NO. 81 IN OUR 36TH YEAR

RUIDOSO, LINCOLN COUNTY, NEW MEXICO 88345

THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 18, 1982

NEIGHBORHOOD BOX UNITS, like this one on display at the Ruidoso post office, will soon be installed in the village, according to Elwood Gradine, postmaster (pictured above).

Neighborhood mail delivery may be started

It's "95 percent sure" that Ruidoso will soon have neighborhood mail delivery, according to Elwood Gradine, postmaster.

If the plan is adopted, mail will be distributed to neighborhood delivery and collection boxes with eight, 12 and 16 units each.

Neighborhood box delivery can be accomplished at half the cost of home delivery, Gradine said.

HE EMPHASIZED that there will be no charge to customers for neighborhood mail delivery, but the rental fee for boxes in the post office will increase substantially, as regulated by the Federal Postal Service.

Gradine said the establishment of the new service "primarily depends on the vote" from the surveys which were inserted in post office boxes in the last two weeks. Surveys are also available at the post office window.

Gradine estimates that according to the completed surveys returned to the post office so far, residents "are two to one for it." Unless residents vote against neighborhood delivery, Gradine said, "we will probably be starting with one or two routes by midsummer and progress from there."

Asked when the units will be installed, Gradine said, "Right now, it's strictly a guess, but probably as soon as the weather warms enough for concrete to be poured."

According to Gradine, neighborhood delivery units serving eight to 16 homes are to be installed for all new delivery routes throughout the country, as it is estimated that they will cut delivery costs in half. He said it costs $100 a year per house for door to door delivery, $80 a year per house for curbside delivery and $50 a year per drop for neighborhood box units.

Gradine also said that there should be "an immense energy saving" for customers, as they will no longer have to drive to the post office daily. All neighborhood delivery units will be within walking distance of the homes they serve.

Handicapped skiers pre-race party set for Tuesday

The Sierra Blanca Handicapped Skiers Association will hold a pre-race party Tuesday, February 23 at 8 p.m. at Cree Meadows Country Club during which local residents will be given the opportunity to support teams for Wednesday's businessmen's handicapped ski race.

Cocktails and hors d'oeuvres, including fresh oysters and shrimp, will be provided by Cousins' and Nottingham's Pub.

An auction will be held at the party, with items to be auctioned including a one hour private ski lesson with Roy Parker, golf lessons, tennis lessons, jockey club tickets, Summer Festival tickets, flying lessons and lunch at The Compound in Santa Fe.

All local residents are invited to attend. Added to the list of businessmen participating in the businessmen's handicapped ski race Wednesday are Nelson Buck, architect; Bill Braudt of Braudt Construction and Ron Harris, attorney.

Library to host candidates

The six candidates for the two village trustee positions and the two mayoral candidates in the March 2 municipal election will be present at a candidates' open forum at 7 p.m. Monday, February 22 at the Ruidoso Public Library multi-purpose room.

The public is invited to attend the candidates' forum. Candidates will be given an allotted amount of time to state their views. Ed Hyman will serve as moderator.

Interested persons may address specific questions to the candidates by mailing the questions to Friends of the Library, Post Office Box 2956, Ruidoso, New Mexico 88345.

NOB HILL Elementary School principal Don Weems enjoys interacting with students, as evidenced here by his participation in their morning exercise class.

NEW FACILITY NEED SHOWN

Airport has banner year

Takeoffs and landings at the Ruidoso Municipal Airport during 1981 totaled 29,616, airport manager Tim Morris said Tuesday. "This is the greatest number of operations we've had, and though it's misleading on traffic count, it averages 81 operations a day for the year."

Morris said "this amount of traffic clearly indicates the need for a new airport, because during peak periods, like the Fourth of July and Labor Day, with a parking capacity of 115 aircraft, we must limit planes to only 30 minutes on the ground to unload passengers, refuel and take off."

"Another problem with our present airport is the urban encroachment, and the more building increases in the airport area, the greater the risk of a serious accident occurring."

"Two other things restrict any increase in traffic: we have no capability for instrument operations and no lighting to provide 24 hour service."

Morris also said that the proposed new regional airport would have an 8,600 foot runway initially and ultimately 12,000 feet of runway, "which would handle major air carriers." He also said that the new airport would "initially provide parking for 150 planes, which would be an improvement over the absolute maximum of 115 that we can park now."

VASI, he said, is a device to establish a glide angle to land, and to provide adequate braking distance. "It is intended," he said, "as a landing reference only, as a safety feature."

Morris said that the problem of ravens and other birds congregating on the runways has been eliminated. "We merely upset their routine, which caused them to move elsewhere in the village," he said. "It took a couple of days but we did it."

The largest aircraft to use the airport, he said, have been a Gulf Stream G-2, weighing about 60,000 pounds, and DeHavillands. "Larger planes can't land," he said, "and won't be able to until we get runways long enough for them."

A SECOND improvement on the runway, the installation of a blast pad, is scheduled this year.

"A blast pad is an area to aid jet take off," he said. "Ours will be 150 by 200 feet, on the north end of the runway. Jets will be able to develop full power for takeoff, without blasting holes in the ground at the end of the runway."

Also planned for this summer is repaving of the access road to the terminal, including the circular road around the terminal, he said.

Morris succeeded Frank Potter as airport manager in 1975. "My first year," he said, "we had 17,292 operations. In 1976 it was 19,400, 20,447 in 1977, 25,136 in 1978, 25,853 in 1979, 28,182 in 1980 and the 29,616 operations in 1981, which clearly shows the steady increase in traffic."

A graduate of Texas Tech, Lubbock, with a degree in education, Morris is rated as a commercial multi-engine-instrument pilot and is a flight safety counselor with the Federal Aviation Administration. He is also president of the New Mexico Airport Manager's Association.

The present staff includes Steve Hirschfeld, Scott Tarber and Jeff Wohlgenuth as maintenance and service personnel and Robin Houck as secretary, handling the books and billing.

AIRPORT REVENUES

between June 1, 1981 and February 12, 1982, accruing to the village, include:

- Fuel sales of $262,227, including 95,575 gallons of 100 octane gasoline and 63,857 of jet fuel, for a total gallonage of 159,432.
- Parking and tie down fees of $14,550.
- Charges for use of airport facilities $11,347.
- Federal grants of $6,842.

The total income for this period of operation was $304,274.

Income figures were obtained from the finance department of the village.

Morris said that the municipal airport is now operating at about a "break even point, at virtually no cost to the village."

Present traffic at the facility includes about five percent pure jet and 20 percent turbine jets, with the balance conventional aircraft. "A new airport will increase jet traffic," he said, "and give us enough business that we'll have no operational problems."

ONE IMPROVEMENT in service locally will be the installation of a visual approach slope indicator (VASI) for the summer traffic.

VASI, Morris said, "consists of lights the pilot can see, so he can land at a predetermined spot on the runway."

If the pilot sees white over red light, "he is too low and can't land, but if he sees red over white, then he can land safely."

ONE OF THE LARGEST aircraft to use the Ruidoso Municipal Airport is this Gulf Stream G-2, weighing about 60,000 pounds. Other jets of a comparable size, and large conventional planes, are also able to land here, but the larger jet carriers cannot.

Ski Report

Sierra Blanca—Undisturbed snow depth midway on the mountain is 58 inches. Surface conditions are packed with novice and intermediate trails machine-groomed nightly. Weather at report time is heavily overcast. Skiing conditions are good to excellent and all lifts and trails are open.

Eagle Creek—Average snow depth is 20 inches. Lower Boot Hill, Box Canyon and the beginners' slopes are operating and the skiing is good. There is night skiing from 6 to 10 Friday and Saturday.

Business group plans autumn cycle festival

by WILL TURBOW
Staff Writer

The Ruidoso Business Association (RBA) on Tuesday announced that plans for the first annual Ruidoso Motorcycle Festival have been initiated. The four-day event is scheduled to take place in Ruidoso from September 29 through October 2, 1982, said Richard Richburg, RBA chairman.

Richburg said that the RBA was formed to spawn ideas designed to encourage tourism during Ruidoso's traditionally slow business periods, especially from Labor Day to Christmas.

"Three quarters to one million dollars are spent by the motorcyclists in Ruidoso, and that money is circulated two or three times within the city," he said.

The RBA is forming itself into a non-profit organization in which no officers are paid and all profits will go back into the association to initiate other civic projects, said Richburg. He said that work on the incorporation papers is starting and that the processing of the papers may take from six to eight weeks.

Richburg said that the RBA is not trying to encroach upon Chamber of Commerce responsibilities.

"We're not doing the Chamber's job," said Richburg. "We're working on the same team."

Tuesday was the second time the group, consisting of motorcycle enthusiasts from the restaurant, motel and small business community, met. In addition to Richburg serving as RBA chairman, Lawrence Hill was elected treasurer, Fran Smeal of

Weems praises his staff at Nob Hill Elementary School

(Editor's note: This is the first in a series of articles on the state of the schools in Ruidoso. Today's article deals with Nob Hill Elementary School.)

by BARBY GRANT
Staff Writer

"I think we give the students the best they can get; my teachers are terrific," said Don Weems, Nob Hill Elementary School principal, in a recent interview about the state of his school.

There are currently 325 students in the school building which was intended to house 250 to 275 when it was built in 1955.

"For the past few years I've felt that with the growth in the community and the schools, our school would certainly outgrow the physical plant, which it has," Weems said. A refurbished storage building is being used for second grade classes and some little rooms have been added to house programs that were needed, he noted.

Weems emphasized that the inadequate space at the school "doesn't take anything away from what we have for the children." He commended his teachers for their ability to adapt to the space limitations they are given.

Weems feels that completion of the new high school will help to alleviate the crowded conditions at all the village schools. He said that there are tentative plans to keep kindergarten and first grades at the Nob Hill building and to house second and third grades at White Mountain Elementary.

Fourth and fifth grades would be at the middle school building, and sixth through eighth grades at the existing high school building after the new high school opens, he added.

Despite the lack of extra space, Nob Hill has implemented two new programs this year to help individual students with special needs.

The Title One program is designed for students who need reading enrichment skills. There are two Title One aides at Nob Hill who work with small groups of students for 30 minutes a day, which Weems said "is a real benefit."

Also begun this year is a bilingual program, for which Weems said he has "seen a need for awhile." This program is for teaching students basic skills in communications before teaching them basic English language skills. There are 14 non-English speaking students at Nob Hill, Weems said.

Another program which Weems feels is beneficial is the parent volunteer program, which has been in effect at Nob Hill since Weems has been principal. The program is for parents who would like to volunteer to work in the classrooms with the teachers. "We feel we can openly let parents see what we're doing; it's good for us and good for relations," Weems said.

Weems said he appreciates that "the community has always been very supportive of the schools, which means a lot to us and makes our job much easier."

Nob Hill has 13 regular classroom teachers and two resource room teachers, one a speech therapist and one a special education teacher. Weems said the teachers "tend to bring out new things and try new ideas," which contributes to making Nob Hill an "aggressive and progressive type school."

"At this age the children are excited about school, and we try to keep them happy, as they have lots more years of school to go after leaving here," Weems said.

RUIDOSO CONSTRUCTION BOOM

Licensed, unlicensed contractors active here

BY WILL TURBOW
Staff Writer

The construction business in Ruidoso is booming. Everywhere you look, there's a new house or condominium project going up. But, who is doing all of the actual building in town? Are they licensed or unlicensed contractors?

New Mexico state law requires that anyone wishing to engage in the business of contractor be issued a valid license by the director of the Construction Industries Division of the state Commerce Department for the specific type of work that a person wants to undertake. However, not every contractor currently working at a construction site in Ruidoso is licensed.

Paul Jordan, president of the Lincoln County Home Builders Association (LCHBA), said that there are a lot of unlicensed people working who shouldn't be. "There are ways to hide and get around the law. For instance, someone can claim they're working under a general contractor's license when really they're not," said Jordan.

Jordan said that enforcing the state law requiring a contractor to be licensed is difficult. He said that there are not enough people to enforce the law. "The state inspectors should do the enforcing, but there are only one or two men in the whole state, and they don't have enough time," said Jordan.

Village building inspector Don Hendricks said that it is a problem for him to enforce the law when twenty or more building permits are issued in Ruidoso every month. He said that his main concern is seeing that builders meet the construction code. "It's hard to nail them down for contracting without a license," he said, "and I don't have time to look into those things."

A local Realtor and licensed contractor said that if there is a problem with unlicensed contractors, then he doesn't feel it because the unlicensed contractor is not taking business away from him. "The independents aren't bothering us. The unlicensed contractor doesn't tend to build homes in our price range," he said.

An anonymous unlicensed contractor in Ruidoso concurs with that opinion. He said that there are no illegal unlicensed contractors in the homebuilding business on a large scale basis. "There's no market for homes built by unlicensed contractors. We operate on a much smaller scale. Remodeling, repairs and renovations are big for us. Insurance referrals are common, too. Half of our work is insurance work," he said.

The unlicensed contractor said that he is not in competition with the large general contractors. "There is a certain relationship that exists between licensed contractors and the unlicensed carpenter. Ruidoso can't support a guy who has a license to do carpentry work and who fixes and builds odds and ends. There's a great housing market here and there is enough work for all of us," he said.

He said that there is a middle ground in between what people need and what licensed contractors are willing to do. He said that when a house is sold and the new owner wants some minor changes, a licensed contractor may feel that the job is not worth his time. The unlicensed contractor fills that need.

When it comes to the quality of workmanship, everyone in the building profession agrees that an unlicensed contractor can do as good or as shoddy work as a licensed contractor. Hendricks said, "Generally, a licensed contractor knows what he's doing and how to build to code or better. An unlicensed contractor has to at least build to code."

So what then is the difference between a licensed and an unlicensed contractor? "A licensed contractor has shown, by passing the state's contractor test, that he knows how to do what the license says. A licensed contractor is registered with the state, he must prove financial responsibility, either by submitting a financial statement or proving that he is bonded. He must also report payroll, workmen's compensation, Social Security, gross receipts tax and other local, state and federal taxes. A certain percent of the payroll also goes to the Employment Securities Commission, Jordan said.

Jordan said that if a licensed contractor is hired and something goes wrong, like a leaky roof or a bad foundation, then legal recourse against that contractor is available. "The commission in Santa Fe will get after a licensed contractor and force him to do it right," said Jordan.

Hendricks said that a licensed contractor must show financial responsibility and pass a written test on business law and on construction showing that he knows how to build a home. "A licensed contractor must guarantee a home for a year. If something is done incorrectly by an unlicensed contractor, there is no legal recourse against him."

The unlicensed contractor said that the license guarantees the right for a dissatisfied customer to go to court for litigation. "Then a lawyer, time and money is needed. It doesn't guarantee that a contractor must do anything. The customer only has the right to legal recourse," he said.

Hendricks said that New Mexico law states that any contractor operating without a license, as required by the Construction Industries Licensing Act, shall have no right to file for collection of compensation for his work. A contractor operating without a license has no right to file or claim any mechanic's lien either, said Hendricks. He said that the public and most unlicensed contractors are unaware of this section of the law. "If I was an unlicensed contractor, I wouldn't bid on a job knowing that I wouldn't have to be paid," Hendricks said.

However, the unlicensed contractor said that there is a lot of unlicensed work being done in Ruidoso. "There's somebody unlicensed at every job in this town," he said.

Jordan said that a young carpenter may come to Ruidoso from somewhere where the building business is in bad shape, go out to a site and tell someone what he can do for a fixed price rather than working by the hour. "Most of them are young and itinerant. They go where the work is," said Jordan.

The local Realtor/builder said that as a result of the deregulation of oil, a lot of money in West Texas was made available. He said those people who live four or five hours away decided to build houses up here with that money. Jordan also said that a lot of Texans come to Ruidoso to build homes. "In Texas, there is no licensing law. They're not aware that they should have a licensed contractor," Jordan said.

Jordan said that an individual has the right to build his or her own home, so long as it doesn't exceed a certain dollar amount. He said that the law is so written that it is being abused. "Some Texans come up here, and they'll get a homebuilder's permit to build a house. Then without getting a licensed contractor, they'll build the house. Some months later, they'll go back and get a permit in their wife's name or their kids' names. He can build as many houses as he wants in a year and sell them for as much as he wants," said Jordan. He said this is being done quite a bit.

Hendricks said that usually the licensed contractor takes out a building permit, but that any individual may obtain a homebuilder's permit. He said that 75 percent of the permits taken out are by legally licensed contractors, but that the remaining 25 percent are issued to individual homebuilders.

"Many homeowners who take out permits subcontract legally licensed contractors, but if an unlicensed contractor is working there and the homeowner says that he's paying that guy by the hour, then the contractor is an employee of the homeowner, and everything is legal," Hendricks said.

The Realtor/contractor said that when he hires somebody who is not a licensed subcontractor, then he becomes an employee of the firm and goes onto the payroll. Workmen's compensation, taxes, unemployment insurance and the rest is deducted, he said.

However, the unlicensed contractor said that it doesn't always work that way. He said that there are some contractors in Ruidoso who've acted illegally according to the state law and who have also broken the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) regulations when taking on unlicensed contractors.

He said that a contractor must pay the workmen's compensation in advance. The unlicensed contractor said that he paid a certain percentage of his fixed contract price to go toward his workmen's compensation, but when he was injured and was put in the hospital, there were no payments to cover his expenses. It ruined his credit rating, and he had to pester the contractor who hired him to pay off the debt.

Another common practice, said the unlicensed contractor, is for a contractor to keep a small crew of "loyals," young men who are married and might have kids and need a steady income. These loyals will be kept on the payroll, but the rest of the crew will be unlicensed men who are subcontracted. If one of the unlicensed contractors were injured, then the general contractor might go back, doctor up the paperwork, putting that man on the payroll retroactively. "That paperwork goes back months. No one is witness to anything different," said the unlicensed contractor.

He said that the IRS and the Construction Industry Commission know nothing of each other. The unlicensed contractor said that as someone who pays for contract labor, he is set up to pay taxes and receives a form that reports how much money he paid out and earned. However, the IRS has no idea that he is not a licensed contractor and that he is violating the law.

Out of a roughly estimated 165 contractors working in the Ruidoso area, the unlicensed contractor said that somewhere between 10 and 20 percent are unlicensed. "They're just as conscientious and their work is just as good as any licensed contractor. They're not stepping on anybody's toes," said the unlicensed contractor.

The most notorious unlicensed contractors are the roofers. The unlicensed contractor said that this is true because roofing is easy to learn, little money and not many tools are needed to be equipped and roofers are paid by the piece work method. Framers, painters, dry wall hangers, masons and carpenters have also been known to operate without state licenses, but electricians and plumbers usually do have their licenses, said the unlicensed contractor.

Half of the unlicensed contractors don't realize the risks that they're taking, said the unlicensed contractor. Some of those risks if caught, he said, are never being granted a license, a criminal penalty and fines and the fact that they are not supported by the law in any litigation. "They stand to lose a lot of money in one job if a person decides not to pay them for their labor," said the unlicensed contractor.

Why, then, do unlicensed contractors continue to operate without licenses? Money, the unlicensed contractor said, is the main reason. They're saving money by not paying the taxes, workmen's compensation, the social security and bookkeeping. He said that an unlicensed contractor can do the same job as a licensed contractor for 25 percent less, and they often underbid jobs, making a home less expensive.

An unlicensed contractor operates solely out of the necessity to avoid the high costs of being licensed, said the unlicensed contractor. "It's a gamble for both parties, the owner and the contractor, but both are out to save money and cheat the government. There are no safeguards on either side," he said, "I must be confident of my ability to judge character."

The unlicensed contractor said that he's been satisfying people in Ruidoso for more than five years. "I've performed with pride and craftsmanship. My motivation is not always greed for quick cash," he said. He said that had he paid the costs to be licensed, he'd be nowhere now. "I've been able to save some money and buy a lot of my own. The taxes alone would have prevented me from getting jobs I have gotten or they would have consumed all of my profit," said the unlicensed contractor.

Jordan, Hendricks, the Realtor/contractor and even the unlicensed contractor believe that it is worth it to get a contractor's license if one is planning on staying in one place to make it in the construction business. "You'd sleep a little easier at night knowing that you've got it," said the Realtor/contractor.

The unlicensed contractor is presently studying to take the state's contractor test because he intends to become large enough to build speculatively and he couldn't operate without it. "I can't stay under the table forever," he said.

He also registered in a school to help prepare him for the contractor's test. He said that anything that will prepare someone for dealing with the fear and insecurity of taking an eight hour exam is worth it.

Although the unlicensed contractor is taking the test, he strongly believes that licensing should be eliminated. He said that plenty of people can pass the exam just on their ability to test well. "The commission's test does not serve to keep people out of the construction business who are undesirable and scrupulous. A law should be made that makes it legal to sue anyone for shoddy craftsmanship," he said.

Business group eyes cycle fest

Alamogordo was selected secretary and Tom Dorgan was appointed chairman of the budget committee.

The RBA is currently laying the groundwork for a motorcycle festival to fill in the hole left by the Aspenade Motorcycle Convention this year. Dorgan will be working on a $75,000 budget to attain the needed advertising, insurance, location fees, pins and patches, registration forms, materials and other incidental expenses, said Richburg. He said that the association will go through the Chamber of Commerce in hopes of receiving the $4,000 of Lodger Tax Committee funds that would have been allocated to the Aspenade Motorcycle Convention for advertising.

Richburg said that pre-registration for the motorcycle festival will cost $15 and $20 at the gate. This will entitle people to four days of entertainment, poker runs, motorcycle rallies, motorcycle-oriented field events and more, said Richburg. He said that the gate admission for local citizens with proof of residence would only be $2 for every festival visit.

Richburg said that he has contacted the race track and the Inn of the Mountain Gods about housing an area for vendors to display their goods. He said that both are still tentative, but that the track seemed receptive to the idea of staging the festival in the Sales Arena. If neither location proves acceptable, said Richburg, then a large circus-type tent would be used.

Anyone interested in assisting the RBA in its efforts is invited to the association's next meeting, at 7 p.m. Thursday, March 4, at the Hide Out Restaurant.

Refreshments will be served. For more information about RBA or the motorcycle festival, contact Richard Richburg at 257-9975, or Lawrence Hill at 257-4785.

Chamber discusses Aspen Festival

The board of directors of the Chamber of Commerce yesterday discussed some of the major events and activities being investigated by its members for the October 4 through 10 Ruidoso Aspen Festival '82. Some of those plans include a team roping contest, a chili-cookoff and a pro-am celebrity golf tournament.

Jerry Bigham said that a team roping event would be a super way to draw people to Ruidoso in early October. He said that it's a popular spectator sport for which people don't mind paying to see. A large prize money purse could then be made available to draw the ropers in. Bigham said that he would proceed with his inquiries about a team roping event.

The past chili-cookoff champion, Ray Walker from Las Cruces, will be in Ruidoso today to speak with Ed Jungbluth, Chamber director, about the possibility of putting on a chili-cookoff for the Aspen Festival. Walker is also the tourism and convention manager for Las Cruces who believes that Ruidoso is one of the most innovative towns that he knows of and thinks that a chili-cookoff might be a good autumn event, Jungbluth said.

It was also reported that the New Mexico Tractor Pullers Association may be interested in coming to Ruidoso for a tractor pull. The pullers would like to find local service clubs to sponsor the event. A location for the pull would also have to be found, but it was reported that a maximum of only 350 feet is required. The pullers will prepare the earth with their equipment and put the earth back when they're done.

It was also reported that the Rotary Club has been discussing the possibility of a pro-am celebrity golf tournament with Bob Green, the Associated Press golf writer.

The pros would would come in from Abilene, Texas, where a new pro circuit golf tournament will be held, and stop over in Ruidoso on their way to another tournament west of here. The Ruidoso tournament would be a one day affair.

In other business, the board announced the new Chamber members. They are: Ms. Piggy's, Innsbruck Lodge, Video Taping Productions and Ron Smith Real Estate. Jungbluth said that 165 ballots have been cast in the new Chamber board members election. The deadline to vote is noon on March 1.

Preparations for the Dallas Sports and Vacation Show are underway, announced Jungbluth. He said that some of the materials have already been crated, and they will be shipped to Dallas and stored there until the day before the show when Jungbluth will set up the Ruidoso hospitality booth.

CONFISCATED DRUGS valued at about $12,500, seized since last June, are exhibited before being incinerated Wednesday by, from the left, Ruidoso patrolman Skip Hazel and police chief Dick Swenor.

Dinner to benefit Care Center van

A benefit Mexican plate dinner, to raise funds to purchase a mechanical lift for the Ruidoso Care Center van, will be served from 5 to 9 p.m., February 25 at the Deck House Restaurant, sponsored by the Ruidoso Care Center Auxiliary.

"All proceeds from the dinner," Tony Apodaca of the restaurant, said, "will be donated to the Care Center for this lift."

The adult menu includes one New Mexico tamale, choice of one red or green enchilada, beans, rice, chips, salsa and tea, at $5. The children's plate, at $2.75, includes a burrito plate with homemade tortillas.

Tickets are available from Care Center Auxiliary members, at the Care Center and at the Deck House Restaurant.

Atwood is candidate for trustee

Sherman Atwood Tuesday formally announced his candidacy for reelection as a village trustee.

Atwood and his wife, Shirley, first visited Ruidoso in January, 1947, and purchased their first commercial property in 1958 prior to becoming permanent residents in 1960. The couple's twins, Mike and Mital, were born here and attended Ruidoso schools.

Atwood is a graduate of The University of Texas and was an accountant in Texas before establishing an accounting office here in 1963.

A member of the village trustees since 1974, he said his primary goal is to set guidelines "which would help Ruidoso grow and still keep its mountain village charm."

During his eight year tenure as a trustee, he said, "we have initiated broad changes and advances necessary for the orderly growth and advancement of our community, including our Regional Wastewater System, a modernized solid waste collection operation that keeps the trash from being scattered the way it used to be, and a paving program through which Ruidoso now enjoys the enviable position of having more paved streets than nearly any town of comparative size in New Mexico.

"We have upgraded our subdivision requirements to a point that they are the most strict that I know of, but these same requirements have made the new subdivisions so desirable we have attracted people from all parts of the country and have had an unprecedented growth.

"Growth always produces additional problems, and of course the major one to contend with is the water supply, and we have constantly striven to solve the problem. We must remember that with the new water treatment facilities and storage tanks, Ruidoso did not run out of water last year in spite of a relatively dry season and the largest number of people to ever visit our community.

"We are on the right path for not only solving the water problem but also to keep our community the finest place in the world to live."

MLS hears candidates

Two candidates seeking election in the March 2 municipal election addressed the Multiple Listing Service (MLS) committee of the Board of Realtors Tuesday morning. Trustee candidate Mike Morris and mayoral candidate George White expressed their commitments to growth for Ruidoso.

"The Realtors of this town are an important part in the growth of Ruidoso, and most people don't realize it," said Morris. He said that the Realtors probably spend more than the Chamber of Commerce on advertising to bring people to Ruidoso. "Without you, many of us would not be here. Our growth depends on you," said Morris.

White said that he wanted to quench the rumors that he is "anti-growth." "I'm not against growth in this community. I'm against unplanned growth and I am concerned about water," said White. He said that he, as a village trustee, had never voted against residential building, although he had voted against some condominiums in certain parts of the community.

In regular MLS business, it was announced that John Winniford and Greg Masters had been appointed by the Board of Realtors to serve on the Planning and Zoning Commission Advisory Council that is currently being formed. Other groups being represented on the council are the Retail Merchants Committee, the Lincoln County Home Builders Association and two members of the community at large.

Mule skimmers meet

Election of officers and directors of the Ruidoso Downs Mule Skimmers will be at 7 p.m. Friday, February 26, in the multipurpose room of the Ruidoso Public Library.

Other agenda items include setting of dates for the fall mule races and discussion of the program.

Gayle Rogers, who attended the national American Mule Association convention recently in Phoenix, Arizona, will explain the new grading system to be used in mule racing and how a speed index will be established to insure fair competition in all mule races.

Memberships in the organization will be accepted at this meeting and all persons interested in mule racing, and mule activities, are invited to attend.

Hondo levy passes

Ernest J. Booky, superintendent of the Hondo Schools, said that the two mill levy election held on Tuesday passed by a 72 to 8 vote. He said that the money collected from the tax will be used to continue the renovation of the existing school facilities.

He said the levy will bring in $35,700 a year for three years. $11,400 would be generated by property taxes and the remaining $24,300 would come from the state.

The money will be used to install a new roof on the school and for insulation and energy efficient double pane glass windows, said Booky. He said that the flat roofs currently serving the school complex leak, which causes other damages to school property.

Booky said that the mill levy comes after last August's bond issue for $304,000 which started the renovation process. He also said that a request for $113,000 has been submitted to the Public Schools Outlay Council to replace the heating system in the elementary portion of the single campus school system. Booky said that a new fireproof exhaust hood and a new range are also needed by the Hondo schools.

Espree Party has happy winners

It was close to midnight last Monday as the tension rose and the results came closer down to the wire. When it was all over, four very happy people were presented with a $10,000 merchandise certificate. Rudy and Delma Loya and Joe and Grace Lopez will be able to purchase merchandise with their certificate at any Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce member business and the Chamber pays for it.

Everyone had a great time at the Chamber's Valentine Espree Party, not just winners. Said one party-goer, "The music was good, the dancing was great, the food was excellent and the people are wonderful."

There were other winners besides the Lopez and the Loya couples. Jerry Bigham won the first prize to be presented, which was anything he wanted among the pile of goodies. He chose the $300 season ski pass to the Sierra Blanca Ski Resort. A grille from Savage Electric was given to Robert Beavers, and Tom Kelham received a Mimi Jungbluth print.

Harvey Foster and his wife picked up a $100 gift certificate from Brunel's Department Store. A Tru-flect mirror from New Mexico Glass was presented to John Frye. Ron Harris was the lucky one to get the family color portrait from Timber Trail, and Bill Wolf and Jim Wimberly will have to split a television set from the Village Hardware and Paint Company.

Mary Wimberly picked up a Gordon Snidow artist's proof. Other items given out were a brass ceiling fan, a Charles Rhodes original painting and the Gibson's teddy bear.

CONGRATULATIONS are in order for Joe and Grace Lopez, on the left, and Delma and Rudy Loya, on the right. They were awarded the $10,000 merchandise certificate at the Valentine Espree Party. About 225 people attended the party which netted about $2100. Chamber president Richard Sandoval, center, was curious as to how the Loyas and Lopezes are going to spend their money, but they weren't telling, yet.

Handicapped skiers thrive at Sierra Blanca

DIANA PERSON, director of the Sierra Blanca Ski Area Handicapped Skiers Program, has been at the resort for 18 years, first as an instructor and for the last six years as the handicapped skiing director. There are 23 ski instructors for the handicapped at Sierra Blanca.

Gary Brown
Sports Writer

Having a handicap doesn't have to be an obstacle in learning how to ski. In fact, says Diana Person, director of the Sierra Blanca Ski Area Handicapped Program, many handicapped skiers learn to be better skiers than most people. "I think they have more incentive," Person said. "It's a challenge to them and most of them do quite well."

The handicapped ski program at Sierra Blanca has been in operation for six years and Person has been the director since it started.

"I've been here since the resort opened 18 years ago," she said. "I taught skiing here and also at Fort Bliss in El Paso for amputees of the Vietnam War."

When the handicapped program was first started at Sierra Blanca there were only six instructors. Now there are 23.

This season, which has been a better than average year for skiers at Sierra Blanca, has also been a boom year for handicapped skiers participation.

"We've had 94 people participate in our program this season," Person said. They include blind skiers, mentally retarded skiers, amputees and cerebral palsy victims.

The instructors take the skiers out on the beginners' slope at first and teach them the basics of skiing. Many of the skiers advance rapidly and are out on the slopes by themselves in no time.

"Blind skiers generally advance the quickest," said Person. Cerebral palsy skiers usually have the roughest time since they have little or no control over their muscles."

Handicapped skiers like amputees and cerebral palsy victims can be fitted with certain types of equipment to help them ski better.

Learning how to ski at first is tough for many handicapped skiers but once they learn the basics they take to the slopes with little or no problems.

Wednesday handicapped skiers from the New Mexico School for the Visually Handicapped (NMSVH) in Alamogordo visited the ski area. The blind skiers come to the ski resort every Wednesday.

"The best thing about going skiing is going fast on the slopes," said Duren DeBoise, a student at NMSVH. "I especially like it when the slopes are wide open and clear."

Duren has been skiing at Sierra Blanca for four years. Mike Martinez, a ski instructor from the resort, helps him in places where there isn't a lot of space.

"Duren and the other skiers can generally ski well when it's fairly clear ahead of them," said Martinez. "We stay close to them and help them when it gets crowded or there isn't much room."

Handicapped skiers also come from Fort Stanton and Tabosa Hospital in Roswell. Many of the handicapped skiers come on their own with their families or friends.

"We've had people come from as far away as Alabama," said Person. Age isn't a barrier for a handicapped person who wants to learn how to ski.

"Most of our students are 18 years old or less," said Person. "However, old and young people can learn how to ski. The oldest skier we've had in our program this season was 73. The youngest was only five."

What personal satisfaction does Person get from the handicapped program?

"I get satisfaction from watching these people learn how to ski and enjoying themselves," she said. "I enjoy watching them get lots of satisfaction out of it."

Blanca Ski Resort Wednesday morning. Many handicapped people have learned to ski in the resort's extensive handicapped skiers' program.

Ruidoso State Bank leads Little League

The race in the Ruidoso-Serloma Basketball Little League is rolling into high gear after Tuesday night's games at the White Mountain Middle School gym.

Ruidoso State Bank still leads the league with a 6-1 record. However, it lost its first game of the season Tuesday when Clark's Refrigeration edged it 13-12.

Bryan Harris led Clark's Refrigeration, now 6-2, with six points. Kirk Ryan, younger brother of former Ruidoso High School star Glenn Ryan, led Ruidoso State Bank with 10 points.

The game was close all the way but Clark's Refrigeration hung on to defeat its taller opponents.

In the other Tuesday night game, Noskey's won its first game with a 28-26 overtime victory over Roundup Realty.

Eli Paloco led the winners with 12 points and Ed Prudencio added six points.

In games Monday night Ruidoso State Bank topped Jerry's Quick Stop 19-13, Ranch House nipped Gibson's 22-21 and Clark's Refrigeration defeated Pioneer Savings 36-8.

Going into tonight's games at White Mountain Middle School, teams trailing Ruidoso State Bank and Clark's Refrigeration are Gibson's, 4-3; Jerry's Quick Stop, 3-3; Ranch House, 3-3; Roundup Realty, 2-4; Pioneer Savings, 1-5; and Noskey's, 1-5.

The first game tonight starts at 6 p.m. Two other games will follow it an hour apart.

Gun Club has Turkey Shoot

The Ruidoso Gun Club will host a Turkey Shoot Sunday, starting at 1 p.m.

There will be matches from both 100 meters and 200 meters in three classes: open sights, hunting rifle and scope and target and bench rest rifles.

There will be 10 shooters in each group. Prizes will be awarded to the winners of each group.

The Gun Club is located on Hale Lake Road. Further information is available by calling Charles Moore at 378-4603.

Mescalero to host cage meet

Mescalero will host an open men's double-elimination basketball tournament February 26-28 in the community gym. The tournament is limited to 12 teams and there will be a $60 entry fee per team.

Tuesday is the deadline for the tournament. Trophies and awards will be given out. For further information on the tournament, call 671-4494.

Wildcats, T or C present different problems for Warrior hoopsters

When Ruidoso High School's boys' varsity basketball team meets Truth or Consequences (T or C) and Deming this weekend it will be facing two radically different teams.

T or C, which will host the Warriors tomorrow night, plays a slow-down game with low scoring games generally the result. Undefeated Deming, which Ruidoso hosts Saturday night, likes to fast break up and down the court.

"They're an outstanding team," Warrior head coach Barry Nelson said of Deming. "They like to run with the ball a lot and it's almost impossible to try and slow down the game against them. We tried to slow the game down the first time we played them (a 77-38 Deming victory) and didn't do a very good job."

Nelson calls the Wildcats the best team the Warriors have played this year. Ruidoso, 2-4 in district 3-AAA play and 4-14 overall, will be facing a Deming team that doesn't really have a weakness.

"They're very quick and have a lot of depth," Nelson said. "They're also very good rebounders. They just do everything well."

Don Pethick, a 6-5 center, provides a lot of the rebounding strength for the Winless T or C tomorrow night doesn't present the Warriors with nearly as many problems as the Wildcats do.

Ruidoso topped T or C 78-63 last month, possibly the Warriors' best effort of the season.

Wildcats, Pethick, 6-4 Karl Hayward, 6-3 Mike Nunley and 6-2 Sal Uzveta give Deming plenty of height for the Warriors to deal with.

"We'll probably just try to run with them," Nelson said. "Nobody else has had any success trying to slow the game down against them."

However, that game was on the Warriors' court and T or C's slowdown tactics could give Ruidoso some problems tomorrow night.

"They've been slowing the game down against everybody," Nelson said. "I think they held Cobre down to something like a 28-17 score."

"What we're going to have to do is control the tip at the beginning of each quarter and work for the best shot. We've got to hold on to the ball and control the boards. We're bigger than them so that's something of an advantage."

Ruidoso's height comes from 6-4 Steve Sluder and 6-4 Bill Richardson. Richardson had one of his best games of the season last Saturday against Cobre in a 53-36 loss.

The lanky senior scored 20 points and did a good job rebounding against a fast and aggressive Cobre squad.

Sluder and 6-1 senior Ric Pearson should give Richardson some help on the boards, particularly against T or C.

At guard, Scott Neal, Pete Garcia and Marc Delhotal have been consistent scorers and starters this season. Garcia, in particular, has come on strong in the last month.

Mark Jaramillo, a junior, and sophomore Cyrus Simmons give the Warriors some bench strength at guard.

After this weekend's games the Warriors tangle with Tularosa and Cobre on the road to finish the regular district season. The district tournament is March 2-4 at Cobre.

District 3-AAA Basketball Standings

Team	District record	Overall record
1. Deming	7-0	16-3
2. Silver City	5-3	8-11
3. Tularosa	4-3	9-9
4. Cobre	3-3	9-9
5. Ruidoso	2-4	4-11
6. Truth or Consequences	0-8	3-13

Ruidoso girl cagers lose

Turnovers again plagued Ruidoso High School's girls' varsity basketball team as it fell to host Artesia 48-21 Tuesday night.

The Warriors, now 3-15 overall, only trailed 22-14 at the end of the first half but the roof caved in in the second half.

"We gave the ball away three of every four times we took the ball up the court in the second half," said Ruidoso head coach Sergio Castanon. "It's the same thing we've done in the other 17 games this season."

Brigid Almagar led the Warriors with six points. Center Jan Huey added five and Tami Valdez four for Ruidoso.

In the junior varsity contest Ruidoso saw its two-game winning streak snapped by Artesia 39-30.

Ruidoso only trailed by two points with two minutes left but four Warrior players fouled out and Artesia had its victory.

Freshman Erin Rad led the Ruidoso scoring with 13 points. Judy McCoy added six points and did a great job on the boards.

"McCoy's play was probably the best by a junior varsity athlete this season," said Castanon.

The Artesia loss was the junior varsity's last game of the season. The junior varsity ended the season with a 2-11 record.

Several members of the junior varsity will join the varsity for games against Truth or Consequences (T or C) and Deming tomorrow night and Saturday.

SHIRLEY PENN of Odessa, Texas practices skiing on the beginners' slope at Sierra Blanca Ski Resort. Many skiers who have had little or no experience on the slopes can learn from ski instructors at Sierra Blanca. People of all ages are in the beginners' classes.

Remember when college basketball was a high-scoring game?

Although most basketball fans think of the modern version of the college sport as a fast-moving, supercharged game, there's some evidence that the ball-control patterned offense of the 1950's and before is coming back into style.

Just one look at last Saturday's results involving the country's top 20 teams would seem to bear that fact out.

Six of the games involving the top 20 teams ended with the winner scoring less than 60 points, hardly an offensive explosion when compared to the way some teams scored points in the 1970's.

Eighth ranked Arkansas was upset by Houston 55-63, top ranked Virginia nipped Clemson 56-54, ninth ranked Minnesota edged Purdue 53-52, 11th ranked West Virginia beat Saint Bonaventure 49-43, 15th ranked Kansas State toppled Iowa State 58-49 and 19th ranked Washington slipped by Stanford 53-52.

Those low scores are more reflective of the type of games that were played when Bill Russell was leading the University of San Francisco to two straight national championships in the middle 1950's, not 1982 when there are 7-4 centers and guards who can slam dunk the basketball and fly up and down the court like a race driver.

Perhaps one of the reasons a lot of college basketball games are resulting in less points being put on the scoreboard is that many underdog teams are trying to slow down the tempo of the game to eliminate the advantage their more talented opponents have.

While that strategy doesn't always work, a team that's good at a ball-control offense can often defeat a team with more talented individual players.

Perhaps one of the best examples of this was the 1959-60 University of California teams which won one national championship and finished second in another national tournament.

That squad did not have a great deal of natural talent. In fact, most of its players were mediocre at best.

However, the Bears had a great coach in Pete Newell, who knew how to get the best out of his players.

California would slow the tempo down and force the other teams to play its style of ball. The Bears, who had an excellent playmaking guard in 5-10 Al Buck, would very seldom score more than 65 points in a single game.

Buck, despite the fact he did not have great natural ability, used his intelligence and his knowledge of his teammates' ability to dictate the flow of the game.

The Bears also had a big center in 6-10 Darrel Imhoff, who could grab the rebounds so California could control the ball. Imhoff, who later went on to play professional basketball with the Los Angeles Lakers, only averaged 13 points a game but more than made up for it with his defensive skills.

California won the national championship in 1959 but finished second in 1960 when Ohio State, sparked by John Havlicek and Jerry Lucas, copied the Bears' style and beat them 75-55.

Good defensive basketball and ball-control offenses won a lot of games in those days. But in the last 20 years the fast break has changed the style of the game.

Still, more teams in the last couple of years have turned to the deliberate style of play in an effort to overcome the advantages of more talented opponents.

It's possible we might see a slow-down game in the National Collegiate Athletics Association (NCAA) tournament, particularly if a ball-control minded team draws top ranked Virginia and its 7-4 center, Ralph Sampson.

In that case, if the team opposing Virginia somehow gets the opening tip over Sampson it might go into a stall right then.

Then we'd definitely see a flashback to the 1940's and 1950's.

Ruidoso wrestlers compete in District 3-AAA tournament

Ruidoso High School's wrestling team will have to overcome the obstacle of powerhouses Silver City and Deming if it's to win the district 3-AAA tournament tomorrow in Alamogordo.

The tournament, which will be held at the New Mexico School for the Visually Handicapped (NMSVH), will see the top three wrestlers from each weight class advance to the state tournament next week in Los Lunas.

The Warriors generally found the going rough against Silver City and Deming in previous tournaments this season and they'll be without one of their top wrestlers for the district tournament.

Henry Rue, who was figured to finish no worse than third in the 119 pound class, won't be able to wrestle for health reasons. Rue has been having chest pains and his doctor wants to reexamine him in two weeks.

Without Rue, Ruidoso may need a minor miracle to win the team championship. "Without Henry we're in trouble," said Warrior coach Gerald Ames. "That's at least 20 points we'll lose."

Despite the loss of Rue, the Warriors should send six to eight wrestlers to the state meet.

"Doug Schmidt at 125 pounds is our best bet to win the district crown," said Ames. "He's beaten everybody in our district and should win the title."

Schmidt has won three tournament championships this season, including the first annual Ruidoso Invitational last month.

Mike Stienzig of Silver City should be Schmidt's toughest competition but the Warrior wrestler has beaten him every time they've met this season.

Other Warrior wrestlers who could qualify for the state tournament include Ray Montes (105 pounds), Chuck Schmidt (112 pounds), Jim Askew (132 pounds), Wade Torres (145 pounds), Scott Ciraulo (167 pounds), Gary Burgess (185 pounds) and Ronald Bell at heavyweight.

"Torres is probably our next best bet for a first place medal," said Ames. "He has the ability to beat anybody in the district and he's consistent."

Torres, who has fully recovered from a shoulder injury, won the Silver City Invitational last month and finished second in three other tournaments.

The powerful senior is extremely strong, having played defensive tackle on the football team last fall despite weighing only 145 pounds.

Ciraulo and Burgess are only sophomores but have good chances of winning berths to the state meet.

Ciraulo won the title at the Cobre Tournament two weeks ago and has unlimited potential. Burgess finished second in the Cobre competition and has improved rapidly this year.

Montes has been consistent all season and, barring an upset, should qualify for the state tournament.

Askew has been consistently taking third places in tournaments this season where the competition was at least as tough as it will be in the district tournament. Bell has also taken several third places.

Three Mountaintops gymnasts compete in state III meet

Three members of the Ruidoso Gymnastics Academy (RGA) Mountaintops competition team will compete in the New Mexico State Class III championships in Albuquerque Saturday.

Angela Jones and Amy Thornton will compete in the 9-11 year old division while Hillary Heid will participate in the 12-13 year old competition.

"We have a chance to finish fifth or sixth in the team standings if the girls perform up to their ability," said Mountaintops head coach John Eberle. "Our girls are just about as good as anybody in the meet but other teams have more athletes."

Heid has a best all-around score of 30.35 and her top event is the balance beam, where she has a top score of 8.40.

"Hillary has a chance of winning the balance beam," said Eberle. "Her top score is as good as anybody's in this meet."

Thornton, who has a best all-around score of 32.70, is very strong in the uneven bars where she has a top total of 8.80.

"Amy also has a chance of winning the uneven bars although the competition is tough," said Eberle. "However, she is strong in all events and has done well all season."

Jones has a best of 30.50 in all-around competition. Her best events are the uneven bars and the floor exercise. She has a top score of 8.10 in each exercise.

"Angela has the ability to do very well," said Eberle. "If she performs up to her ability she should do very well." The top eight finishers in each division of each age group will score points.

Eberle sees the Albuquerque Gym School and the Mesilla Valley Club of Las Cruces as the team favorites.

"They're both really strong teams," said Eberle. "Albuquerque Gym School won the championship for several years before finishing second last year. Santa Fe could be considered as having an outside shot at the team championship."

There will be 10 to 12 teams entered in the competition. The meet will be held at Del Norte High School. It will begin at 8 a.m. and should conclude around 4 p.m.

Winter to mean growth?

Freezing, bitter winter weather in the Midwest and Northeast will eventually mean more people and more business in New Mexico.

High energy costs and cold winters had a direct influence on New Mexico's 30 percent population growth through the 1970s, according to Bob Coppedge, Extension economist at New Mexico State University.

"The 1980s, especially after the winter that's setting records all over the Midwest and Northeast, is going to cause a fresh flood of people and companies seeking the sun," Coppedge said. However, there are some negatives in that flood, he said.

"The impact of more people will take many forms, some good and some bad," Coppedge said. "Increased population means more pressure on community services and facilities. There will be more competition for jobs, even though there will be more job opportunities, and there will be more competition for recreation sites."

"Businessmen are people, too. They get cold and tired of high energy bills, too," he said. Coppedge expects the state's overall economy to benefit as business and industry look for sunny skies.

"How we plan for this growth in the 1980s is going to have a great influence on whether we like what happens to us, or not," he said.

"Economic prospects are good for New Mexico in the 1980s. Providing the right economic climate will improve those prospects even more," Coppedge said.

Church exterior restored

Restoration of the exterior of Lincoln's San Juan Church recently was completed by the Museum of New Mexico.

Time, weather and neglect had taken their toll on the 1837 church, one of several 19th century buildings at Lincoln State Monument. The church's tin roof and wooden trim had deteriorated, and plaster on the walls had fallen away in some places to expose adobe bricks.

Under the restoration project, the corrugated tin roof was replaced and the walls were replastered using a rough cast technique to duplicate the original texture. Braces were installed in the attic to support the roof, and the wood trim was replaced and painted to match the original design and color.

Now that the exterior work has been completed, restoration of the interior will begin. Funds for the church project and for minor repairs elsewhere at the monument are from a $100,000 state appropriation, sponsored in 1981 by Representative John Bigbee, R-Guadalupe-De-Baca-Torrance-Lincoln. The project architect was William E. Burk III of Albuquerque, and the contractor was James Walde of Roswell.

In the late 1800s, Catholics of the Rio Bonito Valley worshipped in a building which had been Lincoln's dance hall and temporary courthouse. By 1886, the congregation decided to build a church, donating labor, materials and limited cash. Roof beams were cut from trees in the nearby Capitan Mountains, and more than 18,000 adobe bricks were made at the construction site.

Lincoln's peak population of 450 began to decline after the county seat moved in 1913 to Carrizozo. When the parish headquarters followed the county offices to Carrizozo a few years later, San Juan was served by a visiting cleric.

By the late 1960s, the population of Lincoln had dropped to about 50 people. The church was then sold to the state of New Mexico in 1973.

TRICIA REAVES

Ex-Warrior cheerleader a model

Tricia Reaves has made a name for herself since graduating from Ruidoso High School in 1978.

The former Warrior cheerleader and Junior Ski Racer is now a professional model in California.

Tricia, the daughter of Sue Walizer of Ruidoso, lives in Huntington Beach, California. She has done a considerable amount of modeling for ski magazines, her last job being a ski ad for Ocean Pacific in Powder Ski Magazine.

How did she get involved in modeling? "After high school I went to the University of Colorado (UC) at Boulder and was offered a place on the ski team," she said. "However, I wanted to do something different. That's when I started modeling."

"Through the experience I gained in the Junior Ski Racers, I was able to teach skiing when I came back to Ruidoso for the holidays. I later moved to Huntington Beach where I taught skiing on a revolving ski deck. Because of that I was chosen to be featured in a national magazine (Skiers' World) as a snow star."

Reaves also did a fashion layout for the magazine and her career has been booming since then.

The 5-7, 122 pound Tricia credits much of her success with skiing and eventually modeling to Paul Southwick, her coach on the Junior Ski Racers:

"With his help, I was able to become one of the top girl racers in New Mexico during my last two years of competition," she said. "Thanks to him and the Junior Ski Racers, I am able to combine my skiing with my modeling successfully."

WHO WAS JESUS OF NAZARETH?

Was He a fanatic, a liar, or the Lord? If He was a fanatic or a liar, then we have nothing to worry about. We can chalk Him up as just another religious con-man, a sort of first century Elmer Gantry, but if He was actually the person He claimed to be, then we must give serious consideration of His claims to deity.

So let us talk about this all embracing question: Who was Jesus of Nazareth?

Let us first look at what Jesus said about Himself: In the gospel of John 5:16-18 we see that the Jews were angry at Jesus because he had done miracles on the Sabbath; you see, the Jews of that day considered it unlawful to do any type work on the Sabbath, including "miracles of mercy". Therefore they sought to put Jesus to death.

Jesus also said to these Jews: "My Father worketh hitherto, and I work" (John 5:17).

And how did the Jews understand Jesus when He referred to God as "My Father"? They became more determined to kill Him because Jesus was making Himself equal with God in a very personal sense — like He and God were of the same essence (John 5:18).

The same idea can be seen in John 10:30, 31 where Jesus said: "I and my Father are one," then the Jews took up stones to stone Him.

Thus, in the context of the austere mono-theistic culture of Jesus' day, He was understood by His enemies to be claiming equality with God — that He was God's son in the sense of being begotten out of the same essence as God Himself.

Now I can hear someone say: "But Jack, your quotations are from the Gospel of John, the latest Gospel written. What about the earlier records?" Okay, let's go to Mark, the earliest gospel. What do we see? Jesus forgave sins against God.

In Mark 2:1-5 four men brought to Jesus a man afflicted with palsy. Instead of Jesus telling the man to be healed He said: "Son, thy sins be forgiven thee." According to Jewish law only God could forgive sins against Himself. So, let's see how Jesus' enemies understood Him: "But there were certain of the scribes sitting there and reasoning in their hearts, why doth this man thus speak blasphemous? Who can forgive sins but God only (Mark 2:6,7)?"

"You can see it again — in Jesus' cultural surroundings He was understood by His enemies to be taking a prerogative belonging only to God."

Let's go on to the trial of Jesus. Again we are in the gospel of Mark 14:60-64: In these scriptures the High Priest asks Jesus a very direct question, "Art thou the Christ, the Son of the Blessed?" ("Blessed" was used by the Jews in the place of God's redemptive name, "Jehovah"). And what was Jesus' reply to the High Priest?

"I am," Jesus said.

And folks, that answer of Jesus' has stayed with the history of mankind ever since. You, and you alone, must decide about Jesus of Nazareth. Was He a fanatic, a liar, or the Lord?

If you decide He was the Lord, then I have good news for you: If you confess with your mouth that Jesus is the Lord, and if you are convinced deep inside you that God raised Him from the dead, you shall receive complete deliverance from sin and all other things that separate you from God, you also shall receive the gift of eternal life because of the fact that God loved this world enough to send His only unique and begotten Son.

The Silver Lining

BY DANIEL AGNEW STORM

We all congratulate Lon Nunley

Along in the middle of "The Birthday Month" it was brought to our attention that one of Ruidoso's favorite sons was awarded a football scholarship to The University of New Mexico.

It gave us all a great lift in our spirits to realize that we have young folks in our country cut out of the same cloth as the great Americans whose birthdays we remember in February.

I have known Lon all his life, since first he began attending the Church of the Holy Mount with his father and mother, grandparents and his brother.

On Valentine's Day Lon came down to Glencoe with his father to attend morning services at Saint Anne Chapel. I had not had a close look at the lad for a while, and it was great to see that he has blossomed out into a sculptor's model of an American Athlete.

And he has qualities of character to match decency, kindness, sportsmanship, cheerfulness and a devout nature.

Lon is the product of good parents, teachers, coaches and friends—all of whom he has well repaid in being the splendid youth that he is.

And while we are congratulating Lon, we also thank him for being a good son, pupil, friend, and Christian gentleman.

We are glad that he chose New Mexico University. Now the folks up in the northern part of the state, and football fans from coast to coast will have a chance to see the high quality of young people who grow up in Lincoln County.

A Touch of Spring
This message is being written on the second of two mild days (fifteenth and sixteenth).

And Spring, waiting impatiently in the wings to come on the stage, has sent out a few little signs to let us know it is more than ready to arrive.

The tiny purple blooms of the wild carrot, and the golden dandelion are blooming; and the green grass fringes the edge of the stream. The weeping willow is turning golden—the sign that is about to leaf out. And the willows on the banks of the stream have turned their orange red.

Just the same, there are clouds forming in the north; and the sparkling snow on the mountain keeps the valleys cold. And we know winter is still here, and any day may move in with cold, telling Spring to be patient and not be in too big a hurry. Adios, and rejoice in our Lord's blessings.

you," she said. Shown with Swayze are Kathy Barnett, center, president of the Ruidoso chapter of Altrusa, and Jane Deyo, first vice governor of the five state District 10.

Village Lodge — It Leaves You Breathless

SPECIAL

Located in the Sacramento Mountains of Southern New Mexico, the community of Ruidoso offers visitors tall pines, clean, refreshing mountain air . . . and four seasons of fun! And the place to enjoy it all is the Village Lodge.

Autumn and winter in its old-fashioned magic is yours at Village Lodge. Visitors can trail ride, picnic, backpack, and hike along scenic mountain trails, golf on bent grass greens, fish the streams and lakes, and even catch a game of tennis. There's the Aspencade in October, mule racing, Indian ceremonies, historical tours, fine night life, unique art galleries, Indian curio shops and "old world" antique shops, winter hunting, skiing, sledding and tobogganing — and just plain sitting with your feet up breathing the cool mountain air and relaxing — at the Village Lodge.

Village Lodge is located at Inisbrook Village on Alto Highway across from the Ranger Station. Each of the 32 units at Village Lodge is a three-room suite containing living room, fully-equipped kitchenette, bedroom and bath. In addition, each suite features a wet bar and two color TV's with in-room movies, and a woodburning fireplace to add a cozy note.

For information and reservations, call (505) 257-9021 (or write Village Lodge, P.O. Box 2301, Ruidoso, New Mexico 88345, for free literature).

Mr. Businessman: Is Ruidoso's economy important to you?

We sometimes take for granted many of the things that make living in Ruidoso worthwhile. In other parts of the country, and even in other parts of New Mexico, people are having a difficult time making ends meet.

We are a little more fortunate to live in a community with a stronger economy. Perhaps your business is not doing as well as you'd like. Perhaps it's doing better. In either case, you'll probably agree that if our economy does not continue to grow, it will begin to die.

We believe in the American "free enterprise" system and, as such, growth is bound to occur within that system. We cannot stop growth in Ruidoso, BUT WE CAN CONTROL IT.

Under the leadership of Mayor Lloyd Davis, our tax base has risen 42% in the last five years.

Mr. Businessman, if you ask yourself where your customers come from, you must realize that they come from the orderly growth policies of leaders like Lloyd Davis. That customer in your store or that person eating in your restaurant is very likely a construction worker, or a truck driver. They have money to spend in your business because they have jobs in Ruidoso - jobs in building, housing, roads, etc.

We believe it would be a mistake to elect those whose public record is totally against growth - the backbone of our economy and the source of your customers.

For the sake of our village, our economy, and your business, re-elect

Social Security information

Medicare beneficiaries should be aware of changes in the law that affect the amount they must pay for the cost of hospital care.

Beneficiaries who receive more than 60 days of hospital care during a benefit period, or who receive more than 20 days of care in a skilled nursing facility during a benefit period, must pay part of the daily cost of their care. Under the old law, the amounts they were required to pay were based on the hospital insurance deductible that was in effect when the benefit period started. This was true even if the care was received after a new deductible became effective.

Under the new law, the Medicare beneficiary is responsible for the current year's daily amounts, even if the benefit period has not ended. Thus, a person whose benefit period started in 1981 and who required more than 60 days of hospital care or more than 20 days of skilled nursing facility care that extended into 1982, will have to pay part of the daily cost of care based on the 1982 hospital insurance deductible.

Another change in the law that affects Medicare beneficiaries is the elimination of the "carryover rule" for medical insurance. Under the old law, any covered medical insurance expenses incurred by a beneficiary during the last 3 months of a year that counted toward the annual deductible for that year, also counted toward the deductible for the following year. This carryover rule no longer applies.

Still another change effective in 1982 increases the annual deductible for medical insurance under Medicare from $60 to $75. As a result, a person must incur $75 in approved charges for doctor's bills or other covered expenses in 1982 before Medicare will begin paying 80 percent of the approved charges for the remainder of the year.

Record number of kokanee to be stocked this year

Trades with other states for kokanee salmon eggs have resulted in a record number—2.5 million—to be stocked this year in New Mexico's northern kokanee waters, according to Bob Patterson, fisheries biologist, Department of Game and Fish.

The kokanee came primarily from Colorado (two million), the remainder from Idaho and the department's spawn-taking operation at Navajo Lake. The eggs are being hatched and reared at Parkview Hatchery near Chama.

Patterson said approximately 354,000 fry from the 2.5 million have already been stocked at Eagle Nest Lake. The remainder will be stocked in Navajo, El Vado and Heron lakes, probably in late February.

Walleye eggs from New Mexico's Ute Lake were traded for the kokanee.

Salmon are easily managed when planted as fry, Patterson said. The hardy fry survive exceptionally well compared to other species, grow relatively fast in good waters and provide a good sport fish for anglers.

After the first year, kokanee are of keeper size and can be caught by conventional angling methods—mainly trolling—for about three years, Patterson said.

"When they mature and come in to spawn, special seasons for the species allow relaxed bag and possession limits," he said. "Most are taken then by snagging."

Kokanee die after spawning—making the average life span about four years.

The highest number of kokanee previously stocked by the department in one year was about 200,000, Patterson said.

Inside The Capitol

by Fred McCaffrey

SANTA FE—Senator John Morrow rose to explain his vote.

He was right to do so. He was voting "yes" on a bill on which his heart told him he should vote "no."

The bill was the by-now-famous House Bill 2, the one which funds the operations of state government for the coming fiscal year.

But what Morrow was expressing his opinion on was not some abstract bill. It was not a question of what the state should or should not do, without reference to reality.

What he and the other members of the State Senate were voting on was a concrete bill—one which had been largely shaped by the members of the House; then examined and commented on by the members of the Senate Finance Committee; then, as amended, turned down by both House and Senate; and only later submitted to a conference committee made up of members of both legislative bodies.

By that time, as Senator Morrow made clear in his comments on how he planned to vote, most of the things which might help the poor and the needy in New Mexico had been sweated out of the bill.

What remained was a relatively heartless bill of the kind which could have been drafted by a cold-eyed mortgage banker. The surplus funds of the state of New Mexico, this bill made sure, would be used to take care of the basic needs of state government, with little or no "heart" involved.

That was what Morrow, and many other members, in both the Senate and the House, had against the bill.

It was a bookkeeper's bill—nicely balanced, but giving no real thought to anything but the kind of thing accountants find in profit-and-loss statements.

A prosperous political entity like the state of New Mexico, many feel, should find some leeway to take care of those with problems.

It should not be the sole aim of government, at either the national or the local level, to see that the rich get richer and the poor get poorer.

And while all this was going on, where was the dynamic leader of the state of New Mexico?

He was in his eyrie on the fourth floor of the Capitol Building.

And what was he doing? He was rewarding another of those members of his administrative team who get into trouble by decreeing for him what is called "administrative leave."

Tough punishment!

That means you get to stay home while others come to work; but you collect your pay for doing nothing, while they have to perform to earn theirs.

And who was the "sufferer" in this case? Herman Grace, head of the Governor's Office of Community Affairs, given this free ride and reward for the fact that there are questions about his handling of at least $2 million in government funds.

That's three members of the Governor's official family who have been so "punished" in recent weeks. Grace joins Dickie Montoya, boss of the powerful Public Service Commission, and Cabinet Secretary John Salvo, of the Commerce and Industry Department, who have had to be put out to pasture, somewhat to the embarrassment of the man who nominated them to their jobs (Bruce King).

How many more will have to go before the King regime ends at the start of the upcoming New Year?

Any knowledgeable observer of state government could have named the previous three as potential embarrassments to the Governor at least two years ago.

As a matter of fact, some of us did.

Letters to the Editor

Fatality

Dear editor:

Years ago the man on the street with the sandwich board, predicting the eminent doom of the world was a joke.

That message, doom, is in the heart and soul of every man, woman, and child.

The dictionary defines fatality as the quality or state of being destined for disaster.

The possibilities are real, our duty is clear. We've turned our faces from God, this can be the result:

The bomb dropped on Hiroshima had the explosive force of approximately 15,000 tons of TNT. Today the U.S. has over 30,000 nuclear bombs, and Russia has 20,000. Nuclear weapons in present day arsenals range in size from one thousand tons to 20 million tons of TNT.

A large thermonuclear bomb exploded on a clear day at ground level on Albuquerque, N.M. would create a fire-ball nearly six miles in diameter, with temperatures of twenty to thirty million degrees Fahrenheit. Everything in the downtown area, the streets and earth below, and all living things would be vaporized, leaving a crater several hundred feet deep.

At six miles from the epicenter, all people (over 500,000) would be instantly killed by a huge silent heat flash traveling at the speed of light. Glass would melt and buildings would collapse when hit by a supersonic shock wave and winds of 225 miles per hour.

Within a 10-mile radius, or roughly the distance from Albuquerque to Isleta, the blast wave, 100 mile per hour winds, and fire would inflict almost total casualties, with at least 50% dead and 40% injured. Even at 20 miles from the epicenter (Los Lunas), 50% of the people would be killed or injured by the direct thermal radiation and blast pressures. A single nuclear device would result in tens of thousands of severe burn injuries. The entire U.S. has, intensive care facilities for fewer than 2000 such cases.

Many would be killed by random spontaneous fires fueled by oil storage tanks, natural gas lines, gasoline and LNG tanks. These fires might coalesce into an enormous firestorm 1,200 sq. miles fanned by 100-200 miles per hour winds, creating temperatures capable of cooking and asphyxiating those in shelters.

Survivors of the fires would be exposed to lethal or sublethal doses of radiation from short term fallout. Even mild winds of 20 miles per hour would carry fallout as far as 150 miles. Alamogordo, where everyone exposed could receive a lethal dose within 24 hours.

Hospitals would be destroyed and most medical personnel would be among the dead and injured. There would be millions of corpses. Food, air, and water would be contaminated. Survivors would die from starvation, dehydration, radiation sickness, and infections.

In an all out nuclear exchange, all major population and industrial centers would be hit, both in the U.S. and U.S.S.R. Such an exchange could destroy most life in the Northern Hemisphere. World wide fallout would result, with possible destruction of the ozone layer, changes in the earth's temperature and mutation of crops. It would be a different world afterwards, colder, harsher, and contaminated by radiation for thousands of years.

1. Repent and return to your Father, forsake the evil of the World. 2 Timothy 3:1-9.
2. Put pressure on our government leaders to adopt Christian ethics with our neighbors. Matthew 22:36-40.
3. Our faith, prayers, and work will save mankind from himself. Isaiah 24:5-6.

Editorial

The newcomer to Ruidoso is struck by the low-key nature of the campaign leading up to the March 2 municipal election.

The only widely visible signs that the election is nearly upon us are candidates' advertisements in the newspaper and on the radio, and a couple of truckbed billboards.

This is not meant to be taken as a criticism. Heaven forbid we should ever have candidates for mayor or village trustee who launch their campaigns two years prior to the election.

It is disturbing, however, that the candidates seem to display a common reluctance to confront the issues.

It is not enough to hear that a candidate is concerned about growth, or that, if elected, he or she will work on providing Ruidoso with water.

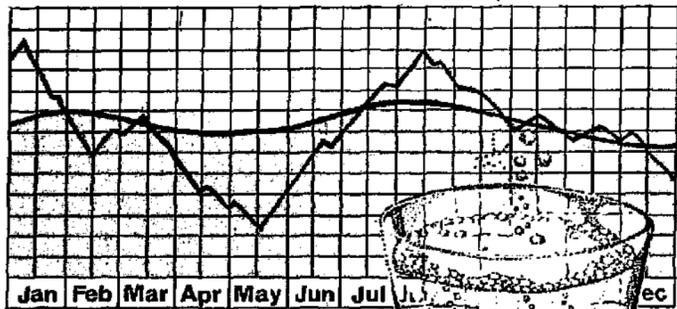

The voters need and deserve to hear specific stands from the candidates on the many important issues facing the village.

We do not need to hear expressions of concern about the problems of our community, but clear statements of what the candidates intend to do about these problems.

To this end, The Ruidoso News is offering a forum for the candidates' views. In its two issues next week, The News will carry the answers of the candidates for mayor and trustee to a set of questions on the issues.

We urge the candidates to be clear and forthright in their answers. We urge the voters to carefully read what they have to say. —T.P.

Budget Relief... The Average Billing Plan

Seasonal changes in your electric bills can make budgeting a real headache, but the Average Billing Plan can help. With the Average Billing Plan you know about what amount you will pay each month. You can eliminate the extreme highs and lows due to the seasons' changes. At the end of the year, you'll find your total amount paid for electricity is the same as if you were on the regular billing plan... only without the high bill surprises.

Here's how it works:

FIRST MONTH
MOST RECENT 12 MONTHS ACTUAL USE	+	AVERAGE BILLING AMOUNT	=
EACH MONTH THEREAFTER
MOST RECENT 12 MONTHS ACTUAL USE	+	15% OF ACCUMULATED DIFFERENCE*	=
		AVERAGE BILLING AMOUNT

NOTE: If you have less than 12 months history at your present address, the "average" will be based on the number of months available.

VIDEO GAME RAGE

The video game has not turned out to be a trendy and transient form of home entertainment, as might have been expected. Sales are on a fast track, and accelerating at a pace that says something about Americans' apparently insatiable appetite for gimmicky new diversions.

The manufacturers foresee no slackening, and are free with talk of the wonders to come. The head of one firm which enjoyed a 1,000 per cent rate of growth in 1981 says he expects a similar jump this year, from $10 million in sales to $100 million, and thinks the company will do a billion dollars worth of business a year by 1985. Another game producer thinks video game sales will hit the four-billion mark within five years.

A California firm's president, Jim Levy, puts his expectations thus: "We expect that the majority of American homes will have some sort of computer game-playing device, either video game or home computer, by the end of this decade. Since only 10 per cent do so today, there's enormous growth ahead."

Well, we shall see. It does seem to be a fair guess, based on Americans' record of fascination with new electronic gadgetry, that the boom will continue for awhile. Even if the pace is less giddy than the entrepreneurs envision, it will be an amazing development, one likely to have a major, if not yet clearly definable, impact on films and other entertainment media. —Alamogordo Daily News

ON WORLD AFFAIRS

If'n Rompin' Ronnie didn't get his indoctrination under fire on international affairs before last weekend... he sure got it then... 'cause lotsa action transpired over the weekend... like Secretary of State Heig's remarks that the Russians are employing toxic weapons in Asia... that 194 Poles were arrested for protesting martial law throughout Poland... and that a United States missionary was slain in Guatemala.

Now... part of the problem with the Soviets... in using mycotoxins... which are said to be chemical weapons with a biological origin... is that Our Jimmy didn't want to irritate the Russians... over the use of these weapons... so he didn't raise much of a ruckus about, maybe, the fact the Reds weren't exactly abiding by the terms of the biological weapons treaty... and that's something Rompin' Ronnie's gonna have to live with... sooner or later.

Yup... Our Leader's gonna have to get with the program on trying to bring the Russians into line... and figuring out how to alter break the Reds is gonna test all of Reagan's skills as a horseman... or so it do appear.

Yup... being the mediator in trying to combat the Russians... when everything's possibly more or less going their way... could prove to be an exercise in futility... that just might put Reagan on tagament... to keep from having his ulcers surgically removed... no?

As to the latest slaying of a missionary in Guatemala... well there really ain't much of nothin' nohow as Rompin' Ronnie... or anyone in the United States, apparently... can do about such happenings... 'cause it's highly unlikely that all missionaries... wherever internal strife is brewing in the nation they're stationed in... can be provided with armed escorts... 'cause that might really provoke perpetrators of such acts of infamy into further violence... which don't mean such for instances are a lost cause... but it do mean it ain't far from it.

As to what'll transpire in Poland... as the Reds nosily go about the business of trying to control the Poles... remains to be seen.

Yup... we're a nation of folks as sorta wants most folks to live as we live... though there are plenty of for instances... as in the cases where we tried to industrialize folks as don't have such tendencies... or modernize their agricultural practices... where we didn't get the job done... and ain't likely to.

Yup... things tends to get frustrating.

RED HOT ELECTION?

Tuesday it was... at ice tea time... when I was just getting ready to quaff a refreshing glass of same... who should have into view but Shakey Pete... and when Shakey's moving... and hoves in my direction... I sorta get goose bumpy... 'cause I've learned... since first Shakey bent my ear... that hoving's a sign meaning that Shakey's got things to talk at me about.

So... being's Tuesday... until that moment... had been a pretty good day, I did the honors for Shakey... 'cause he really don't get into expounding... until he's enjoyed his first sip at a glass of refreshing ice tea.

"You know," Shakey said, "this here upcoming village election is sure gettin' lotsa folks all shook up... and got 'em talkin'... and writin' letters to the editor of 'The Ruidoso News... and all... and it's for sure a lot of people maybe has more opinions about this election than they've had for a spell."

Now that was quite a bunch of talking for Shakey... on just the first sip of his ice tea... and, from long experience, I realized he was just getting warmed up to his subject... but being's I was enjoying my quaffing, I figured I had naught to lose by letting him ramble on... at least for the time it took to quaff the refill... which Shakey'd ordered.

"Yup... that mayor's race is likely to be a real humdinger," Shakey said. "Why folks as I've talked with are sure pushing the guy they favor... why, I ain't seen nothin' like it in all my years here."

"Then there's all those folks as hopes to be a trustee for the next four years... they're really gettin' into the spirit of campaignin'... like they're really talkin' up what they'd like to see happen here in Ruidoso... and some of the ideas they're toutin' ain't all that bad... providin', of course, they can figure out some way to get the job did."

All this gabbin' from Shakey... who ordinarily ain't all that interested in local politics... sorta left me wonderin' what he really had on his mind... outside of quaffing an ice tea, whilst he bent my ear.

Well... he kept on talking about first one candidate... then another... and I got to thinking, that he'd be going to the polls come March 2... to make certain he'd get his vote cast.

"Yup," he said, "looks like this election'll be one of the best we've had... which ain't all bad."

BRIEF BIT: If you think "think know" will help... do it... 'cause we need it... CD

Photo contest open to high school student

The New Mexico Center for Photographic Studies at New Mexico State University (NMSU) and Patti Camera in Las Cruces are sponsoring the eighth annual High School Photography Contest. Entries must be received for judging by March 31, 1982.

Open to all full-time students in grades 9-12 in New Mexico and El Paso, Texas, the contest requires black-and-white photographs of high school-related activities taken since January 1, 1981. The pictures must be taken by the entrant but may be processed commercially.

Entries in sports, portrait, classroom activities and miscellaneous categories will be judged by the NMSU chapter of the National Press Photographers Association (NPPA). Entrants may enter no more than three pictures in any one category but are allowed to enter any or all categories.

Prizes include Best of Show and first, second and third place ribbons in each category. The Best-of-Show winner will receive a plaque and his or her school will receive a traveling trophy. All winning entries will be displayed on the NMSU campus during April and at Patti Camera Shop in Las Cruces during the month of May. All winners will be notified by mail.

To have photographs returned, entrants must supply a self-addressed, stamped envelope large enough to hold all entries. The pictures may be printed in either 5 by 7 or 8 by 10-inch format, but they must be mounted on 11 by 14-inch vertically-oriented mounting boards or stiff cardboard.

Entrants must put their name, address, name of high school and category of entry on the back of each photograph submitted. Mail entries to: High School Photo Contest, Box 31, NMSU, Las Cruces, New Mexico 88003. Mailed entries must be received by March 31, 1982.

For more information about the contest, call Don Martin NMSU's NPPA sponsor, at (505) 646-2606.

Sunland Park Hoofbeats

SUNLAND PARK PATRONS really greeted the mid-60-degree temperatures with enthusiasm over the holiday weekend. Sunday's crowd of 4,036 was the largest this season and it wagered $465,436, the best one-day total this season and the second-highest in the 23-year history of the west El Paso track. It eclipsed the previous runner-up total of $462,487 set May 2, 1982. The Big Q pool on Sunday of $52,610 was also the highest this season, topping the previous high pool of $51,736 set on January 31. Saturday's crowd of 3,548 wagered $459,490, which was the best this season before Sunday's mutual handle topped it. That is now the fifth highest one day total in Sunland Park history. Combined with Friday's mutual handle of $282,624, the regular three day weekend's mutual total rose to $1,207,550, the highest this season. A year ago, the daily mutual handle average was a record $267,436 and this year's total seem destined to surpass that figure.

—POST TIME will change to 1 p.m. beginning this Friday and will continue to be 1 p.m. through the conclusion of the spring season on May 2. The only exceptions may be trial race days for major futurities.

SUNLAND PARK RACING SECRETARY Donald Rausch and wife Margaret are the happy parents of a baby boy named Michael Thomas, who was born last Monday. He weighed six pounds, 11 ounces at birth. Other children include Vicki Rausch, 19, and Donald Wayne Rausch, 12.

TERRY BICKEL, former racing office employee at Sunland Park and Ruidoso Downs, has been named assistant racing secretary at the Downs at Santa Fe. It is believed Terry will be one of the highest ranking women in the racing business. She will begin her duties shortly before the Santa Fe track begins its summer season this May.

APPRENTICE JOCKEY CASEY LAMBERT, son of veteran New Mexico horse trainer Clifford Lambert, won both halves of the daily double races Wednesday at Oaklawn Park in Hot Springs, Arkansas. The teenager started his streak by guiding Crazy Talk ($8.00) to a front-running three-length victory in the first race at five and one-half furlongs. He then guided I'm Not Late ($67.40) to a wire-to-wire four length win in the second race. Crazy Talk is trained by Jean Brennan while J. J. Pletcher handles I'm Not Late. The double paid $231.20. Other Sunland Park winners last week at Oaklawn Park included Field Court ($16.00) who was ridden by Brent Overton for trainer W. R. Morse, and Empress Princess ($4.00), who was ridden by Nicky Wilson for trainer J. Doyal Roberts.

SOME KINDA TUFF tallied his third consecutive victory when he posted a one and one-fourth length win over Moon Mito in Saturday's second race at 670 yards. He was ridden again by veteran Gary Sumpter to his popular $4.60 win. Trained by G. Otis Fenton, he's owned by Essel H. Johnson of Guyton, Oklahoma.

CRATOR HIGH, who romped to a nine and one-fourth length victory in Saturday's first race, set a seasonal fastest time for the five furlongs, with his rapid :57 1/5 clocking. The colt, who was ridden by Billy Byers, is trained by Richard A. Nolan, who owns him with W. C. Black and A. D. Phillips of Sunland Park.

LEON'S DREAM, a six-year-old Bold Frank gelding, failed in his bid to capture his fifth straight victory in Saturday's seventh race at one mile. He's trained by James Curry for owners Shirley Thompson of Amarillo, Texas, and Bob E. Weathers of Enid, Oklahoma.

AN ODDITY OCCURRED in Saturday's sixth race when apprentice jockeys F. O. and Orlando Martinez Jr. finished one-two in the five and one-half furlong chase. Orlando steered Never Amble ($12.20) to a half-length win over his older brother F. O.'s Byers Hope in the rapid time of 1:04 1/5.

SEVERAL JOCKEYS WON TWO RACES in one program over the four day weekend. Apprentice rider Orlando Martinez Jr. took consecutive races when he won Friday's ninth race on Toddler ($4.80) and then captured the featured 10th aboard Tina Serina ($37.80). Thomas E. Wood trains Toddler while Joe H. Welch handles Tina Serina. Richard Bickel also won two, winning with Tool Joint ($5.20) in the second and On Bozart ($5.00) in the sixth. Fred Danley trains both runners. Martinez doubled again on Saturday, scoring with Never Amble ($12.20) for trainer Carole J. Tillemans in the sixth and on Picture Point ($6.00) for trainer Frank K. Wilson in the eighth. Louie Gomez also won twice, winning with Who's Arguing ($9.80) for trainer Albert Frazzini in the seventh and on Phil's Phantasy ($6.00) for trainer Ike Danley in the featured 10th race.

ON SUNDAY, Danny Summerow and Larry Byers each posted two wins. Summerow tallied on Ga Ge Boy ($9.60) for trainer Carl Draper in the fourth and on Mr. Bavarian Bar ($6.40) in the seventh. Byers won on Olympia Morn ($3.40) in the sixth for trainer Billy Hill and on Shecky Who ($2.60) in the featured Valentine's Day Purse in the 10th for trainer Clifton Dean.

ON MONDAY, Bobby Don Harmon won two consecutive races. He started by taking the sixth on Fireball Leader ($12.60) for trainer Michael W. Joiner. He then captured the seventh aboard Amadiamond ($29.60) for trainer Elmer L. Shepard.

THE FOUR-DAY WEEKEND produced a booming mutual handle of $1,485,023, which was a hefty gain of 36.03 percent over the same weekend a year ago (which also happened to be a four-day stand, with a Thursday card to make up for a race day lost to bad weather earlier in the meeting). Sunday's handle of $465,436 is the second best in Sunland history, while Saturday's total of $459,490 now stands fifth on the all-time list. The daily betting average, on the season, is up to $318,141, a gain of 25.62 percent over the $253,253 average at this point a year ago.

THE LEADING POST POSITIONS over the weekend were the No. 1 and No. 6 slots with eight wins each. The seasonal totals: No. 1 — 57 wins, No. 2 — 74, No. 3 — 60, No. 4 — 59, No. 5 — 56, No. 6 — 53, No. 7 — 55, No. 8 — 61, No. 9 — 53, No. 10 — 48, No. 11 — 0, No. 12 — 0.

Sunland has high winds

Sunland Park's high-powered business pace clicked along in high gear throughout Sunday's program, despite a blast of wind and flying dust which hit the track shortly before the feature race.

The fans — 4,036 in all (a seasonal record) simply crowded into the grandstand and enclosed forecourt, and kept right on pouring cash through the mutual windows.

The total handle for the 12 race program finished up at an astonishing $465,436, which was the second best in Sunland Park history. The all-time high stands at $539,065, which went into the record books on closing day (May 3) on 1981.

Indications of Sunday's big handle came on Saturday, when 3,548 patrons swelled the handle up to $459,490. That figure now occupies fifth place on Sunland's list of top handles.

Sunday's betting surge beefed the seasonal daily average (from 50 race days) up to $318,954 — which is a thumping gain of 24.94 percent over the $253,253 average at this time a year ago. The current figures are particularly impressive in view of the fact the 1980-81 season was the best in Sunland history.

Aside from the betting figures, the main news on Sunday was made by Shecky Who, a gelded five-year-old quarter horse who feasted on the Valentine's Day Purse. The duel, which covered 670 yards, was right up Shecky Who's alley, and the fans knew it.

When the gates opened, Shecky Who was almost 1-5 in the wagering. Ridden by Larry Byers, Shecky Who allowed Chi Chi Duce, a 25-1 outsider, to settle in first place. But Chi Chi Duce's number was up when he turned for home.

Shecky Who took command with great authority and quickly mounted a four and one-half length lead, stopping the clock in 45.60 seconds — not far off his own seasonal record of 45.20. The win was the gelding's second straight and appeared to give him the inside track on the trail leading to the 870 yard championship of the spring meeting.

Shecky Who paid depressed payoffs of $2.80, $2.60, $2.40. The gelding is trained by Clifton Dean for Sam Henderson of Odessa, Texas. Mr. Leo Bug ($3, $2.80) came in second, Chi Chi Duce ($6) finished third.

Saturday handle tops $450,000

Business at Sunland Park continued at a record-setting pace Saturday as 3,548 fans showed up and pushed $459,490 through the mutual machines.

That set a seasonal record, easily surpassing the previous high of $431,876, established on Saturday, January 30.

Saturday's total, which marked the fifth time the handle has soared over the $400,000 plateau during the '81-'82 season, was also the fourth best in Sunland history. Saturday's racing action was dominated by Phil's Phantasy, the fast-improving colt who courageously held off Texab for a nose win in the five and one-half furlong topper.

The win was Phil's Phantasy's third of the season, and was timed in a blistering 1:04 1/5 seconds — a seasonal record. The four-year-old is owned by Dr. Robert Gathings and William Marchiano of Albuquerque. Louie Gomez does the riding.

Phil's Phantasy packed 2-1 odds and handed out $6.40, $4 and $3. Texab, a 4-1 shot, turned in a prolonged and game stretch bid but just couldn't overtake Phil's Phantasy on the last jump. Texab returned $5.40 and $2.60.

Tacomeando, an 11-1 outsider directed by John Cushing, hammered out a third-place finish and returned $8 to show.

Filly wins headliner Friday

Tina Serina took a radical hike in class for Friday's six-furlong headliner at Sunland Park, but the improved level of competition didn't slow her down.

The filly, owned and trained by Joe Welch of Ruidoso Downs, took control at the half-way point of the journey and fought off her rivals for a length win.

The victory was chalked up against $10,000 claiming competition at 18-1 odds.

In the filly's previous outing, she raced as a 5-2 favorite against five-grand competition and came through with a 3/4-length win.

Apprentice Orlando Martinez Jr. was at

UNM's unique mine open to public

An act of Congress has made the Harding Pegmatite Mine near Dixon the legal property of the University of New Mexico (UNM).

Discovered about 1900, the mine is unique in that it is one of a few in the nation that is open to the public. It is also unique since it contains a variety of rare minerals.

"We have acquired a piece of property which has some really unique geologic properties. It's a classic mineral locality which could serve as a model for studying pegmatites," said Dr. Wolfgang Elston, acting chairman of the UNM geology department.

Pegmatite is a variety of granite in which large crystals — some measuring up to eight feet in length — form. "Specific rare metals tend to form in pegmatite," Elston said. Among them are beryllium, tantalum and lithium, all of which have a variety of industrial and scientific applications.

Located about 10 miles east of Dixon in Taos County, the Harding Pegmatite lies with a square mile section of mountainous terrain.

The rich mineralization was discovered by gold prospectors who, finding no gold, overlooked the area's other valuable minerals. The site was first worked in 1913 when it was mined for lepidolite which was shipped to West Virginia for use in making opaque glass. By 1930, the main body of lepidolite had been mined and the quarry was closed.

During the World War II period the mine was acquired by Dr. Arthur Montgomery, a geologist who earned his doctoral degree from Harvard University and who later held an appointment with Lafayette University in Easton, Pennsylvania.

At that time the mine was re-opened to exploit deposits of tantalum and niobium, rare metals used to make corrosion resistant chemical equipment and miniature electrical circuits. In 1943, some lithium bearing spodumene was mined at the request of the War Production Board.

Beginning in 1948, the partnership of Montgomery and Claudio Griego of Dixon began working the mine for its beryl. A burro and four miners worked the quarry to produce almost 100 tons of ore yearly, making New Mexico the nation's number one producer of beryl.

One of the four miners is now employed by UNM as caretaker of the site, which has not been mined since 1958.

Since 1974, Montgomery has tried to give the property to UNM. The procedures involved in transferring federal patents to the state required the enactment of legislation by Congress. Elston said the legal papers were filed December 31 in Taos County. "The University now has title to the claims," he said.

"We'll continue to use the site as an outdoor museum for scientific and educational purposes," Elston said. "However, the underground workings are off limits. They're too dangerous."

He said persons wishing to visit the site must first visit the UNM geology department to sign a release.

Oban's Son back on top

Last month, Oban's Son won against $6,500 claiming competition at Sunland Park.

But the four-year-old gelding struck out in his next encounter, floundering into a sixth-place finish against $4,000 company.

So his trainer, J. Doyal Roberts, dropped him down to $2,500 competition for Monday's six-furlong headliner at Sunland Park, and the dip in class paid off handsomely.

Oban's Son eagerly snared the lead at the turn for home and piled up his advantage throughout the stretch. The gelding cruised under the wire with a five and one-fourth length lead.

Launched at nearly 6-1 in the seven-head field, Oban's Son returned $13.90, $5.80 and $3.20. Apprentice Mike Lidberg was at the controls. Oban's Son is owned by Byron Carpenter and W. D. LaMay of Capitan.

Miss Vicap, a 9-2 shot ridden by Kevin Scholl, finished second and returned $5.80 and $3.80. Lee's Valentine, an 8-1 outsider, grabbed third under Apprentice F. O. Martinez. The show price was $4.40.

Monday's special program, saluting Washington's Birthday, drew 2,256 patrons who wagered a comparatively excellent $277,473.

Sunland action resumes Friday with a new starting time of 1 p.m.

SMOKE BILLOWED from the back of a burning Sanitation Department truck at White Mountain School. The truck's crew noticed the fire when they stopped for a pickup at the school. Cause of the blaze was live fireplace ashes left in a dumpster in a residential area.

IN ORDER TO put out the fire, the contents of the truck were dumped out onto a paved area at the back of the school. High winds increased the danger of sparks being carried from the scene.

AS A FINAL PRECAUTION, the inside of the sanitation truck is doused. Although the truck was not badly damaged this time, a similar fire destroyed a truck last year.

Dumpster fires still a problem

Fires caused by live fireplace ashes left in dumpsters continue to be a problem in Ruidoso.

Recently, a village sanitation truck caught fire soon after picking up the contents of a dumpster in a residential area. The cause, as usual, was fireplace ashes.

Such fires are very costly in terms of equipment and manpower. The dumpster units and the trucks are expensive to replace, and the village has had to replace both kinds of equipment in the past year due to fire loss.

The real threat, however, lies in the fact that a dumpster or sanitation truck fire could spread and cause a major disaster.

Ruidoso residents and visitors are asked once again: Please be sure fireplace and wood stove ashes are totally dead before disposing.

IMPORTANT MESSAGE

VOTE —
GEORGE P. WHITE — MAYOR
MARCH 2, 1982

TEN Reasons Why George P. White Should Be Your Mayor:

1. He has the time and energy to give you a full time mayor: It will be the policy to set up regular office hours so he will be available to all people.

2. His formal educational background plus his experience in local schools and local government lends itself to good management. He has a B.S. degree in Political Science and Government; a M.A. degree in administration; 40 years in education; 8 years experience in local government.

3. He will see that the Village of Ruidoso, as a municipality, will be performing only those functions authorized by state law.

4. He will see that the ordinances and regulations of the municipality are faithfully executed.

5. He will appoint municipal employees to perform the services authorized by the council, such appointments to be subject to the approval of the council.

6. He will keep informed on the problems, needs and conditions of the village, and inform the council of such and recommend that it take such action as it deems necessary to improve the city's image and conditions.

7. He was the first to realize that the eventual growth of the city depended greatly on the amount of water available. He firmly believes to get this objectively we need water and other utilities to be ahead of development and annexation.

8. He will appoint at least four commissioners in the areas of police, fire, streets and airport to work hand in glove with the department heads and the village trustees. He will lend total support to the present Planning & Zoning commission and the present water board.

9. He will give help and leadership to the village council in formulating good fiscal policies and follow the "letter of the law" in administering the monthly routine business at the city hall.

10. He will accept the responsibility to serve the Village as contact man between the citizens and the council and do everything in his power to act in behalf of the majority of the constituents.

For the above reasons we urgently ask for your vote on Tuesday, March 2 and ask that you go to the polls on election day and cast your vote for George P. White, your next Mayor.

McCall's GREAT AMERICAN Recipe Card Collection

FREE RECIPE CARD CASE with purchase of Set No.1

* Plastic-coated, full-color recipe cards

* 24 complete sets in all * On sale—a set a week 99¢ PER SET

ONE OF THE FINEST TREASURIES OF RECIPES EVER ASSEMBLED

Capturing the spirit of America through its recipes, the editors of Random House and McCall's have created one of the most treasured ever assembled—the McCall's Great American Recipe Card Collection.

They have brought together famous dishes from the great cookbooks and restaurants... spicy ethnic dishes from Slow Cookers... show-stoppers and barbecues... stews and casseroles... cakes and pies from the 19th states.

They have combed through century-old files to recover long-lost, mouth-watering recipes from early America, and have captured all of their variety, simplicity, and excitement on individual recipe cards. Each card features a full-color photograph of the completed dish on one side and easy-to-follow, step-by-step directions on the other. The cards are 4 1/2" x 6 1/2" (perfectly portable, and slip-resistant). And what is even more exciting, they are available now.

Start acquiring the entire collection on your next visit to the supermarket. You'll find it a most delightful and tantalizing experience.

Rapist eluding capture

Statistics compiled by the Federal Bureau of Investigations (FBI) indicate that 43 out of every 100,000 women in New Mexico were rape victims in 1980.

Less than half their cases were solved by police, according to the FBI 1980 Uniform Crime Report.

This week the State Crime Stoppers Commission is offering a $1,000 reward for information which could solve at least one recent rape.

On January 5, around midnight, a 19-year-old woman was abducted at knife-point as she closed up her business at J. B. Tanner Junction, located some eight miles north of Gallup.

The victim was forced into her car and ordered to drive north onto the Navajo Indian Reservation, where she was raped at knifepoint.

The offender was described as an Indian male, about 20 or 21 years of age, 5-5 with a stocky build and medium light complexion. He was wearing a blue jacket and blue jeans and the victim said he was "very unclean." Investigators say the man was armed with a butcher knife.

Anyone having any information about this case is asked to call the State Crime Stoppers Commission at its toll-free number, 1-800-432-8933, or Police Investigator Anderson in Crownpoint at 786-5284. Callers do not have to reveal their identities.

Meanwhile, a little further up the road from Gallup, San Juan County Crime Stoppers is offering a $1,000 cash reward for information leading to the arrest of the person who killed Walter L. Trujillo.

Trujillo was beaten to death on or around January 19. His body was found in his mobile home in Wild Horse Valley near Farmington by co-workers after he failed to show up for work. Anyone with information can call San Juan County Crime Stoppers at 334-2023 or State Crime Stoppers at 1-800-432-8933.

While a rapist and a murderer still are walking free somewhere in New Mexico, a number of suspects in a variety of cases aren't. Thanks to calls to Crime Stoppers programs throughout the state.

In Clovis, Dale Bigler and David Hankins will be tried separately in connection with charges they were cultivating more than eight acres of marijuana in a cornfield west of Portales. The charges stemmed from a call to the State Crime Stoppers Commission last September, which resulted in $3.2 million worth of marijuana being confiscated by local county and state police officials. The trials were moved to Clovis from Portales on a change of venue request.

In Grants, a man accused of being the mastermind behind the $431,000 Capri Jewelry store robbery in August, 1980, will go on trial February 15. Robert McDonald, 21, is being held in Valencia county jail on $100,000 bond. McDonald is charged with robbery, two counts of burglary, four counts of kidnapping, conspiracy to commit a crime and larceny of over $20,000. He was arrested in Los Angeles, California in January 1981.

A second suspect, Lawrence Bradley, 21, was sentenced to four years in prison for his admitted role in the robbery. Both suspects were captured after an anonymous call to Uranium County Crime Stoppers. About $20,000 worth of jewelry taken in the robbery has been recovered.

The August 7, 1980, robbery began when two gunmen forced their way into the home of Robert Estes, the owner of Capri Jewelry. The gunmen ordered Estes to reveal the combination to the store's safe and how to enter the store without setting off the alarm.

While one gunman held Estes and his family hostage, the second went to the store and took a reported $431,420 worth of jewelry. The Estes family was left unharmed by the offenders.

In still another Crime Stoppers case, this one out of Las Vegas, Walter Padilla, 25, was bound over for trial in connection with the November, 1981, aggravated armed robbery of an elderly Las Vegas couple.

Padilla, of Las Vegas, was released on $20,000 bond. He was arrested by police acting on a tip from Las Vegas Crime Stoppers five days after an elderly couple was robbed of $1,500 worth of cash and jewelry at their residence. The victims told police an armed man entered their home on November 19 and held them at gunpoint. The suspect tore the telephone from the wall and tied the couple together.

And after two years of trying, Union County Crime Stoppers helped solve its first case recently. The Clayton-based program received a tip which led to the January 1 arrest of Leon Green, who was charged with setting fire to an unoccupied house west of Clayton. A $100 reward will be paid by the program.

It also appears that still another community is about to join the Crime Stoppers family in New Mexico. Frank Haines and Emily Hunter of Curry County Crime Stoppers spoke to a recent meeting of the Fort Sumner Rotary Club. It is anticipated that Fort Sumner will become the thirty-third Crime Stoppers program in New Mexico in the near future.

Honey was once known as food fit for kings

Honey, like wheat and corn, is one of those natural foods that appears constantly throughout man's recorded history. The "Iliad" describes honey as the food for kings, and Greek mythology says the gods feasted on honey and honey cakes to give them strength, long life and health.

Taxes were paid with honey and chefs became famous for their honey cookery, according to Mae Martha Johnson, Extension food and nutrition specialist at New Mexico State University.

It was considered courteous for a Roman host to welcome his guests with fresh honey and the greeting, "Here is honey which the gods have provided for your health."

In the Bible, Egypt is described as the land of milk and honey. The psalms of David include what was probably the first poetic tribute to the hard working bees and their sweet product, Johnson said.

China used honey less than any other ancient culture because the Chinese had cane available as a sweetener. However, honey is found in most ancient Chinese medicines.

Britain was once known as the Isle of Honey. Tributes were paid with mead (a fermented honey drink), as well as natural honey. Britons used honey widely in cooking and baking, although most of the sweet stuff was reserved to brew mead which the British considered a wholesome drink "... that made men strong and brawny."

The word beer was actually derived from the Saxon word for mead, boer. Many an English inn still has a beehive on its sign, sometimes accompanied by a rhyme.

Christianity brought with it a great increase in honey production in Germany, but the demand was for the beeswax to make ceremonial candles. Most of the land at that time was owned by either the church or local princes, and people who were allowed to live on the land were required to pay taxes in honey and wax.

Nobody knows for sure whether Napoleon picked the honeybee as a Napoleonic symbol because of the bee's persistence in achieving an objective, or because it recalled the legends of longevity that the ancients attributed to honey.

North American Indians thought honeybees brought misfortune and called them white men's flies. Some bees occurred naturally in the North American wilderness, but when a heavy population of bees arrived it meant the settlers and their beehives had come to move the Indians westward. Mention of this is made in Longfellow's "Hiawatha."

The early Dutch, Spanish and English settlers brought honeybees with them and beekeeping soon became an important art in the Americas. Montezuma, the Aztec emperor of Mexico, was once paid a tribute of several hundred jars of honey.

As in Europe, honey was eventually used to make intoxicating beverages by North American Indians.

New Mexico Game and Fish News

BY SOANNA LACKEY

Relatively few New Mexicans have ever seen a mountain lion in the wild, yet lion numbers seem to be healthier than ever. Their estimated population in New Mexico is in the neighborhood of 2,600. The elusive, stealthy nature of the cat and the rugged terrain it occupies accounts for its infrequent contact with humans.

The mountain lion is known by many names including cougar, puma, catamount (cat of the mountains), panther and painter. Its scientific name, Felis concolor, means "cat of a single color." Originally, the mountain lion had the largest range of any terrestrial mammal in the Western Hemisphere. It was found from the southern most tip of South America to the Yukon Territory and from the Atlantic to the Pacific oceans. Now, however, mountain lion populations in the United States are essentially confined to the rugged country of the West and Southwest. A few isolated populations still survive east of the Mississippi River.

The mountain lion is a predator, and as such, it has made enemies with man. Conflicts between man and lion began when the pioneers began settling this continent. Settlers hunted deer for food and clothing and competed with lions for the resource. Early conflicts also involved losses of livestock. These conflicts still exist today. Ranchers in New Mexico still lose cattle and sheep to stock-killing lions, and hunters in some areas still feel lions keep deer populations suppressed.

Male lions weigh an average of 110 to 120 pounds and females 60 to 70 pounds. They are effective predators with powerful limbs and piercing fangs. Their retractable claws have amazing ripping power, and they can drag prey larger than themselves over rough terrain.

Deer are the mainstay of their diet. It is generally believed that a cougar will kill one deer every seven to fourteen days. They are opportunistic however, and will supplement their diet with rabbits, rodents and other small animals whenever the opportunity arises.

Although mountain lions are hard to census, they seem to be in good shape in New Mexico and they are making their presence known. During the desert bighorn sheep rescue in the San Andres Mountains, several lions were spotted from helicopters while Game Department biologists were rounding up the survivors of a scabies outbreak that killed nearly 200 desert bighorns. After the surviving sheep were treated for the devastating parasite, they were released back into their native range in the San Andres and a predator control program was initiated. The remaining bighorn herd was classified as endangered and needed help to recuperate, so lions were removed from their range.

Since September of 1980, when the lion control program began, 36 lions have been removed from the relatively small San Andres Mountain range.

Another lion problem has recently manifested itself in southeastern New Mexico near the Guadalupe Mountains and Carlsbad Caverns National Parks. Ranchers in areas adjacent to the parks are losing livestock to lions that live in the parks. Under New Mexico law, ranchers have the right to kill stock-killing predators. Verified reports indicate that recently 21 lions have been removed from this area by ranchers, Game Department trappers, licensed hunters, and park service personnel.

Lions are classified as game animals in New Mexico. Seasons are established annually for hunting them and recently there has been a two cat bag limit. According to tagging records for the 1980-81 license year, 90 lions were killed by licensed hunters. Only six hunters took two.

Much more than can be related here has been written about the mountain lion's life history and behavior. Such material is recommended reading to wildlife enthusiasts.

For anyone who values and enjoys the diversity of wildlife we have in New Mexico, it's good to know the mountain lion seems to be holding its own. It's a resilient animal, worthy of Man's respect.

Backyard gardeners should consider planting fruit trees

Almost any kind of fruit can be grown and enjoyed in New Mexico by the backyard gardener.

To get the best results, it helps to do some careful planning before actually planting, according to Esteban Herrera, Extension horticulturist at New Mexico State University.

"We can't even guess how much money is wasted every year by people who buy fruit trees — and bushes and vines — without considering all the factors involved in producing quality fruit," Herrera said.

Fruits, unlike vegetables, are perennials and involve a long-term commitment of planting space, time and effort. The prime consideration for the home gardener is how much time he is willing to devote to growing fruit.

Tree fruits like apples, peaches and plums require much more maintenance and care than other fruits. Grapes and raspberries are easier to grow and maintain.

"Anyone who isn't sure that they are willing or able to care for fruit trees probably shouldn't plant them," Herrera said.

Once the decision is made to plant, the next step is to evaluate the site. Some homeowners have enough room to plant just about anything they want, and others may have room for only a few vines or strawberry plants.

An eight-foot by 30-foot area will provide the average family with all the strawberries they can eat, but fruit trees require much more space, Herrera said. For instance, it's necessary to plant two apple tree varieties to ensure fruit set.

All fruit crops require full sunlight to produce the best yields. The early morning sun is particularly important to dry dew off the plants and reduce the incidence of disease. Areas that have extremely sandy or heavy clay soils should be avoided, too.

"Since more New Mexico soils tend to be alkaline, it's usually necessary to add iron chelates later on in the tree's life to prevent yellowing of leaves," Herrera said. "The county Extension office has information on taking soil tests, and the soil test lets you correct any problems in soil pH or fertility."

Success in growing fruit at home also depends on the selection of varieties for a given area, Herrera said.

"Don't rely on national nursery catalogues for variety selection. These catalogues base their recommendations on winter-hardiness zones, and they ignore summer conditions, disease and insect problems," he said.

Scouts receive awards at Blue and Gold fete

by WILL TURBOW
Staff Writer

Ruidoso Cub Scout Pack 59 and Capitan Cub Scout Pack 124 celebrated the Cub Scouts' fifty-first birthday Sunday at their annual Blue and Gold Banquet.

Scoutmaster Jim Dickinson, dressed as an Indian chief, solemnly presented the Scouts with their achievement patches and awards in a mock campfire ceremony. Blue, symbolizing truth and knowledge, and gold, symbolizing courage, were painted on the Scouts' faces as the boys received their awards.

Shane Miller, Eric Eggleston, Larry McEuen, Johnny Castillo and Kent McInnes received their Bobcat patches. These boys just entered the Cub Scouts and have learned the Cub Scout promise and motto. Initiated into the Order of the Wolf for having attained the necessary twelve achievements were Johnny Castillo, Eric Eggleston, Larry McEuen and Kent McInnes.

Arrow points were awarded to Scouts who completed a group of 10 scouting electives. Arrow point winners honored the Blue and Gold banquet were Colm O'Reilly, Kelly Sivage, Brent Scott, Cory Turner, Michael Miller, Zack Francis, Dylan O'Reilly, Paul Whipple, Greg Radziewicz and Ethan Funston.

Before becoming Webelos, Scouts must earn the Bear Patch. Those who received with the Bear Patch were Jeremy Hanson, Larry McEuen, Kent McInnes, Eric Eggleston and Johnny Castillo.

One year pins were given to Cory Turner, Andy Orantia, Brandon Cline, Dylan O'Reilly, Kelly Sivage, Greg Radziewicz and Ethan Funston. A two year pin was awarded to Chuck Stough.

Activity awards were presented to: Craig Sears for being an aquanaut, artist and athlete; Shelby Bradley for athletics and sportsmanship; David Dickinson for his talents as a naturalist and a showman; Clay Mosley for citizenship and athletics; and Eric Eggleston, Larry McEuen, Johnny Castillo and Kent McInnes for craftsmanship.

Honored as full-fledged Webelos were David Dickinson, Clay Mosley and Rusty Smith. Achieving Webelos status is the last step in Cub Scouting before becoming a Boy Scout.

Cub Scouts were not the only people who received awards for recognition. John Ellis was presented with a patch for having gone through the training to be a Webelos leader. Scoutmaster Dickinson said that he is the first trained Webelos leader in Ruidoso in a long time.

Ken and Jeannie Whipple, Diane Sivage, Wayne and Mary Bradley, Libby Sears, Rodney Stubbs, Wes Clark, Margaret Holt and Mel O'Reilly were presented with certificates of appreciation for assisting the Cub Scout Program.

one year pin in the front row are Cory Turner, Greg Radziewicz and Colm O'Reilly.

Eggleston, Kent McInnes, David Dickinson and Craig Sears. Dickinson, along with Clay Mosley and Rusty Smith, earned his Webelos badge.
