Operation Trash gets under way in two villages THIS WEEKEND

by BARBY GRANT
Staff Writer

Spring cleanup time for Ruidoso and Ruidoso Downs arrives this weekend as the Operation Trash campaign swings into high gear. Organizer Barbara Duff said phone calls have been coming in with reports of areas around town needing to be cleaned up and volunteers have been enlisted to assist in the cleanup effort.

FOR OPERATION TRASH those calls.

The Ruidoso Downs cleanup is to be concentrated on this Friday and Saturday, with next Friday and Saturday set as alternate dates in case of bad weather. The Ruidoso Downs mayor, trustees, village employees and Ladies Auxiliary are encouraging all residents to participate in a thorough village cleanup there.

Ruidoso Downs ordinances forbid property in the village to become a health or safety menace by the accumulation of "filth, sewage, garbage, refuse, trash, standing or stagnant water, litter, rubbish, ruins, weeds, brush or any waste matter whatsoever." Dismantled, partially dismantled or inoperable vehicles or parts thereof are also in violation of village ordinances.

Residents should be aware that the village clerk may give written notice to owners of any property in violation of the ordinances. The owners may then be cited into court and fined if the offending property is not cleaned up.

Operation Trash will be kicking into gear in Ruidoso Saturday and Sunday this week and next. Ruidoso village ordinances declare it unlawful "to store or keep any old articles or materials which may be classified as junk adjacent to or in close proximity to any school house, church, public park, public grounds, business buildings or residences without first providing proper and tight buildings for storage of the same."

The ordinance also declares a public nuisance the presence of dismantled, partially dismantled or inoperable vehicles or parts

A parts dealer from Alamogordo will be here to pick up any junk autos residents want to dispose of. Participants in Operation Trash will also be able to take advantage of free dumping at the Fort Stanton Mesa landfill Friday, Saturday and Sunday both weekends during the cleanup campaign.

Additional incentives for participating in the cleanup include 10 percent discounts on paint supplies from Action Paint and Supply, C & L Lumber Company, Ruidoso Paint Center, T-Bird Home Center and Village Hardware, plus an offer from Safeway of 21 cents per pound for recyclable aluminum.

Also, the Salvation Army truck from Roswell will be here today and next Thursday to pick up large items such as furniture, appliances, clothing and televisions. Those wanting such items picked up should register at the Chamber of Commerce at 257-7395 or with Barbara Duff at 257-2340.

Ruidoso fire prevention officer Ollie Cuddy has encouraged residents to get involved in the cleanup as a fire prevention measure. Cuddy suggested several cleanup tips to help ensure safety from accidental fires. He advised that trees and brush be thinned and pruned; grass and weeds be cut within 10 feet of all structures; porch, floor, attic and roof openings be screened or enclosed; and dead needles, leaves and twigs be swept out of gutters and cleaned off decks, porches and roofs.

Cuddy also pointed out that fallen trees, limbs, household debris and other "fuels" should be removed from a 10-foot-wide strip around structures.

The fire prevention officer warned residents that no open fires are permitted within village limits to burn trash or pine needles and no hot ashes or coals from fireplaces are allowed to be dumped on the ground or placed in village dumpsters.

Residents are asked to call the Chamber of Commerce, Duff or Ruidoso Downs village hall to report areas in town in violation of trash or fire prevention ordinances or just in need of cleaning. Any residents who are unable to clean up their own yards or property can call to arrange for volunteers to do the work for them.

Members of the Ruidoso Rangers 4-H Club will be at the Chamber Saturday morning ready to do such work. The club raised $115 at a bake sale recently that will be donated to purchase trash receptacles for the downtown area. Members will also accept donations for any work done as part of Operation Trash.

Members of the Police Athletic League have also volunteered for the cleanup and will be on hand Saturday to help out, along with volunteers from other service organizations and clubs. Additional volunteers are encouraged to sign up or just show up on cleanup days. Several trucks have been made available by local residents to use for hauling materials and junk.

"Spring is here; let's all get into the cleanup and make this the best one ever," Cuddy exhorted.

Anyone with questions about the cleanup effort can contact Duff at 257-2340.

VIEWING THE REMAINS of what was Ruidoso Municipal Court just a week ago is police administrative officer Jim Alston. The municipal and magistrate courts, police communications and clerical offices have all moved out of the police courts complex to make way for remodeling. The offices are now located in the brown metal building behind the complex on Wingfield Street.

AG comments on MAT case

State Attorney General Paul Bardacke said Wednesday the case of New Mexico versus Mescalero Apache Tribe (MAT) extends beyond the issue of game and fish laws. The U.S. Supreme Court heard oral arguments on the case Tuesday. The state is contending that non-Indians who hunt and fish on an Indian reservation must have a state license.

precedent. Bardacke was in Washington, D.C. for the arguments, although the state was represented by special deputy attorney general Thomas L. Lunigan. Bardacke said it was interesting to note that Justice William Stephens asked George Fettingner, counsel for MAT, what would happen if the tribe opened a gambling casino.

Annexation hearing Tuesday

by DAVID SHEPPARD
Staff Writer

After remaining in committee for six months after it was first proposed, the Grindstone annexation again will be considered for adoption by the Ruidoso council Tuesday night.

And, because the annexation is included as a condition in the recently signed purchase agreement for the new dam site, the council seems sure to approve the request.

extend almost to the national forest, separated in most spots only by a row of single-family housing.

The village would be obligated to supplying all municipal services to the development, but would not assume maintenance on the water and sewer systems and the streets until two years after final inspection is made.

The last time the council approved a major annexation was in September 1981. The tract, called White Mountain Meadows, consists of 276 acres. Developer Bill McCarty said development is well under way on the subdivision, which includes 134 single family and condominium lots. Planning and Zoning enforcement officer John Cupp said the utilities in the tract have not yet been accepted in a final inspection.

Mayor George White, who was then a trustee, opposed the annexation, citing the inadequate water supply to service the new area.

White remains opposed to annexations until the village secures more water rights. He has said he would approve an annexation only if the land had attached water rights.

"I just don't think that we've got enough water to take care of our community," White noted.

He is joined in opposition to the annexation and to the conditional contract with Dorman by councilman Don Dale. Dale voted against the contract because of the annexation clause. Like White, the councilman does not want to obligate the village to supplying a new development until more water is available.

The village Water Board also opposes the annexation because it means an additional burden on the already taxed water supply. Also, board member Bill Karn, who has been at odds with the council over the reservoir project, objects to the contract with Dorman. Karn said it might have been better to initiate condemnation proceedings on the reservoir site rather than be tied to the conditional clause.

"I'm opposed to this annexation without water rights, plus we're paying more than what the appraiser advised," he said.

What Karn referred to was the original price recommendation on the 45 acres for the water project from John Myers, special counsel to the village for the land negotiation. Myers had recommended a price of $397,750 for the land, which jumped to $525,000 before the contract was signed.

The price was increased to cover compensation for possible damages Dorman could be entitled to regarding the planned sewer system in the development. Myers noted Hine said the lower price would not have covered the damages.

Dorman's engineers originally had designed the sewer lines to run through the area where the reservoir is proposed. But because of the reservoir, he now will have to install lift stations on the perimeter of the lake to pump sewage up hills. Dorman said the price of the lift stations has been estimated at $200,000.

Myers wrote Mayor White that engineers working for Ruidoso believed the reservoir would cause "no material difference in the cost of providing sewer service to Mr. Dorman's property" and thus no additional compensation was included in the original offer. But Myers also advised the village to remain flexible on the question "and receptive to Mr. Dorman's engineers' opinions."

Councilmen Al Junge and Sayner say they are satisfied with the purchase price and other provisions of the contract. Junge points out the price is only a little higher than the $500,000 Dorman wanted over a year ago.

Additionally, the councilmen stress that, had the negotiations failed with Dorman and the matter been referred to the courts for condemnation, taxpayers would be looking at a higher price tag for the land.

Sayner said the agreed price is based on the annexation. He explained the entire reservoir and dam site is located within village limits, which means Dorman could develop it and receive municipal services as long as he complies with subdivision and zoning laws. Sayner noted the site constitutes about a third of Dorman's property now in the village.

The case still could go to court if the council denies the annexation. But, despite Dale's and White's opposition, the other councilmen can be expected to follow through with their approval of the contract by okaying the annexation.

Junge said he will explain in detail at the Tuesday night council meeting why the annexation is a must. He says he is also concerned about the water situation, but he is confident the village will have the supply to meet the future demand.

"We're going to have water for it because we have to get water for it," he asserted.

Sayner notes the village has been concerned about the water supply for existing and future demands for 10 years. If the village resolves the valley water protest to its favor and is again granted access to effluent credit rights from the regional sewer plant, Sayner says the supply will be adequate for the new development.

He reiterated the only real question is a "yes or no" on the annexation.

Said Sayner, "To be able to build the dam we have to annex it."

Substance Abuse in Ruidoso

(First in a series)
by DAVID SHEPPARD
Staff Writer

When he was just 13 years old, his athletic prowess already began to shine. Sam, who was born and raised in Ruidoso, became a state Golden Gloves boxing champion that year. His boxing victories were not a one-time fluke; he continued to defeat opponents and held his title for the next two years.

his friends were doing, Sam started to drink a lot and he experimented with smoking pot. It got to be a habit. "It was the same thing every day. The first thing in the morning, it was always the same group of people getting high," he recounted.

he explained. But Sam really did not give a damn. He was part of the crowd. It was cool to hang out, smoke a joint and drink a lot of beer. And, after all, all his friends did it, teammates did it, and, it seemed, half the school did it.

"When I went to school, almost half got high every day before they went to school," said Sam, now 22 and a prison parolee. Alcohol and drug abuse was so common at school that everyone had to know about it, he believes, including the teachers, administrators, and, perhaps, the coaches.

And, he imagines, it is just as prevalent now—or even worse. He points out that his brother, a senior, also gets high every day with a bunch of friends.

But what can anyone do? "If they want to do this, then they're going to do it," he said. "Some of it probably is to get close to friends."

Peer pressure also influenced him. "They'd say, 'Ah, you pussy,' and I didn't want to hear that. So you do it just to be cool with your friends."

In addition, Sam and his friends had nothing better to do outside sports but to party. "Every Friday night there was nothing going on. There's one theater to go to, but what else after that? All I did was party, get high."

Sam did not limit himself to marijuana and beer. He experimented with almost everything available. He tried speed—which he said a lot of athletes did—cocaine, LSD and quaaludes, all of which were easy to score once he developed connections.

He also kept it a pretty good secret, at least at home. Sam said his mother never recognized it when he was high.

After he graduated in the summer of 1979, Sam worked two steady jobs and partied whenever he could. Although he developed a "screw everything" attitude when high, he still had a dream to go to college and continue in sports.

He took a step toward that goal when he applied for enrollment at the Technical Vocational Institute in Albuquerque. The only hurdle before him was an entrance exam that he was sure he could pass.

He went to the big city for the test. But, holed up in a room with friends, he partied heavily and "just blew it off."

Back in Ruidoso, Sam continued the destructive trend. But, unlike the friends he lived with, at least he worked steadily. His buddies turned to burglarizing homes to fuel the parties and to acquire a little pocket cash.

Sam said he never participated in the burglaries or fencing the booze, but he rode in the car sometimes when his roommates went out "stealing."

It didn't matter. When police raided the house, he was the only one home, Sam said. He proclaimed his innocence when questioned, but he was determined not to rat on his friends. Prosecutors gave him a chance, he said, either sing or face time behind bars.

He refused to sing. In the winter of 1979, when he was almost 19, Sam was sentenced to three years in jail. He spent the first six months in Lincoln County Jail, another six in the state penitentiary, and two years in a work-release program in Roswell.

He was released last November and returned to Ruidoso on parole. Now he works six days a week on construction and is nearing the end of his parole.

And he still holds on to that college dream, but he wants to buy a house and save a little money before pursuing it.

He also regrets wasting himself during and after high school. "It has changed me. I was fixin' to turn 19 when I got locked up, now I feel like 26 or 27.

school." Asked if he felt the alcohol and drugs harmed him, either physically or emotionally, Sam answered, "I was just lazy, didn't feel like doing nothing."

Although his introduction to heavy alcohol and pot use started at high school, he points out the problem is not unique to Ruidoso High. It is just as easy to buy drugs around town if one has the connections, according to Sam, and minors can always find someone to buy them liquor.

And, because alcohol is easier and cheaper to get than drugs, Sam feels it is a worse problem for minors than marijuana.

"Alcohol is what bothers a lot of the kids in school. Alcohol was worse than pot; you get so loaded you can't do anything."

Asked what he would tell students now if he had the chance, Sam, after pausing for a minute, put it this way. "I'd tell them where it's at, I've been there. They're starting where I was five-six years ago, I can see it."

"I'd say, do it if you want it, but think what you want to do with your life. Do you want to get high all the time or what do you want to accomplish? "When you're young, if you keep doing what you're doing, it'll show up. It makes me think when I see somebody all screwed up. I say, 'Glad you stopped man.'"

PREPARATION is as much a part of the job for the operating room staff as actually assisting the surgeon. Norma Morel wraps up instruments prior to sterilizing them in the autoclave.

Teamwork is key to operating room success

AS THEY WHEEL BOB IN, the operating room staff converges around the gurney and the nurses talk soothingly to him.

"How are you, Bob?"

"Are you cold? Do you want another blanket?"

At the same time, the actions of the surgical-masked and uniformed operating room staff are all business. The two nurses and one nurse anesthetist slide Bob on to the operating table. While Dave Noltensmeyer, the nurse anesthetist, attaches two electrodes to Bob's head, Eileen Ullmann, the circulating nurse, wraps a blood pressure cuff around his arm.

Bob lies on the table silently looking around at the tiled room. He has already been given a sedative earlier in the morning that keeps him calm.

As Ullmann shaves Bob's wrist, scrub nurse Chris Barela stands at a table in the background counting the instruments for the operation. As scrub nurse, Barela is in charge of the surgical instruments and handing them to the surgeon as he needs them.

Bob is in the operating room of the Ruidoso-Hondo Valley Hospital for an abdominal hernia operation. He is the first patient of three that will lie on the table today.

DIFFERENT DOCTORS WILL PERFORM each operation, but the five members of the operating room staff will remain to assist all three. They will also clean and prepare the rooms between operations, watch over the patients as they wake up, and prepare instruments and clothing for the next day's operations. I have been given special permission to sit in and watch this operation. Bob is not the patient's real name.

Noltensmeyer shaves Bob's wrist and, it appears, nicks him rather heavily. But the nick is really an opening for the three-inch needle Noltensmeyer slides under Bob's skin. The needle is hooked to an intravenous solution that replenishes body fluids, and a muscle relaxant - part of Noltensmeyer's anesthetic strategy for this operation.

A moment later Noltensmeyer lowers a triangular black mask over Bob's mouth and nose.

"Here's a little sweet air for Bob," says Noltensmeyer as he gives Bob the combination of anesthetics that will keep him unconscious and unaware of the surgery being performed on his abdomen.

Once Bob is unconscious, the staff gossips and jokes as they continue to prepare him for the operation. They wash him and cover him with drapes, leaving only a small square of skin exposed. Noltensmeyer tapes Bob's eyes shut so the drying effect of the anesthetic will not damage the cornea.

As preparations wind down, in walks Doctor Paul Whitwam, the surgeon for this operation. He looks less like a surgeon than some creature from outer space.

He wears the familiar green scrub uniform topped by a close fitting cap that covers his head, ears and neck. Rising out of the back of his shirt is a plastic tube that loops over his head and attaches to a small light positioned between his eyes. The whole apparatus is held in place by a headset unneringly reminiscent of the skull caps used for electrocutions.

Whitwam walks around the antiseptic tile room observing the preparations. After a brief inspection he asks the operating room staff a question about the procedure.

"Are we going to have good music, today?"

Instead of a deferential and obedient response, the staff starts complaining about the doctor's taste in music, demanding he not play the sappy music that is his wont. In the end, however, it is Whitwam who puts a Carpenters tape into the tape player in the corner of the room.

A HERNIA OPERATION is less serious and stressful than many that are performed at the hospital. Whitwam explains that the type of operation determines the music. Very mellow music plays in the background during more serious operations such as a trauma case or thoracic surgery, explains Whitwam.

After the good-natured bickering about choice of music, Whitwam leaves the room to wash his hands. In a couple of moments he returns with outstretched hands and is given a sterilized towel to dry them. One of the nurses then drapes the sterilized gown around him and holds the sterilized gloves for him to slip on.

Dr. Roger Beechie, who will be the assisting surgeon, follows close behind and is treated similarly. The tube trailing out of Whitwam's gown is hooked to a machine, and the fiber optic light between his eyes comes on.

Whitwam steps up to the patient and begins to feel Bob's abdomen with his hands, pressing and probing the area. He holds out his hand and Barela hands him the scalpel. With one hand pressing down on the abdomen, Whitwam quickly slices a three-inch incision in the man's skin and begins to pull apart the tissue.

After opening the incision further, Whitwam begins to cauterize the blood vessels with a small pen-like instrument attached to another box beside the operating table.

Standing at Bob's head watching the operation, I begin to feel dizzy and have to sit down in a corner of the room, away from the operation.

"Most all of us have felt queasy when we started," said Barela, the scrub nurse. Noltensmeyer recalled one of his first experiences in the operating room—it left him immobile and stiff against the wall of the operating room.

With two to three operations a day, the OR staffers become quickly anesthetized to the sight of blood. However, Barela said there are still operations that affect each of them and make them tense. Barela said Caesarian sections especially affect him because there are two lives at stake.

WHILE THE MOOD during this operation seems light and the doctors and nurses joke about names, and their own reputations and sporting abilities, Barela said it does not mean they don't take the operation seriously. This is a method of relieving the tension inherent during any form of surgery.

"It is very stressful," said Barela. A trauma case, such as a patient who has been in an automobile accident and has internal injuries, is one of the most nerve wracking situations, said Barela. Before the operation begins, no one knows how serious the injury is, and whether it is merely a nicked intestine or a ruptured spleen, he explained. It is at times like that the tension could be cut with one of the scalpels, he said.

THERE ARE MANY NURSES who find they cannot work in the operating room, he noted. Those that do become operating room nurses usually stay. There is very little turnover in operating room staff once they have lasted through the first few months, said Barela.

And once they have worked in the operating room, they rarely want to work on the floor of the hospital.

Ullmann, the circulating nurse, has worked in operating rooms for close to 20 years. As the circulating nurse, she prepares the patient, brings him to the operating room, and makes sure all tests and permits have been taken care of in advance. During the operation, she gets any extra supplies if they are needed and makes sure all instruments and supplies are accounted for when the patient is being closed up. Doctors have been known to leave a sponge inside the patient's body, these must be retrieved to prevent infection.

Ullmann said she would not want to return to the hospital floor. In the operating room she sees more instantaneous results that are more rewarding. Whitwam noted the feeling of satisfaction when they pull a patient through that should never have survived.

"Here we see things happen in a hurry," said Beechie.

Whitwam does move quickly as he repairs the defect in the abdomen wall. To the inexperienced eye, there is nothing recognizable in the tissue he is working on. But the nurses of the operating room staff can follow the course of the operation and anticipate the surgeon's needs.

A good scrub nurse should be able to anticipate the needs of the doctor, said Whitwam. The fiber optic light on Whitwam's head is used to illuminate the area being operated on. Whitwam said the light should never leave the operating area.

THE TELEVISION DEPICTION of doctors saying "Scalpel ... hemostats ... suction" does not occur during this operation. Whitwam rarely says anything as he performs the operation. At each step of the way, the assisting surgeon Beechie is exposing the areas on which Whitwam is operating, and Barela hands him instruments as he needs them.

At one point muscle tension in Bob's abdomen causes tissue to protrude and makes the operation more difficult. Without a word Noltensmeyer increases the dose of muscle relaxant and the operation progresses.

"We work pretty well as a team here," said Barela. "The operating room is one place where you don't need a lot of words."

Not only are there different operations, each doctor has his own personal methods and preferences for instruments.

The operating room staff keeps file cards on all the surgeons, reminding them of the instruments, methods and accessories each surgeon prefers.

As Whitwam stitches up the patient, Noltensmeyer lightens the anesthetic dose. Noltensmeyer said he likes to have the patient as awake as possible when the operation is over, in order to decrease the recovery time.

The recovery room is almost adjacent to the operating room and Andl Fregly, the operating room supervisor, watches over Bob as he begins to stir. "Come on Bob. Wake up," she says as she shakes him gently.

BOB WILL SPEND a minimum of an hour in the recovery room, where he will be watched by Fregly. While the operation was proceeding, Fregly and Norma Morel were busy taking care of preparations and paperwork for other operations.

As supervisor, Fregly is in charge of the operating room schedule—making sure patients, doctors and staff all arrive at the right times. Because the Ruidoso-Hondo Valley Hospital is a relatively small facility, the staff often performs more than one job. Fregly and Morel spend considerable time stocking and ordering supplies for the hospital.

Morel also "pulls the next case." She assembles and sterilizes the instruments, clothing and drapery for the next case. She also rotates in as scrub nurse in the operating room.

IN SPITE OF MOREL'S PREPARATION, it takes 30-45 minutes to prepare the operating room for the next patient. The staff washes down the room and replenishes supplies. New cloths are laid and new instruments are set out.

Soon, however, the room is ready for another patient and another surgeon. Different operations, different techniques and different personalities. But the quality of care must remain the same.

Adjusting to the new circumstances is a very important aspect of the job, and one all operating room staff must be able to do, said Barela.

Adjust they do. Day in and day out, often for extended hours and at strange times of the day or night, the operating room staff works together with the doctors on every patient that needs surgery.

Ski area has record season

by BILLY ALLSTETTER
Staff Writer

Sierra Blanca Ski Resort manager Roy Parker attributes a record 246,000 skier days during the 1982-83 season to a Thanksgiving opening and the new Apache Bowl lift. The previous record of 203,000 skier days was set during the 1981-82 season.

The series of four weekly snowstorms that hit the Sacramento Mountains in November allowed the ski resort to open at Thanksgiving. By the end of the weekend, the whole mountain was open for the first time on that holiday since the 1978-79 season. That weekend alone, 2,500 skiers bought lift tickets at Sierra Blanca.

The Apache Bowl lift added 1,800 skiers per hour, or almost 25 percent, to the lift capacity of the resort. It also allowed skiers to enjoy a popular area of the mountain without having to ski all the way to the bottom every time they wanted to ski there.

"We kept the interest in the spring because Apache Bowl is so popular," said Parker. The resort sold more tickets in March 1983 than any previous March.

"Of course, good snow never hurts you," said Parker. Starting with the snowstorms in November, the jetstream bringing moisture from the west coast kept Sierra Blanca in its path all season long.

By the end of the year, 325 inches of snow had fallen on the resort, the second snowiest winter since the resort opened. During the 1972-73 season, 360 inches of snow fell on the resort. The average seasonal snowfall is 130 inches.

The base reached a high of 135 inches in early April, after a record snowstorm dropped 61 inches on the mountain and allowed the resort to stay open two weeks past its planned closing date. The base on closing day, April 17, was 115 inches.

"It was a great year," said Parker. Although the Mexican trade dropped "very drastically," Parker said "a lot of Texans more than made up for the lack of Mexicans."

The busiest day of the year occurred December 29, when 5,522 skiers bought tickets at the resort. Parker said this was about 100 short of the biggest day ever. Attendance stayed above 4,000 a day for most of the Christmas week. Presidents' Birthday weekend was another big one, with 5,328 lift tickets sold Saturday and 4,692 sold Sunday.

Just because the resort has now closed for the season does not mean activity has ceased, however. Parker said crews are hard at work removing seat covers and ropes from the area, and will begin improvements at the area soon.

Completing snowmaking improvements is the main objective for the summer, said Parker. Pipes were laid for the snowmaking equipment last year, but early snows and a bigger than expected project prevented completion of the installation.

Parker hopes to have the snowmaking equipment on chair Two (Lincoln) to midway, and chairs Three, Four and Five (Capitan).

"We hope our new snowmaking equipment will alleviate closed days and late openings," said Parker. Crews will also be working on extensive trail improvement, said Parker. Plans call for widening Incredible and Terrible as well as many other trails on the mountain.

A long season like 1982-83 is also hard on equipment and buildings, said Parker. Time will be spent refurbishing lifts and buildings, he noted.

There will be no new lifts put in this year, but Parker said plans are being considered for an "expansion to the north into the Bonito drainage. The United States Forest Service is preparing an Environmental Impact Statement on the proposed expansion, and surveys will be made for potential lifts, Parker explained. If all goes well, construction could begin next summer, he noted.

There is also a possible plan for the top of the Apache Bowl Lift where winds funnel through the unloading area like a wind tunnel, Parker said. However, he said nothing would be done there until at least next year.

SYMBOLIC OF THIS SEASON'S SUCCESS at Sierra Blanca Ski Resort is this view showing the teeming crowd on February 19. The crowds drawn on Presidents' Weekend were some of the largest of the year.

Hondo Fiesta program set in Ruidoso

The beautiful, exciting performance of Spanish, Mexican and New Mexican folk dances that make up the Hondo Fiesta will be April 29 and 30 in the Ruidoso High School Gym. The location for the Fiesta at the Ruidoso Gym is due to the fire last June that destroyed a major portion of the school complex. It is felt that the friends of the Hondo Fiesta will travel the additional 20-minute, pleasant valley drive to Ruidoso to attend.

Nowhere else can such a spectacular performance of high school youngsters be seen dancing to the graceful, toe-tapping music of these folk dances.

Among the many dances to be performed will be the exotic Spanish dance, "El Novillero", the bull fighters dance. The very difficult boys' dance, often referred to as the "Wish Dance" will again be performed. The ever popular polka, "Jesúsita en Chihuahua," will be performed by popular request. "La Botella," or "Bottle Dance", a dance that has not been performed for many years, is being added again to the program. The dancing program begins at 8 p.m. each night with 20 junior high students performing at 7:30 p.m. to entertain the capacity crowd while they wait for the nationally known high school dancers to put on their breathtaking performance. The moms and dads will again serve their usual delicious Mexican dinner from 5 p.m. to 8 p.m. both evenings in the Ruidoso High School Cafeteria. The charge for the dinner is $2.50 with admission to the dance program being $2 per person.

4-H'ers get demonstration on horse hoof care

Members of the Ruidoso Rangers 4-H Club witnessed a demonstration by member Chad Kizer on horse hoof care at their meeting Tuesday.

Kizer recently competed in the Spring Open Horse Show in Alamogordo and brought home several ribbons. He earned third place in Western pleasure competition among the 13-and-under age group and second-place ratings in horsemanship for the 13-and-under age group in green horsemanship and in showmanship. He brought home first-place ribbons in trail for 13-and-under and green trail.

Members also chose the name Rangers for their 4-H Club Tuesday and made plans to participate in the Operation Trash cleanup campaign this weekend. Members will be available to clean up yards and other property for residents who are unable to do it themselves. Donations will be accepted for the work but are not required. Participation in the cleanup is part of the club's community pride effort.

Sponsor Robyn Garrett also reported the club made $115.15 at a recent bake sale. The money will be donated to purchase trash receptacles for downtown Ruidoso.

Garrett also noted several new members have joined the group since its organizational meeting a few months ago, and the club invites other young people to join any time.

PEOPLE

Hine, McKelvey exchange vows

Catherine Elizabeth Hine and Chris Robert McKelvey were married February 12 at 7 p.m. at the University of New Mexico Alumni Chapel. The Reverend Rick Hale, pastor of Christ's Church in Roswell, officiated.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Lewis Hine, Ruidoso. The bridegroom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Webb McKelvey of Fillmore, California.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a long white gown with fitted bodice featuring a daisy lace trim. The cuffs of the long sheer sleeves and the hem of the full, chiffon-covered skirt were trimmed with matching daisy lace. She carried a bouquet of red and white carnations and cedar boughs.

The bride also wore a blue garter which was a family heirloom. For something new she wore a balloon race pin from the "Friends and Lovers" Valentine Hot Air Balloon Rally in which the couple participated on the morning of their wedding.

Matron of honor for the bride was her sister, Pamela Hine Bellar of Sudan, Texas. She wore a gown of red taffeta and carried a bouquet of red carnations with greenery and baby's breath.

Best man for the bridegroom was Major Richard Hedin with the U.S. Marine Corps., Albuquerque. Forming a sword arch for the couple were Commander Fred Patten, Lieutenant Commander Kris Ackerbauer, Lieutenant Commander Steve Endacott and Lieutenant Dan Nelson, all of the U.S. Navy, Albuquerque.

Music was provided by Katie Gill of Albuquerque, who sang the theme from Ice Castles and the Lord's Prayer.

The church was decorated with cedar boughs and white candles. Red ribbons adorned the pews.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at the home of Alpha Russel, a friend of the bride and bridegroom, in Corrales.

The couple, both naval officers, are at home in Albuquerque. The bridegroom will be transferred to the Naval Post Graduate School in Monterey, California, in June. The bride will be transferred to the Fleet Numerical Oceanography Center in Monterey in August.

The bride is a graduate of Ruidoso High School and earned a bachelor's degree in business education from Eastern New Mexico University and a master's in secondary and adult education from the University of New Mexico. She is a former Miss New Mexico runner-up and the former Miss Central New Mexico. She is currently senior instructor at the Navy ROTC Unit at the University of New Mexico.

The bridegroom is a graduate of Fillmore High School and earned a bachelor of animal science degree from the University of Idaho in 1978. He is currently employed as supply officer of the Naval Weapons Evaluation Facility at Kirtland Air Force Base.

Both bride and bridegroom are avid hot air balloonists and own their own hot air balloon, the "Chinde." The groom is senior aeronaut for the Navy Hot Air Balloon Team stationed in Albuquerque.

Attending the wedding from Ruidoso were Dr. and Mrs. James Beall, Mr. and Mrs. John W. Thompson, and Mr. and Mrs. Carmon Phillips.

Gospel group to perform

The Oak Singers, a southern-country gospel group originally from Live Oak, California, will be featured in concert at Gateway Assembly of God Church tonight (Thursday) at 7:30 p.m. The public is invited to attend, at no charge.

The six-member group has been playing together for five years, during which time they have appeared on a number of television programs, including P.T.L. Club; Trinity Broadcasting network of Santa Ana, California; "It's a New Day" of Winnipeg, Canada; "The Carl Tipton Show" and "The New Life Show," both of Nashville, Tennessee; and "The Hour of Power" of Yuba City, California.

The group has also appeared on the gospel segment of the Louisiana Hayride in Shreveport, and travels extensively performing at concerts, fairs, churches, conventions and private ceremonies. The Oak Singers took first place in 1977 at the California State Fair in the country-gospel competition.

"Our main goal is for Christ to be the center of our music, for we are not entertainers," group members stated.

All area residents are invited to hear the group at Gateway Assembly of God Church this evening.

Prime Time for Women program scheduled tonight

Four speakers will be featured in Thursday evening's Prime Time for Women at the First Christian Church.

The program, sponsored by the Altrusa Club, is designed to provide information not normally available to women in smaller communities.

Speakers will cover Low Risk Investments, New Careers, Women and the Law and Estate Planning.

Registration costs $3 and covers two of the four lectures. The program begins at 6 p.m. and should be over by 10 p.m. Babysitting is available at the church for 50 cents per child.

FRANK KYLE JR. AND KATHERINE ANN SCHUMACHER

KAREN GAIL GEORGE

Engagement announced

Mr. and Mrs. Donald L. George of Ruidoso have announced the engagement and forthcoming marriage of their daughter, Karen Gail, to Lance Corporal David Paul Krahl. He is the son of Mrs. Jane Krahl of Alamogordo and the late Kenneth Krahl.

Karen is a 1981 graduate of Ruidoso High School and has attended New Mexico State University (NMSU) for the past two years. David is a graduate of Alamogordo High School and attended NMSU. He is currently on a tour of duty with the U.S. Marines.

The wedding will take place at 3 p.m. Saturday, April 30, at the Episcopal Church of the Holy Mount in Ruidoso. Friends and relatives of the couple are invited to share in the celebration.

Woman's Club members attend state convention

Five members of the Ruidoso Woman's Club attended the 71st State Woman's Club convention in Farmington April 15 and 16. Barbara Minnick, Tillie Daubs, Orba Netherland, Charlotte Jarratt and Genevieve Duncan attended the two-day conference.

Lorella Gallegos of the New Mexico State Hospital in Las Vegas, and Elaine House, Project Chairperson for Woman's Club president Anita Bryant, delivered a slide presentation on the advances made in rehabilitation and treatment of patients at the hospital in Las Vegas. The State Hospital has been one of the Woman's Club projects for several years.

Those attending the convention passed a resolution asking each member across the state to support the Special Olympics by using the slogan, "A penny a day, so they may play."

Elizabeth Arnold spoke to the women on Volunteerism, an underlying theme of Woman's Club work since it was organized.

In numerous areas of the state this week, Woman's Clubs are honoring hospital volunteers. The Ruidoso Woman's Club wishes to express its appreciation to the Pink Ladies for their volunteer work, which is a tremendous contribution to the community.

The Ruidoso Woman's Club asks everyone to continue to strive for community action and club involvement in bringing support, help, love and happiness to those who are less able.

Engagement announced

Katherine Ann Schumacher and Frank Kyle Jr., both of Fort Worth, Texas, will exchange wedding vows during a nuptial Mass June 25 at Holy Family Church in Fort Worth.

The bride-elect is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Schumacher of Fort Worth. The Schumachers have a home in Ruidoso's Upper Canyon.

Kyle is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Kyle Sr. of Fort Worth.

Katherine is a graduate of Nolan High School, Fort Worth, and will graduate in May from Texas Christian University (TCU) with a degree in business administration. She is a member of Chi Omega sorority.

Frank Jr. is a graduate of Southwest High School, Fort Worth, and has a degree in business from TCU.

The couple will reside in Fort Worth.

In the Service

Sammy K. Hartwick, son of Charlet Guin of Ruidoso, has been promoted in the U.S. Air Force to the rank of senior airman.

Hartwick is a metals processing specialist at Griffiss Air Force Base, New York, with the 416th Field Maintenance Squadron.

Correction

In an "In the Service" notice April 14, The News incorrectly reported that Charles E. Burgess is in the U.S. Navy. Burgess was discharged from the Navy last year and now lives and works in Ruidoso.

The News regrets the error.

Auditions set for Little Theater shows

Ruidoso Little Theatre has announced auditions for two melodramas to be presented during the Golden Years Jubilee next month. Auditions are set for 7:30 p.m. Monday, April 25, at Nob Hill Elementary School. The two melodramas are "Egad What a Cad!" and "You Ain't Done Right by Nell."

There are several male and female parts in each play.

Texas Aggies to muster here tonight

Former students of Texas A & M University will assemble in Ruidoso tonight (Thursday, April 21) for the annual Texas Aggie Muster. Chairman Wayne Dacy announced that Muster activities will begin at 7 p.m. at Cochera Restaurant. The Aggie Muster, an annual tradition dating back to the 1880s, is open to all former students and their families, parents of students, and friends of Texas A&M.

Obituaries

Warriors, Colts split matches for second time in a week

The location was different but the results were the same when the Ruidoso High School boys and girls tennis teams played New Mexico Military Institute (NMMI) in Roswell Tuesday afternoon.

Ruidoso's girls took an 8-1 decision over the NMMI girls while the Warrior boys fell 9-0 to the hosts. The scores were exactly the same as they were last week when the teams played in Ruidoso.

The Warrior girls are now 2-4 on the season with their two victories coming against the Colts. Ruidoso is 1-5 in boys action.

Laura Trapp continued her outstanding play for the Warrior girls, raising her record to 6-0 on the season. The talented junior defeated Brenda Valdez in two sets, 7-6, 6-3, in a battle between top-seeded players.

The Warriors' only loss came in the second-seeded match between Ruidoso's Mary Gaddy and NMMI's Debbie Harelmark. Harelmark took a 6-4, 6-1 victory over the Warrior player.

Tina Sanchez of Ruidoso topped Carmon Ruiz of the Colts in three sets, 3-6, 6-3, 6-3, while Laura Tyson of the Warriors topped Adela Lopez, 6-1, 6-1.

Rachel McCoy of Ruidoso topped Denise Stonner, 6-1, 6-1, and Donna Mobley won by default when her opponent didn't show up.

Trapp and Sanchez defeated Valdez and Hasselman by default when one of the NMMI players quit before the match was over.

McCoy and Tyson won the second-seeded doubles match as a result of Mobley's singles opponent not showing up. Mobley and Michelle Morrow beat Ruiz and Lopez, 6-1, 6-3, in the final doubles match.

In the boys competition, Mark Holmes of NMMI topped Ruidoso's Ryan Brown, 6-0, 6-1, in the top-seeded match.

Mike Sheen of NMMI—who beat Brown last week—topped Billy Woodul of Ruidoso, 6-1, 6-3; while Mike Smith of the Warriors dropped a 6-1, 6-1 decision to Eduardo Fernandez of the Colts.

Bart Bowen played his first-ever match for Ruidoso and lost a 6-1, 6-0 decision to Jeff Nose of NMMI. Frazor Edmentson of NMMI topped Jim Smith, 6-3, 7-6, while Zack Swalander of Ruidoso fell to Lane Cohee, 7-6, 6-2.

In doubles competition, Sheen and Nose topped Brown and Woodul in the top-seeded match, 6-1, 7-5.

Mike Smith and Bowen gave

Holmes and Fernandez a tough time before falling, 6-3, 7-5. Edmentson and Cohee defeated Jim Smith and Swalander in three sets, 6-4, 5-7, 6-3.

Warrior coach Mike Crocker felt his teams played well overall. "I think the girls played about as well as they did last week," he said. "I think the boys improved on their play. We were hitting a lot of good shots but they're an awfully good team. I think they're really the best team in the district."

Ruidoso will resume action Tuesday, April 26, with home matches against Artesia High School on the Sierra Swim and Racquet Club courts. The Warriors will conclude the season Saturday, April 30, with home matches against Portales High School. The district tournament will be Saturday, May 7, at Portales.

Little League signuptonight

The Ruidoso Little League baseball program will hold its final sign-up session from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. today in the Nob Hill Elementary School cafeteria.

Players from last season and new players should bring a $10 registration fee for one player or a $15 fee for two or more family members, along with their birth certificates.

A coaches meeting will be held at 8 p.m. immediately following the signups. Tryouts will be at 10 a.m. Saturday at the Little League field.

Local riders finish one-two Bret Maul and Patric Pearson of Ruidoso High School finished first and second in the 10-mile time trials bicycle race in Alamogordo Saturday. It was the second time Maul has won the 10-mile race. The time trials are held every two weeks in Alamogordo. The next time trials race is Saturday, April 30.

SINK IT. Hal Cliff sinks a putt on the eighth hole during Tuesday's first round of the McDonald's of Ruidoso Pro-Scratch Best-Ball Golf Invitational at the Inn of the Mountain Gods. Cliff played on pro Vic Beach's team and shot a 162 for the two-day tournament. Beach's team finished with a 297 total.

Roswell team wins golf crown

A talented group of golfers from Roswell won the team championship by one stroke in the McDonald's of Ruidoso Pro-Scratch Invitational Two Best-Ball Golf Tournament at the Inn of the Mountain Gods Thursday afternoon.

A total of 28 teams from all over the Sun Country Section competed in the tournament.

The winning team, led by Roswell Country Club professional Pete Brumfield, fired a 270 for the two-day tournament, edging two other teams for the title. The amateur members of the team included Randy Chavez, Carlton Blewett and Bill Wyles, the co-amateur champion at 146.

Tying for second place at 271 were a team from El Paso, Texas, and a club from Santa Teresa Country Club.

Terry Jennings, the professional at Vista Hills Country Club near El Paso, led his team and was also the top pro with a sizzling 139 score for 36 holes. He shot a 68 Thursday and had six birdies in the final round. Other members of Jennings' team were Gene McCardie, Kyle McCardie and Will Fioa.

Doug Alverson, the pro at Santa Teresa, led the other second-place group. Members of his team included Bobby Romero, Sandy Pridgeon and George Anders.

In fourth place was a team led by Mark Pelletier, the club pro at Arroyo Del Oso Country Club in Albuquerque. Pelletier's team scored a 273, one stroke ahead of the fifth-place team led by pro Henry Sandles of the University of New Mexico South Course in Albuquerque. Don Hurter of Sandles' team tied for the amateur title.

Jennings was naturally pleased with the way he played.

"I liked the course a lot," he said. "I've played here before and like everything about it."

The top team led by a local pro was Jack Warlick's squad with a 282. Warlick, the club pro at the Inn, had a 153 score for the 36 holes while his team had a 282 total.

Other members of Warlick's team included Ted Martinez, Mike Apodaca and Dan Wimberly. Martinez had a 154, Apodaca a 155 and Wimberly a 162.

George French, the assistant pro at the Inn, led his team to a 289 score. French had a 160. Other members of his team included Howard Hassell, Doug Bass and John Crow.

Bob Hickson, the club pro at Cree Meadows Country Club, led his team to a 288 total. Hickson shot a 164 while Tommy Hornbuckle had a 152, Jerry Jones a 166 and Bob Sealing a 166.

A team made up of Alto Lakes Golf and Country Club pro Vic Beach, Ken Means, Mike Massey and Hal Cliff scored a 297. Beach didn't turn in a scorecard while Massey scored a 158, Cliff a 162 and Means a 165.

Alto assistant pro Steve Fey shot a 157 to lead his team to a 297 total. Buck Meyers added a 190, Chuck Dunn a 162 and Bob Durr a 167.

Ruidoso athletes aim for qualifying times

A trip to Albuquerque will probably be on the minds of a lot of Ruidoso High School boys and girls track athletes when they compete at Artesia and Tularosa this weekend.

Both the Artesia Invitational Friday and the Rose Relays in Tularosa Saturday are qualifying meets for the AAA state meet in Albuquerque next month. If Warrior athletes can meet the qualifying times in their events, they will automatically earn berths in the state meet regardless of how they do in the district 3-AAA meet.

Both the boys and girls teams will compete at Artesia, while just the girls team will participate in the Rose Relays.

Both the boys and girls teams will need good efforts from all their athletes as both squads have lost people to injuries and disciplinary action in recent weeks.

The Warrior boys are led by defending state meet veteran Cisco Bob in the 1,500 meters and 800-meter runner Curt McClellan.

Bob has a best of 4:13.29 in the 1,500 meters this season. He ran a 4:15.8 for sixth place in a tough field last week in the Roswell Invitational, despite being sidelined for a week with a twisted ankle.

McClellan finished second at Roswell, the third time this year the talented sophomore has been the runner-up in his event. He recorded a personal best of 2:06.80 at Roswell.

The Warriors hope to get some good efforts from their relay teams.

Ruidoso ran a 1:34.7 in the 800-meter relay last week, knocking three seconds off its previous best in that event. Speedy freshman Mike Williamson will join Grady Williamson, Mike Douglass and Eric Strobel in that event.

The Warriors have a best of 3:40.0

in the 1,600-meter relay. McClellan will join Grady Williamson, Strobel and Douglass as Ruidoso hopes to lower its best by several seconds.

Ivan Shaw, Francisco Olvera and David Ordorica form a potent threesome in the 3,000 meters. Olvera won his heat in the 3,000 meters at Roswell with a 10:01.55, and he could dip below the 10-minute mark this week. Shaw has run a 10:09.0 and Ordorica a 10:32.6. Ordorica has also run a 4:55.0 in the 1,500 meters this season.

Manuel Montano and Chris Wynn will go in the high hurdles, while freshman Russell Easter will join Wynn in the intermediate hurdles.

Easter showed a lot of improvement last week. He ran a 46.5 in the intermediate hurdles while improving his long jump best to 17-6 1/2.

In the field events, Chris Sanchez and George Gresham had personal bests of 38-2 and 37-7, respectively, at Roswell, and both could hit the 40-foot mark this week.

The Warrior girls are hurting depth-wise.

"We're down to 12 girls," said Ruidoso head girls coach Sergio Castanon. "We're dropping the 400-meter relay and putting our girls in open events in place of it."

Jackie Jefferson and Gia Rose will run the 800 meters while Valerie Garcia will attempt the 400 meters. Sophomore Stacy Ivy will run in the 100 meters.

The Warriors have competitive times in the 800-meter relay, 1,600-meter relay and medley relay. Deanna Peso will join Jefferson, Rose, Garcia and Ivy in determining Ruidoso's fortunes in the relays. The 1,600-meter relay squad ran a 3:32.32 for fifth place last week.

Peso is also an outstanding

3,000-meter runner. The 1982 state meet competitor finished seventh in her specialty at Roswell.

Lillian Lopez and Claudia Branum will compete in the shotput and discus. Branum did not compete last week as she attended a basketball tryout in Roswell.

Ivy, a high jumper, and Rose, a long jumper, could also do well.

WARRIOR VETERAN. Senior Grady Williamson has been one of the top performers on the Ruidoso High School boys track team this spring. He is a member of the Warrior 800-meter relay team which ran a fast 1:34.7 last week.

The Ruidoso News SPORTS

Around Sports with Gary Brown

After more than a month of play, it's clear that the new United States Football League (USFL) has made some improvements, but it's still not comparable to the older National Football League (NFL).

I've been critical of the USFL, and a couple of people have said it was unfair since the league is new and needs time to establish itself.

I agree. However, there are still some areas where the USFL is badly deficient. Monday night's game between the Los Angeles Express and the Tampa Bay Bandits was a good example.

The Express won the game by an 18-13 score but neither team looked impressive. Los Angeles showed a good defense and an improved running game, but still made too many mistakes to be called a good team.

Tampa Bay hardly looked like a 5-1 team that was leading its division. Bandit starting quarterback John Reaves completed less than a third of his passes before being replaced by reserve Jimmy Jordan. Tampa Bay also made a cluster of mistakes.

The USFL trails the NFL in virtually all categories, but the difference is biggest at quarterback, defensive back and placekicker.

Many USFL quarterbacks have trouble hitting their secondary receivers. Several times in the Los Angeles-Tampa Bay game, the quarterbacks were sacked partly due to a pass rush but also because they couldn't find their secondary receivers. On several plays, the receiver was wide open, but the quarterback couldn't find him.

At least one Express touchdown was lost because quarterback Mike Ray overthrew his receiver in the end zone. Reaves also made a fatal mistake late in the first half, throwing an interception deep in his own territory when he should have taken a sack.

Jordan did a decent job replacing Reaves, but he threw an interception late in the game which ended the Bandits' last threat. The USFL defensive backs make a lot of errors and are frequently called for pass interference and late hits. Most of the new league's secondaries can also be throttled if a quarterback is having an outstanding day.

Many of the new league's placekickers have performed as if they would have trouble kicking for an average major college team.

A good number of extra-point attempts and field goal attempts have been missed this season. Of course, the option of using the two-point conversion after a touchdown may cut down on the timing and consistency of some placekickers. Not knowing if they're going to be called on to kick or not after a touchdown could have a negative effect on some kickers.

But there is still plenty of room for improvement.

Kevin Shea of the Oakland Invaders missed three field goals in a game with the Birmingham Stallions last month. One of the field goal attempts was a potential game-winner near the end of the contest. Shea also missed two field goal attempts last Saturday against the Philadelphia Stars.

The USFL has shown some talent on defense. There are some good linebackers and defensive linemen. Philadelphia—possibly the league's best team at this point—has only allowed 57 points this season, an average of just over eight a game.

The area where the USFL's star shines brightest is at running back and fullback. The new league signed many of the top running backs from last year's college season, including Heisman Trophy winner Herschel Walker.

Besides Walker, Kelvin Bryant, Craig James and Tim Spencer were taken out of the college ranks, and all have shown promise this season.

In a couple of seasons with another good draft or two, the USFL could be the equal or better of the NFL at running back.

At the rest of the positions, it will take a little more time.

HUT, HUT, HIKE. Freshman quarterback Mark Langston of the Ruidoso High School football team balls signals during a spring practice workout Wednesday morning at the Warrior field.

Langston is one of several candidates for the starting quarterback position next fall. About 55 players are working out this spring.

Good field set for Ruidoso Invitational

The annual Ruidoso Golf Invitational began at 8 a.m. today on the Inn of the Mountain Gods course with some of the top high school teams and players in attendance.

The tournament is a 54-hole competition. After the golfers get through with today's morning round, they'll switch to Cree Meadows Country Club this afternoon and finish at Alto Lakes Golf and Country Club Friday.

Included in the 16-team field are AAA-division powers Lovington High School, Silver City High School, Socorro High School and New Mexico Military Institute (NMMI). Las Cruces High School is a slight favorite to take the AAAA-division title, while defending champion Roswell High School should also be strong. Socorro won the AAA division crown last season.

Host Ruidoso High School finished 10th in the 11-team AAA-division field last year with three sophomores and a freshman.

This season the Warriors have a bit more experience and coach

Leroy Gooch hopes that will help his team's chances.

"The guys have been hitting the ball pretty well in practice," the veteran coach said. "They've been missing the short stuff like chip shots."

Sophomore Billy Taylor has done well in practice rounds this week and is the Warriors' top-seeded player in the tournament. He shot an 82 at the Inn last Sunday.

Junior Virgil Reynolds is the second seed, Tommy Crow the third seed, Gary Gregson the fourth seed and Dion Lopez the fifth seed.

Gooch isn't optimistic that his team can finish high in the standings.

"We've improved this season but a lot of the other teams have improved more than we have," he said. "Also this heavy wind we're having could be a factor. It could raise scores from 10 to 30 strokes more than they normally would be."

Top medalists will be honored along with the team champions.

TOP BOWLERS. These are the best bowlers for the Thursday Morning Ladies League winter season. From left, they are Leona Fugate, high series handicap winner; Walterine Hughes, high average and high series scratch winner; Lillian Miranda, most improved; and Pam Cliff, high game handicap winner. Not shown is Karon Petty, who was the high game scratch winner.

TOP TEAM. These are the members of the A-1 Resort Reservation team, winners of the Thursday Morning Ladies League bowling title for the

Soccer loop starts

The Ruidoso Soccer Association youth league spring season will begin Saturday with four games at White Mountain Middle School.

In under-14 competition, the Strikers and Cosmos will tangle at 10 a.m., while the Rowdies will take on the Tornado at 1:30 p.m.

Under-10 action will see the Celtic and Cobres playing at 11:30 a.m. and the Bandits taking on United at 1 p.m.

United and the Celtic will also have teams in the under-seven age division this spring. However, they aren't scheduled to play this weekend.

Most of the season's games will be played on the White Mountain fields.

Ruth signups

The final signup for Babe Ruth baseball will be from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. today in the foyer of the White Mountain Middle School gymnasium.

Youths 13 to 16 years of age can sign up for the teams. Youths should also bring a $15 entry fee to the signups. The youths will be given a form or have a parent or guardian sign.

Spring Fever infects Ruidoso schools

Photos and text by Barby Grant

TAKING A 10-minute break from math class, Clinton Pro-psner and Darren Craft launch their kite into the wind.

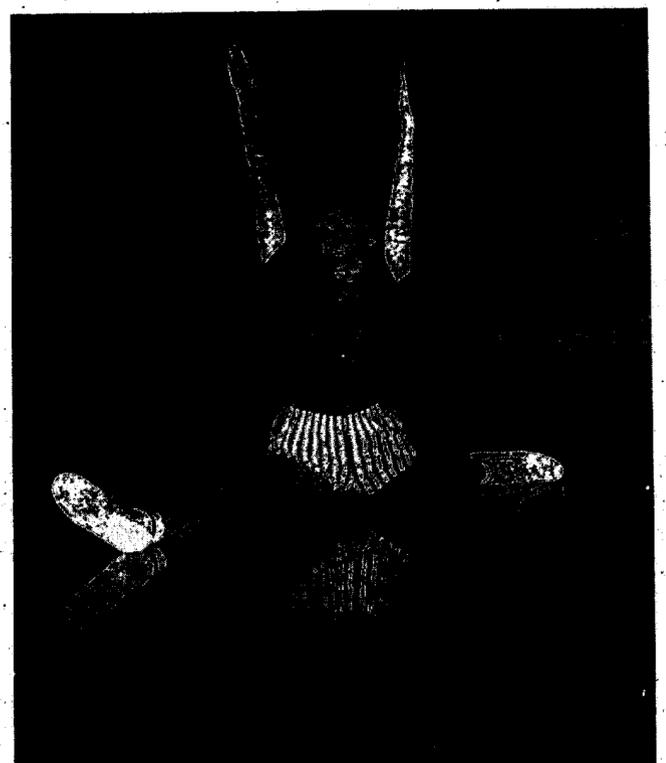

SPRING FEVER, defined as "the feelings of languor, rejuvenation or yearning that may affect people at the advent of spring," has struck at the Ruidoso schools. Mid school student Sonya Urdiales (center photo) yearns for the warm, sunny outdoors while stuck in the classroom with her textbooks. Activities engaged in when students itchy with spring fever escape from the confines of the school buildings include kite flying, tetherball and sometimes even studying outdoors. Spring is also prom time and the chance to release all one's energy in front of the entire school during cheerleader tryouts.

SPRING FEVER is not a terminal affliction, though. It lasts only several weeks—until school is out and summer arrives. The most severe symptoms, in fact, are excitement and anticipation and restlessness. Happy suffering!

HIGH SCHOOL instructor Ron Geyer, (standing) moves his applied biology class outside on the patio.

County, village officials discuss road for new high school

by BARBY GRANT
Staff Writer

County and village officials met Tuesday morning to decide who is responsible for paying for the design of Bog Spring Road to service the new high school. County officials attending agreed to pay for designing of the road from state school bus co-op funds, but requested the village to pay half of any overrun cost.

The arrangement must still be agreed upon by both governing bodies during an official meeting to be binding.

The road was submitted as the county's number one priority on the school bus co-op agreement, which provides that the state will totally fund the project and the county will perform the work. Tony Lara with the State Highway Department informed those present that in three weeks he must appropriate the $600,000 available for school bus co-op money for the entire highway district. He said he will try to allocate $200,000 of that total for the Bog Spring Road, but added that he must know how the road will be designed in order to estimate cost of construction.

Engineer Tim Collins was asked to submit design specifications to Lara as soon as possible.

The road site now lies partially in the county and partially in the village, but the Board of Education has submitted a petition for annexation of the county property by the village.

Lara reported that the county will be notified about the third week in June how much money it will receive for design and construction on the road. The money will be available July 1.

Also discussed at the meeting was the need to get something done about making Gavilan Canyon Road an alternate route from Highway 70 to Highway 37. Assistant village manager Frank Potter, who has been working on the project for several years, reported that professional designers will have to be hired before any money will be forthcoming from the federal government.

He said there is a program in which the federal government will contribute 80 percent of the cost for road construction to match the village's 20 percent. But the village must be prepared with designs and plans for construction if it is to receive any of the money.

"If you guys don't get ready that money is going to go to someone else," Lara warned the group. The state administers the federal-local co-op program, he explained.

Potter reported he plans to request funding for design of the project during the village council's next fiscal year budget hearing. In the meantime, the village plans to install a turning lane from Highway 70 onto Gavilan Canyon between Gibson's and Service Contractors.

County commissioner Bill Elliott suggested a subsequent meeting be set up with Ruidoso, Ruidoso Downs and the county to discuss the Gavilan Canyon Road project in more detail. No action was taken on the suggestion.

VOLUNTEERS like the Pink Ladies provide services which might not otherwise be available. Supplying juice to patients is just one of many services the Pink Ladies provide at Ruidoso-Hondo Valley Hospital.

This week—thank a volunteer!

by BILLY ALLSTETTER
Staff Writer

In a time when fiscal belt tightening is the trend in government, public funds do not pay for as many services as they used to. Many schools, hospitals and other facilities have to further stretch their limited funds and personnel to continue to provide the same services.

Many look to volunteers, those unpaid workers who give of their time and energy, to help fill in where the money is not available.

In a small town such as Ruidoso, where there are not some of the government agencies there are in larger cities, the need for volunteers is even more critical. If the citizens of the village want something, they have only themselves to look to.

Volunteers work at a variety of jobs and places in Ruidoso, providing badly needed help to those strained by limited budgets.

At Nob Hill School teachers are helped by volunteers that come into their classrooms almost every day. First grade teacher Greta Cabot said parents, high school students and community members all come to her classroom on a regular basis.

From helping with handwriting skills, to listening to students read to giving special math drills, the volunteers provide one-to-one attention Cabot cannot otherwise give to every child.

"It really enriches the program," said Cabot. "I am really impressed with the support we get from the community."

In addition to one-to-one attention, volunteers can provide educational opportunities that might not otherwise be available to the children. Gini Jordan, a retired Albuquerque school teacher, comes to Carrie Lois Godley's second grade class and teaches music once a week.

"It added something in the curriculum that I wouldn't be able to offer," said Godley.

Both teachers commented how much the students look forward to volunteers' visits and can't wait for their turn to read aloud to the volunteers.

"It's a morale booster for everyone up here," said Natalie Downing, activity therapist/volunteer coordinator at the Ruidoso Care Center.

Visitors to the Care Center who bring gifts, sing and put on parties add variety and spark to the lives of the residents, said Downing.

The Care Center Auxiliary provides a variety of supplementary services and helps raise money for needed improvements at the center, she noted. Auxiliary members manage a small store where the residents can purchase small food and craft items at low prices that fit their fixed incomes.

They help with transportation of residents, driving them to the doctor, relatives or a restaurant in the van they raised money to purchase.

They hope to purchase a whirlpool for the residents soon, said Downing.

"Without them, we'd be in trouble," said operating room supervisor Andj Fregly about the Ruidoso-Hondo Valley Hospital Auxiliary (Pink Ladies).

Using money raised at their Thrift Shop and Pink Shop, the Pink Ladies have purchased tens of thousands of dollars worth of medical equipment over the years. During just the past year, they have purchased and given to the hospital 20 hospital beds, an anesthesia machine, a mammography machine, 18 color televisions and blinds for the rooms.

"I've worked in many hospitals across the country and I've never seen volunteers more dedicated to the improvement of the hospital facility," said Mary Lou Brown, director of nursing at the hospital.

With the juice cart they take around to the patients and the messages, flowers and papers they deliver, the Pink Ladies help brighten the patients' lives.

Although they don't get paid, the volunteers all seem to take home something with them after their work.

"It's rewarding when you come down here," said Pink Lady Charline Jones. "You usually go away feeling a little lift."

"Happiness is doing for other people. That's the whole thing," said Nell Trout.

While the volunteers enjoy their work and get rewards of their own, they can always use a pat on the back for their contributions. April 17-23 is National Volunteer Week. Thank a volunteer this week for the help they provide.

Sam Nunnally Day set next Friday

White Mountain Middle School is sponsoring a Sam Nunnally Appreciation Day Friday, April 29. Planned fund-raising activities include a basketball game and costume day. Funds raised will help pay the municipal judge's medical expenses. The basketball game will be a faculty-student competition at the school gymnasium the afternoon of the 29th. Admission is open to the public for $1 per person, and concessions will be sold by student council members. All proceeds will go to the Sam Nunnally Fund.

Students will be wearing costumes to school that day and will be eligible for prize money if they have one or more sponsors who have donated $25 to the Sam Nunnally Fund. Local banks have donated the prize money. Each grade level will offer a $100 first prize, $50 second prize and $25 third prize for best costumes.

Students will be soliciting sponsors from the community to donate toward the fund and to make the students eligible for prizes.

Anyone who wants to sponsor a student or make a donation to the fund may call the school at 258-4150. Contributions are tax deductible.

Seventh grade teacher Tom McNeil has promised to kiss a pig if students collect a sufficient amount of money.

Teachers who are sponsoring the event include Bonnie Coe, chairperson, Marti, Mary Lee Cates, Beth Powers, Dorly Stierwalt and Rebecca Radcliffe.

Accident closes Paradise Canyon Wednesday

Paradise Canyon was closed most of Wednesday afternoon after a cement truck went off the road near Little Creek Construction about 11:30 a.m.

Motorcycle patrolman Fred Smith said Steve Gale, Alto, apparently passed out at the wheel of the Concrete Products cement truck he was driving and went off the road. He was cited for driving on a suspended license.

Live wires caused a small fire after the truck struck a power pole. The Ruidoso Fire Department quickly extinguished the fire. Buddy Bundick of Texas-New Mexico Power said service was out for about two hours to a small area in the canyon.

Police said Cedar Creek Drive was blocked because of the downed pole and to allow access to tow trucks to pull the vehicle out.

There were no injuries reported.

Tennis players invited to film, meeting

Persons interested in tennis in Ruidoso are invited to a film showing and meeting at 7:30 p.m. Thursday, April 28, at the village hall auditorium.

A half-hour United States Tennis Association film on the 1982 U.S. Open tournament will be shown. Plans for the Parks and Recreation Department summer tennis lessons program and tournaments will also be discussed.

For more information, contact parks and recreation director Pam Graves at 258-4343.

The Silver Lining

BY DANIEL AGNEW STORM

Smiling George
"The Numbers Kid"

I was up at the Ruidoso News office late Friday and found out that it was the last day on the job for George Hansel, the faithful bookkeeper-accountant whose million-dollar smile has been brightening up the office since 1975.

Saying that he had hoped to spend his days here, George said that the doctors had said that a lower climate would be better for the health of his beautiful and very charming wife, Hazel.

A man of many accomplishments, George is on the quiet side, and you never hear him talk about himself. So it was like pulling mesquite stumps by hand to get a little something out of him about his life.

He was born in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, May 18, 1919, and finished high school in a near by suburb where he played football.

He was a flight engineer on a B-29 bomber during World War II from 1943 to 1946.

During a lull in the conversation I asked him, "In a few words when can you say about the newspaper business?"

He said, "I don't know a thing about it. I don't know what goes on around here. All I do is handle numbers. They give me the numbers and I put them down."

This is a vast understatement, because he is remarkably handy with figures.

When asked how he was so quick with numbers — was it born in him? He said that he had a degree in engineering from The University of Alabama.

"I worked my way through," he said.

"What kind of work?" I asked.

"Oh, soday-jerking, table waiting, anything I could find."

He said that the war had interrupted his college, that he went back afterwards and finished his engineering. He said he did not play on Bear Bryant's team because "I am too small."

George is medium large and very husky, so you can imagine the giants that played for Alabama.

Before coming to Ruidoso, George was sales manager for Exxon Corporation.

After George said goodbye and left the office, Rolland Ramos and I began talking about this remarkable fellow. I wanted to give him a nickname, as I give everyone sooner or later.

Rolland and I went over several: "The Human Computer", "Smiling George", "The Numbers Kid." Finally we settled for "Smiling George, The Numbers Kid."

George and Hazel are two of the finest people in this world, and they will always hold a high spot in our hearts. We wish them every good fortune and God's blessing and know that they will return from Dallas, to visit us here in Ruidoso. Meanwhile, George may rest assured that his work will be well carried on by his beautiful disciple, Lynda Bennett.

Happy Birthday

To Ray Reed

April 18, was the birthday of one of Lincoln County's favorite people, Ray Reed, born on this date in 1916 in a half dugout in San Jone, New Mexico, to Mr. and Mrs. Ray Lee Reed. Ray's father Doc Reed, had a ranch under the Capp Rock, between Tucumcari and Amarillo.

On May 3, 1939, he married the former Virgie Jane Alkman. They came to Lincoln County in 1947 where Ray worked for Bert Pfingsten in the daytime and played music at night.

All his life he has been a troubador along with his other work, which included working on the Mesclero Reservation as a cowboy. Ray is a first-class cowman, and has helped his neighbors all his life in many ways.

We wish our good friend, Ray, many happy returns of the day and all God's blessings.

Prayers for Ed Smith

Our prayers go out for Ed Smith, son of the beloved lady, Lill Smith, who is in Ruidoso Hondo Hospital recovering from an operation.

His birthday was on the nineteenth, and we hope and trust that Our Lord will give him sound recovery for a birthday present.

Spring Arrives
All In One Day

The day before the big April snow, a little Swallow Scout arrived from Mexico.

There is an old saying "He heard about the grass fire, and hit out for the high ground."

This little swallow scout turned this saying in reverse, for he "Heard about the snow storm and lit out for the low lands."

Then on Sunday, April seventeen, the sun rose on a quiet mild day — such a change from the snow of only a few days ago — and here was a pair of Swallows calmly looking the house over from the REA wires. When the sun was about two hours high a flock of buzzards were circling the mountain south of the house. The next day the first asparagus shoots appeared. And today April 19, the Box Elder leaves are showing their new golden green down along the river, running in full tide of snow water, while along the green banks the first pink and crimson Spring Daisies are blooming.

Then mountain meadows are glowing green and gold, and the gentle breeze is warm and full of the incense of new grass. Now the breeze hulls and through the quiet air comes the clear silvery notes of the Mountain Blue Bird. And there he is on the top most branch of the Blue Bird Tree. He is the favorite bird of our mother and of brother Lynn's wife, Maxine; and he is the very spirit of Spring, with his silken vestments of all shades of shining light blue.

He is our little pilgrim of the sky bringing the happiness of Heaven to us as we rejoice with Mother Earth.

Yours and Ours

Inside The Capitol

by Fred McCaffrey

SANTA FE—Most people, during the industrial revolution, didn't know they were in the middle of it.

We could well try to be a little smarter than that.

What we are in the middle of—at least moving towards the middle of—is the computer and robot revolution.

Wouldn't we be wiser to recognize that and act accordingly?

A recent survey by Knowledge Industry Publications says that demand from business management will virtually double the business information market by 1987.

That means people feel a need to know more before they make those decisions which affect all our lives.

And where will that information come from?

It will be on the floppy discs and in the computers which most of us do not yet accept or understand.

That's how people were at the start of the industrial revolution. The didn't accept or understand what was going on either.

Which didn't keep it from happening.

Those "Tides in the affairs of men" Shakespeare talks about do occur. Those who note them and who, on the Bard's advice, take them at the flood end up being the winners.

This column is not suggesting that you go out and buy stock in computer firms. It may already be too late for you to have caught that tide.

All we are saying here is that, whether you got aboard or not, "information" and "information retrieval" are the catch words in the immediate future.

What does that have to do with state government?

Well, for one thing, it means that those agencies which already have in place a computerized program which can give their Cabinet Secretaries the information they need are well ahead of others in the same category.

Which agencies have that?

Almost none.

Once in awhile the Department of Finance and Administration call pull it off—though that operation is about to split asunder. It will be interesting to see which half gets the information capacity which is presently there.

Sometimes the Highway Department can tell you what is going on—though not, alas, always.

Human Services, the department which more deeply affects its clients lives than any other?

Some say any figures produced there are as likely to be slightly wrong as to be right.

The rest of state government?

Very uneven in the way it used the computer system, though almost every part of government makes some use of these new tools.

Of course, changes in policy have not always been helpful in this area. For some years we concentrated on centralizing almost all computer operations. Recently we seem to have reversed that process and are now allowing more individual agencies to get into the computer business.

But there's one thing about the progress of ideas: It has nothing to do with the name of the man who is governor or with who runs Automated Date Processing; it simply goes on, no matter which people understand and appreciate it.

So there isn't much question about whether or not to make use of these modern tools.

The only real question we have is how best to use them for the benefit of all our citizens.

We're in the last quarter of the twentieth century, after all.

Letters to the Editor

DEAR EDITOR:

After a 214-mile trek from Seminole, Texas, my son and I arrived in Ruidoso about 9 a.m. on the 9th of April 1983. With great expectations and a lingering memory of last year's romp on the Magical Mountain, we endeavored to put things in order and begin the winding journey that ends in a beautiful winter playland.

What were those signs by the service stations? "Chains" did they say? "CHAINS REQUIRED TODAY".

Eager to comply but yet skeptical, we stopped into Morgan's Ski Shop. They were very kind to two people who were obviously out of their natural realm. At approximately 10:30 a.m. a phone call to "The Ski Advisory" confirmed it—chains were required. So off to get the chains to the tune of $70 and an hour groveling in the dirt to get them on. So off we went. We were legal.

Arriving at the ski area about 11:50, we realized we had been HAD. There was, with the exception of two small spots, no ice or snow on that road. Only about ten percent of the cars had chains on. But not to worry, we were here.

As my Son and I approached the window to buy our tickets, I was trying to remember how this ticket tag thing went. I stepped to the window and said, "One adult and one child please." The lady looked from behind her newspaper with indifference and says, "Thirty-four dollars." I thought, "Why should this person be so indifferent—almost rude?"

Not being used to skiing, we decided to leave about 3:00 p.m. but we couldn't get out. A brown station wagon was blocking the "exit" (at least the only way out that we knew of). I saw a man sitting in his truck alongside the road by the station wagon. I said, "Sir, do you know what's going on here?" He said, "They are asleep in the station wagon." So I knocked on the window and roused a young man inside. He tells me that we cannot go this way but that we must exit by another road "down by the bus". So we try to do this. Once we hit a dead end in the maze of cars, then with another try we come to a rope stretched across the road. Where it has come from and what its purpose is we don't know. But we must pass under it.

There are many cute sarcastic remarks that could be made at this time, and I must admit that many have come to mind, but what purpose would they serve?

We do feel that we have the right to express ourselves if we are fair and offer our comments in a constructive way.

To Mister Roy Parker I would say: The ski advisory dictates the activity and spending of many people. When it is not current someone pays. We paid Saturday morning. For whatever reason the report was not timely and grossly in error. However, we realize this may not have been avoidable for one reason or another. We look to you to help us stay safe. We thank you for what you do.

To Mister Wendell Chino I would say: I am sorry your people are so indifferent about their jobs. It seems that your guests should deserve the dignity that all of us deserve in that we should at least acknowledge the physical presence of another person when doing business with them. You have a great and beautiful place at Sierra Blanca. Can you take, it for granted? Can you take the people who come there for granted? Your mountains are the first my Son has ever seen. What a wonderful thing you all do to share such a place with other people, so that they may behold such beauty that God has made, to return to their work-a-day jobs refreshed and inspired.

Sincerely,
 THOMAS LEE and JASON REICAN
 CALLAHAN

DEAR EDITOR:

Enclosed are copies of Lincoln County Sheriff's Department Commission Cards numbered 063 and 064. Card #063 was issued to Jack Sniadecki on January 18, 1983, and card #064 was issued to Steve Shelby, Mr. Sniadecki's employee, also on January 18, 1983. Please note that on the reverse side of the commission cards that both Mr. Sniadecki and Mr.

Shelby's signatures were notarized by Nita Gray on January 20, 1983. These are the commission cards that Mr. Sniadecki referred to in his letter to the editor to the Ruidoso News about not having been issued.

I explained to Mr. Sniadecki shortly after I took office, that my printed commission cards had not yet arrived from the printer and that as soon as they arrived that I would issue him a commission.

I advised him that during the interim he could go ahead and continue animal control services and I would be held responsible for his actions.

Mr. Sniadecki chose to terminate the existing contract between himself and the former Sheriff and returned the commission cards to this office. Mr. Sniadecki threw the cards on the counter in our front office. My secretary asked him if the Sheriff was "expecting these" to which Sniadecki replied, "He is now," and stormed out of our office.

I explained to Mr. Sniadecki that in order to get a new contract that the county commissioners would need some type of justification to appropriate emergency funds for animal control. When he finally came up with some rather vague statistics, I recommended to the commissioners that Sniadecki's four-month contract, for March, April, May and June, be approved at $1,300.00 per month. This contract was approved by the commissioners and is a matter of public record in the Lincoln County Clerk's Office. Our County Commissioners, Mr. Hightower, Mr. Elliott, and Mr. Nosker, are all highly respected citizens of Lincoln County, yet Mr. Sniadecki chose to question their integrity by refusing to take animal control calls in Lincoln County without a signed contract in his hand.

This forced Sheriff's Department personnel, including myself, to transport animals in our county patrol cars.

The commissioners are obviously disturbed by Sniadecki's attitude and asked me to come up with a program for animal control to be operated by the Lincoln County Sheriff's Department.

I agreed to provide animal control services to the county for the sum of $1,300.00 a month, plus additional funds to increase the size of the Carrizozo kennels.

I wonder if the taxpayers of Lincoln County know that Mr. Sniadecki was requesting a two-year contract from Lincoln County for the outrageous sum of $69,304.32 to be paid out at $2,887.68 per month. This does not include Ruidoso, Capitán, Carrizozo, or Ruidoso Downs.

Mr. Sniadecki is presently drawing $45,000.00 per year from the Village of Ruidoso. This contract expires 6-30-83. Mr. Sniadecki's $45,000.00 per year from Ruidoso, plus his requested $34,652.16 per year from Lincoln County, totals $79,652.16 per year and still does not include Carrizozo, Capitán, or Ruidoso Downs.

As for the man in Honda who was bitten by the cat, Mr. Sniadecki failed to mention that the man in question shot the cat in the head and destroyed any evidence that might have been analyzed.

As for Chief Deputy Charles Cox's alleged statements, anyone who knows Charles Cox, and who possesses a reasonable amount of intelligence, knows that Mr. Cox is a well-respected professional police officer of impeccable character. Mr. Cox did not make any of the alleged statements.

We have hired a full-time animal control officer and are presently providing animal control services for Lincoln County.

I resent Mr. Sniadecki's arrogant attitude, his statements concerning the operation of the Sheriff's Department, his disrespect for our County Commissioners, and his obvious lack of professionalism.

If Mr. Sniadecki thinks he can do a better job than the elected officials of Lincoln County, perhaps he should run for public office.

TOM SULLIVAN

(Editor's Note:

Sheriff Sullivan enclosed copies of commission cards with the signatures of Sniadecki and Shelby dated January 20 with his letter.)

Editorial

"Why are you even concerned about this?" A state Supreme Court justice asked a state agency last year in the Ruidoso water improvements sales tax case.

The same question might be asked of the state Attorney General now. The state is arguing in the U.S. Supreme Court that non-Indians who hunt and fish on Indian reservations should be subject to state game and fish laws.

New Mexico versus Mescalero Apache Tribe has the state insisting that non-Indians must have a state license to hunt or fish on the reservation.

Why?

"It's just because we feel it's important that our laws prevail in relation to non-Indians within state boundaries," said a spokesman for the Attorney General. There is also an economic consideration, he added—the state will receive more license fees if it wins.

The attorney representing New Mexico in the case indicated the state is not trying to interfere with management of resources by Indian tribes. But requirement of a state license could hinder a tribe's development of recreational resources by discouraging visitors from enjoying those resources. Wouldn't that constitute interference?

A clue to the state's motive in pressing the case lies in the Attorney General's comment that "if the Mescaleros win, it opens the door for them to do all sorts of things." The state appears to feel it would be a gamble not to fight the tribe on hunting and fishing.—TP

DEAR EDITOR:

REFLECTIONS

I have never believed that a larger percentage of personal accidents occur in the home. Now, after being confined at home with a broken leg for the past month, I have become a statistic.

Confinement controls most usual activities — limiting to reading, television and reflecting.

Even so, unlimited time spent on these three activities tends more to confuse than to add credibility or solutions to where we are and where we are going.

Here is a minuscule view of a few items which I find interesting but sometimes confusing.

After decreeing that he only would approve out-of-state travel Governor Anaya flew to Chicago to mix into the political scene in that city where he was soundly criticized by hispanics for his interference.

The president of one of the largest unions was convicted and sentenced to 45 years in prison — nevertheless, the federal court allowed him to retain his presidency of the union. He has since been allowed to resign presidency while on appeal.

A 5 cents tax was added to the cost of gasoline on April 1 — almost without exception service stations in Ruidoso added the 5 cents plus an additional 4 cents, making the cost of retail gasoline the highest in the state — perhaps in the nation — though that increase has been amended two to five cents in recent days.

American auto workers, on TV advertising, proclaim that the quality of their work in automobile assembly has greatly improved and that workers will match the Japanese in dedication to quality. In the meantime endless recalls of automobiles manufactured here in this country hit the headlines including the latest flaw in which a rear wheel and axle fall off a vehicle while in transit. A few minor flaws — such as faulty ignition — have been reported on foreign made cars, but none considered critical. In the meantime there appears to be a reluctance on the part of the automobile worker and the press to place the blame for our inadequate share of the total world market. Over the years the labor unions in their so-called "bargaining" procedure increased wage rates faster than productivity warranted and, at the same time, allowed quality to virtually disappear. Workers are now unemployed from their $30 to $35 per hour jobs while the Japanese are happy with jobs paying, in most cases, one-half as much as the American receives.

The result is a Japanese car of good quality selling for $2,000 less than a comparable American car of questionable quality. The answer is obvious and requires no explanation.

The governments' plan to take produce out of expensive storage and swap it to farmers who agree to take a corresponding acreage out of production is a good idea and a start, let's hope, to reducing farm subsidies. Don't overlook, however, the fact that we have millions of pounds of honey and powdered milk stored in caves in midwestern states. Subsidizing food products, especially to support the strong dairy lobby, is wrong in a country where we pride an open, competitive, market place.

The average life span in this country is now over 70 years. Advances in medicine worldwide will accelerate our ever growing world population. World population in 1920 was 2 billion — 1962 the population was 4.5 billion in 2010 it will be 9 billion. At the present time a large percentage of the world population is either hungry or starving. In the past, famine, drought, disease and wars have helped to balance the population. We are endeavoring to eliminate all of these problems only to drown in an overpopulated world.

When oil prices suddenly escalated — ten times over, the hue and cry envisioned the end of world economy. Arab nations deposited billions of dollars to U.S. banks who in turn, loaned these billions to foreign countries at high interest rates. It appears now that little consideration was given to the financial strength of the borrowing nation. But, no matter, as long as the interest rate was high.

Now oil prices are declining and while you would think that this would correct the situation brought on by high oil prices — not true — we are now being told that should oil prices reach as low as $20 per barrel the world economy will be in shambles simply because the countries who borrowed large sums initially now can't repay their loans because of falling oil prices. Believe it or not — the countries borrowing the funds were the same countries who produced the oil in the first place. Example — Mexico.

The Soviet Union and Cuba are infiltrating countries almost world wide with men, technology and material. The press pays little attention here except to support or condone such actions as being sympathetic to oppressive regimes. Conversely speaking when the United States "interferes" by sending small attachments of advisors or material to countries needing help to stabilize a dangerous political situation we are castigated by our own press including biased, "on the scene" interviews, along with a selected number of interviews with congressmen who are well known for their views contrary to about anything our government attempts to do. These self-inflicting wounds on or national security is the result of an open democratic society which is still, hands down, better than any alternative offered by the Soviet Union.

Turn off the television!

J.A. "Al" Jung

Reporter's Round

by Billy Allstetter

It's coming. I can feel it and I like it. I first noticed it one afternoon a couple of weeks ago. I was sitting outside my cabin in the Upper Canyon after work and the sun was still shining on the pine trees.

Summertime, long days when there is still time after dinner to enjoy a walk, a fishing excursion down to the river, or a few tosses of the Frisbee.

Home from work, grimy from the runaround of chasing stories in a hot car, I can see myself changing confining work clothes for gym shorts and a pair of sandals. Pop a cool one—Sssss—and wander outside to pyramid the coals and start the barbecue.

Of course the lighter fluid is always fun. The coals never seem to be burning fast enough and it is always so thrilling to see that burst of flame that roars three feet high with the simple squeeze of the can. How close can you come to turning yourself and your surroundings into an esoteric protest against the inhumanity of man to man by sending the whole area up into a large burst of flame?

Actually I am past my worst teenage pyromaniac stages and closer to middle-aged alcoholism. I now sit patiently sipping that cool beer in the warm evening sun, dreaming my life away while the coals heat themselves into a radiant fire.

But after dinner, with the river so close and the days so long (daylight savings is just around the corner) I can see myself amble down there for a few casts at the elusive trout.

Most of my casts wind up hooked to a tree behind me, in my ear or snagged on a limb in the deepest pool I can find. But the pleasure of wandering along that brook with no civilized worries on my mind is what it's really all about. The trout are just a bonus.

Being able to search for those trout is one of the advantages we have over our city-dwelling friends.

I recently received a letter from a friend living in the wild urban world of San Francisco. He wrote, "I can't really step outside my door in hopes of casting for that big fat trout lurking on Pine Street. The most I might catch is an oversized bag lady."

Unfortunately we here in Ruidoso are not completely free from the problems of the city. While casting for those trout in our beautiful streams and lakes, I have on occasion hooked the stray potato chip bag or slipped on the discarded candy bar wrapper. Trash. Garbage. Litter. What a lazy, thoughtless way to ruin one of this tourist town's best natural resources: the beauty of the countryside around us.

Last summer some friends and I escaped from the teeming megalopolis of the San Francisco Bay area to a beautiful lake in the foothills. Windsurfers under our arms, beach towels, suntan lotion and a complete picnic in the cooler, we began to settle down for a long summer afternoon by the lake.

Then a friend, Tom, stepped on a broken beer bottle left by some other careless picnicker and came up with a deep gash in his heel. We had to take him to the hospital to get sewn up. The beautiful day in the countryside was replaced with a less enjoyable one in the antiseptic halls of the hospital.

It's not only the countryside that can be ruined by trash. Soft drink cans spilling sticky goo on the sidewalks, and candy wrappers and cellophane blowing around the streets can be a blight anywhere. The trash is certainly no attraction to the tourists who support us all.

Recently I picked up a beer bottle off the sidewalk with the intention of stowing it in a trash can. I walked three blocks looking for a trash can and finally had to go down a side alley and drop it in a dumpster behind a store.

With summer coming, and the influx of tourists walking down our streets, there will be more and more potential litter in people's hands. Even the most conscientious people get lazy once in a while, and we can hardly expect everybody to actively search out dumpsters in side alleys for their trash.

Benny Coulston's suggestion that some group purchase trash cans to be put on the streets is a very good one. There is a serious lack of places to dispose of our trash in town.

I have heard that the Ruidoso 4-H Club has raised $115 to help purchase trash cans. Congratulations! But as I understand it their money will purchase only a few cans, and there is need for plenty more. I hope other clubs will follow their example. If not, I hope the city will do it.

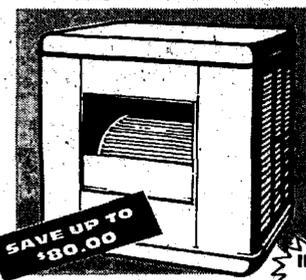

Summer and the racing season are almost upon us. Now is the time to act. If we can keep our town and forests clean this summer, we will all benefit—from a cleaner, more beautiful environment to live in, and happier tourists who will want to return to this jewel above the desert.

BAR FORTH, with jockey Gary Sumpter, returns to the winner's circle after winning his trial at Sunland Park. Bar Forth will be a contender in Sunday's 18th running of the Sun Country Futurity at Sunland Park.

Keiter high on Bar Forth

by MARK GORDON
Bar Forth's superb racing debut was really no surprise to trainer Larry Keiter.

"He looked awfully good when we breezed him a couple of times at the Double B. Ranch. He covered a lot of ground with very little effort," said the 28-year-old horse trainer.

The Bar Roula colt did a repeat of his workouts when he zipped to an easy two-length victory at Sunland Park on April 9 in the seventh division of the Sun Country Futurity trials. His time of 18:01 was the ninth best reading of the 118 juveniles and he earned a spot in Sunday's Sun Country Futurity.

The winner of the 18th edition of Sunland Park's most prestigious race for two-year-old quarter horses will collect $91,284.65 from the gross purse of $280,813.29.

Bar Forth's performance in his opening race certainly did wonders to boost Keiter's place among the local trainers. With only six horses in his barn, Keiter is still a virtual "rookie" in his profession as he's been training just two years.

"He did the things you look for in a baby. The way he traveled and the ease which he did it and the smoothness made us high on him," Keiter explained. "He ran awfully green in his race so you can't help but feel he'll improve a whole bunch of that race. Gary (veteran jockey Gary Sumpter) is awfully high on him."

Off his excellent breeding, Sunland Park patrons made Bar Forth a 9-5 wagering favorite.

He's a colt by Bar Roula, a stakes winner of 11 races, including the World's Championship Quarter Horse Classic at Ruidoso Downs and the Three Bars Handicap.

His dam is Comingforth, an Azure Te mare, who tallied nine victories in her racing career including wins in the Golden State Futurity and the El Primero del Ano Derby at Los Alamitos near Los Angeles.

"He's really a very well-bred colt. He's the best-bred colt I've ever trained. He was repurchased for $2,000 last year in the All-American Select Sale of Quarter Horse Yearlings at Ruidoso Downs," Keiter noted. "At this point of his career, he's the most promising colt I've ever had."

Still, Keiter knows there are some other bona fide contenders for the Sun Country Futurity crown, too.

"I don't think there's much to separate the first four-qualifiers. I think all 10 horses have a chance to win. Any of them could pop up and win the race. That's how evenly matched they are. I think we have as good a chance as any of them to win," he said.

The top qualifier, On A Stormy Day, has won three of five races with one second for trainer Fred I. Danley and owner Larry G. Stephenson of Wichita, Kansas. Rock A Pass, the second fastest qualifier, has won all three starts by impressive victory margins for trainer Jack W. Brooks and owner Frank J. Hieden of Houston, Texas.

Owned by J. L. Perkins of Navasota, Texas, Bar Forth is nominated for the three two-year-old Triple Crown races this summer at Ruidoso Downs — the Kansas, Rainbow and All-American Futurities.

"He was also in the West Texas Futurity, but we decided to wait and take him out of that for the Sun Country," Keiter said. "Our horse may not have as much experience as some of the others, but he certainly has the ability."

Keiter worked for several years as an assistant to well-known Ruidoso Downs quarter horse trainer Roger Fagan and groomed five horses who earned berths in the All-American Futurity, the nation's top race for quarter horses.

He's hoping he'll make that number six with Bar Forth in just a few months.

Watercolor workshop set

Southwest watercolorist Danny Gamble will be conducting a five-day workshop at Carrizo Lodge next week, April 25-29.

A native Oklahoman and a graduate of Southwestern Oklahoma State University, Gamble now lives in Canyon, Texas. His art most often depicts rural settings of the Southwest, such as a deserted barn, rickety windmill or sagging fence. His paintings often evoke a deep sense of serenity and nostalgia in the viewer.

Gamble is recognized as an experienced instructor, having taught in public schools, college classes and private workshops throughout the country. His energized teaching style generates great enthusiasm among his students. His simplified watercolor painting techniques make his workshops ideal for beginners as well as advanced painters.

His own works are found in discriminating galleries and private collections throughout the United States, including D'Oros Gallery and Carrizo Lodge locally.

There is still limited space available in next week's workshop. Those interested in registering may call Carrizo Lodge art director Ken Hosmer at 257-9131.

ART, DINING AND ENTERTAINMENT GUIDE

THE MAN IN CHARGE. Mora Man lunges ahead on the finale stride to rack up a half-length win in Sunday's featured El Paso Chamber of Commerce Handicap at Sunland Park. The duel covered six and one-half furlongs. Louie Figueroa was the winning pilot.

Mora Man is horse of the hour

Mora Man, a gelding who'd carried odds of 11-1 or higher in his last five starts, lunged ahead near the wire and won Sunday's spotlighted El Paso Chamber of Commerce Purse at Sunland Park.

This time, Mora Man got away as a 6-1 shot in the seven-head field traveling six and one-half furlongs. A 15-grand claiming price was in effect. The purse was $3,400.

Mora Man, ridden by Louie Figueroa at 118 pounds, was well out of the picture throughout most of the journey. Never Love, the 2-1 favorite, and Funny Native, a 10-1 outsider, were in contending positions at the turn for home.

Odd Law, another 2-1 shot, moved up eagerly in the upper stretch to make it a three-horse duel for the lead. At one point in the stretch, it seemed Never Love would have enough in reserve to gain the victory.

But Never Love began conking out about 100 feet from the wire, just as Mora Man launched a wilting come-from-behind attack. In the final half-dozen strides, Mora Man turned on a powerburst and squeezed through between horses.

Mora Man was clearly in command when he hit the wire, a half-length on top and still pulling away. He clocked the distance in 1:18 2/5 seconds and returned mutual payoffs of $13.40, $4 and $3.20. The victory slice of the purse amounted to $2,040 and pushed the gelding's '83 income up to nearly $5,000.

His current record stands at 2-1-0 from five starts. He's the property of Roy Thompson of Buena Vista, New Mexico.

Odd Law, piloted by Apprentice Dale Cordova at 113 pounds, ended up second and handed out $3.40 and $2.80. Odd Law crossed the wire half a length in front of Never Love ($2.60).

For Never Love, the setback snapped a three-race win streak.

Funny Native, who'd been no worse than fourth in an eight-race series going back to late November, had more than he could handle this time and drifted to a fifth-place finish.

PONY ROD carries a perfect record of three wins from three starts into the finale of the $259,913 Sun Country Futurity at Sunland Park on Sunday (April 24). The colt is owned by James Drake and Rita Danley, of Farmington.

Salustio Burgos is the pilot. The Sun Country Futurity is Sunland's top quarter horse event and a prelude to this summer's Triple Crown race at Ruidoso Downs.

Monica Stanley has day to remember

Apprentice jockey Monica Stanley enjoyed a big afternoon during Thursday's program at Sunland Park.

In fact, it was her biggest day of the season.

Things began going her way in the second race, when she won the six-furlong sprint with Up At Night. The win payoff: $40.40. In the fourth race (four furlongs), Monica struck again, this time with Raider Quince. The win payoff: $9.60.

In the ninth race, Monica was knocking on the door once again, this time with the 7-2 shot, Zip A Long Lassidy. The filly finished second, refunding high payoffs of $8.40 to place, $9 to show.

In the featured 11th race at six and one-half furlongs, Monica turned in a strong front-running performance aboard the 2-1 favorite, Solid Oak.

At the wire, Solid Oak was on even terms with the 7-2 shot, pretty Lark (ridden by Joe Martinez). The stewards called it a deadheat, so Monica wound up with her third win of the day.

On the season, her record stands at 10 wins, 10 seconds and 10 thirds from 104 starts.

Solid Oak, owned by James Murrell of Amherst, Texas, returned payoffs of $3.40, $3.20, $2.60. Pretty Lark, the property of Carla Claridge and Fern Tippen of Sunland Park, handed out $4, $4.40, $3.40. Christian Luck (an 8-1 shot) paid $3.40 to show.

Solid Oak and Pretty Lark each recorded their second wins of their careers. The winning time was 1:18 flat.

Triple Sec is Riley Allison favorite

TRIPLE SEC, A COLT who shipped in from Delta Downs in Louisiana, turned in an outstanding performance on Friday's program at Sunland Park and now looms as the likely favorite in the upcoming finale of the Riley Allison Thoroughbred Futurity.

The Allison Futurity, Sunland's showpiece event (and the traditional closing day fixture), will offer a total purse of $312,716 this time around.

The amount to be dished out to the winner of the May 1 finale is $156,358.

The Allison Futurity ranks among the nation's richest events for two-year-old thoroughbreds.

Triple Sec, owned by Stanley Beard and Carroll Glaser of Brenhan, Texas, boomed to an easy-going 10-length win in Friday's seventh race and was timed in 57 2/5 seconds.

That was the swiftest clocking of the nine trial heats. Triple Sec, ridden by Kenna Latiolais, went off as a 3-1 shot and returned $8, $5.20, $3.60. Tommie Morgan trains the colt.

In order to assure a berth in the Allison finale, a contender had to win his trial spin on Friday. The eight others who sewed up a berth with trial wins were Stone County Kid (paying $5.40 to win), Princely Greek ($18.40), Hookem ($22.40), Classy Loom ($89.60), Machisma ($6.80), Go Exclusive Go ($3.80), Wistful Eye ($5.80), John M. ($13).

A draw will be held among the second-place finishers to fill the remaining three berths in the finale.

Go Exclusive Go, who won the ninth race by five and one-half lengths, also looms as a tough Allison finalist. The colt, owned by Elwood and John Meyer of Wharton, Texas, holds a perfect career record of two-for-two.

TOP CONTENDER IN $260,813 SUN COUNTRY FUTURITY. Rock A Pass looms as a key factor in the finale of the $260,813 Sun Country Quarter Horse Futurity at Sunland Park on Sunday (April 24). The colt was extremely impressive while rocketing to a length win (above) in the trial races. His record is a perfect three-for-three. Jacky Martin is the pilot. A win in the Sun Country is worth just over $91,000.

TRIPLE SEC AND GO EXCLUSIVE GO were the two standouts during the nine trial races on Friday for the Riley Allison Futurity. The two colts drew raves for their performances during the five-furlong trial heats contested by 82 two-year-olds. A total of 12 horses qualified for the Riley Allison Futurity at five furlongs on closing day, May 1, for one of the nation's most respected thoroughbred futurities. The winner will earn $156,358.67 from the gross purse of $322,716.67, the second richest race ever run at Sunland Park. Triple Sec had the fastest time of the nine winners, when he zipped along to a :57 2/5 reading, just one second off the track mark of :56 2/5 set by Draconic's Loom on January 13, 1980. The colt is a son of Tri Jet out of a Duck Dance mare, Lovely Pond. He was bred in Florida by the well-known Hobeau Farm. Before arriving at Sunland Park, Triple Sec ran three times at Delta Downs in Vinton, Louisiana, tallying one win and running sixth in the Jean Lafitte Futurity over four furlongs on March 27. Owned by Stanley M. Beard and Carroll Glaser of Brenham, Texas, Triple Sec is trained by Tommie T. Morgan. Morgan, meanwhile, qualified three horses to the 20th Riley Allison. He also saddled Princely Greek, who won the second trial heat and Thibodaux, who won a drawing among the second-place finishers. Go Exclusive Go breezed to a hard-riden five and one-half length win in the seven trial heat under jockey O. A. Martinez Jr. It was his second straight five and one-half length victory at Sunland Park as the Plenty Old colt defeated maidens by the same victory margin over five furlongs on April 2. He's out of an Exclusive Native mare, Go Exclusively. Trained by William F. Leach, Go Exclusive Go is owned by Elwood J. and John F. Meyer of Wharton, Texas. Stone County Kid, the winner of the first trial heat was the only $5,000 supplemental horse to gain the finals. He is also the only Allison qualifier to pass under the gavel at last summer's Tenth Summer Sale For Selected Thoroughbred Yearlings at Ruidoso Downs. He was a $6,000 purchase.

The complete list of Riley Allison Futurity entrants: Stone County Kid, Princely Greek, Hookem, Classy Loom, Triple Sec, Machisma, Go Exclusive Go, Wistful Eye, John M., Dallas Annie, Thibodaux and Westwood Command. The complete list of entrants to the Riley Allison Futurity Consolation, set for five furlongs on April 30 with a $10,000 purse: Turn To Honor, J. C.'s Victory, Draconade, Trick List, Draconic Ship, Mr. Twice Worthy, Turkey Tracker, Miss Style Time, Will Be Stumping, My Anna Lee, Hesobad and Mighty Momentum.

PROMISED KINGDOM, a well-bred two-year-old colt, made his racing debut a smashing success by drawing out for a victory by almost eight lengths in Saturday's first race at five and one-half furlongs. He's by Key To The Kingdom out of a Promised Land mare, Promise You. The Ohio-bred speedster was ridden by O. A. Martinez Jr. for trainer Joe H. Welch and owner Mack Yates of Cherokee, Texas. As the 9-10 wagering favorite, Promised Kingdom returned $3.80. He was clocked in 1:06 3/5 after an easy trip through the stretch.

IT DIDN'T TAKE APPRENTICE RIDER Dale Cordova long to tell his Sunland Park patrons he was fully able to ride horses following an injury a few weeks ago. Cordova guided the favored El Gavallin to an easy five and one-fourth length win in Thursday's first race. Cordova is fourth in the local rider standings despite missing more than two weekends of racing. Cordova was injured when Bit Of Sovereign broke down in the eighth race on March 26, but returned triumphantly with El Gavallin.

IN STEWARDS' RULINGS:
 — Jockey Kevin Scholl was suspended three racing days (April 14-16) for careless riding resulting in his mount, Andrew Josh, being disqualified from third and placed eighth during the sixth race on April 9.

— Jockey Casey Lambert was suspended three racing days (April 15-17) for careless riding while aboard his mount, Slalom, in the first race on April 10.

— Jockey Casey Lambert was suspended three racing days (April 22-24) for careless riding resulting in his mount, Wee Ta, being disqualified from first to last in the fourth race on April 15.

— Jockey Joe Ober was suspended three racing days (April 22-24) for careless riding resulting in his mount, Ima Jet Bug, being disqualified from second and placed fourth during the third race on April 15.

— Jockey Kenneth King was suspended three racing days (April 22-24) for careless riding while aboard his mount, My Lucky Jug, in the second race on April 15.

MONICA STANLEY WON THREE RACES on Thursday's program. The apprentice rider started with Up At Night ($40.40) for trainer Gerald E. Marr in the second, took the fourth with Raider Quince ($9.60) for trainer Joe R. Chavez and then deadheaded on Solid Oak ($3.40) in the 11th for trainer-owner James E. Murrell of Amherst, Texas. It was the first time this season she has captured three races on a single program.

JOCKEY CASEY LAMBERT won two consecutive races on Thursday's card. He won the sixth with favored Winds Of The East ($4.60) for trainer Clifford C. Lambert and then took the seventh with favored Wired ($4.80) for trainer Jake Cascio. It was the fourth time this season he has won two consecutive races.

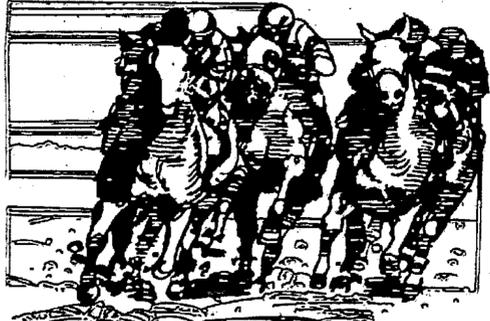

BOB AND JON ARNETT decided to keep winning "all in the family" with Saturday's seventh race. Son Jon won the race with Hasty One, a horse he owns and trains, while father Bob ran second with Via Moon, a horse he trains for owners Billie Jean Beckner and Carleen J. Hillard of Albuquerque, Texas. As the 9-10 wagering favorite, Hasty One returned $17.20 to win under Victory Escobar while Via Moon was the 3-1 second wagering choice under Manuel Toquinto.

BADEST BUG ALICE was claimed for $15,000 from Saturday's ninth race in what was the highest claiming price this meeting and perhaps the highest in the history of Sunland Park. The four-year-old Bugs Alive In '75 gelding was claimed by trainer Emilio Cardena Jr. for owner Homer Garza of Mesquite, New Mexico. Badest Bug Alive won his finale race for owners Arthur Loftis and Virginia K. Skinner of Quintman, Texas, when he won by a half-length over 350 yards in 17:77.

DALE CORDOVA won two consecutive races on Sunday's program. He started with Bold Hippy ($10.20) in the seventh for trainer Ike Danley and then took the eighth with Half Million ($11) for trainer James W. Curry. It was the second time this season Cordova has accomplished that feat.

TRAINERS IKE DANLEY AND R. FRANK THOMPSON each won two races on Sunday's program. Danley took the fourth on De March ($32.60) and then captured the seventh with Bold Hippy ($10.20). Both horses are owned by Julie S. Papan of Las Cruces. Larry Urioste rode De March while Dale Cordova was on Bold Hippy. Thompson won the second with Musical King ($10.20) for owners Robert S. Searls Jr. and R. W. Sewell of Odessa, Texas, and then took the ninth with Run Rufus Run ($24.40) for owner Wilma Sewell of Odessa. Angel Jacobo rode both horses.

WINNING POST POSITIONS: No. 1—90, No. 2—87, No. 3—116, No. 4—103, No. 5—111, No. 6—107, No. 7—91, No. 8—61, No. 9—69, No. 10—62, No. 11—11, No. 12—8.

Mini Stick noses into Derby Prep win

Mini Stick, a filly who'd never traveled farther than six furlongs in six tries at racing, came through with a rousing stretch charge and pulled out a nose victory in Saturday's Riley Allison Derby Prep at Sunland Park. The Derby Prep covered a mile and served as a tuneup for next week's Riley Allison Derby. The latter packs a purse of close to $50,000. On the strength of Saturday's big come-from-behind victory, Mini Stick looms as the one to beat in the Allison Derby. Mini Stick was ridden by O. A. Martinez Jr. The filly is owned by John and Jeanette Fidel of Albuquerque.

The mutual payoffs: $11.60, $6 and $6.40. Rhone Red, an 8-1 outsider, also closed with a lot of run to nail down second, a head in front of Booging Boo Boo. The latter got away at 19-1 odds. Southern Ship, a 2-1 second favorite, turned in an extremely game effort and led almost the entire journey. The roan gelding simply had no more to give when he reached the final jump or two and faded to a close fourth. Rhone Red, owned by John Vinson of Bridgeport, Texas, returned $6.40 and $6. The show price on Booging

Boo Boo was $7.20. Joe Martinez rode Rhone Red while Booging Boo Boo was piloted by Carlos Rivas. The big disappointment of the Derby Prep was Running Bucket, a colt who went into the tuneup as a stand-out pre-Derby favorite. His money line is just over $275,000. But Running Bucket (even money in the wagering) was unable to advance out of second place, then quit badly in the stretch. He wound up seventh in the eight-head field. Mini Stick, who covered the mile in 1:41 2/5 seconds, earned $2,040 out of the Derby Prep purse of $3,400.

VITAL SIGNS ARE GOOD. Vital Link, a filly owned by the prominent sportsman, Clarence Schaubauer Jr. of Midland, Texas, elbowed her way into the finals of the $259,913 Sun Country Futurity at Sunland Park on Sunday, April 24.

MISS PASSERA, a filly owned by Ken O. Livingston of Portales, is included among the finalists for the $259,913 Sun Country Futurity at Sunland Park on Sunday (April 24). Miss Passera holds a record of two wins and a second from four starts. The rider is Jerry Burgess.

THE HOME PROTECTION PLAN

It is tougher to sell a home today. And your home needs every advantage it can get. And a good real estate person should show you ways to make your home more attractive to buyers. A very tangible plus for the homeseller is the Home Protection Plan.

Essentially, it protects the home buyer against major repair or replacement costs on heating and electrical systems and major appliances for a full year. And its value to the home buyer can far exceed its small cost to the home seller.

It's one idea. We have more. And we feel that even in a tough market you can still get the right price at a reasonable time with the right help. We'd like to help.

Villages' governing bodies to meet

Ruidoso Downs trustees, at their meeting tonight (Monday), will discuss plans for two proposed apartment complexes given approval by the Planning and Zoning Commission (P&Z) Thursday. The meeting will begin at 7 p.m. at the municipal building.

A 48-unit apartment complex for low- to moderate-income residents is planned for construction on Spring Road outside village limits. The project developer, Chamari Incorporated of Carrizozo, is seeking Farmers Home Administration financing of the project. The developer has also requested annexation into the village and has promised to provide a water storage facility.

Plans for a 40-unit apartment complex to be built by Ron Tibbets of Colorado, for moderate-income residents, were also approved by P&Z and will be discussed by trustees. Other business on the agenda includes:

- Discussion of the contract with Lincoln Communications for installation of a repeater station.

- Final approval of ordinance 83-3 establishing garbage pickup services outside village limits and ordinance 83-4 concerning livestock in the village.

- Discussion of proposed purchase of two new vehicles for the police department.

- Discussion of problems occurring with cable TV lines near sewer lines
- Proposal by Ladies Auxiliary to paint the municipal building
- Discussion of drilling a new well
- Audit bids
- Discussion of proposed uses for revenue sharing funds

A public hearing on Ordinance 83-4, annexation of 148 acres of land in Grindstone Canyon, is set for Tuesday's meeting of the Ruidoso council. The meeting begins at 7:30 p.m. at village hall, following a study session for councilmen at 6:30.

Also on the agenda are:

Resolution 83-4, regarding the material used for plats.

- Resolution 83-5, regarding the Open Meetings Act.

- Police chief Dick Swenor, regarding alarm system.

- Assistant village manager Frank Potter, regarding fiscal 1983-84 budget for traffic study, $50,000 and $10,000 for design of Bog Spring Road.

- Lodgers' Tax Committee chairman Ed Hyman with lodgers' tax budget request.

- Village attorney Lee Huckstep, regarding proposed agreement to use property adjacent to police station.

- Mayor George White, audit proposals.

New Lincoln War brewing?

by BARBY GRANT
Staff Writer

A battle seems to be brewing again in the town of Lincoln.

The opponents this time—residents versus members of the Historic Review Board—are fighting over enforcement and interpretation of the Historic District Ordinance, which regulates construction in and around the town. The underlying argument—how far to go in preserving the historic atmosphere of Lincoln—will be decided by the outcome.

A three-hour Lincoln County Planning and Zoning Commission (P&Z) meeting in Ruidoso Thursday was taken up with arguments between the parties. Business before the commission included an appeal of a decision by the Historic Review Board, a request by the board for action against seven alleged violators of the ordinance and a request for approval to build in the Lincoln historic district.

The Lincoln historic district, extending from the Highway 380 bridge crossing the Bonito River to the Fort Stanton boundary line, was created by adoption in January 1972 of the Historic District Ordinance. Stipulated in the ordinance is that "all exterior construction shall be of adobe, appearance of adobe, plastered, stuccoed, rock or of wood construction, with the architectural style being that of the frontier period or territorial period which has been in existence in this area for the past 75 years."

The ordinance also forbids trailers and mobile homes in part of the district and requires they conform to exterior construction standards set forth above where they are permitted. Any plans for "exterior construction, reconstruction or destruction" must be submitted for approval to an elected Historic Review Board.

The intent of the ordinance is to preserve buildings which have historical significance and to develop "an appropriate setting for these buildings within the historic district ..."

But property owners at the meeting complained that potential property buyers are not aware of the existence of the ordinance and that strict enforcement of the regulations creates a hardship on residents in the district. Other allegations aired against the Historic Review Board included the holding of meetings without proper notice and being selective in enforcement of the ordinance.

A Wichita Falls, Texas, man who has purchased and is restoring one of the old deteriorating houses in the district claimed he was not aware of the restrictions of the ordinance when he brought in a 14-by-80-foot mobile home to stay in while working on the restoration project. Ted Anderson requested from P&Z appeal of the Historic Review Board's demand that the mobile home be made to conform as stipulated in the ordinance.

Anderson reported that the mobile home is located in a wooded area behind the house and will not be visible from the highway after the trees leaf out. He asked for permission to leave it there for the three years he projects the restoration work on the house will take. In a letter to P&Z, Anderson claimed that complying with the restrictions of the ordinance would create "a hardship of time and financial burden on me."

Historical Review Board member Matthew Borowski pointed out that ignorance of the law is no excuse. It was also argued that permitting one mobile home in the area for three years will set a precedent for others wanting the same thing.

"The ordinance exists and the ordinance has to be conformed to," P&Z chairman Bill Seelbach commented. The commission voted to grant Anderson 60 days to meet with the Historic Review Board and comply with regulations of the ordinance.

A discussion ensued concerning the availability of the ordinance for potential property buyers. P&Z then voted to recommend the county clerk or local abstract companies furnish copies of the ordinance to anyone purchasing property in the historic district.

The other major issues discussed at the meeting were whether chain link fences and solar heating should be permitted in the historic district.

The Historic Review Board had cited a resident for being in violation of the ordinance by having erected a chain link fence, and was requesting P&Z to order it dismantled. C. A. Dockery argued that the fence is necessary to protect her dog and her child's 4-H sheep from stray dogs, and that she planted trees to hide the fence from view of the highway.

"This is a living community," she declared, noting that residents need a place to keep their pets.

P&Z voted to give Dockery and other residents cited for being in violation of the ordinance 60 days to meet with the board and comply with ordinance regulations. The board was advised to take legal recourse if compliance was not met in that time period.

The third matter to come before P&Z was a request from architect Stanley J. French for action on an application for a residential building permit in the historic district. French reported the board has postponed action on the matter even after he redesigned plans to conform to changes dictated by the board.

The architect was requesting permission to include chain link fencing and solar heating in the house plans despite the board's opposition. He argued that chain link fencing was needed to protect the resident's dog from stray animals and that chain link fences were used as early as 1897 in this country.

"Who is to say it was not used in this area except by someone's romanticized concept of the style of the period," French stated in a letter to P&Z.

School policies, student attitudes reduce drug problem at RHS

Substance Abuse in Ruidoso

(Second in a series)

by DAVID SHEPPARD
Staff Writer

Earlier this school year, Ruidoso High School principal Tom Hansen confronted a student about an allegation that the student was pushing drugs.

The student was uncooperative and refused to present the pot Hansen was sure he was carrying.

But the principal was not going to let him off the hook easily. In the presence of a male witness, Hansen strip-searched the student and, as he suspected, discovered a concealed bag of marijuana.

"We don't have to have a warrant, only reasonable suspicion and a witness," explained Hansen about the great flexibility the school has in such situations.

The story illustrates the school's concern about drug use. And it shows the principal's frankness when dealing with the subject of drugs and alcohol—an issue that has caused a big stir at the high school since a former student made allegations of widespread drug and alcohol abuse in the first part of this series.

The student's story was discounted by administrators, teachers and students alike last week as being an exaggeration of the use of illegal substances by today's students. While none deny the use of drugs and alcohol, they say it in no way approaches the 50 percent figure quoted by the former student.

Also, those students who admitted to smoking marijuana and drinking describe themselves as responsible individuals who have set priorities in life, and say they do not want to forfeit their futures to the thrill of a sustained artificial high.

In an interview Thursday, Hansen said: "Any principal who says there are no drugs in school is a liar." But he added that though he admits drugs, chiefly marijuana, are present on campus, he will not condone open use.

Substance abuse at the high school was very much a problem in the early to mid-1970s, and the percentage of users—whether first time or prolonged users—may have hovered well over 50 percent, indicated Hansen and high school counselor James Sanchez.

Frequent reports came to Hansen, who has been principal more than 10 years, about students returning to classes high after the lunch break.

Deciding to combat the problem, about three years ago the administration initiated an automatic suspension policy affecting any student even suspected of drinking or smoking pot before school.

The policy is simple and effective, Hansen believes. If the smell of alcohol or pot is detected on a student, he is suspended automatically and police juvenile officer Danny Steward is called. Hansen said he leaves the decision of whether to contact the parents up to Steward.

According to Sanchez, neither he, the administration nor police are out to hang occasional drug users. That is the case because ultimately, students will decide for themselves whether to use drugs. But, the powers that be make it clear, use before or during the school day is prohibited.

The suspension can last a few hours, a day or longer, depending on the student's attitude.

The policy is very effective, noted Hansen, pointing to the fact few students need to be confronted.

The other policy, and the one that would seem most controversial, is the searching. Hansen pointed out the school has great flexibility in searching students, their cars, possessions and lockers.

The situation he used for illustration involved a student who was suspected of selling marijuana. Hansen said he first searched the student's jacket and pants pockets, but found nothing.

As a last resort, Hansen said, the student was told to strip and a small amount of marijuana was found hidden in his underwear.

Such a procedure could not be resorted to if parents did not support it. But, says Sanchez, community support is what makes the school's anti-drug and alcohol policies effective.

"They're with us 100 percent in dealing with this. They're just as concerned about it," he said.

By all accounts at the high school, the problem of substance abuse among today's students is waning. Though he has no detailed figures, Hansen guesses regular drug and alcohol use involves only about 5 percent of the 450 high school students.

The reasons for the decline probably are as varied as the student population. The policies may have helped, as may have increased student involvement in school and community activities; close student-teacher relationships; or just a changing attitude.

In fact, Hansen attributes the decline partially to this growing "moral conviction" against drugs by today's youth.

A junior put it similarly. "We've got priorities. We've got more respect for ourselves than to waste it on drugs. They're at the bottom of our list," she explained.

The junior was joined by a classmate and four seniors Friday afternoon in an interview on the present high school drug and alcohol scene.

The students represent a cross-section of the school population, said teacher Gerald Ames. Four acknowledged they have smoked pot, with two of them saying they still do occasionally. Another pointed out alcohol is more of a problem than marijuana because of its lower price, its accessibility, and its danger to anyone who drinks and drives. Another student said she chooses not to use any artificial stimulants.

None of the students wanted to be identified.

The junior continued, "I've tried pot and I drink. If you want to buy it you can get it, but I've never had anyone try to pressure me. If you say no, that's as far as it goes."

She said peer pressure may be the reason why some students try marijuana or drink, but she added it is easy to say no at the school and be respected for the decision.

The girl started to "go out and drink to have a good time" when she was a freshman—a time when, she said, frequent drug and alcohol use was more common among youth.

"I didn't know what to do with life; it made me feel like somebody."

She noted that, a few years ago, she could not discuss her problems with her mother, so she tried to forget them by partying. But now she and her mother are closer and she doesn't turn to drinking to solve her problems.

In addition, she said she just doesn't have the time to party as much because of her involvement in cheerleading and sports.

Extracurricular activities at the school are very popular and occupy the time of many students. Hansen said, if they want, students can select from a large number of school and community activities in which to participate.

Noted Sanchez, "We all need a high, but we show them different ways. Besides organized activities, Hansen and Sanchez pointed to the countless recreational opportunities available for bored students in surrounding mountains and forests. Also, many students work at jobs in their extra time.

"It's our conviction you don't have to be bored with life," Hansen said.

From sports to the Distributive Education Clubs of America chapter, to the band, drama and music clubs, the honor society and other school activities, the high school offers a number of outlets where students can devote their spare time.

"I've seen (that) the more involved one is in extracurricular activities, the less involved he'll be in drugs and alcohol," noted Hansen.

Hansen also points out it is an age-old complaint of teens that they have "nothing to do," but he does not accept that as an excuse for deviant behavior.

One of the seniors noted it also is not wise to become mixed up with illegal substances while participating in sports at school, since it is school policy that anyone caught using drugs will be thrown off the team.

Another student thinks it is "stupid" to use drugs while playing sports. "You should be dedicated if you go out for a sport," she said.

Still, students do try drugs—whether it is to hide from problems, out of curiosity or just to have fun.

"I think God made them curious—fortunately most live through it," says Hansen.

The principal advises students and parents to develop a healthy, understanding attitude toward drinking or pot use. Sometimes it may be helpful to allow children to try the "forbidden fruit"—alcohol—in the home to satisfy the curiosity, said Hansen.

The junior girl points out that her parents allow her to drink in the house. She said she appreciates the trusting attitude, and her parents' realization that she can handle drinking responsibly.

Regarding alcohol use, Sanchez said it is his opinion it should not be separated from marijuana as being less harmful because it is socially acceptable.

"It's a monster there, some don't realize it's a drug," he maintains.

Some of the seniors interviewed see alcohol use by students as an insidious pastime that can be much more dangerous than marijuana.

"I see it as more of a problem, especially on weekends," said one senior. "The only thing real bad with alcohol is driving; you become careless," he said, and added, "I don't see a danger of many kids becoming alcoholics."

Another senior contends alcohol is worse than drugs because it is cheaper and easier to buy. His sentiment was echoed by a classmate, who said she bought beer at a liquor store when she was only 16.

Science teacher Dub Williams, who teaches freshmen the physical effects of alcohol and drug abuse in his general sciences course, calls both substances monsters that have been turned loose on the world.

"If I'm going to talk about the number one drug abuse in the United States, alcohol is first," Williams said. He points out it directly affects about 50 million U.S. citizens and it becomes physically addictive.

All teachers at the high school are encouraged to digress occasionally from the curriculum to address social concerns such as substance abuse. Indeed, Hansen pointed out that in his evaluation of teachers, he wants to know how much they have drawn on social interests and current events for application to classroom topics.

Sanchez thinks the total participation in counseling results in an effective program at the school.

The results are evident in students. Said one girl, "The school really cares about us. The teachers are our friends, they really care."

What the school tries to instill in students is a sense of self-responsibility, and the knowledge that it is up to them to make decisions on drug use. "We don't use scare tactics, we try to make it an educational thing, and hopefully they'll weigh the advantages and disadvantages," explained Sanchez.

Hansen added, "We don't tell them they can't smoke it, because they're going to if they want to. If a child wants to experiment with it, he'll find a way."

A simple suggestion given to students is for them to always be aware of their future goals and the potential defeat they could suffer at the hands of abuse.

And, according to Hansen and Sanchez, today's students are developing this mature attitude toward alcohol and drug use because they have seen the consequences of abuse.

The students point out that although they do enjoy drinking socially or smoking marijuana, they have learned to do it in moderation.

"I don't smoke pot because I can't handle reality—not for escape. I just like the feeling," said one girl. "When I'm high, I'm in such a relaxed state of mind I couldn't handle that all the time."

She said that as recently as one year ago, she would smoke pot morning, noon and night. "But I realized it changes you totally, you can't achieve anything. You get the attitude—'screw everything.'"

Said the girl whose parents allow her to drink at home, "I like to drink, but I don't like getting so drunk I'm out of control."

"Most of my friends are in sports, cheerleading. Sure we loosen up sometimes. But we've got more respect for ourselves than to waste it on drugs."

Another junior, who participates in the Fellowship of Christian Athletes, chooses not to use drugs or alcohol.

"I can talk to the Lord when I have problems," she said. She added that, had she not accepted Jesus into her life, she probably would turn to something else for stimulation.

One of the seniors, who is well known on campus and in the community, said she used to party a lot as a freshman here because it was a quick way to make friends in a new town. But she has since developed a different lifestyle and is more concerned with being a good student.

"School means a lot to me. My first priority is to get good grades," she noted.

"Alcohol and drugs are not on the top of the list at this school. Most people feel like they belong here, they're not out of place. This school today is more academic," she added.

The girl also pointed out that parents "tend to freak out" when they hear about drugs, because they don't understand the situation at school.

But, she concluded, "I don't want to let them down and I don't want to let myself down."

Health Fair to offer many varied activities

by BILLY ALLSTETTER
Staff Writer

The support and cooperation of local individuals and organizations is combining to make the Health Fair one of the major attractions of the upcoming Golden Years Jubilee.

Leala Newsom, head of nursing education at the Ruidoso-Hondo Valley Hospital and one of three organizers of the Health Fair, said local civic organizations, businesses and individuals have all promised time and equipment for the educational fair May 20 at Jerry Dale's.

Local physicians and other medically trained personnel will be manning the counseling and referral booth, where Health Fair participants will be able to ask questions about health care and preventive medicine. "Each participant will fill out a health history and be given written results from screening tests," said Newsom. Those histories and the screening tests will be the basis for health counseling and referrals by the physicians in the booths.

Much of the emphasis at the Health Fair will be on preventive medicine and early detection of diseases.

"Preventative health care is becoming more and more important. It's going to become even more important as medical care becomes more expensive," said Newsom.

Newsom did emphasize that this testing may be educational for many but that it is only a basic screening and should not substitute for a regular checkup at a doctor's office.

Dr. T. T. Marquardt will be in charge of glaucoma and vision testing available at the fair. Along the same line, the Noon Lions Club will have a booth for signing up donors to the eye and organ banks.

Dr. Vincent Straley plans to organize a Dental Health Education program for the fair.

The local Radio Shack is providing a computer on which Health Fair participants will answer a cancer risk questionnaire. The results of the questionnaire will show participants if they have a high risk of any type of cancer. The American Cancer Society's booth will provide information on early warning signs and detection of the disease.

Representatives from the Counseling Center will also be at the fair explaining the services it offers.

In all, there will be 25 booths at the fair which will provide the basis of the educational fair, said Newsom. They will provide information about health problems, diseases, screening tests and health care resources. The testing will include blood pressure, hearing and anemia, along with vision and glaucoma testing.

In addition to local exhibitors, national organizations such as the American Heart Association, American Lung Association, Easter Seal Society and Kidney Foundation will also have informational booths at the fair.

During the course of the show, different people will deliver short talks every hour on different subjects. Mary Ellen Payne, Lincoln County Extension Home Economist, will talk about nutrition for older people, and feature native New Mexican foods such as chiles and pecans.

Ruidoso Police Chief Dick Swenor will speak on home protection and safety. Gordon Lunsford, Social Security Administration representative, will talk and answer questions about Social Security. Hypertension and physical fitness for older people will be other subjects covered, said Newsom.

The Health Fair will not be contained to the inside of Jerry Dale's. In the parking lot outside, an ambulance, a medical emergency transport helicopter and fire fighting equipment will be on display, said Newsom. Experienced personnel will be on hand to show people the equipment and answer any questions.

The Ruidoso-Hondo Valley hospital will be supplying the ambulance and the Ruidoso Fire Department will bring the fire fighting equipment. The helicopter will be coming from Fort Bliss.

The Health Fair will be open from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Friday, May 20, at Jerry Dale's. Newsom said people of all ages are invited to the fair. One need not be a registered participant in the Golden Years Jubilee to come to this free event.

Downs P&Z approves apartment projects

by DAVID SHEPPARD
Staff Writer

The Ruidoso Downs Planning and Zoning Commission (P&Z) Thursday approved two apartment projects that, if okayed by the village trustees and the Farmers Home Administration (FmHA), will add 88 rental units to the village.

Architect Carl Reinhardt from Colorado Springs, Colorado, presented the first project to the board. The 40-unit complex is proposed for a 2.29-acre site on Miriam Road, behind the Merchants trucking company on Highway 70.

The complex would consist of five buildings divided into one-, two- and three-bedroom units. Reinhardt said a laundry would be contained in the complex and space would be provided for a children's playground.

Since it would be financed through FmHA, Reinhardt noted the rents would be established by the agency. It was estimated the rents would range from approximately $175 to $250 per month and would be based on 25 percent of a tenant's income.

The main concerns of the commission were the condition of the access road to the complex, and the water supply.

P&Z chairman George Smith, who was elected at the start of the meeting, asked Reinhardt, "Are you going to be able to prevent another 300-car-a-day dustbowl?"

Reinhardt explained the access off Highway 70 would be upgraded from the present dirt road to a chemically treated gravel-compact road. The driveways and parking areas inside the complex would be concrete.

Reinhardt noted a feasibility study still has to be done on the water supply. He pointed out that if the system becomes too expensive, the project may be abandoned. But Reinhardt also mentioned the proposed improvements to the Downs water system to be financed by FmHA, and said he feels the supply would be adequate.

Commission member Jackie Branum, who lives in the vicinity of the project, was concerned about future upkeep of the housing. Reinhardt noted that eight percent of the rental income would be earmarked for maintenance.

Reinhardt said the apartments could be ready for occupancy by this fall if everything goes according to schedule.

Mary and Charles Adams of Carrizozo asked the commission's approval for a 48-unit apartment complex to be located at the end of Spring Road south of village limits.

Mary Adams said application has been made to FmHA for financing of the project, but it has not yet been approved.

The proposed site now belongs to the Inspiration Corporation and lies between the corporate boundary and the Lincoln National Forest.

If the project is approved, the builders propose to install two water storage tanks for the apartments. George Adams noted the tanks could be filled nightly, when water demand is low. He said the tanks would hold enough water for up to four days use.

P&Z member Conrad Buchanan recommended approval of the project, saying the additional tax revenue "would be a real plus to Ruidoso Downs."

The commission approved the project and annexing the proposed five-acre site.

Downs police chief Charles Robinson told P&Z the projects would not create patrol problems for the police force.

Also Thursday, P&Z approved a request from James and Sandra Eastep to move an existing house onto a new lot in the Holt Tract, located behind the municipal building.

Digger turns up skull

by BILLY ALLSTETTER
Staff Writer

Ed Hazel of Ruidoso Downs uncovered a skeleton Friday afternoon while clearing a flat spot next to his mobile home. Police officers and Hazel estimated the apparent human skeleton could be 100 years old, but it will be sent to Santa Fe laboratories to be tested.

Hazel, an independent excavating contractor, was using a front end loader to clear a flat spot away from his mobile home in Green Acres when he saw a round object roll down the side of the hill he was clearing.

"Oh God! I hope that's not what I think it is," Hazel said he thought when he saw the object. He thought it was a human skull and it appears to be.

Hazel and the police spent about an hour-and-a-half looking for other bones and found about 10 percent of a full human skeleton, estimated Hazel.

The skeleton had been buried about two to three feet underground. Before Hazel noticed the skull he had already removed ground containing part of the skeleton and spread it along the ground. Officers and Hazel's family found bones scattered over a 50-foot area.

Looking for possible signs of foul play was difficult because of the lack of a complete skeleton, but the head showed no signs of violence.

"The skull is in perfect shape," said Lincoln County sheriff's deputy John McIntyre.

McIntyre will send the bones to Santa Fe laboratories to date them and confirm that they are human. McIntyre explained that a skeleton was once found which appeared to be human but turned out to be an ape. McIntyre said that a carnival had been staying where the skeleton was found and had buried one of their apes that had died.

McIntyre and Hazel guessed that it was more likely the skeleton was a cowboy or Indian from many years ago, because of the bleached quality of the bones.

Hearing on E.T. ordinance set

by BARBY GRANT
Staff Writer

The Ruidoso-Lincoln County Extraterritorial (ET) Zoning Ordinance is about to get off the ground. Various county and village officials, employees and ET commission members met Thursday to discuss the operation and administration of the Extraterritorial Zoning Authority and to set a public hearing on adoption of the ordinance.

County commissioner Bill Elliott was elected to chair the three-member zoning authority, which will serve as an appeal board of the ET zoning commission. Other members of the authority are county commissioner Kenneth Nosker and Ruidoso councilman Benny Coulston.

The public hearing on the proposed ordinance, which establishes zoning regulations for the area surrounding the village limits in a one-mile radius, was set for May 24. The hearing will be held during the regular board of commissioners meeting at the county courthouse in Carrizozo beginning at 10 a.m.

Also discussed was the appointment of an extraterritorial zoning enforcement officer. Ruidoso planning and zoning enforcement officer John Cupp indicated his office could handle the additional work with the assistance of a half-time secretary and an extra $14,000 a year in the budget. That cost would be split by the county and village.

It was agreed that the enforcement officer should be located in the village because the land involved surrounds the village. County manager Suzanne Cox volunteered assistance with record-keeping on the county's computer system.

Cupp pointed out that he would accept the position on a two-year trial basis to determine how it will work out.

County Planning and Zoning Commission chairman Bill Seelbach commented that potential developers of land in the extraterritorial zone will be pleased that the ordinance has been formed to offer some guidelines on developing. He indicated that now such developers are shuffled between the county and village planning and zoning commissions because neither has absolute authority over development in that area.

Adoption of the ordinance will be voted on by the county and village following the public hearing May 24.

Coulston clarifies link with Don Dorman

Ruidoso councilman Benny Coulston Friday addressed his relationship with Don Dorman, owner of the Grindstone Canyon property the village is attempting to purchase for a reservoir and water treatment plant.

The minutes of a special closed council meeting April 6 state that the council decided then that Coulston does not have a financial interest in the land acquisition and should vote on the matter of acquiring the land.

Coulston, a Realtor, pointed out Friday that he had been abstaining from voting on Grindstone matters for two years. He said he raised the issue with the council to determine whether he should vote on the land purchase contract at the April 6 meeting.

It was the unanimous opinion of the council—with the mayor's endorsement—that he should vote, Coulston said. "I think every councilman should take a position on this," he said in explanation of his re-

As for his relationship with Dorman, Coulston said he has the developer's personal house listed for sale. He acknowledged that he has advised Dorman on the Grindstone Development project, but added that he has also advised dozens of other clients.

"I have no contract with Don Dorman," said Coulston. In regard to the allegation that he is the exclusive agent for the proposed Grindstone Development, he said, "I wish that were a fact."

"I hope that at some point in time that he will list it with me," said Coulston. "The business is up for grabs, I assume."

Coulston expressed relief that the Grindstone question is finally coming to a head with Tuesday night's hearing on annexation of the property into the village.

"It needs to be resolved," he said.

Committee endorses land acquisition

The Grindstone Dam Oversight Committee passed a motion Friday to encourage the village council to acquire the Grindstone property and get on with the dam project.

The motion came after committee chairman Bill Karn raised a question about the "reverter clause" in the contract between the village and Grindstone property owner Don Dorman. The clause states that if the land is not used as a reservoir for a period of three years, it will revert to Dorman.

Karn indicated that the valley water protest and acquisition of water rights to allow filling the reservoir could cause delays. "How does that clause protect the village of Ruidoso?" Karn asked.

He noted that the bond issue to finance the project had been sold on the basis of the site being private land, the acquisition of which would not require a time-consuming environmental impact statement (EIS); and that the dam be earth-filled, using fill material from the site. Karn indicated it is possible through political influence to bypass or shorten the EIS process, and cited a geotechnical report that showed an earth-filled dam would be impractical because of leakage.

He said studies of alternative dam sites at Perk Canyon and Flume Canyon should have continued.

Committee member Rudy Flack pointed out that engineers have recommended a roller-compact concrete dam to eliminate the leakage problem.

On a motion from member Ed Hyman, the committee voted 2-1 to endorse acquisition of the Grindstone property, with annexation of the surrounding land, so the village can proceed with the dam project. Hyman and Flack voted for the motion, Tim Palmer voted against it and Tim Collins abstained.

It was decided Karn will communicate the action to the council Tuesday night.

Search for missing Fort Stanton man continues

Search and rescue squads, the Civil Air Patrol, State Police and other volunteers were continuing their search Monday for a mentally retarded man who walked away from Fort Stanton Hospital and Training School Saturday morning.

Fort Stanton administrator Mark Delgado said searchers found a clear trail of the man, who was walking east from the hospital grounds on a dirt road. The search was concentrated about three to four miles away from the hospital.

According to the Delgado, the man, who was on medication for seizures, appeared to be healthy and alert because he was capable of following the roadway.

Delgado said helicopters from the State Police and the Civil Air Patrol were expected to join the search Monday. The search was being coordinated by White Mountain Search and Rescue, Delgado said.

The walkaway is a 29-year-old black man, about 5 feet 2 inches tall and weighing about 119 pounds. He was last seen wearing a gray jacket with maroon-striped sleeves, blue jeans and brown Wellington boots.

Search and Rescue teams from Socorro, Alamogordo and Dona Ana County participated in the weekend search. The Lincoln County Sheriff's Office and Fort Stanton volunteers also joined in the search.

Melodrama auditions set for tonight

Aspiring thespians are reminded of the Ruidoso Little Theatre auditions for two melodramas to be presented during the Golden Years Jubilee next month.

Auditions are set for 7:30 tonight (Monday) at Nob Hill Elementary School. The two melodramas are "Egad What a Cad!" and "You Ain't Done Right by Nell."

There are several male and female parts in each play.

The architect also argued in favor of solar heating because of large tax credits being offered for use of solar. He contended that if solar heating were not permitted because it was not in use during the territorial period, then automobiles, asphalt paving, electricity, phones and televisions should also be banned in the historic district.

Historic Review Board chairman Glen Dennis explained that action on French's application for a building permit has been postponed until a scheduled hearing on solar heating use is conducted with representatives from the State Museum of New Mexico.

"This is the turning point that can destroy the historical value of Lincoln," Dennis exclaimed. "It's a very important decision; it's got to be made right or Lincoln is going to lose all historical value."

French's client, Sally Black, urged P&Z to make a decision on the use of solar energy in Lincoln because "they're never going to."

"It's been a long, costly, lengthy discussion with this board," Black stated.

P&Z member Ben Hall pointed out that because specifics of how a structure must conform to the architectural style of the frontier or territorial period are not contained in the ordinance, the personal judgment of members on the Historical Review Board determines what is and is not permitted in Lincoln.

French alleged in his letter that construction details which he was made to change have been permitted in the past. Dennis indicated that the present board intends to enforce the ordinance despite what has gone on in the past.

P&Z voted to send the matter back to the Historical Review Board, forcing it to decide at its next meeting what type of solar heating will be permitted—and whether chain link fencing will be allowed and what kind of camouflage for it will be accepted. The next meeting of the Historical Review Board is May 4, Dennis reported.

Woman's Club selects Hugh O'Brian winners

The Ruidoso Woman's Club recently selected the high school sophomores it will sponsor at the Hugh O'Brian Youth Foundation State Leadership Seminar in June. Brandi Adcock from the Ruidoso

High School, Rebecca Phillips from Capitan High School and Gabriella Gomez from Hondo Valley High School will attend the two-and-a-half day seminar at the University of New Mexico campus in Albuquerque.

The seminar is designed to promote leadership and America's incentive system among the youths. The attending youths will also be encouraged and assisted in their quest for self-identification and development.

Ruidoso graduate to teach in Japan

Jack Walsh, a 1979 graduate of Ruidoso High School, will travel to Tokyo, Japan, this summer to teach a "Cowboy School" to Japanese children. He is one of three Oklahoma State University animal science majors who have been selected for the trip. "I'm pretty proud," said Walsh of his selection. Walsh said he will teach children who have lived in Tokyo all their lives the basics of riding, roping and livestock care. The seven-week program will last from July 18 to September 1. Walsh said he believes his experience at Ruidoso Downs Race Track, his volunteer work with children and his current work at a quarter horse breeding farm helped him be selected.

Association for Retarded Citizens to meet

The Lincoln County Association for Retarded Citizens meets at 7:30 tonight (Monday) at the elementary school in Capitan. Special guest at the quarterly association meeting will be Frank Kovacich, executive director of the Opportunity Center in Alamogordo, and a board member of the New Mexico Association for Retarded Citizens.

RHS student earns honor for poetry

Ruidoso High School student Des Sherwood received an honorable mention for poetry in the recent Southwest High School creative writing awards competition sponsored by New Mexico State University. Sherwood will have her name, the title of her poem, school and teacher Raymona McAdams' name printed in a booklet published by contest sponsors. The competition was open to high school students in Nevada, Texas, Oklahoma and New Mexico. Following is the poem submitted by Sherwood.

Special Olympic sponsors still needed

Sponsors are still needed to pay the $25 registration fee for area mentally handicapped individuals to attend the Special Olympics in Albuquerque in June. The registration deadline is April 30. The Area 13 (Lincoln County) Special Olympics advisory council is hoping to be able to send 10 to 15 Ruidoso, Capitan and Carrizozo mentally handicapped to the games. Most of them have not had the opportunity to participate in the athletic competition before. Anyone who is willing to sponsor a Special Olympian or who would like additional information can call Area 13 Special Olympics coordinator Mary Lee Cates at 257-5045 or 258-4150. Cates said she needs to know by Wednesday how many participants will be sponsored.

Trio sparks Warrior boys to third-place finish at Artesia

Around Sports with Gary Brown

High school basketball in the spring and summertime?

That wouldn't be surprising in places like New York City, Chicago, Baltimore and Detroit. Basketball is almost a religion in those cities.

But it's not something you would expect in Ruidoso, where there are so many other things to do in the summer. Still, the Ruidoso High School boys basketball team figures to be very busy in the next few months.

The Warriors are currently undergoing spring practice five days a week after school. When summer comes, Ruidoso will probably compete in the Don Haskins Team Basketball Camp at the University of Texas at El Paso (UTEP) June 26-July 1. Some of the Warriors may also participate in the annual Weldon Drew Basketball Camp at the Ruidoso gymnasium in July.

"We also plan to have the kids work out with weights three times a week during the summer," said Warrior head coach Ron Geyer. "The gym will be open at other times for them to play basketball."

Geyer sees the weightlifting program as very important if Ruidoso is to improve on its winless record of this season.

"One of the problems we had besides inexperience last season was the fact we weren't strong," he said. "The weightlifting program should help build our kids up, and they're all working really hard at it."

The players are doing a lot of half-court games, one against one. Geyer is also helping some of the players with their shooting.

Geyer currently has about 20 players working out in the gymnasium after school. The Warriors will only lose three of the 1982-83 varsity players to graduation, but standout junior guard Gilbert Rivera is moving to Lubbock, Texas, in the summer.

Among the players working out in the gymnasium are 6-3 Curtis Palmer, 6-3 Dan Ullmann, 6-2 Stanley Sluder and 6-1 eighth grader Jason Hill. These four players should give the Warrior program plenty of height next season.

Varsity guard Cyrus Simmons is a junior and should give the Warriors some experience in the backcourt for next season. Freshman Mark Langston is also a top guard prospect.

Several athletes who played on the varsity and junior varsity this past season aren't working out in spring practice because they're on the track team. There are also some talented eighth graders, such as Jeff Willingham, Brian Davis and Kirk Taylor, who played basketball for White Mountain Middle School but are working out with the track team now.

All of these players should be available for informal practice during the summer, however.

Geyer feels the amount of time the Warrior hoopsters will put into basketball this spring and summer should help them in the long run.

"It should definitely help," the second-year coach said. "The more time the kids can get their hands on a basketball, the more it's going to help their confidence and their game."

"The players we have returning from this year's varsity now know what it takes to win, and they're willing to work hard for it."

Geyer is right. How well a basketball player does is largely due to the amount of time he puts into the sport.

The main reason high school basketball is generally played at a high-caliber level in most of the country's big cities is because the players make the sport a full-time effort, whether it be winter, spring, summer or fall.

Go to almost any major city in the country and you can see kids playing basketball on outdoor and indoor courts. That's what it takes to play winning basketball.

If Geyer can get the Warriors to stick to his off-season plan, local sports followers should see a much improved team next season.

A great 200-meter race by Mike Douglass and victories by Cisco Bob and Curt McClellan propelled the Ruidoso High School boys track team to a third-place finish in the Artesia Invitational Friday.

The Warriors scored 37 points, Lovington High School won the meet with 101 points and host Artesia High School was second with 78 points. A total of 11 teams competed in the invitational.

Douglass lowered his 200-meter best by 2.4 seconds as he ran a 23.06 to almost defeat James Hillard of Lovington. Hillard, who had the fastest sprint times in the state this season, edged Douglass out with a 23.04 time.

"That was probably the best race of the year," Ruidoso head coach Ronny Maskew said of the 200-meter race. "It was very close. I expect Mike to go below 23.0 this season."

Bob won the 1,500 meters in 4:17.26 and the 3,000 meters in 9:41.48. His 1,500-meter win qualified him for the state meet. The speedy sophomore finished fourth in the state 1,500 meters last year and has a best of 4:13.29 this season.

McClellan, also a sophomore, continued his impressive running with a first-place 2:06.87 in the 800 meters. He beat the second-place runner by over a second.

McClellan, Douglass and Grady Williamson also teamed with Eric Strobel for a 3:38.37 time in the 1,600-meter relay, good for third place. Douglass, Williamson and Strobel teamed with freshman Mike Williamson for a third place (1:35.98) in the 800-meter relay.

The other Ruidoso athlete to score in the meet was freshman Ivan Scott in the 3,000 meters. Scott knocked 18 seconds off his previous best in running a 9:51.0 for fourth place.

The Warrior 400-meter relay team of Mike Williamson, Russell Easter, Bobby Dickinson and Randy Reynolds ran a 49.56 for a seasonal best. A bad handoff prevented the all-freshman foursome from getting a better time.

Mike Williamson also ran a speedy 11.7 in the 100 meters. Dickinson added a 12.85 and Reynolds a 12.03.

"I felt we did pretty well," Maskew said. "Our times weren't all that great but neither were most of the other teams' times. The cold and wind prevented the times from being very good. We hope to improve the times more at Lovington next Saturday."

A group of White Mountain Middle School eighth-graders who should help the Warriors next season also did well in a middle school meet in Roswell Saturday.

The foursome of Kirk Taylor, Billy Harrison, Bubba Miller and Jeff Willingham finished second in the 1,600-meter relay with a 4:06.0 clocking, six seconds faster than their previous best.

The same quartet also finished fourth in the 400-meter relay (51.7) and fourth in the 800-meter relay (1:50.8).

In field event competition, Willingham threw the shotput 31-4 and Tracy Farus hurled it 23-0.

Tie featured in soccer opener

The Ruidoso Soccer Association youth league summer season opened Saturday at White Mountain Middle School with the Celtic and Cobres battling to an exciting 2-2 tie in an under-10 match.

Powerful United blanked the Bandits 3-0 in the other under-10 match. No under-14 matches were played, but the Cosmos and Rowdies had an unofficial scrimmage.

The under-14 season was scheduled to begin Saturday, but several coaches were out of town. The start has been set for next Saturday. The Strikers and Rowdies will play at 10 a.m. and the Cosmos will take on the Tornado at 1:30 p.m.

Ruidoso girls do well at Artesia, Tularosa

The Ruidoso High School girls track team came through with a couple of good performances at the Artesia Invitational Friday and the Rose Relays in Tularosa Saturday.

Ruidoso scored 12 points at Artesia to finish sixth and the Warriors scored 90 points at Tularosa to finish second behind Cloudcroft.

Sophomore Stacy Ivy of Ruidoso just missed qualifying for the state meet 100 meters when she ran a 13.1 at Artesia, two-tenths of a second off the qualifying standard of 12.9.

Jackie Jefferson, the defending district 3-AAA 1,500-meter champion, finished third in her specialty at Artesia with a 5:36.0 time. Jefferson also ran a 2:56 in the 800 meters. Teammate Deanna Pese was fourth in the 800 meters with a 2:37 time.

The Warrior medley relay team of Pese, Gia Rose, Ivy and Valerie Garcia ran a 2:02.0 for fourth place.

Eighth grader Rachel Kaydahzinne finished fourth in the 3,000 meters with a 12:41 clocking. Kaydahzinne also ran a 5:53 in the 1,500 meters. Freshman Sheila Shelton added a 5:54 in the 1,500 meters.

The Warrior 400-meter relay squad ran a 55.6, while the 1,600-meter relay team dropped the baton.

At the Rose Relays, the competition wasn't as tough as it had been at Artesia, but the Warriors still had some good times.

Senior Claudia Branum won the discus with a 91-8 effort. Branum's previous best was 78 feet.

In the long jump, Rose and Pese came through with some good efforts. Rose leaped 14-8½ for first place and Pese was third with a 14-3 jump.

Pese won the 600 meters with a 2:40 clocking and the Warrior medley relay team of Rose, Jefferson, Ivy and Garcia finished first in 2:05.0.

Ruidoso's 1,600-meter relay team of Pese, Rose, Ivy and Garcia won in

The 800-meter relay team of Pese, Rose, Ivy and Garcia was second in 1:58.6. Garcia also added a 68.0 second-place time in the 400-meter relay.

Kaydahzinne was second in the 3,000 meters with a 13:17 time.

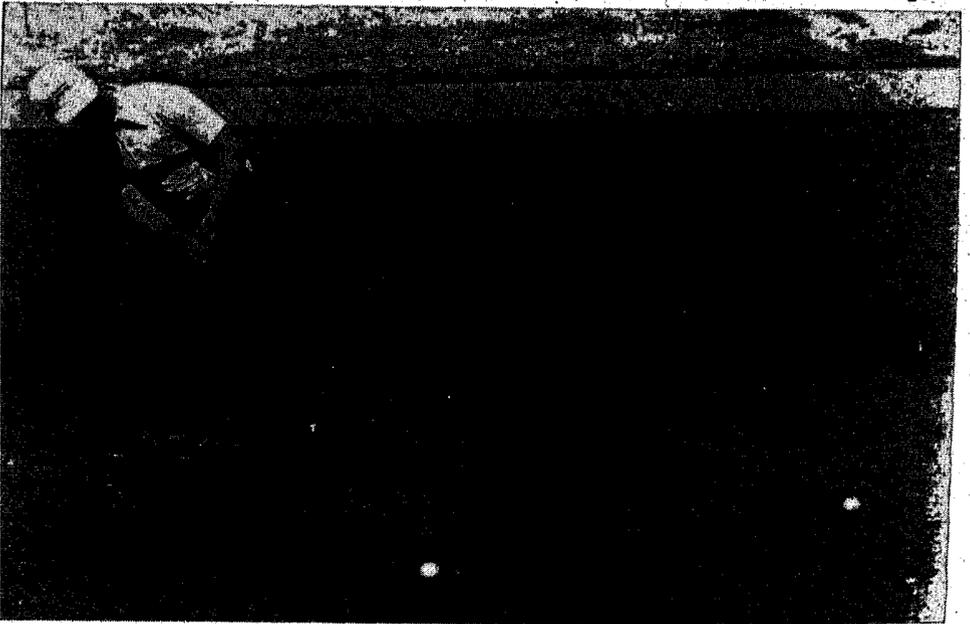

Shannon Gwyn and Christine Volquardsen placed in both hurdle events. Gwyn was fourth in the 75-meter hurdles in 17.8 and Volquardsen was fifth at 17.9. In the 100-meter low hurdles, Gwyn was third at 21.5 and Volquardsen fourth at 22.7.

Warrior head coach Sergio Castanon had mixed feelings about the two meets.

"I was disappointed with our times in the Artesia meet, and also that we didn't seem to be ready attitude-wise for it," he said. "However, I talked to the girls afterwards and they got it together. Our times weren't better at Tularosa but our attitude was."

"I thought most of our district teams would be at Tularosa but they weren't. Tularosa was like a good practice for us."

Ruidoso will compete in the Lovington Invitational next Saturday.

WILL IT GO IN? Billy Taylor of the Ruidoso High School golf team puts the ball on the first hole of the Cree Meadows Country Club course during second-round action of the Ruidoso Invitational Thursday afternoon. Ruidoso finished eighth in the 10-team AAA division of the 54-hole tournament.

TOP RUNNER. Jackie Jefferson (front) has been a top runner for the Ruidoso High School girls track team this season. She finished third in the 1,500 meters at Artesia Friday and second in the same event at Tularosa Saturday. Jefferson is the defending district 3-AAA champion in the 1,500 meters.

Warrior golfers eighth in own tourney

by Gary Brown
Sports Writer

The Ruidoso High School golf team is competing in the Lovington Invitational today after finishing eighth in the 10-team AAA division of the Ruidoso Invitational Thursday and Friday.

Alamogordo High School and Lovington High School took the team championship in the local invitational, which concluded at Alto Lakes Golf and Country Club Friday morning.

Lovington won the AAA-division crown with a 971 score while Alamogordo captured the AAAA-division championship with a 964. Ruidoso scored a 1,058 in the AAA division. Following Lovington in the AAA division were New Mexico Military Institute and Silver City High School (989), Socorro High School (996), Deming High School (1,015), Hot Springs High School (1,065), Portales High School (1,068), Ruidoso, Artesia High School (1,161) and Cobre High School (1,206). After Alamogordo in the AAAA division were Las Cruces High School (991), Mayfield High School (1,011), Roswell High School (1,024), Goddard High School (1,030) and Clovis High School (1,034).

Ruidoso's score was impressive since the Warriors had a horrible start in the Thursday morning round at the Inn of the Mountain Gods.

The Warriors scored a 397 at the Inn, 354 at Cree Meadows Country Club Thursday afternoon and 347 Friday at Alto.

"We got off to a terrible start at the Inn," said Ruidoso coach Leroy Gooch. "The wind was terrible and our guys got into a lot of sand traps. We're not used to hitting in them so it hurt our scores. Still, the guys came back strong at Cree Meadows and Alto."

fired a 90 at the Inn, 85 at Cree Meadows and 83 at Alto.

Tommy Crow followed with a 268 and had the best 18-hole score for the Warriors team, an 82 at Alto. He scored a 99 at the Inn and an 87 at Cree Meadows.

Gary Gregson had a 288 total, carding a 102 at the Inn, 88 at Cree Meadows and 88 at Alto. Billy Taylor scored 295 for the 72 holes. He shot a 106 at the Inn, 95 at Cree Meadows and 94 at Alto.

Dion Lopez added a 301 total. Lopez fired a 109 at the Inn, 87 at Cree Meadows and 105 at Alto.

"Our guys just haven't had enough practice in," Gooch said. "We were right up there at Cree Meadows and Alto but our poor start at the Inn prevented us from contending for the title.

"I like the way our guys played after Alto. I was proud of the way Gary Gregson played and Dion did a very good job at Cree Meadows. Crow probably would have scored in the 70's at Alto, but he triple-bogied the 11th hole and double-bogied the 15th hole. Still, that was his best effort of the season."

Individual medalist titles went to Jeff Fontanilla of Clovis High School and Mike Bain of Deming High School.

Fontanilla won the AAAA-division honors with a 231 total. He shot a 77 at the Inn, 79 at Cree Meadows and 75 at Alto.

Bain won the AAA division with a 228 total. He had a 79 at the Inn, 75 at Cree Meadows and 74 at Alto.

Increased water should help New Mexico fishing prospects

Winter moisture, including heavier-than-normal snows and a little rain, have increased water in New Mexico's high country to 186 percent of average, and water provided to lakes and streams from that increased spring runoff will enhance fishing conditions and fish growth in waters statewide, according to Richard McCleskey, chief of Fisheries, Department of Game and Fish.

This spring is the fourth consecutive year of above-average runoff, and payoff from high water — especially in the warm-water reservoirs — generally comes about three years after the high-water mark is reached, with increased fish populations and plumper fish. Last year, bass, crappie and other warm-water anglers saw the beginnings of payoff from 1979's spawn, and this year will bring a carry-over from that year, plus 1980's hatch.

Trout waters respond more rapidly. A high, long runoff washes silt from stream beds, grooming a new habitat for fish food and fish, McCleskey explained. With springs well charged, stream flows remain higher during the critical months of June and July. When summer rains do arrive, less of that water is used to recharge the springs, so streams run higher throughout the season. The Department of Game and Fish can then distribute trout to a greater number of waters, sustaining fisheries in streams. Survival of planted catchable-sized trout is predictably higher, and survival and growth rates of fry and fingerlings are also higher.

Because the department plants trout, the high-water payoff in trout waters is rather prompt, showing up mainly in the good-sized trout that anglers find and in better distribution of fish and fishermen. Although the agency also plants bass and other warm-water fish — in fry and fingerling sizes, generally — the payoff from high water comes three years later, the time it takes crappie, white bass and other fish to grow after a successful spawn.

High-water streams also wash food into the lakes, at the same time raising their levels, opening new spaces for trout to feed and offering more room for growth. Bluewater, which now covers approximately 1,800 surface acres, and Heron lakes are now in very productive cycles, producing noticeably larger trout, McCleskey said. Conchas is now within 11 feet of the spillway and covers approximately 8,000 surface acres.

Elephant Butte Lake now stores in excess of 800,000 acre feet, with a surface acreage of 17,500. The high water at the lake in the past three years has produced ideal spawning areas for largemouth bass and crappie, and nursery areas for the resultant young — areas which had been above water before the high runoffs. Small-food production is high; and the fry, with abundant food and cover, survive in higher numbers. The lake can now produce its own fish, with the adequate water and habitat.

Another high-water phenomenon, heat budget, also adds to trout and warm-water lakes' productivity — or lack of it. The greater water mass absorbs more heat and releases it more slowly, creating less winter hardship on the fish. Temperature changes are less radical, and the warmer winter water temperature induces continuous food production and fish growth.

New Mexico's 256,000 licensed anglers may not notice much difference in water levels from last year, but, given continued above-average moisture, they should see evidence of what fisheries biologists predict will be a good year for fishing in New Mexico. A new fishing season opened April 1, and anglers, who will soon be able to enjoy warmer fishing days, must have current licenses, valid through March 31, 1984.

Licenses are $3.50, $14 with trout validation for residents; $1.50, $4.50 with validation for junior-senior/handicapped (not issued to nonresidents); $18.50, $25.50 with validation for nonresidents; $5.25, $9.50 with validation for one-day resident and nonresident; $10.50, $15 with validation for five-day resident and nonresident.

The Dreamer

BY DANNIE STORM

The Blossom Parade Makes a New Start

After being stopped in its tracks by the history-making blizzard of not so long ago, the fruit blossom parade is off to a new beginning in the lower end of the Ruidoso Valley, and especially in San Patricio and Glencoe.

The pear trees shaped like giant Christmas trees covered with snow are out in heavy bloom. And the giant sweet cherry trees are all silvery-crystal with their delicate purest white blossom petals catching the golden rays of the sun. Pink and white color is showing amongst the "Apple Green" of the apple trees' young leaves.

The question is, how about the fruit? Some of the buds were hurt while still in the bud, yet on some of the trees you can see one bud out of ten sound and ready to make apples. This is plenty of blossoms, given the heavy bloom of this spring.

Through some topsy-turvy, sleight of hand, presto-changeo, this season some of the fruit that usually has a tough time making a crop, so far is doing well. Ernest McDaniel tells me that at this writing, April twenty-two, the sweet cherries and pears are all right.

One thing is sure: if another hard freeze does not come in to the Ruidoso Valley, the chances are good for a good apple crop, especially in some spots; and there is a chance of other fruits like plums, cherries and pears. Of peaches, who knows, let us keep our fingers crossed. We will know more of the fruit picture in ten days or so.

The Old Cedar Tree

The immortal Zane Grey made the spot of the Southwest famous to all the world; as he described the people, the creatures, the plants, and the sunrises and the sunsets. He did not leave out that beloved native of the Southwest, the cedars.

Here is something about them in his great classic, "Riders of the Purple Sage":

"When he gained the cover of the cedars he paused to rest and it was then he saw how trees sprang from holes in the bare rock. Ages of rain had run down the slope, circling, eddying in depressions, wearing deep round holes. There had been dry seasons, accumulations of dust, wind-blown seeds, and cedars rose wonderfully out of solid rock. But these were not beautiful cedars. They were gnarled, twisted into weird contortions, as if growth were torture, dead at the tops, shrunken, gray, and old. Theirs had been a bitter fight, and Venter felt a strange sympathy for them. This country was hard on trees — and men!"

Out south of the house beyond the flag pole and the large apricot tree in a meadow stands a cedar tree that was here when the hillsides beyond were solid grass (according to the old-timers). All the hillsides are now the happy home of cedar, juniper, and pinyon that look to be from sixty years old on down. They are the pride and joy of Mother Earth, they and the oak brush.

This old tree is covered with western mistletoe, with white bare branches extending straight up out of its olive green foliage. Part of its trunk is hollow.

Yet this old tree is made beautiful; for it is the summer home of the red-white-and-blue western blue bird, and also the mountain blue bird.

The tiny voices of their young may be heard inside the hollow.

Today, the all-light-blue mountain blue bird is perched on the tip top of the highest of the dead branches of this cedar. His footing is solid and he is secured from ambush from ground or sky. Enjoying the wind, he surveys his world with great pride. The hard west wind only slightly ruffles his feathers so that with the sun shining down, he has a bluish-golden outline of glowing light. This cedar is beloved in his old age, for he is "The Blue Bird Tree."

Birthday of Ulysses S. Grant

April twenty-seven will be the birthday of Ulysses Simpson Grant, our eighteenth president, and Commander of the Union Armies in the Civil War, born April 27, 1822, in Point Pleasant, Ohio.

He begins his memoirs with the words:

"Man proposes the God disposes. There are few important events in the lives of men brought about by their own choice."

He was a very obedient boy, raised on the farm, a hard worker, with a deep sympathy for and a magic touch in handling horses. At the time of his graduation from West Point he was the best horseman in the history of that institution.

When he was about fourteen or so his father got him an appointment to West Point.

"But I won't go," said Grant, the first time in his life at a difference of opinion with his father. His father said, "I think you will," and that ended the argument. Grant had no intention of staying in the army, intending to be a mathematics professor until he could get enough money to buy some land and raise horses.

Events proved otherwise. He was a man of great compassion, and Southern soldiers often saluted him across the lines.

He was also a great friend of the Indians, very often calling generals up on the carpet and instructing them to deal justly with Indians.

He established the Mescalero Apache Reservation in 1873, and laid out guidelines for fair treatment of Indians.

Noon Lions offer street number signs

After the recent attention to the need for visible street numbers on houses in Ruidoso, the Ruidoso Valley Noon Lions Club has decided to renew its sign painting offer. The club will mount visible numbers on a 10-inch by 24-inch board, or make just the numbers for a residence or business. All signs will be painted. The club will charge $4 per number, or $20 for the numbers mounted on a board. All signs in Ruidoso and Ruidoso Downs will be installed free. Proceeds will go to civic projects the club pursues.

Yours and Ours

Inside The Capitol

by Fred McCaffrey

SANTA FE — We now know what bills Governor Anaya signed and what bills he vetoed.

The final bill-locator is out. That is the document which shows us the disposition of every measure which was introduced during the 1983 legislative session — which ones were killed, which ones were passed; which were signed into law by the governor, and which were left to die.

Some of us up here study that document carefully.

Governors, by and large, hope they can rush through the job of approving or killing bills without our having time to pay too much attention. They leave unpleasant things till the last minute — especially those bills they plan to veto — in the hope that Associated Press or United Press International will not have the interest to check on them carefully.

But there are people they forget. Lots of lobbyists are around. They look at the final product very analytically.

What is more, with those of us from the media looking over their shoulders, they reach certain conclusions.

For instance: Here's a guy who, reading the Anaya vetoes, comes up with this conclusion: Toney Anaya is afraid of the state's newspapers.

Why does he say that? Well, first of all, he notes that the present ruling governor vetoed a bill which was passed by both houses of the Legislature which would make papers pay sales tax.

That particular item was opposed by the newspapers of the state, which at the present time do not have to go to all the trouble of calculating this tax and passing it on to their customers.

Anaya vetoed that one up front, with the drums rolling and the trumpets trumpeting. He wanted the publishers and editors to note that he was on their side.

That one was a little crude. Nothing subtle about it at all.

But then this dispassionate observer notes what happened to the booze bill.

This writer frequently asked the Governor what he was going to do about that one.

He said he didn't know, he couldn't make up his mind, he was studying it carefully, etc., etc., etc.

Our friend the cold-eyed lobbyist says Anaya was waiting to see his clippings on this one.

Once he saw that most of the papers of the state opposed the bill in their editorial columns, this man says, Toney knew exactly what to do: He vetoed it.

The suggestion is that without the papers telling him how they felt, he could as easily have gone the other way.

There are other examples.

Look at Dick Kloepfel's bill to allow parimutuel betting at racetracks at which the applicable race is not being run.

Vetoed by Anaya — as our friend sees it, because the majority of newspaper publishers opposed it.

As our surveyor of vetoes sees it, Anaya was for what the print media were for. He was against what they were against.

Not bad. The media presumably represent the views of their respective communities.

DEAR EDITOR:

In my four and one-half year Ruidoso residency, I've been blessed to come to know and have MANY volunteers. They deserve MUCH more, but certainly this public acknowledgement of appreciation.

As a former Social Service Director at the Ruidoso Care Center, I was often astounded at the regular, loving responses and programs from many, including: Rotary; Lions; Woman's Club; Altrusa; Pilots; Elks, the public schools; Ruidoso Christian School; each and every church in Ruidoso (especially the Church of Christ, who has a regular birthday and spiritual program); the often-taken-for-granted individuals who came day after day, week after week, to visit and love the residents regularly; Ruth McQuire, whose talented and "happy" renditions of old-time favorites brightened many days for others; T.D. Gartmann, the full-time volunteer and his wife (who permitted him to come); the Ministerial Alliance who provides the Sunday afternoon religious services; the families of residents who cared not only for their own but became involved with others' lives; the painstaking hair stylists who gave so many special lifts to residents; the many who donated arts and crafts and personal gifts to ones who were so appreciative and deserving; and other not even seen, the employees who quite often and on their own time, did so many special favors; the restaurants who invited resident guests to their businesses for gratis occasions...there are so many!

As a youth counselor in a group home, Prison Fellowship volunteer, family counselor, "street" worker (alcohol and addictions), and Camp Sierra Blanca volunteer, I have had the opportunity to come to know the most deserving AND the most loving people in our County, particularly Ruidoso. In four and one-half years, I have requested and received many, many responses to meet needs, and only once...just once...have I received anything but an "all out" activity. Isn't that exceptional? Perhaps statistically, but not for Ruidoso. It's a rare place indeed.

I appreciate Barbara Huff and all her quadruplet sisters, for she must be more than one person to give so much of her time and love to us all and still maintain that energetic, loving, and bubbly spirit!

There have been many times, both in crisis and maintenance situations, that our law enforcement officers (not cops) have (and many on their own time) assisted in areas of need, and I would be pleased to share that if it were not a breach of confidentiality. Personally, I'd like to acknowledge Mike Lovelace for presenting a special role model...one I utilize regularly in counseling situations.

Personally, I must send up a special prayer of thanks to two very special couples, Paul and Sharon Tapp and "Slick" and Barbara Graham, who volunteered their love, Christian fellowship, and many practical responses so many times to me...who ministered to me and gave me the energy and example of "loving" to keep on keeping on in the rough times.

If space permitted, I could easily utilize ALL this issue of The News, for the loving volunteer life of Ruidoso is alive and well!

I appreciate being a part of Ruidoso, a lovely community nestled in the tall pines that stretch up and out to exemplify what our community does in love and sharing to those less fortunate.

I challenge you who have not perhaps reached out, to become involved in the daily loving of others...you'll learn just how many people we have here who are very special and who know the meaning of "volunteerism" in a very personal way. Besides, volunteers get the very special blessings!

Thank you, each and every one of you, for the many, many acts of love and sharing.

Sincerely,
Ruth M. Gardner

P.S. And thanks for all those volunteer prayers and assistance that keep my little car running!

DEAR EDITOR:
First, to fill the needs of a fast developing area, we plead for a few acres out of the Ft. Stanton pasture for a much needed Airport. By dragging their feet our Land Grant University has cost the taxpayers not thousands of dollars, but millions of dollars. In comparison their experiments amount to pennies, that is when we measure values.

Now we speak of a site for a Hospital. The logical site is naturally in the Ft. Stanton pasture, the hub of Lincoln County. Again we are on the verge of expending more dollars needlessly.

Who can find a more sensible location for a Consolidated High School than our Ft. Stanton pasture? And with out University already present a Junior College isn't out of the question for the future. With the finest sports area in the Nation we couldn't build it large enough to hold the enrollment. It would hardly be a sin to have our kids get two years of College and stay at home...well they could.

The Ft. Stanton pasture isn't just any piece of real estate...it was picked for a Marine Hospital Base over three quarters of a century ago because it was the healthiest spot in the entire nation, and still is. In fact when the lands were set aside for our College our Congressional Delegation were considering some sort of Science Foundation Study being placed there in conjunction with White Sands and Holloman, and it can still be done.

Right now the future use of our waters in the Rio Ruidoso and Eagle Creek are hanging by a thread. We have until May 16, 1983 to submit information to our Special Master that will secure those waters. We have the necessary information ready, and when the doors open at the Courthouse in Roswell in June we intend to have the evidence presented by the best legal help available. A couple of observers that I understand the Village will send down will be as helpless as a babe in the woods...in our hearing set for June. In short, there is going to be a "shoot out in the ok corral." The stakes. The Rio Hono Watershed.

If you do not believe we can be stripped of our waters take a peak at the Rio Bonito. The RR Co. did it to them in 1934. The PVACD is prepared to do it to us in 1983. We are going to give them our best shot. What do you people in Ruidoso plan to do?

Sincerely
James V. Tully, Chairman
Ruidoso Water Users Association

DEAR EDITOR:

I am responding to the article published in the March 31st issue of the News (Administrator opposes proposed change at Fort Stanton), concerning Fort Stanton and the issues facing us in view of a recent decision to transition the facility from its current mission.

I was extremely displeased over the article's portrayal of my "opposition" to Secretary McNeill's position regarding the future use of Fort Stanton, and the story's implication of confrontation or debate over the decision.

I consider myself a responsible public employee and have begun assembling options for the facility's future use, which will be presented for Mr. McNeill's consideration.

Secretary McNeill has mandated that the Health and Environment Department employ all methods and strategies available to streamline and work towards more efficient government services and operations. To this end, Fort Stanton has been targeted for a change in mission, in order to meet current trends, needs and rights of the mentally retarded.

The Federal government has provided the State with the mechanism to achieve these objectives, through the use of a Medicaid Waiver. The waiver will allow the expansion of community-based programs, and funding sources.

Our ultimate and primary concern is the smooth, orderly, and positive transition of the facility.

Naturally, I would have preferred a more objective representation of the facts relayed to the reporter, which apparently were not as newsworthy, such as my respect for authority and willingness to do the best possible job, as directed; for the betterment of state-sponsored services to the citizens of the State of New Mexico.

Sincerely,
Mark A. Delgado

Editorial

A local Realtor tells an anecdote of an out-of-towner who was here five or six years ago looking at property. The man decided not to buy; he said the town was "too trashy."

Then, a year or so ago, the man was back in the Realtor's office, looking for property. "The town is still trashy," the man said, "but the climbing property values make it too good an investment to pass up."

That's not the kind of thing one likes to hear about the place one lives. But, fortunately, Ruidoso is making progress toward cleaning up its act.

This spring's Operation Trash campaign—which continues this weekend—seems to be generating more interest than previous village-wide cleanup ventures.

Participation of two new and vigorous organizations—Ruidoso Rangers 4-H Club and Police Athletic League—gives the campaign a shot in the arm.

Barbara Duff, Operation Trash organizer, has almost single-handedly led the battle against trash for a long time now. She certainly deserves a pat on the back for her efforts.

Operation Trash itself consists of two weekends twice a year. But we hope the campaign is succeeding in making Ruidoso more "trash conscious" all year long.

A cleaner Ruidoso will mean a more pleasant and prosperous Ruidoso.—TP

DEAR EDITOR:

I do not believe our city councilmen are earning their titles of 'trustees.' We have entrusted the care and running of our village to them and they are about to pull one of the biggest boondoggles I have heard of for such a small city, and I do mean the Grindstone Canyon Caper.

Look what we get for the millions of dollars we indebted ourselves through the recent bond issue. We get to build Don Dorman a lake, which he will let us put water in, but on which he holds title to the lands to the permanent pool. This means that after we villagers pay for the dam and lake, we will not be permitted to use it for any recreational purpose without getting permission from Mr. Dorman or the property owners he sells to. Why spend our money to build a reservoir with the potential for fishing, picnicking and such, then allow this all to be taken away for the sole use of those who are wealthy enough to be able to afford one of Don Dorman's lake-side lots? If the lake is built with our money, then you and I should be able to enjoy it and have access to it.

Mr. Dorman says he will not sell the 45 acres we could use for the lake unless the city agrees to annex the Grindstone Canyon Corp. property, and the council has protested itself at his feet. Why? He doesn't have the city over a barrel; the city has him. He envisions developing and selling 298 acres—652 lots nestled in the green mountains and surrounding a private lake. We, the ones who pay for the building of the lake, are supposed to stand idly by and let him.

After the conflict the council and the water board had recently over annexations and the lack of water for them, we know we should not annex the Grindstone Canyon Development. The Water Board, the Mayor and just about everyone with common sense or doesn't have his finger in the pie is against annexing more tracts unless they can furnish their own water rights. Mr. Dorman is not only trying to get in the door without water rights, but to also take away our rights to the water. And he does have help. One of our councilmen, Mr. Coulston is on record as being the exclusive sales agent for the Grindstone Canyon project. Do you think he is not pushing it?

It seems everything about this deal has an offensive odor. Did you know that there is a reverter clause in the contract that states that if the property is not used as a reservoir for a period of three years, the property reverts to Dorman? What if we get the dam built and the litigation we are right now embroiled in is not settled for another three years? Or another litigation crops up a few years hence? It is quite possible the lake could not be used for a period of time. If the Village of Ruidoso buys the acreage needed for the lake, then the property should belong to the village, period.

The City Fathers have finally conceded that Ruidoso does not have enough water with which to grow. It is unfortunate that the only feasible way they can see to obtain water just happens to be the same way that some of them and some of their friends can make a killing by selling the property,

I am still wondering what it might have cost to have used Flume Canyon for the reservoir, and if Grindstone Canyon would have looked so good if Mr. Coulston had not been allied with Mr. Dorman.

We will have a Village Council meeting Tues. April 26. Let's show them a standing-room-only crowd, and whether you agree with me or not, let the Council know how you feel about annexing the Grindstone Canyon tract, of giving Dorman the lake gratis and allowing him to make it his own private lake and any of the other things you like or dislike about this annexation or the whole dam deal.

Sincerely,
RAYMOND BEARDSLEY

DEAR EDITOR:
President Reagan has proposed the development of nuclear powered "space weapons," saying that these would be more acceptable than existing nuclear weapons because "no one would get hurt." This war games mentality is not only ludicrous and dangerous, but the billions of dollars required would severely limit badly needed public service programs. Let us instead deal directly with the most urgent issue of our time: the negotiation of a mutual nuclear weapons freeze with the Soviet Union (and other countries) followed by mutual arms reductions, and eventual dismantling of all nuclear weapons worldwide.

The time has come to create a Peace Department in our national government, with the same status as our Defense (Offense?) Department. It seems reasonable to suggest that the budget of the Defense Department could be equally divided between it and the new Peace Department, being opposite sides of the same coin. The function of this new department would be creative — to find new ways to build toward peace, within our nation and between nations. Since all of the people must accept personal responsibility for war and peace a basic concept would be people interactions. Some of the functions of the Peace Department would be to coordinate separate peace movements; to establish large-scale exchange programs between citizens (including youngsters and oldsters) of different countries so that we can know each other face to face; to sponsor Social Responsibility for Peace workshops in the school system; to allocate funds to the performing arts (actors, dancers, musicians, film makers, playwrights, composers) for work in "awareness raising."

Throughout history artists have led the way in dispelling the psychic numbness we feel when we are faced with problems so big that we believe there is nothing we can do about them. Possibilities for work toward peace are unlimited.

The military buildup can be stopped. We can elect representatives to government who will take a new look at the politics of confrontation. I, for one, will do everything I can to defeat office holders who believe that the preservation of life can be secured through mutually assured destruction (MAD).

Sincerely,
Dorothy Reid

There is a saying that "there's no such thing as bad publicity."

But some people were concerned about publicity Ruidoso received in an Arizona newspaper recently and they brought it to our attention.

The Sunday, April 3, edition of The (Tucson) Arizona Daily Star (circulation 129,000) included the paper's consumer action column, "Troubleshooter." A 30-point six-column headline over the column read: "Troubleshooter: Motel owner won't refund $60 deposit."

This column has a Q. and A. format, and that day it led off with a letter from a Tucson resident with a complaint against a Ruidoso motel. According to Bruce Simnacher, he made reservations December 5 for two rooms for December 27-29. He tells in the letter that a skiing accident involving his son forced him to cancel the reservation December 13, and that he was told his $60 deposit could not be refunded. He said he was told by the owner's wife it was against the motel's "established policy" to refund the deposit.

Cheryl Hill Lander, whose byline appears on the Troubleshooter column, evidently did her best to get some action for Simnacher.

"After several telephone conversations with owner Buddy Carter, we have not been able to persuade him to refund your deposit," Lander wrote.

"Carter's final words on the matter were, 'I'm not going to send that deposit back, and I've wasted all the time I'm going to on this situation.'"

"Carter has been steadfast in his claim that you did not cancel your reservations within the specified two-week period, even though we provided him with a copy of your December telephone statement proving otherwise."

She goes on to relate what she was told by Chamber of Commerce executive director Ed Jungbluth—that Carter was upholding his own policy and not a general policy of area lodgers, and that Simnacher's "encounter" would be brought to the attention of the Lodgers Association.

Lander also checked with an attorney from the Tucson City Attorney's Division of Consumer Affairs. According to her, he said there was nothing to be done outside of taking Carter to court, and that geographic distance makes that very difficult.

"When you deal with an out-of-state business, you just have to take your chances, (the attorney) said."

Lander also noted that Troubleshooter checked with The Ruidoso News to see if it has a consumer action column that could be of help, but that it does not.

Yes, she did check with us. No, we don't have such a column.

But we do have a telephone, so I called Buddy Carter to ask him about the complaint. Carter gave me some background about why lodging establishments require deposits.

When a person calls in and makes a reservation, he said, the room or rooms requested are "locked down." The person is given about a week to send in a deposit—based roughly on the cost of a room for one night. During that time, said Carter, the room is not rented, even if it could be rented for six months running.

If the deposit doesn't arrive, the room is turned loose, he explained, but the motel owner has had to "eat it for a week." The decision of the person not to come may have cost the motel other reservations—maybe from old customers, Carter noted.

"For one lousy night this guy—this stranger—has tied us up and fouled us up," said Carter. He added that lodge owners hear every excuse in the world for canceling reservations.

I asked Carter if he ever refunds deposits. He said that under certain conditions, he does—"our basic policy is 30 days prior to arrival."

Has that been a long standing-policy of the motel?

"We've had that for a good long while, yes," said Carter.

If that is the case, the fellow in Tucson simply failed to cancel in time. Carter indicated it is typical in a resort area to have people call and make reservations "just in case we decide to go," and that lodging establishments elsewhere require the entire amount for rooms up front.

I don't know if there is a moral to this story, but there is an ironic twist. Readers of The Arizona Daily Star that Sunday found another mention of Ruidoso. This was in an advertisement inviting them to "Come, See, Enjoy... Golden Years Jubilee."

Bridge club honors Bill Wilson

by Gary Brown

The Ruidoso Duplicate Bridge Club may be losing one of its founders, but the club should continue to be one of the most popular activities in the Ruidoso area.

Bill Wilson, who along with Don Fox founded the club over five years ago, is moving to St. Louis soon with his wife Anne. The Wilsons own Skateland, one of the oldest and most popular businesses in Ruidoso. They were honored by the club at its weekly bridge night Wednesday at the Senior Citizens Center.

"I had only played in a couple of bridge tournaments before we started the club," Wilson said. "After I played it a couple of times, I really enjoyed it and decided Ruidoso needed a club, and we started it."

Wilson played in a sectional tournament at the old Chaparral Motel in Ruidoso Downs with Lois Fox, Don's wife. After that, the two men got together and started the local bridge club. The sectional tournament, which is now played every October at the Inn of the Mountain Gods, is the largest of its kind in the country.

Wilson plays bridge regularly but his wife hardly ever does.

Don and Lois Fox are bridge directors and live in Alamogordo. Don says the club attracts a lot of people.

"It's open to the public," Fox said. "We usually have about three tables or 12 to 15 people playing during the winter, while in the summer, we may have 30 or more people playing."

As directors, Don and Lois supervised the playing of the game.

"Bridge is to cards what chess is to checkers," Don Fox said. "It's a fairly complicated game and it's a friendly game."

People team up in pairs and play against every other pair in the competition. The pair with the highest overall score wins. Duplicate bridge involves four separate hands played by every person.

Fox has been involved with bridge for over 20 years and has been a director for 15 years. Most of the people who were at the bridge night were middle-aged and have been regular bridge players.

So the Ruidoso Duplicate Bridge Club may be losing one of its founders but it should remain a popular pastime in this area.

BRIDGE FOUNDER IS MOVING. Bill Wilson stands with his wife Anne (left) and mother-in-law Sallie Buckley at Wednesday night's Ruidoso Duplicate Bridge Club meeting. Wilson, who was one of the founders of the club over five years ago, is moving to St. Louis, Missouri. He was honored by the club Wednesday.

Wilderness comment sought by agency

The Bureau of Land Management Roswell District has completed a draft environmental assessment report for two wilderness study areas in Lincoln County, and is seeking public comment on the suitability of these areas for wilderness designation.

Copies of the report are available at no charge from BLM, P.O. Box 1397, Roswell, NM 88201. Deadline for comments is May 31, 1983.

The two areas, Little Black Peak (15,072 acres) and Carrizozo Lava

Flow (10,240 acres), are located on federal public lands on a lava flow west of Carrizozo, New Mexico, north and south of Highway 380. The flow, one of the youngest in the continental United States, is estimated to be less than 1,500 years old. Much of the lava has a fresh, uneroded appearance. However, in comparison to surrounding areas, the lava flow supports a large variety of desert shrubs and grasses. Because of its rugged terrain it has also become a haven to game animals such as mule deer and barbary sheep.

"We will meet with any individual or group wanting further information," said Phil Kirk, Area Manager for the BLM in Roswell. The Roswell Area Manager's recommendations and public comments will be reviewed by the Roswell District manager, and a final EA will be prepared later this year. The State Director for the BLM will then prepare a statewide environmental impact statement.

TAKE A BREAK By Staff Of Ruidoso Travel

FLORIDA ALTERNATIVES
 If you're bored with the traditional Florida "hot spots" or just want an unusual Florida vacation, here are some suggestions—

How about houseboating? An outfit called Sunshine Lines will rent you a houseboat complete with kitchen, shower, sleeping quarters, air conditioning and barbecue. A briefing session and charts are included. Cruise area is the St. Johns' River.

Or take a "shanty boat cruise" on the Orange and Caloosahatchee Rivers, to Lake Okeechobee in the Everglades, on the "Lazy Bones." The boat looks like an overgrown houseboat, is piloted, and has eight double cabins plus bathrooms and a dining room.

Want to go camping? Adventours runs bus trips from New York to Orlando and back, and also between Orlando and Key Largo. You can stay in campgrounds or upgrade to motels.

Scandinavian World Cruises will take you from New York to the Bahamas, and from the Bahamas to Florida's east coast, or vice versa. And they'll let you bring a car along for free if you want.

LEGAL NOTICE

(Form of Notice)
NOTICE OF MEETING AND HEARING ON CERTAIN SANITARY SEWER IMPROVEMENTS AND PROPOSED ASSESSMENTS
 RUIDOSO, NEW MEXICO
 DISTRICT NO. 5
 HEARING TO BE HELD ON MAY 17, 1983
 AT 9:30 A.M. AT THE MUNICIPAL BUILDING, 100 CREE MEADOWS ROAD, RUIDOSO, NEW MEXICO

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN to the property owners within the proposed Ruidoso, New Mexico, Sewer Assessment District No. 5 and to all interested persons that:

The Village Council of Ruidoso, New Mexico, has provisionally ordered that the following designated streets, rights-of-way and parts thereof within the Village shall be improved by constructing, installing, improving and rehabilitating sanitary sewers (the "Improvements"):

FROM AN EXISTING MANHOLE IN THE SPRINGS CONDOMINIUM PROJECT, westerly crossing State Engineer, Mechem Drive at its intersection with Alpine Village Road, then westerly ALONG ALPINE VILLAGE ROAD in Forest Heights Subdivision to its intersection with Olympia in Olympia Place in Alto Crest Subdivision, Unit 2.

IN OLYMPIA PLACE in Alto Crest Subdivision, Unit 2, from Olympia Road northerly to the southwest corner of Lot 1, Block 14, Alto Crest Subdivision, Unit 2.

IN OLYMPIA PLACE in Alto Crest Subdivision, Unit 2, from the southwest corner of Lot 1, Block 14, Alto Crest Subdivision, Unit 2, easterly to the intersection with Sandia Drive at the southwest corner of Lot 17, Block 13, Alto Crest Subdivision, Unit 2.

ALONG THE SECTION LINE BETWEEN SECTION 3 AND SECTION 4, TOWNSHIP 11 SOUTH, RANGE 13 EAST, NMPM, a portion of which is the west boundary of Alto Crest Subdivision, Unit 2, from the southwest corner of Lot 1, Block 14, Alto Crest Subdivision, Unit 2, northerly (crossing the platted west ends of Everest Drive, Whitney Drive and Killimanjaro Drive in Alto Crest Subdivision, Unit 2) to the southwest corner of Block 14, Alto Crest Subdivision, Unit 2.

ALONG KILLIMANJARO DRIVE from the southwest corner of Block 14, Alto Crest Subdivision, Unit 2, easterly to the intersection of Killimanjaro Drive and Mechem Drive.

ALONG THE WEST BOUNDARY OF LOTS 12, 13 AND 14, BLOCK 14, ALTO CREST SUBDIVISION, UNIT 2, from a point on the section line between Section 3 and Section 4, Township 11 South, Range 13 East, NMPM, at the southwest corner of Lot 12, Block 14, Alto Crest Subdivision, Unit 2, northerly to the southwest corner of Lot 15, Block 14, Alto Crest Subdivision, Unit 2.

ALONG THE BOUNDARY COMMON TO LOTS 14 AND 15, BLOCK 14, ALTO CREST SUBDIVISION, UNIT 2, from the southwest corner of Lot 15, Block 14, Alto Crest Subdivision, Unit 2, easterly to a point on Sandia Drive adjacent to its intersection with Shasta Drive.

ALL IN THE VILLAGE OF RUIDOSO, LINCOLN COUNTY, NEW MEXICO.

Except as shown on the plans on file in the office of the Village Clerk, such Improvements shall more particularly consist of and include excavation, trenching, pipe laying and backfilling, removal and replacement of any obstacles for ditching lines (sewer mains) being 6-inch vitrified clay or ATSM-approved PVC (polyvinyl chloride) pipe or both; manholes; service connections being 4-inch vitrified clay or ATSM-approved PVC (polyvinyl chloride) pipe carried to the property line; and manholes to be installed at street intersections or as required; all more particularly as shown on the map, plans and specifications on file in the office of the Village Clerk. The lines shall be laid approximately on the centerline of each right-of-way.

The estimated total cost of the Improvements, including engineering, design and incident expenses is $315,790, of which it is estimated that $0 will be defrayed from sources other than special assessments and $315,790 will be assessed against each tract or parcel of land in the assessment area hereinafter provided. Assessments will be levied against each tract or parcel of land in the assessment area (i.e., each tract or parcel abutting that portion of any right-of-way in which or through which the Improvements shall be installed, and extending a distance of not more than one-half block from said right-of-way). The total cost of the Improvements will be assessed on an area basis against all tracts and parcels of land in the assessment area in the proportion that the area of each tract or parcel of land bears to the total area of the assessment area. The aforesaid method of levying such assessments is heretofore and hereby is determined by the Village Council to be equitable and proportionate to benefit. An equitable adjustment will be made for the assessments levied against any irregular lots of lands and made for any tract or parcel not specifically benefited by any Improvements, so that assessments according to benefits are equal and uniform.

All persons interested are hereby advised that (1) the preliminary plans, showing the types of material and approximate diameter of pipe, (2) an assessment plat showing the area to be assessed, (3) an addendum to the assessment plat (i.e., the estimated maximum benefit roll) describing the property to be assessed and showing the maximum benefits estimated to be assessed against each tract or parcel of land in the assessment area, said estimate of benefits being computed on the aforesaid basis and (4) a preliminary estimate of the total cost of each type of construction theretofore and hereinabove designated, said estimate being made in a lump sum and by unit prices, including therein, without limiting the generality of the foregoing, the advertising, preparing, engineering, printing and such other expense as in the judgment of Burke/Collins/Associates, P.C. (the "Engineer"), a firm of consulting engineers of Ruidoso, New Mexico, and duly licensed as engineers under the laws of the State of New Mexico, is necessary or essential to the completion of such work or improvement and the payment of the cost thereof, are all on file in the office of the Clerk at the Municipal Building, in Ruidoso, New Mexico, and may be inspected by any property owner or other interested person during regular office hours. Any interested person may also appear before the Clerk at a description of the property to be assessed thereagainst and the maximum amount of benefits estimated to be conferred on each tract or parcel of land. Reference is made to such further details.

On Tuesday, May 17, 1983, at the hour of 9:30 a.m., at the Municipal Building, 100 Cree Meadows Road, in Ruidoso, New Mexico, the owners of the property to be assessed or any other interested person may file a written protest or objection and may appear before the Village Council and be heard as to the propriety and advisability of making such improvements, as to the cost thereof, as to the manner of payment therefor and as to the amount thereof to be assessed against the property to be improved; and the Village Council will consider and take any action relating to the foregoing or to any other business which may come before the Village Council.

The Village Council requests that any property owner or interested person wishing to make protest or objection, shall appear in person or in writing at the office of the Clerk before the time for the hearing. Any person filing a written protest or objection, as aforesaid, shall have the right within thirty days after the Village Council has concluded the hearing, but before the advisability of constructing the Improvements and has created the Improvement district, to commence an action or suit in any court of competent jurisdiction to correct or set aside such determination, but thereafter all actions or suits attacking the validity of the proceedings and the amount of the benefits shall be perpetually barred.

After the hearing the Village Council shall determine the advisability of constructing the Improvements, shall determine the type and character of such Improvements so to be made, shall proceed to advertise for bids for the doing of the work therefor and shall enter into a contract for the doing of such work and the furnishing of all necessary materials to the lowest bidder.

After the making of such contract, the Village Council shall determine what portion of such work shall be paid by the property specially benefited, as assessment roll; shall thereupon fix a time and place when objections thereto by the owners of the assessed property will be heard and shall cause such roll to be filed in the office of the Clerk. After proper notice is given and said hearing is held, the Village Council may modify said roll and shall levy the assessments thereon by ordinance which makes reference thereto. No assessment shall exceed the estimated maximum benefit to the property assessed. The Village Council shall provide that the assessments may be payable without interest demand, at the election of the owner, or in twenty substantially equal semiannual installments of principal. The Village Council shall also provide the time and terms of payment of such assessments and the rate of interest upon deferred payments thereof, and shall fix penalties to be collected upon delinquent payments.

By order of the Village Council of Ruidoso, New Mexico,

Television Schedule For The Week Of April 25 Through May 1

CBN CORNER

'Romper Room' romps

Every morning on the CBN Cable Network, a large bee, a large bear, six pre-schoolers and "Miss Sally" delight and educate cable viewers "Romper Room," on CBN Cable Monday through Friday, 6 to 6:30 a.m. (ET), is a show designed to both educate and entertain pre-schoolers.

Miss Sally (Sally Rogers), is the teacher/hostess of the studio schoolroom. With films, demonstrations and instruction, Miss Sally teaches topics such as fire prevention, dental care, Mexican dances, zoo animals and rocketry. Children at home learn right along with the in-studio students.

"Do-Bee" and "Paddington Bear," both human-sized animals, appear on the show to tell stories, teach new dances and teach important safety lessons.

During the week of April 25 to 29, "Romper Room" will devote its time to a discussion of nutrition and how proper eating habits help to keep strength and health. On Monday, April 25, "Do-Bee" visits with a special message on eating well, and the children will meet "Tommy Tomato."

The next morning, "Romper Room's" safety chief visits to talk to the children about chewing food carefully. That day's story is "Pumpkin Tickle and Mean Green Cheese" and a film about oranges will also be seen.

On Wednesday, April 17, a baker comes to "Romper Room" to show the children how bread is made. "Bobby Bread" will tell the children about the nutritional value of bread.

On Thursday, April 18, the nutritional theme is continued with a new food friend, "Charlie Cheese." To encourage children to try new foods, "Wiggly Will" visits the classroom.

The boys and girls make an orange treat on Friday's show. An important lesson in teaching children how to watch television will be presented.

"Romper Room" is endorsed by such leading organizations as Action for Children's Television, American Red Cross, President's Council on Physical Fitness, American Federation of Teachers, the U.S. Dept. of Health, Education and Human Services.

PBS in the spotlight

Dr. Carl Sagan explores the origin and diversity of life on Earth in the second episode of PBS' "Cosmos," airing Sunday, April 24.

Sagan's cosmic fugue

How did life on Earth begin? Do other planets have life? In "One Voice in the Cosmic Fugue," the second episode of "Cosmos," airing Sunday, April 24 on PBS, Dr. Carl Sagan, the distinguished Pulitzer Prize-winning author, explores the origin, evolution and diversity of life on Earth, showing the underlying similarity hidden within the variety of living creatures. (Please check local listings for time.)

The "Cosmic Calendar" pinpoints the beginnings of life on Earth and shows the evolution of plants, dinosaurs and mammals. With stunning computer animation, the heart of the living cell is entered to examine DNA, the master molecule of life.

To understand how evolution occurs, Dr. Sagan follows the story of the Japanese Heike crab, which humans have changed in form by selecting which crabs should live and which should die.

Spectacular animation sequences trace the evolution of human beings from one-celled organisms in the primitive ocean. The creatures of other planets, if any, also will have evolved to fit their particular alien environments.
