NO. 39 IN OUR 36TH YEAR

RUIDOSO, LINCOLN COUNTY, NEW MEXICO 88345

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 24, 1981

HOEING HER OWN ROW is Ruidosoan Mae Cunningham. She told The News she was tired of "the nasty mess we have on the main drag," so she decided to do something about it. What she did was clear all the weeds from the Plaza Center sidewalk and clear the parking lot of bottles and other debris. And it was, she said, "a tough row to hoe."

FIELDING QUESTIONS on the quality of the Village of Capitan's water supply Tuesday evening were, from the left, Benny Coker, councilman; Ken Bray, councilman; David Cummins, councilman; John Burkstaller, EID, Roswell; Jim Edwards, EID, Ruidoso: Don Stark, mayor; Percy Blair, EID, Roswell; Harvey Martin, water superintendent and Leon Eggleton, clerk-treasurer.

Village GRT rate lowered by ordinance

The Ruidoso trustees met in special session Tuesday and adopted an ordinance which city officials hope will end the confusion over the gross receipts tax. The new ordinance amends an ordinance which was adopted by the trustees June 30. According to Mayor Lloyd L. Davis Jr., the June ordinance imposing an additional half cent tax on gross receipts was found by the state Bureau of Revenue to put the village over the legal limit for such a tax.

The new ordinance calls for an additional one-quarter cent tax. Trustees present, George White, Benny Coulston and Frank Sayner, all accepted it unanimously. Mayor Davis registered an "in favor" vote.

In other business, the trustees: — Agreed to extend the contract of Ken Williams Company of Albuquerque for painting water reservoir tanks.

Bicycle parade entry rules set

Ruidoso youths planning to enter the Decorated Bicycle division of the Aspenade Parade, should meet at 9 a.m., October 3, in the parking lot of the Mountain Ski Shop, Chamber of Commerce executive director, Ed Jungbluth, said Monday. They need not, as in previous years, come to the Chamber beforehand to register, he said. Instead, Jungbluth said, "The kids will this year gather in the ski shop parking lot at 9 a.m., on the third, where they will be registered, and numbers will be assigned for their bikes."

winners will be handed out, he said. The kids will then be moved into the parade from the parking lot area, Jungbluth said, as an added safety precaution. Beards may represent some kind of security blanket to local fanciers of the brush, as only one lone male has been willing to meet the annual beard growing contest requirements by parting with his chin growth long enough for a clean-shaven "before" photograph to be taken, Jungbluth said: For this reason, he said, this year's beard growing contest will be cancelled. A Grand Marshal for the parade still has not been decided on, Doris Baca, Chamber secretary, said Wednesday.

Voters okay beer, wine licensing

Beer and wine licensing for Ruidoso restaurants was approved in Tuesday's special election by a vote of 368 to 71. A total of 439, out of about 2,180 registered voters, approved the issue by the five-to-one margin. Election results will be forwarded to the state Department of Alcoholic Beverage Control, village clerk Laurie Durham said Wednesday. She said licenses will not be issued until November, "at the earliest."

Capitan airs water woes

BY JEAN PATTERSON
Staff Writer

More than 60 Capitan residents attended a special public meeting Tuesday at the town's Lincoln County Fair Building to find answers, voice complaints and seek some solutions concerning a water quality problem dating back to early July.

The water in the town's system varies in color from brown to black, smells bad and is impossible to drink, according to some of the residents. Because of a higher-than-normal amount of iron in the water system, many of the women complained that the inside of their washing machines and dishwashers were becoming stained, in addition to stained clothing washed in the machines.

Capitan's problem began in early July when the city's chlorination unit on the water system broke down. The chlorine is added to the water after it has gone through the filtering system.

According to John Burkstaller, New Mexico Environmental Improvement Division (EID) representative from Roswell, the chlorinator serves two main purposes. One is to work as a safety precaution by disinfecting the water. The other purpose is to separate some of the sediment and other deposits from the water that will eventually go towards domestic use.

When the broken chlorinator was detected, through testing, the National Guard was called to supply Capitan residents with fresh water. The guard is called only in situations where there is a threat to people's safety.

Until the new chlorinator could be installed, council members and other residents poured chlorine into the system by hand to insure safe water. Now the chlorinator is relieving one problem.

To compound this situation, however, was the malfunctioning of the filtering system, responsible for the dark color and bad odor of the town's water. According to Burkstaller, the media from the filtering system was missing, apparently left out the last time the unit was cleaned. The media consists of gravel, sand and anthracite coal, a mixture through which the water passes that cleans out many of the sediments. Replacing the media is routine, according to Burkstaller. But the routine was interrupted when the entire filtering system broke down.

"The water is safe to drink. It's just an aesthetic problem," Burkstaller said. But convincing Capitan residents of this is a different story.

Two men from the community displayed used water filters from their homes. One filter was completely black after three days of use. The original color is tan. The other sample, though not as bad, was still discolored after a short use period.

Many of those at the meeting complained about the "crud" and "gunk" discovered in their water, saying they didn't care if it was supposed to be safe — they wouldn't drink it.

"The smell gags me. I wouldn't be able to drink it," one woman said. A man at the meeting described the situation as, "I've watched the water turn black, then foamy, then cloudy and then black again."

As Jim Edwards, Ruidoso EID representative, and Burkstaller explained, when the filtering system was not working, some of the particles of "crud" that were allowed to enter the water flow collected in the pipes in many areas throughout the system.

"It's junk passing through the filter. The material went through the lines, decayed and used up the oxygen. This let off sulphate in the water from the lake (Bonita)," Burkstaller said. Lake Bonita is the source of Capitan's water.

This substance is then in a mixture of hydrogen sulfide which is the source of the bad odor. Another reason for the particles in the water was contributed to Lake Bonita, since the water is drawn from the bottom of the lake, where sediment has settled.

Other Capitan citizens were concerned that the mineral content may have changed enough to cause harmful physical effects but the men from the EID denied that the mineral content could have changed so dramatically. However, after urging from some of the townspeople, Burkstaller said another check would be conducted to detect mineral content.

Residents were assured their dark water problems would soon be solved since the town purchased a new filtering system. The new $10,000 unit, purchased from Culligan's, is actually just a small unit that will be used as a back-up system in case the main filtering system ever breaks down again.

When the missing part for the media arrives, the large system will be put back into operation. Currently, Harvey Martin, Capitan's water superintendent, is flushing all of the water lines throughout the town.

A major complaint coming from the residents was the lack of communication between the village council, the residents at the EID, as expressed by Dr. David Rouleau.

Two abnormal coliform counts were taken consecutively August 11 and 19, according to the EID personnel. Rouleau pointed out that such a condition shouldn't exist. Although that situation existed, Burkstaller said that bad coliform samples don't necessarily mean the water is not good. "It is just an indication that the disinfectant is not good," he said.

As far as alerting people that there may be a water quality problem, the procedure is first to take tests, such as the coliform count, with a report on results taking as long as a week. The only other step required is to insert the warning in the residents' next billings.

Citizens said they want to know immediately if there is something wrong with the water. Suggestions such as using a public broadcasting system and driving through town with loud speakers were offered in case such an alert would be necessary.

Regardless of the current situation of the malfunctioning chlorinator and filtering system, Capitan still suffers from smelly and dark-colored water more often than they desire. Most of that is attributed to the fact that Capitan can't afford a more sophisticated water refining system, according to Burkstaller.

As an alternative, residents expressed interest in constructing a pre-sedimentation reservoir. The village council is already negotiating for some forest land on which to construct such a facility. However, it is not known how much this could raise taxes in the town. Work could not even begin on such a project until consultants are hired to estimate design, cost and other variables.

For the current water problems, however, a temporary relief seems to be close — even in a few days if the needed part arrives.

At the meeting's conclusion an hour and a half later, information had been exchanged, concerns had been aired and solutions had been suggested. Most people seemed to leave the meeting a little more at ease about the situation, although some of the citizens were still not quite convinced that the problem is resolved.

Said Sharon Horton, "All I know is that the National Guard came in July to help and the water stunk and when they came, it still stunk when they left and it still stinks."

Duke joins police department

BY TIM PALMER
Staff Writer/Photographer

The newest member of the Ruidoso Police Department is a five-year-old.

But since Duke is a German Shepherd, he is fully mature.

Duke arrived last week from Pennsylvania. He was personally delivered by his trainer, Jack Miller of Orion Guard and Patrol Dogs.

In fact, Duke is Miller's personal dog. The canine is on loan to the Ruidoso Police for the next five months. In the meantime, Orion is training another dog which will join the department permanently.

Why not wait until that dog is ready? "The main idea is to acquaint the public with what a patrol dog does and is," said Police Chief Dick Swenor.

Duke is also serving to "train" the two police officers who will be permanently assigned to the canine detail. Corporal Ronald J. Hentges and Robert Achterberg are Duke's primary and secondary handlers while he is here. Each will eventually receive his own dog.

Both officers requested canine duty, having had prior experience with working dogs in the military. "That saves the village a lot of money," said Swenor.

Duke is a multi-talented animal. One of his specialties is building searches. Swenor described a hypothetical situation in which Hentges and Duke enter a dark building where a silent alarm has gone off.

"The dog can detect danger before the man is aware of it," said the chief. "His senses are many, many times more acute than a human's."

When the dog does sense danger, Swenor said, he alerts the handler. Since the dog is on a special long leash and there is no need to turn on a light, danger to the officer is minimized.

Duke is trained to attack on his handler's command or if the handler is attacked. "The dogs are trained to attack only to neutralize," said Swenor. "Once the subject stops aggressive behavior, the dog will stop."

Most subjects cease such behavior immediately when a dog puts a full mouth bite on them, trainer Jack Miller said. "Usually a good strong hit will put a person into shock."

Another of Duke's specialties is tracking. According to Swenor, the dog can track in any kind of weather or conditions, even following a person who walks through town going in and out of different businesses. Duke can thus be used in searches for lost persons.

Patrol dogs have proven effective in another aspect of police work — crowd control: Duke is accustomed to people, Swenor noted. He is alert but relaxed in a crowd.

On command, however, Duke will step out and show aggression by barking in a threatening manner. This "flaring," as Miller terms it, is usually sufficient to back people off. If not, said Miller, "He equals their resistance."

Police patrol dogs are taught not to make friends with people Miller said. Therefore, while persons should not attempt to pet Duke, he will not flare out if someone bumps him accidentally in a crowd.

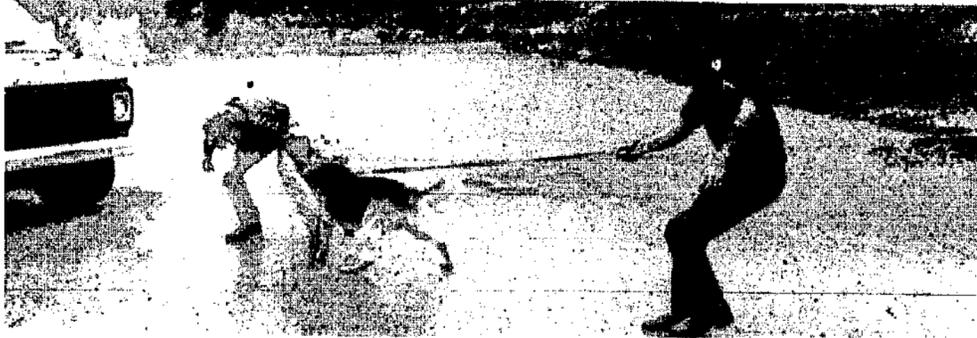

Chief Swenor thinks of Duke and the canines which will join the Ruidoso Police in the future as full-fledged members of the department. Special guidelines have been drawn up to cover their use, he said, and liability of a certified dog is the same as that of a regular officer.

But it is through the partnership with a handler that a patrol dog achieves its worth. Said Swenor, "In combination with a thinking, trained, intelligent police officer, you've got a team with incredible effectiveness."

A FORMIDABLE TEAM — Ruidoso Policeman Ron Hentges stands with Duke, his partner for the next five months.

EQUALING THE RESISTANCE of the assailant, Duke pulls on Card's arm as Hentges braces him with a taut leash.

REGIONAL AND NATIONAL COMPETITIONS allow working dogs like Duke a chance to perform. Duke has successfully fended off four-man attacks in such events.

DUKE "WORRIES" the special padding he has pulled from Card's arm. It is the criminal who should worry when he goes up against this highly trained patrol dog.

Oil producers met here

In calling for a reasoned national energy policy, the president of the Independent Petroleum Association of America (IPAA) said Monday that both oil producers and environmentalists will have to compromise on controversial public lands issues.

C. John Miller, an independent oil producer from Allegan, Michigan, and president of the association representing the nation's 12,000 wildcaters, predicted that under the leadership of Interior Secretary James Watt public lands previously closed to drilling activity will be opening up.

Miller made his comments in a speech to the Independent Petroleum Association of New Mexico meeting at the Inn of the Mountain Gods.

"Nothing can be more inconsistent than a government energy policy that on one hand calls for the development of more domestic oil and gas, and that on the other hand obstructs the total effort needed to develop energy promising lands," Miller said.

"The overlapping of environmental protection laws has created such a complex maze of requirements resulting in delays and expenses which have actually decreased exploration and production on federal lands."

The IPAA president pointed out that from enactment of the Wilderness Act in 1964 to passage of the Federal Land Policy and Management Act of 1976, the number of new wells drilled annually on public lands declined from over 3,700 to less than 1,500.

"That is a clear indictment of past policy," Miller said. "We can ill-afford this irrational approach to the use of these potentially energy rich lands."

"I am not calling for some haphazard willy-nilly approach to this problem. I am not about to suggest that we go tomorrow and stick a rig out in the midst of this pristine beauty that surrounds us here in New Mexico, but I am suggesting is a reasoned policy. America needs energy — and that means environmentalists and oil producers will have to compromise and work together."

ONE OF THE BIGGEST planes to use the Ruidoso Municipal Airport is this two engine Gulfstream II, seating 14 plus crew, out of Midland, Texas, parked during this week's oil conference.

AN AMARILLO, TEXAS, Falcon 50, with three engines and seating 10 passengers plus crew, was parked at Ruidoso Municipal Airport during the oil conference this week.

BEING THE BAD GUY is the job of Ralph Card of Orion Kennels, who performs the task of agitator in the training of patrol dogs. Card acknowledged that he had to overcome fear in his work, but he said, "You get conditioned after awhile." During a "hit," Card feigns anger and pain by yelling at the top of his voice so that the situation is made as real as possible to the dog.

Training police dog hard work

Dog trainer Jack Miller is very straightforward in stating the aim of his kennel, Orion Guard and Patrol Dogs.

"We establish that the dog is 100 percent reliable in all situations," said the serious bearded Pennsylvanian. Miller explained that the Orion approach of behavior modification, is based on extensive studies of canine behavior.

The approach has proven successful. "We chose Orion because of its record," said Ruidoso Police Chief Dick Swenor. Swenor pointed out that Miller's dogs, (including Goliath, who works for Skyland Security of Ruidoso), have placed highly in national working dog competitions.

Miller describes his training formula as "building off the natural territorial instincts of the dog — thinking of man as a violator of territory."

A dog is accepted for training when it is one year or older. "It's all trial and error on a year or older. "It's all trial and error in the beginning," he said.

The dog learns that it can get rid of an agitator by displaying aggressive behavior, such as growling and barking. The aggression level is gradually raised through the dog's frustration at being unable to reach the agitator.

Thus the dog's territorial instincts — "like running another dog off" — are turned toward people. "That's what makes a dog so reliable," said Miller. "It's real to them."

Orion trains up to 50 dogs each year. The most popular breeds are German Shepherds, Doberman pinscher and Rottweiler. Other types make good working dogs, however, said Miller, including mixed breeds.

The kennel stipulates that the animals weight 60 pounds or more. Miller noted that males and females train equally well.

"The dogs are custom trained for the duties and situations they are needed for," said Miller. He explained that this ranges from the military dog trained to inflict casualties on the enemy to the personal dog that is friendly to everyone but trained to protect its handler and family.

The training period for a regular patrol dog is 10 to 16 weeks. Learning a specialty like tracking requires another eight to 12 weeks. Canines can also be taught explosives and narcotics detection at Orion.

Total cost of a dog trained by Orion ranges from $2,500 to $4,000. Funds for the Ruidoso Police Department's first dog came from an anonymous donor, according to Dick Swenor.

The dogs carry a written guarantee from their trainer. "What we sell," said Miller, "is a dog who will put his life on the line for you — he will save you or die trying."

THE FORCE OF THE HIT lifts Duke off the ground. Hentges controls the leash, giving enough slack for the dog to intercept the blow.

A FULL MOUTH BITE neutralizes the assailant, often instantly incapacitating him by sending him into shock. This type bite also does the least damage to the victim.

YELLING AND SCREAMING in feigned anger and pain, agitator Ralph Card makes the situation as real as possible to the dog. "You get conditioned after awhile," said Card when asked if he fears the canine attacks.

A TRIP TO MEXICO is in the plans for Carl and Lorene Ross, married for 50 years June 14. Ross won the trip as a grand prize in a food fair in El Paso, Texas.

ADK sorority met recently

Ada Chapter of Alpha Delta Kappa (ADK) met recently at the home of Myrtle Williams, Nogal, for the first meeting of the season.

Committees were appointed and programs for the year were discussed. A report of the state convention held last spring in Albuquerque was given by Gini Jordan, Alto. A letter from Mary Keith, state president, Las Cruces, included names of the new international officers and a report of the convention held in New Orleans, Louisiana, during the summer.

The next meeting of ADK will be in Carlsbad on October 3 at 10 a.m. This will be a joint meeting with Chapters Nu, Las Cruces, Zeta, Roswell and hostess Epsilon, Carlsbad.

The meeting will include workshops in the morning and a luncheon and Founder's Day observance. A program to honor 1980 outstanding active or retired teachers from each chapter will be held in the afternoon.

Myrtle Williams, Nogal, the 1980 State Teacher of the Year and Lindy Samelson, Ruidoso, Southeastern National Education Association of New Mexico Hall of Fame inductee, will be presented with the violet, sorority symbol of honor by Ada Chapter.

Family counseling meeting set

BY BILLIE LARSON
Staff Writer

Counseling professionals, police, judicial, school and child welfare officials have scheduled a public planning meeting September 30 at 9 a.m., in the board room of the School Administrative Offices to determine if there is a community need for a program of non-traditional counseling services for families having problems bringing up adolescents who are in trouble.

Kenneth L. Kahn, a psychiatric social worker whose private practice deals with adolescents and their families, said last week that the primary purpose for non-traditional counseling services is that they provide an alternative to parents who might be reluctant, for reasons of their own, to go to a counseling center for help.

"It is a way for youth-serving professionals to go to and reach out to people who can't or won't reach in for help — especially the kind of help needed if the trouble is with child welfare, the police, judges or school officials, for example," he said.

Often, the adolescent's problems arise, Kahn said, because of a lack of traditional family support. The adolescent may then turn to his or her peer group or a role model for support, he said, which may not always be the best solution.

Professional meeting on Wednesday morning, September 30, will include: Tom Harper, Counseling Center director; Bill Grimes, social worker at the center and Kahn;

District Judge George Zimmerman, District Judge Robert Doughty, Magistrate James Wheeler, Judge Sam Nunnally;

District Attorney Steve Sanders, Jane Parnell, Juvenile Probation Officer, Ruidoso Chief of Police Dick Swenor, Tom Moore, State Department of Human Services, Clarence Buena of Mescalero;

School principals: Tom Hansen, Ruidoso High School, Sid Miller, White Mountain Middle School, Mike Gladden, White Mountain Elementary, Don Weems, Knob Hill Elementary;

High school counselors, Sandy Gladden and James Sanchez, Karen Tillman, White Mountain Middle School counselor, Sandy Taylor, social worker in Special Education for the Ruidoso school district;

Dale McClesky, pastor for the First Baptist Church and Ken Cole, First Christian Church minister.

Harper said plans are underway at the Counseling Center for a Step Program in Effective Parenting Training, scheduled to begin in October. He said details of the program will be announced.

A center-sponsored self-help program for divorced or separated persons meets Tuesdays at 7 p.m., in the Fellowship Hall of the Community United Methodist Church on Junction Road. Anyone interested in the group should call the Counseling Center at 257-6038, he said.

Obituaries

George A. Leverett

George Andrew Leverett, 89, died September 20 in his Ruidoso home. A family memorial service was held in the home with the Reverend Layton Drake officiating.

He was born in Limestone County, Texas, January 29, 1912, the son of George and Mary Sue Leverett. With his family, he moved to Portales in 1927 where he graduated from high school. He was married to the former Mabel Grinnitt, April 12, 1932.

Survivors include his wife, at home; a daughter, La Deen Gray of San Antonio, Texas; a sister, Temple Byos of Mission, Texas, and two grandchildren, Randy Lee and Karen Denise Gray of San Antonio.

The family requests that memorials be made to Home Health Services of Lincoln County.

Clarke's Chapel of Roses was in charge of arrangements.

Helen E. Philipps

Helen E. Philipps of Los Anamas, Colorado, formerly of Angus, died Tuesday at the Prowler Medical Center in Lamar, Colorado.

She was born January 16, 1910, in Ohio. Mrs. Philipps was a member of the Nazarene Church and a Licensed Practical Nurse.

Services will be held Friday at 2 p.m., from The Gunstream Memorial Chapel, Angus, with the Reverend Kenneth Fry officiating. Burial will be in the Angus Cemetery.

She is survived by two sons, Maxwell Philipps of Los Anamas and Ronald Philipps in Ohio; a daughter, Majorie Smith of Rittman, Ohio; a sister, Grace Ednie of Ohio; a brother, Irvine Thompson of Alamogordo; 18 grandchildren and 14 great-grandchildren.

Arrangements are by Clarke's Chapel of Roses Mortuary.

Golden wedding anniversary prize vacation in Mexico

Winning a trip to Mexico was enough of a thrill for Carl and Lorene Ross. But because this is their 50th wedding anniversary year, the trip seems more special to them.

As a buyer for Bennett's Shur-Sav Supermarket in Ruidoso, Ross goes to a food fair at the Civic Center in El Paso, Texas, each year. This year's theme was "Western Hoe Down" and was sponsored by Tri-State Grocery Company.

"This year there were 48 booths representing different brokers," Ross said. "There are door prizes given out at each booth and then everyone's name is put in a big drawing for the grand prize."

The five-day grand prize trip to Mazatlan, Mexico, a resort area on the Pacific Ocean, was sponsored by Price's Milk Co. of El Paso.

The Ross couple's anniversary was June 14 but they consider the Mexico trip a part of their celebration.

Care Center to rock 'n roll for Heart Association benefit

Residents of the Ruidoso Care Center will be cooperating with many other facilities throughout the nation on October 17 when they will rock in their rocking chairs and roll in their wheel chairs to earn pledges for the American Heart Association.

The Rock 'n Roll Jamboree is sponsored by the New Mexico Health Care

Association to aid the Heart Association in its fight against heart and blood vessel diseases.

The Ruidoso Jaycees will be asking for pledges from the residents from community individuals for each hour that the resident spends rocking or rolling. For more information, contact Debbie Garcia at 257-9071.

Revival meeting starts Sunday

A revival meeting will be held from September 27 through October 4 at the First Baptist Church of Ruidoso on Mechem Drive.

Noon services, with pot luck lunch, will be held Monday through Friday, with evening services at 7 all eight days.

The Reverend Kenneth Stohner, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Truth or Consequences, will be preaching and Jason Elmore, youth and music director of the First Baptist Church of Santa Fe, will direct the music.

"We urge the public to attend this revival," church pastor E. W. Campbell

Pre-schoolers must register for story hour

Parents desiring to take their pre-schoolers to the Ruidoso Public Library story hour will first need to register them.

According to Ingrid Schmitz, librarian, this fall's story hour program was to be conducted without any prior registration. However, when too many children appeared for the first session, it was decided to return to the former registration procedure.

Currently, the story hour is set for Thursdays, 10-11 a.m. However, as the session fills up, more hours will be arranged. Details and registration concerning the pre-school story hour are available at the library.

MRS. BILLY CARROLL

Moore/Carroll vows exchanged

The August 21 wedding of Mary Arna Moore to Billy C. Carroll, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill C. Carroll of Albuquerque, has been announced by the bride's mother, Mrs. Wanda Kiker of Albuquerque.

The bride is the granddaughter of Ruth M. Moore of Ruidoso.

The couple are at home on Canyon Drive, Durango, Colorado.

Human Services seeks to curb child abuse

The Lincoln County Department of Human Services is looking for persons in the community interested in providing "a loving home and guidance" for children who are victims of neglect and/or child abuse. Tom Moore, social worker for the department said last week.

In addition to its campaign to recruit foster parents for abused or neglected children, Moore said the department is interested in reaching citizens — neighbors, relatives, doctors, nurses — anyone who has witnessed or has reason to suspect children are being neglected or abused, he said.

"It is the duty of all of us to report such cases," Moore said. And not only for humanitarian reasons. "Child abuse or neglect is also a felony."

He said Human Services hopes, through its publicity campaign, to "encourage that grandmother, who knows or suspects her grandchild's stepfather is sexually molesting the child," to report it to them. "We'll take it from there," he said.

Lincoln County Department of Human Services, located across from the Post Office, is open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday. Their telephone number is 257-9217.

Southwest Conference WAC vets set

The third annual Southwest Conference of Women's Army Corps Veterans Association will be held October 2-4 in Winrock Inn, Albuquerque, hosted by Albuquerque Chapter 80.

Convention activities include tours of Chimayo, Santa Fe and adjacent points, lunch and dinner October 2; business session and dinner, October 4 and attending the hot air balloon ascension October 4.

Association membership is open to honorably discharged members of WAAC, WAC and Women Soldiers. Information is available from Mrs. Edna Dryden, 821-9451, or at 299-4890, from Mrs. Marian Jacot, evenings and weekends.

In the Service

Navy Hull Maintenance Technician Fireman Recruit John Tremblay is currently deployed to the Mediterranean Sea aboard the aircraft carrier USS Nimitz. His wife, Cincy, is the daughter of Raymond and Lucille Day of Ruidoso.

Darlene Herrera has completed training in fundamental military skills at the Army Reserved Officers Training Corps (ROTC) basic camp at Fort Knox, Kentucky. Herrera, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Godfrey Herrera of Capitan, plans to enter the ROTC program at the University of Wisconsin, Platteville.

Private James E. Rooks, son of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Rooks of Capitan, has completed a wheeled-vehicle mechanic course at the United States Army Training Center, Fort Jackson, South Carolina.

Marine Corporal Allen Duffy is stationed with Headquarters Division, Third Marine Division, on Okinawa. The son of Wendell and Sadie Duffy of Mesalero, he is a 1977 graduate of Ruidoso High School and joined the Marine Corps in March of 1978.

Navy Seaman Apprentice Charles E. Burgess is a crewmember aboard the amphibious command ship USS Blue Ridge, operating from Yokosuka, Japan. The son of Ernest and Partisa Burgess of Ruidoso, he joined the Navy in January of 1979.

Students named to dean's list

Area students named to the 1980-1981 college dean's list from Ruidoso include:

Stanley Cape and Tracey Puckett, Texas Tech University, Lubbock;

Shawn Griffith, William Smith College, Geneva, New York.

Around Sports

with Gary Brown

Should there be re-alignment of high school sports districts in New Mexico?

That's a question which has come up many times in state prep sports circles and will probably be state up again.

When a school like Ruidoso has to travel 500 miles round-trip to a school like Silver City for a game, changes would seem to make sense.

One of the problems, of course, is that some high schools of similar size in New Mexico are many miles apart. While Ruidoso-Silver City may be an extreme example most high schools in the state do have to travel a ways to play another school in their district.

A possible solution would be to add Fortales to the 3AAA district and put Silver City in another district. Fortales is about 160 miles from Ruidoso, about 90 less than Silver City. That's a lot of mileage saved, particularly when the whole school year is taken into consideration.

Ultimately if the cost of gas and fuel in general continues to rise, districts may have to be decided by location rather than school size. For example Ruidoso and the two Roswell high schools might end up in the same district. 4-A and 3-A schools might be lumped together and 2-A and 1-A schools would also be brought together by location to each other.

Of course, this might make for less balance in districts (a 4-A school would have an obvious advantage over a 3-A school for example) but it may be the only solution in the long run. Some schools are already cutting back on sports and there may be more cuts in the future. Cutting back on mileage may be one solution to the problem.

Taking a look at the National Football League, starting today I'm giving my own weekly rankings of the top five pro teams.

Philadelphia has to be rated first in my poll as of right now. The Eagles have certain weaknesses that could prevent them from going to the Super Bowl again. However Philadelphia has only given up 27 points in three games and only Buffalo its only loss so far.

Dallas is ranked second because it's undefeated and beat New England on its homefield. The Patriots are winless but are still a talented club. Ron Springs has really improved and makes the Cowboy attack all the more explosive.

San Diego is third. The Chargers' offense may be the best in the entire league with Chuck Muncie finally showing some consistency. The passing attack, despite the loss of John Jefferson to Green Bay, is still the best around. San Diego's only drawback is the defense's lack of ability to hold the score down.

Put Atlanta in fourth. The Falcons may have the best balanced offense in the NFL and the defense, while lacking any real big "name" players, works very well as a unit. Atlanta's only drawback at this point is the fact they haven't played any really tough teams yet.

Miami is fifth and could go higher in the future. The Dolphins are young but have the genius of Don Shula to guide them. Shula is probably one of the top two or three coaches in the NFL and maybe THE best. They've also beaten some fairly tough competition in obtaining a 3-0 mark at this point.

Teams that are rated just behind the top five are Oakland and Buffalo. The Raiders still seem to lack offensive punch at times despite their unyielding defense. Plus injuries are beginning to take their toll on Oakland. Buffalo looked awesome in its first two games but were clearly outplayed by the Eagles last week. I also have this feeling the Bills just don't have the capacity to really break out on a hot winning streak.

There are my rankings for what they're worth. Three of the top five teams are from the National Football Conference. I believe parity between the two conferences is finally coming after 10 years of AFC domination.

The Ruidoso Gymnastics Academy team, the Mountaintops, begins its fall season III competitive season October 3 against host Santa Fe.

Santa Fe recently defeated Gymnastics Unlimited of Albuquerque, last season's state champions.

Members of this year's Mountaintops team are Karen Gann, Stephanie Garms, Hillary Held, Angela Jones, Amy Richardson and Amy Thornton.

Spikers lose, compete at Capitan

Ruidoso High School girls' volleyball team hopes to have better luck in the Capitan Tournament Saturday than it did against Tularosa Tuesday night.

Playing on Tularosa's court the Warriors fell in two sets, 4-15, 5-15 for their first defeat in three matches this year.

"We just didn't play well once the game started," said Ruidoso coach Sergio Castanon. "We looked good in practice before the match but once it started we didn't have it."

Castanon praised the play of Cyd Wright.

"She has some good blocks and played well all-around," he said. "But she was about the only player I could really single out." The Ruidoso junior varsity fell to Tularosa in three sets as it dropped to an 0-3 mark on the season.

"They're improving. They're getting a lot better," said Castanon of the junior varsity Warriors.

The Ruidoso varsity will play the Capitan Tournament at 9 a.m., with a match against Dexter. There will be championship and consolation divisions after the first round. No junior varsity competition will be held.

Ruidoso plays a home match against Dexter Tuesday before district 3-AAA action with an away match against Deming.

Woodul returns to starting lineup

Jal presents mystery for Warriors

Jal High School's football team represents a big mystery to Ruidoso High School.

The Warriors travel to Jal tomorrow night for a 7:30 contest against the defending state AA champions.

Despite the fact Jal won the state championship last season it has a 1-2 mark and a very inexperienced team this year. Jal won its first game over the Artesia junior varsity 26-0. However, the Panthers have since lost to Lovington (29-0) and Wink, Texas 46-0.

Although Jal has some scoring problems Ruidoso coach Darrel Stierwalt has respect for the southern New Mexico team.

"Their coach (Dave Fouts) runs a lot of razzle-dazzle stuff," Stierwalt said. "If you're not prepared he'll beat you with trick stuff. They'll run out of the single wing, shotgun, pro-set, a number of different offensives."

However, Jal has just one starter returning from last year's offensive lineup, guard-fullback Mark Gafford, at 5-10 and 166 pounds, lacks size but makes up for it with quickness and experience.

Joe Dan Parker goes at quarterback for the Panthers and the 5-7, 130-pounder is basically a wishbone quarterback.

On defense Jal is in better shape with four returning starters from last season. Middle linebacker Kyle Nicks and defensive back Don Minnick are stand-outs.

The 3-0 Warriors, who retained their top ranking in the state AAA poll this week, should be healthier than they were a week ago.

Tailback Scott Neal, who played in place of injured quarterback Billy Woodul against Dexter last week, suffered a broken right index finger in that game and is questionable for Jal.

"The doctor said we could play Scott if we take his cast off right before the game, tape him up and only put him in if it was absolutely necessary," said Stierwalt. "Saturday morning we would put the cast back on."

Woodul, who had a bad sprain, will be ready for the Panthers. Neal probably won't play unless Woodul is injured. The senior back is expected to have a cast for two to three weeks.

Neal is the Warriors' leading rusher and is tops on the squad in scoring with six touchdowns.

Grady Williamson, who scored a touchdown and played brilliantly against Dexter when Neal was switched to quarterback, will go again at tailback. Williamson broke loose for a 39 yard touchdown against the Demons and is also a threat to catch the ball.

Outside linebacker Kyle Flack, who was outstanding in the first two games of the season before suffering a hip pointer, will be ready for Jal. Defensive ends Jack Holland and Mike Douglas are doubtful. Versatile senior Dariush Rad may take Holland's place.

The Warriors have piled up an impressive set of statistics in the three games they've played so far. Ruidoso has scored 85 points (an average of more than 28 points a contest) and given up just 24. Ruidoso is averaging 322 yards total offense per game and, perhaps the most impressive statistic of all, given up just 82 yards total offense per contest.

Still, Stierwalt sees a tight battle. The Warriors had to rally to defeat Jal 21-17 last season.

"There's no love lost between Ruidoso and Jal," he said. "It's been a rivalry since both teams were in the AA division. We can't be overconfident."

NOTES — Ruidoso got 11 first place votes and 153 total votes in keeping its top position in the Associated Press poll. Artesia, which was idle last week, remained in second with five first place votes and 143 total votes. Clovis remained on top of the AAAA poll, Moriarty first in the AA rankings and Texico first in the A poll. The Warriors have one more non-district game (New Mexico Military Institute at home) before beginning the 2-A race against host Cobre October 9.

Ptarmigans released in wilderness

Twenty-two white-tailed ptarmigans have been relocated from Colorado to the Pecos Wilderness area in New Mexico — the second of two ptarmigan releases by the Department of Game and Fish and cooperating agencies.

The ptarmigans were taken from the area near Leadville, Colorado, September 9 by Colorado Division of Wildlife and Department of Game and Fish biologists, according to John Hubbard, Endangered Species project leader for the department. They were transported by Department of Game and Fish aircraft to Santa Fe, then by helicopter into the wilderness September 10 for release by ground crews.

United States Forest Service specialists assisted in the release, Hubbard said. The birds, mostly adults, were released in the same vicinity as 11 pairs transported from the Loveland Pass area of Colorado and released into the Pecos Wilderness area in May, Hubbard said.

The ptarmigan releases are part of a project to increase the species' numbers and enhance its survival in this state, according to the project leader. The white-tailed ptarmigan is native to New Mexico, but, because of population decline, is now on the state's endangered species list. Biologists speculate the decline may be related to early sheep and livestock grazing in the alpine tundra above timberline, which is ptarmigan habitat.

The loss of cover, trampling and erosion due to heavy grazing may have eliminated or severely reduced sub-alpine thickets, which are an authority on the species, Dr. Clait Braun, identified as the critical winter food source of these ptarmigans.

The ptarmigan has never been a legally hunted species in New Mexico. Biologists speculate, however, that early herders, who probably killed ptarmigan for food, may also have contributed to the decline.

The white-tailed ptarmigan ranges in the north from Alaska and the Yukon Territory, westward from the Rockies to the Cascades of Washington and to Vancouver Island. Colorado appears to be the center of abundance for the species, Hubbard said. Some of the birds still inhabit areas of northeastern New Mexico near Wheeler Peak and occasionally are seen in the San Juan Mountains of northwestern New Mexico near Chama.

The ptarmigans have been relocated from Colorado "because we don't have enough birds in New Mexico for relocation into adjacent habitats currently unoccupied," Hubbard said.

TRAVIS COCHISE of Ruidoso High School's junior varsity team is tackled by a Roswell defender in Monday's game at Roswell. The two teams fought to a 0-0 draw. Ruidoso, now 1-0-1, hosts Tularosa at 2 p.m., Saturday.

Ruidoso junior varsity ties Roswell

Ruidoso High School's junior varsity football team hopes to raise its season record to 2-0-1 when it hosts Tularosa at 2 p.m., Saturday.

The Warriors are coming off an impressive 0-0 tie with 4-A division powerhouse Roswell Monday afternoon on the latter's field. Ruidoso opened the season with a 16-6 victory over Carrizozo.

The Warriors' defense was especially impressive against Roswell, allowing the Coyotes to cross the 50 yard line just three times.

Ruidoso advanced to the Roswell 20 yard line in the second quarter but lost the ball on a fumble.

Ruidoso held off a late Roswell drive and took over the ball with less than three minutes remaining in the game. However time ran out before the Warriors could get within striking distance.

Warrior coach Jim Ramsey felt the tie was a moral victory for Ruidoso.

"Our guys did very well, better than we expected against Roswell," Ramsey said. "They were bigger than us and physical. We just went out there and played with a lot of guts. It was a very physical ball game."

Ramsey predicts a good game with Tularosa.

"It's a long standing rivalry and it should be very interesting," he said.

Braves host Capitan gridders

White Mountain School's football team hopes for better success when it hosts Capitan at 6 tonight at Ruidoso High School.

The Braves fell to a powerful Mountain View of Roswell team, 50-6 last Saturday. However, Mountain View is one of the best middle school teams in southern New Mexico and Brave coach Terry Whorton was impressed with his team's effort.

White Mountain will host Tularosa October 6 before playing Sierra (Roswell) and Tularosa again on the road. The Braves end the season with an away game at Carrizozo.

Induction into Space Hall of Fame set October 3

Five astronauts from the Mercury program, an 18th century Danish rocket pioneer, and the first man to break the sound barrier have been selected as the 1981 inductees into the International Space Hall of Fame. Space Hall officials have announced Alan B. Shepard, Walter Schirra, Scott Carpenter, Gordon Cooper, Virgil Grissom, Andreas Anton Frederick Schumacher and Charles E. Yeager will be honored during the annual induction ceremony at the Space Hall on October 3, at 4 p.m.

Shepard was America's first astronaut. He was aboard the United States manned spaceflight, Mercury "Freedom 7," for a sub-orbital flight of 15 minutes and 22 seconds on May 5, 1961 which attained an altitude of 116.5 statute miles and traveled 302.8 miles downrange from the launch site. In 1971, Shepard was Spacecraft Commander of Apollo 14 which was the third lunar landing by the United States.

Shepard retired as a Rear Admiral in the United States Navy and currently resides in Deer Park, Texas.

Grissom, who will be inducted posthumously, was America's second man in space aboard the Mercury capsule "Liberty Bell 7" for a flight of 15 minutes and 37 seconds in 1961. This was the final United States sub-orbital manned flight to evaluate the spacecraft's systems. Grissom later served aboard Gemini III and was killed during the tragic ground fire in Apollo I on January 27, 1967.

Carpenter was the second United States astronaut to orbit the earth when he completed three orbits aboard the Mercury capsule "Aurora 7" in 1962. During his flight, Carpenter conducted research experiments to further space efforts which included activities whereby a pilot could perform more roll and yaw maneuvers. Carpenter retired from the United States Navy as a Commander and resides in Canoga Park, California.

Schirra piloted the Mercury capsule "Sigma 7" for 9 hours and 13 minutes in 1962. During the flight, he developed techniques and procedures applicable to extended time in space. He later served aboard Gemini VI-A and Apollo VII. Retired as Captain in the United States Navy, Schirra currently resides in Inglewood, Colorado.

Cooper was aboard the Mercury capsule "Faith 7" in 1963, which was the last Mercury mission, and met the final objective of the program of keeping a man in space for one day. The mission time of 34 hours and 20 minutes included the first scheduled sleep period in space. Cooper later served aboard Gemini V and retired as a Colonel in the United States Air Force. He currently resides in Glendale, California.

Schumacher was an 18th century Danish rocket pioneer who developed a complete rocket system after the bombardment of Copenhagen in 1807. He founded the Danish Rocket Corps, which was the first rocket unit on the European continent, and developed rocket boats and rocket illumination flares in experiments with his astronomer brother in 1819 to test the visibility of rocket flares. Schumacher will also be inducted posthumously.

Yeager earned worldwide fame as the first man to break the sound barrier aboard the Bell X-1 in October 1947 at a level flight speed of more than 670 miles per hour (MPH) at Edwards Air Force Base, California. Yeager made 40 more flights in the Bell X-1, eventually achieving a speed of more than 1,000 MPH with an altitude of over 70,000 feet. He later flew more than two and one-half times the speed of sound in the Bell X-1A. Known as the "ace" who opened the door to space exploration, Yeager retired from the United States Air Force in 1975 as a Brigadier General and currently resides in Cedar Ridge, California.

Police seize nearly one pound of MJ

Nearly a pound of marijuana was seized and two men were arrested in a Monday evening drug raid on a Junction Road residence, according to Ruidoso Police.

Monty McQueary, 30, and George William Brown Jr., 23, both of Ruidoso, were charged with possession of more than one ounce of marijuana, according to a Criminal Investigation Division spokesman. Bond was set at $10,000 each.

Police said drug paraphernalia was also confiscated during the raid.

Environmental assessment at Mescalero

An environmental assessment has been prepared concerning the Bureau of Indian Affairs proposal to construct a building and maintenance yard complex for the Branch of Roads in the Soldier Canyon area of the Mescalero Apache Reservation.

Copies are available at the Bureau of Indian Affairs, Mescalero.

Interested persons may make comments by contacting the Superintendent of the Mescalero Agency, or Bill Streeter, Agency Environmental Quality Specialist, Mescalero, or by telephoning 671-4410.

UNM sets showcase

Innovative high technology research and development activities at the University of New Mexico (UNM) will be included in the Showcase for Technology, a conference and exposition featuring New Mexico's wealth of high technology resources to be held October 28-30 at the Albuquerque Convention Center.

By displaying the technological expertise of private industry, the national laboratories, and the universities in New Mexico, the Showcase will demonstrate the state's present technological capabilities and its potential for the future to executives from across the country.

The idea for the Showcase was conceived by United States Senator Harrison Schmitt, who organized the program to demonstrate the high technology base developed in New Mexico as a result of the more than one billion dollars spent annually by the federal government for research and development activities in the state.

Eighteen major areas of high technology research and development will be presented in the Showcase, including computer modeling and networking, space technology and remote sensing, lasers and modern optics, fossil energy and in-situ technology, and geothermal, solar, fusion and fission energy.

"We have a wide technological base, a wonderful climate, and extensive resources in terms of people and money," said Dave Woodall, chairman of UNM's department of chemical and nuclear engineering and a participant in the Showcase. "Great potential exists in New Mexico to develop a high technology industrial base here, in terms of clean, non-polluting industry."

"New Mexico is rich in minerals now, and we're benefitting from severance taxes paid to the state by the extractive industries. After the next decade, however, the state's mineral wealth will start to decline. Our future economic well-being depends on establishing a sound economy based on high technology industry."

Representatives from private industry, the national laboratories, and the state's universities will participate in the Showcase as topic chairmen. Representing UNM are Dr. Glenn A. Whann, professor of chemical and nuclear engineering, who will chair the fission energy presentation, Dr. H. Eric Nuttall, associate professor of chemical and nuclear engineering, who will serve as topic chairman in the area of in-situ technology and fossil energy, and Dr. Gerald Leigh, manager of energy development at the New Mexico Engineering Research Institute, who will chair the passive solar/energy conservation building technology program.

Dr. Robert E. Anderson, chairman of the department of pathology at UNM's School of Medicine, will chair the life sciences presentation.

In addition to Schmitt, the Showcase is sponsored by the United States Department of Energy, Los Alamos National Laboratory, Sandia National Laboratories and the Federal Laboratory Consortium.

Woman's slayer sought

Criminal activity, once started, has a way of escalating far beyond the perpetrator's intentions.

Clovis police investigators speculate that may have happened in the death of Mrs. Mildred Reagan, age 65, of 2904 Whipperwill Way. Mrs. Reagan had lived at the address for about two years, and had recently put her mobile home up for sale. On Friday morning, September 11, some Clovis real estate agents went to preview the mobile home to see if it would fit the needs of any of their clients. They found the front door unlocked, so they opened it and called out to see if anyone was home. Inside, they could see items stacked by the door, and a pillow case filled with items in preparation for removal from the home. Checking further, they found Mrs. Reagan's body. She had been strangled to death. Police theorize that Mrs. Reagan interrupted a burglary in progress at her home and was killed to prevent identification of the burglars. This week, the State Crime Stoppers Commission and the Curry County Crime Stoppers program are offering a combined reward of $2,000 for information leading to the arrest and indictment of the offenders in this case. Anyone having information can call the State Crime Stoppers Commission, toll-free, at 1-800-432-6833, or Curry County Crime Stoppers at 763-7000. Callers do not have to reveal their identities, even to collect the reward.

Albuquerque Crime Stoppers this week, are seeking information on a rapist who may have attacked as many as five northeast heights women since June. The suspect in these cases always wears some type of mask and gloves, and breaks into the women's homes when they are asleep and alone. In the most recent incident, he was wearing bright green canvas work gloves with orange thumbs. He is described as being in his early twenties, about 5' 10" tall, slender build, brown hair, and having a deep voice. Anyone having information which could help police solve these crimes should call the Albuquerque Crime Stoppers program at 842-8000. You could earn a $1,000 reward.

Otero County lawmen are looking for clues in the execution style killing of an Alamogordo man near Tularosa early this month. Ramon B. Chavez was shot once in the back of the head with a high powered bullet, and dumped into an irrigation ditch outside Tularosa. He was last seen alive on September 1st, walking on White Sands Boulevard, at about 1:30 p.m. The Otero County Crime Stoppers program is offering a reward of up to $1,000 for information leading to the arrest and indictment of the offenders in this case. Anyone having information should call Crime Stoppers of Otero County at 437-2000. Callers do not have to reveal their identities, and the calls are not taped or traced.

If at first you don't succeed, try try again. This famous phrase seems to be the motto of a determined Tucumcari arsonist. On August 29, a fire was discovered burning in a storage building behind 306

East High Street. Officer Romero was able to quickly extinguish that fire, but less than one week later, on September 2, a second fire did extensive damage to the building and its contents. Fire investigators say that in both cases, the cause of fire was definitely arson.

Tucumcari Crime Stoppers is offering up to $350 for information leading to the arrest and indictment of the persons responsible for these fires. Information should be called in to the Tucumcari Crime Stoppers program at 481-3507, or the State Crime Stopper Commission, toll-free, at 1-800-432-6833.

State's Chile Cookoff slated at Las Cruces

The New Mexico Chile Cookoff is slated for October 3 on the Las Cruces Downtown Mall. All chile chefs are encouraged to participate in this event. The winner will become the 1981 New Mexico Chile Chef.

The Chile Cookoff is sponsored by the International Connoisseurs of Green and Red Chile, New Mexico Department of Agriculture and the four full service banks of Las Cruces. First prize is $500, 2nd prize is $250 and 3rd place prize is $100. All contestants must prepare original adaptations of genuine New Mexico chile con carne. Dishes will be judged on purity, integrity, color and flavor. Beans and pasta will not be allowed as part of the ingredients.

All chile cooks are responsible for their own cooking method. No electricity is available. Tables will be provided but contestants must bring their own cooking method, ingredients and displays.

An entry fee of $25 has been set by the sponsors. Participants are invited to set up between 9 and 11 a.m., on October 3. Cooks will meet at 11 a.m., for final instructions. Cooking begins immediately after and judging of samples will be gathered at 3:30 p.m.

All contestants for the New Mexico Chile Cookoff will be assigned spaces on the south center end of the mall.

For additional information contact: Tom Selves (505) 526-2428, Pat Beal (505) 526-5544, or Jeanne Croft (505) 648-1939. Reservations may be made by contacting International Connoisseurs of Green and Red Chile, Box 3467, Las Cruces, New Mexico 88003.

'Marathon Man' Davis walking across nation for MD

BY JEAN PATTERSON
Staff Writer/Photographer

"I'm going to make it. The only thing to deter me is the cold," said a man who is one-quarter of the way into his walk across the nation for Muscular Dystrophy.

'Fuzz Davis Marathon Man' or Craig Davis officially set off July 17 from the steps of the Los Angeles, California, City Hall on a southern trek through the United States and stopped in Ruidoso Sunday and left Tuesday.

"Originally, I wanted to set a Guinness World Record," Davis said. But after much consideration of cost and safety involvement, he decided it would be better to set on his venture with a cause, so he chose Muscular Dystrophy Association.

Originally from Portland, Maine, the 27-year-old man has been living in Hollywood, California, and is a member of the Jaycees there. Nationally, the Jaycees are sponsoring Davis and encouraging his cause by helping to provide lodging, food and necessary equipment.

Local Jaycee members have donated Davis' third pair of shoes, a heavier sleeping bag for the cooler climate, a down jacket, two journals and some T-shirts printed with his slogan, "Walk for those who can't," donated by Ski West Sports.

"I've been using a sleeping bag donated by a place in Los Angeles, but it's one of those with Donald Duck all over it and it's just not going to cut the ice," Davis said.

So far, Davis has only run into rain three times, once combined with a hail storm. Crossing the desert has also brought a few surprises for Davis. In the Mojave Desert, he was walking in 129 degree heat. In addition to the Mojave, Davis has crossed the Sonoran Desert and ventured into the Chihuahuan Desert.

From Ruidoso, Davis plans to hike to Roswell, through the Texas Panhandle on to Tulsa, Oklahoma, where he plans to meet with people at the national headquarters for the Jaycees.

"From there, I'll take a straight easterly course to Washington, D.C., up to New York and then through New England on Route 1," Davis said. He'll end up in his hometown of Portland, where he hopes to have media coverage to help publicize his cause.

Although Davis doesn't take individual pledges during his walk, he urges people to send any donations to:

Muscular Dystrophy Office
"Fuzz Davis Marathon Man"
555 Congress Street
Portland, Maine 04103

Ultimately, Davis wants to raise $25,000, but he doesn't want to know how much is raised until he has completed the walk.

"It could be a discouraging factor," Davis said. However, if he doesn't make his monetary goal, he said he may rest a couple of weeks and walk back to Los Angeles to raise it. But the determined man is convinced he will reach his goal.

Davis travels alone with his 50 pound back pack, loaded with sleeping bag, tent, some clothes, his journals, a dictionary, a radio, rain gear and a spoon. He also carries his five-pound, four-foot walking stick which comes in handy for such things as digging holes for campfires, clearing away bushes while walking and killing rattlesnakes.

"I killed my first rattlesnake just 30 miles outside of Alamogordo," Davis said.

That was the second rattlesnake he had encountered. While camping in the desert, Davis said he just blocked out thoughts of scorpions and snakes because he decided worrying about it wouldn't help.

Davis has found the people he has met to be helpful and friendly. Many people stop to offer him a ride, but he simply explains that he is walking 4,000 miles for Muscular Dystrophy. Once, however, he had some trouble convincing an Indian in San Carlos, Arizona.

"He was in his pick-up with his wife and offered to give me a ride and I said no and explained why. He kept asking me, 'You're walking?' and I'd say yes and he's ask again, 'You're walking?'. After asking about ten times, he asked, 'On foot?' I felt like telling him, 'No, I'm walking on my elbows,'" Davis said.

But for the most part, Davis has found people to be quite helpful. Since he left Los Angeles with only 20 cents in his pocket, he's had to rely on independent donations and help from the Jaycees.

"I eat a lot of beef jerky and dried fruits," Davis said. "The Jaycees's here (Ruidoso) offered me some sandwiches and I ate 12 of them. I'm hungry 24 hours a day."

Davis related another experience in which he was invited to pick any item on the menu to eat in a restaurant in Cloudcroft. "I noticed on a bulletin board that the record for the most beef ribs eaten was 26. When I left, it was 26. I don't think that guy knew what he was getting into."

Davis covers 25 miles a day on the average while on his best day he chalked up 37 and one half miles. His pace has slowed somewhat in the past few days as he takes more time to meet people and see some of the country. Because of the hospitality of the Ruidoso Jaycees, Davis stayed here one day longer than he had first planned.

"I walk three miles an hour, which is a cow's pace. After eating breakfast, I walk ten miles before I look for a place to eat lunch," Davis said. Davis drinks mostly water or orange juice and takes vitamins and food supplements.

"I used to drink light beer before this trip, but now I need the calories, so I drink the regular beer," Davis said. Since beginning his trip, Davis has lost 20 pounds. "When my mother sees me, she'll probably say 'Oh my poor boy.'"

"I've never wished I was done with this walk. I've decided to enjoy my whole walk and take time to look at things," Davis said. When I get done, though, I'm going to soak my feet for two weeks."

Davis expressed disappointment at his send-off from Los Angeles. After contacting all of the media, the mayor and some other dignitaries, there were no one to send him off. "I waved myself goodbye," Davis figured it was because no one really believed he would really complete his venture.

"That worked as reverse psychology me, though. I figured if they didn't feel my walk was worthwhile to take a little time off work to come down, I would do it all the more," Davis said. Davis admitted that walking for a cause such as Muscular Dystrophy gives him more incentive to complete the walk than if he was just doing it for himself.

Once he completes his trek, Davis says he will probably go back to work for awhile as produce manager at a supermarket. He eventually would like to get a four-wheel drive jeep and follow his same route to look at all of the places he has covered.

Another part of his dream is to write a book about the people and places he's visited on this trip. That is one reason why he's keeping a journal of all his experiences.

Before taking off on his journey, Davis did some research on the areas he would be traveling through. He estimated that the desert lands would be his toughest area geographically, although the cold weather is also something he worries about.

"I think I was prepared knowledge-wise, but I plan to learn a lot by experience," he said.

As far as setting up a route, Martin Stewart of AAA auto club was in charge, plotting a course on various highways, using 19 maps and taking nearly a full day to complete the task. Even though Davis has met some unique people and enjoyed some good experiences, the first quarter of his trip has not been all fun.

"I've been almost run over twice in the desert. A gentleman in the Mojave Desert tried to run me down. The other one I'll give the benefit of the doubt and say he probably fell asleep at the wheel."

But with three quarters of his trip ahead of him, there will probably be many more experiences Davis will have to relate before he reaches his home town of Portland, on his target date of December 17.

Currently the Ruidoso Jaycees are trying to contact "PM Magazine" and "Real People" to get some publicity for the walker. In addition, Davis has done some of his own public relations work to obtain coverage to help raise money for Muscular Dystrophy.

"New Mexico has been my favorite place so far. The Jaycees in Ruidoso have been the most helpful. Every state I've been to has been better than the last one. Hopefully it will get better all along the way," Davis said.

The make up of 'Marathon Man'

He's 27 years old, single, lived in one of the fastest places in the United States — Hollywood, California — and worked in a grocery store. So why did he want to walk 4,000 miles across the country to raise money for the Muscular Dystrophy Association?

"I've always wanted to live off the land; do what I want to do," said Craig 'Fuzz' Davis Marathon Man as he strode through Ruidoso earlier this week.

"I know it sounds old, but you're only here once. You have to grab on to all you can. I've seen things people have never and will never see," said the confident young man.

Topping six feet in height, Davis has the litherness of an athlete. "I didn't train at all before I left Los Angeles. Not to sound like Burt Reynolds, but I thought I was in pretty good shape," Davis said.

The blond, bearded man talks quickly with a strong taste of a New England accent. He admits that he enjoys being interviewed and responds easily to the many questions often tossed to him.

More than anything, his venture is a learning experience—even in the material he chooses to read on his walk. "My main book I read is a dictionary." He has a special section in his journal where he writes especially large words as he works on building up his vocabulary.

Davis dresses simply in gym shorts, T-shirt and tennis shoes, being in contrast with a large silver, turquoise and coral ring he wears on his left hand. It was given to him by a San Carlos, Arizona, Apache Indian whom he met on his trip.

His attitude reflects a strong mood of self-discipline necessary in his demanding task, yet he takes time to take advantage of the hospitality offered him by the Jaycees and other interested people, such as going out to dinner or just watching television.

Though only one quarter of the way through, his walk, Craig Davis seems to have what it takes. "I'm going to make it."

"WALKING FOR THOSE who can't" is Craig "Fuzz" Davis' slogan for his cross-country trek as echoed in his tee-shirt, donated by Ski West Sports.

National Hunting, Fishing Day set

Anybody who needed an excuse to take some time off to go fishing or hunting now has the blessing of President Ronald Reagan.

President Reagan officially proclaimed September 26 as the 10th observance of National Hunting and Fishing Day.

James Knight, Extension wildlife specialist at New Mexico State University, said, "This is the day the president has commended hunters and fishermen for their efforts on behalf of conservation."

The president's official proclamation pointed out that America's wildlife has staged a dramatic comeback, although some species faced a bleak and uncertain future over the past century.

New Mexico Governor Bruce King has also put his stamp of approval on the national observance with a proclamation that September 26 is also New Mexico Hunting and Fishing Day. King reiterated President Reagan's message emphasizing the need for everyone to join with sportsmen to ensure wise use of natural resources and wildlife.

The theme for the 10th National Hunting and Fishing Day is "A Day For Years To Come." Sportsman groups will set up displays and information booths at shopping malls and community centers across New Mexico to provide information for the general public.

State and federal game and fish agencies will help with some of these displays, and will have their own displays where possible.

Knight said, "National Hunting and Fishing Day is no mere calendar tribute. It's a conservation experience that lets millions of sportsmen acquaint millions of non-sportsmen with the importance of hunting and fishing to conservation.

"It's the one day that all outdoor loving Americans should take part in."

The Silver Lining

BY DANIEL AGNEW STORM

The First Day Of Fall
How many times have we seen the first day of fall move in, after a warm and balmy last day of summer, with mist and clouds cool and fresh out of the north, followed in mid afternoon by slow-falling rain? You might say this is a typical welcoming to autumn's beginning. And sure enough here in mid-afternoon on the first day of "The King of Seasons" the light rain has begun to fall, after a cool and cloudy day, with fog mantling the world in the early morning.

On the last day of summer all the mountain world was celebrating with blue skies, and very warm weather, with late summer and early fall flowers filling the land with color and the air with sweet fragrance.

Down from the hills came several cows who have been away from the river all summer, looking like the very pictures of cattle who have lived on the bounties of Mother Earth carried to their prime by the abundant summer rains. One in particular, a long time favorite called Snow Flake on account of a star-like white patch on her forehead, came walking up with the pride of life and deep contentment showing in her velvet brown eyes, touched with a light of purple. Her coat of jet black shone with touches of rainbow colors which often appear in good years such as this.

After drinking deeply of the crystal clear river water, the cows lay in the shade, as the still air allowed the golden sun to warm up the world, which reposed calm and peaceful, dreaming through the last hours of summer time.

At sunset they all began forming the parade to march up the trail back to the canyons, hill tops, valleys and mountain meadows. Through the gloaming the mother cows called to the calves, their voices echoing "From Glen to Glen" like gentle bugle notes. And these cow children sent back answering calls saying that they had left their play and were on the trail following close behind, as twilight and dusk gently began to unfold the hills and vales.

This was a brief little visit which the cows always make at this time of year; and by their quick return to the hills, let us know that rain is on the way (though not the slightest sign appeared in land or sky.)

The Frost Delayed?
For a few days, say a week ago, there was that hint of freezing in the air that made you think Jack Frost was going to pay us a visit. It was actually cold at eventide, and the first fire of the year in the fire place was welcome. You wondered if early cold was on the way. Now, with this cloudy and misty beginning of the autumn season, the pattern is set for a warm early autumn with frost later than usual. Frost does not arrive here in the vale until around the tenth of October.

All in all the signs all point to a wonderful fall, autumn and Indian Summer season.

The Apples
Soon now the apples of the valley will come into full ripeness. And the flavor is especially good this year. They present a picture of autumn splendor in rich red and gold on the trees.

The local apples are as fine as you can find anywhere, in flavor and health qualities.

America would not be complete without the apples in the fall, the apple is our long-time friend, going back to the beginning of this country and to our ancestral lands across the waters.

There are many ways to store apples, and one of the best remains in a box of wood (like the old time apple boxes in which the American apples were sent all over the world, including to Alaska in my boyhood.)

The apple "breaths", and so must have air. Therefore the storage container should not be air-tight but have openings at the bottom and top so that the air may circulate upwards and among the apples themselves.

The storage room should be cold, but not freezing.

There are many ways to prepare apples, to name a few: baked, apple sauce, pies, cobbiers, candied, dried, fried, (like potatoes), pickled (only certain kinds), in salad, to say nothing of cider, and eating out of the hand.

Fifty to a hundred years ago there used to be about two hundred popular varieties of apples in this country, some of which can be found today, including:

Many different kinds of Winesaps, Arkansas Black, Black Twigg, Pearmain, Bellflower, King David, Yellow Transparent, Snow White, Shenango, Shenandoah, and that apple that ripens on Saint John's Day in June, dear to the heart of the Hispanic people of the early days, "La Manzana De San Juan" (The Apple of Saint John).

Nowadays the local apples are confined mostly to certain varieties that have stood the test of time: Red Delicious, Golden Delicious, Jonathan (a great favorite all purpose apple) Stayman Winesap and Rome beauty.

Let us thank Our Lord for the wonderful summer and the glorious autumn that has now opened to us, so full of golden promise of happy days.

Wild animals and fish popular at State Fair

One "lowdown critter" from the southern part of the state will remember this year's 1981 Centennial New Mexico State Fair as being mighty hard on his tailend.

A huge 5 foot, 45 pound, diamondback rattlesnake, described as the "biggest ever seen" is a star attraction of the 1981 State Game and Wildlife Exhibit.

According to officials, the massive reptile reacted last week to his new surroundings at the state fair with venom — literally sprayed in a milky-white froth all over his plexiglass cage — and "shook, rattled and rolled" his way through two days of state fair visitors before giving up in submission to record crowds on the weekend.

The rattler is one of the living displays exhibited in natural surroundings at the popular exhibit in the Agricultural Exhibit

Building. Spokesman said all the animals, except the 150 fish and the bobcat, are merely visitors at the state fair and will be returned to their natural habitat at fair's end.

The tiny bobcat kitten, an orphan whose mother was killed in a hailstorm near Taos, will be raised by ranchers because "it would not survive in the wild."

The eight species of warm and cold water fish which include German browns, brooks and rainbows, weight eight ounces to three and one half pounds and are a fisherman's dream. However, officials say these "beauties" will be returned to the hatchery for use as brooder stock.

The 1981 Centennial New Mexico State Fair — The Biggest Show in New Mexico — continues in Albuquerque through Sunday.

THREE FOR THE PRICE OF ONE. Yes, we've got three, pine covered lots located just off Highway 37 in Gavilan Canyon that are priced to sell! Paved road in front with lots of pine trees. All three lots are priced at a total of $12,500.00 with terms. A better deal for each.

VALLEY ACREAGE. This 4 acre tract has a home, barns, 100+ apple and pear trees (not to mention the other various types of fruit trees) and is priced at $130,000.00. Perfect for keeping your favorite horse or great for small truck farm.

OWNER FINANCING. Extra nice 2 bedroom, 1 bath mobile with large add-on living room with fireplace. Large porch, concrete patio, sidewalks, 14'x20' workshop, fenced yard, lawn, fruit trees and neat as can be. Must see to appreciate. Owner financing makes this a super buy.

WE DARE YOU TO COMPARE. We have a 3 bedroom, 2 bath doublewide with over 1,900 square feet that we feel compares with many homes listed in the $80,000.00 bracket, yet this home can be purchased for just $59,000.00. It is located on a large 110'x170' lot that goes from street to street. Both streets are paved. All city utilities. Large living room with a fireplace, large utility room with lots of storage, two heating systems and much more. It doesn't cost much to look and you may be glad you did.

LARGE RIVER LOT. 228 feet of river frontage makes this large 1.6 acre lot something special. Has a horse barn with storage area for feed, is close in yet out of the city limits. Priced reasonably for river property.

Inside The Capitol

by Fred McCaffrey

SANTA FE — Topic number one: "Enhancement."

Those who read newspapers closely may have noted that the tapes left behind by the last corrections official to be murdered inside the walls of the New Mexico State Penitentiary have been delivered to the FBI for that kind of electronic dickerering with which is called "enhancement."

It may not have occurred to all readers, however, that such tinkering would not be necessary if the tapes had been dictated directly into his machine by a guard who simply came home from a shift on duty at the pen.

If enhancement is necessary, chances are great that these were tapes made by him as he carried electronic equipment on his body inside the penitentiary.

The man was, in short, probably "wired."

Lots of those who work for the prison system ought to be worried to discover that he left that legacy.

What matters now is what the feds do with the material he may have left behind him.

What law-abiding citizens have needed all these years was evidence from inside the walls.

We have hungered for "actualities" and facts on those people who have been in charge inside the pen. We have wanted somebody who had the courage to stand up and say, "Hey, yeah. Those guys have been stealing the State of New Mexico blind for years. This will prove what they are doing."

Perhaps this man, who left us his dead body, may have also provided another legacy: the proof.

(P. S. His tapes are apparently not the only ones extant. More on this later.)

Topic number two: Public relations. Jeff Pederson, the young man who quit a job at Los Alamos National Laboratory to become p.r. man for the Department of Corrections, could listen to those of us who have been in jobs like his.

This writer, who has in his time made almost every mistake known to the mind of man in the field of public relations, often feels the need to take Pederson aside and give him a few warnings.

First trap: Don't let the old foxes sell you up the river. They tend to do that.

The secret agenda of all those who run agencies of government is to keep the truth from getting out, not to reveal it.

If there was ever a place where that is so, the Department of Corrections of the State of New Mexico in late 1981 in that place.

What these guys want to circulate is almost certainly lies, not truth.

When you start knowingly lying for your bosses, you are done — finished, kaput.

Second trap: You promised us, with a great oath, that you would answer every accusation made by those subrosa reporters who recently studied the pen. You haven't.

You put out a flurry of releases for a couple of days, and then you disappeared.

Of those releases you did, some were extremely superficial. For instance, there was one which only said he didn't do it.

That adds little to the burden of human knowledge.

What did you think he'd do — plead guilty?

Not after he had all those people who have been ripping off the pen for years to model himself on.

Moral: Don't tell us you're going to do things unless you are. Specifically, don't boast that you will provide answers unless those you work for plan to let you provide them, honestly and completely.

Senator Harrison Schmitt reports to New Mexico

Better services and lower costs are two ways that consumers will benefit from deregulation of the telecommunications industry.

Senate Bill S. 898, "The Telecommunications Competition and Deregulation Act of 1981," which I introduced along with Senators Packwood, Goldwater and Stevens, recently cleared the Commerce, Science and Transportation Committee on a vote of 16 to 1. I expect this bill will be on the Senate floor for a vote this Fall.

The Communications Act of 1934 and the almost 50 years of regulations that now accompany this statute no longer adequately serve this country. The 1934 Act was drafted when ordinary voice telephone, telegraph, radio and newsprint were the total communications environment.

Today, telecommunications services include television, high speed computers, high volume data communications, electronic mail, and teleconferencing with transmission going via satellites, optical fibers, microwave links and cables.

Clearly our technological ability to deliver new communications services has outdistanced the 1934 Act. Many provisions or lack of provisions in this Act impede the delivery of advanced and lower cost goods and services to people and to the vital information sector of the nation's economy.

Without changes, the inevitable consequence will be a continuation of a long series of disruptive regulatory and court challenges. This process holds up service to the public, creates uncertainty in the investment community, keeps small firms out of the market place, inhibits growth, and encourages established firms to expend valuable resources in the regulatory and judicial arenas rather than in improving services for the public.

Some communications regulations will remain necessary, particularly when monopoly services remain the only present alternative. For example, this bill provides safeguards to assure continued universal availability of basic telephone and telegraph services at reasonable rates. And it promotes communications necessary to national defense and emergency preparedness.

The Telecommunications Competition and Deregulation Act of 1981 will not only allow the nation's law to catch up to current technological advances, but also will make the law more adaptable to advances no one has thought of yet.

The excessive regulation of a growing competitive market is a waste of your tax dollars, delays new services and keeps costs high by restricting competition.

Consumer demand and technological advances make a shift to competition both desirable and inevitable.

With final passage of the Telecommunications Bill, you, the consumer, definitely will be the winner.

editorial

A three-member team, named by the American Correctional Association of College Park Maryland, will soon review the operation of the State Penitentiary at Santa Fe.

Following the review, the team will make recommendations to Corrections Secretary Roger Crist on how to operate the pen.

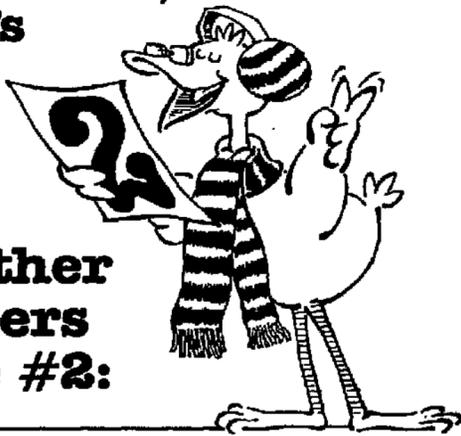

We can't help wondering, though, how much three people, in three days, can learn about the operation of the prison to correct the problems existing since the February 1980 riot, and before.

If this team pulls it off, and gets the job done, there'll be no one in New Mexico including Governor Bruce King, who can say they don't believe in miracles. — CD

For lower heating bills this winter, here's

Weather Beaters Rule #2:

CAULKING AND WEATHER-STRIPPING

Weather Beaters Rule #1, Insulation, goes hand in hand with Rule #2, Caulking and Weatherstripping. Sealing cracks around windows and doors with caulking and weatherstripping helps prevent air leaks that can drain heated air from your home. Your heating unit works harder to replace this lost heat, causing your bill to be higher. Caulking and weatherstripping is an easy, inexpensive, do-it-yourself project that can result in lower utility bills, and a more comfortable home. Why not take the time now, before the colder weather sets in, to fill cracks around windows and doors? For more ways to lower heating costs, just give us a call.

ABOUT SLAVERY

Steve Fishman, writing recently in the Christian Science Monitor, addresses the problem of continued slavery in Africa. In Mauritania, from where he writes, the old tradition flourishes, unofficially.

This should remind Americans who are descended from slaves of their good fortune — in now being members of a free American society. While every American regrets the hardships and inequities of slavery, efforts to blame only whites for this system are less than accurate.

Slavery was once a worldwide tradition, in black, white, brown and yellow countries. In the advanced white and western nations, the custom has been abolished. The white record is not the worst. And how fortunate are the blacks whose ancestors were brought here from Africa! They fare much better today — with far greater free opportunity — than their fellows still left in Africa.

For black Americans, then, gratitude and patriotism are as appropriate as for anyone else. — The News, Santa Rosa

OUR LANGUAGE GAP

The United States now has more foreigners from foreign countries than Americans traveling out of this land. And it should be getting embarrassing for us.

Whole groups of visitors from other countries do not understand a word of instructions given them on an airplane. They don't know what in the world the park ranger is saying to them.

They can't read the signs at Disneyland. They can't read the menus in San Francisco.

They can't order room service in their hotels. And they have a hard time finding the restrooms.

This is because we are such a stubborn, one-language country for the most part. You can find English spoken or printed to a large extent in most of the rest of the free world. It's about all you can find in this country, except for a little Spanish along the border states.

Are we smug about language in the United States, or just backward? — News-Bulletin, Belem

NOT QUITE RIGHT

When Mildred Popovics of El Paso ... and sometimes Ruidoso ... appeared before the village trustees September 8 ... complaining about the parking problem associated with Jerry Dale's ... and how people park in the street near her abode ... and how car lights tend to disrupt her sleep ... and charging that tree removal had created a dust bowl ... she said she was threatening to "file a suit against Jerry Dale's if the problems are not solved."

Well ... when she read that statement in The News, she ups and puts in a phone call to me ... advising me that she wasn't about to file any suit ... but that, if a suit were filed, there'd be others involved ... not just her ... and, by jinkies, the record straight ... so this should sorta straighten the record ... no?

GOOD TIME TEENAGERS

After following that group of foreign exchange students ... here over the weekend, courtesy of the Rotarians ... it was readily apparent that they were teenagers ... just like good old U S of A teenagers ... 'cause they carried on ... and teased and joked ... and had a ball ... 'twas most refreshing just watching ... and listening.

'Course some of them may have had a struggle with the spaghetti dinner they were served ... but there were no complaints ... they took the stringy, goopy stuff right in stride ... never missing a strand ... or a lick.

But it was during the costume party that their personalities came to the fore ... moderation and decorum were tossed to the winds ... they just really got with the program ... and enjoyed themselves ... there was a witch ... and a Caesar ... and "the fastest gun down under" ... even though one of this gal's "arms" was a banana ... and, oh how they carried on ... and posed for getting their pictures taken ... yup ... those students from their nations seem to stack up well ... and definitely gave the impression that they'd make good future citizens in their homeland ... and they were enjoying their experiences in Harmony Valley ... even if one petite gal from Japan sorta twisted her knee whilst roller skating ... but judging from how she got around on crutches, nothing was about to slow her down.

NEW NEWS STAFFERS

There ain't no old faces representing The News staff ... so far as reporter/photographers are concerned ... 'cause there's new ones as is on the old beats ... and a fine, pleasant lot they be.

First there's Billie Larson ... longest aboard of the three new guys ... came here from Albuquerque ... got there from Roswell ... she's been having some problems coping with her camera ... sorta letting me know that, by jinkies, the camera hasn't as yet gotten acclimated to the elevation ... and that's a development I gotta see ... and probably will.

Then there's Jean Patterson ... she came here from Nebraska ... and she'll enjoy the climate ... 'cause the climate's not all that good in the Corn Huskers domain. She can't get used to the fact she can't drive around the block here ... to get anywhere ... but that's a small problem ... compared to the problem she's gonna have during the Aspencade crowds ... like making a U-turn on Sudderth without wrinkling a fender.

Finally there's Tim Palmer ... he's meandering around on the village beat ... doing his level best to find out what's going on in the village ... and how to get to where he's gotta go from where he's at ... but he's been doing pretty well ... only claims to get lost twice or thrice a day ... which ain't bad for a stranger in these here friendly hills.

That leaves sports writer Gary Brown ... he's been aboard since July ... and he's still wondering how there can be so many sports activities going on ... and how to be in three places in one time ... but he's coping ... and seems to be getting with the program ... er, programs ... and, by jinkies, it do seem as though he's pretty well keeping outta mischief.

Anyhow ... that figures out to three reporter/photographer ... and a sports type ... which has just gotta be good ... 'cause that means there's lots of hustling going on ... which is good ... 'cause that means there'll be lotsa pictures ... and stories ... and articles ... and all sorts of goodies ... coming up ... for your reading pleasure ... gadzooks and three cheers.

BRIEF BIT: Poland is having problems ... which ain't probably going to improve much if'n they wind up knee deep in invading Russian soldiers. (CD)

Henriette Wyeth to be honored

The Eighth Annual Governor's Awards, New Mexico's highest artistic honors, will be presented to four leading artists and to two persons who have made a significant contribution to the preservation of Hispanic arts and culture by Governor Bruce King in a special ceremony to be held in the Rotunda of the Capitol on Monday, October 26, at 6 p.m.

This year, the Governor's Awards for excellence and achievement in the arts will go to Blue Corn, San Ildefonso Pueblo, for Pottery; to Fremont F. Ellis, Taos, for Literature; and to Henriette Wyeth, San Patricio, for Painting. The Governor's Award for an outstanding contribution to the arts will be presented by Gov. King to Mr. and Mrs. Y. A. Palohelmo of Santa Fe, who founded and developed La Cienega Village Museum at El Rancho de las Golondrinas, a 200 acre living museum restoration of Spanish Colonial life in the 17th, 18th and 19th centuries.

Mrs. Alice King will act as Mistress of Ceremonies. After the awards presentations, a reception in the Governor's Gallery will honor the awardees and open a month-long exhibition of their works. A biographical sketch of Henriette Wyeth follows.

Through her heritage, and through her own talent and preference, Henriette Wyeth's life has been immersed in art; always she has lived in an atmosphere of creativity.

The eldest child of the famed artist-illustrator Newell Convers Wyeth, she showed her gift for painting at an early age. Her father wrote, "I can only say that her work is remarkable. Certain fundamental knowledges, such as perspective and proportion, seem to be instinctive to her. . . . Henriette's natural ability to draw is so astonishing that I hardly know what to do about it."

In the family's home at Chadds Ford, Pennsylvania, she and her brothers and sisters grew up absorbing a knowledge and love of art, with their father as their first and foremost teacher.

When her family lived for a time in Wyeth's ancestral home at Needham, Massachusetts, Henriette, then 13, was sent to the normal Art School in Boston, where she studied life drawing and worked for a year in the classes of the brilliant teacher, Richard Andrew, who guided her in her mastery of the figure. She eagerly studied the great collections in the Boston museums and attended symphony and opera performances.

When the family returned to Chadds Ford, she continued painting in her father's studio. Like him, she worked in oils, which she calls "the toughest medium", concentrating even then on portraits and on still lifes, particularly of flowers. At her father's suggestion, she also attended classes at the Pennsylvania Academy of Fine Arts, and by the time she was 20 she was winning ribbons in Philadelphia shows and accepting portrait commissions.

On the train returning from the Academy one afternoon, she met a lanky young Westerner who told her he was on his way to an interview with N. C. Wyeth and asked directions to the house. Her father was waiting for her at the station, and they drove home with Peter Hurd, a native of Roswell who had left the military academy at West Point to study art and was enrolled at nearby Haverford College.

N. C. Wyeth recognized Hurd's early talent, first accepting him as an occasional visitor for criticism of his work and then, within a year, as a full-time student and apprentice in the busy artistic household. The two young artists fell in love, and in 1923 they were married and spent a long honeymoon in New Mexico, in a cabin in the Capitan mountains.

During the early years of their marriage they lived and painted in Chadds Ford. In 1940, they moved to New Mexico permanently with their young family, settling at San Patricio in the Ruidoso Valley.

Here Peter Hurd realized his early artistic promise, depicting his beloved West in the panoramic paintings that have made him world famous, and to Sentinel Ranch came portrait clients to be painted by Henriette and Peter, whose adjacent studios have reflected their complementary yet vastly different orientations as painters.

Over the years, Henriette Wyeth has been commissioned to execute many portraits, including those of Helen Hayes, Mrs. Richard M. Nixon, Robert O. Anderson and his family, and Mrs. John D. Rockefeller III. A profoundly personal and intuitive painter, she has frequently used her family as subjects, and her portraits of N. C. Wyeth, of Peter Hurd, of her son Peter, and of her grandson, David, are recognized masterpieces, as are her paintings of such friends as Witter Bynner and Joseph Hergesheimer.

Writer Paul Horgan, a longtime friend, neighbor and biographer of both the Hurds, has written, "Henriette Wyeth's profoundly personal art is a statement of her wholly involved response to life as she perceives it, whether in living subjects or inert objects, all revealed in the very climate of her most intimate nature. Technically marvelous in her work, she commands a medium for a value more significant than just the arrangement of design, color, texture, or the pleasures of the abstract. . . .

"She presents us, first of all, with immediate recognitions in her painted world; but as we look again, and yet again, what comes to us is the emotion behind her translated vision; and in turn, this crystallizes a realm of ideas where this artist's temperament finds values beyond image. She brings to her work depths of meaning which, once experienced, do indeed guide us to a change in our manner of looking at the world once she has revealed her vision of it in her art."

Henriette Wyeth's paintings are in the permanent collections of the Art Institute of Chicago, the Metropolitan Museum, New York; the Wilmington (Delaware) Society of Fine Arts, the New Britain (Connecticut) Museum of Arts, the Roswell Museum of Art Center, the Carnegie Institute, Pittsburgh, and the Smithsonian Institution, Washington.

Last year the Brandywine River Museum at Chadds Ford presented a two-month retrospective exhibition of 50 of her works.

Several of her paintings are part of the current Wyeth-Hurd exhibit at the Roswell Museum and Art Center, which will run through October 25. Celebrating America's artistic dynasty, the show also includes major works by N. C. Wyeth, Andrew Wyeth, Jamie Wyeth, Peter Hurd, and Michael Hurd, her son.

ERIN IVEY, 13, of Clint, Texas, on "My Prudence," owned by Tom and Babe Lynch of El Paso, Texas. Erin was the winner of the 13 and Under Stock Equitation and the Native Costume Open Class.

MARY JANE SCHROEDER, Cross U Bar Ranch, Big Horn, Wyoming, winner of the 1981 Snaffle Bit Futurity in the Ruidoso Arabian Horse Show which ended Sunday, stands beside her horse, "Na Hital Amar." She is holding the championship buckle she won.

Wyoming woman wins Snaffle Bit Futurity

Mary Jane Schroeder, 25, Big Horn, Wyoming, Sunday afternoon was the Snaffle Bit Futurity at the second annual Ruidoso Arabian class "A" horse show at Ruidoso Downs.

A third generation member of a ranching family who has bred Skowronek Arabians since 1938, she won the highly prized 1981 championship Snaffle Bit Futurity belt buckle in class competition, showing her filly, Na Hital Amar, which, translated from Arabic, means "our light of the new moon."

From Ruidoso, Schroeder said she will "haul" to Tucson, Arizona, for another show, and then on, for the winter months, to Scottsdale, Arizona, where her family has recently purchased a second ranch, which she says will serve as a marketing and training center for their horse breeding operation.

A-A Futurity to be televised

The All-American Futurity, won Labor Day by Special Effort, will be shown tonight at 7 on Ruidoso's Channel 11, as a one hour network program.

WHITE SANDS MISSILE RANGE School band takes time out from a recent practice session to pose for a picture. The 40-member group of sixth through ninth graders will march in the Aspencade parade at Ruidoso Saturday, October 3. The band will wear new uniforms which they helped to provide through the sale of frisbees. Clark Bowby, band director is at far left. Mike Gregory (center front) drum major, will lead the band in the annual Aspencade celebration. (United States Army photo)
