

Valley autumn

Though the aspens get most of the glory, their cousins the poplars are no less spectacular in their fall coloring. Some beautiful examples are to be found in the Hondo Valley east of Ruidoso along Highway 70. Visitors to the valley find themselves in a Peter Hurd landscape come to life in a 360-degree panorama. From the Gateway area of Ruidoso, down through the Downs to Glencoe, on past Hurd's home in San Patricio to the town of Hondo, the stately poplars point skyward like the tips of upended paintbrushes dipped in yellow gold. This photo of the Coe Ranch, home to poplars of all sizes, was taken Sunday afternoon.

New Mexico Law Enforcement field trainer Judy Moss makes a point during Friday's seminars on child abuse and neglect, incest, domestic violence and rape. Moss spoke to about 25 members of the Ruidoso and Ruidoso Downs police departments.

Wife beating: 'the silent crime'

by BILLY ALLSTETTER
News Staff Writer

Wife beating

It has been called the "silent crime." An American affinity for violence, the common view that the wife is property of the husband, and a cultural belief that a home is a man's castle have all contributed to make the police and court systems of America view wife beating a "personal matter" that should be handled privately.

But every year some 2,000 to 4,000 women are beaten to death, according to Time magazine. Close to six million wives are abused by their husbands in any given year. Time also states, "More police are killed answering domestic calls than in any other situation."

Wife beating and husband beating to a much lesser extent is a serious and widespread problem in American culture.

As attitudes about women slowly shift, the "silent crime" slowly becomes louder. The Ruidoso Police Department Friday was a part of the growing noise about domestic violence.

For eight hours, approximately 25 officers listened to seminars on child abuse and neglect, incest, domestic violence and rape. The courses were part of a field training project sponsored by the New Mexico Law Enforcement Academy and funded by a grant from the Department of Human Services.

While child abuse and neglect, incest and rape are very serious crimes, police in Ruidoso rarely come in contact with those situations. Answering domestic disturbances, on the other hand, is a regular, if hated, duty.

Ruidoso Downs police officer Roger Riley estimated his department answers a domestic disturbance call almost nightly. Time magazine reported that the nation's police spend one third of their time responding to domestic violence calls.

The fact that more police are killed answering domestic disturbance calls than any other call makes it understandable that many police hate those calls more than any others. A number of Ruidoso police officers have been injured answering domestic disturbance calls.

Ruidoso police officer Bob Kenney said he gets almost sick to his stomach when he has to answer a family fight. Officer Skip Hazel's memory of having someone yell, "Watch out! He's got a gun!" while answering a family fight call on his first night as a policeman still makes him edgy when he answers those calls years later.

As they discussed domestic violence Friday, the thing that appeared to frustrate the officers most was the fact they see the same families beating on each other again and again and again.

Judy Moss, field trainer for the New Mexico Law Enforcement Academy, confirmed that the violence within a family often occurs in escalating cycles with three distinct stages.

The tension building stage, the actual violent battering stage and the loving or denial stage all circle endlessly in an escalating cycle of violence, said Moss.

According to Dr. Lenore Walker's paper on the cycle theory of battering, a woman can sense the man becoming somewhat more edgy during the tension building stage. He is more prone to react negatively to frustrations. He begins to lash out at her for some real or imagined wrong doing, and quickly apologizes or becomes docile again.

A woman often attempts to calm down the batterer by becoming nurturing, compliant and anticipating his every whim, states Walker.

If she does her job well, then the incident will be over if he explodes, then she assumes the guilt, writes Walker. The woman reasons that perhaps she did deserve the abuse and often identifies with her aggressor's faulty reasoning.

Whatever happens, the tension continues to build and communication begins to break down. Efforts to deal with the situation become ineffective.

Eventually the batterer strikes out in an acute violent episode. Sometimes it can even be provoked by the woman, who sees the violence coming and hangs onto some feeling of control by naming the place and time of the abuse.

The batterer often starts out wanting to teach the victim a lesson and stops only when he feels she has learned her lesson, writes Walker.

Police intervention during this violent stage can lead to injury to the officer when the raging batterer turns his attentions to the police.

That is why Ruidoso officers are so careful when they are called to a family fight. During discussions with trainer Moss, officers said they almost never answer a family fight call alone. If one officer arrives on the scene before a backup, he waits.

They usually approach the house with their lights turned off, and try to listen to what is going on inside the house. When he knocks on a door, officer Jerry Warf said, he stands at the side, well out of the path of a potential gun blast through the door.

The officers then enter together and try to separate the fighting people and calm the inflamed emotions.

New Mexico statutes state that a "peace officer may arrest a person and take that person into custody without a warrant when the officer is at the scene of a domestic disturbance and has probable cause to believe that the person has committed an assault or a battery upon a family or household member."

"We rely on discretion," said Ruidoso police lieutenant Dave Pfeffer.

If a woman shows visible evidence of a beating and the husband has blood on his hand, the police can arrest the husband, said officer Gonzalo Cordova. More often the "probable cause" is lacking and the woman must file a complaint against her husband.

This can be very unlikely if the police arrive during the final loving or denial stage of the domestic violence.

Pfeffer said the police, however, can face danger even when they enter after the couple has made up.

After the rage is expressed, the husband often becomes extremely sorry for what he has done, writes Walker. He is genuinely sorry for what he has done and tries to make it up to the wife.

"I'll never do it again. I promise," Jim Mason told his battered wife as he snuggled up to her in the movie shown to the officers at the seminar.

He believes he can control himself. His wife wants to believe him, and neither will listen to the police.

"You have to know when to get out," said Pfeffer. Otherwise the reunited couple may turn on the police, he explained.

Local forester attends national convention

by TIM PALMER
News Editor

Recreation forester Randy Herzberg of the Smokey Bear Ranger District was among 2,500 foresters attending the recent convention of the Society of American Foresters at Portland, Oregon.

Theme of the meeting was "New Forests for a Changing World," and Herzberg indicated he left with a changed attitude.

The Society, which Herzberg joined last spring, is totally separate from the United States Forest Service. Attending the convention were professional foresters from municipalities, states, Bureau of Land Management, National Park Service, universities, and private industry, including the big timber companies like Weyerhaeuser and Louisiana Pacific.

Herzberg pointed out that the convention coincided with the 50th anniversary of the famous Tillamook Burn. The Oregon forest fire consumed a quarter of a million acres of timber including some of the country's finest mature Douglas fir in August of 1933. After the fire, Herzberg said, the state went in and stopped erosion, reforested, and built a road system for better fire protection. This year, he noted, some timber was harvested from the burn area. Thus an underlying theme of the convention was a celebration of what had been accomplished after the Tillamook Burn.

Seminars at the convention dealt with subjects like regeneration research, fire, logging activity, the technical end of nursery products and seedlings for planting. Also discussed was genetic engineering and what it offers to forestry research.

Herzberg said he discovered that his own career as a forester—spent in the Forest Service in the West—had given him a limited view of what forestry is all about.

"This convention really kind of opened my eyes that the world of forestry doesn't completely revolve around the Forest Service," he said.

He mentioned he was impressed with the quantity and quality of wood fiber being grown in the Southeastern United States. Cutting of lumber in the Pacific Northwest is "starting to show," he said, and big timber companies are beginning to shift their emphasis to the South.

Those corporate giants are starting to listen to the public, Herzberg added.

A big point was made at the convention of trying to inform people and get them involved, he said.

The Forest Service itself has said for some time it solicits public input, but an attitude of "we're pros" kept the agency from being truly open to outside ideas, Herzberg indicated.

"I think that's changed somewhat," he said. Now, he believes, the agency is "listening in earnest."

"We realize that we don't know it all," he added. He pointed out that public input can yield ideas the agency may not have thought about, or put them in a different light.

In past years, Herzberg noted, not much thought was given to visual quality. If it had, some of the unsightly clear-cut areas might not have occurred.

On the convention theme, he pointed out that a lot of the nation's old forest has been taken for saw logs, and new forest is growing in its place. New forest is characterized by intensive management and smaller trees.

People are accustomed to old forest for recreation, Herzberg noted, but they are having to get used to using the younger type forest. The private sector is beginning to develop recreational use of forests.

Owner distressed at dog's death, animal control defends action

by TIM PALMER
News Editor

A woman is unhappy because her dog was put to sleep within hours of being taken to the Ruidoso animal control officer.

The animal control officer acknowledges the dog was destroyed, but feels the action was justified because the dog was sick and was not wearing any identification.

On the morning of Wednesday, October 26, "Christian," a 16-year-old cocker cross belonging to Diana Meyer, was taken to the police station in Ruidoso by Dave Jones. Jones lives near Buck and Diane Meyer in the Little Creek county subdivision, and Christian had been hanging around his house.

Diana, who had been in the hospital, said her husband heard on the radio, the same morning that animal control had the dog. She went to the holding facility at Fort Stanton that afternoon to pick up Christian, but the dog was not there.

Animal control officer Buddy Dean had left Wednesday for a meeting in Santa Fe, and Mrs. Meyer said she thought he must have taken Christian with him.

"God, I didn't think he'd shoot her within two hours," she said.

Dean called the Meyers long distance that evening to tell them what had happened.

"That's right, because the animal was sick," said Dean when asked if Christian had been put down. He stated the dog was regurgitating and drooling.

She was killed by injection, he said. According to Dean, state law requires that a dog have an identification tag and that it not be running at large, and that an injured or sick animal be destroyed "by euthanasia."

Mrs. Meyer said Christian did not wear identification because at its age, the dog was bothered by a collar. She said she had vaccinated the dog herself, as is her practice with family pets.

"I'm not saying the animal was deathly ill," said Dean. But he said he could not take the chance of holding a sick dog and infecting the other animals in his kennel. He added it would have made no difference had he not been leaving town that day.

Dean said if an animal is injured or sick and is wearing a license tag, it is taken to the veterinarian and traced. "Without any identification we have no means of tracking them down," he said. "Animals can't talk."

Mrs. Meyer said she had asked to be placed on the agenda of this week's village council meeting to make her unhappiness over the incident known. She said Jim Wooldridge, who has the animal control contract, had taken the attitude she was wrong when she contacted him while looking for Christian.

"This was sad. I hate that it happened," said Dean. He said he loves animals or he would not be in the business.

In response to a question, Diana Meyer said her little boy is too young to be aware that Christian is gone.

"It's me that's taking it pretty hard," she said, pointing out that she owned Christian since the dog was six weeks old. "It's like somebody shooting my child."

First City names officer Lodgers to meet Tuesday

W. Kerry Boyd, a New Mexico native with 15 years of management and banking experience, has joined First City National Bank as vice-president and loan officer.

"Kerry Boyd has a broad background in management and lending," said First City National Bank president Joe Loving. "We are proud to have him as a part of our team."

Boyd is a graduate of New Mexico State University with a bachelor of science degree in agricultural economics. Upon graduation, Boyd worked in the cattle industry.

He began his career in lending in 1970 as a field representative for Albuquerque Production Credit Association. Boyd advanced to administrative positions at First National Bank in Albuquerque, and later served as vice-president of Hot Springs National Bank in Truth or Consequences.

He has been self-employed in the ranching industry since 1978. He has also been owner and president of Tenco, Incorporated, a company involved in development of energy management systems.

Boyd has been active in a variety of civic and professional associations.

W. KERRY BOYD

serving as director of the Sierra County Fair board and chairman of the Deming Industrial Development Commission.

Boyd is joined in Ruidoso by his wife Rosina. She is a graduate of the University of Albuquerque with a degree in business administration. She also attended the University of the Americas in Mexico City, Mexico.

Ruidoso Lodgers Association will hold its monthly meeting at 2 p.m. Tuesday, November 8, at Ruidoso Public Library.

According to Robert Ivy, president of the association, the group will hear a presentation from the AdComm company on satellite cable television systems.

Members will also discuss: —A new book issued by the association listing Lodgers Association members, to be distributed to local restaurants.

—The one-quarter percent gross receipts tax.

—Plans for the Christmas party.

RMC to meet

The Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce Retail Merchants Committee will hold its monthly meeting at 7:30 a.m. Tuesday, November 8, at the Village Inn Pancake House, located at Cliff Drive and Highway 70 near the "Y".

Fort Stanton change proceeds

by DARRELL J. PEMR
News Staff Writer

"We are proceeding carefully and cautiously," said Carolyn Klintworth, New Mexico Health and Education Department spokesperson for the Fort Stanton Hospital and Training School project.

Fort Stanton, currently a facility for the care of developmentally disabled clients, has been recommended for conversion to a long-term alcoholism rehabilitation facility by the Health and Education Department.

Fort Stanton is currently working with other developmentally disabled centers in New Mexico such as the New Horizons group home in Carrizozo. When officials judge clients are ready for transition, they are placed in one of the group homes.

"We're trying to take a very systematic approach. We're trying to be sure the clients match up with community projects," said Klintworth.

According to Klintworth, a special geriatric program has been set up at New Horizons to handle elderly clients. The facility is able to handle as many as 10 clients.

Klintworth also said that special concern has been put on keeping family and friends together.

According to Fort Stanton administrator Mark Delgado, eight clients have so far been moved to New Horizons. Delgado expects a total of 10 clients will be moved out of Fort Stanton to group homes around the state by the end of December, another 10-12 by the end of March, and at least five by the end of June.

"That will leave us with about 100 clients," Delgado said. "We will decide about them at the end of the fiscal year."

Delgado said the progress of the group homes in dealing with the clients they receive will determine how many clients Fort Stanton will send them.

According to Arturo Sandoval, public information officer for the Health and Environment Department, support for the changeover is building.

"The recommendation has been made to the governor, and he has not yet decided. It appears likely that he will go with it," Sandoval said.

Most of the current staff at Fort Stanton will be kept and retrained if the facility does become an alcoholism rehabilitation center, according to Klintworth.

"A lot of the skills the staff have are very adaptable," she said.

Wife beating

"And you back out," said Hazel. Even when a woman files a complaint against her husband, most of the time she will drop charges, report the Ruidoso officers.

She remains with her husband. Using any number of reasons, from economic dependence to fear of losing custody of children, to guilt about the failure of her marriage, the woman hangs in there, hoping the violence will stop.

But the violence will continue.

"Leaving is probably the best strategy," states a booklet published by the New Mexico Commission on the Status of Women. "No matter how long he has been beating you, the situation will never change as long as you are there for him to beat. The first time you flee from a beating may be the first step toward stopping the beatings."

"It's about the only thing that works," said Moss.

A woman can flee to friends, family or shelters for battered adults. Most shelters have mandatory counseling sessions with other women who face the same problems.

The first shelter for battered women opened in a private home in Pasadena, California, in 1964. Now there are approximately 800 in the country. Alamogordo has a Center of Protective Environment that can be reached by calling 437-2673. The Refuge—The Shelter for Battered Adults can be reached in Roswell by calling 624-0666.

"People who batter can be taught to stop," said Moss.

Both the battered and the batterer must learn to take responsibility for their lives in order to break the vicious cycle of domestic violence, said Moss. The batterer cannot blame the problem on alcohol, job problems, momentary loss of control. The battered woman cannot be trapped by the passive role society teaches her.

John Carver, special assistant to the district attorney, said help can be found at the Counseling Center in Ruidoso. He suggested officers and judges try to get the battered and the batterers to make appointments with skilled help.

If families don't reach out for help, domestic violence will remain "the silent crime."

Crime of the Week

On October 23, between 9 p.m. and midnight, a person or persons broke into a U-Haul parked at the Ruidoso Inn parking lot. Entry was gained by cutting off the padlock.

The thieves took the following from the trailer: a Tama drum set with cymbals, assorted drum heads, microphone stand, three Shure microphones, a Beyer microphone, assorted cables, two Sanyo cassette players, a Fender twin reverb amp, a portable Coleman stove, a gray toolbox with Craftsman tools, a Sears hydraulic jack, a flashlight, and a cardboard box of assorted kitchen utensils. The estimated loss was in excess of $6,000.

Crime Stoppers is offering up to $1,000 for information leading to the arrest and Grand Jury indictment, or Magistrate Court bind-over of the person or persons involved in this theft.

Crime Stoppers is also offering $300 for information that leads to the arrest and indictment or bind-over of persons committing the offense of burglary. Crime Stoppers will pay cash awards for information that solves other felony crimes.

Anyone who has information on criminal activity is urged to call Crime Stoppers at 257-4545. Persons calling may remain anonymous.

Coming up ...

Author to speak at Ruidoso library

Norman Zollinger, author of "Riders to Cibola" and "Corey Lane," will speak at the Ruidoso Public Library 7:30 p.m. Wednesday, November 16. Zollinger, of Albuquerque, has also written for the New York Times Travel section, New Mexico Magazine, El Palacio and the Albuquerque Journal.

Both "Riders to Cibola" and "Corey Lane" spent more than four months on the Albuquerque Journal Best Seller List when they first came out. The two books were inspired by the author's visits to the Tularosa Basin. Riders to Cibola won the Southwest Award for Fiction of the Border Regional Library Association and the Golden Spur for Best Western Novel of the Year.

The evening with Zollinger is being sponsored by the Friends of the Library.

Drama at Downs Baptist Church

"The Proxy", a dramatic presentation, will be performed by the Covenant Players at 11 a.m. Sunday, November 13, at the First Baptist Church of Ruidoso Downs.

The Covenant Players are an international repertory drama group. In 18 years of operation, they have performed over 575,000 times in 25 different countries around the world.

With 85 full time touring groups, they have stirred and challenged people to take a closer look at themselves and the practice of their faith, according to Dale McClesky, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Ruidoso Downs.

The Players will also be meeting with the High School Youth at 9:30 a.m. Sunday, November 13. The church is located one mile east of the racetrack. For more information call 378-4611.

Woman's Club to hear students

The Ruidoso Federated Woman's Club will meet 1:30 p.m. Wednesday, November 9, at the Clubhouse on Evergreen Street.

The executive board meeting starts at 4 p.m.

Three high school sophomores who attended Girls' State last summer will speak. The Woman's Club sponsored three people who attended the Hugh O'Brian Youth Leadership Conference on the campus of New Mexico University in June.

The three are Brandi Adcock, Ruidoso; Gabriella Gomez, Honda; and Rebecca Phillips, Capitan.

A newsletter sponsored by the youth foundation contains a plea to high school principals to search for leadership potential in students.

A paragraph in a letter by Hugh O'Brian to the principals says: "I'm sure you know Albert Einstein was labeled a backward student, and Thomas Edison was considered apathetic toward school. Yet, both of these men eventually dared to dream and changed the tomorrows we take for granted. Perhaps there's one of these unrecognized leaders walking the corridors of your school. Please, give this person the chance to affect tomorrow."

The address of the Hugh O'Brian Youth Foundation is 10880 Wilshire Boulevard Room 1500, Los Angeles, California 90024.

Simon comedy this week

The Sunshine Boys, a Neil Simon comedy, will be performed by the Ruidoso Little Theater at Cree Meadows Country Club November 11, 12, 13, 18, 19, 20, 25 and 26.

The Sunshine Boys is a comedy about two vaudevillians trying to make a comeback in television. The play will be directed by Carl Morey and will star Duane Byars and Sherman Atwood as the vaudevillians Willy and Al.

Curtain time is at 8 p.m., with dinner being served at 6 p.m. Tickets for dinner and the show are $15 and $5 for the show only. Tickets are available at Schlotzsky's, the Hospital Pharmacy and Cree Meadows Country Club. There will also be a matinee showing at 2 p.m. Sunday, November 20.

Writing workshop

This Thursday Bill Bridges, director of the New Mexico State Writing Institute, plans to lead a writing workshop for students from grades one through twelve at the Ruidoso Public Library.

This workshop is in conjunction with the gifted students program. Teacher Galen Farrington said all students "are welcome to participate in this particular program."

For more information call Galen Farrington at 257-7324.

Gifted students group to meet

The Ruidoso chapter of the Association for Gifted and Talented Students will meet at 7 p.m. Monday, November 7, at La Junta Guest Ranch. All interested people are invited to attend. For more information call Sue Dolgener at 336-4844.

Drug discussion

Ruidoso Village Hall is reserved tonight (Monday) for interested persons to talk about last Wednesday's broadcast "The Chemical People."

Anyone interested in working on a planning session in talking about adolescent drug use in Ruidoso is welcome.

Part two of the two-hour broadcast will be shown Wednesday night at 7 p.m. Nob Hill Elementary School and White Mountain Middle School will have televisions available in the cafeterias at both places.

The meeting starts at 7 p.m. and is expected to last until 9 p.m.

Speech, drama clinic Friday

High school students will participate in The Fall Speech and Drama Clinic this Friday and Saturday, November 11 and 12. It is sponsored as a joint endeavor between the Chapter II Fine Arts Grant and the Satellite Projects of the Gifted Program. It will be at the La Junta Guest Ranch. Check-in time will be between 4 p.m. and 5 p.m. on Friday night.

Group sessions will start promptly at 5:30 p.m.

All parents are invited to attend "Parents Night" 7 p.m. Saturday, November 12, when the students will demonstrate their skills.

For information, call Sandy Gladden or Judy Shaw at the high school at 257-7324, or Dlorly Steirwalt at the middle school at 258-4150.

Book fair starts today

Today is the first day of the book fair at White Mountain Middle School.

The main goal of the fair, according to librarian Ellie Keeton, is to encourage reading in the home by making books available for purchase in the school. Prices range from under $1 to $15.

The fair will run from Monday through Friday and hours will be from 8:30 to 3:30 for students at the school; hours for adults and elementary students from Nob Hill will be 6 to 8 p.m.

Library aides stop for a few minutes as they prepare for this week's Book Fair at White Mountain Middle School. Students are Beverly Day in front; Roger Mendez, Laura Clark and Gene Ice in middle; and Carey Naron on top.

Ruidoso art guild forming

The Ruidoso Art Guild is planning a second organizational meeting 8 p.m. Monday, November 14, at the studio building of the Carrizo Lodge.

Persons interested in the advancement of art in Ruidoso are asked to attend this meeting.

This organizations intends to act as a springboard for art competitions and shows, workshops, paint-outs and special programs by guest artists.

For further information contact Ken Hosmer, at 257-9131.

Ruidoso High School's Cisco Bob led almost from start to finish in capturing first place in the boys division of the District 3-AAA cross-country championships at the Inn of the Mountain Gods Saturday.

Bob, a wiry junior, won the three-mile race through pine-surrounded terrain in 16:11, his best time of the season. Sal Garcia of Silver City finished a distant second in 17:27.

Silver City won the team competition, beating the Warriors 23-36 in the boys division and 17-42 in the girls division. Both teams qualified for the state meet in Albuquerque next Saturday as no other district teams were entered.

Bob led by about 25-30 yards halfway through the race, but opened up a considerable distance between himself and Garcia over the last mile and a half.

"He looked good," said Warrior coach Ronny Maskew of Bob. "That's his best time of the year."

Bob finished second in the 1,500 meters last spring in the AAA division state track meet.

Sophomore David Ordorica of Ruidoso finished fourth in 17:42. Other Warrior finishers were Francisco Olvera, ninth in 18:12; Gabe Tam, 10th in 18:15; and Curt McClellan, 12th in 18:25.

Liz Colson of Silver City won the girls competition in 19:50. Freshman Rachel Kaydahzime was the top Warrior finisher with a fourth-place 21:05 clocking.

Other Ruidoso girl finishers were Deanna Peso, eighth in 23:15; Stacy Ivy, ninth in 23:15; Rosemary Tkacsik, 10th in 24:05; Gia Rose, 11th in 24:58; and Mavis Geronimo, 12th in 26:13.

"The times weren't quite as fast as I thought they would be," said Warrior girls coach Sergio Castanon. "However, we've got another week to prepare for the state meet and we're building something for next season."

This was only the third meet for the Ruidoso boys and the first one for the girls.

The state meet will be at Milne Stadium in Albuquerque. It will start at 9:30 a.m. Saturday.

Gia Rose (foreground) and Stacy Ivy of the Ruidoso High School girls cross-country team run up the course during the district 3-AAA meet Saturday at the Inn of the Mountain Gods. Ivy finished ninth and Rose 11th in the competition.

Hoopsters practicing

The Ruidoso High School boys and girls basketball teams are busy with practice this week.

The boys started last week and the girls are beginning practice this week.

Head girls coach Sergio Castanon has several returnees back from last season's squad that finished at 9-13.

Junior Stacy Ivy, a 5-10 honorable mention district pick last season, leads the returnees. Other players back from last year's squad include junior Gia Rose, senior Lillian Lopez and senior Jackie Jefferson. Diane McClure, a 5-11 transfer from Texas, should also help out.

The Warrior girls lost most of their games by less than eight points last season, so any sort of improvement could give them a winning season.

A good nucleus is back from last season's winless boys team, including all-district honorable mention picks Gilbert Rivera and Dan Ullmann.

Rivera is a 5-6 senior guard with a good outside touch and quick moves. Ullmann, a 6-4 sophomore, gives the Warriors some height in the middle.

"Defense should be our strong point," said Warrior head boys coach Ron Geyer. "The kids have really worked hard. No one has a starting berth nailed down yet."

At least 25 players have come out for the early practices and Geyer expects more players to be out now that football season is over.

Warriors defeated by Deming in finale, 33-13

by GARY BROWN
News Sports Writer

Despite its best offensive performance of the season, the Ruidoso High School varsity football team lost a 33-13 decision to visiting Deming Friday night in the season finale.

Once again, mistakes hurt the Warriors, who ended up 0-4 in district play and 1-9 (the one win was later forfeited) on the overall season.

Ruidoso fumbled the ball five times, losing it twice. The Warriors also had an interception run back for a touchdown, which destroyed any chances they had for a comeback.

The mistakes ruined the Warriors' top offensive effort of the season. Ruidoso gained 236 yards rushing, with 117 of them coming on quarterback Russell Easter's 10 carries. The Warriors also picked up 61 yards passing. Deming had 132 yards rushing and 78 passing.

Still, Deming led the entire contest. The Wildcats scored on the first possession of the contest, driving 45 yards in six plays. A long kickoff return to the Ruidoso 45 put Deming in scoring position off the bat.

A couple of screen passes put Deming at the 11. Two plays later, quarterback Kelly Ganaway ran in from five yards out for the touchdown.

Manuel Montano rushed in to block the Deming extra point kick. However, the Wildcats still led 6-0 with 4:26 remaining in the first quarter.

A fine kickoff return by Wade Proctor to the 50 put the Warriors in fine field position. However, Ruidoso fumbled on the next play and Deming took over.

The Wildcats added their second touchdown after another Warrior fumble late in the first period. Deming drove 19 yards in five plays for the score, with Ganaway hitting Eric Duncan with a nine-yard pass for the touchdown.

Again, the Warriors blocked the extra point kick as sophomore Bobby Dickinson got his hands on the ball.

The Warriors got a drive going early in the second period. Sophomore Michael Williamson ran 33 yards through several tacklers to the Deming 35. But two plays later, Ed Smiley stepped in front of a Warrior pass on the sideline and picked it off, returning it 65 yards for a touchdown.

This time the extra point kick was good and Deming took a 19-0 edge into the locker room at halftime.

But the Warriors came out fired up in the second half.

Easter returned the opening kickoff to the Deming 31. He got a couple of good blocks, broke one tackler and almost went all the way.

From there, the Warriors scored in seven plays for their first score.

After a five-yard loss, Williamson ran for 12 yards to the 24.

Four more running plays put the ball on the Wildcat 15. Easter then ran in for the score on a keeper. Gary Gregson's kick was wide, but the Warriors had closed the gap to 19-6 with 7:34 left in the third quarter.

But Deming put the game on ice late in the third period when Mike Bain took a Warrior punt and ran 69 yards for a touchdown. The extra point kick was good and the Wildcats led 26-6.

Deming added a final touchdown on an eight-yard run by Mike Moray in the fourth period for a 33-6 edge.

Easter added the second Warrior touchdown on a six-yard run with 8:15 remaining in the contest. This time Gregson's extra point kick was perfect.

Easter had perhaps his best game of the season. The talented sophomore ran well with the ball all night and also intercepted two passes. Starting quarterback Cyrus Simmons was hampered by a pulled ligament, but still played much of the contest, completing several passes.

Ruidoso head coach Darrel Stierwalt was disappointed with his team's loss, but was heartened by the play of his younger players, particularly Easter.

"Russell did a great job," he remarked. "If there was a bright side to the game, that was probably it."

NOTES: Silver City won the District 3-AAA title again by smashing Cobre 39-0. Hot Springs lost a 45-22 non-district game to Cathedral of El Paso, Texas, but gained the runner-up spot for the playoffs because of the Cobre defeat.

Jv's beaten,

The Ruidoso High School junior varsity football team ended its season on a losing note Saturday afternoon, losing a 32-6 decision to host Deming.

Ruidoso ended the season with a 2-4 record and scored 106 points, both considerable improvements over the 1982 season when the Warriors went winless and didn't score a point.

Freshman Brian Davis caught a 50-yard pass from Mitch Mullican in the second half for the Warriors' only touchdown. Deming led 21-0 at halftime.

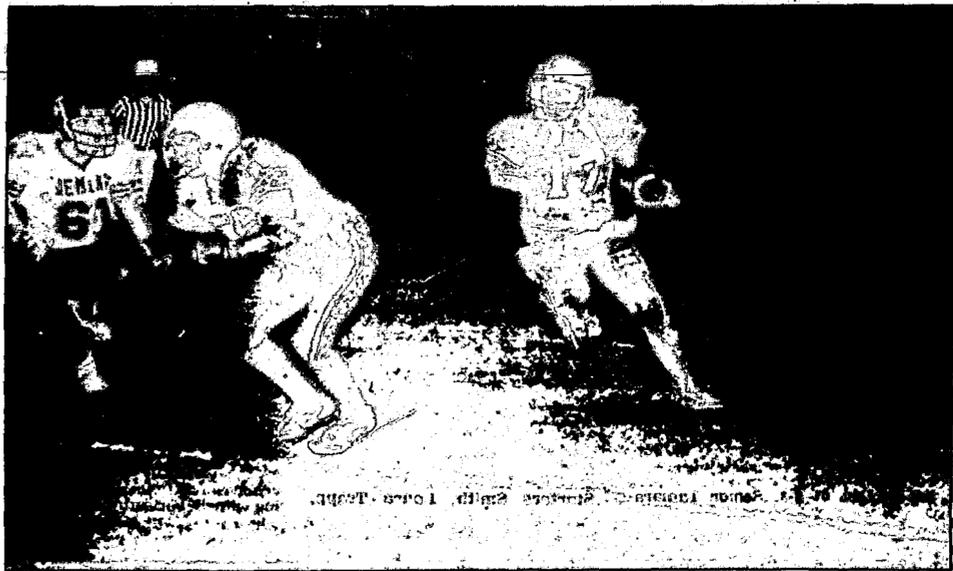

"We played a lot of kids, including freshmen," said Ruidoso coach Jim Ramsey. "Mitch Mullican has never to my knowledge played quarterback before but came in in the second half and did a fantastic job. He passed well and carried the ball well."

"We went down there with the idea of having a lot of fun and playing a lot of kids. I think our whole defensive line played well in the first half."

Freshman Jeff Willingham played at quarterback in the first half before being hurt. Mullican took over in the second half.

The entire Warrior roster had 20 freshmen and 13 sophomores this season.

"The future looks good," Ramsey said. "We'll still be young next year but it could be a great year."

with Gary Brown

Here it is in the first week of November and the basketball season is already with us.

The Ruidoso High School boys and girls basketball teams are practicing now, as are other high schools in the area.

But the professional version of the sport—the National Basketball Association (NBA)—has already been on almost two weeks.

I've never really been an NBA follower, as least not to the extent I've followed pro football and major league baseball.

I think it's because the NBA conflicts with the other major sports during its season.

The league begins its season in late October, just after the World Series ends and the football season is beginning to peak. It ends its season usually in May, when the major league baseball season starts to get into high gear.

Pro basketball really only has about two months of the year when it doesn't compete with some other highly popular sport.

From late January after the Super Bowl to late March—just before the major league baseball season starts—is when the NBA has a fairly large part of the national sports fan's attention.

Even then the NBA has to compete with the collegiate brand of its own sport and pro hockey, a sport which is very popular in the eastern and midwestern parts of the country.

The NBA has never really had a chance to "grow" on me in the same way I've been interested in other sports.

Another reason the NBA seems to turn off a large portion of the country's sports fans is its tendency to turn into an all-offense, no-defense show at times.

There are some very good defensive players in the NBA, but their talents aren't always shown much in the racehorse style of basketball the league plays.

Pro basketball probably has some of the best all-around athletes in the sports world.

Players like Julius Erving of the Philadelphia 76ers, Larry Bird of the Boston Celtics and "Magic" Johnson of the Los Angeles Lakers are marvelous athletes who could probably excel in a number of sports.

But the current manner in which the game is played tends to make the casual observer think of it as just a contest of who puts the ball in the basket the most times.

There's nothing wrong with that. The object of almost any athletic event is to outscore your opponent.

But the NBA's super-fast style makes it seem almost boring at times. Often, many of the highest-paid stars seem apathetic to all facets of the game except for scoring.

College and high school basketball are a different matter.

I'd much rather see a championship college or high school game instead of a pro contest.

There's more spirit and the players seem more motivated. The generally slower pace makes the game seem more tactical and disciplined.

Compare last season's National Collegiate Athletic Association championships—with almost any NBA playoff series and the college game was probably more exciting.

So, when it comes to watching basketball this winter, I'll spend most of my time watching the amateur versions of the game.

Tatum ends Grizzlies' title hopes, 28-14

A powerful Tatum High School football team showed why it's the top-rated A division team in the state by defeating visiting Carrizozo 28-14 in the playoff semi-finals Friday night.

Carrizozo, which finished the season with a 7-3 record, scored first on a three-yard run by John Roueche. Roueche's score culminated a 55-yard drive. Roueche and junior Stevie Stearns both ran well on the drive.

Tatum came back to take a 14-6 lead on two straight touchdowns, but the Grizzlies tied the game with a four-yard run by quarterback Dwayne Zamora near the end of the first half. The two-point conversion was good and the score was tied 14-14 at halftime.

Tatum put the game away in the second half with two touchdowns, one on a 20-yard run and the other on a 45-yard pass play.

Despite the defeat, Grizzly head coach Dennis Sidebottom was proud of the way his team played.

"I felt the kids played well," he said. "Especially considering we came out there and were outweighed almost 30 pounds per man. We went out there and did the best we could."

How does Sidebottom rate Tatum? "They're a very good team," he said. "I'd say it's a toss-up between them and Reserve as to which is the best team we've played this season."

The Grizzlies will lose eight players to graduation next spring. However, 19 will return, including Stearns, one of the leading rushers in the state this season.

Grizzlies, Tigers in playoffs

Capitan and Carrizozo will be representing Lincoln County in the state A division volleyball championships in Albuquerque Thursday through Saturday.

Both won regional championships over the weekend.

Capitan toppled Pinehill and Navajo Academy Thursday to gain a berth in the state tournament. The Tigers will open the state tournament against Tatum at 3:30 p.m. Thursday in the Valley High School gymnasium.

Capitan beat Pinehill 15-10, 15-10 Thursday afternoon to advance to the finals against Navajo Academy that night. The Tigers then disposed of the Academy squad 15-11, 15-11. Capitan showed determination in coming from behind several times.

The Tigers draw a tough opponent in Tatum. Tatum has been one of the top A division teams in the state all season long.

Carrizozo will open state play with a 4:45 p.m. match Thursday against Coronado High School on the Valley High School floor.

The Grizzlies qualified for the state tournament by beating Fort Sumner 15-8, 15-4 last Thursday.

Ruidoso spikers end year with loss

The Ruidoso High School varsity volleyball team's season came to an end Thursday night as the Warriors dropped a 15-7, 15-7 decision to host Hot Springs in the district 3-AAA tournament opener.

"I'm proud of the girls," said head coach Pixie Arthur. "The seniors showed a lot of leadership and determination."

Ruidoso took a 3-0 lead in the first set before the Tigers came back to tie the contest at 3-3. Senior Tamara Smith served the first three points, hitting the first two serves so hard the Tigers couldn't return them.

However, the defending district champions came back to take the match with some consistent play.

Hot Springs won the second set by the same score as the first to clinch the victory.

"All the seniors played well," Arthur said. "But I can't wait until next year. We should be contenders."

Starters Smith, Laura Trapp,

Veronica Olvera and Lillian Lopez will graduate next spring. However, Ruidoso will have Gia Rose and Diane McClure returning from this year's starting lineup. Kristy Douglass and Dana Stierwalt are other varsity players who will return next season.

The Ruidoso junior varsity lost in the first round of the district tournament at Silver City Saturday, falling to Hot Springs 15-11, 15-10.

"The girls played real well," said coach Nancy Holland. "We were playing without our setter Evanie Wilson, who was out with a strep throat. Still, everybody played well."

Ruidoso won three junior varsity matches and nine sets on the season.

United finishes season undefeated

The Coulston and Associates United squad finished the Ruidoso Soccer Association under-10 season unbeaten with a 2-0 win over the Gibson's Cobras in the championship match Saturday at White Mountain Middle School.

United finished with a 7-0 record. Brian Andrus and Brent King scored the United goals. Joe Moore and Keith Hanson shared time in goal.

The Burke Collins and Associates Rowdies won the under-14 title with a 3-0 victory over the Morgan's Mountain Sports Tornado.

Eric Collins scored two goals and Gabe Tam one for the winners.

The Security Bank Celtic nipped United 1-0 for the under-seven crown.

In the only All-Star match played

Sunday, the Cobras-McDonald's Bandits under-10 squad topped the United-Celtic team 5-3.

Lopez, Trapp make all-district

Laura Trapp and Lillian Lopez of the Ruidoso High School varsity volleyball team have been named to the all-district 3-AAA first team.

Trapp is a repeater from last season, while Lopez has been a consistent performer. Both are seniors.

"I think it's great that the girls made all-district," said Warrior coach Pixie Arthur. "Particularly since our record wasn't that good."

Trapp is also an outstanding tennis player. Lopez also competes in basketball and track.

Local agency gets ad campaign

by DARRELL J. PEHR
 News Staff Writer

The Advertising Committee of the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce decided Friday to accept the bid from local advertising agency Adworks, Ltd. for part of the creative section of the Ruidoso winter ski campaign, according to Tommy Morel, chairman of the committee. "We are very excited," said Beverly Hammond of Adworks shortly after learning of the decision.

Both Adworks and Epstein Communications advertising agency of Albuquerque had made presentations to the committee. Epstein Communications, as the state-designated agency for this region in the matching and cooperative funds program, will cover the balance of the campaign. Both agencies will have an opportunity to bid for the creative sections of future campaigns, including the "We accept pesos" campaign in Mexico, according to Ed Jungbluth, executive director of the chamber.

The Dreamer

by Dan Storm

Charlie McClellan

"A Friend In Need Is A Friend Indeed"

It was symbolic of the large and generous heart of the people of Ruidoso, and also of the fond esteem in which he is held, that the services for Charlie McClellan were held last Thursday in the High School Gymnasium.

As folks came pouring in the door, filling the floor space and overflowing up into the grandstand, you felt Charlie's spirit closer and closer among us.

America's Greatness
When I first came here, what is now known as "The Gateway" was a grassy mountain prairie; and now after fifty-seven years I see the near approach of this field full of churches, those emblems and guardians of America's greatness.

Several years ago I had a small part in the construction of one of these churches, working on the payroll of the builder, Arvel Runnels.

And last Thursday this same church, the Gateway Church of Christ, made us all proud and grateful to be members of our beloved mountain community.

The choir, in truly angelic chorus, in the gymnasium sang:

How Great Thou Art; Precious Memories; Our God, He Is Alive; The Lord Is My Shepherd, The Love of God; Be With Me, Lord; Follow Me; and In The Land of Endless Day.

And at the graveside, Beyond the Sunset; and Hallelujah of Glory.

The Eulogy was given by the Reverend Bernie Baur, who brought out that Charlie lived his Christian faith in his daily life, and was unsparring of himself in his work of help and uplift, especially to the young.

Clestone Pritchett gave the prayer in which he thanked God for the blessing of our great friend, and his Christian life.

Arthur Judd gave the sermon and struck a responsive chord when he said:

"I feel that knowing Charles McClellan has made me a better man." He went on to quote from the psalms:

"Dear in the sight of the Lord is the death of his Saints", these words bringing out the saintly quality of the life of Charles McClellan.

At the graveside, Pastor of the church, Carl Parsons built his message around the words,

"Seek ye first the kingdom of God and his righteousness, and all else will be added unto you." — bringing out that Charlie had lived by these words.

The service was closed by a very devout and comforting prayer by Paul Wrye.

Surely it is people like Charlie McClellan who inspired this favorite old saying.

Being in the gymnasium brought back memories of a little musical program I put on for the students—who were the most appreciative audience anyone could ask.

Charlie printed the tickets and the advertising fliers. Later on he printed out a little song for me I had worked up for the Billy The Kid Pageant, working over time to have it ready by the time of the show.

Through "The chances and changes of this mortal life" a few years back The Ruidoso News came near to going under. The paper fell into the hands of some people who brought it lower and lower, and finally, like someone abandoning a sinking ship, they just quit and left.

I still have to laugh when I think of how this publisher turned his back on me the few times I came in the office—he wanted no part of me, and brought my career as a columnist to "a screeching halt."

In the midst of the uncertain fate of the paper, Charlie called me up saying he had taken the paper over for the time being and that he wanted "The Silver Lining" back.

Charlie kept the paper going, along with his printing business—which was more than enough work by itself—until Al And Glo Lane could take over.

It is comforting to remember that Charlie was blessed as few men are, and among his many blessings was his wife, the former Peggy McNatt—a true ray of sunshine in the life of us all.

Not long ago a black family in dire need came by the office supply store. Peggy agreed to help with their car and other needs. After while the man came back and asked Peggy,

"Do you all mind helping colored folks."

Peggy replied, "Well, God made you didn't He?"

Then a while later I was going over this incident with Charlie himself, and he replied:

"That's right, God made us all and loves us all," and with that he smiled in spite of the pain he was suffering, though I did not know it.

That smile! Revealing a soul within where nothing remotely resembling hate or malice could dwell—not room there for anything but love, devotion and kindness.

And so Charlie's "bread cast upon the waters" has returned a thousand fold for himself and for us.

He has been welcomed by The Lord he served so well, and has joined "that blessed company who will ever live within us."

Happy Birthday To Lula Runnels

Lula Runnels, beloved pioneer of the Bonito Valley, will celebrate her ninety-third birthday Wednesday the ninth of November.

At this writing, November four a dinner is planned sponsored by the Capitan Church of Christ for Sunday the sixth, at the Capitan Fair Grounds.

Lula was born in Cowboy, Texas, November nine, 1893, and came west to near Angus, not far from where she lives now, in a covered wagon, from Gail, Borden County, Texas. She celebrated her sixteenth birthday on the way out.

Not long after arrival, she married Mr. A.N. Runnels. To this union were born three sons: Arvel, Robert and Rayford, and a daughter, Bonnie. Rayford was called Home by Our Lord several years ago.

Lula is a true pioneer American lady, admired and loved by all her neighbors for miles around. She remains remarkably active for her years and is widely admired for her devout Christian life.

We wish Lula many happy returns of the day and all God's blessings.

LEGAL NOTICE

IN THE DISTRICT COURT OF LINCOLN COUNTY, NEW MEXICO TWELFTH JUDICIAL DISTRICT

SECURITY BANK, RUIDOSO, A New Mexico Banking Corporation, Plaintiff vs.

SAKET DEVELOPMENT CORP., A New Mexico Corporation, Defendants.

No. CV-83-82
Division I

NOTICE OF FORECLOSURE SALE

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that the undersigned Special Master will, on the 25th day of November, 1983, at the hour of 10:00 a.m. at the court at the northeast corner of the Lincoln County Courthouse, Carrizozo, New Mexico, sell and convey all of the right, title and interest of the Defendant, Saket Development Corp., a New Mexico corporation, in and to the following described parcel of real property situated in Lincoln County, New Mexico, to wit:

Lots 5, 6, 10, 12 and 13, and an undivided 5/13ths interest in Common Area of Alto Village Townhouse Site C, as shown by the official plat thereof filed in the office of the County Clerk and Ex-officio Recorder of Lincoln County, New Mexico.

This sale will be made pursuant to the Judgment entered in the above entitled and numbered cause on the 15th day of September, 1983. The nature of this action was for the collection of a promissory note and the foreclosure of a mortgage executed by Saket Development Corp. in favor of Security Bank, Ruidoso, New Mexico, on the above described parcel of real property.

The amount of Plaintiff's Judgment is $485,900.00, together with interest on said sum through September 7, 1983 in the amount of $65,292.00, plus attorney's fees of $50,119.20, the cost of the Abstract, $169.45, and the costs and expenses of this action through the date of the judgment in the amount of $53.00. The above sums do not include final court costs, additional advancements, interest, Special Master's fees and expenses of publication and sale, the total of said sums which shall bear interest at the rate of 14 1/2% per annum from the date of judgment until paid. Addition interest to the date of sale from the date of judgment is $13,714.68. This sale is made subject to the possible rights of redemption of the Defendant which must be exercised within one month of the date of sale.

The proceeds of said sale will be applied as follows:

1. The costs of said foreclosure sale including the fee of the Special Master—specified herein.
2. The judgment of the Plaintiff provided herein including all principal, interest, attorney's fees, costs of suit, advancements and costs of sale.
3. The balance, if any, pursuant to further order of the Court.

The sale contemplated herein will be made to the highest bidder for cash and the time for said sale may be postponed in the event the Special Master, in his judgment, deems it advisable. In which case, said sale will take place as soon thereafter as is reasonably possible. The sale will be by parcels or the whole as the Special Master in his judgment deems advisable.

/s/ Billy G. Payne
Special Master

priced at a low $40,000. Owner would consider some 10% financing.

LINCOLN provides the setting for this beautiful 4,000+ sq.
ft. adobe home. Built with all the warmth one would ever want in an adobe. Would be excellent for a gallery or combination. Has guest home. This is a home you should consider.

FOREST HEIGHTS. Comfortable 3 bedroom, 1 1/2 bath home with fireplace and on corner lot. Priced under $100,000.
Owner will consider trades. You need to look at this one.

ACREAGE, 3.2 acres close to Biscuit Hill with owner financing. Will discount for cash. Horses allowed.

BEAUTIFUL 5.4 acre mountain setting gives this 4,000 sq. ft.
home with huge living room and fireplace an atmosphere unparalleled in the Ruidoso area. Too many qualities to even list. It does have extra nice 2 bedroom guest home.
Quality construction. Rustic but nice!

RUIDOSO DOWNS HEIGHTS. Three bedroom, 2 1/2 bath adobe home with fireplace and large living area. Has 2 car attached garage and is located on 2 wooded lots. Handy to Ruidoso Downs Race Track. Assumable loan. Owner anxious to sell.

GOOD BUY IN COMMERCIAL. Sixty ft. on Highway 70 and 140 ft. on side street. Two buildings. Owner ready to retire. Low down payment with owner financing.

VIEW LOTS. Two adjoining lots on paved street with fantastic, panoramic view of Ruidoso. Will sell both lots for $30,000.

NEAR LOMA GRANDE. 100+ acres with Highway 37 frontage, nice trees, nice views and owner financing. Priced to sell!

RUSTIC. Four rooms and a path (no bath). View of Sierra Blanca and Palmer Gateway. Price lowered to $20,000. A good fixer upper.

HIGH COUNTRY. This 60 acres has private access with view of Sierra Blanca. Borders national forest, lots of pines and owner financing. Would make excellent church camp, business retreat, home for hunting or guest lodge — in fact — it would just be nice to own!

WHITE MOUNTAIN II. This 3 story A-frame has approximately 1,600 sq. ft., 5 bedrooms, 1 1/2 baths. Tastefully decorated. Large corner lot and majestic view. The price will surprise you. Owner will consider trading up or down.

ADOBE HOME ON RIVER. Four bedroom, 2 bath home with fireplace, own well, highway frontage, 6' chain link fence and on the river. Motivated seller.

IN THE VALLEY — ON THE RIVER — Fifteen acres with highway frontage, river frontage, fruit trees and access to the national forest. Beautiful building sites.

A WOODED LOT with easy access. All city utilities. Owner financing with a low down payment.

NOB HILL RESTAURANT. A Ruidoso landmark features 2 dining rooms over 3,200 sq. ft. Fully equipped and owner financing.

FIVE ACRES, horses allowed, across from Ruidoso Downs Race Track. Owner financing.

ON THE RIVER. Three bedrooms, 2 1/2 baths. Owner will finance. $59,000 total price.

Melani Daves won first place in the poster category of the contest on the theme of World Hunger at Ruidoso Public Library, showing people sharing food.

Brandy Pfeffer wrote the second-place essay in the library contest on world hunger. "There are a hundred people that are hungry in many towns," she stated. "They have to search trash cans sometimes they are sad a lot. I would help them if I could."

Wendy Fusler won second place for her poster on World Hunger in a contest at Ruidoso Public Library. Wendy drew an envelope addressed to hungry people, sending them money for food.

Opinion

Wright FOR THE RUIDOSO NEWS

Editorial

It cannot be said the council has sat on its hands and done nothing the past 20 months. When the body of work is considered separately from the personality clashes, the council must be rated an active and effective governing body—at a time in Ruidoso's history when just such a body is needed.

Certain characteristics of the council will never endear them to the press or the public—refusal to move the study sessions out of the small room, for example, and a somewhat arrogant "we know better than you how to conduct your business" attitude.

But the infighting on the council and the occasional belligerence toward the public probably reflect more than anything that the councilmen are human. It is said one's latter years are a "second childhood," and the behavior of Mayor White and Councilman Junge at times lends credence to the theory.

However, the record shows no "impeachable offenses" by any of the councilmen or the body as a whole.

In the absence of any persuasive arguments why the council should have seven members instead of five, we fail to find reason to vote for the increase or to recall the council November 8.—TP

We know of nothing the council has done worthy of a recall and a yes vote Tuesday should not be motivated by that reasoning.

The idea of a larger council, however, warrants serious consideration.

Whether one calls them special interests or constituents, council members will pay attention to different parties. Ruidoso has many varied interest groups. A larger council might better represent the varied points of view existing in Ruidoso today.

Decisions by a larger council might also better represent a consensus opinion than the present size allows. With two additional council members, it would be more difficult to arrange voting blocs or prearrange decisions. Dissenting opinions may be given more consideration.

Why not have two more council members? It could pay off in better representation of all Ruidoso.

Whatever your opinion, express it at the polls Tuesday.—BA

Inside the Capitol

by Fred McCaffrey

SANTA FE—We all say things we haven't thought out very thoroughly—and sometimes they come back to haunt us.

That could happen as a result of the following from Governor Anaya, which was made at a hastily called press conference. Probably by now he wished he had thought longer before speaking. What he said was this:

"It is hard to understand how a Texan could know anything about the culture and arts of New Mexico and be sensitive to New Mexicans."

That might have been read to be just one of these heavy-handed remarks many New Mexicans make about Texans, in a more or less joking manner.

But in the very next sentence, the Governor went on to say he hoped some of the Texans recently hired by the state museum system would be fired.

That seems to take it out of the joking category, so we will have to presume some of the animosity expressed toward our next-door neighbors was, at least at the moment, meant.

You can imagine how that line played in Ruidoso or Red River or in any other town where lots of the annual income is derived from Texans.

In some parts of the state, such people are simply looked upon as temporary New Mexicans, and anything which discourages their presence is a bad thing indeed.

And when you see that statement made the center of a long article in the Sunday Dallas Times-Herald, under a headline that reads "Saddle up, Texans! We are under attack by New Mexico," you know the Governor should not have said what he did.

Now, Molly Ivins, the person who wrote the Dallas article, admits Texans are chauvinistic and jingoistic about their state about as much as anybody around. "But," she goes on to say, "never has a governor of Texas, even with all the nincompoops and lintheads we have elected to that office, ever considered hiring civil servants on grounds of foreign birth."

It can't be just foreign birth which worries Toney.

After all, Jill Cooper, the person who runs Cultural Affairs and to whom these Texans eventually reported, wasn't born in New Mexico. Neither was Elaine Anaya, the Governor's wife, whom he that day named to be his liaison on museum matters.

So it must be just plain Texans he objects to.

If he's genuinely prejudiced against those folks and not just funnin', he ought to check the head of the tourist operation in state government to find out how big a share of the state's tourist dollar they leave behind here.

Maybe all this is too much to make of one remark.

Until we read that Dallas paper, this writer was resolved to be a good boy and say kind words about Anaya this week.

Just when we get to that frame of mind, Toney mouths off again and puts his foot in it.

When you see, as we did earlier this week, all university presidents, with as many of their regents as they could muster, and the head of the Board of Educational Finance convening in the Governor's office, you know more than a mere chat is taking place.

Those folks are all too high powered to simply be asked to drop by for tea and crumpets.

They are making plans which will affect us all—plans for their pleas to the Legislature about more funding for all their establishments.

They had better make good plans indeed.

As said here previously, this writer does not hear from the ordinary citizens the call for greatly expanded budgets for institutions of higher learning. There are calls for better and more effective teaching there, sure, but not many for bigger salaries for people who are already viewed as among the privileged of our society.

So these people had better make their presentations asking for increased taxes convincing. Otherwise they could fall on very deaf ears.

Sense & Nonsense

U.S. Sen. Pete Domenici

The dream of the American family owning their own home is fast disappearing in the face of current high interest rates, past double digit inflation rates, and an "affordability gap" which is more than $16,000 for the average American family.

This could not come at a more inopportune time because the so-called "baby boom" generation will be in the prime homebuying ages of 25-45 through the end of this century. It has been estimated that a million and a half prospective first-time homebuyers will be entering the marketplace each year during the 1980s and the demand for mortgage financing will be more than one and a half trillion dollars.

It was not always this way. Back in the 1950s and 1960s, low and moderate income families could buy a new home if they wanted one. The average family stayed well within the standard of using 25 percent of their disposable income for house payments and could, in many cases, afford even larger homes than the average home.

But in the 1970s, changes came about in the American housing market. Personal income doubled during the decade, but housing prices tripled.

Inflation caused most of the problem, especially from 1977 on, but interest rates contributed as well, reaching double digit levels for the first time in 1978. Starting in 1979, the term "affordability gap" was coined, meaning that the average income family could not qualify to buy the average new home at the interest rates and terms available in the conventional lending marketplace.

In 1979, that affordability gap was $4,000. In 1980, it was $11,000 and rose in 1981 to more than $19,000. It has declined somewhat, but still rests today at the whopping rate of more than $16,000.

The magnitude of this current problem challenges our current housing policy and demands well-planned and creative legislation to find a long-term solution. This is why I introduced the First-Time Homebuyers Assistance Act of 1983, which will provide a greater opportunity for low and moderate income families to purchase homes.

Simply put, the bill allows housing finance agencies, like the New Mexico Finance Authority, the option to "trade-in" some of their tax-exempt bonding authority to issue refundable tax credit certificates directly to first time homebuyers. The credit could be set by the agency at any rate from 10-50 percent of the interest expense on the homebuyer's mortgage.

Under present law, housing finance agencies use the money collected from the sale of tax-exempt bonds to purchase mortgage loans made by private lenders. Since the interest income is tax-exempt, the agencies can offer below conventional mortgage market rates. Under this bill the Finance Authority could continue to issue bonds and/or experiment with the tax credits.

This bill is one of those very rare opportunities where we can practice good government in the form of cost-efficiency (direct tax credits cost the federal government less than tax-exempt bonds) and provide greater flexibility to the state in targeting more mortgage assistance to low and moderate income homebuyers.

I will be working over the next few weeks to try to get this bill passed in the Senate before the end of the current session. We need this legislation so our young workers and their families can have a similar opportunity to own their own home that we had back in the 1950s and 1960s.

Home ownership is the cornerstone of the American economic system and bridging that "affordability gap" will be one of the keys to economic stability in the 1980s and beyond.

The country of Dubai, one of the United Arab Emirates, produces about 400,000 barrels of oil a day. This is small potatoes in the Middle East—Saudi Arabia's capacity is 11 million barrels a day.

But when Jim Crown (who was explaining this to me) said Dubai's production capacity is about 75 percent that of the whole Permian Basin, it got my attention.

Jim, the son of Frank and Betty Crown, was here on vacation from his job as general manager of Gas and Oil Services Company (GASCO). He works out of GASCO headquarters in Dubai.

It was very interesting to hear someone who lives in the Middle East discuss the political, economic and social situation there. Jim said he enjoys living in Dubai, a modern city of 60,000. The country is also called Dubai, and has a total population of 125,000. Only about 40,000 are natives, however.

There are a lot of guest workers in Dubai—many from Pakistan and India. I seemed to remember something about Arabs having an aversion of some sort to manual labor, so I asked Jim about it.

"It's not that they have a strong prejudice against it—they're just not willing to do it themselves," he said. That sounded kind of funny, till I realized that's the way a lot of us are, too.

"It's a combination of the new and the old," was the way Jim described Dubai. His office is in a 38-story building in an ultra-modern office block, but the city also has an old Arab marketplace of small adobe-like stalls on a back street.

The ruler of Dubai is Sheikh Rashid. "He is the most pro-Western liberal ruler and probably the most innovative," said Jim. He said the Sheikh's government could be described as "a very benevolent monarchy."

The Sheikh is trying to build an infrastructure for his country that won't rely totally on oil money, said Jim. A large aluminum smelter and a drydock capable of servicing the world's largest ships are examples.

"As far as the Middle East is concerned, it (Dubai) is considered very very liberal," Jim said. But one drawback is that women are less free than in the West, he noted.

His wife, Mona Yardumian, is an attorney. But she cannot practice law there because women are not allowed to and because Arabic is spoken in court.

Jim is fluent in Arabic. He took classes at the American University in Beirut in 1974, and has good memories of the city from those days. One in particular, he mentioned, is the day he went snow skiing in the morning and swam in the Mediterranean that afternoon.

I asked Jim why we—the United States—are in Lebanon. He said his answer would be "completely opinionated," and proceeded to give it.

The United Nations peacekeeping force has been in Lebanon several years, he said. But the force—made up of Dutch, French and, initially,

Saudi Arabian troops—has been "very very ineffective."

President Gemayel took office with a genuine interest in calming the problems, said Jim, and realized he would have to have the help of a superpower to get the different factions to sit down and negotiate.

"In that respect, we have already achieved that goal," said Jim, noting the different factions were meeting in Geneva as we spoke.

"So we're there as a threat," he stated. "We're there as a hammer." He pointed out the activity of Israel in Lebanon has dropped off markedly, and said he thinks Israel has been under pressure from the U.S. to be non-aggressive.

"Israel is still the strongest military force in that area," he said. Asked if he thinks U.S. involvement is valid and valuable, Jim said, "Yes, very much so." He explained that the Geneva process has to be given a chance—that without it there is no chance.

If peace talks fail, he said, the U.S. should not get involved militarily. Neither should Syria or Israel, he added, but their staying out would be "very unlikely."

"It's a very difficult situation," said Jim. He noted that what started as a religious war in Lebanon is now a simple power struggle.

How does all this affect doing business?

"It's necessary that you continuously keep yourself updated on the political situation, because so much of the business in the Middle East is politically dictated," said Jim.

One situation that is watched is the ongoing Iran-Iraq war—a greater concern than Lebanon from a business standpoint, Jim acknowledged.

The economies of those two oil-rich countries have suffered tremendously in the war, he pointed out. Arab states supporting the Iraqis have found the war to be a drain on their treasuries, and have cancelled or delayed large business projects as a result.

Iran is currently threatening to close the Straits of Hormuz, and "obviously that would have a tremendous impact on the flow of oil from the Middle East."

Crown has a theory that if that happens, someone will have to ride to the rescue of the Arab nations. Who will that be?

Jim thinks it might be Israel. Though "kind of an outrageous opinion," he said, it is shared by others in the Middle East.

Such a move would change the relationship of Israel to the Arab states dramatically, he pointed out. Iran would become the number one enemy of the Arabs instead of Israel.

It will be interesting to watch developments in the Middle East in light of Jim's comments. In the meantime, he will surely be close to the action.

Does he enjoy his work, which also takes him to the Far East and to South America?

"I enjoy what I do tremendously," says Jim Crown.

Letters to the editor

DEAR EDITOR:

This letter is an expression of thanks to all the people — parents, businesses, volunteers — who helped in making our Halloween Carnival such a great success. The support of the Ruidoso Community for Nob Hill School, as well as the entire school district, has been wonderful.

As we progress through the school year, there will be continued need for parental involvement and community support. If the response everyone has shown for our Carnival continues, then the community will reap the benefits of better educational programs from Nob Hill. We also appreciate the very positive publicity we have received from The Ruidoso News.

Respectfully,

Mexican food is an art at Mom's Kitchen

by PAMELLA FIELD
News Staff Writer

Josie Sanchez is an artist doing what she loves—and does—best: cooking tacos and burritos and whatever kinds of Mexican food she can.

Sanchez is part-owner of Mom's Kitchen, a cozy little restaurant off the beaten track in Ruidoso Downs. She has lived in this area since 1975, when she moved from Roswell with her husband Eloy, who retired from the post office.

She said she is thrilled to have her own "little cafe" because for many years she and her husband worked with a catering service but they didn't have a place people could come in to.

The cafe was redecorated in May. With three tiny tables and accompanying counter and stools, the cafe is bustling with customers. Food may be eaten in, or "to go," orders are given in Spanish—all that's needed is a little Spanish music in the background.

Josie is a soft-spoken, warm person with beautiful brown eyes that burst with excitement when she talks about cooking. She has been cooking in restaurants since she was 16.

When she was small, she said, she learned to cook from her father, who was famous for his tamales. Her father was born in Spain, but spent many of his growing up years in Monterrey, Mexico. Her mother was from New Mexico.

Josie lived in Colorado until she married. That is where she threw herself into the art of learning to cook.

The food at Mom's Kitchen is attracting many of the chefs and cooks in Ruidoso, though Josie said she didn't want to start naming restaurants.

"I try to use everything homemade," said Josie. "I don't use recipes and I put lots of love in my cooking," she added, beaming. "I put God in my cooking too, because God has to be everywhere in my life."

Though Josie would like maybe to have a bigger cafe, she is content for the time being.

Mom's looks like what cafes in small towns should be. It is sort of a gathering place for people just to say hello, though at Mom's Kitchen it is more likely to be "buenos dias," or "buenas tardes."

All-around waiter, cook and chief bottle-washer is Miguel Gandarilla. Miguel is learning "everything," as he says, from Josie. He is from Mexico and has been in the United States about five years.

Every morning, Miguel's mother goes to the cafe to make the tortillas.

"She makes up to twelve dozen a day," said Eloy.

Training Miguel is something Josie believes will help both of them. Sometimes she wants to get away for a while.

Josie and Eloy have been married 27 years. They have children in Roswell and want to get away and see them sometimes. They still have one boy at home.

"My oldest boy cooks too. He wants me to make a cookbook, but I don't know," said Josie.

Plans for the future could involve authentic Mexican breakfasts. Now, the restaurant is open from 10 until 2, closed until 5, and open again from 5 to 7:30, every day except Sunday.

There is "lots of love" spread all around there, as Eloy pointed out so vividly.

"She is the main ingredient here," said Eloy, referring to Josie, back in the kitchen.

Josie Sanchez makes a taco burrito to go. "I want to have everything be the best here," said Sanchez. "Almost all the ingredients are homemade."

Miguel Gandarilla stops for a minute to talk. "I love to talk to people." The young, chef-in-progress said.

Children learn motorbidity skills in gym class

Instructor Robyn Garrett (right) watches as children in her creative developmental gymnastics class at the Ruidoso Gymnastics Academy do hand-eye contact drills. The classes are for children two to five years of age.

They run and jump, balance themselves on beams and slide down mats with screams of delight. Some of them are barely old enough to walk. They're two to five-year-old children in the creative developmental gymnastics classes at the Ruidoso Gymnastics Academy.

"We're teaching motorbidity skills," said instructor Robyn Garrett. "The kids hop, skip, jump, run and crawl in our exercises. There is a small slide the children can go down, plus a small tunnel they crawl through and several other exercises.

"The U.S. (United States) is behind the Europeans in doing these type of programs," Garrett said. "They've been doing these kind of programs for several years."

While Garrett teaches the children the exercises, their mothers watch from the small stands.

Gymnastics programs at the RGA have become more popular over the past few years. There are several other programs beside the developmental classes at the academy gymnasium.

The creative developmental classes are every Tuesday and Thursday. On both days there are classes for two to three-year-olds and four to five-year-olds.

The classes for two to three-year-olds are from 11:15 a.m. to 12:15 p.m. and from 12:15 p.m. to 1:15 p.m. The classes for four to five-year-olds are from 10:15 a.m. to 11:15 a.m. and from 1:30 p.m. to 2:30 p.m.

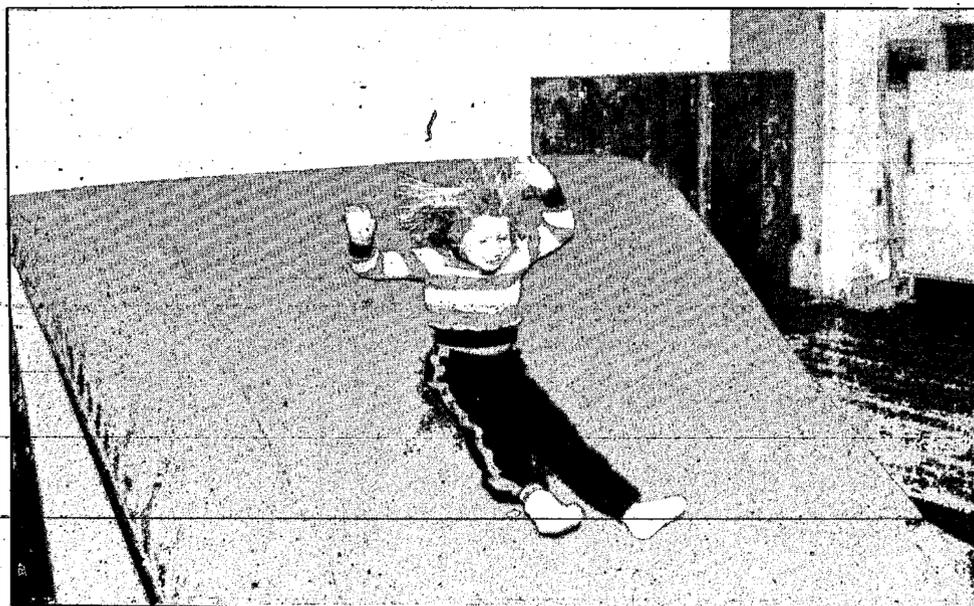

Garrett, who has a wide background in gymnastics, is also starting a boys' beginning gymnastics class for youths seven to 11 years old.

The class will be from 3:15 p.m. to 4:15 p.m. every Monday and Wednesday. There is a $30 fee for classes twice a week plus insurance.

Anyone interested in the classes can call Garrett at 257-6098, Bonnie Richardson at 378-4664, or the RGA gymnasium at 257-5957.

Seth Wireman crawls through a tunnel during a creative developmental gymnastics class at the Ruidoso Gymnastics Academy. Children in the class learn the basics of beginning gymnastics from instructor Robyn Garrett twice a week.

Thatcher Dorn goes down the slide during a creative developmental gymnastics class at the Ruidoso Gymnastics Academy. Classes are every Tuesday and Thursday.

Television Schedule For The Week Of Nov. 7 Through Nov. 13

Week of Nov. 6 - Nov. 12

Bono's Astro-View

© By Lillian Bono

ARIES (March 21-April 20) A conflict arising between two of your colleagues could place you squarely in the middle unless you keep quiet and stay out of it.

TAURUS (April 21-May 21) Chores at home might prevent you from taking advantages of social invitations extended to you. The possibilities of receiving a raise or promotion may serve as incentive for finishing a tedious project ahead of schedule.

GEMINI (May 22-June 21) Someone with an overactive imagination might start trouble between you and a friend. Act cautiously in this matter so that others are not alienated.

CANCER (June 22-July 23) Possessiveness on the part of a lover will lead to arguments unless this behavior is nipped in the bud. Business affairs leave you feeling emotionally drained and in need of a great deal of rest.

LEO (July 24-Aug. 23) Secrets told to you in confidence should be kept to yourself. Surprise gifts come your way from loved ones who wish to make you feel appreciated and cared for.

VIRGO (Aug. 24-Sept. 23) A person you don't trust might be trying to fit in with your social circle. Watch this individual closely before saying anything. Check out a business opportunity that presents itself to you.

LIBRA (Sept. 24-Oct. 23) A romantic holiday aids you in rekindling emotions with a lover that you thought had died. Do your best to fan the flame and keep it burning.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Separating truth from fiction in an incredible story will prove to be difficult. Family gatherings put pressure on you to make announcements you are not prepared to give.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Transportation problems might force you to cancel several social engagements you have planned.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 20) Disputes at home could affect your performance in other areas. Try to get a grip on this situation and work out a compromise.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19) Put several changes into effect around your abode. Your chance to embark on a romantic affair filled with joy and passion could arise at a most inopportune moment, but would be worth taking advantage of regardless.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) When an associate fails to produce, rise to the occasion and fill in. Your efforts will be rewarded.

PRINCESS DAISY

Danish-born actress Merete Van Kamp stars as Daisy Valensky, daughter of a Russian prince and an American movie star, who survives a past full of tragedies and traumas to succeed as a high-fashion model in "Princess Daisy." The two-part CTV miniseries, based on Judith Krantz's novel, airs SUNDAY, NOV. 6. and MONDAY, NOV. 7.
