Carson says U.S. Open "definitely" on

by BILLY ALLSTETTER
News Staff Writer

The U.S. Open ski race, recently in doubt due to a lack of advertising dollars, appears to be back on track and scheduled for early March at Eagle Creek Ski Area.

Race promoter Paul Carson notified numerous people in Ruidoso Friday that he has attracted enough television advertising commitments to hold the race as scheduled March 3 and 4.

"We're definitely going to have the race," Carson told The Ruidoso News Friday.

Recently when it became clear that Carson had not attracted enough advertising to pay for planned television coverage, the race would probably not have occurred.

Although no major sponsor has picked up the whole bill, Carson said he has been able to sell advertising to enough smaller sponsors to ensure television coverage. He mentioned Silver Creek, a resort in Colorado, and Raichle Mohr, a ski boot company, as prominent sponsors for the race.

The Ruidoso village council has appropriated $25,000 to help produce the race. Chamber of Commerce executive director Ed Jungbluth was optimistic Friday about the race but said the chamber's executive board will meet with Carson before authorizing the expenditure.

Eagle Creek owner Paul Southwick also said he had talked to Carson and was optimistic about the race. He said he planned to talk to Carson again Monday before he is 100 percent convinced the race is on.

Although Southwick and the Chamber have signed contracts, Carson said Friday he did not expect Ruidoso to contribute to the race if he could not promise television coverage. He said he decided Friday he had enough advertising to pay for the television coverage.

Carson said U.S.A. network, a cable network now reaching 20 million homes, will produce two one-hour programs which will be shown three times each. Color features on Ruidoso will be included in the programs, said Carson.

Carson said the purse for the race has been cut back, from $100,000 to $70,000, but will still be the world's richest ski race. The race will include both slalom and giant slalom categories. The overall winner will win a minimum of $15,000, said Carson.

In addition to Ruidoso's $25,000, private contributors have reportedly contributed about $15,000. The state of New Mexico has also committed to $40,000 in matching funds for the race. Jungbluth said Governor Toney Anaya's press secretary Bob Gold has tentatively set a January 21 press conference with the Governor to kick off race publicity on a statewide basis.

Carson also announced the formation of a liaison committee that will work on all aspects of the race outside of the race itself. Carson, his wife Kathy Carson, Jungbluth, Southwick, Elona Rush, Tommy Morel, Gary Hall, Ted Marolt, Tom Croxton and Diane Browning will work on housing, transportation, hospitality, printing and many other peripheral activities associated with the race.

The U.S. Open will be one of five professional races Carson has scheduled this winter. He has already produced a race at Silvass, Austria, and plans other races for Winter Park, Colorado, Feldberg, Germany, and Soell, Austria.

Car theft suspect shot

For the second time in a week, police engaged in a high speed chase after a stolen car that resulted in the shooting of the suspect.

James Michael Schmidt, 20, was reported in stable condition at the Gerald Champion Hospital in Alamogordo with gunshot wounds in the left wrist and left side. Schmidt was shot by State Police officer A. E. Archibeque Saturday night, according to a State Police spokesman.

The Ruidoso Police Department received notification Saturday evening of a 1979 Porsche stolen out of El Paso, said Ruidoso Police Lieutenant Dave Pfeffer. Pfeffer said police had seen the car in town for two to three days and spotted it again about 7:30 p.m., within half an hour after receiving the stolen car notice.

Two officers followed the car and Detective Gonzalo Cordova pulled ahead to block Heath Street, said Pfeffer. Instead of stopping, Schmidt rammed Cordova's car and fled, said Pfeffer.

Ruidoso police chased the car at high speed through Ruidoso for 25 to 30 minutes before losing contact with the suspect. An anonymous concerned citizen soon informed the police that Schmidt was hiding in the parking lot of the First Baptist Church of Ruidoso, said Pfeffer.

Pfeffer said Ruidoso police tried to seal off the area with four vehicles but Schmidt again drove full speed at Cordova's car. Cordova avoided him this time and police units chased Schmidt up Carrizo Canyon Road and onto U.S. Highway 70, where they lost him again.

A Bureau of Indian Affairs (BIA)

police officer found the car on Highway 24 near Cloudercroft about 9:15 p.m. "Come find me," was written on the car in mud, said Pfeffer.

After searching the area for about half an hour, Ruidoso Police received a call at the station from someone purporting to be Schmidt. The caller called the police "dumb" and said he was already in town.

State Police, Ruidoso Police and BIA police then returned towards Ruidoso to search for Schmidt. One State Police officer, Archibeque, stayed in the area.

He found the suspect between mileposts nine and 10 on Highway 24, about five miles from the abandoned car, at about 11:15 p.m., according to State Police reports.

Archibeque shot Schmidt in the left side and wrist. Available State Police reports did not include circumstances surrounding the shooting, and it is unclear if Schmidt had fired first. Schmidt did have a .22 pistol that was recovered at the scene of the shooting, said State Police.

State Police said an investigation into the incident will follow.

Pfeffer was very upset about the call that induced police officers to leave the area along Highway 24. He suspected someone listening on the police scanner had made a prank call they thought was humorous.

Archibeque stayed in the area only because Cloudercroft is his home area and he thought enough people had gone to Ruidoso, said Pfeffer.

"He put the officer in terrible jeopardy," said Pfeffer, who is convinced the caller was not Schmidt.

Building tops $23.6 million in '83

by BILLY ALLSTETTER
News Staff Writer

Ruidoso's building permits dropped off considerably in December to a valuation of $1,124,357, but were still almost twice the amount issued in December 1982.

December's permits brought the year's total to $23,622,254 worth of permits issued, down almost $4 million from 1982. The number of permits also dropped—from 469 in 1982 to 361 in 1983.

Those in the construction industry, however, appeared pleased with the year after construction rebounded from a slump in late 1982 and early 1983.

"I think it was real good year," said former building inspector and owner of Ruidoso Wholesale Lumber Don Hendricks.

Hendricks noted a steady construction pace in 1983.

Although residential building dropped slightly and commercial building rose slightly, a slowdown in condominium construction appeared to be the major cause for the decrease in permit valuation.

Apartment/condominium permits were valued at $4,463,629 in 1983, down from $8,173,837 in 1982. The number of apartment/condominium permits actually rose from 23 to 27, indicating that builders were working on smaller projects.

Alton Lane, executive director of the Multiple Listing Service (MLS), attributed the decrease to an excess of available condominiums in the Ruidoso market. But he predicted that condominium sales will pick up, creating a better market for their construction.

"It looks like they're coming back," said Lane. "It was just one of those things where you swing too far one way and then you swing back."

He indicated the lack of condo construction this year—and returning Mexicans who like condominiums—will boost that construction market in 1984.

Lincoln County Home Builders president Slick Graham and contractor John Howden both said contractors moved more to the custom house market and away from speculation homes this year.

Ruidoso building inspector Kaare Haddeland said more builders appeared to be starting more speculation projects in the past month or so. Howden said he plans to build a few more speculation homes in 1984.

"I think the economy is looking up," said Howden, who pointed to increased real estate sales as another reason for more speculative building.

Howden said smart contractors built smaller homes in the $70,000 to $100,000 range in 1983, which better fit the market in Ruidoso. Haddeland said he also noticed many smaller houses in the 1,000- to 1,200-square foot range being built.

"I think the trend is more towards smaller footage," said Hendricks.

The numbers, however, reflect a slightly different story. Average residential permit valuation in 1982 averaged $39,211—it rose to $43,775 in 1983.

Commercial construction rose 21.5 percent in 1983 to permits valued at $6,229,131. The consensus among builders and Realtors was that booming residential construction in the past couple of years had created a need for commercial buildings to serve the residential neighborhoods.

Mickey McGuire discusses upcoming session of state Legislature

State Representative Mickey McGuire kept busy with classwork as he prepared to leave for Santa Fe for the upcoming legislative session.

by DARRELL J. PEHR
News Staff Writer

Santa Fe will be the center of many people's attention when the state Legislature meets in just two weeks. The session will be a "short" session, according to local State Representative Marvin B. "Mickey" McGuire. McGuire said plans call for the lawmaking bodies to meet for 30 days this session, as they do in every even-numbered year. The legislators meet for 60 days in odd-numbered years.

McGuire said the governor, however, can extend the session, or call a special session if he sees the need. McGuire, a sixth-grade math, social studies and spelling teacher at White Mountain Middle School, said he hopes to be back in his classroom after the session by February 20.

McGuire said the legislators will only hear money bills and what is on the governor's call during the session. Next week before the session begins, the subcommittees and committees will meet to consider testimony and recommendations on budgets.

Subcommittees will make recommendations to committees, which in turn will make recommendations to the legislators as a whole when the session begins. McGuire will hear, as a member of the Education Subcommittee, proposed budgets for the entire New Mexico school system. McGuire said he does not support throwing money at the problem of better education. "I think we need to exercise some care that we don't jump in and put some Band-aids on things that need some more care," he said. McGuire said he instead would favor a more long-term approach to the problem. He spoke about raising teachers' salaries as an example.

"I think that if salaries are not increased next year, it won't affect the child sitting there," he said, pointing to a seat in his classroom, "but 10 years from now it will."

McGuire said that the profession of teaching must be made as attractive a profession as jobs in other fields. Otherwise, he said, fewer and fewer talented people will enter the field.

"It's almost impossible to give the beginners an increase without giving those already in the field an increase."

McGuire said he supports the recommendations of the Board of Educational Finance, but he thinks some of their goals may be unrealistic.

"I think there are some good recommendations there. I also think it will be impossible to implement these kinds of things in one year."

McGuire is also a member of the Corrections and Natural Resources Subcommittee. He will hear testimony and see recommendations on budgets for state organizations within those jurisdictions. As a member of the House Appropriations and Finance Committee, McGuire, along with other committee members, will hear the findings and recommendations of the various subcommittees. They then will make budget recommendations to the House legislators as a whole.

McGuire predicted theirs will be the busiest committee of the session.

The representative said that during this session of the Legislature, he does not foresee introducing any bills into the governor's call. McGuire did sponsor three bills during the past Legislature, two of which he requested be "killed" because the need for the bills sought to meet was already being met elsewhere.

The third bill dealt with school systems' use of cash balances in their systems. The bill passed, making it possible for school administrators to use cash balances for teachers' salaries. That saved many schools from denying increment raises to teachers last year, McGuire said.

He said one of the best things to come out of the past Legislature was the increase in the budget for the state Commerce and Industry Department. That is where the monies for the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce Mexico advertising campaign came from.

"I think for the Ruidoso area, it was excellent," McGuire said of the funds. "Tourism is a very beneficial industry."

McGuire also had encouraging words for the people who are implementing the campaign locally. "I think they are doing a good job," he said.

This session will be the second session since the breakup of the "Cowboy Coalition." During past legislatures, a coalition between conservative southern Democrats and Republicans had some success in controlling some voting during these sessions.

According to McGuire, the essence of the coalition is still there, but they are no longer in control. He said the reason for their loss of control was that their candidate for Speaker of the House, who had been hand-picked, was not elected. McGuire said his votes on the floor of the house sometimes go with the coalition, and sometimes do not.

The representative said he views the upcoming session with a great deal of seriousness.

"I approach it with some reservation because of the seriousness of some of the decisions that have to be made."

McGuire said he will be living in Santa Fe during the session, and will be joined by his wife, Ruth. When asked if he will miss Ruidoso while he is in Santa Fe, McGuire was quick to respond.

"You bet."

Duke laid to rest

by TIM PALMER
News Editor

It's too nice a day for a funeral, I thought as I drove to the police station Friday. It should be a grey blustery day, but it's bright and sunny.

And was this properly called a funeral? The body being laid to rest was that of a dog, albeit a very special dog.

Robert Achterberg had called me the night before and asked if I wanted to do the last story on Duke. "Didn't I do that already?" I wondered, having covered and written about Duke's retirement the previous week.

Then he hit me with the news. "Duke died the day before yesterday."

There was to be a service Friday, and Duke's resting place would be next to the steps leading to the new police-courts complex.

Chief Dick Swenor filled me in as we waited for the service Friday afternoon.

Someone had noticed Duke was favoring his hindquarters. A retirement physical failed to turn up anything wrong, but the problem got worse.

Then Duke's trainer, Jack Miller, remembered the dog had suffered a spinal injury several years before. A check revealed the injury had indeed relapsed.

Duke died on the way to Albuquerque for surgery.

As we continued to wait, I made small talk with Deputy Chief Jim Alston. He complimented me on the last two or three police beat reporters from the newspaper.

I hoped he was counting me among them, since I held the job when I first started with the paper. Covering a police beat changes one's perception of cops.

You realize their main job is helping people. And you realize they are people themselves.

Finally, Duke's coffin was carried from a waiting van to be lowered into the earth. Among the pallbearers were trainer Miller and police officer Robert Achterberg, Duke's partner for more than two years.

Miller got Duke as a year and a half old pup, and trained him into a nationally known working canine.

"I'd put him up against any dog in the country," said Miller, visibly distraught. "Any dog anywhere."

Achterberg threw the first shovel of dirt on the coffin, and the last. He finished the job, paused, and stood at attention facing the grave. He gave a snappy salute to his fallen comrade, turned and walked away.

Duke's final day in the sun was over.

Suspect in shooting in custody

by BILLY ALLSTETTER
News Staff Writer

Police have picked up a second suspect in a shooting incident on Nogal Hill in which five persons were wounded. One suspect still remains at large.

Juan Herrera, 31, Thursday night walked out of a house surrounded by nine police cars after his wife convinced him to surrender, said Lincoln County Chief Deputy Charles Cox.

Cox said the Sheriff's Department received information earlier in the day that Herrera was in the house just west of San Patricio. Cox said seven Sheriff's Department vehicles and two State Police vehicles surrounded the house. Police did not want to enter the house and attempt to forcibly remove Herrera because other people were in the house, said Cox.

Cox said Herrera's wife volunteered to talk to Herrera and eventually convinced him to surrender.

Herrera and Antonio Ramirez, 27, are both being held in the Lincoln County Jail in Carrizozo on charges of aggravated assault and aggravated battery. Bond for each suspect has been set at $50,000.

Police are still searching for Larry Herrera, 27, in connection with the New Year's Day incident that was apparently the latest in a series of confrontations among some Hondo Valley residents. He is described as five feet, eight inches tall, weighing 157 pounds with black hair and hazel eyes.

Police could not say what started the dispute, but Cox said it flared in a fight New Year's Eve at the Nike nightclub that resulted in the arrest of John Baca.

As Baca and his friends returned to the Hondo Valley area the next day, they were forced off the road by Ramirez and the two Herreras, said Cox. He said the three suspects then jumped out of their car and began shooting and clubbing Baca and his friends.

Five people were taken to Ruidoso-Hondo Valley Hospital where they were treated for gunshot wounds. All have been discharged except Greg Baca, who is in good condition with a gunshot wound in the torso.

Sick pay for Downs mayor?

by BETH HALLER
News Staff Writer

The Ruidoso Downs Board of Trustees is having a conflict over monetary compensation for the mayor.

The problem arose back in November when Mayor J. C. Day had to miss trustee's meetings because of surgery. He could not receive his $225-per-meeting compensation because he missed the board of trustee's meetings.

The question was pondered as to whether a Ruidoso Downs mayor should be able to receive compensation if he is ill or away on village business.

Mayor Day thinks compensation, although a mayor is not present at the meetings, depends on valid reasons.

"If the mayor is taking care of village business or sick, I think he should be compensated for it. But if he is just not coming to the meetings for no reason, I don't think he should be compensated," he said.

There needs to be some kind of control, so a mayor cannot just skip meetings and be paid, he said.

Day also points out that in a small village like Ruidoso Downs the mayor has more decision making to do than in a larger village that has a city manager.

"There is a lot of business that goes on that most people are not aware of," he mentioned.

There is no problem with the money to pay the mayor, he said. It has already been budgeted.

Regardless of how many hours he worked prior to the meeting, Day said, if he had to miss a meeting, even though he could have been taking care of village business, he would not be paid.

The ordinance states that the mayor's payment is not to exceed $450 a month, but it does not state anything about exceptions, Day explained.

Trustee Conrad Buchanan agrees with Day that a mayor should be compensated if he has to miss a meeting for a valid reason.

"I feel like the mayor should be compensated, but there should be guidelines," Buchanan said. If he is sick or on village business and has to miss a meeting, he should still be compensated.

He points out that Mayor Day is unique in that this is the only job he has, and he spends five days a week working at it.

"He's very conscientious, and he's more of a city manager than a mayor," Buchanan said. "We're compensating him for his working on a daily basis."

However, trustee Harold Mansell disagrees. He was one of the trustees who got the mayor's salary changed from $50 to $450, he said.

At that time, Mansell said, Santa Fe and the Municipal League recommended that the mayor only be compensated if he came to the meetings, and that Ruidoso Downs should do it to protect themselves and to make sure the mayor goes to meetings.

Mansell agrees that Ruidoso Downs is fortunate that Mayor Day puts as much time in as he does.

However, "compensation is the single way to get the mayor to the meetings," Mansell pointed out. "We must force the man to get there."

"We could get someone who wouldn't come to the meetings or work at the municipal building. I don't want it left open for some political fugitive who doesn't do anything for his money, and it is hard to get a bad mayor out."

He also pointed out another problem if it were decided the trustees would have to approve whether the mayor had a valid excuse to miss the meetings. There are four trustees, and if there were a tie, there would be no one to break it because the mayor does that.

Mansell said as mayor pro tem, he has to run the city while the mayor is sick or out of town, and he receives $20 per meeting. If the mayor's compensation exceptions were passed, he added, the mayor would still be receiving the money, while the mayor pro tem did the work.

"I want us to pay the money, but I don't want to leave room for anyone to get the money for nothing," Mansell concluded.

Haddeland said he thought the drop in permit valuation during December reflected a seasonal variation rather than an economic slowdown. He said large numbers of permits issued in October and November will carry many builders through the winter.

Many builders cut back operations during winter until better building weather in the spring and summer, said Haddeland. He said he expects to issue relatively few permits until April or May when builders gear up again.

Valuations will rise, however, because the village has raised its estimated construction costs from $27 per square foot to $42 and $50 per square foot as of January 1. The different estimated valuations will be applied depending on the type of construction and materials used, said Haddeland.

Even the recently increased valuations will not accurately reflect construction costs, said Haddeland. He said construction costs are generally running anywhere from $50 per square foot up to as much as $100 per square foot.

Permit costs, however, will remain the same—at six cents per square foot for residential construction and eight cents per square foot for commercial construction, said Haddeland.

Permits issued by the Village of Ruidoso in December are listed below by subdivision, type of construction and estimated cost of construction.

Chamber closed out '83 with 3 busy months' of Commerce

by DARRELL J. PEHR
News Staff Writer

I started with The Ruidoso News in mid-October and so did not report on the full year's events. The final three months, however, I found to be activity-packed.

The Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce started out the period with positive news of funding from Santa Fe. Chamber Advertising Committee chairman Tommy Morel reported during the Wednesday, October 28, joint meeting of the Lodgers' Tax Committee and the Chamber ad committee that as much as $100,000 in matching and cooperative funds had been verbally committed to Ruidoso by state Commerce and Industry Secretary Alex Mercure.

During the same meeting, committee members voted to accept Epstein Communications of Albuquerque as the ad agency to represent Ruidoso in the state's program. Committee members then heard a presentation of a report on Mexican tourism in New Mexico, done by two Mexico experts from New Mexico State University.

The state-funded, two-year study reported Ruidoso as a highly recognized resort area for Mexicans, particularly those from cities near the U.S. border. The report also detailed problems that prevented more Mexicans from vacationing in Ruidoso, targeting border crossing difficulties and the reluctance of Mexican travel agents to work with local lodgers as the main problems.

The report also found a favorable point for Ruidoso in the plans for area businesses to begin accepting pesos. Ramifications from that meeting are still being felt.

The following Monday, October 31, found the Mexican tourism report being officially released at a Las Cruces press conference. Officials attending the meeting learned that Mexicans spend as much as $22 million in Ruidoso alone. They agreed that more emphasis should be put on attracting tourists from Mexico.

On the next Wednesday, November 2, the Chamber ad committee and Epstein representative Shannon Reeves met with the report authors, Don Michie and Lee Hageman. After hearing the report findings firsthand, the committee decided to set the Mexico campaign for the coming January through April, and affirmed their decision to direct the campaign toward residents of the neighboring cities of Mexico, instead of the interior and Mexico City.

After viewing creative presentations on Friday, November 4, from the Epstein agency and a local agency, Adworks, Ltd., the Chamber ad committee decided to award the bid for part of the campaign to the local agency. The remainder of the campaign stayed with the Albuquerque agency.

The Chamber followed up its development of the Mexican advertising program by sponsoring a seminar on Wednesday, November 9, between officials from the three local banks and community businesspeople to discuss the handling of pesos. The seminar was well attended and was followed by a second seminar on Monday, November 14.

During a Wednesday, November 16, meeting of the Chamber Board of Directors, ad committee chairman Morel reported on the progress of the Mexico advertising campaign, noting, "Everything is finally on schedule. We'll make all the deadlines."

Board members also decided after hearing a report from Chamber president James Paxton that they would support locating the upcoming Pro Ski International U.S. Open ski race at Eagle Creek Ski Area. Prior to that, location of the race had been in limbo for weeks, pending a decision by Sierra Blanca Ski Resort manager Roy Parker.

When Parker declined the offer, Eagle Creek owner Paul Southwick invited local officials up to his resort for a tour, which led to the support.

Final plans for the event were again delayed due to a report from Jungbluth at a Chamber board meeting on Wednesday, December 21.

Jungbluth said Pro Ski International executive director Paul Carson's difficulty in finding a major sponsor for the race jeopardized the future of the event.

The Chamber reported during a meeting of the ad committee on Monday, December 5, continued progress being made on the Mexico campaign, with all color ads completed and ready for publication in the January issues of three magazines.

Also during the meeting, plans for a familiarization tour for Mexican travel agents to be held here were finalized. The tour is scheduled for Monday, January 9, Tuesday, January 10, and Wednesday, January 11.

The committee decided to begin newspaper advertising in Mexico, Texas and New Mexico newspapers on Sunday, January 15.

In an ad committee meeting Friday, December 16, the total amount of available funds from the state was reported to be at just over $52,000. The state-pledged $40,000 in special projects money was also still available, pending news from Carson in finding a ski race sponsor.

The Chamber continued plans in the Mexico campaign, with executive director Ed Jungbluth promising to lobby the state Legislature of 1984 for future funding.

In another move to support the Mexico campaign, the Chamber sponsored plans for an upcoming Spanish language class to be taught by Ruidoso High School teacher Lynda Sanchez. The class will be held 12 consecutive Tuesday nights beginning on Tuesday, January 10.

While the Advertising Committee discussed bringing people from other countries to Ruidoso for the winter season, another committee of the Chamber, the Retail Merchants Committee, directed local plans for the upcoming Christmas season, beginning with the meeting on Tuesday, November 8. During that meeting, committee members discussed plans for the lighting and decorating contest for commercial businesses and residences in town; and for the cutting, decorating and lighting of the Ruidoso-Ruidoso Downs Christmas tree at the "Y."

The tree was lit by Ruidoso Mayor George White and Ruidoso Downs Mayor J. C. Day in a well-attended ceremony Saturday, November 28. The lighting and decorating contest was less popular, with only three businesses and no residences entering the contest before the scheduled judging on the evenings of Tuesday, December 6, and Wednesday, December 7.

Committee members voted to postpone the judging for a week, and Jungbluth issued a challenge to area businesses to drum up interest. He claimed his Chamber decorations would out-decorate anyone else in town. No one accepted the challenge, but participation in the contest increased, with the Village Hardware and Paint Company winning the commercial category and the Charles Gray home winning the residential category.

The Chamber ended the year in the middle of a building controversy. Mexican businessman Arturo Dojoro began a Mexican advertising campaign of his own, vowing to raise $110,000 to fund the effort. Lojoro said the campaign would be directed toward Mexico City and other Mexican cities, using brochures, billboard and magazine advertising to draw Mexicans to Ruidoso.

Lojoro said he would go to area businesspeople for funding. Reactions across town ranged from total opposition to complete support. The Chamber stressed there was no connection between the two campaigns. If the present year becomes anything like the past three months were for the Chamber of Commerce, it promises to be a year full of achievement, difficulty and controversy.

Coming up...

Woman's Club to help needy families

Ruidoso Woman's Club will begin the 1984 season with a white shower for the Ronald McDonald House in Albuquerque. The first meeting of the year will be 1:30 p.m. Wednesday, January 11, at the clubhouse on Evergreen Street. All members are reminded to bring white twin sheets, towels or washcloths.

Ronald McDonald House is a family support residence in Albuquerque, designed for families who are away from their own homes because their child is in the hospital. At the close of 1983, the Ronald McDonald House had been a home for 400 families.

In their wish list, they ask for air purifiers, yard tools, flatware, non-perishable food items, sheets and towels. The Woman's Club of Ruidoso has chosen to begin 1984 by helping fill the needs of their wish list.

The January program for the Woman's Club will be an conservation. Nellie Vickers, Woman's Club district environmental chairman, will report on "Every Drop Counts."

There will be an executive board meeting at 1 p.m. The 1:30 meeting will be followed by a business meeting.

All members are urged to attend, and the program and meeting are open to visitors.

The hostesses are Ruby Carver, Jackie Rawlings, Myrtle Arrington, Odell Burrows and Inez Killebrew.

Task force to meet

There will be a meeting of "The Chemical People" community task force at 7 p.m. Thursday, January 12, at village hall auditorium.

Special Olympics volunteers sought

Organizers of the Southern New Mexico Winter Special Olympics, to be held at Eagle Creek Ski Area Wednesday and Thursday, February 1 and 2, are looking for volunteers to help teach mentally disabled athletes to ski.

Volunteers will work with the athletes one-to-one, teaching them either cross-country or alpine skiing. Special Olympics publicist Peter Strobel said alpine ski instructors should be intermediate level skiers. Cross-country skiers do not need to know how to ski since they can walk with the skiers.

Instructors will work with the athletes most of both days. There will be a training session for instructors Tuesday night before the Olympics begin.

Strobel said about 90 people have already volunteered, but approximately 30 to 40 more volunteers are needed to provide instructors for all athletes.

Interested people may call Glen Ferguson at 257-2423 for more information and to volunteer.

In the Service

Navy Seaman Recruit Jeff R. Nunnally, son of Dona R. Nunnally of Ruidoso, has completed recruit training at the Naval Training Center, San Diego, California.

Studies in the eight-week training cycle included seamanship, close order drill, Naval history and first

Reserve girls win Classic, Warrior cagers finish fourth

by GARY BROWN
News Sports Writer

A non-Lincoln County basketball team was again dominant in the eighth annual Smokey Bear Classic girls division over the weekend at Capitan High School.

Reserve won the title for the third time by defeating Capitan 56-31 Saturday night. Dexter topped Ruidoso 74-56 in the third-place game and Carrizozo won fifth place by topping Hagerman 35-31. Lake Arthur rolled over Magdalena 63-33 to grab seventh place.

In the title game, the Mountaineers jumped off to a 6-2 lead over Capitan and had an 11-6 edge at the end of the first quarter.

Reserve gradually increased its advantage the rest of the contest.

The Mountaineers used the rebounding of 6-0 Tawnya Kaber to control the boards and the tempo of the contest.

Dexter's fast break and full-court press caught Ruidoso by surprise in the third place game.

The Demons broke out to a 21-15 first period edge but their game was slowed down in the second quarter. Both teams scored 12 points and Dexter led 33-27 at halftime.

Ruidoso closed to within five points at 40-35 early in the third period, but the Demons scored six straight points before Stacy Ivy of Ruidoso hit a short jumper to close the gap to 46-37.

However, Dexter increased its margin to 49-39 at the end of the third quarter.

The Demons steadily increased their edge in the final period as the Warriors were unable to take advantage of their superior height.

In semi-final action Friday night, Capitan topped Ruidoso 42-37 and Reserve pounded Dexter 67-50 in championship flight action. Carrizozo beat Lake Arthur 45-35 in one consolation game.

The Tigers' victory over the Warriors evened the season series between the two teams at one-one. Capitan will host Ruidoso this Friday night in the rubber match.

Capitan held an 8-5 edge at the end of the first quarter against Ruidoso, but the Warriors outscored the Tigers 11-10 in the second period. Capitan took an 18-16 lead into the locker room at halftime.

The Tigers scored the first six points of the second half to take a 24-16 edge before Lillian Lopez hit a jump shot to pull the Warriors within six.

Capitan's lead stayed between four and eight points most of the third period, but the Tigers pulled away towards the end of the period for a 32-22 advantage at the quarter break.

Capitan stymied Ruidoso's offense in the final period, scoring 10 points to five for the Warriors.

Tracy Herd led Capitan with 16 points. Center Diane McClure topped the Ruidoso scorers with eight points and Lopez added seven.

In first-round action Thursday, Ruidoso outscored Carrizozo 40-32, Capitan dominated Lake Arthur 47-29, Reserve beat Hagerman 64-23 and Dexter defeated Magdalena 85-22.

Ruidoso held a lead most of the way in its win over Carrizozo.

The Warriors jumped off to a 12-6 edge by the end of the first period. Ruidoso took a 28-13 edge by halftime.

But the Grizzlies refused to quit and fought back in the third period, closing the gap to 34-26.

Both teams scored six points in the fourth period for the Warriors' final margin.

McClure and Ivy each had 10 points for Ruidoso. Christetta Chavez scored 18 points and Mary Jane Ferguson tallied six for Carrizozo.

The Tigers led all the way in their easy win over Lake Arthur, taking an 11-0 edge at the end of the first quarter.

Herd led the Capitan scoring with 17 points and Shelly Eldridge added 15. Jody Hart led Lake Arthur with 13.

Both Capitan and Ruidoso had two players named to the all-tournament team.

Herd and Eldridge represented the Tigers, while Lopez and Gia Rose represented the Warriors. Chavez was Carrizozo's selection on the team.

Both Ruidoso coach Sergio Castanon and Capitan coach Darrel Ray had mixed feelings about the way their teams played.

"We didn't expect Dexter to run and press that much," Castanon said about Ruidoso's game with the Demons. "Still, it (the Dexter game) was probably our best effort of the season. A lot of players contributed to our effort."

"Reserve has a very good team," Ray said about the champions. "If we had it to do over again, we might have played it a little differently."

"Lake Arthur was a good game for us to come back from the Christmas vacation with. Of course, Ruidoso had beaten us the first time we played them and our girls were fired up for this one. We probably had our best four quarters of the season against them."

"But not to take anything from Ruidoso. They have a good team. McClure seems to get better with each game."

"We play Ruidoso Friday and then travel to Jal Saturday. Those should be two real tough games."

Before Ruidoso plays Capitan, the Warriors will host Roswell Tuesday. NOTES: Chavez also gained another honor for Carrizozo, taking second in the free throw shooting contest which took place at the halftime of each game.

Reserve beats Tigers, Ruidoso finishes third

by GARY BROWN
News Sports Writer

It's becoming a habit in the Smokey Bear Classic.

The Reserve boys basketball team took its fourth straight championship in the eighth annual Capitan tournament by defeating Capitan 73-57 Saturday night.

In other final-round games, Ruidoso raised its record to 3-8 with a thrilling 68-67 overtime victory over Dexter for third place; Magdalena beat Carrizozo 57-49 for fifth; and Hondo topped Lake Arthur 62-48 in the seventh-place contest.

Reserve led all the way against Capitan, grabbing a 6-0 lead early in the opening quarter.

The Mountaineers used some excellent outside shooting and strong rebounding to take a 21-9 lead by the end of the first period.

Guard Dwayne Larson, who led the Reserve scoring with 20 points, was unstopable from outside in the first half.

After Reserve took a 23-9 lead early in the second period, the Tigers came back with three straight field goals, two by Eddie Davis and one by Danny Cummins, to close the gap to 23-15.

However, the Mountaineers refused to relinquish their lead and zoomed to a 41-21 halftime advantage.

Reserve's lead was cut to 13 points a couple of times in the second half, but the Mountaineers held on to win.

Besides Larsen's 20 points, Gary Zuniga canned 13 points for Reserve. Cummins led Capitan with 21 points, while Deway Keller and Davis each added 11.

Ruidoso's exciting victory over Dexter in the third-place battle came with two of its starters—Danny Ullmann and Tommy Crow—out of the game on fouls.

The game ended in regulation time at 60-60. Warrior guard Gilbert Rivera sent the game into overtime with a 15-foot jump shot with about five seconds left.

Rivera scored the Warriors' first six points in the overtime period on four free throws and a field goal. But it was junior 6-3 forward Tracy Gann who provided the winning points for Ruidoso.

Gann sank two free throws with less than a minute left to give Ruidoso a 68-66 lead. Dexter came back with one free throw before the game ended.

Dexter had a slim chance to win the game with five seconds left, but a pass to midcourt was knocked away. Time ran out and the Warrior fans rushed onto the court to praise their team.

The Warriors led most of the way in the contest, holding as much as a nine-point lead before Ullmann fouled out with about three minutes left in regulation time. Crow fouled out in the early part of the third quarter, having scored eight points.

Ullmann led the Warrior scoring with 22 points and Rivera added 12. All of Rivera's points came in the final quarter and overtime period. Crow, Cyrus Simmons, Gann and Patric Pearson each added eight points.

Ullmann and Gann dominated the boards for the Warriors against the small but quick Dexter squad.

In championship round action Friday night, Capitan rallied from a one-point deficit at halftime to defeat Ruidoso 68-62 and Reserve knocked off Dexter 73-74. In consolation action, Carrizozo rolled over Lake Arthur 71-22 and Magdalena defeated Hondo 67-50.

Ruidoso lead Capitan 22-21 at halftime, but the Tigers outscored the Warriors 11-2 in the first part of the third quarter.

Ruidoso came back to creep within two points at 34-32 on a jump shot by Pearson, but the Tigers scored five straight points for a 39-32 lead at the end of the period.

Capitan gradually increased its edge in the final period for the victory.

Ullmann scored 26 points to lead the Warriors' attack. The Tigers had a balanced attack.

In Thursday's opening round, Ruidoso topped Carrizozo 72-55, Capitan breezed past Lake Arthur 73-49, Reserve belted Hondo 87-48 and Dexter edged Magdalena 71-68.

The Warriors jumped off to an 18-8 first period advantage over the stubborn Grizzlies and never trailed from then on. Both teams played fairly evenly in the second quarter as Ruidoso took a 40-28 lead into the locker room.

Carrizozo closed Ruidoso's margin to five points a couple of times in the third quarter and trailed 54-49 at the period break.

But the Warriors came on strong in the final period, outscoring the Grizzlies 21-5 for the final margin.

Ullmann led the Ruidoso scoring with 22 points, most of them on inside shots as the 6-8 Warrior sophomore was much taller than his opponents. Dominic Vega and John Roucho played well for the Grizzlies.

Capitan again had a balanced scoring attack in rolling over Lake Arthur. Deway Keller led the scoring with 16 points. Davis added 14, Cummins 12 and sophomore Eric Hamm 10.

Ullmann was the only Ruidoso player to make the all-tournament team, but he scored 70 points in the three games.

Davis and Cummins were Capitan's representatives on the team, while Vega was the only Carrizozo player named to the squad.

Ruidoso will resume action this Friday at Artesia, with both the varsity and junior varsity teams playing. The Warrior junior varsity and freshman teams will travel to Alamogordo today for games, the first freshman contest starting at 4 p.m. Ruidoso's junior varsity will play Alamogordo's sophomore team.

Capitan will travel to Mountainair Friday for varsity and junior varsity games. Carrizozo will go to Socorro the same day for a varsity contest.

NOTES: Todd Proctor of Capitan won the boys' free throw shooting contest ... Ullmann entered the tournament ranked sixth in the state's AAA division with an 18.6 scoring average. He is now around the 20 points a game mark after his 70-point effort in the tournament.

Things are looking up for recreational sports in Ruidoso.

A new men's adult basketball league started play last Tuesday at White Mountain Middle School. The league will play two games every Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. in the Brave gymnasium.

There are currently eight teams in the league, but some teams are still short of players, having as few as four players on the squad.

But at least the league has started. Many men in the Ruidoso area have wanted an organized men's recreational basketball league and now it has come about.

The league provides a chance for adult men to play competitive sports. And that's something that been lacking in this area for a while.

Outside of basketball, softball is about the only recreational competitive sport that adults have been able to participate in in recent years.

There are three men's softball leagues in Lincoln County and just one women's team. Other than that, there haven't been many adult recreational sports in this area.

But things are beginning to look up. A lot of people have been interested in programs like flag football and soccer, and there's the possibility those programs could be started if enough organized interest exists.

A survey is still being taken by the Ruidoso Park and Recreation Department to find out what sports people are most interested in. The results of the survey will probably be complete this spring.

But if you're really interested in starting a program, get with other people who are interested in the same program and contact the Park and Recreation Department about starting it.

The quicker a group of people get organized, the more likely their desired program will come about.

Oops.

It seems an error was made in the names of the Ruidoso High School athletes who were pictured in last Thursday's C & L Lumber and Supply ad on The News sports page.

The name of Ruidoso football and wrestling athlete Gary Burgess ran under a picture of Warrior all-district place kicker Gary Gregson.

Sorry about that, Gary and Gary.

Ruidoso matmen lost to Roswell, Carlsbad

Ruidoso High School's varsity wrestling team lost a couple of decisions to visiting Roswell and the Carlsbad junior varsity Saturday in the Warrior gymnasium.

The Warriors lost a 41-23 decision to Carlsbad in the first match, before falling to the Coyotes, 45-22 in the final competition.

"We just didn't wrestle well," said Warrior head coach Gerald Ames. "We weren't really up for it. It was just one of those things. We could wrestle again in a couple of days and maybe do real well."

Ruidoso was hurt when Gervase Pese, a state tournament veteran at 153 pounds, couldn't make weight. Pese has been perhaps the Warriors' best wrestler so far this season.

The Warriors were hurt at the start of the Carlsbad match when 100-pound Cory Garner was disqualified for too many penalty points after leading in his match. After that, Ruidoso didn't win a match until the 147-pound class where James Herrera pinned Mike Lander in the second period.

Gary Burgess at 167 pounds, Scott Ciraulo at 185 pounds and Joe LaRue at heavyweight also won for the Warriors against Carlsbad.

Against Roswell, Garner, Kerry Jameson at 134 pounds, Herrera and LaRue picked up victories for Ruidoso.

The Warriors will host New Mexico Military Institute at 5 p.m. next Saturday. The junior varsity match will be first, with the varsity contest following.

Following are the complete results of each match.

Ruidoso against Carlsbad: 100 pounds, Cory Garner of Ruidoso was disqualified against Sean Goss. 107 pounds, Bronson Rue was pinned by Steve Castro, third period, 114 pounds. George Bristow of Ruidoso was decided by Bobby Rowen, 14-2. 121 pounds, Dustin Volquardsen of Ruidoso was pinned by Tator Trujillo, second period.

126 pounds, Brian Trappel of Ruidoso was pinned by Jeff Zunigh. 134 pounds, Kerry Jameson of Ruidoso was decided by Robert Rodriguez, 7-2. 140 pounds, Zach Swalander of Ruidoso was decided by Steve Strickland, 13-8. 147 pounds, James Herrera of Ruidoso pinned Mike Lander, second period. 158 pounds, Don Jones of Ruidoso was pinned by Les Towers, first period. 169 pounds, Gary Burgess of Ruidoso pinned Bob Gighurn, second period. 187 pounds, Scott Ciraulo of Ruidoso pinned Billy Feraler, first period. Heavyweight, Joe LaRue of Ruidoso won by forfeit.

Ruidoso against Roswell. 100 pounds, Garner pinned Bill Gallagher, first period. 107 pounds, Rue was pinned by Bob Krenzel, second period. 114 pounds, Bristow was pinned by Sean Glenmeyer, second period. 121 pounds, Volquardsen was pinned by Arthur Portillo, first period.

128 pounds, Trappel was pinned by Chris Alvarado, second period. 134 pounds, Jameson pinned Hector Martinez, second period. 140 pounds, Swalander was decided by Rudy Scosta, 15-2. 147 pounds, Herrera decided Luther Fisher, 13-4.

157 pounds, Jones was pinned by Paul Reed, first period. 167 pounds, Burgess was decided by Odie Rodriguez, 10-0. 187 pounds, Ciraulo lost by default to Frank Harden. Heavyweight, LaRue pinned Jamie Ramirez, first period.

Cory Garner (top) of the Ruidoso High School wrestling team has the advantage over his opponent during a match with the Carlsbad junior varsity Saturday. Garner later lost the match, however, as the Warriors dropped two decisions.

Warm weather at Sierra Blanca Ski Resort Saturday provided perfect conditions for the formation of moguls. While

Bernice McLaughlin says bye this week

by BETH HALLER
News Staff Writer

Bernice McLaughlin, Rotary exchange student from Australia, will return Down Under Thursday after a year in Ruidoso—a year she terms "the best year of my whole entire life."

At this point she has mixed emotions, she explained. She does not want to leave the friends she has made in Ruidoso, but she wants to get home to see her family.

"The friends make it hardest to leave," she remarked. "One of the best things about my year here has been the friends that I've made."

McLaughlin is going to impress on her parents how many good friends she made—and that she will experience homesickness for Ruidoso—when she gets back to Australia.

One of the most rewarding things about living in Ruidoso for a year was the three host families she lived with, McLaughlin related.

"I became one of the family," she said. She stayed with Dr. and Mrs. Howard Tate, the Reverend and Mrs. Frank Crown, and Mr. and Mrs. Eddie Parker during her year here.

All countries have great qualities, but the best thing in any country is the people and how they treat someone, she remarked.

During her stay here she got to see much more of the United States than just Ruidoso. She went with the Crowns on a vacation to Florida in June, and during July she took a bus tour of the United States with other Rotary exchange students and saw about 30 states.

She noticed the variety in the United States. Everything is so different, she exclaimed—there are so many regional differences and people identify with their states. She sees New Mexico as being a very different part of the United States, with the Spanish influence in language, food and dress.

The identification of people with states is something different from Australia, she mentioned.

"In Australia, Aussies are Aussies," the Wagga Wagga, Australia, resident said. However, the lifestyles and cultures are similar. There is a more relaxed atmosphere.

Bernice McLaughlin, Rotary exchange student from Australia, prepares to go back Down Under on Thursday.

One thing she really missed about Australia, she said, was Australian rules football.

"I never got to like American football, much to some people's disgust," McLaughlin admitted.

She also missed playing squash and eating Australian staples such as vegamite and meat pies.

McLaughlin did acquire a taste for green chiles, Mexican food and pancakes, and she plans to take back some Mexican food to Australia.

She will also be taking back souvenirs of New Mexico and the United States and some American candy bars for her brother. She has collected many recipes to take home.

One simple thing she remembers as being exciting about her stay here was seeing snow in town. In Australia they only have snow on the mountains, rarely in a town.

Having Ruidoso declare "Bernice McLaughlin Week" was another highlight of her year here, she said. Graduation in May was also something memorable because it is unique. They do not have graduation ceremonies in Australia.

"After being treated like a celebrity for a year, I've been spoiled rotten. My family in Australia will probably send me back," she said laughing.

Her year here also has made a personal impact on her life.

"I've broadened my horizons," McLaughlin explained. "I'm much more independent and more outgoing because I was constantly meeting new people. I've also become more adaptable."

"The year here has made me realize how much I want to see my own country. I've got the travel bug."

McLaughlin had never been out of Australia before and coming to Ruidoso was just "the luck of the draw."

"I wanted to live in another country and learn about another culture," she said.

When she heard she would be coming to New Mexico, her first question was, "Where's New Mexico?"

"I couldn't imagine what it was going to be like, and I had no idea what to expect."

McLaughlin said it is going to be hard to relate to the people at home what it was like here, and to tell about the people who have been like family to her.

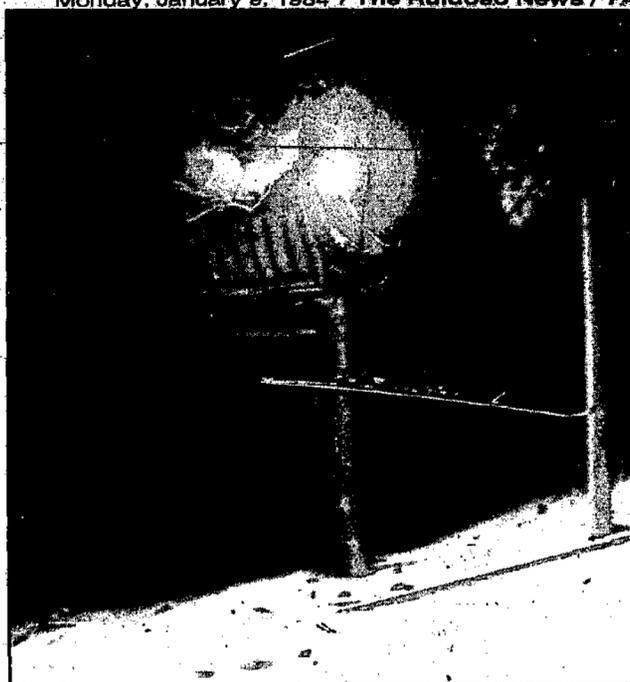

She will be starting college in Australia in February, studying economics.

It is summer back in Australia, so she said, "I must hunt out the cupboard for some summer clothes."

She hopes the friends she has made here will go to visit her in Australia, and she wants to come back and do some more traveling in America.

Australia is still number one to her. "America is a great country, but I don't want to live here."

However, she grimaces as she says, "I get sick at the stomach thinking about leaving Ruidoso."

This skier enjoys the star-filled night air while skiing Friday evening at Eagle Creek Ski Area.

The Dreamer
by Dan Storm

Elsie Williams Services were held last Friday, at the Ruidoso Baptist Church, for our beloved friend, Elsie Williams, who was called home by Our Lord on January three.

The Reverend Wayne Joyce, in charge of services, praised Elsie as a courageous and compassionate Christian Lady of great faith. He based his message on the Lord's words to Saint Paul: "My grace is sufficient for thee."

The Reverend Mr. Joyce explained that "The Lord's Grace is sufficient for us in all that we may face in this life and in the Life To Come. And that this grace was sufficient for Elsie in her long struggle with illness.

Elsie is the widow of the late and beloved Johnnie Williams who was called home in 1974. Johnnie and Elsie were great friends of all little creatures, and were pioneers in the local Humane Society.

I used to meet Johnnie at the Hollywood post office, and me and my dog, Shady Logan and Johnny and his dog Brownie would have a good visit. Later on, Elsie would meet us at the post office for these visits. Elsie sent cards and Christmas gifts to Shady, as did also Johnnie's sister, Mrs. Maxine Royce of California.

Elsie was active in the Ruidoso Baptist Church, established by the Reverend Mr. Joyce himself. And she was helpful for years in the Hospital Auxiliary.

Among the many friends attending the services was Paul Cole, who was the nearest thing to a son to Elsie.

Also at the services was Beatriz Randolph Trujillo, a true and loyal friend, care-taker, and companion to Elsie for eleven years during her illness. During all this time Beatriz was either in Elsie's home or on call seven days a week, twenty-four hours a day. Often Elsie spoke of Beatriz as the guardian and light of her life.

Mrs. Helga Haake, a long-time close friend of Elsie, said, "She loved her home and her flowers." Helga remembered that in the early days during the summer Elsie had a little store of ornamental pottery in Skyland.

On Friday evening, Beatriz called me and said she is going to take care of "Happy," Elsie's little dog. I was glad to hear this good news.

We all take comfort in knowing our beloved Elsie has gone to meet Johnnie in Heaven with Our Lord.

Opinion

Editorial

Education is once again a bell-ringing topic with the newly released ranking of public education by federal Education Secretary Terrel Bell.

He contends the results show that states which spend the most money do not necessarily provide the best education.

In American society, there seems to be a misconception that money can cure everything.

Money is important so students can have adequate facilities and textbooks and teachers can be paid for their work.

It is hard to say what is needed to educate a child, but attitude is probably the most important factor—both the child's and the society's.

In American society, material possessions and money have come to be more important than education. Many see education as only a stepping stone to material things.

The cultural importance Japanese society puts on education and learning shows up in their children. They may be somewhat extreme in their perseverance, but the idea is there.

It seems learning for learning's sake is being lost in America. Learning and "getting an education" can be something totally different.

Society would be better off if children were taught to want to learn, rather than to want to get a piece of paper denoting education.

If a child does not want to learn, the amount of money pumped into his education will be unimportant.

Education and learning is affected by something much more complex than money. The attitude of society about education is where the needed changes lie.—BH

Inside the Capitol

by Fred McCaffrey

SANTA FE—In 72 years, New Mexico has never seen a head-on clash like the one coming next week.

Call it The Battle of the Budgets. Governor Anaya will put in a spending proposal which totals up to more dollars than the present tax system will raise. Then he'll ask for tax increases to make income match what he wants to spend.

The Legislature, on the other hand, will reportedly propose that all spending be cut to fit what we presently expect to take in, with no tax increases at all.

Each approach has its justifications, but the philosophical difference between the two is almost total.

The thought behind the Legislative Finance Committee's approach is fiscally conservative, almost puritanical in approach: "You don't spend what you don't have."

It's also very logical and attractive to the citizens.

In contrast, the Anaya approach has a ring of the "tax, tax, tax and spend, spend, spend" idea many believed used to actuate FDR. Anaya reverses it. He says, "spend, spend, spend" and then "tax, tax, tax."

That doesn't mean he isn't pulling in his horns as the session draws nearer. He told some of us last week that he could now "probably shave $100 million" off his proposed new tax package. Since the highest figure that ever got to was $269 million, he's already willing to cut more than a third from his original proposal.

That's a lot of cutting. And you can bank on this: By the time the Legislature goes home, he will have cut considerably more—and he will not be given even that.

Any budget, after all, is betting on the come.

Here we are, 18 full months away from the end of the fiscal year for which we are proposing expenditures, with a specific command that the state cannot spend more than it takes in. We have to guess from this far away how much that will turn out to be during the period between July of 1984 and June of 1985. Will OPEC prices change during that time? If they do, that will immediately begin to affect the state's income. Yet the OPEC oil ministers are not going to say, "Before we raise or lower our prices we'd better talk to Vickie Fisher, New Mexico's tax collector. What we decide will have a lot to say about how much money she takes in."

Neither does the state have anything to say about the level of interest rates or the size of the deficit Mr. Reagan and the Congress pile up. Both, however, or maybe the two in tandem, have a decided effect on how much revenue will be generated by our state.

That's why a lot of legislators who are not nickle-nosed tightwads prefer to go with a more conservative budget. It's just plain safer.

The Anaya plan is the work of a bunch of young people who don't even have much experience of bad years on which to base their judgments. It also takes its title from a governor who makes it clear he wants to be viewed as a national hero right now. Maybe he doesn't have time to wait, but some don't see that as a reason for burdening the rest of us, who plan to be around New Mexico for years to come, with a lot of taxes that are not really needed.

So what will we end up with? Well, in most years the actual budget written into what is always known as House Bill 2 is somewhere between the executive budget's high side and the legislative budget's low side. Compromise between the two, in other words, gives us a happy medium.

This year, however, there are more than just dollar figures at stake.

What we have here is a clash between two totally different philosophies of government. Each side may be a little more reluctant to compromise, that being the case, than might be usual.

The Legislature will win, of course; they always do.

But we won't know till the end of the session how much of Toney Anaya's blood they have found it necessary to spill.

Clipped Comment

TIME OUT for a thought or two on the passing of Gordon Greaves, the Portales editor. The newspaper industry doesn't have many of this kind around anymore. He was from the old school. You remember: the one with high principles, strong convictions, and unerring dedication to the cause.

In some ways Gordon seemed an anachronism for what the industry has become today, where the back shop is run by a strange combination of housewives and electrical engineers, the front office is run by MBA's who worship the profit center and the bottom line, and the editorial office is run by editors bent on winning trade recognition, not serving their community.

But then maybe he was the true embodiment of what the industry has lost or is in danger of losing, and most needs: respect. That is something not freely given. It has to be earned, and over a long period of time.

The Lovington editor and the Portales editor were a long ways apart philosophically. When a political issue came along, you could usually depend on finding us on opposite sides of the fence. There were some exceptions. One of them was Gordon's belief that cities ought to be allowed to "bank" publicly owned groundwater against the day—certain to come—when they would need it, instead of seeing it consumed in low-revenue agricultural enterprises.

But we were miles apart on most issues. He was a founding member of the New Mexico Council of Humanities. He thought it served a great need; we thought it a waste of tax payers' money.

We never failed to appreciate, however, the breadth of Gordon Greaves' view. He could see the big picture—the really big picture—which included a concern for the whole world and everyone in it. Here was a guy in a little town way down in New Mexico who worried about human affairs on an international scale. He semi-humorously referred to his concerns as a "worry list," but we think it in fact did exist.

Greaves was a long-time resident of Portales and saw the little agricultural community change as Eastern New Mexico Junior College bloomed and prospered. He accepted the difficult role of translating the intellectual significance of the college into a community concern. Portales has an interest in science and the arts that would not have been possible without the link the newspaper gave the college and the town.

We most admired Gordon for his professional magnanimity. He lived the principle enunciated by Voltaire: "Although I disapprove of what you say, I will defend to the death your right to say it." He thought everybody was entitled to express a viewpoint.

Rest in peace, Gordon Greaves.—HOP GRAHAM, LOVINGTON DAILY LEADER

On the Village Beat with Tim Palmer

Watching Billy Allstetter and Darrell Pehr research their 1983 wrapup stories, I got to thinking I should do something similar.

But since they and sportswriter Gary Brown already had a lock on determining and analyzing the most significant stories of last year, it was up to me to think of something different.

So here it is: the first annual "Most Significant Insignificant Stories of the Year." (Not necessarily in order.)

Chamber of Commerce name change. The Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce changed its name to the "Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce and Visitors Bureau" in September.

The name change was a response to a suggestion from management at the Inn of the Mountain Gods that the Mescalero Apache Tribe and the village of Ruidoso form and jointly operate a convention and visitors bureau. Unfortunately, a meeting at the Inn to discuss the idea was so disorganized, that it set the proposal back.

But the Chamber obviously saw it as some sort of threat. Rather than weighing the idea on its merits (the Inn's huge advertising budget being one), the Chamber defensively added "Visitors Bureau" to its name—as if by so doing they proved there is no need for the other organization.

The name change hasn't caught on, by the way. And if the Chamber has lured any big conventions to town, I haven't heard about it.

Ruidoso Lodgers' Association wanting to look at lodgers' tax rolls. This, you may remember, was an effort by lodgers to find out which lodgers are not paying lodgers' tax. While it is understandable that lodgers would want to know—since most if not all of them seem to regard the lodgers' tax as a real nuisance—the law says the rolls are confidential.

Extraterritorial zoning. New administrator(s) at Ruidoso Care Center. They sure change faster than we can keep up with them.

Higher education for Ruidoso. Maybe this is an idea whose time has not come. A survey showed interest, but no one has picked up the ball. The law leaves it to the school board, but they have plenty of things to think about already.

The Golden Years Jubilee. The Ruidoso Business Association, flushed with success from the first ('82) Ruidoso Motorcycle Festival, promoted a senior citizens extravaganza for last May. But hardly anyone came. RBA gets an "E" for effort, though, and it is hoped they and others will continue to show initiative in promoting Ruidoso tourism.

Ruidoso village council's "little joke on the mayor." The council (Don Dale excepted) voted against adoption of the state Open Meetings Act after Mayor George White insisted on reading the act late in a council meeting. In so doing, they unknowingly made all their actions over a six-week period invalid, and had to go back and ratify them.

Of course, George had the best joke on the council when they were all recalled by voters in the November election.

World's Richest Ski Race. Although I think it can be said safely there will be no U.S. Open Ski Race this year, the fact that so much money was found to promote it is interesting. Maybe Ruidoso itself can come up with a distinctive event like the Balloon Fiesta in Albuquerque and promote the heck out of it.

Councilman Benny Coulston's wisecracks about the State Highway Department. You can only get so much mileage out of one subject, and this one expired some time ago.

Grita Gresham. The Chamber banquet speaker's performance prompted Billy and I to plan for careers as public speakers after we saw how little talent it takes to command a lucrative fee.

All in all, it was a memorable if forgettable year. And lest I come across too high and mighty in putting everything else down, let me acknowledge that numerous editorials and columns found on this page in '83 probably deserve no better than a place on the scrap heap of history.

But we're all of us trying—maybe even the State Highway Department.

Many paths to fitness available in Ruidoso

Larry DeBeer stretches for the sky during a recent aerobics class led by Beverly Halladay.

by L.J. GRUSHKA
Special to The News

With the increased awareness of health and fitness, Ruidosians have a variety of adult fitness programs available to participate in. Programs ranging from Jazzercise to pick-up basketball attract people wishing to tone up or stay tuned, while making the benefits of exercise fun.

Jazzercise, a nationally incorporated fitness program, is offered here at various times, with babysitting available for morning classes. Rosine Stout and Candy Jacobson, both certified Jazzercise instructors, encourage new students at any time.

Jazzercise, advertised as "a wild and woolly workout using joyful jazz dance movements and swinging music for fitness," is geared for the average person, said Stout, who is a registered dietitian.

"My motto is everything in moderation," she said.

"We are dedicated to the Jazzercise philosophy of the human triad... that's a healthy body, mind and spirit," added Jacobson. Jazzercise classes are held Monday and Wednesday at 8 p.m. and Tuesday and Thursday at 9 a.m. at The Carrizo Lodge. Classes are held at the Ruidoso Gymnastics Academy Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 9 a.m. and Tuesday and Thursday at 5:30 p.m. Cost is $2.50 a class, with special monthly rates available.

Also held at the Ruidoso Gymnastics Academy is Beverly Halladay's "physical musical workout," for people seeking strenuous exercise including aerobic, calisthenic and flexing combinations.

"People coming to my advanced classes are looking for tip top conditioning," said Halladay. She emphasized that students must learn their own limits. "If you can't do all the repetitions of an exercise... don't do it."

"It is a hard workout, but it gets you in shape for skiing," said Denise Dorn, who has attended Halladay's class for almost two years. Beginning classes are held Thursday 9 a.m. and advanced classes are held Tuesday and Thursday at 6:45 p.m. and also Saturday at 10 a.m. Charge is $3 per class.

Coed volleyball has been popular this year, said Pam Graves, Ruidoso's director of parks and recreation. Pick-up volleyball games take place every Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at White Mountain Middle School. Pick-up mens basketball games take place every Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. and also Sundays from 2 to 9 p.m. at White Mountain Middle School.

"We are trying to expand the adult fitness programs," said Graves. "We would like to offer prenatal and post natal exercise classes in the near future."

Sierra Swim and Racquet Club offers memberships designed to suit a variety of needs and price ranges, according to health club manager Ted Marolt. Club members can enjoy racquetball; tennis; therapeutic pools; and weather permitting, an Olympic size swimming pool. Aerobic classes are scheduled frequently during the week.

"A membership usually averages out to about a dollar a day," said Marolt.

There is more good news ahead for activity seekers. Paul and Jeannie Whitwam are planning a spring opening for their Ruidoso Athletic Club, to be located where the Ruidoso Gymnastics Academy currently is. Ruidoso Athletic Club will be offering a full line of Nautilus equipment, computerized exercise bicycles, racquetball courts, and a health-bar lounge area, according to the Whitwams.

Rosine Stout twists to the beat of music during her Jazzercise program she leads to maintain healthy bodies and minds.

"If you are going to enjoy the many activities that Ruidoso has to offer, you must be in shape," said Paul Whitwam.

"We intend to keep the exercise programs that are presently using the building and we will expand on them," said Jeannie, who will manage the club.

A local survey on the fitness needs of the community was recently completed by Graves. The future should bring Ruidoso bicycle paths, hiking trails, and "we are hopeful for a community recreation center," she said.

"There is a National Parks and Recreation motto that we try to follow," she added. "Life, be in it!"

Health enthusiasts learn about new club

by GARY BROWN
News Staff Writer

A crowd of about 40 people attended a meeting at the Ruidoso Athletic Club (RAC) Wednesday night to find out some information about the new health club.

RAC general partner Paul Whitwam explained to the crowd what the new club will offer, and said he hopes the club will be open for business in March or April.

The building, which was built over 40 years ago, was originally the gymnasium for the Ruidoso schools, and recently has been the headquarters of the Ruidoso Gymnastics Academy.

It currently has about 6,500 square feet of space, but will expand to almost 12,000 square feet with some new additions.

"The building is in excellent shape," Whitwam said.

Two racquetball courts will be constructed in the northeast corner of the gymnasium. Each court will be equipped for wallyball, a version of volleyball, but with the added intrigue of playing the ball off the walls.

There will also be an indoor golf driving net and ping pong table. Gloves may also be checked out for use on a punching bag.

A Nautilus training area will also be constructed. The equipment is expected to arrive by March 1.

Included in the 13 machines will be three double machines and one multiple-exercise machine that will allow the user to exercise all muscle groups. Two lifecycles will also be located in this area. They can be used for aerobic exercise, plus cardiac and fitness monitoring and evaluation.

A demonstration of the lifecycle machine was given at the meeting. The lifecycle machines are computerized exercise bicycles and cost around $2,000 apiece.

There will also be a complete free weight room. It will have supine and incline benches and a squat rack with an Olympic weight set.

Other types of equipment will also be available.

There will be a suntan room and massage area, whirlpool area, nursery for parents with children, and pro shop.

The pro shop will feature racquetball and exercise equipment and supplies.

There will also be a 1,800-square foot balcony-mezzanine lounge area.

Membership fees will be $300 initiation and $50 dues a month for a family with no children over 18, and $200 initiation and $30 a month for an individual.

For corporate groups (a minimum of five people), there will be a $150 initiation and $30 monthly dues.

Non-members may also use the club, but must pay $10 a day. A non-member card will be available for 10 visits and will cost $75. It will be good for one year.

Guests will be admitted free the first time, but must pay $8 a day after that.

Caprio: stressing the unique

by DARRELL J. PEHR
News Staff Writer

Unique designs in clothing and accessories from all over the world and America make up the fashions available at Caprio.

"You find a lot of the unique look in the lines that come from other countries," said Mary Louise Mize, part-owner of the shop. Mize and her two daughters, Royce Russell and Roseline Krezor, own the shop, located at 2542 Sudderth Drive. The ladies wear shop has been in business for seven years. Mize said a goal of the shop is to maintain high standards of quality while keeping prices low.

"The quality is good in foreign-made clothing and the labor is inexpensive, so the prices can be competitive," she said. The shop also handles items that are made in New Mexico.

"You look a little harder to find the unique things," Mize said. She and Russell led the way around the shop, pointing out several items made in this state.

Beautifully woven sweaters at the shop are made by the Ortiz sisters in Albuquerque. The sisters are eighth-generation Chimayo Indian weavers. They design and weave their own lines for the shop.

Turquoise and feather-decorated headpieces and halter tops featured at the shop are made by a woman in Albuquerque. Hand-painted leather vests are made even closer to Ruidoso by a woman at the Sacramento Methodist Church near Cloudcroft.

The international clothing available at the shop is equally unique. Intricately hand-crocheted blouses and skirts made of gauze on the island of Cyprus, near Greece, are big sellers for the shop, according to Russell.

"It's a new look we sell over and over and over," said Mize.

Silk-look polyester blouses at the shop are made in Paris, France. Hand-crocheted dresses come from the Philippines and from the island of Bali. Hand-woven "people" dresses are made in Guatemala. A hand-stitched vest with a complex, colorful design was made by craftspeople in Thailand.

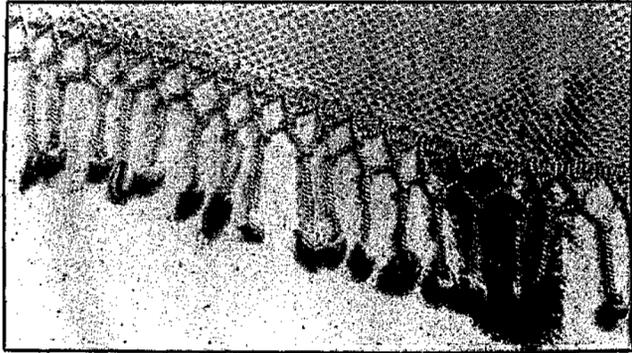

Working with smaller makers of clothing is beneficial for the shop, according to Mize, because the prices are often lower than the more well-known lines. And the individuality is felt much more.

"Small lines are super," Mize said. "It's imagination, and it usually has a little pizzazz if it's a smaller line."

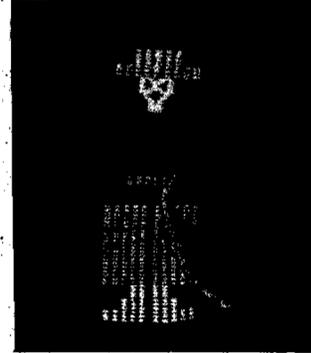

The shop is open Monday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. The phone number is 257-4700.

This dress is made from gauze on the island of Cyprus.

This hand-made sweater was made by craftspeople in California.

"People" dresses from Guatemala are hand-woven.

Blenders, toasters and mixers can be found in the housewares department at the True Value Home Center.

Rows of paint and varnishes and painting supplies make up the paint department. The store will also custom mix colors.

True Value offers variety

by DARRELL J. PEHR
News Staff Writer

Fireplace screens, screws and scrapers line aisles near brooms, brushes and brake fluid. Mounds of nails and nuts mingle with washers, wing nuts and waffle irons. Rows of can-contained rainbows fill the paint department while child-anxious bicycles yearn to spin their wheels. Mixers waiting for the day they can "puree" are neighbors to un-popped toasters.

A myriad of products wait for buyers at the newly-opened True Value Home Center, located at 721 Mechem Drive in the shopping center with the new Safeway. The store has been open since November 15, according to store-owner Jim Stone. Stone, his wife, Dorothy, their son Max and their daughter Carrie Shanafelt operate the store.

The theory behind the store is to offer a shopper's complete needs under one roof, and specifically to offer everything needed to completely build a house.

Due to the tremendous business during the Christmas season, and the newness of opening, some shelves are less than full.

"Our main problem is getting stocked up," Stone said. "Christmas was a real busy time for us and we're just getting stocked up again."

The Stones own another home center in Crane, Texas, which is operated by another son. The Stones first vacationed in Ruidoso in 1975. During that trip here, they were so impressed with the area they bought a house the first day.

"We just love Ruidoso," said Dorothy Stone. She told of the times Jim, who is also a pilot, would fly the family from Texas to Ruidoso after closing the store on Saturdays, only to return to reopen on Monday mornings.

Finally, last February, they were able to start construction on the Ruidoso store. Although the initial grand opening date was set for June 15, Stone said he wants to make sure the store is completely stocked before the ceremony.

The store employs eight people who work in several departments. The sporting goods department features rifles and pistols, fishing gear, golf equipment and tennis supplies, and a large selection of other items. The lawn and garden department bristles with rakes, shovels and gardening supplies while hammers, wrenches and clamps populate the nearby tool department.

The gift department features watches, radios for home and auto, lamps, cameras and kitchen appliances. Woodstoves, chimney cleaning supplies and fireplace screens and grates make up the fireplace department. Everything for the kitchen, sewing machines and vacuum cleaners compose the housewares department.

Plumbing supplies in the plumbing department and electrical supplies in the electrical department are displayed near the appliances department, which features televisions, stereos and larger kitchen appliances. Bicycles and toys insure younger visitors of a good selection.

One unique aspect of the store is the vast drive-through area behind the main store which will be used to house building materials. Huge garage doors, large enough to accommodate semi-trailer trucks, open at both ends of the building. A pass-through area to the main store will be stocked with materials for the home handyman.

"We plan to have everything to build a house under one roof," Stone said. "And we'll be fully stocked by the end of January."

Rifles and pistols are a small part of the sporting goods department.

Store owners Jim and Dorothy Stone stand Mechem Drive in the shopping center with in front of their store, which is located at 721 the new Safeway.

EXPLORING MEXICAN RUINS
In our near neighbor to the south, Mexico, can be found not only a warm, vibrant and foreign civilization, but traces of other civilizations leading back into antiquity.
Many visitors to Mexico are fascinated by the ancient ruins and pyramids near Mexico City, or those visited in Chichen Itza on a day trip from Cancun or Cozumel. But the best way to take a trip back in time is to stay right amidst the ruins. The Mexican government in the late '70s, sponsored the construction of five villas at major archaeological sites around the country. Staying at these villas allows you to immerse yourself in the ancient Aztec, Mayan and Toltec civilizations.
Coba is the quietest villa site, situated on the Yucatan Peninsula. The site represents the largest Mayan settlement in the Yucatan, and is convenient to the ancient walled city of Tulum. Uxmal is on the Yucatan, too.
The two other villas are outside Mexico City, at Teotihuacan and Cholula. Booking for all the villas are handled through Club Med, but they have no other relationship or similarity to Club Med resorts worldwide.
