GELDING COMPLETES ALL-AMERICAN SWEEP

Higheasterjet captures All-American Gold Cup

By DICK ALWAN and MARK GORDON

Higheasterjet, rejected by the betting public in favor of Rule The Deck, dazzled his opposition in Sunday's first running of the $966,120 All-American Gold Cup at Ruidoso Downs.

The mighty gelding came out of the starting gate like Joe Louis smelling blood, and never gave his enemies a chance to catch their breath.

Even Rule The Deck, a 3-5 favorite, never managed to mount a serious threat. The mare had to churn up the turf for all he was worth in order to finish second. Queen For Cash got in third.

Higheasterjet earned $483,060, which pushed his career income up to $1,495,312. That made Higheasterjet, once again, the chest quarter horse of all time — easily surpassing the current earnings record of Special Effort. The latter holds winnings of $1,154,949.

Higheasterjet's awesome conquest of the Gold Cup had historic overtones, since it gave him a clean sweep of the All-American series — his own version of a Triple Crown. In 1980, the gelding won the All-American Futurity. Last year, he took the All-American Derby. Sunday's win neatly wrapped things up.

The gelding crossed the Gold Cup finish line a length in the clear and stopped the 40-yard clock in 21.56 seconds, a seasonal record. The previous record of 21.67 was owned by Rule The Deck. No wind was blowing during the Gold Cup journey.

Higheasterjet, ridden by W. R. Hunt, returned $6.60 to win, $2.60 to place, $2.60 to show. The gelding is trained by Johnnie Goodman for G. D. Highsmith of La Grange, Texas.

Rule The Deck, owned by Dirk Jones of Alamogordo, had to be content with the runner-up paycheck of $164,240. Jack Wallace was aboard. The payoffs: $2.40, $2.40, $2.40. Queen For Cash, recently purchased by J. J. Jumeonville Jr. (of Ventress, Louisiana) for $112,000, ended up three-fourths length behind Rule The Deck. The mare collected $96,612 and refunded $3.80. Dany Cardozo was in the saddle.

The Gold Cup is limited to four-year-olds. It already ranks among the world's richest races.

Here's the way the also-rans checked in: 5th — Baby Hold On, earning $67,620; 5th — Hempens Easy Tam, $46,306; 6th — Explosive Native, $38,644; 7th — Lucks Gay Chick, $28,983; 8th — Kiss A Toad, $19,322; 9th — Running Barre, $9,661; 10 — Mr. Speed Boat, $9,661.

Rule The Deck was made a 3-5 favorite in the strength of her impressive four and one-fourth length win in the trials a week ago. Earlier in the season, she'd won the $150,385 Rainbow Silver Cup, then finished first in the $135,495 World's Championship classic but was disqualified for interference and placed third.

Higheasterjet had also encountered difficulty staying on a straight course. In the Gold Cup trials, he won by one and one-fourth lengths, but was placed third by the stewards after being blamed for interference.

His adjusted time of 22.55 seconds put him in ninth-place among the list of 10 Gold Cup finalists.

From the way the gelding exploded out of the Gold Cup starting gate, one could almost suppose he was out to gain revenge for his disappointing defeat in the trials.

In front from the first jump, Higheasterjet — with jockey Hunt flailing away with the whip — ran a straight-as-an-arrow course near the outside rail. Almost from the start it appeared the big gelding was too good for his opponents. He was never threatened.

Rule The Deck broke in seventh place and gradually slipped under ground under urging from Jack Wallace. Although the mare closed gamely throughout, she could not approach the winner.

Queen For Cash, after breaking near the front of the pack, ran an even race. She held onto the runnerup slot most of the way, then conceded to Rule The Deck. Baby Hold On, a 13-1 shot, broke well but could not sustain her speed.

The Gold Cup was run cleanly and without incident.

Higheasterjet, a son of Pine's Easter Jet out of Alamitos Doll Two, came out of the Gold Cup with a record of 2-0-1 from three starts this year. Last year, Higheasterjet scored five wins from five starts.

The Gold Cup was his fourth stakes win. His list of credits now includes the All-American Futurity, Rainbow Derby, All-American Derby and All-American Gold Cup.

Higheasterjet will remain, at least for the immediate future, the world's richest quarter horse. Even if Special Effort wins the $1 million All-American Derby on August 22, the $330,000 victory purse would put the three-year-old's bank account at $1,487,948 — a little more than $7,000 shy of Higheasterjet's total.

In the post-race interviews, jockey Hunt was asked to compare Higheasterjet with Special Effort. He responded this way: "I just think they're both great. I don't have anything bad to say about either one of them. Until they run against each other, I don't have to compare one to the other. I like them both so much."

Although careful to remain on the fence on this issue, he was nonetheless lavish in his praise of Higheasterjet. He went on: "Higheasterjet had never had the number 10 post position before. He was always on the inside. He was ready for the Gold Cup and was dead on when the gates opened. He wanted to run. I've always liked this horse. You really can't say enough about him."

Regarding Rule The Deck, Hunt observed: "She's a really good mare. She's never been beaten here this year except for that disqualification in the Classic."

Jockey Wallace, Rule The Deck's pilot, observed evenly: "She ran straight in the Gold Cup and tried hard. But Higheasterjet beat us quite a ways. I think he's probably the best in the world right now."

G. D. Highsmith, Higheasterjet's owner, said he had no idea his horse would turn in to the sport's leading money-maker. "You never know about them at the start," he commented. Asked about the Gold Cup outcome, he replied: "I was worried about Rule The Deck and Queen For Cash, but Higheasterjet has been progressing better. He pulled up better after this race than after any race so far. He's had chips in his knees and everything. This was the best race he's ever run. He left the gate well. I just want to give my special thanks to trainer Johnnie Goodman and jockey W. R. Hunt."

Here's the Gold Cup finish with the margins separating the 10 finalists: Higheasterjet first by one length; Rule The Deck second by three-fourths lengths; Queen For Cash third by a nose; Baby Hold On fourth by one and one-fourth lengths; Hempens Easy Tam fifth by a neck; Explosive Native sixth by a neck; Lucks Gay Chick seventh by one-half length; Kiss A Toad eighth by three-fourths lengths; Running Barre ninth by five and one-fourth lengths; Mr. Speed Boat last.

They qualified this way: Rule The Deck, 22.02; Baby Hold On, 22.27; Queen For Cash, 22.29; Mr. Speed Boat, 22.43; Lucks Gay Chick, 22.47; Explosive Native, 22.49; Hempens Easy Tam, 22.54; Running Barre, 22.54; Higheasterjet, 22.55; Kiss A Toad, 22.55.

FILL MACKIS CUP, forced into a three-fourths length defeat in the recent Billy The Kid Handicap at Ruidoso Downs, squared the record with Double B. Express in Saturday's Mr. Tattoo Handicap.

The duel, covering seven and one-half furlongs as a prelude to the Ruidoso Mile, offered a total jackpot of $12,800.

On the strength of Double B. Express' conquest of the Billy The Kid Handicap (seven furlongs), the gelding was made a 6-5 favorite in the Mr. Tattoo 'cap. Fill Mackis Cup was relegated to the backup role at 7-5.

But the outcome was reversed this time as Fill Mackis Cup elected to stay on the lead most of the way. The four-year-old gelding opened up at the top of the stretch, just as Double B. Express was moving into high gear.

Also in the thick of things was Musical King, a 13-1 longshot, who appeared ready to steal the show. But just as the gelding was about to whip by Fill Mackis Cup, he veered in suddenly. Jockey Vickie Smallwood quickly straightened him out to avoid a collision with Fill Mackis Cup, but the misstep caused him to lose stride.

Fill Mackis Cup kept right on rolling and was a head in front of the onrushing Double B. Express when the two zoomed under the wire. The winning time of 1:34 3/5 seconds was only three fractions short of the seasonal mark. Richard Bickel was in the saddle.

Fill Mackis Cup, owned by Mack Yates of Cherokee, Texas, collected $7,690 in his fourth win of the meeting and returned betting payoffs of $4.80, $2.60, $2.20. Double B. Express, ridden by Casey Lambert under the top load of 122 pounds, earned $2,816 (which pushed his '82 bankroll up to nearly $28,000) and refunded $2.60, $2.20.

Double B. Express was only a nose in front of Musical King on the wire. The latter carried 114 pounds and returned $2.60 to show.

Fill Mackis Cup was the second-highestweight at 119 pounds.

BLUE GAZI tossed two surprises at his foes in Friday's six-furlong allowance feature at Ruidoso Downs.

First, he came tearing out of the gate and opened a wide lead in the early stages

HIGHEASTERJET WINS THE GOLD CUP. Higheasterjet, with W. R. Hunt aboard in a picture perfect ride, flashes across the Ruidoso Downs finish line with a length lead in the $966,120 All-American Gold Cup Sunday. The gelding earned almost a half-million dollars. He raced as the second favorite.

of the sprint which drew such hard-hitting competitors as That's Class and Time To Sail.

Blue Gazi's second surprise came at the tail end of the race, when he failed to burn out from his pace-making tactics. The colt, ridden by Willie Lovell, hit the top of the straightaway with plenty of power still in his legs.

When Lovell asked for a final burst of power, the colt delivered a sudden surge which seemed to catch his enemies by surprise. It was an easy cruise to the wire, with Blue Gazi, a 6-1 shot, in control by one and one-half lengths.

Blue Gazi's first victory of the summer meeting reaped a handsome purse of $3,600 and was good for mutual payoffs of $14.40, $8 and $4.40. Blue Gazi is trained by William Fore for Raymond Jones of San Antonio, Texas.

Volant Flame, a 31-1 shot, made a strong stretch move to finish second, thus setting up a generous quinella payoff of $269.20. Volant Flame, piloted by Leroy Coombs, also disbed out $21.60 to place, $7 to show. Ollie King (7-2) finished third, refunding $4.

That's Class, tolling as an even-money favorite, dropped back at the start and was never able to erase the deficit. But she rallied mildly late in the stretch to finish fourth.

SUNDAYS PAYDAY, the reigning kingpin among two-year-old thoroughbreds at Ruidoso Downs, tightened the vice Thursday on the upcoming $148,631 Ruidoso Thoroughbred Futurity.

Thursday's program at the mountain track included four six-furlong trials for the most prestigious thoroughbred event on the Ruidoso stakes schedule.

In order to assure a berth in the September 4 finale — and a crack at the $73,315 victory purse — a hopeful had to finish in the top two in the Thursday trial spin. (The two remaining berths are to be filled via a draw among the third-place finishers.)

Sundays Payday, who's already earned over $114,354, was made a 1-5 favorite in the 10th race. The colt left the starting gate a bit sluggishly from the number nine slot, took a wide swing into the backstretch, eventually reaching the top of the stretch on even terms with the 4-1 shot, Cherokee Blade. But just as it appeared Cherokee Blade would outduel Sundays Payday in the stretch, the people's choice delivered a kayo punch. He lunged into the lead to win going away by two lengths. Mike Lidberg was aboard. The winning time (on an off track) was 1:16 3/5 seconds.

Owned by Hugh C. Preston Jr. of Burkburnett, Texas, Sundays Payday returned $2.60, $2.20, $2.40. Bob Arnett trains the colt. Earlier in the summer, Sundays Payday won the $155,320 Norgor Futurity at Ruidoso and finished second in the lucrative Land of Enchantment Futurity at La Mesa Park.

Sundays Payday came out of Thursday's program with his fifth win in eight starts. Another top trial performance was turned in by Vibrant Princess, who led all the way in the 11th race, stopping the clock in 1:16 4/5 seconds. The filly, who's earned some $30,000, is owned by Thomas W. Moore of Fort Worth. The win payoff: $2.80.

The two other trial winners were Southern Ship ($15.20) in 1:17 1/5 seconds, and Sailing Blade ($13.60), also in 1:17 1/5.

Airport Advisory Board hears charter gripes

by DAVID SHEPPARD
Staff Writer

The Ruidoso Airport Advisory Board (AAB) heard complaints from two charter operators about airport manager Tim Morris' charter service at the first meeting of the reactivated advisory group Thursday. The board adjourned without making a decision on the matter.

The AAB scheduled a follow-up meeting for Thursday evening at 6:30 at village hall. Board member Ben Hall indicated the AAB required time to review material in the airport dispute, and member Myrt Vittov recommended that the charter operators return with their argument this week.

The charter operators, Steve Hightower and Merle Miller, alleged last week that Morris is in a conflict of interest because he has his own charter service at the airport.

Thursday, Hightower said he would like the AAB to recommend an ultimatum be given to Morris. He said he would like Morris to either resign as airport manager or give up his charter business.

"It's a clear case of conflict of interest," Hightower claimed. "We're paying him in the neighborhood of $24,000 (annually) as airport manager, and he is my competitor."

Village manager Jim Hine said Friday

Morris' salary is $25,200 a year. Hine added the salary is paid directly from airport revenues.

Roy Parker, who was elected chairman of the board in a closed session prior to the discussion of the charter dispute, told Hightower the AAB is strictly an advisory group, and is thus limited in its power, he stressed. Also in the closed session, Morris was designated secretary of the AAB. His appointment conforms to the resolution creating the board.

At the start of the open session, Hightower interrogated Morris concerning his management of the airport.

Hightower asked the airport manager if the plane he leases for his charter service occupies hangar space that Hightower said recently became available. He asked Morris if persons on a waiting list for hangar space had been excluded from renting the space.

Morris replied that hangar space did become available, but that persons he contacted on the waiting list turned down the space. He added that he parks his charter plane—which he leases from councilman Benny Coulston and two other part owners of the aircraft—in other hangar space, which he said has always been supplied to the airport manager.

Hightower also asked Morris if he leased office space at the airport to the Dean Land and Cattle Company. "It's basically a real estate company in an office at the airport, isn't it?" Hightower asked.

"That's correct," Morris said. He noted that the real estate company was on a waiting list for airport office space for three years.

Hightower then suggested that future office vacancies be reserved for aviation and airport related services.

Continuing his questioning of Morris, Hightower accused Morris of pocketing the profits from vending machines at the airport.

Morris told the group he keeps the profits because he personally buys the vending machine supplies. Board member Wayne Dacy asked why the village is not responsible for the machines.

Assistant village manager Frank Potter, who previously was airport manager, told the board he also bought supplies for the machines. He said it was necessary because vending machine companies would not service them.

Merle Miller said he thought some of the problems raised by Hightower were "very negligible." Miller said his main concern was the principle of Morris operating his own charter service out of the airport, with the advantage of using airport facilities at no cost.

"The situation here is kind of unique," Miller said. "You have a city employee who at the same time runs a private enterprise which goes hand in hand with the operation of the airport."

Miller indicated he also does not like the fact a councilman is part owner of Morris' leased plane, and that the proceeds from the charters help on the payment of the plane.

"Ruidoso has changed," Miller continued. "If we're asking for a multi-million dollar airport up on the mesa, some of these antiquated rules have to be updated."

Councilman Al Junge agreed with Miller. "The (vending) machine thing strikes me as odd," he said. He added that the practice is not "deeply ingrained," and can be changed by the council.

AAB member Ben Hall asked Morris how many hours he works per week as manager.

Morris said the council did not designate his hours, but he said he has worked seven days a week in recent months, at an average of 40 to 50 hours a week.

Hall then said he felt Morris was fulfilling his duties, "as long as he manages the airport on a profitable basis." Junge noted that the village does not have to subsidize the airport.

Hightower concluded the discussion by asking the board to consider if any other department head would be allowed "to operate a private enterprise that associates with their job."

Members of the board indicated they could not answer the question.

Valley School lawsuit dismissed

by BARBY GRANT
Staff Writer

A lawsuit filed in July 1980 against the Valley Public School System was dismissed with prejudice last month in Federal District Court.

The suit, filed by Ruidoso Valley parents, alleged that the school system did not maintain adequate bilingual education facilities. According to a clerk in the Federal District Court in Albuquerque, U.S. District Judge Howard C. Bratton had ordered in January of this year that the plaintiffs shall pay all court costs of the defendants in the case. A motion for dismissal of the suit was filed by defendants in June, stating that plaintiffs had failed to make such payment.

Judge Bratton then dismissed the case with prejudice July 19, 1982, because the plaintiffs failed to respond to the motion for dismissal, thereby rendering consent. The term "with prejudice" means that the charges cannot be brought up again, the clerk explained.

Police chief warns of traffic danger with start of school

by DAVID SHEPPARD
Staff Writer

The start of school August 30 falls during the busiest time of the horse racing season here, and Ruidoso police chief S. Swenor cautions children, parents and motorists to exercise extra care on the streets.

"Children haven't been hurt here going to school since I've been here," Swenor said. "The main thing is we want to keep a good record."

He said motorists especially should be careful when approaching bus stops. Most Ruidoso students commute to school by bus, and thus congregate at the stops to socialize, he noted.

Swenor suggests that students wait quietly at the stops, and don't disturb passing motorists.

Swenor added that RPD personnel is available to teachers, parents and interested groups for lectures on safety, particularly regarding younger children.

Five great racing days set

The next to last weekend of the 1982 season at Ruidoso Downs gets underway Wednesday.

It's another busy five-day stretch with such high profile events as the All-American Futurity final round trials, the Ruidoso Spring Championship and the $1 million All-American Derby included in the agenda.

Here's a day by day summary:
WEDNESDAY — Three-year-old fillies travel 5 1/2 furlongs under allowance conditions in the top race. The purse is a generous $5,800. The card is headed by the fast-breaking Tina Serina. During the recent Sunland Park season, Tina Serina used her front-running tactics to good advantage. She scored against claimers in the $5,000, $10,000 and $12,500 brackets, then added a win against allowance sprinters.

THURSDAY — The 12-race program includes 11 final round qualifying trials for the $2,530,000 All-American Futurity. Each of the trials will be run at 440 yards. It'll be a case of running against the clock. A total of 105 two-year-olds will take part in the 11 trials, and those chalking up the 10 fastest times (regardless of finish) will earn a berth in the Labor Day finale. Yankee Win, winner of the prestigious $728,085 Rainbow Futurity, goes in the third race. Chicks Eta Wind, the upset winner of the $768,040 Kansas Futurity, drew into the fourth race. Mr. Master Bug, the impressive colt who took a close second in the Rainbow, is in the first race. Other stars included Dynago Victory in the fifth, Painted But in the eighth, Speed Hemp in the ninth, Kita Blue in the 10th and Bartendress in the 11th.

FRIDAY — The main item is the $76,000 Second Consolation of the All-American Derby. The winner collects $9,700. The distance is the classic 440 yards. Tams Easy Native is the top qualifier at 22.37 seconds. Other standouts include Summer Encounter, Go For Bugs, Viva El Seis, Ponti Bar and The Heat Is On.

SATURDAY — The $146,000 All-American Derby First Consolation shares the billing with the prestigious Ruidoso Sprint Championship at six furlongs. The latter is open to three-year-olds and up and offered a fattened-up added purse of $17,500. In the First Consolation, such stars as Cute Investment and Rebelier will be slugging it out. The winner collects $22,000. Cute investment is the top qualifier at 22.25 seconds, and is followed by French Jeans, 22.26; Ms Secret Cash, 22.26; The Pipeliner, 22.28; Miss Boogie Barre, 22.28; Rebelier, 22.29; Pfeiffernusse, 22.31; Magic Gold Mine, 22.32; My Prime Rate, 22.33; Texas Viking, 22.36.

The Sprint Championship is likely to attract such Ruidoso thoroughbred stars as Fill Mackis Cup, Double B Express and Banquero.

SUNDAY — The headliner is the ninth running of the $1 million All-American Derby at 440 yards. The winner collects $333,000. Much of the attention will be fixed on Special Effort, last year's historic winner of the Triple Crown for two-year-olds. The colt started his assault on the three-year-old Triple Crown by winning the Kansas Derby. But he failed to qualify for the Rainbow Derby (although winning his trial heat). For the All-American Derby, he checked in with the fourth-best time of 22.06 seconds, and will most likely loom as an odds-on favorite while facing such stiff foes as Johnny Vittorio, Justanold Love, Dashing and Outa Control. Special Effort has earned $128,226 so far this season. Last year, he raked in $1,026,723. He's the second richest quarter horse of all time.

Next week, it'll be another five-day stretch, but this time, the pattern is Thursday-through-Monday racing. The season ends on Labor Day (Monday, September 6) with the All-American Futurity. The winner earns an astonishing $1 million.

First post each day this week is the regular 1 p.m.

COLLECTING THE GOLD CUP. G. D. Highsmith (center) of La Grange, Texas, accepts the Gold Cup from Ruidoso Downs general manager R. Wood Erwin. Highsmith is the owner of Higheasterjet, who became the world's richest quarter horse with his length conquest of the All-American Gold Cup. Trainer Johnie Goodman is third from right. Also looking on is jockey W. R. Hunt.

Tina Serina in Wednesday feature

The speedy Tina Serina seeks to regain her winning ways when she faces seven foes in Wednesday's featured race at Ruidoso Downs.

The Know That filly will compete against three-year-old fillies going five and a half furlongs under allowance conditions. The purse will be $5,800. Tina Serina enjoyed a fine campaign this spring at Sunland Park. She posted four victories with her front-running style. She advanced rapidly up the claiming ladder, winning for $5,000, $10,000, and $12,500.

She also took an allowance chase on April 3 over five and a half furlongs.

But she's had difficulty at the mountain track, running two sixths, and an eighth. Her last start produced a sixth-place effort on July 24 in a five and a half furlong chase for three-year-olds competing for a $12,500 claiming price.

Tina Serina has gained four victories with two seconds in 11 outings this year for owner-trainer Joe H. Welch of Ruidoso Downs. She's collected $9,078.

Special Platoon, second in her only appearance this summer at Ruidoso Downs, may be the toughest opponent for Tina Serina.

The lightly raced Platoon Leader filly has had just three outs. She won her maiden race by more than three lengths last December at Sunland Park and then won an allowance race on February 5 at Sunland Park by more than four lengths.

In her only start at Ruidoso Downs, she finished second to Phans Miss by a neck as a 1-2 favorite in a five and a half furlong allowance race for three and four-year-old fillies.

This will be the final Wednesday card this season. Ladies and senior citizens will be admitted free to all general admission areas.

Resource, Conservation and Development meets Tuesday

South Central Mountain Resource, Conservation and Development (RC&D) will meet Tuesday, August 24, in Ruidoso, to elect officers for the coming year.

A group will also hear from State Representative Maurice Hobson and from T. Putnam, district supervisor for the State Engineer's Office in Deming.

The meeting will give a legislative report beginning at 1 p.m. Putnam will then talk about the impact of declaring the Tularosa Basin closed and the suit between New Mexico and El Paso, Texas, over water rights.

All interested persons are invited to attend the meeting, at George's Restaurant, 607 S. White Sands Boulevard in Alamogordo. An executive committee meeting will begin at 10 a.m. and the steering committee meeting is scheduled for 1 p.m.

Carrizo Lodge art director named

by BARBY GRANT
Staff Writer

Ken Hosmer of El Paso, Texas, has been named art director at Carrizo Lodge, the second full-time art director in the 28 years since art classes were first established at the Lodge.

Previously an art instructor at El Paso Community College, Hosmer said he feels his new position is "a chance of a lifetime to build THE art school." The new art director's plans include offering classes year-round with nationally known instructors. He also intends to add to the schedule workshops in such fields as photography, ceramics and possibly theater.

Hosmer himself has experience in a variety of art fields, including oil, acrylic, watercolor and alkyd painting; as well as photography, printmaking, drawing, jewelry, ceramics and sculpture. He has a bachelor's degree in art education from the University of Texas at El Paso and has studied privately with several well-known artists, including Carl Cogar, Edgar Whitney, Loren Janzen and Ed Bussard. Hosmer was hired as art director at Carrizo Lodge by Billy Taylor, executive vice president of the Odessa, Texas, firm which purchased the lodge last year. Taylor's wife, Connie, has been acting art director throughout the summer.

"We're really excited about Ken," Taylor said. "We have no problem turning over the program to him."

"We will be working closely with him to make sure the overall goal of Carrizo Lodge is met," Taylor added.

This goal, he explained, is for Ruidoso to be known in the art world as having the major art academy in the United States. To reach this goal, Taylor has planned a national advertising campaign and will put together a slide presentation for Hosmer to take around the country promoting Ruidoso and Carrizo Lodge.

An extensive renovation and development program begun by Taylor at the lodge is also expected to add to its reputation as a leading art retreat. Two restaurants are planned—a buffet to be open by Labor Day and a formal dining room to be open later in the fall. A package store and gallery will be added and 90 condominiums are scheduled to be finished in November.

"We still want to maintain the original historic flavor," Hosmer assured. The Lodge is listed on the National Register of Historic Places and is designated as a registered cultural property by the state of New Mexico.

In addition to appointing an art director for Carrizo Lodge, Taylor said he will hire a general manager, rentals manager and food and beverage director by this fall. By next year, the lodge should employ about 150 people to operate the restaurants, lounge and rental units, Taylor said.

He plans to promote Carrizo Lodge as a good vacation spot for families, as those not taking art classes can enjoy Ruidoso's other attractions.

As art director, Hosmer intends to promote the quality of the instructors who will be teaching at the lodge.

"I think the art world is going to be hearing about Carrizo Lodge," Hosmer said.

Candidates address Republican Women

Four of five candidates for state representative from District 56 spoke to Federated Republican Women of Lincoln County last week.

Fred Pool, Thomas McKnight, Ernest Sanchez and Fred Collins addressed the group. Because of the projected light turnout for the August 31 special primary election, going to the polls to vote was stressed.

Also at the meeting, program chairperson Lois Aldrich read an essay, "I Fly My Flag," and awards chairperson Jackie Rawlins announced the arrival of a book place for the book, "The Statesmanship of Abraham Lincoln," to be donated to Ruidoso Christian School.

Cathy Annala announced an August 28 fundraiser for Joe Skeen at South Springs Ranch south of Roswell. The 5:30 p.m. event will include barbecue and music by the Roustabouts from Artesia. Information is available from Annala at 257-2240.

Next meeting of the Republican women's group is September 21. State president Peggy Traver will be the featured speaker, and she will be accompanied by Gayle Irick, wife of John Irick.

Further information is available from Dorothy Barber at 258-3348 or Dorothy Smith at 354-2499.

Around Sports

with Gary Brown

Professional soccer is staying alive by a ad in this country. The North American Soccer League (NASL) has lost several franchises within the past couple of years and there are more even more likely to fold before the season.

Franchises like the Cosmos (representing the New York metropolitan area), the Chicago and Tulsa are enjoying success at the gate. However, most of the other franchises are struggling at best.

The Los Angeles area has lost two NASL franchises within the past two years. It's a bad omen for the NASL because of the huge population of that area and the large number of Hispanic people there. Soccer is very popular in South and Central America and many of the Hispanic population of Los Angeles have come from those areas recently.

Professional soccer can't draw in Los Angeles, where can it draw?

It seems to be more popular in the northern part of the country. Most of the cities like New York and Chicago are large, well-organized amateur and professional soccer leagues and that builds up a following for professional soccer.

Many of the Western cities don't have amateur soccer leagues or haven't been around for a long time. Soccer has been a popular sport in this country since the 1920s.

Professional soccer has to compete with other league baseball during the summer months. Baseball has been popular a lot longer than soccer in this country.

Thus, soccer is in the position of having to prove itself to the American sports fans. People under 30 years old, soccer gained a fairly large following. Youth soccer leagues in this country were established about the time the members of the 20-30 age group were in their teenage years.

This age group is beginning to work into the peak earning years. When people from this age group and younger make up the bulk of the country's sports fans, soccer should see its position in American sports circles rise greatly.

The question is whether the NASL can survive until then.

Turning to another sport, the events of the summer again point out the need for more baseball and softball facilities in the Ruidoso area.

Three different adult softball leagues have had to share the All-American Park Field in Ruidoso Downs.

The men's fast pitch league played Tuesday through Thursday and also on Sunday nights. The men's slow pitch league had to play on Friday nights, while the women's league played on Monday nights and had to hold some of its games at Fort Stanton field, about 25 miles away.

If a way could be found to build some extra softball facilities, perhaps Ruidoso could host some first-rate softball tournaments, drawing teams from all over Southern New Mexico.

Players from teams in other parts of the state have said they would love to come and play softball in Ruidoso because the weather is ideal.

High quality baseball and softball facilities would greatly enhance the sports image of the Ruidoso area.

With horse racing season near its peak at Ruidoso Downs Race Track for the season, the first Ruidoso Motorcycle Festival is drawing near.

The festival, which is sponsored by the Ruidoso Business Association, is scheduled from September 29 to October 2 on 12 acres of land between the Holiday Inn and the Villa Inn off Highway 70.

The festival will draw some of the top cyclists in the Southwest and other parts of the country.

A good number of races will be held during the festival and that should bring plenty of excitement for local motorcycle enthusiasts.

Here's hoping the festival is a great success.

JUNIOR VARSITY TO PLAY ARTESIA

Warriors tough against Las Cruces

by GARY BROWN
Sports Writer

Head coach Darrel Stierwalt and the rest of the Ruidoso High School football coaching staff were generally pleased with the way the Warriors performed in a scrimmage with host Las Cruces High School Saturday afternoon.

The AAAA division hosts did "outscore" the AAA Warriors three touchdowns to none but two of the Las Cruces scores came against Ruidoso's second string defense.

The Warriors offense moved well against the much larger Bulldogs, especially through the air.

"I thought our offensive line did a great job pass blocking," Stierwalt remarked. "Particularly since their defensive line was much bigger than ours."

Las Cruces' defensive line has three or four players over 200 pounds and one man weighed around 250 pounds.

Against these giants, the Warriors' biggest offensive linemen were guards Craig Carson (175 pounds) and Chris Sanchez (175 pounds) and tackle Tony Stevens (170 pounds).

Despite the Bulldogs' size advantage, Ruidoso was able to move the ball inside Las Cruces' 20 yard line twice.

Senior quarterback Billy Woodul was effective throwing the ball for the Warriors. Woodul completed seven of 17 passes and had several dropped. One of his completions was a 25-yard pass to wide receiver H. R. Lueras early in the scrimmage.

The Warrior running attack was effective with senior halfback Grady Williamson getting several good gains. He was especially effective going inside against the Bulldogs.

Ruidoso showed a balanced attack, running the ball 23 times and passing 17 times. That may be fairly similar to the kind of attack the Warriors show during the regular season.

"We plan on passing a lot more this year than we have in the past," Stierwalt said. "We'll probably go about 60 percent run and 40 percent pass this year."

Defensively, the Warriors stopped the Bulldog running game well except for one touchdown run and that was against the second string.

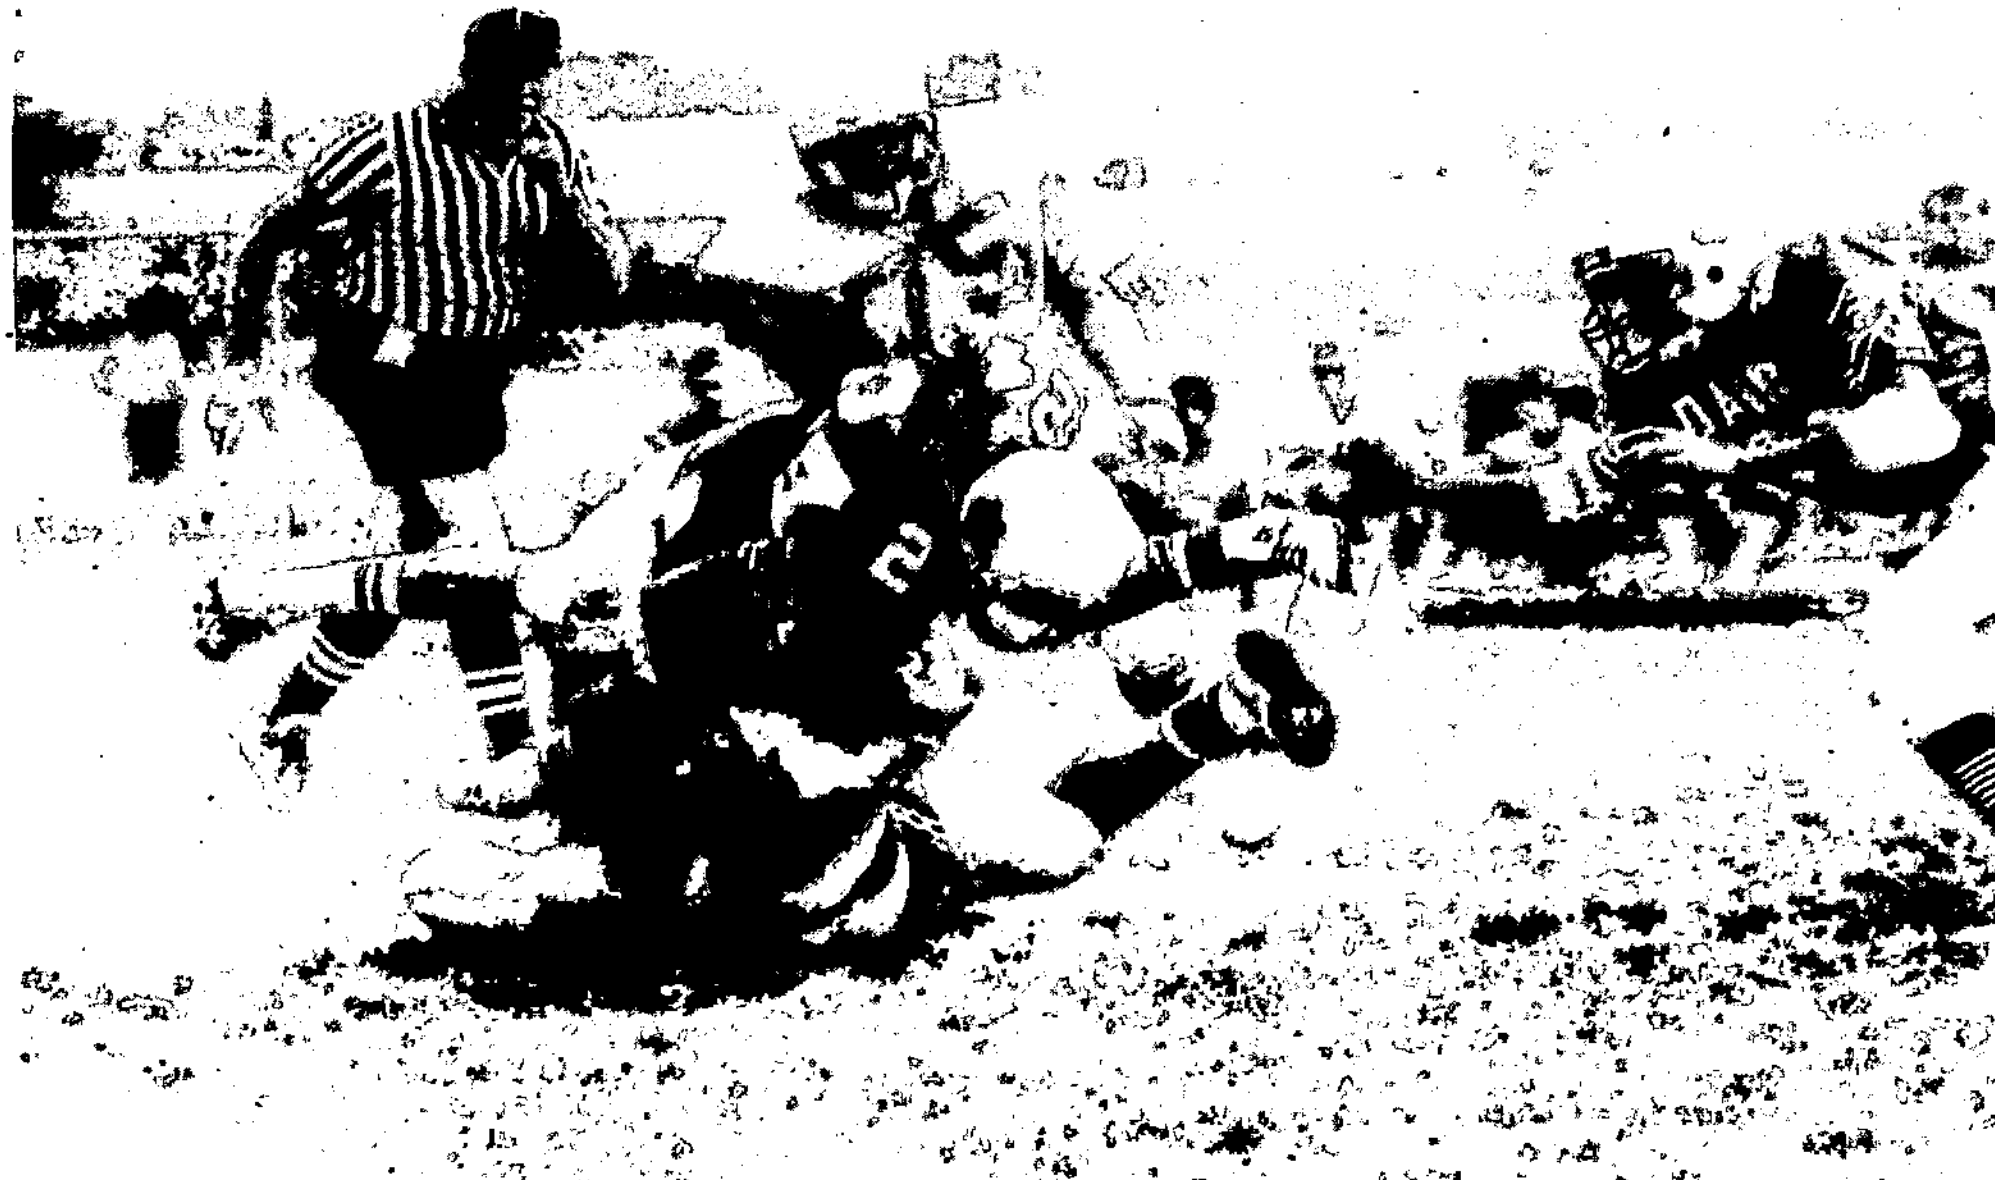

Las Cruces gained some passing yardage against the young Warrior secondary but, on the whole, Ruidoso fared well against the Bulldogs defensively.

Williamson is the only member of the Warrior secondary who started last year. The other starting defensive backs are Mike Douglas, Lueras and Curtis Palmer.

"I was really pleased with their effort," defensive coordinator Ronnie Maskew said of his players. "They did a good job and hustled very well."

Ruidoso will continue practice this week. Saturday the Warrior junior varsity will travel to Artesia for a scrimmage. The scrimmage is scheduled to begin at 7 p.m.

NOTES—Palmer and Stevens are transfers from out of New Mexico. Palmer is from Redding, California, and Stevens is from Abilene, Texas. Second string quarterback and safety Cyrus Simmons had apparently the only injury by a Warrior player in the scrimmage. He suffered a twisted ankle while playing on defense.

IT'S A COLLISION as a Las Cruces High School player (dark jersey) tackles a Ruidoso High School running back during Saturday's scrimmage in Las Cruces.

Ruidoso will open the regular season at Lovington Friday, September 3.

Warrior spikers impressive in first scrimmage Saturday

The Ruidoso High School girls volleyball team had its first intrasquad scrimmage Saturday at the Warrior gym.

The junior varsity scrimmaged first with the varsity following. About 40 girls are competing for spots on the Warrior teams.

"The varsity looked pretty good," coach Elmer Chavez said. "We have a pretty good turnout, too. We add another two or three players each practice."

Chavez is in his first year at Ruidoso. He coached for two years at Grants High School, a AAAA division school, before coming to Ruidoso.

While at Grants, he was the head junior varsity boys basketball coach and assistant boys varsity coach. He also coached the girls track team.

Ruidoso, which finished at 2-9 in 3-AAA district action and 6-10 overall last season, has several lettermen returning from last year, including Lillian Lopez, Kody

Taylor, Laurie Morel, Claudia Branum and Dody Baldonado.

Morel, who has been named team captain, just missed making the all-district team last season and should be one of the best players in the district this fall. She is good in every aspect of the game.

The Warriors' first match of the season is at Carrizozo High School Saturday, September 11. Ruidoso is practicing from 6 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Warrior tickets on sale

Season tickets to Ruidoso High School home football games are now on sale.

Anyone wanting tickets can call June Lowrance at 378-4337 after 5:30 p.m. The season tickets for the four home games plus membership in the Ruidoso High School Booster Club can be bought for $17. Already, 227 tickets have been mailed to people who had them last year.

The Booster Club will have ice cream and cake for the football team, volleyball team and cheerleaders at 7 p.m. Thursday at White Mountain Middle School.

The public is invited to attend and learn more about the Booster Club and the Warriors' athletic teams. The Booster Club helps all Ruidoso High School athletic teams.

Wilderness Wisdom

with Wayne Calloway

Dear Wayne — I own a deer rifle which I use only a few days a year. The rest of the time it sits in the gun cabinet.

It seems that each season when I test fire it the aiming point has changed. At first, I suspected the screws about the scope or mounts were loose, but they have always proved to be tight.

How could the aiming point change when the rifle is sitting idle? David C., Michigan.

Dear David — This is a more frequent problem than you might believe.

The primary cause is moisture changes within the stock which force the wood to expand or contract. A slight change in the amount of pressure of the wood upon the barrel or action will often cause the impact point to move slightly.

This situation can often be helped by removing the rifle from the stock and applying a couple coats of wood sealer down the barrel groove and onto the action bed. This will aid in preventing moisture from entering the wood.

It is equally important to keep a good waterproof finish on the outside of the stock, and to store the firearm in a dry place.

Little League signups set

Signups will be held for Little League football Thursday at both Nob Hill School and the Mesalero Community Center Activity Hall.

Youths interested in both the eight to nine-year-old division and the 10 to 12-year-old division can sign up.

The Nob Hill signups will last from 6 p.m. to 7 p.m. There is a $20 fee per family.

Mescalero youths can sign up at 7 p.m. at the activity hall.

Games will be played in both Ruidoso and Mesalero this season.

Braves begin practice

The White Mountain Middle School football team begins practice at 2:15 p.m. today on its field.

The players and coaches will have a meeting at 1:45 p.m. before the practice. The Braves will practice a week in shorts before going to pads next week.

Terry Wharton is the head coach and Mike Crocker is his assistant.

Billy Chadwell and Mike Keaton are the only returning players from last year's 4-2 team. Chadwell, who was also a Little League baseball All-Star, is a defensive back and halfback. Keaton plays flanker and defensive back.

White Mountain will open the season September 9 at Dexter. The game will start at 6 p.m.

RENEE GONZALES serves the ball during Ruidoso High School's volleyball scrimmage Saturday in the Warrior gym. Both the junior varsity and varsity scrimmaged for the first time. Ruidoso's first match is at Carrizozo High School Saturday, September 11.

Alto Country Club to host tournament

Alto Lakes Golf and Country Club will hold its second annual Pro-Member Team Golf Tournament Monday, August 30. Each team will consist of a club member and a professional golfer from New Mexico or West Texas.

There is a $30 entry fee for club members and a $32 fee for professionals.

The entry deadline is Friday. For further information, call the Alto Lakes Golf and Country Club at 336-4231.

Golfers signed for Inn tournament do well in Open

Several of the golfers who will be competing in the first Inn of the Mountain Gods Pro-Am Tournament October 11 did well in the $350,000 Buick Open in Grand Blanc, Michigan, over the weekend.

Lou Graham finished eight strokes behind winner Lanny Wadkins and won $7,175. Wadkins scored a 273 and Graham had a 281. Graham finished in a six-way tie for 11th place.

Dave Eichelberger and Fuzzy Zoeller each finished three strokes behind Graham with a 284 and won $2,433 apiece for their efforts.

Tom Purtzer carded a 285 (scoring a fine 69 in the second round) and won $1,660.

D. A. Weibring and Mark Hayes each scored a 287 and won $827. The Inn of the Mountain Gods tournament will have 12 pro-am teams, with one well-known touring professional per team.

"OUCH!" the children yell as they sing, "and if the devil doesn't like it he can sit on a tack!" It appears this is one of their favorites.

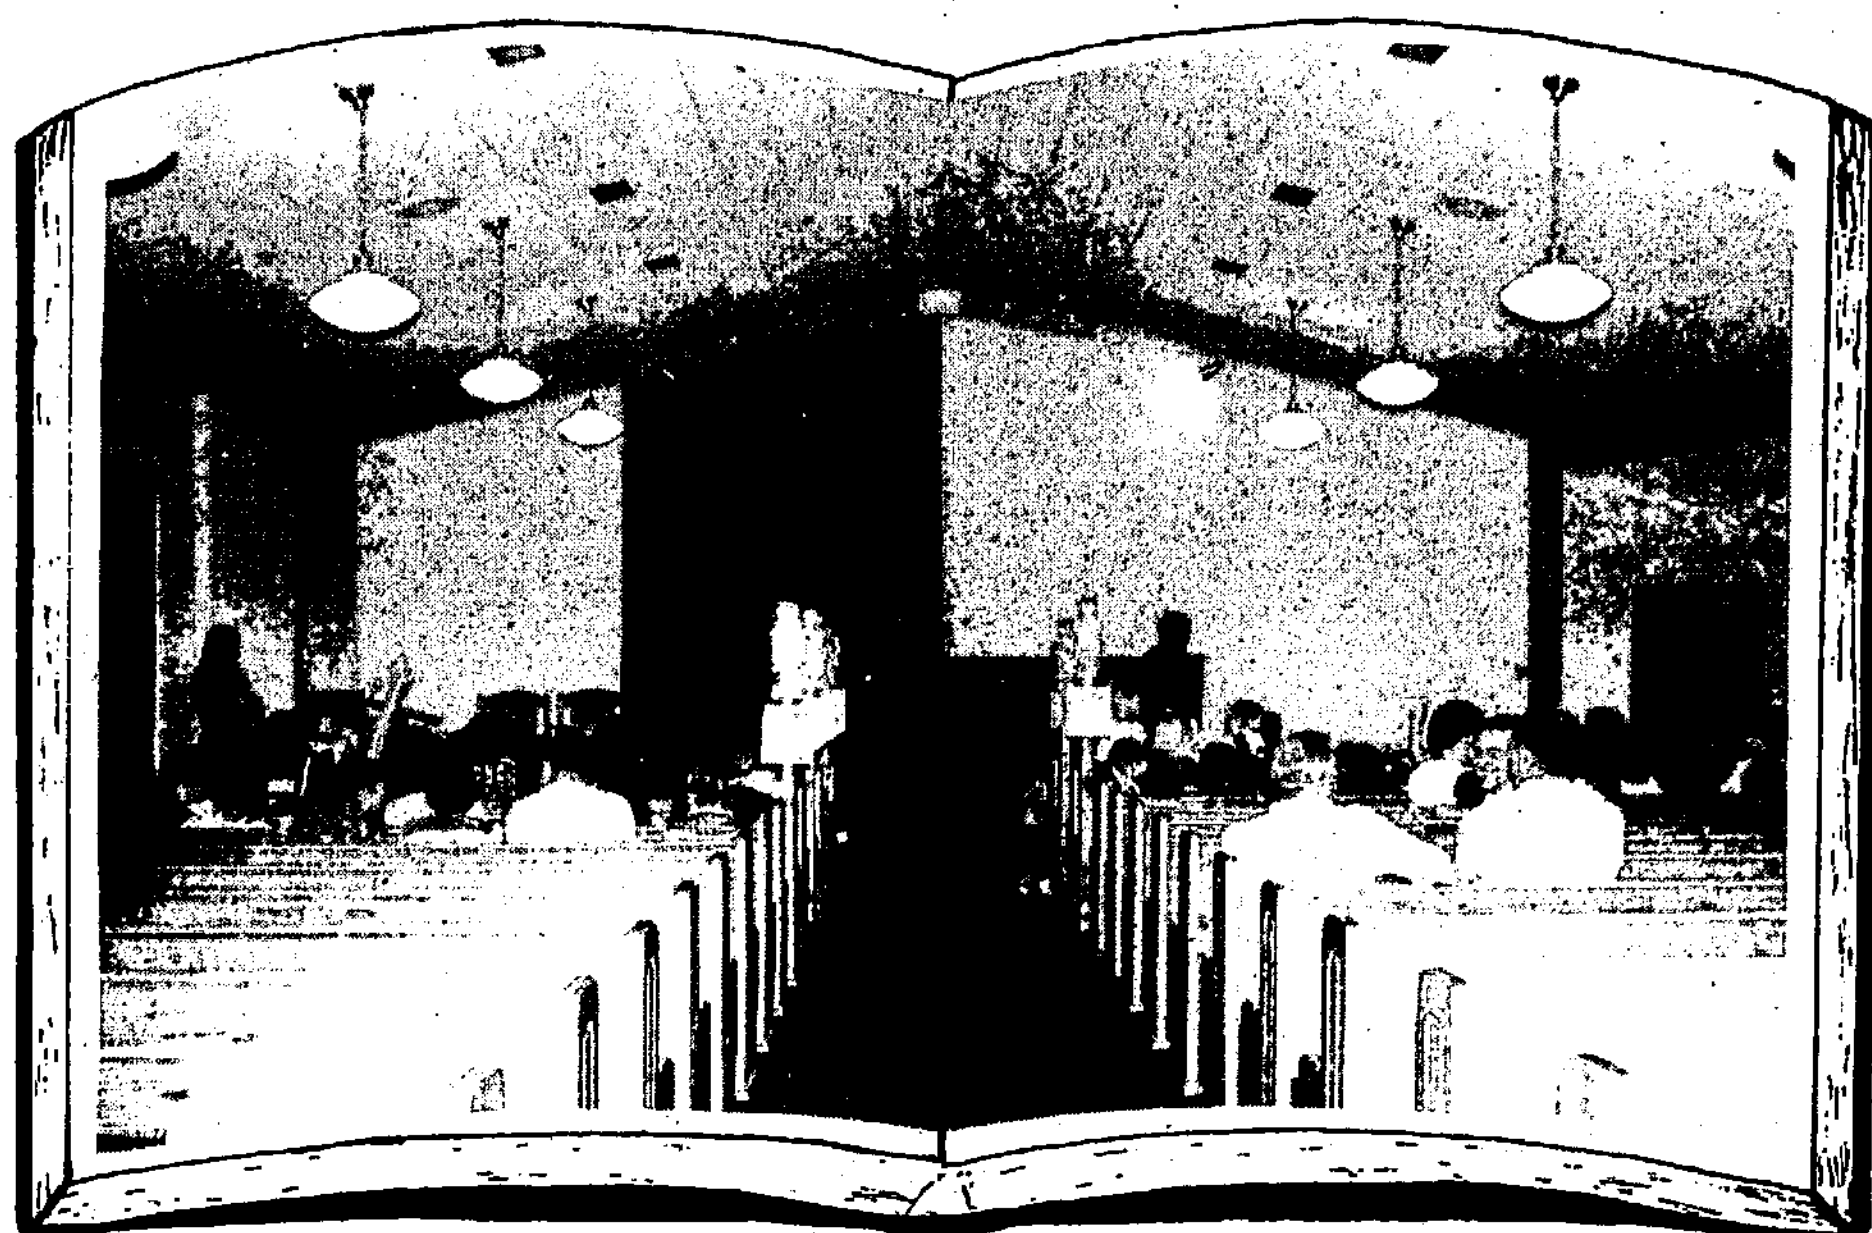

MILLIE AND BILLY, the puppets, sing with the children and discuss the theme of this year's Vacation Bible School, "The Bible—God's Guide For My Life." The teachers believe the puppets to be an excellent medium in teaching children.

...AND THEN THERE ARE OTHERS less fond of puppets.

Vacation Bible School

Finishing touch for

The Gateway Church of Christ held its annual Vacation Bible School for children age two through the sixth grade last week. Carl Parsons, minister of the congregation, reported good attendance—averaging 110 children each day. This year's theme was "The Bible—God's Guide For My Life." All children in attendance were presented with lessons centered on this theme which were adapted for their age group.

Smokeless tobacco isn't kid stuff

Snuff dipping and tobacco chewing are easing among young people in the Southwest. It's probably the result of an aggressive ad campaign that uses well-known sports personalities to hawk the use of so-called smokeless tobacco.

However, smokeless tobacco can be as harmful as the kind that produces smoke," said Almeda Goolsby, Extension health education project leader for New Mexico State University.

Goolsby cited a warning recently published in the prestigious New England Journal of Medicine by Dr. Arden Christen of the School of Aerospace Medicine at Brooks Air Force Base near San Antonio, Texas.

Dr. Christen's study included elementary, high school and college athletes and revealed the widespread use of snuff and chewing tobacco. One-third of those surveyed chewed or dipped, or both.

Goolsby said Dr. Christen's study also showed that a dipper or chewer's mouth can show signs of leukoplakia, the technical name for wrinkled, thickened, white leathery areas or oral tissue associated with precancerous conditions.

"About six percent of people with leukoplakia develop oral cancer," Goolsby said.

Not only does the smokeless tobacco irritate mouth tissue, but chewers and dippers tend to have greater tooth wear than non-users. Gums also tend to recede in areas where tobacco is held between the lower lip and gum. These facts are confirmed in Dr. Christen's research, Goolsby said.

"Bare tooth roots exposed by receding gums are more susceptible to decay and are more sensitive to heat, cold, some foods and certain chemicals. Also, tobacco that has been sweetened can actually increase tooth decay," she said.

"Tobacco products also decrease the user's ability to taste and smell bitter, salty and sweet foods. As a result, dippers and chewers use more salt on their food and tend to use extra sugar. The extra salt contributes to abnormal blood pressure and is a contributing factor in kidney disease," she said.

Tobacco juices, like smoke, contain nicotine, which is both harmful and habit forming. Nicotine is readily absorbed through mouth tissues and has a direct effect on the body's nervous system.

"Nicotine first causes users to become stimulated, but they may later feel depressed or experience a let down. To keep the stimulated sensation, a person with a nicotine habit needs a booster every 20 minutes or half hour," Goolsby said.

Nicotine affects the heart and other parts of the circulatory system. As nicotine enters the bloodstream, the arteries constrict, blood platelets clot, and the heart rate increases.

CURIOUS LITTLE EYES AND HANDS search in wonderment to discover the larger world around them.

What a burglar takes Isn't nearly as bad as the awful feeling he leaves behind.

Somebody was in your home. Somebody made off with your possessions. You feel angry, hurt. Even violated.

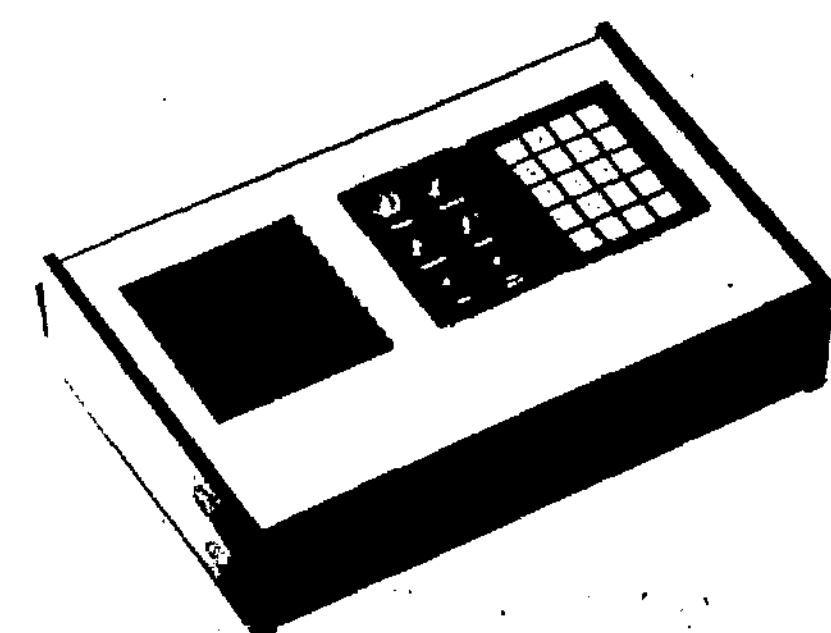

Unfortunately, even with crime rising at an alarming rate, most people don't buy burglar alarms until after they've been burglarized. They think burglary is something that only happens to other people.

The Perim-A-Tron® is a highly effective home security system made by Universal Security Instruments. You install it yourself by just plugging in the central control unit and attaching radio transmitters to your doors and windows. That's it. And since you're not paying for installation, the cost can be less than one fourth of a $2,000 system.

The Perim-A-Tron is so simple to operate, a ten-year old can easily handle it. But because its brain is a sophisticated micro-computer, no burglar can touch it.

Burglars can't cut wires If you don't have them.

So the Perim-A-Tron has been designed as a wireless system. If an intrusion occurs, the transmitter sends a signal to the control unit. The control unit and the outdoor siren then sound an ear-shattering alarm that's loud enough to wake the whole neighborhood.

Most people find it difficult to work around loud noises. Burglars find it impossible.

Protect yourself before it happens to you. If you have a Perim-A-

Tron, you can be sure it will be the only thing waiting for you when you get home. Protecting yourself doesn't have to eat you out of house and home

RESERVATIONS: WHAT'S THE SCORE
Holding a paid-for, confirmed plane ticket doesn't always mean, these days, that you'll be on the plane. Here's an example: suppose you hold a ticket on Airline A and get to the airport early. You find that Airline B has an earlier flight. The ticket prices are the same. So you go to Airline B and they give you a seat on the earlier flight, using your original ticket as credit. However, unless the ticketing agent makes special entry in the computer, Airline A's computer only knows that you didn't show up for your scheduled flight. Since the computer entries are normally keyed according to the originating leg, your whole reservation may be wiped out. When you show up for your return flight, you may find yourself without a seat. The ticket's still good, but you may not have a reservation. Whenever you make any changes in your plane ticket at the last minute, make sure all subsequent portions of the ticket are reconfirmed.
Many airlines, primarily for overseas flights, require that you call in within three days of your return date to reaffirm your intent to return on your scheduled flight. If you don't they may give your reservation away. Again, your ticket is still good—but your seat may not be there.
We make sure everything about your trip planning is in order—including the information you need to make things go smoothly throughout the whole trip. Contact us at Ruidoso Travel.

Mother Earth Sets
The Stage For
Summer's Blaze of Glory

Today, on August twenty, we are two thirds of the way through the season of Summer, the first day of Fall arriving on September twenty-three.

The world turns greener day by day, as you wake up each morning wondering how much brighter and more enchanting the many shades of summer's color may yet turn.

The magic color green, which makes distant views close up, and shadowed places bright and clear, is the setting for the final summer decorations of Mother Earth — the flowers.

And with the rainy season beginning to take its breath and let in several days of sun, the wild flowers are showing their colors on every hand.

Set off by a background of grass green, leaf emerald, evergreen forest green, the scarlet-crimson trumpets of the Rocky Mountain Gillia wave on their stems, grown four and six feet tall after the rains.

From many a bank and rocky hillside, and across fields of gamma grass, now headed out with purple bannerettes, the pure vermilion of the Indian Paint Brush, pride of the West, gently waves to you as you journey by.

Soon will follow that parade of most all the flowers of the Western United States, and many a favorite all around the globe across the waters.

A Little Bit Of Alaska

There is an old favorite of the countless favorite song of Ireland that goes something like:

"A little bit of Heaven
Dropped from out the sky,
One day . . . And they called it,
Ireland."

Surely a little bit of Alaska somehow found its way down here to the slopes of the White Mountain — just so everybody in the world would feel at home, every day in the land where the cactus bloom and the Yucca meet the Mountain Violet and the Wild Rose.

You could close your eyes for a moment up in the Indian Reservation at the upper end of town, and then open them and you would think you were in places in Alaska.

For here beneath the Douglass Fir and Blue Spruce you see the white bloom of the wild strawberry and the red berries ripening. The scarlet wild Columbine blooming, with its stem standing in the velvet moss. The blue Scotch Blue Bell rings its whispered notes, waving on its stems so thin that you do not see them in the distance.

And here, comes to mind something that was new to me on the visit to Alaska. Since I was able to walk I had been out amongst the wild flowers, bringing them home to Mother. Somehow one of them had escaped me — the Alaska Wild rose. I had not known that there were either wild or garden roses here.

This trip I saw the single-petal Wild Rose smiling from the hillsides, and also in the yards of Juneau, Anchorage, and Valdez bloomed fragrant roses of purest pink and red on bush and vine.

Early Fall?

Echoing from the green hillsides comes the song of fall, the clear bugle notes of the Pinon Jay, and the acorns and walnuts are falling.

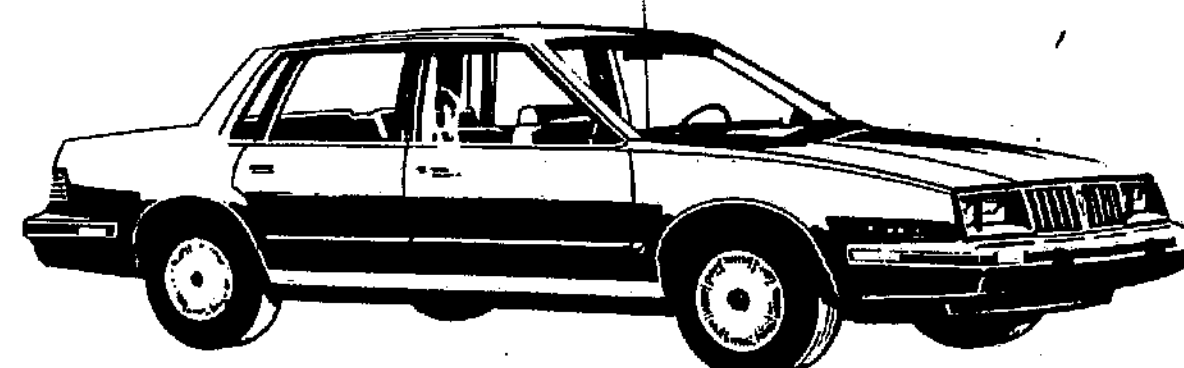

The squirrels are running from under the trees with their little jewels puffed full of vittles for the winter.

One little fellow stood straight up as I passed, with only one side of his cheeks full of acorns. He stood there studying me for all the world like a big league pitcher, with his cud of tobacco bulging, just about ready to make his pitch.

It surely looks as though the Good Lord is preparing for us a wonderful, late Summer, Fall and Winter.

by Fred McCaffrey

SANTA FE — We New Mexicans are not such patsies as some attorneys would have you believe.

They imply that we vote in blocs, Anglos supporting only Anglos, Hispanics only Hispanics and Indians only Indians, but the facts don't bear that out.

That concept of the voting bloc seems to be the main justification behind the suit brought to kill the legislative redistricting the state went through this year.

Lawyers for the plaintiffs in that case appear to hold that members of any minority should be grouped together in voting districts. Further, they seem to hold that whenever that happens those same minority members will inevitably elect one of their own members to public office.

But that's not what New Mexicans have traditionally done.

Figures gathered by Tom Warson, a political consultant here, show we vote in all sorts of unpredictable patterns, which apparently have little to do with what minority or majority groups we belong to.

Warson studied general elections in the state since 1960 and discovered more than 270 cases in which the patterns the plaintiffs in that big federal case looked for did not occur.

Warson's basic technique was to score a county which has about two-thirds of its voters as members of one or another ethnic group as being dominated by that group. Then he looked at the ethnicity of the people they voted for.

One year of especial interest in this case was 1964.

In that year, Bernalillo, Curry, DeBaca, Eddy, Lea and Otero counties, all of which are Anglo-dominated, by Warson's scorecard, went heavily for a Hispanic candidate over an Anglo one.

That Hispanic was Joseph Manuel Montoya, and the man he was outdrawing in those counties theoreticians would say he couldn't carry was Ed Mechem.

That fact, that New Mexicans don't always vote the way textbook theories say they should, may be very memorable to Mechem, who is now one of the judges who will decide this case.

When Democratic candidates for statewide office were asked to list those who are responsible for scheduling their public appearances, two gave names of state employees, who can be phoned on state telephones.

That's not too smart, gang.

State employees are not supposed to be doing partisan political campaigning in any way in their on-the-job hours. You ought to be smart enough to know that. If you want a state employee as a scheduler, you should be careful enough to specify that he or she should be called at home, after working hours.

(Of the two people guilty of this indiscretion, one is running without opposition, so there isn't much anybody has to schedule him for.)

You might add to the remarks above about how New Mexicans break out of ethnic groups when it comes to electing people the observation Lieutenant Governor Bob Mondragon made during his deposition in that federal lawsuit.

When the implication was made that minority members cannot get elected from districts which are dominated by the majority, the LG said that plainly isn't true.

What is necessary in such an instance, he added, is for minority members to put together a coalition with others and to run on non-ethnic issues.

Those who have followed that advice have been able to get themselves into office in all parts of New Mexico in every election year.

NOISE POLLUTION

A few years back, there was a considerable hubbub over what came to be called noise pollution. The hubbub has died down. Relatively little is said, now, about this problem which once aroused so much concern.

In those earlier times, much was heard concerning noise from street traffic, power mowers, construction machinery, chain saws, and so on. The whine and roar of jets over-flying residential districts near airports came in for a great deal of attention. For instance, during the controversy over allowing the supersonic Concorde to operate in this country, a central argument against the proposal was the Concorde's formidable racket.

Some efforts to curb noise had limited success. It is a fair guess, though, that the urban noise level is about as high as ever. Why, then, is interest in doing something about the matter at such a low ebb?

Part of the answer lies in federal budgetary restrictions. Also, there is the fact that interest in public concerns tends to wax and wane; without a few strong voices to maintain interest, the waning begins. As to noise pollution, the waning has been under way for some time. No one in or out of Congress seems to be speaking against it and proposing remedies.

Meanwhile, the noise goes on. Expert observers tell us that it can do both psychological and physical harm, in some cases permanent damage to hearing. Wanted: new anti-noise pollution champions. — Alamogordo Daily News

REVISE CHILD LABOR PLAN

There is little reason to support the Labor Department's proposal to expand allowable school night work for 14- and 15-year-olds.

It is not as if there were a great demand for more work hands. Hundreds of thousands of older youths and young adults desperately are searching for jobs but can't find them. And it isn't as if youths of that tender age don't have more important things to do — studying for example — to better prepare themselves to meet vocational challenges of the future.

The Labor Department wants to permit younger teenagers to work until 9 p.m. on school nights and for four hours a day rather than three hours a day. They are now restricted to three hours a day for a maximum work week of 18 hours.

Pressure for the relaxed standards is coming primarily from the fast food and amusement industries. No doubt some parents would prefer to have their youngsters working rather than home or out on the streets in the evening. And modern youngsters probably favor the proposal because they would like to better afford their expensive tastes.

Yet the Labor Department is directing its efforts to change child labor laws at the wrong segment of the nation's youths. If outdated work restrictions were relaxed for 16- and 17-year-olds, part of the vast crowd of unemployed school dropouts and other young people truly in need of employment might have better luck finding jobs. — Albuquerque Journal

Letters to the Editor

Dear editor:

May I take this opportunity to commend you on what I feel has been fair and objective reporting regarding many controversial issues arising from village business. During the recent bond election you took a strong public stand, yet made your editorial pages equally available to opposing views.

Your "letters to the editor" is about the only public forum readily available to most citizens and hopefully will remain open to us all, yes including Mr. Junge's erudite Revelations.

In a recent letter you were taken to task by Rex Skellett concerning your "Communitate" investigation of village bid irregularities. I would agree with Mr. Skellett; the public deserves an explanation.

The comparison with Watergate is interesting. Mr. Skellett's attitude seems to be that of the Nixon administration during the early stages; much ado about nothing and unwarranted persecution by the press — until persistent, dogged, relentless investigation by Messrs. Woodward and Bernstein ultimately unearthed the truth, toppling a corrupt presidency.

I encourage you to be persistent, dogged, and relentless.

Walt Durr

News' policy on letters to editor

The Ruidoso News welcomes "Letters to Editor", and will publish them on the Opinion Page, with all letters being subject to editing for length.

The name of the writer must be printed. A telephone number must be included with the letter for verification of the writer's identity.

Yours and Ours

Editorial

Editor's note: This editorial was drawn from a letter by Police Chief R. S. "Dick" Swenor.

Everyone should be aware that Ruidoso schools will open Monday, August 30, and the kids will be back on or near the streets again in large numbers.

Parents should remind their children of the hazards involving traffic while the children are walking, or at the school bus stops or in route to and from the schools.

Traffic accidents are the leading cause of death and serious injury in childhood, taking more lives than any disease!

Everyone must remember that children lack experience and judgment—they must be taught safety. It is the responsibility of each of us, including anyone who operates a motor vehicle, to ensure that our children are taught safety through repetitious explanation, example and experience.

Everyone must remember that most accidents happen during daylight hours, in good weather and close to home. This is especially true regarding children and traffic accidents.

Children's safety is up to each of us. No one ever wants to be faced with the anguish of hurting or killing a child while operating a motor vehicle—people do need to think about it.

The police department will be supervising traffic near schools, bus stops and school routes. Violations of the motor vehicle code will be stringently enforced.

Also, police personnel are available to teachers, parents or anyone who really cares, for lectures on safety, particularly to younger children.

On the Village beat with

Tim Palmer

After it occurred to me that we hadn't said much about new village clerk Leon Eggleston in the paper—other than to report that he was appointed—I dropped by to see what else I could learn about the gentleman.

Leon, it turns out, is a native New Mexican. He was born and raised in Carlsbad. After high school, he headed out to California and stayed for more than ten years.

He and his wife Cindy's decision to move to Lincoln County came after a vacation trip through the area.

"We fell in love with it—it's beautiful here," said Leon. The visit was eye-opening to Leon, despite his southern New Mexico upbringing. "I thought all of New Mexico was just like Carlsbad—desert," he confided.

So some five years back, the Egglestons moved to Capitan and Leon went to work at Fort Stanton. After two years, he took the job of clerk-treasurer for the Village of Capitan.

He found working for a municipality to his liking, so when Ruidoso needed a clerk he came to work here.

"I enjoy this kind of work," said Leon. He describes himself as an "organized person," one who likes to keep the various documents in his charge up to date.

"It's a job that requires good organization," he explained. Leon told me that he likes to be able to give a prompt answer to inquiries he receives as village clerk.

He takes care of council minutes, ordinances and resolutions, lodgers' tax reports and business registrations. His job, he says, is to have the documents ready so that when someone walks in and wants to see them, "the clerk should be able to show it to them right off the bat."

Bringing Ruidoso's ordinances up to date has occupied much of Leon's time since he became clerk. New and amended ordinances must be inserted into the municipal code book in their proper place, and this sometimes involves retyping 100 pages.

The village is currently in the process of transferring its ordinances into its computer. This will take a long time, said Leon, but "it sure is going to be nice when it's done."

"It's mainly keeping the laws of the village in order," was the way Leon described his job as village clerk.

In October, Leon will become president of the New Mexico Clerks and Finance Officers. This is a co-organization of the New Mexico Municipal League and its members include all 97 incorporated municipalities in the state.

The organization conducts schools for clerks throughout the year to update them on law changes which affect their jobs, Leon explained.

Starting next year, New Mexico will have its own clerk certification school at UNM under the auspices of the Clerks and Finance Officers. Our state is presently the only one in the country without a certified clerk, according to Leon.

He has completed two years of the three-year certification course (one week per year) in Arizona. Leon is scheduled to complete the certification course in January, at which time he will become New Mexico's first clerk to be certified in this manner.

Since financially pressed municipalities sometimes find themselves short of funds to send their clerks to these various schools, the state organization sponsors a scholarship fund. As a fund-raising project, the group is selling I Love New Mexico T-shirts.

Leon showed me the shirts, which come in men's and ladies' styles at $12 apiece, and they are really sharp. Anyone who wants to order a shirt can holler at Leon at village hall.

Another important duty of the village clerk is to conduct elections, Leon noted, and this is an area in which great care must be exercised. He pointed out that an election can be thrown out if the clerk makes a mistake in the procedure.

Although obviously very serious about his job with the village and his profession of municipal clerk, Leon has other interests as well.

He and Cindy have a rock shop at Capitan, and Leon turns out wind chimes and other craftwork for sale at summer art exhibitions.

He also paints, as I learned when a watercolor I had been admiring in his office turned out to be his work.

Fishing is another pastime that Leon pursues avidly with his family.

There are two Eggleston children—11-year-old Eric and four-year-old Kendra. Cindy teaches second grade at Mescalero School.

It has been my observation that Leon has brought a lot of professionalism to the job of village clerk, and I think we are lucky to have him.

So let me say on behalf of the local press corps, Leon, welcome to Ruidoso—we're glad you're here.

We're Your Kind of Bankers!

You've probably heard there's a new bank coming to Ruidoso. And now, First City National is here—and we think we have just the kind of bankers you've been waiting for. Meet Gary Carter, Executive Vice President at First City National. He supervises all lending activity and fills in when the President's gone. Drop by First City National and meet Gary and the rest of the staff. We think you'll agree, we're your kind of bankers.

ROCK ON

By Ethile Ann Vare

REVIEWS

The subject of racial barriers in rock music is too large to tackle in a single column, and there are those who will say that segregated radio and record sales are factors of taste rather than prejudice. But these three new albums illustrate different facets of the "musical ghetto" phenomenon (which applies to white ghettos as well as black), a phenomenon which started around 1970 and is getting more apparent every year.

The Bus Boys — "American Worker" (Arista) — The Bus Boys is a predominantly black band (the drummer is a Chicano), which appeals mainly to a white audience. Their music is straight-ahead rock 'n' roll, and they poke constant fun at racial stereotypes. But don't expect to hear them on FM radio.

On its second LP, the Bus Boys take tongue out of cheek a little bit, leaving off spoofs of the Ku Klux Klan and white flight and opting for more universal truths. In a business of labels and pigeonholes, the Bus Boys are difficult — if not impossible — to categorize. They run the risk of slipping down the empty space between slots.

Donna Summer — "Donna Summer" (Geffen) — Miss Summer, who began her singing career as the queen of disco, seems to have decided that the way to remain a superstar is to go for the "adult contemporary" market. Working with Quincy Jones, Stevie Wonder and other luminaries (some of them white), she has released an album that will transcend all color barriers because it is too glitzy, too produced to be associated with anything so basic or human as "soul."

Stephanie Mills — "Tantalizingly Hot" (Casablanca) — Miss Mills has a voice as impressive as Donna Summer's. But because she has been pigeonholed as an R&B performer, she will be relegated to charts called "black music" and played on radio stations referred to as "urban contemporary." The factors making her non-crossover and Stevie Wonder decidedly crossover are not easy to determine.

And how all this came to be within a musical genre that began when white kids started listening to black performers — and, in so doing, changed the musical politics of the world — is very odd indeed.

BOSLEY

BEST LITTLE WHOREHOUSE IN TEXAS, from Universal Pictures. Directed by Collin Higgins, screenplay by Collin Higgins. Starring Dolly Parton, Burt Reynolds, Dom DeLuise. Rated 'R' ★ ★

By J.T. YURKO

The Broadway musical version of "The Best Little Whorehouse in Texas" played in a theater off the seedy Times Square area. On a large billboard on the roof of the theater was printed simply, but in large letters, the word, "Whorehouse," with an arrow pointing down. To unsuspecting visitors to New York City, the billboard must have indicated yet another example of the decline of the Big Apple's morality.

Now comes the movie version of the musical — and a different marquee sign. At one movie theater, a once-large and spacious house that had been converted to three separate units, the marquee was so small that there wasn't enough room for the film's full title. The marquee said only "Burt and Dolly."

The billings indicate that the theater owners must know what the audiences would pay to see: Either the naughty appeal of the goings-on in a whorehouse, or the performances of two stars they've enjoyed in the past.

But what about the film itself?

Truth is, the film is average at best, with some pleasant songs and a down home boy-meets-girl love story, even with the twist of boy-meets-hooker.

It takes a Burt Reynolds and a Dolly Parton to keep the proceedings interesting. They are both dynamic enough to make the film a pleasant diversion.

The film features plenty of jokes about Miss Parton's ample assets, but most of the remarks have already been heard in Johnny Carson monologues. Miss Parton is well-endowed — with talent — and has a voice that always sounds as if she's being squeezed and tickled at the same time.

Reynolds, on the other hand, has learned from "At Long Last Love" not to use his singing voice at all if possible, and with one exception follows that rule here.

One ironic note about the film is that we find ourselves cheering for this houseful of happy hookers as if, as one song proclaims, "There's nothin' dirty goin' on." The movie musical has seen a lot of changes, but in subject matter "The Best Little Whorehouse in Texas" is certainly a long way from "Oklahoma."
