No. 51 In Our 37th Year Ruidoso, Lincoln County, New Mexico 88345 Thursday, November 4, 1982

SNOW frosts the trees and blankets the fairways of Cree Meadows golf course after Tuesday's storm. Officially, the storm dropped one inch on Ruidoso. Roy Parker reported five inches of snow on Sierra Blanca.

The storm inspired talk of snow tires, skiing and winters past. By Thursday, however, sunny skies and mild weather had returned, leaving only a few patches of snow in town.

Village $9,000 to the good on settlement from '78 flood

by DAVID SHEPPARD
Staff Writer

After battling with a federal agency for more than a year over disaster relief funds for the December 1978 flood, the Village of Ruidoso learned this week it has come out the winner.

Village manager Jim Hine reported at Monday's special council meeting the village will receive payment of $9,106 from the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) on a claim of over $74,000 for expenses incurred in the cleanup after the devastating winter flood.

Hine expressed great delight over the award, and explained after the council meeting what the battle was about.

Over a year ago the federal agency billed Ruidoso $39,943 that it claimed the village owed back out of funds that had been appropriated in January 1979 for the relief project. Hine said FEMA advanced Ruidoso $322,600 after the village was declared eligible for disaster relief money in early 1979. Hine noted that the costs of the cleanup, however, amounted to $397,000. Ruidoso put in a claim for the difference—which totalled $74,400.

But in 1980 a state auditor determined Ruidoso's claims were not all eligible for relief funds; and, in fact, the agency wanted the reimbursement of nearly $40,000 from the money it advanced.

Hine said the village appealed the report. But in 1981 a regional FEMA auditor sustained the previous judgement.

After the regional auditor's decision, Hine said, Ruidoso requested assistance from U.S. Senator Harrison Schmitt at a February 1982 meeting. Schmitt was instrumental in appealing the decision to the national FEMA office.

Based on the national auditor's report, which was released Monday, Hine said FEMA has honored $49,049 of Ruidoso's additional claims. Of that amount, the $39,943 owed the agency still must be reimbursed.

That leaves a net of $9,106 the government will pay Ruidoso to replace some of the $74,000 from village coffers that were spent on the damages.

Asked Tuesday if he was satisfied with the judgement, Hine said "We're going to accept it." He noted that further appeals would have to be taken to federal court.

But the village will try to recover some of the remaining losses from the state.

"We will make an appeal to the state emergency fund for $20,000," Hine said. He said the appeal will be filed with the Civil Emergency Preparedness Division.

The village manager only chuckled when asked to forecast the outcome of that appeal.

ELLIOT, NOSKER VICTORIOUS

McGuire to statehouse

by DAVID SHEPPARD

White Mountain Middle School teacher Marvin B. "Mickey" McGuire from Ruidoso Downs becomes the state representative from District 56 following his victory Tuesday over Artesia area Republican Fred D. Collins.

The Lincoln County Democrat was elected to the seat—which comprises portions of Lincoln, Chaves and Eddy counties—by a margin of over 300 votes. As expected, McGuire's main strength was in Lincoln County, where he took 1,628 votes to Collins' 1,145.

But McGuire also did well in the Chaves and Eddy precincts. The lone Chaves precinct at Penasco showed a virtual draw between the candidates, with Collins topping McGuire 64 votes to 62. Collins also took the Eddy County precincts in Artesia, but his edge was not enough to overcome McGuire's strong Lincoln County showing. The Eddy totals were Collins with 1,687 to McGuire's 1,542.

"Of course I'm very pleased with the outcome," McGuire said Wednesday when reached at the middle school. "It's surprising maybe, but I knew I needed that (a good showing in all three counties) to happen."

McGuire especially was pleased with a crossover of Republican voters who heavily favored John Irick and incumbent Senator Harrison Schmitt in Lincoln County, but dropped to the Democratic row on the ballot for District 56 Representative and pulled the lever for McGuire.

"I'm very pleased with the Lincoln County results. I consider that very flattering and humbling," he said.

Although the Republicans lost their bid for the statehouse and lost the Senate seat, Schmitt won Lincoln County with 2,583 votes to opponent Jeff Bingaman's 1,358. John Irick claimed 2,575 votes in the county to Toney Anaya's 1,359.

As in the rest of the district, incumbent U.S. Representative Joe Skeen easily won in the county by a margin of nearly 2,000 votes over Democratic challenger Caleb Chandler, 2,906 to 982.

The voter turnout in Lincoln County was one of the heaviest in memory at the county clerk's office. A deputy clerk said 4,074 eligible voters went to the polls, which translates into 71 percent of those who registered.

The tightest county race was for County Commissioner District 1. Former county commissioner Kenneth Nosker of Glencoe beat Democrat Briscoe West, former Ruidoso Downs municipal judge and Curry County sheriff, by a margin of 1,903 to 1,831.

Incumbent Democrat John A. Hightower was unopposed for reelection to his District 2 seat on the commission.

Ruidoso businessman and former Lincoln County sheriff Bill Elliot won the District 3 seat on the commission with a total of 1,984 votes to Ruidoso Realtor William Seelbach Jr.'s 1,728.

Tom Sullivan, owner of Sullivan's Security Service in Capitan and formerly with the Texas Department of Public Safety, stopped former Lincoln County sheriff Leandro Vega Jr. from reclaiming the sheriff's post he held for four terms. Sullivan becomes the new county sheriff with a victory margin of 2,182 votes to 1,732.

In the district magistrate judge races, Carrizozo lawyer Billy Gene Payne won the Division I seat with 1,912 votes to White Oaks Republican Robert D. Bohks' 1,718.

Incumbent Ruidoso Republican J. R. "Jim" Wheeler was unopposed for the Division III seat in Ruidoso.

Republican incumbent Alfred LeRoy Montes of Capitan returns to his Division II seat with a win over Capitan resident R. L. Van Norman by 2,093 to 1,534.

Philip R. Payne, at 19 the youngest candidate in the state, lost his bid to unseat incumbent Republican county clerk Jane McSwane. McSwane easily won the race by 2,284 to 1,506.

Incumbent Republican W. Kay Allison was unopposed for county treasurer.

Julia Samora, incumbent county assessor, won over Democratic challenger Leona Fugate of Ruidoso Downs by 2,106 to 1,588.

And in the final county position on the ballot, incumbent Republican John W. Thompson ran unopposed as Probate Judge.

The Sunday sales of alcoholic beverages questioned on the ballot was approved overwhelmingly by Lincoln County. The issue was given a lot of attention in this tourist town because many residents thought visitors would avoid Ruidoso if the question was defeated. Sunday sales won by 1,782 votes to 1,046.

The Lincoln County totals on the other constitutional amendments were:

•Amendment 1—judicial selection of state Supreme Court justices, judges of the court of appeals and district judges by appointment to four-year terms—For: 1,158; Against: 1,626.

•Amendment 2—removing the power of the Legislature to appropriate funds from the severance tax permanent fund by a three-fourths majority—For: 1,269; Against: 1,285.

•Amendment 3—providing an income tax exemption of $3,000 for members of the New Mexico National Guard—For: 1,390; Against: 1,307.

•Amendment 4—allowing county sheriffs to serve unlimited two-year terms—For: 1,062; Against: 1,593.

•Amendment 5—increasing the reimbursement of legislators for per diem expenses and for mileage to Santa Fe for one round trip per session—For: 1,392; Against: 1,294.

•Amendment 6—permitting the state to include earnings, investments and expenditures of Yellow Pages advertising in setting telephone rates—For: 2,078; Against: 702.

•Amendment 7—permitting counties to expand purposes for going into debt to include construction or acquisition of water and sewer systems, airports and sanitary landfills—For: 1,681; Against: 1,028.

The voter totals in Lincoln County for the remaining state seats on the ballot were:

•Secretary of State—Republican Fran Hill: 2,354; Democrat Clara P. Jones: 1,292.

•State Auditor—Republican C. Jack Emmons: 2,185; Democrat Albert Romero: 1,436.

•State Treasurer—Republican William McBroome: 1,956; Democrat Earl Edward Hartley: 1,609.

•Attorney General—Republican Paul J. Kennedy: 2,052; Democrat Paul G. Bardecke: 1,523.

•Commissioner of Public Lands—Republican Daren R. Hillery: 2,052; Democrat Jim Baca: 1,606.

•Corporation Commissioner (six-year term)—Republican Herb H. Hughes: 1,915; Democrat John A. Elliott: 1,633.

•Corporation Commissioner (two-year term)—Republican Lloyd Vearle Payne: 2,167; Democrat Eric P. Serna: 1,411.

•Justice of the Supreme Court—Republican Kenneth B. Wilson: 2,074; Democrat Harry E. Stowers Jr.: 1,462.

Judge of the Court of Appeals—two seats, both unopposed, won by Democrats William W. Bivins and C. Fincher Neal.

Ten Warrior seniors to play final game Friday night

by GARY BROWN
Sports Writer

There are only 10 seniors on the Ruidoso High School varsity football team but they've all played a big part in the Warriors' scheme of things this season.

Every one of the 10 players has at one time or another started for the Warriors during the past two seasons, and some of the players have donned the Warrior colors for four straight seasons!

Players like Kyle Flack, Billy Woodul, Grady Williamson and David Swalander have been playing a lot of varsity football for three seasons and they have passed on their experiences and things they learned to the freshmen and sophomores this year.

"I've been impressed with the way we've kept up this season," Swalander, the starting center and also a defensive end, said. "The stick-to-it-iveness of our players, particularly our younger players, has been good. When the year started out, I didn't think some of the younger players would have it. However, they've come along good and they've really impressed me."

Swalander, the son of Don and Linda Swalander, has started most of the time at center the past three seasons. The 5-10, 165-pound athlete has also gotten in a lot of playing time at defensive end and defensive tackle.

Like most of the seniors, Swalander considers the highlight of his high school career the Warriors' 14-0 victory over arch-rival Tularosa two years ago. The Warriors haven't gained many victories over the Wildcats in the past 15 years.

When he graduates from high school, Swalander plans to attend college but he's not sure yet of his major field.

Woodul, the team's starting quarterback, is the son of Marge Woodul. The 5-11, 165-pound quarterback, who has thrown for over 900 yards this year, also rates the victory over Tularosa two years ago as the highlight of his prep football career.

"It was only about the second time we'd beaten them in 10 or 11 years," Woodul said. "What I think is most positive about this season is seeing the kind of talent we have coming up with the freshmen and sophomores."

"Looking back on my high school career, I have to really say the dedication of the teachers is the highlight.

They've really been outstanding."

Woodul, who has lived in Ruidoso since he was eight years old, plans to attend New Mexico State University (NMSU) at Las Cruces next year. He probably won't play football but he's thinking about majoring in business administration.

Williamson is another Warrior senior who has seen plenty of action in his career.

Now a wingback on offense, Williamson played mostly at flanker last season, halfback as a sophomore and quarterback as a freshman.

"I've enjoyed the competition and the play during my four years in football," the 5-10, 155-pound speedster said. "I've also enjoyed learning more about the game."

"I'd like to go on to UNM (University of New Mexico) and play football."

Grady is also an outstanding runner in track and could be one of the better 100 meter sprinters in the AAA division this year.

Williamson, the son of Bill and Elaine

Garrity, would like to major in psychology in college. He is thinking about going into that field for a career or possibly becoming a pilot.

Flack, the Warriors' defensive captain and starting middle linebacker this season, has also played four years of football at Ruidoso.

The 5-8, 145-pounder has also put in a lot of time at fullback this season. In his freshman, sophomore and junior seasons, he played mostly defense.

He also rates the victory over Tularosa in 1980 as the highlight of his high school football career.

"I think what I'll learn the most from my years at Ruidoso High School will have been the values taught at school," Flack said.

Flack, the son of Rudy and Linda Flack, would like to go to college and possibly study sports medicine.

Mike Douglass, who has been the Warriors' starting tight end this season, has played football at Ruidoso for three years.

Douglass, the son of Jim and Carolyn

Douglass, has also played defensive end this season. The 6-2, 155-pound athlete caught a 35-yard pass to set up the winning touchdown against Truth or Consequences last week in the Warriors' only victory of the season.

"The T or C victory was the highlight of my career," Douglass said. "We had to wait so long for it (first victory of the season), and I enjoyed playing football a lot this year."

Douglass would like to attend NMSU but hasn't really decided on a major field yet.

Randy Bell, a 5-10, 140-pound defensive end, has played football for the Warriors for three seasons. His older brother, Ronald, made all-district as a tackle last season.

"I think the highlight of my career was the New Mexico Military Institute game this year," he said. "I got my first quarterback sack in that game and got in on a lot of tackles."

Bell, the son of Bertie Bell, would like to attend Eastern New Mexico University after he graduates from Ruidoso.

He hasn't yet decided on a major.

H. R. Lueras at 5-8 and 125 pounds is probably one of the smallest split ends in District 3-AAA this season, but he has more than made up for it with quickness and determination.

Lueras, the son of Bob and Joan Lueras, has played on the varsity for two years after competing on the junior varsity. He has also played quite a bit at defensive back in his high school career.

"The T or C game last week was probably the highlight of my career," Lueras said. "The students and the teachers at Ruidoso are nice and you can really get close to them. It wasn't always that way in Alamogordo. I lived there until I was in the seventh grade."

Lueras would like to eventually go to college after he graduates from high school but he would like to try something else first.

"I'm really interested in trapping," he said. "I might trap for a couple of years before going to college. I like the outdoors a lot."

Chris Wynn has also played four years for the Warriors and has started at offensive tackle for Ruidoso this season.

The 6-0, 160-pound lineman is the son of Dr. Dale Wynn and Barbara Wynn.

He rates this year's victory over T or C and the win over Tularosa two years ago as the biggest thrills in his high school football career. He has also played at defensive end this year and played at tight end and cornerback as a freshman and sophomore.

"I've enjoyed competing in the sports since I've been here at the high school," Wynn said. "I also run the 800 meters in track and have played basketball."

Wynn plans to attend the New Mexico Military Institute college section after he graduates from high school and then hopes to attend the Air Force Academy. He would like to make a career out of the Air Force and be a pilot.

Danny Hoffer played football as a freshman at Ruidoso but didn't play again until this season. The 5-10, 165-pounder played offensive guard as a freshman but has done well at defensive tackle this season.

He rates the T or C victory this year as his biggest thrill.

Hoffer, the son of Oscar and Terri Hoffer, also played basketball as a freshman.

"I might go into business with my father after I graduate," Hoffer commented. "I'm interested in mechanics."

Tracy Morlack is in his first year at Ruidoso after living in Wyoming, New Jersey and Alamogordo.

The 5-9, 155-pound offensive and defensive tackle suffered a fracture in the Tularosa game and has been on crutches since.

Morlack, the son of Karen Morlack, has many plans after he graduates from high school.

"I probably won't go into college right away," he said. "I might get a job first and then go to college afterwards. I would like to be an artist eventually."

P&Z ponders property line problems in village

by DAVID SHEPPARD
Staff Writer

Problems with property line clearances again were the main topics before the Ruidoso Planning and Zoning Commission (P&Z) Monday. The commission had one request for a replat of property that does not conform to setbacks removed from the agenda and okayed a variance on a non-conforming site at its regular monthly meeting.

A request from Jack Stahl for conversion of the Village Lodge Motel at Innsbrook Village into condominiums was removed from the agenda. Planning and Zoning enforcement officer John Cupp told P&Z the matter now is before attorneys and may not have to come before the commission for consideration.

The property line clearance issue is one that has occurred continually at P&Z meetings. The main problem has been with mobile homes being placed on small lots or placed improperly and encroaching on lot lines.

The problem led P&Z to ask the village council last week to write a law requiring that certified plot plans be submitted to P&Z with requests regarding mobile homes. The requirement already is made on other residential and commercial properties.

The council approved the request. At P&Z's monthly meetings, requests for variances on required setbacks or redesign (replat) of lots invariably crowd the agenda. Planning laws require 20-foot clearances to the front and back of commercial and residential buildings, and 10-foot clearances on the sides.

At Monday's meeting, Leo Kramer decided to remove this request for a replat of two adjoining lots on which he has two mobile homes, after the commission indicated it would not grant the request. The lots are located on Grove Drive in the Ponderosa Heights Subdivision—an area where problems with small lots and encroachments are highly evident.

Civil engineer Tim Collins told the commission that one of the mobile homes cuts across the lot lines. The request for the replat then, Collins said, was needed so the lot lines could be moved.

P&Z member Greg Masters asked Kramer when the trailer was placed on the lot. Kramer replied 14 to 15 months ago. Masters then asked why it does not conform to setback requirements, since the regulations were set about six years ago. Kramer said he was told by a village hall employee last year that the contractor he hired to place the trailer—Barney Rue—knew the requirements and therefore Kramer would have no problem conforming.

Acting P&Z chairman Mike Mulholland said it is "unfortunate" the mobile home does not comply.

Member Tom Kelham noted P&Z has had "an awful lot" of variance requests for mobile homes.

"To me it just seems unfair to people who are abiding by the regulations the city has set up," Kelham added.

Masters suggested that the trailer be re-situated on the lot to bring it into compliance so Kramer could avoid having the lots replatted. Kelham seconded the motion.

Kramer asked if the setback requirements were recently established, because, he said, numerous buildings in the Ponderosa Heights area are located very close to adjacent lots.

Mulholland said, "You're absolutely right," and he noted the village has a problem of enforcing the regulation on setbacks. But Masters noted the commission usually does not get involved with planning violations on setbacks on existing structures until a request for a variance or replat comes before P&Z.

Mulholland asked if the commission could permit Kramer to withdraw his request. After it was noted he could take the matter off the agenda and not be required to move the trailer, he withdrew the replat from consideration.

The other request was from Robert Gregson for a 12-foot property line variance on a lot at Hillside Addition.

Gregson said he had three surveys done on the lot. The first was done when he bought the property, he stated, and the second was performed by Kannady Engineering of Ruidoso in 1976 when Gregson had a house built on the lot.

Gregson said he had another survey done by Tim Collins recently because he wants to sell the house, and Collins found the structure was placed too close to one of the property lines.

Gregson noted an alternative to asking for a variance would be to purchase property adjacent to the lot, but he said when he tried to buy one-tenth of an acre next to his land, Realtors told him the site was worth $10,000.

After P&Z approved the variance, Gregson asked if individuals have protection against improper surveys. Mulholland said the only recourse is for persons to sue the surveyor. But Gregson noted that "some people are not in a position to sue."

The commission sympathized with Gregson, but members noted P&Z cannot force registered surveyors to correctly locate buildings. Mulholland said P&Z is trying to prevent such situations, and with the requirement that certified plot plans be submitted with requests before the commission, P&Z now can control the problem. A certified plan is one drawn by a surveyor registered with the state.

In other business, the commission approved a request from Cochera Restaurant owner Tom Kent for a lease on village property behind the restaurant that Kent would like to turn into a parking lot.

The land in question is a small arroyo across Leon Farrar Drive from the back of the restaurant, Kent said the area would have to be filled in with dirt to make it level.

Kent suggested the lease could earmark the payments to the Parks and Recreation fund, since the land is designated for future park use. P&Z member Jim Paxton asked if the land can be used by Parks and Recreation.

Member Milt Alcorn, who inspected the site, said the land has an "aesthetic value" and that it would need landscaping to be a park. P&Z approved the request after the commission recessed to inspect the site. After the vote, Masters recommended to Kent he screen the parking lot from an adjacent residential area with a fence if homeowners complain about the lot.

The lease will be drawn up by village administrators.

In other business, P&Z: —Approved a year's lease to place a mobile home on Ruidoso-Hondo Valley Hospital property. The mobile home was bought by the village last week and should be delivered within two weeks. The structure is to house the Emergency Medical Services staff.

—Approved a replat of lots 11, 12 and 13, Block 31 in Ponderosa Heights Unit 4 for Betty Wright. Collins noted that Wright wants to create two lots out of the three.

—Approved a replat of lots 20 and 21, and replat of Blocks I, K and M in Middle Cedar Subdivision (county) for Gloria Payne and Ted Dixon.

—Approved a replat of Phases 1-A and 1-C of Eagle Creek West Condominiums (county) for Peter Strobel.

—Discussed requesting the governing body to draft an ordinance requiring businesses to have paved parking lots. The commission will bring up the matter at a workshop later in the month.

Retail Merchants eye Christmas

by BILLY ALLSTETTER
Staff Writer

After filling its depleted ranks, the Chamber of Commerce Retail Merchants Committee (RMC) planned festivities for the holiday season at its meeting Monday afternoon.

At last month's meeting, RMC chairman Larry Langford announced Roger Marshall's request to be relieved of his duties on RMC and asked for suggestions for new members. At Monday's meeting Ken Green and Kathy Barnett were suggested as willing candidates to fill Marshall's spot.

Committee member Tom Kelham suggested that members consider accepting both candidates, increasing the size of the committee by one, to 15 members. The committee agreed and accepted both candidates.

Turning to Christmas, the RMC decided to take on the task of decorating the Christmas tree annually placed at the "Y" and two trees in front of the library. By doing that, they will save the village $3,000 to $4,000 that is usually spent paying professional tree decorators.

The RMC then recommended that the money saved by decorating the tree with volunteer labor should be spent for lights that could be used to decorate two other trees in town. Committee members hoped to decorate a tree in the midtown area and one uptown near the traffic circle.

Village employees John Cupp and Frank Putter agreed to see what they could do about buying additional lights. Cupp, the purchasing agent for the village, said he believed there would be no problem arranging the purchase.

RMC members announced that the annual lighting of the Christmas tree will still be at the tree at the "Y" on Saturday, November 27, at 6:30 p.m. The mayors of Ruidoso and Ruidoso Downs will light the trees. The festivities will include an appearance by Santa Claus and singing of Christmas carols.

The RMC next decided to actively promote an extra hours program during the holiday season. Members hope to persuade many shops to stay open until 9 p.m. the three Thursdays before Christmas — December 9, 16 and 23.

Although business during the evenings was generally unprofitable last year, members felt that the program should be continued this year in hopes of building up more business over time.

They hope to combine extra open hours by shops with possible "shoppers special" meals at some restaurants.

The Chamber also announced its third annual lighting and decorating contest. The commercial category will be judged Thursday, December 16, and the residential category Monday, December 20.

Framed 11-inch by 14-inch photos will be given to the top three finishers in each category. A traveling trophy is also available to winners in the commercial category. The trophy, with a Santa Claus on top, is now in the possession of last year's winner, Ruidoso Paint Center.

THE FIRE LOOKOUT TOWER and 10 acres of land on the ridge north of Sudderth Drive will probably be leased by the village from the Forest Service. An estimated 85 percent of the fires spotted from the tower are within the Ruidoso village limits.

Village may get tower

by BILLY ALLSTETTER
Staff Writer

It looks like the Village of Ruidoso may become the new tenant of the Ruidoso fire tower.

The village council, in a special meeting Monday, gave councilman Don Dale permission to convey the council's interest in the tower to the U.S. Forest Service. The next step is to follow procedures necessary for obtaining a Granger-Thy permit from the Forest Service.

The permit would allow the village to lease the fire lookout tower and 10 acres of land next to the Lookout Estates condominiums, north of Sudderth Drive.

Paul Gordon, Smokey Bear District Ranger, said he is waiting only for an application from the village. He will review the application and forward it to Lincoln National Forest Supervisor Jim Abbott in Alamogordo for a final recommendation. The village council would then have to approve a lease contract with specific terms and conditions.

There is little chance that the village application would be refused, Gordon said, because the Forest Service has already decided to let the village lease the land and tower if village officials so decide. If the village does not lease the land and tower, Gordon added, the Forest Service would probably not lease to a private individual.

The Forest Service will lease the land for about $120 a year, Gordon said. He added that the land may eventually be sold to the city.

Gordon said he approached Dale with the proposal a couple of weeks ago because the lookout is not very productive for the Forest Service. Very little of Lincoln National Forest can be seen from the lookout.

The tower was moved to its present location from a higher position on Lookout Mountain, east of Gavilan Canyon, in 1947, said Gordon. He added that much of the National Forest Land visible from the tower has since been traded off in land exchanges.

There is, however, a 360-degree view of Ruidoso from the tower. Steve Makowski, fire management officer for the Smokey Bear Ranger district, said that 85 percent of the fires spotted from the tower are within the village limits.

"It is too important a parcel of land for the city not to take advantage of it," said village manager Jim Hinc. He explained that the village is interested in the land because of its value as a fire lookout and in order to preserve open space around Ruidoso.

Ruidoso fire superintendent Virgil Reynolds said the fire department will man the station if the lease is signed. In past years the Forest Service has manned the tower only during the fire season of spring and early summer, and Reynolds said the fire department will continue that policy.

Gordon said the Forest Service will help train fire department personnel in fire spotting techniques.

The 10 acres surrounding the tower may also be put to use. Reynolds said he is interested in using the area for search and rescue training and fire training. Dale has asked Parks and Recreation Commission members to look at the land and give him suggestions how it might be used. The commission is meeting Thursday to discuss the subject.

Ordinance spells end of portable signs

by DAVID SHEPPARD
Staff Writer

Portable signs are now banned in the village of Ruidoso. But that does not mean they will all disappear overnight.

The prohibition on portable signs is one of the main changes in the sign code passed by the village council last month. The ordinance was introduced in July, but it took the governing body almost three months to revise the law before it was adopted as the first municipal sign ordinance on October 12.

Previously the governing body followed guidelines under the state sign ordinance. The biggest change in the amended law is the prohibition of portable signs, which had been allowed on a temporary basis up to 90 days.

Paul Davis, Planning and Zoning field officer, said the portable signs now advertising businesses on Ruidoso's streets are permitted to remain until the owners' permits expire. Davis said most owners of the temporary signs obtained permits immediately before the ordinance was adopted.

Those temporary permits expire 60 days after they were issued, Davis said, and no extensions will be granted.

Not only are portable signs outlawed, but the purpose for which many merchants erected the signs is illegal also. Several local merchants defended the portable units when the ordinance was first proposed, because they said changing copy and using the signs to advertise sales increased business contacts.

But changing copy on signs now is prohibited. The law bans "signs with letters which are not permanently affixed ... and which are designed to allow the advertising copy or message to be changed."

But because of a "grandfather clause," signs that were permitted to replace copy in the past still will be allowed, as will other signs that previously were legal, said village attorney Lee Huckstep.

To avoid being cited for the portable signs, several business owners have affixed the units to posts and made them permanent.

But Huckstep pointed out that portable signs will no longer be allowed to be made permanent, because of the ban on replaceable lettering. But Davis noted that, if the lettering is made permanent, owners can be allowed to make the signs permanent.

The maximum penalty for violating the prohibition on portable signs, or any provision of the ordinance, is a fine of $300 and 90 days in jail.

Davis said the ban on replacing copy does not extend to new business owners changing the lettering or the face on an existing sign, for which no permit is required.

Other signs and details that are banned are: those that distract traffic control; unauthorized traffic control signs; copy which advertises businesses that no longer exist on the premises; rotating, oscillating or flashing beacons of light; and signs with audible devices.

Also prohibited are free-standing signs with overhead wiring; canopy signs that are less than seven feet above the ground at the lowest point; building-mounted signs that extend above the wall and do not integrate supports with the building design; and signs with high intensity electronic discharge strobe lights.

The ordinance also provides specific regulations for signs that are in or within 40 feet of a residential area. That section of the law says no sign or part of a sign shall move, flash or rotate, and that illumination shall not exceed 200 footlamberts at night.

Multi-family developments with under 24 units may identify the apartments with wall signs not to exceed an area of 12 square feet. Developments with over 24 units can have free-standing signs up to 16 feet high, with a sign face up to 32 square feet.

Provisions also allow for signs to identify mobile home parks as long as the sign does not exceed 32 square feet.

Signs in commercial areas cannot have luminance more than 320 footlamberts at night, and, like in residential areas, flashing illumination is prohibited.

The largest signs permitted in the village are those that advertise businesses not located on the same premises as the sign. Those signs may be as large as 150 square feet, plus an add-on sign area of nine square feet.

On-premise signs may not project above the height of the building to which they are attached, and may not project horizontally beyond five feet. The largest size of an on-premise sign is 32 square feet.

No signs may hang over a public right-of-way.

All signs—except those that fall under the exceptions of the law—must be approved by Planning and Zoning enforcement officer John Cupp and the Architectural Plans and Review Committee. The architectural committee only can deny signs that do not meet provisions of the law.

Anyone who wants to erect a sign must submit a completed specifications form to the committee. The forms are available at village hall. Once the committee has approved the design, a sign permit must be obtained from the village.

Sign permits cost a maximum of $10, and approved signs receive a seal of compliance from Cupp. The seal is also attached to pre-existing legal signs.

The ordinance does not include provisions stating preferred types of signs. Signs that are excluded from the review and permit restrictions are temporary political advertisements, construction signs, real estate signs and markers, official flags, signs advertising civic events, street banners, civic or quasi-public signs, permanent identification signs and residential address and street signs.

Under the law, the numerous political signs now lining Ruidoso streets must be taken down soon. The signs may be erected no sooner than 60 days before an election, and must be removed within 10 days after an election.

A copy of the sign ordinance is available from the village clerk's office at village hall.

PORTABLE BECOMES PERMANENT. Several Ruidoso business owners have taken their portable signs and attached them to posts, making them permanent. Under the new sign ordinance, portable signs and those with replaceable lettering are banned. The portable units now seen in the village are allowed under temporary permits that were issued before the law was adopted last month.

County commissioners to meet

The contract for construction of the county courthouse suboffice in Ruidoso will be awarded at the county commissioners meeting at 10 a.m. Friday at the courthouse in Carrizozo. The meeting was changed from the regular Tuesday meeting day due to the November 2 general election.

Other business on the agenda Friday includes:

—Awarding of bid on a mini-pumper for the Bonito Fire Department.

—Request from James R. Riley with the Ruidoso Fire Department to establish a new fire service.

—Request to buy equipment for the Capitan Health Clinic.

—Request for Airport Road outside Carrizozo city limits to be included in the county road system.

—State Highway Department's report on Fort Stanton Road speed limit.

—Request from Ruidoso-Hondo Valley Hospital for reimbursement.

—Request from Robert M. Doughty II for additional space in the courthouse.

—Special zoning district certificate.

—Final plat approval for Rancho Ruidoso Valley Estates Subdivision.

Bids on village barn awarded

The Ruidoso council accepted bids on a concrete slab for and construction of the municipal barn, a building to house village equipment, at a special meeting Monday.

Both bids were awarded to T. E. Arrington of Ruidoso, who bid $24,500 on the slab and $25,500 on the construction. There was one higher bid on each item.

The building itself cost $29,541, bringing the total cost of the project to $79,461. The amount of $75,000 was budgeted for the project, but village manager Jim Hinc told the council that the difference could be made up from the general fund.

A motion to accept the low bids stipulated that the budget be amended to account for the total cost of the project.

Location of the municipal barn will be the area of the old sewer plant east of the high school. Its primary purpose, according to Hinc, will be to store heavy off-road equipment.

It will also provide a place to work on equipment and to store oil and spare parts. The street superintendent's office will be located in the building.

"We're hopeful within 90 days," said

Hinc, when asked when the barn will be ready.

Hinc pointed out that security of expensive equipment will be improved with the building.

"We're getting a bunch of dollars tied up in equipment ... you try to protect it as well as you can," he said.

In other business, the council expressed interest in leasing the Ruidoso fire tower and heard a report from Hinc on settlement of emergency funding for the flood of 1978 (see related stories).

The Ruidoso News annual ski insert is being readied for distribution as soon as Sierra Blanca Ski Resort opens.

The deadline for advertising to be included in the issue is Thursday, November 11.

For information and advertising rates, telephone 257-4001 and ask for Carmen Edwards or Judy Frost.

The insert will be included with the regular edition of The News when it is released, with additional distribution scheduled during the peak of the ski season to acquaint skiers with Ruidoso's attractions and services.

King's Quartet sets reunion concert

The King's Quartet is returning to Ruidoso for two reunion concerts this Saturday, November 6, and Sunday, November 7.

Saturday's concert will be at First Baptist Church of Ruidoso Downs at 7 p.m.

Sunday's performance will be at Gateway Assembly of God Church at 10 a.m. Both concerts are free of charge to the public.

The quartet, which specializes in gospel, Southern, contemporary and spiritual music, last presented a concert in Ruidoso in February. The group performed together full time from 1967 to 1974, appearing on television, radio and stage. The King's Quartet also had a recording contract with Calvary Records.

Among the gospel performers The King's Quartet has appeared with are The Oak Ridge Boys and Andrae Crouch.

Members of the group, now dispersed throughout the West and engaged in various careers, get together once or twice a year for special reunion concerts. Ed Rimer, bass singer of The King's Quartet, is pastor of Gateway Assembly of God Church in Ruidoso.

Additional information about this weekend's concerts is available by calling 257-2324.

Campus Notes

Alicia E. Pirelli, a 1980 graduate of Ruidoso High School, was a candidate for 1982-83 homecoming queen at New Mexico State University.

Alicia, a junior majoring in elementary education, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Pirelli of Ruidoso.

Homecoming festivities were this past weekend.

Blood bank draws 104 pints

"We were very pleased with the response," said Dottie Quaid, blood bank coordinator for the Pink Ladies, after Friday's blood drive collected over 100 pints of blood for the first time.

Using the slogan, "O-type blood desperately needed," the drive netted a total of 104 pints. Quaid said she would not know how much O-type blood they collected for about a week, after it has all been processed.

The Pink Ladies call donors from a permanent file whenever they have a blood drive but Quaid said the 55 walk-ins Friday "helped no end."

The next blood drive will be in March.

Glamourama scheduled

A Mary Kay Cosmetics "Glamourama" and informational coffee is set for 7 p.m. tonight (Thursday) at The Strawberry Patch, 239 Sudderth Drive.

The event will include instruction on corrective makeup and glamor makeup with tips on skin care, according to hostess Cindy Kuerston. There will be no sales of makeup.

Sandy Bardsley of Tulsa, Oklahoma, a Future National Sales Director with Mary Kay Cosmetics, will conduct the program. Door prizes will be awarded, and there is a prize for the person who brings the most friends.

For further information, contact Kuerston at 258-3144.

Hunters asked to donate game meat

Hunters who would like to donate big game meat for the Boy Scouts Big Game, Beef and Fish Bar-B-Q can call 257-7730, 378-4708 or 257-7361 for information, or ask any Boy Scout.

Also, the deadline for ordering fruitcakes from the Boy Scouts in time for Thanksgiving is November 5. Information is available from Linda at 258-4169 or 257-3184 or from any Boy Scout.

THE KING'S QUARTET, composed of (from left) Dave Dixon, Ed Rimer, Jim Glunt, Jim Rimer, Carl Bell and Dave Gentry, will present a concert this Saturday evening at First Baptist Church of Ruidoso Downs. The group will also perform Sunday morning at Gateway Assembly of God Church.

WHITE MOUNTAIN MIDDLE SCHOOL student Beverly Day is happy to be back in the classroom after spending the past six weeks in an Albuquerque hospital undergoing spinal surgery. The staff and students at both White Mountain Schools established a Beverly Day fund recently to help pay for some of her hospital expenses. Almost $1,300 was raised from admission charges and concession stand profits at a movie shown at the schools.

LCHS plans programs

Community involvement is a goal of the Lincoln County Historical Society (LCHS) under its new president, author-historian Lynda Sanchez of Lincoln.

"We need volunteers and funding to help us with our oral history projects, typing and editing of interviews," Sanchez said. "Lincoln County has so many, many people who need to be interviewed and we are hoping that we will be able to get this important aspect of history preserved before it is too late."

Sanchez announced that LCHS, along with the Sierra County Historical Society and the Geronimo Springs Museum, is sponsoring Ruidoso author Eve Ball for the nation's highest civilian award, the Medal of Freedom. The support of the New Mexico Congressional delegation has been sought.

Other new officers were elected at the Society's last meeting. Dee Miller, who works at the Lincoln County Heritage Trust Center, is vice president. Harriet McGinnis of Lincoln is treasurer. Recording secretaries are Mrs. Cleis Jordan of Lincoln and Mary Murry of Ruidoso. Ralph and Rosalie Dunlap are corresponding secretaries.

Nora Henn remains the historian of the Society.

Programs planned for the coming year include a workshop on oral history; projects with English and history teachers in area schools, with students working on locally oriented oral history research projects or papers to be recognized and assisted; a special projects committee under Jerry Jordan of Lincoln; and seminars on Lincoln County history in conjunction with the Alamogordo branch of New Mexico State University.

For more information, contact Harriet McGinnis at 257-4321 or Dee Miller at 258-4586, or contact any officer of the Society.

Rotary Club program bridges generation gap

by BILLY ALLSTETTER
Staff Writer

In the late 1960s and early 1970s much was made of the generation gap. The Vietnam war, drugs and sex were driving a wedge between the youth of America and its older generations.

Today, problems of unemployment, energy and inflation are troubling young and old alike. Less is heard and written about the generation gap that seemed insurmountably wide only a few years ago.

The Ruidoso Rotary Club is sponsoring a Student-Guest Program that is contributing to better relations by bringing together high school students and businessmen of the community.

Each month a student with a specific career interest is chosen by teachers at the high school to meet a member of the business community who works in the student's field of interest.

The student visits the businessman's place of work. The student and businessman talk about the profession while the student gets to see the office of a working professional. The pair then attend the weekly Rotary luncheon.

"It's an opportunity for students to find out first hand what the work is like," said Mike Halner, Rotary coordinator of the program. He believes it better prepares students to deal with the real world.

"It's an excellent program," said architect Jim French, who showed Tod Pilgreen around his office. French said he talked about the field in general, schools and Tod's goals. He said that he was able to give Tod advice about methods of becoming a registered architect.

Gina Yowell, who is interested in environmental sciences, met Paul Gordon, Smokey Bear District Ranger. She said she was encouraged by him to continue with her interests and achieved "more insight into what it involved."

Billy Woodul, the program's liaison at the high school, believes the program provides a "professional resource within the community they (the students) can call on." Yowell and Pilgreen said they were encouraged to call on their Rotary hosts again.

Before being chosen, Yowell said, she had never really met any businessmen in the community and had a stereotypical image of them, but at the luncheon she met many and found out "they were human, too."

Both Pilgreen and Yowell liked the program. They said they had learned valuable information and enjoyed meeting the Rotary members.

"They made you feel pretty good," Pilgreen said.

The learning, however, works both ways. Halner said many of the Rotary members do not get many chances to meet students and enjoy it when they visit at the luncheons.

French said he was pleased to meet a fine young man such as Tod. French was especially impressed when Tod spoke to the club.

"He has a lot more presence of mind at his age than I had," French said.

Pilgreen and Yowell were the first two students chosen since the Rotary club has sponsored the Student-Guest Program.

Billy Woodul was chosen Tuesday as the Rotary's student-guest for November. His interest is in real estate. He said he is interested in the variety and flexibility that it offers. His contact in the business community has not been chosen but Woodul said he has questions ready for their meeting.

LISTENING FOR THE TONE while having her hearing screened is Mandy McGill (seated), who visited the Sertoma Club and school sponsored speech, language and hearing clinic Tuesday. Cynthia Farkas, from the Sertoma El Paso clinic, performs the test. A total of 45 local pre-schoolers were screened for possible hearing, speech or language problems, according to Ronnie Ludwick, Sertoma president, and Karen Tillman, school diagnostician. Ludwick said the club hopes to offer such a clinic on an annual or semi-annual basis in the future.

New treatment plant insured

by DAVID SHEPPARD
Staff Writer

The Biscuit Hill wastewater treatment plant Joint Use Board (JUB) Monday approved an insurance contract with Pertast, Parks and Associates that covers plant equipment and liability at the site.

The yearly premium will cost JUB $6,727. The provisions include coverage on all the operations equipment; the maintenance building and electronics equipment; lift stations; and the chlorinating building and its equipment. The value of the insured items is $601,000.

JUB clerk-treasurer Jim Hine said the employees at the plant are covered by Ruidoso workmen's compensation insurance because the village pays them and is reimbursed for their salaries by JUB.

Dave Parks, of the Ruidoso insurance firm, said the only exclusions in the coverage are losses due to mechanical breakdown. He noted that the plant must now be insured by JUB because the contractor's insurance has expired on the recently completed plant.

Parks noted that the joint powers group is getting the insurance at a 75 cents per $100 premium, which he said "is not bad." Parks said his firm checked with several companies to get the best rate.

The JUB also heard from engineer Paul Light of Daniel Engineering that construction on the primary clarifier—an addition to the plant—is complete. The clarifier was the last construction on the site, Light said.

Light also reported that flow metering equipment in the main collector line from Ruidoso to the plant—located in the county about five miles east of Ruidoso Downs—continues to malfunction. The gauge sometimes shows more flow coming out of Ruidoso Downs than from Ruidoso.

Light said, and he called such readings "absurd."

Light said the equipment will have to be removed from the pipe and sent to the manufacturer for repairs. He noted that the labor costs for removing the meter are the responsibility of the pipeline contractor.

Light also reported that the plant is operating well, and that supervisor John Ramos and his employees have done a good job keeping the area clean and odor-free.

Capitan council meets November 15

The Capitan council has scheduled its November meeting for 7 p.m. Monday, November 15, a week later than normal.

SBAC meeting scheduled

The Sierra Blanca Airport Commission (SBAC) meets today at 2 p.m. at the Ruidoso Downs Municipal Building.

The commission will discuss the direction each of the governing bodies represented on SBAC wishes to take following a report that recommends an airport not be built on land now leased by

New Mexico State University on Fort Stanton Mesa.

SBAC will also discuss the outcome of Tuesday's election, and the repercussions from the loss of U.S. Senator Harrison Schmitt. The senator has been a strong ally of SBAC, and he was responsible for getting an evaluation of the university's research.

Help make holidays happy

The Ruidoso Fire and Police Departments are asking for donations for their Happy Holidays collection drive to help needy families in the area.

Any donations of food, good usable clothing or toys or money to purchase such items will be greatly appreciated. The Ruidoso Volunteer Fire Department is designated as the collection point. If you are unable to take the items to the main fire station on Juanita Drive, please call 257-7365 and a police or fire unit will pick up your items.

A contact point to nominate families to receive gift baskets will be announced prior to the holiday season.

Home Health Services marks anniversary week

by BARBY GRANT
Staff Writer

November 7-14 has been proclaimed by

Governor Bruce King as Home Health Care Week in New Mexico to honor the 10th anniversary of the establishment of the New Mexico Association of Home Health Agencies. Lincoln County Home Health Services was established in 1978 and currently provides visiting nursing services to 20 to 30 home-bound county residents. Verna Adams, RN, is the director and working supervisor of the Lincoln County agency, based in Ruidoso.

The staff includes two part-time registered nurses, Gerri Collins and Wilma Stutzfus; Sheila Seay as receptionist, secretary and bookkeeper; Cora Foster as home health aide; and three therapists on call—Marie McNeil, speech therapist, Susan Roy, occupational therapist, and Rob Steimetz, physical therapist.

Home Health Services is a non-profit corporation with a local board of directors. Members of the board of directors include Archie Witham, president, and Mary Lou Brown, Mary Ellen Payne, Betty Mills, Edith Prescott, Burdette Stampley, Dick Mowad and Mosele Vinsant.

The agency was funded the first year of its operation by a federal grant but is now entirely dependent on fees for services and donations, Adams said. Most insurance companies have Home Health benefits available and Home Health Services are now covered under Medicaid and Medicare. Patients who are not covered by insurance are charged according to what they are able to pay, Adams reported.

Several organizations and clubs in the area, including Rotary, Pilot Club and Altrusa, make regular donations to the agency. All contributions are tax deductible.

Much of the service provided by the agency involves teaching patients how to care for themselves or teaching members of the family how to care for the patient. All patients must be under a physician's care, Adams stressed.

The visiting nurses also care for terminally ill patients who prefer to remain at home. Another service offered by the agency is hospital equipment rental and lease purchases. The nurses are on call for patients 24 hours a day, seven days a week. Adams said her emphasis as a nurse is on making a patient's life as productive as possible and improving the quality of life as much as she can.

"I feel very strongly about the quality of life of a person," she explained. Working with terminally ill and permanently home-bound patients, the emphasis becomes keeping pain down, keeping the patient as comfortable as possible and letting him do all the things he is able to do, rather than working towards a cure, she said.

Anyone who would like additional information about Home Health Services, knows someone who may benefit from such services, or would like to make a donation, can call 257-5189.

VISITING patients at home is the service offered by Home Health Services, which is being honored next week for its 10 years of organization in New Mexico. Lincoln County Home Health Services director and working supervisor, Verna Adams (right) visits with Kathy Herrera.

Ruidoso spikers host Tularosa, go for second victory over Wildcats

by GARY BROWN
Sports Writer

The Ruidoso High School varsity volleyball team hopes history repeats itself when it hosts Tularosa High School in the first round of the district 3-AAA playoffs at 7 p.m. today in the Warrior gym.

Ruidoso, which finished with a 6-5 record in round-robin action and a 9-7 mark overall on the season, lost to Tularosa on the Wildcats' court in the season's first meeting between the two clubs. However, the Warriors came back to beat Tularosa on the Ruidoso court October 12.

Ruidoso tied for third place with Deming in round-robin play but lost a coin flip with that team and has to play fifth place Tularosa instead of last place Cobre in the first round.

How can the Warriors repeat their victory of last month against Tularosa?

"We just have to keep attacking and not sit back," said Warrior head coach Elmer Chavez. "We'll have to be ready for them. They're a lot better than their record (3-7) indicates."

Chavez will go with Lori Morel, Dodie Baldonado, Kody Taylor, Lisa Williams, Lillian Lopez and Claudia Branum as his starting lineup. The Warriors' bench has improved steadily all season long with Laura Trapp and Sonja Jefferson having played well. Trapp has alternated with Williams as a starter most of the season.

The Warriors defeated Silver City and lost to Cobre last Saturday in the round-robin finale. Ruidoso won a coin flip with Silver City after the Warrior-Cobre match and would have gotten a bye to the semifinals if it had beaten Cobre. However, the Warriors lost in three sets to the Indians and Silver City finished with a 6-4 record and second place in the final round-robin standings.

If the Warriors defeat Tularosa, they will play the winner of the Deming-Cobre match at noon Saturday in Silver City. The winner of that match will play Silver City at 3 p.m. and the victor of that contest will play round-robin champion Truth or Consequences for the overall championship at 8 p.m.

The first and second place teams in the district will advance to the state tournament in Albuquerque.

Ruidoso's junior varsity will compete in the district junior varsity tournament at Silver City Saturday morning.

The Warrior junior varsity won its first district match of the season Saturday when it defeated Cobre. Ruidoso had lost to Silver City earlier in the day but played its best match of the season, according to coach Nancy Holland.

"Everybody played outstanding," Holland said. "The girls held on and didn't quit. Kerl Thomas and Christine Volquarson had long strings of serving points."

The Warrior junior varsity also had a non-district victory over Cloudcroft earlier in the season.

What a season the University of New Mexico (UNM) football team has had!

The Lobos, after several years of losing campaigns, are currently 7-1 on the season and stand a good chance of winning the rest of their games.

UNM plays at the University of Texas at El Paso (UTEP) Saturday, then finishes the season with home contests against Colorado State University (CSU) and the University of Hawaii. Only Hawaii is expected to give the Lobos some trouble.

UNM stands a good chance of earning a bowl game following the regular season, especially if it wins the Western Athletic Conference (WAC) championship. The WAC winner gets a berth in the Holiday Bowl.

Some UNM supporters hope that the Lobos will be invited to the Sun Bowl in El Paso, Texas.

However, that may be wishful thinking. The Sun Bowl is an older and more prestigious bowl than the Holiday Bowl and it's unlikely that the Sun Bowl selection committee would select the Lobos if they didn't win the WAC title.

The WAC, although a respectable loop, doesn't rate with the likes of the Southwest Conference (SWC), Big Eight Conference, Pac-10 Conference, Southeastern Conference (SEC) and the Big 10 Conference.

UNM lost to defending WAC champion Brigham Young University (BYU) almost a month ago but the Cougars have a tough schedule ahead of them and may not survive it. UNM is 3-1 in WAC play and BYU is 1-1. Thus, it appears the Holiday Bowl is the Lobos' best bet.

The Lobos' top strength this season has been on defense but UNM's offense has also sparkled.

Quarterback David Osborne has run the offense well and running backs Michael Carter and Carl Ravin have also been impressive.

Mistakes hurt UNM in its loss to BYU at home. The Lobos got a questionable safety called on them because the official thought that Osborne threw the ball away while he was in his own end zone. The safety gave the Cougars a 19-10 advantage and they cruised in from there.

Take away the loss to BYU and the Lobos would be undefeated and probably nationally ranked by now.

Look for the Lobos to finish the season with a 10-1 record and for BYU to lose at least one more game this year. Then UNM would be the WAC champions and that would be a great lift for its athletic program.

Staying on the subject of UNM, former Ruidoso High School standout Lon Nunley has played in several of the Lobo games on the kickoff return team. Nunley made the All-State AAA division team as a linebacker last season. However, the Lobos have a great deal of depth and talent at linebacker this season and the former Warrior star hasn't seen much action there.

It would be a feather in Ruidoso's cap if the Lobos made it to a bowl game and Nunley competed in that contest.

Lon is one of several ex-Warriors who are playing at four-year colleges this season.

Don Nunley, Lon's brother, is playing on the West Texas State University (WTSU) junior varsity along with Byron Wright, another ex-Warrior. Wright, a fullback, injured his knee in a game with the Texas Tech junior varsity recently. He had surgery to correct loose cartilage and is out for the season. He will be able to play next year. Don Nunley is a wide receiver.

Jay Raulerson, a 1980 graduate of Ruidoso High School, is currently a second-string center for the Eastern New Mexico Greyhounds. The 6-3, 230 pounder is playing behind a veteran center

GO FOR IT. Kody Taylor sets the ball up for Ruidoso High School's varsity volleyball team in a recent match. Looking on is Dodie Baldonado (12). The Warriors will host Tularosa in a first round playoff game of the 3-AAA district tournament. The match will begin at 7 p.m.

Capitan hoopsters look strong this season

First-year Capitan High School boys varsity basketball coach Kendall Lawlis has a good nucleus of returning players to work with this season.

Robert Parker, a 6-3 returning starter, is probably the Tigers' top returnee. Other players who competed on the varsity or junior varsity last season include Jon Todd Aguilar, Danny Cummins, Todd Proctor, Eddie Davis and Sammy Castillo. Castillo and Davis were injured during the football season but Lawlis is hopeful they can return for most of the basketball campaign. Aguilar, Cummins and Proctor also play football.

"We've got some pretty good players back," Lawlis said. "I think two of them started last season."

Lawlis was an assistant at Eunice High School, a AA division member, last season.

The Tigers will start their season with the Cloudcroft Invitational Tournament December 2-4. The Cloudcroft gymnasium is being remodeled and the tournament may be changed to another site.

The Capitan girls varsity team, coached by head football mentor Mel Holland, will also begin its season December 2-4, at the Weed Invitational Tournament.

Hood optimistic about White Mountain cagers

Practice has begun for the White Mountain Middle School boys basketball team and coach Dean Hood is optimistic.

"I've got high hopes right now," he said. "Things look pretty good."

Hood hopes to have a squad of 24 players—10 on the A team and 14 on the B squad. Several of the B players might alternate between the two squads.

There are five returnees from last year's team. They are Kirk Taylor, Toby Rue, Jeff Willingham, Brian Davis and Carl Lueras. Some promising newcomers include Justin Shaw, Jeremy Lane and Kirk

Ryan. Ryan is the younger brother of former Ruidoso High School standout and All-State player Glenn Ryan.

Davis and Shaw are both around 5-9—probably the tallest players on the team. Last year's Braves A team finished with a 13-3 mark, largely behind the play of 5-10 Russell Easter and 5-9 Jason Bigham. Bigham and Easter are now freshmen at Ruidoso High School.

The Braves will open the season with a home game against Capitan Middle School, Monday, November 22. Both the A and B teams will play.

Wrestling club to have meeting November 17

The Ruidoso Wrestling Club will host a meeting for coaches, parents and anybody else interested in the club at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, November 17, at village hall.

The meeting will be a chance for all persons interested in the club to get together and discuss the club. Both girls and boys can participate in the club's activities.

Many other sports besides wrestling will also be conducted at the club's clinics.

Volleyball, soccer, basketball and possibly track will be among the sports that will be taught.

The first session will be Saturday, November 27. The sessions will last from 10 a.m. to noon Saturdays and will continue through most of the winter.

Anyone interested in further information should write Fax at Box 171, Ruidoso Downs, NM 88346.

Holmes-Cobb fight set for Houston Astrodome

The World Boxing Council (WBC) heavyweight championship fight between champion Larry Holmes and challenger Randall "Tex" Cobb has been scheduled for the Houston Astrodome either November 22 or November 26.

If the National Football League strike is still on, the fight will be held on the earlier date for the Monday Night Football slot on ABC-TV. If the strike is over, the fight will be held on the latter date.

Cobb, a 6-3, 230 pounder, is continuing his workouts six days a week at the Inn of the Mountain Gods. He'll probably train at the Inn until a week before the fight. Cobb has a 20-2 career record.

SEEK SECOND STRAIGHT VICTORY

Warriors finish season against Silver City

by GARY BROWN
Sports Writer

The Ruidoso High School varsity football team will go for its second straight victory when it ends the season with a game at Silver City High School at 7:30 p.m. Friday.

Ruidoso, which defeated Truth or Consequences (T or C) 20-16 last week for its first victory after eight losses, will probably be facing the toughest team on its schedule this season, according to Warrior head coach Darrel Stierwalt.

"They're a very good, solid ballclub," Stierwalt said. "They're big and they're at least as good as they were last year."

"Last year" was pretty good as the Colts went 8-2, edged the Warriors out for the district 3-AAA championship in the last game of the season, and went on to finish second in the state playoffs at Portales.

This year's Silver City team averages 176 pounds in the defensive line and 180 pounds in the offensive line.

Quarterback Danny Bowman, a 190-pound returnee from last season, sparks the Colt offense. He's an adequate passer and a line runner. Brothers Joe and Jim Vasquez and John Curtis join Bowman in the backfield. Curtis weighs 190 pounds, Joe Vasquez 171 pounds and Jim Vasquez 165 pounds.

"We're going to have to pass a lot to have a chance against them," Stierwalt said. "Our offensive line is going to have to block really well."

The Warrior offensive line did just that against the Tigers last week, giving Ruidoso quarterback Billy Woodul plenty of time to pass most of the time. The senior quarterback responded with probably the best game of his career, completing 125 yards in passes, throwing for two touchdowns and running off the option for another.

Senior wingback Grady Williamson, junior halfback Eric Strobel, senior fullback Kyle Flack and freshman fullback Mark Langston also ran well for the Warriors.

Strobel leads the Warriors in scoring this season with eight touchdowns. Williamson, who has led the Ruidoso rushers in most of the Warriors' games, has three touchdowns and a two-point conversion reception. Langston has run for two touchdowns.

Woodul has thrown for over 900 yards in nine games and has four touchdown passes.

The Warrior starting lineup for both offense and defense is basically the same as it was last week.

Woodul will start at quarterback, Strobel at halfback, Williamson at wingback and either Langston or Flack at fullback.

Senior David Swalander will again go at center while George Greaham and Craig Carson will start at guard. Kip McClellan and Chris Wynn will start at tackle while Mike Douglass will go at tight end. Senior H. R. Lueras and junior Curtis Palmer, who caught the winning touchdown pass against T or C, will probably share playing time at split end.

On defense, Kevin Jameson and Swalander will probably start at defensive end with junior Gary Burgess also expected to see some playing time.

Senior Danny Hoffer and sophomore Manuel Montano will probably start at tackle while Flack will go again at middle linebacker. Jesse Reynolds, who had a fine game against T or C, Strobel, Tommy Crow and Gresharp should all see action at the two outside linebacker spots.

Junior Cyrus Simmons and freshman Russell Easter will start at safety while freshman Michael Williamson and junior David Landrum will probably go at cornerback.

The Warrior defense played one of its best games against the Tigers. Ruidoso gave up a lot of yardage but held together when the Tigers came close to the goal line and took advantage of some turnovers.

Flack was particularly outstanding on defense as were the other linebackers.

Silver City has already clinched a spot in the AAA division state playoffs while Deming is the probable second place team. The Warriors still have a chance to finish in a third place tie if Deming tops T or C and Cobre upsets Tularosa. The Warriors are 1-3 in district competition.

TALKING IT OVER. Ruidoso High School head varsity football coach Darrel Stierwalt discusses tactics with quarterback Billy Woodul during last Friday night's game with Truth or Consequences. The Warriors topped the Tigers 20-16 behind the passing of Woodul. Ruidoso ends the season with a game at Silver City Friday night.

RUNNING FOR YARDAGE. Eric Strobel of the Ruidoso High School varsity football team turns the corner and runs for yardage against Truth or Consequences last Friday night. Strobel caught a nine yard pass for a touchdown as the Warriors topped the Tigers 20-16 for their first win of the season.

Lions had an outstanding season

The Lions of the Ruidoso Football Little League's Minor Division established an outstanding record in repeating as league champions this season.

They rolled up eight victories against no defeats on the overall season and made a perfect record in the six-game league season. The Lions' non-league victories came over Mesalero, 62-0 and 44-14.

Greg Stewart was the head coach and Danny Garcia and Steve Dankert were his assistants.

The Lions, made up of eight- and nine-year-old players, scored 192 points and allowed just 26 on the season. They only gave up 12 points in the league season.

What was the key to the Lions' success? "A lot of boyish enthusiasm," said

Stewart. "The kids really loved to play."

The Lions used both a strong defense and offense in defeating the Hornets 12-0 for the league championship two weeks ago.

The players should carry that enthusiasm and talent into the Little League Major Division. White Mountain Middle School and Ruidoso High School teams in future years.

Back row (from left) are Cady Rushing, running back and linebacker; Brad Stewart, quarterback and tackle; and Steve Dankert, halfback and defensive end. In the front (from left) are Marc Beatty, tight end and safety; Jason Pillar, tackle; Brian Perry, center and outside linebacker;

Craig Miller, tackle and safety; John Von Rosenberg, safety and guard; and Greg Nesmith, tackle and safety. Not pictured are Jamie Candelaria, running back and defensive end; Percy Platta, tight end and guard; and Weldon Smith, linebacker and guard. Greg Stewart is the head coach and Danny Garcia and Steve Dankert are the assistants.

Tigers seek revenge against Texico

The Capitan High School varsity football team hopes to avenge two heartbreaking defeats in the past year when it travels to Texico High School for a 7:30 p.m. A division semi-final playoff game Friday.

Capitan lost to Texico, currently the state's top-ranked A division team, by a 7-6 score in last year's state semi-finals. Earlier this season, Texico blanked the Tigers by a 13-0 score on Capitan's home field.

"I guess you could say they're the best team we've played this season," Capitan head coach Mel Holland said. "They're awfully strong on defense. They've got a few 200-pounders in their defensive line. They're also very quick."

Capitan's biggest player is 6-0, 190-pound tackle Todd Proctor. Proctor goes both ways and he's sure to be a busy player against Texico.

Dewey Keller should start at quarterback for the Tigers. Jon Todd Aguilar will go at fullback, Danny Cummins at halfback and David Beavers at flanker.

Tim McElhannon will start at split end while Ron McDantels is scheduled to go at tight end. Rudy Saiz is the center and Gid Allen the other starting tackle. Paul Sullivan, a 5-11, 170-pounder, will join Andy Willingham at guard.

Most of the offensive starters also go on defense for Capitan.

Keller has come in and done a great job for the Tigers in place of Grady Lee Eldridge. Eldridge injured his back earlier in the year. Aguilar and Cummins both have good speed and quickness.

"They'll be tough," Holland admitted of Texico. "We probably played our best game of the season against them despite losing."

Capitan earned a trip to the playoffs by defeating arch-rival Carrizozo 33-20 in the regular season finale last week. The Tigers came through with a strong second half performance to nail down the victory. Capitan trailed by 14-7 early in the second half before coming back for the victory.

Keller threw two touchdown passes in the win over Carrizozo and the defense played an alert, aggressive game.

This will be the Tigers' fourth straight trip to the A division playoffs. Capitan finished second two years ago, losing out to two-time state champion Reserve.

Reserve will host Tatum in the other semi-final contest tomorrow night.

Ruidoso citizens cite duty, freedom as reasons for voting

by GARY BROWN
Staff Writer

Most voters interviewed during Tuesday's election cited their duty as citizens and the chance to have a choice in government as the main reasons they cast their ballots. Almost all of the voters questioned by The News at the Ruidoso Public Library (where people from Precinct 13 cast their ballots) said they vote in every election and did not cite any specific issue which they felt was of particular interest in this election.

JIM FURTH

SHIRLEY FURTH

Typical of the voters' comments was this statement by Ruidoso councilman Frank Saylor.

"I've never missed an election and don't plan to," he said. "They're all important." Jim and Shirley Furth felt the right to vote was too important not to use. "Voting is a citizen's responsibility," Jim Furth said. "I was in the service and I feel I earned this right. I don't want to lose the right to vote so I vote every time." Shirley Furth had similar views to those of her husband. "It (voting) is the only way we have a voice in government," she said. "It's the only chance we have to tell the government how we feel." Alvin Lawrence didn't feel that this election had any special significance. "Every election I like to get my two cents in," he said. "All the elections are important."

Paul and Nell Trent said they always vote. "It's the only thing that's free anymore," Paul said. Several voters did mention specific issues and politicians, however. "I've always voted," said Jackie Sheehan. "I think the people might vote in this election to make a statement about Reagan. I hope there's less apathy this time." Vaughn Vandergriff was also interested in specific issues. "I'm interested in the major government offices in the state government and also in the liquor sales referendum," he remarked. "The economy is also important." The library was very busy with a full line of people waiting to vote through noon. After lunchtime, the line gradually shrunk until it had almost disappeared by 6 p.m.

Over half the voters appeared to be in the 40 and over age group. A total of 498 of the 802 registered voters (62 percent) in Precinct 13 cast their ballots. In Precinct 14—with ballots cast at Ruidoso High School—575 of the 963 registered voters (59.7 percent) voted. Precinct 11—whose voters voted at White Mountain Middle School—saw 463 of the 759 people eligible to vote (61.8 percent) cast their ballots. In all, 1,536 of the 2,524 registered voters in Ruidoso cast their ballots Tuesday. That's a 60.9 percent total. In Ruidoso Downs, 903 of the 537 registered voters (68.9 percent) voted in the election. Both villages had lower percentages of voter turnout than Lincoln County as a whole. Seventy-one percent of the county's registered voters cast their ballots Tuesday.

Vietnam vets continue appeal

The Lincoln County Chapter of the Vietnam Veterans of New Mexico is continuing its appeal for funds to send representatives to the dedication of the National Vietnam Veterans Memorial in Washington D.C. next week. Community groups and individuals are being asked to contribute so that Lincoln County vets can be represented in the New Mexico delegation. Information about making contributions is available from Lucky Mulqueen at 257-2796.

Warrior cagers, wrestlers continuing workouts

The Ruidoso High School basketball and wrestling teams are continuing to practice at the Warrior gymnasium.

The boys basketball team is conducting daily workouts under the eyes of new head coach Ron Geyer. Ruidoso has several players over six feet tall currently working out with the team and Geyer is hopeful some more players will join the season when the football season ends. Stanley Sluder (8-3) and freshman Dan Ullman (6-2) give the Warriors decent height. Gilbert Rivera, who played on the junior varsity last season, has also looked good in practice.

Ruidoso's girls basketball team, coached by Sergio Castanon, has a host of returning veterans back from last year's team.

Many of the girls who are currently on the Warrior volleyball team will join Castanon's practice when volleyball season is over.

The Warrior wrestling team, coached by Gerald Ames and Mark Paz, has several state meet veterans back from last season.

Ray Montes, a returning state meet competitor at 105 pounds, should be an outstanding athlete for Ruidoso this season. Several other athletes who could help the Warrior cause are on the football team and will probably come out for wrestling when the gridiron sport ends.

AN ICY TOUCH. The Rio Ruidoso winds through a snow which fell Tuesday night, frigid bend created by the chilly, white mantle of WINTER SCENE. It was easy Wednesday morning to imagine a winter wonderland in the Upper Canyon as Old Man Winter powdered the Ruidoso woods with one to two inches of snow overnight.

Little Theater production to big room

The Ruidoso Little Theater's newest production, "The Penultimate Problem of Sherlock Holmes," will open next Friday, November 12, at the Inn of the Mountain Gods Waudell Chino Room in the new convention center.

The room has lots of seating capacity, so the dinner theater is a great reason to get a large group of friends together to enjoy an evening of great food and theater entertainment. Reservations for parties of six or eight are gladly being accepted.

Tickets for the dinner and play are $15 and must be purchased in advance. Tickets for the play only are $5 and may be purchased at the door. Ticket outlets are the Inn of the Mountain Gods, Don's Pharmacy and Sears.

The winner of the RLT logo contest will be announced on opening night. The play will continue through November 13 and 14 and 18-21.

Anyone needing additional information about the play or RLT may call Hap Hanson at 257-4893.

The Silver Lining

BY DANIEL AGNEW STORM

The First Snow Welcomes November The Thankful Month

Here we are already over into November, The Month of Thankfulness — and here on the morning of November three, the light snow, that began falling the evening of the second, is fast fading from the vale, under a clearing sky that was all gray in the early morning.

It is mid-morning; the only traces of snow are on the highest reaches of the mountains to the south, giving a mid-autumn touch to the pattern of crimson and orange oak brush among the soft green of the cedar, pinon and juniper.

As the sun rises higher, shining upon the upper half of the mountain to the south, the light film of snow refuses to melt, hanging in a glistening film of silver all along the mountainsides.

Down in the valley it is all sunny and warm, with the fields glowing their amber colors, and the river trees still cheerful with their gold, bronze and orange.

You could take a pencil and draw a line, half way up the mountains, with all early winter on the heights and balmy Indian Summer in the valley.

The large apricot tree out in front of the house has held onto its leaves longer than in any year I can remember, and it is in full sunlight yellow, a glorious centerpiece in this Autumn-Winter mountain picture.

Thankfulness In The Air
With the first snow arriving early, after a summer of good moisture, there is a good start in a snowy winter, the life's blood of a good Spring. The sight of the new snow adds a Thanksgiving touch to the mountain world, while the gold and yellow colors on every hand make you think of pumpkins, yellow corn, sweet potatoes and other traditional symbols of good crops laid by for the winter. There is the wood pile, giving you a sense of well-being, as you think of the cheerful glowing fire in the fireplace in the evening. And as you look over the fields and mountain meadows, you see the glowing gramma grass and think of the cattle and the creatures of the wild, and rejoice that they are going into the winter with a good supply of Mother Earth's good food.

The jays and snow birds are busy flying to and fro in the sunny weather, content with a good harvest of bird feed, ripened now after the bounteous summer.

And so, you rejoice along with Mother Nature's children as gratefulness awakens more and more through the day for our countless blessings.

A Message From Jack Frost:

I have tried to make a good set of Autumn pictures, beginning with the mountain, and extending all down the valleys. Also I have brought in an early snow for two reasons — to get an early start on the winter moisture so as to make for last Winter's light snows, and also to make folks understand that cold snaps are likely to come in the midst of a warm Autumn season.

As I have said in years past, always be prepared when out in the mountains this time of year, for a cold and snowy spell to move suddenly in. By that I mean, have warm clothing, food, matches and other things along with you.

I am glad to begin another season with you, and feel we are beginning a very good Fall and Winter.

I hope to see you along the way, and until then I remain, yours ever the same, for better days.

RHS students to Washington

By Eric Berg
High School Writer

CLOSE-UP, the nation's largest government studies program, has invited Ruidoso High School (RHS) to participate in a week-long series of seminars in Washington, D.C. RHS students will participate with other students and teachers from the southeastern New Mexico area during the week of January 23-29, 1983.

Romy Maskew, teacher-coordinator at RHS, will accompany the students to the nation's capital.

CLOSE-UP, a nonprofit educational foundation, was founded in 1971 to acquaint high school students with the federal system of government.

"CLOSE-UP takes students out of the traditional classroom and places them in the classroom of Washington, where lobbyists teach them, about lobbying, journalists teach them, media and members of Congress explain the legislative branch and current issues," Maskew said. "In addition, members of CLOSE-UP staff work with the students from early morning to late at night."

The students will also participate in several workshops in which they may share their views. In addition, time will be allowed for a tour of the city and for such social activities as a live theater performance and a final banquet and dance.

Maskew will participate in a teacher program designed to give him new insight into the actual workings of government, which can be carried back into the classroom once the week is completed.

The RHS students and Maskew may also participate in a national television program produced by CLOSE-UP and telecast over the Cable-Satellite Public Affairs Network (C-SPAN).

Cost for the program is nearly $800. Maskew said that several ideas have been developed to help the students offset this cost.

The RHS Band and Cheerleaders were invited by the Chamber of Commerce of Roswell to play for President Reagan upon his arrival at the Roswell airport October 29. President Reagan was in Roswell for a Republican political rally. The RHS Band played marching music including "Mirada." In addition to our band, several other bands from the region performed. The NMMI Band played "Hail to the Chief."

The RHS Drama Club is in the making this week. They are under the direction of Peggy Wilson. The Club is planning to do two short one-act plays, and a musical at the end of the year. They need people interested in props, costumes, make-up and production.

Middle School book fair set for next week

Encouraging reading at home is the goal of the third annual White Mountain Middle School Book Fair scheduled next week — from Monday, November 8, through Friday, November 12.

Books for all interests and ages, from pre-school through adult, will be on display and can be purchased for 10 percent less than the publisher's price. "Let the Book Bug Bite" is the theme of this year's book fair, librarian Ellie Keeton announced.

Elementary school students will be visiting the fair with their classes during school hours. Students in grades three through five may purchase books at that time, but kindergarten through second grade students must return to the book fair during the evening with their parents to buy books.

The fair will be open from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Monday through Friday and also from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. Monday through Thursday at the middle school library.

Funds raised from the book fair will be used to purchase library materials for the school. Last year, Keeton said, 3,000 books were sold in three days of the fair. The book fair is a project of the mid school library aides.

Agency office opens

Toppino-Golden Advertising and Public Relations, Albuquerque, has announced the opening of a branch office in Ruidoso to serve its clients in southern New Mexico.

Howell Zinn, former vice president of Mithoff Advertising of El Paso, Texas, will head the Ruidoso branch.

Efficient Heating...

Yours with a yearly heating System Checkup

Inefficient heating systems are wasteful. That's why you should have your heating system professionally inspected and serviced annually. During a checkup, any broken, dirty, or worn parts can be replaced. Dirt and lint is swept away. Your unit can now keep you comfortable with less energy. To help keep your unit running efficiently between checkups, change or clean the filter yourself monthly. Help prevent costly breakdowns when you need your heating system most, have your system checked now.

Double B. Express still rolling

GETTING A DOUBLE WHAMMY. Double B Express with a commanding lead in the Mount Cristo Rey Handicap across the Sunland Park finish line Sunday. Casey Lambert is up.

Double B. Express pounded out an easy win in Sunday's Mount Cristo Rey Handicap at Sunland Park and pushed his career earnings up to nearly $210,000. The seven-year-old gelding flashed over the six and one-half furlongs in 1:17 3/8 seconds, shaving a tick off the seasonal record.

Casey Lambert was up in the top lead of 123 pounds. A purse of $5,775 was up for grabs, of which $3,465 went into Double B. Express' account.

Double B. Express has now earned $48,752 this year alone, and $209,947 in his career. He's the property of the Double B. Ranch of Anthony, New Mexico, and operates out of the barn of trainer Clifford Lambert.

Sunland Park patrons had little trouble deciding on a favorite and put Double B. Express at 60 cents on the dollar. Only four foes were lined up to face him. His two most prominent competitors, Bet On Me and Special Hank, were at somewhat of a disadvantage. Both are more at home at shorter distances.

But Special Hank, throwing caution to the wind, came out of the gate flying, evidently determined to lead all the way. The gelding was 8-5. But he was unable to catch his breath since Bet On Me, a 18-1 shot, was also full of run.

Special Hank was hounded by Bet On Me through most of the journey as things set up perfectly for Double B. Express. The people's choice quickly settled in third place, then launched a steady advance on the outside.

In the upper stretch, Double B. Express began to bear down severely on the two pacemakers. At the midway point of the stretch, Special Hank was unable to maintain his grasp. He began slipping off the lead. Double B. Express slipped into a one and one-fourth length lead, pulling away with easy authority.

The gelding returned $3.20, $3.20 and $2.10 in his seventh win of the year. Bet On Me, ridden by Mike Smith at 114 pounds, finished second, 3/4 lengths in front of the gutsy Special Hank.

Bet On Me, trained by Jim Curry for Patrick Brown of Anthony, New Mexico, earned $1,270 and returned $7.30 and $2.20. Special Hank, the property of Lowell Hanks of Rocksprings, Texas, paid $2.10 to show. He carried 118 pounds. Salustio Burgos was up.

It was another big day at the Sunland betting windows as 3,591 patrons wagered a whopping $412,065 on the 12-race program, well over the $343,961 recorded on the same day last year.

Christmas tree application forms out

Application forms for the annual Lincoln National Forest Christmas tree cutting program are now available at all Lincoln National Forest offices, many Chamber of Commerce and post offices in southeastern New Mexico and west Texas, and J. C. Penney Stores in El Paso and Las Cruces. Permits will be issued this year to cut a total of 5,150 trees in the Forest's four ranger districts. They cost $5 each and are limited to one per household. Processing of applications will begin November 8, and trees may be cut any time between November 20 and December 24.

Fuelwood cutters are making heavy use of woodcutting areas on all districts. Woodcutters should check with the district they plan to visit for conditions before leaving home as many areas are closed in wet weather. Numbers to call are Smokey Bear at Ruidoso, 257-4095; Cloudercroft, 682-2551; Guadalupe at Carlsbad, 885-4181; and Mayhill at 687-3411. Permits are required for all fuelwood areas on Lincoln National Forest.

Bonito Lake is full and has been recently stocked on the Smokey Bear District. Three Rivers Campground is open. Construction is underway on Forest Road 117, which is closed above Villa Madonna. Trails are open. Snow flurries have been reported on the district, so visitors should bring appropriate clothing.

Lower Sleepy Grass Campground is open on the Cloudercroft District. Roadwork continues on NM 24 south of Cloudercroft to the Sunspot turnoff, and the road is very dusty. A volunteer group will be working on Dog Canyon Trail on Sunday, November 7.

Sitting Bull Falls Picnic Area is open on the Guadalupe District and receiving heavy weekend use. Trails and roads are open. Fuelwood areas are very busy. Some fall colors remain on the district. Check with Guadalupe National Park about guided tours into McKittrick Canyon planned on Saturdays and Sundays until November 13, phone: (505) 685-8884.

Good fishing is reported on the Penasco River on the Mayhill District. James Canyon Campground is open.

PRESENTING THE MOUNT CRISTO REY TROPHY. Jess Dafron (left), director of the El Paso office of U. S. Congressman Richard White, presents the victory platter to the winning owners in the Mount Cristo Rey Handicap Sunday at Sunland Park. The platter is accepted by Mrs. Margaret Barton and her son, J. D. Barton, owners of Double B Express. Jockey Casey Lambert is joined by his sister, Cheyenne (in Halloween costume), and by his mom and pop, Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Lambert. Cliff trains Double B Express.

A Smart Thing To Do!

With an Individual Retirement Account (IRA) at Chaves County Savings & Loan Association you:

- SAVE TAXES
- EARN HIGH INTEREST
- RECEIVE BIG MONEY AT RETIREMENT

You can establish a retirement program now and you can do it whenever you wish with as little as $100. Just think, if you were to deposit only $10 a month for 30 years, at age 65 you could draw $364.12 a month for 22 years. In addition that $120 you deposit each year is untaxed when you submit your income tax.

1982 IRA's

The maximum deductible contribution an individual can deposit to an IRA for 1982 is 100% of compensation up to a maximum of $2000.

Anyone can open an IRA account even though you are presently utilizing a retirement program for 1982.

Sunland Park results

MARATHON WINNER. Torn Paige, ridden by Larry Byers, holds a clear-cut lead on the last jump of the Rio Grande Marathon Claiming Series Number 1 Saturday at Sunland Park. The route covered one and one-sixteenths miles. Torn Paige is owned by William Thompson and Willie Hill of Ruidoso Downs. The gelding raced as the betting favorite.

David Lidberg is riding high

by MARK GORDON
You would think riding race horses would be a lifelong dream of David Lidberg. After all, his grandfather, Willie Hayhurst, was a famous steeplechase rider; his father, Richard, was a well-known rider and even his older brother, Mike, has had a fine beginning as a jockey. "I really had no interest at all in becoming a jockey until I saw Mike ride his first race here at Sunland Park about four years ago. All of a sudden I really interested me. I guess I had it in me. It just had to come out," he said.

Although the 18-year-old blond-haired youngster has only been racing about three months, he has suddenly made a major impression at Sunland Park. Through the first two weekends of racing at the west El Paso track, he was the leading rider. He became the first rider in the opening two weekends to ride four winners on a single program when he accomplished that feat October 24. And that undoubtedly was his finest day as a jockey. "I knew my horses had shots to win those races. They ran extremely well. The trainers did a great job in getting them ready to go. Mike and everybody were really happy for me," he said.

Three of those four winners were trained by veteran southern New Mexico horseman J. Doyal Roberts and one was trained by Bob Arnett. Roberts gave the younger Lidberg his first start, instructing him and letting him gallop his horses. "He started me and has been really good to me," Lidberg said.

Lidberg started riding horses last August at Ruidoso Downs. He won aboard his third mount (Little Blue Streak) on August 5 and finished the mountain meet with eight winners. He won three races in September at the New Mexico State Fair campaign in Albuquerque and tallied eight wins in the first two weekends at Sunland Park. But when Lidberg needs advice, he doesn't have to turn far to find a relative for help. His grandfather is also his jockey agent at Sunland Park. His father is now general manager of Centennial Race Track near Denver. His uncle is veteran New Mexico jockey Larry Byers; his cousin, Billy Byers, has also ridden for the past several years. And of course, his 21-year-old older brother, Mike, has been one of the most successful young riders in New Mexico. "I got a lot of advice from a lot of people. It's really helped me. I'll ask other riders what they would do in a certain situation. What they would do with a certain horse. Larry gives me advice. It really helps to have an older and more experienced rider help me," he said. Still, David said his family never tried to persuade him to pursue a riding career. "It seems everybody in our family has been a really good rider, but no one ever said anything to me. They never expected that I would ride, even though it's in our family tree," he said.

David is the smaller of the two Lidbergs riding at Sunland. He has about 100 pounds on his 5-5 frame. Mike is almost 5-10 and keeps his weight around the mid-teens.

"I really don't think I'll get any bigger. Mike just grew. I've always been the smaller one," he noted. David attended El Paso's Coronado High School during his freshman and sophomore years. He then attended his junior and senior years at Denver's Columbine High School and was graduated this February.

Occasionally this fall, David has competed against his uncle and brother in the same race.

"I never even subconsciously look to see where my uncle or Mike are in a race if we're riding together. We ride different horses and have different ways to ride horses. A lot of times, Mike will pass me in a race and I won't even know it," he added. Lidberg has delighted many observers with his ability to ride horses so well after only three months.

Billy Byers noted: "He's the best rider I've seen for having been at it only a few months."

Lidberg, meanwhile, still is enthused about riding horses, although he's somewhat surprised to have had so much success so early. "I've enjoyed every bit of it. I never imagined I'd be the leading rider at Sunland after two weekends. I'm starting to get on more and more horses. Now that more people have seen me ride here, it helps to get more horses," he said. "I just hope it can continue."

David Lidberg's slowly rising legion of followers feels the same way.

Stormy Sailing sails home

Stormy Sailing rolled to a surprisingly easy victory over the odds-on favorite, Apalachee Chief, in Friday's six-furlong headliner at Sunland Park.

Stormy Sailing ended the six-furlong sprint with a three and one-fourth lead over Apalachee Chief, and picked up $1,740 out of the $2,900 allowance purse.

The win boosted Stormy Sailing's 1982 money line over the $20,000 level and produced mutual payoffs of $14.20, $3.60, $2.40. The win was also the gelding's eighth of the year.

The winning time of 1:11 4/5 seconds was four ticks off the seasonal mark. Mike Lidberg was up. Apalachee Chief, ridden by Casey Lambert at 50 cents on the dollar, opened a four-length lead at the turn for home, but didn't have enough in reserve to hold off the winner. Still, Apalachee Chief was seven lengths in front of the third-place horse, Kings Place.

Backers of Apalachee Chief had to settle for payoffs of $2.60 and $2.10. Kings Place, ridden by Louis Gomez, returned $2.40.

Sunland's business pace continued in high gear as Friday's turnout of 1,897 wagged $230,398. On the same day last year, the handle was $210,753.

Sunland Park Hoofbeats

LOVE N MONEY atoned for her disappointing run in last week's Savannah Swinger Distance Series Number 1 by leading throughout to win Saturday's sixth race. The three-year-old Easy Jet filly won by almost one length over The Creditor in a 350-yard test for three-year-olds running under allowance conditions. It was the sixth triumph with one second and one third in 11 outings this year for the brilliant filly. She won the $101,850 West Texas Derby last spring at Sunland Park and performed quite well on the west coast at Los Alamitos near Los Angeles. She ran fifth, beaten by less than one length by Leading Star in the Los Alamitos Derby and then finished third behind Leading Star and Justanold Love (winner of the $1 million All-American Derby this August at Ruidoso Downs) in the Lassie Handicap. As a two-year-old in 1981, she tallied five wins with one second and two thirds from eight appearances and collected $192,054. This season she has earned $72,631. Trained by H. Don Farris, Love N Money is owned by R. D. Hubbard of Wichita, Kansas.

SAINT JAY DEE, a three-year-old Never HI gelding, posted his fourth straight win when he scampered to a win by almost one length over Be Well in Saturday's third race at 360 yards. He won his last three races against claiming company this summer at the Downs at Santa Fe with his last victory, a two and one-half length decision over $5,000 claiming horses on July 30. He was rested until Saturday's race. In 10 outings this season, he has gained five victories with four seconds and one third for trainer H. Don Farris. He's collected $8,494 for owner Sherrill R. Cain of Calvert, Texas.

APPRENTICE RIDER Casey Lambert won three races on Saturday's program, including two straight heats. He started by winning the fourth on Count The Clown ($4.80), the featured 10th race on Germeo ($4.20) and the 11th on Rebel Sea ($5.60). Count The Clown and Germeo are both trained by Clifford C. Lambert while Rebel Sea is trained by Elmer L. Shepard conditions Rebel Sea.

LOUIE FIGUEROA WON two consecutive races on Saturday's program scoring triumphs with Bold Equus ($10.00) in the eighth and won the ninth on Mr. Slingshot ($12.40). Bold Equus is trained by Jeff Bustamante for Frank Bustamante and J. H. E. Johnson of Santa Fe, while Mr. Slingshot is trained by L. LaRae Lovell for owner Wallace M. Jankowiak of Ruidoso.

STARTING THIS FRIDAY, November 5, Sunland Park will begin presenting 11-race programs rather than 12 due to the shortening of daylight hours. Sunland Park will revert to 12-race programs later this spring when daylight hours start increasing.

THE WELL-BRED FILLY, Celsa, scored the first victory in her career by drawing out for a three-length victory in Friday's first race at six furlongs. The two-year-old filly is by Silent Screen out of the former Southwest champion mare, Countess Blade. She tallied a ninth and a third in her first two career starts this summer at Ruidoso Downs before her easy victory accomplished in 1:13 1/5 under apprentice jockey David Lidberg. She's trained by J. Doyal Roberts for owners Jay and Lorene Childers of Borger, Texas. Celsa returned $3.80 to win as the 9-10 wagering favorite.

FRIDAY'S TRIFECTA returned $3,289, the highest trifecta return this season at Sunland Park. Mr. Wise Dancer won 9-2 third-choice while Moonbeam Bid ran second at $7.10-1 while Handy Dandy was third at a $27.90-1 outsider.

HORSEPLAYERS who don't like to wager on favorites should have been attending Friday's program. Only one of the wagering favorites won—Celsa, who paid $3.80 to win the first race. Seven horses returned win payoffs in double digits, as Lata Rocket led the way while returning $47.80 for scoring a head victory in the third race.

TRAINER DON MARR posted two triumphs on Friday's card. He started with Luck's Moon ($23.20) in the fifth, Louie Figueroa rode the two-year-old gelding for owner Don Driggers of Belen. Marr took the ninth race with Come Home Nunneley ($15.40). Ever Olgun rode the two-year-old filly for owner William F. Jones of Dallas.

JAMES McCLANAHAN, a long-time Sunland Park horse trainer and farrier, died after a lengthy illness on Saturday. Mr. McClanahan was remembered on Sunday at Sunland Park with the American flag flying at half-mast before the first race. Track announcer Harry Henson asked the crowd for a moment of silence before the first race.

BIG DIAL BID posted his third consecutive victory when he gained a nose win in Sunday's third race. The four-year-old Bunny Bid gelding won his last two starts at the New Mexico State Fair in Albuquerque and then won a 400-yard starter allowance chase on Sunday in his local seasonal debut. Trained by Ben Torres, Big Dial Bid is owned by Felix J. Zamora Jr. of Los Lunas, New Mexico. J. H.

Valenzuela rode him to his popular $4 victory as the even-money wagering favorite. VICTOR ESCOBAR finished second in both halves on Sunday's daily double. In the opener, he took Sail On The Rail to a runnerup berth behind Jack It Up and in the second half, rode Terrific to a runner-up spot behind Shoofa.

IN STEWARDS' RULINGS: — Apprentice jockey Paul Jaramillo was suspended three racing days, November 5-7, for careless riding while on Wrong Chip during the first race last Saturday.

TRAINERS JIM CURRY, H. Don Farris and Clifford C. Lambert each won two races on Saturday's card. Curry won the first with Jaylay ($7.60) for owner C. P. Waggoner of Grand Prairie, Texas, and won the seventh with Dolfinair ($3.60) for owner Dalton P. White of Big Spring, Texas. Apprentice Mike Smith rode Jaylay and apprentice F. O. Martinez rode Dolfinair. Farris won with Saint Jay Dee ($5.60) in the third for owner Sherrill R. Cain of Calvert, Texas, and the sixth with Love N Money ($2.80) for owner R. D. Hubbard of Wichita, Kansas. Jerry Nicodemus rode both Farris pupils. Lambert took the fourth on Count The Clown ($4.80) for owner Norma S. Rushing of Seminole, Texas, and the 10th with Germeo ($4.20) for owners Tommy W. Stephens and the estate of Paul Salisbury of Midland, Texas. Casey Lambert rode both winners.

APPRENTICE JOCKEY David Lidberg maintained his grip in first place in the rider standings by winning three races on Sunday. He started by winning with A Bill Sancy ($5.20) in the fourth for trainer Jim J. Cappellucci, then took the sixth aboard Take An Edge ($4.00) for trainer Charles W. Allison, and won on Union Patrol ($13.40) for trainer Cecil Crabtree in the 11th.

IN A RARE EVENT, the trifecta payoff on Sunday's eighth race resulted in an identical payoff of $1,218.80 to those winners holding either a 3-7-9 or a 3-9-7 ticket. The double payoff resulted when Tococon Jim and Ten Bucks dead-heat for second place behind winning Step And Count. The trifecta pool was a season high of $42,005.

SUNLAND'S MUTUEL PACE continued at a remarkable clip as the three-day weekend surpassed the million-dollar mark for the second time in three weeks. The total was $1,018,647, thanks in good part to Sunday's $412,865 (a seasonal record thus far). After nine race days, the daily average stands at $343,058, a hefty hike of 12.21 percent over the average at this point a year ago. Fans are now betting a per-race average of $28,388, which is also up 12.21 percent.

THE MOST PRODUCTIVE post position for quarter horses this season is the number 5 slot with nine winners. The leader for thoroughbreds is number 3 with 14. Here are the combined totals: No. 1 — 9 wins, No. 2 — 9, No. 3 — 14, No. 4 — 13, No. 5 — 9, No. 6 — 7, No. 7 — 7, No. 8 — 5, No. 9 — 1, No. 10 — 4, No. 11 — 0, No. 12 — 0.

Harla Webb: a storybook summer

—by DICK ALWAN

It was the kind of summer they write about in storybooks — an inspiration, perhaps, to most jockeys trying to hack out a toehold in a tough business.

Harla Webb, 20, is kept busy these days with her riding chores at Sunland Park.

Every morning, she's up at 5 a.m., and out at the track, exercising about 16 horses. That's about three hours a day of hard, physical work — not counting the two or three horses she rides in a typical Sunland program.

But when she thinks back to the summer of '82, the success she achieved seems a bit hazy. "I never really believed it," she now says. "It was odd — like it was a dream."

Harla enjoyed a tremendous summer. She won two hundred-grander at Santa Fe, established herself as a jockey of great merit, and catapulted to the top of the list among distaff jockeys in the Southwest.

A down-to-earth sort, Harla still has the engaging way of the little-girl-next-door. Her happy-face smile can charm anyone, and she's quick to say hello, and when someone drops a compliment, regarding a certain ride, she responds in a genuine way.

Born in Roswell, Harla was raised in El Paso and Ruidoso. Almost as a toddler, she was taken by the idea of riding horses. She got her start under trainer Coy Hendrix, and spent four summers working as a groom. "I was young, and I liked it," she explains.

In 1979, at the age of 17, she began her jockey career at Santa Fe, but it wasn't a fast getaway. "I won about six or seven races, then went to the State Fair, and won one race," she recalls. She plugged away at Sunland Park, but it wasn't until the summer of 1981, when she drew attention at Santa Fe. She kicked off the season in high gear, and was the leading jockey for the first few weeks. At summer's end, she'd logged 52 wins — an excellent tally, but not enough to overtake Larry Urioste with 90-plus. Still, Harla wound up fourth in the Santa Fe standings, and was obviously on her way.

Last summer, her victory count dropped to 38. "It seems all the jockeys won far less races last summer," she points out. Although her number of wins was down, the quality was sky-high.

The breakthrough came when Harla was signed up to ride the filly, Frosty Tail, a two-year-old owned by Dr. Joe Miller and H. L. Beddo of El Paso. Early in the Santa Fe season, Harla was aboard Frosty Tail in La Esperanza Futurity, a four and one-half furlong event with a purse just under $50,000. "We were in front until just before the wire," Harla says.

Next came the trials for the Petticoat Stakes, a five-furlong race for fillies. The prize was about $111,000. Once again, Harla steered Frosty Tail to a second-place finish, and that was good enough to make the finale. A week later, Harla found herself in the starting gate for her first hundred-grander. She recalls her feelings this way: "I was so calm — I don't know why. I expected to be jittery, or a little nervous, but I wasn't. Maybe that was because we'd finished second in the trials, and I felt people weren't expecting us to win, and that took a lot of pressure away. When we were in the gate, I was thinking about one thing — getting a good start."

Frosty Tail broke briskly, but it was almost a traffic jam for the early lead. Frosty Tail managed to get to the front. "I kept hustling her, and she opened up," Harla goes on. "I was waiting for them to catch us — so I gave Frosty Tail much more of a whipping than she needed. I didn't now we'd won until we hit the wire. We were about three lengths in front."

The owners of Frosty Tail were jubilantly waiting for her in the winner's circle. How did she feel? "It was very satisfying. You don't get many chances like that. A lot of people may think you can't handle pressure — and that's what a race like that is — an awful lot of pressure."

The Petticoat, as it turned out, was a prelude to an even bigger event — the $205,000 Santa Fe Futurity. "I was worried in the trials," Harla goes on. "It was a sloppy track, and Frosty Tail has a funny way of going — like she's running downhill. In the mornings, she'd stumbled along in the workouts, dragging her feet. I'd worked her in the sloop, and she'd keep slipping and sliding. In the trials, I had to pick her up — to keep her from sliding. She won by three lengths over Sunnily Smashed."

That put Frosty Tail and Harla in the hotseat for the finale. "My horse was a solid favorite," she explains. "I was a little more nervous. You feel like you can't mess up. There was twice as much pressure."

Frosty Tail broke well, was bumped a bit in the early going, then found her best stride. "I didn't want them to get too far ahead, so I nudged her on the shoulder. We got into the clear, on the rail, but we had to pass Sunnily Smashed and Lt. Pearle. For a while, the three horses were head-and-head. At the quarter pole, Frosty Tail began making her own way. She was getting tired, but so were the others. She pulled away and we won by about three and one-half lengths. It was an easy win — but I sure didn't feel easy."

Frosty Tail, whose $124,000 earnings in the Santa Fe Futurity put her career income up to $203,000, is now at Sunland, under the care of trainer Margie Renfro.

Harla, in the afterglow of this success, describes her outlook this way: "I'm doing much better than I thought I would. It's a hard life, but I love it. I like to win, but when I get beaten, I can accept it."

Germeo edges Scots Sissy

Germeo, a top stakes performer in the Southwest, ended a three-month vacation for Saturday's sprint headliner at Sunland Park and came through with a half-length victory.

But the sophomore colt had to hang on for all he was worth to hold off the furious late run from the 3-1 shot, Scots Sissy.

The latter broke sluggishly in the six-furlong dash, trailed most of the way, then found himself in the upper stretch and pieced together a late drive which barely fell short.

Germeo, ridden by Casey Lambert for Tommy Stephens and the Estate of Paul Salisbury of Midland, Texas, led all the way. The colt was about three lengths on top turning for home.

The victory purse of $1,630 pushed Germeo's 1982 earnings up to $23,622. The mutual returns: $4.20, $3.20, $3.40. Scots Sissy, ridden by Mike Lidberg, returned $3.40, $3. Shes A Snoop, who finished four lengths behind Scots Sissy, ended up third and paid $8 to show.

Saturday's program also included the first leg of the Rio Grande Marathon Claiming Series at one and one-sixteenth miles. The 8-5 favorite, Torn Paige, rallied from just off the pace under Larry Byers from win going away. The gelding earned $1,800 out of the three-grand purse and returned mutual prices of $5.40, $3.80 and $3.20. He covered the distance in 1:48 4/5 seconds.

Torn Paige is owned by William Thompson and Willie Hill of Ruidoso.

TIMBERLINE BAND, based in Ruidoso, placed third in an international battle of the bands in Nashville, Tennessee, October 23. Band members (from left) Roy Black, Craig Yuetter, Kim Blakey and (back) Donnie Finemore were among musicians from more than 1,600 bands which started out in the competition.

Lincoln Fox works seen by Prince Charles

New Mexico sculptor Lincoln Fox of Alto, elected this month to membership in the prestigious National Sculpture Society, joined 24 other artists invited to participate in a special benefit art show attended by His Royal Highness Prince Charles October 29 in Albuquerque.

The show presented "the most prominent artists of the American Southwest" in connection with the official opening October 28-29 of the Armand Hammer United World College of the American West in Las Vegas. Prince Charles is president of the United World College International board.

Fox is well-known for his bronze pieces capturing the spirit of man through the American Indian. He was represented by two significant works — "Victorio's Dream" and "Madonna Number Two" — at the special show.

"Victorio's Dream," a 40-inch-high piece showing an Indian youth holding a winged horse, won the Joel Meisner prize for meritorious work at the National Sculpture Society's 49th annual exhibition last April in New York City.

"Madonna Number Two" unveils a new series Fox is creating to depict the relationship of love between mother and child. The piece is 48 inches long and 52 inches high.

Prince Charles viewed these works at a reception and dinner dance October 29 at the convention center, to benefit the United World College. Most of the participating artists were from New Mexico.

where Fox has produced scores of memorable bronze figures in a studio in the foothills near Alto. He will move to Santa Fe this autumn.

His election to membership in the National Sculpture Society places him in the company of approximately 225 distinguished American sculptors. The society is the oldest organization of professional sculptors in the United States, founded in 1893.

CATCH THE JACKASS?! by Ruidoso artist Gordon Snidow, won the Best of Show award and the gold medal for watercolor at the 17th Annual Cowboy Artists of America Exhibition in Phoenix, Arizona, recently.

Las Tres Artistas show Sunday

The annual exhibit of Las Tres Artistas, Ernie Lee Miller, Viviana Prelo and Chris Godby, is set for 2 to 6 p.m. Sunday, November 7, at the Old Road Restaurant in Mesalero.

The public is invited to this fun holiday art event, now in its third year. The three artist friends share a common bond as native New Mexicans with a desire to record their roots in their art.

Miller, of La Luz, is well known for her paintings of the three Southwestern cultures — Indian, Spanish and cowboy.

She captures the stoic dignity of the American Indian, the proud countenance of the Spanish Conquistador and the hardy visage of the Western pioneer in her works.

She has lately ventured into the medium of bronze sculpture. Miller is included in "American Artists of Renown."

Prelo, a direct descendant of early Tularosa settlers, draws from her Spanish heritage to paint "retablos" and "santos." She knows first hand the history of the "santeros" (people who paint and carve saints and other religious themes). Her paintings and woodcarved "bultos"—figures of saints in the round—have won Prelo a place in the annual Santa Fe Spanish Market.

Godby, a folk artist of La Luz, is also a direct descendant of pioneer Tularosa Basin settlers. Home and church traditions have influenced her paintings and clay sculpture. The simplicity of her terra cotta figures evokes a lifestyle of long ago.

Her "nacimientos" (Nativity sets) are much in demand by folk art collectors.

Valenzuela rode him to his popular $4 victory as the even-money wagering favorite. VICTOR ESCOBAR finished second in both halves on Sunday's daily double. In the opener, he took Sail On The Rail to a runnerup berth behind Jack II Up and in the second half, rode Terrific to a runnerup spot behind Shoofa.

IN STEWARDS' RULINGS: — Apprentice jockey Paul Jaramillo was suspended three racing days, November 5-7, for careless riding while on Wrong Chip during the first race last Saturday.

TRAINERS JIM CURRY, H. Don Farris and Clifford C. Lambert each won two races on Saturday's card. Curry won the first with Jaylay ($7.60) for owner C. P. Waggoner of Grand Prairie, Texas, and won the seventh with Dolfinair ($3.60) for owner Dalton P. White of Big Spring, Texas. Apprentice Mike Smith rode Jaylay and apprentice F. O. Martinez rode Dolfinair. Farris won with Saint Jay Dee ($5.60) in the third for owner Sherrill R. Cain of Calvert, Texas, and the sixth with Love N Money ($2.50) for owner R. D. Hubbard of Wichita, Kansas. Jerry Nicodemus rode both Farris pupils. Lambert took the fourth on Count The Clown ($4.80) for owner Norma S. Rushing of Seminole, Texas, and the 10th with Germeo ($4.20) for owners Tommy W. Stephens and the estate of Paul Salisbury of Midland, Texas. Casey Lambert rode both winners.

APPRENTICE JOCKEY David Lidberg maintained his grip in first place in the rider standings by winning three races on Sunday. He started by winning with A Hit Saucy ($5.20) in the fourth for trainer Jim J. Cappellucci, then took the sixth aboard Take An Edge ($4.00) for trainer Charles W. Allison, and won on Union Patrol ($13.40) for trainer Cecil Crabtree in the 11th.

IN A RARE EVENT, the trifecta payoff on Sunday's eighth race resulted in an identical payoff of $1,218.80 to those winners holding either a 3-7-9 or a 3-9-7 ticket. The double payoff resulted when Toocoon Jim and Ten Bucks dead-heat for second place behind winning Step And Count. The trifecta pool was a season high of $42,005.

SUNLAND'S MUTUEL PACE continued at a remarkable clip as the three-day weekend surpassed the million-dollar mark for the second time in three weeks. The total was $1,018,647, thanks in good part to Sunday's $412,865 (a seasonal record thus far). After nine race days, the daily average stands at $343,058, a hefty hike of 12.21 percent over the average at this point a year ago. Fans are now betting a per-race average of $28,588, which is also up 12.21 percent.

THE MOST PRODUCTIVE post position for quarter horses this season is the number 5 slot with nine winners. The leader for thoroughbreds is number 3 with 14. Here are the combined totals: No. 1 — 9 wins — 9, No. 2 — 9, No. 3 — 14, No. 4 — 13, No. 5 — 9, No. 6 — 7, No. 7 — 7, No. 8 — 5, No. 9 — 1, No. 10 — 4, No. 11 — 0, No. 12 — 0.

Harla Webb: a storybook summer

by DICK ALWAN

It was the kind of summer they write about in storybooks — an inspiration, perhaps, to most jockeys trying to hack out a toehold in a tough business.

Harla Webb, 20, is kept busy these days when her riding chores at Sunland Park.

Every morning, she's up at 5 a.m., and out at the track, exercising about 16 horses. That's about three hours a day of hard, physical work — not counting the two or three horses she rides in a typical Sunland program.

But when she thinks back to the summer of '82, the success she achieved seems a bit hazy. "I never really believed it," she now says. "It was odd — like it was a dream."

Harla enjoyed a tremendous summer. She won two hundred-grander at Santa Fe, established herself as a jockey of great merit, and catapulted to the top of the list among distaff jockeys in the Southwest.

A down-to-earth sort, Harla still has the engaging way of the little-girl-next-door. Her happy-face smile can charm anyone, and she's quick to say hello, and when someone drops a compliment, regarding a certain ride, she responds in a genuine way.

Born in Roswell, Harla was raised in El Paso and Ruidoso. Almost as a toddler, she was taken by the idea of riding horses. She got her start under trainer Coy Hendrix, and spent four summers working as a groom. "I was young, and I liked it," she explains.

In 1979, at the age of 17, she began her jockey career at Santa Fe, but it wasn't a fast getaway. "I won about six or seven races, then went to the State Fair, and won one race," she recalls. She plugged away at Sunland Park, but it wasn't until the summer of 1981, when she drew attention at Santa Fe. She kicked off the season in high gear, and was the leading jockey for the first few weeks. At summer's end, she'd logged 52 wins — an excellent tally, but not enough to overtake Larry Urioste with 90-plus. Still, Harla wound up fourth in the Santa Fe standings, and was obviously on her way.

Last summer, her victory count dropped to 38. "It seems all the jockeys won far less races last summer," she points out. Although her number of wins was down, the quality was sky-high.

The breakthrough came when Harla was signed up to ride the filly, Frosty Tail, a two-year-old owned by Dr. Joe Miller and H. L. Beddo of El Paso. "Early in the Santa Fe season, Harla was aboard Frosty Tail in La Esperanza Futurity, a four and one-half furlong event with a purse just under $50,000. "We were in front until just before the wire," Harla says.

Next came the trials for the Pilitocot Stakes, a five-furlong race for fillies. The prize was about $111,000. Once again, Harla steered Frosty Tail to a second-place finish, and that was good enough to make the finale. A week later, Harla found herself in the starting gate for her first hundred-grander. She recalls her feelings this way: "I was so calm — I don't know why. I expected to be jittery, or a little nervous, but I wasn't. Maybe that was because we'd finished second in the trials, and I felt people weren't expecting us to win, and that took a lot of pressure away. When we were in the gate, I was thinking about one thing — getting a good start."

Frosty Tail broke briskly, but it was almost a traffic jam for the early lead. Frosty Tail managed to get to the front. "I kept hustling her, and she opened up," Harla goes on. "I was waiting for them to catch us — so I gave Frosty Tail much more of a whipping than she needed. I didn't now we'd win until we hit the wire. We were about three lengths in front."

The owners of Frosty Tail were jubilantly waiting for her in the winner's circle. How did she feel? "It was very satisfying. You don't get many chances like that. A lot of people may think you can't handle pressure — and that's what a race like that is — an awful lot of pressure."

The Pilitocot, as it turned out, was a prelude to an even bigger event — the $205,000 Santa Fe Futurity. "I was worried in the trials," Harla goes on. "It was a sloppy track, and Frosty Tail has a funny way of going — like she's running downhill. In the mornings, she'd stumble along in the workouts, dragging her feet. I'd worked her in the slop, and she'd keep slipping and sliding. In the trials, I had to

That put Frosty Tail and Harla in the hotseat for the finale. "My horse was a solid favorite," she explains. "I was a little more nervous. You feel like you can't mess up. There was twice as much pressure."

Frosty Tail broke well, was bumped a bit in the early going, then found her best stride. "I didn't want them to get too far ahead, so I nudged her on the shoulder. We got into the clear, on the rail, but we had to pass Sunnily Smashed and L. Pearle. For a while, the three horses were head-and-head. At the quarter pole, Frosty Tail began making her own way. She was getting tired, but so were the others. She pulled away and we won by about three and one-half lengths. It was an easy win — but it sure didn't feel easy."

Frosty Tail, whose $124,000 earnings in the Santa Fe Futurity put her career income up to $203,000, is now at Sunland, under the care of trainer Margie Renfro.

Harla, in the aftermath of this success, describes her outlook this way: "I'm doing much better than I thought I would. It's a hard life, but I love it. I like to win, but when I get beaten, I can accept it."

Germeo edges Scots Sissy

Germeo, a top stakes performer in the Southwest, ended a three-month vacation for Saturday's sprint headline at Sunland Park and came through with a half-length victory.

But the sophomore colt had to hang on for all he was worth to hold off the furious late run from the 3-1 shot, Scots Sissy.

The latter broke sluggishly in the six-furlong dash, trailed most of the way, then found himself in the upper stretch and pieced together a late drive which barely fell short.

Germeo, ridden by Casey Lambert for Tommy Stephens and the Estate of Paul Salisbury of Midland, Texas, led all the way. The colt was about three lengths on top turning for home.

The victory purse of $1,830 pushed Germeo's 1982 earnings up to $23,622. The mutual returns: $4.20, $3.20, $3.40. Scots Sissy, ridden by Mike Lidberg, returned $3.40, $3. She's A Snooty, who finished four lengths behind Scots Sissy, ended up third and paid $8 to show.

Saturday's program also included the first leg of the Rio Grande Marathon Claiming Series at one and one-sixteenth miles. The 8-5 favorite, Torn Paige, rallied from just off the pace under Larry Byers to win going away. The gelding earned $1,800 out of the three-grand purse and returned mutual prices of $5.40, $3.80 and $3.20. He covered the distance in 1:48 4/5 seconds.

Torn Paige is owned by William Thompson and Willie Hill of Ruidoso.

TIMBERLINE BAND, based in Ruidoso, placed third in an international battle of the bands in Nashville, Tennessee, October 23. Band members (from left) Roy Black, Craig Yufferer, Kim Blakey and (back) Donnie Finemore were among musicians from more than 1,600 bands which started out in the competition.

ART, DINING AND ENTERTAINMENT GUIDE

Lincoln Fox works seen by Prince Charles

New Mexico sculptor Lincoln Fox of Alto, elected this month to membership in the prestigious National Sculpture Society, joined 24 other artists invited to participate in a special benefit art show attended by His Royal Highness Prince Charles October 29 in Albuquerque.

The show presented "the most prominent artists of the American Southwest" in connection with the official opening October 28-29 of the Armand Hammer United World College of the American West in Las Vegas. Prince Charles is president of the United World College International board.

Fox is well-known for his bronze pieces capturing the spirit of man through the American Indian. He was represented by two significant works — "Victorio's Dream" and "Madonna Number Two" — at the special show.

"Victorio's Dream," a 40-inch-high piece showing an Indian youth holding a winged horse, won the Joel Meisner prize for meritorious work at the National Sculpture Society's 49th annual exhibition last April in New York City.

"Madonna Number Two" unveils a new series Fox is creating to depict the relationship of love between mother and child. The piece is 48 inches long and 52 inches high.

Prince Charles viewed these works at a reception and dinner dance October 29 at the convention center, to benefit the United World College. Most of the participating artists were from New Mexico.

where Fox has produced scores of memorable bronze figures in a studio in the foothills near Alto. He will move to Santa Fe this autumn.

His election to membership in the National Sculpture Society places him in the company of approximately 225 distinguished American sculptors. The society is the oldest organization of professional sculptors in the United States, founded in 1893.

CATCH THE JACKASS?! by Ruidoso artist Gordon Snidow, won the Best of Show award and the gold medal for watercolor at the 17th Annual Cowboy Artists of America Exhibition in Phoenix, Arizona, recently.

Las Tres Artistas show Sunday

The annual exhibit of Las Tres Artistas—Ernie Lee Miller, Viviana Prelo and Chris Godby—is set for 2 to 6 p.m. Sunday, November 7, at the Old Road Restaurant in Mesalero.

The public is invited to this fun holiday art event, now in its third year. The three artist friends share a common bond as native New Mexicans with a desire to "reclaim their roots" in their art.

Miller, of La Luz, is well known for her paintings of the three Southwestern cultures—Indian, Spanish and cowboy.

She captures the stoic dignity of the American Indian, the proud countenance of the Spanish Conquistador and the hardy visage of the Western pioneer in her works.

She has lately ventured into the medium of bronze sculpture. Miller is included in "American Artists of Renown."

Prelo, a direct descendant of early Tularosa settlers, draws from her Spanish heritage to paint "retablos" and "santos." She knows first hand the history of the "santeros" (people who paint and carve saints and other religious themes). Her paintings and woodcarved "bultos"—figures of saints in the round—have won Prelo a place in the annual Santa Fe Spanish Market.

Godby, a folk artist of La Luz, is also a direct descendant of pioneer Tularosa Basin settlers. Home and church traditions have influenced her paintings and clay sculpture. The simplicity of her terracotta figures evokes a lifestyle of long ago.

Her "nacimientos" (Nativity sets) are much in demand by folk art collectors.

Yours and Ours

Inside The Capitol

by Fred McCaffrey

SANTA FE — The election is over. It now becomes time for us to talk about money — election money.

Did it make any difference Tuesday? Well, note the following things:

—Major party candidates for the United States Senate spent over $80 million nationally in their efforts to get themselves elected as of October 16. That is more than the salary of all 100 Senators will be in the next year of their service.

Isn't that a little disproportionate? —Jeff Bingaman, one of those Senate candidates (in this case, from poor little old New Mexico) pumped $615,000 of his own money into his campaign.

He sold property, he took a second mortgage on his home, he spent most of his savings and he took out nearly $200,000 in bank loans (most of them in unsecured notes with various Santa Fe banks) in an effort to get elected to the United States Senate.

Isn't that a little disproportionate? —Bill Richardson, who ran for Congress in the new third district, as of today owes $100,000 to the First Interstate Bank of Santa Fe (note due in early 1983), plus $30,000 of the $50,000 he owes the National Bank of Commerce in San Antonio, Texas. (He paid $20,000 on that note since the primary, but had to ask for an extension on the $30,000 he still owes.)

Isn't that a little disproportionate? Problem: We have created an electoral system in which candidates can "lend" themselves money. That is a contradiction in terms. Lender and borrower, in real life, must be separate entities. In this case, they are not. They are identical; hence, no real loan has taken place. And there is a follow-up difficulty, which comes down to this. Once they are in office, long after the time for filing reports on the sources of their income has passed by, who puts up the money with which they repay these "loans" from themselves? (We simple citizens will never be told, will we?)

That is not just disproportionate; it could indeed be very evil.

—We have created a system in which political action committees, whether of the labor variety or of the extreme right, can simply mail checks to candidates. In fact, each PAC can give $10,000 each election year — $5,000 in the primary and $5,000 in the general election.

Some samples from our own recent election, lest you might think this is only a theoretical consideration:

—Jack Schmitt got more than $127,000 from PACs owned and operated by energy companies. That (in little old unoccupied New Mexico) is the second-highest total going to any candidate in the whole United States. (Why?)

—Toney Anaya, who said he thought the Right to Work question was a "false issue", appears to have gotten $161,432 from those who did not think so, largely labor union PACs or those who normally support such organizations.

—Of the money spent by Manuel Lujan in the current year's race, a minimum of $88,700 came from PACs. His opponent, Jan Harke, didn't do as well, but he got at least $39,275 from PACs which supported his side of the argument.

Problem: We're relieving the financing of our in-state elections to operations outside New Mexico, many of which have nothing to do with us at all.

At one stage, Marjorie Bell Chambers, running against Richardson, accused him of taking $3 million of his campaign money from outside the boundaries of New Mexico. His people, of course, denied that, but even after they got through their explanations, it would seem he got more than half his bucks from outsiders—including the Seafarers Union ($500), the U.S. Sugar Cane League ($5000; you ever see any sugar cane growing in New Mexico?) and the Kellogg Better Government Committee ($250—and maybe a case of All Bran?)

Letters to the Editor

Dear editor:

For a long time I've thought of writing a "Dear Editor Letter" to let all "The Dreamer" Dan Storm's friends know that I am and have been one of his admirers for years and years — But somehow didn't think I could say strongly enough how great I thought he was or is to this very day — both as a writer and fine man. Thoughtful and generous and kind to humans, nature and animals and I've heard a lot of people say they thru the years "I just buy the Ruidoso News to read Dan Storm's article."

Thank you Nellie Ruth and Paul Jones for the nice "Ridge Runner Birthday" days and all you good neighbors who treat Dan so royally.

He is deserving

Dear editor:

TO WHOM IT MAY CONCERN:
 In no way was the float that won the SWEEPSTAKES award in the Ruidoso parade, intended to insult any viewers' sensibilities or to be in any way immoral, and I personally am sorry that any person felt it was offensive.

However, if you consider yourself a Christian, and your objections to the float are based on Christian principles, perhaps you should have viewed the float as Jesus Christ viewed the "real prostitute" as she was being stoned: "Let those among you without sin cast the first stone."

Again, I am sorry you were incensed, but I am grateful we share a religion that forgives us both.

Pat Ward

Dear editor:

I see you are going all out for Sunday sales of alcohol. While you are at it why don't you sponsor gambling houses and a red light district. Of course these might cause some of our fine young people to go astray but think of the money MONEY these would bring in.

Mort Burtum

I will bet you won't publish this.

Dear editor:

Out of Town Help
 Native Ruidoso carpenters used to be able to make a living in Ruidoso until every Tom, Dick and Harry carpenter and builder came from all over to exploit the market here in Harmony Valley. It just breaks my heart to keep building beautiful homes and having to give them away.

More ads in the paper for work wanted than jobs. More new homes than new home buyers. The only one making any money is this newspaper.

It is going to be a long, cold hard winter. It will strain out the weak ones and I hope some of the strong ones. Too bad we don't have seniority in construction jobs. Personally I think next summer will be slower than this summer was for Real Estate sales.

A lot of Native Builders and Real Estate people have told me that this carpenter and housing glut in Ruidoso has hurt everyone. I am very sorry that the economy is in shambles but we Ruidosians didn't need the disease here. It looks like new mountain homes here in Ruidoso will be selling for 25 cents on the dollar thanks to over building.

Best of Luck,
 Terry Cue

TEXANS CONSIDER VD WORD BAN

Texas school officials will be sticking their heads in the sand if they ban mention of venereal disease from textbooks. Texas ranks second in the nation in per capita incidence of infectious syphilis and 12th in reported cases of gonorrhea.

VD is mentioned in two textbooks used in the state since 1974. The health books in question are for grades four through eight. State school officials reason that when you're talking about sexually transmitted diseases, you're relating it to "How do you get it?" The education commissioner last week sent letters to publishers advising them to "delete all reference to venereal diseases and sexually transmitted diseases."

Opponents of the change properly argue that especially in the seventh and eighth grade levels, children need to know about communicable diseases. Deleting references to VD would be irresponsible. About one of every four school children in Texas could contract the disease prior to their graduation.

Barring references to the disease certainly won't slow its spread. If anything, ignorance spreads it. —Albuquerque Journal

Ruidoso lost an ally in Washington when Senator Harrison "Jack" Schmitt was defeated Tuesday by Jeff Bingaman. But the senator has no one to blame but himself.

How much Schmitt's controversial radio advertisements about Bingaman hurt the incumbent will never be known. But it is hoped that what happened to Schmitt will serve as a warning to other politicians who would twist the truth in an attempt to gain political advantage.

Ruidoso gained an ally in Santa Fe with the election of Mickey McGuire to the state House of Representatives.

Although he won't take office until January, we would like to facilitate the people's access to their new representative by noting his address:

Congratulations, Mickey, and welcome to public life. We know you will represent District 56 well.—TP

Reporter's Round by Barby Grant

Now that I've been designated The News' official White House correspondent... Okay, I'll admit I was selected to cover the president's visit to Roswell only by the lucky flip of a coin. But I was there Friday and found it a pretty interesting scene.

With several hours to spare after I arrived—the reason being that the press was required to pick up credentials at the gate by 11 a.m., though the president wasn't scheduled to arrive until 2:45 p.m.—I took the opportunity to find out just what all was involved in a 30-minute stop in Roswell, New Mexico, by the President of the United States.

It just so happens that News employee Debbie Owen is married to the brother of the general manager of Great Southwest Aviation, where Air Force One landed. There's my connection.

Bart Owen graciously granted me about an hour of his time Friday to fill me in on all the behind-the-scenes details leading up to President Reagan's brief visit. It all started Friday, October 22, when Bart's company was informed that the president definitely would be coming to Roswell.

Air Force Two flew in that day full of White House staff members, an advance team. Secret Service agents and communications people, Bart said. "They've been here since then," he reported. He told me they had rented 30 rooms at the Sally Port Inn, clearing some of the rooms of furniture.

Bart said the Secret Service men began looking over the entire airport to determine the best place for the president to land, deciding upon three different plans before finally choosing on Monday the site that was used.

The White House crew then kept busy taping off the spot where the president's plane would park and making plans for signs to be designed and hung around the area. One 12-foot by 80-foot sign welcoming Reagan to Roswell was made and hung by a professional sign company. Bart said some of the labor for making and hanging signs and otherwise preparing for the presidential visit was volunteered by members of the Republican Party in Roswell.

On Wednesday, the White House crew began building the stage and had the bleachers shipped in, Bart reported.

Thursday and Friday there were huge flurries of activity.... The signs were hung. An Air Force C141 air cargo plane flew in the PA equipment, the speaker's podium and the president's motorcade!

Since my understanding was that the president planned to step off Air Force One onto the platform, speak for about 20 minutes and step back onto the plane to return to Washington, I asked Bart why the need for a limo and two four-door sedans being flown in.

"Just in case of emergency," he answered. How silly of me to ask.

A "sweep" was performed Friday morning. Bart informed me. A "sweep" is a search for bombs, and the Secret Service men conduct such a search with dogs that have noses trained to sniff 'em out. Just to keep the dogs from getting lazy, two "dummies" were planted, Bart said, and the dogs found them with no trouble whatsoever.

The "sweep" was conducted in one of the hangars and under the stage, podium and off-loading stairs for Air Force One. After each area is swept it is "sterilized," Bart reported, which means it is sealed off with Secret Service agents.

Nobody except Secret Service men and some political VIPs are permitted in a sterilized area until after the president has come and gone, Bart informed me.

Despite the "sweep," every individual coming to see the president had to pass through a metal detector, including employees of Great Southwest Aviation, some of the political candidates, high school band students, members of the press and New Mexico Military Institute cadets, Bart said. Secret Service men dressed in street clothes would also be placed throughout the crowd, he noted.

He and three other Great Southwest Aviation staffers had to get a security clearance to be permitted to service the planes. The only information required to "run" the clearance—which took about 24 hours—was full name, place and date of birth, Social Security number, sex and race, according to Bart.

I was somewhat surprised that he was permitted to share all this information with me—after all, they must be called "Secret" Service men for some good reason. Bart said there were a few things he had been requested to keep to himself, but otherwise the White House people had been pretty open about what was going on. Some of the White House staff and communications people had even been "real sociable," he noted.

I tried to get an indication from him about whether all the hassle was made worthwhile by a 30-minute campaign stop by the President of the United States.

"We've spent an awful lot of man hours trying to accommodate 'em," Bart stated. He had to move about 45 airplanes from a hangar the White House people wanted to use and have an office building cleaned out for them, which he said took three of his employees two-and-a-half hours to accomplish.

"They've tried to beg, borrow and steal everything they can," Bart remarked. All of the services Bart's company made available to the president's staff were volunteered, he noted.

"I only volunteered for what I could spare; I've been trying to run a business here at the same time." I asked him whether it had been impossible to do that with all that was going on.

"Not impossible," he replied, "but very close to being impossible."

"I had no idea a 30-minute stop would be this elaborate," Bart remarked. "They have spent an awful lot of someone's money... I just hope it's worth it." He said some of the money to fund the president's visit came from Republican Party coffers. We can only guess who footed the remainder of the bill.

Anyway, I asked Bart—a Republican—what would make the visit "worth it."

"If we get some good leadership out of the deal, good people elected. Hopefully, we'll get our economy back in shape."

I just hope Bart wasn't too disappointed in the election after all the trouble he went to to accommodate the president and his personal staff. It's just too bad all that money somebody spent on Reagan's campaign visit was for the most part wasted.
