have been held later during the fair dates, but this year were moved to the opening days.

Following are scheduled horse shows during the 17-day shows.

- Friday, September 11: Arabians, Tennessee Walkers, Saddlebreds.
- Saturday, September 12: Arabians, Half-Arabians.
- Sunday, September 13: Arabians, Pintos.
- Monday, September 14: Paints.
- Tuesday, September 15: Buckskins.
- Wednesday, September 16: Palominos.
- Thursday, September 17: Quarter Horse Youth.
- Friday, September 18: Quarter Horse Youth.
- Saturday, September 19: Quarter Horse Youth.
- Sunday, September 20: Quarter Horses.
- Monday, September 21: Cutting.
- Tuesday, September 22: Appaloosas.
- Wednesday, September 23: Appaloosas, Morgans.
- Thursday, September 24: Morgans, Warm-Up Jumpers.
- Friday, September 25: Hunter-Jumpers, Ponys.
- Saturday, September 26: Hunter-Jumpers.
- Sunday, September 27: Hunter-Jumpers.

Fort Fort Stanton harbors wildlife

Fort Stanton, the frontier military outpost that once protected settlers from Indians — and sometimes even from each other — now has another mission. It is a sanctuary for vagrant shrews, big-eared bats and 88, count them 88 kinds of birds.

The fort, nestled on 27,000 acres of rolling foothills between the Sierra Blanca and Capitan mountains, was abandoned by the Army in 1896. Later, part of it was used as a tuberculosis sanitarium and part was turned over to the Bureau of Land Management (BLM).

In 1963, New Mexico State University's (NMSU) Agricultural Experiment Station signed an agreement with the BLM to use the area as a ranch for livestock, wildlife and range research.

The Fort Stanton Experimental Ranch is one of the nation's rangeland areas set aside for ecological research by the United States Experimental Ecological Reserve System.

Because the ranch's terrain varies from narrow, rocky canyons and rolling hills to wide mesas, it attracts a wide range of birds and animals, making it something of a western ecological paradise.

However, just how many feathered and furred species live on the ranch has never been documented. Recently, NMSU graduate students Ross Hler, fishery and wildlife sciences, and Thomas Thompson, biology, tackled the job.

"We were surprised at the diversity of the birds and mammals we found," said Hler. "We expected to see about 70 bird species but instead we recorded 86. I'm sure we missed some smaller species such as some hummingbirds," he said.

Hler attributes the high number to the wide range of habitat found on the range. The grasslands attracted 12 species including Montezuma quail, western meadowlark, and rufous-crowned sparrow.

The riverbank of the Rio Bonito provides water and cover for killdeer, yellow-rumped warbler and six other species. Other birds find juniper important for feeding, courtship, nesting and winter cover. Pinon-pine also provides important nesting cover.

Fort Stanton is widely recognized for its mule deer population, but the range is also home to some tiny critters as well, according to Hler and Thompson. Nine species of mice, as well as gophers, bats and the vagrant shrew share the pinon-pine habitat with bobcats, pronghorns, elk and bears. In all, the researchers identified 35 species of mammals.

Hler said the checklist is the first systematic identification ever made at the ranch and can be used as a scientific foundation for other research.

He said the checklist is especially valuable now because the area around Fort Stanton is being developed at such a rate that population pressures are bound to affect bird and animal habitats. "Now," he said, "at least we have some measure of the bird-mammal diversity of the range."

Persons interested in the list may obtain a copy of "A Preliminary Checklist of Birds and Mammals, Fort Stanton Experimental Ranch," Research Report 445, from the county Extension office or by writing the Bulletin Office, Box 3A1, Las Cruces, New Mexico 88003.

UNM schedules Parents' Day

Instead of simply mailing that monthly living allowance to that college-bound offspring, why not deliver it in person and see what you're paying for.

The University of New Mexico (UNM) will host its fourth annual Parents' Day on September 26 with the parents being invited to meet with the University president, talk to their children's professors, tour the campus and then attend the Lobo-Air Force Academy football game that night.

Although the event is called "Parents' Day" it is not restricted to parents of current students. Parents and students who may be thinking about coming to UNM are also invited, as are other citizens who may simply wish to visit their University and see what is happening on campus.

All of the University's colleges will sponsor open houses, and they will also feature special events and demonstrations. All of the University's museums will be open that day.

On Friday evening, September 25, the Campus Observatory will be open for those who may wish to explore the New Mexico skies and learn first hand from astronomers information about the galaxies above our heads.

Parents' Day is not just another "show and tell" event, Marvin Johnson, administrative vice president at UNM, said. "The day allows and encourages the parents to explore their own special interests through the various presentations, lectures, social interchanges with UNM faculty and administrators, and the open houses."

"It is an excellent way for the parents of our students, and indeed for everyone, to learn more about what UNM is, what we are doing today and where we hope to be moving in the future," Johnson said.

Advance information and registration requests are being mailed to all parents of students under 22 years of age. For parents and others who do not receive advance information additional details on Parents' Day is available from the Student Activities Center, Student Union Building, UNM, Albuquerque, New Mexico 87131, phone 277-3351 or 277-4708.

Although it is not a part of UNM, the New Mexico Symphony Orchestra will also be presenting a concert on the evening of September 26 in conjunction with Parents' Day to especially allow those who live outside Albuquerque a chance to hear the symphony.

The orchestra will also be hosting their 50th anniversary celebration immediately following their performance. Tickets for the concert are available from Popejoy Hall Box Office at UNM for $5.65 and $7.35 each.

Carrizo Lodge slated for renovation and expansion

MICHAEL FURMAN, at left, the new owner of Carrizo Lodge, along with manager and former owner Herb Greggerson Jr., center, and builder Billy Taylor at right. They are holding the final plat which was approved by Planning and Zoning last week and awaits final approval by the village trustees.

AS CAN BE SEEN from this photo, Carrizo Lodge has been badly in need of funds for renovation.

BY GREG STEPHENS
Staff Writer/Photographer

The Village trustees gave their approval Tuesday night to the Master Plan and Phase I of large scale development plans at a Ruidoso institution, Carrizo Lodge.

Michael Furman of Odessa, Texas, bought the facility last March from the Greggersons of Ruidoso, who had owned the operated the summer art center since 1951.

Furman is owner and president of Liberty Trust Company, of which Carrizo Lodge Incorporated is now a part. Last week he received approval from the Ruidoso Planning and Zoning Commission for the final plat of the project, which calls for extensive renovations and the eventual installation of nearly 400 condominiums.

Approval of the first phase by the trustees enables Furman to have the first 30 condos put in by this fall.

Furman wants to eventually put in 300 condos along a mountain ridge east of the existing buildings. Recreation facilities and a restaurant would also be constructed. Furman must work closely with the trustees in these plans as the project is slated to be connected to the village sewage system.

Carrizo Lodge must also buy additional water rights — it currently owns 17 acre feet a year, and will have to double that amount to bring the project to fruition.

In a telephone interview with The Ruidoso News, Furman took pains to emphasize that the new buildings and renovations would be done in character.

"What we want to do is to modernize the facility without making it look modern, if that makes sense," he said.

That the structures need modernizing is unquestionable.

"The kitchen uses tube and spool wiring, which met the building codes back in 1927, but they desperately need replacement," said Herb Greggerson, Jr., who followed the footsteps of his father in operating Carrizo Lodge for over a decade.

"This has never been a place to turn over a large profit, because of our short season and the small number of artists coming in," Greggerson said. "So we've never had the funds to put back into the place. It would have been nice to keep it in the family, but you've got to understand what it's like to go out when it's 20 below zero and try to find a water leak."

According to Furman, the main lodge will be rewired, replumbed and winterized before the onset of winter. If there is time, the lodge will also enter winter with a new stucco exterior.

"The lodge will remain the centerpiece of the development," Furman said. "We want it to retain the rustic feeling that has made it attractive for so long. It will remain separate from the condos and other structures, although they will be connected by redwood walks and bridges. We had hoped to retain the gravel road, but the county is going to require us to pave it."

Furman said that he and Greggerson had discussed their plans with many of the students this summer, and had without exception received positive feedback.

Greggerson and his sister Hilma Collier will stay on as managers of Carrizo Lodge, retaining prime responsibility for directing the art programs, in which Furman plans extensive growth.

"We want to increase studio space for the workshops — there've been three studios for the last 27 years, and we'd like to expand that to five or six," Furman said.

He also envisions the art courses going from about mid-March until mid-November, with more instructors of national and international reputations than in the past.

"It seems like the artists who have taken the time to write and publicize books draw the best," he said. "So we'll concentrate on bringing in teachers with that kind of reputation, who have had the exposure of previous workshops. But to keep some of the workshops at an inexpensive level, we also plan to keep regionally or locally known artists in about 25 percent of the classes."

"What we're looking for is instructors such as (Ben) Konis or (Jan) DeRuth or (Albert) Handell," said Greggerson. "But there will always be room for a Barrie Tinkler here."

Carrizo Lodge has a backlog of some 7,000 students, and a questionnaire will be mailed to them within the next month, asking for their suggestions on future artistic programs. A catalogue will be available by Christmas.

"From a long term viewpoint, we would like for the lodge to evolve into a gallery with international representation," said Furman. "I think we may be able to turn a profit on it in a couple of years. At first the condos are going to be subsidizing improvements in the lodge — we've already got 38 folks waiting to buy the first 30 units. But when there are six studios ready, there would be a capacity for 180 students here eight months a year."

The builder for the project will be Billy Taylor of Petroplex Home Sales in Odessa. He will be using modular units manufactured by Lancer's of Childress, Texas. The condos to be erected here will be similar to those being used by U. S. Homes in major projects in Corpus Christi and Galveston, Texas, and near Avon, Colorado.

Mike Mulholland of Ruidoso is the contractor.

Furman has been coming to Ruidoso since the late 1950's. He grew up in El Paso, Texas, but moved to Farmington before the ninth grade. "I still think of Farmington as home — I had a grandmother there who claimed to have been the first Anglo woman in San Juan territory."

"I don't play golf too often but I do enjoy playing at the Inn of the Mountain Gods because of the beautiful setting. I would glance at Carrizo driving past because a neighbor of ours in Odessa had been an art student there and thought highly of it. A couple of years ago I noticed a "For Sale" sign by a real estate agent; then last February the sign had been crossed out to read "For Sale By Owner". I went in and looked around a couple of hours and decided to buy it."

Modular units are being used for reasons of speed as well as economics and quality, Furman said.

"It's the only way I can get them in by the ski season, and they are a much better design for the money. The modular units run about $100 a foot, while the same quality of on-site construction would run up to $140 a foot. So the savings can be passed on to the owners.

"We will also be putting in a swimming pool, and the master plan shows tennis courts, which would be about two years down the road. But that will depend on the feedback by the owners—if they decide they would get better all year usage out of volleyball courts, for instance, we'd go that route."

The condos will have an exterior of wood and stucco the same color as the redwood walks leading between units. Roofing will consist of acrylic tiles with a "simulated Spanish look".

A dam will be constructed to create a small lake at the north edge of the property. A landscaped park will be run along the creek, now overgrown with brush.

"I see the housing development and the art center as being mutually supportive," said Furman. "Most of the condo owners will probably be absentee, and many of them will want to rent their place most of the year. They'll have a ready made market in the art students and skiers."

"I'm really excited to be a part of this, to be able to help the Ruidoso area grow into a nationally respected arts center."

Boy Scouts experience wilderness survival

Fifteen Ruidoso Boy Scouts recently completed a three day wilderness survival training course in the Three Rivers section of the White Mountain Wilderness Area.

Scoutmaster Bill Streeter accompanied the members of Scout Troop 107, Ruidoso. The group joined with Scouts from Roswell Troop 128 and their Scoutmaster, Dan Smith.

The young men, ranging in age from 12 to 16, were each equipped with a wool blanket, a pocket knife, a piece of plastic, and a handful of wheat seeds. From a base camp at the foot of Sierra Blanca, the Scouts received training in basic survival techniques from Streeter and Smith.

Included in the training was identification and preparation of edible plants and recognition of poisonous plants. Once the wheat was gone, Streeter said, the Scouts had to gather their food.

A simulated plane crash in a desert section of the area was used to teach desert survival techniques to the group, Streeter said.

The Scouts also learned three methods of starting fires without matches, according to Streeter. These were friction, solar, and flint and steel. Other areas of instruction were water purification, emergency signaling, and personal hygiene.

The Scouts themselves, said Streeter, felt that the most important thing they learned is that "cooperation is the name of the game in a survival situation."

Big game regulations amended

The State Game Commission amended the 1981-82 big game regulations at its meeting in Santa Fe August 26, creating three entry permit hunts in January on the Bolack Ranch near Farmington, according to Walt Snyder, Game Management Division chief for the Department of Game and Fish.

The amendment also opened Unit 55 near Cimarron to bear hunting with dogs during the September 5-15 elk bow season; changed the elk bag limit for the December 10-14 hunt in Unit 46 (the Turkey Mountain area) to one antlerless elk or mature bull; set a buck only bag limit on the San Juan State Game Refuge during muzzleloader season; and restricted hunting at the refuge during the November modern firearms seasons (D-1-N and D-2-N) to use of muzzleloaders or shotgun firing a single slug.

The Bolack entry permit hunts — open to muzzleloader hunters only — will be January 9-10, January 16-17 and January 23-24. Regulations governing those hunts — except weapons restrictions — will be the same as those governing other 1981-82 entry permit hunts, with an application deadline of October 2. Up to 100 permits will be available for each hunt. Bag limit for those hunts is one deer of either sex.

The commission renewed for one year its lease of a hunting, fishing and trapping easement to approximately nine million acres of state School Trust Lands, at a cost of $92,000. The lease opens the trust lands, most of which are also under grazing or other lease, to public hunting, fishing or trapping in season. Access to the state property is assured only if the lands are served by public road.

The commission instructed the department to proceed with appraisal and survey of the 400 acre Casa Colorado farm near Belen as a preliminary step to possible purchase of the land for a waterfowl feed and rest area along the Rio Grande. The Nature Conservancy has agreed to purchase the farm for the department, which would reimburse the private conservation group over a three to five year period. Approximately 75 percent of the reimbursement would come from Pittman-Robertson federal aid monies provided for acquisition and restoration of wildlife habitat. The department would provide 25 percent matching funds. The land is currently valued at about $1.5 million.

The commission also approved an exchange, with Virginia Binkley, Chama, of 12 acres of meadowland on the Sargent Wildlife Area for 19 acres to be used as an administrative site on the wildlife area. The 19 acres include 17 within the Sargent area and two acres of townsite within Chama, providing access to utilities for the administrative site. Binkley, a former owner of the Sargent property, had retained the 17 acres when the department purchased the 20,000 acre area in 1974. The 12 acres of meadowland are valued at $4,200; the 19 acres at $17,700. Binkley has agreed to donate the $13,500 balance on the value of the 19 acres in exchange for the meadowland.

Lease of Maddox Lake, near Hobbs, was also approved by the commission. The lake will be open for public fishing beginning October 31, when the lease becomes effective, increasing public fishing waters in Lea County by approximately 55 percent. New Mexico Electric Service Company, a rural electric cooperative in southeastern New Mexico, owns the lake and has granted a 10 year public fishing easement to the department for $1.

In other action, the commission approved lease of the Alamitos mine tailings, on property it owns near Pecos, to Cowles Associates; extended Bokum Resources' mineral lease on the commission-owned Marquez town tracts for 60 days, pending renegotiation of a new lease; abolished La Cueva State Game Refuge to open the area to goose hunting, and set the 1981-82 waterfowl seasons.

The commission revoked the hunting and fishing license privileges for Freddie Bachicha, Las Vegas, for a three year period. Bachicha was convicted on December 1, 1980, of four wildlife law violations stemming from the illegal killing of a bull elk last November.

Focus on Small Business

by E. Maine Shafer

Dear Mr. Shafer: I know that well-trained and educated employees are a must if a small business is to succeed and prosper. But educational costs are high. Any bargains available?

Yes, but you'll have to seek them out. Low-cost training help is available in almost every community. It's furnished by colleges and government agencies and even some private enterprises.

The United States Small Business Administration (SBA) is a large supplier of educational services. SBA courses and local college courses, which run from one day to several weeks of classes, rarely cost the student more than a few dollars an hour. Their training, however, could save a small business thousands of dollars.

SBA, for example, has offices in nearly 100 cities. Most offer free workshops to people who want to start their own businesses and want to hone their skills to successfully remain in business.

In starting a business, for example, management know-how is a necessity. You have to know about location, how to select a partner, getting a franchise, marketing, accounting, publicity, exporting and even how to expand when the time comes. Courses also help in getting city and state licenses and understanding the way to keep and hold good management.

If you need information on when and where courses are being offered in this area, please call my office at 605-768-3588.

UNM has energy study grant

Private industry's interest in alternative energy research is on the upswing, as evidenced by a $20,000 grant recently awarded to the University of New Mexico's (UNM) department of chemical and nuclear engineering by Amoco Production Company of Tulsa, Oklahoma.

This unrestricted grant will support research on the recovery of methane from coal beds, an in situ (in place) method of extracting energy resources.

"This grant is an example of increasing industrial support of graduate education and training in energy technology research," said Dr. Frank Williams, associate professor in UNM's chemical and nuclear engineering department and head of the in situ energy recovery project in New Mexico's San Juan basin.

"Most engineers working in industry today were trained in conventional energy methods," he said. "With the development of new energy resources, private industry is recognizing the need to train engineers in new technology, such as in situ recovery, and is demonstrating that awareness by providing financial support for academic research projects."

Research into alternative energy technologies is accelerating as conventional forms of energy are depleted. "We've run out of easy energy resources," said Dave Woodall, chairman of UNM's chemical and nuclear engineering department. "Now it's time to get down to the hard work of developing new technologies to tap alternative energy resources."

In situ recovery extracts energy resources contained in geological formations without altering the surrounding environment. The recovery of methane, a natural gas, from coal beds involves drilling a hole to the coal seam where the methane is trapped. This passive system releases the methane to the surface where it is compressed and transported for energy use.

"In New Mexico 90 to 95 percent of the coal reserves are too deep for strip mining and can only be obtained through conventional mining, which is very expensive, or through in situ recovery," Williams said. "With deep reserves of coal, in situ recovery is the most practical method of extraction. And it has the added advantage of not scarring the landscape."

Williams estimates that the natural gas obtained through recovery of methane from coal will meet this country's natural gas needs for approximately 10 to 15 years.

"Since two to five percent of the energy potential in a block of coal is the energy contained in methane," Williams said, "it is in our best interest to develop this technology. And methane is an extremely pure gas. It's clean enough to use in its natural form in a home."

Williams said the Amoco money will primarily be used for equipment and graduate student recruitment and support.

Fall schedule set at Carlsbad Caverns

The National Park Service has announced that fall and winter visitor hours will go into effect at Carlsbad Caverns National Park on Tuesday, September 8.

The park will continue to be open seven days a week, with complete walk-in tours available any time between 8 a.m. and 2 p.m. (MDT), and Big Room trips available continuously from 8:15 a.m. to 3:15 p.m. The visitor center will be open from 7:30 a.m. until after the evening bat flight programs through the month of September, and after that, will close at 5 p.m.

The evening bat flight programs are held at the entrance to the Cavern, starting at about sunset which usually occurs between 6:30 p.m. and 6:45 p.m. (MDT) at this season of the year.

Guided lantern trips through primitive New Cave in the Slaughter Canyon area will be offered on a reservation basis each Saturday and Sunday after Labor Day, with two trips scheduled each weekend day at 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. Reservations for the New Cave trips may be made by calling (505) 788-2233.

Concession facilities and services available at the park include a surface restaurant, underground luncheon, nursery, kennel, and gift shop. Hours for the concession facilities will be from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m., for food services and from 8 a.m. to 4:30 p.m., for other services.

The park entrance fee remains $3 per carload for private non-commercial vehicles, or $1 per person for commercial bus passengers on a daily basis, with annual Golden Eagle or Lifetime Golden Age and Golden Access Passports also available and honored.

EDUCATIONAL REHABILITATION ACT OF 1973
Section 504
The Ruidoso Board of Education guarantees equal educational rights for all properly identified school age exceptional students residing within this district, and to protect the rights of handicapped individuals regarding equal employment opportunities as is projected in Section 504 of the U. S. Rehabilitation Act of 1973.
(a.1) Employment
a. The Ruidoso Municipal Schools administrative staff has not and will not knowingly discriminate against any other student who is employed solely on the basis of physical and/or mental handicap.
(a.1.1) Facilities
a. No qualified handicapped student has been or will be denied access to a proper educational setting, provided that the necessary requirements established by both state and federal educational authorities.
(a.1.2) Existing facilities are readily accessible to handicapped persons, or can readily be adapted if the need becomes known. Any planned alteration of existing buildings will include provisions for accessibility for handicapped persons.
(a.1.3) Educational Program
a. An ongoing outreach program is conducted in an effort to identify and locate any qualified handicapped individual who is or will be of school age. Local community service groups are given verbal presentations of services available for the school age handicapped as well as educational and extracurricular activities.
b. Free appropriate public education
i. General. A recipient that operates a public elementary or secondary education program shall provide a free public education to each qualified handicapped person who is in the recipient's jurisdiction, regardless of the nature or severity of the person's handicap.
ii. Appropriate education. (1) For the purpose of this subpart, the provision of an appropriate education is the provision of regular or special education and related aids and services that (i) are designed to meet individual educational needs of handicapped persons as adequately as the needs of nonhandicapped persons are met and (ii) are based upon adherence to procedures that satisfy the requirements of 84.34 and 84.36.
(2) Implementation of an individualized education program developed in accordance with the Education of All Handicapped Act is one means of meeting the standard established in paragraph (b) (1) (i) of this section.
(3) A recipient may place a handicapped person in or refer such person to a program other than the one that it operates as its means of carrying out the requirements of this subpart. If so, the recipient remains responsible for ensuring that the requirements of this subpart are met with respect to any handicapped person so placed or referred.
c. Free Education. (1) General. For the purpose of this section the provision of a free education is the provision of educational and related services or of a handicapped person or to his or her parents or guardian, except for those fees that are imposed on nonhandicapped persons or their parents or guardian. It may consist either of the provision of free services or of a handicapped person or to his or her parents or guardian if the person or his or her parents or guardian if the person were placed in the program operated by the recipient.
(2) Transportation. If a recipient places a handicapped person in or refers such person to a program not operated by the recipient as its means of carrying out the requirements of this subpart, the recipient shall ensure that adequate transportation to and from the program is provided at no greater cost than would be incurred by the person or his or her parents or guardian if the person were placed in the program operated by the recipient.
(3) Residential placement. If placement in a public or private residential program is necessary to provide a free appropriate public education to a handicapped person because of his or her handicap, the program, including nonacademic care and services, shall be provided at no cost to the person or his or her parents or guardian.
(4) Placement of handicapped persons by parents. If a recipient, in compliance with the requirements of this section and 84.34, a free appropriate public education to a handicapped person and the person's parents or guardian choose to place the person in a private school, the recipient is not required to pay for the education of the person in the private school. Disagreements between a parent or guardian and a recipient regarding whether the recipient has made such a program available or otherwise regarding the question of financial responsibility are subject to the due process procedures of 84.36.
d. Compliance. A recipient may not exclude any qualified handicapped person from a public elementary or secondary education after the effective date of this regulation, in full compliance with the other requirements of the preceding paragraphs of this section shall meet such requirements at the earliest practicable time and in no event later than September 1, 1978.
84.34 Educational Setting
a. Academic setting. A recipient to which this subpart applies shall educate, or shall provide for the education of, each qualified handicapped person in its jurisdiction with persons who are not handicapped to the maximum extent appropriate to the needs of the handicapped person. A recipient shall place a handicapped person in the regular educational environment operated by the recipient unless it is demonstrated by the recipient that the education of the person in the regular environment with the use of supplementary aids and services cannot be achieved satisfactorily. Whenever a recipient places a person in proximity of the alternate setting to the person's name
b. Nonacademic settings. In providing or arranging for the provision of nonacademic and extracurricular services and activities, including meals, recreation and the services and activities set forth in 84.37 (a) (2), a recipient shall ensure that handicapped persons participate with nonhandicapped persons in such activities and services to the maximum extent appropriate to the needs of the handicapped person in question.
c. Comparable facilities. If a recipient, in compliance with paragraph (a) of this section, operates a facility that is identifiable as being for handicapped persons, the recipient shall ensure that the facility and the services and activities provided therein are comparable to the other facilities, services, and activities of the recipient.
84.35 Evaluation and Placement
a. Preplacement evaluation. A recipient that operates a public elementary or secondary education program shall conduct an evaluation in accordance with the requirements of paragraph (b) of this section of any person who, because of a handicap, is believed to need special education or related services before taking any action with respect to the initial placement of the person in a regular or special education program and before taking any action with respect to the placement of the person in an evaluation procedure. A recipient to which this subpart applies shall establish standards and procedures for the evaluation and placement of persons who, because of a handicap, need or are believed to need special education or related services who ensure that:
(1) Tests and other evaluation materials have been validated for the specific purpose for which they are used and are administered by trained personnel in conformance with the instructions provided by their producer;
(2) Tests and other evaluation materials include those tailored to assess specific areas of educational need and not merely those which are designed to provide a single general intelligence quotient; and
(3) Tests are selected and administered so as best to ensure that, when a test is administered to a student with impaired sensory, manual, or speaking skills, the test results accurately reflect the student's aptitude or achievement level or whatever other factor the test purports to measure, rather than reflecting the student's impaired sensory, manual, or speaking skills (except where those skills are the factors that the test purports to measure).
b. Placement procedures. In interpreting evaluation data and in making placement decisions, a recipient shall — (1) Draw upon information from a variety of sources, including aptitude and achievement test, teacher recommendations, physical conditions, social or cultural background, and adaptive behavior.
(2) Establish procedures to ensure that information obtained from all such sources is documented and carefully considered.
(3) Ensure that the placement decision is made by a group of persons, including persons knowledgeable about the child, the meanings of the evaluation data, and the placement options.
(4) Ensure that the placement decision is made in conformity with 84.34.
c. Reevaluation. A recipient to which this section applies shall establish procedures, in accordance with paragraph (b) of this section for periodic reevaluation of students who have been provided special education and related services. A reevaluation procedure consistent with the Education of All Handicapped Act is one means of meeting this requirement.
84.37 Nonacademic services.
a. General.
(1) A recipient to which this subpart applies shall provide nonacademic and extracurricular services and activities in such a manner as is necessary to afford handicapped students an equal opportunity for participation in such services and activities.
(2) Nonacademic and extracurricular services and activities shall include, but not be limited to, recreational, athletic, transportation, health services, recreational activities, special interest groups or clubs sponsored by the recipient, referrals to agencies which provide assistance to handicapped persons, and employment of students, including both employment by the recipient and assistance in seeking available outside employment.

b. Counseling services. A recipient to which this subpart applies that provides personal academic, vocational, career, guidance, or placement services to its students shall provide these services without discrimination on the basis of handicap. The recipient shall ensure that qualified handicapped students are not counseled toward more restrictive career objectives than are nonhandicapped students with similar interests and abilities.
c. Physical education and athletics.
(1) In providing physical education courses and athletics and similar programs and activities to any of its students, a recipient to which this subpart applies may not discriminate on the basis of handicap. A recipient that offers physical education courses or other activities or sponsors intrascholastic, club, or intramural athletics shall provide to qualified handicapped students an equal opportunity for participation in these activities.
(2) A recipient may offer to handicapped students physical education and athletic activities that are separate or different from those offered to nonhandicapped students only if separation or differentiation is consistent with the requirements of 84.34 and only if no qualified handicapped student is denied the opportunity to compete for teams or to participate in courses that are not separate or different.
Compliance Officer:
Karen Tillman has been designated to coordinate the district's efforts to comply with section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973.
84.32 Administration of Handicap Policy
a. The Superintendent has designated Karen Tillman as the person responsible for the administration of all policies regarding the handicapped.
These responsibilities shall include:
(1) Preparation of assurances of compliance with Section 504 of the 1973 Vocational Act and any further federal/state regulations directly involving handicapped students.
(2) Development of all plans and reports required under this policy.
(3) Administration of the grievance procedure established under this policy.
(4) Operation of the outreach program of the Ruidoso Municipal Schools as outlined in section 3-A of this policy. #1981-11-(9) 10

Carrizo Lodge: a century of Lincoln County history

THIS PHOTOGRAPH was taken in 1927, the first year that Carrizo Lodge was used as a summer camp by the New Mexico Military Institute.

BY GREG STEPHENS
Staff Writer/Photographer

CARRIZO LODGE from the same angle today.

DAVID ISAACS of Morenci, Arizona, has been coming to Carrizo Lodge intermittently for 25 years. He was the first and only male to register for the class taught by Frederic Taubes back in 1956 — among 33 females.

THIS 1911 PLAYER PIANO, brought by the Greggersons from the Mescalero Apache Tribe, was one of many antiques that once decorated the lodge. Most of them were put in storage after the lodge was sold to Michael Furman, who plans extensive renovations.

When Michael Furman bought Carrizo Lodge last March, over a century of southern New Mexico history came with it. It was in 1879 that President Rutherford B. Hayes put his signature to a patent granting the first individual title to some 160 acres along Carrizo Creek to Colonel George A. Purrington.

After joining the Union Army out of Ohio, Purrington was stationed at Fort Stanton during the Civil War. He played a role in the Lincoln County War, allowing the "Dolan faction" to make illegal entries into homes of the "McSween Group" after Sheriff William Brady was shot in 1878.

After Purrington died, the original patent plus an additional 60 acres returned with his wife to Ohio until 1923, when it was sold to Horace Carter for $25 an acre.

Much of the land was subsequently developed by Carter, and now forms part of downtown Ruidoso. Forty acres of the patent bordering the Mescalero Reservation were sold to the New Mexico Military Institute (NMMI) in April 1925.

The Board of Regents of NMMI authorized the Athletic Department to construct a summer camp on the land — some detractors claimed in an effort to get the football team in shape before their rivals, but officially to provide a "happy mountain life for boys."

The main building of Carrizo Lodge was completed in 1927. It featured a downstairs dining room, two upstairs dormitories (which are now artists' studios), an igneous rock fireplace, a swimming pool and the camp's own electricity generator.

45 boys attended the camp that first summer. They were charged $150 for the two weeks.

Edith Coe/Rigsby (formerly Mrs. Coe/Boyce), who operated the Navajo Lodge for 30 years, remembers the boys coming over to her place for dances.

"We built a recreation hall about the same year the lodge opened, and we'd have orchestras playing Wednesday and Saturday nights — mostly boys who came up for the summer from Las Cruces or Abilene, Texas, to earn money for college," said Mrs. Coe/Rigsby. "Colonel Lusk would bring his boys (NMMI) over to dance and often their parents stayed at the Navajo Lodge while visiting. I remember one of the first boys to come up here was Bill Hurd, Peter Hurd's brother."

The summer camp went into a period of decline during the depression years of the 1930's. During part of this time the facilities were leased to a girl's school run by Esther MacNally.

The flood of 1941 destroyed several buildings on the property. As a result, said Mrs. Coe/Rigsby, MacNally "gave it up" and the summer camp was sold to the former's older sister, Annie Coe/Tilsworth.

Through the Coe family, Carrizo Lodge gained another indirect connection to the Lincoln County War. Annie's father Frank had hired William Bonney to help with hay on his ranch in 1877, and he and the Kid became good friends. Frank and his cousin George Coe were later branded outlaws because they had holed up in the McSween store during the three day shootout in Lincoln.

Annie Coe/Tilsworth was a widower in 1943. During her eight years of ownership the grounds remained much the same. She invited family and friends there to use the pool during the summer months. Later, when she was physically unable to look after the place, it was cared for by a frontiersman sort who lived on wild turkey and fish, according to Herb Seckler.

Herb Greggerson Sr., bought Carrizo Lodge in 1951. It was remodeled and opened to the public as a square dancing center in 1953.

The Greggersons had a reputation as square dance instructors that spread across North America. Out of their square dance hall in El Paso, they traveled across the continent and into the Caribbean, giving workshops. On their travels they collected antiques such as old music boxes and copper works, which found their way into the El Paso hall and later Carrizo Lodge.

Some of these antiques included a 150-year-old Swiss Music Box with chimes, bells and a reed organ, rescued from a penny arcade in Boston; an 1890 Pianella, a 1911 player piano; an 1895 calculator that had been used by an Austin, Texas, Certified Public Accountant until the mid-1930's, and an 1878 wood Hammond typewriter.

When their new facility at Carrizo Creek was converted into an arts center, this wealth of antiques made a perfect background for artists painting still lifes.

The Greggersons originally bought Carrizo Lodge in partnership with a couple from Venezuela, the Goodwins. The four had met at a square dancing workshop in Aruba, Venezuela, where the Goodwins worked for Esso oil. According to Herb Junior, it wasn't until the late 1960's that Goodwins finally visited Ruidoso and decided to sell out their interest.

"Originally my parents wanted to use this exclusively as a dance center, but as square dancing got out of the old-time style, Dad got discouraged and got out of square dancing," said Greggerson. "It also wasn't making much money. For a few years they tried a little bit of everything — a summer theatre, girls and boys' camps, a baton twirling school, and Alcoholics Anonymous conventions — anything to draw people. The Lion's Club met there 15 years, and there was a public restaurant downstairs from about 1954-60, after which it catered exclusively to artists."

In 1956, Frederic Taubes changed all that. The famous New York artist had been conducting a workshop at Cloudcroft that summer, but found the facilities inadequate. But he liked the area, so he came to the Greggersons and asked if he could teach a workshop at Carrizo Lodge. They agreed on a one year trial basis, and the idea soon caught on.

"About 20 people came to the first class and stayed two weeks," said Greggerson. "Ruidoso was just a three-day town then — the track actually only ran two days and there was no ski run. But through Taubes' reputation it (Carrizo Lodge) grew rapidly."

David Isaacs of Morenci, Arizona, who attended this year's workshop held by Taubes' successor, Jan DeRuth, remembers being at the second workshop in 1956. "There were over 30 people there, and I was the only man in the lot. The paper (Ruidoso News) put me in for that."

News of Carrizo Lodge spread by word of mouth, and soon many other artists were giving classes there. But "Mr. T," as Taubes was called by his students, remained the central figure.

One story about those early days concerns the effects of "Mr. T's" criticisms. During his lectures, he would sometimes lambast other artists, from classic to contemporary, and one time he boasted that he could teach even a mule to paint better than one well-known artist.

Several days later, during the traditional Hot Rock Dinner, several students showed up with a mule borrowed from a local stable along with easel, canvas and palette. "Mr. T" grabbed the mule's tail and proceeded to make good on his promise, although it should be added that only the memory, and not the painting, survived the incident.

Some of the artists who came during the 1960's were Emily Guthrie Smith, Ruth Tears, Carl Cogar (for 37 years), Ben Kousis, and Emilio Caballero.

In 1969 the Goodwins sold their half interest in Carrizo Lodge to Herb Greggerson Jr., and his sister Hilma Collier bought half of that when she moved here in the summer of 1971.

"We've always treated the artists and students like family," said Greggerson. "The artists can do just about whatever they want in the studios as long as it's not destructive. There've been a few instructors that have let their students do their own thing, drink and get a little rowdy, but most of them are pretty serious."

Greggerson believes that an atmosphere of trust has been very important in encouraging former students to return year after year, often bringing friends. "For years we had all those antiques in the place, worth thousands, and the doors were always open. But we never did have a theft."

This sense of openness has in part derived from the Greggerson's policy of relying on word-of-mouth publicity. "A lot of people in Ruidoso barely even knew Carrizo Lodge existed until this year," said Mike Mulholland, who is serving as contractor for the proposed additions and renovations.

Greggerson said that he would like to keep some of that intimacy and "family feeling" at Carrizo Lodge. But while there is every evidence that Furman plans to build "in character", the fact remains that revitalization of Carrizo Lodge is dependent on making the place commercial enough to turn a profit. Greggerson said that he and Furman were considering the possibility of putting Carrizo Lodge on the mailing list of American Artist.

The old summer camp would certainly never be the same after that kind of publicity. But if it loses some of its rustic charm in the process of adhering to the "bottom line" — profit — perhaps that is the price of its continued health and survival.

LEGAL NOTICE

154 VOCATIONAL REHABILITATION ACT OF 1973
Section 504

The Ruidoso Board of Education guarantees equal educational rights for a properly identified school age exceptional student residing within this district and to protect the rights of handicapped individuals receiving equal employment opportunity as is projected in Section 504 of the U. S. Rehabilitation Act of 1973.

154.111. Employment

a. The Ruidoso Municipal Schools administrative staff has not and will not knowingly discriminate against any otherwise qualified prospective employee solely on the basis of a physical and/or mental handicap.

154.21. Facilities

No qualified handicapped student has been or will be denied access to a proper educational setting, provided he/she meets entrance requirements established by both state and federal educational authorities.

154.31(2)(b). Existing facilities are readily accessible to handicapped persons, or can readily be adapted if the need becomes known. New buildings conform with state building codes for accessibility. Any planned alteration of existing buildings will include provisions for accessibility for handicapped persons.

154.31(2)(3). Educational Program

a. An on going outreach program is conducted in an effort to identify and provide any qualified handicapped individual who is or will be of school age. Local community service groups are given verbal presentations of services available for the school age handicapped as well as regional and state availability.

154.33. Free appropriate public education

a. General. A recipient that operates a public elementary or secondary education program shall provide a free appropriate public education to each qualified handicapped person who is in the recipient's jurisdiction, regardless of the nature or severity of the person's handicap.

b. Appropriate education. (1) For the purpose of this subpart, the provision of an appropriate education is the provision of regular or special education and related aids and services that (i) are designed to meet individual educational needs of handicapped persons as adequately as the needs of non-handicapped persons are met and (ii) are based upon adherence to procedures that satisfy the requirements of 84.34 and 84.36.

(2) Implementation of an individualized education program developed in accordance with the Education of All Handicapped Children Act is one means of meeting the standard established in paragraph (b) (1) (i) of this section.

(3) A recipient may place a handicapped person in or refer such person to a program other than the one that it operates at its means of carrying out the requirements of this subpart, if so, the recipient remains responsible for assuring that the educational services of the recipient with respect to any handicapped person so placed or referred.

c. Free Education. (1) General. For the purpose of this section the provision of a free education is the provision of educational and related services, without cost to the handicapped person or to his or her parents or guardian, except for those fees that are imposed on non-handicapped persons or their parents or guardians. It may consist either of the provision of free services or a placement in a program not operated by the recipient as its means of carrying out the requirements of this subpart, if payment for the costs of the program are made available from any public or private agency may be used to meet the requirements of this subpart. Nothing in this section shall be construed to relieve an insurer or similar third party from an otherwise valid obligation to provide or pay for services provided to a handicapped person.

(2) Transportation. If a recipient places a handicapped person in or refers such person to a program not operated by the recipient at its means of carrying out the requirements of this subpart, the recipient shall ensure that adequate transportation to and from the program is provided at no greater cost than would be incurred by the person or his or her parents or guardian if the program were placed in the program operated by the recipient.

(3) Residential placement. If placement in a public or private residential program is necessary to provide a free appropriate public education to a handicapped person because of his or her handicap, the program, including nonmedical care and room and board, shall be provided at no cost to the person or his or her parents or guardian.

(4) Placement of handicapped persons by parents. If a recipient has made available, in conformance with the requirements of this section and 84.34, a free appropriate public education to a handicapped person and the person's parents or guardian choose to place the person in a private school, the recipient is not required to pay for the person's education in the private school. Disagreements between a parent or guardian and a recipient regarding whether the recipient has made such a program available or otherwise regarding the question of financial responsibility are subject to the due process procedures of 84.36.

d. Compliance. A recipient may not exclude any qualified handicapped person from a public elementary or secondary education after the effective date of this regulation, in full compliance with the other requirements of the preceding paragraphs of this section shall meet such requirements at the earliest practicable time and in no event later than September 1, 1978.

84.24 Educational Settings

a. Academic settings. A recipient to which this subpart applies shall educate, or shall provide for the education of, each qualified handicapped person in its jurisdiction with persons who are not handicapped to the maximum extent appropriate to the needs of the handicapped person. A recipient shall place a handicapped person in the regular educational environment operated by the recipient unless it is demonstrated by the recipient that the education of the person in the regular environment with the use of supplementary aids and services cannot be achieved satisfactorily. Whenever a recipient places a person in proximity of the alternate setting to the person's home.

b. Nonacademic settings. In providing or arranging for the provision of nonacademic and extracurricular services and activities, including meals, recess periods, and the services and activities set forth in 84.37 (a) (2), a recipient shall ensure that handicapped persons participate with non handicapped persons in such activities and services to the maximum extent appropriate to the needs of the handicapped person in question.

c. Comparable facilities. If a recipient, in compliance with paragraph (a) of this section, operates a facility that is identifiable as being for handicapped persons, the recipient shall ensure that the facility and the services and activities provided therein are comparable to the other facilities, services, and activities of the recipient.

84.35 Evaluation and placement

a. Preplacement evaluation. A recipient that operates a public elementary or secondary education program shall conduct an evaluation in accordance with the requirements of paragraph (b) of this section of any person who, because of a handicap, needs or is believed to need special education or related services before taking any action with respect to the initial placement of the person in a regular or special education program and any subsequent change in placement.

b. Evaluation procedures. A recipient to which this subpart applies shall establish standards and procedures for the evaluation and placement of persons who, because of a handicap, need or are believed to need special education or related services which ensure that:

(1) Tests and other evaluation materials have been validated for the specific purpose for which they are used and are administered by trained personnel in conformance with the instructions provided by their producer;

(2) Tests and other evaluation materials include those tailored to assess specific areas of educational need and not merely those which are designed to provide a single general intelligence quotient; and

(3) Tests are selected and administered so as best to ensure that, when a test is administered to a student with impaired sensory, manual, or speaking skills (except where those skills are the factors that the test purports to measure):

c. Placement procedures. In interpreting evaluation data in making placement decisions, a recipient shall — (1) Draw upon information from a variety of sources, including aptitude and achievement tests, teacher recommendations, physical conditions, social or cultural background, and adaptive behavior; (2) Establish procedures to ensure that information obtained from all such sources is documented and carefully considered;

(3) Ensure that the placement decision is made by a group of persons, including persons knowledgeable about the child, the meaning of the evaluation data, and the placement options;

(4) Ensure that the placement decision is made in conformity with 84.34.

d. Reevaluation. A recipient to which this section applies shall establish procedures, in accordance with paragraph (b) of this section for periodic reevaluation of students who have been provided special education or related services. A reevaluation procedure consistent with the Education for the Handicapped Act is one means of meeting this requirement.

84.36 Procedural safeguards

a. General

(1) A recipient to which this subpart applies shall provide nonacademic and extracurricular services and activities in such manner as is necessary to afford handicapped students an equal opportunity for participation in such services and activities.

(2) Nonacademic and extracurricular services and activities may include counseling services, physical recreational activities, transportation, health services, recreational activities, special interest groups or clubs sponsored by the recipient, referrals to agencies which provide assistance to handicapped persons, and employment of students, including both employment by the recipient and assistance in making available outside employment.

b. Counseling services. A recipient to which this subpart applies that provides personal academic or vocational counseling, guidance, or placement services to its students shall provide these services without discrimination on the basis of handicap. The recipient shall ensure that qualified handicapped students are not counseled toward more restrictive career objectives than are non handicapped students with similar interests and abilities.

c. Physical education and athletics

(1) In providing physical education courses and athletics and similar programs and activities to any of its students, a recipient to which this subpart applies may not discriminate on the basis of handicap. A recipient that offers physical education courses or that operates or sponsors interscholastic, club, or intramural athletics shall provide to qualified handicapped students an equal opportunity for participation in these activities.

(2) A recipient may offer to handicapped students physical education and athletic activities that are separate or different from those offered to nonhandicapped students only if separation of handicapped students is consistent with the requirements of 84.34 and only if no qualified handicapped student is denied the opportunity to compete for teams or to participate in courses that are not separate or different.

d. Compliance Officer

Karen Tillman has been designated to coordinate the district's efforts to comply with section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act of 1973.

84.37. Admission to Public Education

a. The Superintendent has designated Karen Tillman as the person responsible for the administration of all policies regarding the handicapped.

These responsibilities shall include:

(1) Preparation of assurance of compliance with Section 504 of the 1973 Vocational Act and any further federal/state regulations directly involving handicapped students.

(2) Development of all plans and reports required under this policy.

(3) Administration of the grievance procedure established under this policy.

(4) Operation of the outreach program of the Ruidoso Municipal Schools as outlined in section 3-A of this policy. #1568-11-(9) 10

Frank and his cousin George Coe were later branded outlaws because they had holed up in the McSween store during the three day shootout in Lincoln.

Annie Coe/Titworth was a widower nearing 60 when she bought the property in 1943. During her eight years of ownership the grounds remained much the same. She invited family and friends there to use the pool during the summer months. Later, when she was physically unable to look after the place, it was cared for by a frontiersman sort who lived on wild turkey and fish, according to Herb Sekler.

Herb Greggerson Sr., bought Carrizo Lodge in 1951. It was remodeled and opened to the public as a square dancing center in 1953.

The Greggersons had a reputation as square dance instructors that spread across North America. Out of their square dance hall in El Paso, they traveled across the continent and into the Caribbean, giving workshops. On their travels they collected antiques such as old music boxes and copper works, which found their way into the El Paso hall and later Carrizo Lodge.

Some of these antiques included a 150-year-old Swiss Music Box with chimes, bells and a reed organ, rescued from a penny arcade in Boston; an 1890 Pianella, a 1911 player piano; an 1895 calculator that had been used by an Austin, Texas, Certified Public Accountant until the mid-1930's, and an 1876 wood Hammond typewriter.

When their new facility at Carrizo Creek was converted into an arts center, this wealth of antiques made a perfect background for artists painting still lifes.

The Greggersons originally bought Carrizo Lodge in partnership with a couple from Venezuela, the Goodwins. The four had met at a square dancing workshop in Aruba, Venezuela, where the Goodwins worked for Esso oil. According to Herb Junior, it wasn't until the late 1960's that Goodwins finally visited Ruidoso and decided to sell out their interest.

"Originally my parents wanted to use this exclusively as a dance center, but as square dancing got out of the old-time style, Dad got discouraged and got out of square dancing," said Greggerson. "It also wasn't making much money. For a few years they tried a little bit of everything — a summer theatre, girls' and boys' camps, a baton twirling school, and Alcoholics Anonymous conventions — anything to draw people. The Lion's Club met there 15 years, and there was a public restaurant downstairs from about 1954-60, after which it catered exclusively to artists."

In 1955, Frederic Taubes changed all that. The famous New York artist had been conducting a workshop at Cloudercroft that summer, but found the facilities inadequate. But he liked the area, so he came to the Greggersons and asked if he could teach a workshop at Carrizo Lodge. They agreed on a one year trial basis, and the idea soon caught on.

"About 20 people came to the first class and stayed two weeks," said Greggerson. "Ruidoso was just a three-day town then — the track actually only ran two days and there was no ski run. But through Taubes' reputation it (Carrizo Lodge) grew rapidly."

David Isaacs of Morenci, Arizona, who attended this year's workshop held by Taubes' successor, Jan DeRuth, remembers being at the second workshop in 1956. "There were over 30 people there, and I was the only man in the lot. The paper (Ruidoso News) put me in for that."

News of Carrizo Lodge spread by word of mouth, and soon many other artists were giving classes there. But "Mr. T," as Taubes was called by his students, remained the central figure.

One story about those early days concerns the effects of "Mr. T's" criticisms. During his lectures, he would sometimes lambast other artists, from classic to contemporary, and one time he boasted that he could teach even a mule to paint better than one well-known artist.

Several days later, during the traditional Hot Rock Dinner, several students showed up with a mule borrowed from a local stable along with easel, canvas and palette. "Mr. T" grabbed the mule's tail and proceeded to make good on his promise, although it should be added that only the memory, and not the painting survived the incident.

Some of the artists who came during the 1960's were Emily Guthrie Smith, Ruth Tears, Carl Cozar (for 17 years), Ben Konis, and Emilio Caballero.

In 1969 the Goodwins sold their half interest in Carrizo Lodge to Herb Greggerson Jr., and his sister Hilma Collier bought half of that when she moved here in the summer of 1971.

"We've always treated the artists and students like family," said Greggerson. "The artists can do just about whatever they want in the studios as long as it's not destructive. There've been a few instructors that have let their students do their own thing, drink and get a little rowdy, but most of them are pretty serious."

Greggerson believes that an atmosphere of trust has been very important in encouraging former students to return year after year, often bringing friends. "For years we had all those antiques in the place, worth thousands, and the doors were always open. But we never did have a theft."

This sense of openness has in part derived from the Greggerson's policy of relying on word-of-mouth publicity. "A lot of people in Ruidoso barely even knew Carrizo Lodge existed until this year," said Mike Mulholland, who is serving as contractor for the proposed additions and renovations.

Greggerson said that he would like to keep some of that intimacy and "family feeling" at Carrizo Lodge. But while there is every evidence that Furman plans to build "in character," the fact remains that revitalization of Carrizo Lodge is dependent on making the place commercial enough to turn a profit. Greggerson said that he and Furman were considering the possibility of putting Carrizo Lodge on the mailing list of American Artist.

The old summer camp would certainly never be the same after that kind of publicity. But if it loses some of its rustic charm in the process of adhering to the "bottom line" — profit — perhaps that is the price of its continued health and survival.

CARRIZO LODGE from the same angle today.

DAVID ISAACS of Morenci, Arizona, has been coming to Carrizo Lodge intermittently for 25 years. He was the first and only male to register for the class taught by Frederic Taubes back in 1956 — among 33 females.

THIS 1911 PLAYER PIANO, brought by the Gregersons from the Mescalero Apache Tribe, was one of many antiques that once decorated the lodge. Most of them were put in storage after the lodge was sold to Michael Furman, who plans extensive renovations.

THREE FOR THE PRICE OF ONE. Yes, we've got three, pine covered lots located just off Highway 37 in Gavilan Canyon that are priced to sell! Paved road in front with lots of pine trees. All three lots are priced at a total of $12,500.00 with terms. A better deal for cash.

LARGE RIVER LOT. 229 feet of river frontage makes this large 1.6 acre lot something special. Has a horse barn with storage area for feed, is close in yet out of the city limits. Priced reasonably for river property.

FOR THE HORSEMAN LOOKING TO THE FUTURE. A well known realtor from this area who has now passed on used to make this quote. "There will always be more people but there will never be more land." Truer words were never spoken. We have available SOLD acres of deeded land located in the beautiful Honda Valley and priced SOLD per acre. Included in the price is a beautiful 5,300+ square foot home, barns, corrals, water rights and more. The long on the cake is the owner financing - which is negotiable. Owner would even consider some trade. We can show the land any time but would appreciate ample notice to show the home. RIGHT NOW is the time to call.

OWNER FINANCING. 10'x52' older mobile located on large, level corner lot. Mobile is partially furnished and $4,000.00 down gets you possession with owner financing on the balance.

JUST LISTED. 31 foot 5th Wheel lot SOLD large 148'x148' lot. There is a carport, storage building, nice view at $17,500.00. The property is zoned for mobiles.

Inside The Capitol

by Fred McCaffrey

SANTA FE — The Highway Department worries about a big crack in the earth across I-25 below Socorro.

Some others of us think there is more significance in the crack which has developed in the Highway Commission.

Almost every vote in that important body lately seems to have ended up 3-2, and that doesn't bode well for the future.

Now, nobody's saying everything an official organ of government does should be on a unanimous basis. That wouldn't be healthy either.

But when the same three Commissioners (from Districts 1, 2 and 5) are always on one side, with the Commissioners from Districts 3 and 4 on the other, that's a little too repetitious.

And when the split seems also to be along ethnic lines (the two Commissioners in the minority both have Spanish surnames), that's even more disturbing.

Somebody should try to be a peacemaker.

The Legislature, which has been noticeably generous to the Highway Department in recent years, is also noticeably chary of whatever it is told by those same Commissioners.

That group has grown to have almost as little credibility before the Legislative Finance Committee, to name just one such gathering, as Roger Crist and his Corrections Department are earning.

And the road agency is going to have to sing very sweetly to those who make our laws if it is going to get anything like the $47.7 million a year for the next 10 years it has been told will be needed just to keep the interstate system in repair.

Admittedly, that high estimate was made by an organization called The Road Information Program (TRIP), which is a creature of the road contractors and suppliers, and can hardly be called objective. But the problem is very real.

We only have 999.2 miles of interstate in the state (out of 3,433 miles of state-operated highway), but the interstate gets 20 percent of the traffic.

What's more, the kind it gets — those speeding 18-wheelers, for example — is the kind that pounds roads into nothingness.

This year we're spending only $15.3 million on maintaining our portion of the interstate system.

That money is a 75 percent-25 percent mix, with the feds providing the big slice.

TRIP says the federal government, which provides most of the money to build the interstate system, is also going to have to bite the bullet and continue to supply the money to maintain it.

How that idea will sell to the Reagan administration is hard to say — though the rationale for building the complex system in the first place was that it could be used for defense.

Maybe they can get Caspar Weinberger's department to take it over; DOD, despite some threats of cutting from Mr. Stockman, has done better getting dough in present-day Washington than any other agency.

Besides our interstate problems, New Mexico also has 789 more lane-miles of non-interstate and 542 bridges which badly need repairs, the way TRIP estimates it.

And — just to be sure to estimate on a gloomy note — for the last two years, the trust from which the federal government supplies highway money has been over-spent. Federal gasoline-tax revenues decline as cars get better mileage.

You see why the Commissioners better start getting along with the Legislature — and with one another?

Letters to the Editor

Dear editor:

Is there anything that can be done to repair the road to the Alto Post Office? There have been several deep holes in the road for months. Two deep holes are on a turn and makes driving to the post office very dangerous.

Is it up to Alto Village to keep up this road? If so, there are many roads in Alto Village in deplorable condition; particularly the one that continues on east past the post office.

REAL SLOW LEARNERS

Roswell workers seem slow to learn. They ran off a good home-town industry last year (Glover Packing), and are now on strike against the Greyhound bus manufacturing arm. Greyhound, part of a big conglomerate, has much greater resources than the late Homer Glover and his successors could ever pony up, but that doesn't mean the corporate management will countenance a losing operation indefinitely.

In fact, with the "profit center" theory so well entrenched in upper echelon thinking today, big companies are more likely to dump losing or low-earnings operations than they are to carry them along out of blind hope or even a sense of public responsibility.

That is a lesson that small towns need to learn. When they have the good fortune to land a good industry, they should nurture and take care of it and help it to grow.

It is a mistake for employees of industries of small towns to expect total parity with workers in other parts of the country, where, in most cases, unit (economy of scale) and transportation costs are lower than in rural settings. In most instances, the reason big companies disperse their manufacturing to less populous areas is in the hope of lowering labor costs.

This doesn't mean that workers have to take upon wages to help local industry, but in almost all cases the jobs that the new company brings are more plentiful and better paying than what was available before they came. That is the real standard for comparison. — Hop Graham, The Lovington Daily Leader

LATEST FROM CUBA

Word that Soviet arms are pouring into Cuba at rates unequalled since the 1962 Cuban missile crisis bodes ill indeed for a Caribbean-Central America region already dangerously unstable.

Predictably, significant portions of this weaponry are being passed on by the Cubans to Nicaragua and to the Marxist guerrillas in El Salvador. And it's a virtual certainty that clandestine arms shipments will also find their way to Cuban-backed guerrillas in Guatemala as well.

Secretary of State Alexander Haig, who reported all of this to the Senate Armed Services Committee, warned once again that the United States may be forced to "go to the source" of these arms to protect Central America from outsider intervention and subversion.

Fidel Castro at least ought to take these warnings seriously.

The Reagan administration is properly committed to preventing the kind of subversion that could transform Central America into a string of Soviet-Cuban satellites.

The economic and military assistance the administration is offering to the most threatened Central American states won't be enough if Cuba and The Soviet Union insist on flooding the region with arms for those supporting the Marxist cause.

The Soviets and their Cuban surrogates will decide how serious the East-West confrontation over Central America will be. And the latest news from Cuba is hardly reassuring. — News-Bulletin, Belem High energy bills got you up in the air?

Level out utility payments with the Average Billing Plan.

If seasonal changes in your electric bills are making budgeting difficult, the Average Billing Plan can help you. The Average Billing Plan gives you about the same amount to pay each month, eliminating the highs and lows of the billing cycle. At the end of the year, you'll find your total amount paid for electricity is the same as if you were on the regular billing plan.

Here's how it works:

FIRST MONTH		*15% of accumulated difference is added when prior to the current bill, the calculated amount for electricity used is more than the accumulated amount billed under the Average Billing Plan.
MOST RECENT 12 MONTHS ACTUAL USE	AVERAGE BILLING AMOUNT
$12 \text{ MONTHS} \div 12 = \text{BILLING AMOUNT}$
EACH MONTH THEREAFTER
MOST RECENT 12 MONTHS ACTUAL USE	15% OF AVERAGE BILLING AMOUNT
$12 \text{ MONTHS} \div 12 + \text{ACCUMULATED DIFFERENCE} = \text{BILLING AMOUNT}$

NOTE: If you have less than 12 months history at your present address, the "average" will be based on the number of months available.

FINAL RACE BOO-BOO

It was a tremendous meeting at Ruidoso Downs ... all sorts of records were broken and set this year ... the handle was an amazing record setter, proving that money isn't as tight for those at the wagering windows, as for those wanting to buy/build homes ... and the horses set all kinds of time records.

Ah, yes ... everything went along like clockwork ... until the final race of the year ... the race that made quarter horse history, as Special Effort became the first two-year-old to claim the Triple Crown ... by winning the Kansas Futurity, Rainbow Futurity and All-American Futurity.

Not that the people were kept in the dark about this race ... but it was run in dwindling twilight, bordering on darkness ... as Special Effort crossed the finish line of that 440 yard dash about 6:58 p.m. ... give or take a minute or three.

Now ... that's ridiculous ... having a world's record race run into gathering darkness ... why, as the horses broke from the gate the fans couldn't tell if it was horses, mules or zebras splashing their way through the sea of mud that was the track.

Why it was so dark ... if n spectators had been watching the race by the color of the jockey's silks, they'd been lost causes ... even without those silks being mud splattered.

What really made the late hour ridiculous was the fact that the All-American Futurity has been built up as "The World's Richest Horse Race" ... which it must be ... and if n one or two of those ponies had slipped ... and fallen ... it'd have taken until after the noses had been counted at the end of the race to know which fell.

THAT PRISON REPORT

'Twas my intention ... Tuesday, at the time to cease my labors for the day ... to enjoy quaffing an ice tea in the relative peace and quiet that always prevails about that hour on the day after Labor Day ... due to the fact that many of our Texas guests and other visitors are homework bound.

I'd barely been served when who should meander into the ice tea parlor but Shakey Pete ... and, figuring Shakey'd have some opinions upon which to opine ... considering the season was over ... I did't beckon him with one hand ... whilst letting it be known that Shakey appeared as though he'd appreciate quaffing an ice tea ... being's the ice tea parlor was all peaceful like.

"Say," Shakey began as he eased into a chair ... and even before he'd been served ... which is mighty unusual ... 'cause he does like to have his tonsils caressed by a refreshing sip of ice tea before speaking ... "didja read those stories that buncha reporters wrote about the state pen?"

Definitely feeling like I was between the rock and a hard place ... I sorta nodded ... sorta noncommittally ... hoping that Shakey'd take the hint ... and shut up ... but 'twas to no avail.

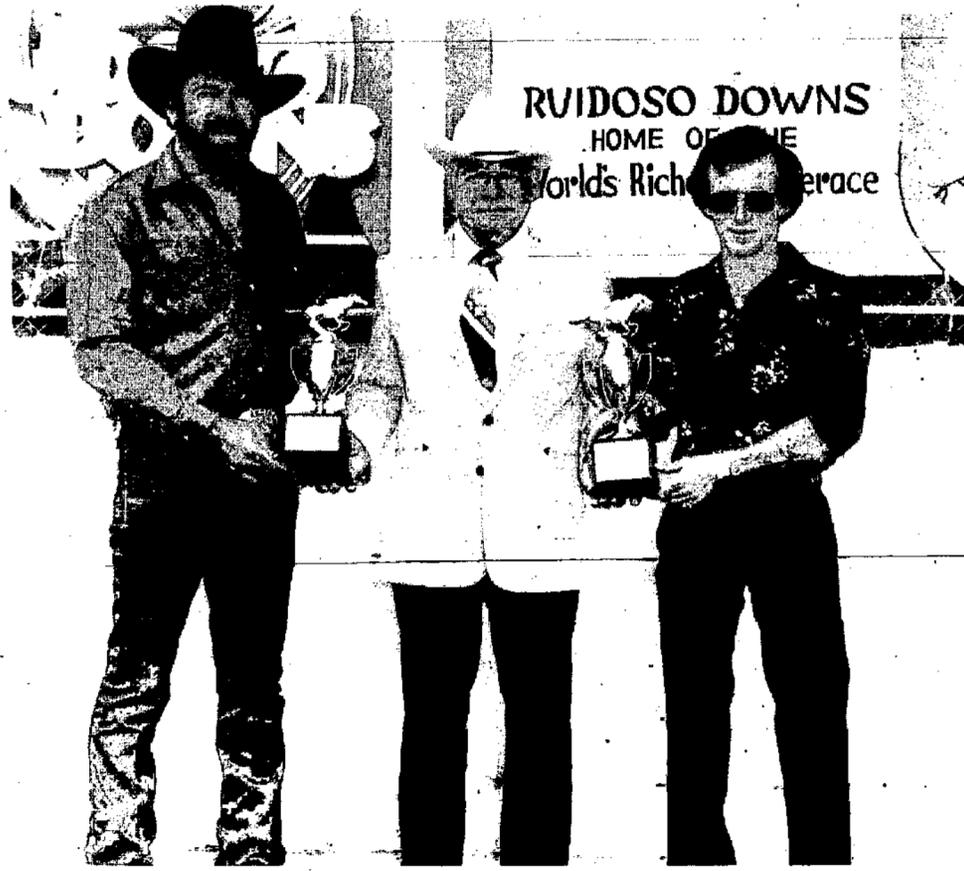

"You know," he kinda mouthed the words around his first slurp, "I'll bet that Governor King is squirming around a bit about all those tales of graft, and drugs, and torture and cruelty in the pen as those fellows done dug up.

"What with him always tellin' us that thing's is jake in the pen ... but it do appear as though all the Jakes is doing pretty well for themselves ... though I don't think somma the Johns are.

"Going to be interesting, though, seem' how King and the guys running the pen try to weasel out of bein' responsible ... if n they can do it." He stood up. "Gotta go. The wife's having brains for supper ... sure wish I could send some up to Bruce."

BRIEF BIT: If you want beer/wine with your meals here go vote September 22 ... if you don't, go vote September 22 ... CD.

ART, DINING AND ENTERTAINMENT GUIDE

CHAMPS OF THE 1981 SEASON — Johnie Goodman (left) won the trainer title during the 1981 season at Ruidoso Downs, and Jacky Martin copped the jockey crown. Goodman launched 41 winners. Martin got home first on 71 occasions. The trophies to each were presented by general manager Finlay MacGillivray.

Special Effort named meet's top quarter horse

Special Effort, who quickly dominated conversations and the entire summer meeting, captured Quarter Horse-Of-The-Meet laurels for his spectacular and unprecedented achievements.

Banquero, one of the Southwest's most consistent campaigners, garnered Thoroughbred-Of-The-Meet laurels.

But it was Special Effort who dominated his competitors as has never been done before. He was clearly the most overpowering runner at Ruidoso Downs.

The Ranse Your Glass colt became the first two-year-old ever to win the quarter horse racing Triple Crown—the Kansas, Rainbow and All-American Futurities. He won eight races this summer at Ruidoso Downs.

With a $528,000 winner's share from the All-American, he boosted his income to $1,028,723 to become quarter horse racing's all-time top money earner.

He also was the first horse to ever set the top qualifying times for all three Triple Crown races.

Owned by Dan and Jolene Urschel of Canadian, Texas, he's leased to their daughter and son-in-law, Dana and Timothy Gudry of Canadian, Texas. Special Effort is trained by Johnie Goodman and was ridden by W. R. Hunt.

Banquero, meanwhile, won four races at Ruidoso Downs, including the $38,515 Ruidoso Mile. He also captured the Mr. Tattoo Handicap and the Rio Grande Stakes.

The four-year-old Scout Leader gelding placed third in the Ruidoso Sprint Championship. He's owned by Margaret Miller of El Paso, Texas and trained by Marge Renfro. His regular rider was Willie Lovell.

Banquero won four races with two seconds and one third in nine appearances this season. He earned $38,224.

Here's a rundown on the other champs of the 1981 season:

QUARTER HORSES
Horse-Of-The-Meet — Special Effort.
Best two-year-old colt or gelding — Special Effort.
Best two-year-old filly — Classy Native, owned by L. V. Bell of Wichita, Kansas, and trained by Paul L. Walters. Ran third in the All-American Futurity and won $99,600.

Best three-year-old colt or gelding — Higheasterjet, owned by G. D. Highsmith of La Grange, Texas, and trained by Johnie Goodman. Won the Rainbow Derby and The All-American Derby. He became quarter horse racing's first millionaire by capturing the $350,000 first-place All-American Derby prize. Has collected $1,009,382.

Best three-year-old filly — Queen For Cash, owned by Anne and B. F. Phillips of Frisco, Texas, and trained by Charles W. Casco. She ran second, just a nose behind Higheasterjet in the $1 million All-American Derby.

Best older quarter horse — Native Gambler, owned by Gary Benton, of Lubbock, Texas, and trained by Johnie Goodman. Won the inaugural running of the Rainbow Silver Cup and the Three Bars Handicap. He was also named Best Handicap Horse.

Best New-Mexico-bred horse — Rule The Deck, owned by Dirk Jones of Lubbock, Texas, and trained by R. D. Hay. This three-year-old filly ran a close third in the All-American Derby.

Best 870 yard horse — Special Hank, owned by Lowell F. Hankins of Rocksprings, Texas, and trained by George H. Cosper Jr. Won the Brigand Handicap and the Flying Charm Stakes.

Most improved horse — Dr. Depot, owned by Barbara A. Smith of Lewisville, Texas, and trained by C. Dwayne Gubrecht. Ran a close second to Higheasterjet in the Rainbow Derby.

THOROUGHBREDS
Horse-Of-The-Meet — Banquero.

Best sprinter — Ruffast, owned by Jay C. Childers of Barter, Texas, and trained by J. Doyal Roberts. Won the Billy The Kid Handicap, the Governors Handicap and the Barlark Stakes. Set two seasonal fastest times.

Best router — Banquero.
Best handicap horse — Ruffast.
Best two-year-old colt or gelding —

Western Series, owned by J. D. Alkin of Versailles, Kentucky, and trained by Carl Wooten. Ran second in the $112,010 Ruidoso Thoroughbred Futurity. Won two other races at Ruidoso Downs.

Best two-year-old filly — Shesgotobeadandy, owned by Virgil Callaway of Hobbs, and Michael C. Stinson of Fort Worth, Texas. She captured the Ruidoso Thoroughbred Futurity and was third in the Rio Grande Futurity.

Best two-year-old colt or gelding — Round Table Top, owned and trained by Herbert Turner of Winston Salem, North Carolina. He won the $22,569 Ruidoso Thoroughbred Derby defeating such standouts as Glover D., Fill Mackis Cup and Draconic's Lady.

Best three-year-old filly — Dark Castle, owned by Alamo Ranches of Seguin, Texas, and trained by Tony Fenack Jr. Won three races this season.

Best claimer — Big Bidder, owned by Roger K. Beasley of Austin, Texas, and trained by William F. Leach. Won five of eight races this season from prices ranging from $5,000 to $8,500. Also had one second and one third.

Track's purse distribution $8,396,388

Total purse distribution for the 70 day 1981 season at Ruidoso Downs amounted to a record $8,396,388, according to general manager Finlay MacGillivray.

This broke the previous record by over $1 million.

The current figure consists of $3,200,420 put up by the track, and $4,195,968 generated from nominating the sustaining fees, and interest.

Last season's 66 day meeting produced a gross purse distribution of $7,342,122 — a Ruidoso record at that time. The figure consisted of $4,805,422 from nominating and sustaining fees, etc., and $2,536,700 handed out by the track.

Here are recent gross purse distributions:

1978	$5,347,585
1977	$5,688,515
1976	$4,935,323
1975	$4,597,431
1974	$4,326,356
1973	$3,523,770
1972	$3,237,154

Track handle sets records

New mutual records were established as the 1981 season at Ruidoso Downs wound up as the most successful in the track's 34 year history.

The total handle for the 70 day season reached $40,080,694, which produced a daily average of $572,561.

The previous marks were set last year, when a 66 day campaign finished up at $33,740,389 for a daily average of $511,339.

The current gross figure is an increase of 18.76 percent; the daily average is up 11.98 percent.

During the 1981 season, 906 races were run. Average wagering per race was $44,288. Last year, the per race average (from 837 races) was $40,321. The current per race average is a gain of 9.84 percent.

Total attendance for the 1981 season was 334,516, a daily average of 4,779. Last year, the turnout count was 327,435, an average of 4,961. The current daily average is down 3.7 percent.

During the five day Labor Day weekend, the total handle reached $4,956,371, an average of $811,274. The closing day handle of $1,170,954 was the best in Ruidoso history.

It was also the eighth time the Ruidoso Handle had topped the $1 million mark.

IT'S A CARRY-ON BAG...ISN'T IT NEAT?

IT'S BEAUTIFUL...ARE YOU GOING SOMEWHERE?

NO, I HATE GOING PLACES

I JUST LIKE LUGGAGE

THIS IS MY REPORT ON EMERALDS...CLEOPATRA OWNED LOTS OF EMERALDS BECAUSE SHE HAD HER OWN EMERALD MINE...

EMERALDS, UNLIKE OTHER STONES, APPEAR THE SAME COLOR IN ARTIFICIAL LIGHT AS IN SUNLIGHT...

AND THAT'S ALL I KNOW ABOUT EMERALDS

WHAT I COULD TELL YOU ABOUT CLEOPATRA, HOWEVER, WOULD MAKE YOUR HEAD SPIN!

YESTERDAY WE TALKED ABOUT EMERALDS...

TODAY MY REPORT IS ON THE MOONSTONE... THIS IS A MYSTERIOUS GEM SURROUNDED BY MANY INTRIGUING LEGENDS...

IT HAS BEEN SAID THAT THE MOONSTONE CAN BANISH FEARS

FRANKLY, HOWEVER, I WOULDN'T COUNT ON IT IF YOU'RE ABOUT TO GET MUGGED

MOONSTONES COME FROM CEYLON

THEY ARE CUT IN THE SHAPE OF A DOME TO ACCENT THE PLAY OF LIGHT

THEY SAY THIS MAKES THE MOONSTONE LOOK LIKE A RAINDROP SEEN THROUGH THE MIST AT EARLY DAWN

I WOULDN'T KNOW BECAUSE I NEVER GET UP THAT EARLY...

THIS CONCLUDES MY REPORT ON GEMS AND JEWELRY... ARE THERE ANY QUESTIONS?

YES, YOU IN THE BACK ROW...YOUR QUESTION PLEASE

NO, YOU SHOULD NOT WEAR YOUR JEWELRY IF YOU ARE GOING TO SLIDE INTO SECOND BASE

SEEING THE STUPID TREND THAT THESE QUESTIONS ARE ABOUT TO TAKE, I WILL NOW SIT DOWN!

DON'T YOU EVER DO ANYTHING TO MAKE HIS DINNER LOOK NICE?

ART, DINING AND ENTERTAINMENT GUIDE

All major records broken in 1981 All-American Sale

All major records were broken during the 20th Annual All-American Quarter Horse Yearling Sale.

Heading up the list of records was the $400,000 paid for the colt, Easy Prince.

Earlier in the fourth and final session, $300,000 was handed over for the colt, Crimson Straw.

Going into the 1981 All-American Sale, the all-time record was the $277,000 paid last year for the filly Sparkalark.

In the concluding session, 121 head were sold for total sales of $3,042,100. The average price in Thursday's session was $25,141.

That was the highest average price in any single session in All-American sale history.

Total receipts for the sale amounted to $13,548,950, eclipsing the previous all-time high of $11,025,300, set last year. The current average price of $14,989 was another record. The previous mark, set in 1980, was $14,889 from 742 head.

A total of 964 head was catalogued for the 1981 Sale, and 905 eventually passed under the gavel. Those figures of 964 and 905 were also new records. The previous marks were set last year, when a catalogue of 800 head produced 742 sales.

From the standpoint of gross receipts, the 1981 Sale reflected a gain of 22.86 percent. A total of 52 head brought $50,000 or more. Of these, a dozen traded hands for $100,000 or more; three brought in excess of $100,000.

Here's the way the sales piled up: in the first session, 265 head brought $3,412,600; in the second session, 259 head accounted for $3,391,900; in the third session, 260 yearlings lifted the bidding to $3,711,350; in the fourth stanza, the sales reached $3,042,100 from 12 head.

That all-time high price of $400,000 for Easy Prince was paid by Patricia Beck of Burnett, Texas. Easy Prince is by Easy Jet, the All-American Futurity winner (1969) and two-time world champion. Easy Prince is out of the mare, Go Galla's Lady, who made $19,814 in her running career. Go Galla's Lady is by Truxton King.

Easy Prince was consigned by Classic Acres of Ocala, Florida.

The second high bid of $300,000 was submitted by Anne and B. F. Phillips of Frisco, Texas, for the colt, Crimson Straw.

Crimson Straw is by the thoroughbred stallion, Mr. Crimson Ruler. The latter is a son of the great thoroughbred Triple Crown winner, Secretariat. The dam of Crimson Straw is the stakes winner, Fly Straw.

Crimson Straw was consigned by Lewis J. Moorman and Dan Miller II of San Antonio, Texas.

The third high bid of $210,000 went for Cash Balance, a filly by Dash For Cash out of Balumba. The filly was purchased by the partnership of Hall and Liston of Corona, California.

Sale manager Robert Lewis reported the All-American Sale next year will be expanded to five sessions, starting on Sunday night, August 28, and extending through Thursday, September 2.

Jockey/Trainer of the week

Ruidoso Downs Race Track has long been known as the Yankee Stadium of quarter horse racing.

That's why it's really no surprise that two of quarter horse racing's finest jockeys and trainers took seasonal honors during the 1981 Ruidoso Downs race meet.

Jacky Martin was an easy winner in the jockey standings while Johnnie Goodman took trainer honors. Both titles were the first Ruidoso Downs championships for each recipient.

Martin, who became the first rider to win a championship strictly piloting quarter horses, tallied 70 victories from his 191 mounts. He also had 58 seconds and 37 thirds. His winning percentage was a superb .240.

Joe Martinez, one of the area's top thoroughbred riders, took runner-up honors with 40 victories with 32 seconds and 32 thirds from 239 mounts. He had a .216 winning percentage.

Other top ten jockeys included W. R. Hunt, Richard Bickel, Leroy Coombs, Willie Lovell, Stuart Dolphus, apprentice Kenny Roller, Pedro Benitez and Wayne Buehrer.

In the trainer standings, Goodman pulled away from season-long leader William F. Leach in the season's final weeks.

Goodman, a master at training horses for the major quarter horse events, continued his amazing streak with triumphs in Ruidoso Downs' two major races, the $1 million All-American Derby and the $1,530,000 All-American Futurity.

Overall, he compiled 41 victories with 8 seconds and 13 thirds from 132 starts. His winning percentage was a remarkable .310.

Leach took second with 33 wins, 28 seconds and 15 thirds from 191 starts. His winning percentage was .182.

Other top ten trainers included Bob Arnett, Clifford Lambert, Jack Brooks, J. Doyal Roberts, Harold E. Nolen, Gerald Marr, C. Dwayne Gilbreath and Marilyn Asmussen.

PERHAPS THESE TWO youngsters were imagining they were Dan'l Boone.

Muggers being sought

Each summer thousands of tourists annually trek to Santa Fe, delighting in the quaint ambience of the state's capitol city.

Ronald Kass, 34, was one of them. But on a typically cool northern New Mexico night in late July, Kass' vacation turned into a nightmare.

Apparently one or more persons, probably intent on robbing the New York city graphics salesman, attacked him in a downtown parking lot and beat him into unconsciousness.

Today, Kass is lucky to be alive. Police say he has little memory of the incident.

This week the State Crime Stoppers Commission is offering a $1,000 reward for information leading to the arrests and indictments of the persons responsible for the brutal beating. Santa Fe Crime Stoppers also has offered a reward of up to $1,000 for information leading to the solution of the crime.

Detectives say Kass had been travelling cross-country with three young Germans at the time of the incident. They had arrived in Santa Fe on July 28.

They spent the next day sightseeing and that night went to a nightclub on West San Francisco Street. Detectives say that at about 12:15 a.m., Kass left by himself to check on some valuables he had left in the Germans' car.

He was carrying a camera over his shoulder and had about $300 in traveler's checks and cash in his wallet.

Kass was somewhere in the vicinity of Don Gaspar and Water Streets when he was attacked, detectives say. He was severely beaten with a blunt instrument on the head, arms and legs. The offenders escaped with Kass' camera, leaving the cash and traveler's checks behind.

A passerby found the bleeding and unconscious Kass near the Santa Fe bus depot and called police. The tourist was rushed to a local hospital where he lingered in critical condition for more than a week before doctors operated to remove blood that had accumulated around his brain.

Detectives say they have been stymied in their investigation because of the victim's limited memory of the incident. No witnesses have been found.

If anyone has any information about this case, they are asked to call the State Crime Stoppers Commission at its toll-free number, 1-800-432-6933, or Santa Fe Crime Stoppers at 988-6555. Callers do not have to reveal their identities.

Meanwhile, several other Crime Stoppers programs around New Mexico are trying to solve some violent crimes this week.

Uranium Country Crime Stoppers, at 287-8400, is offering a $250 reward for information leading to the solution of a violent beating which critically injured Sidney Gottlieb in the San Fidel area of Cibola County. Gottlieb was rushed to an Albuquerque hospital with severe head and chest injuries after his attackers dumped him off about one mile north of Villa de Cubero.

And Las Vegas Crime Stoppers is offering a substantial reward for information leading to the solution of the shooting death of Ramon Gallegos, 34, near Storrie Lake in late August. A woman with Gallegos was raped by the unknown assailant. Anyone with information is asked to call 425-8864.

And two fatal hit-and-run accidents are being highlighted this week.

Espanola Crime Stoppers is offering a reward of up to $500 for information leading to the solution of a hit and run in which Jose Roybal of Dixon was killed. Roybal was walking northbound on State Road 68 in the late evening of May 3 when he was struck by an unknown vehicle. Investigators say the vehicle might have been an older model metallic blue Chevrolet truck. Anyone with information can call Espanola Crime Stoppers at 753-6664.

A $1,000 reward is being offered by Dona Ana County Crime Stoppers for information leading to the solution of a hit and run involving a 62-year-old man. The victim was killed when he was struck by a car at the corner of Mesquite and Organ streets in Las Cruces at about 8:30 p.m., October 6, 1979. Witnesses say a 1968 blue Mercury Cougar or 1972 blue Chevy Camaro with oversized back tires and a spoiler on the trunk lid was the offending vehicle. Anyone with information can call 528-8000.

The State Crime Stoppers Commission and the 32 local Crime Stoppers programs in New Mexico pay cash rewards for information leading to the arrests and indictments of any major crime offenders and the capture of wanted persons.

In all cases, callers do not have to reveal their identities.

Rabbits are excellent backyard meat producers

It doesn't take acres of pasture to raise meat for the family.

"Rabbits may be the answer," said Jim Knight, Extension wildlife specialist at New Mexico State University. Three does and a buck rabbit can meet the yearly protein needs of a family of four, and rabbits can be easily raised and tended in backyard cages," he said.

Each doe should produce four to five litters a year, averaging eight bunnies a litter.

"That's more than 100 marketable animals each year," Knight said.

Knight calls rabbits protein factories because the newborn bunnies reach market weight in only eight weeks, and are capable of providing more meat per pound of food eaten than any other domestic animal.

For example, only rabbits, sheep and cattle are able to convert protein rich, but hard to digest alfalfa into meat for human consumption. The rabbit is the most efficient converter — he can generate more than twice as much meat as sheep and four times as much as cattle from equivalent amounts of alfalfa.

Cattle, sheep, swine and poultry are also more competitive with humans for cereal grains than rabbits. Rabbits can live easily on weeds and grass.

Prepared rabbit tastes like chicken and is excellent for heart patients because it is high in protein and low in fat, cholesterol and sodium. Rabbit is already an important food source in China and many European nations.

Raising rabbits for human food production is being considered by many developing countries today because they lack space and other resources to support extensive cattle production.

Knight said there is a fledgling rabbit producing industry in this country that supplies markets in San Francisco, New York, Boston and other major cities that have large ethnic populations.

However, commercial rabbit producers say demand for their product always exceeds supply. The biggest drawbacks to expansion of the rabbit meat industry are disease control and commercial feed costs.

Research by the United States Department of Agriculture, carried out in cooperation with many universities and independent rabbit producers, is aimed at finding solutions to these problems.

RESURFACING OF SKI RUN ROAD. from Highway 37 to Sierra Blanca Ski Resort is on schedule, and is expected to be completed in two weeks, if weather conditions are favorable.

Ski Run Road being resurfaced

Despite rainy weather, the resurfacing of State Road 532 (Ski Run Road) is well underway, with five miles of asphalt surface having been laid along Eagle Creek between Highway 37 and Oak Grove Campground.

Armstrong Construction in Roswell, said that with good weather, it should take another two weeks to reach the Sierra Blanca Ski Area.

In the interim, the road will be closed to public access above points on which the crew is working.

Armstrong noted that this marks the first time the road has received a two inch resurfacing. He said the new surface should last 10 years or more, while previous repairs — which involved only a sealing process — seldom lasted a year.

Scouts asking donations of wild game meat

Members of Boy Scout Troop 59 are requesting that successful hunters share a part of their game with them, as the main attraction for the annual Big Game Feed, sponsored annually to raise funds for the troop's operations.

Any kind of wild game, "from furred to feathered," will be welcomed by the Scouts, a troop spokesman said. "We are looking for bear, deer, elk, antelope, turkey, goose, duck or upland game — if you hunt it, and you'll share some with us, we want it."

Donations of wild game may be left at Horseshoe Cabins, 632 Sudderth; with Jim Dickinson, 330 Walnut Drive or, after 4 p.m., weekdays and after 12 noon Saturdays and Sundays, at the Ruidoso Elks Lodge, Highway 70 West.

This annual feed, to benefit the troop, is normally held in January, though the date for the next dinner has not been set.

The Elks, troop sponsors, prepare the repast, with an assist from the Scouts.

"If all you hunters will help our Scouts," said Elks' Exalted Ruler Grady Hobbs, "their Big Game Feed will be a guaranteed success. No matter what the game is, if you shoot it; kill it with a bow and arrow, or down it with a muzzleloader, we'll be happy to accept any and all meat you will give for this worthy cause."

Ruidoso Elks Lodge 2086 will host the official visitation of Wandel Massey, Clovis, first vice president of the New Mexico Elks Association, Thursday evening.

A social hour is scheduled for 6 p.m., followed by dinner at 7 and the regular meeting at 8.

Massey, who is a past District Deputy, is making this visitation in his new capacity.

"All Elks," Exalted Ruler Grady Hobbs said, "are urged to attend Thursday evening, to hear our first vice president's message."

Fort Stanton dedicates pool, gym

Staff Writer/Photographer

Friday was a happy day at Fort Stanton Hospital and Training School as the new gymnasium and swimming pool complex was officially dedicated.

The building, built at a cost of $446,000, contains a combination basketball gym and multipurpose room and a specially designed indoor pool.

In remarks to students, staff and visitors, Fort Stanton administrator Mark Delgado recalled the four years of effort to secure funding for the project after it was conceived in 1976. "Our persistence, patience, and the assistance of many individuals made this day and dream a reality," he said.

The gymnasium features dressing rooms with supervisors' offices, and a full size basketball court with bleacher seating and electric scoreboard. Delgado noted that the gym will also be used for volleyball, dances, movies, parties, and other gatherings.

Fort Stanton will soon offer its students a complete swimming program, said Delgado. "Before now," he added, "students had to go by bus to Roswell or Alamogordo to swim."

Physical education instructor Jeanne Culbertson will direct the aquatics program. When the pool is ready for use (after a state inspection), Culbertson will instruct staff members in basic and ad-

Arabian Horse Show set

"Three days of fun" are promised for exhibitors and spectators at the second annual Class "A" Ruidoso Arabian Horse Show, September 18, 19 and 20, Ruidoso Arabian Horse Association president Ronda Burton said last week.

Entries "from all over" — Wyoming, California, Colorado, Texas, Arizona and New Mexico, are expected to "flood" to the three-day event, which starts at 8 a.m., September 18, at Western Highlands, Ruidoso Downs, Burton said.

Showing and judging will begin Friday morning with Purebred Halter Class, followed by combined Purebred and Hal-Arabian English and Western Pleasure Class; Pleasure Driving Open and A Bareback on Dollar.

Saturday morning's first event will be Half Arabian Halter Class, followed by Purebred and Half Arabian Trial; Stock Seat Equitation for 13 and under and Purebred Native Costume.

Saturday afternoon's schedule includes combined classes of Purebred Arabian and Half Arabian English and Western Pleasure; Purebred and Half Arabian Saddle Seat and Stock Seat Equitation; Half Arabian Pleasure Driving Open; Purebred, Informal Combination and Show

Dogs.

Sunday, the final day of the show, activities will begin at 8 a.m., with International Arabian Horse Association (IAHA) Saddle Seat Medal Class; followed by Half Arabian Native Costume Open; IAHA Stock Seat Medal Class; Half Arabian Western and English Pleasure; Purebred Ladies Sidesaddle; Half Arabian Informal Combination, Purebred and Half Arabian Park Horse and Purebred and Half Arabian Stock Horse Open.

The Snaffle Bit Futurity starts at 1 p.m., Sunday, and the show winds up with classes of Purebred Native Costume, Purebred Western and English Pleasure, Ladies; Purebred Western and English, Gentlemen; Purebred and Half Arabian English and Western Pleasure Champion AOTB; Purebred Park Horse Champion and Purebred Native Costume Champion.

Renowned trainer-judge Bob Hart Sr., of Scottsdale, Arizona, will judge the events, Burton said.

She said a concession stand, located in the arena, will be available to the public, and programs with detailed explanations of the show, will be on sale.

Burton said the Arabian horse is prized for its beauty, endurance and versatility.

RUIDOSO ROTARY SPONSORING VISITATION

Exchange students due

About 65 to 70 people, New Mexico exchange students who spent last year abroad, incoming foreign students who will spend this year in New Mexico and families who will sponsor the visiting students, will be arriving Friday in Ruidoso for a three day visit, John Howden, chairman of the Ruidoso Rotary Youth Exchange Program, said Thursday.

Sponsored by the Ruidoso Rotary Club and District 592 Rotarians (which includes all of New Mexico), the get-together will be a reunion of sorts for the New Mexico youths, Howden said, and an orientation for the incoming students. He hopes it will be much more.

He said Ruidoso Rotarians hope to make the weekend in Ruidoso "a super, super time" for the worldwide visitors — one they will remember as one of the highlights of their stay.

A spaghetti supper at the Presbyterian Church, where some of the students will be housed, is planned for Friday night.

Other plans include a skating party on Saturday morning and a costume party at the church Saturday evening.

Sunday morning, the students will meet at the church for breakfast together before departing to get acquainted with the New Mexico families and communities where they will reside this coming year.

Howden said his interest stems from his daughter Jean's participation in the exchange program. Jean, 17, a senior at Ruidoso High School, spent last year in Marktredwitz and Wunsiedel, West Germany, as an exchange student.

Airport

in MD drive

The Sierra Blanca Airport Commission (SBAC) will meet Thursday, at 2 p.m., in the Ruidoso Public Library.

The main agenda item, SBAC chairman Fred Heckman said, will be "reviewing the outline of an airport study prepared by Senator Jack Schmitt."

"Efforts to locate a jet capable airport on Fort Stanton mesa are continuing, and Senator Schmitt's study is just another step in that direction."

Ruidoso's Jaycees, during 1981, raised more than $5,000 for Muscular Dystrophy, vice president Gary James said Friday.

This year's efforts, by the Jaycees to raise funds for MD, included the Skate-A-Thon this spring, the golf tournament at Cree Meadows, the Labor Day booths and the canisters. James said.

"We especially thank Weldon Rasco for donating lumber and Herb Brunell for letting us set up our booths on his parking lot over the Labor Day weekend," James said. "Their support of this Jaycees' project made it possible for us to raise over $300."

The Jaycees' next project, James said, will be operating a food booth during the Arabian Horse Show this weekend. "All proceeds from this project will be used for youth activities."

Federal funding cuts discussed in Roswell

About 300 people attended a public hearing to discuss proposed cuts in federal funds at the Roswell Inn Friday.

The hearing, one of a series that New Mexico officials have been holding in the state's seven planning districts, followed the 24th annual conference of the New Mexico Municipal League, which concluded in Roswell Friday morning.

The State Department of Finance and Administration (DFA) and the Southeastern New Mexico Economic Development District (SNMEDD) sponsored the hearing. Officials and citizens of the five counties represented by SNMEDD — Lincoln, Otero, Chaves, Eddy and Lea — participated in an exchange of ideas on the implications for these counties of President Reagan's proposed cutbacks in categorical and block grants.

Officials of the DFA are providing input to the Governor's Task Force on Federal Budget Cuts, said Kathleen Marr, DFA secretary. She warned that New Mexico stands to lose up to $200 million a year in federal funds, and asked for advice from local officials on how the state might best prepare for those cuts.

Most of the speakers seemed to agree that New Mexico would be affected less adversely than states outside the "sun belt." But they also indicated that the cuts would cause some major shifts in priorities — with the result that communities, of necessity, would become more self-reliant, and service organizations would have to turn more to volunteer help.

"We feel obligated to hold these hearings even though we don't know what the final appropriations will be," said David Bloom, Deputy Secretary of DFA.

"New Mexico has the advantage of being in the right place at the right time," he said. "We're growing rapidly, and we just passed the biggest tax cut in the state's history. So that to the extent that the nation does well, we'll do a little better. But the cuts will probably be deeper than printed, and will wipe out any surplus that the states may have been able to accumulate."

Al Romero, also of DFA, said that municipalities would not be affected much except in the area of waste water treatment — where a capacity ceiling has been set based on the 1980 population.

But the counties were much more dependent on federal aid, Romero said. He noted that the percentage of federal aid in the budgets of three counties — Chaves, Eddy and Otero — were 65, 62 and 63 percent, respectively. By contrast, the figure for Lincoln County was only 39 percent while Lea County, through its oil revenues, was able to hold federal funding to only 28 percent of its budget.

When questioned by Chaves County Manager Curtis Wolf about where replacement funds would come from, Romero was not encouraging. He said that "counties will have to do the best with what they have" and then noted that "probably only Lea and San Juan could survive a total cutoff from federal funding."

This might also include Lincoln County, according to one unidentified spokesman. "We are not in such a desperate situation because we never became totally dependent on federal aid to begin with," he said.

Art Sandoval, with the New Mexico Association of Counties since 1976, asked: "How did we get in this horrible situation?" His answer was that counties entered a fiscal bind through mandated services, in which the county is unable to charge the user a fee. Sandoval suggested that one solution would be a wider application of gross receipts taxes.

Nick Pappas, executive director of SNMEDD, which serves some 219,000 people, called for the formation of several ad hoc organizations, including:

- "Geographically balanced" priority committees to send the state government information on which programs could be discontinued with the least disruption;
- Regional clearing houses to be kept informed of pending block grant cuts in order to pass that information on to the local level.

"Our major concern is the plight of counties and municipal governments," Pappas said. "Federal programs have greatly assisted but have not been the answer."

A number of senior citizens present at the hearing expressed a fear that the cuts would leave programs for the elderly out in the cold. A handout prepared by DFA for participants in the hearing listed Social Services as facing a cut of about 20 percent, which translates to $3 million statewide — the largest block grant reduction in New Mexico.

"I think that there's a real danger that we may not have compassion for one another," said Ernie Ramos of DFA. "We need to be objective and sacrifice a dollar or two so that programs for the handicapped and elderly may continue."

George Owen, representing the Roswell Chamber of Commerce Division on Aging and several other senior citizens' organizations, said that "we do our programs with volunteers. And it works. That was the theme of the Governor's conference in Atlantic City recently — that we have to go back to the way we got started in this country — using volunteers."

vanced lifesaving methods. "The students' safety is going to be the biggest concern I'll have," she said.

Design features of the pool include a ramp with hand rail, which allows swimmers to walk gradually into the water, a hoist for lowering swimmers into the water, a diving board, and a separate whirlpool bath.

"We're hoping to get some Special Olympics type competition here," said Culbertson. "We've always had to go other places, but now we have the facilities to offer it here."

With the successful completion of the gymnasium-natorium, Delgado is looking ahead. A proposal for a new $840,000 food service center will be presented to the 1982 state legislature, he said.

Besides Delgado, Director of Residential Treatment Robert Garcia, state Secretary of Health and Environment George Goldstein, and state Senator Charlie Lee participated in a ribbon cutting ceremony for the new gym and pool.

Architects on the project were Charles Nolan and Associates and the general contractor was Service Contractors of Ruidoso.

I-n-s-i-d-e the Outdoors

by Gary Dollahon

A neighbor of mine recently contacted me about an unpleasant experience he had witnessed in his front yard. He was very upset with the occurrence and rightly so.

It seems he was in another portion of his yard when he noticed one of those brand new, small model pickups approaching. Upon arrival at his property the vehicle pulled up onto his grass, made several circles, and finally came to a stop under one of the pretty yard trees.

His curiosity aroused, my neighbor concealed himself behind another tree and watched as the occupants got out of the vehicle. They were a young couple with a boy about five and a baby still in diapers.

The man took a shovel from the back of the truck, headed over to the thickest patch of grass, and dug a shallow hole. Soon after, a mound of charcoal briquettes was flaming violently in it. As the fire roared, the couple unloaded an ice chest and two sacks of groceries.

In no time at all, hamburger patties were sizzling over the fire and their delicious aroma filled the air. The young mother spread out a blanket, opened a package of paper plates, and began preparing the buns for the meat.

They had all the trimmings: mustard, onions, pickles, cheese, lettuce, and of course, the potato chips. As each individual slice of cheese was unwrapped, the wrappings were put to the wind. As the bag of potato chips was dumped into the plastic bowl, the sack was wadded up and tossed to the side.

Finally, it was time to eat. They all perched themselves upon the blanket and started in on their hamburgers and soft drinks.

They all laughed and covered their plates when a gust of wind passed through, scattering napkins and the stack of paper plates everywhere. It didn't bother their eating though and the goodies were eventually consumed.

Suddenly, the baby awoke with a start. A quick examination by the mother detected a wet diaper and a change was made. The handy disposable diaper was tossed at a nearby bush.

Meanwhile, dad and junior had set up their empty soft drink cans and were bombarding them with rocks. At least they were until mom interrupted them with a selection of candy bars. The bars were quickly jerked from their wrappers and devoured, the wrappers being thrown to the ground.

Finally, it was time to go home. The ice chest went back into the truck, as did one of the sacks of groceries. The other sack served as a waste basket for some of the nearby paper plates and napkins.

Again, the man took his shovel and dug a shallow hole. He placed the sack of trash in it and half buried it with a light cover of dirt.

He walked to the fire with his shovel and threw a couple of scoops of dirt on the white bed of dying coals. Then, they all loaded up, drove out of the yard and back onto the road.

My neighbor stood up just in time to see a kleenex being tossed out of the right window. He shook his head in disbelief as he walked toward the previously occupied area. There were the napkins, the paper plates, the candy wrappers, the soft drink cans, and the cheese wrappers. He looked with disgust at the disposable diaper, the smoldering coals, and the half-buried sack of trash.

My neighbor then walked to the edge of his front yard to where it joined with the road. His eyes slowly filled with tears as he read the sign leading into his property. The sign read, "You are now entering National Forest lands, help keep it beautiful."

CROSSING OVER into the Webelos Den, Cub Scouting's highest rank, in ceremonies conducted Thursday evening by Webelos leader Ray Garner were, from the left, Eric Collins, Drew Kelly, Conrad Streeter, Craig Sears, David Dickinson and Rusty Smith.

RUIDOSO'S ROBERT SANCHEZ is gang-tackled by several Carrizozo players in the second quarter of Saturday's junior varsity game at the Warrior field. Sanchez was a steady ball-carrier for Ruidoso as it topped the visitors 16-6 in the opener.

Ruidoso jvs stop Carrizozo in opener

Getting 14 points from its defensive unit Ruidoso High School's junior varsity football team opened the 1981 season with a 16-6 victory over visiting Carrizozo

Saturday afternoon. Scott Craulo put the Warriors on the scoreboard in the first minute of play when he tackled the Carrizozo quarterback in the end zone for a safety. Before the safety the Ruidoso defense had two straight quarterback sacks.

The score remained at 2-0 the rest of the first half although the Warriors threatened several times behind the running of Robert Sanchez and Kip McClellan. Ruidoso put the eventual winning points on the scoreboard late in the third quarter when defensive back Kevin Thomas caught a Carrizozo pass and ran 30 yards for a touchdown. The two point conversion run was stopped short.

Capitan defeats Alamo sophs

Capitan High School's football team raised its season record to 2-0 with a 14-0 victory over the Alamo sophomores Friday night.

Last season Capitan went to the state finals in the A division but lost to Reserve. Capitan beat Cloudcroft 20-8 last week.

The Warriors ended their scoring at 8:52 left in the contest when several Ruidoso players blocked a Carrizozo punt in the end zone for a touchdown. The two point run failed but a penalty was called against Carrizozo and Sanchez ran the ball in from the one for the two points.

Carrizozo scored its only touchdown with three minutes left in the contest on a long pass play.

"We've got a lot of young kids who've never played before," he said. "Especially on defense. And we're still learning a lot of things."

"However, we did a lot of things right, especially on defense. Chris Woodul (younger brother of varsity quarterback Billy Woodul) did a good all-around job at quarterback."

The Dreamer

BY DANNIE STORM

A Native Son Returns With Pride In His Native Land

Once again we have cause to recall the immortal words of Sir Walter Scott: "Breathes there a man with soul so dead That never to himself hath said, 'This is my own, my native land', Whose heart within him ne'er hath burned

When home his footsteps he hath turned, From wandering on a foreign strand?" One of the great pleasures of life is to return to the land of your ancestors and be filled with pride in these countries — in my own case, with Scotland and Switzerland.

Very close kin to this feeling is the great permanent uplift in spirits that you receive when you go back after many years and visit the land — and if you are fortunate enough — the very place of your birth, to find a blessed welcome there.

Many times we find the city or community of our birth tumbled down, even half deserted — the "Parade of Life" having passed it by. As one Hispanic lad said after looking for his native village in the northern part of the state: "They took it off the map now."

"Juneau, Capital Of 'The Great Land'"

After several weeks in Canada and Alaska, our brother Lynn returns from the state and city of his birth with his handsome countenance beaming with such pride as to light up the "sunny green vale of the Storms."

In Alaska in general and Juneau in particular Lynn received a welcome which swelled the heart of a true native son with gratefulness and joy.

Little Juneau, on the edge of its steep mountains, touching the winding bays, a bright little jewel of a city shining in summer green and winter snow — is a worthy capital of "The Great Land", the meaning of the word "Alaska" in one of the Indian dialects.

No roads lead to Juneau, cut off from the world except by water and air travel, this little city of gold is in a way all by itself. So that the spirit of Alaska — the loving closeness of its people as one big happy family, the open hearted welcome always ready, the friendliness and hospitality — this Alaska spirit is somehow here especially strong and alive.

A stranger is always more than welcome; and a returning native son is welcomed truly as a child come back home.

The Ancient Preserved And the New Appreciated

From Lynn's descriptions, and photos and diagrams of Juneau, you could tell that the little capital of our Land of the North Star is little changed; and that the new additions have preserved its individuality and idyllic charm.

I could trace my way to school up twelfth street across the Gold Creek bridge, past the governor's mansion. I saw the spot where Lynn ran his kitty car down the steep sidewalk bordering the Sitwash Indian Cemetery, ran into a chicken wire fence and received a wound on his forehead, the scar of which he bears to this day.

In places where the land is flat, cities can change with the years beyond all recognition.

Juneau will be recognized a thousand years from today. The city can hardly climb further up the steep mountain. It cannot wade out into the bay. The mountains, the channels, the streams, will be there forever and a day, guardians, land marks of this beloved spot.

One new feature which is both an ornament and wonderful convenience to Juneau is Eagan Drive, a massive construction project made from the tailings of one of Juneau's many gold mines — a driveway all along the coast of the bay extending from the lower end of the city out to the gigantic Aquamarine jewel, the Mendenhall glacier.

This is a loving tribute to that illustrious ex-governor William A. Egan, who led the brave Alaskan people out of the heart-breaking tragedy of the great Alaska Earthquake of Good Friday, 1966.

Lynn brought me a bolo tie in the form of a little Dahl Sheep carved from native ivory with prehistoric ivory as a back ground. Also another treasure, a little Alaska flag of the Big Dipper and the North Star in gold on a background of midnight blue.

So the "Juneau Kid" has come back to "the States" having both given and received a blessing in his native land; and also casting a benediction among us here, carried from a land so much like himself: noble, generous, faithful and true.

TROOP 59 SCOUTMASTER Rudy Flack, left, Thursday evening received the Arrowhead Honor Award, for outstanding service as a Scout Commissioner, from Jim Neblett, Roswell, District Scout Executive.

SCOTT NEAL OF RUIDOSO rambles for yardage against Socorro Friday night. Neal scored three touchdowns and rushed for over 100 yards as the Warriors defeated Socorro 21-12. Ruidoso travels to Dexter Friday for a 7:30 p.m., contest. The Warriors are 2-0 on the season.

Warriors defeat Socorro in the line

Socorro was supposed to be the type of big, physical football team that wore people down but Friday night it was Ruidoso High School that wore the visitors down en route to a 21-12 victory.

Ruidoso, now 2-0, got a brilliant effort from its defense which held Socorro to 58 yards total offense. The Warriors, despite being outweighed by the visitors, took control of the line of scrimmage on both offense and defense after Socorro had scored on the opening possession of the contest.

"They (Socorro) played well at times when they got momentum but didn't seem to keep it up after a few plays," said Ruidoso head coach Darrel Stierwalt. "They had some big guys but it wasn't all muscle."

When Socorro quarterback Ted Reynolds scored from five yards out with 7:28 gone in the first period it appeared that Ruidoso was in for a long game. The visitors had driven 54 yards in eight plays after the opening kickoff.

However, Lon Nunley, who had a brilliant game at offensive tackle and middle linebacker, broke in to block the extra point attempt and that seemed to give the Warriors life.

Ruidoso then took control of the game and scored three straight touchdowns to put the game away.

Early in the second quarter the Warriors went on offense on the Socorro 37 after a short punt. From there it took three plays for Ruidoso to score.

Scott Neal, who scored all three Warrior touchdowns, took a pass from quarterback Billy Woodul and raced 20 yards down the sidelines to the visitors' 16. Woodul then hit tight end Darin Smith for 15 yards to the Socorro one. On the next play Neal raced over for the touchdown with 6:22 left in the half. Nunley kicked the extra point and the Warriors took a 7-6 advantage into the locker room at half time.

Ruidoso's defense then took control of the game. Getting great plays from defensive ends Robert Swanner, John Montoya and Jack Holland the Warriors didn't allow Socorro to cross the 50 yard line until late in the fourth quarter.

The Warriors hit the scoreboard again midway through the third quarter.

After Ruidoso got the ball on a punt at its own 39 Woodul hit Neal for 13 yards to the Socorro 48. After an incomplete pass Woodul went to the air for the third straight time and found Grady Williamson between two defenders at the visitors' nine. Williamson made a leaping catch and the Warriors were again in business.

Neal then sprinted through the line for the touchdown from nine yards out with 5:28 left in the quarter. The drive covered 61 yards in just four plays.

The rest of the quarter was scoreless. Ruidoso's first touchdown came with 8:47 left in the final canto.

After the Warriors' Dariush Rad and Montoya hit Reynolds for successive quarterback sacks early in the quarter the visitors were forced to punt and Ruidoso took over at its own 40.

A pass fell incomplete and on the next play Neal took a handoff from Woodul, cut to his right and outsprinted the Socorro defenders 60 yards for a touchdown. Nunley added the extra point for a 21-6 Warrior lead.

A mistake made the final score closer than the game actually was.

Late in the game and stuck deep in its territory Ruidoso was forced to punt. The center snap was high and Woodul, who does the Warriors' punting, was tackled at his own two.

The visitors tried a two point conversion, and if they had made it would have drawn within seven points. However, Byron Wright knocked down Reynolds' pass attempt and the Warriors kept their nine point lead.

Socorro, now 0-1-1, (tying Deming last week) tried an onside kick but the Warriors recovered and ran out the clock.

Stierwalt was naturally pleased with his team's second win of the season but said it still had some problems to overcome.

"We're getting too many penalties," he said. "It killed one of our drives. When we overcome these mistakes we're going to be a super ballclub. If we don't overcome them it will hurt us somewhere down the road."

The Warriors were called for penalties 11 times for a total of 125 yards. Socorro had 96 yards in penalties.

Neal rambled for 107 yards while Woodul connected on six of 16 passes for 108 yards. Ruidoso rolled up 230 yards total offense while holding Socorro to 58.

The whole Warrior defense played well. Besides the play of the defensive ends, the coaching staff praised the efforts of Nunley and the other linebackers, Wright and Kyle Flack. Flack suffered a hip pointer in the contest for the only Warrior injury. Defensive tackle Ron Bell, at 255 pounds the biggest man on the Ruidoso squad, was in on several tackles and played a fine all-around game.

Ruidoso will attempt to extend its record to 3-0 when it travels to Dexter Friday. Game time is 7:30 p.m.

The Ruidoso News

SPORTS

with Gary Brown

If sheer numbers are a sign of strength then White Mountain Middle School's football team should be improved this season.

Coach Terry Wharton has 36 players currently practicing in pads, with the first game coming Saturday against Mountain View of Roswell at Ruidoso High School.

"We've got more kids than we had last year," Wharton said. "We had about 30 players on the team when we started the season. We usually add about five players to our team each year."

Despite the fact Wharton and assistant coach Mike Crocker have more players out this season they'll still be short numbers-wise when they play Mountain View and Sierra of Roswell.

"The Roswell schools usually have 30 to 35 eighth graders on their team with about 20 to 25 seventh graders on the sidelines also ready to play," said Wharton. "We have five seventh graders on our squad."

a godsend to Royals fans.

It's doubtful that teams like San Francisco and Chicago would have played as well in the latter weeks of the season if there hadn't been a strike. Teams with a history of losing tend to get further bogged down in the second division as the season rolls on.

But the "new" season has given baseball a new life in town like Chicago and San Francisco. The Giants' new-found success may have saved the SF franchise from possible extinction in its battle with cross-bay rivals Oakland. The A's were on the way to setting a franchise attendance record when the strike was called while the Giants were struggling to gain fans.

Teams that finish a season strong often carry that momentum on to the beginning of the next season. Yes, the strike and its aftermath could have an effect on major league races for the next year.

Wharton plans to get ready for Mountain View with a scrimmage against Ruidoso High School's ninth graders tomorrow at the Middle School. The scrimmage is still tentative and might not come off.

Last year the Braves went 2-4 on the season with both wins coming on forfeits. But Wharton is optimistic the team can do better this time around.

"Last year we had a couple of outstanding players," he said. "However this time around we have more depth and more good players."

Perhaps the most interesting aspect of college football is the constant comparison being made between different conferences.

In recent years so-called "experts" have downgraded the Big-10 because of its defeats in the Rose Bowl and the lack of balance in the conference.

However, with Michigan's easy win over Washington in last year's Rose Bowl a lot of these "experts" are climbing on the Big 10 bandwagon again.

However, one or two teams don't make a conference. Despite the power of Michigan and Ohio State the Big 10 is woefully unbalanced. Only Purdue can come close to comparing with the two "powers" on any given Sunday.

Plus the fact that Big 10 football is generally dull and predictable. Most Big 10 teams are run-oriented and seem to regard the forward pass as a mortal sin (Purdue is a notable exception) against football.

The baseball strike may have turned out to be the best thing possible for teams like the Chicago Cubs, San Francisco Giants and Kansas City Royals.

Those three teams were going nowhere in the first half of the season. The Cubs had the worst record in the majors, San Francisco was in fifth place in the National League West and Kansas City was 12 1/2 games off the pace in the AL West.

But the second half schedule has seen the Cubs play .500 ball and become a contender for the second half crown of the National League East division. San Francisco has played well above the .500 mark and the Royals are fighting the Oakland A's for the division crown. KC won the AL pennant last year so the strike and the second half season must seem like I'd rather watch a team like defending West Coast Athletic Conference Champion Brigham Young play with its wide open offense.

The lack of a passing game has generally meant defeat for Big 10 teams when they play against squads from the Pac 10, Big Eight, Southwestern Conference and Southeastern Conference.

Warrior spikers open year against Carrizozo

Ruidoso High School's girls' volleyball team opens the 1981 season with a 6 p.m., home match against Carrizozo tomorrow.

Both the varsity and junior varsity will have matches.

Ruidoso has several returning veterans from last year's 7-10 team. Coach Sergio Castanon is relying on veterans Karen Boone, Cyd Wright, Laurie Morel, Cody Taylor, Patricia Cardenas and Bridget Almager to bolster the squad. Most of the varsity players are seniors.

The Warriors begin district play October 3 against Deming on the latter's court. The district tournament will be held at Cobre November 5-7. Tularosa won the district tournament last season and Silver City finished second.

58 runners race in nine-mile run

Fifty-eight runners competed in the second annual Inn of the Mountain Gods nine mile run Saturday, September 5.

That number is far more than the 44 who competed in the first race last year. Runners from as far away as Albuquerque competed.

The first two finishers, Roger Romero and Scott Long, ran 53:08 and 53:08, respectively, to break the old record. Mary Ranc of El Paso, Texas, was the first woman to finish with a clocking of 1:25:46. Sarah Ball of Ruidoso was second in 1:29:44 and Vivian Wiley of Ruidoso third in 1:31:19.

Age group winners in the male competition were Ivan Scott, 1:14.40 in the 10-13 division, Scott Long, 53:38 in the 14-17 division, Romero in the 18-29 division, Jerome Gotschalk, 1:00.55 in the 30-39 division and Charles Wood, 1:04.35 in the 40 and over division.

Age group winners in the women's competition were Jennifer Smith, 1:32.05 in the 14-17 division, Wiley, 1:31.19 in the 18-29 division, Ball, 1:29.44 in the 30-39 division and Ranc, 1:25.46 in the 40 and over division.

Organizers plan to run the race again next year.

ORDINANCE NO. 81-18 AN ORDINANCE AMENDING ORDINANCE NO. 81-16 WHICH RELATED TO THE PARTICIPATION BY THE VILLAGE OF RUIDOSO, NEW MEXICO IN THE CITY OF ROSWELL, NEW MEXICO MULTIFAMILY SINGLE FAMILY MORTGAGE PURCHASE PROGRAM, AUTHORIZING THE ISSUANCE AND SALE BY THE CITY OF ROSWELL, NEW MEXICO OF ITS SINGLE FAMILY MORTGAGE REVENUE BONDS (MULTIFAMILY SINGLE FAMILY MORTGAGE PURCHASE PROGRAM) IN THE AMOUNT OF $20,185,000 TO FINANCE THE PURCHASE OF SINGLE FAMILY RESIDENTIAL MORTGAGE LOANS, AUTHORIZING AND APPROVING THE EXECUTION AND DELIVERY BY THE CITY OF ROSWELL OF NOTICES OF ACCEPTANCE OF APPLICATIONS TO SELL MORTGAGE LOANS, MORTGAGE PURCHASE AND SERVICING AGREEMENTS, TRUST INSTRUMENT, OFFICIAL STATEMENT, CLOSING DOCUMENTS, AND SUCH OTHER DOCUMENTS IN CONNECTION THEREWITH, ADOPTING A GUIDE FOR SERVICERS RELATING TO SUCH PROGRAM, RATIFYING CERTAIN ACTIONS HERETOFORE TAKEN, WHICH AMENDING ORDINANCE WILL AUTHORIZE THE EXECUTION AND DELIVERY OF A TRUST INSTRUMENT, REIMBURSEMENT AGREEMENT AND OFFICIAL STATEMENT, REPEAL ALL ACTION INCONSISTENT WITH THIS ORDINANCE, AND DECLARE AN EMERGENCY.

WHEREAS, the governing body, being the Mayor and Village Trustees (the "Governing Body") of the Village of Ruidoso, New Mexico (the "Village") has received information and data concerning the serious shortage throughout the Village of decent, safe and sanitary residential housing available at prices and rents within the financial means of persons and families of low or moderate income;

WHEREAS, pursuant to a resolution adopted by the Governing Body on April 10, 1979, the Village established a program to address such shortage and need (the "Program");

WHEREAS, the Village is empowered by the terms of the Municipal Mortgage Finance Act to issue residential mortgage revenue bonds to provide funds for low interest mortgage loans for persons of low or moderate income or to enter into an agreement with one or more municipalities designating one such municipality as issuer of residential mortgage revenue bonds and establishing the area of operation of the issuer;

WHEREAS, the Village has executed a Cooperative Agreement with the Municipalities of Artesia and Roswell pursuant to which the City of Roswell has been designated an issuer of bonds to be issued for the purpose of financing the purchase or rehabilitation by persons of low or moderate income of single family residences within the combined planning and planning jurisdictions of the participating municipalities (the "Mortgage Loans");

WHEREAS, pursuant to Ordinance No. 81-16 adopted by the Governing Body on August 11, 1981 (the "Original Ordinance"), there was authorized and created by the City of Roswell an issue of revenue bonds to be designated "City of Roswell, New Mexico Single Family Mortgage Revenue Bonds (Multifamily Single Family Mortgage Purchase Program)" in the aggregate principal amount of $20,185,000 (the "Bonds") to be issued pursuant to an Indenture of Trust dated as of September 1, 1981 (the "Original Indenture"), between the City of Albuquerque National Bank, Albuquerque, New Mexico, as Trustee (the "Trustee");

WHEREAS, the Bonds will be issued and delivered by the City of Roswell to Stern Brothers & Co. as representative of the several underwriters (the "Representative") to provide funds for the purchase of the Mortgage Loans, including the funding of certain reserve funds in connection with the retirement of the Bonds, and certain incidental costs incurred in connection with the issuance of the Bonds;

WHEREAS, the Original Indenture has not yet been executed or delivered by the officials of the City of Roswell authorized by the Original Ordinance to execute and deliver the Original Indenture;

WHEREAS, the form and content of the Original Indenture has been modified and changed in certain respects; and

WHEREAS, the Mayor has declared, and does hereby declare, that this Ordinance deals with an emergency constituting an immediate danger to the public health, safety and welfare of the Village; and

WHEREAS, the Village Clerk has presented to the Governing Body at this meeting (1) the proposed form of Trust Indenture (the "Indenture"), dated as of September 1, 1981, between the City of Roswell and Albuquerque National Bank, Albuquerque, New Mexico, as Trustee (the "Trustee"); (2) the proposed form of Reimbursement Agreement (the "Reimbursement Agreement"), dated as of September 1, 1981 among the City of Roswell, the Trustee and Crocker National Bank and (3) the form of Preliminary Official Statement (the "Preliminary Official Statement") pertaining to the Bonds.

BE IT ORDAINED BY THE GOVERNING BODY (The Mayor and Village Trustees) OF THE VILLAGE OF RUIDOSO, NEW MEXICO:

Section 1. Section 3 of the Original Ordinance is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 3. For the purpose of defraying the cost of purchasing the Mortgage Loans, there has been authorized and created by the City of Roswell and issue of revenue bonds to be designated "City of Roswell, New Mexico Single Family Mortgage Revenue Bonds (Multifamily Single Family Mortgage Purchase Program)". The establishment of such issue of Bonds, the utilization of Bond proceeds to purchase Mortgage Loans related to property located within the Village and the terms of the Bonds are hereby approved. The Bonds shall be issued in the aggregate principal amount of $20,185,000. The coupon Bonds shall be in the denomination of $5,000 or any integral multiple of $5,000 and shall be due on the date provided. All fully registered Bonds shall bear interest from their date payable on June 1 and December 1 of each year commencing June 1, 1982. The Bonds shall bear interest at the applicable rate of twelve percent (12%) per annum and shall mature on June 1, 2012. The Bonds shall be payable and subject to redemption prior to maturity as provided in the Indenture and shall be substantially the forms provided in the Indenture. The holders of the Bonds shall have the right to tender Bonds to the Trustee as in the Indenture provided. Pursuant to the Purchase Contract, the Bonds shall be sold to the underwriters thereof at a private sale at a purchase price equal to 97.5% of the principal amount of the Bonds plus accrued interest to the date of payment and delivery.

Section 2. Section 4 of the Original Ordinance is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 4. The terms, terms and provisions of the Bonds, the "A" coupons and the "B" coupons, in the forms contained in the Indenture, be and they hereby are approved, with only such changes therein as are not inconsistent herewith. The execution and delivery of the Bonds, by the Mayor and Clerk-Treasurer of the City of Roswell, and the execution of the "A" coupons and the "B" coupons by the Mayor of the City of Roswell are hereby approved.

Section 5. Section 6 of the Original Ordinance is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 6. The forms, terms and provisions of the Applications, the Notices of Acceptance and the Mortgage Purchase and Servicing Agreements be and they hereby are approved and the execution and delivery by the City of Roswell of the Notices of Acceptance and Mortgage Purchase and Servicing Agreements with each of the Mortgage Lenders or their designees, substantially the terms of such documents presented at the meeting at which the Original Ordinance was adopted and hereby ratified and approved, with such insertions, omissions and changes as are not inconsistent herewith, as shall be approved by the officials of the City of Roswell executing such documents, the execution of such documents being conclusive evidence of such approval.

LEGAL NOTICE

Section 4. Section 11 of the Original Ordinance is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 11. Notices of Acceptance in the Original Ordinance as in this Ordinance nor in the Guide for Servicers, the Applications, the Notices of Acceptance, the Mortgage Purchase and Servicing Agreements, the Indenture, the Reimbursement Agreement, the Investment Agreement, the Purchase Contract, nor any other instrument, shall be construed as obligating the Village, except to the extent provided in the Guide for Servicers, the Applications, the Notices of Acceptance, the Mortgage Purchase and Servicing Agreements, the Indenture, the Reimbursement Agreement, the Investment Agreement, the Purchase Contract or any other instrument, nor as incurring a pecuniary liability against its taxing power, nor shall the breach of any agreement contained in the Original Ordinance or in this Ordinance, the Guide for Servicers, the Indenture, the Reimbursement Agreement, the Investment Agreement, the Purchase Contract, the Mortgage Purchase and Servicing Agreements, or any other instrument impose any pecuniary liability upon the Village or any change upon its general credit or against its taxing power, the Village having no obligation to pay out of its general funds, or otherwise contribute any part of the costs of the Program.

Section 5. Section 12 of the Original Ordinance is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 12. The distribution of the Preliminary Official Statement in the form presented at this meeting in connection with the sale of the Bonds to the public is hereby ratified and approved. The resolution by the Mayor of the City of Roswell of a final official statement in substantially the form of the Preliminary Statement presented at this meeting is hereby approved with such insertions, omissions and changes as are not inconsistent herewith as shall be approved by the Mayor of the City of Roswell (the "Official Statement"), the execution of the Official Statement by the Mayor of the City of Roswell being conclusive evidence of such approval, and the distribution of the Official Statement is hereby approved.

Section 6. Section 13 of the Original Ordinance is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 13. The appointment of Albuquerque National Bank, Albuquerque, New Mexico, as Trustee and Paying Agent under the Indenture is hereby approved.

Section 7. Section 14 of the Original Ordinance is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 14. The original Ordinance is hereby amended to read as follows:

Section 15. If any section, paragraph, clause or provision of the Original Ordinance or this Ordinance shall for any reason be held to be invalid, the invalidity or unenforceability of such section, paragraph, clause or provision shall not affect any of the remaining provisions of the Original Ordinance or this Ordinance.

Section 16. All bylaws, orders, resolutions and Ordinances, or parts thereof, inconsistent herewith are hereby repealed to the extent only of such inconsistency. This repeal shall not be construed as reviving any bylaw, order, resolution or ordinance or part thereof.

Section 17. All of the provisions of this Ordinance shall be deemed to be construed as part of the Original Ordinance to the same extent as if fully set forth therein.

Section 18. Save and except as may be provided in this Ordinance, the Original Ordinance shall remain in full force and effect.

Section 19. By reason of the fact that it is necessary for the Village to proceed with the financing of the Program and to take other actions necessary to the consummation of the purpose of this Ordinance, an emergency is hereby declared and this Ordinance, immediately upon its final passage and approval, shall be recorded in the public book of the Village kept for that purpose, and be there authenticated by the signature of the Mayor and by the signature of the Village Clerk and shall be published in a newspaper which maintains an office in, and is of general circulation in the Village, and shall be in full force and effect five days after such publication.

PASSED, ADOPTED, SIGNED AND APPROVED THIS 14th day of September, 1981.

Inside The Capitol

by Fred McCaffrey

SANTA FE — Bruce King is in serious trouble, and it's the kind you can't just laugh off.

What's more, he knows it.

That accounts for his testiness at that news conference earlier this week — the one that got the coverage on national television.

King knows that the FBI is investigating conditions at the state pen — and that thought does not please him.

Why?

Well, let's say an investigation turns up evidence that Corrections Secretary Roger Crist took his job in New Mexico with the stipulation that he would not fire any members of that group which has run the pen for so long.

Those are the people who were criticized in that multi-media report on the pen which put Bruce's nose out of joint.

Those same men ran the pen when Bruce was governor last time.

For reasons no legitimate reporter covering the capital can understand, they have remained impervious to any kind of sustained questioning about the way they conduct themselves.

Chief of them is Felix Rodriguez, for whom King just arranged a national honor as a public employee of renown and merit.

Nobody who knows the penitentiary would have recommended that the governor make that move. They would have told him, had he bothered to ask, that such an act was liable to come back to haunt him.

One of the major flaws in King's character is that he believes if you ignore trouble it will go away.

This time it won't. It never does.

The heart of King's problem at the pen is this: Nobody with any smarts is going to trust a government agency to investigate itself.

As for this writer, he wouldn't trust his own blood brother to do that.

So why should he put any credence in any report from the Corrections Department, which in the case of the pen operates totally behind closed doors, coming out only when it chooses to do so and telling us that things are all okay in there?

Unless we have an independent outside investigation, how can we be sure of that?

Knowing we have been lied to frequently by that department, how can we trust them now?

And whom are they now putting forward as their spokesman and apologist? Bruce King.

Either King knows what goes on out there at the pen and does not want the citizens of New Mexico to find out, or he does not know but has been conned by those who do.

In either case, as the person charged with the responsibility of running our state government, he is not doing the kind of job for which he was elected.

He is, in short, a failure.

That's what galls him.

What galls him more is to have some upstart come right out and say that — as this column just did.

Not Jeff Pedersen, the public relations man the Corrections Department hired; nor John Hamming, who has faithfully parroted whatever his bosses in that agency told him to come outside the penitentiary and say; nor Roger Crist, who was not all that hot in his last job either; nor the governor of the state of New Mexico can wish away facts.

They may not like us who point the finger of scorn at them, but as of today that's what most of the state's citizens are doing.

Letters to the Editor

Dear editor:

This letter is written on behalf of the Ruidoso Warrior football team and expresses the opinion of many, many fans and parents other than ourselves.

For the entire pre-season coverage, your sports writer seemed to be of the opinion a football team consisted of one — not more than three or four — players. He took no note of the fact that this year's squad consists of probably six or seven players who either made or received honorable mention in the All District category last year. He failed to mention the injury that will keep a fine young man, who had worked hard and would have been a valuable asset to the team, out for the entire regular season.

Now, after reading the write-up regarding the Estancia game, we find he is unaware that a football team consists of both an offense AND a defense. The defense are the boys who keep the other team from scoring and, without whom, 19 touchdowns a game by the offense would be of no avail. Additionally, the Ruidoso Warriors have an exceptionally fine defensive lineup, one worthy of mention in both the El Paso and Midland, Texas, papers. Evidently a defense is not without honor save in its own country.

Having been a sports writer in the past, I am fully aware of the responsibilities on our Ruidoso writer, especially since he has to "do it all".

However, we — along with the rest of the town — are proud of the Ruidoso Warriors — every single one of them, no matter what position he should play. We feel the team, as a whole, individually and in its entirety should be given credit for the fine job it, and they, do every Friday night.

editorial

It's a frightening thought.

Ruidoso's future residential and commercial growth, and economic development, rests in the hands of one man: Steve Reynolds, State Engineer.

Reynolds is the man who is empowered to give Ruidoso more water — he is also empowered to take water away.

Ruidoso's need for more water, due to annexation and approval of housing developments, totaling approximately 1,000 new housing units, is readily apparent.

With the approval of Reynolds, Ruidoso has drilled four producing wells adjacent to Hull Road and Gavilan Canyon Road — approval was for drilling only, the village cannot pump one drop of water without Reynolds' consent.

Village manager Jim Hine has been authorized by the trustees to try and obtain the right to use the water in these wells. It is water that will be needed to serve those 1,000 new homes.

Critics of New Mexico's water laws say the laws are antiquated and tend to prohibit development in the state. Until the legislature changes those laws, there's nothing anyone can do, except complain.

We trust, through conversion of rights, and determining exactly how much water Ruidoso is entitled to, that Reynolds will allow Ruidoso to use water that has cost thousands of dollars to locate.

Reynolds, by denying Ruidoso more water, can give us a "no growth" status much faster than anyone anticipates. That's a frightening thought. — CD

APACHE MOTEL RESPONSE ON SKI PACKAGE:

Here at the APACHE (257-2986) surrounded by all our natural beauty, I start getting nervous during the ski season on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday nights when my rooms are empty. Being nervous is followed by my irritability with my family and my puppy. So rather than sitting here twiddling my thumbs and snapping at my maid who is also twiddling her thumbs, the APACHE (257-2986) is just tickled to death to offer a mid week ski package, which includes the third night at half price or the fourth night free. The same deal applies for the ski equipment. So come on Texans and do us both a favor — ski mid week with us.

Yours truly,

MIDEAST MEDDLING

It would be nice if Libya's Muammar Qadhafi would find himself humiliated by the destruction of his fighter planes after they attacked and then were shot down by U. S. planes. With luck, he will lose his power base and his position.

Do not bet on it, though.

It would be foolish for the United States to press too hard against Qadhafi in the belief other Arab states will not mind. After all, Qadhafi is still of the religion and region of the other Arab leaders. How far can more moderate Arabs permit "infidel" outsiders to interfere in Arab affairs without the leaders being criticized by their own people?

The Middle East is unstable, and heads of state there must protect their own positions. Washington would do well to remember that. — DeBaca County News, Fort Sumner

THE MORAL TEST

If Hubert Humphrey were alive today, how would he react to the federal budgetmaker's attacks on social programs? Probably with profound sorrow or outrage, or both.

The Happy Warrior didn't spend much time worrying about ways to "get government off the backs of the people." He saw government as an instrument of progress, not as a meddling, intrusive force.

"The moral test of government," he said "is how it treats those who are in the dawn of life, the children, those who are in the twilight of life, the aged, and those who are in the shadows of life, the sick, the needy and the handicapped."

That's a formula worth remembering. — News-Bulletin, Belen

STEADFAST MEN

Should you ever have had the occasion to ponder the meaning of steadfast ... ponder no more ... cause two of the village's elected officials are indeed steadfast.

Take trustee George White ... until we have more water available in Harmony Valley, George is adamantly opposed to future development ... and he makes no secret of his stand.

Then there's our honorable mayor ... he's as adamantly opposed to stifling growth as George is to encouraging growth ... and Lloyd's of the opinion that there's water available ... and that, by jinkies, there's a way to get it, if there's a will ... and Lloyd's got the will.

Each of these two stalwarts tends to be explicit in their remarks ... leaving no doubt as to where they stand ... and neither gives two whoops in a cider barrel if someone doesn't like what they say ... or how they say it ... cause, by jinkies, each expresses his opinion ... without, apparently, fear of reprisal ... defending their point of view ... and, by jinkies, if it's that's not being steadfast, what is?

And until we get the water we'll need to take care of future growth ... or until future growth stops because there's no water ... you can rest assured that George and Lloyd will keep speaking their pieces ... listening to which'll be more exciting than watching bread rise.

PRISON MAKING NEWS

One could have thought ... sordid to news releases from Governor King and the State Corrections Department ... that things were hunky-dory at the state pen ... instead of being topsy-turvy.

And now comes Warden Joe Gutierrez ... and he's considerably piqued at an Albuquerque radio station, "cause the station aired a report that Joe's involved in heroin traffic in the pen.

Joe ... of course ... vehemently denies the accusation ... and you can't blame him ... and he claims the station didn't contact him prior to the news broadcast ... which did serve one good purpose ... Joe didn't have to break into a stew and a fret before said broadcast ... which probably doesn't make him feel much better ... yes?

ON WATER FIGURING

Water is on everyone's mind in Harmony Valley ... and considering that our demands are getting up towards the three million gallon mark during those days of peak demand here, maybe it'd be interesting to know how much water is produced at a rate of 2,000 gallons a minute.

Multiply 2,000 by 60 by 24 and you get 2,880,000 gallons a day ... then multiply the daily figure by 365 ... which is approximately the number of days in a year ... and you come up with one billion, fifty-one million, two hundred thousand gallons ... which is how much 2,000 gallons a minute amounts to in one year.

And it don't take hardly no figuring at all to figure out that 4,000 gallons a day'll start getting close to providing six million gallons a day ... which'd be enough water to keep all of us Harmony Valley folks in water up to our ear lobes, if it'd be stashed in a long, wide, kinda shallow pool ... and we'd all get into the spirit of a wading party.

ON HORSES AND MULES

Hardly has the dust ... er, mud ... settled on Ruidoso Downs Race Track ... and Harmony Valley folks has quit thinking about horses ... when the thought arises that there'll soon be lotsa horses ... and mules ... doing all kinds of horsey and muley things here.

There's the Arabians coming this coming weekend ... and they'll be putting on a show ... and be shown ... and all sorta goodies ... down Ruidoso Downs way.

And hardly before you know it ... From October 7-11 ... there'll be Hunter/Jumpers ... and braying mules ... at Ruidoso Downs Race Track ... with the Hunter/Jumpers competing for prizes ... not to mention the racing mules ... and there'll be mud flying on the race track ... unless there'll be mud flying ... but it's a sure bet hooves'll be flying ... and that's really what makes mule racing interesting. Anyhow, this proves that we ain't gonna be without equines for a spell.

BRIEF BIT: No One, to be unneeded, can appreciate how it feels to be impressed as much as one of the fired Air Traffic Controllers ... CD

Basin crop yields big

This year, the rains have been good to eastern New Mexico farmers. Most years, they are lucky to get 15 inches. In the past, irrigation took up the slack, but now that source is drying up.

For many farmers, that means back to basics — dryland farming. Because dryland farming relies solely on rainfall, farmers must make good use of every drop.

Dr. Dale Fuehring, research agronomist at New Mexico State University's Plains Branch Agricultural Experiment Station, is trying to find the best dryland use of the precious resource. He recently completed a three-year comparison of 12 cropping systems for yield under dryland conditions.

The systems included solid-planted continuous wheat and sorghum, wheat-sorghum-fallow rotations, and ridge and basin plantings.

"The wide-basin system was by far the most productive," said Fuehring. In this system, a trench, 120 inches wide and 8 inches at its deepest was dammed at 20-foot intervals. The dams formed basins in which two rows of sorghum were planted 40 inches apart.

The wide-basin system produced 3,070 pounds of sorghum an acre, a 50 percent increase over flat-planted continuous sorghum, and 30 percent more than solid-planted sorghum in 40-inch basins.

"The higher yield can be attributed to the concentration of water on the growing beds," said Fuehring. Although this system uses one-third of the cropping area, its water contribution more than makes up for it in higher yields. The wide-basins also resist wash-out better than narrower, furrow-dike systems.

In comparison, continuous wheat averaged 890 pounds an acre and continuous grain sorghum 2,050 pounds an acre over the three years. "This system is the most common among dryland farmers," Fuehring said.

In the wheat-sorghum-fallow rotation, where two crops are grown in three years, wheat yields averaged 1,210 pounds an acre and sorghum averaged 2,700 pounds an acre. The fallow period sometimes saves two to three inches of moisture for the next crop. "However," said Fuehring, "total annual production for this system was no better than a one-to-one continuous cropping system."

The wide-basin system also had its drawbacks. Because machinery for large-scale operations has not been developed, the basins were difficult to build and maintain.

"However, the principles of the wide-basin could be adapted to furrow diking, a similar system that is smaller and easier to maintain. Furrow diking may be nearly as effective and more acceptable from a farming operation standpoint," said Fuehring.

He is now experimenting with a system combining furrow dikes with sodium-sealed ridges. In this system, the seal resulting from the salt-soil mixture sheds water into adjoining furrows. This way, every drop of water shed is used to produce a crop that "yields like it has been irrigated," said Fuehring.

The salt, which prevents weed growth on the ridge, doesn't affect plant growth in the furrow. "There is less salt dissolved in the run-off than there is in irrigation water," said Fuehring. Also, the width of the furrow, at 200 inches, is wide enough to farm with a tractor.

"The problem with any dryland watershed system," he said, is rain. "Last year was the driest in 50 years and there just wasn't any water to shed."

Persons interested in "Dryland Cropping Systems in Eastern New Mexico," Research Report 452, may obtain a copy from county Extension office or by writing the Bulletin Office, Box 341, Las Cruces, New Mexico 88003.

Free entertainment set at State Fair

The emphasis is on fun for the daily shows at the Opera House for the 1981 Centennial New Mexico State Fair in Albuquerque.

A youthful Elvis imitator, dance troupes, magicians, clowns, a ventriloquist and the melodrama highlights the shows planned hourly in the showplace all 12 days of this year's fair.

Producer Dona Kanin, who has been supervising the Opera House since it started in 1976, said "this year's show should be especially appealing to everyone. We've got lots of variety, and it's all free to fairgoers."

Here are some of the acts lined up: Ron Poindexter, a 13-year-old Albuquerque boy, does an amazing imitation of Elvis Presley.

The Ishim Shel Belly Dancers is a troupe of several local women who are in demand for bookings all over the area.

The Paramount Dancers is a troupe that presents special performances of various dance styles from the 1920's to the present day.

Barnaby is a juggler-comedian-musician who has an amazing entertaining show.

Mark Kalin is a young comical magician who has a bag of special pool and billiard tricks that have delighted fans all over the country.

Zan Bunch, a pretty young ventriloquist from Portales, and her dummy Danny have been special favorites at the Opera House for the past few years and are back by popular demand.

Furnishes the Clown will also be back. Also on the schedule are daily presentations of the popular melodrama by the State Fair Players, this year doing one called "The Mail Order Sheriff of Robber's Roost."

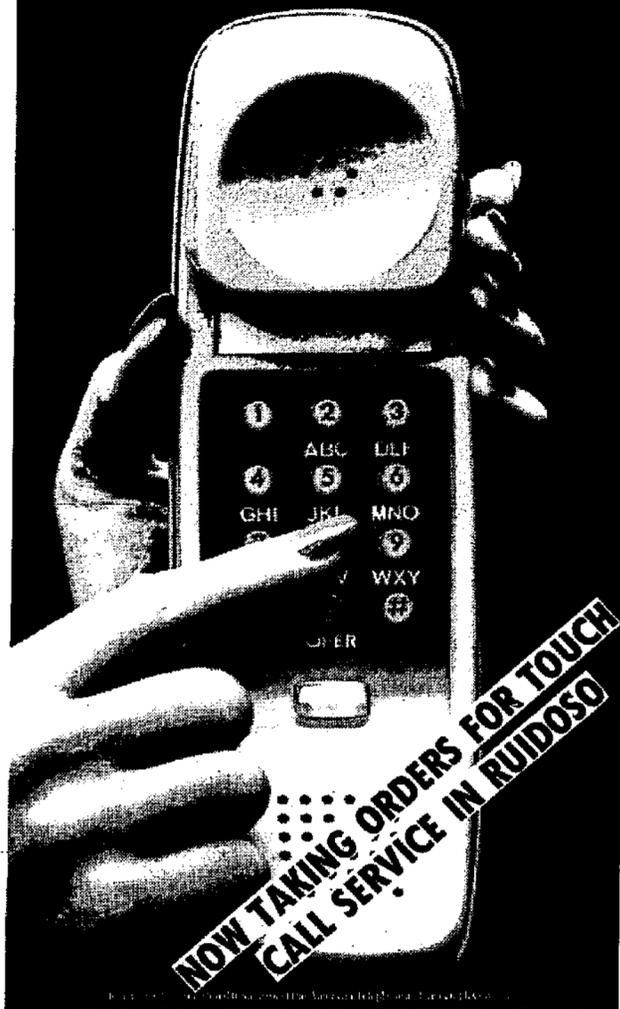

Opera House shows are staged daily from 11 a.m. to 8 p.m.

The Centennial New Mexico State Fair — The Biggest Show in New Mexico — will be held in Albuquerque September 16 through 27, with the 17-day part-mutual raffle meet and quality horse shows set to get underway September 11.

LATE AFTERNOON CLOUDS, back lighted by sun, indicate coming rain.

In the early days of the automobile, electric vehicles greatly outnumbered the gas-powered cars with internal combustion engines.

Development centered on the internal combustion engine until it outperformed the electric motors in cars, and electric cars faded quickly from the automotive scene and had virtually disappeared by the 1920s, according to Charlie Hohn, Extension agricultural engineer at New Mexico State University.

Until recently, any large scale growth of the electric automobile was blocked by two obstacles, the first is the lack of electric power, or its high cost at peak demand periods. In this short supply situation, help is on the way with recent progress in a renewable energy source, photovoltaics.

Photovoltaic cells convert sunlight directly to electricity, but would probably not be used directly on the automobile. However, they could be used in a home mounted situation to recharge batteries.

Existing electric cars get about two and a half to three miles per kilowatt hour of electricity. The average home uses about 15 kilowatt hours of electric power daily, which would be enough power to drive an electric car about 40 miles.

This translates to 1,200 miles a month of urban errand running or commuting, or 14,000 miles a year. The electricity to do this much driving can be supplied by an array of photovoltaic cells 256 feet square. This is about the size of a garage roof, 18 feet by 18 feet.

At six cents per kilowatt hour, the electric bill (purchased power) to operate an electric car would be about three cents a mile, about half the price of a gasoline powered car that averages 20 miles to the gallon.

Electric cars operate cheaper than gasoline powered cars, but this is where the second obstacle to development of electric cars appears, Hohn said. Electric cars operate on batteries and batteries wear out.

Not just one battery, as in existing cars, but a bank of batteries. Batteries will be available soon, perhaps by 1982, that will improve the state of the art to the point where $1,000 worth of batteries will last for 10,000 miles.

Even with this improvement, it adds seven cents a mile to the operating cost of an electric car for battery replacement. Suddenly the electric car costs more to operate over a long period of time than the gasoline powered car.

Steadily improving technology is expected to bring the total cost for electric power and batteries down to 10 cents a mile by 1984, but that still doesn't make gasoline powered car producers fear competition from electric cars.

Electric cars still have some advantages over the gasoline powered models in the long view, well beyond the 1980s decade. Electric cars will have significantly fewer moving parts than gasoline powered cars, so repair bills will be lower and the car will last longer.

This feature should also make the electric cars depreciate much slower, a cost factor that most car owners tend to overlook. Electric cars will become economically competitive with gasoline powered cars, but not for several more years.

Nutrition experts held satellite teleconference

Several food and nutrition experts from New Mexico State University (NMSU) and registered dietitians from throughout the state took part September 1 in the first satellite-linked national teleconference on Nutrition Research Update.

Dr. Katherine Treat, assistant dean for home economics, College of Agriculture, said she considers this unique conference a success. "We can look forward to more educational conferences like this. It's an excellent way to get new information to everyone in the country who may be interested."

There were 22 persons at the three-hour conference at NMSU and an estimated 1,500 persons took part nationwide. The New Mexico group included food and nutrition experts from the NMSU home economics faculty and from the Cooperative Extension Service. Several professional dietitians from New Mexico also attended.

KRWG-TV, the Public Broadcasting System (PBS) outlet on the NMSU campus, provided the satellite connection for New Mexico. Other states also used PBS stations, or land grant college television facilities, to link up with the nationwide electronic meeting.

The television transmission was one-way from Washington, D. C. where the teleconference originated, but all states were linked by telephone so questions could be handled after the two panel sessions.

United States Secretary of Agriculture John R. Block opened the teleconference with remarks about the federal programs related to nutrition. Panel discussions that followed were on nutrient interactions in the human body, and new developments in food guidance for consumers.

Miss Martha Johnson, Extension food and nutrition specialist who helped organize New Mexico's portion of the teleconference, said, "The discussion on nutrient interactions was especially valuable."

"Few people realize that some nutrients our bodies need must work in sort of a partnership with other nutrients to be effective. Calcium is a case in point; it needs vitamin D to form the complete chemical reaction that permits our bodies to assimilate calcium," she said.

"We're also finding that the mixture of essential amino acids that come from food protein affects protein synthesis in the body."

The next panel discussion covered the history and development of technical approaches in food and dietary guidance. This is the scientific side of diet analysis and recommendations, a major area of interest of the professional dietitians at the teleconference.

Dean Treat said the teleconference provided the specialized training that dietitians in New Mexico need to retain their professional status. "New Mexico State University meets many of the dietitians' training needs," she said, "but teleconferences like this one give us access to the latest available information in the field."

Profile

Merlin Olsen tries on new role

by Bill Kiley

It takes a lot to scare a 6-foot, 5-inch 250-pounder who was once the toughest linebacker in pro football, but Merlin Olsen admits that he was unexpectedly frightened by, of all things, an article of clothing.

Olsen, familiar to viewers as a sportscaster and a co-star of "Little House on the Prairie" will be the star of his own series, "Father Murphy," starting in fall on NBC-TV.

He plays the part of a rough, tough goldminer and freighter who amazes everyone—including himself—when he takes over an abandoned saloon to open a school and orphanage for troubled frontier children. As the character, John Michael Murphy, Olsen has to occasionally pretend to be a Catholic priest. The "bad guys" in the show are always trying to close the school so they can get their hands on all those homeless children and send them to a workhouse, where they can be used as cheap labor—but as long as the school is sponsored by the church, they can't do the evil deed.

When the church tells Murphy that they just don't have a spare priest to run the school, Murphy decides he'll pretend to be "Father" Murphy whenever the bodies are around. The kids alert him whenever they see strangers coming, and he quickly dons the robes of a Franciscan monk.

"We had talked about this project for a long time," he says. "I knew what the series would be about, and I knew that I would, now and then, be dressed as a priest, but the first time I put on those robes it scared the heck out of me.

"I am not a Catholic, but I am a Christian, and religion is very important to me. It was amazing what those robes did to me. My voice dropped down, my manners changed, my attitude and outlook were different—it was spooky!

"Even now, every time I put on the priest costume I feel like a different person. I am aware that I am representing something that is very important to millions of people, and I have a responsibility to make sure I bring no misrepresentation to the part of a priest—even if I am just pretending to be one. Even the other actors on the stage treat me differently when I'm dressed that way. They're careful about what they say or do when they're around 'Father' Murphy."

JACK KLUGMAN

THE SHOOTIST

A legendary gunfighter rides into Carson City, Nev., to face not only unwelcome rivals eager for a shootout but also his toughest opponent yet, a fatal illness, in "The Shootist," starring John Wayne (right), Lauren Bacall (left) and Ron Howard, to be rebroadcast on "The CBS Saturday Night Movies," SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 19.

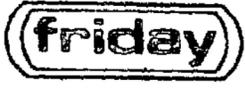

Carson City and the Old West are at a turning point as the new century begins. The fading world of the rugged individualist and his gun still stands side by side with the trappings of "civilized" town life.

J.B. Books (Wayne), a gunslinging hero of the old school, has come to town to consult his doctor (Stewart). Diagnosing cancer, the doctor tells Books he has only a few months to live.

TV Schedule For The Week Of Sept. 14 Through Sept. 20

by Joey Sasso

CONFIDENTIAL REPORT: Cathy Lee Crosby is one of the luckiest girls in Hollywood! Not only is she hostess of ABC's popular TV series, "That's Incredible," but she's being courted by two of Hollywood's most eligible bachelors. When Cathy's not being wined and dined by wealthy businessman Claude Ravier, she can be seen on the arm of handsome soap opera heartthrob David Hasselhof. Could any girl ask for more? Cathy and Claude have been a twosome for almost two years—close friends even consider them all-around. But Hasselhof has been making inroads of his own with the lovely lady. "We've been seeing each other off and on for about a year," Hasselhof told me. "But we're both involved in so many things we don't have enough time for each other." Meanwhile, Hasselhof is hard at work taping sessions of "The Young and the Restless," playing the do-gooder Dr. Snapper Foster. But he and Cathy Lee recently managed to catch a weekend together in Denver, where they both raised money in the Cystic Fibrosis Celebrity Tennis Tournament. Her fling with Claude Ravier turned into something more serious last year when he helped her finance a theater production in Hollywood of "They Shoot Horses, Don't They?" Cathy Lee directed and starred in the play.

TV BACKSTAGE: Madge Sinclair found that when she took the role as the head nurse in CBS-TV's "Trapper John, M.D.," she couldn't play the character as a bossy mother hen. She plays Nurse Ernestine Shoop in the hit series, which stars Pernell Roberts and Gregory Harrison. She was summoned for the part in the past season after the death of actress Mary McCarty. "They wrote her as a little bossy, mother hen," said Sinclair, "but it's evolved into something else. When we ended the season she was a different person. I just didn't think being bossy quite works for me. I think what happened is they expected an older person because of all the roles in which I've played older women. So when I played it at my own age it was a little incongruous for me to be mothering Trapper. Pernell didn't care for that either. So we worked out an intimate friendship for two people who had been in the Korean War together."

TV CLOSEUP: Mary Tyler Moore's plan to put 3,000 miles between her and former husband Grant Tinker have been thwarted by his appointment as NBC chief which means he'll be partly based in Manhattan where she now lives. And, to make matters worse, Tinker will be accompanied by his new love, Melanie Burke, who's young enough to be MTM's daughter. Melanie—at 22, she's seven years younger than Tinker's son Mark—has been his personal secretary for two years, according to reports, and the couple recently vacationed in Hawaii. "ChiPs" star Randi Dakes and Gregory Harrison are getting closer than ever to announcing a wedding date, and she was determined they wouldn't be separated on his birthday. He was in New York filming for his "For Ladies Only" tele-movie about male strippers, so Randi promptly jetted in from California with special presents over a candlelit dinner celebration at Marylou's restaurant in Greenwich Village.
