Village working on water quality

by BILLY ALLSTETTER News Staff Writer

"No one is more vitally interested in delivering good quality water than the Village of Ruidoso," village manager Jim Hine said Friday.

Two confirmed cases of giardiasis and more than a hundred other cases of a mysterious gastrointestinal disease have focused concern on the water supply in Ruidoso. Hine, assistant village manager Frank Potter and water quality technician Becky Durham said they are working with the Environmental Improvement Division (EID) and planning their own separate investigation to determine if the giardia parasite is in the Ruidoso water.

"We are going to find out if we have giardia in the water system," said Potter.

Durham said a specialist in the disease will be coming to Ruidoso to test the water for the parasite. She said she learned of the specialist when a New Mexico State University professor called her after reading about the two confirmed giardia cases in Ruidoso. He suggested that one of his graduate students who is studying the disease come to Ruidoso, said Durham.

Giardia is a parasite which causes diarrhea, cramps, nausea and lowgrade fever. Although it can be transmitted in a variety of manners, the vast majority of cases are contracted through drinking water, said Durham. Durham said EID employees have told her that it takes at least 1,000 gallons to find any giardia parasites and that even 5,000 gallons sometimes produce no results. Reported cases of the mysterious gastrointestinal disease peaked around August 20 and have since dropped off considerably. There are still some cases being reported and EID epidemiologist Jeff Sheyka said he has heard from doctors that most of the current cases are people suffering relapses.

Durham said the village is determined to do whatever it can to make sure Ruidoso's drinking water is safe.

The EID has focused its efforts on testing stool samples from sick people. So far about 14 people have been tested, with two tests showing positive results for giardia and the other 12 showing no signs of bacteria or parasites.

EID is looking closely at the water but has not confirmed that it is the giardia parasite that has infected more than one hundred people in Ruidoso area.

In the course of its investigation, EID has become concerned about the Upper Canyon water treatment plant. Water coming out of the plant recently has been more turbid than is allowed on a regular basis.

EID has recommended that the village install a turbidimeter that will turn off the plant when the Rio Ruidoso becomes muddy after a storm.

Potter said the village is more than willing to follow any EID recommendations or requirements.

"We are the ones who called them in," Hine emphasized.

Other than turbidity, the village is complying with all requirements of the Safe Drinking Water Act, said Durham.

She said she has tested water all

(LTC) Thursday elected officers, established terms and set a new tone of cooperation for the future

Committee members elected Archer Wilson chairman of the committee and Richard Sandoval vicechairman during their meeting at village hall Joan Bailey will be secretary and Rod Adamson treasurer

Since no terms had been established for new or existing members, everyone drew lots to determine the length of their terms. Adamson, Wilson, Jim Biggs, Clark Carpenter and Joann Farris all have terms that expire June 30, 1984. Bailey, Sandoval, Linda Flack and Ed Hyman all have terms that will end in June 1985

Hyman has said he is resigning from the committee and has not attended the last two meetings. He has not, however, notified the council of his resignation in writing, and is officially a member of the committee Farris, who was not at Thursday's meeting, has also indicated she plans to resign from the committee. Slover Cape has delivered his resignation to the village council

Anyone who replaces resigning members will assume their term LTC members are eligible to serve two consecutive terms but must resign before serving a third consecutive term

Biggs asked the committee what the LTC's duty and authority is concerning village advertising funds allocated to the Chamber of Commerce

> Leon Eggleston, village clerk and ex-officio LTC member, said LTC has authority over the Chamber to determine how advertising funds are spent LTC presents the advertising to the council for approval, said Eggleston If the Chamber disagrees with LTC, they can present their case to the council.

Wilson said he hopes to avoid conflict over the advertising budget by establishing the practice of having LTC officers sit in with the Chamber advertising committee when the advertising budget is determined

"I think the secret of the thing is to work with them in the formation of the program," said Wilson

Wilson expressed pleasure that the new committee members appeared willing to work together so well, and said that LTC meetings under his chairmanship will not degenerate into the shouting matches for which they have been notorious in the past.

Committee members briefly discussed the recent meeting at the Inn of the Mountain Gods concerning a cooperative promotional effort between Ruidoso, Ruidoso Downs and the Mescalero Apache Tribe. The group agreed that very little in the way of productive results had come out of the meeting and that smaller groups might be more effective.

Wilson noted that a large meeting was necessary to make sure everyone was included in the beginning stages and no one felt things were being done behind their backs

Wilson said the individual govern ing bodies should get together to decide if they are willing to contribute funds to a cooperative promotional effort. After that the groups can decide the structure of the effort together, he suggested

Wilson said the idea is far from dead, but that it will take a year or two before any cooperative advertising can be done.

The committee also decided it will have an agenda for each meeting Anyone wanting to appear before LTC must make a request to any of the committee members by the Tuesday before the meeting

LTC established a regular meeting time of 1 p m on the second Wednesday of each month The committee will meet at village hall. The committee will hold a special meeting Wednesday, September 28, to review the Chamber of Commerce advertising budget

Chlorine residuals are high and there is no evidence of bacteria, she reported. Her tests do not include any for giardia.

Durham did not know Friday when the NMSU giardia specialist would be in town.

Robbery suspects apprehended here

Ruidoso Police officers Thursday surrounded a house in the Upper Canyon, then arrested two men wanted for armed robbery in Fort Worth, Texas.

Randy Rapp, 27, and Michael Skaggs, 26, surrendered to police after officers threatened to teargas the house and unleash the police dog. "Duke." The two men are now being held in the Lincoln County Jail, awaiting extradition to Texas. They are wanted for the robbery at gunpoint of $550 from a man in Fort Worth on September 15.

Ruidoso Police officers Michael Lovelace, Truman McBride and John Layher approached a house at 1124 Main Road after the Fort Worth Police Department gave them a phone number of a house where the suspects were supposedly hiding.

Lovelace said he got the address of the house from Continental Telephone Company of the West. The house belongs to Dr. Murray Skaggs, father of the suspect Skaggs, said Lovelace. Lovelace said Layher saw a man watching television through the back door. When he knocked on the door, the man ducked out of sight, said Lovelace. When McBride knocked on the front door no one answered, and no one answered a telephone call from the Ruidoso dispatcher, said Lovelace.

Lovelace said he then called for additional officers with tear gas and the canine Duke. Officers gave the suspects five minutes to come out of the house.

"Rather than get burned and bit. why don't you come out?" Lovelace paraphrased Lieutenant Dave Pfeffer's warning to the men.

The two men gave up and came out of the house after a minute and a half had elapsed.

Farmers oppose Site B

L. E. "Pete" Davis, president of the New Mexico Farm and Livestock Bureau, Friday sent Interior Secretary James Watt a telegram opposing the construction of a Ruidoso airport on the agricultural research area on Fort Stanton Mesa.

Davis sent the telegram after a board of directors meeting during which the directors unanimously reaffirmed the bureau's opposition to the airport at Site B.

"We urge you to request the city of Ruidoso to explore other viable alternatives for a new airport, instead of disrupting and destroying the ongoing research at the proposed Site B location on the Fort Stanton Mesa," stated the telegram.

Local officials have wanted for years to replace the existing airport because of its location in the middle of residential neighborhoods and dangerous approach into a mountain valley.

New Mexico State has opposed the construction of an airport at the proposed Site B because they claim agricultural research will be disrupted by the airport. Site B is on the university's experimental ranch that is leased from the Bureau of Land Management.

Secretary Watt is supposed to make a decision soon on an application for transfer of the land from the Bureau of Land Management to the Federal Aviation Administration.

I came, I saw, I tasted. Visitors to Saturday's State Chili Cookoff at the Ruidoso Downs Race Track parking lot could have added one more thing to their paraphrase of Caesar.

"I had a good time."

Thirty-three chili-cooking teams vied for chili and showmanship awards in the event, and the quality of competition was high in both categories –

That "chili heads" take their chili seriously was evidenced by Nancy Sullins' claim that each cook has about $50 worth of ingredients in the pot.

Airline would require costly changes

Nancy Sullins of Las Cruces wears the label, "Chill Helpa.

by BILLY ALLSTETTER News Staff Writer

A Texas-based airline wants to operate a commercial flying service into the Ruidoso airport, but village officials are skeptical of the plan because of the costs involved.

Herm Hodges, director of operations for Wise Airlines, wants to carry passengers from Midland to Ruidoso in a Twin Otter DH-6 propjet beginning this winter.

"We think Ruidoso could offer us an untapped market," said Hodges Friday.

Wise Airlines flies three times daily between San Angelo and Midland, Texas. The airline has been operating only since September 1, but Hodges said he has plenty of experience in mountain flying.

Hodges, who would be one of the pilots flying into Ruidoso, said he has over 5,000 hours of flying experience. He said he flew with Rocky Mountain Airways into Aspen, Colorado, for two years.

Hodges pointed out the Twin Otter propjet is suited to mountain airports because of its ability to take off and land in short distances.

He said he hopes to operate a flight leaving Midland at about 5 p.m. to take advantage of people leaving after work. Leaving at that time would bring the plane into Ruidoso after dark during the short days of winter.

In order to fly into Ruidoso at night, Hodges said he would need runway lights, a microwave guidance system and an amendment to the village ordinance banning night flights in Ruidoso.

Hodges said he hopes to meet with the village fathers on October 1 to discuss the idea. He said he will have figures on ticket prices, possible schedules and prices for improvements.

Hodges said he wants the village to pay for the microwave system and the runway lights.

"I think the city should have a stake in it," said Hodges.

That stake will cost close to $100,000, according to Ruidoso airport manager Tim Morris. Morris was skeptical that the village would be willing to invest that much money in an airport it is hoping to abandon within a short time.

Ruidoso is hoping to gain permission to build a regional airport on Fort Stanton Mesa. That airport would be large enough to accommodate a variety of airlines Morris believes will be interested in flying into the area.

He said there have been similar proposals by other airlines which have not been accepted.

Assistant village manager Frank Potter said there have been three or four services that have flown passengers into Ruídoso in the past. But because the village would not install lights or a microwave system. the airlines had to fly during the day. There were not enough daytime passengers to support the services and they eventually stopped, said Potter.

Two-year losing streak ends as junior Warriors defeat Tularosa

by GARY BROWN News Sports Writer

A drought of over a year came to an end Saturday afternoon, and the Ruidoso High School junior varsity football team is mighty happy about

The Warriors edged visiting Tularosa 14-13 to even their record at 1-1, and also broke an eight-game losing streak that extended back to the lead. Williamson ran for 60 yards on a quick pitch late in the period for the second touchdown.

From then on, the Ruidoso defense took over.

Tularosa scored its first touchdown on a 45-yard run by David Sheppard late in the second quarter. The extra point kick was good, but Ruidoso took a 14-7 edge into the locker room at halftime.

There wasn't any scoring by either team in the third period, but Ruidoso had two drives of over 30 yards. Easter, Williamson and George Gresham ripped off several good gains.

Tularosa tried for a two-point conversion, but the Wildcat guarterback threw a pass to the sidelines that went over the attended receiver's head.

Thus, the Warriors kept their onepoint edge. But the fireworks weren't over yet.

Ruidoso got one first down on the following series, but then had to punt. Tularosa took the ball on its 21, with three minutes remaining and enough time to score the winning points.

Warrior gridders fall to powerful Portales

by GARY BROWN News Sports Writer

A big, physical Portales team handed the Ruidoso High School varsity football team a 33-13 defeat on the Warriors' field Friday night.

Ruidoso, now 1-3 on the season, battled the Rams evenly for one quarter before the vistors took command in the second period.

Portales scored its first touchdown after a 40-yard drive early in the second period.

The big play of the drive occurred when quarterback Steve Brown hit tight end Ed Loehr for 18 yards to put the ball on the Warrior 35. From there, the Rams scored in seven plays with fullback Paul Pacheco ramming over from the five. The extra point kick was good and Portales held a 7-0 lead with 8:23 left in the first half.

The Warriors failed to make a first down on the next series and had to punt.

Portales took over on its 29 and drove 71 yards in 10 plays for its second touchdown.

Brown hit Loehr twice for 33 yards to spark the drive. Junior Mark Poynor scored from 14 yards out, breaking a couple of tackles.

The extra point was again good and Portales took a 14-0 advantage into the locker room at halftime.

Portales added its third touchdown with 5:22 left in the third period on a five-yard run by Pacheco. With the extra point, the Rams led 21-0.

But the Warriors struck back quickly.

The kickoff went to sophomore Russell Easter at his 15. Easter got a couple of blocks, cut to his left and ran down the sidelines 85 yards for the touchdown.

Ruidoso then tried for the two-point conversion, with Easter hitting Mike Williamson on a short pass a yard short of the goal line. However, the Warrior sophomore was stopped inches short of the goal.

Poyner added the fourth Portales touchdown early in the fourth quarter on a 30-yard run. The extra point kick Braves fall to Hagerman was wide and the Rams led 27-6 with 10:30 left in the contest. But the Warriors weren't going to give up without a fight. Getting the ball at its own 40, Ruidoso scored in three plays. Senior Cyrus Simmons took a handoff from Easter at the Portales 48 and ran through a host of Ram tacklers for the score. Gary Gregson kicked the extra point and the Portales lead was cut to 14 points, 27-13.

Portales scored the final touchdown of the contest with five seconds left, as Poyner banged over from the three.

Despite the loss. Warrior head coach Darrel Stierwalt felt his team played well against the powerful Rams.

"We played well at times," he said. "Portales is a good, tough team, very comparable to Lovington (which beat the Warriors 29-0 in the season opener).

"I felt the whole defense played well. Jesse Reynolds at linebacker and Kevin Jameson at defensive end did particularly well. We got fooled a Ruidoso gained 111 yards rushing and completed three of six passes for 32 yards.

"All the kids played really well," said Warrior coach Jim Ramsey, "We got a little sloppy in the second Easter scored on a 70-yard option run to give the Warriors an early game.

'Ask almost any football fan what is it infamous) personalities in the happens on Monday night, and he (or she) will say, "that's when Dandy Don, Frank and The Mouth do their thing on television."

"Their thing" is Monday Night Football on ABC-TV. Don Meredith, Frank Gifford, Howard Cosell (The Mouth) and now O. J. Simpson bring a live entertainment show to millions of National Football League (NFL) fans across the country.

Monday Night Football is more than just a game, it can also be a comedy show.

Monday Night Football is in its 14th season and I still enjoy ABC's introduction before each game, and the broadcasters' sense of humor-or in Howard's case the lack of it.

Meredith, Gifford and The Mouth have been with the series since its inception, but Simpson came on this year in place of former Minnesota Viking quarterback Fran Tarkenton.

The four broadcasters have vastly different personalities, which generally makes for an interesting evening.

Gifford is the epitome of the competent professional. The team's play-byplay man, he seldom makes a wisecrack and keeps the viewers in touch with the game. That isn't any small achievement considering he has to work with Dandy Don and The Mouth.

I enjoy Meredith the most. He plays the role of the "good ole boy" from the country and keeps the humor flowing.

Over" when the outcome of the game is no longer in doubt. That routine has gotten to be a bit tiresome, but Meredith makes up for it with his -"country jokes" and relaxing style.

country. The Mouth is renowned for his arrogance and a knack for putting his foot in his mouth.

Cosell is notably lacking in real humor, but just the fact he has become a national symbol of arrogance and hype makes him a humorous figure.

Simpson hasn't been with the Monday Night team long enough for me to judge him, but he seems to be a bit tense and hesitant in making observations.

Still, he's better than Tarkenton. The ex-Viking quarterback added nothing to the team, and it seemed whenever he was on the schedule the evening lost a bit of its fun.

Simpson has a habit of alluding to situations that happened to him in the past, like when he played football at Galileo High School in San Francisco in the mid 1960s.

I keep hoping he'll bring up a game he played in while in junior college.

Simpson's City College of San Francisco played my old junior college to a 19-19 tie. The Juice ran for almost 500 yards on a wet field, but most of the yardage was backwards, lateral or called back by penalties.

The Monday Night Football schedule also includes some Thursday Night and Sunday Night contests. So NFL fans get a chance to see football during the course of the week.

A lot of people think the Monday Night Football setup is too "Hollywood;" with not enough atten-tion spent on the game itself.

But generally it comes off well. Gif-Meredith also sings "The Party's ford keeps the audience informed. while Meredith and The Mouth usually give their comments at the right time to give the fans a laugh.

Ruidoso High School varsity volleyball coach Pixie Arthur got a chance to look at most of her players and picked up a win in the process as the Warriors topped visiting Hondo Thursday night.

The Warriors took the first set 15-6, but played reserves in the second set and lost 15-13. However, Arthur put her starters back into the match in the third set and they took a 15-10 victory.

"Our reserves played real strong," said Arthur. "This was helpful in getting ready for district play."

Byron Lane Treas

It was especially comforting to see so many devoted friends and loved ones at the grave side services held for Byron Lane Treas, last Thursday morning at the Mescalero cemetery.

Services were under the direction of Father Justin of Saint Joseph's Mission, Mescalero.

Byron was a veteran of the Korean conflict, and members of American Legion Posts from Mescalero and Ruidoso formed an Honor Guard and firing squad.

From Mescalero were: Martin Luther Enjade, Delbert Mendez, John Fossum, Curtis Johnson, Dominic Peso, Donavan Bigmouth, and Victor Randall.

From Ruidoso, Merrill Peet, Don Rawhouser, Romeo Klein, and Daniel Storm.

Native Apache Sacred Chants, and Christian Hymns sung in the Apache language were sung by Nathaniel Chee, his brother, Clifford, and Victor Randall.

They closed with "When The Roll is Called Up Yonder", sung in the mellow and resonant tones of the Apache language. It was a special blessing to hear this old favorite hymn sung in the ancient language of the Apache.

Among the several talks made by those present was a very sincere message by Nathaniel Chee, in which he gave thanks for the devotion of all those who came to pay their fond respects, and encouraged them to love one another and follow the teachings of Christ Our Lord.

Many especially beautiful floral offerings were placed lovingly on the grave, and several children placed bouquets of the wild flowers which everywhere blossomed, adding a special charm to the sacred occasion.

The American flag which draped the casket was presented to Byron's son, Byron Jr. by John Fossum. We thank all those who helped so generously in this ceremony which has sent our dear friend, Byron, "On His Way Rejoicing" to meet Our Lord in Heaven.

Amelia Naiche

The Dutch Reform Church at Mescalero was filled to overflowing early last Thursday afternoon for the services of Amelia Naiche, eightyfive-year-old descendant of famous Apache Chieftains, and long-time faithful worker for the benefit of her people and for Our Lord,

The Reverend Robert Zapp, who formerly was minister at the Reform Church on the Reservation, came from Andrews, Texas, especially to be in charge of services.

The Reverend Mr. Zapp noted the changes which have come over the Reservation since his ministry there. He said he remembered the hardships, the cold winters, the long travel from place to place, the hunger, oftentimes. However, he said, the Mescaleros, and especially, Amelia Naiche, were cheerful through it all, and seemed to thrive upon all the struggle against adversity.

"All the blessings we have today," The Reverend Mr.' Zapp said, "are built upon the Christian life and work of people like Amelia."

And he asked,

"What are we building today in way of a solid foundation for those who will come after us? What are we passing on that will honor the great legacy given us by Amelia and people like her? He called upon his listeners to honor this great lady in following in her footsteps.

The church choir sang several Hymns in Apache and also joined with the congregation in singing "Amazing Grace" and "When The Roll is Called Up Yonder."

One of Amelia's favorites, "How Great Thou Art" was beautifully sung as a solo by Dorothy Kazhe.

At the Mescalero Cemetery, Hymns were sung in Apache from a book compiled by the Dutch Reform Church, by Nathaniel Chee, and Berle and Arlis Kanseah.

Nathaniel made a talk thanking everyone for being at the services, and said that Amelia had often given him good advice which he had taken to heart and done his best to follow. He said that life is full of temptations to the one following the Christian life, but that these must be overcome, and that our prayers and the prayers of ones like Amelia can help us overcome all temptation. A feature of the service was a talk by one of Amelia's long-time friends, Geraldine Domeah, who had come from Oklahoma along with others to be at the services.

Geraldine urged her listeners to take the advice of their elders-that it is valuable. That all should love one another and help each other as they did in the old days. She urged all to be especially kind to their children and bring them up in the right way. Amelia's son, Silas Cochise, gave a tribute to his mother in which he said our mother is our closest kin, that his mother had been all that a mother can be, inspiring him always to lead a Christian life. He urged his listeners to appreciate their mothers and do every kindness for them while there is time. He said that he felt lonely at the passing of his mother, but that her spirit in Heaven will uphold and guide him always.

On coming home through the reservation, through the gold and purple Autumn flowers on every hand, and the magnificent forests in their best green, the same inspiration reached my soul as the first time, years ago, when Mother and Lynn and Joe, and Mark and myself first drove down from the summit. And the enchanted spell of the mountains of the Reservation blended with a renewed admiration and fondness for these stalwart and devout people,

Then on the way home I stopped at the great champion and spokesman of the Apaches, Eve Ball,

Eve reminded me that Amelia was not only the daughter of Naiches, but also the grand-daughter of both Cochise and Mangas Colorado, famous Apache leaders. Eve said she remembered that Amelia often said how much she appreciated the safety, peace, and opportunities of the Reservation—especially when she remembered her mother telling of running and hiding from the Cavalry.

So now, after the years, "The Great Gulf Fixed" of misunderstanding and mistrust is fixd no more-spanned by a great bridge, fashioned by many builders, of appreciation, understan-ding and admiration.

George Richard Shoemaker

A spirit of fond appreciation and Christian love abided at Ruidoso Presbyterian Church last Friday afternoon, as friends and loved ones gathered for services for George Richard Shoemaker.

The Reverend Winston Presnall said that the church had greatly treasured George in many ways, not the least of which was his working on the yard and bringing the flowers Sunday after Sunday.

His son Dave gave a personal tribute saying his father was a "loving father, husband and friend."

Frank Potter a long-time friend also offered a sincere tribute, saying George was a very great addition to the citizenry of Ruidoso.

Special music by the choir included "Be Still and Know".

Hymns sung by the choir and con-gregation were: "Immortal, Invisi-ble, God Only Wise" and "For All The Saints Who From Their Labors Rest."

George was everything a Patriotic. American and Christian Gentleman could be.

Having heard that I had been back to Alaska, he told how he had gone to Scotland with his devoted wife, Doris. He was greatly impressed with the land of his forefathers, and was especially glad to see the heather, one of Scotlands natural charms, long famous in history, song, and story. George will hold a special spot in our hearts, always; and we all are happy that he has gone on to be welcomed in Heaven by Our Lord.

DEAR EDITOR:

Frequently, good things people do get lost in the maze of everyday living. There is a thing which, probably, many Ruldosoans who lived here in the 50s didn't know.

Ben Sanchez was a member of the original hospital board. There came a time when the other board members decided there was no way the hospital could make it financially; and they

it. Chase advised him if he would refuse to resign, they couldn't close the hospital; and the County Commissioners could appoint new boardmembers to replace those who resigned.

So, because Ben Sanchez stood firm, Ruidoso has enjoyed uninterrupted hospital service from the day the Ruidoso Hondo General Hospital

Editorial

The question Ruidoso voters must ask themselves between now and November 8 is; will increasing the size of the village council by two members give. the village a more effective governing body?

It will be interesting to see what sort of political campaign develops as those who favor the increase and those who oppose the increase attempt to influence the voters.

It has been argued that a larger council would provide greater representation to the citizens.

Some cities in New Mexico are divided into wards-with councilmen or trustees representing their own part of town. If greater representation is what is sought, shouldn't Ruidoso consider this type of arrangement?

Another thing the voters must consider is whether they want to recall the present council, since that is the effect a "yes" vote on the council increase guestion will have.

We are not saying at this point whether the council should or should not be recalled—we just want to spell out the issues.

For the time being, we want to remind those Ruidoso voters who are not presently registered (the county clerk can tell you if you are) that they must register by 5 p.m. Tuesday, September 27 in order to vote November 8.

The News will do its best to provide information to help voters make this very important decision.—TP

Inside the Capitol

by Fred McCaffrey

SANTA FE-New Mexico's a big state, and it's hard to make all its needs balance.

It would be easy for a state official, shuttling back and forth between the capitol and Albuquerque, greener than usual this year, to miss the urgency of those in other parts of the state whose lands have been burned by the worst drought in the last half of this century.

An Agriculture Department headquartered in the south, where spreads are large, might not listen well to the problems of the small farmer in the north who runs only a handful of sheep.

And those who make their living from the land could easily feel their views are not being heeded in an administration whose major figures come directly from the environmental movement.

Three problems in balancing views and needs, all of which are harsh realities in New Mexico right now.

There are complaints, for instance, that state government has not been sufficiently responsive to the needs of that part of New Mexico which has been so hard hit by lack of rainfall.

"Every time those 'greenies' around Toney Anaya fancy they've found another conspiracy at WIPP," says one caller to this writer, "he holds a big press conference for all the TV cameras. But when we have a problem that's real and current, all we get is a letter from him to Washington, where he's better known for denouncing everyone than for anything else."

Some agriculturalists even think they see some connection between a ho-hum attitude toward their problems and the Governor's displeasure with Bill Stephens, the one Cabinet member he did not personally choose.

As for those people in the north, tells us there is nothing the state can do."

All in all, those who make their living from raising food and fiber are far from happy with the way things are going in their state government.

If you want proof of that, there's the letter the president of the Cattle Growers' Association wrote his members.

He speaks clearly and without doubt about the agricultural industry being "undermined from the fourth floor of the Round House in Santa Fe."

He's steamed-and if Bob Jones feels that way, it's likely many of his members do as well.

Here's how he puts it: "It seems that almost every position developed over the last 50 years by the New Mexico Cattle Growers' Association and the New Mexico Farm and Livestock Bureau is under fire by the Governor's office. Those who mold policy for the Governor have consistently, since Toney has risen to power, attacked those principles and institutions espoused and promulgated by the New Mexico agricultural community. They have ignored our requests for moderation on the part of those environmentalists who have a stranglehold on the highest office in our state."

And you thought this columnist was little tough on Toney!

That kind of talk from a leader in an important segment of the state's economy, especially when it is expressing the views of many in the same business, does not bode well for the remainder of the Anaya term in office.

Wiser politicians than Toney long ago learned that you can't afford to have all the folks in the cowboy boots opened.

planned to go to Carrizozo, in a body, and resign, asking that the hospital be closed. But Ben Sanchez was concerned enough to talk to my brother, C.C. Chase Jr., who was an attorney, about

DEAR EDITOR:

This letter is in reference to the recent article written by Billy Allstetter in the Ruidoso News of September 19, 1983 with respect to the gastrointestinal disorder suffered by people living in Ruidoso or visiting Ruidoso. After reading Mr. Allstetter's article, I feel his sense of frustration because no definite etiological clue associated with this malady was discovered. As a representative of the E.I.D., I feel compelled to explain our position categorically as follows:

1. On August 23, 1963, I received a telephone call from the Ruidoso-Hondo Valley Hospital indicating that several of their employees were suffering from acute diarrhea, abdominal cramps and vomiting.

2. On the same day we contacted Dr. Sandra Lapham, E.I.D. Epidemiologist and stated an epidemiological investigation. We went through the case histories of all the people that were sick and it gave us the following facts:

A. Most of the employees that had suffered from the disease showed diarrhea and cramps. Some also had slight fever and muscle pain. In most cases, the duration of acute illness was almost 24 hours. In general, severe diarrhea and cramps persisted in almost all victims for the first six to eight hours of their illness. Relapses did occur in very few patients.

B. Stools were not analyzed from all the victims. None of the patients whose stools were analyzed showed any bacteria and/or cysts in their stools.

C. By the time we were informed, the peak period was over and the number of people contracting the syndrome were in decline.

D. Hospital employees that showed the syndrome did consume drinking water from different water supply systems e.g., private wells, Capitan, Ruidoso Downs and Ruidoso. However, one common factor that became quite obvious is the possibility of the transmission of the disease by person-to-person contact, primarily because they all work in the same institute.

3. Immediately on that day, we contacted the Village of Ruidoso Water Department and advised Ms. Becky Durham to run a potability test and to check the turbidity and residual chlorine level in the drinking water. She fully extended her co-operation to E.I.D.'s requests. All these parameters met the State's standards.

4. We also contacted the County Health Nurse. She in turn, contacted the local Doctors or left messages for them.

5. We also made arrangements so that the appropriate sampling of stools could be made and shipped to the Scientific Lab Division at Albuquerque for analysis.

6. As of this writing, we are aware that there have been two (2) cases of Giardiasis in the Ruidoso area and one in the Roswell area.

7. We have made very thorough inspections of both water treatment plants. Plant number #1 (Upper Canyon) is slightly vulnerable to infiltration of Giardia cysts right after back-wash of the mixed media filter. This is mainly because that plant does not have special treatment steps (e.g. pre-settling, coagulation, flocculation and sedimentation) for processing Surface water from Rio Ruidoso, Research findings show that these steps are valuable to trap small Giardia cysts (size 9 mm)in the filter. Alto Crest treatment plant has these steps incorporated in that facility. Therefore, we are in consultation with our Engineers to recommend steps that will make plant #1 less susceptible to Giardia cyst infiltration. Our telephone interview shows that proportionately more people were sick in the Upper Canyon area compared to other areas of Ruidoso and Capitan. Giardia in its' cystic form is highly resistant to disinfectant treatment (6 to 8 mg/L. of residual chlorine for a prolonged exposure).

 Therefore the aforesaid facts clearly indicate that we have exerted our best efforts to diagnose the causative organisms involved in this malady. However, some preventitive steps should be taken if any one shows specific symptoms in the future:

1, This malady appears to spread through hand-to-mouth route. Control of person-to-person transmission requires special emphasis on personal cleanliness e.g. trim nails and wash hands as often as necessary. 2. Make sure to examine stool. In case of Giardiasis, the symptoms may reappear in affected people. If this is the case, consult your physician. There are specific treatments for Giardiasis, e.g. Flagyl, Atabrine. Relapses may occur with either drugs.

. My friends and especially my son would agree—I usually exercise my freedom of speech.

Last week was officially designated as Constitution Week by President Reagan, and two of the guarantees provided by the Constitution are freedom of speech and press. I am in a position to use these rights in my job as a newspaper reporter.

I believe very strongly in the need for and value of the press. I love newspapers.

"The media" and other labels sometimes give the illusion of the press being very negative—intrusive and bothersome. And, maybe, sometimes rightly so.

But—I believe in democracy and to me a free press and freedom of the press MUST EXIST if we are to call our country a democracy.

Anyway, let me exercise my freedom of speech and tell you a little about myself.

I moved to Ruidoso three weeks ago and six weeks ago I did not know it existed. After months of sending out resumes from Minnesota I had decided to pack up and move to Albuquerque.

One Friday morning I was threefourths packed, ready for the move and getting ready to meet a friend at Ol' Mexico-a restaurant in St. Paul where we planned a farewell lunch. And editor Tim Palmer called.

It turns out an opening would be available in about two weeks in Ruidoso. Now what? I decided to send some clips express and just keep on packing.

In the meantime I called someone from Santa Fe, who was, in Minneapolis temporarily. "Are you familiar with a town called Ruidoso?" I asked frantically (pro-nouncing it "Rudoseeoo").

"It's Ruidoso," he said. "Ruidoso is an old rustic town in the mountains. It's beautiful. I think it's a given. I think you should go for it. It matches your personality." So after a couple more conversations, I finished packing and headed for Ruidoso-with my son and my cat. Saying "Goodbye" (not forever) to relatives and friends that Michael and I had made the past 12 years was painful. Though I had been out to lunches constantly the last few weeks I was there, (I gained eight pounds-I'm working on losing them now) I found the last two days there I was reflecting constantly.

learned is the value of true friendship. Because I went through a lot of rough times during those years, I formed many relationships based on mutual needs of needing support, encouragement and caring.

It was hard leaving them. Michael had a difficult time leaving, and he said, "But Mom, you don't unders-tand. I have a lot of good friends here and it's hard to make good friends."

And every time Michael would say this, I would say in a STRONG manner, "But Michael, I do understand. But, if I get a job offer, I have to consider it and move. Period. Michael, in good times it's hard to break into journalism here and these are not good times." And when I said this, I truly believed it, but it hurt a little too.

Somehow, in the midst of needing to repair a muffler, pick up newspapers at the community newspaper I had free-lanced at the past year, and buying food for the cat and our cooler-we were off about noon on September 1.

Sailing along on I-35W most of the way, Michael, Tigger and I survived hot hot weather as well as various aromas as we passed through Iowa and Kansas. One of the first things Tigger did was to crawl up under the dash and disconnect the radio, so we were without radio for the rest of the trip.

I collected newspapers at every place we stopped but discovered I was too tired to read them. We ended up taking a long cooling-off period at Best Western in Oklahoma City and Michael went crazy in the pool.

After getting re-routed on the border of Texas and New Mexico (1 discovered I had routed an extra 100-200 miles the first way), we drove across the desert and stopped at Et. Sumner to tour the Billy the Kid Museum. We were getting awfully close.

Sunday, September 4, we pulled into Ruidoso Downs and got gas while asking for directions.

"Can you tell me where Ruidoso is?" I asked excitedly. "I'm moving there." I added.

"It gets really cold there—really cold," he warned.

"How cold?" I asked, knowing I had just moved from the COLDEST place in the world.

"Oh-about 20, 30-it gets down to zero sometimes. Where are you moving from?"

In conclusion, we would like to state that it may not always be very easy to diagnose the causative organisms involved in this type of situation.

Several variables may be associated with this kind of syndrome. It is highly likely that several causative factors were involved e.g. virus, Giardia, or exposure of the victims to water containing higher proportions of minerals, since the demand for water usually reaches its peak during the week-ends of July — August when the City uses ground water which contains higher amounts of minerals compared to the surface water. Until we have enough scientific evidence, we cannot specifically say what is causing the disease. We are ready to explore virtually all possible clues that may help to minimize the risk of manifestation of these symptoms among Ruidosoans and visitors.

This year, perhaps the affliction has reached its peak in the middle of August and presently the number of cases is declining rapidly.

Next year, hopefully, the E.I.D. will be in a better position to diagnose and/or prevent this episode from happening again.

I realized so much had happened since I arrived in the Twin Cities, newly divorced with Michael just a baby, when we moved from Chicago 12 years ago.

When Michael was two I went to Miller Hospital School of Nursing to become an L.P.N. So I now had 10 years of working experience as a nurse,

A few years ago I decided to seriously work on my degree while trying to accumulate writing experience. So I now had my degree and a portfolio of elippings.

I could go on forever trying to describe what I believe I've learned from my experiences all these years. One of the most important lessons I "Minnesota," I said.

"Oh," he said sheepishly.

We went into the Pizza Hut and I called my mother with messages to give to people-"We had arrived and my rusty old Buick behaved like a star."

After meeting Billy Allstetter and then editor Tim Palmer. I decided this must be what is meant by "Western hospitality," because they sure welcomed this thirsty fired traveler.

On Monday I found and moved into an apartment and Tuesday started this job. And I have been writing stories and frantically finding my way around ever since and loving every minute of it.

In the midst of all this I have noticed some mountains out there-and they are BEAUTIFUL.

Twins in park make Gemini dream

It almost seemed as if someone were carrying a mirror around last week when the Ruldoso Mothers of Twins Club got together for a potluck dinner at Two Rivers Park. The four pairs of twins circling around the picnic tables made the dinner seem a Gemini dream. At the potluck dinner were (from upper right, clockwise) K'rin and E'rin Autrey; Gail and Kim Floyd holding Chelsea and Cassie Mancha; Chelsea and Cassie on a blanket; and Diane Romero holding Nick and Eric Romero. The Mothers of Twins Club offers support and education for parents of twins. For more information call 257-5510.
