

Jarle Ja! Halsnes captures U.S. Open Ski title

by BILLY ALLSTETTER
News Staff Writer

In a tremendous feat of endurance and concentration, Norwegian Jarle Halsnes claimed the U.S. Open title and $20,500 for the weekend's work at Eagle Creek Ski Area.

Halsnes won the giant slalom race and $6,000 Saturday. He placed second to Frenchman Alain Navillod in the slalom Sunday, then won the final $10,000 championship match against Navillod by a mere .036 seconds.

Halsnes' successful weekend pushed him into first place on the Pro Ski International Tour, passing Austrian Georg Ager. Ager did not get beyond the round of 16 skiers either day. Halsnes won the slalom and combined championships at the First Interstate Cup in Winter Park, Colorado, last month.

Halsnes earned his paycheck this weekend, running 20 runs over the two days.

"I can't breathe. I can't think," said Halsnes as well-wishers gathered around him after his final victory. "I am too tired to be happy."

Halsnes said he was tired early Sunday after running eight races Saturday to claim the giant slalom victory. He said he gained more strength as he warmed up.

Halsnes also attributed his victory to mental attitude.

"I was positive all the time," said the second-year pro.

After winning the giant slalom on Saturday, Halsnes was on the verge of sweeping the whole competition in his final match against Navillod. He won the first race by .359 seconds and was even in the second when he hit hard in a rut and lost a ski only six gates from the finish line.

Weariness and disappointment were apparent as Halsnes lay face down on the snow while Navillod skied across the finish line to claim the slalom title and $6,000 first prize.

Had Halsnes won both the slalom and giant slalom races, the $10,000 U.S. Open title would have been his automatically.

But Navillod's victory forced a final match between the two men on a half slalom, half giant slalom course.

Navillod, five-time French national champion, beat Halsnes by 236 seconds in the first race. On the second run, Navillod led through the slalom portion of the course with Halsnes looking wild in the upper gates. But Halsnes settled down to smooth strong skiing in the giant slalom portion. He pulled ahead to a 271 advantage to take the race and a $10,000 check by .036 seconds.

Both Navillod and Halsnes faced stiff challenges before getting to the slalom finals Sunday.

Navillod had to come from behind in his match against six-time U.S. National Champion Cary Adgate in his semi-final match. Adgate won the first race by 168 seconds, but Navillod beat him by 345 seconds to advance to the finals.

Adgate went on to claim third place and $3,000 by beating Norwegian Reidar Wahl in their final match.

Wahl and Halsnes had a very close first race in their semifinal match before Wahl blew out of the course two-thirds of the way down. The automatic 15-second disadvantage was too much for Wahl to make up in the second run, as Halsnes coolly kept in the course and close enough to Wahl to earn the victory.

Halsnes had more difficulty in his quarterfinal match against American Peter Dodge. He had to overcome a 559-second deficit in the second run to advance.

Halsnes had it easier in the giant slalom Saturday, with opponents falling or missing gates in the previous three races before the final match against Lonny Vanatta.

Halsnes won the first race by 526 seconds and the second by .031 to beat Vanatta.

Vanatta, the winningest American pro, was competing in his final races as a pro this weekend. The Steamboat Springs, Colorado, native has won 20 professional races in his seven-year pro racing career.

His second-place finish earned him $4,500.

"I really liked this kind of hill," said Vanatta about the steep hill and hard snow.

Despite the warm temperatures Saturday, snow on the course remained hard.

"The hill is great for pro skiing," said giant slalom third-place racer Sjur Gautneb. "You have to be a better technical skier."

American Dave Stapleton took fourth in the giant slalom Saturday, but missed his first race Sunday when he overslept that morning.

Amateurs got their chance to run through the gates Saturday afternoon in the Celebrity Pro Am race. The race featured 27 teams made up of one pro and three amateurs competing on a triple elimination course.

Ruidosoans Clifford Deaton, Tommy Thomason and Chuck Woodell combined with pro Ewald Zirbeseg-ger to win the pro am. The team of Bob Martin, Mike Hurd, Matt Vuckley and pro Peter Kaskes was second. Jo Bob McGuire, Barry Williams, Janet Steele and pro Navillod placed third.

Media coverage for the race was abundant, with seven television stations, SKI and Powder magazines, AP and UPI wire services, and the Albuquerque Journal and El Paso Times all sending representatives.

USA Cable Network also taped two hour-long programs that will be broadcast four times each. The giant slalom race will be broadcast first Wednesday evening at 7:30 p.m. local time. The slalom race will be broadcast Saturday at 6 p.m. USA Network is not broadcast locally, but can be picked up by satellite receiving "dishes."

Racers and organizers appeared pleased with the U.S. Open.

"I was very pleased with it," said Pro Ski International executive director Paul Carson.

He noted that volunteers did 99 percent of the work for the race and thanked them, "from the bottom of my heart."

He then called for the Second Annual U.S. Open in Ruidoso next year.

A tired and happy (and richer) Jarle Halsnes, only 25, holds trophy Sunday after winning the giant slalom and U.S. Open title in races at Eagle Creek.

Ruidoso High DECA club tops at state

Ruidoso High School continued its tradition of outstanding performances in Distributive Education Clubs of America (DECA) competition by dominating state competition in Albuquerque Thursday through Saturday.

DECA focuses on marketing and product distribution.

Ruidoso qualified 16 people for the national championships at Kansas City, Missouri, on May 16-24. Ruidoso's total beat all other schools in the state.

Del Norte High School of Albuquerque had the second highest number of qualifiers with nine.

Ruidoso has led the state in national qualifiers for the past six years. The top three individuals in each state competition category go to the national competition.

"I'm just tickled to death with our performance," said Ruidoso DECA advisor Eddie Parker.

"Qualifying 16 kids for nationals is five more than we had last year, and we had the most in the state then, too. The other schools have a lot of respect for us," he said.

Ruidoso earned first place with its Pepsi Learn and Earn project. Three students will be chosen to represent Ruidoso with that project at the national competition.

Club president Jeff Fargarson said Ruidoso High tried "something new and different" for the Pepsi project this year. The club worked on a wholesale level.

"It was real for us this year," he said. Pepsi projects also can be paper projects, rather than involving actual products.

Club vice president Virgil Reynolds said the Pepsi project at Ruidoso has placed near the top in national competition for years.

"For the wholesale project this year, 'We tried a different strategy. We built up a company.' While working on the project, he said, they discovered that "wholesaling on a smaller really isn't effective."

Fargarson said Ruidoso DECA could be the best in the nation. "The club does well because of Mr. Parker," he said. "He's got his act together and motivates us."

Parker said students in DECA work because they enjoy going to national conventions. They got into their winning ways about eight years ago and have kept the momentum going, he said.

About 40 Ruidoso students participated in the three-day state competition in Albuquerque. Adults who accompanied them included Parker, bus driver Dennis Alward, Mildred Tillman and Margie Copeland.

Competition was divided into two levels in about a dozen categories. Seniors usually take exams on the supervisory level and juniors take master employee tests.

Following are Ruidoso national qualifiers and their events:

Robert Swanner, third in food marketing supervisory division;
Michelle Lopez, first in restaurant marketing supervisory division;
Mitch Rhodes, first in restaurant marketing master employee division;
Jim Smith, third in restaurant marketing master employee division;
Jeff Fargarson, third in general merchandising supervisory division;
Mike Smith, second in general merchandising master employee division;

Dallas Draper, third in general merchandising master employee division;

Dee Sherwood, third in general marketing supervisory division;

Justin Smith, third in service station master employee division;

Michelle Remmer, first in apparel and accessories written event;

Rene Gonzales, third in apparel and accessories written event;

Pam Parker, second in general merchandising written event; and Shamie Doak Parsons, first in entrepreneur written event.

Ted happy with performance

by DARRELL J. PEHR

"I was skiing really well this weekend," said local professional skier Ted Marolt of his efforts in the Pro Ski International U.S. Open races at Eagle Creek Ski Area.

"My lack of consistency shows a lack of training. I was hoping to do a little better."

Marolt was the only Ruidosoan to qualify for competition in the races, and managed to advance to the round of 16 in Friday's Giant Slalom competition. Racing against Austria's Hans Hinterseer, Marolt lost the first race by a narrow margin, but beat Hinterseer in the second go-round to progress to the round of 16 Saturday morning.

"I felt really good," Marolt said Friday of his victory over Hinterseer. "My objective was just to qualify for the race. Most of the pressure is off, now I can just think about ski racing."

In his matchup against American Lonny Vanatta Saturday morning, Marolt lost, and Vanatta went on to place second in the competition. Sunday, in the slalom competition round of 32, Marolt raced against Norwegian Stein Halsnes.

"I was ahead of Stein in the race, and I thought to myself, 'Now that I'm in front, I should just relax.' As soon as I said that I hooked a tip," Marolt said.

The hooked tip cost him the race, but Marolt said that overall he was pleased with his performance.

"I thought I was skiing really well. Beating Hans in the Giant Slalom to get into the round of 16 was real good. I felt that with the way I was skiing today (Sunday), I ought to have been right in there, maybe not winning the competition, but right up there. It just takes losing your concentration for a split second and you're out of it. It's just a lack of training."

"I'm skiing as fast and as well as any of the guys on the mountain."

Marolt said the races this weekend may have rekindled his interest in greater participation in professional racing.

"This race has given me a little more thought about getting into the sport full time."

Marolt said he didn't have any specific plans to compete again this year, but that the possibility existed. He said he would definitely compete if the race were held here again next year.

Marolt said he felt the race was a success.

"Everyone really enjoyed the race," he said of the other racers.

"They thought the race went really well."

"I hope it was success enough to have it again next year," he said. "I hope the town felt it was, too. The celebrities had a great time. Everybody just loved the race."

Marolt said the support by Ruidoso for the race was uncommon.

"I've been to races all over the world. Very rarely do you see the town getting behind the whole thing like they did here. I would like to personally thank the town of Ruidoso and everybody for their support."

"It was a great experience."

Celebrities lend glitter to race festivities

by C.E. REUTER

The home of the world's richest horse race hosted Hollywood entertainers for the world's richest ski race this weekend.

Celebrities skied, or tried to ski, in the pro am races Saturday afternoon. Then they sang for the Pro Am Awards Dinner Saturday night at Jerry Dale's.

Emcee Lyle Waggoner, who acted in "The Carol Burnett Show" and "Wonder Woman," played a mean leaf during the entertainment.

Despite a technical problem, Barry Williams took his turn on the stage. He is known for acting in "The Brady Bunch" and "General Hospital." Prana spoke with Anaya briefly. "I wanted to say hi," she said, "and I said my teacher wanted to say hi, too."

Williams has been singing for more than a dozen years; he said. His credits include musicals.

Also on stage Saturday, Christopher Holder of "The Young and the Restless," drafted Governor Tony Anaya to sing with him.

Before that, duo, Raina English belted out selections. The ski weekend was hardly her first trip to Ruidoso.

"I think my dad helped pay for Ruidoso Downs," she quipped at a press conference in the Albuquerque airport Thursday. "I grew up in Lubbock."

Fans of "The Lawrence Welk Show" recognize her as half of a singing duo, but she prefers to sing solo. "You can be more creative," she said. However, "it's much more frightening, singing alone."

The bugs that make the rounds each winter don't bother her professionally. "It's not difficult to sing with a cold. It is difficult to sing with a sore throat or cough."

"I have sung when I could not speak."

Touring has disadvantages, she has found. "If I could make a living staying put, I would," she said. English has a six-year-old daughter.

"I really want to do musicals," she said when asked about the future. She's looking forward to taking a musical comedy workshop.

Another entertainer with local connections is Tim Culbertson. His credits include "Hill Street Blues" and "Star Trek II."

Culbertson's sister-in-law, Jeanne Culbertson, is a strong supporter of Special Olympics in New Mexico. Events this weekend helped raise money for that program.

Other stars were new to Ruidoso. "I've wanted to see this part of the state," Richard Anderson said.

The history buff had done location filming for two of his 50 movies near Gallup and Carlsbad.

He portrayed Oscar in "The Six Million Dollar Man" and "The Bionic Woman" on television. "Perry Mason" is also among his series credits.

Films give you the opportunity to prepare, compared to television, he said. However, he called filming on location, rather than on a series lot, hard work. "You work under existing conditions, and are away from home."

Anderson's family includes three daughters. He has skied with them.

Some of the celebrities were nearly new to skis. Robert Walden, who played Rossi on "Lou Grant," has been skiing since Christmas. He admitted he fell into the Red River during one run.

New Mexico Governor Toney Anaya hugs young Prana Topper at Eagle Creek Saturday. Her father, Elliot Topper, is education director at Fort Stanton. Prana spoke with Anaya briefly. "I wanted to say hi," she said, "and I said my teacher wanted to say hi, too."

Tigers nip Bears for crown

The Bear looked in the eye of the Tiger and blinked Saturday night, and as a result Captain High School's boys varsity basketball team is the region B champion.

Capitan's Tigers used a free throw by Sammy Castillo to defeat the Cloudcroft Bears 67-66 in double overtime at Fort Sumner for the regional title. It was Capitan's second victory over the Bears in a week, and earned the Tigers a place in the state A division tournament, in Albuquerque, which starts Wednesday. The Tigers also played in the state tournament last season.

Capitan will open state play at 7 Wednesday night at Sandia High School against region A runner-up Cimarron. If the Tigers win that contest, they will play the winner of the Reserve-Texico game Thursday in the University of New Mexico's "Pit."

Castillo was fouled with two seconds left in the second overtime and made the first of two charity shots. After Castillo missed the second shot, Cloudcroft rebounded the ball but missed a shot from midcourt as the game ended.

The Tigers got a balanced attack in the victory, with senior Todd Proctor scoring 28 points to lead the way.

Danny Cummins added 13 points, Eddie Davis scored 14 and junior Dewey Keller canned 11 for the Tigers.

The Tigers also did well on the boards with Cummins taking eight rebounds, Davis grabbing seven and Proctor getting six.

Tony Bell and Gary Cox led Cloudcroft with 16 points apiece.

Cloudcroft led 14-13 at the end of the first quarter and 28-22 at halftime.

But the Tigers fought their way back into the contest in the third quarter, outscoring the Bears 18-12 for a 40-40 third-period break tie.

The two teams fought evenly in the fourth quarter and first overtime period. They scored 14 points apiece in the final quarter and seven apiece in the initial overtime period.

Capitan advanced to the Cloudcroft game by virtue of an easy 70-45 win over Mountainair Friday night.

Proctor led Capitan with 20 points. Cummins added 16 and Davis had 14.

Ullmann on all-district team

by GARY BROWN
News Sports Writer

Sophomore Dan Ullmann of the Ruidoso High School boys varsity basketball team has been named to the All-District 3-AAA first team.

Ullmann, a 6-5 athlete, averaged around 19 points a game and was also an excellent rebounder. He had excellent agility for a big man.

Warrior players given honorable mention status were senior Gilbert Rivera, sophomore Russell Easter and junior Patric Pearson.

Other members of the first team included Michael Viramontes of Deming, Jesus Saenz of Coche, and Chris Harrison and Todd Mannon of Hot Springs.

Members of the second team included Mike Head of Coche, Mark Meyer of Deming, Alpha Adkins of Deming and Oscar Franco and Gus Sierra of district champion Silver City.

Warrior coach Ron Geyer was glad Ullmann made the first team but thought Rivera also should have made all-district.

"I was very disappointed Gilbert didn't make the all-district team," Geyer said.

The 5-6 Rivera was a good outside shooter and was also one of the Warriors' best dribblers and playmakers. Pearson, a 6-0 athlete, showed considerable improvement during the season and scored in double figures several times.

Of the 10 first- and second-team players, seven will return next season.

Warrior boy thinclads open season Tuesday at Artesia

by GARY BROWN
News Sports Writer

The Ruidoso High School boys track team will get a good idea how much their practices have accomplished when the Warriors travel to Artesia Tuesday for a 3 p.m. non-scoring meet against the Bulldogs.

Ruidoso has several athletes who should be among the top competitors in the state's AAA division in their events. Artesia is generally one of the better teams in District 4-AAA.

Cisco Bob, who placed second in the state 1,500 meters last season, should be even better this season. He is also an excellent 3,000 meter runner.

Bob had a best of 4:13.29 in the 1,500 meters last season and ran a 4:16.29 in cold weather at the state meet.

Curt McClellan, who finished third in the state 800 meters last year, is another excellent prospect.

The Warriors' strong point figures to be the distance races, where Bob, McClellan and several other runners look good.

Francisco Olvera, David Ordeira and Gabe Tam are other fine distance runners.

Eric Strobel, Steve Snidow, Ryan Frost and Mark Johnston look good in the sprint events and relays. Johnston is also a fine long jumper, having gone 19-2 in practice.

Russell Easter is another long jump prospect, and the Warrior sophomore teams with junior Manuel Montano to give Ruidoso two experienced hurdlers.

Ruidoso also has several prospects in the weight events.

Warrior coaches Ronny Maskew and Jim Ramsey will probably try each athlete in several events at Artesia.

"We may not run all the guys in their main events because some of them aren't in as good a shape as they should be," Maskew said. "So we'll probably have them run two or three events."

There were 27 athletes out for track last week, but a few more will probably come out this week because basketball season is over.

The first scoring meet on the Warriors' schedule is the Eunice Invitational, Saturday, March 17.

Dan Ullmann, shown here in a game against Tularosa, was the only Ruidoso High School player named to the District 3-AAA first team. Ullmann averaged over 19 points a game. Ruidoso's Patric Pearson and Gilbert Rivera received honorable mention.

Ruidoso junior varsity loses finale

The season ended for the Ruidoso High School boys junior varsity basketball team Saturday when the Warriors lost a close 41-39 decision to Hot Springs in the first round of the district playoffs at Deming.

Ruidoso, which finished the season at 6-17, was trailing 41-37 with less than 10 seconds left in the game.

After the first end of a Warrior one-and-one free throw was missed, Ruidoso's Matt Porter grabbed the rebound and scored.

However, the Warriors didn't have any timeouts left and time ran out.

Freshman Jeff Willingham led the Ruidoso scoring with nine points. Trent Tolbert added eight, Porter scored six, Brian Davis and Wes Frost each tallied five, Randy Reynolds scored four and Chuck Jarrell added two.

Tony Lucero led Hot Springs with 15 points.

"I was really pleased with the way the kids improved this season," said Warrior varsity coach Ron Geyer.

"At the beginning of the season, we had a lot of inexperienced kids but they steadily got better.

"They played a pretty tough schedule against teams like Roswell."

After the junior varsity games were finished, Silver City nipped Deming for the varsity title Saturday night. Both teams will go to the state AAA division tournament in Albuquerque this week.

Warriors have box dinner

There will be a box supper at 7 Saturday night, March 10, in the Ruidoso High School gymnasium.

The Warrior Booster Club will sponsor the supper, with the purpose of raising money for the Ruidoso athletic program.

Events on the program will include pie throws at the coaches and other people, balloon-dart throwers, and various other events.

People who attend the supper are asked to bring one decorated box supper per family.

Men's slowpitch meeting Friday

The Ruidoso Men's Slow-Pitch Softball League will have a general organizational meeting for the 1984 season at 7 Friday night, March 9, in the Ruidoso Public Library.

Anyone interested in playing in the league is urged to attend the meeting.

with Gary Brown

Well, it looks like work will begin soon on a modern sports complex for Ruidoso, and the end results should be good for all local sports enthusiasts.

The sports complex, which still needs official approval from the state, will be built just to the south of the White Mountain Middle School gymnasium, in two phases.

Approval for the complex came last month from both the village and the school district. The complex will be located on the middle school ground and will take up 22 acres.

Pam Graves, Ruidoso Park and Recreation Department director, hopes the first phase will be completed by June. It will consist of two softball fields and a soccer field.

The second phase should be completed next year, and will probably have two more softball fields and a soccer field.

Bathrooms also will be built. A track and a football field, already on the 22 acres, may also be renovated in the future.

"The minimum cost will be probably $150,000 for the total project," Graves said. "We've still got to get a contour map of the area—where a plane take photos of it—before we start the work."

Funds for the complex are coming from a state grant, lodgers' tax and in-kind funds (village labor or volunteer labor).

"We're going to try to get as much volunteer labor as we can," Graves commented.

At first, Little League baseball and soccer teams will use the fields, as will recreational softball teams.

But there's always a chance high school teams will use the fields in the future if baseball and soccer are added to the high school sports schedule.

The present facilities for baseball, softball and soccer are insufficient to handle the increasing needs of these sports.

All-American Park Field in Ruidoso Downs is old, and its seating and parking facilities are limited for softball enthusiasts.

Little League sports in this area need more fields. Spectator seating for these sports is substandard and limited.

In the long run, the new fields may open the door to more youth programs in Ruidoso.

Better softball fields could increase interest in more advanced youth baseball programs, such as the Pony League or Babe Ruth.

At present, after a youth becomes too old for the Little League program, he doesn't have any more baseball options to look forward to in this area.

With better facilities there might be more support for advanced youth baseball in this area.

An attempt was made last year at starting a Babe Ruth League team in Ruidoso, but not enough kids were interested.

At least one standout Ruidoso High School athlete is probably as good or better at baseball than he is at any other sport.

But he can't play baseball because there is no high school team or teenage baseball program.

That might change in the future if better facilities are available.

The new sports complex should be a first step in improving local youth athletic programs.

Bender's 84 leads Ruidoso golfers

Freshman Jeff Bender shot an 84 to highlight the Ruidoso High School golf team's performance in the Alamogordo Invitational Friday.

It was the season opener for the Warriors, and several members of the team did not compete because they were at the state DECA competition in Albuquerque.

Other members of the team who competed at Alamogordo were Verlon Edwards, Garrett Henson, Tommy Crow and Paul Hamilton. Crow is the only veteran from last season's team who competed in Friday's tournament.

Ruidoso finished 10th out of 11 teams with a 378 total. Mayfield won the team title with a 324 score, edging Eastwood of El Paso, Texas, in a special playoff.

Eastwood also scored 324. Gadsden and Las Cruces each scored 326. Alamogordo had a 328, Hanks of El Paso scored a 338, Ysleta had a 359 and Riverside scored a 382. The Alamogordo B team shot a 382.

Warrior instructor Steve Fey was pleased with the way Bender played. "He's going to be a good golfer," Fey said. "He could have shot in the 70's."

Ruidoso will compete in the Artesia Invitational this Saturday. The tournament will begin at 9 a.m. The annual Ruidoso Invitational will be Thursday and Friday, April 19-20, at the three local golf courses.

Skeen, Domenici visit Ruidoso

At a political gathering Sunday, U.S. Representative Joe Skeen quipped, "You're safer when we're not in Washington."

The "we" he mentioned included himself and U.S. Senator Pete Domenici.

They traveled to Ruidoso Sunday for a high school band fund-raiser sponsored by the Federated Republican Women of Lincoln County.

Domenici's staff contributed $100 to the fund the band will use for a trip to Hawaii in April.

The senator, who is the father of eight children, called high school years "critical times. You have to have independence, a chance to do things that build esteem, and yes, even make mistakes."

Domenici recently declared his candidacy for a third term in the Senate. "I can be very political now," he said. "I want your support."

Scores of people in the audience applauded him when he said, "We start the next four years of Ronald Reagan's eight-year term facing different problems." Since the president took office, Domenici said, inflation has decreased and confidence in the country has increased.

Domenici arrived about 30 minutes late for the gathering, and stayed 30 minutes before flying on to El Paso. His plane had encountered strong winds.

His Sunday landing was not his first at Ruidoso's airport, but it was a windy one, he said.

"We have to get an airport in this area as soon as possible," he said in answer to a question about an airport on Fort Stanton Mesa. However, he said the location for one would have to be studied.

Senator Pete Domenici, left, laughs at a comment by Representative Joe Skeen Sunday. The pair visited Ruidoso from Washington for a Republican Women's membership drive and fund-raiser for the high school band.

Jimmy Neeley has some contractors singing 'red tag blues'

by BILLY ALLSTETTER
News Staff Writer

Ruidoso building inspector Jimmy Neeley wants Ruidoso to have a good reputation in the building industry.

In the process of trying to create a good reputation for Ruidoso, Neeley has created one for himself. And in some people's eyes, it's not all good. As one village employee puts it, the only person Neeley would beat in a popularity contest these days is the dog catcher.

Neeley's lack of popularity appears to stem mainly from the little red tags he has been leaving on job sites around town since he began as inspector a month ago. The red tags are "stop work" orders issued because the builder either has no building permit or is violating the Uniform Building Code (UBC) in some manner.

Neeley did not want to say how many red tags he has issued or to whom, but he acknowledged there have been quite a few. Apparently there have been many more than have been issued in a long time.

While a number of contractors have applauded Neeley's concern for quality construction, the stop work orders—especially those left when no one is on the building site—have irritated many.

"People jump up 14 feet in the air," said Neeley of some of the builders who find the red tags on their building

Neeley said he realized that the stop work orders can cost a contractor time and money. He believes, however, that the lessons a contractor learns from one red tag will prevent future costly mistakes. He said he notes on the back of the stop work orders which codes are being violated.

Neeley said he often stops at building sites before being asked to inspect them. If no one is there and he finds construction problems, he will often leave a red tag at the site, he said.

"It gets their attention that I want to talk to them," said Neeley.

He believes he is doing the contractors a favor by pointing out potential problems before the actual inspection, and thus reducing costs of correcting them.

He mentioned one site he stopped at where workers were installing insulation in a house whose windows were too small for fire exits. The contractor was not on the site. Neeley left a red tag and sent the inspectors home, he said. He figured it would be less expensive to correct the window problem before all the insulation was installed.

If a contractor is on the site, Neeley said, he will talk to him about the problems without having to red tag the site.

Neeley said he has seen recurring problems which are generally minor. He said he has had to red tag building sites for improper egress windows, blocking concrete piers, guard rails, attic vents and ventilation under wooden floors.

"The word communication is probably the key," said local building contractor Bill Braudt.

Braudt said he had no problem with Neeley enforcing the building code to the letter.

"We've needed a little zeal in that office for a while," said Braudt, who noted that strict enforcement of the building code could help the construction trade in Ruidoso.

It is red tags for minor code violations that irritates the builders, said Braudt. Braudt said he had a run-in with Neeley over some footings that turned out to be properly placed in the end. But because of a lack of communication, Braudt almost had to stop the pouring of the footings, which would have been costly.

No one, however, seems to argue that Neeley knows his business. Neeley has worked six years as a union carpenter and 10 years as a building contractor.

He wrote a technical manual for building inspectors in El Paso and has taught college courses in construction for eight years at New Mexico State University and El Paso Community College. He also has a private school in which he has taught builders how to pass contractor's tests for seven years.

"He seems to be quite knowledgeable," said contractor George Cliff.

Cliff said he has had positive experiences with Neeley during two inspections, and found him "very cooperative."

Contractor Phil Hines said he was angry when he first found a red tag on his building site, but calmed down after talking to Neeley about the violations and how to fix them.

"He's just doing his job," said Hines. "If contractors would quit trying to buck him, things would work out better."

Neeley said he has been somewhat taken aback by his new role as building code enforcer. Before taking the job a month ago, he had been a popular instructor at a community college who played tennis with his students. The building inspector, on the other hand, rarely has good news and often has to play the heavy.

"It doesn't suit my personality," said Neeley. But he still believes he must do it.

"I can't forget what I know. I know the code," said Neeley. "Those codes are to safeguard life and health."

He emphasized that the building codes are minimum requirements for construction. He said a Construction Industries Division employee in Santa Fe told him Ruidoso had a bad reputation as a boom town with many unlicensed contractors building substandard houses.

He hopes his enforcement of the building code will protect both consumers and contractors while improving Ruidoso's reputation.

Although he knows the codes, Neeley acknowledged he makes mistakes. In the case of a dispute over codes, Neeley said he will call engineers and publishers of the Uniform Building Code in California to discuss interpretations.

He said he invites those who dispute his interpretation to be with him when he makes the calls so everyone will understand the situation.

Neeley said he hopes the recent hubbub over red tags and code violations will calm down as he and local builders become used to each other.

"I am hoping over time the relationship will become cooperative," said Neeley.

Mescalero Apache Tribe President Wendell Chino (center) signs a proclamation declaring the week of March 18-24 as Poison Prevention Week on the Mescalero Reservation. Narcissus Gayton (left), health educator for the Tribe, and Tom Hunt (right), sanitationist for the Tribe, look on.

Poster contest for Mescalero Poison Prevention Week

The week of March 18-24 has been proclaimed nationally as National Poison Prevention Week by President Ronald Reagan, and proclaimed locally as Poison Prevention Week on the Mescalero Apache Reservation by President Wendell Chino.

According to Chino's proclamation, the goal of the week is "to increase public awareness of how accidental childhood poisonings may be prevented to reduce the number of poisonings from medicines and common household substances."

In conjunction with the proclamation, the Mescalero Hospital Association is sponsoring a poster contest for youngsters in grades kindergarten through six. The contest is open to any children in those grades who live on the Mescalero Reservation.

According to Tom Hunt, tribal sanitationist, the posters should portray a positive message about poison prevention. Hunt said a motocross bicycle will be given to the child who designs the first-prize poster, with smaller monetary gifts going to other winners in the contest.

For more information on the contest, call the hospital at 671-4441.

Leonard Sedillo, part-owner of Rocky Mountain Equipment Rental, stands beside one of the company's larger items for rent. According to Sedillo, the company is one of the largest in the Southwest, with about 800 items for rent.

Rocky Mountain Rental expands

by DARRELL J. PEHR
News Staff Writer

"We have baby beds to D-8 bulldozers and everything between," said Leonard Sedillo, part-owner of Rocky Mountain Equipment Rental. "We are a rental equipment business."

Sedillo and his partner, Bruce Westmoreland of Las Cruces, operate the business, which is at 132 Sudderth Drive. According to Sedillo, the business has just undergone a tremendous expansion.

Formerly, their biggest competitor was Valley Rent-All Sales and Service. Sedillo said that to counter the competition, they bought out the company on February 18.

"We eliminated our biggest competitor and increased our inventory by 75 percent in numbers of items to be rented," Sedillo said.

The company also changed locations, moving from a Ruidoso Downs site to its present location at the former Service Contractors building.

"We operated at Ruidoso Downs for about a year and were very successful," Sedillo said. "That's why we decided to buy out this other company and expand our business."

The expansion was significant, especially in quantity of items available for rent. Sedillo said his company formerly specialized in large equipment used in construction. Now they have a much larger selection.

"We have seven or eight hundred items that a fellow can rent," Sedillo said. "It really is something. We are the biggest rental company in the Southwest."

According to Sedillo, service is a major concern of the business.

"Our goal is really to fulfill the needs of the local contractor and the general public," Sedillo said. "We base our business on customer service. That, we feel, is why we are so successful."

Sedillo said in addition to the rental part of the business, the company will be starting a small engine repair service and saw sharpening service in the near future.

The company has four employees. Sedillo said Rocky Mountain Equipment Rental is open every day from 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. except Sunday, when it is closed.

Asked why they opened a business in Ruidoso, Sedillo said, "The need was here, the demand was there, so we ventured out in this business."

The Dreamer

by Dan Storm

Winter Will Not Be Denied
After two balmy spring-like days, today, the fourth of March, the North Wind came in with heavy reinforcements of icy blasts, snow clouds, and an advance guard of light snow flakes — to show the Mountain World who is boss.

A host of song birds, Robins, Finches, Sparrows, and others have been turned back by the cold wave and are all busy feeding on the feeding table with all haste, getting ready either to take cover or hit the highways of the air for warmer places.

Now here comes a little Chipmunk to put some of the feed into his jowls to carry to his winter home. The birds let him tank up on their vittles because they know he cannot fly away from the cold, but has to tough it out here. The little striped chipper knows the ropes about surviving through the winter, and would not change things for the world. The fruit buds are holding back unusually well, foreshadowing a good year for fruit of all kinds, if the weather holds. Things look better and better for a flowery Summer.

Eighth-grade royalty

Mamie Payton
Services are planned March six, (tomorrow) at the Gateway Church of Christ for Mamie Lee Payton, well-beloved long-time resident of the Ruidoso Valley, who was called home by Our Lord on March the second, in Fayetteville, Arkansas, at the home of her daughter, Bethel Cunningham. Burial services will be at the Hale Cemetery.

Mamie had been at Saint Mary's Hospital during an extended illness, and was removed to the home of her daughter recently. We will have something about our longtime friend, Mamie, in the next issue of The Ruidoso News.

Jackie Coogan
One after another the national figures familiar to my boyhood days are being called home. Last year it was Jack Dempsey and Johnny Weismuller, and Gloria Swanson and now on March first when Paul Harvey, on his radio program, gave the word that Jackie Coogan had gone to his reward, I could feel the tears starting, and at the same time I began laughing.

All the brothers saw him star with Charlie Charlie Chaplin in "The Kid" in 1920 at the Vining Theater in Ashland, Oregon. Jackie was four years old at the time, and had been acting since he was sixteen months old. He had been in show business every day of his sixty-nine years since his early beginning as an actor.

Jackie and Charlie Chaplin made a great team, bringing the house down with laughter one minute and bringing spectators to tears the next. (This was in the silent days, when you read what the actors said in typewritten words at the top of the screen) Jackie Coogan brought a lot of happiness into the world, and we rejoice that he is safe and happy with Our Lord in Heaven.

Lillian Gish Honored
Going back to the silent moving picture again, Lillian Gish, at the age of ninety, was presented with the Life Achievement award of the American Film Institute. At the ceremony Lillian was called "the symbol of eternal youth," and she appeared remarkably youthful in her photos. I have seen many of her silent movies including one of her first, "Birth Of A Nation." Our Uncle, Jerome Vincent Storm, pioneer Moving Picture director, directed some of Lillian Gish's pictures, and always expressed his respect and admiration for this great lady.

We all extend our congratulations to the ever-youthful Lillian Gish.

Birthday of Knute Rockne
This is being sent to you on March four, the birthday of Knute Rockne, perhaps the greatest of all football coaches, and most of all a builder of men, who made Notre Dame University synonymous with Great Football, high sportsmanship.

We sent up a prayer of thanks, for what he has done and continues to do for the ideals of American Sportsmanship and for the building of character in American youth, to the great beloved Knute Rockne.

"THIS IS ALL YOUR FAULT"

Wright, Editor

Editorial

Tuesday, March 6, one phase of the great experiment ends. Thursday, March 8, the next and most important phase begins.

The "great experiment," of course, is the increase in the size of the Ruidoso village council from four members plus the mayor to six members plus the mayor.

Tuesday will mark the end of an election campaign that saw 21 persons file for the six seats being contested. We agree with those who think the fact there were so many candidates reflects a large-scale attitude of concern about our village.

We disagree with the candidate who said there should have been a filing fee to keep the number of candidates down. Sorry, that's not the way democracy at the local level works.

Whoever wins Tuesday, the 19 candidates who have participated actively in the campaign are to be congratulated on their interest and their efforts. And we compliment the various organizations that sponsored candidate forums to help voters make their choices.

How well a seven-member governing body will work remains to be seen. At least the logistics of seating seven people at the council table at village hall have been taken care of, thanks to some fine carpentry work by Derald Waltrip.

We encourage all voters to go to the polls Tuesday. The six who fill those seats should be there because the greatest possible number of citizens put them there.—TP

Inside the Capitol

by Fred McCaffrey

SANTA FE—Things are never boring in the Capital City.

You might look for a lull, with one session of the Legislature finished and the second not convened yet.

And our Governor had gone off to Washington, with the clear aim of telling President Reagan how to run the country, despite evidence that more New Mexicans had confidence in the way Reagan does his job than in the way Anaya does his own.

We poor commentators on the political scene might have been left to amuse ourselves, with no politicking taking place.

Except that this is Santa Fe, and there is always politicking here.

So we celebrated by holding the Parade of Candidates, as we always do in even-numbered years, when those who want to run for statewide office have to come to the Secretary of State and file the papers which will formally make them candidates.

That's not such an easy task. The rules are tough, and they must be rigorously followed.

To demonstrate his or her seriousness, each candidate must file petitions which contain the names of legally registered voters who number 3 percent of votes cast for the seat desired in the previous primary for that post.

There were 21,600 votes cast in the last Republican primary for the U.S. Senate, for instance, so Frank Bond, campaign manager for Pete Domenici, had to file a minimum of 650 names in support of his boss in this year's race.

The six-inch stack of petitions Bond turned in probably contained ten times that many names.

Also filling with plenty to spare was Nick Franklin, who wants the Democratic nomination to run against Domenici in November.

Franklin is a new face as a candidate, though he is known around the state from previous political activity, including managing a campaign for Jack Daniels, against whom Domenici made his first run for the Senate, and a period as state Democratic chairman.

Judy Pratt, who will run against Nick in the primary, contending for a race against Pete in the Fall, arrived late in the day, in contrast to Franklin's early morning hour, also with plenty of support.

Peter York, mayor of Roswell, was a new face to many of the Santa Fe reporters. He wants the Democratic nomination to run against Joe Skeen in the Congressional race in District Two.

Like Domenici, other members of Congress sent duly authorized substitutes to file for them.

Barbara Richardson dropped by early to file her husband's papers. Jerry McKinney, from Skeen's Washington office, filed for his boss, and Manuel Lujan's campaign manager for hers.

Also filing quietly in the early morning hours was Justice Dan Sosa of the Supreme Court, a top vote getter among Democrats, who will be opposed by Judge Tom Mescal of Albuquerque on the Republican side.

And so it went all day, with few major surprises. Most of those who filed were already identified with the race they plan to make.

But their presence here demonstrated that the 1984 election season has actually begun, as surely as the opening of Spring training proves that the baseball season cannot be far behind.

That was probably a good idea somebody had, to get the conservative coalition in our state Senate to run an ad telling why they are still convinced we do not need an increase in taxes.

Getting every member of that group (including the three Democrats in it) to sign their names has a way of committing them a little more deeply. It also serves notice on Governor Anaya that they plan to continue sticking together. That can't encourage him greatly, since he counted on luring at least a couple of them to his side before the special legislative session begins.

Maybe Anaya should have stayed home to take care of his own problems.

On the Village Beat

with Tim Palmer

After pretty much being absent for several years, science fiction seems to be creeping back into my life.

Darned if I'm not becoming intrigued with The Gods of Riverworld, the fifth and latest novel in the Riverworld series by Philip Jose Farmer. I did not expect to like the book, because I felt sort of exhausted after getting through number four, The Magic Labyrinth.

But Farmer has created such an engaging protagonist in Richard Francis Burton. Actually, the author did not create the hero. Richard Francis Burton is a historical figure—a 19th century explorer and linguist who found Lake Tanganyika.

The genius of Riverworld lies in the fact that Farmer has peopled the novels with characters from all ages of mankind, all reincarnated on the banks of the 10 million-mile-long River.

So you have Burton sharing adventures with such disparate figures as Eric Bloodaxe the Viking, King John of England and Nazi Herman Goering.

The first Riverworld book, To Your Scattered Bodies Go, easily has a place on my "must read" list for science fiction aficionados. And if you read the first, you must read the second, The Fabulous Riverboat, if only because much of that tale revolves around a dynamic character named Samuel Clemens.

What other science fiction classics would I place on my "must read" list?

Glad you asked. The distinction, "Greatest SF Novel of All Time," is sometimes attached to Alfred Bester's The Stars My Destination. Whether such a sweeping accolade is deserved by any of the great SF books is debatable.

But Stars is certainly one of my favorites. Its appeal, too, lies largely in a likable hero—some might say anti-hero—Gully Foil.

Bester wrote another classic that I give equal stature, The Demolished Man. The protagonist of this novel is not very likable, but he is fascinating.

Both the Bester novels, like most SF megaclassics, have a unique premise that draws the reader into the world the novelist creates. In Stars it is jaunty, in Demolished it is peeping and demolition.

To find out what those are, you have to read the books. And you should.

SF varies from what is called Space Opera (people zapping each other with rayguns, as in Star Wars) to futurism—predictions of what the future holds for our world.

In the latter category, my favorite author is John Brunner. In Stand on Zanzibar and The Sheep Look Up, he paints a world that we very possibly will inhabit within a half-century.

Those novels are in the episodic style—they are made up of several different storylines and switch rapidly from one to another.

Before or after tackling Zanzibar or Sheep, you might want to try Brunner's minor classic (I think), The Shockwave Rider. That novel was inspired by Alvin Toffler's influential non-fiction work of the middle 1970s, Future Shock.

The proliferation of computers in our society since Shockwave came out is proof that Brunner was a prophet. Read it and you'll see what I mean.

Of course, the "biggie" that readers with at least a passing acquaintance with SF probably have read is Frank Herbert's Dune. It will be even bigger when the movie, filmed in the Chihuahuan desert, comes out.

I read Dune a long time ago, and I'm almost afraid to read it again because I don't want it to lose its specialness to me. Dune 2, Dune Messiah, and Dune 3, Children of Dune, I have less regard for.

The recent God Emperor of Dune I have not read yet, but maybe I will because I'm enjoying The Gods of Riverworld. What I might do is read Dune again before I see the movie, to see how good a job the makers of the film have done.

I think people who live or have lived in the Southwest can relate especially well to Arrakis, the arid planet where Dune is set.

Another series that I have not read the latest installment in is the Foundation saga by Isaac Asimov. I would probably need to go back and reread the Foundation trilogy to get the most out of Foundation's Edge. With my reading time sorely limited, that might have to stay on the back burner for a while.

If you're looking for an introduction to Asimov, I would recommend The Caves of Steel. Readers of mystery novels—and I know that subcult is as devoted (fanatic?) as SF fans—especially will enjoy this detective story.

My personal favorite by Asimov is The Gods Themselves. This novel, too, has a fascinating premise—a parallel universe. The author's linking of that universe to our own is ingenious.

Well, I had meant for this to be a list of my 10 favorite science fiction authors/novels, but I guess I rambled too much.

But this leaves the opportunity to continue with the subject. I know there are some die-hard SF fans in Ruidoso, and I look forward to talking to some of them about their personal favorites.

Happy reading, and may The Force be with you.

Letters to the editor

DEAR EDITOR:

This will be my first Letter to the Editor. But I felt the need to share a special feeling with all your readers.

I've been working at the Ruidoso Care Center now for two years, thanks to a dear friend whose father-in-law lives there. She told me they needed aides to work there. I was frightened at the thought of working there because I had no experience and I didn't like old people. (A fact I didn't know until I started to like them.)

I applied for and got a job as an aide and was trained to care for their physical needs. The things they weren't able to do for themselves anymore like for some, because of a stroke or disease, we have to assist them with their food. Along with helping them eat, we also help them bathe, dress, and do all the little things that you and I do every day. We also help them write letters or when time permits, we read a little to them.

Learning to deal with their mental and emotional needs was the most difficult for me. On my first morning there I saw an aide stop an old woman in the hallway and give her a warm hug and smile, no words said. The woman smiled as the aide walked on.

I was uncomfortable giving attention in this way, but I was determined to, and now I feel nothing but happiness when my hugs, kisses or smiles are returned. You can't know how good a smile can look sometimes until you see those faces light up. For some of those residents, the staff has become the only family they have.

That's why I'm especially happy when volunteers and visitors come. Even if the only thing you do is smile and say hi. Sometimes all they want is someone to stop and listen for awhile, maybe for them to tell an old story, or just to talk. Sometimes they need a shoulder to cry on. Mine has been wet a few times.

That's why volunteers are every bit as important as the staff. I wish we had more of them.

I laughingly tell everyone that I refuse to grow old, but that day will come. I only hope that if I have to go to a nursing home or a Care Center, that I have people around who care when I'm sad or lonely and who will take the time to make me smile.

Thank You

Angella Maldonado, left, and Pam Craft were the two sophomores named to the Ruidoso High School Principal's List for earning cumulative grade point averages of 3.8 or better. Sophomores who received certificates for having 3.5 grade point averages or better also included Jason Bigham, Tony Breault, Rita Clark, Omar Dix, Tahnee Doak, Robyn Farus, Mitch Mulligan, Nancy Nettles, Liberty Pittman, Zach Swalander and Sean Wheeler.

Freshmen Billy Harrison and Kerry Gladden share a chuckle as they distribute Academic honors at the Academic Awards Banquet last week. Ruidoso banks sponsored the event.

Students honored

During impromptu remarks at the Ruidoso High School Academic Awards Banquet Monday, Billy Harrison defended his classmates.

"It's really upset me lately that politicians and everybody are saying we're not very smart," the freshman said.

People have told him high school graduates from 1968 through 1972 were the smartest, he said.

"I'd like to take a bunch of my friends back in time and face them one to one. We'd win," he said confidently.

For the second year, Ruidoso's three banks sponsored the recognition of top students. Officials of First City National Bank, Ruidoso State Bank and The Bank of Ruidoso participated in the banquet.

Parents of the scholars were pleased with the food and service at Prime Time in Ruidoso Downs.

AN OPEN LETTER TO RUIDOSO VOTERS

I am proud to be a Ruidosoan. And I am proud that you, the voters of Ruidoso, have proved by your keen interest in this special election that you care about the future of our Village. I care too, more than I can express in words.

Although the Council race has been dominating public attention, the office of MUNICIPAL JUDGE is no less important to our community.

The Municipal Judge can set the climate for justice in our Village, and be instrumental in making the quality of life here even better than it is presently. The Municipal Judge should, by dedicating full time and energy to the office, and by cooperation with Law Enforcement Agencies, give our visitors a better impression of our town.

I believe that community, mature judgement, compassion, and forty-five years of experience dealing with people on many levels qualifies me for the office of Municipal Judge.

I believe in the CRIME STOPPERS Program and have pledged, if elected, to award CRIME STOPPERS and the RUIDOSO CARE CENTER, 20% of my monthly salary for a year. The recent large salary increase for Municipal Judge is, in my opinion, extremely generous. I feel the community could benefit by having some of it back in this form.

This campaign has been a wonderful experience for me, and I am deeply grateful for all the support and friendship I've received.

PLEASE GO TO THE POLLS TOMORROW AND VOTE!!!

Sincerely,
JOHN R. BARTON
Candidate for Municipal Judge

Paging company leases "freedom machines"

by DARRELL J. PEHR
News Staff Writer

It's a Friday afternoon. The weather is clear, warm and inviting, and you haven't hit a golf ball since late fall. You want to head for the links so bad you can feel the weight of a nine iron in your hands, but you're afraid to leave the office and chance missing an important phone call.

What do you do?

Call Mitch and Shirley Suess at S & S Beepers, of course.

"We're a paging company with beepers and pagers for businessmen, or even the individual, who wants to stay in touch," said Mitch Suess. Suess and his wife, Shirley, operate the business, which opened February 1.

S & S Beepers is at 1031 Mechem Drive, in the Attic and Friends shopping center.

"We're giving people the opportunity to play golf or exercise and still keep in touch," Suess said.

According to Suess, the company is based around the leasing of Motorola radio pagers, or beepers, as they are commonly called. Suess said that for a charge of $25 a month, his company will supply a customer with a leased beeper and the right to use the S & S radio frequency to receive messages.

Each beeper has its own phone number, and messages either can be called in to the beeper directly or through call-forwarding from an office or home phone. Suess said the beepers can also be called long-distance.

When a person calls the beeper number, or is forwarded to the beeper through another phone, it rings three times, then a tone sounds. At that time the caller has 15 seconds to deliver a message, then the call is completed. Within seconds, the beeper "beeps," and repeats the actual voice of the person giving the message.

"It's a freedom machine," said Suess. "It gives you some freedom that you didn't have before."

Suess said all messages are relayed through transmitters atop Camelot Mountain. A big plus for the system, Suess said, is that no one else can listen in on your messages with their beepers, as is the case with many other beeper systems. This is especially important to customers who prefer that their messages remain confidential for business or personal reasons.

The beepers operate on an extremely high frequency that facilitates clear reception, according to Suess. He said the 24 hour a day message service can be successfully operated in Ruidoso, Ruidoso Downs and Alto with excellent clarity.

"We're really proud of the system," Suess said. "It is the first one in a mountain area. It is performing above expectations and we're getting a good range. This has surprised a couple of engineers."

When the system was installed, there were only a few like it in the country, Suess said.

According to Suess, in addition to the $25 monthly lease cost, the customer must also pay a $100 deposit. The deposit covers S & S if the beeper is accidentally broken, since every beeper is insured with a $100 deductible policy.

Mitch said the actual cost of each beeper is $315 to $330. According to Suess, the company has the beepers covered by insurance so the customer won't be as worried about breakage.

"We didn't want the customer to have to worry about it," he said. If a beeper must be replaced due to breakage or technical problems, Suess said, that beeper's phone number can be transferred to a replacement beeper.

According to Suess, the company may expand in the future, but for the present time will concentrate on beepers.

"We are basically a communications company," Suess said. "We will stay with the leasing of beepers right now."

He also said they may be getting new digital display beepers which would display the phone number of the person leaving the message, and pagers which would display digitally the actual message in written form. Suess also mentioned the possibility of a mobile phone system in Ruidoso.

Suess said he and Shirley started the business because they wanted to serve the community of Ruidoso.

"We looked around here for a year for something that would be a service to the community," Suess said. The beeper business looked like a way to achieve that goal, so the Suesses went into business.

"Our goal is to service the community of Ruidoso to the best of our ability and to give someone the opportunity to better enjoy their business. We consider ourselves a service-oriented company."

Suess said one quality of Ruidoso that they found to be particularly appealing is the business community.

"We're not the types of people who would jump off into an environment we didn't feel safe in. We have no qualms about starting a business in Ruidoso. We feel like the business economy in the town is superb."

Suess said the combination of the favorable business and personal atmosphere of Ruidoso was icing on the cake for them.

"We feel very comfortable here, not only the business climate, but the climate of the people."

The Suesses moved to Ruidoso from Lubbock, Texas, two years ago. They had come to Ruidoso for years to vacation in a small trailer they owned in town. One day, Suess said, they just decided to move up here permanently. Suess said they left their real estate and oil investment business in Lubbock to make the move.

"We enjoyed what we did," Suess said of their Lubbock business interests, "but it got to be too hectic." Suess said during their final vacation here, he remembers telling Shirley that he would "give up everything just to be able to move up here."

Suess said six weeks later, they were house-shopping in Ruidoso.

"It's home, and it feels like home," Suess said of Ruidoso.

S & S Beepers is a home-operated and home-owned business, Suess said.

"This isn't just a branch office, this is headquarters," Suess said.

The company is open from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. every day except Sunday, when it is closed. The business may be contacted during regular hours at 258-5108.

And how is it possible to reach Mitch Suess after business hours? Through his beeper, of course!

Motorola radio pagers, or "beepers," as they are commonly called, make up the basis of S & S Beepers business. The company leases the beepers and the right to use a radio air-wave on which messages are sent.

"It's a freedom machine," says Mitch Suess of the radio pagers, or "beepers," he leases. Suess and his wife, Shirley, opened S & S Beepers on February 1. It is located at 1031 Mechem Drive, in the Attic and Friends shopping center.

Week of March 4 - March 10

© By Lillian Bono

ARIES

(March 21-April 20) Saving face in an embarrassing situation may be difficult, but failure to own up to your actions could cost you a friend. A friend with a talent for making money might have an enterprise you'll like.

TAURUS

(April 21-May 21) Try avoiding the neighbor bent on "keeping up with the Joneses." Be specific with your requests when addressing co-workers or there may be misunderstandings.

GEMINI

(May 22-June 21) Financial matters should be handled with the utmost tact and diplomacy so as not to ruffle the feathers of an associate. Family gatherings may not go as planned.

CANCER

(June 22-July 23) Getting to the root of a complex situation might involve detailed questioning of several people. You may be surprised at the outcome.

LEO

(July 24-Aug. 23) Set up a comfortable diet and exercise program to help you stay in shape otherwise you may start losing the battle of the bulge. Relatives could be too ashamed to ask you for financial assistance they need.

VIRGO

(Aug. 24-Sept. 23) An impatient neighbor may jump the gun on an issue concerning yourself and others. Be wary of get-rich-quick schemes.

LIBRA

(Sept. 24-Oct. 23) The true colors of a false friend could come to light under the strangest of circumstances. Taking a stand on domestic affairs might be more difficult than you anticipate.

SCORPIO

(Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Traveling on the road might do you a world of good particularly if you have the opportunity to share them with loved ones. Plans for a romantic tryst could backfire because of youngsters.

SAGITTARIUS

(Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Taking work home is not advised — remember the old adage about all work and no play. A tenuous business situation could take a turn for the worse if a dubious associate is not carefully watched and questioned.

CAPRICORN

(Dec. 22-Jan. 20) Although you may have calculated the risk in a financial venture there could be other factors you have not considered.

AQUARIUS

(Jan. 21-Feb. 19) Get rid of unnecessary items so you may venture on a shopping spree.

PISCES

(Feb. 20-March 20) Changing conditions at work may find you thinking about moving on. Talk to others in your profession before making a hasty decision.
