Energy secretary pushes for decontrol

by GARY LANTZ

U.S. Secretary of Energy Donald Hodel told a group of oil and gas producers gathered here Thursday night that he has been "sending mixed signals" to Washington concerning provisions of a proposed bill to deregulate natural gas production while opponents have presented a unified front in pushing for continued controls.

Hodel, speaking to the Permian Basin Petroleum Association's annual meeting at the Inn of the Mountain Gods, quipped he has had "a gas problem since I got this job" and "I don't seem to be helping it."

Then the energy secretary took the petroleum producers to task saying while oil and gas interests spent a lot of time worrying about the nuts of the proposed deregulation legislation, consumer lobbyists were selling Congress "a bill of goods" in favor of continued controls.

Hodel said his group knows the current language in the deregulation legislation has problems, yet it is "a bill that would permit Congress to move as close to decontrol as possible." "The game is simply between control and decontrol," Hodel said. He added that currently, when questioned about producers' opinions of the pending legislation, he could only answer, "which producer?"

Consumers are speaking with a unified voice, he said, adding the proposed legislation "may be the last shot at decontrolled gas."

Hodel told the oil producers they are "going to be terribly disappointed in several months" if they do not unite in favor of the proposed bill.

"In this time of a small natural gas surplus you need to drive to create a free market," he said, but added he was depressed by the efforts of proponents of recontrol to refreeze prices.

He said the natural gas deregulation proposal is currently in jeopardy, and urged producers "not to leave the field to those who favor recontrol."

"We believe the free market will work," the energy secretary said. He added that the proposed legislation would enable producers to "supply gas at a proper price to the American consumer."

Downs closer to clearing up zoning

by BARRY GRANT
Staff Writer

Discovery of a zoning ordinance adopted in 1969 for the Village of Ruidoso Downs means confusion over proper zoning of village property may be cleared up, if the 1969 zoning map can be located. During last Monday's board of trustees meeting it was revealed that this year was a zoning map earlier this year was not legal because state statutes governing zoning and rezoning of property were not followed.

It has since been determined that zoning established by the 1969 ordinance and an accompanying map is the most current zoning legally adopted by the village and must be followed. The map cannot be found among village records, however, according to clerk Wilma Webb, so actual zoning of particular parcels of land is still in question.

The entire issue arose when plans were presented for a 40 unit moderate income apartment complex on Miriam Road off Highway 70. Conflicting evidence concerning the current zoning of the proposed site led the governing body to table acceptance of the plans until the matter is cleared up.

The 1969 zoning ordinance surfaced during a subsequent search through records by Webb. She reported on her find during a special meeting Thursday of the governing body and the Planning and Zoning Commission (P&Z) called to clarify the role of P&Z.

Village attorney Tim Quigley advised the group that the 1969 zoning map must be located before any decision can be made on the apartment complex plans. He said the ordinance establishes zoning for planned residential developments and planned commercial developments but does not set up zones for different types of residential and commercial developments. He conjectured that the apartment project would be acceptable in a planned residential development zone.

Quigley informed trustees and P&Z members that they must go through the proper procedures, including a public hearing and notification of property owners, if they want to legally adopt the 1983 zoning map which does establish separate zones for trailer parks, single family and multi family dwellings and for light and general commercial structures.

Mayor J. C. Day asked Quigley whether the governing body could vote at that time to tentatively approve plans for the apartment development pending proper zoning of the property. The attorney advised Day that the village would probably face legal problems if the matter were not considered in a regular trustees meeting. A number of property owners had attended last Monday's meeting to protest the project, but the zoning question arose before plans were presented.

Also discussed at Thursday's special meeting were problems P&Z faces because its responsibilities and powers are unclear. Quigley offered to meet with members to review the village ordinance which outlines P&Z's duties and limits of authority. A meeting was set for 6:30 p.m. Thursday, one hour prior to the commission's regular meeting.

Mayor angry at joke

by BILLY ALLSTETTER
Staff Writer

Ruidoso Mayor George White does not see the humor in the "jest" councilmen Benny Coulston, Al Junge and Frank Sayner played on him during last Tuesday's council meeting.

"I'm so mad I can't see straight," said White Friday morning. "I can't imagine people being this immature."

The three councilmen Tuesday rejected the Open Meetings Act when White persisted in reading the ordinance which must be adopted every year.

"We just played a little trick on the mayor," said Junge. Coulston and Sayner indicated they were mildly annoyed at the mayor for reading the long act which is adopted every year.

White said he was particularly angry after reading an account of the incident in the Roswell Daily Record that stated the vote had been "set up" before the meeting, and that the ongoing dispute between the councilmen and White concerning study sessions was part of the reason for the vote.

Junge later denied that the vote had been set up prior to the council meeting. He said he heard one of the councilmen say "If he's going to read the whole act, I'm going to vote against it." Junge said he wasn't sure whether Sayner or Coulston said it but heard the other agree. The three councilmen then voted against the resolution while Don Dale voted for it.

"I'm angry at the attitude those guys have over the city council and ordinances," said White.

The council has held hour-long study sessions in a small conference room prior to council meetings, which White has refused to attend because he believes they violate the spirit of the Open Meetings Act. While technically open, the room is so small that spectators are often compelled to stand in doorways to listen.

"This is what makes them mad at me because I try to keep things above board," said White.

The Open Meetings Act expired in April.

"Right now we are sitting in limbo," said the mayor. "I'm not suffering as much as the local citizenry," he added, explaining that there is currently no Open Meetings Act on the books.

White has sent a letter to New Mexico Attorney General Paul Bardacke requesting advice and investigation into the councilmen's behavior.

"If they want to joke with me personally, they should do it personally, but not in an open meeting with a trick," White said.

Delphian Trio to play

The Delphian Trio is returning to Ruidoso Sunday, May 8, for the fourth in a series of free chamber music concerts co-sponsored by New Mexico State University (NMSU) and the Ruidoso Chamber of Commerce cultural committee. The concert is slated for 3 p.m. at First Christian Church. The woman's Club will host the event.

Violinist Rosemary Silversteen, cellist James Fittz and pianist William Leland will perform two major works by two of the giants of the romantic era in music, Brahms and Mendelssohn.

Brahms' Trio No. 1 in B Major, Opus 8 is included in the program in commemoration of the 150th anniversary of Brahms' birth. He composed the piece twice, once at age 20 and again in revised form, at age 57. The work begins with a long and marvelously original opening shared by cello and piano. The violin finally enters and adds its warm third voice as the melody grows into a great statement. In the closing coda, the violin and cello are in melting discourse against a quietly murmuring piano accompaniment.

The Scherzo is all kinetic excitement, reminiscent of Mendelssohnian grace. In the trio of this movement, Brahms gives us one of his greatest waltzes. The coda ends the movement with quicksilver agility. The mood of the Adagio is contemplative and religious, and it frames one of the most sublime moments in all of the cello repertoire. In the last movement, as in the first, the cello is brought to the fore against light piano triplets. The delayed violin entry produces an exquisite effect. The second theme in D major is energetic and bright. One might imagine Brahms thinking of some old folk ballad as he was composing the music.

Also on the program is Mendelssohn's Trio No. 1 in D Minor, Opus 49. The spirited, flowing character of this entire trio is established in the main theme of the first movement. After the unbridled passion of the first movement, the succeeding slow movement comes as an idyll, blissful "song without words," which, after a brief cadenza for the violin and cello, sinks into reverie.

The swift, gossamer-like scherzo is "Midsummer Night's Dream" music. A true romantic pathos courses through the closing movement. Twice the fiery impulse sinks into a melancholy hush and seems to be approaching a standstill, but the exuberant coda brings the work to a triumphant conclusion.

The Delphian Trio performed here last October in the first chamber concert in the series. Rosemary Silversteen is professor of violin at NMSU and concertmaster of the Las Cruces Symphony at NMSU. Silversteen holds both bachelor's and master's degrees from the Juilliard School and was formerly resident and touring violinist at the University of British Columbia in Vancouver.

James Fittz is also on the music faculty at NMSU and is principal cellist of the Las Cruces Symphony. He holds master of music and doctor of musical arts degrees in cello performance and music literature from the University of Arizona.

William Leland is currently pianist in residence at PHMSU. He is a graduate of the Philadelphia Conservatory and has studied privately with Hans Barth and noted Swiss pianist Karl Engle.

Sunday's concert will be the last in the series until August, when several performances will be offered to the public in conjunction with the Summer String Workshop at La Junta Guest Ranch in Alto.

AG says Legislature must to okay mule pari-mutual betting

by BILLY ALLSTETTER
Staff Writer

Attorney General Paul Bardacke's office Tuesday told the state Racing Commission that an act of the Legislature would be required to allow pari-mutual betting on mule races.

"Our conclusion is that the Horse Racing Act does not allow wagering on mule races. The act would have to be amended to lawfully permit pari-mutuel wagering on mule races," stated the Attorney General's written opinion presented to the commission.

American Mule Association president Bill Harris had said previously that he thought the question of pari-mutuel betting on mule races was a question of definition that could be decided by the racing commission instead of the Legislature. He was optimistic the commission would permit pari-mutuel betting on mule races.

The Horse Racing Act mentions only "horses" and "horseracing," said Vic Hogsett, staff member in the Attorney General's office. Referring to Webster's Third International Dictionary, the Attorney General's staff found very different definitions of the two animals.

The Horse Racing Act is an exemption only for horse racing to the general prohibition against gambling in New Mexico, said Hogsett.

"In such a sensitive and important area, it can be assumed the Legislature would have involved mules if it had intended to allow wagering on mule races," states the Attorney General's opinion.

Ruidoso Mule Skinner director Ed Hyman expressed disappointment at the Attorney General's opinion.

"If we could get the pari-mutuel through, we could have a whole new industry that could bring in a few bucks," he said. He called mule racing a budding new industry that is not in competition with horse racing and could help both the racing and tourism industries.

"The only thing we can do now is get together and back it in the Legislature," he said.

Alcohol — leading cause of violent crime and highway deaths

Substance Abuse in Ruidoso

(Fourth in a series)

by DAVID SHEPPARD
Staff Writer

It's the leading killer on the state's highways; it is behind most violent crime locally; and it causes an untold number of family disturbances and problems in the workplace.

Yet alcohol, such an integral part of so many lives, often is not regarded as dangerous as illegal drugs.

But, according to Ruidoso Police Chief Richard Swenor, if one is going to talk about the problems with substance abuse, alcohol has to head the list. "I don't separate drugs from alcohol. When you talk about abused substances, the biggest problem by far is alcohol," he said.

Alcohol abuse has clearly caused the police chief enough headaches over the years. He points out that on any given night, officers will be called out to a bar to break up a fight, or called to a home to cool off a family disturbance.

Every alcohol-related call puts officers in a state of stress, because they never know what they are going to be up against. Alcohol is invariably involved in any domestic problem, says Swenor, and those calls are feared most by police since statistics prove that is where most officers get hurt.

The extent of the alcohol problem for law officers is contained in arrest figures compiled by RPD.

In 1982, Ruidoso police made 202 DWI (driving while intoxicated) arrests, setting an all-time record. About 15 percent of the 506 accidents in the village—another record—involved alcohol, and alcohol was also involved in about 26 percent of the injury accidents.

According to Swenor's estimate, alcohol was a contributing factor in about 60 to 70 percent of the violent crimes last year.

Through last weekend, Ruidoso police had made close to 50 DWI arrests for 1983.

The effect of alcohol abuse on law enforcement is most glaring in the DWI rate. Correlating the arrest figure, Ruidoso municipal and magistrate courts both handled record DWI case loads last year.

Swenor noted that for every DWI arrest, it takes an officer about two hours for the arrest and booking and another four hours in paperwork. That translates into about 150 eight-hour working days to handle last year's DWI arrests.

Ray Hayhurst, director of the Lincoln House Alcohol Transitional Facility in Ruidoso Downs, thinks the number of DWIs in the area had some bearing on the 1983 Legislature's support for the rehabilitation facility.

The Legislature appropriated operating funds for the facility, and money to create a county alcoholic treatment program, under an amendment to the General Appropriations Act, said State Representative Marvin "Mickey" McGuire.

McGuire was the driving force in the House of Representatives behind the appropriation.

McGuire said part of the reason the solons granted the request was the building movement nationwide to fight the drinking-and-driving problem.

"I think it's an issue that has come to the forefront nationwide," he explained. "People are fed up with the number of DWIs, and accidents and death."

The Legislature also had a number of bills before it this session designed to toughen up DWI laws, but it failed to pass a major DWI reform bill that contained several recommendations from a special task force on DWI.

McGuire thinks tougher DWI laws are needed, but he points out the problem would not be solved by throwing all drunk drivers in jail. "You've got to try preventive things as well as punitive," suggested McGuire.

Intimately aware of the effects of alcohol, Hayhurst also sees it as the nation's primary substance abuse problem—and feels it is a substance that must be labeled a drug. Said Hayhurst, "Many people don't know it, but you can also OD on alcohol—not just drugs—if a large quantity is consumed quickly."

High school counselor James Sanchez also does not separate alcohol from drugs, calling both "monsters" that can attack the user.

Because it is easier to buy than marijuana and it is socially accepted at all age levels, alcohol is more of a problem among students, says a senior who was interviewed at the high school.

The student, who admits to drinking on weekends, said he is worried about the number of teenagers who drink and drive.

Swenor also is concerned about intoxicated teens behind the wheel. But it is not just teens he is worried about, he wants to get all drinking drivers off the road.

Because of his concern, Swenor said his department does all it can to arrange transportation for intoxicated persons if the station is called by someone needing a ride.

Even though the DWI rate shows no signs of diminishing, and alcohol-related incidents continue to burden his department, Swenor sees encouraging signs in the nation's increased awareness of the alcohol problem.

"Alcohol is being recognized more widely as an abusable substance, even though it's socially acceptable. Maybe that's the answer, there's more consciousness of health. Maybe we're only one or two generations away."

Handicaps not restraining to walker Lyle Bert

by BILLY ALLSTETTER
Staff Writer

"I found I can do darn near anything I want to if I try hard enough," said Lyle Bert, who was blinded and lost both hands in an accidental explosion in 1965. His current project of raising $6 million for the Bright Hopes Foundation by walking 15,000 miles may be the biggest challenge he has yet taken on.

Facing an extremely difficult handicap, Bert has been able to shape a life that includes most of the activities of physically fit people. Living alone, he does his own cooking and housecleaning as well as tending a large garden.

He completed studies for and received a Master's degree in physical science in just three-and-a-half years in spite of the doubts of teachers and administrators. His graduate point average was a perfect 4.0 throughout college.

He has made hooked rugs, worked a wood lathe and prides himself on his skill with a shovel.

Using the motto, "How do you know I can't do something? I haven't tried," Bert wants to build a motivational retreat for handicapped youths. He plans to purchase 40 to 160 acres of land in the Sacramento Mountains where he can build the small working retreat. There he hopes to challenge young handicapped people to develop skills they may not have been encouraged to try before, thus raising their self-confidence and feelings of self-worth.

The retreat is a dream Bert has had for eight years which grew out of his frustration at not being treated as a normal human being in a Veterans Administration rehabilitation center. The dream, however, has always been brought back to earth by lack of funds.

On April 15 Bert walked out of Portales on the first leg of a 15,000-mile journey he hopes will raise the $6 million he figures he will need to accomplish his dream. He said he is walking to attract attention to his project and bring in donations for his miles walked.

Thursday afternoon he walked into Ruidoso where he was greeted by a group of well-wishers, donations and good news in the parking lot of Gibson's. The student council of Ruidoso High School presented Bert with a $160 check for each of the miles he has walked so far. The Evening Lions Club presented him with three $160 checks.

He also received a message that Nancy Reagan and Senator Pete Domenici may greet him when he arrives in Albuquerque.

"I'm glad to be here and not on the hood of a Mack truck," he said to the waiting crowd.

Bert has walked 130 of his 160 miles alone on the side of the road, using a white cane for guidance. After shifting from size 10 1/2 shoes to size 12 in Roswell, he has gotten rid of the "blisters up to my ears" and continued on his way up the hill to Ruidoso.

"I do shifted my transmission into stupid and just kept going," said Bert. Alex Cono, a close friend of Bert's, is accompanying the man on his trip.

They started with Cono carrying gear and bedding in a pickup truck with an improperly fitting camper shell. When Bill and Johnnie McTeigue of Hondo saw the "Last Chance Hotel," they offered Bert and Cono the use of their trailer home.

"We've moved from the outhouse to the penthouse," declared Bert.

Cono usually travels a half mile or more behind or ahead of Bert as he walks.

"If I have to walk the whole 15,000 miles, you can bet I will," Bert told Dub Williams' ninth grade class. However, he did say if some eccentric walked up to him and handed him $6 million he would stop there and ask for a ride back to town.

He has now collected several thousand dollars but has no idea of the exact amount.

"The watched pot never boils; I know it's nowhere near six million yet," he explained.

But Friday morning Bert was tapping his cane on the road to Alamogordo in search of more donations for his dream.

BRIGHT HOPES. Lyle Bert, blind and handless, is walking 15,000 miles around the country to raise $6 million for the Bright Hopes Foundation to build a motivational retreat for handicapped youths in the Sacramento Mountains.

Relive frontier days during Golden Years

by BILLY ALLSTETTER
Staff Writer

For a taste of the frontier heritage that is so much a part of Lincoln County, the Ruidoso Business Association has organized a Frontier Days in the Park as a part of the Golden Years Jubilee.

Continuous entertainment, exhibition and sale of frontier crafts plus frontier costumes should create a frontier atmosphere in School House Park Wednesday, May 18, from 11 a.m. to 3 p.m.

The event is not just limited to senior citizens. Interested people of all ages are invited to attend.

There will be a large part of the entertainment. The children of the Head Start program in Mescalero will perform traditional tribal dances in costume. Square dancers from Roswell will also give a demonstration of the western art.

The Flying J Wranglers may get the rest of the people dancing when they rosin up their bows and start playing their own brand of western music.

Visitors to the Frontier Days will be providing entertainment of their own when the hog calling, watermelon seed spitting and horseshoe pitching contests get underway.

Awards will also be given for the best frontier days costumes and Walter Rawley will also perform a bronze pouring. All craftspeople will be selling their wares as well as demonstrating the skills.

For the hungry ones in the crowd, the Mescalero Apaches will be selling their famous fry bread. Lunch will also be served at a cost of $5. Otherwise the event will be free of charge. Historic writer Eve Ball will speak in the Ruidoso Public Library following the Frontier Days celebration, from 3:15 to 4:15.

Topping off the day will be a chuckwagon dinner and show at the Flying J Ranch beginning at 7 p.m.

Everyone is encouraged to wear costumes and add to the frontier atmosphere of the day.

Numerous craftspeople will be demonstrating frontier crafts throughout the day. The Santa Rita Quilting Guild will be making and selling quilts. There will be demonstrations of spinning, weaving on a loom, as well as soapmaking and whittling.

Janey and Jerry Perry will be on hand to demonstrate the skill of stained glass production. Mescalero Apaches will demonstrate basketweaving and beadwork. June WHEREAS older Americans are the fastest growing segment of the population in the Ruidoso area for retirement and have contributed to the growth of the villages, counties, states and nation. Mayor George E. White Friday proclaimed Mayor Betty Romaine as the 1983 Woman of the Year.

Trout Woman of Year

"It seems we are the fortunate ones. When we volunteer to help others we are the ones who receive the reward," said Nell Trout of her service as president of the Ruidoso-Hondo Valley Hospital Auxiliary (Pink Ladies).

For her service and extraordinary accomplishments in the Pink Ladies and other community organizations, Trout was chosen as Beta Sigma Phi's 1983 Woman of the Year.

Trout and her husband moved to Ruidoso in 1975, two years after Trout served her last year as a home economics teacher in Jal.

She said she grew tired of sewing, knitting, crocheting. She had also done all the work on the house she could stand when she became involved with the Pink Ladies.

"You need to feel useful," she said. Useful she has been, putting in an average of more than 50 hours a week, by her own estimate, leading the Pink Ladies this past year.

Among the many Pink Ladies accomplishments for the hospital in the past year are the purchase of 20 new hospital beds, an anesthesia machine, a mammography machine, new televisions and blinds for the patients rooms; Christmas gifts for every patient in the hospital; and securing a permanent home for the Pink Ladies' Thrift Shop.

"Her job as president has included painting water out of the Thrift Shop, painting building racks and shelves, and racing down the street in the snow to fill a vacancy in the Thrift Shop or Pink Shop, or to pass the juice cart to hospital patients," said Ruth Moore at the Beta Sigma Phi gathering Monday night.

Trout also serves on the United Methodist Church board and is chairperson of the pastor-parish committee, as well as a member of United Methodist Women.

She received an engraved silver platter from the women of the sorority.

Spring fuelwood cutting encouraged

by BILLY ALLSTETTER
Staff Writer

"Now is the time for smart people to cut their firewood," U.S. Forest Service timber specialist Mike Funston said Tuesday.

In addition to many of Mother Nature's reasons for cutting wood in the spring, the Smokey Bear Ranger District is changing a number of its fuelwood cutting policies to make spring a better cutting time.

The Forest Service is opening the new fuelwood cutting areas earlier this year. They are reducing green pinyon and juniper available while increasing the ponderosa pine areas. Beginning July 1, wood cutting permits will cost more.

The strategy is designed to encourage people to cut and burn more ponderosa pine, explained Funston.

Pinyon and juniper are generally preferred for fuel by most people in this area. However, it takes 225 years for a new pinyon and juniper forest to grow back after harvesting. The increased demand for firewood that began with the 1973 oil embargo, and population growth in Lincoln County over the past several years, have depleted the pinyon and juniper forests, said Funston.

"We've all been spoiled cutting pinyon and juniper," he said. But it cannot last. "We just simply cannot meet the demand," he explained.

A ponderosa pine forest, on the other hand, can recycle itself in 80 years. An acre of ponderosa pine forest is also two to three times as productive as a pinyon and juniper forest, said Funston.

The Forest Service will open only 15 new acres of pinyon and juniper forest this year compared to 60 last year and 200 the year before. In contrast, 130 acres of the more productive ponderosa pine forest was opened last year, and is still 90 percent uncult, said Funston.

Regardless of the species cut, Funston said wise woodcutters cut their wood in the spring. Funston said plenty of time to cure by fall. With an increasing emphasis on ponderosa pine, it is more important to cut in the spring. While pinyon and juniper will burn when they are green, ponderosa pine will not.

The Forest Service is opening new wood cutting areas May 2 this year as compared to July 1 in years past. Funston also said there are no plans to open any other areas until next spring. By fall those areas will be largely picked over, Funston predicted. Next year they may open the new areas even earlier in the spring, depending upon weather conditions.

Once it is dry, Funston said, ponderosa pine burns very well. It does not deliver quite as much heat per log as pinyon and juniper, but is much better fuel than many people realize, he said.

Funston said specific gravity is a direct equivalent of heat produced by the wood. Pinyon has a specific gravity of .51. Alligator juniper has a specific gravity of .45, and ponderosa pine's is .40.

Another reason to cut wood earlier this year is that it will become more expensive beginning July 1. Fees for green pinyon and juniper wood will increase from $10 to $14 per cord. Down dead wood and green ponderosa pine will increase from $5 to $10 per cord.

Funston explained the increased charges are a response to a call by the Reagan administration for government agencies to collect more money for goods and services obtained from federal lands.

The price increase will also bring the cost of cutting wood on federal land more in line with the fees private land owners charge, he said.

"We are trying to change the public's wood cutting habits," said Funston. He agreed it is a big order, but is hopeful about people's response to burning ponderosa pine.

"Give it a fair break and try it," he said.

No clues found in search

The week old search for John Wayne Johnson, a man missing from Fort Stanton Hospital and Training School, continued Monday at a curtailed level after no new clues showed up over the weekend.

Fort Stanton administrator Mark Delgado said small search teams are returning to places where tracks were found and brushing the ground to see if new tracks appear.

"He seems to have pretty basic survival skills," said Delgado, explaining that tracks have been found near waterways and roads.

"He could be hiding from us," Delgado added.

A team of spelunkers from the National Cave Research Foundation and the Bureau of Land Management searched all caves in the area Wednesday and Thursday but found no trace of Johnson.

Using a helicopter loaned from the O-Bar-O Ranch, teams completely grid searched the area between Highways 214 and 380 from Hondo to the hospital but found nothing either.

"We've taken and used every resource we know of," said Delgado.

Delgado would not speculate on the condition of Johnson, but said the search will continue.

Lions making street signs

The Ruidoso Valley Noon Lions Club has renewed its street number sign offer after recent attention to the need for visible street signs. The club will mount visible wood cut numbers on a 10-inch by 24-inch board, or make just the numbers for a residence or business. All signs will be painted.

The club will charge $4 per number, or $20 for the numbers mounted on a board. The signs can be vertical or horizontal.

All signs in Ruidoso and Ruidoso Downs will be installed free. Proceeds go to civic projects the club pursues.

Anyone wanting to order a sign may complete the registration form at left and mail to the address listed.

County commissioners to meet

Lincoln Board of Commissioners will meet Tuesday, May 2, at the courthouse in Carrizozo.

- Business on the agenda includes:
 - Liquor license hearing on transfer of ownership and location for applicant Mack Rice.
 - Request from Ken Cohen for listing of property owners and addresses.
 - Proclamation for Older Americans Month.

—Bid opening on Lincoln Fire Equipment.

—Renewal of lease for Division one magistrate.

—Request for closure of County Road A-012 from Diamond A Cattle Company.

—Request from Kenneth Kirkland and others to add road to county maintenance system.

—Plat vacation in Gavilan Acres.

JUSTIN PARSON AND SHAMARIE DOAK

Doak, Parson recite vows

Shamarie Doak and Justin Parson were married at the First Christian Church in a traditional candlelight ceremony March 25. The Reverend Ken Cole officiated.

Doak is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bridges of Ruidoso. Parson is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Gabe Parson, also of Ruidoso.

The church was decorated with a spiral candelabra which held a unity candle and was flanked with sonya roses and fern. The pews were decorated with white satin ribbon.

Textie Cole sang "You Needed Me" accompanied by Jane Deyo on the piano.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a white taffeta gown with leg-o-mutton sleeves and a ruffled V-neck. The skirt was full and pulled up in scallops on the sides with self-bows. The gown had a six-foot train that was finished in ruffles and lace.

The bride's hat was a wide brimmed one made of lace and ruffles with net streamers down the back. The gown was accented with a matching pearl necklace and earrings.

Something old for the bride was a handkerchief of the groom's grandmother. Something new was the bride's wedding dress. Pearl earrings were borrowed from the groom's mother, and something blue was the traditional garter.

The bride carried a bouquet of baby sonya roses, white carnations and fern.

Tahnee Doak, sister of the bride, was the maid of honor. She wore a green quiana dress with soft, straight lines, spaghetti straps and a softly gathered bodice.

The bridesmaids were Tammy Blackwelder, Tina Sanchez and Kim Copeland, all of Ruidoso. Their dresses were the same as the maid of honor's.

Kirk Parson of Clovis, the groom's brother, was the best man.

Ushers were John Kendall of Roswell, Roy Rice of Plainview, Texas, and Patrick Clairs of Ruidoso.

The candlelighters were Michael Bridges, brother of the bride, and Heath McClesky, cousin of the bride. Tammy McCleskey, also a cousin of the bride, was the flower girl.

The mother of the bride wore a royal blue floor-length gown and carried white baby roses. The bridegroom's mother wore a powder blue floor-length gown and also carried white baby roses.

The reception was held at the home of Gabe Parson following the ceremony. Hostesses were Kay Campbell, Rachel McCoy and Robin Farms, all of Ruidoso, and Barbara Rice of Plainview, Texas.

A white, four-tiered cake was decorated with fresh flowers of the bride's colors. The groom's cake was German chocolate.

After a wedding trip to Las Vegas, New Mexico, the couple will return to Ruidoso and their business, the Sugar Shack Eating Parlor.

RUIDOSO GIRLS IMPROVE

Warriors qualify three athletes

by Gary Brown
Sports Writer

The Ruidoso High School boys track team qualified entrants for the state AAA division meet in three events, and the Warrior girls turned in several fine performances at the Lovington Invitational Saturday.

Mike Douglass qualified in the 200-meters, Grady Williamson in the 300-meter intermediate hurdles and Cisco Bob in the 3,000 meters to highlight the action for the Warriors. Ruidoso scored 29 points in the boys division and 24.5 in the girls competition. Douglass ran a 22.8 in the 200-meter trials for a personal best and a state qualifying berth. In the finals, the senior finished third with a 23.12 time into a strong cross-wind.

Williamson ran the intermediate hurdles for the first time and won his heat in 44.1 easily. He passed up the finals of the race to compete in relay events.

Bob, who had already qualified for the state meet in the 1,500 meters, won the longer race easily in 9:33.81. The sophomore led almost the entire race.

Ruidoso dominated the 3,000 meters as sophomore Francisco Olvera finished fourth in 9:56.0, and freshman Ivan Scott was fifth in 10:09.0.

Another fine performance was turned in by sophomore Curt McClellan in the 800 meters. McClellan finished second in the two-lapper with a 2:05.18 time. He was edged out at the finish by a Tucumcari runner.

"I'd say it was my best race of the season," McClellan said. The Warrior athlete has placed in every invitational this season.

The Warrior boys also did a good job in the relays. Ruidoso's quartet of Grady Williamson, Mike Williamson, Douglass and Eric Strobel ran a 1:34.25 for third place in the 800-meter relay.

Ruidoso also took third in the medley relay with a 3:47.2 time and was fourth in the 1,600-meter relay with a 3:39.0 clocking.

The all-freshmen team of Mike Williamson, Bobby Dickinson, Russell Easter and Randy Reynolds ran a seasonal best of 48.1 in the 400-meter relay for fifth place.

Ruidoso also got a good effort in the long jump as three athletes leaped to personal bests. Easter had a best of 17-8, Mark Johnston 17-7 and Justin Smith 17-1.

"I'd say most of our athletes did a lot better than they have," Warrior head boys coach Ronny Maskew said. "I am very disappointed in one individual, however."

The Warrior girls got a good performance from their long jumpers, also.

Sophomore Gia Rose leaped 15-2 for fifth place, and junior Lilian Lopez also bettered the 15-foot mark. Lopez was fifth in the shot put with a 31-2 heave.

Stacy Ivy tied for fifth in the high jump with a 4-6 leap and won the fifth-place ribbon as a result of the coin flip. The sophomore also won her 100-meter heat in 13.2 but did not make the finals. Another heat had faster times.

Rachel Kaydahzinne was third in the 3,000 meters with a 13:24.0 time, and Berdine Smith was fourth in 13:32.1.

Deanna Peso just missed out on a state meet berth when she finished second in the 800 meters in 2:33.0. The state meet standard is 2:30.0. Jackie Jefferson added a third place in the 1,500 meters with a 5:36.0 clocking.

The 800-meter relay squad of Rose, Ivy and Valerie Garcia was fourth in 1:54.6. The same quartet ran a 4:24.0 for fourth place in the 1,600-meter relay.

Jefferson joined Rose, Ivy and Garcia on the medley relay squad which finished fourth in 1:59.0, just seven-tenths of a second off the qualifying standard of 1:58.3.

Ruidoso coach Sergio Castanon was pleased with the way his girls performed.

"I feel we're coming along," he said. "We're getting our times down, and we're about where I'd thought we'd be. We'll peak at the district meet next week."

The district 3-AAA meet will be held at Silver City High School Saturday afternoon and night. The two top finishers in each event along with athletes who meet the qualifying standards will advance to the state meet.

The Ruidoso News SPORTS

Around Sports with
Gary Brown

The Ruidoso High School football team isn't going to play any "soft touches" during the 1983 season, and that should help build the Warriors' program in the long run.

Ruidoso's non-district schedule will include Lovington High School, Clint (Texas) High School, Portales High School, Tularosa High School, New Mexico Military Institute (NMMI) and defending state AAA-division champion Artesia High School. Ruidoso has two-year playing agreements with all these teams.

All of these schools have winning programs and will provide the 1983 Warrior squad with plenty of competition.

That's exactly what Ruidoso needs. In order to build a solid football program, a school must play tough teams to keep its competitive edge up.

Tularosa is the only school of the above six that will be in the AA division next season (The Wildcats will drop down a step). The rest of the schools play at the AAA level and are generally competitive against AAAA division teams.

Clint is a small Texas school, but football in the Lone Star state is played at a very high level, so it figures to be a tough opponent. Because Ruidoso has only played in the AAAA division for four years, it has still scheduled a number of AA division schools each season. With a tougher non-district schedule next fall, the Warriors should be more ready for the district 3-AAA season and the likes of Silver City High School, last year's state runner-up to Artesia.

Although the 1983 schedule is a tough one, Ruidoso will have the advantage of playing its first three games at home. The Warriors open with Lovington, play Clint the second week and Portales the third. Ruidoso will travel to Tularosa (never an easy assignment) the fourth week and NMMI the fifth week.

The Warriors will travel to Artesia on a district bye later in the season. By then, Ruidoso should be seasoned enough to give the Bulldogs a tussle.

The Warriors on a tougher non-district schedule may not show as early as next season. However, the future should be a bright one for Warrior football prospects if Ruidoso can at least be competitive against tough foes like Artesia and Portales.

Warrior golfers eighth

The Ruidoso High School golf team is looking forward to tournaments at Las Cruces and Deming this week after finishing eighth in the Socorro Invitational Friday and Saturday.

Ruidoso will compete in the Las Cruces Invitational Tuesday and the Deming Invitational Wednesday.

The Warriors totaled 754 at Socorro to beat out Robertson (774) and Los Lunas (782). Cobre didn't field a complete team. Socorro won with a 642 total, and St. Pius of Albuquerque was second at 674.

Tommy Crow led the Ruidoso effort with a 179 total (90-89). Virgil Reynolds added a 186 (96-90) and Gary Gregson a 196 (101-95). Kenny Espinosa had a 201 (101-100), and Dion Lopez scored a 204 (112-92).

"It's an awfully tough course," Warrior coach Leroy Gooch said about the Socorro tournament. "Our guys weren't hitting the ball badly, but the short game was eating them up. That's because of lack of experience. They just need more practice."

OVER THE HIGH JUMP BAR goes Stacy Ivy of the Ruidoso High School girls track team at the Lovington Invitational Saturday. Ivy cleared 4-6 to tie for fifth place. She also won her heat of the 100 meters in 13.2.

Ruidoso netters lose finals

The Ruidoso High School boys and girls tennis teams ended the regular season on a losing note by falling to visiting Portales High School Saturday on the Sierra Swim and Racquet Club courts.

Ruidoso lost by a 7-2 score in the boys competition and dropped an 8-1 decision in the girls match. Ruidoso ended up 3-5 in girls play and 2-6 in boys action. The district tournament will be held at Portales next Saturday.

Despite the losses, Ruidoso's Laura Trapp kept her undefeated streak going, topping Kandee Lewter, 1-6, 6-3, 6-4. Trapp is now 8-0 on the season.

BeeGee Brown of Portales beat Ruidoso's Laura Tyson, 6-0, 6-1, in the second-seeded match, while Muriel Clark defeated Tina Sanchez of the Warriors, 6-1, 6-1.

In other singles competition, Mary Gaddy of Ruidoso fell to Leslie Richards, 6-3, 6-3; Rachel Wooley of Portales topped Rachel McCoy, 6-1, 6-1; and Kristie Giannini topped the Warriors' Donna Mobley, 6-1, 6-1.

Leuter and Brown beat Trapp and Tyson in the top-seeded doubles match, 6-2, 6-3. Wooley and Giannini beat McCoy and Gaddy, 6-3, 6-4, in the second-seeded match, while Clark and Kami Maddix defeated Mobley and Michele Morrell, 6-4, 6-0, in the third match.

In the boys competition, Curt

Powell of Portales beat the Warriors' Ryan Brown 6-4, 6-2, in the top-seeded single match.

"Ryan played well," said Warrior coach Mike Crocker. "That other guy was really good."

In other singles matches, David Dodd topped Ruidoso's Billy Woodul, 6-0, 6-3; Sean McDonald of Portales defeated Jim Smith, 6-0, 6-2; Bart Bowen of the Warriors topped Danny Holland, 6-3, 6-4; Johnny Gonzales beat Ruidoso's Mike Smith, 7-5, 6-4; and Zack Swalander stopped Kim Wills of Portales, 6-4, 6-4.

Brown and Woodul played tough in the top-seeded doubles match, but fell to Powell and Dodd, 6-1, 7-5.

Holland and McDonald beat Jim Smith and Bowen in three sets, 6-1, 2-6, 6-1, while Gonzales and Wills defeated Mike Smith and Swalander, 7-6, 4-6, 7-6.

"We played good tennis; they're just really strong," said Crocker. "Their girls team is probably the best in the district."

Crocker praised several of his players.

"Trapp is definitely the best girl player in the district right now," he said. "If I had my way, she'd go to state without having to compete in the district tournament."

"Bowen played well. He is never nervous and just goes out and plays. Swalander looked good. I told him to hit the ball for placement and it worked out fine."

The district tournament will begin at 9 a.m. Saturday. The top qualifiers from that tournament go on to the state AAA tourney in Albuquerque, Friday and Saturday, May 13-14.

GO FOR IT. Micah Whitlock (2) of the Rowdies under-14 team of the Ruidoso Soccer Association dribbles the ball in Sunday's match with the visiting Las Cruces Royal Lancers at White Mountain Middle School. The Rowdies, sponsored by Burke-Collins and Associates, won the match 3-2. In action Saturday, the Rowdies fell to the Strikers (Pioneer Savings) 13-1 and the Tornado (Morgan's Mountain Sports) nipped the Cosmos (Schlotzsky's Sandwich Shop) 3-2. In under-10 action, United (Coulston and Associates) topped the Cobres (The Incredible) 3-1, while the Celtic (Security Bank) and the Bandits (McDonalds of Ruidoso) played to a 1-1 tie. In under-seven action at 5 tonight, the Celtic and United will play at White Mountain Middle School.

The Good Shepherd And The Children

Born and raised a little more than a stone's throw from his present home, Paul Jones has spent all his life as a rancher, raising cattle most of those years until the last few when he has taken up raising sheep.

In the higher sense of the word, he is truly a Good Shepherd, devoting his life to the creatures under his care and making a life-long study of how best to care for ranch animals.

Today, at high noon (April 29) twenty kindergarten children came by the Jones' Ranch on their annual springtime pilgrimage to rural world. Accompanied by their teacher, Mrs. Eva Clark, and teacher's aide, Mrs. Jane Baca, and the school bus driver Mrs. Imogene Miranda, the children, all smiles and laughter, petted the young lambs, surely the favorite farm creatures of little children throughout the ages.

Jim Paul Whipple, a member of the class, was master of ceremonies in the lamb show, carrying around a strikingly handsome lamb with black feet and black marks on the face for the children to admire.

Wide-eyed and speechless with delight, for some, at their first sight of lambs, the children caressed the little creatures fondly. You felt plainly the angel-like instinct for compassion, the birthright of childhood.

Next on the program was horseback riding. What a sight to see all the children lined up for a ride on Paul's handsome sorrel cow horse. Jim Paul made the first ride for a test run. And Paul lifted the others into the saddle and led the horse on a brief circle.

For many it was their first horseback ride, and it was plain to see from their expressions after the ride, that it was the experience of a lifetime.

On a perfect Spring day, the apple blossoms nearby wafted their perfume over the happy scene as a finishing touch, and Spring-time benediction.

Water-Bound
It is a blessing in disguise to be water-bound at the crossing by the ever-increasing tide of the "foaming brine" of the snow melt.

In the middle of the old road which used to be the main highway, bloom many a bright yellow flower, and a flower of pure pink of the deepest dye, with various names, Rock Pink, Wild Phlox, and New Mexico Pink. Even the Vermillion Indian Paint Brush is out early to join the show.

The road makes a bend on the high point from which you can look back west and see The Narrows, and Dude Browning's house up on the point. A little farther is a sight to stop you for a while. Below to the east extends all of the Vale of Glencoe, stretching on into the community of San Patricio.

With every tree out in bloom and new leaf, here is a water-colorist's dream, of every pastel shade. On the south, the Oak Brush is that faintest pink amidst the green, where the leaf buds are just beginning to open.

Felix Gonzales' apple trees show up in full bloom, and Tommy Misner's giant cherry trees add a touch of beauty to the scene.

On down to Gerald and Wynema's you see the historic landmark come into view, the Tully Homestead.

Rounding the house and garden, you pull to the left and come through Apple Blossom Lane, with the almost century-old trees in full bloom their perfume reaches you in friendly greeting; and on across the bridge is a natural archway composed of giant wild cherry trees out in full bloom of foamy white. As you come through this flowery arch, you get a lung full of the cherry-bloom perfume — the breath of Spring itself.

Birthday
Lynn Whippo Storm
This will reach you on the eve of the birthday of our father, Lynn Whippo Storm, born May 3, 1879 in Rochester, Pennsylvania, the eldest child of Francis David Storm and the former Althea Ellen Reno.

At an early age he was brought to Denver, Colorado, where he attended East Denver High School where he met his bride-to-be, the former Bertha Catherine Kennedy.

He attended The Colorado School of Mines, and graduated with high honors as a mining engineer in 1902 as president of his class and also class poet.

In appearance he resembled his maternal grandmother, Ellen Douglas Whippo (Mrs. Dryden Leacock Reno) descended from English Quakers.

Large eyes filled with kindness without the slightest trace of malice, set in a handsome face with high forehead. (This is a brief description of a photograph of Ellen Whippo).

Our father had the very gentle nature of the Whippo Quakers, but when the chips were down, was absolutely fearless.

Years ago he was on a trip in Central Mexico looking for mercury for his company, the Sun Oil Company, and was with some Mexican guides and a transplanted Englishman put on a high mountain. Suddenly a hail storm struck as only in Mexico can strike, and men and horses got under the shelter of an overhanging cliff. After so long a time, father pulled out his watch and said we had better be heading back.

"In this hail storm?" His guides stood open-mouthed. Pulling his hat brim down he led his horse out straight down the mountain side.

"Not that way; we have to go around!"

"That is too far," said father with a grin, and led the way down in the driving hail. The horses seemed to gain confidence from the man leading the way and slid down the steep places, to the astonishment of the men following.

At the bottom, his guides patted him on the back telling him they had never seen such a man. And the Englishman named him "Old Captain Bill." Father could not understand why he deserved such praise.

About 1924 father became an oil geologist with the Sun Oil Company, working out of the Dallas office. He ended his career after more than fifty years in the mining and geologic field by being awarded the distinguished medal for service in his field by his Alma Mater, the Colorado School of Mines.

When his younger brother, Jerome Vincent Storm, heard about the Sun Company hiring father, he said,

"They are lucky. When they get Lynn, they get brains and they get honesty."

EXOTIC ISTANBUL
 Perhaps no city on earth kindles the imagination as much as exotic Istanbul. First as Byzantium, then Constantinople, and now with its modern name, this city—the only one in the world that spans two continents—teems not only with people, but with history.

Istanbul stands on the straits of the Bosphorus, and many ferries ply back and forth, following various itineraries. Most impressive sight is the fortress of Rumeli Hisari, begun in 1452. Today it is open for touring, and performances of dance and theatre are held inside in summer.

With its diverse ethnic background, it's no wonder that Istanbul can boast a wide range of good restaurants (called "lokantas"). You can find deluxe, Western style restaurants in the old city, or the many good fish restaurants along the Bosphorus.

An international cultural festival is held in Istanbul each year from mid-June to mid-July. Many of the performances are given at sites of historic interest.

Letters to the Editor

DEAR EDITOR:

I wish to take this opportunity to thank the people of Lincoln County and the medical community of Lincoln County for their ongoing assistance to Home Health Services of Lincoln County.

Home Health Services of Lincoln County is a non-profit corporation with a local Board of Directors. We have been in operation since October 1976. We have received assistance and help from so very many people, it is impossible to thank them all. I would especially like to thank the physicians, hospital, and the nurses of this town for their support of our organization. I also want to thank Mike Barker of Ruidoso Transfer and Storage and his staff for making available to us free storage space and for their invaluable assistance when we changed our office location. I want to thank the Altrusa Club, the Rotary Club, the Pilot's Club and Mr. Bones Wright of C & L Lumber for their financial support.

Thank you to the Lions Club for doing emergency plumbing, building ramps and for other help rendered to the patients of Home Health Services of Lincoln County.

A very special thanks to the families of Pat Rooney, Ellis Rhodes, George Leverett and Ira Levens, who have remembered their loved ones with memorials to Home Health Services of Lincoln County. Without this community's support, we would not be able to render assistance to many of the indigent members of our county. It is heartening to have the support of individuals and organizations to allow us to continue to serve the homebound residents of our county on the basis of need rather than the basis of ability to pay.

Thank you again.

VERNA ADAMS, R.N.
 DIRECTOR
 HOME HEALTH SERVICES OF LINCOLN COUNTY

DEAR EDITOR:

Perhaps our snow pack and runoff couldn't have happened at a better time. It erases many conclusions reached by those experts who study our stream flows and attempt to strike some kind of average over the years in order to come up with an answer to our water problems.

For some time Eagle Creek has been pouring waters back into the Rio Ruidoso at Glencoe. These waters are those that could be impounded below the Alto Dam. These waters are those that could be diverted out of the Rio Ruidoso for filling the proposed Grindstone Dam, and could serve as replaced effluent which would eliminate any complaint of the farmers above Biscuit Hill.

In a few years Ruidoso will do well during any type of wet spell to impound their effluent credit, much less the waters they are entitled to use in Eagle Creek. The only possible way they can do this is have a diversion pipe large enough to store those waters in as short a time as possible. And they say more water rights are needed out of the Rio Ruidoso? They can't store the water rights they own, with their accredited effluent, so any additional rights would seem to be the last problem they have. The proof of what I say is present today in the two streams... merely take a look at what is taking place.

We have had excessive runoffs in July, in September, in October, and yes in December as well as March, April and May. The problem... catch as much waters as you can in as short a time as possible, close the valve and wait another wet spell and let what little waters flow down our stream, the Rio Ruidoso, when it becomes dry so that it will stay alive. That is what the Order of the State Engineer dated September 10, 1962 does. The key to success is a large diversion pipe and a bit more storage in Eagle Creek. Conditions today verify that. It is that simple and that complicated.

JAMES W. TULLY, CHAIRMAN
 RUIDOSO WATER USERS
 ASSOCIATION

DEAR EDITOR:

We are responding to the Letters to the Editor regarding the Ft. Stanton Mesa in the April 25th issue of the NEWS. Mr. Tully's pleading for a few acres (it would take hundreds) out of the Ft. Stanton pasture implies that the Mesa is a worthy location and that "the University" is unreasonable.

The Ft. Stanton area is indeed, not just any piece of real estate; it is, as Mr. Tully correctly pointed out, one of the healthiest spots in the United States. And, that is exactly the real issue; should "Ruidoso commercialism" transform the Ft. Stanton Mesa from this beautiful place of healing for mind, spirit and body, into an airport and all the infrastructure and additional development that will occur? We've never been healed by being near an airport, quite the contrary.

THE NEWS Editorial of the 25th quoted a prospective buyer of Ruidoso property as saying "—too trashy—but the climbing property values make it too good an investment to pass up." This kind of pocketbook mentality is at play for those who wish to site an airport on the Mesa, plus as was suggested, a hospital, consolidated high school and Jr. college. What a combination!

It has been known for some time, that there is a limited supply of water in the Ruidoso area, and much of that has been indiscriminately used as if there was no tomorrow. Folks, "tomorrow" is here! A whole new airport to bring in the "lost millions" as stated by Mr. Tully, will in fact, require more water, that he says, isn't there.

Mr. Tully closed his letter by mentioning the loss of water from the Rio Bonito. This, after all, may be a blessing, because we've kept the Lincoln area pretty free of the destructive commercialism that has beset Ruidoso. Because we have maintained this special quality of life in Lincoln, many of us can sense the destruction to our environment by such proposed projects as an airport on the Ft. Stanton Mesa. Just a little work to satisfy the needs of Ruidoso and Lincoln County.

Sincerely,
 JEREMY H. JORDAN
 CLEIS C. JORDAN

DEAR EDITOR:

One could never cease to be amazed. The Chamber board doesn't want to hurt the gas stations' feelings, but they feel the lodging establishments should collect higher taxes.

I know, we don't pay the tax; if you believe that, stop in sometime and I'll sell you Sierra Blanca Mountain. Currently, we collect 7 1/2% tax, add the 1% additional, plus the state increase, plus a possible county increase and wow!

Now make this tax fair, and I'll be all in favor of the increase. Right now only establishments in Ruidoso pay the tax. How about the county, Ruidoso Downs and the Reservation. Could the law be changed to read that because we all derive our income because of common tourist attractions we all pay the tax? Also how about a restaurant tax? One percent there would catch doytippers.

Sure we need the advertising, but let's make it a fair tax. Also how long will the state provide matching funds? Not very long from people I have talked to.

Thank you,
 MICHAEL RADZIEWICZ

DEAR EDITOR:

We would like to take this opportunity to express our sincere thanks to the many people who helped to get youth soccer in Ruidoso off the ground again this year.

SANTA FE—Look for more effort to combine the state's many investment officers.

At first glance, that seems pretty plausible.

If the State Treasurer's office is investing something on the order of $600 million; the severance tax permanent fund has $727 million to put into the market; the Public Employees' Retirement Fund wants maximum return on about $800 million; the Educational Retirement Fund has $900 million to put out to investment; and the state's permanent fund is now at the level of $1.6 billion, why not get one office into operation to handle all that money?

Please note that the previous sentence ended with a question mark.

It was not a declarative sentence. That is to say, it does not posit an irrevocable stand.

It does not declare that this combining of all state funds should take place.

New Mexico has—as the figures above would suggest—four billion, three hundred twenty-seven million dollars to invest, why not have one office to handle it all?

That's what Tony Anaya asked during the recent political campaign. The answer—"one office to include everything"—sounds beguilingly like it makes sense.

But that doesn't mean there aren't questions about it.

Like these:

—Such an office might have too much power, mightn't it? If one place was in charge of all this money, would the people who worked there be too powerful?

Good question, which is connected to the next one?

—Would the office of any chief executive who caused all this to come about be accused of a big grab for power?

Answer: Yes.

—Aren't the varying funds of the state based upon and to be handled by those who have differing philosophies?

Should the PERA, for instance, which wants to have on hand maximum money when state employees retire, be governed by the same rules at the state permanent fund?

That is supposed to produce income for state institutions.

—Do these operations have the same needs?

PERA, for example, has to have a high degree of liquidity so it can pay off those leaving the state retirement system. Not so the Investment Office, which doesn't have to pay off anybody.

So are the aims and ends of these two groups the same?

Answer again: No.

—Aren't all these operations a little better off if they compete with one another?

If the man who advises the PERA wants to show how good he is, he can be measured by the amount of return he can generate as compared with the State Investment Office—and vice versa.

Don't we all do better if these guys work hard to demonstrate they are the best?

In other words, aren't we all better off if there is not a single office which runs all these things?

Don't be put off by superficial thinking which says, "These funds are all alike. They all belong to the State of New Mexico."

They are not the same. Despite what Tony Anaya said during a political campaign, they should not be combined.

Congressman
JOE SKEEN
 Reports From Washington

One of the things I enjoy most about serving in Congress is the fact that we're involved in a continuous learning process. In order to make reasoned decisions on the crucial matters presented to us, we must continually absorb and assimilate information about virtually every subject under—and even beyond—the sun.

This month the Subcommittee on Investigations and Oversight, of which I am the ranking Republican member, held hearings that increased my knowledge in the field of "job forecasting" a hundredfold. Like most other Americans who have already chosen the path they want their lives to take, I really hadn't given much thought to whether anyone was involved in trying to make sure people are trained to fill the jobs that will be open in the future.

In the past many people followed the trade or profession of their family—whether it was farming, banking or operating the corner store. As populations have increased and shifted and the number of jobs and types of jobs have grown, this can no longer be true.

We all know what can happen if nothing is done to prepare our people for the future—especially in the area of employment. If you visited a college on registration day during the beginning of the space race in the 1950s, you remember the long lines of students waiting to sign up to become "engineers." It didn't make a lot of difference what kind of engineer, the conventional wisdom was that America needed more "engineers" if we were to win the space race. The word was used generically.

Needless to say, all of those aspiring engineers didn't become members of the profession. If they had, humans might be living on Mars today.

But that's beside the point I'm trying to make. If we had perfected the art of job forecasting by the 1950s, the country could have trained all of the engineers we needed without encouraging a lot of people to enter a field that held no future for them.

The subcommittee held two days of hearings on the subject and listened to experts on every aspect of it. The premise is fairly simple. All you have to do is determine what skills will be short supply in 20 years and make sure the training is available for people who want to acquire those skills. That sounds easy enough, doesn't it?

That's where my education comes in. You'd think that anyone could look at what's going on in the world today and predict without doubt that the so-called "high tech" industries will be the ones needing the workers to tomorrow. But the experts told us that the growth in technological occupations will amount to less than 4 percent of the total growth between now and 1990. The occupation they expect to grow the most goes under the simple description of secretaries or clerical services.

There will be a need for between 700,000 and 850,000 additional secretaries in this nation by 1990, we're told. The next greatest predicted area of growth will be in the field of "nurses aides and orderlies" (500,000 to 600,000); followed by janitors (around 500,000).

But that, too, doesn't tell the complete story. Those secretaries, nurses aides and janitors will most likely be doing basically the same job in 1990 that they're doing today—but they'll be doing it in different ways, using different tools.

Good penmanship was once the most highly sought after trait in secretaries, for example. This evolved into shorthand and typing skills.

Then came the need to operate basic office equipment such as adding machines and the stencil machines that were replaced by today's automatic copying machines. The skills needed to be a secretary evolved as the tools available to do the job evolved.

This will continue to be true. The shorthand skills of the past, in many instances, have given away to the skills needed to transcribe from dictating machines and tape recorders. In the same way, the manual typewriters of the past have been replaced by electric and electronic devices that correct mistakes and even keep often used form-letters in their memory banks to be typed automatically when needed.

These machines are now giving way to word processors and computer terminals that perform a myriad of tasks if you know which button to push.

Teaching tomorrow's secretaries "which button to push" will be a major task facing the educators of today if the employment needs of tomorrow are to be met. Employers, too, are going to have to learn the basics so that they can know what directions to give their secretaries.

The same holds true in other industries. The jobs will not necessarily be in the "high-tech" companies but those companies and their products will have a great influence on how the jobs that do grow will be performed.

As I said, it's a fascinating subject and just part of the continuing education of a Congressman.

Editorial

Ruidoso Downs officials appear to have put the cart before the horse in their eagerness to approve a 40-unit apartment complex.

While low- and moderate-income housing is very much needed in Ruidoso Downs and Ruidoso, care must be taken to follow due process in allowing for it.

The Downs Planning and Zoning Commission rezoned a tract of land that has been proposed as the site of the apartments by simply passing a motion.

It was pointed out to the village trustees, correctly, that this is not the way it is done. Since zoning of property determines what type of development—residential, commercial or industrial—is allowed there, neighboring property owners can definitely be affected by a rezoning.

State statutes require that they be notified in writing of a proposed change, and that a public hearing be conducted. Veterans of last year's Racquet Club/Hilton Inn hearings in Ruidoso know that this can become a very involved process, but it is the law and there are good reasons for it.

It is encouraging to see interest in addressing the pressing need for rental housing in this area. But as with the Hilton, the community and developer, and the rights of nearby residents must be openly weighed before a decision can be reached.—TP

by Barbby Grant

Now, to continue with my report on the New Mexico Press Women Convention....

ABC Nightline correspondent Betsy Aaron was our luncheon speaker. Aaron's talk addressed, quite naturally, given the general makeup of the audience, the roles of women in the news media. ("You Are What You Cover," her address was entitled.)

Aaron began her career as a secretary, she informed us, and would have continued so had not the male bosses awakened her to the situation. Even as a news reporter gaining respect and weighty assignments, though, Aaron said her career was just a way of "biding my time" until she married and began a family—she and most other females of her generation had been raised to believe so. Not until she was widowed at a relatively young age did she realize her work was actually necessary.

Since that time, Betsy Aaron has worked for all three major networks and has spent much of her career covering wars and politics. It seems that women have made great advances in the news media field, but Aaron pointed out that there are still no female network news executives. There also remains the tendency for female reporters to be assigned particular stories on the basis of their gender.

I've found myself at The News struggling against that tendency. Being the only female reporter on the five-member editorial staff automatically made me the recipient of most engagement and wedding announcements and other typical "society" news, plus any fashion or food features. I think I've succeeded in convincing the staff that my being female does not inherently mean I know about or appreciate such things. I'm much more helpful in the kitchen than several of my male co-workers.

Betsy Aaron related a story about a recent assignment of hers to cover the gang rape in a New England bar when all the customers not involved in the action stood around and watched. Aaron said her natural reaction to the assignment was: "You're sending me because I'm a woman."

But rather than object to the assignment, Aaron gratefully accepted it as an opportunity to report the story from a different perspective than would a man. When the report aired, the ABC television cameras followed the group of alleged rapists into the courtroom, and Aaron opened with the line "These are not proud men today."

"I don't think a man would have thought of that," Aaron told us. "I was able to bring a woman's sensibility to the story."

An audience member later questioned where the line is drawn between bringing one's sensibility to a story and biasing the story. Aaron answered that it is quite natural and actually inevitable that every reporter bring his or her own sensibility to what he/she is reporting. Aaron pointed out that she brings Betsy Aaron's sensibilities to a story and, as a female, those perceptions and responses are tied up with being a woman.

A reporter does not consciously set out to inject a story with a woman's or man's point-of-view or even with his personal point-of-view. But absolute objectivity is impossible, at least until such time as machines take over the job of reporting the news.

Deciding which facts and quotes to include in a story, in what order, and how to word the lead all require judgments that are inevitably affected by one's own "sensibilities." It is only right that both male and female sensibilities are reflected in the news stories we digest every day.

The most equitable situation would be for members of both sexes and various age groups to be fairly represented among news gatherers. An audience member at the convention wondered aloud why television newswatchers were able to tune in to see "Cronkite's white hair and sagging jowls" but never a grandmotherly image.

Aaron admitted the time has not yet arrived for that to happen. Women's careers in broadcast journalism tend to be more short-lived than men's—for now.

But one of the convention sessions I attended provided me with an idea for making a bundle of money at a young age, so at least I could retire comfortably. Former head writer for the soap opera "Texas," Paul Rader, conducted a session on "Writing for the Soaps."

Rader informed the audience that soap opera assistant writers—usually in the mid-twenties age bracket—make about $2,000 a week! When they move into prime time the salaries can soar to much greater heights.

Rader told us about a Writer Development Program Proctor and Gamble sponsors in which they pay participants about $200 an episode just to watch a television show once a day for a week. Someone would have to pay me that kind of money to sit through an episode of a lot of the shows on television now, but I'm sure I could be persuaded.

At least when it comes time for a career change I have some possibilities to consider. Proctor and Gamble may be hearing from me!

Reference is made to such for further detail.
