Water rights buy set

by BILLY ALLSTETTER
News Staff Writer

The Village of Ruidoso has entered into an agreement to purchase 66.24 acre feet of water rights on the Ruidoso River and in wells near San Patricio.

The village has agreed to purchase the rights from S. Lee Ware and James Kerley as long as the State Engineer approves transfer of the rights upstream to wells in the Eagle Creek basin, said engineer Jackie D. Atkins, who is working for the village.

The village will pay $207,000 for the rights, according to assistant village manager Frank Potter. Potter said the water rights all have adjudication dates of 1870 or before, which is good in case of disputes.

Kerley and Ware applied October 28 for the transfer of 25.28 acre feet of shallow ground water rights (wells) and 40.96 acre feet of surface water rights on the Ruidoso River, according to a legal notice in today's News.

If approved, the rights will be transferred to two wells on land owned by the Eagle Creek Inter-Community Water Users Association (ECWUA). The wells, however, are owned by Ruidoso, said engineer Atkins.

Atkins said it usually takes approximately six to eight weeks for such an application to be approved if there are no protests.

Ruidoso currently has rights to 249.14 acre feet on the Ruidoso River and, as a member of ECWUA, rights to divert six cubic feet per second from Eagle Creek.

Ruidoso applied on October 20 for a permit to divert 1,404 acre feet per year of shallow ground water from the Hondo Underground Water Basin to supplement the rights on Eagle Creek. This water, which would be pumped out of another well on ECWUA land, would be used in times of low flow on Eagle Creek, said Potter.

The six cubic feet per second flow right amounts to 4,343 acre feet of water, but Ruidoso has used only a maximum of 1,404 acre feet in one year, said Atkins. That is why the application is for only 1,404 acre feet, he explained.

Great American Smokeout coming

by PAMELLA FIELD
News Staff Writer

Thursday cancer groups all across the nation will sponsor the "Great American Smokeout." This is an effort to recruit smokers to quit for a day, with hopes they will stop altogether, said Dotti Quaid.

Quaid is a member of the local American Cancer Society chapter and intends to be involved locally in sponsoring the effort. Part of the effort will include "helping to adopt a smoker."

Adopting a smoker is endorsed by television star Larry Hagman, who plays "J. R." on "Dallas."

Quaid said some general facts about smoking and health are available from the Cancer Society. Some facts:

—About 75 to 80 percent of all lung cancer cases are found among cigarette smokers, who represent less than one-third of the adult population.

—Lung cancer is the number one cause of cancer death among men. In the last 30 years, there has been a 400 percent increase in women's lung cancer deaths. By the late 1980s, lung cancer is expected to surpass breast cancer as the number one cancer killer among women.

—Only one-third of smokers gain weight when they give up cigarettes. One-third actually lose weight as a result of combining a general fitness program with their efforts to quit.

—Blacks are lighter smokers than whites. Eighty-two percent of black smokers go through a pack or less a day, compared to 66 percent of whites. Thirty-four percent of white smokers, though, consume more than a pack of cigarettes per day, compared to 18 percent of all black smokers.

—The number of smokers who have quit is rising steadily. From 1978 to 1980, the ranks of former smokers increased by 1.8 million to 33.3 million.

—Smoking is a primary cause of drug interactions. Effects of medication taken by a patient may be increased, decreased, or cancelled by smoking. Diagnostic tests may give seriously inaccurate results in smokers.

Quaid has access to other information about smoking and about the effort Thursday. She can be reached at 378-4810.

Help at library

To help smokers "get through the day," the multi-purpose room at the Ruidoso library will have assorted snacks, celery sticks and other aids to help them, according to Dotti Quaid.

"We will even have crying towels if they need them," said Quaid.

Quaid wants people to know there is a telephone number people can call Thursday that will put them in touch with members of the American Psychiatric Association.

From midnight on the 16th through midnight of the 17th, people can call 900-210-5948 and hear a one-minute message, according to Quaid. In each time zone these messages will rotate hourly during this 24-hour period.

She said the call will cost 50 cents from anywhere in the country.

Quaid is a former smoker who has not had a cigarette for several years.

Education official De Layo visits

by PAMELLA FIELD
News Staff Writer

Leonard De Layo, Superintendent of Public Instruction in the New Mexico Department of Education, said Friday he is "vowed to fight" proposals Governor Toney Anaya has said he intends to make to the Legislature.

De Layo stopped in Ruidoso on an "unofficial" visit as he was passing through the area.

Though De Layo indicated he agrees with the governor's proposal for increased teachers' salaries, he said he does not agree with extending the school year.

"I believe the money that would be necessary to increase the school year could be used toward teachers' salaries," he said.

De Layo said he disagrees with the Governor's attempt to place the Department of Education under his control.

Anaya has said he will make the following proposals to the Legislature:

—That beginning teachers, who now average an annual salary of $14,800, be given a series of progressive raises until the beginning salary is $25,000 in 1990.

—That the school year, which now runs 180 working days, be extended to 190 days.

—That teachers be allowed to retire at the end of 25 years instead of having to wait until they have completed 30 years.

—That the Constitution be changed to combine all elements of educational oversight in a single entity, which would be under the direct control of the governor.

Ruidoso schools superintendent Sid Miller and associate superintendent Mike Gladden took De Layo on a guided tour of the new high school, which is to be opened next fall.

"We are flattered that Mr. De Layo took his time to stop at our school," Miller said of the visit.

Higher education up to community

by PAMELLA FIELD
News Staff Writer

Chester Haughwaut, an administrator at Eastern New Mexico University in Portales, said Sunday that what happens next in higher education for Ruidoso depends on the community.

Haughwaut, Director of Continuing Education at Eastern, said he talked Friday with Ruidoso schools superintendent Sid Miller and discussed possible strategies the community could take.

He said a survey done in conjunction with the university and schools in Lincoln County demonstrates a need for higher education, but added that the university is a "bystander."

Miller said he intends to choose a group of people from the schools, businesses and the general community to begin working on a proposal.

He noted that Ray Bishop, a Rotary Club member, is extremely interested.

Bishop said he was involved in the groundwork for the survey being done, and that the response from the community is "super."

He said the type of facilities that could be developed depend upon the money that will eventually be dictated by the state.

Bishop stressed that though Ruidoso is a tourist town, it is expanding so rapidly that developing industry would be worthwhile.

"Building a junior college, for example, would be building an industry," he said.

Bishop said the original committee working on the survey has done as much as it can.

"The school board needs to decide what's next," he said.

October building value decline

by BILLY ALLSTETTER
News Staff Writer

Although the number of building permits issued by the Village of Ruidoso declined in October, valuation rose more than 40 percent to $2,446,925. The increased valuation was led by sharp increases in commercial buildings and condominium projects.

The village issued 31 permits in October, compared with 41 in September. The September permits, however, were valued at only $1,703,194—$743,731 less than October's permits.

After issuing no permits for multi-family dwellings in September, the village issued permits for a condominium project and a townhome project, totaling $584,928.

The village issued three permits for commercial buildings in both months. October's permits were worth $834,288 as opposed to $197,143 for September's permits. One of the permits was for a motel to be built behind the Village Inn Pancake House, valued at $726,000.

Ski area making snow

by DARRELL J. PEHR
News Staff Writer

Snowmaking at Sierra Blanca Ski Resort is well under way, with one run almost covered with the man-made white stuff.

Last week workers at Sierra Blanca turned on the big snowmaking system for the first time this year to make snow.

"We've been making snow for 15 years, but never like this," said Denney Grover, Sierra Blanca mountain manager.

In one night of snowmaking, a handful of the machines covered Capitan run with as much as six to eight inches of snow.

The system draws its water from a 900,000-gallon water storage reservoir located at the end of the ski area parking lot. Water and air are pumped along at a rate of 1,200 gallons a minute, under 430 pounds per square inch pressure.

Grover said the temperature of the air has to be within a certain range for the snowmaking water to freeze before hitting the ground. Grover said a 28 degree temperature works best for snowmaking.

Prescribed burn planned

Weather permitting, personnel from Smokey Bear Ranger District of Lincoln National Forest will be conducting a prescribed burn this week on West Mountain in the Capitan range.

Fire specialist Steve Makowski said plans call for preparing the burn Monday and igniting it Tuesday. He noted that moisture or very high winds could cause the burn to be cancelled.

West Mountain is just west of the Capitan Gap.

County ambulance service works well, thanks to many volunteers

by BILLY ALLSTETTER
News Staff Writer

"I have never seen a spirit of volunteerism as exists in Lincoln County," said county manager Suzanne Cox.

While volunteers may contribute to a multitude of causes in the county, Cox was speaking of the 60 Emergency Medical Technicians (EMTs) who make up the Lincoln County ambulance service. The service is officially called the Lincoln County EMT Association.

Cox describes the service—five ambulance groups, numerous EMT initial responders and several more skilled medical personnel—as paid/volunteers. While there are five ambulances with crews ready 24 hours a day to respond to any emergency within the 4,858 square miles of Lincoln County, no one is paid a thing unless actually answering a call.

All the training, much of the maintenance, administration and planning are done at no charge to the county, which subsidizes the program.

In fact, it is sometimes hard to get the EMTs to stop volunteering, said EMT Ed Jungbluth. He said many of the county's EMTs keep their pagers on even when they are not on call, and often respond to an emergency quicker than the ambulances dispatched to the scene.

The county operates five ambulances out of headquarters in Alto, Capitan, Carrizozo, Corona and Hondo Valley. A small group of EMTs is associated with and responsible for each ambulance.

These groups are at the heart of the system, which boasts of an average response time of 14.8 minutes to calls within the county. They man the ambulances, maintain them, conduct continuing education, review past runs and plan for potential emergencies.

"They govern themselves," said Cox.

Their volunteer efforts take a large amount of the load of Cox, who is the administrator for the county. They also save the county thousands of dollars.

Last year the entire budget for the Lincoln County ambulance service was $47,376. After collecting 76 percent of the $48,000 billed to patients, the county subsidized its ambulance system only $11,390. As a minor contributor to the Ruidoso Emergency Medical Service (EMS), Lincoln County pays $15,000 for that service.

The volunteers come from a variety of occupations, including housewives, ranchers, radio announcers and retailers.

"It's a spectrum you can't believe," said Devil Bill Adams, EMS advisor to the county and training coordinator.

In addition to the ambulance groups, there are a number of EMTs living in outlying areas who act as initial responders to emergencies in their areas. There are also more highly trained medical personnel ready to rendezvous with an ambulance if it is carrying a seriously ill patient.

The Lincoln County Sheriff's Office in Carrizozo acts as the 24-hour dispatcher for the service. On-call EMTs will hear the message through the pagers hooked to their belts and jump into action. One EMT is always near an ambulance. The other on-call EMT will meet the ambulance en route or at the scene of the emergency.

Once with the patient, the EMTs are in constant contact with emergency room doctors in a hospital. Depending upon where they are and where they plan to take the patient, they can be talking to doctors at the Ruidoso-Hondo Valley Hospital, or hospitals in Albuquerque or Roswell.

If necessary, EMTs can talk to people anywhere in the world through the New Mexico emergency medical service radio network.

"The thing that ties it all together is the communication network," said Adams, who values the constant radio contact during remote calls. "Boy, does that make you feel good when you're out there all alone."

If the emergency is serious and the hospital is far away, the communication network can direct more qualified medical personnel to meet the ambulance en route. Adams thinks the most important thing is to get the patient to the hospital as quickly as possible.

The EMTs try to stabilize the patient when they arrive at an emergency by stopping bleeding, opening airways, administering oxygen and setting splints if necessary. The IV technicians—more highly trained EMTs—can start intravenous solutions, but usually do that only after the ambulance is on its way.

"I think IV tech is as high as we want to go," said Adams. He referred to two studies that found a higher survival rate for patients treated by basic EMTs—as opposed to paramedics, who tended to attempt treatment of patients and thus took longer to reach a hospital.

The training for the basic EMT now takes 81 hours and may be increased 24 hours to include training for Military Anti-Shock Trousers. The EMTs not only undergo this training on their own time, they pay the $30 fee themselves.

Why do the Lincoln County EMTs put in all this time and effort, receiving pay for only a portion of it? EMT Jungbluth mentioned a number of general reasons, such as interest in helping people, dedication to a cause, and the ability to help one's own family. But he seemed unsure.

"It must be the attitude," he finally suggested.

"No, it's the attitude," said Adams.

Ruidoso 'well-seasoned?'

by DARRELL J. PEHR
News Staff Writer

Imagine a giant chef, complete with chef's hat and salt shaker, seasoning homes and businesses of a tiny mountain village he towers over.

That is the concept of the Adworks, Ltd. ad that will promote Ruidoso from the pages of Southwest Airlines magazine, presented at Wednesday's meeting of the Advertising Committee of the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce. The caption of the ad will read, "Ruidoso is well-seasoned."

Another ad, the creation of Epstein Communications advertising agency in Albuquerque, will include an outline of the state of Texas, with one border extended to encompass Ruidoso. The caption will read, "Ski in Texas?" alluding that Ruidoso is just another part of Texas. That ad is designed to attract the Texas market, according to Shannon Reeves, account representative for the Epstein agency. The ad will run in Texas Monthly magazine.

Also presented at the meeting was the Epstein ad featuring a smiling native Mexican family completely outfitted in the latest skiwear. That ad will be published in Aero Mexico magazine, according to Reeves.

Both the magazine and upcoming newspaper advertisements are part of the "We accept pesos" program partially funded by the state. The committee decided to use the same artwork for both the magazine and newspaper ads.

According to Bob Epstein, of the Epstein agency, the $350,000 in matching and cooperative funds provided by the state will be allocated on a percentage basis. Of the money, $100,000 will be used in economic development projects and the remaining $250,000 will be used for the promotion of tourism.

The way the funds will be divided, according to Epstein, will be by totaling all the money collected through lodgers' tax programs in the communities, then figuring what percentage of that amount was donated by which community. Then that percentage will be taken out of the $250,000, matching the communities' percentage.

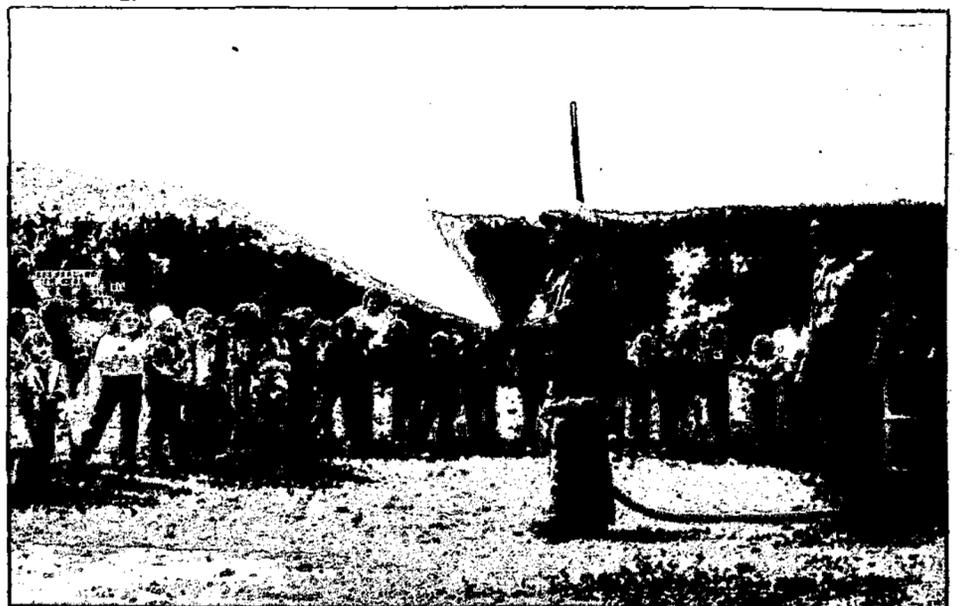

According to Epstein, Ruidoso may also be eligible for some of the economic development monies. The total amount the village spends promoting economic development would be the figure the percentage would be based on, he said.

Donation for safety

Rio Ruidoso Lioness Club president Stormy Kirby-Smith recently presented a $650 check to village manager Jim Hine. The money, raised during the club's Ms? Ruidoso contest, will help pay for new school zone speed limit signs at the White Mountain schools. Club treasurer Joyce McMath and Ruidoso police chief Dick Swenor watch the presentation.

Students tell of Hugh O'Brian program

by PAMELLA FIELD

"There might be times when I feel I can't do something, but then I tell myself 'Oh yes you can!'" said Brandi Adecock Wednesday when she spoke at the Woman's Club.

Adecock was one of three Ruidoso High School students who attended the Hugh O'Brian Leadership Conference at New Mexico State University in Las Cruces last summer.

Adecock is a junior this year and she said some of what she experienced at the conference has led her to thinking about working with computers.

Kathy Harrison also attended the conference. She said she "has always been interested in politics" and the conference spurred her interest further. Her plans include traveling to the East with intentions of checking on Georgetown University. "If I go into law, it will be in international law," said Harrison.

President of the Woman's Club Genevieve Duncan said the Hugh O'Brian Conference grew out of a need of O'Brian's to contribute something to humanity.

The Hugh O'Brian Conferences are sponsored nationally and internationally. The Woman's Club sponsored the local students who attended last summer.

Funeral services were held in California. She will be buried beside her husband in the Captain Cemetery.

Ruidoso harriers find tough going at state

Warrior gridders not alone in lacking enough players

by GARY BROWN
News Sports Writer

The Ruidoso High School football team is faced with a problem that also confronts many other AA-division and small AAA-division high schools in New Mexico.

The problem is finding enough players to fill out a complete football schedule on several levels.

The Warriors ended the recent season with about 55 players on their complete roster. Head coach Darrel Stierwalt and his staff had to fill varsity, junior varsity and freshman teams with those players.

Many times juniors and sophomores had to play part of a Friday night varsity game, then jump on a bus Saturday morning and travel to places like Dexter and Deming to play another game.

"It was tough, that's for sure, going with just that many players," Stierwalt said. "If we can get a large freshman group next season, we might have about 65 players coming out, but even that is almost a bare minimum."

"Seventy-five players would be a good amount. But we'll try and make do with what we'll get. We definitely need a junior varsity program."

It's not that the problem is unique to Ruidoso.

Teams like Tularosa, Tucumcari and many other schools in the 200 to 600 enrollment level also have to play some players in games twice a week.

"It's a tough situation," said Tularosa head coach Bob Cerney. "We're an AA school now and sometimes you have to play kids in both varsity and junior varsity games, as long as you don't play each player over a 48-minute limit."

"We try not to play the kids that much in one game. Maybe they'll suit up and play in the kickoffs in the varsity contest. Sometimes you have to play the kids a lot. It can't be avoided because of the number of kids you have."

Tularosa—like Ruidoso—has varsity, junior varsity and freshman programs.

Why not drop the junior varsity program if you don't have a great number of kids?

"A junior varsity program is absolutely necessary," answered Cerney. "The junior varsity program feeds the varsity program."

Tularosa has an enrollment considerably less than 400 students, compared to around 450-475 students at Ruidoso.

Cerney's sentiments were echoed by Tucumcari head coach Van Fryor.

"We've got a total of 94 players for the varsity and junior varsity teams combined," he commented. "We also have 26 players on our freshman team for a 60-player total."

Tucumcari's enrollment of 550 students is larger than either Ruidoso or Tularosa, but is still smaller than AAA division powerhouses like Silver City, Artesia and Portales.

"We have to play some players on both the varsity and junior varsity teams part of the time," Fryor said. "Sometimes some of the players would play on a Friday night and have to get up the next morning and travel on a bus to a junior varsity game."

The problem isn't as severe at larger AAA division schools like Portales and Artesia, the state champions the past two seasons.

"I think Artesia had around 80 players suited up when we played them," Fryor remarked. "We're not in the same situation as a school with 900 or 1,000 students."

Does playing youths in two games during a week increase their chances of being injured?

"I don't think so," Fryor said. "We haven't had any injuries that way. But come to think of it, I think the players who played in both varsity and junior varsity games got sick more often."

The situation is completely different at large AAAA division schools like Alamogordo, Clovis, Hobbs and Eldorado of Albuquerque, the latter the state's largest high school with more than 3,000 students.

Alamogordo was the state's top-ranked AAAA division squad until it lost its last two games and missed the state playoffs.

The Tigers had around 165-170 players in their program, divided over four teams. The teams included the varsity, junior varsity, sophomores and freshmen.

Alamogordo also has a powerful middle school program that ranks among the toughest in Southern New Mexico.

"We have enough players to go around," said Tiger head coach Gary Hveem in a bit of an understatement. "We don't have this problem of not enough players to go around. Our school has around 1,600 students from grades nine through 12."

Other AAAA division schools like Eldorado, Hobbs, Carlsbad, Roswell and defending state champion Clovis have programs as large or larger than Alamogordo's.

Hobbs, Clovis and Carlsbad all have over 2,000 students, while Roswell's enrollment is about the same as Alamogordo's.

Small A division schools like Capitan and Carrizozo only have varsity and junior high programs. Their enrollments (usually under 150) are too small to have either junior varsity or freshman programs.

So it's generally AA-division and AAA-division schools like Ruidoso, Tularosa and Tucumcari that are struggling to fill out their complete football programs.

The Ruidoso High School boys and girls cross-country teams ran into some tough competition and a very tough course in the state AAA division championships at Milne Stadium in Albuquerque Saturday morning.

Ruidoso's boys finished seventh in the team competition with 183 points, and the girls took 10th with 250 points.

Grants won the boys competition handsily with 20 points, well ahead of runner-up Zuni's 58. Zuni took the girls team championship with 35 points, overwhelming second-place Goddard, which had 109 points.

Cisco Bob was the top Warrior finisher with an 11th place finish in the boys competition, recording a 16:18 time. Bob's time was seven seconds slower than his seasonal best of 16:11, recorded last week in the district meet.

Franklin Martinez of Grants won the individual title with a brilliant 15:24.7 time. Melvin Tsusie of Tohat-chil was second in 15:38.4 and Danny Juarez of Los Lunas was third in 15:45.0.

Other Ruidoso finishers were Francisco Olvera in 34th, David Ordorica in 35th, Curt McClellan in 45th and Gabe Tam in 51st.

All the Warrior boys return next season. Bob, McClellan and Olvera are juniors, Ordorica is a sophomore and Tam is a freshman.

"Most of the guys improved their times," said Warrior boys coach Ronny Maakew. "It was a very tough course. A lot of it was uphill and a lot downhill. They also had to run near a garbage dump area."

"Our guys had never run on the course before, while a lot of the other runners had. That's why I'm glad all our guys are returning next year. Then we'll know more what to expect."

Freshman Rachel Kaydahzine was the top Ruidoso girl runner, finishing 34th in 21:29.

Other Warrior finishers were Deanna Peso, 46th in 22:10; Stacy Ivy, 64th in 23:57; Rosemary Tkacsik, 67th in 24:01; Gia Rose, 68th in 24:07. Mavis Geronimo was timed in 27:16.

"All our girls' times were improved over last week," said Ruidoso girls coach Sergio Castanon. "We went up there mainly to get experienced and we did. It was a tough course."

"We hope to build on this for next season. Maybe a few more girls will notice the team and come out. I didn't know about the team until school started, and then we didn't get started until two weeks after the boys did."

The state meet was just the second meet for the Warrior girls and the fourth one for the boys team.

Most of the runners on the Warrior boys and girls teams will compete in track next spring. Bob took second in the state 1,500 meters last spring and McClellan took third in the 800 meters in the same meet.

A total of 75 runners competed in the boys and girls AAA division races combined.

NOTES: Gallup won the boys AAAA title and Santa Fe took the girls crown in the large-school division... Laguna-Acoma won the girls AA-A division title and Jemez Valley captured the boys championship in the small-school division.

Francisco Olvera (foreground, photo from Albuquerque). The Warrior runners finished seventh in the boys division and 10th in the girls division. Seventy five runners competed.

Brave hoopsters look good

White Mountain Middle School boys basketball coach Dean Hood was pleased with his team's effort against visiting Capitan in a scrimmage Saturday.

"I thought we did real well," Hood said. "With our first team in, we jumped off to a 17-0 lead in the first two minutes of the action. Then I put my reserves in."

Hood was pleased with the play of several of his players.

"I guess Kirk Ryan played the best," Hood said. "Clint Bob also played well all around and Eric Ford did a good job handling the ball. Dennis Ullmann and Jeff Arvico also did a good job."

Ullmann is at least six feet tall and should give the Braves some strong rebounding this season. Ryan is the younger brother of former Ruidoso High School all-state standout Glenn Ryan and has a world of ability.

"We handled the man-to-man real well," Hood remarked.

Local boxing tourney scheduled for Saturday

Some of the top youth boxers in New Mexico will be featured at the "Rumble in Ruidoso" at 7 p.m. Saturday, November 19, at Jerry Dale's.

David Ordorica and Kevin Jefferson of the Las Piedras Boxing Team will probably compete in the tournament.

Admission to the event is $3. Each admission includes a drawing ticket for $100 worth of gasoline from Midtown Mart, courtesy of Jennings Oil Company.

Recreational sports for adults in the Ruidoso area have been getting a boost in recent months.

The Ruidoso Park and Recreation Department has started a volleyball program for adults at White Mountain Middle School.

The program has been going for three weeks, and starts every Thursday night at 7:30 in the White Mountain gymnasium. There is a possibility the program eventually may be on other nights during the week also.

Both men and women compete in the program, and it gives them a chance to play sports in a relaxed atmosphere.

"It's fun and good exercise," said Julie Yowell, who has participated in all three meetings. "It helps to get your frustrations out. It's more relaxed and not real competitive."

About 30 people have participated in the program each week. It's been about equally divided between men and women.

Yowell, who played high school volleyball in Orlando, Florida, is typical of many people who play volleyball for fun.

"I like it because it's not dangerous," she said. "It's a sport you can relax playing. I can play better when I'm relaxed."

"It's a great way to meet people in a fun atmosphere."

Volleyball is just one of many recreational programs park and recreation director Pam Graves hopes to have going in Ruidoso by next spring.

Graves has sent out a survey to Ruidoso residents in an effort to find out what sports and activities they are most interested in.

She hopes to have the survey completed by next spring, and then Ruidoso should see a host of new recreational programs come about.

But for now, adult volleyball is one program both men and women can participate in.

The next couple of weeks will be rather quiet as far as local high school sporting events are concerned.

The high school football season is over and the prep basketball and wrestling seasons won't begin for another two weeks.

But there are still plenty of other sports activities scheduled the next two weeks.

The Las Piedras Boxing Team (LPBT) is sponsoring the "Rumble in Ruidoso" tournament this coming Saturday at Jerry Dale's.

Some of the top amateur youth boxers in New Mexico will probably compete in the tournament, along with the LPBT boxers.

Holiday Bowl is continuing an extensive league schedule with competition every day except Sunday.

The Ruidoso Gymnastics Academy gymnasium is host to several activities during the week for both adults and children.

So while the local high school athletic teams are not in action, why not take in the boxing tournament, a bowling league or another sports activity?

Grizzlies finish third in state tourney

The Carrizozo High School varsity volleyball team took third in the state A division tournament in Albuquerque Saturday.

Carrizozo took a 15-8, 15-15, 15-14 decision over Fort Sumner Saturday morning at West Mesa High School for the consolation title. Friday the Grizzlies had lost to eventual runner-up Tatum 15-3, 15-10 in the semi-finals.

Melrose won the state championship for the fourth straight season, defeating Tatum 15-10, 4-15, 15-8.

The Grizzlies has opened the state competition Thursday with an impressive 15-12, 15-10 decision over Coronado. Captain also participated in the tournament, but lost its opener to Tatum 15-13, 15-9 Thursday.

Christetta Chavez were again standouts for the Grizzlies. Both made the all-district first team recently.

"I felt both teams played a little tight," said Captain coach Darrel Ray about his team's match with Tatum. "We blew a couple of leads, but if both teams had played looser, I think we would have had as good a chance as them to make it to the semi-finals and the finals." Ray praised the play of Helen Long, Shelly Stowe and Audrey Joiner.

"Joiner and Long especially played well for us," he said. "They've played well all year long."

Carrizozo finished the season with a 17-4 record and Captain ended up 15-6.

Banquet set for Tuesday

Breaking a long-time tradition, Ruidoso High School will hold a fall sports banquet at 6:30 Tuesday night in the Warrior gymnasium.

The banquet will honor all members of the Warrior football, volleyball and cross-country teams. Previously these athletes were honored at the spring banquet along with the rest of the Ruidoso athletes.

There isn't any fee to attend the banquets. However, people interested in going to the banquet are asked to bring some food.

Persons needing further information can call 257-5669.

Warrior wrestlers have large turnout

Ruidoso High School wrestling coach Gerald Ames has a large group of experienced wrestlers to work with this season.

"We've got 38 guys out for the team," Ames said. "That's about the same number as last season. However, we've got a lot of good kids that are experienced, in some cases having four or five years of wrestling."

Ames has five wrestlers back who competed in last season's state tournament. They are Gary Burgess, Scott Cirualo, James Herrera, Gervase Peso and Chad Surmick.

Burgess wrestled in the 185-pound division last season, Cirualo in the 167-pound class, Herrera in the 157-pound division, Peso in the 138-pound division and Surmick in the 105-pound division.

Ames also has back a good number of other wrestlers who competed last season.

Zack Swalander, Bronson Rue and the Jameson brothers, Kevin, Kyle and Kerry, all participated in the Warrior program last season.

Ruidoso will also have a heavyweight wrestler this season, something they lacked last year.

Joe LaRue, a transfer from Georgia, has looked good in practice. He competed in the Georgia state tournament last season.

"I'm optimistic," Ames said. "I think we'll be good, although I'm not sure how good yet."

The Warriors will open the season Saturday, December 3, hosting their own tournament.

Goddard, Roswell, Tucumcari, New Mexico Military Institute and Eastwood of El Paso, Texas, are among the schools scheduled to participate in the tournament.

Fiftieth Anniversary
For Earl And Martha Fior
Was Truly Golden

The fiftieth Wedding Anniversary for Earl Travis Fior and Martha Louise Myers Fior was celebrated the evening of November nine at the Cree Meadows Country Club.

The celebration, arranged by the children of this greatly beloved couple, was attended by folks from all over Lincoln County, and various parts of the United States, who enjoyed a grand feast including a giant wedding cake four stories high. (The cake was in the form of a tower with the traditional little man and wife on top.)

Martha and Earl were married in Artesia November nine, 1933. They raised four children. All the children attended except one: Jack Travis Fior, an electronic engineer who was installing communications on Ascension Island.

From Bloomington, Minnesota, came their eldest child, Jeanne Dean, with her husband David, and their daughter, Linda.

Their son, Robert Earl Fior and his wife Carol Anne of Ruidoso Downs, and their younger son, Rod, joined in the celebration. Their eldest son, Russ, is in the Eastern New Mexico University at Portales.

Their younger daughter, Margie Keith, and two sons, Jerry Jr. and Steven, were there to help give their parents this grand send-off.

Martha's sister, Hazel, and her husband, Dolce Shults, from Mesa, Arizona, added great cheer to the occasion.

From Hobbs, came Earl's aunt, Vergie Jackson.

Earl's brother Ancil, his across-the-creek neighbor, was there to share memories with all the friends.

Earl's sister, Vera Maasi, widow of retired Air Force Major, the late "Red" Maas, was there, and also her son, Fred McDonald of Canoga Park, California; and her daughter, Patricia Smith, of Ruidoso all were there, to add their hearty good wishes.

Martha was born in Upland California, September twenty three, 1914; to Sam and Myrtle Myers.

Earl was born in Wellington, Texas, June first, 1913, to the former Mabel Langford, and C.C. Fior, also known as "Claude."

A Young Traveler
By Covered Wagon

At the age of six weeks, Earl began the trip from Wellington, Texas, with his parents in a covered wagon. When he was an even three months old, they arrived at Prairie View, New Mexico, near Lovington.

Years later the family found themselves at Artesia, where Earl's father ran a bakery which was one of the largest in New Mexico. Earl as a young baker boy, age twelve, baked every kind of bread and rolls.

In the summer of 1933, Martha Myers came to Artesia to visit her sister. Earl and Martha met in Sunday School and both knew they need look no further.

In a drive through the Country side, they came by a cotton field, and Martha asked,

"Is that corn?"
"Later on down the highway after passing several signs reading:
"Dip, three hundred feet."
Martha said,

"I believe these three-hundred-foot-deep dips are a fake."
From this grew the laughter which has carried them through their truly golden marriage.

Biscuit Hill
Earl's father and mother established the restaurant and cafe there at the crossing that became famous especially among truckers from coast to coast.

Earl tells of some truckers talking in the hotel lobby in New York city. They were talking about good places to eat, and one spoke up:

"I sure wish I could have some of those home made hot biscuits at Mrs. Fior's, there at Biscuit Hill."

Later on Earl and Martha established the Seeping Springs trout lakes, also famous all over the United States.

Earl and Martha live happily in Apple Blossom Road, among the apple trees planted by Earl's father and mother. They have been a blessing to us all these years. And we thank all those who made this celebration, in Earl's words, "A dream come true."

So we have celebrated the Golden. Now let's go for the Diamond Wedding Jubilee: I will be ninety-nine years old, but I figure on being there. So don't count me out, Earl and Martha.

You may remember I mentioned a poem recited at Lula Runnels' nineteenth birthday Celebration in Capitan on the sixth, by Stanley Pew of Capitan. Stanley sent me the copy and here is the poem.

MOTHER'S OLD CHECKED APRON
My Mother's old checked apron
Was a garment full and wide
It served a useful purpose and
A million more beside.

It was made of six-cent gingham
It was nothing fine or grand
Just a simple garment
Fashioned by a busy hand.
It had a little cross-stitch
Across the bottom row
And two strings that tied behind
In a sort 'o half-hitch bow.
It had no lace nor ruffles
Nor pretty applique
Just a simple garment, but an epic of it's day.
To dust, to show the files
And to wipe the grimy tears from little children's eyes.
It was used to fill the kindling box
With cobs and twigs and chips
And bring the pesky parley in from the garden to the pigs.
It was used to bring in eggs
Concealed neath leafy bowers.
And bring in half-drowned chickens
Caught out in April showers.

It was used to snatch a kettle
When no pot-rag was at hand
And to lighten fruit-jar lids
When winter stores were canned.
It was used to bring in garden stuff
And peasies from the hill.
And many a goodly mess of greens
Did Mother's apron fill.
Her hands were shielded from the cold
Beneath its sheltering fold
And tiny infants' feet were sheltered there.
On mornings bleak and cold.
It was a queenly garment, but Mother was a queen
Ah memory brings it back, it was a noble thing
And when I join the heavenly throng
With their garments white and fair
I'll say, just Mother's old checked apron-
Is what I want to wear.

Smokey Day plans continue

by DARRELL J. PEHR
News Staff Writer

The Smokey Bear Day Committee of the Capitan Chamber of Commerce met Wednesday, November 9, to discuss continuing plans for the upcoming Smokey Bear Day.

The day will be Saturday, May 20, 1984, and will include all of Lincoln County. The day's activities will include a parade, at 10 a.m., and a craft show. Events and exhibitions will go on all day, with something for all ages, according to committee member Martha Theidt.

Theidt said there will be a bank account where people can donate any contributions to the Smokey Bear Day fund.

The theme for the parade will be "Nature and Children."

The idea to have a special day grew from the fact that a commemorative stamp will be issued by the post office fairly soon.

Leaflets will be available on times and events taking place during the weekend.

Emergency farm loans available here

Applications for emergency farm loans for losses caused by this summer's drought and extremely high temperatures are being accepted at the Farmers Home Administration (FmHA) office in Ruidoso. FmHA county supervisor Arthur D. Baca said.

Lincoln and Otero counties are two of 12 in New Mexico recently named by Secretary of Agriculture John R. Block as eligible for loans to cover part of actual production losses resulting from the drought.

Baca said farmers may be eligible for loans of up to 80 percent of their actual losses, or the operating loan needed to continue in business, or $500,000, whichever is less. For farmers unable to obtain credit from private commercial lenders, the interest rate on the first $100,000 borrowed is 5 percent; interest rate is 8 percent on the balance borrowed over that amount. For farmers who can obtain commercial credit but who choose to borrow from FmHA, the interest rate is 13.75 percent.

"As a general rule, a farmer must have suffered at least a 30 percent loss of production to be eligible for an FmHA emergency loan," Baca said. "Farmers participating in the PIK or Federal Crop Insurance Program will have to figure in proceeds from those programs in determining their loss."

"Applications for loans under this emergency designation will be accepted until April 20, 1984, but farmers should apply as soon as possible. Delays in applying could create backlogs in processing and possibly carry over into the new farming season," Baca said.

FmHA is a credit agency of the U.S. Department of Agriculture. It is authorized to provide disaster emergency loans to recognized farmers who work at, and rely on farming for a substantial part of their living. Eligibility is extended to individual farmers who are U.S. citizens, and to farming partnerships, corporations or cooperatives in which U.S. citizens hold a majority interest.

The FmHA office for Lincoln and Otero counties is located at 1007 Mechem Drive, Ruidoso, NM 88345, and is open from 9 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.

Brownies benefit from Fort Stanton speakers

Health and drug abuse were the topics of discussion Thursday between Capitan Brownie Troop 99 and members of the staff at Fort Stanton Hospital and Training School.

The discussion, held at Capitan Elementary School, was led by Sharon Darby, acting director of nurses at Fort Stanton.

"We're hoping to expand Fort Stanton's services to the community,"

Darby said. "This is the first project of its kind, it's kind of a trial run. We have a lot of professional people and resources at Fort Stanton. We'd like to get out and help the surrounding communities."

Darby said Fort Stanton administrator Mark Delgado was completely in support of the program.

"It's nice to have the boss's backing," Darby said.

The talk came in handy for the Brownie troop, fulfilling requirements of the troop for the Health Care section of the World Association of Girl Guides and Girl Scouts Global Understanding Project. The global project is to be completed by the 25th World Conference to be held in July, 1984 at Tarrytown, New Jersey.

Also speaking to the troop were Carol Keys, a clinical psychologist at Fort Stanton, and Dorothy Lacy, a dental technician at Fort Stanton.

Opinion

Editorial

On March 28 of this year, The Ruidoso News ran an editorial saying we thought we had had enough snow for one winter. At that time, there had been over 40 inches of the white stuff in town and more than 200 on the mountain.

We concluded by figuratively turning our eyes heavenward and wondering, "Is anybody up there listening?"

Well, evidently somebody was, and He or She did not like what He or She heard.*

A week or so later, more than two feet of snow fell on the village in the biggest April storm in memory.

This caused several persons to question the state of grace—or lack of it—of the writer of the editorial. "Somebody up there doesn't like you," they suggested.

Now a new winter is approaching. A photo of a cross-country skier gliding along a Denver street last week reminded us that ski season is nearly here.

And it will not be here any to soon for businessmen (errr ... persons) who count on the ski trade.

So in the interest of a snowy winter, we considered again imploring the heavens not to snow. But after thinking about it, we decided it's not nice to try to fool Mother Nature (or Father Nature) by using reverse psychology on Her/Him.

So we will just bide our time, confident the snows will come.—TP

*Consider this an exercise in reading a non-sexist Bible.

On the Village Beat with Tim Palmer

Not much to say today because of the letters to the editor. I would not have space to say anything if two letters to the editor now sitting on my desk had been verifiable.

I have said it before and we say it from time to time in the little box we run on this page:

"A telephone number must be included with the letter for verification of the writer's identity."

It is very frustrating to receive a good, well-thought-out letter and not be able to verify it because it lacks a phone number or even a post office box. (I verify some letters by mailing a note to the writer asking that they call me.)

This is especially vexing when a letter represents a point of view that is contradictory to that of another letter on the page. For example, one of the letters on my desk is complimentary to the animal control officer.

But with nothing more than a name on the letter—no telephone number, no return address—I can only hope the writer calls me to verify it.

There is one exception to our policy, and that is when a letter is delivered to me in person. And if you do bring your letter by our office, try to bring it to me rather than leaving it with the receptionist. And if I'm not here, be sure to leave a number where I can contact you.

Another frustrating thing about these unverified letters is that I suspect there are people out there who grumble, "Oh, I wrote a letter to the editor once. They didn't print it."

The only letters we do not print are those that would be libelous, or those that make some kind of announcement we feel would be handled better as a news item.

So keep those letters coming folks. We know they are one of the best-read parts of the newspaper. If you want to voice an opinion on something, a letter to the editor is a good way to do so.

Inside the Capitol by Fred McCaffrey

SANTA FE—While state budgets in next-door Oklahoma are getting slashed, agency heads here, with stars in their eyes, hope to be given even more money to spend next year.

Listening to our young Cabinet Secretaries present their wish lists to the Legislative Finance Committee makes you wonder whether any of them have gotten the word?

Here's a sample of the kind of increases they are asking for, after orders that they were to submit a barebones budget:

—The Department of Finance and Administration, assigned to be the watchdog in keeping all budgets down, is itself asking for 7.1 percent more money next year.

—The Taxation and Revenue Department, where they should know how receipts have fallen, wants a whopping boost of 26.8 percent.

—Human Services, where they brag about cutting costs by letting 27 people go, wants an expanded budget of 20 percent more for July 1.

Where do they think the money is going to come from?

The Governor is talking these days about closing tax loopholes as one new source of revenue.

He'll have a great experience when he tries that. What's a "loophole" to one party is an earned privilege to another. Over half those so-called loopholes in New Mexico's laws apply to farmers and ranchers. In times like these, they'll fight to keep every one of them—and anybody who tries to take them away will know he's been in a fistfight.

In Oklahoma, they do things better. When there is a revenue shortfall there, their governor is required to reduce state budgets by an equal amount, across the board.

They've cut state government spending in November by 4.1 percent. That comes after such past cuts as 5.5 percent last November, 12.7 percent in December, 11.9 percent in January, 10 percent in February and 5.9 percent in March.

Maybe we need the same kind of provision to force economies on those in charge of our state's spending. As things are now, they don't seem to be getting the message.

Alex Martinez chose his issues. He was the second-highest-ranking state Senator in seniority when he died earlier this week, after a long illness.

He took with him a record of success in passage of his legislation, which, expressed as a batting average would have been over .900. That's a record any legislator could envy.

Martinez served three years in the House and 16 in the Senate. The seniority he accumulated brought him great power. At the time of his death he was chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, which acts on more than 80 percent of all measures considered by the Legislature. He also chaired the interim Legislative Finance Committee, the group which represents the will of the Legislature when that body is not in session.

Martinez did not wield that power in the same way or with the same verve as some who held it before his time. He appreciated the honor and was jealous of its prerogatives, but balance sheets as such held no fascination for him. His main interest was in what money can do, not in the money itself.

That's why he had such unusual success in the percentage of his legislation which got into the statute books. He did not indiscriminately sponsor bills, and he fought with great tenacity for those pieces of legislation bearing his name.

Many observers considered him the Senator who most ferociously represented the interests of his own district.

Younger and less discriminating legislators, some of whom appear to drift aimlessly through session after session, could learn much from the career of Alex Martinez and his deep dedication to the causes he believed in.

Letters to the editor

DEAR EDITOR:
We thought the business community would like to hear the comments in this letter.

Dear R.B.A.
We attended your Motorcycle Festival, and enjoyed it very much. Thank you very much for having a very good bike show, trade show.

We were in your city all week and every business place we were in was very, very nice to us, much better than a few years ago.

Thanks again,
Odell and Marsha Rasco
Muleshoe, Texas

RUIDOSO BUSINESS ASSOCIATION

DEAR EDITOR:
Congratulations on your front page story on the much ignored subject of family violence. Educating the public is the first step in breaking this vicious cycle.

The next step is for all of us to recognize that spouse battering is not just a police problem, it is a community problem.

Our law enforcement agencies have told us that they average one domestic violence call per day. Ruidoso has a problem—how are we going to respond?

Isn't it time we offered families in crisis some alternatives in our own community? We have plenty of facilities and resources, but who'll take the lead in coordinating them? Let's get something going, Ruidoso!

FRANKIE JARRELL

DEAR EDITOR:
We would like to thank the following businesses for contributing to our recent carnival. Without their help it could not have been the success it was.

Sassy Angels, Hearts Delight, Sierra Blanca Motors, Brunells, Kentucky Fried Chicken, Prune Time, K-Box.

Also Big T, Nottingham's Pub, Yucca Inn, Ranchhouse Restaurant, Cousins, La Cochera, McDonald's.

Also Baskin Robbins, Western Auto, Hearts Delight, Plant Card, Mountain Art, Armadillo Gallery, C & L Lumber.

Also Nellie's Beauty Shop, Aspen Interiors, Pro Ski Sports, Don's Pharmacy, Woman's Club, Gibson's, Ben Franklin.

Also Rocking Horse, KREE, Aries Books and Graphics, Ruben & Adeline Sandoval, Grimmells, Coe Ranch, AVC Excavating (Jerry Pope), Roy Seay Racing Inc. and Paul Jones.

Sincerely,
NOB HILL ELEMENTARY SCHOOL FACULTY

DEAR EDITOR:
A recall for the election of an entirely new city council seems unfortunate. If an elected official continuously defies the will of the people on important issues then impeachment is a solution. To oust four councilmen to get rid of one or two, or for the purpose of increasing the size of the council is untenable. The whole affair flies square in the face of responsible government and is a reflection on the electorate.

It seems appropriate now to ask whether we have allowed ourselves the best possible government in the first place. We have a sign ordinance unequally applied, a floundering and potentially grave water policy, and city planning ideas that sometimes counter the attraction of Ruidoso as a place to live or visit. I don't wish to paint an entirely bleak picture. There are plenty of intelligent people in and out of city government who have made sound decisions which affect us all in a positive way.

The point is this. We have to own up to our choices about the people we elect. A recall of the city council was a drastic measure and, given the circumstances, was not really indicated. What can six councilmen do that four can't? If there is a tie vote it doesn't matter if there is four or forty on the council. The question does not seem to be one of numbers, but rather, one of issues. For instance, many people believe there are too many realtors and contractors involved with city government. Notwithstanding, the truth or fiction about conflict of interest is irrelevant. If you don't want a nuclear physicist on the council then don't vote for one. The idea of changing the council size is apparently politically motivated and not in the city's best interest. We are now stuck with a lame duck city council and another special election at a time when important decisions need to be made.

I believe there is a way to improve the quality of the city council. Call for another special election and this time do something constructive. Vote in a salary for councilmen and the mayor commensurate with the job requirements. This would attract a good cross section of qualified candidates who otherwise do not have the time and/or money to serve the people for free. Too expensive you say? As we are constantly reminded by state and national policies, bad government is vastly more expensive than the good kind. Political office is not unlike the marketplace, you get what you bargain for. It would be refreshing indeed to one day find a hard working business person sitting in the mayor's chair.

See you at the ballot box.
BRUCE W. McELVEA

DEAR EDITOR:

I am writing in response to the article written in the Monday, November 7, 1983 Ruidoso News, concerning the 16 year old dog that was put to death within two hours after admittance by Animal Control Officer Buddy Dean. The Animal Control Officer acknowledged that the dog had been destroyed after only 2 hours, but felt the action was justified because the dog was sick and was not wearing any identification. By any humane Animal Control standards, and by our own City Ordinance, there are no circumstances that could warrant this type of action. I know because I helped rewrite the Animal Control Ordinances. In fact the animal was sick; which Dave Jones, the gentleman who took the dog to the Police Station said was not sick; the animal should have been quarantined and held for the required three days, not destroyed.

I am a certified Animal Health Technician, and it is, in my opinion, that a 16 year old dog that is regurgitating and drooling after being caged, could very likely be caused by nerves or some metabolic problem, especially with a history of perfect health prior to admittance.

And, it would surely not be a serious infectious threat to other dogs in the kennel. The diseases that would be of major concern would be ones such as distemper, parvo, and a few other viral and bacterial infectious diseases that are just not that common in older dogs and most are prevented by regular vaccinations and good animal care, and a dog does not live to be 16 years old without either.

Mr. Dean also stated, "that without any identification, we have no means of tracking down the owners". "Animals can't talk." This is absurd.

Several animals picked up do not have identification. They have either slipped out of their collars, or their tags have come off, or they are an older dog that cannot wear a collar for medical reasons. (Several elderly dogs develop warts and small types of tumors around the neck area that are irritated and caused to bleed by a collar.) Or the animal is a true stray and has no owner or tags. In any event, the same steps should be taken. The newspaper should be contacted, the radio pet patrol, police, commercial kennels, veterinarians, dog groomers, the Humane Society and any other individuals in the animal profession. If the owner of a lost animal is looking for their pet, nine times out of ten if these people have been notified, the pet's owner is found. (If our Animal Control officers don't even know the basic steps for locating pet owners of lost dogs—heaven help us.)

Since I moved to Ruidoso in 1978, animal control has been a lingering problem. It has always been under private contract which just hasn't worked out for the most part.

Everyone wants to make a buck off the poor animals, which is very difficult to do if a proper animal control and animal shelter is provided, which should include concrete, heat, running water, individual holding pens, adequate quarantine facilities, a humane euthanasia program, a good vaccination program, an effective pickup—owner location—adoption program, and ultimately a good public education program. If there is a profit, it should go back into the program, not into someone's pocket. The blame, however, does not lie totally with the private individuals that are contracted to provide animal control, because they are usually contracted on a very short term basis and they stand to lose thousands of dollars if their contract is not renewed and they have invested in providing such a facility and a service. That is why most successful and humane animal control programs and shelters are provided by either the cities themselves or by humane societies or both in cooperation with each other.

When I moved here, the majority of complaints received down at City Hall were concerning animal control problems, and to my knowledge, nothing has changed.

I don't know what it will take, or how many tragedies and inhumanities will take place before something is done and our village takes this problem seriously and maybe tries something new; but something does need to be done.

Good animal control is not impossible. I've seen it work in cities with millions of dogs and millions of people, and there is a right way and a wrong way to go about it. If you are an interested party, or you think you can help, or want to know more, please contact me.

Family Jewels offers fine jewelry

by DARRELL J. PEHR
News Staff Writer

Gleaming gems stud shiny golden rings. Nearby, slinky shimmering chains and strings of pearls cascade from an elegant crystal vase. Painted canvasses with bright splashes of color and a scowling figure of brash bronze decorate surrounding walls.

"Fine jewelry and fine art are what we're all about," said Polly Clayton, owner of the newly opened store Family Jewels, located at 2609 Sudderth Drive. Jane Spall, a part-time employee also works at the shop. The shop has been open since July. Clayton said the shop deals in fine gold jewelry of 24 karat or more quality, genuine gems and unique pieces of estate jewelry.

"The estate jewelry comes from people's private collections," said Clayton. She grew up in San Saba, Texas, but is a mountain lover at heart. Clayton is slender and tall with silver highlights in her dark hair. Nearly a dozen thin bracelets dangled from her wrists as she carefully handled a piece of jewelry.

"I made this piece," she said, holding up a large gold buckle of two horses' heads. She explained how she plans to finish the piece with a gem in each of the horses' eyes, and demonstrated how the piece will be worn with a pearl necklace. "I will pin it here," she said, motioning to the front of her shoulder.

"Many of our pieces are custom made," she added. "The Indian artist Gary Johnson is one of the people who do work for us."

Clayton said the balance of their stock is gathered from markets in California, New York and Dallas, as well as the estate jewelry which comes from all over.

"We take customized orders," Clayton said. "We can get anything for anyone."

The shop, carpeted in deep green and lined with ornate display cases, has paintings from several artists accenting the walls.

"Most of our artwork is done by Ben Konis, of Amarillo, (Texas)," Clayton said. Other artists featured included V. Stiha, of Santa Fe, and Ruth Crawford, also of Santa Fe.

Family Jewels is part of The Garden, a three-shop complex. The other shops include the Makeup Room and Ree's Boutique. The complex is scheduled for completion in the spring, according to Clayton. Starting next summer, the shops will offer valet parking.

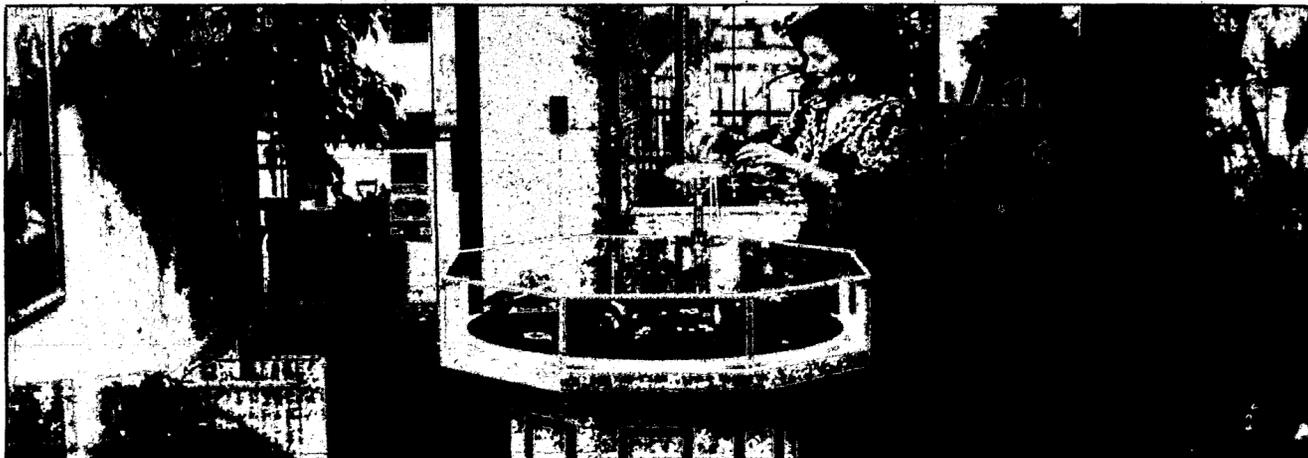

Clayton said Family Jewels is open 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. It will be closed Sunday and Wednesday during the winter. The phone number is 257-5489.

Strands of pearls and gold in a crystal vase are representative of the items to be found at Family Jewels. The newly opened shop is open five days a week from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Family Jewels is closed Sundays and Wednesdays.

This bronze figure, made by sculptor Jack Smith, gazes from the walls of Family Jewels, at 2609 Sudderth Drive in The Garden.

Polly Clayton, owner of Family Jewels, organizes a display of pearls and gold strands. "We can get anything for anyone," Clayton said, adding that the shop will also custom-design work for clients. The shop works with many freelance artists in New Mexico.

TAKE A BREAK
By Staff Of Ruidoso Travel

Yugoslavia is probably the most popular Eastern European destination. Not quite behind the Iron Curtain, its mountainous interior and attractive Adriatic coastline make it a different—and economical—place to visit. In fact, there are several concrete ways for tourists to save money.

One way to stretch your money in Yugoslavia is by using "tourist checks." They're not exactly travelers checks; you buy them there instead of buying the local currency. Most places accept them, and give you 10 percent off the normal cash price if you use them. Leftover checks can be converted back to dollars with no problem at the end of your vacation. They can be bought at banks, post offices and other exchange stations within Yugoslavia.

If you are driving through Yugoslavia, you can also save money on gasoline, as long as you purchase "petrol coupons" before officially entering the country. You can buy the coupons through JAT Yugoslavian Airline offices here in the U.S., at Yugoslavian international airports or border crossings, or at automobile club offices in most other European countries. Unused coupons can be redeemed, but only at their point of purchase.

Whether you're heading east or west, north or south, we're ready to help. See us at Ruidoso Travel.
