Operation Trash to run through weekend

by BARBY GRANT
Staff Writer

"Last chance for free dumping" is this Friday, Saturday and Sunday. Operation Trash organizer Barbara Duff reminds residents The Fort Stanton Mesa landfill will be open again this weekend for residents to dispose of trash free of charge during the area spring cleanup.

Duff said she is very pleased with participation in the cleanup last weekend but would like to see a traffic jam on the road to the landfill this weekend. A total of 58 trucks were reported on the road last Saturday heading toward the landfill, Duff said.

"We really moved a bunch of stuff," she exclaimed.

Operation Trash will continue in full force again this weekend, with paint supply discounts being offered to participants and 21 cents per pound of recyclable aluminum being paid by Safeway.

Police say cocaine leads drug problem here, but use restricted

by DAVID SHEPPARD
Staff Writer

For a six month period last year, the Ruidoso Police Department and the New Mexico State Police conducted an undercover sting operation with the intent of gathering information on the village drug scene.

Operating out of a storefront business off Sudderth Drive from April through September, agents filtered the word out that the business "owners" were drug users and were looking to make drug buys.

The agents also became barflies and were always around local hangouts, making acquaintances and trying to establish connections that could bring them into the underground drug world.

"The results of the sting?" "They tried to set up large quantity buys, but it didn't pan out. They even set up minor buys, to buy their way in, but it led to dead ends," explained Ruidoso police chief Richard Swenor recently.

Two or three minor arrests were made during the sting, but the operation's primary benefit to law enforcement agencies was the conclusions made on the drug scene.

The operation was financed by the state after Swenor had requested help to conduct the intelligence investigation. Based on Ruidoso's crime and burglary statistics over recent years, the State Police thought drug trafficking may have been behind local crime, Swenor said.

Swenor wanted to know the extent of the local drug scene.

"We just wanted to see if we had problems. The intelligence value in the long run was what we were looking for," he noted.

Planning for the operation began in 1981 between Ruidoso police and State Police and the state Attorney General's office.

Because RPD detectives are easily recognized in town, outside agents were brought in to conduct the investigation.

What the agencies learned was that the main drug problem in the village is cocaine, but it is confined to small, tightly knit groups and is not openly available. As the agents found, the groups are very hard to crack.

"The intelligence pointed to the fact there's no street problem, it's not openly available. You can't go buy without an in," Swenor added.

Law enforcement authorities can offer few details on the amount of cocaine in the village or where it comes from, but they say the conclusion of the investigation is in line with the national trend toward cocaine use.

RPD investigator Gonzalo Cordova points to the tourist nature of the town, and notes the symbols of a resort town: big bucks and new faces go hand-in-hand with the influx of cocaine. It's the jet setters' drug, Cordova points out. Its very name means money.

Special assistant to the district attorney John Carver, who is based in Ruidoso, also sees cocaine as the number one drug problem in town.

"I've heard Ruidoso called the cocaine capital of the Southwest," said Carver, adding he is unsure if he agrees with the description.

Carver, referring to recent U.S. Customs Service and Drug Enforcement Administration (DEA) warnings that cocaine trafficking is slowly moving out of Florida into other border states, notes rural New Mexico is a perfect target for drug-carrying aircraft.

"We have around us in southern New Mexico a massive area where a small plane can land and be gone in five minutes," Carver explained. "My feeling is, it's delivered around this area down in the flats it's brought here in small amounts and sold to trusted friends."

RPD investigator Micheal Lovelace noted Ruidoso's proximity to El Paso, thought to be a major port of entry for drugs, puts the town in the position to become a trafficking point.

As evidenced by the sting operation, police have been able to make little headway into the cocaine scene. Since last year, Ruidoso police have arrested 13 people for cocaine possession, but none of the arrests have involved major quantities.

It appears use is confined to closed groups and the amounts that change hands are small, but it may be that police have just scratched the surface. Cordova says that if the police department had the resources, major busts could be made.

Swenor believes cocaine use, as well as other drug activity in town, has at most a minor effect on crime in Ruidoso because of the low street activity. Swenor said he does not see drugs as a cause for the high burglary rate because, according to police information, the problem with drug addiction is low.

But where there is drug use, there is always the potential it will lead to other crimes, says Carver.

Painting the scenario, Carver said, "The more who buy it, the higher the demand, the higher the demand, the higher the cost, the higher the cost, those who can't afford it will commit crimes."

Swenor notes that, to prevent such a scenario, police cannot and will not bust into every home to rid the town of drugs. Because of clear-cut prerequisites for obtaining a search warrant, the days of "I think Joe Smith has something, let's kick in the door"—as Carver put it—are over.

But, in addition to the sting operation, there are indications RPD has stepped up efforts to bring drug users and traffickers to prosecution.

In 1982, Ruidoso police made 65 arrests for felony possession or selling of drugs. In 1981, only 27 similar arrests were made. So far this year, more than 10 arrests have been made.

In recent arrests, police have confiscated heroin, LSD, cocaine, Dilaudid (a chemical substitute for heroin), marijuana plants and several pounds of marijuana.

To increase expertise on the force, and to develop better lines of communication with state and federal drug enforcement agencies, Cordova was recently sent to a two-week drug training seminar held by the DEA in El Paso.

Swenor said Cordova's training does not mean RPD is initiating a "crackdown on drugs."

"It just gives him the professional expertise to function with other agencies. We don't want to make mistakes and get the wrong people," Swenor emphasized.

Chamber of Commerce has new president, plans for year

by BILLY ALLSTETTER
Staff Writer

The Chamber of Commerce board of directors elected Jim Paxton president and looked toward the upcoming year during their two-day retreat last weekend in El Paso.

The group had originally planned to meet in Juarez, Mexico, but changed their minds only days before the retreat because of concerns over border incidents that recently occurred there.

According to the minutes of the meeting, Paxton was unanimously elected president of the board after being the only one nominated.

Chamber of Commerce executive director Ed Jungbluth later expressed a favorable opinion of Paxton's selection. He said Paxton's performance as a member of the Retail Merchants Committee and last year's board of directors showed a "will- ingness to get in there and help."

"I think he's going to be super," said outgoing president Morgan Clough, who noted Paxton's intelligence and community involvement.

Four vice-presidents were also chosen during the retreat. Joan Bailey was elected as vice-president in charge of economic development. Jim Goodwin will be vice-president in charge of community development.

Ronnie Hemphill will continue as vice-president in charge of operations and management, the position he held last year. Tommy Morel, a new director this year, was elected vice-president in charge of publicity and advertising.

Advertising funds for the Chamber come from the two percent lodgers' tax collections. The minutes showed that the board voted to put forth an active effort to convince Ruidoso village council members to pass an ordinance raising the lodgers' tax to three percent.

The increased lodgers' tax would generate more funds with which to advertise Ruidoso. Jungbluth stated that the three percent lodgers' tax collections would also make Ruidoso eligible for matching advertising funds from the state.

"The possibility of getting matching funds from the state is very interesting," said Clough.

On the subject of lodgers' tax funds, the retreat's minutes showed that the Chamber has sent a list of all those they believe should be paying the lodgers' tax to the council. Chamber staff member Doris Baca said she compiled the list of 97 establishments from a list of Chamber members, ads in The Ruidoso News and other publications, and Realtors the Chamber staff knew of who rent properties.

The Ruidoso Lodgers Association has raised the question of whether all lodgers in town are paying the lodgers' tax. Village officials have refused to supply a list of those paying the tax but have said they will reply to inquiries about specific lodgers paying the tax.

According to the minutes of the meeting, Joan Bailey and Ed Jungbluth called for more harmony between the village council, the Lodgers' Tax Committee and the Chamber of Commerce directors, especially since they are all working toward the same goal of increasing tourism for the town.

Newly elected vice-president in charge of advertising and publicity Morel said Wednesday he wants to get "more people involved in the planning stages, especially members of the Lodgers' Tax Committee."

The directors also addressed the subject of traffic and parking problems that arise during periods of heavy tourism in Ruidoso. The directors moved to send a letter to John Schuller, chairman of the Planning and Zoning Commission (P&Z), expressing the extreme disappointment of the directors that nothing had been done through P&Z committees to alleviate the parking problems.

They also stated they strongly hope P&Z will put some renewed effort into this problem and get something done this year.

The directors decided, however, not to involve the Chamber in the issue of gas prices in Ruidoso. Jungbluth explained later that a Chamber committee did once address the issue and received considerable negative feedback concerning their involvement in independent businesses' pricing policies.

"They just didn't feel that it was the Chamber's position to get into it," said Jungbluth.

The directors did express interest in a proposal by Paul Carson to organize the world's richest ski race to be run at Sierra Blanca Ski Resort. Jungbluth later said Carson has talked to him and to Roy Parker, manager of Sierra Blanca Ski Resort, concerning the production.

Jungbluth said Carson was quoting "staggering numbers" far and away over purses offered at any other ski race. A meeting with representatives of all concerned parties is scheduled for May 9, said Jungbluth.

During a regular monthly board meeting at the retreat, the board decided to raise the deductible on the group insurance to $500, thus minimizing the increase in premiums

Grindstone annex okayed

by TIM PALMER

Following two-and-a-half hours of discussion Tuesday evening, the Ruidoso council approved annexation of 148 acres of the Grindstone Development by a 3-1 vote.

Councilmen Al Junge, Benny Coulston and Frank Sayner voted in favor of Ordinance 83-4 annexing the property, while Don Dale voted against it. The votes were the same as those cast in a special meeting April 6, when a contract for the purchase of land from Don Dorman for the proposed Grindstone reservoir was approved. The contract was contingent upon annexation of the surrounding property.

Junge predicted early in the hearing that three points would be discussed: annexation, price of the dam site land, and whether the dam should be in another site (Flume Canyon). This analysis proved mostly correct.

In response to a question from Walt Durr, Sayner addressed the connection between annexation and price. He explained the appraisal firm representing the village agreed the purchase price for the dam site would be higher if the village did not annex.

Since the dam site lies mostly within village limits, he indicated, the land comprising it would have to be valued as such if the rest of the Grindstone property were not annexed, meaning the price would be higher.

Durr also questioned the "reverter clause" in the contract, as did Jack Coke and Ray Beardsley. Junge gave the example of the village deciding to put a dump at the dam site instead of a reservoir. This would devastate Dorman's property values, he noted.

"It's a protective item on both sides. I can't fault it," said Junge. Dale said that without the clause, the purchase price would be higher, and called the $11,000 per acre price "a steal."

Dale noted that a five-acre park will be located at the lake, which will allow fishing while cutting down the area requiring cleanup by the village. He pointed out the lake is primarily for water storage.

Newton Page told the council he had worked for the bond issue to build the reservoir, but said guidelines agreed to by the Water Reservoir Committee (Page, Sayner, village attorney Lee Huckstep and John Schuller) may not have been followed.

He apologized to persons who voted on the basis of his presentations before the election.

"At this time I would plead with the village council not to annex on the basis that we have a lack of water to serve it," Page said. He said a building slowdown and the current high flow in Eagle Creek make this hard to see, and reiterated the suggestion that developers bring in water rights with their property.

In regard to another site, Page said everyone was told and believed that trying to acquire federal land would take too much time. He said upon investigating, he was welcomed "with open arms" by the U.S. Forest Service and Senator Pete Domenici's office, and given indications the process would not be as lengthy as commonly believed.

Page asked Dorman if the village had told him during purchase negotiations that it could locate its dam somewhere else besides Grindstone Canyon. Dorman said no.

Among the figures Page presented were cost comparisons between Grindstone Canyon and his preferred site, Perk Canyon. According to the figures, the village could save up to nearly $2 million by putting the dam in Perk Canyon.

Page had alluded to faulting at Grindstone, but Boyle Engineering representative Leroy Givens said consulting geologists have not been able to find the fault. Page said he was told Boyle would grout the fault if found without going over budget, and would stake its reputation on the reservoir holding water.

Dennis Roy of the Forest Service said the agency would be willing to work with the village on a dam site. He said purchase of the land rather than special use permit would be the fastest method of acquisition.

Steve Makowski expressed concern over access to Grindstone Development. He said heavy traffic would impact residents of adjoining subdivisions. "These are indirect costs of annexation and certainly should be considered," said Makowski.

Coke asked whether Dorman would take out the reverter clause, and Karon Petty said it was not uncommon to change contracts at the last minute. But it was pointed out the contract was already agreed to by both sides.

Junge said the present council is dealing with the problem of previous councils not having purchased water rights. He said that in going ahead, the village gets what it needs—a place to catch water.

In other business Tuesday, the council:

Approved Resolution 83-4, requiring that plats be of microfiche instead of mylar.

Rejected Resolution 83-5, the Open Meetings Act, by a vote of 3-1 (Dale aye; Junge, Coulston, Sayner nay). Junge said Wednesday the vote was "a little trick on the mayor" after Mayor George White persisted in reading the resolution despite the lateness of the hour. He predicted the resolution will be adopted next meeting.

Approved travel expenses for Huckstep to a federal water rights seminar in Denver, Colorado.

Sent a request for waiver of a park use fee for the Golden Years Jubilee to the Parks and Recreation Commission.

Heard Coulston report that he plans to recommend that one percent of general fund revenues of the village be used to promote Ruidoso.

Heard White, at Sayner's suggestion, set a meeting between the council and the water protest committee for 4 p.m. Wednesday, May 4.

Approved a revised fee schedule on alarms, submitted by police chief Dick Swenor.

Approved a request from Ed Hyman of the Lodgers' Tax Committee for $200 for village clerk Leon Eggleston to outfit a Ruidoso booth at a clerks' convention in Minnesota.

Tabled bids for an audit for further study.

Heard fire prevention officer Ollie Cuddy report that sandbags and sand are available at the main fire station in the event of flood danger.

Received a list of 97 establishments which it is believed should be paying lodgers' tax from Chamber of Commerce executive director Ed Jungbluth. There are now 68 lodgers' tax accounts. The list was turned over to Eggleston.

Set a budget workshop for 7:30 p.m. Tuesday, May 3.

Mayor George White said Wednesday he wanted to make clear he is opposed to the annexation. As he has said in the past, he opposes any annexation until the village secures more water rights.

He also said he is against locating the reservoir in Grindstone Canyon because of the cost of the property and because he felt the council should have studied alternative sites on Lincoln National Forest land.

Substance Abuse in Ruidoso

Zoning question delays ruling on apartments

by BARBY GRANT
Staff Writer

Confusion over the status and legality of property zoning in Ruidoso Downs led trustees to vote twice Monday night to delay action on plans for a 40-unit moderate-income apartment complex, reverting the matter to the Planning and Zoning Commission (P&Z) to clear up the zoning question.

A roomful of residents prepared to voice opposition to the construction project were never heard because the zoning question was raised before plans for the project were presented. Attorney Lee Huckstep, representing an owner of property adjacent to the site planned for the apartment units, questioned the legality of P&Z's action last Thursday to rezone the tract from residential to commercial. Minutes of that meeting reflect that a motion was passed to change the tract from R-1 (single family residential) to C-2 (general commercial) "to clarify zoning."

Huckstep pointed out that state statutes require a public hearing be held and written notification be sent to all owners of property within 100 feet of the site to be rezoned, which was not done by P&Z prior to their action. The attorney asked that the matter be sent back to P&Z to be acted upon according to the proper procedures. He noted that property values will be greatly affected by a change from residential to commercial zoning, and property owners should have input into that decision. Jess Armstrong of El Paso, Texas, owner of the proposed apartment complex site, located on Miriam Road behind the Merchants Trucking Company on Highway 70, pointed out that he has believed since 1970 that the tract is zoned C-2. Armstrong reported that he was assured by village officials at the time that the property was commercial and was never notified of its being considered for rezoning.

It was revealed by the governing body that a zoning map designed by P&Z several months ago was adopted by the village earlier this year; this map shows the tract as zoned R-1. Trustees also admitted that notices were not mailed to property owners prior to adoption of the map.

"I don't think notices were given personally except maybe face to face," trustee Harrold Mansell stated.

"I'll be the first to say the map has room for error," remarked mayor J. C. Day. He apologized for any inconvenience the governing body's actions may have caused.

A 1976 comprehensive plan reflects that the tract of land in question was designated for C-2 zoning. But a search through village records by clerk Wilma Webb failed to reveal any evidence of its ever being zoned so. Huckstep commented that it is possible the property was never actually zoned in a legal manner.

Mansell then made the motion, which was passed by the board, to send the matter back to P&Z, requiring the commission to search through the records to determine how the property was zoned before the current map was adopted.

Following a brief recess, trustees took up the apartment complex subject again upon the request of the developers, Ron Tibbets of Colorado Springs, Colorado, requested from the village a letter indicating that, pending correct zoning, the municipality would consider providing water to the project and maintaining the road after it was constructed by developers. He explained that the letter of intent was needed for submission to Farmers Home Administration (FmHA), which will provide financing for the development.

Architect and planner Carl Reinhardt explained that the complex would consist of five buildings of one-, two- and three-bedroom units. An in-house manager, laundry facilities and a lot for children would be included. It was estimated that rents would range from $250 to $325 for tenants earning incomes in the $9,000 to $21,000 range. Rents would be set by FmHA.

Reinhardt pointed out that about eight percent of the rental income would be set aside for perpetual maintenance of the facilities, and FmHA would stipulate required safety and management guidelines.

Real estate agent Wayne Townsend estimated the project would generate about $20,000 for Ruidoso Downs through gross receipts and ad valorem taxes.

Reinhardt mentioned that plans include construction of a sealed gravel-base road and utilization of natural landscaping.

Residents of Cardinal Drive in Pinecliff Subdivision in Ruidoso, adjacent to the proposed apartment site, argued that their road could not handle the increased traffic. The access road into the apartment complex would tie into Cardinal Drive.

Other objections were raised concerning the availability of water for additional development, though developers made reference to proposed water system improvements to be funded by FmHA, subject to application approval. They also noted that the project would not be completed until fall, when the water situation is less severe.

It was suggested again that the zoning matter be cleared up by P&Z before any commitment on the project is made by the village. P&Z chairman George Smith, who had just arrived at the meeting, objected to this proposal.

"By sending it back to P&Z ... you're sending it back to a group of people with no more ability than you have to make a decision," Smith remarked. He suggested trustees make a determination on the zoning rather than have it "go back and forth and come up with the same results." Trustee Bob Power said perhaps the village clerk will locate additional information from the records by the time of the next P&Z meeting.

Trustees voted a second time to return the matter to P&Z for a determination of zoning.

Later in the meeting, Smith proposed that trustees and P&Z hold a special meeting to discuss the functions and responsibilities of the commission. A meeting was scheduled for this evening (Thursday) at 5:30 p.m. at the municipal building.

In other business, trustees:

—Discussed with Cablevision manager Paul Crown problems arising from residents being charged $100 to $125 extra for sewer line hookups because of the frequency of cable lines being cut when the sewer line is installed. Crown said he is permitted by the Federal Communications Commission to charge three times his labor and material costs any time a line is cut.

He explained that his policy is to assess the charge to those who fail to notify him when a cable line is cut or cover it up before calling him. The charges are a means of keeping costs down and preventing rate increases, he claimed.

Crown advised the village to join the utility council now being established in Ruidoso, which will institute a one-call system to all utilities for notification of any cuts to be made. He said he will approach the board about joining after the system has been set up in Ruidoso.

Trustees then discussed the need to convince plumbers making sewer taps to notify the cable company of their intent to cut into streets so cut cable lines can be avoided.

—Gave final approval to ordinance 83-3 establishing charges for garbage pickups outside village limits. Trustees also reiterated that only trash in dumpsters will be picked up.

—Voted to rewrite and publish Ordinance 83-4 regulating livestock, after adopting a change in wording recommended by village attorney Tim Quigley to keep the ordinance from being self-contradictory.

—Approved the lease of two police vehicles from Ed Black Chevrolet of Albuquerque for the low price quote of $275.29 month.

—Moved to submit to the state Department of Finance and Administration a budget transfer request of $8,940 for the police department and other assorted transfers to cover expenses for the remainder of the fiscal year.

—Voted on white as the color for the Ladies Auxiliary to paint the municipal building.

—Agreed to discuss at the next meeting the possibility of drilling a new water well.

—Passed a motion to call for bids on audit services.

—Agreed to advertise a public hearing for the next meeting for discussion of spending of revenue sharing funds.

State cuts paving funds way back

by DAVID SHEPPARD
Staff Writer

The ambitious paving program in the village for the 1983-84 fiscal year has been slashed in half by the State Highway Department.

Tony Lara, Highway Department District 2 technical support engineer who reviews requests for matching funds, said Wednesday the "village won't be getting anything."

Ruidoso had applied for $250,000 from the state for the next fiscal year. The money would finance half of the paving projects—including resurfacing and asphaltting dirt streets—with the other half to come from the village budget.

Street superintendent Jack LaMay had budgeted $500,000 for paving.

Lara said Ruidoso would not receive matching funds next year because of cuts in the entire State Highway Department budget. He said District 2, which includes Ruidoso, has to heavily prioritize for next year and the village requests "basically don't take priority."

District 2 head engineer Buddy Hewett said Ruidoso "in no way" would receive the full $250,000 request, but he hesitated to say the entire state match would be cut.

Hewett pointed out all requests in the district, headquartered in Roswell, are being cut because the Legislature appropriated just $1.2 million per district for 1983-84. He said last year the district received $2 million for paving projects.

Lara said the only possible way Ruidoso would receive state money for paving would be if the Highway Department receives additional money.

LaMay noted the village will lobby the district office for at least a portion of the requested money.

In another development, Hewett noted the State Highway Commission has approved a request from the village to partially finance work on the temporary bypass route from Highway 70 at the "Y" to Gavilan Canyon.

He said the state will pay up to $77,000 of the estimated $154,303 project. The money will be appropriated under this year's budget.

The project includes a right turn lane off Highway 70 at the intersection of Walnut Drive. Walnut will be paved and a bridge will be constructed over the Rio Ruidoso where the road bed now goes through the river. LaMay expects work to begin in about two weeks.

Police

Cordova's training is, however, another weapon in the expanding police arsenal with which to fight the drug war.

Last fall, through the help of Twelfth District Attorney Steven Sanders and Ruidoso Magistrate Jim Wheeler, the courts and police established the Ruidoso-Lincoln County Narcotics Contingency Fund to supply money for narcotics arrests.

Wheeler said revenues for the fund come from volunteer donations he requests from criminals convicted in his court for drug offenses. He said he cannot require the donations as a fine.

"It's kind of ironic," noted Wheeler. "Someone in a drug case, paying to get another narcotics case. It's good punishment; that's who ought to pay for it."

Swenor and Lincoln County Sheriff Tom Sullivan are responsible for administering the fund. Swenor explained that, when a detective requests money for a drug buy, he can allocate the needed cash from the fund immediately.

This bypasses the lengthy process of seeking money for drug buys from the municipal general fund, which had to be done in the past.

As it builds, the fund will give police the most important ingredient for major investigations—money.

As Cordova explained, it takes a lot of money to gather intelligence, go undercover and conduct surveillance, and the police department has had to scratch, claw and save in other areas to get enough to make only minor buys.

"What we've had to settle for are the small-timers," said Cordova.

In addition to the contingency fund, police have another money resource available to them through the Crime Stoppers drug reward, established in March.

Prompted by board president Richard Sandoval, the local chapter set an unconditional reward of $500 for information leading to the arrest and indictment of drug dealers.

The week after the reward was announced, police received a tip over the Crime Stoppers telephone and arrested five people on drug charges. Crime Stoppers has since paid out the reward for the tip.

Sandoval said he feels drug use and trafficking in the village is an underlying cause for other crime.

"If we make it 10 percent harder for them to sell drugs, then we've accomplished our purpose," Sandoval stated.

All law enforcement officials questioned thought the Crime Stoppers reward offer was a worthy program. Carver said he hopes the offer will help lead to arrests of hard drug pushers.

Carver acknowledged the danger exists that desperate drug users will use the program to turn in somebody to get money to support their habit, but he pointed out users are taking the risk of being turned in themselves.

Sandoval agrees. He noted the purpose of Crime Stoppers is to buy information, and the chapter realizes tips may at times come from persons involved in crime. But if the program is successful, any criminal is liable to be turned in, he added.

The Crime Stoppers program ignited an increased awareness in the community about the drug problem. Shortly after the program was announced, RPD had several requests from service clubs and women's groups to give talks on drugs.

Investigator Hazel Polissot, using dozens of drug paraphernalia confiscated by the department, gave the presentations, which centered on a drug awareness theme.

Much of the attention from the parents groups was directed at the schools, and some of the parents expressed concern about a problem with drug use and trafficking at the high school.

School officials and students admit some students smoke marijuana occasionally, but they do not believe hard drugs and trafficking are problems on campus. Officials also point out the high school has tough policies on drugs and that students can be thrown out even on suspicion of use.

Swenor has cautioned against an overreaction to the problem. He stresses that though drug use, especially marijuana, is prevalent in town, trafficking and drug-related crime is relatively low.

Also, because of societal acceptance of marijuana use and low penalties for small possessions, Swenor points out, the police department does not devote a lot of time to apprehending pot users.

Still, the department is not avoiding the drug problem. As Lovelace noted, "We are doing things about it; we're doing all we can."

"But if we had all the resources in the world, we couldn't get them all."

Pancake restaurant plans announced

P & H Development Corporation Monday announced plans to open a Village Inn Pancake House Restaurant in Ruidoso.

The Village Inn Pancake House will be a 24-hour family restaurant specializing in pancakes and breakfast foods. It will also offer an extensive salad bar and full lunch and dinner menus.

The Village Inn Pancake House will be a franchised operation with headquarters in Denver, Colorado. The local restaurant will be owned and operated by Dr. Lloyd D. Payne and Billy G. Hellums, both of Roswell.

Payne said construction is scheduled to begin May 5 after final approval of plans by the Architectural Plans Review Committee. Anticipated construction time is 70 days, and Payne said he hopes to open the restaurant around July 15.

The restaurant will be located on Highway 70 and Cliff Drive, immediately east of the Ruidoso Inn.

Operation Trash

Duff encourages residents to call her at 257-2340, the Chamber of Commerce at 257-7395 or Ruidoso Downs village clerk Wilma Webb at 378-4422 to sign up or to report unsightly areas around town that need cleaning up.

Members of the Ruidoso Rangers 4-H Club, Police Athletic League (PAL) and Scout Troop 107 have agreed to do cleanup work for residents unable to do it themselves, in return for a donation to their organization, Duff reported. She said the clubs will be available to do such work on call at any time of the year, not just during Operation Trash. Duff encourages residents of each block in the village to jointly sponsor a cleanup project of their block through one of the organizations.

The clubs can be contacted through their leaders: Robyn Garrett for 4-H, Mark Paz for PAL and Tim Collins for Scouts.

Duff related the comment of 4-H member Missy Gosdin as she helped clean up one of the village streets last weekend. "If we did this once a week we could have the whole town cleaned up," Gosdin said.

Duff indicated that is the type of attitude she is trying to foster through Operation Trash.

She has received a promise from the Lincoln County Women's Softball League to clean up the Ruidoso Downs and Fort Stanton softball grounds in conjunction with Operation Trash.

Anyone else who would like to volunteer time to help make the area more attractive to residents and visitors is encouraged to contact Duff or to just go out and start cleaning up!

NOTHING LEFT but the cleanup. The Ruidoso Volunteer Fire Department, assisted by a U.S. Forest Service tanker crew, extinguished this trailer fire on Signal Peak Road in Pinecliff Tuesday afternoon before flames could spread into the forest. But the trailer, owned by Ron MacWhorter, according to the fire department, was totally destroyed. According to the fire report, the fire may have been started by a faulty propane gas valve on a furnace. No one was injured in the fire.

Motherhood times two with twins

by BILLY ALLSTETTER
Staff Writer

For many women, motherhood is an almost overwhelming experience. While the joys are tremendous, the responsibility of caring for and raising a child is greater than anything they have ever done in their lives.

Imagine having two at once.

"It's awesome," said mother of twins Marcia Smith-White, Vickie Autrey said twins double the blessing and double the trouble.

How about a twin temper tantrum?

"A one-child temper tantrum may be tolerable—but twin tantrums are traumatic. When one twin throws himself on the ground, kicking and screaming, the other toddler often follows suit," states Double Exposure, the monthly publication of the Westside Mothers of Twins Club.

Smith-White and Sheila Burns, mother of 21-month-old twins, are trying to organize a Mothers of Twins Club in Ruidoso. Smith-White described it as an information and support group for mothers of twins who are overwhelmed by the chore of raising twins.

... Our four-year-old identical twins are driving me crazy. They don't give me a minute's peace. If one isn't skirting, the other is pulling at my shirt," wrote one overwhelmed mother to the advice counselor in the Westside club's publication.

But when there are two cuddly children crawling into your lap wanting to kiss and hug you, the pleasure is doubled as well, said Autrey.

There are two types of twins: identical (monozygotic) and fraternal (dizygotic). Identical twins are formed by the splitting of the fertilized egg after conception.

Identical twins have the same genetic makeup—including appearance, sex and blood type. Although almost every feature at birth is the same, as they grow, environmental factors can have profoundly different effects on their development.

Fraternal twins are the result of two eggs simultaneously fertilized. Each child has different genes, and they may be no more similar than normal siblings. They can appear very similar or very different and can be of different sexes.

"It's not the same at all," said Smith-White, comparing twins to a single child or children more than nine months apart.

The two children have to compete for their mother's love, said Autrey. In children nine months or more separate in age, each child gets the chance to be the baby and have the majority of attention, she explained.

"Twinship is the closest of all human relationships, exceeding the bond of mother and child," states the book, "The Care of Twin Children."

Smith-White said uncanny things happen sometimes between the twins. She tells the story of attending one twin, Joshua, in a bedroom when a toy soldier fell on his head. At that moment Charlie, the other twin lying in another room, cried out.

Burns said her twins are always very conscious of the other's whereabouts. Although they might wander off in different directions by themselves, they do not like to be separated by others. Each constantly asks where the other is if they are separated, she said.

"The Care of Twin Children" states that often an identical twin will call its reflection in a mirror by its sibling's name.

While this closeness can provide for a warm relationship between twins, it can also hamper their development if they do not learn to develop their own individual personalities. They do not develop the ability to function separately and confidently.

In addition to the biological closeness of twins, society often adds to the idea of twins being a single entity. They are often referred to as "the twins" and are not distinguished as separate individuals by many people.

One of the largest responsibilities of the parent of twins is to foster the development of each child's unique personality. Smith-White said she and her husband Richard sometimes take the children separately on walks. They each have their own shelves for their toys and choose their own clothes.

Burns said she almost never refers to her children as "the twins."

"Listen to them. That's really a lot," said Smith-White.

There are times when parents of twins can hardly help but listen to the children. A pair of sick and crying twins can be one of the most trying times.

"They're both crying. They both hurt and they both need to be held," said Smith-White. She recalled the time she was exhausted from attending both sick children. She slept on the floor of her twins' bedroom because she was afraid she would not wake up when they began to cry again.

"You think you are the only one it ever happened to," said Burns. She hopes the Mother of Twins Club will help mothers in this position by sharing experiences among mothers.

and Joni tried to pose for pictures recently but found it impossible to get everybody looking the same direction at once. They are starting a Mothers of Twins Club to inform and support other mothers of twins.

Other mothers can assure the ones under strained that all mothers of twins have gone through it and it will end soon.

Holding both twins at once is not always an easy prospect either. When Smith-White's twins were young she said both she and her husband had to go when they wanted to take the children out. If she wanted to take both out at once, she had to wear a front pack for one baby and push the other one in a stroller.

Just getting out of the house can be difficult. Getting two kids ready, clothing them, preparing carseats and snacks for two can make the whole process a complex one.

"Everything you do becomes a strategy," said Smith-White.

Once out of the house, visiting any store or restaurant can be a real adventure. It once took Smith-White and her family three days to make the 10-hour trip from Los Angeles to San Francisco.

"I swear that there are places between here and Los Angeles that will never allow twins in there again," laughed Smith-White, recalling a jello adventure in one restaurant. She also talked of the fear in the eyes of a store manager when she walked into his crystal shop with her twins.

It would have cost her plenty if the twins had gotten loose in one of their "rowdy moods" in the crystal store. Twins are an expensive prospect in any case.

"Whenever you buy anything you've got to get two," said Burns. Cribs, bassinets, car seats, clothes and toys can all add up very quickly when two must be purchased.

Burns and Smith-White plan to include clothing and equipment exchanges in the activities of the Mothers of Twins Club.

The two women have already obtained educational literature from the national organization that can give hints for rearing twins. Smith-White said she hopes to have different speakers address the group on subjects of interest. She also hopes to attract mothers of older twins who will be able to give younger mothers clues they have learned in their experiences.

The Mothers of Twins Club will have its first organizational meeting at 7 p.m. Tuesday, May 3, at the Ruidoso Public Library. All interested mothers of twins or multiples are invited to come without their children.

Champion fiddler to give seminar

World champion fiddler Dale Morris from Fort Worth, Texas, is coming to Ruidoso to offer a fiddling seminar free of charge to would-be and experienced fiddlers in the area.

Morris will be here Saturday, April 30, at the Flying J Ranch in Alto, which has donated its facilities for the seminar. Ruidoso Music is sponsoring the event.

Morris was Texas State Fiddling champion in 1972-73 and 1978-79, and was both world champion and World Series champion in 1979.

He is currently a regular member of Roy Rogers' Sons of the Pioneers Western music group and often plays with Ray Price's group, the Cherokee Cowboys. Morris has also played with Marty Robbins, Johnny Paycheck and Merle Haggard, among others.

The champion fiddler conducts seminars in various locations and has his fiddle course on a 15-cassette tape series put out by the University of Missouri. The tapes are designed for beginner to experienced fiddlers.

Morris will give a short concert Saturday, beginning at 1 p.m., followed by his seminar and a question and answer session. Sandwiches and soft drinks will be available at the Flying J from noon to 1 for those wanting to come early.

Best-selling author to speak here

Gretchen Heitzler, author of the best-selling book, "Meanwhile, Back at the Ranch," will speak at the Ruidoso Public Library at 2 p.m. Wednesday, May 4.

Her book is the story of the life of a young city-bred bride and her cowboy husband on the Three Rivers Ranch, a 60,000-acre spread about halfway between Carrizozo and Alamogordo.

"It is a human, highly readable story," stated The Albuquerque Tribune.

Heavily laced with humor, the book tells the story of the wife's life without electricity and gas, and a precarious supply of very hard water during the mid 1940s.

The book holds interest to many residents of Lincoln and Otero counties because many of the recounted events took place in the area.

Heitzler's late husband, "Rusty" Knott, was also a locally well-known figure. He was first president of the U.S. Highway 54 Association, Otero County commissioner, 1946-50, and served on the state Racing Commission for several years.

Sam Nunnally Appreciation Day set Friday

Mayor George P. White of Ruidoso has proclaimed Friday, April 29, as Sam Nunnally Day in the village.

The mayor cited the contributions of Nunnally, the municipal judge, in time and energy on behalf of citizens. Nunnally has been the judge for more than 10 years.

This Friday is Sam Nunnally Appreciation Day at White Mountain Middle School. A faculty/student basketball game and costume day are the activities being conducted to raise money to help defray medical expenses for the municipal judge.

Student Council will sell soft drinks and concessions at the game and $1 admission will be charged to the public, with proceeds going to the fund.

Students also will be wearing costumes to school and will receive cash prizes donated by local banks for best costumes. Students must have a sponsor or sponsors donating $25 to the fund in order to be eligible for the prizes.

Anyone who would like to sponsor a student or otherwise donate to the fund can call the school at 258-4150. Contributions are tax deductible.

Seventh grade teacher Tom McNeil has promised to kiss a pig if students raise a sufficient amount of money for the fund.

Capitan students honored

David Beavers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Beavers of Capitan, has been awarded an academic merit grant of $6,200 per year for four years to Grinnell College in Grinnell, Iowa. Grinnell is a private school with a highly selective admissions policy. David's admission to such a prominent institution shows a very high regard for his academic ability and personal characteristics.

Daron Armstrong, son of Mary Dell Scarborough and Tom Armstrong, and Charlie Marrs, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Marrs, were chosen as Capitan's delegates to Boys State.

The 36th Annual session of American Legion Boy State will be on the campus of the New Mexico Institute of Mining and Technology in Socorro, from June 5 through June 10.

Alternate delegates for Boys State are Danny Cummins, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hollis Cummins, and Jerry Glynn Story, son of Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Story.

Shelly Stowe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Stowe, was selected by the Capitan High School faculty as this year's representative to the 38th Annual Girls State. New Mexico Girls State is a practical application of good citizenship, affording girls the opportunity to have their own self governing "cities". They will have their own Senate and House of Representatives and city councils where they will present and argue their own bills.

This week of extensive training will be at the New Mexico Institute of Mining and Technology, in Socorro, starting May 28. Girls State is sponsored by the American Legions Auxiliary.

Robert Parker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Parker of Capitan, was recently awarded the President's Scholarship to Seaver College of Pepperdine University. The four-year merit scholarship, in the amount of $4,500 per year, is one of Pepperdine's most prestigious awards.

Robert has also been offered a four-year Full Tuition Academic Scholarship to New Mexico State University and an Academic Grant of $4,600 yearly to Grinnell College in Grinnell, Iowa.

Robert is an outstanding student at Capitan High School whose academic achievements, leadership role in extracurricular activities and athletic accomplishments have all contributed to his selection for these awards.

Rebecca Phillips, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Phillips of Lincoln, was recently selected as Capitan High School's candidate to the 1983 Hugh O'Brian Youth Foundation leadership seminar. The seminar for New Mexico candidates will be the weekend of June 10-12 on the campus of the University of New Mexico in Albuquerque. Rebecca is sponsored by the Ruidoso Women's Club.

About 70 outstanding sophomores throughout New Mexico have been selected to attend the New Mexico Seminar. During this seminar one boy and one girl will be chosen to represent our state at the Hugh O'Brian Foundations' International Leadership Seminar at Walt Disney World-Epcot Center in Orlando, Florida, August 5-13.

The University of New Mexico in Albuquerque recently selected two Capitan High School students as recipients of the UNM High School Achievement Awards.

David Keller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Phil Keller, will receive the Citizenship Award, and Robert Parker, son of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Parker, was selected for the Science and Math Award.

The awards, handsome Walnut plaques, will be presented by an alumnus of UNM at the Capitan High School graduation ceremony. Should either of the students choose to attend UNM he would also receive a $50 stipend upon enrollment.

Women's Aglow to hear speaker

Carol Sullivan of Alamogordo will be the speaker for the regular meeting of Women's Aglow Fellowship at 7 p.m. Monday, May 2, at the La Paz Room of the Ruidoso Inn.

Mrs. Sullivan and her husband James are the parents of seven children, included three adopted Mescalero Apache daughters.

A registered nurse, Carol has been director of a nursing service and a teacher of nursing, and is very active in the American Nurses Association.

She and her husband, a carpenter, work with children and young adults. James is a leader of a family group in White Sands Christian Fellowship, and Carol is head teacher of the White Sands Christian Fellowship Covenant School, as well as president of Alamogordo Evening Women's Aglow Fellowship.

The title of her talk is, "Flapping Like Chickens or Soaring Like Eagles." Ruidoso women are invited to attend Monday's meeting.

CAROL SULLIVAN

Christian films for teens scheduled this Saturday

Two Christian films for teenagers will be shown this Saturday, April 30, at Gateway Assembly of God Church at 7 p.m. Admission will be $1.50 and is open to the public.

The first film is called "Eighteen." It is about a vivacious Christian teenager named Connie who is involved in a tragic accident on a California freeway. "Produced primarily for teenagers, but every parent who sees it will have a greater appreciation for teens," the film's producers promise. "Where Eagles Fly," the other film to be shown Saturday, is especially geared to "the forgotten teen"—the junior high school student. This film is "for every teen who is trying to discover true freedom ... not a story of easy believism."

The film is billed as having "a message that every pastor wants his young people to hear."

Refreshments will be served following the films Saturday.

Capitan Schools to host Festival of the Arts

The Capitan Schools will host their first annual Festival of the Arts Tuesday, May 3, beginning at 7 p.m. in the Capitan Gymnasium.

Featured at the festival will be displays by the Art, Agriculture-Future Farmers of America, Home Economics, Business and English departments. At 7:30 p.m. the Capitan Concert Band will perform their spring concert. Following the band will be a performance by the Capitan Show Choir and Jazz Band. This group has been touring all spring and has performed before very enthusiastic crowds at Hagerman, Dexter, Carlsbad and Ruidoso.

A $1 donation to the various arts departments will be collected at the door.

Voice students to perform at Care Center

Voice students of Carlene Wadley will participate in a teaching seminar at the Ruidoso Care Center Monday, May 2, at 7 p.m. The students, ranging in age from 10 to mid-40's, will perform voice selections ranging from early classical and opera to present-day popular and Christian gospel.

Wendy Walker, a 16-year-old student at Ruidoso Christian School, will perform "Prayer" by Guion. Walker was recently chosen to make a 22-day concert tour of seven European countries with the Sound of America Honor Band and Chorus, sponsored by Dickinson College in Carlisle, Pennsylvania.

Following is a list of students who will perform at the Care Center and their music selection. These students have placed in All-State competition or the State Music Educator's Solo and Ensemble competition: Bettina Schmitz, "Un Bel Di," from the opera "Madame Butterfly" by Puccini; Sonia Jefferson, "Must the Winter" by Barber; Daron Armstrong, "O God Have Mercy" by Mendelssohn; Anita Armstrong, "Lord Send that Morning" by Harris; Willie Dean, "Nocturne" by Head.

CYNTHIA LEE AMOS AND RICKEY DEWAYNE STARK

Amos, Stark recite vows

Cynthia Lee Amos and Rickey Dewayne Stark recited wedding vows Saturday, April 2, in the Ruidoso cabin of the bridegroom's grandmother, Mrs. Hubert Tankersley of Tahoka, Texas.

The bridegroom's parents are Mary Ann and Jack Stark of Ruidoso. The bride's parents are Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Amos of Capitan.

The Reverend Harold Perry performed the double ring ceremony by the fireside which served as the altar. The raised hearth was draped with white satin and flanked by tall baskets filled with silk fern and spring flowers of silk in pastel colors with pink bows. In the background were white hurricane lamps with lighted candles and pink bows.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white satin gown with standup shawl collar, covered with chantilly lace and seed pearls. Small, self-covered buttons extended to the waistline in front. Her long sleeves, fastened with self-covered buttons, ended in satin points over the hands. The full satin skirt, with a lace panel at back, extended to a chapel-length train.

The bridal veil of illusion was attached to a head piece of silk gypsophylla. The bride carried an arrangement of pink and burgundy silk roses with streamers of both colors.

The maid of honor was Chris Snow, cousin of the bride. Bridesmaids were Valerie Chrisman and Dena De Tar, cousin of the bride. They were attired in dresses of pastel colors.

The best man was Reggie Stark, brother of the bridegroom. Groomsman were Allen Russell and Rick De Tar, cousin of the bride.

At the close of the ceremony, the minister read scripture pertaining to the significance of the candle and the uniting of two lives. The couple then lighted the unity candle that was in a brass holder decorated with lily of the valley and a lovebird.

Organist Mrs. Jessie Lee Hawkins presented wedding songs and the traditional wedding marches. Candle lighters were Mindy and B. J. Witt, niece and nephew of the bride. They also distributed rice bags.

Hostesses for the reception were Mrs. A. J. Amos, Mrs. Mitch Norris, Mrs. Mariclaire Lynch and Mrs. Hubert Tankersley.

The bride's table was covered with a white lace cloth and centered with a tall silver candelabra and pink tapers. The bride's bouquet completed the centerpiece.

The two-tiered wedding cake was decorated with pink roses and topped with a bride and bridegroom. It was served by Linda Witt. Mrs. Mitch Norris poured pink sherbet punch from a crystal punchbowl. The serving bar, which was covered with a floor-length cloth, served as the groom's table.

Chocolate cake, assorted finger sandwiches, nuts, mintos, coffee and a pina colada punch were served by Mrs. Mariclaire Lynch and Mrs. Tim Assiter, sister of the groom. A copper container, with an arrangement of tulips, was the centerpiece for the table.

In keeping with tradition, something old was the wedding gown, belonging to the groom's mother. Something new was a pair of pearl earrings, a gift from the bridegroom. A necklace of the bride's mother was borrowed, as was the bridal veil belonging to Mrs. Mike Fillingim, aunt of the bridegroom. The traditional blue garter was a gift from her mother.

Mrs. Mitch Norris, aunt of the bride, registered the guests, who came from Tahoka and Lubbock, Texas, Ruidoso and Capitan.

The bride and bridegroom are both graduates of Ruidoso High School. After a short wedding trip, they will live in Capitan. The bride will be employed as a tour guide for the Smokey Bear Museum. The bridegroom is an attendant at Fort Stanton Hospital and Training School.

The Ruidoso News SPORTS

Around Sports

with Gary Brown

The Ruidoso-Lincoln County Police Athletic League (PAL) is alive and kicking, with promises of even better things to come.

PAL treasurer and coordinator Mark Paz will begin his spring-summer session of the Junior Athletic Program Saturday, May 28, at White Mountain Middle School. The program will last for two months. It was last held in the late fall and winter at Ruidoso High School, and attracted a sizable number of youths to its weekly sessions.

"We plan on getting the kids involved in sports like basketball, wrestling and volleyball inside the gymnasium," Paz said. "On days when it's warm, we'll take the kids outside and maybe play soccer or another sport. It's something for the kids to do."

One of the most creative projects the PAL will do this year is the Adopt-A-Grandparent program.

"We plan on taking kids out of the Junior Athletic Program and taking them to visit people in the Care Center," Paz said. "We plan on seeing how the kids get along with the older people and maybe have the kids take them along on fishing trips or something similar."

"Eventually, we hope to have the kids 'adopt' a grandparent" from the center with whom they can do a lot of things together."

The Adopt-A-Grandparent program should do wonders to help bridge the generation gap between the old and young. Nothing negative can come out of it and it's something every community should have.

The PAL boxing program is also coming along. PAL boxers David Ordorica and Kevin Jefferson will go with coach Lucky Mulqueen to a smoker competition in Albuquerque this weekend.

The state Junior Olympics Tournament will be May 14-15 in Albuquerque and both local boxers have a chance to do well in it. The Junior Olympics regionals will follow May 28-29 in Colorado.

"We don't plan to do much more this year besides the athletic program, boxing and Adopt-A-Grandparent," Paz said. "However, next year we plan on having a lot more programs, including some adult sports programs."

Within a year or so, the Ruidoso-Lincoln County PAL program should be one of the best in the state.

Gymnasts will probably be interested in a camp to be held at New Mexico State University (NMSU) in Las Cruces June 13-17.

Bela and Martha Karolyi, the former coaches of Olympic star Nadia Comaneci and the 1979 World Championship team from Rumania, will be in charge of the camp.

Youngsters seven years old and older can qualify for the program. There will be daily gymnastics sessions and other activities.

Anyone interested in learning a lot from an excellent coaching staff should contact Bob Foley at NMSU, Box 3M, Las Cruces, NM 88003 for applications. His phone number is 646-4075.

Warrior netters stun Artesia

by Gary Brown
Sports Writer

Sometimes a little time off from practice can help instead of hurt a team.

That's apparently what happened Tuesday as the Ruidoso High School boys and girls tennis teams came back after a weekend off to upset visiting Artesia High School on the Sierra Swim and Racquet Club courts. The Warriors boys blanked Artesia 9-0, while the Ruidoso girls edged the Bulldogs, 5-4. Ruidoso, now 2-5 in boys action and 3-4 in girls play, will host Portales High School in a 10 a.m. match Saturday.

"I told the players to throw their racquets in the closet over the weekend and not practice," said Warrior coach Mike Crocker. "I guess that might have helped. They were able to relax a bit."

It certainly improved the Warriors' performance. In the first meeting between the two schools, Artesia took a 5-4 decision in the boys competition and won the girls match by a 6-3 decision.

But this time Ruidoso proved to be the better team in both divisions. There was never any doubt that the Warrior boys would win, as all their match victories came in two sets.

Top-seeded Ryan Brown defeated Jon Tortenson of Artesia in two sets, 6-1, 6-2, and Crocker was pleased with his talented sophomore's performance.

"Ryan got his serve to groove out and that was probably the key," he said. "The serve is probably the strongest part of his game anyway."

In the second-seeded match, Billy Woodul of Ruidoso took a 6-1, 7-5 decision over Grant Davis.

Other matches saw Bart Bowen take an easy win over Freddie Cortez, 6-1, 6-2; Mike Smith beat Bryan Knowlton, 6-3, 6-1; Jim Smith defeat Barry McCalah, 6-2, 6-2; and Zack Swalander topple Bret Tidwell, 6-1, 6-0.

In doubles competition, Brown and Woodul topped Tortenson and Davis, 6-2, 6-3, in the top-seeded match.

In the other doubles matches, Mike Smith and Bowen knocked off Cortez and Knowlton, 6-3, 6-4, while Jim Smith and Swalander beat McCalah and Tidwell, 6-4, 6-4.

"It was definitely our best performance of the season," Crocker said of the boys' effort. "Bart Bowen only played his second match of the season but played relaxed and good."

In the girls competition, junior Laura Trapp sparked the Warrior win as she raised her record to 7-0 with a 6-2, 2-6, 6-4 win over Cheryl Carter in the top-seeded match.

"It was Laura's toughest match of the season," Crocker said. "Carter is a real good player and it was a good match."

Laura Tyson switched with teammate Mary Gaddy and came through with an exciting three-set win over Tammy Lewis of Artesia in the second-seeded match. Tyson lost the first set by a 6-1 score, but came back to win the second and third sets, 6-3, 7-5.

Other matches saw Brenda Hart of Artesia top Tina Sanchez of Ruidoso, 6-3, 6-2; Gaddy beat Dinita Sewell, 6-3, 6-7, 6-4; Jill Edwards of the Bulldogs defeat Rachel McCoy, 6-4, 4-6, 6-1; and Donna Mobley of the Warriors beat Debbie Floore, 6-2, 6-3.

In doubles competition, Trapp and Sanchez lost to Carter and Lewis in two sets, 6-4, 6-1, in the top-seeded match.

Other doubles action saw Hart and Sewell beat McCoy and Tyson in a pre-set match, 6-6, while Mobley and Michelle Morrell beat Edwards and Floore by default. Floore suffered a twisted ankle and was unable to continue the match.

"The pre-set match was held because it was getting pretty dark," Crocker said. "This was probably our best girls match of the season because of the tough competition."

"I'm real happy. These were big wins for us. This just shows what the kids can do when they play their game. That two-week layoff due to the bad weather hurt us but we're back now."

Dulce wins All-Indian tourney at Mescalero

Dulce of Northern New Mexico defeated Window Rock of Arizona 60-48 for the championship of the first All-Indian Ladies Basketball Tournament Sunday at the Mescalero Community Center gymnasium.

Norma Couazone scored 20 points to spark Dulce, while Onde Skeet led the Window Rock attack with 17 points.

The Mescalero Braves finished third in the tournament while the Accetts—also of Mescalero—were fourth.

Window Rock defeated the Braves 46-34 for the right to advance to the championship game against Dulce. Earlier, Window Rock had beaten the Accetts 58-51 for the right to meet the Braves.

Hollie Jones of Fort McDowell,

Arizona, was the high single-game scorer with 32 points. Vona Begay of Window Rock was named most valuable player and also took the hustler award.

Players named to the all-tournament squad include Begal, April Whitehead of the 49ers, Angie Allison of Eastern New Mexico University, Diane Sago of the Mescalero Smurfs, Teresa Cachucha of Dulce, Joyce Kill of Fort McDowell, Weede Skeet of Window Rock, Gleda Torres of the Accetts, Veralyn Platta of the Braves, Cora Sago of the Limelights, Mavis Geronimo of the Braves and Judy Ganeanegro.

A total of 10 teams competed in the tournament, which organizers plan to make into an annual affair.

Ruidoso golfers to play at Socorro, take fifth in Lovington tournament

The Ruidoso High School golf team will probably get its stiffest test of the season when it plays in the Socorro Invitational Friday and Saturday.

Ruidoso will tee off at noon Friday and 8 a.m. Saturday.

The Warriors warmed up for the Socorro competition by finishing fifth in the Lovington Invitational Monday with a 339 score. The hosts won with 300, New Mexico Military Institute (NMMI) was second with 303, Eunice High School had 323 and Portales High School scored 327 for the first four places. After the Warriors came Jal High School at 341, Artesia High School at 364 and Tucumcari High School at 377.

Tommy Crow and Billy Taylor each shot 82 for the 18-hole tournament to lead the Warriors. Virgil Reynolds had an 86, Gary Gregson an 89 and Dion Lopez an 89.

"It was definitely our best performance of the season," said Ruidoso coach Leroy Gooch. "That was our best score in two years. The kids are playing better and showing a lot of improvement with their short game."

The Socorro Invitational will be a tough test for the Warriors as it will be played on one of the toughest courses in the state.

"There's a lot of water, out-of-bounds and trees on it," Gooch said. "It's really a hard course to play."

Ruidoso hasn't qualified for the state AAA division tournament at Socorro Friday and Saturday, May 12-13. Lovington, NMMI and Socorro are the only teams from the southern part of the state to qualify for the AAA tournament so far this season.

Ruidoso tracksters hope to qualify for state

HURLING THE SHOTPUT is Ruidoso High School's James Herrera. Herrera is one of several weightmen on the Warrior boys track team who will return next season. Ruidoso travels to Lovington for a meet Saturday.

Qualifying for the state AAA division meet will be the main goal of the Ruidoso High School boys and girls track teams when they compete in the Lovington Invitational Saturday afternoon.

Cisco Bob is the only member of either the Warrior boys or girls team to have qualified for the state meet so far. Bob, a sophomore, ran a 4:17.26 in the 1,500 meters last weekend to ensure himself a berth in the state meet. Bob will try to qualify in the 3,000 meters at Lovington. He ran a 9:41.48 last week to win the event.

"That's our main goal this week, to qualify as many guys as possible for the state meet," said Ruidoso boys coach Ronny Maskew. "We should be competitive with most of the teams that are there."

Maskew also thinks 800-meter runner Curt McClellan, 200-meter sprinter Mike Douglass and the 800-meter relay team have a good chance of qualifying for the state meet.

McClellan has a best of 2:06.80 in the 800 meters this season and won that event at Artesia last week.

Douglass finished second to speedy James Hillard of Lovington High School in the 200 meters last week, running a personal best of 23.06. Hillard edged the 6-2 Warrior runner by two-hundredths of a second. The two runners could meet again this Saturday.

"I think Mike can dip below 23 seconds," said Maskew. "22.8 is the qualifying standard. He's probably the most improved athlete on the squad so far this season."

Douglass will also team with Grady Williamson, Mike Williamson and Eric Strobel in the 800-meter relay. Ruidoso has a best of 1:34.7 in that event this season.

McClellan will run in the 1,600-meter relay with Grady Williamson, Strobel and Douglass. Ruidoso ran a seasonal best of 3:38.37 at Artesia.

The Warriors have several other runners who could do well at Lovington.

Ivan Shaw and Francisco Olvera are two of the better distance runners in district 3-AAA and could improve their personal bests. Shaw has run a 9:51.0 in the 3,000 meters this season while Olvera has a 10:05.11 in that event.

Sophomore George Gresham and senior Chris Sanchez could improve on their personal bests in the shotput. Sanchez has a best of 38-2 in the shot and Gresham has hurled it 37-1. Gresham will also go in the medley relay with Bobby Dickinson, Randy Reynolds and David Keaton.

An all-freshman unit will run in the 400-meter relay. Mike Williamson, who ran an 11.7 100 meters last week, will be joined by Reynolds, Dickinson and Russell Easter.

The Warrior girls have several athletes who could qualify at Lovington for the state meet.

Deanna Peso will attempt to make the big meet in the 800 meters. She will also run on the 800-meter relay and medley relay teams along with Gloria Rose, Stacy Ivy and Valerie Garcia. Peso was fourth in the Artesia 800-meters with a 2:37.0 time.

Jackie Jefferson will join Rose, Ivy and Garcia on the 1,600-meter relay squad.

Ivy will attempt to make the qualifying standard of 12.9 in the 100 meters. She ran a 13.1 last week and could improve on that this time. The sophomore will also compete in the high jump.

Rose, Peso and Lillian Lopez will participate in the high jump competition. Rose won the long jump with a 14-9½ effort at the Rose Relays Saturday and Peso was third with a 14-3 leap.

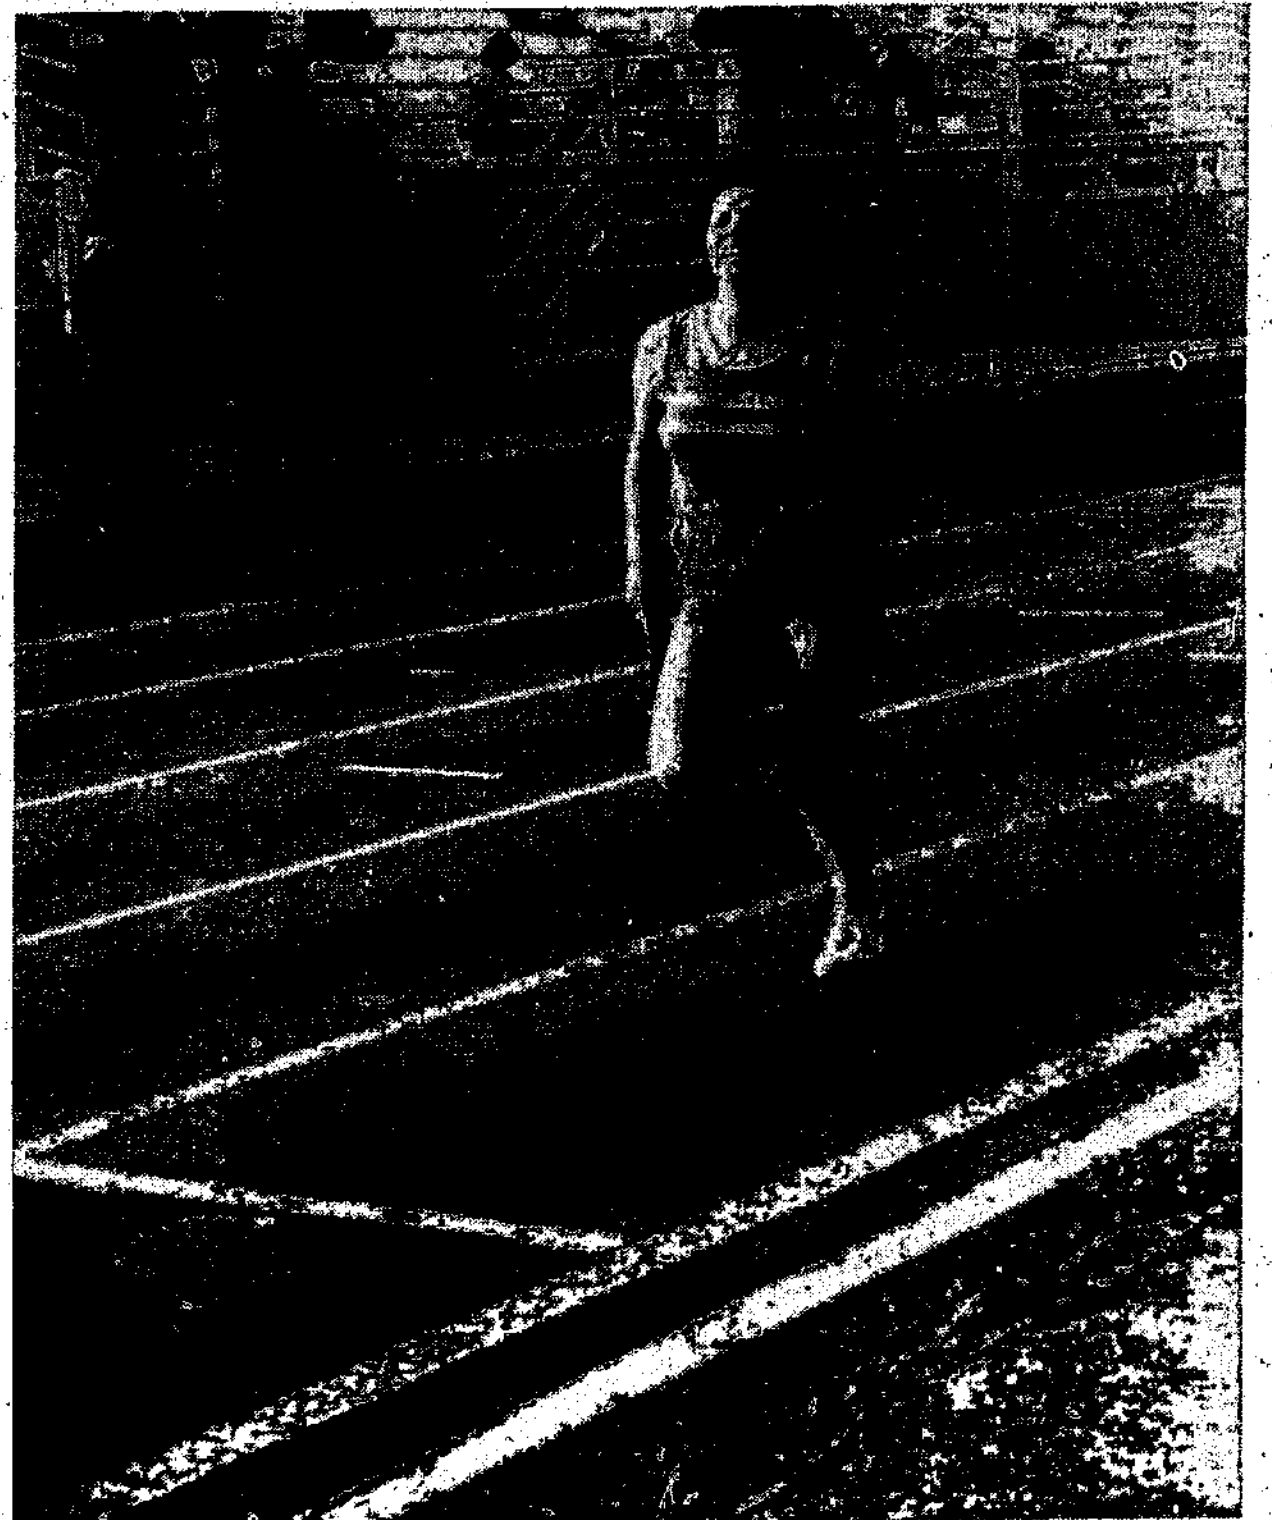

Lopez and Claudia Branum will compete in the shotput and discus. Branum won the discus at the Rose Relays with a 91-8 throw, almost 14 feet better than her previous best.

"Claudia will have to throw 100 feet to make the state meet in the discus," said Warrior girls head coach Sergio Castanon. "She might be able to win district."

Shannon Gwyn and Christine Volquardsen both placed in the hurdles at the Rose Relays and hope to do better at Lovington.

Eighth grader Rachel Kaydahzinne was fourth in the 3,000 meters at the Rose Relays with a 12:41 clocking. She has improved rapidly over the course of the season.

"We hope to equal or better our times at the Alamogordo meet last month," Castanon said. "If we do that, we'll be doing well."

VALERIE GARCIA is one of the top runners on the Ruidoso High School girls track team. She runs on three relay teams and is also a fine middle distance runner.

Tigers to compete in district meet

The Capitan High School boys and girls track teams will take the final step towards the state A division championships when they participate in the district meet at Alamogordo High School Saturday.

The meet will begin at 10 a.m. The first two finishers in each event and anyone who has met the qualifying standard will advance to the state meet in Albuquerque the following weekend.

Capitan has already qualified several of its boys athletes for the state meet.

The Tiger 400-meter relay squad of David Beavers, Danny Cummins, Paul Sullivan and Tim McElhannon has qualified with a 45.4 best this season. Beavers has also qualified in the 100 meters, while the Capitan medley relay team has qualified with a 3:54.0 time.

Todd Proctor in the discus, Robert Parker in the 100-meter high hurdles and McElhannon in the 400 meters have also qualified for the state meet. Parker has also won the state crown in the high jump two straight years, but hasn't qualified in that event yet. He had a best of 6-2 last season.

Tiger boys coach Mel Holland feels his team will be the favorite for the district title.

Prairie chicken mating a common sight in New Mexico

At the beginning of March in the Southeastern part of New Mexico, lesser prairie chickens start to gather for their annual mating rituals. Mating will continue through the end of May, and is a very spectacular and exciting display to observe.

At dawn each morning, the prairie chickens migrate to areas called booming grounds. Each male stakes out and defends a territory in the booming grounds, with the older more dominant males choosing the inner areas, while the younger males are delegated to the outer edges. There are almost constant battles raging among the males, with each bird trying to expand his territory. When one of the dull colored females enters the booming ground activity increases and the males spread their brilliant plumage, dance back and forth stomping the ground, and emit rumbling noises generated by air sacs located on each side of the neck. This dance will hopefully entice one of the selective females into his territory for mating.

While the chickens are booming, they are almost oblivious to other things occurring near the grounds. This provides an excellent opportunity for biologists to conduct surveys on chicken populations.

Mike Howard, game biologist for the Roswell District of the Bureau of Land Management, goes out each morning before dawn to locate and map the booming grounds. He also records the number of male and female birds on each ground. The mapping and census data is used for several purposes.

The data is being used to evaluate the effects of a shinnery oak control program on chicken populations. Shinnery oak is a very important food and cover plant for the chickens, but a balance with grasses is important for healthy chicken populations. The control program should help to provide a better balance and increase chicken numbers.

In addition, the data is being used to check on a new grazing system that was started two years ago in some major prairie chicken habitat. The system calls for a short time of high intensity grazing followed by periods when no grazing is allowed so that plants have a chance to rehabilitate. This system should improve range conditions and provide better habitat for the prairie chickens.

The mapping of the booming grounds is used to make sure that oil and gas drilling sites are not located near the grounds. Booming usually occurs in the same place each year and drilling sites on or near booming grounds could have an effect on reproduction of the prairie chicken.

The lesser prairie chicken was once listed as an endangered species, but today there are healthy chicken populations in New Mexico. Part of the remarkable increase is due to studies conducted by the New Mexico Department of Game and Fish, the Bureau of Land Management and New Mexico State University. Another factor which brought about the increase, was the purchase of land by the Game Department for prairie chicken refuges. In New Mexico, prairie chickens live in the sand hills and sand plains in the Southeastern part of the state. The Game Department owns 9 tracts of land in Lea, Roosevelt and Chaves Counties that have more than 20,000 acres of prairie chicken habitat. These areas are closed to grazing and are monitored to check on chicken numbers.

Search for missing man continues

The search for the missing man from Fort Stanton Hospital and Training School went into its sixth day Thursday morning as volunteer searchers from the hospital discovered tracks they believe were left by the man.

Fort Stanton administrator Mark Delgado said early today the tracks are located near the Route 214 and Highway 70 intersection, about seven miles south of the hospital in Devil's Canyon. Delgado noted the mentally retarded man has walked away from the hospital before and been found near the same area.

"If it's him, he's done a good job of avoiding us—he's going down to water," Delgado said.

The administrator said area search and rescue teams and other volunteers dropped out of the search earlier this week. Since the missing man, John Wayne Johnson, was reported missing about noon Saturday, search and rescue squads have used bloodhounds, helicopters and aircraft in the search.

Delgado said he was attempting Thursday to have another helicopter fly over the area. If the tracks belong to Johnson, Delgado said, the man has a good chance of surviving.

Lincoln solar workshop Monday

"How Solar Energy Can Be Used in Adobe Buildings" will be the topic of a program Monday evening from 6:30 to 9:30 at the visitor's center in Lincoln. Information provided at this seminar will help decide whether and how solar energy will be permitted to be utilized in the historic district in Lincoln.

This subject recently has been the topic of hot debate between property owners and members of the Lincoln Historic Review Board, which must approve any plans for construction in the historic district in and around Lincoln.

The program will be conducted by David Miller, head of the Information and Education Division of the New Mexico Solar Energy Institute at the Lincoln County Cooperative Extension Service and local citizens are sponsoring the seminar.

Topics to be covered include design considerations, solar heating "rules of thumb," architectural factors, new and retrofit solar systems, solar adobe buildings in New Mexico, solar economics, tax credits, adobe building codes, solar access laws and zoning restrictions.

Open discussion on the topic will follow Miller's presentation. Books and magazines about adobe-solar buildings, adobe-solar blueprints, and other information will be available to those attending.

The public is invited but the audience will be limited to the first 80 persons to register. A $2 fee will be charged to help defray expenses. Interested persons may pre-register by calling county extension agent Barry Herd at 648-2311 or 2312 in Carrizozo; Ralph Dunlap at 653-4047; or Glen Dennis at 653-4681 in Lincoln.

Downs P&Z, trustees to meet

Ruidoso Downs trustees and Planning and Zoning Commission (P&Z) members will hold a special meeting tonight (Thursday) beginning at 5:30 p.m. at the municipal building. The meeting is for the purpose of discussing the role of P&Z, its responsibilities and limits of power.

Attorney censured by Supreme Court

A Ruidoso attorney has been censured by the state Supreme Court for allegedly hitting another lawyer with a 5-pound marble ashtray in the Bernalillo County Courthouse, according to Associated Press.

Bruce G. Stafford was given 30 days to appear before the court to receive a public censure for that 1978 incident and for allegedly mishandling a client's complaint about vandalism by filing a $2,000 lawsuit and charging $500 in legal fees.

P&Z to consider maze

The Ruidoso Planning and Zoning Commission will hold a public hearing Monday on a conditional use permit request to erect fences for a walk-through maze in the Ruidoso Springs subdivision, west of South Country Club Road along the Rio Ruidoso.

The monthly meeting is set for 9:30 a.m. Monday at village hall.

—Request for east side lot line variance for Lot 19, Block 7, Palmer Gateway subdivision for Lester Eubank.

—Request for front lot line variance for Lot 11, Block D, Ruidoso Springs subdivision for Robert Stout.

—Replat of Lots 5 and 6, Airport West for Ron MacWhorter.

—Replat of part of Tract E and all of Tract F, Pinecliff subdivision for Southwest Developers.

—Replat of Lots 1 and 2, C. E. Webb Tract for Mayoma Keeley.

—Replat of Lots 82-86, Innsbrook Village for Dorado Development Corporation.

Planning and zoning enforcement field officer Paul Davis said, as proposed, the fences would be constructed out of wood and would be about 7 feet high. Sam Massey is requesting the conditional use permit.

The maze being proposed as a recreational attraction.

The commission will also consider an annexation petition for a portion of the new high school property in Bog Spring. The request involves about 38.5 acres on two tracts.

Also to be considered at the meeting are:

—Request for east side lot line variance, Lots 4 and 5, Block 3, 3rd Addition to Cree Meadows Heights for George Shoemaker.

—Replat of Lots 4 and 5, Block 9, Del Norte 3rd Addition for Alex Adams.

The Silver Lining

BY DANIEL AGNEW STORM

"Behold in the bloom of apples
And the Violets in the Sward
A hint of the old, lost beauty
Of the Garden of the Lord."

"With the calm patience of the woods, I wait
For leaf and blossom
when God gives us Spring."

John Greenleaf Whittier, one of the world's most beloved poets, in the above lines, caught the spirit of Spring in his native New England. In that climate of distinct four seasons, Spring comes suddenly like magic out of snowy winter.

Here on the slopes of the White Mountain, Spring comes in a little at a time, beginning down in the Pecos Valley and the Tularosa Basin, and climbing up in no hurry toward the mountain.

Then Spring will stop all together, with Winter stepping in (as happened recently) and we almost wonder if the weather Spirits have lost their way.

Then one day after a spell of west wind, along about this time of year, Mother Earth assembles her children for the big celebration, and the glorious Spring is here.

Today, April twenty-seven, all the fruit blossoms are out together — a rare sight. The plum, pear, cherry, and peach, are in full bloom welcoming the apple, late in showing its pink and white among the new leaves.

And the river trees, the cottonwood, willow, and box elder, and wild cherry have extra little tints of color: amber, light red, orange, and gold, — something extra brought by the heavy snows.

The sun shines through the multitudes of waving leaves and blooms blending the changing colors of Spring into a vast living picture of new life shining forth.

And this sight lifts your heart with rejoicing.

The River Is Full of Snow-Melt.

With the leaves and blossoms in full tide, (the Oak and Walnut are just beginning to come out) the river is in full flow, racing down the valley, whirling around the bends, foaming with tan-colored spray over the larger rocks, ever hastening to make room for more of the melting snow on high; and singing the lullaby of a bountiful year for all of Mother Earth's Children.

The Season Of Little Calves

Year by year it is a happier sight to see the little new calves walking down the trail leaning close to their mothers, wide-eyed with the sight of the river and their nostrils expanding as they catch their first smell of the running water.

Or late in the evening they will appear out of nowhere at their mother's low call, running across the mountain field to their evening meal.

One little calf was born early, back in late February; then a few days ago a bright little red and white calf appeared on a field by the river. In the evening the older calf came down with her mother; and when she saw the new calf she jumped in the air and went running in circles around the smaller calf, much as to say:

"A little sister, a little pal, a playmate."

The older calf takes the younger one under her wing, always near her, and bedding down beside her at night.

It is a perfect year for calves with lots of feed for the mothers and tender new grass to give the calves an early start in eating solid food.

We are beginning a wonderful season for calves and other creatures, and folks too.

OPINION PAGE

Yours and Ours

Inside The Capitol

by Fred McCaffrey

SANTA FE—Would McCaffrey lie to you?

In this very space—year after year, day after day—he has tried to convey the truth.

So you can believe him when he says this: Bruce King has not yet gotten over being governor.

Bruce King intends to file again in 1986 for nomination for his party's leadership role.

Bruce King wants the old job back. Remember (as Ernie Mills so often says), you heard it here first.

To move from Bruce King to a classical note, how about that crazy Bill Shakespeare?

In "The Merchant of Venice," he has a line which says, "What's new on the Rialto?"

Translation: What do you hear on the street?

That question applies even today. Toney Anaya is one who should be asking it: "What are they saying about me on the street?"

Answers:

—They are saying you were one of the least ethnic candidates for governor the state has seen in some time.

On election night, however, once you learned you had the votes to be elected, you turned into one of the most ethnic governors this state has ever had.

Most simple, honest, I-go-to-work-every-day citizens of New Mexico can't handle that. They want to know the answer to this question: Is this guy a great Chicano or not? Did we get sold a bill of goods when we thought he might be able to get along with everyone, no matter the color of the skin?

They also want to know this: Is this a man who ruthlessly and without sympathy for others takes positive advantage of his own background?

For more on this, see below.

—They are also asking whether or not the present governor of the state intends to serve out his four-year term.

If he doesn't, he might do well to tell us so.

That's the term we elected him for. Almost before the final vote-count in that election, he appeared to be running for some national office or other.

It's not clear which.

We might, however really conclude that once elected, he doesn't care much about the voters of New Mexico.

Given his choice, he will go for the voters in Chicago, Denver, San Antonio—almost anywhere but here at home.

Governor Anaya, you want to know what they are saying about you on the Rialto? They are asking: Why did I trust myself to get this guy elected? They are saying: All he really wanted was to use his present office as a leg up to get where he preferred to go.

Why do the Anaya boys have that extra "e" in their names?

There is Toney—pronounced Toney. And there is Toney—pronounced Tommy.

The latter (not the Governor) is the one who reportedly bought the ten-year supply of typewriter ribbons for the Employment Security Division, when such ribbons have a shelf-life of only two years. From whom were they bought? From a close relative.

Luckily, the Highway Department was around to take the otherwise useless portion of the buy off his hands.

Letters to the Editor

DEAR PEOPLE:

The Ruidoso 4-H Club (Ruidoso Rangers) was wondering if you would like to join 4-H? 4-H is very fun and interesting. We do just about anything, to visiting the Care Center, participating in Operation Trash, to our own personal projects.

Be sure and join before May 1st. So you'll get credit on all your projects. We thank all that supported us at the bake sale.

Thank you,

RACHEL GARRETT

Vice President 4-H Club

P.S.: If any questions please call 257-9871.

DEAR EDITOR:

My hat is off to the members of the Historic Review Board as well as members of the Lincoln County Planning and Zoning committee. Their standing by their guns and sincere interest in the historical past of Lincoln is to be commended.

The Sun Belt country is rapidly filling up and if lines aren't drawn, ordinances adhered to and esthetics preserved, poor old Billy the Kid will probably turn over in his grave and wonder if that is the same place where he jumped from the window and fled.

Look at Santa Fe — they have ordinances that are strictly enforced regarding construction. Even "Mr. and Mrs. Safeway" had to adhere to the ordinances when they constructed their "grocery store."

I firmly support these members in their support of the ordinances and know that many others feel the same. There is no such thing as a little pregnant. In this case an ounce of prevention is worth more than a pound of cure. Any variances permitted now are sure to set precedents for future variances.

Sincerely yours,

CHARLES M. GADDA

DEAR EDITOR:

There are some 30,000 children and young adults in this country who are fighting a desperate battle for their lives. Many of us play and work with these individuals and don't even know the daily struggles they go through just to breathe.

To most people, children with cystic fibrosis look healthy. They don't need crutches or wheelchairs. What can't be seen are the ravages the disease causes in their bodies.

CF kills more children than any other inherited disease, and more than polio, diabetes and rheumatic fever combined. Only about half of the kids born with this lung and digestive disease will live to their 20s, and this in itself requires rigorous daily therapy, large amounts of medication and strict nutritional control.

Children with cystic fibrosis don't need our sympathy. They are brave, scrappy fighters.

What they need is money — to fund a lot more new research projects that will eventually lead to positive answers.

All of us in Ruidoso can help through the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation's upcoming Swim-a-Thon, Cree Meadows Country Club — 10:00 A.M. through 2:00 P.M.

Medical programs and sympathy are no longer enough for kids born with CF. They need your money.

Sincerely,

GLADYS M. HJALMQUIST
CHAIRWOMAN

DEAR EDITOR:

I think your issue on Drugs and Alcohol was uncalled for. Get your facts right before you make a fool out of yourself. Don't judge our class with other classes of the future. Its hard enough to get a job but now its going to be twice as hard, thanks to you!!!!

I dare you to come to the school and find the 50% you mentioned in your issue. People can barely afford the clothes on their back, so how the H-E-L-L can they afford to buy cocaine. This is America "Land Of The Free". "Not The Hell hole your saying we are." You are right "This is a One Man's Road" and you my friend are walking alone.

P.S. This is 1983 not 1979 (so get it right).

TODD LOPEZ

DEAR EDITOR:

Do we as parents really know what is going on in the Ruidoso school system and with our children's education? Marti Collins has just recently been released from her duties with the school system. For those of you that don't know Marti, she teaches the enrichment program. Marti is one of the finest teachers this system and our children has ever had. She has a real gift for teaching, and brings out the best in students and shows them their self-worth. Her release, was a total shock to her; no warning, or idea of its coming. She went to school the day after the board meeting only to have a teacher meet her in the parking lot to tell her the news. She approached her superior to receive an explanation and was given none. I think it's a real crime when a fine teacher is let go due to what appears to be a personality conflict. Who suffers? Our kids that's who!

I called Stormy Edwards, President of the school board, to see if another board meeting could be held, where parents could come forth to support Marti. He explained he didn't have the power to call a board meeting, a principal or superintendent would have to ask for a special meeting. I asked Stormy if a reason for Marti's being released was given at the board meeting and he said no, only that the board voted on Mrs. Cole's recommendation. I thought we voted school board members in, to represent parents and teachers. Why then would they vote to fire a teacher without a reason given and only on a recommendation of a principal? How is it we are stuck with bad teachers from time to time and yet teachers such as Marti can be fired on a whim? Isn't it the school board's place to find out all the details on things they vote upon?

I suspect a fear factor operating where parents and other community members I have talked with are afraid to step forward because of possible repercussions. Why don't we have a PTA in Ruidoso? How many of us really know what's going on in the school and with our children's education. I think we as concerned parents owe it to ourselves and to our children to get more involved in school matters and find out what is happening in our school system.

And I feel we have the right to do this without fear of repercussions to our children and their education.

The paradox of this situation is that, we parents are invited to school open house, parent conference days are set aside so that we are directly involved (and encouraged) to know all about the school and our particular child's relationship in that situation. Yet we are asked to not question secretive decisions.

Sincerely,

A concerned parent
KAY R. YEATMAN

DEAR EDITOR:

This letter is in reference to your editorial dated April 18, 1983 on public education.

Regarding paragraphs 1-5, yes, there has been concern for competency in teachers and students. But, nowhere in your editorial do you mention that educators can possess all the technical skills, knowledge, credentials, etc. and yet be unable to relate to a fencepost.

Your last paragraph I consider to be a blow below the belt in light of what has transpired within our own school system within the last 2-3 weeks. Although a generalized statement was made as to statewide refusal to renew certain teachers' contracts I feel there was a direct inference as to incompetence regarding those not rehired within this system. Would a divergent approach to education be considered incompetency? Would conformity be indicative of competency?

Inference can be an insidious political tool, especially when one carries clout within the news media.

Sincerely,
E.A. Coe

Editorial

The Village of Ruidoso grew by 148 acres when the village council voted Tuesday to annex the proposed Grindstone Development.

To the owners and tenants of the as yet unbuilt houses and buildings, we say welcome to the Village of Ruidoso.

To the members of the village council, for their efforts to acquire land for the Grindstone Reservoir, we say congratulations for seeing it through.

The question of whether to annex the Grindstone property in return for an agreement on the sale of the dam site revived some of the same incriminations that flew about before the bond election on the dam project.

Some persons seem to believe the entire project was designed to profit the developer—along with one or two councilmen, perhaps. But the question is, "Who will not profit?" The Realtors will, the insurance men will, the furniture dealers will.

But so should just about every other provider of goods and services—from the big new grocery store to the little bake shop where locals go to drink coffee and talk politics.

Our elected officials sometimes remind us that they were put in office by the voters to make decisions for the village. That can be a cop-out, but it is true.

In the case of Grindstone, the council has done what it thought best for Ruidoso. If all goes according to plan, we will have a nice addition to the village, and a reservoir to store water for the town's needs.—TP

Sense & Nonsense

U.S. Sen. Pete Domenici

When we think of discrimination, we generally tend to think of it in terms of discrimination against minority groups. But in American today, economic discrimination occurs to a group of citizens that represent a majority of our population — women.

Women earn only 59 percent of what men earn, according to recent Bureau of Census statistics, even though most women enter the workforce at an earlier age than most men. Part of this disparity between average wages may be due to the fact that more than three-quarters of the lower-paid, lower-status clerical and service jobs are held by women.

Add this to the discrimination in many retirement plans that penalize women who take time off from their jobs for childbirth or to tend to family responsibilities and it is clear to see that the "fairer sex" has a difficult lot in life.

But an even greater discrimination exists for women who choose not to have paying jobs in the workforce, but instead devote their lives to working in the home, raising a family, and performing all the duties of homemaking.

Pension laws give widows added problems when the working spouse dies before retirement. Under current law, a homemaker can be denied survivor benefits if her spouse dies two years before vesting in the retirement plan.

Furthermore, if a working spouse decides to drop the survivor's benefits, the homemaker, by law, does not even have to be informed by the working spouse that these benefits have been dropped. In many cases she only finds out about it when she is widowed and her claim is denied.

This is why I have joined in cospon-soring Senate Bill 19, the Retirement Equity Act of 1983. This legislation will go a long way toward assuring that pension plans will provide benefits that a plan participant or spouse reasonably expects to be there.

It is not a bill that requires new, additional funding to be placed in civil service, military or private pension plans, but is a way to more equitably distribute these pensions so that women, whether working in the marketplace or sharing in the benefits of a working spouse as a non-salaried homemaker, get their fair share of benefits for their contributions.

The bill changes current law regarding decisions to keep or drop joint and survivor annuities on pension plans. The joint and survivor option will now be automatic unless both spouses agree in writing not to elect this option.

Currently, under many pension and retirement plans, survivor annuities are paid only if a set of specified conditions are met, i.e., "the fine print." Because of these conditions, only 5 to 10 percent of surviving spouses actually receive any benefits. It is no wonder that the fastest growing poverty group in the U.S. is older women. (One study shows that 81 percent of women over 65 not residing with relatives live below the poverty line).

Now, under this legislation, pension plans would be required to pay survivor's benefits to the participant's spouse if the participant is vested and dies before retirement.

Working women have their problems with the pension laws too. Currently the minimum age which working counts toward retirement credit is 25. This bill would lower that age to 21.

It will have a major impact on women since more than 70 percent of them start working right after high school or after college, before age 25, and find that, although they work faithfully for their employer from age 18 to 25, they are not earning any credit toward retirement benefits. This is not fair. The bill would also allow for one year of absence for childbearing without the employee losing credit for prior service if the employee returns to work.

While this bill is not a cure-all for the problems of discrimination faced by women who work in salaried positions and those who are unsalaried homemakers, it is a good start and corrects the most severe of these inequities, the payment of pension and retirement benefits.

It is legislation that has been too long in coming and will only require that payments be made fairly to these women who rightfully deserve these benefits.

Clipped comment

BIG APPLE PRAISE

Outraged comment on New York street crime abounds among foreign visitors.

But now and again there are words of praise, not calumny; witness a New York Times letter from Anne Crookshank of Dublin telling what happened when a teenager grabbed her handbag and ran.

"I was so taken aback I didn't even scream," she wrote, "but all New York came to my aid." Especially "a young man whose powers of acceleration equaled a Derby winner near the finishing post," and who "finally caught the villain." She just wanted to say thank you to "all those kind people." Sometimes the Big Apple's not so bad, after all. — Alamogordo Daily News

Reporter's Round

by Barby Grant

It's always stimulating to congregate with one's professional peers at a convention or seminar and listen to speakers who have reached a place in their careers to which we all aspire.

I attended the New Mexico Press Women convention in Las Cruces recently and came away with loads of ideas about different directions my career could take. I opted to sit in on the sessions which were probably least relevant to my present career situation, out of curiosity about what else is going on in the broad field of communications.

I did attend one session—on newspaper graphics—which was particularly interesting because The News is considering making some changes in its design. The session was interesting also by virtue of the fact that it was conducted by Sheila Levant de Bretteville, who redesigned the Los Angeles Times in 1979-80—admittedly impressive to a green reporter at The Ruidoso News.

De Bretteville, whose background is in book design and who has been written about in an article on "Important U.S. Graphic Designers of the Last Twenty-Five Years," presented some interesting concepts about newspaper design. She admitted that personal preferences and philosophies are involved in one's design decisions—as they inevitably are in any matter—and introduced us to some of her likes and dislikes as far as newspaper design goes.

It was interesting to hear de Bretteville relate the trials she underwent trying to convince some of The Times staff to do something with their pages differently than they were accustomed to—precisely what she had been hired to do. Those personal preferences are often difficult to overcome. I recall having to forget or ignore much of what, in my limited journalism education in college, I had been led to believe was carved into stone.

In newspaper journalism, one quickly learns that the ability to adapt to a publisher's and/or editor's personal style and design preferences is a more marketable skill than being able to lug around a graduate degree from Columbia.

In any case, it was enlightening to be exposed to some of the ideas of an award-winning designer who has achieved certain heights in her field.

The second session I attended at the convention was on crisis public relations. It was led by Marie and Lee Hirst, chairman and president of an Albuquerque public relations firm. This session was interesting to me because of the reputation press people and public relations people have as being adversaries.

Listening to some of the advice to and complaints from public relations persons about dealings with the press was encouraging and informative. The term PR has come to carry with it some pretty negative connotations, whether widely deserved or not. Members of the press often think of PR people as those who are paid by a firm to cover up or gloss over the news the press is trying to get and to obstruct access to the "higher ups."

Several of the points stressed by the Hirsts in their session on public relations served to contradict this image. "Never tell an untruth" was the first principle public relations representatives were advised to adopt. In a crisis situation, the best policy to carry out is "full disclosure as soon as possible," the Hirsts pointed out, and the best rhetoric is the facts.

Other pointers passed along to the mainly PR group were: to convince the firm's chief executive officer that managing information is not a matter of releasing only the information the company wants to release, and that information about the firm is a public right if the company deals with the public in any way.

The Hirsts also made it obvious they are aware that the press wants from PR people only to gain access to the corporate leaders. "Provide information but do not act as company spokesman," the Hirsts advised.

"Avoid establishing an enemy relationship with the press," they also suggested.

Such attitudes among the public relations people of the world could go far toward easing the strains between PR and the press.

But of course there are two sides to every issue. Part of the public relations discussion focused on complaints against members of the press.

One PR representative related the story of a reporter who had been granted an exclusive interview with an Indian tribal council leader concerning an ongoing and extremely volatile situation in which the Indians felt they had been mistreated by the press all along. The reporter showed up for the interview staggering drunk!

Other stories of reporters arriving at specially arranged interviews in faded blue jeans and crumpled sweat-shirts, or totally ignorant of all facts relevant to the discussion, assist in illustrating why relations between press and PR have been less than ideal at times.

It was enlightening to hear "the other side" of things and to learn that members of both professions—press and PR—can aid in breaking down walls between the two by being professionals in whichever field they've chosen.

Other things I learned at the Press Women convention will be discussed in a continuation of this column in Monday's issue. That can serve as a warning or an enticement ...

Sunday payday for Racy Lacy

Racy N Lacy, a filly owned by R. D. Hubbard of Wichita, Kansas, made her second career start in the finale of the $259,913 Sun Country Futurity at Sunland Park on Sunday (April 24) and scored a knockout victory.

Racy N Lacy tore her opponents apart, hitting the wire with a two-length lead under a hand ride from jockey Jerry Nicodemus.

The filly, a daughter of Dash For Cash out of Miss That's That, collected $90,969 and established herself as a force to be reckoned with in upcoming stakes at both Ruidoso Downs and Los Alamitos Race Track.

Racy N Lacy is trained by Don Farris.

Turned loose at just over 3-1 in the wagering, Racy N Lacy returned betting prices of $8.20, $3.20 and $2.80. She clocked the 350 yards (against a slight headwind) in a brisk 17.59 seconds, which wasn't far off the seasonal mark set at 17.54 by the brilliant mare, Denim N Diamonds (also owned by Hubbard).

The amount disbursed in Sunday's finale was $221,965. The Consolation, run a day earlier, handed out $37,947.

Ladybugs Model, off at $4.60 to 1, closed briskly out of seventh place to bag second-place money of $41,586 in the Sun Country finale. The chestnut daughter of Lady Bug's Moon is owned by Bill and Leon Hoyl and Shirley Wood of San Antonio, Texas. The mutual payoffs amounted to $4.60 and $3.80. Steve Harris was up.

Vital Link, a 35-1 outsider, made a good move at the midway point, weakened a bit at the end, and had to settle for third — a head behind Ladybugs Model. Third was worth $21,312 in purse money, $6.60 in the wagering. Vital Link was piloted by Danny Cardoza for Clarence Scharbauer Jr. of Midland, Texas.

Here's how the rest of the field got in, with purse money earned: 4th — Rock A Pass, $11,176; 5th — Raise Your Day, $9,136; 6th — On A Stormy Day, $9,876; 7th — Miss Passera, $9,616; 8th — Pony Rod, $9,356.

The Gold Primer and Bar Forth also qualified for the finale, but both declined. Each earned $8,967 nonetheless.

Racy N Lacy made her racing bow a week earlier in the Sun country trials and finished second to On A Stormy Day as an 8-5 shot. The margin of defeat was only a neck.

In the grand finale, the filly showed no weakening whatsoever. She broke alertly, established a slight lead a few jumps away from the gate, then picked up steam rapidly at the midway point. In the last 50 yards, Racy N Lacy really opened up.

Rock A Pass, the even money favorite, broke in third place, but was unable to improve his status. At the end, Rock A Pass was losing some of his pep. The defeat was his first in four starts. He's owned by Frank J. Hieden of Houston, Texas.

The race was run without incident, except for a minor delay in the starting gate, when Elase Your Glass unseated her rider, Jerry Burgess.

The Sun Country outcome marked another major score for trainer Farris and jockey Nicodemus. On March 27, the two teamed up to capture the finale of the $237,135 West Texas Futurity with the filly, Easily A Twelve. Farris owns Easily A Twelve in partnership with don Keith of Bakersfield, California.

Following the Sun Country triumph with Racy N Lacy, Farris indicated his great satisfaction with the filly, and said a workout, following her qualifying heat, helped sharpen her for the finale. "She's still a little green, and tends to get away slowly from the gate," he said. Jockey Nicodemus said the Sun Country assignment offered no problems whatever for the filly. "She went easily — no trouble at all," he said.

According to Farris, Racy N Lacy will be shipped to Los Alamitos on the West coast for two major stakes engagements out there, then head to Ruidoso Downs for the All-American Futurity trials.

Here's the way the field looked after the Sun Country qualifying heats: On A Stormy Day, 17.76; Rock A Pass, 17.77; The Gold Primer, 17.79; Racy N Lacy, 17.80; Ladybugs Model, 17.83; Vital Link, 17.92; Raise Your Class, 17.98; Pony Rod, 17.99; Bar forth, 18.01; Miss Passera, 18.02.

The Gold Primer was purchased for $19,000 in last summer's All-American Select Quarter Horse Yearling Sale at Ruidoso Downs; Ladybugs Model was purchased for $40,000; Bar Forth was a repurchase for $42,000.

Dolly Dangya dings sprint foes

Dolly Dangya, a filly who had quit badly in her last start, bounced back solidly in Friday's sprint feature at Sunland Park.

This time, Dolly Dangya refused to throw in the towel when put to extreme pressure in the final stages. The roan filly held on ruggedly for a nose win.

Operating as a 3-1 shot in the six-head field, Dolly Dangya returned mutual payoffs of $8, $3 and $2.10. Mike Lidberg was up.

Dolly Dangya negotiated the six furlongs in 1:13 1/5 seconds while logging her second career win in four starts. In her previous outing, she faded into eighth place after vainly trying to set the early pace.

Dolly Dangya is trained by Doyal Roberts for Ella W. Spear of Boerne, Texas.

Consuello, an 8-1 outsider ridden by Vickie Smallwood, dogged Dolly Dangya throughout the stretch but just didn't have enough in reserve. Consuello returned $5.20, $2.40. Damasue, the 9-5 favorite piloted by O. A. Martinez Jr., was unable to overtake the two leaders and finally drifted in third. The show price was $2.40.

Walkin On Water Consolation champ Vickie thrilled to be in Allison

Walkin On Water, a colt looking for his first victory in six trips to the races, registered an upset win in the $37,947 Consolation of the Sun Country Futurity at Sunland Park on Saturday, April 23.

Walkin On Water pulled out a nose victory in the 350-yard dash, covered the distance in 18.02 seconds, and collected $8,681. Larry Byers was up. The top three finishers were separated by a matter of inches.

Sassy Wrangler, a 5-1 shot, closed well at the end but barely missed the victory. An even stronger late attack was launched by the 7-5 favorite, Jets Joy Deck. That one would have grabbed the victory if the finish line had been another jump away.

Walkin On Water, by Angel's Jet Rail out of Lova Native, is owned by Fredda Draper and Stephen Hoyl of Ruidoso. Carl Draper is the trainer. Dashes Eagle, a 36-1 shot, was the first out of the gate in the seven-head field. But Walkin On Water, lunging out of the rail post, quickly assumed command and was about a half-length in the clear at the halfway point. From that point on, it was a case of desperately trying to hang on.

Walkin On Water apparently benefitted from some severe bumping at the start. The chain reaction was set up when Rosy Bug, a 7-2 shot, veered out sharply on the first stride and bumped Jets Joy Deck. The latter, in turn, was shoved into the 2-1 shot, Ichi Nell Pac.

Ichi Nell Pac, who'd broken a bit sluggishly, lost all chance for a comeback when she was bumped by Jets Joy Deck.

Walkin On Water returned mutual prices of $25.60, $10 and $3. he came out of the consolation with career earnings of $13,304. Sassy Wrangler, owned by A. Bruce Green and J. Phillip Patterson of Purcell, Oklahoma, earned $6,007 and refunded $5.80, $3.20. Jimmie Hunt was up.

Jets Joy Deck, ridden by Joe Martinez for Leon Howard of Caddo, Oklahoma, banked $4,630. The show price: $2.40. The rest of the field got in this way: 4th — Power Elite, earning $4,340; 5th — Dashes Eagle, $4,051; 6th — Rosy Bug, $3,472; 7th — Ichi Nell Pac, $3,183.

There were three scratches: Mulberry Mist, Meganette and Jest Real Easy. Each earned $1,169.

Here's the way they qualified for the Consolation: Ichi Nell Pac, 18.02; Jest Real Easy, 18.03; Sassy

Wrangler, 18.05; Meganette, 18.05; Jets Joy Deck, 18.08; Mulberry Mist, 18.09; Power Elite, 18.10; Walkin On Water, 18.11; Rosy Bug, 18.12; Dashes Eagle, 18.16.

BY MARK GORDON
Vickie Smallwood finally has a mount in the Riley Allison Futurity. "It's a big thrill to have a mount in a major race like the Riley Allison," said the 21-year-old blonde-haired rider from New Boston, Texas. "I've ridden in some big races, but never the Riley Allison."

Smallwood qualified with Classy Loom, who won the fourth Allison trial race on April 15 at Sunland Park. A repeat of that opening race victory would make Classy Loom a potent factor in Sunday's 20th running of the race honoring the founder and major force behind Sunland Park.

The five-furlong sprint offers the winner a purse of $156,852.51 from the gross purse of $323,705. It will be the second-richest race since Sunland Park started racing in 1959.

The Riley Allison is one of the nation's first major stakes races for two-year-old thoroughbreds. It is among the nation's five richest races for juvenile thoroughbreds and carries significant impact because of its early date.

Nevertheless, Smallwood is excited about Classy Loom's ability.

"I've taken him to the track in the mornings and he ran really good," she explained. "He ran a lot better than I thought he would. He was still pretty green. The first time I hit him, he ducked in pretty bad, but luckily there was nobody near us for him to bother."

"I tried to save as much ground as I could. I still had lots of horse left at the end," she said.

The race was the career debut for the Loom colt. The Texas-bred speedster started into ninth post position in the fourth trial. He broke in the middle of the nine-horse pack, but quickly assumed a challenging position from the outside.

He was just a head behind pacesetter Will Be Stunning with a quarter-mile remaining and soon took a short lead heading the far turn. Classy Loom zoomed to a three-length lead entering the stretch run and gradually increased his victory margin to four and one-fourth lengths in an easy trip through the stretch.

His final time of :58 3-5 could have been much better had he been challenged through the final furlong. "I thought he had a good shot to win if he didn't mess up too much," said the popular jockey. "I was really surprised he ran that fast. I didn't know if he'd be fit enough, since he didn't have a race before the trial. Some of those other horses had one or two races before the trials."

Trained by Bob E. Arnett, Classy Loom is owned by the Preston Farms of Burkburnett, Texas.

Classy Loom appears to be another in a string of Loom offspring owned by the Preston Farms. Last summer at Ruidoso Downs, Arnett trained such outstanding Loom horses as Jiltaloom, Sundays Payday and Pride Of Loom.

The toughest foes for Classy Loom appear to be Triple Sec and Go Exclusive Go.

Triple Sec is a royally-bred Florida-bred colt who is by Tri Jet out of a Duck Dance mare, Lovely Pond. He was bred by the well known and respected Hobeau Farm.

Triple Sec scored a romping 10-length victory in :57 2-5, the fastest of the nine Riley Allison trial victors. He had three prior races at Delta Downs in Vinton, Louisiana, before arriving at Sunland Park.

Trained by Tommie T. Morgan, Triple Sec is owned by Stanley M. Beard and Carroll Glaser of Brenham, Texas.

Go Exclusive Go has swept to two five and one-half length victories in his first two career starts at Sunland Park. The colt is by Plenty Old out of an Exclusive Native mare, Go Exclusively.

He defeated maidens over five furlongs on April 2 and then scored his easy victory while being restrained by jockey O. A. Martinez Jr. through the final furlong. Go Exclusive Go was clocked in :58 3-5.

Trained by William F. Leach, Go Exclusive Go is owned by Elwood J. and John F. Meyer of Wharton, Texas.

The Riley Allison will be the highlight of Sunday's closing day of the 85-day Sunland Park Race season. Post time will be 1 p.m.

Sunland Park Hoofbeats

by MARK GORDON
FEATURE MAN CONTINUED one of the more amazing streaks this season at Sunland Park. The eight-year-old Trickle Feature gelding won Friday's seventh race at 400 yards, marking the seventh straight race he has either won or finished second. In the three runnerup positions he achieved, he was only a head behind the winner on each trip. He took Friday's race for $6,250 claimers by a head, marking his fourth win in the last five outings. His remarkable skein started with a runnerup spot on January 29, another second on February 5, victories on February 20 and March 12, a second on April 3 and victories on April 15 and on Friday. He was a waging favorite on only two occasions. Jockey J. P. Maxwell rode him for the first two seconds and veteran rider Gary Sumpter has been aboard for the past five appearances. Feature Man is owned and trained by James H. Gubanski of Anthony, New Mexico.

ONLY ONE WEEK REMAINS in the 85-day Sunland Park race season. The final three days of racing will be on Friday, Saturday and Sunday with 13-race programs each day. Post time each day will be 1 p.m.

Racing in Southern New Mexico will resume on Friday, May 6, with the start of the 74-day meeting at Ruidoso Downs.

THE REVISED PURSE SCHEDULE for Sunday's closing-day feature, the 20th running of the Riley Allison Futurity, shows the race honoring the founder and major force behind the early days of Sunland Park will be the second richest in the track's history. The gross purse of $323,705.01 only trails last year's Riley Allison when the total amount distributed hit $331,404. The winner of last year's Riley Allison will collect $156,852.51. The race matches the nine winners from the nine trial races held on April 15 and three second-place finishers over five furlongs. It is one of the nation's premier events for two-year-old thoroughbreds and because of its significance receives national attention. Past Riley Allison winners have had extremely successful careers and have been rated among the nation's top thoroughbreds.

THIS WILL BE THE FINAL SET of

Hoofbeats for the 85-day Sunland Park meeting. Hoofbeats will resume on Sunday, May 8, for the first weekend of the 74-day meet at Ruidoso Downs.

CROW'S REQUEST SET a seasonal fastest time when he roared to a 1:04 clocking while winning Sunday's ninth race at five and one-half furlongs. The eight-year-old Jerry Crow gelding took a one-length decision over favored Tonkawa charger. The time snapped the previous best this season of 1:04 2/5 held jointly by Miss Aggie Lue, who set that reading on Saturday and Apalachee Chief who did it on November 28. Crow's Request was ridden by O. A. Martinez Jr. for trainer Simon Buechler and owner Gordon B. Howell of Sunland Park.

WILLY P. CAN TIED the season's fastest six and one-half furlong reading when he scampered to a one and one-fourth length victory in Saturday's 10th race. The four-year-old Lord Durham gelding was clocked in 1:17 1/5 equalling the time set by Stormy Sailing on January 30 and Five R's Tequila on February 12. Ridden by Joe Martinez, Willy P. Can is trained by J. Michael Welch for owners Kenneth Braden and Trully Pratt of El Paso, Texas. As the $110-1 waging favorite, Willy P. Can returned $6.20 for his popular triumph.

TRAINER CLIFFORD C. LAMBERT saddled three winners on Saturday's program. He started with Crooked Ruler ($8.40) in the second for owner Martha M. Thompson of Weatherford, Texas, took the sixth on Mister Sexton ($7.80) for owners Troy A. McCarty and T. G. Sexton of Midland, Texas, and then captured the seventh on Andy Handy ($9.40) for owner Roland J. Vaughn of Odessa, Texas. Pedro Benitez rode Crooked Ruler and Mister Sexton while F. O. Martinez was on Andy Handy. It was the first time this season Lambert has had three winners on one day's card.

PHILQUILLO AND HANDY DANDY combined for the season's biggest daily double combination when they captured the first two races on Sunday. Philquillo won the opener at six and one-half furlongs and returned $126.00 as a 62-1 outsider while Handy Andy took the second and paid $11.00 as a 9-2 third waging choice. The 3-2 daily double paid $600.80, bettering the season's previous biggest daily double of $376.40 on January 30 combining Swoons Mood and Binnie Blue. Pedro Benitez rode Philquillo while Mike Lidberg was on Handy Dandy.

THE HORSEWOMEN UNITED have selected the barn of LaRae Lovell as April's Barn-Of-The-Month at Sunland Park. The award is given each month to one of the ground's top barns. The blanket is furnished by the Double B Ranch of Anthony, New Mexico.

JOCKEY O. A. MARTINEZ won two consecutive races on Sunday's program. He started with Textan ($8.60) in the eighth for trainer Barry H. Germany and then won the ninth on Crow's Request ($9.40) for trainer Simon J. Buechler. It was the second time this season he has accomplished that feat.

RUNNING BUCKET, second in last year's Riley Allison Futurity at Sunland Park and the Norgor Thoroughbred Futurity at Ruidoso Downs, won his first race since last September when he tallied a convincing two and one-fourth length win in Sunday's $47,544.89 Riley Allison Derby at one mile. The three-year-old Insubordination colt skipped to a 1:38 3/5 timing, just one-fifth second off the seasonal mark in his easy win.

JOCKEY MIKE LIDBERG won three races on Sunday's program. He started with Handy Dandy ($11.00) in the second for trainer Bob E. Arnett, took the fifth on Holmeless ($4.80) for owner-trainer Jim J. Cappellucci and then won the twelfth on Wits Nurse ($6.00) for trainer Les H. Carter.

SUNDAY'S HANDLE, spurred by interest whipped up by both the Riley Allison Derby and Sun Country Futurity, soared up to $478,073. That was the second-highest of the meeting.

CLASSY LOOM, with Vickie Smallwood aboard, carries a 4 1/4-length lead across the finish line in a Riley Allison trial race on April 15 at Sunland Park. Classy Loom will compete in Sunday's 20th running of the Riley Allison Futurity, Sunland's featured attraction.
