

Police surprised by building bid problems

by DAVID SHEPPARD
Staff Writer

Like being kicked where it hurts, is how Ruidoso Police Chief Richard Swenor described the past week's problems on the remodeling project for the police-courts complex.

Swenor said the department was first caught by surprise by an addendum to specifications on the electronics portion of the remodeling contract. The addendum led a committee studying the project to recommend rejection of a bid on that portion Tuesday.

Then the department was hit with disinterest of contractors in bidding on the remodeling of the complex. Only one bid was submitted, and it was for nearly twice the amount which has been allocated.

The village council Tuesday rejected bids on both the construction and electronics portions of the project—sending the Jail Liason Committee back to the drawing board to find alternatives for the entire project.

"We thought we were doing well until just the other day," Swenor said. "There was no way of foreseeing the problems that came up."

Swenor was referring to the mixup surrounding the addendum and the surprise elicited Monday when bids for the construction project were opened.

The addendum for the electronics portion of the contract was issued July 19—just three days before the electronics bids were to be opened. Continental Telephone Company submitted a bid on only the telephone system portion of the package, and protested that the specifications excluded the company from bidding. Lincoln Leasing of Ruidoso was the only other firm to submit a bid.

Councilman Don Dale, chairman of the jail committee, read a letter at Tuesday's council meeting explaining the committee's rejection of both electronics bids.

The letter states that part of the addendum—pertaining to the repeater site—is "exclusionary in nature." The letter continues by saying specifications for the site seem to favor one parcel of land that is owned by a person with close connections to the holder of the current communications contract, and that the holder was the only bidder for the complete electronics project.

Ruidoso policeman Jim Alston, who also sits on the jail committee, noted that Lincoln Communications presently holds the contract.

Dale said Wednesday the jail committee instructed village attorney Lee Huckstep to investigate the identity of the owner of the parcel specified in the addendum to the bid. Dale reported that Huckstep learned the owner of the parcel is closely connected with Lincoln Communications.

Both Alston and Swenor said Wednesday they were unsure why the addendum was added at such a late date. Alston said electrical engineers for the project submitted the addendum. Both policemen agreed that Continental had valid objections in the matter.

Alston and Swenor also said they believed the architect for the project, John Vanoy Moore, made no mistakes on the bid packages.

"The whole thing was an unfortunate set of circumstances," Alston said. "It was probably due to an oversight somewhere," he added. He also feels the electronics matter is now a "moot point" because the bids were rejected, and the entire project must now be redrawn.

Rick Volquardsen told The News this morning that he is the owner of Lincoln Communications, which holds the present village communications maintenance contract, and that he is a partner with Carl Kelly Jr. in Lincoln Leasing.

Volquardsen said the repeater site referred to in the jail committee's letter is owned by Lincoln Leasing in Kelly's name. Volquardsen also said the repeater site called for in the original specifications is a standby site to be located in the general area of Alto Hill, site of the main repeater presently used.

He stated that he does not know where the addendum came from or why it was submitted so late. Cupp said the same thing.

Project architect John Vanoy Moore said this morning the addendum came from Jerry Ensor of the engineering firm of Travis Braun of Dallas, Texas, which designed the electronics portion of the project.

Moore said he distributed the addendum. "I was just handling the paperwork," he said. "I didn't even meet with the clients (police department)." As to why the addendum was written in such a way as to be construed as stifling competitive bidding, Moore speculated, "I've got a feeling it was just carelessness." He said ignorance of the law may have entered in also.

Moore said he had cautioned Cupp against relegating the electronics bidding to Travis Braun, that he knew Cupp had been conferring with Ensor, and that he (Moore) assumed the addendum was worded the way Cupp wanted it.

LENGTHY MEETING TUESDAY

Council talks PUD, water rates, police building

The Ruidoso council Tuesday adopted a planned unit development ordinance, tabled a new sign ordinance and a new water rate ordinance, and rejected the lone bid on the police-courts complex building project in a study session and meeting lasting nearly four hours. (See related stories.)

Several persons protested the proposed water rate ordinance, which establishes a separate rate for commercial users and charges for water on an ascending scale of gallons consumed.

Councilman Frank Sayner, who worked on the ordinance with Al Junge and Benny Coulston, said he had been contacted by several persons concerned with higher water rates to heavy users such as laundries and car washes.

"I'm not sure that's possibly not discrimination," said Sayner. He also referred to accusations that councilmen used the threat of steep increases in water rates before the recent election on the $8 million water improvements program, noting that the new ordinance comes on the heels of the election.

Junge explained that the rate increase to commercial users is smaller than to residential users, on the theory that commercial users do not waste water.

"We're merely wholesaling that water to him (commercial user) and he resells it," said Junge, adding that the new ordinance was worked on for 11 weeks and rewritten several times.

Councilman Don Dale said that motels would be hurt by the proposed rate hikes. He gave the example of a 12-unit lodge using 120,000 gallons of water per month. The motel's bill would climb from the present $400 per month to $520—an increase of 30 percent—said Dale.

Dale said he felt motel owners were being penalized on the way they make their living.

Tom Kelham said he could not see the justification for an ascending scale to commercial users and contended that the same price should be charged for the first and last gallon used each month. He pointed out that while some businesses could pass on the increase to customers, others could not because of potential competition from out of town businesses paying less for water.

Rex Skellett argued against increasing water tap fees on a scale based on square footage—another aspect of the proposed ordinance. Rudy Flack wondered about the difficulty of policing the square footage provision.

Lodge owner Clark Carpenter pointed out that the new one percent sales tax and any increase in ad valorem (property) tax will have to be passed on to customers, and expressed concern that high lodging rates could hurt tourism in Ruidoso.

Junge noted that the village needs money to operate its water system, and that rate hikes were seen as a way to generate revenue. The village cannot keep buying equipment with bond money, he stated.

"I don't know the answer," Junge said. Dale suggested that the issue be sent back to committee for further study.

Coulston said the village is in a "precarious position," needing $300,000 to $350,000 to install and repair water lines.

"We have to maintain the water system—we have procrastinated for 20 years," said Coulston.

"We've got to generate the income," he added, and invited other suggestions for doing so.

Kelham suggested raising the price of water from the first gallon—something the drafting committee sought to avoid in order to protect light residential users.

Junge pointed out that expanded need for services is here and there is nothing the village can do but take care of it.

The ordinance was finally tabled until the August 10 meeting of the council.

The proposed sign ordinance was referred to the Planning and Zoning Commission for further study.

Councilman Don Dale, chairman of the Jail Liason Committee, reported to the council that two bids were received on leasing of electronics equipment for the police facility. He said the committee recommended rejection of both—one because it was a partial bid and thus did not meet specifications and the other because of an addendum to bid specifications.

Continental Telephone Company submitted a bid of $20,218.50 ($392.22 per month) for a seven-year lease purchase agreement for telephone service only. A bid of $10,169 for providing and installing equipment, $4,484.43 per month for leasing equipment, and $610 per month for maintenance of equipment was submitted by Lincoln Leasing of Ruidoso.

Dale read from a letter addressed to architect John Vanoy Moore, which listed reasons for rejecting the latter bid. The addendum, dated July 19, was not approved by the council or the jail committee, the letter notes. Also, it continues, the addendum is "written in such a manner as to stifle competitive bidding."

Language in the addendum describing a repeater site is "exclusionary in nature," Dale read. "Depending on how the language is interpreted, it would appear that only one, or a maximum of two parcels of land would satisfy the bid specifications. It would appear that one of the parcels of land would appear to be owned by a person with close connections to the holder of the current communications contract (Lincoln Communications), the holder of which was the only bidder on the electronics portion of the project," he added.

Dale also noted the late date of the addendum, July 19, in relation to the bid opening date, July 22. "This also stifles competition," he said.

The council accepted the recommendation of the committee and rejected the bids.

Dale also reported that just one bid on the police-courts building remodeling project came in. The bid of $1,257,159 was submitted by John Lavis of El Paso, Texas. Approximately $650,000 had been allocated to the project.

The committee recommendation to reject the bid was accepted by the council. Dale said the committee—himself, purchasing agent John Cupp, building inspector Don Hendricks and policeman Jim Alston—wants to remain active and "go back to the drawing board."

Also Tuesday, the council received the monthly report on lodgers' tax collections and heard a report from Lodgers' Tax Committee chairman Ed Hyman on planned expenditures of lodgers' tax revenue for the fiscal year which began July 1.

The $20,000 budgeted for skiing season advertising (unchanged from the previous year) was questioned by Coulston, who recommended a 20 percent increase.

"If we have a lot of snow, we don't need to advertise," said Hyman. Coulston questioned whether all of the millions of people in the San Antonio, Texas, area know about Ruidoso.

Richard Sandoval of the Chamber of Commerce Advertising Committee expressed his support for Coulston's suggestion.

Junge cautioned against tight budgeting, pointing out that requests for lodgers' tax funds come in through the year. "This is just a working plan," he said.

The council approved the deposit of $15,423.85 in unspent lodgers' tax funds from the last fiscal year into a certificate of deposit that already totaled $34,183.58.

"I personally am not that impressed with the fact we have $34,000 in the CD," said Coulston. He pointed out that there are half-million-dollar motels in town with payrolls to meet, as well as other businesses which depend on tourism.

"We collect this money and we have the obligation to spend it for the purpose for which it is collected," said Coulston. He noted that his own business spends more than $20,000 in advertising, and reiterated his desire to see more spent on skiing season advertising.

Also Tuesday, Junge took exception to a recent letter to the editor in The News which stated that Ruidoso "sits on one housing bond ... on which payments are already defaulting."

"That's a dangerous statement to make," said Junge, equating it to saying that a local bank is closing its doors.

Downs residents protest water hike

by BARBY GRANT
Staff Writer

About 40 Ruidoso Downs residents attended the board of trustees meeting Monday to protest the governing body's July 12 decision to increase water rates. Protest of the rate change was also registered in the form of a petition containing approximately 350 signatures.

"We do not believe that a water shortage has been caused by our excessive use," the petition stated. "If there has been a shortage of water, we believe that it has been caused by uneven division of the spring, leaks in the water system and breaks in the line."

"We are suffering under the burden of the extra expense of taxes, sewer service charges and excessive connection charges for the sewer and are asking that you reconsider this action," the petition continued.

Trustees had voted at the last meeting to increase rates for water use over the minimum 4,000 gallons per month, from $1.60 to $3.50 per 1,000 gallons. The $10 minimum fee was unchanged.

Several persons at the meeting complained that residents who attempt to supplement their fixed incomes by gardening are being unfairly hurt by the measure, as they cannot afford to use the extra water. Mayor J. C. Day Jr. reiterated that the rate increase was designed to curtail abuse of water and to avoid affecting those on low or fixed incomes.

"This, to me, was an answer; evidently it wasn't," Day commented.

Claude Peterson announced that he had examined the village's water system and found several things wrong that could be repaired.

"I can't see that the Village of Ruidoso (Downs) has a water problem," Peterson said.

He reported that only 48 gallons of water per minute are being pumped from the Denton well, one of the village's two sources of water.

"If we could get 200 or 300 gallons a minute from the well, we would have all the water in the world we need," Peterson commented.

It was undetermined exactly how many acre feet of water Ruidoso Downs is allowed to pump from the well, however.

Questions were also raised about adequate storage for additional water, a pump large enough to handle more water and revenue to purchase the needed equipment.

"I'm a firm believer we need to go up on water rates on some kind of prorated basis," Day concluded. One audience member protested that the July 12 increase was "too high, too fast."

The matter was tabled for further study, to determine whether establishing a "step" increase in water rates is feasible.

State Senator Charlie Lee attended Monday's meeting to inquire whether village officials have heard from the state Taxation and Revenue Department concerning possibilities for financial assistance. Day reported they have not, but that a representative of the department has indicated he will visit Ruidoso Downs.

Lee said he would like to be present when such a meeting takes place.

He also asked the trustees whether they would be willing to attend a meeting in Santa Fe to testify about problems of small communities. The senator reported that he is trying to set up a meeting for that purpose with the legislative tax committee. The trustees responded favorably to the idea.

Lee told The News following the meeting that he has not been able to generate much support for a tax on concessions at the race track, to be used as village revenue. The state is concerned about federal funding cuts, the senator explained, and will not agree to release any gross receipts taxes.

He added that he is continuing to work on drafting a bill to establish a recreational tax for municipalities that provide services to a large influx of seasonal visitors. How to tax the visitors and not permanent residents is one problem which remains to be worked out with the proposed legislation, Lee explained.

He also reported that he will follow up on the possibility that Ruidoso Downs can adopt an ordinance establishing a user fee for services provided to the race track. Lee said he will find a copy of a similar ordinance adopted in Albuquerque and send it to the village.

In other business, trustees:

—Tabled a request from Tony Parker to abandon Mountain Shadows Estates Subdivision. Parker's attorney, Gary Mitchell, explained that his client wishes to turn the area back into tractland or farmland rather than sell it as 49 subdivided lots. Trustees decided to have the village attorney look into the matter before they make a decision.

—Tabled the signing of a joint powers agreement with Ruidoso and Lincoln County for a feasibility study on Gavilan Canyon Road. Day said he feels Ruidoso Downs should not be required to pay one-third of the cost, as the road is outside the village limits. Trustees tabled the matter until a representative from Ruidoso or the county explains the agreement to the village.

—Approved an application from Richard Thompson for a picnic license for the All-American Sale at the racetrack.

—Adopted a mutual aid and assistance agreement on fire prevention and control.

—Called for bids on a radio and siren box and speaker for the police department.

—Awarded a bid on janitorial services to Debbi Grant and Virginia Bonilla for $180 a month.

A LARGE CROWD ATTENDED the Ruidoso Downs board of trustees meeting Monday to protest the recent increase in water rates. State Senator Charlie Lee (standing) was also present, to discuss the status of the village's financial situation and offer his assistance in obtaining additional revenues.

Planned unit development law passed

The Ruidoso council adopted a Planned Unit Development (PUD) ordinance Tuesday, amid a protest that the ordinance is vague and misleading on the amount of flexibility allowed in PUDs.

Former Planning and Zoning Commission (P&Z) member Alden Deyo, whom P&Z chairman John Schuller recognized as having expertise in PUD zoning, protested the zoning amendment. At the same time, he said he was "very, very, very much in favor of planned unit developments."

As written, the PUD ordinance reads that it allows property owners more flexibility in the design of a development that has at least two acres for residential uses and five acres for commercial and industrial uses.

The zoning amendment says the PUD procedure allows for variety in lot sizes and housing types, flexibility in location and use of open spaces and economical density or intensity of land use.

The PUD concept also is intended to provide residential, commercial and recreational uses within a single development. The ordinance states a PUD can be located in any zoning district, but does not specify whether approval of a PUD constitutes a zoning change. Village attorney Lee Huckstep pointed out, however, any aspect of a PUD that is not conforming with existing zoning for the site must be submitted to P&Z for a public hearing for rezoning.

Deyo said he felt the language in the ordinance is vague, and he questioned the amount of flexibility in the provisions. He also asked that the draft be sent to P&Z for a public hearing before receiving consideration by the council.

Boyle representative addresses councilmen

Fred Burns of Boyle Engineering Tuesday addressed the issue of potential conflict of interest over the fact the firm does work for both the Village of Ruidoso and the Mescalero Apache Tribe.

His remarks were made during the pre-meeting study session of village councilmen, when a program to coordinate street cuts for utilities in the village was also discussed.

Boyle drew up the $8 million water improvements program for the village and has begun engineering work on the Grindstone Canyon reservoir.

"If it came right down to it and it was one or the other, it would be the village," said Burns. He noted that Boyle has done a lot of work for the village through the years and that the firm appreciates the business.

He acknowledged that the Bureau of Indian Affairs (BIA) and U.S. Department of Justice are trying to establish aboriginal water rights nationwide. But Burns added that the firm's present project for the tribe is to conduct a feasibility study on a diversion tunnel system from the Rio Ruidoso through the mountain to Silver Springs Creek with a dam at the creek end.

Boyle is not addressing matters of water rights or ground water on the project, he stated. Burns added that Boyle has notified BIA of its work for the village, and said the agency sees no conflict.

Burns also told councilmen that Boyle would like to enter into a long-term contract with the village, which it presently does not have. He said the contract should establish a lump sum fee and a definite scope of services.

Village officials acknowledged that such an arrangement would be preferable to the village, too.

Also during the study session, representatives of several utilities, including village services, discussed the possibility of establishing a program to coordinate cutting into the ground to lay lines and cables.

Paul Crown of Cablevision said a system exists in Albuquerque whereby anyone planning to dig informs a person at a central number, who in turn notifies the other utilities. The system is supported by all the utilities, he said.

Buddy Buckle of Texas-New Mexico Power Company agreed the system would save money in the long run, since cut lines are costly to all utilities in terms of repairs and lost revenue.

The council expressed interest in village participation in a cooperative system. A committee of utilities is expected to draw up a proposal.

Farm Bureau hears SBAC

by DAVID SHEPPARD
Staff Writer

The Sierra Blanca Airport Commission (SBAC) presented its case to the New Mexico Farm and Livestock Bureau beef cattle and public lands committee Tuesday at the bureau convention at the Inn of the Mountain Gods.

It was the commission's third presentation to a state agricultural group since June. SBAC initiated a campaign this summer upon the advice of State Senator Charlie Lee to inform groups involved in agriculture about the commission's proposal for a regional airport.

Lee told the farm committee that the commission seeks no endorsement from agricultural groups on the airport; it intends only to impart information.

SBAC is involved in a long-standing dispute with New Mexico State University (NMSU) over use of Fort Stanton Mesa. NMSU leases over 26,000 acres on the mesa from the Bureau of Land Management (BLM) to conduct agricultural experiments. SBAC wants to lease a maximum of 600 acres on the site, and the commission believes an airport and the experiments can coexist.

SBAC Chairman Fred Heckman explained the various reasons why Ruidoso's present airport should be closed—because of growing danger to the public as development encroaches on the airport—and why the site on Fort Stanton Mesa is desired as the best alternative for a new facility.

He also explained that funding for the airport would come mainly from the sale of the present municipal airport land.

Ben L. Hall announces bid for House of Representatives

Ben L. Hall has announced his intention to seek the Republican nomination for a seat in the state House of Representatives, District 56, which includes portions of Eddy, Chavez and Lincoln Counties.

He was born in Fort Sumner, and has resided in the Ruidoso area for 35 years, operating his own general construction business for 20 years.

Hall, who will finish his fourth year as Lincoln County commissioner, has served on several decision making boards, including the Sierra Blanca Airport Commission, Regional Wastewater Board and Ruidoso-Hondo Valley Hospital Planning Board. He has also served as an ex officio member of Ruidoso-Hondo Valley Hospital.

He said he feels that with the coming of President Reagan's New Federalism program, it is vitally important to have someone from District 56 in the state legislature who can make decisions necessary to keep schools, municipal and county governments properly funded.

Hall stated that he feels he has the knowledge, experience and common sense

Heckman noted that Lincoln County is being charged $75,000 for one-and-a-half acres of that land, on which the county proposes to build a sub-office. The present airport comprises 150 acres.

Heckman added that the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) requires closure of the present airport, if a new one is approved. The money from the sale of the land would be applied to the new airport, Heckman said.

Heckman said the first phase of the proposed airport—on 283 acres—would cost about $10 million.

SBAC member Ben Hall said that BLM policy for granting leases is to determine the best benefit of federal land to the public. He also said the acreage SBAC desires would not destroy NMSU's research.

One Farm Bureau member told SBAC he felt the commission didn't know what it was talking about. He said Ruidoso "should shut down the (present) airport, and it wouldn't lose another life." He indicated he saw no reason why Ruidoso needs an airport.

Kenneth Nosker, another bureau member, said many bureau members hadn't made a decision on the issue. Nosker, who said he helped establish the present Ruidoso airport, said the "need for another airport has been evident for a long time."

He also said there should be a place for accommodation with the university for an airport.

to make these decisions for the people in District 56.

Denim N Diamonds, Rule The Deck in classic

by MARK GORDON

Denim N Diamonds, rated by many as the finest mare in quarter horse racing history, and Rule The Deck, on a magnificent winning streak, head the field for Sunday's 14th running of the World's Championship Quarter Horse Classic at Ruidoso Downs.

The winner of this 440-yard classic for three-year-old and older quarter horses will earn $67,747.50 from the total purse of $135,495.

Denim N Diamonds has been superb in her four-year racing career. She's won 22 races with four seconds and one third from 30 outings. Her career earnings of $671,348 place her seventh among all-time quarter horse money winners.

She enjoyed the finest season in 1981 any quarter horse mare has ever experienced. The five-year-old Timeto Thinkrich mare won nine races with one third in 10 outings.

She collected $365,102 for owner R.D. Hubbard of Wichita, Kansas. That's a record for an older quarter horse runner.

She was named national champion aged runner and national aged mare for winning such major national contests as the Vessels Maturity, the Los Alamitos Championship and the prestigious $200,000 Champion of Champions classic at Los Alamitos near Los Angeles, California.

This season, Denim N Diamonds has won all four races. She began by capturing the Horseman's Quarter Horse Racing Association Championship in January at Los Alamitos and then won the Go Together Stakes on May 16 at Ruidoso Downs.

The brilliant mare then won the Go Man Go Handicap over 400 yards on June 5 at Los Alamitos.

She posted an easy one and one quarter-length win in the fifth Classic trial last Friday with the second-fastest qualifying time of 21:71. That was her seventh straight triumph.

Denim N Diamonds was a bargain $32,000 purchase in the 1978 All-American Select Quarter Horse Yearling Sale at Ruidoso Downs.

Rule The Deck, meanwhile is on a fabulous winning streak. The four-year old Scout Leader mare has captured eight consecutive races dating back to last September at the New Mexico State Fair meeting in Albuquerque.

She's undefeated in four races this season including a win by almost one length in the $150,385 Rainbow Silver Cup over 440 yards on June 20 at Ruidoso Downs.

She hasn't been defeated since losing a neck decision to Higheasterjet in last August's $1 million All-American Derby at Ruidoso Downs. In 1981, she posted eight wins with one second and one third from 13 outs and earnings of $177,672.

In scoring a win by almost one length in the third Classic trial heat last Friday, she was clocked in 21:67, the fastest qualifying time of the 10 Classic participants. It also was a seasonal fastest time as it eclipsed Rule The Deck's previous fastest 440-yard reading of 21:78 set during the Rainbow Silver Cup.

Trained by R.D. Hay, she's owned by Dirk Jones of Lubbock, Texas.

Surprisingly, the third-fastest qualifier is also a mare.

Native Gypsy, named the horse of the meet at this year's spring season at Sunland Park, zipped to a 21:80 reading while running second to Rule The Deck.

The five-year-old Special Secret mare has five wins this season with two seconds and one third from 11 appearances and earnings of $13,827. Before running third in her Ruidoso Downs debut on May 9, she tallied seven straight triumphs as at Sunland Park.

She's trained by Bob E. Arnett for the Three C Racing Stables of Pampa, Texas. Rocket Jet Bug, who ran third behind Rule The Deck and Native Gypsy, is also a threat.

The five-year-old Showum Jet gelding sped to the fifth-fastest time with a 21:87 clocking. Although his recent record doesn't display many wins, his greatest day occurred in 1980 when he captured the $560,180 Rainbow Derby, the second leg of the Triple Crown for three-year-old quarter horses.

Owned by Betty Lou Shebestor of Wynnewood, Oklahoma, Rocket Jet Bug, is trained by J.B. Montgomery.

The horse with the fourth-fastest qualifying time may well be the most improved quarter horse at Ruidoso Downs.

Solamente, a three-year-old Vikingson colt, tallied a half-length win in the fourth trial race with a fine 21:80 clocking.

It was his third straight win. He started by defeating $10,000 claiming horses going 550 yards at Ruidoso Downs on June 12 and then won an allowance race at 550 yards on June 27.

In seven outings this year for trainer Jack W. Dube, he's scored four wins with one third and earnings of $8,729 for the Arledge Ranches of Robert Lee, Texas.

Trainer Jack Brooks qualified two horses into this event.

Runnin Barre, a four-year-old Mr Hay

Bug mare had the seventh fastest qualifying time with a 21:89 while running second to Solamente.

She enjoyed a fine three-year-old season, winning five races and three seconds from nine attempts. Runnin Barre earned $83,195 for owners Robert and Juanita Ballenger of Paoli, Oklahoma.

Her most impressive victory was a half-length verdict in the Sunland Park Fall Quarter Horse Derby over 440 yards on December 13.

Brooks also qualified Ichi Rocket, a lightly raced three-year-old Ichibon colt. He started four times as a two-year-old and has been out an equal number this season. He earned a Classic berth by running second to Denim N Diamonds.

Although Bojacs Magic finished fourth behind Rule The Deck in his trial race, he still zipped to a 21:88 reading for the sixth-fastest qualifying time.

The three-year-old Sir Winsalot gelding tied for the fastest qualifying time for the Rainbow Derby on July 4. He ran fourth in the 440-yard classic for three-year-olds, beaten just a neck by Cute Investment.

If he runs back to that impressive performance, Bojacs Magic will certainly be a potent factor.

Here's the complete list of qualifiers with their qualifying times: Rule The Deck (21:67); Denim N Diamonds (21:71); Native Gypsy (21:80); Solamente (21:82); Rocket Jet Bug (21:87); Bojacs Magic (21:88); Runnin Barre (21:89); Ichi Rocket (21:89); Wise Hi (21:95); She Mite Go (21:98).

The World's Championship Quarter Horse Classic will be run as the 10th race on Sunday's 12-race program. Post time will be 1 p.m.

Council talks PUD, water rates, police building

Village manager Jim Hine explained that the program in question was one in which Ruidoso participated along with Roswell and Artesia, with an Albuquerque "wester bank."

"We're not in default—we can't be in default because we're not obligated to pay these bonds," said Hine.

In other business, the council: —Approved Chamber of Commerce request to use portions of Sudderth and Mechem Drives October 9 for the Aspen Festival parade.

—Approved Ruidoso Gymnastics Academy request to use Schoolhouse Park August 15 for a fund-raising barbecue.

—Approved the transfer of a canopy liquor license to M&S Discount Liquors. It was reported that Mrs. Florence Lackey protested the transfer on the grounds that it violated the restrictive covenants of Palmer Gateway Subdivision.

—Approved purchase of two pneumatic-tired rollers for street department from Border Machinery of El Paso, Texas, at unit cost of $29,346. There was one lower bid but the Border Machinery bid was approved because the firm offered immediate delivery.

—Approved purchase of four-by-four utility vehicle for fire department by low bidder Sierra Blanca Motors, Ruidoso, for $11,854.07.

—Took no action on bids for providing fuel, pending further study on the matter of jet fuel additive.

—Approved purchase of computer terminal for village clerk's office for $4,096 on state purchasing contract.

—Approved appointment of Buddy Buckle to personnel board.

—Appointed Fred Houston, John Howden, Rudy Flack, Bill Karn, Ed Hyman, Tim Collins, Buddy Buckle and Tim Palmer to Grindstone Canyon Dam Construction Oversight Committee.

—Appointed Tom McNeil, Preston Isaacs, Wayne Townsend, Mike Seelbach, Dan Swearingin, C. Newton Page and Hugh Johnson to board of directors of Ruidoso Water Development Corporation (amending bylaws to allow seven directors instead of five).

—Appointed Myrt Vititow, Wayne Dacy, Ben Hall, Howard Tate and Roy Parker to Airport Advisory Committee.

—Heard from Mayor George White that the Farmers Home Administration has $1.25 million available to lend to the village for extension of sewer service to Ponderosa Heights. The council agreed to study the matter of matching funds.

—Okayed renumbering of ordinances in the municipal code book by village clerk Leon Eggleston.

—Approved payment of $5,998.08 to Santa Fe attorney Frank Coppler for services to the village in Sierra Swim and Racquet Club zoning request. The council decided to wait for the final written judgment from District Court before deciding whether to appeal the court's reversal of the rezoning to the state Supreme Court. Village attorney Lee Huckstep estimated that an appeal would cost at least $3,000.

—Approved Texas-New Mexico Power Company franchise ordinance.

—Heard a report from assistant village manager Frank Potter that peak demand water production is three million gallons per day, with Alto Lake presently storing around 43 million gallons. Potter also reported that traffic counters at Schoolhouse Park registered 30,000 vehicles passing by in a 24-hour period last weekend.

—Made a correction in the July 13 meeting minutes to allow for granting of variances to the 20 feet from building requirement on fire hydrants when the hydrant would be inaccessible to firemen at that distance.

—Approved payment of $100 dues to Southeastern New Mexico Development District.

—Agreed to have village equipment clear the site for the fall Ruidoso Motorcycle Festival.

White has called a special council meeting for 4 p.m. Monday, August 2. Eggleston announced late Wednesday. On the agenda are the water and sewer rate ordinance; filling of vacancy on the water board; establishment of a negotiating committee for an effluent credit protest; and the Ponderosa Heights sewer extension.

Police surprised by building project bid problems

As for the construction project, Moore said, "The problem turned out to be the old building."

He said he had talked to the lone bidder, John Lavis of El Paso, and that Lavis had acknowledged his bid was exorbitant. The contractor explained that sub-contractors from places like El Paso, Albuquerque and Carlsbad did not want to come to Ruidoso to see an old building and bid on it, Moore said.

Another problem, the architect explained, was that many contractors, including locals, have other work which is keeping them busy and putting them over their bonding limit.

"So we were hit from two ways," he said.

Regarding the lone bid on construction, the policemen again expressed uncertainty on the cause for the situation.

Swenor noted that in 1978, when the remodeling project was proposed, architects estimated the project would cost $650,000. In March 1981, he said, a bond issue was passed for that amount.

Councilman Al Junge said Tuesday that it was strange that only one contractor bid the project. With the building industry in a slump, Junge and councilman Benny Coulston wondered why contractors avoided the jail project.

Swenor said he felt the problem lay in the nature of the building specifications. He pointed out that architects designed the project so the existing police-courts structure could be retained. The plan calls for remodeling around the cement block walls and foundation of the building.

"They (contractors) were looking at 300 days construction the way it was," Swenor said. "Now we'll probably have to go with a straight slab—it will cut down cost and time a great deal. The best opinion I have is that contractors say it is not a 'clean' construction."

Alston said he personally does not like the alternative of razing the present building. He said the structure provides adequate office space the village could use, but the jail and dispatch facilities are outdated. He agreed that working around existing walls probably scared off builders, but added that one bid is hard to draw conclusions from.

Alston also indicated he believes the money budgeted for the project is sufficient.

"The money is sufficient to erect a police-courts building," he said. "But maybe it will have to be somewhat less than desired."

Planned unit development law passed by council

Deyo said the wording of the ordinance indicates considerable flexibility on lot sizes, housing types, open space and densities. But he noted that some of the flexibility is apparently removed in other sections of the law.

He pointed out the PUD regulations on density, intensity of land use and open space contradict the flexibility encouraged in layout of a development.

The ordinance says PUD guidelines on those provisions must conform to the zoning requirements of the district in which a PUD is to be located. Under present subdivision regulations for a single family residential district, P&Z may allow 4.4 housing units per acre, 30 percent open space, and a number of land uses in a development.

Because of those regulations, Deyo contended, "We would have exactly what we have at the present time." Considering the fact zoning designations would also have to be changed if a PUD is nonconforming, Deyo asked, "Where's the flexibility?"

"The value (of a PUD) is negated by the rather vague wording of the ordinance," he continued. "It leaves a tremendous amount of arbitrary decision (on P&Z's part)."

Deyo also objected that the required minimum for a residential PUD is too small, and suggested the minimum be changed to five acres. Also, he suggested the ordinance be changed to eliminate the 25-foot buffer that is required if a PUD abuts a residential district. He said if housing in a PUD is similar to the surrounding area, then there should be no need for a buffer.

Deyo said he was confused by the proposal, adding that he was unsure if the ordinance creates a new zoning district, or if PUDs merely overlay existing districts, as the ordinance states.

Deyo also contended P&Z law states that the draft should have been scrutinized by P&Z prior to going before the council.

Deyo concluded by recommending that the village create new districts for PUDs, rewrite the amendment to specify limitations and send the draft to P&Z for study.

Huckstep responded to Deyo's criticism. He said the ordinance does not meet P&Z requirements for a public hearing. The guidelines say only district changes, conditional uses and administrative reviews constitute amendments which require public hearings.

Huckstep added that the draft was written with the help of Schuller and planning and zoning officer John Cupp, and it was modeled after a successful example from Santa Fe.

Huckstep also recommended changes in the draft. He suggested a section regarding speculation in PUD zoning be eliminated. That section stipulated a 12-month time limit for beginning construction on a PUD, and prohibited transfer of property before units are erected on the tract. He also suggested changes in wording of other provisions.

Schuller pointed out P&Z has worked on a PUD ordinance for over four years. He recommended passage, saying P&Z needs "very definitely an (PUD) ordinance and less discussion." He indicated the ordinance can be adjusted by P&Z if the commission determines revisions are necessary.

Councilman Benny Coulston commented that Deyo "made good points as to creativity" in the ordinance, and he suggested P&Z review wording in the law.

Coulston then voted for the PUD ordinance. The council approved the law unanimously, including Huckstep's recommended changes.

P&Z to consider Grindstone again

The Ruidoso Planning and Zoning Commission (P&Z) again will consider the preliminary plat of phase one of Grindstone Canyon Resort Community at its regular meeting Monday, August 2.

P&Z has heard the proposal on three occasions, but because of uncertainty in the development's relation to the planned Grindstone reservoir, tabled the request at two previous meetings.

At the 9:30 a.m. meeting at village hall, P&Z will also discuss possible ordinances or requirements for installation of microwave TV satellite antennas.

Other items to be considered are:

—Public hearing on request from John Fuchs for rezoning from C-1 (light commercial) to C-2 (general commercial) on Lot 3, Block 1, in Airport West Second Addition.

—Review of petition from Walker McAllister for vacation of portion of Virginia Canyon Road between Lots 1 and 2, Block 7; and Lots 1, 2 and 3, Block 5, Hamilton Terrace.

—Request from J. C. Capps for vacation of road right-of-way adjacent to Tract J, Palmer Gateway Subdivision.

—Petition from William Karn for vacation of portion of Center Street between Roswell and Alamogordo Streets.

—Request from Jack Yates for side and front lot line variances, Lot 3, Block 5 in Paradise Canyon.

—Replat of Lot 5, Block 4 in Hamilton Terrace for Todd Beckman.

—Replat of Lot 9, Block 1 in Camelot Mountain Estates for Sam Moore.

—Five-foot side lot line variance, Lot 62, Block 3 in Paradise Canyon for John Gilbert.

—Final plat, Whispering Pines of Camelot Mountain for Steve Scott.

—Final plat, Tiara Del Sol for William B. Hoff.

—Sketch plat, Apache Village Townhomes for James Kimrey and Bob Hurt.

—Replat of Lots 6 through 10, Block 3, Golf Course Estates for Glen Riley.

—Preliminary plat, Camelot Crown Estates, Units 2, 3 and 4, for Surety Savings and United Savings of Texas.

—Final plat of Lost Mountain Estates for Blaney Land Company.

—Reconsideration of preliminary plat of Town and Country North, Unit 3, for Blaney Land Company.

Lake Lucero tour set

An auto caravan to Lake Lucero, a part of the area that is the source of the white sands, is scheduled for Saturday, July 31, 1982. The caravan is limited to 30 cars and reservations are required. Interested persons should call the monument headquarters at 437-1058.

The trip will begin at 9 a.m. at the Small Missile Range road intersection with U.S. Highway 70/82, 25 miles west of White Sands National Monument headquarters. Park rangers and military police will brief the group on regulations that apply during the trip.

Mexican business survey underway

A team of student workers from New Mexico State University (NMSU) is querying Ruidoso area merchants this week about the number of Mexicans doing business in Ruidoso.

The data collection is part of a project being conducted by NMSU's Center for Business Research and Services to assess the economic impact of Mexican trade in southern New Mexico. The information is being gathered for the New Mexico Border Commission and the project is funded by the NMSU business center and the New Mexico Department of Commerce and Industry.

According to Ed C. Jungbluth, executive director of the Ruidoso Chamber of Commerce, "In the past few years, the influx of Mexican nationals in Ruidoso have certainly proved themselves to be business here. I urge everybody to cooperate with this survey so that the information will be complete."

MINIATURES such as these, handcrafted by members of the St. Anne's Guild, will be for sale at the Christmas in July bazaar this Saturday at the Episcopal Church of the Holy Mount. All items to be sold at the bazaar have been hand made by members of the guild.

Bob Lilly to speak

Bob Lilly, the former Dallas Cowboy all-pro defensive tackle, will speak at 7:30 p.m. Friday at the new convention center at the Inn of the Mountain Gods.

Lilly, who was a star football and basketball player in Throckmorton, Texas, in the 1950s, played college football at Texas Christian University. He made all-conference two years there before joining the Cowboys in 1961.

He played with Dallas for 14 years, making all-pro 11 times and playing in two Super Bowls. Lilly was voted into the Pro Football Hall of Fame in 1980, the first year he was eligible. He retired in 1975 and now lives in Waco, Texas.

The public is invited to hear Lilly speak, at no charge. Full Gospel Business Men's International is sponsoring his appearance.

BOB LILLY

Angus Church to host guest speaker

The Reverend Leon Wyss, superintendent of the New Mexico District of the Church of the Nazarene, will speak at the Angus Church of the Nazarene during the 11 a.m. worship service, Sunday, August 1.

Wyss has served as pastor of churches in Missouri, Texas, California and New Mexico, and has spent five years as a full-time evangelist.

He and his wife Elizabeth currently reside in Albuquerque.

The public is invited to attend the worship service, which will be held in the District Campground Tabernacle. The evening service will also be held there this Sunday.

Christmas in July bazaar scheduled this Saturday

The annual Christmas in July bazaar is this Saturday beginning at 9 a.m. at the Episcopal Church of the Holy Mount. The bazaar is the major fund raiser for the St. Anne's Guild and has taken place annually for about 20 years.

All items for sale at the bazaar have been hand made by members of the guild, who work year-round on crafts and projects.

An assortment of homemade candies and baked goods, including fairs (soft caramels with nuts dipped in chocolate), English toffee by the slab, pizzelle (Italian cookies), and homemade noodles will be for sale. There will also be a lemonade stand, and a luncheon will be served from 11 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Other handmade items that will be available for purchase at the bazaar are brass rubbings, miniatures, dolls, Santos, pottery, crocheted items and Christmas egg ornaments. There will also be a white elephant booth.

An R. C. Gorman lithograph valued at about $1,300 will be presented during the bazaar to a lucky ticket-holder. Framing of the lithograph was donated by the Jim Pless Gallery. Tickets for a chance at the drawing can be purchased for $1 each at the Aspen Tree book store until Saturday.

A kitchen cupboard stocked with fresh bread, relishes, jellies and other goodies will also be given away as a door prize.

Funds raised during the Christmas in July bazaar are used for various projects throughout the year and are added to the church budget and building fund.

Delana Michaels awarded Oscar

Delana Michaels, daughter of Carmon and Leona Mae Phillips of Ruidoso, was awarded the 1981 Academy of Christian Cinematographic Arts Christian Oscar Award Saturday, July 17, in Dallas, Texas. The award was for "best actress of the year."

She won the Oscar for her starring role in "Early Warning," a film that had recently won the Religion in Media Award for best international drama.

Delana is a graduate of Ruidoso High School and received a bachelor's degree in theater from Eastern New Mexico University in Portales.

Local theater group to initiate membership drive

Hap Hanson, director of the recent Ruidoso Little Theater (RLT) production of "Arsenic and Old Lace," outlined plans for continued efforts by the local theater group.

Letters will go out in the coming weeks to prospective members of RLT, said Hanson. He explained that there will be three types of memberships available.

Regular memberships, at $10 a year, will entitle holders to reduced ticket prices for RLT shows. Sponsor memberships, at $100 or more per year, will entitle members to have their names in theater programs; invitation to dress rehearsals; and a larger reduction in ticket prices.

Life memberships, at $1,000 per year or more, will be acknowledged in programs and carry free admission to shows.

Hanson said "Arsenic" netted around $1,800 and expressed optimism about RLT achieving its goal of a permanent home. He thanked Security Bank, the Inn of the Mountain Gods, and all others contributing to the show's success.

RLT plans to produce its next show in October, Hanson said. The group's board of governors consists of Betty Bennett, president; Dick Reeves, vice-president; Sandy Knox, secretary; Sherman Atwood, treasurer; and Mary Lou Brown, Najla Sluder and Hanson, members.

Hanson said RLT is interested in talking to anyone with experience in lighting, set building, publicity or any other aspect of community theater.

Information can be requested by writing to RLT at Box 1963, Ruidoso.

Methodist Church stresses community involvement

by BARBY GRANT
Staff Writer/Photographer

Community seems to be the key word in the name Community United Methodist Church.

"To me, to some degree or another, to relate to the community at some point or another is important," said the Reverend Charles Spooner, minister of the church. That appears to be a basic philosophy of the Community United Methodist Church.

A Summer Preaching Series is offered annually "to provide a ministry to the resort population and indirectly, to draw some resort population to the community," according to Spooner. The second annual Summer Preaching Series was held the middle of July and turned out "super," Spooner said.

The program is offered for summer visitors to the area "just so they'll know Ruidoso and have a purpose in coming here besides skiing and horse racing," the minister noted.

"It gives us exposure, it gives Ruidoso exposure, and it provides a ministry to the people," he added.

To accomplish the purpose of the series, a "name" preacher is brought in and special music is provided by groups from other communities.

Dr. Charles Allen, who serves at First Methodist Church in Houston, Texas—the largest church in Methodism—has been featured speaker of the preaching series the past two years. Allen has authored 36 books, Spooner reported, and his primary ministry is as visiting speaker at different churches.

The Summer Preaching Series is advertised in several out-of-town newspapers as a means of attracting visitors for the program, Spooner reported.

An additional community service provided by the church is making their facilities available to other groups. A local Christian Science group meets in one of the classrooms of the Methodist church each week and the Seventh Day Adventists formerly met there.

"One of our goals is to make our facilities available to such groups as the Christian Scientists," Spooner noted.

"We're open to most any community organization that needs a place to meet," he added.

Spooner said he sees no conflict in allowing other denominational or religious groups to meet at his church. "I feel we should cooperate within the mutual goal of seeking fulfillment in God," he explained.

Spooner said he feels there are not really any basic differences among denominations. "It's all what adjectives you like," he said. "It's like asking me the difference between Phillips 66 and Texaco." The decision towards one or the other is a matter of personal preference, the minister explained.

He said he is very much in favor of ecumenicalism. "I'm willing to work with most any denomination," he said. "Most Methodist churches are involved in some way with all churches."

He is involved in a local ministerial alliance with several other local church denominations—including Baptist, Presbyterian, Episcopal, Reformed and Nazarene. The group's activities include sharing chaplain related services at the hospital, providing aid to transients, and organizing community Thanksgiving and Holy Week services.

"It is important to be involved in community activities and cooperate with other churches," the minister said.

In addition to being a member of the Ministerial Alliance, Spooner is president of the Ruidoso Care Center Auxiliary—a community group which provides services for the elderly.

The minister is also chief of the Ruidoso Volunteer Fire Department. This goes along with his need to be involved in the community and with a personal interest, Spooner noted. The minister served as an emergency medical technician and was head of ambulance service personnel in Hagerman, New Mexico, where he lived before moving to Ruidoso.

He moved here a little over two years ago, when he was appointed minister of this church. In the Methodist Church system, ministers are appointed to a church by the bishop and his cabinet.

"They assessed my needs, the needs of the congregation, and the needs of the area and made a decision," Spooner said. Appointments are made in consultation with the clergy and local church, he noted.

He said this system of appointing ministers to a church is probably about as successful as having a church search for its own pastor. Most Methodist ministers are guaranteed a job under the appointive system, however.

Spooner pointed out that Methodism stresses education of its clergymen and encourages them to have a divinity degree or the equivalent of one.

He feels that Methodist ministers are not necessarily better at their profession, however, just because they may be more educated.

"To me it's only as good as a man can do anything with it," he commented.

Spooner earned a degree in religion with a minor in math from McMurry College in Abilene, Texas, and then graduated from Brite Divinity School at Texas Christian University in Fort Worth, Texas.

He had begun working toward an engineering degree at the University of New Mexico when he became aware that his needs were being met through the message of the church. "I felt called to meet the needs of others through the ministry," he related.

Since earning his divinity degree, Spooner has been minister to churches in Albuquerque; in Elida, New Mexico; and in Hagerman in addition to his present position in Ruidoso.

Membership of the church here is about 225, he reported, and the church is in a "rebuilding state."

Extensive remodeling of facilities has been going on for the past two years. Construction of the church was first begun in 1947, and it now includes a sanctuary building, fellowship hall and a two-room Sunday School class building, the minister reported.

The church's rebuilding process also includes efforts to create pride about the worship services and other church programs as well as about the facilities, Spooner commented.

"If there is not a pride about it, (members) are not going to share about it; they won't invite new people if there are internal problems," the minister stated.

He is working to create new leadership within the church—through a broad range of age groups—and to reach new people.

"It's just part of doing the best job I can do," Spooner said about his efforts to create pride in his church.

Worship services are held at the church Sunday mornings at 10:30 a.m. with an additional 8:30 early service during the summer. Sunday school classes for all ages are held at 9:30 a.m. each Sunday.

A children's choir is currently being organized, Spooner reported.

The church also offers a United Methodist Women's group, which is a service and study organization that meets once a month. The men also have a group, which meets for a breakfast once each month.

Spooner said he feels the status of churches throughout the country has not changed that much in recent years.

"Generally speaking, it's no different than it has been. There have been new and different trends in the past years to make it look different or feel different for people."

The church has become less of a social center than it was in the past, he commented. In the 1920s the church was the social center of the community, he explained, but now it is only one of a number of community gathering places.

"Now the church is one of the social centers, but spiritual and religious aspects are more key now than they were," he added.

Spiritual and religious matters, fellowship and education should all be important parts of the church, he explained. It can have social significance, also, the minister noted, but that should be a feature of its makeup rather than its purpose.

Spooner differentiates between spiritual and religious matters as "things of a person's heart" being spiritual and "things that help build that up in an individual and in a corporate sense" being religious.

He characterizes his church as being midline, with "tinges" of conservatism and liberalism.

But the most outstanding feature of this church and its pastor is community involvement.

"As part of the community in general, I support it the best I can," Spooner concluded.

THE REVEREND CHARLES SPOONER has been minister at the Methodist Church for a little more than two years and feels involvement in community activities is an important aspect of his position.

THE COMMUNITY UNITED METHODIST CHURCH is working on building pride in its facilities and its services. The church earns its name by its involvement in community affairs and its outreach to those outside the church.

ELIMINATED FROM TOURNEY

Ruidoso All-Stars lose heartbreaker

The Ruidoso Little League All-Stars saw their dream of a district championship end Monday night in Artesia when they were edged 7-6 by a strong Alamogordo Optimist team.

Thus Ruidoso was eliminated from district action despite having a 2-2 record, its best in at least 10 years.

Alamogordo Optimist scored three runs in the top of the fifth inning, culminating a rally from a 6-3 deficit.

Ruidoso had a good chance to tie or win the game in the bottom of the sixth inning. Brian Davis, Kirk Ryan and Bronson Rue each singled. However, one runner was forced and a fly out and an infield pop out ended the inning and game without Ruidoso scoring.

Ruidoso had taken a 6-3 lead in the third inning, getting five runs and six hits. Mike Lewis belted a double while Jef Sherwood, Jason Lewis, Victor Castanada, Davis and Dickie Bruner each belted a single.

Alamogordo Optimist scored three times in the first inning to take a 3-0 lead. However, Ruidoso came back with a single run in its half of the opening inning.

After Ruidoso had its five-run explosion in the third, Alamogordo Optimist scored once in the top of the fourth before it started its three-run rally in the fifth.

Ryan, who defeated Roswell Eastside 8-7 Friday night, pitched the entire game and allowed 10 hits. Ruidoso also belted 10 hits. Ryan also teamed with Rue and Bruner for a double play. Castanada only played three innings in left field but was a perfect two for two at the plate.

Ruidoso manager Rex Beatty was pleased with the way his athletes played in the tournament.

"They played well," he said of his players. "I don't believe Ruidoso has ever won a district game before and we won two this time. The kids had a good time and we're satisfied with their play."

Joe Gonzales is the only one of the Ruidoso All-Stars who will be eligible for district tournament play next year. He's only 11 while the rest of the players are 12 and will be too old for Little League next season.

Artesia (which is undefeated in the district tournament so far) has mostly 11 year olds on its team," Beatty said. "So they'll probably be tough again next year."

Alamogordo Optimist is one of four teams remaining in the district tournament. Artesia, Roswell Noon Optimist and Alamogordo Sertoma are the remaining clubs.

The winner of the district tournament advances to the state tournament next week.

Attic and Friends stays unbeaten in women's slow pitch softball

The Attic and Friends stayed undefeated in Lincoln County Women's Softball Association action with a 12-7 victory over the Shady Ladies Monday night.

Thus, the Attic and Friends are now 13-0 on the season. In other games Monday night, the Angels beat the Foxes 16-7, the Country Blues nipped Cousins' 9-8 and the Fire beat Apache Tears. No score was available for the latter game. The Rebels had a bye.

The Country Blues are second in the standings with an 11-2 record. The Fire is 10-3 in third place. Following the top three are the Rebels (9-4), Angels (7-6), Cousins' (6-7), Apache Tears (6-7), Shady Ladies (5-8) and the Foxes (1-12).

KIRK RYAN pitched well in the Ruidoso Little League All-Stars' narrow 7-6 loss to Alamogordo Optimist Monday night at Artesia in the district tournament. He was the winning pitcher in last Friday's 8-7 victory over Roswell Eastside. Photo by Rick Hassler, Artesia Daily Press.

Quality field assured for Cree Meadows tourney

A top quality field will compete in the 34th annual Cree Meadows Men's Golf Invitational which begins Monday at Cree Meadows Country Club.

About 160 golfers are expected to compete in the match play tournament, which is by far the oldest in the Ruidoso area.

Angus Baker, who finished second in the championship flight last year, will return this time around. Baker, who is from Fort Worth, Texas, and went to college in Hobbs, lost in sudden-death on the 19th hole to Mark Jarrett. Jarrett has turned professional and won't compete in this year's tournament.

Other excellent players who are scheduled to compete this year include Tom Hornbuckle, Wayne Wright, Doug Bass, Charles Wright, Jessie Blackwelder, Jeff Slottz, John Fields, Roger Upham, Bob Golightly, Howard Hassell and Jeff Seager.

Bass, a local player, won the first flight championship last year and Wayne Wright finished second.

Hornbuckle, another local golfer, won the championship flight consolation title last year. He defeated Ed Wilson seven and five in the consolation finals with a brilliant eight under par round.

About 40 players will attempt to qualify Monday for the 16 slots in the championship flight. The rest of the golfers will just shoot practice rounds that day. The tournament will run through Thursday.

DALE PEARSON of Ruidoso recently won the giant slalom title in the $10,000 Summer Pro Race at Timberline Lodge, Oregon. He won $1,500 for his efforts and also finished third in the slalom event. He is a 1976 graduate of Ruidoso High School.

Local skier does well in Oregon giant slalom

Dale Pearson, a Ruidoso resident, won the giant slalom skiing event in the $10,000 Summer Pro Race in Timberline Lodge, Oregon, on July 4.

Pearson, 24, won $1,500 for his efforts and was the weekend's top money winner. He also finished third in the slalom race July 3.

Pearson is racing full-time on the professional racing circuit. The Timberline Lodge race was his first victory.

He also teaches at a skiing training school in Bend, Oregon, during the summer.

Pearson graduated from Ruidoso High School in 1976 and from the University of Colorado in 1980.

The 6-2, 205 pound ex-Warrior is one of the finest all-around athletes in New Mexico. He has run the 40 yard dash in 4.7 and the 440 yard dash in under 68 seconds in full football gear. He made the AAA all-state squad as a linebacker.

He also finished third in both the discus and shot put in the state AAA track meet in May. He also ran on the Warriors' three relay teams in the state meet, a great feat in itself.

Unlike some high school athletes, he has less than seven percent body fat on his athletic frame. That helps him to be extremely quick and agile for a 205 pound athlete.

"We are all proud of Lon and I know he has to be in the best shape of anyone on the team," said Don Nunley, Lon's twin brother, who is also a standout athlete.
"Anyone who can do one-and-one-half miles worth of sprints after running a mile and then run another two miles while doing the United States Forestry workout every Tuesday and Thursday has got to be in shape.

"Then, on Monday, Wednesday and Friday, he goes through a weight training program at the high school. On Saturdays, he does another one-and-a-half miles of hill sprints."

Billy Woodul, the Ruidoso quarterback who has one year of high school football left, is also high in his praise of Lon.

"It's dedication. He has great dedication and leaves no rock unturned to be better than he is."

Lon Nunley has beaten the odds of a small town boy by getting a full scholarship from UNM as well as making the South All-Star football squad.

He gives the credit to his family, coaches, teachers, community, and fellow players on the Ruidoso High School team.

South, North All-Star gridgers play tomorrow

The South will be looking to end a seven-game losing streak when it tangles with the North in the 39th annual high school All-Star football game at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow in the University of New Mexico (UNM) football stadium.

The South last won in 1974 but still holds a 22-13 series edge. There have been three ties.

Lon Nunley will be the only Ruidoso High School graduate on the South team.

He will probably see considerable action at outside linebacker.

Last year the North won 40-0. However, the South has plenty of size this year.

Roswell High School has two huge linemen on the South team. John Medrano weighs 225 pounds and Brent Medrano 210. George Rivas of Silver City (the only other district 3-AAA school besides Ruidoso represented on the South team) weighs 210 pounds. He was a key factor in Silver City winning the district crown and finishing second in the state.

State AAAA champion Clovis has several players on the squad, including 195 pound lineman Scott Walker and running back Joe Lucero.

The North also has good size and quickness. Steve Lucero of Manzano and Gallup's Bill Rucker will probably share the quarterback duties. Several North linemen weigh over 200 pounds.

Jody Villa of Albuquerque High School will coach the North squad while Tom Gruber of state AAA champion Portales will be the South mentor.

Tickets to the game can be purchased at the gate for $3.50.

NOTE: One blow to the South's chances for a victory is the fact that All-

American running back Tim Smith of Hobbs has decided to play on the South

AAAA-AAA All-Star basketball team which tangles with the North tonight.

There will also be a AA-A All-Star basketball game preceding the AAAA-AAA contest. Smith ran for 31 touchdowns and 2,306 yards as Hobbs finished second in the AAAA division last fall.

Blues impressive victors in fast pitch tourney

The Ruidoso Blues led all the way in taking a decisive 9-1 victory over the Jaws in a Ruidoso Men's Fast Pitch Softball League tournament game Wednesday night at All-American Park Field in Ruidoso Downs.

In another Wednesday night contest,
PLS scored seven runs in the bottom of the fifth inning to take a 16-9 victory over Magnum's.

The Blues led 2-0 after the first inning.
However, after the Jaws scored one run in the top of the second inning, the Blues tallied four runs in their half of that inning to take a 6-1 advantage. The Blues breezed in for the victory after that.

Paul Walters was the winning pitcher and Hal Cliff took the defeat.

Robert Beavers was the top hitter for the Blues, belting a triple and a double. He drove in two runs. Cody Brown, Walters and Ron Buckner each belted two hits for the winners.

In games Tuesday night, the regular season National Division champion Mesalero Chips belted the No Names 9-1 and the American Division winning Cardinales toppled the Village Jewelers 8-6.

The Chips belted 10 hits with a well-balanced attack. Rick Reimann tripled for the No Names' only hit and drove in their only run.

Richard Lopez pitched three innings and picked up the victory for the Chips. Bobby Diaz pitched the final two innings for the winners.

The Chips scored three times in the first inning and six in the second en route to their victory.

Ernest Kadayso was the winning pitcher for the Cardinales in their victory over the Village Jewelers. Weaver Ballard took the loss.

In consolation games tonight, the No Names will play Magnum's at 6:30 and the Village Jewelers will take on the Jaws in the second contest.

In games next Tuesday for undefeated teams, the Chips will tangle with the Cardinales at 6:30 p.m. and Blues will play
PLS in the second contest.

Local athletes must take exams

Any boy or girl who wants to compete in any sport for Ruidoso High School, White Mountain Middle School and the Capitan and Hondo schools for the 1982-83 school year must have a physical examination in the Ruidoso High School gym Wednesday.

The examinations are free and will be given by local doctors. Athletes won't be allowed to practice without the physical.
Athletes who don't go Wednesday will have to have the examination on their own and pay for it.

Athletes must wear T-shirts and shorts to the exam. A schedule of times for the physicals will be released next week.

LEY does some pullups while getting in shape for the North-Star football game. Nunley, who made the all-state AAA team backer, should see plenty of action in the game at that position.
scheduled for 7:30 p.m. tomorrow at the University of New Mexico football stadium, pits the best players from the southern and northern parts of the state against each other. The All-Star basketball games will be played tonight.

Ruidoso Downs Hoofbeats

by MARK GORDON
TWO OF QUARTER HORSE RACING'S greatest mares head the field for the 14th running of the World's Championship Quarter Horse Classic this Sunday at Ruidoso Downs. Denim N Diamonds, a winner of seven consecutive races, and Rule The Deck, a victress in her last eight contests, turned in the two fastest times from Thursday's five 440-yard trial races.

The winner of Sunday's 440-yard classic will earn $67,747.50 from the trial purse of $135,495. Denim N Diamonds, a five-year-old Timoteo Thinkrich mare, is seventh on the all-time list of quarter horse money-makers, with earnings of $624,142 for owner R.D. Hubbard of Wichita, Kansas. She's won 22 races with four seconds and one third in 30 races. Denim N Diamonds was brilliant last season, winning nine of 10 races including the Champion of Champions classic in December at Los Alamitos near Los Angeles, California. Denim N Diamonds had the second fastest qualifying time, a 21.71. Rule The Deck has been equally superb. The four-year-old Scout Leader mare has not been defeated since she ran third, just a neck behind Higheasterjet in last August's $1 million All-American Derby at Ruidoso Downs. Her biggest victory this year was winning by almost one length in the Rainbow Silver Cup over 440 yards on June 20 at Ruidoso Downs. She won eight races in 1981 with one second and one third for earnings of $177,672 for owner Dirk Jones of Lubbock, Texas. Texans again dominated the owners' list as six of the 10 entrants are owned by Texans, while Oklahomans own three participants and one Kansan is included in the field. Trainer Jack W. Brooks was the only conditioner qualifying more than one runner. The Oklahoman earned berths with Runnin Barre, who won last fall's Sunland Park Fall Quarter Horse

Derby, and Ichi Rocket.

THE COMPLETE LIST of qualifiers and their qualifying times: Rule The Deck (21.67); Denim N Diamonds (21.71); Native Gypsy (21.80); Solamente (21.82); Rocket Jet Bug (21.87); Bojacs Magic (21.88); Runnin Barre (21.89); Ichi Rocket (21.93); Wise Hi (21.95); She Mite Go (21.98).

RULE THE DECK captured her eighth consecutive victory when she roared to a brilliant 21.67 clocking while winning the third division of the World's Championship Quarter Horse Classic trials on Thursday. She started her string last September at the New Mexico State Fair meeting in Albuquerque and has won all four starts this season. The four-year-old Scout Leader mare also snapped her seasonal fastest time with her swift reading. Her previous best this season was a 21.78 while winning the Rainbow Silver Cup on June 20.

SATURDAY'S WORKOUT tab showed drills for the nation's outstanding horses. Tropic Ruler, who won an allowance race last summer at Ruidoso Downs, worked three furlongs in a rapid 35 3/5. Tropic Ruler earned almost $400,000 in a brilliant two-year-old season when he won 12 races. Match Strides, who finished fourth as a 1-2 favorite in the 1982 Riley Allison Futurity at Sunland Park, worked five furlongs in a swift 1:01 2/5. Match Strides competed at several Western tracks after his two Sunland Park races in 1981. Johnny Vittoro, a standout quarter horse in Louisiana and the winner of the 1981 Sunland Park Fall Quarter Horse Futurity, worked 330 yards in 17.6.

LUCKS GAY CHIC posted a seasonal fastest time when he ripped to a 19.87 reading over the 400 yards while winning Saturday's sixth race by one and one quarter lengths over Lightfooted. The four-year-old What Luck horse maintained his record of finishing first or second in every race in his three and four-year-old racing career. It was his third win this season with one second by less than one length to Rule The Deck in the Rainbow Silver Cup. He's trained by Hugh Tucker for the Travis Ranch of Norman, Oklahoma. Jacky Martin again rode the standout runner. The previous fastest 400-yard reading this season was a 19.91 by Lightfooted on June 27.

JILTALOOM BLAZED to a 1:06 reading while drawing out to a four-length win in Saturday's Hondo Valley Purse over five and one half furlongs. It was one of the fastest readings in recent years and was just four-fifths seconds off the track record of 1:05 1/5 set by Barlaris on June 12, 1971. The victory was the four-year-old Loom colt's third this year with three seconds and one third in six appearances for trainer Bob E. Arnett. Owned by Hugh C. Preston Jr. of Burkburnett, Texas, Jiltaloom was ridden by Joe Martinez. The previous fastest five and one half-furlong this season was 1:06 4/5 by Fill Mackis Cup on July 17.

JOE MARTINEZ ENJOYED the first day any rider has had this season at Ruidoso Downs when he piloted five winners from his eight mounts on Saturday's program. Martinez won the opener on Sailing Blade ($9.00) for trainer William F. Leach, took the third on Western Dusk ($6.40) for owner-trainer Richard W. Anderson, captured the eighth on Short Shrift ($9.80) for trainer Leach, won the Hondo Valley Purse on Jiltaloom ($6.00) for trainer Bob E. Arnett and then capped his outstanding effort with a win on Heza Chum ($13.00) in the 11th race.

DRIVEN FIRE POSTED his fifth consecutive victory when he captured

Friday's seventh race at 400 yards. The four-year-old Grate Fire gelding started his streak on December 13 of last year at Sunland Park, then won his first three outings this spring at the west El Paso track. Friday's victory was his first appearance since winning a race for $12,500 claimers on April 11 at Sunland Park. Jimmie Hunt has ridden him in his last four triumphs for trainer Cindy Stewart. He's owned by John Pape of Victoria, Texas. Driven Fire was timed in 19.99 for defeating nine foes running for a $15,000 claiming price.

A FULL BROTHER and sister team had a successful day during Friday's races. Martironi, a four-year-old filly, ran second in the eighth race at five and one half furlongs while Maparoni, a three-year-old gelding, won the ninth race at five and one half furlongs by an easy five lengths. Both horses are by Rhymeroni out of Mucho Marti and are owned by Claude C. Cowan of Dundee, Texas. Albert P. Frazzini trains both runners while apprentice Rubin Miranda rode both.

RUIDOSO DOWNS HAS ANNOUNCED the four Wednesday racing programs in August have been designated as ladies days and senior citizens days. Ladies and senior citizens, those people 60 years of age or older, will receive free general admission those days. Senior citizens will simply be required to show some identification indicating their age.

BEFORE THE FLOOD set a seasonal fastest time by zipping to a 1:42 2/5 clocking for winning Saturday's fifth race at one mile. The four-year-old Antidiluvian gelding drew clear under Pedro Benitez for a widening four-length victory over Big Boon. Trained by Robert L. Dolman, he's owned by Mary E. Kent of Ruidoso. The previous best reading for a mile this season was a 1:42 2/5 set by Strongly on June 26.

FILL MACKIS CUP won his third consecutive race when he scampered to a neck victory over outsider Arrogant Boy in Sunday's ninth race at one mile. The Raise A Cup gelding started his streak with a four and one half-length win over Dunker Bill in a six and one half-furlong allowance race on July 2, then took a half-length win over Capense in a five and one half-furlong dash on July 17. Trained by William F. Leach, Fill Mackis Cup is owned by Mack Yates of Cherokee, Texas. Kevin Scholl rode him on Sunday.

HORSES WHO HAVE RUN this spring and summer at Sunland Park and Ruidoso Downs had an excellent showing in the Land of Enchantment Futurity on Sunday at La Mesa Park in Raton. Running Bucket, who was second in both the Riley Allison Futurity at Sunland Park and the Norgor Thoroughbred Futurity at Ruidoso Downs, won that prestigious race for two-year-old thoroughbreds, Sundays Payday, the winner of the Norgor Thoroughbred Futurity, was second, while Hard And Bold, a frequent campaigner in southern New Mexico was third and Sunnily Smashed, another local product, was fourth. Running Bucket is owned by E. Wayne or James Johnson of Huntington, Texas, and is trained by Clifford C. Lambert.

In stewards' rulings: Jockey Angel Jacobo was suspended three racing days (July 29, 30, 31) for careless riding aboard Queen's Circle in Friday's 11th race.

SUNDAY'S HANDLE of $798,935 was fourth-best so far this season, and surpassed, by nearly four percent, the $769,742 handle recorded on this day a year ago. That comparable Sunday in '81 was also the day of the Rainbow Futurity (won by Special Effort). After 48 race days, the total handle is $24,095,915, a daily average of $501,998. Betting-per-race is $40,362. At this point last year, 45 race days were in the books. The handle stood at $23,158,082, the daily average was $514,624, and the per-race average was $39,722.

Favorites surpass national average

With just 29 days remaining in this summer's 77-day horse racing season, favorites at Ruidoso Downs are still winning at a rate higher than the national average.

A total of 228 of the 597 wagering favorites have posted victories for a fine average of 38.1. The national average for winning favorites is around 32 percent.

Besides the winners, 228 favorites have finished first, second or third for a percentage of 67.1.

The 12th weekend of horse racing at the mountain track saw 15 of the 48 public selections record wins for a 31.2 percent average and 27 finished in one of the first three money positions. That's a slightly lower than normal 56.2 percent.

Favorites enjoyed their best day over the weekend on Saturday when five hit the winner's circle. Four favorites won on Sunday while three each prevailed on Thursday and Friday.

Odd's on favorites (those horses who left the starting gate with odds of less than even money) had a fine weekend. Six won while one ran second and just two failed to finish among the first three horses.

The weekend's biggest favorite, Denim N Diamonds, performed as expected, winning Thursday's ninth race. The Timoteo Thinkrich daughter returned a paltry $2.40.

The weekend's highest-priced winning favorite was Dynamic Sesenta, who returned $6.60 to win Sunday's sixth race. It was the second straight racing day for the versatile runner who ran sixth in Saturday's eighth race at 870 yards.

THE CURRENT HANDLE at Ruidoso Downs, after 48 race days and 597 races, is $24,095,915; the current daily wagering average is $501,998; and current wagering per race is $40,362. At the same time last year, the handle was $23,158,082; wagering average was $514,624; and per race wagering $39,722. The daily average is down 2.45 percent and per race wagering is up 1.61 percent.

Martinez and Native Gypsy old friends

By MARK GORDON
Native Gypsy is certainly no stranger to Joe Martinez.
"I broke her maiden here at Ruidoso Downs (on August 16, 1980) in a claiming race for $7,500," said the 21-year-old jockey. "She was claimed from that race and it really was a bargain."
Indeed it was. Native Gypsy has improved with age and now has a chance to take a major step in her career when she faces nine foes in Sunday's 14th edition of the World's Championship Quarter Horse Classic at Ruidoso Downs.
The winner of this 440-yard classic will collect $67,747 from the total purse of $135,495.

Martinez rode the five-year-old Special Secret mare in last Friday's third trial race. The mare, as usual, ran strongly at the end to take second, beaten less than one length by Rule The Deck. Native Gypsy's time of 21:80 for the 440-yard dash was the third-fastest qualifying reading.
"That was our plan," Martinez said. "If we could just lay off about a length from Rule The Deck, we knew she'd have one of the fastest times so we figured we'd get in, too."
That's exactly what happened. Rule The Deck, a winner of eight straight races, posted a 21:67, the fastest Classic qualifying time and the best 440-reading this season at Ruidoso Downs.

Native Gypsy has also been on a phenomenal winning streak in recent months. She posted seven consecutive victories this past season at Sunland Park.
Native Gypsy was undefeated in four outings during the past spring season at Sunland Park. For that remarkable performance, she was named Sunland Park's spring season horse-of-the-meet, best older quarter horse and best handicap horse. In the Sunland Park fall season, she garnered best older quarter horse and best handicap horse citations.
"She feels a lot better now than when I first rode her," Martinez said. "Ever since Bob (trainer Bob E. Arnett) claimed her, she's really improved. She's so consistent. She's as good as she's ever been."
Native Gypsy has posted 12 lifetime victories — three at Ruidoso Downs and nine at Sunland Park. In 1981, she won four races with six seconds and two thirds from 14 outings. This season, she's posted five wins with two seconds and one third from 11 appearances.
In the past two seasons, she's been lower than third only five times in 25 trips to the post.
Native Gypsy likes to run at the end of her races and has used this method profitably.
"She runs at the end very well," said Martinez. "She breaks pretty good, but you have to let her stride out when she wants and then she gets faster. You've got to let her run on her own. She's as good a quarter horse mare as I've ridden."

This Classic will be Martinez' first ride in this major event for three-year-old and older quarter horses. While he realizes Native Gypsy's ability, he also knows who his major foes will be.
"We have to outrun Rule The Deck and Demin N Diamonds. They had the two fastest qualifying times and they'll be really tough," he said.
Rule The Deck's biggest triumph this year was winning by almost one length in the $150,385 Rainbow Silver Cup over 440 yards on June 20 at Ruidoso Downs. The four-year-old Scout Leader mare has won all four races this year.
Demin N Diamonds is perhaps the finest mare in quarter horse racing history. She's earned $671,348 to place her seventh among all-time quarter horse money winners.
The five-year-old Timeto Thinkrich mare won nine of 10 races last season (from 10 outings) and earned $365,102 in 1981, a record for an older quarter horse runner. She was also named national champion aged runner and national aged mare.
"Native Gypsy's sound and always gives her best. I don't know if she can beat Rule The Deck or Demin N Diamonds, but I know she'll make them run," Martinez said.

SOLAMENTE, a three-year-old Vikingson gelding, had the fourth fastest qualifying time for this Sunday's (August 1) World's Championship Quarter Horse Classic at Ruidoso Downs. The gelding has won four races this season with one third. Trained by Jack W. Dube, he's owned by the Arledge Ranches of Robert Lee, Texas. Larry Byers rode him in the trials last week.

Jockey/Trainer of the week

by MARK GORDON
Winning races is nothing new to Joe Martinez.
He's been successful wherever he's competed. But the 21-year-old rider enjoyed one of his greatest days in an already brilliant career when he piloted five winners on Saturday's program at Ruidoso Downs.
Over the four-day weekend, he steered six horses into the winner's circle and easily captured Jockey-Of-The-Week honors for the 12th weekend of horse racing at the mountain track.
It was Martinez's third honor this month as he is making major inroads into leading jockey Jacky Martin's advantage.
Martinez now trails Martin, who has led practically throughout the entire meeting, by just two victories. He has 41 victories with 37 seconds and 37 thirds from 249 mounts. His winning percentage is .164.
Martin, who dominated Ruidoso Downs riders last year while winning 90 races still leads with 43 triumphs, 35 seconds and 23 thirds from 184 mounts. His winning percentage is a fine .233.
The remainder of the top ten is basically identical to last weekend. The others include Steve Harris, apprentice Mike Lidberg, Vickie Smallwood, Gary Sumpter, Larry Byers, Leroy Coombs, apprentice Casey Lambert and Kenny Roller.

In the trainer standings, William F. Leach saddled four winners to open a slight lead over Bob E. Arnett and earned Trainer-Of-The-Week laurels.
Leach now holds a three-win lead over Arnett, who has been in the runnerup position for much of this season.
Leach has 36 wins with 15 seconds and 24 thirds from 161 starts for a fine winning percentage of .223.
Arnett has 33 wins with 25 seconds and 12 thirds from 149 mounts for an excellent winning percentage of .235.
Other top ten trainers include Jack W. Brooks, Jimmie D. Claridge, Clifford C. Lambert, Fred I. Danley, Jon G. Arnett, Hugh L. Tucker, Jack W. Dube and R. Frank Thompson.
Racing resumes on Thursday with three trial races for the Rio Grande Futurity scheduled. The races, to be run as the sixth, seventh and ninth events, will each carry a purse of $1,900 for the 10 entrants.
The first three finishers will automatically earn berths in the Rio Grande Futurity on August 8. The winner of that six-furlong dash will collect $28,032.12 from the total purse of $56,064.23.
There will be a drawing among the three fourth-place runners to determine the 10th and final participant.
Racing continues Friday while Saturday's highlight will be the Billy The Kid Handicap at seven furlongs. Three-year-old and older runners will compete under handicap weights assigned by racing secretary Rick Henson for a purse of $10,000-added.
Sunday's feature will be the 14th running of the World's Championship quarter horse Classic at 440 yards. The winners of this fixture for three-year-old and older quarter horses will gain $67,747 from the total purse of $135,495.
Demin N Diamonds, one of quarter horse racing's greatest mares and Rule The Deck, winner of eight consecutive races, posted the two fastest qualifying times.
Native Gypsy, who was named Sunland Park's spring horse-of-the-meet a few months ago, recorded the third-fastest qualifying time and looms as an outsider in this classic meeting between two of the sport's finest mares.
Post time for each 12-race program will be 1 p.m.

JOE MARTINEZ

WISE HI, a three-year-old colt, will be an outsider in Sunday's World's Championship Quarter Horse Classic at Ruidoso Downs. Trained by H. B. Carrell, the colt is owned by Charles B. Shofner of Huntington, Texas. Jerry Burgess rode him in last week's trial race, when he finished third in the fourth division.

Thoroughbred Summer Sale this weekend

Draconic and Platoon Leader head the sire list for this weekend's 10th Annual Summer Sale for Selected Thoroughbred Yearlings.

Draconic has 10 offspring in the two-day summer sale while Platoon Leader has sired nine yearlings.

A record total of 160 thoroughbred yearlings has been catalogued. Sessions will be held beginning at 7:30 p.m. Friday and Saturday in the All-American Sales Arena on the Ruidoso Downs track grounds.

This will be the second year the Summer Sale has been restricted to thoroughbred yearlings and it shows an increase of 58 percent over last year's sale.

Other sires with multiple offspring include Strate Stuff with six and Amber Herod, Best Gossip and Never Cede with five each. Those with four horses in the sale include Harry's Cary, Impressive, King Of The Castle, Plenty Old and Tina-jero.

Among the more impressive sires are Loom, who has sired the last two winners of the prestigious Norgor Thoroughbred Futurity at Ruidoso Downs; What Luck, sire of such fine runners as Luckily Smashed and Easily Smashed; Master Hand, the sire of the outstanding runner Pocket Coin; and Duck Dance, a speedy runner.

A full sister to What A Duck, last year's sale topper at $36,000, is entered in the sale.

The bay filly is by Duck Dance out of the outstanding Southwest performer Tamalle Pie and is listed as hip number 33. She is the property of Phoenix Shaw of Jacksonville, Florida.

Among the better dams included in the sale are Crazy Frills (who set the six-furlong Ruidoso Downs track record of 1:11 3-5 on July 11, 1976); Dancing Straw, the dam of Matching, who has earned more than $156,000; and Harem Lady, a Bagdad mare who won 12 races, including stakes wins at major New York tracks, while earning more than $230,000.

Rancho Jonata of Buellton, California, will be the largest consignee at the sale with 10 head. Coy Hendrix of El Paso has seven entered while Jack Barnes of Altus, Oklahoma; Don Brooks of the Westbrook Farm of Hereford, Texas; Dr. A. H. Burkhalter; Ralph Johnson of Campo, Colorado each have six horses catalogued.

Each thoroughbred yearling is nominated to six major futurities at Ruidoso Downs and Sunland Park. These 1983 futurities consist of the $360,000 (estimated) Riley Allison Futurity and the $60,000 (estimated) Sunland Park Fall Thoroughbred Futurity at Sunland Park; the $60,000 (estimated) Rio Grande Kindergarten and Rio Grande Futurity (for New Mexico-breds); the $100,000 (estimated) Norgor Futurity and the $125,000 Ruidoso Thoroughbred Futurity at Ruidoso Downs.

In addition, for the first time, all yearlings who pass through the sale ring for purchase or repurchase are eligible for the $15,000-added Thoroughbred Sale Futurity set for Sunland Park in the fall of 1983.

This will be the first sale directed by Rick Henson, director of horse sales for Ruidoso-Sunland Incorporated. The announcer will be Tom Hammond of Lexington, Kentucky, while the auctioneers include Bill Tackett of Collinsville, Oklahoma and Keith Babb of Monroe, Louisiana.

Wednesday race days honor ladies, senior citizens

All four Wednesdays in August will be race days at Ruidoso Downs, and each of those four days has been designated "Ladies Day and Senior Citizens Day," announced general manager R. Wood Erwin.

During those four Wednesdays, all ladies, and male patrons 60 years of age or older, will be admitted free to the grandstand.

In order to save the $2 general admission, all a male patron need do is show a driver's license, or Medicare card, or some other suitable proof-of-age document.

A regular pattern of five-day racing (Wednesday through Sunday) will be in effect throughout August. The final weekend of the season is another five-day stretch, but this begins on Thursday (September 2) and extends through Monday, Labor Day (September 6).

Scott's Courtship seeks victory

Scott's Courtship seeks his first victory since last August in Friday's featured race at Ruidoso Downs.

The seven-year-old Doc Scott horse will face eight foes in this six-furlong event limited to four-year-old and older horses under allowance conditions. The purse will be $4,800.

Scott's Courtship has run his best races in the past few years at Ruidoso Downs. He's won 11 lifetime races, including seven at Ruidoso Downs, three at Turf Paradise in Phoenix, Arizona, and one at the New Mexico State Fair in Albuquerque.

In 1978, he won the Ruidoso Thoroughbred Derby and the Roadrunner Stakes at the mountain track. In 1979, he won the Tom Closson Memorial at Albuquerque.

His last win, however, was an allowance test last August at Ruidoso Downs.

The versatile runner campaigned over the winter at Turf Paradise before arriving at Ruidoso Downs.

His first start produced a ninth-place finish, but his latest effort was a great improvement, indicating Scott's Courtship is ready for his best.

He finished fourth, beaten less than three lengths by Textan in a six-furlong allowance scamper on July 18 over a muddy track.

Trained by Victor N. Karns, Scott's Courtship is owned by Ralph Maynard and Warren Siegel of Phoenix.

Here's the field in post position order with assigned jockeys and weights: 1—Volant Flame (116); 2—Time To Sail (Mike Lidberg, 116); 3—Classic Leader (Alfredo Juarez, 108); 4—Funny Native (116); 5—Musical King (Stuart Dolphus, 116); 6—Scott's Courtship (Kenny Roller, 113); 7—Something Daring (Willie Lovell, 116); 8—Prince Of Darkness (Wayne Buehrer, 113); 9—Jan's Last (116).

Highestertjet, the only horse to win both the All-American Futurity and the All-American Derby, makes his 1982 Ruidoso Downs debut in Friday's seventh race.

The four-year-old Pine's Easter Jet gelding will break from the sixth post position under regular rider W.R. Hunt in this 350-yard dash for three-year-old and older quarter horses running under allowance conditions. The purse will be $4,200.

Highestertjet is the second leading alltime quarter horse money-maker with earnings of $1,009,362. His win in last August's $1 million All-American Derby at Ruidoso Downs pushed his career earnings past the $1 million plateau. He was the first quarter horse to surpass $1 million.

Trained by Johnnie A. Goodman, he's owned by G.D. Highsmith of La Grange, Texas.

Saturday's highlight will be the Billy The Kid handicap at seven furlongs. Three-year-old and older runners will compete under handicap weights assigned by racing secretary Rick Henson for a purse of $10,000-added.

Sunday's feature will be the 14th running of the World's Championship Quarter Horse Classic at 440 yards. The winner of this fixture for three-year-old and older quarter horses will gain $67,747 from the total purse of $135,495.

Post time for each day's 12-race program will be 1 p.m.

Sunland Park Jockey Club to be super facility

by DICK ALWAN

Even from the parking lot, the new Sunland Park Jockey Club is impressive. The roof line stretches 80 feet above the ground. The length of the second-level facility is dramatic—about the size of a football field.

It's an appealing sight, with flags fluttering atop 15 towering flagpoles, the mountains looming in the background, a line of cars forming in the new four-lane entry canopy of the valet parking area. The scene looks ready-made for a postcard, and any onlooker won't doubt the architect has achieved his aim of making the Jockey Club one of the finest racetrack facilities in the nation. Certainly, it's one of the most exclusive.

After stepping out of his car beneath the neo-modern metal space-frame canopy, a Jockey Club patron strolls into the main foyer, which has been constructed at ground level, beneath the existing track facilities. Since there are four high-speed elevators, there's not much time to linger in the spacious foyer.

As the elevator rises to the top floor, the Jockey Club patron views the surrounding countryside, beyond the parking lot. Each elevator operates in a glass-walled shaft—thus providing a spectacular panoramic view.

Once in the Jockey Club, a patron is struck by the exquisite decor—a decor which relies on earth tones of brown, beige and burnt orange to create a sense of Southwest elegance. The elevators open into the broad lounge area which extends some 300 feet. Opposing sofas and lounge chairs create a warm and comfortable mood. Kitchen facilities are located on this level. There are two bars providing a variety of refreshments; there are 35 parimutuel windows; spacious, ultra-modern restrooms. A quietly festive mood is suggested by the pendants—reflecting the themes of other racetracks around the country—which are draped tastefully above the lounge area. Banners are also positioned on the aluminum acoustical ceiling.

The lounge section opens into the main seating area, which is tiered into seven levels. Luxurious carpeting and brass railings extend throughout the tiered sections, reinforcing the theme of elegance.

The Jockey Club patron steps down to his seat, and relaxes in an upholstered, executive lounge chair. For added comfort, the chair tilts, swivels, has arms, and moves on casters. Each built-in table unit is extra wide and cantilevered—which means there are no table legs to get in the way.

The patron can now take out his Racing Form and program, binoculars, and whatever else he may be carrying, spread them out on the table, and settle down to the business of picking winners. There's no question about being comfortable, since the facility is served by air-conditioning and heating. The color TV monitors, which show the running of the races, plus the replays, and any of the day's main sporting events (such as the Dallas Cowboys), are recessed units. They don't project obtrusively into the decor. Waitresses bring lunch and drinks to each table.

The entire Jockey Club is so designed that a patron, whether he's sitting at his table or strolling in the lounge area, has a clear view of the entire one-mile oval. Just to make sure this view of the track is unimpeded, the windows are constructed from specially-tinted, tempered panels—each a half-inch thick. The thickness of these panels provides such strength that the windows require no vertical supports. Thus, the view of the track, the infield lake, and the Franklin Mountains in the background, is spectacular.

"Our intent is to create one of the finest racetrack facilities in the nation," says Bart Fischer, as he spreads plans and illustrations over his desk in the sleek offices of the El Paso architectural and engineering firm of Fischer, Kelsey, Cordova and Associates.

The details for a super-plush Jockey Club for Sunland Park Race Track (located in Southern New Mexico; but just six miles from downtown El Paso) now exist mainly in Fischer's fertile imagination, and in a series of elaborate "preliminary design documents."

But this is no pie-in-the-sky project. Last week, Fischer presented the preliminary plans to the board of directors of Ruidoso-Sunland Incorporated (the parent corporation of Sunland Park and Ruidoso Downs), and the project won enthusiastic approval. Jess Burner, president of Ruidoso-Sunland will launch a membership drive. The Sunland Jockey Club will be patterned after the enormously successful Ruidoso Jockey Club. It'll be an exclusive, private facility—a kind of country club at the races.

If the memberships go as they're expected to, and the financial underpinnings fall into place, Fischer and his team are looking at the following timetable:

"We'll start preparing the final plans in October, and have them completed by January, 1983. We'll bid the project in February. The contract will be awarded around March 1st, and the contractor will be given March and April to order and receive materials. On May 2, the day after the completion of Sunland's 1982-83 season, construction will begin. During the off-season—from May 2 until the start of the 1983-84 season in mid-October (1983)—the contractor will have nearly five months to build the superstructure, the elevators and all other major components which need to be out of the way for the start of the next racing season. Construction will continue during the 1983-84 season, with completion planned for around February or March of 1984."

Fischer allows that the construction of "a new building atop an old building" is a challenging design problem that "will require a lot of investigation and some complicated engineering."

The Jockey Club will encompass 30,000 square feet, being 100 feet deep, 300 feet long. There will be 300 memberships, and each membership will include a table and four executive chairs, thereby creating a total capacity of 1,200 to 1,300 patrons.

"From the viewpoint of service, comfort and quality of facilities, the Sunland Park Jockey Club will be spectacular," Fischer predicts.

VIEW FROM THE TRACK The proposed Sunland Park Jockey Club, as illustrated in this view from the first turn, indicates how the new structure will be built atop the existing grandstand and clubhouse. The Jockey Club will measure 100 by 300 feet. Tinted, half-inch-thick glass panels which require no vertical supports will provide an unimpeded view of the track. According to current plans, construction of the plush, multi-million dollar facility will begin on May 2, 1983, with completion planned for February or March, 1984.

ELEGANT JOCKEY CLUB DECOR Members of the proposed Sunland Park Jockey Club will view the races in tasteful elegance, as indicated in this architectural illustration. Each cantilevered table will be served by upholstered, executive lounge chairs. A mood of Southwest elegance will be suggested by tones of brown, beige and burnt orange. Brass railings will reach throughout the seven-tiered facility which extends almost the length of a football field.

VIEW FROM PARKING AREA

SUNLAND PARK JOCKEY CLUB Here's an architectural illustration of the proposed Sunland Park Jockey Club, as seen from the parking lot. Jockey Club patrons will enter under the four-lane canopy at right. The main foyer, constructed under the existing facility, is linked to the upper-level Jockey Club by four high-speed elevators operating in glasswalled shafts. The Jockey Club will enclose about 30,000 square feet.

Augustine right for director's job

If you were looking around for someone to appoint to the board of directors of Ruidoso-Sunland, Incorporated, and came up with John Augustine of Las Cruces, it would be a case of matching the right man for the right position.

In fact, it would appear almost impossible to find anyone more suitable.

In the first place, you'd need someone with a background in racing, and Augustine fills the bill. Although 46, he's never been the owner of a large-scale racing operation, he's certainly been prominent over the years. Many race fans will remember his ace quarter horse gelding, Sherrys Rebel, who excelled in the Southwest during the 1972-73 season.

At one point, the plucky gelding batted out nine straight wins between Sunland Park, Ruidoso Downs and the New Mexico State Fair. His successes include the New Mexico Quarter Horse Futurity, for which he banked some $30,000, and the Shue Fly Stakes at Sunland.

When Sherrys Rebel finally hung up his running shoes, he'd earned about $100,000. "You don't get many racehorses like that," Augustine now smiles. As a matter of fact, Sherrys Rebel was the only stakes-winner to carry the Augustine colors.

But producing stakes-winners has never been Augustine's prime racing objective. "I do it on a small scale, and I do it mainly for the fun of it," he says. His farm in Las Cruces is the home of three broodmares, which allows him to raise only two or three horses a year.

He explains his low-key philosophy this way: "If any of our foals turn out to be good racehorses, that's fine. If not, that's fine, too. I've got a granddaughter who can make these racing 'rejects' into pretty good show horses."

Augustine's involvement with racing — both as a small-scale owner and long-time spectator — was probably only one reason why he was recently elected to the Ruidoso-Sunland board (and, as a result, is now playing a key role in the management policies of both Ruidoso Downs and Sunland Park).

But Augustine's racing background goes far deeper than that of a racehorse owner. In a period beginning in 1962 and extending through part of 1964, Augustine served on the New Mexico State Racing Commission, the governing body in New Mexico racing. Except for one year in that period, he held the influential post of Chairman.

In 1970 and 1971, he put in another tour of duty with the commission.

Augustine is also experienced in the area of racetrack management, having served, in 1962-63, as a member of the board of directors of the Ruidoso Racing Association — the organization which owned and operated Ruidoso Downs Race Track at that time.

Since 1980, Augustine has been retired from his post of managing director of the New Mexico Farm Bureau, a private farm and ranch organization affiliated with the American Farm Bureau.

Some three and one-half decades ago, Augustine had founded the New Mexico Farm Bureau, and had served as its head until his recent retirement.

His connection with racing began as a spectator, and became deeper as a result of his friendship with Tex Barron, the former general manager of Ruidoso Downs (some 20 years ago). At one point, Barron, kiddingly, suggested it might be a good idea for Augustine to be appointed to the New Mexico Racing Commission.

Ironically, that suggestion came to pass several years later when Governor Ed Mechem named Augustine to the commission.

Augustine, whose easygoing and country gentleman bearing reflect his rural background, says he was elated by his election to the Ruidoso-Sunland board. "It was an exciting thing — and I'm not the sort who's easily excited," he jokes.

He describes as the "greatest thing to happen to New Mexico racing," the set of circumstances in 1978 which allowed the Ruidoso Jockey Club to purchase both Ruidoso Downs and Sunland Park. He says: "The Jockey Club, since acquiring a control of the tracks, initiated a long list of major improvements and has operated the tracks in a decent, upright way."

Even though Ruidoso Downs has just completed a massive $2.5 million improvement and enlargement projects, Augustine says the board has already begun concentrating on two other major projects.

He amplifies: "Here at Ruidoso Downs, we need a new, modern sales arena. I would describe that project as a key priority. We would need to initiate a study to determine what kind of facility should be built. My feeling is we should do it 'big' and do it right."

Augustine also gives high priority to the board's interest in building a Jockey Club at Sunland Park.

He says a project of that dimension would "contribute to the growth of Sunland Park, enable the track to accommodate more people, and contribute to both the improvement of the purses and the further improvement of the quality of racing."

Augustine has been a member of the Ruidoso Jockey Club for the past 10 years.

Sculptor Dave McGary has a good thing going

THE ARTIST HIMSELF. Dave McGary is a big guy who is a master of the minute and intricate. The widely acclaimed and very experienced 24-year-old bronze sculptor speaks with sincere sensibility.

At the age of 24, Dave McGary has probably achieved more than most sculptors two or three times his age.

He has about 50 regular collectors and numerous other patrons of his bronzes from coast to coast. He has his own foundry/studio/gallery (McGary Studios/Expressions in Bronze) located on five acres at the foot of Loma Grande, between Ruidoso and Nogal. He has won fame and respect with his talent, but McGary has no patience.

That's why the kid from Cody, Wyoming, who made artistic silver jewelry in junior high school and who was fascinated with the technical aspects of metal casting dropped out of school at age 16 to study with the noted bronze sculptor Harry Jackson. He studied at Jackson's fine art bronze foundry in Florence, Italy.

There the young, eager to learn McGary had human anatomy drilled into him by his pedagogue. Jackson would make his apprentice build entire bodies in clay, from the bone up to soft muscle-revealing flesh; always paying close attention to the detail of action and reaction.

McGary was also given a chance to learn the art and science of bronze casting from some of Europe's finest craftspeople. Fourth and fifth generation Italians known for their casting abilities were lured from the best Italian art foundries by Jackson and given the job of producing top quality bronze sculptures for him.

After a year of living and learning with Jackson in Italy, McGary returned to the States to create his own bronzes and to work in art foundries in Colorado and Santa Fe.

However, McGary was extremely disappointed with the results. The quality of the casting—especially of his own works—was unsatisfactory.

So, on June 28, 1981, McGary purchased his own foundry from Pal Flanary. He has since transformed the place into an elegant gallery, a quality studio and an expert foundry where he passes on his knowledge and expertise to others.

"Now the work's flawless. That's the whole idea behind this place," commented McGary, who demands perfection from his employees.

The staff of about 10 people at McGary Studios is like a big family. Every month, McGary and his helpers have a demerit party. Employees who do anything which is energy wasteful, such as leaving a light on, receive demerit points and must pay a fine of $5 per demerit, explained McGary.

With the money collected, the group goes out for dinner, drinks, dancing or whatever. It's a good way for the employees who share something in common to be together outside work, McGary feels.

McGary's craftspeople also take breaks from work together outdoors. McGary is currently finishing a greenhouse with fountains and benches so the group can take breaks in the winter, too.

The foundry actually is a family affair for McGary, though. His wife, Sue, works in the studio. His mother, Ruth, is his agent. She travels all over the country booking exhibitions and arranging his exclusive gallery contracts.

"We want a nice atmosphere because it shows in the work," McGary stated.

The impressive foundry complex is less than a half-hour drive from Ruidoso on Highway 37 North. The stone walkway leading to the passive solar adobe structure is flanked by two 400-year-old alligator junipers. Fruit trees and a three-pole cedar tree fence surround the yard, and the view from the beautifully landscaped terrace garden in back is magnificent.

The foundry also has limited guest accommodations for McGary's select patrons and collectors. The handsomely done quarters are filled with McGary's personal collection of rare Indian and other Western artifacts and, of course, his own work.

McGary said staying in the gallery at the foundry allows a unique opportunity for a buyer to observe all phases of the bronze-making procedure, leading to a fuller understanding and appreciation of the work.

"It's primarily a foundry to do my stuff and secondarily for teaching ... I stress quality. I like good work done, but it's a big teaching program here, too," McGary emphasized.

McGary hopes to start building student apartments on the foundry's five acres this summer. He wants to give a couple of talented university students a chance to learn and live in a quality art environment like Jackson gave him.

"I've seen a lot of really talented people work as dishwashers, et cetera," noted McGary.

He also mentioned that since so many man-hours go into producing one single bronze, labor is expensive. Additionally, it's hard to find talented people who want to work, learn and stick around for any extended amount of time.

By providing a work-study program whereby students can earn college credit, McGary aims to help young craftspeople gain real experience and to ensure an interested staff for himself.

McGary indicated he prefers working with three dimensions. That's why he enjoys sculpture and landscape architecture (he designed the foundry garden) as opposed to painting. Painting, he noted, would bore him quickly.

McGary got into bronze sculpture because he was tired of working with small things. Silver was too expensive and lead couldn't support the kind of work he wanted to do.

The kind of work he does is Indians—just Indians. McGary was adopted by Assiniboin Sioux Indians two years ago. He was allowed the opportunity to spend seven weeks at the Sundance Ceremony in Montana—an experience which greatly influenced his work.

Right now, he's doing mostly northern plains Indians, but plans to begin a series on eastern Indians sometime soon.

McGary creates his original figures out of sculptor's wax at night when the phone isn't ringing and people aren't stopping by. It's almost hard to believe that the big, burly McGary fashions such beautifully detailed and intricate pieces with only his hands and a couple of sculptors' tools.

Attention to historical detail and anatomy produces bronzes by McGary that demand emotional involvement. It is emotion and expression in bronze that McGary strives to instill in each of his pieces. He works on each piece as a whole rather than on individual details, to maintain that emotional impact.

Once a month, after the many hours of preparation involved in the lost-wax process, McGary and his crew pour. It takes an average of 10 hours, about 1,100 pounds of bronze, and lots of hard, sweaty work to complete a bronze pouring of 40 to 50 different pieces, McGary said.

After the pouring, the individual pieces must be divested, sandblasted, welded, chased and fabricated. Then they are again sandblasted, patinated and polished before being sent off to collectors.

McGary is quick to note that the success of the foundry is the direct result of the talented and devoted craftsmen who work with him.

McGary's work is highly sought after. Often, whole 21-piece editions are completely sold out long before they are finished, and sometimes even before he has even started on a new series. Small editions enable the highest possible quality control, the artist noted.

As of July 1982, McGary said, orders are three-and-a-half years backlogged, and he has various exhibitions scheduled until 1984.

Tommy Morel, sales director at the Inn of the Mountain Gods, once visited McGary Studios. He was so impressed that the Inn now books two or three foundry tours a month for its guests.

McGary, his studio/foundry/gallery, and the multi-stage process he employs are all worthy of closer inspection. McGary invites any organization to call him at 354-2402 to arrange for a tour of his facility.

ROBERT JACKSON, one of Dave McGary's assistants, places "Buffalo Warrior" into McGary's $4,500 sand blaster. "Good equipment makes a big difference," stated McGary.

CLAIRE GASEOMA of McGary Studios/Expressions in Bronze checks a piece's welding job. McGary demands perfection from his employees, but the foundry staff is like a big family.

UNLIKE MANY FOUNDRIES which create visions of dirty, smoky, smelly places to most people, the McGary foundry is exceptional. The passive solar adobe structure is located on five acres at the foot of Loma Grande between Ruidoso and Nogal. The grounds are beautifully landscaped and well-maintained.

PATINAS rich in subtleties and contrast highlight recent works such as "Sundance Priest." McGary utilizes special opaque patinas for further enhancement and emotional impact.

A NIGHT ON THE TOWN

Relaxing evening out can be had at Kings Lounge, The Fan Tail

The phrase, "a night on the town," usually connotes a visit to the liveliest hot spots—dancing till dawn, drinking till daybreak. But "a night on the town" can also be a way to relax after spending all afternoon at the Art Festival, the racetrack or Old Lincoln Days.

Kings Lounge provides a great setting in which to relax in the early evening, with an abundance of space to accommodate even the largest crowd. The stuffed leather couches at the back of the room especially invite patrons to settle down for a comfortable evening of friendly conversation and favorite libations.

And favorite libations are the expertise of bartender Jeff Switzer. He said the harder a drink is to make, the better he likes making it. Bartending is his chosen profession, and he's been practicing it for more than 15 years. Jeff even taught bartending school in Phoenix, Arizona, after he attended the school himself.

It is probably wise not to make reservations for dinner before stopping by Kings for a pre-dinner drink. Either the comfort of the lounge or the quality of Jeff's drinks, or both, will most likely detain one longer than expected.

Anyway, munchies, as well as two-for-one drinks, are available during happy hour to help abate the hungries. Happy Hour is from 4:30 to 6:30 Monday through Friday and 4:30 to 8:30 Saturdays.

And a show band begins performing at 8:30 every Monday through Saturday evening and stays until 1:15 a.m. The lounge is open until 2 a.m.

But man cannot live by munchies alone. Eventually one will have to venture out for more substantial sustenance.

The Fan Tail is a perfect place to venture to in order to satisfy the appetite after enjoying a few drinks at Kings. Recently opened by Johnny Okrasinski and Paul Southwick, the Fan Tail is Ruidoso's only seafood restaurant.

The decor is simple, with photographs by Okrasinski on the walls, fans and skylights in the ceiling, and a fresh sunflower on each table.

The menu is "a seafood lover's delight," featuring coquilles St. Jacques (highly recommended), scampi, lobster tail and crab legs, plus stuffed ocean flounder, Gulf red snapper, trout almondine and Dover sole. A 10-ounce rib eye is also available, for those who aren't so fond of food from the sea.

In addition to the entrees, the Fan Tail offers several specialty items, including a seafood salad, stuffed avocado, ceviche and crevisse marinade ala J. O.

French onion soup, shrimp cocktail and escargots are some of the appetizers featured on the menu.

Prices are moderate, ranging from $8.95 to $19.95 for the entrees.

Co-owner Johnny Okrasinski doubles as general manager and chef of the restaurant, using all his own recipes in his dishes. "Gourmet cooking has always been one of my hobbies," Okrasinski said.

He has also always wanted his own restaurant, so he has been able to utilize several of his interests in opening the Fan Tail.

Southwick and Okrasinski have plans to open additional restaurants, both in Ruidoso and in Texas, and will also sell fresh seafood from their businesses.

Seafood lovers should be happy about their plans.

And for those just looking for a relaxing evening on the town, drinks at Kings Lounge and dinner at the Fan Tail should satisfy.

KINGS LOUNGE BARTENDER Jeff Switzer has had lots of years of practice to perfect his skills, and he enjoys the challenge of even the hardest to make drinks. A stop by Kings during Happy Hour is a great way to begin an evening out in Ruidoso and a visit to the lounge later in the evening to enjoy the show band is a perfect ending to a night on the town.

CHEF JOHNNY OKRASINSKI prepares plenty of shrimp in anticipation of the dinner crowd at The Fan Tail. Okrasinski is also general manager and co-owner of the seafood restaurant.

THE FAN TAIL seafood restaurant, in Sierra Vista Mall, will satisfy any seafood lover's appetite. The restaurant is open for lunch from 11:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. and opens for dinner at 5:30 p.m. and closes at 10 p.m. A liquor license application for The Fan Tail has been submitted, so beer and wine will probably be available soon.

"Now the work's flawless. That's the whole idea behind this place," commented McGary, who demands perfection from his employees.

The staff of about 10 people at McGary Studios is like a big family. Every month, McGary and his helpers have a demerit party. Employees who do anything which is energy wasteful, such as leaving a light on, receive demerit points and must pay a fine of $5 per demerit, explained McGary.

With the money collected, the group goes out for dinner, drinks, dancing or whatever. It's a good way for the employees who share something in common to be together outside work, McGary feels.

McGary's craftspeople also take breaks from work together outdoors. McGary is currently finishing a greenhouse with fountains and benches so the group can take breaks in the winter, too.

The foundry actually is a family affair for McGary, though. His wife, Sue, works in the studio. His mother, Ruth, is his agent. She travels all over the country booking exhibitions and arranging his exclusive gallery contracts.

"We want a nice atmosphere because it shows in the work," McGary stated.

The impressive foundry complex is less than a half-hour drive from Ruidoso on Highway 37 North. The stone walkway leading to the passive solar adobe structure is flanked by two 400-year-old alligator junipers. Fruit trees and a three-pole cedar tree fence surround the yard, and the view from the beautifully landscaped terrace garden in back is magnificent.

The foundry also has limited guest accommodations for McGary's select patrons and collectors. The handsomely done quarters are filled with McGary's personal collection of rare Indian and other Western artifacts and, of course, his own work.

McGary said staying in the gallery at the foundry allows a unique opportunity for a buyer to observe all phases of the bronze-making procedure, leading to a fuller understanding and appreciation of the work.

"It's primarily a foundry to do my stuff and secondarily for teaching ... I stress quality. I like good work done, but it's a big teaching program here, too," McGary emphasized.

McGary hopes to start building student apartments on the foundry's five acres this summer. He wants to give a couple of talented university students a chance to learn and live in a quality art environment like Jackson gave him.

"I've seen a lot of really talented people work as dishwashers, et cetera," noted McGary.

He also mentioned that since so many man-hours go into producing one single bronze, labor is expensive. Additionally, it's hard to find talented people who want to work, learn and stick around for any extended amount of time.

By providing a work-study program whereby students can earn college credit, McGary aims to help young craftspeople gain real experience and to ensure an interested staff for himself.

McGary indicated he prefers working with three dimensions. That's why he enjoys sculpture and landscape architecture (he designed the foundry garden) as opposed to painting. Painting, he noted, would bore him quickly.

McGary got into bronze sculpture because he was tired of working with small things. Silver was too expensive and lead couldn't support the kind of work he wanted to do.

The kind of work he does is Indians—just Indians. McGary was adopted by Assiniboin Sioux Indians two years ago. He was allowed the opportunity to spend seven weeks at the Sundance Ceremony in Montana—an experience which greatly influenced his work.

Right now, he's doing mostly northern plains Indians, but plans to begin a series on eastern Indians sometime soon.

McGary creates his original figures out of sculptor's wax at night when the phone isn't ringing and people aren't stopping by. It's almost hard to believe that the big, burly McGary fashions such beautifully detailed and intricate pieces with only his hands and a couple of sculptors' tools.

Attention to historical detail and anatomy produces bronzes by McGary that demand emotional involvement. It is emotion and expression in bronze that McGary strives to instill in each of his pieces. He works on each piece as a whole rather than on individual details, to maintain that emotional impact.

Once a month, after the many hours of preparation involved in the lost-wax process, McGary and his crew pour. It takes an average of 10 hours, about 1,100 pounds of bronze, and lots of hard, sweaty work to complete a bronze pouring of 40 to 50 different pieces, McGary said.

After the pouring, the individual pieces must be divested, sandblasted, welded, chased and fabricated. Then they are again sandblasted, patinated and polished before being sent off to collectors.

McGary is quick to note that the success of the foundry is the direct result of the talented and devoted craftsmen who work with him.

McGary's work is highly sought after. Often, whole 21-piece editions are completely sold out long before they are finished, and sometimes even before he has even started on a new series. Small editions enable the highest possible quality control, the artist noted.

As of July 1982, McGary said, orders are three-and-a-half years backlogged, and he has various exhibitions scheduled until 1984.

Tommy Morel, sales director at the Inn of the Mountain Gods, once visited McGary Studios. He was so impressed that the Inn now books two or three foundry tours a month for its guests.

McGary, his studio/foundry/gallery, and the multi-stage process he employs are all worthy of closer inspection. McGary invites any organization to call him at 354-2402 to arrange for a tour of his facility.

ROBERT JACKSON, one of Dave McGary's assistants, places "Buffalo Warrior" into McGary's $4,500 sand blaster. "Good equipment makes a big difference," stated McGary.

CLAIRE GASCOMA of McGary Studios/Expressions in Bronze checks a piece's welding job. McGary demands perfection from his employees, but the foundry staff is like a big family.

UNLIKE MANY FOUNDRIES which create visions of dirty, smoky, smelly places to most people, the McGary foundry is exceptional. The passive solar adobe structure is located on five acres at the foot of Loma Grande between Ruidoso and Nogal. The grounds are beautifully landscaped and well-maintained.

PATINAS rich in subtleties and contrast highlight recent works such as "Sundance Priest." McGary utilizes special opaque patinas for further enhancement and emotional impact.

ART, DINING AND ENTERTAINMENT GUIDE

A NIGHT ON THE TOWN

Relaxing evening out can be had at Kings Lounge, The Fan Tail

The phrase, "a night on the town," usually connotes a visit to the liveliest hot spots—dancing till dawn, drinking till daybreak. But "a night on the town" can also be a way to relax after spending all afternoon at the Art Festival, the racetrack or Old Lincoln Days.

Kings Lounge provides a great setting in which to relax in the early evening, with an abundance of space to accommodate even the largest crowd. The stuffed leather couches at the back of the room especially invite patrons to settle down for a comfortable evening of friendly conversation and favorite libations.

And favorite libations are the expertise of bartender Jeff Switzer. He said the harder a drink is to make, the better he likes making it. Bartending is his chosen profession, and he's been practicing it for more than 15 years. Jeff even taught bartending school in Phoenix, Arizona, after he attended the school himself.

It is probably wise not to make reservations for dinner before stopping by Kings for a pre-dinner drink. Either the comfort of the lounge or the quality of Jeff's drinks, or both, will most likely detain one longer than expected.

Anyway, munchies, as well as two-for-one drinks, are available during happy hour to help abate the hungries. Happy Hour is from 4:30 to 6:30 Monday through Friday and 4:30 to 8:30 Saturdays.

And a show band begins performing at 8:30 every Monday through Saturday evening and stays until 1:15 a.m. The lounge is open until 2 a.m.

But man cannot live by munchies alone. Eventually one will have to venture out for more substantial sustenance.

The Fan Tail is a perfect place to venture in to order to satisfy the appetite after enjoying a few drinks at Kings. Recently opened by Johnny Okrasinski and Paul Southwick, the Fan Tail is Ruidoso's only seafood restaurant.

The decor is simple, with photographs by Okrasinski on the walls, fans and skylights in the ceiling, and a fresh sunflower on each table.

The menu is "a seafood lover's delight," featuring coquilles St.-Jacques (highly recommended), scampi, lobster tail and crab legs, plus stuffed ocean flounder, Gulf red snapper, trout almonidine and Dover sole. A 10-ounce rib eye is also available, for those who aren't so fond of food from the sea.

In addition to the entrees, the Fan Tail offers several specialty items, including a seafood salad, stuffed avocado, ceviche and crevisse marinade ala J. O.

French onion soup, shrimp cocktail and escargots are some of the appetizers featured on the menu.

Prices are moderate, ranging from $8.95 to $19.95 for the entrees.

Co-owner Johnny Okrasinski doubles as general manager and chef of the restaurant, using all his own recipes in his dishes. "Gourmet cooking has always been one of my hobbies," Okrasinski said.

He has also always wanted his own restaurant, so he has been able to utilize several of his interests in opening the Fan Tail.

Southwick and Okrasinski have plans to open additional restaurants, both in Ruidoso and in Texas, and will also sell fresh seafood from their businesses.

Seafood lovers should be happy about their plans.

And for those just looking for a relaxing evening on the town, drinks at Kings Lounge and dinner at the Fan Tail should satisfy.

KINGS LOUNGE BARTENDER Jeff Switzer has had lots of years of practice to perfect his skills, and he enjoys the challenge of even the hardest to make drinks. A stop by Kings during Happy Hour is a great way to begin an evening out in Ruidoso and a visit to the lounge later in the evening to enjoy the show band is a perfect ending to a night on the town.

CHEF JOHNNY OKRASINSKI prepares plenty of shrimp in anticipation of the dinner crowd at The Fan Tail. Okrasinski is also general manager and co-owner of the seafood restaurant.

THE FAN TAIL seafood restaurant, in Sierra Vista Mall, will satisfy any seafood lover's appetite. The restaurant is open for lunch from 11:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. and opens for dinner at 5:30 p.m. and closes at 10 p.m. A liquor license application for The Fan Tail has been submitted, so beer and wine will probably be available soon.

Art Festival a huge success

From all accounts, the 1982 edition of the Ruidoso Art Festival was an overwhelming success. Chamber of Commerce executive director Ed Jungbluth reported a paid attendance for the three-day event of 7,309. Although that figure is down slightly from last year, Jungbluth noted that new counting procedures yield a more accurate count.

"We're very pleased," said Jungbluth. He mentioned he felt this year's innovation of tables and chairs in the food service area of the festival added a great deal, and called it "a dimension that will stay." Food vendors did quite well this year, he added.

"The volunteers were super," Jungbluth declared, acknowledging the donation of time by many Ruidosoans which makes the event work.

"The quality of art seemed to be at an all-time high," he added, noting that remarks to that effect had been made by artists and buyers alike. "Many of the artists recorded record sales."

The Art Festival, which is the Chamber's single largest fund-raising event, should net $10,000 once all figures are in.

The Chamber works on the festival 12 months a year, said Jungbluth, and preparations for next year's event are already underway.

"All in all, it was an excellent weekend," said the Chamber director. "It'll be even better next year."

The Silver Lining

BY DANIEL AGNEW STORM

"My Native Land"

During my dreams of some day returning to Alaska, and on the plane trip up from El Paso, an old favorite verse from Sir Walter Scott's "Lay of the Last Minstrel" ran often through my mind. "Breathes the man with soul so dead Who never to himself hath said, This is my own, my native land? Whose heart hath ne'er within him burn'd As home his footsteps he hath turn'd From wandering on a foreign strand?"

"Oh Caledonia! Stern and wild, Meet nurse for a poetic child Land of brown heath and shaggy wood, Land of the mountain and the flood Land of my sires! What mortal hand Can e'er untie the filial band Which knits me to thy rugged strand?"

Still as I view each well known scene, Think what is now, and what hath been, Seems as to me of all bereft, Sole friends thy woods and streams were left

And thus I love them better still Even in extremity of ill."

My heart always ached for the old troubador — who was begged by his friends to take up his harp one more time and compose one more narrative poem for the glory of Scotland.

I am speaking of the last four lines above; and often wondered if going back to Alaska would make me feel something like the old minstrel in the poem.

Of A Lifetime

In contrast to these last few words of the Old Scottish Troubadour, the whole experience of coming back to Alaska (after sixty-five years) was one of the most uplifting, inspiring and spiritually rewarding of my life.

As for friends, it is a tradition that everyone is your friend in Alaska. I agree with the poet that I love the woods and streams better still, but not in "Extremity of ill" I feel I am in the best time of my life, able to appreciate and enjoy a trip like this to the full.

From the time we arrived in Juneau the evening of July sixteen till the time we left Anchorage the morning of July twenty-three, the whole voyage was filled with one treasured experience after another. In fact, the trip to El Paso and back was great.

Lynn, born in Juneau; our friend Joe Redinger, whose grandfather was in the gold rush of 1898; and myself, took off by plane from El Paso the morning of July sixteen to Denver, Seattle, and arrived in Juneau about four o'clock. I could hardly believe my eyes that in such a short time, the plane came out of the clouds and flew over the location of the Norwegian dairy farm that I used to visit in the summers. There was the glacier off to the left — a giant aquamarine set between the green mountains.

Between the dairy farm and the city of Juneau there was in the old days nothing but green coastal plains; and here was a great air field, and many dwellings in between. We passed the old familiar streams Lemon Creek and Salmon Creek on a beautiful elevated drive called Eagan Drive for Governor William A. Eagan, who led the way for Alaskans out of the tragedy of the earthquake of Good Friday, 1964.

The Norwegian farmer, Mr. Peterson, took Juneau's milk to town in summer in a wagon and in winter in a sled, fording Salmon and Lemon Creeks often running in high water.

It was easy to recognize the country back to Juneau, with the bay just the same on the right and the mountains on the left.

Half stunned by trying to realize such a fast trip and filled with a glow of a new kind of pleasure at seeing so many things looking familiar after sixty-five years, we drove into Juneau.

Here the beautiful little city is little changed, with the Governor's mansion still on the hill overlooking the city and the bay beyond. Here was the same fresh moist climate, bracing and invigorating — the fragrant aroma of the leaves of the Northern Poplar and perfume, numberless wild flowers dominated by the giant pink Fire Weed which everywhere decorates Alaska with its pure pink, in clumps along roads and along the hillsides, and seen from the air in dense patches in the little flats between the bays and rivers.

My heart gave a jump at the smell of the breeze off the bay, and the call of the sea gulls flying around the docks. A big steamer blew its horn in the bay — an old familiar sound.

There was still time to see much of the city the same evening we got there, because in the summer in the north it is daylight way past nine o'clock.

Church Services

On Saturday we went up to the Perseverance Mine where our father was superintendent and visited with one of the Juneau historians, Mr. Leahy; and went through the Alaska Museum.

On Sunday we went to church in the Episcopal Church of the Holy Eucharist, unchanged since the early days. The minister gave a good sermon to a congregation of fine friendly folks. And after the services the minister took us to the basement of the church where he looked up the records of the early days. And here in the book was the baptismal record of Lynn Walter Storm and Joseph Duffield Storm, in 1915.

Where Did We Live?

Among the photographs that our father took is one with all five Storm brothers lined up in front of the house. He took the picture as he stood at the front door; and there was a lone little house appearing across the street over the heads of the little boys lined up. It was nearly covered up with houses that had been built since, and I could not believe this was the same house, but Lynn said he thought it was; and Joe Redinger said, "That is the house for sure." After careful study, detail by detail, it turned out to be the same house, having stood there all these more than sixty-five years. Now we knew we were standing right in front of our house, or the one standing where it ought to be. I could not be sure it was the same house remodeled or altogether new. Still it was a great experience to be standing on the very spot and to look all around and recognize many beloved landmarks.

Next time or so we will go over some of the rest of the trip, to Skagway and Valdez, and Anchorage.

A Welcome Home

We arrived home on Saturday the twenty-fourth; and Sunday happened to be Saint Anne's Day. There was a service at Saint Anne Chapel with one of the largest turnouts I can remember. Little Shawn Marie, a daughter of Bill Shrecengost Jr. and Dianna, was baptized. And the Reverend Mr. Burdette Stempley gave a history of the Chapel. It was established in 1934 by Glencoe pioneers, and was given its name by Mr. James V. Tully Sr., in honor of the patron saint of his mother, Anne Tully. Among those present was Edith Coe Rigsby, whose father Frank Coe, and mother Helena Tully Coe were founders of the church.

After the twelve o'clock service a picnic was held at the home of Paul and Nellie Ruth Jones.

That evening I was honored to attend the sixth birthday party in Lincoln of Thomas Shrecengost, son of Bill Jr. and Dianna.

Solo Vito was in great shape and was waiting in the road in front of the house when I drove up. He was well taken care of by my niece and nephew Lissa and Steve Zlotnick.

The little cat, Corrina, did well under the care of the good folks at the Hondo Valley Kennels. She was more than glad to get home.

The cows and calves looked great among the green fields, beautiful after the magic of the rain. It was something like Alaska, with clouds and showers and cool breezes. The first thing that greeted me was the smell of the pinon trees. All in all, it was a blessed welcome home.

JOINING IN A WELCOME to News columnist Dannie Storm upon his return from Alaska are these bovine residents of Dannie's beloved Hondo Valley. Storm brother Mark provided columns to The News in Dan's absence, so "The Dreamer" and "The Silver Lining" never missed a beat. Thanks, Mark, and welcome back Dan!

By FRED McCAFFREY
SANTA FE—It's tough to say how it will come out.

We know cuts in federal spending will have a substantial effect on New Mexico, but we don't know where the cuts are going to come.

That makes planning, here and now, a little difficult. Congress spent the better part of the first half of this year on a budget, that fight being led effectively by our own Pete Viscusi. But a budget, to Congress, doesn't mean what a budget means to you. Actually, the whole document is a mashing of a misconception. It doesn't really commit the Congress which enacts to anything very specific.

All it means is that individual Congresspersons think this would be a good way to spend the country's money. When it comes to individual bills, however, the ones which recommend exact appropriations, each and every Congressperson can live his or her way.

It's a blueprint—but the completed building may look a lot different than the blueprint would make you think. So, till we see the bills (and we may not see many for a long time; in fact, you can look for the government to go on operating under "continuing resolutions" after October 1), we don't know whose ox is going to get gored.

You can be sure at least these three will be heavily: human service programs, medical and highway building.

But again, how much will be cut we cannot yet really say. That made two meetings up here last week mean a little less than the organizers meant them to.

One was the first session of an interim legislative committee set up to study this particular problem—what the state will have to do when federal fund cuts are finalized. The other was of the advisory committee on civil rights, set up to tell the feds what is going on that area. Their concern is that most of the cuts will probably affect minorities and others who are, as the charming term has it, "disadvantaged."

Since the subject matter of the two meetings was essentially the same, some attendees and some witnesses at each were the same.

Not many hard facts, however, were forthcoming. Some observations can be made, including these:

—Some legislators seem willing enough to use state funds to take up the slack in federal programs which are of real importance to our people. They are not the ogres some would have us believe, at least if the new committee is in any way symptomatic of the whole.

—The poor and other minorities who addressed the issue were not belligerent, generally speaking. They presented their case calmly and in most instances convincingly. There was little talk of "long hot summers" or "burn, baby, burn."

Obviously the notion of Reagan's New Federalism (which has already become the New New Federalism) is not attractive to many. The idea of exchanging categorical grants for block grants sounds good, until you find the feds plan to tie almost as many strings to block grants as they did to the other kind. There is also considerable worry that states will not be so good to the underprivileged as the federal operation is, though there is no intrinsic reason why that should be so.

It is a hard commentary on our times that we have come to depend on the federal government to such an extent and for so many services that some of us now believe they are ours by divine right.

It will be tough for New Mexico, while it takes in more than it can spend, to refuse to accept some of that responsibility when it is finally shifted to us.

thought of instant annihilation unlike their parents were before July 16, 1945; when they were young.

The world is running out of food and energy. All nations are arming themselves to the teeth. Most all the cities' utility systems are worn out with costs too high for rebuilding. Unemployment around the world is higher than before the war. OPEC is keeping us in oil or we would be out. Where do you go on your last tank of gas? Don't be deceived by this high standard of living we have become accustomed to. It is really totally artificially supported by the dead past "OIL."

Does this tell you anything about the future?

Dear editor:
RE: Your editorial of 7/26 regarding an education fund for Mr. Junge.

A pox on your house! Sir, you are obviously misinformed; Mr. Junge does not TAKE lessons, he GIVES them.

May I suggest instead the fund be used to purchase a boat which Mr. Junge can place in the new taxpayer-financed Grindstone Lake and stand in to expound on the edification of the unwashed masses huddled ashore.

As for Mr. Junge; suffer not the slings and arrows of poisonous tongues. ONWARD, cigar at the ready. ILLEGITIMA NON CARBORUNDUM.

Sense & Nonsense

U.S. Sen. Pete Domenici

Congress is currently deciding the fate of the largest tax reform package in the history of the Republic.

The measure already approved by the Senate Finance Committee would generate $99 billion during the next three years, including $20.9 billion in 1983 alone. More than 20 loopholes in the tax code would be closed; long-overdue adjustments would be made to spread the tax burden more evenly and, yes, there would be some increased or new taxes.

But is it good for New Mexico? I strongly believe it is, and here's why. Our country is going to need every penny this legislation will generate if it expects to break out of its economic straightjacket.

The measure is imperative if we are to have a meaningful economic recovery—one which would see interest rates declining so that New Mexicans and Americans can start buying cars and homes again. Most New Mexicans would experience little or no change as a result of the bill. The majority of personal income taxes would not be affected.

Currently, huge federal deficits and accompanying high interest rates are strangling our economy. You might say: Why not cut spending to reduce the deficits?

Problem is, we have and we are. But that's not enough.

Our federal deficits are so great that even if all the spending cuts called for in the budget resolution passed by Congress June 22-23 are implemented with all the proposed tax changes under consideration now, our deficits could still be in the $104 billion to $140 billion range.

Imagine what they might be without the spending cuts and tax adjustments. Some economists have. And their estimates surge upwards of $180 billion or more.

No less than 60 percent of all the money available for lending in the United States is presently being gobbled up by the federal government to help pay off the national debt and to compensate for the deficits. Compare that to better times when the government has only used 15 percent of all available capital.

No wonder interest rates are high. Government is competing with the private sector for credit.

This tax plan along with implementation of the spending cuts would help whip high interest rates and control deficits.

Meanwhile, there are some who believe we should continue cutting taxes instead of raising them.

Under certain conditions, that would have merit. However, interest rates are currently too high for that to work. Investments by business are impractical at high interest rates. Additional tax cuts now would merely create fatter deficits because government would have less revenue and lots more debt.

As it is, 75 percent of the $280 billion in tax cuts approved last year by Congress will remain intact.

Additionally, it would close or sharply reduce numerous loopholes. Among them: provisions which allow companies to lease tax credits; benefits to pharmaceutical companies which locate their companies in Puerto Rico; and aspects of the law which allow multinational oil companies to hold their profits in foreign tax havens.

Almost a third of all the money raised by the measure will come by requiring stricter compliance with the tax code—forcing those who aren't paying their fair share of taxes to pay them. One section of the bill designed to do just that is a provision which would withhold 10 percent of income accrued from interest and dividends. Most persons over 65 would be exempt from that, however.

The measure would increase the minimum tax for 200,000 wealthy individuals by $200 million in 1983 and $300 million in 1984.

The cigarette tax would be doubled from eight to 16 cents a pack, the first time that tax has been raised since the 1950s. Tax benefits flowing to businesses who use industrial revenue bonds would be restricted.

There are numerous other aspects of the legislation which would fill entire newspaper pages.

The fact is clear, though. The deficits we are facing now are real. They are dangerous. And they are promoting a stagnant economy. If we expect to escape the bonds of high interest rates, we must reduce spending and raise revenues.

This tax bill, combined with implementation of the spending cuts contained in the budget resolution, is New Mexico's and America's best hope for a strong recovery.

Clipped Comment

TO THE MOUNTAINTOP

In scaling the highest mountain in Texas, three handicapped climbers exhibited a courage and determination as breathtaking as Guadalupe Peak itself.

We join the many voices of congratulation, including that of President Reagan. The three climbers, all confined to wheelchairs, reached the summit Friday, while three fellow climbers were forced to turn back. They too, however, deserve praise.

The climb was made on behalf of the West Texas Rehabilitation Center, which expects to raise about $10,000 in pledges as a result. More to the point, perhaps, the successful assault on Guadalupe Peak is dramatic affirmation that the "handicapped" can do very nearly what anybody else can—and sometimes a great deal more. —El Paso Times

Editorial

Adoption of a planned unit development (PUD) ordinance by the Ruidoso council Tuesday is a positive step for the village in the area of planning and zoning.

In so doing, the village follows the lead of other progressive communities whose leaders have realized the value of the PUD concept.

A developer will now have the flexibility to plan for and incorporate housing, recreation and businesses into a single development. This "development as a whole" approach allows planning with an eye to the needs—both practical and aesthetic—of those who will live and work in the development.

The Planning and Zoning Commission will also be able to take a whole approach—looking at new developments on their overall merit and their relationship to surrounding areas.

Ruidoso's PUD ordinance is patterned after that of our capital, Santa Fe. A philosophy toward planning and zoning with the aim of preserving its unique character has helped make "The City Different" internationally known as an attractive place to visit and live.

Ruidoso does well to follow that example.—TP

Reporter's Round

by Will Turbow

Small town politics are great. Ruidoso politics in particular, are, to say the least, very interesting.

The most recent upheaval began at the end of June at a joint meeting of the Lodgers' Tax Committee (LTC) of the village and the Chamber of Commerce Advertising Committee.

The purpose of the meeting was to discuss a summer advertising program for Ruidoso. Chamber executive director Ed Jungbluth said at that time that when business is down and there are surplus monies, it's time to advertise.

However, some LTC members expressed their skepticism about the Ruidoso summer advertising plan, which was to cost in excess of $16,000.

One question raised by various LTC members was why the proposal for a summer advertising campaign was so late in coming. Another was why there were funds remaining in the lodgers' tax account that hadn't been used to promote our resort village.

As an observer, I thought they were fairly pertinent questions. After all, LTC's job is to counsel our city fathers on how lodgers' tax money should be spent.

However, Chamber officials seemed to resent the fact LTC members would question their judgement, even though Chamber president Morgan Clough told the committee to take its time.

Motel business is said to be down right now, though. The ad campaign was to begin in mid-July. There was little time to give the matter the deliberation it honestly deserved, and most everyone thought a summer ad campaign to kick off a year-round advertising schedule could indeed stop a slumping business trend.

On top of that, a proposal by LTC treasurer Archer Wilson to form a central committee to the Chamber's Advertising Committee was brought up for discussion, but quickly dismissed by LTC.

The idea has some merit, such as bringing people from LTC and the Advertising Committee together to form coordinated objectives, policy and programs. It would also lend more accountability to an accounting system which LTC member and Ruidoso Lodgers Association (RLA) president Clark Carpenter described as "the sorriest accounting system I've ever seen."

The idea is well employed in other communities, even though LTC chairman Ed Hyman stated that LTC attorney Lee Huckstep said it wasn't legal as written.

Also, the Chamber's central committee would receive 80 percent of collected lodgers' tax revenue, but only one LTC member openly expressed his opinion that the Chamber may be gaining too much by the Wilson proposal.

Well, the Chamber's ad campaign proposal received LTC's reluctant approval, but the two groups left the table slightly hurt and a little angry at each other.

The main figures in the "feud" were Jungbluth, Carpenter and Hyman (although Hyman didn't get much press).

"Ed (Hyman) and I have been at odds," admitted Jungbluth recently at a Chamber board meeting at which councilman Al Junge scolded the concerned parties for fighting like children and showing their dirty underbelly in public.

However, it is my feeling that opinions and information from all "sides" should be aired. True, articles on what I found to be a complex issue may have bothered some parties, but it's only right that when public money is being discussed and public groups are involved, there should be no shroud of secrecy.

I believe some good came out of this short-lived fray between the three very important local interest groups—LTC, Chamber and RLA—all of which have only the good of Ruidoso at heart.

An increased awareness of each group's responsibility and limits is one such positive result. Another is knowing each group's differing positions. Yet another is each group's agreement to disagree, thus ensuring that the intended system of checks and balances works.

The whole thing seems to have fizzled out. Wilson's proposal has been dropped for the time being. The $16,000 summer ad campaign was scrapped.

Complaints about the village's accounting of lodgers' tax revenues have abated. (The ad campaign was stopped because it was thought that there were not enough lodgers' tax funds, but in reality, there were. The balance of unspent funds amounted to $15,423.85.)

In fact, Wilson sees no problem with the accounting system, and neither does new village clerk Leon Eggleston.

Both assured The News that there will be no more accounting problems. Eggleston will monitor the lodgers' tax money—which sits in the village's general operating fund—monthly, he promised.

As it turns out, nobody seems to acknowledge that there was a problem. Everything is just funky-dory now according to Hyman, Wilson, Eggleston and the Chamber.

Carpenter would just as soon forget the whole affair rather than ruffling any more feathers.

Well, that's all swell. Everything is fine again in what Cale Dickey used to call Harmony Valley. However, I'm afraid that the strong and healthy attitude of change which prevailed just two weeks ago will once again dissipate into complacency. And some changes should definitely be made in the system.

New Mexico ranks eighth in tourism

New Mexico ranked eighth nationally in terms of percentage of its work force employed in the tourism industry, a recently released report revealed.

The New Mexico Commerce and Industry Department's Tourism & Travel Division Director announced today that 7.8 percent of New Mexico's work force was employed in tourism.

John Adams cited these findings from the U.S. Travel Data Center's 37-page report entitled "Impact of Tourism on State Economies, 1980."

The report also revealed that Vermont had the highest percentage of its work force employed in its tourism industry (19.0). Nevada ranked second (18.8), Hawaii third (14.0) and Wyoming fourth (9.9). Florida was fifth (9.3), Maine sixth (9.0) and Idaho seventh (8.7).

New Mexico tied Colorado for eighth.

The report also mentioned that New Mexico was among 12 states — Alaska, Arizona, Colorado, Florida, Hawaii, Maine, Nevada, New Hampshire, Utah, Vermont and Wyoming — in which tourism was the largest private-sector employer.

Ruidoso State Bank filed a complaint July 7 against Bruce Stafford and John Silko. The bank is seeking to recover $2,500 from Stafford for alleged account overdraft and $2,328.62 which Stafford allegedly paid to Silko from the overdraft.

On July 7 Mr. Andor of California d/b/a Dana Point filed a complaint against The Galleria, a New Mexico partnership with Jack and Jean Cauble, Jackie Kuykendall and Olive Coclaizer. Plaintiff is seeking payment of $4,293.76 allegedly due on account for merchandise.

Sears Roebuck and Company filed a complaint July 7 against Byron L. Baker for $837.02 which plaintiff charges is due on open account.

A complaint seeking payment of alleged debt and money due in the amount of $1,141.24 was filed July 8 by Allied Stores Incorporated d/b/a T-Bird Home Centers against Bob Little.

Boyd and Patsy Hume filed a complaint for insurance benefits against The Equitable Life Assurance Society of the United States. The Humes are seeking payment of $1,710.25 they charge was denied them on an insurance claim, plus $10,000 punitive damages.

A complaint for foreclosure was filed July 9 by Richard G. and Beth McCarter against Marshall A. Peebles for alleged default on payment of real estate contract. McCarters are asking that the contract be declared a valid lien upon real property and for a Special Masters sale to be held with proceeds to go toward costs of legal action, costs of the sale and satisfaction of plaintiffs' judgment.

Sears Roebuck and Company filed a complaint July 9 against Jacqueline McCann for alleged debt and money due in the amount of $941.63 on open account.

A complaint was filed July 14 by Beconta Manufacturing Corporation, a New York corporation, against Sierra Enterprises Incorporated d/b/a Performance Ski Rentals, Ralph and Elona Rush individually. The complaint charges that $15,734.69 is due Beconta on open account for purchase and credit term contract with Sierra Enterprises for which payment had been guaranteed. A second complaint was filed seeking payment of $11,301.66 allegedly due on open account.

St. Paul Insurance Company and Sierra Enterprises Incorporated filed a complaint July 15 against Conrad Graham, charging that Graham caused his vehicle to strike an apartment building owned by Sierra. St. Paul is seeking payment of $2,678.83 paid to Sierra on a claim and Sierra is seeking to recover $100 paid for the damage.

On July 16 a complaint was filed by Taskar Jack and Lucille J. Phipps against Jack and Sonja Hartrout for alleged default on payment of a note. Phipps are seeking payment of $4,160 plus interest and $416 for attorney fee.

Jack Euchler filed a complaint July 16 against Loomis Construction Company and Mountain States Mutual Casualty Company seeking workmen's compensation benefits for alleged injury to foot while working, which he alleges rendered him totally and permanently disabled.

Robert Leslie Fitzpatrick filed a petition July 16 to change his name to Robert Leslie Hopkins.

Calabash Fashions Limited and Chemical Bank Factoring Division filed a complaint July 19 against Jack and Jean Cauble d/b/a The Callico Cat. Calabash is seeking payment of $731.18 allegedly due on open account and Chemical Bank is seeking payment of $569.76 allegedly due on open account.

Mortuary Investment Company d/b/a Clarke's Chapel of Roses filed a complaint seeking payment of $2,325.48 from Bill Farris and Pat Dvorale alleged due for services provided to their deceased daughter. Filed July 19.

Citizens State Bank filed a complaint July 19 against Joseph Armstrong, charging Armstrong owes $1,031.23 on a promissory note. The bank is also seeking payment of interest on the note and attorney fees not less than 10 percent of the total amount due.

JAMES CANYON RANCH

An alpine ranch in one of New Mexico's most beautiful mountain areas. A very unusual situation. Ranch surrounds Cloudcroft running to Alamogordo and north to the Mescalero Reservation. 80 deeded acres, 34,000 USFS acres, 146 animal units year long. Deeded land has water rights and is surrounded by subdivisions. Enough grass, in our judgment, for twice the permit. Live in the city and ranch in paradise. Excellent access. $650,000.00.

BUILDING LOT DELUXE — In White Mountain Estates, Unit 4, this lot has much to offer. Good assumable loan, paving and city utilities available, with natural gas nearby.

SEEING IS BELIEVING — Extremely well-built 3 bedroom, 2 bath home is a doll house! Located on a corner lot in Country Club Estates, it enjoys a cedar fenced back yard and covered back deck that beckons you out to enjoy our Ruidoso weather. Lots of nice touches including stained glass windows and door fronts in the kitchen make this so inviting and comfortable. I could go on and on, but you should see it yourself. Please call for an appointment.

SPACIOUS HOME ON 2 1/2 ACRES — Cathedral ceiling in the living area, open floor plan is so very comfortable. Bigger than you'd first think, there are two bedrooms, and two baths, plus attached double carport and back deck. Acreage is fenced and ready for those horses of yours.

MOBILE HOME LOTS — We have several, some with trees, some without, some with assumable loans, some without. Let us help you find what you're looking for.

NEARLY AN ACRE — in town, zoned for mobile homes if that's what you need. Located on a cul-de-sac so it is ever so quiet, National Forest boundary common with your north lot line. Good owner financing available to the right purchaser.

HOUSE ON THREE LOTS — This place just makes you want to kick off those darn shoes and prop up your feet. Quiet area off the Upper Canyon is perfect for getting away from it all. You can play pool on the regulation sized billiard table in the game room. Furnished down to the coffee pot, you can enjoy a fine home, quality furnishings, and tranquility all in one grand place. Appointments only please.

WATCH YOUR STEP — or you may cool your feet in the creek behind this log house. It has 3 bedrooms, 1 1/2 baths, and is close to shopping. Completely furnished down to the linens.

ONE OF THE BENEFITS — of writing the ad is that I can put my listings in twice if I want to. You really should allow yourself to view that Country Club place — my description doesn't really do it justice. I forgot to mention that assumable loan only carries interest at 7 1/2%, like the icing on the cake. You'll love it.

INTRODUCING THE FOUR SEASONS' STAFF:

MARGARET GADDY
New broker on the Ruidoso scene, but more enthusiastic than anyone. Let her tell you "Why Ruidoso?"

LARRY TILLMAN
Believes investments and pure pleasure can be combined. He really is our LAND man, ask him anything!

RUCELLE CARPENTER RUSSELL
Hard working, efficient gal from West Texas. You all come say "Howdy" and talk "real estate."

RICHARD QUIJANO
Keeps Richard on our minds. Give him a chance to take you around his special spot—Richard knows it like the back of his hand.

SONJA HARTRONFT
A broker, a contractor and can she explain rental investments, that's why she's our property manager. Sonja puts the accent on it all!

MIKE LARKEY
Our expert, thinks service is the way to go and insists that we all work hard to provide same.

MARGE WOODUL
Loves the real estate business, shaggy dogs, all seasons and arguments. Besides that she's the Warrior Quarter-back's Mom!

BARBARA PIERCE
Answers the phone, types our letters, files, does our accounting, dusts, pays our bills, makes the coffee, takes out the trash and we couldn't get along without her!

Each of us extends a sincere invitation to drop by and become acquainted with our office. We would genuinely appreciate the opportunity to assist with your Real Estate needs.

Ponderosa pine and Douglas fir are primary saw-timber trees

THE DOUGLAS-FIR is named after the botanist David Douglas. The tree can grow to 150 feet or more in height and develop a trunk measuring three to six feet in diameter. The Douglas-fir is often used for a Christmas tree because of its tapered crown, noted Larry Ankiam, Forest Service range conservationist and wildlife officer. The needles of a Douglas-fir spread on all sides of the twigs or sometimes in two rows of short-stalked, flat needles. The needles are rounded at the apex and are dark blue in color.

This is the second in a series of picture pages intended to help both Ruidoso visitors and local residents identify some of the many varieties of trees in the area.

The Douglas-fir and the ponderosa pine are coniferous. Conifers are trees and shrubs which are characterized by their cone-bearing abilities. Conifers are also known by the names pine and evergreen.

According to range conservation and wildlife officer Larry Ankiam of the Smokey Bear Ranger District of the United States Forest Service, the ponderosa pine is the predominant tree in the Ruidoso area. He said one may expect to find ponderosa pines on north facing slopes and in the flats.

Young ponderosas are commonly referred to as black jacks. These dark-barked and rather skinny trees grow for 60 to 100 years before becoming mature, stated Ankiam.

Once a ponderosa has overmatured, its bark turns yellow. These aged ponderosas are called yellow pine or western yellow pine, Ankiam noted. Most big yellows are anywhere from 150 to 200 years old.

Wild turkeys often use thick yellow stands as roosting spots, said Ankiam. Many wild turkeys were lost in the logging process.

However, wildlife considerations have since been taken into account, he added. Now yellow stands harboring turkeys are evaluated to reserve roosting areas.

"Southwestern Trees: A Guide to the Native Species of New Mexico and Arizona"—a Forest Service publication—states that most of the lumber produced in the Southwest (82 percent) is from ponderosa pine. It is the most common tree in the Southwest and the most valuable saw-timber tree species of New Mexico and Arizona, serving a wide variety of uses.

Usually found between the elevations of 5,500 and 8,500 feet, the ponderosa pine has one of the greatest ranges of all the trees in the Western mountains. Southwestern Trees claims the vast forest on the Mogollon Plateau in central Arizona extending into western New Mexico, about 300 miles long, is the largest contiguous virgin forest of ponderosa anywhere in the West.

Ponderosa pines are second only to Douglas-fir in total stands among all the different tree species of the United States, according to Southwestern Trees.

The Douglas-fir is the largest native tree of New Mexico and is cut for its high quality lumber in localities where it is sufficiently abundant, such as here in the Sacramento Mountains.

Like the ponderosa, the Douglas-fir is used in many ways for construction, shade, ornament and shelter. As Ankiam commented, the Douglas-fir makes for very pretty Christmas trees during the Yuletide season.

In the Southwest, states Southwestern Trees, Douglas-fir is confined to limited areas in the higher mountains. Ankiam added that this species can be found in the upper elevations (7,000 feet and higher) on north-facing slopes.

Southwestern Trees states that the Douglas-fir can become 100 to 150 feet high (and in some cases higher). The tree has a straight trunk three to six feet or more in diameter, with open, broadly conical crown and drooping lower branches.

The species bears the name of David Douglas (1798-1834), a Scottish botanical explorer who discovered and introduced to horticulture many species of trees and other plants of the Pacific Northwest.

A TYPICAL STAND of blackjacks, or young ponderosa pines, grows along the Cedar Creek road. They're called blackjacks because of the dark color of the bark. The trees are on a south-facing slope. In about 150 years, these immature ponderosas may grow to 150 feet in height. Their bark will turn yellow and they will then be called yellow pines.

WHEN the "cool pines of Ruidoso" are mentioned, the Rocky Mountain variety of the ponderosa pine is being referred to. The ponderosa pine is the prevalent species of tree in the Ruidoso area. This species is also the most valuable saw-timber tree of New Mexico, states Southwestern Trees, a reference book. The crown of a ponderosa pine is narrow but open with spreading branches. There are usually three four-to-seven-inch long, stout, dark green needles in a bundle. Cones are three to five inches long and are light reddish brown with prickly scales.

Ruidoso Public Library summer children's

A MODERN MOSAIC is in the making by Wendy Rusler. Arts and crafts courses were offered by Dottie MacVeigh and Cindy Eggleston Thursday mornings. The kids' work will be shown along with other projects and skills learned in other classes Friday, July 30, from 1:30 to 3:30 at the "Fun Festival" at the library.

CHILDREN'S LIBRARIAN Ingrid Schmitz conducts a puppet-making class. To show off all of the kids' efforts, there will be a "Fun Fair" Friday, July 30, at the Ruidoso Public Library from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m. In addition to fun, there will also be refreshments.

SUSAN VINSANT directs local playwright Herb Robins' play, "Chocolate Covered Ants." Vikki Hoffer seems reluctant to follow Vinsant's blocking instructions.

WELCOME TO FOLK DANCING 101. Children's librarian Ingrid Schmitz conducts Carrie Lois Godley's folk-dancing class for kindergarteners through third graders on Tuesday afternoons.

A JAZZY EXERCISE. Rosine Stout taught kindergarten age and older children jazzercise Tuesday mornings at the library. Here the kids swing into action to the tune of J. Geils' "Freeze-Break."

WHATEVER IT TOOK to get those creative juices flowing was allowed in Will Turbow's "Writing for Fun" class, as Shannon Bridges demonstrates. To instill a sense of imagination and expression, the class wrote creative pieces. Kids were encouraged to ask questions and view things in a different perspective as part of the course's journalism section.

THE SMOKEY BEAR Historical State Park in Capitan, covering two-and-a-half acres, has been extensively landscaped with native plants and about 60,000 wildflowers. A small pond and artificial stream create microenvironments for different plant communities.

Shirley Neuhaus of Ruidoso work on identifying the types of flowers, grasses, trees and shrubs in one area of the park. In the bottom photo, Dorothy Hitt of La Luz finds her wildflower identification book helpful on the tour.

Give Your Budget A Break

Home insulation is one of your best choices for saving on summer cooling bills. Install insulation with the proper R-value (heat resistance) rating for this area to keep cool air indoors. Your air conditioner can work less to keep you comfortable. And insulation more than pays for itself by lowering the amount of electricity it takes to cool your home. While insulation is important, other energy-saving measures such as caulking, weatherstripping, and ceiling fans can mean even greater savings. For your free booklet on energy management, call us today.

DAISIES AND BLACKEYED SUSANS are two of the many types of wildflowers that are abundant in New Mexico and can be found in certain zones in the Smokey Bear Historical State Park in Capitan.

SIGNS DESCRIBING the different zones in the state where various plant species will be found growing wild have been set up throughout the Smokey Bear park in Capitan to help visitors identify each area in the park according to natural zones.

THIS FLY explores the back of a sunflower in the park as Native Plant Society members explore the flowers from a little greater distance.

A Sue Scheewe certified instructor will guide you through the project step by step. You will complete an oil painting you can frame and take home from your one-hour class. We invite you to learn to paint a beautiful and professional looking picture — even if you've never held a paint brush before.

PAINT IT AND TAKE IT

BEN FRANKLIN is proud to announce that we will be having a Sue Scheewe Workshop, with Sally Eckel instructing the class. All materials including canvases, paints, brushes, etc. will be provided. All you need to bring is yourself, an apron, and a desire to explore the enjoyment of painting. We will be completing one 18 x 12 and one 9 x 12 canvas each day, samples of which are on display at the following locations:

THE CONSTRUCTION COMPANY

THE WAY TO GO My Going Jesse bounds ahead on the final strides for a strong victory in the $11,375 Three Bars Handicap at Ruidoso Downs. The sprint covered 870 yards. My Going Jesse, ridden by Mike Lidberg, went off at just over 7-1.

COLLECTING THE THREE BARS TROPHY Hugh C. Preston Jr. (center) of Burkburnett, Texas, accepts the victory trophy following a strong come-from-behind win by his gelding, My going Jesse, in Friday's Three Bars Handicap at Ruidoso Downs. The memento is handed over by Bill Thomas of the Ruidoso Downs staff. At right, Jockey Mike Lidberg and Trainer Bob Arnett. At left, Mr. Preston's son, Hugh B. Preston. The younger Preston is also a prominent Ruidoso Downs owner.

PRESENTING THE RAINBOW CONSOLATION TROPHY Ben A. Lanford, vice-president and treasurer of Ruidoso-Sunland, Inc., hands over the victory trophy to Clarence Scharbauer Jr. (center) of Midland, Texas, following Scharbauer's conquest of the Rainbow Futurity Consolation at Ruidoso Downs. Scharbauer won the Consolation with his outstanding filly, Call Me Favorite. Jockey Ken Hart looks on.

THE FAVORITE WINS Call Me Favorite (No. 2, on the inside) barely holds off Realeasy Chick (No. 6) and Lucks Lucky (hidden, on the rail) in the final strides of the 400-yard Rainbow Futurity Consolation at Ruidoso Downs. Suitably enough, Call Me Favorite raced as the favorite. She earned $23,121 out of the Consolation purse of $105,570.
