

Bill would help fund planned regional airport

BY TIM PALMER

Legislation introduced this week in Santa Fe could eventually help provide funding for construction of the planned Sierra Blanca Regional Airport (SBRA), which was recently given top priority by the State Aviation Division.

House Bill 4, introduced Tuesday at the regular session of the New Mexico Legislature by Representative Vaughn Rue Crawford of Deming, calls for distribution of certain taxes to the state aviation fund for airport construction and maintenance.

According to Ruidoso airport manager Tim Morris, president of the New Mexico Airport Managers Association, the bill would affect gross receipts tax charged on the sale of aviation products such as fuel, tires and batteries. This tax currently goes into the state general fund, he explained, and can thus be used for purposes other than aviation.

A just released priority list from the Aviation Division of the State Transportation Department places SBRA at the top of the airports' capital improvements program.

"So we're the ones who would benefit most from this legislation," said Morris. He noted that revenue for airport improvements is especially important to small airports, since federal funds are less available than previously.

"It's an important bill to us," said SBRA commission chairman Fred Heckman of the proposed legislation.

Heckman noted that "solving of the land problem" remains the first step toward a new airport. The proposed airport site on Fort Stanton mesa is to undergo a federal study to determine the compatibility of agricultural and aviation uses, as it is currently partly occupied by a New Mexico State University experimental farm.

"We've been pretty high up in the state plans for years," said Heckman when told of the top priority given SBRA by the State Aviation Division. He indicated that effort from the governor's office to effect a compromise on the land use question is what has been lacking on the state level.

Heckman said that the potential tax revenue source and the priority designation are important, "especially in this time when states are being asked to take over what the federal government used to do."

State Aviation Division director Bob White called his department's support of SBRA "a foregone conclusion." He cited the critical safety factor as the main reason.

"You've got a bunch of planes flying in there that have no business flying in," said White, referring to the present Ruidoso Municipal Airport.

White noted that House Bill 4 is not an administration bill and thus he could not take a position on it. The official position will come out of the governor's legislative office, he said.

The bill was assigned to the House Rules Committee for review.

CC seeking parking plan from village

The directors of the Chamber of Commerce (CC) Wednesday approved a resolution from the Retail Merchants Committee (RMC) to go before the village trustees and propose that the Village of Ruidoso appoint a commission to look into a public offstreet parking program. Along with that suggestion, the CC will ask the village trustees to take quick action on acquiring a convention center for Ruidoso.

"Parking in this town is getting to be more and more of a critical public problem. As citizens of Ruidoso, we have the right to request this. We (CC) represent 500 local businesses, so let's get some action," said RMC chairman Larry Langford. He cited Ruidoso's "strip development" and its being situated against the mountains as requiring a planned parking program.

While the CC directors gave their full backing to a parking proposal, Chamber president Richard Sandoval said that it was also most appropriate for the board to suggest to the village trustees that action be taken on a convention center.

The directors approved the nominating committee's list of board member nominees. Fourteen people were nominated for eight positions, seven two year terms and one one year term. The selection of the one year term is a replacement position for a board member who resigned. Jungbluth said that this is a departure from the board of directors' by-laws which stipulate that the board may arbitrarily appoint a replacement. "This year, the seven who get the most votes will all go on the board for two years. The eighth person who receives the most votes will get a one year term," said Jungbluth.

Ballots will be mailed out to Chamber members next week in February's newsletter, Jungbluth said. Those nominated for directors are: Jim Goodwin, Joan Bailey, Ron Hemphill, Dan Brown, Walt Lindborg, Dorothy Dale, Ellen Miller, Scott Schrader, Tom Kelham, Bill Rawlins, Nancy Radziewicz, Jim Paxton, Bill Braudt and Phil Hamilton. All have accepted their nominations except Dorothy Dale who has not yet responded.

The Hn-Zhu-Ne Committee reported to the board its nominees for the Third Annual Hn-Zhu-Ne Award, which rewards the local enterprise that most enhanced their neighborhood by making improvements to the exterior of their existing building.

The committee decided that the standards for eligibility for the nomination of the award would be improvement or remodeling of a business's exterior in 1981 and that the premises still be occupied or owned by the individuals who did the remodeling.

The committee also decided not to limit the nominees to only four Chamber members, as it's been done in the past, but to include as many as were necessary to represent all types of remodeling from the least to the most expensive. Those nominated are: The Innsbruck Lodge, Jim Pleas Gallery, Mack Kizer's Arcade, Pawn Shop and Cleaners, the Maytag Laundry, Nottingham's Pub, the old part of Pinetree Square, Pete's Mexican Fare, Wayne Wood's building, Sierra Vista Center, Twenty-Twenty Gallery and Whispering Pines Cabins.

Lincoln County Commissioners discussed preliminary plans for two new buildings at a special commissioner's meeting Tuesday morning.

One of the new buildings is a sub-office planned for the Ruidoso area and will house such county offices as the Sheriff's Department, District Attorney, Juvenile Probation Officer and a health center. A general purpose room is also planned for conferences.

The second structure discussed at the meeting was the administrative building to be built on the south parking lot of the existing Lincoln County Courthouse in Carrizozo. This building will house the county manager's office, computer room, commissioner's meeting room and one office for the county commissioners.

Kenneth Guthrie and Miguel Cheng-Guajardo of Herkenhoff and Associates, architects for the project, were on hand to make any changes on their preliminary plans that the commissioners called for.

One change made in the sub-office plan was to make the offices 10 x 12 feet rather than the originally planned 10 x 10 feet. Also trimmed was the amount of space allotted the deputies for writing reports. "Do we need space for five deputies? There will probably only be one or two writing reports at one time," said Commissioner Ben Hall.

A storage file room for the county secretary was also included in the plans. With the various changes suggested, Guthrie said they will be taken into consideration for more advanced plans. Guthrie said he will return to the next commissioner's meeting February 2 with revised plans.

Concerning plans for the administrative building in Carrizozo, the commissioners decided they needed only one commissioner's office, rather than the three originally called for. Extra space for the computer room was requested as well as extra space for the bookkeeper. The bookkeeper and county manager's secretary will share some of the space for their filing systems.

Commissioner John Allen Hightower requested that outside building materials be compatible with the existing courthouse.

Guthrie said his company plans to call for panel similar to white aggregate for the exterior.

After plans have been finalized for the two new buildings, the projects will go up for bid, tentatively sometime in March, ac-ording to County Manager Truman "Bill" Billingsley. At that time, estimates will be available for the construction of the new buildings.

Currently, the county commissioners plan to use excess money in their general fund for the project.

Local Realtors support proposed mortgage act

BY WILL TURBOW
Staff Writer

The Multiple Listing Service (MLS) committee of the Board of Realtors Tuesday expressed support for the state's Residential Mortgage Purchase Act of 1982 and asked its members to write their legislators for support in getting the bill passed.

"The act will put mortgage money back into the state. Right now that money (money set aside in the state's severance tax fund) is just sitting up in Santa Fe collecting interest. This way, the housing industry, realtors, the state economy and the populace as a whole are helped out," said

Janet Warlick-Pearson, president of the Ruidoso Board of Realtors.

Presently, the severance tax fund approximates $540 million and it is anticipated the fund will exceed two billion dollars by the end of 1982. The Residential Mortgage Purchase Act proposes to invest $200 million per year for four years, out of those New Mexico funds.

According to Warlick-Pearson, the act will help revitalize the housing industry—60 percent of the funds will be allocated for new construction—thus putting New Mexicans back to work. She also said that passage of the act would generate more ad valorem taxes, sales tax and income tax in the state.

Warlick-Pearson said that these funds would be available only for owner-occupied primary residences. On a negative note, she pointed out that the mortgage interest rate would be lower than is presently generated by investing the tax funds out of state in a national money market.

In other MLS business, Jim Carpenter declared that there are still some outstanding dues to be paid by February 1. Darlene Hart announced that the New Members Committee is set up. New members in any realtor's office should contact Hart or Al Lane to take a by-laws and ethics test to receive their lock-box keys.

Swenor, Huckstep, attended police liability workshop

Ruidoso's Chief of Police Dick Swenor and village attorney Lee Huckstep returned from a workshop on police civil liability feeling that they and the village benefitted from their participation.

"I thought it was just excellently done," said Huckstep of the workshop, held January 11-13 at Orlando, Florida. It was sponsored by Americans for Effective Law Enforcement (AELE).

Swenor called the program "extremely informative." He said, "It will definitely benefit law enforcement services as far as alleviating liability risks."

Court decisions holding municipalities liable for employee misconduct have made liability a major concern of public administrators in recent years.

"Ten years ago, no one would have thought of suing a cop or a municipality," said Huckstep. "Now, it's common."

The AELE program was inclusive in the areas of employment and supervision, Swenor said, from the initial stage of employee selection through equal opportunities on the job.

Since supervisors can be held personally liable for the acts of subordinate officers, these topics were of special interest to the many chiefs and high ranking command officers in attendance, Swenor said.

"Every aspect of law enforcement now has incurred a liability constraint of some nature—arrest, booking, incarceration, transport," said Swenor. He noted that the workshop also dealt with certification, invalid retention of employees and use of deadly force.

Prevention of lawsuits against a municipality; defense of such suits once they are brought; and handling of initial interviews in any federal investigation of a civil rights complaint were among the legal aspects touched on by the program, Huckstep said.

Swenor and Huckstep both stated that the interchange of information which took place in questions from the floor and the informal discussions were very valuable.

Someone would bring up a problem, said Swenor, and someone else would tell how they handled the same problem. Thus each person got a better overall picture of law enforcement nationwide, he explained, as well as awareness of coming trends.

Although workshop participants agreed on the value of preventive measures in the liability area, the chief noted, they also voiced almost unanimous concern over the failure of laws to be enforced judicially.

Criminals not getting what they deserve, with the death penalty the main point of contention, is causing disobedience of the law to filter down through the population, Swenor claimed.

"People who before never thought about breaking the law are now saying, 'why not?'" he said.

But the AELE is encouraging police to stand up for their own rights. "What they're telling us is 'start suing back,'" said Swenor. The workshop showed the Ruidoso Police Department to be in relatively good

Downs' race dates set for 1982 meeting

The 1982 meeting at Ruidoso Downs Race Track (RDRT) will be from May 8 through Labor Day, September 6.

The dates were approved by the State Racing Commission January 15 in Santa Fe.

The 76 racing days, an increase of six days over 1981, include extra cards Wednesdays in August and two days for Rainbow and All-American Futurity time trials.

RDRT general manager Finlay McGillivray obtained permission from the commission to change the date of the All-American Futurity from Labor Day to Saturday, September 4, to adjust to a telecast schedule with ABC Sports. McGillivray said the telecast plans are still tentative, and that he didn't know if ABC plans to televise the race in its entirety, or as a segment of a regular sports program.

Noon Lions sponsoring street address numbers

The Ruidoso Noon Lions are promoting, as a community service project, the sale of street address numbers for businesses and residences.

Club members will begin the canvass in the commercial district, followed by the residential solicitation.

The commercial signs are white, 10x24 inches, with brown raised numerals, at $20; with two way signs, for angle mounting, priced at $30.

The charge for residences will be $4 per number.

The club, in connection with this program, will donate 17 signs to the village to be located on main thoroughfares, giving directions to the Ruidoso Municipal Center, Police Department, Municipal Airport and Ruidoso Hondo Valley Hospital.

The location of these signs has been selected by village officials.

"The redwood signs the club is donating to the village," project chairman Art Townsend said, "have a retail price of $2,400, but we're getting a discount from Bob Yeager Sign Company, and the club considers this a token gift to make this public service project possible."

Club members, Townsend said, "are assembling the signs, by that I mean the sanding, staining and fastening the numbers, we're making them ourselves as it's our project to serve the village and live up to the Lions' motto: 'We Serve.'"

Townsend said that the commercial signs, as well as the numbers for homes, have been tested to prove they withstand the temperature extremes prevailing in

Ruidoso and that "they'll last at least 20 years."

For businesses, Townsend is recommending they be placed "12 to 15 feet above street level, so they will be easily visible to people in cars."

Townsend, in describing this Lions' project, said, "This plan will enable every business, and residence, to have street numbers at an affordable price."

"It will be of benefit to our visitors, and will certainly make it easier for the fire department, police, and utilities' workers to find their way around, especially in the residential areas."

"Coupled with the Ruidoso Rotary Club's project to install street name posts throughout the village, in a short time giving directions to find any specific location should be a cinch."

NOON LIONS Club members are currently working on an address sign project. Displaying some of their wares are, from left, Art

Members of Cub Scout Pack 59 raced speedy cars against each other in last year's Pinewood Derby. The sleek and futuristic cars were fine examples of the young Scouts' engineering abilities. Winners of the eight-year-old division of the running of the Pinewood Derby were: Neil Harris, first place; Michael Hayes, second place; and Vincent Chavez, third place. The fastest car made in pinewood in the nine-year-old division was created by Cody Willard, who also received the trophy for Best Looking Car. Second place went to Michael Chavez. Chris Volquardsen took third. In the ten-year-old Webelos division, Eric Coleman's little pinewood racer took first place. Layne Paquin was a close second, and the third spot went to Conrad Streeter.

African resort beach operators solving dangerous shark problem

Just 20 years ago, the shark hysteria later scared movie-goers out of their seats in the film "Jaws" was keeping people off the beaches of South Africa. Frenzied, gruesome shark attacks warned the bravest of tourists to stay out of the water. Today those waters are full of vacationers, the tourist business is booming, and the risk of getting attacked by a shark is roughly equivalent to the chance of getting hit by a car while crossing a city street. That has made the swimmers safe, according to the current issue of International Wildlife magazine, is a determined campaign by the Natal Anti-Shark Measures Board. Under the board's direction, men in skiboots have fenced off 17 live species of sharks by planting double rows of nets off of 43 South African beaches. The work is not easy, says the magazine. "It is a daily experience for the 'meshing officers' who service the nets, removing trapped sharks from the girded webs of black polyethylene. A measure of their success is the typical catch of between 1,400 and 1,500 sharks each. Swimmers in South Africa didn't always have it so good. Fears of shark assaults in the province of Natal, on the eastern side of South Africa, peaked during a three-month period in 1957 known as "Blackember," according to the bi-monthly publication of the National Wildlife Federation. Seven shark attacks resulted in five deaths, and popular resorts were transformed into ghost towns. Even years later, spurred on by pressures from a failing tourist industry, the Provincial Administration launched the Anti-Shark Measures Board. The board was told to not only save lives, but to gain information about sharks and to try out scientific research. The board is meeting all three objectives. International Wildlife reports. It has compiled more information about sharks in any other organization in the world. The sharks caught in nets are tagged and released in the ocean. Others, which suffocate because their respiration fails if they stop moving, go to the shark board's headquarters for dissection and analysis. Despite complaints from some scientists ... liability-wise, the chief noted. "We didn't have problems compared to me of them," he said. "As far as operations and training standards, we're way ahead of what is required." But he added that the current rewriting of departmental regulations and procedures will incorporate some of the things learned in Florida. Buckstep noted that municipalities protest themselves against liability agreements with insurance, and that he will be looking into the village's coverage. Swenor and Swenor agreed that having attended the workshop together, they will be able to communicate effectively on liability in the future.

RHVH announces improvements

In helping to meet RHVH's increasing needs, a $58,000 ultra-sound machine was installed in mid December. The machine sends sound waves through the human body to make images of internal organs, although Moore said that it would be used primarily to pinpoint the position of a fetus in a mother's womb. The funds making the ultra-sound machine a reality came from the mill levy which Lincoln County residents approved in November, 1980. However, $15,000 was donated for the machine by the Pink Ladies, the hospital's auxiliary group, and other private donors. "When we went before the people in the community asking them to approve the mill levy, we told them we would get an ultra-sound machine. We're just keeping our part of the bargain for the promise of the mill levy funding, and that's very important to me," Moore said. According to Moore, RHVH's immediate growth plans include a portable X-ray machine, which will be purchased next month, remodeling of the laboratory, X-ray room and physical therapy unit and more storage space. Also, Moore announced that in July, Dr. William A. Harrison, an obstetrician-gynecologist, will be coming to the Ruidoso area from Scott and White Memorial Hospital in Temple, Texas.

What the Special Olympics are

Ruidoso is hosting the New Mexico Winter Special Olympics at Eagle Creek for the first time January 26-29. However, many people in the area are not aware of the impact of the Special Olympic program. According to Eunice Kennedy Shriver, one of the major supporters of the Special Olympics, "In Special Olympics it is not the strongest body or most dazzling mind that counts. It is the invincible spirit which overcomes all handicaps." In July of 1968, the first International Special Olympics took place at Chicago's Soldier Field with 1,000 participants. Previous to that event, many people felt the project would never work—that mentally retarded people would not be able to travel to these events and would not know how to behave at any of the social functions. But since that first international event, the Special Olympics has increased from a few track and field and swimming events to 16 official sports, including track and field, swimming, diving, soccer, basketball, softball, volleyball, bowling, frisbee, disc, floor hockey, polo hockey, gymnastics, Nordic and Alpine skiing, ice skating and wheelchair events. Special Olympics is run by a small professional staff and hundreds of volunteers in local communities throughout the United States and more than 40 nations. No money is required of the participants or their parents. Apart from nominal costs for transportation, meals or housing, there are no dues or fees. Most of the money raised locally stays in that state or nation. One of the biggest differences cited between the Special Olympics program and other sports programs is that every athlete has an equal chance to win. No participant goes unrecognized or unrewarded. Some of the organizations that sponsor certain aspects of the Special Olympics program include the National Basketball Association, the National Hockey League, the North American Soccer League and the Ice Skating Institute of America. Major corporations contributing to the success of the Special Olympics include Coca-Cola USA, McDonald's, Warner Communications, Inc., AMF, Kodak, Procter and Gamble, Levi Strauss, Norelco, Fram/Autolite, GEICO and Lucasfilms. The games are set up in such a way that either the Summer or Winter International Special Olympics are scheduled every two years. District and state games are scheduled at various times within the year. The Ruidoso version of the Winter Special Olympics games kicks off Tuesday with mostly registration taking place. Participants will spend the evening at Fort Stanton, taking part in such activities as games and sports. Wednesday involves instruction for the participants with the actual parade of athletes and torch light parade of the opening ceremonies taking place at Eagle Creek at 6:30 p.m. Actual competition in Nordic and Alpine skiing will take place Thursday, with a definite schedule to be determined later. Approximately 100 mentally retarded people from New Mexico, Texas and Mexico will take part in the games. Volunteers from all over the area will donate their time in the form of instructors, timers and assistants. Spectators are welcome at any time. For more information on the event and ways to donate time or money, contact Jeanne Culbertson, recreation supervisor at Fort Stanton Training School and one of the organizers of the event. Her day time number is 354-2211 while evenings, she may be reached at 257-7225.

Archer Wilson in his budget report announced that CC's bank balance at the end of December, 1981, half way through the fiscal year, was $3,544.69. Total cash receipts for the year to date were $43,338.95, and total expenses for the last six months amounted to $37,294.39. Jungbluth reported that seven businesses joined the CC and twelve dropped out. New members, he said, include Resort World Real Estate, Horseshoe Courts, Borden of Ruidoso, Linda Miller Gallery and Frame Shop, Services Unlimited, Elona Enterprises and Bud Strauss Bonded Locksmith. Jungbluth said that preparations for the Southwest Sports and Vacation Show are well under way. He will go before the village trustees next week to seek their approval for the show. Plans for a Ruidoso giveaway package, which will be offered at the Dallas, Texas, recreation show, are currently being investigated, said Jungbluth. The board discussed at length the matter of the 1982 Aspenade Motorcycle Convention. Jungbluth said that Til Thompson, Aspenade's successful promoter, had hinted to Jungbluth that he did not intend to sponsor the event this year. This has sparked reaction among the board and other local business associations. The CC feels very strongly about continuing with the yearly motorcycle convention which draws so many visitors to Ruidoso in early October. Said Sandoval, "We (CC) have every intention of having something for the motorcycleists this year. Aspenade will not be dropped."

Altrusa hosts guest speaker

Jean Howden was guest speaker at the January 5 meeting of the Ruidoso Altrusa Club. Howden, a Ruidoso High School senior and an exchange student to Germany last year, spoke on free enterprise in relation to her experiences while in Germany and surrounding countries. Howden also spoke of socio-economic, historical and cultural qualities of Germany.

Romeo Klein candidate for trustee

Romeo Klein, 36 year Ruidoso resident, Tuesday announced his candidacy for the office of village trustee in the March 2 municipal election. "I've been watching the town grow," Klein said, "and I favor progress, but it should be well organized to give the community the services it needs. If elected, that's what I'll work for." Klein retired from the Bureau of Indian Affairs, Mesalero, in 1973, after a tenure in plant management of the Mesalero water and sewer systems. With his wife, Katie, he has helped operate Klein's Laundry since 1957. The couple have seven children, born and raised in Ruidoso, with a daughter, Patsy, a Ruidoso High School senior, at home.

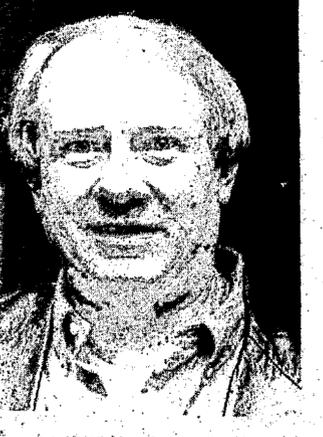

Gloria Zamora Area band members in performance

Five Ruidoso High School choir members and one Capitan High School band member recently returned from the New Mexico Music Education Association's all-state band and choir program in Albuquerque. "They did great. It was a neat experience," said Danny Flores, Ruidoso High School band and choir director. More than 800 students from across the state had to compete at a district level to be chosen to attend the conference. "We practiced most of the day together both Thursday and Friday (of the conference)," said Gloria Zamora, band member from Capitan. "Saturday morning was the concert." The band and choir performed separate concerts and each was recorded. According to Flores, the album should be available within a couple of months. "In the band, we had to audition for chairs," Zamora said. She captured a second chair in the concert band playing her specialty instrument, the alto clarinet. The band group was divided into a concert band, a concert orchestra, a symphonic band and a symphonic orchestra. "In the choir portion, there were about 400 kids. They performed eight different pieces and it was real hard music," Flores said. All five Ruidoso High School students were chosen to sing in the concert. Those five included Dee Sherwood, Sharri Ridgeway, Darioush Rad, Eric Berg and Willie Dean. The conference also included clinics in which participants could listen to other groups. "There were lots of exhibits. I got to catch up on new things. It was like a big convention with an exchange of ideas," Flores said. Zamora, along with Capitan High School band and choir director Churchill Cooke, attended the conference with the Ruidoso High School delegates. All of the pieces performed had to be conducted from memory, according to Flores. "I was proud of all the kids," he said.

Lloyd Davis candidate for mayor

He is now nearing the end of his second consecutive four year term as mayor, and served three terms prior to that. Wheeler is GOP women's guest speaker

"Helping people, that's the best part of my job," said Ruidoso Magistrate James Wheeler who spoke at the monthly meeting of the Federated Republican Women of Lincoln County (FRWLC). U. S. Representative Joe Skeen and Lincoln County Commission chairman Thomas P. "Cotton" McKnight also attended last Tuesday's meeting.

Wheeler has served for five years as magistrate for District 3 of Lincoln County. As a state judge, he is one step below a district judge. "I'm just a l'il ol' county judge," Wheeler said.

His jurisdiction covers civil matters up to $2,000, criminal cases for state and county officials, and even city officers if it involves a felony, said Wheeler. Traffic offenses and second offender drunk drivers, whom he described as "deadly weapons driving down the road," also appear on the judge's docket. Wheeler said that he averages about 2,000 cases a year.

Wheeler explained to his audience that he processes all felons at a first appearance hearing as well as preliminary hearings to determine probable cause. From there the accused is bound over to a district court or released, said Wheeler.

Speaking on the subject of wife abuse and battered children, Wheeler said that this is one area where a police officer can make an arrest without a warrant if there is probable cause or reason to believe that there has been a battery. "This protects the wife or child from further abuse," Wheeler said. "That same principle applies to shoplifters. To protect the store owner, an officer can arrest a person on suspicion of shoplifting without waiting for a warrant. These laws were passed to protect the innocent public," said Wheeler.

Alcohol, drugs and lack of money are the types of problems which bring people into Judge Wheeler's court. On a brighter note, he also mentioned that he does weddings, which he described as "one of the better parts of my job."

Wheeler also said, "If any of you ever need help, don't hesitate to walk into my court. Mine is a people's court, not a court of record like the district court. We're here to help you."

Ken Noskers receive award

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Nosker, Glencoe, have been advised by Nadine L. Rohn, County Extension Home Economist, Sharon Springs, Kansas, that they will receive an award for developing a noteworthy soil and water conservation plan on their farm.

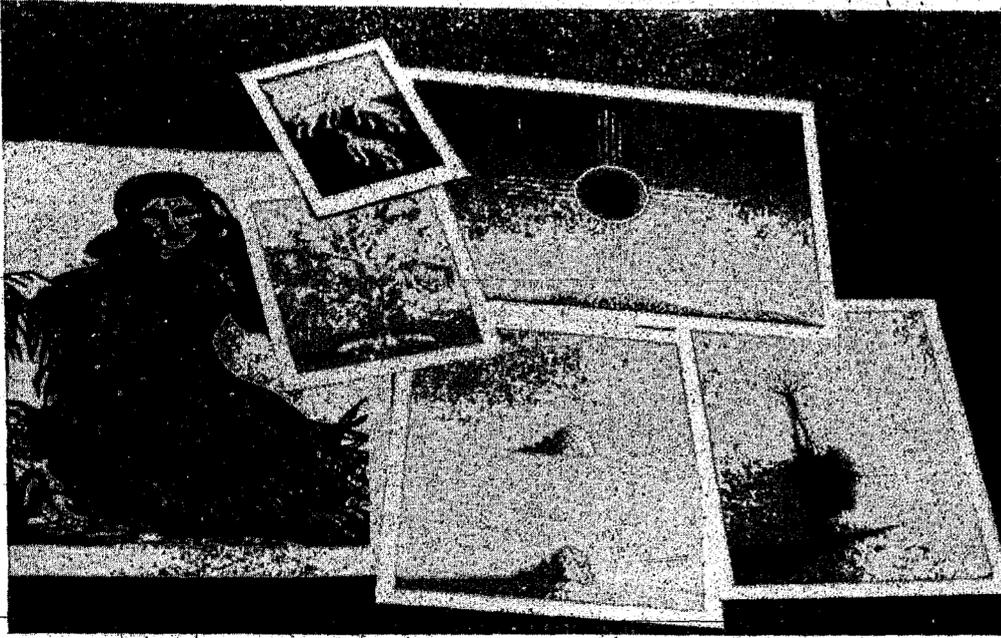

The letter from Rohn said, in part, "Congratulations! It is my pleasure to inform you that, through the Kansas Soil and Water Conservation Recognition program, your family has been chosen by a local committee to receive a certificate of award for the outstanding progress you have made in the establishment of a complete soil and water conservation plan on your farm."

The awards are presented annually and sponsored by the Kansas Bankers' Association and the Peoples State Bank of Sharon Springs.

The Noskers will receive their award at the annual meeting of the Wallace County Conservation District, beginning at 7 p.m., January 27 at the Township Hall in Sharon Springs.

GUEST SPEAKERS at the Full Gospel Business Men's Fellowship, Friday at 7 p.m., in the Holiday Inn will be Glen and Trudi Staples of Wylie, Texas, where they established Christ's Community Church.

TWENTY-SIX PRINTS were acquired by White Mountain Middle School as part of New Mexico's Art in Public Places program. Pictured are the following prints: "The Sacrifice," "Reflective Landscape" and "New Mexico Landscape" all by Bruce Lowney; "The Fleece that Grows on Trees" and "Cuna Figures Baying," both by Michèle Bourque Sowards; and "Maria's Showl" by Kristine Hovvedt.

Mid School displaying art work

White Mountain Middle School will share in some of the art work available in the state through Art in Public Places, a program of the New Mexico Arts Division.

Marti, instructor in the gifted students program at the school, learned of the program through the arts division. The program, instituted in 1977 with a CETA Title VI grant of $242,540, set as its goals to improve and beautify public places, enhance working environments of state employees and make these places more inviting to the public. Another goal was to give artists gainful employment, training in public art and future commissions through public exposure.

"Any public institution can apply for the prints," Marti said. "Mostly, they are in public offices in Santa Fe. I figured you can't get more public than school kids."

Once the approval was given for the school to acquire the prints, Marti was able to choose from several works by various artists. "We've got everything from abstract to realism. I looked for variety so the kids will see the difference," Marti said.

"We are the only school to apply for this program. These 26 prints are ours forever," Marti said. The prints in the program are not available for public sale. Marti said she would like to have at least 25 prints for each school in Ruidoso.

The only requirement of the institution requesting the prints is that they are properly matted, framed and then hung in a public viewing area. Currently, the school is looking for anyone in the area who would be interested in donating their time and supplies to frame and mat the prints. Marti emphasized that the project would be tax deductible.

Plans are to display the group of prints in the mid school library. They will be available for teachers to check out and use in their classrooms. "Lots of things will come out of this. There are all sorts of things you can do—write papers on the prints or use them for art appreciation...." Marti said.

"Ruidoso depends a lot on arts and artists. We like to promote that. This is not just for the school; it is also for the community," said Sid Miller, mid school principal. "My appreciation goes to Marti for getting this done."

Sorority initiates new members

The January meeting of Eta Chapter of Alpha Delta Kappa was held at the Coopers ranch with Charley Cooper, Inez Pacheco and Hazel Arthurs as co-hostesses.

The initiation ritual of the international honorary sorority for women educators was conferred upon Dorothy McVeigh, teaching in Mesalero; Barbara Cooper, teaching in Capitlan and June Caster of the Carrizozo school system.

The members approved a donation to the proposed Girls' Ranch and presented a gift to Inez Pacheco who, with her husband Fermin, recently celebrated their golden wedding anniversary.

The sorority also nominated Jini Jordan for the position of state music chairman. The next Eta Chapter meeting will be at a February 13 luncheon at the Leola Pfingsten home in Lincoln.

TOPS organizational meeting here Saturday

An organizational meeting of TOPS (Take Off Pounds Sensibly) is scheduled Saturday at 1 p.m., at the First Christian Church, according to Geri Collins, organizer of the club.

TOPS is a noncommercial, nonprofit international weight control organization, founded in 1948. An initial fee is required to join the club. Any additional fees will be determined by the individual chapter.

The club is divided into five facets: medical orientation, group therapy, competition, recognition and obesity research. Under medical orientation, the club states that members are required to obtain their individual weight goals and dietary regimens from their personal physicians.

The group therapy facet of TOPS is patterned after Alcoholics Anonymous, in which members provide each other with motivation in their weight-losing efforts.

Collins said following a program with TOPS can supplement such programs as Jazzercise to "control the situation."

For more information on the local chapter of TOPS, contact Collins at 257-7651.

Pinewood Derby winners named

Members of Cub Scout Pack 95 raced their speedy cars against each other in last Sunday's Pinewood Derby. The sleek and rickety cars were fine examples of the Cub Scouts' engineering abilities. Winners of the eight-year-old division of Sunday's running of the Pinewood Derby were: Neil Harris, first place; Michael Hayes, second place; and Vincent Chavez, third place. The fastest car made of pinewood in the nine-year-old division was created by Cody Willard, who also received the trophy for Best Looking Car. Second place went to Michael Chavez. Chris Volquardsen took third. In the ten-year-old Webelos division, Eric Coleman's little pinewood racer took first place. Layne Paquin was a close second, and the third spot went to Conrad Streeter.

African resort beach operators solving dangerous shark problem

who say that the Anti-Shark Board creates artificial and unhealthy pressures on the entire coastal ecosystem, other experts support the anti-shark program because it provides data that could eventually explain why sharks attack people. That question remains largely unanswered, says International Wildlife, though theories, which suggest sharks are attracted by small or by shiny objects, abound.

estates adverse to establishment of Plaintiff and title of Plaintiff be forever quieted. Another complaint for quiet title was filed December 30 by Albert C. Smith against Marguerite Smith Korys and unknown heirs of unknown claimants of interest in the premises adverse to the Plaintiff. Smith asks for the establishment of his estate as owner of said unpatented mining laws, against adverse claims of Defendants and each one of them be barred and stopped from having or claiming any lein, right or interest in said real estate. He also asks that his title as owner of unpatented mining claims, subject only to patented title in the United States, be forever quieted and set at rest.

ut today those waters are full of vacationers, the tourist business is booming, the risk of getting attacked by a shark roughly equivalent to the chance of getting hit by a car while crossing a city street.

ne work is not easy, says the magazine. Anger — from pounding surf as well as sharks — is a daily experience for the "meshing officers" who service the "removing trapped sharks from the tangled webs of black polyethylene. A measure of their success is the typical catch" of between 1,400 and 1,500 sharks per year.

wimmers in South Africa didn't always see it so good. Fears of shark assaults in the province of Natal, on the eastern side of South Africa, peaked during a three-month period in 1957 known as "Black December," according to the bi-monthly publication of the National Wildlife Federation. Seven shark attacks resulted in five deaths, and popular resorts were transformed into ghost towns.

Emily Normandin filed a complaint for monetary damages against Richard Cothran, filed January 7. Normandin asks for $15,000 compensatory damages and $10,000 punitive damages in three counts.

Mike Raper filed two complaints for compensation under the Workmen's Compensation Act January 11. One was against Ruidoso Sunland, Inc., a New Mexico Corp., and American Employers Insurance Company. The second was filed against Alto Construction Company, a New Mexico Corp., and Aetna Casualty and Security Company. In each case, Raper requested judgment for compensation under the Workmen's Compensation Law of the State of New Mexico.

ven years later, spurred on by pressures from a falling tourist industry, the Provincial Administration launched the Anti-Shark Measures Board. The board was told to not only save lives, but to find information about sharks and to carry out scientific research.

RHVVH announces improvements

the Ruidoso-Hondo Valley Hospital (RHVVH) Community Board of Trustees moved at a special meeting on December 18, 1981, to budget $25,000 to bring an outside hospital planning firm to the hospital to determine its expansion for the next ten years. "The hospital met the increasing demand placed on it," said Ken Moore, RHVVH executive administrator, "and that means fully planned expansion."

In helping to meet RHVVH's increasing needs, a $58,000 ultra-sound machine was installed in mid-December. The machine sends sound waves through the human body to make images of internal organs, although Moore said that it would be used primarily to pinpoint the position of a fetus in a mother's womb.

which Lincoln County residents approved in November, 1980. However, $15,000 was donated for the machine by the Pink Ladies, the hospital's auxiliary group, and other private donors. "When we went before the people in the community asking them to approve the mill levy, we told them we would get an ultra-sound machine. We're just keeping our part of the bargain for the promise of the mill levy funding, and that's very im-ico will take part in the games. Volunteers from all over the area will donate their time in the form of instructors, timers and assistants. Spectators are welcome at any time.

According to Eunice Kennedy Shriver, one of the major supporters of the Special Olympics, "In Special Olympics, it is not the strongest-body or most-dazzling-mind that counts. It is the invincible spirit which overcomes all handicaps."

Some of the organizations that sponsor certain aspects of the Special Olympics program include the National Basketball Association, the National Hockey League, the North American Soccer League and the Ice Skating Institute of America. Major corporations contributing to the success of the Special Olympics include Coca-Cola USA, McDonald's, Warner Communications, Inc., AMF, Kodak, Procter and Gamble, Levi Strauss, Norelco, Fram/Autolite, GEICO and Lucasfilms.

For more information on the event and ways to donate time or money, contact Jeanne Culbertson, recreation supervisor at Fort Stanton Training School and one of the organizers of the event. Her day time number is 354-2211 while evenings, she may be reached at 257-7225.

In July of 1968, the first International Special Olympics took place at Chicago's Soldier Field with 1,000 participants. Previous to that event, many people felt the project would never work—that mentally retarded people would not be able to travel to these events and would not know how to behave at any of the social functions.

The games are set up in such a way that either the Summer or Winter International Special Olympics are scheduled every two years. District and state games are scheduled at various times within the year.

But since that first international event, the Special Olympics has increased from a few track and field and swimming events to 16 official sports, including track and field, swimming, diving, soccer, basketball, softball, volleyball, bowling, frisbee, disc, floor hockey, poly hockey, gymnastics, Nordic and Alpine skiing, ice skating and wheelchair events.

The Ruidoso version of the Winter Special Olympics games kicks off Tuesday with mostly registration taking place. Participants will spend the evening at Fort Stanton, taking part in such activities as games and sports. Wednesday involves instruction for the participants with the actual parade of athletes and torch light parade of the opening ceremonies taking place at Eagle Creek at 6:30 p.m.

GOP women's membership tea planned

All women in Lincoln County are invited to a membership tea sponsored by the Federated Republican Women of Lincoln County (FRWLC) on Sunday, January 31, from 2 to 4 p.m., at the Inn of the Mountain Gods. The theme of the tea is "Women in Politics," and the wives of the four gubernatorial candidates have been invited.

Area band members in performance

Five Ruidoso High School choir members and one Capitan High School band member recently returned from the New Mexico Music Education Association's all-state band and choir program in Albuquerque.

Jungbluth reported that seven businesses joined the CC and twelve dropped out. New members, he said, include Resort World Real Estate, Horseshoe Courts, Gordens of Ruidoso, Linda Miller Gallery and Frame Shop, Services Unlimited, Elona Enterprises and Bud Strauss Bonded Locksmith.

The program includes a film entitled "The National Federation of Republican Women (NFRW) Today," and it is narrated by Maureen Reagan. The film shows the work done by the NFRW, with whom the local chapter is affiliated.

"We practiced most of the day together both Thursday and Friday (of the conference)," said Gloria Zamora, band member from Capitan. "Saturday morning was the concert."

Jungbluth said that preparations for the Southwest Sports and Vacation Show are well under way. He will go before the village trustees next week to seek their approval for the show. Plans for a Ruidoso giveaway package, which will be offered at the Dallas, Texas, recreation show, are currently being investigated, said Jungbluth.

"This film was shown at the state convention in Albuquerque, and it made such an impression on us that we want all our members and potential members to see it," said Rhonda Johnston, FRWLC president.

The band and choir performed separate concerts and each was recorded. According to Flores, the album should be available within a couple of months.

The board discussed at length the matter of the 1982 Aspenade Motorcycle Convention. Jungbluth said that Tim Thompson, Aspenade's successful promoter, had hinted to Jungbluth that he did not intend to sponsor the event this year. This has sparked reaction among the board and other local business associations. The CC feels very strongly about continuing with the yearly motorcycle convention which draws so many visitors to Ruidoso in early October. Said Sandoval, "We (CC) have every intention of having something for the motorcycleists this year. Aspenade will not be dropped."

Registrars will be available for anyone wishing to register to vote. Refreshments will be served and a cash bar will also be available. For further information, contact Johnston at 257-9571, or the secretary Dorothy Smith at 354-2499.

Altrusa hosts guest speaker

Jean Howden was guest speaker at the January 5 meeting of the Ruidoso Altrusa Club.

"We practiced most of the day together both Thursday and Friday (of the conference)," said Gloria Zamora, band member from Capitan. "Saturday morning was the concert."

On Dean's List

Sean Mound, Ruidoso, has been named to the Dean's List for the 1981 fall semester at Sul Ross State University, Alpine, Texas, with a 3.0 grade point average.

Named to the dean's list at New Mexico State University for the fall semester from Ruidoso, were Sylvia Cole, College of Business Administration and Economics; Teresa Daniel (4.0) and James Suits, College of Human and Community Services; Cathy Jones (4.0), Glencoe College of Education; and Truman Bob, Mesalero, College of Agriculture and Home Economics.

All of the pieces performed had to be conducted from memory, according to Flores. "I was proud of all the kids," he said.

Emily Normandin filed a complaint for monetary damages against Richard Cothran, filed January 7. Normandin asks for $15,000 compensatory damages and $10,000 punitive damages in three counts.

Another goal was to give artists gainful employment, training in public art and future commissions through public exposure.

"Any public institution can apply for the prints," Marti said. "Mostly, they are in public offices in Santa Fe. I figured you can't get more public than school kids."

Once the approval was given for the school to acquire the prints, Marti was able to choose from several works by various artists. "We've got everything from abstract to realism. I looked for variety so the kids will see the difference," Marti said.

"We are the only school to apply for this program. These 26 prints are ours forever," Marti said. The prints in the program are not available for public sale. Marti said she would like to have at least 25 prints for each school in Ruidoso.

The only requirement of the institution requesting the prints is that they are properly matted, framed and then hung in a public viewing area. Currently, the school is looking for anyone in the area who would be interested in donating their time and supplies to frame and mat the prints. Marti emphasized that the project would be tax deductible.

Plans are to display the group of prints in the mid school library. They will be available for teachers to check out and use in their classrooms. "Lots of things will come out of this. There are all sorts of things you can do—write papers on the prints or use them for art appreciation..." Marti said.

"Ruidoso depends a lot on arts and artists. We like to promote that. This is not just for the school; it is also for the community," said Sid Miller, mid school principal. "My appreciation goes to Marti for getting this done."

TOPS organizational meeting here Saturday

An organizational meeting of TOPS (Take Off Pounds Sensibly) is scheduled Saturday at 1 p.m., at the First Christian Church, according to Geri Collins, organizer of the club.

TOPS is a noncommercial, nonprofit international weight control organization, founded in 1948. An initial fee is required to join the club. Any additional fees will be determined by the individual chapter.

The club is divided into five facets: medical orientation, group therapy, competition, recognition and obesity research. Under medical orientation, the club states that members are required to obtain their individual weight goals and dietary regimens from their personal physicians. The group therapy facet of TOPS is patterned after Alcoholics Anonymous, in which members provide each other with motivation in their weight-losing efforts.

Collins said following a program with TOPS can supplement such programs as Jazzercise to "control the situation."

For more information on the local chapter of TOPS, contact Collins at 257-7651.

Sorority initiates new members

The January meeting of Eta Chapter of Alpha Delta Kappa was held at the Coopers ranch with Charley Cooper, Inez Pacheco and Hazel Arthurs as co-hostesses.

The initiation ritual of the international honorary sorority for women educators was conferred upon Dorothy McVeigh, teaching in Mesalero; Barbara Cooper, teaching in Capitan and June Caster of the Carrizozo school system.

The members approved a donation to the proposed Girls' Ranch and presented a gift to Inez Pacheco who, with her husband Fermin, recently celebrated their golden wedding anniversary.

The sorority also nominated Jini Jordan for the position of state music chairman.

The next Eta Chapter meeting will be at a February 13 luncheon at the Leola Pfingsten home in Lincoln.

Wheeler is GOP women's guest speaker

"Helping people, that's the best part of my job," said Ruidoso Magistrate James Wheeler who spoke at the monthly meeting of the Federated Republican Women of Lincoln County (FRWLC). U. S. Representative Joe Skeen and Lincoln County Commission chairman Thomas P. "Cotton" McKnight also attended last Tuesday's meeting.

Wheeler has served for five years as magistrate for District 3 of Lincoln County. As a state judge, he is one step below a district judge. "I'm just a l'il ol' county judge," Wheeler said.

His jurisdiction covers civil matters up to $2,000, criminal cases for state and county officials, and even city officers if it involves a felony, said Wheeler. Traffic offenses and second offender drunk drivers, whom he described as "deadly weapons driving down the road," also appear on the judge's docket. Wheeler said that he averages about 2,000 cases a year.

Wheeler explained to his audience that he processes all felons at a first appearance hearing as well as preliminary hearings to determine probable cause. From there the accused is bound over to a district court or released, said Wheeler.

Speaking on the subject of wife abuse and battered children, Wheeler said that this is one area where a police officer can make an arrest without a warrant if there is probable cause or reason to believe that there has been a battery. "This protects the wife or child from further abuse," Wheeler said. That same principle applies to shoplifters. "To protect the store owner, an officer can arrest a person on suspicion of shoplifting without waiting for a warrant. These laws were passed to protect the innocent public," said Wheeler.

Alcohol, drugs and lack of money are the types of problems which bring people into Judge Wheeler's court. On a brighter note, he also mentioned that he does weddings, which he described as "one of the better parts of my job."

Wheeler also said, "If any of you ever need help, don't hesitate to walk into my court. Mine is a people's court, not a court of record like the district court. We're here to help you."

DEXTER TOURNAMENT BEGINS

Warriors tangle with Capitan

Around Sports

with Gary Brown

College All Star football games are becoming almost as commonplace as the bowl games during the holiday season.

Where there used to be just the East-West game in San Francisco and the Senior Bowl game in Mobile, Alabama, there are several other all star games now available for college football stars to show off their talents.

The Hula Bowl game in Honolulu has been in existence for some time now and has reached a point where it rivals the East-West contest as far as showcasing top talent. The Blue-Grey game and the North-South game have also been in existence for some time.

But the past few years have seen an abundance of all star games come into being, the main purpose being just to provide some competition for the older all star players.

All star games like the Japan Bowl and the National-American Bowl have come into being recently, and as a result, a lot of players who couldn't get a chance to compete in a bowl game now have that chance.

This is fine. It gives more players a chance to show their talent for the pros. However, a lot of the players who play in one all star game also get to compete in another.

It's still questionable whether that many more college players are able to display their talents in an all star game. And it's also questionable whether college football fans are interested in watching two or three all star games every weekend for a whole month.

By the time the middle of January rolls around many college football players are past their seasonal peak and quite possible might not come through with a top quality performance.

The extra all star games we now see on television may or may not give more college football players a chance to play in a post season game. But they certainly don't make for added interest to the average college football fan.

Most fans have had over four months of a steady football diet that will culminate with the Super Bowl Sunday in Detroit. Many fans now turn the television off when another all star game comes on rather than be bored by a meaningless contest.

Despite a slow start this season Ruidoso High School's basketball team can still win the district 3-AAA championship.

The Warriors came through with their best offensive show of the season Saturday night in a 78-63 victory over Truth or Consequences (T or C). Ruidoso is now 1-1 in district action and, although it faces a tough slate ahead, has the ability to be competitive with any team on its schedule.

The key to the whole season will probably be when the Warriors play Silver City, Tularosa and Deming in the first part of February. The Tularosa game is a home contest while the other two are away games. If the Warriors can win at least two of those games they'll be a factor in the district race the rest of the season. Deming currently has the best record of any district team and should be considered the team to beat. However, the race is wide open with no one team having a monopoly on talent.

Ruidoso High School's boys' varsity basketball team will take on Lincoln County rival Capitan in a first round game of the Dexter Invitational Tournament at 1 p.m., today.

Despite the fact that Capitan is just an A class team and Ruidoso is a AAA division team the Warriors could have a battle on their hands.

"They're a pretty good size club," said Ruidoso head coach Barry Nelson. "They've got a good big kid inside (6-5 Jim Parker) and they've also got some good guards. They're one of the better A division teams in the state."

Capitan is 7-4 on the season while the Warriors are 2-8. However, three of the Ruidoso losses have been to AAAA teams and the remaining five were to AAA squads. The Warriors beat the only AA team they've played (Dexter) and have beaten one AAA team in district rival Truth or Consequences (T or C).

Still the Warriors could have a tough game and Nelson knows it. "We've got to stop their big kid (Parker) and get our fast break going," he said. "We have to press them well also."

Capitan lost the finals of its own Smokey Bear Tournament two weeks ago to Reserve by three points. However, Reserve is the top ranked A division team in the state.

The Tigers don't make many errors and are a fundamentally sound squad.

Ruidoso has a slight edge in quickness with guards Scott Neal, Marc Delhotal, Cyrus Simmons and Paul Jaramillo. Simmons, a sophomore, and Jaramillo, a junior, were recently brought up from the junior varsity.

Center Bill Richardson, a 6-4 senior, has been the Warriors' leading scorer and rebounder this season. But 6-4 Steve Sluder, another senior, played his best game of the season in the win over T or C, scoring 19 points and doing a good job on the boards. If Sluder can continue his fine play in the tournament the Warriors stand a good chance of winning the championship.

One thing working against the Warriors is a lack of depth. Ruidoso has lost several players this season due to ineligibility or lack of interest. However, the addition of Jaramillo and Simmons should help.

Other team entered in the tournament include host Dexter, Weed, New Mexico Military Institute (NMMI), Jal and Hagerman. NMMI has already defeated Ruidoso twice this season.

If Ruidoso beats Capitan today it will play the winner of the Dexter-Weed game at 8:30 p.m., tomorrow. If the Warriors lose they'll play the loser of the Dexter-Weed game at 2:30 p.m.

Warrior frosh defeated

In losing five players to fouls, the Ruidoso High School freshmen basketball team lost to host Goddard 50-29 Monday night.

The Warriors, now 3-3 on the season, stayed with the Rockets for two periods, trailing just 21-16 at halftime. However fouls took their toll in the second half and Goddard pulled away.

Harry Ensor led the Warriors with eight points and Jeff Knox added six points as did Dallas Draper. Dion Lopez had four points, Patric Pearson two, Manuel Montano two and Stanley Sluder one.

"We just had a flat game," said Ruidoso coach Thurman Sanchez. "Yes, they're a AAAA team but we could have played ball with them."

The Warriors' next game is against Tularosa January 29 at the Wildcats' court.

visiting Truth or Consequences (T or C). The Warriors won that game 78-63 and will compete in the Dexter Tournament today through tomorrow. Ruidoso tangles with Capitan in a 1 p.m. game today.

Rockets defeat Warriors in junior varsity game

Despite a solid effort, Ruidoso High School's boys' junior varsity basketball team fell to Goddard High School 65-51 Monday night in Roswell.

The Warriors, 1-8 on the season, stayed with the Rockets for one quarter as the score was tied 6-6 entering the second period. However, Goddard scored 19 points while holding the Warriors to 14 in the second quarter to take a 25-20 lead into the locker room at halftime.

The hosts gradually increased their advantage in the second half to come away with the victory.

Cyrus Simmons and Paul Jaramillo had the hot hand for the Warriors. Simmons scored 16 points and Jaramillo 13. Center Brendon Colthun added nine points and did a good job rebounding.

Other Ruidoso scorers were Jessie Reynolds with six points, Kenny Espinoza with four and Gilbert Rivera with two.

Ruidoso coach Ron Geyer praised his players despite their loss to the AAAA Rockets.

"We did a pretty good job overall," he said. "They're a good team. Cyrus was tough rebounding and Jaramillo did a good job bringing the ball up court."

Espinoza and Reynolds had their best overall games of the season.

The Warriors are idle until January 30 when they travel to Silver City to meet the Colts in a 3-AAA district game. The junior Warriors will play their game before the varsity contest starts.

Alexander 8th in ski race

Bryan Alexander of the Ruidoso Junior Ski Racers finished eighth in Saturday's competition of the two-day Age Group Downhill meet in Monarch, Colorado.

Alexander was the top finisher among the local skiers in Saturday's action. He was ranked fifth or sixth in Sunday's action. However the final results for Sunday have not yet been tabulated.

Several other local racers also did well in Saturday's competition but failed to finish among the top placers.

Some of the Junior Ski Racers more advanced skiers will resume competition at the end of the month.

Lady Warriors lose to Tularosa, tangle with Dexter, Cloudcroft

Despite a close first half the Ruidoso High School girls' varsity basketball team dropped a 53-37 decision to host Tularosa Tuesday night.

As a result the Warriors are 2-8 overall on the season and 0-4 in 3-AAA district action. Ruidoso hosts Dexter tonight and Cloudcroft tomorrow night, in non-district games.

Tularosa led the Warriors by just six points at halftime, 24-18, but the Warriors were unable to keep the pressure on. Lillian Lopez, a sophomore, scored nine points to lead the Warriors' attack. Erin Rad had six points and Gia Rose five for Ruidoso. Both Rad and Rose are freshmen.

"They (Tularosa) weren't that good," said Warrior coach Sergio Castanon. "We stayed close to them in the first half but we didn't really play that well."

"Just little things are beating us now. The ball's just not bouncing right for us."

In the junior varsity contest the Warriors lost a tight 26-23 decision to Tularosa.

Despite the fact the Warriors are 0-6 on the season they played the Wildcats tough all the way.

"It was definitely our best game of the season," said Warrior coach Jim Ramsey. "Our kids did a good job."

"Yelena Seelbach and Verona Olvera did a good job on the boards. Keri Thomas and Shawn King did a good job bringing the ball up court. Patricia Ordoica, Judy McCoy, Renee Gonzales and Snelia Espinoza also did a good job."

Today's games with Dexter begin at 4 p.m. The junior varsity game is first followed by the varsity contest.

WARRIOR WRESTLING LEADER

Torres uses his strength on the mat

BY GARY BROWN

Sports Editor

To say that Wade Torres is strong for his size is an understatement!

Not many 145 pound athletes can play defensive tackle on a high school football team. But Torres does and he also uses his strength to his advantage on the Ruidoso High School wrestling team.

"Without a doubt Wade's biggest advantage in wrestling is his strength," said Warrior wrestling coach Gerald Ames. "He's very strong and also has a lot of quickness. But his biggest asset is his pure strength and power."

Torres has put his strength to good use this wrestling season, winning 11 matches and losing just three. He won the Silver City Tournament 145 pound crown two weeks ago and finished second in the Deming Tournament last weekend. He likes his chances of winning the district 3-AAA championship.

"I think I can win the title," he said. "It's not a cinch but I stand a good chance. I know most of my top competitors."

Torres was especially impressive in winning the Silver City championship. He took pins in all three of his matches against athletes who he could meet in the district tournament. When he finished second at the Deming Tournament the only wrestler he lost to was an athlete from Tucumcari so he has had few problems with district rivals this season. Torres, a senior, started wrestling as a sophomore and competed in the 138 pound division for two years before switching to the 145 pound class this season.

Wade alternated with all district star Ronald Bell at defensive tackle for the Warrior football team last fall. However, wrestling is what Torres does best.

Last year the 5-8 athlete did fairly well during the season but did not compete in the district tournament.

This season he not only plans to compete in the district tournament but to win it as well.

Easter leads Braves past Alamogordo, 38-36

Russell Easter scored four points in the last two minutes to give White Mountain Middle School's boys' A basketball team a 38-36 win over visiting Alamogordo Tuesday night.

Easter, a 5-10 center, scored 14 points to lead the Braves' attack. White Mountain is now 11-1.

The game was close most of the time. White Mountain jumped off to a 12-10 advantage after the first quarter and stretched it to a 21-16 lead at the halftime break.

White Mountain stretched its lead to 29-16 three minutes into the second half but then the visitors started to make their move.

Using an effective full court press Alamogordo outscored the Braves 18-1 the rest of the third quarter and part of the final period to take a 34-30 advantage with four minutes left in the game.

The Braves' Jason Bigham sank three free throws to keep White Mountain within a two point deficit at 36-34 with two minutes remaining.

Then Easter went to work. He sank a lay up with 1:05 left to tie the score at 36-36 and then made two free throws with 30 seconds remaining to give the Braves the victory.

Alamogordo had a chance to tie the score with no time remaining when one of its players was fouled. However, he missed the first free throw and the Braves were victorious.

The Braves' girls' A team was less fortunate, losing a 20-7 decision to Alamogordo.

Tahnee Doak led the White Mountain scoring with five points and Mavis Geronimo added two.

"Our girls did better this time," said Braves girls' coach Jean Wright. "We're trying to improve our shooting by making it as balanced as possible. We put up more shots today than we have in any game this season."

The Braves' boys' and girls' B teams will host Carrizozo today with the first game starting at 4 p.m.

Eberle named to gym board

John Eberle, director of the Ruidoso Gymnastics Academy (RGA) and coach of the Mountaintops gym team, has been elected to the New Mexico Independent Gymnastics Coaches Association (NMIGCA) board of directors.

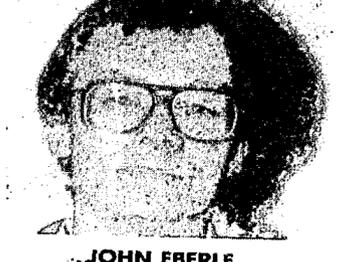

Eberle, who became director of the RGA in November, 1980, will act as vice-chairman and program director. The NMIGCA is composed of all the youth gymnastics coaches in the state.

The Mountaintops will host Alamogordo at 3 p.m., Saturday.

Alamogordo is usually one of the better teams in New Mexico, Eberle said, but is not having one of its better seasons this year.

"I'm counting on us beating Alamogordo," said Eberle. "We've been having some good practices."

The Silver Lining
 BY DANIEL AGNEW STORM

she is smiling, today all across the land, as the west wind sings down the way, humming a tune of more snow on the way.
 The mountain is a grand sight, and if things keep on going the way they are, we may see snow on the mountain up into June and July like old times.

A Message from Jack Frost
 Dear Friends of Lincoln County:

I have not had a little chat with you for quite a while, but no doubt you have been hearing about me one way or the other — what with the cold weather in most of the United States. Somebody left the gate open up at the North Pole, and the whole bunch got out in a stampede. Then this bunch was joined by a charging rampage of cold waves out of northern Russia.

I did my best to hold back the main wave of the cold from you folks in Lincoln County. Yet I am telling you, this winter's weather is extra hard to handle; and I want you to be braced and prepared for some heavy snow and cold. I keep telling you over and over that the warm spells are warnings of cold moving in, so remember.

I had heard that the Ridge Runner was playing sick, and dropped by to see him. He was well bundled up with his overshoes on out at the wood pile, and looked right in the pink.

He has always prided himself on being a great lover of winter and cold weather — in other words a tough guy when it comes to standing the cold.

He told me it was not the cold that bothered him, but the fact that he got too warm and shed some of his winter clothes for a while. He will not even take his own advice. His attitude is: "Don't do what I do. Do what I tell you."

One thing about him, he has always had such good health that when the least little thing goes wrong he thinks he has had it. He is now playing his cards close to the chest, and doing great. His neighbors, friends and kinfolks are watching over him, and also the Good Lord. The Ridge Runner is a very lucky fellow.

Well, keep smiling, and adios till next time.

With every good wish for better and better days, I remain yours ever the same.

SANTA FE — Is the redistricting the Legislature just completed fair? Here's the answer of Hoyt Pattison: "When you see things worked out in such a way that both the majority leader and the minority leader end up having to run against incumbents next year, at least you know nobody got special care."

Pattison, of course, is minority leader. Ray Sanchez of Bernalillo county is majority leader.

Having to run against anybody will be a new experience for Hoyt, who has been given free passes in both primary and general elections for so long he's probably forgotten what opposition is like.

What happened to Les Houston's determination to oppose extending the terms of seven Senators?

Before the session, Houston called us to say how he was going to fight such a move right down to the wire.

Instead, he ended up voting for it. "I am torn between partisan politics and my own conscience," he said.

Evidently partisan politics won. That's too bad. One of the things which makes Houston an interesting legislator is that he can normally be counted on to do what his own internal sense tells him to do, instead of simply going with the flow.

Rumors among insiders here say the reason Senator Kenneth Schlientz didn't fight being put into the same district with Senator John Morrow (and in such fashion that the advantages are on the side of Morrow) might just be because Schlientz doesn't plan to run again.

We might not know for sure about that till 1984, because that's the next time members of the Senate will be running — all 42 of them. Representative George Fetting's comment to Kate McGraw after the House got its system set up wasn't a masterpiece of tactfulness.

He said Otero county had to take "the trash" that was left over from the divisions of all the other counties around it.

That "trash" would seem to include Carrizozo and two precincts in Dona Ana county, which were assigned to John Mershon's district; and eastern Sierra county, including part of T or C, which went to Maurice Hobson.

John Bigbee, picked up even more "trash" than the others. He's now got two precincts in Valencia county and four in Bernalillo county to add to what he already had in Lincoln, Guadalupe, DeBaca and Torrance counties.

Some of the people who live in those areas might possibly resent Fetting's thoughtless description of them.

Most observers here fault the Democratic leadership in the House for not having done its homework when it got into town for the special session.

As a result, they feel, the Republicans and their little helpers, the conservative Democrats, picked up almost all the marbles.

They'll get to keep those marbles for 10 years, until the next census leads to more redistricting.

Rural areas and smaller towns did quite well in what the House devised for itself, but once again the big-townners showed their consistent lack of sophistication.

When you're number two, you work harder.

Letters to the Editor

Dear editor:

Your editorial in the Thursday, January 7, 1982 issue of the Ruidoso News is the epitome of the one-sided and lopsided journalistic capabilities one can find only in the Ruidoso News. We refuse to be intimidated by two men's opinions and a two bit paper. 25 cents. Anyone reading reporter Tim Palmer's article covering the address to the Rotary Club would find it extremely difficult to find it to be a "vitriolic" attack on Ruidoso and its people. If one could suppose that if Mr. Chino was not interested in promoting cooperation and understanding he would not have taken the time nor accepted the invitation to speak to the club. Rather it was just the opposite that motivated Mr. Chino to accept the invitation to address the club only to become the victim of "vitriolic" editorial attack.

To say the least it is reprehensible and irresponsible journalistic effort when you consider the article on the front page written by Mr. Tim Palmer and the editorial by Dickey and Green. When these men resort to taking items and points out of their context to satisfy their own narrow and parochial views one can only conclude that the publisher, the editor and the paper together have lost the integrity one might identify with a community paper. If a community paper could not promote understanding and cooperation - what good is it for the community? The editorial belongs in "Stuph and Junk" section of the paper.

The editorial cited a closure experience at the ski area as being capricious is only one side of the issue or incident but in all fairness the Tribe's reason for the action should have been presented - such penmanship is a paragon of journalism at its worst.

To utilize their own terminology the editorial and the deductions as to what the President of the Tribe might do is pure "hogwash" to say the least. If Mr. Chino's capabilities and ability to bring development to the Tribe and the surrounding area was based on "whims" Messrs. Green and Dickey would be hard pressed for an editorial, much less to show what the paper has brought into the community and the area for common good of the people. As already stated we shall not be intimidated by the Ruidoso News, its owner or the editor.

Wendell Chino

Dear editor:

RUIDOSO'S FUTURE
It's time to straighten out city government. We have to get the right people in office this time or watch Ruidoso have all kinds of problems in the future. We are at a crucial turning point of Ruidoso's future and it is time to put some men in office who care about Ruidoso's future, some men with brains, common sense, insight and a genuine desire to help Ruidoso over its immediate problems.

J. A. "AJ" Jung is this type of man. He knows what Ruidoso needs and how to do the job. I strongly encourage you to vote Jung in the March elections.

Terry Coe

Dear editor:

This note is in response to the letter to the editor in last Thursday's Ruidoso News from Mr. Brad Thorne, Manager of the Aspen Trails Ski Shop, who felt that one of the doctors here in our hospital was spreading rumors that local ski rental shops were purposely setting their bindings too tight in order to prevent damage to their rental skis. I was made aware of this rumor through numerous phone calls to the hospital the afternoon of Sunday, January 10.

After researching the true circumstances involved with this situation, I found that the physician in question was not spreading rumors, but rather was legitimately questioning patients who had been involved in a particular pattern of skiing accidents to ascertain if their bindings had released prior to their injuries. He was performing this study to see if there was a pattern that could be established and reported back to the local ski shops that would help them in determining the appropriateness of the settings of bindings for the skiing conditions prevalent at that time. He was not able to detect any type of pattern that would have helped the rental shops and therefore the information was not passed along to the ski shop owners. This study was not done with any malicious intent, but rather as a fact-finding mission to add information for the local ski shop owners to utilize in determining the appropriate settings for bindings and to hopefully prevent additional injuries to area skiers.

I spent the above-mentioned Sunday afternoon on the phone returning calls to concerned ski shop owners to let them know what actually had happened concerning this incident. One of those calls was to the Aspen Trails Ski Shop to a young lady whom I was told was in a management position. I explained the circumstances to her and assured her that our hospital would never do anything to damage any of the business interest in Ruidoso, especially since this community has been so faithful and supportive of the hospital's operation. By late Sunday, I thought that I had contacted all those persons who had expressed concerns and the issue had been appropriately laid to rest. Apparently that assumption was incorrect on my part.

I know everyone connected with our local hospital tries extremely hard to provide those utilizing our facility with the highest quality and most personalized services possible. My only request would be that next time I be given the opportunity to address problems or explain circumstances relating to the hospital's operation prior to reading about it in the paper, as we at the hospital also take pride in and value our reputation and standing in our community.

If Mr. Thorne and any of the ski shop owners in Ruidoso still feel a public apology for our actions is necessary, it is formally offered through this letter.

Sincerely,
Ken Moore

editorial

As a matter of general policy The Ruidoso News does not make editorial reply to Letters to the Editor. It is our feeling that we could easily abuse our obvious advantage of "having the last word."

The series of articles and subsequent editorial published in The News recently on expansion at the Sierra Blanca Ski Area, however, was a subject that the editor and publisher of this newspaper knew would create widespread comment and, possibly, diversity of opinion. We intentionally "picked a fight" on the subject, because we feel that ownership of the land at the ski area is extremely important to this community and the people who visit here. We also know that resolution of the issue will be a long time coming.

Elsewhere on this page is a Letter to the Editor from Wendell Chino, president of the Mescalero Apache Tribe (MAT). In it he states that he refuses to be "intimidated" by this newspaper. Good. The last thing we would attempt to do is intimidate Mr. Chino.

We do intend, however, to continue to publicize the MAT's attempted grab of the public lands under the ski area.

Mr. Chino stated last week that the MAT belongs financially with the upper 20 percent of corporate America. Although we doubt the accuracy of that boast, let's let the statement stand at face value.

If US Steel were the ski area lessee, how should the community react to a proposal that the Forest Service give the underlying land away because the lessee couldn't find financing for expansion?

Other corporations that operate ski areas on public lands are expanding. We suspect that many are not in the upper 20 percent of corporate America. We also suspect that many do not enjoy the cash flow that Sierra Blanca does.

This is not a racial issue, and Mr. Chino knows it. The issue is that the MAT is attempting a bald-faced land grab. Our readers can be assured that the attempt will not be made in secret.—k.g.

POLITICAL DISTRICTS

As you know ... Brucey baby up and signed into law the bills establishing new Senate/Representative Districts ... which puts Lincoln County in Rep. Tom Brown's bailiwick down Artesia way ... well, most of Lincoln County ... 'cause Carrizozo and Corona ain't included ... for legislative purposes.

This means John Bigbee ain't gonna represent us any more ... and, 'cording to the last vote, it was Lincoln County as got him in office.

'Course, in the Senate, we'll have Charley Lee ... until 1984, 'cause he ain't gonna come up for reelection until then ... providing he ain't had a belly full of politicking by then ... and decide ranching's more his forte.

And there weren't hardly no politics involved in the Senate vote on redistricting ... the tally was 22 Dems for and 20 GOPers against ... so you can plainly see it was a bipartisan faux pas.

But ... there's a possibility that Lt. Gov. Roberto ... and some other groups ... will take the matter into court ... which could lead to some changes in the situation ... which might have us voting with Rio Arriba ... to elect Emilio to represent us in the Senate ... or something equally as sensible.

So ... be of good cheer ... the situation might yet change ... for better ... for worse, maybe ... but we got our new redistricting laws ... subject, naturally, to what ever changes might be made as the politicking continues to sorta get everyone to vote ... for whom the politicians want them to vote for.

But ... whatever happens, Lincoln County's likely to wind up on the short end of the stick, so far as getting a helping hand out of Santa Fe ... be it for our sorely needed airport, or aid in killing off the sand elephants as wander out of the confines of the White Sands and desecrate our orchid fields.

So ... be of good cheer ... the politicians are still adamant in their desire to have us voting for whom they want to have us voting for ... without regard for our desires ... which is sorta par for the course ... no?

SCHOOL'S BUSINESS?

Odd, isn't it, that the Ruidoso school board, who receive their funding from taxes, are "concerned" about the possibility of a Hilton Hotel, at a value of $10-12 million, might be built on a rise overlooking White Mountain and the new Ruidoso High School.

Way I understand it, the school board's chief concern is a traffic problem ... and they don't even direct same.

Anyhow, the hotel plan calls for 140-150 rooms ... at 57 percent occupancy, which is expected to be the norm for the first two years ... there'd be about 80 cars involved ... mostly on weekends, holidays and during the summer ... when there ain't no school held.

Now ... this complex'll employ 100-105 people ... will operate the Swim and Racquet Club, continuing the privileges of present members to use the pool, sauna, tennis and racquet ball courts.

Another thing ... two and a half cents out of every dollar the hotel takes in in lodging reverts to the village ... which could help pay for some of the services the school board seems to think they are entitled to from the village.

Sounds ... from here ... as though the Hilton planners have been doing everything according to Hoyle ... and Planning and Zoning rules ... and sorta seeing to it that the proper studies have been made ... and that everything's kosher.

Seems as though the school board'll have enough problems of their own ... building a new high school ... and rebudgeting to spend funds as they gets over and above their estimated revenues ... to be worried about a profit-making, tax paying, business ... that'll have a sizeable payroll ... and probably provide some students to be educated ... without expressing concern to P&Z and the village dads about business expansion that really ain't none of the school board's business.

BRIEF BIT: Minnesotans sure ain't been complaining about poor sledding ... of late ... CD

Apalachee Chief 'cap winner

Apalachee Chief, a five-year-old gelding owned by Tom Roden of Odessa, Texas, made a successful jump into handicap competition during Sunday's program at Sunland Park.

The gelding was pitted against rough company in the $5,800 Herald-Post Handicap and swept to a comfortable two and three-fourths length victory. The sprint for four-year-olds and up put $3,480 into the winner's account.

Apalachee Chief's recent record left some questions as to whether he could handle handicap foes. During the New Mexico State Fair meeting in Albuquerque last fall, the gelding sputtered against $20,000 and $17,000 claiming company.

But his fortunes improved when he relocated at Sunland Park. He overcame $17,000 claimers by a nose as a 26-1 outsider, then coasted to a two length win over allowance sprinters as a 5-2 shot.

Sunland patrons apparently felt the gelding stood more than a reasonable chance to make the Herald-Post Handicap his third straight win, and turned him loose as a 4-1 shot. Larry Byers was in the driver's seat at 117 pounds.

Lamar Lad, who was recently nosed out in the Sunland Express Handicap, got away as a 3-2 favorite and quickly jumped into third place. Kellerville, a 25-1 outsider, was also prominent in the early going. At the halfway point of the backstretch, Kellerville had all the speed he could handle and dropped back suddenly. That left Lamar Lad in control. Born To Lead, a 9-2 shot, stayed within range.

At the turn for home, Apalachee Chief began picking up steam on the outside. The gelding quickly drew even with Lamar Lad. The latter gave in without much fight. From that point on, the struggle was over.

Apalachee Chief opened up easily and was cruising in high gear when he hit the wire in a clocking of 1:12 1/5 seconds. The gelding is trained by Alton Lawyer. The mutual returns were $10, $4 and $3.40.

Lamar Lad, ridden by Brent Overton, bagged second place money of $1,276 and handed out $2.60 to place and a lopsided $2.80 to show. Shazbot, a 7-1 outsider, charged out of fifth place to finish third, two and one-half lengths behind Lamar Lad. The show price: $4.20. Don Howard was up.

Yosemite Dancer, a steady campaigner who's earned almost $51,000 since the start of 1980, was 5-2 in the wagering this time. The gelding stayed well off the pace in the first part of the sprint, then was unable to make up enough ground. He finished a game closing fourth.

GLOVER D. RALLIED from last place to post a driving half length verdict over pacesetter Doctor Gat in Saturday's featured race at Sunland Park.

The four-year-old Valler Appeal gelding was taken back in the early running of the five and one-half furlong chase for allowance horses.

As the field of nine rounded the far turn, jockey Nicky Wilson began letting Glover D. run. He quickly moved to the middle of the track for his closing rally.

In running the course rated as good in 1:06, Glover D. earned $2,280 from the purse of $3,800. He paid $3.20, $2.80 and $2.20 as the 3-5 choice with the crowd of 3,272.

Glover D. is owned by Jay C. Childers of Borger, Texas, and trained by J. Doyal Roberts.

Doctor Gat, ridden by Louie Gomez, ran a much improved race and paid $3.80 and $3.20 as the third favorite.

Dunker Bill, ridden by Leroy Coombs, was third and returned $3.40.

The win was Glover D.'s first this season in his second 1982 outing. He earned more than $56,000 last season and was a dominating factor at Ruidoso Downs last summer.

SILKY VALUE, a 37-1 longshot ridden by Jesus Terrazas, saved his best punch for the end and pulled out a half length win in Friday's headliner at Sunland Park.

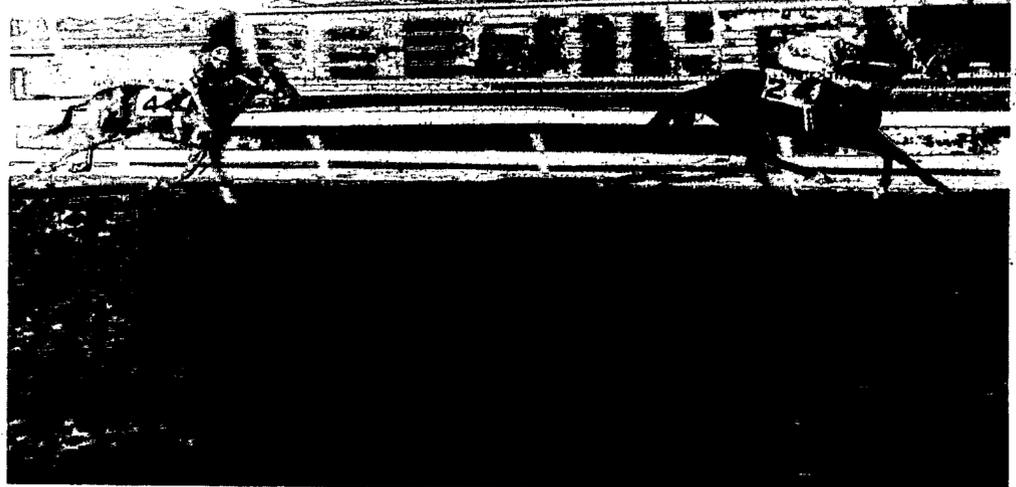

The colt lit up the tote board with payoffs of $74.80 to win, $28 to place, $8 to show.

Never Amble, a 5-1 shot, appeared to have the six furlong sprint in the bag when he moved into the lead at the top of the stretch. At the midway point of the stretch, he was a half length in front, and moving easily.

But Silky Value loomed up in the final yards to win going away. The colt is owned by Hugh Murdock of Mabank, Texas. The winning time: 1:14 4/5 seconds. Never Amble, ridden by Joe Ober, handed out $6.60 and $5. Dandy Socks finished third and paid $3.20.

Bash Blade, the 2-1 favorite, was unable to get in high gear and finished seventh. Fans who linked Silky Value and Never Amble in the quinella collected $204.20.

The win was the first of Silky Value's career.

THE CHIEF IS IN COMMAND — Apalachee Chief is nearly three lengths in front of the Sunland Park Sunday.

WHAT ARE THE ODDS of one ticket sweeping the entire Big Q Pool? Sunland Park Mutuels Manager Jerry Knott estimated it would approach 20,000-1. "It's really hard to say, but on the average, it's 20,000-1 that there would be only one winner if everybody had one ticket," he said. "It's pretty hard to win the Big Q with one ticket. On the average each customer buys between 12 and 15 tickets for the Big Q," said Knott, who has supervised the mutuels area since Sunland Park opened in 1959. "I think it's the biggest Big Q ever in the state of New Mexico. Santa Fe has had some big payoffs, but I don't think they had one that big. It's happened several times before that one ticket swept the entire pool, but the pools were only $10,000 or $20,000." Saturday's Big Q payoff of $38,840.60 was obviously the largest in the history of Sunland Park, easily eclipsing the previous record of $24,677.20 set on November 1, 1980. Knott said a regular customer from Las Cruces had the winning ticket and took some of his winnings in cash and some in a check. "We encourage big winners to take their money by check for two reasons. One is for their own safety and the other is so we don't deplete our supply of big cash. But they can do it any way they like. We've given out $10,000 or $15,000 in cash before, but it's better to do it by check," Knott said.

THE KEY HORSE in that huge payoff was Mangan, a six-year-old Parosol Pete gelding owned by the Riding High Stables of Windomar, California, and trained by Ronne W. Marshall. He paid $180.20, the highest win payoff this season at Sunland Park, for winning the second half of the Big Q. The second place horse in the 11th race was Count Bozo, a $10.40-1 choice. After winning the first half of the Big Q, 630 tickets had correctly picked Sacked, the 2-1 favorite with Planet Dandy, a $10.50-1 outsider. Mangan posted his first win since March 8, 1981, when he won a claiming race at Agua Caliente near Tijuana. Only $75 from the total pool of $8,320 was wagered on Mangan, who was ridden by Frank Pacheco.

GLOVER D., one of the standouts at last summer's Ruidoso Downs meeting scored his first victory since winning the Jockey Club Stakes at the mountain track. The four-year-old Valid Appeal gelding rallied from last place to win Saturday's featured allowance race at Sunland Park by a half length under a fine ride by apprentice Nicky Wilson. Glover D., won five races at Ruidoso Downs, including three stakes—the Memorial Day Handicap, the Aspen Stakes as well as the Jockey Club Stakes. He also won two allowance races at Oaklawn Park in Hot Springs, Arkansas. As the 3-5 choice for Saturday's five-and-half furlong feature, Glover D. paid $3.20 to win. He's owned by Jay C. Childers of Borger, Texas, and is trained by J. Doyal Roberts.

TROPIC RULER, who won an allowance race on June 27 at Ruidoso Downs, was weighted tied for eighth on the Experimental Free Handicap of 212 leading two-year-olds of 1981. The Handicap is done for the Jockey Club by three well known racing handicappers—Leonard C. Hale from New York Racing Association, Frank E. (Jimmy) Kilroe from Santa Anita Park near Los Angeles, California, and Thomas E. Trotter from Arlington Park near Chicago, Illinois. Tropic Ruler, a Key Rulla colt, was given 119 pounds off a superb 1981 season. He won 10 of 13 races with one second for earnings of $374,440 for owner A. San Coury of Oklahoma City, Oklahoma. He's trained by Brooks Claridge. Tropic Ruler won races at Turf Paradise in Phoenix, Arizona, Los Alamitos near Los Angeles, Centennial Race Track near Denver, Colorado, and La Mesa Park in Raton, besides Ruidoso Downs. Deputy Minister and Timely Writer each were assigned 126 pounds.

THE SUNLAND PARK community was saddened by the death last week of veteran horse trainer C. D. "Buffalo" Wooten. Wooten, 68, was a resident of El Paso since 1959 and was a member of the Elks Lodge and the Horsemen's Association.

LEON'S DREAM continued his winning streak by scoring his fourth straight victory in Sunday's sixth race, a mile and 1/16th chase for horses running for a $5,000 claiming price. He began by winning a race for $2,000 claimers on November 15, then won for $2,500 before taking a starter allowance event. Ridden by Willie Lovell, the six-year-old Bold Frank gelding is trained by James Curry. He's owned by Becky Lee Johnson of Enid, Oklahoma, and Freddy L. Meier of Canton, Oklahoma.

VETERAN RIDER Willie Lovell had his fourth two-win day when he guided Helen Sez ($56.80) to a win in the fourth race on Saturday and then captured the eighth race with Era Tiempo ($7.00). Other riders gaining two wins included Frank Pacheco who won on Big Boon ($36.80) in the first and Mangan ($180.20) in the eleventh on Saturday. On Friday, Nicky Wilson won with Oban's Son ($15.60) in the first and on Mito Hurts ($6.20) in the fourth. J. R. Valenzuela recorded two consecutive winners on Sunday's program. He started in the third race with Clabber Boone ($11.40) and then captured the fourth aboard Tommy T Bars ($7.40). Also on Sunday, Gary Sumpter scored two wins with Got The Blues ($18.60) in the second and on Olivers Twist ($7.80) in the seventh.

WAGERING over the three day weekend topped the $1 million level. The total of $1,049,290 was a remarkable gain of 49.25 percent over the same three-day weekend a year ago. Daily average over the weekend was a whopping $349,763. From a seasonal standpoint, the daily average is $304,803. That's a boost of 26.12 percent over the $241,684 at this point last year. Wagering per-race over the weekend was $31,797.

THE MOST PRODUCTIVE post position over the weekend was the No. 2 with seven wins. Here are the total since the start of the two-part 1981-82 season: No. 1—32 wins, No. 2—50, No. 3—46, No. 4—42, No. 5—52, No. 6—34, No. 7—35, No. 8—46, No. 9—40, No. 10—36, No. 11—0, No. 12—0.

Silky Value heads Friday's Ladies Day feature field

Silky Value, a longshot winner in his latest outing, faces seven foes in Friday's featured allowance race at Sunland Park. The Full Value colt will go against four-year-olds going six furlongs for a $3,000 purse in this Ladies Day headliner.

Silky Value showed a big stretch move in a six furlong allowance chase at Sunland Park on January 15. Kept fourth on the backside by Jesus Terrazas, he gradually began moving up on the far turn until he was second behind pacesetter Never Amble entering the stretch.

He roared through the stretch to post a half length victory over Never Amble in 1:14 4/5 on a slow track. He returned $74.80 to win as a $36.40-1 outsider.

That was Silky Value's first career triumph in nine starts for trainer Eliseo G. Herrera. The win was worth $1,860 for owner-High Murdock of Mabank, Texas.

Unraced as a two-year-old, Silky Value ran one second and one third in eight outings in 1981 as a three-year-old for earnings of $1,228.

He will again have the services of Terrazas, but will carry topweight of 121 pounds under the allowance conditions of the race.

The toughest foe may well be Peaceful Success, who was a rapidly closing fourth to Silky Value last Friday.

Beaten less than two lengths, Peaceful Success made up considerable ground after breaking ninth in the 10 horse field. The Thorny Peace gelding had two wins and two thirds in 22 races in 1981 for ownertrainer Chuck Mattox. He earned $4,662 last season.

Despite trouble finding the winner's circle in 1981, Peaceful Success ran well and consistently was close to the better horses at Sunland Park, and last summer at Ruidoso Downs.

Here's the field in post position order with assigned jockeys and weights: 1—Juliet's Platoon (Betty Harless, 116); 2—Rebel Soldier (Mike Lidberg, 111); 3—Super Torque (O. Martinez Jr., 106); 4—First Lein (Nicky Wilson, 106); 5—Burner (Bobby Don Harmon, 113); 6—Silky Value (Jesus Terrazas, 121); 7—Peaceful Success (Danny Summerow, 116); 8—Dynamo Jet (Victor Escobar, 116).

Racing continues on Saturday and Sunday. The weekend's feature will be the Thunderbird Handicap, a six furlong chase for three-year-old colts and geldings on Sunday. The purse will be $5,000-added.

Post time for each day's 11-race program will be 12:30 p.m.

Computer intelligence sought by researchers

The "Star Wars" robots R2D2 and C3PO are examples of something we are coming to expect from computers: intelligence. Even in the games we play we are often competing against silicon chips.

Faced with the overwhelming influence of computers in our daily lives and the tremendous range of tasks these machines can perform, it is tempting to think that intelligent computers have become a reality. But, according to a University of New Mexico (UNM) computer expert, the era of artificial intelligence is not yet here. "One of the problems with artificial intelligence research in the past is people have said we've got native intelligence in a box just around the corner," said George Luger, associate professor of computer science at UNM. "But it isn't true. One of the things we have to learn is that advances are made through an awful lot of hard work."

Yet even with this qualification, the advances which have already been made in artificial intelligence approach the marvels of science fiction. For instance, some computer programs actually exhibit medical "judgment" in helping to diagnose and treat hospital patients, Luger said.

"Judgment is simply a bull-in thing based on statistics, where you combine a lot of bits of information to decide whether you've got a strong probability of something."

Other examples of these expert systems programs can be found in such diverse areas as mineral exploration, automatic design of integrated circuits, law and its applications, and guidance systems for greenhouses and telescopes.

"There are three main reasons why people work in the area of artificial intelligence," Luger said. "They want to extend the range of things computers can do for example, the use of robots in advanced automation of assembly lines; they want to design computer models of the activity of human intelligence that it be better understood and perhaps extended; and it is great fun."

He said artificial intelligence is of interest to psychologists, linguists and philosophers as well as engineers, technicians and computer scientists. "Each group may have its own reasons and goals in the study of artificial intelligence, but many of the programs and tools for development are shared by all groups," he said.

One problem in artificial intelligence research is to define "intelligence."

"Indeed, such a definition is well beyond the current state-of-the-art of psychology, computer science, biology, medicine or any of our other modern sciences, just as 'life' and 'meaning' are not definable by modern science," Luger said. "Instead, we search for a behavioral description of these activities."

Luger said one famous behavioral description of intelligence has been offered by Alan Turing, a British mathematician. This description involves a person sitting at a terminal that is linked by phone lines to a second person and to a computer. The first person begins typing questions on any subject into the terminal. Both the second person and the computer respond to each question.

Turing proposed that if the first person was unable to determine which answers came from the computer and which came from the other person the computer must then be considered intelligent.

Ironically, in order to pass such a test, the computer must have to be programmed to make occasional errors in arithmetic, spelling and grammar in order to appear more human.

In addition to game playing and expert systems programs, artificial intelligence research is also progressing in the area of visual perception. Here, programs are designed to look at pictures or through cameras to recognize objects. A guidance system for an unmanned vehicle going to Mars is an example.

Another area of research involves theorem proving. "Several programs are quite good at proving theorems in mathematics," Luger said. "One program is even used to help discover new theorems."

Computers are also being used to write their own programs. "Several programs exist which write new programs from general specifications of the problems to be solved," Luger said. "Research is being done to automatically test whether existing programs do exactly (and only) as they are supposed to do."

Other programs are designed to understand spoken or written language, including translating languages and to model aspects of human intelligence, such as problem solving.

Success in applying artificial intelligence to all these tasks varies.

"In some tasks, artificial intelligence has been particularly successful, producing programs used by both science and industry," Luger said. "Some of the other tasks are actually much harder."

"Progress is still measured in years, but each step toward success is won by persistent research."

New clover variety released by NMSU

The Horticulture Department and Agricultural Experiment Station of New Mexico State University (NMSU) have named and released a new strawberry clover variety.

Named Fresa, the new variety is originally from Turkey. During breeding, two cycles of mass selection concentrated on low, dense growth. Selection and evaluations were conducted by A. A. Baltensberger, C. E. Watson, Mark Smith, Scott McLean and Roch Gaussoin.

Strawberry clover, as a species, is a low growing perennial legume. Leaves and stems are similar to white clover, but the characteristic white leaf marking of white clover is missing on the strawberry clover. The strawberry clover flowers are predominantly pink or strawberry colored and resemble a strawberry in shape.

Fresa is also a nitrogen fixing legume. It's being released for use in the Southwest as a ground cover where little traffic is expected, where little or no nitrogen will be applied, and where infrequent mowing is desired.

Because of these characteristics, developers of the new variety expect it to be in demand as a ground cover in newly established orchards in the Southwest.

Fresa is a little slower to establish a full ground cover than some other varieties, but it withstands a wide range of temperatures and soil moisture conditions, including flooding.

Strawberry clovers have shown resistance to moderate saline soil conditions and they also withstand short drought periods.

Breeders' seed will be maintained by the NMSU Agricultural Experiment Station, Foundation, registered and certified seed will be grown under the supervision of the New Mexico Crop Improvement Association, which will also distribute the seed for increase.

About two pounds of breeder's seed will be available for distribution in 1982.

Priest's slayer sought

Is the person who killed a Texas priest hiding out in New Mexico?

That is a possibility since the car belonging to Roman Catholic Priest Patrick Ryan, 51, was found parked near a private nightclub just outside of Hobbs.

This week the State Crime Stoppers Commission is offering a $1,000 reward for any information leading to the arrest and indictment of the person responsible for the murder of the popular Irish-born priest.

Father Ryan's bound and nude body was found by a maid at the Sage and Sand Motel in Odessa, Texas, on December 22. He apparently had been abducted from his parsonage in Denver City, Texas, located about 40 miles west of Hobbs, on Monday, December 21. He wasn't reported missing until Christmas Day, when he failed to show for mass.

Investigators say they found a fully cooked steak dinner at Father Ryan's residence. Police were totally befuddled by the disappearance until Odessa detectives connected it to the body found at the motel.

Authorities believe Father Ryan was the victim of a robbery. His wallet and clothing were missing and his vehicle apparently was taken by the offender, who dumped it off on December 24 near Hobbs.

A sports shirt and trousers were left behind in the Odessa motel room, but no identification was found. The person who registered for the room used a false name and address.

Investigators say Father Ryan, who was a native of Doon, Ireland, apparently was killed by a blow to the throat.

Anyone having any information about this case, particularly about Father Ryan's whereabouts on December 21 and December 22, is asked to call the State Crime Stoppers Commission at its toll-free number, 1-800-432-6933, or 1-505-842-3916 for out-of-state residents. Callers do not have to reveal their identities.

Meanwhile, Albuquerque Crime Stoppers continues to offer a reward of up to $1,000 for any information solving the hanging murder of 11-year-old Michael Anthony Padilla of Bernalillo. The youngster was last seen alive on December 2 at Coronado Shopping Center in Albuquerque. His body was found December 11 near a dirt road in Tijeras Canyon. Anyone with information is asked to call 842-8000.

Los Alamos County Crime Stoppers is offering a $500 reward for information leading to the recovery of a 1979 GMC pickup truck, which was taken from the Los Alamos Medical Center parking lot on December 14. An additional reward is being offered for information leading to the arrest and indictment of the person responsible for the theft.

In Alamogordo, Crime Stoppers is looking for a burglar who apparently needed some chain saws. A reward of up to $1,000 is being offered for information solving the December 18 burglary of the O&M Small Engine Repair Shop. Three cabin saws were taken by the offender. Anyone with information can call 437-2000.

An armed robber got some Christmas cash in Las Vegas, when the C&M Self Service Station was hit on December 17. The offender, in his mid-20's, was wearing a tan or yellow wool cap. An undetermined amount of cash was taken by the gun-wielding offender. A reward of up to $500 is being offered by Las Vegas Crime Stoppers at 425-6884.

Crime Stoppers programs in Clovis and Roswell both are looking for cattle rustlers. A $500 reward is being offered by Roswell Crime Stoppers, at 623-9000 for information leading to the solution of the November 27 rustling case. The offenders shot and killed three head of cattle, leaving two of them where they fell and then butchered a third. The offense occurred at the Eagle Creek Ranch, located some 12 miles north of the intersection of State Road 13 and United States 82 east of Artesia.

Five Black Angus heifers and three calves were taken by rustlers from a small holding pen one block south of the B&W Cattle Company in Clovis. A witness told police a tan pick-up truck with a blue stock trailer was seen loading the cattle on November 28. The witness thought the vehicle belonged to the owner. One of the heifers had a brand F on its mid-section and the other four had a "Rocking U" brand on the left shoulder. Anyone with information is asked to call Curry County Crime Stoppers at 763-7000. A $500 reward is being offered.

The State Crime Stoppers Commission and the 32 local Crime Stoppers programs offer cash rewards for information leading to the solution of major felony crimes and the capture of wanted fugitives. Callers do not have to reveal their identities.

To date, a total of 4,193 major crimes have been solved as a result of calls to Crime Stoppers programs in New Mexico and $9,256,711 worth of stolen property and narcotics have been recovered. At the same time, 2,734 individuals have been prosecuted in court on Crime Stoppers-related cases and 1,707 have been convicted for a 98.4 per cent conviction rate.

More single family home loans available from FHA

The United States Department of Agriculture (USDA) has changed its regulations to make it possible for more people to qualify for single family home loans through USDA's Farmers Home Administration (FmHA).

Charles W. Shuman, Administrator of the USDA rural credit agency, said the revised rules change the income eligibility criteria, permit funds for approved solar heating, and make numerous changes to clarify and simplify operation of the agency's single family housing programs.

FmHA has a wide range of housing programs, including mortgage loans for single-family homes, housing repair and rehabilitation loans, rural rental housing, and self-help housing loans.

Before the new regulations were implemented, they were reviewed and revised extensively, Shuman said.

One of the major changes is the elimination of a single, nationwide income eligibility level. Previously, only families with incomes below $15,600 were considered eligible for Farmers Home housing loans, except in Alaska and Hawaii.

Income ceilings now vary by economic areas and are based on a percentage of the area median income. Using data developed by the Department of Housing and Urban Development, the Farmers Home Administration now sets income eligibility limits in more than 500 economic areas throughout the nation.

For those with incomes at or below 80 percent of the area median income level, ("low"-income), FmHA provides "interest credit" which reduces the amount of interest the borrower pays, sometimes to as low as one percent. Jim Hudson, New Mexico State Director of FmHA, indicated that the "low" income limit of $11,200 was increased to $13,500 in the poorer New Mexico counties and goes up to $18,000 in the most affluent counties. He said, "this will obviously make many more people eligible for FmHA housing loans." Applicants who "qualify for "moderate" income loans will pay interest rates prevailing when the loan is closed. The current interest rate charged by Farmers Home is 13.25 percent, income eligibility limits for "moderate" income loans have been raised from $15,600 to $19,000 to $23,500 in New Mexico.

In addition, the new regulations identify "very-low income" levels, as 50 percent of the area median income, and stipulate that 30 percent of housing loans be made to borrowers in those categories, to the extent practical.

Other changes include: —Simplified loan information, instructions, and procedures to make it easier for eligible borrowers to understand FmHA loan programs.

—Interest rates charged on loans to moderate-income borrowers may be either Farmers Home's established rate or Housing and Urban Development's rate, depending on the borrower's ability to pay.

—Priority will be given to applications to refinance debts and subsequent loans necessary for FmHA servicing actions. Generally, loans will be processed on a first-come, first-served basis, but priority will be given in cases that will prevent loss of a home.

—Elimination of the five-year limitation before FmHA has authority to refinance home loans made by commercial lenders when eligible applicants are delinquent for reasons beyond their control and threatened by foreclosure.

—Size of allowable living area in new homes has been reduced.

—Stipulates certain unusual, recurring expenses which may be deducted from income in determining eligibility.

Hudson concluded by saying that additional information is available from any of the 24 New Mexico County Offices of FmHA.
