Tuesday decision day on water improvement program

by DAVID SHEPPARD
Staff Writer

Tomorrow is the day of decision. The $8 million capital improvements water bond election is upon Ruidoso, and, after months of studies, a succession of meetings and intense debate both in the public scope and in local coffeehouses, Ruidosoans will officially voice their opinion at the polls.

What are some of the opinions? In an effort to record the pulse of the community on this issue, The News asked several business and civic leaders last week to comment on the water bond proposal.

As evidenced by the comments of many of the persons who were contacted, the bond election is clearly seen as an issue of growth.

Richard Sandoval, manager of Gibson's Discount Center, Chamber of Commerce director and past president of the Chamber, said he sees "no other alternative for the town," but to pass the improvements program.

"We obviously can't stop building," Sandoval said. "It's impossible to impose a moratorium; we can't stop people from moving to Ruidoso."

Sandoval, who oversees the operation of one of Ruidoso's largest businesses with 35 employees, feels it would not be fair to limit housing opportunities.

"We do not have the authority to discriminate against people wanting to move into Ruidoso," he said.

But local Realtor James Taylor, who sides with Mayor George White in opposing the issue because the village council will not impose a moratorium on annexation, said he is "against it because planning is not correlated with development."

"If you could get four city councilmen to agree to restrict any more annexation for a term, I would be for it 100 percent," he added.

Ken Moore, executive administrator of Ruidoso-Hondo Valley Hospital and a member of the Parks and Recreation Commission, believes Ruidoso "should capitalize on all viable alternatives" for acquiring additional means of storing water.

"It (the present proposal) seems like a viable alternative," he commented. "If we don't get off dead center, we're going to get rationed."

"I don't particularly like brown water," he added, noting that last summer, during periods of high demand, murky water flowed out of village water taps.

Jerry Bigham, owner of the Cousins' complex and a member of the village Personnel Board, commented on the prediction by the village council that, if the issue fails, Ruidosoans will pay much higher water bills to finance a new treatment plant and storage tank.

"A vote against it is a vote for higher water rates," he said, "and the rates will primarily be borne by the year-round people here."

He added that he feels the improvements project is an "absolute necessity if we're going to see any kind of continued growth."

But Ovella Estes, who works for Prestige Real Estate, feels the council has overstepped a "fine line of ethics" by using "scare tactics" to tell residents their water bills will double or triple if the bond issue fails.

Also, Estes said she is "suspicious" of the fact the dam site was switched from Flume Canyon to Grindstone Canyon last year. She added that she had "no proof to substantiate" her suspicion, but she said she would like to know who "padded their pockets" from the change in location.

Safeway manager Carl Franzer, who is in charge of 65 employees, feels "we need it (extra storage) badly" to maintain a thriving community.

CAPTURES RAINBOW DERBY SUNDAY

Cute Investment cashes in

CUTE INVESTMENT slipped on the first jump, recovered her balance, and roared down the stretch to win Sunday's 18th staging of the Rainbow Quarter Horse Derby at Ruidoso Downs.

The split-second heroics on the final jump translated into a financial windfall for the filly. She collected one of the year's fattest victory purses—$232,445.

The gross purse of the Rainbow Derby (including a consolation race and a five-grand breeding award) reached a thumping $668,620.

The amount dished out in Sunday's finale was $567,167.

Cute Investment was guided down the 440-yard straightaway by Jimmie Hunt at just over 3-1 in the 10-head field. Cute Investment is the property of Fletcher J. Huskey and Sam Womack of Poolville, Texas. The trainer is W. Larry Stevens.

Summer Encounter, a 5-1 shot handled by Jacky Martin, appeared to have the Rainbow Derby sewed up as she flashed over the final yards, but the filly was nosed out just as she reached the wire.

Summer Encounter, the property of Jerry Wells of Purcell, Oklahoma, collected a generous $106,260. She finished only a head in front of the persistent 20-1 shot, Tarbug.

The latter, owned by Betty Lou Shebester of Wynnewood, Oklahoma, finished an extremely game third under Larry Byers and banked $54,557.

The large Independence Day crowd was unable to decide on a solid favorite in the Derby field. The honor eventually went to Cute Investment. The second choice was Rebel at 4-1, but the filly broke a bit slowly, was involved in some squeezing and nudging, and never established a foothold. She ran sixth.

Cute Investment, who came out of the Rainbow with career earnings of $314,951 (including almost $80,000 as a two-year-old last year), handed out mutual payoffs of $8.20, $4 and $4.40. The filly, who turned her third outing of the year into an awesome financial strike, sliced through a headwind to stop the clock in 21.94 seconds—well under the top qualifying time of 22.23, shared jointly by Hempens Chicagay and Bojaes Magic.

Cute Investment, by Good Investment out of My Cutie, now looms as a major candidate for the upcoming $1 million All-American Derby, the third and final leg of the Triple Crown for three-year-olds.

DOUBLE B. EXPRESS, an iron-legged gelding with a long history of stakes success in the Southwest, swatted his foes into submission in Saturday's renewal of the Governor's Handicap at Ruidoso Downs.

Double B. Express, a seven-year-old, ran like a sprightly youngster while booming into the lead at the head of the lane in the six and one half furlong sprint which offered a total jackpot of $13,525.

Captense, a 4-1 shot who'd snared the lead shortly after the break, was in no condition to resist when Double B. Express suddenly shifted into high gear. Jiltaloom, the public choice at just over 2-1, tried vainly to get a foothold at the turn for home. But the roan colt tossed in the towel without much argument and drifted into a third-place finish.

Double B. Express, well-ridden by youthful Casey Lambert of El Paso, Texas hit the wire with a one and one half length lead and stopped the clock in 1:20 2/5 seconds—which was only three fractions short of the gelding's own seasonal record.

WISE III, packing odds of over 19-1, loomed up on the far outside and stuck his head in front as he hit the finish of Friday's $96,962 Rainbow Derby Consolation at Ruidoso Downs.

The colt was ridden by Jerry Burgess for Charles Shofner of Huntington, Texas.

Following the late defection of Triple Crown champ Special Effort (who had the top qualifying time for the Consolation), Go For Bugs was selected for the role of favorite.

"Bugs" got away at 6-5 but carried considerable show money. The colt broke in third place, appeared to be laboring all the way, then was overwhelmed on the final strides. He finished fourth, which accounted for the overblasted show payoffs.

Wise Hi collected $20,501 to go with his previous '82 money line of $2,518. The win was his second of the year in four tries.

Outlegged in the early going, Wise Hi, who broke from the number nine slot, was well out of the running in the early portions of the 440-yard scramble. He approached the leaders in the last 10 yards or so, and nailed the win — just barely — on the last thrust.

Mayor White reiterates stand is against annexations

by DAVID SHEPPARD
Staff Writer

Ruidoso mayor George White said Friday he would support the water improvements program to be voted on Tuesday, "if and when (the council) had placed a moratorium" on annexation of property to the village.

White made the statement during a meeting Friday night at the Ruidoso Public Library before a group of about 30 people who gathered to ask the mayor about his reasons for opposing the $8 million water program.

If the program passes, the village will sell bonds to finance construction of a 1,000 acre feet reservoir in Grindstone Canyon, plus transmission lines, a water treatment plant and a five million-gallon storage tank. The mayor acknowledged that he previously supported the water improvements program when he voted for the plan in a March 1 trustees' (council) motion that called for an election in April on the program.

The April election was postponed because, as White mentioned, the governing body decided that the original plan—to raise the $8 million solely in General Obligation (GO) bonds that would be retired with property taxes—would not be approved by voters.

The council subsequently devised a funding method based on a state law that allows municipalities to increase the gross receipts tax one percent, with the revenues applied to revenue bonds. The bonds can only apply to three-quarters of the costs of improving the water system, according to the law. The council proposes to raise the remaining one-quarter—or $2 million—by selling GO bonds.

White indicated he would still support the program, if the council would "put in a motion tomorrow" a moratorium on annexations.

"I still stand," White added, "that by 1984 we will need more water."

"It isn't a question of needing more water, it's a question of expanding real estate development. I'm opposed to allowing new development that would make a hardship on people who live here ... on standpoint of paying more taxes," he said.

White agreed with findings by Boyle Engineering and the water board that

District Court to rule on petition on Racquet Club hotel site question

by BARBY GRANT
Staff Writer

A motion to dismiss a petition seeking reversal of the April 13 decision of the Ruidoso governing body to rezone the Sierra Swim and Racquet Club tract from residential to commercial for construction of a Hilton Inn will be heard in District Court at 1 p.m. Tuesday.

B. F. and Ann Phillips and Jerry and Myrna Rheudasil filed the petition May 12 against the village mayor, trustees (councilmen), planning and zoning enforcement officer and clerk. The petition is for review of amendment to zoning ordinance and request for writ of certiorari (a writ from a higher to a lower court requesting a transcript of the proceedings of a case for review).

Santa Fe attorney Frank Coppler, representing the village in the case, several weeks ago submitted a motion to dismiss the petition on the grounds that the appellants do not have a legal standing to appeal the case.

"The parties appealing must show that they are going to be injured (by the decision)," Coppler explained. "On the record of the evidence made before the board of trustees, we contend there was no evidence proving their property would be injured, in terms of loss of value."

The case will be heard by Judge George Zimmerman at Carrizozo.

The case was first presented to the Ruidoso Planning and Zoning Commission (P&Z) February 1 during a two-hour session of pro and con arguments. P&Z first voted to zone the then unzoned 7.93 acre tract of land R-2 (multi-family dwellings).

Developer Jim O'Leary's request for C-1 (commercial) zoning of the property to allow construction of a Hilton Inn was then approved following discussion by audience members. The C-1 zoning was approved with the conditions that the proposed hotel be a Hilton and that construction begin within one year.

Those opposed to the zoning change appealed the P&Z decision to the board of trustees, who conducted a quasi-judicial hearing on the case March 22.

More than six hours of argument were presented by attorneys Gary Mitchell of Ruidoso and Stuart Shanor of Roswell, representing property owners opposed to the C-1 zoning, and Charles Hawthorne, attorney for owners of the Sierra Swim and Racquet Club.

Arguments voiced by opponents of the commercial zoning include the danger of potential traffic congestion near the White Mountain Schools; the detriment of hotel lights and signs to the surrounding residential area; and the potential use of the property for undesirable commercial ventures if the Hilton is not constructed.

Attorneys for the appellants also argued that property values would decrease for the surrounding residential areas if a hotel were built and that the rezoning decision was an example of spot zoning and contract zoning, both illegal.

Proponents of the C-1 zoning argued that the Hilton Inn would benefit the village by providing a recreation and convention center complex, jobs and taxes.

A second argument presented by the "defense" was that the original residential zoning was a mistake. The racquet club has always been run as a commercial enterprise, Hawthorne pointed out, and the 1976 comprehensive plan of the village projected the tract as commercial.

It was also argued that the number of condominium units constructed in the area since 1976 and the high percentage of them that are rental units changed the area substantially enough to warrant a zoning change.

The Board of Trustees announced at its April 13 meeting its decision to uphold P&Z's zoning of the Sierra Swim and Racquet Club site C-1. The conditions that only a Hilton be built and that construction begin within one year were removed from the ordinance, however.

A petition was then filed with District Court by the Phillips' and Rheudasils, owners of property near the tract of land in question.

Jim O'Leary, the developer who plans to construct the Hilton Inn at the racquet club site, told The News Friday that his plans have not changed. He said construction plans now hinge on the outcome of tomorrow's court hearing.

O'Leary said he will submit an appeal if the judge decides in favor of the petitioners.

Only preliminary drawings of the proposed hotel have been prepared at this point, O'Leary said. Construction is not scheduled to begin until after three or four months of architectural planning.

"We need it just to keep us all here, and also for the future of Ruidoso," Franzer said. "We're definitely in trouble if it doesn't pass," he declared. Franzer added that he has no reservations about the details of the bond election. "I think they (the village) have to do it the way they are," he said.

Ed Hyman, owner of KRRR radio station and chairman of the Lodgers' Tax Committee, believes approving the bond issue "is absolutely essential."

Hyman also commented on the findings by the village and by hired engineers that Ruidoso has 730 acre feet per year of unutilized water because the village lacks the facilities to store the water.

"We have additional water. The dollars of the thing is the solution; we'd better proceed with it," he said.

Herb Brunell, owner of Brunell's department store and Timber Trail Photography, thinks the proposed means of financing—a one percent sales tax to retire $6 million in revenue bonds, and a property tax hike for retirement of $2 million in General Obligation bonds—is "the most reasonable" method to fund the project.

Village Hardware owner and member of the Retail Merchants Committee Larry Langford said he believes "we need it very desperately."

Langford commented on the 1974 water bond issue that is clouding the present proposal. The dam that was supposed to be constructed from the bonds never was built. Although the money went into improvements of the system, many Ruidosoans are now suspicious of another water bond.

"Too much has been said about the old project," he believes. "But the money has been accounted for. I hope the public doesn't use that against this bond."

"We can't grow without water. People who don't own a business don't think it's needed, but it's extremely important to everyone in this community. You've got to make your mind up and go with the best you've got to go with."

"You're cutting your nose off to spite your face if you don't approve it. If business fails, then the whole town dries up."

Cowboy Stokes, owner of the Ranch House Restaurant, said: "Ever what it takes, ever what it costs, we've got to have water to keep the town going."

Stokes submits that Ruidoso has "no alternatives" than to go with the proposal, and he said he would "go with whatever it takes to get a reservoir full to have water."

Wayne Rodgers, who recently became president of Security Bank, said, "From talking to a lot of people, it appears the village needs an additional water supply. This appears to be the most logical approach."

Rodgers, referring to the recently announced water shortage in Ruidoso Downs, noted that "the situation in Ruidoso Downs tells me the situation is becoming critical here."

Ed Jungbluth, executive director of the Chamber of Commerce, also points out the value of maintaining a sufficient water supply in this arid region.

"Look at Ruidoso Downs," Jungbluth suggests. "Mayor (J. C.) Day just declared a water shortage. How would people like army trucks parked on Sudderth (to distribute water)?" he asked.

Jungbluth added that Ruidoso needs water regardless whether the village "expands anymore or not." He also said he would "reiterate the endorsement" of the Chamber Board of Directors for the water improvements program.

"I've yet to find anybody in the business community in opposition," he added.

Lamar Osborn, senior vice president of Ruidoso State Bank, feels the proposed project is "better than doing nothing" regarding a search for new water storage.

"I feel something definitely has to be done," he said. "This is a positive rather than a negative approach. I don't hear of any alternatives."

Ruidoso Police Chief Richard Swenor said he has "watched presentations on three different occasions" on the bond issue, and he has "no qualms whatsoever" about favoring the proposal.

"Whether we grow or don't grow isn't the issue," Swenor said. "We need the water."

School board president Dave Parks of Pertee Parks and Associates reiterated Swenor's comments. "We're trying to catch up to where we are now," he said. "There's no place for negotiation."

"It's not going to cost anybody anything," he feels. "It's a very equitable way of spreading the costs—through gross receipts tax rather than through property tax."

"There just are no alternatives. There may be better solutions, but we could spend 10 years to find the perfect one."

John Schuller, chairman of the Planning and Zoning Commission and the reservoir study committee, feels the "repercussion will be quite severe" if the issue fails.

He added that, in business affairs, "you weigh the plus quantities and weigh the minus quantities. The plus in building this is so much greater than the minus quantities. There is no question in my mind that we've got to go along with it."

Gail Adams, owner of Sonny's Bar-B-Q & Steak Pit, is "all for it" and thinks Ruidoso should "get on with it."

"They've studied it enough," he added. "The city needs growth to continue, and those who don't think so, I suggest retire to Sun City, Arizona."

"I'm definitely for it," said Grant Gist, vice president at Pioneer Savings and Trust. "I think it's very necessary—for this town to stay alive I think it's necessary."

Paul Crown of Cablevision of Lincoln County also flatly stated his support of the proposal.

"I'm very much for it," said Crown. He noted that a survey he conducted shows a projected growth rate in his business of 17.3 percent.

"I agree something needs to be done to curtail growth," Crown stated. "(But) I'd hate to see Ruidoso come to a standstill because of water."

He explained that he would like to see growth slowed down, and that his business has raised the cable TV rate for individual condominiums to the same rate as it is for houses—something he would like the village to do with water rates.

John Winniford of Lela Easter Real Estate indicated that he would need to study the matter more fully. He stated that the public should have the right to use the lake that will be created by building a dam, however.

"I definitely think we need the water," said Winniford. "My main thing is—that taxpayers have the use of the facility because the taxpayers are paying for it."

"I really don't see how in the world we can afford to turn this down," was the comment of Helen Gable Reeves of A Place in the Sun boutique. Reeves stated that whether one is for growth or against growth, the village needs the water for the people who live here now.

She added that she feels the financing method for the program is the least expensive way to pay for it. "I certainly urge everybody to get out and vote," said Reeves. "The people against it are going to vote."

Assistant village manager Frank Potter alluded to the water the village has rights to through effluent credit but is not presently using.

"It's quite evident that if we don't expand the available water to its fullest extent, we'll be regretting it in the future," said Potter. "It's there for the taking—if we don't take it it's our own fault."

"I'm in favor of it," said local attorney Sharon Stidley Mitchell. She said the improvements program seems "a reasonable attempt to solve part of our water problems."

Mitchell also noted that the program is "a way that can be commenced quickly so we'll get some earlier relief."

Village manager Jim Hine was another who indicated that the village's need for water is not strictly a growth issue.

"I think that in the village of Ruidoso, regardless of whether we continue to have growth or not—we need to continue to try to resolve our water problems."

"One only has to look at the flow of the river today and see that waters are not always here when needed," Hine concluded.

Ruidoso could not depend on Eagle Creek as a reliable source of water for future needs.

"We know that Eagle Creek cannot furnish our water needs—period," he said. "It does not produce that kind of water—so we've got to go to other sources."

Recognizing that Ruidoso is not utilizing 730 acre feet a year—or 238 million gallons—of effluent credit rights on the Rio Ruidoso, White added that he believes the village should make use of the water.

"The question is, where do we store it?" he asked.

He noted one of Boyle's proposals in February 1981 was to build a dam in Flume Canyon to capture Rio Ruidoso water. But in September 1981, the proposed site was changed from Flume Canyon to Grindstone.

Questioning the change, White said: "I have not been satisfied with Grindstone Canyon as a spot."

When he voted for the election in March, however, Grindstone was the chosen site.

In response to several questions on the change of sites, water board member C. Newton Page explained why Grindstone Canyon was selected as the reservoir location.

Page reiterated findings that, based on the growth rate of 7.3 percent, Ruidoso will be "in terrible shape by the end of 1984" if the village has no additional means to store water it is now losing downstream.

Page said, in the year and a half he has been on the water board, "every little place there was to dam up water" was looked at.

He said Perk Canyon was "thrown out" because it is on the north side of the Upper Canyon, which involved difficult access, and it required pumping from the Rio Ruidoso to fill.

Two sites in Flume Canyon, both of which are in the National Forest, were also considered by Boyle, Page said.

"They thought it was the easiest way to go, until they saw all the problems with government agencies," he added.

Page said, the "only logical thing to do," considering the length of time the village was likely to be tied up trying to acquire public land, was to look for a privately owned parcel.

"We need a dam to store effluent water credit," he suggested. "There are no obstacles if it's put on private land."

Page noted that soil analyses have shown Grindstone Canyon to be stable and, after an access road is established, there will be "an ease of getting materials" into the construction site.

He added that he learned at a recent meeting with State Engineer Steve Reynolds that the state will not obstruct construction of the dam, as long as it is built according to state regulations and federal design standards.

Page added that the other sites considered for a dam involved pumping from the Rio Ruidoso. The proposed Grindstone reservoir can be filled by gravity flow.

Page also pointed out that the proposed method of financing the project "is the only legal solution we have" of getting non-residents to help pay for the construction.

Regarding the property tax increase, Page indicated the tax would not be much of a burden to property owners.

He noted that Ruidosoans paid $28 per $1,000 in assessed valuation in 1977, while, in 1981, the mill levy dropped to $22 per $1,000 because total assessed valuation increased by $19 million.

If the issue passes, GO bond payments are expected to be $300,000 per year. Based on a present assessed valuation of about $50 million, the mill levy would increase by $6 per $1,000 to pay the debt. But councilmen predict the increase to be lower—about $4 per $1,000—because of an increase in total property assessments by the time the GO bonds are sold in 1984.

Page said a $6 increase would be only two dollars more per thousand than the 1977 level. "If you could have lived with it in '77, you certainly can today," he suggested.

If the bond issue fails, Mayor White indicated "the only way out" to store more water, would be to "build a treatment plant ... and a couple five million-gallon storage tanks." He added that would enable Ruidoso to "get by for many years."

Page disagreed. He noted that during dry periods of the year, Ruidoso would not be able to treat and store water directly out of the Rio Ruidoso. Therefore, he indicated, there is need for a reservoir, so the water department can "suck out of the lake" when the river is low.

ONE OF THE FLOAT WINNERS in Saturday's Mescalero Celebration Parade was this Bureau of Indian Affairs float. Appropriately, the float displays the potential of Apache women in the traditional and modern sense by showing the transition from the puberty rites to professional federal worker.

P & Z meets Wednesday morning

The Ruidoso Planning and Zoning Commission (P&Z) will reconsider the preliminary plat to Grindstone Canyon Estates, Unit 1, at its regular meeting Wednesday, July 7.

The first phase of the project, which is proposed by Grindstone developer Don Dorman, was tabled at the June meeting of P&Z. Commission members voiced concern at the time that the planned layout of streets in the development may conflict with water line easements for the proposed Grindstone Canyon reservoir, which would be surrounded by the 632-unit development.

The 50-acre reservoir site, which includes land for the planned reservoir, treatment plant, water storage tank and transmission lines, is located on the 300 acres that Dorman plans to develop. The village council voted to condemn land for the water project.

Other items to be considered at the 9:30 a.m. meeting at the village administrative center are:

- Request from Clay Adams for a front lot line variance of 10 feet on Tract 3, White Fir Subdivision.
- Request from Alma Russell on a petition for vacation of right-of-way on Alamogordo Street, Lots 5, 6 and 7, Block C, Ruidoso Springs.
- Public hearing on a request from R. C. Buckner for rezoning from R-1 (single family dwellings) to C-1 (light commercial), Lots 1 and 2, Block 2, in Paradise Canyon.
- Request from Doy Christian for a rear lot line variance of 10 feet on Lot 5, Block 3, in Country Club Estates.
- Request from Jack Yates for a front lot line variance of 7.5 feet on Lot 3, Block 5, in Paradise Canyon.
- Replat of Lots 13 and 14, replat of Block I, K, and M, Middle Cedar Subdivision (outside village limits) for Otis Pearson.
- Final plat of A Touch of Texas condominium project at the Park Motel site located northeast of Green Meadows Addition.

- tion) for Stinson Construction Company.
- Plat of Chipmunk Avenue, Bingo Street, Forrest Lane and a part of Tract H for Ruidoso Land Company and the Village of Ruidoso.
- Replat of Eagle Creek West Condominiums for Eagle Creek West Incorporated.
- Final plat of Unit 4, Del Norte Addition for Alex Adams.
- Petition for exchange from Bill Hirschfeld for 30 feet right-of-way for property upon which road actually exists on Lot 1, Tract Q, Palmer Gateway.
- Replat of E/2, Lot 35 and all of Lot 34, White Fir Subdivision for Mike Callahan.

Downs P & Z to meet

The Ruidoso Downs Planning and Zoning Commission will meet Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at the municipal building.

Motorcycle Festival tying loose ends

WILL TURBOW
Staff Writer

"It's just a matter of getting loose ends tied down," said Ruidoso Business Association (RBA) president Lawrence Hill Thursday about the RBA sponsored Ruidoso Motorcycle Festival scheduled for September 29 through October 2.

One of those "loose ends," Hill mentioned, includes a letter relieving the Village of Ruidoso from all liabilities before the village levels the 12-acre site between the Holiday Inn and the Villa Inn for RBA.

Jim O'Leary, owner of a parcel of the land, previously told RBA he would write a letter release, Hill pointed out.

When asked by The News Friday

whether he had written the letter and whether he will, O'Leary responded, "No, I haven't ... I can take care of that, yes."

While RBA has been waiting for a letter from O'Leary, association leaders have been discussing another location for the fall motorcycle rally, Hill said. He stated he was not prepared to reveal RBA's plans to the public yet.

Hill also stated that he contacted the American Motorcycle Association regarding the RBA check sent to AMA along with RBA's application for AMA sanctioning. Hill requested the check be returned to RBA since the local festival was not to be sanctioned, but added that AMA officials reported they couldn't find the check.

Also, the Lea County Roadriders are highly disturbed about AMA's refusal to sanction the Ruidoso rally and will soon return their AMA membership cards, reported Hill. The Hobbs club has been charter AMA members for over 30 years.

RBA secretary Fran Smeal reported to Hill that 50 vendors have definitely committed themselves to the first annual Ruidoso Motorcycle Festival.

RBA treasurer Connie Brown reported that $657.28 is in the bank account from pre-registration forms already received in the mail.

Commented RBA member Dennis Alward, "In a month that will be doubled ... mark my words."

Ranchmen Camp Meeting begins July 14

The annual Ranchmen's Camp Meeting will be on Nogal Mesa from July 14 through July 18.

The whole family is invited for an entertaining and inspiring four days of camping, chuckwagon meals, beautiful singing, heart-stirring preaching, bonfires and Western hospitality at its best, organizers announced.

The positive aspects of goodness and American freedom, toward revitalization of faith to meet problems, will be stressed in the meeting.

"In God We Trust" is the emblem for all Americans, the announcement stated. The interdenominational encampment is a tradition going back more than four decades, and it has not changed its overall aims of inspiring participants to a better way of life.

Opening services will be Wednesday evening, July 14, after a chuckwagon meal. The event will continue through Sunday evening. Preachers will be the Reverend Wayne Stockwell, who previously preached for a Camp Meeting; and the Reverend Randy Steele, assistant manager. Paul Biggs and John Walker will be in charge of music, accompanied by Jane Shafer. Volunteers comprise the choir.

Officers are Rick and Randy Steele, managers, plus LaMoine and Opal Peters, Wesley Lindsey, Scott and Bob Shafer, Walt Wilson and Johnson Stearns.

A memorial service for those who passed away during the year will be Saturday afternoon under the direction of Chloe Peters and Glenda Armstrong. Prayer Tree gatherings for men are every afternoon, and there will be group meetings for women and children. The small fry can be cared for in the kiddie corral. Hayrides, watermelon bunts and games are planned for teenagers. A bonfire closes each day.

For those attending the first time, free camping space is available, if you participate in the services. Children must be sponsored or accompanied by adults. No dogs are allowed. Water, electricity and restroom are provided, but campers must bring their own camping gear. Expenses for meals are defrayed by free-will donations. All persons are asked to register at the registration booth.

There will be shelter for the dining halls and tabernacle.

If tabernacle is not possible, everyone is welcome to attend daily services. Meals are served at 6 to 8 a.m., 12:30 p.m. and 6:30 p.m. Tabernacle services are at 11 a.m., 3 p.m., and 8 p.m. Group prayer meetings are at 5 p.m.

To reach Nogal Mesa, take the Lincoln National Forest road at the sign turning off U. S. 380 about five miles west of Capitán and 15 miles east of Carrizozo; or by the road turning off state Highway 37 past Nogal Lake.

Contact Johnson Stearns at Citizens State Bank, Carrizozo, New Mexico 88301 for further information. No reservations are necessary.

A registered nurse, a few posted simple rules and general good will promise to make Camp Meeting a unique summer experience, organizers conclude.

Around Sports with Gary Brown

The rich get richer and the poor get poorer, particularly in the National Basketball Association (NBA).

That's what seems to be happening after the NBA college draft last week. NBA champion Los Angeles got the first pick through a trade with Cleveland and a coin flip with San Diego and picked North Carolina's All-American forward James Worthy.

Worthy isn't a "franchise builder." Usually only seven-foot centers are.

However, the Lakers don't need a "franchise builder." They already have a great deal of depth behind their outstanding starting lineup and they don't have any apparent weakness.

This year's college draft was not the greatest ever, what with 7-4 Ralph Sampson of Virginia a junior and 7-0 Pat Ewing of Georgetown only a freshman.

Sampson and Ewing were by far the best big men in the collegiate ranks this past season, the type of players that can make a team an instant title contender.

However, there were very few good big men in this year's draft so the weaker NBA teams really didn't get much of a chance to make contenders out of themselves.

Oh, some marginal teams like Golden State and Chicago did well. Both of these clubs picked outstanding guards in the first round.

Golden State chose Lester Connors, Oregon State's excellent defensive-oriented guard. Connors can also shoot. He could help the Warriors make the playoffs for the first time in six seasons.

Chicago picked Quinton Daily of San Francisco. Daily is a run-and-gun guard who should help make the Bulls more aggressive on offense.

Still, neither of these teams can be called top title contenders because of their draft picks.

If a team is solid everywhere else in the lineup, an outstanding guard can be the missing link to the championship. But the Warriors and Bulls have other weaknesses which probably prevent them from becoming top-level contenders in the next couple of years.

They might make the playoffs next season. However, in the NBA's inflated playoff setup, a mediocre team can make it to the first round of the playoffs.

It looks like the Lakers, Philadelphia and Boston will again be the dominant teams in the NBA next season.

The 1983 draft, however, could make a big difference in the 1984 season. Sampson will be available and he could make all the difference in the world for a have-not team.

The team that drafts Sampson in 1983 will probably be the first team to pick in the draft, usually the worst team in the league.

Los Angeles might try to trade for the first pick again next season. The Lakers need a young center to take over when Kareem Abdul Jabbar retires.

But the NBA can't afford to have a championship or top-level team get the first pick again. That's not exactly the best way to achieve competitive parity in the league.

Oops. It seems I made a mistake in a picture outline of the Ruidoso Little League All-Stars in last Thursday's edition of The News.

I referred to one member of the All-Stars as Aaron Mitchell, when the boy's actual name is Aaron Bishop. I had his name right in the story about the Little League All-Stars but the mistake came in the photo outline.

Sorry about that Aaron. Go, All-Stars, win the district championship.

HEADS FOR EUROPE SOON

Moffat pleased with youth soccer camp

The third annual Bobby Moffat Gola Soccer Camp at White Mountain Middle School was a definite success, according to the man the camp is named for.

"It's the best camp we've had in Ruidoso as far as quality goes," Moffat said Friday, the last day of the camp. "I'd say the quality of the youths' talent was about 20 percent higher than it was last year. Last year's was about 20 percent higher than the year before."

"The camp was about at the intermediate level this year. We didn't have as many kids (21 compared to 26 last year) but their talent was higher."

The camp lasted from Monday to Friday from 2 p.m. to 6 p.m. each day. The youths, mostly from the Ruidoso area, had a lot of individual attention from Moffat and the other coaches, including Ruidoso-Sertoma Soccer Association (RSSA) director Butch Grantham.

There were some outdoors activities for the youths each day plus lectures by Moffat. The youths also watched English and German soccer training films.

"They (the youths) learned a lot about small-sided games," said Moffat. "We let them play two and three players at a time a lot."

The former Dallas Tornado and English league soccer standout also conducted a camp in Alamogordo the same time the Ruidoso camp was on. Eighty-three youths attended the Alamogordo camp but that city has a much bigger population than Ruidoso.

"The first year (1980) we had the soccer camp here in Ruidoso we also had a lot of youths from Alamogordo attend it," Moffat commented. "Last year we split the camp up with one at Ruidoso and one at Alamogordo."

After the camp ended Friday, Moffat and Grantham left for Richardson, Texas, to conduct two more soccer camps. Moffat, who works for an English sporting goods company, lives with his wife and two children in Richardson.

Following the Richardson camps, Moffat

BOBBY MOFFAT has directed his soccer camp in Ruidoso for three years. The former Dallas Tornado standout will take a team to Europe later this summer.

fat will take his under-16 All-Star team from Richardson to Europe. His under-19 team and a women's team will also travel on the European continent to play other teams.

Despite the relatively small attendance at this year's Ruidoso camp, Moffat remains optimistic.

"We'll continue to hold the camp here in Ruidoso," he said. "I'm confident the number of kids attending the camp will go up in future years."

Mountain Riders to hold show

The Ruidoso Mountain Riders Club will hold a horse show Sunday, July 11, at 8:30 a.m. at the Cedar Tree Ranch.

The horse show is open to anyone. Mark Sherman of Anthony, New Mexico, will be the judge.

For more information, call 257-2725.

THESE ARE THE TOP FOUR FINISHERS in the first Elks Run-a-Thon Saturday. Darrel Gateley (left) finished first as he ran 15 miles. The others are (left to right) Jim Dickinson, Tommy Reynolds and Philip Champon. A total of $1,300 was raised from pledges to go to the Elks' National Foundation and the Cerebral Palsy fund. Refreshments for the runners were provided along the run by members of the women's Country Blues softball team and the Elks Lodge.

GO FOR A PIN, people could be saying as this cowboy wrestles with a steer in the dogging event at the 23rd annual Smokey Bear Stampede Sunday in Capitan. Dogging is one of the most popular rodeo events and requires a great deal of skill and experience by the cowboy involved.

YOUNGSTERS GO AFTER A CALF rambling down the sidelines in the calf scramble event of the 23rd annual Smokey Bear Stampede Sunday in Capitan. This particular event provided some interesting entertainment for both children and adults in the rodeo.

New Warrior coach has busy season ahead

Gary Brown
Sports Writer

Ruidoso High School's newest coach is going to be a busy man during the 1982-83 school year.

Elmer Chavez, who comes to the Warriors from Grants High School, will be the head coach of the Ruidoso girls' volleyball team; assistant boys' varsity and head junior varsity basketball coach; and assistant girls' track coach.

"I'm looking forward to coaching here at Ruidoso," Chavez said Friday. "The staff really gets along well and there's a lot of teamwork here."

Chavez was the assistant varsity and head junior varsity basketball coach and also coached girls' track at Grants, an AAAA division school in the northwestern part of the state. A native of Grants, he coached there for two years.

Grants is in the same district as undefeated state champion Farmington so wins did not come easily for Chavez's teams in basketball. However, his junior varsity squad averaged 55 points a game and gave up 56 points against tough competition like Farmington and Albuquerque High School.

The Grants varsity won the Belen Invitational, beating AAA powerhouse Albuquerque Academy in the second round. Academy was the top ranked AAA team in the state at the time.

"That was the highlight of our season," said Chavez of the victory over Academy.

The Grants girls' track team also did well. It took third in the 18-team Los Lunas Invitational, third in the Grants Twilight Invitational and second in the Grants Twilight Invitational. Chavez's team had two dual meets, winning one and tying the other.

Chavez graduated from Grants in 1975 and attended Lubbock Christian College. He graduated from the Texas Institution in 1979 and received All-American mention in track for the 20-kilometer run.

He had aspirations of making the 1980 United States Olympic team and trained extensively the latter half of 1979 for it.

When the Olympic boycott was finalized, however, Chavez became a graduate assistant at Western New Mexico University (WNMU) for six months. He coached volleyball there in the spring of 1980 before taking the position at Grants.

Will he seek a berth on the 1984 Olympic team?

"It's hard to coach and train for the Olympics at the same time," Chavez said. "I might try for the 1984 Olympics and, if I don't make it, I'll probably hang my spikes up."

But Chavez's main concern now is coaching the Warrior athletic teams.

"I'd like to eventually be a head basketball coach," he said. "I really like basketball and I'd like to see Coach Geyer (new head boys' basketball coach Ron Geyer) and me get a consistent program going here. One where we would win year in and out and not just every four or five years."

Chavez is also optimistic about the Warriors' volleyball and track programs.

"Ruidoso's volleyball team went 6-10 last year and had a close loss to Truth or Consequences, (T or C) the team that finished second in the state," he said. "With more experience this year Ruidoso could finish second in the state this season."

The Warrior girls' track team, which took second in the district meet to Silver City last spring, also draws praise from Chavez.

"Coach Castanon (head coach Sergio Castanon) and me have talked a lot and we both think the track team has a good chance of winning the district championship next season," Chavez remarked. "Castanon is really a good coach and he has a great knowledge of the sport."

What does Chavez like best about Ruidoso?

"The racetrack," he laughed. "I won $170 there yesterday (Thursday)."

With all the sports Chavez will be coaching this coming year, he may not have much time to go to the racetrack.

Ruidoso athletes star in cage camp

Gary Brown
Sports Writer

Three Ruidoso athletes picked up individual honors as the fourth annual Weldon Drew Basketball Camp ended Friday at the Warriors' gymnasium.

Steve Sluder, a recent graduate of Ruidoso High School, was named the best one-on-one player in the Senior Division. In the Junior Division, Patrick Pearson, who will be a sophomore at Ruidoso High School in the fall, was named the outstanding field goal shooter. In the Colt Division, Kirk Ryan of Ruidoso was picked as the outstanding field goal shooter.

It was the end of a good week for Ryan, the younger brother of former Warrior basketball standout Glenn Ryan. Last Wednesday Kirk was named to the Ruidoso Little League All-Star baseball team.

Over 60 youths participated in the camp, which was open to boys and girls 10 to 18 years old.

Rodney Gardner of Alamogordo was a double winner in the Senior Division, taking the best free throw and best field goal honors. Other Senior Division winners were Brance Eckles, most improved; Joe Martinez, most valuable; and Andrew Lucht, best rebounder.

Ronald Lovato was a double winner in the Junior Division, taking most valuable honors and one-on-one honors. Franz Conway won most valuable honors; Brian Beckham, best defender; Phillip Showers, best free throw shooter; Sam Hobson, most improved; and Steve Madrid, most hustling player.

Victor Estrada won three honors in the Colt Division. He captured most valuable honors, best rebounder and best free throw shooter. Tammy Dube won the best defender title; Brad Burges, most improved; and Freddy McFadden, best hustler.

Sluder, 6-4, will attend New Mexico State University in Las Cruces this fall. He will try out for the Aggies' basketball team as a walk-on.

Sluder played this past season on the Warrior varsity after competing on the junior varsity team the year before. He and 6-4 Pete Richardson combined to give Ruidoso an excellent pair of rebounders.

After the regular season ends, there will be a tournament.

Bear Stampede provides loads of fun and

During the barrel race, the cowboy must navigate around barrels. The barrels competition requires a good deal of balance and coordination.

The 23rd annual Smokey Bear Stampede was held Friday through Sunday in Capitan and local rodeo fans got to see some of the better rodeo cowboys in the Southwest in action. There was a total of $10,000 in prize money for the three-day affair.

Friday night Rhonda Montoya of Capitan was crowned as the 1982 Lincoln County queen. A queen in waiting for 1983 was also selected as Alice Booky of Hondo won that honor. Missy Jones was named queen of the Capitan Junior Riding Club.

Before the final session of the rodeo began Sunday, a parade was held through the streets of Capitan. Sonya Crain was named Best Dressed Cowgirl and Stan Davis was picked as the Best Dressed Cowboy.

WATER . . . "YES!"

Question: Why do we need Grindstone Dam and Lake right now?

Answer: Because by the time it is complete our present water supply will not meet the demand.

Question: Is this really the right dam, in the right place, at the lowest possible cost?

Answer: Yes

Question: If we start right now can it really be finished in time?

Answer: Yes , but just barely.

Question: Isn't there just possibly some other acceptable alternative?

Answer: No

Question: Do we actually own enough water to fill a lake this large?

Answer: Yes

Question: Who will own and control the lake when completed?

Answer: We will — The village of Ruidoso.

Question: Is the proposed package of financing the cheapest possible for the citizens of Ruidoso?

Answer: Yes — definitely.

Question: How much will we save if the issue is not passed at this election?

Answer: Nothing — Without this dam our water bill will go up dramatically, probably at least Double and we will still be short of water.

Question: Will this supply all our water needs indefinitely?

Answer: No — Nothing we build, schools, hospitals, roads, etc. will serve a growing community forever without being increased over the years as needed.

Question: How do we make sure the lake and dam get built and are ready when needed?

Answer: Vote — "For" on all three ballot issues on July 6. Remember — by state law all three ballot issues must pass in order to be valid.

Inside The Capitol

by Fred McCaffrey

SANTA FE — Conversation with a current member of the governor's Cabinet:

He: "Well, I've been approached at least half a dozen times by people who say they represent Toney Anaya. Their only message seems to be that if I want to keep my present job after November, I'd better get on the bandwagon."

We: "That many, eh?"
He: "Oh, that's not all. There are also the people who say they represent John Irik."

We: "What's their message?"
He: "Pretty much the same thing as the other guy."

(The conversation recounted above is a conglomeration of actual conversation held with more than three and less than six present members of the Cabinet of Governor Bruce King.)

(Its content should surprise no one. People who run for office will do almost anything to get there. "Anything" usually includes promising jobs to people who may be of some assistance in obtaining the post you desire.)

Sometimes we in the media are terribly insensitive.

If we may safely presume that most people who are interested in politics in New Mexico depend on the media for details about what is going on, how well do we serve you?

Not well at all.

Example: The Southwest Voter Registration Project is the major organization which went into court and forced a second special session of the state Legislature to redistrict our local lawmakers.

That particular group, you might want to note, is not local; it's from San Antonio, Texas, and it's the sort of organization which calls all those who speak Spanish Mexican-Americans, though their connection with Mexico may be as small as this Irishman's own.

What did they complain about when they brought their lawsuit?

That minorities are being neglected and put upon and mistreated in New Mexico.

That's a little hard for some of us to believe as we watch Bobby Mondragon, in his capacity as Lieutenant Governor, presiding over the Senate or Raymond Sanchez in his role as majority leader in the House. Actually, at the present time, 28 percent of Senate members and 31 percent of House members are identifiable "minority" representatives. What's more, with people like Alex Martinez heading up Senate Finance, they are people of considerable power.

New Mexico — no matter what a group of Texans may say — doesn't have to scourge itself on the score that we have prevented so-called "minorities" from coming to power — not at least as long as one remembers Dennis Chavez and Joe Montoya and many others.

What's more, these outlanders who come in here to harass us aren't even very consistent.

For instance, in news releases after the June 1 primary, they point out that 60 percent of all Hispanic voters turned out at the polls, as compared to 54 percent of all registered Democrats. (Apparently they believe Hispanics could not be registered as anything but Democrats.)

How they know that is hard to say — and when they make stupid statements of that kind, we in the media ought to call them on them.

They even claim Indian voters helped Bill Richardson (half Mexican?) beat Bob Mondragon (all New Mexican) in the second Congressional district. Their reasoning: Richardson won by 3432 votes, and 3102 Indians voted.

How they can be sure all those Indians voted for Richardson is beyond telling.

But don't let these guys sell us the notion that we are somehow dumping on our minorities here. We aren't — at least politically — and people who know almost nothing of New Mexico shouldn't be allowed to say we are and get away with it.

Sense & Nonsense

U.S. Sen. Pete Domenici

Water, in the American West, was power to the early settlers. With rainfall in many areas averaging less than 15 inches a year, every drop was precious and many men fought and died for the rights to own a portion of a stream or a lake.

To a lesser extent, water still is the key to the success or failure of every agricultural and industrial endeavor in the West. Every farmer, rancher, businessman, and ordinary citizen, realizes the value of water. The historic lesson which has been passed from generation to generation is that he who controls the water also controls the land.

There is little wonder, then, when Westerners express anger about a policy of a federal non-reserved water right. A non-reserved water right would allow the federal government to lay claim to water use even if Congress had not expressly authorized the use of water in their legislation for some federal function in the West. They could literally ignore state water law.

It was not always this way. The Desert Land Act, and the Acts of 1866 and 1870 established that "all non-navigable waters then a part of the public domain became...subject to plenary control of the designated states." Time after time Congress has declined to expand federal control over water law in the West. But in 1979, President Carter through his Interior Secretary Cecil Andrus, tried to gain this federal control over water rights and in so doing, helped fan the flames of the Sagebrush Rebellion into a raging conflagration.

The Solicitor of the Interior, Leo Krulitz, issued an opinion stating there was an existence of a non-reserved right or federal appropriative water right. The United States, he said, "also has the right to appropriate water on its own property for Congressionally authorized use whether or not such uses are part of any 'reservation' of land." Shortly thereafter in several court cases in other states, the government would base much of its case on this principle.

New Mexico's legal history disrupted this position and lent support to the position that primary management authority over Western waters should be returned to the states where it should have been in the first place. In 1978, the Supreme Court in the "U.S. versus New Mexico", the so-called Mimbres case, ruled that federal reserved water rights are not available for secondary uses such as stock watering or maintaining instream flows for the recreation of fish habitats. While this decision clearly limited the federal government authority to control water resources within a state without regard to state water laws, the Carter Administration persisted in their unjustified pursuit of a federal non-reserved water right.

It was not until September 1981, that the situation changed. Interior Secretary James Watt, through the opinion of his new Solicitor, William Coldiron, announced that the Interior Department was renouncing any claims to a non-reserved water rights and that the federal government would line up, like any citizen or business, to apply for its water rights through the state governments. Following Watt's decision to renounce any claims to a non-reserved water right, I found out that the Justice Department had not changed the Carter Administration policy. Meeting with Western Senators in an emergency session, we decided to inform President Reagan directly of this oversight and order the Justice Department to review this water policy. On June 17, 1982, Attorney General William French Smith announced that Watt's policy was government-wide policy, proving once again that the Reagan Administration is a good neighbor to the West and reaffirming the rights of states such as New Mexico over their future water supplies.

The latest action by the Attorney General moves us toward a fair, common sense approach to water rights and laws, where all governments, citizens, and businesses, respect, follow, and obey established state water laws. What the Carter Administration tried, and failed to do, was to reverse over 100 years of established law, which has been supported by Congress and the courts many times. Water, and the land which sustains its life from it, belongs to the local residents, and should not be taken on the whim of a federal government directive or opinion. The guardianship of the states have preserved these rights for more than 100 years and have the ability and experience to continue their protection of precious Western water for all its citizens for many years to come.

Letters to the Editor

Dear Editor:

It has been brought to the attention of many individuals that the sign on the cemetery, located approximately two miles east of Ruidoso Downs, has been erroneously named.

The cemetery was originally named Stetson Cemetery and, in the past few weeks, has been changed to the Hale Cemetery. The cemetery is a landmark and has been on official maps as Stetson Cemetery for more than one-half century.

Perhaps another family donated a small portion of land to enlarge the cemetery. This should not be confused by a humble man's kindness who originally contributed to this valley by donating land for the Stetson School and Cemetery named in his honor.

Within the past ten years or so, the cemetery has been named by sign only "Community Cemetery" which would be somewhat appropriate since Mr. Stetson, whom I knew personally and his family, wanted this to be a community cemetery.

My concern is not personal as I have access to my family cemetery — my concern is changing a landmark by hanging up a sign without knowing the significance of the landmark.

It seems an ungrateful act to rename this cemetery.

Note: Ironically, Mr. Stetson is buried in Hobbs, New Mexico, his last place of residence.

Thank You
Jeanette Browning

BEGIN A NEW ERA

THE SEVEN women who staged a hunger strike in Springfield, Ill., in hopes of prompting passage of the Equal Rights Amendment have wisely decided to give up their 37-day battle.

Several of the group already had been treated for dehydration and other illnesses. Keeping their valiant effort going, when ERA is doomed for failure — at least this time around, could have been injurious not only to their health, but also to the future of the women's movement.

Like other ERA supporters, including National Organization for Women, who also have admitted ERA won't make it, they plan to save their energies for a second assault on the nation's lawmakers when Congress returns from its Independence Day recess.

If well organized, plans to actively replace anti-ERA supporters in government and to hit business where it hurts — in the pocketbook — should result in more supporters for ERA.

As Sonia Johnson, leader of the hunger strike group and famous for her being ousted from the Mormon Church for her pro-ERA stance, said, "We have demonstrated that ordinary women can do extraordinary things."

"Perhaps we have lost the battle, but we know we are going to win the war."

With a better organized effort, it could happen. — El Paso Times

CRY FOR HELP

There is a kind of "save me from myself" aspect to the results of a representative nationwide survey on drivers' attitudes toward drunk driving. Most favor harsh penalties. But of those who do, about half admit that they are part of the problem.

The message is open to interpretation, granted. According to Dr. John Hemphill of Los Angeles, who ran the survey, drivers seem to be saying: "Everybody's doing it, and until there are certain and strict penalties for it, I'm not going to change my style." Our hunch is that people who want tougher punishment of drunks, yet admit to sometimes driving under the influence themselves, are consciously or subconsciously yelling: Help!

One factor in this is that there are subtle yet powerful social pressures to drink and drive. At cocktail parties, or dinner with friends, it is customary in many circles to consume more alcohol than one should, more, perhaps, than one can readily "handle". Under such circumstances, it takes some backbone to say in effect: "I've had too much, and I shouldn't drive, and then act in accordance with this prudent insight. Nor is it easy for a host or hostess to say: 'You've had too much; we'll call a cab.'"

So people go on drinking, and pretend there's no risk in it. But there is risk, and they know that. Which may be why so many in the survey called for what would be likeliest to throw cold water on such shenanigans: more strict drunk-driving law, impartially enforced. — Alamogordo Daily News

HEALTH WARNINGS

The American Heart Association, the American Cancer Society, the American Lung Association and a couple of dozen other leading health groups are jointly backing the idea of rotated health warnings on cigarette packs. That is massive and timely support, from people who know more than anyone else about the risks involved in smoking.

It does not follow that this is potentially the most effective way of educating the public as to the gravity of those risks. Rotating a series of warnings would, however, be a significant improvement on the present system of endlessly reiterating one rather innocuous message.

We therefore concur in the health organizations' collective endorsement of the rotation system embodied in proposed legislation before Congress. At the same time, we urge the adoption of a broader gauged program of public education.

There is a certain poetic justice about requiring cigarette manufacturers to imprint their hazardous product with various cautionary messages. But this is not enough, considering the gravity of the risks to health associated with smoking. Congress should go beyond merely using cigarette packs to warn the public. — Alamogordo Daily News

Editorial

The Lodgers' Tax Committee approved a request for a $16,543 summer tourism advertising campaign last week from the Advertising Committee of the Chamber of Commerce.

The first reaction of those reading the story in Thursday's News might have been, "Great! The Chamber is already planning for next year's tourist season."

But reading on, we learned that the campaign is supposed to promote tourism this summer. The obvious question—Why so late?—has already been asked.

The Chamber's explanation—it did not know until recently that it had the money to spend—raises another question: Why not?

Proponents of the summer advertising campaign used a "better late than never" rationale to justify launching it at this late date (which will be later yet because the campaign still has to be finalized).

This seems to ignore the fact that most people plan their vacations—even weekend vacations—many months in advance. While newspaper advertising in Texas, New Mexico and Arizona will provide Ruidoso some name exposure, it probably won't draw many people here this summer.

A proposal to turn over the job of allocating lodgers' tax revenues to the Chamber is being considered. Potential conflicts of interest notwithstanding, the proposal needs a hard look in light of this belated summer ad campaign.—TP

Tim Palmer

Oops! As a couple of people have pointed out, I goofed in Thursday's editorial when I attributed the quote, "Water, water, everywhere, nor any drop to drink," to American writer Stephen Crane.

Ruidoso High School English teacher Carol Hubbard rang up to inform me that those immortal words were penned by England's Samuel Taylor Coleridge in his classic, "The Rime of the Ancient Mariner."

Ironically, a few weeks earlier, I had chuckled at an editorial cartoon which used lines from the same poem. "As idle as a painted ship upon a painted ocean," was the caption of a scene which showed a guy sitting in a boat on a totally still sea.

The guy in the boat was labeled, "The Economy."

As for my goof, what can I say but "A sadder and a wiser man he rose the morning morn."

It does not change the fact that Crane's "The Open Boat" is a great short story—some say it's technically the best ever written.

On the subject of writers, I want to congratulate Eve Ball, who last week added the Saddleman Award of the Western Writers of America to her collection of laurels.

We had the good fortune to meet Mrs. Ball shortly after moving to Ruidoso last fall. Subsequently, I visited her several times to do background interviews for a feature story we ran in April.

The notes I made during our conversations are interspersed with Eve's observations on various subjects. Having been a schoolteacher for many years, she has some definite opinions on modern public education.

"They can't read, they can't write, they can't make change for a dollar," has been her experience with some of today's high school students. "It's tragic, I think."

Discipline was not a problem when she was in school, she said, because "kids were taught to mind at home."

There was a saying back then, she recalled, that if a child got a whipping at school, he got another when he went home. It was a disgrace to the family when a child misbehaved at school, she explained.

Everything was very formal at school in those days, she remembers. Students were "Mister" and "Miss."

Obviously, things are quite different now.

In those days, she said, school districts were laid out so that students wouldn't have to walk more than three miles to school.

Eve acknowledged, however, that not everything she learned in school had a practical application. She said of arithmetic, "I still hate it." Though she made excellent grades in algebra and geometry, she said, "I still never knew what it was used for."

Eve told me a little about her girlhood in Kansas, in the days before paving, washing machines, electricity and most other conveniences. Did she like it?

"I didn't know any better than to like everything," she replied. I thought that was a pretty apt description of the carefree days of being a kid.

Eve said she is glad that women have more opportunities today than formerly.

"Nobody is happier than I to see women admitted to professions—law, medicine, even engineering," she exclaimed. She said she doesn't know why women would want to go into the military, however.

At one point when she was growing up, Eve recalled, hers was the only family she knew of that had books, other than "doctor books" (home remedies) and Bibles. People who read were thought to be sort of queer, she explained.

But most people worked from about four in the morning till nine or ten at night, she added. "You carried a lantern at both ends of the day."

Her neighbors were good people, she noted, and well educated in their own way—in animal husbandry.

Eve puts down one segment of her education—a master's degree in education from the University of Kansas.

"I think the university still owes me damages," she said. She hated her education courses ("a lot of bunk"), and thinks part of the problem with education today lies in the education of our educators.

Eve Ball moved to Ruidoso in the late 1940s.

"I'm practically a newcomer—I've been here 33 years," she said. She recalled that Ruidoso in those days had less than 200 residents, with no paving, five telephones and three Model-T cars.

Kids went to school in Capitan, she recalled. A long black car picked them up at 6:30 a.m. and returned them at 6:30 p.m.

There was no cemetery—"It was such a healthy place they didn't need one," she laughed.

Back then, she declared, Ruidoso embodied the true frontier spirit.

"You could leave for a week and leave the door open. Someone might come in and help himself to food—but they'd wash the dishes before leaving."

The Heat Is On a winner

THE HEAT IS ON hauled the top load of 123 pounds to a scrambling half-length win in Thursday's renewal of the $7,925 Zia Stakes at Ruidoso Downs.

The sophomore filly covered the 400 yards in 20.19 seconds against a headwind, on a strip labeled heavy.

Ruidoso patrons launched The Heat Is On as odds-on favorite in the struggle restricted to New Mexico-breds in the three-year-old and up category.

After breaking a little off the pace, the filly, well ridden by Jack Wallace, closed grimly in the final strides to overtake the plucky 5-2 shot, Coda Mundi. The latter had the earmarks of a winner as he neared the finish, but was unable to hold off the people's choice in the final strides.

The Heat Is On won going away. She's the property of G.I. and Kathleen Martin and M. Virginia Murray of Taiban. First place was worth $4,775. The Heat Is On went into the fray with a career money line of $113,358. She's trained by R.D. Hay.

Arson given as cause of Hondo School fire

The cause of the June 27 fire that destroyed three-quarters of Hondo School was "definitely arson," Hondo school superintendent Ernest Booky quoted the State Fire Marshal's office as saying.

Booky said today that the State Police criminal investigation division has taken over investigation of the fire, which gutted offices, classrooms, library, cafeteria and the gymnasium. Booky said he thinks investigators "have a couple of prime suspects."

Booky said evidence shows that "someone piled paper in four different places in the principal's office" where the fire broke out.

As far as future plans, Booky said the state director of capital outlays, Bonnie Brock Wood, and an assistant state superintendent of schools will be in Hondo Tuesday to discuss financial assistance from the state and acquisition of temporary classrooms for the coming school year.

Booky added that preliminary plans for a new school building "have already been drawn up," and that cost for rebuilding is expected to be about $2.5 million.

Also, Booky said bids will be opened this week for demolition of the destroyed portions of the school.

"We feel we're on top of the situation," Booky said.

Casting call for play scheduled Tuesday

Casting for two one-act plays to be produced at Nob Hill Restaurant will be held tomorrow at the restaurant from 8 p.m. to 10 p.m.

There will be 15 parts open for the two plays, one by Tennessee Williams called "Mooney's Kid Don't Cry," and one by local playwright Cathy Palmer entitled "The Table."

Williams' play has two characters—a middle aged man and woman living in a city tenement.

Palmer's play is a set of five vignettes, with 13 characters. The first vignette's characters include three teenage boys; the second is with a high school boy and his girlfriend; a fat mother and daughter are characters in the third vignette; an old professor and a young "jock" student star in the fourth; and the fifth vignette's characters are two retarded men and a female supervisor. A waitress is the main character in the play.

Both Williams' and Palmer's plays are contemporary experimental theater.

Producer and director for the plays is Herb Robins, whose background includes experience as actor, director and writer in television, stage and film productions. Robins is currently directing, producing and acting in his play "The Treasure of the Sierra Madre" as a dinner theater production at Nob Hill Restaurant.

Anyone interested in theater is encouraged to audition for the one-act plays to be produced soon.

Please 'bear' with us

Persons in the Upper Canyon area and in other mountain areas in Ruidoso are advised that bears have recently been sighted within village limits.

Police dispatcher Betty Bennett said bears have been reported turning over dumpsters in search of food over the weekend in the Upper Canyon area. She said bears have foraged through dumpsters as far down as Second Street.

Bennett advises anyone who sights a bear in town to call the police department. She also cautions against enticing the animals with food, or treating the bears as tame animals.

Pioneer Savings achieves mortgage loan ranking

WILL TURBOW
Staff Writer

The June 7, 1982, National Thrift News has ranked Pioneer Savings and Trust as the 151st largest secondary mortgage loan seller among all savings and loan associations in the United States.

Pioneer also sold more loans in the secondary market than any other savings and loan association in New Mexico.

Based on 1981 figures, the recent ranking shows Pioneer as having marketed approximately $14.8 million in mortgage loans. Vice president Grant Gist of the Ruidoso branch of Pioneer reported that mortgage loans totaling $1,314,000 were granted here.

More money is available for use in Ruidoso by selling those loans throughout the state, stated Gist. He said Pioneer tries to use a lot of those funds for short term loans.

Due to the availability of better financial programs, Gist said, Pioneer is looking forward to listing a lot more loans this year.

According to George Mitchell, president of Pioneer Savings in Roswell, Pioneer's activity in the mortgage loan secondary market has enabled Pioneer to provide more home loans for New Mexico home purchasers than would normally be available without secondary marketing activities.

Mitchell stated that these figures indicate that in 1981, Pioneer was successful in bringing $14.8 million in capital to New Mexico that was subsequently used by New Mexico borrowers to finance the purchase of homes and commercial properties.

When asked if he was proud of Pioneer's ranking and success, Gist responded, "You bet. We're making a lot of loans, and it's a good market."

ARSON is believed to be the cause of the June 27 fire that gutted a large portion of Hondo School, superintendent Ernest Booky said Monday. In this picture, thick smoke billows skyward as firefighters battle the blaze.

Motorcycle-car crash claims young victim

by DAVID SHEPPARD
Staff Writer

An 18-year-old Ruidoso man became the first highway fatality this year in Ruidoso after a motorcycle he was riding on collided with an automobile Thursday evening on Highway 37 (Mechem Drive).

Jim Hymer, 18, died Friday morning in St. Mary's Hospital in Roswell of massive head injuries sustained in the crash.

Ruidoso police officer Robert Kenney said Hymer was the passenger on a motorcycle driven by his brother, John Hymer, 20, also of Ruidoso, when they crashed into the right rear of a car driven by Janell Z. Smith of Morton, Texas, about 7 p.m. Thursday.

John Hymer was transported by ambulance to Ruidoso-Hondo Valley Hospital. He sustained severe cuts to the right side of his body, Kenney said. He was released from the hospital Saturday, a hospital spokeswoman said. Smith was uninjured.

Kenney reported that the motorcycle was headed south on Mechem when it struck Smith's car as Smith was turning left onto Hanson Drive. Smith was northbound on Mechem before making the turn, Kenney said.

Kenney said the road surface was dry, and that both drivers were sober at the time of the crash.

Kenney said evidence shows that Smith had yielded proper right-of-way before making the turn. John Hymer was cited for not yielding right-of-way, Kenney added.

According to the municipal ordinance, Kenney said, a "vehicle making a left turn has to yield right-of-way to oncoming traffic if a hazardous situation would occur."

The officer said the responsibility for yielding shifts to the driver of a vehicle coming in the opposite direction "if the driver (who is turning) used the blinker and is within a safe position to make the turn without causing a hazardous situation."

Upon colliding, Kenney said, Jim Hymer was flung over the top of the car and landed on the pavement. John Hymer "got tangled up with the bike and the car," Kenney said.

The Hymers were not wearing helmets, Kenney noted.

The officer added that the district attorney's office finds no reason to charge either driver with vehicular homicide.

New Downs police program geared to efficiency

by BARBY GRANT
Staff Writer/Photographer

A new program designed to increase efficiency has been instituted in the Ruidoso Downs police department, according to police chief Carl DuCept. Each officer in the department has been assigned a specific area of responsibility, in addition to his regular duties as a police officer. The program, which became effective May 1, should result in "utilizing the least amount of manpower with the greatest effectiveness," DuCept said.

New positions in the department include radar traffic specialist Jack Richardson; public relations officer Charles Robinson; and municipal officer Dale Patrick. Roger Riley is fire director, a position previously established in the department.

Jack Richardson, as traffic officer, will direct his efforts at enforcement of speed limits and accident investigation. Riley will also help with traffic control. "We hope to improve in all those areas," Chief DuCept said.

Public relations officer Charles Robinson will handle policies between the police department and other departments; answer letters of complaint, with approval of the department; and investigate charges against officers.

As municipal officer, Dale Patrick will be in charge of animal control, junk auto citations and enforcement of Planning and Zoning (P&Z) ordinances. The purpose of the position is to try to initiate a general clean-up of the village, Patrick indicated.

Patrick said he will be working directly with the village attorney, municipal judge, P&Z, board of trustees and police chief to ensure that legal boundaries are not overstepped.

"I have to do my homework on the (village) ordinances," Patrick said.

He plans to work systematically with residents in each section of the village to arrange a means and time limit for cleaning up any problem areas, such as junk autos, animal droppings and high weeds. A document will be signed, Patrick said, in which the residents involved agree to clear the trouble spot within the time arranged.

Patrick said residents will be cited into court if the agreement is not complied with, if they don't have a valid reason.

Patrick said he recently talked to Ruidoso animal control officer Jack Sniadecki about animal control in Ruidoso Downs. Sniadecki feels the village basically has good animal control ordinances, Patrick said, but they "need to be upgraded to function smoothly."

Chief DuCept said animal complaints in Ruidoso Downs have decreased 75-80 percent since the overall program took effect May 1.

"We're handling it very effectively," he said.

Patrick and DuCept agreed the best approach to the animal control problem is to work through dog owners rather than to just pick up dogs. DuCept said residents with dogs running at large in the village will automatically be cited.

The department will equip Patrick's vehicle the way he thinks is necessary, DuCept said.

"It's going to take a considerable length of time to accomplish it," Patrick said about the goal of his new position—to clean up the village.

"We have a good town here and good people," Patrick said. "I feel we'll have the cooperation of the people once we get the idea across what we're trying to accomplish."

He said he feels property values will increase as a result of the clean-up and residents will feel better about where they live.

"We've just got a job to do and we'll try to do it to the best of our ability," the new municipal officer said.

"We'll try to be efficient in whatever we do," he added. "One job well done is worth a whole bunch half done."

"I think it's a very necessary job, and I look forward to the challenge of it," he stated.

DuCept said Patrick's position as municipal officer grew out of a need in the village discovered through a neighborhood study. The municipal officer will be fighting to eliminate the causes of problems rather than just fighting the problems themselves, the police chief said.

"It's been set up in such a way so it's workable," he stated. "I expect a great deal of compliance."

DuCept said officer Patrick is especially qualified in public relations, which will facilitate the handling of his duties.

The point of the overall new program in the Ruidoso Downs police department, DuCept explained, is to eliminate duplication of duties.

"Efficiency is cut down 80 percent by any other approach," the chief said. DuCept said he organized a similar program about 20 years ago as night commander for the Saint Louis County police department in Missouri.

The program will be evaluated during the first 90 days to determine its effectiveness, he said.

"So far, it has been pretty effective," DuCept commented.

In addition to assigning each police officer a specific area of duty, DuCept has established a personnel board within the department as part of his new program. The personnel board, to include DuCept; the mayor, as police commissioner; the municipal judge; and Dale McCleskey, as civilian representative, will hear any complaints against officers. The hearing board is for the protection of the officer and the plaintiff, DuCept explained.

"I think with this program things will run so much smoother," DuCept concluded.

POLICE CHIEF Carl DuCept has been busy setting up a new program in the Ruidoso Downs police department.

DuCept says the program should increase the department's efficiency substantially.

RUIDOSO DOWNS Municipal Officer Dale Patrick is ready to assume the challenges of his new position, which was designed to establish a general clean-up of the village.

VOTERS!

WE MUST HAVE WATER

No solution is ever perfect.

We have studied the water storage program as proposed by the election on July 6.

It is our definite conclusion that the property owners of Ruidoso cannot continue to search for other solutions to the water problems.

There seems to be no better alternatives and there is no more time.

We urge you to vote YES on all three proposals on the ballot tomorrow.

OPEN LETTER TO ELIGIBLE VOTERS OF RUIDOSO—

For many reasons we believe that the citizens of Ruidoso are not being told all the information that should be furnished them to make a wise decision in solving our water problems for our community. One obvious question that comes to mind is one of common sense: Why cross one canyon of our land (U.S.A.) to get to another canyon that is privately owned, which puts us, as citizens, in a position of having to buy the land? This will blatantly cause us to bear the expense of subsidizing and creating a tremendous value for the surrounding land at the "lake" site. This is difficult, to say the least, for us to swallow.

The main reason given us, as citizens, for not using another site is that the water would have to be pumped. Does it stand to reason that if, in fact, the water is going to free flow from the Ruidoso River to the proposed location, it will gravity flow back uphill to serve the Upper Canyon area? A pump has got to be utilized somewhere, somehow.

It also "irks" us that we, as citizens footing the bill, are not even being given a choice. Yes, we do indeed need a solution to our water problems. What a shame to present us voters with such a poor choice of location, when alternatives are available with probable lower costs and less red tape involved! The "ultimatum" attitude leaves us a little cold, doesn't it you?

We ask that you think this proposal through very carefully and after doing so, we suspect that you will reach a conclusion that this proposal is not what is really in the best interest of Ruidoso.

MUNICIPAL WATER SOURCES

VILLAGE OF RUIDOSO

Lincoln County, New Mexico

February, 1981

"We recommend that a storage capacity of 400 acre feet be developed on the Rio Ruidoso to meet the additional needs projected for 1990.

Preliminary investigation has identified three (3) potential sites in the Upper Canyon area. All sites are located on Forest Service lands; however, it is recommended that land trades be negotiated with the Forest Service to site the reservoir on Village owned land. Land presently under Village jurisdiction may qualify for land trade which could mitigate acquisition costs. (emphasis ours) ---

MINUTES, SPECIAL MEETING

GOVERNING BODY,

VILLAGE OF RUIDOSO

June 2, 1982

Mr. Newton Page, chairman of the Committee, then spoke, giving a report supporting Mr. Sayner's conclusions, with detailed graphs and charts. He emphasized the need for additional available sources of water over the next ten years. He urged the council to seek planned growth by means of a moratorium on property annexation and by freezing zoning not in compliance with the 1976 Comprehensive Plan until the project is completed and on line.

Mr. Schuller re-emphasized Mr. Page's recommendation that a moratorium be placed on annexations of additional property until the dam is completed and the water is on line. Mr. Coulston spoke against such a moratorium, saying that it would greatly increase the value of every lot in the Village. Mr. Sayner pointed out that a moratorium or freeze would give the Village no flexibility to annex properties advantageous to the community. All of the councilmen were adamantly against the moratorium.

TAKE A BREAK
By Staff Of Ruidoso Travel
WHEN YOUR HOTEL IS YOUR CASTLE
Tired of ordinary hotels? Then why not stay in a castle? Throughout Europe, many castles have been converted into hotels.
West Lodge Park, in Hertfordshire, England, was the hunting lodge of Princess (later Queen) Elizabeth I in the 1500s. There are 30 hotel rooms; on the spacious grounds are tennis courts and putting greens.
Chateau de la Caze, in Ste. Enimie, France is a 15th-century castle, complete with moat. It's truly medieval: huge fireplaces, tower dungeon, Louis XII furnishings. You can even fish for trout in the moat.
Burg Reichenstein in Trechtshausen, West Germany dates back to the 13th century — an authentic castle on the Rhine. Everything is out of a medieval dream — towers, arches, battlements, and a working drawbridge.
Bargy Castle in County Wexford, Ireland has a unique history. At least 800 years old, it was once besieged by Cromwell — who was later driven out by a swarm of bees. You'll find a drawbridge and moat, minstrel's gallery, suits of armor, dungeons and secret passages.
We'll be happy to help you find the right spot for your dream vacation. Contact the travel experts at Ruidoso Travel, Pinetree Square, phone 257-7381.

By J.T. YURKO

A "poltergeist," according to Webster, is described as "a mischievous ghost held to be responsible for unexplained noises." Obviously, the spirits which haunt the house in the film "Poltergeist" cannot read.

These demonic spirits are about as mischievous as a typhoon is breezy. And when these spirits are done with, the house it looks as though a typhoon may very well have passed through the living room.

When you're finished viewing "Poltergeist," you may feel as though you just sat through a typhoon. Few films in recent memory have the viewer holding so firmly onto the arm rest or the comforting hand of a loved one.

Producing and co-authoring the screenplay is Steven Spielberg, who chilled us with the horror of "Jaws" and thrilled us with the splendor of "Close Encounters of the Third Kind." He selected as director for "Poltergeist" Tobe Hooper, the man who brought you "Texas Chainsaw Massacre."

How much of the film is Spielberg's and how much is Hooper's will be left to future critics to surmise. For the present, however, these two talents marvelously complement each other.

For those viewers who might be turned off by the prospect of this film being another blood, guts and gory amateur-surgery film, they needn't worry. "Poltergeist" will administer some real shockers, but they are a result of such old-fashioned ingredients as clever writing direction, rather than wholesale carnage.

The plot on which all this revolves is about as old as some of the ghosts in the film, but Spielberg adds the clever twist of having them appear from an untuned television set.

Spielberg has written that this is his "pessimistic movie," and so serves as counterpoint to "Close Encounters" in which Richard Dreyfuss finally sees and understands the secret of Devil's Monument from the television. Here TV acts as the conduit for the evil side of mankind to surface.

Bosley hosts 'Close Up'

Tom Bosley of "Happy Days" fame will show viewers what they will be able to watch on the Entertainment Channel when he hosts "The Entertainment Channel Close Up," the new pay-cable network's guide to upcoming programming.

Bosley's "Close Up" segments will introduce scenes from the Entertainment Channel's Broadway plays and musicals and from serializations of classic novels and contemporary popular works.

"I'm certainly not going to turn my back on network TV or 'Happy Days,'" Bosley said in a recent telephone interview.

Bosley has two other projects with the Entertainment Channel. In "Broadway," a salute to the American musical comedy, he co-stars with Mary Martin and Ethel Merman. "The Drunkard" features Bosley singing tunes written by Barry Manilow. Both will be aired in early fall.

"I find the programming on the Entertainment Channel so much more selective than other pay television because this particular channel offers a cross between the somewhat sophisticated 'ARTS' programming and commercial TV," Bosley said.

"I hope to do a few more plays for them. We're talking about doing 'Fiorello' eventually, but nothing is official yet."

The Entertainment Channel, which began its service last month, promises cable viewers an exclusive schedule of Broadway plays and musicals, as well as other high quality family entertainment.

Mel Brooks has made a career out of excess. It's tough to see where he can go after his "The History of the World — Part I," which will appear July 4 on The Movie Channel. What can you say about Brooks as Louis XVI, Dom DeLuise as Emperor Nero, Cloris Leachman as Madame DeForme, Sid Caesar as Chief DeForest and Orson Welles as narrator? The average Jerry Lewis movie is like "The Four Seasons" compared to this. Brooks goes beyond bad taste. How can you stand it? How can you resist it?

On July 8, SPN's Connie Martinson will talk to Douglas Casey, author of "Strategic Investing" and "Crisis Invest-

CBN CORNER

Network changes name

by Scott Hesseck

The CBN Satellite Network has officially become the "CBN Cable Network," announced Tom Rogeberg, director of CBN's cable operations.

The decision to change the name was made as a result of CBN's increased emphasis on cable television operations.

The CBN Cable Network is part of the overall Christian Broadcasting Network, which also includes about 150 TV and 50 radio affiliates in addition to the cable operations.

A separate corporation, CBN Continental, operates four TV stations in Boston, Portsmouth, Va., Atlanta and Dallas.

LATE-NIGHT CHANGES — Late night broadcast are being returned to a Christian television format on the CBN Cable Network starting in July.

Starting at 3 a.m. Eastern (Midnight Pacific time), the satellite-delivered cable network will air Monday through Friday "The 700 Club" for 90 minutes followed by "The Ross Bagley Show." This line-up replaces the second runs of the "Comedy Tonight" series.

The change is being made, according to network officials, in response to viewer requests for help and counseling programs late in the evening.

During "The 700 Club," viewers may call a 24-hour counseling center for help and prayer. During the past year, the network answered more than 1.5 million calls for help. This is a free service of the Christian Broadcasting Network, the parent organization of the cable network.

AIM PRAISES COLUMN — Accuracy in Media, the non-profit media watchdog group based in Washington, D.C., praised a recent "CBN Corner" column dealing with media coverage of the guerilla war in El Salvador. The column noted that various documentaries being offered to the American networks by independent producers were at best inaccurate, and at worst thinly-disguised attempts by propagandists to use the media to manipulate public opinion.

AIM newsletter editor Reed Irvine confirmed the CBN charges, and also documented other successful efforts by propagandists to manipulate the U.S. broadcast news industry.

Scott Hesseck is special projects manager of the Christian Broadcast Network.
