Horsemen's strike looks likely

by BILLY ALLSTETTER
Staff Writer

Official negotiations between New Mexico horsemen and racetrack owners over the allocation of uncashed pari-mutuel tickets (out-tickets) have broken off after horsemen refused to agree to binding arbitration. With no talks scheduled before the July 11 deadline, the prospect of a horsemen's strike and shutdown of all racetracks in the state appears a very real possibility.

"It's a stalemate," said John Ramming, one member of a three-person mediation board attempting to resolve the dispute. "At this point, per the governor's instructions, we have backed off."

He said he expects the state Racing Commission will probably not address the issue at the Friday's meeting, except to hear a report on negotiation progress from mediation board member Sharon Janicka. Ramming did say the board is ready to begin negotiations again if either of the disputing parties offers new suggestions.

Official negotiations have stopped in spite of a personal attempt by Governor Toney Anaya to resolve the issue. Anaya met with representatives of the horsemen and track owners separately and together Tuesday, but failed to solve the dispute or bring it to binding arbitration which would have kept the tracks open.

"He (Anaya) was most concerned that the tracks stay open," said deputy press secretary Vicki Phillips, who explained the state could lose up to $50 million in taxes if the tracks close.

Attorney General Paul Bardacke confirmed that behind the scenes talks are continuing but would not comment upon their nature. Phillips said a number of the parties involved in the dispute had been in the Capitol building Wednesday.

Bardacke said he was optimistic that the dispute would go to binding arbitration after a three-and-a-half hour meeting involving horsemen, track owners and the mediation board Saturday. But horsemen refused to agree to binding arbitration Tuesday, even though it was promised there would be a decision by this Friday and the disputed money would be in an interest-bearing escrow account by Tuesday.

Les Houston, attorney for the New Mexico Horsemen's Association, said the horsemen did not want binding arbitration. Their reason, he said, was that it could leave a chance they could lose their struggle to have the out-tickets put in the purse structures, in spite of the clear-cut obligation of the tracks to do so.

Houston also said the disputing parties might still disagree over the ground rules for the binding arbitration and would very possibly "never have any meeting of the minds."

The horsemen have threatened to not enter horses in any races except paid-up stakes races after July 11 if racetrack owners do not contribute approximately $285,000 in out-tickets to the purse structures for the races.

In case the dispute is not resolved, Thursday, July 14, would be the last day horsemen would race at Ruidoso Downs. Horsemen can enter horses for that day on Sunday, July 10.

"We plan on running," said Jess Burner, president of Ruidoso-Sunland Incorporated in one published report. "If we don't get enough entries, we'll have to close up. We can run an eight- or nine-race card; if we get about six or seven horses, we'd have enough for a race."

The horsemen claim the track owners promised in 1981 to contribute 100 percent of the out-tickets to the purse structures in exchange for the active support by horsemen of Senate Bill 191, which returned the first $5,000 in daily pari-mutuel taxes to the tracks for capital improvements.

Four of the five state tracks contributed the out-tickets to purse structures in 1982. La Mesa Park in Raton did not pay in 1982, and none of the tracks have paid so far in 1983. Horsemen claim Ruidoso Downs owes $90,348.75 in 1982 out-tickets to the 1983 purse structure.

Track owners claim that amendments to Senate Bill 191 negate their obligation. Horsemen have signed affidavits from six former directors of Ruidoso-Sunland Incorporated stating the tracks owe the money. They also have one letter from former general manager of Ruidoso-Sunland Finlay McGillivray, dated after the 1981 legislative session, stating Ruidoso-Sunland would contribute 100 percent of the out-tickets to the purse structure.

According to deputy press secretary Phillips, Anaya said the tracks have a "moral and ethical obligation" to pay the money to the purse structures. Anaya has said the State Fair will soon pay the $52,252.94 it owes to the purse structure at that track.

According to Attorney General Bardacke, the track owners could make a good case against the horsemen for violation of anti-trust rules and keep the tracks open. He said the clause forbidding any conspiracy in restraint of trade could refer to the horsemen.

The state, however, will not file suit, said Bardacke, because the dispute is a private one between racetrack owners and horsemen. He said it is up to the tracks to file suit.

Horsemen's attorney Houston said he assumes the tracks will file separate suits against the horsemen, and added that horsemen are ready with claims of their own.

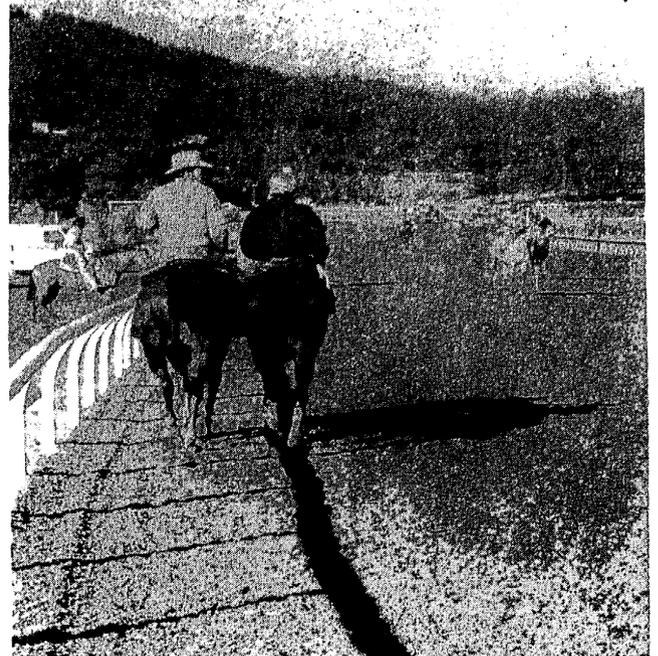

Horsemen appear ready to stop racing if they do not get their way. Don Farris, executive board member of the horsemen's association, said the horsemen are prepared to terminate racing if the dispute cannot be negotiated.

When asked about the resolve of the horsemen, trainer Gerald Marr said, "I don't have any doubts at all."

"There's no other alternative (to striking)," said Marr. He added that the owners of the horses he is training are 100 percent behind the horsemen, and have told him not to enter any of their horses until the tracks pay the money.

Marr remained optimistic that the tracks would pay the money before the July 11 deadline.

"They cannot, under any circumstances, afford to close the door for 10 seconds," said Marr.

IT WAS BUSINESS AS USUAL this morning at Ruidoso Downs Race Track as trainers and jockeys put horses through their morning "works." But the threat of a termination of racing hangs over the track, in a situation in which one outsider said "ain't no one gonna win."

New building projects up in June

by DAVID SHEPPARD
Staff Writer

Contractors continued to stay busy last month in Ruidoso as they started more new projects than during any other month in the first half of the year.

Building inspector Don Hendricks issued 49 permits in June that reflected an estimated value of construction of $2,633,953. That was 11 more permits than he issued in May, and it raised the total for the first half of 1983 to 197 permits with a total dollar value of $11,874,741.

The numbers through the first six months are well below those set during the same period last year. By June 1982, the building department had issued 278 permits with an estimated value of $18,141,614.

Building began a slump in the second half of 1982, however, and stayed down until this past spring. The current recovery coincided with the beginning of warmer weather in March. According to local building forecasters, enough plans are in the works to keep contractors busy at least into fall.

Hendricks issued permits in June for 24 new single-family homes, 10 residential additions or alterations, nine new commercial buildings, four commercial additions or alterations and two multi-family housing projects.

The permits below are listed by subdivision or location, type of structure and estimated cost of construction.

- Flume Canyon, residential addition, $3,942.
- Hamilton Terrace, commercial-shop, $54,000.
- Middle Cedar, SFD (single-family dwelling), $36,504.
- Enchanted Forest, residential addition, $13,230.
- Ruidoso Pine Lodge, SFD, $23,328.
- Middle Cedar, SFD, $32,400.
- Palmer Gateway, commercial addition, $30,000.
- Airport West, residential addition, $28,080.
- Golf Course Estates, SFD, $50,274.
- Town & Country, SFD, $28,026.
- Ruidoso Springs, commercial addition, $54,000.
- Deer Park Woods 2, SFD, $88,776.
- Palmer Gateway, commercial-bank branch, $188,000.
- Country Club Estates 2, SFD, $39,015.
- White Fir, guest house, $10,368.
- Deer Park, SFD, $54,000.
- Carrizo Lodge, commercial, $300,080.
- Wingfield, condominium—four units, $130,680.
- Deer Park Woods 1, SFD, $94,500.
- Cochran II, SFD, $35,829.
- Camelot I, SFD, $41,300.
- Airport West Unit 4, residential addition, $8,748.
- Sierra Blanca, residential addition, $4,968.
- Airport West Unit 4, duplex, $54,000.
- Alto Unit 4, SFD, $34,992.
- C. E. Webb Tract, SFD, $34,884.

Ruidoso High DECA fourth in nation

by BARBY GRANT
Staff Writer

The Ruidoso High School DECA (Distributive Education Clubs of America) chapter took fourth place in the nation in this year's national DECA competition in New Orleans, Louisiana, last week.

The club was awarded a plaque, medal and $750 for capturing fourth place in the Pepsi Learn and Earn project competition. The local chapter's Pepsi project involved submitting a 40-page report on its running of a concession stand at the Ruidoso Downs Mule Races last fall. More than 50 clubs from throughout the United States entered the competition.

The local DECA chapter has placed in the top eight in nationals for the past six years, reported sponsor Eddie Parker. Representing Ruidoso in the Pepsi project this year were Theresa Sanchez, Rayner Baca, Robin Rhodes and Bob Power. In addition to taking tests and interviews while in New Orleans, students got to do some sightseeing, Parker said. He expressed appreciation to bus driver Dennis Alward and to the school superintendent's office and board of education for financial support for the trip.

Parker said the $750 in award money will probably be used to purchase microwave ovens for the club's concession stand operations.

The DECA sponsor said the club is now working on plans for next year's Pepsi project, which will involve students in setting up and running a wholesale distributing operation.

He noted that he tries to teach the students a philosophy that "you can have everything you want in life if you help enough other people get what they want." He indicated he believes that philosophy has proven true in the Ruidoso DECA chapter's continued success.

Educators, school board comment on education report

by BARBY GRANT
Staff Writer

"America is at risk." So reports the National Commission on Excellence in Education in its much-publicized report, issued last month, on the current state of education in the nation.

The "educational foundations of our society are presently being eroded by a rising tide of mediocrity that threatens our very future as a Nation and a people," the commission wrote. "If an unfriendly foreign power had attempted to impose on America the mediocre educational performance that exists today, we might well have viewed it as an act of war."

These are serious indictments. Much nationwide attention has been focused on the report since its release, sparking debate even among politicians now campaigning for the 1984 presidential election. Education in America could well be a major issue in that election.

But the report also should be of concern at the local level, as it issues a challenge to students, parents, school boards and educators throughout the nation. This challenge is to help create, through educational reform, a "Learning Society."

While the report's focus is on the general failure of the present educational system to strive for excellence, there is a confirmation "of the vitality of a number of notable schools and programs ..." Ruidoso Board of Education members, in discussing the report's findings in relation to the local school district's performance, express their belief that Ruidoso's schools fall into that category. "I think Ruidoso is in much better

"For the first time in years, a real interest is being focused on education."

shape than the nation as a whole," board vice president Don Swalander noted. "We've always been strong academically."

President Stormy Edwards echoed that belief, saying he thinks Ruidoso schools are "the exception nationwide as well as statewide."

Board secretary Lynn Willard commented that the national commission, in its report, "asked questions that are very pertinent to our own school system." He added, however, that "I think we rank favorably on the points considered."

"I think if this committee had come to Ruidoso we wouldn't see an article like this," was board member Lamar Osbourn's reaction to the report.

"I think we far supersede whatever the national is," member Charles McClellan remarked.

Comments such as these have long emanated from every corner of the local school system, and from outside the district. Ruidoso is the only district in the state to have all its schools accredited with commendation; it ranks second in New Mexico in teacher salary levels; it has "problems" other school districts would love to have, et cetera.

Superintendent Sid Miller, in discussing the national education commission's report, admitted he was recently awakened to the possibility that many school districts believe criticisms such as are contained in the report are directed at other school districts.

Miller attended a forum in Albuquerque June 23 with T. H. Bell, Secretary of the U.S. Department of Education; members of the education commission; and public officials, to discuss the implementation of recommendations in the national report.

One of the speakers, Miller said, marveled at how many school districts indicate the report is great, but believe they are already doing what the report recommends. This comment led Miller to consider the attitude of his own school system.

"I know our schools are better than a lot," he concluded. "But we know we can improve, also."

Miller acknowledged that the administration will be making some recommendations based on a comprehensive study of the report by the school board, principals, teachers and community members.

"We'll be recommending some emphasis rather than changes," he noted. "We are going to start demanding maximum standards, not minimum."

Miller declined to elaborate on specific recommendations he may make, but indicated the schools can improve by better utilizing the time and money already available.

"We'll be emphasizing more time on task and hard-nosed push of the kids."

The superintendent stressed that "I think we're meeting the needs of our society in Ruidoso schools at the present time."

LYNN WILLARD

cooperation of parents and the community is essential if the schools are to place stronger emphasis on curriculum and demand more of students.

"The school board, parents, administration, teachers and business people have to all cooperate very closely to decide if this is the way they want to go," Miller noted. "The report is too comprehensive for any one group to do it on its own."

"If the community agrees with the report then a lot of changes can be made right in the schools," he pointed out, noting that the longer school day and year recommended by the national commission would not be necessary.

One concern Miller has is the tendency of those involved in education to "become negative when people challenge us."

"I don't want anybody to become negative about the report," remarked Miller.

"Let's not defend and find excuses; let's listen and find solutions."

"The real solutions are way down the road," he added. "It will take a massive effort to find them."

Ruidoso Board of Education president Edwards reported that the board would "probably rely on the administration to make any recommendations" regarding the national commission report. He acknowledged some of the report's suggestions merited study, such as increased graduation requirements and 11-month teacher contracts.

Extending public school education to 13 years was even raised by Edwards as a potentially worthwhile alternative to extending the school day and year.

"We'll be emphasizing more time on task and hard-nosed push of the kids."

SID MILLER

But generally he rated Ruidoso schools high, feeling they have lived up to the goal of offering students the best education they can get, within the limitations of "what they had to work with."

The board president credits the quality of teachers for much of the high rating, noting the Ruidoso School District is able "to pick and choose" instructors because of the high pay scale and the environment.

"Education is no better than the teachers," he concluded.

Vice president Swalander feels one weakness of the local system is a lack of course variety offered—a problem of finances. He indicated financing is one drawback to many of the recommendations listed in the report.

Swalander agrees with the other board members that "I think we do an excellent job with what we've got."

"Overall, I feel we're doing fairly well, but we sure want to strive for excellence, not mediocrity," he concluded.

"I can't feel (the report) has a great deal of value to Ruidoso."

CHARLES MCCLELLAN

Board secretary Lynn Willard also believes the report offers some valid recommendations, the implementation of which depends on financial resources not now available. A seven-hour school day; 11-month teacher contracts; the teaching of foreign languages from elementary through high school; and relieving teachers of administrative duties were mentioned by Willard as good ideas which would require additional resources.

Curriculum is an area Willard believes Ruidoso has already addressed by directing the new associate superintendent to oversee review and development of curriculum for all the schools. He also noted that state education officials have praised the local school district's handling of curriculum development.

"As far as I'm concerned Ruidoso schools have always been among the best and most progressive in the state," Willard commented.

He noted that parent involvement in the local schools is high, as illustrated by attendance at parent conferences and the number of volunteer parent aides in the schools.

Willard said he would like to see the school board and administration discuss the report, though, and "look at the areas we are above average and the areas that need to be addressed."

But, he concluded, "I think we're meeting the needs of our society in the Ruidoso schools at the present time."

Board member McClellan stated, "I can't feel (the report) has a great deal of value to Ruidoso." He faulted the federal government with creating many of the problems revealed in the report by stripping local school districts of authority to act.

"Overall, I feel we're doing fairly well, but we sure want to strive for excellence, not mediocrity."

McClellan said he is always interested in bettering education but feels the local school district "far supersedes" those investigated by the national commission on excellence in education.

"The key to our whole situation here is the first priority has always been the student," he added.

Lamar Osbourn also feels the local schools rate well on points considered in the report.

"Basically we are working on every item addressed; we do it on a daily basis," he stated.

Osbourn listed test scores, which are usually above national average; the high school DECA club's competition in national events; and continual review of curriculum as proof of Ruidoso's edge over most schools nationwide. Osbourn said he is not alarmed by the report as far as Ruidoso is concerned.

State legislator and Ruidoso school teacher Mickey McGuire also had some comments regarding the report on education. He acknowledged having taken a defensive attitude about it after first reviewing it. After all, he is a member of three groups the report points a finger at: educators, legislators and parents.

But McGuire, like superintendent Miller, was led to re-analyze his thinking after attending the forum in Albuquerque. The legislator/teacher said he began to "not really care whose fault it is. We should all look at ways we can improve the educational system in the United States."

McGuire also agreed with Miller that parent and community involvement and support are essential if the school systems are to get tough and demand maximum effort from students.

To encourage community members to familiarize themselves with the report and its recommendations for education, McGuire has made available a copy of "A Nation At Risk" at the public library for anyone to check out.

"For the first time in years a real interest is being focused on education," McGuire noted. "The thing I would like to see happen ... is that each school should look and see where it can capitalize on that interest."

"Education is no better than the teachers."

That is just what Sid Miller intends to see happen in Ruidoso. He and associate superintendent Mike Gladden had plans prior to publication of the report to recommend some of its ideas anyway, Miller said.

"We have the opportunity to really get going. We're going to be the best school in New Mexico," Miller vowed. "We're going to be even better than we were before."

Grindstone purchase complete

by DAVID SHEPPARD
Staff Writer

With the stroke of a pen, Mayor of Ruidoso George White Friday bought the village about 45 acres of prime land in Grindstone Canyon at a price of $526,000.

The occasion was the closing of the contract with Grindstone landowner Don Dorman for the land to be developed into a dam and reservoir project.

White and Dorman signed the contract, warranty deed and other documents pertaining to the purchase Friday at the Lincoln County Abstract Company office in Carrizozo.

In addition to the reservoir and dam site, the village also has bought land from Dorman for a water treatment plant, 5-million gallon storage tank, and water lines and road easements.

The purchase price was bumped up by $1,000 from the original agreement with Dorman in April, to cover taxes on the property through the first six months of this year.

The village council approved the purchase agreement with Dorman at a meeting in April. The agreement hinged on three conditions, one of which bound the village to annexing 148 acres of Dorman's land bordering the reservoir site. The council annexed the property a few weeks after the agreement was signed.

The village also agreed to adopt final plans for construction of the $8 million dam and reservoir project. Those plans also have been approved.

According to the agreement, those conditions had to be met or waived within 120 days after the offer was accepted.

In the closing contract, 50 percent of the $525,000 is allocated for purchase of the land and the other half is to pay for "severance damages" to Dorman's surrounding property.

Dorman said the damages provide for a redesigned sewage system on property adjacent to the proposed reservoir. Dorman's planners had designed sewer lines for part of the Grindstone Resort Community to run through the property that was bought for the reservoir. Lift stations now will have to be installed along the perimeter of the reservoir to pump sewage up hills.

Dorman also claimed damages for the removal of property below the dam from development. Also, he said he will have to provide an alternate access route to the Lincoln National Forest through his planned housing development. Dorman said the present access goes through the reservoir property.

Dorman has agreed to dedicate five acres to the village for a public park that will have 400 feet of frontage on the reservoir. He also will dedicate a housing lot in the planned development for the water storage tank. The village will have to partially bury the tank so it will have a low profile.

The water treatment plant will be constructed below the face of the concrete dam. The village will have to finish the exterior of the plant—which will have a capacity to treat about 2 million gallons a day—in a manner that will conform with neighboring buildings.

In exchange for the land Dorman will dedicate, the village has agreed to acquire a permanent access right-of-way from the eastern boundary of Dorman's property to Carrizo Creek Road—a distance of six-tenths of a mile, assistant village manager

Frank Potter said. The village will build the road, which will provide access to the reservoir facilities and to Dorman's development.

The village has 60 days to acquire the right-of-way—which runs through private property—before it must initiate condemnation proceedings on the land, as stipulated in the contract.

The village also will build a street that will provide access to lots on the south of the reservoir.

A reversion clause was included in the warranty deed which gives Dorman the right to reclaim the reservoir property if the land is not used as a reservoir or lake for three consecutive years.

If Dorman decides to "re-enter" the property under the reversion clause, he must give the village 90 days prior written notice. The village may defeat the right of re-entry if the governing body expresses an anticipated need for future use of the property.

The warranty deed also gives Dorman the right of access to the reservoir wherever his land is contiguous to village-owned property. The right does not give him the right of access to the dam, water treatment plant or other facilities in the water project.

John Myers, special counsel to the village from the legal firm of Johnson and Lanphere in Albuquerque, said the right of access to the reservoir "is not a unique right to the surface of the lake."

The village council has adopted a policy that there will be no boating or swimming on the proposed 1,400-acre-foot reservoir.

Finally, the village has agreed not to cut any trees within 50 feet of the reservoir and dam property without first conferring with Dorman.

A CLOSE CALL. This twin-engine Piper Seneca skidded off the runway at Ruidoso Municipal Airport after landing about noon Tuesday. Airport employee Scott Tarver said the nose gear and left main gear on the plane were sheared off and the right main gear broke during the landing. Samuel Bonney, the pilot out of Dallas, Texas, was reportedly uninjured. Airport manager Tim Morris is shown looking at the plane.

County hears plans for New Horizons

by BARBY GRANT
Staff Writer

New Horizons Developmental Center in Carrizozo is to be converted to a program for the elderly mentally retarded, according to New Horizons board member Mary Rich. She reported the plans to the Lincoln County Board of Commissioners Tuesday and asked permission for New Horizons to apply for a bank loan to finance remodeling of facilities.

The old hospital building in which New Horizons is housed is owned by the county and leased to New Horizons. Plans to change the emphasis of the program—from interim care for upper-level clients from Fort Stanton Hospital and Training School to a program for geriatric developmentally disabled—is part of the state's attempts to relocate Fort Stanton patients and change the use of the Fort Stanton facility, Rich reported.

She said the bank loan, for remodeling of the old nurses' quarters, will be repaid from rent charged to the state. According to Rich, the New Horizons staff will almost double under the new, enlarged program.

The facility will continue to care for the 15 clients now housed there, some of whom are in a group home program. These clients will be housed in the remodeled nurses' quarters, she noted.

Rich said state officials indicated the program would be set up as a model geriatrics program for the mentally retarded.

Commissioners agreed to permit the organization to apply for the loan to remodel.

Also Tuesday, commissioners signed a resolution in support of maintaining the existing structure of the State Agency on Aging. Zia Senior Citizens project director Barbara Ward reported that four options for restructuring the agency have been formulated by a team ordered by the governor to review the agency.

She fears that all local control would be abolished if any of those options were adopted. The four options, besides maintaining the existing structure of seven planning and service areas, involve consolidating services into a few or one service area.

Ward intends to submit the resolution from the commissioners to the director of the State Agency on Aging.

In other business, commissioners:

—Opened bids on used motor graders for the road department and authorized road department superintendent Guy Henley to appraise the machines and make a recommendation at the next meeting.

—Appointed Archie Witham, Lloyd Zumwalt and Bob Stearns to a road review committee to make a recommendation on a request to close B Avenue in Nogal Townsite.

—Agreed to accept a road at the intersection of State Highway 380 and County Road CO-23 on the county maintenance system for Kenneth Kirkland, Henri La Mothe, Roy Ross and Ward Sullivan.

—Denied a request for road work at Homestead Acres but said they may reconsider the request later.

—Approved the purchase of equipment for Ruidoso-Hondo Valley Hospital with mill levy funds. Hospital administrator Ken Moore reported the hospital is purchasing a pediatric blood-pressure monitoring unit, an automated hematology analyzer, a neo-natal pediatric ventilation unit and an intravenous fluid and blanket warmer, at a total cost of $41,691.93.

—Heard from county manager Suzanne Cox that the state has approved the county's 1983-84 budget plus its road plan and budget of funds to be received by the road department.

—Were asked by Cox to consider whether the county should replace the courthouse heating and cooling system or continue repairing it.

—Approved a request from the Glencoe Volunteer Fire Department for $350 in matching funds for purchase of two pagers.

—Approved a pricing schedule for computer information.

—Denied a request from the O-Bar-O Ranch to use the county's repeater tower and building on Carrizo Mountain. Commissioners voted to move the tower to the Ruidoso suboffice and the building to Carrizozo for use as a storage building.

—Accepted an agreement with Tim Collins on the design of Bog Spring Road.

—Were informed of a proposal from H. M. LaRue to crush gravel for the road department. No action was taken.

—Met in executive session to discuss litigation.

Police seeking forgery suspect since January

by DAVID SHEPPARD
Staff Writer

The Criminal Investigation Division of the Ruidoso Police Department (RPD) is continuing its investigation into a 7-month-old check forgery case in which $5,000 was taken.

Chief of Police Richard Swenor said RPD had an arrest warrant out for Sherrie Smith since January in connection with the forgery.

A $5,000 cashier's check drawn on Ruidoso State Bank is believed to have been stolen sometime between November 16 and November 23. C. C. Miller of El Paso, who bought the check, reported it missing on November 23.

Smith admitted to Investigator Gonzalo Cordova during questioning on December 6 that she cashed the check at Security Bank on November 22 and deposited $1,500 of it into her bank account, according to the police incident report. The report states that Smith said Miller gave her the check as payment for business transactions. Miller signed an affidavit on December 7 refuting that claim.

After a handwriting analysis established that Miller's counter-signature on the check was forged, a warrant was issued January 18 for Smith's arrest. She has remained at large since then.

Swenor said personnel at Security Bank claimed last week that Smith was working in a local store. Cordova was sent to the store with a bank employee who identified one of the store clerks as Smith. Swenor said Cordova called off a backup officer outside the store after he determined the bank employee had mistaken the clerk's identity.

Swenor acknowledged that the bank employee repeatedly insisted in the store that the clerk was Smith.

Swenor said the felony warrant for Smith's arrest has been entered into a national crime computer.

Rodeo bull rider killed

Burch Rodriguez, 24, of Clovis, died Monday evening at Ruidoso-Hondo Valley Hospital from massive internal injuries received when a bull stepped on him at the Mescalero Rodeo.

According to Mike Hernandez, who witnessed the accident, Rodriguez was thrown from the bull while riding it in competition. He fell off the side of the bull and was stepped on as the bull continued to buck, said Hernandez.

"It didn't even look that bad, but the kid just didn't get up," said Hernandez.

X-ray technician Stephen Hedval said Rodriguez had only one bruise in the abdomen just under the rib cage and x-rays showed no broken bones.

Surgery revealed a severely damaged liver and ruptured blood vessels, including the major vein leading blood from the lower body to the heart, said director of nursing Mary Lou Brown.

Rodriguez died on the operating table at 8 p.m. Monday.

Ranchman's Camp Meeting begins July 13

The Lincoln County Nogal Mesa Ranchman's Camp Meeting will be July 13-17.

The meeting will include chuckwagon meals, bonfires, hayrides and just plain neighborly visiting.

Opening services will be Wednesday evening, July 13, after the first chuckwagon meal. Services will continue through Sunday evening, July 17. The preachers will be the Reverend Mickey Fugitt from Abilene, Texas, and the Reverend Garth Hyde, from Lancaster, California. The Reverend Hyde was raised in Lincoln County. Paul Biggs will again be in charge of music, accompanied by Jane Shafer. The choir is made up of volunteers.

Officers in charge of running the camp are Rick and Randy Steele, managers; LaMoynne and Opal Peters, Wesley Lindsey, Scott and Bob Shafer, Walt Wilson and Johnson Stearns. Residents from throughout

New Mexico serve on various committees.

A memorial service will be conducted Saturday afternoon for those who have died during the year. This service will be under the direction of Chloe Peters and Glenda Armstrong.

Also scheduled are prayer tree gatherings for the men and group meetings for the women, youths and children. Children will be cared for in the kiddie corral. Hayrides, watermelon busts and games are planned for the teenagers, under the direction of Homer Fillingham. Peggy Wilson and June and Harry Carle will direct the children's activities. There will be a bonfire each night.

Free camping spaces are available for camp meeting participants. All youngsters must be sponsored or accompanied by adults. Campers should bring campers, tents or bedrolls. Water, electricity and restrooms are provided.

The camp is financed by free-will donations. The altitude is 7,000 feet, so rainwear and jackets are essential.

If camping is not possible, everyone is welcome to attend daily services. Meals are served by the ranchmen at 6 to 8 a.m., 12:30 and 6:30 p.m. The tabernacle services are at 11 a.m., 3 p.m. and 8 p.m. Group prayer meetings are at 5 p.m.

A nurse will be on duty. No dogs are permitted at the camp. Participants should sign in at the registration desk.

The grounds can be reached by the Lincoln National Forest road at the sign turning off U.S. Highway 390 about five miles west of Capitan and 15 miles east of Carrizozo, or by the road turning off State Road 37 past Nogal Lake. Reservations are not necessary. Further information may be obtained at Citizen's National Bank in Carrizozo, 88301.

A work day for all those willing to lend a hand in making preparations for the encampment will be Saturday, July 9.

Inspiration Corporation day camp this month

The younger children of Ruidoso who are ages four through 11 and who are too young to enjoy a live-in camp situation are invited to participate in a week of music and drama at Inspiration Corporation's special day camp.

Campers will rehearse every day for one week, 1:30 p.m. to 3:30 p.m. and will perform Saturday evening that week. They also may perform Sunday morning.

The cost of this one-week music and drama day camp is $20 per child. The cost will be adjusted for families enrolling more than one child.

The choice of camp sessions is as follows: session one—July 10-17; session two—July 24-31.

Children should be enrolled for the camp at Gateway Assembly of God Church at 1:15 p.m. Sunday, July 10.

Applications are available at First Baptist Church of Ruidoso Downs and Gateway Assembly of God.

Children participating in the camp will receive a free camp T-shirt.

Rehearsals for the children will be at Gateway Assembly of God Church, in the sanctuary.

Inspiration Corporation is a non-profit interdenominational organization. The corporation is run by a board of trustees made up of Christian business people.

Engagement announced

Mr. and Mrs. George McCulley of Ruidoso have announced the upcoming marriage of their daughter Tammy to Steve Hirstfeld. The couple will be married July 14 in a civil ceremony. McCulley attends Bauder Fashion College in Arlington, Texas. Hirstfeld works at the Ruidoso Municipal Airport.

Downs First Baptist hosting yard sale

First Baptist Church of Ruidoso Downs is having a yard sale beginning around 8 a.m. and lasting all day long July 8 and 9.

The sale is to raise funds for a youth missionary trip scheduled for this August.

The community is invited to participate by bringing items to sell and dedicating one-half or more of the proceeds to the youth fund. All items for sale should be priced.

The community is also invited to stop by and purchase items on display.

Pilots seminar set

"In-Flight Communications" is the topic of a free seminar at 7 p.m. Monday, July 11, at Ruidoso Municipal Airport.

All pilots and friends are welcome to attend the meeting. For further information, call Bob Izola at 257-5000.

Anyone needing additional information can call the church at 378-4611.

Evening Woman's Club to meet tonight

All area women are invited to a meeting of the new Ruidoso Evening Woman's Club tonight (Thursday) at the home of Andree Cohen. The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m.

The club will not affiliate with the National Federation of Women's Clubs at this time, but members plan to meet twice monthly to socialize.

Anyone needing additional information or directions to Cohen's house can call her at 257-4043 during the day or 258-3579 in the evening.

All-Star baseball coaches hold winning records and tradition

by Gary Brown
Sports Writer

If the records of the two Ruidoso Little League All-Star coaches mean anything, the local team should do pretty well in the district tournament in Alamogordo next week.

Head coach Rex Beatty of Security Bank and assistant coach Roger Marshall of Ruidoso State Bank have both had winning records in Little League Major Division play. They also coached the All-Star squad last season, leading the team to two victories, best ever for a Ruidoso squad.

Beatty piloted the Security Bank squad to the regular-season championship this season, and also won the tournament crown. He led Security Bank to second place last season.

Beatty got his Little League coaching career started in Floydada, Texas. He won the district championship one year. Beatty has coached Little League baseball in Ruidoso for three years. He coached the Gibson's Minor Division team the first year and has piloted Security Bank the past two seasons.

What was the key to Security Bank's success this year?

"Well, I had a mature, experienced team of 12 year olds this year," Beatty answered. "Most of the championship teams are mainly made up like that, with lots of 12 year olds. Also we had a very good outfield, and threw a lot of guys out."

Marshall, who is retiring after this season, guided his team to second-place finishes in the regular season and tournament this year. He has 10 years of Little League coaching experience in Ruidoso, starting his career in 1967 with the Elks and coaching on and off since then. He resumed coaching in 1979, piloting the Pepsi-Cola Minor Division team.

"My first two years with the Elks, we finished second," he said. The next three years we finished first.

"I'm kind of looking forward to retirement. It gets kind of tiresome doing the same old thing, although I've liked coaching. I'm looking forward to being commissioner of the Major Division next season."

Herb Ford will be the Ruidoso State Bank coach next season, assisted by Wayne Sivage.

Beatty is optimistic about the All-Stars' chances in Alamogordo.

"Overall, I'd say we've got a better balanced team than last year," Beatty said. "We've got 14 good players. I'm not sure if our pitching will be as strong, but we should have a real good chance to win some games."

Both coaches see defending champion Artesia and Alamogordo as being two of the top contenders for the district title this season.

"Artesia won it last season, and I think they've got six or seven players returning from that squad," Beatty said.

"Alamogordo should be tough too," said Marshall. "They'll be playing on their home field and that should help them."

But if the Ruidoso All-Stars follow the winning tradition of their two coaches, they should also be in the running for the championship.

Security Bank, Ruidoso State Bank lead All-Star selections

League champion Security Bank and runner-up Ruidoso State Bank each had five players named to the Ruidoso Little League All-Star team that was announced at the annual banquet Wednesday night at the Elks Lodge.

Security Bank players named to the All-Star squad included Matt Beatty, Charles Smith, Joe Gonzales, Michael Swanner and Trevor Giles. Ruidoso State players included Todd Morris, Dusty Beavers, Chad O'Neal, Rodney Montoya and Doug Friberg.

The Elks and First City National Bank each had two players selected to the "dream" squad. Matt Bailey and Jennifer Jimenez were picked from the Elks, while Dennis Ullmann and Andy Gonzales were named from First City National Bank. Jimenez is believed to be the first girl ever picked for the All-Star squad.

Rex Beatty of Security Bank and Roger Marshall of Ruidoso State Bank were again named as All-Star coaches. The two led Ruidoso to two victories in the district tournament last season. Security Bank won this year's Major Division title, and Ruidoso State Bank finished second.

This year's double-elimination tournament will begin Saturday, July 16 in Alamogordo. Ruidoso will open against Roswell East Side at 6 p.m. that day.

The All-Stars will begin practice at 6:30 p.m. today. Practices will be every day at the Little League field.

Besides the All-Star selections Wednesday night, the crowd of over 100 people saw each Major Division and Minor Division team introduced by their coaches. Each player was given a participation trophy.

Don Victor's M-Jr Branding Iron won the Minor Division championship this year. Coca-Cola was second, and Gibson's finished third.

League officials were also selected for next year. Jim Clements was reelected president and Charles Ullmann named vice-president. Linda Clements was named secretary and treasurer.

RECEIVING ANOTHER HONOR is David Ordorica (right) a Ruidoso Downs boxer who won a bronze medal in the recent National Junior Olympics Tournament. Ruidoso Downs mayor J. C. Day gives Ordorica a plaque from the people of that village showing their gratitude for Ordorica's success.

Blues beat Cardenales

The Blues took a decisive 7-1 victory over the Cardenales in a Ruidoso Men's Fast-Pitch Softball League game Wednesday night at All-American Park Field in Ruidoso Downs.

Ray Gann was the winning pitcher and also belted a home run. Lynn Willard added a double for the winners. The Blues had a well-balanced attack.

The Blues and Gibson's competed in a tournament in Carlsbad last weekend. The Blues finished second, winning four games and losing one. The only Blues loss was a 17-15 decision to the Yellowjackets in the championship contest. Gibson's won one game and lost three.

Fast-pitch action will continue tonight at All-American Park Field. The first game will start at 6:30 p.m. There will also be games Sunday at the same site and time.

Cage session

The Evening Lions Club Basketball Program is continuing at Ruidoso High School Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday of each week.

The sessions last from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. each day. Warrior boys head basketball coach Ron Geyer is the supervisor.

Anyone can participate in the program.

Tennis tourney

Entries for the Texas Club open tennis tournament Saturday and Sunday will close at 4 p.m. Friday.

The entry fees are $5 for singles and $6 per team for doubles. Men's and women's events will be played. For further information, call Tim Palmer at 257-9635.

Basketball camp

The fifth Annual Weldon Drew Basketball Camp will be at the Ruidoso High School gymnasium Saturday, July 23 to Saturday, July 30.

The camp is named after the New Mexico State University men's varsity basketball coach. It's open to youths 10 to 18 years old. Youths from all over the state have attended the camp in past years.

For more information, call Elmer Chavez at 257-9673.

Around Sports

with Gary Brown

The Ruidoso High School gymnasium has been filled with the sounds of bouncing balls and young men shouting four nights a week during these summer months.

The Evening Lions Club Summer Basketball Program is something that Warrior boys head varsity basketball coach Ron Geyer hopes will be of considerable benefit to his program.

"It's coming along pretty good," Geyer said. "I think we had around 30 to 40 guys here each night last week."

Summer programs like the Lions Club activity can help a high school-aged player improve his play a great deal. Many teenagers are going through a growing stage and can not improve that much by just playing during the regular season.

Most of the athletes involved in the program are of high school or college age. There are a few adults participating in the workouts, but the majority are youths who want to improve their basketball skills.

The sessions are from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m. Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday of each week.

Both half-court and full-court "games" are played at each session. The players also get to work on their fundamentals.

The sessions are also helping some of the Ruidoso players to prepare for the Don Haskins Basketball Camp at the University of Texas at El Paso (UTEP) July 24-30.

The Warriors have a good nucleus of players returning from last season's squad and hope to prove themselves at the UTEP camp.

"As of right now, I'm hoping to bring around eight to 12 players to the UTEP camp," Geyer commented. "Some kids might also compete in the Weldon Drew Basketball Camp."

The Weldon Drew Camp is also scheduled for this month. It will be from July 16 to July 23 in the Warrior gymnasium. Youths from all over the state have competed in this annual camp over the years.

But the big thing right now is learning more competitive play in the Lions Club sessions.

"Several of our kids are working out here," Geyer said. "Dan Ullmann, Russell Easter and Ricardo Garcia has all competed in these sessions and have done pretty well."

Geyer recently received a blow for next season when he learned 6-3 postman Stanley Sluder is moving to Albuquerque before the school year begins.

"That hurts," Geyer said. "But a coach in Ruidoso has to expect things like that. We have a lot of kids move in and out of this town each year."

So Geyer doesn't get concerned with who might transfer out or not. He's just concentrating on running a good basketball camp.

That's what summer basketball is all about.

Parker pleased with play in game

by Gary Brown Sports Writer

Robert Parker may have ended his basketball career in last Saturday's North-South All-Star game at the University of New Mexico (UNM) gymnasium in Albuquerque, but he was very pleased with his play and the Most Valuable Player award he won.

"I didn't think I'd get it because our South team lost," the ex-Capitan High School standout said about the award. "But I felt I played pretty well."

The North took a 93-86 victory, but the game was nip-and-tuck most of the way. The 6-3 Parker scored 23 points and grabbed 16 rebounds playing against 6-4 Del Trujillo, the key player for state AA division champion Escalante High School last winter.

"I guarded him," Parker said of Trujillo. "To be honest about it, I wasn't that impressed with him. I felt his teammate Michael Gonzales did a better job."

Both teams played fast-break offensives during the contest.

"We tried to run the fast break," Parker remarked. "We got a little clumsy at times. Their team (the North) had a well-balanced squad and ran a lot."

Parker was also impressed with the play of his South teammates David Stailey of Cliff High School, William Reid of Dexter High School and Troy Schmidt of Estancia High School.

Both teams practiced for a full week for the game.

"In the morning, we'd work out at the 'Pit' and in the afternoon at Johnson Gymnasium on the UNM campus," Parker said. "It was a long, hard week of practice."

Parker doesn't plan to play basketball at Pepperdine University in Los Angeles, California this fall. With his competitive basketball career probably behind him, did he have any sad feelings when the All-Star game ended? "Not really," he answered. "I was kind of glad because it had been a long, hard practice. It was a good experience, but I was kind of glad it was over."

Parker plans to take it easy the rest of the summer and work at Alto Lakes Golf and Country Club where he washes golf carts.

But college in the fall will bring a lot of hard work again. Parker plans to study pre-medicine.

If Parker does as well in medicine as he performed on the basketball court, the medical field could have an outstanding doctor someday.

Apodaca wins Capitan race

Fil Apodaca Jr. won the 10-kilometer overall title, and Malcom Skye took the overall two-mile crown to highlight action in the third annual Smokey Bear Fun Runs Saturday morning in Capitan.

Apodaca, a 22 year old from Las Cruces, won the men's 10-kilometer (6.2 miles) race in 32:21. Skye, from Roswell, captured the overall two-mile championship with an 11:45 clocking.

Debbie Provencio of Las Cruces was the first women finisher in the 10-kilometer run with a 36:11 time. Shauna Richards of Roswell took the first-place title in the women's two-mile run with a 13:36 time.

A total of 87 runners competed in the event, which was sponsored by the "Happy Hoofers of Lincoln County Running Club."

Trophies and medals were awarded to the first, second and third place finishers in the 10-kilometer run. The two-mile winners received merchandise and gift certificates from area merchants.

Special awards were given to Sunshine Trost of Capitan for most patriotic running outfit; Damen Sacoman of Alaska for runner traveled farthest; Chris Spencer of Carrizozo for youngest runner; and Edward Loudat of Roswell for oldest runner.

Spencer is six years old, while Loudat is 61.

The sponsors would like to thank the following businesses for prize donations. Capitan: Allen's Western Wear, B&L Pizza, Smokey Bear Museum, Smokey Bear Restaurant, El Paisano Restaurant, El Paisano Beauty Salon, Capitan Pharmacy, Sullivan Security Service, EMT's Capitan, Frankie Silva, Roger Garner, Jonnie Romero and Lincoln County Sheriff's Department.

Ruidoso: Back to Nature, T. L. Wilson's Sporting Goods, Safeway, First City National Bank, Ski West Sports, Pro-Ski Sports, End-of-the-Rainbow; Scholtzky's, Gibson's and Cochera Restaurant.

Carrizozo: The Grocery Basket. For further information about the Happy Hoofers and local runners, call Pat Sullivan at 354-2664.

The Incredible is new softball leader

The Incredible moved into first place of the Fort Stanton Men's Slow-Pitch Softball League with two victories during the past week.

Last Thursday The Incredible outslugged Capitan Bad News 22-12. Tuesday The Incredible nipped Pizza Inn 3-2.

In other games last Thursday, the Silver Bullets beat Belco 8-2, and the Bombers blanked Camp Sierra Blanca 10-1.

Tuesday Pizzanini knocked Belco out of first place with an 18-17 win.

The Incredible has a 12-3 record on the season with Belco second at 10-3. The Silver Bullets are 10-4, and the Bombers are 10-5.

In the annual All-Star game Monday at Fort Stanton, the North edged the South 18-17 in 11 innings.

Leroy Zamora belted a home run for the North and was also the winning pitcher. John Garbutt added three hits.

James Kirker had three hits in three trips to the plate for the South. He was also the losing pitcher. Albert Richardson also had a good day at the plate for the losers, belting three hits in four attempts.

The regular season will continue tonight with games at Fort Stanton and Carrizozo.

There will also be a Fort Stanton Invitational Saturday and Sunday. Eleven teams will be entered in it. The first game Saturday will start at 9 a.m., and the first contest Sunday will begin at 9:30 a.m.

Ski shops

"It is a different kind of crowd and shopper in the summer," Estes explained.

The shop also puts ski wear on sale in the summer, she said. Some people come to Ruidoso from Texas just for the ski wear sales.

The business has been gradually promoting tennis wear over the last couple of summers, she explained.

"It takes a while to get your reputation different," Estes noted. "It takes experimenting to see what you can sell in the summer."

"Sometimes you take a loss, but you learn what people will come here to buy."

Mac McDougal, owner of Ski West, said business has gone up 75 percent since this time last year.

"We do a lot of business in December," he said.

The shop does bigger business in the winter, but has about the same number of customers and employees in the summer, Estes said.

There is mostly tourist trade in the summer, but locals make up more of the shoppers than they used to, she noted.

"We're just a regular store in the summertime," Estes pointed out.

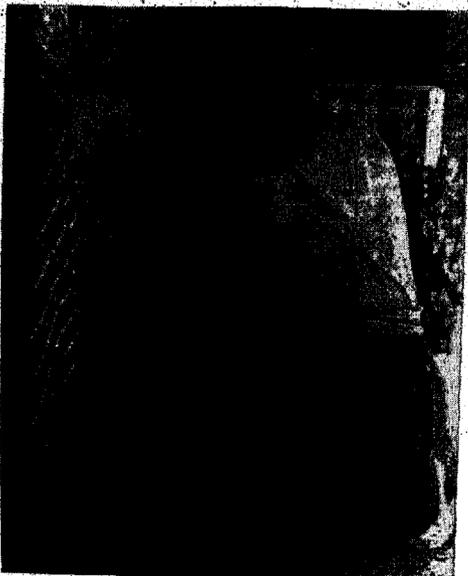

One ski rental shop does a complete turnaround for summer business—it becomes an ice cream shop.

Mike Smith, manager of the Ice Cream Shoppe, said that for their transformation, they put up plywood walls and move in counters and coolers.

It does an "okay" business in the summer, he said, but not as good as the ski shop.

The Ice Cream Shoppe opens on May 20 and stays open until Labor Day, he said. The months between seasons are spent getting rental skis and boots in shape.

Donaldson expresses the general sentiment when he says, "If we could have winter 12 months a year, it would be great."

MYRA TAYLOR, wife of Ronnie Taylor, who owns Mountain Ski Shop, hangs a Fourth of July display of casual wear in their window

SERVING UP ICE CREAM is Mike Smith, manager of The Ice Cream Shoppe, which transforms itself from a ski rental business to an ice cream parlor for the summer.

HANGING UP T-SHIRTS is Margy Brown, manager of Outback Sports. Outback Sports is trying to sell casual wear for the first time this summer.

REBASING SKIS is one of the tasks of Butch Grantham, manager of ski rental and ski repair at Morgan's Mountain Sports, during the summer.

P&Z to hear appeal on sign

A Ruidoso business owner is appealing the denial of a sign application to the Ruidoso Planning and Zoning Commission (P&Z) when the commission meets in its regular monthly session at 9:30 a.m. Monday at Village Hall.

Jack Sewell, co-owner of Aspen Appliance and Television Service, is appealing the June 1 denial of his application by the Architectural Plans Review Committee.

The sign, which was used by another business before Sewell moved his business to the Gateway Shopping Center location, previously was in violation of municipal law but was grandfathered in when the sign regulations went into effect last year, said Paul Davis, P&Z enforcement officer.

According to the law, when an illegal sign is altered or advertising copy on it is changed, it then must be brought into compliance.

Other items on the agenda for the meeting are:

Public hearing on a request for rezoning from single-family residential (R-1) to light commercial (C-1), Lot 1, Block H-2 and Tract H-2, Palmer Gateway subdivision, for Olma Newton.

 —Rezoning from R-1 to C-1, Block 6, White Mountain Heights subdivision (administrative review).

—Replat of NE/2 of Lot 4, Charlie Culver subdivision, for Charles McClellan.

—Public hearing on a request for rezoning from R-1 to C-1, NE/2 of Lot 4, Charlie Culver subdivision, for Charles McClellan.

—Variance on back lot line, Lot 36, Block 20, Forest Heights subdivision, for Linsey Pugh.

—Public hearing on a request for rezoning from C-1 to C-2 (general commercial), Lot 1, Block 1, Town and Country Estates, for Conrad Buchanan.

—Road vacation, Lot 32, Block K, Ruidoso Pine Lodge subdivision (administrative review).

—Replat of Lot 11 and N/2 Lot 12, Golf Course Estates; and replat of Lots 13, 14 and S/2 of Lot 12, Block 3, Golf Course Estates, for Evelyn Simmons, attorney for Charles and Mildred Jenkins.

—Variance of east side lot line, Lot 7, Block F, White Fir subdivision, for Woodrow Lambert.

—Road vacation, Lots 19, 20 and 21, Block 3, Riverside Addition, for Bill McCutchen.

—Road vacation, Lots 1 and 2, Block 1, Lookout subdivision, for Reba Stone.

—Replat of Lots 7 and 8, Block 2, Town and Country Estates, for R.D.R. Company, Inc.

—Replat of Lot 12, Block 4, Young Heights subdivision, for Charles Velando.

—Replat of Loverin Tract, S/2, SE/4 of Section 10 and N/2, NE/4 of Section 15; T-11-S, R-13-E, NMPM for H.F. Investors.

—Duplex to be sold to two buyers: Lot 5, Block 5, 2nd Addition to Airport West for Jim and Sue Davis.

—Preliminary plat of Sunny Slopes; a tract in Lot 5, Block 5 of Juniper Hills subdivision, for White Mountain Development Company, Inc.

—Townhouse project: Lot 11, Block 4, White Mountain Estates for Burgo Gill.

—Final plat, Phase 2A, Eagle Creek West Condominiums for Eagle Creek West, Inc.

The Silver Lining

by Daniel Agnew Storm

The Green Mountain Boy Goes to the Prairies.

The beautiful state of Vermont, rich in history and good people, took its name from its Green Mountains.

The Green Mountain Boys, under their leader, Ethan Allen, struck the first solid blow in the Revolutionary War, by capturing the Fortress of Ticonderoga on Lake Champlain, May ten, 1775.

For the last year or so, we have been fortunate in having a direct descendant of this famous force of picked men writing for The Ruidoso News, in the person of Dave Sheppard.

His lucid, important, and beautifully-written stories have attracted the attention of The El Paso Times, so that now Dave and his charming wife, Charlotte, are moving down to the foot of the mountain at Alamogordo. Dave will be a regional writer for The El Paso Times, taking the place of the brilliant and personable Doug McClellan, who is moving to the Santa Fe area.

It is good that Dave is still our neighbor just over the hill, for he will be coming up here often as part of his work, and also to visit.

Why Dave left his Maple Sugar forests with his prosperous sugar mills, and his Macintosh Apple orchards stretching out of sight over hill and dale, and older mills, and bee colonies and all the rest of the charms of his native state — from the Green Mountain to the White Mountain, so to speak — Quien Sabe? Maybe as the Spanish say, it was "El Destino" (His Destiny).

No doubt thinking that he would land in a desert surrounded by cactus and Gila Monsters, Dave found that he had simply come from one mountain to the other. To find this out was a delightful surprise, and Dave soon found himself very much at home with the apple orchards, and the trees and flowers, and the people not much different from his Green Mountain State.

His descriptions of our Autumn days here, and how they matched up with his boyhood memories of his native land — these are true classics worthy of his forefathers, the New England poets.

William Cullen Bryant, John Greenleaf Whittier, Ralph Waldo Emerson, Henry Wadsworth Longfellow, James Russell Lowell, and all the rest.

During the visit of Pope John Paul II to England, it turned out that the Archbishop of Liverpool was David Sheppard. There was no way out of naming Dave "The Archbishop" — which is not much out of line, for Dave has a deeply spiritual nature.

The other day when I asked Dave how the Archbishop was getting along, with a straight and sober face in True New England fashion, he asked:

"Have you heard that I have been promoted to Cardinal?"

(A reference, of course, to his new position with The El Paso Times.)

To use a Western term made famous by the greatest of Western writers, Zane Grey, Dave and Charlotte will be "stopping" to Alamogordo about the fifteenth.

Dave and Charlotte have left some of the sweetness of the Maple Sugar, the beauty of the Autumn leaves, the blessing of the solid friendship of the Land of the Green Mountain, among us. And we wish them every good fortune and all God's Blessings.

Smokey Bear Ranger District to hire senior citizen

The Smokey Bear Ranger District is looking for a senior citizen to perform light maintenance duties on a part-time basis this summer. Under a federally funded program, persons over 55 with a low income may work up to 1,300 hours this summer at $3.35 an hour.

Applicants should be skilled with hand tools. They will be asked to help out in campgrounds and do odd jobs around the forest. Heavy labor will not be a part of the job.

Dennis Roy, staff assistant at the Smokey Bear Ranger District, said the job offers an opportunity to work outside and supplement a low income.

Interested persons should call the Smokey Bear Ranger District at 257-4095.

STRETCH DRAMA IN GOVERNOR'S HANDICAP. Curriobot, just over 2-1 in the betting, exploded in the stretch and zoomed by the game Glover D. to rack up a brilliant length win in Sunday's $12,125 Governor's Handicap at Ruidoso Downs. The duel spanned seven and one half furlongs. Curriobot trailed the field in the early going, then rallied under a tremendous ride from Salustio Burgos.

Jockey / Trainer Of The Week

by MARK GORDON

Salustio Burgos is a veteran rider who has always shown savvy and courage.

That's why it's really no surprise he is leading the Ruidoso Downs jockey standings with nine of the 18 weekends completed at the mountain track. But what is surprising is the fantastic weekend the veteran jockey had over the five racing days during the Fourth of July weekend.

Burgos piloted nine winners, the best for any jockey this season. In addition, he won three races on both Saturday and Sunday, including guiding Curriobot ($8.60) to a one-length victory in the weekend's featured thoroughbred race, the $12,125 Governor's Handicap on Sunday.

That amazing performance boosted Burgos from fourth to first place. He holds a four-win lead halfway through the race meet.

With 30 wins, 24 seconds and 15 thirds from 223 mounts, his winning percentage is .134.

O.A. Martinez Jr. is second with 26 wins with 20 seconds and 24 thirds from 145 attempts. His winning percentage is .179.

Other top ten riders include Jacky Martin, the two-time defending Ruidoso Downs riding champion; Mike Lidberg, Larry Byers, Joe Martinez, Alex Baldillez Jr., Steve Harris, Carlos Rivas and Casey Lambert.

In the trainer standings, Bob Arnett won three races on Monday and gained another win on Thursday for a four-win weekend, and earned his first trainer-of-the-week citation this season.

Arnett, who finished third in the 1982 Ruidoso Downs trainer standings, moved into sixth place in the standings with 13 wins, 15 seconds and six thirds from 76 starts. His winning percentage is .171.

William F. Leach, last year's leading Ruidoso Downs trainer, continues to hold a solid lead with 23 wins, 21 seconds and 20 thirds from 130 starts. His winning percentage is a fine .215.

Other top ten trainers include Jack W. Brooks, Clifford C. Lambert Sr., C. Dwayne Gilbreath, Fred I. Danley, Clifton Dean, Jack W. Dube, H. Don Farris and Jimmie D. Claridge.

Racing resumes on Thursday with a 12-race card, highlighted by seven three-year-old fillies going six and one half furlongs under allowance terms for a purse of $3,600. Sparkling Horns seeks her third straight victory under regular rider Jack Wallace.

Racing continues on Friday with time trials for the Rainbow Futurity, the second leg of the Triple Crown for two-year-old quarter horses. The first and second finishers from 36 elimination divisions held in late June will compete over 400 yards for a chance to gain the finale on July 24. The 10 fastest runners will gain spots in the finale with the winner earning $239,330 from the gross purse of $688,800.

Saturday's main event will be the Jet Deck Handicap at 440 yards. Three-year-old and older quarter horses will travel under handicap weights set by racing secretary Dean McKinney for a purse of $9,000-added.

Brooks thinks he may have big winner in Mr Master Bug

by Mark Gordon

Jack Brooks may finally be convinced he's trained a horse better than Moon Lark.

"I believe he (Mr Master Bug) might be better than Moon Lark (a horse Brooks trained in 1978 to a win in the All-American Futurity)," Brooks finally admitted. "As a two-year-old, he ran kind of wild. Now he runs more like a race horse. He's just unbelievable. His personality is so good. He acts in the paddock just like he does in the stall.

"He's a wonderful horse," said the Edmond, Oklahoma, horseman after Mr Master Bug tallied a frontrunning half-length victory over Call Caleb in Sunday's $621,630 Rainbow Derby at Ruidoso Downs Race Track.

Mr Master Bug's victory was worth $215,009 to his bankroll that now stands at $1,357,737. That is the second highest figure ever earned by a quarter horse, trailing only Higheasterjet on the all-time money list.

In addition, Mr Master Bug's 21:38 reading was the fastest time for a Rainbow Derby run at 440 yards. It was the season's fastest 440-yard clocking and may well have been the second fastest 440-yard reading ever run at Ruidoso Downs, trailing only the 21:02 accomplished by Truckle Feature in the 1973 World Championship Quarter Horse Classic.

Mr Master Bug broke a coffin bone in his left hind foot after winning last Labor Day's $2,530,000 All-American Futurity. That forced Brooks and owner Marvin Barnes of Ada, Oklahoma, to bypass the Kansas Derby, the first leg of the Triple Crown for three-year-old quarter horses.

"It took us a long time to get back. But I felt he needed more time so we skipped the Kansas. But once I felt he was back in good shape, I couldn't wait to get going," Brooks said. "The trial race (when he suffered a one-length loss while running second to Call Caleb) did him a whole lot of good. I felt if he got away good today and didn't get in any trouble, they'd have to catch him."

"Call Caleb's a good horse," noted Mr Master Bug's rider Jacky Martin. "But I knew we'd try to open up and get enough of a lead since he was really coming the last 100 yards. But with about 100 yards to go, I knew we'd win. He's convinced me he's close to Moon Lark."

Owner Barnes was also elated with the victory.

"I'm really pleased. Jack did a wonderful job training him and Jacky rode a super race," said the Oklahoman who has been associated with Brooks for two years. "This has been the first tailwind he's ever had. I knew he felt really good and was ready to run a great race. I was just worried about his foot. He's some kind of colt."

Brooks and Barnes both said Mr Master Bug would be primed for the All-American Derby, the third and final leg of the Triple Crown for three-year-olds. The race is set for August 23 over 440 yards.

A win in that $1 million (estimated) race would propel Mr Master Bug to the top of the list of quarter horse moneymakers—something Barnes knew was possible from the start.

"When I broke him, I knew he had a chance to be right there," Barnes said. "Right from the start, I knew he was something special."

SOME OTHER BROTHER posts a coasting two and one fourth length win in Monday's Jockey Club Prep at Ruidoso Downs. The colt raced as the betting choice in the six and one half furlong

Easily A Twelve wants Rainbow win

Easily A Twelve, runnerup in the prestigious Kansas Futurity, tries to gain a berth in her third futurity this season when she competes in Friday's Rainbow Futurity time trials at Ruidoso Downs.

The Easy Dozen filly will be one of 66 two-year-old survivors from the first-round of Rainbow Futurity elimination trials held June 22-24. The time trials are limited to first and second-place finishers from the 36 elimination trials.

The 10 fastest runners from the time trials will advance to the Rainbow Futurity finale set for 400 yards on July 24. The winner of the second leg of the Triple Crown for two-year-olds will collect $239,330 from the gross purse of $688,800.

The time trials, each at 400 yards with a purse of $2,400, will be run as first through seventh races on Friday's program.

Easily A Twelve will face nine foes in the seventh race.

The Oklahoma-bred miss opened her career with three consecutive wins at Sunland Park and her first test at Ruidoso Downs.

Her major triumph was scoring a one and one fourth length win on March 27 over 330 yards in the West Texas Futurity. She earned $2,810 for her impressive triumph.

After winning a Kansas Futurity time trial on May 13 at Ruidoso Downs, Easily A Twelve was dismissed as a 2-3 wagering favorite with her entrymates Meganette and Jest Real Easy in the Kansas Futurity, the first leg of the Triple Crown for juvenile quarter horses.

Although she finished second, a half-length behind upset winner Double Dutch Bus, Easily A Twelve collected $90,435.

Meganette, fourth-place runner in the Kansas Futurity, is also a key entrant in the sixth race.

The Dash For Cash filly was only beaten one length by Double Dutch Bus in the Kansas over 350 yards. That was the first time in five runs she has been lower than second.

The Texas-bred filly has posted one victory with three seconds in five starts for trainer Farris. She's earned $33,838 for the San Jose Cattle Company of Pleasanton, Texas.

Meganette ran second in the 12th Rainbow Futurity elimination race.

Other key horses include Tinys Rose Bud and Dashin Angel in the first, On A High in the second, On A Stormy Day, Raise A Dandy and Bar Forth in the fifth, Meganette and Burnell in the sixth and Allotta Dial in the seventh.

Saturday's main event will be the Jet Deck Handicap at 440 yards. Three-year-old and older quarter horses will travel under handicap weights set by racing secretary Dean McKinney for a purse of $9,000-added.

Sunday's feature will be the First Lady Handicap at six furlongs. Three-year-old and older fillies and mares will compete under handicap assignments for a purse of $8,000-added.

PRESENTING THE TROPHY FOR THE GOVERNOR'S HANDICAP. Mr. and Mrs. Jack Roberts (left), Mrs. Virginia Smith (center) and jockey Salustio Burgos were in the winner's circle to accept the victory ornament following Curribot's stirring conquest of the Governor's Handicap at Ruidoso Downs. The presentation was made by Bill Thomas of the Ruidoso Downs staff. Mrs. Roberts and Mrs. Smith are sisters of the winning trainer, George H. Cosper Jr.

Sparkling Horns seeks third victory

Sparkling Horns seeks her third consecutive victory when she meets six foes in Thursday's featured race at Ruidoso Downs.

The King Of The Castle filly will compete against three-year-olds running under allowance conditions for a purse of $3,600. The race will be at six and one half furlongs.

Sparkling Horns has captured both her 1983 starts.

She snapped her maiden with a widening one and one fourth length triumph over Ball Us Out in a five and one half furlong sprint at Ruidoso Downs on June 2 and then met three-year-old fillies competing under allowance terms on June 25. Held off the early pace in that five and one half furlong dash by regular rider Jack Wallace, she started moving up on the far turn and was third entering the stretch.

In a tough stretch struggle, she took a head victory from Slalom in 1:06 3-5. As a two-year-old in 1982, Sparkling Horns ran a sixth and fourth in two tries at Ruidoso Downs.

In four career outings for trainer R.D. Hay, Sparkling Horns has two wins with earnings of $3,866 for owners Ralls C. and Suzanne N. Jones of Tatum.

The well-bred Slalom again figures to be a key contender.

A Kentucky-bred daughter of Royal Ski out of a Dark Star mare, Twinkle On, Slalom has been consistent during her three tries this season at the mountain track.

She began with an easy victory by almost seven lengths against maidens on May 29 over six furlongs. The filly rallied late to be second, just a head behind Sparkling Horns, over five and one half furlongs on June 25. She was a highly regarded $3.00-1 second wagering choice.

Her latest race produced a third-place finish last Saturday against three-year-old fillies going under allowance rules at six and one half furlongs.

She made up much ground, but was unable to overtake Pretty Lark or runnerup Celsa. She was a 4-1 third wagering choice.

Wagering favorites continue to race well

by MARK GORDON

Wagering favorites continue to do better and better at Ruidoso Downs Race Track.

Over the five-day Fourth of July holiday weekend at the mountain track, the public choices won 24 of the 60 races for an excellent 40 percent winning average. In addition, 15 ran second and 10 were third. Just 11 failed to finish in one of the top three positions.

That brought the season's figures through nine of the first 18 weekends to 164 winners, 97 seconds and 61 thirds from 439 attempts. That's a superb winning percentage of .373, slightly ahead of the national average for winning favorites of around 32 percent.

Odds-on favorites (those horses who left the starting gate with odds of less than even money) also performed well over the weekend. Six of the 13 heavy favorites won with four seconds and two thirds. That's a winning percentage of .461.

Through the season, 68 of 120 odds-on choices have won with 23 seconds and 14 thirds. That's a winning percentage of .55.

Wagering favorites enjoyed their best days over the weekend on Friday and Saturday when six won each day. Four favorites won on Thursday, Sunday and Monday.

The weekend's two biggest favorites both performed as expected. Cute Investment scored a two-length win in Friday's ninth race and Mr Easy Ed tallied a two and one half length win in Sunday's 10th race. Each returned $2.80 as a 2-5 wagering choice.

The weekend's biggest-priced winning wagering favorite was Cold Shot, who scored a one and one fourth length win in Saturday's 12th race. He paid $7.40 as a $2.70-1 selection.

Ruidoso Downs Hoofbeats

by MARK GORDON

RUIDOSO DOWNS PATRONS, horsemen and officials were saddened by the news that Double Dutch Bus injured himself over the past weekend and will not run the rest of the season. The two-year-old son of Rocket Wrangler had won three straight races here at Ruidoso Downs, including the Kansas Futurity, the first leg of the Triple Crown for two-year-old quarter horses. "Sure, we're very disappointed," noted trainer William F. Leach. "All of us, Mr. Slocum (owner Ferd from Carrizozo), our whole stable, the jockey (Henry Uriegas). You don't get a colt like him except maybe once in a lifetime. We hope maybe through surgery or a long rest, he can continue racing as a three-year-old. But he's definitely through for this season." Leach said of the Texas-bred colt who ran his Rainbow Futurity elimination race on Wednesday, June 22, scoring an easy half-length win in the 400-yard trial heat. "On Thursday and Friday, he looked really good, but on Saturday night, he showed a lot of swelling in his leg. We had him x-rayed on Sunday and it showed it was a fracture of the right sesamoid," Leach said. Double Dutch Bus opened his career with two setbacks at Lubbock Downs in Lubbock, Texas, but really showed his ability in his three races at Ruidoso Downs.

SPECIAL HANK CONTINUED his magnificent streak by winning the featured 11th race on Saturday. The six-year-old Special Secret gelding won his fourth straight race at Ruidoso Downs, taking three 870-yard dashes and then winning Saturday's feature at the thoroughbred distance of four furlongs. Special Hank, voted Ruidoso Downs' top 870-yard sprinter the past two seasons, took a one-length decision over Real Speculation in a blazing :45 1-5, the fastest four-furlong reading this season. It was speedier than the :45 4-5 accomplished by High Bounds Dance on May 22 and just three-fifths of a second off the track record of :44 3-5 set by the great Norgor on August 14, 1976. Trained by George H. Cosper Jr., Special Hank is owned by Lowell F. Hankins of Rocksprings, Texas.

THE FINE HANDICAP HORSE, El Rey Burner, made a triumphant return to Ruidoso Downs by taking a half-length verdict over Coda Mundi in the $9,800 Zia Handicap on Thursday. The five-year-old Bugs Alive In 75 horse had been campaigning against some of the West Coast's finest stakes and allowance runners at Los Alamitos near Los Angeles. As a four-year-old in 1982, he posted two wins with one second and one third from five outings. His major win was taking the Kaweah Bar Handicap over 350 yards last May. This season, he won an allowance race by almost one length and then ran third in the Shue Fly Handicap and a close fourth in the Go Man Go Handicap. In five starts this year, he's tallied two wins with one third and has collected $23,255. Trained by Elmer L. Shepard, El Rey Burner is owned by Jess Burner of El Paso.

JOCKEY CASEY LAMBERT won both halves of Friday's daily double and both horses wore program number five. He took the opener on Master Cee Jay ($58) for trainer J. Doyal Roberts Jr. and then captured the second with Passion Spot ($5.20) for trainer Clifford C. Lambert Sr. The 6-5 daily double returned a healthy $191.80.

FINE LOOKING MAN, one of the more promising two-year-old quarter horses to run this spring at Ruidoso Downs, died Thursday of what track officials reported as Colitis X. The Moon Lark colt won his Rainbow Futurity trial heat by one and one fourth lengths and was timed in 19:85, the fastest time posted by any of the 36 winners during the three days of Rainbow Futurity elimination races. The Florida-bred horse won four races with one second from six outings. He won the Spring Futurity over 350 yards by a neck on April 30 at Lubbock Downs in Lubbock, Texas. He qualified and ran fifth in the Kansas Futurity, the first leg of the Triple Crown for two-year-old quarter horses. Trained by Leo D. Wood, Fine Looking Man earned $44,466 for owner William G. Carey of Lubbock, Texas.

JACK W. BROOKS saddled the winner and runnerup in Friday's Rainbow Derby Consolation. Miss Squaw Hand, owned by Marvin L. Barnes of Ada, Oklahoma, took a two and one fourth length win over stablemate Heza Hombre, owned by Jerry-L. Wells of Purcell, Oklahoma in the 440-yard dash for the second group of 10 fastest qualifiers from 13 trials on June 17. Miss Squaw Hand ran second in last year's $2,530,000 All-American Futurity at Ruidoso Downs in her best performance while Heza Hombre earned $58,036 in 1982. The one-two sweep was reminiscent of Brooks' performance in last Labor Day's All-American Futurity when he saddled Mr. Master Bug to a win by almost one length over stablemate Miss Squaw Hand.

SALE CATALOGUES are now available for the Eleventh Annual Summer Sale for Selected Thoroughbred Yearlings set for July 29 and 30 at the Ruidoso Downs Sales Arena on the Ruidoso Downs track grounds. The sessions will begin at 7:30 p.m. each evening. The handsomely bound catalogues have special features for buyers—an index to consignors, an index to dams, and an index and reference to sires. A total of 175 yearlings will be sold—88 on the first night and the remainder on the second night. Each yearling is eligible to as many as six futurities at Ruidoso Downs and Sunland Park. In 1984, the Sunland Park races include the $300,000 (estimated) Riley Allison Futurity, the $100,000 (estimated) Fall Thoroughbred Futurity and the $15,000-added

Thoroughbred Sale Futurity. The three 1984 Ruidoso Downs races are the two-part Rio Grande Kindergarten Futurity for New Mexico-breds, the $100,000 (estimated) Norgor Futurity and the $125,000 (estimated) Ruidoso Thoroughbred Futurity. Sale catalogues may be obtained by writing Rick Henson, Director of Sales, Ruidoso Downs Race Track, P.O. Box 449, Ruidoso Downs, New Mexico 88346.

SALUSTIO BURGOS tallied three wins on both Saturday's and Sunday's programs and also won two consecutive races each day. On Saturday, he won the seventh on High Bounds Dance ($5.80) for trainer Terrell E. Davidson, took the eleventh with Special Hank ($3.00) for trainer George H. Cosper Jr. and then won the twelfth on Cold Shot ($7.40) for trainer Bobby Crenshaw. On Sunday, Burgos won the eighth with Funny Native ($5.60), the ninth with Allegiance ($10.40) for trainer Fred I. Danley and then captured the featured Governors Handicap aboard Curribot ($6.60) for trainer George H. Cosper Jr. It was the second and third times this season Burgos has ridden three winners on a single program.

MR. EASY ED tallied his third straight victory at Ruidoso Downs by taking an easy two and one half length victory in Sunday's 10th race at 550 yards. The four-year-old Hempen gelding started his streak on June 2 with a neck verdict over Bozart in a 550-yard allowance dash, then won by two lengths over Bugs Mito in a 550-yard allowance sprint on June 25. Sunday's race was also at 550 yards for allowance horses. Trained by Walter Merrick, Mr. Easy Ed is owned by George H. Suthers of Sayre, Oklahoma. Elbert Minchey rode the Oklahoma-bred dasher in the first win while Roy Brooks was aboard for his last two wins. As the 2-5 wagering favorite, Mr. Easy Ed paid $2.80 to win.

CURRIBOT SET a seasonal fastest time with his blazing 1:33 1-5 reading while tallying a one-length triumph over Glover D. in Sunday's $12,125 Governors Handicap. The time for the seven and one half furlong chase was only two seconds off the track record of 1:31 1-5 set by Atomic Girl on August 12, 1962. The previous best seven and one half furlong time was a 1:34 3-5 set by Verendo on June 3. Curribot is trained by George H. Cosper Jr. for owner Juliana Winters of Oklahoma City, Oklahoma. The six-year-old gelded son of 1974 Freakness and Belmont Stakes winner Little Current was again ridden by Salustio Burgos. He paid $6.60 to win as the $2.30-1 second wagering selection.

TRAINERS FRED I. DANLEY AND WILLIAM F. LEACH each tallied two wins on Sunday's program. Leach won the fifth with Sailing Blade ($21) for owner Mack Yates of Cherokee, Texas, and then took the seventh with Short Shrift ($4.60), a horse he owns with Yates. O.A. Martinez Jr. rode Sailing Blade while Henry Uriegas was on Short Shrift. Danley took the eighth with Funny Native ($5.60) and the ninth with Allegiance ($10.40). Both horses are owned by H.T. Hornbuckle of Albuquerque, and both were ridden by Salustio Burgos.

SILVER MITE returned the highest place price this season when the three-year-old Silver Charge filly returned $66.60 to place while winning Monday's seventh race at 350 yards. She returned $122.80 to win, one of the season's highest win payoffs but not a seasonal high. Ridden by Tommy Riley, Silver Mite is trained by Roger C. Fagan for lessor Lonnie M. Galloway and lessee L.C. Robbins of San Antonio, Texas. It was Silver Mite's second win this year with one second in five outings.

RANDI ERIN posted her third straight victory when she scooted to an easy win by almost four lengths in Monday's sixth race at six furlongs. The four-year-old Valodi mare started her streak on June 18 at Ruidoso Downs with a one and one half length win over Joy Elect for fillies and mares running for a $4,000 claiming price. She then defeated fillies and mares running for a $5,000 claiming price over six furlongs on June 26. Monday's race was for fillies and mares with an $8,000 claiming price. Owned and trained by Nathan W. Smith of Lawton, Oklahoma, Randi Erin was ridden by O.A. Martinez Jr.

TRAINER BOB E. ARNETT, third in last summer's Ruidoso Downs trainer standings, won three races on Monday's program. He started in the first with Obviously Quick ($8.40) for owner Jerry Sternadel of Wichita Falls, Texas, took the third with Pleasure of Mine ($19.00) for the Preston Farms of Burkburnett, Texas and then captured the tenth with Scots Sissy ($17.20) for owner Anthony W. Williams of Albuquerque. Jockey Mike Lidberg rode all three winners. It was the first time this season Arnett has saddled three winners on a single day's program. It was the second time Lidberg, the Sunland Park riding champion for the past season, has piloted three winners in one day.

Inside the capitol by Fred McCaffrey

SANTA FE — Some politicians are smart and some are lucky. It often appears Toney Anaya is both.

How did he guess, for instance, that this was going to be "the year of education" as a result of that national report on excellence in the schools?

Actually, he started the year looking as if education was the thing he cared least about. While the Legislature was busy following its own route, which included some heavy punishment for both schools in general and teachers in particular, Toney did little or nothing. He certainly was not in the vanguard of those fighting for more money for schools and personnel, both of whom the legislators felt had been treated too well for too long.

But that lack of interest in the topic while the lawmakers were in town gave Anaya a way to shine later.

His first reaction was one of feigned horror at hearing how badly his friends had been treated.

The ink was barely dry on his signature on new 1983 laws before he began issuing orders that his administration find new and imaginative ways to help the educators and other state employees the legislators had so grossly neglected. He would mount his white horse, he implied, and ride to their rescue.

Then came that report about how our schools are helping to produce a mediocre nation.

That, and the reaction to it, was all Toney needed. Now he was really stirring, including a promise to us that the next legislative session would be more or less dedicated to education alone—something which has not the slightest chance of coming to pass.

Then he was off to Albuquerque to sling insults at the President of the United States in a press conference immediately after that worthy addressed the national PTA convention in Albuquerque. Never mind the fact that Toney's denunciations had evidently been written long before the President spoke and were not in the slightest responsive to what Reagan said. He got on national TV as a defender of education, something almost everyone, including the President, had suddenly been converted to.

Then he kept his educational advisors up till late the night before he sailed off to accost the nation's Secretary of Education, Dr. Terrel Bell. Here too, Anaya threw the numbers around, though not very accurately, as Bell made clear to him.

At that meeting, he also attempted to go around the state's elected Board of Education by asking that certain Washington funding be released directly to the office of the governor, thus making himself a sort of substitute Superintendent of Education. (The state has one of those. His name is Leonard Delayo, and Anaya doesn't like him.)

Now he's named two more of those "blue-ribbon" panels he loves so well. One will look at higher education and one at lower education.

It's almost certain that the group examining elementary and secondary schools will recommend an appointive Board of Education. Anaya has been pushing for that, since the present set-up leaves the state Department of Education entirely outside the influence of the governor's office. That's what the people of the state evidently want, but the Governor doesn't.

It will be interesting to see if the other group, the one that looks at universities, comes out for a single board of regents to run all such institutions. Anaya was for that at one time in his campaign for governor and opposed to it later when it proved to be an embarrassment.

So we've had all this stirring around and all these noble gestures.

Have educators, educational institutions or even those folks almost nobody talks about, the pupils, benefitted at all?

Not so you'd notice it.

Letters to the editor

DEAR EDITOR:

"A Lady In Distress"

I would like to call attention to the fund drive now under way to save the Statue of Liberty, which is in dire need of repairs. (See related story in July Reader's Digest.) In three years, she will be 100 years old. About time for the "old gal" to have a new "face-lift," huh?

Seriously though, the estimated cost of repairs to Miss Liberty and Ellis Island, the gateway to America, is $230 million. President Reagan is asking the people of America to respond to an appeal to help restore the Statue of Liberty to its original condition.

Rededication ceremonies will be held in October, 1986, for the Statue of Liberty's 100th birthday. A great deal of work must be accomplished by then to make her grand again. Work which will take many, many donations from countless Americans — Americans who care deeply for this great symbol of our land of the free. She represents us all! We should give what we can freely to this worthwhile cause.

I urge the numerous organizations of Ruidoso to take this on as a "pet project." Each and every one of us can do our part to help restore this great and world-renowned monument to "life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness."

Please send your tax-deductible check or money order to The Statue of Liberty-Ellis Island Foundation, Inc., P.O. Box 1966, New York, N.Y. 10018.

Thank You And God Bless America!
SUE GOBER

DEAR EDITOR:

Over the last several months, it has become apparent the newspaper reporters are eligible to join traffic policeman as some of the most undesirable people to have around at inconvenient times. Even though he has raised the ire of some with his reporting, Mr. David Sheppard has been a distinct asset to the Ruidoso Police Department during his tenure with the Ruidoso News. He arrived not really knowing what to expect and has, many times since, expressed his admiration, both verbally and through his articles, for my officers and the department's efforts. For his support, I thank him.

I feel that the public should know of our relationship with the press. We do not "prepare" any information for them, but instead, give them complete access to our public records and files so they can determine newsworthy material within their own professional guidelines. On rare occasions, we may ask them to withhold some information for reason, or they may ask if it would be all right to report something in question. This forms our entire professional understanding. David Sheppard has never violated that trust. To me, this is indicative of his professionalism. It is indeed enjoyable to see freedom of speech and freedom of the press in action even though one may occasionally disagree with what is said or is reported.

To David, my staff and I unanimously wish him every success in the future. We will miss him around here.

Sincerely,
RICHARD S. SWENOR
CHIEF OF POLICE

DEAR EDITOR:

I wish to express my thanks to Ginger and Chuy at the bowling alley for their work with the Saturday Morning Juniors. I know how frustrating it is getting something new started, but when the parents and children realize what a good program it is, they will come around. Hang in there, Ginger and Chuy, your efforts will be rewarded and appreciated!

Also, I'd like to salute Pam Graves with the Parks and Rec Dept. for all the on-going summer programs for the young. The swimming season passes have been a Godsend for us locals. The Library, Gymnastics Academy and Carol Pearch's skating rink have all contributed greatly to a terrific summer for our youth. With all the problems the adults of the Village are having with each other, it's a relief to know that at least the kids are having fun in Ruidoso this summer!

One of Lincoln County's largest employers—Fort Stanton Hospital and Training School—is scheduled to undergo a change of identity.

Our elected officials should insist that the State of New Mexico determine its plans for the facility as soon as possible. We should also insist that those plans be acceptable to the public—in terms of use and in terms of retaining jobs.

The secretary of the state Health and Environmental Department, Robert McNeill, has invited community input about possible alternate uses for the Fort Stanton facility.

The state's announcement of plans to close the hospital and training school by the end of next year was not a surprise. Its intention to do so was announced in March. Reasons McNeill gave for discontinuing the use of Fort Stanton as an institution for the developmentally disabled appear valid.

But the question that comes immediately to mind is: what happens to the 191 employees? And that is followed by: what effect would the loss of those jobs have on the economy of the county?

McNeill has promised that nothing will be done to detract from the local economic base. Citizens would be wise to ask their county commissioners and village councilmen and trustees to find out exactly what will be done, and perhaps to make some suggestions as well.—TP

Reporter's Round by Barby Grant

Education is the hot issue across the nation of late. Since publication of the National Commission on Excellence in Education report entitled "A Nation At Risk," the plight of our educational system has been a major focus of attention from public leaders at all levels, and from the media.

By warning of a "rising tide of mediocrity" in education that "threatens our very future as a Nation and a people," the report certainly means to grab our attention. And so it should.

It contains some serious indictments.

"We have, in effect, been committing an act of unthinking, unilateral educational disarmament," the commission reports, referring to our failure to continue the push for excellence in education begun a decade ago when we were challenged by the Soviet Union's launching of Sputnik.

One of the key words in that sentence is the pronoun "we." The commission does not use its report as a vehicle for condemning those at fault; we are all at fault. The report is issued, essentially, as "an open letter to the American people."

After it grabs our attention by outlining the gravity of the situation facing us, it discusses the ways and means of amending it. And it issues the challenge to students, parents, media, teachers, administrators and legislators.

For real educational reform to take place, the challenge must be taken up in every school district across the nation, by every state board of education, in every state legislature and in Congress.

The natural tendency, unfortunately, is for those at the local level to sweep aside the report as not very pertinent to them. "It sounds great for the nation's schools as a whole, but we're doing a fine job here."

Of course there are "pockets of excellence." Perhaps Ruidoso is among those. I've certainly been witness to plenty of compliments for and bragging on the Ruidoso School District since I began covering the school beat 17 months ago.

But I also once heard a teacher comment that she had rescheduled a spelling test five times because her class was repeatedly interrupted for assemblies or special activities.

The schools may have good test scores; they may have a nationally recognized DECA club; they may have exceptional teachers and offer the second highest salaries in the state, but there is still room for improvement.

It seems the Ruidoso School District should feel fortunate to be in a better position than many schools but should look on that position as a head start in the drive toward excellence.

It was exciting to hear superintendent Sid Miller acknowledge that his "but we're better" attitude slipped away when he learned it was the attitude shared by many other schools. He noted that the local schools do have room for improvement, especially in the amount of time spent in actual classroom teaching and the severity of demands made on students.

Miller also has a number of other ideas for improving the local schools, most of which he preferred not to make public at this time. But he did lend me a copy of a speech made by Tennessee's Governor Lamar Alexander on that state's master teacher plan.

Merit pay for teachers is one of the more controversial recommendations offered in the report on education. Teachers organizations are leery of the idea, fearing it will become a means for administrators to reward their pet teachers, not necessarily their best ones. They have a valid concern.

I recall feeling outraged during college when the most challenging, intelligent and able professor in the English department was deprived of tenure over some religious/political difference of opinion with some member of the administration or board of trustees. The student body was not entitled to an explanation of any sort; we were left only to hypothesize about the true reason for her forced departure.

I recall feeling as if I'd been robbed of a valuable part of my education. The few other good teachers in the department also were upset about the decision, to which they were not privy either.

But there was nothing we could do about it. It was an administrative decision, just as were the decisions that granted lifetime tenure to those totally incompetent teachers who remained to "educate" us.

So I understand why teachers unions insist that a merit pay plan must include peer evaluation. I would suggest that students also be involved in evaluation of instructors.

However it is worked out, though, I hope the merit pay controversy at least generates some affirmative action for education. It would be a crime if all the talk resulting from the issuance of the national commission report on education were only talk.

It should be the responsibility of every parent in every community across the nation to insist that educational reform is instituted.

After all, "If you think education is expensive, try ignorance."

Letters to the editor

DEAR EDITOR:

This letter is to explain the responsibility of the Environmental Improvement Division with respect to the proposed installation of a garbage compactor near the abandoned site of the old sewage treatment plant in Ruidoso. The Environmental Improvement Board has promulgated regulations that govern the management of solid waste disposal facilities in the State of New Mexico. The main thrust of these regulations is to make sure that the solid wastes are disposed of in a sanitary manner without contaminating any body of water. There are specific sections in these regulations that empower E.I.D. to make sure that each part of garbage disposal, e.g. collection, transportation, and disposal, is carried out in a hygienic manner.

The installation of a new garbage compactor in the village disposal system constitutes, to the best of my judgment, a modification of the system. E.I.D. does not have legal authority to demand plans and specifications for such modification of the disposal system prior to its installation. We also have no power to demand from the village an environmental impact statement for such a change. However, if, later on, during the course of the operation of this compactor, the situation becomes a health hazard, E.I.D. has the full power to enforce the existing regulations to correct the problem.

The operation of a compactor usually is totally enclosed and, in my opinion, is a very clean process. Installation of a compactor saves transportation cost and makes the system economically viable and facilitates the management of the landfill because it helps to reduce the volume of garbage to a minimum before it is dumped into the trench.

Calligraphy: unique art form makes writing beautiful

by BETH HALLER
Staff Writer

Though it is beautiful writing, calligraphy is more than an attractive way to write. It has developed into an art form.

The original calligraphy was done during the Dark Ages by monks and priests working in churches and monastic libraries.

"With the advent of the calligrapher, writing was raised to the status of an art. The characters acquired beauty and grace to augment legibility. Calligraphers, rather than ordinary scribes, recorded the writings of kings and popes," notes "The Complete Book of Calligraphy."

The modern appreciation of calligraphy came in the 1920s in England. Bob Phillips, a calligrapher from Roswell, said. Calligraphy is now experiencing a revival. There are 500 calligraphy societies, and there will be a third national convention soon.

The thing that is attractive to people about calligraphy is the thought that they can do it because they can write, he said. "Many people are motivated to get into it because they think it is a 'safer' form of art.

"There's a saying in calligraphy—'Handwriting is every man's art,'" Phillips pointed out.

There are two aspects of calligraphy, he said. There is the making of calligraphy—the actual study of the construction of the letters and pen angle.

There is a difference between that and its use, he said. The letters translate into mood or art.

"Calligraphic art embodies feeling and mood into it," Phillips explained. "Like art it contrasts harmonies; (it) manipulates size, movement, texture, colors and historical styles that embody moods."

"The goal of calligraphy as an art is to take a verbal message and make it visual," he said.

He gave the example of a calligraphic work he did about a hike into the mountains. He said he tried to use lettering that would give the impression of the rocky, hilly countryside, and he built the letter into the shape of the mountain.

Besides the artistic process, calligraphy includes a legitimate, objective process for deciding consciously size, color and style, he pointed out. The environment and context must be considered.

"Much of calligraphy is not meant to be read," Phillips explained. "It deals just with the letters. Just the design of the letters is elegant. Letters are a wonderful form of motion. Each of the 26 letters is a distinctive design."

For example, he said Chinese calligraphy can be appreciated for its beauty although we cannot read it.

Calligraphy is not just lettering, Phillips pointed out. "Lettering is akin to geometry because it has precision."

"However, alphabets have graphic images and can be used to express moods."

Calligraphy is much like an impressionistic painting, he said. The letters are just another level of abstraction. "You're trying to embody the same thing a painter would."

"It is fascinating to discover calligraphy's range and its legitimacy as an art."

It is a misconception that calligraphy is easy, Phillips noted. It takes a long time to learn just like any other art form. It takes practice, discipline and interpretation.

Calligraphy also has its practical and useful side, he pointed out. It can be used in a commercial way for advertising. It also can be used for wedding announcements, but these are not the limits of calligraphy.

In his workshops he tries to stress a lot of construction methods and the basic letter structures. "These are the elements of expression that can be turned into a creative whole."

Although people learn to use many of the same letter structures such as italic or Roman, "it doesn't reduce people to sameness. Uniqueness will always be a feature of it," he explained.

It is a function of the personality and physiology of a person, Phillips concluded.

CALLIGRAPHY by Bob Phillips shows it can be an art form as well as a writing form.

Designer turns hobby into business

by BETH HALLER
Staff Writer

Ellen Helbing terms her clothes designing business a "hobby that grew."

She started her Denver-based business, Splen-denims, seven years ago.

The first thing she did was a Christmas gift for a friend. Then she made some more clothes, she said, and some shops in Vail and Denver ordered some of her clothes.

It went from there to a business that now employs 24 people, she said recently after a fashion show at Carrizo Lodge. She also had a show at Cree Meadows Country Club Sunday, July 3.

Fashion was a second career after her children were grown and gone. She said she did not want to just sit around, and she saw a need for quality merchandise.

"My children call me a recycled housewife," she said.
The business manufactures between 6,000 and 7,000 garments a year, and each is individually made, Helbing said. The Splen-denims name was created by a friend of hers in advertising, and is based on the fact that she originally worked only in denim. Helbing designs all the clothes and does the marketing. She has cutters and seamstresses who make the clothes.

It is a "cottage industry," she said. "Most of the women work at home. They are self-employed, and they contract out."

She gives them the material and the designs and shows them how she wants it done. It is all ready; they just sew.

"It is expensive to do things individually, but I don't want to go to factories because I don't want to lose the quality control," she said.

The individual work makes the stitching more detailed, she noted.

"I have always sewed, so it was natural to fall into the clothing business," Helbing explained.

She has between 80 and 100 different designs she has created. Many of her designs are adorned with appliqued flowers.

"Many of my designs are taken from nature," she said. "I do flowers and variations on them. I do graphic designs. I'm always looking for something that has a visual image that will translate into a design. Some of my designs may just come from a vivid imagination."

"I don't do high fashion; I want the clothes to last year to year. I try to put two new colors in the line each season and take some out," she said.

She stated she does not draw and cannot sketch. Using scissors and fabric is the way she designs. "Cutting and stitching, I do the first of every design."

"I go for the classic designs that are always good," Helbing explained. "However, you don't see these things very often, so it is something unique."

Most of her marketing of the clothes is done person-to-person through fashion shows. Camille Hall from Roswell does much of her marketing.

It is a full-time job, 16 to 18 hours a day, just to get the orders out, Helbing said.

"We've had fashion shows for as few as 50 and as many as 450," Helbing said.

ing said. They mainly market through the Southwest.

"These clothes are the type of thing that fits into the lifestyle of the Southwest," she explained. She booked through February for fashion shows.

Most of the advertising is word of mouth. She is recommended from one group to another.

These are the kind of clothes people need to look at and think about before they buy, she commented.

Because of the personalized selling, "you can design your own," Helbing noted. "I have some basic styles, but I adjust them for the customer's wishes."

"I do logos and special designs for people; I personalize them with names, and I do things for special occasions," she said.

One woman had her design a milk cow to put on a skirt.

She sells most of her clothes to young married women, and she sells a lot to women who are difficult to fit.

She does not make pants, she said, because they need to be fitted.

"I decided when I found out what I did best I had better stick with it," she said.

Downs man convicted of drug trafficking

Donald Ray Bishop of Ruidoso Downs, one of the men arrested last October in an undercover drug investigation conducted by the Ruidoso Police Department (RPD), was convicted recently on two counts of trafficking in a controlled substance. Bishop was arrested October 29 and charged with three counts of trafficking in a controlled substance, including two counts involving distribution of Dilaudid and one count involving heroin. Six other individuals, most of whom were Ruidoso Downs residents, also were arrested during the investigation. Bishop was tried in District Court in Carrizozo last month and was found guilty of one count of trafficking in heroin on October 23 and one count of selling Dilaudid to an RPD agent on October 29. He was found not guilty on a charge of trafficking in Dilaudid on October 23. Sentencing has been set for July 8 in Alamogordo. RPD officers worked on the drug investigation over a month-long period, terming it a "major operation." Undercover agents purchased drugs in private homes from the individuals charged. Most of the arrests were made in Bishop's residence.

Sheep killed

On Monday, June 20, three individuals pled guilty to the charge of illegally killing a barbary sheep before Lincoln County Magistrate Bill Payne in Carrizozo.

Braulio Cruz, 26, of Picacho and two Albuquerque residents, Leroy Romo and Geraldine Chavez, both 30, were assessed a total of $3,030 in fines and court costs for the violation by Magistrate Payne. The three also paid $300 in civil damages for the loss of the animal by the state and face the possibility of having their hunting and fishing privileges revoked for up to three years.

The charges stem from an incident which occurred on the evening of June 11. State Police officer Ted Burke heard shots near his home in Tinnie and observed the three dragging an animal to their vehicle. The individuals were apprehended a short time later by Burke, conservation officer Ernie Sandoval and Lincoln County Sheriff's Deputy Bart Lindsey.

According to Sandoval, there were three rifles along with blood stains and hair in the vehicle occupied by the three individuals when it was stopped. The three then led the officers back to where the animal had been left beside the road. The animal turned out to be a very young barbary sheep. The individuals were then transported to Carrizozo and booked into the county jail to await trial.

ATTENDING Newspaper Awareness Week at the University of New Mexico (UNM) recently was Ruidoso High School student Eric Strobel. The Ruidoso News helped sponsor Strobel's participation in the workshop.

June 15—Candyce Garrett reported a breaking and entering at C. Garrett Designs.

June 15—Orval Williams reported theft from a residence at 104 El Paso Street of a 12-inch black and white TV.

June 15—Terry Patterson reported vandalism to Minit Mart, $300 damage.

June 16—Bob Chrisman reported damage to three mower tractors, ball washers and golf course greens at Cree Meadows golf course, $2,000.

County Planning, Zoning Board

heard complaints about land division

The Lincoln County Planning and Zoning Board met recently and heard complaints concerning division of land and mobile home parks which possibly may be in violation of the Subdivision Regulations.

According to the New Mexico and Lincoln County Subdivision Regulations, a subdivision is the dividing of the surface of an area of land within New Mexico into five or more parcels for the purpose of sale or lease within a three-year period of time. Property that falls within this description has to be approved by the Lincoln County Planning and Zoning Board so that consumer protection for purchases will be assured. Mobile home parks also fall into the subdivision category as lots in the park are leased.

A proposed subdivision or mobile home park has to provide information which is in turn checked by the State Engineer's Office, Environmental Improvement Agency, State Highway Department, and the Soil and Water

Conservation Districts

The next meeting of the Lincoln County Planning and Zoning Board will be at 7 p.m. Wednesday, July 20, at the Lincoln County Courthouse in Carrizozo. This is a public meeting and anyone with questions regarding subdivisions is invited to attend.

Walt Wilson was commended by the Lincoln County Planning and Zoning Board at their recent meeting.

Bill Seelbach, chairman, stated that Wilson has served on various advisory boards in Lincoln County and was instrumental in the formation of the Extraterritorial Zoning Commission that started five years ago. Recently the Extraterritorial Ordinance was adopted.

In closing, Seelbach said that the people of Lincoln County have gained much because Mr. Wilson has served on these boards, providing information that has made Lincoln County a more progressive and better place.

Ruidoso children find fun, learning at library

The children of Ruidoso are able to fly away to summer fun at the Ruidoso Public Library with various activities continuing through the month of July.

Before the summer fun classes began, the library was the scene of "Zoo to You," presented by the New Mexico Zoological Society. Children were able to meet snakes, birds and furry creatures.

On Mondays children have the opportunity to learn to speak another language with librarian Ingrid Schmidt teaching a German class. They also can tone up muscles and have fun with jazzercise. On Monday afternoon there is summer reading for children grades one and up.

Tuesdays bring preschool reading hour in the morning—children hear stories, play games and sing songs. About 10 a.m. children can learn the fundamentals of wood carving. Then future majorettes come onto the scene for the twirling class.

In the afternoon, children can learn to swing their partner in folkdancing or strum their way into music with guitar lessons.

Wednesdays Ruidoso's little Ernest Hemingways make their way to the library for fun and fancy with pen and paper in a creative writing course. In the afternoon, there is more summer reading.

Thursdays children may become artists for an hour with two arts and crafts classes offered. There is another preschool story hour and more summer reading.

Fridays slow for the weekend with just a preschool story hour offered.

But the next week, the cycle of summer fun starts again with the Ruidoso Public Library offering painless learning for the children of Ruidoso.

STORYTIME at the library for children aged three to five is led by librarian Ingrid Schmitz. The children also play games, draw pictures and sing, in addition to listening to stories.

Gosdin sisters learn about raising lambs

By MARY MURPHY
Staff Writer

The girls are getting a taste of what it is like to raise livestock by preparing their lambs for the 4-H fair in Capitlan in August.

Missy and Sheila Gosdin are raising three-month-old lambs, Kinzie and Blackie. They work with them each day—feeding them, exercising them and teaching them to lead.

"We're trying to put weight on them and build up their muscles," they said. "We put the halter on them and walk them around about 15 minutes a day."

Rick Richardson of the Lincoln County Extension agency said the main objective of preparing animals for the fair is to teach the children about feeding animals, money management, purchasing livestock and responsible living.

The girls got their lambs at an auction in Las Cruces.

"You try to get the best lambs at the cheapest price," Richardson said. The girls bought their lambs for $75.

They had a choice of pigs or lambs. Sheila, 11, said "I guess I'd get a pig. The thing I don't like is that pigs are so heavy to clean out their sty. Also, lambs are a little easier to handle."

Richardson said the lambs will be judged on weight and muscling and how well the animal has been raised. The judges come from outside the county. The judges will want to see "How close this lamb is to being ready for slaughter. It can't be too fat or too skinny. There's a happy mixture of a lot of muscle and a little fat."

There is a sale at the end of the fair for prize winners, and the main objective is to get into that, he said.

The lambs are sold to the highest bidder, just like the livestock industry, and that is how money is made, Richardson explained.

Sheila's lamb, Blackie, has been sick and may not be able to be entered in the fair, so she said she will help Missy with it.

"I like to my lamb and I wait until it because I can't work it," Sheila said. "I'm going for weight, muscle and health because if it is not healthy it's not ready for the fair."

Missy said the lambs have to weigh 60 pounds for the fair. Kinzie weighs over 50 pounds and Blackie weighs about 32.

Richardson said it is intensive management of feeding and exercising for the animals.

Missy, 10, said she is one of the youngest members in the Ruidoso 4-H club. She had a choice of Girl Scouts or 4-H, and after going to the meeting, she decided 4-H was for her.

Sheila said one of her best friends took her to her first 4-H meeting, and she helped her friend with the presentation. She kept going to the meetings.

The girls said they hope to keep the lambs as pets if they do not get into the sale.

PREPARING FOR THE FAIR, Missy Gosdin pushes and leads her lamb Kinzie to strengthen his muscles before the 4-H fair in August.

Sheila Gosdin works with her lamb Blackie. The lamb has been sick and may not be ready for the 4-H fair in August.

Motorcycle Festival looking good

Excellent progress reports at a recent Ruidoso Business Association (RBA) meeting prompted RBA president Tom Deegan to predict this fall's Ruidoso Motorcycle Festival should be one of the finest and best-attended events ever staged in Ruidoso.

RBA vice president Connie Brown said she has obtained a 1983 Gold Wing Honda for the Grand Prize Drawing. Custom Dressers of Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, is drawing a matching Polstrom trailer and dressing for the Honda, reported Brown. Smith's of Ames, Iowa, has donated an Eagle III Trailer for second place in the drawing, said Brown.

RBA director Nancy Reddick reported tremendous interest sparked by the new "U.S.A. Poker Run" among people calling for information and registrations.

Sponsored by Circle K stores around the country, the "U.S.A. Poker Run" will start before motorcyclists even arrive at the festival, and has a first prize of $1,000. Pre-registered festival participants will pick up maps at five Circle K Stores in the month prior to the festival. This will qualify them for a poker hand upon arrival in Ruidoso.

Prizes of $100, $75, $50 and $25 will also be awarded for the poker run, which has an entry fee of $5.

There are also three poker runs scheduled during the festival, including a Muscular Dystrophy Poker Run, sponsored by Stanley Davidson of Milwaukee, Wisconsin.

Brown also reported interest in a new she and her husband Edward have been getting while promoting the Ruidoso Motorcycle Festival at rallies in the Midwest and Southwest.

The RBA will soon begin to solicit donations for trophies and contingency prizes for the festival. RBA secretary Flo Mead will be accepting donations for trophies and advertisements for the Ruidoso Motorcycle Festival program. She or Mary Mead can be contacted at 257-4627 or 257-4628.

Charmelle Hill will be accepting prizes for the contingency prize drawing based on behalf of the RBA Club, which will sponsor the event. She may be contacted at 257-7865.

Secretary Mead said every business donating a trophy or contingency prize will have its name published on the "Contributors' Page" in the festival program, and receive a motorcycle window decal.

String Workshop students picked

By MARY MURPHY
Staff Writer

Twenty-five music students from around the country have been selected to participate in the first annual Ruidoso String Workshop for two weeks this August, at the Lee Junta Guest Ranch in Alto.

Deadline for applications was June 1, and many applicants reportedly had to be turned away. Students from as far away as Maryland and California will be attending the workshop, taught by distinguished artists of the Las Cruces Symphony and faculty of

New Mexico State University.

Danny Flores and Geni Jordan represented Ruidoso on the selection committee, and scholarship monies raised through the local community helped defray tuition expenses for many of the registrants.

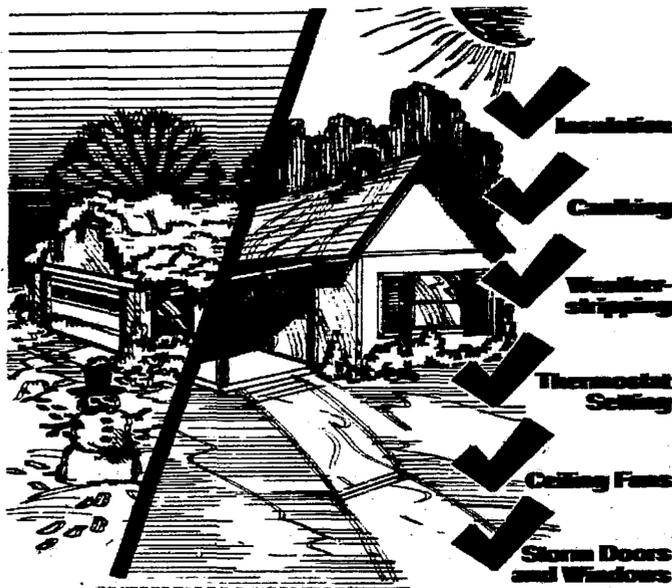

A series of five free performances by workshop students and faculty will be put on for the benefit of area residents and visitors. Evening concerts are scheduled August 13, 14, 18 and 20 and an afternoon concert is set August 21.

Also, Lee Junta owners Bob and Katherine Finley invite anyone to stop by the guest ranch with a picnic lunch anytime during the workshop to listen during rehearsal and teaching sessions. Lessons, rehearsals and practice sessions will be going on from 9:30 a.m. to noon and 1:30 p.m. to 5 p.m. daily during the workshop, August 7 to 21.

Organizers are anticipating a very successful first year for the string workshop in its new location. Katherine Finley indicated, Area residents and visitors are encouraged to mark the dates on their calendars so they will be sure to take advantage of this special chamber music event.

Season-Proof Your Home

The same principles of good energy management which keeps your home warm in winter can help your home stay cool this summer. Weatherstripping, caulking, and proper insulation will help keep the cool air in and the summer heat out. Be sure to check insulation around air-conditioning ducts, clean or replace filters, and check your room thermostat. A comfortable summertime setting of 78° will help you use energy wisely. For more energy-saving tips, ask for our free booklet, "A Guide To Better Home Energy Management."

A CONTRIBUTION of $10,000 to the Ruidoso-Hondo Valley Hospital by Mr. and Mrs. Charles Jenkins brought Dr. Michael Stone and hospital administrator Ken Moore together to look through catalogues of new equipment. The donation was the Jenkins' second large contribution to the hospital. Stone, the couple's physician, will help the hospital decide what to purchase with the money.

mon, Shirley Smith and Ruth McGuire were inducted into the club at a recent meeting.
