NO. 91 IN OUR 37TH YEAR

RUIDOSO, LINCOLN COUNTY, NEW MEXICO 88345

THURSDAY, MARCH 24, 1983

NEW ASSISTANT SUPERINTENDENT of schools Mike Gladden gets a congratulatory hug from daughter Kerry Tuesday after he was named to the post.

Mike Gladden named to public schools post

In a special meeting Tuesday, the Board of Education named White Mountain Elementary School principal Mike Gladden to the post of assistant superintendent of schools.

The board met briefly in executive session at the start of the meeting, then reconvened and unanimously approved a motion to name Gladden to the number two job in the school system.

Gladden will assume the post at the end of the current school year. Sid Miller, the present assistant superintendent, will become superintendent upon the retirement of Pat Valliant in May.

Board president Stormy Edwards remarked on the quality of applicants for the assistant's position. He said the board did not give weight to candidates from within the system, but based its choice on qualifications.

He added that one aim of the board is to do away with stagnation that might come into the school system. "We felt like Mike was our man," he said.

In other business, the school board approved a new salary schedule and approved the job description for the assistant superintendent's position.

"It made us even prouder of our school system for attracting that type of people," said Edwards, referring to the caliber of applicants for the post Gladden received.

Road closures okayed

Private land owners won two victories Tuesday in the continuing battle between private rights and public access when the Lincoln County Board of Commissioners granted two requests for road closures.

Objections to the closure were raised by the State Land Office, state Department of Game and Fish and the New Mexico Wildlife Federation. But after hearing arguments from both sides, commissioners sided with the private land owners and voted to close the roads.

T. B. Smoot submitted a request for closure of County Road A-059 between Arabela and Highway 48, reporting that he has continual problems with hunters trespassing on his property by way of that road. Smoot and other area land owners alleged they have received no cooperation from state agencies charged with enforcing violations of trespassing laws.

A road review committee assigned to make a recommendation on the request suggested the road be closed because it is not needed for a public highway, and it has not been maintained and would be impossible or too expensive for the county to maintain in the future.

The state agencies objecting to the road closure argued that access to state lands would be restricted if the road were closed. State land in that area is a prime deer hunting location, reported Melanie Dziadulewicz, with the Department of Game and Fish.

Carlos Anaya, representing the State Land Office and Commissioner of Public Lands Jim Baca, recommended action on the matter be tabled until a meeting with interested parties can be scheduled and an alternate solution worked out.

"The commissioner is opposed to the closure of any roads that provide access to state land," Anaya pointed out. "The new administration does not want lands trespassed on but it wants the lands used."

"I'm not too sympathetic with deer hunters' rights as they're not too sympathetic with property rights," Sheriff Tom Sullivan testified. He recommended the road be closed to help Smoot protect his property. "I know he has lots of problems out there," the sheriff reported.

"The new administration is not going to put up with abuse of state lands," Anaya stated. He said the State Land Office's concern is that those individuals who have a legal right to enter state lands be provided with access.

District Wildlife Officer Dziadulewicz reported that the Department of Game and Fish opposes the road closure because other access roads are not always passable and "access to all state land is necessary for hunters."

She also pointed out that legislation now awaiting Governor Toney Anaya's signature would authorize Game and Fish personnel to enforce trespassing violations.

Bob Barnett with the New Mexico Wildlife Federation also recommended the request for closure be denied, stating that violations of the trespassing laws should be dealt with in court rather than by closing access roads.

"We're just trying to survive," Smoot declared. "It's gotten that bad, and it's mostly due to that little cow trail," he added, referring to the road he is requesting be closed.

"It's been going on for years and it's getting worse," he pointed out. "I leave it up to the county commissioners to do what's right."

Board of Commissioners chairman John Allen Hightower motioned that the request for closure of the road be granted, and the motion passed unanimously.

A second road closure request—for County Road A-013 and part of County Road A-014, submitted by Douglas L. McKnight—was also granted. The road review committee recommended this road also be closed, based on the reasons outlined above. It was reported that the federal Bureau of Land Management, state Department of Game and Fish and New Mexico Wildlife Federation had submitted objections to this road closure also, offering the same arguments.

The request was granted without discussion.

Also Tuesday, commissioners offered to purchase two acres of land from the country club in Carrizozo for construction of a baseball park by the Carrizozo High School FFA Chapter (Future Farmers of America).

Chapter members presented plans for the recreation facility, explaining it will be part of the FFA Building Our American Communities program. They reported that the community of Carrizozo has offered to contribute $2,000 for the cost of constructing the facilities. Cost of purchasing the land is $2,000 per acre.

Hightower moved to buy the property through revenue sharing funds.

In other business, commissioners—Awarded the bid on hauling of chips to Bill McCarty Construction for the low bid of $10,006.79.

—Awarded the bid on concrete to Bill McCarty Construction for the low bid of $85 per yard for a total of $10,400.

—Awarded the bid on annual fuel supply to LaMay Distributing for the low bid of $1.02.5 for regular, $1.05.5 for unleaded and $8.89 for diesel.

—Signed the annual resolution setting liquor license fees.

—Held a public hearing on and adopted a resolution on changes in subdivision regulations.

—Signed the annual resolution designating employees authorized to pick up equipment purchased through the federal property assistance program.

—Tabled a request to vacate a road in "C" Hill Subdivision until more information is available.

—Heard a request for road work submitted by John and Jacqueline Wilbanks. Road department superintendent Guy Henley said his crew will do the work as soon as possible.

—Heard an update on the Extraterritorial Zoning Commission from chairman Milt Alcorn.

—Decided to write a letter to the State Highway Department protesting its decision to amend the school bus co-op agreement for Mesa Verde Subdivision, with the county to pay any cost overrun.

—Renewed the contract with New Horizons Developmental Center for use of the old hospital building.

—Discussed the need to push for something to be done about getting a bypass from Highway 70 to Highway 37 through Gavilan Canyon Road.

—Heard from District Attorney Steve Sanders that the U.S. Forest Service is assisting in providing evidence in the litigation against the O-Bar-O Ranch, which should be scheduled in district court this spring or summer.

—Issued a reminder of the courthouse dedication and open house this Sunday at 2 p.m.

Chamber insurance now at a premium

by BILLY ALLSTETTER
Staff Writer

The Chamber of Commerce board of directors Wednesday decided to continue the Chamber's health insurance program in spite of "unbelievably high rates," and to continue to search for alternatives.

The Chamber of Commerce offers group health insurance programs to its members. Nearly 1,500 people are insured through the Chamber program with Blue Cross.

Chamber executive director Ed Jungbluth told board members Blue Cross notified him early in March that rates for the next year's contract, which must be signed by April 1, will be increasing up to 61 percent.

Rates for individuals will rise from $54.49 per month to $87.98 per month. Two-person families will have to pay $169.53, up from $107.51. Rates for three-person families will increase from $131.68 to $206.90.

Jungbluth said the rates increased so much because of the large number and size of claims last year by Chamber members.

Board members expressed displeasure at the short notice of the rate increase and the fact that it has happened two years in a row. Last year rates increased approximately 30 percent, said Jungbluth.

Richard Sandoval said that the short notice effectively forces the Chamber to continue with the same plan because the 30-day notice does not allow enough time to research other insurance plans.

Members discussed raising the deductible amount and dropping maternity coverage. Jungbluth noted that the average age of the Ruidoso population has dropped considerably over recent years and that many use the maternity coverage. He also expressed the opinion that many of the younger people would also object to raising the deductible.

Joe Loving, recently elected board member and president of First City National Bank, said his company was faced with the same problem of increasing insurance costs. It chose to raise the deductible first to $250 then to $500 while maintaining the maternity coverage, he said.

He noted that this reduced the premium costs considerably.

Jungbluth reported raising the deductible from the current $100 to $250 would change premiums to $78.84 for individuals; $150.71 for two-person families; and $175.00 for three-person families. That is still an average increase of 39 percent over last year's premiums. Jungbluth did not have figures for $500 deductible.

Jungbluth said he has been working with Frank Sayner and Pinky Jones at High Country Agency to search for other insurance companies that might pick up the Chamber's insurance program. The program and its billing is so complicated many companies will not pick it up, said Jungbluth.

Jungbluth is looking into higher deductibles and other options for the Blue Cross plan.

Board president Morgan Clough appointed Bill Braudt, Jim Paxton, Bill Myers, Richard Sandoval, and Jungbluth to a committee to research insurance alternatives. The research will be a top priority of the board, said Clough.

The board decided to continue with the same policy until better alternatives can be found and agreed upon. Signing the contract with Blue Cross (April 1) will insure the same rates for a year, and the program can be dropped at any time with a 30-day notice.

"We have had a very successful one (health insurance program) in the past and we will continue to try to provide one. But it is getting difficult," said Clough.

Earlier in the meeting Clough welcomed new board members who were elected in March. New members Sandy Dacy, Richard Farris, Walt Lindborg, Joe Loving, Tommy Morel and Sue Snidow attended the meeting as guests. Buddy Bundick was absent. The new board members will officially take office May 1.

Board member Dan Shaver reported that elections went smoothly and all ballots were carefully counted and recorded. He noted that ballot counters discovered a mistake by members of one business who thought they were all entitled to a vote. The mistake was discovered before the votes were counted, reported Shaver.

Current and recently elected board members will gather in Juarez, Mexico, April 22 and 23 for a board retreat to "discuss the movement of the Chamber in the year to come," said Clough. Board members will also elect next year's officers and president during the retreat.

Jungbluth told board members about the Dallas Trade Show he and two other couples attended.

"It was just like the San Antonio show but we were in Dallas," said Jungbluth.

Jungbluth, Earl and Jimsey Krieg and Flodie and Archer Wilson manned the Ruidoso booth at the show, which lasted from Wednesday through Sunday last week. Jungbluth said they talked to thousands of people about Ruidoso and passed out Ruidoso brochures. The video display was improved since the San Antonio show, he reported. Over 150,000 people attended the show, he said.

Clough said board members should pat those people who attended the San Antonio and Dallas shows on the back because they have attracted many tourists to Ruidoso.

Jungbluth said he believes there will be no problem obtaining use of the Ruidoso Downs Race Track facilities for the Chili Cookoff and Arabian horse show next fall. He said he lunched with Don Smith, general manager of Ruidoso-Sunland Incorporated, a couple of weeks ago to discuss the Mule Skinners use of the track in the fall. He also discussed the Chili Cookoff and horse show.

In other business, the Chamber board:

—Heard Jungbluth report that preparations for the Easter Egg Hunt and Fun Day Saturday, April 2, are progressing well. He said members of the Police Athletic League have agreed to hide the closure to 2,000 eggs in Cedar Creek Recreation Area. He also reminded members about the Easter Bonnet Contest that day. Prizes for the funniest, most outlandish and prettiest bonnets will be awarded.

Preparations for the Art Festival are also progressing on schedule, said Jungbluth. Selection of exhibiting artists has almost been completed, he said. This year no names of artists were revealed to jurors, which Jungbluth believed helped ensure more impartial selection.

Flexibility stressed by Jack Schmitt

by BARBY GRANT
Staff Writer

"The message I would give about the national vocational and employment outlook is maintaining flexibility, maintaining options and anticipate changing careers," former astronaut and U.S. senator Harrison "Jack" Schmitt told area high school students Wednesday. Schmitt addressed the students during the third annual Altrusa-sponsored Career Awareness Day at Ruidoso High School.

Having spent the first 10 years of his career as a student and geologist, the next 10 as an astronaut and the following 10 years in politics, Schmitt, currently working as a consultant in Albuquerque, informed students that "a series of accidents will determine the course of your life more than plans."

"You will find that you will change careers frequently," he told the group. Our immediate ancestors could often see into the future with some degree of accuracy, he said, but that is not possible now because of the rapidly accelerated rate of change.

"Don't close any doors to the future until you have to," Schmitt advised. In order to keep those doors open, he explained, "you need as broad, as general an education as you can get. Don't specialize too soon."

"Keep your career plans flexible so you can change fields," he continued. "The key is flexibility."

The former astronaut and senator stressed the importance of a well-rounded education by advising students "to make sure certain things happen" while getting an education. Among these educational essentials are the ability to read and write the English language, and preferably a few additional languages; an understanding of history—"the only experiments we have are those others have conducted for us;" and a sufficient knowledge of science and technology "so you can understand what it's doing to determine your future."

FORMER ASTRONAUT and U.S. senator Harrison "Jack" Schmitt addresses students at Career Awareness Day Wednesday at Ruidoso High School.

Schmitt emphasized the impact science and technology will have on all our lives. "If you don't understand, you can't take advantage of new career opportunities, and you will have trouble functioning in society," he pointed out.

Reiterating the necessity for a broad-based education, Schmitt encouraged students to take advantage of seminars and classes in a variety of fields and careers and "always try to expand your educational experience."

"From your educational experience will come your career opportunities," he concluded. The need for an education was also stressed by Marge Vallejos, director of career counseling at New Mexico State University's Alamogordo branch, who also spoke to the group of high school students.

Likening the choices of careers available now to "a giant buffet table," Vallejos informed students that it is natural for them to go through a phase of uncertainty about which career is right for them.

Publishers to meet here

The Ruidoso News will host the annual meeting of New Mexico weekly and small daily newspaper publishers this Saturday in Ruidoso, announced News publisher Ken Green.

About 20 couples are expected to arrive Friday evening for roundtable discussions, educational programs and a tour of the News facilities Saturday. The News will also host a cocktail party for the publishers at the News building Saturday afternoon.

Green explained that the organization of publishers has no officers, no dues and no bylaws. "Every spring we get together somewhere," said Green.

Al White, publisher of The Hatch Courier, is this year's program chairman. News advertising manager Carmen Edwards will lead a roundtable discussion on advertising. The group will also discuss new equipment.

Attorney Hal Simmons will speak on media law. Richard McCord, publisher of The Santa Fe Reporter, will discuss financing for small newspapers. Keith Green, publisher of The Socorro Defensor, will speak about time management.

Headquarters for the meeting is the Ruidoso Inn.

The National Weather Service in Albuquerque is predicting increasing cloudiness and southwesterly winds 15-25 miles per hour Thursday with a few higher gusts in the afternoon. There will be an increasing chance of snow showers Thursday night with winds westerly to southwesterly at 10-20 miles per hour. Scattered snow showers will prevail Friday in moderately windy and cooler weather. Chances of precipitation are 5 percent Thursday, 20 percent Thursday night and 60 percent Friday. The extended forecast calls for generally fair weather Saturday and Sunday with a chance of showers Monday. Temperatures will be cool Saturday, turning warmer Sunday and Monday.

Act means more money for police training

by DAVID SHEPPARD
Staff Writer

If Governor Toney Anaya attaches his signature to the Law Enforcement Protection Fund Act, area law enforcement agencies will see extra dollars coming their way to pay for training and equipment.

The bill, which had strong support from local governing bodies and law enforcement agencies, passed both houses of the Legislature and now awaits the governor's approval.

The fund would be created from taxes on casualty insurance premiums, with money appropriated to local police departments and county sheriffs' departments for advanced training purposes and purchase of equipment.

Bob Jerkins with the New Mexico Municipal League said the state appropriation for the remainder of this year would be $1.2 million. He said each local police department could not receive more than $100,000 yearly under the bill's provisions.

The proposal divides cities and counties into three population classes. Ruidoso area law enforcement agencies fall under the first class—which applies to cities or counties with up to 20,000 population—and would be eligible for a base of $10,000 per year according to the class system.

In addition to the base amount, the bill would also provide each agency $300 yearly for each certified officer.

Jerkins said the purpose of the act is to provide additional revenues for advanced level police training and procurement of equipment. Basic training of law enforcement officers is already paid for by the state.

Jerkins said the money would not be automatically distributed to police agencies. Each year, departments would have to submit a budget with requested expenditures for the funds to the local government division of the Department of Finance and Administration, which would appropriate the money.

Ruidoso police chief Richard Swenor said Wednesday the Legislature's approval of the measure is a good sign the state is behind efforts to improve the quality of law enforcement.

"The main thing that it shows to me is, from the Legislature, the support for law enforcement is there," he noted.

Swenor followed the progress of the bill closely and is anxious for the governor's reaction. In December, the police chief asked for and received solid support from the Ruidoso village council for the act. The council endorsed the act in a formal resolution.

Swenor said his department's training budget this year is $14,500. If the act is signed, Ruidoso would become eligible for the additional $10,000 plus $6,900 for the department's 23 certified officers.

Swenor said he will forego making plans for the money until the act becomes law. One thing he said he would consider is sending two officers to a six-week traffic seminar at the National Traffic Institute in Chicago to get their instructor's ratings. Swenor said he wanted to include the training in the 1983-84 budget request but cut it out because it was too expensive.

As can be expected, other area law enforcement agencies are eagerly awaiting passage of the bill. Chief Charles Robinson of Ruidoso Downs thinks the act would be "a much needed boost for law enforcement all over the state."

Robinson's training budget now stands under $1,000. Including appropriation for the Downs' three certified officers, the act would increase the training amount tenfold for the financially strapped department.

Robinson, who said his department will update officer training yearly, probably would use most of the monies initially to procure more equipment.

"From our standpoint, we've always needed equipment—I think that's probably where the bulk would go," he predicted. The main purchases would be police vehicles and radios, Robinson indicated.

Charlie Cox, chief deputy of the Lincoln County Sheriff's Department, said he has pushed for the bill since it was introduced two years ago. He noted the state sheriffs' association campaigned strongly for the bill in 1981 and again this year.

When previously introduced the bill failed on a close committee vote, noted Swenor. The original version introduced this year called for a $2,000 appropriation for each certified officer, but was pared down in committee to $300.

Cox said the Sheriff's Department now has seven certified deputies.

TWO OTHER BILLS affecting local law enforcement that made it through the Legislature and are awaiting the governor's consideration are Senate Bills 368 and 272.

The first would allow municipal court judges to penalize fourth time and subsequent DWI offenders a maximum $1,000 fine and one-year jail sentence. Jerkins said the law would be unusual in that it increases the maximum penalty allowed for any municipal offense. According to Ruidoso municipal law, the maximum municipal penalty for any offense is a $300 fine and 90 days in jail.

But municipal judge Sam Nunnally currently cannot handle anything beyond first offense DWI cases. Magistrate James Wheeler said second offense cases and beyond come under magistrate court jurisdiction according to Twelfth Judicial District policy.

But Jerkins said municipalities can amend their ordinances to put those DWI cases under the jurisdiction of municipal court.

The 1983 Legislature passed another DWI bill, which makes vehicular homicide committed while under the influence of an intoxicating substance a third-degree felony. Vehicular homicide committed while intoxicated is now a fourth-degree felony. Another DWI bill, which included provisions recommended by a special task force appointed last year to suggest reforms to DWI laws, failed on the last day of the session.

The third bill being watched closely by local law enforcement officials would provide an automatic $5 fine on any traffic moving violation except DWIs.

The Local Government Corrections Act provides for the fine to be collected in either municipal or magistrate court.

Jerkins said the assessment would go into the state general fund and be reimbursed to counties or cities for upkeep of county jails. Municipalities would use the money to pay the boarding costs of detainees sent to county jail.

The $5 fee only applies to cities or counties that have an automatic penalty assessment system. Jerkins added, Judge Wheeler said Ruidoso does not provide for automatic penalties on traffic offenses; but Ruidoso Downs does, according to police chief Robinson.

If the Downs decides to assess the automatic fee, Jerkins said the governing body would have to amend its traffic ordinances.

POLICEMAN ROBERT KENNEY comforts Pauline Dillingham (left) of Ruidoso after she was involved in a two-car accident Tuesday on Hull Road Dillingham, who suffered several fractures and was admitted to Ruidoso-Hondo Valley Hospital, was driving on Hull when her car was struck by a vehicle coming out of Jack Little Drive. The driver, Donna Williams of Roswell, lost her brakes and ran the stop sign on Jack Little. Williams was cited for defective equipment and failure to yield right of way. The other woman in the picture was a witness.

Neighborhood Watch program has organizational meeting

by DAVID SHEPPARD
Staff Writer

Ruidoso police and interested individuals took the first organizational steps Monday night toward making residential neighborhoods less easy to rip off.

Ruidoso police chief Richard Swenor and patrolman Barry Smith introduced about 20 persons to the Neighborhood Watch program at the first meeting among coordinators, police and block captains.

The two policemen stressed that law enforcement needs support in the neighborhoods to cut down on the worst village crime problem—residential burglaries.

"Experience has shown that successful crime prevention efforts are founded upon citizen participation. We cannot realistically protect every home in the community," Swenor said.

Swenor and Smith, who is heading the program at the police department, emphasized police will never have the manpower to effectively patrol neighborhoods constantly and to nab all thieves in action. Swenor relayed to the group that the village is unfortunately known by crooks to be "easy pickin's" because of the number of vacation homes left empty periodically.

But that reputation can change, said the officers, if citizens effectively organize their neighborhoods into crime prevention networks and start to protect themselves.

"People are getting sick and tired of it, they're sick and tired of becoming victims," Swenor said.

The structure of the program depends on a grass roots organization of Neighborhood Watch members who will be asked to keep an eye out for suspicious activities near their homes and report them to police.

Swenor warned the group that if persons observe anything out of the ordinary, they should not attempt to stop it themselves.

"We need your eyes, your ears, then depend on us," he advised. "Do not endanger yourselves."

One of the things police will ask of watch participants is to develop contacts with neighbors and agree to monitor neighborhood homes when empty. Smith said police are overwhelmed with calls for "close patrol" of homes and cannot realistically guard all the vacant residences.

Once the program is well under way, Smith said, police will begin to refer close patrol requests to coordinators, who will then channel information to block captains. The captains in turn will ask the Neighborhood Watch member living closest to a vacant residence to make frequent house checks.

This communication and cooperation through police and down to the levels of Neighborhood Watch participants is the key to a successful program.

The police officers said that other cities around the country have proven it takes at least a 60 percent participation rate among permanent residents for the program to be effective.

Until that level is reached in neighborhoods, Swenor said the highly visible Neighborhood Watch signs will not be posted. The signs, along with window decals, have proven as effective deterrents where posted in other communities.

Decals were passed out to coordinators Monday night for dissemination to captains and members. But the signs, which have yet to be ordered by the police department, will not be posted until 60 percent of the residents in a coordinator's area have signed up for participation. Swenor noted that if signs were erected in an unorganized neighborhood, burglars would soon catch on and deterrence would be lost.

Smith said he sees the requirement for participation as an incentive for getting the signs.

Instructions given to coordinators were basically to recruit co-coordinators in their areas in coming weeks. Smith pointed out on a street map that he divided the village into 15 sections, with a coordinator appointed to each.

The coordinators were asked to recruit at least four co-coordinators in their areas who then will be responsible for signing up at least four block captains. The process continues down from the block captains, who will enlist support of members, with a goal of at least one member for every block.

All participants must give their names, street addresses and house numbers, and telephone numbers. Smith said a complete list will be kept in the police communications center.

Whenever a Neighborhood Watch participant calls for police assistance, Smith said, the identification will enable a quicker police response.

One coordinator was concerned the names would be broadcast on the police channel whenever officers are dispatched on a Neighborhood Watch call. Swenor assured the group that police deal exclusively in radio codes and would not use names over the police band.

One man wondered if citizen patrols could be started by coordinators, who could communicate over citizen band radios with police.

Smith said the group can establish any programs it wants, but that the members will have to raise their own funds to purchase radios or other equipment.

In fact, Smith encouraged the coordinators to get involved in any neighborhood projects, such as beautification programs, Operation I.D. or parks and recreational development. He added that once the watch program sees success in less crime activity, such programs will help maintain a high level of interest in the concept of neighborhood unity.

The police coordinator said he wants coordinators to meet jointly with him at least once a month for training on crime prevention. The next meeting will be devoted to Operation I.D., which is a means of identifying valuables.

Subsequent training classes will be devoted to personal protection and home and car security, how to increase awareness, and how to reduce criminal opportunities.

In the meantime, coordinators have a lot of organizing ahead to get the program firmly in place. Only about half of the 15 coordinators who committed themselves showed up for the meeting.

The police officers also noted the program will serve Ruidoso Downs and Lincoln County. Ruidoso Downs Police Chief Charles Robinson is the contact in the Downs, and either Ruidoso police or the Lincoln County Sheriff's Department can be contacted by persons living in unincorporated areas.

In summing up the program, Swenor told the group to think of two succinct points in considering participation.

Not only will citizens start taking more responsibility for protection of their neighborhoods, but if they organize effectively, they will witness a drop in burglaries. And, if the burglary rate decreases, property values definitely will increase. This is something for all property owners to consider, Swenor said.

Bill could mean increased tourism promotion funds

by BILLY ALLSTETTER
Staff Writer

In the last minute flurry of the recent New Mexico legislative session, lawmakers in Santa Fe passed a bill which could almost double the funds spent advertising Ruidoso.

House Bill 144, which appropriates $2.972 million to the Travel and Tourism Division of the Commerce and Industry Department, was combined with five other bills appropriating a total of $15 million for economic development.

Both houses of the Legislature passed the bill fairly easily in the closing days of the session last week. The House passed the measure 43-24. With the confusion surrounding the tremendous number of bills passed at the end of the session, no one seems to know exactly what the vote in the Senate was. Tourism and Travel Division director John Adams said he believed it passed without significant opposition.

David Oakeley, press secretary for Governor Toney Anaya, said the bill was originally written by the governor and he will almost surely sign it.

The appropriation almost triples the budget of the Travel and Tourism Division from $1.4 million to $4.372 million.

The bill calls for spending in five areas, which are: $273,300 for a tourism education and promotion program; $767,000 for matching lodgers' tax funds spent by communities; $1,691,700 for a national advertising program; $215,000 for a highway and street sign program; and $25,000 to create a master plan for New Mexico welcome centers.

The portion calling for matching lodgers' tax funds could substantially increase the amount Ruidoso spends on promotion.

Chamber of Commerce executive director Ed Jungbluth surmised that there will be competition for those funds and Ruidoso will not receive matching funds for all of the approximately $90,000 of lodgers' tax funds spent by the village. He estimated the village may be able to obtain $30,000 to $40,000 in matching funds from the state.

Basing his statements on past experience, Jungbluth said "money would probably be allotted for specific programs submitted to the Travel and Tourism Division. He expects the state to mail out guidelines for applications."

Communities must meet two requirements in order to be eligible for the matching funds, said Jungbluth.

A community must be spending at least 50 percent of its lodgers' tax funds on direct advertising and must be collecting the maximum three percent lodgers' tax.

Village manager Jim Hine said the village spends close to 90 percent of the lodgers' tax funds on direct advertising. However, lodgers currently collect only two percent for lodgers' tax.

Mule Skinners meet Saturday

The Ruidoso Downs Mule Skinners annual meeting begins at 7 p.m. Saturday, March 26, at the Ruidoso Public Library.

On the agenda are election of officers, plans for the annual trail ride May 21-22, and plans for the mule race meet September 16-18.

This will be an open meeting. All members are urged to attend, and guests and prospective members are welcome.

Reversing the title of her topic, "vocations of the future," she pointed out that "education and training are the future of vocations."

Vallejos' advice to the students was: "Allow yourself to be uncertain but keep searching and encourage yourself to get some type of education."

"The uncertainty will disappear but the fact that you do or do not have a college education will remain with you the rest of your life," she concluded.

Realty firm opens office

The national firm of Strout Realty has opened a branch office in Ruidoso, to be operated by Chuck and Yolanda Flanagan.

The Flanagans live in Ruidoso and have a daughter, Deborah, at Ruidoso High School. Chuck is a native Texan who was formerly with the U.S. Navy and the California Department of Forestry. He is a member of the Noon Lions and the Sheriff's Reserves.

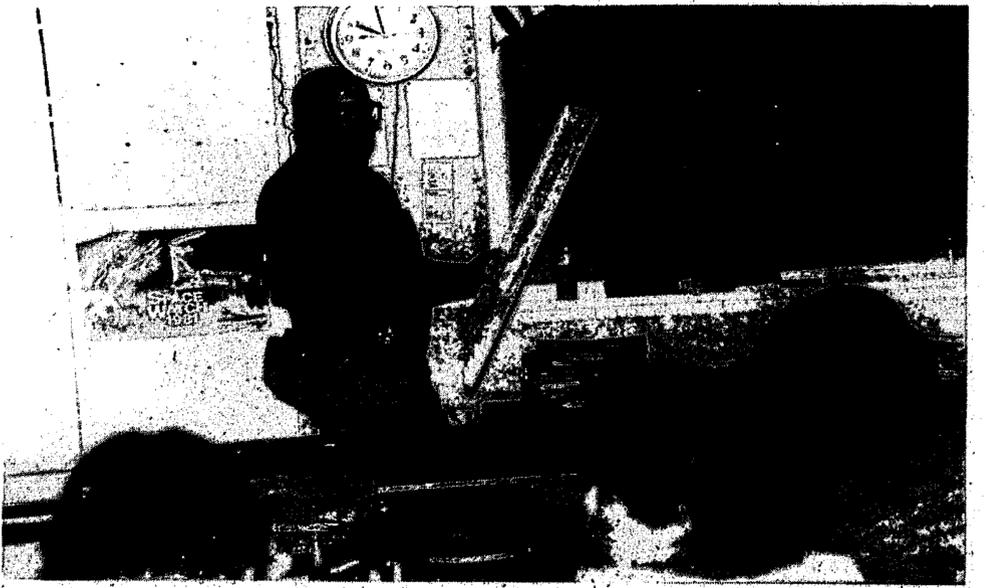

Yolanda, a native Californian, was a career center technician at a community college in that state. She is in the Ruidoso Lioness Club and the Sheriff's Reserves.

Strout has over 600 offices throughout the U.S., selling all types of real estate. The local office is at 1017 Mechem Drive. Telephone number is 257-2253.

Janna Rooney, daughter of the late Pat and Jan Rooney, formerly of Ruidoso, and Danny Richburg, son of Richard and Ruth Richburg of Ruidoso, were married the evening of February 18 in a candlelight ceremony at First Christian Church in Ruidoso.

The bride was given in marriage by Warren Hanson. Music was by Jane Bennett on piano.

Maid of honor was Lanette Sanchez. Best man was Richard Richburg, father of the bridegroom. Ushers were Jimmy Ward and Jeff Knox.

Flower girl was Audrey Richburg, sister of the bridegroom, and ring bearer was John Wesley Rooney, stepbrother of the bride.

Roadrunners enjoy activities

Ruidoso Roadrunners Motorcycle Association (RRMA) members have enjoyed rides to Alamogordo and Muleshoe, Texas, in recent weeks, said RRMA president Glen Ferguson.

On Sunday, March 13, 13 members of the club met at the Ranch House Restaurant, where Ruidoso police officers Bob Kenney and Fred Smith showed them the new department motorcycles and answered questions. The officers then escorted club members out of town as they began their trip to the Omnimax Theater in Alamogordo.

The group watched two films at the theater, and afterward discussed plans for the trip to Mule Shoe.

Four couples made the 210-mile trip to Muleshoe for a motorcycle rally there. They stayed Friday and Saturday nights along with 300 other people attending the rally.

Bad weather cancelled the poker run and kept rallyers inside, but Ferguson said everyone enjoyed themselves "visiting, talking bikes and shooting the breeze."

All members of the club won prizes at the rally, either for their motorcycles or as doorprizes, said Ferguson.

Ferguson won a plaque for the best looking motorcycle in the 750 to 1,000 cubic centimeter class. Connie Brown won an award for her Motoguzzi and Howard Brown was honored as the oldest rider at the rally.

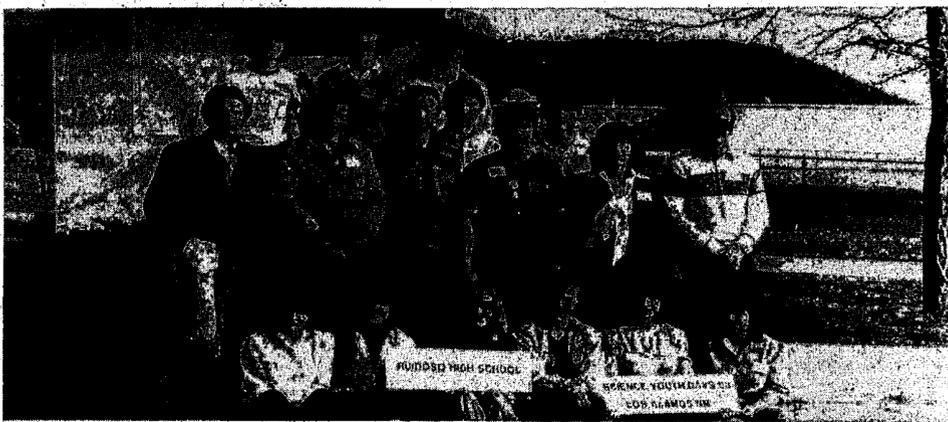

4-H Club meets

The Ruidoso 4-H Club met recently to discuss buying 4-H flags, T-shirts and vests, and to plan a field trip to Country Stuff Antiques, owned by Courtney Armstrong. The club will visit the shop later this month.

Shalla Gosdin and Teresa Harrelson presented a demonstration on how to make homemade brownies.

The club set its next meeting for April 19 at First Presbyterian Church. Any boys or girls who would like to join the 4-H Club are welcome.

PEOPLE

Warrior boy netters win but girls defeated by Lovington

Around Sports with Gary Brown

Well, New Mexico State University (NMSU) has finally been accepted into the Pacific Coast Athletic Association (PCAA), and the Aggies may find the going rough for a while. NMSU is scheduled to join the PCAA January 1, 1984. That may or may not give the Aggies a chance to improve their football program. NMSU has been a doormat of the Missouri Valley Conference (MVC) for several years in the pigskin sport, and it could find the gridiron victories few and far between for a while in the PCAA. The PCAA includes rugged teams like Fresno State University, San Jose State University, University of Pacific and the University of Nevada at Las Vegas. Most of these schools are competitive with a majority of the schools in the Pacific-10 Conference, annually one of the country's strongest football leagues. The MVC was dropped to division I-AA status in football in 1981 and it's not regarded as the PCAA's equal in that sport. The Aggies' football program will probably improve in future seasons, but it may take a few dismal seasons to get over the hump. NMSU should be better off in basketball. The PCAA is also tough and competitive in the cage sport. But the Aggies have had a winning basketball program under head coach Weldon Drew and they should continue to have good seasons in their new league. Of course, one of the major reasons NMSU is joining the PCAA is reduced travel costs. Seven of the PCAA's nine schools are in California, one is in Nevada and one is in Utah. The MVC, on the other hand, has several schools in the Midwest, as far away as Indiana, Iowa and Illinois. In this day of high fuel costs, it was probably a financial bonus for the Aggies to change conferences. NMSU's budget will look better in future years, but its athletic fortunes will probably draw some mixed fortunes in the next few years. The eyes of the basketball world will be on Albuquerque next month when the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA) championships take place at the University of New Mexico arena. With Albuquerque's reputation as a hot basketball town, the championship tournament should have "The Pit" rocking. The New Mexico State boys high school championships were there two weeks ago and the crowd was at least as enthusiastic as it was last season. I envy the lucky person with a ticket to the NCAA tournament.

There were mixed results for the Ruidoso High School tennis team in its season opener with visiting Lovington High School Tuesday afternoon at Sierra Swim and Racquet Club. The Warrior boys team took a decisive 7-2 victory over Lovington while the Ruidoso girls lost by an 8-1 score. Ruidoso will host New Mexico Military Institute (NMMI) at 10 a.m. Saturday on the racquet club courts. "I was proud of our players," said Warrior coach Mike Crocker about the match with Lovington. "I was pleased with our boys team. Lovington has about three really good players but the rest of their players aren't that good. The Lovington girls had a very strong team but we still had some good performances against them." In the boys' competition, top-seeded Ryan Brown gave Ruidoso a victory when he defeated Norman Choate of the Wildcats in three sets, 6-4, 6-7, 6-1. Crocker had loads of praise about his talented sophomore. "Ryan did a really good job," he said. "His serve was in the groove, especially in the final set. The other guy double-faulted a bit and Ryan came on strong." Other Warrior single wins were picked up by Billy Woodul, Mike

Smith, Jim Smith and Zack Swalander. Ruidoso got wins in the doubles competition from the Smith brothers and the team of Swalander and Dallas Draper. Woodul, a senior, won his second-seeded match over Shannon Wood, 6-2, 4-6, 6-1. Mike Smith took an easy 6-1, 6-1 decision over Dominique Via in the third-seeded match. Jim Smith defeated Greg LaPour in the fifth-seeded match, 6-0, 6-0, while Swalander topped Tim Fowler, 6-2, 6-3, in the sixth-seeded match. Draper lost a close three-set match in the fourth-seeded competition. Woodul and Brown lost the top-seeded doubles match to Choate and Smith, the Lovington duo taking a 6-4,

4-6, 6-0 victory. The Smith brothers took an easy doubles victory over Via and Rodriguez, taking a 6-0, 6-0 decision. Draper and Swalander topped Fowler and Jeff Anstey, 6-0, 6-3, in the final doubles match. In the girls' competition, Laura Trapp of Ruidoso won the top-seeded singles match against Jeanna Jones, taking a 6-1, 6-2 decision. The talented Warrior junior was in command of her match all the way. "Laura's just a great player," said Crocker. But the rest of the Warrior team found the going rough against the Wildcats. In the second-seeded match, Lovington's Cyndi Buckley took a 6-0, 6-3 decision over Mary Gaddy of Ruidoso. Other singles competition saw Shelly Caudill of Lovington top Tina Sanchez, 6-1, 6-1; Lynette Grube of Lovington beat Rachel McCoy, 6-1, 6-2; Anna Strickland of the Wildcats defeated Laura Tyson, 6-3, 6-4; and Ruth Morgan of Lovington topped Robin Rhodes, 6-1, 6-2. Jones and Caudill topped Trapp and Gaddy, 6-4, 4-6, 7-6, in the top-seeded doubles match. Buckley and Grube defeated Sanchez and McCoy, 6-0, 6-0, in the second-seeded doubles competition while Strickland and Morgan beat Rhodes and Donna Mobley, 6-1, 6-0, in the final doubles match. "I felt Laura Tyson played well," Crocker remarked. "She hasn't played too much and did a real good job considering that. They just had more experience than we did in the girls' competition." Crocker feels the NMMI match will be a good one. "Their boys team is very good," he said. "They probably don't have much of a girls team because not many girls attend school there. I understand their top-seeded boys player is very good. Lovington's top-seeded player told Ryan that if he plays the way he did Tuesday, he'll have a good chance of beating the NMMI ace."

GOING FOR THE BALL. Billy Woodul of the Ruidoso High School boys tennis team tries for the ball in his second-seeded match with Shannon Wood of Lovington High School Tuesday afternoon at the Sierra Swim and Racquet Club. Woodul won in three sets, 6-2, 4-6, 6-1 as the Warriors won the team match, 7-2. Ruidoso's girls lost an 8-1 decision.

Ruidoso golfers need good weather

Ruidoso High School golf coach Leroy Gooch would love some nice weather soon. The Warrior golf team has had a hard time practicing recently because of the snow and rain. With the Deming Invitational Friday and Saturday, Gooch hopes the weather will clear up very soon, like today. "We just haven't been able to practice much lately," Gooch said. "Getting a lot of practice in is vital in this game. We've looked better but just haven't been able to get some practice time in." If the weather is good today, Gooch will hold a qualifying round to see which players will compete in the Deming tournament. If it's not nice, he'll just decide which players would probably do the best and go with them. "Right now Virgil Reynolds is playing our best golf by a long shot," Gooch said. "Tommy Crow is also starting to improve. We're hitting the ball good in practice. We should start to play good, solid golf if we get enough practice time. "Last week (at the Las Cruces Invitational) we were hitting the ball good but just not scoring." Other golfers who have done well recently are Dion Lopez, Billy Taylor and Gary Gregson. Taylor will not be available for the Deming tournament as he is going on a trip. Friday's round of the Deming competition will begin at 1 p.m. The Saturday round will start at 8:30 a.m.

Youth cage tourney set

The second annual Pee-Wee boys basketball tournament will be Friday and Saturday, April 8-9, at the Mesalero Community Center gymnasium. There is a $30 entry fee and only the first 12 teams that sign up may compete. The tournament is for boys nine to 12 years old and the entry deadline is 4:30 p.m. Tuesday, April 5. There will be trophies for the first through fourth teams and an all-tournament team will be selected. T-shirts will also be given out. For entry signups and further information, contact Albert Platta at P.O. Box 262, Mesalero, NM 88340.

Soccer signups to begin

The Ruidoso-Sertoma Soccer Association youth league will hold its first registration signup for the 1983 summer season from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. Friday at the Ruidoso Public Library. A second registration signup will be Friday, April 1, from 6 p.m. to 9 p.m. at the library. The final registration will be from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Saturday, April 2, at the library. There will be a $12 entry fee. Players must bring their parents or guardians and proof of their age. All new and returning players must register.

Boosters to meet tonight

The Ruidoso High School Warriors' Booster Club will hold an important meeting in the teachers lounge at the high school at 7:30 tonight. The all-sports banquet will be discussed. All members are encouraged to attend the meeting.

Warrior spikers face tough teams Saturday

by Gary Brown
Sports Writer

If competition is the key to fast times in track, then the Ruidoso High School boys and girls track teams should record some excellent times at the Alamogordo Invitational Saturday.

The meet, which will start with trials at 10 a.m. on the Alamogordo High School track, will feature some of the top schools from Albuquerque and El Paso, Texas. Most of the schools will be from the AAAA or AAAAA (Texas) divisions. The finals will begin at 1:30 p.m.

"The competition will be tough, there's no doubt about that," said Warrior head boys coach Ron Maske. "We'll be going up against some guys who we know are good. We're just going to try and improve our times over last week and get prepared for our upcoming meets."

The Warrior boys opened the season with a non-scoring meet at Carlsbad High School last Friday while the Ruidoso girls will be opening their season at Alamogordo.

Maske thinks that sophomore distance star Cisco Bob will have plenty of competition in the 1,500 meters and the medley relay. Bob finished fourth in the state AAA division 1,500 meters last season.

"Cisco will probably have to run the fastest race of his life just to place," the Warrior mentor said. "I hear Comstock (Micah Comstock, the state 1,500-meter AAAA division champion from Del Norte High School of Albuquerque) isn't going to run in the 1,500 meters. Still, he'll probably run in the medley relay and that will push our team quite a bit."

Senior sprinter Grady Williamson will probably run in three relays and not compete in the open sprints for the Warriors Saturday.

"Grady will probably run in the 800-meter relay and the medley relay and possibly the mile relay," Maske said. "His ankle is still a bit sore and we're trying to get him ready for the sprints in a couple of weeks."

Maske has been disappointed with the work of some of his sprinters.

"Some of the sprinters haven't had a good week of practice," he said. "The weather wasn't the main factor and we hope to straighten this out soon."

Warrior girls coach Sergio Castanon will probably take 15 members of his 17-athlete squad to the meet.

"We haven't got a large squad but we lost only Sheri Dennis from last year's team," he said. "We're coming along and we'll get there."

Sophomore Stacy Ivy should be a key part of the Warrior team this season. The transfer from Texas will run in the open 100 meters, 200 meters and 400 meters.

"She ran last season but I don't know what her times were," Castanon said of Ivy. "She's going to run these events for practice to see how she does."

Kristy Douglass will also run the 100 meters and 200 meters. Douglass will also compete in the 100-meter hurdles and 75-meter hurdles.

The Warriors' main strength should be in the four relay events, where they'll have four state meet veterans running the legs.

Sonja Jefferson, Jackie Jefferson, Valerie Garica and Gia Rose will make up the relay squad. They'll run the 400-meter relay, 800-meter relay, 1,600-meter relay and medley relay.

Ruidoso could also be competitive.

in the shot put and discus. Veteran Lillian Lopez will compete, as will senior Claudia Branum, who did not come out for track last season. Branum is an excellent all-around athlete, however, and should help Ruidoso.

State meet 3,000-meter veteran Deana Peso will compete in that event and the 1,500 meters. Several newcomers will help Peso in those events.

Eighth-grader Sheila Shelton will run in the 800 meters and 1,500 meters.

NOTES: The meet should be a pure joy for long-time track fans. Sandia High School of Albuquerque has the state's defending discus and shot put champion in Fred Mady. Mady threw the discus over 170 feet last week. Comstock leads a powerful Del Norte sprint corps. However, the strongest team of all will probably be Highland of Albuquerque, the defending state AAAA division team champion. Highland ran a 42.65 400-meter relay and a 1:31.0 800-meter relay last week and is strong in almost every event.

THE POLICE TEAM. These are some of the members of the Lincoln County law enforcement basketball team which will play the Ruidoso High School faculty at 6 p.m. tonight in the Warrior gym. From left, they are Mark Paz, cheerleader Joyce McMath, Debbie Floyd, Steve Yocham,

THE BEST OF THE FACULTY. These are some of the members of the Ruidoso High School faculty basketball team which will play the Lincoln County law enforcement squad tonight in the Warrior gym. From left, they are Sergio Castanon, Darrel Stierwalt, Ron Geyer, Gerry Tully and Gerald Ames. Athletic director Doyle Howell is the coach. Other members of the squad include Vince Collins, Elmer Chavez and Thurman Sanchez.

Ruidoso faculty to battle police in benefit basketball game tonight

Anybody wanting to see a basketball game for a good cause might take a trip to the Ruidoso High School gymnasium at 6 tonight.

The various law enforcement agencies of Lincoln County will field a basketball team against several Ruidoso faculty members, with the proceeds going to help sponsor future Ruidoso-Lincoln County Police Athletic League events.

The police team, which is calling itself "Pig PAL," is coached by Oscar Villado. Ruidoso athletic director Doyle Howell is the coach of the faculty team. PAL treasurer Mark Paz is coordinator of the contest.

The game could be a tough battle on the boards as both teams have good height and leaping ability.

Ruidoso's faculty squad will probably go with 6-5 Ron Geyer, 6-3 Gerry Tully and 6-2 Vince Collins in the front line. Sergio Castanon and Thurman Sanchez will probably start at guard. The "Pig PAL" team has big David Pfeffer ready to battle the towering Warriors.

Lincoln County sheriff Tom Sullivan, Ruidoso police chief Richard Swenor and Ruidoso Downs police chief Charles Robinson will also play for the law enforcement squad.

Pfeffer is confident his team will win.

"We ran them ragged in practice yesterday," he laughed. "The old folks just can't take it."

But Howell has an answer for the police team. "When the smoke clears, we'll probably have more points on the scoreboard," he said.

There will be a $1 admission fee for people over 12. Youths four to 12 will be charged 50 cents, while children under four will be admitted free.

T-shirts will be given out by Record and Rags, formerly Flip Side. Television channel 11 will also tape the event.

Local racers to compete

Six racers from Lincoln County will be competing in drag races hosted by the Alamogordo Drag Club at Holloman Air Force Base this Sunday.

Ray Capps, Phillip Ortiz, Rick Armstrong, Don Jones, Jeff Brown and Steve Mallett will be entering cars in the pro and modified classes.

TALENTED RUNNER. David Landrum should be one of the top distance runners for Ruidoso High School's boys track team this season. Landrum, a junior, is good at any event from 800 meters to 3,000 meters. He is just one of several fine distance runners on the Warrior squad.

NOT QUITE A BARN. The city barn near the hot mix plant on a mesa east of town now houses the street and sanitation departments. The 60-

A SPACIOUS INTERIOR provides a comfortable workplace for mechanic Charles Alston at the new city barn. Three large bay doors enter into the work area, where motor graders and street plows can stay warm for early morning starts in the winter.

City barn used for storage and work

by DAVID SHEPPARD
Staff Writer

The so-called "city barn" has been up for over a month now, providing a roof under which repairs can be made on village trucks and an office for street and sanitation superintendent Jack LaMay.

The all-steel building is located on the mesa to the north of Sudderth Drive on the eastern edge of town. The mesa also holds the village hot mix plant and all street and sanitation equipment.

The council was urged by councilman Al Junge last year to purchase the building. Junge pressed for the building because he saw the need for an enclosed facility for the street and sanitation departments.

The 60- by 90-foot building, with a 20-foot high ceiling, has a giant working area that can hold at least six large trucks. Also included is a two-floor storage area where street signs and replacement parts are kept. LaMay said he previously had to rent a storage garage for the signs.

LaMay now has a spacious office, and an aggregate lab where he tests and measures gravel used for street base course material.

A full-length mechanics bench runs along one wall of the garage area, where mechanic Charles Alston does all the repairs on department trucks and equipment.

LaMay said village employees did much of the interior work on the building, which held down total cost of the facility to around $90,000.

He said he hopes to have an open house at the building sometime this month.

Animal Control Officer comments on puppy

by DAVID SHEPPARD
Staff Writer

In response to questions about accusations printed in The News last week concerning an abused puppy, Ruidoso Animal Control Officer Jack Sniadecki said Monday he responded to a call about the alleged abuse, but found no evidence confirming the report.

The incident of the puppy reportedly occurred on Sudderth Drive near the Chamber of Commerce building during the lunch hour on March 9.

News of the incident surfaced last week in a letter to the editor published in The News. The woman who signed the letter, Lynda Bennett, said Susan Starnes, said in an interview they witnessed two individuals treating the puppy cruelly as they were driving by.

"It was being drug down the street; it was bounced around like a wet rag," Dacy said in recounting what she saw.

Dacy and Starnes reported the approximately three-month-old puppy was leashed to a larger dog and was being dragged along the side of the street. The dogs were following two male individuals, they wrote.

They also said they witnessed the individuals throwing rocks at the puppy. In the letter, they said witnesses supposedly saw the persons strike the puppy and that the puppy was bleeding. Dacy and Starnes said they did not witness the beating or any blood, but they said the puppy showed no life-like signs.

Dacy said Tuesday she called police and the animal control office after witnessing the acts.

Sniadecki, angered that his professional judgement was questioned in the letter to the editor, said any action he would have taken would remain confidential. But he added he did not cite the individuals or confiscate the puppy.

"She wasn't there when I got there. She has no idea whether we confiscated him. This old gal has no idea what enforcement was taken," Sniadecki argued.

Sniadecki then explained what he observed.

"The dog wasn't in the shape she said; he wasn't bleeding. I didn't see them throwing rocks at him. There were no signs of abuse, no evidence of cruelty.

"You have to realize we have to witness something before we can do something. There was nothing we could do," he added.

The animal control officer said he told the individuals he had received a complaint they were abusing the puppy and advised them they should not lead the dog in the manner that was reported. Sniadecki said the individuals complied with his request and carried the puppy away, rather than leading it.

He also explained that, were he to cite the persons for cruelty, he would have had to confiscate the puppy and bring it to a veterinarian for a professional opinion.

Another witness has reported that she saw the same incident but did not report it to animal control. Lynda Bennett said when she saw the puppy it was wet and appeared to be injured. Bennett said her initial reaction was that she thought "they were stupid people" for treating the puppy cruelly, but that she did not realize the extent of the treatment until she read the published letter.

Sniadecki acknowledged the puppy was wet when he responded, but he noted the persons were near the river when contacted. He added that someone cannot be charged for letting their dog in the river.

Sniadecki repeated that his hands are tied unless he actually sees animal abuse, or obvious evidence an animal has been abused.

He suggested that persons who witness such acts should file complaints in court testifying to what they saw.

He also pointed out that village law does prohibit animal cruelty. The law states no person shall willfully or maliciously kill, beat or otherwise injure any animal, except by using reasonable force to thwart a vicious animal.

The maximum penalty for conviction on animal cruelty is a $300 fine and 90 days in jail.

MEASURING PAYDIRT. Street Superintendent Jack LaMay now has a lab at the city barn where he can measure and weigh aggregate used for base course. Here, he puts a dish of material into a drying oven. Considering the cost of base course figures about $10,000 per mile when used for paving, the tests for proper size are important.

Alamogordo Zoo offers a RRROARING good time

Let's go to the zoo! El Paso, you think. It's only two-and-one-half hours away. Or Albuquerque, a bit farther, but it's a great zoo, so you hear.

It's all much closer than that. Alamogordo's Alameda Park Zoo offers a zoo that's less than an hour away. It comes complete with lions, bears, monkeys, llamas, eagles and more.

The Alameda Park Zoo lies in the only area of town where one might guess a zoo to be. Namely, in that extensive, green strip that exists between the railroad and White Sands Boulevard.

In 1890, Charles Eddy planned the town of Alamogordo. In that original plan, he wanted to create an oasis in a desert. He also wanted to impress wealthy Easterners who Eddy brought in on the train. Eddy was seeking capital investments from these visitors in the areas of mining and timber and land.

As his visitors stepped off the train, their first impression of Alamogordo was decidedly colored by the sight of a lush, green park and zoo. Swans floated in two horseshoe-shaped ponds. An intricately fashioned arched gate invited the visitors to Alameda Park Zoo. Charles Eddy had created his oasis.

The foresight of Charles Eddy has today left Alamogordo with the oldest zoo in the Southwest. The horseshoe-shaped ponds are gone. So are the swans. And the arched entrance way deteriorated more than a few years ago. But because of the determination of Elaine and Bud Wiser, the zookeepers since 1975, many of those visual delights are soon to return.

When Bud and Elaine graduated from New Mexico State University in 1974 with degrees in wildlife science, they went to Bolling Springs, Pennsylvania, to work in a zoo. Little did they know that a controversy was brewing in Alamogordo that would soon result in a job offer for them.

A controversy was raging over the condition of the zoo. The zoo was being staffed by employees of the Parks and Recreation Department who were doing an admirable job but were nonetheless not trained in zoo management. The Alamogordo Zoo Committee was formed, and it discovered that the town overwhelmingly wanted to keep the zoo but felt it must be improved.

The committee contacted El Paso Zoo director Ray Arras, who toured the zoo and strongly recommended that professionals be hired. Arras knew of the Wisers and he contacted them.

The Wisers turned out to be perfect for the job. They returned to their home state and began the long and ongoing process of maintaining and modernizing the zoo.

In July of 1975 the Wisers, who were hired as co-directors of the zoo, found many of the cages empty and those cages which were occupied too sterile and inhospitable. Says Bud Wiser, "Wiper enhancement was nil."

The animals' health at the time was adequate, with one exception. Many of the animals were terribly obese. With the onset of a good diet, the overall health of these animals was greatly improved. "That first year we cut the food budget in half," says Bud. "There were animals here," Elaine explains, "that just weren't that interesting and were really domesticated creatures."

In a short time, the Wisers replaced the Mexican goats and Fallow deer with what would become a small herd of llamas. They bought one pair of llamas from Roswell for $100 each. Aside from their own intrinsic value, the llamas turned out to be a good investment. Male llamas now sell for $750 and females go for $1,500.

Another situation that the Wisers had to change quickly concerned the monkeys. The Rhesus monkeys, which were then present in the zoo, had become seriously neurotic.

"The Rhesus monkey does not adapt well to people hassling them, making strange noises and generally aggravating them. Invariably, if people see a Rhesus monkey sitting quietly in their containment area, they will try to do anything to stir them up. The Rhesus monkey just couldn't handle it. So we brought in Patas and Capuchin monkeys who are active and happy, and people don't feel a need to taunt them," Elaine explained.

The Wisers are continuously enlarging the cages and improving the quality of the cages. Most recently, the bears, mountain lions and African lions were given a more natural environment to live in.

"For the lions, it means we designed more resting furniture," laughs Elaine. She explains further, "When lions are in their natural environment, they must roam over a wide range to hunt for food. But their home territory is rather small. When lions are in captivity and being supplied with food, there is no need for them to roam. Even in the wild, lions sleep or rest over 20 hours per day. Of course they need stimulation, which another animal can provide."

Both Bud and Elaine are strongly committed to educating the public about wildlife. Bud says, "We couldn't justify keeping an animal in captivity unless we thought that people were getting educated about that animal. We hope that education will benefit the wildlife counterpart."

This spring will see major changes in Alameda Park Zoo. For the first time in its 85-year history, there will be a perimeter fence enclosing the zoo.

"Without a fence, there is no rest for the animals and they are painfully vulnerable to vandals. Fortunately, we have had a minimum of problems in the past. However, when we first got here, Bud would patrol the park at night with a baseball bat. Thankfully, those days are gone," said Elaine.

By mid-summer, the new waterfowl pond should be completed. The new entrance to the zoo will be a bridge over the pond. The famous arched gateway that welcomed visitors in the days of Charles Eddy will soon be replicated by an El Paso patron. This time the arch will be made of wrought iron.

The Wisers expect 100,000 people to view their animals this year. There is presently no admission charge to the zoo. The Wisers will provide guided tours for groups giving two weeks notice.

Graveside funeral services were at 9 a.m. Thursday, March 24, at Fort Bliss National Cemetery, Dr. James H. Jauncey officiating with military honors.

The Silver Lining

BY DANIEL AGNEW STORM

Bad News and Good Or When Is The Bad News Good? There is an old saying, "The bringer of good news is always welcome."

Recently President Reagan wondered why the media does not bring some good news once in a while. And he does seem that in the headlines, the T.V., the radio, all you see or hear is the darkest side of life.

You may drive your car safely for thirty, forty, fifty years safely. This is not news. It is when you make a slip and they carry you out feet first that you make the headlines.

The happy life on "the sunny banks of California" goes on from year to year, and not much is heard of it. It is when the tidal waves begin to make hash out of the sea shore, and houses start tumbling into the drink — and the mudslides take over, that California is the darling of the radio, T.V., and newspapers.

Little Valdez, Alaska, can go on its peaceful way beside its green mountains with glaciers on top, next to the peaceful blue waters of Valdez Bay, and no one ever hears of the place. On Good Friday of 1964 an earthquake all but demolishes the town; a tidal wave comes next, and then a fire breaks out amidst the ruins — and the whole world knows about Valdez.

This is nobody's fault, and the duty of the media to report.

Going to extremes for a minute, bad news is often very important.

In a great battle, say the Revolutionary War, a serious breakthrough occurs in the American lines. The intelligence department does not bring George Washington word that all is peaches and cream on the front. Washington must get this bad news, the quicker the better.

The doctor gives you a physical exam, and finds that one of your main veins is fixing to balloon, your gall bladder is about to crater, your brain — unless immediate corrective steps are taken — is ready to explode. The doctor brings you this "bad news"

Ski season extended

Due to the recent heavy snowfalls, Sierra Blanca Ski Resort will operate until April 10, a week longer than originally planned. Easter is traditionally the last weekend of operation for the resort.

"All this snow has changed things because winter won't go away," said area manager Roy Parker. "The base is really good."

and sets about staving off the threats to your health.

Sure, it is "fitting and proper" that the media should report "earthquake, flood, and fire" — and point out the warning signs of conditions in the world.

But you can run anything into the ground. To keep hammering on dismal things becomes "plumb monotonous."

Our country is abounding in good news. Paul Harvey's broadcasts recount progress in science, medicine, agriculture, human relations; the American Spirit, undaunted, driving ahead to better days.

My family wanted me to start a "cheer 'em up column" years ago, suggesting that this is my mission in life. "And I am grateful for the privilege of writing for a paper which features the good news; children's activities, religious events, civic organizations, progress, enjoyment of the out-of-doors, and welcome to the world to enjoy the natural beauty of the region."

Let us then, "Rejoice and be Exceeding Glad" that soon we will be celebrating the season of The Great Good News: "I am the way and the truth the resurrection and the Life."

Inside The Capitol

by Fred McCaffrey

SANTA FE — Wow! Do you get told off when you say something bad about Pete Domenici?

This writer recently said one of Pete's weaknesses in a run for reelection could be a perception that he has become too much of a national figure. Some read that to imply Pete has gone big-time and forgotten New Mexico.

And did they ever respond! Newspapers carrying that column had barely hit the streets when the answers — the vigorous answers — started coming in from Domenici supporters.

Gist of their message: If you believe that, McCaffrey, you must have rocks for brains.

Summarized, their message comes down to this:

There is no contradiction between being a national leader and a vigorous defender of New Mexico's interests. By being the first, Domenici probably improves his effectiveness at the second.

They also claim the Domenici staff, both in Washington and at home, have never slacked off in the slightest in their efforts to help New Mexicans because of their boss' national prominence. (One said, "They're the best staff any New Mexico Congressman has ever assembled" — which is difficult to prove or disprove.)

Then his defenders make the point that Domenici gets along better with the Democratic governors of the state than some in the delegation who belong to the same party. That, they claim, is because he goes out of his way to be cooperative, even assigning a competent staffer to work with state and local governments on industrial development.

And so' it went, with McCaffrey most listening as he got chewed out. Probably the strongest argument presented came from the person who said: "I challenge you to demonstrate a single way in which Pete Domenici, in committee rooms and on the floor of the Senate, has failed to press for legislation of importance to New Mexico and the Southwest, despite his heavy burdens on the Budget Committee and elsewhere."

No answer from here on that one. But the coup de grace came from an insider in the Domenici camp.

He says on-going surveys of New Mexico citizens show they have no such perception of Domenici as this column thought should be feared. "They report in gratifying numbers that they are impressed by Pete's hard work when he is in the state, by his continuing contact with our people by mail and phone, and by his quick grasp of problems presented to him. They rate him highly on all these matters," this man says. "In short, they consider him their friend."

Okay, folks, enough already. Consider McCaffrey routed. Please strike from your minds any of the implications from that previous column which suggested people had suffered some loss of confidence in Pete.

That is evidently not borne out by the facts. The man has more supporters — and more vocal ones — than anybody this writer has previously seen.

That will stand him in good stead when the time comes for him to run again.

As for this columnist, he will have to keep on saying what he thinks, but he may be a little more careful with his comments on the senior Senator hereafter.

So be it.

Letters to the Editor

DEAR EDITOR:

I, too, was a witness to the brutal beating of the puppy referred to in a letter to the editor in the March 17 paper, but like the writer of the letter had decided that what I saw was not really what I thought. I evidently saw the poor puppy at the beginning of his long ordeal. He was soaking wet; he had evidently been thrown in the river and the two males were calling to him as the two larger dogs played with each other. My thought was that they had thrown him in the river to give him a bath with no thought to the fact that it was pretty chilly that day. I passed it off as ignorance on their part and hoped the puppy would survive it and had put it out of my mind. But since the letter appeared in the paper, a very vivid picture of that puppy sticks in my mind of him humped up and shivering. I feel so guilty that I did not try to do something to stop what happened. (I was in a hurry to get back to the office as we were busy that day!) We as witnesses probably should take some of the blame for not trying to put a stop to it ourselves — but then the question is, what could we have done?

I urge the Animal Control to please help put a stop to this kind of inhumane treatment of animals. If the Animal Control is not the agency to call in a situation like this, who is? If these individuals are capable of doing this kind of thing to a helpless animal they may also be capable of doing it to a child. I'm with Susan Starnes and Sandra Dacy in saying isn't there a law against abuse to animals? If there isn't, then as a "civilized" society we need to create one and designate a punishment for such a crime.

I, too, hope the puppy is dead. What a terrible thing to have to go through!

DEAR EDITOR:

The Ruidoso Downs Mule Skinkers and the citizens of Ruidoso would like to take this opportunity to thank the Board of Directors of Ruidoso-Sunland for their reconsideration and approval for use of the Ruidoso Downs facilities for the 1983 mule races.

We would also like to extend our sincere thanks to the many people who made contacts, wrote letters and made phone calls in our behalf. Also special thanks to The Ruidoso News and staff for their support, Ed Jungbluth and the Chamber of Commerce, Mayor White and the City Council of Ruidoso, Mayor Day and the City Council of Ruidoso Downs and the Ruidoso Motel Association.

The Officers and Directors of the Ruidoso Downs Mule Skinkers are pleased with the tremendous response. We are looking forward to the biggest and best mule races ever!

Thanks Again,

DEAR EDITOR:

This note is in deep appreciation of a job well done by Detective Pfeffer and Detective Lovelace in recovering the items taken from our home last week.

Many of us do not realize the long hours, the many frustrations and the thankless task performed by these two every day.

We are glad they are here, and we personally cannot thank them enough.

Sincerely,
CLAY AND ALEX ADAMS

DEAR EDITOR:

I would like to thank Roy Parker, Denny Grover and the Mesalero Apache Nation for the outstanding job they have done this year at Sierra Blanca Ski Area.

The slope maintenance has been superb and consequently my weekend business has increased. Also because of the outstanding slope maintenance our snow will last longer and the quality of our spring skiing will be better.

But now it's our turn. We have been getting a free ride all winter due to the hard work, and long hours of the ski area personnel. I was told the other day that we were rated ninth in the nation for snow depth and skiing conditions. We know that, but do our customers?

Call a friend or relative today! Let someone know how wonderful skiing conditions are. They won't know unless we tell them.

Be Skiing you,
RAY HEID

BOOST FOR STEEL

There is no mystery about why the United Steelworkers, for the first time in 40 years, has accepted nationwide concessions in its contract with management.

The underlying rationale reflects the old saying that a job at less pay is better than no job at all.

To put it in another way, the steel workers are doing their part to shore up an ailing industry on which they depend for their livelihood. To this end they have taken a wage cut, reductions in cost-of-living payments, less vacation time; all this without any management guarantee against plant closings.

This course was reluctantly agreed to. Last year's demands for concessions were twice rejected by local Steelworkers presidents. The current package seems to have been sweetened a bit, but the fact still is that the union has given up some hard-won gains of the past.

The grievously depressed industry, which lost over $3 billion last year, gets a cash boost that should be a big help toward recovery. For that, the nation owes the steelworkers a debt of gratitude. — Albuquerque Daily News

PUTTING THE GUESS-WORK IN TIRE SALES

A system that gives consumers information on how long the tires they purchase can be expected to wear has been suspended indefinitely by the Reagan administration.

The reasons offered were that the tread-wear grading is unscientific, expensive, unreliable and confusing. The National Highway Traffic Safety Administration said tire purchasers were better off "buying by price" — getting better tires by paying more for them.

Consumer advocates are angry about the suspension. They say defects in the system can easily be corrected. They point out that tires are the most expensive replacement for most car owners and testing was costing only about 6 cents a tire.

The government answers by saying a new testing system may be reinstated if research now underway produces a better method of tread testing.

We say the government has acted hastily. If a better system is needed, it should have been developed and placed in use before abandoning the old system. Consumers need all the help they can get. — Valencia County News Bulletin

Do you know your street number?

If you don't, or if you have to think for a minute to recall it, chances are the number is not clearly posted on your property, facing the street.

But it should be—a life could depend on it.

In Ruidoso, there is usually not much need to recall the street address of your house, or even the name of the street.

One reason, of course, is that we get our mail in post office boxes. Also, owing to the nature of the terrain, directions are more likely to be given in terms like "turn at the big tree with the cabin signs on it," or "go up the little street next to Gerlie's Diner."

This is well and fine if you're directing your visiting in-laws to your house for dinner. But when you or someone else is giving directions because police, fire or emergency medical service is required, it won't do at all.

That is the time when a street address, concisely stated to the dispatcher, and easily visible to the responding personnel, can be a lifesaver.

So check and see if your street number is posted. Reflective numbers are a good idea—they show up better at night. The dollar a day fine for failing to post your house would quickly exceed the cost of the numbers.—TP

Reporter's Round

by Gary Brown

Memories can last a lifetime.

While I was on vacation in California last week, I visited a small coastal resort where I had vacationed many times during my younger days.

The place is named Capitola. How it got its name is anybody's guess but the most common belief is that it came from a 19th century novel.

Capitola was originally started as a summer resort in the 1860s for wealthy people from San Francisco and the central valley and it reigns as the oldest sea resort on the west coast.

My grandparents used to live in Capitola and I started visiting the town with my parents when I was 2 or 3 years old.

My friends and I used to swim in the ocean surf and go fishing off the 125-year-old pier. We also used to hike around the two high cliffs that stood on both sides of the town and hunt for wild berries.

All those memories came back to me last week when I visited Capitola.

It rained most of the day and the surf was pounding up near the wall that separated a 1920s condominium project from the beach. Several restaurants and bars overlook the beach and the bay, but they were nearly deserted.

California has been undergoing some rough weather in recent weeks. Many communities on the coast have had extensive property damage.

Capitola didn't get it as bad as some of the other towns but some of the old houses and apartments near the beach had to be boarded up.

The town has some of the best preserved Victorian-era houses in California. However, most of these homes are on the cliffs or away from the beach so they avoided any real damage.

I was pleased that these homes weren't damaged by the rainstorms and high tide. As I grew out of my childhood, I began to notice the distinctive flavor Capitola's architecture had.

Some of the older homes date back to the 1870s and possibly even earlier. In that era, Capitola was not much more than a summer resort with tents and a few vacation homes.

A railroad was started in the area in the 1870s and that spurred the development of the town. By the 1890s, Capitola was a renowned summer spot for rich people from San Francisco, 75 miles to the north.

One of the largest hotels on the west coast was built in Capitola in 1896. However, it met a tragic fate in 1929 when it was destroyed by fire.

An era died when the hotel was destroyed. Capitola, as almost everywhere else, enjoyed a boom period during the "Roaring 20s".

That period ended with the burning of the hotel, just in time for the great depression.

Capitola still prospered as a summer resort town after the depression ended. My grandparents moved from Berkeley to the resort at the end of World War II and lived there until a few years ago.

Capitola has gone through several periods of change since the 1950s. Drugs and the occult were a major problem in the late 1960s and early 1970s when many people moved from San Francisco's Haight-Ashbury district to Capitola.

Skinned animals were often found nailed to trees in the Capitola area and back into the Santa Cruz mountains during this time.

However, a more pleasant change grew out of the "cultural revolution."

In the past 10 years, Capitola has begun to develop an artist colony. Several old stores have been bought and remodeled by members of the "Baby Boom" generation and turned into souvenir shops or artists' studios.

Some old homes which were on the verge of falling down were saved when people remodeled them and turned them into businesses. A few of these homes have been decorated with elaborate designs that give them a bit of character.

However, one of the saddest changes in the past decade happened to an old Victorian mansion about two miles from the beach near a freeway.

The mansion was built around 1880 by the daughter and son-in-law of a woman with an old Spanish land grant. Most of the Capitola area was in this land grant before the resort was started.

When the mansion was built over 100 years ago, there was little or no housing around it. As recently as 1970, it stood by itself in a group of trees, about 200 yards from the nearest building.

After some descendants of the original owners died, a condominium development company bought the old mansion and built a group of condos around it. They remodeled the mansion and, at first, it seemed like an improvement.

But then a motel was built near it and now all you can see of the old home is the ancient chimney sticking out over the top of the condos.

It's perhaps a sign of the times. Capitola now has over 10,000 residents compared to its 1860 population of around 2,000 people.

New housing developments are going up all the time and some day the old Capitola may find itself fighting for its life.

But for now, there are still a good number of reminders of the past for people like me to enjoy.

As I walked around the small boardwalk near the beach, I looked out at the ancient pier and the old homes standing on the cliff to the right of it.

I remembered all the times my friends, cousins and I fished on the old structure and hiked along the paths behind the century-old homes.

Then I knew part of the old resort would never die.

Like I said, some memories last a lifetime.

ART, DINING AND ENTERTAINMENT GUIDE

Sunland Park Hoofbeats

by MARK GORDON
THREE HORSES WHO PASSED under the gavel at the 1981 All-American Select Quarter Horse Yearling Sale at Ruidoso Downs earned spots in the West Texas Derby following seven trial races on Friday. Heza Hombre, a $9,000 horse, Wranglers Go Man, who was purchased for $13,000, and Indian Lariat, a $16,000 buy, each earned berths in the 12th running of Sunland's featured attraction for three-year-old quarter horses. The 400-yard dash is set for Sunday, April 3, with the winner collecting $47,282.67 from the total purse of $94,565.34. A three-time winner was Jack Brooks, one of quarter horse racing's finest trainers. The Oklahoman saddled three horses who earned spots in the finale — Kita Blue, the fastest qualifier with a 19.57

clocking; Steppin For Te, the fourth-fastest qualifier and Heza Hombre, who tied for the seventh fastest time. Kita Blue won the fifth trial race by one and one-fourth lengths while blazing to the fastest reading of the 62 sophomores entered. He has won nine of 12 lifetime starts, including taking the $290,000 All-American Futurity's First Consolation last Labor Day at Ruidoso Downs. He's owned by Sonny and Betty Terry of Oklahoma City, Oklahoma. Call Caleb, who captured last fall's Sunland Park Quarter Horse Futurity, had the second-fastest qualifying time. He tallied a 19.61 while scoring a win by almost two lengths in the first division. Call Caleb, a Reb's Polcy gelding, is the richest of the 10 West Texas Derby finalists with career earnings of $139,379 for owners R. D. Hubbard and Don E. Keith of Wichita, Kansas.

THE COMPLETE LIST of West Texas Derby entrants and their qualifying times: Kita Blue (19.57); Call Caleb (19.61); Realeasy Chick (19.64); Steppin For Te (19.69); Five O'clock Rush (19.71); Raise The Cash (19.80); Heza Hombre (19.83); Wranglers Go Man (19.83); Vons Lucky Moon (19.85); and Indian Lariat (19.85).
TRAINER J. B. MONTGOMERY SADDLED three winners on Friday's program. He started with Wranglers Go Man ($3,800) for owner J. Phillip Patterson of Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, in the fourth, captured the sixth with Easier Chicklet ($54,600) for owners J. Phillip and Anita Patterson of Oklahoma City, and then took the eighth with Raise The Cash ($16,600) for owner Cesar Pedrero of Mexico

City, Mexico. Jimmie Hunt rode Wranglers Go Man and Easier Chicklet while Jerry Burgess was aboard Raise The Cash.
DRACONADE, ONE OF THE TOP SELLERS in last summer's Tenth Annual Summer Sale for Selected Thoroughbred Yearlings at Ruidoso Downs, showed a courageous bid in his racing debut when he battled odds-on favorite Machisma through the stretch and scored a head victory. The race was a four-furlong maiden chase for New Mexico-breds, and was the fourth on Saturday at Sunland Park. Draconade was sold for $31,000 last July. Trained by Billy Hitt and ridden by Ramon Apodaca, Draconade is owned by J. Bob and Virginia Ruth Kimbrough of Abilene, Texas. As a $4,400-1 second wagering choice, Draconade returned $10.80 to win his race in :46 1/5.
ROCKET JET BUG, one of the dependable veterans of quarter horse racing, made his 1983 debut a winning one during Saturday's 10th race. The six-year-old Showum Jet gelding led throughout in a 350-yard allowance race while tallying a neck victory over Piston Popper. Aided by a healthy tailwind, Rocket Jet Bug was timed in 17.57, the second-fastest 350-yard reading this season at Sunland Park. Rocket Jet Bug's biggest victory was winning the 1980 Rainbow Derby at Ruidoso Downs. Trained by J. B. Montgomery, Rocket Jet Bug was ridden by Larry Byers for owners Betty Lou Shebestor of Wynnewood, Oklahoma.

TRAINER DAWN MCDANIEL saddled two winners on Saturday's card. She started with Top Parr Moon ($9,800) in the fifth for owners Dr. Clark R. McDaniel and Hugh H. Dorian of El Paso, Texas, and then captured the eighth with Rebel Soldier ($12,000), a horse she owns in partnership with Dr. Clark McDaniel of El Paso. Jack Wallace rode both horses.
THE HORSEWOMEN UNITED will hold a garage sale in the Sunland Park forecourt area starting at 9 a.m. on Wednesday, March 23. Everything from pots to bolts will be sold.
SUNDAY'S 12TH RUNNING of the West Texas Futurity will be the first of Sunland Park's four featured presentations this spring. The 330-yard dash will provide the winner $26,809.85 of the gross purse of $53,619.70. The other major events this spring include the West Texas Derby at 400 yards on Sunday, April 3, the Sun Country Futurity at 350 yards on Sunday, April 24 and the meet's main event, the Riley Allison Futurity over five furlongs on closing day, Sunday, May 1.

IT TOOK 24 TRIES but Volatility finally found the winner's circle. The four-year-old Lionized filly tallied a nose win in Saturday's first race to finally snap her maiden. The race was at a mile for maidens running for a $5,000 claiming price. She failed in 20 attempts in 1982 as a three-year-old and Saturday's race was her fourth this season. She was unraced as a two-year-old. Trained by Jesse A. Perez and ridden by Christopher O'Dell, she is owned by Dr. Raul Ostrana of El Paso. As a $4,200-1 second wagering choice, Volatility returned $10.40 to win.
TOUGH TILLIE SCORED, HER THIRD consecutive victory when she pulled away for a one-and-three-fourths length victory in Sunday's featured $8,725 Sunland Park Derby at one mile. The three-year-old George Navonod filly raced at major west coast racing plants such as Hollywood Park and Santa Anita Park before arriving at Sunland Park early this year. She took a neck win in a five-furlong allowance chase for fillies on February 21 and then drew out to win by almost one length in a six-furlong allowance chase on March 4. This was her first attempt at a mile since finishing eighth last December at Santa Anita. As the 8-5 wagering favorite, she paid $5.20 to win. Ridden by Ruben Miranda for trainer Lewis L. Germany, Tough Tillie is owned by Guy M. Bowers of Pampa, Texas.

WINNING POST POSITIONS: No. 1 — 76 wins, No. 2 — 78, No. 3 — 104, No. 5 — 91, No. 6 — 79, No. 7 — 77, No. 8 — 52, No. 9 — 49, No. 10 — 52, No. 11 — 8, No. 12 — 6.
TOTAL HANDLE FOR THE WEEKEND reached $1,129,127, up slightly over the same weekend a year ago. With the daily average now pegged at $339,859, Sunland Park is still moving on course toward its biggest season in history. At this point a year ago, the daily average was $333,495.

Pastel pro to offer workshop

One of the nation's foremost pastellists, Albert Handell, will be instructing a spring workshop at Carrizo Lodge April 4-8.

Handell was born in Brooklyn, New York, and received his art education at the famous Art Student's League. He maintains a studio in Woodstock, New York, and the success of his teaching approach is attested to by the fact that pastel enthusiasts from all over the country return each year to study under the master.
 In addition to his instruction at the Art Student's League, Handell studied the European Master techniques at the La Grande Chaumiere in Paris, France, and at major museums throughout Europe. The artist has had many one-man shows and participated in numerous group shows and national exhibitions which earned him several awards.
 Formerly a visiting professor at the University of Utah, he has over a decade of teaching experience at various art schools and as guest instructor for art societies throughout the country. Handell also is the author of two books, "Oil Painting Workshop" and "Pastel Painting Workshop," and has been

Kita Blue top Derby qualifier

Kita Blue continued his remarkable record by setting the fastest qualifying time for the West Texas Derby in trial races over 400 yards Friday at Sunland Park.
 Kita Blue streaked to a rapid 19:57 clocking with a strong tailwind to set the fastest reading of the 62 three-year-olds who competed in seven trial races.
 The 10 fastest entrants advanced to the 12th running of the West Texas Derby set for Sunday, April 3, over 400 yards. The winner will collect $47,282.67 from the total purse of $94,565.34 for the meet's featured attraction for three-year-old quarter horses.

 Kita Blue has won nine of 12 career starts with one third for trainer Jack Brooks. His biggest win was taking the $290,000 All-American Futurity's

First Consolation last Labor Day at Ruidoso Downs.
 With the $1,200 he earned for tallying a one and one-fourth length win in Friday's seventh race, Kita Blue has collected $68,149 for owners Sonny and Betty Terry of Oklahoma City, Oklahoma.
 Call Caleb, the winner of last December's $162,583 Sunland Park Fall Quarter Horse Futurity, turned in the second fastest qualifying time. The Reb's Polcy gelding was clocked in 19:61 while winning the third race by almost two lengths.

Call Caleb, ridden by Jerry Nicodemus, is trained by H. Don Farris for owners R. D. Hubbard and Don E. Keith of Wichita, Kansas.
 Other qualifiers with their times and owners include:
 — Realeasy Chick, 19:64, owned by James A. or Gregory A. Drake of Farmington.
 — Steppin For Te, 19:69, owned by Jerry Wells of Sulphur, Oklahoma.
 — Five O'clock Rush, 19:71, owned by Robert H. Kieckhefer of Prescott, Arizona.
 — Raise The Cash, 19:80, owned by Cesar Pedrero of Mexico City, Mexico.
 — Heza Hombre, 19:83, owned by Jerry Wells of Sulphur, Oklahoma.
 — Wranglers Go Man, 19:83, owned by J. Phillip Patterson of Oklahoma City, Oklahoma.
 — Vons Lucky Moon, 19:85, owned by Jack J. Powell of Tyler, Texas.
 — Indian Lariat, 19:85, owned by Victor W. Fryor Jr. and B. J. Howell of Holdenville, Oklahoma.

ALAMOGORDO HORSE IN RICH FUTURITY. Jest Real Easy, a filly owned by Connie H. Danley of Alamogordo, is in the field for this Sunday's (March 27) West Texas Futurity at Sunland Park. The 330-yard sprint packs a purse of $236,899, with $82,914 headed toward the winner. Jest Real Easy, ridden by Jerry Nicodemus, has been to the races twice in her career, and won both times.

Mile no problem for Tough Tillie

Tough Tillie carried a two-race win streak into Sunday's 23rd running of the Sunland Park Derby.

Still, the filly's record left one point in question: Could she handle the mile distance.

In her two previous outings at Sunland, she'd won at five furlongs and six furlongs.

Tough Tillie proved the mile route was no hurdle and swept to a one and three-fourths length victory, earning $5,235 out of the total purse of $8,725.

The filly, owned by Guy Bowers of Pampa, Texas, got the job done in workmanlike style — despite being boxed in a bit at the turn for home. The seven-head field was pretty well bunched up when jockey Ruben Miranda evidently decided there was little percentage in trying to squeeze through close to the rail.

He pulled Tough Tillie back just a bit, went a little wide, slipped through between horses, and found himself in the upper stretch with only one target still in sight — the high-flying 17-1 outsider, Damberod.

Jockey David Lidberg went to the whip vigorously, asking Damberod for enough reserve energy to last him through the stretch. The gelding, packing only 112 pounds, tried his best. For a few strides, he managed to neutralize Tough Tillie's attack.

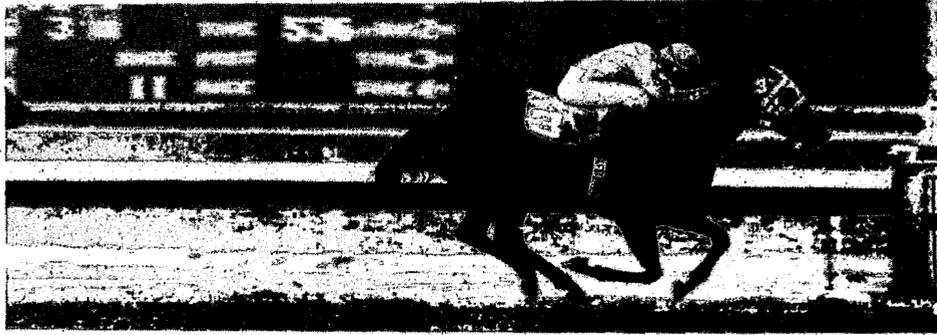

With about a half-furlong to go, Damberod still held a length advantage. But Tough Tillie mustered a powerful charge as she neared the wire and took command with plenty of authority. The filly, trained by Lewis Germany, carried 112 pounds.

Tough Tillie was acquired by Bowers last fall in a sale at Hollywood Park. The winning bid was $39,000. The Derby victory put her 1983 earnings at just under 10 grand.

Launched as an 8-5 favorite in the Sunland Derby, she handed back mutual prices of $5.20, $3.40, $2.60. The winning time was 1:39 4/5 seconds.

Damberod, owned by R. Elvanna Davis of Spearman, Texas, collected $1,919 for second. The totalisator returns: $8.60 and $3. Rhome Red rallied out of sixth place to finish third, collecting $1,074 and dishing out a show price of $2.20. Rhome Red carried Joe Martinez in a 115-pound load.

SUNLAND PARK DERBY WINNER. Tough Tillie lives up to her name with a one and three-fourths length win in Sunday's 23rd running of the Sunland Park Derby. The mile spin for three-year-olds carried a purse of $8,725. Ruben Miranda is up.

Edwin Mayer no stranger to horses

Being around animals is nothing new for Edwin S. Mayer.

"My folks have been ranchers all their lives and I've been in ranching all my life," said the newest member of the Ruidoso-Sunland board of directors.

Mayer, 56, was elected for the first time to the board of directors at a meeting on Friday, March 18, at Sunland Park. The board of directors is the governing body for Sunland Park and Ruidoso Downs Race Tracks in southern New Mexico.

Mayer has owned race horses for nearly five years and currently owns 10 runners who compete at Sunland Park and Ruidoso Downs. That's understandable since the lifelong Texan has always had animal interests at heart.

Born in San Antonio, he lived with his parents on their ranch between Seguin and Donna, Texas. Following grade school and elementary school, he attended a boarding school during his high school years in St. Louis, Missouri.

He then entered Texas A & M University in College Station, Texas, in 1943. He received his draft notice in January of 1945 and then spent a two-year stint in the United States Army.

Mayer returned to College Station to continue work on his studies in early 1947. He moved to the ranch near Sonora in November of 1947 and has been involved with his cattle, sheep and goat enterprises ever since.

The San Angelo (Texas) businessman also has been an independent oil investor for approx-to Sunland Park in the spring, but I don't come very often in the fall. Now it looks like I should be spending more time here in the fall as well," he said.

"I've got my money invested in these two tracks and when Bill Ross (a member of the Ruidoso-Sunland board of directors) and Curly Smith (Ruidoso-Sunland general manager) called me up I was really honored to serve on the board of directors. I felt I could oversee my investment and help in any way I could to see that both tracks continue to grow. Both have shown great strides in recent years," he added. "I think the future looks good for both of them. The economy seems to be rebounding now. Both have shown growth as evidenced by the increase of the mutual handle even during the last two bad years the economy has gone through."

Despite his newness to the board, Mayer certainly is anxious to help the governing body.

"I'd like to contribute whatever way I can. I'm impressed with the board of directors and what they are trying to do. I'd known almost all of them for some time since I'm a pretty regular racegoer at Ruidoso Downs, unless I'm playing golf in a golf tournament," he kidded.

Married to his wife, Billye for more than 33 years, the Mayers have two sons in their early 30s — Steve and Ernie — and four grandchildren.

Mr. Mayer's main hobbies, besides horse racing, include golf and fishing.

VICTORY PLATTER FOR DERBY WINNER. Country singing star Sammi Smith made the platter presentation to Guy Bowers of Pampa, Texas, owner of the Sunland Park Derby winner, Tough Tillie. Helping accept the memento is Lewis Germany Jr., son of Trainer Lewis Germany.

THE QUEEN OF THE WEST TEXAS FUTURITY. One of the year's first big-money quarter horse futurities comes up Sunday, March 27, at Sunland Park, and the likely favorite in the 330-yard trip is Windy City Queen. The filly, who holds a perfect record of two wins from two starts, also set the top qualifying time of 16.81 seconds. The testing ground is the $236,899 West Texas Futurity. The victory share is $82,914. Gary Sumpter is the pilot.

Odd Law captures Winsham Lad

Odd Law, a 5-2 shot piloted by David Lidberg, caught the lead about 100 feet from the wire and swept to a half-length win in Saturday's spotlighted Winsham Lad Purse at Sunland Park. The six-furlong sprint packed an allowance purse of $3,700 and put $2,220 into the winner's account.

Odd Law is the property of James Turner of Silver City. The even-money favorite, Funny Native, stormed into the early lead and looked like a winner at the top of the stretch. But Odd Law picked up steam as he hit the straightaway. He stalked the people's choice throughout most of the stretch, then took command eagerly to win going away.

For Funny Native, the defeat meant the third straight time he's been foiled in his attempt to notch his sixth win of the season.

Odd Law, trained by James Curry, returned mutual payoffs of $7.20, $3.20, $2.60. Funny Native, ridden by Dale Cordova, handed out $3 and $2.60. Greatest Holme (8-1) got in third, returning $3. Mike Lidberg was up.

The winning time, with strong winds blowing, was 1:11 4/5 seconds.

HE'S A JOY. Jets Joy Deck carries the second fastest qualifying time of 16.96 seconds (for 330 yards) into Sunday's finale of the $236,899 West Texas Futurity at Sunland Park. The gelding holds a perfect two-for-two career record. The rider is Billy Waincott.

ART, DINING AND ENTERTAINMENT GUIDE

M. Lidberg looks like top jock

by DICK ALWAN
Mike Lidberg, 22, looks like a cinch to sew up the 1982-83 riding championship at Sunland Park.
The odds are not so much the fact that he seems to have the title locked up with seven weeks still to go — but that the gentleman he'll be overtaking in the race is his younger brother, David.

Never in the history of Southwest racing — or perhaps anywhere in the country — have two brothers so dominated the jockey standings. At this writing, Mike (four years older than David), is only one notch away from a deadheat for first place.

But Mike figures to get the championship, at least by default, since David plans to be leaving the Southwest in about two weeks. He'll be going to California to try his capable skills against some of the best in the country.

Since the two Lidbergs are some 20 wins ahead of their nearest competitor in the Sunland jockey standings, Mike figures to have an easy road to the championship once his kid brother is out of town. But Mike says it'll be a case of mixed feelings when David packs his bags for the West Coast.

David, a bright and engaging young fellow with a look which implies utter sincerity, explains: "David and I have always been as close as two brothers can be. We've always been in sports together, and played a lot of baseball and basketball. I recently bought a house here in El Paso, and he lives with me. I'll be sorry to see him go to California, but at the same time, I'll be glad, because I know he'll do well out there."

Mike, like David, has recently blossomed as a major jockey talent here in the Southwest. "This last year has been like a storybook," he goes on. "My goal was to make the top 10 in jockey standings at Sunland Park, Ruidoso Downs and Santa Fe. I've achieved these goals, and it's a great feeling. But to win the Sunland jockey championship would be a tremendous asset to my career. It would be worth everything. This is a tough meeting. A Sunland championship would be the biggest thing that's happened to me so far."

So why is David heading for the rough circuit on the West Coast in lieu of piling up continued success here in the Southwest? The answer: he's still an apprentice, and weighs only 98 pounds. Combine that with the reputation he's already constructed, and that translates into a good chance of getting steady work at those big-league tracks out west.

A week ago, David flew out to California to help cement his connections. He also met with the international riding star, Steve Cauthen, who took him around, introducing him to the right people.

But getting back to Mike — it certainly was an inauspicious start when he launched his riding career at Sunland Park in 1978 aboard the mare, Gonna Be Somebody. She finished last by about 40 lengths. But the mare had a good excuse. "The following day, she gave birth to twin foals," Mike explains. "No one even knew she was pregnant."

After five other fruitless tries, Mike went to California, where he gained solid experience as an exercise rider. He returned to the Southwest, went to La Mesa Park for the 1981 meeting, and finished 10th in the standings — thanks mainly to his four wins on closing day.

Last summer, he became the front-line pilot for trainer Bob Arnett, and rode a string of top horses at Ruidoso Downs — such as Sundays Payday (who's now earned around $250,000). Mike won both the Norgor Futurity and the Ruidoso Thoroughbred Futurity with Sundays Payday, but says there was "much more pressure in the Thoroughbred Futurity since everyone was expecting us to win."

David is now expanding into quarter horse racing (the finished second aboard Indian Lariat in last fall's $177,925 All-American Sale Futurity at Sunland). "If you ride good two-year-old quarter horses and thoroughbreds, there's as much money here in New Mexico as anyplace in the country," he says.

ODESSA HORSE IN WEST TEXAS FUTURITY. Feature Going, a filly owned by prominent horseman Sam Henderson of Odessa, Texas, goes after a victory prize of $82,914 in the $236,899 West Texas Futurity at Sunland Park on Sunday, March 27. Feature Going has been to the races three times in her career and holds a 1-1-1 record. Larry Byers is the rider.

Crowder new to Ruidoso-Sunland board

Charles L. Crowder, owner and developer of Santa Teresa Country Club in the New Mexico suburbs of El Paso, has been elected a director of the Ruidoso-Sunland, Incorporated, board of directors.

Ruidoso-Sunland, Incorporated, is the parent corporation of both Ruidoso Downs and Sunland Park.

"I'm extremely pleased to have been elected to the Ruidoso-Sunland board, and hope I can make a significant contribution," he said. With a background which includes commercial contracting, Crowder indicated one of his main interests, as a new Ruidoso-Sunland director, will be "the continued development of the facilities of both tracks."

On racing in general, he noted: "I think racing is one of the most important industries in New Mexico. It must be carefully managed to instill several large ranches in New Mexico. In 1970, he acquired the Santa Teresa complex with the idea of "making it one of the finest tennis, golf and recreational facilities in America." This ambition has largely been achieved. The impressive multi-million-dollar complex now includes a 36-hole golf course, 24-lighted tennis courts, an outstanding country club, plus residential, recreational, industrial and commercial developments. The entire complex covers 8,000 acres.

Crowder is also the owner of C. L. Crowder Investment Company, a commercial contracting firm.

His interest in racing began over 20 years ago when his enterprises expanded to include commercial properties and land developments in the Ruidoso area.

"I began attending the races at Ruidoso in 1960, and have been a racing enthusiast ever since," he said.

Worley now Ruidoso-Sunland vice president

Richard (Dick) Worley of Clovis has been elevated from a director to vice president of Ruidoso-Sunland, Incorporated.

Worley's election to his new post came during the Ruidoso-Sunland board of directors meeting at Sunland Park on Friday (March 18).

Ruidoso-Sunland is the parent corporation of Sunland Park and Ruidoso Downs Race Tracks, and is a wholly-owned subsidiary of the Ruidoso Jockey Club.

Worley, a well-known horseman, has been a member of the Jockey Club since its inception in 1952. He was first elected to the Ruidoso-Sunland board last spring. He's also been a member of the New Mexico State Fair Commission for the past four years. In the March 18 meeting of the Ruidoso-Sunland board, two new directors were also named: Charles L. Crowder, owner and developer of Santa Teresa Country Club in the New Mexico suburbs of El Paso, and Edwin S. Mayer, a businessman from San Angelo, Texas.

Here's the complete Ruidoso-Sunland board of directors: Jess Burner of El Paso, president; Richard Worley of Clovis, vice-president; John Augustine of Las Cruces, secretary; Charles L. Crowder of Santa Teresa, director; Robert Gentry of Lubbock, Texas, director; Sam F. Henderson of Odessa, Texas, director; Edwin S. Mayer of San Angelo, Texas, director; Jerry Rheudasill of Lewisville, Texas, director; William G. Ross of Midland, Texas, director; James Welch of Artesia, director; John West of Hobbs, director.

Donald F. Smith is treasurer and general manager.

"I'M SURE YOU COULDN'T GUESS." Brownies (from left) Leslie Gonzales, Cicelee Makowski, Monica Calderon, Cathy Eamello, Jeri Ann Keeton, Vanessa Rue and Gena Burghoff sing about the "Brownie Smile" they have hidden their in pockets at their recent Father-Daughter banquet.

THE BENEFITS OF TREES were explained to the fathers of Brownie Troop 2 at their recent Father-Daughter banquet before the Brownies presented their fathers with live trees.

LEARNING ABOUT TREES from forester Mike Funston are Cub Scout Pack 59 Webelos. Funston taught the Scouts uses and identification of many locally abundant trees. On Arbor Day Friday, Funston helped the Scouts plant trees at White Mountain Elementary School.

A NICE PAN-FRY. Yep, it's that time of the year again, when anglers young and old venture down to the creek to catch the evening meal.

This brown trout was hooked in the Rio Ruidoso a few miles east of the Biscuit Hill sewer plant.

Take The Time To Stay Safe

Providing dependable electric services is a full time job. New power lines have to be constructed and old ones have to be maintained. When you see a repair crew in your area, slow down and take the time to pass through the work area safely. Pay attention to all warning signs or instructions from repairmen and be prepared to stop if necessary. Entering a construction/repair area may be a slight inconvenience but your cooperation can help assure the safety of you and our repairmen.

NORWEGIAN ELKHOUND
 Back when Afghans and Salukis were skimming across the deserts of Egypt and Arabia, hounds of a very different type—stocky and wolflike—were prowling the mountains of northern Europe. Their first masters were Stone Age hunters. Later, they were the pride of Viking chieftains, who not only chased big game with them, but also took them on their great voyages.

Today, these dogs are known as Norwegian Elkhounds. With a 7,000-year history, they are one of the oldest breeds in the world. Sporting bushy black-and-silver coats, they don't really look like hounds at all, but they definitely have the nose for the job. According to hunters who know them well, Norwegian Elkhounds can pick up a scent three miles away and home straight in on a target.

It's an uncanny experience to see them at work. To their human companions it may seem nothing's afoot, when suddenly Elkhounds catch the faraway scent of game on the move, whimper, and take off running. Barking to distract the animal and slow it down, they head for a point that will cross the line of flight—much in the manner of a wolf giving chase. Often they track silently for a while, too, further confusing their quarry. When Elkhounds close in, they bark frantically and tease; if it's an elk they've cornered, the dogs dance just out of range of the swinging antlers until their masters arrive.

Their skill in tracking and holding elk at bay (the European elk is the size of the North American moose) gave them their present name, but Elkhounds are hardly one-animal hunters. For thousands of years, they were used to hunt bears in Scandinavia; they also defended farms and villages from wolves in the days when wolf packs were a serious threat. Since then, Elkhounds have been used to hunt lynx, mountain lion, and fox. They're good at treeing raccoons and squirrels.

At first glance, it's easy to confuse Norwegian Elkhounds with Arctic huskies; they have the same woolly coat, erect ears, and plumed tail that curls over the back. And though they are truly hounds by instinct and training, they have been used as sled dogs in their homeland. Strong and compactly built (standing 18-21 inches high and weighing 45-60 pounds), they are also good farm dogs, taking well to herding and other chores.

Norwegian Elkhounds have been steadily climbing in popularity as American pets. They are bright, beautiful, and extremely loyal; as watchdogs, they have few equals. When it comes to playing, an Elkhound can outlast any child.

In fact, their main drawback as pets is their energy. Having the strength and stamina to run for hours in pursuit of big game, Elkhounds obviously need plenty of exercise. Deprived of it, they sometimes take to destructive chewing or racing around indoors. If you want to keep an Elkhound in the city, plan to run your dog a lot. And you may have to curb this breed's natural tendency for habitual barking. Like other northern dogs, Elkhounds are big shedders. They should be brushed often to keep their thick coats glossy.

Elkhounds are extremely devoted one-person dogs, and the master or mistress who raises one as a puppy will have its loyalty forever. Don't buy an Elkhound to find out if you'd like one. You'd better be sure at the beginning. For these dogs, their first love is almost always their one-and-only.

We're First Federal Savings Bank of New Mexico. Another way of saying— We're making changes for the better.

Chaves County Savings and Loan has made a change. We're now called First Federal Savings Bank of New Mexico. Effective February 1, 1983 our Board of Directors elected to change our name -- but only the name. To our customers and friends in Roswell and Ruidoso we are still the same locally owned institution, the same professional team. In fact, we're staffed by the same financial specialists and board of directors -- who in the past have provided for all your financial needs. Now as First Federal Savings Bank of New Mexico we will continue to provide for those special needs while adding to the trust and security you've known with us for so long.

Daily you see changes taking place -- and yes, the change we've made can be considered a big one. Today innovative banking is important -- the step we've made toward innovation just enables us to attend to your traditional banking requirements while providing the expertise and financial capabilities -- that today your special banking needs demand.

In short, you'll find that your First Federal Savings Bank of New Mexico officer is committed to serving you. Let us provide the resources you need to get the results you want.

Chaves County Savings and Loan proudly announces the change to our new name -- First Federal Savings Bank of New Mexico. It's just one more way of saying -- we're making changes for the better.

THE HOME PROTECTION PLAN

It is tougher to sell a home today. And your home needs every advantage it can get. And a good real estate person should show you ways to make your home more attractive to buyers. A very tangible plus for the homeseller is the Home Protection Plan.

Essentially, it protects the home buyer against major repair or replacement costs on heating and electrical systems and major appliances for a full year. And its value to the home buyer can far exceed its small cost to the home seller.

It's one idea. We have more.

And we feel that even in a tough market you can still get the right price in a reasonable time with the right help. We'd like to help.
