Cleanup begins as waters recede

by DARRELL J. PEHR
News Staff Writer

Waters of the Ruidoso area rivers and creeks receded this weekend and Ruidoso Police reported that all roads in the area that were closed due to the flooding Thursday and Friday have been reopened.

Steps to fund repairs of the damage are now being pursued by village officials after the Thursday afternoon declaration of a State of Emergency by the Ruidoso Village Council.

The council met twice Thursday to consider whether or not to make the declaration. Councillors at the meetings voiced concern over making such a declaration with the Christmas season so close, fearing the declaration might scare away tourists from the village.

Against that fear was the concern that to not make a declaration would jeopardize the efforts to obtain federal or state financial assistance to repair the flood damage.

Councillors chose to make the declaration during the Thursday afternoon meeting after postponing the decision during the first meeting that morning. The councillors passed the measure with a unanimous vote after a brief discussion. In his motion to make the declaration, Councillor Sherman Atwood stressed that the flooding conditions existed in low-lying riverside areas only.

According to village manager Jim Hine, the state Civil Emergency Preparedness Division will be made aware of the Ruidoso declaration, and the process of seeking state or federal funding will begin.

Repair efforts from the flooding Thursday and Friday have begun around the village in areas that were hard hit by the flooding waters caused by rains, unseasonably high temperatures and the melting of recent heavy snows blanketing the hillsides around Ruidoso.

Damage from the flood appears to be less extensive than the path of destruction left by the more severe August flood. A 20 foot length of sewer pipe broke in Ruidoso Downs which resulted in highly diluted raw sewage being dumped into the Rio Ruidoso. Officials advised users of water directly from the river east of the break that they should first boil the water.

Environmental Improvement Division (EID) representative Garrison McCaslin updated his flood advice for people living downstream from the break in the sewer line behind the racetrack in Ruidoso Downs.

"We suggest not using anything except municipal water for the next two to three weeks," said McCaslin, adding that the warning is a caution and not a formal declaration.

Since the sewer line broke, toxic water could seep into individual wells. Drinking such water could cause hepatitis or digestive tract infections.

McCaslin said that the EID will issue another statement when the water is safe to use.

Also damaged was the Paradise Canyon Drive bridge, but the damage was minor enough to allow reopening of the bridge within the weekend.

Particularly hard-hit was the Carrizo Canyon area. Residents of the Apache Park subdivision were cut off from access to the subdivision by the swollen Carrizo Creek which had overflowed both places where Tomahawk Trail crosses the creek. By Sunday, one Tomahawk Trail crossing remained closed but the other was passable.

The rushing waters of the Carrizo Creek nearly covered this front-end loader Thursday at Valley Transit Mix.

State will fund $20,000 for railway study

by L.J. GRUSHKA
News Staff Writer

Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce Board of Directors president James Paxton announced Friday that the State of New Mexico Transportation Department has made a $20,000 committment to a two-phase feasibility study concerning the Ruidoso Railway Project.

Paxton said $80,000 is needed to begin the study. The president noted that makeup of the additional funds needed will be sought from village government and private sector sources. In addition to the state money, $15,000 has been pledged from local financial institutions and private contributors so far. Paxton said he will bring the matter to the Ruidoso Village Council at their next meeting, January 8.

The Ruidoso Railway Project is a proposed shuttle transportation system that would encompass an area including Ruidoso, Ruidoso Downs, Mescalero, Sierra Blanca Ski Resort, and the proposed Fort Stanton Mesa airport site.

Ed Jungbluth, Director of Marketing and Promotion for the state Economic Development and Tourism Department, said the feasiblity study will compile data regarding tourism flow in the area. He said factors such as length and time of stay, size of family and activities that tourists participate in will be included in the study.

"The governor is supportive of the project. Now it's time for the village to take a leadership role...It's difficult to raise the bucks (dollars) from the private sector if the village isn't supportive," Jungbluth said.

During the meeting, Paxton noted that even if the project is never realized, Ruidoso will benefit from having access to a study of this nature.

The board also discussed a "one-time only" offer of a pro-rated membership to businesses who have discontinued membership in the chamber. Ruidoso Chamber of Commerce acting director Tommy Morel said the opportunity will allow past members to reinstate membership, pro-rated on a July fiscal year.

In other bussiness, the board:

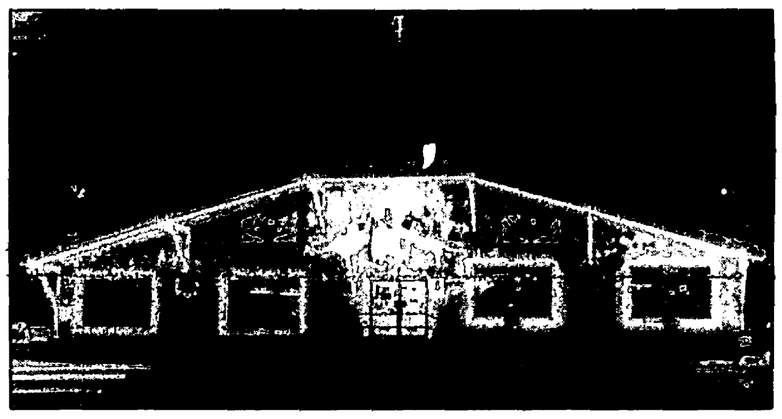
—Heard an advertising report from Morel, who said that advertising billboards have been erected in Dallas, Texas, and are presently being placed in San Antonio and Austin, Texas. He also said that a 30 second advertising spot, promoting Ruidoso and Sierra Blanca Ski Resort, has been offered to 14 cable systems.

—Approved a motion to raise the booth entry fee of the Ruidoso Art Festival from $120 to $150.

—Appointed Sue Snidow as Vice Chairperson for the Ruidoso Art Festival, 1985.

—Approved the five month year-to-date Chamber budget report from Vice President Bill Carrigan.

—Heard a Pro Ski Race report from Morel.



Christmas lights winner

Judges annouced the results of the Chamber of Commerce commercial Christmas lighting contest Friday. Village Hardware, last year's winner, came in first again in 1984. Second place went to Nottingham's Pub, the third place winner is the Carriage House and the fourth place winner is Gateway Assembly of God Church.

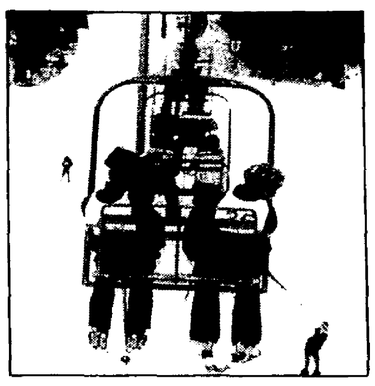
About that tree

On the fantasy Christmas tree on the cover of this week's TV guide, Mickey, Donald and Goofy join Snow White and her friends in transforming an ordinary tree into a child's delight.

John and Barbara Mazzarelli have collected fantasy characters for eight years, and brought them from California to New Mexico. Sharing the tree with The News is their way of sending Christmas greetings to the children of Ruidoso.

SKI REPORT

Sierra Blanca Ski Resort



Undisturbed snow depth midway on the mountain is 73 inches

Surface conditions are machine-groomed and hard-packed. The skiing conditions are excellent with machine grooming on all novice and intermediate trails and most of the expert trails. All lifts and trails are open except the terrible trail.

The weather is clear at report time and chains are not required on the road to the ski area today.

Author Eve Ball dies in Ruidoso at 96

by FRANKIE JARRELL
News Staff Writer

Eve Ball, a Ruidoso legend, died this morning.

Mrs. Ball, best-known for her Indian writings, made history come alive in her unique and insightful stories.

Born March 14, 1890 in Clarksville, Tennessee, Katherine Eva Daly Ball, was 96 when she died in her Ruidoso home.

Her life spanned a combination of eras from the confederate south to a Kansas cattle ranch and on to Ruidoso in 1949. The Ball family moved to Kansas when Mrs. Ball was just four, and her mother became the first woman licensed to practice medicine in Kansas.

Like her mother, Mrs. Ball remained ahead of her time throughout her life. She was able to read by the age of four. Her education from that time on was a combination of the conventional and the unconventional.

Mrs. Ball received a Bachelor of Science Degree in Education from Kansas State Teacher's College in Pittsburg, Kansas, in 1918. She completed a Masters Degree in Education at Kansas State University in 1934.

Artesia College conferred an Honorary Doctorate in the Humanities on Mrs. Ball in 1972.

Mrs. Ball used the experiences in her life to further her education. She traveled extensively in New Mexico before making her home in this mountain village.

She was fascinated with the Apache people, and spent much of her life among the Mescalero Apache people. This first-hand experience was reflected in her writing.

"The American people owe a great debt to Eve Ball of Ruidoso, New Mexico," began a Senate resolution introduced by Senator Pete Domenici and Senator Jeff Bingaman in 1983.

"Eve Ball's writing has not only given the study of history a new and colorful element, but has inspired others to write as well," Domenici said on the floor of the Senate. "Many of her books have been adopted for use in high schools and universities in this country and abroad, testimony to her broad appeal as a writer.

"Her writing and insight have touched the lives of many the world over. New Mexico is lucky, and proud, to be able to claim Eve Ball as one of her own."

Mrs. Ball was a prolific writer, publishing more than 100 magazine stories and six history books. Her book, "Indeh, An Apache Odyssey," was published in 1980, and won her the Saddleman's Award of the Western Writers of America.

Mrs. Ball invested 30 years in the research and preparation that culminated in the award-winning book. Much of that time was spent gaining the confidence of the Indians she wanted so badly to befriend.

"The Apaches were very unapproachable," said Mrs. Ball in a 1982 interview with Paula Paul of the Albuquerque Tribune, "especially Daklugie." (Chief Daklugie finally became the key to Mrs. Ball's friendship with other tribe members.)

"Let 'em talk ... then write it down," was Eve Ball's philosophy to recording oral history. Mrs. Ball died today at 96. She was well-known for her Indian historical writings.

"Indian women would walk in the hot sun for miles from somewhere on the reservation with cradle boards on their backs and kids hanging onto their skirts. They would come by my door and timidly ask for a drink."

Mrs. Ball explained that it took quite awhile to break the ice with the Apache women, who wouldn't come into her house. When Mrs. Ball persuaded Chief Daklugie to talk to her it was through her friendship with his daughter.

She wrote the book from Daklugie's viewpoint, and spent hours recording his words, and reading them back to him to be sure she was getting them down just as he had said them. She said that she came to respect the old warrior.

Until her health failed her, Mrs. Ball arose at 5 a.m. seven days a week. She was always independent, and had lived alone since her husband died when she was just 28.

When she moved to Ruidoso she bought and managed several apartments.

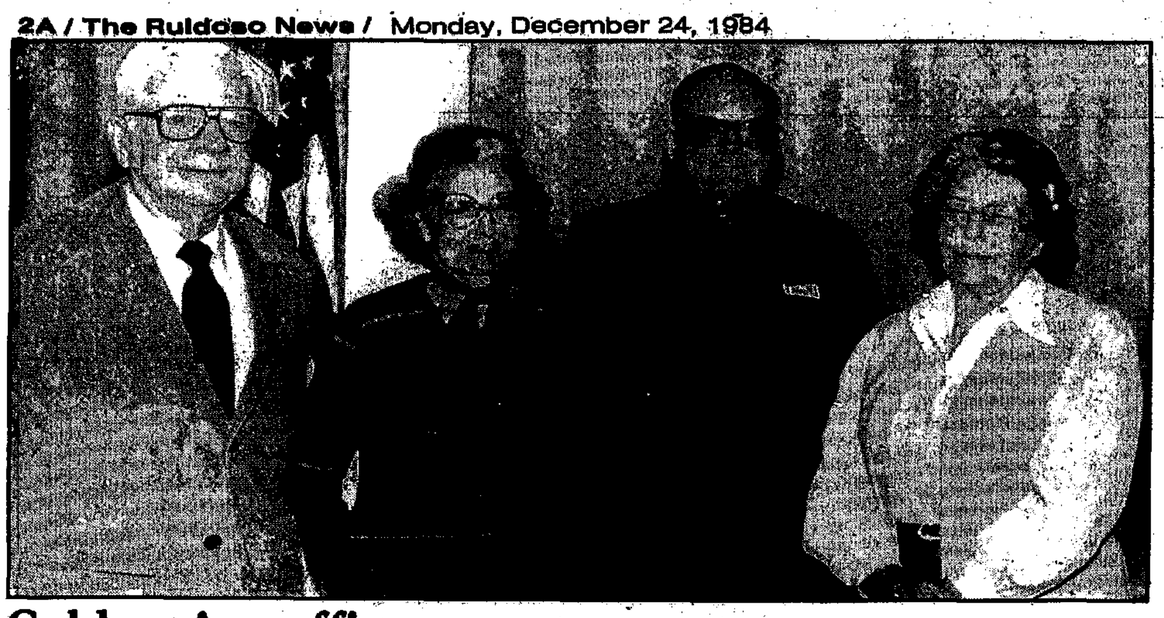
Besides receiving the Saddleman Award, said to be the "Oscar of writing," Mrs. Ball also received the New Mexico Press Women's ZIA Award and was nominated for Who's Who Among American Women.

In April, 1982, Mrs. Ball was inducted into the Cowgirl Hall of Fame and Western Heritage Center in Hereford, Texas. She received this award because of her contribution to the preservation and knowledge given over the years to western culture, and because of her work as a woman, pioneering the way for others.

Among the many other awards Mrs. Ball received was the Golden Spur Award given by Western Writers of America in 1975, for best nonfiction short story.

"We've all lost a dear friend," Linda Sanchez of Lincoln said of Mrs. Ball's death. Sanchez has written several articles about Mrs. Ball's life and career, and gives Mrs. Ball credit for starting other people on careers as writers. Sanchez was also Mrs. Ball's assistant and co-author on several projects.

A memorial service for Mrs. Ball is set for 1 p.m. Thursday, December 27, at St. Joseph's Mission in Mescalero.



Golden Age officers

Golden Age Club elects officers

New officers for 1985 for the Golden Age Club were installed at the Wednesday meeting of the group. Elected by acclamation were Milt Alcorn as president, Alma Russell as first vice president, Cal Cowden as second vice president and Barbara Alcorn as secretary and treasurer.

A large group of club members attended the meeting and luncheon at the meeting room of the Ruidoso Public Library.

"I feel that I leave you in very good hands," said outgoing president Barney Waldrop during his comments of introduction of the new officers.

"People continue to get old and need our services," he advised the new officers.

Also during the meeting, Ruidoso Mayor George White, a member of the club, gave club members an update on the addition to the Senior Citizens Center. White noted that construction has been slowed down due to weather.

White also informed the group of the recent water find announced by the Ruidoso Village Council at their last meeting. White said the find consisted of five wells in the Sierra Blanca.

He noted that the wells appear to have the capability of producing water in amounts that will keep up with the growth of the village for the next 100 years.

"It's an honest to goodness fact," he said of the find. "We were just the luckiest people in the world."

Area churches set special Christmas services

by FRANKIE JARRELL
News Staff Writer

Candlelight, special music and communion services will highlight area worship services today and tomorrow, December 24 and 25.

Worshippers will commemorate Christmas 1984 with Christmas Eve services in many churches. First Christian Church will have a candlelight service at 6 p.m. today and Shepherd of the Hills Lutheran Church will have a candlelight worship at 8:30 p.m. today.

Community United Methodist Church will have a candlelight service at 7 p.m. today, and Gateway Assembly of God Church will hold a candlelight communion service from 7 p.m. until 8 p.m. today.

A communion service is scheduled in Ruidoso's First Presbyterian Church at 7 p.m. today. Special music will be presented by the church choir.

A children's Christmas pageant will be presented at the Episcopal Church of the Holy Mount at 6:30 p.m. today. The church also will have an evening service beginning with a carol prelude at 10:45 p.m. and ending with midnight mass at 11:15 p.m.

An anticipated mass is scheduled at St. Eleanor's Catholic Church in Ruidoso at 8 p.m. today. A vigil mass will be read later in the evening, but the time had not been set at press time. Check with the church office for details.

A Christmas communion service will be held at 9 a.m. Tuesday, December 25, in St. Anne's Episcopal Church in Glencoe. Episcopal Church of the Holy Mount will have Christmas communion at 11 a.m. Christmas day.

The Dreamer

Happy Birthday to Debbie Jones Sanchez

Bright and early I went down to Saint Anne's Chapel in Glencoe for services on Sunday, December twenty-three. And early as I was, Mrs. Debbie Jones Sanchez was there ahead of me to begin practicing for the beginning of her career as a church organist. Between playing a few chords on the new electric organ, Debbie told me it was her birthday.

Debbie was born December twenty-three in Ruidoso to Paul and Nellie Ruth Jones, the middle daughter of three, the others being Annelle Craig and Cathy Ogden.

Debbie was an honor graduate from Ruidoso High School in 1976; and then went on to New Mexico State University where she was graduated with a degree in Elementary Physical Education. I forgot to say that she was also a star athlete, a good cowhand and sort of a bronc rider, being able to hold her own in cattle work with the top hands.

In 1982 she was married to Sonny Sanchez, son of the late and beloved Ben Sanchez and Mrs. Trine Sanchez of San Patricio.

Sonny is also a star athlete, and he and Debbie work together in team roping in the rodeos during the summer.

Debbie is a beautiful lady, very feminine-looking, almost delicate.

One day when Saint Anne's Church was flooded and full of quicksand and mud, a bunch of us were lifting the mud out the window in buckets. Debbie was lifting a large bucket to the window for somebody outside to grab and carry off. She had been at this job for quite a while, so I said, "Here, let me give you a hand, Deb." And when I took hold of the handle, I could barely lift the bucket off the floor, and was struggling to lift it to the window when Debbie took pity on me and lifted it up.

On account of her great strength I gave her the name "Samsonia" (from Samson).

At last Sunday's church services, she played while we sang some of the favorite Christmas hymns. It was a big day in the history of the church, for now we have "a chip off the block" playing for the services, the latest of a long line of organists going back to the founding of the church in 1934.

Debbie has been teaching Elementary Physical Education at Valley View School in Roswell for the last four and a half years. We are pleased to hear that beginning January seven she will be teaching Physical Education at Nob Hill School and White Mountain School here in Ruidoso.

So we say "Welcome Home!" and "Happy Birthday" to Debbie Jones Sanchez, alias "Samsonia, the Pride of the Vale."

Across-the-Creek-Man

Among the several names given to me by the Mescalero Apache Indians, one of my favorites is "Across-the-creek-man." There is a faint touch of humor here when you know that you are liable to wake up some morning and see the Ruidoso looking more like the Colorado on a rampage, and come to find out you're across the creek sure enough. Sure, the river will go down some time; but when?

Of course, I can get out the old road to the east, and even that will sometimes be well nigh impassible. And then too, it is not impossible for the creek to take out all bridges, like in the 1965 flood. That time I was across the creek all right, but the house was on the other side. And I spent several nights in different homes where I sang them a couple of lines from the old cowboy song, "Make me a pallet; I'll lie on the floor."

Right now, just a little after high noon, I am looking out to the south on a quiet mountain world, with thin streaks of clouds overhead reflecting down a gentle glow from the half-hidden sun. The flag just barely moves against the soft green of the mountain and the blue and white of the sky beyond. There is a dreamy, mellow calmness in the air—a thankful reverence over hill and dale.

Just in this spot you can see only a few miles up or down the valley, and you have the feeling you are in a little world of your own. And the sun, the moon, the clouds, the rain and snow, the stars, and the growing things make pictures here that you will see nowhere else. There is a special light here that works its magic at the different times of the day and of the year.

Our Mother, who awakened our appreciation of the beauties of God's world, first called our attention to the changing pictures in light that the sun displays as it begins to come up over Sunrise Mountain, especially in December.

On the morning of the twenty-first I looked out just before sun-up. Just over the mountain, above the path of the sun (still several minutes away from making its appearance) was what seemed to be a great fire made of flames of rainbow colors, all blending one into another, changing, pulsating, a patch of glowing, golden fire moving around in different spots behind this colored blaze, bringing out the airy colors of purple, purest green blending into lavender, blue and pink, gold and silver—all colors of fire. It was something like watching the fire blazing upon the hearth at evening. And here on the mountaintop the flames were in changing colors that held you watching, not wanting to miss what these out-of-this-world colors would show next.

Some light clouds gathered around the first rim of the sun which turned the pinon trees into trees of gold trim, with vibrating outlines of these rainbow colors. All these moving, changing colored flames were caught by the coulds, turning them into fragments of rainbows, called "sun dogs."

As the sun rose in its full circle it sent long rainbow shafts into the valley and flooded all the air surrounding this shaft of rays into an airy mass of purple light.

Thinking the show was over, I went into the house, and then looked up the valley out the window and, well, you have to see it to believe it. The hills all up the valley were afire in solid orange, and even the valley itself was flooded with this orange golden fire. The hillside to the north, catching the full force of the glow, was the final stage in this Christmas display of Mother Nature—an enchanted, beaming hillside with the pinon and cedar, the cliffs and slopes all bathed in pink and orange radiance touched with purple.

The words of the Psalm came to your mind:

"The Heavens declare the Glory of God,
And the Firmament Sheweth His Handiwork."

Thank you for making my life here "across the creek" such a happy one; and may the Lord bring you His greatest blessings this Christmas season.

Moncor president resigns

Moncor, Inc., announced Wednesday the resignation of President and Chief Executive Officer Reed Chittim, effective immediately.

Chittim has led the Albuquerque-based Moncor organization since 1965 when he became president of First National Bank of Lea County, now Moncor Bank, Hobbs. According to a press release, Moncor, Inc., is presently the second largest New Mexico-based multi-bank holding company.

Chittim said that he and the Board of Directors of the company believed it was time to allow new leadership to deal with the challenges ahead. Moncor has an estimated fourth quarter loss of approximately $12.8 million.

Moncor President and Chief Executive Officer of Ruidoso, James F. Atwood, said the change in officers was friendly and well thought out, but added, "anytime the chief executive officer of a holding company resigns... it is going to have some effect on the subsidiaries. However, our bank (Ruidoso) is well capitalized. As far as soundness and safety ... we're in good shape," Atwood said.

Ruidoso matmen gain from losses to Santa Fe, Carlsbad

by GARY BROWN
News Sports Writer

The Ruidoso High School varsity wrestling team lost dual matches to Carlsbad and Santa Fe Saturday in Carlsbad, but head coach Gerald Ames felt his athletes benefited from the experience.

"They were tough teams," he said. "But we wrestled well against them and scored points in all our matches. We can wrestle with them now. This will be good experience for us."

Ruidoso lost to Santa Fe 58-12 and fell to the Cavemen 63-6. Santa Fe topped Carlsbad 42-34. Carlsbad and Santa Fe are AAAA-division schools while Ruidoso is an AAA-division school.

James Herrera was the only Warrior wrestler to win two matches, getting pins both times in the third period. He has the best record on the team with a 4-1 mark.

Against Santa Fe, Manuel Montano in the 126-pound division joined Herrera as a winner. Montano pinned his opponent in just 28 seconds of the first period.

The Warriors forfeited the 112-pound, 119-pound, 132-pound and 138-pound classes in both matches.

However, Cory Garner at 119 pounds, Zach Swalander at 132 pounds and Kyle Jameson at 138 pounds wrestled well in exhibition matches. All three wrestlers were unable to make weight in their class.

Still, Swalander won his exhibition against Santa Fe, getting a pin. He lost a 9-3 decision in the Carlsbad exhibition.

In the Santa Fe match, 98-pound freshman Jeff Schmidt was pinned in the second period by a more experienced junior, but wrestled well before then.

Another freshman—Scott Yeatman—was pinned in the third period of the 105-pound division. Kerry Jameson at 145 pounds, Don Jones at 155 pounds and Phillip Herrera at heavyweight were pinned in hard-fought matches.

Jones scored 10 points in the first period of his match, but was pinned in the second period by an experienced opponent.

Kevin Jameson lost a tough 7-5 decision in the 185-pound class.

Against Carlsbad, Schmidt and Yeatman were pinned in the second period, Montano was pinned in the second period, Kerry Jameson lost a close 7-6 decision, Jones and Kevin Jameson were pinned and Phillip Herrera dropped a 20-2 decision.

"We've still only had three weeks of practice and that's not enough, particularly against teams like Santa Fe and Carlsbad," Ames remarked. "Santa Fe is really tough. I think they finished fourth in the Manzano Tournament."

Ruidoso will resume action Monday, January 7, with a home match against the Roswell Coyotes, another AAAA-division team.

The Warriors split with the Coyotes last season, winning one of two matches.

James Herrera (center) leads the Ruidoso High School wrestling team in some warm-up exercises during a recent practice. Herrera has a 4-1 record so far this season, the best on the Warrior squad.

Local schools represented on all-state A-division team

A total of seven players from Lincoln County schools have been named to the Associated Press A division all-state football first team.

Steve Stearns of Carrizozo—the state's leading rusher—leads the way. Other Carrizozo players on the first team include quarterback Dominic Vega, offensive lineman Mike Curtiss, defensive lineman Peter Morales and defensive back Joe Candelaria.

Capitan had the brother duo of Troy and Dewey Keller on the first team. Dewey made the first team defense as a linebacker and Troy was named to the first team offense as a receiver.

Carrizozo had three players named to the second team. They were receiver Gray Gallacher, linebacker Kenneth Crenshaw and linebacker Charles Zamora.

Capitan players selected to the second squad were Dewey Keller as a running back, Troy Keller as a defensive end and Trent Thompson as the punter.

Offensive lineman Benny Zamora and defensive lineman Troy Hollis were the Carrizozo players named to the honorable mention list.

Jay Eldridge of Capitan was selected to the honorable mention list as a defensive back.

Carrizozo finished second in the state to Reserve. Reserve led the first-team selections with eight players.

Around Sports with Gary Brown

Well, it's that time of year again when that funny fat man in the red and white suit delivers all kinds of goodies to those who have been good, even people in the sports world.

So I figure Santa might pass out a few gifts to local sports teams and personalities, and here's what I bet they'll like.

Ruidoso High School head football coach Cooper Henderson and the rest of the coaches and team: a district championship and state title next fall.

But in order to do that, the Warriors will have to find a way to defeat Silver City, something no District 3-AAA team has done in many years. Maybe Santa can give the Warriors a way to do that.

Good seasons for the Ruidoso boys and girls basketball teams, and possibly berths in the state AAA-division tournament. The Warriors haven't qualified for the state tournament in either boys or girls play in four years, and they're due.

A host of state qualifiers for the Ruidoso wrestling team and coach Gerald Ames.

Success for the rest of the Warrior sports teams also.

Quick improvement for the Capitan High School boys sports teams, as the Tigers are rebuilding this season with young squads.

Some continued success for the Tiger girls teams.

Some more good recreational sports for local residents, and better facilities for the softball teams.

A few extra pounds for Las Piedras Boxing Team member David Ordorica, so he can compete again (amateur boxers 16 years old and older must weigh at least 100 pounds).

Some more top performances for the Ruidoso-Sierra Blanca Ski Racing Team.

Some more top golf tournaments in the area, plus a way to hold some tournaments at Cree Meadows again.

The same goes for more tennis tournaments, particularly on the junior level.

The list could go on and on. 1984 was a good year for local sports, and let's hope 1985 will be even better.

Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year!

Ruidoso loses tight decision in girls cage

A Ruidoso High School girls basketball team composed of freshmen and junior varsity players lost a tight 38-36 overtime decision to the visiting Hondo Eagle varsity Thursday afternoon.

"We should have won," said Warrior head coach Sergio Castanon. "But we made some mistakes at the end which cost us. We threw the ball away at the end."

Castanon also praised the play of Lillian Duffy, Ellen Graham, Lisa Chino, Veralyn Platta and Amanda Samuels.

Last Tuesday night, the Warrior junior varsity dropped a 36-23 decision to Goddard on the Ruidoso court. Ruidoso is 1-1 on the season in junior varsity competition.

The Warrior varsity and junior varsity will resume action Saturday, January 5, at Socorro. Ruidoso will have this week off for the holidays but will resume practice next Monday.

Ruidoso will start District 3-AAA action Saturday, February 2, against the Deming Wildcats on the latters' court.

Ruidoso's varsity squad is 2-3 on the season, with two of the defeats coming to the undefeated Goddard Rockets. The other loss was to A-division powerhouse Cloudcroft.

The Warriors captured the consolation championship in the recent Goddard Invitational in Roswell, defeating Bowie of El Paso, Texas, 52-50, in the final contest.

Mescalero cage tourney near

There will be a men's open basketball tournament at the Mescalero Community Center Friday through Sunday, January 11-13.

The first 10 teams to sign up will play. The tournament is a double-elimination affair and the entry fee is $100 per team.

The deadline for registration is 4:30 p.m. Tuesday, January 8.

Men cagers to have meeting

There will be an organizational meeting for the Ruidoso Men's Recreational Winter Basketball League at 6 p.m. Saturday, January 5, at Ruidoso Middle School.

Among the items to be discussed will be due dates for team rosters, starting date for league play and fees.

The Chiefs won the championship of the league tournament last season, defeating Frankie Reynolds Electric twice, the final contest a 68-61 decision.

Last season there were many close games in the the league. The league featured many former Ruidoso High School basketball standouts.

Anyone wanting further information can call Ruidoso Parks and Recreation Department Director Bobby Bailey at 257-2795.

Capitan receives grant

by SHARON MAKOKIAN
News Capitan Bureau

The Village of Capitan was awarded a $400,000 New Mexico Community Assistance (NMCA) grant at a two-day conference in Santa Fe last week.

The grant will be used for a new water storage and treatment plant. According to Village Clerk Gini Spall, the project will go out to bid in January and hopefully will finish by January, 1986.

Mayor David Cummins was very pleased with the award. "It's a great Christmas present," he said.

Spall attended the grant hearings in Santa Fe. She said that Capitan had originally applied for a Community Development Block Grant (CDGB), but had switched to the NMCA because they could get a higher rating under that program.

The state awards the grants on a point system. Requests come to the staff and are rated in order of need. The rated list of project proposals was used in awarding the funds last week.

Also awarded was Lincoln County. The county received a $57,000 CDGB grant to purchase a site for the proposed new dumpster system. According to county manager Suzanne Cox, the project will go out to bid in January and be completed within six months.

Cox was disappointed that the county did not get any of the $500,000 CDGB money that they had requested for the repair of Gavilan and Carrizo Canyon roads.

Cox said that the county has been fighting for money to fix those roads for six years. "If we don't get it from one place, we'll try somewhere else," she said.

Ben Hall represented Lincoln County at the Santa Fe hearings. "To me, (it seemed like) the committee didn't do their homework," said Hall.

However, Hall said that considering the limitations on the funds, Lincoln County did all right. According to Hall, the committee had 17 million dollars of grant money to allocate and 63 million dollars of requests. Capitan had origially requested $500,000.

Ruidoso Downs was also awarded money, receiving $154,000 for street and drainage improvement.

County officials to be sworn in Lincoln County officials will be sworn in at 11 a.m. Wednesday, January 2, at the County Courthouse in Carrizozo.

A reception will follow the ceremony. Judge Robert M. Doughty II will preside at the swearing-in. Among those to take office is district judge-elect Richard A. Parsons, who will assume the new district judgeship for Lincoln County.

Capitan Corner

by Sharon Makokian

If there is one person I envy, it would have to be Santa Claus. Imagine being able to fill everybody's Christmas wishes and give out wonderful presents.

Since I can't be Santa in real life, at least I can do it on paper. I've been covering Capitan and Lincoln County for five months now, long enough to get a good idea of the people and the community.

Here is a list of some of the things I'd pack on my sleigh from North Pole to Lincoln County if I were Santa Claus.

To the village of Capitan, I would give a huge reservoir filled with enough water to last for many generations. I'd also throw in storage tanks, pumps, pipeline, and distribution supplies.

While in Capitan, I'd have a crew of my elves jump off the sleigh and fill in some of the many potholes which plague Capitan's streets. I wouldn't want the alignment on the sleigh to be ruined like the cars around here.

To Mayor David Cummins, I would give more community participation in local government. He has expressed this wish many times.

When my sleigh lands on the rooftop of the Capitan schools, I would fill every stocking with money, enough money to cover their $30,000 deficit. I'd include some extra money for activities such as band, drama, sports and other organizations.

While at the school, I would have the elves spread some Christmas cheer and open more lines of communication between the parents, teachers, administation and the school board.

Heading east, I would point my reindeer toward Fort Stanton. My gift there would be to remove the dark cloud of uncertainty and keep the hospital and training school for the developmentally disabled open. I would also do the same for the prison facilities at Camp Sierra Blanca.

From Fort Stanton the next stop would be Lincoln. My gift to Lincoln would be a package of harmony and cooperation--whatever it takes to ease the conflicts caused by the Historic Preservation Ordinance.

Lincoln is a charming little town, filled with history and spirit. Most of the residents share a love for the town and should be able to preserve their home together, not with constant little battles.

From Lincoln, I would head the sleigh through Hondo and Glencoe to Ruidoso. (Since reindeer don't require gasoline, we can afford to take the scenic routes).

To Ruidoso, I would give a prosperous year to the ski and racing seasons. I'd make lots of snow fall on the mountain and dot the slopes with skiers.

While passing through town, I'd have the elf crew fix Gavilan and Carrizo Canyon Roads and repair any damage done by the recent floods.

Heading west, the next stop would be the county seat in Carrizozo. To the sheriff and his deputies, I would give the answers to the questions surrounding the recent cases of arson, murder and child molestation. I'd also have the elves create a magic formula to stop those things from ever happening in this county again.

To Devil Bill Adams and Emergency Medical Services, I would give the increased allocation of funds they need from the state legislature. I would also see to it that his proposed EMT training program is started in the schools.

I'd also give the County Commissioners more state money so that they can complete some of the projects they want.

And, last but not least, I'd present County Manager Suzanne Cox with a two week vacation to a tropical island paradise. Cox is extremely dedicated to the county and works many long hours to keep the county running smoothy in its daily operations.

I would give the same gift to Village Clerk Gini Spall, who does the same thing for Capitan.

Thus ends my brief stint as Santa Claus. Although in reality I cannot grab a sleigh and drop these gifts throughout the county, I do think that many of these things can be accomplished with the work and dedication which the people of this area posess.

Have a merry, merry Christmas.

County residents ready for Christmas

P & Z learns illegal subdivisions will comply

by SHARON MAKOKIAN
News Capitan Bureau

At the regular meeting of the Lincoln County Planning and Zoning Commission on Thursday night, chairman Bill Seelbach reported that all of the 17 illegal subdivisions that had existed in Lincoln County have complied (or are in the process of complying) with the state regulations.

Seelbach said that getting all of the subdividers to comply without litigation was quite an achievement and might set a state precedent.

"We, as the P and Z (Planning and Zoning Commission), appreciate it (the cooperation from the subdividers)," said Seelbach. "It saves the taxpayers money by not having to go through litigation."

Three members of the Environmental Improvement Division (EID)--James Edwards, Garrison McCaslin and engineer Percy Blair--came before the commission concerned about a possible EID violation in the Shadow Mountain Estates and Rio Bonito Estates subdivisions.

Apparently, when these subdivisions were accepted by the county in 1970, the owners had planned to provide community water systems. Since then, it was reported at the meeting that another company bought the land and is requiring that lot buyers provide their own wells and septic tanks.

However, the lots in the Rio Bonito subdivision are reportedly too small to support individual wells and septics. Acording to EID regulations, a lot must be at least three-fourths of an acre to have a well and septic tank.

Realtor Harvey Foster said that the Rio Bonito lots would be sold as combined tracts large enough to hold a well and septic tank. The Shadow Mountain Estates lots meet the size requirement.

Edwards, EID supervisor in Ruidoso, said that although the original plans provided for community water systems, the subdivisions would be acceptable with individual setups as long as the lot size meets with regulations.

P and Z advised Foster and engineer Tim Collins that it would be necessary for them to submit amended plats showing the combined lots of the Rio Bonito tracts.

A question of liability on land deeded to public use arose during the approval of the Gavilan South Industrial Subdivision. White Mountain Development Co. had dedicated Lot 14, an inaccessible piece of land, to be used as a green area and buffer zone. The county commissioners approved the dedication at their November meeting.

P and Z accepted the plat with Lot 14 deeded to "the public," although the question of responsibility was not resolved.

Seelbach was pleased with the idea of a green area. "That's exactly what we want people to do," he said.

In other business, the commission:

--Approved the final plat review for Pine Point Estates, subject to approval from the Soil Conservation Board.

--Approved the final plat of Twin Spruce Trailer Park.

--Approved the replat of Lot 16, Block 3, High Sierra Estates.

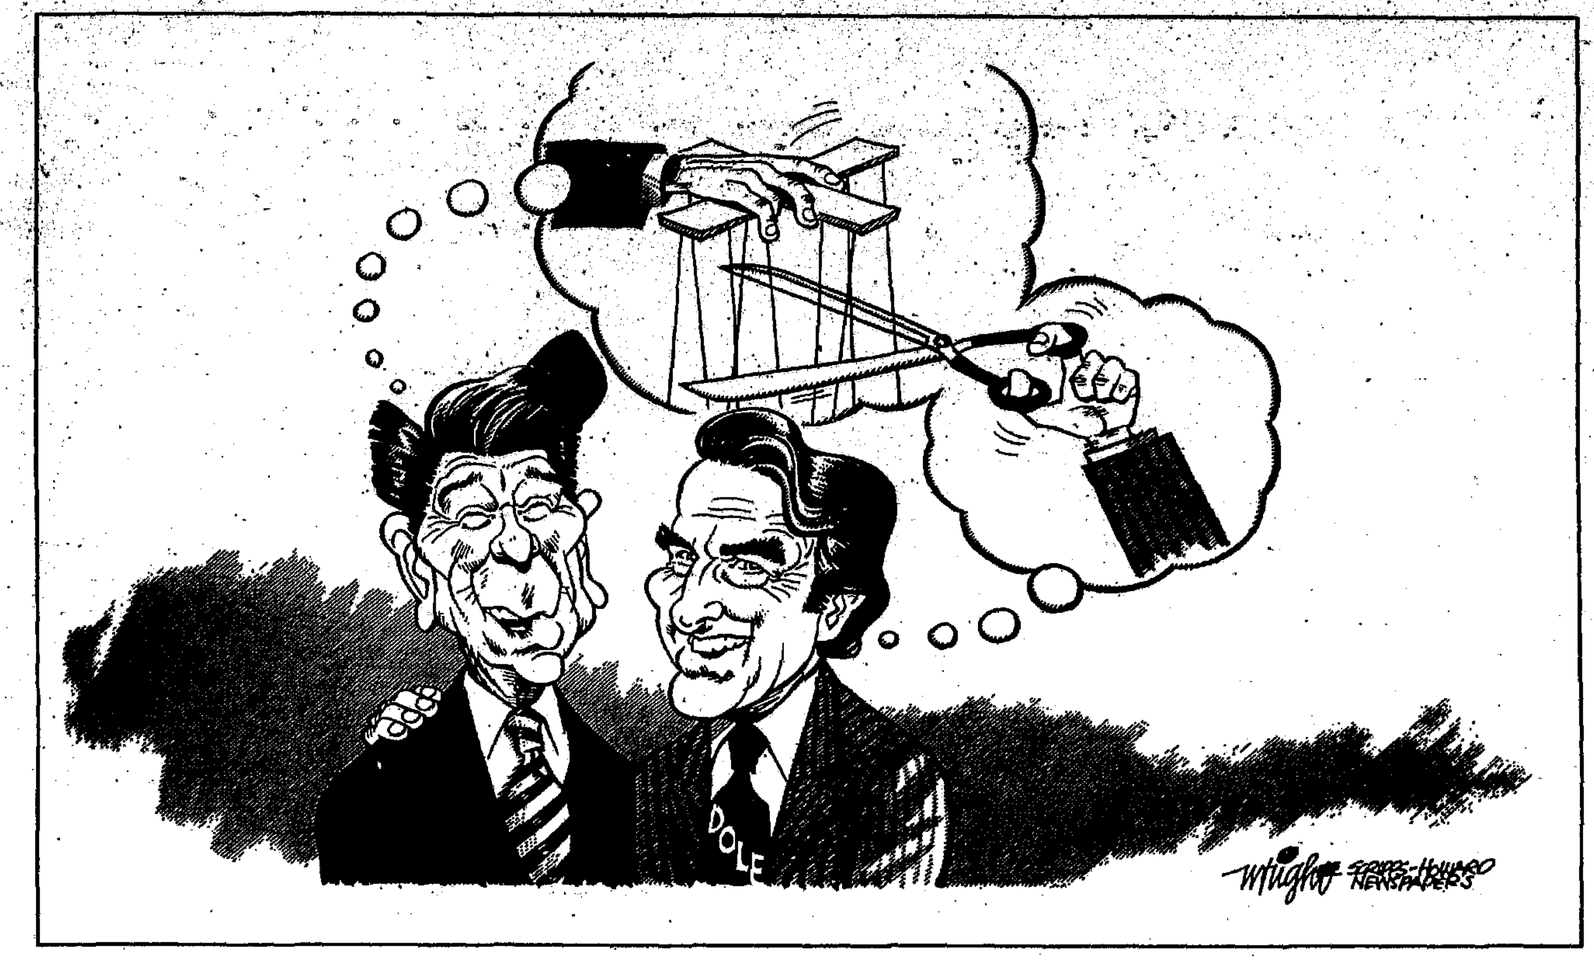
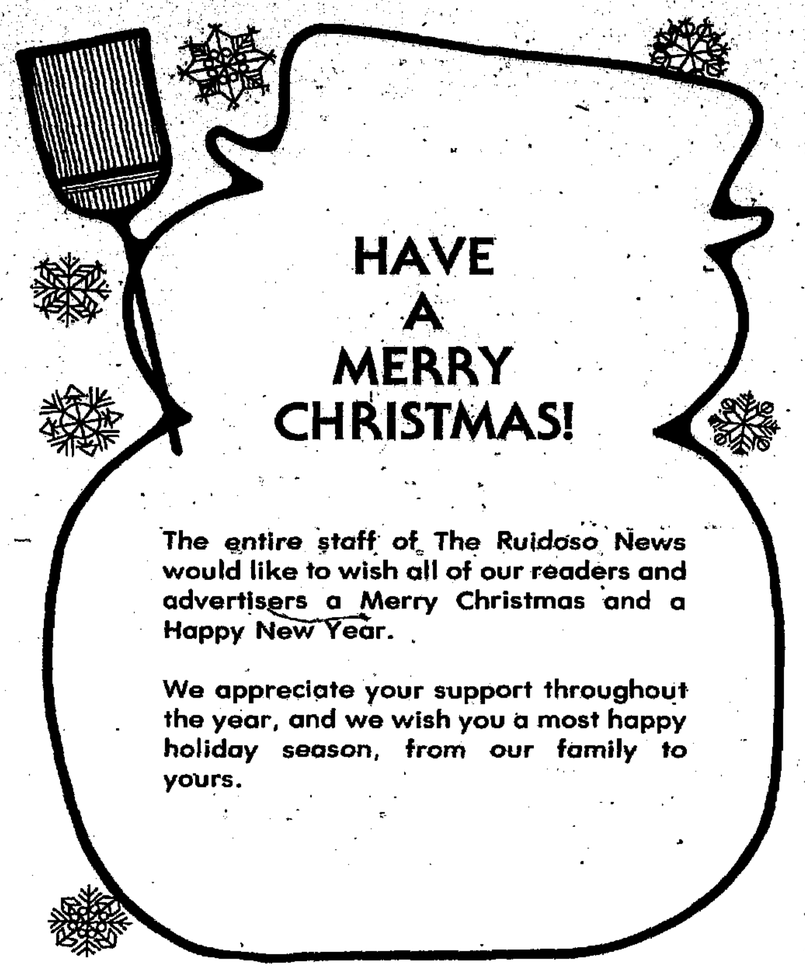
Opinion





Inside the Capitol

by Fred McCaffrey

SANTA FE—It's easy to sit around bragging about how conservative you are politically. What's tough is to put that philosophy into practice when you are an elected official.

Lots of members of the New Mexico Legislature are going to find out just how hard that is this coming year.

For one thing, most conservative officeholders in New Mexico are political amateurs. They're nice enough folks, but they tend to make their pile first and then run for office, often as a kind of cap to a successful career. It's hard for that kind of people to keep up with those whose political activity is full time—a life long job, which they thoroughly enjoy and play for keeps.

Many conservatives find the essence of politics boring, and some are even a little ashamed to have any part of it. That leaves them at a disadvantage when dealing with politicians who thrive on the hurly-burly and love to take the gloves off and get to slugging.

One place we'll see this acted out in real life is in the New Mexico state Senate in 1985. Conservatives will have control there, but it's not yet clear whether they will know what to do with it.

Republican veterans in that body have vast experience at being the minority party. That's what they and their predecessors have been in our Senate for 56 years. But being in the majority is a lot different—as they are going to find out very quickly.

They are going to have to learn a lot and learn it fast. That won't be easy. One mark of certain conservatives is precisely that they are no longer learners; they think what they know already is all anybody needs to know.

They will also—along with those Democrats who have allied themselves to the Republicans for reasons of personal power—make grave and early errors. For instance, what in the world do they have to gain by telling us categorically before the session begins that they are opposed to every tax raise imaginable? Oh, sure, that sounds good to the ordinary citizen, who will cheer at the thought. But it immediately limits those who are charged with solving the state's grave financial problems. They have only three options—to cut government spending, raise taxes or do some of both. By their premature announcement, they have limited themselves to a single one of those possibilities.

Some will say that at least they chose the proper alternative, cutting the size of state government. Nobody but the bureaucrats, it is supposed, can be against that.

But it's not that simple. Everybody's for the principle; where the trouble comes is in selecting the specifics to be cut.

That's the point at which political philosophy meets reality—and blood begins to flow.

Take those nice new conservatives elected from Dona Ana County, for instance. If they are mindful of what happened to Jimmy Rogers when he let a cut in funds for the Solar Reserach Center at NMSU slip by him, do you think they are going to stand up and vote to slash the budget of their hometown university? Not very likely, no matter how vigorously they have prated about the needs for paring budgets.

What that kind of talk always means is "somebody else's budget, not the one which affects me and my constituents."

Right there is the nub of the problem, and it's just at that point that professed conservatives start falling all over themselves in self-contradiction. They are proud to march beneath that cost-cutting banner, until the cost that gets cut comes out of their own hides. This session, we can watch them squirm as they try to solve that age-old problem.

And what will the liberals be doing while this goes on? Why, trying to outdo the conservatives, of course. Every time the Republicans say, "Let's cut $10 million here," they will reply, "Let's not stop there. Let's go for $20 million." In the minority at last, they are relieved of much responsibility. And when some parts of the state get hurt, they need only point to the conservatives and say, "They did it."

Responsibility is just what Republicans in our Senate have little experience of. So suddenly that it surprised even them, they have it thrust upon them.

Is there anybody around who wants to bet that they won't blow it?

Letters to the editor

DEAR EDITOR:

This is in response to your editorial of December 20th, 1984 on PANIC.....

PANIC.....I hardly think so. Not everybody in this community has access to four wheel drive vehicles, or chains. As Vice President ant manager of a local Bank, I made the decision to close the Bank two hours early the first big snow and one hour early the second.

The Bank had as many as ten to fifteen customers on the days in question, and half of those people came in out of the storm to call for help in getting their cars unstuck or out of the ditches or to report accidents.

Is staying open two extra hours, like the big boys, worth this? The safety of my employees as well as other persons of this community (in which I have lived 23 years) is more important than keeping them here at the bank a couple more hours.

Just plain good ol' common sense and not panic.

The old saying, "Never put off till tomorrow what you can do today" does not apply (in my opinion) if there is a chance that if you do it today you could get hurt. In my opinion, there is nothing so important that it can't wait until tomorrow.....be safe.

SO the next time we have a hard snow that endangers the safety of the people, you keep your news paper running, and the profits soaring.....but don't slide into a ditch: There may not be anybody to pull you out! We may all be home in front of a nice warm fire.....

You know, like with the big boys in the winter business.

On the Village Beat with Tim Palmer

Notes on an afternoon's flood-watching

Ate lunch at Pizza Hut Thursday, and saw village workers doing something with ropes at Sudderth bridge over Carrizo Creek.

Got back to the office, and went with DP to check it out. A great big culvert had washed down from somewhere and gotten wedged under the bridge.

The efforts of four men in two trucks—one with a winch on it—had failed to remove the culvert.

"Too much water," one of the men said.

"Wow" is closest word to describing the spectacle of lots of muddy, turbulent water moving very fast.

"Double-wow" for the fact that we were witnessing it for the second time in five months. Hadn't someone called August a 50-year flood?

That was a fast 50 years.

Had gotten message at office that someone had called and been unhappy about our headline—"Flooding reported throughout area."

Watching the two rivers converge, I composed an alternative headline for the complainer, and showed it to DP.

"Gently rising waters add to holiday charm."

Darrell is moving around, lining up photos. Are you sure you want to walk out on that footbridge behind the chamber?

The thing looks shaky enough at the best of times, and now we can see the concrete base of one of its supports swaying in the stream—the earth that supported it washed away.

Another deja vu. That dizzying sensation of standing on a bridge and watching the water rush by below, pulling you with it, carrying you way downstream in an instant before you turn your eyes to something solid—something still.

As long as we're in the neighborhood, we drive up Robin Road. The August flood taught us where the trouble spots are.

A TV newsman is standing on the bank of the Rio Ruidoso below Johnny Durham's house, aiming his camera at the rushing stream.

Hi, how's it goin'?

This is kinda fun, he says, you hate to see it (a flood), but ... We know what he means—exactly.

We drive back across Sudderth onto Carrizo. The house with the flooded yard is there. Just the backs of the lawn chairs are visible above the surface, like Frankie described it in the flood story that morning.

It looks for all the world like a scene from a newscast of a flood Down South or somewhere. Tiny red Christmas lights glow from a window of the Nash house, their cheery brightness in contrast to the scene outside.

Alfred Gonzales is out front of his place. Newly placed sandbags—added to those left from August—keep the wide water away from the house.

That was a bad deal when they put in those culverts, he tells me. I had read that in Frankie's story, but now I could see exactly what he meant.

You (you being Valley Transit or Barney Rue) want a river crossing, so you build one, and you put a culvert in for the creek to flow through. Then there's a flood.

Debris comes washing down and clogs up the culvert. The crossing becomes a dam, and the water spreads out as it goes over and around. If you live in the water's new path, you're out of luck.

"What they oughta make 'em do is put in bridges," says Alfred. That or drive the trucks right through the creek to park them on the other side, like they used to do.

Another memory of August. Seeing flood waters rushing through, around and over a culvert, with the pipe itself handling about one-twentieth of the flow.

You don't have to go to Niagara for your honeymoon, says DP as we stand by a huge waterfall. The sound isn't deafening, exactly, but it gets your attention, contributing to the overall sense of the power of a flood.

We find some skiers at the edge of a crossing farther out on Carrizo Road. One of their vehicles is on the other side, and they realize that's where it will stay for the time being.

They had seen what was coming, and wisely packed all their stuff in their other truck that morning.

We drive on out toward the Inn, and see the late-afternoon sun lighting the treetops in gold. Pretty sight.

We stop just past the Halls' place, and turn in. The river is wide—maybe 30 feet across behind the house. We see movement at the barns, and there's Shorty and another man, feeding the livestock.

How the heck did they get over there? There's a sagging line over the stream—do you suppose they swung arm over arm?

Anyhow, Shorty's lived there a long time, and come hell or high water the animals got to be fed.

We go out to the Inn and look at the lake. Looks about like it did last summer—full. A Carrizo property owner had wondered what control the Mescaleros have over the flow in the creek.

A good question.

Back to the office in time for DP to go to village hall. Saw him briefly afterwards.

What happened? Well, he says, the council spent half the time badmouthing the press and then declared a state of emergency. The press are the bad guys for scaring off tourists.

Friday morning the creeks are down, the mountain is beautiful with all its new snow.

It wasn't as bad as August after all. In the office, I open the Albuquerque Journal.

"Ruidoso Flooded by Rain, Snow-Melt"—top of page one. I felt some indignation over the way they played the story. It wasn't as bad as they made it seem.

This put me in a bit of a contradictory position—feeling justified, as I do, about the way we played it.

Maybe the next precipitation we have will be the white stuff. Then our headline can say, "Gently falling snow adds to holiday charm."

I hear Bluebirds
by Dr. Shirl Brunell
Two tiny bluebirds! One caring woman! Together they create the magic in I HEAR BLUEBIRDS the true story of love, courage and the will to live.
Shirl Brunell, a clinical psychologist with her own courageous life story, shares with us her moment-by-moment battle to save "Samson" and "Baby Sister," two baby bluebirds who, by some small miracle, survive the murderous attack of a group of sparrows. One day, Baby Sister is gone but Samson, his tiny heart strong, his courage great, lives on. Alone and abandoned in an alien world, Samson relies on the caring of his new "mother" for food, shelter, and friendship.
I HEAR BLUEBIRDS will make you laugh and cry, but most of all it will make you believe in the healing power of love.
I HEAR BLUEBIRDS will live in the hearts of everyone for years and years to come.

Stress mars holiday enjoyment

by FRANKIE JARRELL
News Staff Writer

Research has shown that there are more stresses during the holiday season than at other times of the year, according to J. L. Wilson of the Counseling Center of Lincoln County.

Wilson deals clinically with people, and doesn't do that much research, but he has observed the trend in his own practice.

"I see the same people in December that I see the rest of the year, but they seem to have more problems and the problems they have are more acute." Many people never see a counselor or discuss their anxiety with anyone.

"One of the main things I've encountered is unreal expectations ... one place they start is with advertising," Wilson said. He said he was not blaming advertising, but that we are constantly bombarded with messages to spend money.

"It puts us kind of down," he said. Especially when there just isn't any money to spend.

Another image many people have to deal with is an idealized family togetherness. The reality of being together as a family just isn't that perfect.

The blended family structure really affects what happens within families. Many parents are faced with sending children to another parent for celebrations, and some families receive those children that they see only a few times a year.

These groups are not like the families we see in turkey commercials.

"We're in a very structured, work-oriented society," said Wilson. This contributes to a very fast pace at Christmas. We push ourselves to fulfill all our regular responsibilities, and then add to them things we perceive as expected during the holidays.

Police Chief Richard Swenor says his department has observed some of the same things. Traditionally they handle a much greater number of domestic calls between Thanksgiving and Christmas than during other times of the year.

According to Swenor, this year is no exception.

Domestic calls are those involving family disputes in the home, often violent ones. Swenor says those calls are the most dangerous for his officers.

Family problems are more prevalent during Christmas for several reasons. Swenor said financial need weighs heavily on some people during the holidays.

"We know there are people who can't afford any Christmas at all ... we see families without enough food and clothing," Swenor said.

Observing these family stresses and needs is one of the main reasons the Police Department and the Fire Department started their Happy Holidays drive three years ago. Swenor said they wanted to relieve the genuine needs they were seeing, and also reduce the pressure on families in need.

Swenor has observed that some of the people his department sees are very isolated. They may be alone as individuals or as a family, with no ties to anyone else in town.

He sees these people as likely to attempt suicide or have an explosive family dispute.

"If you know anybody like this, invite them over," was Swenor's advice.

Wilson said there are things we can do for ourselves to overcome holiday anxiety and depression.

"We've idealized it (Christmas) ... it never was actually like that," Wilson said. We need to face that fact, and go on from there.

First, Wilson said, know what you need as an individual. Decide what's important, and stick with it. If it's buying or receiving expensive gifts, then admit that to yourself.

The main thing, according to Wilson, is to set your own priorities, not accept somebody else's packaged ones. Some of the "Christmasy" things that add stress during December, like shopping, baking, going to parties and such may not really be important to you.

"We let circumstances control us," said Wilson. "How much control you exert over your life is up to you ... we shouldn't kid ourselves."

Wilson advises families and individuals to set these priorities—not just in December, but throughout the year. Then, he suggests, begin to live by your own set of values.

"Start your own traditions ... like cutting down your own Christmas tree and sharing a family meal.

"We can make these new traditions just as much a celebration as wrapping and opening presents.

"Ironically, the more we have, the more we want ... it's not a matter of the amount, but our attitude that makes the difference."

Fashions from furs to footwear were modeled for a handful of men and women who braved ice and snow to attend a fashion show Sunday.

Carriage House Fashions and El Bosque presented the show at the Carrizo Lodge. Carla Beasley was narrator for the show, and models were local women.

A special fashion preview was staged Thursday evening, this one for men only. Ruidoso men took advantage of the chance to do some Christmas shopping. They liked seeing their purchases on models instead of hangers.

Their was a party air about both shows, even as spectators checked out fabrics, brands and prices. All seemed to agree that shopping with wine, cheese, music and models is a Christmas delight!

Eric Satie continues to make beautiful music

by L.J. GRUSHKA
News Staff Writer

"My editor requests an interview," I tell Erik Satie over the phone. "He thinks you are interesting and talented," I add for collateral.

"Yes, that would be fine. When?" His confidence is unexpected, and he dosen't hedge when I suggest that very day.

It is 2 o'clock, a cold Tuesday. There is a quiet about town, an easy drive while the skiers are skiing, the hungry fed, the working busy working. The business sign I'm looking for looms ahead, and I tuck my truck in next to the curb by the front door.

Ruidoso Music is the proverbial hole in the wall, I record as my "first impression." Then I look up. The cubical is enveloped with emotion. Passion for music and musical instruments creeps out the seams. People and "stuff" cram together, each occuping whatever available space can be etched out.

The various patrons make room as I advance to the counter, never missing a beat in their musical conversation. I resist, but I size them up anyway. Young and talented, with rebel hairstyles and lifestyles to match, I judge.

The man on the phone behind the jumbled counter is having an animated conversation. I peer at him though guitar picks and poinsettias. His hair is within a neutral color zone as are his eyes and they lock with mine. Satie hangs up and we introduce. He is excited and lively, but not nervous. I eat a half dozen pecans from a Christmas dish next to the registar, a lovely offering of some of nature's finest. He lugs over an old cushioned stool and places it next to him in his hideout.

I plan to start out a bit soft, hopeful that he'll pick the rythm, and I come out with a brilliant ice-breaker. I ask him where he grew up.

Laughter, lots of laughter. O.K., so it wasn't the million dollar question. But I press it. This is IMPORTANT, I assured him.

"Grew up in Fairfax, Virginia. Thirty miles from D.C. Playing accordian by age five, turned professional at 10." I leaned on him for names.

"Eddie Czervimski ... ya, really I was only 10. But what I really want to tell you about is a record I just produced down in Las Cruces ..." Hold on, I beg him. Background Erik, we need background.

"In the late fifties I got into Rock and Roll. See nobody wanted to mess with R & R back then. There just wasn't any money in it. I played the piano. I backed people up. I played the Dick Clark Show in Philly when it was still local."

We take a break as someone in the store askes Satie a question. He is electric. He jumps up and tells me I gotta meet these guys. They are from a local band, The Edge, and they are terrific he assures all of us.

They talk about strings and watts and amps. He jabbers with the female vocalist and suggests a trip to Los Angeles. They are all absorbed by the moment. The group is now playing locally, but he inquires about the success of a recent road trip.

"You have to be careful about road trips," Satie tells us. "You mix this and that and you get great bread, or else you mix that and this and you get a broken up band." He asks how they are managing now.

"We're starving," replies a member.

"That's why we're in here. We heard you have great pecans," quips another.

I corner him again and start asking questions quickly. Yes, he has formal education. I try to hide my ashtonishment as I write down American University, Washington D.C., a Masters in music composition granted in 1962.

I squeeze on for details, names, places. He grants me tidbits.

He moved to Hollywood and worked. He did back-up work for big name entertainers and he is reluctant to reveal their names.

"See in this business your fate is not always in your hands. What you say today might be dug up in the future. Your past is searched ..."

I plead that in my business people want to read big names.

"O.K. Tell 'em Chuck Berry and Lynn Kellogg ... and George Jones."

I tell him rumor has it he played with another band. A big BIG name. He hesitates, calculating. He wants this to be between us only. He sold "some" music to "some" well-known band, but is under contract to avoid all publicity involving the recordings. His charm is contagious, and I move on to musical philosophy.

"The music business is really two businesses. First there is the art side. Second there is the business side ... I love the art side ... but you have to learn the business to survive." he says.

"As a producer of music there is one thing I cannot stand. That is someone who copies someone else's work. That can put you two mistakes away from good music. You might be wrong in copying it, and the guy you are copying might have been wrong about the music ... and just playing original music that is erratic doesn't make it right either."

Erik Satie is proud of his past; but it is the future that occuples his deepest interests. At the moment Erik is enjoying "straight" employment at Ruidoso Music on Sudderth.

Satie muses while I breeze through more of his life history. He came to Ruidoso five years ago as part of a duo booked to play at Don King's. He reports unbridled affection for this mountaintop resort.

"If you really want to you can find yourself here ... The only rich (attitude) here is the pleasure of the lifestyle." He already told me about his association with Ruidoso Music.

"This is the first straight job I ever had," he replied as he answered another phone call.

Finally, Satie is completely happy as I inquire of his recent projects.

"I just finished producing an album at a 24-track studio in Cruces," he starts to roll. "It was done at Emmitt Brooks studio. Then I took it to Hollywood to be mixed ... Jerry Barnes did the engineering ... he's the best in the country ... used a full digital Mitsubishi ... only six of them in the country," he said.

He is excited to talk about the quality of local musicians and askes me to write down the names of a handful of them who played on the album. The album is aptly named: Erik Rurik Satie.

My watch says I'm late for my next appointment, but there is a side of Satie that eludes me. I want to stay, dig deeper, fill in the lines. While he is displaying a Baretta guitar to the lingering band, I search my file of stock interview questions, looking for a final kicker. They don't seem to fit.

I'm almost out the door. It looks colder, grayer. I sneak one more pecan and ask one more question. "Erik, what kind of music do you play, anyway?"

"American. Yep, I play American music."

I leave and ponder. That man is amazingly plugged into the here and now, delivers forth my story-oriented mind. I realized that he summed it up for me when he said, "In this business your background don't mean '''' unless you can play it tonight."

Upper Canyon—On River

Located on the river, this historically significant Upper Canyon rock cabin, circa 1920, has been faithfully restored. This 3 bedroom, 2 bath cabin is 1,941 sq. ft. on ¾ acre with 180' of river frontage.

Totally furnished in period antiques (many original furnishings intact) including wood cookstove and original light fixtures.

Enter through charming sitting room with wicker rocker and country day bed. Spacious living room features plank flooring, vaulted beamed ceiling, animal trophies and massive rock fireplace topped with elk horns. Knotty pine master bedroom is entered through still another sitting room and has wood floors, river view, rock fireplace and both dressing room and bath. This cabin reflects true mountain flavor and warmth.

Additional improvements include new roof, city water and sewer, fresh exterior trim paint.

Upper Canyon on River

This ¼ acre tract is the most desirable building site to become available in years. Tall pines, level lot, 144' of river frontage.

An added bonus is a small 3 room rock cottage, furnished with twig beds, patchwork quilts and antiques—how can you resist falling in love? Perfect for a couple now. Build your big cabin later and keep this for a guesthouse.

$130,000.

257-6092, 257-7192, 257-4934. If no answer call (214) 931-5690 or (915)362-0859. Inquiries from principals only, please.

Week of Dec. 23-29

Bono's Astro-Vue

© By Lillian Bono

ARIES

(March 21-April 20) A domestic squabble at the beginning of the week will become a distraction in other facets of your life. Financial investments will be on the rise by mid-week. Try to keep things in perspective.

TAURUS

(April 21-May 21) Be sensitive to the moods of those around you and offer support where it is needed. Show your mate your compassionate side for it will be needed, especially by the end of the week.

GEMINI

(May 22-June 21) Mid-week will be a good time to consider investing in real estate. Financial pressures will lessen when Thursday or Friday brings forth an unexpected check.

CANCER

(June 22-July 23) Your contrary attitude at the beginning of the week could lead to serious conflicts throughout the week so watch yourself. Wednesday will prove to be your most productive day this week.

LEO

(July 24-Aug. 23) You will get a spiritual life mid-week when your sixth sense brings an extra spark to a growing relationship. Your appearance will become an important factor to you.

VIRGO

(Aug. 24-Sept. 23) Reward your accomplishments modestly. Your romance may slump before the start of the weekend. Make plans that will add a new element of excitement to your relationship.

LIBRA

(Sept. 24-Oct. 23) Don't let monetary gain have too much influence on career decisions. Opportunities for change may come early in the week.

SCORPIO

(Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Let your loved ones know how much you appreciate them. Family ties will be strained this week. Your patience and understanding will be tested. Keep your wits about you.

SAGITTARIUS

(Nov. 23-Dec. 21) A kind word from a friend will play a large part in your social life this week. You will find that others will listen to you. Don't be afraid of success.

CAPRICORN

(Dec. 22-Jan. 20) If you're waiting for your lucky break, hold out for another week. Concentrate on present dilemmas. Share your frustrations with someone who understands.

AQUARIUS

(Jan. 21-Feb. 19) Be careful not to betray a confidence recently revealed by a good friend. Friday will start off slowly, but the evening will pick up and set the pace for the rest of the weekend.

PISCES

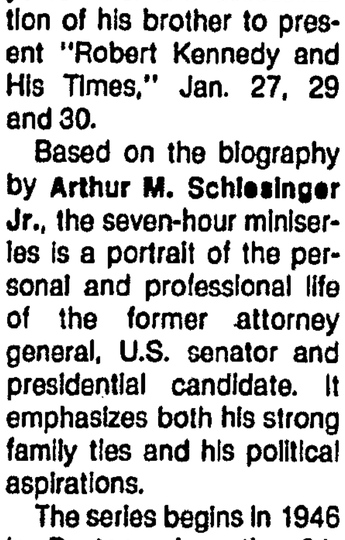
(Feb. 20-March 20) You will come down from the holiday spirit more quickly than you anticipated. Get involved in an activity which will boost your enthusiasm for something new and invigorating.

FAME

KENNEDY PORTRAIT — In 1983, television commemorated the 20th anniversary of John F. Kennedy's assassination with a miniseries on his life. But CBS is only waiting 16 years after the assassination of his brother to present "Robert Kennedy and His Times," Jan. 27, 29 and 30.

Based on the biography by Arthur M. Schlesinger Jr., the seven-hour miniseries is a portrait of the personal and professional life of the former attorney general, U.S. senator and presidential candidate. It emphasizes both his strong family ties and his political aspirations.

The series begins in 1946 in Boston when the 21-year-old Kennedy campaigns to elect his brother, John, to Congress. The series concludes with the fatal shooting of Kennedy in Los Angeles on June 5, 1968.



Brad Davis

Brad Davis stars as Robert Kennedy, with Cliff De Young as John F. Kennedy, Veronica Cartwright as Ethel Kennedy, Ned Beatty as J. Edgar Hoover, Beatrice Straight as Rose Kennedy and Jack Warden as Joseph Kennedy Sr. The series was filmed in Los Angeles, Hyannisport, Boston, Washington, D.C. and New York City.

Marion Ross

FATHER AND SON — Marion Ross will star with James Coburn in "Sins of the Father," a two-hour TV movie planned for NBC. The film is about a career woman who falls in love with two men who are father and son.

FAMILY LIFE — Dr. Joyce Brothers will host a new one-hour series on The Disney Channel. "The Dr. Joyce Brothers Program" will debut sometime in 1985.

The series will focus on family life and communication using discussions and questions and answers. Joining Dr. Brothers will be celebrity guests such as Dick and Pat Van Patten, Vicki Lawrence, Cathy Rigby, Jerry Mathers, Bruce and Linda Jenner, and Lynn Redgrave and her husband, John Clark.

Barbara Mandrell's versatility and talent as a performer stands out in her TV special airing Jan 9 "Barbara Mandrell: Something Special" includes a wide selection of music It ranges from Roy Acuff singing his famous "Wabash Cannon Ball," to a medley of Miss Mandrell's songs, such as "I Was Country when Country Wasn't Cool," "Sleeping Single in a Double Bed," and "Only a Lonely Heart Knows "

Miss Mandrell also teams up with Lee Greenwood for the hit song, "To Me." The song is from their first album together, "Meant for Each Other " Miss Mandrell and Greenwood were recently nominated for Vocal Duo of the Year by the Country Music Association

Miss Mandrell's roots are in country, but her talent encompasses rhythm and blues, rock 'n' roll, pop, and gospel music The program's songs were selected to cover her fans' diverse interests "Take My Hand Precious Lord," "I Get the Blues when It Rains" and "If Loving You Is Wrong, I Don't Want To Be Right "

Strong family ties are also evident in her TV special Miss Mandrell will sing a special tribute, "You Are Always Here for Me," to her father-manager Irby Mandrell, who will make a cameo appearance on the show

Fans are already clamoring over the new Elvis Presley collection called "Rocker." The album consists of 12 of Presley's best rock 'n' roll performances.

"Rocker" includes the Presley classics, "Blue Suede Shoes," "Jailhouse Rock," "Hound Dog," "Ready Teddy," "Lawdy Miss Clawdy," "Shake, Rattle and Roll," "Tutti Frutti," "I Got a Woman," "Money Honey," "Rip it Up," "Long Tall Sally" and "(You're So Square) Baby I Don't Care."

Barbara Mandrell

RCA Records has released the new Waylon Jennings album. "Waylon Jennings' Greatest Hits, Volume II," follows the first edition of the album, which went quadruple platinum. Jennings combines the outlaw classic "I Ain't Living Long Like This," with three new songs, "America," "Looking for Suzanne," and "Waltz Me to Heaven."

Hopkins gets a break

By Wendy Wallace

With her outstanding career continuing at a tremendous pace, Telma Hopkins won't have to say "Gimme a Break," unless she's referring to the series in which she's co-starred for the past two years (Saturdays on NBC).

Well-known in the music industry as a former member of Dawn, Tony Orlando's backup singing group, Miss Hopkins has now proven her versatility in the acting profession. And with her previous background in other aspects of the entertainment field, Miss Hopkins hopes her role on "Gimme a Break" will leave a lasting impression.

"The thing I enjoy most about acting is that it has more stability than a music career. My choice of pursuing acting rather than singing was really a matter of making a career move. I felt that in order to pursue acting and be believable in that role, people would have to stop thinking there's a singer."

Miss Hopkins enjoys playing Dr. Addy Wilson, a Harvard graduate. She finds her character plays well off of Nell (Nell Carter). "Addy is someone who has been very well educated, she's Phi Beta Kappa, yet she is in a way naive about the real world. A lot of her learning is from books, not real life — but at the same time she's a very interesting character. Nell's character and my character started out as rivals," the actress continues. "Addy was always the smart one and Nell was always the popular one. But now the writers have left a lot of room for Addy and Nell to grow up together. Together they remind me of Ethel and Lucy. That's how we feel about ourselves, the way we play off of each other. I think of course we're different characters. That's the kind of relationship Nell and I are bringing to the show."

Miss Hopkins also finds additional changes in Nell's character have helped Addy. "The fact that Addy's broadening Nell's world makes her very appealing. They are friends who are very close. She certainly brings style to the show. I love that image of a very sophisticated and smart woman and the writers have built a character that I'm very proud of. I don't have the least bit of hesitation about being Dr. Addy Wilson because despite the fact that she is somewhat silly, I am to. I mean, that is very much a part of myself.

"When an established show like this one can bring in a character, they're broadening the base of the show. It gives it a new life and therefore gives it a bigger time frame. The writers and executive producers have the insight to not just be thinking about what's going to happen this year but what they can utilize for next year and bringing in those people and those elements they need to bring into it. I think Addy has enough positive value to make her an asset to television and an asset to the show."

STARVIEW

By David Gabriel

COUNTRY GREETINGS — Buck Owens will be ushering in 1985 in style when he dons a tuxedo to host "Happy New Year from Opryland" with Roy Clark. The live, syndicated special airs Dec. 31. Last time Owens wore a tuxedo was on "The Jackie Gleason Show" 18 years ago. "I haven't had one on since," he says proudly. "I'd rather wear a pair of jeans and a shirt. It's much more comfortable."

The show will be a first for the venerable Opryland Hotel in Nashville. This is the first year that a New Year's TV special will be originating from the hotel. "We'll probably be the start of a whole new tradition — just like Guy Lombardo at the Waldorf," Owens says.

Owens would not mind spending every New Year's Eve in front of the camera. His days of performing on that wild night are over. "I haven't taken any job on New Year's for seven years," he says. "Too many bad things can happen."

WHERE SINGLES MINGLE — Actress Judith Chapman has proved that you can meet your future husband in a singles bar. Miss Chapman, who plays Ginny Blake on "General Hospital," met playwright Nellan Maxwell Tyree at Port's. "That's a well-known hangout in Los Angeles for actors, writers and general ne'er-do-wells," Miss Chapman says with a chuckle. They tied the knot in New York where Miss Chapman's family got together for the first time in seven years.

SAFETY FIRST — You cannot be too careful when you work with helicopters. Too many people have been killed by choppers, including director Bruce Sagal and actor Vic Morrow.

"Working with a helicopter is not like working with an actor," says Ernest Borgnine, who stars with Jan-Michael Vincent in "Airwolf." "Sometimes it's hard to get the helicopter in the air and make it do what the director wants," he says. "We have been extra cautious ever since what happened to Vic Morrow."

(CBS) EAST-WEST SHRINE GAME

BOWLS, BOWLS, BOWLS — We're more than halfway through the bowl season, and the really big games are just coming up on Tuesday, Jan. 1.

But before then we'll have the Peach Bowl on New Year's Eve, featuring the Purdue Boilermakers (7-4) playing the surprising Virginia Cavaliers (7-2-2), on CBS, and later in the evening, in Houston, the Bluebonnet Bowl has Texas Christian (8-3) against the University of West Virginia (7-4). It will be carried on ESPN and Mizlou.

New Year's Day is always NBC's time to shine. With three Bowl games, the Fiesta, Rose and Orange, they almost predominate the football scene.

Starting off for the peacock network will be the Fiesta Bowl from Tempe, Ariz. UCLA's Bruins (8-3) will meet Miami's Hurricanes (8-4), featuring the strong arm of Bernie Kosar. The Rose Bowl in Pasadena has Southern California's Trojans (8-2-1) playing the Ohio State Buckeyes (9-2) in a lackluster matchup. But then again the Buckeyes feature the hard-running Keith Byars, runner-up to Doug Flutie for the Heisman Trophy.

The evening game is the Orange Bowl in which the Sooners of Oklahoma (9-1-1) face the Huskies of Washington (10-1). Oklahoma is ranked No. 2 in the nation and Washington is No. 3. The winner could be named national champion, since the regular season's choice of Brigham Young is under a cloud because of the school's relatively light schedule.

But the Bowl that most of the nation will be watching will be the CBS presentation of the Cotton Bowl, mainly because this year it's Doug Flutie's bowl. The Heisman winner and his Boston College Eagles take on the Houston Cougars, so Bowl watchers will be able to see the little (by professional football standards) magician work his wonders for the last time as a collegian.

On New Year's night on ABC, the Sugar Bowl from New Orleans carries the Louisiana State Tigers (8-2-1) meeting the University of Nebraska (9-2) in what could be a tight game.
