

Capitan Mountains oil and gas leases discussed

BY JEAN PATTERSON
Staff Writer

Approximately 25 Ruidoso residents and representatives of special interest groups attended a public input meeting Friday in the Ruidoso Public Library to voice opinions and offer suggestions on oil and gas leasing in the Capitan Mountains Wilderness. The meeting was sponsored by the Smokey Bear Ranger District of the Lincoln National Forest.

The purpose of the meeting was to give the public the chance to express any concerns regarding the oil and gas leases and to hear comments that can be used in preparing the Environmental Assessment Report. The United States Forest Service is required to prepare this report prior to any exploration activities in the Capitan Mountains Wilderness area.

"We're charged with meeting requirements of the law. We need input to meet these requirements," said Paul Gordon, district ranger. Under the National Environmental Planning Act, the Forest Service must consider "no action" as an alternative in leasing the land for exploration. Several other alternatives were also presented at the meeting and discussed.

"We removed oil drilling from the United States to the Middle East. It was cheaper there because we couldn't afford to drill it here. Thirty to 40 years ago we could have competed," said J. A. Barber. "I would rather smell United States oil than be owned by an Arab."

"Environment is the number one thing. We can't allow people to step on it and continue stepping on it," said Mark Watson, Ruidoso resident.

The three approved oil and gas leases and the one still pending approval from the Bureau of Land Management, are now only concerned with exploration of the area to determine if there is enough gas and oil present to be economically feasible to drill.

"If exploration leads to development . . . it's hard to hide an oil well," said one man attending the meeting.

"I live at the foot of the Capitans. You've exaggerated the disfigurement by exploration and development. Exploration doesn't disturb the ground at all," said Walt Durr.

Dennis Roy, forester, said if the issue would go as far as including exploration, that oil rigs must be placed with a minimum of disfigurement to the land and will be as visually hidden as possible.

"They (explorers) use the same trails as do backpackers, picnickers and builders. Ordinarily, they do not drill more than 120 acres with one well per section," Roy said.

"It's a supposition if oil is discovered. We have a problem of leasing for exploration," Gordon said. He indicated the discovery of oil or gas in the wilderness area was an "unlikely event." "What we are talking about is to lease any or all of this wilderness."

One man at the meeting expressed concern about the possibility of discovering minerals during the oil and gas exploration, leading to possible strip mining for that mineral.

"This will not open the door to mining. A mining claim is different," said Roy. He explained that, under the Wilderness Act of 1964, a claim to mine in a wilderness area must be filed by December 31, 1983. After that date, no one will be allowed to file any mineral claims on wilderness land.

Gordon indicated an Environmental Impact Statement might be a result of the Environmental Assessment Report.

"That's what this (meeting) is all about. We need this public input meeting before we start," he said.

Some alternatives prepared by the Forest Service in granting the oil and gas leases include the following:

— No action — denying investigation and leasing in the Wilderness. No surface occupancy or directional drilling from areas outside the wilderness boundary.

— Leasing restricted to area with minimal visual impact and with high to moderate potential for restoration of the visual resource to a near-natural appearing condition.

— Leasing restricted at areas with a minimal impact on biological resources with high to moderate potential for restoration of the biological values to a near natural condition.

— Leasing restricted to areas with minimal biological and visual impact and a high to moderate potential of restoration.

— Leasing restricted to areas on which biological and visual resource impacts can be relieved in the short term.

— Leasing of the entire wilderness area. "These are alternatives here. We are required by law to go through the process. If you examine them and think of better ones, we want to hear from you," Gordon said.

One man suggested exploration take place near Roswell because of the lower elevation. "I don't see any reason to go through one mile of rock when you can find the same there," he said.

Because of laws and restrictions placed on the Forest Service when leasing wilderness area, one man at the meeting said, "This is a public charade. We don't have much say. It ruins the integrity of the wilderness."

"It's hard for me to be anything but emotional. I don't have all the facts, but if there are already laws, we're helpless," said Watson.

Roy stated that restoration practices are "getting better." He cited one instance in the White Mountain region where an oil derrick had been located. After restoration, a forester went back to find the area where the derrick had been placed, but was unable to locate it.

"We're getting better all the time. We'll get better as we go," said Roy.

Mike Bunker, representative from the Bureau of Land Management from the Roswell office said many regulations are followed in granting leases for exploration or drilling.

"We are required to protect any values there. If we can grant the lease and protect the values, then we'll approve the lease. If we can't grant a lease and protect the values, no lease is approved," Bunker said.

Control offices involved in the process to actually drill for oil include the New Mexico Oil and Gas Company; United States Geological Survey; Bureau of Land Management; private archaeologists; botanists and the Forest Service.

Land area involved in the four leases includes 5,499 acres out of the wilderness and 2,280 acres in the wilderness. Currently, there are 1,305 acres pending approval until the Environmental Assessment Report is finished.

Comments and suggestions can be written and sent to District Ranger, Smokey Bear District, P. O. Drawer F, Ruidoso, New Mexico, 88345.

"We wouldn't even have a wilderness area at all if there was no compromise in 1984," said Randy Herzberg, recreation forester. He referred to the Wilderness Act of 1964, which designated certain land to be wilderness areas.

More information on this issue is available at the Smokey Bear Ranger Station.

Trustees pursuing gas company purchase

BY TIM PALMER
Staff Writer

The Ruidoso trustees, in a special meeting Thursday voted unanimously to pursue the acquisition of the Ruidoso Natural Gas Company by the Village of Ruidoso.

The action means that negotiations for the purchase of the utility can proceed, and that Ruidoso voters will decide in an election next March whether to approve the actual purchase.

Close questioning of consulting engineer Willis Umholtz by the trustees preceded their vote on a motion by George White, seconded by Frank Sawyer. Umholtz prepared a feasibility study on the acquisition and operation of the gas company by the village and recommended the purchase.

Before the meeting, Umholtz provided the trustees with the final information to be included in the feasibility study. This was a systems capacity review and a report on the Capitan-Carrizozo Gas Association transmission pipeline.

Umholtz had recommended that the village try to acquire the pipeline, which carries gas from the El Paso Natural Gas Company main line to the Ruidoso Natural Gas Company system. But the engineer told the trustees that the Capitan-Carrizozo Gas Association board voted last week not to sell the pipeline.

White asked whether Ruidoso could build its own transmission line. Umholtz said that such a project was physically possible, but that the cost of construction would be too high to outweigh the disadvantage of having to purchase gas from the association.

Umholtz suggested that the quantity of gas available to Ruidoso is of great concern. His study recommends an immediate expansion of the local system and an aggressive program to attract new customers.

Therefore, he said, the village should provide input into current contract negotiations between Capitan-Carrizozo Gas Association and El Paso Natural Gas Company to insure that the Ruidoso system is able to buy enough gas for its future needs.

"Both boards have agreed to work together on that," Umholtz said later, noting the association's spirit of cooperation with the village, despite its refusal to sell the pipeline.

White wondered whether the village could do away with the present $3 monthly service fee charged by the gas company. Umholtz replied that the village could do anything it wanted if it owned the company, but that service of the company's debt will require continuance of the charge or an adjustment elsewhere in the rates.

Purchase of the company would be financed through the sale of revenue bonds.

Trustee Benny Coulston asked Umholtz whether operation of the gas company by the village could mean a reduction in home heating and cooling costs to Ruidoso residents who use natural gas. "If the figures hold as presented," Umholtz said, referring to the estimated savings in operations costs that the village could achieve by using its own personnel and equipment to perform many necessary operations of the company.

"What we've projected is not a reduction in dollars (to the consumer) but a stabilization of costs," Umholtz said later. By increasing the customer load, he said, the village should be able to operate the system and service the debt without raising rates.

He noted, however, that this desired balance will have to be closely monitored in order to assure that the utility is earning enough revenue to maintain itself. The village's present computer should be very helpful in this respect, he added.

Trustee Sherman Atwood questioned Umholtz about his figures on the projected savings in operating costs under village operation. Umholtz said later that a review of the figures has resulted in an adjustment of the savings projections, but not in a significant change.

Umholtz recommended to the trustees that acquisition of the gas company by the village be contingent upon three factors — availability of adequate financing, approval by the voters in a special election and guaranteed purchase of village revenue bonds totaling 80 percent of the purchase price by Ruidoso Natural Gas Company stockholders.

White asked Umholtz whether he believes the utility can be run as efficiently by the village as by a private concern. Umholtz answered in the affirmative, and pointed to Deming as an example of a municipality that runs a gas utility successfully.

Umholtz was also asked about a non-profit commission directing the utility.

"Management is the key to any of these things," Umholtz said. "It's been my experience that with key people in the right place, you can get performance out of any kind of system."

Coulston asked village manager Jim Hine if the village has the personnel and expertise to run the utility. Hine answered yes, and pointed out that three former gas company employees now work for the village.

Hine, who indicated that he strongly favors the acquisition, said that he would like to see money earned on the utility stay in Ruidoso.

Al Junge suggested that several open town meetings take place before the March election to discuss the pros and cons of the purchase. It had earlier been pointed out that the village would be prohibited from advertising before the election, but it was agreed that such meetings would not constitute advertising.

Trustee Frank Sawyer had earlier asked Umholtz whether all pertinent information relating to the acquisition, such as price and availability of financing, will be available to the public before the election. Umholtz answered yes.

"But a lot of questions can't be answered today," said Sawyer.

"Correct," said Umholtz.

Kids! It's time for you to write to Santa Claus

Santa Claus, from his home at the North Pole, telephoned The News this morning, asking us to remind all the children to write their letters to him, right away, so he can have them before he harnesses up his reindeer, to deliver his gifts Christmas Eve.

So . . . kids . . . write your letters to Santa, and send them to: The Ruidoso News, P. O. Box 128, Ruidoso, New Mexico 88345 . . . so as to reach us not later than December 11.

We'll print all the letters in The News . . . and, of course, forward them to Santa so he can know which of the boys and girls have been good . . . and what they'd like for Christmas.

Madrigal Feast tickets available at Library

Tickets are still available at the Ruidoso Public Library for the community's fourth annual Madrigal Feast, two evenings of Renaissance style entertainment in the round, which will be held December 8 and 9 at 7 p.m., at the Inn of the Mountain Gods.

Tickets for the first evening, Wine and Wassail Night, are $10, and for Feast Night, December 9, are $30, which includes a buffet dinner in addition to the performance of a madrigal choir and mummery players group.

Ticket sales, which traditionally have gotten off to a slow start, usually result in a last minute rush for the 180 seats available each evening, Mary Lou Gooch, Library director, said Friday. Gooch advised people planning to attend the Library sponsored festivity to buy their tickets as early as possible to ensure they will have a seat.

Solving area's potential fire problems discussed

BY TIM PALMER
Staff Writer/Photographer

More than a dozen persons who are very concerned about fire danger spent a good part of Friday learning about potential fire problems in the Ruidoso area and discussing ways to solve them.

The meeting was sponsored by Lincoln National Forest supervisor Jim Abbot and New Mexico State Forestry Service district forester Chris Zamora.

Participants met Friday morning at Smokey Bear Ranger Station. They were told by Abbot that the meeting was taking place because those involved did not want to wait until after a bad fire to meet and discuss fire problems.

From the ranger station, the group left on a tour of county subdivisions in the area. Forester Steve Makowski of the Smokey Bear Ranger District was the tour leader.

Makowski demonstrated the rate of spread of a wildfire by feeding data including temperature, slope, wind and response time into a pocket computer. He also explained how different fuels are designated from "one hour fuels" to "1,000 hour fuels."

The times refer to the amount of time it takes for a fuel to change to meet air conditions such as humidity or precipitation.

Grass, a one hour fuel, reacts quickly to change. But pieces of wood larger than three inches in diameter take 1,000 hours to react. Thus, Makowski explained, a rain shower after a dry spell does not really lessen fire danger because it does not affect the larger fuels.

Among the potential fire problems pointed out on the tour was the widespread use of wooden shingles, so called "cedar shakes," on the roofs of homes. Zamora likened their use to "dumping gasoline on a house."

State Representative John Mershon observed that restrictions on cedar shakes were effectively lifted when insurance companies did not differentiate between them and other roofing materials.

Pine needles on roofs, dead wood on the ground near houses, creosote treated base logs and firewood stacked against or under houses were other fire hazards seen on the tour. Trees with branches over fireplace chimneys also pose a danger, it was noted.

Following the tour, the group met to discuss possible courses of action. Abbot outlined three areas in which he feels progress can be made: construction standards and codes and access to them, coordination of fire prevention efforts and definition of zones of responsibility between the various agencies and governmental bodies concerned with the problem.

"We can't solve all the problems here today but we can start," Abbot said.

One suggestion that came out of the meeting was that the state Fire Marshal's Office, represented by Carl Standafer, prepare a description of the particular fire prevention and suppression needs of Lincoln and Otero Counties. Standafer agreed to prepare an assessment, which will then be presented to the county commissions and other governmental bodies.

Because much of the area in the two counties is forested, concern was expressed that rural fire departments be equipped to fight wildfires. Standafer noted that money for the needed equipment—such as four wheel drive vehicles, hand tools, and light weight water lines—is generally available through the state fire fund, and that rural departments should be made aware of this.

State Representative George Fetting of Alamogordo, who originated the idea for Friday's meeting, felt that it was a step in the right direction.

As evidence, he said, "We got all the groups together in one place at one time. There is a general consensus that a problem exists—the differences are minor."

"It's a start," said Abbot. "Just the fact that we are working together and recognize this is a positive step."

Abbot noted that Ruidoso and this area are doing a good job—"almost a model job"—on fire prevention, citing the efforts of the ComFIRE organization in particular.

But, as he had noted earlier, "Ruidoso matches anywhere in the country for having the potential for a disaster."

Among those participating in Friday's activities were: Ray Gallegos, Frank Smith and David Bervin of the New Mexico Division of Forestry; Ben Hall, Lincoln County Commissioner; R. S. Finley, Bonito-Alto fire chief; Herb Brunell, ComFIRE; O. J. Cuddy, nominee for Ruidoso fire prevention officer; Paul Gordon, district ranger; Larry Schmidt, Bureau of Indian Affairs; Jim Hine, Ruidoso village manager; and Lloyd L. Davis Jr., mayor of Ruidoso.

Villages' trustees to meet

Ruidoso Downs Trustees will meet tonight at 7, at Municipal Hall with the following items included on the agenda:

— Resolution on delinquent accounts.

— Notice of appointment for judge and clerks for special election.

— Amendment to by-laws for the Ruidoso Downs Volunteer Fire Department.

Ruidoso trustees will hear a report on water revenues from last summer's rate increase at their regular meeting at 7:30 p.m., Tuesday at the Village Administrative Center.

Trustee Frank Sawyer requested the report at a meeting last month. It will be presented by village administrative assistant Frank Potter.

Other items on the agenda include:

— Discussion of swimming pool lease.

— Proposal of Dennis Harkness and Matt Jakusz to operate Emergency Medical Services.

— Report from Potter on Christmas lights. He indicated the village would like to extend the lighting, possibly with the cooperation of local businesses.

FIRE MANAGEMENT OFFICER Steve Makowski of the United States Forest Service spoke to a group of legislators, village and county officials, and fire prevention and suppression specialists Friday on the potential for a disastrous fire in the Ruidoso area.

THREE CANDIDATES were initiated into the Ruidoso Elks Lodge Thursday evening, during the official visitation to the local lodge by Harold Kuenstler, District Deputy Grand Exalted Ruler, Lordsburg. From the left are Tommy Hall, Exalted Ruler of the Ruidoso Elks, Kuenstler and initiates Richard Pine, Chester Schafer and James "Luke" Miller.

ComFIRE seeking approval of village Fire Prevention Officer

Although only six people were present at the Thursday meeting of the Committee for the Improvement of Ruidoso's Environment (ComFIRE) a variety of subjects was discussed.

After two months of advertising, screening applicants and finally interviewing candidates, ComFIRE has chosen a candidate for the newly created position of Fire Prevention Officer. The candidate's name will be submitted to Ruidoso's Board of Trustees at their Tuesday meeting for approval.

Herb Brunell, ComFIRE chairman, said the Fire Prevention Officer's first three to four months on the job would be spent in "groundwork because it's an enormously wide job."

The job deals with liaison work between several fire departments, including Alto, Ruidoso, Ruidoso Downs; the village, the state fire marshal's office, the federal and state fire management offices and the public.

"As far as I know, there are no other Fire Prevention Officer positions in the state," said Dave Bervin, New Mexico State Forestry fire management officer. Because of the uniqueness of the new position and the flexibility involved, it was decided to let the officer shape the job with guidelines from ComFIRE and the village.

Members also discussed cedar shake roofs used for shingling in many homes in the area. The discussion stemmed from a letter to the editor in the November 16 issue of The News written by Al Junge. His letter addressed the use of wood shingle roofs and their susceptibility to fire. Although ComFIRE members agreed cedar shake roofs are one of the main causes of house fires in the area, they disagreed with one portion of Junge's letter that stated New Mexico's fire inurance is the highest in the nation.

"I would like to congratulate the village on the 10 percent street grade they recently passed on our (ComFIRE's) recommendation," Brunell said. "We have some good fire-aware people on the Planning and Zoning Committee." Other things the committee has requested Planning and Zoning look at include a study on water requirements and road widths in new housing developments.

"We give them an adequate straight forward presentation and then we back off. It's no use to hound them. They're intelligent, and it works," Brunell said.

Concerning the issue of cedar shake roofs, however, the committee recommended the new Fire Prevention Officer check into statistics on numbers of fires caused or aided by such shingling. "You have an extremely large flammable surface there," said Steve Makowski, fire management officer for the United States Forestry service, Smokey Bear Ranger Station.

Brunell asked about a fire retardant that had been demonstrated in Ruidoso a few years ago which was supposed to reduce fire danger when applied to such surfaces as cedar shake roofs.

"It works, but it's too damn expensive," Makowski said. "It's (fire) not going to happen to me," he added, in reference to some people's attitudes.

Don Rash, board member of the Bonito Volunteer Fire Department suggested users of the fire retardant be given a tax deduction, through the government.

Rash then discussed problems facing the Bonito department. "We don't have a nucleus of young people. That is our number one problem," he said. "They just aren't there."

Currently, the department is working on raising money for a new four-wheel drive truck. Rash reported the model they are looking at lists at $85,000.

The next ComFIRE meeting will take place December 17 at 4 p.m., at the Ruidoso Chamber of Commerce.

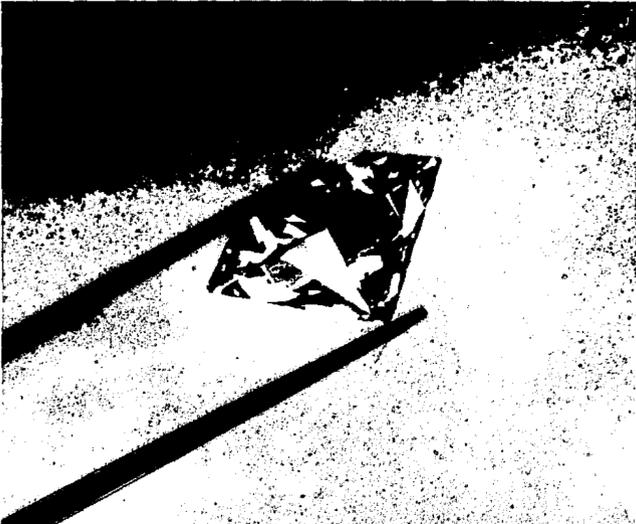

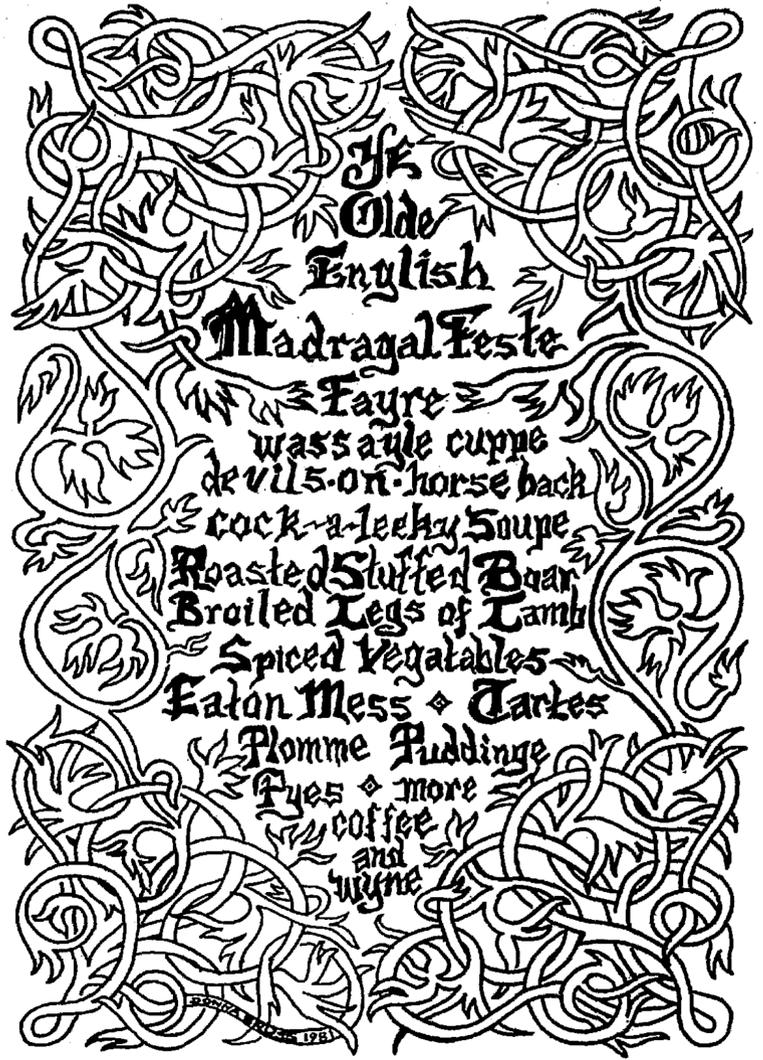

GOP women hear aspirant for governor

The guest speaker for the Federated Republican Women (FRW) of Lincoln County's noon luncheon and business meeting at Nottingham's last Tuesday was Republican gubernatorial candidate. Bob Grant, an Albuquerque consulting geologist and realtor and a former state representative. Other guests included Mary Skeen, wife of Congressman Joe Skeen, and realtors from the Ruidoso area.

Grant told the gathering that "the person who occupies the chair in the state's chief executive office should be someone who fully understands the state's economic base and who has the credentials to do more than scar his desk with his spurs."

Other FRW business included: —Plans for a potluck Christmas party, scheduled for December 15, 6 p.m., at a meeting place to be determined. Members and guests are requested to bring an inexpensive gift of $5 or under for a gift exchange. Members will also contribute to a "money tree" which will be presented to a charitable service project in the county at a later date.

There's nothing more revealing than a naked diamond.

The diamond you buy should have nothing to hide. That's why it's advisable to select your stone and mounting separately.

Before a diamond is mounted, your jeweler can easily demonstrate its cut, color, clarity and carat weight to you. With his help, you will be able to see and compare the brilliance of different stones yourself.

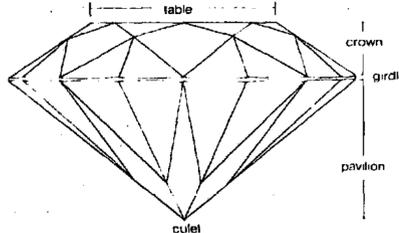

Brilliance is the key to beauty in diamonds. Always look for a diamond that has been cut and polished to bring out all of its natural brilliance, one that meets the exacting standards that have been established as ideal. These are called ideal cut diamonds.

When a diamond is ideally cut, its 58 facets are placed in precise relation to the others. They act as tiny mirrors, constantly capturing and reflecting light and bouncing it back through the top of the stone in a brilliant blaze. A diamond cut too shallow makes it look bigger, but lets some of the light "leak out" through the bottom and the stone appears watery. One cut too deep lets light "leak" through the sides and appears black in the center when compared to an ideal cut diamond.

LK Ideal Cut Diamonds ensure you of getting the most beauty and value for your investment.

We have received a special selection of Lazare Kaplan "Ideal Cut" diamonds in various sizes and grades for your inspection. These diamonds cut to exacting proportions direct from the cutter will be presented at special prices November 16 through November 30.

Care Center Auxiliary working to improve home for residents

Ruidoso's Care Center Auxiliary realized a growth in volunteer interest when they added five new members at their Thursday night meeting. New members include T. D. and Nadine Gartman, Charlotte Sennett and Betty Scarbrough, with Toni Scarbrough as an associate member.

"The purpose of the auxiliary is to promote and to benefit the needs of the senior citizens," said Charles Spooner, chairman of the auxiliary and pastor of the Ruidoso Methodist Church.

"We try to promote the best interests of the residents at the Care Center. The auxiliary finds ways to meet the needs of the residents," said Nancy Walizer, secretary.

Discussed at the meeting was the Rock n' Roll Jamboree October 17. Spooner explained there was a problem in providing hot air balloon rides because of strong winds. However, members agreed the participation from the community was "pretty good" considering the short amount of time in which the event was arranged and publicized.

Ruth Gardner, social care director, reported two prints hanging at the Center were missing and presumed to be stolen. The Artisan Shop had loaned several prints to the auxiliary with the agreement that the auxiliary would keep 10 percent of proceeds from the sale of the prints. The money was to be applied to the purchase of a van.

"I took all of the prints down, took inventory and returned them to the Artisan Shop. The center will stand the loss," Gardner said. "It's simply a lack of security. It could have happened at any time."

Next on the agenda was discussion centering around the van project. The auxiliary is in the process of raising funds to purchase a van to transport Care Center residents. Spooner reported all the proper paper work had been filled out and sent in to enter into a surplus van agreement with the state and federal government.

In this program, the Care Center could buy a used government vehicle at considerable savings. For temporary use, however, the Ruidoso Board of Trustees approved the Center's use of the Senior Citizen's Van which operates out of the library.

However, Spooner reported there is a hold up because of legalities of insurance and who should carry the insurance. The Center is required to supply insurance for their own usage and will need to work out a use schedule with the Senior Citizen's Center.

Another possibility the auxiliary plans to pursue is buying a used van from a private party, then adapting it to specific needs of the Care Center. Spooner pointed out there might be a problem with maintenance if an older van is purchased.

Another item discussed at the meeting was the new country store to be operated for the residents. A designated 12 by 20 foot area in the Center has been partitioned off and supplied with shelves, to be stocked with personal as well as craft items.

"This is to supply needed items; things the Center is not obligated to provide, such as soap, combs, brushes and personal care items," said Ruth Gardner. In addition, the store will be stocked with snacks and cigarettes to be sold at cost to the residents.

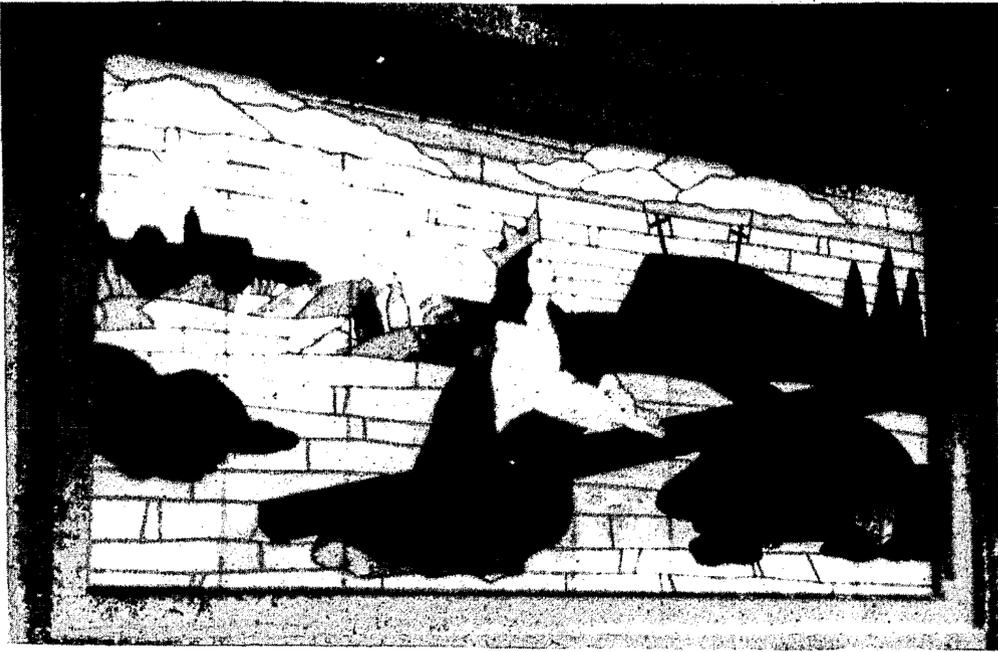

On recommendation from the executive board, the auxiliary voted to sell such items only to the residents, as they are not able to purchase them downtown themselves.

A separate section to be included in the store will provide craft items to be sold to the public, with proceeds to go back to the store to buy additional items for the residents.

The opening date has not been set, but hours will be Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays from 9-11 a.m. A possibility of sponsoring a contest to name the store was discussed and will be decided on later.

Gardner prepared a volunteer form for interested community members to fill out if they feel they would like to donate time or services to the Care Center.

The next Care Center Auxiliary meeting will be December 17 at 7 p.m. at the Center.

THE FINISHED PRODUCT now installed at St. Eleanor's Catholic Church. This stained glass window, located behind the altar, is the twenty first and last window Ronda Covington of Angus has made for the church.

Church has stained glass windows

One year and eight months ago, Ronda Covington agreed to bid for a contract to make stained glass windows for St. Eleanor's Catholic Church. This week, window number 21 will be installed, completing the job.

"Fr. Bernard Loughrey, previous pastor, had seen some of my work and asked if I would like to bid for the job," Covington said. When she was hired for the task, Covington said Loughrey gave her scraps of stained glass from previous windows and asked her if she could do anything with them.

"I put all of those together for the first window," Covington said. Since then, she has used new glass for the remaining 20 windows.

Hondo FFA makes awards

The Greenhand Degree was presented to Chris Clements, Sean Mullis, Jay Posey and Benjie Romero, with Chapter Farmer Awards going to Alice Booky, Laura Gomez and Russell Patterson.

Garden Club meets Tuesday

Carlton Richter of Portland, Oregon, will speak at the Ruidoso Garden Club Tuesday at 1:30 p.m., in the Community Room of the Public Library.

The talk titled "Everything You Ever Wanted To Know About Dahlias But Were Afraid To Ask," will be accompanied by a practical demonstration as well as showing slides of dahlia gardens of Canada and his award winning specimens.

Winner of hundreds of trophies, medals and ribbons, Richter's most prized American honors in recent years are the Portland Dahlia Society "Best of Show", winning twice, The Northwest Dahlia Conference "Best of Show," The Greater Kansas City Dahlia Society medal for "Best of Show," and the American Home Achievement medal for the most outstanding development of a new seedling.

The public is invited to this most informative presentation.

Gospel group hosting speaker from Africa

The Reverend S. Gabrielle Naidoo of South Africa, will be guest speaker Tuesday, at 7 p.m., at the meeting of the Full Gospel Businessmen's Fellowship International in the Holiday Inn. The Reverend Naidoo's visit was arranged by Mr. and Mrs. Tom Kenyon, Ruidoso, who served with him, and Mrs. Naidoo, as missionaries in South Africa.

Naidoo, a widely traveled missionary in Africa and Asia, will speak on the impact world events have in those areas.

Born of Hindu parents, the Reverend Naidoo converted to Christianity in 1968. He and his wife, Pam, graduated from Johannesburg Bible Institute and completed two years of theological study at the University of Durban, Westville.

Naidoo pioneered missionary work at the Asian International Hospital Christian Fellowship in Natal, followed by initiatives in Sri Lanka and Mauritius. He served as general secretary with the South African Fellowship of Indian Ministers and also as director of Go Tell Communications. Most recently, he was pastor of Bible Church in Zululand, Africa.

Music for the meeting, for which no admission is charged, will be provided by Terry and Lisa Wireman.

PREFLIGHT. Scot Trueblood of Ruidoso assembles his hang glider prior to takeoff from Windy Point lookout on the Ski Run Road. He estimated that he has made about 50 flights from the site.

A HELPING HAND is given by a spectator as Trueblood checks the adjustment of his craft. About a dozen persons were on hand to watch the flight, with one lady suggesting, "Someone give him a piece of gum."

JUDGING that the moment is right, Trueblood steps from the mountainside into space. The wind indicator on the nose of the hang glider helps the pilot judge when the breeze is favorable.

HAVING SLIPPED the bonds of earth, Trueblood glides through the thin air at 10,000 feet elevation. Though this flight was a "sled ride," mostly a descent, Scot has previously climbed to 15,000 feet from Windy Point and soared high over Sierra Blanca to land on the other side of the mountain.

A SPECTACULAR VISTA is afforded the hang glider pilot on this flight. "From that view," said

Trueblood, "your vision is really uninhibited."

If man were meant to fly . . .

BY TIM PALMER
Staff Writer/Photographer

Scot Trueblood has wings. They are not part of his body, like a bird's wings. But when he is sailing through the air in his hang glider, his wings are an extension of his physical self.

"Just a basic desire to fly all my life" led Trueblood to take up hang gliding three years ago. He was taught by Riker Davis, the veteran of Ruidoso's three hang glider pilots. Curt Graham is the third.

The three, all members of the United States Hang Gliding Association, are serious practitioners of their sport.

"The hang gliding movement today is very safety oriented," said Trueblood. He noted that standard flying equipment includes a helmet, a parachute and an instrument called a variometer, which measures the rate of ascent and descent and beeps a warning if either becomes too great.

"The gliders we fly are safe and structurally sound," said Trueblood, noting that tremendous technological advances have been made in the sport in recent years. The pilot is inclined to use somewhat technical terms, speaking of "critical timing" in judging the winds and "efficiency of turns" to keep the glider in a "thermal," or updraft of air.

But the splendor of soaring like the bald eagle that drifted above him on Windy Point is not lost on Trueblood. "Sometimes I still just can't believe it," he said.

Scot, who used to ride bicycles competitively, calls hang gliders "the bicycles of the air." He likes the "open feeling" on a hang glider, disdaining even the glider planes that sometimes share his airspace ("too much like driving a car").

"It's a pretty incredible feeling looking down with nothing under you for thousands of feet," said Trueblood. "It's the only type of flying in which you can truly fly with the birds."

Ruidoso High School's proposed move to the 4-AAA district in 1983-84 may have some advantages over the current situation.

The biggest change for the better comes in the area of mileage. Where the Warrior athletic teams have to travel at least 550 miles round trip to Silver City and over 500 to Cobre, the distances would generally be considerably less under the new setup.

Tucumcari is the furthest 4-AAA school (under the proposed realignment) from Ruidoso and it's about a 440 mile round trip. Schools like Portales and Artesia are less than that and Goddard of Roswell (an AAAA school scheduled to drop down to the AAA level) is only 70 miles from Ruidoso.

In an era when fuel costs are so high anything that cuts down on long travel has to be a boost to a school's athletic program.

Another advantage of the proposed changes would be automatic participation in the state football playoffs for all second place teams.

There are currently five AAA districts in the state and the new setup would cut that number to four, with some teams dropping down to the AA level and some districts having more schools in them.

Thus, with five districts, there are now 10 schools eligible for the playoffs, forcing two second-place teams to play a pre-playoff game to determine who makes the actual playoffs.

"That's the big problem with the current setup," said Ruidoso head football coach Darrel Stierwalt. "Now if you make the playoffs automatically you have to wait an extra week before you can play because of the pre-playoff game. If you have momentum going a week off can hurt your team."

"A lot of coaches would prefer to see the playoffs begin the week after the regular season ends. That would also mean an earlier end to the season so we wouldn't have to play in really cold weather." About the only people not pleased with the new proposal are coaches and representatives of schools in the 5-AAA district. This is the area surrounding Albuquerque.

Some coaches from that district don't like the new setup because their schools are being moved into other districts where the opposing teams are further away. As of the present, 5-AAA schools don't have to travel as far as other schools to compete and the proposed change could add up to increased fuel costs for them.

These 5-AAA schools may put up a considerable amount of protest before the issue is officially decided.

All the AAA schools in the state will vote on the measure in the next few weeks. Approval of the new realignment is probable but a long battle could still be ahead.

Polls are never the most objective way to determine which team should be ranked first in a state or region.

And the latest Associated Press AAA football poll bears this out.

Silver City is ranked first with an 8-2 record while Ruidoso, which also had an 8-2 record in the regular season, is rated seventh. The Warriors lost to Silver City 21-14 in the season finale and, but for a couple of turnovers, would have beaten the Colts and won the district title.

It's not surprising that Silver City is ranked ahead of Ruidoso but the difference should not be so great. I would put Ruidoso fourth in the state, ahead of St. Pius and Robertson.

Northern AAA schools are generally not as good as their counterparts to the south.

The most unfortunate part about this whole business is the fact that Ruidoso did not make the playoffs. The Warriors are better than at least five of the eight teams in the playoffs.

Silver City rolls in playoffs

After the first complete week of state AAA playoffs it's becoming more obvious that Ruidoso High School's football team belongs in the competition.

Silver City, which edged the Warriors 21-14 in the last few minutes for the district 3-AAA championship, rolled over Raton 41-0 to establish itself as the favorite for the state championship. Tularosa, which tied with Ruidoso for second place, was narrowly eliminated by district 4-AAA champion Portales 6-0 Saturday on the latters' field.

In other AAA playoff action over the weekend defending state champion Artesia was stunned by Aztec 27-14 and surprising Kirtland-Central beat Robertson of Las Vegas 14-6. Kirtland-Central only has a 5-6 record this season.

This coming weekend Silver City plays Aztec and Kirtland-Central takes on Portales in semi-final games.

In AAAA action this past weekend top ranked Clovis rolled over Manzano 28-7, second ranked Hobbs crushed defending champion El Dorado of Albuquerque 51-27, Alamogordo blanked Santa Fe 14-0 and undefeated Gallun blanked Sandia 10-7.

Local boxers win at Alamogordo

David Ordorica and Kevin Jefferson each took victories for the Las Piedras Boxing Team of Ruidoso in the Alamogordo Invitational Saturday night.

"I'm really pleased with our guys," said Lucky Mulqueen, coach of the team. "David fought a guy who weighed 18 pounds more than he did (86 pounds to Ordorica's 88) and dominated the bout. Kevin did an excellent job and broke the other kid's nose."

Besides Las Piedras, other clubs in the tournament were Alamogordo, Magdalena and two teams from Las Cruces.

Both Ordorica and Jefferson earned trophies for their victories. Las spring Jefferson took second and Ordorica third in Junior Olympics competition.

Las Piedras, which is sponsored by the local chapter of the Vietnam Veterans of America, will be busy next month in several tournaments. Mulqueen is planning to enter Jefferson and Ordorica in the Albuquerque Boxing Club Tournament Saturday, December 5.

LADY BRAVES LOSE 2ND GAME

Braves top Grizzlies, play Holloman

White Mountain Middle School's boys' basketball team goes for its third straight victory of the season when it takes on host Holloman Air Force Base this afternoon.

The B teams play at 2 p.m., with the A squads following.

The Braves again got good scoring from their front line in taking a 41-21 decision over host Carrizozo Friday afternoon.

However, the White Mountain girls' team had less luck as it fell to Carrizozo, 21-3 for its second defeat of the young season.

The boys' team, now 2-0 on the season, got 12 points from 5-10 Russell Easter and eight from 5-9 Jason Bigham as they never trailed in the contest.

The Braves jumped off to a 6-2 first quarter advantage and steadily increased their lead throughout the game. Easter put six of his points through the hoop in the second period as the Braves outscored the Grizzlies 11-2 for a 17-4 halftime margin.

In the second half Braves coach Dean Hood substituted his players liberally and Carrizozo was able to make more of a dent in the scoring column.

The game, which was basically a ball control contest in the first half, became a fast breaking, free scoring affair in the second. White Mountain scored 12 points in both the third and fourth quarters while Carrizozo tallied nine in the third and eight in the fourth.

Mitch Mullican added five points for the winners and guard Ricardo Garcia scored four. Garcia was also a spark plug on defense, stealing the ball twice and using the full court press well.

Kenneth Crenshaw scored 10 points and James Guevare eight for the Grizzlies.

Despite the victory, Hood wasn't that pleased with his team's performance.

"We didn't play quite as well as we did against Weed (a 40-35 victory) Tuesday," he said. "That's mostly my fault as I changed the lineup all the time and we got sloppy several times."

In the girls' competition Carrizozo broke open a close game in the second half and secured the victory.

The teams were tied 6-6 at halftime but Liz Beltran scored 13 of her game high 19 points in the second half to lead Carrizozo to the win.

Laura Burdick led the Braves with four points while Mavis Geronimo and Robin Farus each added two points.

"We played better in this game than our first one," said coach Jean Wright. "We did well in the first half but got a little tired in the second. Mavis guarded Beltran in the first half and did an excellent job of holding her down. However, she got a little tired in the second half."

Wright also praised the work of assistant coach Joette Maskew.

"She helps me a great deal and knows a lot about the game," she said. "Without Joette we wouldn't be able to do much."

The girls' next game is December 3 against Tularosa on the latters' court.

Junior racers hold ski swap

Ruidoso's Junior Ski Racers will hold a ski swap Friday through Sunday at the Chaparral Motor Hotel in Ruidoso Downs. People must bring their ski equipment to the Chaparral on either Wednesday or Thursday. Equipment can be checked in from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., on Wednesday and from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m., Thursday.

The Junior Ski Racers will take 15 percent of each sale to help support the club. Skis, boots, poles, hats, coats and pants for adults and children will be on sale for the three days.

All items not sold must be picked up by 6 p.m., Sunday. The swap will be open from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m., Friday and Saturday and from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m., Sunday. For further information call 257-5181.

THERE'S A LITTLE bit of the white stuff at Eagle Creek Ski and Recreation Area now. This snow on the beginner's area at the resort, was made by snow machines Thursday night. Resort owner Paul Southwick hopes to open the resort for skiing on the beginner's slope Wednesday and the intermediate slope Thanksgiving Day. No natural snow has fallen in the area yet.

Fee set for youth basketball league

A $10 registration fee will be charged youths who join the 1981-82 Ruidoso-Sertoma Little League Basketball program.

Registration will be November 30 through December 4 at the White Mountain Middle School gym.

The league is open to fifth, sixth and seventh graders from Ruidoso and Hondo. Both boys and girls can register for the teams. However, youths who turned 13 on or before September 1 of this year are not eligible to register.

Inn of the Mountain Gods

New Mexico's Most Distinguished Resort

Inside The Capitol

by Fred McCaffrey

SANTA FE—It looks like Maxie Anderson is going to tell us he wants the Republican nomination for governor.

That's one thing you might conclude from the fact that somebody's making a survey asking if respondents know "an energetic young businessman," or words to that effect, may be announcing for that post shortly.

Maxie told us he had to sail his balloon around the world and sell his company before making up his mind. He's done neither, but it looks like he's likely to run anyway.

Meanwhile, his one-time friend and now balloonist rival, Ben Abruzzo, is emceeding a big event for Bill Segio, as though to make clear, if that were necessary, that he won't be pushing for Maxie.

In-fighting between the two has grown unseemly, in the eyes of some. Others call it downright childish.

Main question, however, is whether ballooning will have any effect at all on politics.

This observer would bet it will have little.

While these men undoubtedly exhibit considerable bravery as they go where the winds take them, our bet is that most New Mexicans see them as overly wealthy individuals playing with very expensive toys.

What they do, after all, is not a scientific advance, as the flight of the Space Shuttle is, for instance.

They don't push back the frontiers of knowledge by what they accomplish.

If anything, what they do is move us backward in time, to the days of the Montgolfier brothers and the eighteenth century.

They're a lot like those people who fly hang gliders with motors on them. That doesn't advance aviation; if anything, it moves it back to about the time of the Wright brothers.

We'll bet you Anderson, if he becomes a candidate, finds as many people resent his wealth as are attracted to it.

Even among Republicans, the wealthy, while they may be envied, are not universally loved.

Besides, what if anything has all this ballooning to do with being governor?

It's like grade-school days.

When this writer was in, say, the fourth grade and Sister James Marie asked a student a question, that student sometimes spent less time in trying to riddle out the correct answer than in trying to determine what was really on Sister's mind.

Subjectivity—the teacher's subjectivity, that is—thus became more crucial than the objective truth.

That's also the way things are many times when heads of state agencies appear before the Legislative Finance Committee.

You can almost see their brains whirring as they ask themselves, not "What is the full and candid answer to that question?" but "What is it these guys want to hear?"

In both instances, what emerges is truth less than the total and unvarnished truth.

Some members of that LFC mentioned above are still worried that the state constitution specifically mentions "the Carrie Tingley Hospital at Truth or Consequences."

They wonder if it's legal to move that hospital to Albuquerque as has already been done.

The Attorney General says it is. T or C, in that case, his office has ruled, is only descriptive language.

So could we move Miners Hospital from Raton?

ASPEN ON THE DOLE

Poor Aspen. Situated in the squalor of ski resorts, millionaires' chalets, condominiums and mountain peaks.

Poor, poor Aspen. Somebody give Aspen a break. It just doesn't pull in enough money from those people who fly their jets in on Friday and fly out on Sunday.

Federal assistance. Let's give Aspen federal assistance.

As absurd as it may seem, that's just what Aspen got last week. Pitkin County, in which the plush resort community is situated, received $2,050,880 from the Department of Transportation to purchase 16 new buses, among other things. Four of those buses are not for the transportation of the public at large, but to transport impoverished skiers to the chair lift.

The federal government has been boondoggled this time, at a time when we continually hear about reductions in budgets for social programs despite pledges not to let down the truly needy. Aspen does not qualify as the truly needy.

Pitkin County's motives are valid, and we certainly can't fault the county for seeking federal money. Its objective is to reduce the traffic and therefore the pollution in Aspen.

Apparently the money was there for the taking, and Pitkin County made one of the best pitches for it, regardless of need.

This raises a fundamental question about the whole process of dispensing our tax dollars. Who sets priorities? Are there priorities? Just because the Department of Transportation has some money does it have to give it away? Can't that money be funneled in other directions? Saved?

Surely those in charge of granting this federal assistance must have seen the folly of helping out a resort town that can surely help itself. Or is the department merely run by a computer that spits out money when the right program is punched into it?

When citizens see food stamps, Medicaid, CETA, and school lunch programs hurting due to budget cutbacks they may be upset.

But when they see federal money going to provide buses for skiers they can, and should, become livid.—The Valley Courier, Alamosa, Colorado

Letters to the Editor

Dear editor:

In addition to being thankful for my family, my good health, and having loved ones living in Ruidoso this Thanksgiving, I am thankful that I have had the opportunity to fly from the well organized Ruidoso airport to see this beautiful mountain village from the air.

Tim Morris and Diane Coulston took me flying over the area and it is simply beautiful this time of the year . . . in your mind you keep affirming "God is on high, and all is well."

Your paper continues to get better and better. Your photography, which is so vivid, always reminds me of my flight. The articles written by Daniel Agnew Storm always makes me want to jump in my car and drive from Austin, Texas, to Ruidoso as soon as I can. His snow bird article was a dramatic description that "winter is on the way to Ruidoso" think again . . . "God is on high, and all is well . . . in Ruidoso."

Charles/Fran Hamilton
 Austin, Texas

Dear editor:

"Help Wanted"
 Thanksgiving is the time to give thanks to our Heavenly Father for our material blessings. Come Christmas we'll give thanks for the service and sacrifice of His Son, Jesus Christ.

Since the first Pilgrim landed on these shores, men and women have enriched our lives. Often at the cost of their comfort, wealth, or even on occasion their life.

Somewhere between servant and slave these special people bring us hope, comfort, and increase our knowledge of God.

Without whose selfless sacrifices this country would not be the most scientific, knowledgeable, compassionate government to ever exist.

Evangelist, pastor, teacher; how would you compose a help wanted ad to attract the numbers of people that have answered that call to serve God and man.

What promises or benefits can we proffer as mortal men that would get the same response as those of one greater than ourselves?

Even those framers of the constitution and many since that time have had a special witness to the destiny of this America the beautiful.

For me and my family we believe that a man must be called of God, by prophecy, and by the laying on of hands, by those who are in authority to preach the Gospel and administer in the ordinances thereof.

Please read Ether 12:6.

Roy Proppner

editorial:

We believe the time is now for President Reagan to realize that he is a servant of the people; serving at the pleasure of the people.

Reagan is toying with the idea of authorizing the Central Intelligence Agency to spy on United States citizens.

All that's required of him to implement this idea is to sign the order. Congressional approval is not necessary.

Should the CIA be granted this authority, private citizens would have no privacy.

Acting upon Reagan's orders, CIA snoopers could eliminate every foe of the Reagan administration. The skeletons in a public servant's closet, even if they no longer have any significance, could be brought into the open, expanded upon, and eventually destroy that person's capabilities to serve the people effectively.

Through coercion, CIA agents could establish a network of informants to obtain damaging information against any person.

It's possible the CIA's influence could exceed that of all of the spy organizations operating within the Soviet Union.

Should Reagan decide to proceed with this plan, then we'd be living in a police state.

It's time Reagan reads the opening words of the second paragraph of The Declaration of Independence, about our rights as American Citizens, and perhaps ponder upon those words.

He should realize that there'll be a presidential election in 1984, which isn't all that far down the road.—CD

DID THE DA GOOF?

Being's I'da been farther ahead Thursday if'n I'd stood abed . . . come ice tea time, I was more than ready for the solace I'd find in a glass of same . . . and things were on the verge of picking up, as I crossed the threshold into my favorite ice tea parlor . . . when whom did I espy but Shakey Pete . . . pointing to the brimming glass in front of my customary chair . . . leaving me with the immediate feeling if it was solace I was seeking, I'd have to seek it elsewhere . . . but being's Shakey'd sprung . . . I didn't really figure I had much to lose . . . 'cause I can always quaff a free ice tea . . . even if'n my ears is getting bent.

"I been thinkin'," Shakey said . . . always an ill omen . . . "and I been wonderin' about what I been readin' in the papers about that Donald Bishop case endin' in a mistrial."

I quit quaffing my ice tea long enough to say to Shakey: "So?"

"Seems to me as though the DA . . . Steve Sanders, I think . . . I say I think, 'cause I ain't quite sure about who's DA . . . anyhow, I think maybe the DA's office didn't have all their ducks in a row in that trial . . . 'cause, if'n they'd a had, I don't think there'd been no mistrial." All ears now, I didst summon the waitress for a refill . . . besides, I could tell right off Shakey was gettin' hoarse.

"I can't figure it out," Shakey said . . . only after he'd quaffed deeply at his refill . . . "why the DA went ahead with this deal on Bishop . . . 'cause some guy up at the state crime lab allowed as how he'd tested all that million bucks wortha drugs that one time cop . . . uh . . . Ridgeway claimed he'd tested . . . and that state guy ups and allows as how all he found was enough marijuana for a couple joints."

"Seems to me, if'n the DA knew what's what, he'd a known what that crime lab feller'd found out . . . and would maybe have bided his time for a better chance to try and lower the boom on Bishop."

Shakey emptied his glass . . . "Yup . . . I sure hope we find out . . . from someone . . . what went on at that deal that wound up in a mistrial . . . 'cause that sure was a big waste of the taxpayer's money."

ON SOVIET BABBLING

Rompin' Ronnie . . . as you gotta know . . . has been baiting the Russians about all their missiles in Europe . . . and been offering to make a deal with them . . . we'll dismantle ours, if'n they'll do likewise.

And, of course, the Soviets up and took umbrage at the suggestion . . . disclaiming all the facts Reagan's claiming about the number of Soviet missiles in Europe . . . and claiming it's us, not them, as is the problem . . . which isn't any new tack for them.

As I recall . . . before Stalin bamboozled FDR . . . on one, anywhere, was particularly alarmed about Russia . . . 'cause they'd kinda been keeping real quiet about their plans for world domination . . . whilst they was busily getting all their ducks in a row . . . and then Hitler had to go and get some grandiose ideas . . . which sorta set the Russians back on their heels . . . as well as stopping their plotting.

But once we . . . and our allies . . . got Russia off the hook in WW II . . . those Commie big shots up and started letting us . . . and the world know . . . that, by jinkies, they was gonna tromp us all under the top soil . . . and that Communism would save the world . . . for, of course, Communist domination and operation.

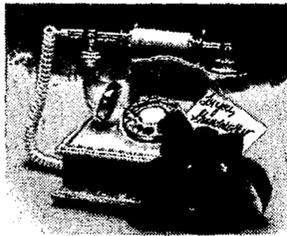

Ever since, the Russians has more or less been doing whatever they had a mind to do . . . including building up their offensive weapons . . . which they been claimin' for defense . . . and sorta running roughshod over whatever piece of ground they's been deciding to run over roughshod . . . and, by jinkies, more or less getting by with it.

Now . . . you'll notice in all their babbling . . . that they're getting the jump on Rompin' Ronnie . . . 'cause by them taking the offensive . . . they don't have to explain such things as what they're up to in Afghanistan . . . or get down to the gritty-gritty of what that nuclear armed sub was doing in Swedish waters, where it had no business being. Yup, seems we'd best get on with doing our thing.

BRIEF BIT: There's this much about 20 cent stamps . . . there couldn't have been any two-bit thinkers involved in the price hike . . . CD

God's Poet

He had two ambitions as a boy. One, he wanted to be President of the United States and two, he wanted to be a minister.

An early and disenchanting brush with politics in the late 20's killed the first desire, but now at 76, Bill McKigney, while not ordained, does "minister" to people.

Indeed, the Brooklyn-born McKigney felt that politics equaled public good. He was deeply disillusioned when "my man won a state election and began to 'play ball' with the other pols."

That was during prohibition, he told a writer for the National Council on the Aging, "and I was one of those blues-noses — an ardent dry. It was known that I did not like the bootlegging and political pay-offs. My life was even threatened a couple of times."

Hardly a "born-again" Christian — he had been actively involved in the Methodist Church for years — McKigney nonetheless got "turned on" to the Seventh-Day Adventist faith.

This mid-life change was — despite and perhaps because of a checkered business career — to lead him to Bible teaching and religious counseling.

But not immediately, and not without a series of changes often requiring agonizing decisions.

A self-taught man, McKigney did not go to high school but did receive training as a stenographer and private secretary. These skills enabled him to hold various responsible positions at the Chase Manhattan Bank and its predecessor organizations.

When McKigney joined the Adventists he, of course, wanted to celebrate the Sabbath which is observed on Saturdays. But at that time, banking required Saturday work. An agonizing decision. He chose his religion and quit banking after a 23 year career.

During these intervening year he held many jobs from publishing to driving a cab, always leaving at the first hint of unethical practice.

Now it seems, working with the Adventists four days a week, McKigney has come to terms with his world.

He is a jack-of-all trades and resident poet (he's been writing poems of hope for years) for the Greater New York Conference of Seventh Day Adventists on Long Island.

He is "ministering" at long last. In addition to maintaining the inventory for the health vans used in the community, McKigney does what he loves best — reaching people through Bible studies and counseling. His inspirational poetry is written to encourage his "flock."

Apparently he does his work well and the Irish-American is a frequent "reader" at local black churches. There, he says with pride, he is listed on the program as "God's Poet," a title which brings him pure joy.

"Money can't buy that," he says. Nor can it buy the honor he received in 1943 as the "man who has done so much to cement racial relations in Brooklyn" when the Boy Scouts presented him the Silver Beaver award, its highest, for his work with scout troupes.

SMALL MOUNTAIN of rubbish hastily dumped in an open area behind the Ruidoso Public Library Thursday afternoon, when the driver of a village sanitation truck saw smoke coming from the truck's collection barrel.

Hot ashes damage village truck

The Village Fire Department at 1:45 p.m., Thursday was called to the scene of a small mountain of burning rubbish, which had been hastily dumped from a smoking city sanitation truck, in an open area in back of the Ruidoso Public Library.

"Once it (the rubbish) was out of the truck, it was easy to put out," Jesse Reynolds of the Fire Department said. Reynolds said the fire was out approximately 10 minutes after he arrived at the scene.

The driver of the sanitation truck, Kister Randolph, said about 1:40 p.m., he noticed smoke coming from the $50,000 truck as he was driving in the 200 block of Junction Road, "in front of Thompson's (Bookkeeping Service)." Randolph immediately drove to the open area behind the Library and dumped the load of trash.

A. T. Corona, superintendent of the Sanitation Department, said the probable cause of the fire was "hot ashes." He estimates the damage to the roof of the truck's barrel as comparatively small—probably no more than $150. "We will likely do the sanding and painting repairs ourselves," he said.

A. T. CORONA, Sanitation Department superintendent, and Jesse Reynolds of the Fire Department survey smoldering rubbish and smoke damaged sanitation truck at scene of Thursday afternoon's fire behind the Ruidoso Public Library.

The Dreamer

BY DANNE STORM

The Thanksgiving Spirit Grows Stronger Each Day

With each day that dawns and blesses us through the morning, the midday, the afternoon, the sunset, the gloaming, the twilight, the dusk and the nightfall, the spirit of Thanksgiving glows brighter within us, here in mid-November.

Today in the mid morning of November nineteen, the sun is sifting its rays silvery and pearly through a sky cover of very interesting and beautiful clouds. They are all in rows, first in one direction and then the other across the sky, of what we used to call whalebone clouds. They are like rows of new-shorn wool laid out; or like stretches of shallow snow, half melted, showing patterns of the ground showing through.

This ceiling of clouds is very still, as if trying to make up their mind what they should do—form into snow, or rain, or just go away. The old timers used to say that these unusual patterns of clouds were a sign of a weather change.

Already, there has come a weather change during the night. The first half of the night a warm west wind was blowing, keeping the temperature up near sixty. Then about midnight the wind stopped as if it had run into a wall. The wall was a mass of cold air out of the north which dropped the temperature down to twenty six. All the world could feel this sudden strike of the cold. And you became thankful for the simplest things—the glowing fireplace breathing forth mellow heat and pinon and cedar incense, a roof over your head, a sound sleep, good health, and countless other blessings.

Thus it is that the beginning of the cold weather warms the Thanksgiving spirit in our soul, and awakens in us the desire to look around to see who needs help and cheer—to bring them a more blessed Thanksgiving.

A Message From Jack Frost
Dear Friends in Lincoln County:
And all folks everywhere, since Lincoln County is becoming so well known.
With cold and snow on the way down from the north, it is time for our annual little reminders of pointers for health and happiness during the late fall and winter. Just briefly then, let us see. Since health and happiness go together (it is hard to have one without the other), let us consider a fundamental of both.

One of the main things in health and happiness, not only in winter but all through the year is sleep.

How do you have a good night's sleep? First of all you must have a clear conscience, like Longfellow said in his poem, "The Village Blacksmith"

"Something attempted, something done,
Has earned a night's repose."

When you go to bed knowing you have done your best, that you have helped someone, that you have done as near right as you know how, then The Lord will give you one of his greatest blessings, sound sleep.

Other things on the physical side such as exercise, we will go into later on.

MacBeth Learns About The Value of Sleep

As I came by the Ridge Runner's house recently I saw where he was reading "The Complete Works of Shakespeare" a book of that great reader and writer, his father.

The book was open at the play, MacBeth. MacBeth was a Scotchman who was born lucky. But he became his own worst enemy when he became power mad. In all his evil deeds, he found out one day, something he had overlooked: He could not sleep. And he made a little talk to himself that has been handed down to us. You have to read very closely and catch every word. Especially the last line:

Methought I heard a voice cry: "Sleep no more! MacBeth does murder sleep!"
The innocent sleep. Sleep that knits up the raveled sleeve of care. Death of each day's life, Sore labor's bath. Balm of hurt minds, Great Nature's second course, Chief nourisher in life's feast.

Let us all be grateful, then, more each day, and others to be grateful.

Adios till next time,
Yours ever the same,
Jack Frost

Counter sniper marksmen trained

The New Mexico Army National Guard (ANG) recently conducted a Sniper, Anti-Sniper course at the Capital Rifle Range. The course is designed to enable marksmen to deal with situations in which a sniper may be firing at them. ANG instructors used simulated prison riots or civil disturbances, in which a sniper may be involved, to teach the sharpshooters proven methods to deal with a sniper.

Members of the New Mexico State Police, Santa Fe police and Sheriff's department, Rio Arriba County Sheriff's department and Corrections Department received the training. Emphasis was on marksmanship, with targets placed at distances up to 200 meters.

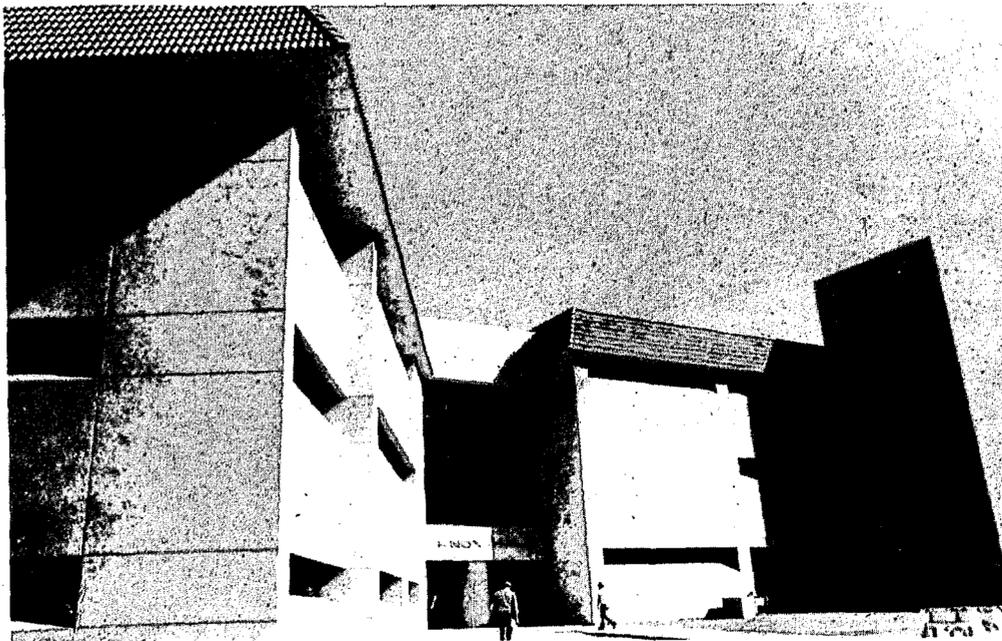

Training included prone, sitting and standing shooting positions, use of a telescopic sight on a rifle, effects of weather on marksmanship and the use of a helicopter, both in evacuation of injured people and in case they were used in an assault.

"The course was taught by National Guardsmen who have attended the United States Army Sniper School at Fort Benning, Georgia, who are certified as snipers," said Lieutenant Colonel William Oakley, ANG state marksmanship coordinator.

State Police officers also taught courses in weapons familiarization, and how to use a patrol car for protection against a sniper.

KNOX HALL, newest addition to the NMSU College of Agriculture and Home Economics, will be dedicated in ceremonies starting at noon December 7 on the Las Cruces campus. The building is named for the late Professor John H. Knox, head of the agricultural college Animal Science Department for nearly 30 years. (NMSU photo)

NMSU to dedicate Knox Hall

A new, three-story building on the south end of New Mexico State University's (NMSU) campus in Las Cruces is named Knox Hall.

It's the latest memorial to Professor John H. Knox, educator and administrator at the university for 30 years.

Knox was known affectionately by students, colleagues, friends and New Mexico ranchers as "Prof" Knox. He served as head of the NMSU Animal Science Department from 1935 until his retirement in 1964, and continued as a popular professor emeritus on the campus until his death February 15, 1979.

The formal dedication of Knox Hall at noon Monday, December 7 is a posthumous addition to a long list of personal and professional awards during his lifetime.

Knox was known nationally for the livestock research programs he instituted at NMSU, especially grazing and beef cattle nutrition studies that could be applied to practical ranching. Beef cattle performance testing was another major field that felt Knox' influence and guidance at the university.

His accomplishments in both these fields led to the Beef Improvement Federation's Pioneer award for results of the beef cattle performance testing programs, and in 1954 to the New Mexico Cattle Growers Association honor as Cattleman of the Year.

Knox was the first university researcher to receive the Cattleman of the Year award.

Many of New Mexico's most successful cattlemen today were among the estimated 1,500 students taught personally by Knox in his long academic career. His teaching skills earned him the American Society of Animal Production teaching award in 1959, and he was also named Society of the Year by the American Society of Animal Science.

His career achievements brought him an honorary doctorate from Ohio State University in 1962.

Knox was the 1963-64 recipient of the prestigious Robert Westhafer Award for excellence in research at NMSU, and in 1964 he received the first Distinguished Research Award granted by the NMSU College of Agriculture and Home Economics.

Knox was born September 10, 1898, in Geauga County, Ohio, and grew up on his parents' livestock farm in Ohio. He pursued his livestock interests in college by earning a bachelor's degree in animal husbandry from Ohio State University in 1921.

He was a member of the American Society of Animal Production, the New Mexico Cattle Growers Association, the American Association of University Professors, the New Mexico Education Association, the National Education Association, Sigma Xi and Alpha Zeta.

SALUTE TO CHAMBER MEMBERS

This is a regular feature in the Monday edition of this newspaper to introduce the members of the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce

COVERED WAGON CURIOS, located at 2536 Sudderth in mid-town Ruidoso, has been a member of the Chamber since June of this year. However, the gift-curios shop, owned by Ralph and Marion Treat, has been in operation in Ruidoso since 1933 and is the oldest shop of its kind in the village. The shop is open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. seven days a week during the winter and from 9 a.m. to 6 p.m. seven days a week in the summer. Many kinds of Indian gifts, curios, toys and souvenirs can be bought in the store. Also featured in the store are two Indian statues (in picture) which are 40 years old.

RUIDOSO PAINT CENTER, located at 1007 Mechem Road near Innsbrook Village, became a member of the Chamber in June of this year. Owned and operated by Ceaser and Mary Garcia (pictured here with their daughter Corrie) it opened in February, 1980. The store is open from 7:30 a.m. to 5 p.m., Monday through Friday and from 7:30 a.m. to noon on Saturday. Virtually every type of paint is sold in the store including several types of house paints, industrial paints and stains.

fact:

Your electric generating fuel cost and purchased power cost increased 284%!

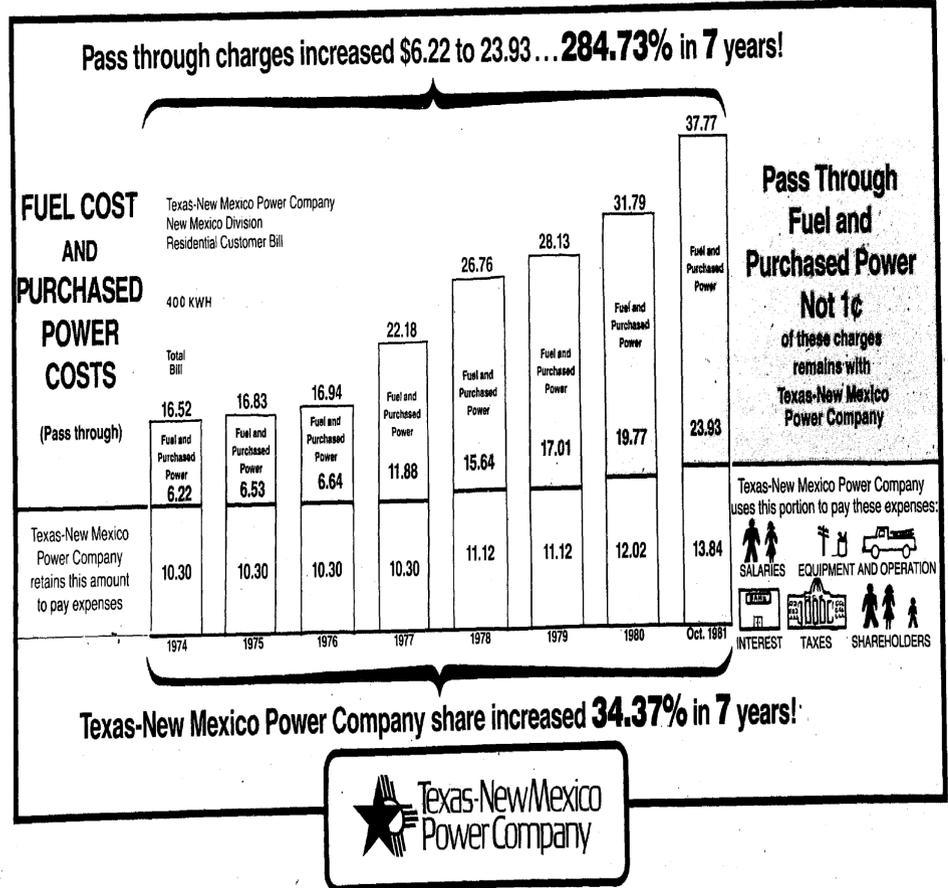

fact:

Texas-New Mexico Power Company DID NOT keep 1¢ of that increase!

The distribution of electric power to your home and business is the primary function of Texas-New Mexico Power Company. Whether it's electricity generated by our own plant or electricity purchased from other companies, it is delivered to you at the lowest price possible.
 In order to provide the public with a dependable supply of electricity, expensive fuel must be obtained to operate the electric generating plants.
 Since the oil embargo, fuel prices have skyrocketed. Recognizing the necessity of having adequate electric power for the citizens, federal and state authorities allow the pass-through of the amount paid for fuel and purchased power. This pass-through provides NO PROFIT FOR TEXAS-NEW MEXICO POWER COMPANY.

 If you will notice on the chart below, Texas-New Mexico Power Company charges have increased less than 35% over the past seven years, even with high interest and substantial increases in the general cost of doing business in this inflationary economy. This increase is an average of approximately 5% per year, which is far below the national inflation rate.
 During this same period fuel costs and purchased power costs have increased more than 284%, or an average of approximately 40% per year. These are increases over which Texas-New Mexico Power Company has ABSOLUTELY NO CONTROL.
 Sure electricity has gone up in seven years but compare that to the increase in gasoline, pickup trucks, clothing, food, interest, and new homes. Electricity has gone up in the past seven years, but the real culprit causing the major increases is the fuel cost.

 We don't like rising power costs and we know you don't. So until economical alternate energy sources are developed the best solution is to reduce electrical consumption. Careful energy management in homes and businesses can be a tremendous help. We have prepared a booklet containing many energy saving tips. It's yours free. Just call or stop by our office and ask for the "Energy Management" booklet.

CONFIDENTIAL REPORT Television soaps are so full of wife swapping, bed hopping, incest and adultery that Americans no longer know the difference between right and wrong, charge scores of angry clergymen. They blame the nation's declining morals and mushrooming divorce rate on the people who make the soaps. "The generation we're raising today doesn't know what's right and what's wrong. And the reason for that is what I call pornography on the television screen," the Rev. Jerry Falwell, leader of the Moral Majority, fumed in a recent interview. "Those soap operas in the afternoon are a prime example. They teach women to whine about their husbands and get away with it." Rev. John Smith, of the Evangelism for Christ Church in Miami, claims that soap operas have led to a decline in moral values. "Immorality, cheating and marriage break-ups are on the rise. And there's no doubt that soap operas contribute to it." Rev. Smith told me. "Watching these shows has become part of the environment for a lot of people. It's a habit. Anything that one sees, hears, and watches every day becomes part of the sub-conscious and then people start molding their lives after it."

TV BACKSTAGE Who's the sexiest man on TV? If 12,000 Englishmen and women don't believe wrong, the vote goes to Robin Ellis, star of the 29-hour TV series "Poldark," coming soon to local TV stations. In this BBC-TV London film production, Ellis, apparently got everybody excited with his loving, daring, poaching, smuggling and wenching in 18th century England. What is it about him that makes millions of female hearts throb at the very sight of him? "It's the way he knits his brow, grits his teeth and works his jaw muscles."

Robin Ellis

TV's most popular superstar Marie Osmond says that having one wife just takes her mind off it, would suit her just fine. Although Marie usually is looking for Mr. Right, she admits she's already thinking ahead to the joys of motherhood. In fact, her role in the TV movie "Side By Side," in which she plays her own mother, has convinced Marie that kids are for her, and the more the merrier. "Being a mom is the best job that some day I want my own family," Marie told me, and I do what my mother did in having a son, a daughter, and a son. Three television stars took to the streets of Hollywood to protest the sale of look-alike drugs. The pills look like popular stimulants or depressants but can be bought freely because they are non-habit-forming and don't require a prescription. "It's so stupid, so incredibly thoughtless... playing games and pretending to be taking real drugs," said Daniel J. Travanti of "Hill Street Blues" during a demonstration outside the newly opened Over the Counter Drug Store. Veronica Hamel, also from the series, said she'll arrest her that salesmen of phony drugs make it awfully appealing to get high. Jack Klugman, who plays the medical examiner in "Quincy," urged that such drugs be outlawed in California.
