Warriors are winners; Tigers on to playoffs

Ruidoso 20, T or C 16

by GARY BROWN
Sports Writer

Good things come to those who wait. And the Ruidoso High School varsity football team waited and suffered through eight frustrating losses before coming from behind to defeat host Truth or Consequences (T or C) 20-16 Friday night for its first victory of the season.

Junior split end Curtis Palmer grabbed an 11-yard pass on fourth down from quarterback Billy Woodul with 47 seconds left in the game to give the Warriors the victory.

After the clock ran out, the Warrior players lifted head coach Darrel Stierwalt on their shoulders and the small group of Warrior fans cheered wildly.

"That was a curl pattern that worked well with Curtis," Stierwalt said about the winning touchdown pass. "It was basically designed for Palmer's height (6-3). We instructed Billy to throw the ball a little high so Curtis could catch it over the smaller defensive backs."

The catch by Palmer culminated a Warrior comeback from a 16-6 deficit in the final period.

Ruidoso had taken a 6-0 advantage in the first quarter on a nine-yard pass from Woodul to halfback Eric Strobel.

The Strobel touchdown ended a 49-yard drive in eight plays. The drive was started when linebacker Jesse Reynolds recovered a Tiger fumble on the T or C 45 and ran it in for an apparent touchdown. However, the Warriors were called for holding after Reynolds had recovered the fumble and the ball was put back on the 49.

On the first play after the fumble, wingback Grady Williamson ran for 12 yards to the 36. Fullback Mark Langston ran for three yards, Strobel for two and Williamson again for four to put the ball on the 27. Williamson then ran for four yards to the 23.

An offside penalty put the ball back on the 28 but Woodul completed a swing pass to Langston who gained eight yards to the 20.

Woodul again connected on a pass, this time to split end H. R. Luera, that brought the ball to the 13. Strobel gained three yards and Langston one.

On the next play, Woodul found Strobel with the touchdown pass just inside the end zone on the right side.

T or C couldn't gain much yardage on the next series and the Warriors again started a long drive from their 32.

The big play in the drive was a pass from Woodul to tight end Mike Douglass that gained 28 yards to the Tiger 12. However, two plays later the Warriors fumbled and the Tigers took over.

Langston suffered an injured knee in the second period and Kyle Flack, who was already playing at middle linebacker, came in at fullback.

T or C got on the board with 2:30 remaining in the second quarter when Woodul was trapped in the end zone for a safety.

The Tigers took the lead on their offensive series following the Warriors' free kick.

T or C drove 42 yards in six plays with fullback Gary Sullivan running over for the score on a three-yard run with less than a minute left in the first half.

Sullivan then ran for the two-point conversion and the Tigers took a 10-6 lead into the locker room at halftime.

The hosts added another touchdown late in the third quarter when Mike Montoya dove over from the one for the score. A pass for the two-point conversion failed but the Tigers still had an seemingly secure 16-6 lead.

AFTER FAKING A HANDOFF to a back going up the middle, Capitan quarterback Dewey Keller gives the ball to running back David Beavers going the other way. Beavers had a good gain on the play as the Carrizozo defense was caught off guard. Pursuing is Grizzly senior Alex Serna. The action took place in the 33-20 Capitan win Friday night at Capitan.

Capitan 33, Carrizozo 20

The Capitan Tigers rolled over arch-rival Carrizozo Friday night and marched into a berth in the state playoffs on the strength of a 19-point third quarter.

The Tigers came back from an early second half deficit of 14-7 and stifled the Grizzlies the rest of the way to gain a wild 33-20 victory in the final regular season game for both teams.

The win cements Capitan firmly into second place in district 1-A with a 2-1 record and places the Tigers in the playoffs for the third year in a row. Carrizozo's record dropped to 1-2 in the district, which puts the Grizzlies in third place and out of the playoffs.

Capitan's overall record improved to 5-2-1 while Carrizozo dropped to 4-4.

Capitan now travels to undefeated Texico for a 7:30 p.m. game Friday in the playoff semi-finals. Defending state champion Reserve will play Tatum in the other semi-final.

The Tigers and Grizzlies fought to a tough 7-7 halftime score. The first quarter resulted in no score on the board as both teams blew opportunities to punch into the end zone.

On its second possession of the game, Carrizozo tried for a first down on a gutsy fourth down and 10 call from its own 20 yard line. Quarterback John Rouché faked a pass, then handed off to Brian Vigil up the middle. Vigil had a good gain, but the ball was placed about one foot short of a first down.

Capitan had a prime scoring opportunity from its opponent's 29 yard line, but after an illegal blocking penalty brought the ball back to the 44 yard line, Grizzly Timmie Vega picked off a pass from Tiger quarterback Dewey Keller.

Carrizozo then picked up two quick first downs at the three minute mark, but two defensive gems by Capitan defensive back Tim McElhannon stopped the Carrizozo drive. After a strong 52-yard punt by the Grizzlies, Capitan had the ball at its own 18 yard line. The quarter ended after two short gainers to the 21.

Capitan failed to pick up a first down on the possession and punted to start the second quarter. Carrizozo downed the ball at its own 38, then churned out its best drive of the contest.

On the second series of downs, Carrizozo opted to go for it again on a fourth and one. This time Rouché kept the ball and gained almost 10 yards up the middle.

The Grizzlies gained another first down, which brought them to the Capitan 23. The next three downs saw Carrizozo gain only two yards as the Capitan defense tightened. On another risky fourth down call, Rouché faded back and spotted Duane Zamora splitting the Capitan backs. The pass was good and Zamora beat the defense into the end zone for a 6-0 Carrizozo lead.

Clarence Beltran kicked the extra point to make it 7-0.

Capitan took the ensuing kickoff to its own 36 yard line and started a game-tying drive. On the first down, running back Jon Todd Aguilar—one of Capitan's stars in the game—took a handoff up the middle for a 16-yard gain. A defensive holding call on the next series gave Capitan another first down at the Grizzly 29.

Keller faded back on a second and three call and passed to running back David Beavers. Beavers pranced untouched into the end zone to bring the score to 7-6 at about the two minute mark. Todd Proctor kicked the extra point to tie the score.

Big crowd greets President Reagan in Roswell

by BARBY GRANT
Staff Writer

A crowd estimated at over 10,000 greeted President Ronald Reagan in Roswell Friday, on his last stop to campaign for Republican candidates before Tuesday's general election. This visit marked the first time in New Mexico history that a sitting president has been to Roswell.

Republicans on hand hoping to benefit from Reagan's visit included gubernatorial candidate John Irick and his running mate Colin McMillan; Harrison "Jack" Schmitt and Joe Skeen, running for reelection to the U.S. Senate and House of Representatives; Manuel Lujan, seeking reelection as U.S. Representative from the second congressional district; Marjorie Bell Chambers, running for that position in the newly created third congressional district; and the GOP candidates for secretary of state, state auditor, state treasurer, attorney general, commissioner of public lands, corporation commissioner and Justice of the Supreme Court.

The Ruidoso High School band kicked off the rally about an hour-and-a-half before the president's arrival. Skeen and McMillan shared the task of introducing candidates and the 10 other high school bands which played during the interval before Air Force One landed precisely on time around 2:35 p.m.

The only event of the rally not on schedule was the accidental release of 3,000 brightly colored balloons about an hour before Reagan's appearance. As the program stopped briefly while the crowd watched the helium-filled balloons ascend, McMillan quipped, "Everybody please tell the president we had 3,000 balloons for him."

Lincoln County was sparsely represented at the GOP campaign rally, as signified by the nearly inaudible cheering when Skeen asked to "hear it" for his home county.

"Lincoln County doesn't have a lot of people, but it has a quality group of people," the congressman pointed out.

Cheering from the crowd was clearly audible, however, as Air Force One landed and taxied right up to the platform where the president would soon speak. Senator Pete Domenici, the one GOP politician present who is not in Tuesday's election race, first took his place at the podium to urge the crowd to vote Republican November 2.

The reelection of Republicans would be "a referendum given to the president to turn this country around," the senator stated. "The Republican party is ready to furnish leadership at all levels."

Domenici then introduced Irick, who echoed the senator's belief, saying "you're gonna find Republicans in charge of just about everything in New Mexico come next Tuesday night."

"We're proud to have you (Reagan) to bring our campaign to a close and bring us to victory," the gubernatorial candidate said, signifying the hope among Republican party members that the president's visit will do just that. Irick then introduced Schmitt, who had been given the privilege of escorting Reagan from the airplane to the platform.

The junior senator took the opportunity to expound upon his accomplishments before introducing President Reagan. Schmitt mentioned that he had "led the Senate in the surge for real retirement security," would "continue to fight for a balanced budget amendment" and "help rejuvenate and streamline our national defense forces."

Schmitt then introduced Reagan to the receptive crowd, crediting him for "leading us away from a lax and tax and spend and spend policy."

"It feels good to be here in the Land of Enchantment and away from that faraway place of disenchantment on the banks of the Potomac," the president began. He quickly got to the point of his visit, focusing on Schmitt in his push for Republican votes. Schmitt is closely vying with Jeff Bingaman for the Senate seat Schmitt now holds.

"If only half the members of Congress had voted with Jack's integrity and foresight, there wouldn't be 11 million unemployed," Reagan said. "There wouldn't have been the double-digit inflation or crippling interest rates that caused recession—and there would have been prosperity."

"I came here to tell the people of New Mexico," Reagan stated, "I need Jack Schmitt in the Senate. And I need Manuel Lujan, Joe Skeen and Marjorie Bell Chambers in the House just as much." The president added that John Irick "also is the kind of individual I can count on and the people of New Mexico can count on."

Reagan then turned the focus of his speech to the state of the national economy. "I realize there is still hardship among our people," he said. "And if I thought what we were seeking to accomplish would be only temporary, I wouldn't ask for the American people's patience."

"But for the first time in our postwar history, we're trying to build a recovery that will last, not just a quick political fix to see us through the next election."

Reagan singled out runaway spending, inflation, high interest rates, high taxes and unemployment as the immediate problems facing the country when he took office. "We've made dramatic gains on four of those five problems," the president remarked.

"That leaves unemployment, which is much too high ... Getting Americans back to work is an urgent priority for all of us and, other than keeping the peace, I have no higher priority," Reagan stated. He later noted that if forced to choose between balancing the budget or building up our defenses, "I would have to say I'd come down on the side of defenses."

He explained that unemployment is "the last to feel a recovery," but he believes the lower interest rates will reduce the unemployment problem.

Reagan referred to Democratic policies as "the policies of failure" and blamed them for the programs "that got us in this mess."

"We have worked for a better alternative," the president reported. "We're on a new road now—a road that is leading America to better times. And ... we are going to stick with it and turn this economy around," he promised.

A RECEPTIVE CROWD of over 10,000 gathered at the Roswell Industrial Air Center Friday to hear President Ronald Reagan on his final stop to campaign for GOP candidates in Tuesday's election.

Emergency Medical Services joins hospital today

by DAVID SHEPPARD
Staff Writer

The Ruidoso Emergency Medical Services (EMS) transfers its operation to new management today.

Ambulance workers officially have become part of the Ruidoso-Hondo Valley Hospital (RHVH) staff. The switch from a village department to the hospital comes after months of negotiations between RHVH and village hall. For four years EMS had been operated under the auspices of the village governing body.

Ken Moore, administrator of the hospital, will tread lightly in the first few months of operating the service, but he definitely feels good about the prospects of having emergency crews and the medical staff under one roof.

"The people in the hospital are appreciative of having them—a good working relationship is already forming. I see it as a real positive relationship," Moore said in a recent interview.

In August the village and hospital hammered out an agreement that will send EMS from its quarters in the back of the police station to a mobile home to be erected on the hospital grounds. In the contract, the village agrees to subsidize the entire EMS operating budget—which is projected to cost Ruidoso $160,127 next year. The cost excludes the amount expected to be earned from patient transport.

Although it will be paying the bills, the governing body has agreed to relinquish direct involvement in EMS. It is an agreement that was pursued by both parties, and one that is hoped to benefit EMS, the hospital and the community.

EMS technicians have gone through a handful of director changes in recent years, and the relationship with village fathers has been tenuous. Last spring, a former director embarrassed village hall by dumping rescue equipment on its front steps, and complaining openly about what he saw as shoddy treatment.

But the crew for the most part has remained loyal to EMS, and the emergency medical technicians (EMTs) have shown dedication in their roles as professional life savers.

Although the nagging loss of directors and the perception of village neglect has led the employees to tag themselves as "unwanted stepchildren," all but one of the five technicians has signed on with the hospital.

The EMTs who will move over to the hospital are David Wheeler, Keith Starnes, Larry Johnson and Rita Robertson, who is acting director of EMS. Jim Wheeler has left the crew to hire on with another village department.

Robertson will continue as director in the first months of the transition. Moore said he is ready to hire a paramedic who is now directing a university program in Oregon to be supervisor. But the RHVH administrator is uncertain whether the highly skilled technician will be able to "make the move."

While the staff has indicated it perceived the changeover of EMS to the hospital as beneficial, the members said they were let down Thursday when they learned starting salaries are not as high as the figure that appears in the EMS first year's budget.

In the approved contract, the budget allots $1,200 a month for each EMT. But the four employees said they were being hired for much less.

Asked about the difference, Moore said he was being "extremely careful on the front end," because he does not want to go over the village subsidy in the first year. He noted the hospital is obligated to pay overtime, and he wants to ensure overtime expenses do not put salaries over budget.

But to maintain quality on the staff, Moore said, the EMTs are being assured that salary will be commensurate with ability.

"I hope as time goes by we'll bring them up to the highest salary possible," explained Moore. "As I said before, I believe you get what you pay for."

But establishing salary levels and evaluating personnel will be the responsibilities of the new director, Moore noted. Before the department head steps aboard, Moore and the EMTs will concentrate on smoothing out the transition.

EMS will not make the physical move to the hospital grounds until mid-November, when a mobile home that was just purchased by the village is expected to be delivered. Workers are now preparing a site adjacent to the hospital where the trailer will be located.

Moore said an emphasis on in-house training and education will signal the first changes in the ambulance operation. But the most noticeable change will be an actual decrease in visibility.

"The first visible impact may be that they won't be as visible. People won't see the ambulance on the street as much," he said.

Concentrating on maintaining a high skill level on the staff is not the only improvement that is planned. Village manager Jim Hine has applied to the state Emergency Medical Services Bureau for a grant that will go toward buying a new ambulance and additional emergency equipment. Hine said the village acquires the grant every year, and that it has been as high as $8,000.

Moore also plans to hire two more EMTs as soon as possible to take the load off the present crew, which will have to work 24 hours on, 24 hours off shifts in the interim. Moore complimented Rita Robertson for helping prepare the groundwork for the transition. "She's worked extremely hard to get it all together," he said. "She's been very, very cooperative."

As far as the effects on the staff, Robertson said she has not had a chance to think about it, and that she "won't know about the change until it happens."

But the cooperation Robertson already has exhibited is one of the initial goals Moore is shooting for as he integrates the EMTs into the working atmosphere at the hospital.

"I feel confident the crew is a good group of people," he said. "We will start molding the relationship between the medical staff and EMS."

Training programs at the hospital will be directed to increasing EMS capabilities in the field. And Moore believes the staff must be of the highest caliber to deal with emergencies in this expanding town.

"As the community grows, we're going to see more trauma and injuries that will have to be treated in the field," he predicted. "We're going to build up the confidence level so they will have more capability in the field."

"The timing is just right," Moore concluded.

The EMS phone number will remain the same. If you need an ambulance call 257-7365.

NOW UNITED. Ruidoso Emergency Medical Services and the Ruidoso-Hondo Valley Hospital are now under the same management as the hospital takes over operation of EMS from the Village of Ruidoso beginning today.

Chamber concert exceeds expectations

by BARBY GRANT
Staff Writer

The first Ruidoso chamber music concert, co-sponsored by New Mexico State University (NMSU) and the cultural committee of the Chamber of Commerce and hosted by the Inn of the Mountain Gods October 23, has to be considered an overwhelming success.

According to several head counts, more than 200 people packed into the Mesalero B Room, which was set up for about 75, to hear the Delphin Trio perform on cello, piano and violin.

"The number we had anticipated would have been great by anybody's standards for a first-time event like this," said Chamber of Commerce executive director Ed Jungbluth last week. The concert was scheduled to begin at 7 p.m. but, with people still packing in at that time, Jungbluth approached cellist James Pittz to apologize for the delay.

Jungbluth reported Pittz replied, "What a great reason to be delayed."

"It was everything we had hoped it would be," cultural committee chairperson Katherine Finley noted. "An overflow crowd with standing room only responded enthusiastically to a musical performance par excellence."

"The response certainly evidenced a need for the classics," she added.

The cultural committee had only recently been reorganized for the purpose of sponsoring the NMSU chamber music series. Finley said "I really think that the response to the first concert dispelled any doubts about what the goal of the cultural committee needs to be—to provide the best possible musical education for the community."

That will certainly be one of the goals of the committee," she added.

It certainly has a good head start, with eight additional concerts already planned. The next three in the chamber music series will be presented at First Christian Church and hosted by a local service club. A November 20 concert will feature clarinet, cello and piano music and will be hosted by the Ruidoso Altruza Club.

All concerts will be free of charge to the public, Jungbluth and Finley emphasized. Donations are being sought only for the establishment of a scholarship fund for the purpose of enabling talented young people to attend the annual summer string workshops.

The workshops will be directed by NMSU faculty members and will give about 30 high school and college age students the opportunity to receive intense training in the performance of chamber music. The first workshop is scheduled for two weeks in August 1983 at the La Junta Guest Ranch in Alto. Several recitals and concerts for the public are planned in conjunction with the workshop.

A goal of $10,000 has been set up for the scholarship fund, Jungbluth reported. That amount would permit the workshop tuition charge to be cut considerably so that a greater number of highly talented students could afford to attend.

Jungbluth said establishment of the scholarship program in Ruidoso would guarantee local participation in the selection of students for each workshop. Qualified local students would thus be given top priority among applicants, Jungbluth noted.

The status of plans for the scholarship fund will be discussed at an organizational meeting of the cultural committee

November 10.

Finley expressed excitement about the potential of the cultural committee's plans and about the future of the NMSU chamber music program in Ruidoso.

"The positive affirmation (at last Saturday's concert) is an omen for the remaining '83 concerts," she said.

Growing Capitan has water woes

by BILLY ALLSTETTER
Staff Writer

Capitan is a town that is attracting more and more people. There is plenty of room to expand. Land is less expensive than in Ruidoso. Virginia Spall, Capitan village clerk, said the town could easily double its size by annexing the growing subdivisions on the west and north sides of town.

But there is no water for expansion and the village council's plan to expand the municipal water system has evaporated almost before it started.

The wells in the Capitan area are poor at best. If a person drills a well and it isn't dry, there's a good chance it will deliver only terrible tasting water at a very slow rate.

H. N. LaRue said the water at his farm off Highway 48 is undrinkable. Even coffee cannot disguise the taste enough to make it drinkable.

Capitan gets better surface water from the Eagle Creek Intercommunity Water Supply Association. When Eagle Creek is not running, Capitan borrows water from Bonito Lake by way of a verbal agreement with Alamogordo. The water they get from Bonito Lake is repaid when Eagle Creek is running.

What Capitan lacks is an adequate storage and filtration system. Right now the town has a 250,000-gallon storage tank. For a town of approximately 1,200 people, that is hardly enough.

During the spring, when water is flowing down Eagle Creek, Capitan can only use part of the water. Once the storage tank is full the unused water flows downstream. Then in the summer when Eagle Creek isn't running well, Capitan must rely on Alamogordo and Bonito Lake for their water.

"What we have, we're using it all," said Spall. She added that the village council is worried about the situation because there is nothing to fall back on in case of emergency.

The village council, worried about being able to supply future customers within town, has put a moratorium on any more annexations. At the last council meeting they refused to allow a group of six farmers to hook up to the water system even though the farmers offered to pay for the new line themselves.

The hope of the town is to build a raw water storage facility. Until recently the plan was to finance its construction with a revenue bond issue that would be paid for by a one percent gross receipts tax.

However, soon after Spall began the bureaucratic process necessary for arranging a bond election, she discovered that Capitan did not qualify. In order to increase the gross receipts tax there are many restrictions and qualifications that must be met.

Capitan failed to qualify because the proposed election date was not six months in advance of the application. The town also did not have an assessed valuation of $45 million. Since Lincoln County has been recently changed from a Class C to a Class B county, a special law which allows communities under 12,000 people to impose a one percent sales tax to finance water projects no longer applies.

Village council members also did not want to finance one-fourth of the project with general obligation (GO) bonds as required by law, said Spall, because that would have meant higher property taxes.

Lacking the ability to raise money through increased gross receipts tax, Spall said village council members do not know how to finance the raw water storage facility they need.

"There's not any grant money available," Spall lamented. The town cannot afford any loans of the size needed.

Leon Eggleston, former village clerk for Capitan, described Capitan's money situation as similar to that of individuals. Just as soon as the village has saved some money, he said, a piece of equipment breaks down and they have to spend all they had saved.

Capitan could raise the money through GO bonds. However, in order to raise the money needed, property taxes would rise considerably. Eggleston said that when he was clerk and looked into improving and expanding the water system he figured that property taxes would have to be hiked to $61 per $1,000 of assessed value, the highest tax structure in the country.

Spall said the village council was against any increases in property tax.

Capitan is still growing. Spall said the village has connected 12 water taps within the village limits since July. There are many more lots inside the village limits that could require water in the future. Spall estimates that there are 200 homes outside the village limits that would like to hook onto the water system.

But until they can figure a way to pay for it, Capitan will have to live from day to day with the water system it has.

Chandler pro airport

by DAVID SHEPPARD
Staff Writer

Democratic candidate for U.S. Representative Caleb Chandler came out strongly in support of the Sierra Blanca Airport Commission (SBAC) last week.

Responding to the study conducted by the National Academy of Sciences that said an airport cannot coexist with agricultural research on Fort Stanton Mesa, Chandler said, "I disagree with what they're saying."

"I'm 100 percent for the research that's going on in grazing systems, but I disagree the two can't coexist," Chandler said. "They can have an airport and New Mexico State can continue its research."

The dispute on the mesa is over 600 acres of land SBAC wants to lease from the federal Bureau of Land Management (BLM) to construct a regional airport. New Mexico State University conducts range research on the land, which is part of 26,000 acres the university maintains under a 20-year agreement with BLM.

Chandler said he supports SBAC's efforts to get an airport on the mesa, because he thinks the present Ruidoso airport damages the tourist economy by scaring off pilots. The airport, located in a heavily populated area, is one of the most dangerous in the state.

Chandler said his pilot refuses to land here, and he believes his fears are typical.

"A new airport is very important, not only because the present airport is so unsafe for pilots and Ruidoso residents, but because you're losing in the tourist industry because many people avoid the airport," Chandler claimed.

"If we're going to continue to enhance tourism in New Mexico and sell tourism to other states, we'll have to make it more attractive, and safe for them to get here."

"If it's decided that it's impossible to get the preferred site (Site B), then we'll have to look at another one. But there's no question we've got to get a new airport here."

As far as his campaign for the Second Congressional seat now held by Republican Joe Skeen, Chandler thinks his campaign is going well, and that he has a good chance to win if there is a good voter turnout Tuesday. The polls have shown him far behind the incumbent, but Chandler has no faith in the polls.

"I don't pay any attention to them. I don't believe they are accurate," he said. Chandler said evidence of the inaccuracy of state polls was proven two years ago when Democrat Bill Richardson was shown 40 points behind U.S. Representative Manuel Lujan in the race for the First Congressional District. Chandler said Richardson lost the election by only one percent.

Take a tip: save energy, money

by BILLY ALLSTETTER
Staff Writer

Remember when gasoline cost 30 cents a gallon? And propane was 20 cents a gallon? We drove eight-mile-per-gallon monsters and kept the house at a tropical 75 degrees without even thinking about it.

It didn't matter. The cost of energy was so cheap it barely even figured in our budgets.

Now that those days are gone, however, wise homeowners are doing their best to conserve energy and cut costs. Some simple measures can help a lot.

It's nice to daydream about the good old times. But let that next utility bill drop in your lap and it's sure to wake you up in a hurry. At least it should. With gasoline pushing $1.30 and propane 75 cents, we are all paying about four times what we were paying in 1970.

Winter's coming. We've already had a few warnings. Thursday morning, in fact, it was 12 degrees. The heating is being turned on more and more. Next month's heating bill should really wake you up. And if not that one, the next one after that will.

You don't have to sell your soul to pay the gas man or the electric company, however. You can pay less money to heat your house. By making your house more weathertight and observing a few simple conservation measures you can save money right away.

Saving energy, and thus money, is as much awareness as it is specific measures. If you know where you are using energy and when you are using it, then it will be easier to save.

Dennis Fisher, district customer services manager for Texas-New Mexico Power Company, says cooling and heating use the most energy. According to Department of Energy statistics, electric space heating accounts for 58 percent of your year-round bill.

Fisher estimates that if you use gas to heat your house it is more like 42-48 percent of your bill. Your hot water accounts for 18 percent of your bill, and your refrigerator—five percent.

These statistics represent percentages of your year-round bill. Obviously in the next few months space heating will account for a much larger percentage of your bill. If you don't mind the size of your gas bill, then you can turn the page and read about something else. But if you are paying more than you like, here are a few tips that can save you money.

Fisher and Rick Kuerston, the Buckeye Gas Plant manager, both emphasize that the easiest and most cost efficient method of reducing your bill is to turn down the thermostat.

If it is 68 degrees outside, most people consider it a beautiful day. Why not turn your thermostat down to 68 degrees, or even less? Wear a warm shirt or a sweater and don't walk around the house barefoot and you will most likely be perfectly comfortable.

Fisher said that for every degree you turn down your thermostat you save three to five percent of your electric heating bill. Turn the thermostat down five degrees and that means a 15-25 percent savings. The figures are different for gas heating but there is still bound to be a significant savings.

Once you have your house warm, it doesn't help any to have that expensive air leak out and heat the outdoors. Fisher said that air infiltration—or more simply, holes in your house—is the greatest source of heat loss. By simply using a few tubes of caulk and some weatherstripping, you can save up to 25 percent on your heating bill.

There are numerous places for heat to leak out of your house. You should caulk around all your windows, pipe openings and any other crack or hole in the siding.

Your doors are another source of heat loss. If you have a one-eighth-inch crack all around your door, that would be the same as a hole four inches in diameter in your wall. You would certainly plug that up. Weatherstripping can plug the cracks in your doors.

Granted, this measure costs a little money, but it is one of the most cost effective ways of spending money on your house.

"Usually we find that one caulking session repays itself in one winter," says Fisher. Caulking and weatherstripping last for many years.

Your fireplace is another of the main sources of heat loss in the winter. It may heat your house when the fire is roaring, but as soon as it cools down, any breeze blowing outside sucks that warm air in your house right up the chimney.

Close your damper when you are not using your fireplace. The damper should fit tightly with no holes or spaces.

The problem occurs when you go to bed and the fire is still burning. It is not until the middle of the night that it cools and begins to lose heat up the chimney. The way to prevent this is with glass doors or some other sort of fireproof fireplace cover that will prevent so much air flow.

"I can't stress enough the importance of a properly working fireplace," said Fisher.

These are general recommendations. If you want to know more precisely how you use and waste energy, the Texas-New Mexico Power Company will perform a free energy audit on your home.

The trained professional who evaluates your house will give you specific recommendations how to save energy, and savings estimates.

The price of heating your house is not going to get cheaper. As OPEC countries limit production of oil, the steady demand will drive the price up and up.

Iran's political situation was not unique. The upheaval that occurred in that country could easily happen in others, disrupting oil supplies and driving the price of oil sky high.

It's worth it to make a few changes that will save you money on your energy bill. And it will be more worthwhile in the future.

Local man injured in fall

A local man is in critical condition at St. Mary's Hospital in Roswell with apparent head injuries suffered in a fall from a tree Saturday afternoon.

Patrolman Oscar Villado of the Ruidoso Police Department said Larry Garrison was hurt when he fell from a rope connected to a tree.

Villado said Garrison had tied one end of the rope to the top of the tree and connected the other end to a house porch, and attempted to slide down the length of the rope when a safety belt he was holding on to snapped. Villado estimated Villado fell about 50 feet and landed on his upper back.

Garrison was rushed to Ruidoso-Hondo Valley Hospital by ambulance and was later transported to St. Mary's. A spokeswoman for St. Mary's said this morning he was in critical condition, but she would not release the extent of his injuries.

The accident occurred on Cedar Creek Court at 2 p.m. Saturday, according to the police log.

Timberline takes third

The Timberline Band of Ruidoso placed third in Seagram's International Battle of the Bands, Saturday, October 23, in Nashville, Tennessee.

The competition began with 1,606 country and western bands competing in clubs across the nation. The Timberline Band won the state championship in August at Las Cruces.

For their third-place finish the band won $2,000 and the opportunity to record a single record for free. Eddie Black, the mother of band member Roy Black, said more importantly, the band received lots of exposure to recording companies and agents.

The band was supported in its competitive efforts by 20 to 25 family members who went to Nashville, said Mrs. Black. She added that the band is still in Nashville talking to agents and publicity people but will return to Ruidoso sometime next week.

Timberline is Kim Blakey, Roy Black, Craig Yuetter and Donnie Finnemore.

Is Southern Methodist University (SMU) starting a dynasty in Southwest Conference (SWC) football?

The Mustangs, who took a decisive 30-17 victory over always powerful University of Texas (UT) last week and a crushing 47-9 win over Texas A&M Saturday, won the conference title last season but couldn't go to a bowl game because they were on probation.

Now the Mustangs are off probation and certainly in line for a major bowl bid and a conference championship.

The Mustangs have possibly the best one-two pair of running backs in the country in Craig James and Eric Dickerson, the "Pony Express."

This talented running duo has spearheaded the Mustangs' drive to the conference championship this season. Both have plenty of speed and power and have caused havoc for SMU's opponents this season.

The SWC, probably one of the three or four toughest conferences in the country, is again tough this season with the University of Arkansas, Texas and the University of Houston also very highly rated.

Texas is not as strong as in the past, lack of depth and injuries having hurt the Longhorns this season. The Razorbacks are outstanding at quarterback and Houston has plenty of size and speed, as always.

The rest of the conference is competitive. Even Tech Tech University (TTU), which has been a doormat in the past, almost defeated the powerful University of Washington last week.

For SMU to build a dynasty would be a difficult thing to do in the tough SWC. Teams with outstanding traditions like the Longhorns and the Razorbacks are too tough to establish a dominance over. However, the Mustangs appear to have established a program which should rank with the best in the country for several seasons.

Losing seasons are extremely tough to take, particularly at the high school level.

The young Ruidoso High School varsity football team, which won its first game Friday night, isn't the only team to be experiencing a losing and frustrating campaign.

My old high school in California is currently 1-6-1 on the season and most of its defeats have been lopsided, the latest one a 39-6 decision.

My old alma mater has seldom had winning seasons in its 22-year history and it has won only one title, that coming in 1976.

The fall athletic season hasn't been much fun for hardly anyone (except possibly Milwaukee Brewer and St. Louis Cardinals baseball fans) so it's good to see the National Basketball Association and National Hockey League seasons begin.

Douglass' catch sets up winning score

But Ruidoso was not to be denied, in this, its ninth game of the season.

The Warriors drove from their 20 to the T or C seven before the drive ended on downs. Some good running by Williamson, Flack and Strobel and a 24-yard pass play from Woodul to Lueras sparked the drive. Just after the Ruidoso drive ended, the Warriors got a break when linebacker Tommy Crow recovered a fumble on the nine.

Douglass caught a three-yard pass on the sidelines that put the ball on the six. On the next play, Woodul kept the ball and ran to his left into the end zone for the score with 5:48 left in the contest. A pass for the extra point was intercepted and the Warriors trailed by a 16-12 margin.

The Ruidoso defense, which played one of its best games of the season, got tough and held the Tigers without a first down on the hosts' next series.

T or C punted the ball and Williamson returned the ball to the Warrior 41. Then Ruidoso started its drive for the winning touchdown.

Flack ran for 16 yards to the Tiger 43. Two plays later, Woodul hit Douglass with a pass on the left sidelines and the senior receiver ran for 32 yards to the T or C seven and a first down.

The Warriors still had to struggle, however.

Williamson gained nothing on one run and Strobel lost three yards on a sweep. On third down, Strobel was stopped for no gain at the 11.

Then came Palmer's winning touchdown catch as the junior got behind two defenders for the score.

Woodul then hit Lueras at the left side of the end zone for the two-point conversion and the Warriors led by the final score of 20-16.

The Tigers got the ball back on their 22 but two incomplete passes and a reverse around the left side got nothing as the clock ran out and the Warriors' losing streak was ended.

The Warriors played good, clutch defense the entire game. One time a Tiger touchdown was averted when safety Cyrus Simmons tackled a T or C runner after a long run at the Warrior three and Lueras recovered the football.

Ruidoso also played mistake-free football as the Tigers constantly had problems with penalties.

Coach Stierwalt was naturally pleased with the Warriors' victory.

"The defense played one of its better games and the offense played well also," he said. "I think Billy Woodul had the finest game of his career. He had two touchdown passes and ran for another one. "The defense gave up some yardage between the 20 yard lines but was tough inside. Kyle Flack did a great job on both offense and defense."

The Warriors rolled up 269 yards total offense, their fourth best total of the season. Woodul had 125 yards passing while the Ruidoso running attack gained 144 yards.

The Warriors will end the season with a game at Silver City Friday night. The Colts clinched a tie for the district 3-AAA title with a crushing 35-0 victory at Tularosa Friday. In another district contest, Deming moved into second place with a tough 14-7 win over Cobre.

Silver City leads the district with a 4-0 record. Deming is 3-1 and Tularosa 2-2. Ruidoso, Cobre and T or C each have 1-3 records.

FINALLY A VICTORY. Ruidoso High School players cheer wildly on the sidelines during the final moments of the Warriors' 20-16 victory over host Truth or Consequences Friday night. It was the Warriors' first win of the season and head coach Darrel Stierwalt was carried off the field by his players afterwards.

Warrior spikers split two matches

The Ruidoso High School girls varsity volleyball team finished the round-robin district 3-AAA season with a 5-5 record as a result of a Saturday split with hosts Silver City and Cobre.

Ruidoso defeated Silver City in three sets. The Warriors took the first set by a 15-8 score but lost the second 15-11. However, Ruidoso came back to win the third set and the match with a 15-4 score.

Against Cobre in the nightcap, the Warriors took the first set by a 15-3 score but lost the next two sets, 12-15, 3-15.

As a result of Saturday's competition, Ruidoso finished in a tie for third place with Deming. The Warriors will host either Cobre or Tularosa Thursday night in the district tournament opener.

If the Warriors win a coin flip with Deming, they'll host Cobre. If they lose, they'll host Tularosa.

"The girls just played fantastic against Silver City," said head coach Elmer Chavez. "Lori (Morel) and Kody (Taylor) played especially well. Against Cobre we were tired. It was a 7:30 p.m. match and the girls were tired from the long ride and hadn't eaten since 8:30 that morning."

The Warriors finished the regular overall season with a 9-7 mark, the first time they've had a winning record since joining the AAA division.

Truth or Consequences finished first in the district season and Silver City was second. Deming and Ruidoso tied for third. Tularosa was fifth and Cobre sixth.

Warrior girl cagers, boy wrestlers begin

The Ruidoso High School girls basketball team and boys wrestling team began practice today in the Warrior gym. Sergio Castanon is the head coach of the girls basketball team and Gerald Ames is the head wrestling coach.

The first wrestling tournament is scheduled for Saturday, November 20, at the New Mexico School for the Visually Handicapped. The Warrior girls will open the season at the Weed Tournament December 2-4.

Ruidoso junior varsity loses finale

The Ruidoso High School junior varsity football team ended its 1982 season with a 19-0 loss to Goddard High School's ninth graders Thursday night in Roswell.

Goddard, which defeated Ruidoso 36-0 in the first meeting between the two teams earlier in the season, scored its three touchdowns on long running plays. Otherwise, the winless Warriors held the Rocket offense in check.

The two teams battled to a scoreless tie in the first quarter but the Rockets scored on a 44-yard run early in the second period. A run for the two-point conversion was stopped short of the goal line as the runner fumbled the ball.

The Warriors mounted a couple of drives into Goddard territory in the first half, helped by some solid running by Manuel Montano, normally a defensive tackle. Montano, a 5-0, 126 pounder, ran for 25 yards in six carries.

Goddard broke the game open in the final quarter, scoring two more touchdowns on long runs.

The Rockets scored on a 40-yard run with 8:12 remaining in the game. Chip Ramsey of the Warriors blocked the extra point kick and Goddard held a 12-0 advantage.

Ruidoso didn't get a first down on its next series and had to punt. The two teams traded offensive series before Brett Maul of Ruidoso recovered a fumble on the Goddard 19.

A five-yard offside penalty put the Warriors back on the 24 and two incomplete passes made it fourth down. Quarterback Kenny Espinoza hit Justin Smith for a 10-yard gain to the 14 but the Warriors were short of a first down by four yards. The Rockets added their final touchdown on a 40-yard run with 47 seconds left in the contest. The extra point kick was good and Goddard had a 19-0 victory.

Linebacker Tommy Crow and Smith played well on defense for the Warriors as each recovered a fumble.

"The kids played a lot better than they did the first time we played Goddard," he said. "Their three touchdowns came on long runs. They didn't get a sustained drive on us."

"The biggest plus about this season was the fact we got a chance to play a lot of young kids. That should help us next season. This was the smallest junior varsity team I've coached but we plan to work a lot with the weights during the off season and get the kids ready."

Tiger rally overtakes Carrizozo

Carrizozo closed the half without scoring, but on an attempt to recover a fumble in the series of downs, tight end Eddie Davis of Carrizozo injured an arm and was taken off the field by ambulance.

After a pass interference call brought the ball into Carrizozo territory on Carrizozo's first possession of the second half, the Grizzlies shut down the Tigers and forced them to punt from midfield.

Rouche grabbed the punt at his own 11, scampered up the right side and blew past the Carrizozo punting squad for an 89-yard touchdown run. Following the kick it was 14-7 Carrizozo, and the rowdy Carrizozo fans fell into silence.

But the Tigers would not let their supporters go home disappointed.

The next Carrizozo series after the TD produced a play that ignited both the Tiger offense and defense, and started the flood that was to deluge the spirited Grizzlies in the third quarter.

On a second and eight from the 42, Keller and McElhannon teamed up for a superbly executed pass play that brought the ball to the Carrizozo 11 yard line. Aguilar took a pitchout on the next down and eluded Grizzly defenders into the end zone.

Capitan tried for a two-point conversion, but a penalty stopped the play and the score was 14-13 Carrizozo with 9:40 left in the third.

Capitan failed to regain the ball on an on-side kick, but it hardly mattered. On a third and 10 call from the Carrizozo 33, Rouche missed his running back on a pitchout. Carrizozo's Gid Allen picked up the fumble on a bounce and ran it all the way in for a 19-14 Carrizozo lead. The kick made it 20-14 with 8:28 remaining in the quarter.

of the regular season and the 51st meeting between the 1-A rivals—erupted in jubilation that lasted until the final horn.

Carrizozo could do nothing on its next possession. Carrizozo had the ball on its 30 yard line following a Grizzly punt. On first down, Beavers broke up the middle and snatched a pass from Keller. The tired Carrizozo defenders could not catch Beavers and he danced in for a 26-14 score. The kick failed.

The teams traded possessions after the score. Carrizozo recovered a Carrizozo fumble on the Grizzlies' 29 and ended the quarter with a second and seven on the 26.

Capitan again scored on the first play of the final quarter as McElhannon ran a pass in to make it 32-14. The kick made it 33-14 and it looked like the game was over.

The teams traded turnovers in the fourth quarter. Carrizozo, which played well in the game but had its performance overshadowed by some big Tiger plays, recovered a Carrizozo fumble on the Tigers' 35 and drove in to score on four downs. Sophomore Steve Stearns carried the ball in from the three yard line to close the gap to 33-20 with 3:20 left.

The Grizzlies tried an on-side kick, but Tiger Todd Proctor held onto the ball. That was the last gasp for Carrizozo as Carrizozo kept the ball on the ground the rest of the way and ran out the clock.

The Carrizozo sideline roared as the seconds ticked off—and the players ensured another post-season berth for the 1-A school.

TWO HOT SHOOTERS. Carl Kelly (left) and Butch Jacobs show off the high powered rifles they used in the High Powered Rifle National Silhouette Championships last month in Phoenix, Arizona. Kelly finished first in the B division competition and Jacobs was fourth in the AA division.

Local shooters place in nationals

by GARY BROWN
Sports Writer

Carl Kelly and Butch Jacobs have been around guns since they were small boys.

So it's not surprising the two Ruidoso residents rank among the top silhouette shooters in the country.

In the High Powered Rifle National Silhouette Championships in Phoenix, Arizona, early last month, Kelly won the B division championship and Jacobs finished fourth in the A division competition.

The competition lasted three days and each shooter fired at metallic animal targets against a background on a 500-meter range.

Each shooter was entered into a division according to how he or she did in the first day's competition. The more targets each shooter knocked off, the higher the division the shooter entered.

The AAA division was the toughest division, followed by AA, A and B. There were around 270 shooters in the competition, including about 10 women. Shooters from the United States, Mexico and Canada participated in the competition.

Kelly knocked off 43 of 100 targets in the B division and Jacobs hit 42 of 100 in the A division. Jacobs used a modified seven-millimeter magnum rifle and Kelly a modified .308 one-and-three-quarter rifle in the competition.

"The competition was exciting," Kelly—a lifetime resident of Ruidoso—said. "I'd never competed in a national shooting competition before."

Kelly has been involved with silhouette shooting for around two years. Jacobs started in January of this year. Unlike Kelly, Jacobs is not a lifetime resident of Ruidoso, having been born in Kansas.

"I started using pistols when I first started silhouette shooting," Kelly remarked. "We've done some shooting at the Ruidoso Gun Club about once a month."

Kelly helped build the gun club range east of Ruidoso Downs about two years ago and has been a steady participant in the shooting contests held there since then. Jacobs has also competed in the competition at the gun club.

The results in the national contest proved that Kelly and Jacobs have learned a lot from competing at the Ruidoso Gun Club.

In another under-eight match Saturday, the Celtic toppled the Bandits 8-1. Under-12 action saw the Rowdies blank the Strikers 2-0 and the Cosmos and Tornado tie 3-3. However, the Cosmos-Tornado match was protested and will be replayed at 4 p.m. Wednesday at the middle school. The winner of that match will meet the Rowdies for the title Saturday. In under-16 action, the Celtic fell to Las Cruces 3-2 Saturday and blanked the Strikers 3-0 Sunday.

A Few More Words About My Birthday

If you will forgive me, I would like to say a word or so more about my birthday season recently passed, not so much to talk about myself and my good fortune as from a sense of gratitude and appreciation for the great kindness that abides in the great kindness that abides in the human heart — and in particular in times of birthdays, and other occasions of fond remembrance.

Well let's see, I think I left off saying that I looked forward to going up to The Hollywood branch bank where the girls had a birthday cake waiting and, also another birthday cake at the Ruidoso News Office.

The Leaf Shower

As I arrived at the Glencoe post office to pick up my mail, that beautiful post mistress, Della Bonnell, met me at the door saying, "I haven't met you, so this will have to do."

And with that she showered me with double hand full of golden Autumn Leaves — walnut, box elder, apple, poplar, and cottonwood, that Jack Frost, with help of the west wind, was showering the Autumn world.

Among the the cards was one from Della telling me to "count your years by friends instead of years."

By this way if counting I am a trillionaire.

Immunization schedule

Monday, November 1: Carrizozo Clinic — to be held at the L.C.H.O. Courthouse Annex from 8:30 a.m.-4:30 p.m.

Wednesday, November 3: Capitan Clinic — to be held at the Capitan School from 10:00 a.m.-2:00 p.m.

Thursday, November 4: Hondo Clinic — to be held at the Hondo School from 10:00 a.m.-2:00 p.m.

Monday, November 8: Ruidoso Clinic — to be held at White Mountain School from 10:00 a.m.-2:00 p.m.

Wednesday, November 10: Corona Clinic — to be held at the Corona School from 10:00 a.m.-2:00 p.m.

A parent or guardian must accompany every child to be immunized.

Anyone interested in Family Planning or Well Child Clinic appointments, please call 648-2412.

"The Great Question."
Up at the branch bank of the Ruidoso State Bank at Hollywood here were the four little ladies, who greeted me with an angelic chorus of "Happy Birthday, Dear Dan," as I entered the door.

These four whose beauty is exceeded only by their kindness of heart, are Cheryl Smith, Debbie Perry, Beth DeAngelo and Jerri Hazel. They presented me with a card decorated with blue birds, four signatures with four birthday messages.

The beautiful chocolate cake, baked by Cheryl, had one lit candle in the shape of a question mark. After making a wish and blowing out the candle, we all had cake and coffee.

I will always be grateful to these four wonderful ladies.

Rejoicing In The News Room

On up at the Ruidoso News Office, again the birthday song echoed through the building full of wonderful people. And here was a large coconut cake baked by that queen of ladies, Glo Lane. Here again we rejoiced over coffee and cake, together like one happy family. I left with my heart and step very light, and my heart glowing with gratitude, after all the cheery good wishes and congratulations.

"The Wee Blue House On The Hillside"

Often times when I am out at the home of brother Lynn, and Maxine near the golf course, I am reminded of one of the songs of Harry Lauder, world famous entertainer of his day:

"There's a Wee House on The Hillside"
Here on the evening of my birthday, the clouds were moving in, and the sun beyond, on its way down sent many a crimson and gold radiance into these clouds, in celebration.

Here were Lynn, Maxine, Joe and Kathleen Redinger. Maxine had one of the finest of her many wonderful dinners; and Kathleen had baked me a blueberry pie for a birthday cake — as our mother had baked me when I was seven years old.

I was presented with two fine gifts; and the spirit that went with them I could feel brightening the evening like a charm.

Here at the "Wee Blue House" I received the crowning blessing of a blessed day; and went down the valley, "On My Way Rejoicing" in the words of the old favorite hymn.

A Word of thanks For the Cards

Until I can thank you personally, I want to tell you who sent cards how much they meant to me on this milestone of Life.

I received cards in the mail from Mike and Wanda Dunn, of Healdton, Oklahoma; Lois and Leo Norton of Dallas, Johnson Stearns, Carizozo; The Delhotel family; Hazel Stolberg, Roswell; Alan and Ruth Reynolds; Effie Mehlich, Dexter; Gene and Inez Nash; Bob and Betty Lambert; Della and David Bonnell and children; And Lula Ruppels, son Rover and dog, Chico Botch, of Bonito Valley. (Lula has a birthday November nine).

I also thank all of you for your good wishes that came on the "Thought waves" from everywhere.

10% FOR THE JUDGE

Bill Payne for Lincoln County Judge—tell me something else funny. Let's draw straws and try again.

Once upon a time I got a bill from Mr. Payne for four hours work, $3,500. I choked me up. But he was serious. I went and talked to Billy Payne and he assured me all was right, just pay up or go to court. So I paid him $1,000. He said it was a good start but he needed more. So in three years Mr. Payne, Mr. Mitchell and Mr. Quigley took me to court to collect the balance of $2,500 plus interest and attorney's fees.

I hired another lawyer and we went to court. The honorable Judge threw out the case. I didn't get back my $1,000, but I learned a lesson. We need honest men in our Government. Our Judges above all should be above reproach with no prejudice or hidden animosities.

I hope you fellow Lincoln County residents will ask around and be very selective about who you vote for. Please don't vote Payne.

Respectfully,
T. Coe

SANTA FE — Questions. Questions. Questions.

In the column writing business, you have to scrutinize your own motives. Why did you push the things you push? Why are you opposed to the things you are opposed to?

You could spend your life worrying over things like that.

Yet when a well-meaning young attorney, a part of the vast tentacles of state government, asks you a question like, "Why are you so worried about what's going on in the State Investment Office?" you feel obliged to come up with some kind of answer.

Answer (therefore):

— This office, which for all too long has been an obscure part of the Department of Finance and Administration, has grown in the last year to first place in state government.

Why say that?

Because of the money involved. That doesn't mean the amount of money in investments overseen; that has been enormous for many years, even when we Sap Citizens didn't realize it.

What's up now is the amount of money paid in salaries.

Herschel Pittenger, the investment officer, makes $60,000 a year. With the exception of certain physicians and university presidents, who are exceptions to every rule when it comes to payroll, that makes him the highest paid man in state government after the Governor.

Bet you didn't know that, did you?

That little arrangement was more or less sneaked through with little advertence to it from the media.

And what did Pittenger do after he got the job?

Well, he immediately hired two assistants at $30,000 per year each — after he had lured them here and wined and dined them and their wives at a cost of $500. That's a lot of dough for wining and dining.

When was the last time anybody wanted to hire you badly enough to pay that kind of money to get your attention?

Has Pittenger learned anything from the fact that some of us thought that was a little excessive?

Not so you'd notice it.

If the Legislature accepted the budget he has prepared for the coming year, he would spend $11,000 on recruiting new people for his division.

If he got that money (which he won't) that would be more than anybody else in state government has in his or her budget for recruiting anybody.

Is that all bad? Probably not.

But it's part of a pattern.

Pittenger appears to this writer to press too hard, to try too much to bulldoze both the Investment Council for which he works and such legislative committees as he is responsible to.

He sounds like a man in a hurry — as though he had some aim he had to achieve in a short time, maybe by January 1. That makes some of us uncomfortable.

Here in old simple New Mexico government, we just want to be folks — not sophisticated investors who control large funds, and thus may get consideration and even favors from the big brokerage houses with which we place our business.

We like things to be up-front and clear. We don't like to feel hurried into things. Forget the flamboyance and the big "sell."

Give us a little time to think quietly, so we can decide if this is the way we want to run New Mexico.

From "The Street" to Old Pecos Trail is a long way. We're on the latter. Don't try to make it into Wall Street.

An open letter to the voters of Lincoln County from Tom Sullivan, Democratic Candidate for Lincoln County Sheriff:

I grew up in Las Cruces, New Mexico where I attended grade school and graduated from high school. I also lived in Santa Fe one year and Roswell one year. The fact that I was not born in Lincoln County was not my fault. Pat Garrett was born in Chambers County, Alabama and grew up on a Louisiana plantation, in Clairborne Parish, yet he became the most famous of all Lincoln County Sheriffs.

I spent most of my law enforcement career working for the State of Texas. I am very proud of my career working for the State of Texas, and I received very valuable training in all phases of law enforcement, that was paid for by the State of Texas. I would like to put this training to work for you, the citizens of Lincoln County.

I returned to the beautiful state of New Mexico because this is my home state and I wanted to raise my children here.

I am not politically obligated to anyone, and if elected, I will treat all citizens of Lincoln County fairly and impartially, regardless of race, color or creed.

I feel that with my experience, education and training, I have the best credentials to represent you as your elected sheriff.

I am a resident of Lincoln County by choice not by chance.

Please vote for Tom Sullivan for Lincoln County Sheriff Nov.2

Tom Sullivan

P.S. I have been informed by the New Mexico Law Enforcement Academy that I can be CERTIFIED by waiver because of my extensive training and education, as soon as I am elected Sheriff.

P.S.S. County Sheriffs are NOT required by law to be certified.

Dear editor:

The Ladies Auxiliary of Ruidoso Downs wants to thank those that contributed toward the gun that we gave away October 10th.

The project will enable us to purchase a PA system for the Village Council room and paint the municipal building.

A special thanks to the Mule Skinners Organization for allowing us to sell tickets and hold the drawing, for the gun, at the races.

The ladies will be having a Christmas bake sale and bazaar on December 4, 1982, at the Village Hall in Ruidoso Downs. They will offer Christmas gifts, decorations, and homemade bake goods. The proceeds will also go toward helping the village.

Myrl West, President

Dear editor:

This letter is in reference to the guidelines commonly used for a valid estimate of consumption of water in small towns and subdivisions. At the very outset, I must indicate that there is no one unique formula to determine water consumption in a small community. However, there is a set of variables which could be used to reach such an estimate. One such set of variables is as follows:

1. Physiological water requirement is 1.5 gallons per capita per day.

2. Sanitary requirements are 10 to 20 gallons per capita per day.

3. Rational household requirements are 30 gallons per capita per day.

4. Public requirements (washing street, fire, swimming pools, public toilets) five to ten gallons per capita per day.

5. Industrial requirements (car wash, hospital, mortuary, and other industry, etc.) 35 gallons per capita per day. In average use this ranges from 20% to 60% of total water used.

6. Loss (due to waste and leakage in distribution lines) is 25 gallons per capita per day.

Therefore, the per capita consumption of water daily in small cities is approximately 100 gallons.

There are also standardized methods of reaching valid estimates for water storage facilities. In the Ruidoso area, there are usually two types of storage facilities commonly employed for this purpose. These are (a) elevated storage, and (b) pressure tanks.

In elevated tanks one community should have a capacity which is at least equal to two days' average consumption requirements. Let us calculate the required capacity in elevated storage for a subdivision with 20 houses. This is done as follows: storage capacity = 100 (water consumption per capita per day) x 3.5 (average number of persons in a family in New Mexico) x 20 (service connections to 20 homes) x 2 (days) = 14,000 gallons. Larger storage volume may be necessary to accommodate special demands, such as fire fighting or seasonal variations.

The capacity of pressure tanks is usually small when compared to the total daily water consumption. Tanks are customarily designed to accommodate only momentary peak demands because only 10 to 20 percent of tank capacity is available. The maximum steady demand which can be delivered by a pneumatic system is equal to the pump capacity. Generally, the pressure tank should be approximately ten times the pump capacity in gallons per minute. Naturally it is advisable to select a pump large enough to satisfy the peak demands.

Pressure tanks for individual home installations should have a capacity of at least 42 gallons, or about 10 to 15 gallons per person served. The volume can also be computed with the aid of a simple formula as follows: $Q = Q_m \div (1 - P(1) \div P(2))$.

Where Q is the tank volume in gallons, Q_m is equal to 15 minutes of storage at peak rate, $P(1)$ is the minimum absolute operating pressure (14.7 pounds per square inch), and $P(2)$ is the maximum absolute pressure. Let us take an example to explain the use of this formula. Suppose that a pressure tank is to be used for a water system which has a peak demand of 30 gallons per minute, and that the gauge pressure on the tank could be allowed to vary from 40 to 60 pounds per square inch. Then $P(1) \div P(2) = (40 \div 14.7) \div (60 \div 14.7) = 0.73$ and $Q_m = 15 \text{ min.} \times 30 \text{ gallons per minute} = 450 \text{ gallons}$. Therefore, $Q = 450 \div (1 - 0.73) = 1,667 \text{ gallons}$. Again, I would like to reiterate that these are merely general guide lines, and special situations and/or demands of water consumption shall require appropriate handling of these variables.

Hari Mukhoty

Dear editor:

In response to the letter published regarding the Sweepstakes winner of floats in Our Aspen Festival Parade.

This person brings to my mind the group banning the dictionary in Carlsbad schools for defining the meaning of some four, five, six etc. letter words they find offensive.

Lets bury our heads in the sand of New Mexico to prime time television, those filthy "Soap Operas", magazine racks in retail stores, public rest rooms and yes all the western movies from Roy Rogers thru the legendary John Wayne "Saloon Scenes." Those scantily dressed dancing girls weren't just selling "Sasparella Soda".

And lest we forget, "The Best Little Whorehouse in Ruidoso" was headed east back to Texas.

"I just wish those who bear such a heavy burden for overspending and taxing us into this recession could resist playing politics with the problems they caused." — President Ronald Reagan

We think this statement cuts through a lot of rhetorical garbage that has been scattered around during the past many months of this year's political campaign.

What do politicians and their spokesmen mean when they say they want to "turn the economy around"?

Will happy days be here again for them when inflation is back to 14, 15, 16 percent, and climbing; home mortgages back to 18 percent, and climbing; automobiles doubled in price in only three or four years, and climbing; people who don't produce anything, indexed and keeping up; wage-earners falling behind and then taxed ever more for a double blow?

During the past few months, we've heard Mr. Anaya and Mr. Bingaman say they're going to "turn the economy around." We've heard Mr. Irick and Mr. Schmitt say they like what President Reagan is doing.

Tuesday we're voting for the folks who have already started turning the economy around and who want to continue in the same direction. We don't want any part of those who want to go back three years.

Vote Tuesday — for John Irick and Jack Schmitt.—KG

Oh my aching calves!

It was in my calf muscles that I felt the effect of pounding the pavement all one Saturday on the campaign trail.

The reason I was going door to door in the Northeast Heights of Albuquerque the Saturday before last is that my father is a candidate for the New Mexico House of Representatives from District 30.

My experience with politics always has been pretty much limited to observing, so active involvement was something new. What we did, with Big Joe working one side of the street and me the other, was go house to house delivering campaign brochures.

It didn't take me long to confirm something my dad had already observed—that Suburbia has become very, very security conscious. It seems that nearly every house has a little sticker on the door for NO! (Neighborhoods Organized to Fight Crime) or Operation Identification, or some other crime prevention program.

One house had a "Notice to Firemen: My pet is inside—will you please rescue him in case of fire?" Through the little eye-level window in the door, I could see a huge German shepherd bounding up and down, barking and growling and baring his teeth at me.

Woe to the fireman who tries to rescue him if he's not in the mood for it, thought I. Quite a few houses have what looked to be pretty sophisticated alarm systems, some with key-operated on-off switches and little red "on" lights.

I noticed that one place had little disks with a wire running out of them stuck to each pane of the front window. With a little imagination, a person could probably rig up a pretty neat fake alarm system.

The one thing that really struck me was the fact that some houses actually have bars over the windows. This is something I learned to take for granted when I lived for a while in Colombia, but it was kind of surprising to find it is now fairly common practice in Suburbia, U.S.A.

My mom was telling me that a bunch of people in the neighborhood got their car batteries ripped off recently. In fact, she said she heard something outside that night and looked out to see two people running down the street.

The next morning, people went out to find their hoods up and batteries gone. I asked my mom if she had called the police and she said no.

"Haven't you been reading my editorials?" I asked. She said the last time they called the police about something it took so long for them to respond that it did no good.

Despite the security precautions, most people still answer the doorbell, and in general they were very nice.

My spiel consisted of saying who I was, that my dad was running for State Representative, and that I just wanted to drop a brochure by—all the while holding up the brochure for them to see.

One fellow, who had been vacuuming his car in the driveway, stuck out his hand and said, "Bob McMullen is my uncle." (Bob McMullen is my dad's opponent.) But he went on to say he was glad I came by, because it showed someone cared enough to go to the trouble.

The closest thing to a hostile reception (other than that German shepherd and various other canines, ankle-biter variety), came late in the day.

My dad's brochure has the word, "Democrat," prominently displayed on the front. I said my usual, "My name is Tim Palmer etc.," to the T-shirted old guy at the door, who must have been watching a bowling tournament on TV.

"Well my name is Charles Howard, and I'm a Republican. And I've got no damn use for any Democrats. Goodbye!" Door closes on cackling laughter from within the house.

Naturally I thought of several clever things as I continued down the block that I should have said to Mr. Howard. Like, "So am I (a Republican), but I'm not bullheaded about it." Or, "You don't look successful enough to be a Republican, you slob."

But a few houses later, a lady told me she and her husband were going to vote the straight Democratic ticket because they were fed up with the Republicans, and that made me feel better.

The whole situation was making me a little confused as to where my party allegiance should lie.

In Colombia, they have an expression that a baby's political affiliation—Liberal or Conservative—is attached to his umbilical cord at birth. That country went through a period of unrest in the fifties called "La Violencia" in which an estimated quarter of a million people were killed in fighting between the two parties.

Though feelings are not that strong in this country, some people seem pretty set in their thinking.

All in all, campaigning was an eye-opening experience for me. I discovered it is hard work, and I gained a new-found respect for politicians who work their way up.

I was glad to hear my dad say that for him, the experience will have been worth it—win, lose or draw in the election.

And though all of us are tired by now of being bombarded with political rhetoric, we can be glad to live in a place where we get to choose our leaders.

CONSIDER CURACAO
Curacao is a Dutch island in the Western Caribbean—sort of Holland with palm trees. It's an interesting and different vacation spot. The island's varied cultural background is reflected in its people, architecture, culture, and art. You can find many international items in its shop.

Many old Dutch fortresses and plantation homes are open to the public; some have even been converted into restaurants. But there's also a wildlife preserve for hiking, and coral reefs for snorkeling and scuba.

Willimstad, the capital, is noted for its striking architecture. Narrow-gabled Dutch-style townhouses look very much like those in Amsterdam except for their pastel island colors.

Most shops on Curacao accept and can make change in U.S. currency, honor major credit cards, and have English-speaking sales help.

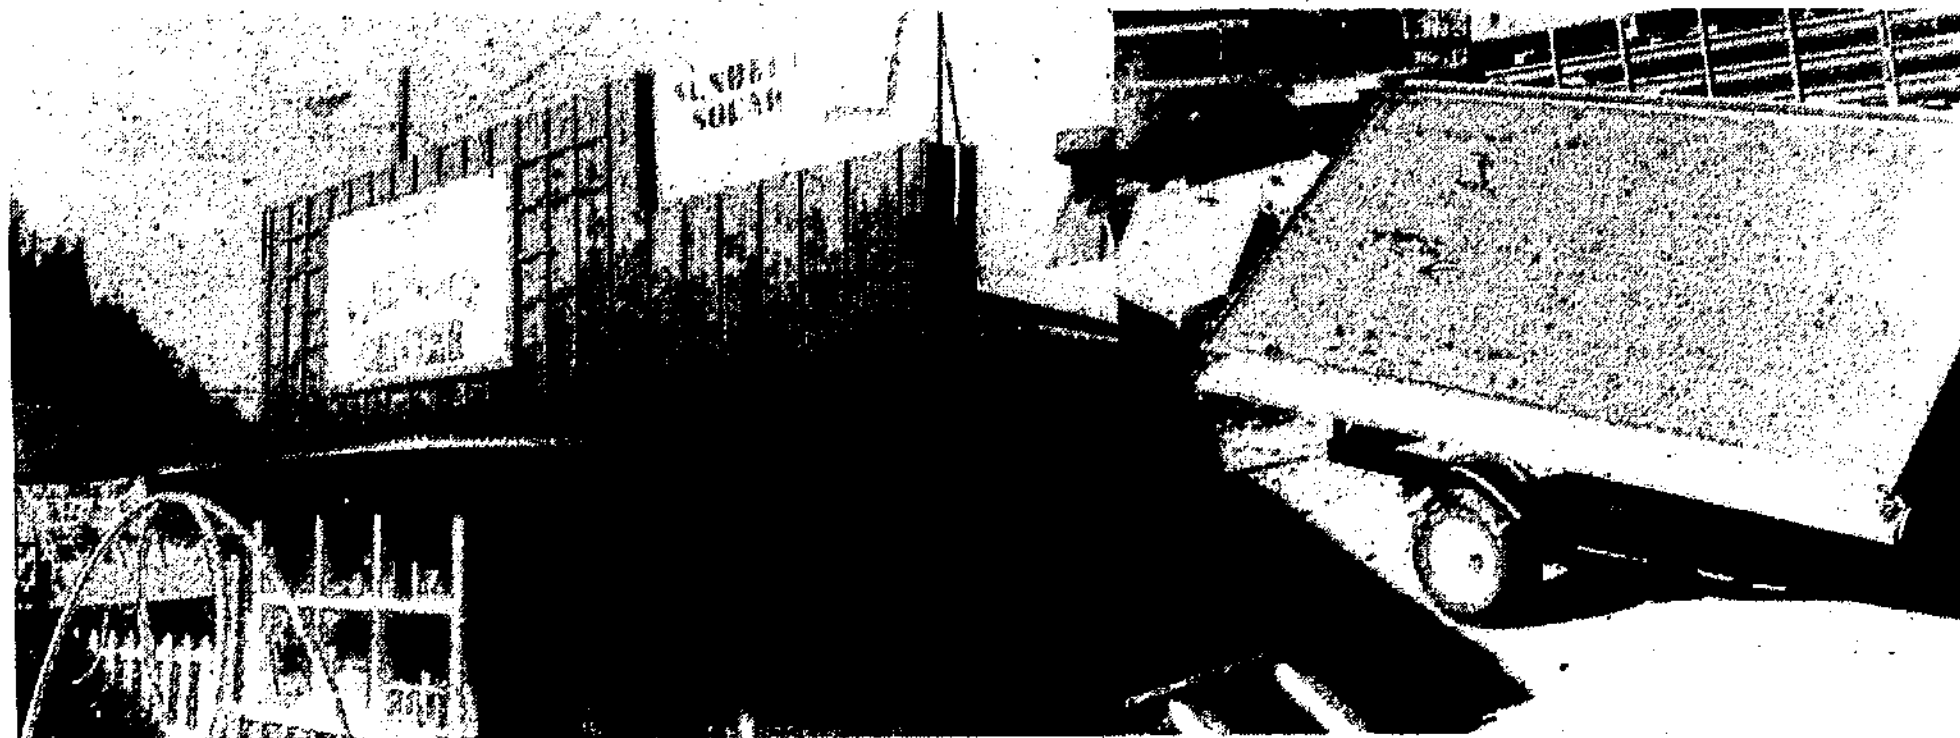

International cuisine is also a highlight—everything from Indonesian and Dutch to Creole, French, Swiss, and American.

For an island vacation, or any other, see the travel experts at Ruidoso Travel.

Movie Nostalgia

In 1946, Judy Garland and Ray Bolger (who are shown together as Dorothy and the Scarecrow in 1939's "The Wizard of Oz") starred in the sprightly musical-Western "The Harvey Girls." This MGM production told the story of a group of young, single girls in 1870 who invade a small Western town and alter the menfolks' views on love and marriage. The musical sequences in this film were lively and colorful and featured some of the snappiest choreography of that era. The film won an Academy Award in 1946 for Best Original Song. The tune, penned by Harry Warren and Johnny Mercer, sings the praises of the locomotive that brought the girls to town. Question: Can you name this Oscar-winning song?

Answer: "On the Atchinson, Topeka and Santa Fe"
