

FACING A WALL OF FLAME on the roof of Hondo School Sunday morning are Ruidoso volunteer firemen Rayner Baca (left) and Sam Pirelli. The Ruidoso department was one of many to respond to the alarm. Firefighters from the Hondo, Fort Stanton, Capitan, Lincoln and United States Forest Service also battled the blaze. Despite their efforts, all but the newest wing of the school was totally gutted. Since there are no fire hydrants near the school (Hondo is without a community water system), firetrucks had to travel five miles to an irrigation well with an overhanging pipe to refill, according to Hondo fire chief Frank Tittsworth. Ruidoso fireman Danny Garcia said the trucks could have drawn water from the river behind the school if cooperation between the different fire departments had been better. "Don't get me wrong," he added. "We did a damn good job. Everybody did."

Sunday morning fire destroys most of Hondo School

Hondo School, which recently underwent a $300,000 renovation, was judged a near total loss following a Sunday morning fire which was fought by several area fire departments.

All but the separate high school wing at the east end of the school building was destroyed. Offices, classrooms, library, cafeteria and gymnasium were gutted by the flames.

Early arrivals on the scene said there was evidence of a break-in at the school, and investigators from the State Fire Marshal's Office and state crime lab technicians were expected on the scene today.

The blaze was reported at approximately 9:45 a.m. by Bob Chipman, after Debbie Floyd spotted smoke at the school while driving by.

Chipman said when he arrived there were flames in the old superintendent's office at the east end of the building and smoke pouring from vents on the side of the building.

School superintendent Ernest Booky said that he was called at home and arrived in time to try to extinguish flames in the principal's office with a garden hose, but that it was too late.

"It just got up there in the attic and spread like crazy," he said. School records were in fire-resistant file cabinets and a vault and probably survived intact, Booky noted.

"The place was definitely broken into," said Sheriff's Deputy Art Lindsey.

Chipman said that when he and Billy Underwood arrived, there were broken beer bottles on both sides of a door with a broken window and that it looked as if a bottle had been thrown through the window. Underwood spotted beer bottles near a second door, Chipman added.

Hondo fire chief Frank Tittsworth said that when he arrived, windows in the building were already broken—blown out by the intense heat inside. The gymnasium roof collapsed and fell through.

"Looks to me like the only thing that can be done now is bulldoze the thing down and haul it away," said Booky. He noted that he had doubled the insurance on the building nine months previously, to more than $2 million.

The superintendent said he will ask the state Department of Education to provide temporary buildings for the upcoming school year. He called it a blessing that the newest wing, which houses expensive business and science equipment, was undamaged. But he expressed dismay over the loss of the renovated older sections.

"A third of a million bucks—lost," said Booky.

'Water Yes' say local businesspeople

Members of "Water Yes," an informal organization of local businessmen who support passage of the bond issues for water improvements, said Friday the group will concentrate on getting information to voters before the July 6 election.

"We formed our organization because we feel there was so much misunderstanding, misinformation—or lack of information—for this particular project," said Tom Kelham, treasurer of Water Yes, which has over 30 members.

Chairman of the group is Pinky Jones. He, Kelham, Morgan Clough and Don Dale voiced their opinions on the water improvements to The News.

Kelham commented on the diversity of the group, noting that he is a member of and represents the views of the Planning and Zoning Commission. Clough, president of the Chamber of Commerce, represents the Chamber board of directors; while Jones referred to himself as "another concerned businessman."

Dale said he is not an actual member of Water Yes, but is serving as the group's liaison with the village council.

Kelham explained that the "loosely knit committee" came about when several business people realized that if they did not band together and help disseminate information, the water improvements program could go down in defeat.

He noted Friday that the Water Yes battle plan was in the formative stages, but that members will use personal and telephone contact with voters to make facts about the Ruidoso water situation and the improvements program known.

"We know of no organized group in the city that's opposed to this (the bond issues)," Kelham pointed out.

He said the group is concerned that some voters will be so sure the bond issues will pass that they might stay home from the polls July 6, thinking that other voters will carry the ball.

Also, he added, Water Yes feels that some people in Ruidoso are not convinced of the need for water improvements.

Dale stated that any of the councilmen would welcome a phone call or visit from citizens who have questions about the water improvements program or bond issues.

Jones, Kelham and Clough also stated that they are available to answer questions. Clough added that he will provide transportation to the polling place (Ruidoso Public Library) for voters who need a ride.

Kelham said that the positive response the group had received to that point leads its members to be confident the improvements program will pass.

"We really think it'll fly," he said. Water Yes members emphasized that voters must vote "yes" to all three questions on the ballot in the July 6 election.

The first question is whether the village may impose a one percent sales tax, with all revenue to be applied to water improvements.

The second question is a $6 million revenue bond issue for water improvements. The third question is a $2 million general obligation bond issue for water improvements.

Voters must respond with a "yes" to all three questions for the water improvements program to be put into effect.

Sundays Payday captures Norgor

SUNDAYS PAYDAY got his first taste of stakes competition in Sunday's $155,320 Norgor Thoroughbred Futurity at Ruidoso Downs and carved out a three-length victory.

Ruidoso patrons had plenty of faith in the colt and sent him off as an even-money favorite in the four-furlong dash.

The winning owner, Hugh C. Preston Jr. of Burkburnett, Texas, collected the victory paycheck of $78,883. The outgoing gave Sundays Payday a career record of four wins from five starts. Each of the five spins were staged during the current Ruidoso meeting.

Sundays Payday, a son of the sprint star, Loom, is trained by Bob Arnett. Mike Lidberg is the pilot.

The Norgor winner flashed over the four furlongs in a high-flying 46 seconds flat, which trimmed four ticks off the season mark. The mutual payoffs: $4, $2.80, $2.20.

Running Bucket, owned by E. Wayne and James Johnson of Huntington, Texas, came from far off the pace to finish second, three lengths in front of Vibrant Princess.

Piloted by Casey Lambert, Running Bucket earned $33,828 and refunded $5 and 3.60. The runnerup paycheck hiked Running Bucket's career income up to nearly 100,000.

Vibrant Princess ended up third and anked $18,452. The show payoff: $3. Vibrant Princess is the property of Thomas W. Moore of Fort Worth, Texas.

Vibrant Princess established a solid withold shortly after getting out of the starting gate, and for most of the backstretch run, it appeared the filly could be tough to overcome. But when she reached the turn for home, the competition as breathing hard on her neck.

Sundays Payday, never out of striking range, made a big move going into the turn and took command with authority. The colt piled up his advantage throughout the stretch run. The performance was clearly an impressive one, and established Sundays Payday as the thoroughbred kingpin (so far) among two-year-olds now campaigning at Ruidoso.

Racing at Ruidoso Downs resumes Wednesday with a six-day stretch which extends through Monday, July 5.

SPECIAL HANK ignited deep in the stretch and swept passed the pace-setting Savannah Gambler for a sharp two and one-fourth length victory in Saturday's $8,800 Flying Charm Stakes at Ruidoso Downs.

Special Hank spanned the 870 yards in 45.83 seconds, eclipsing the 47.14 seasonal mark established by Rockthdora on May 9. Saturday's victory also marked Special Hank's second straight conquest of the Flying Charm. He'd won last year's version by a nose.

Launched as a 6-5 favorite under Salustio Burgos, Special Hank moved well during the back stretch run and drew to an almost side-by-side position with Savannah Gambler. The latter, hauling Vickie Smallwood in the top load of 123 pounds, was gunning for his fifth straight victory.

Savannah Gambler held off a game bid from the 8-1 outsider, Pierre The True, and salvaged the runnerup slot by a nose.

Special Hank earned $5,280 and handed out payoffs of $4.40, $3.20, $2.60. Savannah Gambler, who earned $1,936, dished out $3.40 and $2.80. The four-year-old quarter horse toils for Robert Searls Jr. and R. W. Sewell of Odessa, Texas.

Pierre The True, who'd won his last spin

by seven lengths against softer opposition, was good for a $3.20 show price.

Last year, SPECIAL EFFORT swept the Kansas, Rainbow and All-American Futurities at Ruidoso Downs and became quarter horse racing's first winner of the two-year-old Triple Crown.

Hopes of a repeat of that performance were kept alive on Friday when Chicks Etta Wind flashed to a half-length victory in the fifth race — which was a first-round elimination trial leading to the Rainbow Futurity.

Earlier in the season, Chicks Etta Wind stepped of a one and one-fourth length win in the finale of the $768,040 Kansas Futurity at 350 yards. She earned $254,092.

Friday's program covered 14 races and was the third and final stanza in the Rainbow first-round spins. Forty-two races were run in that three-day span, and the top two finishers from each race will go on to the July 9 runoff. On that day, the field for the $600,000 (estimated) finale on July 25 will be decided by the clock.

Easy Prince, ridden by Tommy Riley, swept to a convincing length win in the 14th race (as a 4-5 favorite) and stopped the clock in 20.34 seconds. That clocking made him the co-holder of the day's fastest time. Easy Prince, a son of Easy Jet, is owned by Patricia Beck and Sally Dunigan of Burnet, Texas. The win was his fourth out of five starts, and lifted his career earnings to $41,140.

Mr. Master Bug, the colt who won the Kansas Futurity Consolation on May 29, is the other owner of that 20.34 clocking. Mr. Master Bug won the first race by a length, paying $2.40. He's owned by Marvin Barnes of Ada, Oklahoma.

CALL ME FAVORITE, a filly owned by Clarence Scharbauer of Midland, Texas, took a big step toward the $600,000 (estimated) Rainbow Futurity at Ruidoso Downs on Thursday.

The filly, operating as a topheavy 1-9 favorite, blasted out a three-fourths length win in Thursday's opening race.

The race was one of 14 first-round elimination trials for the Rainbow, the second leg of the famed Triple Crown for two-year-old quarter horses.

In order to survive the first round, a contender had to finish either first or second. The third day of the first-round trials continues Friday.

Particular attention was placed on Call Me Favorite since the filly, in her previous spin, finished a strong second in the $768,040 Kansas Futurity. She went into Thursday's showdown with an excellent record of 2-2-0 from four starts, good for winnings of $114,784.

The final elimination round for the Rainbow Futurity comes up on July 9, with the finale set for July 25.

Town water meeting tonight

A second Ruidoso town meeting on the July 6 special election which will determine the fate of the proposed $8 million water improvements program is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. tonight at the village administrative center.

The public is invited to the meeting. Village officials will be present to answer questions concerning the improvements program and proposed method of financing.

FACING A WALL OF FLAME on the roof of Hondo School Sunday morning are Ruidoso volunteer firemen Rayner Baca (left) and Sam Pirelli. The Ruidoso department was one of many to respond to the alarm. Firefighters from the Hondo, Fort Stanton, Capitan, Lincoln and United States Forest Service also battled the blaze. Despite their efforts, all but the newest wing of the school was totally gutted. Since there are no fire hydrants near the school (Hondo is without a community water system), firetrucks had to travel five miles to an irrigation well with an overhanging pipe to refill, according to Hondo fire chief Frank Tittsworth. Ruidoso fireman Danny Garcia said the trucks could have drawn water from the river behind the school if cooperation between the different fire departments had been better. "Don't get me wrong," he added. "We did a damn good job. Everybody did."

Sunday morning fire destroys most of Hondo School

Hondo School, which recently underwent a $300,000 renovation, was judged a near total loss following a Sunday morning fire which was fought by several area fire departments.

All but the separate high school wing at the east end of the school building was destroyed. Offices, classrooms, library, cafeteria and gymnasium were gutted by the flames.

Early arrivals on the scene said there was evidence of a break-in at the school, and investigators from the State Fire Marshal's Office and state crime lab technicians were expected on the scene today.

The blaze was reported at approximately 9:45 a.m. by Bob Chipman, after Debbie Floyd spotted smoke at the school while driving by.

Chipman said when he arrived there were flames in the old superintendent's office at the east end of the building and smoke pouring from vents on the side of the building.

School superintendent Ernest Booky said that he was called at home and arrived in time to try to extinguish flames in the principal's office with a garden hose, but that it was too late.

"It just got up there in the attic and spread like crazy," he said. School records were in fire-resistant file cabinets and a vault and probably survived intact, Booky noted.

"The place was definitely broken into," said Sheriff's Deputy Art Lindsey.

Chipman said that when he and Billy Underwood arrived, there were broken beer bottles on both sides of a door with a broken window and that it looked as if a bottle had been thrown through the window. Underwood spotted beer bottles near a second door, Chipman added.

Hondo fire chief Frank Tittsworth said

that when he arrived, windows in the building were already broken—blown out by the intense heat inside. The gymnasium roof collapsed and fell through.

"Looks to me like the only thing that can be done now is bulldoze the thing down and haul it away," said Booky. He noted that he had doubled the insurance on the building nine months previously, to more than $2 million.

The superintendent said he will ask the state Department of Education to provide temporary buildings for the upcoming school year. He called it a blessing that the newest wing, which houses expensive business and science equipment, was undamaged. But he expressed dismay over the loss of the renovated older sections.

"A third of a million bucks—lost," said Booky.

'Water Yes' say local businesspeople

Members of "Water Yes," an informal organization of local businessmen who support passage of the bond issues for water improvements, said Friday the group will concentrate on getting information to voters before the July 6 election.

"We formed our organization because we feel there was so much misunderstanding, misinformation—or lack of information—for this particular project," said Tom Kelham, treasurer of Water Yes, which has over 30 members.

Chairman of the group is Pinky Jones. He, Kelham, Morgan Clough and Don Dale voiced their opinions on the water improvements to The News.

Kelham commented on the diversity of the group, noting that he is a member of and represents the views of the Planning and Zoning Commission. Clough, president of the Chamber of Commerce, represents the Chamber board of directors; while Jones referred to himself as "another concerned businessman."

Dale said he is not an actual member of Water Yes, but is serving as the group's liaison with the village council.

Kelham explained that the "loosely knit committee" came about when several business people realized that if they did not band together and help disseminate information, the water improvements program could go down in defeat.

He noted Friday that the Water Yes battle plan was in the formative stages, but that members will use personal and telephone contact with voters to make facts about the Ruidoso water situation and the improvements program known.

"We know of no organized group in the city that's opposed to this (the bond issues)," Kelham pointed out.

He said the group is concerned that some voters will be so sure the bond issues will pass that they might stay home from the polls July 6, thinking that other voters will carry the ball.

Also, he added, Water Yes feels that some people in Ruidoso are not convinced of the need for water improvements. Dale stated that any of the councilmen would welcome a phone call or visit from citizens who have questions about the water improvements program or bond issues.

Jones, Kelham and Clough also stated that they are available to answer questions. Clough added that he will provide transportation to the polling place (Ruidoso Public Library) for voters who need a ride.

Kelham said that the positive response the group had received to that point leads its members to be confident the improvements program will pass.

"We really think it'll fly," he said. Water Yes members emphasized that voters must vote "yes" to all three questions on the ballot in the July 6 election.

The first question is whether the village may impose a one percent sales tax, with all revenue to be applied to water improvements.

The second question is a $6 million revenue bond issue for water improvements. The third question is a $2 million general obligation bond issue for water improvements.

Voters must respond with a "yes" to all three questions for the water improvements program to be put into effect.

Members of Water Yes cited several aspects of the water improvements program which they plan to inform voters on before July 6.

The first is that Ruidoso has rights to 730 acre feet of water per year from the Rio Ruidoso which is not used because there is no place to store it, since flow is usually greatest when demand is lowest, and vice versa. The value of this unused water (approximately 237 million gallons) was placed by the group at over $900,000. The value of the unused water rights was placed at between $6 million and $25 million.

The second, according to Pinky Jones, is that all studies indicate Grindstone Canyon is the most practical site for a storage reservoir. He noted that gravity flow will carry water from the Rio Ruidoso to the reservoir and that tests have shown the dam footings and lake bottom will be sound.

The third is that in acquiring the land for the reservoir through the condemnation process, the village retains control of the lake to be created. Tom Kelham pointed out that through condemnation, the owner of the land will be paid a fair price, making a profit only through normal appreciation of value. No one stands to make a hidden or windfall profit on the sale, Kelham pointed out. Every business in town will make a little profit, he added, through continued prosperity in Ruidoso.

The fourth is that if the bond issues fail, increased water rates amounting to "a heck of a lot more than the sales tax," according to Jones, will have to be assessed to pay for water improvements the village cannot do without. "That's the real sad part," said Kelham. "People don't understand that." He explained that with revenue from the proposed one percent sales tax applied to most of the cost, visitors to Ruidoso will pay an estimated 70 percent of the improvements project.

The fifth is that due to the nature of Ruidoso's economy, in which every dollar "turns over" an estimated seven times, accommodation of residents' and visitors' increasing water needs is a must. Otherwise, Jones indicated, the local economy will stagnate. "When you have to lay off employees, what are you doing to your economy?—you're killing it," he said. Kelham noted that Ruidoso's present bonded indebtedness is predicated on anticipated growth, and that a slowdown would force tax increases to individuals so that obligations could be met.

The sixth is that some voters are concerned that a $5 million bond issue passed in 1974 was to have resulted in a dam being built on Eagle Creek and did not. Kelham pointed out that changes in federal regulations pushed the cost of that dam far above the original estimates, and that village officials therefore used the money for other water improvements. Councilman Don Dale said that the new bond issues will spell out exactly how the money is to be spent. He added that Boyle Engineering has assured the village that the $8 million estimate is good if work is started before this year is out.

Sundays Payday captures Norgor

SUNDAYS PAYDAY got his first taste of stakes competition in Sunday's $155,320 Norgor Thoroughbred Futurity at Ruidoso Downs and carved out a three-length victory.

Ruidoso patrons had plenty of faith in the colt and sent him off as an even-money favorite in the four-furlong dash.

The winning owner, Hugh C. Preston Jr. of Burkburnett, Texas, collected the victory paycheck of $76,665. The outgoing gave Sundays Payday a career record of four wins from five starts. Each of the five spins were staged during the current Ruidoso meeting.

Sundays Payday, a son of the sprint star, Loom, is trained by Bob Arnett. Mike Lidberg is the pilot.

The Norgor winner flashed over the four furlongs in a high-flying 46 seconds flat, which trimmed four ticks off the season mark. The mutual payoffs: $4, $2.80, $2.20.

Running Bucket, owned by E. Wayne and James Johnson of Huntington, Texas, came from far off the pace to finish second, three lengths in front of Vibrant Princess.

Piloted by Casey Lambert, Running Bucket earned $33,828 and refunded $5 and $3.60. The runnerup paycheck hiked Running Bucket's career income up to nearly $100,000.

Vibrant Princess ended up third and ranked $18,452. The show payoff: $3. Vibrant Princess is the property of Thomas W. Moore of Fort Worth, Texas. Vibrant Princess established a solid foothold shortly after getting out of the starting gate, and for most of the backstretch run, it appeared the filly would be tough to overcome. But when she reached the turn for home, the competition was breathing hard on her neck.

Sundays Payday, never out of striking range, made a big move going into the turn and took command with authority. The colt piled up his advantage throughout the stretch run. The performance was clearly an impressive one, and established Sundays Payday as the thoroughbred kingpin (so far) among two-year-olds now campaigning at Ruidoso.

Racing at Ruidoso Downs resumes Wednesday with a six-day stretch which extends through Monday, July 5.

SPECIAL HANK ignited deep in the stretch and swept passed the pace-setting Savannah Gambler for a sharp two and one-fourth length victory in Saturday's $6,800 Flying Charm Stakes at Ruidoso Downs.

Special Hank spanned the 870 yards in 45.83 seconds, eclipsing the 47.14 seasonal mark established by Rockthdora on May 9. Saturday's victory also marked Special Hank's second straight conquest of the Flying Charm. He'd won last year's version by a nose.

Launched as a 6-5 favorite under Salustio Burgos, Special Hank moved well during the back stretch run and drew to an almost side-by-side position with Savannah Gambler. The latter, hauling Vickie Smallwood in the top load of 123 pounds, was gunning for his fifth straight victory.

Savannah Gambler held off a game bid from the 8-1 outsider, Pierre The True, and salvaged the runnerup slot by a nose.

Special Hank earned $5,280 and handed out payoffs of $4.40, $3.20, $2.60. Savannah Gambler, who earned $1,936, dished out $3.40 and $2.80. The four-year-old quarter horse tolls for Robert Searls Jr. and R. W. Sewell of Odessa, Texas.

Pierre The True, who'd won his last spin

by seven lengths against softer opposition, was good for a $3.20 show price.

Last year, SPECIAL EFFORT swept the Kansas, Rainbow and All-American Futurities at Ruidoso Downs and became quarter horse racing's first winner of the two-year-old Triple Crown.

Hopes of a repeat of that performance were kept alive on Friday when Chicks Etta Wind flashed to a half-length victory in the fifth race — which was a first-round elimination trial leading to the Rainbow Futurity.

Earlier in the season, Chicks Etta Wind stepped of a one and one-fourth length win in the final of the $768,040 Kansas Futurity at 350 yards. She earned $254,092.

Friday's program covered 14 races and was the third and final stanza in the Rainbow first-round spins. Forty-two races were run in that three-day span, and the top two finishers from each race will go on to the July 9 runoff. On that day, the field for the $600,000 (estimated) final on July 25 will be decided by the clock.

Easy Prince, ridden by Tommy Riley, swept to a convincing length win in the 14th race (as a 4-5 favorite) and stopped the clock in 20.34 seconds. That clocking made him the co-holder of the day's fastest time. Easy Prince, a son of Easy Jet, is owned by Patricia Beck and Sally Dunigan of Burnet, Texas. The win was his fourth out of five starts, and lifted his career earnings to $41,140.

Mr. Master Bug, the colt who won the Kansas Futurity Consolation on May 29, is the other owner of that 20.34 clocking. Mr. Master Bug won the first race by a length, paying $2.40. He's owned by Marvin Barnes of Ada, Oklahoma.

CALL ME FAVORITE, a filly owned by Clarence Scharbauer of Midland, Texas, took a big step toward the $600,000 (estimated) Rainbow Futurity at Ruidoso Downs on Thursday.

The filly, operating as a topheavy 1-9 favorite, blasted out a three-fourths length win in Thursday's opening race.

The race was one of 14 first-round elimination trials for the Rainbow, the second leg of the famed Triple Crown for two-year-old quarter horses.

In order to survive the first round, a contender had to finish either first or second. The third day of the first-round trials continues Friday.

Particular attention was placed on Call Me Favorite since the filly, in her previous spin, finished a strong second in the $768,040 Kansas Futurity. She went into Thursday's showdown with an excellent record of 2-2-0 from four starts, good for winnings of $114,784.

The final elimination round for the Rainbow Futurity comes up on July 9, with the final set for July 25.

Town water meeting tonight

A second Ruidoso town meeting on the July 6 special election which will determine the fate of the proposed $8 million water improvements program is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. tonight at the village administrative center.

The public is invited to the meeting. Village officials will be present to answer questions concerning the improvements program and proposed method of financing.

Alternatives to bond passage explained to Realtors

by DAVID SHEPPARD
Staff Writer

What are the alternatives if the July 6 water bond issue is defeated?

According to village councilmen, Ruidosoans could be hit harder in the pocketbook if the bond issue fails than if they approve the $8 million program.

At an informal meeting with Multiple Listing Service (MLS) Realtors Thursday, councilman Frank Sayner explained the benefits of the upcoming bond issue. He also portrayed the scenario after the July election if voters turn down the program.

"If the issue doesn't pass, we would still need some form of (water) treatment," Sayner said. "We would need a treatment plant and (storage) tank—that would be $2.4 million, and the only way to pay for it would be to raise tap fees and water rates."

"At a minimum, that would double water rates," he added.

The reason Ruidoso needs another treatment facility, Sayner indicated, is to take advantage of 730 acre feet of water each year that is now being lost downstream. An acre foot is equal to 325,826 gallons. Sayner explained that the 730 acre feet is water that goes through the system and is discharged into the Rio Ruidoso at the Biscuit Hill wastewater treatment plant. He noted the discharge, known as effluent, can be credited to the average usable rights upstream of 1,795 acre feet a year, which increases the total amount of available water to over 2,500 acre feet.

The effluent constitutes 40 percent of the traditional rights.

The Grindstone Canyon reservoir is proposed so Ruidoso will have a means to impound that water. If the bond issue fails and the reservoir is not constructed, Sayner said, the village will have to build the treatment plant, transmission lines and a storage tank to begin taking advantage of the effluent credit.

Ruidoso needs to begin storing the effluent, Sayner said, because "at the present use of water, and with the rate of growth at 7.3 percent, we have enough water and (traditional) rights ... to supply water for two more years."

Sayner compared the costs of the bond issue to the potential cost if the issue fails. He pointed out that on the ballot are three questions.

The first asks voters to approve a one percent hike in the gross receipts tax—from 4.25 percent to 5.25 percent—the proceeds of which will pay the revenue bonds for the project.

According to state law, he emphasized, the one percent tax can only be applied to water improvements. Also, the state permits the tax to cover indebtedness for only three-quarters of the total program costs.

The second question asks if Ruidoso shall issue revenue bonds in the amount of $8 million to finance part of the improvements. The third item on the ballot asks if Ruidoso shall issue $2 million in General Obligation (GO) bonds, payable from property taxes.

Sayner said he "must emphasize that all three questions have to be answered affirmatively," in order for the issue to pass.

At an assumed interest rate on bonds of 14 percent, Sayner said, annual payments on the $8 million would be $1.2 million a year. He added that, based on income derived last year from sales taxes, the one percent increase would generate $900,000.

The remaining $300,000, he said, would come from a property tax hike. Sayner pointed out recently that total assessed value in Ruidoso last year was around $50 million. Estimating that the value of the average house is $75,000—with an assessed value of $25,000—he said that the maximum tax increase would be $4 per $1,000 in assessed value to pay the $300,000.

But Sayner also noted that another $7 to $8 million in assessed value will be added to the village this year, which would lower the individual tax increase.

Also, he pointed out, according to engineers' projections, the GO bonds will not be sold until July 1984. By that time, he predicted, the sales tax increase may provide enough revenue to finance the annual debt payments.

Regarding the additional sales tax, Sayner indicated he feels it is not much of a burden, even for persons on a fixed income.

"If you spend $10,000 a year, it's only another $100 (in tax)," he said. "But most retired people don't spend $10,000 (per year) at the grocery store."

Also, Sayner said, the sales tax increase is the "best means" for making anyone who benefits from the water supply help pay for the resource.

"It means that anyone that visits Ruidoso ... will pay for some part of the water expansion, as compared to residents paying the entire burden," he said.

If a treatment plant and storage tank are built solely at the expense of persons whose property is connected to the water system, Sayner said an increase in the water rate of "only $10 a month, would be an additional $120 a year." The minimum rate now is $12.50 a month.

"The real issue is not what we're doing to the taxes," he suggested. "We need water (and) in our opinion, there's not a better method (to finance improvements)."

Also at the meeting, Sayner explained why Grindstone Canyon was chosen as the site for a reservoir.

He said a reservoir in Grindstone can be gravity fed from a diversion point on the Rio Ruidoso in the Upper Canyon. Also, the land is privately owned and therefore, Sayner said, only involves dealing with one owner.

Sayner pointed out the land will be purchased through condemnation proceedings, thereby giving the owner a fair price, and ensuring the village control over the lake to be created.

Other sites considered by engineers involved either pumping from the river to fill a reservoir, he said, or dealing with government agencies because the sites were located in the National Forest.

Councilman Al Jungo attempted to allay concerns that the bond money may be applied to areas other than the proposed improvements.

In 1974, voters approved a $5 million bond issue to finance water system improvements and construction of a second dam on the Eagle Creek watershed. Alto Lake already existed at that time.

However, as village manager Jim Hine has pointed out, the engineering firm that designed the project miscalculated the reservoir's costs, and the money was never applied to the proposed dam. Instead, Hine said recently, the funds went into improving the existing system.

"A lot of people blame the council for not building the dam on Eagle Creek," Jungo said. "But had that dam been built, there would have been more egg on the face of the council than they could handle. It's doubtful that Eagle Creek could fill (another reservoir)."

"I guarantee this money will be spent exactly as it's supposed to," Jungo said. "There will be no transferring of funds."

Sayner supported Jungo's statement. "If we're not able to build the dam, we won't spend the money."

Wastewater chlorination causes large fish kill

by DAVID SHEPPARD
Staff Writer

The Rio Ruidoso has experienced another loss of fish.

Bob Patterson, state Game and Fish spokesman in Santa Fe, estimates up to 1,000 brown trout were killed June 12 in a one-mile stretch of the river in the Biscuit Hill area.

It was the second fish kill in the river this year. In February, an estimated 2,500 fish were killed when gasoline spilled into the river near the intersection of Sudderth and Mechem Drives.

Patterson said Friday that, according to preliminary figures submitted to the state office by Ruidoso Game and Fish officer Randy Isler, "one-quarter to one-half mile of the river" below the Regional Wastewater Treatment Plant at Biscuit Hill experienced a complete loss of fish.

The fish were apparently killed two days after the new sewer plant went on line June 8.

Village manager Jim Hine indicated fish were killed after the plant was "hypochlorinated" when it first started up. "The fish just couldn't handle it," Hine added.

John Ramos, wastewater plant supervisor, said that on June 12, almost double the normal amount of chlorine was inadvertently mixed in with the plant discharge into the Rio Ruidoso.

"We average about 30 pounds (chlorine) a day," Ramos said. "That day, about 60 pounds was used."

Ramos noted that the chlorine bleaching is regulated by an automatic chlorinating system that injects the chemical into the discharge based on the amount of discharge flow. When the plant went on line, Ramos said, the automatic system wasn't complete, which meant the process had to be manually regulated.

He added that on June 13, he found the regulator had been set too high on the previous day. He said he adjusted the system after finding the mistake.

The automatic system is now operating. Ramos said Friday, "We check it three-four times a day, and it's staying where we want it."

On June 14, Isler and Environmental Improvement Division (EID) employee Jim Edwards checked the river for loss of fish, and monitored the levels of chlorine below the plant discharge pipe.

Edwards said samples of the water showed five milligrams chlorine per liter of water near the discharge pipe. "At present," he said, "we're not sure if that's an acceptable level."

"I can't say at this point if it was the effluent (that killed the fish)," he said. "But all the evidence points that way."

Edwards said the samples were sent to the Scientific Laboratory Division of the Health and Environmental Department (HED) for testing. He added that the laboratory will forward the results to the water pollution control bureau of EID, and the bureau will formulate standards for discharge from the new plant.

Edwards said current standards for the plant are based on the levels that were permitted for the old sewer plant near Ruidoso High School.

"This plant should be a lot better than the older one," he added.

Edwards reported Isler found 35 dead fish in a stretch of the river below the plant. But based on a "population density estimate," Patterson estimated the loss to be around 1,000 fish.

"The minimum numbers of game fish (trout) in the Ruidoso is usually about 1,200 to 1,400 per mile," Patterson noted.

Patterson said the Game and Fish Department values each fish at $2. He mentioned that after the actual loss is determined, and the cause is pinpointed, the department will file damages to replace the loss.

"We charge for the loss of fish," he added. "But what was the loss to fishing? That's the bad part, we can't collect for the intangible. We can only replace the numbers, but not the sizes."

High school receives $1.7 million

The Ruidoso Schools were allocated $1.7 million for construction of phase two of the new high school from the Public School Capital Outlay Council during its meeting Thursday in Santa Fe.

Of the 19 schools approved to receive capital outlay funds from the state, Ruidoso was granted the second largest allocation. The school district had requested $2.1 million of the $15 million appropriated by the 1982 Legislature for New Mexico schools. School superintendent Pat Valliant said all the schools' requests were cut, however.

Valliant said he is very pleased with the allocation Ruidoso received this year and feels confident the local district will also be granted a sizeable sum next year for phase three of the school.

The second phase of the high school will include classroom additions, on which construction should begin in May of 1983, Valliant reported.

Construction on the first phase of the new high school began this month. A third phase is also being planned—to include an athletic wing with gymnasium, band and music rooms and a shop building.

The new school is scheduled to be open by fall of 1984, the superintendent said.

Villages' governing bodies to meet

Ruidoso Downs trustees will meet tonight at 7 p.m. at the municipal building. Mayor J. C. Day and trustees Harold Mansell and Jake Harris will report on their meeting last Tuesday with Fred Muniz, secretary of the state Taxation and Revenue Department. The board plans to look into the possibility of establishing a user charge for special services provided to Ruidoso Downs Race Track.

Other agenda items include:

—Report from Planning and Zoning Commission.

—Resolution 82-8—adoption of the fiscal year 1982-83 budget.

—Amend ordinance 82-2 concerning flood control.

—Purchase of radio for Unit 4.

—M. L. Wimberly, regarding a water bill at the Roping Arena.

—Budget adjustment—transfer line items.

The Ruidoso council will hold a final budget hearing at its 7:30 p.m. Tuesday meeting at the village administrative center before acting on Resolution 82-6 for adoption of the $8 million village budget for fiscal 1982-83.

The meeting will be preceded by a study session for councilmen at 6:30 p.m.

Other items on the council agenda are:

—Ms. Campbell, regarding violation of property line, Lot 14, Singing Pines Subdivision.

Six straight race days begin Wednesday

Charge It Papa, who has faced the area's finest runners, seeks his second victory this season when he meets nine foes in Wednesday's featured allowance race at Ruidoso Downs.

The Wednesday program opens the busiest weekend this season at the mountain track. Six consecutive days of horse racing will be presented, ending with a special holiday program on Monday.

Charge It Papa appears to be in a favorable spot in this, 350-yard chase for three-year-olds and older quarter horses. The purse will be $3,800.

The five-year-old Roma Charge horse has tallied ten victories in his career, with seven of those triumphs at Ruidoso Downs.

His biggest verdict was collecting $17,752.85 for winning the Rainbow Derby Consolation in July of 1980.

Charge It Papa began his 1982 campaign with a head win in a 250-yard allowance contest at Val Verde Downs in Del Rio, Texas. Then he finished sixth, just a half-length behind winning A Smooth Bug in the Mr. Jet Moore Stakes over 400 yards on May 21 at Ruidoso Downs.

His latest start was a fine effort as he finished second, just a nose behind Deckem Easy in a 350-yard allowance test on June 10 at Ruidoso Downs. Ruidoso Downs patrons made him an 8-5 wagering favorite that day.

Overall, this season, Charge It Papa has one win and one second in three outings for trainer Jack Dube. He's collected $2,458 for owner James Keng of Giddings, Texas.

Charge It Papa's toughest foe appears to be My Kids Trouble, who will be making his Ruidoso Downs debut this season.

The four-year-old Mr. Kid Charge horse ran three consecutive seconds this spring at Sunland Park after opening 1982 with a disappointing seventh-place finish in a 400-yard allowance race at Los Alamitos near Los Angeles.

In 1981, he won three races with one second and two thirds in 11 outings for earnings of $14,172.

This season, he has three seconds from four starts for trainer William F. Leach. He's collected $1,826 for owners William E. Gahlberg and Joseph G. Marconi of St. Charles, Illinois.

Here's the field in post position order with assigned jockeys and weights: 1 — Native Sparkle (117); 2 — Charge It Papa (Steve Harris, 122); 3 — Hiedens Charger (Jeff Arriola, 119); 4 — Vinegaroon Angel (119); 5 — Mr Speed Boat (Joe Ruiz, 118); 6 — Go King Richard (117); 7 — Looking Forward (Roy Brooks, 117); 8 — My Kids Trouble (Jacky Martin, 117); 9 — Bullion Lassie (Jerry Burgess, 117); 10 — Matty Mito (Alex Baldille Jr., 117).

Thursday's feature will be the Zia Stakes at 400 yards for three-year-olds and older New Mexico-bred runners. The purse will be $6,500-added.

Friday's main event will be the Rainbow Derby Consolation for three-year-olds who qualified from the June 18 trial races. The winner of this 440-yard test will collect $19,908.60 from the total purse of $96,888.52.

Also on Friday will be the Miss New Mexican Stakes for three-year-old fillies. The victress from that five and one-half furlong dash will earn a purse of $5,000-added.

Saturday's highlight will be the Governor's Handicap for three-year-olds and older thoroughbreds traveling six and one-half furlongs. The purse will be $10,000-added.

SPORTS

Around Sports

with Tim Palmer

Wimbledon is a fortnight of tennis which is enjoyed vicariously by tennis players throughout the world.

This year's edition of the All-England Championships has been punctuated by frequent rain delays, but the tournament continues to move along and will probably finish on schedule Sunday.

This Wimbledon is particularly interesting to me because several players with whose games I am familiar are participating.

At least four players in the men's draw competed in the Southwest Conference last year.

American Chip Hooper, who knocked off seeded Australian Peter McNamara early on, played for the University of Arkansas. In his rookie pro year, Hooper has played his way into the world's top 20 men.

Hooper goes six-foot-five or six and can hit his serve 135 mph—a decided advantage anytime, but more so on the fast grass courts of Wimbledon.

Also of interest is the fact that Hooper is black. So is another American male who is making a name for himself at Wimbledon, Californian Lloyd Bourne.

Bourne defeated two-time finalist Ilie Nastase of Romania. On the women's side, twice champion Evonne Goolagong Cawley was knocked off by young Zina Garrison of Houston, also a black.

"Not a wave, but a ripple," was the way commentator Bud Collins described the emergence of American blacks in the ranks of world class tennis players.

Look for players like Hooper and Garrison to keep making their mark and help show the way for others of their race in what has been for too long a largely unintegrated sport.

In tennis, we have the concept of the "indirect win." This comes about when a player you have beaten beats another player, thereby giving you an indirect win over the second player.

(If this concept makes little or no sense, don't worry, it is basically another way for tennis players to bolster their egos.)

Anyway, I was pleased to note the name of Rand Evett of Grand Junction, Colorado, among the men players at Wimbledon.

You see, I played and beat Rand Evett (then of Tucson) in the 1964 Southwest Open. Unfortunately, Rand lost his first round match at Wimbledon in four sets to a Czech player.

After puzzling over this for a time, I decided that Rand's performance, in light of my win over him 18 years ago, entitles me to claim an "indirect close loss" at Wimbledon.

Not bad, eh?

Brian Teacher of California, another of my opponents in the juniors, is also playing Wimbledon, and won his first round, I lost to Brian in California when I was 12, but one set went to 7-5.

So I'm waiting to see how he does the rest of the way to determine whether I can make any "indirect" claims based on his performance. Like I said, Wimbledon is a wonderful vicarious experience.

Even so, wanting the real experience of playing a tournament, Randy Herzberg and I went down to Carlsbad Friday for the Cavern City Open.

I thought we acquitted ourselves fairly well. We stayed alive long enough in the tournament Saturday to play seven sets each, including five sets of singles.

And I am not speaking entirely figuratively when I say we "stayed alive." The temperature in Carlsbad that day was 103°.

Fortunately, with gallons of Gatorade and several changes of shirts, we survived.

There's a tournament in El Paso this weekend, but I think I'll stay home and watch Wimbledon on TV. It's cooler that way.

CREE MEADOWS LADIES INVITATIONAL

Samaha, Neely capture gross crown

Mary Samaha and Revi Neely played a strong consistent game in winning the low gross title of the championship flight in the first Cree Meadows Ladies Invitational 36-hole Golf Tournament which ended Friday.

The talented duo fired a 73 on Thursday and a 74 Friday for a 147 total. Judy Jones and Jonnie King won the low net competition with a 120 total, 58 on Thursday and 62 Friday.

"We teamed well," said Neely of the low gross championship duo's play. "It was a fun course to play but the greens were difficult."

Samaha, who was playing the course for the first time, agreed that parts of the course were difficult.

"We had to replay a lot of putts," Samaha said. "We did well on the front nine Thursday and the back nine today (Friday)."

Neely is from Mesa, Arizona. Samaha is from El Centro, California.

Ruth Walizer and Georgia Mitchell finished second in the low net competition, shooting a 62 Thursday and a 59 Friday for a 121 total.

Helen McDaniels and Georgia George took the low gross championship of the first flight with a 159 total, 80 Thursday and 79 Friday. Minnieola Stewart and Johnnie Carlisle were the low net champions with a 107 total, 53 Thursday and 54 Friday.

Dora Ogas and Myrtel Nelson were second in the low net competition with a 125 score, 64 Thursday and 61 Friday.

Bobbie Abel and Marian Sanborn won the second flight low gross crown with a 169 score. They fired an 82 Thursday and a 77 Friday.

There was a two-way tie for the second flight low net title. Maria Sager and Jo Rash tied with Thelma Marsh and Dorothy O'Dell, each team scoring a 117.

Carol Bayless and Ardith Patterson took the third flight low gross championship with a 169 total. They scored an 83 Thursday and an 86 Friday. They also were "unofficial" winners of the low net title with an outstanding 106 score, 49 Thursday and 57 Friday.

If a team wins the low gross title, however, it can't be awarded the low net championship. Thus, the team of Shirley Cliff and Arlene Bass tied with Karon Petty and Muriel Bloodworth for the title, each pair scoring a 117 total.

Sandy Gates of Farmington won a $50 gift certificate from Just Jeans for winning the Hole Closest to the Pin Contest. Each golfer got a tee shot on the 13th hole and the one who was closest won.

A total of 32 teams (64 women) competed in the tournament with golfers coming from all over the Southwest.

The next tournament on the Cree Meadows schedule is a member-guest invitational July 7-8.

The big Cree Meadows Men's Invitational will be held August 2-5 and the Johnny Williams Memorial Partnership Tournament will take place September 24-26.

REVI NEELY (left) and Mary Samaha won the gross title of the championship flight in the first Cree Meadows Ladies Golf Invitational Friday. Thirty-two teams competed in the tournament which drew golfers from all over New Mexico and the Southwest.

CAMP DRAWS 60 YOUTHS

Weldon Drew cage camp opens

The Fourth Annual Weldon Drew Basketball Camp started Sunday afternoon at the Ruidoso High School gym.

About 60 youths, including four girls, showed for the camp opening. The camp is open to youths from 10 to 18 years old.

The camp will be run on three levels, according to Drew, the head basketball coach at New Mexico State University (NMSU). Tryouts for the three divisions were held last night.

The youngest and most inexperienced players will be in the Colt division. The medium age players will compete in the Junior division and the older players in the Senior division.

"We hope the kids will have learned one or two things that will make them better basketball players when they leave the camp," Drew said. "We'll teach them the fundamentals of basketball and they'll play games at their own level."

The camp will last five days. Family Night Friday will end the activities. Awards for top free throw shooter, top field goal shooter, most valuable player and best one-on-one player will be given out in each division.

Most of the youths in the camp are from New Mexico. The camp has been held for at least seven years in Ruidoso. Before Drew took it over, the previous NMSU coach held the camp.

Butch Grantham has had long career in soccer

Gary Brown
Sports Writer

Butch Grantham was born in Scotland, so it's not surprising that he's been interested in soccer for a long time.

What is surprising is the fact Grantham, the director of the Ruidoso-Sertoma Soccer Association (RSSA), became interested in soccer while living in Texas.

"I left Scotland when I was less than a year old," Grantham said. "I lived in Texas for a long time, well aware of soccer as a sport."

"I moved to Dallas and in 1967 started playing in some adult soccer matches there. Some people approached me about coaching youth soccer so I did."

After a while, Grantham played for the Dallas Tornado B team, but a serious automobile accident all but put an end to his soccer playing career.

The soccer injury plus dissatisfaction with big city life helped Grantham decide to move to the Ruidoso area in 1975.

"My parents had lived in Capitlan for many years," he said. "My father said Ruidoso might be a good place to move to so we did that."

Grantham, who works at Morgan's Mountain Sports store, got acquainted with Bob Gregson, the head chef at Cree Meadows Country Club and a native of England.

In the spring of 1979, Grantham and Gregson started going to the schools in the area and holding informal clinics.

"The clinic turnouts were much better than we had hoped for," Grantham said. "We taught the kids the basics of the sport like kicking and passing the ball around. We worked all summer."

The first youth soccer league season began in the fall of 1979 with 120 youths coming out for the sport.

The youth league reached a peak of 300 kids in the spring of 1981 but went down to 200 this past season.

"That's still a lot of kids," Grantham said. "We're sort of in a stage of controlled growth right now."

Grantham has coached an under-16 team, the Celtic, every season since the league began. He also coached an under-eight team one year and an under-12 team another season.

Girls made up about 15 percent of the total league enrollment this past spring season which was not quite as much as Grantham had hoped for.

"It (girls' enrollment) wasn't really that much compared to when we first started," he said.

Grantham's wife, Suzanne, also coaches a youth soccer team in the RSSA. She has coached the under-eight Bandits for three years.

An adult soccer league was formed two years ago but has been in limbo for the past two seasons because of lack of interested players.

Despite the fact the league is in a stage of limited growth, it still needs more coaches and referees.

"Four of our five referees also coach teams," Grantham said. "That's hard to do. We're always searching for more coaches and referees."

What does Grantham like best about soccer?

"The fact it's the greatest team sport ever," he said. "No one superstar can carry the team. It requires complete teamwork from every player."

Grantham also makes a case for soccer as the world's most popular sport.

"About 1.5 billion people will watch the World Cup this year," he said. "That's more than any other sporting event."

"Soccer hasn't reached that stage in this country yet. However, it's still growing."

Grantham will keep busy this summer until the fall season registration begins in August. He will be one of the assistant coaches at the Bobby Moffat Soccer Camp at White Mountain Middle School this week and will coach at some other youth camps in the Southwest after that.

Wilderness Wisdom

with Wayne Calloway

Dear Wayne: For many years, for a short time every season, I have hunted one of the most elusive game animals in America. The whitetailed deer. It would be difficult to find a more elusive and stately animal. Often, I have been outmaneuvered, outwaited, and rendered empty handed. But always the experience has been rewarding. Although I could likely benefit from a few tips, my question doesn't really deal with the art of hunting deer; instead it questions the ideal choice of rifle calibers.

This may seem a strange question from one who claims to have been at the sport for some years, but I recently moved from a county that allowed only shotguns for deer hunting. All my years have dealt with such an arm rather than a rifle. If there is one best rifle caliber, I would appreciate your recommendation.

Phillip T., Maryland

Dear Phillip: Three or four years ago I received a similar question, and my answer is still the same. There is no such thing as a perfect caliber. Some do particular jobs better than others. Even for the same game animals a compromise will be needed if you hunt varied terrain conditions, such as open woods as well as heavy timbered areas, and occasionally large open areas. If, however, you hunt the same basic terrain features and similar animals, you can come pretty close to tailoring a caliber to your needs perfectly.

The problem in asking for a recommendation is that people tend to get hung up on a caliber that does a good job for them, so they stick with it. And why not. I am a diehard 30-06 fan because it can be used with a wide variety of bullet weights and powder charges, making it versatile enough for almost any North American big game; possibly excepting the big bears. Some say it will even adequately handle them. That's opinion, but ballistics will prove the versatility of the '06.

On the other hand, some people object to the recoil from a caliber as large as the 30-06 for deer hunting. Deer aren't really hard enough to stop to require a caliber that large unless you like it. There are certainly several .24 and .25 calibers that are adequate.

My own preference might go like this. For hunting open field areas: a .243, 6mm, .257, .270, or 30-06 would do well. For heavily wooded areas: a 30-30, 30-06, .35, or .270 would be fine. These are only my choices, and there are a dozen others that will perform well.

If you pick one caliber to hunt all types of terrain, pick a bullet weight that compromises the situation. Use one that is light enough for fairly flat shooting in open country, but heavy enough to cut through some brush in the woods.

Jaycees complete season undefeated

The Jaycees ended the 1982 Ruidoso Little League baseball season with a perfect 16-0 record as they defeated Ruidoso State Bank 7-2 Friday night at the Little League field.

In a contest Thursday night, Security Bank rolled over the Elks 24-8.

Mike Lewis was the winning pitcher for the Jaycees. Brian Davis, who also pitched well for the Jaycees this season, had a home run to spark the winners' attack. All of the Jaycees players hit well in the game.

Ruidoso State Bank ended the season with a 6-9 record.

Clay Mosley was the winning pitcher for Security Bank. Andy Castanada belted two hits for the Elks.

Security Bank ended the season with a 7-8 record while the Elks were 2-14.

The league will hold its trophy banquet Wednesday at 7 p.m. in the Elks Lodge. An all-star team will be selected for the district tournament next month.

BUTCH GRANTHAM started the Ruidoso-Sertoma Soccer Association in 1979 and the youth soccer program has done well since then. Grantham played with the Dallas Tornado B team when he lived in Dallas 10 years ago.

WAYNE MCGUFFIN tees off on the 55th hole in the Longest Day of Golf action Thursday at Alto Lakes Golf and Country Club. McGuffin, Rob Steinmetz and Dr. Paul Whitwam each finished 101 holes of golf to raise money for the American Cancer Society. Pledges were made for each hole the golfers completed. After their final hole, the golfers were treated to dinner and drink by several Alto residents who had watched the action.

CLAY MOSLEY hurls a pitch for Security Bank in its 24-8 victory over the Elks in a Ruidoso Little League baseball finale Thursday night at the Little League field. Mosley was the winning pitcher. Security Bank ended the season with a 7-9 record while the Elks finished at 2-14. The league will hold its season-ending banquet at 7 p.m. Wednesday in the Elks Lodge.

NATURAL ART was created by campers of the Ruidoso and Capitan Girl Scout Day Camp last week. The girls collected flowers, rocks, pinecones, et cetera during their walks in the woods last week to form natural works of art.

AFTER DEMONSTRATING various rope tying techniques learned at the Ruidoso and Capitan Girl Scout Day Camp, these junior Girl Scouts gave a lecture on poisonous plants to be on the lookout for in the area.

LEGAL NOTICE

JUNE 16, 1982
NOTICE OF CHANGES IN SECRETARIAL ELECTION
SCHEDULED FOR JUNE 30, 1982

An Election Proclamation was issued May 21, 1982 to announce a Secretarial Election to allow the members of the Mescalero Tribe to consider proposed amendments to the Tribal Constitution as follows:

PROPOSED AMENDMENT A: would change Article IX, Section 7, to allow a Tribal Election without a primary election, if there is no need to eliminate a candidate. For instance, if only two candidates are running for president, then there will not be a primary election for that position, and both names will go on the ballot for general election.

PROPOSED AMENDMENT B: would change Article IX, Section 8, to make the general election date the first Tuesday in November, instead of the third Friday in December. It also eliminates the provision that a holiday coinciding with election day would necessitate holding the election on the following work day, therefore, in the unlikely event of a holiday on the first Tuesday of November, election is held anyway.

A separate notice was mailed out, also dated May 21, 1982, advising Tribal Members of the Secretarial Election and specifying that advanced registration would be required of any member wishing to vote. A deadline to register was set at June 9, 1982. Previous Secretarial Elections at Mescalero were held without the advance registration. We subsequently received over 200 registration requests, and a formal posting of all acceptable registrants was duly provided on June 10.

EXPLANATION OF CHANGES:

The Mescalero Apache Tribal Council, concerned that insufficient time and changes in procedure regarding registration would interfere with an orderly Secretarial Election, formally requested a waiver of regulations of 25 CFR 52.11, which was granted by the Assistant Secretary of Indian Affairs on June 16, 1982. This means that all adult members of the Tribe will be eligible to vote in the election even if they did not register in advance.

The Tribe also requested and we were granted permission to add a third proposed amendment, as follows:

PROPOSED AMENDMENT C: will include Article IX, Section 2 (b) which shall read as follows:

(b) Has resided within a fifty (50) mile radius of the Tribal Administration Office, which office is located on the reservation, for a period of at least six (6) months immediately prior to the day of election.

Proposed Amendment C is to correct an error made in a previous constitutional amendment vote, and simply reinstates the residency requirement as it has been carried for many years.

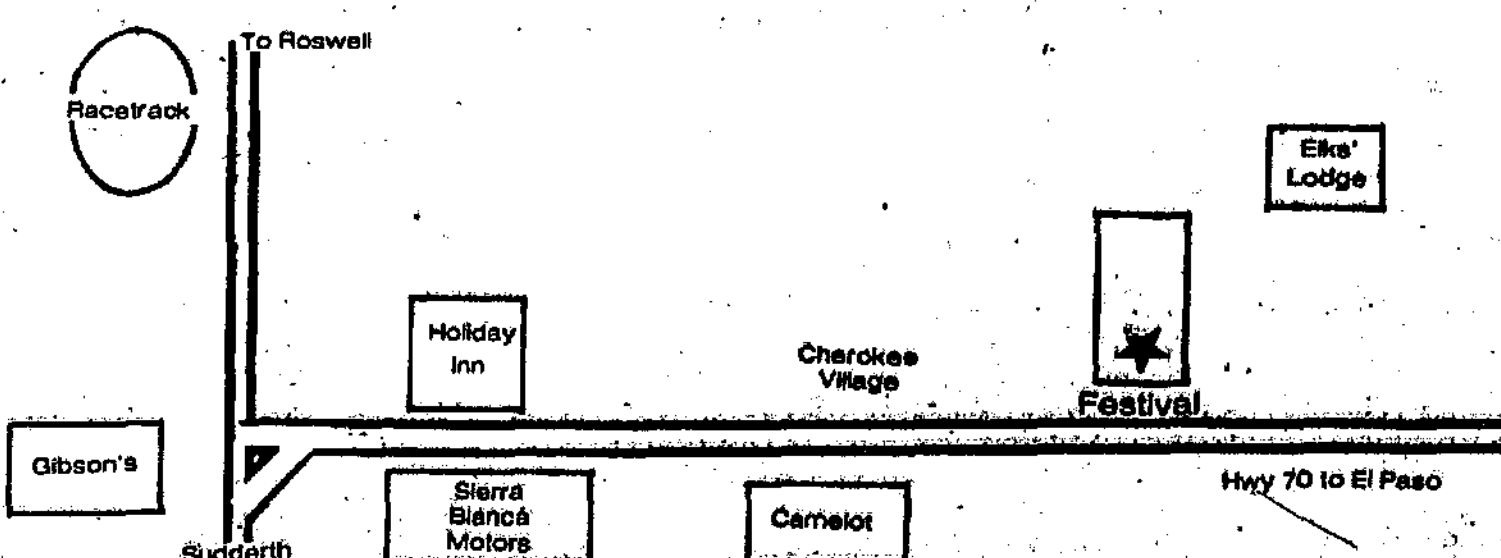

Election results will be posted at B.I.A., Tribal Office, P.H.S., Tribal Store, Big Chief, and Post Office.

Fireworks a no-no here

For the coming July 4 holiday weekend, fire prevention officer Ollie Cuddy wants to remind persons that it is against the law to possess fireworks in the Village of Ruidoso, and in the surrounding National Forest.

Cuddy said with the high fire danger in this area, it is especially important that persons adhere to the law.

He said anyone found possessing, selling, manufacturing, transporting or discharging any firecracker, Roman candle, skyrocket, torpedo or any firework will be prosecuted according to the law. He added that the Ruidoso Police Department will confiscate the fireworks and cite offenders.

Police report that Cabot was the driver of a car heading west on Sudderth when an east-bound vehicle driven by Casey Owens, 17, of Roswell, swerved over the center line and collided with Cabot's vehicle.

Cabot and Owens were transported by ambulance to RHVH. Owens was later transferred to Roswell, a hospital spokeswoman said. He reportedly suffered cuts to his legs and face.

John Wesley Harkey

Our prayers go up for the loved ones of John Wesley Harkey, beloved pioneer, who was called home by Our Lord June Fifteen, after almost a century of life as a rancher, community leader and Christian gentleman.

It always brightened up your day to talk with Mr. Harkey, for he had the cheerful, uplifting nature, and the quaint humor of ranch life of the open range days.

Services were held at the Methodist Church in Carrizozo and the Cemetery at Angus.

John Wesley Harkey was truly worthy of his namesake, the Great Spiritual leader, John Wesley. Throughout his life, John lived always according to the teachings of Our Lord.

We all take comfort in knowing that our dear friend, after a long and good life, here among us, is safe and happy with Our Lord in Heaven.

Three Signs of Rain

Today, on June twenty-fifth, there are three signs of rain here in the vale. The west wind has been blowing steadily all morning, and there is the smell of moisture in the air. Also, some cows, that have been back in the hills almost all the time since early spring, have come in to the river for a little visit under the cool of the river trees, filling up on the crystal clear water, and then resting, as if getting ready to make a trip back up the hill.

Calves who have never seen each other are getting acquainted, running and playing—like children, paying no attention to the heat which has the grown-up heading for the shade. I do not know why, but every time the cows gather at the river this time of year, the next thing you know here comes the rain.

The third sign of the approaching rain is that the river is getting low at the crossing. The green moss is thick, and the stream winds through, taking its time.

I have seen the river dry above the place all the way up, and dry below all the way down. This was in 1971 when the oak brush did not even leaf out.

However I have never seen the river dry here at the crossing. I have seen it slowed down to a stream a foot wide slowly winding through the green river moss from one pool to another. And in the evening the little frogs could be heard from beside the pools, calling out, "Aaaaa-gua. Aaaa-gua. (Water. Water.)"

The old time Spanish people said this was the frogs chanting a prayer for water—a call that is always answered.

There is a very good year in the making. All the signs of good rain on the way are here. The little rains that have already fallen have done a great deal of good for the thirsty children of Mother Earth.

So let us thank the Lord for the glorious days of June.

Body found

The body of a 53-year-old mentally retarded resident of the Fort Stanton Hospital and Training School was found by searchers Friday.

Gerald Absher had been missing since Wednesday afternoon when he reportedly walked off from a campground where a group from the hospital was having a picnic.

It was reported that Absher's body was found less than a mile from where he was last seen. Exposure was the suspected cause of death. An autopsy will be performed.

Trailer burns Sunday

Firemen responded to a mobile home fire in Paradise Canyon Sunday afternoon and contained the fire to the living room area of the structure.

Danny Garcia of the Ruidoso Volunteer Fire Department (RVFD) said the flames were confined to one room of the structure. He reported that the rest of the trailer received smoke and water damage.

At press time, Garcia reported that he was unsure who the owners are.

Fireman Eddie Espinosa, who was on duty when the fire was reported, said the fire broke out shortly before 6 p.m. He said the contents in the living room were heavily damaged, but firemen were unable to assess the loss to other rooms in the trailer. Espinosa reported the trailer was unoccupied at the time of the fire.

Inside The Capitol

by Fred McCaffrey

SANTA FE — Question (from McCaffrey): "Hoyt Pattison said on the floor of the House Sunday that the liberals did it to the conservatives in 1972 and the conservatives were doing it to the liberals in 1982. Do you have any comment on that?"

Answer (from Bruce King): "Who's Hoyt Pattison?"

The exchange above, a part of the press conference in the Governor's office earlier this week, indicates the spirit in which things were left after the Legislature went home.

Some people, not least of all the chief executive of the state, were less than satisfied.

In another exchange between the Governor and this writer earlier that day, King had said, "As soon as I turned my back, they went home."

One thing which was rankling him was the fact that leaders of the legislators forced him to write a letter as part of a deal — and then didn't keep their part.

That's very humiliating.

For lawmakers, members of a coeval branch of government, to say to the boss of it all that he must commit himself on paper before they can get their own troops into line is to imply that he will not keep his word unless it is given in writing.

King, anxious to get things settled and the show on the road, gave in and wrote the letter.

He expected to get, as a result of that act, an amendment to the "feed bill" which would take care of the money needed to pay off the debts of the other branch of government, the judiciary.

Apparently, he thought he had a deal. He didn't.

While he was entertaining the oldest daughter of the Queen of England at the Governor's Residence (it used to be called a Mansion), the Legislature quit and went home.

That left him holding a bill for over $400,000 the legislators knew very well had to be paid.

Not a friendly gesture — not a friendly gesture at all.

Nor one likely to be forgotten by Bruce King, a man who, though he appears to have the hide of an alligator, is inclined to remember those who sold him out.

Does losing hurt?

You don't want to be so impolite as to ask that of those who have just lost in the electoral process.

To do that would be crude and intrusive and less than tactful.

Yet from the faces of some, you can tell the answer.

What's more, others will go ahead and put the thing into words — which may in fact help to speed the healing.

Example: Les Houston, who ran for nomination to the governor's post on the Democratic side of the ticket and withdrew, but not in time to get his name off the ballot.

Houston is normally an ebullient type, full of words and opinions.

He was not that during the recently completed legislative session, in which he continued to serve in his post as a Senator from Bernalillo County.

He says, quite simply and directly, "It hurts more than you can say."

Too true, Les, too true.

Doesn't it almost make you wonder if the whole thing is worth it?

Letters to the Editor

Dear editor:
I would like to take issue with two items relating to the upcoming water bond vote, namely, the opposition of our village council to any kind of a freeze on annexations and the choice of Grindstone Canyon as the site for the new storage lake.

What happened to the recommendation by the Boyle engineering firm the village hired for a study on the feasibility of a storage dam, that Flume Canyon should be used? In their study that was prepared and presented to the city February 1981, they found the best sites to be Flume Canyon, Perk Canyon or Eagle Creek Canyon. Grindstone Canyon was not even mentioned. But suddenly, in August of 1981, Grindstone Canyon was the site. Could it be that Grindstone is private land and can be developed and sold while Flume is on public land? One of the apparent reasons our consulting firm chose Flume was because it was on public land and Ruidoso should be able to negotiate a trade or acquire a long term lease with the government agency without having to go into debt for a land purchase.

Why Grindstone? Flume is half the distance from the Ruidoso River and will take half as much pipe or conduit to get the water from the river to the lake and half as much to return it to the river for use. One argument I have heard is that there is no road to Flume. Well, one of the first expenses noted for the construction of a dam in Grindstone is for a road for the trucks. I have heard there is a fault in Flume that will cost extra to cover and prevent seepage. Has it been substantiated that there are no faults in Grindstone? I don't have any idea how much the feasibility study by the consulting firm cost the village, but why hire them and pay a substantial fee for their findings, then not use their expertise.

Not heeding the recommendations of appointed fact-finders seems to be a way of doing things with our village council, though. Just this past week, three different, knowledgeable groups and individuals told them that in light of our present water situation we should limit any more annexations through a freeze or moratorium until we have the water to supply them. The Water Board, formed back in 1971 to obtain and study factual information pertaining to water, advised a moratorium, as did the Planning and Zoning Commission chairman and the Mayor. None of these have axes to grind or vested interests, but the village council were as one in their adamant refusal to consider their advice.

I personally would not be so concerned over the choice of Grindstone had it not taken on the appearance of a humbug from the beginning, with the developer wanting the village to buy the land, then give him the control of the lake. This act of greed has forced the village to have to go to the expense and trouble of a condemnation suit on the land, with a possible higher price than first expected. And now we find out that if the pipeline does not follow the streets as he has them laid out in his plans, we will probably have to condemn and purchase the lots stuck in my craw! I just can't swallow it! Like most others, I have no quarrel with planned development. Just developers.

It appears the whole community is aware of our future water problems and we are willing and ready to do something to help provide future water for growth, so let's do it! But let's do it in the most cost effective, sensible way available to us. A Grindstone Canyon dam may be this, but if it isn't, let's not get stuck with it.

I understand there is a state statute that says if a bond issue does not pass, it cannot be brought up again for a period of time — two years, I think. Therefore, I plead with the village fathers to give us something in the water bond election we can accept and vote for. We can't afford to wait another couple of years to resolve this.

Concerned Citizen,
Raymond Beardsley

Dear editor:
Is it really just coincidence that the water bond vote was postponed from earlier this year until our season of peak water use, when water shortages and restrictions usually occur?

It seems naive that all the Village water use plans and projections are based on an "average" water year. This ignores the reality, in the Southwest, that we rarely have an average water year; instead, we experience regular cycles of drought or abundance. Much of Ruidoso's building and expansion has occurred in the last 7 years. These have also been above average moisture years. We are overdue for a series of below average "drought" years.

Our Village water system, and growth, should be based on the water that would be available during an inevitable drought year, not an average year. We may need water storage capacity, similar to the proposed Grindstone reservoir, just to serve the needs of the existing village during a dry year. But it is unrealistic to pretend that we can continue the uncontrolled growth we have had in the past, when we may already have exceeded the limits of our available water resources.

The question of the July 6 water bond is not how we are going to improve the Village water system. Rather, it is the purpose of this bond to accommodate continued unconstrained growth, and to determine how the Village is to finance the increasing costs of this growth. The proponents of this water bond want to finance more growth with higher property and sales taxes. This ignores other, more equitable, funding options such as increasing connection fees and increasing the minimum monthly water rate. Why must Village residents subsidize land development profits with increased property and sales taxes?

It is summer peak water use that creates the greatest strain on our water system. Let the 70 percent of Ruidoso's homeowners, who only live here seasonally, share the burden for the costs of the water improvements they require. Increasing the minimum monthly water rate could do this very effectively.

I hope the people of Ruidoso will vote against the water bond in its present form, and will continue to express their disapproval of measures which do not tie the costs of growth to those who profit from it. At the very least, let's require that future building permits, annexations and other water obligations only be issued within the limits of existing, approved and paid-for water capacity.

If we are to preserve the quality of our village, Ruidoso must learn to manage its growth realistically and responsibly.

HAPPY CANNED NIGHTMARE

Here's an environmental nightmare that for a change has a brighter than usual ending.

Last year, Americans discarded billions and billions of aluminum cans. That's the nightmare. The bright side comes from other Americans who collected more than 1 billion pounds of aluminum cans for recycling. That was more than half the cans used during the year and one-fourth of all aluminum scrap recycled in the country.

The nation's landscape would glitter less but be cleaner if more Americans could be convinced to recycle a higher percentage of their cans. — Albuquerque Journal

Dear editor:
CRIMINAL JUSTICE?

The person or persons involved in the attempt on the Pope's life and the assassination of Sadat are now cold in their graves having been given speedy justice by the countries where the atrocities occurred. In a matter of a few weeks the ordeal was over and justice was served.

Not in our country where we pride ourselves in fair justice under the law. In the Hinckley case the taxpayers spent several millions on a man bent on killing the President of the United States and anyone who got in the way.

Over a year later he has been found "insane" which means that, in time, he will be set free.

The jury was supposed to comprise of members of this man's PEERS — according to law. But — take a look at the jury who tried Hinckley. Two members have already said that the expert witnesses' testimony overwhelmed them and that they "went along" with the majority of the panel under pressure. Consider that the jury was NOT composed of Hinckley's peers. These unfortunate folks found themselves in a situation beyond their comprehension — so, they let this man go.

Selection of the same such jury in another case might have resulted in an innocent man being convicted in error.

The matter of the sanity plea is now being studied by the Justice Department. Let's hope that, in the end, this plea will be limited to those cases where it makes common sense. In the Hinckley case we have a good example of a miscarriage of justice.

Sense & Nonsense

U.S. Sen. Pete Domenici

For many years, federal jobs and dollars have been the backbone of New Mexico's economy.

More of our people are employed by the federal government than by anyone else. And New Mexico leads all other states in the amount of money we receive per capita ($1.72 for every dollar our citizens pay in federal taxes).

But therein lies a serious problem. Too much of our economy in New Mexico is based on the federal government. We rely too heavily on Uncle Sam to keep our economic head afloat.

I believe New Mexico must diversify its economy — and the time to start is immediately.

Otherwise, New Mexico will always face the risk that those federal jobs and funds could someday dry up — for whatever reason. We must be aware of the fact that national policy changes — disarmament, a broad reduction of the military or a congressionally mandated change in the kind of military forces we have could lead to a reduction in the number of facilities and a possible phasing-out of military bases across the country.

It would be nearsighted and foolish if we ignored that possibility. The answer lies in economic diversification. By having several major industries in a local community, the community remains fairly insulated from the ups and downs of the world marketplace.

This diversification, to a certain extent, has already begun in some communities. Las Cruces and Roswell have both begun attracting a variety of non-federal jobs.

But there are problems that still need to be solved if we hope to extend their lead.

Here are some steps I think must be taken to bring more private industry and funds to the Land of Enchantment:

— Consider changes in the tax laws when the incentives New Mexico offers are not competitive with neighboring states and when New Mexico's laws are punitive in comparison with other states.

— Broaden our financial base in the state, taking the chances to develop new and innovative industries and technologies.

— Improve our transportation system with better highways, rail service and intrastate airlines.

— Increase support for New Mexico's three doctoral universities, particularly in programs which directly impact on the state's economy.

— Continue development of a highly professional non-partisan and non-political approach to economic development through the state Department of Commerce and Industry.

— Consider innovative labor training programs.

— Encourage the involvement of New Mexico businesses in international trade.

To accomplish these things, we need leadership — not only from government officials but from business people themselves.

And we need a change in attitudes.

Unfortunately for New Mexico's economic development, there exists in some circles an anti-growth attitude — an "Albuquerque versus the rest of the state attitude." It's a lingering kind of frontier conservatism which hampers New Mexico's future.

Let me make one thing clear.

We want very much to keep our national laboratories, our missile range and our air bases. But at the same time, we must be aware that those federal programs may not be around forever.

New Mexico cannot afford to ignore that possibility, and New Mexico cannot afford to be unprepared if it should occur.

CANDIDATES IN SHIFTS

Now most New Mexico 1982 election-year activities can continue. The U. S. Supreme Court's 1984 "one-man, one-vote" ruling. Instead, lawmakers used a "votes-rust" formula to redraw the state House and Senate districts. The court threw out the new districts, saying they were unconstitutional.

Earlier this month, it appeared that there would be no June 1 primary and that all candidates would have to wait until the state was redistricted satisfactorily.

But nearly two dozen candidates, Democratic and Republican, appealed to the courts. They argued persuasively that a delayed primary would put an unreasonable burden on their campaigns.

The court agreed.

So voters will take on candidates in shifts this year. The first wave will include hopefuls for U. S. House and Senate seats, statewide and county offices. Voters then will face another primarily, probably early in the fall, if the Legislature can succeed in drawing up fair, constitutional Senate and House districts — on a one-man, one-vote basis. — Albuquerque Journal

PIRACY?

Our next door neighbors have a little girl. She's just as cute as she can be and she is extremely fond of cookies. Her mother and father must be starving her, because she never refuses a cookie from my wife or me. She reminds me of our granddaughter when she was that age.

Our neighbor washed out some of the baby's things the other day and hung them out to dry in the back yard.

Then she drove to the store for some milk, and while she was gone someone stole a little knitted baby shoe from the clothes line. You might say our neighbor's yard was looted and booty was taken. — Leo Sparks Silver City Daily Press

Editorial

An accounting to the last penny has been made on the $5 million for water improvements approved by Ruidoso voters in 1974.

Despite this fact, the question: "What about the dam we were supposed to get on Eagle Creek?" comes up in discussions of the bond issue to be decided July 6.

The question implies that something improper or wasteful was done with the money.

In fact, every cent of the $5 million, which grew to almost $6 million with interest earned, was spent on construction or study of water improvements.

These include the Alto Crest water treatment plant, one of the most modern in the country ($1.22 million); the five-million gallon water storage tank at Alto Crest ($.85 million); eight new wells, ($.56 million); and numerous other improvements to the water system.

Some of the people asking, "What about the dam on Eagle Creek?" are probably drinking water at their homes that was treated and stored at Alto Crest and carried to them through the Gavilan Canyon water main ($.255 million)—another improvement from the '74 bond issue.

Village officials have flatly stated that if the Grindstone Canyon dam cannot be built for some reason after the new bond issue is approved, this time the money will not be spent.

It will be a shame if the issue fails because of a dam that was never built.—TP

Reporter's Round

The American system of justice continues to take a beating.

When a Washington D.C. jury found John Hinckley innocent by reason of insanity Monday of shooting President Reagan and three other men, it opened the gates for other would-be "mentally unbalanced" individuals to possibly go the same route as Hinckley.

The innocent by reason of insanity plea, although seldom used, is an easy way for a rich man with plenty of legal resources to get off.

While there are undoubtedly some criminals who are definitely mentally unbalanced, many others have probably turned to the insanity plea as a way out of a jail sentence.

When I was in high school, the father of a friend of mine murdered his wife and got off because he claimed "temporary insanity."

That man had always been a cruel, insensitive individual and the "temporary insanity" plea was just a way to be excused for his capital offense.

Much had been made of in the Hinckley trial about the former Texas Tech University student's obsession with actress Jody Foster.

He wrote poems to Foster, telephoned her at Yale University and promised that he would do something in 1981 for the young actress.

However, just because a young man has an obsession with an actress isn't any reason to believe he is mentally ill. Just about all the heterosexual males in the United States have had some sort of private obsession about an actress sometime in their lives.

Of course, most men don't carry their obsession so far as to shoot the President of the United States and three other men.

That still doesn't mean Hinckley was insane. He probably was an extremely insecure man who, having been raised in an affluent home and given almost anything he wanted, felt like a failure when he was unable to adjust normally to the outside world.

Hinckley was a loner but so are lots of people.

He also had somewhat of a right-wing attitude. During the trial it was mentioned that he, in effect, felt that minorities were taking away the rights of the majority white population.

He's not the only person who feels that way. However, again, most of the other people who have similar views to Hinckley's do not go out and shoot people.

It's also ironic that all but one of the jurists were black. Hinckley may have had negative feelings about black people but that didn't prevent the jury from finding him innocent.

Hinckley acted fairly "normally" during the trial.

Of course, how a person may act during a trial is not necessarily a good indication of what his or her mental state is. Still, if a person was truly insane, he would not likely be able to control his behavior.

As it turns out, several members of the jury have said since the trial ended they felt Hinckley was somewhat disturbed but not necessarily mentally ill.

I don't blame the jury or the trial judge for the outcome of the trial. They had to go by the framework of the law and, in effect, almost had to prove that Hinckley was SANE.

That's an almost impossible situation to work with and it put the jury members under a great deal of mental stress.

There's probably a thin line between insanity and sanity. It's hard for some psychiatrists to determine who is insane and who isn't, so it would be almost impossible for a jury of laypersons to determine so.

If the President or any of the other three men who were injured had died, the outcry against the trial outcome would have undoubtedly been even greater than it was.

As it is, many people are calling for changes in the insanity defense. Some states have already modified it and it's possible that others will follow.

Hinckley could be released from the mental institution he has been assigned to in a couple of months if he's declared sane by the doctors there.

And there lies the biggest irony of all.

The prosecution attorneys who tried to convince the jury that Hinckley was sane may have to convince hospital authorities that he's insane in order to keep him in the hospital.

That's a disgrace to the entire American judicial system.

THE WORLD'S FAIR
Knoxville, Tennessee is the host city to the World's Fair this year: the first time ever that this event has been held in the Southeast. Some 11 million people are expected to visit, over the six-month course of the Fair.

Theme of the fair is energy. Many of the pavilions, sponsored by states, foreign countries and corporations, focus on this. For example, the Japan exhibit features robots; Korea's demonstrates a unique hot-floor heating system that can also be used for cooking; France exhibits a unique solar collector; and Hungary is showcasing that notorious energy-expenders, Rubik's Cube.

There's plenty of entertainment at the fair too. The Family Fun Fair is the amusement park, with rides, electronic games and plenty of snack food.

Big name performers to be headlined range from Japanese Kabuki Theatre to Bob Hope, from Debbie Boone to Big Bird. Magicians, mimes, jugglers and strolling minstrels will entertain all around the fair all summer long.

Booking overnight lodging in the immediate area is difficult, particularly in the high season (thru August), as many who have tried it on their own have found. We will be glad to help you find suitable and convenient accommodations for your World's Fair visit. Contact the travel experts at Ruidoso Travel, Pinetree Square, phone 257-7381.

BUILDING LOT DELUXE — In White Mountain Estates, Unit 4, this lot has much to offer. Good assumable loan, paving and city utilities available, with natural gas nearby.

SEEING IS BELIEVING — Extremely well-built 3 bedroom, 2 bath home is a doll house! Located on a corner lot in Country Club Estates, it enjoys a cedar fenced back yard and covered back deck that beckons you out to enjoy our Ruidoso weather. Lots of nice touches including stained glass windows and door fronts in the kitchen make this so inviting and comfortable. I could go on and on, but you should see it yourself. Please call for an appointment.

ADOBE TODAY? IT CAN BE YOURS — Brand new with 1,800 sq. ft. of lazy country living. Ruidoso River borders your front yard, large covered front patio is just the right touch. Owners will finance with 50% down payment, and no interest on the remainder for five years. Now where do you think you can beat that?!

SPACIOUS HOME ON 2 1/2 ACRES — Cathedral ceiling in the living area, open floor plan is so very comfortable. Bigger than you'd first think, there are two bedrooms, and two baths, plus attached double carport and back deck. Acreage is fenced and ready for those horses of yours.

MOBILE HOME LOTS — We have several, some with trees, some without, some with assumable loans, some without. Let us help you find what you're looking for.

NEARLY AN ACRE — In town, zoned for mobile homes if that's what you need. Located on a cul-de-sac so it is ever so quiet, National Forest boundary common with your north lot line. Good owner financing available to the right purchaser.

HOUSE ON THREE LOTS — This place just makes you want to kick off those darn shoes and prop up your feet. Quiet area off the Upper Canyon is perfect for getting away from it all. You can play pool on the regulation sized billiard table in the game room. Furnished down to the coffee pot, you can enjoy a fine home, quality furnishings, and tranquility all in one grand place. Appointments only please.

WATCH YOUR STEP — or you may cool your feet in the creek behind this log house. It has 3 bedrooms, 1 1/2 baths, and is close to shopping. Completely furnished down to the linens.

ONE OF THE BENEFITS — of writing the ad is that I can put my listings in twice if I want to. You really should allow yourself to view that Country Club place — my description doesn't really do it justice. I forgot to mention that assumable loan only carries interest at 7 1/2%, like the icing on the cake. You'll love it.

Easy Living

Announces a Major Breakthrough in Log Home Technology.
LOG LOCK Dovetail System (Pat. Pend.)

'LOG LOCK' DOVETAIL SYSTEM PAT. PENDING
Log Lock Dovetail System is the most innovative method offered by any log home manufacturer. This system will eliminate gaps appearing in the corners and butt joints due to shrinkage and with minimal effort provide true walls. This is truly the most solid of any log homes and can withstand more wind, earthquakes, and floods than any home on the market today. If the home is moved by any of the above disasters, it will move in one piece.

All logs are perfectly matched inside of home with no protruding butt joints or shelves.

By J.T. YURKO

The original "Star Trek" movie had the distinction of being one of the most eagerly awaited films in the history of cinema. Millions of Trekkies across the country, and, indeed, around the world, anxiously sat in anticipation of the recharging of the starship Enterprise and new voyages that would "boldly go where no man has gone before..."

Although that film went on to become one of the top money-makers for the studio and set records for a first week's box-office grosses, attendance soon dropped off sharply. The legend of "Star Trek" had warp drive, but the film itself barely ran on impulse power.

"Star Trek: The Wrath of Khan" gets the legend back on course. Essentially a longer TV episode, this film forsakes the Zen philosophy of the first film for some phaser-firing fun and adventure.

As any Trekkie worth his weight in Tribbles already knows, this story follows from the "Space Seed" episode of the TV series in which Ricardo Montalban plays a man from the 1990s frozen in space. He awakens 300 years later to do battle with Kirk. Kirk easily wins the battle, of course, but in the movie, it takes two hours and some blazing special effects until the wrath of Khan is squelched.

"Star Trek II" goes into greater detail on the background of its main characters. We learn that Kirk in his younger days met up with a beautiful young scientist and together they cooked up more than just memories.

If you have been following the rumors about the film and whether Spock dies or not, you shall not learn that information here, and you should punch anyone who does tell you. What's troublesome about the ending is that it doesn't quite seem to follow from the rest of the film. Aside from that point and a few embarrassing lines of dialogue, "Star Trek" fans will be more than happy to let the light of a projector beam them aboard the Enterprise.

Movie Nostalgia

By Marie Landlorio

Barbara Parkins, Sharon Tate and Patty Duke are pictured here in their roles as three women caught up in the heady world of show business. Is it glamorous? Yes! Is it exciting? Yes!

Is it dangerous? Of course it is... at least according to Jacqueline Susann's blockbuster novel "Valley of the Dolls."

Although the 1967 film version was panned by the critics, it did tremendous business at the box office. This lurid version of the pitfalls of fame appealed to moviegoers and is No. 24 on the all-time domestic box-office list.

Question: Can you name the characters these three actresses played in the film?

Answers: Anne Wells (Parkins), Jennifer North (Tate) and Neely O'Hara (Duke)

MEDIA MONITOR

By STEVE K. WALZ

Old favorites They are a-changin'

Change is an inevitable fact of life in most industries. Hollywood is no different. TV series that have been on the network schedules for years also undergo facelifts in order to meet their new competition head-on.

What's in store for some of video's longest running shows? The three major networks have so far announced the following changes:

ABC — "Laverne and Shirley" — Both women will be married by the time the regular season ends in May. This plotline was accelerated by Cindy Williams' real-life marriage and pregnancy.

"Happy Days" — Anson Williams' Potsie character will be gradually phased out, while another Cunningham relative will take root in their Milwaukee household. Fonzie (Henry Winkler) will finally meet the woman of his dreams. But the producers aren't sure if they'll marry him off just yet.

"Dynasty" — The serial will add at least three more roles along with some blockbuster guest stars.

NBC — "Little House: A New Beginning" — Michael Landon and Karen Grassle will bow out in favor of Melissa Gilbert, who plays their daughter. One new cast member is Landon's daughter, Leslie, who will portray Walnut Grove's new teacher.

Henry Winkler

"Taxi" — In the sitcom, which is switching from ABC, Carol Kane will become a regular as Latka Gravas' (Andy Kaufman) wife Simka.

"Facts of Life" — The girls will be going to Paris on a school trip and will bring back an English exchange student.

"Fame" — The troupe will add a young, maverick drama teacher.

"CHiPs" — Erik Estrada will get a new sidekick.

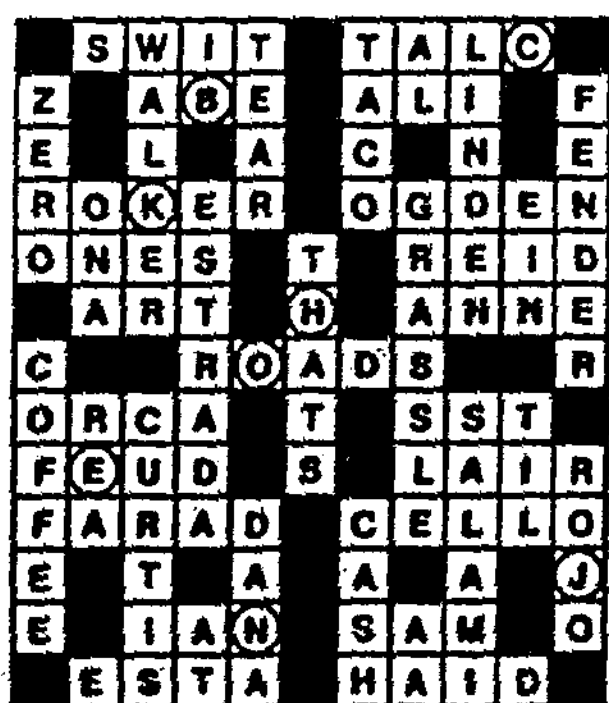

CBS — "Dallas" — Producers have discussed at least two more cast additions.

"Knots Landing" — The "Dallas" spinoff adds Stephen Macht and Kevin Dobson to the cast.

"Dukes of Hazzard" — If contractual problems with Tom Wopat, John Schneider and James Best aren't rectified, changes will be forthcoming.
