DASHINGLY, SPECIAL EFFORT TRAIL

Justanold Love just unbeatable

by DICK ALWAN
and MARK GORDON

Special Effort, the quarter horse who was considered just about invincible, suffered his first defeat in Sunday's finale of the $1 million All-American Derby at Ruidoso Downs.

Special Effort broke sluggishly out of the number 9 post position, never managed to reach a threatening position in the 440-yard sprint, and crossed the wire in third place.

The victory — and the portly victory purse of $333,000 — went to Justanold Love, a filly who ran a bangup race as a 10-1 shot. Jerry Nicodemus was in the saddle.

Justanold Love exploded out of the number 4 post position, assumed the lead almost from the start, and was never put to pressure. In the final 50 yards or so, she drifted a bit to the outside, but she was well in command.

Justanold Love hit the finish three-fourths lengths on top. Dashingly, who mustered a game closing bid, ended up second. The filly was a length in front of Special Effort at the wire.

The Derby winner, a filly by Dash For Cash out of Callmecutie, is owned by J. E. Jumonville Jr. of Ventress, Louisiana. Charles W. Cascio is the trainer.

Justanold Love returned $23 to win, $8,40 to place, $3.40 to show. The filly went into the Derby with the fifth-best qualifying time (22.07 seconds) and career earnings of $212,142. Her '82 record now stands at 4-2-1 from eight starts.

The winning time of 21.68 seconds, on a fast track and against a slight win, was the second best in the nine-year history of the Derby. The stakes record of 21.56 was set by Mito Wise Dancer in 1976.

Dashingly, leased by Anne Phillips of Frisco, Texas, is another daughter of Dash For Cash. Like Justanold Love, Dashingly is trained by Cascio. Dashingly collected $139,000 and returned $3.60, $2.60. The filly now holds a career bankroll of $813,991. Two years ago, Dashingly was purchased in the All-American Select Quarter Horse Yearling Sale for $50,000 — a figure which surely makes Dashingly one of the greatest buys in the history of the sale.

Special Effort, owned by Dan and Jolene Urschel of Canadian, Texas, had to be satisfied with his third-place purse of $65,000. That put his career bank roll up to $1,219,949. He's the second richest quarter horse of all time.

Special Effort returned $2.40 to show as a 3-5 favorite.

Last year, the colt enjoyed a historic season, winning all nine of his starts and sweeping the two-year-old Triple Crown. That was a precedent in quarter horse racing. This year, the colt got a headstart in his bid for the three-year-old Triple Crown, winning the $354,000 Kansas Derby. But his dreams of knocking off the Triple Crown for three-year-olds went up in smoke when he failed to qualify for the Rainbow Derby (although he won his trial heat).

Special Effort was hoping to convert the All-American Derby into his 14th straight win. The outcome appears to cast some doubt as to the colt's future racing plans. His value as a stallion is almost immeasureable. On the eve of Special Effort's conquest of the All-American Futurity a year, ago, he was syndicated for $15 million.

Just before the bell sounded for the Derby, Special Effort acted up in the starting gate. It wasn't much of a nervous outburst, but it was enough to send shudders through his supporters. Usually an explosive starter, Special Effort got out of the gate in ninth place.

For the rest of the journey, it was a case of trying to swim upstream. Jockey W. R. Hunt tried his best to get Special Effort into a striking position, but it was a lost cause. Much to his credit, Special Effort tried to rally — but it was useless against the likes of Justanold Love and Dashingly.

Justanold Love looked like a winner from the start — and the filly never let up. When she reached the wire, she was still pounding the turf with gusto. Dashingly, ridden by Danny Cardoza, uncorked a strong move at the mid-way point, but could not approach the pace-setter.

Here's the way the rest of the field checked in, the purse money earned: 4th— Johnny Vittoro, $46,000; 5th — deadheat between War Star Wrangler and Lightfooted, each earning $36,000; 7th — Outa Control, $33,000; 8th — Classy Native, $32,000; 9th — Perking Bug, $30,000; 10th — Quickest Bug Alive, $28,000.

Lightfooted, the filly who'd set the top qualifying time of 21.95 seconds, tried to muster an attack after breaking in sixth place, but the filly had a hard time making headway. Quickest Bug Alive had a flurry of early speed from the rail post, but was soon engulfed in the pack.

Wagering on the Derby alone was $139,381.

Jumonville, the winner owner, had these post-race views: "I spent $875,000 for this filly about six weeks ago in the Phillips dispersal sale. She's a great mare, but nobody ever dreamed she could outrun Special Effort. She's had some hard luck."

Jumonville, who has served in the Louisiana Legislature as a state senator, said he considered two key points before sending Justanold Love from her home base in Los Alamitos (California) to compete in the third and final leg of the Triple Crown. "Special Effort is a great hose, but he's run against the same horses all the time. We've been running nose-to-nose with Dashingly in California. But last year, Dashingly didn't act like she was acclimated to Ruidoso Downs. We thought Justanold Love would fit Ruidoso Downs better this year than she would."

The 39-year-old horseman added; "The way Justanold Love is built, and the way she acts, makes her a better horse for Ruidoso Downs."

For trainer Cascio, the Derby was a great homecoming. Cascio once made Ruidoso Downs his racing home (he's won two All-American Futurities), but with changing committments from his owners, he's spent the last four years at Los Alamitos. "I really thought I could outrun Special Effort last year, but Justanold Love was a little immature and a weak kind of a filly. But she's really matured since then. I knew she had ability. Last year as a two-year-old, she ran a 17.59 for 350 yards. That's the fastest time in 27 years at Los Alamitos."

Cascio said Justanold Love would compete next in the Budweiser Derby this fall at Turf paradise in Phoenix and then would face the nation's best quarter horses in the Champion ot Champions classic in December at Los Alamitos.

The winning jockey, Jerry Nicodemus, put in: "She didn't have any problems at all. She got away strongly, I wasn't getting into her a whole lot, but I was letting her run. That was only the second time I've ridden her. I rode her last year in the Kindergarten Futurity at Los Alamitos. I've always known she's a super horse. I hate to see a good horse (Special Effort) get beat, but it sure helped my billfold."

Jockey Danny Cardoza, who qualified both Justanold Love and Dashingly, elected to go with Dashingly. "She had a little trouble handling the track. Special Effort is a great horse, but we had two greater ones today."

Here's the way the field qualified for the Derby: Lightfooted, 21.95; Johnny Vittoro, 21.99; Perking Bug, 22.05; Special Effort, 22.06; Justanold Love, 22.07; Dashingly, 22.12; Outa Control, 22.18; War Star Wrangler, 22.21; Classy Native, 22.22; Quickest Bug Alive, 22.25.

CUTE INVESTMENT barely missed qualifying for the finale of the $1 million All-American Derby at Ruidoso Downs, so the filly took out her vengeance on nine foes in Saturday's First Consolation.

The fans made Cute Investment a 3-5 favorite in the 440-yard dash, but the filly — at least in the early going — appeared to be in hot water.

Rebelier, the 2-1 second favorite, got a heads-up start and assumed the early lead. Texas Viking, a 17-1 shot coming out of the inside post, was also filled with early power.

Cute Investment lagged a bit at the start, finding herself in fourth place. But jockey Jimmy Hunt didn't let the grass grow under his feet. He went to work immediately, asking Cute Investment to turn on the steam.

The people's choice steadily trimmed away her deficit. With about 100 yards to go, she was almost on even terms in the struggle for the lead. Rebelier began to fade, and Texas Viking was in similar trouble.

Cute Investment increased her grip with each stride. In the final dozen jumps, she was pulling away with great authority. The filly bounded under the wire with a two-length lead, stopping the clock in a crisp 21.71 seconds. She collected $22,000 for her owners, Fletcher J. Huskey and Sam Womack of Poolville, Texas. The trainer is W. Larry Stevens.

The victory boosted Cute Investment's career earnings up to $338,091. The biggest win of her career came earlier in the summer, when she steamed to a nose decision in the $668,620 Rainbow Derby at Ruidoso. First was worth $232,267.

Fans who supported Cute Investment in the First Consolation had to be content with modest mutuel returns of $3.40, $2.40, $2.40. Rebelier, ridden by Jacky Martin for Ann Freeman of El Paso, Texas, and Alice Fisher of Wichita Falls, Texas, ended up second. The filly collected $18,000. The payoffs: $2.40, $2.40. Ms. Secret Cash, with Jerry Nicodemus aboard, took third, earning $17,000. The show price: $3.80.

The rest of the field checked in this way: 4th — Texas Viking, earning $15,000; 5th — French Jeans, $14,500; 6th — Pfeffernusse, $13,500; 7th — Magic Gold Mine, $13,000; 8th — My Prime Rate, $12,000; 9th — Miss Boogie Barre, $11,000; 10th — The Pipeliner, 10,000.

Saturday's program also spotlighted the $18,800 Ruidoso Sprint Championship at six furlongs. The win went to the favorite, Jiltaloom, who lunged ahead on the final jump to nose out Special Hank.

Jiltaloom earned $11,280 and returned $6, $3.40, $2.80. Joe Martinez was up.

Sewer bond vote set December 14

by DAVID SHEPPARD
Staff Writer

In a special meeting Thursday, the Ruidoso council scheduled a bond election December 14 for sewer improvements in the Ponderosa Heights and Gavilan Canyon-Bog Spring areas.

The council also passed a resolution giving contractors a two-week grace period on the ban of untreated wood shingles. The council also heard from village attorney Lee Huckstep that he and Boyle Engineering have reached agreement on a contract for the Grindstone Canyon water improvements program.

The council arrived at no definite amount of sewer work financing it will ask voters to consider, but Huckstep requested the call for the election so engineers can determine project costs. Councilman Benny Coulston speculated the Gavilan portion of the bond issue will be $250,000, while village manager Jim Hine said 1979 estimates to extend sewer service to Ponderosa Heights showed a cost of nearly $2.4 million.

The estimated $250,000 will finance a portion of the costs to install a 15-inch sewer line from Hull Road, through Bog Spring to Gavilan Canyon, and down Gavilan to connect to an existing eight-inch line. Coulston said the remaining cost of the nearly $500,000 project will have to come from the Ruidoso Board of Education.

In a meeting between council members and the school board last Tuesday, Coulston said the proposed Gavilan Canyon sewer line is inevitable, but not necessary for another few years. In negotiations since last spring, the school board has maintained that it can only contribute the $150,000 budgeted for sewer service to the new high school for construction of the line.

Coulston indicated Thursday the village is willing to cooperate with the school board by connecting the larger line into the eight-inch line which presently serves part of Gavilan Canyon. Eventually, the 15-inch line would be extended south to Meander Drive. Coulston said utilizing the existing line will save about $30,000.

Coulston expressed hope that the school board can find additional funds over the $150,000 to cover the remaining costs of the line.

Hine indicated the village should float both general obligation bonds (which are paid back from property taxes) and revenue bonds to finance the project. Hine said the village has about 600 water connections in Ponderosa Heights, and revenue received from sewer service charges to the area could be pledged toward revenue bonds.

On Friday, Hine said another possible means of financing could be a loan from the Farmers Home Administration (FmHA). The agency recently offered such a loan if the village would raise matching funds, but the agency attached a deadline for a response.

On August 10, the council agreed to turn down the FmHA offer. Hine said Friday the FmHA informed him the loan offer of approximately $1.3 million would be extended.

In other business, the council approved an amendment written by councilman Al Junge giving contractors a 14-day grace period on the shake shingle resolution, because lumber companies do not have treated shakes in stock.

The resolution—passed in May—bans use of untreated shakes as roofing material. The amendment reads that contractors have been unable to obtain treated wood shingles as described in the resolution, and allows the grace period so builders can use untreated shingles to protect uncompleted roofs.

The amendment also allows only builders who had ordered treated shakes at least three weeks ago, but have not yet received them from lumber yards, to take advantage of the grace period.

The council passed the amendment, and scheduled a review of the situation for September 14.

The council also heard from Huckstep that he reached a satisfactory agreement with Boyle on the water project contract. The matter had been delayed because of discord over the fact Boyle is retained also by the Mescalero Apache Tribe to work on the tribe's water program.

Huckstep termed the situation a potential conflict of interest earlier this month.

Assistant village manager Frank Potter told the council progress has been made on the reservoir project, which voters approved in July. He said aerial surveys of Grindstone Canyon, which is south of the uptown post office, have been completed, and maps of the area will be supplied to appraisers.

The council will discuss the Boyle contract Tuesday night at its regular meeting.

Airport board throws charter issue to council

by DAVID SHEPPARD
Staff Writer

The Ruidoso Airport Advisory Board (AAB) Thursday sent the dispute involving a conflict of interest charge against airport manager Tim Morris to the village council for consideration, after determining the matter is not AAB's responsibility.

The board also voted to ask council direction on the issue of whether the village wishes the board to recommend changes in policy. In another vote, the AAB decided to ask village attorney Lee Huckstep whether the board can meet in private sessions.

The advisory group heard arguments for the second straight week from charter operators Steve Hightower and Merle Miller concerning their contention that Morris is in a conflict of interest because he has his own charter service at the airport.

The board expressed belief that the matter should be resolved by the council, and not by the board. AAB member Wayne Dacy dissented on both votes, because, he said, the council already has charged the board to discuss such problems and make recommendations.

Member Howard Tate said he felt the issue is not AAB's "bailiwick." Tate expressed that since the council has indicated it will allow Morris to moonlight in the charter business, the board need not examine it.

"If the group wants to recommend a change, fine. But we're not an investigative body. I know it's passing the buck, but maybe it's the only way we can do it," Tate said.

Tate also said he believed Morris was doing a good job as manager, and that he does not think Morris is abusing the flexibility the village has granted him.

"But the potential is there," Tate warned. "In the long run, it's not good from a public relations standpoint or for credibility."

Tate said he resented the matter being dumped in the board's lap, because the decision will ultimately come from the council.

Dacy disagreed, noting the council appointed the board to provide input and render advice on such matters.

AAB chairman Roy Parker suggested the board should decide only whether Morris functions within the framework of his job description. He indicated that the rules regarding Morris' job may be vague, but that that is immaterial to the board, unless AAB wants to recommend a change in the rules.

Member Myrt Vititow said the board should look into airport operations, the hours Morris devotes to charter flights, whether he solicits charters, and the amount of business he does in the charter service.

Tate maintained his position that such action should be left with the council.

Charter operator Miller then explained he did not want to see Morris lose his job or be financially damaged. But he also said he considered the situation unfair, especially because he sees the governing body condoning it. He also said he felt the council is in a biased position, because councilman Benny Coulston is part-owner of the plane leased by Morris for charters.

Miller also claimed that councilman Frank Sayner told him before the March municipal election that if Morris received a charter pilot's license, Morris would be relieved of his job as manager. Morris received his license the end of March.

When contacted Friday, Sayner indicated he preferred not to comment on the matter, saying it was part of AAB's responsibility to look into Miller's complaint and that he did not want to interfere with the board.

The confusion among the board about whether it had the authority or responsibility to recommend changes in the policies governing Morris' job continued.

Tate said he thought the board was appointed to advise in matters on which the members—who are all pilots—have expertise, namely in the physical operations at the airport. He commented that the council can delegate duties to the board, but not council responsiblities.

Tate added that if the AAB determines the situation is a "mess," then the board should relay that to the council.

Dacy reiterated that he regards the board as an important entity, and that it should concern itself with such controversial issues and advise on them.

Tate then read the duties of the board, as outlined in the AAB resolution. Part of the document reads: "(The board) may make recommendations with regard to airport personnel ..." It also states that the intention of the council is that the board shall study all matters pertaining to the airport and advise the council on those matters.

Tate acknowledged the AAB could make any recommendation. He then moved that the issue should appear before the council. The motion passed with Dacy dissenting.

Member Ben Hall suggested the board seek direction from the council on the situation. Dacy again was the only no vote. He restated his position the board already had authority to examine the problem.

During the meeting, Parker suggested that the board should conduct a private session to discuss the complaint. He said he felt the board was not functioning well in the public's eye.

Dacy wanted to seek legal advice regarding closed meetings, and the board concurred.

Village council meets Tuesday

The Ruidoso council will consider the adoption of a resolution for a consent agenda when it meets at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday at village hall.

A study session will precede the meeting at 6:30.

A consent agenda will allow the approval of a number of items with a vote on a single motion and second, village clerk Leon Eggleston explained. It will facilitate approval of items such as minutes, planning and zoning and bids, he added.

Other items on the agenda are:

—Ordinance 81-11, village sign ordinance.

—Ordinance 81-12, water and sewer ordinance.

—Bids and contracts on sewer pipe and accessories, water line and accessories, backhoe loader for wastewater department, crawler tractor for landfill, and Boyle Engineering on water improvements.

—Appointments to extraterritorial zoning commission and planning and zoning commission.

—Reports from: Al Junge on solid waste; Jim Hine on hospital ambulance service proposal; Frank Potter on Mountain Trail Drive and acquisition of lot in White Mountain Estates; John Cupp on bids for fuel system and budget increase; Milt Alcorn on funds for extraterritorial zoning commission; Lee Huckstep on request for executive session to discuss pending litigation.

SUZANNE COX

New county manager takes over

by BARBY GRANT
Staff Writer

Suzanne Cox will officially begin her duties as the new Lincoln County manager September 1, replacing Truman A. "Bill" Billingsley, who resigned July 31.

Cox has 15 years of experience in county government and first served as treasurer of Sierra County when she was 21 years old. Following her term as treasurer, Cox served as chief deputy assessor/appraiser for Sierra County. She also has experience working in school and hospital administrative offices in Truth or Consequences and in the administrative office of Sierra County.

She was named administrative assistant for Sierra County when the county manager's position was abolished, and served in that post until June 30 of this year. Prior to her appointment here, Cox worked for an attorney in Truth or Consequences.

Her education includes courses in budgeting, taxation, public accounting, real estate and appraisal.

Cox said she wanted to remain in county government work, but that a lack of such opportunities in or near Truth or Consequences led her to apply for the position of Lincoln County manager.

"I've always liked Lincoln County," Cox said. "I've gone through so much that I'm pretty familiar with the county."

She was born in Roswell and still has family there, so she has often traveled through Lincoln County between Truth or Consequences and Roswell.

Although she will not officially assume her position until Wednesday, Cox did spend some time in her new office last week getting acquainted with the responsibilities of managing Lincoln County.

"I feel they've already got a real good foundation, and all I want to do is build on the foundation already laid," she stated. "It looks like they've done some tremendous planning here ..."

Cox said she will need to meet with the county commissioners to discuss her priorities and duties before making any plans. "After all, the manager does serve at the pleasure of the commissioners," she commented.

"The county manager's functions are mainly administrative—making sure everything runs smoothly," Cox noted.

She said she has been involved with every facet of county government, from cooperative agreements to budgets, and that she enjoys all areas.

Her husband Charles is currently serving in his sixth term as sheriff of Sierra County and will move to Carrizozo in January when his term is completed. The Cox's have six children, two of whom will be living with them in Carrizozo.

"I'm real happy that I was selected for the position and I'm looking forward to meeting the people of Lincoln County and working with them," the new county manager stated.

Yearling Sale begins today

More than 1,000 of the finest-bred quarterhorse yearlings in the world have assembled at Ruidoso Downs for Monday's start of the All-American Select Quarter Horse Yearling Sale.

Due to the record size of the sale, sale manager Rick Henson has scheduled five sessions.

Matters get underway Monday at 10:30 a.m. Similar morning sessions are slated for Tuesday and Wednesday. On Thursday and Friday, the sale averts a conflict with the Ruidoso racing program by switching to night sessions. The first hammer falls on the two night sessions at 7 p.m.

The site of the sale is the All-American Sales Arena on the track grounds.

A total of 1,060 head has been catalogued. Last year, 905 head passed through the All-America arena, bringing total sales of $13,546,950 for an average price of $14,969.

Included among the sires represented in the 1982 sale is the thoroughbred, Raise Your Glass. The stallion will probably attract considerable attention since his get includes Special Effort, a three-year-old colt considered probably the greatest running quarter horse of all time.

Raise Your Glass is also the sire of such major stars as Native Gambler (a winner of over $630,000) and Medley Glass (a winner of nearly $400,000).

Twenty sons and daughters of Raise Your Glass are entered in the sale. The first, a sorrel colt called Noble Glass, goes as number 27 in the opening round.

The outstanding sire, Easy Jet, has 46 offspring in the sale. The first is the sorrel filly, Flying Easiest, who carries Hip number 24. Flying Easiest is by Fly Straw, a top filly in the early 1960s at Sunland Park. Fly Straw later produced Flying Rockette, a winner of over $100,000.

The sire with the biggest representation in the sale is Moon Spot It, a son of Moon Deck. Moon Spot It has 49 offspring scheduled for the All-American arena.

Bugs Alive In 75, the All-American Futurjty winner in 1975, will be represented by 45 yearlings. Pass 'Em Up, the thoroughbred who sired Pass Over (the Kansas Futurity winner), has 41 head in the sale — including Hip number 1. That's the bay colt, Fascinatin Pass.

Hempen, another thoroughbred who's gained considerable prestige as a sire of quarter horses, will be represented by 29 head. Real Easy Jet, a son of Easy Jet, is the sire of 34 All-American yearlings.

The All-American Sale debuted in 1962 when 68 head brought total sales of $212,950. The sale grew steadily over the years and now ranks as the world's largest and most prestigious sale of quarter horse yearlings.

All yearlings passing through the '82 All-American arena are nominated to next year's $2,530,000 All-American Futurity, plus the 1983 All-American Derby and the 1984 All-American Gold Cup.

School lunch guidelines announced

The Ruidoso Municipal Schools have announced eligibility requirements for free and reduced price school meals for this year.

Children from families whose income is at or below the levels listed below are eligible for free or reduced price meals.

Families of one are eligible for free meals if income is $6,080 or less and for reduced price meals if income is $8,660 or less.

Families of two can get free meals if income is $8,090 or less and reduced price meals if income is $11,510 or less.

Families of three are entitled to free meals if income is $10,090 or less and reduced price meals for income at or under $14,360.

Families of four can receive free school meals if income is $12,090 or less and reduced price meals if income is at or below $17,210.

Families of five with an income of $14,090 or less are eligible for free meals, and those with incomes of $20,050 or less are eligible for reduced price meals.

Families of six with an income at or below $16,090 can get free meals, and those with an income at or below $22,900 can get reduced price meals.

Families of seven are eligible for free meals if income is $18,100 or less and are eligible for reduced price meals if income is at or below $25,750.

Families of eight are entitled to free meals if income is $20,100 or less and to reduced price meals if income is $28,600 or less.

Families with more than eight members should add $2,000 to the eligible income level for each additional member for free meals and add $2,850 for each additional member for reduced price meals.

Applications for free or reduced price school meals are available at each school principal's office and can be submitted any time during the year. All applications will require the Social Security number of each member of the family over 21 years of age for income verification purposes.

The information provided on the application is confidential and will be used only for the purpose of determining eligibility.

Changes in family size or income during the year may qualify students for free or reduced price meals. Any decreases in family size or increases in income of families with children receiving free or reduced price meals must be reported to the school.

No student will be discriminated against because of race, sex, color, national origin, age or handicap.

County commissioners change meeting to Friday

The Lincoln County Board of Commissioners will meet at 10 a.m. Friday, September 3, rather than on Tuesday, August 31, as originally scheduled.

Agenda items include:

—Review of building plans for the Ruidoso sub-office with Herkenhoff and Associates, architects.

—Contract change order for the Carrizozo administration building—Herkenoff and Associates.

- Contract with Western Programmers Incorporated for computer equipment.

—Appointment of two members and consideration of budget request for the Extraterritorial Zoning Commission.

—Final plat approval for The Woodlands Subdivision, Deer Park Woods townhomes, units one to seven.

—Correction of plat approval for Villa Madonna Subdivision, tract A and unit II, Pine Cone Valley Subdivision.

—Subdivision road maintenance assessment—Julia Samora and Kay Allison.

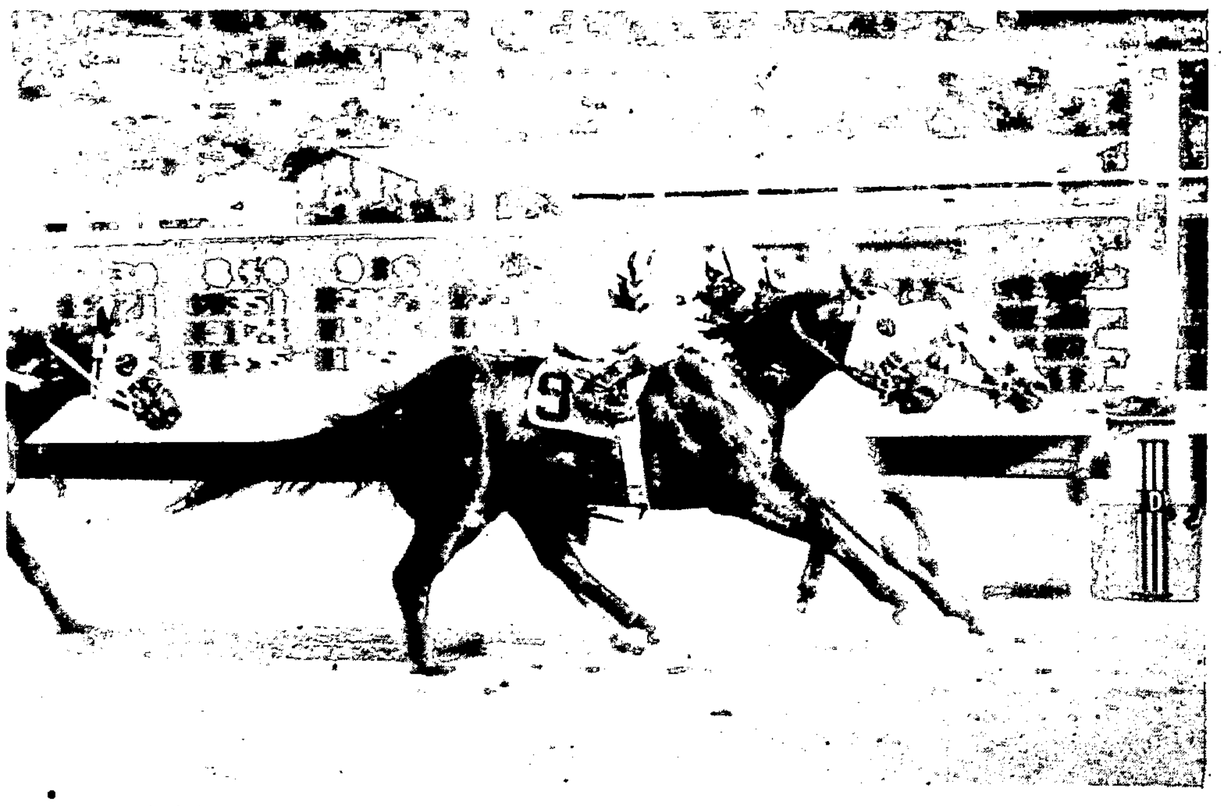
—Renewal of office rental agreement with the Soil Conservation Service.

—Budget increase for prior year bills.

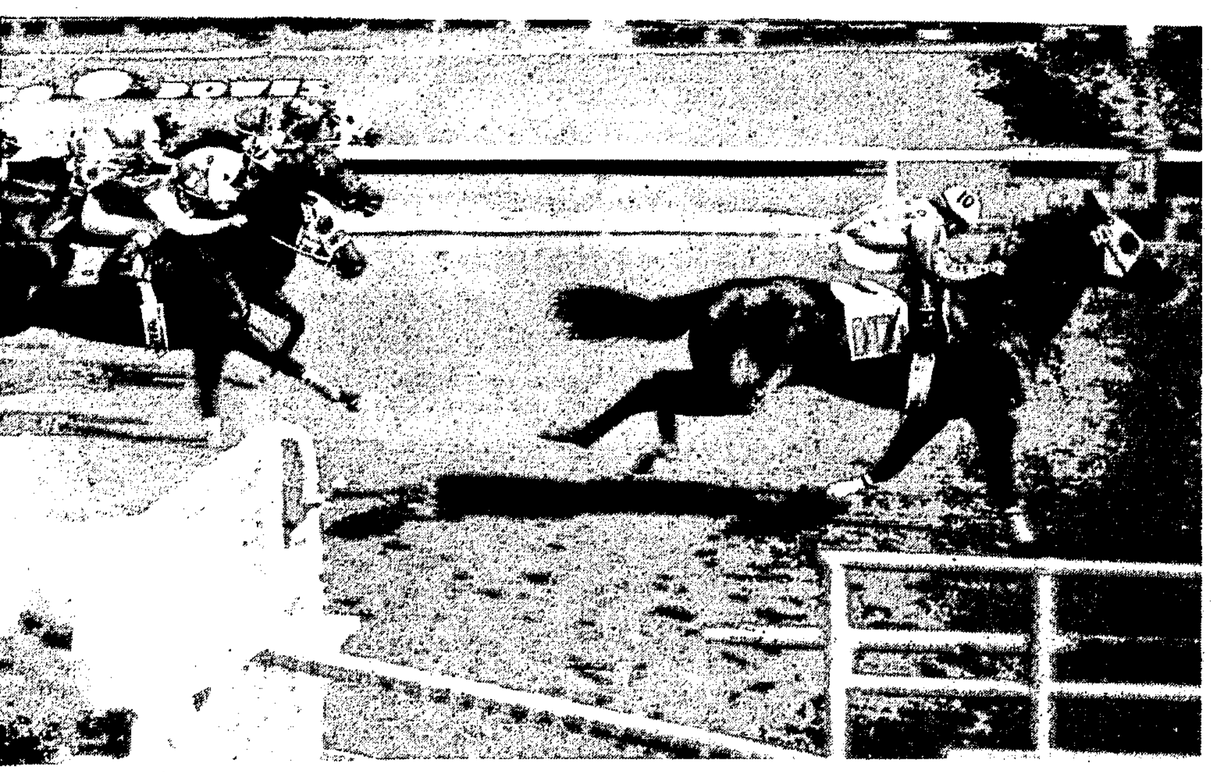
—School bus route agreement with the State Highway Department.

—Sun Valley Sanitation District mill levy.

—Resolution on absentee voting precincts.



JILATLOOM STRETCHES OUT. Jiltaloom, ridden expertly by Joe Martinez, edges past pacesetting Special Hank to win the Ruidoso Sprint Championship at Ruidoso Downs on Saturday. The six-furlong race was worth $18,800. Jiltaloom scored his third straight victory this season in this race which drew 10 sprinters. He's owned by Hugh C. Preston Jr. of Burkburnett, Texas, and is trained by Bob E. Arnett.



BEING CUTE ABOUT IT. Cute Investment, operating as a heavy favorite, booms to an easy win in the $146,000 All-American Derby First Consolation Saturday at Ruidoso Downs. The rider is Jimmy Hunt. Cute Investment is owned by Fletcher Huskey and Sam Womack of Poolville, Texas.

Justanold Love wins Derby

(FROM PAGE 1)

THE HEAT IS ON rallied out of third place and pulled out a nose victory in Friday's $76,000 Second Consolation of the All-American Derby at Ruidoso Downs.

The sprint spanned 440 yards and handed $11,194 to the winner.

The Heat Is On, operating as a 7-5 favorite in the seven-head field, found herself in a tough battle from the first jump. The filly wasn't far off the lead, but four other horses were also in the thick of the fight.

In the final 50 yards or so, The Heat Is On squeezed through on the rail to win narrowly. Jack Wallace was up. The Heat Is On, a daughter of Rocket Wrangler out of Rising Scene, is owned by G. I. and Kathleen Martin and M. Virginia Murray of Taiban, R. D. Hay is the trainer.

The winner clocked the distance in 22.01 seconds and returned payoffs of $4.60, $3.20 and $2.60. It was her fourth win of the year, and it also marked the seventh straight time in which the filly has been tabbed as a heavy favorite.

Maskeo Rocket, a 48-1 shot, closed powerfully in the final steps to finish second, earning $10,617 and refunding $21.60 and $6.60. Larry Byers was up. Steppin Easy, with Jacky Martin up, got in third — only a head behind Masko Rocket. The filly collected $10,155. The show price: $3.20.

Tams Easy Native earned $9,578 for fourth, Ponti Bar got $9,001 for fifth, Arrows Request earned $8,539 for sixth, and Viva El Seis, a 2-1 shot who broke poorly, had to settle for seventh-place money of $7,962.

The three defectors from the Second Consolation — Hempens Chicgay, Summer Encounter and Go For Bugs — each earned $2,983.

YANKEE WIN lived up to advance expectations and emerged as the top qualifier for the upcoming $2,530,000 All-American Futurity at Ruidoso Downs.

The filly turned in a workmanlike performance in Thursday's third race, booming to a two and three quarters length win and covering the 440 yards in 21.81 seconds.

That clocking held up as the fastest of the 11 All-American time trials on Thursday's program. Each horse in the 11 trials was photo-electronically times, and those with the 10 fastest clockings earned berths in the All American finale on Labor Day.

Starting this year, the winner of the All-American collects an astonishing $1 million.

If early speculation is any yardstick, that $1 million check will be going to Jerry Rheduasil, the veterinary from Lewisville, Texas. Rheudasil is the owner of Yankee Win.

Earlier in the current season, Yankee Win blasted out a three-length win in the finale of the $728,085 Rainbow Futurity and collected over $253,000. She came out of Thursday's trial spin with her fifth straight win. The filly holds a career record of 10 wins out of 11 starts. She's earned $344,591.

Yankee Win's regular pilot, Bruce Pilkenton, was up in Thursday's trial victory. C. Dwayne Gilbreath is the trainer. Yankee Win is by the quarter horse stallion, Windy Ryon, out of the thoroughbred mare, Yankee Doll.

Here are the other qualifiers:

— Mr. Master Bug, 21.88, owned by Marvin L. Barnes of Ada, Oklahoma.

— Amy Jo Mito, 22.11, owned by Tommy Joe Hoyt of Powderly, Texas.

— Neat Creek, 22.15, owned by J. G. Cavasar and P. E. Davis Jr. of Beeville, Texas.

— Call Me Favorite, 22.17, owned by Clarence Scharbauer Jr. of Midland, Texas.

— Miss Squaw Hand, 22.18, owned by Marvin Barnes of Ada, Oklahoma.

— Lucks Lucky, 22.22, owned by Nerrel Bruney of Dennis, Texas.

— Easy Mito, 22.23, owned by Stanley and Leanna McKenney of Drumright, Oklahoma.

— Dynago Victory, 22.29, owned by Clarence Scharbauer Jr. of Midland, Texas.

— No Tell Motel, 22.29, owned by McDermott Ranch of Madisonville, Texas.

The amount to be disbursed in the All-American finale alone is $2 million. The payoffs extend from that $1 million for first down to $51,000 for last.

MAYOR GEORGE WHITE and local cystic fibrosis campaign chairman Wayne Townsend.

September 19 named 'Kiss Your Baby Day'

Mayor George White has proclaimed Sunday, September 19, as "Kiss Your Baby Day" in Ruidoso as part of the local Cystic Fibrosis Breath of Life campaign.

The aim of Kiss Your Baby Day is to help parents recognize the symptoms of cystic fibrosis in their children.

One of the signs of the disease is a salty taste to the skin, something that is sometimes noticed when mothers kiss their babies.

Cystic fibrosis, a disease inherited when a child receives a gene from each parent, strikes approximately one in 1,800 American babies.

There is no known cure, but early diagnosis and treatment can prolong lives. Other signs of cystic fibrosis are recurrent wheezing, persistent cough with excessive mucus, pneumonia more than once, excessive appetite with poor weight gain, enlargement of fingertips, bulky diarrhea and nasal polyps.

Mayor White joins the New Mexico Chapter of the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation in urging everyone to "Kiss Your Baby" and watch for signs of the disease in all children.

Campus Notes

Elton Boyd Singer, son of Kay Singer of Ruidoso, received a bachelor of applied arts and science degree with a major in occupational education from Southwest Texas State University in summer commencement ceremonies.

While at the university, Singer made the Dean's List in the sping semester, 1979.

In the Service

Navy hull maintenance technician fireman Dean L. Perry, son of Mr. and Mrs. I. Tate of Capitan, recently returned from a deployment in the Mediterranean Sea.

Perry is a crewmember aboard the guided missile cruiser USS South Carolina, based in Norfolk, Virginia.

Patrick K. French, son of Stanley J. French of Ruidoso, recently completed six weeks of practical training in military leadership at the Army Reserve Officers Training Corps (ROTC) advanced camp at Fort Riley, Kansas.

French is a college sophomore at New Mexico Military Institute, Roswell.

Notice on publication of weddings

The Ruidoso News will publish wedding writeups only if received by The News within 30 days after the event.

Quality photographs of the couple, or bride, will be published, with black and white photos preferred.

Wedding writeup forms are available at The News, or the account may be written for submission.

Association for Retarded Citizens chapter formed in Lincoln County

A Lincoln County chapter of the Association for Retarded Citizens was established by a group of area residents August 18.

Nineteen county residents attended the organizational meeting in Carrizozo at the New Horizons Developmental Center. Kermit Stuve, executive director of the state association, said he was impressed with the turnout and feels the potential for an active Lincoln County chapter is good. The state association has 1,400 members in 20 chapters.

The Lincoln County chapter will meet the second Thursday of each month. The next meeting will be September 9 at 7 p.m. at the New Horizons Center in Carrizozo. For more information, call 648-2379.

Women's Club to celebrate golden anniversary September 8

The Ruidoso Federated Women's Club will resume its regular meetings Wednesday, September 8, with a noon luncheon and a program celebrating the golden anniversary of the Women's Club in Ruidoso. The program is being directed by Barbara Minnick.

The group will be selling chances on a miniature replica of an old one-room school house, made and donated by the Lilliput Society of Santa Fe. The miniature school house has been appraised at $5,000 and tickets will be sold for $1 each. The drawing will be September 15, on Ladies Day at the State Fair.

Money from the drawing will be used to help match a $200,000 grant from the Maybe Foundation for starting a Girls Ranch in Lamy. The ranch will house abandoned, abused and homeless girls.

Tickets for a chance on the miniature school house can be purchased from any Women's Club member or by calling Mrs. Ed Vickers at 257-7274; Mrs. Charlotte Jarratt at 257-5522; or Mrs. W. E. Duncan in Capitan at 354-2662.

Altrusa hosts breakfast for school personnel

The third annual Appreciation Breakfast for teachers, administration and staff of the Ruidoso Public Schools was hosted Wednesday morning by the Ruidoso Altrusa Club.

About 150 school employees participated in the pre-orientation meeting of the 1982-83 school year at White Mountain Elementary School. The breakfast was one of several school projects sponsored by Altrusa, which received the 1982 Friend of Education Award from the Ruidoso Education Association.

RUIDOSO HIGH SCHOOL football players huddle during a recent scrimmage with Las Cruces High School. The Warriors will practice on their home field this week in preperation for the first game of the season with host Lovington Friday night. The Warriors' first home game is September 17 against Dexter High School.

Capitan gridders tough in double scrimmage

The Capitan High School football team did well for the most part in a scrimmage with Eunice High School and Tatum High School in Artesia Thursday night.

"At times we looked really good and at other times not so good," said Tiger assistant coach Bill Stowe.

Stowe praised the efforts of tailback Danny Cummins, two-way lineman Todd Proctor and quarterback Grady Lee Eldridge. Eldridge is a 6-0, 180 pounder and should be one of the better A division quarterbacks in the state this season. He played at tailback last season. Proctor should be one of the best lineman in District 1-A.

Eunice is an AA school while Tatum is an A school.

The Tigers, who were 7-2 last season and state semi-finalists, will open the season at Cloudcroft Friday. The game will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Little League football players begin season September 18

People who want to watch future Ruidoso High School standouts should have a ball when the 1982 Ruidoso Football Little League begins its ninth season Saturday, September 18, with games at the Ruidoso High School field.

There will probably be four major division teams and two minor division teams. The major division is for youths 10 to 12 years old and the minor division is for youths eight to nine years old.

Around 100 youths are expected to compete in the league this season, according to Dr. Lynn Willard, the league director.

The Colts have dominated the league's major division since the league was formed, having won the championship every year.

Last year was perhaps the Colts' best season. Coached by now-retired Ronnie Taylor, they scored 274 points and gave up just 20 in rolling up a perfect 7-0 record. The Colts defeated the Steelers 44-6 in the championship contest.

Other teams in the league's major division are the Cowboys and the Broncos. The two minor division teams are the Hornets and the Lions.

This season Mescalero will have its own teams in both major and minor divisions but will not be a member of the league.

Some games between Ruidoso and Mescalero teams will be played at Mescalero during the season.

The Little League season will last until late October when the playoffs are held in both divisions. Most of the games will be played at the Warrior field on Saturdays.

Johnny Williams tourney near

The Johnny Williams Memorial Partnership Golf Tournament will be held again at Cree Meadows Country Club September 24-26.

The tournament, which features some of the better golfers in the area, is the second biggest tournament held in Ruidoso. The Cree Meadows Invitational, which was August 2-5 this year, is the oldest in the area.

For further information, call Bob Hickson at 257-5698.

Women's softball ends

The Lincoln County Women's Softball Association will conclude the regular season tonight at All-American Park Field in Ruidoso Downs and Fort Stanton Field.

The Attic and Friends has already clinched the regular season title with a 17-0 record.

Saturday and Sunday, September 11 and 12, the association will hold its tournament. The first round games will be played at both All-American Park Field and Fort Stanton Field and will start at 9 a.m.

The winners of the Saturday games will decide where they want to play Sunday. Sunday's games will begin at 10 a.m.

Lions' Club tournament set

The first Ruidoso Valley Noon Lions Club Golf Tournament will be held September 18-19 at Cree Meadows Country Club Resort.

The tournament is open to the public. There will be a four-man team best ball format for the tourney.

There will be an 88-team limit. A total of $1,000 in prizes will be awarded.

Entry forms are available at Cree Meadows Pro Shop, Hill Country Restaurant, Dale's Furniture, The Pancake House, Casey's Cabins and other local merchants.

For further information, call 258-3457.

Around Sports with Gary Brown

By the time people read this column, it's quite possible the National Football League (NFL) player representatives will have already decided to take a strike vote.

So let's turn our attention to college football, which is certain to be around this fall.

Texas Tech University (TTU), which seems to have at least the following that the University of New Mexico (UNM) and New Mexico State University (NMSU) have in this area, is again picked by most so-called experts and football magazines to finish last in the tough Southwest Conference. (SWC).

That might not come as a great suprise to many people since the Red Raiders finished at 1-9-1 last season.

However, the Red Raiders do have some good talent, although they lack depth in many positions.

Possibly the best player on the team is running back Anthony Hutchinson. Hutchinson was injured early last season. He was the Red Raiders' top ground gainer before he was injured.

Hutchinson, fullback Wes Hightower and standout quarterback Jim Hart form the nucleus of a solid TTU offensive attack.

Hart is a threat to both run and pass. At 6-0, 190 pounds he is also durable.

Hightower is a 6-1, 195 pounder with good speed and quickness and he'll run behind a solid, if not outstanding, offensive line.

The Red Raiders are young on defense, with probably only two or three seniors in the starting lineup. They don't have great size in the defensive line either.

Willie Reyneveld is probably the biggest Red Raider defensive player at 6-2, 250 pounds. He's a junior from Arvin, Californir.

Sophomores and juniors will man most of the starting defensive positions and it may take the Red Raiders awhile to establish their defense in the tough SWC.

However, TTU is looking to better days, if not this year, certainly next season.

I see Texas winning the SWC title this season, based mainly on their tradition, depth and a good quarterback in Robert Brewer.

Arkansas and Southern Methodist University should be right behind with Texas A&M also in the thick of the race.

Houston and Baylor should finish in the middle of the pack with the Red Raiders, Rice and Texas Christian University bringing up the rear.

But next season could be a different story.

On a more serious note, former New York Giant running back Doug Kotar is fighting for his life in a Newark, New Jersey, hospital.

Doctors have discovered a malignant tumor in Kotar's brain and concluded that radiation therpy is the best form of treatment.

When we look at professional athletes, we sometimes forget that they can succumb to the same sort of diseases that non-athletes do.

Professional athletes, particularly football players, are looked upon as physically indestructible by the public. Therefore it's a shock when we find out that one of them is suffering from a serious illness.

Here's hoping that the radiation treatment can help Kotar.

As readers have probably noticed by now, there is a special insert in today's News.

Our first ever football tabloid is enclosed, complete with information and photos on Ruidoso and Lincoln County high school and youth football teams.

Unfortunately, several members of the Ruidoso High School football team did not appear in the individual photo section of the tab because I was unable to get their photos.

The players' names and photos will appear in a future edition of The News.

Ruidoso prepares for Lovington game

With two productive scrimmages behind it, the Ruidoso High School football team is preparing this week for Friday's opening game at Lovington.

The Warrior junior varsity played Artesia High School's sophomores and juniors Saturday night in Artesia and looked impressive. The Ruidoso varsity scrimmaged Las Cruces High School last week and held the powerful AAAA division Bulldogs close.

"I felt the kids played pretty well," said head varsity coach Darrel Stierwalt of the jayvee scrimmage. "Most of their kids were sophomores and most of ours were freshmen so the kids looked pretty good against that competition."

Artesia scored three touchdowns but the Warriors held the Bulldog offense down for the most part.

Freshman quarterback Russell Easter had to leave the scrimmage after banging his elbow. However, the injury was not serious.

Stierwalt and the other Warriors coaches attended a scrimmage between Lovington and Dunbar High School of Lubbock, Texas, Friday night.

Was Stierwalt impressed by the Lovington effort?

"They're a good team with lots of backfield speed," Stierwalt commented about Lovington. "Their best runner is Perry Howard. He's a junior and has plenty of speed. He weighs 135 pounds but if we let him get away we're not going to catch him."

Lovington didn't pass much in the scrimmage but Stierwalt isn't convinced they'll do the same against the Warriors.

"They'll probably come out throwing against us," he said.

Defensively, Lovington is paced by linebackers Mike Cox and Don Strickland. Cox is a 175 pounder and Strickland weighs 200 pounds.

Lovington competes in the same AAA district as defending state champion Portales and always tough Artesia. Lovington didn't make the playoffs last season but they're usually competitive on a tough schedule.

The Warriors, who have been practicing on the White Mountain Middle School field for the past three weeks, will return to their own field today. The Ruidoso field has been resown and is in "pretty good shape," according to Stierwalt.

NOTES—The 1982 New Mexico high school season opened last Friday night in Artesia with the host Bulldogs rolling over Robertson of Las Vegas, 44-12. Artesia only led 14-12 at halftime but Bulldog quarterback Scott Runyan sparked a second half explosion which put the game away.

RUNNING HARD WITH THE BALL is Ruidoso High School junior varsity quarterback Russell Easter in Saturday's scrimmage with host Artesia High School. The Warrior varsity will open the season Friday at Lovington while the junior varsity will begin the season Saturday, September 11, at Carrizozo.

Carrizozo could be tough

The Carrizozo High School football team could be the dark horse of the 1982 A division race.

The Grizzlies had a 4-4 mark last season and have 12 lettermen returning, led by quarterback John Roueche.

Jerry Koller is the head coach of the county seat team. The Grizzlies open their season Friday at powerful Texico. The game will start at 7:30 p.m.

Carrizozo plays Lincoln County rival Capitan in the last game of the regular season Friday, October 29, at Capitan. Capitan defeated the Grizzlies 7-0 last season.

Carrizozo competes in the 1-A district along with Capitan, Reserve and Mountainair.

Local fishing report

Alto Lake: The water is high. Fishing is fair for rainbows using corn, Velveeta cheese and salmon eggs.

Bonito Lake: The water is high and going over the dam. Fishing is slow, best using garlic cheese, salmon eggs and corn.

Ruidoso River: The water is flowing rapidly. Fishing is poor. Grasshoppers and salmon eggs are best baits.

Justanold Love's sprint to glory

This sequence of photos shows Justanold Love's 440-yard sprint to victory in Sunday's All-American Derby at Ruidoso Downs Race Track.

The filly covered the distance in 21.68 seconds, the second fastest time in the Derby's nine-year history.

Justanold Love broke well from the number four hole and was already opening up her lead at 100 yards.

Favored Special Effort broke sluggishly from the number nine position and never recovered, finishing third. Dashingly, another filly, closed strongly on the outside and was second at the wire.

The fourth photo shows Justanold Love's victory margin a few yards from the finish line.

SANTA FE—New Mexico—one state or three?

A man who has watched politics here longer than he likes to admit suggests the three present Congressional districts pretty much represent the three "states" of New Mexico.

One runs down the east side and across the south, to take in a conservative part of the state where citizens register Democratic and vote Republican. Many of them also tend to look toward Texas for guidance, rather than to the other parts of the state in which they live.

A second is a central district, which contains Albuquerque and some other territory. What other territory doesn't exactly matter, since the big city, unique unto itself, would dominate anyway.

The third sweeps across the north or The North, as politicians put it.

Each of the areas is certainly different from the others, in attitudes, in beliefs and in voting patterns. Maybe each is, as the man suggests, a kind of state-within-a-state.

Candidates for statewide office, presently campaigning, could do worse than to view them that way.

Rumors heard in Santa Fe suggest that Republicans have surveyed the precincts in the state where their dominance is largest to see how folks plan to support their party's candidates.

If the stories we hear can be believed, in those areas (all in Albuquerque's Northeast Heights), John Irick is running very well indeed.

Manuel Lujan, however, is reported to be weaker than his party friends might like to see him. If he runs weakly in that part of the world, his oponent, Jan Hartke, could push him hard in vote-getting.

What's even more worrying, Senator Jack Schmitt was said to be trailing badly. As with Lujan, if he can't get his own brothers and sisters in Republicanism turned onto his cause, he could well be in lots of trouble.

(Is there a moral here? If so, it might well be that these are not days in America when it pays to run as an incumbent.)

Russell Autrey, who runs Commerce and Industry, gave an interesting interview to a reporter recently.

In it he apparently said he thinks there is a large element of puffery in those figures, generated by his own department, about how much money New Mexico makes off the movie business.

Autrey's position seems to be that there is really very little hard information on this topic. What we hear, he said, may be nothing but "tall tales" about how many thousands or millions a film company leaves in the state.

"I don't know that monthly reports from the Motion Picture Bureau are accurate," the Secretary said, even though that bureau is part of his own operation.

Chuck Mittlestadt, once p.r. man for the State Fair, is putting on the hard sell to get that film job referred to above, from which Larry Hamm is departing.

News media have been delivered long stores, with ample quotes from Mittlestadt, and he is reportedly holding a meeting at the Sheraton Old Town in Albuquerque to get those who support his efforts to beat the drum for his cause.

This writer will bet such efforts are futile.

We would except Bruce King to confer with Russell Autrey and tell him not to bother filling the spot.

After all, a new governor will be coming in on January 1, who will almost certainly replace Autrey with somebody of his own choosing, who may in turn wish to pick his own person to head the movie bureau.

Aubrey Dunn, in Santa Fe recently, appears to have recovered nicely from his recent defeat at the hands of Democratic voters. He looks rested and well.

Editorial

Children of school age need and deserve the help and support of their parents as they progress from kindergarten through high school.

A check with local educators confirmed that interest of parents in their childrens' schoolwork is very important.

"I really encourage the parents to read with the kids and to work with them as much as possible," said Nob Hill Elementary School principal Don Weems.

As well as parental help with reading, math and writing skills, he said, behavioral skills are very important.

Behavioral skills means getting along with others. Weems made the point that a kindergartener must make the transition from a small family group to a classroom group of 20 or more, and that learning to share is important.

Texie Cole, principal at White Mountain Middle School, had an interesting observation on the parent's role in helping the child in the middle school grades.

Her philosophy, she said, is that when people set high expectations for themselves, they tend to meet those expectations. Thus it is important for parents to help their children set goals, and to maintain an interest in their fulfilling them.

So with the new year starting, we encourage parents to make it a point to take time to help their children and show an interest in their work.—TP

Sense & Nonsense

U.S. Sen. Pete Domenici

Nothing tugs at the social conscience of Americans more than controlling the flow of illegal aliens now entering this country. We, or our ancestors, were immigrants to this "land of opportunity." My parents emigrated from Italy for this opportunity to seek a new life in New Mexico.

Opportunity still exists in this nation with the highest standard of living in the world. Unfortunately, we have discovered that these opportunities are not limitless, as once thought. A vast majority of Americans (91 percent in a recent Roper poll) want immigration reform. The Senate, responding to this mandate, passed S.2222, the Immigration Reform and Control Act of 1982, by a vote of 81 to 18.

I was one who voted with the minority. Not because I do not feel we need immigration reform, we do, but because this bill did not properly safeguard the rights of American citizens, and did not deal adequately with the reality of the illegal alien question.

Hundreds of thousands of students, businessmen and tourists with visitor visas, annually come to the U.S. and stay on as illegal aliens. I was not going to join in voting for a bill that deceives the American people into believing that we have a program that will control the uncontrolled flow of illegal aliens across our borders. Act S.2222 does not.

The bill calls for choking off further illegal immigration with employer sanctions and a "secure system of worker eligibility". The Immigration and Naturalization Service (INS) is already understaffed and overloaded with work and I cannot see how it realistically can add employer sanctions to its other duties without additional funding for enforcing manpower. None has been provided forin this bill.

I also fail to see how a satisfactory worker eligibility system can be devised which does not result in discrimination against Hispanics and other minority groups. Existing identification documents are inadequate, as shown by the readily available "immigration kits" of forged documents. Even Social Security cards can be bought for as little as $5.

The bill relies on a secure system of worker elibigility, but does not spell out the particulars. I could not vote for an unknown system to be devised later, especially since I am concerned that it would discriminate against Hispanic-American citizens.

The guest worker, or H-2 program in the bill, I believe will not work for the short harvest seasons in New Mexico and throughout the West. H-2, which allows a number of foreign workers to enter this country for up to a year, would limit the worker to one job, one employer and one county. While this may work on the East Coast, it does not address the needs of our New Mexico farmers.

Finally, there is the economic reality of the illegal alien question. As long as we have poverty in high proportions in the world and especially right at our backdoor, illegal aliens are going to come. They will come regardless of employer sanctions, identification systems and increased patrolling of our boundaries.

The tide of job-seeking Mexican citizens is estimated at one million annually and shows no signs of letting up. Illegal immigration is not going to disappear because of this bill and the problem will get worse, not better, in the future. Control of the Mexican border must depend on some kind of cooperation with Mexico.

The U.S. must enter into negotiations with the Mexican government to develop a program that benefits both our countries. A formal inernational agreement between our two countries should recognize the significant U.S. contribution to the Mexican economy.

It would also formalize Mexico's commitment and obligation to help control the flow of illegal aliens in the U.S. Such an agreement is not only good immigration policy, but good foreign policy as well.

Congressman JOE SKEEN Reports From Washington

As a rancher and independent buinessman, I am well aware of the crucial role small business plays in the preservation of the free enterprise system. It is my belief that small business can lead us out of this economic crunch, and I intend to help give them that boost. I was pleased to learn that the National Federal of Independent Business (NFIB) awarded me a 100 percent rating for my past performance in the 97th Congress. I will continue to work hard on behalf of small business, and would like to take this opportunity to share with you my efforts on your behalf.

On March 23, Congress passed the Prompt Payment Act (P.L. 97-177). I was an original co-sponsor of this legislation which will require the federal government to pay interest penalties on overdue payments to businesses which supply goods and services to the government. I believe it is about time we start demanding the government to be run more like a business, and that it is unfair to the private sector. I am sure that you would not be in business if over 30 percent of your payments were consistently overdue. This bill is a milestone for small business, and it will serve to reduce inefficient government procedures.

On June 23, Congress approved S.881, the Small Business Innovation Act. I voted for this measure and as a member of the House Science and Technology Committee was deeply involved in the writing of this law. Thanks to this recent action of Congress, small businesses with innovation capabilities will now receive a fair share of federal research and development dollars.

I have joined with Congressman Ron Paul in introducing the Small Business Free Enterprise Act, which would eliminate several government regulations for many small businesses. I am also a cosponsor of H.R. 1776 and support the provisions of H.R. 746, legislation which would prevent further overregulation and government waste. Federal overregulation has been a burden to small business for too long, and these bills will eliminate much of the red tape that is promulgated by the federal bureaucracy.

I know how deeply small business is affected by high interest rates and inflation, and I think we all realize that interest rates will not drop substantially until the federal budget is brought under control. During the first round of debate on the budget resolution, I voted in favor of the Rousselot Substitute which would have balanced the budget this year. I also voted for the Latta Substitute during both rounds of the battle to pass a budget resolution. The House approved by the Conference Report on the First Concurrent Budget Resolution on June 22 by a vote of 210-208. You may be assured that I will continue to support lowered deficits and a reduction in federal expenditures as Congress proceeds through the budgetary process.

Gaining momentum in Congress is the idea of a simplified tax system which would eliminiate many deductions. Proposals range from a "flat tax" where everyone would pay the same percent to a "graduated tax" where those in the upper income range would pay a maximum 28 percent. Under nearly all of the proposals deductions and credits which have confused taxpayers for years would be eliminated, but large itemized deductions for mortgage interest, charitable donations, and state and local income and property taxes would continue. Because vast amounts of time and money now go into trying to figure out the tax law, these proposals would channel more energy into productive enterprise. Lower rates could also reduce the incentive to cheat, and encourage business and investment decisions based on economics rather than the tax consequences. President Reagan calls the "flat tax" idea very tempting. Proposals in this direction are still being formulated, and further study is required due to the complex nature of the tax system. I would appreciate your advice on this subject.

Small business deserves to be applauded for its tremendous contribution by employing over one half of the labor force, and for creating 90 percent of all new jobs in this country. I pledge to make every effort as a Member of Congress to promote a healthy climate for the small business community in new Mexico and the nation. I want you to know that I am responsive to your views and concerns, and I hope you will continue to share your views on small business issues with me.

Letters to the Editor

Dear editor:

FOOD SUPPLY

Ruidoso has enough food for one week without more being brought in by diesel trucks daily. Our very existence is totally dependent on electricity. Without it we wouldn't have water or food. For us to go back to raising food the natural way by horse and plow would take twenty-five years of breeding horses.

Over 65% of our electricity is generated with diesel fuel. It would cost billions of dollars to change over to an alternative fuel, if we had one to convert to. At present the U.S.A. is dependent on some of the most undependable countries on earth. We import over 60% of our oil. Three of our major suppliers have cut us off, Iran, Iraq and Lybia. What happens if more of our suppliers follow suit and have internal trouble and cut us off?

Interior Secretary James Watt wants to open up our Federal lands to oil exploration in order that we might not be so dependent on OPEC for our food via diesel tractors. Mr. Watt is getting a lot of resistance from the Environmental groups who want to preserve our lands but let us run out of oil.

A lot of the older generation I talk to tells me that there won't be any problems in their lifetime. Boy, what a pipe dream they must have. In developing America's high standard of living we used up most of our readily available natural resources. Not only America living in the fast lane, but we rebuild the world with our resources and energy, and how many of the countries we helped still appreciate us today?

The major reason the American dollar is strong amidst other currencies is because people from the other countries that are going under today are shipping their money to good old U.S.A. where it will be safest, because the U.S.A. will be the last country to fall, and when it goes the rest of the world will fall also.

America reached it's peak around 1967. We now import far more than we export. The reason people won't talk or speculate about our future is because we don't have any idea what it will be like. We just keep silent and hope the problems will go away and not effect our own little world.

I personally think we are headed for another depression totally different from the last. No food lines, worthless money, hungry people, violent people, Bullets and food as the major monetary staple. In the Ruidoso area we will feel the influx of two million people out of El Paso, Juarez and Chihuahua City area.

All I am asking is "think this out" for yourself. Study the facts and get prepared for the worst.

Good luck Ruidosoans
T. Coe

Dear editor:

MUCH ADO ABOUT NOTHING

Your editorial on Ollie Cuddy, our Fire Prevention Officer, was interesting only in that your complaint was that Mr. Cuddy would not give you an interview.

When this occurred why not drop the matter and move on to more interesting subjects.

There is no mention in our department heads job classifications that interviews by newsmen are mandatory. In fact, interviews with Department Heads in the past have been counter-productive and are not encouraged.

Mr Cuddy's immediate Supervisor is Mr. Frank Potter who received monthly reports on Mr. Cuddy's activities. Mr. Potter would be the apropriate individual for you to interview.

Mr. Cuddy, who assumed duties covering responsibilities that were non-existent at the time, has done a very satisfactory job for the short time he has been the Fire Prevention Officer. He handles assignment with accuracy and dispatch.

Mr. Cuddy has the support of the Council and should be commended.

His worth to the City now and for the future cannot be underestimated.

On the Village beat with Tim Palmer

How I spent my summer vacation.

Now there's a subject to sink your teeth into. Even when you limit your vacation to a three-day weekend in Albuquerque.

We spent what you would have to call a very suburban weekend in the Duke City—never leaving the confines of the Northeast Heights. My folks have lived in the same house there since 1959; so with all the comforts of home, I figured, why leave?

Cathy and I took the newest addition to our family, "Brun," along on our trip. Brun is the puppy we got at the Dairy Queen earlier this summer.

The way that happened—we went for an ice cream cone; saw a "free puppies" sign in the window; just HAD to ask; and wound up driving home with Brun.

When we got to my parents', my mom informed me that anyone who came visiting with their dog had to clean up the back yard before leaving. After she and Brun had been introduced, I asked her what she thought of our fine dog.

"He's kind of odd," she said. At this time, I ordered him to bite her, but he just cocked his head—making one ear stand straight up—and wagged his tail.

Attack training will have to come later, I guess.

Brun and I went for a walk that first night in Albuquerque. In Ruidoso, we walk on the mountainside behind our house, or down along the river.

But in suburbia we walked around the block.

For me, there are a lot of ghosts in the 3600 block of Georgia Street NE, and I felt their presence more than usual this time.

The block was really quiet that night. I thought of how when we were all kids there, a big game of "hide and seek" would be going on many summer evenings.

The block, of course, had sort of a social order, with the older kids ahead of the younger. I remember during one night's hide and seek game, an older guy and I decided to hide in a doghouse on a neighbor's back porch.

We crawled in there, and right away I noticed some spiders scurrying around under the roof of the doghouse. Like most kids with any sense, I was more or less terrified of spiders. But I refrained from saying anything—not wanting to give away to the other kid I was scared.

All of a sudden, he sort of let out a yelp and gasped, "There's spiders in here!"

We beat a quick retreat from the doghouse, me breathing a sigh of relief.

But there was no game of hide and seek going on this night.

As I walked up the block, I found myself trying to remember who lived in each of the houses. You remember the kids much more clearly than their parents, I noticed.

Our house and our neighborhood were brand-new when we moved in, and there were a lot of families with kids our age. Our family alone contributed five (and later six) to the block's kid population.

So as I passed each house, I thought about my friends who used to live there, and how their ghosts must still live in the same bedrooms and play together on the block.

In the case of most of them, I have no idea what they went on to be or do. Their ghosts are pure—just kids we played and fought and got in trouble with.

But there are others, and my memories of the way they were get mixed up with what I hear has become of them.

And it seems like you only hear about the ones that have had bad stuff happen—like "so-and-so is in prison," or "such-and-such tried to kill himself." I don't know—maybe it's just stuff like that that sticks in your mind, while stuff like "she's married and has two kids" doesn't.

But it just seems like a bummer, when you hear about someone who's had a real bad time of it after leaving Georgia Street, that they ever had to grow up at all.

Another thing we did in Albuquerque was make our obligatory trip to the shopping malls. The malls have some childhood association for me—I have a scar on one knee from running up a "down" escalator at Winrock once.

But basically, the malls (and we hit both Winrock and Coronado) are very "now" places. They are also enough, after five or six hours, to make you want to pull your hair out and scream, "Take me back to Ruidoso."

It seems that certain aspects of every trip we make to Albuquerque serve to reaffirm that we're glad we don't live there—or in any other big city.

But it's fun to visit.

The highlight of our mini-vacation was seeing the movie, "E. T.—the Extra-Terrestrial." Don't worry, I'm not going to give away any of the plot.

But I will say that it is a really, really, really neat movie.

And it's not hard at all to see why E. T. is such a huge success—it's a movie that puts you, for a while, back in childhood.

Which is where I had been spending part of my time in Albuquerque, anyway.

REGULATION NEEDED

A NEW REGULATION that requires funeral directors to tell the public what is included in funeral costs should get rid of the dishonest in a business that should care about the people it serves.

The Federal Trade Commission passed this regulation Wednesday after 10 years of investigation. The FTC had received complaints that some funeral homes were taking advantage of families under stress by selling so-called "package funerals" that included unwanted — and often costly — items.

The new rule will require that funeral homes make available an item-by-item list of charges for services before an agreement is reached. It also requires that price information be available over the telephone to those who inquire about funerals. This would foster comparison shopping.

Almost every honest business in this country readily offers prices on its goods. The funeral home should be no different. This regulation should casue no problems for the majority of honest undertakers, who want to help the public.

The new regulation faces possible veto in Congress. But for the sake of free enterprise and competition two basic U.S. principles, the FTC rule should be allowed to stand. — El Paso Times

Wilderness Wisdom

with Wayne Calloway

Dear Wayne — There is probably nothing I enjoy more than poking around a pond or small lake in search of panfish. On ultralight tackle these little critters are a delight to catch, as well as being fine tablefare.

The problem is, I rarely have an opportunity to enjoy such an outing without the presence of mosquitoes. Maybe I'm more allergic to them than many people, but when one bites it leaves a swollen welt that itches for hours. Repellent helps, but I simply can't keep them all off. Because of my reaction to them I fish much less than I would like.

I doubt there is any total solution to avoiding their bites, besides staying indoors, but do you have suggestions for discouraging them? Pat P., Vermont

Dear Pat — I don't think one could consider avoiding mosquitoes without a good repellent as the basic foundation. Any of the more popular brands will be satisfactory. The instrucitons for its use should be followed carefully. Most brands should be kept away from the eyes. Some are strong enough to soften painted or varnished surfaces, so it can mar the finish of guns or bows unless the hands are wiped clean before handling them. At any rate, some type of repellent is essential in mosquito country.

In addition, several other measures can be taken to lessen your attractiveness to mosquitoes. They are attracted to humans more by perspiration than anything else. Before starting a fishing day, take a shower to erase perspiration odor. After that, maintain a leisurely, relaxed pace of working, walking, or whatever, so as little perspiration as possible is generated. Choice of clothing will help, too. Don't wear brightly colored or dark clothing. Pick a more subtle color such as khaki, or any subdued light color. Keep the clothing loose fitting because if it doesn't lay firm against the skin they can't bite. Avoid smelly hair creams, shaving lotions, and perfumes. If you have a choice, fish in areas that offer a breeze. Mosquitoes have a tough time flying in much of a breeze. You might consider one of the brim-type hats that have netting attached which drops over the shoulders or ties around the neck.

In my part of the country, salt water marshes abound, and mosquitoes are plentiful and big. There is a large black species that some might mistake for a hummingbird. The older watermen in these areas often don't even bother to swat them. The idea is that if you leave them alone they will fly away when full, however, when they are swatted the poison that causes the itching is injected into the body. But it takes willpower to watch them fill up.

Minimize danger of lightning strike

Lightning storms are active during middle and late summer in New Mexico. With more thunderstorms ahead, precautions should be taken to minimize the risk of lightning accidents.

"From 12 to 15 percent of the lightning strike deaths reported every year are people who sought shelter from the rain under a tree," said Charles Hohn, Extension agricultural engineer at New Mexico State University.

"Another 10 percent of the deaths occur on open water, and persons on tractors accounted for another 10 percent. The safest place to be in a lightning storm is inside a building or an all-metal vehicle, such as an automobile," Hohn said.

Hohn suggests some simple precautions to cut the risk of being struck by lightning in the open.

"The most important thing is to avoid anything that acts as a natural lightning rod, such as a tree. Stay away from wire fences, clothes lines, metal pipes, rails or anything that can carry lightning to you over a short distance from where the lightning bolt actually strikes," he said.

Get out of and away from open water. Avoid tractors and all other metal farm equipment. Get off and away from motorcycles, golf carts and bicycles. Avoid small sheds in open areas, but in the open forest seek shelter in a low area under a thick growth of small trees.

"If you are caught in an isolated flat area, sit down or drop to a crouch on one knee. The human body acts like a lightning rod if it happens to be the tallest thing in the landscape," Hohn said. "Inside the house, don't use the telephone and stay away from plumbing fixtures."

If a person is struck by lightning, they can often be revived by applying cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR) techniques. This involves mouth-to-mouth resuscitation plus external cardio compression. CPR should be administered within four to six minutes to prevent brain damage.

To avoid property damage, Hohn recommends lightning rods be installed on houses, and television and radio antennas should be grounded. Large appliances should be unplugged during an electrical storm to avoid power surges if lightning strikes an electrical power line nearby.

"Keep a battery powered radio on hand, with fresh batteries, to get storm information if the house's electrical power is interrupted," Hohn said.

Remodeling can increase home value

Remodeling may be the alternative for people who can't afford the cost of a new home today.

"Remodeling can be almost like moving into a new house without many of the hassels and hard work," said Jo Ann Less, Extension housing specialist at New Mexico State University.

"Among all the home areas that can be renewed or improved, the kitchen is probably the best investment a family can make in remodeling, according to Realtors," Less said.

"Other remodeling jobs that are good investments include an updated bathroom, adding a second or third bedroom, or a new family room," she said.

Improvements on the outside can also add to a home's value. Some good examples are paint and siding. A poor exterior can lead the prospective buyer to think the inside of the home is also poorly kept.

"Even though it can bring a financial return, remodeling should be first considered as an investment in living," Less said. "Think of remodeling as an investment in your own happiness and something that you can enjoy as long as you live there."

Not all home improvements are good investments. A putting green in the backyard will have little value for a prospective buyer who is a tennis nut.

Other projects that have little or no financial return are a basement recreation room, a fourth bedroom, a swimming pool and extensive decoration.

"Be careful not to overspend on remodeling projects. If you live in a moderately priced neighborhood, too elaborate a project may make the house worth more than anyone would be willing to pay to live in that neighborhood," Less said.

Financing for remodeling projects can come from all the traditional home financing sources. Home improvement loans are available from most banks and savings and loans. Other money sources are FHA Title I loans, life insurance or a refinanced mortgage.

"Converting other investments or savings to home improvements is realistic if most of the remodeling project costs would have to be borrowed at today's rates," Less said.

Beef jerky easy to make

Beef jerky is easy to make. It's made by drying thin strips of lean meat down to about one-fourth their original weight. The drying can be done in the sun, in an oven, or in a dehydrator.

"To begin preparing the meat, freeze it firm but not solid. This makes it easy to trim off any excess fat and slice the meat into long, thin strips," said Mae Martha Johnson, extension food and nutrition specialist at New Mexico State University.

"Slice the strips one-eighth to one-quarter inch thick, an inch to an inch and a half wide, and four to 12 inches long. It's also best to cut the meat along its natural grain," Johnson said.

Lay the strips out in a single layer on a smooth, clean surface. Season the meat strips by rubbing in one teaspoon of salt to a pound of fresh meat. Then add pepper, garlic powder, onion powder, any favorite spices and other seasoning to taste.

"It's also possible to flavor the jerky by marinating the meat for several hours in a favorite marinade recipe," Johnson said.

After martinating for two to eight hours, drain the meat strips and pat dry with a paper towel. Dry the seasoned meat in an oven, dehydrator or in the sun.

To oven dry the meat, stretch each strip across clean oven racks or drying trays. If some strips are too short, fasten several pieces together with wooden toothpicks. The edges of the meat strips can touch, but they shouldn't overlap during drying.

Be sure to leave enough space on the racks for air to circulate freely. Arrange the meat racks so the top rack is four inches below the top heat scource and the bottom rack is four inches above the bottom heat source.

Set the oven temperature at 140 to 150 degrees Fahrenheit and leave the oven door open slightly as for broiling. Let the meat dry six to 11 hours. Remove a strip of jerky occasionally, let it cool, and test for doneness.

"Properly dried jerky is chewy and leathery. It will be brittle as a green stick when bent, but won't snap in half," Mrs. Johnson said.

Be sure to test for dryness after cooling. Warm jerky is easy to manipulate although the moisture has been removed from the meat. When jerkey is dry enough, take the meat out of the drying area, blot up any fat drops on the meat, then cool. Store jerky by packing as tightly as possible in plastic bags or other airtight containers.

"Keep jerky stored in a cool, dry and dark place, or in the refrigerator or freezer," Mrs. Johnson said. "Check the stored jerky now and then to make sure no mold is forming on the meat. For the best quality, use the jerky within a year."

THE JOLENE

JOLENE is a very spacious, luxurious home that will blend ideally with your neighborhood. It is of modern architect but the natural logs make the JOLENE a standout from the conventional homes. The massiveness of this home with three large bedrooms, two full baths will be surpassed by few and the envy of many.
For a permanent home and year around comfort, we heartily recommend the JOLENE.

The photographer's eye.....

... falls on varied images in the Ruidoso area. Sierra Blanca, of course, is probably one of the most photographed mountains anywhere. The ever changing character of the 12,003 feet peak is one reason. On this August day (top left), the peak wore a shroud of clouds.

Reflections of sky and trees in a pond are a composition of nature's in the top right photo.

Rock, roots and log are the compositional matter for the scene in the center right-hand photo.

Nature was at her most imaginative when she created this critter at lower right. Despite their formidable appearance, horned toads are gentle reptiles.

The midtown Ruidoso experience

Photos and text by Debbie Owen

While horse racing fans are caught up in the hubbub and excitement of the Ruidoso Downs Race Track, there is another attraction which draws a multitude of visitors to Ruidoso.

This is what we have termed "the midtown Ruidoso experience."

Strolling down the sidewalks along Sudderth Drive, visitors meander in and out of curio shops, clothing shops, gift shops and art galleries. Many are "just browsing," while others are looking for a little souvenir or a certain piece of art to remind them of their visit to Ruidoso.

Also located in the midtown area are arcades, the skating rink, a miniature golf course and a go-kart track. Many vacationers prefer to spend their leisure time engaged in these activities.

It came as no surprise when the majority of people I met in midtown said they were from Texas. They all agreed that their main reason for visiting Ruidoso was to get away from the Texas heat and enjoy the cool mountain air.

One family said they had been having 102° and 103° temperatures lately in Lamesa, Texas.

We, as residents, tend to take for granted the midtown area. But it is an experience our visitors make it a point not to miss.

PAUL AND TEONA JILLSON and their sons Zane and Cal live just north of Capitan. Living so close allows them to visit Ruidoso often.

THIS GUNSLINGER was "shot" just outside Olde Tyme Photos. Michael Bridges, a resident whose parents are co-owners of the business, dressed up to attract customers.

SHANNON OWENS FROM FORT WORTH joins her family in a round of miniature golf. Looking on are (left) her grandmother, Dorothy Garris, and her mother, Cindy Owens.

SOUVENIRS OF RUIDOSO abound in the curio shops. These two fellows from El Paso have found just what they were looking for.

GO-KARTS PROVIDE LOTS OF FUN for Justin Claiborne of Lamesa, Texas. He visits Ruidoso once each year with his family.

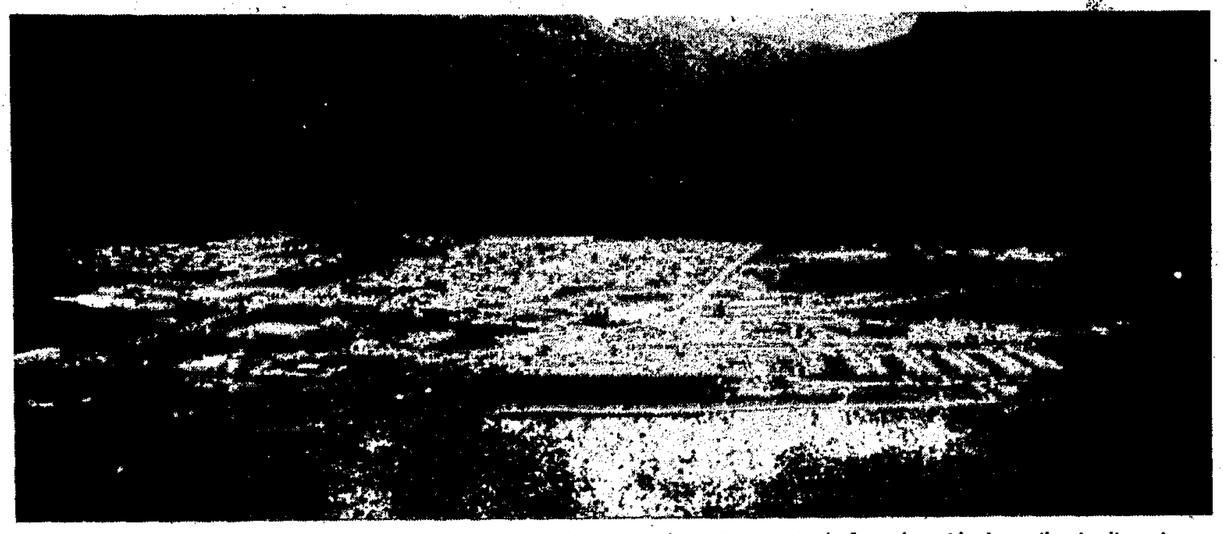
THE DREAMER, Dannie Storm, stands on the site of his boyhood home at Valdez, Alaska, during his recent trip to the largest state. Old Valdez was practically destroyed in the great earthquake of 1964.



NEW VALDEZ has grown into a thriving port city in the 18 years since the old city was ravaged by an earthquake. A terminal for the Alaska oil pipeline is located across the bay from the city.

The Close Kinship Between Texas And New Mexico

Time was when Texas entered over into New Mexico; and the present-day border between us is growing dimmer and dimmer through the years.

We have much in common in several ways. We share the High Plains and the Cap Rock, and also those legendary rivers, the Pecos and the Rio Grande.

There is great friendship between the two peoples also, although many of the Texans call New Mexico "Mexico" and Mexico "Old Mexico."

We all know that Texans love New Mexico and many thousands have second homes here.

Some time ago, a man named Howard Wolff began writing me very kind letters from his home down in Austin.He had been taking The Ruidoso News and wrote many compliments on my remarks about Nature. Little does he know that his own descriptions of his home country are great literary classics.

Anyhow, on around the twelfth of August, I had the pleasure of meeting this fine Texas gentleman while he was on a visit to Ruidoso. He is also a grand cook and we had a great feast which Howard cooked on an outside fire.

Present at the gathering were Howard's wife, Catherine Wolff; his daughter Jane Thompson and her husband, Steve Thompson; and Steve's mother, Virginia Thompson, and daughter, Tracy; and younger son, Todd.

Howard, Steve and Todd came by the place before they left for Texas; and then on the twenty-fifth I received a good letter from Howard in which he sent me a folder of Texas Wildflowers, put out by the Texas Department of Highways and Public Transportation.

Texas Wild Flowers

We all know Texans are proud of their state and their people, and well they should be.

One of the Texas treasures that Texans cherish very highly is their wild flowers. This folder has the most beautiful color photo reproductions of flowers you ever saw.

And also some very interesting points. It turns out that there are more than five thousand flowering plants in Texas — more than in any other state.

This is very easy to understand when you remember the vast variety in climate and soil that you find in The Lone Star State. The song composed by former governor W. Lee O'Daniel comes to mind.

"You may live on the plains or the mountains.
Or down where the sea breezes blow.
But you're still in beautiful Texas.

The most beautiful state that I know."

With the beloved Blue Bonnet leading the parade, the Texas flowers lead you from the cactus flowers of the desert extreme west to the Orchids and Azaleas of the moist jungles of East Texas; and from the Indian Blanket and Prairie Lilly of the Texas Panhandle to the Bougainvilla and Poinsetta in tropical South Texas.

Texas folks, among whom are Lady Bird Johnson and Bertha McKee Dobie, had led a program to make the roadsides of Texas a display of wildflowers for travelers passing through.

Such an abundance of natural beauty as their wild flowers has had an effect upon the nature of the Texas people, making them great in the appreciation of the wonders of Mother Nature.

And that is why they are so deeply fond of our homeland on the slopes of the White Mountain — a land greatly favored by Mother Earth.

Day by day new flowers are coming into bloom up and down the valleys and on the hillsides, making the beginning of the most colorful and fragrant late Summer and early Fall we have seen in a long time.

The rain, that great blessing from the heavens, keeps turning the mountain world into Heaven on earth.

THIS PLAQUE, with the words, "We didn't know it couldn't be done," is dedicated to the thousands of workers who built the Trans Alaska Pipeline. The statue in the background depicts several types of workers.

GATEWAY TO THE GREAT NAVAJO NATION

R U I D O S O · D O W N S

WIN, PLACE, SNOW.

Eyes flash and nostrils flare as 8 tons of pure horsepower catapult through the starting gate. The thunder of hooves pound furiously, unrelentlessly as spectators rise to meet the pride and punishment of the finish line.

Every May the quiet village of Ruidoso explodes in a blaze of silks and sweat as championship horses and their riders jockey for top stakes in the world's richest horse race. The All-American Futurity.

For 34 years, Ruidoso Downs has attracted the world's top horsemen through its gates. Some will stand in the winner's circle. Others will vow to be there next year. All will share in the excitement. Now, Ruidoso Downs adds another champion to its list of winners. The Triple Crown. Condominiums for the sport of kings.

PLACE. Majestically situated on a plateau overlooking the grandstand and grounds, The Triple Crown makes you a part of the action—yet keeps you apart from the crowd. Designed by internationally known architects, 3DI, Inc., these contemporary two and three bedroom studio townhomes are right in stride with the sporting lifestyle. Most offer a spectacular view of the practice track as well as the mountains. Rustic wood and native stone form the exterior of these richly appointed condominium homes. Wood-burning fireplaces, whirlpools and balconies on all bedrooms, living and dining rooms make for entertaining or relaxing in grand style. Cobblestone-like grounds add to The Triple Crown's picturesque, ski resort appeal.

WIN. The Triple crown is designed for the year 'round sporting life. From May to September, horse lovers from around the world flock to the track in hopes of taking home the $1,000,000 winner's purse.

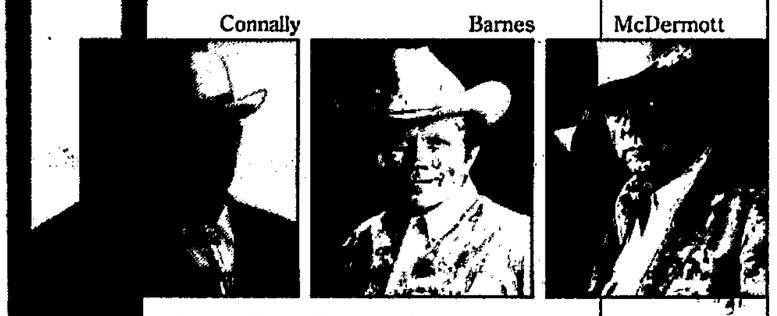
SNOW. From November to April, skis take the place of saddles as beginners and experts alike race down the powder-perfect slopes of Ruidoso's surrounding ski resorts. The Triple Crown keeps you close to all the action. The Sierra Blanca Ski Area, the nation's southernmost ski area, offers magnificent powder and a 4-passenger gondola which operates year 'round, shuttling skiers and sightseers up to the mountain's highest peak – 11,400 ft.

OTHER ACTION. Local and vacationing golfers find the area's three major golf courses to be par excellence. Cultural events include a summer Art Festival and tribal ceremonies performed at the Mescalero Apache Indian Reservation. Big game hunting, trout fishing, backpacking, hiking and sightseeing add to the area's activities.

THE RACES, THE MOUNTAINS, THE WORKS. The Triple Crown gives you the ultimate in year 'round resort living.

The Triple Crown. The crowning touch you'd expect from a Champion.

Perched on an 18-acre plateau above the action of Ruidoso Downs, these 104 exclusive condominium homes provide the ultimate in year 'round resort living. From the 130's.



Former Texas Governor John B. Connally and former Lieutenant Governor Ben Barnes have joined forces with Houston developer Joe A. McDermott to bring you The Triple Crown. Barnes-Connally, a partnership of two of the principals, is currently active in a variety of real estate developments in Texas and New Mexico. McDermott, President of a 20-year-old investment building and development firm in Houston is also a prominent breeder and horseman.

THE OTHER PUERTO RICO

Most tourists to Puerto Rico head for the sunny beaches and splashy nightlife of San Juan. But there's a whole other way to explore the island.

Portugal has its POUSADAS, Spain its PARADORES—reasonable, government-supervised inns dotted around the countryside. Now, Puerto Rico has PARADORES too.

There are currently seven of these small hotels and guesthouses in some of the island's most scenic spots.

Parador Gripinas in the central mountains is the main house of a 19th-century coffee plantation, now a 19-room inn.

Parador Montemar in Aguadilla is larger and more modern, with 40 air-conditioned rooms—all with balconies overlooking the Atlantic.

Banos de Coamo, in the south outside Ponce, is modern and family-oriented. Its claim to fame is its mineral baths.

Hacienda Juanita, another coffee plantation, is is the western mountains and was built from the original plantation structure. It has 21 rooms, swimming pool, tennis courts, and hammocks on the terrace.

From cottages to castles and anywhere in between, we'll help you discover your dream vacation. Contact us at Ruidoso Travel.

THE OTHER PUERTO RICO

Most tourists to Puerto Rico head for the sunny beaches and splashy nightlife of San Juan. But there's a whole other way to explore the island.

Portugal has its POUSADAS, Spain its PARADORES—reasonable, government-supervised inns dotted around the countryside. Now, Puerto Rico has PARADORES too.

There are currently seven of these small hotels and guesthouses in some of the island's most scenic spots.

Parador Gripinas in the central mountains is the main house of a 19th-century coffee plantation, now a 19-room inn.

Parador Montemar in Aguadilla is larger and more modern, with 40 air-conditioned rooms—all with balconies overlooking the Atlantic.

Banos de Coamo, in the south outside Ponce, is modern and family-oriented. Its claim to fame is its mineral baths.

Hacienda Juanita, another coffee plantation, is is the western mountains and was built from the original plantation structure. It has 21 rooms, swimming pool, tennis courts, and hammocks on the terrace.

From cottages to castles and anywhere in between, we'll help you discover your dream vacation. Contact us at Ruidoso Travel.

AT LAST REPORT, corn, Velveeta cheese and salmon eggs were the favored baits at Alto Lake.

MANY A PLEASANT afternoon is spent by Ruidosoans and visitors trout fishing at Alto Lake.

Not a 'bat' guy when you get to know them

If you're one of those many people who believe that bats — the flying mammals associated with witches and Halloween — are rabid, filthy, aggressive animals that can infect humans with tuberculosis and other diseases, you're mistaken.

These are among the myths that make the bat one of the world's most misunderstood animals, according to National Wildlife magazine. The fact is, bats deserve to be known as intelligent, gentle and entertaining animals with an enormous appetite for insects. They post little health risk to man.

Ignorance and sensational media coverage continue to fuel the myths, but if you're interested in the truth about bats, consider the following facts:

Bats are not the frequent carriers of rabies that people think they are. "It is safe to say that the incidence of rabies among bats is no greater than the incidence of rabies in other wild animals," Dr. Denny Constantine, widely recognized as the world's foremost authority on rabies and other dieseases in bats, said. One bat out of a thousand carries rabies, says Constantine, and in the past 30 years only 10 people in the United States have contracted rabies from bats.

"Many more people are killed annually by dog attacks, bee stings, power motors or lightning than have been killed by rabid bats over the last 30 years," says the magazine.

Bats are not by nature aggressive. Healthy bats do not attack people, according to a survey of all available research. One scientist who has handled some 200 species of bats in 20 countries for more than 23 years said he had never seen an aggressive bat. Nor had any of his colleagues ever been attacked by a bat. Stories that describe squadrons of bats attacking humans simply aren't based in fact.

Bat droppings are not dangerous sources of respiratory diseases, such as tuberculosis. "There is no evidence to suggest that bats ever transmit tuberculosis to man," said Constantine. Although bats have also been accused of transmitting the fungal disease histoplasmosis, this rare disease is not usually traceable to bats because the fungus can't survive in the hot, dry attics where bats live. Instead, histoplasmosis usually flourishes in bird roosts and chicken coops in the humid southeastern United States

Bats are not dirty animals likely to infect homes with dangerous parasites. Bat researchers agree, "that you just don't see dirty bats in the wild." Like many mammals, bats work hard at keeping themselves clean. And parasites that feed on bats are specialized; they rarely pose any threat to humans.

Poison is the worst possible means of getting bats to leave human living quarters. if you really want to get rid of bats, says National Wildlife, the best way to do it is to seal off all the entrances to their roosting sites — the holes and cracks that give the tiny animals access to attics. Using pesticides poses a real threat to human health, says the magazine, despite the fact that many pest control companies promote the practice and circulate sensational literature about the dangers of bats. And even though the United States Environmental Protection Agency has warned against the use of a presticide commonly used on bats — Rozol — 20 states still permit the use of this anticoagulant to poison bats.

The truly enlightened homeowner may even want to consider keeping bats around. Europeans build bat-houses in their backyards so they can take advantage of these insect-eaters. Bats can snag up to 500 insects an hour.

But even if you can't bring yourself to cultivate a bat population in your attic, at least refrain from slandering these gentle animals. As National Wildlife tells it, they've unfairly suffered the slurs and abuses of their human neighbors for too long.

The Ruidoso News

Ruidoso, Lincoln County, New Mexico 88345

It's kickoff for 1982 Lincoln County football

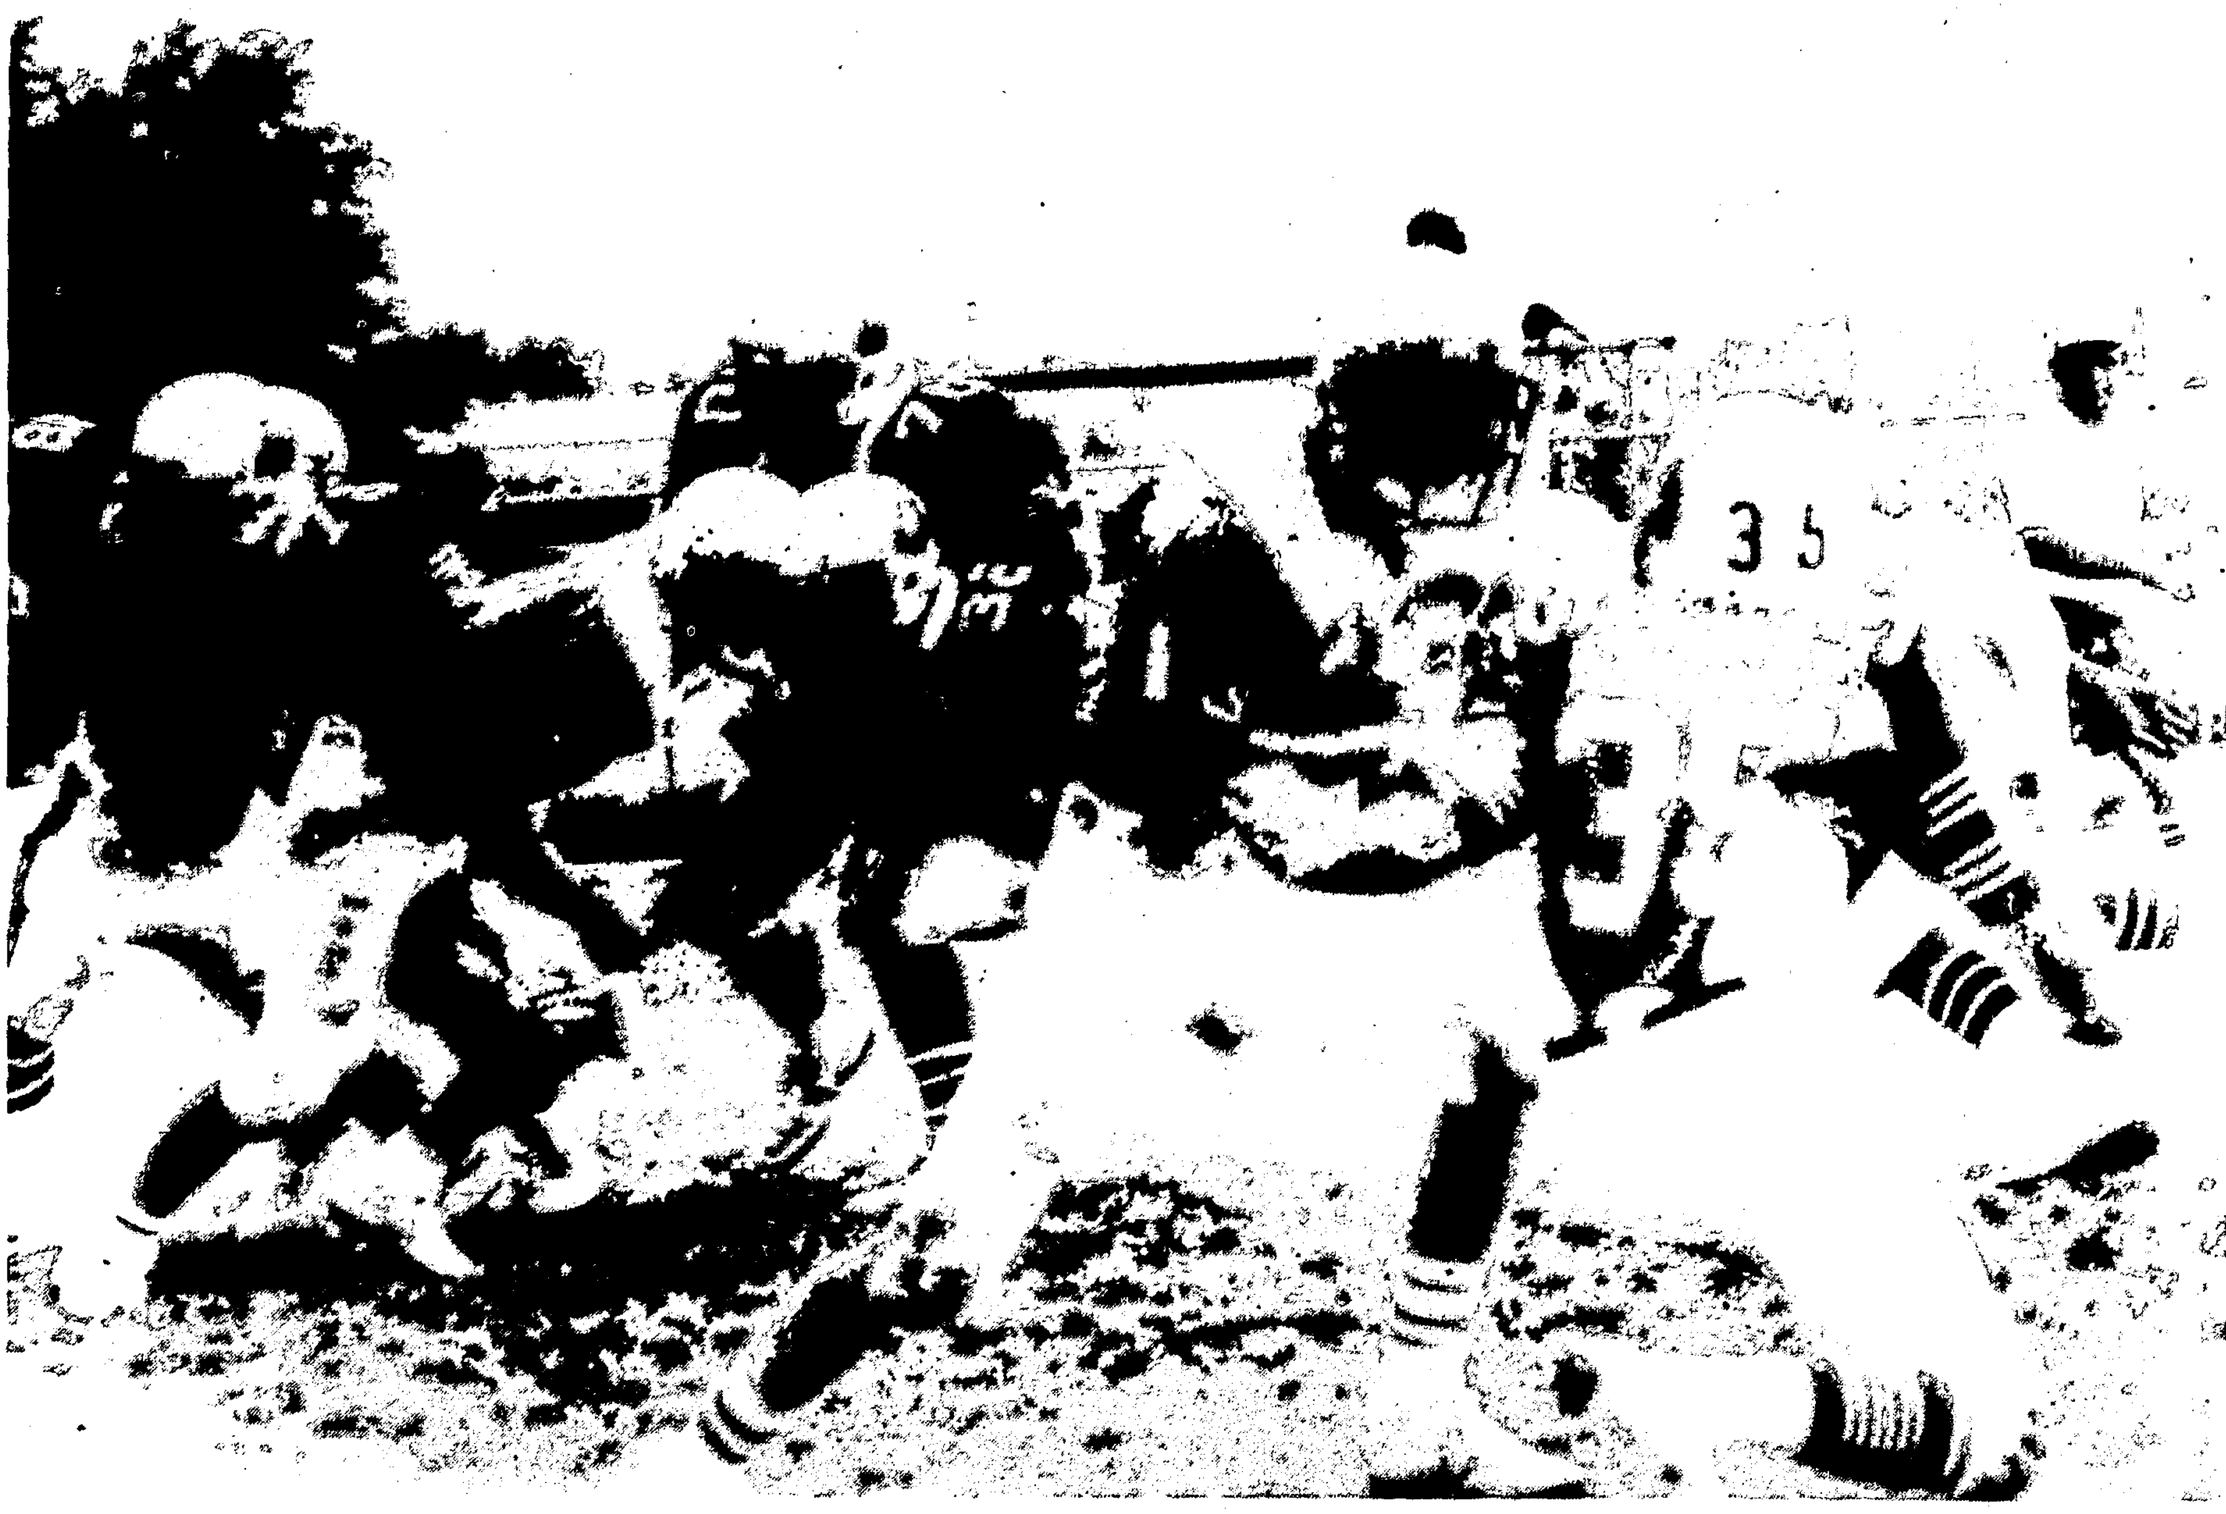
OUCH, THAT HURTS, these Ruidoso High School players could be saying as they practice blocking techniques recently. Head junior varsity and varsity offensive line coach Jim Ramsey watches his players with interest.



MIKE DOUGLASS (83) of Ruidoso High School charges at a Las Cruces High School player while blocking on offense during a scrimmage August 21 in Las Cruces. Douglass should start at tight end on offense and possibly defensive back for the Warriors.

Stierwalt optimistic about Warrior team this year

Ruidoso High School head coach Darrel Stierwalt is cautiously optimistic about his team's chances this year.

"If we don't have a lot of injuries we should do real well," Stierwalt said. "This year's team may not have as much experience as the one we had last year but we do have a lot of natural talent."

This year's Ruidoso team has a tough act to follow as last year's Warrior squad was perhaps the best in the school's history.

The Warriors finished 4-2 in 3-AAA district action last season and 8-2 overall. Only a last minute loss to champion Silver City prevented the Warriors from a co-district championship and a berth in the state playoffs.

"How quick our new guys learn will probably determine how we do," Stierwalt remarked.

The Warrior offensive backfield has a couple of returning veterans in quarterback Billy Woodul and wingback Grady Williamson.

Williamson, a senior, should be one of the fastest backs in the state AAA division this season. He ran an 11.15 100 meters during track season and also ran on three state meet relay teams. The swift back scored five touchdowns last season while playing both wingback and flanker.

Woodul, also a senior, shared the quarterback duties with now graduated Scott Neal. Perhaps his best game of the season was against Estancia in the opener. He threw a touchdown pass while completing seven of nine passes. He should be one of the best quarterbacks in the district this season.

Junior Eric Strobel and senior Kyle Flack round out the present starting backfield. Strobel played mostly on the junior varsity last season but did get in some playing time on the varsity. He's slotted at halfback in the Warrior offensive formation.

Flack, who will also start at middle linebacker, will go at fullback. At 5-7, 158 pounds he doesn't have great size but he more than makes up for that with good quickness and a lot of determination.

The offensive line is considered by the coaches to be the Warriors' strongest asset at this time in the pre-season.

Veterans Chris Sanchez and Craig Carson will start at guard. Both weigh around 175 pounds and are very quick and aggressive. They could be the best guard duo in the district by the end of the season.

David Swalander returns at center. The 5-9, 160 pounder started last season and adds experience to the forward wall.

Tony Stevens, a junior transfer from Abilene, Texas, and Chris Wynn will man the tackle spots. Wynn is a 6-1, 160 pounder and Stevens is 6-0, 175 pounds. Stevens played junior varsity ball in Abilene. Kip McClellan is also challenging at tackle.

Speedy Mike Douglass will be the tight end while H. R. Lueras will go at split end. Curtis Palmer, a transfer from Redding, California, is also a candidate at end.

On defense the Warriors will have Stevens and Swalander at the ends with Carson and either Kip McClellan or Sanchez at tackles.

Flack will start at middle linebacker with transfer George Gresham and Jessie Reynolds at outside linebacker. Gresham, a 5-11, 180 pound sophomore, moved to Ruidoso from Arizona.

Williamson and Lueras are the backbone of a young and inexperienced secondary. Douglass, Steve Snidow, Mike Williamson, Palmer, Mark Langston and junior David Landrum are other candidates for the defensive secondary.

Stierwalt sees this year's district race as more balanced and equal than last year.

"Last season there were two or three clubs much better than the rest of the teams," he said. "This year the teams will be much more equal."

The Ruidoso head coach still sees Silver City as the favorite for the title. The Colts have a talented brother duo in Jimmy and Joe Vasquez at quarterback and running back. Both Colt players have good speed and savvy.

Tularosa, which handed the Warriors their only other defeat of last season besides the Silver City loss, should also be tough along with Truth or Consequences and Deming.

Deming could be the most improved team in the district. It has an excellent lineman returning in George Wurtz and a top back in Ernest Wilson.

Cobre finished in the cellar last season but has a lot of returning lettermen and should be much improved.

Ruidoso opens the season Friday at Lovington. The game will begin at 7:30 p.m.

The Warrior junior varsity will open its season at Carrizozo Saturday, September 11, in an 11 a.m. contest. Ruidoso's junior varsity finished at 3-3-1 last year.

RUIDOSO'S GRADY WILLAMSON rambles with the football during the August 21 scrimmage with Las Cruces High School in Las Cruces. Willamson and quarterback Billy Woodul are returning starters from last year's offensive backfield and should be a big part of the Warriors' offensive success this season.

Capitan has talent, needs depth

Staying free of injuries will probably be the key to the season for the Capitan High School football team this year.

"We've got to stay healthy, no question about it," said Tiger head coach Mel Holland. "We've got a good chance to go all the way because we have some excellent, experienced players. But we have to stay healthy because we're lacking depth. In the past we've had around 26 players. This season we've got around 20."

Capitan has a history of doing well in A division competition. The Tigers finished second in the state to Reserve two years ago, and last season made the semi-finals but were edged by Texico 7-6. In 1980 Capitan finished at 6-4 and last year its record was 7-2.

Holland and assistants Bill Stowe and Kendall Lawlis have some excellent talent to work with.

Quarterback Grady Lee Eldridge returns and he should be one of the best signal callers in the state's A division this season.

The 6-0, 180 pounder played at tailback last season.

Fullback John Todd Aguilar is another returning starter. He is a 5-10, 160 pounder and does everything well.

Danny Cummins and David Beavers should do well at running back. Cummins is a 5-9, 160 pounder and Beavers goes 6-0, 185 pounds.

DAVIS

Top linemen returning are guard Paul Sullivan and tackle Todd Proctor. Proctor is a 6-0, 190 pounder and Sullivan is 5-11, 170 pounds. Both players go both ways. Ron McDaniels is a fine tight end.

"We're a little thin in the offensive line, not much depth there," Holland said. "But we have good quality everywhere."

Competition for the placekicking duties is wide open. Cummins, Eddie Davis and Rodney Montoya are in the thick of the battle for the job.

Besides top talent, experience is also a plus for the Tigers.

There are 12 seniors on the squad. Seven juniors and only two sophomores round out the team.

Stowe works with the defensive secondary and the receivers while Lawlis handles the running backs and defensive line.

Capitan is in the A division's 1-A district along with Reserve, Mountainair and Lincoln County rival Carrizozo.

The A division's 2-A district (which includes schools from the east side of the state) includes Texico, Tatum, Cloudcroft, Melrose and Hagerman.

There are several A division districts in basketball but only a few schools have football teams so there are only two districts for that sport.

Which team does he see as the strongest?

"Well, Reserve has quite a few young players, but until someone knocks them off, they have to be considered tough," he said. "Carrizozo could also be tough in our district."

Holland sees Texico and Tatum as having strong teams in the eastern district.

Capitan opens the season at Cloudcroft at 7:30 p.m. Friday, September 3. If the Tigers stay healthy, they should be as good as any of the championship contenders.

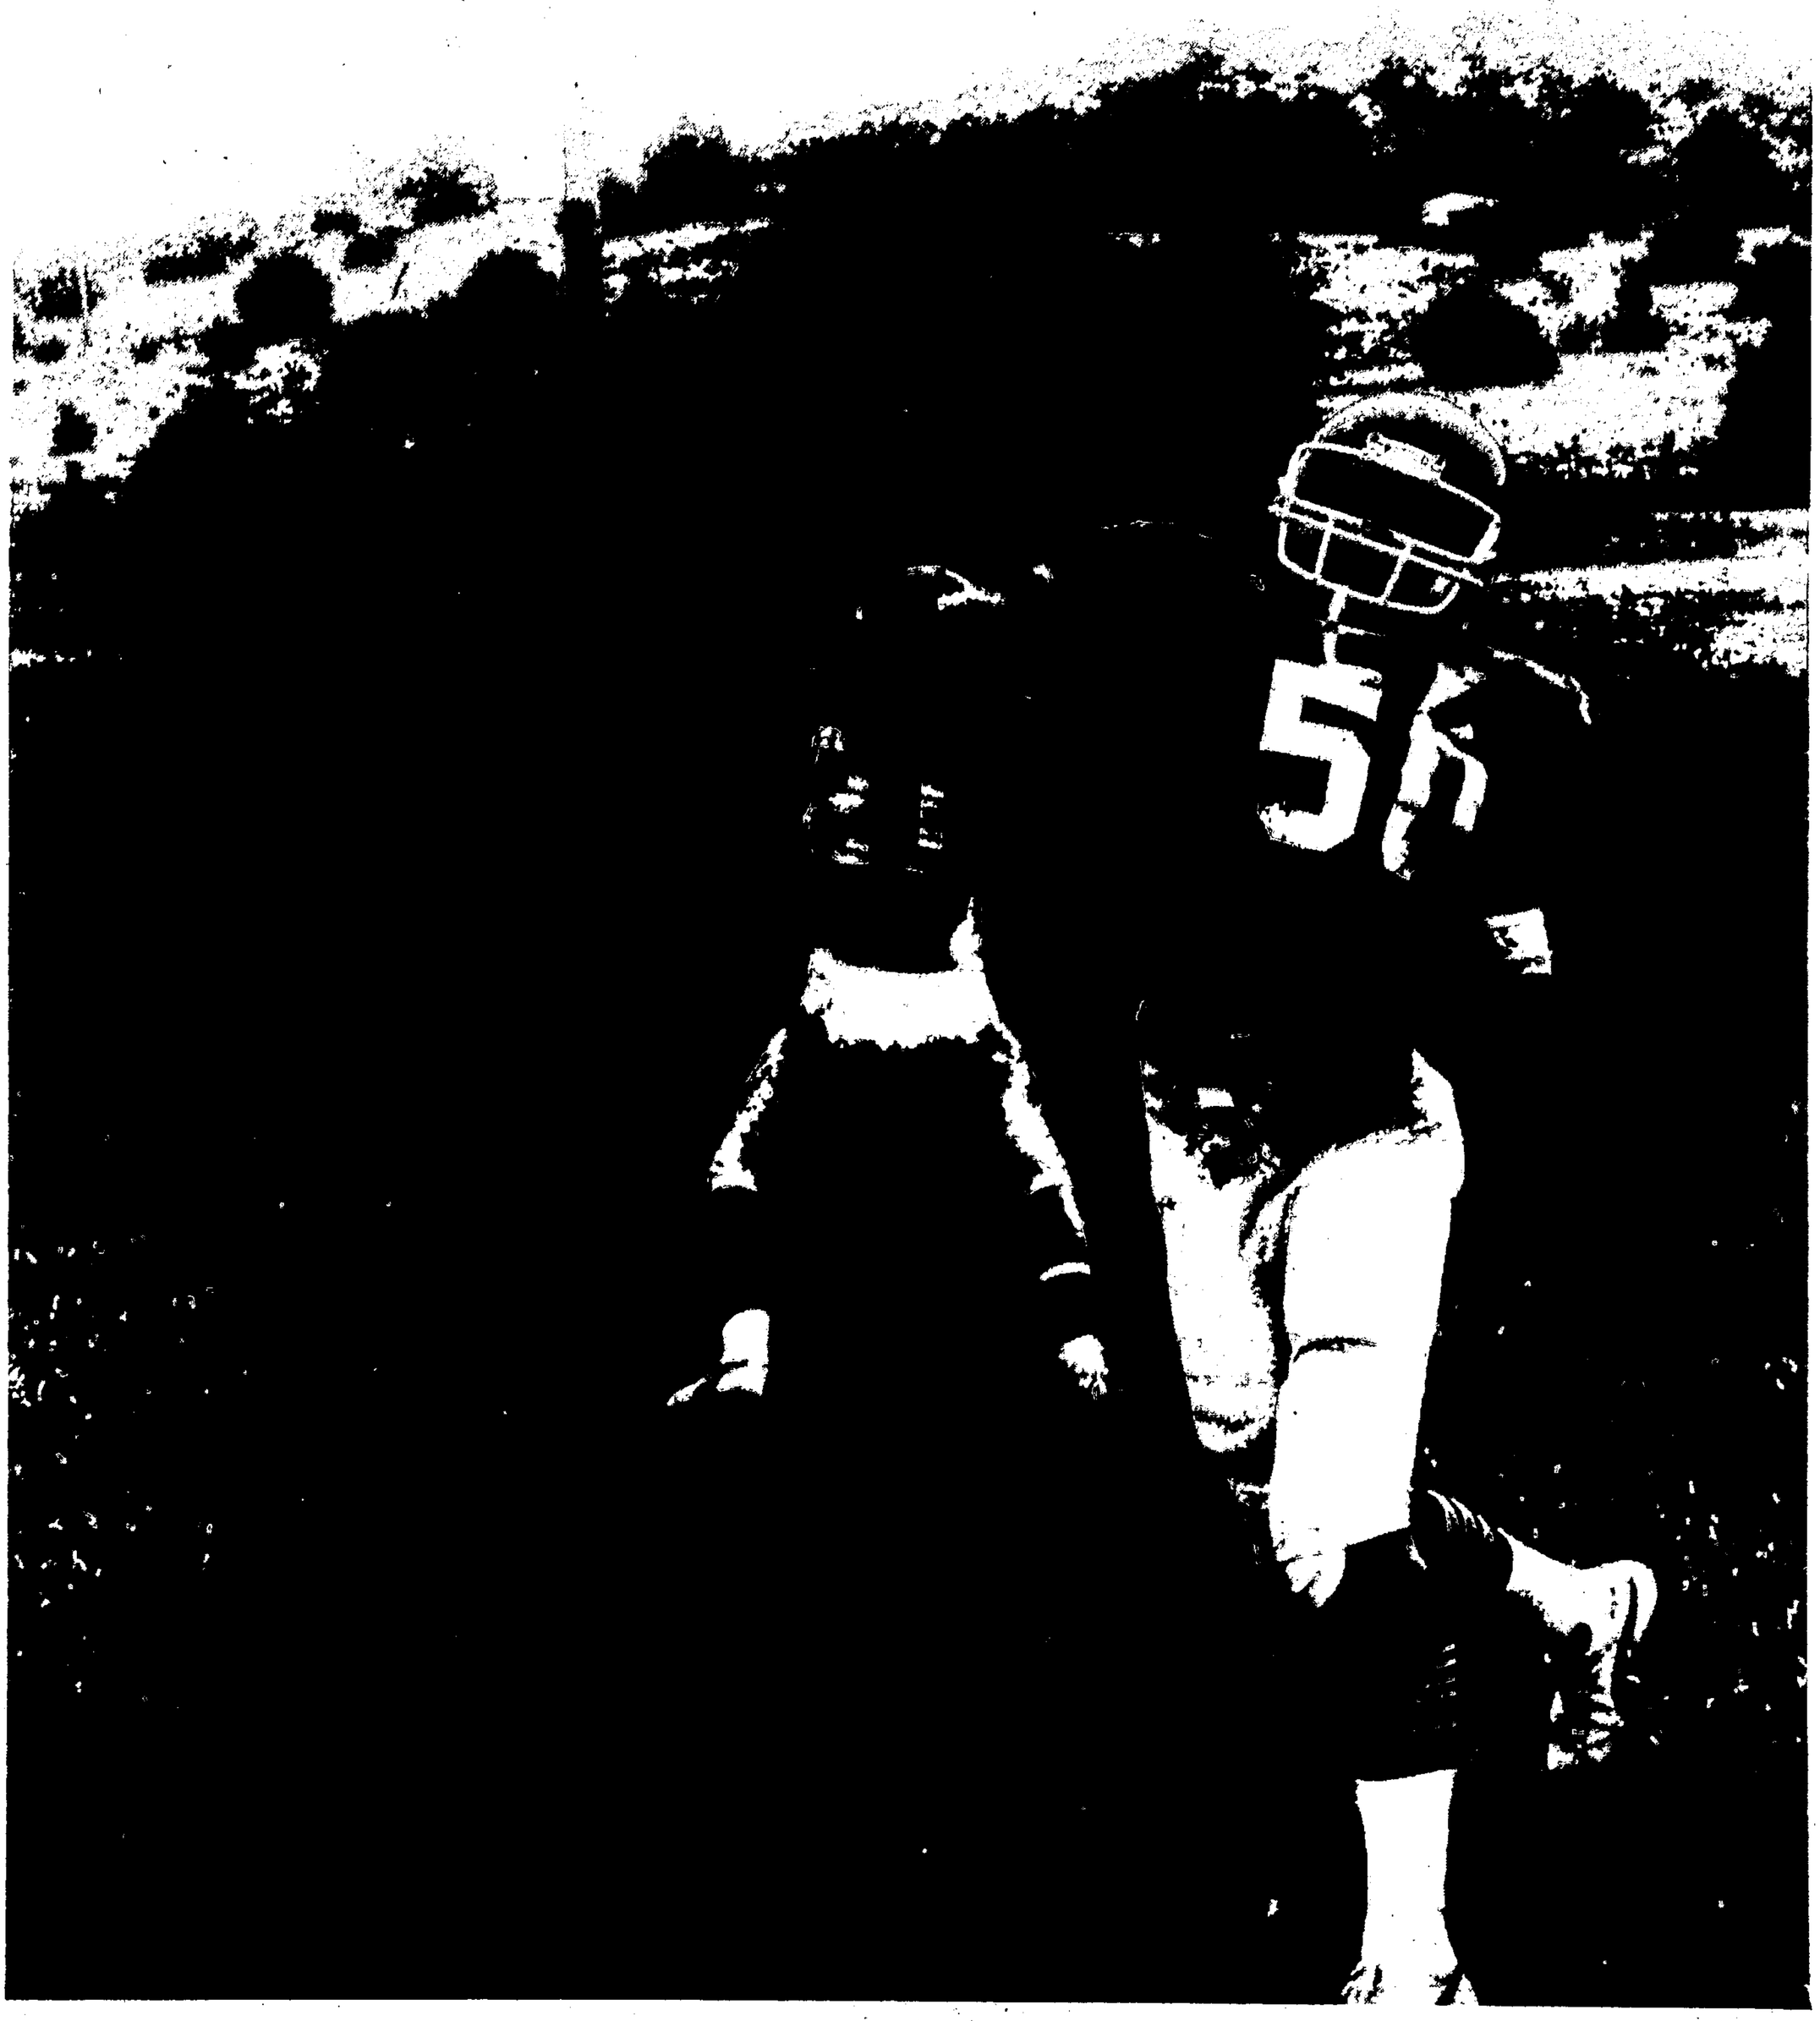
CAPITAN HIGH SCHOOL PLAYERS go through some limbering-up exercises before a recent practice. The Tigers had a 7-2 record last year and were 6-4 the year before. They finished second in the state A division playoffs in 1980 and made the semi-finals last season.



GRADY LEE ELDRIDGE of Capitan High School lets the ball fly in a recent practice. The 6-0, 180 pound Tiger quarterback should be one of the best A division passers in the state this season. Capitan opens its season Friday at Cloudcroft in a 7:30 p.m. game.

Braves should be tough again

White Mountain Middle School won't have to worry about playing Roswell powerhouses Sierra and Mountain View again this year since those schools aren't on the Braves' schedule.

However, White Mountain still has a competitive schedule ahead, and the Braves should be able to meet the challenge.

Last year the Braves finished at 4-2 on the season with the only losses being to the two Roswell middle schools. Both Mountain View and Sierra have much larger enrollments than White Mountain and the Braves were a bit overmatched in their games with those schools.

White Mountain's best victory of the season was a 40-6 romp over Carrizozo.

Head coach Terry Wharton and assistant Mike Crocker are currently working with 35 to 40 players and are hoping some more will come out.

"We have a bigger turnout than we did last season," Wharton said. "It's a bit early to say which players will start and who will play where."

Running back-defensive back Billy Chadwell and flanker-defensive back Mike Keaton are the only returning players from last year's team. They're eighth graders now. However, most middle school teams are dominated by eighth grade players so there's a large turnover of players every year.

Wharton and Crocker taught the players basic offensive and defensive plays last week and this week the players started working out in pads.

"We've got balance and we're pretty deep," Wharton commented. "However, many middle school players have never played competitive football before so we're just going through the basics with them at first. Things are looking good."

The Braves will probably pass more this year.

"Last season we only passed about five percent of the time," Wharton said. "That probably wasn't enough, so this year we're thinking about passing maybe 15 to 20 percent of the time."

Wharton is in his fifth year at White Mountain while Crocker enters his third. Crocker was recently named head coach of the new Ruidoso High School tennis team.

The Braves open the season Thursday, September 9, at Dexter. The contest will begin at 6 p.m.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar

Sean Connery is the marshall in "Outland," which will appear Sept. 2 on the Movie Channel. The film is about miners in a company town on Jupiter's third moon who suddenly become alternately homicidal, then suicidal.

The new federal marshall from Earth discovers that the reason for this violent behavior is that the mining company that owns the town has been secretly giving the miners a drug that allows them to do tremendous amounts of work before it drives them insane.

The marshall must then confront the company, which controls everything on the moon including all the officials except him. Even the miners who depend on the company for jobs refuse to help him. Connery does a good job as the marshall who must go it alone in this sort of outer space version of "High Noon."

Actually, Connery gets a little more help than Gary Cooper did in "High Noon." While Cooper went it alone because it was the right thing to do, Connery seems to be acting more out of stubbornness than a sense of justice. In any event, "Outland," with its non-comic book grittiness, is a welcome change from most of the new breed of sci-fi movies.

On Aug. 30, ESPN will televise coverage of the game between the NBA All-Stars and an all-star team from the People's Republic of China. The Chinese have a center who is supposed to be 7 feet 8 inches tall and weigh 300 pounds. He sounds awesome — if he can really play ball. Of course, he'll be matched against Kareem Abdul-Jabbar, who we know is awesome.

The Aug. 30 edition of USA's "Youl" will feature Muriel Harding of Sheffield, Ala., who'll fly into New York for "Youl's" monthly makeover special. Gerard Bollel creates a new short hairstyle for Miss Harding and makeup artist George Newell accentuates her eyes with shades of gray and smoky green. A trip to a Seventh Avenue showroom follows where Miss Harding tries on a wardrobe designed especially for Alabama's climate.

On Aug. 31, Nickelodeon's "Spread Your Wings," an international series that examines how young people around the world come to understand themselves through the development of a particular skill or art, will visit the United States. Amy Hobbs, a 13-year-old photographer, will try to show people through her art to see different patterns in everyday objects.

For those of you who enjoy gospel music, there is the "Bobby Jones Gospel Show" aired Sunday mornings on the Black Entertainment Network (BET). The Aug. 29 show pairs country singer Barbara Mandrell and gospel vocalist Al Hobbs.

SOUND COUNTRY

By Doug Davis

The Glaser Brothers' second LP, "After All These Years," from which their current hit single was pulled, contains more of their special brand of country harmony.

After a 7-year breakup, the Nebraska-born trio reunited in 1981 with a hit single produced by Jimmy Bowen, "Lovin' Her Was Easier."

Sylvia has finished a taped segment for an upcoming edition of "Pop Goes the Country." She performed "Like Nothing Ever Happened" and her current single, "Nobody."

"WKRP" star Loni Anderson has finished filming a TV-movie at Rivergate Shopping Center near Hendersonville, Tenn. The movie is set for fall viewing on CBS. The film crew had trouble completing its work, because of the huge crowds that gathered to watch the proceedings.

The music biz is abuzz now that Kenny Rogers has signed a multimillion dollar pact with RCA. The pact, however, will not take effect until 1983.

The Kendalls have completed back-to-back TV tapings for "Nashville on the Road" and "That Nashville Music," where the duo hosted country artists Gene Watson and George Strait.

Jeannie and Royce left immediately after the tapings for a heavy road schedule, including the Jamboree in the Hills in Ohio, plus six days through Texas and Oklahoma. This was followed by a six-day appearance at a rodeo in Sidney, Iowa.

A MIDSUMMER NIGHT'S SEX COMEDY, from Orion Pictures, released through Warner Bros. Written and directed by Woody Allen. Starring Woody Allen, Mia Farrow, Jose Ferrer. Rated 'PG' ★ ★ ★ ★

By J.T. YURKO

In his previous movie, "Stardust Memories," Woody Allen played a character largely based on himself — a one-time comic filmmaker who was now trying to produce serious films. But the people around him kept saying, "Oh, I liked his funny movies. Why doesn't he do another funny movie?"

Thus the title of his latest film, "A Midsummer Night's Sex Comedy," seemed at first a bit indignant. One can almost picture Allen saying, "You want a comedy? Fine. I'll make a nice, light summer comedy, and I'll throw in some sex, too. I'll give you what you want."

It turns out that there is not a touch of indignation about this film. Allen has managed to continue to make the kind of films he wants to make, to say the things he wants to say and yet still reach a wide audience.

"A Midsummer Night's Sex Comedy" is romantic, charming and exquisitely photographed by Gordon Willis. Allen once again presents a group of more-than-slightly neurotic individuals who are embroiled in the agonies and ecstacies of Woody's two favorite subjects, love and death.

As a sort of counterpoint to Allen's "Manhattan," this pastoral period piece is set around the turn of the century, with Mendelssohn providing the score instead of "Manhattan's" George Gershwin.

Allen fans can still recognize Ingmar Bergman's influence, since this film is much like Bergman's "Smiles of a Summer Night." About the only thing working against the film is that it has the word "comedy" in the title. This is not an all-out sex farce, so do not expect a belly laugh every five seconds. But after all, who would go to a film entitled "A Pleasantly Humorous Midsummer Night's Morality Play"?
