NO. 37 IN OUR 36TH YEAR

RUIDOSO, LINCOLN COUNTY, NEW MEXICO 88345

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 17, 1981

JOHN CARVER, left, administrative assistant to 12th Judicial District Attorney Steve Sanders, right, is maintaining 8:30 a.m.-5 p.m. office hours in the Lincoln County Sheriff's quarters in Four Seasons Mall.

DA opens office here

District Attorney Steve Sanders opened an office Tuesday in Four Seasons Mall, in the Lincoln County Sheriff's quarters, to serve the 12th Judicial District's needs in the county.

John Carver, Alamogordo, is Sanders' administrative assistant and will maintain office hours from 8:30 a.m.-5 p.m., Monday through Friday. The office phone number is 257-4676. Carver is not an attorney.

Carver, who is fluent in Spanish, will begin a Pre-prosecution Diversion Program, designed to deal with first offenders in drug cases or with non-violent crimes. The guidelines for these programs, Sanders said, are to be established.

Carver will also handle Reciprocal Enforcement of Child Support complaints, if the father, who isn't making support payments, lives outside of Lincoln County. Another program to be instituted locally, by Carver, will be instructing local merchants on prosecution and collection procedures concerning worthless checks.

"Any business concerning the District Attorney's office," Carver said, "should be brought to my office for action."

Capitan airing water problem Tuesday night

Water problems facing the Village of Capitan will be aired at a public meeting September 22, beginning at 7 p.m., in the Lincoln County Fair Building in Capitan.

Representatives of the State Environmentalist's office will be present, to answer questions concerning the water situation in the village, Leon Eggleston, village clerk-treasurer, said Wednesday.

Chamber plans Espree Party

Plans for the 1982 Valentine Espree Party, and the $10,000 grand prize highlighting the party, topped the agenda at Wednesday's Chamber of Commerce Board of Director's meeting.

Ed Jungbluth, Chamber executive director, said invitations for the February 15, Chamber sponsored party, will be mailed out "primarily to local residents," around the first of the year.

About 180 tickets, at $130 each, will be on sale, he said, for the evening of cocktails, dining, dancing and music, at Jerry Dale's.

The only qualification for the winner is that the prize money must be spent at any of 500 Ruidoso Chamber of Commerce member owned businesses, Retail Merchant Committee president Larry Langford, said.

In other business, the board:

—Heard a budget report from Jungbluth that $14,109.21, or 18 percent of the $75,629.02 budgeted for this year, has been spent.

—Agreed to transfer $3,100 from the general account to an 89 day interest earning account at Pioneer Savings and Trust.

—Heard an up date on Aspencade from Jungbluth. Sheila Harris suggested directors might "rethink" the selection of a celebrity as Grand Marshal, and instead think about "honoring one of our own citizens" in that role each year.

—Tabled discussion on the Old Timers Pot Luck Luncheon, in the absence of board president Richard Sandoval, who heads the Old Timers Committee.

Trio died of gunshots

Ruidoso Police are today awaiting autopsy results of a shooting incident Tuesday which left three persons dead in a local residence.

The bodies of Doris Jean Johnson, 44, James "Hoot" Johnson, 51, and Millard Deck, 58, were transported to Albuquerque Wednesday. Autopsies were scheduled to be performed Thursday morning by the state medical examiner.

Police had announced early Wednesday that the incident was an apparent double murder and suicide, based on preliminary investigation. Gunshot wounds to the head were determined to be the cause of death in all three victims.

A .22 caliber handgun was found at the scene, police said. James Johnson's wound appeared to be self-inflicted, according to a department spokesman.

A vacation home at 354 Country Club Drive owned by Deck, an oilman from Eunice, was the site of the shootings.

Police went to the house around 7 p.m., Tuesday after an acquaintance of one of the victims asked for assistance in locating the person. Finding the Deck home locked, and hearing the small dog that was the oilman's constant companion inside, police entered the home through a window and discovered the bodies.

Investigators determined the incident took place sometime early Tuesday.

The Johnsons had lived in Ruidoso about

Aspencade action coming

Planning for Aspencade action, from September 30 through October 11, is in the final stages, sponsors of the events have announced.

These spectator events include:

ASPENCAD MOTORCYCLE CONVENTION, September 30 through October 3. The events at the Chaparral Motor Hotel and Convention Center are, for the most part, strictly for registered convention delegates, sponsor Til Thompson has announced. The parking lot at the Chaparral has been fenced and, Thompson said, A $5 admission charge will be in effect for spectators.

The public is, however, invited to attend the Trade Show in Convention Center, the evenings of October 2 and 3, as well as the "Aspencade Climb" at Eagle Creek Ski and Recreation Area beginning at noon October 3. The climb is a 900 foot run up Boot Hill, Thompson said.

The motorcyclists will, as usual, precede the Aspencade street parade October 3, which will be highlighted by the appearance, and demonstrations of precision motorcycle riding, by the Victor McLaglen Motor Corps of California.

THE RUIDOSO DOWNS MULE SKINNERS are sponsoring mule racing at Ruidoso Downs Race Track, October 8-11, offering added money purses of $1,000, $750 and $500. The races, conducted under the same conditions as horse racing, will be held the afternoons of October 9-11.

Additional mule action includes the arena events of heading and heeling, steer stopping, barrel racing, cutting and Western Pleasure reining.

An added attraction will be the mule auction October 8.

THE HUNTER/JUMPER SHOW, October 7-11, in the arena across the road from the All-American Sales Arena, at Ruidoso Downs Race Track, is a benefit for the Ruidoso Hondo Valley Hospital.

The programming for the Hunter/Jumper Show hasn't been announced to date, but will attract the finest performing horses in the Southwest, hospital administrator Ken Moore said, "and just watching these horses and riders perform is a never to be forgotten experience, one I invite everyone to come and see."

Weekend activities

The second annual Class "A" Ruidoso Arabian Horse Show, at Western Highlands, Ruidoso Downs, kicks off at 8 a.m., Friday. Action continues Saturday and Sunday, beginning at 8 a.m.

Events to be judged by Bob Hart Sr., Scottsdale, Arizona, include all classes and riding events, naming of champions and the Snaffle Bit Futurity beginning at 1 p.m., Sunday.

ALSO ON TAP is the visitation of about 75 foreign exchange students, hosted by the Ruidoso Rotary.

The students include those from foreign nations attending school in New Mexico this year, under the Rotarian Youth Exchange Program, as well as New Mexico youths who were abroad last year under Rotary sponsorship.

Activities include a spaghetti supper Friday at the Presbyterian Church, a skating party Saturday morning at Skateland and a costume party at the church Saturday evening. A Sunday breakfast, at the church, will conclude the visitation.

Downs okays fence around water tanks

The Ruidoso Downs trustees Monday evening accepted the low bid of Graham Cory Fence Company, Roswell, in the amount of $7,828 to install fencing around the village's water storage tanks.

The trustees also approved Mayor Norman Wheeler's appointment of trustee Don Shaver to be a member of the Joint Use Board, for the Regional Wastewater System, currently under construction. The new system will serve Ruidoso and Ruidoso Downs upon completion, scheduled in the spring of 1982.

Members of the Joint Use Board include mayor Norman Wheeler and Shaver of Ruidoso Downs; mayor Lloyd L. Davis Jr., and Dorothy Pope of Ruidoso and county commissioner Ben Hall, representing Lincoln County.

eight years, according to a family friend. Their 26 year marriage ended in divorce this past summer.

Mr. Johnson left his job with the Ruidoso Street Department in May, and friends said, moved to Hobbs.

Mrs. Johnson continued to live in Ruidoso, managing the Win Place and Show package store.

Mr. Deck was the owner of Eunice Well Service Company and former owner of Millard Deck Oil Company, according to sources in Eunice. Besides oil, he had interests in ranching, property and race horses. He had lived in Eunice since 1942.

The Johnsons are survived by three daughters. Funeral arrangements are pending.

Chamber's 'Fun Day' beard judges women

BY BILLIE LARSON
Staff Writer

A panel of six women will judge beards October 25 at Ruidoso's annual Fun Day in the Park, in the categories of Best Beard (the Samson with the most abundant growth); Most Creative — News editor Cale Dickey's goatee is a fair example, and Suave and Sexiest — ala Kenny Roger's silver chin growth, maybe?

The judging, which is a highlight of the Chamber of Commerce sponsored activity, was moved up a week to allow entries some extra time for cultivating chin stubble, Chamber executive director Ed

Jungbluth said Monday at the noon meeting of the Retail Merchants Committee.

Jungbluth reported to the committee that a decision is still pending on a Grand Marshal for the Aspencade Parade on October 3. Several names were suggested, but options were left open on a final selection.

Further discussion of the parade was limited to budgetary matters; judging and trophy presentation and awarding of certificates to all entries.

In other action, the committee discussed a campaign which will urge the community's compliance with a city ordinance which calls for numbering of all homes and businesses for faster response by emergency services.

Jungbluth said "discrepancies of numbering in the business community which must be corrected," as well as "one whole subdivision that was not numbered," hamper emergency vehicles answering calls.

Local businessmen and Boy Scouts will participate in the project, he said. The Chamber will kick off the campaign in its newsletter, Jungbluth said, and "Scouts will use it as an Eagle Scout project."

He said local businessmen with numbers for sale may offer a "discount" Saturdays or weekends to encourage residents and businesses to comply with the ordinance.

C-C booth at Roswell fair

The Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce operated a promotional booth during the Eastern New Mexico State Fair at Roswell.

The booth featured brochures and other information on activities in, and around, Ruidoso during the year.

"The booth was well received," Chamber executive director Ed Jungbluth said. "We handed out a tremendous amount of publicity material to fair goers."

The booth featured registration for a three day skiing holiday, for four, at Sierra Blanca Ski Resort. Winning the holiday was Jennifer Sanchez of Roswell.

Information dispensed, Jungbluth said, covered skiing and horse racing, as well as recreational opportunities and spectator events.

The operation of the booth at the fair, Jungbluth said, was "a test run to see how it would be received."

"Our continuous slide presentation, of year around action here, was popular with the crowds at the fair."

The Chamber directors are planning to take the booth to several points in Texas in the future, though, pending an assessment of this initial exposure in Roswell, have not made any commitments. The directors have discussed setting up the booth at trade shows and some of the larger fairs in Texas, and, Jungbluth said, "will probably pursue these possibilities in the near future."

Manning the booth at the fair were Doris and Bernard Baca, Benny and Diane Coulston, Archer and Flo Wilson, Bill and Leona Fugate, Butch Grantham, Richard and Wilma Sandoval, Milton and Barbara Alcorn, Doris and Larry Langford, Lois O'Brien, Sonja Hartrout and Jungbluth.

Cocaine seized in raid

Three Ruidoso men were arrested in a 7:30 p.m., Sunday drug raid, netting three ounces of cocaine, a Criminal Investigation Division (CID) officer of the Ruidoso Police Department said Tuesday.

Arrested in a local residence were Greg Surrnick, Eric Unger and Anthony F. Giarranto, who were charged with possession of cocaine, with intent to distribute, a CID spokesman said.

Assisting CID officers in the raid, following a week's investigation, were agents of the Federal Drug Enforcement Agency and New Mexico State Police Narcotics division.

The street value of the seized cocaine was estimated to be $10,000.

PROMOTIONAL BOOTH describing Ruidoso's recreational attractions, a Chamber of Commerce project, was operated in Roswell during the Eastern New Mexico State Fair. Shown manning the display is Benny Coulston, past Chamber president.

Application deadline October 2 for big game hunting permits

Deadline for applying for deer entry permits is October 2. Six additional hunts have been approved by the State Game Commission since the 1981-82 big game proclamation was printed, according to Walt Snyder, Game Management Division chief for the Department of Game and Fish. October 2 is also deadline for applying for javelina, oryx, Siberian and Persian ibex, and trophy Barbary sheep.

The additional entry permit hunts include two on the Philmont Scout Ranch (C-5 and C-6) to alleviate deer depredation problems there, one on the Armstrong Ranch in the Capitan Mountains (C-7) and three on the San Juan State Game Refuge (C-8, C-9 and C-10). The San Juan Refuge hunts were approved by the commission at its last meeting August 28.

Application procedures for the additional entry permit hunts are the same as those outlined in the big game proclamation for previously established entry permit hunts.

The San Juan Refuge hunts — for muzzleloader hunters only — are January 9-10 (C-8), January 16-17 (C-9), and January 23-24 (C-10). Up to 100 permits will be available for each hunt; bag limit is one deer of either sex.

The hunt on the Armstrong Ranch (C-7) will be December 5-6, with up to 500 permits available; bag limit, one deer of either sex. Hunters may use rifle, muzzleloader or bow.

Up to 75 permits are available for each of the bow-only hunts (C-5, November 21-22 and C-6, November 28-29) on the Philmont Scout Ranch. Bag limit will be two deer of either sex.

Entry permit hunts outlined in the proclamation are:

C-1, November 7-8 in the Osceola Mountains, for rifle, muzzleloader or bow hunters, up to 500 permits available; bag limit, one deer of either sex.

C-2, November 14-15 in the San Andres Mountains and the Organ Mountain State Game Refuge, for rifle, muzzleloader or bow hunters, up to 200 permits available; bag limit, one deer of either sex.

C-3, November 28-29 in the Texas Canyon portion of the Organ Mountains, for bow or muzzleloader hunters only, up to 100 permits available; bag limit, one deer of either sex.

C-4, November 21-22 and November 28-29 on McGregor Missile Range east of Las Cruces, for rifle, muzzleloader or bow hunters, up to 700 permits available; bag limit, one antlered buck.

Each hunter in an entry permit area must have a valid deer hunting license with deer tag attached, plus the pertinent entry permit. For the C-3 hunts, the deer license must be validated for bow or muzzleloader. Hunters in the C-1, C-2 and C-3 hunts must also have special season deer tags ($2.25).

The javelina hunt is December 3-14 in the southwest. Up to 400 licenses are available. Anyone may apply except those who held javelina licenses for the December 1980 season.

Oryx hunts (O-1 and O-2) are December 19-22 in the White Sands area. Up to 30 licenses are available for O-1, up to 10 for O-2. Only those residents and nonresidents may apply who never held a license or an authorization to buy a license to hunt oryx in New Mexico. Bag limit for the O-2 hunt includes only oryx with broken or non-typical horns.

Persian ibex hunts in the southwest are January 16-24 (I-1), up to 30 licenses available; and January 30-February 7 (I-2), up to 100 licenses available. Up to four licenses will be available for the Siberian ibex hunt February 13-21 (I-3).

Only those residents and nonresidents may apply for I-1 and I-3 licenses who never held a license or authorization to buy a license to hunt ibex. Anyone, resident or nonresident, may apply for the I-2 hunt, including those previously licensed to hunt ibex in New Mexico.

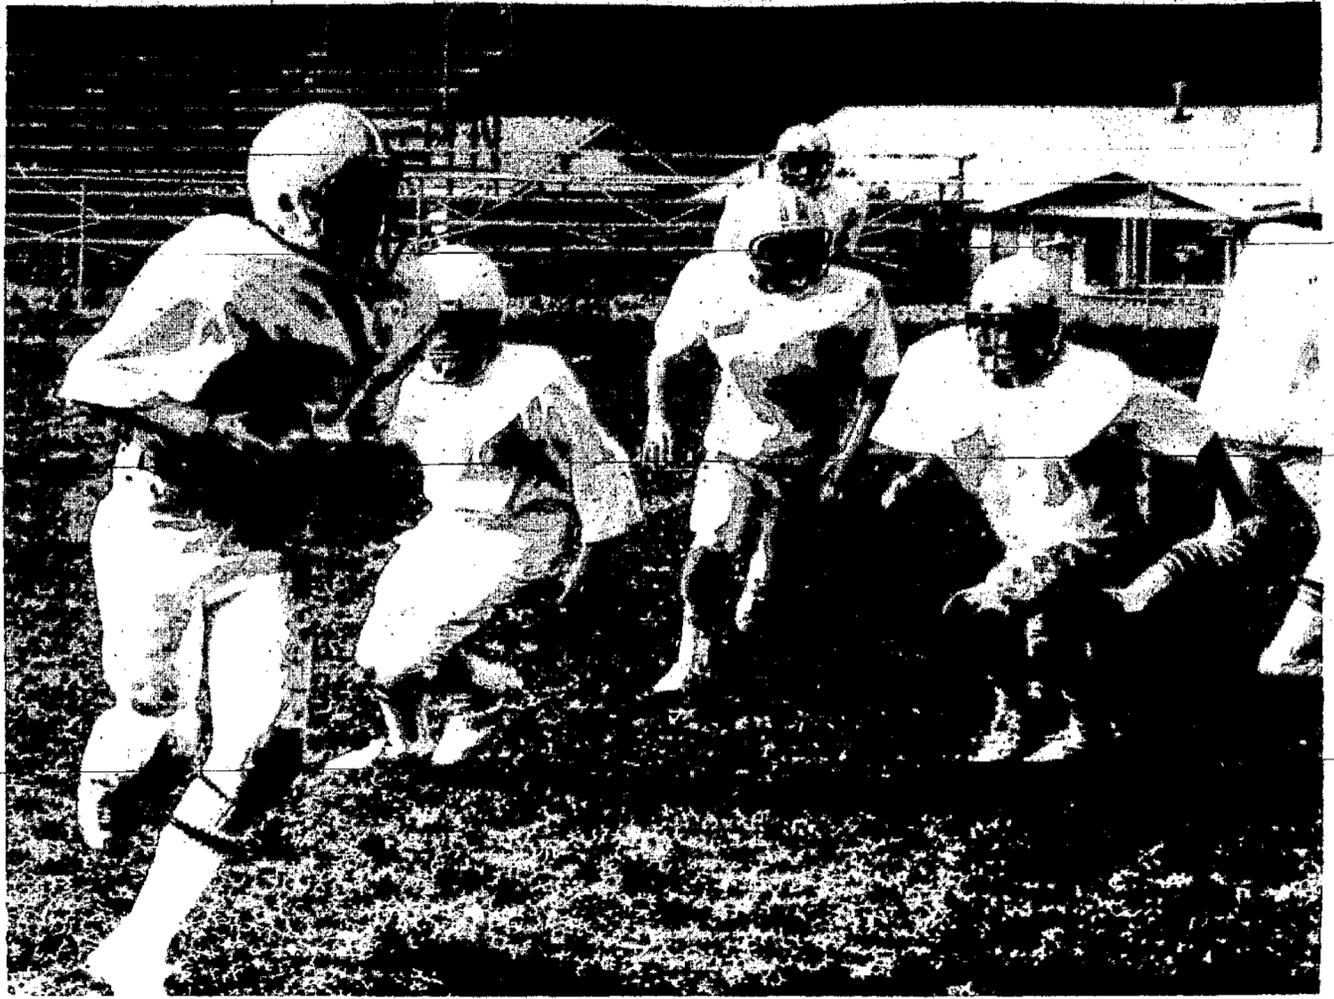

Barbary sheep hunts are January 9-17 (B-1) in the northeast, up to 100 licenses available; and in the northwest during the same dates (B-2). Anyone, resident or nonresident, may apply for B-1 or B-2 licenses, except those who held New Mexico Barbary sheep licenses of any kind from April 1, 1980, through March 31, 1981.

Correct fees must accompany javelina, oryx, ibex and Barbary sheep applications: javelina, $16 resident, $51 nonresident; oryx, ibex and Barbary sheep, $26 resident, $301 nonresident.

Application for entry permit, oryx, ibex, javelina and Barbary sheep hunts should be made on Form U, using hunt code. Up to two persons may apply under the same application number. Applications may be submitted by mail to the Special Hunt section of the Game and Fish Department's Santa Fe office or in person at a game department office in Santa Fe, Raton, Albuquerque, Roswell or Las Cruces. No one may apply for an entry permit hunt who held an entry permit for 1980-81 entry permit hunts.

Application fee is $1, nonrefundable. Payment must be by cashier's check or money order. Cash will be accepted with applications submitted in person at game department offices.

Entry permits and licenses for javelina and exotic big game will be allotted by public drawing in the game department's Santa Fe office on October 21.

SPORTS

Around Sports with Gary Brown.

The axiom, "the rich get richer and the poor get poorer," could apply a great deal to professional sports.

Although baseball is a better example of this theory with the rich, winning ball clubs buying off all the free agents there is a great deal of evidence it exists in football too.

While the more powerful NFL teams do not pay the absurd salaries to rookies that the baseball chieftans pay to free agents, they do manage to keep their teams stocked with talent through trades or excellent drafts (even if the team drafts low).

An example of this was shown in the ABC Monday Night football game between the Oakland Raiders and Minnesota Vikings.

The Super Bowl champion Raiders, who many observers thought would do an elf fold act after losing their opener to Denver, put on a defensive show in dumping the Vikings 30-10. What made the victory more impressive was the fact the Raiders lost two of their players to injuries during the contest. Of course, the Vikings lost quarterback Steve Dils to an injury but the game was already well in Oakland's pocket by that time.

One of the Raider defensive linemen was out with an injury and a rookie replaced him. Minnesota could only gain 44 yards rushing all night and the Viking quarterbacks had to run for their lives, partially due to the rookie's fine play.

It must be mysterious to some people how teams like Oakland, Dallas and Los Angeles have been NFL powers for over a decade while constantly drafting low, and why teams like New Orleans and the New York Giants have been steady losers despite high draft picks.

The answer is superior college scouting systems and the ability to pick out a player's strength where other teams can only see weaknesses.

Oakland, in particular, has been successful at picking up "castoffs" from other teams and turning them into stars. John Masturazk, the huge defensive tackle, is a good example of this.

The NFL's weaker teams could keep on getting high draft picks until the 22nd century and they still wouldn't be powerhouses until they improved their scouting system.

The draft is supposed to help weaker teams improve themselves by drafting high but in many cases, the teams drafting near the end have improved themselves more than the weak teams that draft first.

Speaking of Monday night football, I think Howard Cosell knows more about pro football than he is given credit for.

While he's not as knowledgeable about the gridiron sport as he is about boxing he knows enough about most of the teams to make intelligent comments about them.

The ABC Monday night team of Cosell, Frank Grifford, "Dandy Don" Meredith and Fran Tarkenton, in spite of all the criticism leveled at them, are an informative group. They can make any game, regardless of who the teams are, interesting and entertaining.

In fact, ABC's policy of televising games on Mondays and sometimes Thursdays adds interest to the pro football weekend.

So let's give one cheer for Howard and the boys!

Well, it didn't take long for the Ruidoso High School football team to reach the top.

At least as far as the Associated Press sportswriters of New Mexico are concerned.

The Warriors are ranked first in this week's AP poll of New Mexico AAAA teams. Ruidoso was ranked third last week but the Warriors' win over Socorro combined with losses by previously top-ranked Artesia and second-ranked Portales put Ruidoso on top.

Ruidoso received 159 points to 149 for runner-up Artesia. Other teams ranked were St. Pius, third; Portales, fourth; Tularosa, fifth; Lovington, sixth; Bloomfield, seventh; Robertson, eighth; Socorro, and Silver City tied for 10th.

Silver City lost to a Arizona team last week but was still SC as the Warriors' toughest foe this season. However, Tularosa is coming on strong and has the advantage of playing Ruidoso at home October 18.

It's not surprising that Artesia fell from the top spot this week. Even though the Bulldogs lost to AAAA power Roswell it fell by the lopsided score of 29-3. Portales lost to surprising Goddard of Roswell (another AAAA school) 19-18.

The top ranking could prove to be a disadvantage to the Warriors as it means the remaining teams on Ruidoso's schedule will probably be pointing for it.

But I think Ruidoso is equal to the task this season. Only time will tell for sure.

Injury-laden Warriors meet Dexter

You have to take the good with the bad. That saying could apply to Ruidoso High School's varsity football team. The Warriors are 2-0 on the season and top-ranked in the Associated Press state AAA poll heading into tomorrow night's game with host Dexter.

That's the good. Now comes the bad. The Warriors have been hit by a rash in injuries that has the coaching staff reshuffling the starting lineup.

Starting Junior quarterback Bill Woodul sprained his ankle towards the end of the Socorro game last week and is on crutches.

The coaching staff didn't know Woodul was hurt that badly until school started Monday morning.

Starting tight end Don Nunley and outside linebacker Kyle Flack are also doubtful for the Dexter contest.

Scott Neal, who normally starts at tailback, will go at quarterback against the Demons. Grady Williamson will switch from flanker to tailback and Dariush Rad will go at tight end and outside linebacker.

"Our offense is really hurting," said Ruidoso head coach Darrel Stierwalt. "We'll probably have to use a more ground-oriented offense against Dexter. They're the kind of team that can knock you off if you're not ready."

Stierwalt is not that worried about the defense.

"We're probably going to have to rely on our defense to give us good field position," he said. "We think we can stop them on offense."

Stierwalt is also concerned about the psychological effect of being ranked number one.

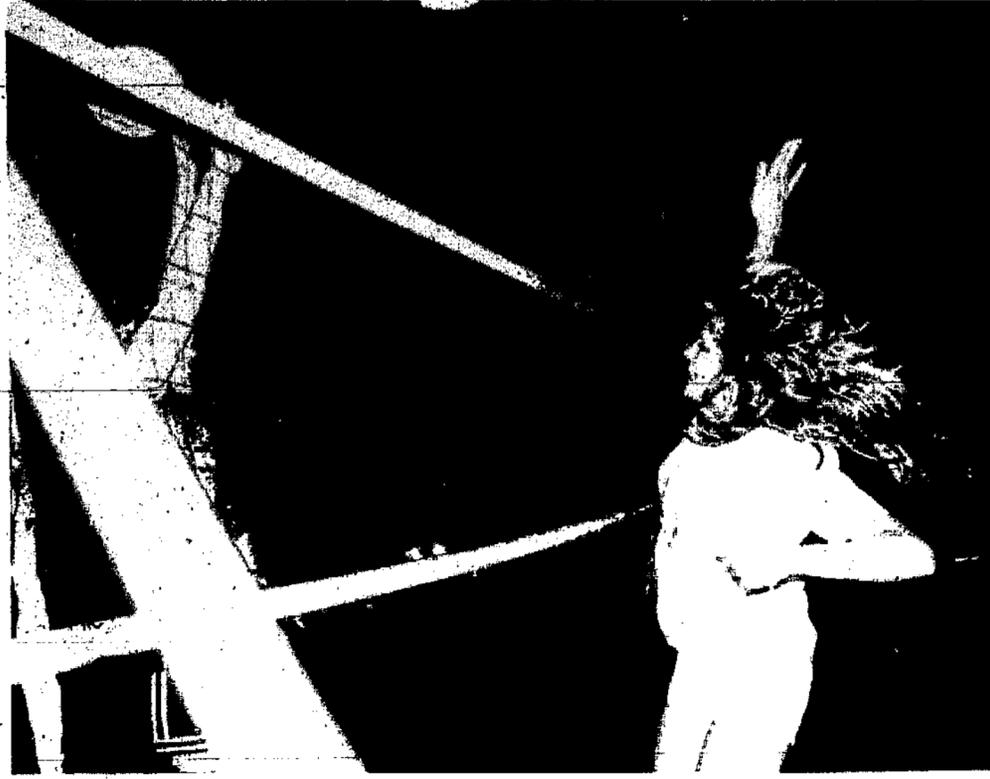

"We've had a terrible week of practice to begin with," he said. "Plus, when you're ranked number one the teams you play get keyed up for you. And the Dexter coach (Gerald Burns) always has his teams ready for a game. I know he'll use our top ranking to get his kids up for the game."

Dexter, an AA club, is 1-1 on the season. The Demons lost to Lovington 20-6 and defeated Hagerman 18-0.

The Demons are a young team but have a fine running attack built around Jamie McDaniel, a speedster. The quarterback is 5-8, 140-pound sophomore Tom Urbon. Urbon also likes to run with the ball.

Ruidoso has scored 62 points and given up but 18 in its victories over Estancia and Socorro. Woodul had passed for almost 350 yards in the two games so the Warrior passing attack may go wanting tomorrow.

KAREN BOONE of Ruidoso High School spikes the ball back across the net in varsity volleyball action against Carrizozo Tuesday night in the Warrior gym. Ruidoso won the match in three sets. The Warriors' next match is Saturday at Cloudcroft.

BILLY WOODUL

However, Neal was the starting quarterback last season and did a fine job. He's a threat to run or pass the ball when he has it. With Williamson switched to tailback Stierwalt is searching for a starting flanker and he hasn't made up his mind yet.

Neal has rushed for 192 yards in the first two games and has scored five touchdowns. Williamson, a speedy junior, should still give the Warriors a threat at tailback.

Defensively Ruidoso seems solid at every position.

Lon Nunley, who will also go at middle tackle, is outstanding at offensive linebacker. Byron Wright and Rad form a solid outside linebacking duo.

Neal heads an experienced defensive backfield while tackle Ron Bell and a trio of ends bolster the interior line. The ends, sophomore Robert Swanner, Jack Holland and John Montoya, were brilliant against Socorro.

Last year Dexter jumped off to a 14-0 lead in the first quarter before the Warriors came back for a 25-14 victory. Dexter hasn't beaten Ruidoso since 1978, when the Warriors were a AA team. The game begins at 7:30 p.m.

Ruidoso spikers rally, nip Carrizozo

Ruidoso High School's girls' volleyball team gave a Jeckel and Hyde performance in the third set of Tuesday night's opening season match with visiting Carrizozo.

Fortunately for the Warriors their good part came at the end as Ruidoso, rallied to top the Grizzlies 16-14 to clinch the victory. The Warriors had beaten Carrizozo 16-14 in the first set only to see the visitors come back with a 15-12 win in the second to set up the finale.

"We were nervous and not able to relax at the start of the third set," said Ruidoso head coach Sergio Castanon of his team's 9-0 deficit early in the set. "However once we started to relax we stopped making mistakes and we came back."

That the Warriors did, with the help of some outstanding serving by Kody Taylor. Taylor served the last five points as the Warriors came back from trailing 11-14.

After the Grizzlies had taken their 9-0 advantage in the early going of the third set the Warriors scored straight points to draw within one point at 8-9. A couple of close borderline calls on volleys helped Carrizozo up its margin to 8-12 and 11-14.

But then Taylor went to work and the Ruidoso opener turned out to be a successful one.

"We got some consistent play from Karen Boone and Laurie Morel," said Castanon. "After the early going in the third set we started spiking really well and played together as a team."

Ruidoso took the first set after it was tied several times, the last time at 14-14. In the second set, however, Carrizozo scored five straight points to take an 8-5 advantage and never trailed after that.

Castanon said the opening victory was important.

"It was great that we won it," he said.

"If we had lost it things would have been serious but we came back to win the match and that showed me something."

Carrizozo won the junior varsity match in two sets, 15-13 and 15-5.

Despite the defeat Warrior junior varsity mentor Judy Brown was not downcast.

"I felt we played pretty well for the first game," she said.

Ruidoso plays its second match of the season Saturday at Cloudcroft at 2 p.m.

Illegal pheasants bring fines

Three Clovis men have been fined a total of $400 for illegally killing pheasant near Clovis in mid-August.

Phomdivang Yeng, 40, Leck Vongnarath, 35, and Malaythong Khanphoth, 33, were arrested August 23 by officer Randy Johnson during a covert investigation by Department of Game and Fish officers into the poaching of pheasant in the southeast area of the state.

Each of the defendants was charged with illegal possession of one pheasant. Vongnarath was also charged with illegal killing of pheasant. He had two immature cock pheasants in his possession when arrested, according to Ron Porter, Southeast Area law enforcement specialist for the department.

The three men appeared before Curry County Magistrate Ernest Trapp on August 28. Yeng and Khanphoth were fined $100 each on the possession charge, and Vongnarath was fined $100 on each charge. Each also paid $10 court costs. State law provides for a maximum fine of $500 and up to six months in jail for illegal killing or possession of game birds.

LAYING IT DOWN is what a crew from the Village Streets Department has been busy doing on Meander Drive this week. Construction of new water and sewer mains in the area necessitated the repair work, which is expected to be completed next week.

FLATTENING IT OUT is the job of steel roller operator Orlando Lucero. The hot asphalt (temperature 275 degrees) goes through the laydown machine before being steel rolled, then is "kneaded" by a pneumatic roller, Street Superintendent Jack La May said.

Going Strong

by Gerry Johnson

Patents Pending

He holds 147 patents in the U.S. and more than 100 abroad. And, at 85, Horace L. Smith, Jr., a professional inventor, is still at it.

Believing that the blend of physical and mental agility is important to keep "the old machine going," Smith keeps his mind active by his inventing and his body in shape by strenuous stair walking.

Distaining weather-dependent jogging, Smith walks up seven flights of stairs every afternoon. "You use the same muscles you do in jogging," he told a writer from the National Council on the Aging, "and besides, the stairway is just outside my door," he chuckles.

Smith, who received two degrees in civil engineering from the Virginia Military Institute 65 years ago, has had 76 patents issued since he was 60 years of age.

Maintaining an office in the city, he begins work at 7:45 am, works several hours every day and always takes paperwork home with him. He shows no signs of slowing down.

One of his most significant inventions was the thermovacator, a device which provides moisture vital to tobacco leaves and shortens curing time - of particular interest to the tobacco industry surrounding Richmond, VA, Smith's home.

"It was," he says, "an overnight success and we went from a staff of one and a half persons to holding companies in several foreign countries."

In addition to his formalized training, Smith has a natural engineering bent and can be considered, perhaps, a "multi-purpose" engineer. He believes he may hold the record for the number of patents in radiant heat, for example.

As an engineer, he has built everything from bridges to baseball diamonds and football fields. His work in this field was recognized years ago when the American Society of Mechanical Engineers named him a "Life Fellow."

Smith lives in a church-sponsored retirement home with his wife of 60 years. Two grown children, five grandchildren and three great-grandchildren live nearby and add zest to an already full and useful life.

His prowess in engineering and his many patents have won Smith numerous awards and honors, but the recognition which has meant the most to him came as a result of disobeying a commanding officer in World War I.

In Argonne, France, a group of soldiers was holed up near an ammunition depot - an open invitation to German shelling. When the Germans did begin to shell the dump, Smith was ordered by a colonel to form a sentinel around the long stack of ammunition. He did "some quick engineering thinking, and some guessing too" and countermanded the orders. Instead he took 300 men to the front of the stack where they cut an alley through to keep the fire from jumping to the remainder of the pile.

They saved the ammunition and Smith explained there would have been a lot of dead Americans "had we lost our firepower."

The inventive, if brash, act earned him the Distinguished Service Cross which was presented to him by General John Pershing in 1918.

It was an honor and a memory he cherishes the most of all.

A Pentant for Pensions

Four post-retirement jobs were in the offering when Earl Hessel was forced in 1973, by company policy, to retire at age 65.

For one reason or another, Hessel, a resident of Morristown, New Jersey, did not take any of the four, but feared nonetheless that he would have to "stay home and tend the garden," a prospect he did not relish.

Now, however, the 72-year-old insurance man applies his experience to retirement planning for others.

It is not surprising that there were demands for Hessel's talents. He had, after all, been a senior vice president for Equitable Life Assurance Society.

"But", he told a writer from the National Council on the Aging, "I turned down those jobs," (including a bid to become Commissioner of Social Security), "because I did not want to leave the farm", his term for the wooded acreage he loves.

In 1974, however, Hessel, as Treasurer of the Morris Area Girl Scouts Council, was investigating a possible pension plan for the Council and ran into a former colleague from Equitable Life, Bill Flynn, president of the then-National Health and Retirement Association.

The Scouts got a pension plan and Hessel got a job.

"At first", he says enthusiastically of his part time position, "we had so many projects that I worked four or five days a week". Now he commutes 30 miles to New York City just two days a week.

Switching from a large mutual life insurance company where his work focused on individual plans to a "non-profit for non-profits" pension association, administering group plans, was a change of pace, but according to Hessel, "a valuable one."

The company has grown and changed with the times. Born in 1945 as "the stepchild of the United Way," the now-named National Health and Welfare Mutual Life Insurance Association was the first and only organization offering retirement pensions to employees of non-profit and charitable health and welfare organizations.

"It wasn't practical for the large insurance companies to offer plans to voluntary agencies which, by their nature, had small staffs," Hessel explains, "as it costs almost as much to administer a small group as it does a large corporation and there is little profit margin."

"However, after the war," Hessel continued, "non-profit organizations realized that if they were to make long term employment attractive they would have to offer this type of protection."

The National Health and Welfare Retirement Association came into being to meet that need. It was chartered as a non-profit organization itself and thus enjoyed tax advantages. That fact made it financially possible for the company to design and offer plans to non-profit agencies. Today they account for about 3,800 such group plans.

"Pension plans have been a boom to non-profits", Hessel says, "without them they would not have been able to attract and hold professionals of high caliber."

"And", muses Hessel, "where would this country be without the voluntary sector which has traditionally provided vital people-oriented services."

Radio Network Created for Older Audiences. Under the sponsorship of the Ohio Commission on Aging, New Age Radio, a daily three-minute radio program will be featured on 100 Ohio radio stations. Hosts Ed and Irene Martin, a recently retired couple with grandchildren and elderly parents, will discuss issues such as finances, retirement, health, housing and lifestyles.

Jack Ossosky, Executive Director of the National Council on the Aging, has applauded the creation of the syndicated program and said, "Not only is it a most entertaining way to provide solid information, but it is unique that the material is specific to the individual services offered by the State of Ohio."

New Age producer, Jameson Broadcasting, indicates that the series can be adapted to other states. Inquiries should be made to Margi Hess, Jameson Broadcasting, 3919 Sunbury Road, Columbus, Ohio 43219.

Apples are plentiful

A huge apple crop has been moving to market and into storage again this year in New Mexico. Earlier, there were no storage costs, and prices were the lowest of the year, said Esteban Herrera, Extension horticulturist at New Mexico State University.

Quality is tops at this peak supply time. Red Delicious is still the most popular. It is sweet, firm, fragrant and is best raw.

Golden Delicious is sweet, firm, crisp and tender. It is good raw and cooked. It's a completely different variety from the Red Delicious, resembling it only in name and general shape. The Golden Delicious is preferred as a salad apple. It turns brown more slowly after cutting than most varieties, Herrera said.

Rome Beauty is a large apple especially good for baking. It also is used for general cooking purposes.

Jonathans are juicy, moderately tart, tender and crisp. They are eaten raw and are good for all cooking purposes. Their season is much shorter than most of the other fall apples.

Winesaps are a later apple. They are deep red with an indistinct stripe. The creamy-tinged flesh is juicy, firm and moderately crisp. This all-purpose variety is a good keeper for home storage.

Apples are also perishable. They are bruised easily and should be handled carefully. They keep best in a cool, moist place. Small quantities can be kept in the refrigerator. Larger quantities may be stored in a cool, moist, well-ventilated room. It is best to buy only the amount that can be stored properly. There is no savings in buying apples in quantity if some must be thrown away.

Apples are valuable in the diet for several reasons.

"They are the calorie counter's friend," Herrera said. "An average apple has only about 90 calories. Apples contain small amounts of important vitamins and minerals, and they provide dietary fiber. Eaten raw, apples help remove food particles from the teeth."

"There are so many ways to use apples that we never need tire of them. They fit well into every course of the meal," he said.

With the main course, serve apples in stuffing, fritters, relish, sautéed with red cabbage or baked with sausage. Stuff butternut or acorn squash with chopped apples seasoned with brown sugar, butter and nutmeg.

Add apples to jellied Waldorf salad or other molded salads. Combine them with shredded cabbage and sour cream dressing, or add them to tuna or chicken salad or add to mixed fresh fruit salad.

For desserts select from applesauce cookies, fresh apple cake, baked apples stuffed with raisins, apple crisp, apple pie, cobbler or serve apple wedges with cheese.

Don't forget to serve crisp chilled apples with hot buttered popcorn as a snack.

THE CELEBRANT SINGERS of Visalia, California, will appear at 7:30 Monday evening, in a free concert in the old gymnasium at Carrizozo High School. The group of ten singers and a ten piece orchestra, is an outreach of Stone Ministries, and the concert is being presented by the First Baptist Church of Carrizozo.

Couple's slayers being sought

Located in the southwest corner of New Mexico, Hidalgo County long has been a major thoroughfare for illegal aliens entering the United States from Mexico.

Most of the time these aliens quietly pass through the area, sometimes pausing to work at odd jobs before moving on to the more populous areas northward, leaving little trace of their presence.

But occasionally, some of these aliens take advantage of the freedom inherent in American society and turn to crime as a means of support.

Tragically, on a hot August night in tiny Rodeo, this apparently cost the lives of an American rancher and his school teacher wife.

Hidalgo County Sheriff's Deputy Jack Ellis said Weldon C. Grabe, 53, and Betty Jean Grabe, 51, were found shot to death in their ranch house near Rodeo on August 21.

Ellis said investigators are looking for two illegal aliens in connection with the murders.

Apparently the Mexican Nationals had drifted into Rodeo on August 17, searching for work. The Grabes hired them to clean out some irrigation ditches and cut some weeds, but after a couple of days had been dissatisfied with their work and told them to leave.

On August 20, Weldon Grabe went to Wilcox, Arizona, to inquire about buying a tractor. While he was gone, investigators say they believe the two aliens broke into the Grabe house through a rear window and got into a gun cabinet.

Armed with a .30-30 caliber rifle and a .22 caliber rifle, the two offenders drank some beer and ate some food while waiting for the Grabes to return.

When Weldon Grabe returned from his trip, the offenders surprised him in his bedroom and shot him several times. Around 7 p.m., Mrs. Grabe arrived home from a full day of teaching an elementary school class for the Animas School System. Investigators say Mrs. Grabe was shot as she walked down the hallway of her residence.

Deputy Ellis said both victims had execution wounds behind their left ears. Their bodies were not discovered until the next day, when school officials visited the Grabe home to see why Mrs. Grabe had not shown up to teach class.

The offenders, still armed with their murder weapons, had taken the victims' pickup truck. It was found abandoned some 33 miles south of Rodeo.

Hidalgo County Sheriff's Deputy Billy Darnell and other law enforcement officials tracked the suspects on foot toward the Mexican border.

Mexican police have been alerted to the possibility that the two offenders might be hiding in the Casas Grandes area of Mexico.

The two unidentified suspects were described as males, about 5-5, with slender builds and medium length dark hair.

Family members and ranchers in Hidalgo County have posted a $3,000 reward for information leading to the solution of the twin homicides. This week the State Crime Stoppers Commission is adding a $1,000 reward to that fund.

Anyone having any information about this case and the possible whereabouts of the two suspects is asked to call State Crime Stoppers at its toll-free number, 1-800-432-6933, or Lordsburg Crime Stoppers at 542-8200. Callers do not have to reveal their identities.

The State Crime Stoppers Commission and the 32 local Crime Stoppers programs in New Mexico also pay cash rewards for information leading to the solution of other major felony crimes and the capture of wanted persons.

To date, calls to Crime Stoppers programs throughout New Mexico have assisted law enforcement officials in the solution of 3,773 crimes and the recovery of $5,278,996 worth of stolen property and narcotics. A total of 1,511 persons have been prosecuted in court on Crime Stoppers-related cases and 1,493 have been convicted.

Police 'Take Home Car Program' working well

BY TIM PALMER
Staff Writer/Photographer

The Ruidoso Police Department's "Take Home Car Program" has proven very successful in its first three months, according to Police chief Dick Swenor.

Under the program, which went into effect June 1, off duty police officers are allowed to keep their vehicles at all times instead of driving them only while on duty. "It's like their own car," said Swenor.

He explained that the 12 men in the program are allowed the personal use of police vehicles while off duty. Officers do not carry family members in their cars, however, unless given permission to do so in exceptional circumstances.

Swenor pointed out many advantages to the take home program, including increased visibility of the police force on the streets and in residential areas. Nine of the 12 cars are marked, and he noted that neighbors of officers in the program have made comments like, "We sure like to see that car over there."

The chief listed improved response time as another important benefit of the program. Off duty officers check in by radio when using their cars, he explained. "If I want just about my entire force, I can have them mobilized in 10 minutes," said Swenor.

Since each officer carries from 200 up to 600 or 700 pounds of equipment — such as foul weather gear, personal weapon, rescue equipment and accident investigation tools — the time and effort of moving it in and out of the car is saved.

Swenor cited a dramatic 43 percent drop in maintenance costs for vehicles used in the take home program. He attributed the decrease to reduced use of the cars to eight hours per day instead of 16 or 24. Having just one driver also tends to lessen wear and tear on a car, said Swenor.

Increased morale has been another plus for the program, the chief noted. "The officer takes pride in using and maintaining his own unit," he said.

"It comes in handy," said Skip Hazel, one of the policemen taking part in the program. "I don't have to keep moving my equipment back and forth, in and out."

Swenor explained that the department pays for all of the gas used by police vehicles, but that any extra expense is justified by the benefits of the take home program. Besides those mentioned, he cited increased longevity of vehicles, higher trade-in value, better mileage, and less overtime costs with off duty officers more readily available for backup.

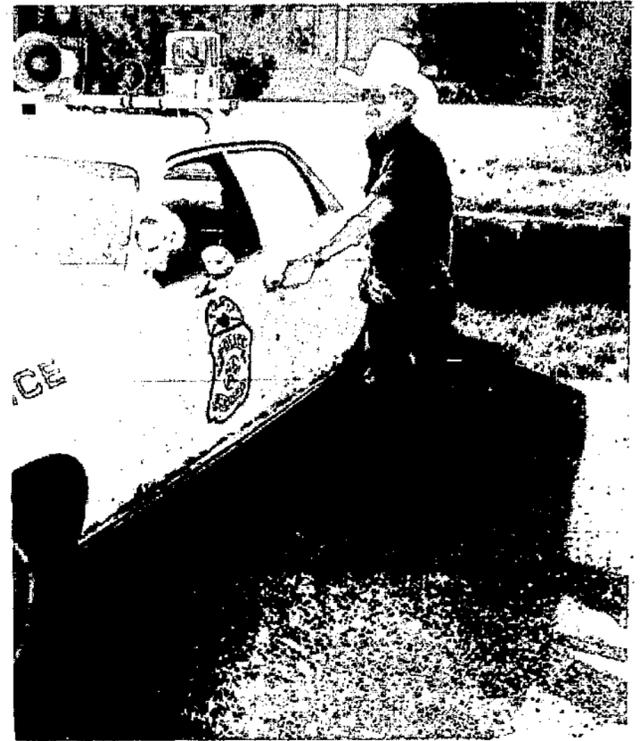

The chief also predicts a drop in the rate of accidents involving police vehicles. "The officers tend to be more defensive drivers," he said. He added that the program has no effect on insurance rates.

All in all, Swenor is pleased with the take home car program in its three months of operation. And, he said, "The more we get into it, I think the better it will be."

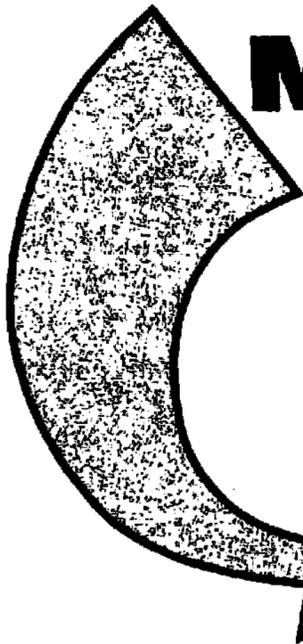

A LOT OF GEAR, up to six or seven pounds worth, is carried by Ruidoso Police personnel. Corporal John Layher, a member of the department's Tactical Operations Division (TAC), checks his equipment. Before the take home car program, officers had to constantly move their gear in and out of police vehicles.

HEADING HOME after a duty shift is Ruidoso Policeman Skip Hazel. Hazel and 11 other members of the force are participating in a take home car program which enables them to keep and use the same vehicle at all times.

Inside The Capitol

by Fred McCaffrey

SANTA FE — Hank Pohlmann's back again.

Some will remember that he and his cohorts got their noses out of joint when this column failed to list him as a bona fide candidate for governor on the Republican ticket.

Now he's mad because we referred to Bob Grant as the only candidate who is a scientist.

Pohlmann's a scientist, he says — a registered professional geologist who belongs to the Society of Petroleum Engineers.

He also claims he is a candidate for governor.

It's at just that point that he and this writer part company. We think he's an intelligent, articulate man, with many good ideas, who is taking advantage of the electoral process to communicate those thoughts to New Mexico.

That's a laudable aim.

We'll even help him achieve it.

For instance, we'll quote right now one of his statements, eloquent in its very simplicity, with which we couldn't agree more: "The primary purpose of a college is to educate and equip the student for survival — not to play basketball."

But that doesn't mean we really believe he thinks he stands a chance of being nominated.

There are no technical reasons why this writer could not be named the next Pope, though a few steps would have to be taken before he could be consecrated. But to believe that simply because he announces he is available for the post he becomes what can truly be called a candidate for it would be ludicrous.

In other words, Hank, your communications are enjoyable, your friends are both numerous and faithful, and maybe, you'd make an outstanding governor.

Keep sharing your thoughts with us, and we'll pass them on.

But don't ask us who know what one must go through to be elected governor to take you seriously in the role of candidate.

(So, okay, get mad, and go out and prove us wrong. A lot worse things have happened to New Mexico.)

State Liquor Director Jim Baca has not been notably swift in taking this columnist's advice, for reasons we will never understand; surely we've tried to be helpful to the lad on many occasions.

But he might be well advised to take a tip from here this time.

This column has gotten repeated complaints that one of his liquor agents who, while calling on bar operators, also attempts to sell them Indian jewelry and recordings made by his son. Bar-owners consider that action, from a man who has power over them, a light form of extortion. They resent it bitterly.

They also remember that this same man was grounded by Carlos Jaramillo for that same offense, and cannot understand why Baca tolerates it.

Oh, yeah. And that agent who sells chile out of the back of his state car — he ought to be stopped also.

Eagle-eye Bill Mayfield, the sage of Bland, says Porky Litigow isn't the first to consider the race for State Treasurer. Bernalillo county treasurer Bill McBroom has already begun his campaign for the post.

McBroom is a Republican.

We should have said Porky is the first Democrat.

Letters to the Editor

Dear editor,

I would like to say a big AMEN to "Al's" letter regarding Continental Telephone Company in your September 7 issue of The Ruidoso News.

I too have come across problems that should be associated with a company just starting out in business. In one particular instance, I dialed a 258 number and got a recording that my phone was out of order. Figure that one if you can! These new 258 numbers are supposed to be an expansion, not a detriment.

Then, there is the time I called information for a phone number. After dialing 1-411 information said, "Your number please." I asked her why she needed my number, she replied, "You are charged 20 cents for every call to information after the 3rd call." I proceeded to tell her that the phone number I was requesting was not in the phone book or in the new 258 directory. With the exchange of several words, she reluctantly gave me the phone number at no extra charge. Now that's what I call real service! I might mention that the phone number I requested was not an unlisted number.

We have recently had our phone moved from one house to another. And like "Al" we were shocked at our bill of $86.00. I called the business office to find out what all the "letters" were they had charged us for, and I received some very expensive answers. There was a $15.00 charge just for coming to our house. Then of course they had a $10.00 handling charge on there too. My husband asked what they said that was for. They had said it was for the phone the phoneman had in the truck and brought into our house. My husband said, "Well if I had known that, I would've gone out to the truck and carried it in for him, and saved us $10.00 too." The remainder of the bill was for installation and wiring. I sure hope we won't be moving anytime soon.

Well, I guess I will sign off with the same thoughts that "Al" signed off with. What Continental Telephone Company needs is some good old competition. Perhaps this would bring us better service and more reasonable rates.

editorial

It was interesting to note that Highway 532 project foreman Harold Armstrong said, of the two inches of blacktop being applied, that it should last 10 years — or more.

This remains to be seen.

What is important, is the fact that the resurfacing of Ski Run Road will enable the Chamber of Commerce to ballyhoo the safer driving conditions on that 12 mile stretch of road — as compared to the hazards skiers and area folks alike have been maintaining existed during the years just past.

Last ski season, equipment shop operators and lodgers repeated comments passed on to them that the road was too "dangerous," and this word spread to skiers, lending, perhaps, to discourage them from coming to ski Sierra Blanca.

What is comforting, in view of the running discussion that's being going on for the past few years with the State Highway Department, is that we've been told, by the department, that this will be a first class resurfacing job — accompanied, we presume, by replacement of guard rails, added safety features and easier maintenance and snow removal.

Everyone who became "the wheel that squeaked the loudest," made a contribution to this project — resurfacing Ski Run Road — in that the Highway Department, after due delay, agreed that repairing the road was a major project — though obtaining this admission took a lot of time and a lot of efforts.

So it's now a situation of "mission accomplished," and time for all of us here to do everything possible to promote "Ski Ruidoso." — CD

Sense & Nonsense

U.S. Sen. Pete Domenici

Rebuilding America's defense for the 1980s is turning out to be the critical question facing the 97th Congress. How much defense spending can our recovering economy handle at this time? While it is certainly clear that our national security is necessary for economic prosperity at home, it is also just as clear that unless the economy recovers and America's business and industry get back on their feet, inflation and high interest rates will send the costs of even the barest essentials of national defense skyrocketing.

One answer to this problem may be in the Defense Department's Small Business Advanced Technology Program (DESAT). Recognizing that small business has an established record for innovation (Small business has produced 24 times more innovations per R&D than big business and more than half of the major technological advances of this century have come from individual inventors and small companies), the Department of Defense is interested in tapping this important resource to meet national defense needs, something they have neglected to do in the past.

This program appears to be tailor-made for New Mexico, with its emphasis on small business and high technology growing as a result of our two major research facilities, Sandia and Los Alamos Laboratories. We will be working closely with the Defense Department to bring New Mexico small business into a leadership role in developing innovative technology.

There are many technical areas of interest proposed for study under the DESAT program and some of these have already been developed somewhat by private industry for their own use. These include new uses for solar and electric power, computer architecture and software development, and advanced computer graphics and control displays.

Other areas of interest to the Defense Department are research projects into technology that should serve us well into the 21st Century. These range from electromagnetics, laser and photo optics, electronic communications, acoustics, and aerodynamics, to fluid mechanics, materials and coatings, navigation, and solid lubrication. Medical research need includes chemical detection and decontamination, disease prevention and treatment, and nuclear burst and radiation detection.

The Department of Defense anticipates awarding approximately 100 contracts for up to $50,000 each for feasibility research and development over a six-month period. Those projects judged most promising will receive an additional $500,000 Phase II contract award for R&D.

The DESAT program will benefit all parties involved — the Defense Department, small business, and the American taxpayer, whose dollars go to fund this program.

For national defense, DESAT is critical. Technological innovation is often credited with being the most important single contributor to the economic and military strength of the United States. Although innovative research in the fields of science and engineering has solved many of the problems in the past, our national defense still faces many problems of increasing complexity and technical content.

Small business also benefits from DESAT which increases the incentive and opportunity for small firms to undertake high risk research and development that has a high potential payoff if successful. Major technological innovations often require high risk investment, especially in the early stages, and DESAT funding of the front-end research on new ideas may provide a way for small businesses, lacking these large amounts of capital to invest, to undertake R&D projects. Further down the road, these same small businesses may be provided with the opportunity to provide the military with new potential products, processes, and services.

Finally, DESAT is taxpayers' dollars well spent. In this time of fiscal restraint, we need to ensure that every dollar spent is a dollar spent wisely and productively. Small business has the proven record of innovation and this small amount of money invested in DESAT should return the large dividends of new technology so critical to our national defense.

$1 TRILLION DEBT

This week's U. S. News and World Report, in an article on the public debt reaching $1 trillion . . . and saying that it'll go higher . . . contained this inset paragraph:

"How much is 1 trillion dollars? At the rate of $1 a second, it would take about 31,700 years — far longer than mankind's recorded history — to spend 1 trillion."

What'll you wager — given a liberal Congress and President — that they couldn't get the job done . . . spend $1 trillion, that is . . . without raising a sweat . . . in a year . . . six months . . . three months . . . hell, make it a fortnight.

On Charity "Feeds"

If'n you like to chomp on good food . . . especially when it's for a "good cause" . . . he of good cheer . . . chompin' time's comin'.

First on the list is the Sertoma Club's pancake breakfast . . . October 3 . . . with serving beginning at the unseemly hour of 8 or 7 a.m. . . so that one and all can become adequately fortified for the rigors of the big Aspencade Saturday . . . watching the motorcycles . . . the parade . . . whatever . . . and all that watching takes energy . . . and those members of Sertoma'll be laboring, toiling and sweating to provide the means for you to build up all that energy.

Sertoma'll use the proceeds for strictly community projects . . . being's they're the organization as say their motto is "Service to Mankind." . . . and those Sertomans'll appreciate your patronage.

Then come October 27 there'll be Enchilada Day . . . with Rotarians handling the preparation of this repast . . . which they tout as being the best enchiladas around . . . and, by jinkies, judging from the way local and area folks line up to devour 'em . . . the Rotarians must be right on in their somewhat modest assessment of their product.

As to what the Rotarians'll use funds for, they haven't said . . . but rest assured it'll be to make the quality of life better here in Harmony Valley . . . 'cause the Rotarians don't back off from supporting a worthy civic project . . . so get your enchilada tasting buds in shape . . . and plan to get with it . . . come October 27 . . . even if you burp!

SHAKEY'S FOR WATER

Tuesday afternoon it was . . . maybe a couple hours before ice tea time . . . down on the Rio Ruidoso . . . up from the sewer plant . . . I espied Shakey Pete . . . shakin' on the bank like a near drowned pup . . . and saying things not fit for a family newspaper . . . 'cause it was obvious he'd just left the river . . . by going up the bank . . . 'cause, obviously, it'd happened. I'd had a picture, but I got to laughing so hard, I never got around to it.

Anyhow . . . couple hours later . . . at ice tea time . . . sure enough . . . into the parlor pops Shakey . . . all decked out in dry duds . . . but still shakin' a mite . . . 'cause, as he said, "That water's C-O-L-D!"

So . . . after a bit of small talk about it not being necessary to physically enter a trout's domain to catch one . . . and after quaffing a cockles-of-your-hearwarming ice tea . . . Shakey sorta quit shakin' . . . and quaking . . . and began a discourse on water.

"I read in The Ruidoso News," Shakey began . . . "where we done up and drilled us four water wells . . . which is good . . . with what's had about it being, we can't use them wells . . . not that's downright bad." He peered into his ice tea glass . . . shook his head . . . held up two fingers at the gregarious lady hovering nearby to take our order for a refill . . . then kinda stared off into space . . . warning me that Shakey was thinkin' . . . which, as I've sorta hinted at before, is always a bad sign . . . for my ears.

"I sure hope that state engineer figures as how we needs that water," . . . he took a sorta small, for Shakey, quaff, burped . . . "for, way I see it, we'll be needin' that water . . . what with all the buildin' goin' on . . . and probably by next year.

"Yup, way I figure it, if'n we ain't taking no water but that as belongs to us . . . and no one else . . . we can have a lot of water . . . and keep everybody more or less happy . . . with the thought being that maybe crusty old trustee George White'd be real happy if'n we have a couple reservoirs full . . . and tanks . . . and pipes . . . which wouldn't be all bad . . . Yup, sure hope that engineer engineers things in our favor."

BRIEF BIT: Those guys as has been doing things to get into the state pen must've been listening to Governor King, instead of reading the papers . . . CD

ART, DINING AND ENTERTAINMENT GUIDE

State Fair observing Centennial

The New Mexico State Fair, the seventh largest exposition in the United States, has come a long way in a century, and this year's Centennial Fair will pay homage to the first New Mexico Territorial Fair back in 1881.

The two-hour parade, set for Saturday morning, September 19, will have a centennial theme with old time floats, not unlike ones folks watched when Old Town was just a cluster of adobe buildings, general stores and saloons.

Other activities and displays pointing to that historical background will include museum exhibits and an original street car that shuffled people from new Albuquerque to Old Town where the fair was held. In 1938, the location was moved to its current site.

This year's New Mexico State Fair will be modern in every respect, and officials are counting on it establishing records once again.

"We should certainly top last year's attendance," said Bill Humphries, State Fair manager. "I'm looking at about 1.3 million people coming through the gates and a pari-mutuel handle of about $14,700,000."

Last year's figures were all-time records, with a gate of 1,145,534 and a racetrack handle of $14,277,792.

State Fair officials are pleased with the planning of the major attractions such as the rodeo, racing, carnival and the stars.

"The rodeo should be one of the best ever staged in New Mexico, and keeping the State Fair in the top half-dozen competitions in the country," Humphries said. Rodeo purses this year are up to $47,200.

The 17-day pari-mutuel racing meet and first class horse shows are to begin September 11.

Humphries said that the carnival, one of the biggest crowd pleasers, will introduce some new attractions and should be top drawer this year.

Emmylou Harris, Johnny Rodriguez, Ray Price, Mickey Gilley, Johnny Lee,

John Conlee and Sylvia are all big-name musicians and are expected to attract and please huge audiences in nightly shows in Tingley Coliseum with the All-Star Rodeo. "All in all, it's come together nicely and we're expecting a big year," Humphries said, "we've really tried to set it up to please most New Mexicans."

The Centennial New Mexico State Fair — The Biggest Show in New Mexico — will be held in Albuquerque September 16 through 27.

Solar power exhibit set at State Fair

Agricultural Experiment Station, a photovoltaic powered water fountain and fan, cutaway models and unglazed elements of manufactured air and liquid collectors, models of passive solar designed houses and sample glazing material for use in building greenhouses and/or trombe walls.

Solar tax rebate information will be available at the exhibit from personnel of the New Mexico Bureau of Taxation and Revenue.

If you're "thinking solar" you can visit with New Mexico Solar Energy Institute personnel at the New Mexico State Fair's new Energy, Science and Technology Exhibition outside in the courtyard, see the working solar exhibits and pick up numerous free solar publications that will help consumers make informed decisions about using solar energy.

If you're going to the New Mexico State Fair in Albuquerque, September 16-27, and you're "thinking solar" you might like to know that the New Mexico Solar Energy Institute exhibit has moved to the new Energy, Science and Technology Exhibition located west of Tingley Coliseum.

The institute is planning a bigger display of working solar exhibits including three different types of solar water heating systems. There will be two active domestic water heating systems — a draindown system which uses water in the collectors and a closed loop system which uses antifreeze and a heat exchanger. A passive breadbox water heater built to institute specifications will also be on display.

Other solar exhibits include a working model of an alcohol still from New Mexico State University's Plains Branch

Attractions listed for State Fair

The Tingley attractions at the New Mexico State Fair, Albuquerque, open on Wednesday, September 16, with the 16th annual Spanish Heritage Show. There is no rodeo with the show, which is geared at highlighting the Hispanic culture. Mexican and recording star Lucia Villa will star at the two-hour show, which will also feature Pedro Rey y Los Galleros mariachi. Added to the bill are New Mexico favorites, Al Hurricane and Tiny Morrie and their bands and child star Lorenzo Antonio Sanchez.

The ten-night All-Star Rodeo opens on Thursday, September 17, with Mickey Gilley, Johnny Lee and the Urban Cowboy Band on stage for one night only.

Friday, September 18, will feature record star John Conlee for a single night. Johnny Rodriguez takes the stage on Saturday and Sunday, September 19 and 20.

All-time great western singer Ray Price headlines Monday and Tuesday, September 21 and 22.

Top-ranked Emmylou Harris will be at the rodeo Wednesday and Thursday, September 23 and 24.

New singing sensation Sylvia will be the final attraction in Tingley Coliseum on the last two nights of rodeo, Friday and Saturday, September 25 and 26.

Old-time fiddling contest scheduled at State Fair

Old-time fiddling is an art that is a lot more popular than a person thinks.

Such a competition was introduced at last year's New Mexico State Fair and was held in the Opera House, which was packed for the two-day contest.

As a result of the interest, the second annual State Fair Fiddler Contest will be held this year in the massive Tingley Coliseum.

The preliminaries will be held all day

Friday, September 25, with the championship planned for Saturday afternoon.

There are five entry classes, depending on age. Entries must be received by 10 a.m., on September 25.

Some of $1,375 in cash premiums, plus a number of trophies, have been set aside for the winners.

Full details may be obtained by contacting the State Fair entry office in Albuquerque.

Melodrama at State Fair

You can hiss the villain and you can cheer the hero — it's all part of the popular old-time melodrama, which has been a staple part of the Opera House shows at the New Mexico State Fair for several years now.

Producer Dona Kanln reports the show, written by Sneed Hearn (Albuquerque's own Andy Gregg), is one of the best plays ever planned by the troupe.

The show is called "The Mail Order Sheriff of Hobbers Roost" and it's published by Baker Plays.

The players for this year's show are Ross Elder, Jack Stanton, Peggy Stanton, Joan Plunkett, Paul Plunkett and Tanley Gregg.

Piano playing, always a vital part of any old-time melodrama, is by Tom Doty. Well-known caricaturist Pat Trujillo is doing all the graphics for the show.

A special added attraction with the melodrama is a rowdy and colorful can-can dance by members of the Krasnoff School of Dance.

The melodrama will be presented daily in the State Fair Opera House at 6 p.m.

It, and all other shows in the Opera House, are free to all fairgoers.

A FULL MOON BEAMED down on Ruidoso as the morning sun reached the valley.

Lost airline tickets an expensive hassle

What happens when an airline ticket gets lost? Lots of things, most of them bad. Anyone who picks up a lost airline ticket can treat it like a negotiable financial instrument. It can easily be used to buy another ticket on another airline, on a different flight, to a different destination.

Professional criminals who are adept at creating false identification can even turn a lost ticket in for a cash refund, according to Jackie Martin, Extension family finance specialist at New Mexico State University.

Even the Civil Aeronautics Board admits that replacing or refunding a lost ticket can be a time consuming nuisance, Martin said.

As a precaution, travelers should jot down the ticket number on a separate piece of paper and put in where it isn't likely to be lost. If the ticket goes astray, airlines can process refund applications quicker with this number. The number is also the quickest way to get an on-the-spot replacement ticket.

Lost tickets should be reported to the issuing airline immediately. If the ticket was bought through a travel agent, the issuing airline is the one whose name was imprinted on the ticket.

Once the airline is convinced that the person claiming the refund is the one who bought the ticket, they will begin processing the refund application. Some airlines do this right away, but some can take up to four months.

If the original ticket is used, or cashed in, by someone else, the airline may refuse to give the money back to the original purchaser. Finally, there is almost always a handling fee, $5 or $10, the airline will deduct from the refund.

Getting a refund or replacement for a lost airline ticket is seldom easy, and there's no guarantee the person who paid for the original ticket will get either a refund or replacement.

The best advice is — don't lose the ticket in the first place.

Visual Arts fellowship grants open to professional painters

October 15 is the deadline for practicing professional painters to submit applications to the Visual Arts program of the National Endowment for the Arts (NEA) for its $25,000 Painting Fellowships.

Starting in 1982, most of the Endowment's fellowship grants to visual artists will be in the amount of $25,000, in contrast of the previous $12,500 awards. The program will continue, however, to award a few grants to emerging artists; these will be increased to $5,000 from the previous $3,000 level.

These high amounts, combined with fewer dollars in the NEA appropriation, will of course mean that fewer fellowships will be awarded and that competition will be stiffer than ever. In recent years, only about 3 percent of fellowship applications have been funded. There is nothing to be gained by submitting work to this national competition unless it is ready to be evaluated in a rigorous professional context, the NEA guidelines point out. Applications must be accompanied by 10 slides of recent work plus, if desired, not more than two catalogs of recent exhibitions and/or not more than three reviews of recent work.

In reviewing applications, the NEA panelists consider the quality of the work as demonstrated by the material submitted, the artist's record of professional activity and achievement, and evidence, based on these two factors, that the artist's work reflects continued, serious and exceptional aesthetic investigation.

Complete information, guidelines, and application forms may be obtained by writing to the Director, Visual Arts Program, National Endowment for the Arts, 2401 E St. N.W., Washington, D. C. 20506. Information and application forms are also available from the New Mexico Arts Division, 113 Lincoln Avenue, Santa Fe, New Mexico 87501. The Arts Division's telephone number is 827-2061.

State Fair sets Sunday church service

Popular rodeo personality Wilbur Plaughter, will be featured speaker at an interdenominational church service at the 1981 Centennial New Mexico State Fair on Sunday, September 20, at Tingley Coliseum.

This is the first time a religious service has been held as part of the festivities of the annual exposition.

Plaughter, a nationally known rodeo clown who has been a star attraction at New Mexico State Fairs for nearly two decades, is a member of the Rodeo Chapter of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes, the sponsoring organization.

A highlight of Sunday's service will be an interdenominational 200-member choir singing traditional and modern gospel music under the direction of Sandia Baptist Church Music Director Harold Walker.

Admission is free and the event is open to the public.

Energy exhibit at State Fair

The latest research and development advances in energy and technology will be the theme of a brand new exhibit at the 1981 Centennial New Mexico State Fair.

The Energy Science Technology Exhibit, to be located across from Tingley Coliseum, is a joint effort by federal, state and local governments along with private enterprise. It is designed to present information in an interesting and understandable manner to the citizens of New Mexico.

Sponsors of the exhibit are the Public Service Company of New Mexico, Los Alamos National Laboratories, Sandia National Laboratories, Sohio Western Mining Company, State of New Mexico Department of Energy and Minerals, Phillips Uranium Corporation, U. S. Department of Energy, New Mexico Bureau of Mines and Mineral Resources, City of Albuquerque Environmental Health Department and New Mexico Solar Energy Institute.

Celebrity series set at ENMU-R

A Celebrity Speakers series will be launched at Eastern New Mexico University-Roswell (ENMU-R) September 23, with the appearance of Gene Roddenberry, creator and producer of Star Trek, the television series that became a classic.

Under the auspices of the ENMU-R student government Roddenberry will bring a Star Trek Experience show to the college campus. The program will be a combination of Gene Roddenberry live on stage and special film material that relates to Star Trek including a collection of TV bloopers, outtakes and flubbed lines from the series.

Student Star Trek fans will have the opportunity to meet Gene Roddenberry in person, to ask him questions and to hear first hand about Star Trek's past, present and future.

Roddenberry brings with him the original award winning Star Trek television pilot, "The Cage," which will be shown in its entirety. "The Cage" was never shown on television in the original form because it was considered too specialized for mass audiences.

The show, at 10:30 a.m., September 23, will be in the Student Union Building Ballroom. It is planned for UNMU-R students but Allen Salm, president of the campus Student Government said that if all the tickets are not picked up by students the extras will be made available to the public at no charge on September 21. Representatives from the area high school student governments will be invited as ENMU-R guests.

Area media will have the opportunity to interview Roddenberry at a 9 a. m., press conference in the Student Union Building Music room. High school newspaper editors will be invited to the conference.

ENMU-R Student Government will bring four additional programs to the campus as part of the Celebrity Speakers Series. They are: Dr. Brain O'Leary, special advisory of the United States Space program for Omni magazine November 18; David Young, a magician traveling the college circuit originally from Roswell, November 20; Harold Saunders, America's leading expert on the Middle East, February 20, and the former Dr. Spock, Leonard Nimoy, April 7.
