Water protest may jeopardize diversion plans

by DAVID SHEPPARD
Staff Writer

A water protest filed last year with the State Engineer by farmers irrigating land in and near Ruidoso Downs has jeopardized Ruidoso's right to use and store water credited from effluent discharge at the wastewater treatment plant.

But individuals associated with the protest believe it can be resolved before Ruidoso needs the credited water to fill the proposed Grindstone reservoir.

R. B. Collins, District II supervisor of the State Engineer's Office, wrote Ruidoso village manager Jim Hine in June 1982 that the credit given Ruidoso for effluent discharge at the sewer plant was negated because the village did not receive an approved permit from the state to change the point of discharge.

The village had applied for the permit in April 1982 in preparation for opening the new wastewater treatment plant at Biscuit Hill, located about 6 miles east of the old sewer plant.

The old sewer plant near Ruidoso High School was shut down when the Biscuit Hill facility went on line in early June.

The old plant discharged purified water into the Rio Ruidoso drainage. The Biscuit Hill plant does the same, but the discharge (effluent) no longer benefits farmers located between the plants.

The farmers, who irrigate fruit orchards and pastures along the river drainage, filed written protests with the State Engineer in May against Ruidoso's permit application.

A total of 11 farms in the 6-mile stretch between the plants are represented in the protests. All the farms have priority water rights for irrigation that were established near the turn of the century.

In the protest, the farmers contend they will be deprived of their established water rights by the change in effluent discharge point. The written protest reads that the "Applicant (Ruidoso) proposes to remove water from the Rio Ruidoso at a point where it is available to supply protestant's water rights and to discharge this water into the Rio Ruidoso at a point where it will not be available."

When the effluent was discharged from the old sewer plant, it supplemented the stream flow in the Rio Ruidoso below the plant. Therefore the old plant, which went on line in the late 1950s, actually provided water for irrigation when the river ran low.

The amount of effluent—water that goes through the system, is treated and discharged—often is substantial. In addition to Rio Ruidoso water diverted into the municipal supply, the effluent consists of water from Eagle Creek and village wells that Ruidoso has rights to and diverts into the system.

In fact the total amount of effluent credited to the village—which the State Engineer permits the village to apply upstream as additional diversion from the Rio Ruidoso—is much more than the traditional water rights the village has on the river.

According to the discharge permit for the old sewer plant, Ruidoso can divert 220 acre feet per year from the Rio Ruidoso, plus the amount of water credited from effluent coming only from Eagle Creek water.

The village water board has estimated the amount of Eagle Creek effluent at 623 acre feet annually. The calculation is based on a formula derived by the State Engineer to determine the amount of Eagle Creek water used in the system.

Village officials have contended privately that the farmers are only protesting the change in the discharge because they have become accustomed to the effluent as a dependable source for irrigation.

But Leonard McCutcheon of Tull Stansell Estate, one of the protestors, maintains that is not the case.

"That's not true," said McCutcheon about the extra water. "The only water they're talking about (as effluent credit) is what they're taking from Eagle Creek. They use the water, it goes out, and they're using it again. The city is using our water upstream as credit."

McCutcheon acknowledged, however, that he and the other protestors can do nothing about the effluent now being discharged at Biscuit Hill, since the plant is in operation.

But what worries the farmers is the village's plans to start diverting effluent credit water upstream from the Rio Ruidoso to store in Grindstone reservoir. The village has been losing the credited water downstream because it has no means to treat and store it.

The $8 million reservoir project was proposed last year so the village will be able to take advantage of that water to meet future demands.

The protestors contend that continuation of the effluent credit to the Rio Ruidoso diversion from the Eagle Creek discharge "will further impair and be detrimental to (their) valid and existing water rights," because Ruidoso will begin to divert more water from the river once the Grindstone project is completed.

But the State Engineer recognized the danger posed to downstream users if Ruidoso had been allowed to divert all the Rio Ruidoso stream flow to take advantage of the effluent credit. In the original agreement granting the credit, the State Engineer's Office precluded Ruidoso from diverting any more than 48 percent of the actual stream flow.

Still, the protestors see the water available for irrigation diminishing because of the loss of effluent above them and the pending reservoir project.

Village manager Jim Hine agrees that the landowners have a valid protest, and he said the village wants to protect their water rights.

In a move to hammer out an agreement with the protestors over the dispute, the council okayed appointment of a three-member committee in August to negotiate on behalf of the village.

Committee member C. Newton Page said he and fellow members John Schuller and Knud Ottesen established good rapport with the protestors and were making progress in the negotiations until recently.

One of the proposals discussed, Page noted, was laying a pipe from the Biscuit Hill discharge to the previous discharge point and pumping the effluent back upstream where it could benefit the farmers. Both sides, however, realized the option was too expensive, Page said.

McCutcheon, who said he and the other landowners do not object to Ruidoso building and storing a new reservoir, said another alternative—leasing water to the village to fill the reservoir when the farmers are not irrigating—was rejected by the State Engineer. The state must approve any agreement.

A third option described by McCutcheon would be for the village to take out as much water as it has rights to—including effluent rights—to fill the reservoir, and for the farmers to irrigate with their supplemental wells if the river is low. He said the village would then pay the cost for pumping water from the wells.

McCutcheon said that option may be the cheapest way to go for the village, but he is not sure if the State Engineer would agree to it.

But the negotiations now appear to be at a standstill because of a question over the status of the committee.

In a decision criticized by Ruidoso Mayor George White, the council last week decided to accept the resignation of the committee members. The decision was made during a council study session at which White was not present.

In a letter to White and the council dated January 13, Schuller and Page threatened to resign over a disagreement with the council about retaining an attorney whose services were desired by the committee.

Instead of paying for the attorney, the village informed the committee that Neil Stillinger of Santa Fe, the water attorney hired to render advice on water rights purchases, would handle the protest also.

Schuller and Page wrote the council that they had established good rapport with the protestors, and that the protestors would take offense in the negotiations "if confronted by a total stranger."

McCutcheon acknowledged that past talks with the village were strained and that the group of farmers had good cooperation with the Schuller committee.

But he said he also would be willing to work with the water attorney as long as the negotiations are equitable.

In the meantime, the withholding of the effluent credit rights by the State Engineer remains in effect until the protest is resolved.

Delbert Nelson, assistant District II supervisor out of Roswell, noted that such protests can take two to three years to resolve. He also noted that if the parties cannot arrive at a solution agreeable to both sides plus the state, Ruidoso may request a formal hearing with the State Engineer.

The village does not need the effluent credit rights until the reservoir is finished (the planned date of completion is 1985) but Page indicated he thinks the matter should be resolved before then.

McCutcheon also said he believes the protest should not take that long to resolve.

Smokey Bear District looks after the forest

by TIM PALMER

Despite the problems of operating as part of a federal agency in these budget-cutting times, U.S. Forest Service District Ranger Paul Gordon and his crew of 20 continue to look after the 384,000-acre Smokey Bear Ranger District of the Lincoln National Forest.

When interviewed in his office at the ranger station last week, Gordon had just submitted his district's budget for fiscal 1984, which begins October 1. The district recently underwent another round of cuts in its budget for the current fiscal year.

But the ranger characterized the financial situation as "not too bad—in keeping with national policy."

"We've lost some people and cut back some activities," said Gordon. But he added that the district will continue to sell a lot of fuelwood and a little timber, and accommodate people with recreation and grazing.

Timber is the reason behind recent budget cuts. Gordon explained that nationally, a lot of timber is sold that is not being cut, due to the slowdown in the housing industry. Congress has reasoned that with uncut timber sold, the Forest Service does not need money to prepare for new sales, according to Paul.

So the budget has been reduced and the cuts have been spread through all the national forests. The Lincoln has curtailed activity in examining its timber resources.

No one has been laid off, said Gordon, but he predicted fewer seasonal employees will be hired back. The same is true for fire protection, he added.

"We tend to use people for all purposes now," said the ranger.

Another measure the district has taken to live within its means is to shorten the season at campgrounds. Gordon explained that a campground with flush toilets—like South Fork—requires almost constant maintenance. Trash is another ongoing problem.

"We encourage people to carry their garbage home, but not very many do," said Gordon. He pointed out that campground areas "wear out"—especially when vehicles are driven on them.

"If we could keep vehicles in parking areas and keep fires in the fire rings, this would really reduce our maintenance," he remarked.

Gordon said he has noted a resurgence in tent camping in the last year or two. "I think it's rather nice," he said, noting that this type of camping tends to attract family groups that are generally responsible.

Gordon was asked if the heavy snowfall this winter will lessen fire danger in the coming months.

"Can't tell," he answered. The degree of fire danger will depend on the number of days of high winds and low humidity, according to Gordon.

But he noted that the snow helps water tables—springs and creeks run better. "All the rain in the world won't help like a good snowpack," he said.

Vegetation also gets a good start with so much moisture, Gordon pointed out. But this can backfire if the winds dry out the foliage, creating greater fire danger.

Right now, moist ground is a problem for those who get their firewood on the Lincoln Forest.

"Everyone is running out of fuelwood," said Gordon. "But you can't tell people to go because it tears up the country so bad."

The district is not issuing fuelwood permits now because vehicular traffic damages the terrain. Damage to sloping terrain gives a good start on erosion, the ranger pointed out.

He acknowledged a constant problem of enforcement of restrictions on fuelwood. A person caught in a flagrant violation was to go before a U.S. Magistrate the day the ranger was interviewed.

"By and large, the general populace needs wood, and we feel we should provide it to them," said Gordon. He explained that clearing down and dead wood reduces fire hazard. But there is the problem of the mud.

The snowy winter has, of course, been a boon to Sierra Blanca Ski Resort, which is operated by the Mescalero Apache Tribe under a special use permit from the U.S. Forest Service.

"This has been an excellent year for skiing," said Gordon. "A lot of people have had a lot of fun."

Expansion of the ski resort is one area addressed in the Land Management Plan (LMP) of the entire national forest system—a project that involved the local district for some time. According to Gordon, the Forest Service is in the process of finishing the first draft of the document.

He predicted it will be out for people to look at late this spring. The LMP concerns every facet of all the resources produced on the forest and how they will be used, the ranger explained.

It includes specific direction for a 10-year period and general direction for a 50-year period. Gordon noted that the plan on the Lincoln Forest will be somewhat different than for most of the national forest system.

Off-road vehicle use will be very limited, he said, and roads will be closed unless they are posted as open.

Gordon said there is a terrible problem with road maintenance on the forest. He said that while a few additional roads are needed, many existing roads—those that parallel other roads or simply are not needed—will eventually be closed.

"What we'd like to do is have a road system that we can maintain," he stated. He said the Forest Service feels there should be "reasonable or adequate access" to forest lands, and that once there is, the public should be responsible enough to respect that access and respect adjoining private lands by staying on the roads.

A road management plan that would authorize the Forest Service to close roads in bad weather that are susceptible to damage—allowing only emergency traffic—would alleviate maintenance problems greatly, Gordon indicated.

FLIPS, or Forest Level Information Processing System, is another program being implemented on the forest. This is a communications system which will include computer terminals at the district level, explained Gordon.

The system will eventually include voice communication by radio. A microwave system is being installed on the Lincoln Forest to replace nine radio links.

Another matter of current interest on the forest is the outbreak of timber-threatening spruce budworm. This affects the Mescalero Apache Reservation as well as the Lincoln Forest, Gordon noted.

An interdisciplinary team—with representatives of the Forest Service, the Mescalero Tribe, the state Division of Forestry and Department of Agriculture, and the Bureau of Indian Affairs—was formed recently to address the problem.

Public meetings on the problem are planned for coming months. Paul Gordon feels that meetings of this type are important to the general public.

"This forest belongs to everyone," he said. "Even people who live a sedentary life here are affected by decisions related to administration of the forest." Those who have the opportunity to provide input on an issue should do so, he concluded.

For the future, the Smokey Bear District is looking forward to construction of an addition to the ranger station on Mechem Drive. Gordon noted the district was second or third priority in the whole Forest Service for more office space, and a "modest addition" with passive solar heat has been approved.

He said a call for bids on construction should go out in May or June, and he hopes a local contractor will be awarded the project.

DISTRICT RANGER PAUL GORDON of the U.S. Forest Service discussed the current state of the Smokey Bear District, Lincoln National Forest, in an interview last week.

Ski Report

Sierra Blanca. Undisturbed snow depth is 71 inches. Six inches of snow fell Monday. Surface conditions are packed powder and powder. Skiing conditions are excellent and all lifts and trails are open. Weather at report time is clear and chains are not required on the road to the ski resort.

Eagle Creek. Snow depth average is 24 inches. The whole mountain is open with good skiing on the upper slopes and good to excellent skiing on the lower slopes. There is night skiing from 6 to 10 Friday and Saturday.

Mayor White unhappy over dissolution of protest committee

by DAVID SHEPPARD
Staff Writer

Mayor George White is again at odds with the rest of the village council—this time over a decision made at a pre-meeting study session without consulting White.

White has sought outside legal advice to determine whether the decision—to accept the resignations of members of the water protest committee—is invalid because it was taken at the study session.

The rest of the council last week informally decided to take up John Schuller and C. Newton Page on the suggestion to dissolve their committee—made because the council would not retain a lawyer requested by the committee to help resolve a protest of an application Ruidoso filed with the State Engineer (see related story).

Several farmers in and near Ruidoso Downs are protesting the application for a permit to change the point of sewage effluent discharge from Ruidoso's old sewer plant to the new Biscuit Hill wastewater treatment facility.

Schuller, Page and Knud Ottesen were appointed by White to the committee last August to negotiate a settlement with the farmers.

The committee scheduled a meeting in January with a water attorney and representatives of the protesting group and requested the village pay the attorney's fee.

It was learned that village manager Jim Hine first okayed the payment, but the approval was later turned down by the council. The council noted in a study session prior to the committee's planned meeting that the village already has retained a water attorney to work on water rights purchases and should turn over the protest to him.

The attorney the council hired is Neil Stillinger of Santa Fe.

On January 13, Schuller and Page wrote the council that the committee should be dissolved "if we cannot have certain services afforded us which would be acceptable to the Protestants."

Commenting on last week's decision, councilman Frank Sayner said he felt the councilmen just were accepting the committee's resignation without taking formal action.

Councilman Benny Coulston Wednesday agreed with Sayner's recollection of the study session, saying, "I think the committee dissolved itself. There really was no action."

According to notes taken at the February 8 study session, Coulston said, "My reaction to the letter is very hostile," and he said he would move to accept the committee's resignation.

"I don't think we govern this town by committees, boards and commissions," Coulston said in the study session. He also recommended that the council develop a standard procedure for accepting resignations of village committees.

Councilman Al Junge said Wednesday he thought the councilmen advised Hine to draft a letter with the approval of Mayor White accepting the committee resignation and thanking it for working on the protest.

Hine said Wednesday he understood that the council only instructed him to write the letter. No record of the meeting exists that verifies the council's instructions.

Hine said he wrote the letter Friday and sent it to the committee Monday after informing White of the letter.

When White learned of the decision and the letter, he decided to take the council to task over the matter.

"They've discussed something that the mayor had appointed without even consulting him," White said Monday. "When I saw the letter I got really angry."

White said he discussed the matter with attorney Ron Harris this week rather than seeking advice from village attorney Lee Huckstep because, White indicated, he does not want to involve Huckstep in a dispute between council members.

Harris said he will research the legality of the decision and inform White of his findings before next week's council meeting. Harris said he believes the council has no power to dissolve committees without the mayor's consent.

The mayor appoints members to committees, who are then confirmed by the council.

Asked if he felt the reason for the conflict is related to his refusal to attend study sessions—which, in essence, has isolated the mayor from the rest of the council—White indicated that is the cause.

But he added he will stick to his guns and not attend the pre-meeting sessions, which last for one hour before the council's regular meetings, until the informal workshops are moved into the large council chambers.

Since the council instituted the study sessions last year, they have met in a small conference room and moved out into the large room for the 7:30 start of the regular, twice-monthly meetings.

White contends the small room hinders public access to the study sessions, which therefore results in the meetings essentially being closed. White and the council long have knocked heads over the location of the study sessions.

The sentiment of the councilmen who were contacted was they do not want the study session conflict to heat up again, and they indicated they did not mean to slight the mayor by accepting the committee's resignation.

But White did feel offended, noting that it is his responsibility to appoint and dissolve committees.

Said White, "I'm all through. I've taken enough guff."

Chamber announces nominees for board, HN'ZHU'NE' awards

by BILLY ALLSTETTER
Staff Writer

The Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce board of directors announced nominees for the board and for the HN'ZHU'NE' award at a meeting Wednesday.

Next month, Chamber members will choose seven new board members for two-year terms from a list of 14 nominations.

The nominees are Buddy Bundick, Doug Cluff, Pat Crawford, Sandy Dacy, Richard Farris, Glen Ferguson, Mel Glenn, Phil Hamilton, Walt Lindborg, Joe Loving, Tommy Morel, Bill Rawlins, David Saitor, and Sue Snidow.

The ballots will be mailed out with the Chamber newsletter at the end of February. Ballots must be returned to the Chamber office by noon on Thursday, March 10. Ballots will be counted and winners announced that afternoon.

The new board members will replace current members Richard Sandoval, Dan Shaver, Helen Reeves, Karl Franzer, Bill Fugate, Bill Meyers and Morgan Clough.

Clough, this year's president, will remain on the board as immediate past president. Seven others will remain on the board for one more year, until next year's elections.

Nominations for the HN'ZHU'NE' award will also be included in late February's Chamber newsletter. The award is annually given to the business that most improves the outside appearance of its building. In past years the award has been given only to businesses that remodeled existing buildings. This year a second award will be given for new construction.

Nominees in the remodeling category are Bill Pippin Real Estate, Mary's Fashions, Cree Meadows Country Club, the W. D. Horton Building, Carrizo Lodge and Granville's Store House.

Nominees in the new construction category are Action Paint and Supply, Alto Information Center, The Attic and Friends, Cochera Restaurant, Charleston Square and Rocky Mountain Builders Supply.

There will be write-in spaces included on both ballots.

Before the final list of nominees for the HN'ZHU'NE' awards was selected, board members discussed criteria for the award. Joan Bailey, chairperson of the HN'ZHU'NE' committee, asked for direction that might help guide future selection committees.

"We need to have some kind of guidelines," Bailey said. Chamber executive director Ed Jungbluth noted that this is the fourth year for the award and "it's gone in a variety of directions" in past years.

Bailey suggested the winning buildings should "relate to and promote Ruidoso" and should be indigenous to the area.

Board member Richard Sandoval questioned those guidelines on the basis that some businesses might be discriminated against. He said he believes all businesses should be considered equally.

After extended discussion, the board passed a resolution stating that the award must be given to a business that is currently in operation under the same name it used during remodeling or construction. Ownership of the building or business will not be taken into account.

Board member Karl Franzer suggested the business must be a member of the Chamber, but that stipulation was not included in the resolution. Franzer and Tom Kelhami voted against the resolution and Joan Bailey abstained.

The HN'ZHU'NE' award winners will be announced at the Chamber banquet in May.

Jungbluth gave a final report on the Jeep Party. The Chamber profited $2,184.86 with $13,905.14 in expenses and $16,100 income from ticket sales.

Jungbluth said the profit was very pleasing since ticket sales were very slow before the party. Ticket purchases at the party pulled the event from a very unprofitable position to the $2,000 profit, said treasurer Ronnie Hemphill.

Hemphill suggested the board consider not sponsoring the event next year. Sandoval and Dan Shaver disagreed, stating that the $2,000 profit is very valuable to the Chamber.

Explaining his position, Hemphill said the Jeep Party this year was on the verge of being a money loser and local residents may be growing tired of being "hit up" to buy the $100 tickets. No decisions were made concerning the future of the Jeep Party.

The board did authorize Jungbluth to choose either August 9 or 16 for the Cadillac Party at the Inn of the Mountain Gods, depending upon availability of facilities.

In other business, the board:

—Listened to Sandoval report on the Rotary Club's needs assessment survey for post-secondary education. The club is distributing surveys to Chamber of Commerce members, high school students and their parents. The club is leading efforts to bring an adult learning center to Ruidoso. Sandoval said the club hopes to have a center offering college credit courses by the fall of 1984.

—Set April 23-24 as the dates for the annual board retreat, and chose the El Presidente Hotel in Juarez as the location. The current board and incoming members will gather for a weekend to plan direction of the Chamber for the next year. The retreat is paid for by the individual board members.

—Listened to progress report for the Ruidoso Art Festival by Jungbluth. He stated committee chairpersons were selected at the organizational meeting February 3 and preparations are "flowing well." He noted the Art Festival is the biggest single money maker for the Chamber and a very important event.

—Listened to Jim Paxton's Retail Merchants Committee report. Paxton said awards were presented to last year's Christmas lighting and decorating contest winners. He also reported plans are being made for purchases of Christmas decorations with money saved by RMC's volunteer decoration of trees at the "V" and library.

—Listened to Hemphill's budget report that showed a $2,658 deficit for January with an ending balance of $9,687.60. There is also $11,159.78 in a savings account. Jungbluth stated there is typically a meager cash flow during January and the Chamber is in about the same position as it was at this time last year.

—Set the March board meeting date for March 23 instead of March 16 as previously scheduled.

Ed Jungbluth pleased with lobbying effort

by BILLY ALLSTETTER
Staff Writer

State legislators responded very favorably to a lobbying effort by the Sun Country communities, and will probably pass two tourism bills now being considered, reported Chamber of Commerce executive director Ed Jungbluth.

Sun Country is a regional association of 11 communities in southeastern New Mexico, Texas and Mexico that promotes tourism in the whole region.

Representatives from all the Sun Country communities traveled to Santa Fe Friday, February 11, and invited legislators to a luncheon. There they delivered a presentation about the association and lobbied for the passage of House Bills 144 and 94.

House Bill 144 is a tourist development package calling for appropriation of $2,972,000 from the general fund to the Tourism and Travel Division of the Commerce and Industry Department.

The bill calls for spending in five areas, including $767,000 for matching lodgers' tax funds spent by communities; $1,691,700 for a national advertising program; $215,000 for a highway and street program; $273,300 for a tourism education and promotion program; and $25,000 for a master plan for a New Mexico welcome centers program.

Jungbluth is most excited about the possibility of obtaining matching funds for the lodgers' tax money spent in Ruidoso. Although the matching funds would be limited, he believes the bill could double the amount now spent by the community on direct advertising.

There are two requirements for receiving the funds, one of which Ruidoso does not now meet. In order to be eligible for the matching funds, a community must be collecting the maximum three percent lodgers' tax and spending at least 50 percent on direct advertising.

Jungbluth said Ruidoso already spends close to 90 percent of lodgers' tax funds on direct advertising. However, lodgers in Ruidoso now collect only a two percent tax. Jungbluth said he asked but could not find out if Ruidoso will need to be collecting the three percent at the time the law would take effect in July, in order to be eligible for the matching funds.

Before the community thinks about being eligible for the matching funds, the Legislature will have to pass the bill. It is now being considered by the House Appropriations and Finance Committee, which is chaired by Otero County representative Maurice Hobson. District 56 representative Mickey McGuire also sits on the committee.

Jungbluth said the legislators present at the luncheon, including Senator Charlie Lee and representatives McGuire and Hobson, seemed responsive to the idea of promoting tourism. They were curious and asked many questions about Sun Country and tourism, reported Jungbluth.

U.S. Representative Joe Skeen also attended the luncheon and encouraged the legislators in a speech to consider very carefully any funding for tourism in the state. He agreed that tourism is the second largest industry in the state, and said he would look into the possibility of finding federal funds that might be spent promoting regional tourism.

Jungbluth said he is optimistic about the passage of House Bill 144 because it is strongly supported by Governor Toney Anaya, and there seems to be no real opposition to the bill.

"It's being looked upon with favor by all sections of the state," said Jungbluth.

The Sun Country representatives also went to the office of Alex McCurry, secretary of Commerce and Industry. McCurry assured the Sun Country representatives that his department will be lobbying for passage of the bill.

House Bill 94 is intended to "clean up" the wording of the lodgers' tax authorization, said Jungbluth. The main change is allowing the use of lodgers' tax funds for promotion of tourist attractions outside a municipality, he stated. As it stands now, Ruidoso cannot legally use lodgers' tax funds to advertise Sierra Blanca Ski Resort or any other attraction outside the Ruidoso village limits.

The bill has received unanimous endorsement by the House Appropriations and Finance Committee.

Jungbluth believes that the united lobbying effort of the 11 Sun Country communities was more effective than anything Ruidoso could have done on its own. He said legislators were impressed by the number of communities involved in Sun Country, and their well-organized promotion and knowledge of tourism legislation.

"Sun Country as a package is a tremendously attractive area," said Jungbluth. He explained that international tourists may not be attracted by Ruidoso or Carlsbad Caverns or White Sands alone. But when such attractions are presented as a package, the whole region has much to offer.

Ruidoso Care Center announces personnel changes

by BILLY ALLSTETTER
Staff Writer

Beverly Enterprises has named its third administrator at Ruidoso Care Center since taking over the nursing home November 1, but more staff stability is anticipated for the future. Beverly also announced a new director of nurses at the Care Center and the opening of a home health agency.

Larry LaFrensen, who has been administrator at the center since January 1, has been promoted to the post of Beverly Enterprises' senior administrator for New Mexico. He will oversee Beverly's nursing homes in Gallup and Ruidoso.

Taking LaFrensen's place as Ruidoso Care Center administrator will be P. A. Archdale. Archdale arrived February 6 from Perkin, Illinois, where he was administrator for two years at another Beverly Enterprises nursing home. He took over the position of administrator here February 8.

Archdale, 50, worked as an investment banker for 18 years before shifting to the geriatric health care field two years ago.

"It is a lot more satisfying helping people," said Archdale, who explained that the purely monetary nature of investment banking was too removed from people.

LaFrensen said he interviewed four people for the position of administrator and chose Archdale because he was community-minded, knows the Beverly system and is concerned and energetic. LaFrensen also noted Archdale was more interested in moving permanently to the area than some of the other candidates.

"I hope it's permanent," said Archdale. He said he has already fallen in love with the area and he and his wife are making plans to buy permanent housing.

"Although P. A. has joined our staff, it's not like I'm pulling out," said LaFrensen. He explained he will be overseeing only two nursing homes and that most of his time at first will be spent in Ruidoso.

LaFrensen said he has instituted a number of changes at the center and plans to continue working with Archdale to implement those programs. He said he has put together a system for staffing the center that will ensure a more stable personnel situation and revamped the dietary department.

He added that he is looking to increase the rehabilitative therapy available at the center.

Social services director Rick Glenn acknowledged the Care Center is running more smoothly with better communication between the different departments since LaFrensen's arrival. He also expressed optimism about the new administrator.

Archdale said his goals are improved patient care and better maintenance of the building. He also said he looks forward to personally meeting many of Ruidoso's residents.

He particularly noted an improved activity department as a method of improving the quality of the residents' lives.

Presently, Archdale said, he is acquainting himself with the staff and residents of the Care Center. He is also evaluating many of the care and management systems at the center.

Also in a new position at the Care Center is Winona Kahze, who is taking over as director of nursing from Kathy Boyer. Boyer is opening a home health agency for Beverly Enterprises.

Kahze will not have to spend time familiarizing herself with the center's operations, having been on the nursing staff for two years.

Boyer will be directing the home health agency from the Care Center but will be working independently, answering to supervisors outside the center.

Boyer is a longtime resident of Ruidoso. She moved here when she was in elementary school. She had her first experience in health care as a nurse's aide while attending Ruidoso High School. Boyer attended the Roswell campus of Eastern New Mexico University and received her certification as a registered nurse there. She has worked at the Ruidoso Care Center since its opening three years ago.

The home health agency will provide a variety of services to homebound people who need skilled health care resulting from an illness or injury, said Boyer. The agency is not open for business yet, but is in the process of receiving certification, she said.

LaFrensen and Boyer stated the home health agency will not be a profit-making venture for Beverly Enterprises, but is a service to the community. They acknowledged the agency could benefit the Care Center because people who have received good care from a Beverly nursing home if and when they need 24-hour care.

"My sincere and genuine concern is that the needs of the people of the community are met," said Boyer.

CRIME STOPPERS board president Richard Sandoval, right, accepts a proclamation from Ruidoso Mayor J. C. Day announcing Crime Stoppers Day, February 24. Mayor George White has also proclaimed next Thursday in honor of the local chapter, which is holding its first fund raiser at Jerry Dale's that night.

The National Weather Service in Albuquerque is predicting sunny skies and slightly cooler temperatures Thursday. Winds will be northwesterly at 10-20 miles per hour. Thursday night will have clear skies, and it will be fair and warmer Friday. The extended forecast is for continued dry weather.

Inn receives honor

The Inn of the Mountain Gods has been presented the Four Diamond Award from the American Automobile Association (AAA) for the fifth year in a row, AAA announced recently.

Only seven other motels in New Mexico received the award. No New Mexico property has ever received the Five Diamond highest rating from AAA.

"It means a lot to us," said sales manager Tommy Morel, who noted AAA has a membership of 23 million people. He said many AAA members pay close attention to the ratings and look specifically for Four Diamond lodging.

He said the award is significant because AAA inspections are very thorough. The inspectors often arrive unannounced and carefully scrutinize the resort down to running their fingers over door sills looking for dust, Morel explained.

Ruidoso Downs trustees okay plan for 48-unit apartment complex

by BARBY GRANT
Staff Writer

Low- to moderate-income residents may be offered a solution to their housing problems—and Ruidoso Downs may be offered a solution to its water storage problems—if plans discussed at Monday's Ruidoso Downs trustees meeting are carried out.

Mary Adams of Chamari Incorporated, a Carrizozo firm involved in real estate and other investments, told trustees about plans to build a 48-unit apartment complex to meet the housing needs of local "working people."

Trustees adopted a resolution to annex into the village property on which the project will be constructed in return for a promise to construct a 40,000-gallon water storage facility to be available to the village for emergency use.

Low-interest financing is available through the Federal Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) for such projects, Adams reported.

The property on which the firm wants to build the complex is now owned by Inspiration Corporation and is outside village limits, on Spring Road. Plans call for the construction of 24 one-bedroom apartments, 20 two-bedroom apartments and four three-bedroom apartments, starting at $150 a month rent. Adams explained that the units would be "attractive but modest," and built so utility costs would be low. Natural landscaping at the site would be retained to avoid additional expense.

Adams said she wanted assurance from the village that it would annex the property and thus provide village services for residents living there. In return for annexation and because the village's water system cannot support additional growth, the firm promised to "design, build, service, and maintain" a 30,000- to 35,000-gallon water storage facility.

Trustee Bob Power argued that 30,000 to 35,000 gallons would be an insufficient supply of water for 48 apartment units and that the village cannot commit itself to supplying that much additional water. Power also objected to the project because it would not generate much income for the village.

"I think the time has come that you have to make it possible that housing be provided for moderate-income people," Adams remarked. She countered Power by saying the project would add to the village's economy by providing affordable housing for employees who want to work for businesses within the village. The complex would also represent a $1.5 million project added to the village tax rolls, Adams pointed out.

The trustees then admitted he did not oppose the housing project but felt the municipality could not afford to supply the additional water.

Chamari co-owner Chuck Adams reported that water would be pumped from the village's supply during non-peak hours. He then agreed to provide a 40,000-gallon storage tank for the apartment complex, and Power voted in favor of the resolution to annex the property.

The resolution will be presented to FmHA as part of the Carrizozo firm's request for approval of a loan for the project.

Also discussed Monday was the possibility of offering garbage pickup service to businesses outside village limits. It was agreed that the sanitation department is able to offer the additional service since the sanitary landfill site is now at Glencoe.

Trustees stipulated that only residents or businesses no farther than 250 feet from Highway 70 will be eligible for the service, and they must purchase their own dumpsters.

Trustee Harold Mansell predicted the additional revenue from sanitation service charges to businesses along Highway 70 between Ruidoso Downs and the landfill site in Glencoe could pay for the sanitation truck and permit the village to purchase a second truck sooner.

Charges for garbage pickup outside village limits would be about $27 per pickup per dumpster, with two pickups a week scheduled.

Although Mayor J. C. Day indicated he opposes the idea, trustees announced they will decide whether to provide the service after hearing from those who would be interested in it.

Day said he would prefer to use the garbage service as an enticement for businesses outside the municipality to annex into the village.

The governing body also heard from Fire Department personnel about the need for new facilities to store fire trucks and equipment. The department has five vehicles but only two bays in which to house them, fire department director Roger Riley complained.

Riley requested about $100,000 to purchase a metal building to place on land already owned but not used by the fire department. Trustees suggested the department sell the land now occupied and use that revenue to buy new facilities. Fire department members indicated they are willing to do so.

Trustees requested the department present a written proposal at the next meeting.

In other business, trustees:

—Approved the purchase of a pickup truck for the sewer plant.

—Tabled adoption of the proposed revised livestock ordinance until the attorney reviews it.

—Tabled discussion of the itinerant merchants ordinance until more information is received.

—Tabled adoption of a contract for police department employees until the attorney has reported on it.

—Were told by Day to give a lot of thought to possible means of raising matching funds for a state Highway Department grant for paving roads in the village. Ruidoso Downs is not eligible for funds from the federal department of Housing and Urban Development, it was reported,

The village must make a commitment by March 1 to provide the matching funds if it is to receive the Highway Department grant.

—Approved the sale of a vehicle by the fire department.

—Adopted a resolution to pay the recently hired building inspector.

—Tabled acceptance of the amended report on the water system until a Boyle Engineering representative is present at the meeting.

—Amended the sign ordinance to delete the requirement for businesses to pay $10 a year to renew their sign permits, and agreed to refund that amount to those that have already paid.

—Agreed to adopt a resolution for joint powers agreement with the state Construction Industries Division after it is determined the resolution is correctly worded.

—Heard that a meeting with the state Senate Finance Committee to discuss proposed legislation to provide revenue to the village from the racetrack is scheduled for Monday, February 21.

Around Sports

with
Gary Brown

Holiday Bowl will be alive with the sound of bowling pins crashing down this weekend.

The 10th annual Sierra Blanca Women's Bowling Association Championship Tournament will be held there Saturday and Sunday. Most of the top female bowlers in the area will compete.

"Only women who belong to our association can compete in it," said association president Walterine Hughes. "People from all over the area can belong to it, but they have to compete in our association."

There are currently 165 members of the association, and there are three leagues for women at Holiday Bowl. One bowls Monday night, another Tuesday morning and the third Thursday morning.

The team competition will be run in two shifts Saturday, one at 1 p.m. and the other at 4 p.m. Sunday the singles competition will begin at 1 p.m. and the doubles competition will start at 4:30 p.m.

Hughes and the other bowlers in the association hope this year's tournament will be as exciting as last year's.

Hughes teamed with Elaine Garrity to win the doubles handicapped and doubles scratch titles in last year's tournament. The talented duo needed a special runoff to win the doubles handicapped competition.

Garrity is also one of the top woman bowlers in Ruidoso and is the mother of Ruidoso High School's standout athlete, Grady Williamson.

Other winners last year were Jo Cunningham in the singles handicapped division and Gladys Crowley in the singles scratch competition. Von Rosenberg Com-struction won both the team handicapped title and the team scratch championship. Most of the top bowlers will compete in the tournament again this year.

Bowling is one of the most popular participant sports in the country. Anyone who wants to see some excellent bowlers in action should take a little trip to Holiday Bowl this weekend.

The spring high school sports season in the Ruidoso area promises to be one of the most exciting in many years.

Tennis has been added to the Ruidoso High School sports scene. The Warriors have competed in track and golf for many years and the tennis team promises to provide additional excitement.

Several members of the Ruidoso tennis team have done well at tournaments in recent years, and the Warriors could be quite competitive in the net sport this year.

The Warrior boys and girls track teams have several outstanding individuals and should score at least their share of points in the big invitational.

Ruidoso's golf team only had four athletes last season but the squad was young. This year additional experience should make the Warriors more competitive.

And don't forget Captain High School's track team. The Tigers have several individuals returning from last year's team who scored high in the state A division meet in Albuquerque.

All in all, it looks like the local prep scene should be full of activity over the next few months.

First PAL meeting set for March 1 at village hall

The new Ruidoso-Lincoln County Police Athletic League (PAL) program will hold its organizational program at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, March 1, at village hall.

A board of directors will be selected and honorary members will be announced.

"We plan to have four or five sports at first," director Mark Paz said. "Eventually, we hope to have as many as 10 or 11 sports."

Some of the sports the local PAL program hopes to start soon are basketball, wrestling, boxing and softball.

The Ruidoso Police Department will oversee the PAL program.

CONTINUE TO SHOW IMPROVEMENT

Warrior boys to play Tigers, Wildcats

The Ruidoso High School boys varsity basketball team hopes to get on the winning side of the scoreboard for the first time this season when it tangles with Truth or Consequences (T or C) High School and Deming High School this weekend.

Ruidoso, 0-6 for the district 3-AAA season and 0-15 overall, will host the Tigers Friday night and travel to the Wildcats' court Saturday night.

The Warriors have shown improvement in recent weeks, playing Deming well the first time the two teams tangled and giving top-ranked Coble High School a tough time in the first half last week.

Ruidoso fell to the Wildcats 75-48 in the first meeting between the teams two weeks ago, but only trailed by five points at halftime. In the second half, the Warriors got cold from the field and gradually fell out of the contest.

Against Coble, the Warriors fell by a 50-22 score but showed signs of improvement. Junior Curtis Palmer battled the Indians' Brad Darnell on the boards and senior Grady Williamson and freshman Dan Ullmann also played well.

Ullmann had probably his best game of the season against Coble, scoring eight points and doing well defensively.

In the first game of the district season between T or C and Ruidoso, the Tigers took a 61-39 decision in their own gymnasium. But with the Warriors' improvement in recent weeks, the game should be closer on the Ruidoso court.

Other Warrior players who have shown improvement recently include juniors Jesse Reynolds, Cyrus Simmons and Gilbert Rivera.

Simmons and Rivera have been starting frequently at the guard positions and have improved their scoring punch. Both are good outside shooters.

The Warrior boys' junior varsity will play at 4 p.m. both days with the girls varsity and boys varsity games following. Ruidoso's jayvees are 3-10 on the season, but two victories have come since January.

Ruidoso matmen go for honors in district meet

First place in the team standings may be a little unrealistic, but there should be plenty of individual honors available when the Ruidoso High School wrestling team competes in the district 3-AAA tournament at Deming High School Friday.

The Warriors finished a close third last season and are generally picked for that position again this year. Silver City High School and the host Wildcats are picked to battle it out for the district championship.

The top three wrestlers in each weight class will advance to the state AAA division tournament in Raton Friday and Saturday, February 25-26.

Leading the way for Ruidoso is 126-pound Henry Rue. Rue has a 15-3 record this season and made the final day of the state tournament last year. The Warrior senior has been consistent all season and should have an excellent chance at a district title. He finished second in the district meet last season.

Other Warriors who competed in the state tournament last season are 165-pound Gary Burgess and 167-pound Scott Ciraulo. Senior David Swalander, who competes in the 145-pound class, advanced to the state tournament two years ago but was injured last season and couldn't wrestle.

Randy Pierce at 119 pounds, Chuck Schmidt at 112 pounds and Gervase Peso at 138 pounds have also done well this year for Ruidoso.

Other Ruidoso wrestlers who have shown improvement this season are 105-pound Chad Surmick, 157-pound James Herrera and 132-pound Manuel Montano.

The first matches will start at noon with the finals scheduled for late afternoon and evening.

Basketball tournament set for Mescalero March 4-6

The Mescalero Community Center gymnasium will be the site of a basketball tournament Friday, Saturday and Sunday, March 4-6.

The tournament, which will be sponsored by the Mescalero Little League football program, will have open competition and competition for men six feet tall and under.

Only the first 10 teams that sign up for the tournament will be accepted. There is an entry fee of $50 and the deadline is Wednesday, March 2.

Both the championship and consolation brackets will have trophies for the top four teams. There will also be a sportsmanship trophy awarded, an all-tournament team picked and a Most Valuable Player honored.

For further information, contact Harrison Carrillo at 671-4494, extension 243, or Albert Platta at P.O. Box 262, Mescalero, NM.

LOCAL STARS. Amy Thornton (far left) and Amy Richardson (right) of the Ruidoso Gymnastics Academy's Mountaintops team both did well in the state Class III championships in Albuquerque last Saturday. Thornton was first in the 9-11 age division balance beam and tied for third in the all-around competition with a 35.25 total. Richardson was fifth in the 9-11 floor exercise and had an all-around score of 33.55.

Thornton top star as Mountaintops take fourth

Amy Thornton led the way as the Ruidoso Gymnastics Academy (RGA) Mountaintops team finished fourth in the state Class III meet last Saturday in Albuquerque.

Thornton took first place in the 9-11 age group balance beam event with an outstanding 9.0 score. She also finished second in the floor exercise with an 8.95 total and tied for third in all-around competition with a 35.25 score. Thornton also scored an 8.65 in the vault and an 8.65 in the uneven bars.

As a result of her brilliant all-around performance, Thornton will move to the tougher Class II division next season.

Amy Richardson of the Mountaintops scored a fine 8.6 in the 9-11 division floor exercise competition for fifth place. She finished with an all-around score of 33.55. Richardson scored 8.65 in the vault, 8.3 in bars and 8.0 on the balance beam.

Hillary Heid was the only Mountaintops athlete to place in the 12-14 division as she finished sixth in the balance beam with an 8.5. Heid scored an 8.6 in the vault, 7.3 in the bars, 8.3 in the vault and 32.7 in all-around competition.

Karen Gann of the Mountaintops scored an 8.15 in the vault, 7.65 in the balance beam, 6.7 in the balance beam and 7.35 in the floor exercise. She had an all-around score of 29.85.

Daphne Duncan scored an 8.05 in the vault, 7.7 on bars, 6.95 in the balance beam and 7.9 in the floor exercise. Her all-around score was 30.6.

The competition was very tough and the Mountaintops athletes were under tremendous pressure, according to coach Tom Hart.

Albuquerque Gym School won the team championship with Goldcup Gymnastics of Albuquerque second and Mesilla Valley of Las Cruces third.

Ruidoso girls lose to Artesia, take on Tigers, Wildcats

Coming off an overtime non-district loss to Artesia High School Tuesday night, the Ruidoso High School girls varsity basketball team will end the regular district 3-AAA season this weekend against Truth or Consequences High School (T or C) and Deming High School.

The Warriors, 4-4 in district action, will host district-leading T or C (6-2) Friday night, then travel to the Wildcats' den Saturday night.

The game with visiting Artesia was close all the way before the Bulldogs pulled out a 45-41 win in the extra period.

Ruidoso took a 14-6 advantage over Artesia by the end of the first quarter and still led, 22-17, at halftime.

However, the hot-shooting Bulldogs outscored the Warriors 14-7 in the third quarter to take a 31-29 advantage at the period break.

The Warriors came back to knot the score at 37-37 at the end of regulation time, but it was all Artesia in the extra period. Artesia scored the first six points of the overtime and survived a mild Warrior comeback for the victory.

Although they lost, the Warriors played much better than they did the first time they played Artesia (a 68-42 Bulldog win).

"They had one girl named Bennett who killed us," said Ruidoso head coach Sergio Castanon. "She scored 14 points and had three field goals in the overtime period."

Despite the defeat, Castanon was pleased with the way his team played.

"They showed a lot of spirit, leadership and enthusiasm," he said. "We came out a little cold in the third quarter and that hurt us."

Kody Taylor led the Warrior scoring with 15 points—on seven field goals and a free throw. Senior Claudia Brannum added 12 points while Lillian Lopez and Stacy Ivy each scored five points. Jan Huey added three points and Robin Rhodes had one.

The Artesia defeat behind him, Castanon is now concerned with how his team will do against T or C and Deming this weekend.

"The fact T or C is leading the league is really surprising," he remarked. "We almost beat them the first time we played them (a 47-44 Tiger victory) and we should have won that game."

"This time we're going to keep running on them and see if they can keep up with us."

Ruidoso nipped Deming by a 52-51 score in the first meeting between the Warriors and the Wildcats, and the second encounter could be another barnburner.

"We didn't play well the first time we met Deming," Castanon said. "They (Deming) played pretty well."

RUIDOSO (41)
Taylor, 7-1-15; Brannum, 5-2-12; Ivy, 2-1-5; Lopez, 1-3-5; Huey, 1-1-3; Rhodes, 0-1-1; TOTALS, 16-9-41.

Tiger cagers top Hondo, seeded first in district

The Capitán High School boys varsity basketball team earned the top seed in its district tournament by virtue of a 71-47 victory over visiting Hondo School Tuesday night.

Capitán is 6-0 in district action and 15-3 overall on the season. The district tournament will be held at Hagerman High School next week.

The Tigers broke Tuesday night's game wide open in the third quarter, outscoring the Eagles 23-5 for a 55-35 period-break lead. Capitán increased its margin in the final quarter, outscoring Hondo 16-12. Capitán only led by two points, 32-30, at halftime.

"We didn't play well in the second quarter," Tiger head coach Kendall Lawlis said. "We didn't play good defense and we made some mistakes. We played much better in the second half, however."

Todd Proctor had an outstanding game for the Tigers, scoring 16 points and grabbing six rebounds. Eddie Davis added 12 points, Danny Cummins 10 and 6-3 Robert Parker eight. Cummins also pulled down five rebounds.

"It wasn't one of our better games," said Laws. "Still, we had some good play from guys coming off the bench. Sammy Castillo has played well for several games and Tim McElhannon has also done a fine job."

Capitán will take a break from district play Friday night when it hosts Estancia High School. The Tigers will conclude the district season with a game at Tatum High School Saturday night.

Ruidoso junior varsity loses

The Ruidoso High School girls junior varsity basketball team ended its regular season on a losing note Tuesday night, falling to visiting Artesia High School by a 49-39 score.

The game was tied at 29-29 going into the last quarter, but the visitors outscored the Warriors 20-10 in that period for the victory.

Tahnee Doak led the Warrior scoring with 12 points and Keri Thomas added 10 points. Gia Rose scored nine points.

"Actually, I think the girls played well," said Warrior coach Nancy Holland. "They probably played as well as they did against Cobre (a 40-32 Ruidoso win)."

Ruidoso ended the regular season with a 6-11 record.

Top boxers will compete in second Elks' Invitational

Some of the top amateur boxers in New Mexico will probably be on hand when the second annual Elks' Invitational is held at 7 p.m. Saturday at the Elks Club.

The Las Piedras Boxing Team (LPBT) of Ruidoso will be the host team and two of its boxers, David Ordorica and Kevin Jefferson, will compete.

"It should be a good smoker," LPBT coach Lucky Mulqueen said of Saturday night's affair. "At least 13 teams will probably come and they'll include four state champions."

Henry Anaya Jr., Johnny Tapla and brothers Tommy and Ruben Cordova have all won state championships in Golden Gloves or United States of America Amateur Boxing Federation (USA-ABF) competition. All four boxers are from Albuquerque.

Anaya fights in the 135-pound division, Tapla at 106 pounds, Tommy Cordova at 125 pounds and Ruben Cordova at 112 pounds.

But the LPBT boxers have some distinguished records of their own. Ordorica, a freshman at Ruidoso High School, is the USA-ABF state champion in the 75-80 pound division and won the regional senior division Golden Gloves 75-80 pound title unopposed three weeks ago in Roswell.

Jefferson, a student at White Mountain Middle School, won the regional intermediate division Golden Gloves title with an impressive decision, and won the Most Outstanding Boxer award for the junior division in last year's Elks' Invitational.

"They're ready," Mulqueen said bluntly of his boxers.

In last year's Elks' Invitational, Ordorica was unable to box because an opponent for him couldn't be found.

This season both Ordorica and Jefferson have been working out with the Ruidoso High School track team, and that should help their endurance in Saturday's competition.

A doctor is still needed at ringside for the bouts. Anyone wanting to help can call Mulqueen at 257-2798.

Albert Gutierrez, the chief official of the New Mexico USA-ABF, will be at the competition, along with several other referees. The admission fee is $3 for adults and $1.50 for youths. The Elks Club will run a concession stand.

TRADING PUNCHES. There should be plenty of boxing action like this at Saturday night's second annual Elks' Invitational at the Elks Club. The Las Piedras Boxing Team of Ruidoso will be the host team. At least 13 other youth boxing clubs from around the state are expected to send athletes to the invitational.

Brave cagers lose in season finales

The White Mountain Middle School boys and girls A basketball teams ended their seasons on a losing note Monday afternoon, losing to Tularosa on the winners' court.

White Mountain put on a strong second-half rally and barely lost, 32-31, in the boys A game. The Brave girls fell by a 27-21 score.

White Mountain ended up with an 11-5 record in boys competition and a 9-5 mark in girls action.

Tularosa took an 11-0 advantage in the first period of the boys game, but the Braves started their drive to equalize the score in the second quarter.

White Mountain scored four points in the second period while Tularosa tallied eight. The third quarter saw the Braves really come on as they outscored the Wildcats 17-6.

The final quarter was almost a replay of the third period as White Mountain scored 10 points and Tularosa seven.

"We just played terrible," was the way Brave boys coach Dean Hood described his team's play in the first half. "They put on a press and we couldn't handle it. We played much better in the second half, though, outscoring Tularosa 27-13."

Jeff Williamson led the Brave scorers with nine points and Alan Kirgan added six. Brian Davis scored six points for White Mountain.

Veralyn Platts scored seven points to lead the White Mountain girls scoring. Several of the Brave players were hampered by colds.

"I felt the girls played really well," Brave coach Jean Wright said. "I was hoping for a better record, but all the girls played hard this season."

The White Mountain boys B team also lost, falling by a 30-23 score. Dalton Hamilton scored seven points and Lance Willard added five.

Woman's Club history full of firsts

by BILLY ALLSTETTER
Staff Writer

The Ruidoso Woman's Club has a long list of firsts in its 50-year history. The club, organized in 1932, was the first civic club in Ruidoso.

During its early years, the club sponsored a number of projects, and it continues to donate time and money to a variety of causes today.

Among its early accomplishments were the organization of the first lending library, the first Women's Chamber of Commerce, the first Girl Scout troop and the first Parent Teachers Association. The club also sponsored the first garbage collection in Ruidoso and paid for the first paved street.

Club members have not been content to rest on their laurels. They continue to raise money for the arts, education, the disadvantaged and other causes.

The club made its largest donation, $1000, to Girls Ranch, a home for disadvantaged school-age girls. Woman's Club president Genevieve Duncan said the ranch is a large house outside Santa Fe, run by a couple with children, that provides a stable family environment.

The club also donated over $500 to the arts, $500 of which was given to the Ruidoso Summer Festival. Woman's Club member Tillie Dobbs is in charge of supplying food for the festival, and Duncan said the Woman's Club will no doubt be very involved.

Education receives support from the Woman's Club through its continuing scholarship program. The club annually provides $400 worth of scholarships to Ruidosoans entering college and to older women who are returning to school for job training.

The club has continued its support of libraries with the Seedling Books program. Through the program, the club purchases books for Ruidoso and Hondo school libraries.

One of the projects of the National Federation of Woman's Clubs is the fight against multiple sclerosis. The Ruidoso club last year gave a Christmas present of $500 to a local woman with the disease, to help her pay for hospital treatments.

Volunteerism is another program of the state and national federations. In this area, Duncan noted, many Woman's Club members volunteer their time at Ruidoso-Hondo Valley Hospital with the auxiliary there.

Funds are raised by the club through bingo games each summer. The games were originally played at the Woman's Club but have moved to the Elks Club in recent years.

Summer is a busy time at the Woman's Club because many visitors attend the club's Monday gatherings. Every Monday the doors of the club are thrown open to the public for potluck lunch and bridge or canasta games.

Many of the women are retired and not working, said Duncan, and the meetings are a chance to get out of the house and see their friends.

"It's a fellowship thing for many ladies," said Duncan.

Duncan, however, would like to see more political involvement by members of the club. She also hopes to organize a younger Woman's Club in Ruidoso.

The New Mexico Federation of Woman's Clubs is sponsoring a legislative day in Santa Fe February 24. Members of the clubs around the state will visit the legislative galleries and invite the legislators to lunch, said Duncan.

Duncan said she has been keeping track of the legislative session and plans to encourage club members to voice their opinions on a number of bills now before the Legislature. She noted in particular a bill calling for stiffer sentences for habitual criminals and one expanding money spent on tourism in New Mexico.

Clubs of younger women are especially active in the political field as well as other areas that are of less concern to the older women, said Duncan. One club of younger women scoured garage sales, flea markets, and second hand stores to purchase safety baby car seats, and donated them to poor families with infants, Duncan explained.

In addition to meeting every Monday for potluck and cards, the club meets the second Wednesday of every month for a business meeting and program. Recent programs have had such varied subjects as "The Womanly Art of Self-Defense," sheep ranching projects in Africa, and history of the club.

The club meets at the Woman's Club building on Evergreen Road. The building is one of the oldest in Ruidoso. It was built in the late 1920s, said first vice-president Barbara Minnick.

A New York realty company that used the building as its offices in the 1930s gave the building to the Village of Ruidoso in the 1950s at the suggestion of charter Woman's Club member Madeline Burdette. The club now leases the building from the village for one dollar a year, said Minnick.

With an affordable rent like that and the continued efforts of its members, the Woman's Club should be adding to the enrichment of Ruidoso for another 50 years.

THE WOMAN'S CLUB HOUSE is one of the oldest buildings in Ruidoso. When it was constructed in the late 1920s by a New York realty company, Evergreen Road was outside the village limits, in a subdivision.

called Skyview. Donated to the village in the 1950s, the building is now leased to the club for one dollar a year.

'Command post' addressed in plan

by DAVID SHEPPARD
Staff Writer

The Ruidoso Police Department, previously designated the primary emergency operations center for Lincoln County, will be the command post only if a disaster threatens Ruidoso, according to a state civil preparedness official.

Tom Closson, with the Civil Emergency Preparedness Division, said the county warning and evacuation plan will not include a central command post, at the request of Lincoln County.

The county emergency plan, which was drafted by local, state and federal officials during a series of workshops over the past two months, is designed to provide Lincoln County communities guidelines for responding to a major emergency.

At the last workshop in January, participants agreed that the Ruidoso Police Department (RPD) building would be the central command post for a threat in any part of the county, with secondary posts set up in outlying political subdivisions.

It was pointed out at the workshop that the police station has the best communications facility in the county, and that Ruidoso has more resources for housing evacuees and responding to an emergency than other Lincoln County communities.

But Lincoln County manager Suzanne Cox said the county objected to RPD as the primary command center and that she would advise the county commissioners not to sign the plan if the workshop decision remained in effect.

Cox said the county would prefer the Lincoln County Sheriff's Department as the command post for an emergency that calls for implementation of the plan in areas outside Ruidoso. She added the county would not object to the Ruidoso police station as the operations center if a disaster threatens Ruidoso.

In defending the Carrizozo sheriff's office as the prime facility in coordinating responses outside Ruidoso, Cox pointed to planned improvements in the sheriff's communications network, and to RPD's unfamiliarity with operations of county departments.

Cox said the radio facilities in the sheriff's department—which has the only other 24-hour dispatching outside Ruidoso—will soon be upgraded with the addition of a National Crime Information Center teletype which also will provide access to National Weather Service information.

Cox also said the county plans to improve the radio console in the sheriff's office, which will result in better mobile radio coverage of the county.

The county manager also maintained that an emergency response would be less effective if Ruidoso police were to dispatch county road crews and ambulances that normally are called out by county offices. "They (RPD dispatchers) are not used to our people. It's not wise to change all the communications in a disaster," she contended. "We're already in communications with those people."

Closson, who is preparing the final draft of the plan, said that based on the county's objection, he will not designate a primary operations center.

As he put it, the state office "is trying to write the plan in accordance with the desire of the participants," and since the county objected, the Ruidoso police station will not be the command post for the county.

Instead, said Closson, the final draft will designate centers that could be activated as local command posts in each political subdivision represented in the plan.

In the event of a county-wide disaster, the decision on a central command post would be made by municipal and county officials, Closson added.

Ruidoso emergency preparedness coordinator Ollie Cuddy said the Ruidoso Police Department would be the obvious choice as an operations center in the event of a local emergency.

Closson predicted that the final draft of the plan will be ready for review and approval by elected officials by the end of March.

Crime Stoppers party offers prizes

Plans are well under way for the Crime Stoppers fund-raising cocktail party at Jerry Dale's February 24.

Both Ruidoso Mayor George White and Ruidoso Downs Mayor J. C. Day have proclaimed the day Crime Stoppers Day in honor of the recently organized local chapter.

The local board has received commitments from several businesses and local artists to donate door prizes for next Thursday's party, which begins at 7 p.m. and lasts until midnight.

Tickets cost $5 if you want to be eligible for one of the door prizes, or you can pay the regular $2 cover charge at the door. Jerry Dale's has agreed to donate part of the cover price to the Crime Stoppers reward fund, as well as a percentage of all drinks sold.

Tickets are available at village hall, Chamber of Commerce, Village Hardware, Gibson's, Montgomery Ward, the Mail Depot, and from Rotary Club members and Crime Stoppers directors.

DANIEL AGNEW STORMRose Etta Kight
Called Home
On Valentine's Day

Services were planned Wednesday, February sixteen, in Stamford, Texas, for Mrs. Rose Etta Kight, age ninety-six, who was called Home by Our Lord on February fourteen, from Sunshine Haven, a rest home in Lordsburg.

Mrs. Kight is the mother of Mrs. John T. Nale of Ruidoso.

She was born January 22, 1887 in Arkansas to Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Miller. In 1906 the family moved to Stamford, Texas. She was a long time resident of this city where she and her husband, Charles Kight, raised a son, Charles Jr., and a daughter, Dove (Mrs. John T. Nale).

Rose Etta was active in the Methodist Church and also in garden and flower clubs and many other cultural and civic organizations.

Her Christian character and her positive and helpful outlook on life endeared her to a host of devoted friends.

After many happy years as an outstanding citizen in Stamford, she moved to Dallas in 1948, to be with her daughter, Dove, and son-in-law, John.

For the past five years, Rose Etta had been at the Sunshine Haven Nursing Home in Lordsburg, where she was often visited by her daughter, Dove, and son-in-law, John. John and Dove had gone to Lordsburg to visit about the twelfth, and stayed until Rose was called Home on Valentine's day at the age of ninety-six. Many times during the visit she had expressed her loving appreciation for the faithful devotion of John and Dove.

Graveside services were planned at the Stamford Cemetery February 16, under the director of The Reverend Julius Early of the Stamford Methodist Church.

Rose Etta has been a blessing to all of us during her ninety-six years of Christian life; and we all take comfort in knowing our dear friend is safe and happy with Our Lord in Heaven.

Saint Valentine's Day Is Anniversary For
Glenn and Viola Hinkle

Valentine's Day was the fifty-seventh wedding anniversary for Glenn and Viola Hinkle, pride and joy of Sun Valley.

They were married February fourteen, 1926 in Elk City, Oklahoma. Viola was a telephone operator and Glenn was a farmer, soon to begin work in the oil fields.

Glenn was born October twelve, Columbus Day, 1906, on a farm in Washita County near Elk City. Viola was born July 1, 1905, on a farm at Cordell, Oklahoma.

In 1930 Glenn went to work at Pampa,

Texas for what was then Sinclair Oil and Gas and is now Atlantic Richfield.

"I worked at almost everything in the oil field," says Glenn, "starting out as a roustabout. Later on I was a unit operator in pulling wells."

He retired in 1963 from Kermit, Texas after 38 years with the company.

They came to Sun Valley in 1970 and settled in Sun Valley, where Glenn has been a director on the water board most of the time since then.

You could hardly imagine a happier couple there at their home among the pines. And both of them say farming is still in their blood.

Around the house they have apricot, plum and peach trees. And Viola is an artist at canning fruit and vegetables. Fifty quarts and as many pints of greens were canned out of their garden last summer, and this is not all. They make journeys around to the valleys every summer for apples, peaches, pears, apricots, and especially sweet cherries from La Luz Canyon. Viola says the Bing cherries seem to help her arthritis. (Cherry growers nationwide, please take note.)

Glenn, in the spare time left from his busy schedule as water supervisor and other duties, finds time for music. He plays banjo, mandolin and violin — to name a few. And oftentimes neighbors and passers-by are enchanted as the music played by Glenn "resounds through the glenn."

In remembering her childhood, Viola said,

"My younger sister, Annie, and I sold garden stuff in Elk City when we were little — green beans, onions, radishes. We carried them in buckets from house to house, Annie on one side of the street and I on the other."

Viola said that if the people did not have the money, they let them have the vegetables on credit, and they would pay the next time. She said her sister was too bashful to collect so Viola collected the money.

"Nobody ever beat us out of a penny," she said.

"And I am still selling," Viola added. Glenn makes miniature furniture "pin cushion chairs," complete sets of chair, rocker and divan, out of soda water cans.

These can be used as doll furniture also and are much in demand, especially favored by the Hispanic people, Viola said.

Surely being married on Valentine's Day cast a benediction of good fortune on the lives of Glenn and Viola, for they remain ever young and are about the happiest couple you ever saw.

We wish Glenn and Viola many happy returns of the day and all God's blessings.

Dumpster fires
still big problem

Village fire prevention officer Ollie Cuddy warns residents and visitors that anyone caught discarding hot ashes in dumpsters and starting fires is liable for a $300 fine.

Cuddy, who undertook a campaign last winter to cut down on the dumpster fires, one of the most nagging village fire problems, said this week that the number of fires has remained constant.

Cuddy said two dumpster fires were extinguished this week by the Ruidoso Volunteer Fire Department. The two fires bring this winter's total, starting in November, to 31. From November 1981 through January 1982, the fire department responded to 27 dumpster fires.

Cuddy stresses that the trash fires not only pose a threat of spreading out of the dumpsters, but the cost of extinguishing them and repairing the damaged dumpsters is very high.

The fire prevention officer recommends that you place fireplace ashes in a metal container, douse them with water and let the ashes sit for a few days before disposing of them into the trash.

Inside The Capitol

by Fred McCaffrey

SANTA FE — Joe Skeen was up here last week.

One of Joe's charms is that, when speaking to the joint Senate and House of the state Legislature, he does not act as if he had descended from the skies.

He tends to give the same message every year. It goes like this: "Hey, men and women, I have been here. I know, as you must, that we cannot in these rooms solve all the problems of the world."

That's a kind of wisdom.

Legislators in New Mexico cannot really address the eternal verities.

Like Joe, they should spend some time not taking themselves too seriously.

Except... except... except...

While he was here, Skeen told this writer, "I want to get on that bill of Pete Domenici's to provide more mathematicians and scientists for the nation."

Lots of things you ought to understand there.

(A.) Skeen is a civil engineer. Engineers tend not to think they have all the answers in life. Mostly, they just tend to build things — not always accurately or well.

(B.) Domenici is a former science teacher, who quit. Walked out. Went to law school. May still be suffering from scruples. May be blaming self because he cut out. Hence — possibly — the present bill before Congress.

Here are some figures you might want to consider as you worry about the supposed shortage of scientists in the nation — that shortage the Domenici bill would presumably provide funds to correct. All these numbers are based on students in New Mexico:

— Enrollment in computer and electrical engineering at UNM is up 27 percent from last year.

— Courses in such subjects as circuit analysis and computer logic design are now standing-room-only at that university.

— The overall student-faculty ratio in engineering has risen in recent years, in that department at UNM, from 12 students to one faculty member to 20 students to each faculty member.

— The number of students majoring in mathematics has risen 107 percent. The number of students majoring in physics has risen 79 percent. The number of students majoring in chemical and nuclear engineering has risen 83 percent.

(All this without any Domenici bill in Congress.)

What does McAllister Hull, provost at the University of New Mexico (and himself a scientist) say?

"I am concerned by the lack of interest in the liberal arts programs. I think people are shortsighted in avoiding that kind of educational experience to devote all their time to preparing for a profession."

And Richard Cady, director of institutional research at UNM, adds this: "What do our alumni tell us? Two striking things: The vital importance of communication skills of all kinds — listening, reading, writing, speaking. The second thing they tell us: There's more to life than work."

Now, in the closing paragraphs, the judgments of this correspondent.

Pete Domenici has been too much taken over in recent months by the folks who make up what Dwight Eisenhower warned us against — the military-industrial complex.

They may have been unleashed on him at the suggestion of Cap Weinberger. At any rate, he's listening to them too closely.

The fact is, Pete, they don't rule the world.

There are still economists, and sociologists, and anthropologists, and philosophers, and even Leninists.

We matter too — maybe more than all the military and quasi-military scientists in the world.

Letters to the Editor

DEAR EDITOR:

I am up before daylight this morning looking through the Disarmament Calendar for 1983, published by the Syracuse, N.Y. Cultural Workers Project. Historical facts listed on every page document our government's escalation of nuclear power since 1945 when the first atom bomb was exploded in Alamogordo, and also the disregard on the part of the Administration and Military for the rights of our own people and those in other parts of the world. Below is a list of some of these facts:

1945 — U.S. drops atom bomb on Hiroshima. More than 100,000 unsuspecting civilians die immediately, and many more in the years to come.

1950 — U.S. explodes world's first H-bomb. Part of South Pacific ocean boils away, Island of Elugelab vaporized.

1951 — Radioactive snow falls in Upstate New York from weapons testing in Nevada.

1952 — Fallout from Nevada nuclear weapons tests exposes and ruins photographic film all across Eastern U.S.

1953 — Chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff testifies to Senate Committee that as soon as a "suitable" target is found in Korea the U.S. "would have to consider the use of the A-Bomb."

1955 — World Peace Council launches drive for complete ban on production, testing, deployment of all nuclear weapons.

1956 — Pres. Eisenhower discusses providing atomic weapons to security forces in troubled regions of the third world.

— USSR reasserts three-year-old stand demanding complete and total ban on all nuclear weapons. U.S. again declines to negotiate.

1957 — White House memorandum charges that international anti-nuclear campaign is masterminded by the Soviet Union and "creates in the public mind a moral and fearful distinction between nuclear and conventional forces. This works to our great disadvantage and must be countered by any means of education at our disposal."

1958 — B-47 carrying nuclear weapons crashes near Abilene, Texas.

1964 — Presidential candidate Barry Goldwater suggests the use of nuclear weapons in Vietnam.

1968 — Underground blast in Nevada breaks through ground, releasing fallout and violating 1963 Test Ban Treaty.

1971 — Five megaton nuclear weapon tested underground in Aleutian Islands, Alaska, in a wildlife refuge. Thousands of sea otters, seals, birds, and fish killed, habitats contaminated.

1978 — 50,000 Dutch march against the neutron bomb in Amsterdam.

1979 — Navajo People protest as Gulf Oil sinks uranium mine deep into sacred mountain of Navajo Nation.

The sun is rising now above the ridge across the river, warming the clear New Mexico air. I don't enjoy looking at the sky the way I used to. I keep seeing a mushroom cloud rising and spreading. I visualize more of them covering the cities. I will never see my daughter, my grandchildren, my sister or brother again. We don't know how it started, it can't be stopped. The heat is intense. I flash back half a century to a radio broadcast of the Graf Zeppelin landing. There is a sudden explosion, bodies falling through the air. The man at the microphone is sobbing, "Oh, my God — the humanity!" Another scene, from ten years ago. I am sitting on a bench in a large metropolitan airport waiting to change planes. Streams of people, all ages and sizes, are walking past me in one direction. Intently, leaning slightly forward, their shoulders seem tired, but they push onward. I feel myself drawn along with them, and now I see their beauty — a universal river of humanity — and I am crying. This river flows over the whole earth, circular, connecting, a universal life force.

Anti-nuclear demonstrations are taking place in many countries, including Russia. Last year on June 12, nearly a million people from all over the U.S. and around the world converged on New York City to demand an end to the arms race. They moved in a slow current, through the avenues to Central Park in the largest political demonstration in the history of our country. Many carried signs: "Abolish Nuclear Weapons!" "Fund Human Needs!" "Weapons of War Must Be Abolished Before Weapons Abolish Us!" "Together We Can Stop the Bomb!"

The Ruidoso group of New Mexicans for a Bilateral Nuclear Weapons Freeze meets on the second and fourth Thursdays of each month at 7 p.m. in the Library. On Thursday, February 24, Dr. Karen Apodaca, Capitan, representing Physicians For Social Responsibility, will speak on the effects of nuclear war. I am hoping that other grandparents who are concerned about this will join me there.

DOROTHY REID

DEAR EDITOR:

Fireplace Hazard
"Tips for a warmer, safer winter evening" you saw in Monday's paper could land you in the hospital or worse.

1. Do not adjust your damper less than full open. Many dampers will not remain open reliably.

The damper was not invented to adjust airflow (speaking of fireplace dampers and not stove dampers).

Ben Franklin invented the damper to solve a curious problem. The smoke from neighboring chimneys descended down the cold chimney and into the room.

2. Do not use chains or rock filled burlap bags to clean the flue.

The clay tile liner of a fireplace is fragile. Expensive and dangerous damage can result from improper cleaning methods.

The "cross section" of a standard fireplace is correct only in that it is standard. A correct damper throat is positioned directly beneath the front half of the flue. Smoke rising from the firebox will ascend straight up without any restrictions.

The number of litigious incidents arising from Monday's well intentioned article should now be minimized.

J. ROY PROPSNER

DEAR EDITOR:

I would appreciate it if you would print the following item in your letters to the editor column.

"I would like to take this opportunity to thank the voters of the Ruidoso area for passing the school bond issue. This is one of the reasons I am proud to be a member of this community. Because of the need for additional classroom space this issue was of vital importance to our school system."

Also, I would like to thank each of you for supporting my re-election to the school board. I have every intention of making you pleased that you have cast your vote for me. Again, thank you."

LAMAR OSBOURN

DEAR EDITOR:

...HEY! ATTENTION!
I am not writing this letter to Democrats, Republicans, Independents, or to followers/fans to any particularly illighted personality-ill.

...I am writing this letter to PEOPLE... the common everyday garden-variety type. The people who work and live the common life, but who are actually the thought and money which makes this nation tick... even though the tick more and more seems to be sick.

How much longer are we going to put up with the jurisdictional-political lampooning which we are being subjected to in increasing doses? How much longer are we going to let public officials, lawyers, and/or politicians, either through professional ignorance or planned deception, prolong, linger and appeal cases or situations which has as a basis political gain or more money in the pocket? How much longer are we going to stand for so-called plea bargaining?

...BUT, to the immediate point at hand. DID YOU SEE where Jerry Ray James, a 1980 New Mexico State penitentiary riot-time inmate, who was later transferred to the federal facility in Fort Leavenworth on a lifetime sentence as a habitual criminal, was given his freedom from that sentence and a reward of $250,000 for his testimony against Jimmy Chagra?

(Quote ... "he made a deal with the Justice Department" to tape record his conversations with Chagra! Of course, $200,000 of the reward was contingent upon Chagra's conviction (which didn't come to pass) ... and then, James had the audacity to say, "I've already received $20,000 of the reward money and my wife has bought a new Mercedes-Benz."

... How do those apples set with you, folks?

And this comes at a time when you and I and a lot more little people are struggling to find out how we can pay our income taxes. We better hurry and find out how to pay them 'cause those 'other' people are about to run out of bribe money.

...BUT back to convict Jerry Ray James. He, supposedly, is never to set foot in New Mexico again! It would be just fine with me if none of the people who were involved in this 'deal' EVER set foot in New Mexico ... and those in-Staters who were involved would leave!

Sincerely,
VAUGHN VANDERGRIF

Editorial

Many Ruidoso residents will receive something called a "Postsecondary Education Survey" in the mail next week.

Others will receive the survey when it is brought home by their high school age children.

We strongly urge everyone who receives a survey to take the few minutes required to complete it and send it back.

The results of the survey may be of great significance to our community, and a high percentage of returned forms will assure credibility.

Purpose of the survey is to determine the degree of local interest in college level classes and/or vocational-technical training.

The advantages of having such programs here would be numerous. Young people who want to start college while continuing to work and live at home would be able to do so.

Businesses needing trained employees in fields which might range from carpentry to computers would have a skilled labor pool.

The possibilities are endless. State officials have acknowledged the usefulness of a "learning center" of the type envisioned for Ruidoso, and indicated a willingness to fund such facilities.

The form, consisting of fewer than 20 questions, is really quite simple to complete. Please fill out and return your form as soon as you receive it.—TP

FINGERPRINTING CHILDREN

Something seems awry when hundreds of New Jersey youngsters of grade-school age are lining up to be fingerprinted by sheriff's deputies. We associate fingerprinting with, at best, an intrusion into our privacy or, at worst, being a suspect in a crime.

But there are good reasons why parents have decided to take the fingerprints of their children in a voluntary program sponsored by the Union County, N.M., sheriff's office. An undersheriff developed the program after reading a magazine article about the difficulty of locating and identifying missing children.

The fingerprint card will remain in the possession of parents, so there is no invasion of privacy or amassing of a government file. But if anything happens to the children — a kidnapping, runaway, or other disappearance — the fingerprint record could be of significant value.

It is appalling that 100,000 minor children simply disappear from their homes in America every year. Fingerprints supplied by parents to law enforcement agencies could help locate or identify the missing. The program in New Jersey deserves study by parents, school officials and police authorities in other communities as well. —News Bulletin, Valencia County

Reporter's Round

by Barby Grant

The Ruidoso Board of Education isn't just losing its president; it's losing its ringmaster. After 20 years of serving on the school board, Dave Parks has decided "It's time to let other new blood get in the system."

Apparently Parks was not the only one who felt that to be true. There will be an abundance of new blood flowing in the school system within the next few months. Not only will Parks be replaced, but "Bones" Wright has resigned after serving for eight years on the board. Superintendent Pat Valliant, a 23-year veteran of the Ruidoso School System administration, is retiring at the end of the school year. Assistant superintendent Sid Miller will move up to fill Valliant's place, and a new assistant superintendent will be hired.

Lynn Willard was elected to assume Parks' seat, and Charles McClellan was appointed to finish out two of the remaining four years of Wright's term. Parks will certainly be missed as ringmaster of the group. I don't intend to imply that school board meetings are a circus—as in rowdy and disorderly—but they are almost always entertaining and often sidesplitting.

It took me a while after I began covering school board meetings to learn what comments were to be taken seriously and which were to be ignored in my notetaking. One of the "funniest" characteristics of the board, though, is its efficiency in spite of the overwhelming need of some of its members to provide comic relief.

This characteristic (including both the efficiency and comic relief) is one I hope will not be lost in the exchange of chairs.

Parks admits that he made a conscientious effort to lighten things up at school board meetings.

"I think school business is very, very serious business," he explained recently, "but the members should not take themselves too seriously."

I spoke with the outgoing board president this week to get his predictions of how the upcoming personnel changes will affect the school system. With the exception of obvious personality changes and the necessary period of adjustment of new members to their roles, Parks feels there will not be any noticeable differences.

His confidence stems from his belief that the school board has built a strong administrative staff, which makes transitions such as are occurring presently much easier and with less disruptive.

An added factor is that the board will be retaining three strong, experienced members to aid in the adjustment period of the new members. Stormy Edwards has been on the board for 10 years, Don Swalander for eight years and Lamar Osbourn for six years. Parks also pointed out that although Willard and McClellan are new to the board, they are not new to the community. Willard has been a Ruidoso resident for 10 years and McClellan for 20 years.

Harmony is the key word in describing the past and continued success of the board of education, Parks feels. Personal philosophies may differ but the overriding concern of each member of the board is the education of the students within the school system.

"Good debate and differences of opinion are healthy," Parks commented, "but there is no personal feeling or animosity (among members of the board)."

The local school board has not always operated in an atmosphere of harmony and joviality as it now does. Parks was first appointed to the board by the state Board of Education in 1983 in the midst of a turmoil which resulted in the resignation of a majority of the board. Parks said he has worked, since then, on maintaining a harmony among members of that body.

That harmony and the fact that "a basic interest in the kids has been paramount to all board members" is what makes and will continue to make Ruidoso's board of education a good one.

But Parks is concerned that a sense of complacency not overtake the board and the school system because it is "good."

"When you do have a good system, complacency is your worst enemy," he stated.

It is important that the school board and administration continue to strive for excellence and work toward improvements within the system. That is just what Charles McClellan promised to do in a pre-election interview. He stressed the importance of "the continued improvement of what we've got."

Parks feels sure that harmony will continue to be characteristic of the school board and that it will prevent any major changes in philosophy or policy.

The one difference Willard and McClellan may bring to the board is a freshness—new ideas and perspective, Parks pointed out.

After 20 years in the same position, one tends to get physically tired and mentally impatient, he admitted.

Parks may have been tired and impatient, but he never lost his sense of humor and ability to keep things lively.

I guess Don Swalander will be depended on how to tell the jokes and deliver the puns and give Tom Hansen a hard time. I have a feeling he is perfectly willing to assume that responsibility.

ART, DINING AND ENTERTAINMENT GUIDE

Art for the Community series scheduled

The Carrizo Lodge is presenting an Art for the Community series—to include workshops on pottery, oil painting for youth and calligraphy—beginning next Friday with a Meet the Artist Night.

Albuquerque potter Ed Rooney will present a free demonstration and show of his works at the Lodge next Friday, February 25, at 7 p.m. Rooney and his wife Patricia will conduct a pottery workshop Saturday and Sunday, February 26 and 27, for a cost of $50 per student. All materials are included in this price.

The Rooneys work in their Albuquerque studio I'M O'CLAY, YOU'RE O'CLAY, which they opened in 1977, and Ed Rooney has given free lectures and demonstrations in the Albuquerque public schools. The Rooneys are mostly self-taught through collaboration with other artists and working experience.

They are known for their functional pottery and specialize in Raku, some of which can be seen at Smith Ltd. Gallery in Ruidoso.

An ancient Japanese art, the Raku process is traditionally part of the tea ceremony. Glazed teacups or pots are heated to 2,000 degrees in a specially-built kiln. While the glaze is liquid, the red-hot pot is removed from the kiln and smothered in sawdust. The resulting carbons are absorbed into the clay body and glaze, making the Raku pot unique in itself.

The pottery workshop is designed to be a comprehensive overview of all aspects of working with clay, and will offer instruction on wheelthrowing, hand building, glazing techniques and kiln firing. Pottery in various stages of completion, from unfired greenware to bisque fired, will be on hand for workshop participants to experiment with. In addition to the Rooneys, Robert Esposito of the North Valley Pottery and Tiles Works in Albuquerque and Keith Smith, an apprentice at I'M O'CLAY, YOU'RE O'CLAY, will be helping with the workshop. Examples of the artists' work will be on display during the workshop.

No prior experience with clay is necessary, as the workshop will run the gamut from basics to advanced techniques.

Local artist and teacher Paul Tapp will instruct a special oil painting class for youth beginning February 28 and meeting each Monday evening from 6:30 to 9 through March 28. Cost of the class is $40. Tapp is fine arts instructor at Ruidoso Christian School and is completing his second workshop at Carrizo Lodge this month. He has taught previously at Zia Art Center.

The class is geared toward discovering and encouraging new talent in the local area and to providing meaningful activity for the younger set in the community.

Tapp said. The class is open to interested youth from sixth grade through high school and will include material appropriate for beginner and intermediate art students.

Former art students and adults are also welcome to sign up for the course.

The workshop will emphasize composition, perspective drawing and color theory, using a limited oil palette.

A beginning calligraphy workshop will be offered at the Lodge by Roswell artist Bob Phillips Saturday and Sunday, March 5 and 6. Phillips will be present Friday evening, March 4, for a free demonstration and show of his work at 7 p.m.

The classes will meet from 9 a.m. to 4:30 p.m. Saturday and Sunday and the cost will depend on the number of students enrolled. With 20 to 25 students, the class will cost $15; 10 to 20 students will be charged $25 each, and with five to 10 students, the charge will be $40.

Participants will learn the fundamentals of letter structure in the Roman and Italic alphabets, basic layout and design techniques, selection of paper and inks and the proper use of tools. Hints on reproduction and shop techniques will also be offered.

Anyone wanting to sign up for one of the workshops or needing more information should call Carrizo Lodge at 257-9131.

ALBUQUERQUE POTTER Ed Rooney will be conducting a workshop at Carrizo Lodge Saturday and Sunday, February 26 and 27, and will be giving a free demonstration and showing at the Lodge Friday, February 25.

TRUCKING ALONG. Olympic Truck crosses the finish line one and one-fourth lengths ahead in Sunday's featured Valentine's Day Purse at 870 yards. Joe Martinez is the winning jockey.

Olympic Truck takes home gold

Olympic Truck led every jump in winning Sunday's Valentine's Day Purse at Sunland Park. The four-year-old Truckle Feature gelding was never headed under a strong ride by Joe Martinez in the 870-yard dash which lured seven runners competing under allowance conditions. The purse was $3,200.

Olympic Truck was timed in a rapid 45.85 while scoring a one and one-fourth length verdict over Dandy Socks.

Crow's Request, the 7-5 wagering favorite under Mike Lidberg, failed to break with his usual blazing early speed. He made up considerable ground and closed stoutly to finish third, just a half-length behind Dandy Socks.

As the $1.90-1 second wagering selection, Olympic Truck returned $5.80, $3.40 and $3.20. Dandy Socks, ridden by Jose Cervantes, returned $4.60 and $3.40 for running second.

Crow's Request, a nose better than fourth place Native Sparkle, paid $2.40 to show.

The win was Olympic Truck's first with one second in three appearances this year for trainer Elmer L. Shepard. He collected $1,920 with the victory for owner Jess Burner of El Paso, Texas.

Bartonville, one of the southwest's finest 870 yard specialists in his earlier years, ran sixth throughout under Gary Sumpter.

It was the seven-year-old Mito Paint gelding's second outing this season as he attempted to regain his old form.

Racing resumes on Friday at Sunland Park with a 1 p.m. post time. The 1 p.m. post time will be used throughout the remainder of the Sunland Park season which runs through May 1.

El Jester's Pride, Smallwood gain win

El Jester's Pride scored the second victory of his brief career with a determined victory over the favored Lead Me Careless in Friday's featured race at Sunland Park. Ridden snugly by Vickie Smallwood, El Jester's Pride was kept just off the early leaders in this five and one-half furlong jaunt for three-year-olds running under allowance terms. Nearing the far turn, El Jester's Pride quickly drove to the front and opened a clear lead.

He was kept under pressure through the stretch run as Joe Martinez started moving with the even money favorite, Lead Me Careless. At the end, El Jester's Pride was safely ahead by one length.

The El Jester colt ran a blazing 1:04 4-5 clocking, one of the fastest readings at the distance this season.

As a 9-2 outsider in the field of 10 sophomores, El Jester's Pride returned $11.80, $4.20 and $3.80. Lead Me Careless finished second and returned $2.80 and $2.40.

Depth Ruler, three lengths behind Lead Me Careless and ridden by F. O. Martinez, ran third and paid $4.20 to show.

El Jester's Pride opened his career with an impressive one-length victory over Texas Sky King in an 870-yard scamper at Sunland Park on January 30. He's trained by Bob E. Arnett for the Three C Racing Stables of Pampa, Texas.

Sunland Park Hoofbeats

by MARK GORDON
KAFE SNOOPER REGISTERED his fourth straight victory when he took a narrow verdict over Byers Hope in Saturday's eighth race. The five-year-old Kafe Bush gelding started his streak by scoring a three and one-fourth length win over Dynamo Dobbin in a six-furlong dash on November 13 for $2,500 claimers, then won by one and one-fourth lengths over Brother Christian at five and one-half furlongs on January 9 against $4,000 claimers. He gained a head verdict over Brother Christian while running for $5,000 over six furlongs on January 21. Saturday's race was a five and one-half furlong chase against $5,000 horses. Ruben Miranda has been aboard all the victories for trainer Lewis L. Germany and owner Grady D. Hopper of Dallas, Texas. It was Kafe Snooper's fifth win this meeting, tying him with Jackie's Turn, Funny Native and

Zoom Corporation for the most wins this season at Sunland Park. FABULOUS TOO SCORED his third straight victory when he won by almost four lengths in Saturday's ninth race. The five-year-old Somethingfabulous horse, who raced at Hollywood Park and Del Mar in southern California, before arriving at Sunland Park last fall, started his streak on December 19. He won by six and one-half lengths against $5,000 horses at five-and one-half furlongs and then won by almost one length against $6,250 horses over six furlongs on January 14. He's trained by Lewis L. Germany for owner Grady D. Hopper of Dallas, Texas.

TRAINER H. DON FARRIS SADDLED both the winner and runnerup in Saturday's third race, Jest Real Easy, under Mike Hinderger, tallied a one and one-fourth length decision over the 3-2 wagering favorite, Magic Victory, ridden by Jerry Nicodemus, in the 330-yard dash. Jest Real Easy, who returned $13.00 to win, is owned by Connie H. Danley of Alamogordo, while Magic Victory is owned by Dalton E. Jones of Pauls Valley, Ohio.

PALO ST BAR REGISTERED his third straight victory at Sunland Park when he rallied to post a head triumph over outsider Co Go in Friday's fifth race at 400 yards. The six-year-old St Bar gelding started his streak with a one-length victory over Natives Reward at 400 yards against $4,000 claimers on January 14, then took a head decision from Feature Man in a 400-yard dash on January 29 against $5,000 claimers. Louie Gomez rode him to the first win while Larry Urioste has been aboard for the past two. Trained by Ben Torres, Palo St Bar is owned by Frank E. Rivera of Los Lunas.

JOE MARTINEZ JOINED apprentice rider David Lindberg as the only jockeys this season to capture four winners on a single program. Martinez turned the trick on Friday when he rode four winners and three seconds from seven mounts. Martinez' winners included Pretty Lark ($7.40) in the fourth for trainer H. Don Farris, Smash 'Em ($33.20) in the sixth for trainer Clifford C. Lambert Sr., War Fellow ($24.60) in the seventh for trainer Barry Germany and Raise The Cash ($4.40) in the ninth for conditioner J. B. Montgomery. Martinez ran second with Micky Mouse Dancer in the eighth, the even-money favorite Lead Me Careless in the featured 11th race and on Andy Handy in the 12th.

TRAINER J. B. MONTGOMERY and Barry Germany each saddled two winners on Friday's program. Montgomery won with Sassy Wrangler ($28.00) in the third for owners A. Bruce Green and J. Phillip Patterson of Purcell, Oklahoma, and took the ninth with favored Raise The Cash. Germany triumphed with War Fellow ($24.60) in the seventh for owners Claud L. Champion and Burl Gene Harris of Abilene, Texas, and captured the 12th with Kiki's Fager ($24.60) for owners Connie A. Canales and Carolyn R. Germany of El Paso. Joe Martinez rode War Fellow while Ruben Miranda was aboard Kiki's Fager.

LEGAL NOTICE
The Environmental Improvement Division (EID) of the Health and Environment Department has received an application from Bill McCarty Construction Company for a permit to construct an asphalt paving plant located approximately 15 miles east of Ruidoso, New Mexico.

The plant is expected to process approximately 100 tons of asphalt per day. Air pollution control equipment to be installed includes a cyclone and a wet scrubber.

The agency expects to issue a permit for this construction if it determines that the proposed construction will comply with state and federal air quality regulations and if emissions resulting from the construction will not result in any ambient air quality standard being exceeded.

Interested persons may submit written comments, addressed to Air Quality Stationary Source Section, Air Quality Bureau, EID, Crown Building, P.O. Box 908, Santa Fe, New Mexico 87504-0908. Comments must be received by March 2, 1983 to be considered.

Copies of the permit application will be available for public review at the EID field office located at 4-Seasons Mall, Suite 4, 2800 Sudduth, Ruidoso, NM 87547. They will also be available at the EID District Office, at 200 East Fifth Street, Roswell, NM 87501 and at the Air Quality Bureau Office, Crown Building 725 St. Michael's Drive, Santa Fe. The Division contact is Santa Fe Air Quality Bureau. Legal 2252 - 11 - (2) 17

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF LINCOLN COUNTY, STATE OF NEW MEXICO, TWELFTH JUDICIAL DISTRICT
RUIDOSO STATE BANK,
Plaintiff,
vs.
LINCOLN CEDAR HOMES, INC.,
V.B. MULHOLLAND, CHAVES COUNTY SAVINGS & LOAN, KEN GREEN and MARY LOIS GREEN, a/k/a THE RUIDOSO NEWS, and WAYNE TOWNLEY, Defendants

No. CV-245-82
Div. I
NOTICE OF SALE
NOTICE is hereby given that on 24th day of January, 1983, the District Court of Lincoln County, New Mexico, in Cause the above named, filed "Ruidoso State Bank v. Lincoln Cedar Homes, Inc., et al.", entered its Judgment and Decree of Foreclosure ordering foreclosure of a judgment lien in favor of Ruidoso State Bank, the Plaintiff, to satisfy the debt of $25,727.04, plus interest thereon at the rate of 10% per annum from November 28, 1981, until paid. The Court further ordered foreclosure of a mortgage lien in favor of Chaves County Savings & Loan, said mortgage securing a promissory note, having an unpaid principal balance, as of December 22, 1982, of $7,017.37, plus charges of $72.25, and attorney's fees of $52.50. The Court further ordered foreclosure of a mortgage lien in favor of Wayne Townley, said mortgage securing a promissory note, having an unpaid principal balance of $5,357.08, and interest at the rate of 10% per annum from August 31, 1981, until paid. The Court further ordered foreclosure of a judgment lien in favor of Ruidoso News, Inc., said judgment lien being in the amount of $1,136.33, together with costs in the amount of $35.50, attorney's fees in the amount of $50.00, and bearing interest from May 2, 1982, until paid, at the rate of 10% per annum. Said Court further ordered the undersigned as Special Master, to sell at public sale the property covered by said mortgages and judgment lien to satisfy the aforesaid judgment, said property being situated in Ruidoso, Lincoln County, New Mexico, and being more particularly described as follows:

Lot 1, Block 4, First Addition to Cree Meadows Heights, Ruidoso, Lincoln County, New Mexico.

NOTICE IS FURTHER GIVEN that on the 3rd day of March, 1983, at 10:00 A.M. on the steps of the Village of Ruidoso Administration Building, Ruidoso, New Mexico, the undersigned as Special Master, will sell the above described property to the highest bidder for cash to satisfy the judgments of the Ruidoso State Bank and Ruidoso News, Inc. and the mortgages of Chaves County Savings & Loan and Wayne Townley, to which shall be added the costs of the sale, the balance of the costs of this action, if any, and the costs of sale, including a Special Master's fee. The time of said sale may be postponed in the event that the Special Master, in his judgment, deems it advisable.

Dated this 1st day of February, 1983.

PATRICIA TULLY
Special Master

ANSWER THE QUESTIONS BELOW. IF THERE ARE ANY YOU HAVE DOUBTS ABOUT MAYBE YOU COULD USE A PROFESSIONAL REALTOR.

ARE YOU LOOKING FOR A HOME, BUSINESS, PROPERTY?

Do you know the preferred areas that give you the largest return for your money?

Do you know what you can qualify for through a lending institution?

Do you know the different ways you can purchase property?

Do you really understand a New Mexico Real Estate contract?

Do you want 3 or 4 bedrooms, 2 or 3 baths?

Do you want a fireplace, view of Sierra Blanca or to be on the river?

ARE YOU THINKING OF SELLING?

Do you know what price to ask?

Do you know about the financing?

Do you know the square footage of your home?

How much will your closing cost be?

Would it be better for you to own finance your property?

What is a long term investment, and what things add to the basis of your property?
