Fort Stanton feels uncertain

by BILLY ALLSTETTER
News Staff Writer

Although Fort Stanton Hospital administrator Mark Delgado believes the 191 employees at the state hospital will remain employed in some capacity, he acknowledged the current controversy surrounding the hospital has created difficult working conditions.

"It creates a lot of stress," said Delgado of the uncertain plans for transition of the hospital from an institution for the mentally retarded to a center for alcoholic rehabilitation. "It's hard to work under those conditions."

The conditions Delgado referred to were created by a House Appropriations and Finance Committee vote not to support a $1.9 million outlay for the transition. The request was made by the state Health and Environment Department.

The committee recommended Fort Stanton lift its freeze on admitting new clients, and fill beds at the hospital while a task force studies the transition.

The transition has already begun, with 17 clients transferred out of the hospital since July, said Delgado. Fort Stanton union representative Tommy Nevarez said the hospital is now caring for 116 patients in the facility that has a 155 patient capacity.

Delgado said he has received no instructions to change the transition procedure, which is scheduled for completion by January 1, 1985. Governor Toney Anaya's chief of staff Robert McNeill said the transition will continue with or without funding for an alcohol rehabilitation center.

McNeill has promised several times that Fort Stanton employees will be retrained and that none will lose their jobs. McNeill said Monday he sticks by the pledge, but indicated some jobs could be in jeopardy if the Legislature does not fund the transition.

Nevarez said some of the employees want to work only with the mentally retarded, but 90 percent are just concerned about their jobs.

"They are saying, 'What about our jobs?'" said Nevarez.

The employees supported the transition after hearing McNeill's pledge that none would lose their jobs, said Nevarez.

"Naturally we expect him to keep his pledge," Nevarez said.

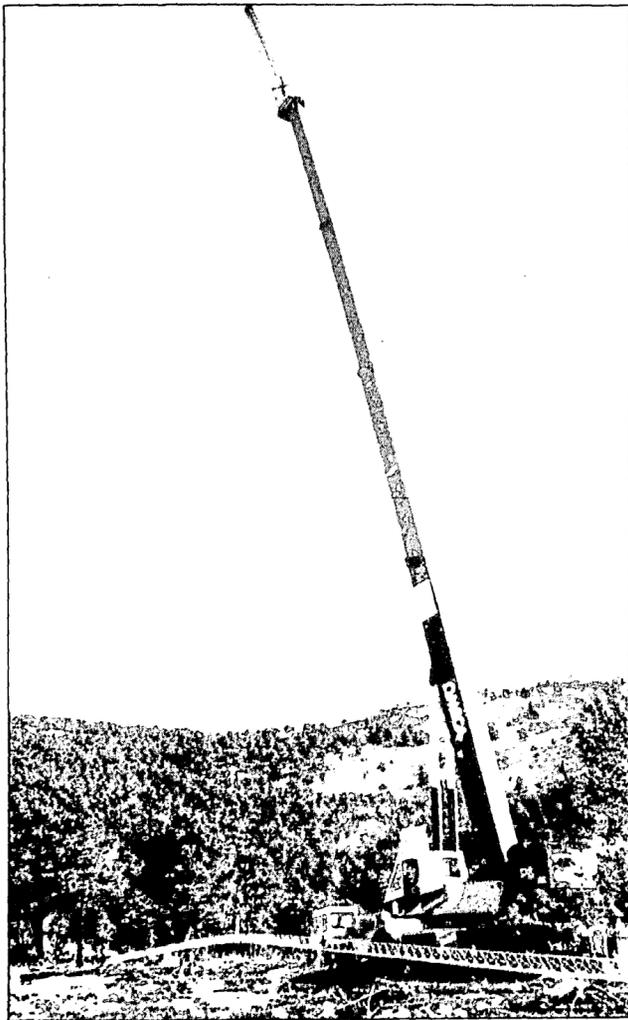

He noted the hospital is staffed mainly by long-term employees with an average of eight to nine years experience at Fort Stanton. With homes in the area and children in school, they are not interested in taking state jobs in other locations, said Nevarez.

Nevarez estimated that 65 percent of the employees are husband and wife teams who are both employed at the hospital. Layoffs or a closure of the hospital would be especially disastrous to them, said Nevarez.

"They just simply could not make it," said Nevarez.

He said the union does not plan any lobbying efforts now but may approach the Legislature if the possibility of closure or layoffs becomes more likely.

Nevarez said 68 of the 191 employees are attendants working directly with the mentally retarded clients. Others work in maintenance, laundry, education, business office and dietary departments at the hospital.

Hospital land bought

by TIM PALMER
News Editor

Looking ahead to the day Ruidoso-Hondo Valley Hospital outgrows its present facility once and for all, the hospital board of directors has accomplished the purchase of 80 acres in Gavilan Canyon for a new hospital.

Entrance to the land is about one-fourth mile east of the entrance to Homestead Acres, said hospital administrator Ken Moore. The property is south of the road but does not front on it.

The decision to acquire the land came about after a detailed planning study by Hamilton Associates, a professional hospital consulting company. The "Role and Program Study," which started almost two years ago, included interviews with hospital staff and board members and people in the community. Moore said population growth trends were also taken into account.

"If somebody had done this for us 10 years ago, we wouldn't be in the fix we're in now," said Moore. He pointed out that the present hospital is very lacking in space, and indicated it would be impossible to enlarge it efficiently.

High school tours urged

Ruidoso school officials are encouraging anyone interested to take a tour of the new high school.

The tour bus leaves the high school parking lot at 9:45 a.m. on Thursdays. Brochures about the school bond election are now available in the banks in Ruidoso.

The two propositions to be on the ballot on February 7 will be approval of the extension of the two-mill levy and authorization of the issuance of a $1 million bond issue.

The $1 million bond issue will be used to complete the construction and equip the new high school.

The brochure emphasizes that neither of the propositions on the ballot will increase taxes.

The brochure explains that "in 1981 the district applied for $6,419,335 in State Capital Outlay Funds. To date we have received $4,719,313 from the State Capital Outlay funds. We have now requested $2,076,511 for 1984. If the district is not bonded to capacity, the funds from the state will not be received. Therefore, we must approve this bond issue in order to receive the State Capital Improvement Funds."

Preparations for the upcoming Southern New Mexico Special Olympic Winter Games are nearing completion, according to event coordinator Ray Bishop. The event will run from Tuesday, January 31, to Friday, February 3. Bishop said the level of community involvement in this, the third year of the event, has been outstanding.

"We seem to have a good interest with quite a few volunteers," he said. "We sure got a good turnout for the kids."

According to Bishop, however, some needs for the Olympics still exist. He said about 25 volunteer ski instructors and housing facilities for a group of instructors coming from

New Mexico State University in Las Cruces are badly needed.

According to organizer of the volunteers Glen Ferguson, volunteer instructors' skiing ability is not as important as the desire to help.

"You just need to be able to pick one of these kids up when they fall and tell them to try again," he said. Ferguson said he would like volunteer instructors to donate about three hours of their time each of the two days of skiing, but even an hour would help.

"I can't tell you how desperately I need instructors," he said.

The Olympians will arrive at the Bonito Park Nazarene Conference Center on Tuesday. That evening they will have a recreation night and banquet at the Fort Stanton Hospital and Training School. Wednesday morn-

Pay hike no, plan si-council

by BILLY ALLSTETTER
News Staff Writer

The next Ruidoso village council won't be paid any more for their efforts, but their job should be easier with a new Comprehensive Plan.

The council rejected by a vote of 3-1 a proposed pay increase for council members from the current $3,000 per year to $5,000 per year.

Councilman Al Junge originally proposed the increase and voted for it Tuesday night. He argued that the increased pay would make it affordable for local businessmen to give up some of the time they devote to their private businesses and work as council members.

While councilman Frank Sayner agreed that council members should receive some remuneration, he did not want the pay to become an incentive to seek the job. He said council members should be motivated to serve more out of public spirit. Councilmen Benny Coulston and Don Dale expressed similar views.

The council agreed to hire the planning company BRW to formulate a new Comprehensive Plan for Ruidoso. The project will cost the village $69,720. The project should take 12 to 15 months to complete, reported Sayner.

BRW is already formulating a comprehensive transportation plan for the village at a cost of $30,000.

Council members expressed pleasure with the price of the proposed project since the 1976 Comprehensive Plan cost approximately $140,000.

"It's going to solve a lot of problems," said assistant village manager Frank Potter.

BRW's proposal included publishing a new land use map, a new zoning map, and suggested amendments to the zoning and subdivision ordinances. The village council and Planning and Zoning Commission have faced numerous problems in the past year due to an outdated land use map and unclear zoning map from the 1976 Comprehensive Plan.

The new Comprehensive Plan will also include a housing plan that will include proposed development areas and suggestions for more affordable housing. BRW will also address future industrial and commercial development.

The transportation plan will be incorporated into the Comprehensive Plan with proposed annual projects and their costs. Public projects such as sewer and water will also be included.

Sayner, who interviewed BRW representatives, said he was impressed. He added that he especially liked the fact the company would conduct public meetings as well as consultations with the Planning and Zoning Commission and village council during their study.

The council also authorized the expenditure of $1,500 for the development of long-range plans for future projects in School House Park. Sayner said the plans, suggested by the Parks and Recreation Commission, will include building a removable cover for the swimming pool, a small amphitheatre against the hill, and possibly a building for groups to meet in.

Sayner said the lease with the Ruidoso school system for a proposed recreation complex near the White Mountain schools is still the committee's number one priority. Junge said there are still a few loose ends to be worked out with the lease, and the council did not discuss it further.

After discussing the parks and recreation plans, Sayner complimented the Parks and Recreation Commission and all other volunteer committees for their help.

Special Olympics Games need volunteers

ing, the Olympians will have a breakfast hosted by the Evening Lions Club. Skiing instruction and training will begin at 9 a.m. Wednesday at Eagle Creek Ski Area.

Lunch will be hosted by the Rio Ruidoso Lioness Club, followed by time trials for the athletes. The Wednesday night dinner, hosted by the Altrusa Club of Ruidoso, will precede the opening ceremonies and torchlight parade at Eagle Creek.

Thursday morning's breakfast will be hosted by the Pilot Club of Ruidoso and the Sertoma Club. The alpine and cross-country competitions and awards ceremonies will occur throughout the day, with lunch hosted by the Noon Lions. A closing ceremony and friendship circle will follow.

Dinner Thursday night and a victory dance will be held at the White Mountain School Cafeteria, with dinner hosted by Beta Sigma Phi sorority and the dance hosted by the Ruidoso Woman's Club. The Olympians will leave Friday morning after breakfast hosted by the Rotary Club. Hot cocoa will be served Wednesday and Thursday by the high school student council and the Bank of Ruidoso.

According to meals organizer Nancy Radziewicz, a special emphasis has been put this year on low-sugar food.

Ferguson said the experience of working with the Olympians is rewarding. "It makes your heart just burn up," he said.

Committee changes direction

by TIM PALMER
News Editor

Remaining members of The Ruidoso Committee acknowledge the group has shifted in direction—away from endorsing candidates for village council and toward encouraging qualified candidates to run.

A story in Wednesday's Albuquerque Journal quoted committee member Ron MacWhorter saying news coverage of the committee had created a bad image for the group.

"It makes us look like a group ready to set up a power structure," MacWhorter was quoted.

MacWhorter told The News Wednesday that news coverage of a December 19 news conference of the committee made it sound like committee members wanted to be "kingmakers"—dictating who would run for council.

He acknowledged that reporting of the press conference was accurate, however.

"It was exactly what we said, it just didn't come out the way we wanted it to," said MacWhorter.

He added that the press conference and ensuing news coverage made committee members stand back and ask, "What are we trying to do?"

At the press conference, MacWhorter and member James Paxton outlined a screening process by which potential candidates could earn the committee's endorsement and financial support.

Chairman Greg Masters said there was a change in direction after the press conference, to an emphasis on soliciting candidates to run for council.

He said the Journal reporter had approached the committee about a story, and that it was felt the story would allow a more community-oriented image instead of "running candidates through."

Masters said it was his understanding the committee would have the right to edit the story once it was written.

"There were some people in town who we're getting their feelings hurt," said Masters of the original news coverage. "And we didn't need that."

Some original members have left the committee since the press conference.

Otis Spears said the concept was good as originally explained—that of encouraging qualified people to run.

"I started into this thing thinking it was the thing to do—and now I'm not sure that it is," he said.

Lamar Osbourn, who has resigned from the committee, expressed the same sentiment.

On the image of the committee as a group that would try to sway voters to support its candidates, he asked, "Why would you (the public) be listening to them when they hadn't done anything before?"

Osbourn added that the committee had too short a time to organize and go to work.

Chuck Hawthorn, who also is no longer involved, indicated he left the group because of a shift from the original purpose—getting qualified candidates—to giving endorsements.

Member Linda Swalander acknowledged that "endorsement" now has been dropped or downplayed, but she said the committee is still a going concern.

"It's still viable," she said.

Jerry Bigham, who also has stayed on, said if the committee can encourage some good people to run for council who otherwise would not have run, it will have served its purpose.

Masters and MacWhorter said that once candidates have filed on January 31, the committee will decide what to do next—what form its support will take.

One original member who left the committee summed up his feelings about the experience.

"I think part of the problem is they don't have any direction or any solid ideas of what they want to do."

Chamber of Commerce executive director Ed Jungbluth addresses the Tuesday meeting of the Rotary Club and a group of visiting Mexican travel agents. Jungbluth, Chamber president James Paxton and Chamber Advertising Committee chairman Tommy Morel discussed the progress of Ruidoso's promotional efforts this year.

Chamber hosts travel agents

News Staff Writer

The noon meeting of the Ruidoso Rotary Club Tuesday featured a combination of events connected with the Ruidoso Valley Chamber of Commerce.

Guest speakers were Chamber president James Paxton, executive director Ed Jungbluth and Advertising Committee chairman Tommy Morel. The three speakers discussed the current village advertising efforts before an audience of Rotarians and 19 visiting travel agents from Mexico.

The travel agents stopped at the Rotary luncheon during their Chamber-sponsored familiarization tour of the Ruidoso area. The agents had arrived in Ruidoso Monday night and were guests at a private party at Nottingham's Pub for area lodgers and businessmen.

Tuesday morning found the visiting Mexicans viewing the sights of Ruidoso from a tour bus, with Jungbluth acting as a tour guide. The agents saw Ruidoso Downs Race Track, the site for the coming Fantasy Mountain amusement park, The Carrizo Lodge, Rainbow Lake and the Inn of the Mountain Gods.

On the return trip from the Inn, the agents were taken to Eagle Creek Ski Area, through the Alto area, and past the White Mountain schools and the airport. Many condominium and townhouse projects were also pointed out to the agents.

After lunch at Cree Meadows Country Club with the Rotarians, the agents were treated to an afternoon of skiing at Sierra Blanca Ski Resort and a cocktail party at the Ruidoso Inn. The agents left Ruidoso Wednesday morning.

The agents were from Juarez, Chihuahua, Guadalupe and Torreón, Mexico. It was the first trip to Ruidoso for many, and they indicated they were favorably impressed with the area.

The Chamber officials' presentation began with Paxton commenting on the progress the village advertising efforts have made this year. He said the most money the village has had in past years for promotional efforts has been about $50,000.

Paxton noted that figure has jumped to over $200,000 this year. He reported that the Chamber "Acceptamos Pesos" stickers are now available at the Chamber for any business that needs them.

Morel then briefly discussed the marketing strategy and actual advertising the Chamber is using. With the help of Epstein Communications in Albuquerque, several ads were created and used to promote Ruidoso, he said. The ads were placed in several magazines and newspapers in New Mexico, Texas and Mexico and began appearing Sunday, January 22, according to Morel.

Morel said the Epstein agency did extensive research to determine the best avenues for advertising.

Morel added that the most in funding the state had offered Ruidoso in the past was around $3,000. He said this year, the state has funded Ruidoso with over $95,000 in matching and cooperative funds.

Morel also discussed the Chamber's involvement in the upcoming Pro Ski International U.S. Open Ski Race to be held the first weekend in March at Eagle Creek Ski Area. He said it will still be the world's richest ski race, with $70,000 in prize money. Morel stressed community involvement is essential to the success of the event.

"There will be a time when we all need to pitch in and help," he said.

The presentation concluded with Jungbluth showing the Rotarians actual copies of the ads that are being used in the campaign.

The Magic Man, alias Don Rawhouser, teaches a Capitan Brownie troop about the dangers of drug and alcohol abuse.

Magic Man has vital message

by BETH HALLER
News Staff Writer

The Magic Man teaches children about things that may be bad for them, and he entertains them as well.

Don Rawhouser, alias the Magic Man, was recently in Capitan telling a Brownie troop about different household items that are poisonous.

"Children interest me, and I try to cover things that are worthwhile," he explained. With his dog Shougou (Chinese for little dog), he performs magic tricks and tells fairy tales, and also covers topics such as drug and alcohol abuse.

The 15-year resident of Ruidoso said being the Magic Man is just something he enjoys doing.

"I am vitally concerned about drug and alcohol abuse," he said. He has worked as a counselor in Mescalero.

"What I'm doing is an adjunct to what I'm interested in," he noted.

It is important with children to make them aware of drug and alcohol abuse and poisonous products, he said.

In drug situations children are role playing, mimicking adults, he pointed out. "We're a pill-popping society."

For his presentations on poison control, he gets his information from the New Mexico Poison, Drug Information and Medical Crisis Center in Albuquerque.

In addition to giving out pamphlets to children on poison control, he explains to the children what to do if someone swallows poison, and what household items and plants are poisonous.

The Magic Man wears clown-like clothes as he educates the children on serious subjects.

With seven children of his own, he said he was always able to have an audience of children for his magic and storytelling.

Rawhouser explained that becoming the Magic Man was not something he decided to do, it was just a matter of "one thing leading to another."

"People would just come along and say 'Hey, Don, won't you do this for us?'" he explained.

Many of the fairy tales he tells are Chinese in origin.

Retired from the Army now, he spent six years as an advisor to the Chinese army, and most of his overseas time in the Army was spent in the Orient.

He became interested in the troupe and puppet shows in China and has incorporated some of the stories into his presentations.

Most of his Magic Man enthusiasm comes from the fact that he likes children, he said. "I like little people better than big people."

"We may have Cadillacs and stereos, but children are the only real thing we've got," Rawhouser explained.

"Nothing can give you what children can."

Councilman Coulston also complimented the Chamber of Commerce and Lodgers' Tax Committee for their efforts, which have resulted in obtaining tens of thousands of dollars from the state for additional advertising.

Their efforts and the state's contributions should attract new tourists to Ruidoso, said Coulston.

In other business, the council: —Approved a $2 rate increase and partial deregulation of Cablevision of Lincoln County. Basic monthly subscription rates will increase from $10 to $12. Cablevision will now be able to raise any of its charges eight percent in any given year without approval of the council.

In the past, Cablevision has had to clear any rate increases with the council. It will still have to appear for increases greater than eight percent per year.

—Declined to adopt a resolution calling for a 35 mile per hour maximum speed limit within the village limits. Ruidoso police chief Dick Swenor told the council that State Senator Charlie Lee planned to present the resolution to the State Highway Department, along with a similar resolution passed by Ruidoso Downs.

Coulston said he could not endorse the resolution if it did not include specific amendments calling for the State Highway Department to keep highways 37 and 70 properly striped. Although Swenor said the resolution included a clause calling for proper posting of the highways by the department, Junge's motion to approve the resolution died for lack of a second.

—Heard village manager Jim Hine report that approximately 120 people had registered to vote during the previous two days.

—Rejected all bids on aviation fuel and a steam cleaner and washer for the street department because they did not meet specifications.

—Accepted a low bid of $3,245 on a used ground power unit for the municipal airport, contingent upon inspection by airport manager Tim Morris. If that unit proves unsatisfactory, the council has authorized Morris to purchase another unit he has already inspected for $3,500.

—Heard the village will receive $6,000 less in revenue sharing funds this year than last year for unknown reasons. The village will still receive approximately $170,000, reported Hine.

—Approved a replat of two lots in Juniper Hills for Charles Crabtree.

—Heard Junge report that Rio Rancho, near Albuquerque, is also fighting the U.S. Postal Service over cluster mail boxes. Junge also reminded council members that their resolution asking the U.S. Postal Service not to construct any more mailboxes is still in effect.

Hospital

"Just on a day-to-day basis it creates a real bottleneck," said Moore. He noted the emergency room, laboratory and nursing department are all tight on space, and the staff has had to convert a closet and part of a conference room to office space.

In addition, the present hospital is wired for an electrical current incompatible with new equipment coming onto the market.

The 80 acres was purchased by the Southwest Health Foundation, parent company of the hospital. When the time arrives to start building, the land will be sold to the hospital.

Moore said the land was purchased as an investment, and that part of it eventually could be sold to help pay the cost of a new facility. The full 80 acres are not needed, he said.

Now, said the administrator, the hospital must continue to monitor growth in Ruidoso to determine when the time is right to undertake construction of a new facility.

"We don't feel that it's too soon," said Moore of the land purchase. "It's almost too late, actually."

How to pay for the project—estimated at $14-$20 million—is the next stumbling block. Moore mentioned patient charges and bonds, but pointed out the county's degree of indebtedness at the time will be a factor.

Donations would be gladly accepted, he added.

"Our biggest problem right now is trying to forecast what the growth is going to be," said Moore. He said there are key "unknown" factors, namely:

—whether legalized gambling is started in this area;

—whether the regional airport is built; and —whether Sierra Blanca Ski Resort carries out a major expansion.

The first, he noted, is the one that could not be verified.

Moore said the bed size of the hospital would remain the same in a new building (39), but the design would allow orderly expansion to an ultimate bed size of 50 to 60.

The philosophy of the hospital board is primarily to serve the local community, Moore said. One example of this in a new hospital would be spacious private rooms that could be converted to semi-private in times of peak demand.

Moore said a recently announced effort to make Gavilan Canyon a state road "fits right into the game plan." The site has good accessibility from all parts of the county, he noted, and the Bog Spring road to the new high school will improve access.

The administrator emphasized that several years' "lead time" is needed to meet anticipated demand. He pointed out that if ground were broken today, the facility would not be ready for at least three years.

"If there's anybody who's got to be ahead of the community (growth-wise), it's the hospital," said Moore.

Downs firemen attend state chiefs' meeting

Four members of the Ruidoso Downs Fire Department attended the New Mexico Fire Chiefs' Association meeting Saturday, January 21, in Albuquerque.

Chief Chet Southard, director Roger Riley, assistant chief Cyndi Miller and firefighter Jay Fusetter attended the meeting.

Riley was chosen president of the association.

Topics discussed at the meeting were a proposed study of the State Fire Academy's new Occupational Safety and Health Administration standards and the new program for coordination and command of large emergency situations.

The proposed program for hazardous materials incidents being presented to the state legislature was also discussed.

Following the business meeting, training in preparation of a fire fund budget and fire department administration were presented.

Conley at Ruidoso Word Ministries

KATHLEEN CONLEY

Kathleen Conley, an evangelist from Diamond Bar, California, will be speaking at 7 p.m. Saturday, January 28, and 2 p.m. Sunday, January 29, at Ruidoso Word Ministries.

Conley has appeared there twice before and was well received. The public is welcome to come, hear the evangelist along with the accompanying music and singing.

Ruidoso Word Ministries is located at the new location of Puckett Real Estate, at 247 Mesalero Trail, between the Episcopal Church and the Professional Building.

For more information, call Pastor E.S. Walden at 258-6496.

Bright to lead Baptist Bible study

Dr. Preston Bright, pastor of Western Hills Baptist Church in Fort Worth, Texas, will be teaching January Bible study at the First Baptist Church of Ruidoso Downs.

The Bible study will begin 6 p.m. Sunday, January 29 and continue Monday through Wednesday at 7 p.m.

Each year in Southern Baptist churches, one book of the Bible is covered in the January Bible study. The study this year will be over the book of 1 Corinthians. There will be programs for all ages.

Bright is a graduate of the Southwestern Baptist Theological Seminary in Fort Worth. He has done additional work at Yale University, the Episcopal Theological Seminary of the Southwest and the Yekeloff Institute. He has been pastor of Western Hills Baptist Church since 1973.

PRESTON BRIGHT

Bright is serving as a marriage enrichment consultant to the Baptist General Convention of Texas. He has served as a consultant and conference leader for the Pastoral Ministries Division of the Baptist Sunday School Board.

The public is invited to this series, and nursery services will be provided.

Special Olympics meeting tonight

There will be a meeting of Special Olympics Area 13 at 7 tonight (Thursday).

The meeting will take place at the United Methodist Church Fellowship Hall.

Local Special Olympics projects will be discussed.

Financial aid seminar tonight

Applications are now available for financial aid such as scholarships, grants and loans. The deadline for applications at most schools is March 1. Parents who are concerned about post-high school education, financial assistance or careers for their son or daughter should contact James Sanchez in the counselor's office of Ruidoso High School.

Parents and students are invited to attend a financial aid workshop in the high school library 7 p.m. Thursday, January 26. Advisers will be there to present a financial aid program and answer specific questions about loans, grants and scholarships.

Girl Scout cookies on sale

The 50th annual Girl Scout Cookie Sale—the "Cookieversary"—begins Friday, January 27, and ends Monday, February 6.

There is a special 50th anniversary commemorative cookie available in Southern Pecan Pralines and Colonial Shortbread Supreme. Old favorites Samoas, Thin Mints, Do-si-dos, Tagalongs, Trefoils and Chocolate Chunks are again offered, all at $1.75 a box.

Cookies are available from Girl Scouts or by calling cookie manager Sonja Crown at 257-7215.

Deliverance seminar begins today

A teaching seminar on deliverance begins today (Thursday) and continues through Saturday at Community United Methodist Church.

Hours of the seminar each day are 10 a.m. to noon, 1 p.m. to 3 p.m., and 7 p.m. to 9 p.m. Child care is available, with Mrs. Beasley in charge.

Bob and Marlene Smith of Ruidoso are organizers of the seminar. Also teaching at the seminar are Kelly and Bert Kelo, founders of Christian World Ministries, and Jim and Jan Warner, pastors of Cornerstone Fellowship in Rowlett, Texas.

Donations sought Ward, Sparks wed

Contributions are being accepted for completion of the fence at Forest Lawn Cemetery, said cemetery board chairperson Billie Clarke.

Contributions may be made to the cemetery fence fund at Ruidoso State Bank.

Dawn Michaela Ward of Ruidoso and Tommy Karl Sparks of Ruidoso were married at 5 p.m. Saturday, January 14, at Trinity Mountain Fellowship.

Ward is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Ward of Ruidoso, and Sparks is the son of Lois Sparks of Fortales.

The Reverend Jay Graves performed the ceremony.

Bad second quarter fatal as Warriors edged by Tularosa

Ruidoso girls play tough foes

by GARY BROWN
News Sports Writer

How do you improve on near perfection? That's something the Ruidoso High School girls varsity basketball team will attempt to answer when the Warriors travel to Hot Springs Friday night and host Silver City Saturday night.

Ruidoso, 5-8 on the overall season, opened the district 3-AAA season last Saturday with a 57-40 win over Deming, the fifth-ranked AAA division team in the state.

The Warriors displayed some excellent shooting, particularly from the free throw line, against Deming. However, Ruidoso will need to at least equal that effort if it's to beat the Tigers and Silver City, both top district contenders.

Hot Springs is the defending district champion and lost just one starter. The Colts are just as tough and has a lot of team quickness.

"We're going to have to play well to win," said Warrior head coach Sergio Castanon. "T or C (Hot Springs) beat Socorro 93-30, so they're very good. Silver City is just as tough. T or C is about our size, and I think Silver City is a little bit smaller but quick."

But Castanon thinks his players are ready.

"We've had an excellent week of practice so far," he commented. "The players have been very intense in practice."

Gia Rose has probably been the most consistent player on the Warrior roster this season. The guard has been a fine playmaker and scored 30 points in the win over Deming and a one-point defeat to Clarendon the night before.

Lillian Lopez, Stacy Ivy, Jackie Jefferson and Diane McClure have been other steady performers for the Warriors.

Mavis Geronimo, Yelena Seelbach and Tami Goldsmith have also done well on the campaign.

The Warrior junior varsity will be idle Friday but will play Silver City Saturday. Ruidoso is 5-2 on the season and defeated Clarendon 45-30 last week.

Verilyn Platta and Sheila Espinosa have been sparkplugs of the Warrior junior varsity.

by GARY BROWN
News Sports Writer

Ruidoso High School's boys varsity basketball team played well for 24 minutes against host Tularosa Tuesday night, but it was the eight minutes in which the Warriors didn't play well which sealed their fate.

The Warriors were outscored 21-9 in the second period and went on to lose 66-62 to the small but spunky Wildcats.

Ruidoso, now 3-11 on the season, trailed 33-21 at halftime but fought back to almost pull the game out in front of a large and emotional Tularosa crowd.

The Warriors battled back in the third period with 6-5 Dan Ullmann scoring eight of his game-high 24 points in that quarter.

A bucket by Ullmann closed the Tularosa edge to 43-37 near the end of the period. Tularosa came back with a field goal, but Tommy Crow hit a free throw to make the score 45-38 at the quarter break.

Crow hit a field goal and a free throw to open the fourth period, closing the Wildcat edge to 45-41. However, the hosts fought back and kept at least a three-point edge the rest of the contest.

A 20-foot jump shot by Patric Pearson closed the gap to 57-54 with just over two minutes remaining. But Tularosa came right back with a field goal to pull ahead 59-54. Ullmann hit a free throw for a four-point Warrior deficit but the hosts cashed in at the free throw line to put the game away.

Ruidoso played the Wildcats at least even in every quarter but the fateful second period.

The Warriors started the game off like they were intent on blowing Tularosa out of the Wildcat gymnasium.

Ruidoso jumped off to a 7-0 lead on two field goals by Ullmann, one by sophomore Russell Easter and a free throw by Crow.

But the Wildcats fought back on the scoring of Danny Provencio and Benjie Torres and tied the score 12-12 at the period break.

Provencio led Tularosa with 16 points. Torres added 14, and Kerry Eridy scored 11.

"We just had a very bad second quarter and last half of the first quarter," said a disappointed Warrior coach Ron Geyer. "We had too many mental lapses and turned the ball over."

"We've got a good team, but we can't let ourselves get intimidated and make mistakes."

Geyer did see some positive things, however.

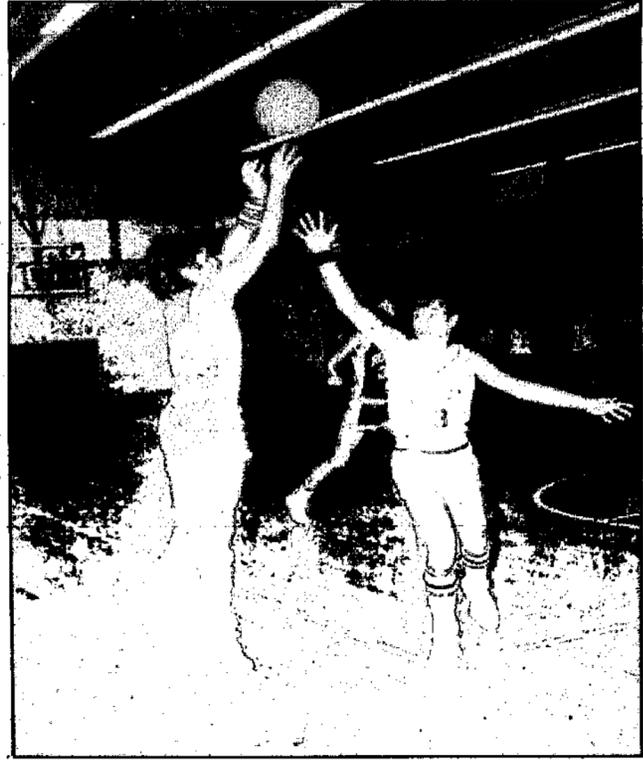

"Tommy Crow played an outstanding game for us," he remarked. "He hustled a lot and worked well with the ball."

Now the Warriors have to think about district opponent Hot Springs Friday night on the Tigers' court.

Hot Springs finished fourth in the league last season and has a young club with good size.

The Warrior boys' junior varsity and girls' varsity teams will play before the boys' varsity game. The junior varsity will start at 4 p.m.

NOTES-Ullmann was averaging 19.4 points a game entering the Tularosa contest and is now approaching the 20-point mark. Clint Bob of White Mountain Middle School was the winner of last week's Junior Warrior of the Week award.

Gilbert Rivera (left) of the Ruidoso High School boys varsity basketball team goes up for a shot over a Tularosa player in Tuesday night's game between the two teams. The host Wildcats won the game 66-62, but Rivera scored 16 points.

Ruidoso matmen will be busy

The Ruidoso High School wrestling team will get a good idea of how much the Warriors have improved this season when they compete in three matches this weekend.

Ruidoso will host Goddard of Roswell at 6 tonight. The junior varsity match will be first, followed by the varsity competition.

Saturday afternoon the Warriors will travel to Roswell to take on the Coyotes and New Mexico Military Institute (NMMI). The Roswell match will be at 2, before the Warriors travel across town to meet NMMI at 8:30.

The Warriors have competed in dual matches against all three teams already this season.

Ruidoso defeated Goddard 42-29 and NMMI 39-18. Roswell topped the Warriors 45-22 earlier this month.

Ruidoso competed in the Carlsbad Tournament last weekend and finished 11th out of 13 teams. However, that tournament is annually one of the toughest in the state, and the Warriors got some good experience from it.

However, the Warriors will be without heavyweight Joe La Rue for this weekend's matches. La Rue has a fractured rib and will be out for two weeks. The Ruidoso matman finished fourth in the heavyweight division to highlight the Warriors' performance at Carlsbad.

Phillip Herrera, who has wrestled in mainly junior varsity competition this season, will take La Rue's place.

With La Rue out, the top Ruidoso wrestlers include Scott Ciraulo (169 pounds), Gary Burgess (137 pounds) and James Herrera (149 pounds).

Ciraulo, Herrera and Burgess all competed in the state AAA division tournament last season. La Rue is a transfer from Georgia.

Cory Garner at 98 pounds, Jeff Slatton at 121 pounds and Kevin Jameson at 155 pounds have also done well this season.

The Warrior junior varsity has good depth this year and should provide some fine wrestlers for the varsity next season.

Boys junior varsity takes easy win

Coming through with one of their best efforts of the season, the Ruidoso High School boys junior varsity basketball team dumped host Tularosa 69-36 Tuesday night.

The Warriors, now 3-11 on the season, jumped off to an 8-0 edge in the first quarter and never trailed. Ruidoso's fast break worked most of the game, and the Warriors controlled the boards.

Ruidoso led 22-9 at the first period break, 39-22 at halftime and 43-26 at the end of the third quarter.

The closest Tularosa got to the Warriors in the second half was a 17-point deficit several times.

Junior center Tracy Gann led the Ruidoso offense with 14 points, 12 of them in the first half. Dion Lopez, Trent Tolbert, Omar Dix and Wes Frost each added six points in the well-balanced Warrior attack.

Ruidoso will travel to Hot Springs Friday for a district contest.

Tularosa took the lead in the second period as Ullmann got into foul trouble and set on the bench the last half of the quarter.

Besides Ullmann's 24 points, Gilbert Rivera tallied 16 points for Ruidoso. Crow and Easter each had seven points, Pearson six and Tracy Gann two.

Warriors, Tigers split tilts

Ruidoso and Capitan split a pair of games in freshman and junior varsity competition Monday at the Warrior gymnasium.

The Ruidoso B freshman team defeated the Tiger freshmen 55-45 in the first game, and the Capitan junior varsity edged the Warrior A freshman team 52-51 in the nightcap.

In the first game, the Warriors pulled away in the final quarter for the victory.

Garrett Henson led the Ruidoso scoring with 13 points, and Carl Lueras added nine. Jim Prince led Capitan with 13 points, and Jay Eldridge scored 11.

The second contest was nip and tuck most of the way. Ruidoso just missed a chance to win the game at the buzzer.

The Tigers had a balanced attack in their win as did the Warriors.

Rue led the Ruidoso attack with 13 points. Alan Kirgan added 12, and Lueras had 11.

The Warrior freshmen will travel to Tularosa today for a 1 p.m. game.

Braves top Hagerman

The White Mountain Middle School boys A and B basketball teams hope to improve on already successful seasons when they travel to Holloman this afternoon.

The B game will begin at 3:30, and the A contest will follow that.

White Mountain is 8-2 in A action and 7-1 in B play.

Monday the boys B team and the girls team took easy victories over host Hagerman. The boys team took a 26-9 win, and the girls came out on top 16-8.

Dennis Ullmann, a 4-2 seventh grader, led the Brave boy scorers with 13 points. Rusty Shelton and Charles Smith each added five points.

White Mountain trailed by four points early in the first quarter but soon gained the lead and controlled play the rest of the game.

In the girls game, Shannon Lee led a balanced Brave attack with six points.

with Gary Brown

Anyone who saw Sunday's Super Bowl XVIII between the Los Angeles Raiders and Washington Redskins must have thought they were watching reruns of the first (Super Bowl) when the old Green Bay Packers were dominating their foes. Indeed, not even the Packers were able to match the total display of power Los Angeles showed in taking a 39-9 victory, the most one-sided contest in the history of the National Football League championship game.

I picked the Raiders to win by four points, mainly because I thought their defensive back would at least limit Redskins quarterback Joe Theismann's effectiveness.

Well, the Raider defensive backfield not only limited Theismann's passing, they shut it down!

Theismann had two passes picked off (one of them returned for a touchdown in what has to be the dumbest play call in Super Bowl history), was sacked six times and completed just 16 of 35 pass attempts.

Raider cornerbacks Lester Hayes and Mike Haynes virtually shut off Theismann's passes to his wide receivers.

The one interception returned for a touchdown occurred with 14 seconds remaining in the first half. Washington had the ball at the Redskins' 12, and most observers felt they would run the clock out.

After all, Washington was still within reaching distance of the Raiders, trailing 14-3. And the Redskins were going to receive the ball at the beginning of the second half.

But the Redskins decided to try and catch the Raiders by surprise by throwing a short screen pass near the sidelines.

Joe Washington was the intended receiver but the ball never got to him. Raider linebacker Jack Squirek got in front of Washington to intercept it and ran in for the score.

That gave Los Angeles a 31-3 advantage at halftime, and the Redskins never recovered.

Of course, it's doubtful that Washington would have beaten the Raiders even if the ball hadn't been intercepted. But that turnover certainly put Los Angeles even more in the driver's seat.

The Raiders have made a club history out of making big plays, and they certainly lived up to their billing by the interception-turned-touchdown and the blocked punt for their first score.

Washington also entered the game with a reputation for making the big play and an ability to put lots of points on the scoreboard.

The Redskins looked awesome in rolling over the Los Angeles Rams 51-7 in the first round of the National Conference playoffs and had set a single season league record for points scored.

If anyone had told me after the Ram game that the Redskins would lose the Super Bowl by 29 points, I would have thought they belonged in an institution.

But Washington had the misfortune to catch a Raider team that was peaking at Super Bowl time.

Los Angeles's offensive and defensive units played near-perfect games, with running back Marcus Allen stealing the limelight from Redskin fullback John Riggins. The Raider specialty teams more than performed up to their high standards.

In the post-game lockerroom celebration, Raider owner Al Davis called his latest team the best in the club's history and one of the best teams of all time.

That's something even Green Bay Packer fans would have to agree with.

Capitan opens district vs. Cloudercroft

The Capitan High School boys and girls varsity basketball teams will open district competition Friday against powerful Cloudercroft in the Tigers' gymnasium.

Capitan is 9-4 in boys competition and 8-7 in girls action. However, Cloudercroft is generally rated as the district's toughest team in both divisions.

"They're the team to beat," said Capitan head boys coach Kendall Lawlis. "They've got one big guy about 6-4 and several good guards."

"We'll have to get back on defense. They run the fast break better than any team we've faced this year. We're going to try and slow it down."

Capitan has a well-balanced team with good height and rebounding strength.

Eddie Davis, a 6-2 senior, leads the Tiger scorers with a 19.4 average, one of the top averages in the state.

Todd Proctor and Danny Cummins add rebounding and scoring ability to the Capitan lineup. Sammy Castillo and Dewey Keller are good, steady guards. Troy Keller has also helped the Tigers' cause.

"We're probably more physical than they are," Lawlis admitted.

The Tigers finished fifth in the Dexter Tournament last weekend, losing only to eventual champion Hatch in the first round.

Capitan's girls lost a couple of tough decisions to Dexter and Jal last weekend. Dexter topped the Tigers 54-51, and Jal beat them 47-44.

The Tigers have been getting consistent play from Tracy Herd and Shelly Eldridge this season. Eldridge is also a fine rebounder.

Becky Phillips, Tiffany Huey and Becky Huey have also done well this season.

But Cloudercroft has plenty of talent on its team.

The Bears have good height and usually work the press well. They have steadily improved over the course of the season.

There will be junior varsity games for both boys and girls before the varsity games Friday. The first game will begin at 2.

The Carrizozo High School boys and girls basketball teams will open the district season this weekend against Hagerman and Lake Arthur.

Carrizozo will host Hagerman Friday night and travel to Lake Arthur Saturday. There will just be varsity games Friday night, but a boys junior

Grizzly cagers ready

The Carrizozo High School boys and girls basketball teams will open the district season this weekend against Hagerman and Lake Arthur.

Carrizozo will host Hagerman Friday night and travel to Lake Arthur Saturday. There will just be varsity games Friday night, but a boys junior varsity contest will be played Saturday.

Carrizozo's boys varsity is 6-9 on the season and is coming off losses to Mountainair and Magdalena last weekend. Mountainair beat the Grizzlies 53-38, and Magdalena topped Carrizozo 67-38.

John Roueche was brilliant for the Grizzlies in the two losses. He scored 29 points against Magdalena and 20 against Mountainair. Kenneth Cresshaw scored 10 points against Mountainair.

The Grizzly girls took impressive victories against Mountainair and Magdalena. Carrizozo topped Mountainair 47-29 and Magdalena 41-10.

Christetta Chavez scored 21 points to spark the Grizzlies' win over Mountainair. In the Magdalena game, Mary Jane Ferguson tallied 12 points, Chavez added 11, and Anna Luceras had 10.

Carrizozo coach Ron Becker feels this weekend's games will be tough.

"When you get to district, all the games are tough because all the teams know the importance of them," he said.

The Grizzly girls have already played Hagerman and Lake Arthur in the Smokey Bear Classic. Carrizozo beat Lake Arthur 45-35 and Hagerman 35-31.

Helping the team

left) Frank Pope, Mel Glenn and Albert Richardson. The check will go towards sponsoring a Police Athletic League team in the Little League program. Richardson will coach the team.

New racing organization started

The new Southeastern New Mexico Timing Association includes eight Ruidoso drag racers.

The association also has about 20 members from Roswell and several from Hobbs and Carlsbad.

Jessie Lowery of Carlsbad has been hired by the association to be the track manager of Roswell Dragway. The group plans to begin races in early March.

Rick Calloway and Ronnie Capps were elected to serve as an executive committee.

When the season begins, racers will compete for cash prizes and for points to be credited toward the national association's Division Four bracket racing series.

Reserve boosts manpower

by DARRELL J. PEHR
News Staff Writer

The newly formed Lincoln County Sheriff's Reserve consists of 37 members county-wide. When certified in certain areas such as the use of firearms, each reservist serves as an actual Deputy of the Sheriff's Department.

In a recent case, that meant standing guard duty at the Ruidoso-Hondo Valley Hospital over a patient who had been shot during a dispute on Nogal Hill. The reservists are strictly volunteers.

"These people can really be an asset," said Sheriff's Deputy Chuck Flanagan. "It really extends our manpower team."

The Reserve was formed due to manpower needs, according to Flanagan. He said the Sheriff's Department felt there was a need for added manpower, and decided to start the program in May 1983.

In addition to the guard duty, the reservists have been used in searches for lost hunters and during the Aspen Festival in Ruidoso, according to Flanagan.

The reservists meet the second and fourth Tuesday of each month at the County Sub-Office in Ruidoso. Flanagan said they are trained both in the classroom and in the field in the areas of police ethics; the legal aspects of deadly force; domestic violence; patrol investigation; criminal investigation; and use of firearms. Flanagan said future training programs for the reservists may include tracking training from Border Patrol officials, and training in building searches, vehicle stops, hostage situations and civil rights.

One program the Reserve will be completely responsible for will be the county's part in the National Crime Prevention Program. The program will involve a national identification system that will enable law enforcement officials across the country to identify stolen property from New Mexico.

The reservists here will spearhead a campaign designed to have local property owners mark their belongings with an identifying number issued by the Reserve. The number will be used to trace the property back to the owner if it ever is stolen. Flanagan said one reason the reservists have not been used by the Department as much as possible is that they do not have liability insurance. He said the Department cannot afford the insurance, but it is necessary to protect reservists while on duty. One effort being mounted this weekend by the Reserve to raise funds for the insurance is a benefit dance. The event begins at 9 p.m. Saturday, January 28, at Prime Time Restaurant.

According to Helen Kilgore, organizer of the event, response from people and businesses in door-prize donations has been very good. In addition to the long list of door prizes, several items will be auctioned off.

Those items include donations from Sierra Blanca Ski Resort, Terri Sodd, Gordon Suidow, Mimi Jungbluth, G. Gillem, the Inn of the Mountain Gods, True Value Hardware, Ruidoso Wholesale Lumber, Rocking P Studio and the Lincoln County Sheriff's Reserves. Entertainment at the dance will be provided by the KREB Radio Band. For tickets or information, call Kilgore at 268-5689.

The Tuesday night meeting of the Lincoln County Sheriff's Reserve was well attended by reservists. Discussion during the meeting centered around preparations for the benefit dance for the Reserve to be held this weekend. Directing the meeting were (from left) Sheriff's Deputy Chuck Flanagan, Chief Deputy Charles Cox and Reserve Officer Helen Kilgore.

Richardson scores 43 points in Eagle win

Bill Richardson is proving to be a dominant player in the Ruidoso Men's Basketball League.

The ex-Ruidoso High School athlete scored 43 points while leading the Barney Rue Eagles to a 106-29 victory over First City National Bank Tuesday night in the White Mountain Middle School gymnasium. Last week Richardson scored 41 points in a game.

Pete Montoya added 25 points for the winners. Danny Bryant led First City National Bank with 10 points.

In Tuesday's other game, the Ruidoso-Hondo Valley Hospital topped The Incredible 58-44.

Richard Portillo led the winners with 24 points. Benny Coca led The Incredible with 19 points.

Sunday's action saw the Ruidoso Animal Clinic Cobras top the T-Birds 78-69, and the Chiefs beat First City National Bank 95-19.

Jim McCarvey scored 22 points, and Lynn Willard hit for 20 in leading the Cobras to their win. Ron Cook tallied 20 points and Albert Gomez 18 for the T-Birds.

Gurden Howell led the Chiefs to their victory with 33 points.

Action will continue this Sunday with the first game starting at 5 p.m. in the Brave gymnasium.

Good news and the love of Christ

Bruce and Carolyn Jackson, of Las Cruces, will be speaking at the 7 p.m. Monday, February 6, meeting of the Women's Aglow Fellowship of Ruidoso. The meeting will be held in the La Paz room of the Ruidoso Inn.

The Jacksons, members of a lay-witness team, will be speaking on the "Good News and the love of Christ," and the way Christ has been instrumental in their lives.

The Jacksons are the owners of the Ruidoso Dairy Queen and the "Tank and Tumm" convenience store and gas station. They also own several businesses in Silver City.

Racquet Club adds improvements, remodels racquetball courts

by BILLY ALLSTETTER
News Staff Writer

The physical fitness craze sweeping the United States has even made its way up the hill to Ruidoso.

The Sierra Swim and Racquet Club is responding by completely remodeling its two existing racquetball courts, and making plans for the resurfacing of its tennis courts and the addition of two to three more racquetball courts outside.

New fiberglass walls will provide a faster playing surface on the racquetball courts, said project supervisor Charles House. The floors have been refinished, with one-third of one floor completely replaced. Sturdier Lucite SAR doors have been installed at the courts, as well as "goody boxes" and hooks to hold a net for volleyball, said House.

The courts will be ready for play Tuesday, he said.

House added that he has heard so many people talking about the need for more racquetball courts that he suggested the construction of three more courts over existing tennis courts outside. He said he is 99 percent sure owners Paul Thorpe and Mike Compton will approve the suggestion.

Club secretary Elaine Carlson said six of the eight tennis courts will be resurfaced this spring with an "omni surface," which she described as similar to Astroturf. She said the surface plays hard and fast but is easy on players' joints.

The club also has an outdoor pool open in the summer, plus a sauna, therapy pool and hydrofitness conditioning equipment. Aerobics classes and massages are also available through the club, which is located on Jack Little Drive.

Manager Ted Marolt said the club offers several types of memberships, with initiation fees ranging from $200 to $800 and dues averaging about $1.25 per day.

Charles House puts in new flooring at the Sierra Swim and Racquet Club racquetball courts.

Downs okays fire truck financing

by BETH HALLER
News Staff Writer

The Ruidoso Downs board of trustees approved financing of a garbage truck at their Monday night meeting.

The village will have a five-year lease program for the truck at an interest rate of 9.75 percent with Ruidoso State Bank. This will require $25,000 down.

For the financing, the trustees approved the transfer of $38,000 from revenue sharing into the sanitation fund. This will provide $25,000 for the truck lease-purchase; $7,500 for dumpsters; $1,000 for repairs and maintenance left over from the old truck; and $2,500 for anticipated repairs and maintenance of the new truck.

Trustee Harrold Mansell questioned whether the funds allotted for repair and maintenance of the new truck would be enough.

At the last meeting, trustees accepted a bid of $65,726 from Contractor's Equipment and Supply for the garbage truck.

The trustees also approved specifications for a 40-by-100-foot metal building for the fire department.

It will be a turnkey job, fire department director Roger Riley said. There will be 90 percent paid on completion and the rest will be paid after 30 days if the building conforms to specifications.

The building will be ready for bid after the wage scale required for public buildings is added to the specifications.

The trustees approved an election board consisting of Hazel Lawing as judge; Alice Allison, Dale McClesky and Bea Herrera as clerks; and Anna Carpenter and Mrs. Elmon Randolph as alternates.

In other business, the trustees:

—Approved the 1982-83 audit report.

—Approved the transfer of $499.80 in disaster funds to the general fund.

—Approved the transfer of $258.85 from general fund to utility fund.

—Approved the request for the purchase of radio equipment for the fire department.

—Approved the fire department's request for the sale of their 1975 Plymouth Fury.

Video winner

The Ruidoso High School junior class has drawn three numbers to determine the winner of a video tape recorder.

The first person to turn in one of the follow numbers will win the recorder. They are 684985, 685341 and 684980.

Anyone with one of those numbers should call Eddie Parker at the high school as soon as possible (257-4001).

The Silver Lining
by Daniel Agnew Storm

Thanks To Jeff Darden And Modesto Chavez And His Boys

There is a great little bull on the place called Easter Kid who once in a while gets the wandering blues, and is a wizard at getting on to the highway. Jeff Darden and the other State Highway Patrolmen have been very helpful, coming to the rescue when the bull gets out, and helping to put him back. My great little neighbor, Gerry Tully, has put him off the road into his place several times. Allen Reynolds and others have helped also. And all the time I have been trying to stop up the bull's escape routes.

Toward the middle of the month, here was Easter out again and Jeff and Gerry put him into Gerry's place. Jeff then asked me where he gets out. I showed him where, through some kind of oversight, a fence had not been built across a high dirt bluff, under the impression that no animal would climb this steep place. Here were the tracks of the bull coming up onto the road.

Jeff said, "I'll get ahold of the Highway department and have this fenced for you, Dan."

This was good news, but I did not think the work would be started as soon as it was. Hardly had the weather cleared up, when here about three days later here were the State Highway boys over building the fence, and yesterday, January twenty three, it was completed. Now there is no way Easter Kid can get on the highway, and I am very grateful to Jeff Darden and Modesto Chavez and his crew for being true friends in need and the best of neighbors.

"Fire In The Mountain. Run, Boys, Run!"

So go the words to a very old fiddle tune. Here on the slopes of the White Mountain we do not have the earthquakes, typhoons, cyclones, tornados and massive floods that they do other places. About the only threat we have is fire. Fire to a home or business is bad enough, but the worst of it is that if the fire gets away to the grass and the woods, it can "set the world on fire."

Through the years I have tried to make sure that there is absolutely no chance of a fire getting started. And yet the fire danger seems to find new ways of striking.

Just after dark I had built a fire in the fireplace and was walking out to the pump house. As I turned back to look at the house my heart came into my mouth. The fire-place chimney was spouting fire. Then I was thankful it was only the chimney and the roof. I put the ladder up to the roof ready to go up if need be, and then I saw sparks falling into the snow.

Inside the house I heard the phone ringing. It was my good little neighbor just up the way, Viola Montes.

"Dan," she said, "are you all right? Is your house burning?"

I explained about the chimney, and told her things were under control.

"Oh, Dan," she said, "I have called the fire department." I told her that she had certainly done the right thing, but that I would call them and tell them things were all right.

I asked the police officer at Ruidoso Downs if I could get hold of the fire department.

He asked, "Is it about Dan Storm's house?"

I said that, yes it was I speaking, and that it was my chimney and that things were all right.

So he said the firemen were about to start and that he would tell them that they need not come down. I could hear the siren over the phone. The fire department had sprung into lighting action.

The sight of the chimney belching fire was a new sight to me, and was a fearsome sight to me even though I knew it was under control.

Think what the blaze in the night looked like to folks seeing it right over the house!

After the fire died down and no longer showed at the chimney top, I look up the road and here came some lights. I wondered if this were some fire fighters that did not get the word.

It was a pickup and at the wheel was a handsome young lady. It was Susan Montes, wife of Munroy Montes. She had come all the way over the rough unfamiliar road in the dark to see if I were all right. I had the feeling that I was talking to a true little Angel of Mercy.

The next morning the Glencoe Postmaster, Della Bonnell, told me that David Bonnell, Kenneth Nosker, and Dennis Nosker had sprung into action and were on their way up when they heard that things were under control!

How do you thank people for something like this? How can you be grateful enough to live in a community of such friends?

Ever since childhood when I used to see the fire wagons pulled by galloping horses, I have admired firemen.

So, around here we are all firemen. Years ago Paul Jones saw a grass fire near the house, and sent in the alarm, and Bones Wright drove the fire wagon down and put out the fire. There are two mighty big words when they come from the heart. And I say Thank You to all of you who showed such a fine, helpful spirit.

Editorial

Let's make one thing clear regarding Fort Stanton Hospital.

Those 191 jobs must be preserved—for the sake of the people who hold them and for the economic well-being of Lincoln County.

The Anaya administration and the Legislature have clashed over the proposed transition of the hospital to a treatment center for alcoholics. The House Appropriations and Finance Committee's refusal to fund the transition was the latest play with the political football Fort Stanton has become.

But it is the employees—not the administration or the legislators—who stand to lose the most. Health and Environment Secretary Robert McNeill, evidently miffed at the Legislature's rejection of his proposal, has shown signs of hedging on his promise that the jobs will be retained at Fort Stanton—whatever its use.

The subcommittee that recommended withholding transition funding acknowledged it was influenced by a public meeting in Capitan where relatives of Fort Stanton clients argued against the change in use.

This proves again that input from constituents can make a difference.

Everyone in Lincoln County has a stake in Fort Stanton continuing to function with its full corps of employees. We suggest you write or call our legislators now and urge them to press for a guarantee of those jobs.—TP

Inside the Capitol

by Fred McCaffrey

SANTA FE—We could end up with a package that won't stay packed.

That's what we'll get if the manner of increasing taxes chosen by this Legislature is made up of a little of this proposal and a little of that one.

Since there will be many more tax-increase propositions than the ones we have so far heard about from the Governor before the 1984 session closes, that could be how we end up.

Needless to say, snips and snails and puppy-dog tails don't make for good tax law.

That's why some people are now talking about another approach to the whole matter.

They would agree to go ahead and fund any increase in taxes purely with gross receipts revenue, as the Governor now proposes to do. The difference in their approach, however, is that they would write the change into a constitutional amendment.

The reason for that is simple. They want the measure to go before the people for a vote, and the only provision in our law for that is through a constitutional change.

Here are some of the arguments they give for the proposition:

—This session is too crowded with essential material to allow for the kind of consideration a tax increase should be given. Putting it before the people would delay its enactment until at least next November.

—Schools have not yet demonstrated clearly that additional taxes are needed for their improvement. This plan would give them time to make their case before the voters.

—And finally, if the people at large vote to impose such a tax on themselves, there could be little subsequent grumbling about it.

House Speaker Ray Sanchez has found a measure he can support wholeheartedly.

It's that proposal to change state law in such a way as to lower the price of natural gas produced for the intrastate market.

Sanchez is from Bernalillo county, and the measure will "play" there. After all, it is expected to save the average residential consumer of natural gas something like $80 a year.

Other legislators will like it as well. It ought to save farmers who use the product to power irrigation pumps about $1000 a year, small commercial customers something on the order of $500 a year and large industrial users many thousands of dollars.

Who can be against that? The producers of natural gas, that's who—along with their representatives in the Legislature.

If the state wanted to do this, they will ask, why did it extend the natural gas pricing act for two more years in the 1983 session?

And since the proposal Representative Sanchez is carrying for the Governor would abrogate existing contracts between producers and buyers, you can count on years of litigation resulting.

You can also be sure the state will lose something on the order of $9 million to $11 million in taxes per year as a result of the move, which will have to be made up somewhere.

All in all, while the proposition has some charm, it is full of snarls which will not easily be unravelled.

Legislative sessions start off slowly, with the introduction of bills principally of interest to their sponsors. This year is no exception, so we get measures to provide special license plates for holders of the Purple Heart and resolutions of sympathy with members of the Baha'i faith in Iran.

But while that process is going on, the legislators who matter are touching base and deciding what exactly it is they want to accomplish. When that decision begins to jell, it is up to the leadership to gather consensus behind it.

Out of that comes the final legislative package, which is usually different indeed from the proposals getting the headlines before the process is accomplished.

Letters to the editor

(Editor's note: The following two letters were written to John Hightower, chairman of the Lincoln County Board of Commissioners.)

DEAR EDITOR:

I was born an Easterner, and I live in Texas, but my heart belongs to New Mexico. Therefore please excuse my presumptions in asking you and your colleagues to enforce the zoning laws of Lincoln.

Lincoln is a unique historic gem, and it disturbs me when efforts are made to disregard or repeal its zoning ordinances. A properly prepared and strictly enforced zoning regulation is all that stands between historic Lincoln and cultural chaos. Once that integrity is breached, Lincoln will be just another town, its significance over.

I have some qualifications for my opinion. I've been past president of the El Paso County Historical Commission, board member of the Mission Trail, and founder and five times president of the Mission Heritage Association of El Paso. I've also written six books about the El Paso and New Mexico Southwest, one a biography of Pat Garrett, the tall sheriff who killed Billy the Kid.

If you can visit El Paso, I will offer you a tour of our Rio Grande Valley, a tragic and thoroughly unnecessary example of what happens when zoning fails to protect a historic landmark. The Valley contains two of the oldest missions in the United States (Ysleta and Socorro), both of which came from New Mexico. The Valley holds the old Presidio of San Elizario, also the first El Paso County seat. This El Paso Valley has farms, buildings, and people whose roots reach back for generations. The Valley in its own way was like Lincoln.

Because of indifferent zoning, El Pasoans are contributing to the destruction of their Valley, and in a sense to who they are as a people. Their historical heritage is being ravaged. During the last ten years, the Valley has become the country trash bin, and a home for ramshackle trailers, rotting car lots, old buses on cinder blocks, open sewage and fire hazards. Not many tourists go there anymore, partly because they are afraid, and partly because there is so little left to see.

What happened was people. They wanted to live in the Valley. It was peaceful, serene and inexpensive. Many had retirement incomes, and resented the hassles of "unfair" zoning. The Commissioners wanted to do what was right. Why should others be deprived of living in a Valley simply because they were not born there? Were they not taxpayers? The new residents had their way, and today their presence has destroyed the very atmosphere that attracted them. The Valley is no longer pristine; it is a decaying monument to the best of intentions.

I spent two years as Executive Assistant to El Paso Mayor Tom Westfall, and I recognize the pressures exerted upon you for the relaxation of zoning in Lincoln. Yet, you have a responsibility to resist. You have an obligation to help perpetuate a world-famous community.

The hamburger joints, service stations, grocery stores, trailer lots, motorcycle repair shops, squalid motels and new settlers you will have with you always. There is only one Lincoln. Please dig in your heels and fight to preserve it.

Sincerely,
LEON C. METZ

DEAR EDITOR:

As a historian and citizen of New Mexico, I am writing to express my interest in and concern for the continued preservation of Lincoln Town. As you are aware, Lincoln is nothing less than a national historic treasure—one of those places that all Americans can visit and come away with an authentic sense of the importance of our past.

Not long ago I attended a celebration at Lubbock's Ranching Heritage Center, a magnificent place that honors Panhandle pioneers. An old-time cattleman I met there told me: "You folks in New Mexico are the only ones I know who work as hard as we do to preserve your history." And, the fact is that in my travels around the country, I find that we New Mexicans are regarded as leaders in historic preservation. Of course, it is a national reputation that we have earned with hard work and by caring.

Lincoln, as you know, is protected by a zoning ordinance. All fair-minded people, I'm certain, feel a bit uneasy about zoning, for it seems to intrude upon our cherished belief that the individual can do with his property as he wishes. Against that, we have to carefully balance the fact that a place like Lincoln is a vital part of America's heritage in which every citizen has a stake. I emphasized that point to the children of this state in a social studies textbook I wrote, now being used in many New Mexico schools. I believe that it is important for young people, not only to appreciate our heritage, but to develop a sense of stewardship toward the land to which they owe so much.

It is my earnest hope that the members of the Lincoln County Commission—as persons of vision, dedication, and patriotism—will work faithfully to see that the Lincoln zoning ordinance is enforced, and that any problems, arising therefrom, are addressed with thoughtfulness and flexibility. In taking that approach, you will earn the gratitude of all New Mexicans.

Yours respectfully,
MARC SIMMONS, PH.D.,
Chairman, NM Committee for the Promotion of History

DEAR EDITOR:

In response to your editorial (Thursday, January 12, 1984, regarding the lack of service by the County Offices), I have often wondered WHEN the community of Ruidoso will bring forth the referendum to relocate the county seat to Ruidoso. The inefficiency and impracticality of the present location is obvious, and that condition will be more impractical with each nail that is driven in Ruidoso. This move should have been done before the beautiful court house was built in Carrizozo. Think about it.

Reporter's Round

by Darrell Pehr

My wife, Linda, and I are expecting our first baby on March 2.

A baby! About eight months ago if you would have asked me how I felt about babies, I probably would have said something extremely vague, like, "Oh they're short and kind of cute and they make gurgly sounds."

I hadn't been around babies much since my younger brothers and sisters had been babies, and I hadn't really taken the time to sit around and think about what it would be like to have a baby around. Babies were something other people had and I had never really paid much attention to them.

Had I been approached with the same question a few months ago, I probably would have answered somewhat differently. The first signs of a baby had definitely shown up by then, and this impending baby had already made a mark on our lives.

"Oh, babies make your wife sick in the morning and make her have a big tummy and they cost a lot," I might have callously commented at the time. The only results I could see at that time from the baby were somewhat negative, and I was more worried about how we were going to pay the hospital bills than how it would be to have a baby around.

Recently, however, the reality of having a baby is becoming more and more clear each day. Linda and I had the opportunity this week to actually see the baby through an "Ultrasound" at the Ruidoso-Hondo Valley Hospital. The procedure uses sound waves to produce an image of the infant on a small viewing screen.

Somehow, being there and seeing that little baby moving around inside Linda made me really think about it.

A baby! A cute little person who will crawl all around that I can throw up in the air and catch and tickle and watch grow up. Will it be a girl or a boy. What will the baby look like? What will we name it? How exciting. I am going to be a father!

We decided we should start getting serious about having this baby. We decided to make a final decision about what to name the baby. We had talked about naming the baby several times before, and hadn't gotten too far.

I had suggested several outrageous names for the baby, like Bartlett Pehr or Pierre Perry Pehr. We had tossed around the idea of naming the baby after someone famous or a relative. We thought about coming up with some master plan for all the babies to come, like naming them all with "D" or "L" first names, or rhyming all the names.

But somehow Darrell, Linda, Larry, Harry, Perry and Barry Pehr didn't sound too good for a Christmas card.

We did decide to give the baby a name that is special, but not weird. We decided pronounceability and a good flow is also important, but we still have not made a final decision on what to name the baby. After all this thought, we'll probably end up making a snap decision the moment before the baby is born!

With the naming decision still in limbo, we went on to other things. What else will the baby need? My questions on the subject were many. Does the baby need a crib or a bed or what? What kind of clothes does a baby need? Do we buy groceries for the baby yet? What does a baby eat? Do we buy the baby shoes or just socks or slippers and socks or what? And what about diapers? Oh, no! The baby will be wearing diapers!

Fortunately, Linda knew the answers to most of my questions, and a few good books answered many of the rest. We have found ourselves eagerly anticipating the experience of raising children. My anxiousness about affording the delivery of the baby has been lessened by the excitement of an addition to our family.

And if you would ask me today how I feel about the coming of our baby, I might say something a little different than I would have in past months. I would say, "I can hardly wait!"

Capitan Fire

It's early July of some summer and no rain has fallen in Capitan since May. The brittle-dry pinon and juniper trees and browning range grass growing on a hillside just outside of town lie dormant, waiting for water.

ches fall to the ground, the grass blades and soon the wildfire is spreading out across the rangeland.

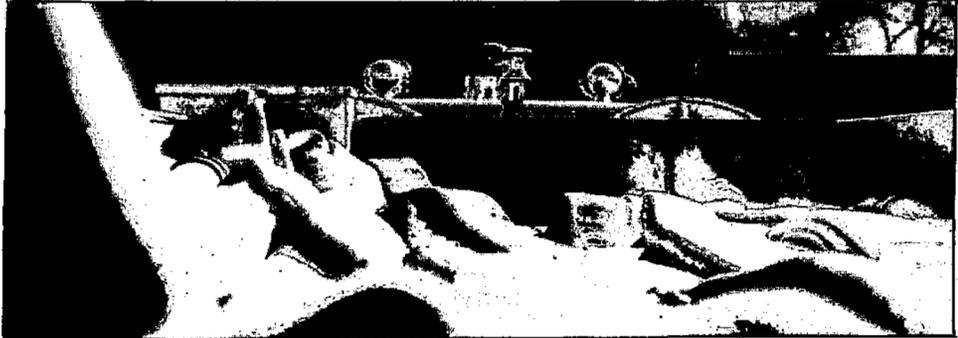

A storm front approaches, but the thickening black clouds seem to be heading instead for the nearby mountains. A stray thundercloud blocks out the rays of the sun, and occasional flashes of lightning shake the parched branches of the pines.

Within minutes, townspeople see the hillside fire. Someone runs to the Capitan Fire Department headquarters and pushes a button outside the garaged fire engines. That causes a roof-top siren to wail, and soon Fire Department volunteers swarm to the building. The first volunteer uses the new paging system to alert other "beeper"-carrying department members, and within minutes the force is mobilized.

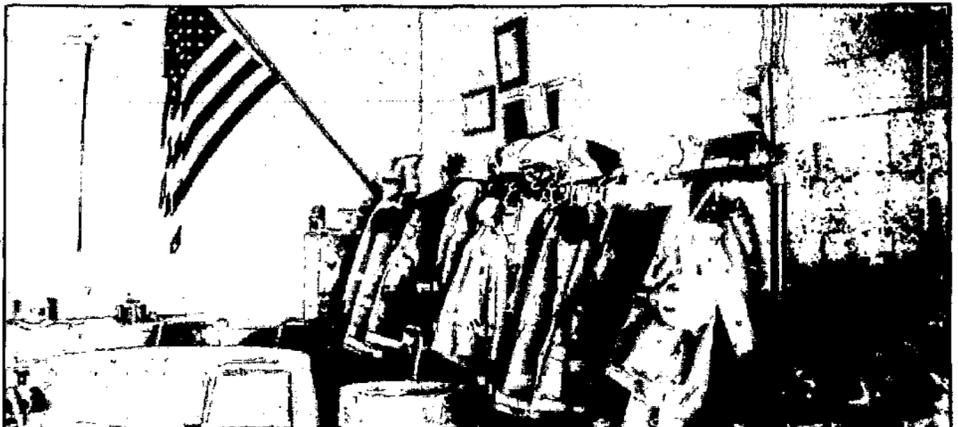

A bolt of lightning snakes down from the dark canopy and strikes the top of a tall pine, splitting off and igniting several branches. The bran-

Department has teamwork

Wright. The department maintains a four-truck fleet of fire prevention and rescue vehicles at their main station and a sub-station located in the new subdivision north of town.

According to Wright, the department is primarily responsible for responding to fires within the Capitán village limits, but may also go to fires outside that area if they are requested.

Some of the most common calls the department receives, according to Wright, are grass fires and chimney fires. Wright estimated the department receives one call every two months, not counting false alarms. He said he has seen a decrease in the number of fires since he joined the department in 1973.

According to Wright, when an alarm is sounded, at least three volunteers must arrive before a truck goes out. That way, when they arrive on the scene of a fire, enough manpower will be available to properly man the truck and fight the fire.

Wright said one volunteer drives and is responsible for the truck on the scene. He also operates the truck-mounted pump.

The second volunteer is the nozzle operator. He directs the stream of water to the fire.

The third volunteer is an observer and assistant to the nozzle operator. He watches for possible hazardous situations the nozzle operator may not notice. He is mainly present as a safety factor, Wright said.

The department has no specialists, Wright noted. Instead, every volunteer is trained in all areas of fire fighting and rescue. Wright said the training is an ongoing process and they hope to be able to send some department members to special training seminars soon.

According to Wright, the department does not solicit members. "We feel we'll get more competent members if they volunteer on their own," he said.

Although the department members are not reimbursed in any way monetarily, Wright said there are many rewards to being a volunteer.

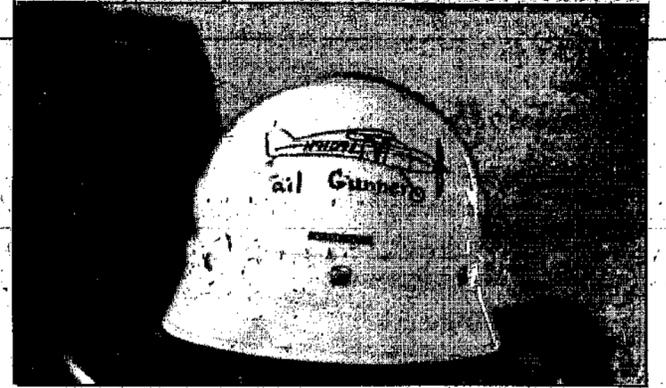

"I think there's a lot of pride that goes with it," he said. "It gives you a lot of satisfaction knowing you're donating your time to a worthy cause. You're not only helping yourself, but you're helping your community, too. I feel we have one of the best departments in the state."

The department is directed by fire chief Virgil Hall Sr. He has been a member since joining the force in 1946. Hall said he could not remember the first fire he went out on.

"There's been too many fires since then," he said. "It's dangerous and exciting. There's no two fires alike."

And a hillside fire near Capitán some hot July afternoon never really got started before the volunteers of the Capitán Fire Department responded and brought the menacing, pine-fueled flames to an end.

The fire helmets of the members of the Capitán Fire Department are signed with their radio call signs. Virgil Hall's helmet reflects his involvement with flying and his experiences during World War II.

Virgil Hall: from tailgunner to fire chief

Tail Gunner. The marker-written name is printed on the fire helmet of Capitán Fire Department Chief Virgil Hall Sr. Above the name is a hand-drawn image of a light plane.

Those and other names and drawings on the helmets of department volunteers are representative of the radio "handle" or call sign of each helmet wearer. Hall said his is a reflection of the light acrobatic plane he flies, and of his days as a B-29 tail gunner in World War II.

Hall joined the department in 1946. He has been chief since 1971. Hall came to the department after fighting fires of another kind.

Hall is the veteran of 36 combat missions over Japan, Burma, China and India. He served as tail gunner and assistant engineer in the 20th and 21st Air Force of the Army Air Force. Hall flew over 1,500 miles in the B-29, 400 of which were in combat.

During the war, Hall had three confirmed downings of Japanese aircraft as tail gunner. As well as shooting at the Japanese, Hall said, his aircraft was often shot at. After a first-time-out mission in one factory-new B-29, Hall said, they counted over 1,500 bullet holes in the body of the airplane.

Hall himself had one close call. On a bombing mission, Hall and the other 10 crewmembers of the B-29 found themselves being pursued by a tiny but dangerous Japanese Zero fighter plane. The enemy fighter momentarily appeared in Hall's gun sights at the rear of the plane, but then veered away to fly off the wing of the bigger plane. Hall said he had leaned forward in the glass-windowed tail gunner pod to see where the fighter had gone, when a live shell fired by the fighter pierced the fuselage of the bomber, creased the back of Hall's neck and blew a man-sized exit hole in the other wall of the plane. He still has the scar where the shell seared his neck as it passed.

"If I hadn't been leaning forward it'd have blown my head off. It was awful close," he said, fingering the scar on his neck.

Hall believes he should have received a Purple Heart for the injury.

"But I didn't bug 'em for it," he said of the award.

During his time at the tail gunner's station, Hall saw some spectacular scenes.

On one bombing mission to Japan, Hall's and 14 other B-29's were flying in formation. Reaching the Japanese coast, the planes flew over a fishing village. Antiaircraft fire from the village hit one of the B-29's with a direct hit. As the plane began to fall, Hall recognized it as one manned by airmen who lived in his barracks.

"I saw all 11 parachutes open," he said. "We started to circle in formation to see where they landed. About that time a Jap Zero flew up from the village and started to fire at the men in the parachutes. I called our pilot on the intercom and said on the next pass, I would take a shot at that Zero, but before I could, another B-29 got him. Then the Jap pilot parachuted out."

Hall said he again called his pilot to find out whether or not to fire on the parachuting Japanese pilot, but his pilot demanded that he not fire. Hall said another B-29 did drop out of formation and strafe the Japanese parachuter.

"It cut him completely in half," Hall said. Attempts after the war to locate any airmen who had safely landed in the fishing village produced only a shoebox of identifying dogtags, Hall said.

"We saw a lot of our buddies go down," he said.

During bombing missions, Hall said it was a common practice for crewmembers to take turns searching the ocean and coastal areas for enemy ships. On one bombing mission, he was watching the ocean with a pair of binoculars when he spotted a camouflaged Japanese warship in dry-dock on the coast. He notified his pilot, who said they would note the position of the ship, but would go on to their primary target, somewhere further inland.

"I saw the people on the ship scatter like ants," Hall said. "Then I saw a plane just off our wing open its bombay doors. The whole load of bombs dropped out. I could see them falling all together. They hit the ship directly in the center. The ends of the ship folded up, and the center disappeared. The plane circled around and headed back to base."

Hall said when the other planes returned to the base, his pilot, as lead pilot, cornered the other pilot and demanded to know why he had bombed the ship. It was a policy that their squadron did not bomb shipping, but inland targets.

Hall said the other pilot was surprised and said he knew nothing of the ship. He said he was having engine problems and had to drop his load to make it back to the base. That they hit the ship was just a coincidence.

"It was just a freak of war," Hall said.

The war lasted a long three years for Hall. During that time he earned the Air Medal with three Oak Leaf clusters, the Distinguished Flying Cross, a Good Conduct Medal and a Victory Medal. While on duty, he circled the globe once, flew on 25-hour missions, saw bombers from the same squadron crash head-on in the darkness of night, and survived bombing missions that saw 600 bombers return from a mission that 200 had gone to.

Hall said the experience of war was one he would not like to repeat.

"All I wanted was out of that and out alive."

Virgil Hall, Sr., Chief of the Capitán Fire Department since 1971, is a veteran of World War II.

Wortley Hotel: a step back in time

History permeates Lincoln, and one integral part of its historical flavor is the Wortley hotel, known for its home cooking and relaxing rooms.

The volatile history of the Wortley Hotel itself spans over 100 years.

The hotel derives its name from Samuel Wortley, a cook for the construction crew of the L. G. Murphy Mercantile. After its completion in 1874 he managed the hotel. However, during the early days the Wortley was simply known as the Lincoln Hotel.

The Wortley was often the site of last meals as patrons would finish their meals and walk into the streets, only to be gunned down. Murders even happened in the interior, as in 1879 when an Alabama named Frank Freeman shot a black Fort Stanton cavalryman in the dining room.

The hotel, with its eight rooms and two dining areas, became a transient piece of real estate, changing hands continuously.

One of the most famous owners of the hotel was Sheriff Pat Garrett, who purchased the Wortley for $275 in 1880 but was to sell it three months later for $300.

In 1907 one could rent a room at the Wortley for $1 a day, and a family-style meal was 35 cents.

The railroad took over the hotel in 1913 and leased it out for proprietorship.

The hotel met with major catastrophe in 1936 when it burned to the ground as the result of a faulty stovepipe.

The property lay dormant until 1980, when the State of New Mexico rebuilt it after acquiring ownership in 1955.

A report in the Albuquerque Journal last fall said the Museum of New Mexico regents were taking steps that would lead to the sale of the Wortley.

Jerre Pace, who with her partner Tom Garrison leases the Wortley, said she thinks the report was blown out of proportion. She feels everything is always for sale.

But, she said, because she and her partner have a five-year lease, they would probably get the first chance to buy the Wortley if it was for sale.

Pace also acts as manager of the Wortley.

She has been learning the history of Lincoln and the Wortley by bits and pieces during her two years there.

Older people come back into town in spots of history or tell her something new, she said. "Lincoln has its fair share of famous and infamous history," she noted.

"I like to know how the people who come back feel about the Wortley now," she said. "Most people don't think the town has changed."

Coming from Dallas, Texas, Pace said when she first saw the town, it was like going through a time warp. However, she notes, that is what Lincoln is all about. "We don't want it to change."

The Wortley gets visitors from all over the country and the world, she said.

In November four men from a West German magazine were in Lincoln doing research on Billy the Kid and stayed at the Wortley a few days, she said.

Some people just come in to see the antiques, and others come from the big city to stay and get away from things for a while, Pace explained.

"We want people to come to the Wortley to get away," she emphasized. The rooms do not have televisions, there is one pay phone on the front porch, and all the rooms have fireplaces.

"It's a getaway place," she said. "We want people to relax. They sit on the porch and put their feet up and act like they've taken 10 years off their life."

For years the Wortley has been famous for its country home cooking, she noted. Cook Ceil Chaffines has been working there off and on for 15 years. The menu is limited to three items.

Pace said the summers are the hotel's best season, but this winter has been better than others. They would like to have a shuttle to the ski area next year. During the winter, the hotel is open for dining Thursday through Monday for lunch and breakfast, and all day Friday and Saturday. Reservations are requested for the evening meals.

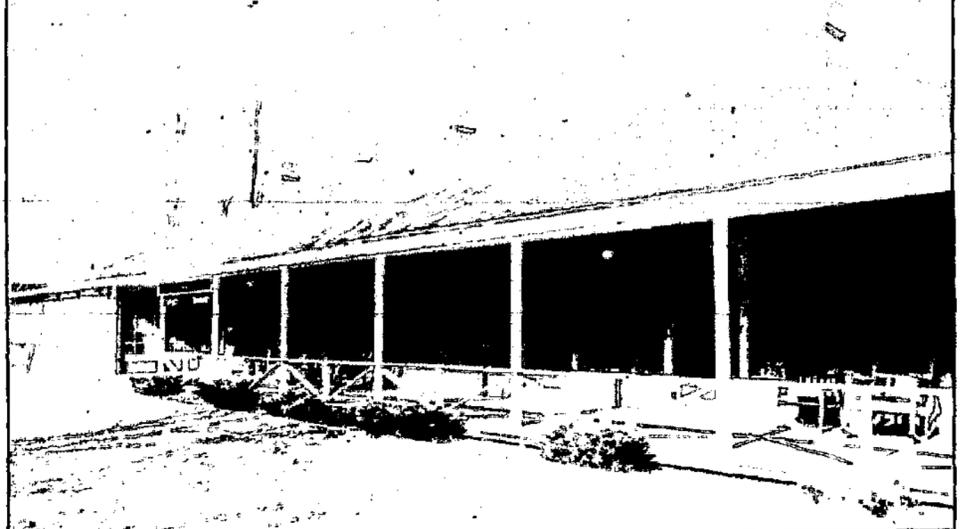

She also plans to landscape around the hotel some in the spring, adding flowers and rose bushes.

The dining room encourages friendliness, Pace said, because there are not tables for two, so people are forced to sit with strangers. They end up chattering and having a good time, she has noticed.

The Wortley Hotel is a step back in time, tempered with Old West flavor. It is definitely a place to get away from the pressures of modern life.

Mr. and Mrs. Jack Parnell of Ruidoso Downs and Elsie Stuffings of Carlsbad (above) have a leisurely Saturday lunch in the antique-filled dining room of the Wortley Hotel in Lincoln. The hotel porch (below) makes for leisurely sitting.

This 1982 rear-engine dragster is owned by Don Jones of Mountain Automotive. Jones raced the dragster at the recent Winter Nationals drag racing competition in Tucson, Arizona, pushing it to speeds of 150 miles an hour.

Ruidoso men drag race in Tucson

With a little luck, Roy Seay and Don Jones of Ruidoso might have finished higher in their respective divisions at the Winter Nationals drag racing competition in Tucson, Arizona, January 12-15.

Both men's vehicles impressed in the early going. Seay driving a 1967 Mercury Cyclone GT in the A class of the modified production division and Jones an 1982 rear-engine dragster in the top comp class of the pro division. But misfortune hit both drivers later.

Jones, who finished 17th among 32 drivers in the qualifying round, defeated the top qualifier in the first elimination round and won his second round also.

In the quarter-finals, however, the starter got the race off before Jones was in position and that could have been the difference between making the semi-finals and not making it. Jones lost the race by only a few feet.

"I was hoping to do better," Jones said. "I just lost by this much (showing how much with his outstretched hands)."

Jones' dragster is almost 20 feet long and reached speeds of around 150 miles an hour in the Tucson competition. It has a Chevrolet engine.

Seay won the A class of the modified production division, but his engine blew during the second day of competition, and he had to withdraw from the division championships. An oil pump failure caused the mishap. There were a total of 16 cars in eight classes of the modified production division, including three in Seay's A class.

"I felt we had a good chance of winning it if the engine hadn't blown," Seay said. "I was sure we're going to be competitive."

Both drivers are now preparing for the season opener of the Roswell drag racing circuit Sunday, March 11.

January 1984

Dear Reader:

As you may have noticed, The Ruidoso News is changing.

For example, recently we have added a weather report and an index, and given them a place on page one so you'll always know where to find them. We have changed our byline, headline and section head styles.

All these changes are designed to make The Ruidoso News a better organized, more attractive newspaper for you, our readers.

But in changing the appearance of The News, we do not want to neglect changes in its content, where changes are needed. And this is where we are asking our readers to help.

Some of you—randomly selected—will be receiving a readers' survey in the mail. The survey gives you the opportunity to rank various types of news we cover and features we carry, according to their importance to you.

One section allows readers to tell us which new areas they would like to see us cover.

The survey takes just a few minutes to complete. Enclosed with it is a stamped envelope to mail it back in.

The Ruidoso News is your newspaper, and your input is valuable to us.

Thank you for participating in our survey. And feel free to write or call anytime to tell us how we can serve you better.

Sincerely,

Mary Braun Kelly Reporter/Photographer

P. S. If you do not receive a survey in the mail but would like to fill one out, call us at 505-257-4001, or write to the address on the letterhead.

LEASED FLOODLIGHTING

units from Texas-New Mexico Power Company are your best means of meeting the outdoor lighting needs of your business property. Floodlighting units are directional, so you can focus the light where you need it most. Metal halide and mercury vapor units are more efficient than conventional incandescent lighting, so you get more light for your money. Leased Floodlighting units automatically turn themselves on at dusk and off at dawn, everyday—all year long.

And well-lighted property is less subject to accidents and vandalism, too. Texas-New Mexico Power Company will install and maintain Leased Floodlighting for your business property. Call our office today and discover the added convenience and security of Leased Floodlighting.

Rocket Jet Bug rallies for head victory at Sunland

In his younger days, Rocket Jet Bug ranked among the nation's leading quarter horse stakes stars.

His key accomplishments included the Sun Country and West Texas futurities at Sunland Park in 1979, and the Rainbow Derby at Ruidoso Downs in 1980.

The seven-year-old gelding showed he still has plenty of run in his legs by rallying from two lengths off the pace for a head victory in Sunday's Juarez Handicap at Sunland. The sprint for three-year-olds and up covered 350 yards and put up a total purse of $9,475.

Rocket Jet Bug, in winning the Juarez Handicap, didn't collect one of those super-sized purses of his younger days, but he did take home a tidy $5,685.

If there was anything especially impressive about the gelding's Juarez victory, other than the ground he had to make up, it was the fact he was out for his first appearance since September 11.

Sunland patrons apparently took the geldings down time into account, and gave him fairly generous odds of just over 2-1. Cast in the role of favorite was Lady Of Sinn (even money), who was out to notch her fifth straight win (four of them at Sunland).

But supporters of Lady Of Sinn probably suffered sinking hearts when the filly, just prior to the break, nervously shook off her rider in the starting gate. With jockey Mike Lidberg back in the saddle, Lady Of Sinn broke in third place, then faded gradually to eighth.

Lady Climax, away winging at just over 8-1, set the early pace from the number 3 post. But the mare, in her eagerness to get home first, lugged in toward the rail and bothered Feature Leader.

Rocket Jet Bug, with regular pilot Larry Byers at the helm, appeared badly outrun in the first half of the race, but he closed powerfully to barely get up in time. Steam Fitter, nearly 9-1 (with Gary Sumpter up), also came on briskly to nail down second (with a purse of $2,064).

Lady Climax, who ended up third, was disqualified and placed fifth. That put Rebel Duster Boy (70-1) in third, worth $1,137.

Rocket Jet Bug is owned by his breeder, Betty Shebester of Wynnewood, Oklahoma. J.B. Montgomery is the trainer. The gelding returned $6.20, $3.60 and $4.

Steam Fitter, owned by Mackie McAlpine Jr. of Toyah, Texas, paid $5.80 and $5.60. Rebel Duster Boy returned $9 to show. The winning time (with a tailwind) was 17.81 seconds.

Like a rocket

Rocket Jet Bug squeezes through for a narrow victory over Steam Fitter covered 350 yards. Larry Byers piloted (Number 7) in Sunday's $9,475 Juarez Handicap at just over 2-1 odds.

Draconic's Hit hustles for win

Racing fans generally shy away from a horse who's been on the shelf too long.

That was the case with Draconic's Hit in Friday's six-furlong sophomore headliner at Sunland Park.

Not only was the colt ending a layup of nearly five months, he was also making only the second start of his career.

So it was no surprise when the colt left the starting gate with 11-1 odds. But, the surprising element came when Draconic's Hit showed remarkable fitness while fending off a prolonged stretch attack from the 6-1 outsider, Pumpkin Mill.

Jockey Harla Webb kept Draconic's Hit hustling with a rapid-fire use of the whip, and the colt pulled out a nose victory and collected $1,960 out of the $3,100 allowance purse. The payoffs: $24.40, $11.80, $5.

Draconic's Hit is owned by Virgil Callaway of Hobbs. Billy Hit is the trainer.

Pumpkin Mill, owned and trained by Charles Allison of El Paso, put up a convincing performance in his Sunland bow. O.A. Martinez was up. The gelding refunded $7, $4. Native Bravo ($3.40) was unable to challenge as a 3-2 favorite and finished third, two lengths behind the two leaders.

Sunland's strong business trend continued Friday, despite chilly winds, as 1,974 patrons wagered $246,670.

Donna's Boy takes fifth straight win

Donna's Boy picked up his fifth straight win of the current Sunland Park season with a cruising victory in Saturday's mile headliner. Sunland patrons were pretty confident of the outcome, and made the five-year-old gelding a 3-5 favorite in the nine-head field. Never far off the lead, Donna's Boy took charge suddenly in the turn for home, and galloped into the clear. It was an easy romp down to the wire, even though the 50-1 longshot, Rhome Red, tore up the rest of the field with a big stretch move. But Rhome Red was still three and one-quarter lengths away from Donna's Boy at the finish. The route carried a claiming spread of $11,000 to $12,500, and Donna's Boy was taken for the lower figure by the partnership of Lewis Angulano and Robert C. Vines. The gelding went into the race owned by William R. Burgess of Alto. Burgess had claimed him for $10,000 on December 3 (and subsequently won three races with him). Saturday's victory was worth muzzet payoffs of $3.40, $2.80 and $2.40. Eugene O'Neil was up, Rhome Red, piloted by Joel Sherman, refunded $17 and $7.20. Wild Blade, with Salustio Burgos up, took third, returning $2.80. Donna's Boy toured the oval in 1:40 2/5 seconds. Business continued to BOOM as 3,104 fans turned out to wager $364,681 on the 12-race program. On the same day a year ago, 2,826 bet $340,348.

by MARK GORDON
Special to The News

DONNA'S BOY CONTINUED his amazing performance when he roared to his fifth consecutive victory by taking Saturday's featured 10th race at one mile. The five-year-old gelding laid off the early pacesetters under a well-judged ride by apprentice rider Eugene O'Neil, started moving around the far turn and gradually pulled away from his eight foes while winning by three and one-quarter lengths over outsider Rhome Red. His time was 1:40 2/5 in the mile chase for horses running for claiming prices ranging from $12,500 to $11,000. Donna's Boy debuted at Sunland Park by scoring a half-length win over Christian Name in a six-furlong dash for $8,000 claimers, then won by almost 10 lengths against $10,000 horses at one mile on December 3. He then prevailed by four lengths over $15,000 animals on December 18 before taking a nose decision against $12,500 claimers at six and one-half furlongs on January 8. But for the second time this season, Donna's Boy was claimed. He was under the training of April S. Ward and owner William R. Burgess of Alto for his last three wins. He was taken on Saturday for $11,000 by trainer Gregory K. Henson for owners Lewis Angulano and Robert C. Vines. Casey Lambert rode him for his first two local triumphs while O'Neil was aboard for the last three wins. As the 7-10 wagering favorite on Saturday, Donna's Boy paid $3.40 to win. For Wild Blade, who finished third as the 4-1 third-wagering choice, it was the third straight race, he has tried hard, but unsuccessfully to catch Donna's Boy. He's run one second and two thirds against Donna's Boy. Donna's Boy's five-race winning streak now ties Top Levan for the longest-winning streak this season at Sunland Park. Top Levan failed to gather a sixth straight win, so Donna's Boy, if successful in his next local appearance, would become the owner of the season's longest winning streak.

TOPARINO TALLIED his third straight victory when he registered a frontrunning one-length verdict in Saturday's 10th race at five and one-half furlongs. The five-year-old Olympaid King gelding began his streak on December 31 against $6,250 claimers at five and one-half furlongs when he scored a four-length win over Little Fellow, then drew clear by almost six lengths against $8,000 claimers at five and one-half furlongs on January 14. Saturday's race was again at five and one-half furlongs, but against $10,000 horses. Casey Lambert has been aboard for all three victories. The California-bred runner is trained by Clifford C. Lambert Sr. for owner Dock E. Ringo of Mineral Wells, Texas. As the 3-1 second-wagering risk, Toparino returned $8.00 to win in 1:05 3/5.

CASEY LAMBERT, CAPTURED three races on Saturday's program. Sunland Park's leading jockey started in the fourth with Callmealark ($22.40) for owner-trainer R. Frank Thompson of Ruidoso, then won two straight races—the ninth and tenth. He took the ninth with Nashua's Riches ($5.20) for trainer Frank Cappellucci and the tenth on Toparino ($8.00) for trainer Clifford C. Lambert Sr. It was the sixth time this season Lambert has tallied three winners on a single program.

TRAINER CLIFFORD C. LAMBERT SR. saddled the first two finishers in Friday's 12th race at six furlongs. Casey Lambert rode Royal Sin to the win as the $1.30-1 wagering favorite for owner C.M. Bogle of Dexter, while Pedro Benitez took Troup Leader, the 5-2 second-wagering choice to second place for owner Leroy Spires Jr. of Snyder, Texas. Combined with show horses, Pocket Card, the 2-5-3 combination returned $73.60.

PATRONS WHO LIKED the number eight horse during Friday's program were smiling after the day's activities. Five horses wearing program number eight triumphed and one ran third. Winners included Sparky Native ($54.00) in the third, Will Winalot ($9.00) in the sixth, Dr. Traffic ($38.00) in the seventh, Candy Flight ($5.20) in the tenth and Royal Sin ($4.00) in the twelfth. JB Moon ran third in the fourth race as a 4-1 outsider.

HEISFIRST IS CERTAINLY an aptly named quarter horse because that's exactly the position he's been in while winning both his starts at Sunland Park. After competing last September at the New Mexico State Fair in Albuquerque, the five-year-old Heisdebsnative gelding raced four times at Turf Paradise in Phoenix, where he tallied two victories, a third and a fourth. He took his Sunland Park opener on January 8 with a frontrunning win by almost three lengths against $4,000 claimers at 870 yards. On Saturday, he rallied to win drawing out by two and one-half lengths, again against $4,000 claimers at 870 yards. Kevin Cogburn has ridden the Montana-bred dasher for trainer Frank Cappellucci and owner Jim Cappellucci of Trinidad, Colorado. As the 9-10 wagering favorite on Saturday, Heisfirst paid $3.80 to win.

APPRENTICE JOCKEY DON SIMINGTON rode the first winner of his career when he piloted Big Strong Man to a driving three-quarter length victory in Saturday's eighth race at five and one-half furlongs. The 20-year-old native of Tucson, Arizona, began riding about a month ago at Sunland Park. The victory on the seven-year-old Strong Bid gelding was only the sixth mount in his brief career. Big Strong Man is trained by Michael G. Felter for owner Dolphus C. Morrison of Tulsa, Oklahoma.

SUNDAY'S DAILY DOUBLE combining Sunny's Sin and Raisin Toast was the lowest this season. Sunny's Sin, under Salustio Burgos, took the opener at $3.20 to win and Raisin Toast, under Mike Lidberg, captured the second at $3.40. The 9-8 daily double was worth $10.20.

Alfieri breaks bad luck streak

by MARK GORDON
Special to The News

Take it from Brenda Alfieri—there's nothing like winning a horse race at Sunland Park. "I was sure on a bad luck streak until just recently," said the 21-year-old jockey. "The only horse I rode who really had a good chance was Little Bar Bet and he kept drawing the outside (in 870-yard races). It's just so hard getting started. You can ride all the dogs you want, but it's so hard to get a good horse and then win with him."

"When you go half the meet without winning a race, people start wondering if it's you or the horses," she said. "Hopefully, things will change."

Then came a pleasant change for the popular native of Charlotte, North Carolina.

She won two races. Rather than leaving from the seven or eighth post position in an 870-yard race with Little Bar Bet, Alfieri and Little Bar Bet exited from the two post position.

That did the trick. The seven-year-old Little Moon Deck led throughout in registering a win by almost one length. Sunland Park patrons still felt encouraged by Alfieri and her mount as the duo returned $4.40 to win as the 6-5 wagering favorites.

She again rode a favorite two days later in the opening race with Cold Shot. She smartly laid off the early pacesetters in the six-furlong jaunt, moved the eight-year-old Belistar gelding into second a furlong from the wire and then adeptly edged him past Bold Good Times for a nose win. Cold Shot paid $4.80.

"I thought I had a good shot with both of them. It was really a big thrill to finally win at Sunland," she said.

Winning races, however, is really nothing new to Alfieri, who grew up in Clovis, and moved to nearby Bovina, Texas, a few years ago.

BRENDA ALFIERI

While competing at non-pari-mutuel tracks such as Lubbock Downs in Lubbock, Texas, and Randall Park at Umbarger, Texas, she captured 46 triumphs. She also won several unofficial match races.

She started her pari-mutuel riding career last January at Sunland Park, riding Merry Jetset. She then returned to competition last summer at Ruidoso Downs.

Last July 8 was a special day for the young rider. She guided Winning Margin to a frontrunning win by almost nine lengths at Ruidoso Downs for trainer Bob E. Arnett. That was her first victory at a recognized pari-mutuel race track.

She also won last summer at Ruidoso Downs on Finish With Pride and has now won a total of four races—two at Ruidoso Downs and two at Sunland Park—on pari-mutuel course.

She cited Bob Arnett, Ronnie Hartnett (a former jockey agent who is galloping horses for Arnett) and her agent Jerry Casey as three major influences in her career.

"I started riding for Bob Arnett. He put me on his horses and that helped a lot. Ronnie has helped me more than anyone else as far as riding goes and pushing me in people's faces. Jerry, being a former rider, has really helped me, too. I can't thank all of them enough," she said.

Alfieri also thanked trainer Bill Harper and Bobby Crenshaw, who have used her on many of their mounts.

"I'm still a bug boy (apprentice rider) and that's also helped me get some mounts. I can tack 110. People will love you to death if you get under 110. But 110 is good," she noted.

While some veteran male riders scoff at women riders, Alfieri said she hasn't noticed any resentment at all in Sunland Park jockey circles.

"I haven't heard much bad talk about women riders here. You always run across some of that, though," she said. "A rider is a rider and 99 percent of the jockeys think like that, except some women riders who think everyone is against them. Maybe I'm missing some of the bad comments, but I really haven't heard anything like that here."

Despite her success with quarter horses on Texas tracks, she said she enjoys riding thoroughbreds more because of the longer distances.

"I know quarter horses better because that's all I rode back there in Texas, but I really like thoroughbreds better," she said. "You're out there longer and you have more time to recover if you stumble, get bumped or whatever. In a quarter horse race, you have to have by far the best horse to win if something happens."

"I'm planning to go to Ruidoso Downs after Sunland ends (on May 13). I want to get started here, before I go anywhere else. I'm really happy here. I get along with everyone," she added.

Special Olympians celebrate triumphs at Angel Fire.

These Olympians are Special

(Editor's note: The Third Annual Southern New Mexico Special Olympics Winter Games begin Tuesday, January 31, at Eagle Creek Ski Area.)

Keep your fingers crossed for Jimmy, Minnie and Lorraine. They could be on their way to the 1985 International Winter Games in Park City, Utah.

Jimmy, Minnie and Lorraine were all finalists in the recent 1984 Northern New Mexico Special Olympics Winter Games at Angel Fire, January 17-20. More than 150 mentally retarded persons from all over northern New Mexico trained and competed in downhill and cross-country skiing races and ice skating competitions. Jimmy placed fourth in both the advanced Alpine slalom and advanced Alpine giant slalom events; Minnie placed second in the advanced Alpine downhill event; and Lorraine scored first in the International giant slalom event and third in the International Alpine downhill event.

All three Special Olympians now qualify for the International Winter Games, March 24-29, 1985. Final selection for the New Mexico Special Olympics delegation, which includes nine Alpine skiers, nine cross-country skiers and three ice skaters, will be made in March.

Jimmy, Minnie and Lorraine have all participated in the Winter Games at Angel Fire for the past three years, and view being chosen for the International Winter Games as a step toward establishing their own independence.

"Minnie was very shy and withdrawn when she first participated in Special Olympics five years ago," said Jose Rodriguez, Minnie's coach for the Games. "Special Olympics has helped her achieve goals she and her family never thought she could accomplish. Minnie now is one of our better athletes and has a lot of confidence in herself."

Since 1968, more than one million mentally retarded children and adults have participated in Special Olympics in all 50 states and 24 foreign countries. The program provides emphasis on developing physical skills for mentally retarded persons of all ages in a friendly, competitive setting. Special Olympics is sponsored by the Joseph P. Kennedy, Jr. Foundation.

This is the seventh year the resort community of Angel Fire has hosted the Northern New Mexico Winter Games. Angel Fire was also host of the United States Ski Association/Federation International de Ski World Cup freestyle competition, the World Cup Finals in 1983.

Angel Fire is located 28 miles east of Taos.

Students of White Mountain Elementary School enjoyed last Tuesday's snowfall. The students rolled giant snowballs and made snowmen during their lunch recess.
